

Claims 'Proof' Kissinger Ordered Taps

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman says he has seen proof that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, despite his sworn denial, ordered national security wiretaps.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., a member of the House Judiciary Committee, said Tuesday, "Materials have been supplied to us which constitute positive proof that Kissinger did institute those taps."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided earlier Tuesday to take another look at Kissinger's testimony concerning wiretaps last September during his confirmation hearings.

Kissinger, at a news conference at Salzburg, Austria, threatened to resign if controversy over his role in the wiretapping is not cleared up. He asked for the committee's review and denied that he lied to the panel.

At issue is the extent of Kissinger's involvement in the wiretapping of 13 government officials and four newsmen between May 1969 and February 1971.

Last September Kissinger testified that he never recommended the wiretapping, but supplied names of persons who had access to sensitive documents leaked to the news media.

However, recent press reports have described a larger Kissinger role in the wiretapping. And today there were new reports, including one in The Washington Post quoting FBI documents which sharply contradict Kissinger's version.

The Boston Globe said two top secret memos from late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell on May 12, 1970, apparently contradict Kissinger.

The Globe said the memos, now in the possession of the House Judiciary Committee, name two persons whose residences were to be tapped to determine if they had leaked information to the press. The paper quoted the memos as saying that the wiretaps were "requested" by Kissinger.

Eilberg, in a telephone interview, told The Associated Press,

"I can say categorically there is a direct conflict between what we have and what he said to the Foreign Relations Committee."

In a television interview Tuesday, Eilberg, asked whether he was saying that Kissinger did not tell the truth, replied, "I'm saying that."

However, he told The AP, "There's a clear conflict as it appears to me. I wouldn't say he lied."

He said the information he has seen shows Kissinger received more than 50 logs of wiretapped conversations. "It was quite clear that he instituted those wiretaps," Eilberg said.

Eilberg declined to say what materials before the committee constituted the proof. However, the committee has results of an FBI inquiry into the wiretaps.

Another committee member, Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., disagreed. "I cannot share my colleague's certainty as to the evidence," Wiggins said on the same television interview.

A third committee member, Rep. John F. Seiberling Jr., D-Ohio, said the only direct evidence is from a memo by Hoover.

The Washington Post today quoted from an FBI document that said: "It appears that the project of placing electronic surveillance at the request of the White House had its beginning in a telephone call to Mr. J. Edgar Hoover (the late FBI director) on May 9, 1969 from Dr. Henry A. Kissinger."

The document was an internal FBI memo, prepared by the FBI May 13, 1973.

The Post also quoted a Hoover memorandum of May 9, 1969, which reported that Kissinger called him to complain of "an extraordinarily damaging" news leak—believed to be the New York Times account of the secret bombing of Cambodia—and asked Hoover to put "whatever resources I need to find out who did this."

Top-secret memoranda from Hoover to then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell list Kissinger as the initiator of requests for three wiretaps—two of close aides to Kissinger and one on a newsmen suspected of having received classified material, The Post reported.

The records also indicate that on at least two occasions President Nixon himself ordered taps on a television correspondent and a White House aide, the newspaper said.

Meanwhile, The New York Times quoted an FBI summary as saying, "The original requests were from either Dr. Henry Kissinger of Gen. Alexander Haig for wiretap coverage on knowledgeable NSC personnel and certain newsmen who had particular news interest in the SALT talks."

Access Fight Pushed

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says he will issue an order designed to force President Nixon to permit John D. Ehrlichman full access to White House files for his defense in the plumbers case.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell has said he is willing to move under federal contempt statutes.

Gesell on Tuesday delayed Ehrlichman's trial in the case while going ahead with the prosecution of three others still accused in the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The judge ordered a separate trial for Ehrlichman but said he will continue to press an intensifying struggle today over refusal by the President to allow the former White House aide and his lawyers access to the files.

Ehrlichman says his lawyers must be permitted to see 28 months worth of handwritten notes now locked in a White House vault.

Nixon has agreed to allow Ehrlichman's attorneys to wait in an adjacent room of the vault, a proposal Gesell has rejected.

The President also maintains that only he can decide what is evidence in the case, a position Gesell says he finds offensive.

Gesell said he plans to sign "specific orders to enforce the subpoenas in order that appropriate pretrial release of the pertinent documents among Mr. Ehrlichman's White House papers now in the custody of the President can be accomplished, thus permitting this trial to go forward as to him at a subsequent date."

One lawyer said Gesell might call a hearing at which White House lawyers would have to demonstrate why Nixon should not be held in contempt of Gesell's court.

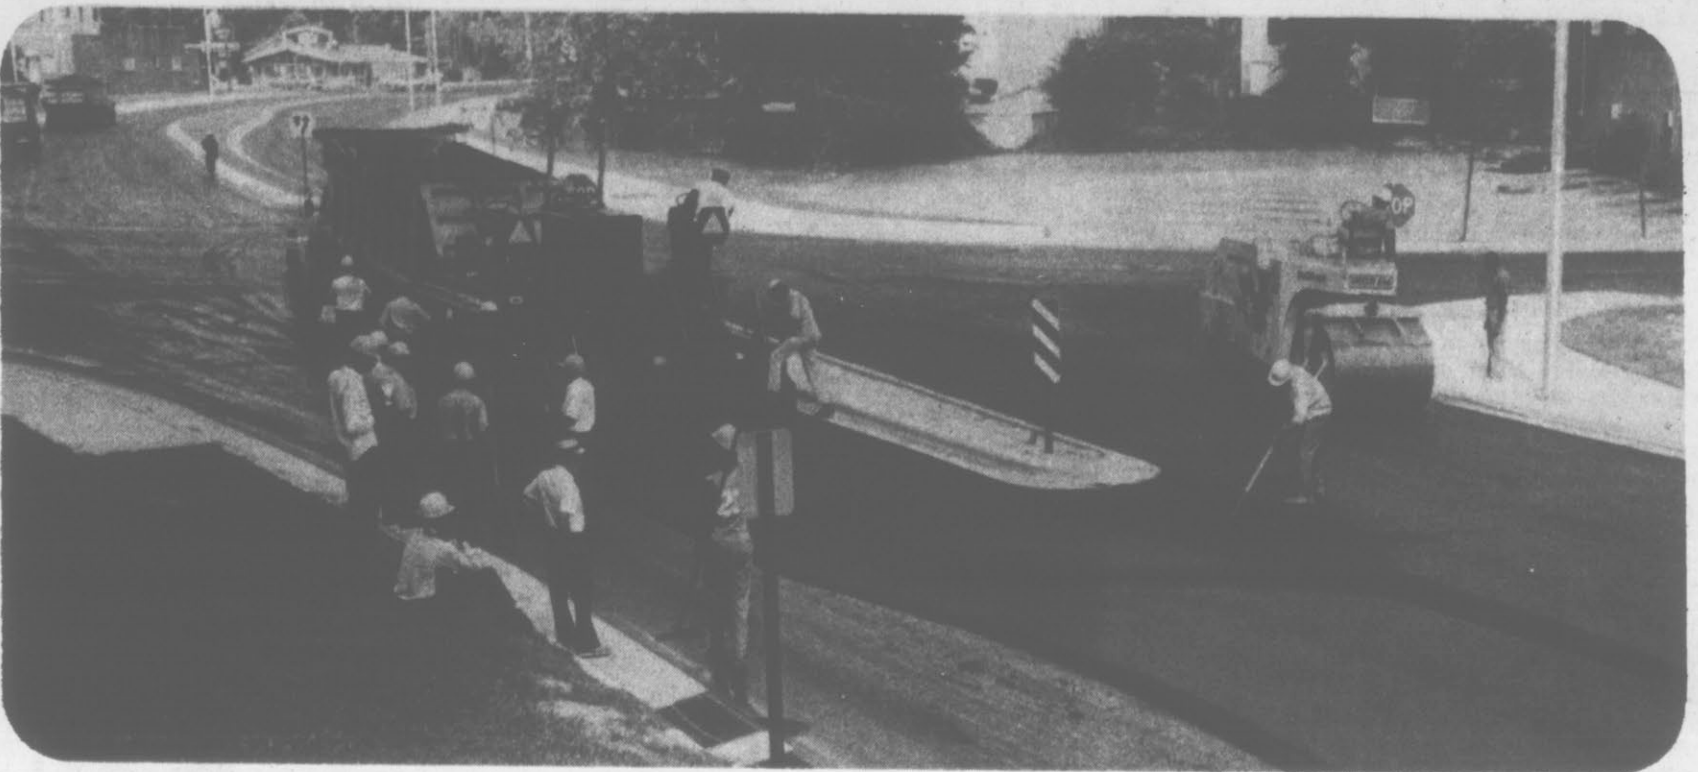

Ehrlichman faces other federal charges along with six others in a courtroom just down the hall from Gesell's.

Andrew Hall, one of Ehrlichman's lawyers, indicated Tuesday the same strategy used in the plumber case would be tried before U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, hearing the cover-up case.

Hall said at a pretrial hearing that unless Ehrlichman gets full access to a number of documents left behind in the White House, there is "a denial of due process."

Sirica indicated, however, he may not be as convinced as Judge Gesell that access to the White House files is so vital to a fair trial.

"What are you going to do about it (if Nixon refuses defense subpoenas)?" Sirica asked Hall.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

'48 PLYMOUTH PARTS NEEDED

I am restoring a 1948 Plymouth Coupe, and am having trouble getting parts for it. I especially need front end parts—a right tie rod and a ball joint. K. C.

Hotline found two local persons also interested in restoring old cars who could help you. One agreed to loan you a Warshawsky and Company catalog; and the other a J. C. Whitney catalog. Through these, you should be able to order the parts you need. If any of our readers have other suggestions, we'll relay them to you. We're looking forward to seeing that car on the road!

RAILROAD BLUES IN FARMVILLE, TOO

I read in Hotline the other day about trains blocking intersections in Greenville. We have a similar problem in Farmville. The train often blocks the entrance to the Claremont subdivision for 20 to 30 minutes about the time people are going to school and work. J.F.J.

Farmville Southern Railways agent Homer Spell explained why the Pitt Street entrance to Claremont is blocked, but could offer no promises that the situation would get better. He said the trains are now from 75 to 100 cars in length. Those that are bound toward Raleigh block the Pitt Street crossing while cars are being set off and picked up at the Farmville station. "It takes from 20 to 30 minutes at best," Spell said. "We're sorry about the inconvenience, but legally the railroad can close off the crossing tomorrow. We wouldn't do it, but we can't help that our job has to be done."

There is another exit from Claremont, but it's little more than a path. Perhaps you would prevail upon the owners of the land on either side to ask the town to make it a dedicated street and maintain it, as was suggested by Town Commissioners.

BACK PAY

I recently read that former military personnel and government employees working with the government between the dates of Oct. 1, 1972 and Jan. 1, 1973 will receive a back pay raise. A scheduled pay raise for all government employees that was to go into effect on Oct. 1, 1972 was delayed by the President. It seems a U. S. Court of Appeals has ruled that the President could not delay this pay raise since it was enacted into law to go into effect and that the money will have to be paid back. How will we go about collecting the money?

A legislative aide to First District Congressman Walter B. Jones, Charles McClees, told Hotline that your information is correct. A U.S. Court of Appeals has ruled that the funds must be paid amounting to $530 million. A supplemental appropriations bill has been passed by the Congress and sent to the President, making these funds available. The President has not yet signed the bill, however. According to McClees, any persons affected should not have to take any action to receive the money when it becomes available. The appropriate military branch or civil service office will mail the payment to the employee's last known address.

Cairo Wildly Welcomes Nixon

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Egyptians gave President Nixon a wildly enthusiastic welcome on his arrival here today to start a tour of the Middle East.

He is the first American president to visit the country since Franklin D. Roosevelt came in 1943 for wartime conferences.

Nixon arrived from Austria in 90-degree heat at the Cairo airport and was greeted warmly there by President Anwar Sadat, his host for the next two days.

The two presidents then went by motorcade to the city, standing side by side in Sadat's open limousine.

The motorcade passed large crowds lining the roads chanting, "Nixon! Nixon! Sadat! Sadat!"

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen later that Egyptian security officials estimated the crowd at at least two million.

However, U.S. officials said the figure was in the hundreds of thousands in their estimation.

After a drive of nearly an hour, Nixon and Sadat arrived at the Kubba Palace where the U.S. chief executive will stay.

In a brief ceremony the two presidents exchanged remarks. Sadat called Nixon one of the great men and praised his leadership in the world.

As if to give Nixon support in the face of his domestic troubles, Sadat spoke of the necessity for the American president to continue in a leadership role.

Nixon responded by pledging U.S. support for Egypt's economic programs.

Nixon left the plane that brought him from Salzburg, Austria, with his wife, Pat, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. They were met by Sadat and his wife.

Although Nixon's arrival carries great symbolic importance, it was overshadowed by Kissinger's earlier threat to resign if the controversy isn't ended over his role in wiretapping practices.

Military and plainclothes forces were evident everywhere.

Sadat and Nixon scheduled their first private talks about 2½ hours after the American leader's arrival at the Egyptian residence, Tahra Palace.

Their meetings throughout the 48-hour stay are expected to deal generally with the Middle East situation and particularly with the new and growing U.S. role in the area.

There was a possibility Sadat and Nixon would formalize an economic agreement reached earlier by Kissinger.

Public Hearing Set June 20 On $15 Million Budget For Utilities

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor

A public hearing has been set on the $15,276,200 Greenville Utilities 1974-75 budget, to be held June 20 at 8 p.m.

The commission will consider approval of the budget following the hearing.

The record budget has been presented previously as a part of the city's overall 1974-75 fiscal year budget; however the utilities budget will be acted on separately by the commission.

The budget foresees electric revenues of $12,491,200; water revenues of $884,200; sewer revenues of $623,700 and gas revenues of $1,277,100.

Expenditures as projected in the budget, include capital improvements of $2,554,200 in the electric department; $341,255 in the water department; $189,945 in the sewer department and $123,250 in the gas department.

Turnover to the city government would remain at $436,062 for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

The commission last night informed a delegation from the Frog Level area that it would be unable at present to extend water lines to their area. The representatives pointed out that their area is in the Greenville Utilities water service area and they were having difficulties with their water supply.

Commissioners approved extension of a water line along Moore Street to the rear of Farmer's Warehouse to serve the rear of the building and to provide a fire hydrant. Last month the commission turned down a request for extension of a sewer line down the street.

Approval was given for the low bid of Mill Power Supply Co. of Charlotte for an addition to the Northside electric power station. The firms bid was $50,400.

It was reported that J & R Construction Co. had been declared in default on a sewer line to serve the shell industrial building on N. Greene Street. The bonding company will accomplish the work through another contractor.

The commission agreed to inform Cornerstone Baptist Church if its storage property next to the church is ever available for sale; however Director Charles Horne said the property was needed for the present.

Other actions by the commission:

—Approved contracts for utilities to River Hill subdivision.

—Noted schedule calling for completion of sewage treatment plant north of river in March, 1976.

—Approved modifications of employee classification plan.

—Approved purchase of caustic soda tank from Southern Pump and Tank Co. at $6,222, subject to price increases at delivery date.

Negotiators Report No Strike Progress

ROCKY MOUNT—"No apparent progress" was the description of the outcome of negotiations between Carolina Telephone and the striking Communications Workers of America yesterday.

Carolina Telephone commercial district manager Don Collier reported here today that information he received after the meeting indicated that no new progress had been made between the company and employees.

Collier indicated that representatives for Carolina Telephone and union negotiators met with state and federal mediators for four and one-half hours yesterday in Rocky Mount.

"The parties agreed to decline to discuss the issues at this time," Collier stated.

Another meeting will be held between the two groups and with a federal mediator on June 18 at 1:30 p.m. at an undisclosed location.

Some 2,900 members of the CWA have been on strike since May 31.

Lausanne Lake Access Channel Indicated

WILMINGTON—Spokesmen for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said today that a dredging permit may be issued this week to allow construction of an access channel, boat basin and marina facilities at Lausanne Lake, just North and East of the new by-pass bridge across the Tar River east of Greenville.

Charles Hollis, with the permits branch of the Corps of Engineers in Wilmington, said this morning that the "permit review is essentially complete" on the proposed project and noted, "there is no reason at this time why the permit would not be granted in the next few days."

The project calls for dredging an access channel connecting the Tar River with the existing 34.8 acre lake.

Application for the permit was made by partners of the Lausanne Lake Development.

Plans submitted with the application, Hollis said, call for development of a boat basin and marina facilities in the existing lake, as well as construction of apartments, a shopping area, motel, restaurant and related commercial and office facilities on the approximately 103 acres of land surrounding the lake.

The lake, now approximately 2.6 feet deep at mean low water, would be dredged to a depth of 6.3 feet, and connected with the Tar River by a channel to measure approximately 150 feet wide.

The boat basin and marina is designed to handle up to 120 small craft and up to 36 house boats and is to include a launching ramp and marina service pier.

Hollis said there have been "no objections" to the proposed project "from any source."

Approximately 207,440 cubic yards of sand, loam and clay would be removed from the lake and access channel area, under the proposal submitted to the Corps of Engineers.

At the altar was a prie-dieu where the couple knelt for the wedding prayer. Pews were marked with bridal satin centered with stephanotis.

Deadline For Tobacco Growers

Tobacco growers should keep in mind that Friday is the final day for designating the warehouses at which they plan to sell their 1974 crop.

Farmers must register their designations with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in order to be eligible for price supports and to have a place to sell when the markets open.

"Growers who do not designate before the Friday deadline will likely have a rough time selling tobacco this year," Agriculture Commissioners Jim Graham said this week.

Launching of the new warehouse designation system has been a major undertaking for the industry. No doubt problems will arise when the markets open for sale. However, the tobacco industry is into the new system now, and farmers should designate their warehouses as soon as possible to allow all the time possible for making the system work.

Those who don't designate will be hurting themselves the most.

That Friday deadline is most important to tobacco farmers and the industry as a whole.

Soviet Union's Tightened Fist

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Contradicting Nixon administration claims that detente is relaxing repression in the Soviet Union, the American ambassador in Moscow has privately cabled Washington that the KGB secret police has intensified harassment of Soviet citizens trying to contact the U. S. embassy.

In a May 22 "confidential" telegram to the State Department, Ambassador Walter Stoessel revealed the new "pattern of intensifying monitoring and harassment of Soviet citizens" attempting to enter the embassy. "Judging from several recent incidents, Soviet security has recently become less tolerant of such contacts," Stoessel said.

Although recent embassy protests to the Soviet Foreign Affairs Ministry have proven fruitless, the State Department is avoiding for now high-level pre-summit protests that might endanger detente. This attitude further angers critics of the Nixon-Kissinger foreign policy who hold that while detente is desirable, it should not be purchased at the price of moral principles.

Without pressure from the West, the growing Soviet civil rights movement would not have been possible and well-known dissidents such as Andrei Sakharov would be silenced. Nevertheless, the clamp-down on contacts with the U. S. embassy is the worst ever.

Stoessel's telegram points to "intensified Soviet security monitoring of American citizen-Soviet citizen contacts"; to "Overt KGB harassment of Soviets seeking (U.S.) consular advice or assistance"; and to American travelers being "The target of closer surveillance." His conclusion: "In all cases, there seem to be complications in recent months which were not in evidence as recently as three months ago."

Until then, U. S. embassy protests kept Soviet militia men from blocking access to the embassy of Soviet citizens with written invitations from the consular officials to discuss problems such as reunification with families in the United States. "Beginning in early March, however, the militia began once again to deny entry even to persons with such invitations in hand," Stoessel reported.

These citizens are now routinely taken to a large militia shack constructed on the street corner near the embassy several months ago (with militia men often employing "considerable force" to prevent them from entering the embassy, according to Stoessel). His April 1 protest to the Soviet government accomplished nothing.

On the morning of May 29, seven days after Stoessel's telegram to Washington, a 30-year-old medical laboratory technician named Mikhail Ilyitch Parkansky approached the embassy with an invitation from consular officials. In March, a request for him and his family to emigrate to Dallas, Texas, (home of his brother) had been denied and he lost his job. Now he was intercepted outside the embassy by militia men and taken to their booth.

Protests by U. S. consular officers to the militia commander and the foreign ministry were to no avail. On May 30, the embassy suggested that the State Department notify the Soviet embassy in Washington, but there is no sign this was done.

The Parkansky case is duplicated daily. On May 29, militia men not only barred Vladimir Barynin from the embassy but confiscated his written invitation. On May 30, a West German diplomat, seeking to enter the embassy to obtain a U. S. visa, was barred and interrogated by militia men before he could identify himself.

Although Nixon administration officials stress recently rising emigration from Russia, Stoessel reports "an apparent step-up" in refusing exit visas. According to Stoessel, secret police have interrogated Soviet citizens seeking to rejoin close family members in the United States and "warned against discussing their cases with U. S. consular officers."

Moreover, Stoessel reports local authorities "have gone to extra lengths to frustrate or delay" marriages between Soviet and American citizens. "For the first time in recent memory," officials refused to register one such marriage that actually had taken place. Stoessel's conclusion: "The KGB has been given 'a relatively free hand' to prevent such marriages."

This tightened fist applies to American visitors, particularly Jews, contacting Soviet citizens. On May 7, ten American Jews embarked on a bus with several politically activist Soviet Jews for a picnic along the Kaluzhskoye Shooshe 17 miles from Moscow. When the bus arrived, it was surrounded by over a hundred Soviet security men. The Jews, both American and Soviet, were jostled, manhandled and refused access to the picnic area.

Such treatment, increasingly common for Americans seeking to contact Russians, will not be encountered by President Nixon at the Moscow summit. But it shows that the genuine quest for detente, no matter how laudable, is having little moderating impact on Soviet repression.

Attorney General Race Could Be The Big One

State Appeals Court Judge James H. Carson, Jr. is a man-in-waiting for the job of state attorney general.

Gov. Holshouser has designated him as the successor he will appoint to the position when Robert Morgan, now Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate, resigns.

Carson, no doubt will seek election to the post as the Republican nominee, but a host of Democratic hopefuls are seeking the Democratic nomination for attorney general.

Carson's advantage, of course, would be that he will be the incumbent by a few weeks.

This may be the race that attracts most interest in state-wide elections in November.

State To Tell Ocean's Story

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—With a growing interest in North Carolina's coastal area, state officials are readying a network of three Marine Resources Centers which will tell people about coastal area problems and potentials.

Combining educational, research, and fun functions, the three centers now under construction and scheduled to open late this year or next spring will operate as a single unit, although widely separated along the coast.

This is the first time in the nation that a state has built three different resource centers rather than one major central one, but state officials believe the advantages of doing this will make the venture worthwhile.

3 Locations

One center, the first to open—probably around October—is located in Carteret County near Pine Knoll Shores on Bogue Banks on land originally donated to the state by the heirs of former President Teddy Roosevelt.

Because of its location closer to population centers, that center will perform a strong educational function, especially for public school kids.

A second center will be located on Roanoke Island near Manteo on the old 4-H campsite on the inland side of the island. Because of its location near the state's sprawling marshland areas, its main function will be concentrated on estuarine activities.

The third center will be ideal for deep-water oceanography and use of ocean-going laboratory boats because of its location on the Federal Point peninsula at Ft. Fisher, overlooking both the Cape Fear River entry into Wilmington's deep-water port and the Atlantic Ocean.

Each center is costing about $1.5 million to build, excluding land values; each will have an operating budget of approximately $500,000 each year.

Visitors will be attracted from a number of areas of interest as the three centers offer a variety of activities from simple tourism to advanced research.

"Our goal primarily is to reach people of all walks of life, and help instill in them a real appreciation of our coastal resources," said Doug Young, assistant director of the office of coastal land marine affairs, a division of the state Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

New Board

Young said the combined centers will operate as one unit under the direction of a newly established N.C. Marine Resources Center board of directors. Thomas S. Bennett, chairman of the State Republican Party and a Morehead City attorney, is chairman of that board which meets in mid-June for the first time, and is planning a tour of the three centers later this month.

Four major activities are planned at the centers as the foundation of the program, Young said.

1. Public information: exhibits, programs, movies, field trips, and live aquarium exhibits in tanks for walk-in tourists and other visitors, and for organized groups.

2. Education: classrooms, laboratories, an auditorium, field trips for school-oriented programs involving university students, community colleges, and public schools.

3. Advisory services: an agent at each center to gather research information and compile information and advice to be distributed to commercial fishermen, coastal builders and others in a fashion similar to the program of services offered farmers in the agricultural extension services.

4. Applied research: cooperation with other established marine research centers by major universities in conducting projects, and some projects initiated at the centers themselves.

Young said a large portion of the operating expense will be paid by the regular users who will provide staff, equipment and programs. These will come basically from the universities and schools, state parks agencies, health services representatives, etc.

Strength For Today

GOOD LUCK AND GOOD JUDGMENT

The great American essayist, Ralph Waldo Emerson, once said that only shallow men believe in luck.

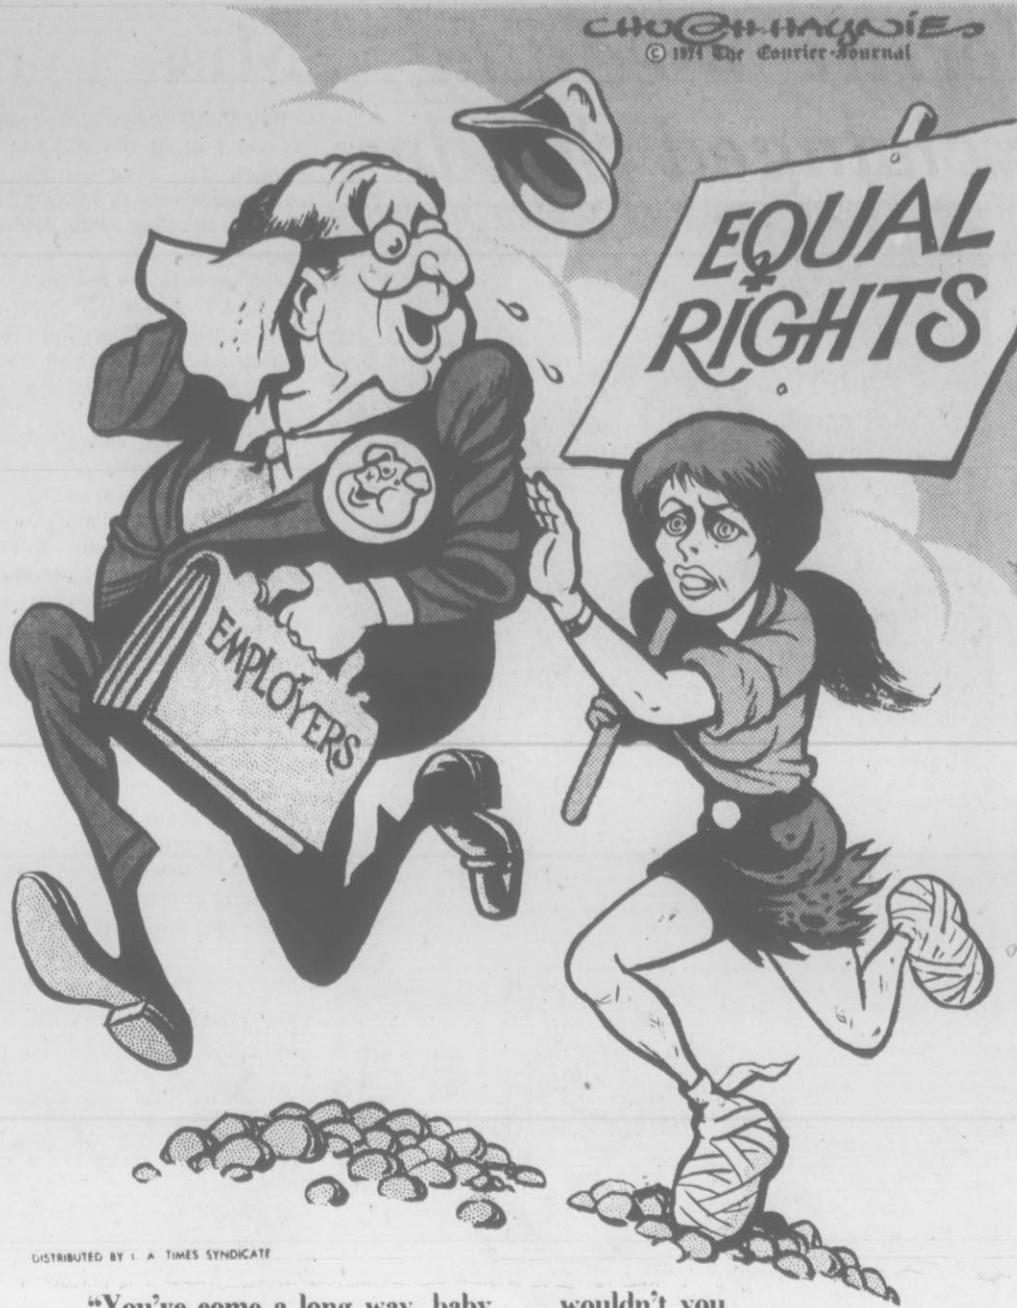

Yet it certainly seems as if good luck is the cause of certain men's success. Everything they do seems to turn out well for them. But in appraising the success of these men we should always ask two questions. Is their good luck constant, or have they just had some conspicuous turn of good fortune at a strategic moment? And if their good luck appears to be constant, are there other factors involved in explaining their success?

In the latter cases, the closer we look the more we will find other factors relating to judgment, timing and effort. The Italian philosopher, Machiavelli, once said luck does not create the successful man; the successful man creates his own good luck.

Only shallow thinkers insist that some folks get all the breaks. Those who look deeper know that good fortune is generally the portion of the diligent and the sacrificial.

Impeaching Of Congress

WASHINGTON—"Congressman Cheesedip, how do you feel about the Watergate affair?"

"I am shocked, appalled and horrified that such a thing could happen in this great land of ours."

"What is Congress doing to prevent future Watergates from taking place?"

"We are studying the matter very closely."

"Do you believe there is any possibility that the House will pass serious election-reform legislation this year?"

"I didn't understand the question."

"Congressman Cheesedip, what I meant was that although most members of the House are very critical of every aspect of the Watergate they seem to be dragging their feet when it comes to making the elections in this country less corrupt."

"I will not accept that. We have been thinking about election reform for some time now. We have been talking about it for more than a year. How can you say we're dragging our feet?"

"Mainly because you haven't done anything."

"Well, I would like to say this. Reforming election campaigns is a very serious matter. We have to look at it from all sides. It's true that there have been abuses, particularly in the area of financing political candidates, and we're very concerned about this. At the same time it would be a mistake if we abolished these abuses and made it more difficult for men of high principle to run."

"Then, Congressman Cheesedip, could I say that you are against election reforms this year?"

"I am not against election reforms. I take the position—and I have said this publicly many times—that we must have reforms in our political process. But I believe it would be a very dangerous thing to pass any laws that would make it more difficult for well-meaning people to contribute to a political campaign. Their voices should be heard, and if they want to do it by financing a particular candidate then I say God bless them. That's the American way of doing things."

"But isn't that the very thing that got the Committee for the Re-Election of the President in all its trouble?"

"I don't think we should be tarred by what the Committee for the Re-Election of the President did. I am proud to say that, although I have received contributions from the milk producers, the oil companies and the construction industries, I have never permitted this to interfere in how I would vote on any particular bill. Every congressman on this Hill feels the same way. If we didn't, we would of course ask for stronger election laws."

F111 Is Again Voted

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second straight year, Congress has voted to build additional multimillion dollar war planes the Pentagon did not request.

Ironically, the plane is the F111, which was the target for nearly 10 years of some of the most severe congressional attacks ever made against a military aircraft. Opponents used to say it was too costly and technically unsound.

In both the House and Senate, the armed service committees gave authority to build another 12 F111s at about $17 million each in the coming fiscal year in a defense procurement bill.

When the bills reached House and Senate floors, no move to drop the F111 provision was made by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., or any other defense spending critics.

Asked why Proxmire, who called the swing-wing F111 a "deathtrap" about 19 months ago, did not make such a move, an aide said the Wisconsin senator had four amendments on other issues and that it was "a matter of priority."

An Aspin aide said amendments aimed at cutting specific programs have had "limited success." He said Aspin preferred to try to reduce the bill's over-all size.

The Senate bill, passed Tuesday, earmarks $220.5 million for additional F111s. The House bill, passed earlier, would authorize $205.5 million for additional F111s.

Differences between the two versions will be adjusted in a Senate-House conference, with actual money to be voted later.

Last year, after the Pentagon had said it needed no more than the 543 F111 fighters and bombers already built or authorized, the Congress decided to add 12 planes costing $167.8 million.

Generally, the extra F111s at a total cost of nearly $400 million is credited to influence of key members of the Texas congressional delegation. The plane is manufactured in Fort Worth, Tex.

But it was Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., who moved to write F111 authorization into this year's House procurement bill.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, is said to have acted to include F111 authority in the Senate bill.

Public Forum

To the editor:

In response to a recent book review concerning the Doman-Delacato method of treating brain-injured children, I would like to offer a brief summary of the statement issued in 1967 by the Joint Executive Boards of the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Academy of Neurology regarding the Doman-Delacato method.

1. No controlled research studies are available to support the contention that this method is any better than conventional methods for treatment.

2. The demands placed on the families in terms of time and money have been quite heavy, and the families may be implicated if the method is not successful.

3. No systematic evaluation of the program has ever been undertaken, and at least some of the progress described could be attributed to the results of natural growth in the child or other treatment techniques being used concurrently.

4. The claims of "near 100 per cent success" are exaggerated. A number of individuals have reported cases in which the method did not produce results.

Consumers (and reviewers) should be suspicious of any means of treating brain-injured children for which such claims of success are made. Parents and professionals both know that the road is long and uphill, and anyone contemplating use of this method or any other is entitled to know both the positive and negative evidence about it.

Profits Picture Misunderstood

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost everyone overestimates corporate profits, said Carl Madden, chief economist of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Poll results support his contention. One study showed that people believe the average manufacturer earns 28 per cent on sales, after taxes, when the actual profit last year was 4.7 per cent.

Madden blames journalists for some of the misunderstanding, but there is also reason to suspect that many corporate officers, who brag about their profits to some audiences, and scale them down to others.

Speaking to investment analysts, an executive is inclined to emphasize profitability. But for other audiences he may stress rising labor and material costs.

An extreme example of the dichotomy is that of a large corporation that recently declared a regular quarterly dividend, based on what it told shareholders was a solid profit for the year. But it reported a loss to the Internal Revenue Service.

Profits aren't simply explained. They may seem high in one quarter because they were depressed the quarter before. They may be due to extraordinary conditions that won't recur. They may indeed be huge, but only because the company is too.

But what seemed to bother Madden most as he talked prior to addressing The Conference Board, is that no matter what business does today, somehow a goodly number of people will categorize it as inimical to the public interest.

The air, he said, is "filled with conspiratorial philosophy that thinks business is a ripoff when really it is an engine of everyone's wellbeing," an engine of wages, pensions, dividends, fringe benefits, security.

Why are businessmen suspect, he asked rhetorically? "People forget that business is creative. Actors, dramatists and writers are creative," he said, "but the guy who produces a $100 calculator somehow isn't."

Suggesting that journalists contribute to the misunderstanding, Madden asked how many of them know that among the 500 largest industrial concerns, as measured by Fortune Magazine, 21 companies showed a net loss on their sales. "Compare that with the 28 per cent profit estimate in the survey."

Madden is concerned also that the public doesn't understand that inflation exaggerates profits, adds to business costs, makes it difficult to replace worn facilities and inventories, and adds to capital-raising problems.

He deplores the widespread notion that somehow corporate income goes into the pockets of a select few instead of into dividends, wages, salaries, benefits, expansion. He appears appalled at results of a survey that shows 43 per cent believe the most practical way for workers to increase their living standard is to take a bigger piece of the pie rather than making a bigger pie.

Charities Pinched By Increasing Inflation Squeeze

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

It's tougher to raise money these days and the dollars don't go as far as they used to. Most of the charities contacted in an Associated Press spot check said they are meeting or topping their goals. But it isn't easy.

"We think the 1974 goal can be met whatever it is," said Ted Sniegocki, a spokesman for United Way in the Little Rock, Ark., area. "But it will take more work and better organization. Inflation is eating up consumer dollars."

John Ewing of the American Cancer Society said the group's main trouble is in getting volunteers. He said people seem reluctant to serve because of general apathy over political and economic conditions.

Another spokesman for the national society said contributions for the current fiscal year were running above last year. But the percentage increase was lower than the year before. Overall contributions—from fund drives and legacies—were $93 million for the last fiscal year, compared with $79 million in 1972.

The higher dollar total doesn't mean more money for research and other activities. Increased lab costs, bigger salaries and other rising expenditures eat up the difference.

The director of the Oklahoma division of the American Cancer Society, Paul McDaniel, said he has noticed a drop in door-to-door contributions—down from $9 per household to $7.50. He also said many of the larger donations—from $50 to $100—are down about 25 per cent.

In contrast, the district director of the muscular dystrophy campaign in Oklahoma, Barbara Miller, said, "So far, inflation hasn't affected us and we're surprised."

A spokesman for the United Fund of Philadelphia said the group missed its 1973 goal of $20 million by about $150,000.

Gordon Berg, executive director of the United Community Services program in Charlotte, N.C., said the group topped its $3 million goal by 5 per cent last year. "Givers ... knew that inflation would hit the people we serve even harder than most people. I think this especially was true of the more sophisticated givers, such as corporations."

Berg added, however, that the money collected "got eaten up...."

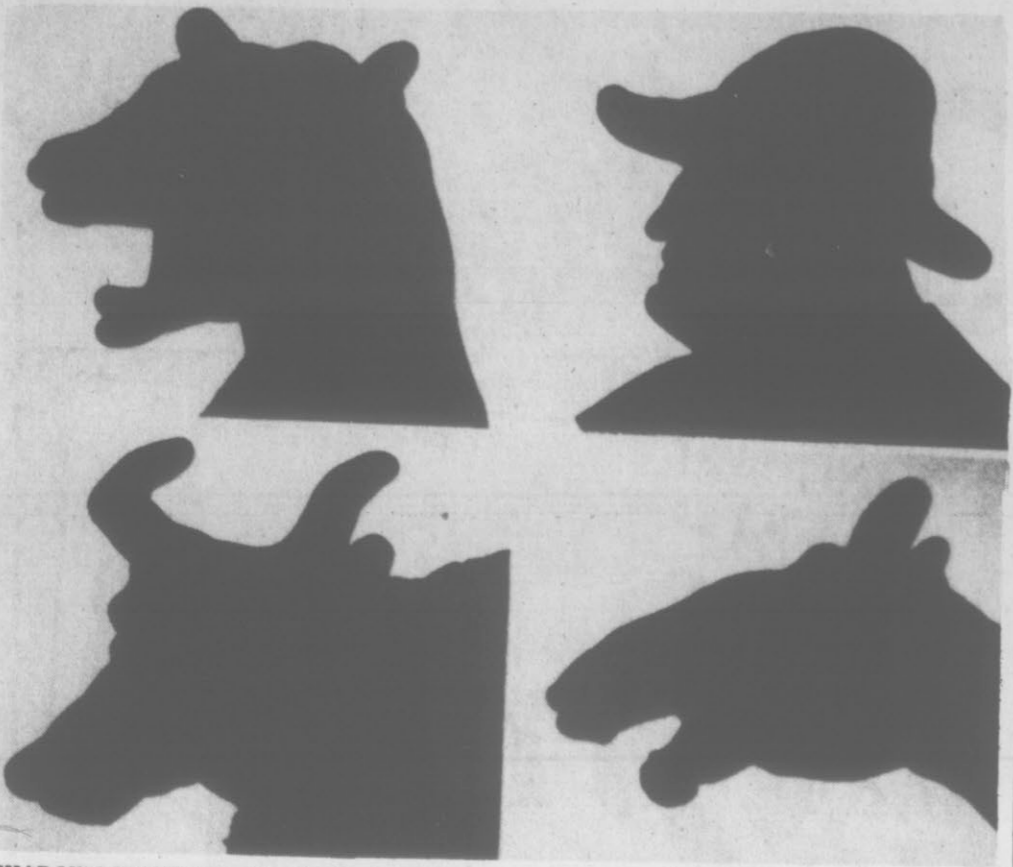

A spokesman for the United Fund of Greater New York, which serves 425 charitable agencies, said, "It's going to be tough for us." He said contributions were increasing—but at a lower rate than before.

Different charities in the same area occasionally had conflicting reports. George E. Boyd, director of the United Fund in Austin, Tex., said, "We've increased every year. We plan on doing it again this year...."

At the same time, Jack Knight, a Scout executive with the Capital Area Council in Texas, said he didn't think the group would reach its goal this year. "People are just tighter with their money," he said.

Federal agents identified one of the men arrested and held for investigation as Nicholas Heyns of Pretoria.

The other two were identified as James Bean, 42, and Keith Jones, 53, both believed to be from Myrtle Beach, S.C. The agents said Bean and Jones were to be arraigned on charges of violating federal narcotics laws.

Agents said the marijuana apparently was intended for sale in South Carolina. Sources knowledgeable about drug prices estimated the street value at $40,000.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Narcotics agents seized Tuesday 800 pounds of marijuana they said had been smuggled in from Pretoria, South Africa, in crates marked "African handicrafts."

Don Moricle, head of U.S. Customs in Charlotte, said three men were arrested at a motel where the crates were delivered.

The crates had arrived over the weekend on a flight from New York.

Moricle said it was the largest shipment of smuggled drugs to come through the city's Douglas Airport.

Southern Baptists Elect Prexy

By ELOY AGUILAR
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Jaroy Weber, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Lubbock, Tex., has been elevated to the presidency of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Weber, outgoing president of the SBC's Pastor's Conference, was elected Tuesday night over Kenneth L. Chafin, pastor of the South Main Baptist Church in Houston. He will assume his new duties at the end of this year's convention Thursday.

In Lubbock since November 1973, Weber was pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala., for nine years. Prior to that, he served as pastor for five years at the First Baptist Church in Beaumont, Tex.

He has been a member of the SBC executive committee.

The 15,000 delegates to the convention received a report Tuesday from the Christian Life Commission, the social concerns agency of the SBC. The report called for more active participation of women in church affairs and urged Southern Baptists to become more involved in the country's political life.

The commission's recommendations, even if approved during the conference, are not binding on all SBC churches.

The commission submitted a recommendation on "Freedom for Women" which asked delegates to "develop greater sensitivity to both overt and covert discrimination, against women and to endeavor through religious, political, social, business and educational structures to eliminate such discrimination. "Encouraging women to achieve their God-intended potential need not be detrimental to the stability of the family and the spiritual health of the church," the commission said in the statement accompanying the resolution.

The commission's report also dealt with race relations, calling for cooperation "between those who differ racially, ethnically and culturally."

In what some delegates referred to as a reaction to the political scandals sparked by Watergate, the commission also recommended that "when there is a gross failure at these vital points (of a functioning democracy) legal procedures be scrupulously followed in assessing guilt and removing from office those judged guilty."

Also on Tuesday delegates approved after some debate the appointment of a special committee to study the possibility of changing the name of the organization.

The suggestion for the change of name came in the form of a resolution introduced by Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, the denomination's largest congregation.

Criswell's resolution calls basically for a change that would delete the word "Southern". He has previously stated that he favors "continental". Criswell said the organization has churches in all 50 states of the union.

Delegates from Southern states objected. The resolution, however, was backed by those representing churches in the Midwest and the Far West.

Black representation in the different agencies of the SBC also was brought up. A Californian, Charles Frank Englemann of Menlo Park, offered a resolution which would require the convention to act immediately to open SBC boards to blacks.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady on large and mediums, weaker on smalls Tuesday. Supplies adequate, demand fair.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 50.73, medium whites 40.86, small whites 31.23.

Raleigh AP—NCDA—North Carolina hog prices were steady to 50 cents lower today. Tops of 24.50-25.50 at Kinston and Lumberton; 24.50 to 25 at Rocky Mount; 24.50 at Salisbury.

Raleigh AP—NCDA—North Carolina f-o-b dock broilers: market tone weak for next week. Supplies are fully ample, demand only fair and weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers 1,155,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices dropped back today, amid doubts over the prospects for any further declines in interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.55 at 846.53, and declines more than tripled the number of advances in relatively slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market, as measured by the Dow, took a sharp drop in the first half-hour, apparently reflecting a worried reaction to Tuesday night's assertion by Kenneth Rush, the White House economic counselor, that a long period of high interest rates would be needed to curb inflation.

The widely watched average rebounded somewhat after that when Treasury Undersecretary Paul A. Volcker told the Senate Finance Committee he believed interest rates probably have reached their peak.

John Doherty at Blyth Eastman Dillon noted there had been numerous apparently conflicting forecasts on money rates recently from both private and government experts.

"I think investors are going to wait and see for themselves at this point," he said.

Sony Corp., the Big Board volume leader, was up 1/4 at 19 1/4. Golds slipped a little as bullion prices pulled back in Europe.

On the American Stock Exchange, Peel-Elder was up 1 1/2 at 13 1/2. Hambro Canada, Ltd., said it would offer $13.25 a share for all the Peel-Elder common it doesn't already own.

Knickerbocker Toy, which said it had been talking merger with an unnamed company, advanced 1/2 to 14 1/2.

The Amex' 11 a.m. market value index was down .91 at 85.34. The NYSE composite index of about 1,500 common stocks lost .33 to 48.23.

No Opposition To Ayden Street Work

Holshouser's View Of CAA Programs Rapped

By CARL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
A public hearing on the planning and budgeting system of the N. C. Dept. of Human Resources held here yesterday produced an attack on governor Holshouser's stand on Community Action Agency's programs.

During the six hour meeting held here yesterday, a lawyer for the N. C. Community Action Agency's Legal Defense Committee attacked Holshouser's plan to transfer human service programs from CAA's, to state controlled regional organizations. CAA's, established 10 years ago by the federal economic Opportunity Act of 1964 were organized to work with programs to meet the needs of poor people.

Holshouser has proposed that the CAA's services be planned and implemented by regional organizations in each of the state's 17 planning regions. Dept. of Human Resources secretary David T. Flaherty said this morning that the lawyer's attack was an "orchestrated effort" against the governor and accused the lawyer, Jerry Hancock, of trying to use the meeting "for other purposes."

AYDEN—The Ayden Board of Commissioners held a public hearing Monday night on street improvements on Juanita Street from Lee Street for a length of 610 feet west. After no opposition on the project was voiced, the board passed a resolution stating the project would be done during the 1974-75 fiscal year.

Mrs. Nina Fussell, a resident of Juanita Street, asked that additional street lighting and speed limit signs be erected on the street if the board has the funding. The project is expected to be completed by late August or early September.

Clay Stroud, Ayden Housing Authority director, told the board that 123 of the 125 rental units are presently occupied at an average rent of $56.83.

He also presented the board with a deed of dedication for the streets, sidewalks and water and sewer improvements in the two low-rent housing sections.

Dr. J. E. Dixon, Ayden town commissioner, and Ralph Hardee, were named to serve on the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District along with two representatives from the town of Winterville and two from the town of Grifton. Dixon's term will expire Dec. 4, 1977, and Hardee's term will end on Dec. 4, 1975.

Mrs. Billy Stokes was named to the Library Commission to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Elva Jeffries who resigned recently. The board changed appointments to the library commission from six year terms to three year terms. The town ordinance calls for three year terms.

The board authorized that $162.70 be allocated for training funds for Ayden police officers and that $10.10 be allocated for a reference library. The amounts are the town's share with other funds coming from state and federal grants through the Mid-East Division of Law and Order.

Board members agreed to let the State of North Carolina enforce the new sedimentation control ordinance and town attorney Bob Booth was instructed by the board to notify the appropriate state agency of the decision.

A land use map was approved by the board for the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District as recommended by the Planning Boards of Ayden, Grifton and Winterville.

Franklin Williams reported to the board that the Department of Agriculture will provide one hot meal and two snacks for children participating in town activities such as the recreational program.

Money for the project will come from federal sources and there will be no cost to the town.

Town Manager Don Russell was instructed to file an application asking that money be made available to the Ayden Recreation Commission for the lunches.

French Used To Hoarding Gold

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Hoarding gold may be just around the corner for Americans, but Frenchmen have been stashing it away for centuries in stockings, mattresses, old chests or under the apple tree in the garden.

Private gold ownership has been illegal in the United States since 1934, but President Nixon has the authority to remove the ban. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon told a congressional committee in Washington Tuesday it may be legal for Americans to own the metal before the end of the year.

The tradition in France dates back at least to the French Revolution, when the country was in turmoil and gold was the best hedge against financial disaster. Even today, very few families are without at least a little nest egg of gold.

Some Frenchmen even regard the precious metal as protection against natural calamities. "The river can flood and sweep away my house and machinery, but I'll still have my gold," said a farmer.

"This taste that Frenchmen have for gold is an expression of mistrust and bad memories," President Valery Giscard d'Estaing said several years ago when he was finance minister.

There is no official estimate of how much gold is in private hands in France. The newspaper Le Monde conducted a study in February and came up with the figure of 6,000 tons, which it said was 7.5 per cent of all the gold mined since the year 1413.

Last year gold transactions hit a record $674 million in France.

A gold bar was quoted on the French market Tuesday at $5,145 per kilogram—2.2 pounds. Using Le Monde's figures, this would make the hoarded gold in France worth nearly $31 billion.

The French have had the unrestricted right to buy and sell gold since 1948. It comes in 12-kilo bars, one-kilo ingots and in coins, the favorite being the napoleon. The napoleon has a face value of 20 francs—$4—but is sold these days for $52.

When the price was officially controlled, there was little or no profit to be made by dealing in gold and the French bought it to tuck it away for protection against the uncertainties of paper money. But with the creation of the two-tier gold market and the nonconvertibility of the dollar in 1971, the price of gold on the free market soared.

Commenting on Holshouser's plan, Flaherty stated, "People that feel there will be less progress are being misled. Services will continue and more monies will be available than in the past."

"County commissioners will have more control" over the programs under the governor's plan, Flaherty added.

Pitt County does not have a CAA. CAA's work with programs designed to help the under privileged and are generally federally funded.

The N. C. Legislature voted in its last session to appropriate $900,000 for administrative expenses for the state's 37 CAA's if the U. S. Congress failed to provide funding.

The dinner will begin at 7:30.

Attending will be commission members and their spouses. A special invitation has been extended to the mayor, city manager and members of the city council and their spouses.

On the agenda for the business meeting will be the nominations for a new chairman and vice-chairman.

The Greenville Recreation Commission will hold its annual dinner meeting tonight at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. The dinner will begin at 7:30.

The board also added $22,500 to the tentative budget for the next fiscal year. The additional money will be used for water and sewer expansion, including water lines to the Tar Road residents and construction for future industrial development.

A budget of $452,910 has been completed by the board and final adoption is expected to come within the next few weeks.

Cairo Readies A Big Welcome

By DAVID MICHELMORE
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Busloads of workers shouting "Nixon! Nixon!" and waving "Nixon on Peace" banners roared through Cairo today, on their way to the airport four hours before the arrival of the first American president to pay a state visit to Egypt.

The route to be taken by President Nixon and his host, President Anwar Sadat, was marked by triumphal arches, American flags and billboards displaying large portraits of the two presidents.

The Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only legal political party, was reported teaching villagers along the railway line from Cairo to Alexandria to chant "We welcome President Nixon" in English as Nixon travels to the Mediterranean port Thursday.

Egypt's two best-known belly dancers, Nagwa Fouad and Soheir Zaky, headed the floor-show for the state dinner Sadat is giving tonight for President Nixon and his wife.

Press reports said Sadat would bestow the Order of the Nile, Egypt's highest-ranking decoration, on Nixon and the Order of Perfection on Mrs. Nixon.

Asked about the cost of the welcome, an Egyptian assured one American: "Don't worry, Nixon will pay for it before he leaves."

Heavy security precautions were in effect. Bulletproof limousines were lined up. Helicopter patrols were set up. Hundreds of American and Egyptian agents were checking danger points, including rooftops from which snipers could fire.

Girl Hostage Is Rescued

NEW YORK (AP) — A 5-year-old girl was yanked to safety today from the Queens housing project apartment where she had been held hostage with her father since late Monday. Her father was found dead, his chest punctured by a bullet.

The gunman had allowed her to open the apartment door to retrieve food set in the hall by a special police hostage team and had kept a revolver trained on her.

Detective Lt. Frank A. Bolz Jr. handed her a cup of hot coffee for the gunman. Then with one hand he offered a glass of a soft drink. As she reached for it, he grabbed her with the other hand and left the former convict and mental patient without a hostage.

A medical examiner was en route to the building to examine the body of the girl's father, Fred Kinsler, 34, whose motionless form had been spotted on the floor since Tuesday.

Several hundred neighbors cheered as the girl was taken to an ambulance. She appeared to be unharmed.

In bullet-proof vests and carrying rifles and shotguns, the police said they told the gunman, Floyd Steele, 56, to "take it easy."

With a shotgun trained on him, Steele surrendered. The drama ended shortly after 9 a.m.

$24,000 Grant Is Announced

A grant of $24,000 has been given to East Carolina University's School of Allied Health and Social Professions by the U.S. Bureau of Education of the Handicapped, a division of HEW.

According to Dr. W. Garrett Hume, department chairman, the grant will enable ECU to hire additional staff members and provide full-time fellowships for graduate students in the area of speech, language and audiology.

This is the fourth such grant received by the ECU department.

Fitzmorris Fastball Leads To 1-0 Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer Al Fitzmorris has a selection of three pitches in his repertoire—fast, faster and fastest.

Using only fastballs may be a revolutionary baseball theory, but it's certainly working for the Kansas City Royals' pitcher.

Except for one experimental slider Tuesday night, Fitzmorris threw only hard stuff at the Milwaukee Brewers and notched his second straight shutout with a 1-0 decision.

"(Kansas City Manager) Jack McKeon told me seven years ago at Omaha that you have to learn to get the guys out," noted Fitzmorris after his eight-hitter.

Fitzmorris, who shut out Baltimore on a three-hitter his last time out, went 17 innings without throwing a breaking ball. Then he tossed a slider at George Scott leading off the ninth Tuesday night. The change of style has helped Fitzmorris' control. He hasn't walked a batter for 23 innings, or since May 22. The Royals had lost three in a row before Tuesday night's victory.

In the other American League games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Texas Rangers 8-6; the Cleveland Indians blanked the Chicago White Sox 6-0; the Baltimore Orioles beat the Minnesota Twins 4-2; the California Angels nipped the New York Yankees 5-4 and the Boston Red Sox trimmed the Oakland A's 10-9.

Tigers 8, Rangers 6 Mickey Stanley slugged a three-run homer and Gary Sutherland and Willie Horton each drove in two runs to pace Detroit over Texas.

Indians 6, White Sox 0 Jim Perry hurled a seven-hitter and Cleveland took advantage of a rash of errors by Chicago to beat the White Sox easily.

Perry boosted his record to 5-5. Orioles 4, Twins 2 Jim Palmer, aided by Brooks Robinson's second-inning home run and relief help from Grant Jackson and Bob Reynolds, snapped a personal seven-game losing streak in Baltimore's victory over Minnesota.

Angels 5, Yanks 4 Mickey Rivers picked up two bases on a passed ball and scored on Denny Doyle's seventh-inning single to snap a tie and give California its victory over New York.

Red Sox 10, A's 9 Rick Miller, Cecil Cooper and Carlton Fisk belted homers and Danny Cater broke a tie with a seventh-inning pinch double, propelling Boston over Oakland.

National League scores: Atlanta 4, New York 3 in 11 innings; Montreal 16, Cincinnati 6; Houston 10, Philadelphia 1; Pittsburgh 5, San Diego 2; St. Louis 1, Los Angeles 0; Chicago 7, San Francisco 4.

Ref Fails To Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Members of the National Football League Players' Association and the NFL Management Council were ready to do battle across the bargaining table Tuesday, but when the referee didn't show up, the scrimmage was postponed.

With federal mediator William J. Ussery attending to other business Tuesday, the scheduled discussion of the so-called "Freedom Issues" was postponed. So, the group talks will have to wait on topics including abolition of the reserve clause; the Rozelle rule, by which Commissioner Pete Rozelle determines compensation for a club which loses a free agent to another team; the option clause; the waiver system, fines and impartial arbitration.

The "Freedom Issues" are part of the list of 63 demands which the players have issued. These are the keys to the upcoming contract negotiations between owners and players.

If an agreement is not reached by July 1, says NFLPA executive director Ed Garvey, the players will strike. The deadline gives the players three days to set up picket lines and make other strike arrangements before the San Diego Chargers become the first club to open training camp on July 4.

The owners agreed Tuesday to provide the players with more information on the league's financial status. The players' association claims the 24 teams finished with a profit of $2.3 million after last season; the owners admit to collective profits of $945,000.

Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers, president of the NFLPA, expressed enthusiasm that the owners had agreed to provide this information, but added the players are "still waiting for a meaningful response" from the owners on their demands.

But NFLMC Executive Director John Thompson said the owners already had responded sufficiently, and that "we will not accept their proposal of not having any rules.

Integon Nips Moose, 10-9

William Barrett slapped a seventh-inning home run to break a deadlock and give Integon a 10-9 victory over the Moose yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

The game was played under protest by the Moose, who are 3-8 in the league standings. Integon now posts a 5-6 record.

Integon pushed over two in the first. Mont Carter singled, then came around on two wild pitches and a passed ball. Blair Smith followed with a home-run for a 2-0 lead.

But the Moose came up with three in the bottom of the inning to take a brief lead. Ashley Taylor reached on an error and Mark Sasser doubled. Rickey West reached on a two-base error, scoring Taylor. Another error let Sasser score, moving West to third. He scored on Donnie Daughtridge's infield out.

In the second, Integon came up with seven runs for a 9-3 lead. Todd Galloway opened up with a walk and Mike Holloman was hit by a pitch. Alan Hudson walked, loading the bases. Junior Neal singled, scoring Galloway and an error on the play let Holloman score, too. Carter walked and Smith cracked out in his second straight home run, this one a grand slam. William Barrett walked, stole second and scored on Lathan Mills' double with the ninth Integon run.

The Moose began coming back with a run in the third. David Carroll walked and stole second. He moved to third on a passed ball and scored after both Daughtridge and Dwayne Allgood both walked, when Dean Wilson singled.

Another came over in the fourth. Taylor doubled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on a wild pitch.

The Moose added two more in the fifth. David Vaughn walked, as did Bob Gantt. Taylor singled in Vaughn, and a wild pitch scored Gantt.

They tied it up with two more in the sixth. Allgood walked and Wilson reached on a fielder's choice. Vaughn and Gantt both walked, scoring Allgood. Another walk, to Taylor, brought in Wilson to tie it up.

But in the seventh, Barrett led off with a home-run, pushing Integon back into the lead, 10-9. The Moose put a man on third on West's triple in the bottom of the frame, but couldn't bring him over with the tying run.

The Fire Fighters and Taff Office also claimed victories as the league played a full schedule. The Fire Fighters downed University Kiwanis, 11-3, while Taff downed Washington, 7-3.

Farmville jumped into the early lead at Ayden-Grifton, pushing over two in the third. David Joyner reached on an error and Marty Hobgood singled. Jeff Cobb hit into a fielder's choice, getting Hobgood at second. Jimmy Cobb then reached on another error, scoring Joyner and Jeff Cobb.

But Ayden-Grifton got a run in the seventh to end it. Nelson walked, then stole second. The attempt to get him was thrown away, and he came all the way home on the error.

Nelson, who hurled the victory, allowed only three hits, struck out 11 and walked two.

At Greenville, the Fire Fighters were having little trouble with the Kiwanis. The Firemen pushed over four in the first. Clennel Streeter singled and moved up on an error. Gary Cowan walked and Danny Norris did too, loading the bases. Streeter scored on a passed ball and Keith Gould's hit scored both Cowan and Norris. Gould moved up on an error on the play and took third on an out. Eugene Forrest singled him home for the 4-0 lead.

The Kiwanis came up with a run in the bottom of the inning. Greg McGlowhan walked and Doug Causey singled. Both moved up on an error and McGlowhan scored on Ken Tetterton's ground out.

The Fire Fighters pushed in six more in the fifth to put the game away. Gould walked and stole second and Joey Baggett walked. Forrest was hit by a pitch loading them up. Greg Coward walked, scoring Gould, and a walk to Chuck Brown brought in Baggett. Streeter singled to score both Forrest and Coward, and Cowan walked to reload them. Gould walked to score Brown, and Streeter scored on Baggett's hit.

The final Fire Fighter run came in the seventh. Cowan walked, moved up on Jones' walk and an out, and scored when Phillips grounded out.

The Kiwanis got their final two in the seventh. Tetterton singled and stole second. Al Salisbury reached on an error, scoring Tetterton. Salisbury, who moved to third on the error, scored on a passed ball.

Then, at Washington, Taff was getting its win. They scored two in the top of the first to take the lead. Clifton singled and was sacrificed up. Jones doubled him in, then scored on Cullop's hit for the 2-0 score.

Four more came over in the third. Streeter singled and Jones smacked a home run. Doug singled and Buck walked. Peszko singled in Dough and Boyd got a hit, but Buck was thrown out trying to score. Clifton was hit by a pitch, and a walk to Causey scored Peszko.

Their final run came over in the sixth. Causey reached on an error and scored on Streeter's double.

Washington got its first run in the fourth. Haddock singled and moved up on an out scoring on another.

Washington got another in the sixth. O'Connor singled and moved up on a walk, scoring on an out.

The final run came in the seventh. Boahn walked and came around when Latham reached on an error.

Jaycees Down Kiwanis, 9-0

The Jaycees kept their hopes for a North State Little League title going yesterday, riding John Winstead's one-hitter to a 9-0 win over the Kiwanis.

The Jaycees are now 7-4 in the league, while the Kiwanis fall to 3-8. The Jaycees are two games behind the league-leading Optimists, while the Lions are just a half-game back. These three teams are the only ones with a shot at winning the title.

Winstead gave up the only hit of the game to the Kiwanis in the third inning when Grant Stackhouse led off the frame with a single. Winstead struck out 15 and walked two, while hitting another.

The Jaycees pushed into the lead with one in the first. Mike Pollard singled and moved up on a wild pitch. Teddy Gartman reached on an error and Winstead walked to load them up. Kenny Barnes walked, forcing over Pollard.

Another run came in the second. Todd Brown reached on a two base error and was balked to third. He scored on Pollard's hit.

The Jaycees got another in the fourth to take a 3-0 lead. Pollard singled and Crowell Pope reached on an error. Gartman was safe on a fielder's choice, moving Pollard to third, and he scored from there on a wild pitch.

Two more crossed the plate in the fifth. Elvy Forrest reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on a wild pitch. Marion Crisp was safe on an error and Larry Talbert walked. Pollard reached on an error, scoring Forrest and Pope singled in Crisp.

The Jaycees finished up with four in the sixth. Winstead singled and Barnes was hit by a pitch. Both moved up on a passed ball and Forrest's hit scored Winstead and Barnes. Crisp doubled to score Forrest, but he was cut down on Brown's infield hit. Brown moved up on a wild pitch, took third when Pollard reached on an error, and came around on Pope's single.

Texas, SIU In Series Advance

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Pitching usually is the big factor in a short series, and Texas and Southern Illinois proved that baseball adage Tuesday night.

Texas used a route-going performance by Rick Burley to topple Oklahoma 10-4 while Southern Illinois stayed alive in the 28th College World Series with a 5-3 victory featuring a stellar relief performance by freshman Dewey Robinson.

The double-elimination tournament's only unbeaten—Miami, 50-9, and four-time defending champion Southern California, 47-19—are in action Wednesday night.

Thursday night's pairings find Southern Illinois against Miami and Texas and Southern California in a rematch. Southern Cal won in the first round 9-2.

"I said when we came here our depth would be the key in the series," reminded Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones. "And tonight was a good example."

Jones called on Robinson, a right-hander who had worked only seven innings during the regular season, and he responded with 8 2-3 innings of three-hit relief.

"Robinson and our running won the ball game for us," said Jones, whose team pushed its record to 49-11. "We stole six bases tonight—and four figured in the scoring."

Southern Illinois broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run fifth in which it didn't hit the ball out of the infield but stole four bases, including a delayed double steal that netted a run.

"We never run on our own, although some our kids don't know that," Jones said with a smile. "Our speed also was a factor in the triple that knocked in our final run."

Northern Colorado, 32-13, took a 1-0 lead in the first on a single and three walks that chased Salukis' starter Rod Klass.

Robinson allowed single runs in the third and fifth innings, but with the help of a double play retired 16 in a row after the final Northern Colorado hit in the fifth inning.

"I was just trying to keep the ball down," said Robinson. "I wanted to finish so badly because of the way I tired in the playoff game against Minnesota which Robinson won to send the Salukis to the series."

Texas spotted Oklahoma a 3-0 second-inning lead but bounced back with 12 hits for an easy victory.

Dough Duncan and Bobby Clark each knocked in three runs, and Burley allowed just three hits after the second.

In running his record to 13-0, Burley struck out 13, and Texas kept alive its bid for its first title since 1950. The Longhorns are making a record 17th appearance in the tournament.

Films Didn't Help; Pitching Did Trick

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

Houston Manager Preston Gomez says a little electronic gadgetry "snapped" Cesar Cedeno's batting slump, but from the sound of Cedeno, all he needed was a swift kick in the pride.

"We took shots of last night's game with a Sony and replayed them in slow motion," said Gomez, whose Astros rode a 10-run seventh inning to a 10-1 romp over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night. "We knew that Cedeno was not hitting, so we took pictures of him and other players. This seemed to help us tonight."

But Cedeno doesn't credit the Japanese; he credits Philadelphia pitcher Dick Ruthven.

"He didn't show any respect for me," Cedeno said of Ruthven, who intentionally walked Roger Metzger in the seventh, filling the bases for Houston's Dominican Dandy. "He got me mad. He had no respect for me as a hitter."

Cedeno showed even less respect for Ruthven's pitching, whacking a mammoth grand slam home run into the left field seats.

"That was the first time that anyone has walked a man to pitch to me in the big leagues," said Cedeno.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Atlanta Braves outlasted the New York Mets 4-3 in 11 innings; the Montreal Expos bombed the Cincinnati Reds 16-6; the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the San Diego Padres 5-2; the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0, and the Chicago Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 7-4.

Expos 16, Reds 6

Both Willie Davis and Montreal knocked in more runs than Cincinnati. Davis capped a seven-run rally in the seventh with a three-run homer, then added a grand slam shot in an eight-run eighth.

Braves 4, Mets 3, 11 innings

Ex-Met pitcher Buzz Capra's pitches and emotions were too high to be very effective against his former teammates, so catcher Johnny Oates delivered the victory to another former Met, Danny Frisella. Oates scored the winning run in the 11th inning.

Pirates 5, Padres 2

Willie Stargell and Al Oliver stroked consecutive two-out singles in the eighth, sending Richie Zisk home with the tie-breaking run.

Cardinals 1, Dodgers 0

Lynn McGlothen, 8-3, came out on top in a pitching duel with the Dodgers' Andy Messersmith, 6-2, who gave up four hits. McGlothen needed last-out relief help from Al Hrabosky after giving up a walk and single in the ninth inning.

Cubs 7, Giants 4

Don Kessinger's two-run double in the second inning and a pair of unearned runs helped Chicago down San Francisco for the Giants their third straight loss.

American League results: Boston 10, Oakland 9; Detroit 8, Texas 6; California 5, New York 4; Kansas City 1, Milwaukee 0; Baltimore 4, Minnesota 2; Cleveland 6, Chicago 0.

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—The Southern Conference has decided to play its championship basketball tournament next March 5-6 in the 6,000-seat Greenville Memorial Auditorium.

The basketball committee picked Greenville Tuesday over the Richmond, Va., Coliseum and the new Asheville, N.C., Civic Center.

The tournament will return to Greenville after a two-year run in Richmond, where attendance was disappointing.

Before being played in Greenville in 1972, the tournament had been held in Charlotte, N.C., from 1964 to 1971.

Instead of the usual three-night run, the Greenville end of the tournament will be confined to the last two nights, a Wednesday and Thursday. The conference voted last month to play the four first-round games on Saturday, March 1, on the courts of the top four teams in the regular-season standings.

The midweek dates for the last two rounds were chosen to avoid conflict with the windup of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament March 6-8 in Greensboro, N.C.

The agreement with the Greenville Coliseum is for one year only.

Over The Hill At 34? Nicklaus Just Laughs

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP)

On the eve of the year's biggest golf tournament, the 74th U.S. Open, Jack Nicklaus finds a note of humor in the veiled suggestion that he may be over the hill at 34.

"Somebody saw that miserable putt I missed on the last hole at Charlotte a couple of weeks ago and asked me if perhaps I wasn't losing my concentration," the all-time record holder for major championships said Tuesday.

"Then someone else pointed out that of the last seven major tournaments in which I've played, I've won only one. He overlooked that I have won three of the last nine."

During a practice round over the Winged Foot Club, a newsman, noting Nicklaus had won only one event this year, asked if he was beginning to feel the pressure of age as in the case of Arnold Palmer, whose last major title was the 1964 Masters when he was 34.

"Really, I've missed only one major championship since I won my last one," Jack chuckled in the upstairs locker room prior to taking the course. "It's a little early to start putting me on the shelf, don't you think?" He won the PGA last year but tied for fourth in this year's Masters.

Because of locker room rumblings and the fact that this so far hasn't been a typical Nicklaus season, the Open probably has special significance to the Columbus, Ohio, wonder.

He is the 5-1 favorite among 150 who begin a four-day, 72-hole test of the 6,961-yard, par-70 Winged Foot course Thursday.

He tees off in a threesome which also includes Hubert Green, who comes off his victory last weekend in Philadelphia, and Jim Colbert.

South Africa's Gary Player, the reigning Masters champion, and Johnny Miller, defending champion who looks like a leaner Nicklaus, rate as the next-stoutest pretournament threats at 8-1, followed by Lee Trevino at 10-1, Tom Weiskopf and Green at 12-1.

Bill Casper, who captured the last Open title held on this course in 1951, is rated a 15-1 outsider.

The greens and the traditionally thick, wiry rough—a trademark of all Open courses—have provoked the most conversation among the contestants.

It isn't an especially long course, but the fairways are tight and the greens liberally trapped. Thus, it might be called a shot-maker's course. The par score of 720.

Beltone Ices Tie For Title

Beltone clinched at least a tie for the Women's Softball League title last night with a 26-5 victory over Pitt County Hospital.

Beltone is now 10-0 in the league with two games to play. The only team with a chance to catch them is Piggly-Wiggly at 7-2, and any single Beltone win or P-W loss would ice the title for Beltone.

Pitt pushed over three runs in the top of the first for an early lead, but Beltone came back with 10 in their half of the first including a homer by Pinner. They added four in the second when Pinner again homered, and she got another in the third when three more runs scored. Five crossed in the fourth with Taylor homering, and they added one in the fifth and three in the sixth with homers by Pfeil and Gurganus. Pitt added two more in the second.

In the second game, P-W rolled to a 23-1 win over the Daily Reflector. Piggly-Wiggly got one in the first, then added four in the third with L. Wilson homering. They then pushed over 15 in the fourth, and added three in the fifth when S. Pittman and L. Whitehurst homered. The lone Reflector run came in the fourth.

In the final game, Little Mint took a 9-2 win over Coca-Cola. The Little Mint pushed in four in the first, then added one in the third, three in the fifth and one in the sixth. Coke got single runs in the third and sixth on homers by C. Manuel and B. Forbes.

Radical Change Could Be Help

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones says two radical ideas could foster more professional interest in collegiate baseball talent.

One would allow college players to participate in an organized summer league where they would receive a set salary from professional baseball. The other permit college coaches to manage and coach in the minors.

"Some junior college coaches now work in the minor league systems," Jones said, "but there is an NCAA rule against major college coaches managing in the summer."

Jones said allowing college coaches in the minors would would bridge any problems between the two factions of baseball.

Many college players with eligibility remaining gain valuable experience in professionally-sponsored summer leagues like the Cape Cod and Central Illinois Collegiate.

He would like to see that taken one step further, even though it runs contrary to the thinking of most coaches and the NCAA.

"Players are now provided with a summer job, so why not go further and provide them with 'X' amount of money for playing," Jones said. "It would be sort of an on-the-job training thing. It's done in other professions, why not baseball."

"The players would get a good background in pro ball, and the professional organizations would get a good look at the players."

Both ideas would require "a lot of giving on both parts—for professional baseball and the NCAA," he says.

Joe, Jerry In Hopes Of Title

By HOWARD SMITH AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier and Jerry Quarry took to the streets Tuesday to promote their Monday night fight—the one that each thinks will bring him a step closer to the world heavyweight championship.

"When I win this fight, I'll be in line for the championship," said Frazier, who lost the title to George Foreman in January of 1973. "This time I think I'll beat Foreman."

"I am deadly serious now," said Quarry. "I'm giving boxing the one shot I should have given it earlier. I'm giving it everything I've got now, and if I don't win the title I'll know it's just because I don't have the ability, no other reason."

Frazier and Quarry, scheduled to go 12 rounds Monday night at Madison Square Garden, went three rounds apiece with sparring partners Tuesday afternoon before about 900 on-lookers in Duffy Square in the heart of Manhattan's Times Square area. The sky was clear and the temperature was in the low 80s.

The exhibition featured an assortment of Playboy bunnies, free hot dogs, balloons and a steel band. Traffic slowed to a halt as the crowd spilled onto Broadway and the portable ring shook slightly everytime the Broadway local roared by underground.

Both said they enjoyed it. Quarry, watching Frazier's workout from the second story window of an automat, was impressed.

"It's the same old Joe Frazier," said Quarry. "He wants to come out and fight, as usual."

Joe Louis, the legendary Brown Bomber, got the biggest hand of the afternoon when he stepped into the ring to referee a couple of rounds. Garden boxing head Teddy Brenner says Louis, who turned 60 last month, will referee the Monday night bout.

Frazier stopped Quarry in the seventh round of their first meeting five years ago, but Quarry says this time will be different because he's hungrier than Frazier is.

Frazier insists he hasn't lost his competitive edge.

Rodgers Furniture Co. took a 4-3 victory over the Giants last night in the Southern Pitt Little League.

H. Harris led the Rodgers hitting with a pair, while Gunter added a double. Tony Barwick was the winning pitcher, allowing only three hits. He struck out 11 and walked four.

Coward was the losing hurler for the Giants.

Arlington In First Victory

Oakmont remained ahead in the American Division of the Church Softball League, and Arlington Street captured its first victory of the season last night.

In the opening game on Field Two, St. Gabriel took a 12-10 win over University-Mt. Pleasant. U-MP pushed in five runs in the first, but St. Gabriel came up with three in the bottom of the first, then got two more in the second to tie it. They pushed ahead with one in the third, but U-MP regained the lead with two in the fifth. Green Is Still Tour Unknown

By BOB GREEN AP Golf Writer

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — He's won three tournaments already this year. He's the No. 2 money-winner in the game this season. His fellow pros says he's been the outstanding player on the tour for the past two months.

And people still ask, "Who's he?" when the name Hubert Green comes up.

"It's getting to be a joke with him now," Hubert's wife Judi said. "It really bothered him for a while, for a long time. I guess it still does a little bit, but it's more a joke now than anything."

"I don't know what you have to do," said Green, whose overwhelming credentials make him one of the outstanding favorites for the United States Open Golf Championship that begins Thursday at the Winged Foot Golf Club.

"I guess I'm just another pretty face on the tour."

"It's not as bad as it used to be. A lot more people know me now since I've had this good season..."

He has come into his own this season.

"In the last two months, Hubert has been the outstanding player on the tour," said Johnny Miller, the only man who has won more titles—five—and more money—$203,000—than Green this year.

Green took titles in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, the Greater Jacksonville Open and last week's Philadelphia Classic. He was second in another and could have at least won three others. He's collected $156,000.

"Obviously I'm playing pretty good. I won last week. My performance over the last month or so hasn't been anything to hang your head about. But I am getting tired, mentally tired."

"Playing good and winning takes a lot more out of you than just plugging along each week."

He says he and a lot of the other good young players will skip more tournaments next year. "You just can't play them all."

But, he adds, "Right now I want to win. I want to stack up titles..."

"You can make a lot of money finishing second. But I've got my money for the year. And finishing second is like kissing your sister."

"I want to win. I want to win a lot of them."

Burke Is Elevated

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Joe Burke has been elevated to vice president and general manager of the Kansas City Royals.

Burke, 50, succeeds Cedric Tallis, who has been with the Royals since they became an expansion team in 1969. Tallis has been given the title of vice president-baseball.

The changes were announced Tuesday night by Ewing Kauffman, owner of the American League club.

Burke came to the Royals as vice president of business operations last Sept. 3 from the Texas Rangers, where he was vice president and general manager. He also held that post with Washington before the Senators moved to Texas.

Kauffman said Burke and Tallis would work out what Tallis' duties would include.

Kauffman said the Royals had lost $900,000, not including taxes and depreciation, and that "Burke's job is to bring it even next year."

Hilton Traded

BALTIMORE (AP) — Defensive end Roy Hilton, one of the few remaining veteran Colts from the era of owner Carroll Rosenbloom, has been traded to the National Football League's New York Giants, says Colts General Manager Joe Thomas.

Hilton, 31, a nine-year veteran, was dealt Tuesday for running back Joe Orduña and a future draft choice.

Orduña, 25, sat out the 1971 season after he was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers. The Giants obtained him on waivers, but he carried the ball only 36 times in each of the next two seasons.

Elected To Council Post

Dr. Vila M. Rosenfeld, chairman of the home economics education in the East Carolina University School of Home Economics, has been elected second vice president of the North Carolina Consumers Council.

The Council was founded by approximately 500 North Carolinians in order to give the consumer a voice in the decision making process which determines the operation of the marketplace.

During the past year, Dr. Rosenfeld was a member of the Council's Board of Directors, which testified in the consuming public's interest on more than two dozen bills in the legislature, developed a consumer information bill for North Carolina, conducted a taxation study and challenged price increases for milk, electricity and other products.

In addition to her work with the Consumers Council, Dr. Rosenfeld is president of the N. C. Vocational Association and counselor for District F of the N. C. Home Economics Association.

Pessimism In Italy On Outlook For Economy

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — A movie equipment manufacturer, until now optimistic that Italy would pull out of its economic slump, suddenly talked about firing some of his employees.

Scores of housewives, explaining "you never know what will happen," ran out to the supermarket and stocked up on crates of sugar, coffee and canned goods.

Premier Mariano Rumor's government had just resigned, in the midst of Italy's worst economic crisis in 30 years, and there appeared no swift solution.

financial circles. Stocks on the Milan exchange plunged an average of 3 per cent to a 1974 low and the lira, down more than 18 per cent in a year, weakened further.

"We cannot afford to spare any effort to save ourselves," said Gianni Agnelli, chairman of the Fiat Auto Co., Italy's largest private employer.

But it looked as if the political crisis—and consequently the economic crisis—would be a long one. Rumor's Christian Democrats, the largest party in the country, have dominated all governments since World War II. But they do not have a majority in Parliament.

Film Begins

RALEIGH (AP)—A television drama on "The Impeachment of Andrew Johnson" is being filmed in the state capital.

Almost 100 persons, including six Raleigh extras, will be involved in the filming which began Tuesday.

The British Broadcasting Corp. production is scheduled to be shown on public television July 1 in the United States and later that month in Great Britain. The drama deals with the 1868 trial of President Andrew Johnson, who was impeached and won acquittal by one vote.

The only feasible partnership for a majority is the center-left coalition of Christian Democrats and Socialists that has formed most Italian governments for the past decade. But this time their split over Rumor's proposals for tight credit and higher taxes to ease the economic crisis appeared too deep to be papered over.

Cronkite Rated 'Most Trusted'

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Cronkite of CBS was rated the most trusted and objective newscaster on television in a national public opinion survey.

NBC's John Chancellor rated second in the Phillips-Sindlinger Survey, and ABC's Howard K. Smith was third.

A year ago, Smith was first, Chancellor second, Harry Reasoner of ABC third and Cronkite fourth. "Largely as a result of the Watergate scandals, Cronkite has vaulted into first place," Phillips-Sindlinger said on the basis of 1,679 nationwide telephone interviews.

It added that CBS' Dan Rather, whom it described as "commonly cast in the role of the President's archfoe," was the newscaster who scored the greatest 1973-74 advance in trust by the public.

passed the state registry exam, 20 other Pitt residents now eligible to take the registry test and about 100 others involved in rescue work in Pitt County who are in various stages of training. About 35 of these will enter the Technical Equivalency

Program this Fall to complete their required 81 hours training course.

To qualify for the registry examination, according to John L. Watson, course coordinator for the training of ambulance and rescue personnel with Pitt

Technical Institute, the men must be affiliated with an emergency medical organization such as a rescue squad, hospital emergency room or ambulance service. Then they must have successfully completed a required 81-hour training program (which includes a minimum of 12 hours work in the emergency room of a hospital) as prescribed by the Emergency Medical Services Division of the North Carolina Department of Human Resources.

Beginning in January, 1976, all rescue units and ambulances in the state on emergency missions must have a registered EMT on duty in the patient compartment of the vehicle. The non-registered EMT or trainee will be permitted to work with the EMT until he becomes registered.

According to Watson, "there has been some criticism of the new requirements... but the consensus" in Pitt County "seems to be that by the end of 1975, most of our Pitt County rescue personnel will have reached the 81-hour training level and will be looking for more challenges."

"Even now," Watson indicated, "there is a group planning a 14-hour course in cardiac monitoring in order that they will be able to report the patient's condition to the hospital before they arrive."

"With the coming of more sophisticated equipment and techniques, most of our people are going to demand an opportunity to master and use these new devices," Watson said.

Those who successfully passed the registry exam, administered by the regional representatives of the office of Emergency Medical Services include: L. Simmons Hill, J. Odell McLawhorn, James W. Perkins, John N. Riggs, Burt Tripp, James T. Wagstaff, and Leonard Ed Whaley all of Ayden; Sammy T. Carson, James E. Copeland, Sam G. Keel, Delton E. Perry, and John L. Watson of Bethel; Jasper L. Baker, Adam H. Corbett, Bobby S. Skinner, Ronald C. Smith, Fredrick B. Stancil, Raymond B. Webb and Freddy M. Wainwright, all of Farmville; D. R. Daniels, William E. Small, C. Fredrick Tetterton, and Charles E. Mayo of Greenville; Ernest F. Albritton, Marian D. Allen, Raymond S. Eubanks, Jr., Wm W. Mitchell and George A. Sumrell, all of Gritton; and Lonnie E. Smith, Jr. of Winterville.

Weapons Procurement Bill Passed By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a $21.8-billion military weapons procurement bill with a $900 million limit on military aid to South Vietnam for the coming year.

Approved Tuesday, the measure goes to a House-Senate conference committee for final adjustment of differences.

The House last month voted to authorize $22.6 billion for weapons development and purchase for the U.S. armed forces and $1.126 billion for military aid to South Vietnam.

The Nixon administration budget called for $23.1 billion for procurement and $1.6 billion for South Vietnam.

The Senate rejected 46 to 45 an amendment to cut military assistance to South Vietnam to $750 million.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, defended the $900 million recommended by the Senate Armed Services Committee as a clear signal in itself "that the South Vietnamese government no longer has a blank check."

During seven days of Senate debate, the Senate defeated amendments to reduce funding for such new weapons systems as the B1 bomber and the submarine launched cruise missile.

Conversely, the Senate defeated Tuesday on a 68-23 roll call an amendment by Sens. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md.

and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to add $16 million to the bill to start design of a new ballistic missile firing nuclear submarine to complement the larger Trident.

The bill provides $1.9 billion requested by the administration for continued development of the Trident submarine system.

Adopted Tuesday was an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., to require the secretary of defense to examine the military implications of proposed commercial technology exports to Communist bloc countries and report his findings to the President for decision.

The bill as passed by the Senate would set a ceiling of 2,103,100 on U.S. uniformed manpower by June 30, 1975, a reduction of 49,000 from Pentagon plans, and a 4 per cent reduction in civilian employment of the Department of Defense to 892,700 by the same date.

Escapee Freed After Giving Himself Up

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Lacy Carroll Burleson, who lived as a prison escapee from North Carolina for 21 years, is free today three weeks after giving himself up.

He was released from Central Prison Tuesday under an order signed by Gov. Jim Holshouser, but he left his legal name behind bars.

"I've been Gary Ladd and will stay Gary Ladd," he said in an interview. "Burleson has caused too much trouble. That name stays in prison."

Holshouser commuted to time served Burleson's 5-7 year prison sentence. He was convicted of bigamy in 1953 at Winston-Salem. After serving about two months, he escaped from a Halifax County prison camp.

During his years as an escapee, Burleson lived in several midwestern towns, including Clinton, Iowa, where he spent much time working at odd jobs under the name Gary Ladd.

On May 22, he walked into the office of Fred Morrison, Gov. Holshouser's legal aide, and gave himself up.

Morrison, in announcing the commutation, said the district attorney in Halifax, W. H. S. Burgwyn Jr., told him he does not plan to prosecute Burleson for escape and "wishes him well."

"I had hoped it would turn out this way," Burleson said.

He told Morrison, "I appreciate it. I'm all shook. Tell the governor I stayed out of trouble for 21 years and I can do it again."

Burleson said his immediate plans were to visit his son, Phillip, and relatives at Winston-Salem. He added, "And I'll probably go back to Iowa." He said he has a twin boy and girl, 15, another boy 15 and an adopted daughter, 17, at Clinton, Iowa.

Asked how many times he had been married, he said, "Several."

He said that when the bigamy charge was brought against him he thought his previous wife had obtained a divorce. He had never seen his son, Phillip, until he went to Winston-Salem last month prior to surrendering. He said Phillip was born of the bigamous marriage.

Boys State Holds Elections Tonight

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — High school seniors at Boys State will elect a governor and other members of a state administration tonight.

The Federalist and Nationalist parties have nominated candidates. So has a third party, the Liberal party, formed by petition of 61 of the 465 delegates to Boys State.

"We have plenty of candidates running. I think the program is going about on schedule and proceeding real well," said Jack D. Flee, chairman of the Wake Forest University department of politics. Flee is director of the 34th annual Boys State Program.

Thomas Bennett, state Republican chairman, and Ben Utley, executive director of the state Democratic party, were to address the delegates today. Another speaker will be L. H. Jones, secretary of the state Board of Elections.

The delegates chose Andy Weisner of Rural Hall as winner of the oratorical contest over four other finalists. The topic of the contest was, "Today's crisis of confidence: real or imagined?"

The delegates attended 10 workshops Tuesday.

Flee said the workshops will aid the students in drawing up

Set Workshop In Methodology

A workshop in secretarial training methodology will be offered by the East Carolina University Human Resources Training Institute June 27-28 in Kinston.

Further information about the workshop and application forms are available from the ECU Human Resources Training Institute, Box 2772, Greenville.

Burglary Count

A 15-year-old boy was charged yesterday with first degree burglary after he allegedly entered an apartment in the Eastbrook Apartment complex and took $8 from the dwelling unit.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the juvenile reportedly entered the residence where three young women were sleeping and took $2 for one purse and $6 from another.

According to the chief, one of the three sleeping women was awakened when the youth touched her. She asked the youth what he was doing there, and the boy left.

He later returned to the apartment and returned the cash, Cannon noted.

Kindergarten Still Accepting

The kindergarten program at East Carolina University is still accepting registrations for the summer session.

Operated by the ECU Department of Elementary Education, the kindergarten is designed for children who will be five or six years old before October 15, 1974, and is located in the Wahl-Coates Elementary School Building on Fifth St.

The kindergarten began classes Monday, June 10 and will end Friday, July 12, meeting 9 a.m. through 12 noon each weekday. Morning snacks are provided.

Further information and registration materials are available at the ECU Department of Elementary Education, in the Speight Building.

House Shelves Land-Use Bill

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid charges that the White House was playing impeachment politics, the House has refused to take up land use planning legislation.
Tuesday's 211-204 vote apparently kills the legislation for the session.
Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., sponsor of one land use bill, said the vote "shows the shabby hypocrisy of the White House. They said they were for land use legislation but they did not send a word ... no lobbyists."
House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., said "they pulled the rug from under us. They helped construct the legislation—and then 136 Republicans voted against the rule."
Udall said President Nixon played impeachment politics on the bill, deliberately withdrawing support for the measure his interior secretary helped write to court conservatives to stay with him on impeachment.
The Sierra Club agreed, and said that by Tuesday's vote Congress "has mortgaged America's future to haphazard and chaotic development."
The sponsors of a weaker bill, House Minority Leader John Rhodes and Rep. Sam Steiger, both R-Ariz., voted against allowing the House to debate any land use bill.
Steiger denied Udall's charge of impeachment politics, saying he had made no trade-offs with the White House on the issue.
He said he had been advised by a White House lobbyist not to oppose a full House debate on the land use bill but he did anyway, telling the House that to consider it would mean wrangling through dozens of amendments.
The bill would have provided $800 million to help states and local governments devise means for planning the wisest use of their land and other resources.
President Nixon had called land use legislation his top environmental priority four years ago in a message to Congress. His Interior Secretary, Rogers C. B. Morton, worked closely with the interior committees in shaping the legislation most of last year.
Steiger took credit for Nixon's reversal in February, made known only when the House Rules Committee blocked the bill from coming to the House floor. Steiger said then Morton had misled the President into thinking the bill would be good for the country.
By last week, Morton had switched positions himself, supporting only the Steiger-Rhodes bill rather than the one he helped draft.

Governor Pledges Woman Appointee

GREENSBORO (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser says in an interview at Girls State that he soon will name a woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes of Wilmington, to a full-time salaried post in his administration.
Mrs. Holmes, a Republican, is a member of the state Board of Transportation.
Holshouser discussed a long list of political appointments he faces in the immediate future.
The governor, without being specific on what post he had offered Mrs. Holmes, said "she will be coming to Raleigh" in the near future. In addition to a Transportation Department vacancy, Mrs. Holmes could be being considered for either a deputy secretaryship in the Department of Administration or the Board of Paroles.
Holshouser has two immediate vacancies to the Paroles Board. Recent legislation added two members to the existing three-member board, and a third vacancy is due when Chairman J. Mac Boxley resigns in the near future.
Holshouser indicated he had given some thought to naming a woman to the board. But he hinted he was giving stronger consideration to appointing a second black member.
In response to questions from the delegates to Girls State, Holshouser gave indirect praise to Democrats in the legislature for their willingness to cooperate with him on legislative matters.
"It has not always been a bed of roses," he said, "but we (his administration) were able to get along although there were some areas in which we had to give a little or not get as much as we wanted. The state has not suffered because of political in fighting and the lack of cooperation." Girls State brings high school seniors together annually for a week's study of government and citizenship.

Nursery School Director Named Cars Collided At Intersection

Mrs. Sue Turcotte has been named director of the Immanuel Baptist Church School, replacing Mrs. Barbara Long, who is moving out of town.
Mrs. Turcotte, wife of Bill Turcotte, a local businessman, is a graduate of East Carolina University with a degree in Early Childhood Education and a former Greenville City Schools teacher. The Turcottes have a son, Billy, three.
The Immanuel Nursery, which opens again in September is a morning program for three- and four-year-olds. All the openings for fall are filled, Mrs. Turcotte said.
Martina Joyce Priddy, 300 South Summit St. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10 a.m. collision on Eighth Street 35 feet East of the Washington Street intersection yesterday.
Police reported the Priddy car collided with an auto operated by Beauty Graham Brown of 306B Watauga Ave. causing an estimated $200 damage to the Brown car and $150 damage to the Priddy vehicle.
No injuries were reported.

Permissive Views Inch Up In Spain

By PETER UEBERSAX
MADRID (UPI) — such taboos as sex and politics in Spain's closed society, and the results are full of surprises.

Here are some of the things pollsters say they have found out about Spain in recent surveys:

—In a land that has been called a paradise for free enterprise, a majority would like to see key industries and banks nationalized.

—Spanish women—but not men—do not condemn abortion.

—A majority of Spain's priests under 40 years of age say they support left-wing ideologies.

—The idea of legalizing divorce has a wide following in a country that calls itself the world's most Catholic.

—In the field of sexual permissiveness — from extramarital relations to movie censorship—traditionally prudish Spaniards are becoming somewhat more open-minded, but not to the extent that's been taking place in the Western societies.

Attitudes Contradict Franco
Such attitudes contradict everything the regime of 81-year-old Generalissimo Francisco Franco stands for. The Franco regime is authoritarian, anti-Marxist and supports every cornerstone of Roman Catholic morality.

Every year, Franco awards cash and a flat to the Spanish family with the most children.

Censors hastily remove every exposed bosom from public view. Spain's main underground publication is Playboy magazine which fetches five times its U.S. price on the black market and whose possession recently netted a youth a four month prison sentence for "scandalizing" the policemen who searched his home.

Divorce and abortion—both banned—may not be advocated publicly. The press enjoys increasing freedom but cannot print criticism of Franco or advocate a change to Western-type democracy.

Church Surveys
Still, in the realm of politics, the regime probably welcomed the result of an opinion poll recently published in the liberal-oriented magazine Cambio 16. The survey, conducted by pollster Lee Burnett's Spanish subsidiary, asked a large sampling of Spaniards whether they would like the present political situation to continue for another 30 years. The result, Cambio 16 reported, was 42.5 per cent favorable, with 31.5 per cent undecided.

In another poll, the newspaper Informaciones reported that nearly two thirds of questioned Spaniards professed to take "no interest whatever" in politics, and only one in 20 was "very interested." The question mark behind such surveys in a one-party state is whether those questioned are not overly cautious.

Publication of such polls has just begun and is still largely restricted to two classes of publications. They are magazines such as Cambio 16, used to bouts with the censor, and church-sponsored books and reviews which have the Roman Catholic hierarchy shielding them.

It was a survey by Jesuits that revealed that about half of those questioned favored a divorce law. And it was an official church survey reporting that by far the strongest political current in the Spanish clergy is socialism.

Bottled Water Standards Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — New government standards for bottled water limit the amount of added fluoride and the concentration of chemicals it can contain. The standards were set by the Federal Food and Drug Administration, which also limits radioactivity content, bacterial count and other impurities that affect color and odor.

Bottled water that fails to meet these standards must be labeled as below quality.

NUDE CIRCUS

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — "Circus Bang Bang," a nude circus revue featuring singing, dancing and juggling, has opened in the Boom Boom Room of the Fontainebleau Hotel here for an indefinite period.

Pentagon Provides Own Glossary For Officers

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The KISS principle, according to a new Army staff officer's guidebook, means "keep it simple, stupid."

The glossary is included in a 125-page paperback guidebook stocked with information on staff procedures, sample forms, telephone numbers, and personal services available during a duty tour in the "puzzle palace" (i.e., the Pentagon).

or other training aids." If someone tells him his staff paper is "flaky," he will know it "contains conclusions and recommendations that will not hold up under hard analysis."

This bit of advice is among hundreds of terms in a glossary intended to help an officer freshly assigned to the Pentagon understand some of the jargon he'll hear around the building.

When a new staff officer is told he is to attend a "dog and pony show," he need only flip to page 81 and find that is "a briefing which uses a number of viewgraph slides, flip charts,

His boss may criticize his paper's "fog index" as too high, in which case he will look for ways to make its wording less obscure and more readable."

Once he gets his boss' okay, he will have to scurry around and try to persuade all the interested agencies to "read off the same sheet of music" (get them coordinated into a common position).

Thornsby...

"Five'll get you ten she came in a plain, brown wrapper!"

In the course of this bureaucratic exercise, he may find that the final wording of his staff paper amounts to a "waffle" (the "intentional or unintentional use of phraseology which skirts the issue").

Above all, he will try to avoid a "glitch" (error) or to minimize "heartburn" (serious disagreement).

He may find himself greeted by fellow officers affectionately as a "cannon cocker" (if he is an artillery man) or referred to somewhat disdainfully as a "muddy boots" (if he came from the infantry).

If he is ambitious to become a general some day, he'll want to be known as a "water walker" (or, as the guidebook puts it, "an officer with a singularly outstanding military record; usually an officer who has been selected for one or more early promotions").

Small Company Can Up Output

MOORESTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Small companies can often gain more from productivity improvement efforts than large, according to a management services firm here.

From its experience, Science Management Corp. says these actions are the key to achieving higher productivity:

- Ask employees to identify obstacles to their productivity.
- Identify duplication of efforts.
- Establish output targets.
- Analyze differences in departmental work output.
- Investigate cross-training personnel.
- Proceed carefully to assure that benefits will be real and lasting.
- Have a top-level executive direct the improvement effort, so that employees will know it is important.

House Hearing Interests BBC

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—When and if the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation finally goes into public session, Michael Townson hopes to help Britain and Europe get a clear picture of it all.

A British Broadcasting Corp. official, he's responsible for coordinating the direct-via-satellite TV reports of English and European newsmen assigned to cover the committee's public hearings.

And he'll run their satellite pool from battle stations at WTTG in Washington, getting the sound and TV view of the hearings from a coverage pool run by America's commercial networks and public TV.

"We have quite an interesting operation at WTTG," understated Townson, who had the same job last summer during the televised Senate Watergate hearings.

"The English and European broadcasters who want to come in and we edit, under my control, a daily package of the hearings to which each adds his own commentary.

"So it's quite a tower of Babel down at WTTG, reporting the presidential problems." Townson, executive editor of the BBC's current affairs unit, said the tower this summer will broadcast for newsmen sent by the BBC and ITN, a news firm serving England's commercial networks, and RTE, the Republic of Ireland's television network.

"It'll also work for reporters from Dutch and Scandinavian networks, he said, as well as for newsmen from French, Italian and German TV.

He said the pattern of satellite reports would be basically the same as during the Watergate hearings, when "every day there was testimony we'd send over a daily package running 15 to 30 minutes."

The reporters had the option of taping their separate opening and closing comments on camera, adding off-camera narration, or doing both to go with edited highlights of the day's testimony.

Then the whole thing was transmitted across the Atlantic, where editors from participating networks culled their man's report and weaved it into the Watergate excerpts for their own news shows.

Since the introduction of point-count bidding, the gap between the expert and the amateur in that aspect of bridge has shrunk considerably, and I like to think that my writings contributed to this development. When it comes to the play of the cards, however, the gulf is still pronounced, and this is particularly true of defense.

The auction started off in a straightforward manner. Because of his wealth of controls and good support for spades, North realized that the combined holdings might offer play for slam, so he went out of his way to bid two suits before jump-raising his partner's first suit, thus pinpointing his heart shortness. With the hands obviously fitting rather well, South checked on aces and settled in the small slam when he found he was off an ace.

West was British internationalist Tony Priddy, and he had been tuned into the auction. In an effort to cut down dummy's ruffing potential, he led a trump. The success of the contract obviously hinged on developing the heart suit, so declarer, Andy Gabrielovitch, one of the leading players in the U. S., won the opening lead with the queen and led a heart to his nine. Despite the fact that he held the queen, Priddy won smoothly with the ace!

From declarer's point of view, this seemed to mark East with the queen of hearts. Therefore, when West returned a second trump, declarer won in dummy, crossed to his hand with the ace of diamonds and ruffed a heart with dummy's remaining trump, hoping that East had started with the queen-third in hearts. Ace of clubs and a club ruff put declarer back in his hand to draw the last trump and cash the king of hearts. When the queen failed to drop, he surrendered a heart trick for down one.

Note that declarer is almost forced to make the contact if Priddy wins the first heart with the queen. After winning the second round of trumps, declarer's best chance is to take a ruffing finesse for the ace of hearts. When this succeeds, he is home.

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 30 through June 5.

HOUSE
FEDERAL RESERVE AUDIT Passed, 224 for and 139 against, an amendment to limit congressional audits of the Federal Reserve Board to the agency's operating expenses.

In approving the amendment, the House weakened a section of a bill to audit all Federal Reserve Board operations, including credit and securities transactions.

The board is an independent agency that regulates national monetary policy—the supply of money—by buying and selling dollars to banks.

The audit would be conducted by the General Accounting

Office, an arm of Congress. The House later approved the overall bill (H.R. 10265) and sent it to the Senate.

Supporters argued that broad audit powers would undermine the board's independence. They said technical banking decisions should be left to the experts.

Rep. Margaret Heckler (R-Mass) said monetary policy should not "be publicly judged on short-term political criteria."

Opponents argued that the board is too independent and should be subjected to the control of Congress. Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis) said the issue was "whether Congress would be a toothless tiger, or whether it will be keeping tabs" on monetary policy.

Reps. L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3) Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9), Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Rep. Walter Jones (D-1) voted "nay."
Rep. James Broyhill (R-10) did not vote.

HOSPITAL LABOR UNIONS Rejected, 152 for and 161 against, an amendment giving pre-eminence to state laws that are "substantially equivalent" to a proposed federal law permitting employees of non-profit hospitals to form labor unions.

The amendment was offered to a bill (H.R. 13678) that would grant such employees the right to unionize, which was later passed and sent to conference.

The bill would prohibit wildcat strikes and other interruptions in patient care.

One supporter of the amendment, Rep. Albert Quie (R-Minn), argued against preempting state laws that are demonstrably superior to federal regulations.

Opponents argued that there must be uniformity in national laws with respect to labor unions.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Ruth and Taylor voted "yea."
Andrews, Martin and Broyhill did not vote.

SUGAR Rejected, 175 for and 209 against, a bill to extend for five years the federal program of price supports and import quotas for the benefit of domestic sugar producers.

In rejecting the bill (H.R. 14747), the House voted to kill the 40-year-old program. The Senate could attempt to revive it.

The subsidies have encouraged domestic production and have been paid for by taxes on imported sugar. About 50 percent of the nation's sugar needs come from foreign sources.

Supporters argued that without price supports domestic producers would turn from sugar to more profitable crops, thus forcing more dependence on imported sugar. Rep. W. R. Poage (D-Texas) said unlimited imports could "completely destroy both the cane and beet industries in this country."

Opponents argued that the program creates artificially high prices for sugar. Rep. William Broomfield (R-Mich) said American consumers pay "over $600 million annually... to support a noncompetitive industry."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Mizell, Rose, Ruth and Taylor voted "yea."

Martin and Broyhill voted "nay."

Andrews and Preyer did not vote.

SENATE

FBI FILES Passed, 51 for and 33 against, an amendment to open the files of the FBI and other investigatory agencies, except when a person's trial rights would be jeopardized.

The amendment was offered to S. 2543, a bill to perfect the Freedom of Information Act of 1966. The overall bill was later passed and sent to conference.

Under the amendment, the FBI could protect its informers by deleting names from released material.

Supporters argued that the public deserves to know how the FBI operates, and that public access to such files would protect against abuses of power such as those associated with Watergate. Sen. Lowell Weicker (R-Conn) said it is Congress' responsibility to "exercise supervision over all agencies of government."

Opponents argued that public access to FBI files would scare off informants. They said the Freedom of Information Act originally was intended to focus on regulatory agencies, not investigatory agencies. Sen. Roman Hruska (R-Neb) said, "The first duty of a nation is to survive... This nation cannot survive if we are not able to deal with the lawless elements."

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."
CIA BUDGET Rejected, 33 for and 55 against, an amendment to require yearly publication of the total—but not itemized—Central Intelligence Agency budget.

In rejecting the amendment, the Senate voted to keep the CIA's budget secret. At present, a congressional oversight committee can learn how much the CIA spends, but it cannot make the information public.

The amendment was offered to S. 3000, a bill to authorize money for procuring military weapons.

Supporters argued that the public should know how many billions are spent each year for intelligence gathering. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) said, "We have to run our intelligence agencies in a democratic environment."

Opponents argued that publishing the CIA's budget would permit the Soviets to trace where the money goes. They said confidential disclosure permits a congressional check on waste, without jeopardizing national security. Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) said disclosure would be "like loose string on a ball of twine... that starts to unravel."

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

B-1 BOMBER Rejected, 31 for and 59 against, an amendment to slice funds for developing the controversial B-1 Bomber.

The amendment was offered to the military weapons bill. It called for reducing the bomber's fiscal 1975 authorization from $455 million to $200 million, and for further study of the bomber's effectiveness.

The B-1 is designed to be America's manned strategic bomber of the future, and operational by 1980.

Those voting to slice funds argued that cost overruns have made the bomber a white elephant. They said existing strategic bombers are good enough to allow more time to study the B-1. Sen. George McGovern (D-S.D.) said the cutback "will save us a quarter of a billion dollars of urgently needed funds."

Opponents argued that studies have shown the bomber will work and that delaying its production endangers the nation's security. They said much of the cost overrun results from inflation, not mismanagement. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) said, "There are so many advantages of the B-1, that I think we have to go on with it."

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."
VIET POLITICAL PRISONERS Rejected, 32 for and 57 against, an amendment to cut off military aid to the government of South Vietnam until it "has released all persons" who have been imprisoned without trials.

The State Department has said that South Vietnam does not have such prisoners. Other sources report that up to 200,000 persons have been locked up in South Vietnamese jails without being tried in court.

The amendment was offered to the military weapons bill.

In supporting the amendment, Sen. James Abourezk (D-S.D.) said, "If the Government of South Vietnam is guilty of such acts... I believe we have no choice but to stop our military support of that government."

In opposing the amendment,

Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) said the measure would set a precedent "which is totally impractical in terms of the formulation and conduct of American foreign policy." Other opponents argued against cutting aid to a nation that has fought so long for its independence.

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

A Muffler On Premier's Wife

By FENTON WHEELER
Associated Press Writer
LISBON, Portugal (AP) — "In Portugal now, four million women have the right to speak out. One does not and it's me," says Mrs. Palma Carlos, wife of the country's new premier. She adds: "You can hardly hit the premier with women's lib when he comes home from a hard day at office."

But few if any women in Portugal today have better qualifications to speak out on women's rights than the 70-year-old writer-lawyer. For years she has been fighting for those rights, a tiny ripple in a sea of supermasculinity.

In another place and another time, perhaps Elina Guimaraes, her maiden and professional name, might have become a Portuguese Golda Meir or Indira Gandhi.

The daughter of former Premier Vitorino Guimaraes, she began at age 7 by writing on her toys: "Women should vote."

Since then she has written more than 100 newspaper articles on women's rights, or the lack of them in Portugal.

She and Palma Carlos were married in 1926.

"I am a feminist," says Mrs. Palma Carlos. "I have been for 60 years. As a simple citizen I could say anything I liked, as the wife of the premier I am restricted."

The mother of two grown sons, Mrs. Palma Carlos says she will not use her new position to encourage women's liberation or to try to influence her husband.

"We respect each other's views. He knows what I think. But I would not dream of asking him what as premier he has done about women's liberation. It would be an intrusion."

Nevertheless, she has firm ideas on what changes for women should be included in the new Portuguese revolution.

Divorce, a revolution all by itself in Catholic Portugal, should be permitted if both people want it, Mrs. Palma Carlos says. She is against abortion as "infanticide—I oppose it as I do the death penalty, there is right to take human life."

Portugal law, she adds, needs to be enforced for a change to rid the country of widespread prostitution and child labor abuses.

But she says she will not take an active part in seeking reform affecting women.

"Your women think of me as a museum piece. I belong to the silent generation that never managed to speak out but somehow was able to say no." She acknowledges that she is not overjoyed that her husband is premier.

"It is a terrible load a man has to carry. I know because of my father."

Palma Carlos is scheduled to continue as premier of the provisional government until elections next spring. But he could be elected then to the same post President Antonio de Spínola named him to three weeks ago.

Mrs. Palma Carlos appears to be looking ahead already: "He had to take the job for a year. We don't know how this will end but he will be in it together. After that, we will go, as they say, and look at the birds and flowers."

Woman Animal Keeper To Quit

DETROIT (AP) — Barbara Schemanski, the Detroit Zoo's first woman animal keeper, has decided she'd rather shuffle papers than shovel up after animal friends.

Miss Schemanski, 21, is quitting her job as animal keeper after only a month, and returning to her clerical job on the zoo staff.

"I've decided I'm just not suited to this kind of work," said Miss Schemanski, who joined 26 male animal keepers four weeks ago.

A GIFT FOR THE PRINCESS—Noor Hussein, Pakistani woodcarver and World War I British Army veteran, sits on a solid teak chair surrounded by a matching bed he made as a wedding gift for Britain's Princess Anne. On his first try to deliver the gift, a series of misfortunes ended in his deportation from Britain, but sympathetic persons raised a fund to bring him back and he was given a letter from Princess Anne thanking him Monday. Cyprus Gardens Is Always Open CYPRESS GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — The Cypress Gardens of Florida, open year round, feature over 9,000 varieties of plants and flowers gathered from all parts of the world. There are 1½ miles of waterways and 6,035 feet of pathways through the gardens. A water ski revue is presented four times a day and Delta Kites performances are also displayed regularly. The Cypress Gardens are near Winter Haven, 30 miles from Disney World.

Bum Checks Are Big Annual Loss

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Losses from bad checks are between $500 million and $1 billion annually, according to Lee Ault III, president of Telecredit Inc., a Los Angeles-based loss prevention and recovery service.

Ault claims that more than 3,200 potential bad check writers were prevented from practicing their deceit thanks to Telecredit's on-line check verification system — a computerized information program keyed to driver's license numbers.

The Worry Clinic Brought Down To Their Level

Martin fails to understand a girl's paradoxical sex attitude toward men. He thinks their raving about his long hair, means they are attracted to him. Instead, it lessens the gap between the sexes and that kills zestful romance!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-655: Martin B., aged 17, is a hippie high schooler. "Dr. Crane," he asked during a high school forum, "why do you oppose long hair on men?" "For I find that girls are delighted with the boys who have long, curly locks.

"And they enjoy seeing boys bake a cake or sew and perform other household duties usually reserved for women.

"If girls show such pleasure in having boys imitate them, doesn't that make us more attractive to them?"

Female Secrets

Girls start out in life somewhat over-awed by their taller, stronger male classmates.

Even as toddlers, they sense the fact that Daddy's voice is deeper and carries more authority.

So girls have a subconscious desire to lessen this gap between male prestige and woman's weaker status.

Women's Libbers show this same childish carry-over.

After puberty, however, mature women then realize they have compensating charms that give them considerable psychological power over the mere physical superiority of the male.

But in Junior and Senior High, the girls still retain much of that earlier awe for the male sex.

So they try to be elevated to the status of men by eagerly adopting slacks, jeans, cigarettes, liquor, etc.

And they relish bringing the supposedly superior male sex down to their own inferior level.

So that is why they are delighted when boys imitate the long hair usually linked with females.

It also explains why they giggle and enjoy seeing a man try to cook a meal or diaper a baby or sew or perform any other girlish chore.

For he is thereby brought down to their own level and this inflates their teen-age ego.

The result is akin to what happens when a boss calls his workers by their first name.

For they feel a gain in social status by this apparent equality with a superior power.

But no smart employer permits workers to call him by his first name, and neither does a doctor, professor, clergyman, general, admiral, or other member of the higher echelon group!

For when the office boy calls the boss by his first name, that intimates equality, so the office boy gains in status but meanwhile the boss is lowered and soon disdained!

Girls thus enjoy having men imitate them, for they feel this lowers the male's former superior status!

Virile men thus resent having coeds imitate them and regard such females as social climbers.

Remember, women cannot feel 100 percent romantic about a man who is their equal!

Always, they need to stand in some awe of their mate, if they are to glean the maximum erotic thrills in marriage!

That's an axiom which Women's Libbers should memorize!

It helps explain the zooming divorce rate, for virility not equality is the basis of male charisma!

Send for my booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Autograph Collector Sees No Cure For Mania

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — John Taeni admits that he has been "sick" for nearly 60 years — his "sickness" is collecting autographs.

At age 73 he works a full day as a stockbroker, then works four or five hours every night on his vast collection. And he has no intention of giving up either job.

"As long as I have my eyes open and can write, I will continue," he says of the labor involved in updating and adding to the more than 70,000 items that already overflow the floor-to-ceiling cabinets lining his spacious living room in an upper East Side Manhattan apartment.

Included in his extensive array of scrapbooks, meticulously catalogued, are signatures of every U.S. president and most of the first ladies, all of the vice presidents and all but a few Cabinet members since 1789 and most U.S. senators and representatives, as well as Supreme Court justices, from that date on.

"I have all the Nazis from Hitler to Hess, all the Hapsburgs, Napoleon, Josephine and Marie Louise, Louis XIV, Marie Antoinette," he says of his collection dating back to 14th-century signatures on parchment.

"Former and present heads of states in every part of the world," he enumerates, "religious leaders, Popes, Kings, all the high U.N. officials, 1,600 British generals, 5,560 American generals, 2,590 U.S. admirals, all the astronauts.

"From the beginning of Israel I have everyone; there is no country not represented," adds the Austrian-born Taeni, who holds a doctorate in economics from the University of Vienna and has a phenomenal knowledge of U.S. and world history. "And I have all the important Watergate people."

The card or document bearing the signature is mounted in a scrapbook along with a painting or photograph and pertinent data concerning the historical figure.

"Every single night I work — filling cards, adding new events in each person's career, whether promoted, demoted, if he resigns, if he dies. And I write letters, asking for signatures; every time a new independent nation is formed, every time there's a revolution it means more work," he says. "Very often I say 'it's the last time,' and here are 20 letters to write — all by hand."

His guidelines dictate that additions must be persons in the general area of history and politics. Though few scientists, no matter how famous, are included, Einstein has a place "because the atomic bomb influenced the history of the world. I have to stop somewhere or I'd have 300,000 signatures and we'd have to move out."

It all started in 1916 when Taeni was a 16-year-old student in a Viennese gymnasium, or high school.

"I made a bet for a few pennies that I would get von Hindenburg's signature. I wrote a letter asking for it and he sent it to me on a card. After I got that autograph I got sick — and my sickness is collecting. When I was young I spent all my money going to every auction in Europe and buying what I could," related Taeni, who came to this country in 1938.

In general, the people to whom he now writes are responsive because he is widely known, but sometimes he has to write more than once. Khrushchev failed to answer and he was forced to buy the Soviet leader's autograph from an employee of the Russian embassy in Bonn.

"I had Eisenhower's signature with the generals and when he became President I tried several times to get another for the President group. Finally my wife wrote to Mamie and asked her to intervene on my behalf and I got it. One man who never replied and whose signature I would most love to get hold of is Stalin. I have dealers in Europe looking for an authentic one."

Though Taeni has made a study of graphology he makes no attempt to analyze the handwriting of the signatures, which range from spindly Arabic to brush-stroked Japanese characters.

Taeni and his wife, who is also a stockbroker and partner in her husband's firm, have no children, but he considers his collection his "child."

"For me it was the most important thing in the last 50 years. I wouldn't sell it for $10 million; I wouldn't sell it for anything," he says emphatically. "It couldn't be replaced for any amount of money."

Taeni claims he so far hasn't made any decision on what will eventually become of his collection. "I plan to live to be 100," he says.

PAGE FROM HISTORY—John Taeni holds photograph of George Washington and document bearing the first U.S. President's signature, one of the thousands of autographs he has amassed in more than half a century of collecting. In background are a few of the hundreds of scrapbooks that fill cabinets along the walls of his Manhattan apartment.

Project Seeks Bird-Control

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon State University zoologist Dr. John A. Wiens is heading a research program to develop methods of preserving and managing beneficial bird populations, and controlling those considered damaging pests.

The project has produced a computer simulation model to analyze and estimate changes in bird population density and energy demands of bird populations. The computer model also is being used to estimate fish consumption by seabirds along the Oregon coast.

More Foreign Matters In Food

LONDON (UPI) — Foreign matter found in foods is causing "great concern," according to a report of the Association of Public Health inspectors.

A report said 13,059 cases were reported in 1972, compared with 8,020 in 1969.

Hard Times For Newspaper Men

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (UPI) — The declining days of the Civil War brought hard times to newspapermen in the South.

In June, 1865, the Milledgeville Southern Recorder reported that for two months it had made no effort to collect money from its readers but hoped that some payments in food would be made so the paper's employees could be fed.

EXPENSIVE
URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Research at the University of Illinois found that increasing fuel delivery by adjusting the fuel pump of a diesel tractor raised horsepower as much as 25 per cent, but also required an additional 43 per cent in fuel delivery.

The largest employment group in the San Francisco Bay area is government, according to the Bank of America.

Demo Precinct Meetings Set

The biennial Democratic precinct meetings for Pitt County will be held June 18 at 8 p.m. at the voting place in each precinct, according to county Democratic Executive Committee chairman Henry Oglesby.

According to Oglesby, a chairman, three vice-chairmen and a secretary-treasurer are to be selected for each precinct, as well as delegates to the county convention. Each precinct, he explained is allocated one delegate for each 50 voters casting ballots for the Democratic nominee for Governor in 1972 in that precinct.

There must be at least 10 active Democrats present at each of the precinct meetings for them to be legal, Oglesby noted, and the selection of the precinct committee "should bear a reasonable relationship" to the make-up of the Democrats in the precinct as to age, sex, race and ethnic background.

The Pitt County Democratic Convention will be held at 2 p.m. June 29 at the Pitt County Court House, while the First Congressional District convention will be held in Washington on July 20 at 1 p.m. The state Democratic Convention is scheduled for 11 a.m. August 3 in Raleigh.

Says 49-Hours Is Tub Record

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — The record for sitting in a bathtub full of water is 49 hours, Gene Sparks, Leeburg, Ore., set the record as a lark with a friend. At the completion of the wet sit-in in downtown Eugene, Sparks, who beat his friend by a half hour, said, "I feel like a prune."

CUT TO ORDER
DOUGLSTON, N.Y. (UPI) — A new restaurant in this suburb of New York City features steak by the ounce—from 55 to 70 cents an ounce, depending on the cut. The steaks are cut to order for each guest and grilled on an open hearth.
