Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Nixon wound up his triumphant visit to Egypt today with an announcement that the United States would provide large-scale aid to Egypt for agricultural and industrial development, including nuclear power.

After an overnight stay in Alexandria, a visit to the Pyramids and a final conference, Nixon and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt appeared together at a ceremony in Cairo to announce a joint statement of principles. It included agreements worked out earlier by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Sadat.

No figures were given on what the aid would cost.

Nixon was leaving at mid-afternoon for Saudi Arabia, the second stop on his five-nation tour of the Middle East.

The joint statement said the American and Egyptian governments will negotiate an agreement to enable Egypt to generate nuclear power by the early 1980s. "Upon conclusion of such an agreement, the United States is prepared to sell nuclear reactors and fuel to Egypt," the statement said.

In the meantime, the United States and Egypt will conclude "a provisional agreement for the sale of nuclear fuel to Egypt," it added.

The joint agreement did not specifically prohibit Egypt from using American nuclear aid for weapons. But the United States is bound by the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty to insure that any nuclear assistance it provides does not end up in weapons, and the announcement today said the sale of nuclear material to Egypt would be "under agreed safeguards."

This American aid would enable Egypt to close some of the nuclear gap between it and Israel, which has two nuclear reactors and numerous first-rate scientists. Israel's leaders have said repeatedly they have no intention of producing nuclear arms, but political and military observers in Europe and the United States are convinced Israel is able to turn out such arms.

Nixon pledged American money, capital investment and technological aid to help with Egypt's reconstruction, industrialization, agricultural improvement and scientific and educational advancement as well as "to help strengthen the financial structure of Egypt."

The statement said Treasury Secretary William E. Simon would visit Cairo soon to get this started.

Nixon already has asked Congress for $250 million in economic aid for Egypt in fiscal 1975. The statement said joint committees will be set up to work out projects and proposals.

They will deal specifically with reconstruction of the Suez Canal, increased trade and investment, agriculture, scientific and research development with "special emphasis on the exchange of scientists," medical cooperation and cultural exchanges.

As a token of the new spirit of cooperation between the two governments, the U. S. government said it would assist in the reconstruction of the Cairo Opera House, and the Egyptian government will send the collection of treasures from the tomb of King Tutankhamen to the United States for exhibition.

AN ANNIVERSARY ALBUM
I was married in June of last year and used Mark Cayton as the photographer. We paid him $50 in advance. We got our proofs and placed an order for prints, but haven't received them yet. We have tried to contact him, but he has moved to Rocky Mount. Can you help us get our money or pictures. Mrs. G.M.

You should have your wedding pictures by your first anniversary.

Cayton, who now is employed by a commercial studio, admitted he has been tardy in getting the order off. He said after you were married he had asked you to return the proofs within 10 days, as he was planning to move. You did not return the proofs and the order until October. You said Cayton contacted you after Hotline talked to him. Two weeks later he said your album was ready for delivery.

NEW FARM MINIMUM WAGE
I'd like to know what the farm minimum wage will be this year. C. B. H.

J. E. Mangum of the local U. S. Wage and Hour Office said the minimum wage for agricultural workers has gone up from $1.30 to $1.60 an hour, effective May 1, 1974. This applies to any employer who used 500 or more man-days of hired labor during the calendar quarter in the previous year. Minimum wage paid by other employers must be $2 per hour for those who were covered by wage and hour laws prior to 1966. It's $1.90 for those who came under the laws in 1966 or afterward. Mangum said he would be glad to give more information to anyone who needs it. His office phone number is 758-5385.

RESCUE OR AMBULANCE?
Some people are having trouble knowing when to call the rescue squad and when to get ambulance service. Which service responds to what kind of call and what are the charges? D.P.

The nearest rescue squad—and there are seven in Pitt County—should be called when a condition appears to be life-threatening and time is a factor. Accidental injury, an apparent heart attack or stroke, or hemorrhaging would be examples. Rescue squads are chartered as non-profit organizations, and they cannot charge for their services, though donations are welcomed.

The Pitt Ambulance Service may be used for any trip for medical treatment which can be planned. The charge is $25 one way within Pitt County, with half this fee for the trip back, if it's made in the daytime. On trips out of the county, mileage is counted from the county line, and it's 80 cents a mile, John Watson, director of the Ambulance Service said.

Everyone should have his nearest rescue squad number posted prominently near his phone, says Billy Woolfolk of the Greenville Rescue Squad. The telephone operator will quickly put you through to the Rescuers if you're too alarmed to look up or dial the number, though, he said.

The Ambulance Service may be called through the Pitt Memorial Hospital switchboard, 752-5141.

Marine Band To Launch Summer Park Programs

The Second Marine Aircraft Wing Band from Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station is scheduled to perform in the first "Summer In The Park" series here Sunday on the mall on Reade Street, between Third and Fourth Streets.

Included in the band's 7 p.m. performance will be marches, patriotic and popular tunes by the 25-member band and "hot licks" by the smaller Marine stage band.

Lt. Jesse O. Sunderland, director of the band said the Marine musicians are "looking forward to the occasion and I hope there is a good turnout. A large, receptive audience turns these guys on and they will put on a fine concert in return."

The 2nd MAW band was organized in 1943 in the Pacific Theater of Operations and has been home based at Cherry Point since 1946. It is one of three Marine Corps Bands—including the "President's Own" Marine Band in Washington, D.C.—to be awarded the Meritorious Unit Commendation for meritorious service in fulfilling its varied commitments.

The band has traveled more than 300,000 miles since 1946 and performed at such nationally known festivities as the Mardi Gras in New Orleans; the Cotton Bowl Parade in Dallas; the Kentucky Derby Parade in Louisville and the Indy "500" Parade in Indianapolis, as well as many others.

Band Officer Sunderland is a Missouri native who joined the Marine Corps in 1952. After over 20 years as an enlisted Marine, Sunderland was commissioned a Band Officer five days before receiving his degree in music from the United States International University at San Diego, California a year ago this month.

A flutist, Lt. Sunderland played with the Savannah, Georgia Symphony Orchestra for four years while stationed with the Marine Band at Parris Island, S.C. and during the Vietnam conflict, he was bandmaster of the First Marine Division Band near Da Nang.

The officers decorations include the Navy Commendation Medal, awarded for meritorious service with the First Division Band in concert performances and for his participation in the band's defensive role as a machine gun platoon at night, guarding the approaches to the First Division Headquarters in Vietnam.

RALEIGH (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan today accused Gov. Jim Holshouser's Republican administration of "political skulduggery" as he announced he is resigning from his state office Aug. 26.

Morgan, the Democratic nominee for the U. S. Senate, told a news conference he had moved up his resignation date from Sept. 15 because the Republican-dominated Board of Elections voted 4-1 Thursday for a resolution barring late printing of ballots for the November general election.

Morgan said Holshouser, acting through his appointees to the board, "caused a resolution to be adopted...stating that they would not print the names of any candidate for attorney general on the general election ballot unless those names were certified to him after I had actually left office."

He said the action "on the part of Gov. Holshouser's appointees is the most obvious kind of political skulduggery."

"The law is, in my opinion, clear that I could today render my resignation to be effective at a future time, creating thereby a vacancy that would allow each party's selected candidates and ballots to be printed prior to the date that I left office," Morgan said.

"The arbitrary act of the Board of Elections makes it impossible for the ballots to be printed prior to Sept. 5 as the law requires were I to resign as originally intended on Sept. 15."

Morgan said the governor's appointees to the board disregarded the advice of their legal counsel and refused the request of one board member that he be allowed time to study the resolution before voting on it.

Morgan said the board's action, "when viewed in the light of Gov. Holshouser's unprecedented statement on Monday appointing someone to a vacancy that did not exist, is no doubt part of a well-planned scheme to take over at the earliest possible date the attorney general's office and the State Bureau of Investigation."

Morgan was referring to Holshouser's announcement that he planned to appoint Appeals Court Judge James H. Carson Jr. as attorney

Cable Is Shot Out

Long distance telephone toll facilities affecting Greenville, Washington, and Rocky Mount were temporarily put out of service last night when a cable was severed by a shot from a high caliber pistol, according to Carolina Telephone spokesman.

Greenville commercial district manager Don Collier said this morning that the cable was hit around 10:20 p.m. last night.

The cable was located on Highway 33 east of Pactolus near the Tranter's Creek Bridge, according to Collier.

More than 188 long distance circuits were placed out of service by the damage.

"Crews from Washington and Greenville had restored the damaged facilities by 4:35 a.m. today," Collier added.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson stated the damage was caused by a shot from a high caliber hand gun.

The Harvest Begins

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN—It's the time of the year when farmers in the area begin harvesting their crops of tobacco. First reported tobacco being harvested, was on the Ruby Stokes Cutrell farm on Route 3, Greenville. The crop which is tended by Mack Dixon, who said that he expected to house approximately three and a half acres the first day. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest) general as soon as Morgan resigned.

"The action of the State Board of Elections left me with two choices," Morgan said.

"First, I could have challenged and vacated the actions of the governor and his appointees in the courts; or secondly, I could have resigned at an earlier date," Morgan said.

"I have declined to follow the first course because I do not believe that the election of my successor should be clouded by lengthy litigation in the courts that might possibly drag on to the extent that all of the people might well be deprived of their ultimate right to choose my successor," he said.

Morgan said he would submit his resignation to Holshouser and to Secretary of State Thad Eure.

Ehrlichman To Be Tried With Other Plumber Defendants

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell today ordered former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman to stand trial along with other defendants in the Plumbers case. The judge set a new trial date of June 26.

After nearly three weeks of struggle with the White House over the issue of executive privilege, Gesell said President Nixon has allowed sufficient access to White House files for Ehrlichman's trial to go forward.

Gesell said he had wanted to make sure Ehrlichman would have access to specific files left behind in the White House which might aid his case.

"That has taken place," Gesell said.

Ehrlichman and three other defendants originally were scheduled to go on trial next Monday in connection with the 1971 break-in at the office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, a Beverly Hills, Calif., psychiatrist who treated Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

But earlier this week, Gesell said he would sever Ehrlichman's case from that of the other three defendants because of an apparent impasse over Ehrlichman's attempt to gain access to his White House files. Gesell said at that time that Ehrlichman would be tried later.

The break in the legal logjam came Wednesday, when President Nixon waived executive privilege for some documents then in the judge's hands.

Until then, Nixon had been asserting ultimate authority to decide if those documents, handwritten notes of Ehrlichman's, could be admitted as evidence in the coming trial.

Playclothes For Little Girls

THE GIRLS OF SUMMER—Sugar and spice and everything nice, that's the way little girls used to dress, but in the summer of '74 they dress for action. The perfect answer: pretty things that play hard and still look sweet. Classy Togs combine the best of both worlds in new dress-and-

Don't Mention Your Age, Or His

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I met a man four months ago and I fell—but hard. He guessed my age to be "about 65," but I am 72. I guessed his age to be "about 70," but I really don't know how old he is. He acts crazy about me and is giving me a rush. There are a lot of younger women after him and I am afraid if I tell him my right age I will lose him.

If we should ever go for a marriage license do I have to give my right age? Please help me, Abby. I want this man. He makes me feel like sweet 16. IN LOVE IN L. A.

DEAR IN: Forget about age. Yours and his. And don't mention it unless he does. Then it's truth and consequences.

DEAR ABBY: I think my new husband [age 39] has more than a fatherly interest in my daughter. Lisa is 22. I am 45, but I look about 35.

It all started when I invited Lisa to come along on our honeymoon to make her feel like "one of the family." She is my only child and we've always been very close. She has been away at college, but now that she's graduated she is home, living with us.

Shortly after our honeymoon trip, my husband started taking Lisa out for lunch and buying her new clothes. Then I noticed that Lisa had lost interest in friends her own age. Maybe it's just my imagination, but I've seen some of the looks that have passed between them and I think something is going on.

I don't want to make a fool of myself, but I'd like to clear the air. I don't even know how to bring up the subject. Should I question her? Or him? What if all of this is just in my mind? NOT SURE

DEAR NOT: If you're not sure, don't question anybody. Keep your eyes open. If there is something to your suspicions, it will come out. In the meantime, you might ask Lisa if she ever considered having her own pad. Three's a crowd.

DEAR ABBY: This will probably throw you. My husband is the best! He's a good provider, we have a nice home, he loves our kids, and spends his time and money on the house and family. The problem is MY frustrations. Our sexual relationship has dwindled to practically nothing.

He gives me the usual goodbye and hello kisses, but they're completely without feeling. He never really holds me, or caresses me. He kisses me like I was his sister.

Should the honeymoon be over after 12 years? Maybe I'm oversexed, but I don't think so. I'd be happy with a once-a-week treat, but it doesn't happen. I'm no sex-bomb, so don't suggest I meet him at the door in a see-through apron.

I mentioned a counselor once, but he couldn't understand why he needed one. Sometimes I'm so frustrated I could scream. I don't want to hurt his masculine ego. Must I learn to live with this, or is there a solution? FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Don't worry about hurting his masculine ego. Tell him what you've told me. But also ask him if he thinks you're doing your part in the "treat" department.

Executive Says Maturity Counts

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

A woman is just as old in England as she is in America these days — too old if she must worry about revealing her age.

"Somehow the age consciousness that Americans have a fetish about has drifted to England," observed Freddie Ross, 44.

It doesn't bother her, but occasionally the dynamic London business executive who operates in the man's world of gambling has her feathers ruffled.

"Sometimes I can feel my nose twitching as I restrain myself when people tell me not to mention my age. Why not? Sooner or later it must be recognized that maturity is important in business. The bright ideas of youth can be teamed with it to accelerate ideas, and it might also be useful to curb runaway enthusiasms."

And somebody should admit that women and men need each other in business, she remarked. Women's intuition can be combined with the male's analytical pursuits — they love to make charts and combine statistics — for the just-right "business chemistry," she insists. "But every woman needs a shut-up-darling person. My late husband was one. My bosses often tell me to shut up, but they don't add the darling."

She likes that attitude better than merely being tolerated at board meetings of the Coral Leisure group which she attends as "new developments" supervisor of their 10 divisions which include 269 bookmaking shops, bingo parlors, an enterprise that "is a cross between Coney Island and Atlantic City" and four prestigious gambling houses. The world-famed Crockford's gaming house has just been refurbished up to its 14-karat gold leaf ceilings. And 7 million pounds is being put into a new enterprise that will combine all forms of leisure.

"I dabble in all of it and they let me meddle although I'm not supposed to meddle. They used to think some of my ideas were silly, but some have paid off well, so now they listen when I say something at a meeting."

One idea suggested providing little bags of penny candy to gamblers who had to ride buses to a theater at 2 a.m. to see an American championship fight on television. The bosses seemed to think that after all that glamor — champagne, gourmet cuisine, gaming — the elegant crowd would laugh at her effort. But they loved it and now demand little bags before they board a bus.

An idea person, she has been working since she was 17 and likes to think about such things as "whether they wouldn't have more women visiting this restaurant if the lighting were better."

On a recent gambling holiday in Las Vegas — she can't play at the English houses — she enjoyed "the great entertainment." In London, the gambling houses are more formal, she emphasized.

For example, the girl croupiers, who are about 22 years old, wear long black skirts and white blouses. The image may be more "suffragette" than gaming house. A woman supervisor may even spot a girl wearing a black bra beneath her blouse. Such nonconformity is against the rules.

"Women are good croupiers because they are so good at concentration, but they must master the gambling language, and attend the school at Crockford's for six months," Freddie said.

But it wouldn't be too easy to have a mistake go unnoticed, judging by the progression of observers. The inspector watches the supervisor, a pit boss watches the inspector. And who knows what the assistant gaming director and director are watching as they wander about. "At Curzan House, the most elegant of all our gambling houses, the manager is a hold-out. He doesn't want lady croupiers, but that may be because he is within spitting distance of the Queen Mother's house," she observed.

Reception Given Couple On 50th Anniversary

GRIFTON—Mr. and Mrs. John Council Hooten were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception Sunday afternoon.

Hosts and hostesses were their children, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Oglesby and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Louis Smith.

Guests were received in the entrance hall by Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Oglesby of Kernersville and Mr. and Mrs. John Robert Hooten of Kinston.

Receiving with the honored couple were Mrs. Everett Harris of Grantsboro, Robert Johnson of Kinston, Mrs. L. H. Fountain of Tarboro, and Mrs. T. G. Jerome of Ashland, Va.

In the living room, the mantel was banked with greenery and interspersed with gold candles. An arrangement of mixed gold flowers was placed on a table opposite the mantel. Mr. and Mrs. Don Edman and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Summerlin of Mount Olive were at the register.

In the gift room, the table was covered with a gold cloth. Grandchildren receiving here were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gregory of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Smith of Kinston.

In the dining room, the table was covered with a gold cloth overlaid with a linen cutwork cloth. An arrangement of gold snapdragon and daisies was flanked by three branched candelabra.

Mrs. Jule Flythe of Mount Olive and Mrs. Henry Hooten of Iowa City poured punch. Small wedding cakes were cut and served by Mrs. Troy Holmes of Goldsboro, Mrs. Chester Hooten of LaGrange, Mrs. Dean Evans, Rinse blueberries. Place in saucepan. Cover with hot water and wine. Add sugar, lime slices and cinnamon stick. Bring to boil, then simmer slowly about 20 minutes. Put through colander lined with cheesecloth. Let soup cool, then chill thoroughly in refrigerator. At serving time, stir in sour cream, reserving enough for a generous dollop on each serving. Serves 6.

Assisting in the serving were granddaughters, Amy Smith, Leslie Smith of Deep Run, Janet Oglesby of Grifton and a niece, Nancy Dail Fountain of Tarboro.

Mrs. B. C. Langston of Kinston and Miss Sarah Alice Harris of Grantsboro directed guests to the refreshment table and Mrs. Robert Johnson and Mrs. Edward Hart to the gift room.

Others assisting in the home were sisters of Mr. Hooten, Mrs. Dempsy Smith of Pink Hill and Mrs. Will Carraway of Kinston. Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Marty Smith of Deep Run and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stevenson of Winston-Salem.

Miss Atkinson Entertained

Miss Carolyn Beatrice Atkinson, bride-elect, was entertained at a kitchen shower Wednesday night.

The bride's colors of yellow and Nile green were used in decorations. The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a bridal arrangement.

The honoree was remembered with a gift from the hostess, Mrs. Mavis Williams.

A bathing suit style that's equally good for sunning and swimming has a plunging back with a cross backstrap that unfastens for sunbathing.

Too Many Cannot Be Trusted

Senator Barry Goldwater put into words what a lot of people have been wondering about: too many "secrets" are being told.

Such things as testimony given grand juries, National Security Council discussions and actions, material supposedly "confidential" before the House Judiciary Committee, critical military or defense matters before Senate and House committees or within the upper echelons of the Pentagon itself, personal conversations that may be presumed confidential between policy-making officials in government . . . none of these seem to be outside the realm of "leaks" to the public, to interests that may profit thereby, to unfriendly governments or to friendly governments who might be offended by the frankness that presumed confidentiality engenders.

We concede the "secret" and "confidential" label has probably been used by a multitude of individuals, agencies and bureaus and governmental bodies to conceal errors and misjudgments and stupidities . . . and this we deplore and condemn; but at the same time, there have been disclosures beyond reason and understanding.

Such leakage can make the work of diplomacy and negotiation not only difficult but near-impossible. And one can visualize the problems inherent in developing and establishing new concepts in weaponry or defense policy when the question of trustworthiness and dependability and even loyalty in high government positions overshadows and influences every word, every act, every study and every discussion. The same concerns must be foremost in policy-making that affects such fields as foreign trade, monetary roles, new agricultural decisions, almost any field in which advance knowledge of federal planning wherein certain commercial interests conceivably could reap vast profits.

Leaks of confidential or secret information can do indelible damage to the cause of justice in our courts, injuring both the collective People and the rights of individual defendants.

In all such instances as given above, it is the people . . . all of the people in our land . . . who pay and pay and pay for indiscretions of the untrustworthy.

It would be a dereliction of duty for responsible lawmakers or officials of government, or members of the judiciary to ignore violations of trust and allow them to go unchecked.

We feel more than indignation and dismay over the violations of trust that have become commonplace; it is a matter of the deepest concern for every American and for all people who wish this country well.

The 'Invasion' Now Welcomed

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—In the 1940s, a foreign invasion of Tar Heel soil by German and Japanese nationals was one of the things much on everyone's mind.

Today, North Carolinians not only don't fear such an invasion; it is being encouraged; it is being encouraged.

In fact, it is being encouraged to the tune of some $100,000 if Secretary James E. Harrington succeeds in getting that amount from the next session of the General Assembly to set up a European branch of his Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

Why should North Carolina go courting foreign firms to locate plants and do business in this state?

The answers are as simple as money; as complex as the differences in doing business with foreign companies compared to working with American businessmen.

First—the money. Last year foreign industry spent over $50 million in North Carolina, building or expanding facilities; adding 1,800 jobs for Tar Heel workers.

90 Firms

Currently there are more than 90 foreign firms operating in North Carolina, from downeast farmlands to machine plants to textiles to chemicals. One Japanese firm is even launching an industrial park complex at Charlotte where other Japanese firms will be encouraged to locate plants.

These 90 firms come from 13 different nations; over half of the investments were made in the past five years. Harrington aims to increase that investment in the future.

As to value, North Carolina leads the world in production of textiles, furniture, tobacco, brick, and cigarettes; and now ranks 10th in the United States in value of manufactured and agricultural exports; first in overseas sales of textile and furniture products.

Then, following the money value to North Carolina as a reason for encouraging foreign investments here, there are the complexities of doing business with overseas firms.

Distance is one. Europeans want to deal face to face, and don't like to call all over the country trying to find a product or a place to invest in a facility, Harrington said. The state has traditionally sent out industry seekers to work with American firms; why not foreigners?

The import situation further complicates matters—it costs more American dollars to buy foreign-made goods today, witness the soaring cost of import cars. Foreign companies find it harder to manufacture a product overseas and ship it in while keeping the price competitive. Thus, they want a location in this country.

Scarce Land

Additionally, both in Europe and Japan, land is scarce; there's little room for physical expansion. North Carolina acreage looks attractive in its openness and price.

Labor is another industry problem overseas, with foreign firms experiencing shortages of skilled workmen and attracted to areas where people want jobs. Experience has shown that rural people, especially Southerners, are accustomed to working hard and make the best kinds of employees, especially with the traditional resistance to unions found here.

Finally, North Carolina salesmen are able to tell potential foreign investors that the Southeast area of the country is the most rapidly growing market in the nation, and that North Carolina with her ports, highways, rail connections and central geographic location is the "Gateway to the Southeast."

Three state departments—Agriculture, Ports Authority, and Natural and Economic Resources—will jointly operate the European office.

This fall, a World Trade Directory printed in Japanese, German, and English, will be published containing firms in the state which are importing or exporting, methods of transportation, banking and marine insurance information, etc.

Meanwhile, Harrington says that earlier trade mission to Europe by North Carolina business and governmental leaders is paying dividends.

Last week a German maker of miniature electrical motors announced it will build a $1.5 million plant in Kinston in Lenoir County employing 100 persons. Dr. Wolfgang Klug, president of the firm, said they were shopping for locations—none of them in this state—when his company was contacted by the trade mission visitors.

What Did Henry Give?

WASHINGTON—No one is quite certain what kind of deals Henry Kissinger made to get a settlement in the Middle East, but President Nixon probably is finding out this week.

I can imagine a scene at a great reception given by President Sadat of Egypt where leaders from all the Arab lands have gathered to meet the President of the United States. Henry is standing next to President Nixon in the receiving line and introducing the Arabs to the President.

"Mr. President," Henry says, "this is Sheik Kaleli Abrim."

Sheik Abrim shakes hands with Mr. Nixon. "My father sends his respects and asks me to thank you on behalf of our family for giving us the state of Rhode Island."

President Nixon appears startled and whispers to Henry, "Did we give Rhode Island to the Abrim family?"

Henry whispers back, "They wanted California, but I talked them into taking Rhode Island instead."

"What did we get in exchange?" the President asks.

"A steady, two-year supply of oil at $14 a barrel."

"Hmm," the President says, "I guess nobody will mind losing Rhode Island."

The sheik moves on and Henry introduces the next Arab leader.

"This, Mr. President, is Hakim Assou, the Egyptian minister of public works."

Mr. Assou bows. "It is a great honor I finally meet the

In the Reflector's Hotline on June 5, The City Manager said "Our aim was a symbol by which the City of Greenville could be recognized." I submit that this aim was achieved long ago. The City's Seal has been the official symbol of the City of Greenville for many years.

The "fielding" of D.H.'s letter protesting the THING went on with gratuitous instruction to us, the great unwashed, saying the logo "should be recognized; not read." This is nonsense. How many logos have you seen which can't be read? Those which are, by themselves, unintelligible (such as Weyerhaeuser's trade mark; have become recognizable only after long and expensive advertising campaigns. And I've never seen one used alone as a letterhead.

I could go on and on with a learned discussion of how coats-of-arms and other logos originated and why, but I really want to make only one point; the THING was and is an inexcusable and unjustified waste of City money. At best, it can only be described as an exercise in obfuscation. It is an example of execrable design and lousy art.

The changing of the color of City vehicles for easy identification missed the mark also. The current custom is to use passenger vehicles of whatever color the low bidder furnishes; equipment is painted "alert" colors such as traffic yellow, fire-engine red, etc.

While the City may have received a few approving comments on the THING, I'll give real good odds that not ten per cent of Greenville citizens like it. And I'll take any reasonable wager that the majority of City officials and employees don't like it.

This letter is too long, I know, but there are so many reasons why the THING should never have been dreamed up, and why it's use should be stopped forthwith. For instance, who are the "we" the City Manager referred to?

Finally, I appeal to the Mayor and Councilmen, as reasonable people, to resume the use of our City Seal as the Symbol (Logo) of the City of Greenville.

noble benefactor of Egypt."

"What did we give them?" the President whispers to Henry.

Henry replies, "The Ford Motor Co."

"In Egypt?" the President asks.

Henry blushes. "The Ford Motor Co. in the United States. You see, in order to get a settlement in Syria we needed help from the Egyptians. The only way we could get help from them was to give them something in exchange. I thought the Ford Motor Co. would be a nice quid pro quo."

"Has anyone told Henry Ford?"

"Not yet. I didn't want it to leak to the press."

Mr. Assou moves on and Henry introduces Fata Fatima, the leader of a splinter Maoist Palestinian guerrilla band.

Fatima refuses to shake hands with the President. He tells Henry, "I have been talking with my brothers and we have decided you tricked us when you offered us three squadrons of Phantom jets. We will not go to Geneva unless we receive three nuclear submarines."

"What the devil?" the President says to Henry.

Henry whispers, "Don't pay any attention to him. He's all talk. They'll take the three squadrons of Phantom jets."

"Are you sure we want to give these people Phantom jets?"

"I had to give them something," Henry says defensively.

The next Arab leader is Aleki Mossad, the Syrian minister of tourism.

"Oh, Great One," Mossad says, "you have saved the Syrian tourist industry."

Setting Stage To Defy Court?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—The deepening insistence by President Nixon that he intends to preserve a "strong presidency," no matter what the cost, is setting the stage for possible presidential refusal to abide by an adverse ruling of the Supreme Court on the Watergate conspiracy tapes.

Indeed, the "strong presidency" argument is used to justify the flat refusal by the White House to assert that Mr. Nixon would obey an adverse court ruling.

These two possible clues to secret White House impeachment strategy, moreover, are privately confirmed by senior Nixon advisers, inside and outside the White House.

Of course, all this might be an elaborate bluff to intimidate the Supreme Court into ruling against special prosecutor Leon Jaworski's subpoena of White House tapes. But even the most fantastic Oval Office scenario could scarcely imagine the Justices being so craven.

Why, then, would Mr. Nixon even contemplate an act of defiance which surely would bring conviction by two-thirds of the Senate close to reality? If so convicted, Mr. Nixon could at least claim he was driven from office in defense of "the presidency," not as a Watergate conspirator. On the other hand, if he was acquitted by the Senate, Mr. Nixon would elevate his office to a peak of power unprecedented in history.

Unrealistic though the Nixon White House often is, however, it would not take the risk without a feeling that Mr. Nixon's popularity is recovering rapidly enough to avoid Senate conviction despite defiance of the court. Behind that assumption is the President's long-held conviction that the constitutional concept of three equal branches of government is obsolete in the 1970s and that a superior executive branch is now required.

With Supreme Court oral arguments scheduled for July 8, the historic decision might not come until six weeks later. Consequently, Mr. Nixon and his legal counsel, James D. St. Clair, now have up to ten weeks to hammer home this headline thesis: even in the face of a clearly

Home Mortgage Mart Bleeding

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The home mortgage market bleeds away, crushed by the pressure of high interest rates. The funds that once went into housing is now chasing higher yields elsewhere.

This is the conventional explanation for the distress in housing, and with good reason.

Withdrawals from savings accounts at mutual savings banks, for example, topped $800 million in April and May. And at the end of May the nation's savings and loan associations had $1.5 billion less to lend out than they had a year ago.

Since these two institutions make up the thrift industry, which is the biggest supporter of the home mortgage market, the impact is obvious. They are forced to curtail their lending activities.

But those withdrawals explain only a part of the difficulties families are having in buying their own homes. A change of attitude by another industry, life insurance, makes the problem more difficult.

Life insurers have tended in recent years to increase their allotment of mortgage money for commercial and industrial properties at a faster rate than for residential properties.

Moreover, a greater share of the residential mortgage money now is being lent on multifamily, or large apartment houses, and less on residences having just one to four units.

Figures supplied by the Institute of Life Insurance show that in 1973 loans for multifamily housing increased $1 billion during the year to a total of $17.8 billion, but the amount provided on dwellings of four units or less fell to $19.8 billion from $21.5 billion in the year before.

The trend now is in at least its eighth year.

Various reasons are offered for the decline, but none makes more sense than the fact insurers find it more profitable to invest in large, income-producing properties on which they sometimes share in the profits.

Insurers are not so committed to the mortgage market, legally or morally, as the thrift institutions are. The latter have a commitment to take the savings

Major Peace Issue

By HARRY DUNPHY
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—President Nixon is likely to return from the Middle East convinced there can be no peace in the area until the Palestinian question is resolved.

Three guerrillas underlined that truth—and tried to mar Nixon's so far triumphant visit—by attacking a settlement in northern Israel Thursday. A spokesman for their organization told a news conference in Beirut the raid was a demonstration of "how every Arab should receive Nixon, the chief imperialist in the world."

Most Arab leaders the American President is meeting want to encourage the improving relations between the United States and the Arab world. But they are not passing up the opportunity to drive home the importance of the Palestinian issue.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was first off the mark Wednesday night. At the state banquet he gave for Nixon, he bluntly told the President the United States must do more to settle the Palestinian question. "the crux of the whole problem in the troubled region."

Nixon side-stepped, saying he had not come "with ready-made solutions" to decade-old problems. They will require "a great deal of delicate diplomacy on the part of all parties concerned," he said.

In Saudi Arabia, next stop on Nixon's tour, crusty 69-year-old King Faisal is expected to raise the issue again.

Faisal and neighboring Kuwait reportedly have offered to help establish a Palestinian state on the West Bank of the Jordan River with their oil millions if Israel gives up the area. Jordan lost the West Bank to Israel in the 1967 war.

Nixon goes from Saudi Arabia to Syria, one of the Palestinians' most militant supporters, and then to Israel, where the new government—like the one before it—says it won't even sit in the same conference room with the "terrorist murderers."

Nixon's trip ends in Jordan, from which King Hussein expelled the guerrillas in a bloody civil war in 1970. Hussein has offered to let the Palestine Liberation Organization, the guerrilla umbrella organization,

Strength For Today

CREATION IN SORROW

By strange paradox the famous Italian composer, Verdi, writer of the sprightly operas Il Trovatore and Rigoletto, lived a very sorrow-filled life. He suffered from ill-health and within a period of three months lost by death his wife and both of his children. Yet in the midst of his sorrow Verdi kept writing, and some of his finest work was turned out in the years following this catastrophe.

In the latter years of his life he turned increasingly to religious music. His tragic life had not destroyed his faith but instead deepened it.

"Blessed are they that mourn," said Jesus, "for they shall be comforted."—that is, if the heart that mourns is a Christian heart, sustained and strengthened by eternal hope. And blessed indeed are they who, under the shadow of grief and disappointment, compose songs of praise to the Most High.

Heart Award To Pitt Unit

DEAN EVELYN PERRY of the ECU School of Nursing, accepts the N.C. Heart Ass'n President's Award from Coach Eddie Biedenbach of N.C. State.

WINSTON SALEM—Evelyn Perry was awarded the Bronze Service Recognition Medallion and Radio Station WNCT was given the Willard G. Cole Award by the North Carolina Heart Association during its annual meeting in Winston-Salem recently.

Mrs. Perry, Dean of the East Carolina University School of Nursing has served for two years as president of the Pitt County Heart Association, and has also worked in an advisory capacity with the program department of the state Heart Association. The Bronze Medallion recognized volunteers who have given distinguished service over a period of years to the Heart cause.

WNCT was cited for a six-hour radiorama it conducted which raised over $1,000 for the local Heart Fund. The Cole Award was established by the Association in 1964 in the name of the late Willard G. Cole, Pulitzer Prize-winning editor from Robeson County. It honors news media which have made outstanding contributions in supporting Heart programs in North Carolina.

Hearing For Horse Owners

The Veterinary Division of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture has called a public hearing for Tuesday, at 10 a.m. The meeting will be held in Room 357 of the N.C. Department of Agriculture Building, Raleigh, N.C.

The hearing is to make public the proposed rules and regulations which will require all horses exhibited, sold, or transported interstate, to have a negative Collins test for Equine Infectious Anemia, or Swamp Fever, within the past 12 months.

This is a public meeting and all interested persons are urged to attend.

But the outcome could be different. Returning from successive triumphs in the Middle East and the Moscow summit, the President might be strong enough to sell the "strong presidency" thesis to the point of justifying defiance of the Supreme Court. That way lies undreamed-of presidential power. It is this possibility, no matter how remote, which is beginning to chill Washington today.

Union Again Enrollment Held By Greenville's WOTM Loses Vote

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—The R.J. Reynolds Co., the largest tobacco company in the United States and the only major one not unionized, announced today that its workers had voted almost 2 to 1 against the AFL-CIO Tobacco Workers International Union.

Reynolds gave the vote as 4,963 or 65.5 per cent against the union as collective bargaining agent, and 2,606 or 34.4 per cent in favor.

It said 361 ballots had been challenged by the union. The challenges will be ruled upon by the National Labor Relations Board, whose regional office in Winston-Salem conducted the election. But a spokesman for the company said he believed the challenges could not affect the outcome.

About 8,400 production and clerical workers were eligible to vote Thursday and early today. The company and the union had conducted strong election campaigns and almost all the eligible voters, 7,930 or 94 per cent, cast ballots.

There had been unions at Reynolds in the 1940's, but they were voted out. The Reynolds spokesman said the last union election at the company was in 1955, when the Tobacco Workers Union was rejected.

Dr. Ledgerwood Advocate Modification To Speak Sunday Of Policy On Abortion

WINTERVILLE—Christian High Education Day will be observed by the Winterville Baptist Church on Sunday.

DR. BRYANT LEDGERWOOD

Activities will begin with Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. Sunday School director Vernon E. White is stressing High Attendance Day in the Sunday School. Perfect attendance is the goal for the day.

At the 11 a.m. worship service, Dr. Bryant Ledgerwood, academic dean of Campbell College will deliver the morning message. Dr. Ledgerwood is a native of Mayville, Oklahoma, and is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University, Baylor University, and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He became academic dean of Campbell College in August of last year. Previously, he had been academic dean of the Oklahoma College of the Liberal Arts.

Special music will be rendered by the choir, under the direction of Jerry S. Cribbs and Mrs. Paul Braxton.

A special offering will be taken for the six Baptist colleges and one Baptist university. These include: Campbell College, Chowan College, Gardner-Webb College, Mars Hill College, Meredith College, Wingate College, and Wake Forest University.

Dinner will be served on the church grounds following the worship service at 12:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend. Rev. Horace G. Thompson is the pastor.

Bible School To Begin Monday

The Greenville Church of God will begin Bible School Monday, following an annual kick-off parade. The school will include five nights of classes and close with commencement exercises on Sunday, June 23. Classes will be held from 7:30-9:00 p.m.

The VBS theme is "God's Good News." Each class will individually delve into specific aspects of this central theme and present summaries of their findings during the closing program. Following the Bible Class, there will be separate handicraft classes. Projects this year include cutting board crafts, scroll-crafts and decoupage. Refreshments will be served each night following classes. The public is invited to attend.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Commonweal, an independent Catholic weekly which advocated many of the contemporary reforms in Roman Catholicism before they became realities, suggests the Church should temper its stance against abortion.

Catholics should "abandon their vain hopes for any kind of total legal ban on abortion" so as to join in a modified approach with other Christians and Jews to halt a mounting tide of abortion-on-demand, the weekly says.

First Lady Cheered By Many Thousands

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Pat Nixon today drew the cheers of thousands of Egyptians as she broke off from the official presidential party to visit a children's center and a weaving factory.

The First Lady said she had been "just overwhelmed by the friendly, gracious manner of the people," who turned out by the millions to greet the Nixons on their two-day trip to Egypt.

"I don't think there has ever been one in the world like it," Mrs. Nixon said of the Egyptian welcome.

Mrs. Nixon visited the pyramids with her husband and President and Mrs. Sadat on returning from an overnight stay in Alexandria.

Then the two women went off for a half-hour tour of the "City of Health," a children's rest home not far from the pyramids where children of tubercular parents are cared for.

During her half hour visit she praised and shook hands with volunteers.

In an editorial, it says that moderates of various religious bodies accept abortion in hard cases such as rape, incest or badly damaged fetus, but not for casual reasons, and a common stand on those terms could be more effective.

"In a society as diverse as ours ... an absolute ban would be impossible as well as ill-advised, and the other members of any broad coalition could not conscientiously accept such a total ban," the weekly says.

"Working together, however, it would be possible for Catholics and others opposed to wholesale abortion to map a prudent course which would permit abortion only for serious cause ..."

The results would not be "all-or-nothing legislation" against abortion, but would curb the wholesale trend in such operations "save hundreds of thousands of lives and end the growing identification of the anti-abortion cause with the right wing," the weekly says.

Commonweal, a lay-edited journal whose reformist views made it a bellwether to the Church changes launched by the Second Vatican Council of 1962-'65, devoted a recent issue to the abortion question.

One Hurt In 2 Accidents

One person was reported injured and an estimated $6,400 property damage caused in two collisions investigated here yesterday by police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted when a Police Department vehicle driven by David Lynnton Rogerson of 209 North Jarvis St. and a car operated by David Michael Briley of 101 Leon Dr. collided about 9:27 a.m. at the intersection of Ninth and Washington Streets.

Investigators, who charged Briley with failing to yield the right of way estimated damage at $2,200 to the city owned car and $1,100 to the Briley vehicle.

Joseph Glenwood Proctor, Sr. of 1404 North Overlook Dr. was reported injured when the car he was driving collided with a truck driven by Keith Randall Gardner of Route 1, Winterville, about 11:15 p.m. at the intersection of Evans and 14th Streets.

Officers, who charged Gardner with failing to stop for a red light, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Proctor car and $600 to the Gardner truck.

Violence Flared In N.Ireland Thursday

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Violence flared again in Northern Ireland Thursday and early today, leaving one man dead and three injured in four separate shooting incidents.

The dead man was identified as Peter Meighan, 37, a Roman Catholic from Manchester, England, found fatally shot in a Belfast street.

Police, who speculated the shot came from a passing car, said he had been in Belfast only a week and was visiting relatives in the Lower Falls area.

He was the 1,029th known fatality since civil strife between Protestants and Catholic extremists erupted in August 1969.

Elsewhere in the capital, a man was seriously wounded as he left his house and another man was found behind a shopping center shot in both kneecaps. In a third incident, gunmen fired about 15 shots into a Roman Catholic family's home in Coagh, a small farming village in County Tyrone, wounding a woman in the house, police said.

British soldiers launched raids against the assembly halls belonging to the Loyal Orange Order, an organization of Protestant supremacist clubs, to search for weapons.

The army said more than 50 guns, more than 6,000 rounds of ammunition, and parts of homemade mortars and explosives were found.

Another Calley Appeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr. remained free today while his attorneys prepared to appeal a court decision ordering him back into full military custody.

Court officials said Calley could come and go as he pleases until Judge J. Robert Elliott in Columbus, Ga., is notified formally and acts on an order of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, revoking Calley's bail.

Calley, who was found guilty by a court-martial in 1971 of the murder of at least 22 villagers in My Lai during the Vietnam war, has been free on bond for three months. Although discharged from the Army, he is still a military prisoner.

However the Army cannot lock him up until the federal courts process their orders.

The appeals court sent the order by registered mail, which may reach Elliott today.

Calley apparently remained at his apartment in Columbus. He could not be reached for comment. His attorneys said he would be "crushed" by the loss of freedom.

Will Speak At Services

The Rev. Phil Royce will be the guest speaker at the Oakmont Baptist Church for the 11 o'clock service Sunday.

Royce is the director of college relations at Chowan College, Murfreesboro, one of the seven Baptist colleges supported by the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

This service will be spotlighting the need for scholarship funds which are supported by voluntary gifts from member churches of the convention on each Fathers Day. These funds are used by the Baptist colleges of this state to provide scholarships for individual students on their respective campuses.

Royce is a native of St. Petersburg, Fla. where he received his undergraduate education. He then received his theological training from Southeastern Seminary. Prior to coming to Chowan he served as minister of youth, First Baptist Church, Crestview, Fla., and as director of the B.S.U. at Troy State University, Troy, Ala. The public is invited to attend.

GETTING CAUGHT!

When the jelly disappeared from the refrigerator, when a baseball shattered the window, when Mother discovered the stray cat sleeping in her washbasket . . . like a magnetic needle the accusing finger of my parents pointed toward me.

It's a crushing experience to get caught. But it can teach us a vital lesson. We soon discover a sense of responsibility and learn our obligation to others. Our true identity emerges.

The Church stands ready to help us learn responsibility. Through religious education youth today can still discover personal identity—while gaining a responsible view of man's obligations to God and to society.

Four Join 38 Already Waiting On Death Row

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A woman and three men were sentenced Thursday to die in North Carolina's long vacant gas chamber. They join 38 others already on death row awaiting judicial and legislative action.

One of those sentenced Thursday was Roselle Oxendine Hunt, 46, of Rt. 1, Lilesville. An Anson County Superior Court jury of seven men and five women deliberated 63 minutes before finding her guilty of murder in the poisoning death last Sept. 1 of Joseph Hunt, 59, of Rt. 1, Lilesville.

She was found guilty of pouring liquid rat poison containing arsenic into tea prepared for Hunt's lunch. His body was exhumed last April 17 and an autopsy revealed arsenic poisoning.

The woman's lawyer, who called no defense witnesses, filed notice of appeal after Judge Sammy Chess sentenced her to die July 5.

Also sentenced Thursday was Ernest Ray Simmons, 38, of Rocky Mount, who became the second man convicted of first degree murder in a 1973 robbery-shooting that netted the intruders $9 in cash, a pistol, a rifle and a shotgun.

Simmons also was sentenced to death for murder in the 50s, but won a commutation to life. He escaped from prison and, after his capture, won another commutation to 50 years in prison. He was paroled in 1966.

Earlier Thursday, Fernando Corcoria Hunt, 19, was sentenced to death after conviction in Henderson of first degree rape and two other crimes. A jury in Graham found Crawford D. Lowery guilty of first degree rape and he also was sentenced to death Thursday.

According to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, there are 106 people on death rows in 12 states. Of North Carolina's 42, 29 are from minority groups, like Hunt and Simmons, who are black, and Lowery, who is an Indian.

North Carolina leads the nation in death sentences because of an unusual state Supreme Court decision rendered in January, 1973.

The state court ruling came in response to a U.S. Supreme Court opinion that the death penalty was unconstitutional when it was applied at the discretion of a jury.

The state court ruled that death had become the mandatory sentence for capital crimes. In cases where juries once might have recommended life sentences, convicted murderers and rapists were being sentenced to die in the gas chamber.

The state legislature modified the death penalty statute in April, restricting capital punishment to first degree murder and first degree rape. It decisively rejected requests to abolish capital punishment entirely.

The flow of condemned men into the J Block, a maximum security area of cramped, single cells, slowed slightly but it has not stopped.

North Carolina has not used its gas chamber since 1961, when a black laborer named Theodore Boykin was executed for murder and rape.

And although Central Prison Warden Sam Garrison has recently tested the chamber, it is not likely to be used again, at least for a while.

Five of the condemned men filed appeals this week with the U.S. Supreme Court after the state Supreme Court rejected their contentions that the death penalty was still arbitrary and inhumane.

The high court will decide later this year whether to hear the appeals, and a decision will take longer. There might be other legal avenues to delay execution, ending with Gov. Jim Holshouser, who says he has personal convictions against capital punishment and doesn't know what he would do on the eve of an execution.

Fewer Heed The Medicine Man

HAKEGORA, India (AP) — "All you have to do is wear this stone around your neck," the village medicine man, Doctor Sukdha, told the people of Hakegora. "It will keep away any disease; no evil spirits will enter your body."

The 138 villagers still wear Sukdha's stones. But since 20 of them came down with smallpox in the past month, and four of them died, they are listening to other doctors.

One of them is Dr. S. K. Parida, a 28-year-old medical school graduate working with the World Health Organization in the fight against a smallpox epidemic that officials say has taken 25,000 lives this year in Bihar state, west of Calcutta.

Parida came to Hakegora this week with a team of vaccinators. He found two of the village's 32 mud huts turned into isolation wards for the smallpox sufferers. Nearly all have been children.

They lay on pieces of straw, their bodies pocked with sores that would crater the skin when the scabs fell off.

About a third of those who get the disease in Bihar die. Many survivors are blinded. All who survive are scarred.

There is no known treatment for the disease—only prevention by vaccination.

Bihar has reported 70,393 cases out of the world's total of 125,666 so far this year. To wipe out the disease, the World Health Organization and the Indian government are carrying on a "search and containment" campaign.

In mid-May, volunteers searched 1,200 villages within 30 miles of the industrial city of Jamshedpur. The area had been reported almost free of smallpox, but the search teams found 456 infected villages and more than 2,000 cases of the disease.

Musicianship Workshop Set

A workshop on "Comprehensive Musicianship" will be held at Pitt Technical Institute Monday through Thursday.

Sponsored by the Pitt County Schools, the workshop will cover basic fundamentals of music for the classroom teachers.

The class will meet from 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. daily and will carry one unit of credit.

The instructor will be Miss Margaret Griffin.

Arrested With Marijuana

Pitt County deputies arrested a Rt. 8, Greenville man Thursday night and charged him with possession of marijuana and transporting a controlled substance.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies arrested Walter Franklin Ferree, 25, around 10:15 p.m. on N. Greene Street and confiscated some 12 pounds of marijuana with a street value of $2,600 and a 1968 model automobile valued at $1,500.

The sheriff said that Ferree, who operates Rock 'N Soul Inc. on Fifth Street, was jailed under $20,000 bond and a hearing scheduled for July 26 in District Court here.

Sees Danger In Acidic Rainfall

NEW YORK (AP) — Two ecologists say that despite air pollution controls and, sometimes because of them, increasingly acidic rainfalls are threatening East Coast farm crops and forest growth.

Writing in Friday's issue of Science magazine, Dr. Gene E. Likens and Dr. F. Herbert Bormann say that over the past two decades the acidity has increased between 100 and 1,000 times normal levels, also speeding up corrosion of man-made structures.

Dr. Likens, an aquatic ecologist at Cornell University, and Dr. Bormann, a forest ecologist at Yale University, blame anti-pollution devices fitted on smokestacks to remove the visible solid particles from the smoke emissions.

Beltone Takes Women's Title

Beltone gained a 17-6 victory over Coca-Cola last night and wrapped up the championship of the Ladies Softball League with it.

The league still has two days of play left, but the Beltone team, with its 11-0 record, cannot be overtaken.

In the opening game last night, Piggly-Wiggly took an 18-7 win over the Little Mint. Piggly-Wiggly pushed in 11 runs in the first inning to put the game away. P. Roberson homered during the frame. P-W then added four in the third, with S. Pittman homering. The other three scored in the sixth. Little Mint got five in the first, one in the second on L. Tripp's homer, and one in the seventh.

Beltone's championship game came in the second affair. They rushed over nine runs in the first, with Taylor homering and Pinner getting a round-tripper. One each scored in the second, third and fourth, with two in the sixth and three in the seventh. Taylor and Pinner each homered in the final frame. Coke got two in the first on B. Forbes' homer, and the other four came in the third.

In the final game, Dixie Sales romped past the Daily Reflector, 34-2. Dixie pushed in four in the first and two in the second on B. Harrington's homer. They got four more in the third with B. Pollard homering, then broke it wide open in the fourth with 16 big runs. They finished up with 10 in the fifth, including homers by S. Mayo and S. Dunn. The Reflector got one each in the second and fourth.

Integon Upsets Elks By 6-0

Integon gave the Exchange a hand yesterday by handing second place Elks a 6-0 setback on a no-hitter by Will Barrett and Cliff Warren.

The two-hurlers combined to pull off the upset, cutting the Exchange's magic number to two. Exchange is now 9-2, while the Elks are 7-5 and Integon is 6-6.

Barrett tossed the first three innings for Integon, fanning three and walking one—the only man to reach base against him. Warren then picked up where he left off, striking out two and walking four in the final three innings.

Integon jumped into the lead with a run in the first. Junior Neal walked, took second on a wild pitch and gained third on a passed ball. Another wild pitch scored him.

Four runs crossed for Integon in the second. Todd Galloway opened up with a double. He stole third and scored on an error on the attempt to get him. Alan Hudson walked and stole second. Mark Barber singled and a wild pitch scored Hudson. Neal and Lathan Mills both walked, loading the bases. Blair Smith hit a fielder's choice, getting Barber at the plate, but Barrett singled to score both Neal and Mills for a 5-0 lead.

The sixth run came in the fifth when Barrett led off with a home run.

A's Trying To Attract Crowds

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Charlie Finley blames the press, and the press blames Charlie Finley.

But the major reasons Finley's world champion Oakland A's, who return home tonight, aren't drawing more fans probably lie elsewhere.

"Charlie agitates a lot of people, but I don't think that has too much to do with it," said an outsider, St. Louis Cardinals' executive Bob Kennedy. "I guess the area just can't support two teams."

The A's and San Francisco Giants have two of the worst attendance records in major league baseball so far this season.

"When I came out here with the A's, I thought it would be a great area for them," recalled Kennedy, who was Finley's first Oakland manager and now serves as player personnel director for St. Louis.

But despite two straight World Series victories, the A's have drawn only 179,948 fans to 28 games this year—a pace 135,000 behind last season. The team drew 216,000 in eight dates on a road trip that ended Wednesday night in Boston.

Finley charged recently that newspapers in the Oakland-San Francisco area have failed to "praise the greatness of my players."

But A's star Reggie Jackson, on the cover of several national magazines recently, said he thinks most writers "are very fond of the ballplayers. They just don't like the idea of a Finley championship."

Columnists have criticized Finley for everything from doing away with scoreboard fireworks—the A's say the Oakland fire department ordered a stop—to the unconditional releases given the two blonde ballgirls this season.

If the A's are to revive in the attendance department, the 13-game homestand beginning tonight should be the start.

The kids in the area are out of school, a Bat Day is scheduled Saturday and a half-price Family Night against the American League's Eastern Division leading Boston Red Sox Monday night.

Fire Fighters Win On No-Hitter; A-G Gets 4th

Ayden-Grifton remained unbeaten in the Senior Babe Ruth League last night with a 2-1 victory over University Kiwanis. In the only other game played last night, the Fire Fighters downed Washington, 5-2.

The game at Ayden-Grifton featured a pitching duel between Ayden-Grifton's Dennis Cristiano and the Kiwanis' Ricky Harrell. Cristiano allowed only one hit during the evening. He fanned 10 and walked just three. Harrell gave up just three hits, while he walked four and struck out 11.

Ayden-Grifton grabbed the initial lead with a run in the second inning. Randy Nelson reached on an error and Cristiano walked. Both advanced on an out and a wild pitch let Nelson score for a 1-0 lead.

The Kiwanis tied it up with a run in the third. Phil Dash reached on an error and stole second. A passed ball let him go to third, and Steve Fuchs brought him home with a sacrifice fly.

It stayed 1-1 until the bottom of the sixth, when the Ayden-Grifton team got another run to win it. Nelson singled and Cristiano walked. A passed ball let both advance, and a wild pitch let Nelson score the run that proved decisive.

In Greenville, the Fire Fighters spotted Washington a 2-1 lead then came back to win it. The Fire Fighters scored first, getting a run in the first. Clennel Streeter reached on an error and stole both second and third. Eugene Forrest walked and when Keith Gould grounded out, Streeter raced home for the initial lead, 1-0.

Washington tied it up with one in the second. Jamie Jones walked and a passed ball and a wild pitch put him on third. Jim Growien sacrificed him in.

Washington got one more in the third. Tommy Drake was hit by a pitch and Freddy Cherry walked. Eddie Cherry also walked, loading the bases. Donnie Haddock hit a sacrifice fly scoring Drake for the 2-1 lead.

The Fire Fighters came back with two in the fourth for the lead. Gary Down singled and moved up on an out. Streeter then slapped a home run to push the Firemen into a 3-2 lead.

Another run crossed for the Fire Fighters in the fifth. Gould singled, took second on a passed ball and scored on Cowan's hit.

The final run came over in the sixth. Streeter was hit by a pitch and stole second. He took third on an error and scored when Danny Norris reached on an error.

Despite giving up two runs, Cowan tossed a no-hitter at Washington. He walked seven, hit one, and struck out seven.

St. James In Win Over Grace

St. James knocked off National Division leader Grace in the Church Softball League last night, but American Division leader Oakmont won to remain a half-game ahead of St. James.

In the opener on Evens One, Black Jack took a 21-4 win over St. Gabriels. Black Jack pushed over 10 runs in the first inning to wrap it up. They added four in the second, four in the fourth with Pope homering, and three in the fifth. St. Gabriel's got two in the first and two more in the fourth.

Presbyterian nipped People's Bible, 3-2, in a protested game next. Both teams protested over uniforms. People's got the lead in the first inning with a run, but Presbyterian tied it up with one in the second. They took the lead with another in the fourth, but People's tied it up with one in the fifth. Presbyterian then pushed over the winning run in the seventh.

First Christian downed First Free Will Baptist, 11-6, in the final game. FWB got two in the top of the first and added one in the second. Christian came up with six in the second, but FWB tied it up with three in the top of the third. Christian then pushed ahead for good with two in the bottom of the third, one in the fourth and two in the sixth, with Manning homering.

In the opener on Field Two, Oakmont took a 15-10 win over University-Mt. Pleasant. Oakmont got two in the first, but U-MP scored eight in the bottom of the inning. Oakmont got one in the second, while U-MP added one also. Oakmont scored two in the third with P. Singletoin homering, while U-MP got another for a 10-5 lead. But Oakmont kept on, scoring two in the fourth, then getting seven in the sixth, and one in the seventh.

St. James nipped Grace, 9-8, in the second game. Grace pushed over five in the top of the first, while St. James got two in the second. Grace got two more in the fourth, while St. James came Greenville's American Legion baseball team split a doubleheader with Brunswick County last night. The locals nipped Brunswick in the opener, 5-4, then fell in the nightcap, 9-7.

The first game, despite the score, was somewhat of a pitching duel that saw both hurlers allow only four hits. Jim Wilkerson went all the way for Greenville. He recorded three strikeouts, and walked as many. He also hit a pair of batters.

Losing hurler Burney got six strikeouts, while he walked four. Greenville grabbed the lead in the opener in the second inning, getting a pair of runs. Kelly Heath reached on an error and Gil Whitford was safe on a fielder's choice. Both runners stole up, and scored on Jerry Griffin's single.

Brunswick County came through with four runs in the fifth inning, grabbing the lead. Richardson walked and stole both second and third, Burney also walked, and R. Gore was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. Aycock singled in both Burney and Richardson, and Drew was hit by a pitch, loading the bases again. Long reached on an error, allowing Gore and Aycock to come around for a 4-2 lead.

But Greenville came back in the bottom of the sixth to push over three more and claim the victory. Heath walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Keith Jones also walked and Griffin was hit by a pitch. Robin Woolard doubled, driving in both Heath and Jones. Griffin then stole home with the game-winning run.

The second contest turned out to be a hitters' contest, with Brunswick banging out 10 and Greenville, seven.

Greenville grabbed the lead in the third inning, getting a pair of runs. Eddie Connelly singled and Randy Potter got a hit. Robert Brinkley singled to load them up, and Macon Moye doubled to drive in both Connelly and Potter.

Greenville came up with two more in the fourth. Jones walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Woolard reached on an error that allowed Jones to come all the way in and sent Woolard to third. Connelly singled to score Woolard, making it 4-0.

But in the top of the fifth, Brunswick broke loose for five of their own, taking a one-run lead. With two down, T. Long walked and Gore walked. Aycock was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. Best walked, forcing over Long with the first run. W. Long then was allowed to reach on an error, and it let both Gore and Aycock score. Williams singled, and an error on the play let Best in with the tying run, and W. Long followed with the go-ahead one.

They got another in the seventh. Best singled and scored on W. Long's double.

Greenville came up with two of its own, tying it at 6-6 in the bottom of the seventh. Al Heath walked and a wild pitch and a passed ball put him on third. Barry Johnson walked and Moye hit into a fielder's choice, scoring Heath, but getting Johnson. Kelly Heath walked and a passed ball let Moye score all the way from second. Brunswick picked up three more runs in the eighth inning. Brown walked and was sacrificed up. Aycock singled him in and Best got a hit. A passed ball scored Aycock, and W. Long doubled to drive in Best, giving Brunswick a 9-6 lead.

Greenville tried to rally but fell short, picking up only one run. Woolard walked with one away, and Al Heath drew another walk, this one with two down. Both moved up on a wild pitch, and Griff Garner walked to load the bases. Another walk, this one to Johnson, forced in Woolard with the run, but the rally ended there.

Optimists Inch Back Out Again

The Optimists took a 5-2 victory over the Jaycees yesterday, despite a two-hit effort by the combination of Kenny Barnes and Teddy Gartman of the Jaycees.

The win inched the Optimists back into a slim lead in the North State Little League, a half-game ahead of the Lions. The Optimists are now 10-2, while the Lions are 9-2, and the Jaycees, the only other team with a chance to catch up is 7-5. A single Optimist win or a Jaycee loss will eliminate them.

The Optimists pushed over two runs in the first inning. Jim O'Brien reached on a two-base error and scored on a pair of wild pitches. Billy Dough walked and stole second. He reached third on a wild pitch and scored on Patrick Wilson's single, one of the two hits.

The Jaycees came up with one run in the bottom of the inning.

Marion Crisp singled and moved up on an error. John Winstead singled and a double by Barnes brought in Crisp.

The Optimists got another run in the third. Glenn Moore walked and Wilson was hit by a pitch. Both moved up on a wild pitch, and walks to Liles Stott and Sammy Hodges brought in Moore, making it 3-1.

The Jaycees got a run in the fifth. Crisp reached on an error and advanced on a passed ball. Barnes doubled, driving him in.

The final two Optimist runs came in the sixth. O'Brien singled and both Dough and Jim Kiernen walked. Moore reached on a fielder's choice, scoring O'Brien, and an error on the play let Dough come in.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Tarboro's Carter Suggs, bound for East Carolina University, will be seeking revenge for his lone defeat of the year today and tomorrow at the National Junior AAU Track Meet in Florida.

A couple of weeks ago, Suggs lost in the 100-yard dash to Atlanta High Schooler Hugh McTeel in a meet held in Atlanta. The two are among those who will be competing in the meet this weekend.

The meet is open to those 19 and under, which means that Suggs will be going up against some college students. The top two finishers in the meet will qualify for the meet against the Russian juniors to be held June 27-28 in Austin, Tex.

Suggs won this meet last year in the 100-yard dash, and went on to tour Europe and run against international competition, losing only once during the tour.

This year, however, he will be up against stiffer competition. William Smith of Uniondale, N.Y., has turned in times of 9.3 in the 100 and 20.8 in the 220 yard dash. Robert Merrick of Seminole Junior College has done as well, and of course, there is McTeel.

"The 100 and 220 may be the features of the meet," ECU track coach Bill Carson said this week. "Another of our recruits, Larry Austin of Jacksonville, is also going to the meet to run in the 100 and 220." Carson is not attending, however. Jim Britt, Tarboro's track coach, will accompany the youths to the meet.

"This will be an excellent test for Carter," Carson added. "Last year, he was the unknown, but this year, he's a marked man. He's also trying to double this year in the 100 and 220, while he only ran in the 100 last year."

Carson noted that when Suggs lost to McTeel he was running for the fifth straight week in rugged competition. "He ran in the Northeastern Conference meet, doing the 100, 220, mile and 440 relay and the long jump," he pointed out. "Then, in the sectional, he ran two 100's (trials and finals), two 220's, the 880-relay and the long jump. He did the same in the regionals, and in the state meet. Then, in Atlanta, he ran two 100's three 220's, and was just worn out. He's had some rest, but he'll still be doing more running in this meet than McTeel (who only runs the 100) will do."

Carson feels sure that Suggs will qualify for the meet in some position, however. "He'll have a very good chance in the 100 and 220, and most definitely will be on the relay team."

We understand that following the completion of the new swimming pool at Guy Smith Park that permanent parking areas will be set aside in the far outfield areas of the present stadium.

Most likely, a permanent fence will then be built around the field, eliminating the need for the present wooden barrier used in Babe Ruth and Senior Babe Ruth play. And when Rose plays, the field won't be wide open as has been true in the past.

Hopefully, too, the city will be able to afford to bring the present lighting, set up for when there was a softball field in that area, into the new fence for improved lighting of the stadium.

Also, a new scoreboard—like that at the Little League field would be nice too. We understand Elm Street's Little League field will get a new electronic board next year, too.

Giants Come To Life, Nip Cubs

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

For seven innings, the scoreboard in Candlestick Park wasn't working, which was just fine as far as Jim Barr was concerned.

And for a few moments in the seventh inning, the Chicago Cubs weren't working too well either, which made things even better for the San Francisco pitcher.

"I don't like to look at the scoreboard when I'm in the dugout because, if I see who's coming up the next inning, I might get worried," Barr said.

But the big board was out of commission so Barr had nothing to worry except for the fact that his teammates weren't getting him any runs.

Then, in the seventh, the scoreboard came to life—and the Cubs died. An error, a wild pitch and Gary Thomasson's single gave the Giants a run. It was all Barr needed, finishing with a six-hit 1-0 victory.

Thursday night's only other National League game, the New York Mets at Atlanta, was rained out. In the lone American League game, Kansas City beat Milwaukee 5-4.

Royals 5, Brewers 4
John Mayberry's two-run homer in the first inning and Vada Pinson's solo shot that started a three-run second carried Kansas City past the Brewers.

Cookie Rojas' sacrifice fly and Amos Otis' double provided the winning margin ... but more important, reliever Gene Garber provided the key pitching.

Garber replaced Paul Splittorff in the sixth inning with three runs across and nobody out, choked off a Milwaukee rally and preserved the triumph.

Player Tabbed As Man To Beat After Round Southern Illinois In Upset Of Miami, 4-3

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — The 74th U.S. Open Golf Championship developed today into a putting contest on the ice slick, treacherous greens, and the man with the safecracker touch—Gary Player of South Africa—was tabbed as the burglar likely to take it all.

"If you can't chip and putt here, you might as well go home," lamented defending champion Johnny Miller, stunned by an opening round 76. "Player is the finest chipper, putter and sand player on the tour. He could walk away with it."

Gary must have been listening.

The tough little world golfing gypsy from Johannesburg, seeking to add the Open to his Masters crown for the first two legs of an unprecedented professional Grand Slam, stroked Winged Foot's marble-top greens for an even-par 70 and the lead in Thursday's first round.

Other leading favorites putted—as old Sam Snead used to say—"as if both their blooming arms was broke."

Jack Nicklaus, golf's reigning king and 5-1 favorite to stash this 15th major crown in his vault, putted from 25 feet for a birdie on the first hole and left himself a 28-foot putt coming back, for the first of four straight bogeys.

"I told myself, 'This is some way to start the Open,'" Jack said afterward. "It took me four holes to regroup."

Nicklaus three-putted three of the first four holes, added another three-putt later on, and shot a 75.

"In every other way, this is a normal golf course," Nicklaus said. "The tournament is being played on the greens. These are the most severely fast, undulating greens I've ever seen."

Miller, who won at Oakmont Pa., last year with a record-closing 63, also shot a 75.

Tom Weiskopf, the reigning British Open champion, fired a 76 and said he almost withdrew because of an ailing left wrist. Two-time winner Lee Trevino had a 78. Bill Casper, who won the Open on this same course 15 years ago, skied to an 80 and Hubert Green, the tour's current hotshot, scrambled to an 81.

It was a day of frustration and disaster.

It marked the first time since 1958 that a player had not broken par in the opening round of this championship.

Mike Reesor of Seattle, who shot 135 in one round at Tallahassee, Fla., earlier this year after falling off a horse, and Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., were tied for second at 71, one stroke off Player's lead.

Two former PGA champions, Bobby Nichols and Ray Floyd, were in a group at 72, along with Bruce Crampton of Australia, Jim Colbert and rookie Barney Thompson.

Thursday's collapse of some of the finest golf names in the business struck astounded this beautiful Westchester County community.

Playing conditions seemed ideal. Then everything seemed suddenly to come apart—especially for all of the favorites except Player.

Several players complained that they merely touched the ball and it shot off the green as if blown from a cannon.

OMAHA, Neb., (AP) — Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones likes to talk about the "little things."

"We like to hit a little, run a little and bunt a little," is one of Jones' favorite—if not patented—quotes about his team.

And so it was Thursday night in the 28th College World Series as the Salukis threw the series into a three-way battle by knocking off Miami of Florida 4-3.

"This was a typical game for us," said Jones. "We did the little things and didn't make that many mistakes, and it paid off."

Southern California, bidding for a fifth straight title, ousted Texas 5-3 to leave the tournament with three teams with single defeats.

Southern Illinois, 50-11, will face Southern California, 48-20, tonight, and the winner goes against Miami, 51-10, Saturday night for the title.

The pairings were set by a draw after Southern Illinois' victory, and Miami Coach Ron Fraser picked the envelope that read "bye."

"We were a little flat," said Fraser after the Hurricanes' first loss in the double-elimination classic. "But we made more mistakes than Southern. I guess we beat ourselves."

The game was tied 3-3 when Southern Illinois scored the go-ahead run in the eighth inning on a Miami error.

"It was a great college baseball game," offered Jones. "Miami just made one mistake too many and we were fortunate to take advantage."

Southern Illinois led 3-0 going to the seventh inning, but Miami tied the game when Orlando Gonzales ripped a three-run home run.

"Robin (Derry) hung a slider to Gonzalez, and he knew what to do with it," said Jones. "But maybe we worked him too long. His longest stint of the season was six innings prior to tonight."

A single by Dan Herbst, an infield out and an infield hit by Bert Newman and an ensuing throwing error by Miami third baseman Jim Crosta let in what proved to be the winning run.

Reliever Jim Bokelmann allowed only three base runners and one hit after taking over for Derry in the seventh and earned the victory.

Southern Illinois' totals were familiar: seven hits and all singles, five stolen bases and only one error.

"They (Southern Illinois) came up with some great plays—a couple that took us out of innings," said Fraser. "And we didn't hit that well either." Southern California made the most of four hits and three Texas errors, and then held off two late Longhorn comebacks.

The Trojans scored what proved to be the winning runs in the fifth inning with aid of two Texas errors and a passed ball.

"We are hurting and reaching down for our pitching," said Southern California Coach Rod Dedeaux. "But we are happy to still be in it, and still think we will make a good accounting."

Three of the Trojans' hits figured in the scoring and the winners also took advantage of seven walks and two hit batsmen.

Two of Southern California's hits were by Rich Dauer and he drove in one run. They let the senior third basemen tie the NCAA one-season mark for runs batted in at 90 and establish a total bases record of 178.

"We'll go with Mark Barr (10-1 and one series victory) and hope for the best," added Dedeaux. "We are due for another good hitting game."

Bucs Sign Top Golfer

Mike Buckmaster, a four-time All-Coastal 2-A Conference golfer, has signed a grant-in-aid to attend East Carolina University.

Buckmaster was a two-time conference medalist, winning in 1972 and 1974. He lost a playoff in 1973.

While a student at Swansboro High School, he played under Coach Bill Sweel. He finished in a tie for third place in the State High School Golf Tournament this year, having a two-day, 36-hole total of 144, equaling par both days.

In 19 matches this year, Buckmaster averaged 73.8 strokes per round. He is also a two-time Star Hill Golf and Country Club club champion, winning the last two titles.

"Mike is a talented and cool player," ECU Coach Bill Cain said. "He is a very steady and confident young man, and will make an outstanding member of our golf program."

Cain added, "One can very easily gauge the importance and the caliber of this signing. With four top players graduating, Mike will be pressed into almost immediate action as a front liner."

Indians Top Chicod

WINTERVILLE—The Indians nipped Chicod, 9-8, last night in the Southern Pitt Little League.

Ben Daniels, who banged out three hits, picked up the victory for the Indians.

The Indians are now 4-2, while Chicod is 3-3.

The Worry Clinic Why One Baby Is Not Enough

Mavis wonders how many children she should have, so study this case with care. And scrapbook the 10-points in favor of having more than one baby. To determine the sex of your future infants, send for the booklet below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
PH.D., M.D.

CASE A-657: Mavis R., aged 29, has 3 youngsters.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband wanted only one child. 'But I had him read your column wherein you said it was an injustice to deprive a youngster of brothers and sisters."

"But I mailed that column to my younger sister, so I'd like for you to explain the situation again."

"For I am to take part in a forum discussion at an educational clinic conducted by our church denomination."

Sibling Psychology
If you are physically able to bear one child, then you should set your goal on at least 3 and here's why:

(1) It takes 3 children per couple to maintain our population level.

And you literate folks who can read this column, need to offset the zooming population increase by the feeble-minded and "dull normal" categories who breed like guinea pigs.

(2) An "only" child is more likely to be an introvert, so you miss the stimulating effects of having an ambivert and also extrovert in your family.

(3) The 2nd child, if of the same sex as your first born, is likely to be taller. Why? Because your womb (uterus) has developed a better blood supply, thus nourishing the 2nd baby better during pregnancy.

Compare Tricia with Julie Nixon, or any pair of brothers in your family or neighborhood re height.

(4) The 2nd (and later babies) gain more milk if they are breast fed, for exercise of the mammary glands promotes richer secretion.

Besides, children at the table stimulate each other, so two youngsters eat better.

Your firstborn or only child is likely to have an eating problem!

(5) The 2nd baby stimulates the elder both mentally and physically.

For the elder then has somebody to talk to and to challenge his possession of toys.

Besides, the two romp and run together, so a 2nd child helps build up more muscular activity in the elder, thus reducing the demands on Daddy to "Play with me."

(6) You parents also don't need to devote as much tutoring to the 2nd, since the firstborn brings home ideas and coloring books from kindergarten and thus passes along much of the personalized teaching that you gave him.

(7) Siblings (brothers and sisters) also reassure a child, as at bedtime, for the only child is often somewhat afraid to be alone.

A sibling in the bunk beds of the same room, helps take the place of the teddy bear or cloth puppy or wooly toy lamb that you gave the firstborn to relax him at night.

Even the presence of siblings at his rear, also reassures the firstborn on the playground, for he knows he has some kinfolk to back him up if a bully tries to intimidate him.

(8) A sibling also does for the firstborn much what a wife does for a former old bachelor—socializes and humanizes him.

(9) Children help keep parents young by forcing them to stay in contact with reality, instead of withdrawing into premature senility.

(10) Several children cushion the shock when you lose the firstborn, as Mrs. Crane and I can testify from personal experience.

To help determine the sex of your babies and banish a lot of functional sterility, send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy" enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 24 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Five of ♠

"Lead on Macduff" wrote the Bard, and in due course Macbeth became Macduff's victim. South could have escaped a similar fate by keeping his Macduff off lead.

North was faced with a difficult rebid. Once South had denied a four-card major by responding one no trump, North was wary of a no trump game because of his heart weakness. His hand was too good for a rebid of two diamonds, but the quality of his suit left something to be desired for a jump to three diamonds. However, he finally decided that if he had to misdescribe something, it was better to tell a white lie about the quality of his suit than the strength of his hand.

Against South's three no trump contract, West led his fourth-best heart, and East's nine was captured by the ten. Declarer counted eight top tricks and it was obvious that the diamond suit had to be developed for the ninth, so without further ado he cashed the king of diamonds and continued with a diamond to the queen. West's failure to follow suit was a grievous blow, for now declarer couldn't establish a ninth trick without East gaining the lead with the fourth diamond, and a heart thru the king led the defenders score four tricks in the suit for a one-trick set.

Since declarer could afford to lose a diamond trick and still have enough tricks for his contract providing the opponents didn't take five tricks first, he should have planned to give up a diamond trick to the safe hand. The play to the first trick made it clear that West held the ace-queen of hearts, so to protect the king from attack, South should have tried to let West win a diamond trick.

His best chance of accomplishing this is to cross to dummy at trick two with the king of spades and lead a low diamond, finessing the nine. West wins the ten, but the suit is now set up. This line of play succeeds whenever diamonds are no worse than 4-1, except when East holds J-10-x-x in diamonds. But in that case, there is absolutely nothing declarer can do to stave off defeat.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 15, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day of opportunities in many directions, especially in making changes that can bring more efficiency and progress to whatever talents are yours. Constructive efforts during the evening hours can easily bring success.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A discussion with associates over a plan that is highly commendable brings fine results. Go after your most cherished goals.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are able to get the data you need from a higher-up now that will help you become more successful. Be more thoughtful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A fine day for getting together with fine pals. Also, plan what is best for you to do in the future and make plans for such.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A course of action you have decided upon should be carried out as quickly as possible. Don't neglect any payments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A plan you have in mind can bring you real success in the future. Do nothing in the evening that could ruin your reputation.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make better arrangements with associates. Listen to the voice of your intuition and let your hunches help you. Be logical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have many new ideas that an associate comprehends. See what can be done to have greater success. Relax at home tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have quite a work load today so don't waste time doing the wrong things. Do nothing that could endanger your health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Anything you like to do of an amusement nature is fine. Mate needs encouragement so show the depth of your devotion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If a family member gives you an idea, study it carefully and follow through if you think it practical. Be cheerful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can have a delightful time today and tonight if you join congenials you truly like. Do something thoughtful for mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your assets carefully and do whatever will improve them. A new plan you have should be studied for practicability.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much ability in varying directions but requires guidance from a strong and capable person to achieve desired results. There are constant changes of ideas here so teach to finish whatever has once been started, or little will be accomplished. Give good spiritual training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for July is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), P.O. Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

SUPERBUS—A passerby holds her head in awe as the swivel-hipped European superbus made its debut in New York this week. The $85,000 yellow-and-red bus is 54 feet long and seats 63 passengers as opposed to conventional city buses which are 40 feet long and seat 47 passengers. The test ride of the hinged bus is part of a joint demonstration in eight cities: Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit, Seattle, Oakland, Los Angeles and Dallas, besides New York (AP Wirephoto)

Florida Firm Is Giving Up S.C. Treasure Hunt

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—A Florida firm is giving up its search for $87 million in gold coins and silver reportedly in the wreckage of two 16th century Spanish ships in the waters around nearby Georgetown.

"Looking for something you know exists is one thing, but looking for something that might not exist at all becomes, eventually, poor business," President Norman Scott of Expeditions Unlimited, Pompano Beach, Fla., said Thursday.

Scott said his searches have revealed the wreckage of a pair of barges of the late 1800s right where Wade Quattlebaum of Vance, S.C., had pinpointed them.

Won Degree At Wisc. U.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Miss Mildred L. Atkinson of Greenville, N.C., was one of 2,300 graduates who received their degrees from the University of Wisconsin recently.

Atkinson received her master's degree in social work from the National Institute of Mental Health Fellowship for the two years of graduate study. She completed her undergraduate work at Shaw University, Raleigh, N.C. and received a bachelor of arts degree in sociology. She was graduated cum laude.

Prior to attending college, Miss Atkinson attended Sallie Branch Elementary School and Bethel Union High School. She has accepted a position as social worker with the North Carolina Department of Human Resources at Caswell Center, Kinston, N.C. She is the daughter of Mrs. Doris Shaw Atkinson, formerly of Greenville, N.C.

Promotions For Pitt Students In ROTC Unit

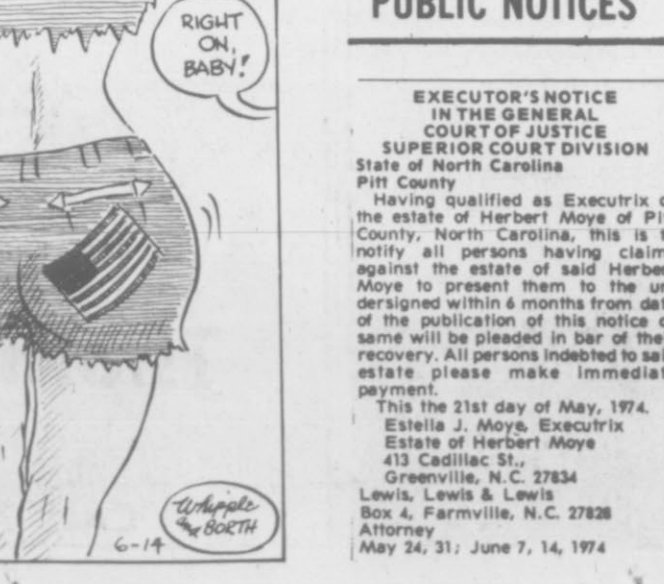

GREENSBORO—Two Farmville students recently received promotions in the Air Force ROTC unit at North Carolina A & T State University.

Bennett College sophomores Faye Howard and Margie Joyner are now classed as Cadet First Class Airmen after going before the GMC promotion board.

Miss Howard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lodred Howard and is a political science major at Bennett College. She is active in campus activities, especially the college band. She is an assistant in the office of publications and information at Bennett.

Miss Joyner, a psychology major, is the daughter of Mrs. Margie R. Joyner. She is also active in campus activities and was sixth runner-up in the A & T "Miss Air Force ROTC" contest.

The temple orange was introduced into the United States in 1917.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets weaker on medium and small, steady on large. Supplies fully adequate, demand fair. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 50.73, medium whites 39.90, small whites 30.29.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hog prices were ranging from 75 cents to $2 higher today. Tops of 26.50 to 27.50 at Kinston and Lumberton; 26 to 26.50 at Rocky Mount; 24 to 24.50 at Tarboro and Bethel; 27 at Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden, Laurinburg and Benson; 26.50 at Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: market weaker for next week. Supplies fully adequate, demand fair, weights irregular, but mostly desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers 969,000.

North Carolina hens; market steady, supplies of heavy types plentiful, demand slow. Heavies at the farm, 10 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market, weakened by faded hopes for lower interest rates, settled into a broad decline today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.88 at 845.20, and losers outdistanced gainers by 7 to 2 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was relatively light. Analysts said some selling was touched off by weekly Federal Reserve figures released after Thursday's close, which seemed to show no sign of the easing in tight-money pressures that Wall Street has been hoping for.

New York's First National City Bank, which cut its prime lending rate a quarter-point last Friday, left the key rate on short-term loans to big business unchanged at 11 1/2 per cent today.

No other major New York banks have gone to an 11 1/2 per cent prime in the week since Citibank's move.

Central Soya dropped 1 1/2 to 13 1/2. The company said it expected earnings for the quarter to May 31 to show a 16 per cent decline from the like period last year.

L. E. Myers, opening late, gained 3/4 to 6 1/4. The company announced plans to acquire the privately owned L. K. Comstock & Co., an engineering concern, for 883,556 L. E. Myers shares.

General Motors was the Big Board volume leader, down 3/4 to 51 1/2. Other auto issues were unchanged. On the American Stock Exchange, Marinduque Mining B was the most active stock, down 1/2 to 4 1/4. The Amex' 11 a.m. market value index was off .29 at 84.34.

The NYSE's composite index of approximately 1,500 common stocks lost .42 to 48.08.

Mayor's Husband Now Is Seeking Her Recall

LAKE MARY, Fla. (AP)—The husband of the mayor of this sleepy little town has started a campaign to put her honor out of work. The first family of Lake Mary, a town of 2,600 north of Orlando, is split politically over whether the city should grow. Mayor Margie Hess feels it should. Citizen George Hess feels it shouldn't.

"This city voted to incorporate to keep things the way they are—dirt roads and all," citizen Hess, a part-time construction worker, said Thursday. "It's just a country hick town. We want to keep it that way."

Incorporation passed by a single vote last August. In December, Mrs. Hess, campaigning partly on her record of service with the volunteer fire department and partly on an "orderly growth" platform, was elected mayor. She's paid $125 a month.

Monday night, Mayor Hess and the city council voted 3 to 1 to approve a housing development that Hess says would bring in too many people.

He met with an attorney Thursday to draft a petition calling for the abolition of the city charter.

He said he expects the petition to hit the streets next week. It would require signatures of 51 per cent of the electorate to force a recall vote.

"I really hate to see the incorporation broken," said Hess. "But there really isn't any other way to undo what the council has done."

"Additional pressure to hire a second policeman, road work crews and add other big-city expenses also prompted my action."

In the meantime, Mayor Hess is kept busy answering the family telephone, which has been ringing steadily with calls supporting the petition.

"It certainly is interesting being the mayor and acting as an answering service for people who want to put me out of business," said Mrs. Hess, a registered nurse, mother of three children and owner of the family business, a hardware store.

She said that although she likes her job, she holds no grudges against her husband for trying to do away with it.

"I understand fully why he is trying to do this," she said. "But I worked hard to be elected mayor and I would like to see the city continue."

Secret Date Of Prince Charles

By PETER EBERT
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP)—His great-uncle's death kept Prince Charles from entertaining a California girl at Ambassador Walter Annenberg's farewell party Thursday night, but the heir to the British throne took her to Buckingham Palace instead.

An American Embassy official confirmed that Charles had a secret date with Laura Jo Watkins, 20, the daughter of an admiral from San Diego who came 6,000 miles for the Annenberg's party because the prince asked that she be invited.

Charles, 25, was to have been the guest of honor at the dinner and dance the ambassador and his wife gave to say goodbye after five years in London. The Annenbergs asked Charles if he wanted to invite anyone, and he asked for Miss Watkins. They met last March at a cocktail party when the prince visited San Diego while on duty with the Royal Navy.

Miss Watkins arrived in London Saturday to visit the Annenbergs, but on Monday the Duke of Gloucester died. The court went into mourning until the funeral today, and Charles couldn't go to the party.

Miss Watkins didn't go either. Instead she slipped out of the ambassador's residence just before the party began and was driven to Buckingham Palace. The Daily Mail said she returned to the Annenbergs' about 11:30 p.m.

Spokesmen at Buckingham Palace and the U.S. Embassy refused to comment on speculation about a romance between the two.

Miss Watkins was also the prince's guest in the gallery of the House of Lords Thursday to hear him make his first speech to the upper house of Parliament. He was the first Prince of Wales to address the chamber since his great-great-grandfather, who became King Edward VII, did so in 1884.

In San Diego, Calif., Laura's mother said: "I never thought anything like this would happen, but we're taking things in stride."

There was speculation Miss Watkins might be wearing an engagement ring. But her mother said Laura Jo had inherited the gold-and-pearl ring from her maternal grandmother.

Last Day To Designate

RALEIGH (AP)—Today is the last day North Carolina flue-cured tobacco growers can designate warehouses to market their crops.

In a new marketing system started this year, a signup period began May 20. Farmers are required to designate a warehouse within a 100 mile radius of the county seat of the county in which the tobacco farm is located to market their crop.

Previously, farmers had to maneuver for floor space in tobacco warehouses. The warehouses were allotted a certain amount of sales time in the market based on their previous sales experiences and the sales history of the area.

Pemberton Slade, of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said Thursday approximately 80 per cent of the state's 65,000 operators of flue-cured tobacco farms had already designated.

He said he expected the figure to rise to 90 per cent by the deadline.

Swarm Of Bees Came Downtown

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—A swarm of honey bees hitched a ride to downtown Florence Thursday and had the townspeople a-buzzin' before the leader of the unruly group was arrested.

Florence police, unprepared for such an occasion, called in local beekeeper T.L. Bailey who nabbed the leader—the queen bee. She was then ridden out of town with her thousands of subjects in pursuit.

Police said the bee apparently nested on the underside of a station wagon driven by W.A. Bell of Florence. They said he didn't know the hitchhikers were there until he was downtown.

Bell parked on Florence's main street then sought shelter in a handy shop. The bees, meanwhile, were chasing shoppers, businessmen and police. No one was injured.

Seeks Improved Gas Mileage

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal energy chief John C. Sawhill has launched a new campaign to conserve gasoline, starting by trying to get automakers to improve the gasoline mileage of their products.

Sawhill met Thursday with Edward N. Cole, president of General Motors, in the first of a series of meetings, seeking a voluntary program to improve mileage through keeping gasoline consumption at 1973 levels; setting specific mileage goals for each auto-maker, and setting maximum allowable gasoline consumption for all new cars.
