

Nixon Promises Nuclear Help To Israel

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The United States today promised Israel the same help in developing nuclear power that it plans to give Egypt and reaffirmed its commitment to long-term arms shipments to the Jewish state.

President Nixon made the announcement in a joint communique with Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin in Jerusalem, then flew to Amman for talks with King Hussein.

The American President arrived on the last stop of his five-nation Middle East tour to the tightest security he has encountered in any Arab country.

Nixon and Rabin said their two governments "will negotiate an agreement on cooperation in the field of nuclear energy, technology and the supply of fuel from the United States under agreed safeguards."

"This agreement will in particular take into account the intention of the government of Israel to purchase power reactors from the United States" to provide electricity for Israel's rapidly growing economy, the communique said.

Israel has had an agreement with the United States covering joint nuclear research for the past 15 years, and the communique said a provisional agreement would be made this month "on the further sale of nuclear fuel to Israel."

The wording of the communique paralleled that of one three days ago in which Nixon announced in Cairo the United States would supply nuclear reactors and fuel to Egypt for peaceful purposes. The agreement had been forecast earlier today at a news conference by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Kissinger also sought to quiet suspicions in Israel and the U.S. Congress that the Egyptians would use the American nuclear aid to produce nuclear weapons. He said the U.S. government would "make doubly sure there aren't any loopholes" in its agreement with Egypt.

The secretary said there never were any such questions about the similar agreements the United States has with nearly 30 other nations until India set off its first nuclear explosion last month. But Kissinger said India's nuclear program was aided by Canada, and Canada's safeguards are not as good as those of the United States.

The United States helped Israel build a five-megawatt research reactor in 1959 south of Tel Aviv and signed an agreement then to cooperate in the research program. Israel has a second reactor on the Negev Desert that can produce plutonium.

The Israeli government has denied repeatedly that it is producing nuclear bombs or warheads. But foreign experts are convinced Israel's scientists and engineers could manufacture nuclear weapons speedily if ordered to do so.

Nixon, meanwhile, told Israel it must be prepared to compromise further in Middle East peace efforts if it is to avoid another war with the Arabs. In a lengthy toast at the conclusion of a state dinner in Jerusalem Sunday night, he praised the Israelis for their courage in the four wars they have fought with the Arabs in the last quarter of a century.

But "it also takes courage, a different kind of courage, to wage peace," the President said. "It requires risks, just as war requires risks, and the stakes are high just as the stakes in war are high."

The alternative is "another war and another one, and each one, of course, is terribly costly ... particularly to this nation."

Nixon flew to Israel from Damascus, where he and President Hafez Assad announced the resumption of Syrian-United States diplomatic relations, which Syria broke during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. Of the seven Arab nations that broke with the U.S. then, only Iraq has not restored the ties.

Use of wiretaps in domestic surveillance remains a concern for a sizeable number of committee members, and the search for a link between Nixon's decision to raise milk prices and campaign contributions by the dairy industry awaits the testimony of former White House aide Charles W. Colson.

Some members still question the legality of the secret bombing of Cambodia ordered by Nixon, but a majority appears convinced it is not an impeachable offense.

In the same interview, Ruckelshaus said he believes Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger should be cleared in the wiretapping controversy. He said his familiarity with the case tended to confirm Kissinger's explanation of his role in the wiretapping.

He did not reveal what future Watergate developments could be expected, but said: "There is information that I'm aware of that has not yet become public" or perhaps been brought before the impeachment inquiry.

Atty. Gen. William D. Ruckelshaus said Sunday there are other surprises ahead in the Watergate scandal. Ruckelshaus, who was fired from the Justice Department Oct. 20 after refusing to fire Archibald Cox as special prosecutor, was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation" program.

Five Allegations Against Nixon Are Still Under Study

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is nearing the end of its impeachment inquiry, with only about five of the original 55 allegations against President Nixon still under active examination.

The Watergate cover-up, Nixon's taxes and charges that the administration used the Internal Revenue Service for political purposes are the major areas still under review. The cover-up inquiry stems from the break-in two years ago today of Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate building complex.

Use of wiretaps in domestic surveillance remains a concern for a sizeable number of committee members, and the search for a link between Nixon's decision to raise milk prices and campaign contributions by the dairy industry awaits the testimony of former White House aide Charles W. Colson.

Precinct Meets Tuesday

A round of four important meetings for Democrats will begin Tuesday.

Voter precinct meetings will be held on that date with the election of precinct officers and delegates to the county convention as the primary business.

Each individual precinct will elect a precinct chairman, three vice-chairmen and a secretary-treasurer at the June 18 meeting which will be held at 8 p.m.

Along with these new officers, the Democrats will be selecting delegates for the county convention, which will be held June 29 at 2 p.m. at the Pitt County Courthouse.

The number of delegates for the county convention will be decided by the number of votes the precinct cast for the Democratic nominee for governor.

Other important Democratic meetings coming up will be the district convention on July 20 at Redmen's Hall in Washington, N.C. at 1 p.m. and the state convention to be held Aug. 3 at Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium at 11 a.m.

The county meeting will be an important one for area Democrats, as new county officers will be elected and delegates will be selected for the Democratic State Executive Committee.

County offices to be elected will be chairman, three vice-chairmen, a secretary and a treasurer.

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Representatives of the world's leading oil exporting nations neared a decision on oil prices today amid reports they would continue a freeze on the posted prices for the next three months.

INSURANCE PROBLEM
My husband paid premiums for disability insurance from the Combine Insurance Co. of Chicago for 30 years and never used a single benefit. The company always sent a representative to collect the premium and would not allow us to mail the premium payment. Our premium, due in September, 1973, was not collected on time by the representative. Before the agent arrived to collect, my husband had an accident and went into the hospital. He died a few days later, not from causes relating to his accident. I have been trying to get a settlement with this company for months but they keep disputing whether or not his coverage was in effect when the accident occurred. Can you help me get this settled? Mrs. W.F.B.

STATE EMPLOYMENT
I'm interested in finding out what openings the state has for employment. Who maintains listings for state job openings? M.L.

Each County office of the Employment Security Commission maintains a list of state job openings for their county, as required by law. Persons seeking jobs with the state can check with their local ESC office and they will check on openings in the specific area the person is seeking employment. The ESC also receives a booklet entitled Competitive Service Announcements which lists job openings with the state and the examination requirements for the particular jobs.

You should be receiving a settlement check through your attorney in the near future. When Hotline contacted the Combine Insurance Company's office in Chicago they examined your file and decided not to dispute any longer when your agent came to collect the premium payment. A spokesman for the company, Dick Berry, told Hotline the company would contact your attorney and arrange settlement. You should expect to hear from your attorney in the near future concerning when the check will be arriving.

Threat Remains

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger refused today to soften his threat to resign unless allegations that he lied about his involvement in White House wiretapping are proved false.

"I stick by what I said a week ago, and now the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is going to look into the matter," Kissinger told a news conference today.

The secretary called the news conference to discuss President Nixon's Middle East tour, but the first question asked him dealt with his threat to resign.

Kissinger told a news conference in Salzburg last Tuesday at the start of Nixon's trip that he would quit the government unless he was exonerated. He called on the Foreign Relations Committee to re-examine his testimony before it when he was confirmed last fall, and the committee quickly agreed to look into the controversy.

Since his Salzburg news conference, Kissinger had stayed in the background during the Nixon tour.

Checking On FBI

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe says he has assigned a Justice Department committee to look into FBI counterintelligence practices "that were just not right."

"I expect to take it before Congress and to tell Congress exactly what happened," Saxbe said Sunday in disclosing the investigation of the counterintelligence program approved by late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Without specifying incidents, Saxbe said the operation "meant that (Hoover) was taking active measures to stop the violence on campus and the racist activities and what he considered Communist activities."

No Immunity

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Georgia Congressman Ben B. Blackburn of Atlanta was clocked at 70 miles per hour Sunday on I-85, where the speed limit is 55. He received a ticket.

He decided to challenge the citation in Mecklenburg County Magistrate's Court, so he followed county patrolmen S.L. Price and L.H. Hunt to the county jail, where magistrate's court is held.

Blackburn told Magistrate Robert House that, because he is a congressman, he is immune from arrest.

House foned the clerk of superior court, Max Blackburn, no relation to the congressman. Blackburn said congressmen are only immune in civil matters.

Rep. Blackburn paid a fine of $10 and court costs of $16.

Annex To House Of Commons Is Terror Target

By JAMES R. PEIPERT

LONDON (AP) — A bomb believed set by Irish terrorists exploded in an annex of the House of Commons during the morning rush hour today, setting Parliament on fire and injuring 11 persons, officials said.

There was considerable damage to Westminster Hall, oldest of the buildings in Westminster Palace, which houses Parliament.

It was the first such attack since Guy Fawkes' abortive gunpowder bomb plot in 1604.

Shortly before today's explosion a man with an Irish accent telephoned the Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency, to warn that a bomb would go off in the House of Commons in six minutes.

Scotland Yard's bomb squad was racing to the building when they heard the blast.

Windows at the front of the hall were blown out, but the giant stained-glass windows at the other end appeared undamaged. However, it was feared there was considerable damage to the hall's unique 13th century timber roof.

A police spokesman said the bomb fractured a gas main and started a fire that sent flames shooting high above the 14th century St. Stephen's Chapel, near Westminster Hall. Dense smoke enveloped Big Ben for a time. The police said the bomb went off near a ground-floor canteen adjacent to the hall.

More than a dozen fire engines fought the blaze as hundreds of persons stopped on their way to work to watch. The fire was reported under control an hour after the bomb blast.

One police explosives expert told a member of Commons the bomb contained between 15 and 20 pounds of explosive material.

Members of Parliament stood in pools of water amid a tangle of fire hoses and gazed in dismay at the fire damage.

Barrels of gunpowder were stored in the buildings's cellars and Fawkes was supposed to set them off. But the authorities were tipped off to the plot, searched the cellars and found Fawkes.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal Alfred Angelo original gown of imported white silk organza. The gown was fashioned with a Victorian neckline with a pleated organza ruffle and Venise lace. This topped a sheer half moon yoke with beading of crystals and pearls. The yoke was edged with Venise lace and pleated organza ruffle, and covered an empire bodice which was circled with Guipere lace.

The long fitted Victorian sleeves were trimmed with appliques of Guipere lace and a fluted organza ruffle. The silhouette A-line skirt had a trim of bands of Guipere lace which continued on an attached chapel length train. The gown and train were finished with scalloped Guipere lace and a fluted organza ruffle. The sleeves and back of the gown were finished with bridal buttons.

The bride wore an elbow length veil of imported silk illusion which fell from a bandeau of Venise lace flowerettes, pearls and crystal flowers. Her bouquet was a formal cascade of yellow sweetheart roses and interspersed with white carnations, fuji mums and centered with white hybrid orchid.

Mrs. Brenda Stroud of Snow Hill was matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of seakist and white floral dotted swiss over seakist taffeta featuring a V-neckline edged in ruffled cluny lace. Matching lace also trimmed the short puff sleeves. Forest green satin ribbon encircled the empire waistline with long streamers flowing down the back of the gown. Ruffled cluny lace trimmed the modified A-line skirt in an apron effect. She wore a loop bow headpiece in white satin ribbon and carried a nosegay of mixed spring flowers and baby's breath with forest green and white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Nancy Murphy of Snow Hill, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Debra Potts of Snow Hill, niece of the bride, Miss Melody Moore of Farmville, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Audrey Potts of Snow Hill, niece of the bride. Their dresses were fashioned after that of the honor attendant and they had headpieces of green loop bows. They carried similar nosegays tied with forest green streamers.

Miss Niki Raspberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Raspberry of Farmville, was flower girl. She wore a dress similar to the other attendants and carried a white summer basket filled with mixed spring flowers. Charles Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hervey T. Moore of Farmville, was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a white lace and a fluted organza ruffle.

Miss N.C. Title Goes To High Point Beauty

FIGHTING BACK THE TEARS—Susan Lynn Griffin of High Point, N. C. carries the trophy and scepter of office of Miss North Carolina across the stage at Saturday night's pageant in Charlotte. (AP Wirephoto)

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The new Miss North Carolina, Susan Lynn Griffin, was misty-eyed as she said goodbye to her 58 fellow contestants at an "Awards Brunch" at Queens College Sunday.

Miss Griffin, who entered the pageant as Miss High Point, was crowned late Saturday night before a statewide television audience.

The 21-year-old blue-eyed blond is a High Point legal secretary who hopes to become a professional entertainer.

A talent winner during the preliminary judging, she sang "With A Song In My Heart" in the finals. She plans to sing the same number in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J. in September.

She succeeds Miss Heather Walker of Hendersonville. Miss Griffin, 35-24-36, studied voice at Milligan College in Tennessee and hopes to return to complete her schooling.

She won a $2,500 scholarship and will receive an additional $2,500 to buy clothes for her trip to the national pageant.

First runner-up was Miss Raleigh, 18-year-old Vivian Craig, a student at Meredith College from Stanley.

Second runner-up was Miss Goldsboro, Karen Lou Wilson, 22. Third runner-up was Miss Gastonia, Teresa Elledge, 19, and fourth runner-up was Miss Sanford, Joan Stoltz, 22.

Guru's Gift Is Taken Back

DENVER (AP) — Guru Maharaj Ji's 22-foot cabin cruiser is back in the hands of the boat dealer.

Followers of the 16-year-old religious leader gave him the boat as a wedding gift last month, but couldn't find a bank that would lend them the rest of the purchase price.

The purchasers put down $2,000 in cash. The balance was $7,200, according to the manager of the firm that sold the boat. "But their bank wouldn't give them a loan on the boat and neither would ours," said Bud Treat.

The queen is making her first visit to France since a 1972 state visit.

France Sets Off Nuclear Blast

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — France today set off the first explosion in its 1974 nuclear test series in the South Pacific, the Australian government reported.

The prime ministers of Australia and New Zealand protested.

The French government refused comment. It never announces the individual tests but said earlier this month this year's series would be the last conducted in the atmosphere.

The Australian government said a nuclear device was set off today over the Mururoa Atoll, the French test site about 1,000 miles southeast of Tahiti.

Prime Minister Gough Whitlam of Australia said the new tests were of deep concern to his government because they would result in radioactive fallout on Australian territory. He said the French statement that these would be the last atmospheric tests was a step in the right direction, but that the French government has not given his government "any satisfactory commitment that further atmospheric tests will not be held."

New Zealand's Prime Minister Norman E. Kirk said he had told his ambassador in Paris to file a strong protest. And Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of Canada criticized nuclear explosions in the atmosphere, saying in a speech: "There is no need for any country to develop a nuclear explosive competence." He apparently was referring also to India, which set off its first nuclear blast on May 18.

A senior Australian official said intelligence sources informed the government of the French blast and the report had been double-checked.

The Atomic Energy Commission in Washington had no immediate comment.

The tests have caused disension within the three-week-old government of new French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, fired publisher Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber from his cabinet for publicly criticizing the decision to go ahead with the tests.

The French have barred shipping from a 60-mile danger zone around Mururoa. But there has been no word of any invasion by yachtlords of antinuclear demonstrators that usually accompanies the tests.

The French set off five low-yield explosions in the 1973 series that ended last September. They were reported to have been small atomic bombs to be used as triggers for the French hydrogen bomb expected to be operational by 1976.

France now has set off 53 nuclear devices in the atmosphere since its first explosion in the Sahara on Feb. 13, 1960. Engineers are now drilling tunnels at Mururoa and neighboring Fangatofa Atoll in preparation for underground testing.

Fewer People Today Favoring Nixon Ouster

PRINCETON, N.J.—The percentage of Americans who think President Nixon should be compelled to leave office has declined since early May.

In the latest survey, 44 per cent favor removing the President from office, compared to 41 per cent opposed. In the earlier survey the comparable figures were 48 per cent in favor and 37 per cent opposed.

The latest findings represent a slight decline in the proportion favoring such a course of action, following a long upward trend.

But Sentiment Still In Favor of Impeachment

While opinion is now closely divided on the issue of compelling Nixon to leave office, those who favor impeaching the President—having the House of Representatives decide whether there is enough evidence to bring Nixon to trial before the Senate—continue to outweigh those opposed by a fairly wide margin.

In the latest survey, 50 per cent think there is enough evidence of possible wrongdoing to bring Nixon to trial. Thirty-two per cent hold the opposite view. Opinions today are virtually the same as those recorded in two previous surveys in which the same question was asked.

69% Think Nixon Should Turn Over Additional Tapes

A key factor in the thinking of those favoring impeachment and/or the removal of Nixon from the presidency has been the belief that he is withholding information necessary to the investigation of the Watergate affair.

In the latest survey, a large majority of persons interviewed, 69 per cent, think Nixon should give the House Judiciary Committee the additional tapes they have requested. The President has refused to turn over additional tapes, saying the committee has all the material it needs.

Among those who think Nixon should give the committee the tapes, nearly two persons in three (64 per cent) want him brought to trial. And in the same group 59 per cent think his actions have been serious enough to have him removed from office.

Following is the question asked to determine views on compelling Nixon to leave office (following an explanation of the impeachment process): "Just from the way you feel now, do you think his (Nixon's) actions are serious enough to warrant his being removed from the presidency, or not?"

	Yes	No	Opinion
June 1974	44%	41%	15%
May 1974	48	37	15
April 1974	46	42	12

For purposes of comparison, here are the results for the eight previous surveys, based on the following question: "Do you think President Nixon should be impeached and compelled to leave the presidency, or not?"

	Yes	No	Opinion
Feb. 1974	38%	51%	11%
Jan. 1974	37	53	10
Nov. 1973	35	54	11
Nov. 1973	37	54	9
Oct. 1973	33	52	15
Aug. 1973	26	61	13
July 1973	24	62	14
June 1973	19	69	12

"A woman is made to be beautiful and to be looked at. And I feel a queen is the same thing. I like to be treated feminine, like a baby," she added.

Israeli Ready New Pullback

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli troops today prepared to evacuate another section of Syrian territory captured in the October war, and one front-line officer said life was returning to normal on the former battlefield on the Golan Heights.

As President Nixon continued his Middle East mission, the Israelis were withdrawing the last of their heavy armament from about one third of the Syrian land they are surrendering and destroying former Syrian military fortifications.

The area was to be handed over to United Nations peace-keeping forces Tuesday. The Israelis also were retreating from lines near the U.N. camp where Israeli and Syrian officers negotiated details of the disengagement through a U.N. mediator.

An officer at a forward observation post said Syrian civilians were seen returning to the area given up last Friday in the first phase of the four-stage Israeli withdrawal.

The officer said Syrian soldiers were combing abandoned villages for explosives and keeping the civilians in tents near their former homes.

Israel must complete its withdrawal by June 26, according to the agreement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger last month.

With a stable cease-fire on both Syrian and Egyptian fronts, Israel was concentrating on detecting Palestinian guerrillas crossing the Lebanese border.

Information Minister Aharon Yariv said the government expects more terrorist raids aimed at sabotaging the Arab-Israeli agreements.

Since April, Arab suicide squads have killed 46 Israelis — 31 of them children. Last Thursday guerrillas invaded a kibbutz near the border and killed three women.

Indicative Of Great Pressures

The emotional press conference that Sec. of State Henry Kissinger held last week was surprising to the nation and the world.

Kissinger threatened to resign if his name was not cleared in accusations that he ordered wire taps. Kissinger had denied the charges but there were reports of memos which disputed this.

Kissinger was emotional at the press conference and seemed to be demanding a show of confidence from the nation. That was forthcoming in a few days in a statement of confidence from the majority of the U.S. Senate.

Certainly the nation owes Henry Kissinger a large debt of gratitude for his tremendously successful efforts in settling the Vietnam war and negotiating a settlement of the Middle East crisis. In this time of the Watergate mess, he is by far the brightest star in the Nixon administration.

Kissinger's strong reaction to the charges is indicative of the great pressures in the present administration brought on by the Watergate controversy. We must accept, though, that the problems brought on by Watergate and related developments in the administration are not going to go away during the present term. Too many high officials have pled guilty to charges and a vice president, faced with the gravest charges, has resigned. The presidential tapes have exhibited too little concern for the people and too much for saving the reputations of those high in the administration.

We are all tired of Watergate and almost no one wants to see Henry Kissinger dragged down into that whirlpool. Certainly we don't blame him for defending himself in any honorable way.

Kissinger, though, like everyone in the country, will have to accept the fact that Watergate and its related problems are going to be with us as long as Nixon occupies the White House. Too much real evidence of wrong doing has come up to let the nation turn its back on Watergate with a clear conscience.

Nuclear Power Pledge Stirs Our Misgivings

President Nixon's pledge of aid to Egypt it would be acceptable, except for the fact that it includes nuclear power.

The president pledged aid for agricultural and industrial development, including nuclear power. The nuclear power will be for peaceful purposes, but as India has shown, there is nothing to keep any country from using that knowledge to develop an atomic bomb.

We don't need any more nuclear bombs in the world and we should discourage any country from developing them.

Highway Speed Creeps Back Up

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—After a winter and spring of slower driving, Tar Heel motorists are beginning to give it the gas again.

Both pace speed monitoring reports and accident rates reflect the change.

But even though increasing speed from the wintertime low between 50 and 55 miles per hour, vehicles across the state are not going as fast as they did before the gasoline shortage struck late last year.

"Speeds are gradually creeping back up. People are going a little slower than they were before the fuel crisis came," said Joseph K. Register of the records division of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

He said the "pace speed" now is about 60 miles per hour.

Pace speed is a reference used by state officials for the average speed at which about 80 per cent of the driving public is travelling.

Radars Watch

The figure is reached from a combination of speed monitoring studies including those carried out by the State Highway Patrol and officials of the Department of Transportation's highway division.

Getting a true pace speed is no easy task, according to the people who conduct the studies.

"People have a sixth sense about radar monitoring of speed. . . Normally people slow down anytime there is one around," explained Edgar R. Shuller Jr., the man in charge of the project.

The object, Shuller said, is to get a true picture of the speeds actually being travelled by average motorists.

A highway patrol car can't accomplish that because people will spot it, flash lights at oncoming motorists and disrupt the normal traffic flow.

Highway commission people attempt to find an off-the-road location and use a car which won't be readily identifiable as a monitor unit—even to the extent of putting an out of state license plate on an unmarked vehicle and making it look like a car which has broken down alongside the road.

The major statewide survey is made each April at 26 specified locations across the state. The same locations are used each year, focusing on a straight stretch of road and using a cross-section of the different kinds of road—interstate, four-lane divided, two-lane, etc.

Pace Car

The hidden radar unit measures the speed of free-flowing traffic, fastening on the "pace car" at the front of a fast-moving pack.

This year's April study is still being processed, but Shuller said his "seat of the pants feeling" is that speeds are back up over those during the fuel crunch.

When pace speeds creep up as they are now, it isn't likely law enforcement officers will be able to do much about that, even though the speed is in excess of posted limits.

The statewide speed limit remains at 55 miles per hour, but Register pointed out that with some 80 per cent of the motorists driving five to seven miles above the limit, about all a Highway Patrolman can do is supervise the movement—he can't stop practically every car on the road.

In past years, pace speed studies have been used to justify increases in the speed limits on particular kinds of roads, but in the wake of the fuel shortage, sentiment is toward not increasing speeds.

The decreased accident rates are also instrumental in encouraging legislators to keep speeds lower.

So far this year, the state has recorded a 20 per cent decline in the traffic death rate and a 12 per cent drop in the overall accident rate.

That decline is reversing now, Register said, and both rates are creeping back up, although officials do not expect a return to former levels in view of the generally slower traffic flow.

Paranoiac Aura Hit Kissinger

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Henry Kissinger's first serious thought of resigning came not last week but in April 1973, as the Watergate crisis exploded—and it was directly linked to his precarious position as an outsider in the Nixon White House.

For four years, Kissinger had been the target of chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, who used to refer to him in the inner sanctums as "Superkraut." Despite rising popularity and diplomatic triumphs, Kissinger always felt imperiled. Partly from that sense of seige came his ready consent to wiretap his own aides in the name of security. From it, too, came his brooding 14 months ago that the wiretaps would someday be used to entangle him in Watergate.

He was prophetic. Intimates are convinced that Haldeman's chief associate, John D. Ehrlichman, has leaked information against him. But the irony of his resignation threat is this: it fortifies both Mr. Nixon and indicted Watergate conspirators, including Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

All now seem under the same tent. Mr. Nixon and his disgraced aides benefit from association with Nobel Prize winner Kissinger. But both his brilliant career and American foreign policy are threatened.

Suspicion of Kissinger by the Haldeman gang came from his associations: Harvard professors, Georgetown dinner parties, Vietnam sessions with Nixon-haters. He had also hired scorned "Eastern elitists."

In the paranoiac White House, where everyone beyond Haldeman's inner circle was an enemy, Kissinger's political antecedents as intimate adviser of Mr. Nixon's political foe, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, were suspect.

Kissinger had his own ample share of paranoia, and the Nixon White House polished it. Thus, two years ago Kissinger ended an early-morning Oval Office session with the President and Haldeman to keep a breakfast appointment. When Haldeman asked who with, he named the author of a new Nixon book.

"He's no friend of ours," Haldeman exploded in anger.

Kissinger turned to the President and said the book had praised the Nixon foreign policy, but that he had skipped the rest of it. Mr. Nixon was amused, but Haldeman was outraged.

When the decision was made in May 1969 to start tapping telephones of reporters and National Security aides, Kissinger offered not the slightest resistance. He himself was engaged at the leaks. They threatened his network of secret diplomatic activity. He felt that a government unable to keep its secrets could not operate.

But beyond that was his own endangered flank. Surrounded by aides whom Haldeman regarded as Nixon enemies, Kissinger was "holier than the Pope," listing his closest associates on the National Security staff among those having access to secret information.

When Watergate broke, Kissinger quietly suggested that both Haldeman and Ehrlichman resign in Mr. Nixon's interest.

They did not react favorably, and Ehrlichman later became a source of newspaper stories seeming to link Kissinger into the enveloping scandal. Kissinger kept silent, but even in April 1973 he was privately talking resignation if a spurious tie-in connected him with Watergate. Thus, when he went public in Salzburg, the words that flowed had been practiced in his mind for many months.

In going public, Kissinger is seeking a total exoneration that may be beyond anyone's power. Ambiguities over his exact words about the wiretapping issue can't be resolved.

Kissinger has now given Mr. Nixon his best anti-impeachment ammunition: linking his celebrated name to the President's, in the sense that, for totally different reasons, both are now under attack from press and politicians. As one member of the House Judiciary Committee told us: "This affair has robbed the impeachment proceedings of its viability."

Kissinger's enemies are now cheering: liberals who will never forgive his toughness—and success—on the Vietnam war; Zionists who feel he has betrayed Israel; anti-Soviet hardliners

Strength For Today

LOW TIDE-HIGH TIDE
A tide-water marsh when the tide has ebbed presents a dreary picture. Everywhere is oozy slime and ill-smelling mud. Boats lie flat and helpless in the mud, with no other apparent destiny than to rot to pieces.

But when the tide flows in, the whole picture changes. The sparkling blue waters covers the ugly mud. The boats are afloat and upright, ready for any voyage their owners want to make. The coming of the tide has not only changed the appearance of everything but has made action and life possible where only slow disintegration appeared to be the outcome before.

And when the tide of God comes into a man's life, the change is even more surprising. The soul of the unregenerate man is as desolate as the salt marsh at ebb tide. But when God sends the currents of his love up the little streams and rivulets and fills the marsh to overflowing, the soul of man awakes and is happily prepared for the voyage through life.

Taxes Before Senate

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is opening debate on whether to cut income taxes for individuals and increase levies on corporations and the wealthy.

Although such legislation must originate in the House, the Senate has decided to jump into the floor debate on the issue by attaching an amendment to a House-passed bill that would increase the national debt limit temporarily to $490 billion.

This bill was chosen since the legislation must be sent to President Nixon before June 30, when the debt ceiling would drop from $475.7 billion to $400 billion.

The House, with a full schedule of bills for floor consideration this week, will give its principal attention to its Judiciary Committee's inquiry into possible impeachment of Nixon.

The Senate leadership expects the tax debate to continue all week.

The major tax-cut proposal, offered by Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., with many co-sponsors, would provide $6.6 billion of tax relief.

It would allow taxpayers an $825 personal exemption for each dependent, instead of the present $750, or, alternatively, a $190 tax credit. In addition, it would provide government payments of up to $400 a year for low-income families.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., Finance Committee chairman, supports the amendment and predicts its passage. Administration officials have predicted a presidential veto.

Long says he doubts that a veto could be overridden, but predicts a White House-congressional "severe confrontation" before the debt limit issue finally is settled.

Nixon has said any major tax cut could be highly inflationary. Its sponsors assert it is needed to prevent economic stagnation and to give consumers some more buying power to offset the rapid recent

To the editor:

I sincerely hope that concerned citizens of Greenville and Pitt County will not sit back and let the hard and unselfish work of the Humane Society go down the drain, simply because of lack of funds.

If everyone could give a little something, if only a dollar, it would mean so much to the health and welfare of so many friendless animals.

The next time you see a starving, sick animal, don't just feel remorse. Do something about it. Reach into your pocket and give, so there's hope for the next one, and the next one.

People wouldn't let a child starve and wander homeless, so why can't everyone give an animal that same consideration and love?

A Lack Of Faith In The Future

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — You'd be very suspicious if a retailer claimed that he was selling all his goods at below cost. The profit system, as everyone knows, demands that everything be sold above cost.

On the stock market today, however, is a situation that roughly compares to that situation. Many stocks are selling for less than the book value of the companies they represent. And the list may be growing.

Standard & Poor's Corp. estimates that 55 per cent of the industrial common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange are in the "below book value" category. The corporate net assets actually exceed the market price of such companies.

Perhaps no other indicator illustrates more glaringly the indifference or suspicion or disaffection with which the stock market is viewed today. Stocks are in the same category as hot goods.

That this situation should prevail has less to do with the individual companies than with the stock market as a whole and the economy in general. It is in these latter areas that the suspicious reside.

The structure of the stock market itself remains to be determined, and until it is, the picture it projects is that of something shaky and timid, the precise opposite of the image it needs to display.

The economy is supplying very little of the stable, understandable, predictable environment necessary for healthy stock prices. At the moment, hope rather than conviction marks most forecasts.

For three weeks some stock market analysts have been preparing their clients for a substantial decline in the prime interest rate, but it hasn't come. Instead, business borrowing is rising again, and that could lead to even higher rates before any decline.

Those high rates are a double dose of poison to stocks. First, they raise the cost of doing business. Second, they draw money into bonds that otherwise would be supporting the market prices.

The latest ray of hope — one that you'll be hearing a lot about in coming weeks — concerns the possibility that oil rich nations will decide that the best way to use their money is to invest in corporate America.

While both the New York and American stock exchanges are attempting to make this hope a reality, so far there is little real activity that can be depended upon. It is still a wish.

Even if the oil money does gush into American stocks in volume, there remains the serious matter of bringing back all those individual stockholders who became disillusioned in the late 1960s.

And, no matter what is said and done, almost any enlightened observer of stock market activity will agree that the individual isn't coming back until:

1. He gets his own financial situation stabilized.
2. The nation's economy becomes more stable and predictable — that is, more secure for investors.

In summary, faith must be restored. When blue chip stocks are shunned as if they were shoddy goods you have to concede there is a great lack of faith in the future.

Wm. Stevens Finds Political Road Not So Smooth

RALEIGH (AP) — The road to the United States Senate is not as smooth as the one that led him to prominence in the furniture business, William E. Stevens is discovering.

The North Carolina Republican says he still has a lot to learn as he enters an uphill struggle against Democrat Robert Morgan for the seat being vacated by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr.

Two weeks ago, for example, Stevens flew to New York for a session with Roger Ailes. Ailes is a public relations expert whose forte is teaching GOP candidates to be winners.

"He coached me on projection, expression, how to present myself. Basically, he said I needed to enjoy it more," Stevens said of the visit, which cost him $1,000.

Learning to overcome his natural reserve and project himself as a warm, engaging candidate is just one of the problems facing Stevens, the executive vice president of Broyhill Industries in Lenoir.

He still needs to let people know he is a candidate. The GOP primary, in which he drew 65 per cent of the vote against unknown opposition, was a quiet affair.

So, while Morgan tends to his duties as attorney general, Stevens is hitting the civic club circuit, searching for forums. Often, as he did this week in Raleigh, he invites the press to interview him.

Stevens plans to place more billboards around the state this summer to help with his name identification factor, which started at near zero.

He said he is still searching for the right type of broadcast advertising for a campaign that will start later in the fall.

It would help, he said, if Morgan were campaigning. "I would like to have a dialogue with him. The voters should have it," he said. But Morgan's strategy of ignoring the opposition, which worked in the Democratic primary, is not likely to change before November.

The traditional alternatives in such a situation is a barrage of paid advertising to forcefully inject the candidate's name into the public consciousness.

But Stevens may have trouble finding the money. He raised $41,000 for the primary, but more than half of it came from his own bank account and that of his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Broyhill.

He said he has not yet tried to raise large sums of money. But he feels that the new campaign contributions law and the taint of the Watergate scandals will make that difficult this year.

Watergate, as an issue, is also a problem for Stevens. He would like his campaign to focus on economic issues. He thinks his businessman's positions for a balanced budget and restraints in federal programs can attract many of the voters who made Jesse Helms the state's first Republican senator in 1972.

But, Stevens said, he has found that Watergate will simply not be pushed from the fore. Reporters ask him about it, and that's what they write stories about.

Stevens has decided to take a "middle of the road" position on the Watergate issues, expressing disapproval of much of what President Nixon has done but refusing to condemn him or advocate his impeachment.

The middle ground on Watergate, he said, "is the one I'm inclined to take anyway, but it also seems to be the best to take politically at this time."

He said there was still a hard core of support for the President among the GOP voters he must get to the polls in his behalf. On the other hand, he must attract Democrats as well.

Stevens said he has no plans to select specific groups of Democrats — liberals, blacks, businessmen — and try to pull them away from Morgan.

"I've got to make my appeal to everyone, regardless of race, region or economic class. I can't win on an anti-Robert Morgan campaign. I've got to run a pro Bill Stevens campaign."

ECU Holds Black Pastor Is Named To Top Church Office

Science teachers, principals and supervisors from seven of North Carolina's Youth Development School are on the East Carolina University campus where they are participating in a training session on a new science curriculum.

The curriculum, ESS, is a new approach to elementary general science, and will be incorporated into the science classrooms of the schools this fall.

Dr. Charles Coble of the ECU Department of Science Education is directing the institute, assisted by Dr. Ernest Macon of Campbell College. The program is supported by a grant of $10,665 from the National Science Foundation.

The Youth Development Schools, formerly called Juvenile Correction Schools, are under the administration of the Youth Development Office in Raleigh.

Participants in the ECU institute include staff members of the Juvenile Evaluation Center, Swannanoa; Stonewall Jackson School, Concord; Richard Fountain School, Rocky Mount;

C. A. Dillon School, Butler; Dobbs School, Kinston; Samarkand Manor, Eagle Springs; and Cameron Morrison School, Hoffman.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A black Georgia pastor is the new southern Presbyterian moderator, the first of his race to win the top post in the denomination's 113-year history.

The Rev. Dr. Lawrence Wendell Bottoms was elected Sunday night in a three-way contest with two white clergymen at the start of the annual governing assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.

A mainly white body, it emerged from the slavery issues of the Civil War. It has about 900,000 members in 16 southern and border states of whom only about 7,000 are black.

Dr. Bottoms, 66, of Atlanta, called his election "a breakthrough ... in a changing South."

"I see a morning star through the open door God has set before this church in moving to stand beside all minorities ... in a new unity in Christ across all class and racial lines."

The assembly greeted his victory with standing applause.

He won a majority of 234 votes on a first ballot, to 121½ for the Rev. Dr. Kenneth G. Phifer of New Orleans and 52½ for the Rev. Dr. Albert J. Kissling of Jacksonville, Fla.

Dr. Bottoms is the pastor of an integrated congregation in suburban Decatur, the Oakhurst Presbyterian Church.

A tall, graying man, Dr. Bottoms has held numerous denominational posts, represented his church in ecumenical councils and previously was the first black moderator of the regional Kentucky Synod and local Louisville Presbytery in 1963.

He "would be beautiful even if he weren't black," said the Rev. John B. Danhoff of Dallas, who nominated Dr. Bottoms for the top denominational office.

"His election will say loudly and clearly to the world who we are as southern Presbyterians," he said.

Dr. Bottoms told an impromptu news conference afterward that he favors a projected plan for reunion with the United Presbyterian Church, a national body of 3 million.

The southern denomination had broken with it in 1861.

Governing assemblies of the two denominations hold a joint worship service tonight, starting a week-long series of joint meetings to consider the union proposal.

Various liberals also plan to offer tax-reform amendments, including one to repeal the 22 per cent oil and gas depletion allowance.

Long opposes such repeal and said Sunday its demise would result in higher prices for home heating oil and gasoline. He said on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" that repeal would discourage U.S. oil companies from providing more petroleum products.

But Long said he favors removing benefits from foreign oil, which he said was selling for $10 a barrel.

Some oil state senators have indicated they may filibuster against removal of the depletion allowance. They say this tax benefit is essential if the United States is to make any progress toward energy self-sufficiency.

Last year we brought you over a billion dollars worth of furniture. You've got a lot riding on us.

A lot of furniture rode our rails in 1973. We estimate that the manufacturers' value of furniture we shipped amounted to $1,120,000,000.

And when you put Southern's shipments together with all other railroads, you've got almost half of all the furniture Americans buy.

Why do the furniture industry and so many other industries ship by rail? They know it's usually the most economical way to go.

Consider these figures for the thousands of things shipped by rail. The average cost per-ton-mile by truck is five times as much as rail. Air shipping is almost fifteen times more expensive.

And the fuel crunch has made railroad efficiency more than just a matter of dollars and cents. It's a matter of delivering the goods with the smallest possible use of fuel.

Then there's the reliability of rail shipping. Add this on to everything else and you have a good idea why there's so much riding on us. And why you need Southern.

NEW YORK (AP) — Frustrated and perplexed by the market's recent behavior, investors simply staying away in droves today, sending stock prices lower in very light trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 5.01 at 838.08 at 11:30. Declines outnumbered advances 630 to 323 among 1,296 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

In the news, First National Bank of Chicago decided to maintain its 11 1/2 per cent prime rate, damping the hope expressed last week that rates might be coming down.

"The market's gotten so sensitive to interest rates," said Alan Poole of Laidlaw-Coggeshall, Inc., "and there's been so much disappointment lately. The market now wants facts. It won't anticipate."

"The big thing is that people haven't made any money in the stock market recently, and so they're staying away in droves," said Lucien Hooper, analyst with W. E. Hutton & Co.

No Exclusive Use Allowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private, racially segregated schools may not be permitted exclusive use of public recreational facilities, the Supreme Court ruled unanimously today.

The court declined, however, by a 5 to 4 split, to rule also that cities may not permit segregated schools to use such facilities in common with public schools.

And the court ruled 8 to 1 that it is constitutional to allow racially segregated private groups other than schools to use such playgrounds and other facilities.

The question was brought before the Supreme Court by blacks in Montgomery, Ala., who have been fighting for desegregation of city parks and playgrounds since 1958.

They charged that after a sweeping Supreme Court school desegregation order in 1970, the city began making playfields and other facilities available to the white-only academies.

Vote Against Unionization

Employees of the E.I. Dupont Co. in Kinston voted against joining the International Chemical Workers Union (ICWU) last week.

The overwhelming vote, with 1,614 votes cast against unionization, was taken over a two-day period.

According to a company spokesman, 502 votes were cast for unionization.

The balloting saw 93 per cent of the eligible 2,271 workers cast a ballot.

Of Dupont's 20 plants throughout the U.S., only some 2,000 employees are represented by ICWU.

A spokesman for the company said today, "We are pleased that our employees based on their experience and knowledge of the facts, decided they didn't need a union to represent them with management."

said that snakes being transported in a trailer pulled by the truck were not injured. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Two persons were injured Sunday when a pick-up truck and car collided head-on about two miles East of Greenville on U. S. 264 about 2:10 p.m.

Highway Patrolman W. E. Brinson identified the drivers of the two vehicles as Robert Lee Carr of Route 8, Greenville and Mrs. Ester Chapman Buck of Route 3, Greenville.

Trooper Brinson said several snakes being transported in the trailer being pulled behind the Carr truck were not injured in the collision.

Named Trustee Of Association

Jack W. Richardson, administrator of Pitt Memorial Hospital, has been elected a trustee of the North Carolina Hospital Association.

The Association, which represents approximately 160 hospitals in the state, held its annual meeting at Wrightsville Beach last week.

According to the trooper, the truck driven by Carr crossed the center line during a light rain and collided head-on with the Buck auto, causing an estimated $1,500 damage to the Buck car and about $3,000 damage to the truck and a trailer being pulled by the truck.

Mrs. Buck was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of her injuries while Carr reportedly received only minor injuries.

Trooper Brinson said several snakes being transported in the trailer being pulled behind the Carr truck were not injured in the collision.

'Blind Man' Leads Yankees To Sunday Win Over Oakland

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It took a blind man to get Bill North and Reggie Jackson together again. It was a meeting Oakland's feuding sluggers could have done without.

Bill Sudakis happens to be legally blind, with 20-400 vision in both eyes. But the bespectacled infielder is the New York Yankees' hottest hitter at the moment.

He hit a pinch-double to right-center field in the seventh inning to drive North and Jackson together—and drive in the tying run. Then, in the ninth, he shoved home an insurance run with a sacrifice fly to seal the Yanks' 5-3 victory Sunday.

In other American League games, Chicago belted Baltimore 9-1, Detroit edged Kansas City 3-2 in 11 innings, Boston overhauled California 7-4, Milwaukee downed Texas 4-3 and, in a doubleheader, Minnesota blanked Cleveland 3-0 before the Indians rebounded to win the nightcap 3-1.

North, Oakland's starting center fielder, and Jackson, who started in right field, collided attempting to catch Sudakis' soft seventh-inning liner. Both players lay motionless for several minutes. North was knocked unconscious and had to leave the game.

"I understand they've been trying to keep those two guys apart," Sudakis cracked, referring to their recent clubhouse fistfight, reportedly precipitated by Jackson's chewing out of North for not hustling.

"I respect them," Sudakis added. "They may not be the best of friends but, on the field, they're teammates. They're professionals. I don't think they've let that bother them."

White Sox 5, Orioles 1
Tony Muser is Sunday's Child for the White Sox, playing mostly from superstar Dick Allen takes a day off. Against Baltimore, Muser paced Chicago's 13-hit attack with two singles, a double and a homer, drove in three runs and scored three more.

Red Sox 7, Angels 4
Boston's Carlton Fisk cracked a double in the ninth inning to cap a Red Sox comeback. They went into the inning trailing 4-1.

Brewers 4, Rangers 3
Charlie Moore's tie-breaking single in the seventh inning and Don Money's run-scoring double in the eighth led Milwaukee past Texas.

Twins 3-1, Indians 0-3
Ray Corbin and three Minnesota relievers limited Cleveland to six hits in the Twins' first-game triumph. Fritz Peterson pitched a seven-hitter and John Lowenstein drove in two runs with singles to lead Cleveland to a twinbill split.

Richard Petty Takes Motor State 400

By SHARLAN DOUGLAS
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — For the first time in the seven-year history of the Motor State 400, Richard Petty crossed the finish line Sunday watching David Pearson through his rear-view mirror instead of his windshield.

"I was getting away from him a little all along," Petty said of the final 15 laps of the race. "...You can just tell if a car's gaining on you. There at the last I was just watching Pearson."

However, yellow lights and a late tire change for Pearson helped decide the victor as much as Petty's slowly widening lead.

Both drivers pitted for what Petty called "12-lap tires" but Petty and his Dodge got a two-second jump on Pearson and the renowned Woods brothers. Then, Pearson returned for new rubber on his Mercury just four laps from the finish and was caught behind a tangle of cars that elicited the day's sixth yellow light and he finished third.

"He was trying to be ready if they did drop a green," Petty speculated. "It was sprint race conditions."

When Pearson headed in for the last time, he trailed Petty by only 2.5 seconds after the two old foes played catch with the lead for 75 miles in an exciting bumper-to-bumper match. In all, first place changed hands 51 times.

Petty's speed in the 180-lap race—shortened to 360 miles to save fuel—was 127.987 miles per hour and his time was 3 hours, 48 minutes, 2.4 seconds.

Tigers 3, Royals 2
After Detroit's Aurelio Rodriguez clubbed a three-run homer with two-out in the ninth inning Saturday for an 11-9 Tigers' victory, he came back Sunday to wreak the Royals more havoc, singling home the winning run with two out in the 11th inning.

St. Louis 6, Atlanta 3; Cincinnati 5, Philadelphia 0, and Chicago 2, Houston 1 in 10 innings.

Hamilton kept its unbeaten streak alive yesterday with a 5-2 win over Jolie in the Pitt-Martin Semi-Pro league game.

Jolie scored first when C. Coburn, C. Burn, and F. Corbett all singled to load the bases. D. Jeffus smacked a sacrifice fly to score one run. Hamilton tied it in the bottom half of the third. With two out, F. Mobley singled, reached second on a fielder's choice with both runners safe. S. Coffield singled in Mobley with the tie.

Hamilton scored three more in the fourth to win. T. Whitfield walked, and Coffield singled. Hardison rapped a single to score Whitfield, with runners moving up on the throw to the plate. B. Turner brought in the next two runs with a single.

Jolie scored once more in the top of the eighth. F. Corbett was hit by a pitch, moved to second on a walk, and scored on a single by B. Bateman. Hamilton got another in the eighth when Whitfield scored after reaching on an error.

The win gave Hamilton a 12-0 record.

Belvoir Takes Pair

Belvoir's Bombers took a double header from Grifton, winning the first game 19-4, and stealing the nightcap, 7-6.

The Bombers got one in the first when Larry Dixon reached on a fielder's choice and scored on a single and error by J. C. Daniels. They scored three more in the third before Grifton got three of its own in the bottom half of the inning.

Belvoir scored one in the fourth when Melvin Hardy walked and came around on a single and sacrifice fly. The Bombers exploded for nine in the fifth inning and added five in the sixth to clinch the opener. Charlton homered for Grifton in the sixth for the other Cub run.

The Bombers won the nightcap by scoring five in their half of the seventh. Grifton had a 6-2 lead going into the inning, but Ben Johnson led off when he was hit by a pitch. Charlie Boyd singled, and Jeff Daniels' double scored Johnson. Boyd came around on a walk to Robert Johnson and a single by Bobby Short. Dixon's fielder's choice nailed Daniels, but moved the runners into scoring position. J. C. Daniels singled in Johnson and Short with the game-winning runs.

He was fourth when the race began.

Petty and Pearson have won 300 major races and $2.5 million between them. Petty's share of Sunday's money will be about $14,000.

Rookie Earl Ross, a Canadian who was the surprise second-place finisher, didn't bother with extra fuel or new tires on his Chevrolet during the last two cautions.

"My only hope was to get the jump at the start when the green came down," he said.

Ross, 32, who led for only two laps but was among the top five runners through the last half of the race, admitted: "The only way I could stay with a lot of the fellows out there was in a draft. And they could break my draft."

He said he didn't think any of the 600 residents of his home town, Ailsa Craig, Ont., missed the action.

"I don't think there's anyone left in Ailsa Craig. They're all at the race," he said.

The only other drivers to spend substantial time in the same lap with the leaders were Donnie Allison and Benny Parsons, both of whom fell victim to engine trouble, and Co-Co Marlin, who's third-turn wreck prompted the final four-lap slowdown. Donnie and brother Bobby finished 23rd but joined Petty and Pearson in the elite class of $1 million racing winners with their finish. Both Allison were out about halfway through the race.

Post 39 Loses Two To Snow Hill And Wilson Over Weekend

Greenville's American Legion Post 39 dropped a pair of weekend ballgames to Snow Hill Saturday night, and to Wilson Sunday afternoon.

Post 39 lost 11-5 to Snow Hill, and 9-7 to Wilson's Post 13.

The first of the two losses came after Greenville had taken a two run lead. They scored in the third inning Saturday when Wesley Deal tripled and scored on Al Heath's sacrifice. One more crossed the plate in the fifth when Keith Jones singled, stole second, and came around on an infield error.

Snow Hill took the lead in the seventh. Successive singles by John McKeel and Jeff Bryant, and a walk to Peele Garris set the stage for an RBI-walk to Jerry Carraway to force one run. Mike Carter singled in two more runs, and he and Carraway moved up on a wild pitch. They both came in on Parker Davis' two-out single.

The visitors clinched it in the eighth with six more runs. Tim Butts and Bobby Supel walked. Both moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Jeff Bryant. Bryant's bunt was errored by the pitcher, once again leaving the bases loaded. Garris walked to force in Butts, Carraway singled in another run, and with two gone, Davis slapped a grand slam homer for a total of six RBI's for him.

Greenville closed with three in the ninth. Jack Jenkins was walked and Jerry Griffin was hit by a pitch. Keith Jones walked to load the bases, but was called out for interference between first and second on Eddie Connoley's pinch-single, moving Jenkins and Griffin to second and third. Both scored on Heath's single.

Post 39 again took the early lead Sunday against Wilson when Heath walked, stole second, and came around to score on two fly balls. Wilson tied it when Ricky Bass singled, stole second, moved to third on an infield out, and stole home on a double steal.

Greenville regained the lead with three in the third, but Wilson scored four in the bottom of the fourth for a permanent lead.

Wilson added a single run in the fifth, and three more in the eight. Post 39 scored two in the eighth with the help of three errors, and added a final run in the ninth when Griff Garner doubled and scored on a single by Kelly Heath.

Replacements Made

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Running back Dickey Morton of Arkansas and replacement linebacker Robert Woods of Howard Payne College were due to join the West squad today in preparation for Saturday's Coaches All-America football game at Jones Stadium.

Morton and Woods missed opening sessions during the weekend. The 245-pound Woods substitutes for David Smith of Oklahoma, who had to cancel his appearance in the nationally televised contest for medical reasons.

East Coach Johnny Majors and West Coach Barry Switzer each said he felt his squad showed improvement in Sunday's workouts. Majors had his full 30 players after five failed to arrive Saturday.

Jesse Freitas of San Diego State and Joe Barnes of Texas Tech worked out at quarterback for the West Sunday.

Majors had three—Carl Summerell of East Carolina Univ., Andy Johnson of Georgia and Norris Weese of Mississippi—calling plays for the East.

Haynie Can Win When She Hurts; Takes Medina

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — Her rivals should have known they were finished when Medina Open champion Sandra Haynie was hurt in the opening round.

"An injury does a lot for me. I have a history of winning when I'm hurt," said the 30-year-old Texan Sunday after beating Gloria Ehret in four sudden death holes.

Miss Haynie, the winner of 30 Ladies Professional Golf Association titles, hurt her arm Friday. She did it trying to come out of deep rough on the sixth hole at Weymouth Valley Country Club.

"I didn't even know if I'd even play Saturday. My arm didn't hurt, but was just sore and stiff," said the little blonde from Dallas.

Miss Haynie and Miss Ehret, who posted 54-hole totals of one-under-par 215, played the last two playoff holes under miserable conditions.

It rained so hard they were held up 15 minutes on the fourth tee. There was so much water on the green that it was squeegied off to make paths for their putts.

Miss Ehret, who shot a closing 71 to Miss Haynie's 69, was stymied by trees on her approach shot on No. 4. She landed short and left her chip shot 18 feet below the hole.

"When I saw Gloria hit short, I just wanted to get it on the green somewhere. I overclubbed a bit with a five iron so I could swing easy," said Miss Haynie.

She two-putted from 25 feet above the hole. Miss Ehret's putt for a par was two feet short and Miss Haynie had her first four victory of 1974.

"I tried to hit a seven wood over the trees and I left it short of the green. But a very bad chip shot hurt me. The only consolation was that it was my only bogey of the day," said Miss Ehret, forcing a smile.

Miss Haynie fashioned a remarkable comeback to force the playoff. She started the round three shots behind leading Sandra Post and tapped in a one-foot birdie putt on the last hole to pull even.

Miss Haynie picked up $5,700 for her victory. Miss Ehret earned $4,170.

Miss Post, leading with 143 Saturday, scrambled to a 74 and shared third place with Pam Barnett at 217. Miss Barnett closed with a par 72 over Weymouth Valley's soggy 6,200 yards. Each collected $2,900.

JoAnne Carner's bid for a fourth tour victory in the last five weeks fell short. She matched par 72, but tied for fifth place with Jane Blalock at 218. Miss Blalock registered a 70.

Jan Ferraris rode the best round of the tournament, a four-under par 68, into a share of seventh place at 219, with Maria Astrogles, who had 71.

Carroll May Close Gap Between Start And Saves

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Clay Carroll has finished a lot more games than he's started, but he may get a chance to close the gap.

"I have to give a lot of consideration to starting him," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said Sunday after Carroll got a last-minute starting call when Roger Nelson developed shoulder problems while warming up. Carroll teamed with Pedro Borbon to pitch the Reds to a seven-hit 5-0 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers thumped Tom Seaver and the New York Mets 7-1, the St. Louis Cardinals downed the Atlanta Braves 6-3, the Pittsburgh Pirates vacated the East Division cellar by edging the San Francisco Giants 4-3, the Montreal Expos outslugged the San Diego Padres 9-8 and the Chicago Cubs nipped the Houston Astros 2-1 in 10 innings.

Carroll, 4-1, set a National League record of 37 saves in 1972 and was making only his 23rd start in 551 major league appearances. He pitched eight innings of six-hit ball before giving way to Borbon.

"I had to take myself out after the eighth," Carroll said. "I guess I used some muscles I haven't used in a long time. I knew I had to pace myself. I don't care when I pitch. I think I bear down harder as a reliever, but I just want to work. I'm a sourpuss when I'm not pitching."

Dodgers 7, Mets 1
Andy Messersmith pitched a five-hitter and Jimmy Wynn triggered a five-run uprising with a seventh-inning triple, sending Seaver to his sixth loss in nine decisions.

Cardinals 6, Braves 3
Ted Sizemore drilled a tie-breaking single in the seventh inning and St. Louis added three decisive runs in the ninth on a bases-loaded walk to Ted Simmons and Joe Torre's two-run single. Darrell Evans had tied it for the Braves in the sixth on a solo homer off winner Lynn McGlothen.

Pirates 4, Giants 3
Jim Rooker survived a three-run first inning and went on to pitch a five-hitter, lifting the Pirates out of the East Division cellar for the first time since April 25. They are one game ahead of the Mets and seven behind the Phillies.

Expos 9, Padres 8
Willie Davis homered with one out in the ninth to tie the score and Ken Singleton walked and scored on Ron Fairly's double.

Cubs 2, Astros 1
Andre Thornton, pinch hitting for a pinch hitter, drew a bases-loaded walk after a pair of intentional passes in the 10th inning.

Let's Fight About It

fighters will meet in New York's Madison Square Garden Monday in a scheduled 12-round match billed as the first half of a closed-circuit doubleheader. (AP Wirephoto)

Players At Leaders Impasse

NEW YORK (AP)—With a fiery impasse having been reached between the National Football League Players' Association and the NFL Management Council regarding contract negotiations, this year's rookie crop finds itself caught between the two groups.

Although eligible for any Players' Association benefits acquired through the negotiations, whether a member of the group or not, rookies generally do not join the NFLPA until they have made the club.

But if the NFLPA strikes on July 1 and rookies remain away from training camp, they would not be eligible to be a member of the bargaining unit.

That point was brought out in a letter sent by the NFL Management Council to all rookies and free agents, John Thompson, executive director of the NFLMC said Sunday.

He said the letter urges the rookies and free agents not to join the NFLPA until the contract standoff has been settled.

Taff Wins, 8-1

David Clifton stymied University Kiwanis on one hit, as he helped lead Taff Office Equipment to an 8-1 victory Saturday night in Senior Babe Ruth play.

Clifton lost the shutout in the fourth inning when Doug Causey reached second on consecutive outfield errors, stole third, and scored on a sacrifice fly by Al Salisbury. The no-hitter was broken up in the final inning when Phil Dash singled to left.

Taff scored first as Pete Cullop doubled and scored on consecutive infield outs. They picked up two more in the third when with two out, John Causey singled, as did Willie Streeter. Jack Jones reached on an error to load the bases, and Cullop singled to score a pair.

Taff added three in the fourth. Jimmy Buck, Mell Boyd, and Leavy Brock loaded the bases with singles. John Causey's infield out scored Buck, and Streeter's double brought home Boyd and Brock. One more scored in the fifth when Jimmy Peszko walked, stole second, got to third on a passed ball, and scored on a balk.

David Clifton doubled to start the sixth, stole third, and scored Taff's last run on Jones' infield single.

THE TROPHY—Hale Irwin casts admiring glances at the U.S. Open Golf Championship trophy after winning the 74th U.S. Open crown Sunday at the Winged Foot Golf Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y. (AP Wirephoto)

Hale Irwin Wins 74th U.S. Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP)

Ladies and gentlemen, introducing the new Open golf champion of the United States: Hale Irwin.

"Hale who?"

"I am not a birdie machine like Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf," said the clerkish-looking, 29-year-old from Joplin, Mo., after scoring one of the biggest surprises in the 83-year history of America's premier golf championship Sunday.

"I like courses where pars and birdies don't come easy. I just plug along and wait for others to make mistakes. I have something the others don't have and I hope to capitalize on it."

"That was a big tournament—winning it does a lot for my ego. But I'm not going to change. There will be a reckoning, a re-evaluation. Now that I've won one, I want to do something bigger. Like two major championships."

"Nicklaus has won 14. That's not a bad goal, is it?"

Patience and a low key defensive attitude enabled Irwin to survive while the greatest champions of the game struggled vainly and even collapsed in a four-day wrangle with a 6,961-yard monster called Winged Foot.

Irwin's final round 73 for a 72-hole total of 287, seven over par, was two strokes better than a second longshot, Forrest "Fuzzy" Fessler, who fired 70 for 289, with Bert Yancey and Lou Graham, following with 290.

What happened to Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and other titans of the game? Palmer, 44, starting the final round three shots off the lead, had seven bogeys and a single birdie for a 76. He finished at 292, tied with Jim Colbert and the 54-hole leader, young Tom Watson, who blew to a 79.

The reigning Masters champion, Player, who led after 18 and shared the lead at 36, never found the track and finished at 293. Nicklaus rallied with a last round '89 but posted 294, 14 over par, saying, "It's a great course, I just never got to playing well."

The defending champion, Johnny Miller, who electrified the game with a record 63 in winning a year ago at Oakmont, Pa., closed with a 77 for

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K9 ♥AQ654 ○AQJ7 ♣62
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 1♠ Pass
2♦ Pass 2♣ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—You have more values than you are showing at this point. You are too good for a mere trump, and you are too good for a mere preference to two spades, and should have better trumps for a jump to three spades. We suggest a temporary bid of three diamonds. If partner proceeds to three no trump, you can relax. On any other bid, you intend raising spades.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ98 ♥K72 ♦764 ♣AQJ
What is your opening bid?
A.—You are just a shade too weak for one no trump, and it might prove convenient to open the bidding with one club. Your spade suit is biddable, but that might lead to an awkward re-bidding problem.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠743 ♥J ○AJ9 ♣AK7643
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass
2♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—The auction has developed inconveniently, and you are now faced with a choice of evils. You are too good for a mere preference to two spades, and should have better trumps for a jump to three spades. We suggest a temporary bid of three diamonds. If partner proceeds to three no trump, you can relax. On any other bid, you intend raising spades.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J1085 ♥7 ○Q743 ♣A1092
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♥ Dble. 3♥ ?
What do you bid?
A.—Three spades. Don't let the opposition bidding stop you from making your natural bid. You have a pretty fair hand opposite a partner who could make a valuable takeout double, and you could easily have a game. East's action was preemptive, and does not show any great strength. Don't let the quality of your spades frighten you—partner should have a fair holding in the other major when he doubles a major for takeout.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q106 ♥82 ○A10965 ♣652
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ 2♥ Pass Pass
Dble. Pass ?
What do you bid?
A.—Three spades. An effort should be made to reach game, for partner has shown a fair hand with his reopening double. A mere two spades or a bid of three diamonds might sound forced to partner, who may be reluctant to take further action. The jump to three spades cannot show any great strength, since you didn't bid two spades at your first turn.

Q. 6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q105 ♥QJ9876 ○8 ♣652
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass
2NT Pass 3♥ Pass
3NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Hearts it must be with this hand, and you must therefore continue to four hearts. This does not show additional values, for each time you have bid your suit you have done so at the minimum level. Your hand could be a major disappointment to your partner if you allow him to play three no trump, but in hearts, your six-card suit will produce a lot of tricks.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K754 ♥AQ5 ○AK92 ♣5
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ Pass 3♦ Pass
3♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—We can assume that our major suits are solid, so our primary concern is with the number of aces and kings partner holds. We would, therefore, bid four no trump (Blackwood), and if partner shows two aces and a king, we would proceed to a grand slam in spades. Partner has shown nine cards in the major suits, and his bidding has improved our holding.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A7 ♥K6 ○K9843 ♣8762
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♠ 1♠ 2♣ 2♣
3♣ Pass 3NT Pass
4♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—You had a sound raise to start with, the subsequent bidding has suggested that your ace of spades might be a wasted value, for it seems to be opposite partner's void. Therefore, we recommend a mere raise to five clubs. However, take full marks if you elected to cue-bid four spades for partner can sign off in five clubs if he is not thrilled with your spade ace.

Aged Eli shows the reaction of millions of older, plus child viewers of TV. So playwrights must not leave happy solutions to the imagination. Portray in vivid fashion the triumph of good over evil! Let the heroes ride white horses!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-624: Eli W., aged 88, lived with a spinster daughter, aged 65.

He slept on a bed in the living room, across from a new TV set his children gave him for his recent birthday.

One day he was changing his trousers while watching the Andy Griffith show.

Just as Eli had removed his old pants to put on a new pair, Andy Griffith introduced a cute young actress.

And Eli hobbled out to the kitchen in great haste.

"Pa," his daughter asked in surprise, "why are you rushing out here without your pants on?"

"Humph! snorted her father, "did you expect me to be undressed in front of that strange woman in the parlor?"

For Eli believed the

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 18, 1974

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The day starts out with much vitality, so a good start can carry over throughout the afternoon when confusing influences could cause indecision and vacillation if permitted to become part of your thinking.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Keep appointments and do necessary things early. Plan how to circumvent any obstacles that might arise in the p.m. Stay poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The early part of the day is best for handling important money matters. If doubtful, consult an expert about a course of action.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put new plan to work to make your personal desires a reality. Improve health and appearance. Do those things that make you happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) In solitude, make new plans for the future. Then show others you want to please them. Any advice you get confidentially should not be divulged.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Join with good friends to gain mutual objectives easily. Plan just how you want conditions to be in the days ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into important career activities. Don't forget to handle some credit affair, or you have trouble in p.m. Avoid a bad influence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Choose the best of fine new ideas and push these. Get needed information from right source, or from one of different background and then use it wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep promises in exact detail. Discuss that matter with mate in a.m. Take no chances with one who talks too much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can come to a real meeting of minds with associate who has been contentious lately. Meet the expectations of bigwigs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get work done early. Plan time for health improvement. Do nothing that can in any way get you off the beam. Show intelligence in all you do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan early with pals the recreations you want to enjoy after work. First take care of errands for mate. Avoid costly errors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be conscientious in handling home affairs now. Know what is expected of you and please others. Restore lagging energies in p.m. with rest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have many exceptional abilities and can handle emergencies in a clever and lightning-fast manner, so slant the education along such lines, whether politics, the police force, big business, etc. A fertile mind that likes to delve into everything, so be sure to teach early to tackle one task at a time and complete it before going on to another.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

characters he saw on the TV screen were real and actually in the same room with him.

But so do many children, too! Which helps explain the fact that youngsters may soon believe it is perfectly O.K. to point guns at those they dislike and pull the triggers.

Furthermore, the frequent portrayal of infidelity, plus the use of vulgar language and even profanity, keeps training their minds to assume such things are right and proper.

"Repetition," runs an old maxim, "makes reputation!" "It is paralleled by another adage that states:

"If you see or hear a thing long enough, you'll finally accept it." Incidentally, that's why a salesman ultimately believes his own sales palaver.

And also why crooked politicians may finally convince themselves that they are totally innocent of taking kickbacks or breaking into Watergate offices! TV also errs on many occasions when it fails to show the final happy ending of a scenario.

Too many playwrights leave the finale of their stories "up in the air."

This means that the viewers must derive the final idea that good triumphs over evil or that the hero and heroine at last become man and wife.

That's a psychological mistake.

For most readers want to see visible evidence of the happy ending, as by having the hero take the heroine in his arms at the fade-out!

"Don't leave justice and happy romance to the imagination!" is another apt rule nowadays.

For children and many weary older folks want to witness the obvious triumph of good over evil.

"Don't leave anything to chance," is a wise tenet not only of athletic coaches but also of science.

Scott Says Someday He May Seek Old Job

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Former Gov. Bob Scott said Sunday night Duke University President Terry Sanford may seek the Democratic nomination for president again.

Scott, executive vice president of the North Carolina Agri-Business Council, made the comment on WXII-TV's "Report to the People" program.

Scott said he had been involved in several meetings with people from throughout the nation who are interested in promoting the candidacy of Sanford.

Sanford, also a former North Carolina governor, made an unsuccessful bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Regarding his own political plans, Scott, a Democrat who served as governor from 1968 to 1972, said he may run for governor again but not anytime soon.

"Certainly there is no draft coming for me to run for anything. I don't see myself being involved in a political race right away," said Scott, who turned 45 Thursday.

Getting back to Sanford, Scott said "I would not want to presume as to dictate his (Sanford's) strategy, which is even at this time being evolved. I think you will see during the coming months several indications that his balloon is being put out before the public...for voter reaction."

He added, "In December, he (Sanford) will step down as chairman of the Democratic Charter Commission...and I would assume that along about that time or in early 1975, he will make a determination whether it's go or no-go."

Scott said he did not know what his role in Sanford's bid for the nomination would be. He did say, however, that he suspected he would have some responsibility in contacting the Democratic governors and other party leaders throughout the country.

On other matters, Scott said North Carolina needs to develop a center for international trade at one of the state universities and he foresaw no food shortages in North Carolina or the nation in the next decade.

LONDON (AP) — While Prince Charles played polo, cameramen played Where's Laura Jo?

"You don't think I'd be fool enough to bring her here," the 25-year-old heir to the British throne told photographers Sunday.

The attention centers around Laura Jo Watkins, blonde daughter of American Rear Adm. James Watkins. She has been in London for a week at Charles' invitation.

She came to England from California to accompany Charles to a ball given by U.S. Ambassador Walter Annenberg. Neither attended the dance, however, because of official mourning after the death of Charles' great uncle, the Duke of Gloucester.

Edmisten Is 'Confident'

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Rufus Edmisten says his chances of winning the race for state attorney general would be just as good if he had not been an aide to Sen. Sam Ervin Jr. and a counsel to the Senate Watergate Committee.

"I think I'll win because of my service to the party over the years," said the 32-year-old Democrat from Boone.

He was in Charlotte on Sunday night to address the kickoff dinner of the Taft Seminar on government at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

"I've never used Sen. Ervin's name to promote my campaign, and I've not been using Watergate," said Edmisten.

He said he did not blame Watergate on President Nixon or the Republican Party.

"Watergate was the result of a number of years of lawlessness in government," he said.

Edmisten, who hopes for the Democratic nomination to fill the seat being vacated by U.S. senatorial candidate Robert Morgan on Aug. 26, served as an aide to Ervin for five years. Morgan is running against William E. Stevens, a Republican, for the retiring Ervin's seat.

Sentenced By Jamaica Govm't

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—A 32-year-old Columbia, S.C., man is serving a sentence of indefinite detention here for illegal possession of two rounds of ammunition.

Carl Dawkins, a pilot and construction worker, was found guilty of having the ammunition in his pocket May 5 when his plane was shot at by Jamaican soldiers. Why they shot at his plane is not known.

The three-day trial ended last Thursday and Dawkins said he would appeal. Under a recently enacted gun law, anyone found guilty of illegal possession of firearms or ammunition in Jamaica can be sentenced to indefinite detention.

The person may be released only upon recommendation of Jamaica's review board.

CROP IN RUINS—Milton Stalvey of near Homerville, Ga., holds up the tattered remains of a tobacco leaf after hail pummeled his 26 acres of tobacco the day before he was to harvest it. The isolated hailstorm apparently singled out Stalvey's fields. "I've never seen anything like it," said Stalvey. "It's all ruined." (AP Wirephoto)

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Tar Heel soybean producers are being urged to shoot for average yields of 35 bushels an acre this year.

"That would be 10 bushels per acre above last year's statewide average, but it is a realistic goal because countywide averages of 32 or more bushels have been achieved in recent years in several areas of the state," said Dr. John G. Clapp Jr., extension soybean specialist at North Carolina State University.

George Prayer of Route 2, Ayden, produced 70 bushels per acre to take top honors in the state's official soybean production contest in 1973. Another Pitt County farmer, Howard Moye of Farmville, was first runnerup with a yield of 67.9 bushels.

According to the N. C. Crop Reporting Service, Tar Heel farmers have indicated they intend to plant 1,550,000 acres of soybeans this year which is the same acreage planted in 1973. If nitrogen supplies prove to be inadequate, farmers may switch additional acres intended for corn to soybeans.

Specialist Clapp said the soils on many farms are too acid and need lime for good soybean yields. The soil should be tested and lime and fertilizer applied as needed.

If lime is required, it should be applied and incorporated into the soil as soon as possible.

"If nematode problems are suspected," he said, "the grower should take a soil sample for a nematode assay."

Dr. Clapp offered these additional suggestions for high soybean yields:

—Arrange early for seed supply and treat seed with an approved fungicide.

—Prepare a good seedbed.

—Use several varieties with different maturity dates to reduce weather risk and to allow more of the total soybean acreage to be harvested as soon as possible after maturity.

—When double-cropping behind small grain, plant as soon as possible.

—For early plantings in rows 36 to 40 inches wide, seed for a final stand of six to eight plants per foot of row, after allowance for germination.

—For late plantings, consider using a narrow row or broadcast plantings. Use 1½ to two bushels of seed per acre for late-planted broadcast soybeans.

—Avoid planting in a deep furrow.

—Plan a good weed control program, using both a preplant or pre-emergence and a post-emergence herbicide.

—Check fields regularly in August and September for an insect buildup. Apply insecticides when an average of 10 corn earworm larvae or stink bugs, or both, are present per 10 feet of row.

—Harvest when moisture content is near 13 percent to avoid market penalties. Adjust the combine to keep losses at a minimum.

—Consider storing beans on farm to speed up harvest and to take advantage of possible later price increases.

One of the fast growing programs in the beef industry today is Artificial Insemination (AI). Relatively new and not fully understood, it is the act of depositing semen into the cow's reproductive tract by means other than a bull. And by using semen from superior sires, AI can profitably increase quality and gain ability of beef cattle.

AI has recently been gaining in popularity for several reasons, among them (1) breed associations have relaxed their rules (2) introduction of exotic breeds, and (3) increased interest in cross breeding. Currently about 4 per cent of all beef cows are artificially inseminated.

The benefits of AI stemming from these reasons include maximum use of superior bulls, it being possible to inseminate 20,000 cows per year with the semen from one bull regardless of the geographical location of the bull or cows.

Through AI, a producer's cows can be mated to a bull of proven superior performance, at a price he could not otherwise afford. Also, a bull of superior value could possibly be used following accident or disease that rendered him unsound for breeding purposes. This advantage is gained through a semen bank which can store semen for an indefinite period of time.

A producer can also have better control over the health of his herd as a result of not having to introduce bulls into his herd from outside. This is accomplished through the use of sterile insemination equipment.

Although the program looks very beneficial, as with many things it has its limitations, and this is why it has been slow to reach a high level of popularity. One of the main limitations is herd management. For AI to work, the herd needs to be free of disease, have proper nutrition available, a short calving season, and no fertility problems. The person in charge must be convinced that AI will work and benefit his herd. Thirdly, and possibly most important, the producer must have facilities that are capable of handling the cows in an easy and efficient manner. Artificial Insemination shows much promise for the future particularly if a satisfactory method of group breeding (synchronization) becomes available. This would allow the breeder to inseminate a large number of cows within a 4-to-7 day period and reduce the labor required for estrus detection.

REMINDER TO HORSE OWNERS: The public hearing for horse owners on rules which will require all horses exhibited, sold, or transported interstate, to have a negative Collins test for Equine Infectious Anemia, or Swamp Fever, within the past 12 months will be held Tuesday morning. The hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m. in Room 357 of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture Building in Raleigh. All interested persons are urged to attend.

DEAR ABBY: Quite some time ago my husband asked me how I felt about wife swapping. I told him I hoped he was kidding because the thought of it made me sick. The subject was dropped.

The next thing I knew, Pete started bringing home some of those crummy underground newspapers and reading ads from couples who wanted to swap. I told him if he decided to go in for anything so lowdown he had better find himself another wife.

I then went out of town for some dental surgery. I was gone for five days. When I returned Pete told me that "just for the fun of it" he had hooked up a few couples who had advertised themselves as swingers, and he thought it might be fun if we tried it.

Abby, the idea is absolutely revolting to me. My moral upbringing wouldn't permit me to do anything so vile. We've been married for 33 years and I can't imagine what's gotten into him.

Pete says times have changed, and everybody swings. I can't believe that. Please tell me, Abby. Am I out of step or is he?

DEAR BEWILDERED: He is. Don't let him kid you. It's a new name for a very old game in which everybody loses. Ask your husband how he'd like to swing around to his doctor's for a checkup—from the neck both ways. He could be sick.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I go around with another young married couple who have been getting on our nerves lately because of something they do which we dislike.

They are always talking about how much money they make, how much their clothes cost them, how much they spent on their vacations, and they even bragged about how much they got back on their income tax. It's sickening.

What do you do about people like that without breaking up the friendship?

DEAR HATES: I would see a lot less of them. But if you don't want to break up the friendship [this is a friendship?]

Cites Limit To Fish Resources

WASHINGTON (AP) — Far from having a limitless resource in the sea, the world is nearing the limit of its fishery possibilities, says Dr. Robert M. White, chief of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. To provide enough fish now and to insure conservation for the future, he asserts, there must be cooperation on the state, federal and international levels.

tell them in a friendly tone that their constant talk about money is boring, so to please soft pedal it. And if you should lose their friendship, you'll not have lost much.

DEAR ABBY: To that woman who scouted all the churches in town in search of a man and finally found one, you said, "Some people go to church to pray,"—after which I thought you were going to add, "—and some people go to church to prey."

DEAR ARDYTH: Had I thought of it, I might have.

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to Happy in Houston, "Some people go to church to pray—others go to pray they meet someone," set me to thinking about the other reasons people may have for going to church.

- Here is a list, which I think is complete:
1. Habit.
 2. Training.
 3. Fear of punishment from the Lord if they don't go.
 4. To see who else is there.
 5. To be seen.
 6. To get spiritual inspiration.
 7. To socialize.
- Notice, Abby, I did not put down "to pray." One can pray anywhere.

Driver Ed Gets Business Help

NEW YORK (AP) — Driver education, one of the more costly subjects taught in our schools today, is heavily assisted by private business. In 1972, approximately $138 million worth of cars were loaned to schools by local dealers. Many classroom materials are also provided. For example, Uniroyal Tire Corp. sponsors an entire programmed course while General Motors Corp. distributes instructive films.

UP, UP AND OUT
SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian Broadcasting Corporation has banned the record "Up, Up and Away" from its general service six years after the tune was released. There was no explanation.

There's a Lasso[®] tank-mix that's right at home on your soybean fields.

For soybean growers, Lasso is the herbicide to start with. By itself, Lasso controls most annual grasses, including fall panicum and crabgrass. And some broadleaf weeds. What's more, Lasso doesn't carry over, and that makes it a good working partner in any labeled tank-mix. Which tank-mix is right for you? For medium soils with relatively low organic matter, Lasso plus Lorox* will help you control common ragweed, foxtail, smartweed, and pigweed. And you don't incorporate Lasso plus Lorox.

On the other hand, if your soybeans need relief from cocklebur and annual morningglory, Lasso plus Dyanap or Lasso plus Premerge could be what you've been looking for. They both cut down on cocklebur and annual morningglory competition. Again, no incorporation.

Anyway you look at it, Lasso is the herbicide to start with. It's right at home on your soybean fields.
