Nixon Flies To Moscow Talks

ITINERARY—Map indicates itinerary of the trip President Nixon began today, taking him to Belgium and Russia. (AP Wirephoto)

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon left today for a Moscow summit with a pledge to seek closer cooperation with the Soviet Union and a lessening of "the burden and threat" of nuclear weapons.

In a brief statement before leaving nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Nixon listed three goals for his summit meeting with Soviet leaders:

—To strengthen U.S.-Soviet ties.
—To "develop areas of cooperation to displace areas of confrontation" elsewhere in the world, and —To progress toward limiting "both the burden and threat of nuclear weapons."

The Moscow summit is expected to produce a partial ban on underground nuclear weapons tests and an agreement in principle to harness fast-developing nuclear technology.

But Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told a news conference Monday that the third annual summit is unlikely to produce a comprehensive treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

Nixon, Kissinger and a huge entourage were to stop first in Brussels so Nixon can sign a new declaration of trans-Atlantic cooperation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on Wednesday.

Nixon said he hoped the declaration to be signed there would bring "new purpose and new direction" to the alliance.

The chief executive spoke informally to a group of White House employees before making the helicopter ride to Andrews.

The presidential party, including Mrs. Nixon, departed from Andrews at 8:42 a.m.

In Brussels, Nixon will confer also with Italian Prime Minister Mariano Rumor, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and NATO officials.

He will spend a week in the Soviet Union, arriving there Thursday. Top subject on his agenda is nuclear weapons controls.

"For the United States not to make a major effort in this field is something no future generation could possibly understand," Kissinger told a press conference.

But, he said, the administration will not be deterred by allegations that it is engaged in bad-faith diplomacy designed to blunt the congressional impeachment drive against the President.

In his news conference at the State Department, the secretary denied negotiating a secret agreement with the Soviets in 1972 increasing their sea base missiles by 70 and reducing the American total by 54.

However, he acknowledged that the Russians were asked to sign an "interpretive statement" after the treaty was negotiated to clarify how their sea based missiles would be counted.

Later, after Kissinger met in closed session with the Senate subcommittee on arms control, the chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the issue was not really the number of missiles involved but "the withholding from the Congress and the American people a secret agreement."

Nixon, who will hold talks with Soviet leaders including Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, is expected to sign a package of agreements on trade and technological matters. Kissinger indicated the President also would try to ease restrictions on Jewish emigration.

No Free Space In Reply

WASHINGTON (AP) — A unanimous Supreme Court today declared that states cannot demand that newspapers give political candidates free space to reply to editorial attacks.

The court overturned a 61-year-old Florida law imposing such a requirement. The court said the law violates the First Amendment free press guarantee.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote for the court, "The choice of material to go into a newspaper, and the decisions made as to limitations on the size of the paper and content and treatment of public issues and public officials — whether fair or unfair — constitutes the exercise of editorial control and judgment."

He said the government cannot interfere with a newspaper's judgment about what it publishes.

In a separate case, the court ruled 5 to 4 that private individuals may sue news media for libel without proving reckless disregard for the truth, even when speaking on public issues.

The court thus refused to extend to private individuals the rule it has laid down for public officials and public figures. That rule requires that public figures prove reckless disregard for the truth by the media before they can sue for libel.

In the case of private individuals speaking on public issues, the court said, proof negligence is enough when seeking only actual damages.

However, such individuals must prove reckless disregard for the truth by the media to sue for punitive damages, the court said.

In the Florida right-to-reply case, the court said it has yet to be demonstrated how government regulations over a newspaper's judgment about what it publishes could be exercised consistent with First Amendment guarantees of a free press.

The Florida law had been applied only rarely until Pat L. Tornillo, a candidate for the state legislature, invoked it in support of his demand for free space in the Miami Herald to reply to two critical editorials during his 1972 campaign.

Palestinians Slay 4 More

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — More Israeli air attacks on Palestinian positions in Lebanon were expected soon in retaliation for another raid by Arab guerrillas who killed four Israelis in the seaside town of Nahariya.

The three guerrillas invaded an apartment house in the town seven miles south of the Lebanese border and killed a 29-year-old woman, her two small children and an Israeli soldier before Israeli troops mowed them down. Eight Israelis were wounded, including the dead woman's husband and five troops.

The Palestinian news agency Wafa claimed in Damascus, Syria the attack was staged by Palestinians based in Israel instead of Lebanon and denied that the terrorists had entered Israel by boat.

The statement did not name the group responsible for the operation, but it said the attackers belonged to the "Martyr Kamal Adwan Squad."

Adwan belonged to Yasir Arafat's Al Fatah, the largest but most moderate guerrilla organization. He was among three guerrilla leaders killed in their Beirut apartments by an Israeli commando raid in April 1973.

The statement was attributed to the "military spokesman of the Palestinian revolution," a term usually used for announcements from Arafat's office as the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Wafa described the latest raid as "quick retaliation" for Israeli air raids last week on five Palestinian refugee camps in southern Lebanon where the Israelis contended terrorists were located.

Monk Elected Prexy Of Ass'n

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—William Cabot (Bill) Monk, director and vice president of the A. C. Monk Co., Inc., of Farmville, N. C., today was elected to a one-year term as president of the Tobacco Association of United States, the nation's oldest tobacco trade organization.

Monk, a 1949 graduate in business administration from the University of North Carolina where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity, succeeds William E. (Bill) Michaels, senior vice president and a director of Dibrell Brothers, Inc., of Danville, Va.

The new president currently is a member of the TAUS Board of Governors and of the Executive Committee of the Leaf Tobacco Growers Association, which ended its 33rd annual sessions here today. He is a former member of the board of Tobacco Associates, Inc.

Monk, a 1944 graduate of Woodberry Forest School, literally has grown up in the sale and promotion of U.S.-grown tobacco, and has traveled extensively throughout the world. He was in Air Force pilot training during World War II.

Predicts Leaf Exports Will Exceed $1 Billion

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Tobacco exports for the fiscal year ending this weekend will exceed a record $1 billion, a federal agricultural export official said today.

David L. Hume told the annual convention of the Leaf Tobacco Exporters' Association that overseas sales of unmanufactured leaf will amount to $750 million and that sales of manufactured products will amount to over $300 million.

Hume is administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's foreign agricultural service.

America's foreign trade in tobacco will show a net favorable trade balance of more than $800 million, he said in remarks prepared for delivery.

Hume estimated that total agricultural exports this fiscal year will exceed $21 billion, producing a record favorable trade balance of about $11.5 billion.

Agricultural exports in the coming fiscal year will range from $17 billion to $19 billion, he predicted.

The Common Market was the largest purchaser of tobacco this year, he said, taking more than 55 per cent of American exports.

Exports also included two lots of nearly 1.5 million pounds of high quality flue cured leaf to the Peoples Republic of China, he noted.

Even more tobacco will be needed in the coming fiscal year, predicted the retiring president of the association, Charles W. Howard, in his report.

He said that as world tobacco consumption grows it is possible the USDA will increase growers' quotas for the third consecutive year or "do away with quotas entirely."

Again Study Bus Service

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Public transportation, considered by some as a service and by others a business, is again being studied by the Greenville City Council.

The idea is a much debated one in Greenville. Past systems in the city have failed, but public opinion may be favorable for the establishment of some type of transportation system.

With the approval of the fiscal year 1974-75 city budget fast approaching for City Council members, a group of Greenville citizens have made their wants known to the Council for the establishment of a public transportation system.

For the first time in quite some time, the City Council says it has a concrete workable proposal on a public transportation system.

Submitted by Citizens for Total Positive Government (CTPG), the proposal calls for the establishment of a three month trial period of testing and operating two mini-buses in the city to try and determine if there is sufficient support of a public transportation system, and if a system of this type would work.

The most appealing aspect of the new proposal to the City Council seems to be the cost of the operation.

CTPG is asking for $10-12,000 for their three month trial program, called a demonstration research project.

According to a spokesman for the group, William Moore, these funds would be used to obtain two van-type mini-buses that would be operated for two months, after a month of surveying had determined the high priority area in which the buses should operate.

An allocation of some $52,680 is proposed by the group for operation of the system for a year.

City Council members have requested CTPG to provide further information on their proposal, specifically the cost of liability insurance for the system, the amount of time required for delivery of the buses and specific recommendations for bus routes.

This information is to be given Council members tonight at a workshop the Council is holding on the new budget.

Moore and his group are hoping for the allocation of the full $50,000 while an informal polling of available Council members shows some are in favor of allocating $10-12,000 for a three-month trial operation.

A polling of three Council members available yesterday and today showed two were in favor of possibly approving the $50,000 figure, while the third was more in favor of allocating funds for a three month period.

In favor of the three month period is Councilman Percy Cox, who has expressed agreement in providing some type of public transportation system, while Councilmen Dr. Frank Fuller and John Howard expressed an interest in approval of the $50,000 full year operating funds if the proposal could be worked into a workable system.

Of the three Council members not available for contact yesterday, Mildred McGrath, Clarence Gray, and Joe Taft Jr., Moore feels all three are in favor of establishing a public transportation system, but does not know to what extent they would approve funds.

With the approval of the new budget imminent, the possibility of some action on a public transportation system in the near future, seems good.

The basic question is, would the funds be allocated in the new budget, or taken from contingency funds, an idea expressed by Councilman Cox.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

WANTS DAMAGE DEPOSIT
I stayed at the Olde London Inn on South Memorial Drive from April 14 to May 14. I rented an efficiency apartment for $115 a month and paid an additional $30 for a damage deposit. I had planned to stay two months, but after having trouble with the air conditioning, I decided to leave after the first month. The manager has refused to give me back my damage deposit, giving vague reasons. Can you help me? T.R.

Your $30 has been returned. Hotline contacted the home office for the Olde London Inn in Newport News, Va., and spoke with Mr. Robert Yancey, president of the Allredge Corp., which owns the motel. After checking into your situation, Yancey sent a check to you for the amount specified and apologized for the inconvenience caused by the broken air conditioning system and for the delay in returning your money.

FAMILY PLANNING AVAILABLE
Why doesn't Greenville have a family planning service like other cities? T.H.

Greenville citizens, in addition to the private physicians, have access to the services of the Pitt County Community Health Department Family Planning Service.

Regular physician-run clinics are held each first, second, and fourth Tuesday afternoon and each first and third Wednesday. On other weekdays, there's an open-door activities schedule with counseling, supply, and periodic checkups given on a first-come, first-served basis. Personal Health Director Mrs. Therese Lawler said. She said family planning services will be greatly expanded in July, when one of three family planning nurses in the state begins work at the Health Department here.

ONE SCHOOL SLIGHTED
I would like to know why all the city schools do not have the same amount of play ground equipment available for the students? For instance, Sadie Sautler does not have any equipment while other schools have plenty of outside playground facilities. L.W.

The problem you speak of at Sadie Sautler is recognized by the Greenville City School Board. "The problem at Sadie Sautler is a lack of space," says city school's superintendent Glenn Cox. Cox told Hotline that $1,000 had been marked for additional playground equipment for the schools in next year's budget. "Whether it will be approved or not is another question," he added. He said the School Board is trying to acquire additional land around Sadie Sautler to provide for a playground.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK
GET TAGS FROM VET
In the June 13 issue of The Daily Reflector, Hotline reported in an item "What is a stray?" that rabies tags may be obtained from the Pitt County Community Health Dept. Hotline has learned from Alice Coburn at the Health Dept. that only "duplicate" tags may be obtained from them if the owner has verification that the animal was vaccinated. The original rabies tag is obtained from the veterinarian who vaccinates the dog.

House Passes Veterans Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill to provide funds for 15 to 18 per cent cost-of-living increases in benefits to some 2.2 million disabled veterans.

The $179-million bill, adopted unanimously Monday, also would appropriate funds for a new program to put Veterans Administration representatives on all college campuses where there are 500 or more veterans enrolled under the GI Bill.

The bulk of the money appropriated to the VA, $100 million, would go to pay for the cost-of-living benefit hikes, to be retroactive to May 1. VA officials estimate the retroactive increases will amount to an average payment of $36 to each disabled veteran.

The Story On Fashion Avenue Unfolds Neatly

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Inside the building at 555 Fashion Avenue in New York models glide, walk and sometimes dance or prance in showrooms giving buyers a preview of fall clothes.

Sometimes there's music. Lots of times there are flowers and the other garment district fixture—a bowl of individually wrapped hard candies in paintbox colors.

Occasionally, champagne is sipped before or after a show and wafer-thin cucumber sandwiches are munched.

Fashion Avenue actually is 7th Ave.—between about 40th and 35th Sts. It is the heart of the nation's garment district. Number 555 is at 39th St.

The fashion story inside 555 unfolds neatly and orderly. The fashion story outside is worlds away. To see it is to believe.

The United Press International photographer stood outside 555 and shot away with camera. He moved to the corner of 39th and Fashion Avenue and documented on film more of the outside show.

Background street music included horns honking, gears shifting, drivers yelling at pedestrians walking against lights, pedestrians flinging back the verbal insults, truck doors slamming, bicycle bells, the tinkling of coins in metal cups held by blind men and others crippled—each licensed by the city to beg on the sidewalks.

Manners don't count much on Fashion Avenue. It's rush, push, hurry, bump, shove, if you must. The idea? Get to your destination swiftly. To stop and nurse injured feelings when someone or something brushes against you is to risk being trampled—especially around lunch time. To say "God bless you" when someone sneezes near you is to invite stares. The fashion scene outside includes the following:

—Pants, usually very tight aft, on all ages of females. Veteran girl watchers say the niftiest in pants are young women who resemble models, obviously go to exercise class and probably eat like grasshoppers. An overblouse and a sweater or a coat completed the outfits—some of which in the mainstream, were so poorly coordinated in color and/or pattern that they looked like color-blindness or motion-sickness tests walking.

—Street dresses, when seen, tended to follow the pillowslip silhouette. Most often these were spotted on older women, many of whom work in back rooms of the garment district. Their shoes looked comfortable. Other practical aspects of their clothing separate them from younger women springing along on high platforms.

—Long dresses most often are on gals with platforms. Prints, geometrics, plains, florals. Some backs bared. The long dresses resemble pants with wide, wide legs.

—Men on Fashion Avenue get the most points for headgear. Berets, straws, baseball caps, you name it. And scarves tied around the cranium, pirate fashion. After that, men tend to look the bleacher crowd at a ball park or your ordinary office worker. The messengers with the handcars on hot days do a modified strip and bare hairy chests, if nature so endowed them.

—The younger men on the avenue wear bright colors and also seem often to be accompanied by the prettiest girls—as on any avenue anywhere in America. Hand-in-hand are many of these. And sometimes, arms entwined around waists. Those with time to express affection on Fashion Avenue saunter. Love finds time. —The street scene, to anyone who looks closely, shows also that on Fashion Avenue, perhaps more than on any other, the human is a beast of burden. No one carries anything small—like a little purse. Some pouches slung over shoulders dwarf the mailman's bag.

—Now and then on the corner of 39th and Fashion Avenue you see some old-fashioned high fashion, a la Main Street, U.S.A. For example, a woman in opera pumps, an at-the-knee dress, a mink stole and wearing one glove and carrying the other.

She looks lost.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Dick Cavett was recently overwhelmed with his award of an Emmy because it wasn't presented on the telecast. The talk-show host was quoted as saying, "If you couldn't find time in your two and a half hour telecast to announce it, I can't find room for it in my living room."

Have a humble pill, Dick. Here, take one of mine. There is probably something contradictory about bragging about your humility, but sir, you are in the presence of the Master.

As a child I won a spelling bee. When it was announced, my name was misspelled. It came out Steve. Things never got better. I come home from the beauty shop after four hours and my husband says, "Where have you been?"

I once sat in Johnny Carson's green room so long waiting to go on a maid picked me up, dusted my legs and tried to empty me. She thought I was an ash tray. Following the publication of my second book, I received a gracious note from Mrs. Hubert Humphrey addressed to "Edna."

Some people have egos that are fed every three hours. Mine died two years ago following an incident in Washington.

Wanting to impress my sons with their nation's capital, I arranged a sightseeing trip to Washington. Because my column is syndicated, I was told certain privileges were extended to the press, notably the VIP tour of the White House.

After several high level phone calls and a trip to pick up the tickets personally, I briefed my children in the hotel room before we left. "We're being given special VIP treatment," I said coolly, "now if Mrs. Nixon should happen to come out and say, 'I understand Mrs. Bombeck is on the tour. Where is she?' I will come forward and look down at my shoes absolutely humiliated at being found out. When we are singled out and asked into their personal living quarters, don't fiddle with your noses or talk with food in your mouths. Understood? And remember, we can't stay too long. We must push on so we can get into the Senate. Got it?" They nodded.

As the cab stopped at the White House (thank God, he didn't use a siren), I saw a mob that looked like Woodstock after a rain. "Poor devils," I said to the boys, "I wonder how long they've been waiting." We whipped through the gates and over to the guard where I flashed my VIP tickets.

"End of the line, Lady," he said motioning toward the crowd.

Standing at the end of the line (which was two blocks into Virginia), my son asked, "What do I say again if we're asked for lunch?"

"Oh, shut up!" I said.

Household Hints

Knit yourself into the fall style picture. Make a sweater or vest with matching muffler and headhugger hat.

Can't make up your mind between a clutch bag and a shoulder bag? Buy a combination. Many manufacturers make clutch handbags with detachable shoulder straps.

Soft pouch handbags that were big style news in the 1930s will be back this fall with up-to-date shoulder straps.

If you're tired of the chain necklace look, switch to a simpler look. Hang an antique watch (real or reproduction) from a bead necklace or narrow black grosgrain ribbon.

Minority Has Right To Privacy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR READERS: I received the following letter. [It was signed.]:

DEAR ABBY: We are two students at Scripps College in Claremont, Cal., who are distressed by the attitudes of the majority of the girls in our residence hall concerning male visitors.

Not only are men allowed in the girls' rooms 24 hours a day, but they are also allowed to use our bathroom facilities!

We find it particularly embarrassing to encounter men just outside the showers with only a towel wrapped around them. We also sometimes encounter couples showering together in the same stall.

These rules were approved by the majority of the girls in our dormitory, but we feel that, as a minority, we have certain rights to our privacy, and that since this is a women's college, we shouldn't have to accommodate men in our living quarters.

We would appreciate your advice on this subject and hope you will print this so that girls at other women's colleges who share the ideas of the majority will have a greater respect for the sentiments of the minority.

DOUBTFUL

Suspecting that "Doubtful's" letter might have been a put-on, I wrote to the Dean of Students and asked for verification. I received the following reply:

Dear Ms. Van Buren: I have received your letter and the enclosed letter from one of our students. Indeed, the situation which she has described is not a "put-on." Though ours is a residential college for women, the college community, at the express request of students, adopted a 24-hour visitation system three years ago.

Part of the understanding inherent in this procedure, and one which the students must reaffirm each year, is that special consideration and accommodations be given to any student in any residence hall who finds herself, as "Doubtful" does, in the minority. She has only to talk to the president of the hall, the residence staff person, or to one of us in the Dean of Students office, and we will make every effort to provide her with a living situation compatible with her particular lifestyle.

I think "Doubtful" should be encouraged to use the channels available to her within her own college!

Sincerely,

Stephanie Adams, Dean of Students

DEAR DOUBTFUL: Well, there you are. The Dean of Students has suggested alternatives available to you and others who find the prevailing lifestyle within your dormitory repugnant to you.

Even though you are in the minority, I share your feelings of outrage, and believe that since yours is a women's residential college, those girls who have opened their bathing and toilet facilities to their male guests should suffer the inconvenience of applying for a living situation compatible with THEIR lifestyle.

DEAR ABBY: My 88-year-old mother died of cancer last week. During her illness, which lasted for about eight months, she occupied our guest bedroom.

I want to make sure the room is entirely disinfected. Would having the carpet, curtains and mattress dry cleaned make it safe for others to sleep in that room? I have already scrubbed the walls and furniture with disinfectant.

A friend of mine said I should burn up everything that was in that room and repaint just to be on the safe side. Please advise me.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your friend is mistaken. Cancer is not a contagious or infectious disease. Since there is no known germ or virus which causes cancer there are no "germs" to get rid of. Give the room a thorough routine cleaning and forget about it.

Switching Roles Created A Dechauvinized Household

ENFIELD, Conn. (AP) — By switching family roles, Elwood and Alma Exley say they have created a "dechauvinized" household.

"When we first got married 10 years ago, I didn't help with the housework. Alma was working and she just accepted that she had to take care of the house too. With this role reversal of ours, things have broken down as far as what is woman's work and what is man's work," said Elwood.

For six months, Elwood took over the daily responsibilities of raising a young child and running a household while his wife went back to work as a junior high school teacher. Elwood worked as a night editor for a local newspaper.

"During this time, we developed an understanding of the other person's role. She knew what it was like to work and come home to a spouse and child, and I knew what it was like to take care of my son Zack, now 4 years old, and the house," said Elwood.

The time he spent with his son was gratifying. "It was really great to be so close to my son at what was an important age. It's too bad more fathers can't be that close to their children when they're growing up," said Elwood, who was given credit by Alma for toilet training Zack.

"Elwood now knows how demanding it is to take care of kids. I came home one day and he hadn't done anything. The laundry was sitting at the top of the stairs and I asked, 'What have you done around here?' We both burst out laughing," said Alma.

Alma says she would recommend their style of living to other young couples.

Elwood, who now works as a public relations writer for an insurance company, says changing roles with his wife has been educational.

"Never again will I come home and say to my wife, 'What did you do today?'"

Bridal Couple Entertained Saturday

Miss Paula Greger and Linwood Ferguson, whose marriage will take place Aug. 10, were honored at a Hawaiian Luau given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. Merryman P. Bailey at their home on Churchill Drive.

Other honored guests for the occasion were the parents of the bridal couple. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Greger of Raleigh and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Ferguson Jr. of Greenville.

As Hawaiian music played in the background, the arriving guests were greeted at the door with leis presented to the ladies by Syd Bailey and to the gentlemen by Miss Jane Ferguson, and introduced to the honorees.

Invited into the dining area by Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Bailey, the guests enjoyed Polynesian cuisine served buffet style. The centerpiece featured pineapples halved and filled with tasty bite-sized fruits, and encircled by gardenias, cymbidium orchids, anthuriums and ti leaves. Coffee was poured by Miss Mary Dale White.

A gift was presented to the honorees by the host and hostess.

CWF Officers Entertained

Mrs. Bob Alligood, president-elect of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Hooker Memorial Christian Church recently entertained the new officers with a fish dinner at her home.

Bob Alligood and Lester Earl Turnage served food to more than 30 people who attended.

Mrs. Alligood outlined the program for CWF for the coming year.

Special guests were the Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Messick and their children.

Two Good Developments In Pitt

Two important economic developments took place in Pitt County last week.

The new Cooper USA, Inc. plant was dedicated at the Burroughs Wellcome Co. complex. The same day, North Carolina National Bank announced that it will occupy a new building in the Shore Drive area to be built by developers.

Cooper USA, Inc., is a manufacturer of animal health care products and is associated with Wellcome Foundation, Ltd. All of its facilities have been moved to North Carolina. Its headquarters is with Burroughs Wellcome in the Research Triangle and the manufacturing facilities join the Burroughs Wellcome manufacturing facilities here.

The Cooper plant manufactures products for large animal, veterinary and pet care use.

NCNB came to Greenville when State Bank and Trust Co. merged with it. The new building to be constructed in the Shore Drive block bounded by First, Washington, Second, and Greene Streets will replace the present 60 year-old building at Five Points. The old building has been acquired and will be demolished by the Redevelopment Commission.

The new building will house regional facilities for auditing, trust funds and possibly other services, in addition to local banking services.

Both of these developments are significant for Greenville and Pitt County. We welcome Cooper USA, Inc. to the area and we are pleased to see the North Carolina National Bank's new facilities proceeding.

'New Localism' Effort Advised

By BILL NOBLITT
(Second of Three Articles).
RALEIGH — How can North Carolina's wealth of small cities recapture a spirit of progress and involvement, of working together to seek out problems and solve them?

That is the major theme which runs through the Community Development Handbook which has resulted from a 12-month study of 30 non-metropolitan cities across the state by the community development section of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

city hall conflicts, contained in the handbook, is in a section which seeks to answer critics of citizen participation. At one point, it is noted that recent experience with citizen participation came under federal prodding and involved mostly blacks and the poor.

That concept is no longer valid, the handbook argues: citizen involvement is part of the democratic process, it helps overcome frustration and alienation, and can help overcome biases and lead to decisions more reflective of citizens' view.

New Localism is the name given to the outline for a model approach drawn up specifically for North Carolina communities and soon to be distributed statewide. Copies were handed out to the governors present at the National Governors' Conference in Seattle recently by Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr.

The handbook even lists a variety sampling of the kinds of citizens groups which ought to be involved in local governmental decision-making: scouts, churches, city boards, American Legion, Elks, the Bar Association, NAACP, Jaycees, Chambers of Commerce, merchants, teachers groups, political clubs, civic clubs, etc.

Manageable Problems

While a small section of the handbook is necessarily critical of the state's local, city and county governments, those involved in the study and the writing of the handbook are quick to note that "none of these problems appear unmanageable or indigestible—if we decide politically that we want to manage."

The key segment of the handbook spells out a new formula for a management plan as visualized by state planners. It is called a Public Policy Management Process and is the major shift toward changing local governmental emphasis from what state officials consider a "maintenance man" complex, toward a vision of the future.

Two principle criticisms of local governments override others outlined in the handbook: the lack of citizen participation in decisions; the lack of problem-seeking and management in local governments.

The first step is problem-seeking, an "assessment of needs and opportunities" compiled from elected officials, governmental officers, a "community profile information" study, and widespread citizen views of needs and priorities.

"Most of the conflicts experienced by citizens, local administrators, and elected officials in attempting to work together can be identified and grouped as follows:

Local Officials' View—we were elected to get something done; citizen involvement delays decision-making; we have limited staff to seek out and hear and respond to citizens; citizens are not really interested; citizens do not have all the facts and do not understand our problems; we have more demands that we have resources.

That study should lead to a summary of city needs contained in a readable and honest State of the City report.

Public meetings to debate the state of the city should be followed by overall policies and goals by the elected officials, and budgets revamped to show those new directions rather than just continued city services as in the past.

The Citizens' View—we prefer action to planning; we have limited time, money and technical knowledge to understand and respond to policies and program proposals; we do not understand how the government operates and they do not want us to know; the people who control city hall do not want to see anything change.

A key philosophy reflected in this approach is spelled out thus in the handbook: "Governments at all levels exist to protect property and advance the public good. It is effective only when we can give positive answers to questions like these: are we getting healthier? Is pollution decreasing? Are our children learning more? Do we have more satisfying jobs? Is crime decreasing? Are we pleased with the appearance of our community. What are your answers?"

Need Lowest Possible Rate To Do The Job

The City Council, which looked at a proposed budget calling for a tax rate of 82 cents per $100 valuation now seems to be considering a rate within a range of 60 to 67 cents.

At this time it is not certain where the final tax rate will fall within that range; it is certain, though that we need the lowest possible tax rate that will produce the revenue needed to do the job.

It takes some wisdom to do that and we hope the council members have adequate wisdom.

Nixon Strategy Could Backfire

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—The long-shrouded fact that the Supreme Court concealed its division in the historic 1954 school integration case to produce a public facade of unanimity suggests the President's cold war against the high court over the White House tapes may backfire.

The unanimous 1954 decision in Brown vs. Board of Education reflects a modern tendency by the Supreme Court toward overwhelming, often unanimous, decisions on paramount constitutional questions when opinion within the court may really be divided. That tendency might produce a one-sided decision ordering Mr. Nixon to turn over his tapes to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, confounding the President's strategy.

Although the record of Supreme Court deliberations is top secret, the fact is that the 1954 court, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, split 6 to 3 in its pre-ruling deliberations over school desegregation. But when the Justices actually voted, the three in the minority joined the majority to make the decision unanimous.

Legal scholars believe that the White House refusal to say it would obey an adverse finding is designed to warn the high court that a presidential refusal to obey could lead to the worst constitutional crisis since the Civil War. Leaving aside the merits of the case, that argument could conceivably impress some Justices, leading to a closely-divided split decision. Even if that decision went against Mr. Nixon, it would leave the issue confused and subject to interpretation.

In fact, as the record in the 1954 case indicates, the court tends to congeal into a strong or unanimous majority in major constitutional cases. Thus, the White House cold war could boomerang, simply fortifying a potential anti-Nixon vote angered at the implicit White House threat.

PESSIMISTS

Nothing is more contagious than discouragement. One pessimist can sadden a whole company. Usually we feel that our temperaments and personalities are purely our own—that they are strictly private and seldom affect anyone beyond ourselves. But in a sense every man's disposition is public property and can be a public asset or liability depending on the use which the man himself makes of it.

If he sets out to spread gloom he will be eminently successful. Some people as they pass through life leave

Ethics, Honor At Issue

Barry Goldwater, Patrick Buchanan, and Ken Clawson exploded in sequence last week, like a string of dynamite blasts, on the matter of "leaks" in the national press. The situation demands attention and it merits concern, but it defies easy answer.

The senator from Arizona, the President's top speech writer, and the head of White House communications were outraged—justifiably outraged—at the torrent of leaks flowing chiefly from the House Judiciary Committee. Goldwater wanted to send the editors of the Washington Post to jail, a prospect not without a certain appeal, and Buchanan spoke scornfully of "weasels in the chicken house."

I have been in the news business all my life, and I cannot recall any situation that approaches the situation that now obtains. Every day brings a fresh leak of some confidential document. It is not only the Judiciary Committee that gushes its subterranean secrets; the Senate's Watergate committee and possibly the FBI—this is not clear—also are involved.

For all of Senator Goldwater's long memorandum last week on the law, it seems to me doubtful that criminal conduct can be proved. The senator, who still has a regrettable habit of going off half-cocked, at first accused the Post of "treason." He backed away from that nonsensical charge, but he was fuming with other charges that struck him as matters for prosecution. Nothing will come of this.

The questions are not questions of law, but of ethics, of honor, and of professional responsibility.

In the matter of leaks from the House Judiciary Committee, it is plain that someone with access to the committee's confidential files is behaving, if not dishonestly, at least dishonorably. A number of memoranda prepared for the committee's use by William P. Dixon, a Democratic staff lawyer, have been deliberately leaked to the press. Dixon is perhaps the most prolific writer since Charles Dickens. His leaked memoranda are damaging to the President, and so long as the memoranda are not publicly released, they cannot be examined by other reporters. They are shots from ambush.

In my own view, the conduct of the leakers ought to be roundly condemned. In times past, in such matters as Daniel Ellsberg and the Pentagon Papers, some plausible appeal could be made to a "higher morality." Ellsberg's position was that he was so distraught, and so profoundly disturbed by the nation's involvement in Vietnam that he was compelled to breach his word of honor. He had to reveal the war documents, he said, because there was no way the people could learn the truth otherwise.

No such rationalization is available to the anonymous source who leaked Dixon's memorandum of June 6 on June 17. Release of this confidential statement could not conceivably serve some "higher morality." It served the cause of the partisan Democrats who are out to get the President. Peter Rodino's failure to plug these leaks, as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, is one more reflection upon his lack of capacity for his job.

What of the role of the newspapers? The ethical and professional questions here are far more complex. One starts with the plain truth that Dixon's memoranda are news. Newspapers exist not to suppress news, but to print it. If a newspaper is given confidential material, having demonstrable news value, the

To the editor:

I have just read an article in one of our weekly national newspapers concerning the deplorable conditions existing in nursing homes across the nation.

In my opinion, this is unfair to the nursing homes in our country which make a superb effort to provide care for our aging population.

I think Greenville can count itself fortunate to have a nursing home with a very conscientious and capable staff, who provide excellent and compassionate care, as does the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Home. A person who works here has to be very dedicated and no patient, no matter what the race, color, or creed is, is turned away if there is a vacancy. There is no discrimination between a private paying patient or welfare patient. Everyone gets the same attention and the same consideration.

Articles that appear in these newspapers about conditions that may exist in some nursing homes tend to cast disparaging opinions on all such facilities.

I am proud to say that I have been an employee of the Greenville Nursing Home for five years, and I do know how much tender loving care is administered to the patients here by all the staff.

To the editor:

I have put off writing this letter for a week now because I was sure the paper would be deluged with letters from people expressing their feelings about last Sunday's (June 16) "Sunday in the Park."

Evidently, a lot of others felt the same way I did, and consequently, no one wrote.

I feel an accomplishment such as that must not go unsung. I'm sure the other 1,000 or so people there with us enjoyed it just as much as we did and they too would want to say thank you to Mr. Stuart Aronson, the City of Greenville, East Carolina University, the Marine Band and anyone else who had a hand in bringing about such a unique experience. It was well worth their effort and we are looking forward with much anticipation to the coming "Sundays in the Park." Thank you everyone.

Little Trust Is Felt

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

In this time of detente, the murky mist of mistrust that persists in Soviet-American relations seems to have deepened since last year. It dims the outlook for a result from this week's new summit in Moscow that might mean a genuine sense of security for both sides.

The mistrust has many sources, not the least of which is the constant repetition by Soviet propaganda that real peace is impossible because ideological warfare must go on until "imperialism," meaning the camp led by the United States, has been wholly vanquished.

Other sources include Soviet suspicion of American intentions, the recent jolts delivered by the Middle East war and its consequences, the continuing reality of the strategic arms race, the clash of national interests.

President Nixon and General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev alike have stakes in a look of success for their Summit III starting Thursday in Moscow. Added to his triumph in the Middle East, a Moscow success for the President would be a welcome antidote to pressures from Watergate woe. For Brezhnev, it could promise something tangible to show his critics from the policy for which he assumes full responsibility.

"To live in peace," declared Brezhnev during the wave of euphoria emanating from Summit II in Washington last year, "we must trust each other, and to trust each other we must know each other better."

But Moscow angrily denounces as intended subversion the West's proposal for freer exchange of people and information, and the 35-nation European Security Conference became snagged on that point.

The very genesis of Moscow's "peaceful coexistence" policy gives the West good reason for nagging misgivings about Soviet motives. The official Kremlin line is that the detente policy was approved by a meeting in Moscow in June 1969 of leaders of 75 Communist parties from around the world. It was then reaffirmed at the 24th Soviet party congress in 1971. Why detente?

Soviet statements strongly suggest that detente is part of tactics and strategy for expanding Communist authority around the world. Right now

Seldom A Message To Produce

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If the world's leaders appear puzzled about rising prices, the man in the street can be excused if no longer he seeks to understand inflation any more than he does his teenage kid.

"It's a phase," he says, suggesting to himself that it will pass.

But here's an observation about life in an inflated economy that might help you understand why prices are rising all over the world, and why they're likely to continue rising for a long time to come.

First, what messages did you receive today from the media, your family or friends? Think about it for a moment and you'll probably find many of them fall into a category called consumption, such as:

Eat your breakfast. Get all your vitamins. Fill up the gasoline tank. Pick up the paper while you're at the store — and get me a carton of cigarettes too. Let's take in a show tonight. Why not vacation in Europe? Big sale on suits.

All day long the typical American is exhorted to consume, to spend, to acquire, to experience, to do. It is a consumption society; by means of appealing voices, fluttering pennants, sexual suggestion, visual displays and dozens of other techniques you are urged to buy, to consume.

The intensity of the message was once considered typically American, but what once was called the American way of life is now quite likely the life style of the Brazilian and the Frenchman too.

In contrast, how often are you exhorted to produce? Efforts by government officials to bring attention to lagging productivity have been relatively unsuccessful, a situation that an economist might deplore but which a psychologist can understand.

As most of us know, consumption is usually more comfortable than production, at least over the short run. Eventually, however, if production isn't maintained, consumption costs more or becomes impossible.

Thus, rising prices and shortages.

SPEAKING FROM THE STAGE—Betty Hutton speaks from stage at Riverboat nightclub in New York. Joey Adams, right, served as master of ceremonies for the affair which was a benefit for the Rhode Island Catholic rectory where Betty has been working as a housekeeper-cook. The former movie queen made it plain that it was a one-night stand, and that she was going right back to Portsmouth, R.I. (AP Wirephoto)

Betty Hutton Is Given 'Love-In' Wants Oath Of No-Leaks

By HENRIETTA LEITH
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Show biz gave one of its inside "love-ins" for a beloved old-timer, the housekeeper-cook of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic rectory in Portsmouth, R.I.

And the housekeeper-cook—onetime Hollywood "Blonde Bombshell" Betty Hutton—kissed show biz friends Monday night and told them she loved them all, then vowed to go back to Portsmouth and her housekeeping duties as soon as possible.

"I'll never leave that place," she said in a glare of spotlights at the Empire State Building's Riverboat Restaurant in white chiffon, feathers and a warm glow from all the kisses of other old-timers.

"I've been offered open-end contracts," she added. "But this is going to be my life."

Told that the Rev. Peter McGuire, who befriended her six months ago, had described her as a marvelous and inventive cook and expressed the hope she would continue in her job at the rectory, Betty said she had no idea of leaving.

"I've found something I can do well, and I intend to keep on doing it," she said. "I have a townful of people who love me. We go boating, we have a wonderful time. It's marvelous."

But when George Jessel came up and started talking about old times, he left Betty practically in tears. And when Eddie Bracken called from Hollywood, and she took the call onstage, the voice that said "Oh, I'm proud to hear from you" was the voice of the Betty Hutton who bounced through a dozen Hollywood musicals and became the pin-up girl of thousands of World War II GIs.

She told Bracken, "When you stopped making movies with me, things went down the tube."

Things had gone far down the tube for Betty Hutton when she ran into Father McGuire and, "broken, down and out, without a dime to my name," she accepted his offer of a job in the rectory.

At the Riverboat party, while one entertainer after another paid tribute and the reporters and photographers nearly smothered her, Betty might never have been away.

"I hate you," said Patsy Kelly, in slacks and plaid shirt, taking time out from her own Broadway comeback in "Irene."

"You're so beautiful," said Patsy. "You look better than I did 40 years ago. If I can come back, so can you."

Cites Vast Powers Of Ass't President

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Watergate committee report says some presidential advisers over the last three administrations acquired enough power to become assistant presidents, accountable to no one.

"As assistant presidents, they exercise enormous power—taken in the name of the President but often, it seems, without his acquiescence or even his knowledge," Dr. Arthur Miller, a special consultant, said in the report.

"The Senate does not confirm them, their actions are not judicially reviewable, they invoke executive privilege and refuse to deal with Congress—they, in short, act as a government within a government," Miller told the committee.

Miller's report and recommendations were obtained by The Associated Press from sources close to the committee.

The report said testimony given to the committee indicates that the office of the president has "swollen to mammoth proportions" and that staff assistance and advice "has been gradually transformed into an instrument of control."

Miller urged a thorough congressional study of the President's executive office.

His report recalled that President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued an order in 1939 making it clear "that presidential assistants would remain in the background, issuing no orders, making no decisions and giving no public statements."

Miller recommended that the Watergate committee include the substance of that order in its proposals for change. If such legislation were to be adopted, the report said, "assistants to the president would soon cease to be assistant presidents—but they would not be precluded from carrying out the necessary liaison activities."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peter M. Flanigan is resigning as assistant to the President and executive director of the Council on Economic Policy.

A White House spokesman announced Flanigan's intention to resign but said no date for his leaving had been set. A former New York investment banker, Flanigan has been a member of the Nixon administration since its start and has taken part in Nixon campaigns since 1959.

Nixon accepted the resignation with "the deepest regret."

to get around its pledge that the B-1 (itself a $100 million-a-copy item) would not need a new refueling system, despite unprecedented requirements for low-level, long-range attack. As recently as last month, a top general in the Strategic Air Command (SAC) was asked: "Will the B-1 need a new tanker?" His answer: "No."

One rationalization for now requesting advanced new tanker-cargo aircraft was the squeeze on airlift capacity during the October Arab-Israeli war.

Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger wants more airlift of the C-5 variety or larger; the Air Force wants a new B-1 tanker. So, they got together on the $4.5 million first-stage seed money, camouflaged to do either or both.

Picking Coastal Resources Body

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Gov.

Jim Holshouser says he hopes to name the 15 members of North Carolina's new Coastal Resources Commission by the end of this week.

Holshouser spent several hours Monday with James Harrington, Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources, and his appointments advisor, Loney Funderburk.

They went over the qualifications and philosophies of the more than 100 men who were nominated for the commission by county and municipal governments in the coastal area.

"By the time it's all over, I will have spent more time on these appointments than any other board I've named," Holshouser said.

The commission, created by the 1974 legislature, will oversee land use planning and management in the state's 20 coastal counties. It will have broad authority over development permits in environmentally fragile areas.

Holshouser said he doesn't yet know enough about the individuals nominated to predict whether the commission will lean toward development or conservation interests.

It apparently is a mixed group. Funderburk said his impression was that the nominees were largely pro development.

But one of state government's leading environmentalists, Dr. Thomas Linton, said the nominees included "at least 15 people" whose selection would please conservationists.

Holshouser said he would not interview nominees about their views before selecting them. He indicated that he would rely heavily on Harrington's recommendations and suggestions from people familiar with the nominees.

"The main thing is to get a reasonable balance on the commission with people you know are going to be fair and listen to both sides of an issue," Holshouser said.

Holshouser will pick 12 of the commissioners from the nominees submitted by the local governments. The legislation establishing the commission divides it into categories.

One commissioner must be involved with fishing, another with development, a third with the conservation movement, etc.

The governor will name the remaining three commissioners at his discretion. He said he would probably use those choices to name the maximum of two members from outside the coastal region.

Holshouser said that several of the nominees were "almost certain" to be selected, but he declined to name them.

Several sources within the Administration named one man, developer and conservationist David Stick, as a likely appointee.

Planning-Zoning Agenda Readied

Eleven items are scheduled for action at Wednesday night's meeting of the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions.

Under old business, the joint board will consider adoption of rules of procedure and discuss an amendment to the Zoning Ordinance. New business items include: consideration of the annual report; consider the recommending to the City Council of adoption of the Sediment Control Ordinance; Discussion of an amendment of the Zoning Ordinance before the Council which would raise rezoning advertisement fees; consideration of the need for publishing an informational pamphlet concerning the Planning Commission and its duties; and rezoning of Windy Ridge Subdivision from RA-20 to R-9.

Business on the Greenville board agenda includes: discussion of the practicality of extending the Downtown Fringe Commercial zone along W. Fifth Street; consideration of a request to annex Lake Ellsworth;

A revised preliminary plat of River Hills Estates, located on the Washington Highway across from Pinewood Memorial Gardens; and the final plat of Windy Ridge Subdivision.

The session is slated for 8 p.m. at city hall.

McGuire Weddings Can Be Confusing

ELMHURST, Ill. (AP) — After Marianne McGuire weds July 6 she won't have to worry about changing the name on her credit cards or driver's license, and it's not because of a breakthrough on the women's liberation front.

Marianne, 22, is marrying another McGuire, Roger.

Last name introductions shouldn't present a problem for family and friends at the marriage and a banquet to follow, but first name introductions will be something else.

Ten of the 15 persons in the bridal party are named McGuire, and the invited guest list is one McGuire after another.

James E. McGuire and his wife, Rosemary, parents of Marianne, have seven children. James R. McGuire and his wife, Margaret Mary, parents of Roger, have six children.

In addition, there are several duplications of first names across both families.

Roger's brother Kevin and Marianne's brother Kevin are both 19 and members of the bridal party. Roger has a sister who has the same name as his bride, and his bride has a sister with the same name as Roger's mother.

Confusing? "When you begin to get into nieces and nephews, it really gets ridiculous," said James E. McGuire.

He said he enjoyed a few chuckles over mailing wedding invitations which read: "James E. McGuire and James R. McGuire request your presence at the marriage of their children, Marianne Therese and Roger Stephen ..."

"I'm sure a lot of people thought it was a misprint," he said.

And as for his future son-in-law, McGuire says, "What more can you want? He's of good moral fiber, good character and—he has a good name."

newspaper's duty is to print it, unless—Unless what? Unless other considerations are more important.

One such consideration, obviously, is the national security. This is not involved in the current leaks. Another consideration, far more difficult to appraise, is the image and reputation of the press itself. By serving as a willing ally to the committee's hatchmen, the conniving newspapers inevitably create the impression that their purpose is not to pursue the news, but to pursue a vendetta instead. It is an ugly image, harming the press as a whole. Speaking for myself, as one professional newsmen, I voice my resentment, and my protest.

New Bern was the first capital of North Carolina. The capital was moved to Raleigh in the mid-1790's.

Pravda noted that efforts to make the detente process "irreversible" would be difficult, but held out enticing prospects to Western Communists of a coming collapse of the whole capitalist system, now a favorite Kremlin theme. The press constantly stresses what it calls the "deep all-around crisis of the whole capitalist system" as it dwells on Western economic woes.

The implication: Detente is the road to victory of world revolution under the Communist banner.

However, there are practical, nonideological gains for the Kremlin to consider from the detente policy, just as there are practical benefits in prospect for the West from lessened tensions.

In the current situation of the Soviet consumer economy, detente has begun to look like a necessity, at least so far as Soviet civilian politicians are concerned.

The problem is the extent to which the Kremlin intends or hopes to turn practical necessity into ideological virtue. Americans and Europeans find themselves asking whether a policy heartily endorsed by 75 Communist parties intends any good for the Western system.

Officers Are Installed By Greenville Lions Club

Greenville Lions Club officers and directors for 1974-75 were installed Monday night during the club's annual installation banquet.

Officers installed by O. E. Dowd, Past District Governor, included: Jim Hix, president; Bob Boudreaux, first vice president; Lloyd Rhodes, second vice president; Thurston Perry, third vice president; Bob Lamb, secretary; Waitus Howell, treasurer; Eddie Harrington, tail twister; and Roy Jones, Lion tamer.

Dowd also installed Jerry Tester, Gabe Cipau, Charles Waller and Bill Warrington as Lions Club directors for the coming year. During the installation ceremonies, Dowd cited the growth of Lionism in the United States since its beginning in Texas in 1917. He said Lionism has grown to be the world's largest service organization with 1,100,000 members in 27,000 clubs in 154 countries throughout the world.

Dowd noted that the first ten Lions Clubs in the state were chartered in 1922 and today there are 444 clubs with more than 15,000 members.

In North Carolina, he reported, the Lions Clubs raise and spend more than $2,000,000 each year in service projects. Primary emphasis is in the area of sight conservation including the White Cane project, the N.C. Eye Bank, Boys Homes, and Camp Dogwood, along with many other local projects.

Bob Boudreaux was honored by the local club as the recipient of the Lion of the Year Award. Thurston Perry, last year's winner, made the presentation. Dick Johnson was inducted by Dowd as a new member of the Greenville club.

Special music for the annual session was provided by Betty Aldridge, soloist, and Steve Cook, accompanist. Wives of the Lions were special guests for the banquet, presided over by C. W. Snell Jr., outgoing president.

Call Meeting

Two items are on the agenda for the special call Greenville School board meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the boardroom of the City School Office, West Fifth Street.

The first item will be a general discussion of the curriculum for the coming school year for grades K through 12. The second agenda item is on proposals to be sent to Raleigh relative to the kindergarten program in Greenville for the coming year.

Both are items not covered at the regular school board meeting held earlier on Monday, June 17.

CP&L Slashes Construction

RALEIGH (AP)—Carolina Power & Light Co. has reduced its construction program by $87 million in 1974 and $410 for the three-year period 1974-76.

Shearon Harris, company president, said in a statement Monday a new energy and load forecast indicates a slower growth in customer usage. He said the cutback also was made as the result of a change in the firm's criteria for reserve generating capacity that is tied closely to the current unwillingness of investors to supply new capital for expansion.

The revised construction plan approved by CP&L directors last week calls for spending about $380 million in 1974 and $1.195 billion in the 1974-76 period.

Major changes include a rescheduling of the Harris nuclear power plant in Wake County. The four units are now scheduled for operation in 1981, 1982, 1983 and 1984, respectively. The first unit had been scheduled for operation in 1979.

Meanwhile, the company reported its customers used 1.256 per cent more electricity during the first five months of this year than in the same period last year.

E. M. Geddie, vice president for division operations, said the smaller than normal increase in customer usage was attributed to conservation efforts and by milder weather than expected.

Looted Van Of Vendor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Onlookers stole ice cream, candy and money from a catering van while its 55-year-old owner lay unconscious nearby from a savage beating by a gang of youths, police said.

Officers said the ice cream vendor, Victorino A. Parades, of suburban South Gate, died Monday evening.

An autopsy was scheduled today to determine if Parades suffered a heart attack brought on by the beating.

Detective Robert McVey said Parades was assaulted twice by two to four youths when he got out of his van to help a customer. The youths fled after the beating.

The detective said Parades fell back into his van and was lying there unconscious when more than two dozen persons from the Jordan Downs housing project descended on the van and cleaned it out.

"The money was in a box-like receptacle and it was all taken," said McVey. "We have no way of knowing how much was taken, but it can't have been much."

The Downs area is in south-central Los Angeles, near Watts.

Working On Obligations

WASHINGTON (AP) — A White House spokesman says President Nixon is still working out how to meet a $243,000 mortgage and interest payment due next month on his home in San Clemente, Calif.

Responding to reporters' questions, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren also said Monday that Nixon has not yet paid additional 1969 federal income taxes listed by a congressional panel as amounting to more than $170,000.

Warren said about the San Clemente mortgage and interest payment, due July 15: "I'm not sure how he's going to work that out. But I'm sure he'll meet whatever obligations are due."

Although the President is not legally obligated to pay the extra taxes for 1969—which the IRS said were underpaid—because a statute of limitations has expired, Nixon said earlier this year he would pay them.

He has paid the 1970-72 taxes he was obligated to pay after an Internal Revenue Service audit of his returns, Warren said.

The IRS said Nixon owed an additional $432,787 in taxes, for the years 1969-72.

Optimists Win; Claim NS Crown

The Optimists pushed over two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to nip the upstart Kiwanis, 3-1, yesterday and wrap up first place in the Tar Heel Little League standings. The game was the final one during the regular season for the two teams. The Optimists finished the year with a 13-2 mark, while the Kiwanis are 3-12. The contest was a tight one most of the way. Neither team got a run until the Optimists pushed over one in the fourth. They had gotten only one hit, in the first inning, through the first five as Skip Topping kept them handcuffed. Overall, the Optimists got only a pair. Topping walked three and struck out three in going the distance for the loss. Winning pitcher Jim Kernan had a no-hitter going until the third when he allowed one. He gave up two more in the sixth, when the Kiwanis scored to tie it up. Kernan fanned three and walked three also. The Optimists pushed over their first run in the fourth. Kernan walked and moved up on a passed ball. He took third on an out and scored when Patrick Wilson reached on an error. The Kiwanis tied it up in the sixth. Skip Hill singled and moved around when Topping doubled, tying it at 1-1. But the Optimists came back in the bottom of the sixth to push over the winning run. Kernan reached on an error and moved up on a wild pitch. He took third on an out and Liles Stott walked. He stole second, and then Sammy Hodges slapped a double, driving in both runners for the victory. Kiwanis 000 001-1 3 3 Optimists 000 102-3 2 1

Moose Upset Elks By 9-2

The Moose pushed over nine runs in the top of the first inning, then coasted through the rest of the game to take a 9-2 victory over the Elks on a no-hitter by David Carroll. The victory closed out the regular season for the Moose with a 5-10 record. The Elks finished with a 9-6 mark. Carroll didn't allow a hit in the victory, as he struck out eight and walked seven and hit one. The Moose put the game away quickly, scoring all nine of their runs in the first inning. Ashley Taylor led off with a walk and Mark Sasser singled. Carroll walked and an error on a pickoff play let Taylor score. Rickey West walked to reload the bases, and Dwayne Alligood reached on an error, scoring Sasser. Dean Wilson singled to score both Carroll and West, and David Vaughn singled in Alligood and Wilson. An error let Vaughn move to third and he scored on Donnie Daughtridge's hit. Daughtridge moved up on a passed ball and scored on Sasser's second hit of the inning. Sasser advanced on a passed ball and scored when Carroll reached on a two-base error. The Moose threatened a few times after that, but they had completed their scoring. The Elks pushed over their first run in the third. Don White walked and moved up on a passed ball. He came around to score when Emmett Walsh reached on an error. The other run came over in the fifth. Chris Ross walked and so did Gavin Ray. Lenn Jackson was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. White then hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Ross with the final Elk run. Little Change At Wimbledon

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The world spins along at a maddening pace. Jets cross oceans in a matter of hours. Computers think like men. Men walk on the moon. But Wimbledon remains unchanged. For the next two weeks, it's almost like a walk back through the 19th century. Ivy covers the brick walls of the old buildings erected when the All-England Club moved from Worples Street to Church Road. The stands are a deep, dull green, weather-beaten by the sun, winds and rain. Although the rest of the booming tennis world long since has shifted to bright pastel colors for attire and opted for yellow balls, Wimbledon still adheres to its strict-all-white rule. The players must wear white. "It's a little strange," said John Newcombe of Australia, the world's best man player as he took the court for his first match. "I've seen nothing but yellow balls for months and now I must play with white." "It sort of psychs you, but you get used to it." In 1949 the staid Wimbledon directors were shocked when gorgeous Gussie Moran appeared on the court in sexy lacy panties. They rushed her to the dressing room for a quick change. Two years ago Rosemary Casals drew a similar rebuke when she started to take the court in a pastel-colored dress. The ladies are permitted a slight color trim—so are the men—but the costume must be basically white. For Londoners and other visitors, this is not a tennis tournament. It is a festival. Londoners begin applying for tickets a year in advance. By car, tram and bus, they pour to this pleasant tree-pocked suburb, sit under green umbrellas and eat strawberries and cream. Two years ago, most of the best players in the world—members of Lamar Hunt's World Championship of Tennis—were barred from competition. A year ago, the top players boycotted the tournament because of a ban against Yugoslavia's Nikki Pilic. The crowd came, anyhow, ate their strawberries and cream, saw a minimum of tennis and went away happy. Nothing shakes up Wimbledon. While a modern breed is attempting to take tennis out of its 18th stays and corsets and put it in hot pants, Wimbledon refuses to budge from its long, rich tradition. The only concession made has been in the area of the tie-break, and Wimbledon has installed its own—about as ambiguous as the original system. To staid tennis purists, this is hallowed ground. The grass of the 15 courts is like a precious carpet spread over the floor of a palace. But it was not always so. In 1921, when the All-England Club was moved to its present site from Orple Road where it had existed since 1877, special soil was dug from the ocean depths to provide a perfect grass surface. The grass later was found to contain live shrimp. The courts had to be dug up and started again.

City League Heads Into Final Week As Teams Shuffle Standings

The City Softball League began its final week of play with first place already decided in both divisions. Kentucky Fried Chicken has already wrapped up the Gold Division, while the Little Sluggers have won the Purple crown. In the opening game on Field Two, Talbott took a 15-6 win over Daniel Construction. Talbott pushed over five runs in the first, then added three more in the second, with T. Brown homering. Talbott got two more in the third, two in the fourth, and three in the sixth. Daniel scored three in the fourth, and three more in the fifth. Union Carbide took a forfeit victory over Grady-White in the second game. In the final contest, University Seafood rolled to an 11-4 win over Hallow's. Hallow's scored first, getting three in the first, then both teams scored once in the second. University came up with one in the fourth on a homer by Vines, then pushed into the lead by scoring six in the sixth. They added three more in the seventh. In the opener on Field One, Sunnyside Eggs took an 8-6 win over Morgan Printers in nine innings. Sunnyside scored first, getting one in the second. Morgan came back with two in its half of the frame, then both scored twice in the fourth. Sunnyside tied it up with one in the fifth, and it stayed that way until the ninth. In that frame, Sunnyside rallied for four runs to take an 8-4 lead. Morgan came back with two, but could come no closer. Pier 5 romped past White's Insulation, 14-8, in the second contest. Both teams scored a run in the second, but Pier 5 pushed over four in the third to take the lead. They added three in the fourth, and five more crossed the plate in the fifth. The final run scored in the seventh. White's rallied for four in the fifth and two in the sixth then closed with one in the seventh. The final contest saw the Little Sluggers roll to a 17-1 win over the Jaycees. The Sluggers got five in the second, one in the third, five more in the fourth, and three each in the fifth and sixth. Fleming slapped a homer for the Sluggers in the fifth. The lone Jaycee run came over in the seventh. The Sluggers clinched the championship by defeating Williams Billiards of Wilson 19-6 and 5-2 Sunday afternoon. Bill Kuykendall of the Sluggers was named Most Valuable Player for the tournament.

Brown: Know Under Pressure

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The new head coach of the American Basketball Association's Kentucky Colonels says he's walking into the job with his eyes open. "I know what I'm getting into," 40-year-old Hubie Brown said Monday night. "I know I'm getting into a pressure-cooker." Brown, assistant coach with the National Basketball Association Milwaukee Bucks for the past two seasons, succeeds Babe McCarthy, who was fired last month after the Colonels lost four straight games of a playoff series with the ABA champion New York Nets. His appointment as Colonels' coach was announced here Monday night at a press conference at which officials also said: —The Colonels won't be playing any of their games at Cincinnati next season. —The team has acquired 6-foot-8 Wilbert Jones from the Memphis Tams and 6-1 William "Bird" Averitt from San Antonio. Ellie Brown of Louisville, majority owner of the Colonels, said Brown was the top choice for the coaching spot. "We made this decision weeks ago," she said. "Hubie is our first choice." Brown told a crowd of Colonels' season-ticket holders that he is used to pressure-cooker situations. "It hasn't been easy being associated with Milwaukee because of the tall, skinny kid (Kareem Abdul-Jabbar) in the middle," he said. "Every loss was an upset, and everyone expected us to go for all the marbles. It's frightening how much the material here parallels the type that's at Milwaukee." Brown also said his goals are the same as those of Mrs. Brown and her husband, John Y. Brown Jr., who has drawn criticism in the past for involvement in operation of the club. Hubie Brown said he expects no problems getting along with the owners. The break in the "Cincinnati connection" had been forecast for some time. John Y. Brown had said repeatedly that low gate receipts in the Ohio city had been costly. Louisville box office receipts had been averaging $25,000, compared with $10,000 in Cincinnati.

'Freedom' Is Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — So-called "freedom issues" are expected to be a main focus of negotiations resuming today between National Football League owners and players. With a threatened players' strike looming less than one week away, the two sides have been called together by federal mediator Jim Seare to continue contract talks broken off suddenly June 13 in New York. Other prime topics to be tackled at today's session are the league's pension and insurance plans. The "freedom issues" formulated by the Players Association include abolition of the reserve clause, the option clause, the waiver system and a rule giving Commissioner Pete Rozelle the right to set the proper compensation for a club when one of its members plays out his option and signs with another team. John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the owners, says the demands are excessive: "We are prepared to discuss modifications, not eliminations." Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers, president of the Players Association, responded that "we have laid out our position and we are getting frustrated."

Sluggers In Victory

Little Sluggers, winners of the Purple Division in the City Softball League, clinched a berth in the State Softball Tourney by placing first in a Triple S-A softball tourney held in Williamston over the weekend. The Sluggers clinched the championship by defeating Williams Billiards of Wilson 19-6 and 5-2 Sunday afternoon. Bill Kuykendall of the Sluggers was named Most Valuable Player for the tournament.

Busby's Dream Turned Into A Nightmare For Kansas City, 3-1

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

"I never gave a thought during the game that I might pitch a second no-hitter," said Steve Busby. Ron Santo gave him something else to think about.

Busby revived memories of Johnny Vander Meer Monday night. For more than five innings, Kansas City's young right-hander was toying with a no-hitter, his second in a row and the third of his life.

But Pat Kelly of Chicago broke the spell with a one-out single in the sixth, and Santo broke Busby's heart with a two-run homer in the seventh that boosted the White Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Royals.

In other American League games, Cleveland walloped New York 10-3, Boston bombed Milwaukee 9-0, Oakland shelled California 11-3, Minnesota trimmed Texas 8-4 and Baltimore beat Detroit 3-1.

"The pressure and the balmy hoo from the first no-hitter didn't bother me," said Busby. "I made some bad pitches..."

But until he served up Santo's game-breaker, there hadn't been many. He walked only one batter last Wednesday night in no-hitting the Milwaukee Brewers 2-0. And he walked only two before Kelly hit a grounder that barely eluded diving second baseman Cookie Rojas.

Indians 10, Yankees 3

John Lowenstein knocked in five runs on three hits, including the first grand-slam of his major league career, to power the Indians over New York.

Red Sox 9, Brewers 0

Rico Petrocelli, who belted two home runs Sunday, drilled the ninth bases-loaded home run of his career to lead Boston's rout of the Brewers.

A's 11, Angels 3

Sal Bando slammed a grand slammer, too, his sixth ever, and Angel Mangual drove in three runs with a single and a sacrifice fly to lead Oakland's stomping of the Angels.

Twins 8, Rangers 4

Danny Thompson cracked four hits including a two-run inside-the-park home run and Larry Hisle hit a three-run homer in the Twins' triumph.

Orioles 3, Tigers 1

Doyle Alexander pitched a five-hitter and Bobby Grich hit a two-run homer in the Orioles' victory over Detroit.

Texas Court Says WFL Can Recruit NFLers

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The World Football League has vowed to "vigorously continue" efforts to sign National Football League players after a Texas appellate court ruling that cleared the way for WFL recruiting of Dallas Cowboy athletes.

Appeals Court Judge Harold Bateman of Dallas reversed a lower court injunction Monday that had halted WFL recruiting of players from the National Football League team.

WFL Commissioner Gary L. Davidson, organizer of the new league, said the ruling confirmed the WFL's belief "in the freedom of competition between leagues and the freedom of players to have viable alternatives in choosing employers."

He added that the WFL "has not, and will not in the future, violate the valid terms of any presently existing contract..."

He said players obligated to the NFL for 1975 and who have signed with the WFL would not join the WFL until 1976.

Tex Schramm, Cowboys' president and general manager, said he would have no comment on Judge Bateman's decision until club attorneys read the opinion.

Texas District Court Judge Charles Long had issued an injunction that barred WFL recruiting of Cowboys Calvin Hill, Craig Morton and Mike Montgomery. The injunction was granted to the Cowboys, who described the WFL recruiting as "raiding."

Hill, Morton and Montgomery had signed contracts with Hawaii, Houston and Birmingham of the WFL, respectively.

Bateman disagreed with the Cowboys' claims that the WFL recruitment was illegal meddling in player contracts.

"We must consider the freedom of contract of the individual players as well as the rights of the club under its present contracts," he said.

"Bargaining for future services is a matter of economics. The club can assure itself of the continued services and loyalty of its players by offering them long term contracts and other financial inducements. If it chooses not to do so for economic reasons, it has no legal ground to complain if the players look elsewhere for their future careers and enter into contracts for services to be performed when their present contracts with the club expire."

The WFL also has signed a number of players from other NFL clubs to contracts for 1976. One club guaranteed $3.5 million to hire Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick from the Miami Dolphins.

Other NFL stars to sign with the fledgling league include quarterback Daryle Lamonica of Oakland, linebacker Bill Bergey of Cincinnati and running back Larry Smith of the Los Angeles Rams.

National League scores: New York 4, Chicago 2; Houston 6, Cincinnati 1; Atlanta 4, Los Angeles 3; San Diego 2, San Francisco 1, and, in a two-night doubleheader, St. Louis 3-4, Pittsburgh 1-0.

Race Is Underway

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — The battle was under way today for top honors in the prestigious Newport-to-Bermuda yacht race after the record-breaking 655-mile pace set by a 79-foot U.S. ketch.

The Ondine, a Mamaroneck, N.Y., entry, reached St. David's Head Monday with an elapsed time of 2 days, 20 hours, 8 minutes, 22 seconds as the first of the 166 competitors to finish.

But the Scaramouche, a 55-foot sloop owned by Charles Kirsch of Sturgis, Mich., was the strongest early bidder for the title with a corrected time of 2 days, 15 hours, 59 minutes, 55 seconds.

Sailed by Sumner A. Long of New York, the Ondine, giving away as much as 25 hours of handicap time to the smaller boats in the race, chopped 2:03.15 off the mark set in 1958 by the Bolero.

But the smaller craft ranging down to about 30 feet in Classes A through F still held the advantage in the race. And many boats were not expected to complete the ocean course before Wednesday.

Lonborg Sparks Philadelphia Win; Gibson Hurls St. Louis By Bucs

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Two former Cy Young Award winners seemingly have given the boot to their knee troubles and are on the comeback trail, although Jim Lonborg is further up the road than Bob Gibson.

Lonborg, who grabbed the 1967 Cy Young Award while pitching the Boston Red Sox into the World Series, tossed a six-hitter and slugged a grand slam homer, leading the Philadelphia Phillies over the Montreal Expos 8-2 Monday night.

"The homer helped—it was nice to get a lead like that," said Lonborg, whose record now stands at 10-5 after six straight victories. "But I still had to concentrate on pitching early in the game."

Gibson, who owns the Cy Young hardware for 1968, '69 and '70, became the winningest active major league pitcher Monday night, hurling the St. Louis Cardinals to a 4-0 victory and a doubleheader sweep over the Pittsburgh Pirates. St. Louis took the opener 3-1.

"I felt fairly good," said Gibson, 4-8, after stifling the Pirates on four hits. "But I've been feeling good for the past two or three weeks. Basically it was a matter of not hanging a lot of sliders like I'd been doing."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros tripped the Cincinnati Reds 6-1; the New York Mets trimmed the Chicago Cubs 4-2; the Atlanta Braves edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3, and the San Diego Padres nipped the San Francisco Giants 2-1.

Astros 6, Reds 1

Tom Griffin is finding it easier in the major leagues than in the little ones.

"I had pretty good stuff. A pretty good fastball and pretty good control," said Griffin, who stymied the Reds on five hits.

Braves 4, Dodgers 3

Pitcher Buzz Capra's squeeze bunt drove in the decisive run in a four-run seventh-inning outburst that carried Atlanta past Los Angeles, snapping the Dodgers' three-game winning streak.

Padres 2, Giants 1

Rookie San Diego right-hander Dan Spillner, who pitched a one-hitter in his last outing, needed ninth inning help from a pair of relievers but the Padres held on to beat the Giants.

Mets 4, Cubs 2

Ninth-inning errors by Dave Rosello and Jose Cardenal gave New York a pair of runs and the Mets went on to beat the Cubs.

Intrepid Opens Defense Of Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The wooden Intrepid has opened a strong bid to defend its America's Cup title by surprising two favored aluminum yachts during the preliminary trials to select a U.S. entry.

The Intrepid, competing on a triangular course of about 13.5 miles, defeated the Mariner by 2 minutes, 52 seconds Monday after losing to the Courageous by only 13 seconds in the first match race.

The Mariner and the Courageous, built under new 12-meter specifications that permit aluminum hulls for the first time, were expected originally to be distinctly faster than the Intrepid.

The two new contenders with lighter hulls were thought to have clear design advantages because the weight savings went into their keels in an effort to gain better performance and stability.

The Intrepid won the America's Cup in 1970 and 1967, the latest two finals in international sailing's oldest race which dates to 1851. The United States has never lost the prize in the 22 Cup battles.

After the preliminary trials, more tests are scheduled for July and August before the New York Yacht Club selects the 1974 U.S. nominee to face a foreign challenger in the Sept. 10 racing series.

In the first race, the Courageous, sailed by Yachting Magazine publisher Bob Bavier, had to come from behind to edge the Intrepid, sailed by Gerry Driscoll, in a tight contest.

Bavier expressed satisfaction, however, and predicted the sleek aluminum craft would do better the next time around. He said he thought his yacht had the wrong sails up during the first race.

Driscoll and the crew of the San Diego-based Intrepid were pleased with their strong upset against the Mariner, sailed by Ted Turner.

The Mariner, smaller at 63 feet than most racers of its type, has a radical chopped off stern section in the underbody.

for the more they flee into alcoholism, the more the alcohol, in turn, reduces their organic erotic function.

Remember, at the outset, impotence in husbands is usually above the eyes, meaning psychological.

An understanding wife who deliberately attempts to seduce her diffident husband by use of more enticing boudoir cheesecake, can cure such husbandly panic in one night!

But after such a scared husband flees from his worries via a whiskey flask, then an organic change may occur.

For chronic alcoholics have just recently been discovered to be deficient in testosterone as well as male sperm.

Drs. David van Thiel, Roger Lester and Richard Sherins recently presented their finding to a medical meeting here in Chicago.

They found that the men with alcohol damaged livers were typified by infertility, impotence and even the development of feminine characteristics.

For example, 62 per cent of the alcoholics had female hair growth patterns, and 16 per cent had abnormally large breasts. Moreover, 68 per cent of the men, who ranged in age from 29 to 65, had marked reduction in testosterone, plus decreased sperm counts.

And only one man had normal seminal fluid.

Such findings are attributed to damage to the pituitary and hypothalamus glands in the brain, which produce hormones called LH and FSH.

Those hormones seem vital to healthy male sex function. Many of these men had drunk an average of a pint of whiskey or a quart of wine every day for from 5 to 20 years.

Thus, a psychological sexual inferiority complex may

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 26, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This one of those days when you would be wise to thresh out any differences and make joint decisions with others. There are many obstacles in the way and you can remove them by being friendly and giving a big smile.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Keep busy working on a joint affair with an associate. Take time for personal duties you have to perform. Sidestep any arguments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can do much work around your home. Make sure that colors are blended well. Help a friend in need. Take it easy tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get together with congenials and have a good time today. You have a talent that needs exposure. You can inspire others now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Buy new items that will make your home more delightful. Not a good day for entertaining. Relax at home tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Finish your shopping chores so that everything will go more smoothly for you. A communication today will work to your benefit.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to add new objects to your home. Improve your budget so that you have extra money when you need it. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If the treatments you are taking are not bringing out your real charm, try new ones. Be cheerful when you go out socially.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If there is any information you need, this is a good day to go after it in the right places. Don't be forceful with mate now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have many wishes of a personal nature that could take up too much of your time. Steer clear of a group affair.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Engaging in career activities is your best bet to build more security. The evening is fine for the social side of life.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make long-range plans that are of interest to you. Tonight is excellent for seeing new friends and deepening the relationship.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your hunches are not as accurate as usual so don't rely on them. Use your finest judgment and seek the advice of experts.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one with a particular charm that pleases others. Be sure early in life to teach to discriminate as to playmates, or your progeny could take up with the wrong kind of people. Any profession that requires precision is fine here. Much ability of an artistic nature in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

"If the finesse was going to work, there was no need for me to take it," remarked South as he entered 120 below the line and 500 above.

North-South conducted an orderly auction to arrive at their best spot. South might have made a free bid over East's overcall, but he elected to pass. However, North reopened the bidding with a double, showing a good hand, and East's second bid took the strain off South, who could now afford to show some values by bidding freely at the two-level. When North announced interest in game with a raise to three spades, South, with something in reserve for his previous bids, accepted.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES
Agricultural Extension Agent

An average yield of 35 bushels per acre is a "realistic goal" for Tar Heel soybean farmers to set for themselves in 1974. That would be 11 bushels above last year's statewide average, but countywide averages of 32 or more bushels have been achieved in recent years in several areas of the state.

North Carolina farmers indicated in March that they intended to plant a 1974 soybean crop of 1,550,000 acres, same as 1973. A shortage of nitrogen could cause many farmers to switch acreage intended for corn to soybeans.

The 1973 crop was the largest ever produced in North Carolina—36 million bushels valued at $201.6 million. The seasons average price received by farmers, according to the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, was $5.60 per bushel, compared with $4.13 a year earlier.

National Soybean crop also set records. Last year production totaled 1.567 billion bushels valued at more than $8.8 billion. How large will the U.S. 1974 crop be? As of March 1, farmers intended to plant 55 million acres, down 2.3 million acres or nearly 4 per cent from last year.

Utilization of soybeans, now running at 1.4 billion bushels a year, may rise slightly to 1.5 billion, about equal to indicated 1974 production. But demand "may not be quite that high," says Dr. T. Everett Nichols, Jr., extension economist in grain marketing at N.C. State University. He adds that the U.S. crop will face increased competition in world markets from Peruvian fishmeal and a larger soybean harvest in Brazil.

Market prices for soybeans this fall are expected to remain favorable though perhaps not as favorable as in 1973. For this reason Economist Nichols advised producers to consider "forward pricing" a portion of their 1974 crop. This would mean signing contracts to sell at prices specified in advance of harvest.

How Tar Heel Congressmen And Senators Voted

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 13 through June 19.

House
ANTI-TRUST Passed, 216 for and 185 against, an amendment to increase by $1.85 million the fiscal 1975 appropriation for the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division.
 The amendment was attached to a bill appropriating funds for the departments of Justice and Commerce (H.R. 15404). The bill was later passed and sent to the Senate.

The added money restored funds that the Appropriations Committee had cut from the Administration's budget request. The money will finance the hiring of 83 persons, and the key issue was whether the Anti-Trust Division should be beefed up.

Supporters argued that enforcing anti-trust laws combats inflation because increased competition means lower prices. Rep. John Heinz (R-Pa.) said, "Without vigorous competition we cannot expect prices to come down."
 Opponents argued that the Anti-Trust Division cannot fill existing vacancies and, thus, should be denied funds for staff expansion. Some members argued that the way to halt inflation is to stop hiring federal bureaucrats. Rep. Robert Sikes (D-Fla.) said Congress must "keep down the escalation of the costs of government."

 Reps. L.H. Fountain (D-2), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "yea."
 Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl

Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."
POSTAL SUBSIDIES Passed, 277 for and 129 against, a bill (S. 411) to delay the effective date of higher postal rates for newspapers, magazines, books and mail from non-profit organizations.
 At present, a government subsidy keeps those rates below actual cost. The subsidies were scheduled to expire in 1977 for newspapers and magazines and in 1982 for non-profit mail. The amendment sets back those dates to 1980 and 1988, respectively.
 Extending the subsidies is expected to cost $753 million. The bill now goes to conference.
 Supporters argued that many marginal publications would go out of business without the subsidies. Rep. James Quillen (R-Tenn.) said we should "encourage the free flow of ideas."
 Opponents argued that the bill was special-interest legislation to benefit large publishers, with 25 per cent of the subsidies going to the Wall Street Journal, Reader's Digest and Time magazine. Rep. Howard Robison (R-N.Y.) said the bill "attempts to solve all problems at once, and hangs the taxpayer in the process."
 Henderson, Andrews and Preyer voted "yea."
 Fountain, Mizell, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."
 Jones and Rose did not vote.

sonnel, they provide pilots with weather and flight pattern information. The FAA wants to save money by installing machines to handle the function at more than 100 of the smallest, low-traffic airports.
 The amendment prevents such automation until the FAA can prove that airport safety will not be jeopardized.
 Supporters argued that public safety requires the FAA to move cautiously. Rep. Dick Shoup (R-Mont.) said, "Several near accidents have occurred" at airports that have been automated.
 In opposing the amendment, Rep. John McFall (D-Calif.) said, "The FAA would not put in an unsafe system." He said final automation plans will save $190 million in yearly operating costs.
 Jones, Preyer, and Broyhill voted "yea."
 Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Ruth, Martin and Taylor voted "nay."
 Rose did not vote.

SENATE
AM-FM RADIOS Passed, 44 for and 42 against, a bill to require that all radios selling for more than $15 be equipped to receive both AM and FM signals.
 The bill (S. 585), giving the Federal Communications Commission the authority to enforce the requirement, now goes to the House.
 Supporters argued that overcrowding the AM band requires promoting FM. They said the added cost to consumers would be negligible. Sen. Frank Moss (D-Utah) said the public will benefit "from a flourishing FM service."
 Opponents argued that the bill was an encroachment on the consumer's freedom-of-choice. Sen. James McClure (R-Idaho) called it "one of those irritating busybody laws... an effort to give FM a market it could not earn through free competition."
 Sen. Sam Ervin (D) voted "yea." Sen. Jesse Helms (R) answered "present," but did not vote.

VET'S BENEFITS Rejected, 35 for and 54 against, an amendment to tie veteran's subsistence and educational benefits to cost-of-living rises.
 The amendment was offered to a new GI Bill (S. 2784), later passed and sent to conference. GI benefits now must be voted by Congress. In rejecting the amendment, the Senate voted to continue the present system of requiring Congress to pass on increases.
 The Veterans of Foreign Wars favors the present system.
 Supporters argued that inflation quickly outstrips benefits approved by Congress and that veterans deserve automatic increases.
 Opponents argued that educational costs increase faster than the cost-of-living and, therefore, retaining direct congressional control forces Congress to periodically review the benefits. They said Congress has, in the past few years, responded by increasing GI benefits by 150 per cent while the cost-of-living has risen 48 per cent.
 Ervin and Helms voted "yea."
TAX CUTS AND HIKES Rejected, 45 for and 48 against, a motion to close debate and force a vote on the debt ceiling bill, which some senators want to use as a vehicle for tax-reform proposals.
 If the motion had passed, the tax proposals would have been blocked because Senate rules do not permit amendments to bills on which debate has been limited.
 A motion to close debate requires a two-thirds majority. The tax amendments call for cutting taxes on low and moderate incomes and eliminating the oil depletion allowance, which would have the effect of raising oil company taxes.
 Generally, senators voting to close debate wanted to block those amendments and senators voting against wanted to offer those amendments.
 Sponsors of the tax proposals have argued that personal tax cuts will stimulate the economy and oil company tax hikes are justified due to recent oil company profits.
 Opponents have argued that personal tax cuts will feed inflation and that oil companies must be encouraged to search for more oil.
 The debt ceiling bill (H.R. 14832) was chosen as the vehicle because it must be signed into law by June 30 to permit the federal government to pay its debts and employees.
 A "yea" vote was a vote to block the tax proposals.
 Helms voted "yea" and Ervin voted "nay."

Doctors Say Nixon In Good Health For Travel

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
 Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon, one of the healthiest of post-World War II presidents, suffered from a mild clot in a leg vein during his recent Middle East trip, the White House says.

The clot, termed phlebitis by Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, set in before the trip began and "it has now been resolved," Warren said Monday.

Dr. Walter Tkach, Nixon's physician, reported that the President is "in good health and is looking forward to his trip to Brussels and the Soviet Union," Warren said.

Warren did not disclose in which leg Nixon suffered the phlebitis and did not say what if any, treatment was given.

According to medical dictionaries, phlebitis is an inflammation of a vein, often associated with a small clot and is most common in veins of the leg.

It may follow injury or infection, the books say. They add that treatment includes use of elastic supports and aspirin and there is no need for the patient to cut down normal activity.

Nixon has been seen limping from time to time in the past but White House officials had offered no explanation for this. Warren said he did not see Nixon on limp during his nine-day trip to the Middle East.

Throughout his political career Nixon has been hospitalized only twice.
 The first time was in 1960 when he was campaigning for president against John F. Kennedy.
 Nixon was hospitalized for 12 days with an infected left knee.

Nixon said the infection appeared after he bumped his knee on a car door while campaigning. His personal doctor at the time, Dr. Malcolm Todd, said, however, that the car door injury was not related directly to the infection. He said the infection resulted from a boil.

The second and most recent hospitalization came last July when Nixon spent a week at Bethesda Naval Hospital in a bout with viral pneumonia.

TOO-FAT DEPUTY—Sheriff's deputy James Albritton, suspended for being overweight, is trying to shed 50 pounds and six inches from his size 50 waist to get his old job back. If he drops from 334 pounds to a svelte 280, Sarasota County (Fla.) Sheriff James Hardcastle promises to take him back on the force. Albritton was suspended June 5 without pay. (AP Wirephoto)

Criticizes 'Copter Gift

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., says President Nixon's gift of a $2 million helicopter to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat amounts to a "cavalier use" of tax dollars.

"The practice of foreign relations is at best a delicate art, and it occurs to me that efforts to purchase friendship in such a manner are questionable on their face," Byrd said Monday. Nixon took the helicopter with him on his recent trip to the Middle East and gave it to Sadat while visiting Egypt.

"The question that comes immediately to mind is the obvious one: Was this helicopter assigned by the military to Mr. Nixon, his to give away to the head of a foreign government?" Byrd asked.

Byrd, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said "such action by Mr. Nixon at this time seems to me to constitute an other lapse in good judgment."
