

Tax Structure Of 64 Cents Per $100

City And Utilities Budgets Are Approved

By TOM BAINES The City Council yesterday adopted a 1974-75 budget and capital improvements program for the city totaling $6,148,849, based on a tax structure of 64 cents per $100 valuation.

Meeting in a special call session at 5 p.m., the Council also approved the 1974-75 Greenville Utilities Budget Ordinance amounting to $15,276,200 for an overall budget total of $21,425,049 for the city and GUCCO.

The budget represents an increase of some $827,028 or 15.5 per cent over the 1973-74 program of $5,321,821 and reflects a paring of some 18 cents per $100 valuation from the original departmental recommendation of 82 cents per $100.

Through projected reductions in city spending and a revision of revenue figures, the Council was able to shave slightly less than one-half million of $489,503 from original proposals.

This year's tax base of 64 cents, figured on the basis of a 100 per cent assessment ratio, reflects an overall increase of ten cents over last year's rate. The 1973-74 tax figure was $1.08 based on a 50 per cent assessment ratio but would have been 54 cents under the current assessment ratio of 100 per cent.

Broken down under general fund and debt service fund levies, the tax structure calls for a 61 cent general fund levy plus a debt service figure of three cents.

Included in the adopted budget under Non-Departmental Expenses is $47,850 for the development of a public bus system for the city. The bus funds represent a two cent adjustment in the overall tax rate, it was explained yesterday.

Replying to a question concerning the availability of more funds if expansion of the bus system is warranted, Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller noted that the Contingency Fund is low and if additional money is needed, it would have to be considered at that time.

Councilman Percy Cox contended that if the system "can't operate on $50,000, then I'd say we would have to put it to a vote of the people" before additional funds are spent. He asserted that money the system brings in should be put back into the bus program for improvements and expansion.

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath observed, "We can't go into this... thinking we'll make money."

She said that there is "only one way we are going to know and that is to try it."

The 64 cent tax rate was adopted although Mayor Eugene West recommended that the rate be 60 cents. "I do not recommend setting up funds for a bus service until it is determined whether or not it will require a subsidy by the taxpayers of Greenville," he said.

West added that, "If this subsidy should be of any sizeable amount, I would ask that it should be put to a vote of the people and that the Council accept the results of this vote."

The mayor, in offering a substitute motion to one recommending approval of the 64 cent tax figure, said that, "I would like to stress to members of the Council that the feeling of the taxpayers throughout all sections and factions of the city should be considered and not just a small group that might bring recommendations and suggestions to you." The substitute motion died for lack of a second.

Another aspect of the budget that had drawn significant interest at recent meetings involved the funding of the Moyewood Center on W. Third Street. Under the approved budget, the Moyewood Center will operate with an allocation of $26,503 but will now come under the supervision of the Recreation Department.

In the past, the center operated under the supervision of East Carolina University but ECU's participation in the program has been terminated. Operation of the Moyewood Center is now a city-function with Pitt Technical Institute expected to assist in program coordination.

The budget includes a total general fund of $4,394,965; a total shared revenue trust fund of $1,424,800; total Powell Bill Fund of $384,320; debt service fund of $425,472; library fund of $234,889; special paving fund of $25,000; Parking Authority Fund of $113,000; and Capital Projects Fund of $1,264,100.

Yesterday's Council action followed a series of budget workshops and a public hearing. The approved budget covers the fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending on June 30, 1975.

City Employees To Receive Pay Hike

A City Pay Plan Ordinance calling for a five per cent cost-of-living increase for city employees was adopted Thursday afternoon during a special call meeting of the City Council.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen said that the effective date for the across-the-board increase would be Aug. 8, the first pay period in August.

Carstarphen explained that the ordinance also includes some additional revisions in employe positions. He termed the increase a "fair adjustment" considering the general increase in the cost of living.

The Council designated Carstarphen as interim finance officer until the position can be filled following the retirement Friday of veteran city official William Moore, who has served as clerk, treasurer and chief finance officer.

A bid of $1,117 for 17,000 automobile license decals for use in lieu of metal city tags was approved. The bid was submitted by Weldon, Williams & Lick Inc.

Carstarphen noted that due to the state's switching to five-year tags, the metal city tags normally purchased through the state prison system will not be available this year. He said that the city could purchase metal tags from another supplier but at a considerable increase in cost.

The decal, which would be mounted on the inside of the car windshield, would display the city seal, the date, "Home of ECU," and a number and would be green on a white background. The decals would cost motorist the same as metal tags and would be handled at the local license supply outlet.

Carstarphen also recommended ordering from the League of Municipalities 100 metal plates for firemen and 300 metal motorcycle plates at a cost of $158 plus freight. He said that the metal plates were recommended since motorcycle plates will be exposed to the weather and must be more durable than a decal. Fireman plates must be easily recognized.

Councilman Percy Cox said that he felt a decal could be purchased for motorcycles that would be as durable as an inspection sticker. He asserted that the decal could be more easily displayed on motorcycles.

Carstarphen was instructed to check into the possibility of purchasing decals for motorcycle use.

County Budget Action

Pitt County Commissioners have scheduled a meeting for 7:30 p.m. today at which time they are expected to give final approval to the 1974-75 county budget.

Commissioners have held a number of workshop sessions over the past few weeks in an effort to trim the budget requests from various county-funded agencies which totaled $14.4 million. The budget, as approved for the current fiscal year totaled $10.67 million.

County officials indicated that the largest increases in the budget requests for the new fiscal year came from the public schools and in the area of debt service to pay interest and principal on bonds issued for construction of the new hospital.

And it is in the area of school funding that the largest cuts are expected when the final budget is approved, although funds for education are expected to see an increase over the amount budgeted last year.

The county board is expected to hold one last workshop session late this afternoon before the meeting tonight to take formal action on the new budget.

N.C. Building Permits Down From Year Ago

RALEIGH (AP)—Building permits issued in North Carolina in May were down 26 per cent from last May's total, State Labor Commissioner William T. Creel said Thursday.

Creel said the May total of $57.3 million in permits issued in cities was down from $77.4 million in May 1973.

Permit totals for the year to date lagged 16 per cent behind the same period last year, he said.

A total of $271 million in permits were issued during the first five months of this year. The figure for the same period of 1973 was $332 million, Creel said.

Probing Bugging

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said today that the Justice Department is conducting several major investigations of possibly illegal wiretapping and bugging carried out by state and local law enforcement agencies.

Saxbe mentioned the investigations in a speech to the City Club of Cleveland but did not disclose the states or cities involved.

He said the probes demonstrate the department's concern about stopping illegal wiretapping by law enforcement officials and private individuals.

Saxbe said, "It is impossible to accurately gauge the extent of illegal electronic surveillance in the nation, since it is an activity that by its very nature is clandestine."

But he said there are signs of increasing attempts to "creep into our daily lives" with electronic eavesdropping.

He cited a recent Maryland case in which an automobile dealer bugged booths where customers were discussing potential purchases privately.

Federal law prohibits a private citizen from engaging in electronic surveillance except when he is a party to the conversation.

Nuclear Power Plants Sold To Iran By France

PARIS (AP) — Iran has agreed to buy $4 billion worth of French industrial goods and services including five nuclear power plants. The trade agreement will ease the deficit in the French balance of payments, which has been running as high as $600 million a month.

The Shah of Iran, on a state visit to France, and President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, announced the agreement jointly Thursday. The franc spurred upward in late trading between banks.

Under the agreement Iran will increase its oil shipments to France and will turn $1 billion over next year to the Bank of France as prepayment on the industrial deals.

Iran now supplies about 10 per cent of France's oil needs.

The nuclear power plants will generate 5,000 megawatts of electricity and also will be used for desalinization of water.

France will supply services and equipment to building a subway system in Tehran and electrify the Iranian railway system and will also aid in studies for ports, airports, automobile and truck factories, housing and hospitals.

The two governments agreed to study the possibility of Iranian natural gas for Europe and agreed in principle to construct a gas liquefaction plant and a fleet of tankers to transport the liquid gas, costing about $1.6 billion.

Leaf Sales Set

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The flue-cured tobacco advisory committee voted today to begin auction sales of the 1974 crop on July 15.

On that date, sales will begin in the area extending from the Georgia-Florida belt to the Lumberton-Chadbourn area in North Carolina's Border Belt.

July 22 was set for the opening of markets in the Sandhills and eastern North Carolina areas, including the Fuquay-Varina Market.

The committee is expected to meet on July 19 to set opening dates for the remainder of the flue-cured area.

Funeral Set Saturday For John A. Lang, Jr.

Gen. John Albert Lang Jr., 63, Vice Chancellor for External Affairs at East Carolina University, died shortly before 10 p.m. last night.

He was the state's first Secretary of Military and Veterans Affairs.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 3 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville.

A memorial service will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, Carthage, N.C., Lang's hometown. Burial will be held in the Cross Hill Cemetery in Moore County.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Richard Gammon assisted by the Rev. Roderick Randolph of St. James United Methodist Church, of Greenville. Memorial services at Carthage will be conducted by the Rev. B. E. Dotson of the First Presbyterian Church of Carthage.

Pallbearers will be N.C. Atty.

Gen. Robert Morgan, former chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees, R. L. Jones of Raleigh, ECU trustee chairman, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU Chancellor, and Vice Chancellors Robert L. Holt, C. G. Moore and Edwin Monroe, Henry Oglesby of Grifton and Jack Spain of Greenville.

Gen. Lang was commissioned a major in the U.S. Air Force in 1942 and was promoted to the rank of major general (reserve). He received the Legion of Merit and Army Commendation Medal.

He was born in Carthage, N.C., Nov. 15, 1910, the son of John Albert and Laura Kelly Lang. He received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of North Carolina and attended Mercer University as a graduate student. He was head of the English Dept. of Georgia Military Academy at the age of 21.

In 1933, he became president of the National Student Government Federation in New York and in 1935 was named assistant to the director, educational program, of the Civilian Conservation Corps

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

ROOM NEEDED URGENTLY

HOTLINE received a call this morning from the Washington County Department of Social Services urgently seeking an inexpensive room for a white man, 50, who needs to be in Greenville temporarily for kidney dialysis twice a week at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

"This man, who's a former Merchant Marine, must have treatment there so he can survive until he can be accepted at the Veterans' Hospital in Norfolk," says Mary Helen Rooker, Social Worker for the Aged and Disabled in Washington County. "He is not bed-ridden and can take a taxi to and from the hospital if he can only be in the Greenville area," she said.

Please call Hotline at either the Hotline number or 752-6166 if you can offer this man a room.

A BALLOT—WHERE MAY I GET ONE?

I would like to know where I can get a Major League All-Star ballot. All the regular places here no longer have any. m.m.

You are being sent one, at the request of Hotline, by Joe Podesta of the Major League Baseball Promotions Corp., W. 51st St., New York, N.Y. 10037. However, Hotline was informed this morning by the owner of Bissette's Drug Store that he has received a supply of ballots. The deadline for returning the ballots to New York is July 15. Bissette told Hotline if voters would take only one ballot per person his supply would last longer than it did before.

Another source is Bob Neal, General Manager of the Rocky Mount Phillies, Municipal Stadium, Rocky Mount, N.C. 27801. Please include a business (four-inch by nine-inch) envelope, self-addressed and stamped with sufficient postage, Neal said.

BUMPY AGAIN

The railroad crossing on Brownlea Drive was repaired very nicely by the city some time ago, making it a smooth crossing. Then the railroad company came along and installed new tracks, leaving the intersection much worse than it was before. Is something going to be done about getting the intersection repaired again? W.L.

The City of Greenville is presently trying to get a settlement with the Norfolk and Southern Railroad for around $300 for repairs to this intersection. A spokesman for the City Street Department told Hotline that, even if the railroad company did not pay a settlement, the city will fix the intersection again. The City is waiting for word for the railroad company before starting work, however, according to the spokesman.

High Infant Mortality Rate Presents Pitt Challenge

By CAROL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County has more than twice as many infants to die each year, as do counties statewide," says Becky White Jones.

"That's why I have my job," she said, "and that's why there's so much work to be done. "Can you imagine? We have 37 deaths for every 1,000 births. This is in contrast to 18 per 1,000 statewide. Pitt also has a high rate of pre-maturity, a high rate of very young mothers, and the highest illegitimacy rate of any county in the state. All these appear to be factors in the high death rate."

Mrs. Jones is the maternal-child health nurse coordinator for the Pitt County Community Health Department and Pitt Memorial Hospital. Her job is funded by the State Division of Health Services. Before beginning work here, the ECU School of Nursing graduate was head nurse in the Pitt Memorial Emergency Room. She is a Greenville native.

"This job has been an education for me already," she said. "I've found out in a hurry that health is affected by every facet of life, and that you cannot treat a patient effectively if you lose track of him the moment he checks out of the hospital. You have to follow up."

Mrs. Jones' mornings are spent on the obstetrics and pediatrics floors of the hospital. She visits every mother who has received pre-natal care at the Health Department, and any whom the private physicians ask to be visited for one health reason or another.

She talks to each mother about caring for the infant, about immunization and regular checkups about the care of her own health—the importance of nutrition, exercising, and her six-weeks' checkup, and about family planning—its importance and the methods available.

"Most of the mothers are very receptive and appreciative," she said. "There's something very special about the birth of a child that gives a person the desire to do things well," she said. "There could be no better timing for talking to these women about themselves and their child or children while they're still in the hospital."

Her afternoons are devoted to home visits and to conferences with student nurses who help out with the visiting. "Home visits are so important," she said.

"Seeing a person in her home means so much in understanding her. Also, problems that have come up since she left the hospital can be dealt with. I just wish I had more time for visiting, but the student nurses do a marvelous job and very definitely extend the effectiveness of our program."

Mrs. Jones works in conjunction with Allison Armstrong, the Health Department's pediatric nurse. And her efforts soon will be complemented by those of a full-time family planning nurse practitioner.

She told some of the types of mothers that would be considered high risk: pregnant girls 18 or under (145 of these delivered at Pitt Memorial last year); unmarried mothers (290 babies were born out of wedlock at Pitt Memorial last year); mothers with less than a high school education (388 of these delivered at Pitt Memorial last year); mothers 39 or over, mothers already having four or more children (189 of these delivered at Pitt Memorial last year); those having their babies prematurely (122 of these babies were born at Pitt Memorial last year); those having precipitate or difficult deliveries and those having a history of Rh incompatibility, diabetes, heart disease, tuberculosis, pre-eclampsia, or eclampsia, or other continuing health problems.

Fulfilling Goal Is Not Baby's Burden

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have discussed my problem with my two closest friends. One thought I was kidding. The other thought I was crazy. I assure you, I am neither.

I am a 38-year-old unmarried professional woman. I was married (briefly) but had no children. I am bisexual (if that makes any difference), but I prefer men. I have a very full and rewarding life and don't want for friends.

Abby, the one experience I desperately want in my life is to bear a child. To me, motherhood represents the ultimate in fulfillment. One day I may marry, but not until after I retire (at age 60). By then, my child-bearing days will be long gone.

I can always get a husband, but I can't always have a baby. I would appreciate your opinion.

WANTS MOTHERHOOD

DEAR WANTS: The biological act of bearing a child doesn't qualify a woman for motherhood. Raising a child does. After you realize your "ultimate fulfillment," what about the child? If you could be a competent mother (and maybe you can) there would be nothing wrong with fulfilling yourself, but as I see it, you'd be using an innocent child to satisfy a selfish ambition.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old school teacher, and I've just received a proposal of marriage. My first!

Henry is 40 and has never married. We met last summer when he rented the apartment next to mine. He owns a small but thriving business, and is a man of good moral character. He is on the quiet side. Although Henry has not been aggressive (romantically) I am sure the chemistry is right, if you know what I mean.

So what is the problem? It's the way Henry proposed to me. He said: "My dog died two weeks ago, and I haven't had a good night's sleep since because the dog always slept with me. I can't get used to sleeping alone so will you marry me?"

Abby, he wasn't kidding either. What would you do?

SINCERE

DEAR SINCERE: A proposal is a proposal, and this one is just as good as if Henry got down on his knees and gave you a 30-minute pitch. So if you want to marry him, accept. But don't let Henry get another dog, or you could wind up three in a bed.

DEAR ABBY: We recently moved to the suburbs, where we didn't know a soul. I met a woman at P.T.A., and we liked each other. She invited us to her home for a 7 p.m. buffet supper. We accepted and arrived promptly.

By 8 p.m. it was so crowded we could hardly move. At 9 p.m. there was no sign of dinner—only drinks and peanuts. It was hot, smoky and noisy. You couldn't hold a conversation with anyone. My husband, who is no big drinker, found me in the crowd and said: "Let's get out of here. I'm starving!"

I asked him to wait a while longer, but he said: "I'm leaving. Are you coming or not?"

I had no choice, so we left without saying goodbye to our hostess. Since we were all dressed up, we went to a restaurant.

The next day I phoned the hostess and told her we slipped out because my husband had a terrible headache. She sounded a little cool.

My questions: When people are invited for a 7 p.m. supper, what time should the hostess serve? Do you blame us for leaving? And do we owe them a dinner invitation?

SUBURBANITE

DEAR SUB.: A one-hour cocktail session is long enough. I don't blame you for leaving. And, unfortunately, you owe them a dinner invitation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO STUART H. WALKER, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.: Thank you for advising me that the beautiful poem, "For Friends of the Aged," was written by your mother, Esther Mary Walker.

West-Lytle Vows Exchanged Saturday

ARDEN—Miss Patricia Gail Lytle became the bride of Robert Bruce West in a double ring ceremony Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Long Shoals Baptist Church here.

The Rev. Bruce Rabon and the Rev. Solon B. Ducker, uncle of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by RaeRita Peal and Sandra Stevens.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Burnis Lytle of Rt. 1, Arden. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maurice West, also of Rt. 1, Arden.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Princess Anne gown of faille satin with re-embroidered Alencon lace with a crystal pleated ruffle on the yoke of the high rise bodice and chapel length train. Her only accessory was a necklace of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Hazel Browning of Greenville was matron of honor. She wore a formal princess style gown of pastel blue and pink floral polyester over crepe and a blue picture hat trimmed in matching blue and pink floral material.

Bridesmaids were Miss Carla Ducker of Tampa, Fla., Miss Robin Owen of Hollywood, Fla., Miss Lisa West of Arden, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Sheila Bumgardner of Stanley, Ga., was junior bridesmaid.

They wore gowns styled identical to that of the honor attendant and carried long-stemmed pink roses with satin streamers.

Mr. West served as his son's best man. Ushers were Doug Lytle, Ernie Lytle, Chuck Lytle, all of Arden, brothers of the bride, Mike West of Arden, brother of the bridegroom, and Gary Fisher of Winston-Salem.

The bride's mother wore a formal gown of blue and the bridegroom's mother chose a pink formal gown. Both mothers wore orchid corsages.

For traveling, the bride chose a green and white dress and wore the corsage lifted from her bouquet.

Following a wedding trip to the North Carolina coast, the couple will reside on Rt. 1, Arden.

The bride is a graduate of St. Genevieve-of-the-Pines Academy in Asheville and East Carolina University, where she received a B.S. degree in Parks, Recreation and Conservation.

The bridegroom graduated from T.C. Roberson High School in Asheville and is presently a senior at Western Carolina University, majoring in Parks and Recreation.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. Miss Debbie Evans presided at the bride's table.

The bridegroom's parents entertained at a rehearsal party Friday night at the home of the bride's parents.

Teaching Glamour Is Demanding

HAMBURG, West Germany (WBS)—72-year-old Helga Metzger, who began teaching senior citizens how to be glamorous a year ago, is now working 14 hours a day to keep up with the demand for private instruction. "One-third of my pupils are men," she reported.

"Twelve of my widows have now married again, most of them to men younger than themselves," Frau Metzger's course includes beauty, disposition, diet, fashion, conversation, dance, home-making, culture and cooking.

Housewife Now Construction Worker

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — If there are any last-minute changes Mary Sue Mitchell wants in her new home under construction in a suburban area, she's right on hand to see that they're done.

She's working as a carpenter's helper on the job, at $2 an hour. And her boss, Harold Wright, says he'd hire her for his next job, too.

Mary Sue and her husband Jim, an appraiser for a logistics contractor, hired Wright last October to build the house. It wasn't long before Mary Sue asked Wright for a job.

Wright had watched Mary Sue search for, and then dig the dirt out of, an old well that had been filled in years ago. He was impressed with her determination and stamina as she shoveled dirt for three days, so he hired her.

Mrs. Mitchell, an attractive 35-year-old housewife, hadn't worked since she quit a clerical job in 1960. But Wright expected her to keep up with carpenter Bud Robinson.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Keith Stroud Jr., 2608 S. Wright Rd., a daughter, Andrea Camille, on June 24, 1974, in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Whitehurst, Tarboro, a daughter, Donnel Fleming, on June 24, 1974, in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Shower Given Bride-Elect

Miss Linda King, bride-elect of Ernest George Hargett Jr., was honored at a miscellaneous floating shower Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. J. H. Mullen.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. William Swindell, Mrs. Edward Ricks and Mrs. Thomas Scoopmire.

The honoree was remembered with a corsage of coral roses to compliment her green dress and a gift of silver from the hostesses.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of roses, mixed flowers and burning tapers.

The couple will be married Aug. 4 in Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

She worked beside Robinson as they raised the walls, installed the vacuum system and laid bricks. Then they started her shingling the roof.

It was her aptitude for shingling that finally won Mary Sue the accolade as "one of the boys," she believes.

Her size — slightly over five feet tall and 100 pounds — proved a problem at first in carrying the heavy bundles of wooden shingles up to the roof. But then she devised a slide for them.

Wright said she is a good shingler, faster than most men because her perception of what size cedar shingle which would fit a particular spot turned out to be almost perfect.

"I learned everything by trial and error," she said. The two men would tell her to "dig in and start" on whatever job she tackled.

"If I did something wrong two or three times, then they would correct me," she said.

Mrs. Mitchell has "missed only four days of work since she started last October. Wright said that aside from losing a fingernail to a dropped brick and shredding the bell bottom of her paint-spattered blue jeans when she walked too near a power saw, she hasn't

Family Reunion Set For July 4

The families of the late Levy and Margaret Teel will have their annual family reunion Thursday, July 4, at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Margaret Marie Dyer, 1201 Farmville Blvd.

The welcome will be given by Mrs. Bessie Simpson and the response will be by Mrs. Carrie B. Teel of Baltimore, Md.

Special recognition will be given to Mrs. Carrie L. Adams, organizer of the reunion, by Mrs. Dyer. Invocation will be given by Deacon Willie E. Barnes.

Following dinner, Mrs. Dyer will head a discussion to select officers as well as make plans for next year's reunion.

A children's recreational hour will be directed by Miss Linda Adams. She will be assisted by Miss Annette Barnes, Miss Lyvonne Simpson and Miss Anita Ebron.

Over 100 relatives from Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina are expected to attend.

Goodbyes will be said by Mrs. Ann Barnes and Mrs. Velma Braton.

had any injuries.

"She's all right," he said when asked his opinion of his helper. But Mary Sue said she knew Robinson had accepted her when he bought her a nail apron.

Mary Sue said her husband looked on her job as a joke when she first started and wouldn't tell his co-workers that the mother of his three children was helping build their house.

"Two months later Jim told me he thought I had made myself into a carpenter — and a good one," she said. "He finally got so he could tell people and let them laugh. Now, he's proud of me."

The most noticeable reaction, though, has come from delivery men and subcontractors on the job, Mary Sue said.

She said she was on the roof shingling one day while a delivery man stood on the ground and watched for a long time. Finally he asked, "Are you a boy or a girl?"

Campaign Financing Inquiries Stung Humphrey

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)— Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, stung by a Senate Watergate Committee staff report on his 1972 presidential campaign finances, says he did nothing illegal in using more than $100,000 of his own money in his campaign and concealing that fact from the public. "With the Lord Jesus Christ as my guide, that was as honest a deal as kissing your mother," the Minnesota Democrat said. Humphrey, in a sometimes emotional, late-night telephone call to an Associated Press reporter Thursday, said the money represented "a lifetime of investment" by himself and his wife Muriel. Humphrey said he omitted any mention of the use of personal funds when he voluntarily disclosed his finances during Democratic presidential primaries because at that time the law didn't require full disclosure and because he wanted to conceal the matter from his family. "I didn't like to have to contribute that money, but we had to do it if we were going to campaign," Humphrey said. Humphrey said the Watergate staff report was written by a Republican staff member, Donald Sanders, and he said he resented the tone and implications of the report. "It just ends up that you look like a burglar," he said. Meanwhile, the committee staff on Thursday circulated a new report dealing with presidential campaign finances of Democrats George McGovern and John V. Lindsay. It said McGovern is campaigning for Senate re-election this year with the aid of $340,417 in left-over 1972 presidential funds. It said he shifted these funds out of presidential campaign committees while these committees were forcing creditors to write off $35,322 as bad debts. Such transfer of funds has been used by other candidates and the report did not challenge its legality. But it said the maneuver raises a question of whether McGovern violated at least the spirit of the federal law banning corporate gifts to federal candidates. A McGovern spokesman, John Holum, said the left-over presidential money was shifted to the Senate race on the orders of several state and local presidential finance chairmen who controlled the money. Holum said McGovern would try to keep the senators on the Watergate committee from adopting the staff's findings.

answers about how and when the blind trust was set up or how and when Humphrey came to own the stock. Humphrey said the trust was established in 1965 when he was vice president and that this was reported in the New York Times. Such trusts are used by some federal officials to avoid the appearance of conflicts of interest. Their owners are supposed to be kept ignorant of where the money is invested. The report said Humphrey turned down a committee request to be interviewed and had failed to produce all the documents investigators sought. Humphrey gave The AP copies of two letters from committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., and pointed out that neither of them asked that he be interviewed about the trust or his personal funds, but only about an allegedly illegal donation to his campaign by a large dairy cooperative. Humphrey said he gave committee investigators more than 200 documents from his files and balked at supplying further documents because he was asked to give up all his correspondence for a year. The staff report disclosed that all records of Humphrey's early campaign finances were destroyed in the summer of 1972 by his campaign manager, Jack Chestnut, whom the report said apparently instigated an illegal corporate payment scheme and who invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify about it. "I didn't know that Jack Chestnut had done away with the records," Humphrey said. "I don't think that I should be made to look like a burglar, because I didn't violate the law."

Soon, Right Turn On Red Light

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Effective Monday, motorists can make a right turn on a red light at many intersections in North Carolina under a new law enacted by the 1974 General assembly. There will be exceptions at some congested intersections, but signs will be posted at these points warning motorists they cannot make a right turn on red.

State Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, who sponsored the bill, said, "Before making a right turn, the motorist must come to a complete stop and see if he can proceed in safety. The pedestrian has the right of way."

The 30-inch square signs, manufactured at Central Prison in Raleigh, display the words: "NO TURN ON RED."

Engineers At Seminar

BETHELHEM, Pa.—Thirty-one industrial engineers attended a workshop seminar that just concluded at Lehigh University on applications of practical statistical and mathematical methods in production planning and inventory control.

The report said $10,000 in cash was raised for former New York Mayor Lindsay's presidential campaign by a city Highway Department official who solicited the money from two contractors who later got a $1.7-million job to supply the city with asphalt.

Humphrey said he gave committee investigators more than 200 documents from his files and balked at supplying further documents because he was asked to give up all his correspondence for a year. The staff report disclosed that all records of Humphrey's early campaign finances were destroyed in the summer of 1972 by his campaign manager, Jack Chestnut, whom the report said apparently instigated an illegal corporate payment scheme and who invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify about it. ## Series Of 5 Collisions Are Reported Thursday

More than $8,200 property damage was reported by Greenville Police yesterday in a series of five traffic collisions investigated here.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 4 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Evans Streets involving cars driven by Marcus Steven Williams of 109 Church St. and Lucy Gail Garcia of 403 Lewis St., officers said.

David E. Meeks of Grimesland was charged with passing at an intersection following investigation of an 11:05 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth Street and River Bluff Road.

Harold Rhudy, assistant manager of traffic engineering for the Department of Transportation, said the state is posting signs on one or more approaches at 849 intersections throughout North Carolina warning that no right turn can be made on red.

Miller pointed out in an interview that because of "a technical oversight," the new law is scheduled to expire next January. However, he predicted the 1975 General Assembly will authorize that it be extended.

The seminar was directed to the production manager, production planning and control manager, and production planning and control specialist interested in exploring the application of new techniques which have been introduced into the function of production planning and control.

It said the money, in $20 bills stuffed into an envelope, passed through the hands of Lindsay's top campaign aide, Richard Aurelio, and cannot be accounted for. Aurelio responded by calling the report an example of "sloppy reporting by the committee staff" and said all the cash had been properly recorded and reported publicly. The committee staff's said review of Lindsay finance records "fails to reveal any recording of the cash contributions."

Humphrey said he gave committee investigators more than 200 documents from his files and balked at supplying further documents because he was asked to give up all his correspondence for a year. The staff report disclosed that all records of Humphrey's early campaign finances were destroyed in the summer of 1972 by his campaign manager, Jack Chestnut, whom the report said apparently instigated an illegal corporate payment scheme and who invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify about it. "I didn't know that Jack Chestnut had done away with the records," Humphrey said. "I don't think that I should be made to look like a burglar, because I didn't violate the law."

Damage to the Williams car was set at $2,500, while damage to the Garcia vehicle was placed at $1,500, according to police who said Mrs. Garcia and one passenger in her car were injured.

Damage was estimated at $350 to the Watson car and $50 to the Felton auto.

Officers, who identified the driver of the second car involved as Janice Marie Hinson of Route 1, Rockingham, estimated damage at $200 to the Hinson auto and $75 to the Meeks car.

Miller said that in the closing legislative days before adjournment, the Senate approved a bill dealing with a different matter, "but it pertained indirectly to the same statute as the right turn on red." When the measure reached the House it was sent to the Calendar Committee where it was approved and later enacted.

When the bill came up in Miller's committee, some legislators felt it might result in motorists not yielding to intersection traffic and would cause collisions. The key to it, Miller noted, is that the motorist must stop and then proceed only if the way is clear.

Attending the seminar from Greenville was Phillip R. Peoples, supervisor-planner for Burroughs-Wellcome Company.

The report said Humphrey ordered transfer of $89,000 in stock and $23,000 in cash from a blind trust in the presidential campaign during January and February of 1972, two months before a new federal law made it illegal for a presidential candidate to use more than $50,000 of his own funds in a campaign.

Humphrey said the stock actually was worth somewhat less, $86,000, putting the total amount of personal funds used at $109,000. The report said the committee staff was unable to get

Williams was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of the mishap.

The drivers of two cars involved in an 8:38 a.m. collision on Memorial Drive 152 feet North of the Millbrook Street intersection were reported injured by officers investigating the collision.

Hunt said in a speech Thursday to state government interns that a similar bill passed the Senate this year but was killed in the house. He said the purpose of an ethics bill is "to ensure that legislators' private interests do not intrude on the public interest."

Expects N.C. Ethics Bill

RALEIGH (AP)—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt says he believes the 1975 North Carolina General Assembly will enact a legislative ethics bill.

Nothing in the bill requires that a motorist make a right turn on red," Miller said. He added there may be instances where drivers will not make right turns and motorists behind will honk their horns.

The impatient ones will simply have to wait.

The count will be kept for 4 1/2 days, 102 hours, from 6 p.m. next Wednesday to midnight Sunday, July 7.

CP&L Sounds Ominous Note

Even though Greenville Utilities purchases power from Virginia Electric and Power Co. on a wholesale basis, the Carolina Power and Light request for a 70 percent rate increase for Fayetteville and other municipalities is ominous for local power users.

Fayetteville is a municipally owned system and, like Greenville, purchases its power wholesale from a private Utilities, in Fayetteville's case, CP&L.

Carolina Power this week informed Fayetteville that it is asking a 70 percent increase in the wholesale of power rate. Fayetteville officials say that such a whopping increase would mean a 46 percent increase in Fayetteville retail bills.

Such an increase would be crushing to any community, as most of us who pay monthly electric bills well know. Needless to say Fayetteville plans to fight the proposed increase.

Other utilities who supply power to municipally owned electric systems will be watching the developments in this case closely. If such an exorbitant increase is granted in the case of Fayetteville you can bet that there will be similar requests for Greenville and other municipals.

CP&L also sells power to the Farmville municipal system and VEPCO's power is sold to Winterville and Ayden through Greenville Utilities.

There has been some thought in Greenville to determining if the local utilities could not purchase power from CP&L, rather than VEPCO since at present CP&L's wholesale rates are somewhat cheaper than VEPCOs. This tremendous increase requested by CP&L may well end that consideration, particularly until the air veers on possible rates.

Municipally owned electric systems are pretty well locked in on what they can charge for power since none of them generate their own now. They simply purchase it from the private companies and many of the municipalities—Greenville included—adopt the retail rates of the supplying company.

If the retail rates that private companies charge do not increase correspondingly with the wholesale rates it is asking, the municipal utilities will be placed in a squeeze which will make it impossible to survive. And either way the retail customer is ultimately going to be paying more—much more—for his electricity. The prospects are not pleasing.

Colson Stories Add Confusion

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON—Just as the Watergate prosecutors expected, Charles W. Colson's testimony since his guilty plea has provided more confusion than important new information without removing doubts about how valuable a witness he will prove in the long run.

His revelations of giving early Watergate warnings to President Nixon in January 1973 only slightly expand what he was saying publicly a year ago. His courtroom accusation that he committed his crime at Mr. Nixon's personal initiation is considered mainly an unsuccessful ploy for a reduced sentence and of no great impact on impeachment proceedings. Colson's bizarre charges tying the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) to Watergate dust off old and almost entirely discredited accusations.

The confessions of Colson will provide some helpful new information to both special prosecutor Leon Jaworski and the House Judiciary Committee. Nevertheless, it is questionable whether that information is significant enough to warrant the committee, which is falling dangerously behind schedule in its impeachment proceedings, summoning Colson for protracted testimony as it now plans. Thus, even as he awaits federal prison, Chuck Colson remains controversial, disruptive and ambiguous, just as he was in the White House.

Indeed, public relations gimmickry by Colson and his lawyer, David Shapiro, prior to his sentencing last Friday are strikingly similar to Colson's White House operations. Although there is no reason to question the sincerity of Colson's religious conversion, there is reason to question how much it has changed the way he approaches a problem.

Shapiro contacted the special prosecutor to negotiate Colson's guilty plea before, not after the widely publicized meeting of Colson's prayer group that allegedly led him to confess. Contrary to what Colson told the prayer group, he was never offered the option of pleading guilty to a single misdemeanor.

The outraged prosecutors blamed the crafty Shapiro for planting the misdemeanor story in the press, attempting to generate public opposition to a prison sentence on grounds that Colson had "voluntarily" pleaded guilty to a felony instead of a misdemeanor. The prosecutors came to regard Shapiro as the most annoyingly troublesome defense lawyer they have encountered.

Beyond the President, Colson is further confusing the chaotic Watergate picture by describing the CIA as an Nor has Colson faintly resembled the prototype of the thoroughly cooperative prosecution witness, John W. Dean III. Nor has he even approached the less knowledgeable Herbert Kalmbach, Mr. Nixon's former personal attorney, who has proved most helpful to the prosecutors.

The prosecutors have always viewed any possible information gleaned from Colson as an unexpected bonus. Expecting no great dividends, they have received none. That is particularly true of Colson's widely-publicized statement to the prosecutors and the House Committee that he warned President Nixon in January 1973 that John Mitchell and other reelection campaign officials probably were implicated in Watergate.

The stir caused by these statements underscores Washington's collective short memory. In June 1973, long before his religious conversion and while enthusiastically defending the President, Colson told essentially the same story publicly. Just as he tells investigators now, Colson then declared the President replied he would not challenge Mitchell's sworn testimony just because Colson suspected him. Net gain in information over one year: about zero.

Nor do lawyers put much value on Colson's courtroom charge that Mr. Nixon had "urged me to disseminate damaging information about Daniel Ellsberg," causing Colson's obstruction of justice felony. To some lawyers, this was a ploy for the sympathy of Judge Gerhard Gesell, infuriated by the President's cavalier attitude toward court subpoenas. Unless bolstered by future testimony, it scarcely seems to affect the impeachment case.

Colson's accusations of sinister CIA participation in Watergate duplicate what he has privately told Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, charges long since written off as groundless by a House investigation. But Colson's picture of the President as a terrified captive of the CIA could lead the impeachment proceedings into a trackless and time-consuming wasteland.

On balance, Colson's new portrait of Richard M. Nixon contrasts warily with his former sycophancy toward the President. But unflattering portraits of Mr. Nixon abound, thanks to his own secret tape recordings, and are grounds for impeachment.

Beyond the President, Colson is further confusing the chaotic Watergate picture by describing the CIA as an

Jockeying For Future Races

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH—Two of North Carolina's more prominent Democratic leaders are busily jockeying for starting places in future races.

Both former governors, the pair are looking in two different directions, but are linked in their pre-race planning at this stage.

Duke University President Terry Sanford is hoping "lightning will strike" as he sends up a trial balloon in Chicago next week at the national convention of the National Education Association, hoping for a boom to his bid for entering the race for president of the United States.

A Citizens Committee to Nominate Terry Sanford for President has filed with the General Accounting Office in Washington, with Hulett C. Smith, former Governor of West Virginia, as chairman.

Meanwhile, back in North Carolina, Bob Scott is lending credence to reports that he would like to be governor again.

First, the Sanford situation. Several weeks ago a score of Sanford friends and advisors met at State Sen. Ralph Scott's home at Haw River to talk about whether another entry should be made by Sanford into the bid for the presidency.

The plusses: Sanford's strong image as an education governor, and his presidency at Duke University, gave validity to the pitch that he could base his efforts on education problems and answers.

"He could point to failings in education across the nation, and come up with some answers and find a large following," a source close to the strategy team said.

Minuses: Can Sanford overcome that loser's image brought on by failing to carry the presidential primary in North Carolina in 1972, losing to Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama?

His advisers think he can, and believe the mood of the people has shifted since then. Besides, not enough was made in that campaign of Sanford as a native son President, and Tar Heels would support that idea—if they were convinced he had a chance of winning, his strategists say.

So, the big, national push will come in Chicago beginning this Friday, and running through July 3.

Sanford's people met with a group of participants in the North Carolina Association of Educators recently as they planned their trip to the Chicago convention. North Carolinians will help talk up Sanford as a viable educator who could be President and seek a national boomlet among teachers.

"Of course, lightning may not strike," a source said, "but look at the fine position he would be in for becoming Vice President or a cabinet secretary as a result of this legwork."

Bob Scott Meanwhile, back at the dairy farm, Bob Scott keeps casting about for a future race.

About a year ago, he was interviewed in this column and spelled out his strong resistance to a national race, saying he has no interest in going to Washington.

But, he said then, and continues to say, he would like to be the governor again. A North Carolina governor can't succeed himself, but he can come back for a later term.

Last week, he was asked again about his hopes politically, and once again told reporters that he would like to be governor.

But some of his associates are chuckling over that, since Scott has told them, "the reporter forgot to ask what year."

Insiders put it this way: Scott doesn't intend to run for governor in 1976.

He will run for lieutenant governor, they say. Scott has already hinted at that possibility. His idea is that he can recapture the political spotlight as lieutenant governor, mend any fences that need patching after his four years as governor, then run for governor as a "mature statesman" in 1980.

Dinner For 2 In Paris

PARIS—The last time I was in Paris, six years ago, I wrote a column titled "Paris on $500 a Day." The thrust of the piece was that it was still possible to get by in the French capital on $500 if you passed up lunch. My French friends, as well as Americans living in France, thought the article was very funny. But they aren't laughing any more.

When it comes to inflation, the United States is "Mary Poppins" and France is "Deep Throat."

But if you don't worry about prices, you can still have a marvelous time in Paris. What you have to do is forget everything and just decide to live for the moment.

I did this the first night I arrived in town. My wife and I went to a small bistro that boasted two stars in the Guide Michelin.

When the waiter gave us

the menu, I thought he made a mistake.

"I beg your pardon, monsieur," I said. "But I believe you have made an error. You gave me the Bank of France's financial report for the month of May." "No, monsieur, that is the carte pour dinner."

My wife, who always gets nervous when she sees melon portion, whispered to me, "Let's get out of here."

"Don't be silly. We don't get to Paris very often. Let's enjoy it." I studied the menu carefully. "Now we have our choice. We can have the white asparagus or send Joel to college in the fall."

She said: "You mean to say that white asparagus costs as much as Joel's tuition?"

"Yes," I replied, "but they're the large white ones with Hollandaise sauce. You can only get them in the spring."

"But," my wife, always the practical one, said "Joel had his heart set on going to college."

"Look, Joel can go to school any time. But how often do we come to France and have a chance to order white asparagus? I know if we explain it to him he'll understand."

There were so many dishes to choose from after the first course that I couldn't make up my mind.

Finally I said to my wife, "Remember that house we were going to buy in Martha's Vineyard?"

"The one overlooking the ocean?"

"That's the one," I said. "Let's have the lobster instead."

"You mean you'd rather have lobster than own a house on Martha's Vineyard?"

"But this lobster is cooked in a special cream sauce of chef. It could be years before we have a lobster like this again. We have to think of our old age."

"I don't know," my wife said. "I had my heart set on that house."

"Well, I have my heart set on lobster and, since they're both the same price, I think our stomachs should come first."

The waiter handed me the wine card.

"There's a very nice Pouilly Fuisse," I said.

"Can we afford it?" my wife asked.

"We can if we sell the car when we get back home."

"I need a car," she protested.

"All right," I said. "We'll

Public Forum

To the editor:

Since, in recent months, there has been a great deal of criticism of Dr. George Crane's "The Worry Clinic," I felt compelled to write and offer a few words in defense of this marvelous column.

Before I became a devotee of "The Worry Clinic," I thought that I had problems—but now I know that, compared to the poor, unfortunate people that Dr. Crane writes about, I had nothing to worry about.

Now, instead of worrying about paying the electric bill, I worry about the thousands of otherwise healthy 40-year-old men who, this very night, will hide under their beds in an effort to keep their wives from learning "the awful truth." (Please excuse the drops of wax on this letter—my candle is burning low.)

I also worry about the masses of long-haired guys, walking around in blissful unawareness of the fact that their appeal to the opposite sex is based solely on the fact that their tresses bring them down to the level of a mere woman. (This being, in Dr. Crane's eyes, somewhere between a horse and a Saint Bernard.)

I agree wholeheartedly with Dr. Crane that Senior Citizens should be much happier living among their peers. I only wish that it were possible for Dr. Crane to live among his peers.

Fortunately, I don't believe there are many.

There is much more that I could say in behalf of "The Worry Clinic," but I must close now—I have a Boudoir Cheesecake in the oven.

Budgets Need New Discipline

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress preparing for a new way of doing business on the federal budget, the Senate displayed the old system at work in its struggle over income tax cuts and reforms that never had a real chance of enactment.

The new budget plan is supposed to bring order to what has been the invariably tardy and often chaotic handling of spending legislation.

It is designed to let Congress reclaim budget-making power, long yielded to the White House, and assert control over the balance between tax income and federal expenditures.

So far, it is all on paper, awaiting President Nixon's signature. It will take some drastic changes in congressional habits to move from the blueprint to a real overhaul of the federal budget process.

Among those traits are talk, delay and the use of key money measures as hostages to force action on proposals that otherwise would face certain veto, or wouldn't even come to a vote.

Those were ingredients of the eight-day Senate fight about tax measures proposed as amendments to a bill to raise the ceiling on the national debt to $495 billion.

It ended Wednesday when a bloc of Senate Democrats dropped their efforts for amendments to cut income taxes, eliminate the oil depletion allowance and end some corporate and export tax advantages. The Senate then approved the increased debt ceiling.

From the outset, the tax amendments faced a filibuster, the likelihood of House rejection if they passed the Senate and the threat of a veto if they went to the White House.

The government must have debt-ceiling bills periodically to keep doing business with deficit budgets.

Basically, the bill for an

AP Special Correspondent When the third Nixon-Breznev summit is over in Moscow and the last communique has been signed and published, the life of Soviet-American detente will still hang by a thread in the Middle East.

The delicate structure of military disengagement constructed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is threatened right now by an escalation of violence. If the thread doesn't snap, it probably will be because the Arabs don't wholly trust each other and because Egypt has too much stake in peace to let it happen. Events could get out of hand. Each time the Palestinian guerrillas strike a terrorist blow into Israel, the Israelis respond with a heavier blow against suspected centers of guerrilla activity in southern Lebanon. Now Egypt is reported threatening to resume the war to save Lebanon.

The Lebanese wouldn't dare say it, but they must be silently praying to be saved from rescue by the Egyptians and Syrians. Lebanon on several occasions has been a focus of far too solicitous "help" from Egypt and Syria—to the point that she had to be saved from being gobbled up.

Egypt's new warlike pronouncements may be more rhetoric than substance, since President Anwar Sadat has gambled much on a period of relative peace during which he can build up his nation and at the same time discourage too ardent friendship with the Russian bear.

But conceivably the Syrians some months hence might find dangerous internal political pressures generated by an inability to negotiate back the Golan Heights area taken by Israel in 1967. That could impel the Syrian regime to resume military activity.

Meanwhile the Russians, not wishing to surrender their foothold in the Middle East, probably will remain ready to keep the supply of arms moving to Syria, at least.

Arab military strength now outweighs Israel's 3-to-1, and the day could come when that ratio would be far more unfavorable. Her enemies now are building enormous arsenals of tanks, planes and missiles.

When President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev met a year ago in the United States, they pledged to try to defuse the Middle East threat. But in October the area erupted in Arab-Israeli fighting that involved a cold-war Soviet-American confrontation.

Will it happen again?

To the editor: In answer to the letter of June 21, 1974 regarding wages for farm workers and domestic workers:

For some strange reason certain segments of our population think that highly skilled technical work is the only work that should be rewarded by high wages. Each man or woman in this country who works and contributes his best, in his own way contributes to the betterment of mankind.

If you think domestic workers and farm workers should not receive high wages, then stop paying them slave wages or do without their services.

Strength For Today

BLOCKED BY DEBRIS

In ancient times there was a little brook near the Roman Forum called the Girl's Fountain. For many centuries it disappeared, however. This was due not to an exhaustion of the water supply but the blockage of the stream near its source by debris. When this debris was removed the little brook went merrily on its way again.

Jesus said on one occasion that if a man would drink of the water he gave him, the same would become in him a fountain springing up into everlasting life. There is never any exhaustion of this divine source of refreshment. It is always bubbling up ready to make the heart glad. But so often we cover it with debris—greed, pride, and selfishness, among other things.

When men repent—that is, change their minds with reference of life's values—they drag the debris out of their lives and throw it away. Then the fountain which springs up into eternal life goes on its sparkling course of refreshment.

Soviet Press Deleted Word In Nixon's Speech

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP)—By omitting one word from its report of President Nixon's speech Thursday night, the Soviet Communist party newspaper indicated today that the leaders of the Soviet Union expect Soviet-American detente to continue no matter what happens in Nixon.

In his toast to Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev at the Kremlin banquet, Nixon said his "personal relationship" with his host made possible the agreements signed since their initial meeting two years ago, and "because of our personal relationship there is no question about our will to keep these agreements." Presumably with Kremlin approval, the editors of Pravda deleted the word "personal" from their report of this last sentence. The Soviet version appeared to be a reminder that it expected the agreements to be honored no matter who is at the helm.

Asked about the omission, a senior member of the Soviet press establishment said states, not individual leaders, are responsible for guaranteeing that agreements are carried out, and this is applicable to Brezhnev as well as Nixon.

Pravda coupled this subtle de-emphasis on the effect of the Brezhnev-Nixon relationship with two pictures that made the men look like old friends.

A four-column photo on the front page of the Communist party newspaper showed a smiling, animated Brezhnev and his colleagues greeting the American president beside his plane at the airport Thursday.

In another page-one picture, Brezhnev appeared to be regarding Nixon with affection across a table, while the President was smiling at the Communist party boss.

Such pictures in the tightly controlled Soviet press indicated the Kremlin thinks relations with the United States are on a friendly basis.

It was a considerable change from Pravda's front page on May 23, 1972, reporting Nixon's arrival for his first summit meeting with Brezhnev.

Then the group beside the plane was stiff and formal, and Brezhnev was not present. And in the companion shot of the two men at the conference table, Brezhnev seemed to be staring at the President with more than a hint of suspicion.

Small changes in press treatment are part of what novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn has called the regime's system of "coded signals" to the people.

All the Moscow papers gave Nixon's arrival front-page treatment. Most carried the report of Tass, the Soviet news agency, under the headline "Visit of the President of the U.S.A."

In separate stories, Pravda reported the arrival ceremony, those at the airport, the first talk between Brezhnev and Nixon, and the Thursday night Kremlin banquet.

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Comments from some House Judiciary Committee members suggest presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair has failed to punch any holes in the committee's impeachment case.

"It's very helpful, but I don't know if it's convincing," Rep. Henry P. Smith III, R-N.Y., said of St. Clair's presentation on Thursday.

"I think most of us were not persuaded of anything," said Rep. George E. Danielson, D-Calif.

St. Clair, stating President Nixon's side of matters under investigation, winds up his two day presentation today.

The view that St. Clair had left intact the framework of evidence constructed by Judiciary Committee special counsel John Doar was shared by Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., one of Nixon's strongest supporters.

Asked whether St. Clair had contradicted Doar's presentation, Wiggins said, "I think not. He tended to give it a different emphasis."

In other Watergate-related developments:

—Senate Watergate committee staff reports raised questions about 1972 presidential campaign funds of Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George McGovern and former New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, all Democrats. Humphrey, in a sometimes emotional telephone call to The Associated Press, heatedly denied doing anything illegal.

—Nixon's friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo asked a federal court to prohibit the Watergate panel from inquiring further into his personal and business affairs.

—A six-man, six-woman jury was seated for the trial of former Nixon aide John D. Ehrlichman and three others charged in the Ellsberg breakin.

—Former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman asked a federal court to call a hearing to determine to what extent the special prosecutor's office and other government branches have been responsible for leaks about the Watergate cover-up.

Talk Earlier Gas Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency proposed today to require sale of unleaded gasoline at rural service stations by Oct. 1 of this year, three months earlier than previously proposed.

All service stations selling more than 200,000 gallons of gasoline a year must provide unleaded gasoline by July 1.

EPA originally proposed that the requirement take effect for these rural stations on Jan. 1, 1975, because it believed that much time would be needed to obtain the special nozzle spouts needed for lead-free gasoline pumps.

In proposing to move up the requirement to Oct. 1, the EPA said "the nozzle spout shortage may have been overestimated" and it appears possible for the rural stations to comply with the shorter deadline.

EPA invited written comments within 30 days.

St. Clair's presentation was his first chance to speak after sitting through six weeks of committee hearings while Doar and his staff laid out their case. However, his comments were criticized by Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, who said that St. Clair was violating the committee rules by presenting conclusions and arguments instead of sticking to facts.

Seiberling raised several points of order against the presentation, prompting charges by some Republicans that he was "nitpicking."

Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, upon learning that St. Clair has not listened to all the White House tapes involved in the inquiry, but is relying on the edited transcripts, said he may not have all the facts he needs to defend Nixon.

Unresponsible For 'Projects'

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress isn't at fault because $70,000 was spent to find out how sweating Australian aborigines smell, or because more than $20,000 was spent to study blood groups of Polish pigs, the General Accounting Office says.

In fact, said GAO, Congress is not directly responsible for these or a number of other seemingly unusual projects funded with federal money.

For instance, there was the $29,361 for an odor measuring machine purchased for Turkey under an Agriculture Department research project; and the Smithsonian Institution's $15,000 study of lizards in Yugoslavia, $6,000 study of Polish frogs and $35,000 look at wild boars in Pakistan. The Polish pig-blood group study also had been undertaken by the Smithsonian.

The GAO comments were in a report to a number of congressmen who had demanded an explanation for projects disclosed in a March 1974 article by James D. Davidson, executive director of the National Taxpayers Union. His article, the GAO said Thursday, discussed "a number of seemingly wasteful government expenditures."

The GAO, a congressional watchdog agency, studied 35 projects cited by Davidson, confirmed the existence of most and concluded that none were authorized specifically by Congress. GAO did not evaluate the merits of the projects, only identified the agencies that conducted them.

"Based upon our research, we found that the examples cited were not line items specifically authorized by Congress but were included in larger appropriations and authorizations of agencies and departments," GAO official D. L. Scantlebury said in a letter to Rep. Robert W. Daniel Jr., R-Va.

Daniel has attacked the expenditures as "foolish programs" and directed particular criticism to the aborigine perspiration study. "No doubt some of this money could have been saved on the project if the State Department had prevailed upon Turkey to lend the Australians the odor measuring machine we purchased for them," Daniel said in a floor speech earlier this week. (The machine was used in an experiment designed to help measure food quality, the GAO said.)

The GAO report said the aborigine study was part of a Health, Education and Welfare Department project under a National Institute of Health grant, which, the GAO said, has not been funded since 1971.

The report said the study was "one of 16 subprojects concerned with zoophysiology in Alaska. The purpose ... was to learn about the adaption of man to his environment and invited a comparison of the Alaskan Eskimo with the Australian Aborigine and their stress reactions to climate."

Jail Man On Rape Charge

Robert Glenn Joyner, 21, of 1107 West Fourth St. was jailed here this morning on rape charges stemming from an incident here early Wednesday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Joyner allegedly raped a 14-year-old girl in bushes behind the old Eppes High School Gym near the intersection of Fourth and Nash Streets.

The incident was reported to police at 4:50 a.m. Wednesday.

Cannon quoted the victim of the alleged incident as saying her assailant struck her about the head with a belt then raped her. She said the attack occurred between 1:30 a.m. and 4 a.m.

The child's father, Cannon said, signed the warrant against Joyner charging rape.

He was taken into custody about 8:15 a.m. today.

Pension Reform Agreement Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is close to a final compromise on far-reaching pension reform and related tax legislation aimed at helping private retirement-savings systems keep their promises to millions of Americans.

Senate-House conferees virtually completed action Thursday in a drive to draft a congressional compromise.

They have ironed out most of the differences between versions passed by the Senate last September and by the House in February. Only the effective dates of some of the compromise measure's provisions remain to be determined.

More than 30 million workers are covered by private pension programs having more than $150 billion in assets. The bill is expected to boost the number of persons participating in retirement plans, benefiting taxpayers to the tune of about $450 million a year.

The conferees have accepted terms of what would become a landmark law designed to guarantee that those covered by private pension plans actually receive benefits they've earned over their working lifetime.

Although it would not force firms to provide pension programs, the bill sets general rules for existing ones and for any started in the years ahead. Major features involve vesting, which gives a pension-plan member a nonforfeitable right to benefits even if he is fired or quits before he retires; and funding, which covers minimum amounts an employer must have in the pension plan so it has enough to provide the promised benefits.

Key tax features would hike the tax-deductible amount that self-employed people—such as lawyers and doctors—can set aside in personal pension funds. Effective this year, the maximum would be boosted to $7,500 a year compared with the existing limit of $2,500 annually.

Would Keep Limit Of 55

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser said today North Carolinians have "demonstrated that we can live with the lower speed limit, and in saving lives alone, it's worth keeping."

"If we think the gasoline crisis is over, we're badly fooling ourselves," he said in a prepared talk to the Carolinas Association of Mutual Insurance Agents at a prayer breakfast.

"It's still very important—and all of us should realize it—that gasoline be conserved," Holshouser said. "Gasoline, fuel oil and kerosene all come from the same source—crude oil. The more gasoline we use, the less fuel oil and kerosene can be produced for the heating season next winter."

"It's responsible," he added, "that we keep this in mind—and act accordingly."

Holshouser told the group it is "just as important that we conserve other energy sources this summer as it was last winter."

Extension Of Speed-Up Church Court Approved

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religious Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—American Roman Catholic bishops have won an extension by the Vatican of easier, faster matrimonial court procedures which have increased tenfold the number of annulments granted Catholics in this country.

The simplified system, first allowed on an experimental basis in 1970, had been ordered ended as of this June 30, but the order now has been lifted on appeal by the U.S. bishops.

Pope Paul VI decided to grant their petition for "the good of souls" by allowing continuation of the special procedures until a long-term project of revising Church canon law is completed, a Vatican letter advised.

Word of the turn-about resulted from the efforts of a six-man delegation sent to Rome in February by the U.S. bishops to plead with the Pope for extension of the liberalized rules.

Msgr. Stephen Kelleher, an authority on Church marriage law, told an ecumenical conference sponsored this month at Garrison, N.Y., that the number of annulments granted in this country has climbed from about 700 in 1969 to a current figure of about 7,000 annually.

Even this total is "only touching the tip of the iceberg," he added, noting conservative estimates that at least 100,000 Catholic marriages a year end in divorce, leaving those involved excluded from Communion if they remarry without a Church annulment of their prior union.

In Western Roman Catholicism, valid marriages are considered indissoluble. Divorce — except in rare instances — is not permitted. But marriages can be annulled if found invalid in the first place.

Moreover, the reasons for finding them invalid have expanded greatly to include various psychological factors indicated at the time of the wedding — such as "psychic irregularity," "lack of due discretion" and plain immaturity.

The Rev. John V. Dolcimore, an official of the Chicago archdiocesan marriage tribunal, told a convention of the Canon Law Society of America that the Church is increasingly recognizing "psychic incapacity" as a basis for annulment.

"With the development of psychiatry and psychology, we are learning more and more about what constitutes a person to be a fit subject for marriage," he said.

He cited documentation of 25 different psychic causes for finding marriages null, including alcoholism, anxiety neurosis, immature personality, inadequate personality, passive-aggressive personality and simply "personality disorders."

In the past, the Church limited such grounds for annulment to cases in which a person lacked conscious free will — such as being coerced, being drunk and insane.

By MARY NEWSOM
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser may be reorganizing state government, but back home at the executive mansion, Pat Holshouser hasn't been able to integrate the traditionally all-black staff from North Carolina prisons.

Five women from the Correctional Center for Women and 10 men from North Central Correctional Center are now working in the Victorian style governor's mansion on Blount Street. In keeping with tradition, all are black.

"I investigated this almost immediately when my husband took office," Mrs. Holshouser said. "We haven't had any applications from white prisoners."

"If we had the opportunity," she said, "we would try to integrate the staff. It's not fair to whites."

Previous administrations have always had all-black mansion staffs.

Robert O. Barber, program director for the North Central Area of the corrections system, said he and the mansion staff chose together which prisoners to hire from a selection of carefully screened applicants.

Barber, who has worked as liaison with the mansion staff since before Holshouser took office, said white prisoners are tested for the job from time to time. "But I have never sent one over there."

The most recent white man to be screened for the job at the mansion was during Holshouser's administration, Barber said, but was never sent to the mansion for approval.

"There was something in his background, his psychological testing. They discovered assaultive behavior patterns," he said.

Juanita Baker, warden at the women's prison, said no white women had requested the job in the four years she has been warden.

"It's traditional that they're all black," she said. "It's been that way ever since I've known about it."

Although there is one vacancy on the staff now, Mrs. Holshouser said she was not going to request a white for the position.

"To designate 'I want a white,' would not be fair either," she said. "I don't want to practice discrimination in reverse."

Part of the attraction of the job for the prisoners is time off their sentences.

To be eligible for work at the mansion, prisoners must have at least a one-year sentence (to cut down staff turnover), a good IQ and the classification "honor-grade felon," which allows them to go outside the prison walls.

They undergo psychological and psychiatric screening and must be approved by Commissioner of Corrections Ralph Edwards and the chairman of the Parole Board.

If they pass the screening, they are sent to the mansion for an interview with the security officers there.

Ruth Atkinson, the Holshousers' mansion director, reports the system works well. "I've had no problems," she said. "All have done a beautiful job." She said she had no say over which prisoners were accepted for the jobs.

In the past the governors' housekeepers were more stringent in their orders for servants.

K. B. Baily, Central Prison warden from 1952 to 1964, said in a 1972 interview that some housekeepers had insisted "on black workers 'because black skin was their interpretation of what a domestic servant should be.'"

Some, Baily said, were even more specific. "They had to be over six feet tall, because of the high ceilings in the mansion and their skin had to be black—not yellow or brown, but black."

Will Appeal Drug Case

RALEIGH (AP)—Dep. Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy says North Carolina will appeal the dismissal of its multi-million dollar antitrust suit against five drug companies.

The suit was dismissed earlier this week in U.S. District Court by Judge Franklin K. DuPree.

The dismissal was a major blow to Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan. One of his first official acts, in 1969, was to reject a $3 million settlement offered by the drug companies.

If the state loses its appeal, North Carolina will get nothing.

North Carolina has charged the drug firms with conspiring to fix high prices for antibiotics from 1953 to 1966.

Benoy said the case would probably be taken to the U.S. Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals next week.

Opened Newest Outdoor Drama

Gov. James Holshouser and former Gov. and Mrs. Robert W. Scott led the contingent of dignitaries to Snow Camp Thursday for the dedication and opening of the state's newest outdoor drama.

"Sword of Peace," story of the Alamance County Quakers' struggle for peace and freedom during the time of the American Revolution, opened for its premiere performance on Independence Day, climaxing more than four years work by area residents.

Dedication ceremonies, Thursday, highlighted the entire holiday weekend of festivity in the rural area outside Burlington, site of the new amphitheatre and historic site restoration area.

Minimum Bail Guidelines Set

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The chief state District Court judge of the Charlotte area has ordered a minimum bond of $5,000 in Mecklenburg County for first-degree burglary, arson, or second-degree rape.

The minimums will remain in effect until the Mecklenburg Bar submits the bail guidelines which Judge William Abernathy has requested.

The crimes were capital offenses, with no bond allowed, until the legislature reduced the penalty to life last April.

Judge Abernathy called on the bar for guidelines after it was learned this month that magistrates were treating the crimes as if they still carried the death penalty. A 17-year-old youth who had been arrested on a charge of first-degree burglary had been held without bond.

Claims Reduction In Prison Escapes

RALEIGH (AP)—A top state correction official says a substantial reduction has been made in the number of prison escapes in North Carolina.

Donald Torppa, deputy secretary of the Department of Transportation, told a news conference Thursday that stringent new programs and procedures have paid off. He said, "The accelerated upward trend has been reversed."

Projections for this year indicate that only 140 close custody inmates will escape, compared to a 249 per year average for 1969-72, Torppa said.

New prison security measures were ordered into effect earlier this year after a series of spectacular escapes.

Torppa said a decline in prison escapes was achieved although the prison population has increased. It is now over 12,100. The system is capable of accommodating 10,000.

Torppa attributed the decline to:

- Closer screening and searching of inmates who participate in rehabilitative programs.
- Reductions in the number of felons and misdemeanants housed together.
- Greater emphasis on strict adherence to policies on community leaves and inmate searches.
- Full utilization of the Police Information Network.
- Increased cooperation with local law enforcement officers in seeking escapes.

Securities Sentencing

WILLIAMSTON, N.C. (AP)—Helen Kincaid Still has pleaded guilty to securities law violations in Martin County Superior Court.

Mrs. Still, 63, admitted failing to register securities and failing to register as a securities salesman.

She was charged in connection with the sale of $190,000 in stock to help inherit a large California railroad fortune to which she said she was entitled.

She received a suspended five-year prison sentence and a $1,000 fine.

Mrs. Still had based her claim on what she said was the dying wish of Lydia Kellogg Hopkins, the last heir to Pacific railroad tycoon Mark Hopkins.

Store Break-In Here Reported

Investigation is continuing into a break-in at Cozart's Auto Supply Co. on Dickinson Ave. early today.

Police discovered the break-in at 1:30 a.m., Chief Glenn Cannon said. A 6½-foot by 70-inch window was broken from the front of the building and officers found a bicycle half inside and half outside the store.

Store officials said they could not immediately determine if anything had been taken from the building, Cannon noted.

FREEDOM

A liberty bell and lilies. Both symbols of freedom.

Nearly two hundred years ago, a bell proclaimed our release from political domination. The Founding Fathers gave us our liberty, and today we reap the benefits: a man can speak his mind without fear. This is freedom.

The lilies represent another kind of freedom. Synonymous with Easter, they are symbols of the greatest freedom of all, the freedom from death.

With its promise of everlasting life, with its hope for an eternal spring, the Christian message today rings across the land with ever increasing clarity.

Renew your own freedom. Go to church.

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Stamp collecting has taken on a new dimension that a man known as Mr. Stamps doesn't like.

"Stamps are being promoted, as are coins, as a terrific investment in this era of inflation and economic uncertainty," said Jacques Minkus, 73, whose philatelic empire is unrivaled. "It's true, but that's not stamp collecting—collecting for joy, education, and aesthetic values. To me it is getting away from the basics."

The kindly-visaged dealer who pioneered the sale of stamps, albums, catalogues and philatelic accessories in department stores across the nation, leaned back in a swivel chair in his office and spoke of other changes in the hobby of kings and presidents.

"We have topical stamp collecting now," he said. "That wasn't possible years ago when you just had portrait heads of rulers and heroes. Now people specialize in stamps showing flowers, animals, trees, fish, birds, minerals. I don't look down my nose at them. People like art and many of these stamps are very artistic."

A growing category of stamps is reproductions of great paintings and sculpture, usually from a nation's national museum. The United States has just issued such a series of 10-cent stamps to mark the centennial of the Universal Postal Union. Minkus said these stamps, as opposed to stamps created by commercial designers, serve to advertise the cultural treasures of a country.

Tells National Story
"Most countries use stamps as a means of telling their story," Minkus said. "The United States has used famous Americans, national parks, anniversaries of institutions and many other human, natural and intellectual treasures in its stamp designs. The U.S. Postal Service even has gone into the business of promoting the sale of stamps to collectors."

He referred to the Postal Service's sale of stamp collecting kits and albums at "philatelic centers" in selected post offices and mailing of brochures to postal customers. Minkus, whose firm has philatelic and coin departments in 36 stores from Boston to San Francisco, views the development with equanimity.

"If the Postal Service, through its vast facilities, can create 100,000 or 200,000 more collectors, every dealer will profit," he said.

general, world-wide collections," Minkus said. "Our albums can teach the whole family geography, flags, nation-

Americans buy stamps for their collections directly from post offices. "Most collectors still have Minkus estimates there are at least 20 million stamp collectors in the United States. The Postal Service says 16 million al coats of arms, population, exports, capitals. It's really education in a pleasurable way."

Cheapest Album
Minkus serves on the philatelic panel of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration and is responsible for suggesting the Colonial artisans series which has so far depicted a glassblower, hat maker, wig maker and smithy. Like many immigrants, he is prouder of the nation's history and traditions than some native-born Americans.

"I was in the publishing business in France and came to the United States in 1929 on business," he recalled. "I loved it and wouldn't want to live anywhere else. I started publishing dictionaries and classics for Woolworth five and dime stores and gave them the idea of a 10-cent stamp album. The cheapest album on the market then was $1.50, so naturally I had a hit on my hands."

Minkus became fascinated by stamps when he chanced on outdoor philatelic stalls in Paris. Outdoor stalls were not in the New York tradition, but he persuaded Gimbel's to give him six feet of counter space in their Herald Square store in 1931.

"That was the beginning of department store stamp counters all over the country,"

FDR's Favorites
The pride of Minkus' personal collection is a portion of his friend Franklin D. Roosevelt's famous philatelic accumulation which has no real stamp value. Called "bouquets and brickbats" by the late President, it is a selection of envelopes with ordinary U.S. stamps. Their interest lies in how they were addressed.

For instance, one has a one-line address: "Rattlesnake Roosevelt". Another just has a sketch of Roosevelt with Washington, D.C., below. Others read "President of the U.S., care of 327 secretaries" and "Recorder of Sentiment Regarding Proposed Change in the U.S. Supreme Court."

"I think President Roosevelt must have liked this one best," Minkus said, pointing out an envelope which bore only six words: "To the Greatest Man in the World". Some Post Office worker somewhere directed it unhesitatingly to the White House.

lost dog routine used in assaulting of girls

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — "Will you help me hunt for my dog? I'll give you five dollars."

The man asking the question is white, of medium height and build and has dark hair. He is wearing a tee shirt and brown pants. He is between 25 and 30 years old.

"What does your dog look like, Mister?"

The response comes from a girl less than 14 years old. She might be as young as 9.

Sometimes the man says the dog is a chihuahua. Sometimes he even gives the dog's name: Chipper.

If the child says "I just saw a dog" and describes it, the man might reply: "Yeah, that's him."

The description does not matter. There is no lost dog.

Since last November, a man asking help in searching for a dog has figured in at least eight reports of sexual offenses against young girls in at least four North Carolina counties.

There have been three reports of rape, one of kidnaping with assault, three of assault, and one of indecent exposure.

Except for the lost-dog routine, there is no conclusive evidence that one man has committed all of the offenses. Victims' descriptions of the man are consistent except for two key points — the length and style of his hair, and type of vehicle he was driving.

Yet police reports indicate the lost-dog routine has been used repeatedly in the four-county area.

A 13-year-old girl was raped June 13 by a man who offered her $5 to hunt for a dog in the Cherryville area. The dog was a chihuahua. The girl said the man threatened to kill her before she was attacked.

A 12-year-old Cabarrus County girl told police that, on May 23, a man offered her $5 to hunt for the dog Chipper. The girl agreed. The man threatened her with a knife, stripped off her clothing and raped her.

In April, five children in Salisbury, 60 miles from Cherryville, were approached by a man as they walked home from school. The man asked for help in finding a chihuahua named Chipper.

They agreed and went to a nearby wooded area. But when the man asked them to separate, the children — aged 9 to 11 — refused and left.

Last November, a 13-year-old girl in Salisbury said a man lured her into a wooded area by using the dog ruse. She was stripped, raped and left tied to a tree.

No one has been brought to trial in connection with the cases.

Took Honors In District 4-H Activity Day Events

LINDA LILLEY

JEFFREY JOHNSON

ALICE DENISON

Pitt County recently returned from the Northeastern District 4-H Activity Day with nine first- and second-place winners.

First-place winners were Linda Lilley, Grifton, Beef-Char-Grill; Jeffrey Johnson, Fountain, Electric Lampmaking; and Alice Denison, Grifton, Photography, "Effects of Dektol Dilutions." These three young people will represent the district during 4-H Congress week July 22-26.

Runners-up were Gail Mullen, Grifton, automotive skill driving; Jerry Flanagan, Farmville, entomology; Cindy Williams, Fountain, pork cookery; Gayle Flanagan, Farmville, poultry barbecue; Brenda Roberson, Bethel, public speaking; and Mary and Sandra Ellis, Farmville, open class.

Other youth attending and participating in District Day were: Vernell and Gary Starkis, Grimesland, dairy foods; Sheila Little, Bethel, egg cookery; Gwen Worsley, Bethel, fruit & vegetable use; Dianne Manning, Greenville, home environment; Jeva Davis, Grifton, landscaping; Debbie Allen & Stella Mitchell, Grifton, safety; Jeff Christopher, Grifton, soil & water conservation.

Adults accompanying the youth were Mrs. Nancy Allen; Mrs. Jerry Eubanks; the Rev. & Mrs. Scott Sowers; Mrs. J.T.

Landfill Site
Opens Monday

The new county-operated sanitary landfill site West of Greenville on the Allen Road will begin operations Monday, according to Pitt County Planner Larry Hurlocker.

The old county-operated landfill at Littlefield will end operations Saturday at 4 p.m. Persons wishing to dispose of solid waste material after the Littlefield site closes Saturday afternoon should go to the new landfill site Monday.

The hours of operation for the new Allen Road site will be from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The Allen Road runs between U. S. 264 and the Stantonsburg Road. The Stantonsburg Road-Allen Road intersection is about a mile beyond the new county hospital site, while the U.S. 264-Allen Road intersection is about 2½ miles West of West End Circle shopping center in Greenville.

According to Hurlocker, persons caught violating the solid waste ordinance by disposing of solid waste material at the Littlefield site after it closes at 4 p.m. Saturday will be prosecuted.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY REELE

Looking at the upcoming cage wars between the Southern Conference teams, it would appear that Furman University will be favored to regain the title this year, successfully defending its title.

The Paladins have most of their players from a year ago returning and have the added privilege of holding the tournament on their home court.

Davidson will also be strong, with three of its starters back and one top notch recruit joining the team. How they will fare will depend on how well they do on the road.

William & Mary reportedly had the best recruiting year in the league, but they are faced with a rebuilding situation. They have a new coach, who was greeted with the loss of star Mike Arizin, who transferred out after his sophomore year, and the loss of top guard Ron Musselman on grades. This will be hard to overcome.

Richmond, which lost Aron Stewart—along with Lewis Mills—Coach of the Year in the Southern, can hardly be seen as improved this year. They will be a factor, but not a contender.

VMI probably won't be much better. They and Appalachian State, which probably will be a little better, will probably battle again for the basement.

The Citadel could be stronger, but is faced with the possibility of some of their top men being lost to grades, too. And they lost one of the steadiest of their players through graduation, Chuck Cordell.

East Carolina, last, but we certainly hope, not least, should be a strong contender in the league this season. The Bucs have had another top recruiting year. Wade Henkel, listed by one scouting bureau as a top player in the East, will certainly be one of the top newcomers in the league. The Bucs have a wealth of experience, plus a brighter outlook.

Their opening schedule is perhaps the biggest obstacle they have to overcome. The Bucs open at State, travel from there to Duke, then meet nationally-ranked Alabama, also on the road. Unless a miracle occurs, the Bucs will certainly be down 0-3 at that point. They'll then have to cut that part of their season off from their memory and start anew, retaining only the remembrance of the rugged competition they've played.

Richmond, as yet, hasn't hired anyone to take Mills' place as Spider basketball coach, and this could be one of the most attractive posts in the country.

The Spiders have an outstanding playing area in the Robbins Center, one of the finest on-campus coliseums around. The University seems to want to put more emphasis on basketball, so funds for recruiting with the big boys seems to be available.

The right man could make it very tough on the rest of the Southern in just a few years.

Tom Quinn, former ECU basketball coach, may be working in Europe during the coming year, reports say.

Reportedly, Quinn has been hired to coach a semi-pro team operating out of the Netherlands during the upcoming year.

When contacted by the Daily Reflector, however, he said he couldn't comment on the reports.

Quinn will be drawing his salary for the final year of his contract from East Carolina during that coming year, also.

Rookies Asked Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League Players Association is asking all rookies to support a strike threatened for Monday by staying away from training camps that open next week.

The players union and the NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for owners of the 26 teams, are deadlocked on 63 contract demands made by the players. Despite the aid of federal mediators, talks broke off Wednesday.

In a letter to all rookies Thursday, Players Association President Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers asked their support in "our efforts for your own benefits, protections and freedom."

The owners have planned to use rookies and free agents in exhibition and regular-season games if the veterans strike.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have come from behind 16 times in the ninth inning to win so far this year.

McGlothen Captures 11th Win Of Season

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

How many more games would Lynn McGlothen like to win? How about one ... "if that one gets us into the World Series."

He's going to win a lot more than just one, though. He's already won more games than anybody else in the National League.

The refugee from the American League's Boston Red Sox twirled a fancy four-hitter for St. Louis Thursday night for his 11th victory of the season, a 6-1 breeze over the New York Mets.

In Thursday night's other National League games, Chicago edged Montreal 5-4, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 6-3 and San Francisco topped San Diego 4-2.

"I'm not doing anything different than I did last year, except maybe I'm throwing a few more strikes," McGlothen said, comparing his 11-3 season and 2.62 earned-run average with 1973's 1-2 mark and 8.22 ERA at Boston.

"The Red Sox gave me a chance to pitch early last season. I just didn't win."

Cubs 5, Expos 4

The Cubs got all the scoring they needed—barely—with a four-run fifth inning. And Oscar Zamora gave them the relief pitching they needed—barely—to hang on and beat Montreal.

Slate Is Rained Out

Rain washed out all local baseball and softball activity in the area last night.

Baseball action that was postponed included both games in the Senior Babe Ruth League, Washington at Taff Office, and University Kiwanis at Ayden-Grifton; the American Legion game that saw Rocky Mount visiting Greenville; and the final game of the Southern Pitt Little League, between Chicod and Rodgers Furniture.

Chicod and Rodgers will try again tonight, with a tentative date of Saturday morning, should the game be delayed. The Legion game has tentatively been rescheduled for Sunday, but will be played only if it affects the standings.

No new dates have been set for the Senior Babe Ruth League games.

Softball postponed included six Church League games and the second night of play in the Ladies League Tournament. No new dates have been set for the Church League, but the women will play the games of last night on Tuesday evening.

Rain Hampering Wimbledon Play

By NOEL HUGHES
AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Ilie Nastase had the contented smile of Lewis Carroll's Cheshire cat as it rained and rained ... and rained some more at the Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

Thursday's rain was good news for Nastase, No. 2 seed from Romania, and other European clay court players. As Wimbledon's famed lush lawns sweated beneath covers, they presented a grim view for the grass court whiz kids of the United States and Australia.

"I feel good," said Nastase, at his best on Europe's slow clay courts.

"I've never known Wimbledon to play so slow," he said. "I think I might go a long way this year."

Nearly two days have been lost in the 87th championships to rain.

The program should have reached the last 32 in both the men's and women's singles by today. But only a handful of players have completed second-round matches.

Safely through to the men's third round were top-seeded John Newcombe and fellow Australian Ken Rosewall, Stan Smith and Tom Gorman of the United States, defending champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, fifth-seeded Swede Bjorn Borg and Nastase.

In the women's singles, the top two seeds, Billie Jean King and Chris Evert of the United States, as well as British veteran Christine Janes, were the only players through to the round of 32.

Nastase wasn't the only player who could see the change in Wimbledon's usually fizzing surface.

Manuel Orantes of Spain, seeded only 12th but considered among the finest slow clay courts players in the world, could have a good chance of a big breakthrough here unless the grass dries fast.

Other Europeans who might enjoy the changed conditions include Alex Metreveli, the Soviet Union's best player ever, and Borg, who already has won the Italian and French titles this year—on clay.

The hopes of Newcombe, Smith and third-seeded Jim Connors of Belleville, Ill., could be buried in the slow courts.

Because of the rain, only two matches were completed Thursday, and both had been halted by rain and darkness Wednesday.

Jackson Popular With The Fans

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson of the World Champion Oakland A's is proving to be the overwhelming favorite among fans for the American League All-Star team, already polling more than a million votes.

Jackson, the AL's Most Valuable Player last year, had 1,115,008 votes, according to figures released today by the commissioner's office. Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins was second in the voting with 875,407 votes for the second base position.

Al Kaline, now being used as a designated hitter by Detroit, was second to Jackson for the outfield positions with 441,229, followed by outfielder Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees with 433,061.

After Carew in balloting for second was Cookie Rojas of Kansas City with 338,733.

Leading the catchers was Boston's Carlton Fisk with 547,627 ballots, followed by Bill Freehan of the Detroit Tigers with 363,561. Dick Allen of Chicago's White Sox led first basemen with 506,116, comfortably ahead of Boston's Carl Yastrzemski with 358,014.

Third base was locked up by Baltimore's Brooks Robinson, 508,584, followed by the A's Sal Bando, 321,205. Another Athletic, Bert Campaneris, led shortstop balloting with 706,471 votes, far ahead of the Tiger's Ed Brinkman with 314,654.

Williams Hired As Angel Manager

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
ANAHEIM (AP) — Dick Williams, who led the Oakland A's to victory in the past two World Series, is leaving his exile from baseball next Monday to manage the California Angels because the offer was "so tremendous I couldn't turn it down."

Williams, 45, agreed to serve with the Angels through the 1977 American League season for what is believed to be at least $100,000 a year. He succeeds Bobby Winkles, fired earlier Thursday as the Angels, 30-44, languished in last place in the Western Division.

"I'm quite happy they called me and I'm quite happy to be returning to baseball," Williams said from his Riviera Beach, Fla., home. He has been in private business since A's owner Charles O. Finley blocked his being hired as manager of the New York Yankees. Williams quit the A's after the 1973 World Series and Finley, after allowing the Angels to approach Williams, requested the lifting of a court injunction in San Francisco that prevented Williams from managing any team except Oakland through 1975.

The fiery field leader said he missed baseball, but when asked if he would have taken any other, he said, "No sir! Definitely not."

Coach Whitey Herzog will direct the Angels until Williams arrives late Sunday or early Monday because of East Coast commitments that include a charity game in Hartford, Conn.

Angel General Manager Harry Dalton reached agreement with Williams about 12 hours and "six or seven" phone calls after he first reached Williams and learned he was interested.

The A's will be in town to open a series, and Williams said, "That's just a coincidence. But managing against my old team will be exciting, to say the least."

Williams, the only man to manage more than two seasons for Finley, had said he wanted to leave Oakland so that he could be closer to his family on the East Coast.

"The salary, the (contract) longevity and the locality," said Williams, persuaded him to come to the Angels. "I was raised in Southern California, in Pasadena, and I still have family, my parents, out there," he said.

He indicated he will retain the Angels' coaching staff.

"I will spend time between now and Monday studying my charts on the Angels from the past three years," he said.

"It will take me a few days to gather my thoughts and then I'll present them to Harry Dalton and the coaches."

Dalton said Winkles was fired because the team was going badly.

Gene Autry, Angels board chairman, said Finley "didn't ask for compensation. We did this on a friendship basis."

Players See No Messiah

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
ANAHEIM (AP) — The last-place California Angels will be happy to see Dick Williams—but they don't see him as a guaranteed messiah leading them to the pennant in 1974.

But veteran Frank Robinson, California's designated hitter and the only man to be Most Valuable Player in both major leagues, sees qualities in Williams that no man has brought to the helm of the Angels.

"He's a tough, no-nonsense guy who has a record of turning things around. He did it at Boston in his first year."

Williams, besides managing Oakland to World Series triumphs the past two seasons, led Boston to the pennant in 1967, his rookie year as a big-league manager.

Robinson said Williams is a far cry from the "easy-going" managers—Bill Rigney, Lefty Phillips, Del Rice and Bobby Winkles—the Angels have had since 1961, when they were formed in the American League's expansion. Winkles was fired Thursday, about six hours before Williams agreed to take the job.

"I don't know if the change will be good or not," said Robinson. "That's something that remains to be seen."

Robinson, who didn't get along with Winkles, cited the team's long injury list. "But the team wasn't playing well. You can't fire 25 ballplayers, so you fire the manager," he said.

"We may not be able to catch Oakland but we can still finish a respectable second or third," Robinson added.

Other California players agreed.

"I don't want to say he's a scapegoat," said Bob Oliver. "He did the best job he could. Only Dave Chalk and Lee Stanton are having good years. If I was having an outstanding year and if Robinson was having a good year, maybe we'd be winning."

Bobby Valentine, who has been out with injuries much of 1973 and 1974 while Winkles managed, said: "I only wish I had not been hurt so much so I could have done more for him. He's my kind of manager and I'm his kind of player."

Jim Perry Picks Up His 200th Career Win

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
It's a good thing Marty Pattin throws a lot faster than he learns.

"I threw five sliders in a row to (Aurelio) Rodriguez in relief on our last road trip to Detroit," said Pattin after his long, strong relief stint helped the Kansas City Royals topple the Oakland A's 5-4 Thursday night. "And he hit one of them for a home run."

"I realized right then my fast ball is my best pitch and I haven't been using it enough over the years."

Manager Jack McKeon also noticed that Pattin's best pitch was the one he wasn't throwing.

"Even when we faced him, it was slider-slider-slider," the Royals' second-year manager said. "We told him he had a good fastball and to use it. He proved it tonight."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Cleveland Indians shaded the Boston Red Sox 2-1; the Milwaukee Brewers tripped the Detroit Tigers 5-1; the Minnesota Twins dumped the Chicago White Sox 6-3, and the California Angels blanked the Texas Rangers 5-0.

Twins 6, White Sox 3
Tony Oliva blasted a two-run homer and Rod Carew, now batting a cool .400, chipped in with three hits to carry Minnesota past Chicago.

Indians 2, Red Sox 1
Only 68 other pitchers have done what Jim Perry did. And Brother Gaylord, riding a 13-game winning streak, isn't one of them.

Jim Perry picked up his 200th career victory Thursday night, beating the division-leading Red Sox, who had roughed him up last Saturday in Boston.

Gaylord Perry, 13-1, goes after victory 191 tonight.

Angels 5, Rangers 0
General Manager Harry Dalton dangled a lot of money in front of his new manager Dick Williams. Having Nolan Ryan on his team didn't hurt one bit.

Ryan fired the fourth one-hitter of his career, limiting Texas to Alex Johnson's first-inning single, to give interim Manager Whitey Herzog his first California victory.

Ryan, the American League strikeout leader with 163, fanned six Rangers and walked only one as he posted his 10th victory of the season and third in a row.

Brewers 5, Tigers 1
Deron Johnson hit a grand-slam home run to highlight a five-run sixth inning that backed the six-hit pitching of Clyde Wright and gave Milwaukee its victory over Detroit.

National League results: Cincinnati 6, Atlanta 3; Chicago 5, Montreal 4; St. Louis 6, New York 1, and San Francisco 4, San Diego 2.

Another Tough Course For Pros

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — The distinct possibility of a third consecutive week with an over-par winner has arisen from the first round of the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

Only Bob Goalby, Frank Beard and obscure rookie Gary McCord—all with 70s—could break par-71 Thursday on the 7,002-yard Butler National Golf Club course, a new layout the touring pros are playing for the first time.

And Goalby, 43, a former Masters champion, predicted the eventual winner will be in plus-par figures.

"I don't think anyone can shoot four good rounds here," he said. "There is too much water, too many problems, too many chances to make a mistake."

"I don't think there is any question that a score over par will win it."

Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino, each with an opening 74, agreed.

"I'm not far out of it," Trevino said. "I think the winner is going to have at least one round where he's three or four over par."

"Anything from 286 (two over par) to 290 could win," Palmer said. "It's just like the Open. I'm three over par and not out of it."

Hale Irwin won the U.S. Open two weeks ago with a seven-over-par, highest in more than a decade. Last week Jim Colbert scored a playoff victory in the American Golf Classic after tying for the top spot with a one-over-par score.

It's the first time in recent history that consecutive tournaments had been won in plus-par figures.

The first-round scores were the highest of any on the tour this year except in the American National Championship.

Lanny Wadkins was one stroke off the pace at 71, tied with Irwin, Tom Weiskopf, Al Geiberger, Eddie Pearce, Rik Massengale, Gary Sanders and Gary Groh.

Defending champion Billy Casper, a four-time Western winner, had a 78. Australian Bruce Crampton shot 76. Colbert had 77. Ben Crenshaw took an 81—one of almost three dozen scores at 80 or higher—and withdrew.

The course features dense woods, occasional trees in the middle of fairways, vast amounts of water, deep, yawning bunkers, severely undulating greens, deep, wiry rough and fairways less than 20 yards wide in spots.

Representing the Milwaukee Brewers on this year's All-Star ballot are George Scott, Pedro Garcia, Don Money, Dave May, and Darrell Porter.

The Worry Clinic A Comparison Of The Strains

Homer was standing under that famous "sword of Damocles" while on the golf course. Yet he didn't even know it! Nor did his doctor who put an O.K. on golfing. You housewives and employers should also use the tests below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-671: Homer F., aged 47, had a heart attack.

"Dr. Crane," his devoted wife began, "Homer got to the hospital within 30 minutes.

"But we used your suggestion about rapid, deep breathing to help him bring in an extra supply of oxygen for his heart till the ambulance arrived.

"So the pain had grown dull and he wasn't nearly as apprehensive when the ambulance reached our house.

"Now he seems to be recovered quite satisfactorily. "And he'd like to go out to play a little golf.

"The physician told him not to overdo, but to stop at least with 9 holes.

"Dr. Crane, is golf too strenuous exercise for a recent cardiac case?"

Coronary Facts

After former President Eisenhower had recovered from a heart attack, he was soon permitted to play golf.

But Dr. Edward E. Gordon's data on "Exercise Equivalents" (reported on Page 736 of my college textbook "Psychology Applied") contrasts the strain of golf vs. laying bricks!

At the left you will find various tasks while at the right are the calories per minute required for such physical activity.

Task	Cal. Per Min.
Lying abed	1.0
Fast typewriting	1.8
Playing piano	2.5
Average walking	3.6
Laying bricks	4.0
Ironing clothes	4.2
Playing golf	5.0
Riding horse	8.0
Playing tennis	10.2

Merely walking downstairs requires 5.2 calories per minute, which is over 25 per cent more rigorous exercise than laying bricks!

Dr. Gordon thus warns us medical colleagues about letting patients perform many supposedly light chores when the latter are actually far more exhausting than laying bricks. For example, wouldn't there

With virtually every high card marked by the auction and the strength in dummy, West found a brilliant defensive play to rob declarer of his game.

Most players simply would have raised one no trump to three with the North cards, preferring not to use the Stayman convention to probe for a 4-4 major fit unless their hand contains a ruffing value. However, there is no quarrelling with success — as the cards lie, three no trump probably would have gone down after a club lead.

West rejected hearts and clubs as possible opening leads and opted for the relatively safe lead of his top diamond. Declarer won in dummy as East played low, and led a heart to his nine. In with the queen, West paused to take stock. Counting the 12 points visible in dummy, his own 10 and declarer's minimum of 16, he knew his partner held at most a queen, if that. Unless it was specifically Q-10-9 of spades, the defenders would take no spade tricks. Partner's low diamond at trick one denied the queen there, so it was probable that the only way to defeat the hand was to get two tricks in clubs.

However, if West continued with a passive defense, declarer would eventually lead a low club toward the queen, thus limiting the defenders to one club trick.

West worked out that there was some hope if partner held a singleton club. His first thought was to shift to a low club, but he realized that would avail him nothing. Declarer would play dummy's queen, and when West led another club after winning the ace of hearts, East would ruff while declarer followed with his low club.

There was only one winning defense, and West found it — he shifted to the king of clubs! Declarer took the ace of clubs and returned the king of hearts to force out the ace. West won and led the jack of clubs, covered by the queen and ruffed by East. Declarer was stranded with a losing club and no place to put it, so he went down one. But he was enough of a gentleman to congratulate West on a spectacular coup.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is an exceedingly fine day and evening to do all the duties that you have agreed to do. Successful results can easily be attained by conscientiously working away at the tasks ahead. You have much ingenuity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Keeping promises you have made instead of going out for pleasure is wise now. Show your fine talents and get excellent results.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Exchange views with a clever associate and make considerable progress. Don't talk over with kin any arguments you may have had.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have much work to do and should get right at it instead of going off on a tangent. Arrive on time for appointments.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) An ideal day to engage in amusements you enjoy, but don't be extravagant. Show devotion to loved one. Keep poised.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to please family members more and forget own desire for the time being. Get rid of whatever stands in the way of accord.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Visiting with friends and relations can bring excellent benefits at this time. Maintain a cheerful outlook on life. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget wasting time with people who have nothing to do but talk. Consult a business expert about new financial trends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you follow through on personal aims, you can make much progress at this time. Obey any regulations that apply to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact the person who has the information you need. The evening is fine for romance. Use diplomacy at home tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good friend has some good ideas which you can benefit from, so listen carefully. Take time to improve your health.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine day for working on career activities, but steer clear of an irate associate. Don't waste time on unimportant details.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Attend to duties early so that later you can engage in your favorite amusements. Plan your vacation now. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have the capability to advance in any chosen field of endeavor, but be sure not to give too much praise, and thus spoil the incentive. The religious side of life should not be neglected. Teach early to use any data obtained in a clever fashion. Sports are fine here.

minute on that chart.

Space limitations don't permit me to cite a dozen other typical tasks, so go to your local library and read page 736 of my psychology textbook.

You housewives will be delighted to see that hanging up wet laundry or even taking a shower bath are much more rigorous tasks than laying bricks!

So don't let your husbands belittle the physical strain of operating your household! The average husband would be so exhausted, if he changed places with you housewives if you also have children to look after, that he'd never be able to stay awake during the first TV program after the evening meal!

Remember, too, that the mental strain and worry about the children wear you out even faster than mere physical exertion!

That's also why executives, like mothers and bosses in factories or stores, get tension headaches and peptic ulcers. Ditch diggers and manual laborers seldom have ulcers!

Nashville Builds Production Base

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — This pleasant, deceptively relaxed-looking city seems an unlikely candidate as a TV production center. Sure, a network producer occasionally roars in to tape a special or two here.

But a production center? Yep, even though its shows now only are syndicated efforts usually upstaged by flashy network "country" musicals that mix hay with concrete to get a kind of cornpone sludge.

The real Nashville shows here usually are either gospel or bona fide country music — and comedy, in one case — productions. Right now, at least nine are in production or getting set to tape.

They range from the well-known "Hee Haw" series to the venerable, 15-year-old "Porter Wagoner Show" to the new "Pop Goes the Country," a 30-minute talk and music show to be hosted by Ralph Emery, an accentless, respected radio — WSM — influence in country music.

Most syndicated TV shows here have been done at Nashville's three commercial TV stations — WSM, WLAC and WNGE. Most still are. But a new factor has entered the production picture here.

It's a $2.5-million radio-TV facility at the WSM-owned Opryland Palace which President Nixon dedicated last March when the Grand Ole Opry left the revered Ryman Auditorium downtown for its new home.

Opryland's broadcast center has a large TV studio, seven color cameras, new audio and videotape gear and a computerized console to let a show be taped, mixed and edited in one central location.

"It was built with the idea of using network, syndicated and commercial (advertising) production here," says Bill Turner, WSM's TV production manager. "We're here to compete with both coasts."

Big city producers may heehaw at the idea, but the man with the real "Hee Haw" — its producer, Sam Lovullo — thinks Nashville eventually could change from a small to a fairly significant TV production center.

The main holdups now, says Lovullo, a former CBS executive, are Madison Avenue, a lack of top-level technical — but not audio — expertise and experience in set design, wardrobe and makeup matters.

But the craft and technical gaps are narrowing, he says, and "the facilities are here, they're available. You get the right combination, the creative, the technical people, and you could make it work."

Building permits totaling $454,589 were issued in Greenville in May, according to State Labor Commissioner Billy Creel.

Creel said that Greenville totals for the first five months of 1974 were $3,387,111. Other eastern cities and their May and five-month totals included: Elizabeth City, $501,309, $978,544; Goldsboro, $641,630, $5,000,330; Kingston, $2,048,885, $3,989,864; Jacksonville, $357,829, $1,583,516;

New Bern, $1,286,300, $1,721,750; Roanoke Rapids, $1,924,975, $3,157,238; Rocky Mount, $677,446, $7,585,904; and Wilson, $1,051,328, $7,360,823. Creel said that permits totaling $57,297,591 were issued in May by 38 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population while permits amounting to $271,408,629 were issued during the first five months of the year.

The May figure was down 26 per cent from last year, he said, while the five-month total was down some 16 per cent from the same period in 1973.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— Grain prices were weaker on the leading markets in North Carolina Thursday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 2.75-3.00, mostly 2.80-2.95 per bushel; No. 1 yellow soybeans 5.63-5.70; No. 2 red winter wheat mostly 3.64-3.80; No. 2 red oats 1.25-1.35; and barley 1.75-2.00 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets stronger Thursday. Supplies adequate, demand fair. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 51.59, medium whites 40.72, small whites 31.23.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— North Carolina hogs prices were steady to $1.00 higher today. Tops of 39.00-40.00 Kinston and Lumberton; 36.50-37.00 Rocky Mount; 34.50-35.00 Tarboro and Bethel; 39.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady with next week's weighted average price at 32.32 cents per pound. Supplies adequate and demand fairly good. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter today 1,422,000.

North Carolina hens: Market unchanged, supplies of heavy type burdensome and demand slow. Heavies, at farm, 8 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market extended its recent declines today, but cut its losses with a late-morning round of bargain-hunting. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had dipped briefly below 800 early in the session, was off only .86 at 802.80 at noon. Losers maintained a wide lead over gainers, however, on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said worries over rising interest rates were keeping the market on the defensive. But they noted some buying had come in each time the Dow dropped to around the 800 level in recent months.

Hercules, Inc., was the most active issue on the NYSE, down a point at 40.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was off .23 at 79.06.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks stood at 44.92, down .21.

Gold issues mostly showed fractional gains as bullion prices rebounded in Europe. Retail, chemical, and oil issues were generally lower.

The Amex volume leader was Science Management Corp., down 3/4 at 2 1/2.

Phone Workers Voting On New Pact

Striking members of the Communications Workers of America Union (CWA) may be returning to their jobs with Carolina Telephone Monday, or they may still be on strike, depending on the outcome of a contract ratification vote being taken today.

Some 2,800 members of the CWA are voting on whether or not to accept a new contract offer which was agreed upon by union and Company negotiators last weekend.

If the new contract is accepted, CWA members are to return to their jobs July 1. Terms of the new contract were learned this morning.

Cooperative Ventures Agreed To In Moscow

By BARRY SCHWEID Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev completed agreement today on three cooperative ventures, including research on and development of an artificial heart.

The Kremlin signings, scheduled for midafternoon, represent the first concrete results of the summit meeting between the United States and Russian leaders.

The heart agreement would involve pooling of Soviet and American knowledge to make a mechanical device that would functionally replace the heart.

Under the new contract, operators could change their schedules weekly, whereas under the old contract operators were locked to their schedules for 13 weeks at a time.

Finch said this morning from New Bern that voting was heavy and that he felt ratification of the new offer was "going to be close."

He also said the summit meetings were marked by "frankness," a diplomatic way of saying the two sides have major points of divergence.

Also included in the new contract is a clause whereby the company will pick up payment of hospitalization insurance for dependents of company employees.

Under the new contract, operators could change their schedules weekly, whereas under the old contract operators were locked to their schedules for 13 weeks at a time.

Finch said this morning from New Bern that voting was heavy and that he felt ratification of the new offer was "going to be close."

One major hang-up in the old contract offer voted down on May 30 was a cost-of-living clause.

Although this clause was not included in the contract being voted on today, Finch stated he felt the re-opener for wages clause was the best they could do at the time.

The re-opener clause would allow union members to strike again next year if they felt wages weren't being boosted enough to keep up with the cost of living says Finch.

Voting will end tonight and the ballots will be counted tomorrow in Rocky Mount, Finch added.

Details of all three agreements were not disclosed immediately.

Brezhnev noted, however, that the process of detente has only "traversed the first stage," and that "much work lies ahead" that will require a sense of purpose and good will.

Obituaries

Hudson

See Breeder Plant Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief John C. Sawhill says the government is concerned that it may be unable to meet its 1980 target for developing the atomic breeder reactor, a key part of future energy plans.

The breeder reactor program has encountered delays and cost overruns and is being reviewed, Sawhill told reporters Thursday. "We want to see whether it is still possible to have the breeder by 1980," he said.

Sawhill urged steps to ensure an adequate supply of uranium, the basic reactor fuel.

The breeder reactor theoretically would enlarge atomic fuels greatly by converting abundant uranium-238 into plutonium, a usable atomic fuel.

Sawhill suggested that conventional atomic power plants be clustered into groups of nuclear energy centers to enhance fuel conservation through fuel reprocessing, radioactive waste-disposal facilities and better security than for scattered plants.

He served in the Dept. for Reserve and ROTC affairs, office of the Secretary of the Air Force, 1961-64, and as acting special assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force for manpower, personnel and reserves from 1965-66.

Woman Robbed, Left Tied Up

BLOWING ROCK, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Irwin Sherwin, wife of one of the owners of an auction gallery in Blowing Rock, was robbed of money, jewelry and credit cards and left bound in her home for several hours Thursday night, police reported today.

He was a member of numerous literary, professional and educational groups and societies. He was a lifelong, active Democrat and was vice chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Convention in 1946.

The amount of the loss was not determined immediately.

Gen. Lang was the director of the Washington, D. C. Community Chest in 1966 and chairman of the Pitt County Crusade of the American Cancer Society in 1973. He was recipient of the Algerion Sullivan Award, the Mangum Oratorical Award of UNC; of a citation of NYA, a scroll of appreciation from the N.C. State Board of Health, Service Citation of the Congressional Secretary Club; the Exceptional Civilian Service Award of the Dept. of the Air Force, and many other awards and citations.

Police Chief Douglas Townsend said Mrs. Sherwin was tied up for about three hours before her husband returned from the Blowing Rock Art Gallery, found her bound and notified police shortly after midnight.

He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, an Elk and the author of numerous articles, bulletins, studies, surveys and field reports.

Participants In Bible School

Several local persons participated in Vacation Bible School at York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church this week.

ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins said today of Lang. "John Lang made a significant contribution to East Carolina University and to his state and nation. He had a distinguished career of service in government, in the military and in higher education. He will be missed by all of us."

Guest speakers included: Rev. W.B. Moore, pastor of Cornerstone Baptist Church; Mrs. B.C. Maye, librarian at E.B. Aycock School; Rev. O.J. Rooks, associate pastor at St. John Baptist Church; Rev. B.B. Felder, pastor of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church; Rev. Johnny Taylor, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church; and Mrs. Reatha Williams, art consultant.

MEMPHIS (AP)—Regional Postmaster General Carl C. Ulsaker today announced appointment of Bobby J. Parker of Pinetops, N.C., as postmaster of that community.

Disenchantment

NEW YORK (AP) — The Harris Survey says a record 59 per cent of the American people are disenchanting with the state of the nation.

Two cubs placed in incubator when their mother rejected them may be moved soon into a heated cage, officials said.

Harris said on Thursday that the question was posed in 1966, those expressing disenchantment included substantial numbers of enrolled Republicans, college-educated persons and workers earning $15,000 a year or more.

Zoo officials said the first month is critical in the animals' lives, but since the cubs have gained more than two pounds apiece, officials are optimistic about their survival.

A similar poll conducted last year showed the disaffection rate at 55 per cent. In 1966, it was only 29 per cent.

Only about 30 white tigers are known to exist.

The theory that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer was subscribed to by 79 per cent of the 1,413 households sampled by the survey organization in June. And 62 per cent of those queried believe "most elective officials are in politics for all they personally can get out of it for themselves."
