

Order Young Man Held For Grand Jury After Slaying Mrs. King, Sr.

By DALLAS LEE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A 23-year-old black man, accused in the slaying of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr., was ordered held for a grand jury today on murder charges.

Marcus Wayne Chenault, 23, of Dayton, Ohio, told a City Court judge he was sent to Atlanta "on a purpose and it's partly accomplished."

The young, stocky prisoner, under heavy police guard, said in response to questions from attorneys that he had pistols in his possession when Mrs. King and two others were shot Sunday at Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church.

One of the other victims, a deacon, also was killed.

"I assume I shot someone," Chenault told Judge E. T. Brock.

He said, "My name is Servant Jacob. I'm a Hebrew. I was sent here on a purpose and it's partly accomplished."

Chenault was ordered held for a Fulton County grand jury on two counts of murder, one charge of aggravated assault and one charge of carrying a pistol without a license.

The judge allowed no bond. The arraignment took place in a second-floor courtroom at police headquarters here, where policemen stopped anyone entering the building to examine their credentials.

Five uniformed policemen were in the small courtroom, along with several detectives.

Chenault's attorney, Randy Bacote of Atlanta, entered pleadings of "no contest" to all charges, but Brock refused to accept them and instead entered innocent pleas.

Chenault grinned as he entered the courtroom and to initial questions he said, "no comment," but then answered the questions after his attorney whispered to him.

Bacote told newsmen after the 15-minute hearing that he entered the no-contest pleas because "at this point in time we're trying to determine the proper defense."

Bacote declined comment about Chenault's state of mind, but said the prisoner "believes he is Jacob in person" and added that he believes "his God" sent him on a mission.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, who succeeded the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. as president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said the assailant claimed to be a conspirator.

He said when he visited the accused gunman in a jail cell the man told him that "I was on the list, that there was a conspiracy to get us all...to get all the civil rights leaders."

Atlanta police said no evidence existed to support the theory, but Chief John Inman ordered a 24-hour guard placed at the home of the Rev. Martin Luther King Sr. Officer B. F. Peppers, a spokesman for Inman's office, said late Sunday that "if there's evidence of anyone else being involved, it hasn't been forwarded to the chief's office at this time."

A 21-year-old Ohio State University student identified by police as Marcus Wayne Chenault of Dayton, Ohio, was arrested shortly after the incident and charged with murder.

Police said a black man who told them he had orders from God to kill King aimed a burst of pistol fire at Ebenezer Baptist Church worshippers, killing King's 69-year-old wife as she sat at the organ.

A deacon was also killed and another woman wounded, but King was unhurt as the crowd of some 500 scattered in panic, many screaming as they crawled under wooden pews or ran from the building.

New Site For Waste Disposal

NEW LANDFILL OPENS. . . The new county sanitary landfill on the Allen Road west of Greenville opened at 9 a.m. today. The old landfill site at Littlefield, between Ayden and Grifton, county officials said, will not be open any longer to the general public. All solid waste should now be taken to the new county site for disposal. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Budget Out Of The Way, Pitt Bd. Agenda 'Light'

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners faced a light agenda this morning at their regular monthly meeting today after holding a series of sessions over the past few weeks that culminated in approval of the 1974-75 county budget Friday night.

At this morning's session, commissioners heard reports from various county agencies and departments then approved a revised sedimentation control ordinance and appointed a Sedimentation Control Commission.

The board, in approving a revised sedimentation control law, made the county's ordinance meet state requirements.

The six-member Sedimentation control Commission named by Commissioners today will have as its job the enforcement of the ordinance.

Named to the control body were geologist Stan Riggs; developer Van Fleming III and alternate Dillon Watson; engineer Charlie Holiday; environmentalist Ann Bellis and soil conservation district supervisor Truman Haddock.

In other business, the county board approved the annual certification of volunteer firemen in the county, thus enabling the volunteer firefighters to qualify for $25,000 in death benefits from the state in the event their death results from their fire-fighting activities, and approved easements allowing the Greenville Utilities Commission to install a gas leak detection system on the site of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital and on Pitt-Greenville Airport property.

The board also approved applications for fireworks displays in Greenville and Farmville on July 4, and approved investments of county funds.

Commissioners, who were told the new county landfill on the Allen Road began operations at 9 a.m. today, approved an agreement with Southern Railway System granting the county an easement for a drainage culvert under Norfolk Southern Railroad tracks at the landfill site.

Time-Out At The Summit

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
MINSK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — President Nixon took time out today from his summit talks with Leonid I. Brezhnev for half a day of sightseeing.

American officials said the President and the Soviet Communist party chief had made no progress toward a comprehensive treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons. However, one knowledgeable official said there was still a chance of a limited agreement restricting deployment of MIRV missiles—those with multiple independently targeted warheads.

After a weekend on the Black Sea coast, the President and Mrs. Nixon flew to Minsk, the capital of Byelorussia, for lunch and the afternoon. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko returned to Moscow to continue the arms discussions, and Brezhnev also went back to his capital, to await Nixon's return tonight.

The Nixon's departure from Simferopol Airport, 65 miles from Yalta, was delayed half an hour because the car in which Mrs. Nixon was riding broke down half way. She changed cars.

Several thousand persons, smiling and waving flags, saw the President off from Yalta, and there were more thousands at the airport.

The Nixons traveled to Minsk in a Soviet plane, an Ilyushin 62, while the White House press corps followed aboard Air Force One, the President's jetliner.

Write-Off

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has written off $500 million in debts owed by Israel for U.S. military assistance in the wake of the Arab-Israeli war last October.

A White House spokesman said Sunday that Nixon signed in Moscow an authorization converting the credits to an outright grant. In April, the President had changed from loan to grant status another $1 billion in aid to Israel.

The move came at the request of Shimon Peres, the new Israeli defense minister, who just completed a three-day visit to Washington. Peres is also seeking another $7.5 billion in military assistance over the next five years, nearly all of it as grants.

The discretion to declare up to $1.5 billion as grants was given Nixon last December when Congress approved a $2.2 billion emergency package for Israel.

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

HELP FIND MY FRIEND

My very best friend had to move away from Greenville very suddenly last summer. We're both 11 years old. I have tried and tried to find out where she is so I can write to her. M.C.

Hotline learned from you that your friend's mother is a teacher. Several leads were followed, but the one that paid off was the last known address obtained from the N.C. State Retirement Office in Raleigh. You wrote to your friend at this address and received an answer soon afterward.

GARBAGE PROBLEM

Last June I paid an independent garbage collector, Howard Moore, $36 for one year's collection service. At first he came once a week, then every two weeks, then once a month and finally not at all. Now he hasn't been since before Christmas. I've called so many times I'm sick, can you help get our piled up garbage collected? Mrs. R.E.

After weeks of inquiries and trying, your report your garbage was collected early one morning recently. Hotline contacted Moore, who indicated he would contact you. Several weeks later, with the garbage still uncollected, Hotline suggested you pursue the matter through legal channels, which resulted in the resumption of your collection service.

VACATION TIME AND PAY NOT REQUIRED

People have to be employed where I work three years before they get paid vacations. Is this legal? Also, can my employer refuse to give me a vacation because I'll be leaving the company soon, and also withhold vacation pay? N.E.R.

According to J. E. Mangum of the U. S. Wage and Hour Office here, the Fair Labor Standards Act does not cover employee fringe benefits. So vacation, holiday, severance, and sick pay and length of time allowed for each are all set by company policy, not by law, he said.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

HAM—THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

The headline of a Hotline item June 26 about a citizen's band radio license read, "Ham License Late." One of our readers, Gary Ambert, set us straight:

"People who purchase a business or citizen's band radio license are not referred to as HAMS. A HAM is someone licensed by the FCC to operate an amateur radio station. There is a fee for this license, as is the case for Citizen's Band, but the applicant must pass a Morse Code and technical exam before he becomes a HAM. This distinction is important because HAMS have a long tradition of public service, especially in times of natural disaster or whenever normal communications are disrupted.

Deadly Multi-Vehicle Pileup

BODY REMOVED—Emergency workers Sunday. Eleven persons were killed and several injured. The pileup occurred as cars and trucks drove into heavy smoke from a roadside fire.

Fire Claims 24 Young People At Discotheque

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "In the beginning, there was no panic, but then the place filled up with smoke and everyone became disoriented," says a worker at a discotheque where 24 young persons died in an early morning fire.

"The place was packed because there were a lot of people home from college," added the worker. Joe Parsons Jr. of Stamford, Conn., in recounting the fatal fire early Sunday at Gulliver's Restaurant.

"Everybody started rushing toward the stairs," said Judy Grella, an 18-year-old from Bridgeport, Conn. "We couldn't see anything, we had to crawl up. I don't know how we got out of there alive."

Medical authorities said 11 women and 13 men died almost instantly of smoke inhalation and at least as many were injured.

Westchester County Executive Alfred DeBello ordered a full investigation into the fire in the roadhouse on the Connecticut-New York border in this town of 25,000 north of New York City.

Several investigators advanced the theory that the fire broke out in a store in the same building and was drawn into the discotheque by an air-conditioning system.

An attorney for the owners of the building estimated there were about 200 persons in the discotheque when the fire began.

Port Chester Fire Chief Vincent Rathgeb said he believed most of the victims suffocated swiftly. Frank R. Arbusto, chief of the Fire Prevention Bureau and head of the investigation, said other victims apparently were blinded while trying to seek exits from the split-level building.

Mayor Joseph F. Dzaluk said the most recent fire department investigation of the discotheque was conducted May 8, and no violations were reported.

County Dist. Atty Carl A. Vergari assigned his arson specialist to the case although "there is no evidence at this time that criminality was involved."

The crowd was dancing to the music of the "Creation" rock group.

According to Mayor Dzaluk, "the band leader advised people on the dance floor that they had better leave when he noticed a little smoke. However, the crowd did not leave until the smoke got more intense and he began shouting for everyone to move out immediately."

Debbie Quick, 20, of Greenwich, Conn., said she started choking on the thick-acrid smoke as she followed the crowd towards stairs leading up from the sunken dance floor.

"There were people being knocked down ahead of me," she said. "Every time I took a step up somebody pushed me down. If somebody fell, they were trampled. A girl got knocked down next to me and a guy just stepped on her and walked on."

Tell Son Of Decision On Babysitting

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I told my son and his wife I would be happy to babysit for them free of charge if anything important came up. [I'm a widow who babysits for extra money, which comes in handy these days.]

My daughter-in-law told me that a course in landscaping was offered at the high school every Thursday evening for ten weeks and she and my son wanted to take it, so I agreed to babysit while they attended these classes.

One day, their baby pulled some things out of a desk drawer, and that's when I found a receipt for dancing lessons—every Thursday night for ten weeks!

I felt so hurt and angry because I had been deceived, so I called my daughter-in-law and told her what I had learned. She laughed as if it was a big joke, then said: "Oh, how did you find out?"

I told her the truth, and she said: "Well, we didn't think you'd sit for us if you knew we were taking dancing lessons." And she acted like there was nothing wrong with what they had done.

What do you think of this, Abby? And what should I do now?
 DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: I think your son and his wife should be ashamed of themselves. Let them know you will not be available for any more free babysitting unless it's for something important, and for which they can provide proof!

DEAR ABBY: You discouraged a reader who wanted to acquire a chimpanzee for a pet, saying: "When a chimp reaches sexual maturity, he becomes frustrated, ill-tempered and unpredictable."

As an anthropologist-father of three teen-agers, I would like to point out that you can sell a mature, healthy chimp to a zoo for twice what you paid for it as an infant—or take a comparable tax deduction. Thus you have all the rewards of living with an enthusiastic, outgoing, affectionate youngster until he becomes an adolescent, after which you have your investment back as well.

On the other hand, your enthusiastic, outgoing, affectionate human youngster also becomes "frustrated, ill-tempered and unpredictable" when he reaches sexual maturity. What then? Do you know of any zoo that will make a deal?

There is much to be said in favor of raising chimps.
 NEAL KORN: VAN NUYS, CAL.

Mrs. Roy M. James of Bethel, directed the wedding. The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School. She attended Chowan College and is presently a full-time student at Pitt Technical Institute.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Rose High School, is presently employed by B & W Contracting Co.

For traveling, the bride changed into a navy and white ensemble of polyester jersey with matching accessories. She wore a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

After a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Bethel.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

Assisting at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Tetterton, Mrs. Cecil Batchelor, Mrs. Martin Batchelor, Mrs. W.F.

Miss Clarke Attends Meet In Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL—The eight-state conference "Resolved: The South Will Feed Its Hungry" was held at the University of North Carolina last week.

Over 200 persons attended the conference with approximately 40 participants from North Carolina. Miss Camille B. Clarke, R.D., consulting dietitian of the Greenville Regional Office, represented the Nutrition and Dietary Services of the N. C. State Department of Human Resources, with Mrs. Barbara A. Hughes, head.

The participants in the conference were charged with drafting a state-by-state hunger plan for the south.

The WIC (women, infants and children) program was discussed. This is a supplementary foods program and applications from county health departments can be forwarded to Nutrition and Dietary Services in Raleigh. Assistance in preparation of forms can be received from the Greenville Regional Office.

DEAR SIR: That's what I need in my column—more "korn." Paging Malcolm S. Forbes: How about doing a story in Forbes on the tax advantages of raising chimps instead of kids? Or do you think the country has had enough tax-deductible monkey business?

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Love Chimps" that, if she really loves them, she will forget about acquiring one for a pet, and she'll leave them where they belong—in the wild.

Tell her that the baby chimp she thinks is so cute was pulled off its dead mother's breast. [To capture a wild baby chimpanzee, its mother must be killed!]

And please tell her that, if she really loves chimps, she will support her local zoo. Also, if she can afford to contribute a little something to a nonprofit, tax-exempt foundation, dedicated to study, preservation and propagation of the chimpanzee, to consider the Primate Foundation of Arizona, P. ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS)—Tourist Phyllis Zeldkins, 27, was on her way to the police station to report her car stolen when she discovered it parked two blocks from her hotel. Miss Zeldkins never got to the police station. "How can I complain about such courteous thieves?" she asked. "They had filled the gas tank, which was almost empty when I left it outside the hotel the night before."

A Kindergarten Breakthrough

It appears that the Greenville city schools are very close to the goal of providing kindergarten training for local children.

Next year the city schools will operate 11, or possibly 12 kindergarten classes for a maximum enrollment of 312 pupils.

Six kindergarten classes will be financed by state funds and will be located in each of the six elementary schools. Another five or six kindergarten classes will be financed with Title I federal funds and will be placed at all schools but Third Street. An additional class could be placed at South Greenville.

Students will be assigned by school zones and authorities believe the 312 maximum will be adequate to take care of all kindergarten aged youngsters. If a school is filled, those who can attend will be determined by lottery and those eliminated will be offered space in another school district until all the places are filled.

We hope that this system will mean that all kindergarten aged pupils will be able to attend kindergarten next fall, and in the years ahead this will become a regular part of the public school program.

Kindergarten training gives children a highly important start on their formal education, and it is unfortunate that any child might not obtain this early training at this time.

The city-wide kindergarten program scheduled for next fall represents a real breakthrough for public education in our community. We think it is a development that anyone interested in education should enthusiastically welcome.

John Lang's Passing Is Sad Blow To Many

Our area is saddened by the death of Gen. John A. Lang, Jr., vice chancellor for external affairs at East Carolina University.

Gen. Lang died last week. He had had a long and distinguished career of military and public service. His last years were devoted to serving East Carolina University and his home state as vice chancellor at ECU.

Gen. Lang will be missed by the university, the local community and the entire state.

Impasse Poses Deadly Threat

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
MOSCOW—Behind a plash outward signs of cordiality greeting President Nixon here yesterday, there is no evidence of a break in the dangerous deadlock between the weakened President and the high-riding Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev on the crucial nuclear weapons question.

Indeed, it will take something close to a miracle for Mr. Nixon and his beleaguered Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to dent, much less break, the strategic weapons impasse now confronting the U.S. with a military-psychological threat unmatched in post-war history.

That threat was clearly spelled out in Kissinger's detailed presentation to Mr. Nixon and the National Security Council (NSC) in the White House last Thursday.

Using charts to show the potential explosion in numbers of Soviet long-range missile warheads starting in 1975, Kissinger's top-secret briefing posed this deadly threat: if Moscow moves ahead full speed to maximize production and deployment of its newly-tested cluster missiles (capable of carrying between 3 and 8 individually-targeted warheads or MIRVs on a single missile), the U.S. could find itself on the short end of a 6 to 1 Soviet lead in simultaneously launchable intercontinental warheads.

Any such frightening Soviet decision to "de-stabilize" the balance of offensive nuclear power agreed to in the 1972 "interim agreement" might conceivably mean its abrogating the agreement itself in 1975, two years before it runs out. That prospect, admittedly remote, has nevertheless been discussed within the U.S. government as a further hypothetical hazard.

Accordingly, the immense political and psychological advantages that would accrue to Moscow if it did decide to maximize its new technology by deploying its giant MIRV-able missiles (the SS-17, 18 and 19) as fast as possible are causing deepest concern.

Moreover, Kissinger's strenuous efforts to convince Brezhnev and Co. that the mere threat of this potential imbalance is unacceptable to the U.S. have failed. Although Kissinger told the NSC that Brezhnev may now be "intellectually prepared" to understand the absolute necessity of a ceiling on MIRV deployment, there is no guarantee Moscow will play along.

The very minimum deal, according to high American officials, would be agreement by Moscow limiting deployment of the giant new missiles to a maximum of 70 to 80 launchers a year, starting next year. As computed by Pentagon strategists, the maximum deployment rate could run higher than 200 a year. These would, of course, replace the existing generation of Soviet missile launchers with their single warheads.

The arithmetic is staggering. At maximum production and deployment rates, the Russians could deploy no fewer than 23,000 warheads or RVs (re-entry vehicles) on MIRV missiles if each warhead were arbitrarily limited to an explosive force of 40 kilotons. At the same 40-kiloton payload, the U.S. by contrast would have only 4,500 warheads on its own, far less powerful MIRV missiles. And this could be accomplished without breaking the 1972 "interim" agreement.

Yet the "intellectual" breakthrough and the hard negotiating on ceilings on RVs that Mr. Nixon is striving for may be far off. If so, the President will go to Congress on his return to warn that immediate escalation of U.S. strategic weapons programs is essential.

Slippage in the negotiating process since the Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement (SALT) was signed two years ago, including the interim offensive agreement, hints at intentional Soviet policy of continued deadlock.

It has been forgotten, for example, that the June 1973 Washington summit produced the "basic principles of negotiations on the further limitation of strategic offensive arms." Explaining it, Kissinger said then that "it states a deadline for the completion of the agreement in 1974."

"The two leaders would not have made this formal statement," Kissinger said then, "if they did not believe that this goal was attainable."

In fact, it is clearly not "attainable." Instead, the American objective has been drastically scaled down: Persuading the Russians to grasp the point that the U.S. cannot accept the destabilizing impact of all-out Soviet deployment of MIRV missiles. But Brezhnev may calculate that the scandal-weakened American President is too eager to avoid a setback in detente, his main defense against impeachment, to risk the showdown that seems to be so essential here.

A Question Of Amnesty

PARIS—While some things have changed in Paris in the last few years, the Frenchman's love affair with his car remains as strong as ever. It is a known fact that if you knock down a Frenchman's wife he will apologize to you, but if you scratch the fender of his automobile he will kill you.

The streets of Paris have remained the same size, but the number of vehicles in the city has increased 300 per cent. This presents a slight parking problem. But the French driver has solved in with typical Gallic ingenuity. He drives to his destination, gets out of his car and leaves it right in the middle of the street. If there are too many cars already parked in the middle of the street he'll park it on the sidewalk, and if there is no room on the sidewalk, he'll just drive it into a sidewalk cafe and leave it on your table.

The death of President Pompidou had a tremendous emotional effect on all of France. But French automobile owners were probably more affected by it than anyone else. It seems in France, when a new president is elected, amnesty is granted to everyone who committed a minor crime. Since most crimes in this country have to do with cars, France mourned the passing of its president by violating every traffic law in the book.

From the moment President Pompidou's demise was announced to the day Giscard d'Estaing was sworn in as the new president, the French showed their sorrow.

Instead of tearing their clothes as they do in some countries, the French people tore up their traffic tickets. In Paris there are meter maids called "les aubergines" (eggplants) because the color of their uniforms resembles that of an eggplant.

When an "eggplant" warned a driver that he had failed to put money in a parking meter, the Frenchman, with tears in his eyes, would say, "Our president is gone, and you know where you can go."

All during the period of mourning, the French went through red lights, broke the speed limits and drove in the wrong direction on one-way streets. Whenever they were stopped by a policeman, the drivers would laugh

Non-Tar Heels In GOP Ranks

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A Democratic leader in the state Senate quipped the other day that he was not too surprised at the in-house switch by Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr., in replacing his secretary of administration.

"After all, it just proves they have a hard time finding that many Republicans around here," the senator snorted.

He was jesting, he insisted. But a look at the record shows his comment to be not far from the truth.

Of all the top posts in state government filled by elected officials, all are Democrats—and all are native North Carolinians; barring, of course, the governor who is a native, but a Republican.

Of all the top posts in state government filled by appointed officials who are Republicans—only one is a native North Carolinian.

Now North Carolina is a state which prides herself on adopting to its bosom and making good use of imported talent. Even the state song points out that in this goodly land, "the weak grow strong and the strong grow great."

But while it has no great significance, here is a rundown on those officials who are running the state's government on a day-to-day basis.

The Democrats, all elected officials, are Thad Eure, secretary of state, native of Gates County; Henry Lee Bridge, auditor, native of Franklin County; Edwin M. Gill, treasurer, native of Lenoir County; A. Craig Phillips, superintendent of public instruction, native of Greensboro; Robert Morgan, attorney general, native of Lillington; James A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture, native of Rowan County; William C. Creel, commissioner of labor, native of Wake County; and John R. Ingram, commissioner of insurance, native of Randolph County.

Then, come those appointed from Republican ranks by Gov. Holshouser:

David T. Flaherty, secretary of human resources, Boston, Mass.;

Bruce A. Lentz, secretary of transportation, Lancaster, Pa.; Scott Harvey, secretary of commerce, Salina, Kans.; James E. Harrington, secretary of natural and economic resources, Bethlehem, New Hampshire; Grace J. Rohrer, secretary of cultural resources, Chicago.

One appointee who is a native of North Carolina doesn't count on this list—he is a Democrat. That is outgoing secretary of administration, William L. Bondurant of Winston-Salem.

The only native Tar Heel in a top slot who is a Republican is David L. Jones, secretary of social rehabilitation and control, who was born in New Bern.

One incoming appointee, Troy Doby, who replaces Lentz at transportation as Bondurant's vacant desk, is also a native of North Carolina—a Kannapolis man.

Another man high on the list of powerful people in Raleigh holds no official cabinet ranking, but is nonetheless considered the top man in the Holshouser administration. That is Gene Anderson who is a native of Marshalltown, Iowa.

The governor will improve his Tar Heel boxscore, however, when Charlotte native James Carson becomes attorney general in August.

In olden days, the scornful term "carpetbagger" was used to describe Yankees who came South and took over running things. You seldom hear that epithet hurled at the modern breed of state official, despite the heritage. Seldom, please note, doesn't mean never, and long-time Democrats in Raleigh will still dust off that devastating description from time to time.

Most of the officials, however, point to long years of service to industry and civic affairs in North Carolina despite their non-native status.

Dave Flaherty, for instance, recently returned from a meeting of human resources directors from across the nation which was

THE MODEL

It was said that Leonardo da Vinci searched for many months before he found someone to sit as model for the picture of Christ in that great painting, The Last Supper. Finally he chose a young singer whose face was as beautiful as his life was pure.

Da Vinci did not complete the painting at that time and years later was looking for a model from which he could paint Judas Iscariot into the picture. According to the story, da Vinci found in the slums of Florence a man of such desperate and degraded countenance that he appeared to be a fitting model for Judas. To da Vinci's amazement he found that this man was the same who had modeled for the figure of Jesus years before. Dissipation and evil living had so marred his countenance that the one-time representative of the Saviour had become the image of the betrayer.

Bitter Taste In Sugar Prices

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar is leaving a bitter taste in some people's mouths this year. For others, it's sweeter than usual.

Since September, sugar prices have tripled, making consumers pay up to $2 for five pounds of the natural sweetener, as well as boosting prices for prepared foods which contain sugar.

And while the individual consumer's over-all bill for sugar may still not exceed $30 annually, the increase is creating serious problems for soft-drink and candy manufacturers who need it in vast quantities.

A year ago the cost of refined sugar was around 10 cents a pound. Now it's jumped to 32 cents a pound, the highest level since World War I.

"If prices would just come down to 20 cents a pound I'd love it," says one businessman who recalls 3-cent-a-pound sugar. "If prices would only stabilize we could handle it," says another industrial consumer.

Life Savers Inc. boosted the price of its candy rolls from 10 to 15 cents this month, blaming a tripling in sugar prices. Other candy makers warn that 20- and 25-cent candy bars are coming if sugar prices remain up.

Poor weather, increasing demand in developing countries and slow production expansion are considered the primary reasons for the tight sugar markets and resulting high prices.

Analysts say commodity speculation and the playing of one market against another by producers have also pushed up prices.

F.O. Licht, the leading sugar statistical firm, estimates that 1974 production of 81 million tons will again lag consumption by some 800,000 tons.

As a result, industry analysts see little likelihood that sugar prices will fall much soon.

Analysts and businessmen appear ambivalent about the demise of the U.S. Sugar Act, whose 40-year history was ended recently by Congress. Some say its death helped boost

Future Board Strains

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — There are reasons to celebrate in Chapel Hill as the University of North Carolina system celebrates its second birthday today.

The Board of Governors has established its ability to present a comprehensive budget for the 16 campuses and win legislative approval. It has prepared a desegregation plan that won the approval of the federal bureaucracy.

But in its biggest test to date, the board failed. That was, of course, the legislature's decision to expand the medical school at East Carolina University.

And as they observe the anniversary today, the board members are aware that issues as potentially damaging to them as the ECU question are brewing within the system.

The less troublesome of the two is veterinary education. Before adjourning, the 1974 legislature passed a resolution calling on the board to study the advisability of establishing a state veterinary school and report in 1975.

North Carolinians currently attend five out-of-state veterinary schools for their training in a program coordinated by the Southern Regional Education Board.

There is now strong pressure building among agricultural interests to build a school in the state. The SREB has recommended, however, that North Carolina enter into a cooperative agreement with Virginia, which currently is studying the possibility of building a school at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

A dispute could develop between those who want a veterinary school at N.C. State University come hell or high water and those who feel that the cooperative arrangement with Virginia will serve the state's needs at less cost. Estimated price for a veterinary school in Raleigh is $25 million.

But at least there is no serious rivalry between campuses for the veterinary school. That is not the case with a law school.

The local board of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte has requested that its campus be considered for a law school.

ECU chancellor Leo Jenkins says he is beginning to feel the same groundswell of support for a law school at Greenville that sustained his drive for a medical school.

"One person has said he will donate the money for a library if we can get a law school here," Jenkins said. "Now I don't want to see headlines saying 'Jenkins Wants Law School.'"

"But when you have qualified men and women who want to go to law school and can't, obviously you have a problem. It should be studied."

The aspirations of both Greenville and Charlotte, however, are likely to face resistance in Chapel Hill.

For one thing, UNC administrators say, the nation's law schools are already producing more lawyers than the economy can absorb.

For another, they feel a commitment to improve the existing law school at predominantly black North Carolina Central University in Durham. That commitment is buttressed by the knowledge that the Department of Health Education and Welfare will insist on it.

Demo Telethon Attains $7 Million In Pledges

By The Associated Press
With musical and dramatic Americana, plus some old-fashioned pleading, the Democratic party amassed about $7 million in pledges during a 21-hour telethon. The estimated total would top last year's pledges by about $1.5 million.

The weekend extravaganza that ended Sunday was said to be one of the longest single shows in the history of network television.

Callers were still phoning in pledges as the telethon ended in the Western states at 11 p.m. EDT Sunday.

Party spokesmen said it would be two days before final figures were in, but they expected the total to top $7 million. Cost of the air time and other expenses were expected to be $2.5 million.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota was the master of ceremonies and was joined for most of the time by Democratic National committee chairman Robert Strauss.

California led all states with $709,654 as the party exceeded the results of its 1973 telethon, when $5.4 million in pledges was raised during an eight-hour program.

Viewers were told that two-thirds of the money would go to state party organizations. The remaining one-third will go to the Democratic National Committee, which still owes $2.5 million from the 1968 campaign.

Balloons popped from the ceiling of the CBS studio in Los Angeles as the telethon ended, and participants and audience members clapped, cheered and sang along with the theme song, "Answer, America."

News of the slaying of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. in Atlanta brought a brief note of sadness to the otherwise festive atmosphere. The telethon was stopped for a moment of silence.

Entertainment came from The Establishment, balladeer Don McLean; pop singers Eartha Kitt, Helen Reddy and co-hostess Della Reese; screen stars Paul Newman, Cliff Robertson, E.G. Marshall, Tony Randall, Bette Davis and newly married Robert Vaughn.

There were dramatic monologues about patriotism and past Democratic presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Harry S. Truman.

Political satire was generally light but the Democrats poked some fun at the Watergate scandal.

Food Stamp Rules Eased

RALEIGH (AP)—A family of four with a net income as high as $500 a month is eligible for food stamps under liberalized regulations that go into effect today, state officials say.

"It is now possible for a working father with a wife and two children to earn considerably more than $6,000 a year and still be eligible for food stamps," said Dr. Renee Hill, director of the state services division of the Department of Human Resources.

"Of course, he would have to pay more cash because of his comparatively high income, but he will still be getting a bargain."

A family of four with little or no income would pay nothing and still receive $150 in coupons, she said.

Dr. Hill said persons need not be on welfare to receive food stamps.

"With food prices higher than ever before in our nation's history, the relief offered by use of food coupons can take the consumer back to the prices he spent years ago," she said.

The food stamp program is operational in all 100 counties, she added.

hysterically and say, "Don't give me one ticket; give me 10. I want to make the amnesty worthwhile."

There are very few countries that know how to take advantage of the changing of presidents.

It occurred to me, as I talked about those wonderful 35 days with my French friends, that the United States might be able to adopt the amnesty procedure to its own crisis.

One of the major questions of Watergate is what will happen to President Nixon if he is tried and found guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors. There is also the problem of all the trials of people involved with the Watergate scandal.

Why not pass a law that, when a new American President is sworn in, all the people who had anything to do with Watergate would automatically be given amnesty?

By the stroke of a pen, President Ford would absolve everyone of any crime having to do with dirty politics, obstruction of justice and perjury.

The slate would be wiped clean and the United States, as France is doing now, would begin a new era of hope, joy and optimism.

If France can forgive and forget the crimes of 40 million French drivers, surely we in the United States can do the same for a few hundred misguided souls in Washington.

He took a lot of kidding from friends, Flaherty said, who insisted they couldn't understand a word he was saying in his Southern accent.

Another common thread can be found in GOP heirarchy: the Lenoir-based empire of the Broyhill furniture manufacturing operation.

Lentz and Flaherty both are former employees, the chief is U.S. Rep. James Broyhill, and his brother-in-law William Stevens is the Republican nominee for election to the U.S. Senate.

of the board say they have learned a lesson from the ECU defeat. They intend to involve members of the legislature in their planning process from the beginning. Hopefully, that will make it easier for them to sell the plans they develop to the General Assembly.

It may be more difficult to arouse public support for veterinary and law schools. Sick animals don't vote, and only Leo Jenkins appears to detect a public outcry for more lawyers.

The pressures, nonetheless, exist. And the board, as it enters its third year, has yet to prove conclusively that it can understand them.

Willie Bell To Retire July 12

Willie Bell, Chief Dog Warden for Pitt County will be retiring July 12, Pitt County Community Health Department Director, Roger J. Barnaby announced today.

"Mr. Bell has devoted 22 years to safeguarding the public from rabies through his surveillance of stray dogs and promotion of annual rabies vaccination," Barnaby said. "The fact that rabies is not currently a public health problem in Pitt County is due primarily to Mr. Bell's vigilance."

Bell was hired by the County Commissioners in September of 1952 to organize the first county-wide program to control rabies in Pitt County. Bell recalls that to launch the program he canvassed house to house to locate all unvaccinated dogs. Since then, Bell explained there have been no local cases of rabid dogs other than one dog brought in from another county. "The local veterinarians, the county officials and the public," Bell commented "have always been very cooperative so that we have been able to keep rabies out of Pitt County."

Bell, a Pitt County native, said he was born in Belvoir in 1909 "in the living room of the house where I now live," and attended Belvoir School. He is married to the former Athleen Harrington, has five children, 13 grandchildren, and three great grandchildren.

Board Adopted 'Model Health Department'

County Manager Reginald Gray and Health Director Roger J. Barnaby presented the final edition of the Health Department's budget for the coming fiscal year at a meeting of the County Board of Health Tuesday night.

Approval was given by the Board for recommendation to the County Commissioners for adoption, an action which was taken Friday. With Pitt's becoming one of the state's "Model Health Departments," approximately one half of the budget is being financed by the state.

Earl Trevathan, M.D., Medical Consultant to the department, requested and received approval for two programs (1) new procedures for the department's X-raying to be provided under contract with The Eastern Radiological Inc. to take effect in the near future; and (2) a new program providing for providing the health care of prisoners in Pitt County jails. Dr. Trevathan reported that Pitt County's plan for prisoner health care has received high praise from the eastern-area jail consultant for the State Department of Human Resources, Harold Leary.

Willie Pate, Director of Environmental Health, reviewed a recent application of the Public Health Nuisance Act to a local poultry farm which is now moving to correct the situation as requested. Pate also mentioned a study his division is conducting in the town of Falkland with assistance from East Carolina University, Department of Environmental Health, School of Allied Health, to identify the types of mosquitoes in the area.

Chairman Gaskins reported upon a very productive meeting the health department held with public works of municipalities and private solid waste collectors to discuss the operation of the county's new sanitary landfill on road 1703 effective July 1. Health Director Barnaby reported that Chief Dog Warden Willie Bell has requested retirement effective July 12 and he is currently on vacation leave. The Board accepted Mr. Bell's resignation with regret, noting his 22 years of service.

Reviewing Rabies Program
Barnaby reported that a vector control section is being created in the Environmental Health Division to supervise the rabies control program for the county. He then recommended, the board approved, the establishment of an ad hoc committee to review the current rabies control program and to make suggestions for innovative operations and moderate capital construction. Samuel T. White, III, O.D. was named chairman and other members will be selected to represent Pitt County veterinarians, the Humane Society and the general public. The committee will have access to consultation from the State

Veterinarian, Dr. John Freeman.

Director of Personal Health Service, Mrs. Terri Lawler, reported to the Board on the progress being made to combat Pitt County's poor showing in both infant loss and sickness and in complications of pregnancy. The department is taking the team approach. Mrs. Lawler explained, combining the talents of the pediatric nurse practitioner, the maternal and child health nurse coordinator, the school nurses, and the student nurse visiting team from East Carolina University School of Nursing. According to Mrs. Lawler, beginning in March, 43 babies under six months of age are now being followed in the high risk infant clinic every other week, and there have been three graduates who progressed so well that they can now receive regular child care services. During the month of May, the nurse coordinator visited in the hospital and/or at home; 53 high risk pregnant women, 94 infants under one year, and 16 children under four. Special services for the 31 adolescent expectant mothers 15 years of age or younger were launched this month to provide weekly physical assessment and health instruction.

Migrant Program
Gaskins called upon Pate and Mrs. Lawler to comment on the plans for this summer's migrant health program. Approximately 300-400 migrants, mostly young single males, are expected to work in tobacco harvest on Pitt County farms this summer. A Sanitarian Technician has been employed for the summer to work with the farmers to see that living quarters and sanitary facilities meet public health standards. In addition, two volunteers have been recruited to work with the migrants and farmers arranging for any necessary medical or dental treatment by private physicians which the state will reimburse.

The volunteer will also provide health instruction as part of the Department of Education's week-end school-recreation program.

Barnaby introduced Health Educator, Miss Doris Davenport, who has been loaned to the department from the School of Allied Health and will have a joint appointment as of July 1. Miss Davenport reported upon the department's first formal program of orientation for new employees.

Prior to the meeting, the staff of the Health Department joined the Board members for a dinner on the Health Department grounds.

Creeping Swamp Stream Not To Be Channelized

Ex-Convict Sought In Death Of Priest

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP)—An ex-convict from Liberty, Mo., is sought for questioning in the death of a Roman Catholic priest who was found gagged and tied spreadeagled to the bedposts in his rectory last Friday night, according to Police Chief Kyle M. Gentry.

Gentry said William Rowland Roberts, 37, has not been charged in the death of the Rev. Francis T. Donahue. "He's just a suspect at this time," the chief said Sunday.

Authorities said there were no wounds or bruises on the body of Father Donahue, and that he either died of strangulation or a heart attack.

The 64-year-old priest had suffered a heart attack some time ago, authorities said.

The state medical examiner's office at Chapel Hill performed an autopsy, but the results were incomplete.

Gentry said a man matching Roberts' description was seen in the vicinity of St. John's Catholic Church on Friday.

He said Roberts, who was on parole from a federal prison, is wanted in connection with the theft of a car, which was found wrecked and abandoned in North Wilkesboro last Thursday.

Gentry described Roberts as about six feet tall, weighing about 175 pounds, with blond hair.

Swamp area to justify the high cost of the planned stream improvements in that area which included $50,000 worth of fish and wildlife migration measures.

Second, that Creeping Swamp is the only stream in the entire watershed that has not been previously channelized and the farmers recognize the advantages of preserving the natural swamp conditions that exist there.

The landowners also decided to make no change in their original request to the Soil Conservation Service to design the project so as to provide flood protection against a five-year 24-hour frequency storm. A motion had been offered to request a reduction in the level of protection along main canals from 5-year to 2-year frequency storm so as to better meet recommendations made by biologists of federal and state conservation agencies. The decision was decided by a margin of only one vote. The landowners did authorize the Soil Conservation Service to incorporate in the design conservation measures that would improve the environmental aspects of the channel improvement work.

Roy Beck, SCS District Conservationist at Greenville, told the assembled landowners that their decision to change the Swift Creek Watershed Project would have to be approved by their official governing bodies of Pitt County Drainage District No. 3; Pitt County; Beaufort Soil and Water Conservation District; Craven Soil and Water Conservation District; and Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District. As soon as the Soil Conservation Service receives copies of concurring resolutions, it will prepare a supplemental watershed work plan agreement to be signed by the watershed project sponsors. The Soil Conservation Service will then proceed with preparation of an environmental impact statement for Swift Creek Watershed Project based on the local landowners' latest decisions, Beck concluded.

MRS. JANTJIES PREFERS 19TH CENTURY NOUPOORT, South Africa (AP)—Mrs. Lena Jantjies celebrated her 131st birthday recently. The mulatto woman produced a birth certificate issued on April 17, 1843, in the coastal town of Port Nolloth. Her sight and hearing are good, she said, and she has no serious ailments.

She does not fully comprehend the 20th century, however. Mrs. Jantjies says "electricity is not right. Why use light that is false when God has given us matches."

ONE TO TWO
TUCSON (UPI)—According to the Animal Science Department at the University of Arizona, feedlots in the state handled 919,000 head of cattle in 1973. That's about one animal per two human residents of the state.

Royals Battle From Behind To Defeat Oakland, Hunter, 8-7

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Baseball managers are an optimistic breed but you could not blame Kansas City's Jack McKeon if he didn't see the bright side against Oakland.

"We're down 4-0 and only one hit against Catfish Hunter," said McKeon, considering the situation his Royals faced in the sixth inning of Sunday's game. Kansas City had won two of the first three games in the weekend series, so McKeon wasn't feeling too terrible. "You start thinking you'll settle for a tie in the series," he admitted.

But the Royals had other ideas. "You have to give our guys credit," McKeon continued. "There was some kind of atmosphere in the dugout."

It got even better when the Royals kayoed Hunter for five runs in the sixth and then came from behind twice more to defeat the American League West Division leaders 8-7.

Elsewhere in the league Sunday, Cleveland battered Boston 9-2, Baltimore shut out New York 3-0, Texas walloped California 9-2, Chicago split a doubleheader with Minnesota, winning 8-3 and then losing 6-3, and Milwaukee divided a pair with Detroit, winning 4-1 before losing 3-2.

The win put the Royals within 2½ games of the A's.

Rangers 9, Angels 2
Texas also moved within 2½ games of the A's by whacking California.

The Rangers, top hitting team in the majors, exploded for six runs in a wild fifth inning capped by Cesar Tovar's two-run single.

Indians 9, Red Sox 2
George Hendrick poked a three-run homer, helping Cleveland slug Boston and moving the Indians within 2½ games of first-place Boston after three victories in their four-game series with the Red Sox.

Brewers 4-2, Tigers 1-3
Jim Northrup drove in two runs with a first-inning homer and then helped Detroit build another with a third-inning single as the Tigers defeated Milwaukee 3-2 in the second game of a doubleheader. The Brewers had taken the opener 4-1 despite being held hitless for five innings by Woodie Fryman.

Orioles 3, Yankees 0
Mike Cuellar tossed a six-hitter and Baltimore shut out New York for the second straight game. The Orioles scored all their runs with the aid of an error and a balk.

Twins 3-6, White Sox 8-3
Jorge Orta ripped six hits including five straight in the first game as the Chicago White Sox split a doubleheader with Minnesota, winning the opener 8-3 but dropping the second 6-3.

Orta's first-game hits gave him eight straight, including three in Saturday night's game. His streak ended in the first inning of the nightcap.

National League scores:
Pittsburgh 11-3, Philadelphia 8-2; St. Louis 5-5, New York 2-3; Montreal 10, Chicago 2; Atlanta 7, Cincinnati 3; Los Angeles 5, San Francisco 3; Houston 3-5, San Diego 1-6.

Taff, Farmville Win

Taff Office Equipment scored three times in the bottom of the eighth to steal a 5-4 win from Ayden-Grifton in Senior Babe Ruth action Saturday night.

A-G had scored twice in the top of the eighth to take a 4-2 lead. With one out Rieky Cannon reached on an error. With two down, Ronnie Salmon was hit by a pitch, and Johnny Willis rapped into an error to score two runs.

Taff came back to win in the bottom of the frame when five successive batters reached on walks to score two runs, and Mel Boyd walked to bring Pete Cullop home with the winner.

A-G took the initial lead in the second when Randy Nelson singled, went to second on an error, moved to third on a passed ball, and scored on a two-out singled by Tommy Cannon. Taff got the run back in the bottom of the fourth when Cullop singled, stole second, moved to third on an infield out, and scored on Jimmy Buck's double.

Ayden-Grifton got the run back in the fifth. Johnny Willis doubled, went to third on a passed ball, and scored on Tom Craft's single. Taff came back again to knot the score when Boyd walked, moved up on a passed ball, stole third, and scored on John Causey's infield out.

BOSTON (AP) — Catcher Carlton Fisk of the Boston Red Sox was in good condition today, after surgery on his left knee that probably will sideline him for the rest of the season.

Reversing his earlier appraisal of the injury, Red Sox team physician Thomas Tierney said it is "possible, but highly unlikely" that Fisk could play again this season.

Tierney made the assessment of Fisk's condition several hours after a 90-minute operation Sunday at Hahnemann Hospital to repair torn ligaments and remove torn cartilage in Fisk's knee.

Williams Returns; Bombers, Long Road Ahead

By HOWARD ULMAN
Associated Press Writer

ANAHEIM (AP) — Dick Williams is happy to be back in the saddle. But his ride that begins tonight promises to be a lot rougher than some he's had on in the past.

The man who managed the Oakland Athletics to back-to-back World Series victories in 1972 and 1973 assumes the job as manager of the limping California Angels, hoping to guide them from the cellar of the American League West.

Reggie Jackson, Sal Bando and many more of the Athletics he led during the championship years will be in the opposite dugout.

"It should be an exciting experience. I respect the club. I do know the club quite well," Williams said of the Athletics. "I hope that can be of some benefit."

"I expect to have an enjoyable evening."

Williams quit the Oakland job after the 1973 World Series and

Bombers, St. Peter Split

The Belvoir Bombers and the St. Peter's Pirates split games of a doubleheader yesterday afternoon. St. Peter's won the first game, 5-0, while Belvoir took the nightcap, 6-2.

St. Peter's scored all they needed in the second when James Battle walked, stole his way to third, and eventually scored home. They then added one run in the fourth and fifth innings, and two in the sixth.

The Bombers took the second game with a three-run spurt in the sixth inning. They took the lead in the fourth when Marvin Hardy walked and came around on a fielder's choice, and a single by Ben Johnson. St. Peter's scored their only runs in the sixth. Curt Sneed singled and scored on James Grimes' double. Grimes eventually scored on a sacrifice and a fly ball.

Post 39 Loses To Williamston

Williamston's American Legion Club spotted Greenville two runs in the first inning, then stormed ahead for four run-scoring innings as they defeated Post 39, 10-3, at Harrington Field Saturday night.

Greenville picked up those quick runs as Al Heath and Griff Garner singled successively. Heath scored on an infield out by Robert Brinkley, and Garner scored on a single by Macon Moye.

After that spurt, Greenville got one runner as far as third in the fourth inning, but he soon died there. Williamston committed three errors in the stretch between the first and the eighth, but the errors did no harm until the eighth, when Greenville picked up their final run. Brinkley walked, moved around when he was almost caught between a double play, and scored on Kelly Heath's single.

Williamston started their scoring in the fifth. Jimmy Stalls singled with one out, moved up

A WINNING KISS—Tom and Linda Watson share a victory kiss at the Butler National Golf Club in Chicago suburb Oak Brook, Ill. Sunday. Watson had just won the Western Open, shooting a final round 69 to finish with a three over par 287. Besides the kiss, Watson won $40,000. (AP Wirephoto)

Tom Watson Fires 69 To Win Western Open

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — It was a new situation for Tom Watson.

He didn't have to explain how victory had eluded him, a role he'd endured so many times before.

"Don't anybody ask me 'what happened?'" he happily cautioned the assembled press in the wake of his dramatic, come-from-behind victory in the Western Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

Watson, a 24-year-old redhead who had been so close so many times before, came from six strokes back with a last-round 69—the best score of the day—to nail down his first professional triumph by two strokes over J.C. Snead and struggling Tom Weiskopf.

Watson's total was 287, three strokes over par on the ultratough Butler National Golf Club course. It marked the third consecutive week on the pro tour that the winning score was in plus-par figures, the first time in recent history that had happened.

Snead had a 72 in gusty winds and third-round leader Weiskopf blew to an incredible 77, including 41 on the back nine and a bogey-double bogey finish.

"I have no excuses," said Weiskopf, who led Snead by five strokes and Watson by six when the day's play started. "I played very poorly."

"Playing as poorly as I did, I didn't deserve to win."

"It finally happened," exuded Watson, who resembles a Tom Sawyer who grew up. "I could have won four times this year. I led twice the year before."

"I never doubted I could win. I knew it was just a matter of time."

"But, man, this is a great feeling."

Only Watson, Weiskopf and

Snead were in contention in the last round. U.S. Open Champion Hale Irwin came on to take fourth with a 72-293. Arnold Palmer had a 74-294 and tied for fifth with Gene Littler, Larry Nelson and Butch Baird. Nelson and Littler had 71s and Baird 75.

Watson collected $40,000 from the total purse of $200,000, pushing his winnings to $126,000 for the year, fourth on the money-winning list for the year.

Watson led through three rounds of the U.S. Open just two weeks ago—then shot a demoralizing 79 in the last round.

"But this," he said, "makes it worthwhile."

Disputed Call Gives Cards First Of Two Over Mets

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Did he or didn't he? Only Reggie Smith knows for sure.

Chris Pelekoudas and Paul Pryor, the umpires who disagreed on the crucial play with two out in the ninth inning that prevented the New York Mets from nipping the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3, weren't certain.

"Man, there's no way that was a trap," said Smith, whose shoestring lunge for Cleon Jones' liner was finally ruled a legal catch. "The only way you can trap a ball is if the glove is up and down. I had it flat on the grass. No way that was a trap. No way it could've been. I had it."

And when Bake McBride tagged Tug McGraw for a two-run homer an inning later, the Cardinals had a 5-3 triumph and a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader. They took the opener 5-2.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Pittsburgh Pirates took a pair from the Philadelphia Phillies 11-8 and 3-2, the Los Angeles Dodgers shaded the San Francisco Giants 5-3, the Atlanta Braves downed the Cincinnati Reds 7-3, the Montreal Expos flattened the Chicago Cubs 10-2 and the San Diego Padres edged Houston 6-5 in 11 innings after the Astros took the opener 3-1.

As the diving Smith rolled over and held his glove aloft with the ball nestled in it, Pelekoudas, the first base umpire, signaled a hit. But Pryor, umpiring at second, was signaling out. A taped replay showed Smith appeared to trap the ball.

Pirates 11-3, Phillies 8-2
Richie Zisk's two-run homer capped a three-run eighth inning in the nightcap for Pittsburgh after the Pirates held on to win the opener despite a seven-run Philadelphia rally in the ninth inning.

Dodgers 5, Giants 3
Bill Buckner hit a tie-breaking two-run homer in the eighth inning. It was his third of the season, all against the Giants, who have lost all three outings under new Manager Wes Westrum.

Braves 7, Reds 3
Carl Morton scattered six hits after a rocky first inning in which he gave up hits to the first three batters, all of whom scored. The Braves erupted for four runs in the fifth.

Expos 10, Cubs 2
Mike Jorgensen's two-run homer capped a four-run burst in the first inning and Ron Fairly slammed a three-run homer in the Expos' five-run eighth. Billy Williams and Jerry Morales homered off Steve Rogers for the Chicago runs.

Astros 3-5, Padres 1-6
Houston reliever Jerry Johnson walked Horace Clarke with the bases loaded in the 11th inning to force across the winning run in the nightcap.

In the opener, the Astros collected all their runs and all three hits in the sixth inning, capped by Lee May's homer.

A full day's play on Saturday restored some sense of order, but the All-England Championships went into their second week with all the seeds intact in both men's and women's singles—a postwar record that seems to owe more to the rain than the rankings.

Weathermen forecast clouds and showers for the resumption of play today but there were hopes the tournament would get back on course with 29 scheduled singles matches to complete the final 16 in each divisions.

Members of the Pacific Coast Club won't compete in the meet because of a dispute with the AAU. That knocks out world record holders Al Feuerbach (shot put) and Dwight Stones (high jump, plus champions Jim Bolding (intermediate hurdles) and John Powell (discus) and talented women's runner Francie Larrieu.

Stev Prefontaine and Paul Geis, both outstanding 5,000 meter runners, passed up the AAU meet; the year's top miler, Tony Waldrop of North Carolina, didn't compete because of an injury; and 10,000-meter winner Frank Shorter declined an invitation to face the Soviets.

"I think a great deal of all those people and I'm disappointed they're not here," Carnes said. "It would have made winning easier. But I don't have to use that as an excuse. We do have the best available talent and I really think we can beat them."

Carnes isn't worried about sprinter Steve Williams and 800-meter standout Rick Wohluter. Williams recently tied

U.S. Coach Believes His Team Will Prevail

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The coach of the United States track team, which is without some of the nation's top talent, thinks the Americans will beat their Russian counterparts in this weekend's dual meet.

"The Russians are very impressive," said Jimmy Carnes, "but I think we will beat them with our wealth of material." Carnes, University of Florida coach, will be up against a powerful Soviet squad in the meet Friday and Saturday at Duke University's Wallace Wade Stadium.

Russian Coach Igor Ter-Ovanesyan said the squad he brought to Durham represents 90 per cent of the best track and field talent in his nation. Carnes can't make that claim.

Members of the Pacific Coast Club won't compete in the meet because of a dispute with the AAU. That knocks out world record holders Al Feuerbach the 100-meter record at 9.9 seconds, to get a shot at Olympic double winner Valeriy Borzov. Wohluter, the world 880 record holder, wants to avenge a loss to Russia's Yevgeniy Arzhanov in last year's meet, which the Soviet men won, 121-112.

In addition, Carnes called North Carolina Central high hurdler Charles Foster "just fantastic." He also feels the U.S. is too strong in the other sprints—200, 400 meters—for the Soviets. But there are chances where the Americans have little chance of winning, he added.

"The keys are going to be in the 1,500 and 5,000 meters, high jump, pole vault and long jump," he said.

In the 1,500 (metric mile), the U.S. will go with young Tom Byers of Ohio State and Mike Slack of Fargo, N.D. Hopes in the 5,000 ride on AAU meet record setter Dick Buerkle.

Juniors Hopeful

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — America's teen-agers got a dose of Olympic track fever over the weekend.

"By '76 I'll be ready," exclaimed Cheryl Butler, a Washington, D.C., high school student who soared 20 feet 8-1/4 inches in the long jump for a record at the United States-Russian junior track and field meet.

It was billed as a preview of the 1976 Olympics at Montreal, Canada, and the United States teen-agers defeated the Russians, 197-181, in the two-day meet.

USA Coach Steve Bartold said if the members of his squad "are examples of today's youth, we have no problems in this country."

Although the Russian women won, 82-64, the American men piled up a 133-99 margin for the team victory.

"The American team, I believe, could have won even against an all-European team," said Asari Gerchikov, head of the Soviet delegation.

With his father watching, Ohio State freshman Tom Byers raced to a meet record 3:39.8 in the 1,500 meters, the equivalent of running the mile in about 3:57.

NFLPA Strikes Over So-Called 'Freedom'

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first picket lines are expected in San Diego on Wednesday as the players' union strikes the National Football League in a dispute over the so-called freedom issues.

Rookies and free agents, who do not become eligible to join the NFL Players Association until the regular season starts, may hold the key to the outcome. But it's a matter of doubt whether they'll play even the exhibition games.

Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers, president of the union, scheduled a news conference at the association headquarters here to discuss the players' position on the strike which began officially at midnight Sunday.

Negotiations on a new collective bargaining agreement between the players and the NFL Management Council, the owners' bargaining agent, broke down last Wednesday when the two parties reached an almost insurmountable impasse.

"The basic issue is the right of a player to move from one team to another when his contract has expired," Curry said. "We think he should have that right just as everyone else has."

John Thompson, executive director of the management council, said the owners offered to modify the contract system, proposed increased insurance and pension benefits and were responsible for bringing the federal mediator into the dispute.

"We've done some substantial things but they refused to budge off their position of total freedom or withdraw a single demand," said Thompson.

The players went on strike four years ago, but the 1970 boycott ended before actual preseason play started. This year's walkout shapes up as long and tough to settle.

The club owners have said they intend to play rookies and free agents if the veterans don't report. If enough report and the fans are willing to pay to see them, the players union probably will have to buckle and modify its 63 demands.

On the other hand, if the association is successful in keeping the rookies and free agents out of camp, the owners will have to make concessions.

The union's executive committee, headed by Curry, is planning to be on hand for the start of picketing at the San Diego training camp. The committee also plans to appear at the other camps scheduled to open this week, including the Evanston, Ill., site of the College All-Stars who are to play the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins in Chicago June 26.

Stockton First American To Advance To Fourth Round

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Power-serving Dick Stockton became the first American to advance to the men's fourth round today—and by forfeit—in a Wimbledon tennis tournament bedraggled but unbowed.

Stockton, 23, from Dallas, should have played 19-year-old Buster Mottram of Britain for a place in the final 16. But Mottram, withdrew with a severe throat infection and Stockton was given a forfeit.

His easy passage came after a tough five-set victory over Gerald Battrick of Wales in the second round, a match that left him tired but optimistic.

Stockton joined Holland's Tom Okker and Manuel Orantes of Spain in the fourth

Contradictions Multiply In Food Price Situation

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Food prices: Everybody has a gripe:
From the livestock producer who's losing money; to the supermarket operator whose costs are up; to the consumer struggling to stretch the family budget.
The situation they face is full of confusion and contradiction:
—The farmer is getting less money for his cattle, but the consumer is paying almost as much for meat as he did last year.

—The livestock producers who raise the calves and fatten the cattle for market and the middlemen who slaughter the steer and sell the meat to you are faced with higher costs. Some are losing money. Even those doing better than last year say profits are lower than they were five years ago.

—The administration is encouraging people to buy meat and has promised to buy $100 million of beef and pork to help boost the farmer's income.
—Looking ahead, the government hopes large grain crops this year will cut the price of feed grains, making meat cheaper to produce. But even if this happens, nobody knows how much of that saving would be passed on to you at the retail meat counter. The question is whether inflation of other items can be controlled.

—Normally, farm, wholesale and retail prices go up and down together. It isn't working that way with meat. Why not?
To understand what's happening to your meat budget now, you have to go back to early 1973.
A little more than a year ago, farmers were getting high prices for their cattle. Consumers, paying an average of $1.36 a pound for meat, got angry and organized a week-long meat boycott.
The government, meanwhile, put ceilings on what packers could charge supermarkets and what supermarkets could charge you for beef, lamb and pork. Farmers, however, were allowed to charge more money for their livestock. The bottom was allowed to go up, but the top and the middle stayed put.
The packers and retailers rebelled, refusing to pay more because they couldn't charge you more. Farmers held on to their animals, creating an oversupply on the farm. When controls came off last September, farmers sent all the cattle to market, there was a greater supply than demand and farmers got less money than they expected.
The backlog is still there. It got even bigger in December and February because of truckers strikes that kept meat from the market. Farmers are still getting less money than they did one year ago, but retail prices, until recently at least, were at or near 1973 levels.

Supplies and containers 1.0 cents
All other expenses 1.6 cents
Profit 3 cents
The institute said it could not provide comparable figures for 1973. But a spokesman said wages alone had risen 12 percent in the past year—from an average of $7.41 an hour last year to $8.29 this year for salaries and fringe benefits.
Elias Paul, president of John Morrell Co., one of the largest packers, said that until this year the industry had been averaging a profit of between nine-tenths of a cent and 1.2 cents for every dollar of sales. This year, he said, earnings were less.
The National Association of Food Chains, representing retailers, said labor costs account for 65 percent of the supermarket's share of the dollar. The rest goes to utilities, rent, depreciation, taxes, maintenance and repair, promotion and insurance.
Clarence Adams, president of the association, offered a breakdown of the percentage of nonlabor cost increases from 1973 to 1974:
Hauling meat to store 17.9
Refrigeration cases 25.7
Meat coolers 10.5
Meat saws 15.7
Packaging 25.0
Utility rates 10.0 to 60.0

Industry profits are expected to rise 50 percent this year, the association said. A spokesman said that in dollars and cents, this means the store will make three-fourths of a cent for every dollar in sales, instead of one-half cent. And a spokesman said that in 1968 and 1969, the retailer made about a penny for each dollar in sales.
In response to complaints by livestock producers—ranchers who raise the calves and feedlot operators who fatten them for market—the government has launched investigations of whether the spread between the price the farmer gets and the price the consumer pays is too large.
"It is high time that... lower farm prices show up more fully in lower retail store prices," said Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz on May 10.
"While food prices at stores have leveled off some, margins are still higher than normal."
An Agriculture Department spokesman said late last month that the problem with meat prices stemmed from "chains and packers, especially chains. Chains don't like to lower prices because they're afraid they'll have to raise them in the future."
Supermarket spokesmen say this isn't true. They say they have lowered meat prices and claim the drop is more than the government says it is. "They don't give enough weight to specials," said A.D. Davis, chairman of the board of Winn-Dixie Stores, one of the nation's 10 largest chains in terms of sales.
Pantry Pride-Food Fair supermarkets, another of the top 10, pointed to prices for Philadelphia stores which it said were typical: Sirloin steak for $1.39 a pound, compared to $1.45 a year ago; rib roast for $1.19 compared to $1.29 a year ago; boneless chuck for $1.09 compared to $1.29 a year ago.
The consumer contributed to keeping meat prices high by eating more beef than ever before.
The government figures per capita consumption figures based on the carcass weight of an animal—after such things as the hide are removed, but before the byproducts are discarded.
Consumption of beef and veal rose steadily until last year. Here are the figures:
1971: 116 pounds
1972: 118 pounds
1973: 111 pounds
But this year, the figure is up again. The American National Cattlemen's Association, gave these per person figures for the first five months of this year, compared to 1972 and 1973:
1974: 47.37 pounds
1973: 45.16 pounds
1972: 47.10 pounds
If Americans keep eating at the same rate, per capita consumption for 1974 would be about 114 pounds. But Americans traditionally eat more beef in the summer months when barbecues whet the appetite for red meat.

Nine Die In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press
Nine persons died in weekend traffic accidents in North Carolina, including four pedestrians, the highway patrol reported.
The deaths brought the 1974 highway death toll to 681, compared to 882 during the corresponding period last year.
An 8-year-old Rockingham boy died Sunday evening when he ran into the path of a vehicle on a rural road in Richmond County near his home, officers said. He was identified as Walter Ellerbe.
Alden Calvin Davis, 47, of Wilmington was struck and killed early Sunday on a rural road in New Hanover County just outside the Wilmington city limits.
Willie Everette of Rockingham died Saturday morning after being struck by a car on U.S. 74 near his home.
Willie Pearl Norman, 26, of Fayetteville, was killed late Friday night when he walked into the path of a vehicle in Fayetteville.
A one-car smashup on a rural Robeson County road claimed the lives of three Lumberton men Saturday afternoon. They were identified as James Morris, 25, David Arthur Stocks and Needham Johnson, both 22.
Louise Bennett McKoin, 44, of Winston-Salem died in a one-car wreck on a Winston-Salem road.
Romie Clayburn Owens, 30, of North Wilkesboro was killed when his car ran off N.C. 18 near North Wilkesboro and struck a tree.

Where is your meat dollar going? Here is a government breakdown in cents:
April '72 '73 '74
Retailer 31.0 26.7 30.6
Packer 6.3 6.2 7.4
Farmer 62.7 67.1 62.0

Another set of government figures shows that the farmer got about 8 cents less for a pound of beef this May than he did in April, 1973. The retail price was down only one penny—from $1.36 a pound to $1.35. Why?
Industry sources, who don't like to talk for attribution about this sensitive subject, give this explanation:
Suppose you are a retailer who buys a product for $1 and resells it for $2. Of the dollar markup, 80 cents goes for costs of running your store; 20 cents is profit.
Now, suppose the amount you pay for the product goes down to 50 cents. At the same time, however, your other costs go up to 90 cents. That's $1.40. Add your 20 cents profit and you have a $1.60 selling price.
The wholesale price has dropped 50 cents, the retail price only 40 cents. That's what's happening to meat prices right now.
The American Meat Institute, which represents the packers, broke down what happens to the 7.4 cents the packer gets of your meat dollar:
Wages and salaries 3.7 cents
Rent, depreciation and interest 1.5 cents

On-the-farm testing is an important tool used by the Agricultural Extension Service to develop new knowledge and teach improved farm practices. The testing work done in the laboratory provides the basic information for new technology. Experiment stations testing further refines it and brings it a step closer to practical application. On-the-farm testing is put under field conditions but with enough control for the information gathered to be valid.
As an example, a tobacco variety test may consist of 20 varieties. Each variety is planted in a two-row plot which is replicated (there are two plots in different locations within the test). All practices will be the same for the entire test, except the variety. Each plot will be kept separate through harvest and weighing and grading. This process insures that any differences in performance can be attributed to variety rather than some other factor.
In Pitt County, On-the-farm Tests are underway in tobacco, corn, soybeans and peanuts. The test cooperators provide land, labor and in most cases production materials.

Agricultural Extension agents assist in test design, supervise the test, and compile the results at the end of the season. Pitt County tests are:
Tobacco—James Bell, Fountain, Weed Control; Briley Bros. Farms, Pactolus, Sucker Control Materials; Speight Seed Farms, Winterville—Variety; Marvin Stephenson, Jr., S.R. 1739, Greenville, Sucker Control M.H., and Stokes Farms, Eastern Pines, Research on Wheels Multipurpose Chemicals test.

GOING AWAY ON A WEEK'S VACATION? OR LONGER?

A FEW SUGGESTIONS THAT WILL HELP YOU SAVE MONEY! AND ENERGY!

1. Be sure all lights, air conditioning units and other appliances are off before you leave.
2. Cut off your electric hot water heater.
3. Check with your appliance dealer to see if it is advisable to cut off your refrigerator. If not, you may want to set the temperature higher.
4. Unplug your TV. If it is the "instant-on" type, it will continue to consume electricity even when not in use.
5. Check your plumbing fixtures and faucets to be sure they are off and not leaking.
6. Be sure your utility bill has been paid up-to-date. If you are going away for a month or more you can make an estimated pre-payment for the upcoming month.
7. Read your electric meter before leaving. If you do not know how, make a simple drawing showing the position of the dial hands. When you return home, do the same and bring them to our office. Our customer service supervisor can tell you how much energy was used while you were away from home.

If you have any questions concerning the above suggestions, please give us a call at 752-7166.

There's a Lasso[®] tank-mix that's right at home on your soybean fields.

For soybean growers, Lasso is the herbicide to start with. By itself, Lasso controls most annual grasses, including fall panicum and crabgrass. And some broadleaf weeds. What's more, Lasso doesn't carry-over, and that makes it a good working partner in any labeled tank-mix.
Which tank-mix is right for you?
For medium soils with relatively low organic matter, Lasso plus Lorox[®] will help you control common ragweed, foxtail, smartweed, and pigweed. And you don't incorporate Lasso plus Lorox.
On the other hand, if your soybeans need relief from cocklebur and annual morningglory, Lasso plus Dyanap[®] or Lasso plus Premerge[®] could be what you've been looking for. They both cut down on cocklebur and annual morningglory competition. Again, no incorporation.
Anyway you look at it, Lasso is the herbicide to start with. It's right at home on your soybean fields.

Famous Sugarloaf Receiving A Shave

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Rio's famous sugar loaf mountain is getting a shave. The barbers, dozens of men with scythes and herbicides, are stripping away grass that has spread over much of the hillsides overlooking Guanabara Bay and the Atlantic Ocean. Years ago, the mountain's slopes were covered with lush forest. Tourists who embarked on Sugar Loaf's cable car hardly noticed the small area of Guinea grass that strived for life at the foot of the mountain. The weed dried with the summer heat and easily caught fire. The fire killed other plants, but the grass remained rooted in the earth and showed up after rain. The once insignificant grass spread over the mountain's surface, threatening the trees with extinction. Alarmed by the situation, Rio's Institute for the Maintenance of Nature elaborated a reforestation plan, and Rio's Botanical Garden agreed to provide cuttings and seeds to be planted in the area. The cable car company put the plan into practice. Operations started a year ago. The first measure was to separate the grass from the remaining trees to avoid new fires. Five-yard-wide clearings were opened throughout the area, isolating the trees and dividing the grass in 100-square-yard sections. workers are now spraying a strong herbicide on the grass, being careful to avoid hitting other plants which may be near. "The process has showed excellent results so far," said Antero Leite de Castro, director of the cable car company. "It has already been successfully applied to 50 per cent of the 3,300 square feet area hit by the grass. Approximately six more months will be necessary to wipe the weed out from the remaining half." Trees of several species are being prepared to reforest the hillsides. More than 20,000 urucu-rana, Brazilian spiderflower, peroba, and brazilwood are among those scheduled to be planted during the three-year reforestation program. The dead grass, which is being cut down and left in place, is expected to become a good natural fertilizer for the trees.

Country Music's Big Personality

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Ralph Emery isn't exactly a household word in America, but to country music fans and stars alike this 41-year-old Tennessean is one of the most influential figures on the air today. Widely respected on Music Row for his knowledge of the country music scene, he's been a leading radio and TV personality the last 17 years at station WSM, broadcast home of the Grand Ole Opry. A goateed, accentless native of McEwen, 50 miles west of here, Emery's national fame among country music fans developed in the years he hosted "Opry Star Spotlight," an all-night radio show beamed over much of the U.S. by WSM's 50,000 clear-channel watts. But Emery, who left the show about two years ago, tends not to loaf on his laurels. He starts the day with a one-hour local TV show, complete with live music, at 6 a.m. Then he does a 90-minute midday talk and music radio show, in which it's not uncommon for him to hold phone interviews with Donna Fargo, Minnie Pearl and the Grand Ole Opry's Bob Luman — in the same day.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS
Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10 ♠AKQJ ♠AKQ 65 ♠AQ4

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Four clubs. The future is uncertain but your hand is too strong to bid three no trump, which partner could pass. Even though there is an apparent misfit, a forward-going move is indicated. Should partner bid his spades once more, we suggest you raise to five. If the texture of his suit is good, that should induce him to go on to slam.

Q. 2 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠987 ♠KQ1087 ♠10762 ♠A

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts. This is a two-way bid. Your hand is unbalanced, so a no trump contract is not all that appealing. In addition, hopes for game should not be abandoned entirely, in spite of partner's mild rebid. If he can offer a delayed raise of your suit, proceed to four.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A ♠AKJ 9 ♠KJ 8 ♠10 6 5 3 2

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 1 ♠ ?

What do you do take?
A.—Double. This is clearly for penalties for, had it been your desire to hear from partner, you would have doubled one heart for takeout. You figure to take some six tricks in your own hand, and anything partner can contribute is gravy.

Q. 4 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠88 ♠J7 6 5 4 ♠Q10982 ♠A

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 1 ♠ ?

What do you bid?
A.—Four diamonds. This is a two-way action. The opponents seem to have a lot of black cards between them, and your preemptive bid is designed to crowd the bidding as much as possible. At the same time, partner might go on to five diamonds and make it. Should West bid four spades and that gets passed round to you, you will have to decide whether to compete further or

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q10 ♠K 3 ♠AQ105 2 ♠87 5 2

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Dble.
Rdbl. 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—In this type of situation, it is generally correct to give partner the right of way—you are not in a position to determine the correct action. This pass is forcing. Partner's redouble not only shows considerable extra strength, but announces that he has the situation well in hand.

Q. 6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K10943 ♠K7 ♠5 ♠K8762

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. It is tempting to enter the bidding, but you have no convenient bid. Bear in mind that since he did not make a takeout double, partner has shown no great interest in the spade suit. If he has nothing but length and strength in diamonds, any action by you could get your side into trouble.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠8 ♠AKQ10 ♠A 8 7 2 ♠AJ10 5

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. You have not yet begun to describe your strength. In view of partner's vigorous action in the face of what could be a minimum opening bid, a slam should be certain. Indeed, a grand slam should depend only on the quality of partner's trumps, and this is the message you are trying to get across, by cue-bidding the ace of diamonds before raising to six spades.

Q. 8 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠109 ♠AJ 3 ♠AQ8 ♠A 9 7 6 2

The bidding has proceeded as follows:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass Pass Dble.
Pass 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two no trump. Partner could have 10 or 11 points, but he is holding back lest you have doubled protectively in fourth seat on shaded values. Since you have a sound balancing double, you owe him another bid.

Look To That Positive Side

Norma shocked her high school students by having them focus on the positive data about cigarette smoking and sexual promiscuity. Note how effectively her strategy woke up the students in her classes!

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-672: Norma W., aged 28, is a high school teacher. "Dr. Crane," she added "I also try to inject a little wholesome moral instruction in my courses. "This is what I call a fringe benefit. "Since I have read your column ever since I was a freshman in high school, I realize your great stress on accentuating the positive. "So I have urged my students to focus their attention on the constructive and moral aspects of scientific data. "For example, many of the teen-agers routinely claim that 'Almost everybody is a cigarette user!' "Or that 'A majority of college girls indulge in sex before marriage.' "Well, I cite current surveys to prove the falsity of those glib generalizations. "A recent cigarette advertisement stated in a headline that 56,000,000 people smoke cigarettes here in the U.S.A. "So I had my students analyze that headline more fully. "At present we have an estimated 210 million Americans, which means that 56 million smokers are only 26.6 per cent of our total population! "Stating the facts positively, then means that 73.4 per cent of all Americans still do NOT smoke cigarettes! "And even if we focus just on the adult population of voting age, that 56 million still is a minority! "Dr. Crane, this surprised my pupils for I am sure most of them had thought the non-smokers were much in the minority. "Then one of the coed students brought in a recent report about a survey at Stanford University. "The headline suggested that 'Every coed was sexually loose or promiscuous.' "For it reported that Dr. Warren Miller, psychiatrist, said that of the 1974 graduating class, 35 per cent of the freshmen girls admitted to having been sexually active before they

Buttoning Up Is Big Business

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Needles and pins and buttons and snaps are still big business in America, says the Commerce Department. At manufacturers' price levels, which are away below real level, the value of these products turned out in 1972 was $575 million and 20,100 workers were employed in making them.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There's a lot of truth in the report that radial tires provide better gas mileage, according to experts.

Illegal Aliens Swarm Into South

By PETER HERNON
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Thousands of illegal Mexican aliens are bursting the South's cheap labor market at the seams, and officials say they are powerless to seal the borders.

In one day 12 were arrested in Baton Rouge working at a construction site; another 14 were picked up in Slocumb, Ala. harvesting tomatoes. Six were stopped in New Orleans doing cement work, and a dozen more were arrested near Shreveport at a dairy.

The tide of job hungry aliens flows into the South continuously. They come crowded in the back of trailers, or in furniture vans or wedged under car hoods.

These men, women, and in some cases, families come here for one reason—to make a buck. And employers eager to save a buck in labor costs often hire them at a $1.50 or less an hour. "It's not unusual for some to get $3 or $4 a day," said Donald Cameron, chief of the Border Patrol's New Orleans sector.

Last month Cameron's men caught a record 750 aliens. Some were on their way north, but many stayed in the South to take jobs on farms, or factories or fishing boats.

The yearly total was over 5,000 but that is only the tip of the iceberg, for Cameron estimates that for every alien captured another four or five slip through undetected. And the odds are less than one in four that once they get past the border they'll ever be apprehended.

Cameron has received a battery of complaints from southern labor leaders that aliens willing to work for practically nothing are crowding out Americans.

"The job market is tight right now and the worse it gets the more we hear about aliens," he said.

To come is illegal, to hire is not, and although legislation is pending in Washington that would change this, employers are free to hire any alien who knocks on the factory door.

It's a different story, however, if they conspire with smugglers who charge aliens anywhere from $200 to $700 for a one-way ticket into the country.

And smuggling, Cameron said, has become a lucrative business in the South. Last year 103 smugglers were arrested in the New Orleans sector which includes Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas and portions of Oklahoma. The number should be higher this year.

This is virgin territory for traditionally, the Mexican exodus has been directed to California, Texas and Florida.

It's also becoming increasingly popular for crew members on foreign vessels to jump ship in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Mobile and Biloxi.

In New Orleans, the nation's second busiest port, the surveillance demands are staggering. Over 300 ships with an average crew of 29 dock each month, and the border patrol must monitor each of them. Most deserters aren't Mexican and may come from Greece, Ghana, China or any of a hundred other countries.

In May, 27 crew men were captured, in April, 35, and it's the same story at other ports along the Gulf Coast: two arrested at Baton Rouge, three at Biloxi, one at Mobile, one at Pensacola.

"It's almost an exercise in futility," Cameron said as he scanned lists of daily arrest records.

To cover an area of over a quarter of a million square miles he has less than 50 men and no aircraft. For months one man has covered Mississippi.

During the South's long harvest season when aliens pour into Mississippi's delta to work in cotton fields or the citrus groves in the Florida panhandle or lumber mills in Louisiana the patrol is forced to work by car or on foot.

"With one helicopter we could do so much more that we can't do now," he said.

The odds are remote he'll get one in the near future. The patrol's biggest trouble spot is along the dusty border with Mexico and that's where most of the resources are channeled. In addition to glutting the cheap labor market officials estimate illegal aliens cost the country anywhere from $100 million to $1 billion annually in unpaid taxes, not to mention the $35 million spent last year, much of it in bus fares, to deport 343,000 of them.

And it seems the tide will continue until, as Cameron says, "people start telling their congressmen we've got one heck of a problem."

"Mother!"

Divorce Skips Weary History

LONDON (AP) — Married couples who squabble over who gets the divorce decree were told by a British judge that it is a waste of time.

Mr. Justice Ormrod said in the High Court "It no longer matters who gets the piece of paper called a decree nisi. Cases can be disposed of quickly without a long weary history of the marriage."

The judge had been told that a case about to be heard was expected to last 10 days.

After his remarks the lawyers talked in private and the case was dealt with in 20 minutes.

Poultry
RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hens: Market steady to weaker on heavy type. Supplies ample and demand slow. Many plants and haulers not operating this week because of the July 4 holiday. Too few sources to release prices.

North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Markets steady with this week's weighted average price at 38.32 cents per pound. Supplies adequate and demand good. Estimated slaughter today 1,131,000.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices moved marginally higher to today in a technical rebound after recent losses, brokers said.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.88 at 804.29. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was slow, however, and declines led advances 515 to 466 among 1,334 issues traded.

Last week the Dow blue chip indicator fell over 13 points. Since June 10 the index has slipped almost 58 points, and brokers say it was set for a rebound.

"I think we're going to see a technical rally, which could be quite substantial," said John Smith, analyst with Farnestock & Co. "Of course, that isn't to say prices won't come back down again."

Analysts said investors also were watching for changes in banks' prime rate, a recent concern. First National Bank of Chicago is scheduled to adjust its base short-term lending rate, or prime, today.

Westinghouse Electric, up 1/4 at 13%, and Fannie Mae, steady at 14 1/2, were the most active issues on the Big Board. McDonald's gained 1 1/2 to 25 1/2, while North American Mortgage slipped 1 to 7 1/4. Dow Chemical picked up 1/4 to 66 1/2, and Polaroid gained 1 1/2 to 36 1/4.

Mobil Oil, indicted by a New York State grand jury for restraining competition in automobile accessories, fell 5/8 to 39 1/2. The oil company pleaded not guilty.

On the Amex, Bic Pen was the volume leader, up 1/4 at 9 1/4. The pen maker announced price increases, and a block of 64,900 shares traded at 8 1/2, unchanged.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index was up .07 at 44.97 while the Amex market-value index was steady at 79.10.

Peron In Decline Cash Taken As Home Entered

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Juan D. Peron's doctors said his condition suddenly deteriorated this morning.

An official announcement, signed by Peron's three personal physicians, said, "Lt. Gen. Juan D. Peron has undergone a sudden worsening at 10:25 to day."

The deterioration in the 78-year-old Peron's condition followed declarations of support for Mrs. Peron, the acting president, from all sides of the Argentine political spectrum.

Leaders of all factions of the ruling Peronist party and of most opposition parties, the military chiefs, and business and union leaders voiced support for Mrs. Peron, who is Argentina's vice president.

Peron was confined to his suburban residence, under treatment for infectious bronchitis aggravating a chronic heart condition, according to an announcement Friday.

Peron yielded his official powers temporarily to his 43-year-old wife on Saturday, announcing that his "state of health prevents him from directly attending to government affairs until he recovers."

Some $60 in cash was reported taken from a 904 Douglas Ave. home here yesterday following a break-in, Chief Glenn Cannon reported.

According to the police official, a man broke into the home of Miss Lena Barrett through the front door and took the money, which was concealed under a bed in the dwelling.

The incident occurred about 6:15 p.m.

Investigation of the case is continuing.
