

Nixon, Brezhnev Agree To Nuclear Pact

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — President Nixon ended his Moscow summit today after he and Leonid I. Brezhnev agreed to aim for a 10-year pact limiting offensive nuclear weapons but abandoned their search for a permanent accord.

The President's plane left for Caribou, Maine, at 5:18 p.m. — 10:18 a.m. EDT. Brezhnev was at the VIP Vnukovo Airport for the brief departure ceremony under overcast skies.

In a joint communique summing up their third summit conference, the American President and the chief of the Soviet Communist party also committed their governments to stop underground nuclear weapon tests with an explosive force of more than 150 kilotons and to put new limits on their missile defense systems.

The underground test treaty is to take effect in 21 months, on March 31, 1976, and requires the approval of two-thirds of the U.S. Senate. The agreement on missile defenses, in the form of a protocol to the 1972 treaty, probably will be submitted to Congress in the form of a resolution seeking endorsement.

As part of the partial test ban, Nixon and Brezhnev came to an unwritten understanding that observers from each government would be allowed to visit the other's test sites to verify compliance. If implemented, it would be the first time the Soviet Union has allowed such American observers on its territory.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen the two leaders had given up the goal of a permanent ban on offensive nuclear weapons. But he said the third annual Nixon-Brezhnev summit "shouldn't be seen in terms of hitting a home run on one occasion."

A 10-year pact, if it can be worked out by U.S. and Soviet negotiators in Geneva, would cover "the realities" of foreseeable weapons development, and "that is about as

Oversight

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—The Craven County Sheriffs Department has lost $46,556 in federal funds—two annual grants from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. The reason: It failed to send two bailiffs and a deputy to school for 40 hours of minimum training.

One grant for last fiscal year was received and $8,434 was used to pay the men's salaries. The chairman of the county board of commissioners, Grover Lancaster, says the $8,434 will have to be returned from county tax funds. The balance of the grant, plus another grant for the present fiscal year, also have been lost.

permanent" as any accord that could be arranged now, Kissinger said.

Nixon and Brezhnev met late in the morning in advance of the ceremonial signing of the communique.

The President was to leave for the United States in the afternoon.

With their 1972 ban on some offensive weapons running out in 1977, the two leaders agreed that a new treaty should be completed "at the earliest possible date" and should run until 1985. It would try to limit both newer type weapons, including missiles with multiple warheads, and the numbers being deployed.

Kissinger said the key problem remains how to correlate the 3-to-1 U.S. advantage in missiles with multiple warheads and the Soviet advantage in launchers.

He said he expects the Geneva negotiations to resume on Aug. 1 "give or take a couple of weeks."

The 150-kiloton ceiling on underground nuclear explosions to which Nixon and Brezhnev agreed is equivalent to the explosive force of 150,000 tons of TNT, or 7½ times the force of the atomic bombs the United States dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. The most powerful nuclear device so far tested had a force equivalent to 57 million tons of TNT and was exploded by the Soviet Union in 1961.

Kissinger said the two governments had in mind a followup agreement that would permit explosions for peaceful uses above the 150-kiloton limit. Such an agreement, he said, would call for the presence of observers at the test explosions, most probably from the two powers but possibly from third countries.

The agreement on missile defense systems expands the 1972 treaty which limited the two countries to two such installations each. Only one is in place in each country—the Soviets' protecting Moscow and the American system shielding Minuteman missiles at Grand Forks, N.D. Today Nixon and Brezhnev agreed not to build the second installation.

Kissinger said this "has profound strategic consequences" since multiple warheads were developed primarily to overcome the antiballistic missiles, or ABMs.

Nixon and Brezhnev also advocated that measures be taken to guard against changing the environment for military purposes.

The communique touched on a number of world problems and other negotiations that are going on.

CP&L Rate Increase Plan Hangs Over Farmville Bd.

By CAROL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE—The proposed rate hike by Carolina Power and Light Company, suppliers of Farmville's electricity, was discussed by Farmville Commissioners last night.

The hike, reported likely to be about 70 per cent increased cost to the town, probably will go into effect Jan. 1, Farmville Utilities Director J.A. Wooten said, with about 35 per cent increase being energy and about 35 per cent a fuel adjustment clause. The fuel cost will rise and fall depending on the price of fuel used at CP&L's generating plants, and will be reflected in the town's and the customer's bills, he explained.

Wooten warned that there is possibility that the fuel charge will begin Sept. 1 if CP&L is successful in a plea to the Federal Power Commission.

He said he and Commissioner J.I. Morgan Jr. will go to an Electricities meeting in Pinehurst in August to learn what this organization of 72 municipal and a few independent wholesale buyers of electrical power are doing to fight the rate hike.

Costs at the local level are up about 25 per cent, Wooten indicated.

The Commissioners approved a rate study by the L.E. Wooten Company of Raleigh to determine what costs to the customer will be once the hike is made.

Wooten was assured the Commissioners will back him and Electricities in any attempt to get the increase down to a more reasonable amount.

Wooten also reported that he met yesterday with John Pridgen about plans for the new water treatment plant, plans which will be presented soon for approval by the N.C. Air and Water Resources Department.

Since there were no objectors at a public hearing on the paving of Perry Street from the Southern Railroad track to Wright Drive, the project was approved. Commissioners said bids would be asked for on this and several other paving projects, including two downtown parking areas in the near future.

The parking areas are one recently cleared of a service station and oil company building at the corner of E. Wilson and Contentnea Streets and an area between the 100-blocks of North Main and N. Walnut Streets made available by the J.I. Morgan family.

Economic Council Director Tom Thompson was given the go-ahead to negotiate with builders considering erecting a speculative industrial building on a site in Farmville's industrial park now being developed by the Economic Council. Mayor W.E. Joyner appointed a committee composed of Commissioner W.R. Duke, Commissioner J.I. Morgan Jr., Town Administrator W.A. Martin, Thompson, and Town Attorney Jack Lewis to meet with County Commissioners to determine what the state, county, and town will each be responsible for in providing a road and water and sewer to the sites being developed.

Forty-six members of the Farmville Fire Department were certified by the Commissioners. The certification was needed for insurance and pension purposes.

H.P. Norman was given the go-ahead to negotiate further with Jack Cobb for the removal of the present fire station in front of Cobb's Barbecue on South Main Street. The brick building, sitting on a 15- by 50-foot plot owned by the town is on the edge of Cobb's parking lot. The Commissioners said they are perfectly willing for the building to be moved to accommodate Cobb as long as it can be suitably relocated.

A fourth payment of $27,004.50 on the elevated water tank was approved. The entire bill is $138,250.

Tommy Wainwright appeared asking the Board to consider amending its no-livestock-in-city limits ordinance. He has horses and doesn't want to have to move them from behind his home. The Commissioners agreed to study the matter.

Jimmie Lee Smith appeared commenting on the need for more than one voting precinct in the Farmville township. He also pointed out the need for a free lunch program during the summers, available through federal funding, he said. And he commented on conditions in I.S. Bennett Park, one of the town's two miniparks, built to complement J.Y. Monk Park, where most of the town's recreational facilities are located. The rest room there and the water fountain have been virtually made unusable, he said. The Commissioners pointed out that these facilities have had to be redone every year because of vandalism. Commissioner Sarah Albritton asked if volunteers could be obtained to supervise play at the park to try to prevent such further abuse of the area.

Funded through a $92,200 grant to the county PTA group, the project will involve 260 students at A.G. Cox School in Winterville; 115 students at G.R. Whitfield School in Grimesland and 150 students at the Bethel Middle School in reading and math clinics in an effort to increase their skills in those areas during the coming year.

One Killed, 3 Hurt In Pitt Auto Collision

One person was killed and three others injured in a head-on collision about 3.7 miles north of Greenville on the Staton Mill Road about 9:05 p.m. yesterday.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E.W. Harvey identified the dead man as Richard Glenn Landen, 21, of Parmalee, the driver of one of the cars involved.

Highway Patrolman A.G. Wright said the driver of the other vehicle, Joseph Warren Whitehurst Jr., 20, of Route 2, Robersonville, was charged with driving under the influence and manslaughter following investigation of the fatal collision.

According to Trooper Wright, the Landen car was traveling North on the Staton Mill Road when the Whitehurst car, headed South, apparently went out of control in a curve, crossed the center line and collided head-on with the Landen auto.

Whitehurst and a passenger in the Landen car received minor injuries in the collision while one passenger in the Whitehurst vehicle was admitted to the hospital with serious head injuries. A second passenger in Whitehurst's car was not injured, Trooper Wright reported.

Both cars, investigators said, were total losses.

Overtaxed?

RALEIGH (AP)—A member of the special state commission to study North Carolina's taxes has accused the state of overtaxing the people.

The Special Senate Commission on North Carolina Revenue Laws Tuesday opened its inquiry into the state's tax structures with members predicting another state government surplus of more than $100 million.

The charges of overtaxing came from Rep. Liston B. Ramsey, D-Madison, who is chairman of the House Finance Committee and a member of the Advisory Budget Commission.

"We're going to have another so-called surplus," Ramsey said. "We're overtaxing our people."

Ramsey supported a tax reduction package during the 1974 session of the General Assembly and was appointed to the Senate commission by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt.

The surplus at the outset of the 1974 legislative session was $144 million. Ramsey said the 1975 legislature will open with a surplus "above $100 million" and possibly as high as $150 million.

The next meeting of the commission is scheduled for Aug. 2

Governor Warns State Of Winter Fuel Crisis

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser has urged North Carolina citizens to continue energy conservation efforts.

Holshouser, at a news conference Tuesday, said the energy crisis will be back next winter unless conservation efforts are made this summer.

He urged citizens to fight "the natural inclination to think that we don't have an energy crisis anymore."

Estimates for next winter show a natural gas shortage twice as serious as last winter's, he said, and gasoline supplies are on the verge of inadequacy.

Holshouser said unless gasoline is conserved during the heavy consumption months of July and August supplies will become inadequate.

He noted electric power supplies could be jeopardized by a coal miners' strike in the fall.

The governor asked state government offices to raise air conditioning thermostats to 78 degrees and to allow male employees to wear open-necked, short-sleeved shirts.

Gasoline conservation efforts, he said, would be centered around car pool formation and strict adherence to the 55 miles per hour speed limit.

Holshouser said he hoped private businesses and individuals would follow state government's lead.

He also urged homeowners to use their heavy appliances in the morning or late at night to avoid adding to peak power demands and to keep their shades and drapes drawn to keep indoor temperatures down.

"There is no need for panic," he said, "nor should there be in the months ahead. But there is a very urgent need for all of us to be concerned with how we can conserve our energy."

Pensions Begin For Guardsmen

RALEIGH (AP)—State pensions began going out July 1 to many retired North Carolina national guardsmen and others will begin receiving them when they become eligible.

The state's secretary of Military and Veterans Affairs, John J. Tolson III, pointed out today that to qualify for a state pension, a persons must have had 20 years of military service including 15 in the North Carolina National Guard. Pensions range from $50 to $100 a month depending on length of service.

PAY GARNISHED
While working at the Olde London Inn, I asked the manager about taking personal checks for room rent and he told me to take the checks and, if they were returned, he would worry about it.

I took one that was returned for insufficient funds. The manager held the check in his desk for three weeks and then decided to take it out of my pay check. I asked him to return the check to me so it could be given to a collection agency and he said "no." He then took the funds from my pay check to cover the returned check. I have been told he had no right to do this, R.G.

A check for $12.48 has been returned to you to cover the funds taken from your pay check. The check was sent from the president of the corporation that owns the Olde London Inn in Newport News, Va. Along with it was a letter stating there was a misunderstanding concerning the policy on employees handling personal checks and that he had taken steps to clarify the procedures. He also extended his apologies to you.

HOW CLOSE
I would like to know how close to a person's house you can put a batch of hogs. D.H.

There is a regulation that any livestock must be kept at least 100 feet from the home water supply, he said.

Sensible Letter May Help Others

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the boy who hated gym because he was lousy in competitive sports brought back memories.

I was also lousy in gym, and when the teacher had the captains choose up sides, I was always the last one to be chosen. I can't describe the humiliation I suffered. I would get sick before every P. E. class, and cry in the showers afterwards.

Abby, why can't all the kids who are poor in gym have a physical fitness program of their own without having to compete with those who are fair, good and excellent? With calisthenics, trampoline, jump rope, etc., they could get just as much exercise as the kids who go out for football, basketball, volleyball and track.

My own sense of failure started with the relay races in grammar school. If only I had been taught to run for the joy of running, and not to beat the other team! But the name of the game was competition—even in first grade. Pity. S.F.

DEAR S: Thank you for your sensible letter. Many others wrote to suggest that some children "hate" gym because they have a depth preception, coordination or visual problem of which they are not aware. Parents would do well to have their "gym-hating" youngsters examined by an ophthalmologist as well as by a neurologist to determine if their children need help.

DEAR ABBY: I did it. I did it. I finally did it! I streaked in front of an audience last night.

I showered, dusted myself with rose-scented powder, made my face up, and brushed my hair. Then I slipped into a pair of pretty pink heels [and nothing else] and I took off like a flash into the living room, where my audience of one was watching television. I paused briefly, twirled around once, and then ran back into the bedroom.

When I returned to the living room [clothed], my husband said, "Have you lost your mind, woman?"

Abby, I'm only 33. Could this mean that I am already out of shape?

DEAR STREAKER: No, but your husband could be.

DEAR ABBY: I am so upset, I don't know what to do anymore. I've called the police, military base, Chamber of Commerce, the base chaplain and three lawyers. As I write this I am crying and have a knot in my throat.

I've been married to a serviceman for 15 years and now he is involved with a red-headed woman who works where he works. [He got her the job.] He picks her up and drives her home, and I see him only when he comes here to change his clothes.

He has told me he doesn't love me anymore and as soon as he can afford it he will officially divorce me. He's even tried to push men at me. I am so hurt I could die!

I would do away with myself, if I didn't have five kids who need me. When I complain about the way he treats me, he beats me up. I know you'll think I'm crazy, but I still love him and want to know how I can get him back.

MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Your chances for getting him back are small, and from your letter, I think you're better off without him. But if you considered doing away with yourself, you need help in handling your problems. It's available through your County Mental Health Association, and Family Service Association. Give them a call.

DEAR ABBY: May I respond to "Almost 26 and Worried," who is considering marrying "any guy" just so she can say she's been married?

I am almost 80 and I've never been married. A home of my own was my heart's desire—not a husband. Through my own efforts I acquired a comfortable home. It's furnished to please me. It's peaceful, quiet and free from stale smoke. I don't have to account for how I spend my time or my money, and I can come and go as I please.

Bulky looking new coats and capes are not as heavy as they look. Lightweight fabrics including jersey and flannel make them easy to wear.

Pants are slimming down for fall. They'll have straight legs, no cuffs and no flare.

Big is the word for sleeves on new fall dresses. Some are gathered at the wrist, some are trumpet-shaped and others are full, flowing kimono designs.

Good news for girl-watchers: clunky shoes are due to be replaced shortly by more leg-flattering designs—sandals and slingbacks among them.

A shrub is a wood-stemmed plant ranging in height from a few inches to about 15 feet.

Poison ivy is not a true ivy but a climbing shrub.

Privet, boxwood and yew are preferred for topiary designs. Topiary is the art of cutting and training plants into sculptures.

Head-hugging berets and knitted caps are edging out the floppy big hats for fall and winter wear.

Look for more bodysuits in sheer and semisheer fabrics this fall. The softer fabrics lend themselves to feminine styling, including bow tied shirt styles.

A Use-It Or Lose-It Service

The City Council has approved a $6,148,849 municipal government budget which sets a 64 cents tax rate based on 100 percent valuation. The tax rate represents a ten cents increase over the corresponding rate for 1973-74. One of the major items of discussion in the new budget was funds for development of a public bus system. The council finally included an appropriation of $47,850 for this purpose. Inclusion of the funds for the bus system represented two cents of the tax rate and it was opposed by Mayor West, who maintained that if a permanent subsidy is going to be required, the matter should be voted on by the people. We have been inclined to think that a public transportation system deserves a trial here, particularly in view of the ever tightening gas situation and the rapidly rising cost of operating private automobiles. On the other hand, we doubt if the city government should open the door to unlimited subsidies for a public transportation system. It is possible for the cost of operating such a system to become unbearable for the tax payer. We think that the funds appropriated by the City Council in the 1974-75 budget will allow the opportunity to determine if a bus system can be operated economically. We recall, though, when the Civil Aeronautics Board used to order air service to smaller cities on a "use it or lose it" basis; that is, the citizens of the area had to use the air service enough to justify it or it would be discontinued. This should be the policy of the city insofar as bus service is concerned. The taxpayers should not shoulder the burden running half empty buses around the city. Those who feel public transportation will be a good thing should make up their minds they will have to pay the fares and use it, if it is to be continued. The city can begin a test program of bus service, but if it is not adequately supported by the public it should be known from the start that it will be discontinued.

Strategy Of A Partisan Split

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON—The essentiality to President Nixon's defense of the present partisan split within the House Judiciary Committee can be measured by the hard fact that presidential defense lawyer James St. Clair did not really make his case last week. St. Clair, engaging and quick-witted, is a superb trial lawyer. But his two-day presentation of evidence was generally unconvincing. "I'd call it just so-so," one fence-sitting Republican member told us. He and others who really have not made up their minds on impeachment agreed that St. Clair failed to adequately refute accusations that President Nixon authorized hush-money payments to E. Howard Hunt. But while St. Clair's substantive presentation fell flat, he and the President's staunchest allies on the committee did succeed last week in polarizing the committee along partisan lines as never before. The polarization will continue for the time being. Just as the Democratic majority last week restricted St. Clair's witness list, it is expected in another party-line vote to reject opening his examination of witnesses to public view. Impeachment, then, may boil down to this: will the genuine anger of Republicans against chairman Peter Rodino and his Democratic majority obscure their serious consideration of Mr. Nixon's guilt or innocence? Just a small fraction of the 38 committee members are affected. Six or possibly seven of the committee's 17 Republicans are genuinely undecided, with the possibility that they might end up voting for impeachment. Whether they do or not might well determine the outcome on the House floor. Consequently, White House strategy for months has been to foment a partisan split within the committee. Mr. Nixon's aides were bitterly disappointed that Republicans backed Rodino's subpoenas for presidential tapes, and since then have pushed hard to mobilize those Republicans behind St. Clair's procedural demands. The President's unwitting allies in this polarization have been House Democrats, including majority leader Thomas P. O'Neill, who have pressed the committee to vote impeachment by mid-July as scheduled. When it seemed two weeks ago that the committee might slip a month on that schedule, many Democrats—including some on the committee—urged less deliberation and more speed. Under such

Going Slow On Right Turns

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH—City officials across the state are apparently waiting to see how loud the car horns blow this week before taking any action on the new right-turn-on-red law. Effective July 1, motorists can turn right on red, after stopping to make sure there's no cross traffic. The way the law is written, such turns are permitted unless specifically prohibited at particular intersections, and signs posted prohibiting such turns. So far, there has been no great rush for signs. Officials at the League of Municipalities office in Raleigh said they had received requests for signs from only a half-dozen or so cities—and those are primarily smaller towns who do not have shops to make their own signs. Good Response W. A. Ward, assistant manager of traffic engineering at the State Department of Transportation, said his contacts across the state—primarily larger cities which have professional traffic engineers—indicate "a good response, with most going along with the new procedure very well." State traffic engineers have

World Loves A Lobber

By ART BUCHWALD MONACO—I was invited to play in a pro-celebrity tennis tournament in Monaco last week. It was one of the events scheduled to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the reign of Prince Rainier. The reason I was invited is that Prince Rainier was trying to bring the lob back to Monte Carlo. Since this is a tennis stroke that I have become famous for, he insisted I be part of the tournament. For those who do not play tennis, the lob is one of the most beautiful and difficult shots in tennis. The object is to hit the ball gently in the air over the head of the opponent and still keep it in the court. All the world loves a lobber, and wherever tennis is played he is the most talked-about person on the court. The lob shot was invented in 1893 by a Polish count named Leopold Lob. Leopold had studied to be a violinist, but when he bet his Stradivarius on black at the Monte Carlo casino one night and the ball dropped in the red slot of the roulette wheel, he had no choice but to give up music and become a tennis pro. He played tennis like he played the violin and pretty soon he was hitting the ball high in the air—the first time anyone had ever done it. In his honor, Prince Rainier's grandfather named the shot "the lob" or "le lob" as it is known in France. By sheer coincidence, my grandfather had taken four lessons from Leopold Lob while vacationing one summer in Monaco and brought it back to his village in what was then the Austro-Hungarian Empire. When my grandfather wasn't being beaten up by Hungarian Cossacks, he practiced the lob and taught it to my father. My father brought it to the United States just before World War I. After I was born he took me out to Coney Island every Sunday and made me practice it. (Since we were playing on the sandy beach it was actually the only shot you could hit without the ball going dead.) Prince Rainier had heard about my proficiency at the lob through Princess Grace, who still has relatives in Philadelphia. He explained when I arrived why he was trying to bring the lob back to Monte Carlo. For years Monaco had attracted the best-looking and richest lobbers in Europe. But in the '50s they started drifting away to other resorts such as St. Tropez, the Italian Riviera, the Costa Brava in Spain and Acapulco in Mexico. Lobbers, you must understand, are not only great tennis players but they are voracious gamblers as well as big spenders. One lobber will spend four times as much on tennis balls in one day as a backhand will spend in a week. Lobbers also attract the most beautiful women. For some reason a woman just can't keep her hands off a man who hits a tennis ball up in the air. Prince Rainier told me if he could bring back the lob to Monte Carlo, he was certain his principality would once again become the most important resort in the world. The day I accepted the invitation to play in his pro-lob tournament, Prince Rainier built a new $10 million casino. He didn't waste his money. On the first morning of the tournament I drew Gardner Mulloy as my partner. As soon as I got on the court and started to lob Dan Rowan and Dennis Ralston, the word went all the way down the Riviera. "Lobbing has come back to Monte Carlo." By afternoon all the roads leading to Monaco were jammed with millionaire tennis players. Every yacht in the Mediterranean within 300 miles changed course and returned to the principality. Not since the early days of the century had Monaco seen anything like it. Although Mulloy and I were eliminated on the first day, a grateful prince and princess presented me with the first issue of a new Monacan stamp. It was a two-franc airmail stamp with a beautiful etching of Count Leopold Lob hitting his first tennis ball high, high in the air.

Saudis Ranked No. 1

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The United States has dropped from No. 1 in world crude oil production to No. 2. And it may be on its way down to No. 3. Latest production figures from Saudi Arabia show that it is now the world leader in crude production with nearly 9 million barrels produced daily in May. Meanwhile, the Soviet Union, generally considered a close third, has been creeping up slowly. Soviet production figures are difficult to obtain, but many oil experts think the U.S.S.R. will pass the United States soon, if it hasn't done so already. The drop from No. 1 is a benchmark in American oil industry history. It reflects the continuing deterioration of American oil production, a decline that started slowly from the high point of 10.8 million barrels a day in November of 1971 to its current level of about 8.5 million barrels a day. The U.S. had been the No. 1 producer since the turn of the century. Comparing United States production figures to those of Saudi Arabia is tricky business. The weekly U.S. figures provided by the American Petroleum Institute lump crude oil production together with something called lease condensate, oil produced from natural gas. Saudi Arabia produces no lease condensate, so its figures represent crude oil only. The latest API figures show American production at about 8.9 million barrels a day. Lease condensate represented about 400,000 barrels of that daily total. The Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco), Saudi Arabia's largest oil company, says it alone produced 8.7 million barrels of crude a day in May. The two other oil companies in the country produce about 260,000 barrels a day. The experts say Saudi Arabia could move to 9.2 million barrels a day overnight without drilling another well. It could produce 20 million barrels a day eventually, some experts say. But it's unlikely that Saudi Arabia will push production up much soon. Experts say an oil surplus has developed in the wake of the Arab oil embargo. Conservation efforts, increased production in the Middle East and resistance to higher prices from consumers have reduced demand worldwide. A further surplus would put a downward pressure on crude prices, something most of the oil exporting countries want to avoid. Saudi Arabia is an exception when it comes to price, however. It has called for a reduction in the price of oil, saying that has fueled world inflation. But Saudi Arabia has been unable to convince the other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to reduce prices. The experts say the Soviet Union appears to have the potential for passing the United States but not Saudi Arabia. And whether it becomes No. 2 depends largely on a decline in U.S. production. Now that domestic prices are up, the industry says it has increased its drilling efforts and the decline may be turned around eventually, especially when off-shore drilling sites begin to pay off and oil starts flowing in the Alaska pipeline.

Public Forum

To the editor: I do not wish to be called a senior citizen. When you call me a senior citizen, you are not sparing my feelings. Instead, call me an old man. That I am. I am proud of being an old man, just as I was proud of being a young man. Those who never get old die young. Those who get old and complain of not being young are fools. When my times comes to die, so be it. Praise the Lord who gives life and takes it away. But when I die, don't—don't—inter my mortal remains in a casket in a celestial garden. Do bury my body in a coffin in a grave in a graveyard. And pray for my soul. Deo gratias! Dr. Meredith N. Posey Greenville

Public Forum

To the editor: I recently underwent major surgery at Pitt County Hospital. Being confined eight days gave me the opportunity to observe firsthand the efficiency of those wonderful women in white. During the time I was there I noticed only one RN was covering the third floor—one for each shift. The rest were aides and one or two LPN's. I was amazed at the many clinical responsibilities and administrative duties the RN had to handle. The thought crossed my mind: Is she getting a good salary—really getting paid for what she is worth? One has to remember that registered nurses have gone through a rigorous training and hold degrees. Are the LPN's and aides getting paid enough for their efforts? I doubt it. Medical personnel in this area are simply not receiving adequate salaries. What is becoming common knowledge here in Greenville is that many nurses and other medical personnel are leaving the staff of Pitt County Hospital as well as the Greenville Nursing Center. Reason: Inadequate pay. A nurse-friend of mine recently remarked, "I love my work"—which is bedside nursing—"but I'm so tired from overwork and my salary so meager that I'm horrified to discover that I'm beginning to lose my dedication to nursing." What is to happen when our new hospital is completed and there aren't enough nurses, technicians and aides to staff it? One can draw his own conclusions. The answer then, is: Offer medical personnel a decent salary and we'll have a sufficient amount of people to staff that hospital. I know that my hospitalization insurance will not cover all the costs of my surgery, but whatever residual I have to pay out of my purse, I'd like to think that a portion of it will help pay the salary of some poor soul in white. # Strength For Today

SKEPTICS PERSUADED The story is told that two famous English skeptics, Gilbert West and Lord Littleton, decided once that they would write a series of articles exposing what they believed to be the superstitions of the Christian religion. West was to show the absurdity of the resurrection, and Littleton the ignorance and bigotry in the theology of Paul. Naturally they had to betake themselves to the Bible for their material. When for the first time in their lives they studied the Bible closely, to the great surprise of all of their friends and supporters they renounced their skepticism and became noted apologists for the faith. Here were two outstanding intellectuals of their day, yet they were ignorant of the Word of God. The situation is true in our own time. Many who pose as intellectuals know little or nothing about the book which has been reprinted more than any other and has had more influence than any other book. A man is never wise in the broadest sense until he has made an honest attempt to learn something of God's wisdom. by Elisha Douglass

Executive Productivity Factor

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — When executives think about raising worker productivity the image that comes to mind is the production line, and they ask: How can we turn out more units per manhour of work? But what about executive productivity? Seldom asked in the past except during recessions or serious lags in profits, the question now has become a matter of serious concern for large and small companies. A bad executive decision, it is realized, is magnified on the production line. And time lost on the golf course may cost far more than the secretary's few minutes at the water cooler. But this isn't always obvious. In a survey of executives by the American Management Associations, respondents were asked to name the personnel area in which the most severe productivity problems existed. Most named production. But when asked to name the factors responsible for the unsatisfactory productivity the executives, inadvertently perhaps, pointed the finger at themselves. At any rate, the poor productivity factor most often checked by the 1,275 executives was "lack of well defined organizational or departmental goals and objectives." That's a management failure. The management organization claims the survey questionnaire, sent to 6,000 managers and presidents of American business, generated the second greatest response of any of its surveys. Sixty-three percent of the respondents said executive productivity was a "serious concern" in the operation of business and industry today. And they generally agreed it was tied directly to achievement of goals and profits. Nevertheless, only 36 percent reported that their companies were making efforts to evaluate executive productivity, a startling illustration of the absence of managerial goals. When asked to specify the productivity problem area in business and industry, the executives chose themselves as the least blameworthy. Production, supervisory management and clerical staff ranked highest. The concluding words of the report, to be published July 15, carry this admonishment: "... It is time to forget the grandiose notion that managers naturally manage properly. We executives—from middle managers to presidents—need all the help we can get."

Testify Ehrlichman Warned Of White House Link

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman's only caution in approving a concealed entry into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist was to make sure the operation would not be traced to the White House, according to plumbers trial testimony.

Former Ehrlichman aides David R. Young and Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr. agreed on Tuesday that the possible illegality of the break-in at Dr. Lewis J. Fielding's Beverly Hills, Calif., office was never raised beforehand.

In separate testimony Tuesday, both men were unable to recall using such explicit terms as burglary or break-in in seeking the okay from Ehrlichman for the Sept. 3, 1971, illegal search for Ellsberg's psychiatric records.

But Krogh, 34, and Young, 37, said there was never any question in their planning and discussions with Ehrlichman that men hired by the White House would enter Dr. Fielding's office with neither his consent nor knowledge.

Young, who traded immunity from prosecution for his testimony, completed cross-examination Tuesday. Krogh, who pleaded guilty and served 4½ months of a six-month jail term for plotting the break-in, returns to the stand for questions from defense lawyers today.

In addition to the charge of conspiracy to violate Fielding's rights, Ehrlichman, once President Nixon's principal domestic affairs adviser, also is charged on four counts of lying to the FBI and a federal grand jury.

Other defendants are G. Gordon Liddy and Miamians Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R.

Martinez.
Krogh told of being given the special assignment of tracking down and discovering the reasons for a rash of national security leaks to the press in 1970 and 1971 and said he and Young organized the White House investigative unit known as the plumbers.

Krogh quoted Ehrlichman as saying the President was deeply worried because "very serious national security issues were at stake."

He said the most immediate problem in reacting to the leak of the Pentagon Papers was

"how we were going to determine the mental state of the person who had released those documents."

After Dr. Fielding turned aside a request for an interview about Ellsberg from the FBI, Krogh said it became clear "an entry operation would have to be undertaken to examine those files."

In a series of memos sent to Ehrlichman and meetings with him, Krogh said a covert, clandestine operation was proposed. To obtain approval, Krogh said, "my assurance had to be given it was not traceable."

Finally, four days before the break-in Young and Krogh called Ehrlichman, then vacationing in Cape Cod.

In fear the phone might be tapped, Krogh said he avoided explicit language. Nonetheless, Krogh told Ehrlichman, "All the conditions have been met. This is something we could do."

The prosecutor then asked Krogh, "He (Ehrlichman) gave authorization to go ahead?"

Krogh: "Yes."
In his earlier testimony, Young said White House fears that Ellsberg might leak more material or might be part of an organization were shared by Ehrlichman.

He said Ehrlichman also discussed the possibility of smearing Ellsberg in the press with whatever derogatory information might be found in Fielding's office file.

Firefighters Sent To Idaho

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The regional office of the U.S. Forest Service says about 450 firefighters from the South have been sent to Boise, Idaho, to help battle a series of major forest fires.

Jim Hefner of the forest service said Tuesday that crews from national forests throughout the South and state firefighters from Florida, Kentucky and North Carolina were being sent to help out in the emergency.

It was the third time in four years that firefighters from the South were sent to help Western states. More than 1,000 federal and state personnel from the South joined in fighting Western fires last year.

Mobilize For Two Rallies

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser has ordered National Guard troops and highway patrolmen to be in Raleigh July 4 as a precautionary measure during a protest rally.

Holshouser said Tuesday 1,000 National Guardsmen and 300 highway patrolmen will be available in case they are needed "to protect property or to protect the marchers against each other."

Two groups have planned marches for July 4 in Raleigh. The main demonstration is sponsored by the National Alliance Against Racism and Political Repression which will be asking for abolition of the death penalty.

Meanwhile, a group of white militants from eastern North Carolina have been granted a permit for a counter demonstration. The group, the Rights of White People, says it plans to demonstrate in favor of capital punishment and against Communism.

Holshouser said he expected no violence from the marches. "This is a precaution," he said. "When you have several groups with different viewpoints marching, the potential for trouble is there."

The governor plans to be out of town Thursday, attending various Independence Day celebrations.

He said the troops and patrolmen will not be stationed along the planned line of march for the demonstration.

Organizers for the alliance say that besides asking for an end to the death penalty, they will seek a halt to work on the new Federal Correctional Center in Butner, N.C., which has been criticized as a "brain-washing factory" for political prisoners.

The alliance advertises speakers including Angela Davis, U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., Clyde Bellecourt of the American Indian Movement and the Rev. Ralph Abernathy of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Holshouser would not take a position on the death penalty Tuesday, although he voted against it as a member of the state legislature.

He said he would not take a public stand unless and until the first of the state's 45 death row prisoners exhausts his appeals and faces execution in the state's gas chamber.

Rescue Was In Sight; Then The Sharks Hit

By JOHN MUELLER
Associated Press Writer
PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — After 13 hours adrift in the Gulf of Mexico, Edward Horne, his wife and five children were elated to see a rescue plane. Then the sharks hit.

"We didn't know the sharks were around until the very last," Horne said Tuesday of an attack that fatally wounded Billy, 10. Another son, Edward Jr., 3, also died, apparently of exposure or drowning.

The survivors were admitted to the Tyndall hospital for observation, spokesmen said.

Horne said the family left the Florida Panhandle city of Carrabelle late Monday aboard their 43-foot boat, headed for Tarpon Springs, north of St. Petersburg.

"Two hours out, we hit the darnedest storm we ever saw," Horne, a motel broker, told his oldest son, James Edward, in a telephone call home. "There were 16-foot waves crashing over the deck. It just busted the boat open."

"We stayed aboard as long as we could, 'til the waves ripped off the sides," Horne later told newsmen. "And finally, it was gone. We tied each other together and stayed around the life ring."

Coast Guard officials said they responded to the craft's distress call, radioed at 11 p.m.

Monday, by sending out two aircraft that searched throughout the night and after day-break.

At about noon, an airplane piloted by Coast Guard Lt. Col. Jack Arney spotted the survivors, clad in life jackets and clinging to a single life ring.

"They were kicking, thrashing the water, and there was a number of sharks surrounding them," Arney said. He said there were eight to a dozen sharks in the water, "15 feet away, just lying there with their noses pointed towards the family."

The plane guided a nearby pleasure boat to the family, and it picked up the seven. Helicopters brought the two dying youngsters to shore and the rest of the family followed after being transferred to a Coast Guard cutter.

"Somewhere, somehow, we overlooked something, I think it was the weather," Horne said. "And our babies had to pay for it," added Mrs. Horne.

Gun Club Slows State Coast Area Acquisition

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Core Banks Gun Club is giving pause to the House National Parks and Recreation subcommittee, which is considering legislation to further establish the Cape Lookout National Seashore on the North Carolina coast.

Pending legislation would amend the 1966 bill which authorized establishment of the recreation area.

In testimony before the subcommittee Tuesday, Thomas W. Earnhardt, assistant secretary of administration for North Carolina, said nearly 90 per cent of the land has been acquired, but the state is having trouble buying 900 acres held by the gun club.

"It is felt that this property could be acquired far more quickly if the land is condemned under federal condemnation laws rather than those of the state," said Earnhardt.

He said the state has offered the gun club $1 million for the property but the owners are holding out for more.

He said the gun club owners want to test North Carolina's condemnation laws through the courts, if necessary. This could take several years, he added.

Pending before the subcommittee is a proposal which would allow the federal government to acquire the gun club property by purchase or exchange.

Earnhardt said that aside from the gun club property, only 89 acres of land are in dispute on Core Banks and settlement is near on much of this land.

Reps. Joe Skubitz, R-Kan., and Teno Roncalio, D-Wyo., expressed surprise at the projected cost of the seashore during testimony by Douglas P. Wheeler, deputy assistant secretary of the Interior Department's Fish, Wildlife and Parks section.

Wheeler said the original land acquisition estimate was $265,000 and has climbed to $13.1 million. Original development cost, he said, was nearly $3 million but now is $20 million.

Wheeler explained that North Carolina took longer than anticipated to acquire the land and that $7 million of the $20 million development cost would be to meet environmental protection standards which were not law when the 1966 act was passed.

The subcommittee chairman, Rep. Roy Taylor, D-N. C., said the Interior's new cost estimate is "the price of delay." The interior spokesman agreed that based on 1974 costs, further delay could hike the price of development to $50 million.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed today, leveling off after Tuesday's sharp drop.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.17 at 791.85, but losers maintained a 3-to-2 edge on gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was moderate. Analysts noted some bargain hunting in blue-chip and glamour issues, which were particularly hard hit in Tuesday's decline.

Polaroid, which tumbled 1 1/2% to its lowest close in nearly 10 years Tuesday, led the NYSE active list again today, rebounding 1/2 to 24 3/4. A 123,400-share block of the issue changed hands at 24 1/4.

After Monday's close, the company announced that earnings for the second quarter would show a steep decline from the like period last year.

Analysts said the heavy selling of the stock was a major reason for the market's over-all slide Tuesday because it jolted investors' confidence.

Among other glamour issues which posted large losses Tuesday, Walt Disney recovered 1 1/4 to 40 1/4; Control Data, 3/4 to 21 3/4; and Burroughs 3/4 to 97.

Teledyne rose 3/4 to 13 1/4. The company extended an offer to exchange subordinated debentures for its common stock.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .07 at 43.85.

On the American Stock Exchange, Robino-Ladd was the volume leader, down 7/8 at 2 in trading marked by an 83,700-share block at 1 1/4.

Michigan General lost 7/8 to 1 1/4 as a 61,900-share block traded at 1.

The Amex market-value index was .40 lower at 77.04.

The AAA reported Tuesday that its latest weekly survey of more than 5,200 stations in all states except Alaska showed slight improvement in the number of stations open after 6 p.m. on weekdays and on weekends.

According to the spot check this week, 72 per cent of all stations surveyed are open after 6 p.m. on weekdays, up 2 per cent from last week; 65 per cent are open after 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 54 per cent were open on Sunday, up from 50 per cent a week ago.

Fuel prices continued stable, with regular gas selling for an average price of 56 cents a gallon and premium averaging 60 cents per gallon.

IT WENT THATA WAY—A three-way discussion arose in Tuesday night's Minnesota-Texas game in the first inning over umpire Armando Rodriguez's call of Harmon Killebrew's hit. Killebrew and manager Frank Quilici (right) thought it was foul, but Rodriguez called it fair and Killebrew was thrown out at first. All three point to the spot where they claim it hit the ground. ## Soderholm Didn't Run Slow In Getting Home

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Eric Soderholm was fined for poor baserunning and made the Texas Rangers pay for it.

Clipped of $50 Monday night for fouling up a suicide squeeze play, the Minnesota infielder made sure he didn't foul up anything Tuesday night.

At the swing of Glenn Borgmann's bat in the ninth inning, Soderholm was off and running from first base and scored the winning run in the Twins' 5-4 victory over the Rangers.

"You have to gamble late in the game," Soderholm said after coming home on Borgmann's double off the left field wall. "We might as well win it now as wait around."

Soderholm made a head-long dive into home plate and just beat the relay throw to Texas catcher Jim Sundberg. It was so close that Texas Manager Billy Martin and Sundberg protested the play vehemently.

"There was no question about it," Martin said. "He was out." "I wouldn't have argued like I did if I didn't feel we had

Name Left Off List

One name was omitted from the list of Little League All-Stars given to the Daily Reflector yesterday.

Mark Shank of Pepsi-Cola was named to the Tar Heel Little League All-Star team, along with the others announced.

In addition, one name in the published list was misspelled. Chosen was Kenneth Barnes, not Marnes, as published.

him," said Sundberg. "He missed the plate with his hand and tried to get his leg in, but I had my foot and glove right there."

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles 9-6; the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 5-3; the Detroit Tigers stopped the New York Yankees 4-2; the Chicago White Sox turned back the Kansas City Royals 4-1 and the Oakland A's defeated the California Angels 7-5.

Red Sox 9, Orioles 6
A pair of double steals and Dwight Evans' two-run single helped Boston to four runs in the ninth inning, snapping a tie and lifting the Red Sox over Baltimore.

Indians 5, Brewers 3
Frank Duffy's two-run single sparked Cleveland's four-run, second-inning rally, and George Hendrick hit his third home run in two days, leading the Indians past Milwaukee.

Tigers 4, Yankees 2
Detroit erupted for four runs in the fifth inning, two on a double by Gary Sutherland, and the Tigers defeated New York to extend the Yankees' losing streak to six games.

White Sox 4, Royals 1
Home runs by Dick Allen and Bill Melton helped Wilbur Wood and Chicago to the victory over Kansas City.

A's 7, Angels 5
Angel Mangual drove in four runs with a double and a three-run homer as Oakland defeated California.

Greenville's American Legion baseball team came up with three seventh inning runs and pulled out a 5-3 victory over Snow Hill last night in the first game of a best-of-three series.

The series is the first round of the post-season playoffs. The winner will advance to meet Rocky Mount next week for round two of the series that will eventually lead to the state championship.

Greenville pitcher Barry Johnson was tagged for nine hits, but he effectively scattered them so that Snow Hill was never able to get a big inning going. Their three runs all came in one-run bursts. Five Greenville errors helped them along the way also.

Loser Paker Davis gave up seven hits, and also scattered them, but Greenville got their rally going without benefit of a hit, using walks, errors, and sacrifices to get the job done.

Snow Hill threatened in the top of the first, loading the bases, but Greenville got away without damage.

Greenville then took the lead with a run in the bottom of the frame. Griff Garner walked and Robert Brinkley singled. Macon Moye also got a hit, loading the bases. Kelly Heath hit a sacrifice fly, driving in Garner for the 1-0 lead.

Greenville got another run in the second to up their lead to 2-0. With two down, Johnson singled to third base. Al Heath followed with a triple to center, driving in Johnson.

Greenville then didn't threaten again until the sixth inning, and by then, Snow Hill had pushed into a 3-2 lead.

Snow Hill got its first run in the fourth. Terry McEatter reached on an error and Jerry Carraway singled, with both runners advancing on an error on the play. John McKeel singled to drive in both McEatter and Carraway, but the latter was called out on an appeal play for missing third base. McKeel later moved to third after a pickoff attempt was muffed, but he died there.

In the fifth, Snow Hill pushed in the tying run. Richard Lancaster walked and Tommy Herndon singled. Mike Carter also walked, loading the bases. Davis grounded into a double play, getting Lancaster, and himself, but an error on the play let Herndon come around to tie it up.

Then, in the sixth, Snow Hill took the lead. Carraway singled to left and moved up on an out. Lancaster walked and Herndon reached on a fielder's choice that left everyone safe on an error. Carter walked, forcing in Carraway with the go-ahead run.

Snow Hill put a man on third in the seventh, and moved one as far as second in the ninth, but couldn't score again.

Greenville threatened in the sixth, when Jack Jenkins and Jerry Griffin both singled, but couldn't come around.

In the seventh, however, Greenville came up with three runs to gain the lead for good. Al Heath walked, as did Garner. Brinkley reached on a fielder's choice, nailing Heath at third. Moye reacted on an error, scoring Garner, and another error on the relay let Brinkley come across, with Moye moving to third. Kelly Heath then hit his second sacrifice fly of the night to score Moye to make it 5-3.

The two move to Snow Hill tonight for the second game of the series, with Snow Hill in a must-win position. A victory for Greenville would end the series. Snow Hill 000 111 000-3 9 2 Greenville 110 000 30x-5 7 5

Farmville In Sweep Of Pair

Farmville swept a doubleheader from Taff Office Equipment in Senior Babe Ruth Baseball last night. They came up with four runs in the eighth to win the first game 5-1, and used but one hit to take the nightcap.

Farmville scored its first run in the first game in the fourth inning when Marty Hobgood singled, and came all the way around on a pitcher's error. Taff tied the game when David Clifton tripled with one out and was sacrificed home in the sixth. The winning runs crossed when Ricky Schreve led off with a walk, moved over when Keith Oakley walked, and both moved over on a sacrifice. Dexter Crawley singled home Schreve and moved Oakley to third. Jeff Cobb doubled in Oakley and Crawley, and Cobb later scored on a balk and a passed ball.

The second game saw Taff take the lead in the first inning when John Causey reached on a fielder's choice, moved up on an error, and scored on Jack Jones' single.

Farmville won the game in the fifth with just one hit. Only one man had reached base prior to the inning before Hobgood led off with a single and steal of second. Schreve walked, and both runners stole up. David Joyner's infield out scored Hobgood and moved Schreve to third. He eventually scored on a catcher's error.

In other results, Ayden-Grifton nipped Fire-Fighters, 3-2.

Beltone, the regular season champion, and the Little Mint moved along in the winners' bracket of the Ladies Softball League Post-Season Tournament last night.

In the losers' bracket, The Daily Reflector got a forfeit victory over Pitt County Memorial Hospital, eliminating the loser.

In the second game, Beltone took an 8-7 victory over Piggly-Wiggly. Beltone got one in the first, but P-W came up with two in the second to take a brief lead. Beltone came back with three in the bottom of the second, then added two in the third. They scored one each in the fifth and sixth. P-W came back with five in the sixth, including a homer by C. Averette, but fell just short.

In the final game, Little Mint took a 11-6 win over Coca-Cola. The Little Mint pushed in two in the first, then got five more in the second. They added four more in the sixth. Coke came up with three in the third, two in the fourth and one in the sixth.

Play in the tournament will resume on Tuesday, with The Daily Reflector meeting Piggly-Wiggly in the first game, followed by Dixie Sales vs. Coca-Cola in the second. # Pickets Set To Go Out Despite Some Problems; Rookies Report

By NICK ALLEN
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Despite refusal of U.S. International University—site of the San Diego Charger training camp—to permit on-campus protests, the striking National Football League Players Association planned its first picketing for today.

And, even as the NFLPA, striking with the slogan "No Freedom, No Football," readied for the first picket lines in the history of professional sports, a discordant note appeared among the ranks of the union's members.

"We're not going to come out smelling like roses, making ridiculous demands for twice as much money with less work and no discipline," charged center Jim Langer of the world champion Miami Dolphins. He said 80 per cent of his teammates want to play against the College All-Stars on July 25 at Chicago.

Some 50 veteran players were scheduled to throw up a picket line just off the U.S. International University campus at 11 a.m., EDT, today in hopes of persuading rookies and free agents not to report.

While the veterans prepared for the walkout, the Los Angeles Times reported that 40 of the 49 rookies under contract to the Chargers were in the training camp before midnight Tuesday.

Allison Relaxed For Firecracker

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Allison, the newest million dollar winner in stock car racing, is relaxed and ready for the Firecracker 400 Thursday.

He is tentatively on the pole in Roger Penske's 1974 Matador with the best Tuesday qualifying speed of 180.755 miles an hour.

Rain cut short the pole position runs, leaving Cale Yarborough, Bobby Isaac and David Pearson a chance to bump Allison off the hot spot when the cars took the track again today.

Twenty two cars completed a pair of qualifying laps around the 2.5-mile high-banked Daytona International Speedway. Another 29 were on the line and ready when the third and longest storp of the day took over.

The full 40-car starting field will be filled today.

As it stands now, Donnie Allison's Chevrolet is in the front row alongside his brother. He qualified at 179.755 m.p.h. Next best were Buddy Baker in a Ford at 178.479; Richard Petty in a Dodge at 177.992; rookie Dan Daugherty in a Ford at 174.445, and A.J. Foyt in a Chevrolet at 174.229.

Bobby Allison is relaxed even though his own racing operation ran into problems, and his Chevrolet is parked temporarily.

"Some people play golf or fish to relax," Allison said. "When I get problem, I go off with my sportsman car and race the small tracks. That's what I did the past week."

Allison moved into the million dollar winners' circle two weeks ago at Irish Hills, Mich., joining Petty and Pearson as the only ones to collect that much prize money in the stock car field.

Although Allison also was on the pole here a year ago with his Chevrolet, he's never won on Daytona International Speedway. His best finish was third.

For the past three years, Petty has finished second in the 400-miler.

The Chargers were the first of three NFL teams scheduled to open training camps this week.

An informal survey, however, indicated that many, if not all, of the young players planned to report to the San Diego camp.

And Coach Tommy Prothro said: "All of the rookies we've contacted say they'll come out. We have talked to all but a very few."

NFLPA Executive Director Ed Garvey said the union would abide by the university's decision.

Jesse Freitas, one of the Chargers' two first-round draftees and a quarterback prospect, said he would cross the picket line. "I don't think I should be going on strike for something I really don't belong to."

Rookies are not eligible for NFLPA membership until they make a team and the regular season begins.

Negotiations broke off last week between the NFLPA and the NFL Management Council, representing owners. The strike began Monday.

The 1,200-member NFLPA's demands include elimination of the reserve and option clauses.

When the NFLPA struck four years ago the Kansas City Chiefs were allowed to practice and play against the College All-Stars.

The Dolphin veterans will meet Friday night to determine what to do for this year's game against the College All-Stars.

There were these other developments on the strike front:

—Charger owner Eugene Klein said there was a good chance the entire 1974 NFL season would be played without striking veterans.

—Bud Adams, owner of the Houston Oilers, said cancellation of the exhibition season, considered very possible at this stage of the dispute, would result in "every club in the NFL winding up in the red."

—George Halas of the Chicago Bears, patriarch of NFL owners, said pro football players can not be considered "just like other people" despite what the striking players association thinks.

—Joe Namath, star quarterback of the New York Jets, said he will honor the strike but won't picket.

Stockton Moves Into Wimbledon Quarter-Finals After Upset Win

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King, a five-time winner of the Wimbledon singles crown, was upset today by Olga Morozova. The Russian beat the top-seeded American, 7-5, 6-2 in today's quarter-finals.

times but never the champion, reached the men's semifinals today with a stunning upset over top-seeded John Newcombe, while America's Chris Evert cruised into the women's semis.

Rosewall, runner-up to Jaroslav Drobny in 1954, to Lew Hoed in 1956 and to Newcombe in 1970, upended his Australian countryman today, 6-1, 1-6, 6-0, 7-5.

Miss Evert, the fashionable

South African Linky Boshoff, a 17-year-old schoolgirl who gained the women's quarter-finals by upsetting Rosie Casals, was to face Britain's Virginia Wade. Defending champion Billie Jean King was to test Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union; Evonne Goolagong and Kerry Melville were locked in an all Australian match, and Chris Evert was pitted against West Germany's Helga Masthoff.

Stockton earned his quarter-final berth by defeating second-seeded Ilie Nastase of Romania in Tuesday's fourth round; Metreveli defeated seventh-seeded Tom Okker of The Netherlands; El Shafei beat Manuel Orantes of Spain Tuesday, the day after taming fourth-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden.

Smith beat Patrice Dominguez of France; Newcombe qualified by topping Erik van Dillen of Aptos, Calif.; Rosewall beat back a strong challenge from Roscoe Tanner, of Big Canoe, Ga.

Connors, of Belleville, Ill., downed Jaime Fillol of Chile, and Kodes barely survived a powerful attack by 11th-seeded Tom Gorman of Seattle.

Ms. King, highly favored to win her sixth singles crown for the United States, disposed of Lesley Charles of Britain and Miss Evert, the No. 2 seed, ousted Mona Schallau of Iowa City, Iowa.

Young Lions Vs. Old Buzzard

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The youth movement has been the dominant theme on the pro golf tour this year with the so-called kiddie corps coming into its own.

"Most of 'em are real nice boys," observes 62-year-old Sam Snead, who was winning golf tournaments long before any of the Young Lions were born.

"A lot of 'em are good players, too. Big and strong, and ooo-woooo, don't they hit the ball hard? Real long, lots of 'em. They're nice, respectful boys. A lot of 'em call me 'Mr. Snead.' Now that's real nice."

"Of course, a lot of 'em call me other things, too. I hear 'em in the locker room. They're sayin', 'Why don't that old buzzard go home to the rockin' chair where he belongs and quit comin' out here and takin' our money?'"

"Yeah, they say a lot of that, too."

And they're saying it this week, too, with the still-sweet-swinging Snead an entry in the $130,000 Milwaukee Open that got under way today on the 7,010-yard, par-72 Tuckaway Country Club course.

He's considerably more than a sentimental favorite for the $26,000 first prize in this event that got started a day early to make way for next week's prestige-laden British Open.

Snead scored the last of his record 84 official career titles in 1965 but has challenged strongly several times since.

The latest was his second-place finish—lost by a single shot—in the Los Angeles Open early this year. He was in contention through 71 holes, finally bowing on the 72nd to Dave Stockton.

In only six previous starts this season, Snead has collected almost $23,000 and ranks in the top 70 money-winners.

He says he plays "just as good as I can and try to pick up a little check when I can. It's pretty hard to win with these old nerves."

"But," he continued, with a big smile, "if they just let me make me a couple of putts, just let me hole a few of 'em, and maybe we can give 'em a little something they can sit up and take notice about."

Snead and Lee Trevino ranked as the two top gate attractions in the 144-man field that also included Hubert Green, a three-time winner this season, and such other 1974 title-winners as Buddy Allin, Bob Menne, Jim Colbert, Allen Miller, Dave Hill and defending Milwaukee Open champion Stockton.

Marshall Gets 12th Call In Row

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

It's getting so they don't even bother answering the phone in the Los Angeles Dodger bullpen. Mike Marshall knows the call will be for him without picking it up.

Marshall's ironman act reached a record 12 consecutive games Tuesday night and he earned his eighth straight victory as the Dodgers bested Cincinnati 3-2, stretching their National League West lead to a fat 8½ games.

No baseball pitcher ever worked in more than nine straight games before Marshall started his daily march to the mound two weeks ago. He hasn't missed a game since and has now appeared in an arm-busting 52 of Los Angeles' 77 games.

"I don't know what the limit is, but I haven't found it yet," said Marshall, who ran his record to 10-3 with the victory over the Reds. "We've only played half a year," he added. "How can I be tired?"

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday night, Houston downed Atlanta 5-1, Pittsburgh topped Montreal 4-2, New York trimmed Philadelphia 4-2, Chicago edged St. Louis 4-3 and San Diego defeated San Francisco 5-1.

Padres 5, Giants 1
 Ex-Giant Willie McCovey belted a two-run homer and Clarence Gaston added a solo shot, powering San Diego to its victory over San Francisco.

Astros 5, Braves 1
 Claude Osteen spaced six hits and contributed three of his own, moving Houston past Atlanta.

Pirates 4, Expos 2
 Jim Rooker surrendered two runs on four straight hits at the start of the game but then steadied to pitch Pittsburgh over Montreal.

Mets 4, Phillies 2
 Tom Seaver, who gained his fifth victory of the season for the New York Mets, needed late help from reliever Jack Aker to six-hit Philadelphia.

Cubs 4, Cards 3
 Chicago scored all of its runs in the first inning when Rick Monday pounded his eighth home run and Bill Madlock and Vic Harris added run-scoring doubles to defeat St. Louis.

American league scores: Boston 9, Baltimore 6; Cleveland 5, Milwaukee 3; Detroit 4, New York 2; Minnesota 5, Texas 4; Chicago 4, Kansas City 1; Oakland 7, California 5.

Democrats May Revise Their McGovern Criticism

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the Senate Watergate committee is reconsidering its preliminary reports criticizing the campaign finances of Democrats Hubert H. Humphrey and George McGovern.

Staff Democrats, apparently without telling Republicans, have agreed to review new material to be submitted by McGovern aides. The aides complained that a preliminary report was unfair in suggesting that McGovern may have violated the spirit of the law forbidding corporate campaign donations when he forced some creditors, including corporations, to settle leftover campaign bills for $35,000 less than the full amounts.

Humphrey complained to top Democrats and Republican staff members, and agreed to submit new information about his personal finances and instructed his lawyer to draw up a legal brief for the staff defending his use of more than $100,000 in personal funds in his 1972 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination. Earlier, the staff said Humphrey had failed to turn over requested documents. One committee source said Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., had called Democratic staff members and ordered that the McGovern section of the preliminary report be taken out. However, chief counsel Samuel Dash denied any final decision had been made. Dash wouldn't confirm or deny that Ervin had expressed a personal interest in the McGovern section but said complaints had been raised about its fairness and that the staff is taking another look. Chief Republican counsel Fred Thompson said Dash hadn't told him that McGovern aides had complained directly, nor that any reconsideration was under way. "If they're working something out, it's being done unilaterally," Thompson said.

The McGovern draft said that $340,000 in leftover funds, raised for McGovern's presidential campaign, were shifted to his current Senate re-election race in South Dakota. It said that at the same time his presidential campaign committee was forcing creditors to swallow bad debts. A McGovern aide, John Holm, called the report a "cheap shot," and said the principal presidential committee was in the red at the time it asked creditors to settle for 50 cents on the dollar. He said the state and local campaign finance officials had ordered the leftover $340,000 sent to the Senate race, preventing McGovern from paying off presidential debts with it.

The McGovern draft was written by a Republican and edited into final form by assistant Democratic counsel David Dorsen. Dash said neither he nor Ervin had seen it before it was leaked to newsmen. Humphrey's lawyer, Joseph A. Walters of Minneapolis, is scheduled to present to rebut today the staff's conclusion that Humphrey may have violated an old federal law by shifting $86,000 in stock and $23,000 in cash from a personal trust and into his campaign in early 1972.

The staff said that the law then prohibited anyone from giving more than $5,000 to a single, national campaign committee. Humphrey did not split up his donations or set up the usual array of dummy committees that politicians usually used to circumvent that law, the staff report said.

Outfall's Repair Concerns Board

WILLIAMSTON—The matter of washed-up raw sewage from a broken outfall remains a pressing problem in Williamston. The matter came up at the July meeting of the Town Board Monday.

Dr. G. G. Himmelwright appeared before the board to explain that the backwash of raw sewage not only created bad odors, but was a definite health hazard.

For some time, when the Roanoke River's water level is high, it floods the Skewarkee Gut, resulting in raw sewage seeping out of a broken outfall in the area.

Members of the town board explained that repair of the outfall is included in the town's sanitation plan, but the presidential freeze on federal funds had hampered progress on this and other proposed work.

At Himmelwright's request, the board will furnish him all pertinent information, which he says he will send to U.S. Senator Jesse Helms in an effort to get immediate action on funds release.

Following complaints by home owners living near the newly developed Be-Lo Shopping Center, the board took action to have the town attorney look into the role of the Board of Adjustments. Under the present zoning law, the Board of Adjustments has the authority to approve as a buffer zone the installation of a wire fence. The town attorney has been asked to draft a proposal that would make mandatory the installation of a more suitable type buffer between residential and commercial areas.

A Negro minister appeared before the board with a request that the board consider establishment of a town maintained cemetery for blacks. The Woodlawn Cemetery for whites is town maintained. This request was taken under advisement and will appear on a later town board agenda.

At a public hearing, the board approved rezoning of property on U.S. 264 by-pass. The front portion was approved for R0 (residential and office) with the back portion approved for R-6 residential.

Action on authorization for individual installation of incinerators was tabled for further study. The matter was discussed at a public hearing. Some requests have been received for installation of incinerators that would meet the N.C. Department of Air and Water Resources requirements. Board members want to see one in operation before making a decision.

The second and final reading was heard and approval given for the amended cablevision franchise. The wording for the franchise has been amended to meet FCC requirements not earlier met.

In other action, the board appointed Charlie Mac Roberson to replace Mrs. Marge Kellam on the Board of Adjustments; and denied a request for parking places on the west side of Harrison Street.

Speaking on behalf of black residents of Martin County Citizens Association, J.E. Leathers asked the town board to consider a $1,200 appropriation for the Mary S. Gray Library. The library has been closed for a year due to the sickness of the librarian and lack of funds. The association is also asking for a county contribution. The request was taken under advisement and will be discussed at a later meeting.

Fewer Tourists Went To Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Tourism in Kenya fell off last year, with fewer Americans, West Germans and Britons visiting the country.

Tourism Ministry figures just released here show that 388,100 tourists visited Kenya last year, a 9 per cent drop from the 1972 figure of 428,400.

Unsettled monetary and economic conditions prevailing throughout 1973 and the increasing competitiveness of new tourist areas elsewhere in the world were seen as factors probably responsible for the drop.

The ministry said the oil crisis and increasing air fares would affect tourism still further this year.

Moose Enrolled
New Members

The Greenville Moose Monday night enrolled 17 new members, received reports on forthcoming events and on the recently-concluded International Convention, and were reminded of the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit to Greenville July 17-18.

Civic Affairs chairman Roy Thompson asked for volunteers to help with the 18th annual Little League Field Day, sponsored by the Moose, at Elm Street Park. The program is customarily held on the Fourth of July, and will begin at 1:00 p.m.

Secretary Edwin M. Baldree said some 7,000 were registered for the convention in Chicago, and noted changes made in the fraternity's leadership, with the stepping down of Director-General Paul Schmitz and elevation of Herbert Heilman to that position. (Heilman has served for many years as Membership Director.)

Baldree said a new superintendent for Moosehaven had been appointed, Fred Kluge; and a new superintendent for Mooseheart would be installed in September.

The population at Mooseheart was reported currently as 437 children; and that Moosehaven now has 478 residents, the oldest of whom was aged 101 years and 5 months.

He announced J.B. Boyd, of the Greenville lodge, had been awarded an expense-free trip to Hawaii for his membership activity.

Lodge Governor Jack Morgan called attention to appointment of a Greenville WOTM Chapter member, Ada Jones, as Deputy Supreme Regent for North Carolina. An honor, he added, "bringing distinction not only to the Chapter, but to our lodge."

The new members enrolled Monday night were: John Aldredge, Jennings Blakley, Johnny M. Braxton, Roy Braxton, Arthur Wayne Dempsey, Martin Dunn, Richard Earl Hardee.

Fred A. Hedgepeth, D.M. Kuntz, Harold Wilson Mills, Ronald D. Payne, Walter R. Perkins, Ronald H. Sessoms, Richard Spivey Jr., Walter G. Spivey and George Harold Wooten. Daniel T. Earnhardt served as Class Representative.

Heart Attack In Robbery Case

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP)—Father Francis T. Donahue, pastor of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, whose body was found bound to a bed in the rectory last Friday, died of a heart attack, the state medical examiner has reported.

The report on the autopsy on the body of the 64-year-old clergyman came from Dr. Paige Hudson of Chapel Hill.

Police say they believe the priest was bound by a robber who took some money from him and stole his car, which is still missing.

The police say they would like to question a parolee from a federal penitentiary in Missouri.

Pelicans Are Back After A Wipe-Out

By ERIC NEWHOUSE
Associated Press Writer
GRAND ISLE, La. (AP)—Wild life agents said today that a colony of brown pelicans is nesting again in Barataria Bay where pesticides had wiped out Louisiana's state bird in the early 1960s.

For six years, Louisiana's only brown pelican was on its state seal.

But Florida donated more than 200 of its own brown pelicans to Louisiana, and now an estimated 450 of the rare birds are nesting on a 75-acre island called Grand Terre in Barataria Bay about 70 miles south of New Orleans.

The colony's regeneration was assured when the Environmental Protection Agency banned the use of DDT in 1972.

"With the restrictions on the use of DDT, the problems of eggshell thinning seem to be over in this particular area," said Ted Joanen, Wild Life and Fisheries Commission biologist at the Rockefeller Refuge on Grand Chenier.

"We're monitoring pesticide contamination fairly closely," he added, "but the Barataria Bay area is fairly clean."

Earlier this century, an estimated 50,000 brown pelicans stalked the coastal marshes of south Louisiana, gulping down anchovies and rearing broods of fuzzy chicks.

But as pesticide use increased, the eggs began to go bad and the chicks died prematurely along the coastline where the Mississippi River dumped America's pollutants into the Gulf of Mexico.

The last recorded Louisiana nesting was in 1962.

However, brown pelicans did survive along the East Coast, the Florida coastline and the Eastern Gulf of Mexico.

Joanen said wild life agents hope to pick up another 100 birds from Florida early this month; but the newcomers won't be critical to the program's success.

"We expect to raise approximately 100 young birds from our re-introduced colony this year," Joanen explained.

Hearing On Budget Set

WILLIAMSTON—Martin County's proposed budget of $9,842,545 is to be the subject of a public hearing on Monday, July 8. Adoption of the budget, according to County Clerk C. M. Cobb, is expected to be made following that meeting.

Budget studies and plans show that total expected county revenues are $7,353,160. A supplemental levy amounting to $2,738,323 has been proposed to make up the difference between the proposed budget and expected revenues. The $2,738,323 supplemental levy includes a ten per cent allowance for uncollectible taxes.

At the July meeting of the Martin County Commissioners on Monday, only two items were on the agenda. Commissioners directed the county's tax supervisor to take expeditious means to collect all delinquent taxes. In a second action, commissioners approved tax relief requests totaling $60.

TAKE A TRAIN

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam has one of the world's highest prices for gasoline—$1.65 a gallon—but travel by train may be the cheapest anywhere.

Although most of the nation's rail traffic has been stopped by the war, it is possible to ride more than 10 miles from Saigon to the nearby town of Thu Duc for just 20 piasters—just over two U.S. cents.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes June 20 through June 26.

HOUSE
WHITE HOUSE STAFF
 Rejected, 181 for and 237 against, an amendment to preserve the President's existing White House staff hiring policies.

The President now gets a fixed sum for staff salaries, with few restrictions on staff size or pay levels.

The amendment was offered to a bill (H.R. 14715) authorizing funds for White House operations. The bill, later passed and sent to the Senate, establishes civil service salary levels for White House staffers.

Supporters wanted to perpetuate the President's relatively free hand in hiring.

Opponents argued that the White House staff—which is not subject to Senate confirmation—is growing too large and usurping jobs of Cabinet officers. Rep. Morris Udall (D-Ariz.) argued against returning to "the blank check system of the past."

Reps. Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L.H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-30), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

HOUSING FOR ELDERLY
 Passed, 274 for and 112 against, an amendment to authorize a $1.5 billion federal fund for guaranteeing mortgage money for housing the aged. Non-profit organizations—such as churches and labor unions—would qualify for the loans.

The amendment was attached to H.R. 15361, a Housing and Urban Development bill that later was passed and sent to conference.

The amendment also provides rent subsidies for the low-income aged.

Supporters argued that a critical shortage exists in suitable housing for the elderly. Rep. Ben Blackburn (R-Ga.) said, "The budgetary impact will be minor compared to benefits derived."

Opponents called the fund budget-busting. Most opponents argued that such mortgage money should come from private institutions, instead of directly from the federal government.

Henderson and Broyhill voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Ruth, Martin and Taylor voted "nay."

Rose did not vote.
OMB FUND CUT Rejected, 152 for and 252 against, an amendment to slice operating funds for the Office of Management and Budget.

The amendment was offered to a bill (H.R. 1544) appropriating funds for various executive departments. The bill was later passed and sent to the Senate.

The amendment would have cut OMB's funds from $22 million to $16 million. After rejecting the $6 million cut, the House approved a $2.6 million reduction in OMB funds.

OMB controls the spending levels of most federal programs. It has come under fire for impounding funds approved by Congress.

Supporters argued that OMB threatens to dominate the three branches of government. Rep. Jake Pickle (D-Tex.) said, "It is time for OMB to end its one-man rule of the federal budget."

Opponents argued that OMB has harnessed the "overblown federal bureaucracy. Rep. John Rhodes (R-Ariz.) called the $6 million cut "a meat-ax amendment."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Henderson and Andrews did not vote.

SENATE
TAX REFORM Rejected, 33 for and 64 against, an amendment to cut taxes for low- and middle-income persons and to end certain tax breaks for corporations and wealthy persons.

A week of parliamentary maneuvers had blocked a vote on the major tax-reform amendment.

The proposals called for raising the personal income-tax deduction from $750 to $825, and for killing the oil depletion allowance, overseas corporate investment credits and some tax loopholes used by the wealthy.

The amendment was offered to a debt ceiling bill (H.R. 14832) that was later passed and sent to the White House. The bill was passed without amendments. If it had not been signed into law by June 30, the federal government could not have paid its bills.

Supporters argued that low-income persons need relief from inflation and that tax cuts would boost the sagging economy. They said the oil depletion allowance should be eliminated because of high oil company profits. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) called for providing "some degree of tax relief and equity" for those who pay more than their share.

Opponents argued against burdening a debt-ceiling bill with non-germane amendments. They said that tax cuts would feed inflation, and that oil companies must be encouraged to search for oil. Some opponents feared that the amendment would encourage a flood of tax proposals. Sen. James Allen (D-Ala.) said tax reformers were playing "brinkmanship with the entire economic well-being of the nation."

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

LIVESTOCK SUBSIDIES
 Passed, 82 for and 9 against, a bill to guarantee loans to cattle and hog producers (S. 3679). It now goes to the House.

The subsidies are designed as relief from rising grain and declining livestock prices. Producers could get federal loans of up to $350,000.

Supporters argued that producers need relief and consumers need meat.

Opponents attributed producers' problems to government bungles, such as the Soviet Wheat deal. Sen. Howard

Metzenbaum (D-Ohio) protested "the anti-consumer views of the Congress and the Administration."

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

FOOD STAMPS FOR STUDENTS Passed, 195 for and 123 against, an amendment to prohibit college students from using food stamps, if they are supported and claimed as tax deductions by parents.

The amendment was attached to a bill (H.R. 15472) to appropriate fiscal 1975 funds for the Department of Agriculture and other agencies, which later passed and was sent to the Senate.

Supporters argued that many students from high- and middle-income families abuse the food stamps program.

Opponents did not speak against the measure.

Jones, Fountain, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Henderson and Andrews did not vote.

Center Will Aid Public Schools

A General Assistance Center for public school systems is being planned at East Carolina University's School of Education.

The center will be supported by a grant of $188,718 from the U.S. Office of Education during the fiscal year 1974-75, with a possible yearly renewal for the center's continuous operation.

According to Dr. William C. Sanderson, chairman of ECU's Department of Administration, the purpose of the Center is to "assist the public school systems of North Carolina in professional development of teachers and administrators" and to "offer assistance in studying and improving the public school curriculum."

Sanderson noted that the ECU Center will enable ECU to "increase and expand" its traditional service to the state's public schools. The Center's emphasis will be direct assistance to school personnel in their respective school settings, he said.

Forty school superintendents from systems in eastern North Carolina have assisted ECU in planning the Center.

School personnel desiring services through the ECU General Assistance Center should channel their requests through their local school superintendents. During July, all superintendents will be given detailed information regarding the Center's assistance programs.

Center Will Aid Public Schools

A General Assistance Center for public school systems is being planned at East Carolina University's School of Education.

The center will be supported by a grant of $188,718 from the U.S. Office of Education during the fiscal year 1974-75, with a possible yearly renewal for the center's continuous operation.

According to Dr. William C. Sanderson, chairman of ECU's Department of Administration, the purpose of the Center is to "assist the public school systems of North Carolina in professional development of teachers and administrators" and to "offer assistance in studying and improving the public school curriculum."

Sanderson noted that the ECU Center will enable ECU to "increase and expand" its traditional service to the state's public schools. The Center's emphasis will be direct assistance to school personnel in their respective school settings, he said.

Forty school superintendents from systems in eastern North Carolina have assisted ECU in planning the Center.

School personnel desiring services through the ECU General Assistance Center should channel their requests through their local school superintendents. During July, all superintendents will be given detailed information regarding the Center's assistance programs.

allowance should be eliminated because of high oil company profits. Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) called for providing "some degree of tax relief and equity" for those who pay more than their share.

Opponents argued against burdening a debt-ceiling bill with non-germane amendments. They said that tax cuts would feed inflation, and that oil companies must be encouraged to search for oil. Some opponents feared that the amendment would encourage a flood of tax proposals. Sen. James Allen (D-Ala.) said tax reformers were playing "brinkmanship with the entire economic well-being

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

LIVESTOCK SUBSIDIES
 Passed, 82 for and 9 against, a bill to guarantee loans to cattle and hog producers (S. 3679). It now goes to the House.

The subsidies are designed as relief from rising grain and declining livestock prices. Producers could get federal loans of up to $350,000.

Supporters argued that producers need relief and consumers need meat.

Opponents attributed producers' problems to government bungles, such as the Soviet Wheat deal. Sen. Howard

Metzenbaum (D-Ohio) protested "the anti-consumer views of the Congress and the Administration."

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

Turks Relax Opium Ban

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey is relaxing the ban the United States got it to put on poppy farming for opium two years ago.

A government spokesman said Monday the cabinet had decided to allow the opium poppy to be grown again in six provinces and part of a seventh in central Turkey.

The spokesman said the government would take all necessary measures to prevent illegal sale of the opium. Before the ban in 1972, some Turkish opium was produced for conversion to medicinal morphine, but the U.S. government claimed that the Turkish crop was also the source of 80 per cent of the heroin smuggled into the United States.

The United States gave Turkey $35 million to compensate the 100,000 poppy farmers, but the ban was still unpopular.

Opines Urban Dwellers Need Trees And Plants

By DONALD THORNTON DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — As Dr. Seymour N. Gold sees it, people have a deep, instinctive need to be near plants. Says Gold, urban planner, environmental horticulturist and professor at the University of California at Davis: "Without question there is such a need, a basic desire for contact with vegetation. It is the basis of the move to the suburbs. It is the basis for our escape from the cities to wilderness areas, state parks and private recreation areas. It is also the basis of the current indoor and outdoor gardening boom." Gold, 40, added that man's plant need "has several components. One is the traditional need we have for beauty and aesthetics as a reaction to much of the ugliness and sterility" around the big city dweller.

The big city resident is faced with what Gold calls "environmental stress." And a relaxing of this stress—through the application of plants—possibly could ease urban problems such as violence.

Plants Ease Stress
"Perhaps no single item could dramatically change the physical and social character of urban America more quickly and less controversially, and costly than plants," Gold said in an interview.

Recent studies, the professor said, show that one out of every four persons in most large cities have behavioral problems caused by stressful environments. "And these behavioral problems often surface in crime or violence," he added.

"We also have studies of mental patients and gardeners which show a relationship between emotional stability and contact or the lack of contact with plants.

"Now I'm not suggesting that only the simple addition of more plants is going to solve crime and violence in the cities, but it certainly would do no harm and may do much good," he said.

The Plant Potential
His research, Gold said, shows that neighborhoods, commercial areas and parks that are well landscaped and well maintained, have lower levels of crime, violence and vandalism than those that are not. "Mean landscapes make mean people," Gold said. "And the sooner we acknowledge this behavioral phenomenon, the sooner we may begin to view this aspect of law enforcement in a positive way."

He also said there was evidence that plants "stabilize property values." "People are attracted to and more reluctant to leave well landscaped areas. Property values are higher and more stable for houses near well landscaped parks and on streets with mature shade trees," Gold said.

"We've only really begun to explore the potential of plants to make cities more interesting places to live or to visit. And they can lend a new and needed dimension of visual order, respect, love and joy to cities that is now lacking."

Rain Plays Big Part In Deadly Highway Wrecks

NEW YORK (AP) — George E. Wilson, whose company provides safe-driving information for its car and truck fleet leasing clients, says rain probably plays a part in two-thirds of all bad weather highway crashes. More people are killed on rain-slicked roads, he points out, than on ice and snow-covered roads combined.

In a heavy rain, he cautions, the tires of a fast-moving car can actually ride like a hydroplane on the film of water that forms on the road and lose contact with the pavement.

The two best ways to avert rainy-weather accidents, Wilson says, are to slow down and leave more space between your car and the one ahead. It's essential to keep windshield wipers and defogger in good condition. Also you're less likely to make like a hydroplane on water-soaked roads if your tires have plenty of tread and are properly inflated.

Wilson is vice president of CIT Service Leasing Corp.

Swine Require Cooked Garbage

RACINE, Wis. (AP) — U.S. swine are being threatened with a rare disease caused by improperly cooked garbage.

Wisconsin Agriculturalist, a farm magazine, reports that the disease, called SVD (Swine Vesicular Disease), was first discovered in Italy in 1966 and has spread through Europe. It acts like the dreaded foot and mouth disease but affects only hogs. As yet the disease has not been detected in this country, but SVD's rapid spread has increased the threat of its introduction into the U.S.

Most European cases have been traced to improperly cooked garbage. The magazine warns that proper handling and cooking of garbage fed to swine is a must to keep SVD out of this country.

Volunteers Hold Salvage Drive

NEW YORK (AP) — The Volunteers of America has launched its 78th annual salvage drive.

Trucks are dispatched to homeowners who telephone the local post of the Volunteers of America, saying they have clothes, used furniture or old appliances to donate. All reusable goods are sorted, cleaned, repaired and redistributed to those in need.

Among other services performed by the Volunteers of America are the operation of maternity and old-age homes, summer camps, day-care centers, programs for the handicapped and halfway houses for prisoners and alcoholics.

Today Is Birthday Of A Unique N.C. Judge

By Dr. H. G. JONES

Written for the AP
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — July 3 is the anniversary of the birth in 1852 of Henry Groves Connor, one of the few judges called upon to rule on the constitutionality of a legislative bill bearing his name. He also had the distinction of being followed on the State Supreme Court by his son.

Connor was born in Wilmington, the son of David and Mary Groves Connor, but the family soon moved to Wilson. As a teenager during the Civil War and because of the death of his father in 1867, Groves—as he was known by his friends—was unable to attend high school or college. Instead, he worked in the office of attorneys George Howard and George W. Whitfield and read law under W. T. Dortch, former Confederate senator. The young man so impressed one of his employers that he was allowed to marry Whitfield's daughter, Kate.

In 1885 he was elected to the State Senate where he sponsored the "Connor Act" which prescribed procedures for registration of land titles. He attracted the attention of Gov. Scales who later in the year appointed him a judge of the Superior Court.

Because of the low salary of the judgeship, Connor resigned in 1893 and again practiced law. Though a Democrat, the Republicans and Populists unsuccessfully offered him their nomination for associate justice of the Supreme Court in 1894. Four years later, however, Connor led the Democratic forces in Wilson County against Fusion rule.

This was one of the state's most bitter racial campaigns.

Connor, while advocating "permanent undivided political supremacy of the white man," argued that the education and improvement of the black race was the white man's burden. Thus, in a sense, he was a "liberal" in terms of the emotions of this day.

Troubled by those with less sympathy for the Negro, he said, "A man who has no higher conception of what 'white supremacy' means in North Carolina than the subordination of an inferior to a superior race is an unpatriotic citizen."

In the House of Representatives in 1899 Connor defeated Lee S. Overman and Locke Craig for the speakership. It was during this session that the new suffrage act containing the "Grandfather Clause" was passed.

Connor supported the act, but his refusal to wave the bloody shirt during the session led to his diminished prestige in the 1901 session during which he opposed the impeachment of Chief Justice David M. Furches and Associate Justice Robert M. Douglas. The Senate failed to muster the necessary two-thirds majority and the Republican judges were acquitted.

Despite his moderation, the Democrats nominated Connor for the State Supreme Court in 1902, and he was elected. It was in the case of Collins vs. Davis that he wrote the opinion upholding the Connor Act. In another case—Mial vs. Ellington—he ruled that an officeholder does not have property rights to a public position.

When President Taft in 1909 sought a judge for the Eastern North Carolina District of federal court, he ignored the partisan suggestions of Republican leaders and turned to Connor who, though an active Democrat, had demonstrated his spirit of fairness to all parties. Connor served on the federal bench from that year until his death in 1924.

Of Justice Connor's twelve children, one—Robert Digges Wimberly Connor—was the moving spirit behind the North Carolina Historical Commission and was chosen first archivist of the United States by President Franklin Roosevelt. Another son, George W. Connor, followed his father's footsteps as a member of the State Supreme Court.

One Briton is killed in a road accident every 28 minutes and one is injured every 90 seconds, according to the Royal Society for the Prevention of Accidents.

The Worry Clinic Channel Their Extra Energies

Opal's dilemma is shared by all parents and teachers who must entertain young children. To save your nerves on a long auto trip, follow the suggestions below. Channel their muscular and mental energy into constructive outlets.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-675: Opal J., aged 34, is a frustrated wife.

"But it isn't my husband," she protested, "that is driving me almost crazy."

"No: it's our 4 children, ranging in ages from 7 to 13."

"For we live 150 miles from my husband's parents, who reside on a farm."

"And we make frequent trips from Chicago to spend the weekend down there."

"Our children sit in the back of the car and within about 30 minutes, they begin to quarrel and pick on each other till their daddy threatens to stop the car and use his belt on them."

"Although I try to keep fairly quiet, it just seems impossible to do so, for they are so full of energy they can't sit still for the 3-hour trip."

"Dr. Crane, what can we do to save my husband's nerves and my own sanity on these auto trips?"

Sanity Insurance
Mrs. Crane and I can fully sympathize with Opal and her husband.

For we had 5 children—plus 2 dogs, in the back of our 7-passenger Packard when we'd also drive to our summer home on the farm.

Here in Chicago, they'd often invade my office where I'd be typing this "Worry Clinic" column and romp, wrestle, quarrel and produce bedlam around me.

So I learned to concentrate on my typewriter and thus would ignore much of their racket.

But on a 4-hour auto trip, I'd finally grow irritable at the free-for-all rumpus that soon would develop in the back seat.

So I finally developed this schedule to reduce the turmoil and channel their energy in more constructive outlets.

(1) Stop at 75-mile intervals to get 5 gallons of gasoline.

Then I'd encourage a foot race around the block to help expend some of their surplus energy.

(2) Pass around some good comic books, especially those "Classics, Illustrated," which would occupy their attention for maybe 30 minutes.

Then we'd let them exchange comic books after they had finished the one originally allotted to each.

But ration these comic books, so you have some extra ammunition when their tension mounts too high.

(3) Develop games involving observance of the surrounding countryside.

They'd divide into teams with one group allotted the right side of the highway while the other took the left.

They were to count the number of 4-footed animals within the next 30 miles. This was good for another 30 minutes.

For variation, they'd see which team could find the most cemeteries.

Or watch sign boards to see who could build up a complete alphabet from "A" to "Z," lifting letters from the signs.

But if one team was up to "M" or "O" and a "Q" showed up in such a sign as "Quality Gas," they couldn't count the "Q" for they had to have reached that exact point in their alphabet to claim the "Q."

(4) Pencil and paper games were also employed, as my daily newspaper quiz column "Test Your Horse Sense," which contains 10 points.

To add motivation, I'd give them a nickel if they rated "Average" (5 to 6), or a dime for "Superior" (7 to 8) and 15 cents for a "Very Superior" score.

Send for my booklet "Vocational Guidance," which contains the "Test of Horse Sense," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and keep it in your auto!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Baboons Eat Vinyl Roofs

JACKSON, N.J. (AP) — A scientific phenomenon has been discovered at a large safari park here. Baboons like to nibble on automobile vinyl roofs.

Great Adventure Safari & Entertainment Park, a 550-acre drive-through jungle and amusement center, opened Monday to "everyone, except those with vinyl roofs on their cars."

At a preview for dignitaries Sunday, the baboons found a culinary liking for the vinyl roofs on a half dozen cars. A spokesman for the facility said "wire tunnels" would be built in the baboon section soon to keep the animals away from rooftops. Convertibles are never allowed in the safari section, the spokesman said.

Frank Granat, executive vice president for the firm, which operates similar safaris in Europe and Canada, said the incident here was the first time the baboons' fetish had surfaced.

his side would end in a small or grand slam. After checking on aces and kings, South wisely decided to contract for no more than twelve tricks when he learned that two kings were missing.

West led a low club, and the sight of dummy pleased declarer mightily. "With a bit of luck we'll make seven, partner," he said gaily. With that, he won the first trick in his hand with the queen of clubs and laid down the ace of spades. Had either defender held a singleton king of trumps, South would indeed have made all the tricks. Unfortunately, West showed out on the first spade, and now declarer had to lose two trump tricks. He had no difficulty managing the rest of the tricks for down one.

Declarer was unlucky to run into a 3-0 trump break. That will occur only about 22% of the time, and on half those occasions West will have three trumps and declarer will still be able to hold his losses to one trump trick by continuing with a low trump towards the queen. However, there was a safety play available to South that would have guaranteed the contract.

All declarer had to do at trick two was lead a low trump from his hand. If West follows with a low trump, declarer inserts the king. If this loses to East's king, the ace will draw the remaining trump. If East shows out, a trump to the ace will hold West to one trump trick.

On this hand, West shows out and East wins the queen with the king. His best return is a heart. Declarer rises with the ace, overtakes the queen of diamonds and leads a low trump, taking the marked finesse for the knave. After drawing the last trump and cashing the ace of clubs, declarer reenters dummy with a trump to the nine and discards his heart losers on the two high clubs.

Middleman Says Large Part Of His Share Is Going To Higher Costs

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The middleman in the chain that brings beef from the ranch to the shopping cart is getting more of your dollar than ever before. But he says his profit is being gnawed away by everything from higher labor costs to more expensive meat saws.

Industry spokesmen say wages and fringe benefits are 10 to 15 per cent higher than last year; the light bill is anywhere from 10 to 60 per cent higher; paper bags and other packaging are up 25 per cent or more; and those meat saws are almost 16 per cent more expensive than they were last year.

Elias Paul is president of John Morrell Co., one of the nation's largest packing houses.

He buys the steer at the feedlot, slaughters it and sell it to the supermarket which sells it to you.

The latest Agriculture Department marketbasket showed the price of farm-produced food increased three-tenths of 1 per cent in May.

That meant that on an annual basis, it cost $1,733 to feed a hypothetical family of 3.2 persons — up $5 from April.

The government said that if middlemen had passed along the savings resulting from lower prices paid to farmers, the consumer would have saved $34 on an annual basis.

Morrell, a part of United Brands, had 1973 sales of $1.25 billion. Profits, said Paul, were "less than 1 per cent ... The company has never made as much as a cent per pound."

The packer got 7.4 cents of the dollar you spent for beef this April, compared to 6.2 cents a year ago. The industry claims the money is going for increased costs.

Paul said he could not provide specific expense figures for the beginning of 1974 compared to previous years. He said that 75 cents out of every dollar that Morrell spends to produce the meat for shipment to supermarkets goes for the meat itself.

Half of the rest, he said, goes for labor, adding that wages and fringe benefits for some employees have risen $1 an hour in the past year. The average industry wage is $8.29, compared to $7.41 last year.

Paul said earnings for the beginning of 1974 are below last year, but he declined to give the figures.

The animal that Morrell slaughters is sold to supermarkets like Pantry Pride-Food Fair, the nation's fourth-largest chain in terms of sales.

Supermarkets are getting 30.6 cents of your beef dollar, compared to 26.7 cents last year.

Clarence Adams, head of the National Association of Food Chains, recently urged all retail stores to feature beef, to offer more specials, to move the meat to the consumer, creating a greater demand, getting rid of the oversupply and pushing up wholesale prices.

The supermarkets say they already have been bringing down the price of meat, even if the consumer doesn't think so. They argue that government figures don't take into account the time lag between a drop at the wholesale level and a decline at the supermarket counter.

"We have made sure that consumers do get the benefit of lower wholesale prices by lowering our retail meat prices," said Harold Friedland, vice president of Pantry Pride-Food Fair.

Pantry Pride had a net profit of just over $2 million last year, about one-tenth of one per cent. One reason for the below-average figures was the closing of unprofitable stores and the loss of $4 million in assets. This year, the chain expects sales of $2.3 billion and increased profits.

John Kovaleski is the manager of a Pantry Pride supermarket in Newark, N.J. He presides over a $6 to $7 million business a year, but says he has virtually no autonomy.

Kovaleski does not have the power to set the price on any item — unless it is perishable and will not last the night. The shipments he gets are billed at retail prices. He's told what his gross profit is, but doesn't know the net figures.

Those figures all are kept at company headquarters in Philadelphia and chain spokesmen do not give out dollars and cents estimates. They do say, however, that labor costs went up 18.4 per cent over the past year; light and power 38.6 per cent; paper bags 31.5 per cent; interest rates 55 per cent; and laundry costs 40 per cent.

Kovaleski gets a profit quota for each department, telling him how much money he should make overall. It runs about 17 per cent for meat. He says he doesn't know how much money is left after operating costs and other expenses come out of that 17 per cent.

A.D. Davis, chairman of the board of Winn-Dixie Stores, a chain based in Jacksonville, Fla., reels off figures to show that meat prices have declined sharply since the start of the year. Sirloin steak, $1.49 a pound at a Winn-Dixie in Atlanta, Ga., compared to $1.99 in January; chuck roast, 69 cents compared to 89 cents in January; ground beef, 69 cents compared to $1.09 in January.

If costs are down, why aren't people buying? "The consumer got ripped off last year," said Davis, adding that boycotts, freezes, shortages, withholding actions contributed to customer confusion. "Now we have to win them back."
