By JANET STAIHAR Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—Two convicts demanding a flight out of the country held seven hostages today for a second day in a basement cellblock of the U. S. District Courthouse as hundreds of heavily armed policemen played a waiting game outside.

24, and Frank Gorham, 25, released one hostage before dawn. Gorham and Jones, also known as Otis D. Wilkerson, were described by authorities as ringleaders in a 1972 escape attempt at the D.C. jail. At that time, 50 inmates held 11 guards hostage for nearly 24 hours. Both Gorham and Jones received additional sentences for their part in that disturbance.

Hart, responsible for the five-story building three blocks from the U.S. Capitol, told reporters just after 10 a.m.: "Things look much brighter." He did not elaborate. Only one of the convicts was armed when they seized four deputy U.S. marshals, two Justwo convicts apparently was carrying a concealed pistol which he drew as they were being taken into the cellblock. Police added that the pair had access to a locker full of pistols and ammunition.

SURROUNDED—Police surround U.S. District Court in Washington Thursday afternoon after two prisoners took four U.S. marshals and at least two lawyers hostage inside the

by ROBERT B. CULLEN Associated Press Writer CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina Board of Governors today dropped its efforts to restrict the rights of campus chancellors to speak out against university policy.

complete authority to manage the affairs" of the university and shall be assisted in his duties by the chancellors. In another section it says the president "shall be the official administrative spokesman for the university...to the news media...and the general public."

The attempt to "muzzle" the chancellors had been sharply criticized since the board's June meeting when it postponed until today.

Board member Luther Hodges Jr. of Charlotte commended the committee for deleting the proposal. "I would have felt obliged to make a speech against it," he said.

"I think we just avoided a lot of speeches," said chairman William Dees.

Blood Gifts Exceed Quota For The Year

The Pitt County Bloodmobile recorded its best year in recent memory for the period ending June 30 as total collections surpassed the county's overall quota.

collections topping the goal by some 157 pints of blood. Ross said that Pitt's quota for the July 1, 1973 through June 30, 1974 period was 2,670 pints. Some 2,583 pints were collected during the 23 Bloodmobile visits and another 244 units were collected at Pitt Memorial Hospital and credited toward the county quota for a total of 2,827 pints. He reported that in addition to the persons who gave blood during the year, there were 629 others rejected for various reasons. "So actually we had 3,456 people to turn out all together during the year and we think that was very good," Ross continued.

He noted that the fairly large number of rejections was possibly due to the fact that "we have had more people to turn out this year for the first time."

The deleted policy recommendation said: "Once a formal position has been taken by the Board of Governors no senior officer (chancellor) of the university may make or issue any public statement or take any other action which might reasonably be construed as being contrary to the formal position of the board without prior consultation with the board."

The existing code provisions say the president "shall have REFLECTOR HOTLINE 752-1336. Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

A HOTLINE APPEAL NEED PLYWOOD

The Greenville Chapter of the Boys' Club of Pitt County needs some plywood to complete a canoe house at the club building. We really don't have the funds to buy it ourselves, but it would be a tax-deductible donation for anyone who would like to contribute. G. G.

Anyone wishing to help the boys with this project should call Hotline, either 752-1336 or 752-6166.

TRICYCLE DISAPPEARED

My two-year-old son is heartbroken over the loss of his "mini-wheel" tricycle. It was missing when we got home from work yesterday afternoon. It was sitting fairly near the trash on the curb and we wonder if the city trash collectors picked it up by mistake. Mrs. R. S.

Hotline quickly called the Public Works Department, visualizing your son's treasured trike about to be buried in the landfill. Public Works Director Mao Allen thoroughly checked out the situation, though, and reports that the trusted driver who worked your neighborhood yesterday said no such toy was picked up.

Bicycle—and tricycle—thievery is a continuing problem in Greenville and Pitt County, and Police Chief Glenn Cannon cautions owners not to make it easy for thieves by leaving them "out front" and unlocked.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

VETS CAN APPLY FOR BACK PAY Hotline's June 12 edition reported in reply to a question from a local veteran that former military men who were in service during the period between Oct. 1, 1972 and Jan. 1, 1973 would be receiving a back pay raise if the President signed legislation approving a supplemental appropriations bill.

Congressman Walter Jones' office reports this bill was signed into law on June 8, 1974 and is public law 93-305, appropriating $530 million to pay back these funds. Hotline has inquired into how veterans will receive these funds and has not received a concrete answer. However, the Navy Recruiting Station in Kinston told Hotline they have the forms necessary for applying for the pay. E02 Edward Avery of the Kinston office states those eligible for the pay can call his office collect and arrange an appointment with him or NCC Bobby Williams when they are in Greenville in order to fill out the necessary paper work. Their number in Kinston is 523-4971.

New Gas Rates Set By City

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer Members of the Greenville Utilities Commission, at a special noon-time meeting yesterday, took action on three items of business, including approval of new gas rate schedules the commission was unable to act on Tuesday night for lack of quorum.

The new rates for firm or non-interruptible customers (domestic or small commercial or industrial users) maintains the old $2 minimum charge for the first 200 cubic feet, but ups the charge for the next 800 cubic feet from .284 cents per cubic foot to .291 cents, and raises the 244 cents per cubic foot charge for the next 2,000 cubic feet to .251 cents per cubic foot.

All gas over 3,000 cubic feet will be charged for at .191 cents per cubic foot as compared with the old charge of .184 cents.

The N-2 schedule, for interruptible gas service to large commercial, institutional or industrial users, was changed from the present $1.10 per 100 cubic feet year-around charge to a seasonal schedule which provides for a $1.466 rate per 100 cubic feet for gas billed during months of November through March.

Gas billed during the months of April through October would be charged at the rate of $1.166 per 100 cubic feet for the first 10,000 Mcf and at .816 cents per cubic foot for gas used over the first 10,000 Mcf.

Commissioners also added a new gas rate schedule—N-3, for preferred interruptible gas customers.

Customers under the preferred interruptible gas schedule would be the last of the large commercial, industrial or institutional users cut off in the event curtailment of service is required of large interruptible users. Under the new schedule, all gas billed during the months of April through October would be charged at the rate of $1.316 per 100 cubic feet, while all gas billed during the months of November through March would be charged at the rate of $1.816 per 100 cubic feet.

Shore Drive Plot Sale Heads Long Meeting Of City Council

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer A resolution approving the sale of a 2.25 acre tract in Shore Drive to the State Employees Credit Union for an office structure was adopted Thursday night during a lengthy City Council session.

The Credit Union, a private agency which serves employees of the state, offered a purchase bid of $88,862.40 for the tract, designated Disposal Parcel Two on the northwest corner of First and Greene Streets.

Ed Greer, the firm's general manager, said that the Credit Union proposes to build an office building costing an estimated $300,000. In qualifying as a bidder before the Redevelopment Commission in April, Greer said that some 4,000 square feet of the new structure would be utilized by the Credit Union for immediate purposes and the rest of the office space would be rented until needed by the business.

The city had expressed an interest in the site as a possible location for a new fire station. Redevelopment Commission executive director Joe Laney told the Council that the commission tried to work out an alternate site for the Credit Union but the firm expressed a desire to purchase that particular tract. Laney noted also that the Credit Union structure would come under an ad valorem tax levy and add roughly one half million dollars in tax value.

The executive director proposed an alternate site for the new fire station and noted that with the Redevelopment Commission's plans to extend the CBD western boundary, the 55,600 square foot area on the southwest corner of Fifth and Greene Streets across from the present station would be available.

Laney added that a close-out amendment for Shore Drive has already been prepared and any expenditure by the city in that area would not be eligible for a credit.

Mayor Eugene West, pointing out that he still felt the Shore Drive site would have been an ideal location for the fire station, gave his recommendation that the council approve the sale to the Credit Union in view of the tax advantages. The council gave unanimous approval to the Credit Union purchase.

In other business, the council discussed a petition by the developers of Lake Ellsworth for annexation of the subdivision under the recently enacted Satellite Annexation Law and then set a public hearing on the matter for the Aug. 8 meeting.

Under the new annexation legislation, a municipality has the authority to annex non-contiguous land upon 100 per cent petition of the property owners in the proposed area.

Council member Percy Cox asserted that the first thing the Council has to decide is whether it plans to go into satellite annexation or continue operating under the contingency ruling.

Neighbors Don't Share Pool

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How do you ask a neighbor who has a lovely big swimming pool which is seldom used, if you can use it sometime?

These neighbors are gone more than they are home. Their swimming pool is always in excellent condition and it just goes to waste. We have six children who would love to swim in it, and so would we. We would bring our own towels and lunches, and wouldn't leave a trace that anyone was even there. We wouldn't expect to use it when they were home—only when they are gone.

Can you give me a tip on how to ask them?
NEIGHBORS

DEAR NEIGHBORS: Don't ask them. It's possible that they want neither the legal nor moral responsibility they would incur should a swimming pool accident occur in their absence.

DEAR ABBY: Odd that a minister should call on you with a problem but since I am involved, I can't make an impartial judgment, hence this letter:

Our 20-year-old daughter broke the news to us last night that she is getting married in eight weeks! Then came the following shockers: She doesn't want to be married in our church. She doesn't want me (her father) to perform the marriage ceremony. She doesn't want any of her brothers in the wedding party. The only part she wants me to play is to give her away.

My wife is crushed and said: "All our daughter wants from us is to pick up the tab for the wedding."
She was raised in our church. Should we try to change her mind?
HER PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: No. She appears to have rejected most of her earlier religious training, so any attempts to change her mind would probably alienate her further. If your daughter is as anti-establishment as I think she is, the tab won't be much.

DEAR ABBY: I need the advice of a wise and objective person. I'm a recently divorced male (30) who is torn between settling down with the right girl this time, and enjoying the freedom of a swinging bachelor life.

I wasn't looking for a wife so soon, but I found one who would be super.

She's 26, intelligent, pretty, and has a beautiful figure. She holds a responsible position, and keeps a meticulous apartment. She's a great cook, and can iron a shirt like my mother. But best of all, she loves and understands me. She makes more than I do, and has saved most of it. Besides all this, she doesn't smoke (neither do I) or drink, or use bad language.

I really think I love her, but I hate to jump into another marriage so soon.

Would I be a fool to pass her up? Women like her aren't easy to find. What should I do?
ON THE FENCE

DEAR ON: The girl you describe sounds like a gem. But don't marry her (or anyone else) while you're yearning to swing. You can't have it both ways.

Fire Hazards Exist In Lawnmowers, Grills

Possible fire hazards associated with the use of motorized lawn mowers and outdoor grills—two items used rather extensively during the Summer season—were pointed out today by Greenville Fire Prevention Bureau inspector Jane Murray.

The fire safety inspector, noting that cooking out is a favorite activity during the Summer months, said "hazards exist when using a grill," and warned that "children should never be allowed to play near a grill."

She said youngsters could turn the grill over, "thus causing them to be burned, or starting a fire."

Mrs. Murray noted too, that pets tend to be attracted to grills. "They sniff the aroma, and may turn over a grill and possibly start a fire, too."

"Never use flammable liquids, such as gasoline, to start a fire in a grill," she warned. Gasoline and other flammable fuels could cause an explosion and fire, thus injuring nearby persons or damaging property.

"Use only charcoal lighter fluid and be sure to read the instructions carefully," Mrs. Murray urged.

"Lawn mowers are a great asset to everyone, but they can be dangerous if they are not used properly and handled correctly," Mrs. Murray explained.

One of the most hazardous things concerning their use, she suggested, "is filling the gas tank while the engine is hot. By all means, let the engine cool before filling the tank," she said.

Filling the gas tank while the mower engine is hot could result in an explosion or fire.

Mrs. Murray also pointed out that persons should never attempt to "unclog power mowers when the motor is running. Too many people have lost their hands and fingers from unclogging the lawnmower in this manner."

The inspector also said "before you cut your lawn, pick up rocks and sticks to avoid such objects to be thrown from under the mower by the blade and striking nearby persons."

She also said children should never be given a free ride on riding lawnmowers while they are in use, and "shoes should be worn while mowing your lawn to protect your feet from flying objects."

"Needless to say," the Fire Prevention Bureau inspector emphasized, "carelessness plays an important role in summer activities. Try to be careful this summer and remember, only you can prevent a needless and careless accident."

"GREENVILLE 200" STICKERS... are being placed on vehicles to publicize the city's 200th anniversary. Here, Janice Buck, General Director of the Greenville Bicentennial Committee, and Mark Meltzer, head of Speaker's Committee, are putting one of the "Greenville

Two New Buyers For Market

A.C. Monk Co. Inc. of Farmville and Austin Carolina Co. of Kinston have been approved to purchase tobacco on the Greenville Tobacco Market.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor and secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade said that, "On behalf of the local warehousemen, we welcome these two companies to purchase tobacco on the Greenville market."

Bryan said that the two new companies bring the total to ten firms authorized to purchase tobacco on the local market as members of the Greenville Board of Trade.

He asserted that "every important purchaser of tobacco in the world has buyers on every sale in Greenville." Bryan added that each warehouse firm here will have a sale "every day during the 1974 season."

Greenville warehouses are making preparations to handle the 1974 tobacco that has been designated for sale at their locations, he commented.

Bryan emphasized that farmers who have not scheduled tobacco with their warehousemen should contact them as soon as possible.

The Greenville Tobacco Market will open on July 22 for the 1974 season.

Man Held On 'Lost Dog' Charge

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A man has been charged in one of North Carolina's eight sexual offenses on young girls in the last nine months, Sheriff C. Manly Lancaster of Forsyth County reports. All were by the use of the same "lost dog" ruse.

The sheriff identified the man as 23-year-old John Newman Montgomery of Rt. 5, High Point, in Randolph County.

Lancaster said that Montgomery had been charged Thursday with raping a 15-year-old girl at Clemmons near Winston-Salem last Saturday.

The sheriff said that Montgomery, who is being sought, has a criminal record that includes a sexual offense on a minor, and that the girl from Clemmons identified him from police photographs.

Authorities report that since last November eight girls have been raped or otherwise sexually abused after going with a man who offered them money to help find a lost dog. The offenses have occurred in several counties. Authorities said that although the descriptions given by the girls had similarities, it was not known whether more than one man was involved.

From the descriptions a composite drawing was made

Drugs To Drink

LONDON (AP) — Soaring black market prices for drugs are making teen-agers switch to heavy drinking, says Marcus Grant of London's Alcohol Education Center.

The result is habitual drunks often as young as 12 or 13, Grant said. "It means that by the time these youngsters reach 18, the legal age for going into a pub, they are experienced drinkers and some are well on the way to being alcoholics," he said.

He called for special emergency advice service to help bewildered parents and teachers who find their children often drink five or six pints of beer in a session.

Individual Rights Were First

Former Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court Earl Warren is dead at the age of 83.

Even as he died, the chief justice who led the Supreme Court into decisions which had far reaching effects on the lives of United States citizens was still a subject of controversy.

Perhaps no Supreme Court has more changed our way of living, particularly we in the South, than headed by Earl Warren. For many years—before it was popular to apply the term to President Nixon—impeachment was the word most often heard with the Warren name.

The momentous decision of his 16 years as chief justice undoubtedly was that which struck down separate, but equal facilities in public schools. That led to total desegregation of the southern dual school system and efforts are still underway to apply it to schools outside the South.

The desegregation movement also led to ending racial discrimination in public accommodations and vast changes in our formerly segregated way of life.

The one-man one-vote rule was laid down by the Warren court to require strict population representation in the state's Legislatures—something we did not entirely agree with, since the framers of the Constitution, themselves, made provision for every state to have two senators.

The Warren court provided further protections of individuals who were suspected of, or to be charged with crimes. Free speech was vastly expanded through rulings on censorship and those making it more difficult for public officials and public figures to sue for libel.

During the latter years of the Warren era there was talk of returning to the Supreme Court those who believe in the "strict construction" of the Constitution; however it is easy to make a case for the Warren-led court rulings being more precisely in line with the literal word of the Constitution.

Whatever criticism there might be of the Warren Court rulings, it is clear to us that they were almost always directed toward protecting individual rights and freedoms. In this era when big government, big business, computers and spy devices seem to be engulfing us all there can be no higher tribute to Earl Warren than to say he placed the rights of the common man above all.

Simon: Less For Defense

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—President Nixon's commitment to anti-inflationary budget cuts will soon be measured by his decision on Treasury Secretary William Simon's proposal for a minimum $1 billion reduction in the administration's own defense spending requests.

That poses a painful dilemma for Mr. Nixon. In White House meetings, he has agreed with Simon's fervent declaration that substantial budget cuts are essential to avoid continuous, ruinous double-digit inflation. But to cut the present budget by the $4 billion to $5 billion that Simon regards as minimal, he knows at least some gesture toward trimming the defense budget must be made. Yet, in view of heavy Soviet arms spending, it can be argued in interests of national security that Pentagon spending should be increased rather than decreased.

The President can effect no budget reductions whatever unless he cuts arms spending. Whether he does or not, therefore, will test the President's interest in making his first truly serious effort to brake ever-higher spending. Simultaneously, it will gauge Simon's strength and perhaps his future in Washington.

No sooner had Simon been sworn in at the Treasury May 8 than he began pushing for budget-trimming to fight inflation. His bitter personal rival, budget director Roy Ash, immediately responded that no effective cuts were possible. But their intermittent public debate only suggests the intensity of their incessant backstage struggle.

Fiscal economists at Ash's Office of Management and Budget (OMB) contend only a reduction of $15 billion, obviously impossible to attain, could affect the present economy. High OMB officials call Simon an economic "primitive." Whenever Simon talks budget-cutting in administration councils, Ash explains at length why it cannot be done.

But Simon has allies. The Treasury cities support from prominent business economists—Alan Greenspan, Dr. Pierre Reinfrat and Eliot Janeway—who seldom agree with each other but believe business markets would respond immediately and favorably to Simon's effort. Greenspan, expected to become chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, believes serious efforts must be made now to avoid a disastrous runaway budget by mid-1976.

This view is strongly buttressed at the Federal Reserve Board by chairman Arthur Burns, who feels Mr. Nixon has never seriously attacked the budget. Finally, Kenneth Rush, named by the President as economic coordinator to referee Simon-Ash disputes, has backed Simon on the budget.

As for the President himself, Mr. Nixon has often given Simon his private support. But throughout his presidency, he has voiced traditional Republican budget-balancing rhetoric without making the hard decisions necessary to fulfill it. What Simon now proposes involves hard decisions indeed.

Over the long run, Simon wants to pare down the entire budget—including so-called "uncontrollable" social welfare spending. More over, he insists the Pentagon is not immune. For the present fiscal year, which began July 1, that boils down to cuts of $4 billion-$5 billion with hopes at the Treasury for more, and a bare minimum of $1 billion in defense reductions.

For Democratic budget-cutters such as Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, $1 billion less at the Pentagon is ridiculously inadequate. Nevertheless, it would represent a declaration by Mr. Nixon that, despite the need to compete with Moscow in arms, nothing receives a higher priority than fighting inflation. What's more, it would portend severe defense spending restraints in future budgets.

Although Simon is not submitting his proposals on a basis of approve-it-or-I'll-quit, his future here would seem bleak if the President rejects him. Simon's friends believe he will either become the preeminent economic policymaker or return to Wall Street. They cannot envision him playing permanent second banana to Rush (though their early relationship has been quite congenial).

Many White House aides, resenting Simon's independence and flair for publicity, would not be unhappy if he packed up for Wall Street posthaste. But Simon's strong base of support in Congress (which includes such unlikely collaborators as Proxmire) and the business community would react to Simon's departure in a way that the hard-pressed President could ill afford today.

No immediate decision is expected. Simon leaves Saturday for the Middle East and Europe. By the time he returns two weeks later, the President may have been forced to come to grips with inflation, the runaway budget and the role and influence of Bill Simon.

Pulling The Plug On TV

WASHINGTON—If nothing else, President Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union showed the United States how the Russians could pull the plug on the American TV networks. Several nights ago, while the American TV correspondents were trying to report on dissidents in the Soviet Union, Russian technicians pulled the plug out on them and they were unable to transmit their reports.

When President Nixon heard about it he immediately contacted Soviet party leader Leonid Brezhnev and said "How did you do it?"

"Is accident," Brezhnev retorted. "Aw c'mon, Mr. Secretary," Mr. Nixon said. "I know it wasn't an accident, and I'm not criticizing you. I'm really interested in knowing for my own benefit."

"You're not angry?" "How could I be angry?" Mr. Nixon said. "I've been trying to shut off the American TV correspondents for years. I just never knew how to do it."

"Is simple," Brezhnev said. "Come over to the Kremlin and I'll show you." "Can I bring my scientific technical adviser, Ron Ziegler, along with me?"

"Of course. What is detente for if we can't help each other pull plug out on the press?"

The next morning President Nixon and Ron Ziegler were driven over to the Kremlin where Brezhnev and several of his technicians were waiting for them.

"I'm sorry I can't give you MIRV treaty," Brezhnev said. "Forget about the MIRVs," Mr. Nixon replied. "This is more important."

Brezhnev took the two men into a room marked in Russian: "Top Secret." There was a large switchboard manned by a Soviet general. Overhead were five or six TV monitors.

"Now listen closely, Ron," the President warned. "They may never let us see this again."

"Up on screen," Brezhnev said, "is Soviet commentator. He is going to give the news."

"Good evening." The Soviet general immediately pulled the plug. The screen went dark.

"Why did you pull the plug?" Mr. Nixon wanted to know.

"Is not for him to say what kind of evening it is. Some Soviet citizens may ask why it is a good evening. We don't let our people know if evening is good or bad. It makes them nervous."

"You taking all this down, Ron?" the President whispered.

"Watch Channel Two," Brezhnev said.

"Comrades," the commentator began, "the glorious leader of the Soviet Union, Leonid Brezhnev, reported today that a new milestone had been reached in the Soviet-American detente. The agreement, which will be signed tomorrow by leaders of both countries, specifies that..."

The general pulled the plug. Mr. Nixon looked at Brezhnev.

The Soviet leader smiled. "Is better they don't know what we agreed on. Next they'll want to know what we didn't agree on."

"That's fantastic. What is that red button over there on the switchboard?" Mr. Nixon asked.

Sanford Going All Out

By ROBERT B. CULLEN Associated Press Writer

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)— Terry Sanford says his candidacy for President in 1976 will not be a dark horse effort. "If we go to the convention at all, it will be as a leading candidate."

Sanford, president of Duke University and a former North Carolina governor, talked about his presidential prospects in an interview at his home on the Duke campus.

He readily acknowledged that there are many sizable barriers between him and the nomination, barriers that may well prove insurmountable. But he counts several factors as potential advantages.

"My feeling is that people are fed up with Washington, with the Senate, and with politicians generally. I think they'll want someone with a fresh perspective."

Another potential advantage could lie in new party rules, which he is helping to write as chairman of the Democratic Charter Commission. The rules proposals, he said, would eliminate unit voting and require that state delegations be apportioned among the candidates in proportion to the strength they showed in the selection process.

The result, Sanford believes, will be that no candidate will win the nomination on the first ballot. "A deadlock wouldn't hurt me."

Sanford has gone out of his way to keep his name from being associated with the charter. He made sure the commission was not called the "Sanford Commission" and he wouldn't allow his picture to be used in an illustrated booklet about the charter draft.

But his work with the commission and other activities, he said, have enabled him to begin building a cadre of supporters in all 50 states.

Finally, he said, his abortive 1972 candidacy, if it did nothing else, convinced him that "There is no longer the kind of bias that would keep a Southerner from being elected."

Sanford's 1972 venture, he said, suffered from lack of planning. He did not finally decide to enter the race until two months before the North Carolina primary he lost to Alabama Gov. George Wallace.

The primary loss effectively ended his chances, though he did not withdraw and polled 77 votes at the convention which nominated George McGovern.

Sanford did not want to be specific about his plans for 1976. "A basic part of all strategies is never reveal your strategy," he smiled.

But he will begin, he said, by declining most political speaking invitations. He said he plans to spend his political time this year determining what the issues will be and what he thinks should be done about them.

If he is still optimistic when 1975 rolls around, Sanford said, he will begin to allow his supporters to work on delegate selection. "That will be a difficult year for me because I'll still have to carry on my job as Duke president."

Early in 1976, Sanford said, he will make a final decision on running. If he decides to go for it, he will take a leave of absence from Duke.

In addition to North Carolina, he said, he will have to win at least one other state's primary as well as a sizable number of delegates from non-primary states.

He believes that he will go to the convention as a candidate (Continued on page 5)

College Costs Steadily Upward

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Add to the financial woes of the average North Carolina household a continuing climb in the cost of a college education.

In the academic year just ended, a year of study at the most costly private college in the state (Duke University) ran well over $4,000 for tuition, fees, room and board.

And while Duke with a tuition and fee schedule of $2,629 is the highest in the state, Davidson College is not far behind at $2,430, and four other private colleges across the state have charges over $2,000 per year. Those are Queens (2,170); St. Andrews (2,104); Salem (2,349); and Wake Forest ($2,000).

Additionally, room and board generally runs between $800 and $1,000 per year at most campuses—whether public or private—and the quoted figures don't include books ($10 to $15 each), laundry, transportation, personal items, or the amount the average student will spend for food outside the college cafeteria unless he or she is an unusually light eater.

Still Higher

And the trend is upward over recent years, and expected to continue. Duke University, for instance, has added from $150 to $200 to tuition and fee requirements each year since 1969. A sampling of fees at other schools shows many have hiked fees anywhere from five to 15 per cent.

Public colleges are no exception to the upward trend in costs, and while the student who is a resident of North Carolina can attend a state school for a lot less money than he can a private college, the out-of-state student finds himself paying about as much to go to Chapel Hill as he would at Duke. The tuition at UNC-Chapel Hill for a non-resident is $1,997. For a Tar Heel, the fee is $439.

For residents of the state, tuition and fee costs at public colleges range from a low of $368 per year (UNC-Wilmington) to a high of $601 per year (Elizabeth City State University).

The average tuition and fee charge for a resident at a public college is $459. As at private schools, room and board costs generally range from $800 to $1,000 additional, and of course those related books, transportation, and living costs must be added.

Private junior colleges charge the same for in or out-of-state students, with tuition and fees ranging from a low of $950 to a high of $1,427, with the average being $1,154.

Another Hike

While all the figures are not collected from public colleges for the next academic year, a trend of increased charges has already been seen at the administrative offices in Chapel Hill. Some will hike the tuition fee, and some of the board costs or other fees, with an overall increase of around $100 noted at most schools, officials say.

In the face of rising costs, a significant trend can be seen in the numbers of students who are attending community colleges or technical schools across the state.

There are now 57 of these institutions across the state, putting a student almost anywhere in the state close enough to commute. The most recent addition was conversion of Mitchell College in Statesville from a private junior college to a state institution. Incidentally, the number of private junior colleges in North Carolina is now down to 10.

A boost to community college-technical school enrollment has been the ironing out of transfer difficulties. All credits can now be carried over to senior college, and university officials say the average family finds this "one sure way to beat the cost of a college education." Fees run from $415 to $441, and the student generally commutes and stays at home.

A look at the figures for the university system proves this development. In 1967, there were 258 transfers from community college to public senior college. In 1973, that shot up to 1,698. In one year alone from 1972 to 1973, there was an increase of 10.6 per cent in transfers.

Transfers from junior colleges to public senior colleges, however, are down from 585 in 1968 to 387 in 1974; with a one year drop of 21 per cent below the 1972 level.

Strength For Today

REASON AND REVELATION

A well-known evangelist once said that in the world seeing is believing, but in the things of the spirit believing is seeing.

Religious certainty comes not so much by an action of the mind as by a commitment of the will; not so much through reason as through the response of the whole personality to the revealed truths of God. When people treat religion as merely an intellectual problem, much of it can easily be explained away and it loses its vitality.

Blind acceptance of theological propositions is of course unwise, and in the end often self-defeating. But on the other hand there is much in religion which can never be explained and must be accepted. Does this mean that we have to accept religious truth by abandoning our reason? Not at all. It means that we approach religious truth first by taking the step of faith, then slowly we will begin to see that there is a harmony of reason and commitment in this truth.

To the editor:

The wheat crop and the problem of rising prices appear to be almost legend with Republican administrations. The following timely little item appeared in the Eastern Reflector during the late summer of 1890.

A short wheat crop having raised the price of that cereal, the Republicans straightway claimed that the increase in price was due to Republican legislation. This is the sort of argument the Republicans are using to catch votes with. Somebody seems to have forgotten the universal laugh which greeted a statement made on the stump some years ago by that shining light of the Republican party, John Sherman, of Ohio, to the effect that the unusually good crops of that year were the results of a Republican administration.

Sincerely yours,

Finding Money Is No Easy Job

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The gurgling sound of illiquidity is being heard around the world these days, as individuals, businesses, banks and governments find themselves pressed to come up with funds to finance their plans.

Banks have failed in several nations. Italy is on the verge of bankruptcy. Corporations everywhere are fighting for their lifeblood. Cities find themselves unable to afford high interest rates.

In many cities savings banks seem to be occupying some of the choice, heavy traffic sites that brokerage houses once coveted, using all the allurements of carnivals to attract depositors. Some give trading stamps.

It isn't that they're doing all that well. Deposits, in fact, have been flowing out of the "thrifths" in search of higher interest rates elsewhere. The savings rate has failed to rise, as forecast.

Many families are heavily in debt, having borrowed from tomorrow to live today. At the end of 1973 total installment credit outstanding was 14.5 per cent higher than a year earlier. In just three years, $100 billion has been added to mortgage debt.

In an economic analysis just released, Lionel D. Edie & Co., consultants, gave this trenchant report to businessmen:

"Currently, the burden of consumer installment debt is at an all-time high. That is, the proportion of his repayments on installment debt to his disposable income has reached the uncomfortably high peak of 16.7 per cent.

"The delinquency rate on total installment loans overdue 30 days or more is currently the highest by far in over 20 years, indicating the extreme difficulty consumers are having meeting their current obligations.

"Similarly, the delinquency rate on mortgage payments is the highest in 20 years."

Are municipalities any better off? Many have delayed maintenance and expansion projects, and the roads, water and sewer systems show it. New York City this week rejected a 7.92 per cent interest rate on $438 million of bonds as "unconscionable."

Businesses find themselves competing for money at higher and higher rates. While the prime rate is now about 12 per cent, some pay between 15 and 20. Banks too find themselves battling for funds.

The fight for financing therefore is becoming more fierce among individuals, banks, businesses and governments, and the world's money managers are growing in their conviction that something has to give.

If the Federal Reserve and central banks in some other nations have their way it will be spending that goes down to defeat. Everyone's spending too much, they say, and it has to stop before inflation ruins the world.

No Major Disclosure About Case Presented In Latest Probe Report

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of words of new documentary evidence and transcripts portray President Nixon as a man worried, and at times defiant, as he sought to limit the impact of Watergate on his presidency.

But the raw materials of the House impeachment inquiry, spread before the public this week in two installments, offer no major disclosures about the case against the President.

The seven volumes of data released Thursday form a dispassionate catalogue of import and trivia — the building blocks without the blueprint for the House Judiciary Committee's coming debate and decision on whether to recommend impeachment.

Nowhere is there a signal of how the staff will outline the case when it begins its historic deliberations the week of July 22.

Together with an eighth volume of rebuttal evidence offered by the White House and Tuesday's committee versions of eight presidential conversations, they do more to elaborate than to alter what was previously known about Watergate. There are these new elements:

—On June 30, 1972, thirteen days after the Watergate break-in, Nixon was told there was a risk "of more stuff, valid or invalid, surfacing on the Watergate caper." The President agreed and said: "We hope nothing will. It may not. But there is always the risk ... well, I'd cut the loss fast. I'd cut it fast."

—Indirect evidence that Nixon discussed the danger of Watergate involvement to himself on March 17, 1973 — four days before the date he said he learned of the cover-up.

—The President's dictated recollection and handwritten notes of the March 21, 1973, conversation in which John W. Dean III, then White House counsel, described the involvement of presidential aides and campaign lieutenants in the break-in and cover-up.

—Grand jury testimony about the $75,000 payment relayed the night of March 21 to convicted Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. That payment was cited by a federal grand jury as one of the acts in a conspiracy to block the break-in investigation.

The committee's "Statement of Information" relied heavily on testimony at last year's Senate Watergate hearings, hitherto-secret grand jury transcripts, court papers and White House material, including tapes.

It is from the tapes that the committee staff received some of its most significant information.

In the Tuesday transcript of a conversation on March 22, 1973, President Nixon advises aides that "I want you all to stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover-up or anything else, if it'll save it — save the plan." The quotation came in a discussion about the forthcoming Watergate hearings and was omitted from the transcripts published by the White House in April.

The same conversation shows the President saying that former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was arguing that "we use flexibility ... in order to get on with the cover-up plan." The White House version had Nixon describing Mitchell's arguing for "flexibility in order to get off the cover-up line."

And yet another committee transcript of a March 13, 1973, tape quotes Nixon telling Dean it was too late to exercise the option of telling all: "The hang-out road's going to have to be rejected ... I understand it was rejected."

Not included in Thursday's mountain of evidence was the grand jury report naming Nixon as an undicted coconspirator in the cover-up. The grand jury did not include the report in the material it asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to turn over to the committee.

Sources at the White House said there would be no point-by-point public response to the week's new disclosures. One official said the President's aides are weary of constantly denying charges.

But presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "it is more than a coincidence" that the impeachment inquiry's evidence was published at the same time that the Senate Watergate committee issued a report suggesting campaign funds were used for the President's personal benefit.

Ziegler called it "a calculated effort at piling on as many charges as possible in an effort to manipulate public opinion."

The documents and transcripts will be fused with the direct testimony of some 10 witnesses still being heard when the committee starts its deliberations. The volume of documents alone — more than 4,000 pages — illustrates the complexity of the task facing the 21 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

The material is organized between beige-colored covers in chronological order, without conclusions or comments.

Side-by-side with once-secret transcripts are handwritten presidential notes, White House memos and even newspaper clippings.

The compilation deals only with Watergate and its aftermath.

It does not cover the committee's other areas of impeachment inquiry.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the record his panel published is incomplete because the President refused to comply with subpoenas for more tape recordings and documents.

John W. Dean III, and to demonstrate that the President did not order hush money paid to cover up Watergate.

St. Clair's rebuttal contended that the transcript of the March 21 meeting of Nixon, Dean and Haldeman "clearly demonstrates that the President recognizes that any blackmail and cover-up activities then in progress could not continue."

The largest single segment of committee evidence dealt with the events of March 21—long considered the most crucial day in the Watergate aftermath.

The most curious, and totally unexplained, items in the seven committee volumes are the cryptic notations President Nixon made on a sheet of legal paper on April 15, 1973.

That was the Sunday when Kleindienst and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen told the President the massive cover-up story outlined to them by federal prosecutors.

Midway down the page is a section, divided by a vertical line. On the left side is the notation, "Gray's document." On the right, the President wrote, "I'm not going to lie for Ehrlichman."

Much of April 15 remains a mystery. That was the day when according to the White House, the tape reels recording Nixon's conversations ran out and the talks went unrecorded.

These were among the disclosures in the committee's evidence:

—Asst. Atty. Gen. Petersen told the grand jury on Feb. 5 that while he was heading the original Watergate investigation, Nixon suggested that he act also as White House counsel. Petersen said that was in April, 1973, and that he thought it "was a little heavy-handed."

—Ziegler told the grand jury that his March 30, 1973, denial of any White House involvement in Watergate was "obviously an ad lib on my part." Nixon has said he learned of the involvement of his aides nine days earlier, but Ziegler said the President hadn't told him about it at the time.

—Before the Watergate break-in, during the controversy over Republican campaign contributions offered by International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., Nixon suggested that Republicans "boycott all investigating committees on the ground that they are politically motivated."

That statement is in a previously unpublished White House tape transcript, covering a conversation on April 4, 1972. It was submitted as part of the defense presentation, to show that political intelligence-gathering was not a subject at that pre-Watergate meeting.

Broadcasters Hitting Phone Weather Report

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Association of Broadcasters has filed a complaint with the state Utilities Commission charging Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. with attempting to attain a monopoly.

The broadcasters charged the real reason Southern Bell ended the service was that the company was attempting to attain a monopoly.

They said the phone company had produced no evidence that use of automatic answering devices to provide weather reports had ever resulted in enough telephone calls to obstruct or delay telephone service to anyone.

The association is asking the commission to invalidate any Southern Bell tariffs which "arbitrarily prohibit" the use of such automatic answering devices "where such use does not impair or degrade general telephone service."

The broadcasters group charged in the complaint delivered Thursday that Southern Bell was "attempting to attain for itself an advertising monopoly of commercially sponsored telephone weather reports."

The association said some broadcast stations for years have provided weather reports to callers by using automatic telephone answering devices. Some devices are owned by the stations and some are owned by the phone company.

phone service."

The complaint cited news reports that "the Bell system intended to vastly expand and market on a national scale its presently limited advertiser-sponsored weather information telephone service."

Objectives Set By Committee

Four objectives for developing resources of agri-business and industry have been selected by the Pitt County Agri-business and Industry Committee, according to Robert A. Halstead, chairman. The Committee was recently appointed by the Mid-East Resource Conservation and Development Council.

The objectives are: to develop marketing and processing facilities that will help local agriculture to grow; to insist that our government do enough advance planning so that agri-business can obtain adequate supplies when shortages of critical materials and equipment develop; to develop agri-business that furnishes year-round employment; to develop crop varieties that can be produced in our area and sold when new markets open up.

Other Agri-business and Industry Committee members serving with Halstead are Vice-Chairman Eddie Harrington; Joseph M. Gardner; W. C. Glidewell, Jr.; W. W. Speight; and J. C. Whitehurst. Committee Advisors are Dr. James Bearde; James R. Horne, Jr.; Tom Thompson; and Harding Sugg.

These four objectives selected by the Pitt County Committee will be presented to the Mid-East Agri-business and Industry Resource Committee for inclusion in the Mid-East RC&D long-range plan, Halstead reported. The Mid-East RC&D covers Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin, and Pitt Counties.

"The important part of the RC&D Project will be the proposal of specific measures that can be carried out to reach these objectives. The Committee members need help to come up with ideas from anyone who will propose projects for the Mid-East RC&D long-range plan," Halstead concluded.

Industrial Goods Cost Sends Prices Upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp increases in prices of industrial goods offset further declines in agricultural prices last month, lifting the Wholesale Price Index another five-tenths of one per cent, the government reported today.

The wholesale price rise was the smallest in eight months, marking the first time since November that prices had risen by less than a full percentage point.

In November prices rose six-tenths of one per cent. Wholesale prices dropped one-tenth of a per cent in October.

The June increase of five-tenths of one per cent, both adjusted and unadjusted, works out to an annual rate of six per cent — still highly inflationary by historical standards.

Agricultural prices dropped in June, for the fourth consecutive month, plunging a seasonally adjusted four per cent to a level 1.2 per cent below a year ago.

As farm and food prices declined, prices continued accelerating for a broad range of industrial commodities. These increases in wholesale industrial prices point to continued high prices ahead for consumers at the retail level.

The Labor Department said

metals, fuels, chemicals, machinery and equipment accounted for about 80 per cent of the rise in the industrial commodities index, which advanced a seasonally adjusted 2.2 per cent in June following a rise of 2.7 per cent in May.

Wholesale prices have risen at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 12.2 per cent during the last three months, and were 14.5 per cent higher in June than in June 1973.

The June increase lifted the government's Wholesale Price Index to 155.7, meaning that it cost $155.70 to buy the same volume of wholesale goods that $100 purchased in 1967.

Farm prices dropped a seasonally adjusted 8.1 per cent, while prices of processed foods and feeds declined 1.1 per cent.

At the farm level the biggest declines were for livestock, off an unadjusted 13.4 per cent; fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, down 13.7 per cent; live poultry off 9.6 per cent and milk down 7.7 per cent.

The only major farm product increase was grain, up 6.6 per cent.

Wholesale prices of consumer foods — those ready for sale on supermarket shelves, dropped 3.8 per cent. The decline included lower prices for meats, white potatoes, milk, processed poultry and dairy products. However, these food prices were still 8.3 per cent above a year ago.

Other consumer goods at the wholesale level rose 2.1 per cent in June, lifting them 17.1 per cent higher than a year ago.

Metal prices continued to advance sharply last month, rising 3.1 per cent, mostly because prices for iron and steel and other metal products soared. Higher prices for gasoline, distillates, electric power, coal and coke pushed the fuels index up 3 per cent.

About the only decline in industrial products last month was in lumber and wood products, off 2.9 per cent.

Church Leaders Seek Unreached

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Loaded with facts, findings and theories about the status of Christianity in the world, evangelical leaders meet in Lausanne, Switzerland, next week to plan strategies for "reaching the unreached" around the earth.

It's a big order. More than 2 billion people — over two-thirds of the globe's 3.5 billion population — have never actually been offered the gospel message, according to preliminary studies compiled for the occasion.

But the International Congress on World Evangelism July 16-25, bringing together leaders of the evangelistic wing of global Protestantism, aims to coordinate personnel and techniques for doing the job.

"We are persuaded that God has brought us to one of history's great moments, that the hour has come for Christians everywhere — to unite in bold new efforts... to make disciples of all nations," says the call to the congress.

It is described as the most geographically representative evangelical assembly ever held, including 2,700 picked participants from most Protestant denominations in 150 countries.

Preparations have been going on for months, with a dozen weighty study papers circulated among participants and voluminous, detailed reports readied on the extent of belief — and lack of it — in each country of the world.

In one preliminary document, the Rev. Dr. Peter Beyerhaeus, of the University of Tubingen, Germany, urges the formation of a continuing worldwide association to evangelize "the unreached two billion."

He says the target should be

"to reach every living person with the good news within the next 10 years." At present, there are about 1 billion Christians in the world, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox.

The congress was planned by an international, interdenominational committee headed by Anglican Bishop A. Jack Dain, of Sydney, Australia, with U.S. evangelist Billy Graham a key influence in the affair.

North Americans will make up only about a fourth of the participants, with a heavy proportion coming from "third world" areas of Africa, Latin America and Asia.

Holding Joint Meet

ASHEVILLE—The Connectional Council of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church will meet with Varick Chapel and St. Luke AME Zion Churches, Asheville, July 20-Aug. 2.

The Zion connection has some 800,000 members. A total of 50 annual conferences work throughout the U.S., Africa, Jamaica, the Bahamas and other islands of the sea. Livingston College in Salisbury is the chief educational institution. The church also operates several junior colleges and youth camps.

A highlight of the meeting will be the observance of the 50th Episcopal Anniversary of Bishop William Jack Walls. Methodist church records show the Bishop Walls is the oldest Methodist Bishop in point of service. He has also written a history of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church that has just been printed.

Demo Hopefuls Claim Economy Is The Key

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential hopefuls Gov. George C. Wallace and Sen. Walter F. Mondale and Lloyd M. Bentsen have told Democratic state chairmen that the party's success in the post-Watergate era rests on whether it can help ease the economic plight of average Americans.

"If the Democratic party cannot address itself to their real problems, they're not going to have much more success in 1976 than they had in 1972," Wallace told a luncheon audience Thursday.

Wallace, Mondale and Bentsen were the main speakers at the opening day of a two-day conference divided between speeches by leading party figures and discussion of procedures involving the role of state parties.

Their contention was echoed by pollster William Hamilton, who said that likely success in the 1974 elections won't guarantee Democratic triumphs in 1976 unless the party creates and meets goals that "relate to the average man's everyday problems."

Speakers at today's sessions include Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Henry M. Jackson of Washington, two more 1976 possibilities.

Between their speeches, the chairmen plan to press their contention that a party commission set up to supervise compliance with the 1976 delegate-selection rules stay out of state and local party operations.

The chairmen are concerned that a provision in those rules, providing for antidiscrimination efforts in all party affairs, could stir inter-party battles at state and local levels that would create considerable disunity.

They raised that point Thursday in reference to a similar provision in the proposed party charter scheduled to be debated at the mid-term convention in Kansas City this December.

Terry Sanford, head of the charter commission, said the provision will be reviewed at the group's final meeting in Kansas City next month.

In discussing Democratic efforts in the economic field,

Mondale noted the inability of the current Democratic congressional majorities to pass tax reform and economic control legislation. He said expected party gains in November would enable Congress to play a larger role in determining government policy.

He stressed the need for Democrats "to do a better job on economic issues," affecting low and moderate income persons, saying the "political party that stands up for them will be the one that gets their vote."

Bentsen said that, now that the Democrats have saved themselves from financial bankruptcy, "we must save our party from an even more terrible danger: the danger that we may become bankrupt of ideas."

Wallace mixed reminiscences of his past campaigns, denunciations of the 1972 role of "the exotic New Left" and appeals for involvement of "average citizens" in his low-key speech.

In discussing Democratic efforts in the economic field,

Attack Tactics Of Investigators

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's aides are responding to a new surge of Watergate-related disclosures with hard-line attacks on the tactics of those investigating the President.

Sources said the aides — and perhaps Nixon himself — have decided for now to forego any substantive point-by-point public response to fresh allegations against the President.

One official said Nixon's key aides had grown weary of "being put in a position of constantly denying" charges raised by Watergate investigators "and trying to prove a negative."

Thus, neither Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler or his deputy, Gerald L. Warren, would respond Thursday to the substance of the most recent disclosures by the House Judiciary Committee, which released seven volumes of Watergate evidence, or the Senate Watergate Committee, which issued a staff report suggesting campaign funds were used for Nixon's personal benefit. But both lashed out at how the new disclosures were made.

Ziegler said "it is more than a coincidence" that the two committees' disclosures came almost back-to-back, charging it was "a calculated effort at piling on as many charges as possible in an effort to manipulate public opinion."

Later, Warren launched an attack on still a third body investigating Nixon — the staff of the Watergate special prosecutor.

Warren accused assistant prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste of "playing more to the press galleries" than to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica when he said in open court that another 19-minute gap had been found in a White House tape.

Nixon lawyer James D. St. Clair said Ben-Veniste's assertions were "misleading and unjustified." St. Clair said "there was no gap on a tape" although "there was apparently an interval during which one tape had run out and prior to the installation of a replacement tape where a portion of a conversation was not recorded."

Where are You Going?

"Look, Daddy! A stopped freeway!"
Eight-year-old Kristen pointed at the span of concrete that soared over the road ahead of us and then ended abruptly as if it had encountered an invisible wall.
Two months later, we took a hike in the country. A small trail led us through green fields of waving grass and wildflowers. There the trail ended, gradually, as if reluctant to stop.
Is your life like a freeway—fast, impressive, known to many? Or is it more like a trail—plain, but comfortable, less well-known, but quite adequate?
It really doesn't matter.
The important question is: Does your life have a goal?
A freeway or trail can end, gradually or abruptly, without ever reaching a specific destination. In God, your life can have a goal. In church, He'll tell you how to reach it.

U.S. Agrees To 200-Mile Coastal Limits

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The United States has agreed to recognize the right of coastal nations to control fishing, undersea oil drilling and other economic exploitation for 200 miles off their coasts. The concession is pleasing to U.S. East Coast fishermen and Latin American nations but upsetting to West Coast tuna men.

John R. Stevenson, chief of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations Conference on the Law of the Sea, announced the American position on Thursday.

He also reiterated U.S. readiness to have territorial waters, where countries control navigation as well as economic exploitation, extended from the current three miles to 12 miles out to sea.

World interest in creating economic zones beyond their territorial waters has increased as countries look to the sea as a future source of protein and oil. An estimated 100 nations now favor 12 miles of territorial waters and an additional 188-mile economic zone, for a total of 200 miles of economic control.

The Soviet Union also supports the concept of economic zones, although it says this will hurt its own fishing fleets.

The United States said in a position paper issued June 20, as the 148-nation conference got under way, that it would support the 12-mile limit plus an additional economic zone. But it did not say until Thursday how extensive a zone it would favor.

Initial reaction from American fishermen was mixed, depending on whether they fish off the United States or foreign countries.

Carl Berkowitz, general manager of East Coast Fisheries of Miami, said, "We can't fish within 200 miles of some South American countries, but they can come fish near our shores. The foreign fishermen — especially the Russians — have been scraping the bottom, taking spawn and young fish."

"They couldn't do that under the new territorial limit. And we could enforce our fishing seasons so fish could develop and grow and we would have a larger supply."

"It means our shrimpers will get bigger catches; it means foreign fishermen won't be able to deplete our fish stocks," said Kit Nelson of Key West, Fla., who owns two shrimp boats.

But Robert G. Mauer of the Texas Shrimp Assn. said a 200-mile zone would be disastrous for Texas shrimpers unless they could continue fishing off the Mexican coast.

At present, the United States enforces a three-mile territorial limit off its own coasts and protects fishing rights to 12 miles. Harvey Michelson, head of the Seafood Dealers Assn. in New Bedford, Mass., predicted that a 200-mile limit in the Atlantic would revitalize the New England fishing industry, which suffers from the competition of foreign fleets working the Georges Bank.

But opposition to American acceptance of the 200-mile limit was strong among tuna fishermen in California. They fish off the Pacific coast of South America and for some years have been plagued by the 200-mile limits unilaterally proclaimed by Peru and Equador. "A 200-mile limit would severely hinder the high seas tuna operation," said Richard Hodkings of San Diego, Calif., vice president of a firm that owns 13 boats. "Tuna is a highly migratory fish. It can be in one zone one day and another zone another day."

Stevenson said earlier in the week that the United States feels fishing for tuna and other migratory fish must be governed by "international arrangements that will preserve the stock and assure access to it."

Stevenson told the conference that American acceptance of the new limits was conditional on their being part of "an acceptable comprehensive package." The United States and other maritime powers want such a treaty to guarantee free navigation through all the straits of the world and to establish a world body to supervise exploration and exploitation of minerals located beneath international waters.

OUCH!—Audrey Johnson asked her 4-month-old leopard cub, Bwana, for a kiss, and instead she got a teething tweak. She wasn't hurt. She and the

Ehrlichman Fate Is In Hands Of The Jury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jury in the plumbers trial today begins deliberating the guilt or innocence of John D. Ehrlichman and three others accused of plotting the Ellsberg break-in.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell is to instruct the six men and six women on how to judge the case before dispatching them to deliberate their verdict.

The scene of the trial was shifted from the U.S. Courthouse to the nearby District of Columbia Court of Appeals after authorities decided to close the federal courthouse because two prisoners were holding a group of hostages at gunpoint in the building's basement.

On Thursday, associate special Watergate prosecutor William H. Merrill asked the jury to convict the defendants of violating the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis J. Fielding.

He described the Sept. 3, 1971, break-in as a violation of everything the U.S. Constitution stands for.

"This isn't patriotism," Merrill said. "This is anarchy." The principal attorney for Ehrlichman, William C. Frates, characterized his client as a busy man in the White House who had no intention of doing anything illegal.

Addressing the jury in a friendly, folksy tone, Frates sought to attack the credibility of the two main prosecution witnesses, David R. Young and Egil "Bud" Krogh.

Sarcastically referring to Young as "our great American," Frates accused Young of "wheeling and dealing his way into a deal with the prosecutors."

Young's testimony was provided in exchange for immunity from prosecution.

Daniel Schultz, the attorney for defendants Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio R. Martinez, said his clients' participation in the break-in at Fielding's Beverly Hills, Calif., office was the result of "a cruel fraud practiced on them by E. Howard Hunt."

Hunt in 1971 was a member of the plumbers, a special White House investigative unit.

Peter Maroulis, the attorney for G. Gordon Liddy, said the former FBI agent believed that because he was hired by the White House he acted under presidential auspices in carrying off the break-in.

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser receives 300-700 letters daily, many with his name misspelled, and his office tries to answer at least 90 per cent of them.

One letter was simply addressed: "Gov. Jim Ho, the White House, Raleigh."

Perhaps no Tar Heel governor in modern times has seen his name misspelled so often. This posed no problem for Holshouser's predecessors — former Govs. Bob Scott, Dan Moore, Terry Sanford and Luther Hodges.

The letters often contain personal problems, such as requests for paroles or assistance in getting a road paved.

One writer pleaded: "Governor, in the name of God, please rush me some help. P.S. Emergency." But the person forgot to give his name.

Another wrote: "I broke my leg in three places, and I'll be in a casket for three weeks."

Phil Kirk, the governor's administrative assistant, said in an interview. "At last count the governor's name had been misspelled 70 different ways on letters." Kirk handles Holshouser's schedule and many of the phone calls requesting permission to talk to the governor or to meet with him.

"We get at least 25 calls a day, sometimes 50."

He added, "We try to determine what the problem is and transfer the caller to the right official who can handle it."

One woman requested in a letter that Holshouser send her three feathers from the state's official bird, the cardinal. Kirk quickly pointed out this couldn't be done.

Letters have come in with Holshouser's name spelled: "Holosour, Holeshower, Holsur, Hoehouser, Holehaxur, Holdshouser, and Holeschouser."

State To End Its Testimony

By JIM BARLOW
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The state is expected to call five more witnesses today and wind up its testimony in the trial of Elmer Wayne Henley, 18, accused in the Houston mass murders.

District Court Judge Preston Dial told lawyers Thursday he expects the defense to present its side immediately after the state rests.

Dist. Atty. Carol Vance said Thursday he plans to wind up with testimony from parents of four of the victims as well as a detective.

Will Gray, the chief defense lawyer, has not revealed his plans, although he said before the trial started that he will not put Henley on the stand. Gray has issued subpoenas for more than 60 persons, but said last week during questioning of jurors that he may not call a single witness.

Henley is being tried on six counts of murder.

Prosecutors paraded witness after witness to the stand Thursday in an attempt to link Henley to physical evidence recovered in the case.

Mrs. Vernon Cobble, mother of victim Charles C. Cobble, 17, identified a blue shirt found in a Houston boatshed as one worn by her son when he disappeared last July 25 from his Houston apartment.

She also identified clothing worn by Marty Ray Jones, 18, who disappeared with Cobble. The two youths were found buried together in the boat shed where police found 15 other bodies of young teen-aged males.

In all 27 bodies were dug up last summer in three locations.

"One of the bodies found, however, may not have been a victim in the mass murders, according to testimony Thursday by Harris County medical examiner Dr. Joseph A. Jachimczyk.

Jachimczyk said John Manning Sellers, 17, of Orange, Tex., whose body was one of six found buried on a beach at High Island, Tex., was shot with a rifle and his body was fully clothed when found. The body was not identified until last April.

The 26 other victims were either shot with a pistol or strangled and their bodies were buried nude.

Also testifying Thursday was Fred R. Rymer, a firearms expert with the Texas Department of Public Safety in Austin.

Rymers said a pistol introduced by the state was the gun used to shoot and kill Cobble and victim Homer Garcia, 15, who disappeared July 18, 1973.

The gun was the same one Henley told police he used to kill Dean A. Corll, 33, the man identified by police as the leader of a homosexual torture and murder ring.

In statements given to police, both Henley and David Owen Brooks, 19, admitted procuring youths for Corll, who homosexually raped them. The two youths also said they helped torture and kill the victims and dispose of their bodies.

A trial date for Brooks, charged with four deaths, has not been set.

Praised For Added Service

Jesse L. Hicks of Raleigh, who heads the USDA-Soil Conservation Service in North Carolina, has praised the supervisors of the state's 92 soil and water conservation districts for enlarging their public services.

"With the fiscal year recently ending, we are seeing annual reports of services rendered to the public by these community leaders, and in every case they are taking on new responsibilities while carrying out their traditional objectives in conservation and agriculture," Hicks said.

Hicks mentioned the expanded role of district supervisors in providing assistance to county and local governments as they adopt local sedimentation control ordinances, to carry out the intent of the statewide law regulating this type of pollution.

He pointed out that North Carolina now has 66,000 farm ponds, and gave district supervisors credit for encouraging this useful practice. The supervisors also get in-involved with the young people by providing conservation topics.

They also get involved with the young people by providing conservation booklets and encouraging essay and poster contests on conservation topics.

They also sponsor attendance of young men at the annual Resource Conservation Workshop at the University of North Carolina at Raleigh, and work with Future Farmers of America in sponsoring land judging contests.

Minette explained that the Institute utilized the Greenville Utilities mailing list and hand carried other questionnaires to residents who do not receive utility bills at their addresses. He noted that 9,777 surveys were mailed and another 609 forms were hand delivered for a total distribution of 10,386.

The Institute had a return of 3,191 surveys, he said, with answers to the five questions on the brief questionnaire indicating more than 9,000 places to go each day and more than 6,000 trips taken each day.

Minette said that the Institute did not draw any conclusions from the survey but presented the information to the city to aid the Council in determining the need for further study. He added that the large number of returned surveys appeared to indicate that there is significant interest in a bus system here.

The Council will study the survey results and decide on further action concerning the bus system study.

A request by Spunwind Inc. for permission to do exploratory drilling in the City Landfill to determine if it might be feasible to reclaim some 22,000 cubic yards of raw polyester extrusion was granted.

Tommy Little of Spunwind said that an auger type drill would be used to gain the sample and if it appears that the measure would not be feasible, the company would not pursue the matter further. He said that, in his opinion, it was a mistake to dump the material at the site since it is a non-biodegradable substance.

If the drilling indicates that the material is available for reclaiming, the company will come back before the Council for further authorization and negotiations.

Other items included: adoption of an amendment to the City Code revising the fee schedule for processing and advertising variance, special use, and rezoning requests to provide for a petitioner's fee in the amount of actual advertising costs plus $5 for rezoning, special use, and variance petitions;

Approval of renewal permits for mobile homes located at 1304 Ward Street and 918 Legion Street for personal residences; A brief report on the use of mosquito spraying equipment in the city and authorization to continue spraying in designated areas and upon request;

Tabling of action on a proposed Sedimentation Pollution Control Act enforcement program;

Granting of interim permits for the operation of pool tables at 409-A Bonner's Lane, 514 Watauga Avenue, and The Ice House at 220 E. 14th Street until the ordinance pertaining to the operation of pool equipment is redefined;

Denial of an application for a taxicab operator's permit by William Stanley Hardison;

Approval of a preapplication for Governor's Highway Safety Program funds to be applied toward the purchase of a motorcycle unit for the Police Department Uniform Division;

Approval of resolutions authorizing the filing of applications with the Division of Law and Order of the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources to provide for the establishment of a Crime Prevention Office within the Police Department and the replacement of the police communication systems with a high band system;

Approval of a revision in the Police Legal Advisor Grant Contract with the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources increasing the first year local costs from $658.75 to $1,317.50 as a result of a decision by Pitt County to withdraw from the project;

Granting of a permit to Samuel Ray Davis to place a double-wide mobile home at 941 N. Clark Street for use as a personal residence;

Granting of permission for the Utilities Commission to install in Green Springs Park 15 anodes buried approximately 13 feet deep, interconnected with underground cable extending to E. Fifth Street, in providing cathodic protection for the steel pipe mains in the city's natural gas distribution system;

Approval to establish a speed limit of 45 miles per hour on U.S. 264 Bypass East from Tenth Street to a point .13 miles north of Tenth Street, and to revise the speed limit from 35 miles per hour to 45 miles per hour on Airport Road from Memorial Drive to Greene Street;

Adoption of an ordinance prohibiting right turn on red movements at designated intersections with the city;

Scheduling of a public hearing in August to consider an amendment to the CBD Urban Renewal Plan;

Approval to negotiate a contract with Dudley and Shoe Architects for design services for the proposed Fire Station;

Approval of a contract with Chapin Construction for renovation work on the third floor of City Hall in an amount not to exceed $9,000;

Releasing of penalties for late listing on tax notices for North Carolina Equipment Co.

The Council tabled action on four street improvement petitions and also action concerning the widening of 14 Street near Chestnut Street to provide for a turn or storage lane. The city plans to install traffic signals at the intersection of 14th and Chestnut and it is felt that a third lane is necessary to insure turning safety.

A motion by Cox to discontinue use of the city's present logo and replace it with the city seal failed to carry. West seconded the motion but Council members Mildred McGrath, Joe Taft Jr., and Howard voted against the measure.

The Council voted to increase the salary of the City manager to $23,200. The city manager was paid $22,500 last year. The Council also approved a motion to suggest to the Greenville Utilities Commission that the salary of the Director of Utilities also be set at the $23,200 figure.

Blood . . .

members give blood, their cards are moved to the back of the file. The Moose Lodge sends out cards to members and the Women of the Moose make follow-up calls to remind donors of upcoming visits.

The eligibility of 17-year-olds to donate blood with parental permission should be a help to the county in meeting its quota for the coming year, he pointed out. Cards authorizing 17-year-olds to give blood may be filled out prior to a visit or parents may accompany the young donors to the Bloodmobile.

Ross said that "we'll really have a challenge for this year since our quota has been increased from 2,670 to 3,329 pints. We will still have 23 county visits," he added. Quotas are increased 25 per cent each year, regardless of usage, the chairman said.

Of the 58 hospitals in the Tidewater Region, Pitt Memorial was the fourth highest user of blood during the year, it was noted. Overall, the region used 350 pints of blood each day during the year.

"We've had a real good year and I would like to thank the Moose Lodge for furnishing the facilities and the Greenville Service League women for helping during the year," he commented. "I also want to thank all of the volunteer nurses who helped us and hope that we will have more volunteers to offer their services this year at the Bloodmobile."

Ross added that more sponsoring organizations are also needed for the upcoming visits in 1974-75 and he urged civic groups and other organizations to consider sponsorship of a blood visit.

"I especially want to thank the public for turning out and supporting the blood program," Ross said. "and we want to encourage them to continue to support the program during the coming year. We are real pleased with the record for the past year."

Call Murcer 'Sunshine Boy'

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Just call Bobby Murcer one of the "Sunshine Boys." "I like warm weather," the New York Yankee outfielder explains. "I just can't play in cold weather."

The summer has brought out the best in Murcer—and he continued to match the climate with a hot bat Wednesday night that lead a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Murcer personally provided all of the Yankee scoring, doubling home a run and coming in with another on a grounder to help George Medich post his 10th victory this year.

In the other American League games Thursday night, the Boston Red Sox blasted the Texas Rangers 12-3; the Minnesota Twins defeated the Cleveland Indians 5-2 and the Chicago White Sox nipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-3. In the National League, the Cincinnati Reds trimmed the Chicago Cubs 4-3 in 10 innings in the only game.

George "Doc" Medich allowed seven hits to pitch his "most gratifying victory of the season" for the Yankees.

Medich, 10-7, yielded four of the Royals' hits in the first two innings. He struck out eight and walked two. Medich didn't give up another hit until Jim Wohlford singled with one out in the seventh.

Nelson Briles, 1-3, started for the Royals and left in the sixth. Steve Mingori relieved Briles and retired the Yankees in order, two on strikeouts.

Red Sox 12, Rangers 3

Rick Miller and Rico Petrocelli drilled two-run homers and knocked in three runs apiece, leading a 15-hit Boston attack that gave the Red Sox an easy victory over Texas.

Bill Lee, 10-7, scattered four hits.

The Red Sox pounded Texas starter Steve Hargan, 7-5, and reliever Don Stanhouse for a 5-0 lead in the first three innings.

Twins 5, Indians 2

Larry Hise's two-run double capped a four-run seventh inning that powered Minnesota over Cleveland.

Rod Carew and Steve Braun slammed successive run-scoring singles ahead of Hise's double to boost the Twins to their fifth consecutive victory.

Minnesota scored once in the bottom of the sixth when Rod Carew singled, advanced to third base on a single by Steve Braun and scored on a grounder by Hise.

White Sox 4, Orioles 3

Brian Downing led off the ninth inning with a walk and eventually came around to score on a wild pitch, giving Chicago its victory over Baltimore.

Bob Reynolds walked Downing. Grant Jackson came into the game and allowed the runner to move to second on a sacrifice. Downing took third on a bouncer by Ed Herrmann and scored on Jackson's wild pitch shortly thereafter.

The White Sox tied the score at 3-3 with a two-run eighth.

Reds 4, Cubs 3

Dave Concepcion scored from third on Johnny Bench's grounder in the 10th as Cincinnati beat Chicago.

Eastwood Travels To Small Lead

By DAN EVEN
AP Sports Writer

BETTENDORF, Iowa (AP)—Bob Eastwood and his family are in need of a new home, and the little-known professional started the Quad Cities Open golf tournament as if he wants to do the financing all at once.

Eastwood, who has won only about $35,000 in his three years on the tour, used a five-under-par 66 to unexpectedly vault into the lead in the $100,000 tournament.

"We travel the pro circuit in a motor home, but it's getting a little small," he remarked after his bogeyless first round Thursday that included five birdies. "We need a bigger place to stay."

The $20,000 first prize in this four-year-old tournament would go a long way in that direction, Eastwood quickly added.

The five-foot-10, 160-pounder from Lodi, Calif., held a one-stroke lead over tour veteran Ed Sneed. Dave Hiskey and Labron Harris Jr. going into today's second 18-hole round.

Eastwood, 28, started with birdies on three of the first five holes. He ran a 25-foot putt home on the final hole for what proved to be the lead.

Frank Maloney, 33, makes his debut as a head football coach at Syracuse University this fall.

Lamar Hunt Speaks Out On The Players' Strike

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Lamar Hunt, owner of the Kansas City Chiefs, accused the National Football League Players Association today of a premeditated strike to demolish the pre-season but predicted there would be a regular NFL season because of desertions in the veteran ranks.

"My own opinion is they (the NFLPA) took their position far in advance to wreck pre-season with four things in mind," the founding father of the old American Football League told The Associated Press.

Hunt said "First of all, the pre-season training camps and two-a-day workouts are extremely demanding...very hard physically. Now, a veteran wouldn't be against nipping that part of the camp.

"Secondly, that (camp) is the one time of year that jobs are vulnerable. If there is no pre-season, they (the veterans) are almost assured of getting their jobs back because a rookie can't beat them out."

With Paralysis, He Still Plays

ALLEN PARK, Mich. (AP) — In many ways, Joe Sutika is like any other 14-year-old. He plays softball, has a 118 bowling average, placed second in Junior Olympics pull-up competition last year and says he "just can't get enough of sports."

But young Joe is paralyzed from the waist down. That didn't stop him from starring in a softball game Thursday with the park league's Bethesda Bombers. He had two singles, a double and a walk in four trips to the plate.

Joe kneels to bat while another player runs for him. "He's fantastic," said David Post, 13, one of Joe's teammates.

Joe plays a mean third base. In the second inning, he scrambled on his hands and knees to snag a hard grounder on the second hop, spun and flipped the ball to second base in time for the tag on an advancing runner.

Joe has been paralyzed since birth, but faced the challenge of growing up handicapped like he faces an opposing pitcher — with determination.

"You get a lot of ridicule, but once you prove yourself, people will accept you," he said. He received orthopedic training for five years, and now walks with the aid of leg supports and crutches.

Joe's mother has learned to cope with her son's problems. She has had to learn to stand back and let him pick himself up when he falls.

"He can accept ridicule from children but he can't take it from adults," she said. "You know adults can be much crueler than children. Sometimes Joey will come home and say some older person just stood there staring at him."

Prentice Hopes For Money Lead

By GEORGE STRODE AP Sports Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — JoAnn Prentice, her confidence buoyed by a lesson from Jack Nicklaus' mentor, shoots to regain the Ladies Professional Golf Association money lead from Joanne Carner this week-end.

The two top money winners will compete in the $40,000 Columbus Classic that began today over par-72 Riviera Country Club's flat 6,410 yards. "I went to Jack Grout (Nicklaus' teacher) and he worked with me the last two days," said Miss Prentice, who lost the LPGA money lead to Mrs. Carner last week.

"Jack said I was moving my shoulders forward on my swing," added Miss Prentice, whose $32,000 victory in the Dinah Shore tournament had kept her in the No. 1 money spot nearly all season.

"But I'm only $160 behind and that's because I bogeyed the last three holes last week," she said before a pro-am prelude Thursday.

Mrs. Carner, who has won three times and finished second in three more events in the last two months, has $58,206 in 1974 earnings to Miss Prentice's $57,146.

A large part of Mrs. Carner's surge has been her loss of 33 pounds since January, but she's worried about her weight.

"I need to leave off now because I'm getting tired easier. I've gone from a size 18 dress to a size 12," said the 35-year-old blonde from Lake Worth, Fla.

This year's field, largest ever with 81 pros and one amateur, is the strongest in the 10 years of the Columbus tournament.

At stake is $6,000 first prize. "The girls will score well here. It will take six or seven under par," Mrs. Carner predicted. "The course is in such great shape and the greens are putting beautifully."

Jackson Tops

NEW YORK (AP) — Slugger Reggie Jackson of the Oakland A's has outdistanced rival American League outfielders by collecting 2,085,192 votes in balloting for the July 23 All-Star baseball game.

With 4,223,484 ballots counted in the fan voting that ended last Sunday, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said today that Jackson, leading all players, was the first to receive more than two million votes.

Bobby Murcer of New York is a distant runnerup in the outfield race with 833,783 votes and Frank Robinson of California hsd 764,803 in a tight battle three others for the third starting berth.

Trailing Robinson are Detroit's Al Kaline with 757,448 votes, Oakland's Joe Rudi, 726,603 and Texas' Jeff Burroughs, 696,426.

Although voting ended last Sunday, many ballots remain to be counted. The final tally, which will determine the AL starting lineup for the All-Star Game in Pittsburgh, will be announced on Monday.

Boston's Carlton Fisk, sidelined with a knee injury, leads the catchers with 972,816 votes, but runnerup Thurman Munson of New York has 666,451 and has been closing the gap.

Other leaders in the incomplete American League returns are: first base—Dick Allen, Chicago, 937,511 votes; second base—Rod Carew, Minnesota, 1,608,892; third base—Brooks Robinson, Baltimore, 940,006; shortstop—Bert Campaneris, Oakland, 1,375,010.

Manager Dick Williams of California will select the pitchers and reserves.

NFL Negotiations To Resume In Washington

By TOM SEPPY AP Sports Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League club owners and players were scheduled to meet again today in an effort to bring contract negotiations anew and end the 12-day strike that has already caused the cancellation of the College All-Star game.

"Anytime you get them to the table, it's a hopeful sign," said Ed Garvey, executive director of the players union. "We hope we can convince them it's time to start bargaining."

"We feel, as the federal mediator does, that the proper place for the bargaining parties is at the bargaining table," said John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council. "We welcome the chance to settle our differences in that forum."

The two warring parties met in the Labor Department offices of federal mediator James Searce in attempt to get bargaining talks started again.

The talks broke off June 26 after it became apparent that there would be no immediate agreement on the 63 demands made by the players March 16. Searce said then that the meetings were recessed because "we have reached the point now where we cannot be constructive.

The players' demands include nine basic so-called freedom issues although they also want the elimination of curfews in training camp and liberalized dress code.

Among the key freedom demands are elimination of the option and reserve clauses, the right of veterans to veto trades and abolishment of the so-called Rozelle rule which allows the commissioner to decide compensation when a player moves to another team after his option year.

The players went on strike July 1 and, two days later, set up picket lines at the training camp of San Diego, followed by Dallas, Miami, Philadelphia, Green Bay and the New York Jets and Giants.

Connors Downs Rosewall

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jimmy Connors made it two in a row over Ken Rosewall, but even that couldn't save the Baltimore Banners from defeat at the hands of the Pittsburgh Triangles in World Team Tennis.

Connors beat Rosewall 7-5 Thursday night in what was billed as a rematch of last Saturday's men's singles title pairing at Wimbledon which Connors won easily.

But the Triangles, for whom Rosewall is player-coach, edged the Banners 24-23 on the strength of victories in women's singles and women's doubles.

Midway into his match with Rosewall, someone in the crowd of 6,646 shouted to Connors: "Do it for Chrissie," a reference to Chris Everet, Wimbledon women's champ and Connors' fiancée.

Smiling, Connors bowed to the crowd and replied: "Okay."

Picket lines were to go up today at the camps of Buffalo and Oakland, as those teams were to report.

The College All-Stars reported to Evanston, Ill., to prepare for their July 26 game against the Miami Dolphins but, after meeting with union representatives, voted not to play unless a contract was signed. The sponsors of the game cancelled the contest Wednesday.

Joe Robbie, owner of the Dolphins and a member of the NFL Management Council, told a news conference Thursday that he did see the two parties agreeing on much at the meeting with the mediator.

"I don't expect anything to happen," he said. "The impasse has deepened. We can't negotiate with a gun at our heads."

Twice the explosive Connors showed displeasure with line calls that went against him, but when Rosewall made a series of well-placed shots, Connors tipped his racket in his opponent's direction.

Rosewall jumped to an early 1-0 lead, with Connors appearing sluggish at the start. The two were tied 1-1 after the second game, but Rosewall jumped ahead in the third and built a 5-4 advantage before Connors stormed back.

Rosewall, 39, appeared to tire in the 10th game and Connors drove home the game point with a vengeful overhead smash.

Connors later combined with Bob Carmichel to defeat Rosewall and Triangles' teammate Gerald Batterick 6-3 in men's doubles. Carmichel and Betty Stove gave the Banners the triumph in mixed doubles, beating the team of Batterick and Petty Michel 6-4.

Player Waiting For Winds

By GEOFFREY MILLER AP Sports Writer LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England (AP) — Gary Player, sitting pretty on a five-stroke lead in his bid for a third British Open golf title, prayed today for a big wind.

"Let it blow," said the little South African as a scaled-down field of 82 went into the third round on the 6,822-yard Royal Lytham and St. Anne's Links.

"I enjoy it when it blows," he said confidently. "Wind is part of the British Open.

"It is an examination, and it took me a long time to pass the examination. Eighty per cent of the fellows out there have not passed the test."

It was no idle boasting, either. Player tamed the wind, the sandy wastes and the bushes that trap inaccurate shotmakers to shoot a sparkling 68 Thursday for a two-round total of 137, five under par.

Another South African, Bobby Cole, shared second place with Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, both at par 142.

It has been years since anybody had such a big lead at the halfway point in this 114-year-old classic.

America's leading challengers were strung out behind. Danny Edwards, a rookie pro from Edmund, Okla., was in fourth place at 143. Defending champion Tom Weiskopf had a 144, along with Liang Huan Lu of Taiwan. Jack Nicklaus, who started out as the tourney favorite, was at 146.

But given the uncertainties of golf, and above all the vagaries of this treacherous, wind-lashed course, it is too soon to write off the chances of the American trio. Nicklaus and Weiskopf both insisted they still had hopes of landing the title.

"Strokes change rapidly on a course like this and in conditions like these," said Nicklaus. Weiskopf, with seven strokes to make up, said, "Even with one round to play, you can win from that position. Anything could happen yet."

"If I could have foreseen what would happen to Pauline, I would have moved away. As for what it cost me physically — well, I can't say it was worth it, but I couldn't have done otherwise without hating myself the rest of my life." — Sheriff Buford Pusser

This week Norman Lobsenz explores an emerging national phenomenon exclusively for Family Weekly as he relates the story behind the story of the motion picture "Walking Tall," which has earned millions and has audiences standing and applauding when the lights come on. The center of the story is a 36-year-old Tennessee sheriff, Buford Pusser, who took on the crime syndicate by himself, used tactics that some consider as bad morally as those of the syndicate itself, and won. Along the way he lost his wife — she was killed — and spent thousands of dollars mending his own body. Read this compelling true adventure story and make up your own mind if Sheriff Pusser's methods were right or wrong.

Two Large Newspaper Chains Joining

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — An agreement in principle has been announced here to merge Knight Newspapers Inc. and Ridder Publications Inc., forming a new group of 35 newspapers.

The Knight-Ridder papers would have a combined daily circulation of about 3.6 million, largest of any American newspaper group. Gannett Newspapers, with 54 papers and a combined daily circulation of about 2.3 million, would remain the largest group in number of papers.

The plan calls for both the Knight and Ridder organizations to divest themselves of radio and television properties they currently have interests in.

The announcement, made here Wednesday, said the new Knight-Ridder Newspapers Inc. would be formed through an exchange of six-tenths of a share of Knight common stock for each share of Ridder common.

Knight's closing price Wednesday of $31.75 a share on the New York Stock Exchange indicated the transaction's value would be slightly more than $150 million. Ridder common stock closed at $14.75 a share on the NYSE.

Knight currently publishes 16 daily newspapers in seven states, including one here and others in Detroit, Philadelphia, Miami and Charlotte, N.C. Ridder either owns or has a substantial interest in 19 dailies in 10 states, most of them in the Midwest or West.

The merger plan was announced jointly by Lee Hills, chairman and chief executive of Knight, and Bernard H. Ridder Jr., president of Ridder. The plan is subject to approval by the boards of directors and shareholders of both companies. In addition the Federal Communications Commission must give its approval to the proposed divestitures of broadcasting properties.

In the new organization, Hills would be chairman and chief executive officer and Ridder would be vice chairman of the board and chairman of the operating committee. The group's headquarters would be in Miami.

Alvah H. Chapman Jr. will serve as president.

Knight-Ridder would have a 15-member board of trustees. Five of the board members would represent the Ridder interests. James L. Knight would be chairman of the executive committee and John S. Knight would be editorial chairman.

In addition to his Knight-Ridder posts, Ridder would continue as president of Ridder Publications Inc., which would continue as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Knight-Ridder.

The Knight chain, with a current combined daily circulation of about 2.4 million, includes these newspapers:

The Philadelphia (Pa.) Inquirer and Daily News, the Detroit (Mich.) Free Press, the Miami (Fla.) Herald, the Akron (Ohio) Beacon Journal, the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer and News, the Boca Raton (Fla.) News, the Bradenton (Fla.) Herald, the Columbus (Ga.) Ledger and Enquirer, the Lexington (Ky.) Herald and Leader, the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph and News and the Tallahassee (Fla.) Democrat.

The Ridder chain, with a combined daily circulation of about 1.2 million, includes the St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer-Press and Dispatch, the San Jose (Calif.) Mercury and News, the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle and Beacon, the Long Beach (Calif.) Independent and Press-Telegram, the Pasadena (Calif.) Star-News and the Gary (Ind.) Post-Tribune.

Ridder also either owns or has a substantial interest in the Boulder (Colo.) Daily Camera, the Niles (Mich.) Star, the Duluth (Minn.) News-Tribune and Herald, the New York Journal of Commerce, the Grand Forks (N.D.) Herald and the Aberdeen (S.D.) American News.

In addition, Ridder has 49.5 per cent of the voting stock and 65 per cent of the nonvoting stock of the Seattle (Wash.) Times and its subsidiary, the Walla Walla (Wash.) Union Bulletin.

Ridder plans to divest itself of broadcast properties that include a 26 1/2 per cent interest in WCCO AM-FM TV, St. Paul, and radio stations in Duluth, Minn.; Superior, Wis.; Aberdeen, S.D., and Colorado Springs, Colo. Ridder has already announced the sale of WDSM-TV in Duluth-Superior, which is awaiting FCC approval.

Knight plans to divest itself of its 45 per cent minority interest in Summit Broadcasting, which operates a UHF television station here. Summit also operates a radio station here and others in Dayton, Ohio, Dallas and Denver.

Breast Feeding Said Healthier, Cheaper

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Human milk is overlooked as a natural resource in the search for more food to feed the world's growing population, a California public health specialist says. Lamenting the decline in breast-feeding in some developing countries, he said that if all the mothers in the world suddenly started bottle-feeding their babies there would not be enough food to go around.

Dr. Derrick B. Jelliffe made his comments Wednesday at a symposium for health professionals sponsored by La Leche League International, an organization that promotes breast-feeding. Jelliffe is professor of public health and pediatrics at the University of California, Los Angeles.

He told newsmen later that while breast-feeding is increasing among middle-class women in the United States and Europe, it is declining in some developing countries where women are emulating practices associated with the developed nations.

Jelliffe cited a study by Alan Berg of the World Bank which estimates the annual cost of bottle-feeding throughout the world at $780 million.

Jelliffe said that in Singapore there was a decline between 1951 and 1960 from 71 per cent to 42 per cent of children in low income families breast-fed for at least three months. This is calculated to cost $1.8 million a year to provide other foods, which are nutritionally poorer.

The physician said that if mothers in India stopped breast-feeding, a herd of 5 million dairy cows would be required to provide milk for the babies.

In Uganda, the cost of bottle-feeding a baby is one-third of a laborer's salary, and in Kenya the loss of human milk because of bottle-feeding equals half of what that country receives in foreign aid, Jelliffe said.

A mother who breast-feeds requires more calories to provide milk for her baby, but only 500 more per day, he said. Three additional slices of bread provides 260 of these calories.

Jelliffe also said the decline in breast-feeding contributes to development of infantile diseases such as diarrhea and marasmus, an emaciating disease that infants often get when placed on other foods.

He and other medical experts participating in the symposium said human milk is nutritionally superior to animal milk and formulas and that breast-feeding is psychologically better for both the mother and the baby.

Dull Program To Open Series

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been said that those who disregard the past are bound to repeat it. In TV, they're bound to repeat the past for those who disregarded it or missed it. This can be a good thing.

But wilkies, why must CBS start its second "CBS News Retrospective" season this Sunday with a documentary so stupefyingly dull it may frighten viewers away from the series' next 12 Sabbath offerings?

The hour-long opus in question is "Resources for Freedom." It first aired at 3 p.m., Jan. 10, 1954, was anchored by the late Edward R. Murrow, and concerned a 1 1/2 year study of the nation's resources by the President's Materials Policy Commission. Rerunning the show and briefly comparing its 20-year forecasts with current realities may have seemed a fine idea, particularly at a time we seem to be short on almost every natural resource but wind.

Alas, and with full acknowledgment that the art of documentary-making was in its infancy in 1954, this film could well have been left to fade in the CBS vaults.

"You may get a jolt this evening to realize that although America is the land of plenty, the plenty can give out," Murrow warns at the onset.

I kept awaiting the jolt, but not even a minor tremble occurred. No question that this is due to the quantum leap TV newsmen have made in 20 years in the techniques of enlivening the dullest subject.

But the leap makes it awfully hard, for example, to sit still as a commission member goes on about taconite ore, free world trade and notes for the finale that some disagree with the commission.

Despite this, don't dismiss the series. Some coming shows are excellent, including the controversial "Hunger in America," (1968), "Murder in America," (1964), "The Right to Bear Arms" (1964) and "Biography of a Missile" (1959).

Hamner To Get Award

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Writer Earl Hamner is getting an Emmy Award after all because the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences changed its mind.

Hamner, creator of "The Waltons," wrote "The Thanksgiving Story" episode in story form. Joanna Lee adopted it into a script.

Miss Lee was awarded an Emmy at the recent ceremonies. Hamner received a certificate in accordance with academy policy.

But a spokesman said Wednesday that the academy's national committee has decided that Hamner should get an Emmy because his story was written exclusively for television. That policy will be followed in the future, the spokesman said.

Won't Play Any Sinatra

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Frank Sinatra recordings will never again be played by three radio stations in Florida and North Carolina, broadcast executive Stan Kaplan said today as a result of the singer's run-in with Australian unions.

In an editorial aired at stations WAPE in Jacksonville and WAYS and WROQ-FM in Charlotte, N.C., Kaplan called Sinatra "a national disgrace" and vowed never to air Sinatra's crooning again.

Australian unions had banned services to Sinatra after demanding an apology for his labeling women journalists there "hookers" and their male counterparts "parasites." The ban was lifted today and Sinatra's planned Australian singing tour received a green light.

Wachovia Earnings

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wachovia Corp. reported today that its consolidated income before securities transaction for the quarter ending June 30 showed an increase of 7.4 per cent over the comparable period last year.

The corporation reported income of $9.02 million, or 62 cents per share, compared with $8.39 million and 57 cents per share for the second quarter last year.

Consolidated net income was $7.74 million, or 53 cents per share, compared with $8.33 million and 57 cents per share in 1973.

For the first six months of 1974, consolidated income was $16.66 million, or $1.14, compared to $16.58 million or $1.13 a share the previous year.

Second quarter income for Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., before securities transactions, rose 27.8 per cent, to $6.54 million, from $5.119 million in 1973. Net income totaled $5.31 million versus $5.06 million a year earlier.

For the first six months, Wachovia Bank and Trust earned $12.16 million before securities transactions compared with $10.06 million in 1973, while net income rose to $10.43 million from $9.22 million.

Can't See Loan Reason

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C., said today it's hard for him to understand why the United States should lend Russia money to buy sophisticated American manufacturing equipment when Russia is the world's number two gold producer.

Fountain made the comment in connection with a report the U.S. had agreed to lend Russia $360 million for 16 years at 6 per cent interest. He noted half the money would be put up by the Export Import Bank and half by a consortium of private American banks. The funds would be used to buy equipment in America for constructing a large petrochemical fertilizer complex in the Soviet Union.

Fountain said in a weekly report to his district that the deal is "hard to understand when we not only know Russia is buying our technology to lift her standing of living, but also strongly suspect her other aim is to become militarily superior to us."

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle responsibilities cleverly and improve your credit standing. Romantic circles can be built around the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you bring an associate to a new and fascinating place, you can cement better relations. Engage in civic work you have to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Once you get important tasks handled quickly, you will have time to enjoy recreation you need. Increase harmony with loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show much affection to and consideration for family now and get excellent results. Sidestep one who has eye on your assets.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make and keep appointments that can help put your life on a more even keel. Do the shopping that you have been neglecting.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will know that 100 pennies make a dollar and how to make it grow. A happy feeling will develop, knowing there is a secure structure beneath the feet. Teach to cooperate more with others, otherwise the fine promise in this interesting chart will be lessened. Give ethical training.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 Pass 1 Pass
2NT Pass 6NT Pass
Pass Pass
Opening lead: Ten of ♣

Habitual false-carders tend to lose more than they gain—they fool their partners more often than they fool the opponents, and partnership confidence suffers as a consequence. But an occasional deception play can have spectacular results.

The bidding started quietly with an opening bid and a one-level response. South's rebid showed 19-20 points. North added his 14, arrived at the magic number 33 even if South was minimum, and so leaped straight to the small slam at no trump.

Sitting West was one of the country's great players, Harold Ogust of New York, who for many years was one of my teammates and who has also represented the U.S. in world championship play.

From the auction and his holding, it was easy to deduce that he could expect partner to contribute nothing to the defense, and that it was unlikely to do any harm if his partner misplaced a card or two. Therefore, he selected the mildly deceptive ten of clubs for his opening lead, in preference to the standard jack. The repercussions were astounding.

Declarer won the opening lead in his hand with the queen, cashed the king of hearts and finessed the jack, on which East discarded the spade. Declarer could now count ten top tricks. Under normal circumstances, declarer would have continued with the king of diamonds, followed by a diamond finesse. If that lost, there would still be excellent chances for the contract—clubs could split 3-3 or declarer could guess the location of the queen of spades. However, the opening lead seemed to present declarer with a certain finesse in the club suit, for East seemed to be marked with the jack. If declarer could score four club tricks, he would be home.

Based on this reasoning, declarer now led a low club to his eight. Much to his surprise, West won the jack and exited with the queen of hearts. It was only justice that declarer should mis-guess the position of the queen of diamonds, and so go down in a slam that he would almost certainly have made if left to his own devices.

HOME MISSIONARIES
Yes, indeed!
And this project is an ideal type of "home missionary" work for all churches.

For HAPPY marriages are more likely to result from introducing girls who are active in churches, than in taverns and night clubs!

Statistics show that when the bride and groom cooperate together in the same church, they have 50 times the likelihood of avoiding divorce!

Which also means their children will not be shuttled back and forth between feuding parents.

Alas, such half-orphaned kiddies zoom our delinquency, drug addiction and promiscuity statistics.

Bad children usually denote bad parents!

Oh, the father and mother may not be Fagins who deliberately teach their youngsters to shoplift goods from department stores, or burglarize or destroy property via wanton vandalism.

No, the bad parents produce bad children by their sins of omission rather than their sins of commission.

For they omit moral instruction of their youngsters and don't send them to Sunday School or urge them to enroll in the Scouts or Camp Fire Girls, YMCA, etc.

Such fathers may not publicly flaunt their infidelity, but they then belittle their wives with snide remarks and caustic criticism.

It is no easy job to rear children, but if you have such, then it is your grave responsibility to give them the proper headstart for a happy adulthood of their own.

Too many American couples are so selfish, they place their own ego ahead of their kiddies, and let their own hurt pride drive them into divorce, liquor or two-timing.

Once a baby is born to a married couple, they should realize they have an obligation to lead a constructive life, at least till that offspring graduates from high school!

This is an obligatory duty; not an optional choice!

So send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and play the game of marriage correctly!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The city of Galveston is located on an island 30 miles long in the Gulf of Mexico off the southeast Texas coast.

Light Show Presented

PARIS (AP) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing says France has given the United States a "sound and light" show for the Mt. Vernon home of George Washington to commemorate the U.S. bicentennial in 1976.

The "sound and light" show procedure was developed in France to add luster to its historic monuments. A programmed pattern of floodlights illuminates selected features of a building with dramatized commentary and sound effects played over a loudspeaker.

Giscard d'Estaing said Wednesday the gift was made in memory of Franco-American friendship born in battle on land and sea in the War of Independence.

35TH BIRTHDAY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Pan American World Airways marked the 35th anniversary of the inauguration of transatlantic passenger service to Europe on June 28. The inaugural flight by the "Dixie Clipper" from Long Island to Marseilles, took a total of 42 hours and 10 minutes (29 hours and 20 minutes flying time) via the Azores and Lisbon. Today's jetliners fly almost four times as fast—up to 600 miles per hour. The lowest roundtrip fare in 1939 between New York and Paris was $675. The fare now is as low as $314 in the winter months and $427 during the summer.
