

Makarios Said Slain As Cypriot Army Takes Over

ATHENS (AP) — Greek army officers commanding the Cypriot National Guard have seized control of Cyprus and toppled the government of President Makarios, Radio Cyprus announced today. Reports differed on the fate of Makarios.

Radio Cyprus announced newspaper publisher Nicholas Sampson had been appointed president to succeed Makarios. Sampson publishes the newspaper Machi, meaning combat.

The radio earlier reported that Makarios had been killed but did not repeat this report in announcing the appointment of Sampson.

A Turkish Cypriot radio monitored in Ankara said Makarios had survived the coup and taken refuge with the United Nations force assigned to keep peace between Greeks and Turks on the island.

The Turkish broadcast said Makarios appealed to "all loyal Cypriots to struggle to end the foreign aggression in our homeland." It said he also sought United Nations intervention to halt "unnecessary bloodshed among brothers."

In Greece a military source said the Greek armed forces had been put in a state of alert, and in Turkey Premier Bulent Ecevit canceled a trip to Turkey's Aegean area and called an extraordinary cabinet meeting.

Ecevit declared Turkey "will not let any alien touch the Turkish community's basic rights on the island."

The Greek officers of the National Guard were recently accused by Makarios of supporting the terrorist Eoka-B organization, which seeks to unite Cyprus with Greece.

Union with Greece, or Enosis, had also been an early goal of Makarios, but he gave it up in favor of an independent Cyprus because of bitter opposition to Enosis by the island's large Turkish minority.

Makarios, 60, was the political leader for the island's struggle for independence from Britain in the 1950s and had been president since Cyprus became independent on Aug. 16, 1960. He had been archbishop and head of the Cypriot Orthodox Church since 1950.

Britain's high commissioner to Cyprus, Steven Oliver, reported to London that the presidential palace in Nicosia was under attack, but "there is no confirmation on the whereabouts of President Makarios," a spokesman for the British Foreign Office reported.

Oliver reported that there was fighting in Nicosia, the nation's capital, and in Limassol. He said tanks had surrounded the Nicosia airport, and the rebel forces had taken over Radio Cyprus.

Normal communications with the Mediterranean island off the south coast of Turkey were severed, and the international airport at Nicosia was closed.

A communique broadcast by Radio Cyprus said the National Guard—the Cypriot army of 6,000 troops led by 650 Greek Army officers—had formed a "government of national salvation" and was in "full control of the situation." It said elections "for a genuinely freely elected government will be held within a year, no later."

It said Makarios was "already dead" and that anyone resisting the army would be "shot on the spot." It added that a curfew had been imposed and no civilians or vehicles other than ambulances were allowed on the streets. Officials at the Cypriot Embassy in Athens said they heard that the there had been "much resistance" to the army coup by "Cypriot officers and men loyal to Makarios." They said there was "much fighting" in the center of Nicosia.

The rebel communique blamed Makarios and his government for "chaos within the ranks of the army and church" and said the army was in danger of falling "into the hands of anarchist and criminal elements."

The broadcast said the new government would conduct foreign relations "as before" and that "friendly relations would be maintained with all countries." It added that talks between the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot communities would "continue as before."

Took Bottles

FUQUAY-VARINA, N.C. (AP) — Three small grocery stores were broken into Sunday night and all the owners could find missing were empty soft drink bottles approximately 1,000 of them, police said today.

Police said Godwin's Grocery, Wheeler's Grocery and Nash's Grill and Grocery were burglarized sometime during the night.

Officers said they were on the look out for anyone who tries to redeem a large number of bottles, on which the deposit is five cents.

Fuquay-Varina is about 20 miles south of Raleigh.

Flue-Cured Leaf Sales Season Has Its Opening Today

RALEIGH (AP)—Early reports indicated flue-cured tobacco prices were averaging about $85 or more per hundred pounds as auction sales began today on 12 markets in the South Carolina and border North Carolina area.

The Federal-State Market News Service said the first hour of sales on three markets in South Carolina brought prices ranging from $78 to $87 per hundred.

An early report from one warehouse in Lumberton indicated sales were averaging $85-$90 per hundred. The first 10 piles were bought by the warehouse, with the price ranging from $90 to $101 per hundred.

Tobacco experts looked for prices to average near $90.

"The potential of the crop looks very good. Based on the quality and grades, I will be disappointed if the price doesn't reach near $90," said John H. Cyrus, tobacco specialist with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture.

W.E. Barmore, director of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service in South Carolina, predicted the Palmetto crop this year will bring $150 million. South Carolina's crop is predicted at 164 million pounds, up 24 per cent from 1973.

South Carolina Agriculture Commissioner William L. Harrelson said it would be "a good quality crop, as good as we have had at any time in the past."

North Carolina's tobacco crop last year brought more than $1 billion for the first time in history. South Carolina's 1973 crop sold for $118.7 million.

A new marketing plan is in effect this year under which market sales begin on an area basis rather than by belts.

Under the U.S. Department of Agriculture regulations, markets this season will not sell every day but will be rotated according to the volume of leaf which has been designated at the various points by growers.

Another change will see growers receiving federal price supports. But the grower can only get this support at the warehouse, and only on the quantity he has designated.

Banker Recalls His Kidnapping By 2 Gorhams

By CARL L. TYER

Reflector Staff Writer

Douglas Moore remembers well the morning of Nov. 10, 1972. On that morning, Moore—the president of the Edgecombe Bank and Trust Co. of Fountain—was taken hostage by two armed gunmen and had his bank robbed of over $11,000.

Now Moore is reminded again of that morning by merely reading the daily newspapers and listening to the television newscasts, because the convicted robber of his bank is again in the news.

The Edgecombe Bank and Trust Co. was robbed by two men, one of them Frank Gorham Jr., now held-up in the basement of a U.S. District Courthouse in Washington, D.C. asking for transportation out of the country.

As in the Fountain incident, Gorham had again taken hostages in his bid for freedom in Washington, D.C., but now has lost them.

Moore remembers Frank Gorham Jr. and his father, Frank Sr., well. Both entered his bank around 11:15 on the morning of Nov. 10, 1972, armed.

Frank Jr. was carrying a sawed off shotgun, while his father carried a pistol.

Moore was taken hostage by the two that day and released approximately "five minutes later" he says.

"They threatened me repeatedly," during the entire incident, says the bank president.

"He is a wild man and a hardened criminal," Moore states now of Frank Gorham Jr.

School records show that Frank Jr. attended the H.B. Sugg school in Farmville for part of a year in 1956. He then transferred to a school in Washington, D.C.

His father lived in the Sharp Point community and is presently committed to the St. Elizabeth Hospital for the criminally insane in Washington, D.C.

Frank Jr. was sentenced to 50 years imprisonment by U.S. Eastern District Judge John Larkins on April 18, 1974 when he was found guilty of armed robbery and kidnapping relating to the Fountain incident.

Frank Sr. was arrested approximately a week later in connection with the Fountain robbery, but Frank Jr. remained free until he was arrested in Virginia and charged with a second bank robbery which occurred in Roanoke, N.C.

He was sentenced to 14 years imprisonment for the Roanoke robbery.

Since then he has been sentenced to 10-30 years for his participation in a 1972 jail-break attempt at the District of Columbia jail in which several hostages were held but released.

Approve Degree In Driver Ed

CHAPEL HILL—The Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina Friday approved one new degree program at East Carolina University and authorized the planning for another new degree at the Greenville school.

The board established the BS degree in Driver and Safety Education at ECU. The driver and safety education curriculum at ECU falls under the program of the Department of Health and Physical Education.

The Board of Governors also authorized the planning of the Master of Arts in Adult Education at ECU.

Prices Bring Complaints

By the Associated Press

Opening day tobacco prices on the major South Carolina markets today were lower than last year's averages and brought some sharp complaints from growers.

In Mullins, prices averaged $84 per one hundred pounds, and at Darlington and Timmonsville the average was $82.

Hobson Gandy, a tobacco farmer from near Darlington, said, "This is like me giving you one dollar and you give me back 90 cents. I just keep losing."

Several farmers talked of withdrawing their tobacco from the market until prices moved upwards.

Preston Warr, owner of a warehouse in Lamar, said, "The trouble is the 10 per cent allotment increase. They want us to grow more tobacco for less money."

Opening day sales last year averaged $83.90 a hundred and the average for the year was $86.60.

W.E. Barmore, state director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said today's prices "were disappointing, but I believe tobacco will again be the No. 1 cash crop in South Carolina. Buyers haven't started aggressive bidding yet."

Street Funds

The North Carolina Board of Transportation last week allocated $13,512 for improvements to the intersection of Evans and 14th Streets in Greenville.

The project will include widening Evans Street at the intersection to provide left turn lanes and revision of traffic signals.

Highway officials said work on the improvement project should begin as soon as right of way for the work is acquired.

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

NEEDS COPIES OF INSURANCE POLICIES

We have three paid up insurance policies with the Southland Ins. Co. of Dallas, Texas. Two of the policies were lost, possibly in a fire. I have written them repeatedly for several years and have asked them to send a copy of the policy. They said their home office in Rocky Mount would contact us, but they haven't. Can you help us get a copy of our policies? Mrs. M.B.

You now have all of your insurance policies in your possession. Hotline contacted the Rocky Mount office of Southland and spoke with Judy Mathews. She told Hotline she would have an agent come by your residence and have you fill out the necessary forms to make a claim on the two lost policies. She reported they had a record of one of the policies from the number you provided Hotline but had no record of the other policy. The agent contacted you and the entire matter has been straightened out, you say.

WANTS MODELING TRAINING

I am interested in modeling. Are there any modeling schools in or around Greenville? Miss D.A.

No. The closest modeling schools Hotline knows of are in Raleigh, which has three. East Carolina University's Art Department often uses models during the regular school year, but these individuals usually come from the student body, and are chosen by instructors in the Art School.

TREASURE CHEST OFFERED—IS IT LEGIT?

I received a call the other day and was offered a gift certificate book for $9.95 from radio station WGNL and some local merchants. They indicated it was worth $80 in services. Is this a legitimate offer? Mrs. J.M.

The offer you are referring to is one being handled by an outside advertising agency. The purpose is to promote the 17 merchants participating in the "Treasure Chest" offer and radio station WGNL, according to John Strength, who is heading up the operation.

Strength told Hotline that the operation was explained to the Chamber of Commerce before they began the promotion.

"There is absolutely no requirement for the persons accepting the Treasure Chest certificate book to spend one penny at the merchants participating in this offer," Strength explained. After the $9.95 is paid, Strength explains, that is the only monetary requirement.

Also, there is no obligation for the person called to accept the certificate book when it is offered by the delivery man, states the program head.

New Demand By Convicts

DAUGHTER IS SAFE—Mrs. Inez Washington, left, mother of Almeda Washington who had been in the cellblock when two armed convicts took eight persons hostage, is comforted by friends after learning her daughter had been freed by her captors. (AP Wirephoto)

By JAMES H. PHILLIPS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two armed convicts today rejected government offers and pressed their seige in the U.S. District Court cellblock even though their seven hostages had escaped nearly 24 hours earlier.

The hostages fled Sunday morning after enduring 68 hours of captivity. The escape became possible when authorities smuggled a key to the hostages.

Justice Department spokesman Mark Sheehan said today that Frank Gorham Jr. turned down a government offer to fly Gorham and his partner, Robert N. Jones, to federal prison medical facilities in Springfield, Mo., or Marion, Ill.

Sheehan cited no reason for the refusal, but Gorham said in a telephone call to radio station WASH that the pair sought a prison on the East Coast or "Lawrence Coast," presumably meaning the St. Lawrence River.

Before the line was mysteriously cut off, Gorham said that in addition to the geographical demand, the pair wanted assurances they would not be separated and that they would not be confined to solitary.

Negotiations between authorities and the two convicts continued through the night and into the morning. Food also was sent down to the prisoners, Sheehan said.

Earlier, the government turned off the air conditioning in the basement of the courthouse at the foot of Capitol Hill and briefly turned the furnace on. The temperatures outside hovered in the high 80s.

At 7 p.m. Sunday, the convicts released a woman inmate, Almeda Washington, one of several prisoners in the detention center caught up in the standoff when Gorham and Jones used a concealed .22-caliber pistol to take over at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The convicts had voluntarily released one of their original eight hostages early Friday and 14 other prisoners Saturday morning.

Gorham, 26, a convicted bank robber and one-time Vietnam paratrooper, was sleeping Sunday morning while Jones, 24, also known as Otis Wilkerson, was on the phone negotiating.

One of the hostages, deputy marshal Calvin L. Mouton, had asked officials to smuggle in an elevator key in a sanitary napkin requested by one of the women.

The hostages — Mouton; deputy marshal Joe Driskell, 57; William J. Garber, 46, an attorney; John J. Hurley, 61, an attorney for Gorham and Jones; Ralph W. Swartz, 38, a Justice Department auditor; Deputy marshal William Colquit, 37; and Justice Department secretary Debbie Collins, 24 — received the key and moved to a rear elevator out of Jones' sight.

Moments after the escape, Gorham told a reporter over the phone: "The goddam mother—hostages done slid outta here, you understand? I was off; I was off shift, man."

Mouton said that despite the threats from the pair, "they were gentlemen all the way."

Gorham and Jones had carelessly left pistols from a cellblock locker around, Mouton said. "I could have picked up a gun from the desk and killed them both. But I didn't have it in my mind yet to do it. I didn't want to kill them."

Late Sunday, spectators outside the courthouse shouted such things as "Freedom, Freedom, Freedom" for about an hour before dispersing.

U.S. Crime Rate Again Sees Dramatic Climb

By MARGARET GENTRY

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crime in the United States soared up 15 per cent during the first three months of this year, the FBI reported today.

It was the second consecutive period reflecting a dramatic increase in the national rate of murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny and auto theft — the crime categories measured by the FBI in its Uniform Crime Reports.

The latest crime surge strengthened the pattern forecast by the 16 per cent over-all increase during the last three months of 1973. By contrast, the full-year figures for 1972 showed a 4 per cent decline, the first drop in 17 years, and the figures for the first nine months of 1973 showed the crime rate was holding steady.

The FBI figures, based on statistics reported by state and local police agencies across the country, are not considered totally accurate by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration which has concluded from its own polling that the nation experiences at least twice as much crime as the FBI figures reflect.

The FBI report showed that offenses in all seven crime categories totaled 15 per cent more than in the same period a year ago.

Broken down by categories, the largest increase was 19 per cent for larceny, followed by 15 per cent for burglary and 10 per cent for rape. Murder and assault each rose 7 per cent, auto theft 5 per cent and robbery 1 per cent.

In the breakdown by population, the sharpest increases were in communities of less than 10,000 where the biggest surge was 33 per cent for murder.

Only cities of more than one million showed any significant crime decrease. Taken together, big cities reported an 8 per cent decline in robbery, a 4 per cent drop in assault, and a 5 per cent decrease in motor vehicle thefts.

By region, crime increased the most — 23 per cent — in southern states. Western states reported a 17 per cent surge and northeastern and north central states listed a 9 per cent increase.

Couple Exchanges Vows McMahan-Mayo Vows Solemnized In Ceremony

BETHEL—Miss Theresa Elaine Dewar and Jerry Allen Carson were united in marriage Sunday afternoon in the Bethel United Methodist Church. The Rev. Ellis Bedsworth, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Davis Dewar Sr. of Bethel. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Hilton Parker Carson of Robersonville and the late Mr. Carson.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Robert Harold Staton, organist, and Mrs. Mary Wells Andrews, soloist. Mrs. Andrews sang "Because," "Beloved, It is Morn," and "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza designed with a high neckline encircled with scalloped chantilly lace. A deep ruffle flounce of organza trimmed the hemline of the flared skirt.

She wore a formal length illusion mantilla edged in chantilly lace to match the gown. The bride's flowers were a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath interspersed with feathered carnations.

Miss Alta Jean Dewar, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length sleeveless gown of maize floral organza over maize taffeta designed with a flared capelet collar of the floral organza. The natural waistline was accented with a gathered sash of maize organza with long streamers enhancing the gown back. The flared skirt was edged at the hemline in a ruffled flounce of the organza print. She wore a maize ripple brimmed garden hat and carried a basket of white daisies and yellow pom poms arranged in a cascade design and tied with a yellow ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Celeste Carson of Charlotte, cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Janet Mays of Richmond, cousin of the bride, Miss Jackie Carson, Miss Judy Carson, Mrs. Janet Knox, Mrs. Annette Pilgreen, and Miss Deborah Weeks, all of Bethel. Their gowns and headpieces were similar to that of the honor attendant.

Michelle Warren, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a dress fashioned like that of the bridesmaids and carried a small white basket of daisies and pom poms.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Speller of Williamston, and Miss Debbie Watts of Tabor City. They carried single long-stemmed mums tied with yellow ribbon.

Warren Carson, borthor of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsman were Dr. Donald Bernard Dewar of Homestead, Fla., brother of the bride, Sam Davis Dewar Jr. of Moorestown, N.J., brother of the bride, Jeffrey Vernon Carson, brother of the bridegroom, Charles James Raspberry Jr. of Farmville, cousin of the bride, Donald McCoy Hardison Jr. of Greenville, James Wilford Griffin of Williamston, and James Wyatt Whichard of Robersonville.

Benjamin Dewar of Homestead, Fla. nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a formal gown of green polyester featuring long sleeves of chiffon and matching accessories.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a sleeveless formal gown of mint green and white, highlighted by a waistband and skirt inserts of hot pink and matching accessories. Both mothers wore white orchids.

The maternal grandmother of the bride wore a pale blue sculptured polyester dress with lace sleeve inserts. She wore a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Robert Joseph Whitehurst of Bethel directed the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University, where she was a member of Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University and is employed by Central Carolina Bank, Durham, as a management associate.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Virginia, the couple will be at home in Durham. For traveling, the bride wore a green polyester and cotton pants outfit with a floral jacket and white accessories.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

Following the rehearsal Saturday evening, the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Hilton Parker Carson, Mrs. Henry Glenn Norman, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carson Norman entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at an after-rehearsal dinner at the Robersonville Country Club.

On Sunday morning prior to the wedding, friends of the bride entertained at a breakfast held at Tarboro Inn, Tarboro.

Frances Edwards Mayo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas F. Edwards of Falkland, and Bobby Gene McMahan of High Point were united in marriage at the Hollywood Presbyterian Church Sunday at 3:00 p.m. The Rev. William S. Forbes officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.C. McMahan of High Point.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white rosepoint lace princess line gown with high neckline with long tapered sleeves. The yoke neckline and sleeves were accented with a scallop ruffle and edged with Venise lace. The gown from the yoke down was lined with baby blue crepe and flowed chapel length. The gown was created by Mrs. Inez Vandiford.

Her veil was attached to a white picture hat that was edged with matching lace and white and blue flowers. She carried a white satin and lace covered Bible centered with spring flowers.

The mother of the bride wore an aqua formal gown with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom chose a mint green formal gown with matching accessories. Both mother wore orchids from Hawaii sent by the sister of the bride, Mrs. Dennis M. Biggs.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Heber Cobb of Falkland, sister of the bride. She wore a formal pink and white floral crepe polyester gown with an empire waistline that was trimmed with yellow velvet ribbon. She wore pink picture hat with matching pink velvet ribbon. She carried a pink mum with pink and white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Judy Brooks, sister of the bridegroom, of Milford, Del., Miss Joni McMahan, daughter of the bridegroom, from High Point, and Miss Diane Cobb, niece of the bride, of Falkland.

Their dresses were similar to that of the honor attendant in yellow and white floral polyester crepe trimmed in matching yellow velvet ribbon. They wore yellow picture hats trimmed with matching ribbon and carried a yellow mum with yellow and white streamers.

Flower girl was Miss Gwen Edwards, niece of the bride, of Falkland. She wore a yellow floral formal gown similar to bridesmaids with a bow in her hair. She carried a basket of yellow and white petals.

Best man was John Steven McMahan, son of the bridegroom, of San Francisco, Cal. Ushers were Frankie Edwards, brother of the bride, of Falkland, Tim Suits of High Point, and Gary Barwick of Greenville.

Mrs. Ollen McGowen of Greenville, organist and Mrs. Hazel Evans also of Greenville, soloist, presented a program of wedding music.

A cake cutting was held following the rehearsal. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Bobby Crisp, sister of the bride. Mrs. Frankie Edwards, sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the register and directed guests to the refreshment table.

Mrs. Nell McMahan, mother of the bridegroom served the wedding cake after the bridal couple had cut the first slice. Mrs. Jonas Edwards, mother of the bride poured punch.

After a wedding trip to western North Carolina and Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple will reside in High Point. The bridegroom is employed by the University of North Carolina at Greensboro as a lieutenant with the campus police. The bride is a primary school teacher.

Miss Jackie Hedgepeth Weds Sunday Afternoon

BELL ARTHUR—In a can-delight ceremony Sunday at 3:00 p.m., Miss Jackie Sue Hedgepeth and Steven Harrison
Boswell were united in marriage in the Arthur Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of
Mr. and Mrs. Carnie C.
Hedgepeth of Farmville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Jay Boswell of Greenville.

The pastor of the bride, Rev.
E.L. Kilpatrick of Winterville, performed the double ring ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Tommy Manning of Ayden, pianist, Miss Brenda Moore of Farmville, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of white organza over bridal satin with an embroidered scalloped neckline and long tapering sheer sleeves. The front of the gown was designed with an apron effect and the back featured a semi-bustle with organza embroidered scallops which ended in a demure chapel train.

Her bouffant elbow length silk illusion veil was attached to a crown of pearls and crystals.
She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white daisies inter-persed with yellow roses entwined with polished English ivy.

Mrs. Larry Walston of Farmville served her sister as matron of honor. She was dressed in a floor length blue and white gingham check gown with a ruffled neckline, empire waist and ruffled bottom. She wore a looped bow headpiece of blue satin and carried a white wicker basket filled with yellow and white daisies and blue and white satin streamers.

Miss Debbie Wooten, Miss
Donna Joyner, Miss Debbie Nanney, and Miss Marie Gay, all of Farmville, were bridesmaids.
They wore gowns styled identical to that of the honor attendant in yellow and white gingham check and wore yellow looped bows of satin in their hair. They also carried white wicker baskets like that of the honor attendant with yellow and white satin streamers.

Miss Pamela Walston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry
T. Walston of Farmville, served her aunt as flower girl. She wore a gown of yellow and white gingham check fashioned similar to the bridesmaids' attire. She also carried a white wicker basket covered with yellow and white daisies, yellow streamers and filled with rose petals.

Rupert Jay Boswell served his son as best man. Ushers were Ronnie Nichols, Raymond
Tripp, of Greenville, Al Britt of Farmville, and Ricky Anderson of Ayden. Grant Boswell, brother of the bridegroom,
served as acolyte.

Honorary bridesmaids were Donna Hedgepeth of Richmond
Va., Rhonda Walston, Tracy
Walston, Carolyn Tyson, Delane
O'Brien, Shelley Trowbridge,
Martha Ellis, Debbie Everette of Farmville, Sandra Harris of Macclesfield, and Rosemary Warren of Greenville. They wore formal gowns and carried a long-stemmed white mum with matching streamers.

formal yellow polyester crepe dress with a lace top and lace sleeves. She wore matching accessories and a white rose corsage.

The wedding was directed by
Mrs. Alton L. Hedgepeth of Bell
Arthur.

For a wedding trip to Washington, D.C., the bride changed to a raspberry halter dress, white accessories and a white daisy corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Farmville Central High School.
The bridegroom is a graduate of D.H. Conley High School and attended Mount Olive College.
He is employed with Dupont,
Kinston.

The couple will reside in Ayden.

Immediately following the ceremony the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

Guests were greeted by the bride couple, their parents, and the bridesmaids. Mrs. Rex Hedgepeth of Richmond, Va.,
presided at the bride's register.

Good-bys were said by Mrs.
Odell Hedgepeth of Ayden, Alton
L. Hedgepeth of Bell Arthur,
Rex Hedgepeth of Richmond, Va., and Larry Walston of Farmville.

On Friday Night following the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Jay Boswell entertained the wedding party, family, and friends at an after-rehearsal party in the Arthur Christina
Church fellowship hall.

Guests were greeted by Mr.
and Mrs. Boswell and invited to the refreshment table.

Mrs. Jane Tripp of Greenville served party squares and Mrs.
Joy Sasser of Greenville poured punch.

Members of the wedding party were remembered with gifts from the bride couple.

Couple Speaks Vows In Double Ring Ceremony

Miss Denyse Ruth Fornes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry
Floyd Fornes Jr., and Ricky Lee
Buck, son of Mr. and Mrs.
Tommy Buck were united in marriage at three o'clock
Sunday, at Salem United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Richard Arno performed the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Lois Jane Stocks played a program of nuptial organ music. Mrs. Jane Murray sang "One Hand One

Heart," "Whither Thou Goest" and the "Wedding Prayer." A recitation was given by Mrs.
Richard Arno.

The bride was given in marriage and escorted by her father. The bride wore a floor length gown of traditional white silk organza and beaded peau d'ange lace with a chapel train.
The formal gown featured a high neckline with an illusion yoke and full length puffed sleeves cuffed at the wrist ending with a ruffle over the wrist, with A-line skirt. Peau d'ange lace with clusters of seed pearls was applied over the organza bodice, sleeves and skirt.

Matching lace embellished with seed pearls encircled the hemline of the gown and lace motifs graced the organza tubular chapel train attached beneath a butterfly bow.

The bride chose a three tiered veil of illusion attached to a face frame design headpiece of petals of peau d'ange lace encrusted with crystals and seed pearls.
She carried a full formal cascade bouquet of white orchids, miniature carnations, green English ivy, accented with pink and white satin bow with long streamers.

Miss Polly Fornes, sister of the bride, maid of honor, wore a formal gown of floral white pattern, empire waist, scoop neckline with puffed sleeves and white picture hat. She carried a white summer garden princess basket filled with shaded pink, lavender and purple miniature carnations, daisies and baby's breath tied with pink and green satin bows with long streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jane
Porter, cousin of the bride, Miss Monica Fornes and Miss Melanie Fornes, both cousins of the bride, Miss Loretta Adams, and Miss Rudy Morris, all from Greenville. They wore gowns designed like the honor attendant, using a pink floral print and carried baskets filled with summer flowers, accented hot pink tied with pink satin. They wore pink picture hats.

Flower girls were Christy
Cobb, cousin of the bride, and Angela Hardee, both of Greenville. They wore long formal gowns identical to the honor attendant and pink rib-

A Good Year For Bloodmobile

The Pitt County Bloodmobile had a gratifying year for the fiscal year ending June 30. It was a year in which collections exceeded the quota.

Chairman Billy Ross said that 2,583 pints were collected during the Bloodmobile visits and an additional 244 units were collected at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

There were 629 rejections during the year which means that 3,456 people visited the Bloodmobile during the year.

"We are real pleased with the record for the past year," Ross said.

Despite the success of last year, however, an even bigger challenge looms ahead for the present fiscal year. The quota increases from 2,670 pints to 3,329 pints and it must be collected in the same 23 county visits.

Blood is in almost constant short supply and even with the success of the Bloodmobile last year, calls were going out recently for "O" types to go to the hospital to donate blood.

The Bloodmobile can only be successful with the continued participation of all our citizens. A pint of blood can only be used once; so therefore a constant new supply of donated blood is necessary.

The blood given through the Bloodmobile program can mean life or death to potential recipients and, over a lifetime that can mean any of us.

Pitt County had a good blood donation record in 1973-74. A better record will be required in 1974-75 and all of us who can, must resolve to give blood during the year.

New Municipal Pool To Be Ready In 1975

City officials broke ground for the new municipal swimming pool complex at Guy Smith Stadium last week.

Construction of the $144,150 project will mean that Greenville will have a municipal pool for the first time in 20 years.

The pool won't be a help this summer since it will not be completed, but it will be ready for the summer of 1975 and it should be a great asset to the Greenville recreation program.

State Program Is A Hot Issue

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A little-noted state program with the tricky title of Sedimentation Pollution Control has become one of the hottest public interest issues in Raleigh.

"It's hot as a firecracker, with local people from all over the state calling to find out how the program works and what can be done about their local problems," said an official close to the operation.

Clarence E. (Red) Shimer, chief of the fledgling little office in charge, confirmed the flood of inquiries.

"If I had a hundred people working here, we could handle the business. But as it is, we are trying to get on top of it by degrees.

"We have a complaint file, and we are just going down the list and following through on them one at a time," Shimer said.

Still, the letters and complaints pour in from citizens across the state; while local city and county officials—feeling the same public pressure at home—call to find out what the story is.

Erosion Control

The heart of the new program is simply new state law covering so-called land disturbing activities—in short, any sort of building activity that uncovers dirt and lets it wash onto other people's property or into nearby streams.

"And it seems that anytime a person sees some red dirt laying there, they figure there's a problem," Shimer said. That's not always the case, but each report has to be checked out.

Further complicating the problem, Shimer said, is the fact that local governments are supposed to adopt ordinances covering the activity and treat it along with other, routine, building permit and inspection activities.

So far the state office is only a skeleton operation with Shimer, an on-loan federal official named Taylor Currin, and a handful of engineers on staff. In a few months, there will be six field engineers scattered across the state to work with local governments and check out complaints.

Meanwhile, citizens across the state have heard about the law which can stop the dirt washing away and they are calling state officials and local officials, many of whom have not made a move to enact the local ordinances.

So far only eight county or city ordinances have been enacted. Some six more are currently under review by Shimer's office. By the end of this fiscal year (next June), Shimer hopes to have 30 counties actively participating, and is concentrating those efforts in Piedmont and Mountain areas where washing can be most severe.

Big Prospects

Many of the complaints being processed involve small tracts, but state officials admit they are giving short attention to those.

"Right now we are concerned with big projects in construction areas, not just small plots. . . things like an 85-acre shopping center in Gaston County or that 1,500 acre Tree-Top Mountain development (Ashe County)," Shimer said.

The Ashe County project drains into the scenic New River, and is also typical of mountain "second-home" projects which have alarmed people in the western section of the state.

Another similar development is in southern Burke County near the upper Cleveland County line, and Shimer said his office is keeping a close watch on that.

Additionally, Shimer and his crew are making sure that state officials involved in building projects—and especially in highway construction work—know the law and abide by it. "The state must obey this if we are going to get private citizens to cooperate."

Federal officials at the soil conservation office say they are also "getting a lot of flak from the public about some developers who are letting soil wash—but we are a technical and advisory group with no enforcement capacity," a spokesman said.

Basically the new law calls for a buffer zone between any exposed soil and stream or lake; ground cover or other control measures on any slopes exposed during construction; and rules about providing ground cover over raw earth left open more than 30 days.

Pivotal Figure In Impeachment

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A shadow was cast on President Nixon's rising hopes for survival at a recent closed-door session of the House Judiciary Committee by Rep. Thomas Railsback, a 42-year-old downstate Illinois Republican who has become pivotal in the historic impeachment drama.

Railsback requested the impeachment inquiry staff to determine whether Mr. Nixon's April 17, 1973, order to aides to convey secret grand jury information to his personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach, was actually carried out. Exactly what the committee staff reported back is unknown but can be guessed at by the fact that Railsback, in private conversation with committee colleagues, has expressed shock over possible defilement of grand jury sanctity.

This means that Railsback has implicitly rejected the White House defense strategy of narrowly focusing the inquiry on whether it can be proved, beyond a reasonable doubt, that Mr. Nixon authorized hush-money payments. On the contrary, the fact that Railsback is independently probing the overlooked but potentially lethal grand jury issue indicates a strong possibility he may vote for impeachment.

This is dreadful news for Mr. Nixon because of Railsback's unique position. Although moderate ideologically, he is closely aligned socially with the party's conservative mainstream as a member of the elite Chowder and Marching Society and as a daily communicant in the House Gymnasium (no place for liberals). He is a close friend and admirer of Rep. Robert Michel, the Congressman from Peoria whose loyalty to Mr. Nixon knows no deviation.

With this background and by shielding his intentions, Railsback has become the committee's single most influential member. If he votes against impeachment, the White House hopes for 16 out of 17 Republicans—a near party-line vote that could carry over to the House floor. If Railsback votes for impeachment, however, he probably would be accompanied by another four committee Republicans and would influence many other Republicans on the House floor.

When the impeachment inquiry was beginning last year, Railsback collaborated with Rep. Charles Wiggins of California—now Mr. Nixon's most effective defender—in decrying Democratic partisanship. He has since been sharply critical of Chairman Peter Rodino for limits he placed on witnesses called by Nixon defense lawyer James St. Clair.

But he has never bought the prevailing Republican thesis that only a criminal offense is sufficient to impeach a President. Rather, Railsback feels several noncriminal actions, in both misusing government power and in Watergate obstruction of justice, constitute grounds for impeachment.

Not looking for the "murder weapon" which his Republican colleagues think is necessary, Railsback found something more subtle when he read a June 8 column in the Washington Post by Walter Pincus, executive editor of the New Republic. Three paragraphs in that column, suggesting Mr. Nixon violated the grand jury process, led Railsback to the edited White House transcripts.

In a telephone conversation April 16, 1973, the President asked Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen what was happening inside the Watergate grand jury, promising not to pass on the information "because I know the rules of the Grand Jury."

On the next morning, April 17, the President relayed to H.R. Haldeman what Petersen had told him and suggested Haldeman share it with John D. Ehrlichman.

On April 17, the President again requested and received grand jury information from Petersen, relating it later that day to Haldeman, Ehrlichman, press secretary Ron Ziegler and Secretary of State William Rogers.

But Railsback was bothered most by what the President did with Petersen's report to him April 16 that Kalmbach would be called before the grand jury because of incriminating testimony by John W. Dean III. That same day Mr. Nixon told Haldeman to question Kalmbach about Dean's testimony, adding "Be sure Kalmbach is at least aware of this." Railsback requested the committee staff to check

"My solution to inflation is simple . . . it's all the public's fault. And that's the truth! P-t-u-u-u!"

Atomic Man On The Go

WASHINGTON—President Nixon's game plan for the summer is to stay out of Washington as much as he can. After the Middle East and the Soviet Union he went to Key Biscayne. Then he stopped in Washington to feed the dog and went out to San Clemente.

After San Clemente he expects to go to Japan. After Japan it's anybody's guess.

"Ron, get me Henry on the phone."

"Yes sir, Mr. President . . . Henry's in Rio de Janeiro watching the World Champion Wrestling Matches."

"Well, get him for me anyway . . ."

"Here he is, Mr. President."

"Henry, this is the President. Have you given any more thought to where I can go after Japan? . . . Hmmm, you think New Guinea? . . . No, I've never been to New Guinea. I'd like

"Okay, so we go to New Guinea . . . Where else? . . . Borneo? . . . Why am I going to Borneo? . . . SALT talks . . . I see. Borneo has the best salt mines in the Far East . . . You figure if we can't make a SALT treaty with the Soviet Union we can make one with Indonesia? . . . That's using the old head, Henry . . . Okay, that takes me into September. What then? . . . What's that? . . . I could take a 90-day cruise on the SS France? . . . I know the food is delicious, Henry, but how do I justify taking a cruise at that time? . . . To visit Hong Kong and encourage trade with the United States? . . . Ron says it will play in Peoria. . . . What do I do after the cruise? . . . You want me to climb Mount Everest? . . . Let me ask you this, Henry. Why would I want to climb Mount Everest? . . . To be the first President of the United States ever to hold a summit talk on a summit? . . . I like it . . . All right, we're into the spring . . . What do I do then? . . . I go back to Washington? . . . What on earth for? Henry, you know I hate Washington . . . Well, wouldn't you hate Washington if they were saying all those terrible things about you? . . . They're saying them about you, too? . . . I know, Henry, I'm sorry . . . Okay, you think I should go to Washington for a week, just so people will feel I'm working on the domestic problems of the country . . . But I'm warning you, Henry. I'm not going to stay for the

Other Editors Say 'Unfriendly Act'

(Rocky Mt. Evening Telegram)

It may be that we have not seen the last of the trouble caused by the oil producing nations, trouble such as that we encountered last winter when the Middle East oil countries placed an embargo on oil shipped to the United States and other Western nations.

That problem was ironed out finally, after prices of oil were increased sharply.

Now Treasury Undersecretary Jack F. Bennett has cautioned oil producing nations that any new cutbacks in oil production would have political and security implications for them.

Just what he meant by political and security implications was not spelled out by Bennett in testimony before the subcommittee on international finance of the House Banking and Currency Committee.

But in an original text of his remarks he said any new cutbacks on oil production should be regarded by the United States and other consuming countries as an unfriendly act.

Those words were changed at the last minute to "counterproductive measures." The change was made at the insistence of the State Department which felt the original wording was too strong.

Nevertheless, Bennett appeared to be making a major statement that the United States will not look favorably on any decrease in oil production designed to keep oil prices high.

Bennett revealed that certain governments are producing four million barrels a day less than they could efficiently produce.

This means less oil available on the world market and also higher prices for the oil those countries are making available.

While the United States may regard such tactics as unfriendly, it is not clear precisely what Washington could do in the way of retaliation, or forcing the oil producing nations to the increase production in order to stabilize prices.

At the present time the United States is still working hard to solve its deficiencies in oil production as well as production of other forms of energy.

It will be some time until independence in energy production will be attained—if ever. And until that time arrives we will be increasingly dependent upon the Arabs and subject to their whims.

Irony In The Results

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Forty-five persons are now being held on Death Row at North Carolina's Central Prison awaiting execution. The number is a record for North Carolina and constitutes almost half of the condemned persons in the nation.

There is a certain irony in the situation because a big increase in the number of capital convictions in North Carolina resulted largely from efforts to abolish the death penalty.

The foes of executions attacked the death sentence in the courts, contending it was cruel and unusual punishment and was, therefore unconstitutional.

The U.S. Supreme Court heeded the argument. It ruled that the death sentence as it had been carried out in the United States was unconstitutional and that there were inconsistencies in the way it was being carried out.

In North Carolina, where there had not been an execution in more than 10 years, the court decision brought action by the State Supreme Court and the General Assembly. The state's highest court ruled that a law which the General Assembly enacted more than two decades ago to temper the death sentence was unconstitutional. This law allowed juries to recommend mercy in capital cases — which resulted in life sentences instead of death sentences in many cases. Without this law, the court said the death sentence was the only punishment for first degree murder, rape, arson and first degree burglary.

The court rulings resulted in life sentences for all persons who were on death row at that time. The 45 now on death row have all accumulated since the state court's ruling early last year.

The 1974 General Assembly after a long Senate-House stalemate enacted a new capital punishment law. It provided the death penalty for murder and aggravated rape but abolished it for arson and first degree burglary.

The big factor in the big increase in the number of death sentences handed out by the courts of North Carolina has been the elimination of the provision that permitted the jury to recommend life imprisonment. If that law remained on the books, probably more than half of those now on death row would have received life sentences.

State Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake, an attorney, said that under the law that permitted the jury to recommend mercy, "I always felt I would not have a client executed. I do not feel that way today."

"I had always felt that arguments to a jury not to take a man's life resulted in a recommendation of mercy in almost every case," Twigg said.

"I think it is quite possibly that the drive to eliminate the death penalty quite possibly resulted in stiffening of the death penalty," said Twigg, who led the forces in the General Assembly seeking to abolish capital punishment.

Strength For Today

LETTING THE LIGHT COME THROUGH

A little boy who had come back from a trip to Europe with his parents was asked by his Sunday School teacher to tell the meaning of the word "saint." The little boy thought a minute, and then remembering the figures on the stained glass windows he had seen in European cathedrals, replied, "A saint is a man who lets the light come through."

The word "saint" today has almost as many unfavorable as good connotations. But there are very few people who do not like the type of person who lets the light come through—that is, a person through whose life there constantly shines the brightness and beauty of finer character and higher aspirations.

In this context we could define a saint as a person who is cheerful, hopeful, diligent, sympathetic, faithful, sacrificial, and trusting. His life is not merely a transient existence, but makes a permanent impact upon the world by lighting up for all to see the highest moral and spiritual aspirations of which mankind is capable.

To A Workable Inflation Level

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — "We are in the midst of a perilous process of re-entry to more workable levels of inflation." That is the way one economic consultant described the second-half outlook at midyear.

The opinion is shared by many others who analyze economic conditions and sell their conclusions to businessmen. While not the consensus, it is growing in acceptance. It is both optimistic and realistic.

What the consultants say is that the nation now has reached the limit of its tolerance of inflation, and that it is willing to accept the withdrawal pains that accompany the struggle to break spending habits.

That would mean little or no economic growth over the next few months, and a rise in unemployment to a point or more above the latest reported jobless rate of a bit more than 5 per cent.

But if inflation and high interest rates lose their energy during the next few months, they say, the U.S. economy might then resume a more stable expansion in 1975.

Difficult as it is to believe, some responsible economists and businessmen foresee an inflation rate as low as 4 to 7 per cent by the end of the year. The first-quarter rate was around 11.5 per cent.

First National City Bank, which expects a 6 per cent rate, notes that steep price declines already have occurred in basic commodities such as wheat, wood, lard, cotton, pork, beef and rubber.

Lionel D. Edie & Co. foresees an inflation rate of 7 per cent by yearend.

"Some combination of recession and slower growth is the only answer" to high interest rates and inflation, it told businessmen.

"The whole process carries dangers with it," Edie says. The major risk is that of deflation "if commodity prices drop too hard and too fast, if financial failures begin to mount too rapidly, and if foreign exchange markets become too disorderly and governments become too protectionist."

The big question marks appear to be the ability of the administration to restrain government spending and labor's willingness to forego big wage increases.

Jackson Opposes Selling Police Tools To Russia

By C. BARTON REPPERT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Several American firms are going to an international exhibition next month in Moscow with hopes of selling sophisticated police and criminology equipment to the Soviets.

Participation by the U.S. companies came under fire Sunday from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said in a televised interview:

"Are we getting detente when we are going to sell...to the Russians police equipment that will help the KGB to hold the dissidents even under tighter control?"

Voice Identification Inc., of Somerville, N.J., one of the American firms participating Aug. 14-28 in the Soviet-sponsored exhibition, "Krimtehnika '74," manufactures an advanced electronic voiceprint device widely used by law enforcement agencies in the United States.

Voiceprint devices identify individual characteristics in a person's voice.

Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn's novel "The First Circle" focused on a Stalin-era Soviet institute where scientist prisoners were under pressure to develop a rudimentary voiceprint machine for pinpointing a political criminal.

Asked if he thought the Soviets might employ his firm's equipment in wiretapping of political dissidents, as well as against ordinary criminals, William Hughes, vice president of Voice Identification, said:

"Quite honestly, I am going over there to exhibit equipment. I suppose they'll want to buy it — I certainly hope so, that's the purpose. It's obviously, as it is here, an investigatory tool. Now, how do they want to use it? I don't know. I can't speak for them or their system of justice or anything else."

A Commerce Department official said only a general export license was needed for shipment to Soviet bloc countries of police equipment including shotguns and so-called drug "stun guns."

"A lot of this stuff, which can be used for crowd control and so on, might threaten the individual security of somebody over there, I suppose, as it could here, but it's not something that's going to threaten the United States," the official said.

Ushers were Patrick Buck of Kinston, Lindy Pollard of Greenville, both cousins of the bridegroom. Robin Fornes, brother of the bride, Frankie Porter, cousin of the bride, and Mike White, all of Greenville.

Mrs. Fornes wore a formal gown of romance pink polyester with a pleated skirt and long sleeves. She wore matching accessories and carried a hand bouquet of American beauty roses and baby's breath tied with matching ribbon. Mrs. Buck selected a powder blue formal gown fashioned with an empire waist and a lace jacket. She carried a hand bouquet of bridal pink roses and baby's breath tied with matching ribbon.

The grandmothers, Mrs. Floyd Fornes Sr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards, wore white orchid corsages.

The bride is a graduate of D. H. Conley and is attending East Carolina University. The bridegroom is also a graduate of D. H. Conley and is engaged in farming.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a light blue floral pants suit and wore an orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will reside at Rt. 2, Community Building.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Fornes Jr. entertained at a reception in the Eastern Pines Community Building honoring the Bridal couple followed by a bon voyage party at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fornes greeted guests and Mr. and Mrs. Judson Porter introduced guests to the receiving line which was composed of their parents, the bridal couple, maid of honor and bridesmaids.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Porter presided at the register. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Fornes directed guests to the refreshment table.

The bride's parents entertained at a wedding brunch for the wedding party at the Ramada Inn on Sunday.

Mrs. Olive Stokes poured punch and Mrs. Effie Bailey served cake after the bridal couple had cut the first slice. Assisting in serving were Jean Evans, June Porter, Mrs. Joanne Moseley, Doris Ologge, Eunice Moss and Mrs. Tom Garverick.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Porter said good-byes.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at an after-rehearsal party Saturday evening at the Eastern Pines Community Building.

"Where do I go after the week in Washington? . . . You think you can get me on the Film Festival jury in Cannes? . . . Will they be showing 'Patton'? . . . Oh, that's too bad. . . No, don't refuse it. . . I'll take Pat and the kids. . . Is there any country closer to Cannes where I can stop off for a rest? . . . Spain? . . . That's a perfect idea. The Spanish have always liked me and I think Franco will go all-out to see we have a good reception. . . To make sure, I'll give him a fleet of helicopters. . ."

"Now we have to think about next summer. . . What about going back to Russia? . . . We can't do it? It's Brezhnev's turn to visit the United States? . . . Does that mean I have to come back to Washington next summer? . . . Oh, Henry, is there any way we can get out of it? . . . Maybe we could leave a note for him and tell him Pat and I had to go to Peking. . . You don't think that would work? . . . All right, I'll come back for the meeting, but he'd better make it short."

"Look, this call is costing money. . . When will I see you? . . . After the World Wrestling Championships, you're going to Spoleto for the concerts? . . . I see, and then the horse show in Ireland? . . . Right, I got you. . . And then the Tunisian tennis finals, and after that you're going to the dog sled races in Alaska? . . . You have a pretty exciting summer ahead of you. . . Listen, if you're ever in Washington I'll give you my number. . . I may not be here but the answering service will always know where I am. . . Yes, I'll tell Nancy you're fine. Goodbye, Henry, and don't forget to write."

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, not pretty and don't have a good figure. I don't even have an education. I had to quit school in the sixth grade to work as a car hop to support my mother and two other kids in our family, so you can see, I have nothing to offer a man except love.

A year ago, I started seeing a married man I'll call Jim. I'm not making excuses for myself. I knew it was wrong, but I really cared for him and was too weak to break it off. Jim is 33 and his wife is 27. They've been married for seven years and have been wanting a baby, but couldn't have any. They've been on a waiting list to adopt for two years. I am pregnant by Jim, and now I am facing a big decision. Jim told his wife all about us, and I even met her. They want me to have this baby so they can adopt it. I love Jim and want to do what is right. I'm sure my baby would have a good home with them, but what about me? I'm too far along for abortion now. Please, help me.

BIG PROBLEM
DEAR PROBLEM: My advice to you is to end the relationship with Jim now. If possible, relocate. I can provide you with the names of some reliable homes for unwed mothers in your area. If you want to give your baby up for adoption, do it through a legitimate agency. I see nothing but problems (for you and for Jim and his wife) if you let them adopt your baby. Please let me hear from you again. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know why anyone should be so uptight about the expression "Jew down." It's really not meant to put down Jews.

Almost all Europeans do business that way. And so do most Asians. It means to bargain, negotiate or haggle. I heard one Italian merchant say that when Americans pay the first price they're asked, it takes all the fun out of selling.

I'm not a Jew, but I enjoy Jewing people down.

JEWER DOWNER
DEAR DOWNER: To each his own. But sensitive people who deplore ethnic references would find this expression offensive.

DEAR ABBY: Ten months ago, my boyfriend and I were secretly married. At the time, my parents did not like him, and wouldn't have given us their consent had we asked. (That's why we were secretly married.)

My husband and I have a wonderful relationship, although we haven't openly lived together. In the meantime, my parents have gotten to know him better, and would not be opposed to my marrying him if I were to bring it up now. We can't decide whether to tell them the truth, or to go through with another marriage ceremony and say nothing about the fact that we've been married for nearly a year.

We don't want to hurt them by announcing that we're already married; neither do we want to continue the cover-up. What should we do?

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: Tell your parents. Then decide whether you want to go through another marriage ceremony or not. If your first was a civil ceremony, perhaps your parents would enjoy witnessing a religious one.

Plan Three Workshops

A grant of $9,615 has been awarded the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions by the U.S. Public Health Service to support a series of three workshops for physical therapists from four states.

Purpose of the workshop series is to relate academic aspects of physical therapy education to the normal practical application of physical therapy in clinics.

George Hamilton, chairman of physical therapy at ECU and director of the workshop series, said approximately 40 therapists from the Carolinas, Virginia and Pennsylvania will attend the workshops, which will be scheduled during the academic year 1974-75.

Participant therapists will work in areas related to skeletal and muscular abnormality, and improvement of their abilities to conduct objective evaluations of muscular and connective tissue surrounding the joints of the spine and extremities.

Each workshop will be two and a half days in durations.

This is not the clear criminal offense demanded by St. Clair. But to lawyer Railsback it is seriously improper conduct deserving scrutiny. Indeed, Wiggins, hoping to bring Railsback into the anti-impeachment fold, is worried by his intense concern with grand jury meddling.

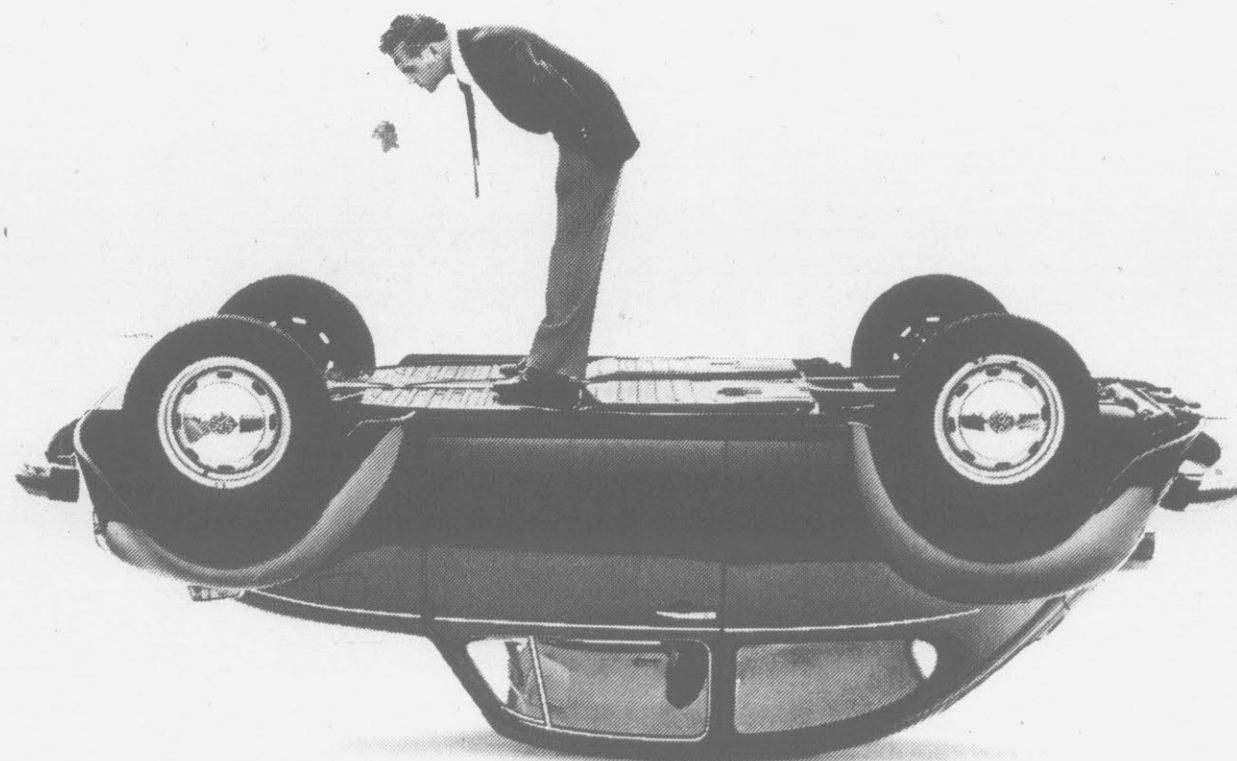

Railsback has been chary of offending his district's hard-core Republicans, needed to fight off an unusually strong Democratic challenger in November. But he returned from the Fourth of July weekend back home declaring himself confident his constituency will support him no matter what he does about impeachment. That confidence, his rejection of St. Clair's standards of impeachment and his concern with the Nixon-grand jury affair ought to seriously undercut recent optimism at the White House.

Some of the most unusual things about a Volkswagen are things you don't usually see.

Look under the fender of a Volkswagen and you'll find something you wouldn't dream of finding: paint.

We use 13 lbs. of it on every VW. And in the most unlikely places. (If you have nothing to do sometime, remove one of our inside door panels and see what's underneath.)

Under the chassis of a Volkswagen you'll find something only a handful of cars in the world have: a sealed steel bottom. This protects all those vital things inside the car from all those vile things out there on the road. (Look under your car and you'll see how exposed and vulnerable everything is.)

See those four wheels sticking up in the air in the picture above? Well, you can press down on any one of them and move it without any of the others moving. What this means is when the car is right side up and one wheel hits a bump, none of the other wheels feel a thing.

Now, consider that you get all these luxury car features (and more) at an economy car price...with economy car gas mileage...the most advanced car coverage in the world (Owner's Security Blanket)...and almost unbelievable resale value (a '72 VW retails for as much today as it did new).

You couldn't find a better buy if you stood on your head.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gained broadly again today, riding the momentum of Friday's strong rally.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 6.50 at 793.53, and gainers led losers by 9-to-2 in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts gave much of the credit for the advance to increasing optimism about the interest rate outlook.

This morning the First National Bank of Chicago held its prime lending rate unchanged at 12 per cent for the second week in a row, despite the fact that its formula for determining the key rate called for 12 3/4 per cent.

Eldon A. Grimm at Birr, Wilson & Co. said short covering, or the repurchase of borrowed shares sold earlier in expectation of market declines, was contributing to the rally.

Also, he said, "There's a tremendous amount of cash on the sidelines, and a little bit of it huddles into the market when we get some good news like this."

Philip Morris was the Big Board volume leader, up 1/4 at 52 1/2. The company reported record second quarter earnings.

A bright second quarter report lifted Vetco Offshore Industries 1 1/2 to 19 1/4.

Commercial Solvents was up 1 at 30 3/4. International Minerals & Chemical Corp. extended a tender offer for 300,000 Commercial Solvents shares at $30 apiece.

Continental Oil, which increased its dividend, added 3/8 to 34 1/2 in active trading.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of all its listed common stocks was ahead .58 at 43.94.

On the American Stock Exchange, Syntex led the active list, up 3/4 at 43. The Amex' market value index was up .83 at 77.50.

Conception Was Agricultural Goals In A Test Tube Set For County

LONDON (AP) — Three normal babies born within the last 18 months are the world's first to have been successfully conceived in test tubes and then placed in the mother's womb to mature, a British gynecology professor said today.

Dr. Douglas Bevis, professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Leeds University, said the problem with the technique is preparing the womb so that it will not reject the fertilized egg.

He said the three births had been successful not because of any medical breakthrough, but because of luck. "So many have been attempted that by the law of averages some have come through," he said.

Bevis would not name the families or the doctors involved, but said at least one of the babies was born in Britain. He said none of them have any apparent abnormalities.

The technique involves taking a number of eggs from a woman who cannot have children normally because her fallopian tubes leading from the ovaries to the womb are damaged.

The eggs are placed in a nutrient solution in a test tube. Then sperm is added. About a week later the eggs are replaced in the woman's womb.

Most such attempts at conception fail because the fertilized egg is flushed out of the lining of the womb when the woman has her next period. Doctors are trying to find the secret of how they can deceive the womb into a pregnant state so the egg can implant itself and grow.

Bevis was speaking to newsmen before addressing a meeting of the British Medical Association in the northern city of Hull.

Ten objectives for developing resources of agriculture have been selected by the Pitt County Agricultural Resources Committee, according to Mrs. E.C. Davenport, Vice-Chairman. The Committee was recently appointed by the Mid-East Resource Conservation and Development Council.

The objectives are: Provide enough information to all citizens so that they fully understand what land use planning is and how land use regulation is accomplished; to construct needed small watershed projects for flood control.

Program Given Women

A program on homeowner insurance was given at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Pitt County Association of Insurance Women held at the Bonanza Steak House.

The program was conducted by Hilda Pinkham. A question and answer period followed the program.

It was announced that a benefit movie, "The Yearling" will be shown at the Pitt Theater at 2 p.m. on July 18-19 with proceeds going to the Pitt County Humane Society.

A yard party at the home of Sarah Jenkins, club president, for members and their families will be held instead of the August meeting.

Joyce Harrell was welcomed as a new member.

drainage, and conservation land treatment; to develop crops and cropping systems that are suitable for our changing agricultural plant; to broaden and strengthen the education program to cover all aspects of agriculture; to obtain adequate cost-sharing and technical assistance for needed conservation programs; to obtain adequate housing in rural areas for all farm people; to improve the natural beauty of the countryside; to restore quality accredited agricultural training in our high schools; to encourage full family participation in all phases of the farm family operation; to provide better farm equipment services and repair facilities.

Other agricultural committee members are W.A. Allen, III, Chairman; William E. House, Chap. Tucker; and Marvin Stephenson. Committee Advisors are Henry Reddick; Johnny Dilda; and Leroy James.

These objectives selected by the Pitt County Committee will be presented to the Mid-East Agricultural Resource Committee for inclusion in the Mid-East RC&D long-range plan. Mrs. Davenport reported. The Mid-East RC&D covers Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin, and Pitt Counties.

Pope Addresses Large Crowd

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI, looking rested and recovered from a leg ailment, addressed a crowd of about 10,000 in St. Peter's Square.

The 76-year-old pontiff spoke with a firm voice in his appearance Sunday, his first since Wednesday when he cancelled his original audience because of the recurrence of arthritis, a joint ailment in his right knee.

Planning Bd. To Meet

The Pitt County Planning Board will meet Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Law Library of the Pitt County Court House. The Bryant-Whitehurst subdivision will be presented for preliminary approval, while the agenda also calls for review of the Porterfield and Ebanswood subdivisions.

Ruth Teams Advance To State Tourney

WASHINGTON—Greenville's two Babe Ruth All-Star teams captured Sunday afternoon victories in the finals of the district tournament and won berths in their respective state tournaments.

The 13-year-olds won an extra-inning affair with Washington, 4-3 on a two-hitter by Mike

Williams. They now travel to the state tourney to be held in Concord, starting on July 26.

The 14-15-year-old team, behind three home runs, rode to a 10-5 win over Pitt County, winning a spot in their state tournament, to be held in Wilmington, starting Friday. The 14-15 team had forced a final game in the double-elimination tournament by downing Pitt County, 3-0, on Saturday night's final game.

Wright Hooks tossed a three-hit shutout in the Saturday game that brought Greenville into the sudden-victory game on Sunday. Only three times in the game did Pitt County manage to get a runner as far as second, and only one of those got to third.

Greenville got all they needed in the first inning, scoring two runs. Steve Manning singled to open the contest, and with one down, Hooks walked. Derek Brewington doubled to center, scoring Manning. A wild pitch then let Hooks come in for the 2-0 lead.

Greenville had chances in the second and third, but it wasn't until the fourth that they got the other run. Ross Hawkins singled to right and Jay Chenier singled. Hooks followed with another hit, scoring Hawkins for the 3-0 margin.

Then, Sunday in the championship game, Greenville pushed out into a 10-1 lead, then had to hold on to get the victory. The Greenville team got one in the first. Greg Lassiter, singled and then stole second. Hooks slapped a single to left, scoring Lassiter to make it 1-0.

They got three more in the third. Joel Clark reached on a two base error and Manning singled. Manning stole second, and Lassiter laid down a suicide squeeze, scoring Clark easily. Lassiter kept coming too, beating the throw back from first to make it 3-0. Then, Hooks stepped in and blasted the first of three Greenville homers, raising it to 4-0.

The next two came in the fourth. Mark Conway singled and Clark helped himself with a two-run round tripper.

Pitt County, which had been held hitless by Clark for the first three innings, broke the ice in the fourth. Donnie Cox reached on a two-out error and Chris Riggs got the first hit. Al Butts then singled to score Cox with the run.

Greenville came back with four more in the fifth. Hooks led off with a hit and Brewington followed with another homer. Joe Godette doubled and Joey Cherry walked. Conway also walked, loading them up. Clark doubled, scoring both Godette and Cherry for the 10-1 lead.

Pitt County got another run in the sixth. Butts singled and walks to Randy Edens and Quinn Morris loaded the bases. Kevin Adams reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Butts.

The other three runs came in the seventh. Ned Craft got a hit and so did Cox. Both scored when Riggs reached on a three-base error. Butts walked and Edens reached on an error, scoring Riggs, but Greenville finally got the door shut there.

Greenville's 13-year-olds got the lead in the first, scoring a pair of runs. Mac Stokes, who went three-for-four in the game, doubled and Perry Worthington got a hit. Reggie Selby walked, loading them up. Jay Wood then hit an infield fly and was automatically called out under the infield fly rule. But the ball fell in untouched, and Stokes raced home, arriving safely when the ball was thrown away at the plate. Worthington also came home when it was errored again on the next relay.

But Washington came right back with two in their half of the first. Bill Batchelor walked and stole second. He scored on Octavus Wallace's double. He took third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball.

Greenville moved back out in the fourth. Selby singled and moved to second on an error on a pickoff attempt. He took third on a passed ball and scored on Wood's single.

Washington tied it again in the fifth. Wallace singled to short, and stole second. He took third on an out and scored on a balk.

It stayed that way, 3-3, until the eighth, when Greenville got what proved to be the winning run. Stokes had singled and Worthington, followed with another hit, moving Stokes to third. They tried a double steal, but Stokes was thrown out at the plate. Worthington faked to third, and drew a throw by the catcher back to second, but the throw was wild and went all the way to the center field fence, easily letting Worthington score for the 4-3 lead that won it.

SUGAR FIVES SET
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Houston, Alabama, Furman and LaSalle of Philadelphia will compete in the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament set here for Dec. 29-30. Houston will be making its sixth straight visit to New Orleans. Alabama has played in two previous tournaments preceding the Sugar Bowl football game.

KICKS THE DIRT—Texas Ranger coach Frank Lucchesi kicks the dirt in the third inning of the Ranger's second game at Milwaukee Sunday. He was thrown out after an argument over the ejection of Ranger second baseman Lenny Randle. Randle was told to leave the game following a disagreement over whether he was out at third base on a throw from center field. The throw came after a toss aimed at catching Randle as he stole second was overthrown. The Rangers won the second game 5-4; the Brewers the first, 9-7. (AP Wirephoto)

Martin Gets Doubleheaded Thumb From Ump Luciano

By The Associated Press
Billy Martin and the umpires didn't see eye to eye Sunday. And as a result, Martin didn't see much of anything, except from the clubhouse. The unmanageable Texas Ranger manager was thrown out of both games of a doubleheader with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Martin got to see seven innings of the first game, won 9-3 by Milwaukee but was gone after one inning of the nightcap, won 5-4 by Texas.

Home plate umpire Ron Luciano ejected Martin after Pete Broberg's brush-back pitch to George Scott in the seventh inning. A Broberg pitch had decked Milwaukee shortstop Robin Yount an inning earlier.

Before he was decked, Scott drove in five runs with a three-run homer and two doubles to help Milwaukee win the first game.

Tom Grieve hit a home run, lifting Texas to victory in the second game.

White Sox 3, Orioles 1
Bill Melton cracked a two-run homer in the first inning to give Stan Bahnsen and Chicago a victory over Baltimore.

Melton's 12th home run of the season followed a single by Carlos May and came off left-hander Ross Grimsley, 11-8.

Royals 2, Tigers 1
A bases-loaded walk to Hal McRae with two out in the 14th inning gave Kansas City its triumph over Detroit.

Red Sox 3, Angels 0
Luis Tiant pitched a seven-inning and Rico Petrocelli scored two runs, carrying Boston past California.

Boston jumped on California starter Dick Lange, 3-5, for a run in the second inning on Petrocelli's single to left and a triple to right-center by rookie Tim Blackwell.

In the third, Cecil Cooper walked before Bernie Carbo doubled him home.

A's 7-6, Yanks 3-1
Sal Bando's three-run homer capped a five-run seventh inning that lifted Oakland over New York in the first game of their doubleheader.

Bill North and Bando drilled first-inning home runs, and the A's added four runs in the eighth inning to take the second game.

Sam McDowell, 1-3, had his first pitch blasted by North's third home run of the season. One out later, Bando drilled his 11th homer into the left field bullpen.

Twins 6, Indians 5
Steve Braun's home run leading off the 10th inning powered Minnesota over Cleveland. Braun hit his fifth home run of the season into the right field seats off Milt Wilcox, 1-1. The blast made a winner of Tom Burgmeier, 3-2.

National League scores: Cincinnati 3-1, Pittsburgh 2-2; Atlanta 7, St. Louis 0; Philadelphia 5-7, San Francisco 2-4; Houston 7, Chicago 6 in 12 innings; Montreal 6-6, San Diego 1-2 and New York 4, Los Angeles 1.

Miller Flies To Columbus Win On Birdie Putt

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer
COLUMBUS (AP) — "I didn't think I could stand up out there. I'm totally exhausted," said Sharon Miller, her nerves frayed by a harrowing victory Sunday in the $40,000 Columbus Classic.

"The round was very wearing on me. I took it easy by chewing ice. I know I didn't want to play another hole," said the 33-year-old blond, a ninth year Ladies Professional Golf Association tour veteran.

The Marshall, Mich., veteran dissolved a tie with Joyce Kazmierski, holing a difficult, downhill, 20-foot birdie putt on the final hole at Riviera Country Club.

That gave her a 54-hole total of 211, five-under-par. She posted a final round of 73, despite a triple bogey six on the 171-yard ninth hole, and earned $5,700.

Miss Kazmierski closed with a two-under-par 70 for 212 and a check for $4,170.

Sue Roberts, bidding for a second straight LPGA title before her home folks, shot a final 70 to share third place at 214 with Carol Mann and Murlie Breer. Mrs. Breer had a final 70 and Miss Mann 74.

Mardell Wilkins, the first round co-leader with Miss Miller at 69, withdrew midway in the final round because of illness.

Despite Miss Miller's strong showing here, the winner of more than $103,000 in career earnings will take a Colorado mountain vacation next week.

"I had a nervous breakdown when I was 14," she said. "I had nerve pains in my chest. I've had them in recent weeks and I sure don't want to go through that again."

She forged her victorious round with four birdies, two bogeys and that triple bogey at nine.

She temporarily lost it with a second straight three-putt bogey on the 17th before the clutch putt at No. 18.

Curse Still Grips Englad's Famous Course

By GEOFFREY MILLER
AP Sports Writer

LYTHAM ST. ANNE'S, England (AP) — This place is not very popular with American golfers. It has one of the most famous seaside courses in the world, but no American has won the British Open Championship here for 48 years.

When Jack Nicklaus failed to catch Gary Player Saturday, and the little South African won his third British Open title, the jinx kept its grip.

The last time the championship was staged here was in 1969, when Britain's Tony Jacklin won it. Since then, it has gone around the big courses of England and Scotland, and Americans have chalked up an unbroken string of victories.

Now this taxing course of windswept sand and bushes has beaten the Americans again. Player won with a 72-hole total of 282. Britain's Peter Oosterhuis was second with 286, and Nicklaus, the best of the Americans, finished third at 287.

Johnny Miller, top money winner on the U.S. circuit this year, was one of the Americans whose hopes were shattered among the sandtraps of the inward nine holes. He finished 10th with 294.

"For Americans playing British courses, it is like rolling dice," Miller said. "You can roll them just right, but you don't know what numbers are coming up."

"I made four mistakes in my final round and every mistake cost me either a bogey or a double bogey."

It will be another five or six years before the Americans or anybody get another chance to play the Lytham and St. Anne's jinx.

Player, 37, the most convincing winner of the British Open for years, said the Americans should do better in the future because this championship is now played with a bigger-sized golf ball.

"All pros should play the big ball, even on long, tough and exposed courses like this one," Player said. "The Americans do—and that's why they're so good."

The big ball was used in the British Open for the first time, so Player made golfing history. The South African never looked tired, even on the first two days when the wind howled and he had to hit his shots into the teeth of the storm.

After his victory, which was worth $13,200, Player claimed he has discovered the secret of concentration.

"I was able to get into a kind of shell, a state of hypnosis, in which all other things are shut out of my mind," Player said.

Fleisher Misses; Stockton Wins

By DAN EVEN
AP Sports Writer

BETTENDORF, Iowa (AP) — Bruce Fleisher's wife unfortunately was a great prognosticator when it came to figuring the wind-up of the $100,000 Quad Cities Open.

"My wife put it on me this morning," said Fleisher who finished second to Dave Stockton. "She said something would come out of the pack and shoot a 64 or 65 to take it."

And that's exactly what happened.

Tour veteran Stockton fashioned a seven-under-par 64 on the sultry day and roared from four back to overtake a host of challengers, including the sentimental favorite, Sam Snead.

What Wendy Fleisher couldn't have predicted—or wouldn't have wanted to—was the dramatic final hole Sunday. Stockton was in with a 13-under 271 total and former national amateur champion Fleisher came to No. 18 needing only a birdie to force a sudden-death playoff for the $20,000 first prize.

The 25-year-old third-year pro, who has yet to win on the tour, was on in two and needed to get home in only two for a birdie to force a deadlock. But Fleisher three-putted, rimming his second shot from four feet and Stockton had his ninth career victory.

"I've never been in a playoff. I looked forward to it and I anticipated it," Stockton said afterward. "I thought for sure the way he hits he would make birdie."

Fleisher, who collected his biggest career paycheck, knew exactly what he had to do coming to the 72nd hole.

"I was only 40 feet away after two and I tried to lag it up there," he said.

Daughtry, Miller Take Eight Events

After a week's rest, the East Carolina Track and Field Assoc. held another in its series of meets picking up in the overall participation.

Several participants went on rampages with two winning eight events, two seven and one taking six. Joe McLemore won six of the ten events in the 8-9 boys group. David Daughtry, 12-13 boys, and Arthur Miller in the 20-24 men's group each took eight events. S. Ogilvie and Tom Sayetta both took seven. Ogilvie ran in the 16-19 men and Sayetta in the 35-44 men's group.

The weekly affair will continue this week with the meet being held again at the East Carolina University track.

Only Things Swinging Were Flying Pirate Fists

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates are anything but hot...except maybe under the collar.

There were a lot of fists flying in Three Rivers Stadium Sunday. The Bucs had lost the first game of their double-header 3-2 to Cincinnati on Tony Perez' three-run first-inning homer and were tied 1-1 with the Reds in the fourth inning of the nightcap.

Bruce Kison, the Pirates' starter, who had been warned about throwing brush-back pitches, found himself on the receiving end of one, compliments of Jack Billingham. It hit his arm.

Players spilled onto the field and started punching.

When things cooled off, Richie Hebner batted in the winning run in the Pirates' 2-1 triumph. "I wasn't trying to hit anybody," Kison said. "I can't help it if my fastball runs inside on the right-handed hitters."

Mets 4, Dodgers 1

Bud Harrelson, who missed 29 games with a broken bone in his right hand, got an RBI in the fourth inning to give New York its winning run. Cleon Jones later hit a two-run homer. Jon Matlack, who had been cuffed around by San Diego in his last start, checked the Dodgers with a six-hitter.

Braves 7, Cards 0

Phil Niekro cooled off St. Louis with a five-hitter. Dave Johnson smacked a three-run homer and Baker drove in two runs with a first-inning sacrifice fly and a third-inning single off young Ray Bare. Johnson hit his 10th homer off Rich Folkers in the fifth.

Astros 7, Cubs 7

Bob Gallagher's single lifted Houston past the Cubs. Lee May opened the Astros' 12th-inning rally with a single and moved to second on a bunt by Milt May, who was safe at first when Chicago tried for the forceout. One out later, Gallagher singled to right.

Phils 5-7, Giants 2-4
The Phillies, with clutch hitting from Willie Montanez and Del Unser, shot into first place by 1 1/2 games in the East with their sweep of San Francisco.

Montanez drilled a bases-loaded two-run single in a three-run eighth inning to give Philadelphia its winning margin in the opener. Unser delivered a three-run homer to start the Phils on their way in the nightcap.

Expos 6-6, Padres 1-2

Ken Singleton hit a three-run homer to cap a four-run third inning in the first game and Willie Davis drove in two runs, one of them with a triple to highlight a three-run third inning, in the nightcap, enabling the Expos to sweep past San Diego.

The Worry Clinic

Good Looks Not As Important

Mark's dating problem confronts millions of other men, as well as girls, too! But he must learn to distinguish between attention attractors vs. attention holders! Memorize the basic secret of romantic charm, as outlined below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-685: Mark T., aged 20, is worried about girls.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "as you can see, I'm freckled and not at all good looking."

"So I don't rate well with girls!"

"Some of my fraternity brothers try to help me out by arranging blind dates for me. But the coeds don't seem interested in a second date."

"So I'm becoming a loner and now shun all girls, though I'd like to have dates like the other fellows."

"Is my case hopeless or can you give me a psychological formula for winning popularity with the opposite sex?"

Sex Secrets

Mark needs to take a lesson from the field of advertising!

Good looks are merely an attention attractor

But that is only the first step in the 5-point formula for making a sale.

And winning sweethearts is really a form of romantic salesmanship!

Ugly men don't need to fret unduly about their lack of an Adonis face and physique!

For even the most beautiful coeds will fall in love with a guy

Halfway House For Ex-Inmates To Be Opened

ALLAS (UPI) — A halfway house for persons released from prison will open this summer offering the former inmates a temporary home, counseling, job referral services and educational opportunities.

"These are advantages found in a parole plan which the dischargee does not enjoy," a spokesman for the Dallas Area Criminal Justice Council said. "Usually, all a dischargee has when he gets out of the state prison at Huntsville is a new suit, $100 and a bus ticket."

"Consequently, when the $100 is gone, he turns again to crime rather than submit to the responsibilities of starting a straight life. And it frequently happens quickly after he's released."

"This is one reason why the repeat offender rate is so high among prison dischargees. Hopefully, the halfway house here will stem that."

Laws for Complimenting."
It is the most simple of all 5 for it involves merely a direct statement of praise.

Then Mark should shift to some of the 4 other more deft techniques, including asking the coed for advice.

This is the most subtle form of praise you can ever employ, and gains a coed's continued interest.

For whenever a girl gives Mark advice, she then eagerly follows his use thereof, and thus she subconsciously becomes Mark's partner!

"Where your treasure is," the Bible states, "there will your heart be also."

Remember, our "treasure" involves out advice and aid, in addition to cash gifts!

As Mark thus inflates a coed's ego by making her feel more important, she becomes happier, and then some of this extra pleasure will spill over the make Mark actually look far more attractive!

Engaged couples aren't always good looking to outsiders, but they appear beautiful to each other via this mutual bolstering of each other's ego with daily compliments.

So send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and learn how to win sweethearts, plus job promotions, too!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K109854 ♥QJ1076 ♦8 ♣Q
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1♦ 1♠ ?
What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Do not make the mistake of doubling. The auction is unlikely to die at one spade doubled, for both West and your partner are short in spades and one or the other is sure to run. The hand is a potential misfit, and the soundest strategy is to pass and await developments.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A106 ♥7 ♦872 ♣AJ10872
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass
3♥ Pass 4♣ Pass
4♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. It is unusual to give partner preference with a singleton, but his jump rebid has indicated at least a good six-card suit. You don't really want to play five diamonds on a 4-3 fit, and unless partner can raise clubs, five clubs is unlikely to be an improvement on four hearts.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A6 ♥AK104 ♦K10943 ♣74
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ 2♣ 2♦ 3♣
What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. We do not normally recommend a free bid on a hand this weak, but partner's bid of two spades, a suit higher ranking than ours, has shown considerable strength. Failing to show our second suit now could waste a round of bidding, or perhaps lose the suit altogether.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ7654 ♥AKJ83 ♦J3
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1♦ 1♠ 1NT 2♣
3♦ 4♣ 5♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. You might make it, but you are taking out insurance against the enemy making their contract. Since you've already found a fit, there is no point in showing your heart suit. That would serve only to alert your opponents to the distributional nature of your hand.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ1087543 ♥J762 ♣J
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♠ 2♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Pass. It's likely that your best spot is a spade partial, but you are going to have a devil of a job convincing partner of that. He will probably read all your spade bids as forcing cue-bids, and by the time you get him to believe otherwise you could be too high. Should partner get doubled, you can escape into spades, which partner should now read as a natural bid.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AJ5 ♥QJ9854 ♦8 ♣Q98
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1♦ Pass Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Bid two hearts. This does not show any great strength, as you did not have the values for an opening bid. However, you could reopen with one heart on a far weaker hand, so you should inform partner that you are not merely competing on the expected strength of his hand.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK6 ♥J10865 ♦A982 ♣K
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♦ 1♥ Pass ?
What do you bid?

A.—Even though partner could only overcall, you should not ignore slam possibilities. A jump to four hearts does not do justice to this extremely powerful hand. If you bid three hearts, you have flunked this test ignominiously, for that bid is not even forcing. The approved bid is two diamonds, a cue-bid that creates a game-forcing situation.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J9 ♥QJ7654 ♣K9543
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1NT Pass Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. You have more to lose than gain by entering the auction. Someone has a lot of hearts—if it is partner, he was not strong enough to enter the auction, so you might find yourself in a whipsaw between opponents who have the balance of strength when your side has a misfit.

Gossip Era Is Still With Us

NEW YORK (AP) — Rona Barrett, who for 5½ years has kept Hollywood's fatuousness on the fire in her syndicated TV show, sat down the other day with her press agent, her husband and this observer to discuss literature.

The discussion, about her newly published autobiography, occurred at a modest restaurant. The middle-aged waitress who served the coffee peered at her, then gasped: "You're Rona Barrett, aren't you? I watch your show on TV all the time. I love it."

It is sort of hard to ask her about her book because parts of it are luridly atwitter with her fan club days, her fan magazine days and Hollywood inside stuff of the early 1960s. I am not au courant there.

Another problem is that the thing also concerns ah, er, hmm, uhh, well, you know, fooling around. It even starts with the attempted seduction of her by an unnamed Hollywood superman, a married cad.

Miss Barrett, whose book also depicts her long drive to overcome a muscular disability and homeliness, was asked why she wrote it.

Part of it, she said in a soft, low voice, was because she always gets letters from star-struck fans and it suddenly struck her they "have tremendous misconceptions about what it's like to be a success."

Another reason, she said, was to inspire those who are as she

Run Out Of Gas On Long Bridge

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — At least 15 cars a day run out of gas, sputter and come to a full halt on the more than eight mile long Rio-Niteroi bridge, this city's Transit Department recently revealed.

For drivers who find themselves in such a predicament, highway police in charge of the bridge's custody will tow the stalled cars, free of charge, to the nearest gas station. Besides being towed, the hapless driver also gets a piece of free advice: "Next time please make sure you have enough gas before crossing the bridge."

The Rio-Niteroi bridge inaugurated in 1974 connects the city of Rio de Janeiro to the city of Niteroi across Guanabara Bay.

Prolific When Not Crowded

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — When captive starlings are not overcrowded, they lay more eggs and fight more.

Dr. Arthur Rissler, Jr., a biology professor at the University of Nevada, Reno, used European starlings to test the hypothesis that high population density can modify reproductive performance in wild birds.

He said the experiment showed the captive starlings kept at 10 pairs to the cage laid more eggs and hatched more birds than those kept at 50 pairs to the cage.

Miss Barrett, who said her show is seen in 50 cities, said she doesn't go in much these days for stories about love affairs of the famous unless the heart conference is held in public. She was asked who spills the beans to her about such matters.

"Usually, their best friends," smiled the New York-born Hollywood historian. "Because their best friends love to fink."

New Seigneur Of Sark Pledges Keep Paradise

SARK, Channel Islands (AP) — Michael Beaumont, the new Seigneur of Sark, pledged today to try to keep his tiny Channel Island a trouble-free 19th century paradise following the death of the Dame of Sark.

"The last thing I want to do is drag the island into the 20th century," he declared.

Beaumont, 47, became the ruler of Britain's smallest and oldest dependency on the death Sunday of his grandmother, the legendary Dame Sybil Hathaway. She was the 21st in the line of seigneurs, though being a woman her title was La Dame.

Dame Sybil, 90, ruled the tiny island off the Normandy coast for 47 years, shunning Nazi occupation forces, automobiles, labor unions, divorce and income, cigarette and liquor taxes. She insisted on keeping it "a place of peace and quiet" for the 600-person population and the 50,000 tourists the isle attracts annually.

Beaumont said he will quit his $14,400-a-year job as a design engineer with the British Aircraft Corp., and move his family from Bristol, England, to the 12-bedroom Seigneurie on the island.

Sark is 3½ miles long and 1½ miles wide. Queen Elizabeth I granted it to Helier de Carteret, the first seigneur, in 1563 with instructions to populate it.

There is a 52-member local legislature called the Chief Pleas. But the seigneur is the final local authority and is answerable only to Queen Elizabeth II and her Privy Council.

There is hardly any crime. Divorces are not granted, and the only motorized vehicles are the tractors on some farms and the electric wheelchairs the Dame permitted herself in recent years because of arthritis. But there are telephones and electricity.

Only the Dame could keep a bitch so that the island would not be overrun by dogs. Only she could mill corn. She could also call on every male islander over 16 to work two days a year on the few miles of roads.

"If I'm a dictator, I'm certainly a benevolent one," she once said. "I prefer to regard myself as head of one big happy family with the queen as my overlord."

She was married twice — to Dudley Beaumont, who died in 1918, and in 1929 to Robert Hathaway, an American. When the Germans occupied the Channel Islands during World War II, they imprisoned Hathaway in Germany for more than 2½ years, but the Dame refused to collaborate. Hathaway died in 1954.

Urges Advanced Budget Plans

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Economist Alice M. Rivlin says federal budgetary procedures should be changed because they allow no chance for the re-examination of national priorities.

"Budget plans should be made at least one year in advance and Congress should evaluate these plans as they relate to an overall priority system," the Brookings Institution economist said.

Annual Highland Games Came To An End Sunday

Nixon-Kissinger Rift Disclaimed

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon is described by a White House spokesman as continuing to have a "good and sound" relationship with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who will fly here later this week for meetings with Nixon.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler sought Sunday to dispel any notion of a rift between Nixon and Kissinger over the 1969-71 wiretapping of 17 officials and newsmen.

"The relationship between the President and Dr. Kissinger is good and sound as it has been," said Ziegler.

The press secretary confirmed Nixon has written a letter to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee taking full responsibility for the taps, which reportedly were intended to plug news leaks. Ziegler declined to make public the text of the letter.

At an emotional news conference last month in Salzburg, Austria, Kissinger threatened to resign unless a committee investigation cleared him of any taint of wrongdoing in connection with the wiretaps.

The President met for 55 minutes Saturday with Vice President Gerald R. Ford who later told a reporters that impeachment was never discussed in six meetings he had last week with Nixon.

Responding to a question, Ford predicted again that the House Judiciary Committee will vote for Nixon's impeachment but said the full House will vote against impeachment.

With the Supreme Court soon to rule on whether Nixon must surrender additional Watergate tapes to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, Ford said he assumes any citizen would obey a decision of the high court. White House spokesmen have declined to say what course Nixon might take.

Holding Vigil For Friend

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Some 25 young persons held a vigil Sunday in front of a hospital where a young policeman wounded during a rock concert was fighting for his life.

Sgt. Barry Worley, 27, a park patrolman, was shot three times Saturday while directing security at a city stadium where the concert was held.

He was listed in unsatisfactory condition Sunday night.

The youths carried a sign reading "Barry We Love You."

"He's like a big brother to us," said one youth. "He's helped us all out and kept us out of trouble."

A police spokesman said a bullet remained lodged near the officer's spinal cord because he was too weak to undergo surgery.

Worley was shot three times, police said. James Parks, 20, of Gastonia was arrested and charged with assault with the intent to kill.

The concert, which drew some 20,000 persons, continued despite the incident. One of the groups promised to donate part of their pay to the officer.

Work Displayed By Art Student

Interior design projects and handcrafted textiles by Michael Hunter Cushman, senior student in the East Carolina University School of Art, will be on display in the gallery of first floor Rawl Building through July 20.

Included in the exhibition are interior design renderings done in pastels, watercolors and colored ink; a restaurant layout; photographs of Cushman's work on the ECU Interior Design Laboratory House; and several hand-woven blankets and garments.

LINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The 19th annual Grandfather Mountain Highland Games and Gathering of Scottish Clans came to an end Sunday with Peter Hoyt of Altamonte Springs, Fla., setting a new world record in the barrel toss.

Hoyt, breaking his own record, heaved the object 45 feet, 8 inches, to smash the previous standard of 38 feet, 2 inches.

Also bettering the old mark were Ed McComas of Baltimore and Bill Bangert of Champ, Mo., who finished second and third respectively.

McComas' throw was 40 feet, 10 inches, and Bangert's 40 feet, 4 inches.

Bangert also won the cabaret toss, an event for accuracy. McComas captured the 16-pound stone throw, 46 feet, 9 inches, and the 28-pound weight throw, 60 feet, 5 inches.

Ron Short of Winston-Salem, N.C., won the sheaf toss with a throw of 23 feet, a new record, and Bob Porterfield, of Charlotte, N.C., threw the 56-pound weight 15 feet to win that event.

William Duncan, Spruce Pine, N.C., captured the heavy-weight wrestling title.

The light heavyweight champ was William Eubanks, Chapel Hill, N.C. David Scott of Nashville, Tenn., won the middle weight title, and Bill McReynolds, Halstead, Kan., was the lightweight champ.

In fencing, Jim Scott, Chapel Hill, N.C., took the foil, and Jim Kruse, also of Chapel Hill, won the sabre competition.

More than 30,000 people gathered for the games Sunday, following an opening day crowd Saturday of between 45,000 and 55,000.

Saturday's winners included Lee Fidler of Carrollton, Ga., in the 26.2-mile mountain marathon; Hubert West, Chapel Hill, long jump and triple jump; McComas, 22-pound hammer throw; Mark Connors of Suffern, N.Y., 100-yard dash; Don Kennedy, Fayetteville, N.C., mile run; Paul Bannon, Glasgow, Scotland, two-mile run.

Report Gift To ECU Students

A gift of financial aid to worthy students in the School of Nursing, East Carolina University, has been made by Voiture 883 of the Forty and Eight Society, Bristol, Tenn.

Donald Y. Leggett, Director of the ECU Alumni Association and Foundations, said the gift was announced by Jerry McHenry, Chef de Gare, and Art Blevins, Correspondent, for Voiture 883. The funds will be used to support a deserving junior or senior nursing training student in the ECU School of Nursing, Leggett said. Voiture 883 also signified intention to continue such financial support on an annual basis, Leggett said.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 16, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Unexpected conditions keep you from being able to put through plans as started, but don't despair for the p.m. brings you the chance to be clever in arranging for interesting ways to gain cherished objectives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't try to force things your way now, but go along with the ideas of associates and this becomes a favorable day for you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Financial affairs may not work out as planned in day, but by p.m. you can make them right. Avoid extravagance. Reach better understanding with mate in p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make adjustments in the day to really get going. By p.m., judgment is fine and you're working great guns. Accomplish much while the spirit moves you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Assist a good friend who is having difficult sledding early. Then have fun in p.m. Clear up chores in afternoon.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact friends who can help you in p.m., as they're busy earlier. Go it alone during day where personal matters are concerned and get good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't lambast a bigwig, or it will cost you a good deal. Get your bills paid more promptly and build up your credit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to study new ideas and projects, but not to put anything in operation as yet. You want change, but this is not yet the time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Face responsibilities and get them completed as running away only compounds them. Clear up misunderstanding with mate diplomatically in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't argue with an associate who is acting differently from what you expected. Tonight you understand why and can use tact to straighten things out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Work instead of going off on some tangent, and you win out. Then take the needed health treatments in p.m. Do something about trouble-making fellow worker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan early for fun later with congenials, then get busy on whatever is of a creative nature. Show mate affection, though busy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't fuss over situation at home, but accomplish much in business world. Take care of home affairs in p.m. Settle business problems.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have remarkable ideas and will want to start making changes at home early in life, so be sure to give a good education. Teach first to know what he or she will do well in, and then to go ahead; otherwise there could be frustration here and many mistakes. The inventor is definitely in this chart, but also be certain to teach to have patience. Sports are a natural.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for August is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Senate Watergate Committee Reports And Dies

By MIKE PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee, which exposed the dimensions of the nation's greatest political scandal, is dead.

The seven-man panel — officially named the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities — expired over the weekend with the release of its 2,215-page final report detailing "one of America's most tragic happenings."

The mountains of documentary and testimonial evidence collected during the committee's 16 months of active investigation have been stored on computer tape and will be the panel's principal survivors —

the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry and the Special Watergate Prosecution Force.

The aftermath of the June 17, 1972, break-in at Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate, the committee said, was "characterized by corruption, fraud and abuse of official power."

As preventive medicine, the members unanimously recommended a massive overhaul of federal election laws, creation of a permanent independent prosecutor's office and specific limits on a president's power to violate a citizen's privacy without due process.

The report summarized the abuses uncovered in nationally televised hearings last year and officially presented the panel's findings in its investigation of various campaign financing activities and misuse of government power for political purposes.

Although virtually all of the final report had been made public or leaked to the press in various forms, the official document eliminated most of the conclusions drawn by the committee staff when drafting the report's 11 separate sections.

"There are two ways to prove a horse is a horse," said the committee chairman, self-styled "old country lawyer" Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. "One way is to draw a picture of a horse in as much detail as possible. The other is to draw the picture and write under it, 'This is a horse.'"

While leaving it for the House Judiciary Committee and the courts to fill in the names, the committee painted a number of unmistakable portraits.

In the Watergate break-in and cover-up section of the report, the committee wove together the testimony of John W. Dean III and the White House-edited transcripts of President Nixon's Watergate conversations to show that a massive conspiracy to obstruct justice reached the highest levels of government.

While steering clear of judging allegations that the President raised milk-support prices in exchange for campaign contributions from milk producers, the panel said administration officials "provided circumstances that were ripe for abuse."

And although it charged no illegality in the financial affairs of Nixon friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, the report traced nearly $5,000 in 1968 campaign funds from Rebozo to a New York jeweler who supplied Mrs. Nixon's 60th birthday present from her husband, a pair of diamond earrings.

The committee proposed 37 reforms designed to prevent future Watergates.

"Probably the most significant reform that could emerge from the Watergate scandal," the committee said, would be creation of a nonpartisan Federal Elections Commission with power to investigate campaign abuses and enforce election laws.

The proposed seven-member commission, to be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, would be given authority to levy civil penalties of up to $10,000 for election law violations and could refer apparent criminal acts to the proposed public prosecutor's office.

Noting that special prosecutors were named to investigate both the Teapot Dome and Watergate scandals, the Senate panel suggested that a similar position be created as a permanent deterrent to official misconduct.

The Office of Public Attorney, the report said, would serve not only as a special prosecutor "but an ombudsman having power to inquire into the administration of justice in the executive branch." The committee suggested the public attorney be appointed to a five-year term by three retired U.S. Circuit Court judges selected by the chief justice of the United States.

To prevent future "Plumbers" operations, the committee would bar the president from establishing any special intelligence-gathering group without congressional consent. And laws guaranteeing the confidentiality of individuals' tax returns would be extended to prohibit anyone in the Executive Office of the President from gaining access to Internal Revenue Service files on private citizens. But the tax returns of the president and vice president would be made public.

Other recommendations would limit the use of cash or "big money" in political campaigns, prohibit campaign dirty tricks and increase congressional vigilance over executive departments.

New Nurse Program For ECU School Of Nursing

The high rate of death and illness among new mothers and infants in eastern North Carolina will be the target of a new service program to be undertaken by the East Carolina University School of Nursing and the N. C. Division of Health Services.

Project coordinator Therese Lawler was awarded $83,623 by the N. C. Regional Medical Program to establish the high-risk infant and mother program, whose primary purpose will be to train nurses from an eight-county area in clinical perinatology.

Each nurse trainee would then function as a team coordinator in her county, and would direct newborn nursery and delivery room staff in new trends, plan home support teams, instruct outreach workers, and educate professionals and consumers to be aware of the problem of high-risk mothers and infants.

The program also provides for the purchase of more sophisticated equipment for intrapart and neonatal care and institution of high risk clinics for frequent and intensive supervision of mothers and infants.

"The concepts and technical advancements we will use in the program are already being used with great success in many medical centers," said Mrs. Lawler. "However, the most serious and frequent problems of this kind arise not in relatively affluent metropolitan areas, but rather in the rural isolated geographic pockets. We see them her daily."

Mrs. Lawler is also Director of Personal Health Services for the Pitt County Health Department.

Assisting her in the administration of the program will be Dr. John Fletcher, director of the state Health Services maternal and child health branch, and Jean Lassiter, health director for the eastern N. C. region.

Operation of the program is to be in accord with the report of the Governor's Task Force on Maternal-Infant Care. Other areas in the state with similar needs for improvement in the care of high risk infants and mothers may use the ECU program as "a working model," said Mrs. Lawler.

BICYCLE BALLET... or wheeled version of "drop the handkerchief." Three ECU students, Ron Jenkins, Wheaton, Md.; at top; Bill Holland, Fremont, center; and Rick Spencer, High Point, below, are pictured in successful attempts to retrieve a piece of cloth while continuing to keep their bicycles moving. Great fun, but for the novice, practice on the grass is recommended. (Reflector Staff Photos by Jerry Raynor)

Gen. Spaatz Is Heart Victim

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who directed the smashing of Germany from the air and the final strategic bombing of Japan in World War II, Gen. Carl Spaatz, has died at 83.

Spaatz, one of the aviation pioneers instrumental in keeping the U.S. Army Air Corps operating after World War I, later served as the first Chief of Staff of the U.S. Air Force.

The Air Force said Spaatz died Sunday morning of congestive heart failure.

President Truman named Spaatz chief of staff when the independent Air Force was created in 1947. Spaatz retired in 1948 and since then made his home in suburban Chevy Chase, Md.

Spaatz participated in combat operations in all theatres during World War II and was present at all three surrender ceremonies which ended the war.

A native of Boyertown, Pa., Spaatz graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1914 and won his wings in 1916. Despite serving only 19 days at the front, he was credited with shooting down three German planes in World War I and won the Distinguished Service Cross.

In World War II Spaatz directed air attacks against the Germans in North Africa and continued that work in Sicily, Italy and Germany.

He commanded the U.S. Strategic Air Forces in Europe from before D-Day until the German surrender, and then moved to the Pacific theater to direct the bombing of Japan.

Spaatz once remarked that "a second-best Air Force is like a second-best hand at poker — no good at all."

$5,000 Viola Was Stolen

CHICAGO (AP) — For four years Rami Solomonow and his viola were inseparable, but all he has now is the canvas cover for the instrument's case.

The over-sized viola, made especially for the Israeli's 6-foot-2 frame, accompanied him to restaurants and into restrooms.

"I wouldn't let it out of my sight, even for two seconds, unless I knew it was secure. It is my life," said Solomonow, 25, who is studying at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb and playing with the Grant Park orchestra for the summer.

Sunday he thought the instrument would be secure for a couple of minutes in the dressing room at Chicago's Grant Park bandshell.

"It is guarded by policemen. There are bars on the windows," he said.

But two youths apparently slipped by the guards and ran off with the viola.

The viola is not insured; Solomonow estimates his loss at $5,000.

Sailed Bathtub Around Island

NANAIMO, B.C. (AP) — Fred Maguire has become the first person to circumnavigate Vancouver Island in a bathtub.

Maguire, 30, already held one bathtub record before he began his nautical adventure. In 1973, he sailed a bathtub 150 miles from here to Seattle in 33 hours, 26 minutes.

The tub which completed the 950-mile trip around the island is powered by a six-horsepower outboard motor and can cruise at about 10 miles an hour.

Maguire set out July 4 and returned home Sunday.
