MAKARIOS IN MALTA—Archbishop Makarios, ousted as president of Cyprus Monday by a military coup, waves as he leaves Governor's car to talk with newsmen at entrance to the governor's palace in Malta. By The Associated Press
Informed sources said Turkey was moving 90,000 troops and war materiel to its Mediterranean shores today following the coup on Cyprus, and newspapers reported Turkish ships were sailing near the Greek islands of Rhodes and Mithlene.

The moves came as Turkish leaders flew to London for urgent talks on the Cyprus crisis, military rebels tightened their grip on the island, and Archbishop Makarios told a news conference in England he left Cyprus because he felt he would be able to help his people more effectively from outside the country.

There are approximately 490,000 Greeks and 115,000 Turks on Cyprus. The military rebels that overthrew Makarios on Monday are believed to be committed to enosis, or union with Greece, and the Turkish government fears any such move would threaten its interests on the Mediterranean island. Greece has denied any involvement with the coup.

In Brussels, all members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization except Greece supported a call for the withdrawal of Greek officers from the Cyprus national guard as the best way to calm the situation, a NATO source said.

Makarios said the coup against him Monday was organized by the Greek military regime in Athens and led by Greek officers serving in his national guard.

"They tried to kill me by attacking the presidential palace with mortars and other weapons," he said. "The palace was demolished."

"They thought I was killed and they said on the radio that I was taken—but as you can see I am alive."

"I succeeded in escaping. I went first to Paphos, where there is a radio station from which I made several broadcasts to my people."

"Yesterday morning a small warship of the national guard fired at the radio station and demolished it, while at the same time armored cars and tanks moved toward Paphos."

Paphos is Makarios' home town in southwest Cyprus.

Explaining his decision to leave, Makarios said, "I didn't want to fall into the hands of the Greek junta. I preferred to leave Cyprus. I felt that going into hiding was not the answer..."

Need Blood

The Red Cross Bloodmobile concludes the first of two days' visit at the Greenville Moose Lodge this afternoon at 5:00 o'clock. Hours for donors tomorrow will be between 10:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

The current visit is being sponsored by the Moose Lodge. Area citizens are reminded again today by acting Bloodmobile committee chairman O.J. Smith that because of the increased quota assigned Pitt County, more donors than ever would be needed to fulfill the county's goal.

Border Market Tobacco Prices Fall Off After Disappointing First Day

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Unofficial reports showed tobacco prices declined slightly in the border North Carolina-South Carolina area Tuesday.

With six of the 10 markets open Tuesday reporting, the area average was 19 cents lower than Monday's average of $81.78 per hundred pounds.

The Federal-State Market News in Florence, S.C., reported Tuesday's incomplete average to be $81.59 per hundred. The tobacco office reported lugs and primings were up about $1 per hundred pounds on most markets in the area, but the quality of offerings was lower. The office reported less good and fair-grade primings offered and more low.

Monday's average was $1.37 lower than the opening sales last year.

The low prices continued to bring complaints from farmers as well as comments from North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham and Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan. Graham, in a prepared release Tuesday, said he shared the disappointment of growers over opening prices but urged them to adopt a "wait and see" attitude.

Officials had predicted an average of nearly $90. "I share this disappointment," Graham said.

"This year's crop has been the most expensive one our farmers have ever produced and they must receive higher prices for their sales if they are to realize any profit for opening day market this year. This once again vividly illustrates the value of the tobacco support program."

Later Tuesday, Morgan, who is the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate in November's election, blamed low prices on the national administration. "This is not the first time that Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz has acted to penalize the small farmer," Morgan said in a news release. "The actions of the Department of Agriculture which raised quotas by 10 per cent this year, against the advice and wishes of farmers, is most certainly a major contributing factor in this situation."

"Growers who see their tobacco selling for less than they expected and who had to pay inflated prices for fertilizer and other materials needed to grow their crops should place the blame where it belongs on the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the big business policies of the national administration," Morgan said.

Missing Pitt Farmer Found Dead In Field; Await Autopsy Report

By CARL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN—A prominent resident of this community, reported as a missing person Monday, was found dead in a corn field four miles from his residence yesterday morning.

Lester Hart Garris, 66, a long time resident of Pitt County, was found by Ayden police chief Tommy Burney and Douglas Haddock a tenant on a farm owned by Garris, around 10:30 a.m. yesterday according to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

According to Tyson, Haddock reported the presence of a truck parked in a corn field to Burney, indicating he had seen the truck there for several days. The truck signed in the corn field was owned by the 66-year-old farmer, according to Tyson.

Arriving on the scene to investigate the presence of the truck, Burney and Haddock discovered Garris' body which reportedly had been in the field since sometime Friday.

Tyson indicated he is considering robbery as a motive for the death and that he was waiting for an autopsy report from Chapel Hill before listing the cause of death.

Garris was last reported seen around 9 p.m. Friday night.

He was reported missing around 5:30 p.m. Monday when his wife and son returned from a weekend trip to the beach.

According to Tyson, the lights and television set in the Garris home were found on when the wife and son returned from their trip.

Investigation into the incident is continuing.

Tyson reported no leads on the case as of this morning.

Ga.-Fla. Prices Decline

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Prices continued to decline on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco markets today, and one source said hundred pound quantities were selling for as low as $78.

A number of farmers complained that buyers were paying only a few cents above government support prices despite what they said was a fine quality of tobacco.

"It isn't fair," a farmer from Lennox, Ga., complained. "The buyers come right along behind the graders and bid only a penny or two higher than the government price."

An observer said some growers are threatening to withhold tobacco from the auction floor in an effort to drive up prices.

In Thomasville's market, which was closed today, the average price Tuesday was $83.03 per hundred pounds, about $1 higher than last year's opening prices.

Several farmers in that market also complained that prices were lower than they had expected.

Agricultural officials said growers will have to receive considerably more for their crops or face a crisis which could put some of them out of business.

OEO Director Forced To Quit

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)—President Nixon has accepted the forced resignation of Alvin J. Arnett as director of the Office of Economic Opportunity. A White House spokesman cited irreconcilable differences over OEO policy.

Arnett said he was dismissed because he fought to preserve programs of the antipoverty agency. He will be succeeded by Bert A. Gallegos, 51, of Denver, who has been the agency's general counsel since 1972.

Tower Of London Bombed

LONDON (AP)—A terrorist bomb exploded in the historic Tower of London today and injured at least 33 persons, half of them children, Scotland Yard said.

The Yard declined to theorize what organization was behind the bombing. Irish extremists set off an explosion June 17 that damaged the houses of Parliament and injured seven persons.

Scotland Yard said most of those injured in today's explosion were Danish and German tourists.

In past bombings, terrorists have given advance warning, but there was no such warning in today's incident, police said.

"Suddenly there was this bang," said Mrs. John Lyall, of suburban London. "There was glass and smoke coming out of the building. I heard children screaming."

Police cordoned off the area and two helicopters hovered over the medieval fortress where England's Tudor kings had their enemies beheaded.

The Environment Department, which runs tourist attractions in Britain, said the explosion was in the basement.

'Tis The Season

JUST A BIT CORNY—Freezers are the "in thing" this summer with people trying to save on food cost. Farms and gardens help, but there is some work involved, like shucking corn. DITCH A PROBLEM
We live in Shady Knoll Mobile Estates. A ditch runs the entire length of the east side of the park and right along the edge of our back yard. We have a terrible time keeping our two-year-old out of it and are bothered by mosquitoes and frightened by the many snakes that come out of it, too. Park rules say no fence can be put up since the rules became effective, but we would like to get special permission for the protection of our children and would like to see the ditch unclogged. W.N.

The Division of Highways Maintenance Department has agreed to clean out the portion of the ditch into which its sediment from Highway 33 flows.

The Pitt County Health Department has recommended that debris, both natural and manmade be removed so the water may be kept moving, and that weeds along the banks be kept down to eliminate mosquito breeding places.

Shady Knoll owner Fred Bunn of Rocky Mount has agreed to comply with the Health Department recommendations. He also has given you special permission to put up a fence along the back of your lot to more easily keep children out of the ditch, though he said the area should not be enclosed as it would interfere with grass mowing, a service provided by the Park.

PIANO NEEDED
The children at our South Greenville Playschool, which is held each day at South Greenville Recreation Center, really love to sing and dance. A piano would mean everything to us. I wonder if anyone would be willing to donate one. We would be glad to do the heavy work of moving it. Mrs. I.M.S.

Anyone willing to donate a piano to the Playschool should call Hotline and leave the message or call the Hotline staff at 752-6166.

SEEKING SOCIAL SECURITY AID
Last November I stopped working in order to better care for my two children who were born with birth defects. I applied with the Social Security office for aid for the children. One died, and I reported this to the SS office. I was told I was eligible for some financial aid in meeting medical expenses, but I have not heard anything more about when I should expect to start receiving funds. Mrs. D.V.

The exact cause of the hold-up in your application is not known. According to the local Social Security office director, your paper work was forwarded to Raleigh on June 14. You should be hearing from the Social Security Administration and start receiving medical expense aid in the near future, according to the SS spokesman here in Greenville. The spokesman stated they were waiting to file coded cases when the go-ahead was given them. This go-ahead was given in June, but the director indicated it was later decided that your case did not apply to the coded cases. At any rate, the paper work is in Raleigh, and hopefully you will be receiving some aid shortly.

Divided About Cyprus

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union and the United States were at odds today over what, if anything, the Security Council should do about the Cyprus coup and the overthrow of President Makarios.

At the first council meeting on the crisis, the Soviets on Tuesday called for urgent measures to protect the independence of the island. But the United States, supported by Britain, said information from Cyprus was still too sketchy to make any decisions.

The 15-nation council adjourned to await developments, including possibly a visit by Makarios, who spent the night on Malta en route to London. No time was set for resumption of the debate.

In Tuesday's debate, Soviet delegate Vasily S. Safronchuk blamed the coup on the Greek Army officers who command the Cyprus National Guard. He said the Greek military government must bear responsibility.

He called on the council to "take the most urgent measures to protect the independence, sovereignty and territorial integrity" of Cyprus. "Time will not wait," he declared. But he did not submit a resolution for council action.

Ambassador John A. Scali of the United States said his government supports the "independence and territorial integrity of Cyprus and its existing constitutional arrangements." But he said, "unfortunately, there is much ... we still do not know about the emerging situation on Cyprus, and it is difficult at this moment to see clearly whether and how the council can make a positive contribution."

The Makarios government's U.N. representative, Ambassador Zenon Rossides, flared up at the calls for delay and urged an immediate cease-fire resolution.

But like Safronchuk, Rossides did not submit a resolution.

Turkish Ambassador Osman Olcay charged that the coup was "mounted in Athens."

Larkins Orders School Case To State Courts

U.S. Judge John Larkins has ordered that a motion by attorneys for the Pitt County Board of Education in a school fee case pending before the U.S. Eastern District Court seeking resolution of the case in the state courts be allowed, but ordered that the Federal Court retain jurisdiction in the case pending state court proceedings.

The case, Denise Anderson, et al, against the Pitt County Board of Education, challenges the legality of school fees charged.

The case, however, affects all school units in the state which charge supplemental fees of students.

Under the Federal complaint filed in November 1972, the plaintiffs are seeking to have the state statute which authorizes fees and allows suspension of students for failure to pay them, declared unconstitutional. They contend that under the state constitution, which establishes free public education, even the smallest charge is illegal.

In moving to have the Federal Court abstain from action in the case, the Pitt Board argued, according to Judge Larkin's order "that if any right to a totally free public education exists, the State Courts should so decide."

According to the jurists order, "education is perhaps the most important function of state and local governments, and the Constitution of the United States secures to all eligible persons the right to equal treatment where the state has undertaken to provide education to its citizens. However the Federal Constitution does not afford education explicit or implicit protection.

"Therefore the right to a free public education is derived in this case from the North Carolina constitution, and the validity of the school fee statute must be determined under said constitution."

County Attorney W.W. Speight said plaintiffs in the case must now bring action against the Board of Education in the state courts.

He noted that he has advised the school board that fees are legal and may be charged until the matter is heard and a determination is made by the State Supreme Court.

The case against the Pitt School Board has such far reaching implications across the state that the North Carolina attorney general was allowed to intervene in the case in October 1973.

Recipe Yields City Chicken

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We first became aware of the merits of that truly American dish, city chicken, about a dozen years ago. Then a young man from Wabash, Ind., told us he had learned to cook it there, brought the recipe to New York and found easterners as enthusiastic about it as people back home. We weren't sure how far back the recipe went until recently when "Better Homes and Gardens golden Treasury of Cooking" (Meredith) came our way. There it is, nailed to the '30s, when — according to the cookbook — this skewered combination of pork and veal "was used by city dwellers as a substitute for chicken, which was very expensive."

When we asked Myrna Johnston, who was long-time food editor of Better Homes and Gardens and a consultant for "The Golden Treasury," what else she recalled about the recipe she said that it had been "a big winner in cooking schools during the Depression." Tried in our kitchen, we can understand its popularity.

If you are interested in 600 recipes used and enjoyed by millions of Americans during the 1930s to the '70s, "The Golden Treasury of Cooking" is the book to look into. Chosen from those that appeared in these five decades in Better Homes and Gardens, the recipes were retested in the magazine's kitchens so they could be adjusted to up-to-date ingredients and cooking equipment.

But The Treasury is more than a recipe collection. Before each decade's section there is an essay that recalls what life was like in that particular period and how it influenced our food styles.

In addition, each section has a photographic color pull-out that's a nostalgic montage of the events, personalities and fads of the time. Notes preceding the various categories of food and accompanying many of the recipes are both informative and interesting, and handsome color photographs illustrating some of the recipes appear throughout the book.

CITY CHICKEN

- 1 pound pork, cut in 1½-inch cubes
- 1 pound veal, cut in 1½-inch cubes
- 2-3rds cup finely crushed saltine crackers (18)
- 1 teaspoon paprika

- ¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning
 - 1 slightly beaten egg
 - 2 tablespoons milk
 - 3 tablespoons shortening
 - 1 chicken bouillon cube
 - ½ cup boiling water
- Thread pork and veal cubes alternately onto 6 skewers. Mix crumbs, paprika, poultry seasoning and 1½ teaspoons salt. Combine egg and milk. Dip meat in egg mixture, then in crumbs. Brown in hot shortening. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water; add to meat. Bake, covered, at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Uncover; bake 30 minutes more. Serves 6.

CITY CHICKEN—It's a regional American dish from the 1930s.

Non-Parent Organization Asks Acceptance

By SANDRA GITTENS
NEW YORK (AP) — "To gain acceptance for the non-parent lifestyle is our main objective," says Carole Goldman, national executive director for the National Organization For Non-Parents (NON).

A slim, brunette mother of two teen-age boys, Mrs. Goldman emphatically states NON is "not an organization of non-parents but for non-parents."

A concept which originated a little over two years ago in Palo Alto, Calif., NON stresses the awareness of lifestyle options and the need to ease social pressures that coerce individuals to have children.

A non-profit organization, its national office is in Baltimore, Maryland. NON was started by a handful of persons who expressed the same interest. Through the work of its nine original members, NON now claims a membership of 2,000 with chapters throughout the United States.

A structure which embraces parents, non-parents, grandparents, non-grandparents and single persons alike, NON goes one step further than Women's Lib or Planned Parenthood in that it offers the individual a choice — a life without children, Mrs. Goldman says.

She says her position as a parent is often questioned in relationship to NON. "People ask, 'What is the thing that has meaning for you?' or 'How do you fit into NON?'"

"I know," she explains, "that when I had my first child there was no confusion in my mind as to whether or not I was to have children. I was raised and conditioned to understand that I would marry and have children. "But when I look back, I realize that I really didn't have a choice. I never did ask myself, nor did my husband ask, 'Should we have children?' We didn't have any option."

"Would I make a different decision today? Well, that's a very difficult question to answer in retrospect. I'm very happy in my role as a mother. It's been a good life for me."

But because it's been good for her, Mrs. Goldman says it doesn't necessarily follow that it is "good" for everyone. As a parent she's concerned that people make responsible decisions and she feels responsible decisions can only be made when there are accepted options and well thought out reasons. She says, also, there's a great need to eliminate the social pressures and questions to which the non-parent is so often subjected.

"For the non-parent NON is something special. It offers the support of other people who believe in the non-parenthood lifestyle," Mrs. Goldman says. "Because they have been under such tremendous pressures, what we call pro-natalist pressures, or pressures which urge them and actually condition them to have progeny, they see their association with NON almost as a ray of hope," she added.

Quite a few of the pressures stem from the unrealistic picture presented by TV, she says. She claims family situations and problems are presented in a way that would have viewers believe all problems of childhood guidance are easily resolvable.

"If we look at our daytime soap operas, for example, when someone becomes pregnant, which almost everyone does, she is always going around with a healthy glow. It's an answer to life fulfillment. It never shows what the problems of pregnancy can be, for example. It's always plugged as a marvelous thing — that their life is now going into this area. We never have a daytime program where they say, 'Shall we have children?'"

Proper preparation is needed to make a good decision, she notes. Very often the child coming into a home situation is forgotten; the reasons people choose to become parents are often reasons that don't have a lot of validity — to give their parents grandchildren, or perhaps to save a rocky marriage. A realistic perspective, she says, is very much needed, especially now when people have to consider the economic strain placed on parents and the ecological strains placed on the community.

Should Call Cops About Nude Hippies

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We've lived in this nice family neighborhood for fifteen years. Last September, our next-door neighbors rented their house to a group of long-haired hippies. Several young men and women are living together there, and I'm sure they aren't married.

Abby, I don't have anything against hippies, but I am worried about my children. I've tried to give them a good moral upbringing. Just yesterday I caught my teen-age son peering through the fence that separates our backyards, and sure enough, one of the girls was sunbathing completely naked!

My husband and I can't agree on what to do. I say we should call the police to protect our children, who are at an impressionable age. My husband thinks we should leave well enough alone. What do you think?

MENLO PARK MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I vote with your husband. And tell your son to quite "peering" through the fence, or your neighbors might justifiably feel that their privacy is being violated, and THEY will call the police.

DEAR ABBY: I was chatting with my nephew in a very crowded and noisy room. (A cocktail party was in progress.) I had to ask him to please repeat nearly everything he said not only because of the noise, but this nephew has a bad habit of mumbling.

Finally, he shouted: "Dammit, Aunt -----, if you're deaf, why don't you get yourself a hearing aid?"

I am 77 and he is 36.

The following morning I went to my attorney's office and cut this nephew out of my will.

One hundred dollars to a charity of your choice, Abby, if you print this in the Los Angeles Times. My nephew never misses your column.

LOVING AUNT

DEAR AUNT: When they come around to collect for the Cancer Crusade, give them an extra hundred for me.

DEAR ABBY: It's 4:30 a.m. and I'm so mad I can't go back to sleep. It seems my brother-in-law, Joe, is making a habit of spending the night on our couch.

His reason for staying here is that he is too drunk to drive home. He totaled his pickup two months ago after one of his drinking sprees.

My husband thinks I'm selfish for not wanting Joe here. I disagree. I feel this house is half mine and I should be able to get up and go into the living room in the middle of the night without worrying about someone seeing me half nude. I'm eight months pregnant, so I get up a lot, and I don't like to put on my robe each time.

I think if Joe wants to get plastered he should make other sleeping arrangements. (Like a motel.) What should I do? Grin and bear it for my husband's sake? Or tell Joe how I feel? I'm afraid if Joe killed himself driving home, my husband would blame me.

HAD IT WITH JOE

DEAR HAD IT: If Joe comes to your house plastered, ask your husband to escort him home. Drunk drivers kill not only themselves—they kill innocent people.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of compulsive gamblers, compulsive talkers and compulsive overeaters, but is there such a thing as a compulsive worker? I think I'm one.

LOVES TO WORK

DEAR LOVES: To borrow a phrase from the philosophical James B. Goetz, "It's only work if you'd rather be doing something else."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "UPTIGHT IN PHILLY": You're angry, and with good reason, but you need to learn how to handle your anger. Pick up a copy of ANGER by Leo Madow. It's a great little paperback book written by a psychiatrist who writes in language everyone can understand.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please

Planned Community Is Formally Opened Here

RICHMOND, Va. — Realty Industries, Inc. of Richmond, Va. formally opened its newest planned community today: Cambridge of Greenville. The new community is located near the intersection of bypass route 264 and Hooker Road.

In discussing the opening, president of the development corporation, Sam Kornblau, said construction is well under way on the 40 homes to be completed in the Greenville project. Aside from the Greenville community, Realty Industries is involved in development projects in Kinston, New Bern, Goldsboro, Wilson and Jacksonville. Blount and Ball Realty of Greenville has been designated agent for the Cambridge development, which has been in the planning stage for more than a year.

Kornblau noted that to insure development of the Cambridge community to the Realty Industry standards, a Greenville office was opened and staffed long before any construction began. Among the considerations in Cambridge and all of the corporation's building efforts are to insure the least possible disruption to the natural surroundings. This he said, is a very strong company policy.

An example of the concern for the environment exhibited by Realty Industries was a joint effort with Reynolds Metals Company in the construction of a model home using new techniques and recycled aluminum products. Kornblau added, "We feel that innovative development as well as concern for the environment is our corporate and civic responsibility."

Associate Publisher In Wilson Dies Of Illness

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—Morgan Paul Dickerman II, associate publisher and general manager of the Wilson Daily Times, died Tuesday night after a long illness. He was 56.

Attended Annual NAACP Session

Mrs. Willie Mae Carney of Bethel, and Miss Roslyn Gail Taylor of Greenville recently attended the 65th Annual Convention of the NAACP held in New Orleans, La.

In a joint report to the United Pitt County Branch, NAACP, at its regular monthly meeting held at Medley's Chapel CME Church in Bethel Sunday, the delegates described the convention proceedings, pertinent issues and long-range goals.

Of special interest to the local Branch were (1) the Conventions Resolutions on education, housing, labor, civil rights, public relations and political action, and (2) the growing interest and dynamic involvement of youth in NAACP affairs.

From a nationwide point of view, Region V which is comprised of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, is the strongest Region in membership, financial support and activity in pursuit of adopted goals.

Policeman Is Suspended Here

A Greenville Police Officer has been suspended for five days for failure to comply with a direct supervisory order. Chief Glenn Cannon said today.

According to the chief, Ptl. W.R. Stokes was suspended yesterday, without pay, for five working days for failing to comply with a direct order of a supervisor.

Stokes first joined the department in 1957 then left for several years before returning December 30, 1965.

Arrested On Rape Charge

Pitt County Sheriff's deputies arrested a 44-year-old Greenville businessman yesterday and charged him with the rape of a 14-year-old Pitt County girl.

According to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, George Hawley, of 108 Josie Lane, was arrested in connection with a 4:10 p.m. incident at Hawley's place of business, the Stokes Antique and Auction House located in Stokes.

Hawley was placed in the Pitt County jail without privilege of bond.

According to Tyson, Hawley allegedly asked the girl to work at his business on the afternoon of June 16, and while at the Auction House asked the young girl to help him do some work in a back room of the establishment.

While in the rear room of the building the rape allegedly occurred.

The incident was reported to county authorities by the girl's mother.

Reassigned To Detective Div.

Officer Randy M. Nichols, a member of the Greenville Police Department for the past five years, has been re-assigned to the department's Detective Division, Chief Glenn Cannon announced today.

According to Cannon, Nichols was promoted from the department's Uniformed Division to the Detective Division effective July 16 for a six-month probationary period as a trainee.

A Greenville native, Nichols joined the department June 2, 1969.

Heroin Arrests Are Made Here

Two Pitt County residents were arrested by Sheriff's deputies early this morning and charged with possession of heroin, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Arrested were Anna Jane Knight, 21, of Lot 106 Shady Knoll Mobile Estates, and Greg Hulon, 18, of the same address.

The arrest took place around 1:40 a.m. according to Tyson. Both individuals were placed in the county jail under $5,000 bond each.

A preliminary hearing was scheduled in District Court on Aug. 12.

Dog Owner Has Responsibility

Opening of the city's new animal shelter was accomplished last week with a ribbon cutting ceremony.

The structure includes a small office, storage facilities and 20 individual pens for dogs. There are sheltered and unsheltered areas for the animals and it was constructed in accordance with standards developed by the American Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The animal shelter will be headquarters for the Animal Control Division of the City Inspections Department.

Opening of the center is a step towards humane treatment of animals and it should serve as a reminder to dog owners that the most humane thing they can do for their pets is to properly care for them.

There are entirely too many dog owners who seem to feel that the dog's best interests are served by dumping it on the street to roam where it will. Unfortunately some barking dogs do bite and they are not choosy about which passing pedestrians or bicyclists they chew on. Dog owners should know that they are required to have their animals inoculated for rabies. City law also requires that dogs be confined to their premises from 9 p.m. until 7 a.m. In addition, dog owners should recognize that Greenville is full of young children and elderly people who take daily walks on our city's sidewalks. They should certainly have this right without having to contend with barking or biting dogs.

Finally any concerned dog owner should recognize that the possibilities are good for a dog getting hit by a vehicle on the city's busy thoroughfares if the dog runs loose long enough. No motorists can be expected to endanger human life to avoid a dog.

Dogs make wonderful companions and we love them. None of us, however, would throw a small child out on the side of a busy street, for fear that he would not survive long. People who truly care for their dogs should think likewise.

Roads Are Big N.C. Concern

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—State government operates hundreds of programs and is spending $3 billion a year.

But ask the average citizen what he wants the state to do, and the answer is most likely to be "Fix my road."

Chuck holes, broken pavement—or no pavement—and other road problems top the list of problems catalogued during the past fiscal year in the governor's ombudsman office.

Over 20 per cent of the calls or letters received either by Fred M. (Butch) Gallagher, the governor's "People's Man," or in the governor's office, relate to road problems. The office processed a total of 3,263 cases during the fiscal year just ended. Of those, 678 involved the Department of Transportation. The second most prominent problem brought to the governor's attention involve prisoners—requests for paroles or reduction of sentences.

An interesting sidelight to the review of cases handled last year is that eastern North Carolinians make more use of the service than do residents of the Piedmont or western sections of the state.

Down East
Calls and letters from Coastal Plains regions invariably run higher than elsewhere in the state, lending some credence to the belief that easterners just seem to have a closer relationship to state government and more interest in what is going on.

Gallagher and his staff have just completed a follow-up survey of the ombudsman program calling back a sampling of people who had contacted the governor's office during the past year to ask whether or not they received a satisfactory response from state government.

"And it was strictly non-partisan, because we don't even note on the records whether the caller is Republican or Democrat," Gallagher insisted.

Two hundred persons who had contacted the office to ask for help were called back, and just over half of those (54.4 per cent) said they were satisfied with the results. "That's a remarkable percentage, considering that many are asking for roads to be paved or people released from prison—or other areas where the governor doesn't even have jurisdiction," Gallagher said.

Additionally, 15.5 per cent of those polled said they were "somewhat satisfied" although not fully, and 30 per cent reported themselves "not satisfied."

Gallagher has also drawn up figures from visitors to the 13 People's Day programs held across the state, in which the governor spends a day in a community talking with callers.

That study showed 72 per cent of the people satisfied with their visit, four per cent somewhat satisfied, and 24 per cent not satisfied.

Roads, Paroles
Here, again, roads (42 per cent) and paroles (17 per cent) were the subjects most on people's minds.

In following up on the state's response, Gallagher asked citizens what they thought of the response of various departments to their problems, and listed reasons for not being satisfied.

As to the governor's People's Day effort, participants often felt they did not have enough time with the governor. Five minutes is the limit.

A common complaint regarding several state agencies is that people feel they get the "run around."

At the Department of Transportation, the complaint was of getting the "run around," slow action, or finding that the governor doesn't have jurisdiction in road-paving problems.

People unhappy with the response at the Department of Human Resources listed the "run around," slowness, and lack of through investigation.

Complaints at the Department of Commerce centered on people being referred to too many other agencies, no central place to find a solution.

At the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, complaints focused on cases not being followed up on, and 86 per cent were listed as not satisfied with the response to their calls.

More than half those polled reported not satisfied with the Department of Corrections, also, noting that many expressed the wish that the governor would personally review all paroles and pardons.

Public Forum

To the editor:

It is a concern of mine and I feel sure, the concern of a great many other Americans, the tremendous cost of alcoholism in the nation today. In the new federal report that was recently completed on "Alcohol and Health," it was said that alcoholism and alcohol-related problems cost the U.S. economy more than $25 billion each year. This doesn't include ruined, lost, and wasted lives. How sad.

In a day when one may purchase beer as cheaply and as readily as one might purchase a soft drink per ounce, and in a day when the nation's youth are turning to strong drink and drugs, I think it is past time for something to be done to discourage drinking.

Laying aside my own conviction that alcohol should be outlawed for human consumption, I would make the following two suggestions. First, the price of every alcoholic drink should be doubled with the full increased cost going to pay the losses suffered by the innocent victims of the killer alcohol. Second, double the penalties imposed and strictly enforce them for alcohol-related offenses. Something drastic must be done about a critical problem.

Hussein In The Cat Bird Seat

By ROWLAND EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

AMMAN, Jordan—King Hussein, whose war against Palestinian guerrillas four years ago made him the black sheep of the Arab world, is now on a crest of personal influence, backed by quiet but heavy American support, in the pan-Arab political battle to regain lost territories from Israel, including the crucial west bank of his own kingdom.

While Palestinian nationalist Yasser Arafat insists that only he can represent the "Palestinian people" in the creation of an independent Palestinian state on the Israeli-occupied west bank, it is Hussein who for the moment is in the cat-bird seat. The doctored King's credentials are becoming clearer every day. As both he and his prime minister, Zaid Rifai, carefully explain, there is no such thing as one "Palestinian people" but at least four different "Palestinian peoples." Each has its own special interest and background.

There is, first, the east bank Palestine within Hussein's own kingdom of Jordan, some 800,000 strong including refugees from the west bank, a very large percentage of whom are now integrated into Jordan's economy. Next is the Palestine on the west bank of the Jordan River, numbering about 650,000, who have been under Israeli occupation since the 1967 war.

Still another "Palestinian people" are the 500,000 refugees now living squalid lives in the refugee camps of Syria and Lebanon on a bare subsistence of a few cents a day. Finally, there is the Palestine of Gaza, the small, fertile strip along the Mediterranean between Israel and the Egyptian Sinai peninsula.

One could also add the Palestine within Israel itself—450,000 Arabs who kept their homes and jobs after Israel's creation as a state 25 years ago and hold Israeli citizenship (but not real equality with Israeli Jews). It requires no mental gymnastics to perceive that Arafat's claim as "sole representative" of the Palestinian people is questionable. Indeed, that claim rests primarily with those Palestinians whose successive territorial acquisitions led them into Arafat's Palestinian Liberation Organization along with other more radical nationalist-terrorist outfits. As a ranking Western ambassador told us: "We've all been conned into thinking that the PLO really does represent the Palestinian people."

Here on the east bank of his kingdom, evidence is available to buttress Hussein's claim to represent more Palestinians than Arafat, even though Hussein himself is not Palestinian. One example: of the more than 50,000 Palestinian nationalists who fought Hussein when he drove the guerrillas out of Jordan in 1970 and 1971, far more than half are now living peacefully here with jobs and families.

Two of the 1970 anti-Hussein leaders, Ibrahim Bakr and Munif Razzas—both of them west bank refugees—have been pardoned. Amman is full of rehabilitated former enemies of the king and the Bedouin leaders of his army.

Moreover, Hussein's 1972 proposal to the west bank Palestinians, now under Israeli occupation, for a united Arab kingdom—a semi-autonomous west bank linked to Hussein's east bank—conforms with cen-

LOVE IN SEVERITY
No one could ever have accused the English philosopher Thomas Huxley, of being sentimental about religion. As a clever and outspoken skeptic he damaged the faith of many people in his generation. Yet Huxley declared on one occasion that he preferred the hard doctrines of the older theologians because these men "recognized the reality of things." Huxley had no use for a sentimental concept of God.

Some people do not believe in God as a father—they believe in Him as a grandfather. They are convinced that someday God will make everybody happy and provide eternal bliss for the universe.

But the Bible points out that the love of God included severity as well as tenderness. There are times when every earthly father must be severe, and there are times when the Heavenly Father in his dealings with his children must be severe also. But this severity is not vindictive; it means that God cares.

A Letter To 'Blue Eyes'

To Frank Sinatra
Wherever You Are—
Dear Blue Eyes,

I just wanted to tell you how shocked all of us here in American were when we heard the Australians had cut off your room service and refused to refuel your private airplane just because you called women reporters "1.50 hookers" and said male reporters were "parasites who never do an honest day's work in their life." I mean didn't they know who they were messing with?

As soon as the bulletin came out on the wire services, I called the White House and said, "What are you going to do about Frank?" and you know what the joker on the phone said? "Frank who?" That just shows you what shape the White House is in since all your pals left. I'll tell you one thing. If Spiro was still there, they wouldn't have asked "Frank who?"

So I told them, "Frank Sinatra, the Chairman of the Board, Ol' Blue Eyes himself. The Aussies are holding him hostage because he insulted the press and his people started beating up on reporters. What are you going to do about it?"

Well, you know what the bumpkin said? "That's an internal matter between Mr. Sinatra and the Australians."

That really got me sore and I said, "Do you know Frank gave more than $100,000 to Nixon's campaign? Doesn't he get a little service for that?"

So this flunky said, "What do you want us to do?"

"Nuke 'em!" I said.

"Nuke 'em?" he answered like he was shocked or something.

"Frank would want it that way," I told him.

"We can't drop a nuclear bomb on Australia just because Mr. Sinatra can't get room service," he tells me.

So I said, "Check it out with Kissinger before you say no. He owes Frank a favor."

I didn't get any satisfaction from the White House so I called the Australian embassy and got the ambassador on the line. I said unless the prime minister of his country personally apologized to you, Maxine Cheshire would throw a picket line around his embassy and cut off his water and gas. He got a little nervous about that, but he said Australia was a free country and he couldn't do anything about what unions over there decided to do to you. How do you like that, Frank? A free country and they won't even let you rough up a few newspapermen.

I told him he wasn't messing around with some pop singer. I said you were the greatest enchilada of them all. I said unless you got some satisfaction for the way you were treated, America was going to lay on a boycott of Kangaroo meat that would make the Aussies' heads spin.

I think I got the message through because he said he would get in touch with his government and report back to me.

I know you're wondering

A Siege Of No Blood

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The specter of bloodshed had hung over the federal courthouse throughout the five-day confrontation between police and two armed convicts. But restraint on both sides produced a siege of wits and endurance instead of bullets.

The government strategy during the 105-hour ordeal may offer a lesson in patience for police around the nation.

The potential for violence and death was present from the moment the armed convicts, Frank Gorham and Robert Nathan Jones, seized eight hostages and held them at gunpoint in the U.S. District Courthouse cellblock Thursday. They demanded freedom and a flight out of the country in exchange for safe release of the hostages.

The first night passed, the hostages survived unharmed, and the prisoners were talking by telephone with a team of law enforcement negotiators and with reporters.

"The main thrust of our strategy was to keep them talking and our main ally was the press," recalled Deputy Atty. Gen. Laurence Silberman, who became the ultimate decision-maker when the negotiators disagreed among themselves.

When reporters' calls to the cellblock slacked off, law enforcement officials posing as interested citizens made their own calls to keep Gorham and Jones awake and distracted. Silberman said in an interview.

As long as the prisoners held the hostages, there was little dispute about the strategy of waiting. "It was terribly important to us to do nothing to jeopardize the lives of the hostages or the inmates," Silberman said.

But the negotiators sensed there was room for bargaining with Gorham and Jones and played for time.

The government team included Chief U.S. Marshal George McKinney, his assistant James Palmer, deputy police chief Maurice Cullinane, Police Chief Jerry Wilson, Acting U.S. Atty. Earl Silbert, Norman Carlson, head of the Bureau of Prisons, and Donald Moore, special agent in charge of the Washington FBI office.

Silberman said it appeared violence would be unavoidable when Gorham said he had an axe and threatened that heads would roll.

But again, they waited and again, Gorham cooled down. The hostages escaped unharmed Sunday. With Gorham slumbering and Jones on the telephone, authorities smuggled in an elevator key and the hostages fled within minutes.

And still, authorities chose to wait instead of rushing the cellblock to subdue Gorham and Jones by force.

"The pressure was off and we were generally inclined to just wait them out," Silberman said.

The siege ended Monday night when Gorham and Jones surrendered after one last futile bid for freedom. Chopping their way through air conditioning ducts, they fled the cellblock and exchanged gunfire with police. No one was hit.

The 105 hours without injuries surprised some outside observers.

"All in all, I was really pleased to see the restraint. I couldn't believe it, especially in this town. The quick response is to go in and start shooting," said George J. Mische, executive

Bad Housing Mortgage Slump

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's housing and mortgage slump has grown into the worst on record, according to some bankers and builders.

Inflation and tight money have crippled banks' ability to provide mortgages. Building material costs have skyrocketed and supplies are tight.

Bankers in Boston and Seattle say they're out of money for mortgages and a contractor in Annapolis, Md., complained recently he couldn't find nails for carpentry work.

With most consumers now largely priced out of the housing mortgage markets, John M. Wetmore, director of Economics and research at the Mortgage Banks Association, said many banks now extend mortgage credit only to top executives of companies which do business at the bank.

"Sure it's discriminatory," he said, but added that there seems no other way to distribute what little money a bank has to lend in mortgages.

One such local VIP, who declined to be quoted by name, recently bought a $50,000-plus home in Glenwood, Ill., a Chicago suburb. He was a general manager of a local business, and had tried eight lending institutions before one finally gave him a 7.8 per cent mortgage.

"I got my mortgage through what you might call 'influence peddling.' The bank told me the mortgage market was tight and I told them I'd help them to a certain extent with a savings deposit. I used money and clout," he said.

It's an ugly picture for most other home shoppers.

The Commerce Department says home building declined 11.1 per cent in May from the previous month, and 38 per cent from a year ago. Building permits for the nation declined 43 per cent in May from a year ago, and reached the lowest level since April 1967. Last year, 2.06 million permits were issued, but this year, according to Michael Sumichrast, economist for the National Association of Home Builders, the figure will be more like 1.45 million.

Construction firms must pay anywhere from 2-5 per cent above the bank prime lending rate, which now stands at about 12 per cent at most banks. Smaller contractors often pay even more.

The higher interest rate translates into a bigger price tag on a new home. The cost of the average new home has jumped nearly $20,000 since 1970.

In an effort to relieve the situation, the Nixon administration last May committed up to $10.3 billion in credit to bolster the nation's sagging mortgage and home building markets. Some of that money, to be raised on the open markets rather than from the U.S. Treasury, will be channeled into the hard-pressed savings and loan associations that provide much of the nation's mortgage money. Much of the rest will be used to subsidize lower interest rates through existing Federal Housing Administration home mortgage insurance programs.

Bank mortgage loans are hard to get anywhere, and in some places virtually nonexistent. Through May, the nation's savings and loan associations granted $18.18 billion in loans to home buyers, down a whopping 20.4 per cent from the comparable period last year.

Interest rates on conventional mortgages for both new and previously occupied single family houses in June averaged 8.84 per cent, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The board said rates for new homes compared with 8.74 in May and 7.79 per cent in June 1973. For previously occupied houses, the earlier rates were 8.67 and 7.79 per cent.

But the range varies widely from state to state, depending on local usury laws designed to prevent lenders from charging excessive interest rates.

In eight states, Illinois, Ohio, New York, Missouri, Minnesota, Alabama, Vermont and West Virginia, the highest interest allowed by usury laws is 8-8½ per cent.

By contrast, Virginia sets no ceiling on interest rates. In Wyoming and Utah it is 18 per cent and in Rhode Island, 21 per cent.

Bankers argue that housing and mortgage activity is at its lowest in those states where usury laws are toughest. The laws designed to protect the consumer have rebounded against him, they say, and should be repealed.

"Banks have just stopped making new mortgages," said a spokesman for the Savings Bank Association of New York. From a peak of $4.9 billion in mortgage commitments in April 1973, the association says savings banks in New York had commitments of only $3.15 billion as of May 31, 1974.

What is plaguing the nation's savings banks and savings and loan associations is "disintermediation," a process where money that ordinarily would be invested in savings accounts is instead withdrawn in huge amounts, attracted by the much higher returns offered by Treasury notes, certificates of deposit, commercial paper and other debt vehicles in the open money markets.

That process, spurred by inflation and the Federal Reserve's tight money policies, has largely dried up the traditional sources of mortgage loans. In the last three months alone, New York State's savings banks suffered an outflow of some $740 million. The state's banks had net outflows in all but three of the last 13 months.

Tight money policies have sent the federal government scrambling with industry for the few dollars that can be raised in the nation's credit markets.

An Associated Press

survey of banks in a number of major cities showed few, if any, rolling out the welcome mat for mortgage shopper.

Shortages of building materials and skyrocketing material prices have dogged the industry and driven the price of the average home beyond reach of many. The median price of a new American home now is $41,000. Last year, it was $32,000, and in 1970, $23,400.

Material costs and shortages are named the number one problem for home builders in a recent survey by the National Association of Home Builders. The problem had never been mentioned before in 25 years of such surveys.

turies of political and economic life in the rich Jordan River valley. During 400 years of Turkish rule, the Jordan River was not a boundary but the natural agricultural center of a unified life on both its banks.

The west bank city of Nablus for example, was a provincial capital in the Turkish empire which included the east bank city of Salt under its administrative control. Today, despite 25 years of Israeli independence and 7 years of Israeli occupation of the entire west bank, there is virtually no east bank Palestinian family without relatives across the river on the west bank.

Accordingly, an "independent Palestinian state" on the west bank—the political objective of Arafat—appears historically dubious. There is, moreover, one additional and compelling fact that elevates Hussein: he, not Arafat, has the only claim to negotiate Israeli withdrawal from the west bank.

The main purpose of the Geneva conference is to implement United Nations Resolution 242, calling simply for return of territories seized by Israel in 1967, not final political settlement. Since the west bank was seized from Hussein, not Arafat, Hussein is the man to see in Geneva.

With his truncated east bank kingdom now in the midst of an economic boom and his relations with both Syrian president Hafez Assad and Egyptian president Anwar Sadat turning from sour to sweet, Hussein is preparing for the critical territorial struggle with Israel, ready to convert possible success into a glittering asset for use in deciding the eventual political disposition of the west bank. But that is the subject for a future column.

Natural gas is being used up faster than new reserves are being found.

why I'm doing all this for you. The truth is I'm not only doing it for you but for every American entertainer in the world.

Unless we stand up for your rights, the United States is going to be treated like a pitiful helpless giant. Look what they did to Sammy Davis in Monaco. If we had nuked 'em after Sammy wasn't invited to a cocktail party at the palace, you wouldn't have had all that trouble in Australia. We've got to draw the line somewhere, and you're as good a case as any.

Sure, you worked things out in Australia for the moment. But I wanted you to know how we feel about you here in Washington. Whatever you do abroad is okay with us because you did it your way!

Have a nice day,

Plane Crash Killed Pilot

BURNSVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A single engine plane crashed between Mt. Mitchell and Mt. Craig Tuesday as the pilot, the plane's only occupant, apparently sought to reverse his course to get out of a growing mountain overcast.

The pilot was killed. His identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin. A Civil Air Patrol spokesman in Burnsville said the plane, a Cessna 182 Skylane, had no flight plan but had stopped at the Tri-Cities airport in Tennessee to refuel.

A couple of hikers bound between Mt. Mitchell, the state's highest peak at 6,684 feet, and Mt. Craig, reported the crash to the CAP in Burnsville.

The CAP spokesman said the hikers related that they saw the plane briefly and it turned as though to reverse course to get out of the mountain overcast. They said they heard it crash about 3 p.m. They returned to Mt. Mitchell to give the report by telephone.

A CAP plane from Burnsville spotted the wreckage about 4:30 p.m. Sheriff's officers and rescue workers went to the crash scene and brought out the body.

Private Colleges Hire A Lobbyist

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina private colleges and universities are currently given $200 from the state for every in-state student they enroll. The association's request would boost this to about $1,100 per in-state student.

West will replace Virgil McBride who recently resigned as association director to join the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. as a corporate official and legislative lobbyist. The association presented its proposal to William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina, in a letter dated May 30. Friday said Tuesday he would not comment on the proposal until after meeting with association representatives later this week.

William Dees of Goldsboro, chairman of the UNC Board of Governors, criticized the proposal, saying it goes "too far." He said he opposed the funding level but not the principle of state aid to private schools.

Dr. Cameron West, former head of the now defunct North Carolina Board of Higher Education, will return to North Carolina to become director of the state Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, sources within the association confirmed Tuesday.

West, one of the architects of the state's restructured university system, is now director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education. His appointment is expected to be announced on July 29, although he is not planning to start his new job until Oct. 1.

Sinatra Will Meet Terms

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Frank Sinatra leaves Australia today after a final concert beset by trade union problems right up until a few hours before it began.

Sinatra, who missed a concert in Melbourne last week threatened to call off his Australian tour—his first in this country in 13 years—after a clash with the Australian press.

Sinatra agreed to a nationwide telecast free of charge to make up for the missed Melbourne concert but the unions would not agree unless conditions were met.

The musicians said they must be paid for the missed concert and extra for the telecast and the telecast had to be prefaced by a statement that it was made possible by the unions concerned.

Sinatra agreed to the conditions after three hours of talks.

Flatlander Is Often Shaken

By JOHN J. SANKO
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The view from atop 14,110-foot Pikes Peak is spectacular, but the flatland tourist accustomed to the straight and narrow road sometimes bails out before he ever gets to the summit.

Motorists who want to reach the top have to travel a winding, gravel road called the Pikes Peak Highway, a stretch of road which starts at an elevation of 7,391 feet in Cascade. Sometimes a squeamish motorist will look over the side and decide he wishes he were elsewhere.

Dewitt (Deke) Miller, supervisor of public works for Colorado Springs, which operates the road, says a special highway police force is on hand for those people who have troubles.

"Really, the road is quite good and most people make it to the top and back without difficulty," Miller said. "but some motorists from the level country start looking at the steep dropoffs and then do get a little afraid. They have to be assured there is no problem." Miller said patrolmen who keep an eye on the road usually have an easy time spotting the driver who is having problems. "They (drivers) usually just pick out a good spot and pull over to the side until the patrolman comes by," Miller said.

"In some cases, we drive them down just to relieve their minds. And sometimes we've even driven them clear to the top and back down again."

Miller said normally a motorist who worries about the road just turns around before he gets too far and heads back to flatter country.

"But that's a very small percentage actually," he said. "Usually after our officers talk to them a few minutes, everything is all right."

Miller said there have been few accidents on the road, which is described as one of the most expensive 20 miles of highway in the world. To pay for the costs, the city charges $2 for each adult who travels to the top and 50 cents for each child.

AN ACCREDITED MANAGEMENT ORGANIZATION

Gathering Of Balloonists Is Fare For Spectators

By GREGORY JENSEN
CIRENCESTER, England (UPI) — Sailing over Gloucestershire's green treetops the other weekend went a parade like none Europe had ever seen. The sky was full of ships. Everywhere you looked there were balloons, wafted in a steady stream from the biggest international balloon meeting ever held in Europe. There were more than 80 of them—spectacular, brightly colored "yachts of the sky" from a dozen countries. For two days they flew for charity from Cirencester Park, providing solid proof that ballooning is booming. Three years ago Britain had nine hot air balloons. Now it has 78, and more than 50 of them were here. Several balloons came from the United States, where hot air balloon numbers have trebled since 1970 to more than 350. France sent the biggest overseas contingent to this event, led by Charles Dollfus, 83, who has flown balloons since 1911. There were balloons from Austria, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Spain. There was a lady balloonist from Afghanistan, and an Italian pilot aged 79. They flew twice a day as the main feature of a vast charity fair. Forty thousand people came to watch, towing Afghan hounds and woolly English sheepdogs and squadrons of excited children. Between balloon flights, precision parachutists dropped onto the polo field. There were marching majorettes and model airplane acrobatics and glider displays and a portable pub. But the big thing was balloons. Two types of balloon were flying, both of them known for nearly 200 years. But the contrast between them showed why one is so much more popular today. On one tree-ringed field 10 gas balloons slowly gorged themselves on $500 worth of lighter-than-air hydrogen gas. After an hour's hard work by an eight-man crew they sailed silently into the west. On another field, littered with heaps of tangled nylon, Don Piccard of the famous exploring family gestured at his green-and-white hot air balloon collapsed on the grass.

"You buy a rig like this for about $5,000," said Piccard, who makes them, "although there are some kids here who have made their own. You get a couple of cylinders of propane gas for about $15, and in about 20 minutes you're up, up and away, as they say." Moments later the whole field came alive. Propane burners hissed like a jet plane with a leak. Slowly the nylon heaps mushroomed, 15 or 20 at a time, swelling to show off their brilliant colors and vivid patterns and rising to hang limply in the still evening air. Pilots and passengers scrambled into wicker baskets planted firmly below the swelling spheres. There were final spurts of flame six feet high, and silently, magically, the great balloons rose. "Tigerjack," all black and orange stripes, trailed a long tiger's tail as it cleared the trees. A Scottish balloon got a bagpipe sendoff. Geoff Payne inflated "Shoestring," the bright orange balloon which took him two years work in his living room, and joined two dozen others in the same patch of sky. British balloons in this meet competed for qualifying points for February's world championship, probably a 120-balloon affair, in Albuquerque, N.M. But the over-all winner was French, Robert Noirclerk of Paris in his 56,000 cubic foot. "Capitaine Mathieu."

Two Likely Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence analysts believe India and Argentina are prime candidates to develop nuclear weapons. Recent intelligence reports suggest the United States is watching both countries for signs of atomic weapon preparation.

Some senior U.S. military officers scoff at India's disclaimer of any intentions to produce nuclear weapons. India exploded its first nuclear device two months ago, saying it was designed for peaceful purposes such as earth-moving.

One intelligence report said more than 30 Indian officers at their country's National Defense College have urged that India develop nuclear weapons, arguing that national security requires it. The report also described senior Indian military officers in agreement.

In this hemisphere, U.S. intelligence analysts said Argentina soon will be in position to develop nuclear weapons.

They noted that Argentina's first nuclear-power reactor, built by a German firm, has gone into operation and that a second, bigger plant is under way.

Both plants could be adapted easily to produce plutonium, a key element of nuclear weapons, intelligence sources said. Argentina also has substantial uranium reserves to sustain production of plutonium, they added.

Neither India nor Argentina has signed the Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty, designed to curb the spread of nuclear weapons.

Guam Becoming Tourist Center

BOSTON (UPI) — Guam, often remembered for its role in World War II, is fast becoming an island paradise for U.S. tourists in search of an affordable playground.

"Since Guam is a territory of the U.S.A., shrinking dollars will go further there than in other glamorous foreign locales," says Jackson W. Gross, president of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co.

The wave of tourism has boosted visitors from only 198 in 1963 to 105,000 in 1972. The demand for hotels and condominiums is booming, and land prices in some areas have climbed from $5 to more than $40 a square meter in less than two years, gross said.

Deficiencies In Macrobiotics

EVANSTON, ILL. (UPI) — Infants fed on a Zen macrobiotic diet run "a real risk" of protein-calorie deficiency, researchers reported in Pediatrics, the journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Researchers from the University of Michigan reported two cases of underweight infants admitted to a hospital after being fed a diet that included Kokoh, a macrobiotic food.

They said the children's diets did not meet dietary standards set by the National Academy of Sciences.

The land known today as Scotland was called Caledonia by the ancient Romans, and Ireland, where the Scots originated, was known as Scotia.

Westmoreland Suffers Crushing Vote Defeat

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Former Army Chief of Staff William C. Westmoreland's bid for the Republican gubernatorial nomination has ended in a crushing defeat for the retired four-star general.

Dr. James B. Edwards, a Charleston dentist serving his first term as a state senator, was a runaway winner for the GOP nomination in Tuesday's primary election.

The Democratic nomination will be decided in a July 30 runoff between Charles "Pug" Ravenel, a 37-year-old investment banker from Charleston, and Rep. W.J. Bryan Dorn, the two top finishers in a seven-man Democratic race.

Democratic Gov. John C. West was limited by law to one four-year term. Edwards, 47, swept easily by the 60-year-old Westmoreland, former commander of American forces in Vietnam, by rolling up a 9-1 margin in his home county and running close behind Westmoreland in other areas of this traditionally Democratic state.

Political observers said neither the Vietnam War nor the Watergate scandals affected the outcome of the first statewide Republican primary in South Carolina history.

They attributed the results to a small GOP turnout and the fact that many long-time Republicans, especially in Charleston County, voted for Edwards, who has worked for his party during the past 10 years. Westmoreland had returned to his native South Carolina only two years ago.

In previous years, the GOP had nominated its gubernatorial candidate in convention. A surprise loser in the Democratic primary was Lt. Gov. Earle E. Morris.

In the Republican gubernatorial primary, with 1,316 of 1,640 precincts reporting, the vote was Edwards 19,468 and Westmoreland 13,885.

In the Democratic gubernatorial race, with 1,281 of 1,640 precincts in, the vote was Ravenel 74,163; Dorn 73,212; Morris 55,832. Four other candidates trailed badly.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings was unopposed in the Democratic primary and will face Charleston housewife Gwensyfred Bush in the general election. She also was unopposed in the primary.

Heaviest damage resulted from a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Fourth and Pitt Streets about 9:40 a.m.

Police identified the drivers of the vehicles involved as Alice Katherine Buffaloe of Rocky Mount, Mary Little Fleming of 1304 Colonial Ave., and Frank Murphy Jr. of Route 1, Greenville.

Investigators, who reported Miss Buffaloe and Mrs. Fleming were injured in the collision, estimated damage at $450 to the Buffaloe car, $1,000 to the Fleming auto and $100 to the Murphy truck.

Miss Buffaloe was charged with failing to yield right of way.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes July 8 through July 10. The Senate returned from its holiday recess on July 8, the House a day later.

HOUSE
NUCLEAR ACCIDENT INSURANCE Rejected, 138 for and 267 against, an amendment to set a 1978 expiration date for a law relating to accident insurance at nuclear power plants.

The U.S. Treasury now is liable for compensating victims of nuclear accidents. The amendment was offered to a bill (H.R. 15323) to gradually shift insurance responsibility to nuclear utilities, with the transfer to be completed by 1987.

The effect of setting the 1978 date—before the transfer is completed in 1987—would have been to force more congressional oversight of safety procedures at nuclear power plants.

After rejecting the amendment, and thus keeping the 1987 completion date, the House passed the overall bill and sent it to the Senate.

Supporters argued that all the facts on reactor safety are not yet known, and that Congress should not, therefore, lock the nation into insurance procedures.

Opponents argued that the amendment was an attempt to block construction of nuclear power plants. They said Congress must act now to assure an orderly transfer of the insurance burden.

Rep. Wilmer Mizell (R-5) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L.H. Fountain (D-2) David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10), and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

SENATE
AMATEUR ATHLETICS Passed, 47 for and 44 against, an amendment to deny federal subsidies for amateur athletics, such as the Olympics.

The amendment was attached to a bill (S. 3500) to create a five-member federal sports board to arbitrate disputes between the feuding National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

The bill now goes to the House. The amendment struck a title of the bill authorizing $25 million seed money to establish a National Sports Foundation. Most of the money probably would have subsidized Olympic-bound athletes.

Supporters of the fund cut argued that athletics should be privately financed. Sen. Dewey Bartlett (R-Okla.) said, "The federal government at this time cannot afford the luxury of financing sports... $25 million is not exactly peanuts."

In opposing the amendment, Sen. Strom Thurmond (R-S.C.) said, "This is a one-shot proposition to get this amateur sports program going." Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) said, "I am sick and tired of seeing America beaten" in foreign athletic competition.

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea." ATOMIC AID Rejected, 46 for and 49 against, an amendment to make it easier for Congress to veto the sales of nuclear reactors to foreign nations, such as sales recently announced to Egypt and Israel.

The amendment was offered to S.3698. The amendment would have given either house the power to block such agreements.

In rejecting the amendment, the Senate voted to keep the bill's original language, which permits the blocking of such agreements, but only if both houses vote against. The bill now goes to the House.

Supporters argued that the amendment would restore Congress' role in conducting foreign policy. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said, "What we are dealing with is no less than the potential power to blow the entire nations off the map."

Opponents argued that the amendment would be too restrictive and on the President's foreign policy powers. Sen. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.) said, "If we go further, we are going to infringe directly on the President." Other opponents said the U.S. must remain a leader in exporting reactors or nations with less stringent safeguards—such as France—will take over.

Ervin and Helms voted "yea." HOSPITAL UNIONS Passed, 64 for and 29 against, the conference report on the bill to permit employees of non-profit hospitals to form unions.

Under the Wagner Act of 1935, such employees were permitted to unionize, but that right was taken away by the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947. The report (S. 3203), if passed by the House and signed by the President, would again allow hospital employees to form unions.

The measure contains safeguards to delay strikes that would interrupt patient care.

Supporters argued that hospital employees deserve the right to form unions.

Opponents argued that the measure does not contain enough safeguards against strikes, and fails to protect those persons whose religions forbid them from joining unions. Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

Bored, So They Fake Suicides

LONDON (AP) — Bored teen-age girls are faking suicide attempts in an effort to dodge staying at school until they are 16, says a British doctor. "These gestures could lead to a real tragedy," he warned.

Said Dr. Richard Baines, a member of the local council at Walsall, Staffordshire, "In the last six weeks I have been called to three 15-year-old girls who have made suicidal gestures. They're absolutely fed up with not being allowed to leave school until the end of the summer term."

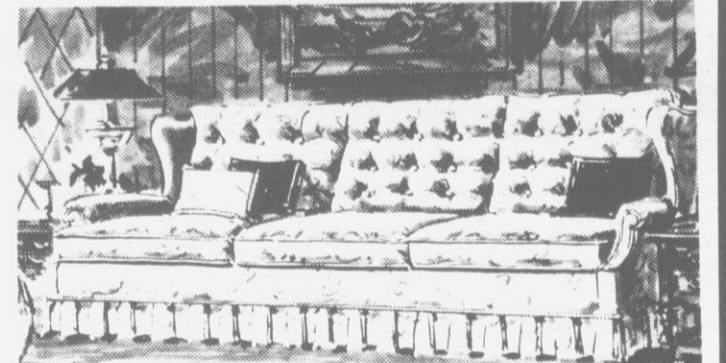

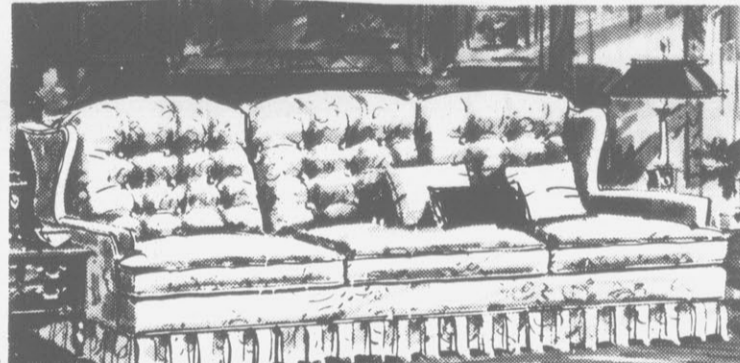

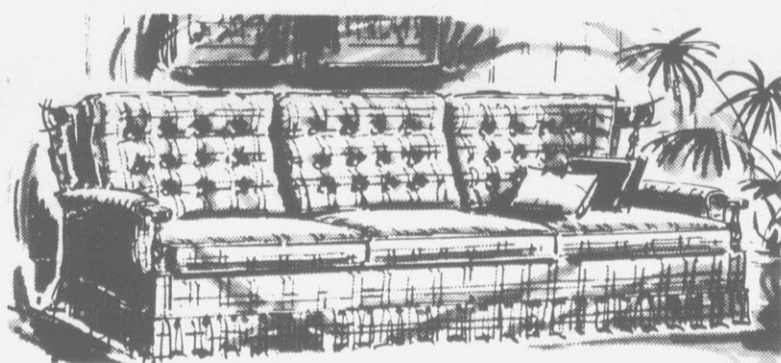

Two of the three girls had taken overdoses of aspirin, Dr. Baines said, and needed hospitalization.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were stronger. Supplies barely adequate to short, demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 55.57, medium whites 50.85, small whites 39.82.

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices drifted downward in a drab and listless session in the stock market today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.46 at 771.51, and losers led gainers by 8-to-5 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the quick collapse of the strong advance begun last Friday had left many investors disappointed and cautious.

The Dow vaulted more than 27 points last Friday, spurred by the Federal Reserve's report of the narrowest rise in business loan demand in five weeks and the smallest advance in the government's wholesale price index in nine months.

But on Monday the market turned mixed, and then retreated broadly Tuesday.

"It was good news, but not the kind of conclusive information that the market could base an extended rally on," said Marnow "Buck" Kisor at Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

U.S. Steel led the NYSE's most-active list, down 1/4 at 45. The Big Board's composite index was down .25 at 43.01 at 11 a.m.

Raybestos-Mannhattan, up 1/4 at 16 3/4, and Stone Container, ahead 3/4 at 11 1/4, strengthened on bright second quarter earnings reports.

High Voltage Engineering, which came in with sharply lower second-quarter profits, lost 1/2 to 5 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, Hotel Investors was the volume leader, down 1/8 at 7 1/2. The Amex' 11 a.m. market value index was up .28 at 77.25.

Archie Bunker Missed Taping

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "All in the Family" taped its first show of the fall season without its star, Archie Bunker.

Carroll O'Connor, who plays Bunker in the popular series, is in a contract dispute with Tandem Productions, owners of the show, and was not at the taping on Tuesday night.

The CBS show, entitled "Where's Archie?" centered on Jean Stapleton, Rob Reiner and Sally Struthers.

O'Connor filed suit in June against Tandem, asking the Los Angeles Superior Court to declare whether he has a valid contract. He also seeks $64,017 he claims is owed him in back salary.

Tandem also filed suit against O'Connor and obtained a temporary restraining order which prevents him from working anywhere else.

Charged In Fire Deaths

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — A young man accused of setting a discotheque fire that took 24 lives has been charged with murder.

Westchester County Dist. Atty. Carl A. Vergari on Tuesday filed a murder charge against Peter J. Leonard, 22, Greenwich, Conn., as the first step in having him brought here from a Bridgeport, Conn. jail.

Leonard is being held on arson and burglary charges stemming from the June 30 blaze at Gulliver's discotheque in Port Chester, N.Y. Connecticut State's Attorney Donald A. Brown said the charges would be dropped when Vergari issues arrest warrants for Leonard.

When Leonard was arrested police said he broke into a bowling alley adjacent to the discotheque, then set a fire in a nursery area to disguise the break-in.

New Radar For N.C. Speeders

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Highway Patrol plans to slow down motorists who are ignoring the 55-mile per hour speed limit with 50 new radar devices.

Col. E. W. Jones said Monday the devices are so effective they can instantly clock the speed of an approaching car as far as 2,500 feet away, even if the patrol car is going 80 miles per hour.

The operator simply aims the device at the approaching car and he gets a reading immediately.

Jones cited an increase in speeding violations in North Carolina in the past two or three months.

"Motorists generally are not complying with the 55-mile per hour speed limit," he said. "They have started speeding up again, and the volume of traffic is about back to normal."

Jones said he will concentrate officers and radar-equipped cars on certain highways in the state in the coming weeks in an effort to bring motorists more in compliance with the speed law.

"Some motorists may find themselves getting two speeding tickets in one day if they aren't careful," he said. "We intend to make this an effective program."

The new units will be issued July 25 at a training session scheduled in Raleigh, he said.

"We've already practiced with it and evaluated it. The unit has a lot of versatility," he said. "I looked at it in Kansas City last summer. It is an accepted scientific device and is being used in several states, including Virginia, Michigan and Louisiana."

Begin Move To New Facilities

Employees of the North Carolina Department of Human Resources have begun moving into their new Eastern Regional headquarters on St. Andrews Street here. The move is expected to be completed by Friday.

About 75 employees of various Human Resources Department divisions from throughout Eastern North Carolina are involved in the move.

The Greenville office, one of three new regional branches in the state, will serve about 38 counties.

The new facility in Greenville will house offices of the Manpower, Social Services, Mental Health and Rehabilitation divisions.

Hall-Of-Famer Dean Succumbs At 63

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Dizzy Dean, an Arkansas farm boy who pitched his way into baseball's Hall of Fame with a blazing fastball, winning the admiration of millions with a down-home twang and zest for life that sometimes made managers pale, died early today. He was 63.

Dean, who with his brother Paul formed a feared pitching duo for the "Gashouse Gang" St. Louis Cardinals in the 1930s, died at St. Mary's Hospital, two days after suffering a severe heart attack.

Dean died at 1:35 a.m. of heart failure after his condition had taken a turn for the worse Tuesday afternoon, said Ed Spoon, a hospital spokesman.

Spoon said Dean's wife, Patricia; his brother, Paul "Duffy" Dean of Springdale, Ark., and Paul's two children were at the bedside when the former pitcher died. Dizzy Dean and his wife had no children. He was hospitalized here Sunday night with chest pains and suffered a severe heart attack early Monday.

Dean first began complaining about chest pains last Thursday in nearby South Lake Tahoe, Calif. where he was hospitalized for three days. He was visiting a friend there and had competed in a golf tournament.

The funeral and burial will be held in Wiggins, Miss., where Dean lived, said Spoon.

Dizzy Dean, a former migratory cotton picker who claimed he only went through the second grade, was one of baseball's great pitchers. But he might have reached much greater heights if an injury had not destroyed his effectiveness at age 27, when he should have only begun to reach his peak.

He was perhaps baseball's most eccentric character since the days of Rube Waddell, early in the 20th century.

J. Hanna "Dizzy" Dean

Waddell sometimes called in all the outfielders in exhibitions, then struck out the side. Dizzy preferred to fill the bases, then fan the side. He also was known to break curfew and other rules on occasion.

He was a big right-hander who had a blazing fast ball and bragged about it. He used to tell the hitters when the fast ball was coming, then fire it past them. He struck out 17 batters in one game—then a record—and led the National League in strikeouts four straight years.

He won 30 games and lost only seven in pitching the St. Louis Cardinals to the National League championship and World Series title against Detroit in 1934. No National League pitcher has reached the 30-game victory plateau since. His brother Paul, constantly referred to by Dizzy as "me 'n Paul," won 19. Dizzy won two World Series games; Paul won the other two.

In one of baseball's amazing feats, Dizzy pitched nine times in 19 days during the Cardinals' 1934 pennant drive and continuing into the World Series. He was voted the National League's Most Valuable Player that year.

Dizzy's career was cut short when he was hit on the toe by a line drive from the bat of Earl Averill in the 1937 All-Star Game. The injury changed his pitching motion, which subsequently hurt his arm and forced him to depend on curves instead of the fast ball.

That proved to be Dizzy's downfall as a pitcher. From a 30-7 record in 1934, 28-12 in 1935 and 24-13 in 1936, Dean slipped to 13-10 in 1937. Sold to the Chicago Cubs for $185,000 and three players in 1938, he helped the Cubs to the 1938 pennant with a 7-1 record and started one game in the World Series against the New York Yankees.

His career actually ended after a 3-3 record with the Cubs in 1940, except for one game in 1947 with the old St. Louis Browns when he had become a baseball radio announcer. He said he had become a sports "commutator."

In his brief career, Dean won 150 games in the major leagues, including 27 shutouts, and lost 83. He was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1953.

Stories about Dizzy Dean became baseball legend; in the retelling the exact quotes attributed to him often changed.

The champs took the lead for good with another three-spot in the third. They added single runs in the fourth and fifth, and four in the sixth, including three doubles by Barnhill, Pfiel, and Anthony.

Belton Rallies For Tourney Title

Belton captured the Ladies' Softball League Championship by winning the second game of a championship doubleheader at Guy Smith Stadium. They lost the first game of the twinbill to Little Mint, 11-3, but rallied to take the nightcap, 12-4.

Belton scored all their runs in the first game in the first inning as Taylor doubled home two runs, and scored herself on a single and an error. Little Mint took the lead for good by scoring five in the fifth inning, and adding six in the sixth.

Little Mint fell behind in the second game in the first inning, as Belton started off again with three runs, as a pair of doubles by Jones and Pfiel brought in three. Little Mint tied the game in the second as D. Briley tripled home two runs and scored on a single by Hardee.

The champs took the lead for good with another three-spot in the third. They added single runs in the fourth and fifth, and four in the sixth, including three doubles by Barnhill, Pfiel, and Anthony.

Large Crowds Expected For More WFL Games

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The World Football League, which raised more than a few eyebrows with an impressive first round of games last week, will be out to prove that was no fluke when play resumes tonight with five games spread from coast to coast.

Last week's six WFL openers drew nearly a quarter of a million people, averaging over 40,000 per game. The fledgling loop doesn't expect the numbers to be quite as high this time around, partly because a couple of smaller stadiums are being used tonight.

But near-capacity crowds are anticipated at New York, Detroit and Anaheim, which will be getting their first live look at the WFL.

Tonight's schedule lists the Philadelphia Bell at the Houston Texans, the Birmingham Americans at the New York Stars, the Florida Blazers at the Detroit Wheels, the Jacksonville Sharks at the Chicago Fire and the Hawaiians at the Southern California Sun.

In Thursday night's nationally televised game, the Portland Storm will meet the Southmen at Memphis.

There will be acrobats, a rock music group and nickel beer at the Astrodome, where the Houston Texans will be making their home debut. The Texans declined to predict an attendance figures, but the best guess is it will be around 20,000, less than half the Astrodome's capacity.

Philadelphia, an impressive 33-8 winner over Portland last week, boasts a solid attack built around the passing of Jim "King" Corcoran, who completed 21 of 38 for 227 yards last week. Houston, meanwhile, was a disappointing 17-0 loser to Chicago in its opener.

The New York Stars say they expect close to a capacity crowd at 32,000-seat Downing Stadium on Randalls Island, which they have spent $600,000 in refurbishing.

Birmingham beat Southern California 11-7 in its opener and has a number of familiar names, including quarterback George Mira and running backs Charley Harroway and Paul Robinson. New York's defense, led by veterans John Elliott and Gerry Philbin, looked imposing in the Stars' opener, a 14-7 loss to Jacksonville.

A near-sellout crowd of about 20,000 is anticipated for Detroit's home opener at Eastern Michigan University.

Detroit was beaten 34-15 by Memphis last week.

Virgil Carter, who hit on 21 of 34 passes for 184 yards and two touchdowns last week, leads the Chicago Fire against Jacksonville, quarterbacked by Kay Stephenson.

A crowd of about 30,060 is expected at Soldier Field.

Southern California and the Hawaiians are both looking for their first victory before an expected near-capacity crowd of 40,000 at Anaheim Stadium.

Southern California's offense features the passing combination of Tony Adams and Dave Williams and the running of former UCLA stars Kermit Johnson and James McAlister.

Coach Mike Giddings' Hawaiians are quarterbacked by former Mississippi star Norris Weese. Derek Williams gained 94 yards last week and is their top running threat.

Berra, Makes Pitcher Picks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Los Angeles Dodger right-handers Andy Messersmith, 10-2, and reliever Mike Marshall, 11-4, were among eight National League pitchers named today by Manager Yogi Berra for next Tuesday's All-Star baseball game at Pittsburgh.

Only Messersmith and Philadelphia left-hander Steve Carlton, 11-7, have been on previous All-Star squads. Messersmith was on the 1971 American League team but did not pitch. Carlton pitched in the 1968, 1969 and 1972 games and got credit for a 9-3 victory in 1969.

Other selections by Berra, the New York Met manager, were left-handers Ken Brett of Pittsburgh, 11-6, and Jon Matlack of New York, 8-6, and right-handers Buzz Capra of Atlanta, 9-4, Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis, 12-5, and Steve Rogers of Montreal, 10-10.

Marshall, at 31 the oldest of the NL All-Star pitching choices, has appeared in 61 games and set a major league record by pitching in 13 straight from June 18 to July 3. The former Montreal reliever has 13 saves and an earned-run average of 2.39 for 113 innings.

Messersmith, 28, and Carlton, 29, are among the league leaders in strikeouts. Messersmith's ERA is 1.96 and Carlton's 3.11.

Capra, 26, who moved into the Braves' starting rotation in May and won the NL Player of the Month award for June, has the league's best ERA—1.86. Brett, also 26, has a 2.76 ERA and is one of the best hitting pitchers in baseball.

McGlothen, Matlack and Rogers are all 24 and give the NL pitching staff a youthful average age of 26½. Matlack, a hard thrower who came into his own last year in the playoff with Cincinnati and the World Series against Oakland, was the best ERA of the three, 2.59.

Cincinnati Plucks Cards, 12-7

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers hold a commanding lead in the National League West pennant race—but the Cincinnati Reds hold the psychological advantage. That's Sparky Anderson's opinion, anyway.

"I'll be honest, I don't think they'll ever stop thinking of us," Anderson said Tuesday night after his Reds beat the St. Louis Cardinals 12-7. "They want us so far back of them, it's pitiful."

Right now, the Reds are 6½ games behind the Dodgers because Los Angeles lost an 8-7 decision to the Montreal Expos Tuesday night. Anderson remembers when his team was 10½ games behind not too long ago.

"If we start scoring runs, like I've said, we've got a shot at it," Anderson said. "We had one streak not too long ago when we hit .210 for 28 games."

The Dodgers' latest loss was their fourth in five games and their lead is now their smallest since June 29.

In the other National League games, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Houston Astros 6-2; the Chicago Cubs tripped the Atlanta Braves 7-2; the San Diego Padres turned back the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 and the San Francisco Giants routed the New York Mets 9-4.

Expos 8, Dodgers 7
Willie Davis' fifth hit tied the game in the ninth inning and Ken Singleton produced the game-winner with a sacrifice fly, giving Montreal a wild victory over Los Angeles.

Davis singled home pinch runner Boots Day and sent Larry Lintz to third base. Singleton then drove a sacrifice fly off reliever Charlie Hough for the game-winner.

Pirates 6, Astros 2
Jim Rooker scattered eight hits and Ed Kirkpatrick drove in a pair of runs with a bases-loaded single to key Pittsburgh's victory over Houston.

Kirkpatrick's two-run single off loser Larry Dierker, 6-5, came in the third inning when Pittsburgh scored four runs to erase a 2-1 deficit.

Cubs 7, Braves 2
Billy Williams lashed a double and two singles and off loser Larry Dierker, 6-5, beating Atlanta for the eighth time in 11 games this season, knocked out starter Roric Harrison, 6-11, with four runs on six hits in the first two innings.

Padres 5, Phillies 4
Bobby Tolan's run-scoring single capped a wild ninth-inning rally that featured three straight homers and gave San Diego its victory over Philadelphia.

Giants 9, Mets 4
Two-run triples by Chris Arnold and Garry Maddox highlighted a six-run, fifth-inning explosion that powered San Francisco over New York.

WORKING ON THE TRIPLE OPTION—These boys are part of a group of 71 boys between nine and 18 who are attending the East Carolina Football camp this week. The ECU football coaching staff is conducting the camp giving instruction in football basics as well

Confrontation Set For NFLPA And Club Owners

By The Associated Press

The battle lines have been drawn. The date is July 27, the site Canton, Ohio.

That is when the annual Hall of Fame Game will be played between the St. Louis Cardinals and Buffalo Bills, and that is when a major confrontation will take place between the striking National Football League Players Association and the club owners.

Meanwhile, there were indications Tuesday from both sides that negotiations might be resumed later this week, and the first major rift in the striking NFLPA's facade appeared at the camp of the Cincinnati Bengals.

The NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the 26 club owners, reaffirmed Tuesday that all exhibition games will be played—even if that means lineups composed of rookies, free agents and the handful of veterans who have crossed picket lines.

And the first of those exhibition games in the Hall of Fame contest at Canton.

The NFLPA has said that it would take steps to see that the exhibition games are not played until a settlement in the dispute is reached. That presumably means a picket line of veterans.

The Canton game is the only one still scheduled for the opening week of exhibition play, since the July 26 College All-Star Game has already been scratched.

St. Louis Coach Don Coryell said he would double up on drills to get his players ready for the exhibition game.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for federal mediator James Scarce and the two sides indicated that they might soon return to the bargaining table, perhaps before the weekend.

"Both sides now are ready to sit down and discuss the issues," Bill Curry, president of the NFLPA, said. "I think we would be foolish if we couldn't sit down and work out an agreement."

The NFLMC said Tuesday that at least 77 veterans were in camp in defiance of the picket lines. By comparison, only 21 veterans were in camp on the final day of the 1970 NFLPA strike, according to the management group. Many of the veterans in camp, however, are marginal players whose status is far from certain.

Veteran linebacker Jim LeClair and wide receiver Tim George reported to the Bengals camp Tuesday.

Player representative Pat Matson, in Cincinnati, said he was "very disheartened and very discouraged" with his fellow teammates, and he added, "A number of other players—I won't say who—said they were going to report."

At least four veterans of the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins were expected to cross the picket line and report to training camp as scheduled today. Although Coach Don Shula said he had no idea how many players would show up, reserve quarterback Earl Morrall, tight end Jim Mandich, center Jim Langer and linebacker Bob Matheson all previously indicated they would come to camp on time.

In another development Tuesday, Philadelphia veterans attempted to hold practices at Veterans Stadium, their home playing field, but the NFLMC told the Eagles to close the park to the players until the strike is settled.

That edict angered Philadelphia owner Leonard Tose, who said, "It seems to me that in effect our players defied the union, and we should welcome this defiance."

Tom Dempsey, Eagles player representative, said the veterans would try to find another place to practice.

The Los Angeles Rams open their camp to rookies today, with veterans scheduled to report Sunday. One star who won't be there is All-Pro quarterback John Hadl.

A group of 71 rookies and free agents are expected at the Rams camp today, including Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti.

Pittsburgh Steeler punter Bobby Walden, an 11-year veteran, arrived in camp Tuesday. Steeler veterans were supposed to be in camp by noon today, but there was no indication whether any would join Walden.

Grace Knocks BJ Out Of Tie

While Oakmont was pulling into a tie for first place in the American Division of the Church league, Grace was pulling out of one with Black Jack in the National, last night.

At Evans field one, Black Jack suffered a 6-2 loss and fell a game back of Grace. Oakmont, who has had some trouble lately, bumped Presbyterian, 9-3, to even things up with St. Gabriel's which beat St. James, 4-3.

In other games Memorial beat Trinity, 13-2, First FWB struggled past Arlington St., 17-16, and Immanuel remained alive with a 10-4 win over People's.

Oakmont did not get started until the sixth after Presbyterian had gone on top 1-0 in the fourth. Oakmont got five in the sixth to Presbyterian's two and four more Oakmont runs in the seventh rounded out the scoring.

St. Gabriel's got their first score on a homer by Ward in the fourth and added two in the fifth. St. James rallied to tie the game with three in the sixth but St. Gabriel's pushed over the winner in the bottom of the last frame to win it.

Trinity was shut out until the last inning when they got both one with Black Jack in the fifth after taking a 2-0 lead in the fourth. They rallied for five in the fifth and got six more in the sixth.

At field one, Grace took a 2-0 advantage in the first but Black Jack tied it 2-2 in the third.

Grace shut out Black Jack from there on out and got two in the fifth and a pair in the sixth to move back into first place.

In the slugfest between the two last place teams in the National division, First FWB struggled to a 17-16 win. The game lasted longer than the usual hour but had not gone six full innings. Arlington battled into a 16-16 tie in the fifth and a FWB run in the top of the sixth won the game. Both teams banded out a total of 41 hits.

Immanuel had a shut out until the last inning when People's got all their runs. Immanuel got enough in the third pushing over five and they added four in the fourth and one in the seventh.

Baseball Is Still The Only Game For 'Say Hey' Willie

By KAROL STONGER
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, the most recognized name in baseball, has always said "the game is my life."
Maybe that's why "A New Ball Game for Willie Mays," a one-hour special to be televised tonight by NBC, is a misnomer. For Mays, there is no other game.

Mays playing at his best only emphasize the emptiness of his life when he says "wishing I was playing can eat a guy's insides out more than anything else."

Mays, who retired after the World Series last season, is a $50,000-a-year man for the New York Mets as a sometime coach and goodwill ambassador. The moments he seems to enjoy most are those when he is coaching, whether he's teaching young pros or kids.

There seems to be little else.

So with narrator and interviewer Jack Klugman, who usually plays a sportswriter on the television series "The Odd Couple," we look back into Willie's childhood. We listen to the aunt who reared him. We hear of his early playing days. Bill Cosby toasts him at the Black Hall of Fame Dinner. Mays talks baseball, listing his own "all-time all-star team."

And his wife, May Louise, describes how they met and were married 10 years later.

But she says she doesn't know him. "He's a private person," she said. "He's often told me, 'How can I tell you when I don't know what I'm thinking."

That same privacy seems to keep the show from going forward. Maybe Mays doesn't know what he's thinking. Maybe it hurts too much to tell.

Wooden Money Once Accepted

By JIM GRIF
Associated Press Writer
POMONA, Calif. (AP) — Don't take any wooden nickels. Remember that adage?

During the Depression, the citizens of Blaine, Wash., accepted wooden nickels — and they were legal.

With the value of the dollar fluctuating from day to day, wooden money has turned out to be a good investment, too, although it is no longer legal tender.

Legal wooden money was first issued in Tenino, Wash., when the local bank failed in December 1931, says Earl O'Cathey, the president of Wooden Money Association, headquartered in this Los Angeles suburb.

The town's newspaper publisher and the chamber of commerce joined forces to obtain congressional approval for the first legal wooden money issued in the United States.

The Tenino money, O'Cathey explains, was in the form of bills.

"The money was made by laminating two thin slices of wood to a sheet of bond paper." Because the money was made of flexible cut spruce and was roughly the same rectangular shape as paper money, Tenino citizens could carry it in their wallets.

It wasn't until 1933, though, that a legal wooden nickel was issued. The bank in Blaine failed that year, and the citizens there followed the lead of Tenino and issued wooden money.

But Blaine issued its money in the form of coins. Perhaps because the Blaine coins did not have an expiration date on them as the Tenino bills did, Congress removed wooden money from legal tender a few years later, says O'Cathey, 70, a retired construction engineer.

"Those two cities are the only ones to ever have legal wooden money in the United States," he says.

Even though wooden money is no longer legal tender, it remains legal to this day if it is intended for use in only one business, says O'Cathey.

During the Depression many shopkeepers continued giving their private wooden coins to customers in change. It is likely that the saying, "Don't take any wooden nickels," originated with a Spokane mother exhorting her child not to accept in change any privately issued wooden tokens, O'Cathey says.

Today a Blaine wooden nickel is worth more than $1,000 and climbing upward annually. Wooden money is owned by the more than 100 members of the California Wooden Money Association and by coin collectors across the nation.

Only $40 worth of the $10,000 of the wooden money "minted" was ever redeemed by the town banks.

O'Cathey owns the first bill issued in Tenino and the first wooden nickel from Blaine.

Early Death By Air Pollution

DENVER (UPI) — Air pollution has killed 108,000 persons prematurely in New York during the past 10 years, says a prominent researcher.

The figure is based on an air pollution study by Dr. Herbert Schimmel and Dr. T.J. Marawski of the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. The findings were reported by Schimmel at the 67th annual conference and exhibition of the Air Pollution Control Association here.

Needed Look At Care For Poor

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — ABC News' fine "Close-Up" series takes a badly-needed look tonight at a question we rarely hear much about — the adequacy of the health care this wealthy nation provides the children of its poor.

The one-hour show, which concludes that such care is woefully lacking, deserves an "A" for intent. Alas, it also deserves a "D" for execution in its attempt at telling a compelling, difficult story.

It is over-written, dispassionate to a fault and weighed down by various studies that have all the right figures, all the strong conclusions and none of the impact television can and should provide.

"This is a program about a stark, painful reality," narrator Herb Kaplow observes in the show. "It's about families who find it difficult or impossible to pay for medical care for their children. And so it's about inadequate care or no care at all."

Moments earlier, an impoverished Appalachian mother has recounted how a doctor at a hospital emergency room turned away her seriously ill son because she couldn't immediately pay for the boy's hospitalization.

She says when she told the physician she lacked both cash and medical insurance, the doctor told her: "Well, just take him home and give him some aspirin."

This is intended to be the reality of which Kaplow speaks, but nowhere do we learn any details — the type of insurance she meant, the nature of her son's illness, or even the name of the doctor and what he might have to say in his own defense.

It seems to typify a basic flaw in the show, a reluctance to stray from easily researched statistics for detailed stories of children who need and aren't getting adequate health care.

There are several heart-breaking interviews with such children and their parents, but no specific follow-ups, no grillings of the officials directly responsible for seeing that the kids are helped.

Arizona Growth Leads Nation

PHOENIX (UPI) — Arizona's growth in manufacturing employment was the greatest in the nation for the decade, 1962-72.

Statistics reported by the Valley National Bank showed Arizona's employment in the manufacturing field climbed from 55,200 in 1962 to 97,200 in 1972, a gain of 76 per cent.

Scenic Isles Are Hoarded By Owners

By WARREN TALBOT
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Several scenic islands in the glimmering blue waters of Narragansett Bay are like a collection of emeralds hoarded by a pirate in a buried treasure chest. They glitter in value.

The islands mostly are owned by persons or private firms. The state of Rhode Island would like to acquire them for recreational purposes and with talk of building an oil refinery near the bay. The islands look even more attractive to industrialists and land-holding firms.

Value of the islands never was more evident than when the First New England Corp. of West Springfield, Mass., recently announced it was putting 203-acre Patience Island up for sale.

The asking price: $900,000. The firm bought Patience last year for $500,000. The island began passing from developer to developer in 1940 for $19,000.

"Patience Island was a jewel of an investment," says Philip Cohn, vice president of First New England. "That island is one of a few of its kind left in the whole country. It carries value like a diamond—it increases each year."

"We are strictly a land-holding and speculation company. We bought that island on sight and had no intentions of developing it for use. We only bought it to sit back and then sell it for a profit."

Cohn said "we have two real good prospective purchasers right at this moment who are offering figures right down the pike."

Cohn said the major islands in the bay are probably ranked as high as the most valuable pieces of other underdeveloped real estate on the East Coast. And Dennis J. Murphy, Rhode Island Director of Natural Resources, agrees.

"They are fantastically beautiful places and have great potential," says Murphy. "If the state can acquire some of them it would add to our potential as a tourist area."

Murphy said that about 14 months ago Patience and 4,000-acre Prudence Island which is nearer the coast were appraised an average of $2,000 per acre. Prudence, he said, offers some of the best deer hunting in Rhode Island.

Some 800 acres of Prudence were purchased 15 years ago by Dr. Matthew W. Rossi of Cranston. He said he originally bought the acreage for a children's camp—not an investment—but the camp failed to materialize.

Rossi acknowledged the land now has become "quite an investment."

Another person with an interest in the islands is Raymond W. Caine Jr. who was commissioned by Gov. Philip W. Noel to come up with a plan for an island parks network for all types of recreation. The islands would be reachable by ferry.

"There are 11 islands in the bay and the state should make an effort to acquire as many of them as possible," says Caine.

One of the smaller islands, Dyer Island, off Portsmouth recently was bought by Northeast Petroleum Co. of Chelsea, Mass., for $50,000. A spokesman for the firm which rents fuel storage tanks in Portsmouth said the company was "protecting its interests" in the bay.

Said Caine: "I mean it when I say the state damn well better make a move to acquire those islands first."

Claim Faddists Will Misinform

NEW YORK (UPI) — Food faddists misinform consumers when they promote a theory that refining robs sugar of valuable nutrients, says the Sugar Association.

The trade organization said sugar is a carbohydrate and a nutrient that supplies energy, but it contains little or no added nutrients.

Refining does not change sugar's nutrient value, the association added. Some brown sugars contain slight traces of iron, calcium and vitamin B due to their molasses content. But the amounts are minimal and are not considered contributions to daily needs for these nutrients.

The Worry Clinic

The Articulate Win Attention

Mark practiced the romantic sales technique outlined below. He startled his cute coed classmate, who had previously considered him as unattractive as a Sphinx. Notice the good results. Women like articulate males!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-687: Mark T., aged 20, is the college man who thought his freckles made him unpopular with coeds.

"Mark," I warned him, "there is a big difference between mere Adonis 'beauty' vs. 'charm.' 'And a coed will actually begin to think you are good looking if you educate her to lean upon you for ego inflation.

"For when you give her sincere compliments, she feels more important.

"And some of her resulting happiness then spills over, thus painting you in a more attractive way.

"So start with some of the cute coeds that sit beside you in class and use the 'Compliment Club' technique on them."

How To Win Dates Although Mark had been rather reticent and a loner, we developed a campaign that he could put into immediate effect.

"Hello," he said, with a big grin as he sat down beside a cute coed in his next day's class.

Remember, a smile is a "sign language" (non-verbal) type of compliment that begins to inflame the other person's ego.

For a smile expresses this vital thought: "Your presence is pleasing to me so I hope we can be good friends."

"Do you know why I consider this my lucky class? Mark added.

The coed was a bit startled as Mark's easy conversational opening, for she had previously looked on him as a Sphinx.

So this simple query intrigued her interest and she regarded him curiously.

"No, why is this your lucky class?" she replied.

"Because the prof's seating chart put me beside such a cute coed who combines beauty with brains!"

She blushed in pleased confusion, but pertly replied:

"Sir, flattery will get you nowhere!"

Again Mark grinned and shook his head.

"It isn't flattery but merely an honest compliment that you well deserve.

"For didn't you get an 'A' on your midterm exam?"

"And your beauty doesn't even need cosmetics, for you'd be pretty even in a drenching rainstorm!"

She looked on Mark, wide-eyed, as she realized how she had previously misjudged him.

"Thank you, kind Sir," she smiled, "but you exaggerate terribly!"

Mark turned glum and shook his head.

"On the contrary," he grumbled half angrily, "you make an ugly guy like me look even worse.

"Maybe it would have been better if the prof had seated me beside a 'plain Jane' for then the contrast wouldn't be so evident!"

Remember, when you utter a compliment in a grudging or half angry manner, it disarms the recipient!

So the cute coed immediately protested that Mark was not ugly!

And this started their daily repartee before class, which led to a gay comradely feeling.

Within a couple of weeks, he invited her to attend a ball game and he accepted.

You can guess the rest, for as Mark made her feel more important, she looked forward eagerly to each new date, and began to regard him as so attractive she later accepted his engagement ring!

For beauty is largely an internal psychological judgment!

Variety Helps A Vegetarian

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A vegetarian diet can be adequate nutritionally if it includes a variety of plant foods and certain nutrients, says the National Research Council's committee on nutritional misinformation.

In a four-page report, the committee said judicious mixing of lower-quality plant protein foods can provide about the same nutritional value as high-quality animal protein foods.

Milk and eggs should be added, especially for preschool children, to provide enough calcium, iron, riboflavin and vitamin B12. The committee also said fortified soybean milk or a vitamin B12 supplement is necessary for total vegetarians.

Health Hazard In Paint Chips

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — As many as 15 per cent of young children in urban areas have dangerous levels of lead in their bodies from eating paint chips, the Allegheny County Health Department reports.

Effects range from slow learning and misbehavior to severe brain damage and death.

While most diamonds are highly resistant to electricity, a few are semi-conductors and serve as transistors in radio-telescopes.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JULY 18, 1974

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Concentrate upon what certain methods you found very efficient in the past.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Improve present monetary position utilizing caution and ideas of experts that are fool-proof. Make some changes in responsibilities for more efficiency, easier work.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Show finest qualities and talents for greater success and cooperation from others. A new bigwig you meet can be most helpful to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Keep promises and others will, also, Mate has new ideas, but insist on studying them first before going along with them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Some friend could delay your progress now, but it is all for a good purpose, so discuss ideas with an associate later. Keep cheerful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle any civic work you promised to perform as well as career matters. Return to certain methods you found very efficient in the past.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Discuss that matter that has been bothering you with a partner and get it cleared up. Do something thoughtful for mate in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Handle those many annoying jobs well and you will then get the right benefits from them, some of which you had not even expected. Forget recreation now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a good day for amusements, so work efficiently. The early evening brings unexpected benefits. Take time for meditation in evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need to be taught early to concentrate on the positive instead of the negative side of things as there is a fault-finding tendency which could keep your progeny from accomplishing much as well as keep others from accomplishing also. Give night diet and religious training, sports to build the body. Then the life becomes successful, happy. Much travel.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The bidding:
West Pass North Pass East Pass South Pass
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♣ Pass 2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass Opening lead: Eight of ♣

Sometimes you need to find a particular distribution if you are to defeat a contract. In that case, you should defend the hand as if that layout of the cards was a known fact, even if it does so risks one or more overtricks.

North was not overjoyed at the prospect of playing a no trump contract, so he made the mistake of rebidding his diamond suit. From South's point of view this suggested a six-card diamond suit and a better hand than North actually held. Since he held three top honors in diamonds, it was not unrealistic for South to proceed to the no trump game, for the majority of North's points had to be in the major suits.

West led his top club, and when dummy came down East did not like his chances of beating the contract. The opening lead marked declarer with at least four clubs headed by the king-queen-ten. There was no future in attacking either spades or diamonds, for dummy had those suits well stopped. Thus, the heart suit was the only place where the defenders could garner some tricks. East knew that all he could expect to find in his partner's hand was some 3-4 points. Unless those points specifically were the ace of hearts, it was most unlikely that the defenders could score five tricks.

Having arrived at this conclusion, declarer mentally assigned the ace of hearts to West and cast around for the best method to attack the suit. If South held three hearts to the queen and West the doubleton ace, declarer would always have a heart stopper. Therefore, the only hope was to play declarer specifically for a doubleton queen of hearts.

Now, the defense was simple. East grabbed the ace of clubs and shifted to the king of hearts. West did his share by signalling with the eight, which at the same time unblocked the suit. A heart to the ace felled the queen, and when West led a third round of the suit, East had J-7 over dummy's 10-6, and the defenders scored four heart tricks in addition to the ace of clubs.
