

After-The-Fact Nixon Approval Claimed

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon privately voiced "after-the fact" approval of the White House plumbers' burglary despite his public repudiation of it, according to evidence just released by the House impeachment panel.

Documents said Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen told the Watergate Grand Jury that Nixon ordered the Justice Department away from the case in a telephone conversation April 18, 1973. "I know about that ... you stay out of that."

The Justice Department, several days after Nixon's talk with Petersen, ultimately informed the judge in Ellsberg's Pentagon Papers trial of the break-in, having first sought — and received — the President's concurrence.

The White House defense on the Ellsberg burglary stopped short of claiming legitimacy for it, but hinted strongly that such measures were warranted by concern over leaks.

wiretapped had received a call from former Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford. Clifford remarked in the conversation that he was "sharpening up his attack" on Nixon's Vietnam war policy, wrote Hoover. Clifford named a number of public forums, including a then-upcoming article in Life magazine, in which he intended to criticize the President. Hoover's letter sparked a number of memoranda exchanges among such White House aides as H. R. Halde- man, Ehrlichman, Alexander Butterfield, Jeb Stuart Magruder and Jim Keogh as to "countermeasures" against Clifford. Ehrlichman wrote Haldeman of the wiretap information: "This is the kind of early warning we need more of — your game planners are now in an excellent position to map anticipatory action."

Markarios Plea To UN

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Armed with promises of British support, Archbishop Makarios flew off to New York today to ask the United Nations to condemn the Greek military junta for the coup that overthrew him.

He told newsmen he had Britain's assurance it would not recognize the new military regime on Cyprus.

"I was very satisfied with the talks I have had with the prime minister and the secretary of state," the bearded archbishop said of his meetings with Harold Wilson and James Callaghan, the British foreign minister.

"I found a great degree of understanding and I appreciate the British attitude on the situation in Cyprus."

"I appreciate their assurances that under no circumstances are they going to recognize the so-called new regime imposed by the junta of Greece upon the people of Cyprus."

The archbishop was expected to appear before the U.N. Security Council on Friday.

Small-member powers of the U.N. Security Council were circulating a proposed resolution. It reportedly called for the withdrawal from Cyprus of the Cypriot national guard's Greek officers who led the coup. It also expressed opposition to annexation of the island by Greece, which is believed to be the object of the coup.

While Makarios pressed his personal crusade, Britain and the United States were trying to ease the threat of an armed confrontation between Greece and Turkey. But even though both the easternmost members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization had put their armed forces on emergency alerts, American military officials in Washington said they believed an armed clash between Greece and Turkey was unlikely.

Joseph Sisco, President Nixon's special emissary, flew into the British capital for urgent talks with British and Turkish leaders on the Cyprus crisis. On the Mediterranean island itself, the Cyprus national guard pressed a massive manhunt for left-wing politicians and others who supported Makarios.

More than 1,000 persons have been arrested since the guard's Greek officers led it in the revolt. Soldiers began house-to-house searches in the capital of Nicosia and other cities, towns and villages on Wednesday.

Little Border Change

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Prices held steady or dropped slightly on Wednesday's fluc- tuating tobacco market in the South Carolina-border North Carolina area.

The Federal-State Market News Service in Florence, S.C., reported Wednesday afternoon that with five out of 11 markets reporting, the average price was $79.73 per hundred pounds.

Since Monday, when area markets opened, 12.9 million pounds of tobacco have been sold, for an average price of $81.56 per hundred.

The news service reported declines were most noticeable for cutters, primings and non-descript.

Nearly one-half of the grades showed no change while gains occurred for a few grades of lugs.

Sales Tuesday averaged $82.02 per hundred, up 24 cents from Monday's average of $81.78. Most grades were selling for $1 to $2 above support price.

The president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Federation called this year's crop "the most expensive in history," and said farmers are being let down at the marketplace.

B. C. Mangum, a Person County tobacco farmer, said Wednesday that it "seems that a misrepresentation may have been made to the secretary of agriculture and to tobacco farmers on the need to increase quotas for this year."

Mangum said there is no justification for prices lower than last year's considering the total world supply and producers' costs.

Officials had predicted opening prices of $90. Monday's opening average was $1.37 lower than last year.

Manslaughter Charged Youth In Car Accident

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
A 16-year-old Farmville youth was charged this morning with manslaughter in connection with the death of a 77-year-old Route 1, Greenville man yesterday.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E.W. Harvey said James Wainwright died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about 1:30 p.m., less than two hours after he was struck by a car in the yard of his home a half-mile west of Greenville on N.C. 43.

Charged in connection with the death today was Sylvester Joyner of 107 Nick Nook, Farmville.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Joyner was taken into custody about 7:30 p.m. yesterday by deputies on a warrant signed by Mrs. Grace Booth of Route 1, Greenville.

charging him with assault on a female.

Highway Patrolman J.W. Brooks identified Mrs. Booth as the driver of the car which struck and fatally injured Wainwright.

According to the trooper, the Booth Car went out of control, left the roadway, struck one tree, then hit Wainwright before crashing into another tree in the Wainwright yard and coming to a halt.

Damage to the Booth vehicle was listed at $1,500 and Trooper Brooks said Mrs. Booth suffered minor injuries in the collision. Joyner a passenger in the Booth car at the time, was not reported injured.

Sheriff Tyson explained

Joyner's involvement in the incident.

According to the Sheriff, Mrs. Booth had stopped at a Greenville grocery store about 11:30 a.m. and when she left, Joyner asked for a ride. As Mrs. Booth drove past the hospital along N.C. 43, she apparently was frightened by movements of the 16-year-old passenger and lost control of her car.

After the collision, Joyner jumped from the car and ran from the scene, the Sheriff said.

A search of the area by law enforcement officers during the afternoon failed to turn up any trace of the passenger. However, sheriff's officers arrested Joyner at his home about 7:30 p.m.

Coastal Commission Vote On Members Are Sworn Strike

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Fifteen members were sworn in today as members of the new Coastal Resources Commission at the commission's first meeting.

The commission was established under the Coastal Area Management Act, passed by the 1974 General Assembly. Gov. Jim Holshouser appointed the commission members, with 11 of the 15 coming from a list submitted by local governments in coastal counties.

Some of the commission's major responsibilities include approval of land use planning guidelines and land use plans, designation of areas of environmental concern and issuance of building in those areas of environmental concern.

Commission members will look at a draft set of land use guidelines during the meeting today and Friday. The guidelines list elements that must be included in local government land use plans. The guidelines will be circulated to local officials for comment prior to adoption by the end of this year.

Deadlines for completion of county land use plans is approximately 18 months from July 1 of this year.

Most of the two-day meeting was expected to be taken up with briefings about the coastal area management bill and the coastal area.

Funding Told

RALEIGH—The Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop in Greenville will receive $326,676 from the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Services of the Department of Human Resources. Announcement of the funding came today from Secretary of Human Resources David T. Flaherty.

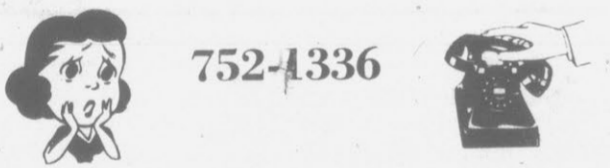

The money will be used to expand physical plant facilities at the sheltered workshop and to provide a higher quality of services to handicapped people in this area.

Eighty percent of the money came from the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Services and 20 percent from the Greenville community.

Bob Harrison, chief of program development for the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, stated, "These funds make it possible to provide a better quality of service to an increased number of handicapped people in North Carolina."

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-4336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

WANTS ORDERED MERCHANDISE
I ordered a five-minute-body-shaper from a Joseph Weider on May 20. I sent a check to Weider at his address in California. The cancelled check has been returned but I have heard nothing from the merchandise. Miss J.P.

The merchandise arrived last week. Hotline tried to contact the company by telephone but found no phone number listed through the Woodland Hills, Calif. directory assistance. A letter to the company and one to the Better Business Bureau in Los Angeles produced replies the same day. Body Persuasion Systems sent us a copy of a form letter mailed to you requesting information on your order. You say you received this letter one day and received the merchandise a day or so later before returning the form letter. The Los Angeles Better Business Bureau informed Hotline that they had received several complaints on Weider for slow delivery of merchandise.

WANTS TO VISIT DEATH ROW
I would like to visit death row at Central Prison in Raleigh and meet a prisoner there in order to get first hand knowledge of their conditions, can I visit death row? Miss. S.C.

According to a spokesman for the Corrections Dept., visitors are not allowed in the west side of the Central Prison Unit which houses death row, at this time. Tours of the Central Prison unit are held, usually twice daily. In order to see the prison, persons should contact Mrs. Charlotte Short, director of Public Relations at the prison.

The spokesman told Hotline that the public is invited to see first hand all of the prison facilities in North Carolina. In order to arrange a visit to one of the units, interested persons should contact the individual superintendent of the facility.

A HOTLINE APPEAL NEEDS LODGING FOR YOUNGSTERS
Hotline has received a request for aid from the pastor of Oakmont Baptist Church. According to E.G. Conklin, homes are needed for 144 young men who will be playing in the Babe Ruth Southeastern Regional playoffs, being held Aug. 1-6 here in Greenville. The tournament is being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Greenville-University City.

"Coming from eight Southeastern states, the young men will have only the homes you offer for sleeping and eating," says Conklin, who is chairman of the housing committee.

Any family having a place for a player can contact Conklin at 756-1245. The need is urgent!

Beaten, Robbed, Shot

An autopsy report on the death of a 66-year-old Pitt County farmer, Lester Garris, has shown the cause of death to be from a severe beating and shotgun wound, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The body of the Ayden community resident was found Tuesday morning by Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney and Douglas Haddock, who resides near where the body was found.

Haddock, whose occupation was first listed as that of a tenant farmer, is actually an employee of DuPont.

The autopsy report showed that Garris was shot in the left shoulder with a shotgun and that he received a broken nose, two broken jaws, a skull fracture and a cheek bone fracture in a beating.

Garris is believed to have been murdered some time Friday night. He was last seen Friday night around 9 p.m.

Robbery has been listed as the motive for the killing. According to Tyson, the pockets of Garris' pants were found turned inside out.

No arrests have been made in connection with the case, but according to Tyson, some leads are being followed up.

Find Man With 25 Stab Wounds

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A Lee County man, 40-year-old James Paul Ellis, apparently lay for six hours with 25 stab wounds in the back and chest in Charlotte.

He says a man and woman armed with a pistol and a knife robbed and stabbed him and left him beside a road.

Construction workers found him Wednesday when they reported for work.

Ellis is reported in serious condition in a hospital.

VEPCO Asks 17.3 Per Cent Increase In Rates

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The Virginia Electric and Power Co. has asked the North Carolina Utilities Commission for a 17.3 per cent rate increase.

Veppo filed the request before the commission Wednesday, asking that it become effective Aug. 1.

The increase would be part of a rate hike now pending before the commission that the company filed May 31, 1973.

Veppo Senior Vice President E. B. Crutchfield said in a press release the increase was necessary due to inflation and high interest rates.

"The continuing high level of inflation and interest rates have caused construction and operating costs to increase dramatically," Crutchfield said.

"This has caused a decline in earnings and has had an adverse effect on the company's ability to attract capital at reasonable rates."

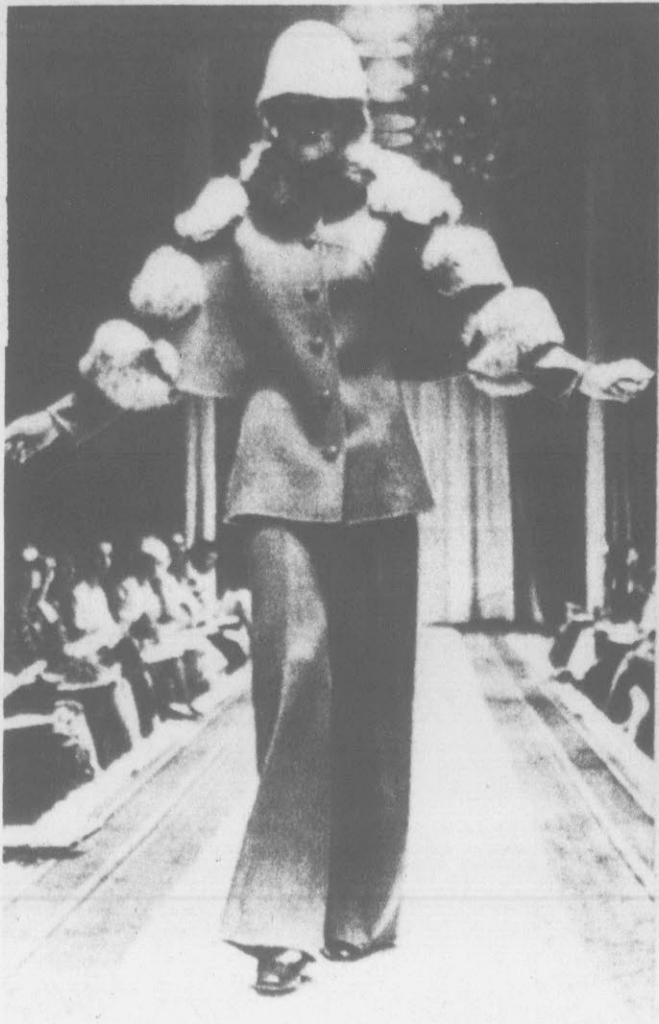

If approved, the increase requested Wednesday would cause an average residential customer's monthly bill in the summer to go up about $4.15, a company spokesman said.

The original increase request would have brought in an additional $6 million in revenue, based on a 12-month test period ending June 30, 1975.

Wednesday's request would, if approved, bring in $4.4 million, based on a 12-month test period ending Dec. 31, 1973.

Hearings before the commission are scheduled to begin in December.

Veppo provides electric service to approximately 63,000 customers in northeastern North Carolina.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Many parents have written to me about the horrors of the family vacation. Some of the letters are so vehement in their criticism and sadistic in their solutions, I feel I should outline some of the laws throughout the country regarding the vacationing family.

The Abandon-Child Law: It is illegal in 47 states to leave a child in a restroom and pretend it was a mistake. Maryland and Utah are sympathetic to parents if they can produce a doctor's certificate showing mental deterioration caused by the trip. Alaska (which is quite permissive) allows a mild sedation for the children.

The New Jersey vs. Kidder Law: It is illegal on the New Jersey turnpike for a child to hang out of the car window and make a noise like a siren. A decision on this was handed down in 1953, after 45 cars (including three police cruisers) pulled over to the side of the road and tied up traffic for 52 hours.

The Key Decision: All 50 states have rulings regarding children who collect restroom keys as souvenirs. One of the stiffer penalties is feeding a child a quart of Gatorade and putting him outside a locked door until a key shows up.

The No-Fault Litter Law: Vehicles bearing families are not permitted to stop in the downtown area of cities having populations of 450,000 or more to look for a gym shoe that someone threw out of the moving vehicle. It is suggested that mothers put name tapes and full addresses on both shoes.

Anti-noise laws: Nearly every city (including three ghost towns in Arizona) has the noise pollutant law. If, in fact, your vacationers have two radios playing at full volume, a barking dog and father screaming, "Would anyone believe we didn't HAVE to get married?" and can be heard with all the car windows up, everyone in the car can be arrested.

Safe Driving Law: It is unlawful to inflate a 20-foot life raft in a sedan blocking Daddy's view of the road, braid his hair while he is driving in the mountains, or tie his shoes together when he is going through a tunnel. Failure to do this gives occupants of the car the right to declare mutiny and replace the driver at the next service exit. Now, everyone have a good time this year... even if you have to break some heads to do it.

Nice Guys Are Also 'Suckers'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and Bill is 21 and we're getting married soon. My problem is my mother. She doesn't drive, and she is always offering Bill's driving services to her friends without asking Bill first. She just calls him and tells him to pick up so and so. She also asks him to drive her around and do different errands for her. She has never offered to put any gas in Bill's car and with gas so high, it makes a difference.

Bill isn't dumb. He knows he's being taken advantage of, but he's such a nice guy he never says "no" to her. I've asked Mom not to take advantage of Bill this way, but it hasn't helped. Any suggestions? BILL'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Tell Bill that when your mother's requests are an imposition to tell her in a nice way that he can't accommodate her. People who let others take advantage of them can expect to go through life being used and inconvenienced. They may be known as "nice guys," but they're also known as "suckers."

DEAR ABBY: To "HAD IT WITH MOM", who visited her elderly mother only occasionally because Mom talked of nothing but illness, death and hardships—present and past. Too bad we can't just consign all the contrary old folks to a gas chamber, so we won't have to bother with them!

Old people complain of "illness" because they are at that stage of their lives when their bodies (and minds) have begun to deteriorate.

Probably the most exciting thing that happened to Mom was her visit to the doctor's last week.

Old folks talk about "death" because they live at death's door. Their friends are dropping like flies, and death seems so near to them.

They speak of "hardships—present and past" because they are proud to have overcome the hardships of the past, and are trying to endure present hardships.

My own mother suffers from all the above. You see, I have memories of Mamma from when I was a child. Of the love, care, time and tenderness she gave me. What she taught me was more valuable than what I learned in college. There is not one single day that passes that I don't use some of the knowledge that Mamma imparted.

Someday I will be visiting Mamma's grave, as I do Daddy's now. I will then wish I could hear a few complaints or hard luck stories from her past.

If we are lucky, we, too, will grow old. Then we will pray that some loving friend or relatives will come to visit us and patiently listen as we talk about the aches and pains of our minds, bodies and hearts.

DIANNE IN BILOXI

DEAR DIANNE: You're beautiful.

DEAR ABBY: I've been a widow for three years and have been longing for male companionship ever since. Oh, I have plenty of women friends, but it's not the same.

I read in the obituaries recently that a woman I knew from church had died and was survived by her husband. I remembered him as a tall, nice-looking, refined gentleman, so I wrote him a letter offering my condolences, and I invited him to supper at my home. [I hadn't seen him in about 10 years.]

He came, bringing flowers, and we had a wonderful time—just the two of us.

As he was leaving he said, "I am lonely, too. How about my moving in with you?" [I am 63 and he is 74.]

I asked: "Is this a proposal?"

He said: "Lord, no! We're too old for that!"

Abby, I have five children and 24 grandchildren who are always popping in on me, and I can't have a man living with me. On the other hand, I would enjoy having steady company and I'm afraid that if I pass him up some other widow will grab him.

If I were to "rent" him a room and call him a "boarder," do you think people would talk? LONELY

DEAR LONELY: People probably would talk plenty. Whether you care what they say or not is strictly your business. At 63, I think you've earned the right to do as you please.

Marital Problems Caused By Q-Car

PARIS, France (WNS)—The Q-car was banned in France because it was breaking up too many marriages. This somewhat secret weapon of the French police is an ordinary family car chauffeured by a plain-clothes officer who would drive fast enough to catch up to a speeding car, follow it at the same speed and click a telegraphic picture of the driver, speedometer and license plates. "When the summons and a copy of the photo were sent to the offender's home, it occasionally sparked off marital fights," explained a police spokesman. "Huddled close to the driver might be a member of the opposite sex who was not the married mate. And many of the offending drivers were married women."

Loses Sleep In Hunting Patty

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The FBI agent in charge of the Patricia Hearst kidnaping case says he lies awake nights thinking about ways to find the fugitive heiress and the two companions whose terrorist cause she has adopted.

"We've interviewed 22,000 people right here in this damn office alone," said Charles Bates, special agent in charge of the Symbionese Liberation Army investigation. The investigation's principal aim now is the arrest of the 20-year-old Miss Hearst and Emily and Bill Harris.

Bates said Wednesday that 150 agents had been working on the case since Miss Hearst was abducted from her Berkeley apartment by the SLA Feb. 4. She later renounced her family and said she had joined the terrorist organization.

Bates said he would guarantee safety for the three if they turned themselves in.

Miss Hearst and the Harrises are the only known survivors of the SLA. Six other members of the organization died in a blazing shoot-out with Los Angeles police May 17.

Miss Hearst, the daughter of San Francisco newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst, is wanted on a variety of charges ranging from kidnaping to bank robbery.

"My contention is that rather than people saying, 'Why haven't you caught them?' the question is, why haven't people who knew where they were reported it to the FBI or police?"

If Not Tobacco, Another Crop

Opening prices on the South Carolina and Border Belts have been bitterly disappointing to tobacco producers who have seen their production costs soar this year.

The markets only averaged $81.78 per hundred pounds opening day, or $1.37 less than last year's opening. It had been predicted prior to the opening that an average of near $90 would be posted.

It is, of course, already being pointed out that prices will go upward as better tobacco reaches the warehouse floors. That, however, is small comfort to the tobacco farmer. He is seeing early tobacco of about last year's opening quality sell at a price which is less than last year's. All of us who have battled with inflation this year recognize that the farmer who grows tobacco can't receive a lower price grade-for-grade and come out with a profit.

The tobacco auction is a competitive situation with companies bidding for the leaf based on what they think the market will bear. Since there was an increase in production this year it is possible buyers feel that there will be more tobacco available and higher prices will not be necessary to obtain adequate supplies.

It should be remembered though that the tobacco industry is competing, not only for tobacco, but against all other crops. If the farmer cannot make a profit growing and selling tobacco, then in the long run he will turn to some other crop where there is more profit.

This is a time of soaring world food needs and this is going to mean higher prices eventually for foods grown by the farmers. It is going to make little sense for farmers to grow tobacco at a loss, if they can make a high profit out of, say, soy beans.

United States grown tobacco is known throughout the world for its quality. We hope tobacco grown in this area will continue to supply the world markets for many years to come. Tobacco can't be grown at a loss to the farmer, however, and prices lower than last year's have to be a losing proposition.

Inquiry Found No 'Excesses'

(Editor's note: The following letter from Senator Edward Kennedy, responding to a recent column on improvements to presidential homes by James J. Kilpatrick, has been made available as additional background information.)

Dear Mr. Kilpatrick:

As a fairly regular reader of your column, I believe you will permit me to comment on a statement in your Monday, June 24, 1974, column in the Star-News dealing with the House subcommittee report of expenditures on Presidential homes. This column stated that "substantial sums also were spent on private properties of John Kennedy, but the cost of these is not known."

In addition to the homes of President Nixon, the Comptroller General made an investigation of the cost of protection at the private residences of Presidents Kennedy, Eisenhower, Truman, and Roosevelt (the portion dealing with President Kennedy's homes is enclosed). He found no evidence of excessive installations, even for security purposes, at the residences used by President Kennedy. This investigation was conducted despite the finding that actual cost records for protective measures were generally unavailable "because of the lapse of time, and assistance was often provided to the Secret Service by other Federal agencies on an informal basis."

The testimony which you quoted regarding the naval aide who, after President Kennedy's death, "took the records to sea with him and they were dropped overboard accidentally," is completely erroneous. This is a distortion of a statement by the same naval aide who told investigators that his personal records, not the records of the President, were dropped into the ocean when a sling used to transfer them from one ship to another broke open. These records were recovered.

I am sure that you will agree that it is often the case of some readers to conclude unfairly that because one Administration was excessive in expenditures on Presidential properties, that all others were equally excessive. I can send you a receipt of the payment of the fence around the so-called Kennedy compound in Hyannisport, Massachusetts, showing the cost borne by my father. In itself, this is a minor matter, yet it should give some indication that the awareness of taxpayers money was at least prevalent in the minds of members of my family. Not so minor was the special lighting, costing many thousands of dollars, to illuminate a mural on one of the walls surrounding the White House swimming pool. A government official ordered the lighting installed, completely without the knowledge of President Kennedy. When the President learned the cost, he immediately covered it with a personal check. The mural, incidentally, also costing many thousands of dollars, was paid for by my family.

The homes where President Kennedy stayed while in office are still available for inspection by any interested reporter. At my parent's home in Palm Beach, new electric wiring and other improvements were installed at my parent's expense, when the Secret Service raised concern over possible safety and security hazards. Maintenance of the property, including the lawns and gardens, both in Palm Beach and at Hyannisport, were provided with private funds. Records of these services and installations are available if you wish to examine them.

I agree with your view that no reasonable person will oppose expenditures for the protection of a President. But I also feel that no reasonable person will conclude that, because the cost of expenditures is not known, it necessarily follows that these costs were "substantial."

I have always respected your ability for honesty and accuracy. I also respect, although I occasionally challenge, your political views. But I hope that this letter will be accepted in the same spirit in which it was written—not to complain, but rather to hope that you will appreciate my concern with conclusions which sometimes are based on incomplete or inaccurate premises and perpetuated from one press account to another.

Sincerely,
Ted Kennedy

IT'S A PERILOUS TIME!

Strength For Today

Worry is one of the worst afflictions in our society. In many instances it does as much harm to people's minds and spirits as physical disease.

Often, if not usually, people are not worrying about the right thing. They are always anxious about what is going to happen to them. They would have more cause to worry about what is happening in them.

Financial loss, for example, can create great anxiety; but the matter of greatest moment is not the loss of material possessions, but the effect this loss will have upon one's character. The death of a loved one is a hard thing to confront, but some people when they lose their loved ones lose their love as well—their love for God or their love for their fellows.

One way to conquer worry is to concentrate our attention not on the random events we cannot control, but on our own character. Once we have confidence that we can surmount difficulties, it will no longer be necessary to worry about them.

Men Lusted For Power

It rained paper torrents on Capitol Hill last weekend. When the downpour stopped, reporters were knee-deep in documents. We had 4,300 pages of stuff from House Judiciary and another 2,200 from the Senate Watergate Committee. It was too much. Let me pluck three sentences from the flood. Two of them come from President Nixon, one from Senator Sam Ervin. The two Nixonian sentences tell us something of the President's blindness; the comment from Senator Ervin speaks tellingly of the senator's insight.

Sentence One: On Sept. 15, 1972, the President met with Bob Haldeman and John Dean in the Oval Office. They talked among other things of ways to frustrate an investigation by a House committee. They talked of rallying Gerald Ford, then a congressman from Michigan. They spoke of putting pressure on Republican Congressman William B. Widnall. The President felt that Republican members "really ought to blunderbuss in the public arena." From the Judiciary Committee transcript:

"Right," said Dean. "Good," said Haldeman. "That's what this is," said the President of the United States, "public relations." You will not find that passage in the original White House transcript.

Sentence Two: On Feb. 28, 1973, the President met again with Dean. Nixon wanted to instruct Dean in how to deal with Senator Howard Baker, top Republican on the Senate Watergate Committee. His thought was to keep Baker from talking with too many people at the White House. Baker would be permitted to talk with Dean only, but with nobody else. "How does that sound to you?" the President asked.

"I think that sounds good," said Dean. "You tell Timmons that he sees him privately and says that's it," the President continued. "We are not pressing him. We don't care, we're not—because Baker—(sighs). The woods are full of weak men."

That cryptic sentence should have appeared on page 86 of the White House transcript. It did not appear.

Finally, Sentence Three, from Ervin's summation of the "Why" of Watergate: "Unlike the men who were responsible for Teapot Dome, the presidential aides who perpetrated Watergate were not seduced by the love of money, which is sometimes thought to be the root of all evil. On the contrary, they were instigated by a lust for political power, which is at least as corrupting as political power itself."

One of Nixon's most costly failings from the beginning of Watergate was his failure to see the whole wretched affair in terms of elementary right and wrong. He was obsessed for months with notions of "public relations." Not until late in the game, when the magnitude of the corruption finally sank home, did he shift his focus from how things looked, to how things really were.

"The woods are full of weak men." There is a terrible irony concealed within that observation. Within the Nixon White House the "weak men" were those who lacked total loyalty, who would not "play the game awfully rough," who might slip unguarded information to a curious senator.

Those weren't the weak men. The fatal weakness of the Nixon White House rested in the men of Senator Ervin's summation—in the men who

Labor Camp Glimpse

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer
SWEDESBORO, N.J. (AP) —

About a third come from Puerto Rico, their island in the sun. They left there dead broke, hoping one day to return.

Thousands of other migrant farm workers follow the harvests along the East Coast, their children and belongings jammed into battered vehicles resembling those used by the Okies when they went to California 40 years ago.

They pick tomatoes, cucumbers, you name it. They work and sweat and work some more. And buy their food at the company store.

They have helped New Jersey maintain its nickname, "Garden State" but their plight has given the state a black eye.

The "migrant problem" flared into public view earlier this week when State Assemblyman Byron Baer's arm was broken in a melee at the Sorbello migrant farm in this southern New Jersey community. Baer has advocated improved living conditions for migrants.

A Newark Star-Ledger reporter also was beaten.

Baer had gone there to get a rare glimpse inside a New Jersey migrant labor farm. But Marcos Portalatin, the Sorbello foreman accused of breaking Baer's arm, told The Associated Press the 11 workers there don't like "nosey" state officials.

"These people don't come here to help us," he said. "They come here to destroy us and the farmer. If we didn't like working here, we wouldn't be here."

Angel Sanabre, 21, who supports a wife and two children in Puerto Rico, said the workers "get along just like brothers." Michael Sorbello, one of three owners, contends "publicity seekers like Baer" are just out to make political hay, rather than help the workers.

But among the 20,000 migrants in southern New Jersey, there is considerable discontent.

The State Department of Labor and Industry reported this week that hundreds of workers are children under age 12, a violation of law.

Commissioner Joseph A. Hoffman says a number of farmers fail to keep employe records of hours worked and wages paid.

Sorbello workers earn $2.13 an hour. But on many other farms, the legal minimum—$1.75—or less is paid.

Over the years there have been charges, often raised in lawsuits, of filthy living conditions, inadequate heat and lighting, exorbitant prices at "company stores" and outright brutality.

Many migrants are recruited in Puerto Rico and come here under contract. They have little or no political clout.

Sorbello contends politicians who court the migrants are accomplishing nothing.

"Why don't they help the workers in the cities, the dishwashers who make $1.75 an hour?" he said. He noted that migrant workers are provided with free housing, while the impoverished urbanites pay rent.

New Jersey Gov. Brendan T. Byrne has called for a full investigation of the Baer incident. Byrne also said he plans to visit farms in the area next month.

Good Govm't Is 'Best Politics'

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—An ombudsman, according to popular usage, is a neutral party who is supposed to represent the public in efforts to get satisfaction from the maze of bureaucracy.

Despite his strong partisan political leaning—and his landing in the job as a direct result of his work in Gov. James E. Holshouser's campaign—the governor's People's Man maintains he doesn't practice Republican politics in carrying out his duties.

"I have total loyalty only to the people—not to the Republican administration," says Fred M. (Butch) Gallagher, the governor's ombudsman.

But how, after so many years of partisan political work and close association with the governor, can he keep from trying to make the governor look good all the time?

"Sure, that's in the back of my mind. But he (Holshouser) makes it easy, because he is really sincere about his pledge to do the best he can for every person who calls in," Gallagher said.

Good Politics

Such an attitude, the ombudsman argued, is not only good personal and public relations—it's good politics. A network of people across the state likely to remember that Gov. Holshouser and his staff went out of the way to help them can mean some votes at election time.

Beyond that, Gallagher argues, "we know that if we really go to battle for each of those people (nearly 4,000 contacts in the past year), we can change state government, and we can change the attitudes of people toward state government.

"After all, the best politics is good government," Gallagher said.

Many of the requests for action can't be handled by the governor, since they are outside his jurisdiction. The two most popular subjects—road work and prisoner paroles—can't be handled.

But even when no direct solution or response is possible, the case is not simply tossed away. Each serves a different purpose.

Computer File

A central computer file is kept showing the nature of each call, the state agency involved, the resolution.

"From that process, the most minor problem called in by a citizen eventually has its input into considerations at all levels of government," Gallagher said.

Why would a young and rising stockbroker from Charlotte make a move to Raleigh for such a job?

He just likes politics and people, and when Holshouser won the election, Gallagher told him he would take a job in the administration—as long as that job was not a "bureaucratic" one.

"We Republicans honestly felt like we were working for change in state government. Holshouser kept saying that state government had gotten distant, unresponsive, didn't care about the people.

"The election proved a lot of people agreed with him. Well, you couldn't work for him and work for change in state government then turn your back on him after the election. It just wouldn't be right.

What are the rewards of spending his days listening to citizen problems and trying to iron out bureaucratic roadblocks?

"First, the thought that we have changed things in state government. We have found that people—the professional state employees—really want to do the right thing; if people see something really wrong, they want to change it and make it right.

"Secondly, we feel we have had some success in instilling the feeling among bureaucrats that they work for the people of North Carolina, and ought to do everything they can for them," Gallagher said.

Labor Situation Is Smoldering

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—While tentative signs are appearing that the fires of inflation might be cooling, economists in business and government are keeping a wary eye on the smoldering labor situation.

Wages have trailed price increases for many months now, and some economists believe labor won't be content merely to make up lost ground.

Fearing such a move, Arthur F. Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman, already has suggested a return to voluntary wage-price controls to restrain increases considered dangerous to economic stability.

Labor, however, is likely to strenuously oppose any reimposition of controls, blaming them for its weakened position relative to prices.

Spendable earnings in May were 4.6 per cent lower than a year earlier, and per capita disposable income was lower in the first quarter of 1974 than at any time in well over a year.

Some indicators already reflect an acceleration in wage increases. Average hourly earnings for the private, nonfarm economy, to cite an example, rose at a yearly rate of 11.7 per cent in the second quarter, double the first-quarter rate.

Increasing wage pressures might be felt as the year wears on. The First National City Bank notes that fewer than 10 per cent of some 5.2 million workers scheduled for collective bargaining this year settled in the first quarter.

Ironically, higher wages could be both cause and effect of higher prices, since cost of living increases already are written into many major contracts. First City estimates that escalator clauses alone could add 5 per cent to wages this year.

While pressure increases for higher incomes, the bargaining power of labor is somewhat weakened by overall economic conditions, and it is widely believed in business circles that the jobless rate may rise to 6 per cent by December.

In fact, the present 5.2 per cent rate is considered by some to be misleading. They note that for the first four months of the year the labor force failed to expand, suggesting a large number of dropouts.

One statistic shows the jobless rate among married men at 2.6 per cent, the highest since October 1972. Another shows the manufacturing work week and the amount of overtime declining for about a year.

In terms of bargaining power, therefore, labor might not have the strongest position. But in what it considers to be just—that is, to at least keep pace with rising prices—it is strongly motivated.

Investigation Said 'Politics'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford and three other top Republicans have accused Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss of injecting politics into the congressional impeachment inquiry.

"It makes it partisan," Ford said of Strauss' pro-impeachment statement. It "could have a backlash" that will help the President, Ford told a reporter Wednesday night.

GOP National Chairman George Bush, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes also hit back at Strauss' statement.

McGeachy Is Out Of Race

FAYETTEVILLE (AP)—Hector McGeachy of Fayetteville has taken himself out of the Democratic race for state attorney general.

McGeachy made his decision public in a statement Wednesday.

"At this time," he said, "I find that my law practice in Cumberland County is requiring so much of my personal time that it is not possible for me to conduct a statewide campaign with the many members of the state Executive Committee."

McGeachy was an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination to Congress in the 7th District.

At least eight others have indicated they are interested in the nomination for attorney general.

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan has said he will resign Aug. 26 to devote full time to his campaign for the U.S. Senate. The state Democratic Executive Committee will name the party's nominee for attorney general for the November election after a meeting in Raleigh July 27.

British Tighten Up On Security

LONDON (AP) — British police put stronger security measures in force today after a bomb explosion in the Tower of London that killed one woman and injured 37 persons.

The bomb blast was the fourth in England in four days, and police believed all were set by the Irish Republican Army.

Guards were strengthened at places of entertainment and government buildings. The public was warned to watch for letter bombs or abandoned parcels in railway and subway stations and car parks.

Scotland Yard appealed to tourists who were taking pictures at the Tower around the time of the explosion to contact them. They were already studying a film taken by Joan Halgran, 29, from Minnesota, who said she saw a man running from the Tower within seconds of the explosion. The bomb went off at 2 p.m. Wednesday in a stone dungeon in the basement of the White Tower where a crowd of tourists — many of them foreigners — were looking at cannon and suits of armor. Many others had just left the building to watch the changing of the guard.

Police said Dorothy Household, 47, of South London, was fatally injured. The wounded included four Americans and a family of five New Zealanders. Ten were in critical condition, but the Americans — identified as Edward Klein, 27, from Missouri, and Christina Grillo, 24; Jacky Ford, 27, and Shelagh Gray, 23, all of Boston, Mass. — were not among them.

A number of the injured were children. Detectives found a child's foot in the wreckage. There was little structural damage to the Tower, but some of the historic collection of arms and armor was badly damaged. The government said the Tower, visited by 10,000 sightseers daily in the summer, would be open today, but the bombed area was closed indefinitely.

The bomb was estimated to contain 10 pounds of explosives and was set off by a clock and battery. There was no warning, although a man with an Irish accent telephoned the Daily Mirror two minutes before the blast and said, "We are planting bombs."

The man said he was a member of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army, which is waging a guerrilla war in Northern Ireland against British rule. But he did not say where the bombs were being placed.

It was the first such explosion at the 900-year-old Tower in nearly 90 years, since Irish extremists set off a dynamite charge in 1885 and injured 16 persons. A month ago another terrorist bomb damaged Westminster Hall in the Houses of Parliament, a British landmark even more hallowed than the Tower. Fourteen persons have been killed and nearly 400 wounded in such bombings in London in the past two years.

To Assist In Fusion Field

The United States is now committed to a program of attaining "energy independence" as soon as possible. One of the most important consequences of this is a renewed effort to control nuclear fusion—the power of the hydrogen bomb and of our sun and other stars.

In calculations and designs of fusion devices much input data is used. There are still some basic nuclear physics measurements to be made. Dr. James Joyce of the Physics Department at East Carolina University will be assisting Dr. Chris Gould of North Carolina State University in a program of obtaining these measurements at the Triangle Universities Nuclear Laboratory this summer.

Drs. Gould and Joyce obtained their PhD from the University of Pennsylvania under the supervision of Swiss physicist, Dr. Robert W. Zurmuhle.

Scott said he views Strauss' statement "as his instructions to Democrats to vote for impeachment."

"It seemed to give the whole thing a political tinge," Rhodes said at a reception Wednesday night honoring Ford.

Strauss had said he would be shocked if the House Judiciary Committee fails to vote for impeachment and surprised if the full House doesn't follow suit.

At the same time, a Democratic member of the Judiciary Committee, Rep. Wayne Owens of Utah, said in a House speech that Strauss should keep his "political nose" out of the panel's deliberations on whether Nixon should be impeached.

Bush said the tragedy of Strauss' comments would be if they dragged the impeachment question "even more into partisan politics." He said that if the impeachment process becomes purely political it will degenerate "into nothing but a mudslinging fight from which everyone in the country—Republican and Democrat—will be the loser."

Strass' comments would be if they dragged the impeachment question "even more into partisan politics."

Greece-Turkey Clash 'Unlikely'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials believe an armed clash between Turkey and Greece over Cyprus is unlikely, despite military moves by the Turks.

They acknowledge, however, there might be danger if the two rival countries should move to reinforce their small garrisons, currently totaling fewer than 1,000 men each on Cyprus. Pentagon officials note the Greek armed forces have not made any major moves since the new Cyprus crisis broke out early this week. They also interpret Turkish military actions so far as intended to demonstrate their readiness and to show concern for the safety and welfare of the Turkish minority on Cyprus.

Relations Committee, which he was to brief about the recent Moscow summit. But Kissinger still intended to fly, as scheduled before the Cypriot crisis, to San Clemente, Calif., for a meeting with President Nixon. Some of Turkey's recent moves have drawn close Pentagon attention.

Reports reaching the Defense Department say the Turks have loaded weapons on some of their U.S.-built F100 fighter bombers and placed their pilots on one-hour alert. These planes are based in Incirlik in Southern Turkey, about 200 air miles from the Cypriot capital of Nicosia.

If the Turks should attempt to send forces into Cyprus, they most likely would use their parachute brigade. The Turkish air force has a small fleet of about 50 transport planes, including U.S.-provided C130s.

U.S. military officers discount the possibility that either Turkey or Greece could mount a major troop and tank invasion by sea. Neither country has more than about 20 landing ships and craft.

Turkey outnumbers Greece in military strength by about 450,000 to 160,000 men.

Their air forces are roughly comparable, but the Turkish army has about a 2 to 1 advantage in tanks over the Greek army. This would be a vital factor in any ground war.

"The Greek junta might like to have Cyprus, but it doesn't want war with Turkey," one senior defense official said. Whenever Greece and Turkey renew their ancient feud, the United States finds itself in a particularly difficult spot because it is allied with both countries in NATO.

Stress Developing Natural Resources

The conservation and development of natural resources in the Mid-East Region needs improved supporting services, especially in rural areas. This was the conclusion reached by the Community Facilities and Services Committee appointed by the Mid-East RC&D Council for Pitt County, according to Thomas Craft, Committee Chairman.

Four objectives were selected—to provide diversified training opportunities in farming, forestry, and ecology; to provide a public-supported collection, disposal, and enforcement system that will clean up the solid waste in Pitt County; to provide a preventive health services program backed up by acute medical services twenty-four hours a day; to provide adequate services for rural homes including water systems, central sewage collection and disposal systems and minimum housing standards.

Other members serving with Thomas Craft on the Community Facilities and Services Committee are B. Alton Gardner;

Notified Of Scholarship

Pamela Jean Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Frank Wagner of Grimesland and a 1974 graduate of Rose High School, has been informed that she is the recipient of a four year North Carolina Division of Veterans scholarship.

In a letter from Charles A. Beddingfield, Jr., Pamela was told that the four year scholarship entitles her to attend the higher institution of her choice in the state of North Carolina.

At this time, Pamela has not made a definite decision on the North Carolina school she plans to attend for utilization of the scholarship.

Her father is a veteran of World War II service.

J.D. Payton; Woodrow Wooten; and Kenneth Branch. Committee Advisors are Mayo Allen; Willie Pate; and Dr. Bruce Wardrop.

The Chairmen of Community Facilities and Services Committees from Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin, and Pitt Counties are scheduled to meet later this month to consolidate the County objectives into Regional objectives.

After the regional objectives receive approval of the Mid-East RC&D Council, local groups will be asked to propose projects that, when carried out, will help accomplish these objectives, Craft concluded.

The Turks threatened to invade Cyprus during the last such crisis in 1967. The United States and the United Nations worked out a political settlement at the time.

The latest crisis has prompted a trip to London by U.S. Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco. He left Wednesday night for the British capital where ousted Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios has been conferring with British leaders.

In the United States, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger canceled today's appearance before the House Foreign

Predict Unemployment In Fight On Inflation

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidents of three Federal Reserve banks predict interest rates will remain high and unemployment will rise in the fight against what one called the worst peacetime inflation in the nation's history.

They told the House Banking Committee Wednesday that inflation was at a dangerously high level, although not out of control, and said great sacrifices would be required to beat it back.

David P. Eastburn, president of the Federal Reserve bank of Philadelphia, said: "We are in perhaps the worst peacetime inflation in our history. Unless we begin to unwind inflation, I am fearful of the consequences not only for the economy but for our entire social fabric."

Eastburn, Alfred Hayes of the New York bank and John J. Balles of the San Francisco bank said government spending should be reduced to eliminate the proposed budget deficit for next year. They also said the Federal Reserve should further tighten the money supply.

All stressed that the historically high interest rate level — more than 12 per cent for banks' most creditworthy borrowers — was a symptom of the inflation and not the cause.

Eastburn said the high interest likely will continue to choke off inflationary demands for credit. He conceded, however, that the medium and low income persons were the ones most hurt and that big business frequently could find credit somehow and just pass the cost along to customers.

He said the burdens of restricted credit and compressed job opportunities from a tighter monetary policy should be accompanied by social programs such as "liberalized unemployment benefits, public service jobs, welfare reform and training and education programs." Both Hayes and Balles endorsed a proposal by Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, to keep government spending below its income and to reduce the upcoming year's fiscal debt by 2 per cent.

The budget proposed by President Nixon provides for an estimated $14 billion deficit.

Balles criticized attempts to lower interest rates alone, despite the serious effect of high interest on the housing market, the stock market and the overall economy, saying in the long run it would cause an even sharper rise in prices and in turn even higher interest rates.

Bald Head Marina Arguments Studied

NEW BERN (AP)—U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins Jr. took under advisement Wednesday arguments in a law suit aimed at blocking construction of a marina on Bald Head Island near Southport.

Larkins received the case after completion of testimony in U.S. Eastern District Court in New Bern. He gave no indication of when a ruling would be issued.

The Conservation Council of North Carolina is seeking a temporary restraining order to delay construction of the marina by Carolina Cape Fear Corp.

The council wants an environmental impact statement prepared for the project and a review of the decision by which the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers agreed to grant a construction permit.

The environmental group has charged that construction of the 10-acre marina would eventually result in severe environmental damage to the island.

Under an agreement between Carolina Cape Fear and the corps, North Carolina would receive title to more than 9,000 acres of wetlands, maritime forests and beachfront. Corps officials said the permit would be issued if specified lands were turned over to the state in 60 days.

Deadline for completion of the transaction is Tuesday, but Larkins said the period may be extended until he issues a ruling.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were steady Wednesday. Supplies barely adequate, demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 55.57, medium whites 50.35, small whites 39.82.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Market too unsettled on next week's trading to release F.O.B. dock average. Supplies adequate for fair to good demand. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers today 1,036,000.

North Carolina Hens: Market tone firm for next week. Supplies barely adequate for generally good demand. Heavy hens at farm nine to ten cents. F.O.B. too few to quote prices.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead again today amid apparently rising hopes for an easing in monetary pressures.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 6.88 at 791.85 on top of Wednesday's 9-point advance.

Gainers outnumbered losers by 8-to-3 in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said some investors were speculating that the Federal Reserve might be moving to ease its tight-money stance.

Baltimore Gas & Electric was the most-active NYSE issue, down 1/4 at 14 3/4. A 179,900-share block changed hands at 14.

Builders Investment Group, opening late, fell 1/4 to 9 3/8. The real estate investment trust reported lower quarterly earnings and omitted its dividend.

Cerro lost 2 1/2 to 16 1/4. GL Corp. of Chicago completed a tender offer for some of the company's shares.

On the upside, National Distillers & Chemicals added a point to 14 3/4 on news of sharply higher second-quarter earnings.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .37 at 44.09.

The American Stock Exchange market-value index, meanwhile, rose .84 to 78.57. The Amex volume leader was Syntex, up 1/8 at 42 1/2.

Lost Pounds And Spouse

GIBRALTAR, Mich. (AP) — Debi Horn says that during the seven months she had her jaws wired shut she lost 73 pounds and her husband.

But she says, she found herself during the ordeal of not eating in an effort to slim down from 229 pounds.

"I'm a different person," said Mrs. Horn, 23, who had the wires taken out of her jaw this week even though she plans to lose another 20 pounds.

"I've had my hair cut, I'm starting to use makeup, I go to more trouble to take care of myself. But my marriage is a mess," Mrs. Horn said.

She said she and her husband, John, split up six weeks ago. She said she expects him to file for a divorce this week. Horn could not be reached for comment.

Offer Program On Chile, Cuba

The North Carolina regional of the Venceremos Brigade is sponsoring a state-wide program of activities with the theme of "Cuba-Chile '74—Two Faces of Latin America."

The activities will feature the film "Chile: With Poems and Guns" which is the first documentary made after the September 11, 1973 coup and shows original footage of the coup itself. The program will begin at 7 p.m., with the film to follow at 8 p.m.

"Cuba-Child '74" will be in the Methodist Student Center in Greenville Monday. The center is located on East Fifth Street.

Receive Sum To Buy Swampland

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Carolina has received a $726,612 grant from the Interior Department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to acquire 7,549 acres, including a portion of the Great Dismal Swamp, for a state park.

The state will match the grant on a 50-50 basis. This will make the total about $1.4 million to buy land and build a nature center, hiking trails and camping and picnic facilities.

The land is in Camden County, adjoining the 50,000-acre Dismal Swamp National Wildlife Refuge in Virginia.

Nixon Approval...

has said the Hoover memos were based merely on Kissinger's complaints of leaks, rather than a direct request for tapping.

In the separate volume of evidence compiled by Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, the wiretapping was portrayed as perfectly legal and highly necessary because of news leaks in that period.

But neither in St. Clair's evidence nor in the four committee volumes is there any indication that any of the wiretaps — some of which lasted for months on end — produced proof that the national security was being compromised. Most of the names were censored from the related documents to avoid public invasion of their privacy.

Among the evidence in the Ellsberg break-in, one of the most dramatic documents was the grand jury report of Petersen's testimony of his April 18 telephone talk with Nixon.

Petersen said he thought he was dropping a "bombshell" on Nixon when he informed him that "I got this report that Liddy and Hunt burglarized Fielding's office." The tip came indirectly, he added, from John W. Dean II.

"But the President said 'I know about that. That's a national security matter. Your mandate is Watergate. You stay out of that.'"

"I said, 'Well, I have caused a check to be made and we don't have any information of that nature in the case.' I said, 'do you know where there is such information?' and he said 'No.'"

Petersen testified before the grand jury Aug. 23. Just a day earlier, Nixon had offered a notably different version of his April 18 discussion with Petersen.

According to Nixon, Petersen was asking not for information about the break-in itself, but whether it had dug up anything new about Ellsberg.

Nixon's account: "... He asked me a very critical question, which you, as a nonlawyer will now understand, and lawyers probably will, too. He said, 'Was any evidence developed out of this investigation, out of this break-in?' And I said 'No, it was a dry hole.' He said 'Good.'"

Petersen said the President told him in an earlier conversation on April 18 that he had been recorded. The White House transcripts show one discussion between Petersen and Nixon on that date, but it was in the afternoon and no mention is made of the Ellsberg case. That topic came up in the evening.

Much of the evidence released by the committee was previously made public through the courts and other congressional panels.

But other documents never before published included: —The transcript of a Nixon conversation July 14, 1971, in which the President ordered lie detector tests for hundreds of government employees who handled classified information. Angry over a leak regarding the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, Nixon declared "Now God damn it, we're not going to allow it. We just aren't going to allow it."

—Previously secret testimony from former White House investigator John J. Caulfield about how the home of the President's brother, F. Donald Nixon, was wiretapped and placed under surveillance by Ehrlichman. The bug was placed by the Secret Service, said Caulfield, "with the view of ascertaining whether ... persons of unsavory character might be attempting to embarrass the President through his brother."

Geronimo Fans As Gibson Gets 3000th

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Bob Gibson is one up on a lot of superb pitchers and still 505 behind the great Walter Johnson.

By reaching the 3,000-strikeout plateau Wednesday night during the St. Louis Cardinals' 6-4, 12-inning loss to the Cincinnati Reds, Gibson accomplished what no other National League pitcher has done.

In fact, only the immortal Johnson, who struck out a staggering total of 3,508 batters, surpasses Gibson's fancy 3,003 figure.

The durable Cardinal right-hander got his coveted 3,000th career strikeout by fanning Cesar Geronimo with a high, hard one in the second inning.

A crowd of 28,743 at Busch

Stadium recognized the history-making strikeout and applauded Gibson wildly as he walked off the mound.

Gibson struck out three more batters before departing after seven innings with the score tied at 4-4.

In the other National League games, the San Francisco Giants beat the New York Mets 6-2; the Pittsburgh Pirates routed the Houston Astros 11-3; the Atlanta Braves turned back the Chicago Cubs 7-2; the San Diego Padres blasted the Philadelphia Phillies 15-1 and the Montreal Expos nipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4.

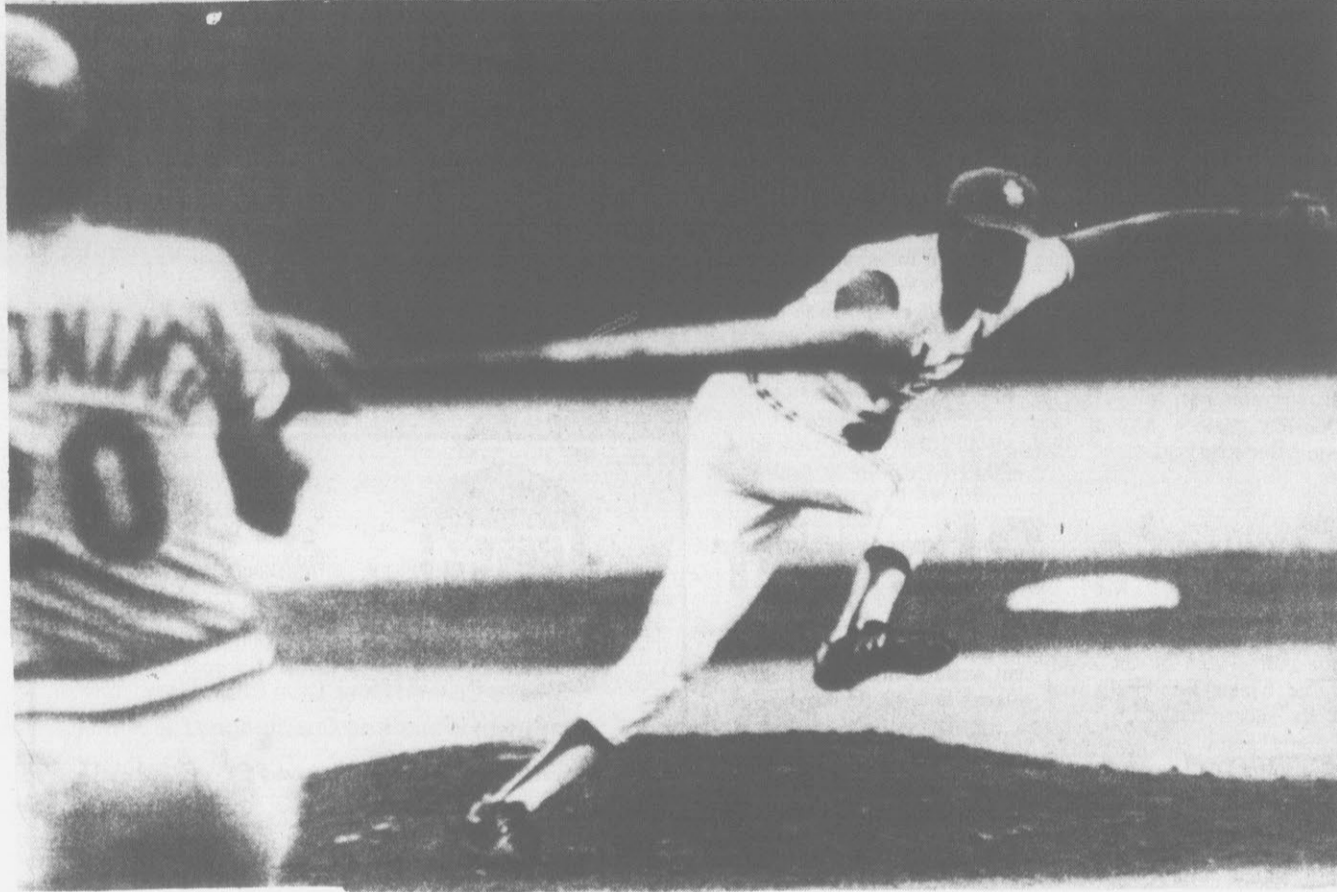

Padres 15, Phillies 1

Bobby Tolan hit a pair of three-run homers and Fred Kendall added a three-run blast in San Diego's victory over Philadelphia. The long-ball attack made it a breeze for Randy Jones, 7-13, who pitched a seven-hitter.

Expos 5, Dodgers 4

Willie Davis laced three singles and Mike Jorgensen knocked in the decisive run with a sacrifice fly, helping Montreal nip Los Angeles.

American League results: Texas 2, New York 0; California 7, Cleveland 5; Oakland 2, Baltimore 0; Boston 6, Kansas City 3; Minnesota 10, Milwaukee 5 and Chicago 7, Detroit 1.

GIBSON'S 3,000TH—GERONIMO!—St. Louis Cardinals' Bob Gibson throws a pitch past Cincinnati's Cesar Geronimo in the second inning of Wednesday night's game to record the 3,000th strike out of his career. Gibson thus became the second pitcher in baseball history to amass that total. The great Walter Johnson holds the major league record—of 3,508 career strikeouts. (AP Wirephoto)

North State Stars Take Opening Round Victory

TARBORO—Greenville's North State All-Stars rallied for three runs in the top of the second inning and that provided the winning margin as they went on to beat Robersonville in the first round of the Area II tournament, 4-2.

The Greenville Stars added another in the fourth. Robersonville got its two runs in the fourth on a two-run homer by Mike Forbes.

After threatening in the first Greenville put some runs up in the second. Skip Topping led off with a single and rode a passed ball to second. Patrick Wilson was safe on an error and after he stole second, Skip Hill singled in Topping. An error later let Wilson score and when Junior Hardee was safe on an error, Hill scored.

Peter Pace singled, Topping walked and Lindsey Winstead reached on an error to load the bases in the third but they could not get a run in.

Hardee singled for Greenville in the fourth and after moving to third on an outfield error scored on Pace's hit.

Pace was the winning pitcher holding Robersonville to just three hits, two coming in the fourth. He walked no one and struck out 11.

The Greenville team was to meet Seymore Johnson today at 3:00 p.m. in the second round. SJ drew a bye in the first day of play. Greenville's Tar Heel League stars will also be playing as they take on Tarboro, which beat Roanoke-Rapids-Weldon yesterday, 4-0, at 5:00 p.m.

City Tourney Drawing To End

Only four teams are left after last night's City softball League tournament play. Hallow's, Seaford, Talbot's and Daniel Construction are all eliminated from the tourney.

At Evans one, Hallow's won the first end of a double header by beating Seaford, 15-6, but they lost their second game to Pier 5, 9-7. Daniel had the same results as they beat Talbot's 3-0 in a 30-minute first game but were sent out flying, 15-5, by Parkers in the afterpiece.

Hallow's rolled up a 5-2 lead in the first frame of the first contest and added three in the second for the winner. They picked up one in the fourth and six in the fifth. Seaford scored in the third twice in the fifth and once more in the sixth. Hallow's kept the pressure up and inched out to a 1-0 lead in the top of the first of the second game. Pier 5 slipped ahead with two in the first and added three more in the fifth.

Hallow's rallied for six in the fifth but the lead fell as Pier 5 got one in the fifth and four in the sixth.

Daniel put Talbot's out getting all three of their runs in the first. Talbot's got only three hits.

It was Daniel's turn to get the axe in the second game. Parker's poured over five in the third to take a commanding 9-2 lead. They added three in the fourth and Daniels was not able to recover. Daniel rallied for three in the sixth but it was not so helpful.

Parker's will now meet the Little Sluggers Friday for the Purple Division championship while Pier 5 faces Kentucky Fried Chicken for the right to meet Sunnyside Eggs in the championship game of the Gold division.

In Tourney

Greenville's 14-15 year old All-Stars open play in the state tournament Friday as they travel to Wilmington for the first round.

They will meet Wilmington in the last game of the day at 8:00 p.m. The tourney will continue through Wednesday if extra games are needed.

HONOR SECRETARIAT

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Turf Writers Association has moved this year's 51st annual dinner from Saratoga Springs to Belmont Park. It will be held Thursday, Sept. 12, and the 1973 Triple Crown champion, Secretariat, will be honored as "the man who did the most for racing." Secretariat now is a four-year-old sire with his first offspring due to race in 1976 as two-year-olds.

Jockey Ron Turcotte, who rode Secretariat for the Meadow Stable, will be honored as New York's leading rider of 1973 with 237 victories. He also led jockeys in money won in New York with $2,784,120. Trainers Johnny Campo and Frank (Pancho) Martin also will receive awards.

Perry Heads Williams' List

NEW YORK (AP) — There may be some controversy over what means Gaylord Perry employed to become a successful pitcher in the major leagues.

There is no argument this year however that the Cleveland Indian pitcher is one of the most successful pitchers in the big leagues.

As testimony to his success, Perry, whose string of 15 straight victories recently was broken, was one of eight pitchers named Wednesday to the American League All-Star pitching staff.

In addition, manager Dick Williams picked Steve Busby of Kansas City, who has hurled the only no-hitter so far this year in the majors; Jim Hunter and Rollie Fingers of Oakland; John Hiller of Detroit, Luis Tiant of Boston, Wilbur Wood of Chicago and Mike Cuellar of Baltimore.

Perry, who is expected to start Tuesday's game against the National League, is no stranger to all-star competition. He has pitched in three midseason classics, including the 1966 game which he won for the National League.

The right-hander is tied for the major league lead in victories with a 15-2 record and began his winning streak after being beaten in the opening game of the season by the New York Yankees. He did not lose again until July 8 when Oakland edged him 4-3 to stop him one short of the American League record for consecutive victories.

Busby, 13-8, is the only pitcher in major league history to hurl no-hitters in each of his first two seasons in the majors, his latest effort coming over Milwaukee June 19.

Hiller's selection acknowledged a comeback which began when the Tiger left-hander suffered a heart attack in 1971. He missed the entire 1971 season and half of 1972 before joining the Tigers. Last season, he set a major league record for saves with 38. This year he is 11-7 with seven saves.

Hunter, a right-hander with a 13-8 record, was chosen to the All-Star squad for the sixth time. Tiant, 13-7, and also a right-hander, was picked for the second time. The left-handed Cuellar, 12-5, will be making his fourth All-Star appearance, and Fingers, a right-handed relief specialist with a 7-2 mark, appeared in his first All-Star game last year.

Wood, a lefty workhorse with a 15-11 record and a tantalizing knuckleball, has been the American League leader in games started in each of the past two seasons. This was his third All-Star nomination.

The National League pitchers, named earlier Wednesday, were Andy Messersmith and Mike Marshall of Los Angeles, Ken Brett of Pittsburgh, Jon Matlack of New York, Buzz Capra of Atlanta, Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Steve Rogers of Montreal.

Corn Does Not Grow Only In The Ground

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
AP Sports Writer
DEER LAKE, Pa. (AP) — All the corn at Muhammad Ali's picnic wasn't on the cob: "Yesterday I murdered a rock; I injured a stone; I hospitalized a brick. I'm so mean I make medicine sick."

The occasion for Ali's poetry and the picnic-style lunch was the official opening of Ali's training for his fight with world heavyweight champion George Foreman Sept. 24 in the African nation of Zaire.

"This is beautiful," said Ali. "The stage is set now. We got a big, bad giant who is gonna kill me."

Then he did a routine which included his imitation of Foreman—punching in slow motion—and falling on his back and shouting, "that don't look like me, do it? 'There's gonna be a rumble in the jungle."

Later sports writers asked Magundu Bula, an official of the government of Zaire, if he thought Ali might ruffle some feelings in Zaire with such statements as "I'm gonna boil George Foreman in a pot."

"Ali is Ali," said Bula. "He is an American. He speaks like an American."

"I see no conflict. It (the fight) is the most suitable way of getting our country known. The nature of the fighters—Ali being who he is and Foreman being the champion."

"We would like to show what a black nation can do. We want to show that Zaire is a country where anyone can live in peace."

Don King of Video Techniques, Inc., of New York the closed-circuit television promoter, said accommodations will be made available for 7,000 persons from Europe and America, but not on an individual basis. They will be handled by tours through Festival In Zaire, Inc., "because we want everything organized, we want no chaos," said King.

Bula said many visitors from throughout Africa are expected and that "if we had a capacity of 500,000 we could fill it." The stadium in the city of Kinshasa, where the fight will be held, holds 120,000.

"I draw people, not George Foreman," said Ali. "He's making $5 million dollars (each fighter is guaranteed that amount) because of me. He's the challenger. He's trying to prove he's better than me."

Wood's Knuckler Helps Him To Win 15th Game

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
AP Sports Writer
Wilbur Wood is a hot—and humid—pitcher.

"He had a great knuckleball because it was hot and humid," catcher Ed Herrmann said after Wood won his 15th game of the season by pitching a three-hitter Wednesday night in the Chicago White Sox' 7-1 victory over Detroit.

"Don't ask me why, but when it's hot and humid the ball breaks all over."

At one point, Wood, who snapped a personal two-game losing streak, retired 20 straight Tigers.

The Oakland A's beat the Baltimore Orioles 2-0; Boston topped Kansas City 6-3; the California Angels topped the Cleveland Indians 7-5; the Minnesota Twins pounded the Milwaukee Brewers 10-5, and the Texas Rangers blanked the New York Yankees 2-0 in other American League games.

A's 2, Orioles 0
Vida Blue, 10-9, scored his eighth victory in 12 games and

Oakland won its fifth straight as Reggie Jackson scored on Mike Cuellar's wild pitch in the sixth inning and doubled home Sal Bando in the eighth.

The loss, in the final meeting of the season-series with the A's, which ended at 6-6, was the Orioles' sixth in seven games.

Red Sox 6, Royals 3
Boston moved to a 1½-game lead over second-place Baltimore in the East behind the six-hit pitching of Roger Moret.

Carl Yastrzemski and Tommy Harper hit leadoff homers in the fourth and fifth innings, respectively.

Angels 7, Indians 5
Lee Stanton singled in two runs in a four-run eighth inning and then singled in two more in a three-run ninth as California overcame from a 5-0 deficit. His single in the ninth came after Paul Schaal singled in the tying run.

The Indians fell two games behind Boston.

Twins 10, Brewers 5
Bobby Darwin came back from three games on the bench to hit a three-run homer, his 12th; a bases-empty homer, a triple and a single in helping the Twins win for the ninth time in 12 games. His 12 total bases tied a club record.

Milwaukee third baseman Don Money committed an error on a grounder in the first inning, ending his major league single-season record for errorless games at 86.

Rangers 2, Yankees 0
Jim Bibby, backed by Toby Harrah's two-run homer in the second inning, pitched a three-hitter for Texas to even his record at 12-12. The homer was Harrah's 14th.

Although the clock told a different story, time ran out on the Hawaiians, Jacksonville Sharks, Detroit Wheels and New York Stars Wednesday night. As a result, all four suffered World Football League losses.

—The Hawaiians, losing 23-0 after three periods, scored 31 points in the fourth quarter Wednesday night but wound up 38-31 losers to the Southern California Sun at Anaheim.

—Chicago's Chuck Ramsey kicked a 26-yard field goal with six seconds remaining to give the Fire a 25-22 triumph over the Sharks.

—Florida's Tommy Reamon scored on a five-yard run with 1:37 remaining, then the Blazers stopped Detroit on the one-yard line with 10 seconds left to save an 18-14 decision over the Wheels at Ypsilanti, Mich.

—And in New York, Birmingham quarterback George Mira connected with wide receiver Dennis Homan for a 73-yard touchdown with 2:15 left, then the Stars missed a 35-yard field goal with 36 seconds remaining and lost 32-29 to the Americans after leading 29-3 at halftime.

In Wednesday night's other WFL game, the Houston Texans blanked the Philadelphia Bell 11-0. The Portland Storm visits the Memphis Southmen in tonight's nationally televised game.

league's second week of competition. Last week's blockbuster figures of 188,978 for five Wednesday night games far exceeded this past Wednesday's 116,197. But the seating capacity is less than 25,000 at New York's Downing Stadium and Michigan's Rynearson Stadium.

Sun 38, Hawaiians 31
"We didn't lose," said Hawaiians' Coach Mike Giddings after his club's second loss. "We just ran out of time."

Sun quarterback Tony Adams passed for one touchdown and ran for two others to spark the Southern California triumph witnessed by 32,008.

Fire 25, Sharks 22
Chicago quarterback Virgil Carter started the game-winning drive from his own six yard line, hitting Don Burchfield for 25 yards and Luther Palmer twice for a total of 35 before Ramsey's kick.

Mark Kellar scored twice and Joe Womack once for the Fire, 2-0. Ricky Lake scored twice and Bubba Thornton once for Jacksonville, 1-1, as 29,308 watched.

Blazers 18, Wheels 14
Florida raised its record to 2-0 and dropped Detroit to 0-2 when Reamon capped an 82-yard, 18-play drive before 10,631. The Wheels had two chances from the one-yard line in the last seconds.

Americans 32, Stars 29
Mira unloaded three touchdown passes and scored one himself for the Americans in the second half. The Stars, 0-2, had exploded for 315 yards in the first half. The attendance was 17,934.

Texans 11, Bell 0
Houston cornerback Daryl Johnson returned an intercepted pass 57 yards for a score and Charlie Durkee kicked a 28-yard field goal for Houston, 1-1, in a game witnessed by 26,227 at the Astrodome. Philadelphia dropped to 1-1.

Dean Was A Fan's Player

By BILL CRIDER
Associated Press Writer
WIGGINS, Miss. (AP) — Dizzy Dean, known to millions as "Ol' Diz," was headed home in a coffin today, more than four decades after he and the Gas House Gang boasted and bullied their way to baseball immortality.

The self-styled fastballer—who ruled in St. Louis' Sportsman's Park from 1932 to 1940, then turned television "commutator"—ended a tumultuous courtship of baseball fans early Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Hospital in Reno, Nev., two days after he suffered a heart attack. He was 63.

He was to baseball what each fan wanted him to be.

"Dean became a legend to literally thousands of people who didn't know if he threw right-handed or left-handed. And didn't care. This was the magic of Dizzy Dean ... he knew what people wanted to hear. And he never got out of the mold," said Buddy Blattner, who was Dean's broadcast partner on the Game of the Week.

"This man was the best at what he did in an era that was quite possibly the most colorful the game has ever known. This was the Roaring '20s of Baseball, the Golden Era of the '30s. There were the Yankees and the Gas House Gang and all the characters, and of them all he was No. 1 because he had the most talent," Blattner said.

Dizzy's brother, Paul "Daffy" Dean, and wife Patricia were at his bedside when he died at 1:35 a.m.

"His philosophy was doing a fella right," said Daffy. "He never saw a man he didn't respect or like, and I never knew anyone who didn't respect or like Dizzy. Those qualities are God-gifted."

Shortly after news was made public of Dizzy's unsuccessful battle with two heart attacks in the past five days, President Nixon issued a statement from Washington that said: "To my generation of Americans, Dizzy Dean will always be remembered as the blazing fastballer who led the Gas House Gang of St. Louis to the pinnacle of baseball glory."

"To the young, Dizzy will also be remembered as the sportscaster who brought an extra touch of excitement and color to every game he covered."

"Dizzy was indeed a man for all generations."

The body was to be flown to New Orleans where it would continue its journey here by hearse.

Dean, whose Arkansas vernacular sent runners "sludding" into base or got them "threwed" out at home, was regarded as one of the game's best pitchers, though his fastball was slowed by a foot injury at age 27.

He won 150 games and lost 83 in his career, throwing 27 shutouts. He led the National League in strikeouts four years running and compiled a 30-7 record with the Cards in 1934, his best year.

The next two years Dizzy compiled 28-12 and 24-13 records and by the age of 25, he had won 121 games.

As a baseball pitcher in the 1930s he was a true free spirit.

a master of comic bravado made memorable by the exaggerated boasts he usually put into the record books.

In one game, he vowed to throw nothing but fastballs and won. In another, he promised to throw any pitch the batter wanted. He won that game too.

Jay Hanna Dean was born Jan. 16, 1911, but for years nobody was really sure where. Records show he was born in Lucas, Ark., but Dizzy once was heard telling three different writers three different birth places in a single day.

Asked once about it, he replied: "I was helpin' the writers out. Them ain't lies; them's scoops."

Dean began as a cotton picker in Mississippi.

He joined the Cards in 1930, pitching in the last game of the season.

Green Heads Field

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Defending champion Hubert Green, the tour's No. 2 money winner this year, heads a field of 147 golfers in the B.C. Open golf tournament that begins today.

Green, who shot an 18 under par 266 last year for the title, will battle most of the tour regulars, including Bruce Crampton, Tommy Aaron, Frank Beard, Bobby Nichols and Lee Elder in the $150,000 tourney.

The 6,815-yard En Joie Golf Club course in upstate New York has been toughened slightly since last year, according to tournament officials. Par is 71.

William Windom Saw No Middle Age Trauma

By CHRIS CONKLING
NEW YORK (AP) — Men, like women, experience the pangs of growing older, though without the same physical manifestations. Having gone through the change of his life, actor William Windom, who last appeared in the television special, "Male Menopause: The Pause That Perplexes," testifies that the advent of middle age is not necessarily traumatic.

"The transition to middle age is a short period. It seems like 20 minutes," says the affable Emmy award-winning actor. In his 50 years Windom has earned distinction in the theater, playing roles from Shakespeare to Thurber.

On the big screen he has appeared in such films as "To Kill a Mockingbird," "The Man" and "Brewster McCloud," and on the home screen in the highly acclaimed but short-lived television series, "My World and Welcome To It" and "The Farmer's Daughter," a sitcom he'd rather forget. Most recently, he hosted the TV documentary examining the physical and psychological problems of the middle-aged man, produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and aired by the Public Broadcasting System.

"As an actor, the only problem with middle age is that for the first 40 years of your life you're told by producers, 'Oh no, no, you're much too young for the part!' Then when you're 40, all you hear is 'Oh no, no, you're too old!'"

Discounting the professional handicaps that come with graying hair, Windom declares, "Middle age is great. I've got no problems at all. Every year is better. I've had no bad news since World War II. From then on it's all been bonus."

Windom compares middle age to running the track mile. "When I was in high school," he recalls with a smile, "I could run the mile in 5:15. Last year in Chattanooga I ran it again, only this time it took me nine minutes. That's middle age!" The smile reversed into a mock grimace.

"I'm much more secure now than I was when I was younger," he continues. "Time, experience, the service during the war and just meeting people helped me to become secure by letting me see that other people are insecure. Any time you serve helps."

Windom has served his time. The stocky character actor, whose forte is comedy, began his career in 1945 playing Richard III to an audience of GIs, "the best audience there is, next to students," he insists. His love of Shakespeare persists, but he abandoned the classics early in his career for more commercial theater for economic reasons. "I love Shakespeare," Windom confesses, "but it pays two cents." On two cents, he could hardly support his wife and three young daughters and their ocean-front house in Malibu, Calif.

James Thurber replaced Shakespeare as the central figure in Windom's professional life. After forgettable roles in several forgettable film and television productions, Windom brought Thurber to television in 1969 in "My World and Welcome To It," an innovative program combining Thurber's humor with animation. American television audiences did not welcome the series and it was cancelled after a single season, but not before it won an Emmy award as best comedy series, and Windom one for his tour de force performance in the lead.

For the last year Windom has been touring the country in a one-man Thurber show which he compiled, produced and directed.

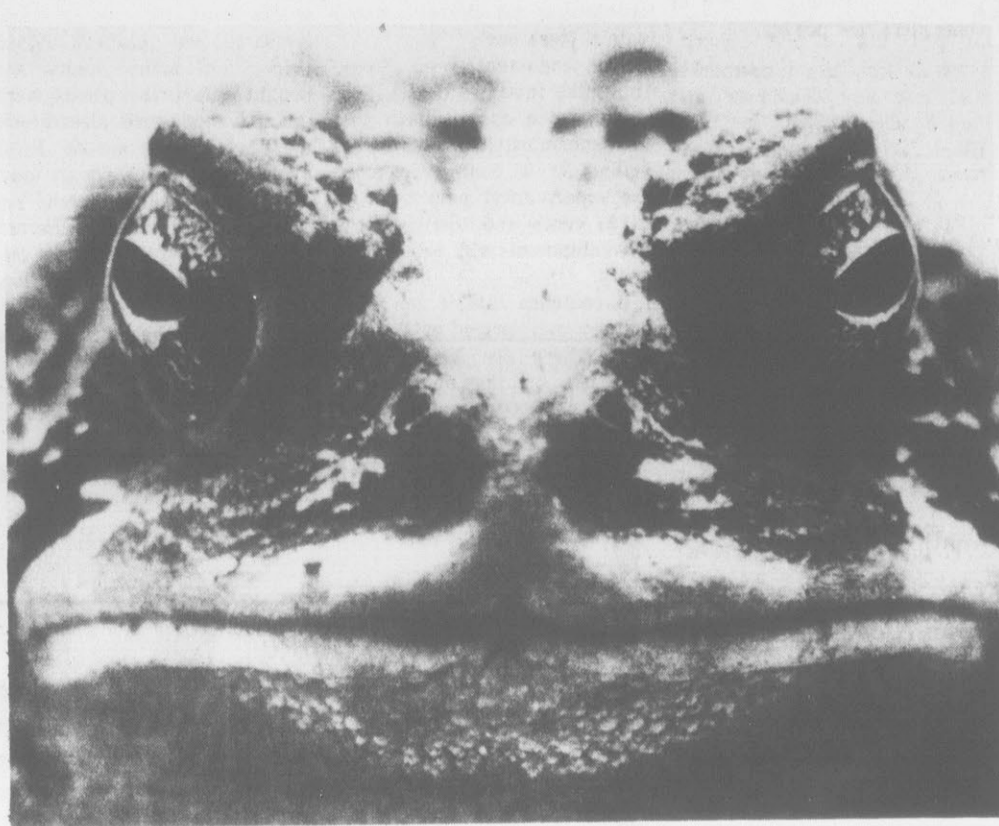

menopause, in which Windom plays the quintessential American middle-aged man, asserts that success in America is time-oriented, that if you haven't "made it" by the time you're 40, you've failed. Windom agrees and adds, "It's fine to set goals in your life, but you'd better enjoy the ride.

Whether you succeed or not, the trip between 20 and 40 should be fun. It's like football. Play for the enjoyment of body contact, not just for touchdowns. "What I've told you are all my opinions. They're not necessarily great truths."

Of his personal plans for the future, Windom is coyly secretive. "Sure I've got things I want to do, but I'm not going to tell you about them," he says with a belly laugh.

Noise Pollution Grows Steadily

AUSTIN, (AP) — "Health officials estimate the over-all loudness of environmental noise is doubling every decade," said a report from the State Department.

The report said the normal person can comfortably tolerate sound levels of 80 decibels, a measure of the strength or pressure of sound.

A quiet residential area may measure 40 decibels and normal speech 60. But a busy office is typically 80, heavy city traffic 100, a discotheque 120, a jet flyover 103, power lawn mower 96, television set 70, clothes washer 78 and a rock band from 108 to 114.

Waco Rates As Murder Capital

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Waco has the distinction of being the murder capital of major Texas cities for the second time in three years.

A Waco Tribune-Herald poll of the 14 largest cities in the state shows Waco's 1973 murder rate of 14.58 per 100,000 population to be the highest. It is almost double the murder rate of the second ranking city, Dallas. San Antonio ranks third.

Answer To Pet Peeve: No Remarketing Store Prices

His Bowling Cost Summa Cum Laude

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — Gutter balls and splits have cost John Wakeen his summa cum laude.

Wakeen, 20, was an all "A" student at St. Clair County Community College in Port Huron until last semester, when he needed one more physical education class to graduate.

He chose bowling, averaged 92 and got a "B" for the course.

The B brought his average down to 3.98 on a four-point scale. As a result, he graduated magna cum laude or with great distinction, one step below summa cum laude or with highest distinction.

"Graduation night I was told I was no longer a summa (cum laude) because of my B in bowling," he said in a letter received by school trustees this week.

"I consider the Latin terminology employed in your system to be a farce," Wakeen told trustees. "I've been insulted by the college as a result of my inability to manipulate a bowling ball down a bowling alley."

The college administration says it will consider a pass-fail system for physical education classes that wouldn't jeopardize grade-point averages. However, the school's faculty has rejected such a system twice before.

The practice of remarketing items on the supermarket shelves as prices go up, a practice that Safeway Stores Inc. says it is stopping, is one of consumers' pet peeves.

"Walk into any supermarket and ask any consumer and they'll scream about it," said Ellen Zawell, president of the National Consumer Congress.

Safeway, the nation's largest chain, announced Wednesday that it would no longer remark an item to reflect higher wholesale costs on new shipments.

Dr. Kent Christensen, vice president of the National Association of Food Chains, said the action probably would force other supermarkets to follow suit.

Officials of most of the other big supermarket chains were not immediately available for comment or said they wanted time to study the situation.

Supermarkets often argued that it was necessary to remark the same item—putting a new sticker on top of an old one or blotting out the old stamp with a fresh one.

The argument went something like this:

Suppose a can of peas cost the supermarket 20 cents and is selling for 25 cents. The price the supermarket pays goes up to 25 cents and therefore the new shipment will sell for 30 cents.

It contends that it can't put out new cans priced at 30 cents while there are 25-cent cans still left on the shelf. That would bring complaints from consumers who picked up a new can, got charged the higher price, then spotted another customer with an old can paying less.

The manager of Wood's Market in Richmond, Va. explained it this way:

"Sure, we stamp higher prices on some items we bought before the prices went up and that were already on the shelves, but we do it to avoid confusion. We wait until only a few of these items remain on the shelves at the old price. Then we have to put out some more that we bought later at a higher price. Naturally, we have to charge more for these, so we just change the prices on the old items to conform. Otherwise there'd be all sorts of confusion among the customers, not to mention the checkout counter...."

A check of the shelves of a Safeway store in Los Angeles on the morning of July 5 turned up 16 items with two stickers, one on top of the other. A pound of Maxwell House coffee, for example, had a sticker reading $1.14 on top of one reading $1.11 and Ivory Snow detergent had a $1.19 sticker on top of a $1.14 one.

Ralph Pena, manager of the store, said then that all the prices were set by the regional office. He also said the district warehouse manager notified local store employees to raise prices when the entire warehouse stock of an item was used up.

The practice of remarketing is not illegal, although there are restrictions in some areas.

The New York City Department of Consumer Affairs says

it has no power to fix prices. A spokesman said the only thing the department can do is make sure the consumer knows just how much he or she is paying.

Thousands View Wyeth Exhibit

TOKYO (AP) — A 12-week exhibit of paintings by American artist Andrew Wyeth has attracted 329,655 persons in Tokyo and Kyoto, more than three times the number anticipated by Japanese sponsors.

Perry Rathbone, director of the show of 88 paintings, said Wyeth had conquered the Japanese art world in his first exhibition abroad.

Trustees conceded Wakeen has a point. But Dr. Richard L. Norris, college president, said an athlete who gets all A's in physical education, but can't do math, could make the same point.

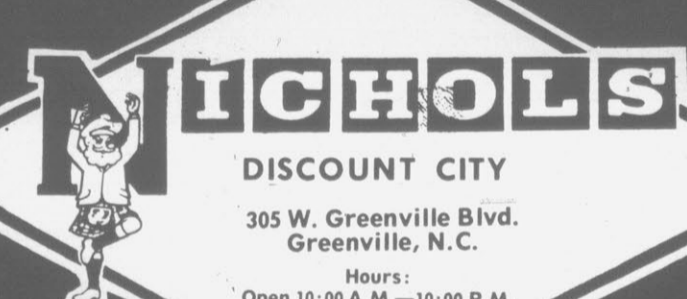

Wakeen took mostly mathematics courses and received an A for another physical education course in calisthenics. He also insists he still enjoys bowling.

"I'm no great athlete and I'm not bitter," Wakeen said. "I hope my gym teacher doesn't think I'm a bad guy."

Young Abductor Kills 2 And Pleaded For Life

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A young abductor who was paid $50,000 ransom by his wealthy boss shot the executive and his wife to death in their expensive car, then pleaded "Don't shoot!" before surrendering to authorities, the FBI says.

Slain were Sydney Gans, 64, owner of a prosperous paper bag company, and his 60-year-old wife, Lillian, who had been held hostage by the gunman. Authorities said the man taken into custody was an employee of Gans' firm, but they knew of no animosity between the two.

Police identified the abductor as Thomas Knight, 23, of Miami. He was charged with two counts of first-degree murder.

FBI Special Agent Ken Whittaker said of Gans: "He decided he wanted to get the money and turn it over to the gunman because he was afraid about his wife."

Gans rushed into a downtown Miami bank on Wednesday and told the bank president that his wife was being held by a gunman. He said he needed $50,000. The bank officer called the FBI and Whittaker and another agent rushed to the scene.

Whittaker said Gans told him the gunman was circling the block with Mrs. Gans in the couple's Mercedes-Benz.

The FBI arranged for surveillance of the car being driven by Mrs. Gans while the gunman held a semiautomatic carbine to her head, Whittaker said.

Gans placed the $50,000 in a paper bag, left the bank and was picked up by the abductor and Mrs. Gans. The three drove off.

Mrs. Gans was forced to drive to a lonely wooded area in southwest Miami. The abductor then shot each in the head and fled into the underbrush as police and agents closed in on him, authorities said.

Some 200 lawmen converged on the scene and for some five hours used helicopters, a small plane, tracker dogs and tear gas to flush the gunman from his swampy hideout.

Finally, Dade County Police Sgt. Russ Kubik almost stepped on him as a seven-man patrol edged its way through waist-high weeds after lobbing tear gas grenades into the undergrowth.

"He was burrowed into sandy soil on his side," said Kubik. "I thought he might be dead. But I put my gun to his head and said, 'get up, put your hands up.'"

"Don't shoot!" the man cried.

Police said they found nearby the $50,000 in ransom and the gun used to kill Gans and his wife.

Knight, a slim six-footer, was muddled and bruised when pulled from the underbrush. Police said he had sustained an injury to his right arm. He made no audible comment as he was manacled and hustled into a police car.

John Shapiro, husband of Gans' daughter Harriet, said the abductor was at the company office when Gans got there on Wednesday morning.

"Unfortunately, it appears that he (the abductor) meant to kill them all along," said Whittaker.

Friends described Gans as a rich, active sportsman, was one of the founding trustees of Mount Sinai Hospital, one of the area's largest, and recently had been presented the Prime Minister's Silver Anniversary Medal for aid to Israel.

Pilot Resorted To Soap Opera Plan Probing Of Insurance

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If CBS' "Guiding Light" troupers ever decided to wage war on soap opera critics, they'd have no trouble getting their own air force together. They'd just call on Don Stewart.

ated to B47s, and, in his spare time, sang at concerts for kicks. A professional who heard him convinced him to try singing full-time.

So when his active duty tour ended, Stewart came back to Fun City and, among other things, auditioned for a vocal coach.

"She said she thought I had a potentially great operatic career," he said, laughing at the memory. "Little did she know it would turn out to be soap opera."

The actor, who sporadically appears in evening TV series and talk shows and says he'd like to do it more often, shifted from the Air Force Reserve to the Navy Reserve in 1963. He wanted to fly jets.

But he said only the Navy had jet pilot slots open then. The Navy transitioned him into the A4 Skyhawk and taught him the mystic arts roaring off a carrier and landing on it again in one piece.

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The credit life insurance that banks, merchants and small loan companies sell to customers will be investigated by the North Carolina Department of Insurance because of apparently excessive commissions collected by the lenders, according to a newspaper report.

Insurance Commissioner John Ingram announced Wednesday that evidence gathered by his staff showed that some commissions ran as high as 50 to 70 per cent of the premium paid by the consumer. The Charlotte Observer reported in Thursday editions.

Ingram was quoted in an interview as saying, "When you get into an area of over 50 per cent, it tells you immediately death benefits are less."

Credit life insurance is designed to pay off an outstanding debt, such as a car loan, in the event the borrower dies before the loan is repaid.

Ingram said public hearings will be conducted on credit life insurance practices in North Carolina within two months, the newspaper report said.

DON STEWART

He plays a defense attorney on the daytime series, but once was a Strategic Air Command B47 bomber pilot. He also used to fly single-engine A4 attack bombers for the Navy.

A Navy reserve officer, he's currently rated a copilot on four-engine patrol aircraft based at Willow Grove, Pa., where he's carried on the duty roster as Lt. Cmdr. Don Stewart, USNR.

It isn't a typical background for someone who's a soap opera star, a night club singer and a veteran of summer stock, Broadway and off-Broadway musical comedies. A Navy spokesman here agrees, but says it's all true.

Stewart, 37, born in Staten Island, N.Y., and raised in Norfolk, Neb., says he caught the flying bug early in life.

"I'd always wanted to be a pilot," he said. "Even when I was a kid during World War II, I wanted them to lower the age limit to eight, which for some reason they were reluctant to do."

After college, he became an Air Force aviation cadet, grad-

No Regrets On His Disclosures Solzhenitsyn Is Read By Paul VI

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The former White House aide who told the Senate Watergate committee that President Nixon had bugged the White House oval office and his telephones says he has no regrets.

"I would certainly do the same thing again," Alexander Butterfield said Wednesday. He had been in charge of White House internal security when he made the revelation to the committee a year ago Tuesday.

Butterfield, who was promoted to head the Federal Aviation Administration two weeks before the Watergate scandal broke in March 1973, said: "I didn't go in to tell about it, but I knew if ever asked the direct question I would answer directly and openly."

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has made it known he is among the readers of books by exiled Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn.

He said during his weekly public audience Wednesday that Solzhenitsyn's "Gulag Archipelago" provides evidence of "inhuman exercise of class power."

The pontiff, referring to the account of Stalin-era concentration camps, warned about the "danger of accepting social formulas which for instance by erecting class struggle as a system turn it inevitably into class hatred and class hatred into the possible inhuman exercise of power."

Unequal Pay Is Charged Stores

GREENSBORO (AP) — J.C. Penney stores in High Point and Winston-Salem were accused Wednesday of violating federal pay laws by paying less to women employes for equal work.
The U.S. Department of Labor filed the suits in U.S. District Court.
Each suit alleges that the stores have repeatedly violated the equal pay laws since July 15, 1971. The court is asked to order a halt to such alleged practices, and to order back wages and interest be paid to the employes.

Arrest Youth On Morals Count

Samuel Douglas Batton, 18, of Charlotte was arrested Tuesday night on charges of indecent exposure.
Chief Glenn Cannon said the East Carolina University student was taken into custody about 11:30 p.m. near the intersection of Third and Evans Streets following an incident in a parking lot near the intersection of Cotanche and Fourth Streets.
Batton was placed under a $200 bond pending hearing of the case in District Court.

CORRECTION

The July 17 edition of The Daily Reflector reported that a Greenville man, George Hawley, was arrested on a rape charge in relation to an incident which occurred on June 16. The alleged incident resulting in the arrest actually took place on July 16.

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lawyer James D. St. Clair will present President Nixon's impeachment defense to a House Judiciary Committee that already is drafting proposed articles of impeachment.

St. Clair's summation today, aimed at establishing that Nixon was not involved in the Watergate cover-up or any other matters under investigation, brings the committee to the final stage of its impeachment inquiry.

FELT LIKE HOME

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Orval E. Faubus lived in the Arkansas governor's mansion longer than any other governor. The mansion was built 25 years ago. Faubus lived there 12 years while serving six terms as governor.

Starting Friday it will receive from special counsel John Doar a number of alternative articles of impeachment, together with supporting facts, that will serve as the basis for the committee's deliberations next week.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., rejected the charge made by some Republicans that Doar was abandoning the objective, nonpartisan stance he has maintained throughout the impeachment proceedings in drawing up proposed articles.

"He is not advocating a position," Rodino said in an interview. "He is saying to the committee, 'Here are theories that apply to the case and here are the facts that support them.'"

Doar also denied that he was assuming the role of a prosecutor by presenting such theories.

Doar's presentation will take at least two days and Rodino has set aside Monday for that purpose, if it is needed. Final deliberations are to start Wednesday.

The debate and voting in the committee may be televised. House leaders reportedly have reconsidered an earlier decision to resist changing the House policy against televised committee meetings and are planning to seek a House vote on the issue.

According to Rodino's planning, a committee final vote on its recommendation of impeachment could come July 27 or July 29. House leaders are hoping to start debate on the House floor in mid-August and to complete it in about two weeks.

The committee moved into the summation phase after hearing its last witness Wednesday, Nixon's former personal lawyer Herbert W. Kalmbach. He described his role in a $2 million dairy campaign pledge and in arranging ambassadorships.

Some members said later Kalmbach testified he did not discuss with Nixon any of his activities under investigation, including the raising of alleged hush money for Watergate defendants.

Kalmbach, serving a 6-to-18-month jail sentence for violating campaign fund-raising laws and offering ambassadorships to Nixon campaign contributors, told of receiving a $100,000 offer for Nixon's campaign from J. Fife Symington, who was ambassador to Trinidad-Tobago but who hoped to receive an ambassadorship to a European country.

Gov. Ed Reinecke of California is continuing after U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker rejected a defense motion to dismiss the case.

Higby called back shortly and said "the word is go. Lock it up."

Another presidential aide blocked the appointment, Wiggins said.

In a related Watergate matter, the perjury trial of Lt.

Gov. Ed Reinecke of California is continuing after U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker rejected a defense motion to dismiss the case.
