

Case For Impeachment To Be Presented Next Week

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The case for impeachment will be presented to the House Judiciary Committee by its staff at two closed-door briefings leading up to the committee's final deliberations next week.

At the first session today, special counsel John Doar is expected to propose at least three broad articles of impeachment charging President Nixon with obstruction of justice, abuse of his constitutional powers and contempt of Congress.

A Republican member of the committee predicted on Thursday that both the committee and the House will approve at least one article, leading to a Senate trial to determine whether Nixon should be removed from office.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., told newsmen that three or four committee Republicans are likely to vote for impeachment and that it could be much higher. He said only five of 17 Republican members could be counted as definitely opposed to impeachment at this time.

At a meeting called by the House Republican leadership to determine where the committee Republicans stand, McClory was one of five members who either said they were undecided or declined to give their views.

The others were Reps. Caldwell Butler of Virginia,

William S. Cohen of Maine, Hamilton Fish of New York and Tom Railsback of Illinois. Some others indicated their position will be determined by the articles of impeachment that are proposed.

In related developments on Thursday, the committee released evidence collected during its six-month-long impeachment inquiry. Among the disclosures were:

—Former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman says President Nixon "indicated his after-the-fact approval" of the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's

June Living Cost Climbed; Economy In Severe Decline

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living rose one per cent in June as sharply higher prices for a wide range of consumer goods and services kept inflation soaring, the government reported today.

The Labor Department's figures underscored the bleak economic news Thursday from the Commerce Department which reported the economy underwent one of its most severe declines since World War II in the first half of the year.

The nation's output of goods and services—the Gross National Product—dropped between April and June for the second successive quarter of declines, the Commerce Department said. Some economists believe that two consecutive quarterly declines should be considered a recession. Other economists feel other factors must be considered.

The June rise in the consumer price index, announced today, was led by higher prices for new and used cars, medical care, mortgage interest costs, household durables and fresh fruits.

Food prices rose a seasonally adjusted three tenths of one per cent, a rate slightly more than usual for June but a much more moderate pace than in any other month this year with the exception of April when food prices fell four tenths of one per cent.

The June increase in consumer prices works out to an annual rate of 12 per cent. For the three months ending in June the pace of inflation soared at an adjusted annual rate of 10.9 per cent, according to the government figures.

Consumer prices last month rose to a level 11.1

per cent higher than a year ago, with the government's index at 147.1. This meant it cost $147.10 to purchase a variety of consumer goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

Nonfood items rose an adjusted 1.3 per cent, the sixth consecutive month of rapid rise. This was a reflection of sharply higher prices at wholesale which have continued to soar since price controls were dropped April 30.

Also up sharply last month were service costs which rose one per cent, the same as in May.

As has been the case for most of the past year, the spurt of inflation took another bite out of the purchasing power of the average production worker.

Real spendable earnings, or take-home pay adjusted for taxes and inflation, fell by three tenths of one per cent last month to a level 4.5 per cent below a year ago. Over the past year, the government has reported real spendable earnings dropped every month with the exception of May, September and July.

Leading the surge in nonfood prices was the rising cost of new automobiles which went up in June instead of declining as usual. Also up were prices for household goods, gasoline, fuel oil and clothing.

For the second quarter of the year, the consumer price index rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 10.9 per cent, compared with 14.2 per cent in the preceding quarter. The rise in the food index slowed from a 19.4 per cent annual rate in the first quarter to 3.1 per cent in the April-June period, the smallest quarterly increase in two years, the government said.

CAN'T LOCATE FILM

I took some Infrared film to Eckerds on June 3 to have it processed. I've called several times trying to find out when it will be returned, and have even called the processing lab, Colorcraft of Raleigh. I've had no luck in locating the film. Can you help me find it? J.B.

Sorry, but even Colorcraft can't find it. Horace Lewis, a customer relations representative for Colorcraft started a search for your film in all of the Eckerds Drug Stores in North Carolina and in the lab, but couldn't locate your film. Lewis personally came to Greenville and spoke with you about the problem and apologized for the mistake. He presented you with a new roll of film and indicated they would provide you free processing service for the new roll of film. Lewis indicated this was the second case of lost film he had personal knowledge of in the many years he had been with Colorcraft and thanked you for calling it to his attention.

WHERE IS THE PRIZE?

Several months ago my mother entered a sweepstakes contest. She later received a letter explaining she had won the contest which included a trip for two and a treasure chest valued at $250. There was a $15 registration fee which covered the paper work. She set them a check and it has been cashed for 12 weeks now and we have not heard anymore from the company. We would like the treasure chest or the $15 back. The name of the company was the Market Development Corporation in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Your only hope seems to be to try and get the $15 back. Hotline's call to Cincinnati to directory assistance produced the information that Market Development Corp. was no longer in business. A call to the Better Business Bureau was placed and they sent us a letter explaining the situation behind Market Development.

The two men forming the company filed for personal bankruptcy on June 28, 1974. According to the letter Market Development may have thousands of creditors all over the U.S. One of the formers of the company, a Raymond D. Anderson of Cincinnati, has had civil suits filed against him for bait and switch operations by a number of state law enforcement agencies, according to the BBB of Cincinnati.

In order to try and collect your $15, you should file a Proof of Claim form with the Court of Bankruptcy, 719 U. S. Post-Office and Courthouse Bldg., Fifth and Walnut St., Cincinnati, Ohio 45202.

MAILED PAYMENT—WANTS REFUND

I received a bill from the Combine Ins. Co. and mailed them a check for $9. to cover the bill. Now the salesman says I shouldn't have mailed the payment and that I will have to write the company and try to get a refund since the company collects their premiums through personal contacts. Meanwhile I had to pay the $9. Can you help me get my refund? Mrs. H.M.

Your $9. was refunded in cash from the Combine district manager in Washington. Hotline contacted D.L. Blackman, the district manager, who has asked us to refer all problems with Combine Ins. to him. He contacted you the same day Hotline called through a field representative and the money was refunded.

Crossing Accident Fatal

PASSENGER KILLED. . . Mrs. Ethel Stepps, 66, of Maury was killed when the truck she was riding in—driven by her son, Johnnie Douglas Gainey, 41, of Maury—collided with a Southern Railroad train engine about 5:20 p.m. on a rural road four miles East of Walstonburg in Greene County yesterday, according to Highway Patrolman J.P. Whitehurst. Trooper Whitehurst, who said investigation of the fatal collision is continuing, said Gainey apparently failed to stop at the crossing and collided with the train engine as the truck continued across the crossing. An estimated $500 damage resulted to the train. Engineer of the Southern train was identified as Joseph Pippin Wiggs of Raleigh.

Ailing Franco Gives Power To 'Successor'

MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco, Spain's 81-year-old ailing chief of state, temporarily transferred power today to his designated successor, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon.

Juan Carlos, 36, who will hold power until Franco's full recovery, was at Franco's hospital bedside.

Premier Carlos Arias Navarro also went to the hospital, as well as members of Franco's immediate family, sources said.

A medical bulletin said earlier that Franco's condition had worsened because of gastric complications. But it added that "physiological constants are maintained within normal levels."

Franco was hospitalized July 9 with a phlebitis attack, an inflammation of the veins. President Nixon has also suffered from phlebitis.

Since he was hospitalized, all previous medical bulletins on Franco had indicated he was improving.

Private hospital sources said

Franco suffered a hemorrhage early today, but no official confirmation was available.

The announcement of the transfer of power came from Spain's national radio. It said Franco decided to transfer power to the prince using provisions of the law of succession which provides the chief of state's successor will take over from him while ill or absent from Spain.

Juan Carlos was named successor to Franco on July 22, 1969.

The prince is a grandson of Alfonso XIII, Spain's last king. He is married to Princess Sofia of Greece, a sister of ex-King Constantine. They have three children—a boy and two girls.

Juan Carlos is popular among Spain's younger generation. He often refers to it "as the new blood to keep Spain going."

On Thursday, Juan Carlos replaced Franco at ceremonies marking the 38th anniversary of the beginning of the civil war that took Franco to power in 1939.

Da Nang Air Base Shelled

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces shelled the Da Nang air base today with 34 rockets, killing 16 persons and wounding 73, military sources reported. They said many of the casualties were members of servicemen's families.

It was the first time the air base had been shelled since the cease-fire agreement 17½ months ago. Informal sources said a fuel depot containing 250,000 gallons of diesel oil was set afire and a helicopter destroyed.

The Communists struck at other government positions along South Vietnam's northern coast and in the central highlands.

Military sources reported 40 South Vietnamese troops and civilians killed and 132 wounded.

Explosion Ripped Big Railroad Yard

By SKIP WOLLENBERG
Associated Press Writer

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — An explosion and fire ripped through a section of a large railroad yard today, injuring more than 100 persons and forcing the evacuation of a three-square-mile area.

Hospitals reported treating 112 persons, including 15 who were admitted. Three victims were taken to a burn center in Springfield, about 70 miles away, officials said.

Officials said the explosion took place at 5:03 a.m. in a string of tank cars.

The fire spread and was still burning more than four hours later as firemen tried to keep the flames from spreading to more cars, including some which officials said contained dynamite and chemicals.

The cause of the explosion was not determined.

Police evacuated an area about three miles square on the east side of Decatur, a city of about 100,000 residents located about 200 miles south of Chicago. Several homes were reported damaged and a high school gymnasium under construction collapsed.

The explosion flattened a building in the Norfolk and Western Railway yard complex that is used by railroad crews for overnight sleeping. It was not known how many persons were in the building at the time of the blast.

"I thought it was an earthquake," said Audrey Hudson, a secretary for the Decatur Fire Department, who lives about a mile and a half from the scene. "It practically knocked me out of bed."

A spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board said the blast occurred as a switching operation was under way. He said, however, he did not know what triggered the explosion.

Colson Loses Law Practice

BOSTON (AP) — Charles W. Colson, a former presidential aide convicted of obstructing justice, has been suspended by the state Supreme Judicial Court from practicing law in Massachusetts.

Colson is serving a 1 to 3 year sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of obstructing justice in the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The Massachusetts Bar Association asked last week that Colson be disbarred. Colson, a Boston native, earned his original license to practice law in Massachusetts.

Sunday Price

Effective Sunday the single copy sales price for the Sunday edition of The Daily Reflector will be 25 cents.

The 25 cents will be required to obtain Sunday copies from Daily Reflector vending machines and counter sales will also be 25 cents.

The weekday price for the newspaper will remain at 10 cents per copy and there will be no changes in subscription rates.

SECOND SUIT

GREENSBORO (AP) — The U.S. Department of Labor filed a second suit Thursday against Liggett & Myers Inc. in which it accuses the tobacco company with wage discrimination among employees in Durham.

Bloodmobile Saw 231 Pints Given

The two-day visit of the Bloodmobile here drew an "excellent turnout," according to Pitt Blood chairman Billy Ross who reported that a gratifying total of 231 pines of blood were collected.

Ross said that 112 pines were collected on Wednesday while 20 persons were rejected. On Thursday, 119 units were collected and rejections dropped to 14, he reported.

The chairman said that the response to the area appeal for blood through the radio and newspaper was especially good for this time of year and he noted that a salesman from Richmond, Va. heard a radio appeal for a specific type of blood as he was traveling through Greenville and went by the Moose Lodge to donate.

He added that several members of the Greenville Service League, who assisted during the visit, also donated blood and a substantial number of first-time donors were recorded.

"We are all real pleased and want to thank the Greenville Service League women who worked so hard and also gave blood and the Moose Lodge for sponsoring the visit and furnishing their facilities," Ross commented.

The next visit of the Bloodmobile to Greenville will be on Aug. 21 and 22 at the Moose Lodge.

Officials Visit Plant

MAKE TOUR OF PLANT—Members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and members of the Pitt County Development Commission tour the assembly line of the new Eaton Manufacturing Plant located near Greenville. Production of the industrial trucks started early this summer and according to a company spokesman, approximately 96 trucks have been produced. Conducting the tour is Don Bornenkant (left, with hand on wheel), unit manager of assembly. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Striking Hairstyles For Summer

SUMMER HAIRSTYLES—Hair is shaping up to shorter, natural-looking styles which are accented with soft, feminine curls. For Spring Summer versatility, the cut is just above the shoulders to wear side-parted and smooth, gently waved, or brushed back to tumble into a soft mass of curls. Left, one cut is divided three ways. For the younger generation, hair flips back from a center part into two tiers of waves and turns softly under at the bottom. Summer sports, center, with curly strands can brush them back off the face to fasten under colorful scarves and headbands for a smashing look on the courts. The 'sophisticates', right, opt for a smooth, sleek look that goes soft at the side with one large curl. (Hairstyles by Adorn.)

Family That Plays Together, Stays Together

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The games people play can score heavily in the effort to hold the American family together.

That's the message from a man who should know—James J. Shea Jr., a master gamesman who truly believes that the family who plays together stays together. The Milton Bradley Company, a leading games and toys firm which Shea heads, racked up gross sales of $146.5 million last year, nearly a 17 per cent increase over 1972, and a $180 million gross is expected this year.

"The increased sale of games has come about for several reasons," Shea, the father of five, said in an interview at the New York showroom of his Springfield, Mass., company. "Part of it is the fear of parents that the family is drifting apart, and the scare of the drug scene.

"Family type games provide communication between children and parents, and parents feel they need this kind of involvement. This can mean board games, cards, physical games, puzzles or outdoor sports games—they've all had a tremendous growth in popularity in the past five years.

"Then there's inflation. Real income for the consumer is diminished and activities are being confined to the home more than previously, meaning more games and puzzles, which were a craze during the Depression. In England, where inflation is even more rampant, game sales have doubled within the year."

Depends on Leisure
The popularity of games is in exact ratio to the amount of leisure available to society. Long working hours and religious prejudice against "frivolities" kept the United States generally ignorant of the pleasures of the gaming board until the Civil War. What board games could be bought were imported from Europe.

Milton Bradley, a Yankee printer worried by financial difficulties, played one of these imported games with a friend in 1860 and felt positively cheered. He decided to publish a game about life in the moralistic Puritan tradition, with "happy old age" rather than "ruin" as the goal. With this "Checkered Game of Life," the first American game manufacturing business was born.

"We issued a new three-dimensional 'Game of Life' to mark our centennial in 1960, but it reflected changes in American values," Shea said. "It is more about the material aspects of life—the chance to go to college, marriage, family — is the spice of life. It certainly affords some sharply contrasting alternative life styles for America's nearly 9 million unmarried women," Gaber adds.

Happy Housewives Give Successful Ingredients
LONDON, England (WNS)—The Women's Institute kicked up a storm when it polled 80 typical, happily-wed housewives in Shropshire on the necessary ingredients for successful marriage. Not one mentioned sex. "Sex is a most important element in marriage," insisted Dr. Mary Forbes, speaking for the opposition. Violet Twine, secretary of the Women's Institute, replied, "Maybe the ladies were too shy to mention sex." At any rate, ingredients for successful marriage included, "Never nag your husband. Make him feel that he is the most important person in the world. Keep him well fed, and have meals ready on time. Agree with everything he says, but don't lose your self-respect."

conservation of wildlife and roller derbies.

TV Games
"But we stay away from games that capitalize on temporary political situations, such as Watergate," Shea said. "When they cease being news, sales stop."

Shea said there was a time when people said television would kill family games. But tying board games into popular television shows has had just the opposite effect.

There are a slew of TV-inspired games including "Match Game," "The Waltons," "The Price is Right," "Password," "Beat the Clock," and "Concentration," a best seller for many years.

Most of the 20 major game companies have their own staff which develops new games and tests them for popularity. Some companies buy ideas from firms which are "think tanks" for new toys and games. The public submits thousands of ideas to the industry each year and a few are a success, bringing royalties to their inventors.

Monopoly Millionaire
The most famous example of this was "Monopoly," devised by the late Charles Darrow, who had been thrown out of a job by the Depression. The game was turned down by Parker Brothers when he first submitted it, but after he had sold a few thousand on his own, Parker bought it in 1935. Royalties made Darrow a millionaire.

"But we stay away from unsolicited game ideas now," a Parker spokesman said. "We used to get 3,000 a year and maybe only five were worth publishing. It was expensive to screen these, so now all submissions are returned unopened."

The old standbys — chess, poker, cribbage, bingo, dominoes and checkers—are holding their own. Backgammon is enjoying a new popularity in both the United States and Europe. The fact that Backgammon began as an Egyptian game 3,000 years before Christ proves that any game with a good balance of luck and skill has a future.

Family Reunion Planned

The 25th reunion of the Carraway family will be held here Saturday. The Rev. and Mrs. John H. Carraway of Bethel will be host and hostess with headquarters at the home of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Harris, 409 Arlington St., and the Holiday Inn Motel. Activities will begin on Saturday afternoon with a picnic dinner served on the lawn of the Harris's. The business session and a showing of color slides of previous reunions will follow dinner at the Holiday Inn Motel. Sunday's reunion dinner will be served at the Batchelors Benedict Club.

Each year the reunion rotates among the brothers and sisters and was first held in Statesboro, Ga., birth place of the Carraway children, then to Cleveland, Ohio, Cincinnati, Ohio, Greensboro, Bethel, Fayetteville, and Princeton, N.J.

Homemaker's Haven

By Sue May
Pitt Home Agent

Most houses have remodeling done in some form during their lifetime either renovation or additions. Quite often these changes are needed and are made when the family is in the expanding stage. There are, however, many families in each of the various stages of life, including senior citizens, who live in houses that are badly in need of repair.

The 1970 Housing Census indicated that over twenty percent of the families in rural North Carolina are living in sub-standard houses. With proper planning and with financial assistance, some of these dwellings could be improved to provide the basic essentials for living by today's standards. Recognizing this factor, various lending agencies have available loans for making home improvements. For example, the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture recently initiated a program to further encourage the use of existing housing and to provide better homes for low income rural families through low interest home improvement loans. This program is one possible approach to improving living conditions for families who presently live in sub-standard houses.

Proper planning is just as important in remodeling as it is in building a new home. Once it has been determined that a house merits remodeling, then it's time to decide how best to achieve the desired end results. Questions such as the following might help in making this decision: Is additional space needed or will a rearrangement of existing space be sufficient? If more floor space is needed, where is the most logical location for the addition? How will the remodeled house look?

Your Country Home Economics Extension Office has access to resources designed to help you answer some of the above questions. Available slides show how basic plans of older houses can be converted to convenient, comfortable homes. Ideas on how more recently constructed houses can be adapted to the needs of a growing family are also available. Providing information on window placement, on location and amount of storage needed, on bathroom planning and on efficient arrangements for various shaped kitchens are all a part of the educational program offered by our office. If you need assistance from our staff, please feel free to call. Our offices are located at 203 W. Third Street in Greenville and the telephone number is 758-1196.

Household Hints

Use glass or plastic liners to protect pewter bottles and trays when you serve citrus fruits and vinegar-based salads and relishes in them. Acids can damage the finish.

Flesh flowers stain the finish on pewter.

Keep kiddies happy and avoid fights at parties by giving everyone identical party favors.

Acorns and butternut squash, onions, potatoes (sweet and white) and corn on the cob should be wrapped in aluminum foil for charcoal broiling.

To get more heat from burning briquets, tap them gently to remove the gray ash.

Husbands Don't Share Their Wage Increases

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — The working man's wages in European Common Market countries keep rising, but husbands don't always share the increase with their wives. "The housekeeping budget frequently stays the same even with inflation at the stores," reported Agnes Rodier, head of Wives Liberation here. Her survey indicates that fair play for housewives is highest in the North and lowest in the South: 78 per cent of housewives in England and Denmark have had raises in their household budgets, and 82 per cent know how much their husbands earn. "The percentages fall drastically in Belgium, France and Germany. They hit rock bottom in Italy, where husbands are not only masters but also keep their wives ignorant prisoners," said Mme. Rodier. She refused to reveal statistics on Italians. "They are too degrading," she said.

Bridal Couple Entertained

Miss Linda King and Ernie Hargett were honored at a cocktail party Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe King, uncle and aunt of the bride-to-be.

Other hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Vick King, Mr. and Mrs. Max Minges, Mr. and Mrs. W.Z. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Stoneham, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carawan and Mr. and Mrs. McDonald Carr.

Guests were greeted by the hosts and hostesses and invited to the patio, which was lighted with flaming torches and hurricane lamps. A basket of mixed summer flowers decorated the refreshment table. Mixed bouquets were used throughout the house.

Miss King and Mr. Hargett will be married Sunday, Aug. 4, in Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Did She Do The Right Thing?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A Southern gentleman fell for a real estate woman and courted her in style. He took her to New York (separate rooms) and showed her a wonderful time. He even took her to a jewelry store, hoping she'd select some rings, but she selected a diamond wristwatch instead. All this time he didn't lay a hand on her because he wanted her to know that he was a true Southern gentleman with honorable intentions.

After the trip, the lady returned the diamond watch, saying she couldn't marry him because the "chemistry" wasn't right.

Abby, that lady is out of her tree! Please send me the gentleman's address. I'm a female chemist who can MAKE the chemistry right. Sign me...
"MADAME CURIE IN A HURRY"

DEAR MADAME: The real estate lady may be out of her tree in YOUR book, but she has a fan in Paradise Valley, Ariz. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for that woman who returned the diamond wristwatch, telling the gentleman she couldn't marry him because the chemistry wasn't right. Assuming Diogenes isn't a male chauvinist pig, and therefore will settle for an honest woman—he can quit looking.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading about the 80-year-old man who looks 60 and dances around like Fred Astaire whenever there is music.

I knew you would say, "Let him have his fun and be glad he has his health." You almost always let the older generation do what they want. If that letter had been from a mother complaining about her teen-age daughter, you would have said, "Tell her if she can't act like a lady, she should stay home."

My father is 60 and looks like he is 80, but he conducts himself in a manner fitting the occasion.

If that woman lets her father go to the wedding and act like a donkey that will make two of them there. R.L.L.

DEAR R.L.L.: If you see two "donkeys" here, I see three!

DEAR ABBY: I rarely miss your column in the Rome Daily American, and was highly amused by your advice to some misguided soul which states: "Relax, a sexagenarian is a person between 60 and 69 years of age." It inspired me to write the following:

A SEXagenarian I'm.
Though I'm told by my friends I don't show it.
As I've never committed that crime,
Why confess it? Then no one will know it.

God grant I be no "agenarian."
Though life then would be less complex.
"Agenarian?" He's no barbarian.
He's a sixty-year-old without sex.

Today's 'Swingle' May Just Be An 'Image'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The image of the swinging single woman, the "swingle," may be just that — an image.

"Reality points to a varied picture: today's unmarried woman definitely cannot be typecast, which is particularly true if where-to-live preferences are any indication."

So reports Robert W. Gaber, president and chief executive officer of Conco Mortgage Co. headquartered here.

Gaber notes that many single women are economic-security conscious but, rather than searching for Mr. High-Salaried Male to support them through life, they seek stability on their own — through their careers, friendships and choice of residence.

"The trend is reflected currently in burgeoning numbers of single women today renting apartments in older neighborhoods.

"Instead of automatically opting for the 'swingles complex,' women carefully consider a number of factors before signing leases," he notes.

Gaber lists some of the attributes of older apartment buildings often cited by single women:

—Diversity in renters' ages and backgrounds. Numerous unmarried women view rentals in older buildings as an opportunity to associate with a wide mix of people — not solely those of their age or marital status.

"Frequently, younger singles say they appreciate having older persons near to counsel them — to give them guidance and stability," Gaber observes.

—Privacy. Women renters point out that there is little pressure to socialize with neighbors in recycled apartment houses — "It's a matter of individual preference, not management policy," one explains.

—The charm, character and tradition accompanying an older dwelling and neighborhood have special appeal to certain prospective renters.

"Ultimately, the selection of an apartment — or condominium — is a highly personal decision. What is one woman's dream dwelling is another's nightmare," Gaber adds.

"Some single women simply prefer the yesteryear charm of an older building to a new or modern structure."

—Locale. Renters — increasingly energy-conscious — are turning to renovated apartments close to town in order to eliminate or reduce commuting.

"Further, women who work long hours often choose to reside near their employment so that when their job day is over, they can be home in 5 or 10 minutes," Gaber says.

He stresses that this recent pattern by no means precludes the continued development of single-oriented apartment complexes.

"Today, there are about 975,000 more single, divorced and widowed women than in 1970. The sheer growth in the ranks of these unmarried means that both housing concepts can survive — and thrive — simultaneously.

"It could well be that for today's single female renter, variety — at least in apartments — is the spice of life. It certainly affords some sharply contrasting alternative life styles for America's nearly 9 million unmarried women," Gaber adds.

Opti-Mrs. Members Plan August Party

Final plans for a party to be given Operation Sunshine girls were made at the Tuesday night meeting of the Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville.

The party will be held Thursday, Aug. 1, at 10 a.m. A highlight of the event will be the presentation of awards to the "most optimistic girls" in the summer program of Operation Sunshine.

Mrs. Joe Johnson, presiding officer, announced that the N.C. District Convention will be held in Asheville Aug. 8-10 at the Grove Park Inn. Convention activities for Opti-Mrs. members will include a ladies breakfast Saturday morning followed by a business meeting. A joint luncheon with the Optimists has been scheduled for 12:30 p.m.

A discussion was held regarding the Greenville Bicentennial and representation by the various civic clubs. Mrs. John Trotman was named the Opti-Mrs. representative.

The club's summer picnic will be held on Saturday, Sept. 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Stephenson.

Border Belt Leaf Prices Inched Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The flue-cured tobacco markets ended their first week Thursday with prices slightly higher in the South Carolina border North Carolina area.

At the same time, a tobacco specialist at North Carolina State University in Raleigh predicted growers would be happier with prices they will receive for good quality, upstalk tobacco.

Almost all grades showed $1 to $3 increases per hundred pounds, the Federal-State Market News Service in Florence, S.C., reported.

With the quality of offerings improved, several grades reached their highest prices of the week Thursday.

The percentage of lugs and cutters offered increased, while primings decreased.

A preliminary report showed the day's average to be $81.90 per hundred, 74 cents higher than Wednesday's official average of $81.16.

Gross sales for the first three days of the market totalled 16,435,369 pounds and averaged $81.65 per hundred.

Most grades Thursday were selling for $2 to $3 above support price.

Meanwhile, tobacco expert W. K. Collins of NCSU said Thursday that industry needs, weather and early marketing conditions have all played a part in holding opening week prices below grower expectations.

He said sales so far had been limited almost entirely to lower stalk tobacco, and demand for this type of leaf is definitely less than it was last year.

However, Collins said prices indicate a stronger demand for upstalk tobacco because it has the flavor, aroma and nicotine that buyers want.

"In my opinion," he said, "growers will be happy with the prices they receive for good quality upstalk tobacco."

Weather conditions this year prevented the crop in many areas from developing a good root system, he said. Since nicotine is produced in the roots, this may have increased the thinness of the lower leaves.

At the same time, Collins said, a higher percentage of the lower tobacco stalk is reaching the early market than has generally occurred in the past.

Monday markets in the Sandhills and Eastern North Carolina are scheduled to open.

Southern Bell Asking $62 Million Rate Hike

RALEIGH (AP)—Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., asked the State Utilities Commission today for a $62 million rate increase.

The company said it is seeking added charges for both business and residential service, as well as a directory assistance charge and significant hikes in installation fees.

"The present rates do not adequately cover the rapidly increased costs of doing business or financing growth to meet our needs," said Vice President Frank Skinner. "So we have no choice but to reprice our service."

The increase would add about $2.25 to the monthly residential basic service rate and $5.25 to the monthly business rate, a spokesman said. The rates, however, will vary slightly throughout the state.

The company is also asking for an increase in the installation charges from about $15 to $46.50 for residential customers and from some $25 to $54.50 for businesses.

Earlier this year, the commission turned down a company request for similar installation fee increases.

Southern Bell also requested permission to charge customers 20 cents for each local directory assistance call above a minimum of three a month. The increase would not apply to calls from motels, hospitals or from handicapped persons, the company said.

Spokesman King Triplett said the company would seek a somewhat lower increase on basic service if the directory assistance charge is approved.

Skinner said inflation had cut company earnings in North Carolina to 6 per cent, and that a level of 9.5 per cent is required.

Earlier this year the commission approved about 25 per cent of a rate increase package sought by Southern Bell since 1973. "Even if we'd been able to get the entire rate, the customer charges would already be outdated."

Seniority Is Sidetracked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats have set aside the Senate's hallowed seniority system in drafting plans for the powerful new Budget Committee, assuring Sen. Edmund S. Muskie the chairmanship and younger senators some seats.

The action came Thursday at a party caucus on how to fill the nine Democratic spots on the 15-senator committee, part of the new structure to give Congress a stronger voice in federal budget-making.

The caucus directed the party's steering committee to pick the nine Democrats so they will be representative in geography and philosophy, a decision representing a deliberate decision to omit seniority.

Muskie told reporters that the intent of the caucus was "quite clear," adding: "My feeling is that was intended as a liberalization."

The change won't affect other committees, where seniority is still followed though the Democrats abolished it as a binding rule last year.

Republicans were scheduled to start grappling with the question of how to start filling the six GOP spots at a meeting of their Committee on Committees today. But it was put off until next week when the Senate decided not to meet.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield launched the caucus with a strong appeal against a strict seniority basis for the new committee, saying it was too important for "routine handling."

He declared that "young members of the Senate are insufficiently used in the basic decision-making processes."

Belmont Abbey Has Help Of A Moslem

BELMONT, N.C. (AP)—A retired Moslem businessman from Iran is helping modernize century-old Catholic Belmont Abbey College.

He is 52-year-old Nasser Jehanbani, whose grandfather and great-uncle were shahs of Iran. Nine months ago, after he chose nearby Gastonia for his retirement home in the United States, he offered to work free for the college. He had a generous pension from the National Iranian Oil Co., of which he had been managing director.

He was taken on as assistant to the president of Belmont Abbey, in charge of special projects.

He has proposed that the board of trustees, which consisted of seven monks, be reorganized to four monks and 13 laymen. The laymen, with backgrounds in economics, finance, research, education, politics and international relations would bring a broader range of thought.

The idea has been approved, and the expanded board is to take over in the fall.

Jehanbani also is trying to obtain financing for a multimillion-dollar institute at Belmont Abbey that would be a center for Middle East research and learning in the United States.

Jehanbani also teaches comparative religions, business management and ecology at Gaston Community College, and history at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Old Canning Method Unsafe

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.Y. (UPI) — New varieties of low-acid tomatoes make an old canning method unsafe.

Extension specialist Audrey C. Burkart, Rutgers Cook College, advises adding vinegar to tomatoes canned by the boiling water-bath method. If you want to can them without added vinegar, use a pressurecanner to prevent spoilage.

Miss Burkart also warned against using agricultural lime in old recipes that call for slaked lime, or a limewater solution to keep acid produce firm. It's loaded with impurities, she said. Only the pure kind, labeled calcium hydroxide U.S.P., should be used. It is sold at drugstores.

Advice By Ervin Committee

Sen. Ervin's Senate Select committee which investigated presidential campaign activity from the 1972 campaign has gone out of business after months of hearings and study of the Watergate scandal.

The committee, whose hearings focused national attention and acclaim on North Carolina's Sen. Ervin, left behind some recommendations for avoiding future Watergates in U.S. politics.

Foremost, the committee suggested a non-partisan Federal Elections Commission which could investigate and enforce election laws. It could levy fines up to $10,000 and refer alleged criminal acts to a public prosecutor's office.

The special prosecutor would be appointed to a five-year term by three retired U.S. Circuit Court Judges. They would be selected by the chief justice.

There would also be a prohibition of the president setting up special intelligence gathering groups without Congressional consent. Administration officials would be barred from Internal Revenue Service files on private citizens. Tax returns of the president and vice president would be made public.

Cash limitations would be established in political campaigns, "dirty tricks" would be prohibited and Congressional vigilance over executive departments would be intensified.

The Select Commission has performed a real service to the people of the United States. The committee carefully studied all the evidence it could obtain about the scandal and now has made recommendations for avoiding future Watergates.

Recommendations of the committee should be considered for writing into law as soon as possible. Watergate has been too divisive and has caused too much concern for our country. We should take every precaution to avoid its ever happening again.

Regional N.C. Office Is Welcome Addition

The N.C. Department of Human Resources has begun to move into the new Eastern Regional Headquarters building on St. Andrews Street.

There will be about 75 employees of the department who will be housed in the new office building that has recently been constructed.

We welcome the regional headquarters here, one of three in the state. We think that the personnel who are being assigned here will find Greenville and Pitt County an exciting place to live.

Radiation Risk All Round Us

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A steadily increasing number of North Carolinians are exposed to potential radiation hazards, and while the chief of the state's radiation protection operation says people are "not in immediate danger," he doesn't think the level of protection is adequate.

While much attention is riveted on possible radiation hazards from present and future nuclear power generating plants, the average citizen is exposed to more serious hazard from dental or medical X-Ray machines or faulty micro-wave ovens at the present time.

Dayne H. Brown, chief of the Radiation Protection Branch of the Department of Human Resources, said he has only three inspectors in the field responsible for more than 5,000 X-ray machines in some 2,500 different locations.

That means the inspection procedure is "greatly compromised," and the average citizen may be exposed to radiation by a machine that doesn't meet minimum requirements, Brown said.

In practice, this means that inspectors concentrate on hospitals and big clinics. Dental machines, those in local health departments, and the occasional X-ray device in a physician's private office is seldom inspected.

Not Checked

General rules call for a check every seven years. In reality most are never inspected.

State efforts, then, tend toward teaching the operators effective techniques to minimize danger. But, Brown added, staff turnover usually means that a person, once taught, isn't apt to be around long to use the new skills in the same setting.

What can the average citizen do about the problem—to protect himself and his family?

"Any exposure to radiation—including X-ray—is harmful, and any exposure that reaps no benefit is undesirable. We don't classify X-ray exposure as a real hazard when necessary," Brown said.

But, he added, go for the least possible number of exposures and insist on your dentist or physician using "good dark room procedures and good techniques for exposure."

"The object, then, is to eliminate the need for retakes, or the need for extra exposure. Make certain that they are getting the pictures they need the first time around, and that the technician is going to do the job right in developing the film so you don't have to go through it a second or third time," Brown said.

Meanwhile, the state is completely out of micro-wave oven inspection, relying on federal regulation to control that hazard.

Brown said there are definite problems and the chance of cataracts on eyes and other potential hazards with improperly installed ovens, or those which do not shut off when the door is opened.

No Inspection

Most micro-wave ovens in homes are required to have adequate protective gear. But scattered around the state are many ovens, especially in small vending machine areas of private business firms, which are not kept in good repair and do not operate properly, he said.

In addition to the public exposure to radiation, a growing number of North Carolinians are exposed to radiation hazards in their work.

Currently an estimated 15,000 people in this state work directly or in close proximity to radioactive materials or other serious radiation sources, Brown said. That number is increasing at the rate of about 10 per cent annually.

As nuclear generating plants get into production, with accompanying transportation of production fuels and waste materials, more and more citizens will be exposed.

Experts becoming more familiar with radiation effects adopt the attitude now that any exposure is likely to be harmful, and while guidelines continue to list "acceptable levels," those levels are consistently lowered as more knowledge of radiation effects is gathered.

"North Carolina does not have a hideous situation. But, neither do we have the capability and quantity of inspection and protection we should have," Brown said.

Odd Partners Over 'Detente'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A ploy by businessmen, hungry for profits from U.S.-Soviet trade, to use pro-detente liberals as a battering ram against the Jackson amendment is being foiled by the realities of American politics.

Defeat of Sen. Henry M. Jackson's amendment, linking Soviet trade concessions to freer emigration by Russian Jews, is the underlying purpose of the businessmen joining liberal soft-liners in the newly formed American Committee on United States-Soviet relations. In the cause of saving detente, it was thought the committee might induce Jackson's potential presidential rivals, Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Walter F. Mondale, to abandon the Jackson amendment.

But Kennedy and Mondale aren't buying. Indeed, one charter member of the committee is quitting over the Jackson amendment. The conclusion: the Jackson amendment's political force exerted by the American Jewish community can suffocate the strange bedfellows in the pro-detente lobby.

The committee was ostensibly thought up by Prof. Fred Warner Neal of Claremont (Calif.) men's college, a veteran soft-liner and cold war revisionist. In a May 21 letter to prospective members, he lamented the absence of a pro-detente lobby "other than, possibly, something like the American-Soviet Friendship Society, which consists of a few tired old Communists and fellow travelers plus Cyrus Eaton, and has no influence at all or a negative influence."

Neal collected mainstays of the Vietnam peace movement for his committee: Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard, MIT president Jerome B. Wiesner, Los Angeles industrialist Harold Willens, former Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

But other members made the committee truly a collection of strange bedfellows. Washington attorney Charles W. Rhyne is an old friend of President Nixon. Thomas Watson, Jr., of IBM contributed $25,000 to Mr. Nixon's reelection.

The most important businessman on the committee is Donald M. Kendall, chairman of PepsiCo, Inc.— longtime Nixon intimate, front man and spear carrier. As chairman of Americans for the Presidency, Kendall is fighting hard against impeachment. Moreover, he represents those businessmen whose one-time ferocious anti-Communism has been diluted by the scent of profits.

On April 19 Kendall signed a contract to sell Pepsi-Cola to the Soviet Union and market Russian Vodka in the U.S. The $5 duty on a gallon of vodka would be reduced to $1.25 by the trade bill's provision granting the Soviets most favored nation status. Accordingly, a pecuniary interest is added to Kendall's undisputed Nixonian loyalty—one reason why Prof. Neal is regarded as a front for businessman Kendall.

That speculation was fueled by Neal's private June 28 memorandum to committee members that revealed his intended lobbying effort against the Jackson amendment. He disclosed: "Sen. Mondale has already indicated to me his disenchantment with support for the Jackson amendments, and is hopeful that our committee can give him some protective coloration if and when he backs off publicly."

The committee's first closed-door meeting at the International Club here July 10 was described by one participant as "an anti-Jackson rally." Jackson was accused, unjustly, of using Jewish emigration to wreck the trade bill in AFL-CIO president George Meany's behalf. Galbraith and Wiesner, academic members of the Kennedy apparatus, were asked to help separate Kennedy from the Jackson amendment.

So far, however, the detente lobby has fizzled as a means of turning liberals against the Jackson amendment.

Mondale, critical of Jackson's hard line, has not discouraged flattering comparisons making a bipartisan Arthur Vandenberg out of him and a partisan Robert Taft out of Jackson. But he still supports the Jackson amendment. Mondale's aides flatly rejected Neal's offer of

The News At The Beach

EAST HAMPTON, N.Y.—

Many people are discovering this summer that it isn't what you read but where you read it that counts. This was dramatically illustrated last weekend at East Hampton, Long Island. I was lying on the beach and the only thing between me and the Atlantic Ocean was a young lady in her 20s trying to get a suntan. In order to do this she lay on her stomach with the top half of her bathing suit undone. This, I assumed, was so that she would get an even tan. As long as she stayed in her position there was nothing to see but her back. But you never know what can happen on a beach.

"I see," my wife said reading the paper, "that the failure of the SALT talks means that both superpowers are going to go full steam ahead on offensive missiles." "What a pity," I said. As I saw it, my best bet would be if some little kid ran by and accidentally showered sand on the girl forcing her to turn her body to find out what was going on.

My wife turned a page. "The bank rates are up to 12 1/2 per cent and now they're predicting they'll get to 13 per cent. Herb Stein, the President's economic adviser, says the only one to blame for inflation is the American people. Do you think we're really responsible?" "If he says so," I replied. There was another hope. If some bather came out of the ocean wringing wet and dropped water on her back, the shock of it might make the girl sit up.

"The White House transcripts don't jell with the ones released by the House Judiciary Committee," my wife read. "Mr. Nixon certainly looks like he knew a lot more about Watergate than he admitted. Why is it taking them so long to impeach him?"

"That's a good question," I answered. My only other hope would be a cloudburst. The icy raindrops would certainly make her panic.

"It says here," my wife continued, "that Mr. Nixon's strategy, if the Supreme Court makes him turn over the tapes, will be to stonewall Jaworski, by saying it will take a lot of time to find the tapes and edit them. In that way the House Judiciary Committee won't have time to hear all the evidence before they're forced to vote. All he's doing is stalling. Doesn't it make you furious?"

ART BUCHWALD

"Live and let live I always say."

"I am, I am. Why is Mr. Nixon stonewalling Herb Stein?"

"He isn't stonewalling Stein; he's stonewalling Jaworski."

"Hmmm," I said. The dear girl seemed to be asleep. My only hope now was that she'd have a bad dream and wake up startled.

My wife continued reading the paper out loud. "The National Football League strike is still on. You might not be able to see the Redskins this fall."

"If you've seen one football game you've seen them all," I muttered.

"Are you all right?" she asked.

"I'm fine. My neck hurts a little from the sun."

"You know," my wife said, "she's not going to move."

"Who?" I pretended to be surprised.

"That topless floozie over there." She folded up her newspaper neatly. "Anyway

To the editor.

I would like to see the citizens of Greenville give serious thought to the Greenville Bicentennial Celebration to be held this fall from October 4th through 12th. Would they like to see it successful? Can they and will they help to make it so? What image do they want it to project for their city? I ask them to speak now or forever after hold their peace.

Many plans are being made and a group of more than 100 volunteers are putting their best efforts into many areas of work to make it a successful event, but full support of all the people is needed if this is to be accomplished. Time is short and action must take place now with great unity of purpose as necessary plans are finalized—plans for a time when family, friends (old and new) and guests gather together to celebrate the birth of our city. Every effort must be made to make it representative of all the people and those who do not share in the preparation of this celebration are missing a great opportunity to know their city and her people better.

Public Stake In Citicorp Plan

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The public has an enormous stake in the planned offering of $850 million in securities by Citicorp, which is the parent of the First National City Bank, second largest in the nation.

Ordinarily a financing of this magnitude by a financial institution of that size would have little or no meaning to the mass of people. But this one has pocketbook significance that everyone can appreciate.

1. If plans proceed, it would provide relatively small savers and investors an opportunity to obtain some of those high interest rates they've been reading about but found difficult to obtain. Not the 6 or 7 per cent they've become accustomed to, but close to 10 per cent.

2. At the same time such an offering might draw savings from the thrift institutions—savings and loan associations and savings banks—and thus reduce the amount of mortgage loans available to home buyers.

If widely copied by other corporations, its critics contend, such money-raising techniques could so drain the nation's fund of mortgage money that the buying and selling of homes might all but cease.

Nobody knows this for certain, because this financing is an innovation into an unknown area.

It has startled many money men and banking and securities officials. It has dismayed the thrift institutions. It is attracting the admiration, and maybe the emulation, of other corporations fighting for funds in a tight-money economy.

First National City Bank, the largest member of Citicorp, couldn't have offered these notes because it is regulated by the Federal Reserve, which sets limits on the interest rates a bank may pay.

A Citicorp offering, however, would serve to sidestep this regulation. Not limited to a specified rate, it is offering 9.7 per cent, higher

Coupon Supply Stored

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Emergency gasoline rationing coupons printed during the recent energy crisis are stored in secret warehouses in case of future shortages, the Federal Energy Administration said today.

The 4.8 billion coupons have been a source of embarrassment for the FEA since Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla., disclosed in May that they could be used to trigger dollar change making machines.

The coupons contain an image of George Washington. The identical image appears on dollar bills.

An FEA spokesman said the coupons, which cost $12.5 million to print, have been stored in several government-owned warehouses across the nation. He declined to specify the locations, but said all were in "secure locations guarded by such government agencies as the Defense Supply Agency, the Federal Reserve and the Bureau of the Mint."

The spokesman claimed little or no money was involved in the storage since all of the facilities are government-owned.

He said the coupons were transported to their storage facilities "in armored vehicles and treated with the same care as currency."

The spokesman said FEA felt the chances of anyone breaking into the government-guarded facilities and stealing the coupons were minimal.

Gunter had claimed the FEA would have to destroy the coupons to keep them from being used in the change machines, but the spokesman said there are no present plans to destroy or alter them.

He noted that the coupons would be worth more than a dollar on the open market if rationing ever should occur. As a result, it would not be advantageous for persons to use them in dollar changers during rationing, he said.

Gunter has been a persistent critic of the coupons, which were printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing as part of a contingency rationing plan.

Monday, Gunter announced his first "Bumbling Bureaucrat of the Month" award was going to James A. Conlon, administrator of the Bureau of Engraving.

The congressman said Conlon was awarded the trophy—a crumpled piece of waste paper—for completing production of the 4.8 billion coupons even after it became clear they were not needed.

Strength For Today

THE SPIRITUALLY
INDISPENSIBLE

The English man of letters, Thomas Carlyle, one wrote: "Two men I honor and no third. First, the toilworn craftsman who with earth-made implements laboriously conquers the earth and makes her man's."

A second man I honor still more highly; him who is seen toiling for the spiritually indispensable; not daily bread, but the bread of life."

There are many people who believe that they will on the last great day be spiritually acceptable because they have never, or rarely, done anything conspicuously evil. But, as Carlyle said, the man worth honoring is the man who toils for the spiritually indispensable; the man for whom nothing in life is of any value unless he has the thing which is greatest of all, namely, life with God. "Such a man is," Carlyle said in another place, "endeavoring toward inward harmony. All else is chaff and dust which the wind will blow wherever it listeth."

Six N.C. Demo Forums Slated For Contenders

RALEIGH (AP)—James R. Sugg, state Democratic party chairman, has announced the schedule of six forums for contenders for the Democratic nomination for state attorney general and members of the Democratic Executive Committee.

The 260 executive committeemen are scheduled to meet July 27 in Raleigh to choose the nominee.

In a letter to the committeemen, Sugg said the nominee would be chosen by secret ballot. If no candidate receives a majority of the vote on the first ballot, only those receiving at least 20 per cent of the vote will be eligible for the second round of voting, according to the letter.

The first forum session is scheduled for today at the Beaufort County Courthouse in Washington, N.C.

Members of the state Democratic Executive Committee from 21 counties in north-eastern North Carolina are to attend the first meeting.

Others of the committee will meet with the candidates as scheduled: Monday, July 22, Cumberland County Courthouse, Fayetteville; Tuesday, July 23, Forsyth County Courthouse, Winston-Salem; Wednesday, July 24, Buncombe County Courthouse, Asheville; Thursday, July 25, Holiday Inn, Concord; Friday, July 26, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh.

Eight potential nominees who have indicated they will attend.

Kennedy is also standing fast for the Jackson amendment despite their many differences. Although Kennedy talks frequently with both Galbraith and Wiesner, he said he has not discussed the Jackson amendment with them.

Indeed, one committee member, Rabbi Stanley Rabinowitz of Washington, D.C., is quitting. He told us he joined the committee as a way "to discuss means of reducing (U.S.-Soviet) tensions," adding: "As it turns out to be a lobbying effort against the Jackson amendment, I'm getting out."

The lesson for Don Kendall, for businessmen and for the White House is clear. They can enlist hordes of liberal professors to condemn Scoop Jackson and his hard-line ways. But whether they achieve their real goal of enlisting liberal politicians against the Jackson amendment is doubtful in the extreme.

Tapes Fail To Impress Ford

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he changed his mind about listening to White House Watergate tapes and after hearing them still thinks President Nixon is innocent of anything impeachable.

Since he took the nation's No. 2 office last December, Ford has insisted it would be inappropriate for him as a potential presidential successor to become involved by listening to the tapes.

However, he disclosed at a hometown news conference on Thursday that he changed his mind because of the controversy over conflicting transcripts.

The House Judiciary Committee on July 9 released transcripts of eight tapes given it by the White House. The committee version of the White House conversations differed in a number of important details from the edited transcripts the White House made public in April.

"I have, I think, read, heard or otherwise absorbed the various material that has been submitted to the Judiciary Committee. There are some differences in the transcripts," Ford said.

"And after listening to two of them, I could understand why there were differences in interpretations," citing their poor audio quality.

"If anybody can be 100 per cent certain that their version is any more accurate than any other version, you would have to be a genius," he said.

Ford's press aide cut off the news conference before reporters could ask if anything he heard on the tapes had influenced his opinion on Nixon's innocence or guilt on Watergate or other matters in the impeachment inquiry.

However, Ford had said earlier in the conference he still felt Nixon had done nothing to deserve impeachment and that the House would not vote to impeach.

Ford said he listened to several tapes, on one occasion at the White House and on another at a place he would not identify, but didn't remember when or which ones he heard.

N.C. Unions See Decline

By The Associated Press
Union membership in North Carolina between 1970 and 1972 dropped from 7.7 to 7.5 per cent of total non-farm employment—a lower percentage than in any other state.

A recent U.S. Department of Labor report said union membership in the state increased at a slower rate than total non-farm employment from 1970 to 1972, the last two years for which data is available.

The number of union members increased by 2,000 during the period, reaching a level of 139,000.

Non-farm employment in the state grew by 3.6 per cent during the same period to about 1.8 million in 1972, the Labor Department said in a report from its regional office in Atlanta.

Nationwide, unions represented about 27.2 per cent of all non-farm workers in 1972, down from 28 per cent in 1970.

Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade

Representatives of all the major tobacco buying companies in the world will be in Greenville on July 22 awaiting their chance for competitive bidding as the Greenville Tobacco Market begins its 84th season. The most sought after varieties and the most superb quality of tobacco will appear on the warehouse floors in Greenville.

A.A. Forbes, Jr. is president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade and J.B. Belcher is vice president. J.N. Bryan serves as Secretary-Treasurer and Supervisor of Sales.

J.N. BRYAN

Every warehouse firm in Greenville will have a sale every day during the season. Under the new designation program farmers have designated the warehouse of their choice on the Greenville Market. I would like to urge any farmers who have not already scheduled their sales to please contact the warehouse where their tobacco is designated for sale in order to set up a schedule for the 1974 season. The Greenville Market has been scheduling tobacco for several years and is already experienced in scheduling, as is being done under the designation plan.

The names of the owners and operators of the warehouse firms are as follows: Cannon's Warehouse, W.T. Cannon,

Carlton Dail; Farmers Warehouse, Harold L. Watson, T. Jack Warren, W. Arthur Tripp and Willie Edwards, Sales Manager; Keel's Warehouse, J.A. (Buddy) Worthington, J.B. Worthington, Fenner Allen; New Carolina Warehouse, Larry Hudson, Laddie Avery; New Independent Warehouse, Winston A. Pruitt, Harold

Forbes, J.B. Belcher, W.E. Pruitt and T.W. Pruitt; Raynor-Forbes & Clark Warehouse, Noah Raynor, A.A. Forbes, Jr. and Billy Clark; Star-Planters Warehouse, B.B. Sugg, Sr. and Harding Sugg.

We are fortunate to have the following buying companies located in Greenville: American Suppliers, Homer Compton, branch manager; Export Leaf Tobacco Company, Joe Gaston, branch manager; Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company, William B. Glenn, president; Greenville Tobacco Company, C.W. Howard, Jr., president; Imperial Tobacco Company, Lt., Joe D. Exum, buying supervisor; International Tobacco Company, Inc., P.K. Andresen, president; Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, A.B. Ayers, Jr., head buyer; J.P. Taylor Company, V.E. Wells, area supervisor; R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Gene Averette, branch manager.

Greenville is also fortunate to have two new companies buying tobacco here this season. They are A.C. Monk & Company, Farmville, N.C. and Austin Carolina Company, Kinston, N.C.

The tobacco companies buying on the Greenville Market are the finest purchasers, graders, handlers and processors of leaf tobacco in the world.

The 1973 season was an outstanding and successful one. The poundage sold was 56,425,086 and the money paid out totaled $50,139,158. The season average was $88.86 per hundred pounds. In view of the fact that the total poundage sold in 1972 was 46,869,306 and the total money paid out $41,086,281, this reflected a substantial increase of 9,555,780 pounds and $9,052,877 above the 1972 season—an increase of 20.39 percent in 1973 over 1972.

There is every indication that 1974 will be an even better season than 1973, which was the most successful season in the history of the Greenville Market.

Caswell Annex To Open Today

RALEIGH—The Caswell Annex at Cherry Hospital, Goldsboro, will open today, announces Field Montgomery, director of Cherry Hospital.

Approximately 150 high-level adult retardates from Caswell Center in Kinston will be transferred to Cherry. They will be admitted and discharged through the hospital, although the funds will come from Caswell.

As a result of the closing of the forensic unit at Cherry, 88 positions were terminated. The opening of the Caswell Annex will provide for 72 new positions at the hospital, with a payroll of $500,000.

The annex will be located in the renovated building which previously served the forensic patients.

The transfer will allow for more room and a better staff-resident ratio at Caswell. This center, with about 1,600 residents, is the largest of the state's four mental retardation centers.

In commenting on the move, Montgomery stated, "This follows the philosophy of developing a human resource complex in which we are providing services needed in the Eastern Region that are not part of a mental hospital as such. By letting one of our buildings be used through a contractual agreement with another institution with a need, we are seeing Cherry Hospital as a human resource center for the East."

Items Recovered After Break-In

An estimated $3,000 worth of merchandise was recovered by Greenville Police officers yesterday after the items were taken from a home on West Fifth Street by would-be thieves.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers recovered four speakers, two turntables, a television set, a radio, one amplifier and a camera and accessories about 7:25 p.m. near 427 West Fourth St. after a caller said three youths were seen with the equipment, but dropped it and ran.

According to Cannon, the electronic and camera equipment were taken from 430 West Fifth St. during a break-in.

Investigation into the incident is continuing.

APPOINTED—Special Superior Court Judge Robert McKinney Martin has been appointed to the State Court of Appeals by North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser. Martin will succeed Judge James Carson Jr. who resigned to accept appointment as State Attorney General and to campaign for election to the same post in the November election. (AP Wirephoto)

No Clear Evidence That Nixon OK'd Illegal Acts

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing in more than 2,000 pages of domestic surveillance evidence gathered by the House Judiciary Committee shows clearly that President Nixon approved specific illegal acts by his assistants. But the record shows that the President set no limit on what his aides should do to halt newspaper stories about sensitive U.S. diplomatic plans. Nixon reserved some of his worst language for describing career government bureaucrats who talked freely with reporters about U.S. foreign policy. He distrusted them so much that he seriously considered ordering lie detector tests for more than 1,000 State Department, Pentagon and Central Intelligence Agency employees, not because he thought they were all responsible for news leaks, but, in the President's words, so he could "immediately scare the bastards."

Nuclear Sleuth Traces A Source

SEATTLE (AP) — Some nuclear detective work points to a New Mexico canyon as the source of the blue turquoise prized by the ancient Aztecs of Mexico. Turquoise mosaics made by Aztec artists are considered among the most stunning pieces of art ever discovered. But the source of the blue turquoise, which has never been found in Mexico, long has been a puzzle.

quise used by the Aztecs exactly match samples he took from Chaco Canyon. And he said that "may help explain a puzzling cultural explosion" that took place about 1,000 A.D. among the Indians in the Four Corners area of the United States—where New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah adjoin.

"Listen, I don't know anything about polygraphs and I don't know how accurate they are but I know they'll scare hell out of people," Nixon said, according to a presidential transcript released for the first time on Thursday. Nixon feared the leaks would jeopardize the strategic arms limitation talks. He thought Daniel Ellsberg likely had more than the Pentagon papers Vietnam War study to make public.

Now nuclear scientists using radioactive "fingerprints" believe they've traced the source to Chaco Canyon, in northwest New Mexico. And they say the discovery probably means the Aztecs, somewhere around 1,000 A.D., developed a 1,000-mile trade route from Mexico City to northwest New Mexico.

"The Indians of the Southwest were still hunters and gatherers until about 1,000 A.D.," he said. "Suddenly they began building magnificent cliff dwellings, the ruins of which we can still see, and developing trade and industry. Archeologists working at the site now suspect that the cultural explosion was caused by a sudden contact with the enormously advanced culture of the Aztecs in Mexico."

He did not believe that making his foreign policy public before it was fully carried out was necessary to the democracy. Former White House special Counsel Charles W. Colson quoted Nixon as saying in late June 1971, "I don't give a damn how it is done, do whatever has to be done to stop these leaks and prevent further unauthorized disclosures; I don't want to be told why it can't be done."

The nuclear sleuthing was outlined here on Thursday by Dr. Garman Harbottle at the Fifth International Congress of Radiation Research. Harbottle, a nuclear chemist from the Brookhaven National Laboratory, explained that his detection technique consists of placing turquoise samples in a nuclear reactor and irradiating them. The patterns of radiactivity provide a fingerprint which can be compared with other samples to determine whether they are the same material.

Harbottle says he uses his irradiation technique, which he says is nondestructive, for other things as well—such as unmasking art forgeries or helping track down the source of oil spills. But he said his nuclear technique won't always work—as in a case where a forger uses the same material used in the original. "Art fakers in Mexico, for example, now are using the same clay sources for their forgeries as the Pre-Columbian Indians used 2,000 years ago," he said.

As a result, wiretaps were placed on the telephones of newsmen and National Security Council staff members. The late FBI director, J. Edgar Hoover, not known for open and friendly relations with reporters, objected and wouldn't even allow the files about the taps against suspected news leakers to be kept in FBI files. The wiretap files eventually ended up in the White House. Later, the special White House investigative unit called the plumbers was formed. Even as the plumbers were planning the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Nixon was complaining to aide John D. Ehrlichman that their efforts were "not vigorous enough."

Soil Data Value To Homeowners Cited

Houses and the land on which they are built represent a major investment for the family in 1974. For this reason, the protection provided by soils data is more valuable than ever. This thought was voiced in Raleigh by Hubert H. Byrd, State Soil Scientist for the USDA-Soil Conservation Service. The federal conservation agency is working to provide modern soil surveys for North Carolina.

include land prone to flooding, steep slopes, or the presence of large rocky areas. "Fortunately, help is available," he said, "Anybody contemplating building will do well to contact their local Soil Conservation Service office, or the local soil and water conservation district. Detailed soils maps are now prepared for many areas of North Carolina, and generalized soil maps for every county in the state.

There is nothing in the committee's massive compilation that shows the President knew in advance that a break-in was planned. But even in the most private of Nixon's conversations, there is no mention of restraint, of caution, of how far his men should go in keeping the President's secrets. Indeed, after being notified 31 months later, Nixon is quoted by Ehrlichman as saying "that the break-in was in furtherance of national security and fully justified by the circumstances."

"This type of information is useful both to the individual family planning to build and to developers who plan a number of houses," Byrd pointed out. "Knowing soil limitations can save time and money for any land use, but it is increasingly important for homes that will use septic tank systems. Many soils in North Carolina are ill-suited for septic tanks."

"A useful publication, 'Soils and Septic Tanks,' is also available from the SCS at no charge, and SCS people can give accurate advice before you start building."

Ehrlichman was convicted along with three others on July 12 for approving an illegal search of the psychiatrist's office.

Soil that has a high water table for long periods each year may lack natural drainage, and block movement of septic tank effluent into the soil. Other solids have a low capacity for absorbing water, or for letting it pass through. Shallow soils, with bedrock near the surface, also limit such disposal systems. Bedrock not only hinders installation of septic tanks, but may have cracks that allow contamination of ground water supplies.

Other hindrances, Byrd said, include land prone to flooding, steep slopes, or the presence of large rocky areas. "Fortunately, help is available," he said, "Anybody contemplating building will do well to contact their local Soil Conservation Service office, or the local soil and water conservation district. Detailed soils maps are now prepared for many areas of North Carolina, and generalized soil maps for every county in the state.

Training Duty For Ex-POW

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (AP) — The former commander of U.S. prisoners of war in North Vietnam will begin directing the training of Air Force enlisted recruits here next month. Maj. Gen. John P. Flynn will succeed Maj. Gen. Robert W. Maloy as Air Force Military Training Center commander at Lackland AFB. Flynn, 52, was the nation's highest ranking POW in North Vietnam. He was twice promoted by the Air Force during his captivity. Flynn was a POW for 5½ years before his release March 14, 1973.

New Test Kit For Police Work

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A Penn State chemist has developed a portable kit that makes gunpowder residue as detectable as grease. Dr. K. L. Pillay said police officers who apply the kit's cellulose film to the hands of a suspect in a shooting incident can determine within two minutes if the suspect fired a gun. Chicken meat that turns darker near the bone after it is cooked indicates a young, tender bird, and has no effect on taste.

By ROBERT STRAND
SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — In the Alum Rock Unified School District, a parent can choose for his child the kind of school that he wants.

And a teacher can run the kind of class that he wishes—traditional or experimental—as long as the parents are happy. This is the nation's first experiment with the hotly debated idea of vouchers, a proposal so radical that few wanted it even tested. "The experiment is alive and well," William J. Jeffers, the schools superintendent said. "The chaos that was supposed to happen didn't. In general the response of parents, teachers and students is pretty good."

In a voucher system, a voucher worth money goes to a youngster to the school or "minischool" of a parent's choice. The minischool flourishes or fails by popular demand. "Educational Competition" — The problem is how to design a system that serves the needs of the clients instead of the system," Joel Levin, project director, said. "Stores without clients close down, but schools that nobody likes usually just go on and on."

With vouchers as "a market mechanism," Alum Rock is an attempt to introduce competition into the educational apparatus. In an unlimited voucher system, parents could use the taxpayers' funds to send their children to parochial or private schools, as well as public, and this has inspired bitter criticism. It was feared that vouchers would be a device for racial segregation, or that it would be a gimmick to circumvent the separation of church and state. That isn't a problem in Alum Rock. Militant opposition has come from national organizations of school administrators and teachers. The administrators do not like the loss of control over classroom functions, and the teachers see voucher systems as a possible threat to job security.

When the federal government sought school districts to try vouchers, and offered millions of dollars, only one in the nation was willing—Alum Rock. "We were looking for a way to decentralize, a way to involve parents and the community, and this seemed a way to do it," Jeffers said. Alum Rock, one of California's most poorly funded districts, is an area of small homes "on the wrong side of the freeway" in sprawling San Jose. Fifty per cent of the pupil population is Spanish-surnamed, 12 per cent black, and 38 per cent white and Oriental. Thirty-six per cent of the families are on welfare.

When the program began, six of Alum Rock's 25 schools joined the voucher program. This year 13 schools, housing a total of 46 minischools, and 8,900 students were involved. No school joins the program without what Jeffers calls "a double green light," approval from both the faculty and the parent community. Typically, a participating school houses three minischools—including one traditional, "basic skills" school. Others run the gamut. Some Popular, Some Not They may be "open classrooms" utilizing team teaching, individualized, multicultural, bilingual or emphasizing specialties such as science or fine arts. One, called "School 2000," builds its curriculum around problems of the future. Some minischools' popularity nas skyrocketed far beyond capacity, others have lost half their pupils—and the money and staff that goes with them. One teacher established his own, one-teacher minischool, but gave it up when he lost two-thirds of his class. The minischool budget is allocated by the teachers. It depends on voucher money, and a parent can withdraw his child at any time. The money is used for purchase of educational materials, and to pay special consultants and aides. One school bought carpeting, another rented daytime use of a swimming pool and a gym in an apartment building, and another leased its own bus for excursions every afternoon. Now that the project is two years old, parents can compare performance test scores and parental and pupil questionnaires of the various minischools. The schools were found to spend virtually the same amount of time on reading and writing. Clearly, the great majority of teachers in the district favor the experiment. But professionals say it is too early to draw firm conclusions, and the experiment has three more years to run.

Because of state laws, the Alum Rock plan did not include parochial and private school options when it was begun in 1972, thus avoiding those controversies. A law was passed this year authorizing inclusion of private schools, but the restrictions were so tight as to make it practically impossible. To the surprise of some, the vouchers did not produce a racial segregation dispute, either. Minischools did not seem to be selected by race, and the poorest families—thought to prefer traditional school options—showed much interest in the innovative, as well.

Concern For Rock Crowd

HARRISBURG, N.C. (AP)—The Cabarrus County Board of Commissioners is worried about the crowd of 70,000 to 110,000 expected for a 12-hour rock concert Aug. 10 at the Charlotte Motor Speedway. The board instructed the county attorney Thursday night to draw up an ordinance aimed at regulating the crowd. The commissioners had before them a resolution from the town council of Harrisburg, 2½ miles from the speedway, asking that the concert be banned. However, County Attorney John Boger said, "I don't think you can prevent it."

The speedway is in Cabarrus County. Stan Kaplan, owner of Charlotte radio station WAYS, which is cosponsoring the concert, said, "We understand the concerns of the people of Cabarrus County, but we have anticipated them." He said he has hired 500 off-duty policemen from Charlotte and elsewhere to help control the crowd. He also said six doctors, eight or 10 nurses and eight or 10 medical technicians have been hired. And he said there will be more than enough toilets.

Seven States Unite Against Cigarette Smuggling

By GARY LUHR ...
Associated Press Writer ...
HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) —
Seven East Coast states are organizing against smugglers who bring contraband cigarettes north without paying millions of dollars in local and state taxes.

The smugglers cost New York State $80 million dollars a year and Connecticut loses $20 million annually in revenue, state officials say.

Officials from the seven states and New York City will meet next month to adopt by-laws and elect permanent officers of the Eastern Seaboard Interstate Cigarette Tax and Enforcement Compact.

"So far, we've only been able to get the truckdrivers who transport the cigarettes. We hope (through combined effort) to get some of the men behind the scenes," said Paul Landau, director of the Pennsylvania Bureau of Cigarette and Beverage Taxes and temporary chairman of the compact.

Connecticut Tax Commissioner F. George Brown said he was pleased with the progress the compact states have achieved to date in combatting the illegal transportation and sale of contraband cigarettes.

The compact, operating informally since January 1973, includes Connecticut, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and New York City.

Early last May, more than 30 agents from the various states including three from Connecticut, took part in a major undercover project in North Carolina. As a result, 13 persons were arrested in Maryland as they carried cigarettes bound for the Northeast.

More than 22,000 cartons were seized along with three tractor-trailers, a van, two automobiles and a mobile home.

"We're not concerned with which state makes the apprehension, just so they're gotten," Landau said.

Brown said the compact would make surveillance and investigation of smugglers much easier and much more efficient.

Each state will contribute manpower and equipment to the effort. In time, the compact hopes to apply for federal crime-fighting funds, Landau said.

Cigarette smuggling — primarily by organized crime — is particularly prominent in the Northeast where cigarette taxes are high compared to the rest of the country, state tax officials say.

The problem increased in Connecticut when the tax went from 18 cents to 21 cents per pack in 1971.

Most of the cigarettes are imported from North Carolina, where the tax is two cents per pack.

The scenario usually goes like this:

Hired drivers buy cigarettes legally in North Carolina for $2.50 or less per carton. The cigarettes are transported along back roads to New York and other predetermined "drop" locations. Hijackings en route by rival smugglers aren't uncommon.

Once the cigarettes reach the Northeast they are sent out through a distribution network and sold for $3.50 or $3.75 per carton — a handsome profit for the smuggler, but still around $1.50 below the retail price per carton in Connecticut.

People buy them from their neighbors or from people they work with and often are encouraged to become distributors themselves, said Philip M. Salafia Jr., head of the Connecticut tax department's special investigation section.

The Connecticut Tax Department is concerned mainly with the distributors, Salafia said. However, if the department learns of an individual who has bought many cartons over a period of time, that person might open his mailbox one day and find a bill for the uncollected tax, he added.

A report by the Connecticut Planning Committee on Criminal Administration shows cigarette smuggling is the third largest organized crime activity in Connecticut after gambling and loan sharking, Salafia said.

He said North Carolina officials, who long ignored the problem, are beginning to take a second look because the same vehicles that transport cigarettes are bringing narcotics, pornography and stolen goods to their state on return trips.

"The logical solution is for the U.S. government to set a uniform (cigarette) tax rate," he said.

Connecticut Congressman Robert H. Steele introduced a bill in 1971 to make carrying untaxed cigarettes across state lines an offense punishable by up to five years in prison and a $20,000 fine.

In Connecticut, the penalty for sale or possession is a $100 to $500 fine for a first offense and a $200 to $2,000 fine plus up to a year in jail for subsequent convictions.

A separate section of the law allows the state to impose a $25 fine on every carton transported into Connecticut.

The investigation unit has grown from three to 10 men since it began in November 1972. During that time 39 people have been arrested in Connecticut, 30 motor vehicles and 22,000 cartons of cigarettes confiscated and more than $16,000 in fines imposed.

Salafia said he hopes the 1975 legislature will pass a law making it a felony to possess more than 100 cartons of untaxed cigarettes. The penalty, in such a case, could be a $5,000 fine and five years in prison.

Churchmen Rap Rumor Of Church Donation Tax

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Taxes on church donations?" "Tax exempt status in jeopardy."

These are recent headlines from fringe religious periodicals, but despite the scare notes, no such proposals are presently before the U.S. Congress.

Any idea of abolishing the tax deductibility of gifts to churches, schools and other philanthropic institutions is "dead, cold and buried," says a staff member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Regardless of the actual situation, however, reports have circulated widely in recent months in church, college and university circles that contributions to them were about to be made nondeductible from federal income taxes.

The claims have stirred a tide of protests to congressmen, and inquiries to educational and church offices in the nation's capital.

Such ill-founded outcries "could result in a situation dangerously close to that of the boy who cried wolf," causing church people to be ignored even when they have a valid case, says the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs, of Washington, D.C.

Its research director, John Baker, says that "during the past few months rumors — based on half-truths and untruths — have spread through the country" that congress is about to act on tax measures that would remove the deductibility of charitable gifts and require ministers to pay taxes on housing allowances.

He says an extensive check shows that Congress, in the foreseeable future, has no plans or intentions to do either.

While it is proper for the churches to speak up on public policies affecting them, he says, they should be sure their actions are "based on solid information and hard facts."

"Hearsay, rumor, scare tactics, fantasy and imagination are poor bases on which to launch church action," he adds.

What apparently gave rise to the rumors were some bills introduced, but which never were scheduled for hearings, got nowhere and were soon dropped.

Strike Cost Many Jobs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Most of the 150 employees who ended a five-month strike at the Rockwell International plant this week in Raleigh will find they have been replaced when they try to return to work.

Robert Click, personnel manager at the plant, said Thursday only a few jobs are available to returning workers.

The International Association of Machinists Union offered to return to work Monday after the often bitter strike for higher pay ended in failure.

Not only did most union members lose their jobs during the strike, the union also was voted out of the plant in a National Labor Relations Board election earlier this month.

"Approximately 45 of the original group of striking employees have expressed an interest in returning to work," Click said. "However, we are almost fully staffed and it does not appear that we will be able to find a place for more than a few striking workers."

He said returning strikers who have registered for work will be given preference over new applicants.

Teachers From Six States In ECU Institute

Thirty-six teachers from 23 North Carolina counties and from Kentucky, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania and Texas are at East Carolina University as participants in a National Science Foundation institute.

The teachers are learning how to implement a new secondary science program, "Ideas and Investigations in Biology" (IIB). The IIB program is especially designed for the "educationally involved" student, said Dr. Charles Coble of the ECU Department of Science Education.

Dr. Coble is director of the institute and is being assisted by Lucille Daniel, Teacher at the Northwest Cabarrus High School, who was among the first teachers in the state to utilize the IIB program materials in the high school science classroom.

Area Residents Assisted By Society

The Northeast Area chapter of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of North Carolina, Inc., better known by the shorter name Easter Seal Society, is giving assistance to four Greenville residents to attend Camp Easter.

The four, Lester Burroughs, Edgar Eatman, Dot Jean Tice and Vivian Bunting, will be leaving Saturday morning to go to Camp Easter in the Pines, located near Southern Pines.

The camp, especially designed to accommodate the physically handicapped of North Carolina—from the ages of 6 to 65, gives a wide range of summer camp experience.

Some of those attending camp will be in wheelchairs. Others will be wearing leg braces, walk with crutches, or have artificial legs or arms. Facilities are provided too for the blind, the deaf, and those who are mentally retarded.

Sessions for varying age groups last for 13 days, and include many activities—swimming, arts and crafts, horseback riding, fishing, boating, outpost camping, nature studies, sports, and various creative arts.

Transportation for the four from Greenville is being provided for by the Easter Seal Society. Susan Clark is the local worker making arrangements for the Greenville group to attend the camp.

Duffus Named To Law Journal

UNIVERSITY, Miss. — New Student staff members of the Mississippi Law Journal have been selected for this year. The Journal, official publication of the School of Law and the Mississippi State Bar, is published five times a year by the law journal staff.

Law Journal members are selected for the staff on the basis of their scholastic records and their aptitude for legal research and writing.

Included in the selections was John David Duffus Jr. of Greenville.

Approved Tints In Sunglasses

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The preferred colors for sunglasses lens are neutral gray and sage green.

So say sunglass makers Ray-Ban, explaining these two colors are recommended for best acuity and color perception. Your eyes do not respond equally to all colors, and in fact they are quite a bit more sensitive to the green wave lengths than to those of other colors. A sensitivity curve of the eye rises from the blue, peaks in the green, and drops in the red.

Road In County To Be Closed

RALEIGH—State Road 1753 (Stokestown Road) in Pitt County from SR 1919 (Gum Road) to SR 1725 (County Home Road) will be closed to thru traffic on July 29, 1974 and will remain closed for approximately 32 days while state highway forces replace a bridge.

During the period the road is closed, there will be a traffic delay time of 10 minutes and a detour length of 7.2 paved miles, said D.R. Eastwood, District Engineer.

Players Strike Drags On

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the National Football League owners and striking players meet again at the bargaining table today amid statements by both sides dripping with acrimony. Federal mediator James Scarce called for resumption of negotiations Thursday in an effort to resolve the labor dispute and end the 19-day old strike.

During the past two days, harsh words were exchanged between the owners and the players over violation of an apparent agreement made with the federal mediator that substantive positions not be discussed in the news media.

The owners yelled "foul" Wednesday after the NFL Players Association held a news conference and proposed around-the-clock negotiations. The union also said that, failing a negotiated settlement, the economic issues should be submitted to binding arbitration and the controversial so-called freedom issues should be presented to a blue ribbon panel that would make factual determinations and recommendations.

The owners countered Thursday by holding a news conference during which they offered a total contract proposal, which John Thompson, executive director of the NFL Management Council, called the "largest money package ever offered in sports."

Bill Curry, union president, then issued a statement in which he said the proposal "is not a serious response to our demands."

"We will be at the bargaining table tomorrow (Friday) morning and continue to look forward to a response to our proposals with respect to the players' freedom," he said.

The freedom issues, which include elimination of the option and reserve clause, have been the major stumbling bloc in the negotiations that began March 21.

The North State went on the boards first getting three in the opening frame of the afternoon's first game. Marion Crisp singled and Peter Pace singled. An error let Crisp score and Pace go to second. Glen Moore singled in Pace and another error let Moore score after Greenville loaded the bases with hits from Lindsey Winstead and Patrick Wilson.

Seymour Johnson, however, rallied for four in the bottom of the first on a grand slam homer by Kevin Cooke.

Greenville tied the game, 4-4, on a home run by Pace in the third. SJ went right back in front with a run in the last half of the third. Seymour Johnson added some room in the fourth inning pushing over two and a homer by Cooke in the fifth got the eventual winner.

Greenville rallied for three in the sixth pulling to 8-7 but could not tie it up. Glen Moore had walked and Winstead reached on an error moving Moore to third. Wilson singled in Moore and Skip Hill was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Jeff Worthington walked forcing in Winstead and a wild pitch scored Wilson. The wild pitch moved Hill to third but a pop-up ended the game two batters later.

The Tar Heel stars got three in the first which was all they had to have. Mark Shank walked and Al Shackleford singled. Both moved up on a passed ball. A ground out scored Shank and a hit by David Carroll drove in Shackleford. Blair Smith reached on a three-base error scoring Carroll.

Greenville picked up two more in the third. Shackleford walked and Carroll doubled him across. Smith singled to drive in Carroll.

Greenville increased its lead to 10-0 in the fifth with five more runs including a three-run homer by Shank. A three-run triple by Shackleford in the sixth helped the Tar Heel stars get their final four runs.

Tarboro scored both their runs in the fifth.

The Tar Heel team was to meet Seymour Johnson today in the championship game at 5:00 p.m. The winner of that game will go on to the districts next week.

John's Injury May Hurt Dodgers Later In Year

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
The one thing the Los Angeles Dodgers needed ... and yet didn't need ... was a shot in the arm.

The National League West leaders found out Thursday night they may have lost one of their best pitching arms going into a frenetic pennant chase. But they gave themselves a shot in the arm by beating the Montreal Expos 7-5 to get a bit more breathing room.

In other NL games, Philadelphia beat San Diego 8-5. Cincinnati slipped 6½ games back of Los Angeles by losing to Chicago 3-2. Pittsburgh silenced Atlanta 4-0 and Houston belted St. Louis 8-2. New York and San Francisco were idle.

Tommy John, at 13-3 the winningest pitcher in the league this year, is going on the 21-day disabled list, the Dodgers said. The ruptured ligament in his left elbow could knock the ace left-hander out for the rest of the season, if he needs surgery.

John was hurt in Wednesday night's loss to Montreal.

But with a left arm gone, Los Angeles came up with an All-Star right arm. They said they were calling up right-hander Rex Hudson from Albuquerque. Hudson happens to have a 13-3 record and was the winning pitcher earlier this week in the Pacific Coast League's All-Star Game.

And another All-Star, Andy Messersmith, kept the Dodgers rolling with a seven-hit, 10-strikeout performance against the Expos.

Phil's 8. Padres 5
Deep enough is where Mike Schmidt put a Bill Greif pitch—deep into the left field seats, a three-run tie-breaking homer that capped a five-run eighth inning and led Philadelphia past the Padres.

San Diego had taken a 5-3 lead with three runs in the seventh.

Cubs 3, Reds 2
Oscar Zamora helped Bill Bonham—and Bonham helped himself in the Cubs' squeaker over Cincinnati.

Zamora turned in clutch relief to give Bonham his fifth victory in his last seven starts and Bonham set up what proved to be the winning run with a fifth-inning double that helped Chicago end the Reds' three-game winning streak.

TWO PINS OFF RECORD
HOUSTON (AP) — When Carol Miller of Waukesha, Wis., and Jane Leszczynski of Milwaukee won the 1974 WIBC doubles bowling championship with 1313 pins. They were just two pins off the tournament record. The mark of 1315 was set by Judy and Gloria Bouvia of Portland, Ore., in 1969.

Mrs. Leszczynski rolled 674 on games of 196, 234 and 244. Mrs. Miller had a 639 total on games of 222, 255 and 162. It was Mrs. Miller's second WIBC crown. A physical education teacher, she won the 1967 All-Events title.

Michigan State track coach Fran Ditttrich has been a member of the Spartan athletic staff 36 years.

In Thursday's American League games, Oakland edged Cleveland 3-2; Detroit defeated Minnesota 5-3; New York outlasted Kansas City 10-6 and Texas nipped Boston 2-1.

Paul Scarlata, business manager, said Wednesday 4,000 seats have been sold at Brown Rink on the campus of Boston University, and that standing room only tickets will go on sale at 6 p.m. July 28.

Players Strike Drags On

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
Cleveland has finally learned to hold its beer. But Gaylor Perry, the toast of the town, still can't get rid of his Oakland hangover.

Almost every time Perry faces the world champion A's, he wakes up the following morning with a big ache in his loss column.

Thursday night was no different.

The A's handled the hard-throwing right-hander for the 10th time in 12 lifetime decisions, beating the Indians 3-2 on 10-cent beer night.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees outslugged the Kansas City Royals 10-6; the Texas Rangers nipped the Boston Red Sox 2-1, and the Detroit Tigers beat the Minnesota Twins 5-3.

The last time they held one of these cheap beer nights in Cleveland should have been the last time they held one of these cheap beer nights in Cleveland. But it wasn't.

On June 4th, some of the beer-drinking fans carried their party onto the field. When the umpires couldn't clear the field, they forfeited the game and awarded the victory to the Texas Rangers.

By The Associated Press BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Lobsters of the World Team Tennis League say their July 28th home match against Billie Jean King and the Philadelphia Freedoms has been sold out.

Paul Scarlata, business manager, said Wednesday 4,000 seats have been sold at Brown Rink on the campus of Boston University, and that standing room only tickets will go on sale at 6 p.m. July 28.

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — The Werder-Bremen soccer team of West Germany, which hasn't lost a game to a U.S. soccer team in five tours of this country, had to rally in the second half of an exhibition game Wednesday night for a 2-2 tie with the Rhode Island Oceaners of the American Soccer League.

Juergen Roerber scored both goals for the visitors; John Cano and Mohamed Attiah scored for Rhode Island in the first half.

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians purchased outfielder-first baseman Tommy McCraw from the California Angels Wednesday.

McCraw played for the Tribe in 1972 and was traded before the 1973 season started to the Angels.

Catcher Alan Ashby was sent to the Indians' Oklahoma City farm club to make room for McCraw.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Salt Fork State Park has been chosen as the site for both the 1974 National and North American canoe and kayak championship races, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources said Wednesday.

The Nationals will be held Aug. 16-18 and will feature the U.S. Olympic team in their first competition against other American teams, the department said.

On Aug. 24-25, the North American Championships will pit teams from the United States, Canada and Mexico against each other in preparation for the World Championships in October at Mexico City, the department said.

Trailing 6-5 going into the bottom of the seventh, the Yankees built their winning rally when Sandy Alomar singled and was sacrificed to second base. Elliott Maddox was safe on an error, with Alomar holding.

Rangers 2, Red Sox 1
Ferguson Jenkins, who won 20 games in six consecutive seasons while pitching for the Chicago Cubs, has his sights set on another 20-victory season.

"I think I can win 20 games this year," Jenkins said after pinning down No. 12 by eight-hitting the Red Sox. Run-scoring singles by Jim Spencer in the third and Cesar Tovar in the sixth slightly more than compensated for Jenkins' one bad pitch.

There's no place like home for a team that loses on the road.

The Tigers got off the road Tuesday and finally got off losing street Thursday against Minnesota.

Bill Freehan's two-run homer keyed a four-run third inning, giving the Tigers their second victory in the last 12 games. The loss was only the third for the Twins in their previous 12.

Iverson Among Five Leaders

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — "There's an awful lot of good players on the tour who have never won," observed Don Iverson, one of five men tied for first place going into today's second round in the B.C. Open Golf Tournament.

Iverson fits that description—a good player who has yet to win—and so do most of the rest of the leaders in this chase for a $30,000 first prize in the 150,000 tourney.

Of the first 10 men after Thursday's opening round on the 6,804 yard, par 71 En Joie Golf Club course, only one—Lee Elder—has won.

"I feel like my old game is coming back," Elder said after his opening 67 left him one stroke behind the five men tied for the top at 66—Iverson, Forrest Fezler, Mark Hayes, Jim Ferriell and Bruce Fleisher, the runner-up in last week's Quad Cities Open.

Tied with Elder were Richard Crawford, Bob Payne, Andy North and Jim Masserio.

Most of the game's top names are skipping this tournament in upstate New York.

Hubert Green, the defending champion here and a three-time winner this year, is an exception. Green, No. 2 money-winner on the tour this year, had his difficulties, however. He struggled to a 40 on the back nine and was well off the pace at 74.

Iverson is in his sixth year on the tour. His greatest claim to fame has been a couple of flirtations with major championships—the 1973 PGA and this year's Masters. He was one shot out of the lead after the first round at Augusta, Ga. this spring, but faltered in the late going.

Unitas Unsure About Final Playing Year

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I'm just here. I don't know what the coach wants me to do," says quarterback Johnny Unitas, entering his 19th—and last—year as a National Football League player.

Unitas is as unsure of his chances of playing this season as the rookies and free agents in the San Diego Chargers training camp here, although he has a no-cut $250,000-a-year contract.

The new Chargers coach, Tommy Prothro, is beginning a new system for the troubled team and says he's building for the future.

And Unitas, at 41, is not the future.

"I understand," he said. "If I were coach of this team I'd make the same decision. I felt the same way a year ago. I couldn't understand why they bought my contract."

The Chargers paid the Baltimore Colts $150,000 for Unitas after the 1972 season and signed him to a two-year contract, reportedly at $250,000 a year. He sat out the second half last season with back and leg injuries. The Chargers finished 2-11-1, their worst season ever.

Despite the likelihood he will see little or no action on the field this season, Unitas reported to the training camp on schedule, becoming the only Charger veteran to cross the picket line outside U. S. International University. About 20 teammates were on the line with signs asking him not to cross.

"I have an obligation to be here, an obligation to the Chargers and an obligation to my family," he said in an interview.

"I don't oppose the players' union, though I'm not real clear about the freedoms they're demanding. They're striking for things that don't concern me. I can't look ahead seven years, this is my last season."

Court Upholds Suit Appeal

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has upheld drag racing promoter Robert Carrier's appeal of a $100,000 damage award against him in a suit by the American Hot Rod Association.

In another decision Thursday, the court denied AHRA's appeal of a lower court ruling against another of its suits.

That suit charged breach of contract by Carrier and other principals of the Rockingham International Raceway in North Carolina.

A U. S. District Court in North Carolina had made both the appealed rulings.

In reversing the damage award against Carrier, who is part owner of the Bristol International Speedway, the appeals court said a contract involving him and AHRA so restricted him as to be "unreasonable and therefore in restraint of trade."

And it said in an opinion on the breach of contract suit that evidence showed the AHRA itself had failed to abide by the contract.

The disputes evolved this way:

Carrier, who later became founder of the International Hot Rod Association, was one of several investors in the Rockingham track when it was developed in 1968.

AHRA was included in the contract to sponsor and sanction races at the track.

Part of the agreement was that AHRA wouldn't sanction or sponsor any other major races in North Carolina or within 150 miles of Rockingham.

Then a year later, another clause—the one objected to by the appeals court—was inserted in the contract to prohibit Carrier from participating in or having financial interest in drag racing "except as the owner of a single track."

According to testimony in the lower court trial, well-known racers promised by AHRA failed to show up at Rockingham, promised purses didn't materialize and AHRA scheduled another major event in conflict with a Rockingham racing date.

Then in November 1970, Carrier established the International Hot Rod Association for the purpose of operating and sanctioning racing events.

And he told AHRA he was repudiating it because it hadn't lived up to its contract.

AHRA's breach of contract suit against Carrier and other Rockingham investors was filed in September 1971.

Greenville Wins Swimming Meet

WILSON—Greenville's Swim team rolled up a 218-146 win over Wilson Wednesday for its first win of the year. The win evens the team's record at 1-1.

Triple winners were Laura Scharf, Ann Richards, Kevin Richards, Lance Timmons and Art Klose.

Several of the Greenville swimmers will be participating in the Seymore Johnson Invitational meet at Goldsboro. The next dual meet is set for July 24 against Tarboro in Minges Natatorium.

Dean Returns Home To Wiggins

By BILL CRIDER Associated Press Writer

WIGGINS, Miss. (AP)—The body of baseball immortal "Dizzy" Dean lay in a funeral parlor today for old fans and friends who wanted to pay last respects.

Gov. Bill Waller declared a three-day mourning period for Mississippi. The funeral was set for 10 a.m. Saturday in First Baptist Church here.

Jay Hanna "Dizzy" Dean, 63, died in a Reno, Nev., hospital Wednesday after a heart attack and nearly everybody who knew him was unanimous about one thing—he lived a great life.

He was big league baseball's folk hero of the 1930s, then became a memorable sports commentator with a cotton-picking Arkansas twang and very casual grammar.

Through it all, he was a happy humorist who made both friends and money with no apparent effort.

"He enjoyed every minute of it," said his nephew, P. J. Dean of Springdale, Ark. "He never even had a Blue Monday."

P.J. is the son of Dizzy's brother Paul, who was known as Daffy back in the days when they were a premiere brother act for the old St. Louis Cardinals.

The Cards won the pennant in 1934, with "Dizzy" logging a 30-7 season. "Daffy" won 19. In the World Series, Ole Diz won two games, Daffy won two, and that was the championship.

Dean's coffin was flown to New Orleans, 80 miles to the southwest, and brought here by hearse. Even before the undertaker had the scene set, old fans were stopping by.

Despite his nickname, and the fact that his formal education ended at the third grade,

Dean was a shrewd businessman.

"He was the smartest third grade graduate you ever saw," said Edward R. Taylor, a Wiggins Bank vice president who was one of Dean's best friends here.

"He didn't read much but he was very quick with figures. He always knew the score."

Goes Into Semi-Finals

LINVILLE, N. C. (AP)—The Linville Golf Club Women's Invitational Tournament moved into the semifinals today with the qualifying medalist, Mrs. T. S. Callender, and the runnerup, Mrs. Graham Trott, leading the way.

Mrs. Callender, of Greensboro, faced Mrs. J. L. Mann of Sarasota, Fla., and Mrs. Trott, of Raleigh, met Mrs. William Edmonds of Birmingham, Ala.

Today's winners will meet in the 18-hole championship match Saturday over the club's par 72 layout which the women are playing at about 5,500 yards.

In Thursday's play, Mrs. Callender beat Mrs. Richard Rendleman of Salisbury, 4 and 3, and Mrs. Trott gained a 3 and 2 decision over Mrs. John Rolston of Park Ridge, Ill.

Mrs. Edmonds ousted another Birmingham player, Mrs. John Harbert, 5 and 4, and Mrs. Mann defeated Mrs. Amos Huguely of West Point, Ga., 2 and 1.

Win On Passing

MEMPHIS (AP) — The Memphis Southern hadn't planned on much of a passing attack Thursday night, but veteran quarterback John Huarte gave them one anyway in a 16-8 World Football League victory over the Portland Storm.

"The game plan didn't call for any more passes than last week, but the Portland defense just dictated pass," Huarte said.

So, Huarte, who completed seven of 13 a week ago against Detroit, hit 15 of 24 for 197 yards and the two touchdowns against Portland.

The victory, witnessed by a home crowd of 31,088 and a national television audience, gave Memphis a 2-0 record. Portland is winless in its two games.

Huarte, 31, a Heisman Trophy winner at Notre Dame, played only sparingly in 10 years with five National Football League teams before giving up football last season. He decided to give it another try with the Southern.

Was Thursday night's performance the best of his professional career?

"It was one of them," Huarte said.

His touchdown passes were for 42 yards to rookie wide receiver Jack Ettinger on Memphis' first possession and for 14 yards to receiver Ed Marshall late in the third quarter. Marshall's touchdown, set up by defensive back David Thomas' interception and 20-yard return to the Portland 17, broke an 8-8 tie.

Ettinger was all alone for his catch.

The Storm scored its touchdown with 6:07 left in the third period on quarterback Greg Barton's 29-yard strike to rookie Sam Dickerson.

Managers Hoping To Give Pitchers A Rest

NEW YORK (AP) — In an attempt to give the American League an edge against the National in baseball's All-Star Game July 23, AL President Lee MacPhail says league managers have agreed to try and keep All-Star pitchers from pitching Sunday, so they they are well-rested.

"It's just an informal agreement," said MacPhail, who replaced Joe Cronin as AL President earlier this year.

"I've always felt that we should have some rested pitchers in order to win," he said Thursday. "It would be unfair to the fans to have the pitchers work Sunday and then not be available to pitch Tuesday."

Gaylord Perry of Cleveland, who pitched Thursday night, is expected to start for the American League Tuesday night. If MacPhail gets his wish, pitchers Steve Busby of Kansas City, Jim Hunter of Oakland, Luis Tiant of Boston, Wilbur Wood of Chicago and Mike Cuellar of Baltimore—all starters—also will be rested.

The other pitchers, John Hiller of Detroit and Rollie Fingers of Oakland, are relievers.

A spokesman for the National League office in San Francisco said the senior circuit was not planning any similar agreement.

The National League has won 10 of the last 11 All-Star Games, and holds an over-all 251-81 edge. The AL last won in 1971.

MacPhail also said the usual policy of using as many as possible might not be followed, if the outcome was at stake.

"I've talked with Dick (AL Manager Dick Williams) and we agreed to concentrate on winning and that it was important to keep the best team on the field at all times. I told Dick that winning comes first, not keeping the players happy."

Last year, a record 54 players played in the All-Star game at Kansas city, won by the National League 7-1. Only four players did not participate.

Angels Boasting Winning Streak

BALTIMORE (AP) — Although the California Angels lost their first 10 games in a row under the guidance of Dick Williams, he says he never considered changing his managing style.

Since ending the skid, the Angels have won five of their last six games and take a four-game winning streak into a weekend series against the Baltimore Orioles that opens tonight.

"I don't manage by the book," Williams says, "because I never found the guy who wrote it."

The man who skipped Oakland to two straight World Series championships said he likes to keep the pressure on opponents.

"It's the way I've always managed and I see no reason to make a change. Right now, I'm sort of feeling my way around, finding out what my players can do."

Williams said, "Eventually, I want players who can execute the hit-and-run, the bunt-and-run and the other plays that force the opposition to handle the ball often. The more you make the other team handle the ball, the better your chances are."

He says he prefers surprise to playing the percentages all the time.

"I'm a gambler. When I do the right-left switch in pitching or with batters, I'm trying to force the other manager to make a move. It's more matching wits than playing percentages."

Williams added he is still learning about his new team.

INTREPID UNDER FULL SALE—The American yacht Intrepid rounds a marker off Newport and sets a course under her spinnaker sale during the race Thursday with Valiant, another U.S. yacht, during the Americas' Cup observation trials. Interpid To Face Yacht Courageous NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The wooden yacht Intrepid, embroiled in a sailing controversy after a minor collision, faced another key battle today in the U.S. observation trials for the America's Cup.

Intrepid was to face arch-rival Courageous once again on Rhode Island Sound after the collision Thursday with the Valiant, a winner for the first time after the racing accident.

Although both sides submitted official protests, no ruling was immediately announced by the New York Yacht Club, holding the trials to select a U.S. entry for the Sept. 10 series.

Intrepid broke its steering quadrant in the collision during the tight maneuvering near the second windward mark. Valiant cracked one of its ribs and two planks. However, there were no injuries.

Intrepid's stern hit Valiant's starboard side ahead of the mast ripping a grapefruit-sized hole amidships near the waterline.

Skipper Gerry Driscoll of Intrepid had to use his trim tab, a smaller rudder attached to the keel, to finish the race and lost by 28 seconds to the wooden Valiant, which had Ted Turner at the helm.

The loss dropped Intrepid's total record to 10 victories and four defeats in the preliminary and observation trials. The Valiant had been winless in nine test races before.

The aluminum Courageous 8-4, had lost to the defending 1970 champion Intrepid four times. Another aluminum contender, the Mariner, was sidelined for hull alterations with a 2-3 record.

Intrepid and Valiant were locked in an unexpectedly close battle on a 12-mile course when both yachts went head-to-wind in gusts up to 18 knots before the collision in their second race of the day.

In the first race, Intrepid, the favorite, triumphed by 3 minutes, 16 seconds on a triangular windward-leeward course of 18.7 miles.

Australia's Southern Cross, an aluminum vessel, meanwhile, defeated Gretel II, her trial horse, by 1:27 over the full 24.3-mile course during practice.

The Worry Clinic

No 'Coasting' After Wedding

Lynn thought she could "coast" on her mate's wedding vow to love her all his life. But that's a false pledge, incapable of being fulfilled, for emotions are not subject to will power. They must be evoked by outside stimuli.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-689: Lynn G., aged 35 is the victim of a sex delusion. "Dr. Crane," she tearfully began, "we have been happily married for 14 years.

"And have 3 wonderful children.

"But now I find that Bob is running around with another girl who is barely out of high school.

"What makes men so fickle and easily weaned away from their marriage vows?

"For at our wedding, he solemnly promised to love me till death should part us.

"Don't men's vows mean anything at all?"

False Vows
New brides are often deluded by that wedding vow to "love, honor and cherish" till death.

But it is a psychological impossibility to promise the effective future delivery of emotions!

For emotions, such as love, fear, terror and rage, must always be evoked afresh at the distant future date.

They cannot be revived merely because of a previous pledge.

For example, you readers might promise me faithfully that tomorrow at exactly noon, you'd be frothing at the mouth in rage or shedding tears of grief or trembling in terror.

But when the clock strikes 12 tomorrow, none of those previously pledged emotions will suffuse you unless something in the environment tomorrow will resurrect them!

In brief, you are guilty of false promises on your wedding day when you vow to love your mate in the future!

Oh, you can solemnly pledge that you will perform muscular acts in the future and then fulfill such vows.

You can thus swear faithfully that you will walk around the block tomorrow noon or do some push-ups or even recite a poem, thus exercising your vocal muscles.

And when noon arrives, you can produce such muscular acts. But not emotions!

So a bride who "coasts" on her mate's wedding vows is in grave danger.

Remember, a husband cannot love you next week or next year because of any previous wedding vow!

Instead, you wives must arouse his love afresh by what you are or do or say at that future date!

If you have grown fat and listless in the boudoir, or don't bathe often enough and have cigarette halitosis, or are too preoccupied with the kiddies, plus your social obligations, beware!

For then you aren't the stimulating romantic partner he married!

So you are not the adequate stimulus for setting off the former erotic emotions that you aroused in your husband on your honeymoon.

It isn't the other woman who breaks up your marriage!

No, the guilty female is the one whose face stares back at you from your bathroom mirror!

Wives, quit trying to pass the buck when your mate strays!

Even the most moral husband can't make himself love his wife, for that's her responsibility and vice versa.

So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Lightning-Tamers Try Technique In Colorado

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government weather scientists have launched an effort to tame lightning, one of nature's most destructive weapons.

Their experiments, just started in thunderstorm-prone Colorado, involve a variation of a technique developed in World War II to jam enemy radar.

Developing thunderstorms are to be seeded with literally millions of inch-long aluminum-coated nylon thread fibers, called chaff. The needle-like fibers will be spewed from aircraft flying through the heart of a brewing storm.

The object is to cause thunderheads to discharge their electrical energy slowly, rather than in sudden and violent bursts of lightning. In World War II, chaff was deployed from aircraft as a kind of decoy screen designed to protect American bombers from the searching eyes of enemy radar. The technique became known popularly as giving the "electronic raspberry" to the enemy.

Announcement of the newly launched project came on Wednesday from the Commerce department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

Heinz W. Kasemir, chief of the Colorado project, stressed that the would-be lightning tamers are not trying to suppress lightning in all its forms. He indicated that a little lightning can be a good thing, by adding nutrient nitrogen to the rain and consequently to the soil, as well as by playing an important role in balancing the planet's "electrical budget."

"We want to be able to suppress severe lightning that comes when it is least welcome—for example, during very dry periods in forest areas and during spacecraft loading and launching operations," Kasemir said.

The experiments will last through August.

Two aircraft—a B26 and a Convair T29 on loan from the Air Force—will operate out of Jefferson County airport, south-east of Boulder, flying their missions during the middle and late afternoon, when Colorado thunderstorm activity is greatest. Their project will concentrate mainly on the northeast corner of Colorado and adjacent areas over Nebraska and Wyoming.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠

This hand played a vital part in determining the winners of Italy's major team championship. It is only fitting that victory went to the player with the courage to back his judgment.

South needed no more than a sign of life from his partner to decide that there has to be reasonable play for four spades. Rather than reveal anything about his hand, he leaped straight to game.

At both tables of the match, West found the inspired lead of the five of hearts, and at each table East made the expert play of the jack, won by declarer's queen. At one table, declarer entered dummy with the king of clubs and successfully finessed the jack of spades. When the king did not fall under the ace, he eventually had to surrender a trump trick and two diamonds for down one.

The successful declarer did not immediately commit himself to a spade finesse. After winning the queen of hearts, he returned the nine, covered by the ten, king and ace. East shifted to the ten of diamonds, and the defenders took two tricks in that suit to complete their book. West then exited with a diamond. Declarer ruffed, and it seemed he was bound to meet the same fate as his opponent.

However, declarer was aware that four missing cards are more likely to divide 3-1 than 2-2. Thus, it was unlikely that one spade finesse would be enough—he needed to finesse twice. For that, however, he would need two entries to dummy where, apparently, there was only one.

To create a second entry to dummy, declarer led a club and, when West played low, he boldly finessed the ten. This was a brave play, for declarer knew he was taking an unusual line that might cost him the championship—and it was only just that it should succeed. It was now a simple matter to lead a trump to the jack, reenter dummy with the king of clubs and repeat the trump finesse, thereby making the contract.

Professor Was Wrong

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — An Alaska man who flunked a "Problems of Marriage" course 33 years ago thinks his grade should be changed because he has proven his professor wrong. Leroy M. McDonald of Anchorage told Washington State University's registrar this spring that he has been married to the same woman for 31 years.

McDonald asked whether he should petition university regents for special consideration. He said he was "trying hard to get a degree before my youngest child does."

It was the second time McDonald has tried to have his academic failure in Sociology 40 in 1941 wiped off the records. Six years ago, he wrote the university, "This year I completed 25 years of marriage to the same woman and have raised two fine boys. Is it possible that you could extend me credits for this course?"

He noted that he received an "A" in a welding course but said he was certain some of those welds since had broken.

WSU Registrar C. James Quann said that perhaps McDonald should be hired as a consultant for the course, which is still in the curriculum.

White Indians Found In Wild Amazon Region

By RICARDO INOJOSA
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Disappearing into the forest for days, a small band of Brazilian Indian workers came out of the wild Amazon jungle with astonishing news — they had contacted white Indians.

The men from Brazil's National Indian Foundation — Funai — had been on an exploratory mission up the Ipi-xuna River which flows to meet the Xingu. One of the tributaries of the mighty Amazon "Ocean-river."

Nature is magnificent and tough in that region. Toucans, parrots, and a countless variety of other birds chatter through the jungle which also hosts the enormous anaconda snake that takes month-long naps while digesting capybara pigs swallowed whole.

The white, blonde-haired, blue-eyed Indians were swimming in the Ipi-xuna River, the men claimed after they emerged from the tangled forest. The Indians were friendly and showed no fear of the intruders.

Although the white-skinned Indians spoke a completely strange language, the FUNAI men said they managed to communicate and discovered the tribe had close to 100 members.

Raimundo Alves, the expedition's leader, wrote a detailed report illustrated with color photographs and send it to FUNAI headquarters.

Puzzled by the information, Helio Rocha, director of FUNAI's Commission of Amazon Affairs (COAMA) and a professional anthropologist, left his office and flew to the jungle city of Altamira to check the facts personally.

Although the group had little

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JULY 20, 1974

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Enjoy pleasurable activities that bring you release from tensions. Deepen the feeling of congeniality that exists between you and those of whom you are fond. Give praise.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) The one you love is in a fine mood and this can bring happiness. Keep charming. Enjoy recreations with good pals.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Chat with kin and see how to make your abode more charming and comfortable. Guests in p.m. can be helpful to you and will enjoy your home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Garner information required to become more efficient at home and in business. Make sure you know what you want, then shop in a.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Elevate your consciousness to greater things, then plan just how you are going to achieve your ambitions. Confer with bigwig to gain support.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You look and feel charming and can make a fine impression on others, so gad about where it counts the most. Repay social debts graciously.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think out what your new projects are going to be and how you can make them work satisfactorily. Then quietly go about laying the groundwork. Romantic p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Discuss problems with good friends who can give you right advice on easy solutions. Then get out to social affairs. Dress in good style.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get your finest talents to the attention of higher-ups and let them help you commercialize on them. Add to prestige you now enjoy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get out to some new place where you can be more highly inspired. Find the companions who can help make your life less lonely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have some new plan in mind but be sure to test it as to practicability. Spend time with the one who means the most to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talking over new and old deals with partner leads to a better future. Use care in handling some civic matter that may suddenly come up.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Improve your environment and appearance and delight others more. Shop early for best results. Your health should be improved also by proper treatments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need to be encouraged a good deal early in life if the fine promise in this chart is to be realized, since the nature here is greatly talent-loaded. Give the finest education you can to bring out these talents. Exercise patience and courtesy with your progeny, who will respond well to such. An ideal chart for government work or anything else dealing with the public.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Many of the fine old houses you see today were built in an era where pride in craftsmanship meant a great deal. They were comfortable, practical, and built to last. Today these are the qualities you'll find in Greenville's newest planned development, CAMBRIDGE.

CAMBRIDGE offers a variety of three, and four bedroom homes, ranging in price from $35,000 to $40,000. All are airconditioned and carpeted throughout, with numerous options from which to choose. Whether you're looking for a ranch house, a split level, or a two-story, you'll find them all at CAMBRIDGE. Best of all, if you need financing, it can be arranged at just 8 1/4% interest.

Located off Hooker Road CAMBRIDGE was designed by Realty Industries to be near recreation and shopping areas. It's the one development made especially for people like you who want the finest quality home at prices you can afford. CAMBRIDGE is now open for inspection. For further information, call Blount and Ball at 752-6163.

INTERESTING FACTS

Oddly enough, the famous Battle of Bunker Hill in the American Revolutionary War was NOT fought on Bunker Hill!

Why, then, was it called the Battle of Bunker Hill?

The commander of troops that day had orders to protect Bunker Hill but he chose to fight the actual battle on nearby Breed's Hill instead.

Thus, although the fighting took place on Breed's Hill, the event went down in history as the Battle of Bunker Hill.

And, here's another interesting fact . . . speaking of locations . . . here is one of Greenville's best! Near all schools, in lovely, well-kept neighborhood. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, foyer, living room, dining room, breakfast nook, kitchen, utility area, central air, fully carpeted over hardwood floors, family room with fireplace. Built-in range, oven, dishwasher and disposal. 318 Prince Road, $42,000.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets prices improved on all sizes Thursday. Supplies were barely adequate, demand good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets.

Grade A large whites 58.73, medium whites 56.72, small whites 40.82.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—F.O.B dock broilers: Market steady to stronger. Supplies adequate for good demand. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter 1,250,000.

N.C. Hens: Market tone fair. Supplies barely adequate and demand generally good. Heavies at farm, nine cents. F.O.B plants 13.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—N.C. Hogs: Market steady. Rocky Mount, 35.50-36.00; Tarboro and Bethel, 34.25-34.75; Salisbury, 35.00.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed today as news of continuing double-digit inflation thwarted an early advance.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down .47 at 788.82, although gainers maintained a 3-to-2 edge on losers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was slow. Wall Streeters had arrived at their offices generally optimistic this morning after the Federal Reserve's weekly banking report late Thursday, which showed a smaller rise in loan demand than some observers had expected.

But the atmosphere was cooled by the government's report as trading opened that consumer prices soared at a 12 percent annual rate in June.

The Southern Co. led the NYSE active list, down 1/4 at 12 1/2. A 99,900-share block of the stock traded at 12 1/4.

Honeywell slumped 4 to 48. The company announced the permanent layoff of 600 employees in its Boston area computer operations in what it termed a cost-cutting move.

Zenith Radio, which reported sharply lower second-quarter earnings, gave up 1 1/4 to 18 3/4.

Golds continued strong. Homestake Mining was up 1 3/4 at 50 1/4, hitting an all-time high during the session; ASA, Ltd., rose 1 1/2 to 89 1/2; Campbell Red Lake, 1 1/2 to 41 1/2; and Giant Yellowknife, the American Stock Exchange volume leader, 1/2 to 17 1/2.

Bullion prices, rising again in world markets, helped spark the buying. Eldon A. Grimm at Birr, Wilson & Co. said it appeared the issues also were benefiting from short covering, or the purchase of borrowed shares sold earlier in the expectation of price declines.

The NYSE's composite index was up .14 in the first hour, while the Amex market value index gained .23 to 79.63.

Give Allowance For Adoptions

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Employees of Pitney Bowes who adopt children now receive the same reimbursement under the corporation's benefit program as those who have children by natural birth, according to James L. Turrentine, vice president-employee and public relations. The business systems and equipment company's $600 allowance for each adoption is an additional company-supported benefit, rather than a provision of its regular medical-dental insurance program.

"The adoption allowance recognizes the high cost of agency or legal fees and other costs involved in an adoption," Turrentine said. "These costs can be comparable to or greater than those attending a birth." He said adopted children had always been eligible for the company's benefits for the dependent children of its employees.

Driver Charged In Collision

Gloria Madarang Canonizado of Columbia, N.C. was charged with failing to see he intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:56 p.m. collision on Tenth Street 250 feet West of the Rock Springs Road intersection, Greenville police reported.

Investigators said the Canonizado car collided with a vehicle driven by Robert Earl Manning of Route 1, Grimesland causing an estimated $100 damage to each of the two cars. No injuries were reported.

HISTORIC JOB

ALBANY, Ore. (UPI)—Svarra E. Martinson, 89, Albany, helped install the first teletype machines in the office of the American ambassador to China in 1920.

Martinson traveled to China after finishing his service with the Russian Railway Service Corps, an organization of American railway engineers who were sent by the American Army to Russia in 1917 to help improve the Trans-Siberian Railroad.

psychiatrist. Nixon has maintained publicly that he abhorred the incident.

—Memos by late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on three occasions cited Henry A. Kissinger as directly authorizing wiretaps on government officials and newsmen. Kissinger has denied making such requests and has asked the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to clear him of any such involvement.

—To stop news leaks in 1971, Nixon seriously considered ordering lie-detector tests for 1,000 or more government workers with access to top-secret documents. The President didn't pursue the idea when he was informed that a single suspect had already been identified.

—Vice President Gerald R. Ford said he has listened to some of the White House tapes and that he now understands why there is disagreement over what they say. The audio quality of the tapes was poor, he said.

In his final defense argument before the committee Thursday, James D. St. Clair, Nixon's attorney, asserted there was no evidence of presidential involvement in Watergate or any other matters the committee has investigated.

Turks Talk Intervention

By EMEL ANIL

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Premier Bulent Ecevit returned home from London today to increasing demands for Turkey's armed forces to intervene in Cyprus and prevent Greek annexation of the island.

Turkish troops continued to mass along Turkey's southern coast 44 miles from Cyprus and naval units continued maneuvers along the Turkish coast as they have been doing for several days.

Government sources said the ships—including destroyers, submarines and small gunboats, were on routine patrol. They said no landing craft, necessary for any intended landing of troops on Cyprus, have left Turkish ports.

The Turkish cabinet announced it would ask parliament on Saturday for extraordinary powers to act with a free hand in a crisis. Ecevit returned home a few hours before dawn and met immediately with the commanders of the armed forces and then called the cabinet into session.

Coming out of the cabinet meeting at daybreak, he told newsmen that he had briefed his ministers on his London trip, but toward noon he called the cabinet into session again.

Berstein Will Curtail Role

LENOX, Mass. (AP)—Leonard Bernstein will limit his performance on Sunday at the Tanglewood Music Festival because of his recent hospitalization, a spokesman says.

Berstein became ill at his Fairfield, Conn., home last Sunday and his New York office said he has been persuaded to restrict his festival appearance to conducting two works. He had also been scheduled to play a concerto.

RUSTLING UP

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Cattle rustling increased by 112 per cent in Florida in 1973 over the previous year, says chief investigator Richard F. Marsh of the state department of agriculture.

The value of the 1,506 stolen cattle was put at $423,797.

Two Cosmonauts Land After 2-Week Flight

MOSCOW (AP)—Two Russian cosmonauts safely returned to earth today in their Soyuz 14 spacecraft, ending a two-week mission aboard the Salyut 3 space station, Tass reported.

The government news agency said cosmonauts Pavel Popovich and Yuri Artyukhin "feel well" after soft-landing their Soyuz transport ship near Dzhezkazgan in central Asia.

Their mission, which began July 3, has been fully fulfilled, the agency said.

Their mission's successful and safe conclusion was in sharp contrast to the tragedy of the Soviet space station effort in June 1971 when, after 23 days aboard Salyut 1, three cosmonauts were found dead, strapped to the seats of their Soyuz 11 craft.

A faulty valve in the Soyuz system was blamed for the disaster.

Today's landing came after the two Russians undocked their craft from the Salyut 3 lab shortly after noon and guided the transport vehicle back to earth loaded with documentation, film cassettes and other materials on their experiments aboard the station.

Tass said the cosmonauts touched down at 3:21 p.m. local time. This was 8:21 a.m. EDT.

Both the Soyuz 14 and the Salyut 3 spacecraft were sent into space with "improved on-board systems" and the latest flight was considered a critical test of the equipment in preparation for next year's manned Soviet-American space mission.

All progress reports during the Soyuz 14 mission have labeled the flight a success.

Popovich and Artyukhin, both 43, were lifted into an earth orbit aboard Soyuz 14 10 days after the unmanned Salyut 3 was shot into space.

They docked their craft with the space station on July 5 and crawled aboard the three-room laboratory.

It was the first Soviet linkup in space since the 1971 Salyut 1 accident.

Offer Classes On 'How To Get Well'

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—Special classes in "how to get better" are being offered to patients at a medical clinic here.

Rosalind Hawley, a medical communications specialist, says that although 90 per cent of the cure depends on how well a patient follows a doctor's instructions, patients are seldom adequately taught what they should do.

Miss Hawley heads Core Communications in Health, a New York firm which developed the school for patients living near the Palo Alto Medical Clinic.

The American Association of Medical Clinics, headquartered in Alexandria, Va., is sponsoring the program. It has a number of similar centers in other cities.

"In a recent survey of physicians, we found that well over two-thirds of their time is spent educating their patients, and they felt that patient education was just as important as any prescription they could write," said Miss Hawley.

The new Patient Education Center, in conjunction with the clinic, is intended to relieve the doctor of much of his "teaching" and to give the patients' better instruction.

"The patient is brought to an attractive room that looks something like a library with cubicles," said Miss Hawley. "After orientation and pre-testing by the instructor, the patient is seated in one of the booths and a program is put on a sight-and-sound learning machine."

The instructional device runs a program especially created for the illness from which the patient is suffering. It discusses how he should take care of himself, what diet he should have, exercise and routines.

Each patient is tested to see that he or she has learned the lessons. Then he gets a briefing from an instructor and is sent home with materials for further study.

"Doctors and patients exposed to the program think it's tremendous," said Miss Hawley. "I see it as setting a trend in the doctor-patient relationship that will go a long way to bridge the communications gap that sometimes exists between them."
