Offerings consisting almost entirely of ground leaves and early primings brought leaf prices today that fell short of farmers' expectations but generally met the predictions of marketing officials.

Joining the sprawling Eastern Tobacco Belt in opening on the earliest date in history, the Greenville market began auctions at 9 a.m. with quotes reminiscent of last year's opening sale when prices held in the $84 to $85 per hundred pounds range.

The first 30 piles sold at a local warehouse were tagged with prices starting at $82 on the initial pile, dropping to $81 on a later pile, and leveling out in the $84 and $85 range. Top price among the first 30 piles was $87.

A sprinkling of tobacco reached the $90 and $91 range but prices soon fell off after only a few piles of the better leaf offerings.

A sampling of the quotes at another warehouse which had opening sales this morning indicated the same general break of tobacco and comparative prices that appeared to lean toward the $85 mark. A few $90 piles were also observed.

Several piles of damaged tobacco at both warehouses brought prices in the $70 bracket.

C.D. Barrett of Wilson, who had several piles for sale on the opening row, estimated that his tobacco would average $86 per hundred today and he noted that he would have needed about $90 to help even out the increased cost of production.

Barrett, citing 30 per cent increases in fuel, 40 per cent jumps in fertilizer, and 30 per cent increases in insecticides over last year, said that he could cure three barns of tobacco last year for what it cost to cure two barns this year.

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

A HOTLINE APPEAL WHEELCHAIRS NEEDED

Sam Whitehead, local supervisor of the Food for Seniors Program here, told Hotline he needs some wheelchairs for transporting some of the people who attend the lunch program for the elderly.

"I picked up a woman the other day who told me this was the first time she had been out of the house in a year," he said. "And it literally took 15 minutes to help her out of the house, into my car, and into the building. A wheelchair would have helped so much."

Whitehead said if he were to receive two he would keep one in his car and one in the building for use by the program's participants.

He continues to be in need of volunteers to transport participants from and back to their homes each day, he added.

Persons willing to help with either need should call Hotline at either 752-1336 or 752-6166.

QUESTIONING INSURANCE SETTLEMENT

The Pilot Life Ins. Co. has refused to pay off a life insurance policy on my son because they say he didn't fill out the application truthfully. The policy was applied for in Dec. 1973 and he was killed accidentally later that month. Is this legal? Mrs. M.S.

Hotline contacted the state Insurance Commissioners office and explained the situation. A representative of the state office looked into the case and discovered they had previously investigated the claim and received a report from the Pilot Life Co. which showed your son had a record of drinking problems and instances of accidents relating to drinking. According to the Commissioner's office, it is completely legal for an insurance company to refuse payment on a new policy within the first two years of issuance if it is found the application was not completed truthfully in all respects. In cases such as this, the company must offer to return all premiums paid to the beneficiary as settlement; which you said had been offered.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE IN PAY RAISES?

I would like to know why the members of the Sheriff's Dept. received only a six per cent pay raise when other county employees got a 10-12 per cent increase? Mrs. E.C.

The pay raise percentage that the county employees received this year varied from 6 to 12 per cent this year depending on their place under the new state standard pay scale, according to Bob Martin, chairman of the county commissioners.

Some members of the sheriff's department receive six per cent pay raises, while others got as high as 12 per cent, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson. Their percentage increase depended upon the salary and seniority with the department when the state standard scale was adopted.

"They got the same pay raise that the other county employees got according to the classification of their job," says Martin.

From $85 To $89

FARMVILLE—Prices on the Farmville Tobacco Market ranged from $85 to $89 on the market's opening day sales.

According to Louis Williams, Sales Supervisor of the Farmville Market, the top price for the market today was $94 per hundred pounds. He stated that the quality of tobacco was better than that of the Border Belt on opening day.

Williams added that the consensus was generally pleased with the tobacco, and all firms had full sales. He noted a few of the piles were marketed, indicating the tobacco was better than last year's crop.

Sales as a whole consisted of 85 percent of primings, and quality grades of primings were averaging two to three cents more as compared to last year.

Cyprus Is Awaiting Cease-Fire

GOV. HOLSHOUSER examines tobacco on surprise visit to Greenville warehouses.

Market Visited By Holshouser

By STUART SAVAGE

North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser visited two warehouses in Greenville this morning while making a flying visit to several markets on the large Eastern Belt as tobacco auction sales began.

The Governor visited Cannons Warehouse, then Keels, both on Dickinson Avenue, after first stopping in Wilson and Rocky mount to view the start of sales there. He then flew by helicopter to Goldsboro and Smithfield to visit warehouses in those cities to talk to warehousemen and farmers.

Gov. Holshouser said "I believe it's doing better here on (Continued on page 6)

The deadline for a cease-fire on Cyprus passed today but there was no immediate word from the Mediterranean island on whether the fighting had actually stopped. Just hours before Turkey was reported pouring fresh troops in by air.

At the 4 p.m. — 10 a.m., EDT — deadline the Cyprus radio broadcast an order for Greek Cypriot troops to stop shooting. The broadcast was heard in Beirut, Lebanon.

Earlier in the day both Greece and Turkey announced that their forces on the island would observe the United Nations-sponsored cease-fire.

At U. N. headquarters in New York, officials in contact with the United Nations peacekeeping force on Cyprus said they had received no reports of continued fighting after the cease-fire deadline.

The officials declined, however, to make any official announcement that the cease-fire had become effective throughout the island.

An Associated Press dispatch from Nicosia received just before the 10 a.m. deadline reported that massive Turkish reinforcements had been landed on the beaches of northern Cyprus today. It reported that paratroopers were brought in by at least 12 Turkish C47s, and at least 30 helicopters ferried troops from landing vessels.

The dispatch went through Greek Cypriot censorship before being transmitted, and it did not say what time the reinforcements had arrived.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from the northern port of Kyrenia, that heavy fighting was going on three hours before the cease-fire was to begin.

Jensen, who was later captured by the Turks along with two other American correspondents, said Turkish jets were bombing and strafing Greek Cypriot positions as both sides fought to improve their positions.

South of Kyrenia, Greek Cypriot artillery shells burst along the top of mountains where Turkish troops had dug in.

AP photographer Paul Roque returned to Nicosia from Kyrenia with the report that he saw two Turkish destroyers bombarding the port city.

Turkey announced at about 3:30 a. m., EDT, that it had agreed to the cease-fire and the Greek military junta announced its agreement about two hours later.

A newsman who was at the Nicosia airport Saturday and Sunday nights said earlier reports that the Turks and Greek Cypriot forces were locked in battle for the airport were not true. He reported the airport "entirely in Greek hands."

Died Of Collision

KINSTON—A Winterville woman was killed here yesterday in a head-on collision about 11:49 a.m. on South Queen Street near the southern city limits.

Kinston Police officials said Mrs. Shirley R. Evans, 28, died almost instantly from severe head injuries she received when the car in which she was riding collided with a vehicle driven by George Washington Suggs, 40 of Kinston.

Investigators said the Suggs car, headed North on Queen Street went out of control, crossed the median of the four-lane road, and collided with the south-bound Evans car, driven by Alfred C. Evans, 38 of Winterville.

Both drivers and the Evans' 9-year-old girl were injured or officers reported.

Suggs was charged with operating left of center, improper tires and manslaughter as a result of the investigation of the fatal crash.

Prices Running A Shade Above Support Level

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Flue-cured tobacco warehouses in 23 eastern and sandhills North Carolina cities began opening today for a 16-week sales season and early prices were averaging mostly between 82 and 85 cents per pound.

Most of the tobacco being offered at warehouses checked was first and second primings, leaf taken from the lower stalk of the plants and lower in nicotine content than higher stalk leaves.

Prices were not much different than those offered during last week's first sales at South Carolina-border North Carolina markets and at the Georgia-Florida markets.

At a Rocky Mount warehouse, the first sales this morning averaged $82 per hundred pounds. Most of the leaf was going for one to two cents over the federal support price. One farmer, who was selling his offerings for an average 89 cents a pound, was happy.

Other farmers, however, were less enthusiastic with the prices, although they were about as expected in view of last week's sales in southern markets.

Gov. Jim Holshouser, traveling by helicopter, stopped at two warehouses in Wilson before moving on to Rocky Mount. Holshouser also was to stop in several other market towns later in the day.

The governor walked through rows of tobacco, chatting with growers and warehousemen.

At the Farmers Cooperative Warehouse in Wilson, manager Clifford B. Aycock estimated early prices on primings were averaging about $84.50 per hundred pounds. The quality, he said, was about equal to last year's opening.

Bill Redford, a grower from near Kenly who was at Farmers Coop, said prices were off seven to eight cents from last year's opening on most grades but should be higher than last year. We should get 10 cents more to be even with last year."

Odell Creech, also of near Kenly, said, "If we don't get more they might have to raise it themselves next year. The tobacco would have to average 86 cents (per pound) for them to break even."

Prices varied at various markets. In Dunn, some leaf was being sold as high as $92 per hundred pounds. One observer said the average on the first row sold was $90, and $88 on the second row. The observer said farmers were mostly satisfied with the prices they were getting. The farmers said their first primings were of higher quality than those sold on the border markets last week.

Water Grants

State grants to aid in the construction of water supply systems have been awarded to Greenville and Bethel, according to Human Resources Secretary David Flaherty.

These grants were made under the N.C. Clean Water Bond Act of 1971.

Greenville received $53,750 and Bethel, $42,547. Most of the financing comes from local sources, with some projects receiving federal assistance. Flaherty noted.

Follow Advice Of Doctor

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I gave birth to a healthy baby girl ten months ago. My husband and I very much wanted this baby, but I have proven myself to be a very immature and rotten mother.

You see, the baby is very homely. She has a large nose, and for some reason this has caused me to get terribly depressed. Every time I look at her I start crying.

I don't want to take the baby out where people can see her because someone is sure to see what a big nose she has and I will be embarrassed.

This is ruining my whole life. I went to a psychiatrist for several months, but I quit going because he refused to believe that it was really the baby's nose that bothered me. He kept suggesting that maybe it was the responsibility of motherhood. Abby, I swear it's her nose that bothers me.

I have a wonderful husband, and wonderful parents, and I feel that I have let them all down because I'm such a terrible mother. I wanted this baby so much, but she isn't giving me any happiness at all. I feel so guilty for being ashamed of her looks.

Please, please help me.

DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: See your family doctor, and take this letter with you. Then follow his advice. If he asks you to go back to the psychiatrist, go! You need help, dear, and that is where it is. God bless. Please write again. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I just read an article about rape. It said that last year there were 150 cases of rape every 24 hours in Los Angeles, and only 134 cases of rape for the whole year in London. How do you explain that?

A.G. IN L.A.

DEAR A.G.: The English are a very proper people. In London, they ask.

DEAR ABBY: I've been divorced for 12 years and have three children. For the last two years, I've been dating a man who is a year younger than I am. I've been 100% true to him, and we even talked about marriage.

Well, out of the blue he tells me that he is getting married next month! I couldn't believe it. Now all my friends tell me that they knew he had been seeing this other girl all along.

Abby, I love him. He says he loves me, too, but he got so involved with this other girl he thinks the best solution would be to marry her and continue to see me whenever he could.

I don't want a back alley relationship with a married man. I can't believe I've wasted two years of my life on someone who could do this to me. Please tell me what to do.

FEELING HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS: Face it. You've been used. Tell that poor-excuse-for-a-man that you never want to see him again. You're lucky you didn't marry him. Who needs a husband who tries to line up an affair on the side even before he's married?

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Travel Bargain Flights Are Available

By BETTY YARMON
Though rates on scheduled airlines have gone up one-third in the last two years and are due to mount ever higher, bargain flights still are available. Here are several steps to take in the search for them.

1. Look at the travel—section ads in your Sunday newspaper since many of them describe all types of "package" tours that feature, at one low price, round-trip air fare, hotel, ground transportation, sightseeing, and often one or more meals a day.

2. If your plans don't match those in the ads, discuss them with a local travel agent. He knows about many overseas and domestic tours, and probably can tailor an interesting destination to your budget limitations.

3. Check the local clubs and organizations of which you are a member, to see if they plan any charter flights. As a member, you would be eligible to purchase tickets for yourself and your family.

4. If you don't belong to such a group, your travel agent probably can locate a TGC (that means Travel Group Charter) for you. TGCs have been in existence for a year, covering transportation only. While some difficulties have arisen with them, making them less acceptable than originally thought, and they have been cut back somewhat this summer, you still may locate one to meet your requirements.

Looking for a travel bargain was not always such a hassle. Through the 1960s, scheduled airline prices were remarkably stable, and the airlines featured lots of promotional fares to help fill their big jets. But that's a thing of the past, the victim of skyrocketing fuel prices and other higher maintenance cost.

For example, the cheapest trip this summer between Los Angeles and Tokyo by scheduled airline is a 14-21 day excursion that costs $765, with an increase of at least 7 per cent likely on June 1, raising the price to about $820. But by charter, the L.A.-Tokyo trip is under $400—and this difference in transportation cost could pay for the rest of your vacation.

Whether you want just a charter flight or will opt for a complete package tour depends on how you plan your trip. If your travel plans are just for basic transportation between two points, and you want to manage all other expenses and details yourself, simply look for a charter flight to your planned destination and back.

Travel agents can offer you packages at substantial savings primarily because they take advantage of lower charter air fares. For even with the cutback in flights brought on by the energy crisis, scheduled planes still fly 50 per cent empty whereas charters fly at 90 to 95 per cent capacity—a big difference, obviously, in the cost per airline seat. Also charter lines have no expensive ticket offices, large advertising budgets, or elaborate terminals.

But there's another reason for savings. A tour operator or wholesaler who arranges tours, for example, can guarantee 50 per cent occupancy to a hotel in Montego Bay, Jamaica, for an entire year.

This not only brings down the room costs for each traveler, it also cuts food and entertainment cost. The same economic muscle gets busload rates for transfers for sightseeing that no individual could get, and nets bargain rates at night clubs and restaurants. A string of reduced rates are orchestrated for you in one superbargain.

Henry P. Huff, president of Trans International Airlines, the nation's largest all-charter airlines, picked out the following sample low-cost package tours from different parts of the country, to illustrate the bargains:

West Coast—Orient: Nine-day vacations from Los Angeles or San Francisco to Hong Kong for about $525, with optional extra stops at Bangkok or Tokyo. Price includes first-class hotels, some meals, baggage handling, sightseeing, airport transfers. Standard round-trip coach fare alone from these cities to the Orient will be $956 this summer.

East Coast—Munich: A Boston company offers an eight-day trip to Munich and Bavaria for about $385, with travelers staying at the Sheraton Munich while sightseeing through warm, sunny South Germany.

Midwest—Hawaii: A Chicago company shrinks the distance from our farthest state to the Midlands with an eight-day trip from Chicago and other cities that includes three Hawaiian islands for about $350. Air fare to Honolulu, flights to the other two islands, first-class hotels, and a traditional lei for mainlanders are included. Regular coach fare alone from Chicago to Honolulu and return is $440 year-round.

State President Attends CWI Picnic Thursday

Greenville Credit Women International held its annual picnic at the home of Mrs. Pearl Hartsell Thursday night.

President Angelene Venters welcomed all members, bosses and their families. Out-of-town guests that attended were Faye Mallard and Jennie Sanderson of the Kinston Club and North Carolina State President Carol Hardee and her family.

Pearl Hartsell, Clara Seago and Martha Mills gave a skit on "Debt Counseling and You".

Inda Wingate gave a report on the bake sale and Mary Roberson appointed her committee to assist her in making plans for Fall Board to be held in Greenville in November.

Young People, Housewives, Retiree Get Lift

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Men and women retirees and housewives are getting a lift in jobs that are either "temporarily permanent" or "permanently temporary," depending on your point of view.

In fact, steady "temporary work" is providing a new lease on life for a great many people. High school and college graduates even use it to test their aptitudes in various jobs, says William Olsten, founder and chairman of the board of a company that specializes in temporary services.

"Two major corporations in New Jersey have turned over their mail rooms to retirees. Every facet of receiving and distribution is manned entirely by the temporary help," observed Olsten, who was a pioneer when he founded his own service 24 years ago.

In addition to the boost for retirees who want to keep busy, the system has cut down on turnover and absenteeism for employers, Olsten notes.

Some big companies even call back their own retirees who are on pension, he remarked. Some retirees become quasi-consultants and some are hired on a 30-day renewable basis. The company may get an opportunity to reemploy help it may have spent long years in training.

As for housewives, they are into every job facet, and if they are not, they aren't giving themselves a chance, he says.

"A housewife shouldn't count herself out of the job market because she hasn't actual job experience," he points out. "In assessing her potentials, she may find volunteer work or a telephone committee job has given her skills that can be put to use for pay. If she has solicited funds for the local hospital or whatever, it may indicate the ability to sell or to canvass for a pollster."

"The housewife who prides herself on nothing more than being an astute shopper might qualify as a comparison shopper," he continues. "Women who have kept household books might do well in accounting or budgeting departments. If she has typed school papers for her children she has passed the first stage and can look at a typing job as a possibility."

High school graduates may have accumulated experience working on school papers or with computers or audio-visual equipment. Ditto the college girl who may have acquired all kinds of little career skills. Olsten has a feeling that many people "ease into their careers" and he thinks temporary work provides that opportunity to youthful aspirants.

Although 90 per cent of the temporary placements are housewives in the 26 to 40-or-so age bracket, age is no deterrent to temporary work, he advises. One 81-year-old woman is doing light assembly work on a temporary basis. But many old-

Turk Military Manpower Has At Least 3-1 Edge

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Greek and Turkish military forces are just about evenly balanced on the seas and in the air but the Turks hold a 3-1 edge in military manpower, according to the International Institute of Strategic Studies.

British military experts believe the United States, the major supplier of military hardware to both countries, is partly responsible for the sea and air balance because it wanted a military stalemate in the eastern Mediterranean.

But Turkey has a standing force of 365,000 men backed by 750,000 reservists and a paramilitary force of 75,000 gendarmes, a total of more than 1.1 million men.

Greece maintains a 120,000-man regular army plus 160,000 reserves, a 30,000-man gendarmerie and a national guard of 69,000 men. That totals 379,000 men.

The Turkish edge is reinforced in a key sector—tanks and antitank weaponry.

Ankara's forces have 1,400 U.S. M47 and M48 medium tanks, M24, M26 and M41 light tanks and M36 tank destroyers, plus armored cars and personnel carriers. Its artillery includes 155mm and 105mm self-propelled guns and 105mm, 155mm and 203mm howitzer batteries.

It has two battalions of Honest John surface-to-surface missiles, and units of SS11 and Cobra antitank guided missiles. Greece has only 300 M47 tanks, 340 M48s and 30 AMX30s plus light tanks and armored cars. But it has 175mm self-propelled guns and an array of high-powered howitzers.

It has two battalions of Honest Johns, plus a battalion of surface-to-air missiles with 12 Hawk launchers. According to the institute, it has no antitank missiles.

Turkey has a population of about 38 million, four times that of Greece. Turkey also has the bigger defense budget—$812 million for 1973-74, compared to the Greeks' $580 million.

Cyprus is 100 miles from the big Turkish naval bases at Mersin and Iskenderun. But it is more than 200 miles from Rhodes and Crete, the nearest Greek naval bases. The island is more than 500 miles from the Greek mainland.

Turkey's air force of 50,000 men has 288 combat planes—F104 Starfighters, F4 Phantoms and other American jet fighters. It also has two squadrons of troop-carrying helicopters.

Greece has a 22,000-man air force with 225 combat planes, virtually the same types as those flown by Turkish pilots. It has three transport squadrons and two helicopter squadrons.

Turkey has a 40,000-man navy with 15 submarines, 14 destroyers and 60 other combat craft. The 18,000-man Greek navy has seven submarines, 13 destroyers and escorts and 36 other craft.

But it has a powerful punch in four fast missile patrol boats armed with Exocet surface-to-surface missiles. It also has a bigger force of landing craft for tanks and troops than the Turks.

THE BRITISH ARRIVE—British Royal Marine Commandos are shown as they arrived at Akrotiri Base in Cyprus on Saturday. Their assignment was to safeguard evacuation of British and foreign tourists and personnel from the island. An estimated 4,400 foreign civilians from Nicosia and other combat areas were evacuated Sunday. (AP Wirephoto)

New Name Blames Mismanagement Might Help For Gasoline Shortage

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Many students return to school each year determined to study harder and earn better grades, but a survey at David Lipscomb College indicates changing names might bring more success.

Frances Hinton and Phillip E. Kirk, conducted the survey for a business management class assignment. They said Lipscomb students whose last names began with A through M have higher grade averages than those whose last names begin with letters N through Z.

Lipscomb students whose names begin with letters in the first half of the alphabet had a grade average of 1.765813 while other students' average was 2.7273076.

"We don't attempt to justify any hypotheses dealing with the outcome of our study," said Kirk. "What we have done is simply present the theory that persons with last names beginning with N through Z tend to have lower overall scholastic grades than students in the A-M category."

Dr. Ralph Samples, director of testing at Lipscomb, said he wasn't surprised at the students' findings.

"This sounds like it would logically be true," he said. "The students with last names starting with N through Z have probably had to sit many times in the back of the classroom due to alphabetical seating arrangements in earlier years. Some may also have some sort of complex from various things having to do with their place in the alphabet, such as always having to be near the end in roll calls."

RALEIGH (AP)—The gasoline shortage last winter was a product of mismanagement by the government, oil companies and auto manufacturers, according to the director of the North Carolina Service Station Association.

Avery Upchurch of Raleigh said in this month's issue of North Carolina magazine that a "crisis" never really developed.

"We were inconvenienced," he said. "The growth in demand finally caught up with and passed the supply. But if the supply had been as short a few months ago as the government said it was, I believe we would have had rationing instead of talk of rationing."

Upchurch also said gasoline dealers in North Carolina were opposed to Gov. Jim Holshouser's odd-even gasoline buying plan. "Our main pitch was conservation," he said. "We wanted drivers to cut their mileage by 25 per cent from the 1972 mileage."

Holshouser, in announcing the plan, said it had the support of the gasoline dealers. The plan asked that citizens voluntarily limit their gasoline purchases to certain days of the week, depending on the last number of their license plates.

Upchurch said service station owners opposed Holshouser's plan because, "We were afraid that...it would be law."

"The station owners and workers are not law enforcement officers, and we saw no way we could enforce a volunteer program," Upchurch said. "We had enough problems."

He said he had been in the service station business since 1953 and he did not believe the gasoline shortage was contrived to drive up prices. He said the price of gasoline in the future will depend on the per barrel price of crude oil, and what action the government takes, if any, in relation to gasoline taxes.

"If reduced supply means reduced gasoline taxes, and if the government wants to maintain its road programs, I can see a three cent to five-cent increase in the price per gallon."

Upchurch is optimistic about gasoline supplies in the coming months, even though refineries will begin next month switching over to heating oil production from gasoline production.

"We have fuel oil left over from last winter so the refineries shouldn't have to make the switch so soon, and we're getting more gasoline," he said.

"The key, I think, is to continually inform the public about how wasteful we have been and to preach conservation."

GNP Data Signals Recession

Government figures for real output of goods and services has dropped for the second consecutive quarter, thereby signaling a recession, as the economists measure things.

Commerce Department figures show the gross national product rose at an annual rate of 7.5 per cent, hitting $1.38 trillion for the quarter ending June 30. Since the annual inflation rate is 8.8 per cent, however, this represented a real drop of 1.2 per cent.

Since there was a drop of seven per cent for the first quarter the economists say that a basic qualification for a recession has been established. It was the first time since late 1969 and early 1970 that there had been two successive quarterly drops.

All that really doesn't mean much to the average wage earner, who is still trying to wrestle with the problems that roaring inflation is causing for the individual's budget.

It did, however, bring quick reactions from the politicians. Commerce Sec. Frederick Dent said, "I consider the term recession too severe to describe the energy crisis spasm through which we just passed."

Democratic Sen. Edward Kennedy was moved to say, "The president's pledge to the American people last January that there would be no recession in 1974 is now on the verge of joining so many other statements of the administration in the category called 'inoperative'."

Whether or not we are in a recession may eventually be of real concern to the wage earner. For right now, however, the problem of working people is just what it has been for a couple of years—how to cope with the inflation which is rapidly eroding the collars he has to spend for his needs.

We Would Feel That VEPCO Rate Increase

It comes as no surprise that Virginia Electric and Power Co. has asked for a 17.3 per cent rate increase from the N.C. Utilities Commission.

The increase will affect some customers in this area directly. Indirectly it will affect Greenville, Ayden and Winterville customers of the municipally-owned utilities since they have traditionally adopted VEPCO's retail rates.

This increase should be resisted before the Utilities Commission. In this time when electric customers are being constantly squeezed, rate increases should be held to the absolute minimum.

One Lop-Sided Poll For Ouster

By ROLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK LARCHMONT, N.Y.—The fact that the well-heeled suburbanite is every bit as terrified as blue-collar workers of an inflationary present and future is strongly reinforcing his firm verdict on impeachment: President Nixon must go and go now.

Only that conclusion can be drawn from interviews we conducted in Mamaroneck District 8 plush Westchester County, with the help of Patrick Caddell's polling organization. Preponderantly Republican but with independent characteristics which make it a weather-vane, this district gave Mr. Nixon 57.3 per cent of the vote in 1972. Today, however, it has made up its mind about impeachment—and cannot understand why Congress does not do the same.

Accompanied by Dotty Lynch, senior analyst for the Caddell organization, we interviewed 54 registered voters. By an astounding 6 to 1 margin, they agree the President should be thrown out of office. Only one opposed a Senate trial for the President, and only two believe Mr. Nixon's avowals of innocence in the Watergate cover-up.

This lopsided condemnation by upper middle-class voters, nearly all with family income over $20,000, coincided with an unexpected mood of panic about the economy, usually associated with working class voters. Nearly half of our voters complained their standard of living has declined over the past year. As for next year, only 7 voters expected improvement and 19 predicted still worse times.

"I just can't support my family at the same level anymore," the attractive wife of an advertising executive, dressed for tennis, told us at the door of her mansion. A wholesale food products executive declared that "inflation is the one thing that changes my life directly." Both were 1972 Nixon voters; both now favor impeachment.

Indeed, there was no sign of the effect, so desired by the White House, of economic woes building support for the president, although many voters voiced impatience with the slow pace of the impeachment proceedings, only 9 agreed that Watergate problems should be shelved to let Mr. Nixon get on with solving problems of the economy.

Indeed, confidence in Mr. Nixon's economic savvy was wholly lacking. Overwhelmingly and most surprisingly, these voters favor exactly what the President has ruled out: renewal of wage-price controls. The 26 voters who volunteered inflation as the nation's most important problem chose the Democrats as the party best equipped to handle it by a 5 to 1 margin.

This disaffection in a Republican stronghold is typified by the elegant 40ish wife of a television executive who, asked to name the three toughest problems today, replied, "Nixon, Nixon and Nixon." (She voted for him in 1972.) "I wish Congress would hurry and do something," she added. That "something" is Mr. Nixon's removal.

Another erstwhile Nixon supporter, and advertising man, told us the President ought to be "thrown in jail" if he defies a Supreme Court order to give up tape recordings.

There were a few dissenters. "I feel everyone is sick to death of impeachment," the wife of a computer consultant told us. "Get over with it. It's costing us so much money."

But such sentiments were rare. The White House anti-impeachment campaign has conspicuously failed to take hold in District 8. By a 9 to 1 margin, our voters feel newspapers and television have been fair to the President. By 6 to 1, they believe Mr. Nixon carried the flag to the Mideast and Moscow to take the spotlight off impeachment. By 6 to 1, they blame the President—not Congress—for the delay in the impeachment proceedings. Only three voters agreed with the statement that the House Judiciary Committee is out to get the President.

This overwhelming Nixonphobia has not yet transferred itself into anti-Republican sentiment. Only a few Republicans indicated that their hostility to the President would lead them to vote Democratic for Congress. These voters favored Republican Gov. Malcolm Wilson over either of his potential Democratic foes. Two-thirds of those interviewed had a favorable opinion of Vice President Ford (compared with four-

Strength For Today

BELIEVING WITHOUT SEEING

Jesus said one one occasion, "Blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed." He was talking with Thomas, who said that he was willing to believe if he could see, but not otherwise.

There is always an incomprehensible element in every situation, and when we come to deal with that infinite personality we call God, the incomprehensibility has become so great that we can understand it only through faith.

Jesus said that the blessed and happy people are the ones who make the incomprehensible factors of life work to their benefit by approaching them through faith. We cannot understand the things of the spirit. It is beyond our capacity to see or touch them; they transcend the capacity of our mind to understand them.

Happiness comes through being able to use the spiritual forces of life because one has the capacity for faith. The person who, like Thomas adopts the position that seeing is believing, misses a lot in life.

The Summer Intrigues

EAST HAMPTON, N.Y.—I was glad to discover last weekend that Washington isn't the only place in the United States where people are screwed up. Even a town as affluent and peaceful as East Hampton has terrible problems. We were house guests of the Stones and they asked us who of our dear friends in East Hampton would like to see.

"How about the Grabowskis and the Peregrines?" I suggested. "We can't have the Grabowskis with the Peregrines," Stone said. "It seems two years ago Grabowski borrowed Peregrine's barbecue spit and returned it the next day with the handle missing. Grabowski didn't mention it much less offer to pay for a new handle and so Peregrine hasn't spoken for him since."

"Well, what about the Cumberbunds?" "We're not speaking to the Cumberbunds," Stone said curtly. "I thought they were your best friends."

"They were until I played tennis with Tom Cumberbund last weekend and he called a footfault on me. You don't call footfaults on your friends. I've never called a footfault on Tom in my life, and believe you me he footfaults all the time. He can't serve without having both feet in the court."

"Let's forget Cumberbund," I said. "I'd love to see the Wackenbushes."

"You can see him but not her," Stone said. "Why can't I see her?"

"She ran away to Newport with a gardener."

"Was Wackenbush sore?" I asked. "Not as much as Henry and Lucy Trilby. You see it was their gardener. They're not talking to Wackenbush because they feel if he had paid more attention to his wife the Trilby's rhododendrons would still be alive."

"So much for the Wackenbushes," I said. "You know who we'd love to have dinner with—the Coffinbacks."

"You can have dinner with them," Stone said, "but we won't."

"But we all grew up with the Coffinbacks," I said. "That's exactly the point. Two weeks ago we gave a dinner party for Ann Miller, the tap-dancer, and we invited them. Then last weekend they gave a dinner party for Tony Martin and you know what they did—they asked us to come in for coffee afterwards."

"Boy, this East Hampton is full of intrigue," I said. "I think it would be easier if you could tell me who we can see."

Stone thought for awhile. "There's the Pattersons. We like them very much, and I know you do too."

"Let's invite the Pattersons then," I said. "They're not here," Stone said. "They rented their (Continued on page 5)

Terry Needs Stature

By ROBERT B. CULLEN Associated Press Writer DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Sitting in the intellectual clutter of his study, Terry Sanford can almost make it believable.

As he sketches the scenario for the next two years, it seems like it all very well could happen and he could be elected President of the United States.

New rules, which he is helping to formulate, could deny any Democratic candidate a first ballot nomination in 1976. The convention could turn to a dark horse, a moderate with a new face.

All we've got to do, Sanford says, is get ourselves organized in all the states. Apart from North Carolina, we've got to win maybe one other primary. Then the lightning rod would be in place and all that would remain would be taking it to the Democratic convention.

But after leaving the modern, Scandinavian splendor of the Duke University president's house, one has second thoughts.

Sanford's scenario begins to sound more like the talk of the feisty little kid on the corner explaining how, with a left to the gut and a right cross to the jaw, he's going to knock out the neighborhood bully.

It rarely worked out that way for the feisty little kid. He generally wound up flailing futilely while the bully held him off at arm's length.

Sanford, too, is likely to run into a bully in the person of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

The Sanford strategy must be predicated on grabbing national attention and establishing himself as a credible candidate by derailing Wallace in North Carolina. The New South rises at last.

But Wallace casually wiped Sanford out in North Carolina's 1972 primary. There is no evidence that his debilitating gunshot wound has cooled the ardor of his partisans.

In addition, Sanford faces some obstacles within the state. The repeal of the food sales tax promises to be a major statewide issue in the next few years, reminding voters that it was Sanford who first asked that it be levied.

And Sanford is not likely to have a unified state party backing him. Many North Carolina Democrats will not want to alienate Wallace voters by backing Sanford.

Others will resent his candidacy for siphoning off money and workers from the gubernatorial and council of state races.

There is a possibility of course, that Wallace will not enter the North Carolina primary. Much could happen between now and then.

But unless Wallace does, a Sanford victory would be somewhat hollow. It would not have the impact needed to thrust Sanford into the presidential picture.

But an exercise in political cynicism would not be complete without a caveat.

Almost no one, in 1970, foresaw the circumstances that would catapult George McGovern to the Democratic nomination two years later.

And if any potential candidate's 1974 position parallels that of McGovern in 1970, it would probably be Terry Sanford's.

Other Editors Say Senators Coming

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

North Carolinians this summer might well see more U.S. Senators than they have ever seen before, in the opinion of the Sanford Herald, which points out also that the project, aimed at helping a Democratic candidate for the Senate, might also become a two-edged sword.

The Herald points out that the headquarters of Robert Morgan, the Democratic aspirant for a United States Senate seat, has announced that Mike Mansfield of Montana, Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Henry "Scoop" Jackson of Washington, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois, Ernest Hollings of South Carolina, Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, and Walter Huddleston of Kentucky will come to the state to campaign for Morgan.

The idea is to have the Senators speak at a series of dinners to raise funds to pay debts remaining from the expensive primary campaign Morgan waged.

Certain it is that the list of speakers is star-studded, including present Senate Majority Leader Mansfield, a former Democratic Presidential candidate, and the son of another Presidential candidate. Acceptances no doubt were easier to secure because the Senators know this is the seat which their colleague, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. is vacating, he of the Watergate probe fame.

Politically it is a swift move to dent expected moves by the Republicans to bring in the outsiders. William Stevens, the GOP candidate, is a brother-in-law of N.C. Congressman James Brodyhill, who is not without friends and influence in Washington.

Paradoxically, the cast sounds like more Democratic talent will campaign here for Morgan than came to the state to speak in the first Presidential preferential primary, a time in which the winning Democrat, Senator George McGovern, never came to the state.

The project could be a two edged sword. Tar Heels do not like to be told by outsiders for what or by whom to vote. But if Morgan wins, it could also be a powerful political asset. When and if he gets to the most exclusive club in the world he'll be no stranger or newcomer. North Carolinians, meantime, will be passing judgment on some politically ambitious U.S. Senators.

Close To The Financial Heart

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) —

Whether the economy is having a spasm, as Commerce Secretary Frederick Dent suggests, or a spell or an attack or a fever or whatever, consumers know it is occurring pretty close to the financial heart.

The effect is to leave ordinary people gasping for sustenance—cutting into their savings rate, running up credit, striking for higher wages, searching for nonexistent bargains.

Buying power for factory workers has declined in recent months, as has personal savings. Loan delinquencies are up in many categories, including mortgages. New mortgages are almost impossible to obtain.

As consumer prices continue to rise, the second-quarter increase being at an annual rate of nearly 11 per cent, consumers are faced with the task of paying at least $14.71 for goods and services that cost $10 in 1967.

And despite the encouragement that Dent and other administration figures claim to find in the most dismal of reports, there are solid indicators that prices, including those for food, will continue rising.

Concern about whether the country is in the midst of a recession is, therefore, merely semantic and of no consequence to most people.

Some economists subscribe to a definition of recession as being two straight quarterly declines in the Gross National Product, or total production of goods and services. Those two declines have occurred.

Dent says the definition is too severe, and a good many other economists believe so too. They especially note that unemployment in recent months hasn't risen above 5.2 per cent, and much less than that for heads of household.

People are working, they say, and they are getting raises too. And a good many families are buying up a storm, judging from the 1.9 per cent rise in personal consumption expenditures, compared with a 4.7 per cent first-quarter decline.

But those who maintain we are in a recession claim that the jobless rate now might be rising toward 6 per cent by year end. And much of that personal spending, they add, is meant to beat higher prices later.

This latter attitude is as seriously important as any of the statistics, which are mere indicators of what has already happened rather than what is likely to happen.

Dent interprets the current quarter from June through August as a period of adjustment, with the economy improving at least in terms of output. The economy is sound, he said.

But it is this very coincidence of bad report-good outlook that seems to have disillusioned some people. Month after month some member of the administration tries to reassure the people, and probably creates the opposite result.

Americans are growing cynical about economic matters. They don't expect much improvement in their personal financial condition. And they really don't believe government will do much about it either.

And that adds up to recession, if not statistically then certainly emotionally.

Preparing 500 Acres For Reforestation In Pitt

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
Mark Webb, Pitt County forest ranger, is currently promoting the planting of trees and improving forest land in Pitt County. A goal of 500 acres of reforestation has been set for Pitt County. The forest service does the site preparation work using either a drum chopper or KG blade. "If the site is logged properly, we can just go in and clean and burn the land," Webb said. "The land is cleared for planting during the summer with the planting taking place the following spring." Cost of the reforestation includes: drum chopping $34 per acre and $33 per acre for planting; KG work and piling is $65 per acre plus $33 per acre for planting; bedding that must be done on wet sites, $22 per acre; and $5 per acre for burning. Upon the landowners request, the forest service will make a timber examination before the timber is logged and will assist the landowner in making management plans and obtaining buyers for the timber. The only thing the landowner pays for is the actual work. The planning and assistance is offered by the forestry service at no charge.

"The prices mentioned are in effect if forestry service equipment is used," Webb explained. "If private contractors are hired to do the site preparation, the prices may vary." Webb explained a new federal program which now offers assistance in the reforestation program. The Forest Incentives Program (FIP) is new and is directed only toward timber production. The funds are available in all North Carolina counties on a first come, first serve basis. Forestry cost-sharing is also available under the Rural Environmental Conservation Program. It is centered on conservation measures designed to provide enduring protection such as erosion control, pollution abatement, and timber production. "The first step in receiving assistance," Webb said, "is for the landowner to have a farm management plan written and approved by the forestry service. After he has done this, the forestry service determines whether or not the landowner qualified for assistance."

The program pays up to 75 percent of the cost up to $2,500 per year per landowner. If a landowner is interested in converting land to forest land, he may call either the forestry service or the Pitt County Agricultural and Conservation Service for more information. "We need to get farmers signed up now so that work can begin on site preparation. If substantially completed by Dec. 31, 1974, funds can be held for the project until March 31 so that planting can be done in the early spring.

About 70 per cent of the site preparation for forest land already under the program has been completed and the land is ready for planting. The forestry service now has one tractor in the county doing chopping and KG work. "We need to get as much work as possible done during the next two weeks while the tractor will be available in Pitt," Webb said. The forestry service, at no charge to the landowner, will do land measuring.

SITE PREPARATION WORK. Site preparation work is being done by a private contractor this summer so that loblolly pines can be planted on this land next spring. A drum chopper is used to clear the woodlands so that new trees can be planted. The work is being done with assistance from the North Carolina Forest Service. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Streets 'Littered' With Cyprus Dead

LONDON (AP) — Bodies littered the streets and there were mass burials during the fighting on Cyprus, Britons flown home from the Mediterranean island report.

Derek Reed, a businessman, was vacationing in the southeastern town of Paphos when the shooting started last Monday and the Greek officers of the Cypriot National Guard overthrew President Makarios.

"People who were told by Makarios to lay down their guns were shot out of hand by the National Guard," he said. "They were buried in mass graves."

John Harris, vacationing with his family in Famagusta at their seaside apartment, said warships shelled him out of his house and he and his family had to flee on foot.

University student Argriss Kyriakidis, a 21-year-old naturalized Briton, said he saw the bodies of Makarios supporters thrown into a mass grave four at a time near Limassol. He said they were from a column of pro-Makarios soldiers who came to Limassol from Paphos to help others holding out in the town.

The Defense Ministry said so far some 1,300 refugees have been flown to British bases. The evacuees included Israelis, French and Scandinavians as well as Britons.

Shore Command Sailor Of Year

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—A Jacksonville, N.C., native has been named the Navy's 1974 shore command sailor of the year. Hospital Corpsman I.C. John R. Hewitt was singled out of more than 200,000 Navy personnel assigned to over 200 shore commands.

The Navy said he was selected because of his operation of a small branch dispensary at the Naval Regional Medical Center in Portsmouth and his community involvement.

He will receive a promotion to chief petty officer, a free leave period and his choice of next duty station, the announcement said. Hewitt is a 1958 graduate of Jacksonville High School and a 16-year veteran of the Navy.

N.C. Counts 11 Traffic Deaths

By The Associated Press
A high speed chase through three states ended in death for two Tennessee men early Sunday, as weekend traffic accidents claimed 11 lives in North Carolina.

Ronnie R. Patton, 19, and Melvin Lee Golden, 17, both of Copperhill, Tenn., were killed when their car overturned in Cherokee County, the highway patrol said.

Police in McCaysville, Ga., said they began pursuing the car after it pulled out of a grocery store parking lot in the north Georgia town at a high rate of speed.

The Georgia police said they followed the car to Copperhill and then into North Carolina at speeds exceeding 100 miles per hour. The accident occurred on U.S. 64 about 19 miles west of Murphy, officers said.

Weekend deaths brought the state's 1974 traffic toll to 784, compared with 996 for the same period last year, the patrol reported.

Other victims included a seven-week old girl, Jennifer Lynn Lord, who was killed in a two-car collision Sunday in Whiteville.

A head-on collision Saturday killed two women in Gaston County. The victims were Stella Patterson McCorkle, 33, of Rt. 1 Stanly and Myrtle S. Williams, 74, of Charlotte. Roy William Burgin, 28, of Greensboro died early Sunday in a two-car crash on U.S. 421 near Siler City. Five others were injured.

Louise Eason Harrington, 29, of Rt. 1, Whitickers, was killed Sunday in Wake County when her car struck a power pole. Stamey Doyt Watson, 19, of Salisbury, died Saturday when his car struck a tree in Rowan County.

Varser Mitchell Burnette, 15, of Garland, Tex., was killed Saturday in a one-car accident in Randolph County.

Harris Roberson Heath, 19, of Tarboro, died Saturday in a one-car crash near Tarboro. David Coleman, 18, of Bridgefield, Del., was killed Friday night when his car ran into a ditch in Bertie County.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Goggles, respirators, rubber gloves and aprons are recommended farmer apparel this year for "special occasions."

This is just part of the safety equipment he will need when handling today's more toxic agricultural chemicals.

The removal of certain less toxic but more persistent chemicals—such as DDT—from the approved use list is leading to the use of newer materials that, while less persistent in the environment and of less danger to the consumer, are of greater potential danger to the farm applicator.

North Carolina, through the agricultural extension service and North Carolina State University, is cooperating in an intensive, 14-state program to educate farmers in the safe use of the more toxic pesticides. "Project Safeguard" is being conducted in conjunction with the Environmental Protection Agency and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

One of the things being taught is what to wear when using or handling pesticides. The list includes waterproof gloves, boots, jacket, hat, trousers, apron, goggles, and a respirator with the proper canister for the insecticide involved.

Here are other suggestions:
—An adequate supply of soap and water should be available wherever insecticides are stored or handled.

—If a worker gets insecticide on his body and clothing, he should bathe thoroughly as soon as possible and avoid wearing any contaminated clothing until it is washed.

—It is helpful to carry a 10-gallon drum of clean water on the application equipment to use in case the worker has to unclog a spray nozzle in the field or otherwise come in contact with chemicals that should be washed off immediately.

—Where a leak or spill occurs in a storage area, determine the cause and fix it. Then scatter sawdust or other absorbent material over the spilled insecticide. Clean this up and scatter lime over the area. After this, wash the area with a solution of detergent and water. Dispose of the sawdust, lime and wash water in a safe manner.

—Use water plus detergent in cleaning the applicator equipment. When different pesticides are used, clean up between each type by washing out the tank, the nozzles and the pump.

—Never leave empty pesticide containers lying around. Drain them into the spray tank for at least 30 seconds, then rinse and drain them for 30 seconds three successive times, pouring the rinse water into the tank. Then crush or dispose of the containers as soon as possible.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES
Agricultural Extension Agent

Soybean production in 1974 could total 1,540 million bushels, just under last year's record if acreage intentions and projected yields are realized.

But adding this to the large carryover expected in September would boost 1974-75 supplies to 1.8 billion bushels, about a tenth above the current season and a new record.

Farmers in March indicated plans to plant 55 million acres of soybeans this year. About 2 1/2 million below the record of last year. Yields per acre are projected to increase.

Total soybean utilization next season is projected to increase by about 100 million bushels to 1.5 billion bushels.

Tight edible oil supplies and strong demand for soybean oil are expected to boost crushings to 775 million bushels, up 7 percent.

Strong overseas demand for meal is expected to boost soybean exports to 525 million bushels, up 9 percent.

Heavy domestic requirements for soybean oil to meet expanding demand for vegetable oil and to cover shortfalls in butter and lard production are expected to boost domestic disappearance to 7.2 billion pounds, 0.5 billion above the record of last year. The large offtake this year is keeping crushers and refiners busy. Also, pipeline stocks so far have increased only moderately.

Domestic use of soybean meal is expected to expand to about 13 million tons, almost a tenth above last year. Lower prices and large supplies should encourage a higher feeding rate.

NO OTHER WAGON HAS ALL THIS, OR IS LIKELY TO. NOT FOR YEARS.

Volkswagen calls it the perfect station wagon for its time. Dasher is a powerful car that also gets about 25 miles to the gallon. It's small enough to be a cinch to park, big enough to come with a specially designed rear suspension for taking heavy loads. (And a low loading platform that means no muscle required for loading groceries, bicycles etc.) Dasher has front-wheel drive that does some nifty road-holding, loaded or unloaded, wet roads and dry. It only needs maintenance once every 10,000 miles. And it has the amazing Skidbreaker: when one side of the car is riding on a wet or slippery surface, Skidbreaker forces Dasher to move in a straight line as you brake.

If the Dasher wagon sounds ahead of its time, you're right, it is. But it's at your nearest Volkswagen dealer now.

N.C. hens: Market stronger on heavy hens. Supplies adequate and demand fair. Heavies, at farm, 11 cents per pound; F.O.B. plants too few to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market inched downward in very slow trading today, continuing the cautious trend it established on Friday.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.44 at 784.50, and declining issues held a narrow lead over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said it appeared many investors were simply biding their time while awaiting firmer indications of prospects for an easing off in interest rates.

"The market is just drifting," said Newton D. Zinder at E. F. Hutton & Co. "There's some caution at this point of the Cyprus situation, but there isn't any significant selling pressure."

Greece and Turkey accepted a cease-fire on Cyprus today after fighting over the weekend, but analysts noted many Wall Streeters still regarded the situation as touchy.

Exxon was up a point at 72 1/2 in active trading. After Friday's close, the giant oil company reported a 67 per cent gain in second-quarter earnings.

Mountain Fuel Supply climbed 3 1/2 to 58 1/4 on top of a 7 1/4 point gain Friday. Late Thursday the Utah Public Service Commission issued a final order allowing the company to exclude its oil operations from determination of rates on its natural gas utility services.

American Telephone & Telegraph was the most active NYSE issue, up 1/4 at 43 3/4.

The NYSE's composite of all its listed common stocks was down .15 to 43.59 at 11 a.m.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up .09 at 79.78.

Cooper-Jarrett, which reported a steep rise in second-quarter profits, was up 1/2 at 4 1/2 on the Amex.

the Eastern Belt," than sales on the South Carolina-Border North Carolina belt did last week.

But he emphasized, "Prices are going to have to stay above 90 cents per pound" in light of the increased cost of production if tobacco farmers "make any money."

"Farmers feel the price will go up," the Governor said, "in 10 days to two weeks, when the tobacco being offered for sale "is more up the stalk."

The supply of tobacco, Gov. Holshouser said "is 25 per cent of demand world wide, and "prices should be going up. There shouldn't be any reason for prices to go down," he commented.

The official said his visits to Eastern Belt markets today were made "mainly just to listen to farmers and warehousemen. . . how they feel about the market. . . so I don't have to get the information second hand."

The governor indicated that he had heard no criticism this morning on the system of marketing leaf this year. . . when farmers have had to designate the warehouses at which they want to sell their leaf.

Packhouse And Contents Lost

Cecil Gaskins of near Ayden lost a packhouse holding 26 barns of tobacco and two tractors to fire Sunday morning, according to Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner.

Joyner said the fire was reported at 11:20 a.m. and Ayden Fire Department responded. The building and its contents were complete losses, he said.

Owners of the barns reported burned over the weekend included the following, with the Fire Department responding to each immediately after each listing: Bruce Strickland Friday night, Bell Arthur; George Prayer near Ayden Saturday morning, Ayden; (owner not known by fire marshal) near Belvoir Saturday afternoon, Belvoir; Merlean Pittman Sunday morning, Black Jack; and Pete Allen, Sunday morning, Farmville. These total losses of curing barns and their contents bring the total in the county to 22 this month, Joyner said.

Joyner also reported minor damage to a mobile home at Shady Knoll Mobile Estates Saturday afternoon. Rosetta Harrell called in the alarm and Station House Fire Department responded, he said.

Investigate 6 Break-Ins

Pitt County Sheriff's deputies are investigating a rash of daylight break-ins near the Ayden and Winterville communities last week.

According to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, six break-ins occurred some time during the day last Thursday.

A total of $498 worth of merchandise was taken from three of the residences.

According to Tyson, all of the persons who lost merchandise were working on farms and the homes were left unattended during the day.

Five residences near Winterville were broken into and one near Ayden was hit, according to Tyson.

Among the merchandise taken was a stereo component system from Bassel Finney Jr. of Rt. 1, Box 186 Winterville, a single barrel shotgun, tape player and two speakers from James Sutherland of near Winterville, and a single barrel shotgun and a 15 inch black and white television set from Willie Carmon of Rt. 1, Box 283C, Ayden, according to Tyson.

Tyson warns persons who must be away from their homes all day to secure their dwellings well and to ask neighbors to report suspicious persons in their areas to the Sheriff's Dept.

Sheriff's deputies are following up some leads on the break-ins the Sheriff indicates.

Charge Woman With Stabbing

Annie Mae Roberson, 40, of South Greene St. was charged with breaking and entering and assault with a deadly weapon following a stabbing incident at 413B West Third St. about 11:30 p.m. Sunday.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, Miss Roberson allegedly went to the home of Lillian Tina Langley Hooks on West Third Street but was denied admittance by Mrs. Hooks.

Miss Roberson then allegedly took a screen off a window, broke the glass and climbed in. She then allegedly attempted to cut Thomas Smith Jr. of 1006 Van Nortwick St. who was inside the dwelling, but, according to Smith, he held her off with a chair.

The Chief said Miss Roberson then stabbed Mrs. Hooks in the area of the stomach. The wound was described as "not serious," however, Chief Cannon noted.

Leaf Sales. . .

Borrowing a phrase from an old song, Barrett said that, "How are you going to keep them down on the farm. . . with these prices."

Another grower, Absalom Edwards of Rt. 2, Walstonburg, said that his 1,184 pounds sold today for mostly $86 and $87 and he added that he was "disappointed, naturally, that the prices were not higher."

Edwards said that curing and production costs have gone "sky high" and contended that he would have needed $97 per hundred to make money on the opening sale.

Today's opening prices were "just about what we had expected with approximately 95 per cent. . . ground leaves," commented John Cyrus, tobacco marketing specialist with the N.C. Department of Agriculture.

Cyrus, who has attended opening sales here for years, said that it will probably take about two weeks to move out the lower grade leaf and begin to get into the upper stalk offerings. He noted that the early primings are not in demand on the export market and only domestic companies are bidding on the initial offerings.

Cyrus, saying that the growers should not be alarmed at the early figures, predicted that "we'll see a lot of tobacco sell for over $100" when the higher leaves are marketed. "You can't look at the first few days of the season as a trend for the whole season," he added.

The tobacco official emphasized that today's sales marks the earliest season opening in history and he contended that much of the tobacco being offered was not ready for harvesting when it was pulled. He said it would have helped if the ground leaves could have

State Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham, also in town for the opening sale, said that he shared the disappointment of the growers in the initial prices but he said that he feels they will improve after "we get into the leaves up on the stalk."

Asserting that this year's tobacco represents the "costliest tobacco crop in history," Graham said that he wants to wait and see what buying companies will pay when they get the type of tobacco they are seeking.

Graham said that if prices don't improve after the better grades reach the market, "then something's got to be done." He noted that he will request an audience with U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz to discuss the tobacco situation.

"We are fortunate to have the tobacco program, and we certainly don't want to lose it," the commissioners added.

"The local market opened today with two sets of buyers as the belt began the season under the new grower designation plan. Three sets of buyers will be here for tomorrow's sale.

Mathews Released After Braves Drop Fourth Game

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves began the search today for a manager to replace Eddie Mathews, who was fired Sunday after his team dropped its fourth straight game.

The dismissal shocked not only Mathews, whose team compiled a 50-49 mid-season record, but his fans and players as well.

"It was a blow to me," said home run king Henry Aaron, a longtime teammate of Mathews.

"Why did they fire him? He's the best manager we've had," said an angry fan.

Atlanta Constitution Sports Editor Jesse Outlar wrote: "You can't fire 25 players, so in baseball you fire the manager. What the Braves need is some new players."

Mathews first heard of his dismissal when Braves Vice President Eddie Robinson came to his office after Atlanta dropped a 6-2 decision to Pittsburgh Sunday and said, "I'm going to change managers, Eddie."

"He took it like a man," Robinson commented later.

"It was a shock," admitted Mathews, who took over from Luman Harris in August, 1972. "I didn't have an inkling this was going to happen. But it's over and done with. I'm sure it wasn't done on the spur of the moment."

"When you don't win, you don't stay around too long," said Mathews, whose Braves finished fifth in the National League West a year ago with a 76-85 record.

"Personally I thought he did a heck of a job," said Aaron, who with Mathews teamed to crack out 863 home runs while playing together, a record that still stands.

Mathews slammed out 421 of them and closed his 17-year major league career with 512, ending up with Houston and Detroit before retiring in 1968.

"We were not playing good now but we had been playing better than in the past," said Aaron. "But it's their ball club and they can do what they want to."

Third baseman Darrell Evans said Mathews "was the fairest manager I ever played under. He treated everybody as a man—maybe some of us couldn't handle it."

Robinson said an interim manager would be named within a few days.

"I wanted Eddie to have a good shot at it," said Robinson, "and I think he has had a good shot. I think two years is a good shot."

Mathews, a 43-year-old native of Texarkana, Tex., was a 10-time All-Star and participated in three World Series during his outstanding career, compiling a .271 lifetime batting mark. He also holds the major league record for most home runs by a third baseman, 47 in 1953.

Mathews said he has been offered a position in the organization but said he didn't know what his immediate plans would be.

Schedule Correction

It was incorrectly stated that the Greenville Tar Heel League all-stars would begin play in the district tournament this Thursday.

Actually, the Greenville team drew a bye in the opening round. They will play at 5:00 p.m. Friday against the Winner of the Havelock (Area I) and Sandhills (Area III) game which is Thursday.

The winner there will advance to the state playoffs to be held here in Greenville, July 30, 31 and Aug. 1.

Aaron Playing In Last Game

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Hank Aaron, chosen to the National League All-Star team for the 20th straight year, plays in his final mid-summer classic Tuesday night against the American League, whose leaders are determined to come out a winner.

The 40-year-old Atlanta Braves' slugger, who surpassed Babe Ruth's all-time career home run mark of 714 earlier this year, has had little success in 22 All-Star games, hitting only two home runs in 64 at-bats. Two All-Star games were held each year from 1959 through 1962, but Aaron missed the first game in 1962 because of an injury.

"I'm honored to make it again," said Aaron, who was the NL's leading vote-getter with more than 2.6 million. The nation's fans chose the starting lineup, except for the pitchers.

"It's a little something special this year since it will be my last. I hope I can hit a homer for the fans."

A capacity crowd of more than 50,000 is expected at Three Rivers Stadium and an estimated 49 million will watch on television, according to NBC. Game time is 8:15 p.m., EDT.

Aaron, hitting .240 this season with 12 homers and a career total of 725, was expected to play right field for the first three innings.

The American League has lost 10 of the last 11 All-Star meetings and has only 11 victories and one tie against 28 losses in the series. The AL last won in 1971.

Lee MacPhail, who became American League president in January, has taken steps he hopes will make the junior circuit a winner this year. American League clubs have gone along with MacPhail's directive to change their pitching rotations so that an All-Star pitcher wouldn't work on Sunday.

This action drew criticism from All-Star pitcher Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox, who worked Saturday instead of Sunday with just two days off. "I don't mind because I have a reputation of working with two days' rest," said the knuckleballing left-hander. "But what is the objective of the American League races, to win in a division or to win the All-Star game? Why should the Sox or any other club be deprived of using a pitcher on Sunday?"

MacPhail said he has told AL Manager Dick Williams to concentrate on winning. "We want the best team on the field. We owe it to the fans. I told Dick his job was to win the ball game, not keeping the players happy." It was an indication that Williams would not be using the majority of his 28-man squad, which is the normal procedure.

The National League says it has made no similar moves, although NL Manager Yogi Berra, in defense of his not picking Los Angeles Dodger Tommy John, said: "He won't do us any good, he's pitching Sunday." Since then John, who has a 13-3 record, suffered an elbow injury.

Cleveland's Gaylord Perry was expected to get the starting nod for the AL.

Coaches, Players Beginning Work

Players and coaches for this year's Boys' Home All-Star game arrived yesterday and very quickly got down to the job of preparing for Saturday night's 12th classic.

The players went right to the practice field and had a session in shorts. The North team went through some loosening up drills, agility drills and a few sprints but nothing hard.

"We did what we wanted to do," said North head coach John Morris. Morris is from Reidsville High. "We just wanted to get the offensive sets and the defensive alignments."

Morris expected to get into the heavy gear today for both morning and afternoon sessions. The North will be running mainly from a power-I with three backs. Sometimes they will try to shift to a pro-type I with two wide receivers. For the first few workouts, however, the team will be trying to learn the systems and getting the patterns straightened out.

"Monday will be one of our heaviest days," said Morris. "We want to find out who can hit." Morris does not intend to do any team scrimmaging. All scrimmaging will be against dummies and in groups.

The North coaches also expect the players to catch on quickly to the plays and sets. "They are all good athletes and can learn fast."

With 30 players on each squad, no one will be missing playing time. "We are counting on everybody and we are hoping to platoon. They will all have a lot of duty," said Morris.

Morris was also hoping for the cool temperatures of Sunday to hold up through the week to make practices easier. The wish for the good weather was also voiced by South coach John Daskal of Reid Ross. "The weather was a real surprise, he said. "When it is cool you get a more spirited workout. Their personalities are better."

The South was basically trying to accomplish the same things as the North yesterday by getting the offense and defense introduced to the players. Daskal hoped to get into some contact work today and then go easy on it for the rest of the week.

The South will also be running the I and also the split back type of offense. "What we can get the most out of we will use," said Daskal. On defense, the South will run a 5-4 set as compared with the South's 5-2 "Monster-man" alignment.

Although both coaches got a lot done in the first practice it was still too early for either one to start trying to make any decisions. "They are a little scared and trying hard to please us," said Daskal.

Daskal summed up the feeling of all the coaches saying, "They are all good athletes. Any of us would like to take a squad back home and play anybody in the state."

Daskal also plans to do a lot of platooning. "You have 22 players and eight back-up men, four on offense and defense, so there will be no real first or second team."

The public is invited to observe the practice sessions which are being held twice a day by both teams.

The game is set for Saturday night in ECU's Ficklen Stadium, 8:00 p.m. Tickets can be purchased from any North Carolina Jaycee.

Tradition, Matchups Are Two Different Things

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies and Los Angeles Dodgers are leading their respective divisions in the National League—and that means that the Phillies should meet the Cincinnati Reds in the playoffs, right? Normally, the teams that are in first place at the All-Star break meet for the league title in the fall.

But the National League West race is something else. The Dodgers, who lost to the East-leading Phillies 2-1 Sunday, are 5½ games ahead of the Reds at this point. Ironically, that's where they were at this time last year, when the Reds erased the Dodgers' lead with a second-half rally.

Los Angeles Manager Walt

Alston might see the similarity but won't recognize it publicly. He just brings up that familiar baseball refrain: "I'd sure rather be 5½ games ahead than 5½ games behind."

The Dodgers, who held an 8½-game lead at one stage last season, have been up by as much as 10½ over the Reds this year. But, like last year, they've lost a big part of their lead by All-Star time.

In other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Houston Astros 9-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped the Atlanta Braves 6-2; the Cincinnati Reds walloped the Chicago Cubs 8-2, the San Francisco Giants blanked the Montreal Expos twice, 4-0 and 2-0 and the San Diego Padres beat the New York Mets 7-3.

Cardinals 9, Astros 1

Light-hitting Mike Tyson clouted a two-run double and Ken Reitz and Jose Cruz hit home runs, leading St. Louis over Houston.

A 14-hit Cardinal attack also included three singles by Lou Brock, who drove in a run and stole his 59th and 60th bases of the season.

Pirates 6, Braves 2
Richie Hebner drilled four hits, including a pair of home runs, and scored four runs, triggering Pittsburgh over Atlanta. Manager Eddie Mathews of the Braves was fired after the game.

Dock Ellis 5-8, limited the Braves to five hits as the Pirates won their eighth straight game.

Reds 8, Cubs 2
Ken Griffey's inside-the-park home run with one on in the fifth powered Don Gullett and Cincinnati over Chicago.

With the score tied at 1-1 and Dave Concepcion on second, Cub right fielder Jose Cardenal charged Griffey's line drive for a throw to the plate but the ball bounced over his head and rolled to the right field fence as Griffey circled the bases with his first home run of the baseball season.

Giants 4-2, Expos 0-0
Right-hander Jim Barr fired a six-hitter and hot-hitting Garry Maddox drove in two runs, one with a homer, to lead San Francisco over Montreal in the first game of their doubleheader. John D'Aquisto and Elias Sosa combined on a second-game two-hitter.

Padres 7, Mets 3
Willie McCovey belted a pair of two-run homers to pace San Diego over New York.

Dying Father Sees Wish Filled

CINCINNATI (AP) — Seven-year-old Andy Allen got more than his dying father's wish for Andy to see a big league baseball game. He also got to meet the players.

Andy's father is Air Force Maj. John R. Allen, who is suffering from terminal cancer at a military hospital in San Antonio, Tex.

"You'll want to see Johnny Bench," Allen said he told his son.

The boy, who has lived until recently in Germany, asked: "Who's he?"

"You'll find out," the father said.

Andy was brought to Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium Sunday by relatives from Columbus, and he was met with open arms in the Reds' front office.

The tow-headed boy's eyes brightened with awe as he was taken onto the field to meet the Reds and some of the Chicago Cubs before the game.

Manager George "Sparky" Anderson put his arm around

Andy and introduced him to the Reds, including Johnny Bench and Pete Rose. Anderson even took care of the boy's autograph book.

Then Andy and his party were put in seats down front for the game.

Allen, 37, has cancer of the colon. "It's a solid tumor," he said from his hospital bed.

"I've got maybe two months. It's just a matter of time," said the veteran of 165 reconnaissance missions in Southeast Asia and winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross in Vietnam.

Allen is now a patient at Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center. He said Andy took up baseball earlier this year in Germany where Allen was stationed when the cancer was discovered.

Allen coached the team despite his illness. Andy played the outfield.

The team lost every game, but "they gave it everything they had," said the father.

Karl Had Thoughts Of Quitting Pro Golf

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Richie Karl had considered quitting the pro golf tour. Eighteen months of frustration had driven him home and he threw his clubs in a closet in disgust.

"I didn't touch a club for more than a month," he said Sunday. "I couldn't stand the sight of a golf club, or the thought of playing."

"Then I decided to go back to the origins, the definitions. What is golf? It's a game. You have to play it like a game, not work at it, make a drudgery of it."

That change in philosophy paid off for the 29-year-old Karl Sunday when he birdied the first extra hole for a sudden-death playoff victory over Australian veteran Bruce Crampton in the B.C. Open Golf Tournament.

They tied at the end of the regulation 72 holes—Karl blowing a six-shot lead with nine holes to play—at 273, 11 under par on the 6,804-yard En Joie Golf Club course, a layout that served as Karl's boyhood playground and now is his source of employment. He's an assistant pro.

Karl, whose victory came within sight of the house where he grew up, rolled in a 35-foot birdie putt on the first playoff hole to claim the $30,000 first prize.

It more than double his previous career winnings in four years on the tour. He'd won only $256 this year before he came home in disgust from the Greensboro Open last March.

And it made him the first host pro to win a pro tour title since Earl Stewart took the Dallas Open in 1961.

Ray Floyd once got to within a single shot of the lead and was third alone with a closing 66 and 275 total.

Rod Curl, with a 65, was next at 276. Curtis Sifford, who shared the third-round lead with Karl, went to a 72 and was tied at 277 with John Schlee, who had a 70.

An incredible cry of joy went up from the highly partisan gallery of Karl's friends, neighbors and former schoolmates when he dropped the winning putt. His caddy, in tears, rushed to his side.

Karl, 29, had a final round 68—including a fat, three-over-par back nine—and Crampton charged into a tie at the end with his strong 66 that he called "probably my best shot-making round of the year."

KYOTO, Japan (AP) — The University of Wisconsin basketball team, led by Dale Koehler's 22 points, coasted to a 77-54 victory over the Japan All-Stars at this ancient Japanese capital Saturday night.

Goldsboro Team Wins Ladies Invitational Softball Tourney

Stoney Creek of Goldsboro won the Ladies Invitational Softball Tournament sponsored by the Greenville Recreation Dept. this weekend by beating Towe Motors of Elizabeth City, 5-2.

For Towe Motors the final game was its sixth of the day. Towe had started Sunday's games losing to Avis but came back to win the next four straight. The long day finally caught up with them in the championship game as Stoney Creek, which only played four previous games in the day, won the affair.

Stoney Creek rallied for three in the third to go in front 3-1 after Towe had broken the ice in the second with a lone score. Towe pulled within one, 3-2 in the sixth but two runs came over for Stoney Creek in the top of the seventh to insure the win.

Ann Webb of Stoney Creek was selected as the event's Most Valuable player.

The summary of the games:

Saturday night
15. Kings Chicken 23, Craven Co. 7
16. Grant City 12, Spears 9

ASU Shifted

BOONE, N.C. (AP)—Appalachian State University athletic director Jim Jones says the Southern Conference school has been shifted from the NCAA's Division 2 to Division 1 in football, effective with the coming season.

The change, moving ASU from college to university status in the sport, will force the school to maintain football schedules embracing at least a majority of Division 1 opponents.

Wants Purse To Match Title

By JERRY LISKA
AP Sports Writer
LA GRANGE, Ill. (AP) — The U.S. Women's Open has prestige, but newly-crowned Open champion Sandra Haynie thinks it should also carry a purse to measure up to that reputation.

Miss Haynie Sunday survived one of the most dramatic finishes in the meet's 29-year history, including a streaking performance by a couple of young men, for a one-stroke victory and her first open title in a 13-year pro career.

Miss Haynie did it the hard way, rammung home a 70-foot birdie putt on the 71st hole and a clinching 15-foot birdie putt on the final hole just when it appeared a three-woman playoff was inevitable.

That gave Miss Haynie, who earlier this year won the Ladies Professional Golf Association Open, the top $6,073 prize in the $40,000 event.

Finishing a stroke behind, and collecting $2,573 each, were 1965 champion Carol Mann and Beth Stone, who finished before Miss Haynie's heroics.

Still No. 4 in 1974 earnings with $51,008, Miss Haynie said "I certainly would hope the National Open purse is increased in the future."

"This is the most prestigious of our tournaments, and I definitely would like to see the purse raised to meet that prestige."

Threatened boycott by some players of this open over the purse size never developed with promise of the sponsoring United States Golf Association to review the payoff, exceeded this year by two $100,000 events and several $50,000 outings.

As for the fringe benefits of winning the open, Miss Haynie said endorsements and other bonuses fall far below the potential of the winner of the men's U.S. Open.

Her winning effort produced a 72-hole total of 295, a fat seven over par for the distance over the La Grange Country Club par 72 course which proved difficult all the way for the 40 pros and 14 amateurs who finished.

The final three holes appeared like the charge of the ill-fated light brigade, especially the exasperating, par four 70th hole, which first Miss Mann, then Miss Haynie and then Joanne Carner all double bogeyed.

Miss Mann salvaged an apparent tie with Miss Stone as she dramatically punched an 8-iron approach to within 18 inches for a birdie four on the 72nd hole. That gave her a 75 for a 296 total to match Miss Stone, who finished earlier with a one-under-par 71.

Mrs. Carner wound up with a 77 to tie Kathy Whitworth for fourth place at 297 worth $1,623 for each.

Two Take Two

In doubleheaders in the semi-pro league Sunday, Jollie took two from St. Peters while the Belvoir Bombers swept Jamesville.

Jollie took the first of their two make-up games, 3-2. That game had been tied 3-2 and was resumed in the seventh. They took the second game, 9-7.

Belvoir slipped past Jamesville 6-3 in the first game of their pair and got a run in the eighth inning to beat Jamesville a second time, 8-7.

Belief Depends On The Side You're On

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
Whether you believe in that vague, mystical force known as momentum depends on which side of the streak you're on.

If you're Ralph Houk, you're a devout believer. If you're Frank Quilici ... well, then there's more to winning than impetus.

As the major leagues' three-day All-Star break begins today, Houk's Detroit Tigers are shivering, they're so cold. Quilici's Minnesota Twins, meanwhile, are burning up the joint.

On Sunday, for example, Bob Darwin hit a two-run single and Eric Soderholm clubbed a three-run homer to highlight a seven-run fourth-inning explosion that carried Minnesota to a 10-7 victory over the Tigers, the Twins' 12th victory in their last 15 games and Detroit's 13th loss in its last 15.

In Sunday's other American League games, New York edged Kansas City 5-4, Oakland defeated Cleveland 6-3, California topped Baltimore 6-4, Texas tripped Boston 2-1 and, in a doubleheader, Chicago beat Milwaukee 6-2 before the Brewers bounced back to win the second game 5-3.

Yanks 5, Royals 4
Bobby Murcer wrecked Kansas City Manager Jack McKeon's strategy with a two-run bases-loaded double in a three-run seventh inning that led the Yanks past the Royals.

With New York trailing 4-3 and men on second and third and two out, McKeon ordered Steve Mingori to load the bases by walking Elliott Maddox intentionally. But Murcer jumped on an 0-1 outside pitch and punched a double down the left field line.

A's 6, Indians 3
Ted Kubiak's two-run single highlighted a four-run seventh inning that beat Cleveland. A walk and singles by Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace loaded the bases.

Pat Borque tied the game with a grounder, Kubiak singled and Bill North tripled.

Angels 6, Orioles 4
The Angels got two runs in the ninth on one of Mickey Rivers' three doubles, Dave Chalk's bunt single, Frank Robinson's sacrifice fly and Joe LaHoud's single to beat the Orioles.

Baltimore had tied the score in the eighth.

Rangers 2, Red Sox 1
Seventh-inning singles by Jim Sundberg, Alex Johnson and Jeff Burroughs carried the Rangers past Boston.

The victory kept Texas fourth in the West, eight games behind first-place Oakland.

White Sox 6-3, Brewers 2-5
Dick Allen hit his 26th homer and two doubles and Bill Melton homered to give Chicago its opening-give victory. And the White Sox were only three outs away from a sweep when Milwaukee finally flexed its muscles, with a Deron Johnson grand-slam homer.

In Sunday's National League games, it was St. Louis 9, Houston 1; Pittsburgh 6, Atlanta 2; Cincinnati 8, Chicago 2; San Diego 7, New York 3; Philadelphia 2, Los Angeles 1, and San Francisco 4-2, Montreal 0-0.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two former teammates, righthander Jim Perry and lefthander Jim Kaat, both went over the career 200-victory mark in 1974.

Both Kaat (now with the Chicago White Sox) and Perry (now with the Cleveland Indians) were teammates with the Minnesota Twins from 1963 through 1972. They began the 1974 season with 194 wins apiece.

VALUABLE RELIEVERS
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Should Mike Marshall, premier relief pitcher of the Los Angeles Dodgers, win the National League most valuable player award in 1974, he would be the first "fireman" to do so since Jim Konstanty of the Philadelphia Phillies in 1950.

The Worry The Impact Platonic Panic

Elsie is losing her husband to John Barleycorn. She doesn't know why, but the reason is simple! When a husband thinks he is slipping in his libido, notice the deceptive strategy he employs to hide this fact from his wife!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE A-691: Elsie B., aged 36, is an unwitting sex victim. "Dr. Crane," she moaned, "we were happily married our first 12 years. "But during the past 3 years, my life has been miserable. "For my husband then started drinking heavily and usually stays out late at night. "When he finally does stagger home, he is intoxicated and may be very abusive to me and the children. "But the few times he is sober, he is a wonderful husband and father. "Most of the time, however, he is interested only in himself despite the fact the children beg him to play with them or go fishing. "Dr. Crane why would a formerly wonderful husband make such a tragic change, for he is only 39 years of age?"

Platonic Panic
This is a classical case of platonic panic. Women seem unduly obtuse about recognizing the underlying cause of this type of change in husbands. But it is a world-wide symptom of men who grow scared about becoming impotent. On the honeymoon, the usual young husband may have 3 or 4 times the erotic hunger of his bride. But after 15 or 20 years of marriage, plus the arrival of several children and other worries about finances, the male slows down in his sexual desire till the husband-wife ratio in their libido may now drop from 4 to 1, down to 1 to 1, but this terrifies the usual male. His wife is still quite content, for women are basically frigid anyway, in comparison with the husband's erotic appetite. But a reduction from 4: 1 down to 1: 1, makes the husband start worrying lest he soon be "on the shelf." Alas, worry is a mental (cerebral) function. So we can't long maintain cerebral and emotional activity simultaneously, before one or the other subsides. Since this dread of impotence remains ascendant, his erotic nerve wanes. Then he finds that he can't grow passionate regarding his wife. "But she expects me to be erotic," he thinks, "so I must divert her attention or she'll realize I am prematurely senile in the bedroom." And here are the usual devices that men all over the world have automatically evolved to hide their impotence:

(1) Excessive use of alcohol, for if they stumble home half drunk, their wife will assume their lack of sex desire is due to liquor.

(2) Hypercriticism of their wife, till they bring her to tears. For if they affect anger or hatred, then the wife will not expect them to be affectionate, so their impotence will be camouflaged.

(3) Miserliness with money, for when males think they can't dominate a wife's heart, they try to make her beg for doled out cash, thus letting the husband feel that he is still head of the house.

(4) Poker, bowling and other nocturnal engagements that can keep him away till long after bedtime, so his sleepy wife will be in dreamland when he sneaks into bed.

Set Program In Lynndale

Lynndale Frolics is the name of a recreation fun period scheduled late Wednesday, July 24 in the Lynndale subdivision area of Greenville.

The first of a recreation program in the outlying neighborhoods of Greenville, suggested at a Recreation Commission meeting several months ago, tentative plans are to have others like it if this one proves to be successful.

The event will take place on Martinborough Street near Granville Street. Billed as a fun and games time for residents from the age of 11 days to 111 years, activities planned include volley-ball, trampolins, ping-pong, badminton, checkers, chess, table games, and arts and crafts. Recreation staff members will be on hand to help and to supervise.

Activities begin at 6 p.m. and continue until the sun goes down—a period of about two hours plus.

This initial program is under the planning and supervision of two East Carolina University recreation student internes, Joe Edmondson of Scotland Neck and Betty McDade of Hillsborough. Both are working with the Recreation Department this summer full time in varied recreation programs.

There is no admission charge for Lynndale Frolics.

Ranch Country In Eight States

DENVER (UPI) — More than one-third of the nation's sheep and lambs are produced in the eight-state region of Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, says the Federation of Rocky Mountain States. About 12 per cent of the nation's cattle and calves are raised in the region, but less than two per cent of the country's hogs and pigs.

involves NASA 'Payoff'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP TELEVISION Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A surprising number of Americans have reached the point at which they only think about space flight when the networks televise the lighting of one of those big candles at Cape Kennedy.

If you're in that category—and even if not—take a look tonight at a one-hour CBS News special, narrated and reported by Walter Cronkite and called "Space: A Report to the Stockholders."

As the title connotes, it aims at adding up what U.S. taxpayers have gotten for the nation's 13 years of space exploration and what they may get in future years, depending on the mood of Congress toward the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — NASA — at appropriations time.

The show contains no startling news, no major developments that haven't already been amply reported, no gaudy new space gadgetry. In short, it's not another gosh-and-gee-whiz space study. But it is a very thorough, fundamental and well-produced look at the American space program—past, present and future—and the various arguments still smoldering over the worth of it all.

In the good old days, a TV documentary on any space program might have contained nothing but cheers for the idea. But tonight's show amply illustrates how far we've come from the uncritical era.

Item: The nation's space shuttle program for the 1980s. It'll cost $49 billion, give or take a buck. Cronkite notes the craft's backers claim its reusability will save taxpayers billions.

"But to make that argument work, the shuttle has to remain very busy," he notes. "It needs to fly enough missions to offset" the shuttle program's huge development cost.

"NASA is planning to build a fleet of seven shuttle vehicles," he then adds. "They would fly 725 missions in the years 1980 through 1991. That averages out at one launch every six days for 12 years."

It makes one stop and think—or ask what time the next shuttle leaves.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

By CHARLES H. GOREN

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A ♠A62 ♠Q9764 ♠AQ76
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 2♣ Pass
? What do you bid now?

A.—Four clubs. Your hand reveals to 19 points in support of clubs. Since partner's two-over-one response shows a minimum of 11, you are at least in the game zone and could easily have a slam. An immediate jump raise is your best way to show this.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠4 ♠AQ87 ♠KJ764 ♠A92
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♦ Pass 1♠ Pass
1NT Pass 3♣ Pass
? What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. Even tho it is unlikely that partner holds four hearts, you should complete describing your hand. Depending on the development of the auction, you should defer showing your club support at least until the next round, if you decide to show it at all.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A6 ♠AK8 ♠AKJ983 ♠K7
What is your opening bid?

A.—Two no trump. Tho you have a six-card minor suit, your hand is really quite balanced. No other opening bid describes the hand accurately. You are not strong enough for a demand bid of two diamonds, and an opening bid of one diamond might get passed out when partner has enough for you to make game. In addition, a no trump bid from partner would expose your king of clubs for a lead thro.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠7 ♠K8732 ♠K105 ♠A1092
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1♥ 1♠
Pass Pass ?
? What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. This may seem a mite on the timid side, but a stronger bid is not necessary. The fact that we have reopened the bidding after partner has shown a minimum indicates a fair hand. Three clubs is out, for we play that forcing to game, and the hand is not good enough for that action.

Nixon 'Uncomfortable' In Not Recognizing Warning

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has likened himself to a "dumb turkey" for failing in 1972 to recognize the suggestions of a Watergate coverup in conversations with his aides.

"It's not comfortable for me because I was sitting there like a dumb turkey," Nixon told White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler as the two listened June 4, 1973, to tape recordings of Nixon's meetings the previous February and March with John W. Dean III.

The House Judiciary Committee transcript of the June 4 session was contained in 1,069 pages of evidence made public by the committee Saturday.

The latest volumes of evidence amassed by the committee also disclosed that White House staff chief Alexander M. Haig Jr. suggested as early as July 3, 1973, that Nixon wanted to fire Archibald Cox as the special Watergate prosecutor, according to former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

The documents further revealed that Cox asked Nixon on June 27, 1973, for his version of the cover-up described by Dean in testimony before the Senate Watergate Committee.

As Nixon listened and, with Ziegler, searched for the damaging implications in the tapes of the Dean meetings, the President mused:

"Well, you know I wondered, frankly, Ron, when I first saw, uh, heard about the God damn story, that Haldeman (unintelligible) people in the Watergate. I mean, God, maybe we were talking about a cover-up Watergate. I really didn't. I didn't know what the hell — I honestly didn't know."

Early in the session, Nixon fretted about the implications of his conversation March 21, 1973, with Dean and H.R. Haldeman. "We do know we have no problem: it's that damn conversation of March 21st ...," Nixon said.

It was in that meeting that Dean spoke of a "cancer close to the presidency" and described E. Howard Hunt's demands for hush money, the possibility of clemency for the Watergate burglars and the chances of criminal charges against various White House aides.

According to the transcript, Nixon told Ziegler:

"That's a little, there's a feeling of it through here ..."

At one point, Nixon blames John N. Mitchell, his former attorney general and campaign chief, for failing to shield him from the scandal.

"The key to this thing, Ron, is Mitchell. Always been the key. You haven't had a coverup. Dean did it — shit, he didn't do it for Haldeman and Ehrlichman. He (unintelligible) himself," Nixon said. "He did it for John Mitchell."

The President continued: "That's the tragedy of the whole thing. Mitchell would never step up to this. Well, I suppose, would you? No. No. Former attorney general step up and say you bugged? Shit, I wouldn't."

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 23, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

The morning is the best time to improve your personal appearance. Later you can easily come to a new rapport with associates by adopting a highly cooperative attitude and coordinating their views with yours.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are loaded down with duties so attend to them in a determined fashion. Strive for more harmony with allies. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Engage in creative affairs in the morning and much success can result. Gain the goodwill of others by giving deserved praise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do something constructive about home irritations and improve harmony there. Much romantic happiness is possible in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Attending to business matters and finding the data you need is fine during the daytime. Show kin how fond you are of them.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) It is wise to find out what your monetary position is even if you have to give up other things you had planned to do. Relax tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Come to the right decisions in the morning. Later you can obtain information you need from an astute friend. Be practical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you meet with an expert you can come to vital decisions about the future. Improve your appearance before going out tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Engage in career matters that are important in the morning. Express new ideas in a plan you have for the future. Think logically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle regular routines in a clever way early in the day and bring your finest abilities to the attention of a higher-up.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Obtain the right data you need from bigwig. Study brochures if you are planning a trip. Think along constructive lines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure your bills are paid before delving into new projects. Let your intuitive faculties help you in your activities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Know what your position is with an associate and then make sure you do your part of any work required. Relax at home tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will ask many questions early in life so make sure you answer them properly, since there is an intelligent and practical mind here. Upon maturity your progeny could easily become a very popular extrovert and will be cooperative with others. An excellent marriage prospect in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Yugoslavian Built Own Power Plant

TOMLIN, Yugoslavia (AP) — Angel Celnik got tired of going to bed with the chickens while waiting for electric power to reach his out-of-the-way home in this Slovenian town on the slopes of the picturesque Julian Alps.

So he built his own hydroelectric power station, harnessing the water of the Socica river.

A blacksmith by trade, Celnik bought a second-hand generator and turbine and piped water from the river about 450 yards away. The result: a 10-kilowatt power station, rickety in appearance but generating a steady 220 volts.

That was 20 years ago. Electricity has now reached Celnik's home town in the Socia valley, bringing with it expensive, bulb-burning oscillations in the level of power. But Celnik's supplies stay steady, powering television, washing machine, electric heaters, radiators, refrigerator and a host of smaller domestic appliances.

"And we never pay a penny for electricity," he says.

Across the province of Slovenia, in the mountain village of Koritnica, farmer Joze Erzen had the same idea.

It was 1964 and a long period of drought had stilled the power station that supplied his saw mill.

"At that time we did not know of the long-term energy crisis," Erzen, now 69, said. "But I could not afford to let the mill close down."

Today Erzen is also linked to what he likes to call "state electricity." But this supply, he says, is unreliable when most needed — "during important televised soccer matches."

"We never miss a shot," Erzen said. "We can always switch to our private supply. We even lend power to neighbors when the general network is not stable — usually during soccer matches."

NOTICE OF SERVICE OF PROCESS BY PUBLICATION

State of North Carolina
County of Greenville

IN THE DISTRICT COURT IN THE MATTER OF THE ADOPTION OF THOMAS CHRISTOPHER THAXTON, 74 SP 172.

TO: GEORGE THOMAS THAXTON TAKE NOTICE, that an adoption petition has been filed in the above entitled Special Proceeding where in the petitioner, Albert Ray Smith, is seeking to adopt Thomas Christopher Thaxton, and that in said Special Proceeding, a Petition has been filed wherein the petitioners, Albert Ray Smith and Yvonne Faye Thaxton, are seeking to have declared an abandoned child under Chapter 48 of the General Statutes of the State of North Carolina.

You are required to make defense to such Petition not later than September 2, 1974, and upon your failure to do so, the party seeking service of process against you shall apply to the Court for the relief sought.

No Quick Selection For Att'y General Candidate

Jackson To Be Speaking

GREENSBORO (AP)—U.S. Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson, D-Wash., is scheduled to speak tonight in Greensboro at a fundraising dinner for Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan.

Morgan, now state attorney general, is the Democratic candidate in North Carolina for the U.S. Senate. He will face Republican William Stevens of Lenoir in November.

The $50-a-plate dinner is the first of at least seven planned for Morgan around the state, each featuring a major Democratic member of the U.S. Senate.

The dinners are designed to give Morgan exposure before the campaign kickoff and to pay the debt remaining from the primary election in May.

The dinner is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Rodeway Inn off Interstate 40 in Greensboro. U.S. Rep. L. Richardson Preyer, D-Greensboro, will be the master of ceremonies.

The second dinner is scheduled for Thursday night at the Sheraton Crabtree Motor Inn in Raleigh. The speaker will be Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky.

Prepare To Vote Over Televising Of Debate

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee is preparing to vote on whether its historic impeachment debate should be televised.

The debate begins Wednesday and could last into next week.

A change in House rules would be needed to allow the television cameras into committee sessions and a resolution proposing the change is scheduled for House action shortly before the committee meets this afternoon.

At an earlier closed session, the committee will receive a brief of arguments against impeachment presented by Sam Garrison, newly designated by the Republican committee members as their minority counsel.

Albert Jenner, who had held that position from the start of the inquiry, with Garrison as his deputy, will remain on the staff as associate counsel working under special counsel John Doar.

Jenner had made it clear from the start that he regarded himself as working for the committee, not the Republicans, and they repeatedly have turned to Garrison when they felt the need for partisan services.

The Republicans' patience with Jenner, a prominent Chicago lawyer, snapped last week when Jenner endorsed Doar's conclusion that Nixon had abused his powers of office and should be impeached.

Garrison, who served previously as an aide to former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, has been asked by the Republicans to rebut the case for impeachment presented by Doar and Jenner.

In a preview of the impeachment debate, Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said Sunday the Doar-Jenner brief provides "an overwhelming case" for charging Nixon with serious misconduct, while Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said it failed to link Nixon with any impeachable offense.

Reps. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., and Robert McClory, R-Ill., who also took part in a televised discussion on ABC "Issues and Answers," said they were having a hard time making up their minds.

Meanwhile, presidential spokesman Ronald L. Ziegler Sunday again criticized the Judiciary Committee and said charges against Nixon are unsubstantiated by fact.

In another development, Judiciary Committee transcripts released over the weekend show that President Nixon expressed concern that he may have inadvertently ignored a Watergate cover-up plot. The transcript was of a June 4, 1973, conversation with Ziegler, in which Nixon discussed conversations he had in February and March 1973 with former aides.

Nixon is quoted as saying to Ziegler: "I mean, God, maybe we were talking about a cover-up—Watergate. I really didn't know what the hell—I honestly didn't know."

There were these other developments over the weekend:

—Nixon's lawyers presented a brief to the impeachment committee arguing that there was a "complete absence of any conclusive evidence demonstrating presidential wrongdoing sufficient to justify the grave action of impeachment."

Arrested On Drug Charge

Lou Norris Jordan, 19, of 705 East First St. was arrested Friday by Greenville Police on marijuana possession charges.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Miss Jordan was charged in connection with an incident July 12 at 2506 East Tenth St.

Her bond was set at $500 pending hearing of the case in court.

RALEIGH (AP)—Democratic candidates and state party Executive Committee members apparently foresee no first ballot selection Saturday of a candidate for state attorney general in the November election.

The 259 county representatives on the Executive Committee are to meet at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh to choose one candidate from a field of at least eight contenders.

When Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan resigns Aug. 26 to campaign for the U.S. Senate, Republican James H. Carson Jr. will be interim attorney general.

Carson, who resigned from the state Court of Appeals last week, is expected to win the Republican nomination for the post.

Contenders for the nomination include State Reps. Herbert Hyde of Asheville, H. M. Michaux Jr. of Durham and C. Kitchin Josey of Scotland Neck; State Sen. McNeill Smith of Greensboro; Rufus Edmisten of Boone; Superior Court Judges Charles Kivett of Greensboro and Dennis Winner of Asheville; Asst. Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake Jr. of Raleigh; and Wake County Dist. Atty. Burley B. Mitchell Jr.

Former U.S. Rep. Nick Galifianakis of Durham has said he is not a candidate but he would run if the committee selected him.

"This is the most important piece of business the Executive Committee has taken up in a good while," Wake County committee member Robert W. Wynn told The Associated Press Sunday.

While no selection method for choosing the nominee has been officially drawn up, party chairman James R. Sugg reportedly favors a secret ballot with a 20 per cent policy for the first ballot.

Using a 20 per cent policy, only those candidates receiving 20 per cent or more of the votes on the first ballot would be eligible for the second round of voting.

Candidate Michaux said Sunday he favors open balloting and dislikes the idea of a 20 or even 10 per cent policy. "A lot of people are going to get short-changed," he said.

"People are going to vote for a favorite son on the first ballot. If it gets down to the fourth or fifth ballot, then such a policy might come into place."

Wynn, however, said he preferred the secret ballot idea, although he questioned the 10 or 20 per cent idea.

"I think we should take our time," he said. "Usually those behind will drop out."

None of the candidates contacted Sunday would name any one person considered to be a front-runner. Mitchell said, "Some of us have compared notes, but nobody knows how many votes (from committee members) each has."

Meanwhile, the candidates are participating in a series of forums with executive committeemen and the public around the state, intended to bring the issues and candidates into sharper focus.

"You mean the road show?" Michaux said when questioned about the forums. "We need to reach more Executive Committee members."

He said he thought the committee would probably use personality and background rather than issues in choosing a nominee.

Michaux, a black, also said he thought the selection would be fairly decisive after the third or fourth balloting.

"I don't think any of us candidates are dumb enough to stay in there with only a few votes," he said. Candidates who do not have a large number of votes on the first few ballots are expected to drop out of the race and possibly give their support to another candidate.

The winner of the November election will serve the remaining two years of Morgan's four-year term.

Boy Drowns In Pitt Pond

A 14-year-old Route 1, Winterville youth drowned in a pond about a mile East of the new Eastern By-pass off the Pactolus Highway Sunday, Pitt County Coroner E.W. Harvey reported today.

According to the coroner, James Ricky Newborn drowned about 6 p.m.

Harvey said Newborn and five other youths, all from Greenville, went to the sand pit. Newborn and Curtis Wooten, 16, of 606D West 14th St. went into the water and swam across the pond. As they swam back, Newborn got into trouble, Harvey said, and Wooten attempted to help him, but was unable to pull Newborn from the water.

Newborn's body was recovered about 7 p.m. by the Greenville Rescue Squad.

Coroner Harvey ruled the death as accidental drowning.
