

Tapes Deadline 'Impossible' - St. Clair

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential attorney James D. St. Clair said today it would be impossible to comply with Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's proposal that the White House surrender the tapes of 64 Watergate conversations within 10 days.

But he told U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica "We will undertake to do it as quickly as possible."

However, Sirica told St. Clair, "I think you're making this thing more complicated than it should be." Sirica said he would set a timetable himself if St. Clair and Jaworski could not agree on one between themselves.

With that statement, Sirica called a 30-minute recess in the hearing on Jaworski's call for prompt compliance with Wednesday's 8-0 Supreme Court order that President Nixon produce the tapes for the scheduled Sept. 9 trial of six former presidential and campaign aides in the Watergate cover-up case.

Sirica noted that his original order, upheld by the Supreme Court decision, had allowed 11 days for surrender of the tapes and documents and that his order had been upheld "in all respects."

St. Clair declined to say specifically how long it would take the White House to review the material and make it available to Sirica.

After the material is turned over to Sirica, he will review it to determine whether it is relevant to the cover-up trial. Material Sirica considers relevant to the trial will be turned over to Jaworski.

St. Clair said it was impossible to say how long it would take the White House to review, analyze and index the material and turn it over to Sirica.

St. Clair had told the Supreme Court that the process could take as long as two months, but told Sirica he did not think it would take that long.

He said President Nixon plans to listen to all of the tapes before they are surrendered because he "feels quite strongly he should know what he is turning over."

Jaworski said that failure to meet his timetable of two to 10 days would jeopardize the Sept. 9 trial date. If the trial is delayed, he said, the case may have to be delayed indefinitely because of the possibility that many of those involved will be needed for a possible Senate impeachment trial of President Nixon.

St. Clair, who announced President Nixon's decision to comply with the Supreme Court ruling "in all respects" flew back to Washington from California to take part in today's hearings.

St. Clair had said that "the time-consuming process" of preparing the tapes and documents would start at once.

But Jaworski said that some 33 were virtually ready for submission to Sirica, who will review them to screen out material irrelevant to the Watergate cover-up trial.

Jaworski said, "Granting of this motion is critical if the trial of this case is to commence on Sept. 9, 1974," the date set by Sirica.

Consideration Of Articles Against President Begins

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The vote most members of the House Judiciary Committee regard as the most important they will ever cast faces them today as they consider articles for the impeachment of President Nixon.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has advised the members of the committee they face "the terrible, tremendous burden of trying to reach a decision that will last for all time."

On the basis of their previously announced positions it appeared certain a majority of the committee is prepared to recommend impeachment if a satisfactory article can be drafted.

It takes only a majority of the Judiciary Committee's 38 members to recommend impeachment and a majority of the House to impeach. It would require a two-thirds vote in the Senate to find the President guilty and remove him from office.

Rep. Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, a committee member opposed to impeachment, sees a 27-11 vote in favor of a recommendation that the House impeach Nixon and that a Senate trial be held to determine whether he should be removed from office.

The task of writing an article charging Nixon with obstruction of justice in connection with the Watergate cover-up will occupy the committee today in the third day of its nationally televised deliberations.

The meeting will begin at 11 a.m. and will be televised by the NBC network.

In related developments: —Vice President Gerald R. Ford said conviction and impeachment of Nixon would be "very, very bad" for the country both on domestic and foreign fronts. He added, "I can say from the bottom of my heart the President of the United States is innocent.... He is right."

—Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski urged U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica to order Nixon to surrender within two to ten days the tapes and documents of 64 Watergate conversations.

—The defense rested in Ed Reinecke's perjury trial after seeking to cast doubt on the accuracy of the transcript of Senate testimony on which the California lieutenant governor was indicted. Rodino plans to continue the Judiciary Committee meeting into the night, if necessary, to complete the drafting of an article and bring it to a vote.

Other articles charging Nixon with abuse of power and failure to comply with committee subpoenas are to be offered, but as soon as one is approved a formal recommendation of impeachment will have been made.

The certainty that the committee will recommend impeachment was sealed Thursday when every uncommitted member either came out for impeachment or expressed such deep concern over Nixon's conduct of his office that it left little doubt as to how they would vote.

In a long round of speeches in which 29 members unburdened themselves on their struggle with the evidence, the Constitution and their consciences, only eight came down solid against impeachment.

Nixon's hopes of holding the committee Republicans together vanished during the debate when Rep. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., became the first of the uncommitted members to take the side of impeachment.

Nixon was dealt perhaps an even sharper blow shortly afterward when one of the committee's most conservative members, Rep. Harold Froelich, R-Wis., said he was ready to vote for impeachment if the final wording of the articles met with his approval.

"I must confess I am deeply pained and troubled by some of the things I see," said Froelich, who, earlier in his speech said it would be "inconceivable to impeach a President for anything less than grave misconduct supported by compelling evidence."

Reps. Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y., and William Cohen, R-Maine, who have been regarded for many weeks as the most likely Republicans to vote for impeachment, withheld their final decision, but not their belief that the evidence before them told a troubling story of misuse of government power.

Of the three Southern Democrats who had remained uncommitted, only one, Rep. Ray Thornton, D-Ark., gave a clear statement of his position.

"On the basis of all the evidence which is now before us, I have reached the firm conviction that President Richard M. Nixon has violated his oath of office by abuse of power and by obstruction of justice and that these offenses constitute high crimes and misdemeanors under the Constitution, requiring trial on these charges before the Senate of the United States," he said.

The other two Southern Democrats, Reps. Walter Flowers of Alabama and James Mann of South Carolina, kept silent on their final vote, but both are working on amendments to the proposed articles of impeachment.

Where nearly every proponent of impeachment said the drastic step was necessary to curb abuses of presidential power, Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., said the greater danger in the committee's proceedings was the danger of abusing the power of impeachment.

He said the only constitutional grounds for removing a President are criminal acts that have a serious impact on the government. No such grounds are contained in the case before the committee, Hutchinson said.

A similar warning against misuse of the impeachment power was made by Latta, who said removal of a president by a Congress under the control of another party would produce a fundamental change in the American system of government.

Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., also said the presidency was at stake in the proceedings.

President Proffers No 'Shock Treatment' In Coping With Economy

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon has outlined a no-surprises economic policy calling for budget cuts, a federal payroll slash of 40,000 persons and an appeal that all citizens salt away 15 cents for every $10 spent.

Nixon made what aides termed a major television-radio address here Thursday. He was well received by more than 1,000 businessmen and manufacturers and their wives who gathered to hear him in a ballroom at the Century Plaza Hotel. Applause punctuated his remarks at regular intervals and afterwards Nixon thanked his audience for "your support."

The President did not see some 300 pickets who marched outside the hotel. These included impeachment advocates and representatives of the United Farm Workers of America.

Nixon was applauded when he pledged no return to wage or price controls, called for energy self-sufficiency and urged a re-evaluation of federal environmental and safety programs to determine whether they hamper production.

Basically, the President advocated a continuation of present federal economic programs and rejection of "the shock treatment of a sudden, drastic 'wringing out' of inflation, the cost of which in terms of increased unemployment for millions of Americans would be unacceptable."

Here is how Nixon summarized his approach:

"A policy to check inflation is fundamentally a policy to curb the growth of demand relative to the growth of supply. In the short run, attention must focus on holding down the increase in demand, because with few exceptions increasing supply takes a considerable amount of time."

Repeating a pledge to balance the budget due for submission to Congress in January, Nixon also said he will try to hold spending in the current budget year, which began July 1, to close to $300 billion. This would represent a cutback of nearly $5 billion from his goal seven months ago.

Nixon also announced he will reduce the federal work force by 40,000 by next June 30. Aides said this would be accomplished through normal attrition and would not involve firings.

Nixon urged that all Americans join in fighting inflation by cutting their own spending. He said:

"I call on state and local governments, on businesses and consumers to hold down their own spending and increase their own savings as their contribution to the fight against higher prices."

"I recognize that some Americans cannot cut their spending without real hardship. Some expenditures by business cannot be cut without cutting production now or in the future. But most families could reduce or defer some expenditures — building their savings instead — without hardship. Every business has some fat in it, just as every federal agency has."

He advocated "a cut of only 1 1/2 per cent in personal consumption expenditures — that would mean like putting away 15 cents for every $10 spent."

Podgorny And Kosygin Given 4 More Years

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny were unanimously re-elected for four more years today at a joint session of the Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union.

They were nominated by Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, their colleague in the Kremlin leadership troika begun in 1964 when Nikita S. Khrushchev was ousted. Brezhnev is serving a six-year term that expires at the party's 25th congress which is to be held in 1975 or early 1976.

Although Podgorny and Kosygin head the government apparatus, it is Brezhnev, as party chief, who has gradually assumed the role of the chief architect of the Soviet Union's foreign and domestic policy.

There had been rumors that Kosygin, who is 70, would be retired.

Goldwater Sees A Better Future

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater R-Ariz., said Thursday night Watergate "is the best cleanser for this country ever."

He spoke at a fund-raising dinner on behalf of North Carolina 8th district congressional candidate Steve Ritchie, on Air Force ace of the Vietnam war.

Goldwater said the country would "come out of the present mess in better shape than ever before."

Ex-POW Major Hardy Now Assigned To A & T

GREENSBORO—Maj. William Hardy, a Pitt County man who spent five years and eight months as a prisoner of war in Cambodia, has been assigned to duty at A&T State University.

A career Army officer and a 1954 graduate of A&T, Maj. Hardy has been assigned to the ROTC detachment at the university until August when he will become a full-time graduate student.

Hardy, a native of Winterville was released from captivity Feb. 13, 1973. He recently completed a course at the Command and General Staff College in Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Hardy said his readjustment has been made easy "by the Army and the people here in American."

"Without the rehabilitation program and the overwhelming support of the American people, it would not have been easy" said Hardy. "The press also played an important role."

Recalling his ordeal while a POW, Hardy said the worst part was "We simply didn't have anything to eat."

"I was in a slave labor camp," he said, "and now I'm an expert digger."

Hardy said the thing which has impressed him most on returning to the United States is the new status for blacks gained in the military services.

"My captors used the fact that we didn't have any black generals as a propaganda tool," he said. "I didn't know we had so many black generals until I came back."

Hardy will pursue a master's degree in educational administration during his year-long stay at A&T. Prior to Cambodia, he had foreign tours in Korea, Germany and Turkey.

Hardy is married to the former Theola Johnson of Burlington. They have a daughter.

Eastern Belt's Average Rising

Tobacco price averages on the Eastern Belt showed a marked improvement Thursday over the previous day's figures and the Greenville market followed that trend with an increased average.

With the overall Belt average climbing from Wednesday's $82.09 per hundred pounds to Thursday's overall $83.19, the market figures appeared to increase in nearly every instance.

The Greenville market sold 1,084,486 pounds yesterday for $907,230 in posting an average of $83.66. The local average on Tuesday and Wednesday was $82.57 and was down from the opening day figure of $83.45. Average here for the first week of sales was $83.05.

Five of the participating markets posted averages with $86.29. Smithfield posted an $86.16 average while Goldsboro, Wilson and Wallace recorded averages of $85.93, $85.86 and $85.30, respectively.

Only Kinston, with an average of $78.99, and Tarboro, which posted $79.63, fell below the $80 per hundred mark for the day. Clinton, Washington, Williamston and Windsor did not hold sales Thursday as the Belt continued to operate on a 13-market daily basis.

Stabilization receipts, according to the Market News Service in Raleigh, continued to drop on Thursday as they accounted for 661,208 pounds of 11.7 per cent of total sales. The season total on Stabilization poundage amounts to 4,602,159 or 16.7 per cent of total sales.

The following tabulation, compiled by the News Service, shows the results of Belt sales on Thursday.

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

CERTIFICATE FOR PENNIES

My wife and I turned in about $30 worth of pennies to Branch Banking and Trust Company here. We had read in The Daily Reflector that the government is giving certificates to persons turning in pennies, but the bank knew nothing about it. We'd really like to have this certificate. R.N.

John Nichols, Branch's assistant cashier, said your name is being sent today to Mary Brooks, Director of the Mint, in Washington, D.C. You should receive your certificate in about six weeks.

Most local banks apparently are participating in this program to get more pennies into circulation. Started June 1, the program has been so successful that the limit, set first at $25, has been lowered to $5 worth of pennies "to bring out still more of them," according to a U.S. Treasury bulletin. Originally a summer project, it has been extended until late fall.

Names and addresses and the number of pennies turned in by each person are sent in by each participating bank, usually on a weekly basis, and the certificates are mailed directly from Washington to the individuals, according to the bulletin.

UTILITY DEPOSIT PROBLEMS

I have been trying to get my utility deposit back from Greenville Utilities for some time now. I had the service disconnected to our old place of business, but the Utilities Commission seems to be having some trouble in getting the deposit back to me. Mrs. L.S.

The check for your deposit is in the mail. Greenville Utilities spokesman Curtis Howell explained to Hotline that they had three persons with the same name on their deposit list, all with no addresses. The service to your store was started many years ago when addresses were not listed on the deposit slips. Howell reports the problem has been straightened out and the check sent to you.

WHAT IS PROPER CHILD CARE WAGE?

Could you supply me with the correct information on how much to pay a person for child care services if the sitter comes to a person's home? J.G.

According to the U.S. Dept. of Labor, Wage and Hour Division, a person must be paid $1.90 per hour for child care services if the individual is not a "casual" baby sitter, that is, if the sitter is not working on a continual agreement. For example, if the person is sitting with children so that the parents may work, then they must be paid $1.90 per hour. However, if the job is a "casual" one, so the the parents may go out just for a few hours or a day for recreation or other purposes, then there is no law requiring a set hourly wage. The Dept. of Labor spokesman indicated the term, "casual sitter" is often hard to define.

Consumer Education Will Aid Prevention

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The vice chairman of the Consumer Products Safety Commission accidentally set fire to her electric dishwasher when a wooden spoon fell into the back after the wash cycle was completed.

Another woman used a celery stalk to push food into her blender while it was running. The blades pulled both the celery and her hand into the cutting assembly.

A 9 month old baby suffered second degree burns when she turned a coffeepot over on herself.

Each year an estimated 20 million Americans are injured in accidents involving products used in and around the home. Some 110,000 are injured permanently and 30,000 are killed.

Barbara H. Franklin, commission vice chairman, thinks prevention of such accidents will take a combination of consumer education and more stringent safety standards for consumer goods ranging from bicycles and power mowers to small household appliances.

In an interview, Ms. Franklin said consumers are becoming more safety conscious. Her agency hopes to increase their awareness. She was in New York to address a meeting of the portable appliance division of the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (AHAM).

She said the commission is compiling a hazard index with data from 119 hospital emergency rooms around the country. Many reports involve small children who burn themselves by tipping over electric coffeepots. Many others are caused by women who accidentally hit the "on" button of a mixer or blender while inserting or removing the beating or cutting assembly.

Matriarch Speaks Out On Preferred Women's Role

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — There you are, Mrs. John Doe—home all the time and happy. Much as you try, you just can't work up discontent over being a full-time wife and mother.

So ask yourself some questions:

—So what's wrong with you in this era of women's lib?

—Should you go see a psychiatrist?

—Are you lazy and without ambition?

—Why don't you feel guilty being a parasite, living off your poor husband's earnings?

—What kind of example are you giving your children?

—How come all the pleadings of the leaders of women's lib went in one of your ears and out the other?

You can put your mind at ease, Mrs. Doe. So advises Mrs. Belle S. Spafford.

Twice president of the National Council of Women of the United States and still on its board, Mrs. Spafford is leader of the worldwide women's organization of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. For 30 years she has been president of the Mormon Church's relief society.

A grandmother from Salt Lake City, Mrs. Spafford has held executive positions in the church since 1935.

In an interview, she said that women in large numbers prefer the job of wife and homemaker.

"They prefer the gratification of motherhood, the privileges of wifehood, the position generally accorded the woman in the home by family members and the status conferred by society on the title, Mrs."

"Some activists have openly stated that one of their big problems is the indifference of the average married woman to their efforts in behalf of liberating her from her traditional status of housewife."

Mrs. Spafford expanded her thoughts in a speech at a dinner of the Lochinvar Club in New York. Members are from the Western United States who have achieved prominence in professional and business fields and now are based in the New York area.

"Working with women in many countries of the world convinces me that there is no task to which woman may put her hand so broad and inspiring, so filled with interest, so demanding of intelligence and capability, so rewarding as that of wife, mother and homemaker," she said.

"I regard this role as taking precedence over all others for women. In a well-ordered home, husband and wife approach their responsibilities as a joint endeavor.

"They cherish their children. In child rearing, I believe, there is no substitute for a caring mother."

But some of the things movement women agitate for deserve support, said Mrs. Spafford.

"For example, equal pay for equal work; nondiscrimination in hiring practices when a male and female are equally qualified and whose personal circumstances are comparatively equal in meeting job requirements."

But Mrs. Spafford is not in accord with those who believe that current problems and needs of women may best met by adoption of a constitutional amendment on equal rights.

"I am of the opinion that the major advances embodied in the proposed amendment could be achieved through regular channels of state and federal legislative action without raising questionable results," she said.

"By nature men and women differ physically, biologically and emotionally.

"The greatest good to the individual and society results where these differences are respected in the divisions of labor in the home, as well as in community life."

"I am convinced that the home will stand as it has stood during past generations and the cornerstone of a good society, and a happy citizenry. While old activity patterns within the home may be modified by the impact of change outside the home, the enduring values which cannot be measured in terms of their monetary worth, their power for good, the need of the human being for them—peace, security, love, understanding—will not be sacrificed on the altar of new philosophies and new concepts."

"I have had several different opinions as to why he does this. I will believe yours. Can you tell me why a man writes his name on every piece of paper he sees?"

Emilio Pucci Designs With Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

People are looking for t.l.c. (tender loving care) in the market place. And they are getting it, says Italian fashion innovator Emilio Pucci. The merchandising scene is changing mainly because "Americans are leading the world in the matter of perfected ideas."

"In any Godforsaken spot in Africa, Asia or wherever, a little man in a tiny village is working on something that has been partly developed from a local thing and partly designed by an American buyer who has tracked him down with the aid of an interpreter has caused him to make something," he says.

"In directing their energies towards these little companies America has been a stimulating factor, too, in getting sub-countries on their feet. People may talk about the ugly American, but one day this effort will be recognized as the greatest economic and sociological influence of American civilization over the rest of the world," he said.

Even he feels the impetus as he is constantly invited to do new things and now finds himself "more and more in the field of home furnishings."

A life-long painter, he has just introduced his first collection of lithographs.

We are turning away from the "infinity of products which have surrounded us since the industrial revolution, the essentially materialistic things that were created with a view toward mass-production and low cost," he continued.

"Fewer people are buying things just because they look pretty, but if the object gives one the feeling that it originated with human warmth, one may be drawn to it."

Nowadays, a visual element of a product must embody something more than an aesthetic feature. It must convey a message which relates to a human feeling or concern for other people.

"It is the reason people shop flea markets for old things that reflect concern on the part of people who made them. It might be a little lace pin cushion with a hand-embroidered initial that is not just a cushion but an object made lovingly to express affection for a grandmother," he says.

The persistence of Americans is one reason his own design board is going off in so many directions. In fact, 25 years ago while in the Air Force Pucci

Foot Doctor Gets Her In Shape To Walk Out On Husband

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 28, married and has two adorable children. She phoned to ask if she could come over to talk to me about something important. Well, she just left, and I am a wreck!

She is having an affair with—of all people—her foot doctor! (He's married, and nearly twice her age.) My daughter is very pretty, but she's stupid. She has a husband who treats her like a queen. What she wants with this foot doctor, I'll never know.

I wish she had never confided in me. What did she expect me to tell her? Now that she's told me, if she leaves her husband, she can say: "My mother knew all about it."

I told her to get another foot doctor and to quit seeing this man, but she cried and said: "But, Mother, I love him! What a nut! She needs a head doctor, not a foot doctor. Now that she's involved me, what should I do? HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You've done all you can. You've listened to your daughter, and given her some sound advice. The rest is up to her. (Nice man, this philandering foot (loose) doctor. He gets his patient's feet in shape—the better to walk out on her husband.)

DEAR ABBY: Every time my husband is near a pencil and a piece of paper, he scribbles his name all over it. I cannot keep a scratch pad near the phone without his ruining it in this manner.

I have had several different opinions as to why he does this. I will believe yours. Can you tell me why a man writes his name on every piece of paper he sees?

DEAR "T": Most people, when there is a pencil and a scratch pad handy, will doodle. It's normal. The fact that your husband writes his name all over the pad consistently could mean: (a) he has an identity problem, or (b) he has NO identity problem.

It's not serious, so quit collecting opinions about a harmless little habit, and lay in an ample supply of scratch pads. Or use the backs of old envelopes and/or butcher paper.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and I am still a virgin. My problem: Every time a guy tries to get something off me and I turn him down he starts spreading dirty rumors about me saying I gave in. I live in a small town where people like to run their mouths.

How come boys never talk about the girls they get something off, but they make up lies about the girls who won't give in?

DEAR NICE: Stay "nice" and don't worry about what anybody says. The kind of people who matter don't listen to trash. And the other kind don't matter.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Air Force Increases Jobs For Enlisted Women

RANDOLPH AFB, Tex. (AP)

— There is a significant increase this year in jobs for enlisted women, according to officials at the U.S. Air Force Recruiting Service headquarters here, who have announced that the Air Force has openings for 77,882 men and women for the new fiscal year starting July 1.

The fiscal year 1975 goal for enlisted women is 10,000, a 25 per cent increase over last year, and half of the new enlistees will be recruited for technical jobs such as jet engine mechanics, electricians, missile mechanics and heating systems specialists.

Air Force recruiters will be looking for 1,328 officer candidates with college degrees. There are openings for 956 men and 372 women to enter Officer Training School for Air Force Commissions.

Initial indications are that the Air Force will admit 1,500 personnel with prior military service if they meet the requirements of age and possess a skill that is in demand.

There are openings for 899 general duty nurses, an increase of about 200. The increase in opportunities for Air Force nurse duty stems from a relatively new program of using them as Nurse Practitioners, a role in which they assume more responsibility to help ease the workload of physicians.

Secretaries Hear Guest Speaker

Charles Kavanaugh presented a program on the important role that "attitude" and self-confidence plays in the working role of secretaries at a meeting held Monday evening of the Greenville Chapter of the National Secretaries Association International.

Kavanaugh is the area manager of Dale Carnegie Courses in eastern North Carolina.

During a business session following the program, Mary Quiggins reported on the items that were sent by the local chapter to the National Secretaries Association International Convention that was held in Atlanta, Ga., last week.

Yvonne Hardee, President, welcomed Peggy James of Burroughs Wellcome, Nancy Doyle of East Carolina University, and Sarah Pritchard of East Carolina University as guests.

After the Code of Ethics was read, the meeting was adjourned.

Any secretary in the Greenville area is invited to visit or become a member of National Secretaries Association.

Pool Table Leaves No Room

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS)—Hendrik Meyes, 42, did not object when his wife took up billiards and went to the pool parlor twice a week. The trouble began when she moved a pool table into their tiny, street-floor apartment. "The table takes up so much room that there is no place for me to watch TV in the living room," he said. "Mrs. Meyes even has to step outside to make some shots through the window."

The persistence of Americans is one reason his own design board is going off in so many directions. In fact, 25 years ago while in the Air Force Pucci

Old Records In Taiwan Museum

By LEONARD PRATT
TAIPEI (AP) — Hundreds of handwritten emperors' notes — on subjects ranging from the imperial health to the conduct of wars — are preserved in Taiwan's National Palace Museum. Along with clothing and personal possessions of China's later rulers, they offer human sidelights on the men who ran the world's oldest continuous empire until their world collapsed in revolution in 1911.

The museum's priceless collections of art and documents were brought along by the Nationalist Chinese government when it fled Mainland China for Taiwan in 1949. Jade and coral hair pins, golden fingernail guards and, for the man who has everything, a gold-painted ostrich egg, all adorn the museum's spacious display cases.

Among them are several types of court records, reports and instructions for China's last dynasty, the Ching, which was founded in 1644 — 24 years after the Pilgrims landed in America. One type, called the "Diary of Action and Repose," records what emperors did and said on each day of the dynasty's 267 years, officials say.

They're nothing if not complete, as befits the country which some say contained one half of all the world's printed books in 1800.

For example, the court diary for July 4, 1776, the day the U.S. Declaration of Independence was signed, says: "The emperor went to the temple of the city god to offer incense. On this day the imperial entourage was in residence at the Jehol summer palace."

Now that was a slow day. In fact, it was a slow summer, as the emperor was off until Sept. 27.

But other entries are packed with the action of empire.

At almost the same time as the American Civil War, China had its own domestic conflict raging. The day Confederate forces in Charleston, S.C., fired on Fort Sumter, the Emperor Hsien-Feng received a report on an action against "bandits," which is what Chinese like to call civil war opponents.

It may seem strange that emperors had the time not only to read all these reports, but also to write their own comments at the end — usually a simple "read," or "noted," but frequently detailed instructions. Sometimes the red ink — which could only be used by emperors themselves — even appears filling in the blanks on routine forms for the payment of funds or appointing officials.

Many scholars, however, maintain that this guarantee of a personal reply from the emperor, along with the status it conferred and supervision it implied, was a key factor in maintaining officials' loyalty to the government.

Personal asides also sometimes crept into the day's business. On July 6, 1797, Chien-Lung wrote on one report: "I am deeply concerned about my health. Today, on seeing this report, I feel a little better."

Many documents also record the emperors' importance in the myriad customs that were then considered vital to maintaining the empire and which still strongly influence Chinese culture today. Respect for elders is frequently noted.

Even the worldwide power of secretaries to make their bosses look good or bad comes out in the documents. Records for one day in 1865 contain a line that must have taken some careful planning.

Hidden among reports of famine relief, enforcement of salt tax inspections and some silk and silver for a man who had passed the age of 100, is this brief line in the floweriest phrases of an elaborate language: "The emperor called on the imperial mother."

Butz' Picture Changing Hue

What is this? After a glowing picture of tobacco exports was painted and Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz increased quotas, German imports may decline?

That is what Pieter Bergen, senior economic specialist in the U.S. consulate at Bremen, Germany told Georgia farmers.

Previously the farmers down there had been told German imports were expected to increase this year.

"The export officials must have given you a tall story," Bergen was quoted by The Associated Press.

He said Type 14 tobacco—the Georgia-Florida type—is declining in Germany because of a price-cost squeeze.

Since about 70 percent of Type 14 is grown for export and about 40 percent of this goes to Germany, this information was obviously of concern to the Georgia farmers.

According to Bergen, German manufacturers are looking for cheaper tobacco from the Orient and elsewhere.

It makes one wonder just whose interest Agricultural Secretary Earl Butz is looking out for. If German imports of U.S. tobacco are indeed declining, it doesn't seem that the tobacco farmer's interest have been very well considered this year.

There are plenty of agencies in Washington which are not friendly to the farmer and some which are downright after the tobacco grower. If any department should be sympathetic to the tobacco grower, one would think it would be the Department of Agriculture.

Library Service Has Extended Beyond Books

Library services go far beyond just checking out books these days. A new service will soon be provided through a federal grant at the Carver branch of Sheppard Memorial Library.

The $17,500 grant will provide a center where inquiries can be made about community services. Included will be social, mental health, medical, legal, education and recreational service information.

The center's purpose will be to guide inquiring individuals to the sources of assistance and information. The center can provide a helpful service to the individuals who need assistance in these areas.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS, DECISIONS!

MORRIS

Gloom In The Panel

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — And now the decision. The time the members of the House impeachment inquiry have dreaded.

Democrat or Republican, pro-impeachment or opposed, most have expressed sadness and distaste for the task of judging President Nixon's fitness for office, a task the House Judiciary Committee intends to finish by this weekend.

"Throughout the ages men and women have approached the impeachment process with the same sense of awe," said Rep. William S. Cohen, a Maine Republican considered leaning toward impeachment.

"Lord Chancellor Somers in 1691 remarked that the impeachment process, like Goliath's sword, ought to be kept in the temple and not used but on great occasions," he said, and added:

"The question we must decide is whether this committee should recommend to the House that that sword should be taken from the temple and handed to the Senate in order to protect and preserve the integrity of the Constitution of the United States."

The sense of awe and the deep concern about the vote have taken a toll, not only in the political lives of the congressmen, but in their private lives as well.

"I go to sleep nights — those nights that I do sleep — wondering if this is sort of a dream: impeachment of the President of the United States," said Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., one of the publicly uncommitted.

"Unfortunately, this is no bad dream; it is the terrible truth that will be upon our committee in the next few days."

And yet there was a dissembler, Rep. Charles B. Rangel, a Democrat who represents the New York congressional district that embraces Harlem.

"Some say this is a sad day in America's history," Rangel told his fellow committee members. "I think it could perhaps be one of our brightest days.... I think it means to most Americans that when this or any other President violates his sacred oath of office, the people are not left helpless...."

"I would be less than honest if I said that tonight I come toward this vote of impeachment with a heavy heart. Indeed, I would be very sad if this process was not available to me and to the American people."

And Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., the New Jersey Democrat who finished the preliminary debate, said he had searched his heart and "I find the President must be found wanting."

He said he will vote "with a heavy heart because no man seeks to accuse or to find wanting the chief executive of this great country of ours."

Love is skin-deep. Give Blood.

"You seem to have a grudging admiration for Ziegler," I said.

"I do. When Ron first started in his job he didn't know very much, and he said whatever they told him to. But now he's adding his own fantasies to Watergate and they are as good as any being put out in this country."

"So you think that no matter what happens to President Nixon, Ziegler won't have to worry about a job?"

"I know it," my friend replied.

"How can you be so sure?"

"No one knows this, but Ziegler never quit his job at Disneyland. He just took a leave of absence."

Area Of Clout For Governor

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Is North Carolina's governor—lacking the veto power and the ability to succeed himself—truly the weakest among the 50?

Gov. James E. Holshouser doesn't think that's necessarily so, and in launching a massive program of new policy guidelines, he is latching onto an area of power which he thinks can be effectively used: the purse strings.

What it boils down to is this: the governor has outlined his priorities for the coming 12 to 24 months, and when department heads put their budgets up for review and submission to the 1975 General Assembly, those budgets had better recognize the governor's desires if department heads expect favorable mention and support for budget packages.

Those policy guidelines cover 12 major areas of concern.

Too Complex
At first glance, it looks like an impossible task—getting the message across to the various bureaucracies of state government that these are the areas for emphasis.

How can the governor make his points, and see to it that the priorities are given consideration?

Holshouser admits that publicity is one way—he's telling the people across the state where he puts his priorities, and where he wants to see departments put their's in new budgets now being drawn. He is also saying that the 1975 General Assembly will have a shot at his proposals.

What the policy guidelines do, in effect, is spell out well ahead of time what the governor will say in his budget, in his budget messages, and in his legislative message when the General Assembly comes back to town next January.

His reasoning is simple, and should prove effective, his aides insist.

First, there is the timing. "You find too many division heads and sub-division heads who don't know the commitment of the governor's office to what we hope to accomplish... we are hereby encouraging budget personnel and program planners to work more closely together," Holshouser explained. He added that he deliberately timed announcement of his guidelines at a time when the 17 state departments are writing new budget proposals for study by the governor and his budget advisory commission.

A Hammer
Still, despite the governor's insistence that he expects "a good amount of cooperation" from department heads, he holds a hammer over those which he describes as "in fields in which the governor's direct jurisdiction is not quite as apparent."

Naturally, that refers to the host of operations headed by elected department heads, all of whom are Democrats. Then the governor shows the hammer, subtly: "He hopes to see these things, this thinking, reflected in their budgets," an aide said.

Those department heads, the message is spelled out, will find it much easier to get their proposals into the budget package if those proposals include at least some of the suggested programs.

Holshouser said this effort at advance messaging of his policy priorities is a first for a Tar Heel governor. He thinks it will become a "process in decision-making that will set a pattern not only for this administration, but future administrations as well."

"We let the people across North Carolina know what our priorities are on a regular policy cycle, and thereby set a tone and a pace for the programs you expect to achieve in the next 12 to 24 months."

By zeroing in on the 12 priority areas, Holshouser hopes to set some attainable goals. "If you try to do everything, you come up with a complex mish-mash of programs, and destroy the very purpose of setting policy guidelines."

Holshouser promised that his priorities will not "lie upon the table" but will be monitored through the budget process, state planning, and the legislative procedure to see that the various peices of state bureaucracy work to "see to it that the areas outlined are in the various programs which go to the General Assembly."

Dean Continues Nixon Nemesis

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—One year after his nationally televised Senate testimony began President Nixon's greatest crisis, John W. Dean III has again proved his nemesis by building sentiment for impeachment behind the closed doors of the House Judiciary Committee.

Dean's appearance before the impeachment inquiry July 11 helped shift momentum against the President—generally by appearing as a credible witness but specifically by unveiling some new evidence. When Dean testifies to a direct presidential role in attempted misuse of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), the handful of fence-sitting Republicans who may decide Mr. Nixon's fate were profoundly shocked.

So, the old White House campaign of trying to discredit Dean is being talked up among hard-core Nixon Republicans on the Judiciary Committee. Some insist a committee vote should be delayed for many weeks until Dean's damaging testimony can be checked against a segment of a White House tape recording now in litigation.

These are tactics of desperation. Dean's testimony helped undercut White House attempts to limit impeachment to whether the President authorized hush money in the Watergate cover-up. Dean's incrimination of the President in misusing the IRS led undecided Republican members toward considering gross abuse of presidential power as an impeachable offense.

Dean testified before the Senate Watergate committee June 25, 1973, on the President's direct role in pushing the IRS to harass Nixon "enemies." According to Dean's description of the Sept. 15, 1972, Oval Office meeting, Mr. Nixon "seemed somewhat annoyed" by IRS refusal to cooperate. But Dean said nothing about direct presidential orders to pursue the matter.

The tape recording of the Sept. 15 meeting given special prosecutor Leon Jaworski did not contain the Nixon-Dean IRS dialogue. Judge John Sirica had ruled those 17 minutes were not relevant to the Watergate investigation. When Jaworski petitioned for their release, Sirica last month reversed himself. But the White House appealed, keeping the matter before the courts.

Consequently, Dean was plowing new ground July 11 before the impeachment inquiry. Dean testified he told the President on Sept. 15, 1972, that IRS commissioner Johnnie M. Walters was refusing to audit tax returns of Nixon enemies. Dean next added: "And he (Mr. Nixon) said something to the effect, well, if (Treasury Secretary George) Shultz thinks he's been put over there to be some sort of candy ass, he is mistaken, and if you have got any problems, you just come tell me, and I will get it straightened out."

This was a direct presidential link to Walter's sworn statement to the House committee that Dean on Sept. 25, 1972, again pressed him to audit the "enemies." After conferring with Shultz Sept. 29, Walters continued, "We again agreed that nothing would be done with respect to the list."

Hard-core Nixon defenders shrug this off with the assertion that, after all, the President's attempts failed. But uncommitted Republican committee members are deeply disturbed by the new revelation. Were it not for the stubborn integrity of George Shultz, they now believe, the Nixon administration could have assumed characteristics of a police state.

"This sounds like 'Gulag Archipelago,' like things that happen in Russia but not here," one Republican told us. Another confided that he regards Dean's revelation as the single most damning example of the misuse of governmental power.

To counter this, hard-core Republican committee members are stressing Dean's inadequate explanation to the impeachment inquiry of his one obvious credibility lapse: his failure a year ago to tell the Senate committee he had destroyed the notebooks of Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt. His explanation July 11 that the Hunt notebooks "were not in my conscience (sic) at the time I testified" last summer fell flat. It clouded Dean's overall credibility in the opinion of Rep. Thomas Railsback of Illinois, a key undecided Republican who other wise viewed Dean as a highly effective witness.

Accordingly, presidential

Ziegler And Disneyland

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON—The big question everyone in Washington is asking this week is, "if for some reason President Nixon has to leave office, will Ron Ziegler be able to get his job back at Disneyland?"

The consensus among most Ziegler-watchers is that he will. One watcher who asked not to be mentioned by name because he still has relatives in Orange County, Calif., told me, "I've been watching Ziegler now for five years, and as far as I'm concerned he never left Disneyland. Ron is a born believer in fantasy and he knows how to treat everyone like children. The very virtues that made home one of the best guides at Disneyland are now paying off for him as spokesman for the President of the United States."

"But wouldn't the Disney people be hesitant about rehiring someone who worked in the White House?"

The Ziegler-watcher shook his head. "Ron was never involved with Watergate. He's clean as a hound's tooth. You want to know why?"

"Sure," I said.

"Because they didn't trust him. They were afraid if they told him anything, he'd spill it. Everyone else in the White House apparently knew what the hell was going on except Ziegler. They treated him like a dum-dum and now they're all going to jail, and Ron has the last laugh."

"I've never seen Ron laugh," I said.

"It was just a figure of speech," my friend replied. "Do you realize that next to Al Haig, the President depends more on Ziegler than any other person in his Administration?"

"Why is that?"

"Because Ron still believes everything the President tells him."

"You mean Ziegler's not putting us on when he says now that we have all the facts the only conclusion we can arrive at is that the President knew nothing about the coverup?"

"In his heart he really believes it."

ART BUCHWALD

"How could he?" I asked.

"Because he worked at Disneyland. Anyone who believes in Mickey Mouse, Snow White and Donald Duck is going to believe Mr. Nixon's story. You can say what you want to about Ron, but he does have a lot of faith."

"Does he believe in the Easter Bunny?"

"I don't think the Easter bunny was a Walt Disney creation," he replied.

"You know, sometimes when I watch Ziegler on television, I get the feeling he isn't telling the whole truth... that he's making things sound better than they really are," I said.

"And where do you think he learned that?" my friend asked.

"Disneyland?"

"Where else? Disney created a world of make-believe and illusion. When Ron moved to Washington he just took that world with him."

"You seem to have a grudging admiration for Ziegler," I said.

"I do. When Ron first started in his job he didn't know very much, and he said whatever they told him to. But now he's adding his own fantasies to Watergate and they are as good as any being put out in this country."

"So you think that no matter what happens to President Nixon, Ziegler won't have to worry about a job?"

"I know it," my friend replied.

"How can you be so sure?"

"No one knows this, but Ziegler never quit his job at Disneyland. He just took a leave of absence."

Other Editors Say Over-Protected

(Henderson Dispatch)
Consumers in this country are over-protected by various laws enacted by Congress. One such is the proposed Consumer Protection Agency, different versions of which have been passed by both the House and Senate. The bills are now in conference in an attempt to harmonize the two separate versions.

Senator Ervin opposed the measure, and thinks the complications and disadvantages far outweigh any benefits that might accrue. In brief, the measure imposes a new and costly bureaucracy, with added controls and dictatorial powers over legitimate business and the lives of the people. It will require compliance with a mass of regulations which in the final analysis will harass private enterprise as well as individuals. It is a vicious piece of legislation.

President Nixon is represented as having opposed the act at the outset but to have changed his mind, and is expected to sign the bill when it reaches him after both houses accept the compromise. One report is that the President was seeking to influence some members of the Senate by supporting a measure they advocated. If that be true, it's just plain cheap politics.

This act has not been sneaked through Congress, to be sure, but if the public knew what it contains a grass roots uprising would not be surprising. After the law passes and when the bite of another powerful bureaucracy begins to be felt, it will be too late.

The very title of the bill is misleading. Perhaps it was intended to be that as a lure to supposed beneficiaries, who took somebody's word and have kept silent. We do not pretend to know the full story, but when Sam Ervin says it's bad legislation, it indeed must be.

If the consumer is to be "protected" by cracking others over the head, there can't be very much of benefit to anybody in the long run. It's the brainchild of the liberals in Congress, who hate business, and who delight in biting the hand that is feeding them.

OUR CONSCIENCE AS OUR GUIDE

Can we let our conscience be our guide?

That depends on the kind of conscience we have. The word comes from two Latin words meaning "with knowledge." But the question arises, what kind of knowledge? We find the Bible speaking about all kinds of consciences. It speaks not only of a good conscience but of an evil conscience as well. By this it means standards of right and wrong which are contrary to God's standards. Some people have an ignorant conscience; still others an unbalanced conscience.

The Apostle Peter in his first epistle speaks of "a good conscience toward God," by which he means a set of moral measurements that have become established in a person's heart because he has lived close to God.

We can let our conscience be our guide only if we have a conscience which will guide us aright. There are as many different kinds of conscience as different kinds of people, and only a good conscience toward God can be safely followed.

Mutual Funds Reflects Mix-Up

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Plagued for several years by economic uncertainty, a depressed stock market and a loss of investor confidence, the nation's mutual funds seem to have found at least one reason to cheer in June.

Redemptions of shares in that month dropped to $275.6 million, the Investment Company Institute reported, the lowest figure since January 1971. It was almost enough to convince some funds that the turn had come. Then the analysts got to thinking, and they came up with this explanation: investors simply postponed their redemption plans because prices were too low. They didn't want to accept their losses.

If that is so, it leaves the funds in a rather curious position. If prices remain low, then so will redemptions. But if the price of mutual fund shares rise, then redemptions might rise also.

The goal of any mutual fund is to secure for its investors the highest return, but in doing so a fund conceivably could lose some of those investors. It's a symbol of the mixed up state of affairs in the financial world. An unrelated but equally mystifying development concerns the decision by the New York Bank for Savings to publicly offer debt securities with a guaranteed interest rate of 10 per cent through May.

The decision seemed to be in response to an offering of $650 in high interest notes by Citicorp, the parent of First National City Bank, a commercial as opposed to savings bank.

The savings banks and savings and loan associations were distressed by Citicorp's move, claiming it would cause them to lose deposits. If they lost deposits, they argued, they would be even less able to fulfill their function of granting home mortgage loans.

Which brings up the point: Since the main business of savings institutions is to accept depositors' money and lend it out to homebuyers at anywhere from 8.5 to about 9.5 per cent these days, how can they afford to pay 10 per cent to acquire money?

No immediate explanation was forthcoming, but there was such speculation among moneymen that somebody must expect mortgage rates to rise too.

NAACP Girds To Fight For Area Pupil Busing

DETROIT (AP) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People says it will go back to court to fight for a cross-district integration plan for Detroit area schools.

The Supreme Court by a 5-4 vote struck down on Thursday a cross-districting busing plan involving Detroit and 52 suburban school districts in three counties. The court returned the case to the U.S. District Court here to devise a desegregation plan for Detroit, not including the suburbs.

The high court's ruling could affect other school desegregation busing plans in the nation.

Attorneys for the NAACP here said they would attempt to demonstrate in court that suburban school districts are responsible for segregation of the schools in the metropolitan area.

"It will take some time for us to regroup ourselves emotionally, but we're going back to court," said Paul Diamond, attorney for the NAACP.

The Detroit plan was ordered in 1972 by U.S. District Court Judge Stephen Roth. Roth, who died two weeks ago of a heart attack, ruled in 1972 that only a busing plan including 52 suburban districts could provide enough whites to adequately integrate the Detroit schools.

The suburban schools had fought his plan strenuously.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, writing for the majority that overturned Roth's plan, said multidistrict integration plans may be imposed only where it is shown "that racially discriminatory acts of the state or local school districts, or of a single school district, have been a substantial cause of inter-district segregation."

"Thus an interdistrict remedy would be in order where the racially discriminatory acts of one or more school districts caused racial segregation in an adjacent district or where district lines have been deliberately drawn on the basis of race."

The court said no such evidence had been presented in the Detroit case.

"We construe that the language of the majority permits us to offer additional proof on the question of suburban effects of Detroit-only discrimination," Nathaniel Jones, general counsel for the NAACP, said in New York.

He predicted the decision would "trigger a welter of lawsuits the likes of which we have not seen before."

Diamond said the NAACP also will seek immediate adoption of a Detroit-only desegregation plan as ordered by the Supreme Court.

Church Sets 'Youth Day'

Rock Spring FWB Church, located on the Falkland Highway, will observe its "Annual Youth Days" on Sunday, with three services during the day.

At 11:00 a.m., morning services will be rendered by youth pastor Rev. James Smith and the youth choir, ushers and congregation of Rock Spring Church.

The 1:30 p.m. worship service will be under the guidance of the youth pastor, choir, ushers and congregation of Wynn Chapel Missionary Baptist Church, with refreshments to be served following services.

The final service of the day, at 5 p.m., will be a celebration of the anniversary of the Junior Ushers of Rock Spring. Guest speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Virginia Jones, faculty member of Rose High School.

Mrs. Jones is a member of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church where she is a member of the Deaconess Board. Music for the celebration will be sponsored by the Junior Choir of Haddock's Chapel FWB Church, with Miss Jackie Cox, organist.

defenders argue that Dean's account of what the President said about the IRS should be checked against the Sept. 15, 1972, tape. But thanks to the President's legal fight to keep those 17 minutes private, the tape could not reach the House committee for six more weeks at the earliest—long after the scheduled House vote on impeachment.

This suggests Mr. Nixon's last line of defense. Even if the Supreme Court orders the President to give Jaworski 64 subpoenaed tapes, they could not reach the House committee for months. Consequently, fence-sitting republican members might vote against impeachment—or abstain—in the coming showdown in protest against the committee's refusal to wait for evidence previously denied Congress by Mr. Nixon. Bizarre though that reasoning is, it may be the President's only remaining barrier against impeachment.

learned Miss Hearst had "never, ever" been on the scene. Residents speculated that a teen-age "look-a-like" had caused confusion, although apartment manager Marcella Tyler still insisted, "I'm positive I saw her."

Cooke termed the "eyewitness" sightings "Patty Hearst-itis."
"It's very contagious," he added.

All officers found when they pushed in the door of an apartment where they believed Miss Hearst to be was a cat and two registered weapons.

And a telephone call that said Miss Hearst wanted to give up turned out not only to be a hoax, police said, but somehow the police's own communications became garbled. Officers at the scene thought the call had been made by a woman claiming to be Miss Hearst rather than by a man as it actually was, officials said.

Try To Bar Rock Event

CONCORD, N.C. (AP)—The Cabarrus County Board of Commissioners is trying to stop a rock concert at which sponsors expect a crowd of 70,000-100,000.

The board Thursday unanimously instructed County Attorney John Boger to seek a court injunction against the 12-hour concert. It is scheduled Aug. 10 at the Charlotte Motor Speedway, which is in Cabarrus County.

Radio station WAYS of Charlotte is promoting and cosponsoring the concert. Stan Kaplan, owner of the station, said, "We will oppose any attempt to enjoin this perfectly lawful enterprise. And we do not believe that any judge will allow us to be enjoined."

The Charlotte Park and Recreation Commission voted Thursday to ban rock concerts at any of its outdoor facilities. This includes Memorial Stadium, where a park policeman, Sgt. Barry Worley, was shot and seriously wounded at a concert two weeks ago. The commission declined to ban concerts at its indoor facilities, where they have not been a problem.

Charlotte Bans Future Outdoor Rock Concerts

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Charlotte Park and Recreation Commission has banned outdoor rock concerts at any of its facilities, including Memorial Stadium.

By unanimous vote Thursday, the seven-member commission applied the ban 12 days after a park policeman, Sergeant Barry Worley, was shot and seriously wounded outside the stadium during a concert.

The commission, however, declined to ban rock concerts in its indoor facilities, which include Park Center.

The Charlotte City Council had asked the commission to ban all rock concerts, indoors or out, after the shooting. Commissioner Billy A. Bridgewater noted, however, that indoor concerts generally attracted a different class of people.

Commission Director Marion Diehl added that indoor Park Center concerts generally have not been a problem.

Hause Conducts At Greensboro

GREENSBORO—Spending the summer in Greensboro has become an integral part of Robert Hause's life—and having the dynamic Hause guest conduct the Eastern Philharmonic Orchestra, as he will do this Saturday, July 27, has become an annual treat for Eastern Music Festival patrons.

Hause's association with the Eastern Music Festival goes back a long time. In fact, the Shelby native shared in the initial dream that transformed a local Guilford Musical Arts Center with a shoestring budget into the nationally acclaimed six weeks experience with annual expenditures that top the $250,000 mark. Hause, currently an Associate Professor of Music at East Carolina University and conductor of the ECU Symphony, knew Sheldon Morgenstern since their high school days at Brevard Music Camp. When Morgenstern, still EMF's Music Director, approached Hause in January of 1962 about joining him in a summer venture, Hause wholeheartedly committed himself to the idea.

With only 80 students that first year, and but one faculty member per orchestral instrument, the festival opened its doors. "It was like the beginning of anything new," reminisces

Hause. "The first festival was hit-and-miss as we played everything by ear, so to speak. I conducted the orchestra and Shelly conducted the band. But as time went on, it became apparent we should concentrate our efforts only on the orchestral program, providing a full experience for the student instrumentalists."

Originally, EMF's students came from close proximity to its Guilford College home. But even in the beginning, Hause was dedicated to recruiting the finest young musicians in the country. For example, Hause largely was responsible for attracting Eliot Chapiro to the Eastern Music Festival. Chapiro, incidentally, is the newly appointed Conductor Master for the New York Philharmonic.

"We really needed strong string players and so I used some of my contacts from Florida where I taught at Stetson University to locate gifted students. I knew Chapiro at Brevard, offered him a scholarship, and he came to Greensboro for three summers," recalls Hause.

Now in his 13th season at the Eastern Music Festival, Hause regularly conducts the Eastern Symphony Orchestra, comprised of the most advanced of EMF's now 200-plus students. "This year, EMF has 'come of age,'" says the maestro who recently conducted his charges in a performance of Mahler's difficult "First Symphony" that earned the ESO rave reviews.

"The festival has become performers plus a faculty dedicated to perpetuating their art through teaching and playing. Conducting here is a marvelous experience for me."

Although he may be too modest to admit it, much of EMF's success is due to the foresight and talents of men like Bob Hause. When Michael Steinburg, music critic of the Boston Globe, returned home from a visit to EMF, he wrote: "One of the most enjoyable hours I spent there was at rehearsal of one of the student orchestras. . . I was impressed by the alert playing and by what Hause was doing to produce it. . . Few professional orchestras get to experience so efficient and humane a rehearsal techniques."

Hause repeatedly stresses the philosophy that has guided the development of the Festival, reiterating that EMF works in terms of flexibility, spontaneity, and a give-and-take environment for faculty and students alike. Hause has earned a well-deserved reputation with the participants at EMF for his clearheaded understanding of the totality of musical scores.

When discussing the Eastern Music Festival, Hause also emphasizes the advantages of attending an institute like EMF where renowned guest artists live in residence on the campus, taking their meals in the cafeteria and working directly with students.

Hause admits with a grin that "EMF is a part of me and has been for years. When you start off with something that is only an idea and you watch it grow with time, it gives you an amazingly warm feeling."

In the case of the Eastern Music Festival, it also gives audiences a musical experience worth remembering. Music lovers are invited to share the joy of music with Bob Hause when he conducts the Eastern Philharmonic Orchestra this Saturday evening.

When the conductor assumes the podium in Dana Auditorium the EPO will perform Mozart's "Symphony No. 29," Koussevitsky's "Concerto for Contrabass" which will feature Gary Karr as guest soloist, Stravinsky's "Petrouchka Suite" and Barber's "Overture to the School for Scandal."

Young Layman Honor Is Voted Robert S. Hall

Robert S. Hall, native of Plymouth and currently an employee of the N.C. State Employees Credit Union, has been chosen as the Greenville Jaycees' "Outstanding Young Layman" for 1974.

For this annual award, judges base a major portion of their decision on church activities of young Greenville men between the ages of 21 and 35 nominated for the award, with community activities also taken into consideration.

The award was presented to Hall Thursday night by Greenville Jaycee president Mark Meltzer at a Jaycee meeting held at the Elks Lodge.

Judges this year were Rev. Howard Dawkins, Joe Taft, Jr., and Don McGlohon. Previous "Outstanding Young Layman Awards" have gone to David Gordon, 1970; Dick Ullom, 1971;

Andy Warren, 1972; and Don Parrot, 1973.

ROBERT S. HALL

In addition to the award plaque, Hall also received a copy of The Living Bible.

A member of Oakmont Baptist Church, Hall is married to the former Kate Avery of Morganton and has lived in Greenville since 1971. In church work, he is active in softball and basketball teams, is president of a Sunday School class, has been Youth Director for three years, and is on the Board of Deacons as well as being secretary for that board.

Hall is currently the treasurer of the Greenville Boys' Club and is a coach for the Babe Ruth team.

At North Carolina State University, Hall was an athlete and was a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Gorilla Arrives For State Zoo

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — A young male lowland gorilla named Ramar is the newest arrival at the North Carolina Zoological Park near Asheboro.

William Hoff, zoo director, said Ramar was purchased for $6,000 from a private citizen in Los Angeles who is an animal keeper at a major U.S. zoo.

Ramar, six years old and weighing 235 pounds, was hand reared from infancy by the former owner. He was born in Africa and brought to this country at the age of one year, Hoff said.

"Contrary to popular belief, gorillas are not the ferocious creatures as portrayed in jungle movies and on some television programs," Hoff said. "They are shy, retiring animals in the wild and do not attack humans unless severely provoked."

Gorillas, largest of the great apes, are found in the Congo and other parts of central Africa. They live mainly on a diet of fruits and other vegetation, and eventually attain a maximum weight of 500 pounds.

The gorilla reaches sexual maturity at nine years, but continues to grow in bulk until age 14. Life span of the animal can exceed 30 years.

"Ramar at six years is quite manageable since he has had contact with humans all his life," said Hoff. "We expect that he will be as popular with visitors here as monkeys and apes are in all other zoos. He is an exceptionally handsome specimen with his healthy coat of black fur."

Ramar will be temporarily placed on display to the public on Aug. 2 at the interim zoo site. Within a month after all health tests are completed, he will be transferred to another zoo with proper facilities for keeping him until Phase I of the North Carolina Zoo opens next summer, Hoff said.

Drug Charge Is Dismissed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Narcotics possession charges against porno movie queen Linda Lovelace have been dismissed by a justice of the peace.

Judge Robert Legakes dropped two counts of possessing cocaine after ruling on Thursday that police used an invalid search warrant when they entered Miss Lovelace's hotel room.

The 23-year-old star of "Deep Throat" was arrested at the Dunes Hotel last Jan. 31 with Los Angeles producer David Winter. The charges against him had been dropped earlier.

Cab Company Drops Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen Smith, brother-in-law of the late President John F. Kennedy, won't have to contest a theft of services charge in a case involving an unpaid 60-cent taxi fare.

Manhattan Criminal Court Judge Ernst Rosenberger dismissed the charge Thursday because the cab company declined to press the charge and because the meter was not running during part of the trip.

Smith, 47, who is married to the former Jean Kennedy, was arrested July 2 after he refused to pay his fare to a Manhattan nightspot. He faced a possible fine of $1,000 and up to a year in jail.

Three Hurt In Accidents

Three persons were reported injured in one of two collisions investigated here by Greenville Police which caused an estimated $1,000 property damage.

Officers said Harvey Lee Bullock of Route 8, Greenville and Abraham Cobb of Ayden were injured when the vehicles they were driving collided about 10:45 p.m. on Broad Street just East of the Cross Street intersection.

In addition to the drivers, police reported one passenger in the Bullock car was injured. Damage was estimated at $350 to the Bullock car and $125 to a fire hydrant. No damage was listed for the Cobb vehicle, and no charges were reported.

Judith Highsmith Budacz of 3009 South Elm St. was charged with following to close following investigation of a 9:30 a.m. mishap on N. C. 43, 60 feet South of the Greenville Boulevard intersection.

Police said the Budacz car collided with a vehicle driven by Linda Kay Taylor of Route 2, Greenville causing an estimated $250 damage to the Taylor car and $400 damage to the Budacz auto.

Argentina Wants More People

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina plans to try to double its population to 50 million persons by the year 2000, says the Interior Ministry. The ministry is studying plans to reverse emigration and attract at least 125,000 new residents annually.

They Pray For Rain In Midwest Farm Area

By GORDON HANSON Associated Press Writer
SHELDON, Iowa (AP) — The Rev. Nicholas Vogelzang turned the pages of his Bible to Isaiah as he led a prayer service for rain in this farming community of 4,500 persons.

He stopped at the 41st chapter, 18th verse, then repeated from memory, "I will open rivers on the bare heights, and fountains in the midst of the valleys; I will make the wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water."

Outside the First Christian Reform Church on Thursday night, a hot, dry wind brushed the 130-foot spire and bristled the leaves on the thirsty oak and maple trees.

Seated on the padded, wooden benches in the church sanctuary were hundreds of persons of many faiths, from the farms and from the town.

They had met to pray for rain, not just in their area of northwest Iowa, but for the entire Midwest.

Scarce rain and searing temperatures are devastating farmers' crops from the Southwest Plains to the Upper Midwest, source of much of the nation's bacon, hamburger and breakfast cereals. Faltering livestock prices have hit many of the farmers.

Temperatures in the five-state area of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa and Nebraska were in the 100-degree range for the first half of this month. Rainfall at Kansas City through July 24 measured 1.12 inches, all of it in a thunderstorm on July 3. Normal rainfall for the first 24 days of the month is 3.59 inches.

Nebraska Gov. John J. Exon toured northeast Nebraska and estimated grain growers and livestock producers will lose $1 billion this year because of the drought and the declining price of cattle and hogs.

Corn is the critical crop now. The less corn available, the higher the price. And higher prices for corn mean higher prices for meat. Another complication is that cattle and hogs don't eat as well or gain weight as rapidly when the weather is hot.

Agronomists and statisticians say soybeans and grain sorghum crops aren't as hard hit as corn, but also are in trouble. The usual mixture of feed for cattle and hogs is three-quarters corn, with the remainder grains such as soybeans or sorghum. So shortages of these also would add to the meat price.

Some of the corn belt's product is set aside for such foodstuffs as corn meal and prepared cereals like corn flakes. Crop shortages could mean higher prices for these as well.

Iowa is the nation's largest corn grower on the basis of higher acreage, there had been estimates that it would produce a record 1.4 billion bushels this year. But in Pottawattamie County alone, 25 per cent of its 300,000 acres of corn has been destroyed.

Dale Awtry, executive director in Iowa for the federal government's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, says he can't yet assess the full damage of the drought. Awtry's offices in Iowa will report Monday the condition of all crops and prospective yields.

Holding Special Sunday Service

SIMPSON—A special service will be held at the Phillippi Baptist Church here Sunday at 3 p.m. Proceeds from the service will be used for the annual senior citizens banquet.

There will be a singspiration at Hopewell Pentecostal Holiness Church Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Featured will be the Assembly of God Trio from Windsor and The Christians from Vanceboro. The pastor, the Rev. Lotis Joyner, invites the public to attend.

THE SECRET

In another moment he will be getting up and walking toward you, eager to tell the secret of his calmness and strength. Will you listen?

He has solved many problems, overcome much grief and temptation, been able to meet the conditions of every-day living, all because through the Church he has come in contact with the Source of all power. In the Church he has found companionship. Its worship services have brought faith, peace and serenity. Its activities have furnished an outlet for his creative abilities and energy. The Church has been a part of his life from boyhood. Through its various departments the needs of his life have been met. He has enjoyed the fellowship there and, looking back, he is able to trace his own growth.

Have you learned his secret? Wouldn't you like to know it?

What the Church has done for him it can do for you. If you are young, it will help meet your problems. If you are older, it will bring satisfaction and peace.

$326,000 Grant Is Presented Sheltered Workshop

Formal presentation of a grant totaling $326,000 from the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the Department of Human Resources was made to the Eastern Carolina

Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center last evening at a Board of Directors dinner meeting. The Workshop will now be able to double the size of the Evaluation Unit. The training areas will be re-arranged for better training methods and efficiency. This program will be strengthened by behavior modification procedures.

Several new types of training will be added. The new building will be approximately 12,000 square feet of new space, making a combined total of 17,000 square feet of space since the building was erected in 1969. The renovation of the present facility will allow the workshop to have enlarged academic space, visual aids, work activity area, canteen, and social room for the clients, storage, additional office space, and more desirable sub-contract areas.

Division of Vocational Rehabilitation. Harrison praised the workshop for having developed "A cooperative program to serve handicapped youngsters in the public school systems in Pitt and Martin Counties." Howard Dawkins, executive director of the workshop added his appreciation for the support of the community to the workshop.

Nixon's Tax Return Checkup Delivered To Judiciary Panel

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate special prosecutor was asked to investigate the preparation of President Nixon's 1969 tax returns after the Internal Revenue Service found insufficient evidence to levy a civil fraud penalty against the President.

This documentation was contained in a statement of information released today by the House Judiciary Committee concerning Nixon's disputed $76,000 gift of papers to the National Archives. The special prosecutor's office has never announced any action in the case.

The 552-page volume deals principally with how and when the papers were donated and whether an impeachable offense might have been committed. No conclusions are stated.

The IRS ruled last April that Nixon owed $432,787 in back taxes, including a 5 per cent negligence penalty, for the years 1969 through 1972, as well as interest for 1970-72.

The President agreed to pay without a contest, including the sum for 1969, on which the statute of limitations had expired.

Documents printed by the Judiciary Committee disclose for the first time exactly how the IRS broke down its assessment of back taxes, although a general outline had been provided from the public release of a concurrent Nixon tax study done by a congressional committee.

On March 22, 1974, 11 days before the Nixons were notified of their deficiency, the chief of the intelligence division of the Baltimore district IRS office wrote:

"Based on the present information available there does not appear to be sufficient evidence to recommend the assertion of the 50 per cent civil fraud penalty in this case."

But the official, Robert Browne, said that if Nixon aides and tax preparers "could possibly testify under oath or a grant of immunity," they could "possibly connect the taxpayer with the preparation of the tax return and therefore change our recommendation against the 50 per cent civil fraud penalty."

Browne said Edward L. Morgan, a former White House aide who signed a deed for the gift papers, and Ralph Newman, who appraised them, "have not submitted to questioning under oath." And he said former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman had not been interviewed.

On April 2, the day the Nixons got their due notice, IRS director Donald C. Alexander wrote special prosecutor Leon Jaworski:

"It is our opinion that a grand jury investigation of this matter is warranted, and because this investigation will involve presidential appointees, we believe it would be appropriate for it to be carried forward by your office."

He also named Nixon personal attorneys Frank DeMarco and Herbert W. Kalmbach as other principals in the matter.

The IRS assessed these back taxes and penalties against the Nixons:

1969: $148,081 deficiency, no penalty due to expiration of statute of limitations.

1970: $90,114 deficiency, $4,506 penalty.

1971: $92,829 deficiency, $4,641 penalty.

1972: $88,205 deficiency, $4,410 penalty.

Congress' Joint Internal Revenue Committee had determined Nixon should pay an additional $444,022 in deficiencies for the four years.

Turkey Building Cyprus Forces

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkey is building up its invasion force in Cyprus and grabbing new territory on several fronts in violation of the cease-fire, military and diplomatic sources claim.

The sources gave no specific figures but cited eyewitness reports of troops, trucks, armor and other war material pouring into the Turkish beachhead on the north coast.

Waves of Turkish helicopters were seen flying over the Kyrenia mountains Thursday to inland landing zones on this Mediterranean island 45 miles south of Turkey, the sources said.

One foreign military attaché estimated that the initial Turkish force of about 6,000 men that landed Saturday might have swelled to more than 10,000, despite the cease-fire that took effect Monday.

However, the cease-fire was reported holding up fairly well. Sporadic firing along the "Green Line" separating Nicosia's Greek and Turkish quarters was the only fighting reported Thursday.

Turkish troops have added one or two miles a day to their beachhead east and west of the port of Kyrenia. It is now about 15 miles wide.

Military sources said Turkish forces also are widening their corridor from the sea to the main Turkish enclave at Nicosia.

United Nations observation posts have reported several changes in Turkish positions on the eastern and western edges of this corridor since the cease-fire went into effect.

Turkish and Greek troops are 500 yards apart on the western edge of Nicosia international airport. U.N. forces averted a major battle for the runways by occupying the airfield and calling in reinforcements, including British armored cars.

Another Turkish force from the Kyrenia area was reported moving inland in a southeasterly direction toward a small Turkish village surrounded by Greek Cypriot troops outside the main Turkish enclave.

Analysts who had initially predicted limited objectives for the Turkish invasion — seizure of a seaport and a corridor to the Turkish enclave — had no immediate explanation for the continuing military buildup and territorial expansion.

Life was returning to normal Thursday in Famagusta, Larnaca, Limassol and other coastal towns. Shops and businesses reopened, employees returned to work and traffic reappeared on the streets.

Nicosia's commercial center was still shuttered except for a few grocery stores, pharmacies and cafes. Traffic was light, tanks and troops guarded intersections and government buildings and many of the capital's 120,000 residents remained indoors.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were generally steady Thursday. Supplies barely adequate, demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 59.73, medium whites 50.39, small whites 39.34.

(Raleigh) (AP)—Hogs: Kingston and Lumberton, 75 higher, 36.25-37.25; Rocky Mount, 50 cents higher, 35.50-36; Salisbury steady, 35; Tarboro and Bethel 50 higher, 34.50-35.

(Raleigh) (AP)—North Carolina f.o.b dock broilers: market stronger today. Supplies adequate and demand good. Weights desirable. F.O.B. weighted dock average price for less than truck sales of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at docks next week is 35.63 cents per pound. Estimated slaughter today 1,291,000.

North Carolina hens: Market steady on heavy type hens with firm undertone for next week. Supplies barely adequate and demand good. Heavy hens at farm 11 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back again today, ignoring some seemingly favorable interest-rate news and focusing instead on concern over the stability of the international banking system.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.66 at 788.02, and losers led gainers by about 5 to 3 on the New York Stock Exchange.

After Thursday's close, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported the first decline in seven weeks in loan demand, which many investors have closely associated with record high interest rates.

John J. Smith at Fahnestock & Co. said, however, that whatever optimism that news might have engendered was more than canceled by concern over the liquidity of the so-called Euromarkets, which connect all the credit and currency markets of the West.

Stocks of U.S. banks were among today's most conspicuous losers, with Citicorp down a point at 31 1/4; Chase Manhattan, 2 at 34 1/4; and J.P. Morgan, 3/4 at 50. Smith noted that many major American banks are closely involved in the Euromarkets.

Cerro was up 1 1/2 at 18 3/4. GL Corp., a private Chicago concern which recently acquired a big chunk of Cerro shares in a tender offer, said the two companies were discussing a merger.

Aetna Life & Casualty, which reported lower second-quarter operating earnings, tumbled 3 to 22 1/4.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index was down .45 at 43.56. On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index lost .19 to 80.51.

The Amex volume leader was Syntex, down 1 1/4 at 38.

Palestinean Exiles Are Hope Of Future

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT (AP) — Palestinians who escaped the horror of refugee camps have taken a quiet back seat to the guerrilla leaders of today. But they are the statesmen of tomorrow.

Affluent, well-educated, more familiar with the Byzantine maze of Middle East politics, they have suffered less under the Israelis and learned to survive in other parts of the Arab world.

They share a common yearning with their millions of refugee cousins for a free and independent Palestine. But while the refugees have simply waited 26 years, Palestinian businessmen, doctors, lawyers, educators and civil servants have honed their professional skills and made adjustments.

They have carved a comfortable niche for themselves in trading centers, universities, offices and government ministries stretching from Beirut to Kuwait. Their ideas on a permanent settlement with the Jews tend to be more realistic than idealistic.

"We have to forget the past and start building again," says Hikmat Masri, the head of a large and powerful family in Israeli-held Nablus, "the guerrillas are just a passing phase."

The Masri family owns soap and match factories, a trucking firm and a vegetable oil company.

Hikmat is a former Jordanian government minister, his nephew Taher serves in King Hussein's present cabinet in Amman, his brother, Zafer, runs the Chamber of Commerce.

Hikmat Masri says there can be peace in the Middle East if Israel withdraws from the west bank of Jordan and the Gaza Strip which it captured in 1967.

He envisions a five-year transition period of international supervision in these territories while the Palestinians hold elections and decide whether they want independent statehood or federation with Jordan. "We have a limited choice and we will have to accept an imposed solution," he says. "Right now the Palestine Liberation Organization—PLO—is the only structure available to represent us, but we have plenty of leaders to choose from when the time comes."

Not so, says his American-educated nephew Taher, who administers the west bank in exile as Jordan's "minister of occupied territories."

"We have no leaders, only followers. I have to accept Yasser Arafat because the PLO is all that's available. If the guerrillas go to Geneva the most important issues will be decided before we Palestinians can elect any other representatives."

His reference to Geneva was to an upcoming conference of Arab and Israeli representatives to discuss ways of achieving a permanent peace in the Middle East. This was a condition of recent troop disengagement arrangement worked out with U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The future of the Palestinians and the possibility of an independent Palestinian state may be discussed at Geneva.

The younger Masri agrees with his uncle that a truncated Palestinian state in the west bank and Gaza would not be economically, politically and militarily viable. Both feel there would have to be some form of federation with Jordan after an initial period of independence — "long enough to give the Palestinians an entity and make them feel they can negotiate with King Hussein as equals rather than subjects."

Can Palestinian refugees be persuaded to give up their claims to land which became part of Israel in 1948? "If you make them hungry enough you can force them," said Taher Masri. "Let us face it whatever the superpowers impose will be accepted by the Palestinians and Jordan. The United States can easily topple King Hussein if they want to form a Palestinian-Jordanian state."

"Palestinians already own half of Amman. Why should we separate?" Zafer Masri, the businessman, and his brother the Mayor or Mazoz, both noted that their company's profits are inexorably linked to trade with Jordan.

"Our factories here are existing because we can sell our products in Jordan," said Zafer. "Israeli currency fluctuations have cut into our profits. They say I can sell in Israel but no Jew would buy my matches if he can get them from one of his own.

"The Israelis have curbed investment in the west bank, they have refused to build roads and they have not even given us direct-dial telephones. I bank my money in Amman and I see my future in ties with the east bank."

The Masri's power base in Nablus contrasts with that of Sheikh Jaffar al Jabiri in Hebron. He runs his city like a Chinese warlord, receiving supplicants in his mayor's office, settling local squabbles and trying to remain in good terms with Israeli occupation authorities without being branded a collaborator.

He, too, desires a peace settlement that will allow him to remain in power, and thus indulges in what the militants call "gradualism."

"If only those people would wait a little longer, they will find that the Arabs can face up to Israel," said Yussuf Sayegh, a professor of the American University of Beirut. "I want to dynamite the Geneva peace talks."

"I do not envision anything except a military solution — not total defeat for Israel but enough to make them reassess the whole Palestinian question. We can do this with Arab support, but gradualism makes it more complicated, more costly."

Sayegh was one of the few independent members of the PLO executive committee before he resigned earlier this year, largely because his views were not shared by Arafat. He has been replaced on the committee by three moderate west bankers, of whom the most prominent is Mohsen Abu Maizer.

Often touted as the future "premier of Palestine," Abu Maizer was a west bank lawyer before his expulsion by Israeli authorities last December because of illegal underground political activity. He is a member of the Socialist Baath party and one of the founders of a clandestine Palestine National Front — PNF — which emerged in the occupied territories after the October war in 1973.

Abu Maizer now lives in Damascus, Syria. He supports Arafat's desire to negotiate for Palestinian statehood, but he feels that Palestinians should not be breaking down the doors to go to Geneva.

"Let the world come to us with a solution," he said. "We are the ones who have been wronged. Everyone knows there can be no peace until we are satisfied, so our attendance at a peace conference is not important."

Hadj Rashad Shawa, the de facto ruler of the Gaza Strip, points to Israel's paramilitary settlements in the occupied territories as a clear indication that Israel will not withdraw. "The real aim of the Israelis is to take over every inch of land here," he said. "Anything short of a real partition similar to 1947 will lead us to another war. I doubt that there will be peace for 150 years."

"Giving us the west bank and Gaza would delay another war for 10 years at the most. The tide has changed in favor of the Arabs. It will take us two or three more generations to eliminate Israel and liberate Palestine, but eventually the Jews will have to assimilate."

"They cannot set up an European state in an Arab society."

Deficit Trade Balance Due Oil Import Prices

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher prices for imported oil tumbled the nation's 1974 trade accounts to their biggest deficit on record for the first half of a year, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said imports exceeded exports by $3.2 billion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate. Exports on the same basis were $92.6 billion. Imports were $95.8 billion.

The previous worst January to June on record was last year, when the trade accounts registered a $2.7 billion deficit.

Petroleum alone accounted for one-quarter of the money the nation spent on imports over the first half of this year and a $1.7 billion deficit was run up in the second quarter after the Arab oil embargo was lifted.

The nation had tallied a $685 million surplus in its trade accounts over the first three months of the year when the Arab oil embargo was in effect.

The embargo went off in mid-March. The effective price of imported oil shot up by 27 percent, due primarily to higher royalties imposed by foreign governments, and the volume of imports went up 10 percent above the previous three months, the report said.

Sen. Ervin Is Keynoter

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., who will retire when his current term ends in January, will be the keynote speaker for North Carolina Democrats at the state convention here Aug. 3.

State Democratic chairman James R. Sugg said the choice of Ervin "fits naturally into plans of the party to emphasize the theme of restored faith in government and the political system."

Ervin, 77, who chaired the Senate Watergate hearings, "has become a symbol of the movement to restore high standards of morality in politics and government," Sugg said in a statement.

Ervin's convention appearance will focus the state party's attention on national issues, such as the Watergate affair and the economy, Sugg said.

Ervin's decision not to seek reelection set the stage for Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan to seek the office as the Democratic nominee. Morgan is opposed by Republican William Stevens of Lenoir.

The pickets were in apparent defiance of an agreement signed in the presence of a federal judge Wednesday at Covington requiring the United Mine Workers (UMW) to limit the number of pickets.

Legal Aid To Poor Signed

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has signed legislation that places the federal program of legal aid to the poor under an independent government corporation.

Under the new law, a Legal Services Corporation will replace the Office of Economic Opportunity as overseer of the program. Signing of the bill was announced on Thursday.

Legal Services lawyers will be able to represent the poor in civil cases involving rent disputes, child custody, property, housing and welfare rights. They will be barred, however, from filing suits in connection with the military draft, desegregation, labor and abortion cases.

The House and Senate passed the compromise measure after agreeing to a Nixon administration demand that legal research backup centers at law schools be barred from receiving Legal Services contracts. Conservatives had argued that the centers had taken part in controversial suits.

The Legal Services program currently operates on a $71.5 million budget, but the new law authorizes $90 million this year and $100 million next year, subject to allocations by the appropriations committees of Congress.

Pickets Prevent Mine Opening

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — About 65 pickets gathered at the entrance to the Highsplit mine in Harlan County early today, and Eastover Coal Co. did not attempt to open the facility.

The pickets were in apparent defiance of an agreement signed in the presence of a federal judge Wednesday at Covington requiring the United Mine Workers (UMW) to limit the number of pickets.

East Carolina Has Five Recruits Playing Saturday

Tomorrow night's 12th Annual Boy's Home All-Star Game should provide plenty of the bone-crushing activity that fans, players and coaches dedicated to the pigskin game truly love.

It is only hoped, however, that events such as one that happened Wednesday morning can be avoided, lest East Carolina University be caught short of healthy recruits come August practice.

One Pirate football signee, Marvin Moss, a 6-1 178-pound quarterback from Burgaw, suffered a broken collarbone in a simultaneous collision with the turf and Mike Herring, a defensive end from Calypse.

Moss is one of the five Pirates signees picked to participate in the All-Star contest. Joining him on the South squad are Milton Brown and Thomas Summer. North squadders who will become Pirates in the fall are Terry Brayboy, a 5-11, 170-pound back from Zebulon and Newton Simmons, a 6-0, 230-pound Raleigh Broughton High School product.

South coach John Daskall indicated that his future Pirates, Brown and Summer, were making fine progress in practice sessions.

Brown is being used at flanker, while Summer, termed "a strong runner with exploding power" is expected to see action in the backfield and at linebacker.

"Milton has adequate speed and good hands," said Daskall. "He definitely is an addition worthy of any football team. "We'll use Summer's power, depending on what we need. He will see some action at linebacker, though," Daskall continued.

Daskall also commented on Herring, the fellow who helped Moss away from the South's starting quarterback's job. The South mentor said that Herring, who's football future is undedicated, had shown more than one quality essential to being a winning football player.

"He'll kick for us and play a new position: defensive end, which he's never played before," said Daskall. "But he doesn't mind sticking you... and that's the name of the game."

John Morris, North mentor, is just as high on his two future Pirates, Brayboy and Simmons.

"Brayboy's a tough kid that likes to hit," said Morris. "He'll be playing monster-back for us. He has good speed and hustles... you can't ask for anything more."

"Simmons is a big, strong fellow who likewise is a good hitter. He had a good game at the Shrine Bowl in Charlotte, so all-star games don't bother him," Morris concluded, in referring to the noseguard.

Kickoff time for Saturday's contest is 8 p.m. And while it marks the start of the last activity for the 60 players who have prepared all week, it also marks what some players agreed to as being "an interesting week."

"It's been great getting to know people this week," said Brown, from Ayden. "We've had a good time practicing, too."

Summer, from Cherryville, said he's glad, though, that he's just "getting a chance to play."

"It'll help me get ready for August," said Summer. "I've been impressed with the facilities here, and I'd like to get off on the right foot in Greenville starting Saturday night in Ficklen Stadium."

Magician Jenkins Beats Wood And His White Sox

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

You've really got to have something up your sleeve to beat Wilbur Wood.

Ferguson Jenkins of the Texas Rangers dealt his ace Thursday night — a curve ball that dropped off the table.

"My curve was excellent and that was the pitch that got me out of a lot of jams," Jenkins noted after whipping Wood and the Chicago White Sox 4-1 with a seven-hitter. "It was a strange game for me in a way. Normally I throw at least 20 sliders a game.

"But I threw almost all curves and fastballs. I threw only a couple of changeups and sliders tonight."

In the other American League games, the New York Yankees beat the Milwaukee Brewers 1-0; the Boston Red Sox routed the Detroit Tigers 12-4; the Cleveland Indians beat the Baltimore Orioles twice, 8-7 and 5-4 in 13 innings; the Oakland A's trimmed the Minnesota Twins 5-1 and the Kansas City Royals nipped the California Angels.

Yankees 1, Brewers 0
Bobby Murcer singled home

a run in the first inning and George "Doc" Medich protected it with a five-hitter for his fifth consecutive complete-game victory as New York beat Milwaukee.

Red Sox 12, Tigers 4
Rico Petrocelli, Carl Yastrzemski and Tommy Harper blasted home runs, helping Boston rout Detroit.

A's 5, Twins 1
Vida Blue pitched a three-hitter and Sal Bando drove in three runs with a pair of homers, leading Oakland over Minnesota.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — A disappointed Ara Parseghian has conceded that six of his key football players have been dismissed from the University of Notre Dame for one year for violating school rules.

Parseghian, coach of the defending national champions, told The Associated Press Thursday: "It's a great disappointment, one of those things that happens, and we'll just have to set it behind us."

Parseghian responded to an AP story that six players, including four from the heart of the Irish defensive unit, would be out of school for at least one year because of the matter.

"But as far as I'm concerned it was a university irregularity and a university suspension," he said.

The South Bend Tribune reported Thursday the matter involved a complaint by an unidentified 18-year-old woman who alleged she had been raped.

County Prosecutor William E. Voor Jr. said six Notre Dame football players were under investigation.

No charges have been filed.

An Irish teammate identified the dismissed students as safety Luther Bradley, Muncie, Ind.; defensive end Russ Browner, Warren, Ohio; kick return specialist Al Hunter, Greenville, N.C.; defensive end Willie Fry, Memphis, Tenn.; defensive halfback Roy Henry, New Orleans, and Dan Knott, a halfback from Chowchilla, Calif.

All are sophomores and, except for Henry and Knott, were likely starters this fall.

None of the six could be reached for comment.

Voor said the alleged rape occurred July 3 in a campus dormitory occupied by football players.

Parseghian said the dismissals were related to a violation of dormitory rules.

The Tribune quoted Voor as saying he would not initiate criminal proceedings against the six.

Voor also was quoted as saying the woman who filed the complaint and the six men involved had given conflicting accounts of the incident. He said there was no evidence to support the charges except the woman's complaint.

Baugh Among Wheeling Field

By MIKE CLARK
AP Sports Writer

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — "Tell my dad I love him."

With those words, golfer Laura Baugh sought to even a score with a writer who had maligned her.

"He (the writer) quoted me as saying I didn't love my father, and that he hadn't helped me," Laura said. "It (the story) appeared in all the Florida papers."

Laura's father, Hale Baugh, is a lawyer in Cocoa, Fla.

With a mischievous look in her eye, she turned to one of the writers surrounding her here. "Do you know who wrote that?" she asked. "Oooh, if I could get my hands on him..."

Her displeasure apparently vented, Laura returned to matters at hand.

This week, those matter include three rounds of golf in the first Wheeling Ladies' Professional Golf Association Classic. She was among the first to go off in today's first round over Oglebay Park's Speidel Course.

Jo Ann Prentice, the tour's No. 2 money winner, is the logical favorite since leading money-winner JoAnne Carner has bypassed Wheeling. But with the likes of Jane Blalock, Sandra Palmer and Carole Jo Skala in the field, Miss Prentice isn't likely to have things all her own way.

For that matter, Laura Baugh might have something to say about who wins this tournament.

Just a few days ago, it appeared Laura might bypass this first-ever women's professional golf event in West Virginia. But she says her game has been so steady of late that she decided to enter.

Laura, who is yet to win as a professional, reached back to 1971 to explain why.

That year, at the tender age of 16, she won the U.S. Women's Amateur championship.

But during that tournament, she continually found herself in come-from-behind situations.

"And it's the same now. It seems like every round, I'm about five over after the first five holes," she sighed.

"If I could just get through those first five holes at even par..." and her voice trailed off, allowing the collected media representatives to finish her sentence.

Tourney Begins

Tournaments opened in the American and National divisions of the Church softball leagues last night with four routs and two close games.

In the first game at Evans II, FWB had to hold off People's in a last inning rally to preserve a 5-4 win. Immanuel went into extra innings with U-Mt. Pleasant struggling to a 6-5 victory.

In the third game at that field, Co-champ Black Jack, seeded second in the pairings, bashed Arlington St. 21-2. They got five in the first to win it.

At field II, Memorial slapped Trinity into the losers bracket winning 13-3. Trinity had scored first but five runs in the Memorial second did the trick.

St. James took the second game there dumping Presbyterian, 10-1, getting all they needed in the first on seven runs.

American division second place finisher St. Gabriel best Christian, 17-11. St. Gabriel scored eight in the first and six in the second to win it.

The tournament will continue Tuesday in the double elimination affair.

Pearson, Petty Favored In Race

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Qualifying for the Dixie 500 stock car race begins today with 20 positions in Sunday's $104,000, 500-mile event at stake.

David Pearson and Richard Petty, two of the favorites, will be appearing on the same track for the first time since their Firecracker 400 feud.

The two million-dollar winners engaged in a heated exchange following the July 4 race at Daytona Beach, Fla. with Petty expressing irritation at Pearson's relinquishing the lead in the final lap and shooting past him for the victory at the wire.

Petty claimed Pearson could have caused an accident by slowing his car and that the Mercury was fast enough to win without tricks.

Pearson again will be riding the Wood Brothers Mercury that captured last year's Dixie 500. Petty, who has won the race three times, will be in a Dodge.

They are expected to get strong competition from Cale Yarborough in a Chevrolet, Bobby Allison in a Matador and Buddy Baker in a Ford.

Qualifying begins at 2 p. m. on the 1.5-mile Atlanta International Raceway paved oval. Sixteen more cars will be qualified Saturday to determine the 36-car field.

Petty ran the fastest lap during Thursday's practice—156.102 miles an hour. Pearson, Baker, Bobby Isaac and Allison were close behind. All had speeds above 155 m.p.h.

Yarborough has four victories at AIR, all in the Atlanta 500 which he won last spring. He enters the race with consecutive victories at Bristol and Nashville.

WINNING RUN—Atlanta third baseman Darrell Evans (11) scores the winning run for the Braves in 10th in the 10th inning of a National League game Thursday night in Atlanta. The only score of the game came on a single by outfielder Rowland Office with the bases loaded. San Diego catcher is Fred Kendall. Umpire is Dutch Bennett. (AP Wirephoto)

Lewis Gains Quarter-Finals

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Unseeded Chris Lewis of Los Angeles upset defending champion Ferdi Taygan to reach today's quarter-finals in the National Junior Clay Court tennis championships.

"The key is that Ferdi didn't play well," Lewis said Thursday after his 7-5, 6-3 victory over the No. 1 seed from Framingham, Mass.

"I've seen Ferdi stay out there for three hours without missing a ball," he said. "Today he lacked confidence — he didn't attack."

Lewis broke Taygan to tie the first set 3-3 and broke again in the final game, when he scored set point on a lob over Taygan's head.

"I couldn't force winners," Taygan said, "so Chris played smart tennis by staying back and avoiding errors."

Lewis was paired in a quarter-final match today with Glenn Petrovic of Pacific Palisades, Calif., who advanced after a 6-4, 6-2 win Thursday over Tut Bartzan, Fort Worth, Tex.

No. 2-seeded Bruce Manson of North Hollywood, Calif., met No. 10 Bill Maze of Orinda, Calif., today.

Manson defeated Jack Gorsuch of St. Louis, 6-3, 6-2 Thursday.

day. Maze downed No. 7 Gene Mayer of Wayne, N.J., who retired because of a painful arm condition as Maze prepared to serve for the match with the score 1-6, 6-3, 5-4.

Other high seeds, including Floridians Ron Meyers of Miami (No. 4) and Ben McKown of Lakeland (No. 5) advanced fairly routinely to the quarter-finals.

The only Kentuckian remaining in the tourney, 12th-seeded Gary Plock of Louisville, advanced with a 7-6, 6-0 victory over No. 6 Michael Grant of Roslyn, N.Y.

Plock faced Tom Kreiss of Beverly Hills, Calif., today. Kreiss defeated Chap Brown of Lantana, Fla., 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

In boys-16 play, No. 5 Jim Hodges of Chevy Chase, Md., fell before 11th-seeded Elliot Teltcher of Palos Verdes, Calif., 6-1, 6-2, and No. 8 Chuck Hodgins of Sumter, S.C., was beaten 7-5, 2-6, 6-4 by 15th ranked Peter Rennert of Great Neck, N.Y.

The other six among the top eight seeds in boys-16 advanced to the quarter-finals, led by Jai DiLouie of Dallas, who has dropped just seven games in three straight-set wins. DiLouie downed Cary Stansbury of Tiburon, Calif., 6-1, 6-1 Thursday.

Phils, Braves, Mets Playing 'Mother May I?' In National Loop

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It was one small step for Jim Marshall, one giant step for Clyde King...and two steps backwards for the New York Mets.

Marshall took his first halting step as Chicago's new manager — and fell flat on his face as the Philadelphia Phillies bombed the Cubs 10-2.

King took his first step as Atlanta's new manager and ever so carefully remained upright as his Braves eked out a 10-inning 1-0 victory over San Diego.

And the Mets started their "charge" toward the top of the National League East exactly the same way they did after last year's All-Star break, losing a doubleheader to the St. Louis Cardinals, this time by 4-3 and 4-1 scores with the first game going 10 innings.

In other National League action on Thursday's jammed schedule, Los Angeles swept a pair from Houston 11-3 and 2-0, Cincinnati took two from San Francisco 14-13 and 5-0, and Montreal split with Pittsburgh, winning 10-5 before the Pirates won the second game 3-2.

Braves 1, Padres 0

Roland Office's 10th-inning single gave the Braves their victory over San Diego. Darrell Evans walked and was sacrificed to second by Dusty Baker before Office slapped his game-winning hit to right.

Cards 4-4, Mets 3-1

"It's just like last year," Mets' Manager Yogi Berra quipped. "We came in here and lost a doubleheader."

Asked if he thinks it may be an omen, he replied: "I don't know. I don't like to see it happen that way every year...I feel we've still got a chance. We're no worse off now than we were at this time last year. We've just got to start winning some games."

Jack Aker, in relief of Jerry Kosman, hit Jerry Davanon with a 10th-inning bases-loaded pitch to give the Cards the first-game victory and St. Louis beat Jon Matlack in finale on the strength of Alan Foster's three-hitter.

Dodgers 11-2, Astros 3-0

Jim Wynn hit a home run and three singles and Tom Paciorek slugged a three-run triple to lead Los Angeles' first-game romp and Doug Rau's seven-hitter made it a sweep of the Astros.

Reds 14-5, Giants 13-0

Tony Perez' two-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning capped a winning five-run rally for the Reds in the first game and Fred Norman pitched a five-hitter and Ken Griffey blasted a homer that made it a double dumping for the Giants.

Expos 10-2, Pirates 5-3

Homers by Manny Sanguillen and Willie Stargell led Pittsburgh Pirates past Montreal after Ron Hunt reached base safely five straight times, scored twice and drove in three runs to pace the Expos' first-game victory.

Ford Flying Through Pack

ORANGEBURG, S.C. (AP)—Frank Ford III of Charleston is making a run for the title from what amounted to last place in the championship flight of the 60th annual Carolinas Golf Association tournament.

He defeated 17 other players in a playoff for the last berth in the 64-man flight and today he had reached the quarterfinals.

Said Ford after surviving Thursday's two rounds: "I don't care who I play. I'm happy I'm this far."

Today's four matches over the Country Club of Orangeburg course will be followed by the semifinals Saturday and the 36-hole championship match Sunday.

Ford, 22-year-old former captain of the Furman University golf team, turned in a major upset Thursday with his 2 and 1 victory over Vance Heafner, North Carolina State player from Cary who recently won the Carolinas Open title.

Ford followed that victory with a 1 up margin over young Mark Andrew of Albemarle, N.C.

Today, Ford faced David Thore, Wake Forest University player from Reidsville, N.C.

Other quarterfinal matches were: Trip Gentry, Winston-Salem, vs. Marion Moore, Orangeburg; Allen Powers, Orangeburg, vs. Ernie Massei III, Fayetteville; and Steve Forrest, Mount Airy, vs. Jim Haney, Goldsboro, N.C.

In one of Thursday's top matches, Forrest and Tony Hollifield of Gastonia, N.C., turned in torrid four under par 68s for the 18-hole distance and went two more holes before Forrest, former Virginia Tech player, gained a 1 up victory with a birdie.

Powers, who won the CGA title in 1968, gained his quarterfinal berth with a 1 up victory over Wylie Ramsey of Marion, N.C., and Haney's second vic-

Might Meet Russians

COLLEGE PARK Md., (AP)—If the University of Maryland can obtain permission, the Terps will send a team to compete in a Russian basketball tournament next month.

"I'm all for it," said Lefty Driesell, Maryland basketball coach. "But we have to get a few things ironed out first."

Maryland would have to get approval from the National Collegiate Athletic Association to play the sport out of season, and Driesell also would want to take along six scholarship freshmen.

"The freshmen are already registered in school," Driesell said, "so I don't see why they couldn't go with us."

The Terrapins have been cleared by the U.S. State Department to participate in the tournament, due to open Aug. 15. Final approval must come from the NCAA.

Driesell said no definite word could be expected from the NCAA until next week.

There have been six triple dead heats in harness racing. The most recent took place May 24 at Henderson, Ky.

Score Change Puts Still In Lead

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (AP) — When the penalty was on, Ken Still trailed the leaders by one shot.

When the penalty came off, Still vaulted in front.

"You go to court and sometimes you win, sometimes you lose," the 39-year-old veteran said Thursday after he'd won relief from a two-shot penalty, a ruling that gave him sole control of first place in the $200,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

His score first went up as a 67. But after the rules committee rescinded the two-stroke penalty his score was changed to a 65, five under par on the 6,788-yard Mississauga Golf Club Course.

Lee Trevino and Rik Massengale once shared the lead at 66, but dropped back to second with the unusual and controversial ruling on Still.

The big group at 67, three under par for the first round of this national championship, included rookie Ben Crenshaw, Gay Brewer, Bobby Nichols, Labron Harris, lefty Sam Adams, Bobby Eastwood, Jim Jewell, Dave Barber and Dick Rhyan.

Defending champion Tom Weiskopf had a 72 that included a triple bogey seven on the ninth hole where he drove into the water. Jack Nicklaus matched par 70 and Arnold Palmer got in at 69.

Royals Beat Ryan

ANAHEIM (AP) — Jim Wohlford's run-scoring single in the eighth inning gave the Kansas City Royals a 2-1 victory over the California Angels Thursday night.

John Mayberry opened with a single and Tony Solaita drew a walk off Nolan Ryan. Kurt Bevacqua ran for Mayberry, but was forced at third on a bounce by Vada Pinson.

Wohlford then singled to left to chase home Solaita with the Royals' winning run.

Kansas City touched Ryan, 12-10, for a run without benefit of a base hit in the first inning.

Fred Patek drew a leadoff walk and stole second. He took third when Ryan uncorked a wild pitch and came home as John Mayberry grounded to first.

California tied the game in the second inning on singles by Frank Robinson, Bruce Bochte and Denny Doyle.

MOST TRIPLES
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — J. Owen Wilson of the Pirates holds the major league record for the most triples in one season with 36, set in 1912.

Belvoir Wins Big

Belvoir's Bombers slammed the door on Jamesville last night as they roared their way to a 23-0 shutout.

Howard Pearce was the winning pitcher and Marvin Hardy had two homers for five RBI's for the Bombers.

STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY - 86 PROOF - © 1974 OLD CHARTER DIST. CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

How The House Judiciary Committee Is Lined Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a summary of how each member of the House Judiciary Committee referred in formal opening remarks to his or her position on impeachment:

PETER W. RODINO JR., D-N.J.: "When I test the facts ... I find that the President must be found wanting and so ... I shall urge along with others the option of articles of impeachment."

EDWARD HUTCHINSON, R-Mich.: "Not only do I not believe any crimes by the President have been proven beyond a reasonable doubt, they have not even approached a lesser standard of proof."

HAROLD D. DONOHUE, D-Mass.: Moved to recommend impeachment.

ROBERT MCCLORY, R-Ill.: Questioned strength of Watergate cover-up evidence, but expressed concern about Nixon's refusal to honor subpoenas.

JACK BROOKS, D-Tex.: Spoke critically of unequalled corruption, but did not formally say he would vote for impeachment.

HENRY P. SMITH III, R-N.Y.: Said clear and convincing proof had not been presented, except perhaps concerning the secret bombing of Cambodia, a proposed article not considered likely to be approved.

ROBERT W. KASTEN-

MEIER, D-Wis.: "President Nixon must be impeached and removed from office."

CHARLES W. SANDMAN JR., R-N.J.: "Can find no direct evidence against the President."

DON EDWARDS, D-Calif.: "He should be impeached."

THOMAS F. RAILSBACK, R-Ill.: Detailed "two serious areas of concern," but did not commit his vote.

WILLIAM L. HUNGATE, D-Mo.: "Should Richard M. Nixon be found guilty of obstruction of justice ... abusing the powers of his office ... contempt and defiance of the Congress and the courts? Yes."

CHARLES E. WIGGINS, R-Calif.: Called for fairness, detailed Nixon side of some evidence, did not formally commit his vote.

JOHN CONYERS JR., D-Mich.: Nixon should be ousted for "open and notorious defiance of the law."

DAVID W. DENNIS, R-Ind.: "We would do better to retain the President...."

JOSHUA EILBERG, D-Pa.: "The evidence is clear and overwhelming. Richard Nixon is guilty beyond any reasonable doubt...."

HAMILTON FISH JR., R-N.Y.: Listed elements of an impeachable offense, said duty is clear if evidence is clear, did not commit his vote.

JEROME R. WALDIE, D-Calif.: "There is a mountain of evidence showing that the President has acted to obstruct justice."

WILEY MAYNE, R-Iowa: Said direct involvement of Nixon must be shown to impeach him, but evidence so far is "purely circumstantial."

WALTER FLOWERS, D-Ala.: Said he was most bothered by violations of individual rights and misuse of federal agencies, but did not commit his vote.

LAWRENCE J. HOGAN, R-Md.: "As much as it pains me to say it, he should be impeached and removed from office."

JAMES R. MANN, D-S.C.: "I have expressed no prejudgments. I am entitled to the thoughts, the arguments of my colleagues on this committee. I am entitled to the time remaining to me to study the evidence."

M. CALDWELL BUTLER, R-Va.: "There are frightening implications for the future of our country if we do not impeach the President."

PAUL S. SARBANES, D-Md.: "What concept of government is it if the person at the head is to walk away claiming that he knows nothing, sees nothing, hears nothing while the persons closest to him, the alter egos, proceed about their destructive business."

WILLIAM S. COHEN, R-Maine: Said abuse of power, Watergate cover-up and alleged abuse of the Internal Revenue Service are of greatest concern, that the President "allowed the rule of law and the constitution to slip under the boots of indifference and arrogance and abuse."

GEORGE E. DANIELSON, D-Calif.: There is enough direct and undisputed evidence concerning Nixon "to support a conviction of conspiracy in a criminal court."

TRENT LOTT, R-Miss.: Did not specifically commit his vote, but said "you cannot impeach a President for a half a case or the parts of several cases put together."

JOHN F. SEIBERLING JR., D-Ohio: "We will permanently weaken not only the presidency but our entire constitutional system if we fail to impeach a president who has flagrantly violated our trust and his own oath of office."

HAROLD V. FROELICH, R-Wis.: "I am deeply pained and troubled by some of the things I see.... My decision awaits final wording of the articles and remaining debate."

ROBERT F. DRINAN, D-Mass.: Said there was no justification to keep secret the bombing of Cambodia and said a president could be impeached for "that ultimate tyranny" of concealing a war.

CARLOS J. MOORHEAD, R-Calif.: "I could not vote for impeachment. ... I believe this thing is wrong."

CHARLES B. RANGEL, D-N.Y.: "I uphold my oath of office and call for the impeachment of a man who has not."
JOSEPH J. MARAZITI, R-N.J.: "In many areas there is a lack of conclusiveness, a lack of certainty.... I do not believe Mr. Dean.... If I have to choose between Mr. Dean and the President as to who is telling the truth, I have no difficulty in that regard."

BARBARA JORDAN, D-Tex.: Said Nixon's being surrounded by malefactors and trying to take care of them qualifies him for impeachment.

DELBERT LATTA, R-Ohio: "To impeach there must be direct presidential involvement" and he said so far there is none.

RAY THORNTON, D-Ark.: "Nixon has violated his oath of office by obstruction of justice and has committed high crimes and misdemeanors."

ELIZABETH HOLTZMAN, D-N.Y.: "The President's impeachment and removal from office is the only remedy for the acts we have seen."

WAYNE OWENS, D-Utah: "I am now persuaded that the President has engaged in three types of conduct which constitute impeachable offenses under the Constitution."

EDWARD MEZVINSKY, D-Iowa: Asked that if the committee did not bring Nixon to account, "Who will?"

1,000 members of business organizations inside. Police said the demonstration was peaceful. Nixon entered the hotel through an underground garage and didn't see the marchers. (AP Wirephoto)

Several Might Claim First State University

By Dr. H. G. Jones
Written for the AP

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — What is the oldest state university in the United States? Tar Heels are quick to give the answer as the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. And they are right—provided the question is rephrased. Otherwise they may be challenged by Georgians, Pennsylvanians, and Vermonters.

The University of Georgia dates from 1784 when 40,000 acres of land were set aside by the legislature for the "endowment of a college or seminary of learning." The following year a legislative act "for the more full and complete establishment of a public seat of learning" was passed.

It is from this act that the University of Georgia gets its legitimate claim to being the oldest chartered state university in the United States. A site for the university, however, was not selected until 1801, and it was 1803 before the cornerstone of the first building was laid.

Vermont's constitution provided for a state university, and in 1789 Ira Allen, brother of Ethan Allen, offered 4,000 pounds for the establishment of a state university in Burlington. The offer was not accepted by the legislature, however, and it was not until 1791 that the University of Vermont was chartered. Even so, it was 1800 before the institution opened its doors.

The University of Pennsylvania has a complex history. The name, University of Pennsylvania, was coined in 1791, but the seal of the University bears the date 1740.

The latter date represents a meeting house and charity school which in 1753 was chartered as the Academy and Charitable School in the Province of Pennsylvania. It became a "college" two years later. The charter was revoked in 1779 and there was chartered instead a University of the State of Pennsylvania.

Ten years later the college was restored its rights and in 1791 was united with the University of the State of Pennsylvania under the name of the University of Pennsylvania. This name is misleading, however, because the institution was and still is essentially a private institution in its endowment and management.

North Carolina's constitution of 1776 directed that there be "one or more Universities." In 1784 William Sharpe of present-day Iredell County introduced a bill to charter a university, but it failed. It was in 1789 that the General Assembly passed William R. Davie's bill which chartered the University of North Carolina.

The cornerstone for the first building—Old East—was laid in 1793, and on January 15, 1795, Governor Richard Dobbs Spaight and several trustees officially opened the university.

It was not until February 12 that the first student, Hinton James of New Hanover County, arrived. Two weeks later several other students joined him and the University of North Carolina was in business.

An evaluation of the rival claims indicates that the University of Georgia was the first state university to be chartered, the University of North Carolina was the first state university to open its doors to students, the University of Vermont was late both in its charter and its opening, and the University of Pennsylvania appears to be ineligible for classification as a "state university" in the same sense that the term is applied to the other three.

U.S. Hospital Bed Count Low

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI) — West Germany has a hospital bed for every 90 citizens, says the Federal Statistical Office.

Only Sweden, Finland and Switzerland surpass the Germans. In the Soviet Union there are 92 citizens for every bed, in Italy 99, in Great Britain 101 and in the United States 120 Americans "share" a bed, the office said.

Shot During Store Holdup

WADESBORO, N.C. (AP)—The part owner of Deese's grocery and variety store in Wadesboro, 56-year-old Mrs. Sarah Deese, was shot and wounded during a robbery Thursday night, police report.

Memorial Hospital in Charlotte said she was in unsatisfactory condition.

Justices Lauded, Butz Knocked By Huddleston

By MARY NEWSOM
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Sen. Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., speaking in Raleigh Thursday night, praised Supreme Court decisions on school busing and the Watergate tapes and criticized Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz.

Huddleston was guest speaker at a $50-a-plate fundraising dinner for U.S. Senate candidate Robert Morgan.

At a news conference before the dinner, Huddleston and Morgan both expressed approval of Thursday's Supreme Court ruling that multidistrict integration plans may be imposed only where all districts involved fail to operate integrated school systems.

"I can't believe it's in the best interest for blacks or whites to look at a child and say, 'You have to go to this school because you're black or because you're white,'" Huddleston said.

"The whole idea of a pre-conceived ratio is not a solution," he said, and questioned whether cross-town busing would improve the quality of education in city schools.

Morgan agreed, saying, "I am basically opposed to the busing of school children to achieve racial balance."

"I don't see any real difference it's going to make in Southern school districts," Morgan said, but predicted it would affect some Northern districts.

Huddleston, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said Butz' decision to increase this year's tobacco allotments was unwise. "He took it against the advice of the Agriculture Committee," Huddleston said.

He commented on low prices at this year's flue-cured tobacco markets, attributing them to the increased allotment, the new marketing system and a longer marketing season this year.

"There are forces in Washington that would like to see the entire tobacco system eliminated," Huddleston said. "It's only through the efforts of delegations from agricultural states that we have been able to retain the present marketing methods."

Morgan was introduced at the dinner by Duke University President Terry Sanford, against whom Morgan campaigned vigorously in the 1960 gubernatorial campaign. Morgan was campaign manager for the unsuccessful 1960 gubernatorial campaign of I. Beverly Lake.

Morgan aides viewed Sanford's appearance as an attempt to show the state Democratic party, in the past troubled by factional disputes, is now behind its candidate.

Both Morgan and Huddleston expressed approval of Wednesday's Supreme Court decision ordering President Nixon to turn over 64 tape recordings as evidence to Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Power From New Dam In 5 Years

The project was begun April 1. It is expected to employ 4,600 workers.

Revised Brownbagging Rule Is Being Opposed

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Club owners are seeking to block enforcement of a new state regulation that could sharply curtail brownbagging at lounges across the state.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board adopted the regulation last month. It requires an establishment to have a five-day waiting period for membership in order to qualify as a private club. It is to go into effect Aug. 1. A lounge must have private club status in order to obtain a brownbagging permit.

Attorney Clayton Selvey Jr. said the injunction is being sought in Mecklenburg County Superior Court on behalf of 11 Charlotte clubs. "We hope to show the judge that our clients will suffer irreparable damage," if the regulation is enforced, he said.

The new ABC rule also forbids private clubs to advertise to the general public. Publicity is restricted to members only.

W. G. Maupin of Raleigh, director of enforcement for the ABC board, said the regulation is designed to prevent abuse of the private club status by "instant membership" establishments. He said some of the lounges in the state were converting to public operation with no brownbagging, while others were trying to comply.

Other ABC officials emphasized that the new regulation merely spells out what was the intent of brownbagging statutes all along.

The regulation exempts lounges in hotels and motels from the five-day waiting period. Registration at the hotel will be adequate for membership. Many hotels and motels have brownbagging permits in conjunction with restaurants, so can remain open to the public. Brownbagging regulations pertaining to restaurants have not been changed.

Club owners claim the two stipulations could cut their business in half.

Clay Sparrow, owner of Clay's Cue Lounge, and one of those represented in the suit, said 50 per cent of his customers are from out of town. He said other clubs have as much as 75 per cent transient business. The requirement that an applicant wait five days for membership would take a big bite out of such trade.

Jerry Baker, manager at Clay's, said the delay could cut back their business 40 to 45 per cent.

Kenny Barnhardt, manager of Paul's Lounge, said the ban on advertising would hurt his club more than the membership delay. He estimated the ban would cost them 30 to 35 per cent of their business.

Duke Rates Plan Upheld

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Utilities Commission has rejected a challenge to Duke Power Co.'s policy of raising its utility rates periodically to reflect increased coal prices.

The commission Thursday denied the motion by the North Carolina Textile Manufacturers Association, the attorney general, R. J. Reynolds Co. and Great Lakes Carbon Corp.

The challengers argued that state law forbids Duke from putting into effect any temporary increase greater than 20 per cent.

They charged that Duke's implementation of a proposed 16.8 per cent general rate increase now pending commission approval, plus the coal clause hike, resulted in a 25 per cent increase in residential power bills and a 30 per cent jump for businesses and industries.

The commission dismissed the arguments, saying the law in question referred only to unilateral rate hikes. It said it had earlier specifically granted Duke authority to impose the increase as coal costs rose.

It was the second time in more than a week that Duke's interim implementation of the coal clause has been upheld. The state Court of Appeals said last week it lacked the authority to declare the clause illegal.

The ruling means Duke may continue passing coal price increases along to its customers.

Fasting A Day For Each On Death Row

SPRING LAKE (AP)—John Butler of Spring Lake hasn't eaten for 12 days and he plans to keep fasting for 33 more.

That will add up to 45 days—one for every prisoner on death row at Central Prison in Raleigh.

Butler is protesting the death sentence in North Carolina, whose death row population is the highest of any state in the nation. He says his fast is a personal expression of his opposition to capital punishment.

Butler, 21, who works as a civil service warehouseman at nearby Ft. Bragg, says his daily diet consists of distilled water with the juice of four lemons per gallon, two tablespoons of honey and seaweed tablets.

"I feel great now," Butler says. "I was really hungry the first three days. Now the hunger's gone."

Butler says he got the idea for his personal protest after attending the July 4 death penalty march in Raleigh.

"The problem of the death penalty isn't just here (in North Carolina), but in the whole country," he says.

Butler's wife Beverly said that early in the fast, Butler would sit at the table when she was eating and would ask, "Is that good? Is it really good?"

"And I would say, 'Yeah.' But I realized I had to go ahead and eat. I wasn't fasting and he wasn't going to eat."

$10,000 For Her Recipe

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Fayne Lutz of Taos, N.M., won the $10,000 first prize Thursday in the 25th anniversary national chicken cooking contest with a hot Chinese chicken salad.

Dr. Harold Tara of Wayne, N.J., won second prize of $4,000 for his Persian chicken kabobs.

Mrs. Claude Swank of Cassopolis, Mich., won third prize of $3,000 for wine-glazed chicken and vegetables. Miss Cara Berggren of State College, Pa., won fourth and $2,000 for Lindos (a place in Greece) chicken.

Mrs. Charles Evans of Portland, Ore., was fifth, $1,000, for chicken with shrimp.

Mrs. Lutz, whose husband is a pilot, developed her recipe "while perfecting my stir-fry technique," and interest which started when she lived in Japan for two years.

Dr. Tara, a native of Iran, is a urological surgeon.

Mrs. Swank was a farm wife for 50 years and cooked for two girls and four boys. She now has 34 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. She is a seamstress and clerk in a dry cleaning company.

Miss Berggren developed her recipe when she was living in Greece. She is a free lance designer.

VEPCO To See Layoffs

MINERAL, Va. (AP)—Virginia Electric & Power Co. ordered the major contractor at its North Anna nuclear power plant site to begin laying off strike-idled workers Thursday.

Veeco said striking ironworkers have made it uneconomical to keep other employees on the job.

About 400 Stone and Webster Engineering Co. workers were laid off Thursday.

A Teamsters' official said the cutback will amount to about 95 per cent. He said only 150 to 200 workers out of 2,000 still will be on the job by Wednesday.

A Veeco spokesman said the order to start layoffs was given because of the "continued work stoppage caused by the strike."

Some 700 members of Richmond Ironworkers Local 28 walked off the job July 5 when their contract expired.

They set up picket lines a week later, and other craft unions have honored them.

The Teamsters struck the project June 24 but returned to work July 1.

Newspaper Staff Rejects Union

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — News and editorial staff members of the Winston-Salem Journal and the Twin City Sentinel rejected union representation by a vote of 49-28 Thursday.

The vote ended a six-month organizing effort by the International Mailers Union.

The union, which now represents the paper's mail room and service personnel, had conducted a low-key campaign, principally by mail.

The Third Eye Has A Function

SALVADOR, Brazil (UPI) — Scientists at the Federal University of Bahia have discovered that the third eye which several species of Brazilian reptiles possess is used to capture light and thermic radiations.

The third eye, which is found in various species of snakes and lizards, was previously thought to have no function at all.

Good And Bad

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Roeliff Pryor had some good news and some bad news awaiting her when she returned from vacation.

Good news: A North Carolina diner owner mailed a purse she left in his restaurant back to her with everything intact.

Bad news: While she was away, a burglar ransacked her home.

There was some good news in that, too. Her son interrupted the burglary and the thief only escaped with some cash.

Mrs. Pryor said she intends to repay the honest restaurant owner with a reward and the expenses for the mailing.

Interesting Facts

A friend of ours took a little survey, and, surprisingly, nobody got the right answer to this question:
 The question was: "Who makes a higher salary—a U.S. Senator or a member of the U.S. House of Representatives?"
 Everybody said Senator. But that's not true. Senators and Members of the House of Representatives all make exactly the same yearly salary, which is $42,500.
 And here's another interesting fact . . . You don't have to pay an outrageous price to get a nice home in a spacious country setting! Let us prove it to you by showing you this rambling ranch home on beautifully wooded lot with azaleas and tall pines. Over one full acre! 3 bedroom brick home with 2 full baths, double garage, family room with fireplace, living room, kitchen with appliances, carpeting, air, large sun porch with heat and air. Only $45,000, in The Pines. Ayden.

Mass Transit Bill Shapes Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — A six-year, $20 billion mass transit bill to subsidize both equipment costs of new systems and operating expenses of existing ones has cleared the House Public Works Committee.

Legislative leaders said they hoped to have the bill before the House prior to the anticipated impeachment tie-up at mid-August.

"This is the first major bill which funds mass transit as a matter of national policy," said Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., one of the leading backers of the bill.

The bill would provide 75 per cent federal funding for capital expenditures and 50 per cent federal funding for operating subsidies. Sponsors said it would triple the present federal funding.

Four categories are provided in the bill, with the bulk of the money, $10.8 billion, set aside for nine cities with massive rail systems already in place.

A mechanism was provided to enable other cities to become eligible for this money once they vote locally to adopt an area-wide transportation plan including construction of fixed guideway systems. This was specifically added to cover such cities as Los Angeles, which is under court order to adopt a broad-scale mass transit system and reduce its use of automobiles.

The cities already eligible for this money are San Francisco, Atlanta, Chicago, Baltimore, Boston, New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

A second category of between 240 and 270 cities with 50,000 population or more would be allotted $2.88 billion. This would be supplemented, on a city-by-city basis, by a third category of $5.4 billion that would be distributed at the discretion of the secretary of transportation.

A fourth category of $920 million would go to rural areas and cities under 50,000 population.

'Kept Going' By Playing Piano

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — He hunches over the battered old piano in concentration and music fills the auditorium. His left hand reaches over to help the fingers of his crippled right hand.

He is blind in one eye and his hearing is fading, but as his tennis shoes lightly touch the pedals, Robert Meyer colors the air with the concert melodies of Chopin and Bach. For variety he adds some folk songs and religious tunes.

Meyer, 53, is mentally retarded. He has spent the last 46 years in state mental institutions, the last 13 here at Fairview State Hospital.

"He just has the innate talent. He is a person who was born with music in him," says Anne Brooks, a psychiatric social worker and Fairview's music instructor.

"This is the only thing, really, that keeps him going," she says, applauding with two other persons in the hospital's 750-seat auditorium.

The echo of applause sounds in the auditorium and Mrs. Brooks asks Meyer to close his performance.

He agrees, offering one last number.

"This one is called 'The Missouri Waltz,' for my mother," Meyer explains.

"She was born in Missouri...." Meyer's mother was an accomplished musician and his musical love affair began at age four when he began plunking out tunes with one finger on an old keyboard.

In his younger days, when his fingers were less wrinkled and the music he memorized since early childhood came a bit more easily, Meyer was often a featured pianist at another state hospital before coming to Fairview.

When he finished his performance he was led away to Ward 26. He turned and asked quietly, "Will I be getting supper....?"

"He would have been a great musician if it wasn't for his condition," says Mrs. Brooks.

Consider Island For Airport

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The municipal government of Buenos Aires is studying a project for creating an artificial island in the River Plate estuary as the site for a new airport.

The airport would replace the Aeroparque facility near the downtown area, which handles passenger and cargo flights to the Argentine interior and neighboring countries.

The city's major international air facility is Ezeiza Airport, nearly 10 miles southeast of the city limits.

SUBMERGED TRAIL

REDDING, Calif. (UPI) — Four hundred feet below the surface of giant Lake Shasta north of here is the start of the famous Oregon trail up the Sacramento River Canyon. It was pioneered in 1834 by trapper Michael LaFramboise for the Hudson's Bay Co.
