Three More Counts Against Nixon Argued

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With approval of two broad impeachment articles behind it, the House Judiciary Committee turned today to debate three narrower charges against President Nixon.

The committee climaxed a 12-hour session Monday night by approving, 28 to 10, an article charging Nixon with violating his oath of office and his constitutional duties.

The President's failure to comply with Judiciary Committee subpoenas is the basis for a third impeachment article the committee is expected to approve, though by a smaller margin than Monday's vote.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., sponsor of the proposed article, predicted it would be approved 22 to 16. There is a chance that an article on Nixon's personal finances also will be approved.

The least chance for approval is given to an article charging that Nixon improperly ordered secret bombing of Cambodia during the Vietnam war.

Today's sixth day of nationally broadcast debate could be the panel's last.

McClory's swing to the pro-impeachment side Monday in the abuse of power debate produced the most one-sided substantive vote of the public deliberations.

Seven Republicans joined the 21 committee Democrats in support of the article, which many of them judged to be stronger than the obstruction of justice article approved Saturday, 27-11.

"Just as a consistent abuse of power holds more danger for the republic than a single criminal act, so is this a far more serious charge than in the article already adopted," said Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., a leading supporter of Article II.

Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., called the committee's action "a victory for justice" and said history may compare it to the challenge of the English barons that led to the signing of the Magna Carta in 1215, a milestone in the growth of political liberty in England.

President Nixon's supporters on the panel viewed the proceedings darkly. "I'm deeply concerned for the future of the presidency," said Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., said the committee was taking a step toward parliamentary government by basing impeachment on so vague a charge as abuse of presidential power.

But the Democrats and Republicans supporting the article said the offenses charged against Nixon were so serious they threatened the freedom of the American people.

Article II is based on the oath a President takes to faithfully execute his office and to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution, and on the duty the Constitution imposes on him to see that the laws are faithfully executed.

It charges Nixon with violating both his oath and his constitutional duties by misusing the Internal Revenue Service, authorizing illegal wiretaps, establishing a secret investigative unit in the White House that engaged in unlawful activities and interfering with investigations of the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

"We came perilously close to losing our basic freedoms," said Rep. Paul S. Sarbanes, D-Md., in a final round of debate before the vote. "And it is for that reason we must act affirmatively tonight."

During the long day and night of debate on the article, Nixon's supporters insisted there either was no evidence linking the President to the illegal acts charged, or that the acts were justified by national security considerations.

The article covers acts by Nixon's subordinates, as well as his own, a provision challenged by Wiggins as attempting to hold Nixon responsible for the misdeeds of others.

But McClory, citing the score of former White House and Nixon re-election campaign officials either in prison or under indictment, said Nixon could not escape responsibility.

"A President can only act through his subordinates," McClory said. "The question is, is he tolerating, has he tolerated this kind of conduct in and around the White House?"

Much of the debate centered on the establishment of the plumbers investigative unit in the White House, which Nixon's defenders said was entirely justified by national security concerns caused by Daniel Ellsberg's leaking of the Pentagon Papers.

Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., said that between the administration's wiretapping of private citizens and the operations of the plumbers unit, "the Nixon White House made the secret police a reality in the United States."

The third article to be proposed also is based on Nixon's oath of office and constitutional requirement to see that the laws are faithfully executed.

It states that he "has failed without lawful cause or excuse to produce papers and things as directed by duly authorized subpoenas..." The committee issued eight subpoenas calling for tapes of 147 conversations. It received edited transcripts of 42 conversations.

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

BELL ARTHUR, NOT ARTHUR

The new minister for Bell Arthur United Methodist Church said he thought he was in the wrong place when he began seeing signs giving the distance to "Arthur" near here. This community was chartered as Bell Arthur. I would like to see the highway signs corrected. Mrs. C.S.

Your request got action. Division of Highways Engineer C.W. Snell had the signs at each town limits changed almost immediately. Hotline has held off printing the item, thinking the distance paddles such as the one on the Stantonsburg Road (State Road 1200) would be changed, also as a result of your request. A recent call to the Division of Highways Engineer Gerald England revealed, however, that the 'e' signs will be replaced only as they wear out, according to state regulations.

STORM WINDOWS IN

I bought some storm windows from Wickes last October and paid with BankAmericard. One specially-sized window has not been installed yet, and several others were incorrectly installed. I keep calling them, but have got no favorable results. Mrs. W.D.

Wickes' assistant manager John Cochran, said your specially-ordered storm window to fit a picture window has been back-ordered since October. It was made up once, he said, and mislabeled to Greenville, S.C. It was then reordered, and it came in Monday.

You reported less than a week after Hotline's call that all your storm windows are nicely installed.

SERVICE DEPT. FIXED IT

We had a swimming pool installed by the Nationwide Pool Co. of Virginia Beach, Va. about five months ago. We've had problems with it since it was installed—the water stays cloudy and now it is leaking around the filter. My husband has called the company but we can't seem to get any results. Mrs. S.K.

A serviceman visited you a few days after Hotline contacted the company. A spokesman for Nationwide indicated they had only one reported service complaint from you and said a representative of the company had called on you to replace a filter in connection with this complaint.

You indicated you had tried to get in touch with the salesman to try and solve your problems, while the spokesman stated the salesman was in Florida and that your phone calls may have been left as messages for the salesman, when they should have been routed to the service department.

Board Chairman Asks Att'y General Ruling ECU Med School Shakeup Under Fire

RALEIGH (AP)—Chairman Robert L. Jones of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees said today he is asking the state attorney general for a ruling on the legal status of the ECU medical school.

Jones said he decided to seek the ruling as the result of a recent memorandum from UNC President William C. Friday which placed the ECU medical school under the direction of Dr. Christopher Fordham, dean of the UNC medical school.

The ECU board chairman confirmed a charge by Rep. Horton Rountree, D-Pitt, that present leadership of the one-year medical school at ECU is being shunted aside.

Rountree said Dean Wallace Wooles of the ECU medical school will be relegated to chairman of the Department of Pharmacology and Dr. Edwin Monroe, vice chancellor for health affairs at ECU, will oversee only health education programs that do not train physicians.

"I would like to know if the legislature intended for there to be a typical two-year medical school program at ECU or if the intent was to make ECU a component branch of the medical school at Chapel Hill," Jones said. He said that "except for maintenance and custodial services" the ECU administration has nothing to do with its medical school under the Friday memorandum.

Jones said he also would ask the attorney general who would have charge of spending $15 million appropriated by the General Assembly for a new basic sciences building for the ECU medical school and for operation of the school.

Rountree said Moore and Wooles will be replaced by a medical director appointed by Fordham and responsible only to him.

"They (the Chapel Hill officials) are taking over completely. A lot of legislators are upset about it," said Rountree, who spearheaded the successful 1974 legislative drive to force the Board of Governors to expand the ECU school.

Fordham declined to discuss the substance of Rountree's predictions, but said he and ECU chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins have been discussing future plans for the medical school. However, no final decisions have been made on personnel, Fordham said.

Knowledgeable sources at ECU confirmed Rountree's comments. UNC President William Friday said Monday he had not heard of any decisions made by Fordham regarding ECU personnel.

Friday, at the last meeting of the UNC Board of Governors, said medical accreditation officials had told him that expansion of the ECU medical school had to be done under the aegis of medical school at UNC-Chapel Hill.

He said then that he was asking Fordham to direct the planning and implementation of the expansion and to appoint the director at Greenville. The director has not yet been named.

Rountree said ECU officials hoped that Wooles or Monroe would be named director. That will not happen, he said.

Wooles, 43, has been dean at ECU since 1970. He holds the tenured rank of professor of pharmacology and could not be fired from that job. His position as dean has no tenure, however. He could not be reached Monday for comment.

The 1974 legislature directed that the medical school class size at ECU be increased from 20 students to 40 and that the curriculum be expanded from one to two years.

Rep. Rountree Believes Cromartie Tapped New Med School Director

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

N.C. Rep. Horton Rountree said today he believes UNC Med-School Dean Christopher Fordham will appoint Dr. William Cromartie as the new director of the ECU Med-School.

Cromartie is the liaison between the ECU-UNC medical schools.

Rountree was the source of a news report yesterday which indicated that Fordham intended to push aside the present ECU Med-School heads and appoint a director from the UNC campus.

According to a memorandum from UNC President William Friday dated July 16, Fordham was appointed over-all head of the ECU program with the authority to appoint a full-time director who would hold the position of associate dean with the UNC Medical School.

According to Rountree, Dr. R. Wallace Wooles, present Dean of the ECU program would be appointed head of the pharmacology program and Dr. Edwin Monroe, present Vice-Chancellor of Health Affairs would be head of Health Affairs in charge of paramedical programs. Those programs are not related to the direct training of doctors.

Rountree said this morning "They (UNC) have taken it upon themselves to completely merge this school with UNC-Chapel Hill... this is not the intent of the General Assembly."

The Liaison Committee on Medical Education, representing the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical Assoc. and the Association of American Medical Colleges reported on April 9, 1973 to Friday that... administrative leadership at ECU is not strong nor experienced by the usual academic standards and does not provide the strengths a newly developed program should have."

This statement came from a 29-page report which dealt with both the UNC and ECU medical programs.

Seventeen pages of the report dealt specifically with the ECU program.

Rountree disagrees. "I think they are mistaken. They started in 1969 with 379,000... they appointed Dr. Wooles in 1970 and they have progressed to the point that all graduates have gone to the University and passed their work."

A Compromise

By The Associated Press

Turkey and Greece have reached a compromise agreement in principle for ending their military showdown on Cyprus, a spokesman for the Turkish delegation to the Geneva peace talks reported today.

He predicted the accord would be signed this afternoon. But Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros told newsmen that, while he is hopeful, there were still a number of problems to resolve before a truce could be signed.

The Turkish spokesman said the exact wording of the agreement was being worked out, including a compromise on the potentially explosive issue of Turkish troop withdrawals. He indicated the Turks would agree to wording in the agreement that would speak of Turkish troop reductions, rather than withdrawals.

A Greek delegate said, however, that the new Turkish formula commits the Ankara government to withdraw its invasion force when a final political settlement is reached on the Mediterranean island. The Turkish military presence thereby would be officially defined as temporary, thus saving the Greeks face.

Once an interim military agreement is concluded in Geneva, the Cyprus peace talks will be able to advance to a second stage to deal with the island republic's political future. This would include an overhauling of the Cyprus constitution as well as the 1960 agreement whereby Greece, Turkey and Britain guaranteed Cyprus independence.

Patrick G. Ross New City Finance Officer

Patrick G. Ross, County Auditor for New Hanover County, has been appointed Finance Officer for the City of Greenville, according to an announcement by City Manager Bill Carstarphen.

The position of city finance officer was created by the City Council following the retirement of William Moore as city clerk-treasurer.

Carstarphen explained that City Council action centralized overall financial management responsibilities for the city in one position appointed by the city manager.

Ross has served as county auditor for New Hanover County since November of 1972. He has more than 12 years of experience in local government finance within North Carolina, having served as a systems accountant with the North Carolina Local Government Commission and as finance director in Gastonia and Shelby.

In announcing Ross' appointment, Carstarphen described him as "a veteran public finance official whose financial ability is well known and respected throughout North Carolina. We are extremely pleased that Pat Ross has accepted the job as Greenville's first fulltime finance officer. He will bring with him the experience and ability with which we can continue to strengthen and improve our financial management program," the city manager added.

Carstarphen said that under Ross' leadership, New Hanover County recently converted its accounting operation to the new Uniform Governmental Accounting System, began use of the encumbrance accounting method, and is now developing a five-year Capital Improvements Program Budget.

Ross holds a B.S. degree in accounting from the Benjamin Franklin Institute of Washington, D.C.

He will assume his new position here on Sept. 3, Carstarphen reported. The finance officer's position carries a salary range of from $14,269 to $18,212 per year.

Miss Donna Sue Stokes Is Bride He Was Rude And Childish, You Were Rude, Insensitive

AYDEN—Miss Donna Sue Stokes became the bride of Duane David Gwyn Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in a candlelight ceremony in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Gilbert Mister performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial wedding music was presented by Mrs. Glenn L. Swanson, organist, and James S. Page, soloist, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper F. Stokes and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Gwyn.

The chancel of the church was decorated with a fifteen branch candelabra, centered by a basket of white gladioli, mums, and pom poms, flanked by palm trees and seven branch candelabra filled with greenery. Pews were marked by white satin bows and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white satepeau, which featured a sheer yoke, trumpet sleeves, and attached chapel length train. Re-embroidered Venise lace and daisy medallions of matching fabric adorned the highrise bodice accentuating the neckline, sleeves and the A-line silhouette skirt, which was edged in a ruffle flounce. Her bridal headpiece was a wide-brim picture hat of nylon lace braid with satin band and back streamers which accented tiers of nylon illusion flowing to the waistline. She carried a colonial style bouquet of pink roses, white pom poms and baby's breath.

The maid of honor was Miss Jackie Stokes, sister of the bride. She was attired in a formal gown of rose print polyester organza. The sleeveless bodice featured a scooped ruffled neckline accentuated with a cumberbund of hot pink organza and a deep, ruffled flounce enhanced the flared skirt. She wore a white garden hat trimmed in hot pink ribbon to complement her gown. Her bouquet was a nosegay of pink and white pom poms, centered with carnations tied with pink and white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Terry Gwyn of New York City, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Diane Brown. They wore gowns and hats identical to that of the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Stevie Bright and Charles Smith.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Wesley Gooding.

The mother of the bride chose a street length dress, styled with butterfly sleeves and a highrise belted bodice, of hot pink polyester and chiffon with matching accessories and wore a white cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother selected a champagne nyesta dress, styled with three-quarter length sleeves and an open mandarin collar, with matching accessories. She carried a white cymbidium orchid pinned to her purse.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper F. Stokes, parents of the bride, entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stillman greeted guests and Mrs. Robert Harris presided at the register.

The refreshment table was covered with a white satin cloth with lace border and panels and was centered with a six branch candelabra arrangement of pink carnations interspersed with white pom poms.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. W.D. Johnson, Mrs. William P. Shelton, Mrs. Oscar H. Brown, and Mrs. Louise Moseley.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Stroud.

For traveling the bride chose a yellow, three-piece pant suit with matching accessories. She wore her mother's corsage to complement her outfit.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden High and earned her B.S. degree in elementary education from East Carolina University.

The bridegroom graduated from Frederick Military School and received his degree in electrical engineering Technology from Gaston College. He is employed by Bryant-Durham Electrical Co. After a wedding trip to Williamsburg, the couple will reside in Durham.

A bridesmaids luncheon was given by Mrs. Oscar H. Brown Saturday at the Holiday Inn, Greenville. The bride-elect presented gifts to her attendants.

Other guests present were Mrs. Jasper F. Stokes, mother of the bride, Mrs. Harvey W. Gwyn, mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Jesse C. Moore, aunt of the bride.

Following the rehearsal, the Gwyn-Stokes wedding party was honored at a dinner party Saturday night at the Ayden Golf and Country Club.

Hosts and hostesses were: Mrs. Louise Moseley; Mrs. William P. Shelton; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Gooding; Mr. and Mrs. W.D. Johnson; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stillman; Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Stroud; Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Taylor; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harris.

Immediately following the dinner party, the parents of the bridegroom entertained the bridal party and guests with a champagne party at the Ayden Golf and Country Club.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we invited some friends to dinner. I'll call them "Mr. and Mrs. X." Our TV was on when they arrived because we had been watching it before they drove up.

Mr. X told us on a previous occasion that he didn't care to have the TV on while he was trying to converse, but we forgot to turn it off. We had one cocktail, and the TV was still on, but we were also visiting.

Mr. X then said he had come to see US, and he thought it was rude to keep the TV on. A few minutes later he got up and went outside. Mrs. X said he probably wanted to walk around the yard. Then she went out to check on him and she returned saying their car was gone and so was he!

Mr. X didn't return, so we ate without him. Later when we took Mrs. X home, she thanked us for the lovely evening. My husband says if Mr. X calls to apologize, he won't even speak to him.

Abby, this really puzzled me.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Why? Mr. X told you quite candidly that he was irritated by your TV, but you ignored him. Finally he reached the end of his patience and took his leave, which was rude and childish. But you were rude and insensitive.

Better x the "X's" off your list, because they probably have x'd you off theirs.

DEAR ABBY: That wife who griped because her husband came back home in an amorous mood after driving the kids to school ought to have her head examined. (She said that was no time for love-making.)

What better time? No kids to worry about, make all the noise you want, and have a ball!

The other morning, my husband kissed me goodbye at the door before going to work. I responded with an affectionate bear hug. Two minutes later, as I was pouring myself another cup of coffee, here comes old Romeo back again, grinning.

He was a little late for the office that morning, but so what? I'm thrilled that he can still get that excited about me after 29 years. He's 69, and I'm 53.

LUCKY ME

DEAR ABBY: A wife complains that her husband comes home after he takes the kids to school, expecting her to make the bedroom scene with him. And the dummy is annoyed yet, because she has housework to do!

Your advice: "The housework will keep. Shoot the ducks while they're flying," was right on target.

The season never closes on ducks here. And no non-resident permits allowed.

J.E.J., MANHATTAN BEACH, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to that Ph.D who claimed he had traveled all over the world and had been in the company of ambassadors, etc., and that he didn't know what R.S.V.P. meant: Everybody knows it means "Rented suits very proper."

C. FELTON: ALHAMBRA, CAL.

CONFIDENTIAL TO K.O.: If you're serious about organizing a girls' boxing team in high school this fall, you'd better plan on providing them with some sort of artificial padding to protect their natural padding. Girls need to be protected in certain anatomical areas the same as men, albeit different areas.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclosed stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

You're looking at a woman who hasn't been liberated too long—a week ago last Thursday to be exact.

Who knows why it took me so long to be converted, except I'm your average housewife who is a product of the 1950s. And as my liberated neighbor, Wanda, pointed out, these were insufferable times for women. We ate frozen waffles, bought store-bought Christmas cards, painted by numbers and covered our furniture with Con-Tac. Aprons were nothing more than a piece of concrete at the end of the driveway.

But as Wanda pointed out a week ago last Thursday, "You can't go on living your life vicariously through Sara Lee and Col. Sanders. You're a person and a creative one at that. You have to create a role for yourself, one that you can be proud of. Aren't you tired of being a sex object?"

(Would you excuse me a moment? I think my ceramic Madonna is burning in the kiln.)

Where was I? Oh yes, creating a role for myself. Wanda said I'd have to get into knitting needles and needlepoint as a way of expression. Personally, I have always felt if the Good Lord had meant for needles to be invented, he would never have given us bare feet, but it did prove to be an extension of me I had never known. I crocheted three chignon caps and when my hair grows out I'll have the warmest chignon in town.

(Hang on, I think my homemade yogurt is ready to take out of the warmer.)

Wanda was the first to help me grind flour in preparation for my first loaf of home-baked bread. It not only broadened my world, but you wouldn't believe what it did for my hips.

(Oh, good grief. You know what I smelled? It wasn't the Madoona in the kiln, it was the wax for the Batik wall hanging I'm making. I guess it's like tie die—you ruin a lot of stuff before you become fulfilled.)

Wanda called yesterday just as I was pouring the candle wax into a milk carton. "Just checking on you," she laughed. "According to our time schedule, you have a job interview for this afternoon, a course in auto mechanics this evening, you picket a beauty pageant tomorrow morning and strip the paint off your dresser and start your organic gardening tomorrow afternoon."

I'm glad Wanda called. Sometimes, I get very morose remembering how I used to be when I was a pampered, indulged sex object.

State Award Presented VFW Auxiliary

A report on the 42nd annual convention held recently in Charlotte was given at the meeting of the VFW Auxiliary Thursday night.

The local auxiliary received an award for giving the most money to the scholarship fund at the VFW National Home for Orphans. A certificate was also presented to the group for their all state programs.

Those attending the convention from here were Carrie West, Myrtle Weeks, Ruth Evans and Marjorie Angstadt. At the convention, Mrs. Mitchell Shook of Newton was elected state president.

The district meeting will be held Aug. 4 in Washington.

The local auxiliary will join District 2 in giving birthday gifts and a party to the patients in Veterans Hospital, Fayetteville, Wednesday.

An outdoor supper will be held Thursday night, Aug. 29, with the Post Members and families of VFW.

After the meeting, refreshments were served by Rosa Lee Williams.

Men Top Heads With Girl Hair

LONDON, England WNS—Many of the handsomest male heads in Great Britain are now topped with women's hair. Such is the report of Norman Abraham, who imports the hair of girls from Red China to produce the best man's hairpieces. "Supplies from traditional sources in Italy and Spain are now running short, reported Abraham. "And the ladies of Cathay, who produce beautiful crops, won't cut their hair until they are married." He added that the Peking toupes of feminine hair for male heads "look as though somebody has been scalped, they are so realistic."

PICNIC LOAF

Carry it to an outing in its foil pan.

1 1/2 cups flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 and 1/3 cups sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk
Grated rind of 1 lemon
1 cup chopped (medium-fine) pecans or walnuts
Juice of 1 lemon
Stir together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter and 1 cup of the sugar; beat in eggs, one at a time, then the milk and lemon rind. Add flour mixture; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened; fold in nuts. Turn into a greased foil loaf pan (about 8 by 4 by 2 1/2 inches). Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 55 to 60 minutes. Stir together the remaining 1/3 cup sugar and the lemon juice; as soon as loaf comes out of the oven pour the lemon mixture over the top. Cool in pan. Loosen edges. Carry the loaf to a picnic in its foil pan with a sharp knife for slicing.

Tobacco Farmers Seek $3 Billion In Damages

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Charging attempts to restrain competition in tobacco sales, six Kentucky farmers are seeking almost $3 billion in damages from seven major tobacco firms.

The class-action suit, filed in U.S. District Court here Sunday, seeks the judgment on behalf of the 400,000 burley farmers in the eight-state Burley Belt.

The action contends that the tobacco firms have "attempted to restrict, eliminate, suppress and restrain competition."

The farmers seek $936,600,000 in actual damages, but seek to recover triple that amount as punitive damages.

The suit alleges the tobacco companies "unlawfully combined and conspired in the restraint of interstate and foreign trade in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act."

Firms named as defendants: American Brands, Inc.; Brown & Williamson Inc.; Liggett & Myers Inc.; Lowes Theater-Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris Inc.; R. J. Reynolds Industries Inc., and Southwestern Tobacco Inc.

The suit also charges that the tobacco firms attempted to "fix, establish, maintain, control manipulate and tamper with prices paid for burley tobacco."

Joseph Arnold, Lexington attorney representing the plaintiffs, said Monday that the suit, if successful, would result in return to each burley farmer a sum proportionate to the poundage he raised over the past five tobacco seasons.

Arnold said the burley auction "is not auction at all. At least we contend that it is prearranged allocation" of tobacco among the buying companies.

Arnold said the amount sought in the suit was computed on the theory that farmers lost 30 to 35 cents per pound over the past five years as a result of the alleged actions by the tobacco firms. Arnold said farmers sold an average of about 535 million pounds per year over the period. Sunday after he heard a similar suit was expected to be filed in Georgia regarding alleged market irregularities in the flue-cured market. He said he was afraid the Georgia suit might include burley and added: "We didn't want the burley people to be tried down there."

Last year, Kentucky burley farmers complained that the traditional auction sales system had been replaced by an allocation system, and the charges triggered several investigations by federal and state agencies. Several investigations are still underway.

Arnold said he expects the court to direct how the 400,000 burley farmers would be notified of the suit, in accordance with a recent Supreme Court ruling requiring persons filing class-action suits to notify persons in the class on whose behalf the suit is filed.

half the suit is filed.

He said he hoped such notification could come about through newspaper advertisement.

The six farmers filing the suit are Hampton H. Henton, Hardin Field III, Tavner Dunlap Jr., Hardin Field IV and James W. Laughlin of Woodford County, and L. M. Scott of Hustonville in Lincoln County.

Besides Kentucky, the states in the Burley Belt are Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Missouri.

Guns, Call-Girls Said Exported

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guns and call girls have been smuggled out of the country to fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco and his associates in Costa Rica, according to information obtained by government investigators.

Sources said the weapons and prostitutes were flown to Costa Rica on a private Lear jet owned by Vesco associate Thomas P. Richardson, the head of a Los Angeles brokerage firm and a self-described close personal friend of Vesco.

The weapons, described as "enough guns for a small army," reportedly were used to arm Vesco's bodyguards, one source said Monday.

According to the sources, President Nixon's nephew, Donald F. Nixon Jr., an employee of Vesco, since 1971, also is believed to be in Costa Rica with Vesco.

Vesco fled the country after being indicted on charges stemming from a secret $200,000 contribution he made to Nixon's re-election campaign in an alleged attempt to influence an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Evidence of the smuggling operation could be used to extradite Vesco from his hideaway, the sources said. The U.S. Customs Services has acknowledged it is investigating possible violations by Vesco associates of the so-called neutrality act, which bans illegal exportation of arms and ammunition to other countries.

The call girls reportedly flown to Costa Rica were procured by a Los Angeles madam who uses the name Betty Alexander, according to one source. Police sources in Los Angeles confirmed federal law enforcement agents are searching for Miss Alexander.

During hearings last week by the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee, Richardson denied knowledge of his plane's whereabouts, saying it was leased to a firm called Connex Press Inc.

Busing Questions Still There

Last week the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that students should not be bused across district lines to achieve school desegregation.

The ruling came in a Detroit school case and the court turned down a bussing plan which would have mixed the predominately black school population of Detroit with the mostly white students of the suburbs.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said of such a plan, "Specifically it must be shown that racially discriminatory acts of the state or local school districts, or of a single school district, have been a substantial cause of inter-district segregation."

As with most such landmark decisions, it will be years before its legal impact on court ordered bussing to achieve integration is fully apparent.

For many southern school districts, where the busing was carried out within districts anyway, there will be no effect in the near future.

The closeness of the Supreme Court decision, a 5-4 vote, could mean that one of the majority justices could join the minority if he determines on a case involving a specific city that a discriminatory pattern does exist. Thus city-by-city cases likely will continue to be fought through the courts.

In the meantime, though, we still thave the fact that racial minorities by the thousands are locked into segregated schools formed by the boundary lines of many American cities.

If racially balanced schools provide better educations for minorities anywhere in the nation, the same would be true for the minority kids in the ghettos. The legal issue may be settled but the moral question is still there.

Desperately Hope The Senator Proves Right

Sen. Barry Goldwater sees a silver lining in Watergate.

It is the "best cleanser for this country ever," he said in a Greensboro speech.

Sen. Goldwater expects the country to "come out of the present mess in better shape than ever before."

That's pretty much a silver lining approach to the Watergate mess, but we desperately hope the senator is correct.

THIS AFTERNOON

Synthetic Leaf Danger

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr., has raised the question of the threat of synthetic tobacco products to North Carolina's number-one cash crop.

Tobacco experts in agriculture and industry, however, poo-poo the prospect of any threat to the health of King Tobacco.

The heart of the argument is the foundation of North Carolina's economy, a crop of tobacco which this year will likely be over 850 million pounds and pump between $700 million and $725 million into the pockets of tobacco people across the state. Additionally, a large segment of the industrial community depends on tobacco; the state leads the world in cigarette manufacturing.

Here is the way the governor views the agricultural situation, as contained in his comments recently in a section of new policy guidelines for coming years:

"Potential development of a synthetic substitute for tobacco poses no threat to manufacturing employment," the report said.

Farm Impact
"But its impact on farmers suggests a need to diversify agricultural output. State research and marketing organizations must accelerate their efforts to introduce new crops, explore alternative production methods, and pursue sales to foreign consumers."

Close aides to Gov. Holshouser, involved in drawing up the report, are quick to point out that the statement on tobacco is meant to be a look far down the road, and does not represent the idea that any immediate threat exists.

Nevertheless, when asked where the information developed, sources insist that the assessment is based on accurate information from industry people.

The governor's remarks on the future of tobacco are contained in a section of his policy report devoted to agriculture, and must be taken in the context of an overview of this field generally. The report spells out population growth and economic-export pressures which mean that "North Carolina's agricultural profile is likely to change during the next decade in response to these new influences."

"The new market emphasis on protein-intensive products, such as soybeans, is of obvious importance to a state which has historically relied on tobacco as its chief cash crop." Then follows the remarks on synthetic tobacco products as a threat.

Manufacturing
Currently, two films are engaged in research and manufacture of synthetic tobacco materials: Imperial Chemicals, and its subsidiary unit Imperial Tobaccos, is building a plant in Scotland to manufacture a product labeled NSM (which stands for New Smoking Material); and Celanese Corporation has researched in Charlotte and is building a plant in Cumberland, Maryland, to produce Cytrel.

In both instances, the product market is directed at Great Britain, the synthetic material would constitute filler only—making up between 20 and 40 percent of a cigarette, and production by 1976 is geared to the neighborhood of nine million pounds per year by Celanese, about the same amount by Imperial.

That amount, experts at the N. C. Department of Agriculture argue, is a drop the bucket to a worldwide production total of 1.3 BILLION pounds of fluecured tobacco.

A spokesman for one of the synthetics manufacturers said the product is "not a hell of a threat to tobacco," and pointed to these reasons for his assessment: There is a worldwide shortage of good tobacco already; nobody wants a completely synthetic cigarette, only a blend; no really good claim can be made that the synthetics would be safer from a health standpoint; many consumers would still insist on a pure tobacco product; and commercial quantities of the synthetic are still years away—and then only in Great Britain.

State agricultural experts dismiss the governor's contention offhandedly, calling the whole debate "academic", and the state's leading tobacco expert—marketing chief Jessie T. Bunn—says a synthetic product will be used only as filler, and that "neutral tobaccos from foreign markets is being used for that purpose anyway."

"But as to what a smoker wants in a cigarette: good taste, aroma, and nicotine—only good quality, flue-cured tobacco grown in this country can produce that," Bunn said.

The INSIDE REPORT

Nixon Loyalists Fading

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Deeperening Republican malaise as the impeachment of President Nixon impends in the House transformed a private strategy session by conservative Republican Congressmen into an angry recital of complaints against both the White House and their own leaders.

The rebellion came not from anti-Nixon mugwumps but from the President's loyalist hardcore: the conservative Republican House faction headed by Rep. Sam Devine of Ohio and now known as "The Good Guys." Meeting for dinner Tuesday night (July 23) at the Marriott Twin Bridges Hotel in neighboring Alexandria, Va., The Good Guys turned on presidential counselor Dean Burch and—with much greater intensity—the highly respected House Republican leader, Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona.

Thus, seemingly monolithic support for Mr. Nixon by conservative Republicans is evaporating with the plunge in the President's prospects. There now are far fewer pro-Nixon enthusiasts and a growing body of potential pro-impeachment votes among The Good Guys. What this portends for the House impeachment vote and the Senate trial beyond it menaces Mr. Nixon's chances for survival.

The intended feature of Tuesday night's dinner was a panel discussion, featuring minority leader Rhodes and counselor Burch, on the 1974 election. But many members really expected a pep rally for the President.

The timing was inauspicious. Shortly before their dinner, the conservatives had been stunned when one of their own—Rep. Lawrence Hogan of Maryland—declared himself for impeachment. They had just been outraged by news that President Nixon was reneging on his pledge to veto a bill providing legal services for the poor, a major symbol for the right, and now planned to sign the bill. These aggravations were intensified by generous applications of alcohol before dinner.

That cocktail hour included much gubbling. Some Good Guys complained Rhodes had not been steadfast enough in defending the President. But many more conservatives groused that Rhodes, traveling the country to raise congressional campaign funds, is not around the House enough.

Thus, when the panel discussion began, Rhodes was subjected to rough questioning by liquor-emboldened colleagues. "In all my years," one amazed conservative told us, "I've never quite seen anything so wild." Rhodes, his face flushed, responded in kind with barbed comments that did not improve the climate.

When one colleague chided Rhodes for not answering Speaker Carl Albert's House speech attacking the Nixon administration's economic policy, the minority leader snapped back that the questioner could do it himself. When another colleague asked about plans for fighting impeachment, Rhodes retorted that the questioner

VIRTUE MORE THAN THE ABSENCE OF VICE

Mark Twain's minister once asked him what he knew about a certain man who had recently moved into the community in which Twain was regularly attending church. The great humorist's reply was, "I have been sitting behind him in church now for about six months, and so far I have never seen him take anything out of the collection plate."

Twain's reply makes plain again that virtue is much more than the absence of vice. He is not necessarily an honest man who has never been caught stealing. Honesty is a quality which can only be recognized in action. The honest man conducts his affairs with certain principles of integrity even if these principles cause him sacrifice or loss. The pure in heart are those who not only abstain from vice but love virtue. The compassionate are those who not only abhor cruelty but immediately take steps to help the victims of cruelty. Truly religious people are those who not only show interest in religious and church affairs but who use religion to remold their lives.

Mistake Is Unanimous

The Supreme Court was unanimous last week. In my own view at least, it was unanimously wrong. By asserting the power of a judge to impose his will upon a president, the court struck a blow at the fundamental doctrine of separation of powers. In the midst of the jubilation singing, let me sound a low, bass growl of dissent.

We are dealing here, it should be emphasized, largely with constitutional theory. It is highly improbable that the court's opinion will have great value as a direct precedent in the future. The extraordinary circumstances of U.S. v. Nixon are not likely to recur any time soon.

Even so, it is important to defend theory and to argue principle. The doctrine of separation of powers holds that the federal executive, legislative, and judicial branches are coequals. While the Supreme Court has authority "to say what the law is" and to pronounce executive or legislative acts unconstitutional, the doctrine is bound to decay if any branch can impose its will upon another by what amounts to force majeure.

The key point in this regrettable litigation is that the defendant, in effect, was the President himself. Our system of checks and balances is not offended by suits against executive agencies or lower officials. Indeed, both custom and law recognize the validity of individual claims against the government. It is the "unique singularity" of the president himself—this one person in this one office—that makes all the difference. If there is to be continuity in the office of the presidency, presidents cannot be subject to the commands of judges.

The question is a question of power. Here a federal judge named John Sirica has asserted power to impose his will upon a President named Richard Nixon. The Supreme Court has upheld that power. Under the asserted power, this President must turn over to this judge certain confidential papers; and this judge, at his sole discretion, is to examine and to make public whatever material this judge deems relevant to a criminal proceeding.

Plainly, if the power exists as to this judge and this President, it exists hereafter as to every federal judge and every president. And because the due process requirements of the Sixth Amendment have been held applicable to the states through the Fourteenth Amendment, the power must exist as to thousands of state and local judges also. If the subpoena power can compel a president to surrender documents, the power can compel a president to testify in person. By extension, the power must embrace the further power to imprison a disobedient president for contempt. Once such powers

Bitter Strain Shows

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The words were different. The mood was different. The sense of history had changed. But the result was the same. The House Judiciary Committee once more accused Richard Nixon of failing the nation's trust.

On Saturday, the strain showed as a committee of the nation's representatives voted to recommend the ouster of a President for only the second time in the annals of the republic.

It was bitter medicine, even for those who fought hardest to bring the charges that added up to obstruction of justice by the nation's highest elected official.

Although the routine was the same on Monday—an exhausting, often eloquent and sometimes bitterly resigned debate—there was little of the drama, none of the tears.

One more congressman, Republican Robert McClory of Illinois, joined the impeachment forces to make it 28-10. Even that was no surprise. He'd said all along he felt the President had not carried out the laws faithfully.

Article II charges abuse of power.

One Democrat, Rep. Walter Flowers of Alabama, called it an offense even more serious than obstruction of justice.

Another Southerner, Rep. James R. Mann, D-S.C., had cried when he voted for the first article.

Now, speaking of the second, he said softly:

"If there be no accountability, another President can see fit to do as he chooses and the next time there may be no watchman in the night."

On Saturday there had been suspense, even with a certain outcome. On Monday some congressmen spoke of victory.

"Most Americans recognize what those words really meant and who they were directed at," said Rep. Charles B. Rangel, a Harlem Democrat. The Article II vote, he hoped, "will restore some of the original meaning," and added:

"We have established some law and order to the presidency of the United States ... the President of the United States did not only disregard the law, but feared the law ... I'm satisfied he will have a fair hearing in the House of Representatives and a fair trial in the Senate to prove that the system can work. Indeed, it will be a victory of law and order."

Even though they had lost the big fight on the first article, there was no letting down by the President's supporters on the committee, all Republicans. Rep. Charles E. Wiggins of California said the President should not be charged with his secret investigative unit's excesses when he did not learn about them until 18 months afterward.

Rep. David W. Dennis of Indiana, insisted "there is no clear and convincing proof against the President to involve him as a conspirator."

And Rep. Delbert L. Latta, R-Ohio, complained that "the majority of this committee wishes to impeach the President for the action of his subordinates."

Motorcycle Death Rate Mounts

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The 40-year old executive who finally persuaded his wife last Christmas to let him buy a motorcycle because "we'll save on gas" may have been playing a deadly game.

In fact, by now he could be one of the 675 persons who lost their lives on motorcycles on the nation's highways through the first four months of 1974, according to National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates.

Although the returns are early, motorcycle deaths to date are running more than 30 per cent ahead of 1973, in sharp contrast to a 23.8 per cent decline this year in over-all traffic deaths.

Running side by side with the higher motorcycle death figures are dramatically higher cycle sales. The Motorcycle Industry Council, a Washington-based lobby group, estimates motorcycle sales have jumped about 50 per cent so far this year to roughly 700,000 to 750,000 new vehicles.

Added to the 4,222,000 motorcycles the Department of Transportation estimates were on the road at the end of 1973, the total cycle population now stands near five million, and is growing this year at a 32 per cent annual clip.

The fatality figures so far in 1974 are alarming, since in all but one of the last 10 years, the council says, there was a downtrend in the ratio of motorcycle deaths to vehicle registrations.

One explanation, according to Bob Hicks, publisher of Cycle Sport magazine, is that the energy crisis gave many nonteenage, middle class persons with little or no cycling knowhow the excuse they'd been looking for "to get their courage up and do what they wanted to do in the first place."

Ad campaigns by some cycle makers stressing the new image of respectability and fuel economy helped to persuade the wife to go along with a motorcycle, Hicks said.

"The real reason these older guys started buying bikes this year, according to dealers I speak to, is they now had an excuse from the sad state of the economy to do what they wanted to do in the first place. It's machismo. Suddenly, they can ride to work on a cycle and get away with it."

Winterville Tax Notices Mailed

WINTERVILLE—The 1974 town tax notices for Winterville citizens were mailed today.

According to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles, total valuation of the tax notices is $7,035,146.

There will be a two percent discount on all taxes paid between now and Aug. 31. After that, there will be no discount.

"The local people will be getting anywhere from one to three tax bills this year due to the fact that all property is listed according to the names of the owners," Nobles said. "People are asked to bring their bills to the town officer when they come to pay their taxes or mail them with their tax payments." By enclosing the bill, Nobles said the correct bills will be credited upon receipt of payment.

The old age exemption for Winterville this year totaled $295,162. Persons 65 years old and older who have enough exemptions will not receive a tax bill this year. They will be exempted from paying taxes.

Office hours for the municipal building are 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. every day except Wednesday and Saturday when the office hours are 8:30 a.m. until 12 noon.

Persons who have questions about their bills may call Nobles at 756-2221.

Annual Meet

The annual meeting of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Third Street entrance.

Yearly reports will be made by the various committee chairmen and O. E. Dowd, Sr., chapter chairman, will preside.

Dowd urged all board members to attend the annual session.

Evans-Novak. .

Burch was not immune from conservative wrath. How could Burch justify Mr. Nixon's breaking his promise to veto the legal services bill? The answer was unclear but also unsatisfying. Some Congressmen understood Burch to say that he wanted a veto and Gen. Alexander Haig, White House chief of staff, did not and Haig won out.

That attitude has outraged ideological conservatives such as Howard Phillips, Mr. Nixon's former poverty director and a crusader against the legal services program. Contending Mr. Nixon has abandoned conservative principles out of expediency, Phillips will soon publicly endorse impeachment and may organize a conservative pro-impeachment committee.

This danger to the President was underlined by the presence among the House members at Twin Bridges Tuesday night of one very conservative Republican U.S. Senator: James McClure of Idaho. Burch's unsatisfactory answers may be why McClure, until then considered a hardcore anti-impeachment vote in the Senate, the next day publicly warned that consistent betrayal of conservatives by Mr. Nixon will lead to their demands for his resignation.

But McClure was wavering on nonideological grounds a week earlier at a luncheon meeting of conservative Senators. As New York economist Eliot Janeway explained to them the dangers of a money crisis with a besieged President in office, such erstwhile loyalists as McClure were obviously reexamining their hardcore position.

The hardcore is turning against Mr. Nixon less on questions of impeachment than in reaction to ideological apostasy and economic incompetence. But Tuesday night's assault against so able and popular a leader as John Rhodes indicates Republican Congressmen might be reverting to their reputation of a decade ago as the Arabs of Capitol Hill, tending to depose their leaders in lightning coups. As Mr. Nixon's position degenerates, they may be seeking scapegoats.

Arrested In 3 Slayings

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A man working as a garbage collector in this coastal city is being held for Michigan authorities and the FBI in connection with the slayings of three Detroit women.

New Hanover County sheriff's deputies, acting on information from Detroit police, said arrested James B. Hendricks early Sunday.

The FBI issued a warrant charging Hendricks with interstate flight to avoid prosecution in the deaths of three women who were killed April 16, deputies said.

Officers said Hendricks had worked in Wilmington under an alias. He was held without bond pending extradition proceedings by the state of Michigan, officers said.

Authorities said a quantity of marijuana was found at the Hendricks residence. Hendricks and his wife Juanita were charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.

Mrs. Hendricks was held in lieu of $5,000 bond on the drug charge, officers said.

Kilpatrick....

For all practical purposes, to repeat, this is so much theory. Chief Justice Warren Burger's opinion last Wednesday was in the finest tradition of Chief Justice John Marshall in Marbury v. Madison. Having asserted the existence of a judge's power, the high court sought to narrow application of the power. In its footnote 19, the court's opinion gave no comfort to the Congress or to civil litigants. Burger's opinion makes a president subject to judicial process in criminal proceedings only.

Even this is too much for me. In the rare instances in which a president's private papers or his personal testimony may be demanded by the accused in a criminal trial, I would leave the primary decision to the president absolutely. If he refuses to provide the papers or to appear in court, let the trial judge (a) dismiss the defendant or (b) conclude that the president's evidence is not truly necessary and proceed with the trial. Simultaneously, in the event of a president's refusal to obey a subpoena, let the House consider whether his disobedience constitutes an impeachable offense.

In virtually every case, we may suppose, so dramatic a collision could be avoided by common sense on the part of judges and by voluntary action on the part of presidents. Bad cases, they say, make bad law; and not that it matters greatly for the future, I believe the court made bad law last week.

Pay Differential Owed To Veterans

By Order of a United States Court, the Federal Government must pay a salary differential of approximately 6.14 per cent to all military personnel and veterans who had active duty between the dates of October 1, 1972 and January 1, 1973. The Government is now ready to pay this money. Military personnel who are still on active duty will receive the pay differential automatically. However, veterans whose active duty terminated after October 1, 1972 will have to make application for the pay differential that is due them. This fact, and the following information should be publicized as widely as possible, since there are thousands of veterans who are eligible to receive additional active duty pay by reason of the Federal Court Order.

Veterans with active duty after October 1, 1972 should make out a back pay claim (a short letter will do). The letter should include the following data: Full name, Social Security number (and military service number if one was assigned); Rank; current mailing address; date separated from service; duty station between October 1, 1972 and January 1, 1973.

Depending on branch of service, the claim letter should be sent to:

ARMY—Commanding General, U.S. Army Finance Support Agency, FINCS-A, Indianapolis, Indiana 46249

NAVY—Commanding Officer, Navy Finance Center, Anthony J. Celibres Federal Building, Cleveland, Ohio 44199

AIR FORCE—Air Force Accounting and Finance Center, AFC, 3800 York Street, Denver, Colorado 80205

MARINE CORPS—Finance Center, Examination Division, Kansas City, Missouri 64197

COAST GUARD—Commandant, U.S. Coast Guard, G-FPA-2-71, Washington, D.C. 20590

Should a veteran need assistance in obtaining these benefits, he should contact the nearest District Office of the North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs or his County Veterans Service Officer.

TENTATIVE ACCORD

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A tentative settlement has been reached in a four-week bus drivers' strike that forced 200,000 daily riders to seek alternative means of transportation.

By JOHN CHADWICK Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has taken its first step toward a possible impeachment trial of President Nixon by asking the Rules Committee to review procedure and precedents and recommend necessary revisions.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said the committee will begin work in closed session Wednesday.

"We will examine very carefully the rules followed in the Johnson case," he said, referring to the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson more than 100 years ago.

Johnson was the only president brought to trial in the Senate. The vote in his case was one short of the two-thirds majority required for conviction and removal from office.

Cannon said in an interview that he already has been studying the rules and the precedents and does not think many changes will be necessary if Nixon is brought to trial.

However, he said he will invite all senators to review the rules and submit any suggested revisions to his committee.

A resolution adopted by the Senate Monday directed the committee to complete its review and make its recommendations by Sept. 1.

The resolution was introduced by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., after they met for nearly two hours to discuss steps to prepare for a Senate trial.

Mansfield and Scott said they felt they had no choice but to begin making plans in view of the House Judiciary Committee's recommendation that Nixon be impeached.

However, they said they were not passing judgment on whether the House will vote to impeach the President.

They said they will introduce another resolution, also to be referred to the Rules Committee, dealing with the televising of any Senate trial.

Mansfield favors television coverage under "very strict rules" limiting pictures to the well of the chamber, where trial proceedings would take place.

Cannon said he has mixed emotions about live television and radio coverage of proceedings in the Senate chamber, both now prohibited by Senate rules.

Scott, a member of the Rules Committee, said he personally is not opposed to television coverage and thinks Mansfield's view will prevail.

Cannon said his committee will deal only with procedural matters and not such questions as how much time the President should have to prepare an impeachment defense, whether a Senate trial can carry over to the next Congress, and what evidence the Senate should seek.

Prices Soar At Farmville

FARMVILLE—Better quality tobacco and higher prices Monday accounted for the highest average of the season on the Farmville Tobacco Market, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Williams said that more lugs and leaf grades accounted for a larger percentage of volume than on Thursday. Non descript and priming grades continued to account for most of the volume, he noted, with several grades up two to six cents from last week.

Top price paid on Monday was $97 per hundred pounds as the market sold 398,090 pounds for $343,313 in averaging $85.97.

To date, the Farmville market has sold 2,688,990 pounds for $2,223,579, for a season average of $82.69.

Asks Court Bar Rock Concert

CONCORD, N.C. (AP)—The Cabarrus County attorney, John Boger, is seeking an injunction to prevent a 12-hour rock concert which sponsors hope will draw more than 70,000 to the Charlotte Motor Speedway on Aug. 10.

Boger said in papers filed in Superior Court Monday that the concert would be a public nuisance and a threat to the safety and welfare of the public. The county commissioners had instructed him last week to take legal action.

Ralph gets 1/3 the protein he should have each day from just 2 glasses of milk...

A big hunk of cake will always be a mighty good reason for a big, cold glass of milk. Here's another good reason. Milk's a good source of high-quality protein. And just two 8-oz. glasses give one-third the protein most of us should have each day. So, whatever your reason, drink up.

Protein. Another good reason to drink milk.

Brock Claims 700th Stolen Base; 'Winning Games More Important'

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The energy crisis hasn't bothered Lou Brock. He never runs out of gas, it seems.

Brock continued his explosive base-stealing pace Monday while helping the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Chicago Cubs 11-2.

"Winning games is important, not setting records," Brock noted after stealing his 65th base of the season and 700th of his career. "But when the competition is tight and the challenge is there, then you find yourself doing things you didn't think were possible."

Brock, zeroing in on Maury Wills' fabulous single-season record of 104, also moved up on the all-time list into some exclusive company. Only four other players in baseball history have stolen 700 or more bases—Ty Cobb (892); Eddie Collins (743); Max Carey (738) and Honus Wagner (701).

In the other National League games, the New York Mets nipped the Montreal Expos 4-3; the Los Angeles Dodgers hammered the Atlanta Braves 10-2; the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Pittsburgh Pirates 13-1; the San Diego Padres stopped the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Houston Astros 7-2.

Brock also singled twice and scored twice while both Ken Reitz and Joe Torre homered for the Cards.

Mets 4, Expos 3
John Milner belted a two-run homer in the eighth inning, powering New York over Montreal for the Mets' fourth straight win.

Steve Rogers, 10-13, took a three-hitter and a 3-2 lead into the eighth, but Jerry Grote singled and Milner hit his 15th homer of the baseball season, a blast over the right-center field fence. Jack Aker, 2-2, the Mets' third pitcher, got the victory.

Dodgers 10, Braves 2
Jim Wynn knocked in four runs, including two on his 24th home run of the baseball season, helping Los Angeles snap a three-game losing streak with an easy triumph over Atlanta.

Phillies 13, Pirates 1
Mike Schmidt hit a pair of two-run homers and Steve Carlton pitched a two-hitter for his 13th victory of the season as Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh. Schmidt hit his 21st homer in the first and No. 22 in the sixth.

Padres 3, Reds 2
John Grubb and Nate Colbert cracked solo home runs to help Bill Greif and San Diego beat Cincinnati.

Grubb tagged Clay Kirby, 7-6, for his sixth home run with two down in the first and Colbert hit his 10th of the year and first since July 16 with one down in the fourth.

Giants 7, Astros 2
Ed Halicki scattered 10 hits to notch his first major league victory and Bobby Bonds sparked two three-run rallies with a single and triple to lead San Francisco over Houston.

American League scores:
Baltimore 6, Milwaukee 2; Detroit 8, Cleveland 2; Boston 2, New York 1 in 11 innings; Texas 10, Kansas City 1 and Oakland 11, Chicago 9.

Rank-And-File Criticism Begins As NFL Players, Owners Huddle

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The National Football League players' strike entered a critical stage today with the resumption of talks and rank-and-file criticism of the players' association's negotiating tactics.

Efforts to settle the 30-day-old strike were scheduled to resume this afternoon in Washington, D.C., under supervision of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service's chief, W.J. Usery.

Usery met Monday with representatives of the NFL Players' Association and planned to talk with the NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the owners, today before resuming negotiations.

Usery said he hoped now that "we can get both sides down to hard, good-faith bargaining. That is what we desire and we are working for and we hope an agreement can be consummated."

Meanwhile in Chicago, offensive tackle Bob Asher said "it's getting obvious we've lost the strike. The owners aren't budging."

"I feel Ed Garvey (the players' association's executive director) is blowing it. He came into this thing with such hard-nosed tactics, using freedom as the theme, that the good points of our stand have been disguised."

Asher said "... by ignoring the public with the 'No Freedom, No Football' approach, probably 80 per cent of the public is against us."

Some hope for compromise, however, was seen Monday in a statement issued under NFLPA President Bill Curry's name.

"We sincerely believe that, at this time, an agreement can be reached," the statement said.

In the training camps, the flock of defections from the strike continued, most notably in Latrobe, Pa., where seven veterans, led by quarterback Joe Gilliam, joined the Pittsburgh Steelers' camp.

Another notable defection was that of quarterback Greg Landry, who joined Detroit's Bloomfield Hills, Mich., camp where the death of Coach Don McCafferty was thought to have ended the solidarity of the Lions' strike.

The Lions announced Monday that assistant coach Rick Forzano would become the interim successor to McCafferty.

Jerry Tagge of the Green Bay Packers and Craig Morton of the Dallas Cowboys joined Gilliam and Landry as quarterbacks abandoning the strike.

Morton said his decision to join practice was not an attempt to take the starting quarterback job from Roger Staubach.

Pat Matson, player representative for the Cincinnati Bengals, said he felt his team could be considered in disfavor by other teams because of the 25 veterans now in camp at Wilmington, Ohio.

"I think there's a good possibility the Bengals are regarded as scabs," Matson said.

Two nonstarting Minnesota Vikings veterans reported to summer training camp, while four Rams nonstarters turned up at the Rams' camp at Fullerton, Calif., bringing to 11 the veterans, all non-starters last year, in that camp.

Two more Cleveland Browns veterans reported, bringing the number in that camp to 17. Atlanta wide receiver Preston Riley Monday became the 12th veteran Falcon to report. At least six other teams had one veteran each report Monday.

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Bobby Allison confirmed Monday that he will be driving the Roger Penske American Motors Matador in the Talladega 500 Aug. 11.

The car will be marked with Allison's number 12, and will probably be a pre-race favorite. The car was leading the race in the Winston 500 when it was involved in an accident in the pits. Garry Bettenhausen was driving the car then as a newcomer to the circuit, and was in his premier appearance in the Winston 500.

The Talladega 500 qualification trials will begin Aug. 8. The purse for the race is $147,000.

Book Banning No Longer Popular In Boston--Now Its Yankee Wins

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

They used to ban books in Boston. Now they ban Yankee victories.

The New Yorkers' futility streak in Fenway Park was made one loss more futile Monday night when the Red Sox clipped them 2-1 in 11 innings. That makes 11 straight losses in Boston, and 20 in their last 21 games there. They last won there last year.

If the Yankees are starting to believe in hexes, they got some more evidence Monday night. The Red Sox managed only three hits and won the game in the 11th without a hit.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2; the Detroit Tigers clubbed the Cleveland Indians 8-2; the Texas Rangers punished the Kansas City Royals 10-1, and the Oakland A's outscored the Chicago White Sox 11-9.

Lefty Sam McDowell held the Red Sox hitless through five innings and scoreless through 7 2-3 innings, until Dwight Evans slugged a tying homer high into the left-field screen. The score stayed 1-1 until the 11th, when a walk, wild throw by New York reliever Sparky Lyle on a sacrifice bunt and another walk loaded the bases and a sacrifice fly by Terry Hughes brought in the winning run.

Tigers 8, Indians 2
Four Detroit batters sent first-inning homers into the stands, causing any late arrivals to miss a major league record.

Never before had a team hit four homers in the first inning, although four teams have hit five home runs in a single inning.

Al Kaline, Bill Freehan and Mickey Stanley belted consecutive homers off Fritz Peterson, and two batters later, Ed Brinkman connected off Steve Kline. The barrage was more than enough for Mickey Lolich, who scattered six hits.

Rangers 10, Royals 1
Ferguson Jenkins pitched the top of the fifth inning as if his 8-1 lead was in jeopardy. And it was.

His Ranger teammates had made it 8-1 before rain delayed the game for one hour and 36 minutes—three outs short of an official Texas victory. When the rains stopped, Jenkins started fast, striking out three straight Royals on 12 total pitches. With the game official, he then breezed to his 14th victory in 23 decisions. He allowed six hits.

Orioles 6, Brewers 2
Paul Blair and Don Baylor drilled run-scoring hits to spark a four-run Baltimore rally that gave Ross Grimsley his seventh victory in his last eight decisions.

A's 11, White Sox 9
Oakland overcame four of its own errors in one inning and two Chicago leads to beat the White Sox.

Down 4-1 after three innings and 5-4 after six, the A's bounced back with four runs in the seventh and three more in the eighth.

In the National League, it was: New York 4, Montreal 3; St. Louis 11, Chicago 4; Los Angeles 10, Atlanta 2; Philadelphia 13, Pittsburgh 1; San Diego 3, Cincinnati 2, and San Francisco 7, Houston 2.

Tourney Opening

Southwest Forsythe and Endly Park of Charlotte open play this afternoon in the North Carolina State Little League championship, starting at 5 p.m. at Elm Street Park.

Three other teams will join in the action on Wednesday, with the champion being chosen on Thursday. The winner moves on to the southeastern regionals to be held later.

Wednesday, at 3 p.m., West Asheville will take on Belmont, while Havelock, winner of the area competition, will meet the winner of today's game, in the 5 p.m. game.

Thursday, the two survivors will collide at 5 p.m. for the title.

Birmingham Out To Stay Perfect

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Can Birmingham keep up the pace in the World Football League? The Americans, having run amuck—or, more accurately, passed amuck—against Memphis last week in an explosive 58-33 victory, take their perfect 3-0 record into Detroit. Their primary goal is to keep pace with the Chicago Fire, which burned Hawaii 53-29 last Sunday night to go 4-0 atop the Central Division.

Detroit's Wheels have done very little rolling, en route to an 0-3 record.

In Wednesday night's other games, the Florida Blazers go against the Texans for the second week in a row—this time in Houston, the New York Stars take on the Jacksonville Sharks and the Philadelphia Bell faces the Storm in Portland.

Thursday night's nationally televised game sends the Southern California Sun into Memphis against the Southmen.

The Americans' bombed Memphis into submission last week with quarterbacks George Mira and Matthew Reed unloading five touchdown passes and WFL Player of the Week Alfred Jenkins hauling in five aeriels for 200 yards with three of them going for scores.

But Birmingham may not be as overwhelming against Detroit. The Americans' defense ranks as the worst in the league, having allowed nearly 386 yards a game.

That defense could be a welcome sight for the Wheels' Bubba Wyche, who leads the WFL in passing, having completed 45 of 91 attempts for 630 yards. Hubie Bryant has 251 of those yards on 13 receptions.

The Blazers, solidly entrenched atop the Eastern Division as the league's only other unbeaten team at 3-0, are gunning for a repeat of last week's 15-3 victory over the Texans in Orlando.

The Stars fell from first place in total WFL offense—but the fall didn't hurt one bit. They pulled out their first victory last week, beating Philadelphia. New York still has balance with quarterback Tom Sherman passing to George Sauer or handing off to Bob Gladioux.

Jacksonville's only victory came against New York in the season opener.

The Storm, like Detroit, is winless in three games.

S. Pitt In Victory

WILLIAMSTON—Southern Pitt's All-Stars moved into the finals of the area playoffs last night with an 11-1 win over Williamston. The two teams meet again tonight for the championship.

Southern Pitt won the district title last week beating Washington and Farmville in Washington.

Kevin Battle was the winning pitcher for Southern Pitt fanning eight and giving up just two hits. Jeff Cox led the team's hitting with a single, a double and a triple. Gary Edwards had two doubles.

BUMPING HOME—Los Angeles Dodgers Dave Lopes bumps Atlanta Braves catcher Johnny Oates as he scored in the sixth inning on a sacrifice by teammate Jimmy Wynn to Braves

Dodgers Snap Three-Game Skid

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP)—“I can’t get all that excited here at midseason about losing three games in a row,” said Walt Alston, manager of the National League West-leading Los Angeles Dodgers.

“We’ve done that two or three times already this year but it seems like we always go on a streak after that, not consecutive games, but something like 12 of 15.”

Well, Alston’s Dodgers snapped a three-game losing streak Monday night and got the first complete game out of right-hander Don Sutton since May 14 in a 10-2 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Jimmy Wynn keyed the Dodger attack, driving in four runs with a two-run home run, his 24th of the season, a single and a sacrifice fly. Dave Lopes also contributed a homer to the cause, his second of the year on a shot that curled just inside the right field foul pole.

Lopes’ homer triggered a five-run outburst in the fifth inning that included Wynn’s RBI single, a two-run single by Willie Crawford and another run crossing when reliever Joe Niekro uncorked a wild pitch.

The victory, combined with San Diego’s triumph over Cincinnati, gave the Dodgers a 4½-game lead over the Reds in the division chase. It was only the sixth victory in 16 games for Los Angeles.

Sutton yielded three of his eight hits in the opening inning when Hank Aaron singled home Ralph Garr, who had tripled off Crawford’s glove in right.

Sutton retired 13 batters in a row at one stretch and gave up half the hits to NL batting leader Ralph Garr. “He hit everything I had,” Sutton said.

“He’s pitched well his last four outings,” Alston said of Sutton, who has won only two

McCafferty's Tactics Will Be Maintained

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer
BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Rick Forzano plans to stick to the coaching techniques of Don McCafferty, but the new Detroit Lions’ head coach isn’t likely to inherit McCafferty’s nickname, “Easy Rider.”

McCafferty, who died Sunday of a heart attack at his home, believed in discipline but was noted for his easy-going manner.

Forzano, a former head coach at the U.S. Naval Academy, said Monday he believes discipline is most important for a football team.

“Permissiveness kind of drives me up a wall,” the Akron, Ohio native said. “When you respect people you don’t mind being disciplined.”

Forzano, 45, who was Detroit’s offensive backfield coach, was named Monday as McCafferty’s interim successor to handle the National Football League club. The selection was made by team president-owner William Clay Ford and General Manager Russ Thomas.

Thomas said McCafferty’s death “is still difficult to believe” but that “We must go on with business.”

Asked if Forzano would be permanent head coach this season, Thomas said, “We haven’t addressed ourselves to that at all.”

Forzano said he did not sign a new contract.

“I’m acting head coach. No more,” Forzano said.

McCafferty, who coached the Baltimore Colts to a Super Bowl title in 1970, was unable to turn the Lions around last year. Detroit had a 6-7-1 record.

The task of reversing the Lions’ fading fortunes now falls on Forzano, who didn’t play high school or college football because of an eye injury as a child.

“We’re all embarrassed and disappointed with the season we had last year,” he said.

“We’re tired of the excuse that the new system had a bad effect on the football team. We broke down not in one area but in different areas at different times.”

He said he was proud to be named interim coach but that, “I don’t want to be congratulated because this is a very sad time in my life.”

“As a football staff we have to dedicate ourselves to Mac and we’re going to do the job for him.”

Forzano said “We’re still Mac’s coaches and that’s the way we feel about it.”

More than 200 persons, many former playing-field associates, paid their respects to McCafferty at memorial services in nearby Birmingham Monday night.

McCafferty was called a “player’s coach” by Lions’ captain Ed Flanagan after his death Sunday, and striking veterans turned out almost to a man to honor his memory.

He joined the NFL in 1966 and served for two years at St. Louis. In 1968 he joined the Cincinnati Bengals.

Forzano was head coach of Navy from 1969-72 before resigning.

He and his assistants will be pallbearers at McCafferty’s funeral, which will begin at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the United Methodist Church in Timonium, Md., a Baltimore suburb.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman says he respects challenger Muhammad Ali for what he has done in the past. But there is no way “more as a talker than a fighter.”

Asked if he would fight again this year after meeting Ali in Zaire, Africa, on Sept. 24, Foreman told a news conference, “I can’t say. Our fight may not last more than three minutes.”

“I want to hit him so hard he’ll forget what he’s done in the past. But there is no way I’m going to be able to stop him from talking.”

“He had his jaw broke and he was hit so hard once his feet went up into the air. But he still was able to talk.”

Officially, Foreman called his Los Angeles news conference to announce he was going into training at Pleasanton in northern California on Thursday and that ex-football great turned actor Jim Brown would be one of the commentators on the telecast of the fight against Ali.

“I have respect for Ali for what he has done in the past, the draft thing and all, and he apologized for what he did in New York which showed he was a man. But I’ll knock him out,” the champion said.

Ali refused to be inducted into the military service while he was champion on the grounds he was a Muslim minister and he won his argument through a Supreme Court decision. In New York, he had verbally demeaned the champion.

“He just lost his cool and he cussed me out,” said Foreman. “A lot of people want to cuss me out but there were women in that audience. But he apologized and proved he is still a man.”

Foreman said, “Ali is just a contender and he should be grateful to get a chance at the championship. ‘I’d like to hold the position I have for as long as possible.’”

Ali, heavyweight champion from 1964 until stripped of his title because of the draft trials in 1967, returned to the ring in 1970.

He lost to Joe Frazier in a title fight and then beat Frazier after the latter had been knocked out by Foreman for the title.

This next 15-round title fight in Zaire, once known as the Belgian Congo, will start at 3 a.m. local time to accommodate television. Each fighter is guaranteed $5 million.

Asked if he thought he might run into tax problems similar to those that cost him in Venezuela in his latest title defense against Ken Norton, Foreman said, “I don’t think so. But I know that wherever I fight, I’ll have to pay taxes.”

Dick Sadler, a Foreman handler since the former Olympic champion turned pro, declared a young champion will be fighting an older man and that Ali, himself, had won while he was “young and brash.”

Browns Will Be Using Signals From Bench

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — If you see a man on the sidelines of the Cleveland Browns games this season fingering his ear, brushing his knee, fixing his sock, tugging at his cap and clapping his hands in one continuous motion it’s not because he has St. Vitus’ Dance.

His name is Dick Wood, the team’s new offensive coordinator, and what he’ll be doing is sending in plays to the quarterback.

The Browns have used a similar signaling system to send defensive plays for the past three years. Offensively, however, they’ve always sent plays in via a lineman messenger.

Browns Coach Nick Skorich said the system will be used on every play of Friday’s preseason game against the Rams in Los Angeles.

“An inexperienced quarterback will have enough things to worry about, so we’ll call all the plays from the sidelines,” said Skorich, alluding to the necessity of using rookies in the quarterback position because of the National Football League Players Association strike.

The Browns’ three veteran quarterbacks have not reported to camp. Working at quarterback since camp opened have been free agent Will Cureton, who probably will get the starting role Friday, and 11th-round draft choice Tom Gooden.

“This system will save us a lot of time and not force us to make substitutions,” Skorich said. “We’re not worried about other clubs stealing the signs, because we never had that problem with the defensive signals.”

Skorich said that Wood had worked out the signal system and it was used for the first time in practice Monday.

When starting quarterback Mike Phipps begins playing he’ll also have to be looking for the signs.

“It’ll be like having a third base coach,” Skorich said.

Ahumada Feels He's The Champ

NEW YORK (AP) — Jorge Ahumada isn’t the world light heavyweight champion but he thinks he is. And that is anything but good news for his opponents.

“He’s got a complete new attitude,” said manager Gil Clancy after Ahumada put a dazzling display of punching in pounding out a one-sided, 12-round decision over Angel Oquendo Monday night at Madison Square Garden.

“He feels like he’s the world champion.”

Ahumada just missed gaining the title last June 17 when his 15-round fight against champion Bob Foster ended in a controversial draw.

Ahumada had won a unanimous, but close 10-round decision in April over Oquendo.

The rematch was no contest. “I wanted it to go 12 rounds,” said Ahumada. “I felt I could have knocked him out after the third round.”

Oquendo, a 31-year-old Puerto Rican living in New York, was shaken but was never off his feet. He was never in the fight either as the 28-year-old Ahumada, an Argentine who also lives in New York, put on a clinic in precision punching.

Referee Petey Della gave all 12 rounds to Ahumada, who weighed 174, to 175½ for his opponent. Judge Tony Castellano called it 11-1 and judge Artie Aidala had it 10-2 for Ahumada. The AP scored it 12-0.

“He is beautiful, he showed everything tonight,” said Clancy after Ahumada ran his record 41-5-1.

His Job: Taking Care Of Baseball's Greats

By PAUL STEVENS
Associated Press Writer
COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Shortly after he was a pallbearer in Dizzy Dean’s funeral, Ken Smith dropped a birthday card in the mail to Casey Stengel, who is 84 today.

“Old Diz” was never a close friend of Smith’s, nor is Stengel. But Ken Smith is director of the National Baseball Hall of Fame and part of his job is “looking after our boys,” from the time they’re voted into the Hall.

“I’ve always felt completely at home with the players. I’ve put my whole life into it,” said Smith, 72, who was a New York sports writer 38 years before joining the Hall in 1964.

In two weeks, Smith will bring six more former baseball greats into the hall, including two of Stengel’s New York Yankee stars, Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford. Others to be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 12 are old-timers Samuel Thompson of the Philadelphia Phillies and James Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals, both deceased; John (Jocko) Conlan, a veteran National League umpire; and James “Cool Papa” Bell, who played for a St. Louis team in the Negro baseball leagues.

A second feature of the day will be the annual Hall of Fame Game, which this year features the Chicago White Sox and the Atlanta Braves. Atlanta slugger Henry Aaron, baseball’s home run king, is certain to be back in the village five years from now for his own induction.

Handling arrangements for the induction and game, which attract more than 100 writers and broadcasters and about 10,000 fans, is the highlight of Smith’s job.

But being director of the Hall of Fame encompasses many other duties, including speaking engagements, searches for artifacts and serving as a liaison between baseball’s past and present.

Sending birthday greetings to the 45 living members of the Hall—101 are deceased—is Smith’s way of personalizing an institution that exists primarily to preserve memories. And as he was at Dean’s funeral in Mississippi, Smith is there to see “our boys” to rest.

Often, he is criticized by fans who think their favorite star should have been voted into the Hall. But voting is done by the Baseball Writers’ Association of America and committees that select veterans and players from the Negro leagues.

In the early days of voting, in the 1930s, Smith said, “we had everybody to elect, to sort out. Very often we’d favor the older ones—get them out of the way and make way for the younger ones. Now it’s pretty much thinned out....”

Smith’s cluttered office is located amid all the memorabilia, including Smith’s favorite artifact, Babe Ruth’s locker.

Only the cathedral-like Hall of Fame room, with its bronzed bas-reliefs of members, has a semblance of order.

“I’m not an interior decorator,” said Smith. “I’m a baseball man.”

Ford, Taylor Spark Stars

GREENSBORO (AP)—Guard Phil Ford of Rocky Mount, with a 31.6 scoring average, and Sleepy Taylor of Bartlett Yancey, who led North Carolina scholastic scoring last season at a 33.5 clip, will be opposed in what could be a scoring duel tonight in the 26th annual East-West All-Star basketball game.

The tipoff is 8 p.m. at Greensboro Coliseum.

Ford, No. 1 recruit at North Carolina, will be joined on the East force by Erwin Durden of Fayetteville’s 71st in the other guard spot.

Starting forwards will be Mike Cherry of Elm City and Roderick Griffin of Fairmont. Thomas Blue of Wilson figures to be at center.

Other easterners available in the front court include Preston Powers of Henderson Vance, Jeff Jones of New Bern, Chuck Lucas of Rosewood and Travis Woods of Ayden-Grifton.

Taylor will be joined in the West front court by Sherman Johnson of East Forsyth and Lawrence Massey of South Mecklenburg. In the back court will be Butch Blalock of Kings Mountain and Thomas Wilson of Gastonia Huss.

West reserves include Kevin Cooper of Greensboro Grimsley, Armenous Adams of Reidsville, Rick Smith of T. C. Robinson and Roosevelt Bankhead of North Mecklenburg.

Connally Says He'll Fight Charges Of Wrongdoing

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John B. Connally, indicted for bribery, perjury and conspiracy, denies any guilt and says he will fight the charges.

The former Treasury secretary was indicted Monday by a Watergate grand jury, accused of taking two $5,000 bribes from milk producers and then conspiring to cover up the payment with perjured testimony. "I deny again that I am guilty of any wrongdoing and I am confident that I will be completely vindicated of these charges," Connally said in a statement issued through his Houston law office.

"For months there have been leaks, rumors and speculation ... The matter is now in the open, where it can be dealt with honestly and fairly."

Connally is the fourth former member of President Nixon's Cabinet to be charged with a crime. He has hired noted criminal lawyer Edward Bennett Williams to run his defense.

The grand jury accused Connally of two counts of bribery, one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and two counts of perjury. He faces a maximum of 19 years in jail and $50,000 in fines if convicted on all counts.

The grand jury accused Connally of taking two $5,000 payments from his friend, Jake Jacobsen, a Texas lawyer working for Associated Milk Producers, Inc., the nation's largest dairy-farmer cooperative.

The money allegedly was paid for Connally's help in getting President Nixon to raise federal milk price supports in March 1971. The first $5,000 was paid around May 14 and the second around Sept. 24, the indictment said.

Jacobsen also was indicted on a single bribery count, carrying a maximum penalty of two years in jail and a $10,000 fine. There have been reports that Jacobsen had struck a deal with the Watergate prosecution force, agreeing to plead guilty to a single bribery count provided the government would drop all other charge against him.

Jacobsen is scheduled for pleading Aug. 7, Connally for Aug. 9.

The indictment charges that Connally and Jacobsen conspired to cover up the alleged bribes after federal investigators began checking testimony by a former lobbyist for the milk producers, Bob A. Lilly, who said he gave Jacobsen $15,000 to give to Connally.

Jacobsen swore he drew only $10,000 from the milk producers, and that he offered it to Connally twice. Both Jacobsen and Connally testified that the money was offered not as a bribe, but as a fund from which Connally could make political donations to candidates of his choosing.

Both swore that Connally refused the money. Jacobsen testified that he put the cash in a bank vault and left it there 2½ years. The indictment charged that this story is false. Monday's indictment says Connally lied to the grand jury on two occasions.

It accused Connally of lying when he swore Nov. 14 that he had talked to Jacobsen only once in the previous three or four weeks, and that they talked not about the $10,000 but about a bank charter.

Connally told a somewhat different story April 11, saying he had spoken with Jacobsen three times before the first grand jury appearance. He said that during one of the talks Jacobsen mentioned that he had been subpoenaed to testify about the $10,000. The grand jury said Connally lied when he said this was the first time Jacobsen mentioned the subpoena.

The grand jury said Connally and Jacobsen met or talked five times before Connally's first testimony.

Connally, 57, is head of one of the nation's largest law firms. He entered public life as a protege and campaign manager for Lyndon B. Johnson, then a Texas congressman. Connally served as secretary of the Navy in President John F. Kennedy's administration, and later was elected governor of Texas. He was wounded seriously in the 1963 assassin's attack that killed Kennedy in Dallas.

Connally, the only Democrat in Nixon's Cabinet when he headed the Treasury Department, was considered one of Nixon's closest advisers. In mid-1972 he resigned to head "Democrats for Nixon," and Jacobsen was one of his chief assistants. In 1973 he switched parties, and instantly became a star fund raiser and often-mentioned prospect for the GOP presidential nomination.

The three other former Nixon Cabinet members who have been charged with crimes are former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

Kleindienst pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor count of failing to testify about the ITT affair. Mitchell and Stans were acquitted of obstructing justice in an investigation of campaign donor Robert L. Vesco. Mitchell has pleaded innocent to a separate conspiracy charge in the Watergate cover-up.

Vote Probe Milk Bidding

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—The Winston-Salem and Forsyth County Board of Education voted Monday night to investigate whether to file a civil antitrust suit against North Carolina dairies alleging non-competitive bidding on the school milk contract.

"I think there is more than enough evidence here to convince a jury that there is collusion in this bidding," board member Henry C. Laverman said. "Market allocation as well as price-fixing."

Former Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan's office was given information on milk bids here nearly two years ago, but no legal action was filed.

This month, for the third time in three years, the six companies bidding had nearly identical bids. Five companies quoted identical prices on half-pints. Pet's bid on that and other items was slightly lower.

None of the six was willing to accept more than 40 per cent of the total contract.

ABA Advises Dropping Laws On Prostitution

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Laws against prostitution are blatantly discriminatory against women, invade individual privacy and should be dropped from state books, a committee of the American Bar Association recommends.

The recommendation is in a report that calls for the adoption of a resolution which urges states to "repeal all laws which classify as criminal prostitution or solicitation by or on behalf of a prostitute."

The resolution is to be considered by the ABA's House of Delegates at its annual meeting in August. Approval of the resolution by the full House and the ABA's Board of Governors will provide guidance to state bars and other lobbying groups before state legislatures.

The committee says there is no reason for a state to outlaw "commercial sex."

"Whether a person chooses to engage in sexual intercourse for pure recreation, or in exchange for something of value, is a matter of individual choice, not for governmental interference," the report states. Decriminalization could lead to a reduction of crime associated with prostitution, it says.

Carole Bellows, a Chicago lawyer and vice chairman of the committee that approved the resolution, said the rise of the liberated woman, expanding notions about the right of privacy and a growing concern about so-called victimless crimes contributed to the committee's unanimous approval of the report at a meeting of its 20 members in May.

A primary reason for the committee's action was the discriminatory nature of statutes outlawing prostitution.

"In accordance with society's double standard of sexual morality, the woman who sells her body is punished criminally and stigmatized socially while her male customer, either by the explicit design of the statute or through a pattern of discriminatory enforcement, is left unscathed," the report states.

It says that in most states the law ignores the fact that male homosexuals can be prostitutes and "more importantly, that male customers, without whom prostitution would be impossible, are accomplices in this so-called criminal act."

It also calls for the decriminalization of solicitation to prostitution, saying such a law discriminates against poor and minority women who must operate in the streets in contrast to call girls who operate out of plush hotel suites.

The report was approved by the ABA's Section of Individual Rights and Responsibilities, headed by Albert E. Jenner Jr., Chicago lawyer now serving as counsel to the House Judiciary Committee considering articles of impeachment.

Jenner was chairman of the meeting in May and did not vote on the resolution, said Miss Bellows.

The ABA House of Delegates the past two years has acted favorably on recommendations from the same committee calling for the decriminalization of homosexual activity and the use of marijuana.

No Charges In Auto Mishap

Greenville police investigated one auto accident in the city Monday which resulted in $550 worth of property damage.

The accident occurred in the Pitt Plaza parking lot. No charges were filed.

According to Police Chief Glenn Cannon, a car operated by Peggy Roberson Wynn of Rt. 3, Box 70, Williamston received approximately $350 damage, while a vehicle operated by Vernelle Hardee Tripp of Rt. 3, Box 564, Greenville received $200 damage in the 4:10 p.m. accident.

No injuries were reported.

Reconsiders Resignation

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The chairman of the State Ports Authority, Daniel R. Thomason, is reconsidering his offer to resign.

Thomason told authority board members at a meeting Monday he would quit, but later agreed to reconsider at the request of several board members.

"If it makes for better harmony for the state ports, I'll cut out and go," Thomason said. He did not specify if he meant to resign only as chairman, or as a member also.

Some board members had been upset over a decision which resulted in the closing of the authority's Raleigh office and the dismissal of J. Edward Kirk, administrative assistant to the board. Kirk doubled as public relations director and legislative liaison.

Former Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz took the action without the full board's approval. Lentz now is secretary of administration.

Barrus Appears Low Bidder For Road Project

RALEIGH—Barrus Construction Company of Kinston was the apparent low bidder in two road construction projects involving Pitt County. The bids were opened in Raleigh on July 23.

The projects involving Pitt County include:

—12.54 miles of surfacing nine sections of secondary roads and resurfacing one section of secondary road involving roads in Cartaret, Craven, Greene, Pamlico and Pitt Counties. The low bid by Barrus Construction totaled $245,324 and completion date has been set as Dec. 2, 1974.

—43.08 miles on N.C. 118 and 304 involving Craven, Pitt, Jones and Pamlico Counties including resurfacing four sections of primary and nine sections of secondary roads. The bid was $384,323 and completion date is Dec. 2, 1974.

WOTM Asked Help To House Players

Members of Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, have been asked to help provide housing for teenagers participating in the Babe Ruth baseball tournament being held in Greenville Aug. 5-12.

The request was made at a chapter business meeting Thursday night by Mrs. Peggy Jamieson, senior regent. She explained that the young men will be from towns throughout eastern North Carolina.

The tournament sponsors asked that, where possible, at least two players be taken in by a family. Mrs. Jamieson said that anyone wishing to participate in the project should contact her, or another chapter office. Word may also be left at the office in the Moose Temple.

Three chapter members were presented WOTM pins for attendance at five consecutive meetings following their enrollment. They were: Mrs. James Drew; Mrs. Ora Joyner; and Mrs. Thelma Corbett.

Chapter projects for the upcoming year were discussed and Mrs. Jamieson asked committee chairmen to present their projects for approval as soon as possible. Attendance at the state Moose convention in Charlotte Aug. 16-18, was also discussed.

A ritual practice has been scheduled tonight at the Moose Temple at eight o'clock. All officers and committee chairmen are expected to attend.

Slight Drop In CP&L Rates

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Carolina Power and Light Co. customers who have seen their electric bills rise steadily in recent months because of a fuel adjustment clause will experience a slight reduction in August, the utility said Monday.

Albert L. Morris, CP&L vice president for public relations, said the fuel clause which cost the average CP&L residential customers $4.78 in July, will cost him an average $4.31 in August. He said the average customer's bill would drop from $26.74 in July to $26.27 in August.

Under the fuel adjustment clause, CP&L raises or lowers its rates each month depending on whether fuel costs go up or down.

But mix your study of cultural, Liberal Arts courses with subjects that offer you a quick merchandisable skill.

For many brilliant Harvard "braintrusts" were stupid as regards practical problems, as evidenced by the bureaucrats under FDR and still continuing at Washington, D.C.

(2) Focus on a merchandisable skill, such as operating a typewriter or computer machine, or on dentistry, medicine, music, law, engineering, education, preaching, nursing, journalism, etc.

(3) But develop vocational expertise in various realms, so you can shift from one "ladder to success" to step on a higher rung on another nearby.

Versatility of practical experience pays rich dividends if you are ambitious and looking ahead.

Many Liberal Arts graduates blunder into teaching because it is white collar work, with 3 months' summer vacations.

But we are now overpopulated with teaching applicants, so go out into the rigorous workaday world of "Free Enterprise" where you must compete, as on the gridiron or baseball diamond.

(4) A diploma from a first class Business College is a superb lever for prying loose good positions.

For such Business Colleges offer you the very best form of "Hire Education" instead of the impractical Liberal Arts "Higher Education."

(5) Don't be afraid of soiling your hands, for many machinists, engineers, scientific farmers or even junk dealers make far more money than school teachers!

So send for my "Vocational Guidance" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: King of ♦

One of the clues that suggest a dummy reversal is the possession of high trumps in dummy. Sometimes, even one high trump can be sufficient. Note declarer's technique on this hand.

An overall of one no trump is equivalent to a one no trump opening bid, and while it tends to deny interest in the major suits, South reasoned that it could do no harm to cue-bid the opponent's suit just in case a 4-4 fit could be uncovered in hearts or spades. When his partner denied holding a major suit, South bid his clubs. Since his stopper in diamonds was tenuous at best, North raised and South was under no pressure in continuing to game.

West led the king of diamonds, and when dummy came down declarer thought the play would be a cinch. Since at least one spade could be ruffed in dummy, it appeared that the maximum number of losers would be two spade tricks. However, declarer received a rude jolt when, after ruffing the opening lead, he played the king of clubs and West showed out. Now, he could not draw all the trumps, for that would strip dummy of trumps and he would not be able to ruff spades. Nor could he give up a spade and play a cross-ruff, trumping spades in dummy and diamonds in his hand, for East then would end up with long trumps and declarer would be unable to score his four heart tricks.

Declarer found a neat way out of his impasse. He crossed to the king of hearts and ruffed a diamond with his low trump. After cashing the queen and jack of clubs, dummy was entered with the ace of spades and the ace of clubs drew East's last trump. On this trick, declarer discarded a spade from his hand.

It was now a simple matter for declarer to cash the ace of hearts and take two more heart tricks with the queen and jack. That left him with just two spade losers, which he happily conceded to the defenders. What South did was to increase his trump tricks to six by using two of his trumps as ruffers and then scoring four high trumps. Added to four heart tricks and the ace of spades, this brought his total to eleven.

According to the International Labor Organization, 180 million more jobs must be found in Asia by 1980 to avoid even worse unemployment and poverty than now exists.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were steady Monday. Supplies barely adequate, demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 59.73, medium whites 50.39, small whites 39.34.

(RALEIGH) (NCDA) (AP) — Trend is steady to 50 cents lower. Kinston, Lumberton 36.00-37.00; Rocky Mount 35.50-36.00; Bethel, Tarboro 34.50-35.00; Wilson, High Falls 35.25; Salisbury, 35.00.

(RALEIGH) (NCDA) (AP) — f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady with this week's weighted average price at .3563 cents per pound. Supplies are adequate and the demand fairly good. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers today 1,160,000.

N.C. Hens: Market generally steady; supplies are adequate and the demand fairly good. Heavy hens at farm, .12 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Concern over inflation continued to chip away at stock market prices today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.51 at 768.38, and losers outstripped gainers by a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was slow and uneventful.

The market, as measured by the Dow, made a very weak attempt to rally from its sharp recent losses at the opening bell. But when little support showed up on a sharp upswing, prices settled back into a gradual decline.

Clorox, the Big Board volume leader, was up $\frac{1}{8}$ at 9 $\frac{1}{8}$ as a 147,000-share block changed hands at that price.

Copeland Corp., which reported higher quarterly earnings and raised its dividend, climbed $\frac{1}{4}$ to 8 $\frac{3}{4}$.

General Motors sagged a point to 42 $\frac{1}{4}$, its lowest price in more than a decade. The company reported late last week second quarter earnings of \$1.05 a share, as against \$2.78 in the like period of 1973.

GM, the world's biggest industrial corporation, is often described on Wall Street as a "bellwether" issue that can often set the tone for the market as a whole.

Some glamour issues rallied slightly from their sharp declines of the past few weeks. Polaroid, for instance, was up $\frac{1}{8}$ at 28 $\frac{3}{4}$, and Honeywell climbed $\frac{1}{4}$ to 39 $\frac{1}{4}$.

The NYSE's composite index was down .02 at 42.39 at 11 a.m.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .21 to 78.92. The Amex's most active stock was Syntex, down $\frac{1}{8}$ at 38 $\frac{1}{4}$.

NEW YORK (AP) — Midday stocks: High 18, Low 16, Last 18, 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ 8 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Small Boy Hurt In Disturbance

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A rock and bottle-throwing disturbance in a black Burlington neighborhood late Monday night left a small boy injured and resulted in six arrests.

Tod McKinney, 4, of Rt. 10, Burlington, was struck in the face by a rock as he rode with his father, Joseph, through the area. The boy was taken to Duke Hospital in Durham for surgery and was in fair condition today. His father was not hurt.

The cause of the disturbance was not immediately determined.

Obituaries

Clark
Mrs. Viola Boyd Clark, 69 died Tuesday morning in Pitt Memorial Hospital. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Mrs. Clark was born in Beaufort County but had spent most of her life in Greenville. She was a member of the First Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville.

Surviving are a son, Hal G. Clark of Matawan, N. J.; two grandchildren; and two sisters: Mrs. G. G. Hux of Rocky Mount and Mrs. Ernest F. Sadler of Greenville.

Wallace

MOBILE, Ala. — Mrs. Clare Kehl Wallace, 73, widow of Russell E. Wallace died here Sunday night.

A native of Lower Salem, Ohio, she had lived in Mobile for the past 16 years. She was a member of King's Way United Methodist Church here.

Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. Wellington B. Gray of Greenville, Mrs. Faye W. McLendon of Akron, Ohio, and Mrs. Aileen Jones of Mobile; a son, Merle E. Wallace of Mobile; two brothers, Delbert Kehl of Youngstown, Ohio, and Brady Kehl of Whipple, Ohio; seven grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at Radney Funeral Home here Wednesday at 10 a.m.

Martin Fills Vacant Seat

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Judge Robert M. Martin has joined the North Carolina Court of Appeals, filling the vacancy created by the resignation of James H. Carson Jr.

Martin, of High Point, was sworn in Monday. He was named to the post earlier this month by Gov. Jim Holshouser after Carson resigned to devote full time to his Republican campaign for attorney general.

Martin already had won the Democratic nomination for a seat on the court, and he had no opposition in the fall general election.

Carson, of Charlotte, will be named by Holshouser to be attorney general when Robert Morgan resigns to step up his Democratic campaign for the U.S. Senate. Carson is expected to be the GOP nominee for attorney general in the fall election.

Martin has been a special Superior Court judge since appointment by former Gov. Dan K. Moore in 1967. He was reappointed in 1971.

O'Connor Back In 'Family'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carroll O'Connor will return to his role as Archie Bunker in CBS' "All in the Family" today, CBS said.

O'Connor missed the first two shows for next season because of a contract dispute with the show's owner, Tandem Productions. He is to deliver a one-line tag at the end of tonight's taping and should appear full time in the fourth show for the season, a spokesman for the actor said.

O'Connor had filed suit against Tandem in June, asking Los Angeles Superior Court to declare whether he had a valid contract and seeking what he claimed was back salary due him.

Neither CBS nor O'Connor would say how the dispute was resolved.

'Mama Cass' Is Found Dead

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top pathologist said after an autopsy today that further tests would be needed to determine how "Mama" Cass Elliot, the sweet-voiced 238-pound pop singer, died.

MAMA CASS

Prof. Keith Simpson gave no details of his examination, but said the singer did not appear to have died from natural causes. He did not elaborate.

Police said an inquest will be held at Westminster coroner's court Wednesday.

Simpson's statement came only hours after the singer's doctor, Anthony Greenburg, told newsmen: "I think the post-mortem will probably show that she died as a result of choking on a sandwich while lying in bed and inhaling her own vomit."

"She was a very big lady and I could not rule out the possibility of a heart attack."

Dot MacLeod, the singer's secretary, said she found the 33-year-old star's body Monday afternoon slightly propped up in her double bed in the six-room apartment she was occupying during engagements in Britain. The television set was on, and a ham sandwich and a soft drink were beside her pillow, Miss MacLeod said.

"She had been dead for a considerable time before her body was found," Dr. Greenburg said.

The singer, who rose to fame in the 1960s as the leading Mama of The Mamas and the Papas, completed a two-week engagement at the Palladium Saturday night. She was preparing to start a tour of Britain.

"This last week was the happiest I have ever seen her," said her manager, Allan Carr. "She told me after she had received a standing ovation at the Palladium: 'I feel that I have given the best of myself 23 times, but I have never felt better about anything I have ever done professionally."

Dr. Greenburg said she had been dieting and had "been doing quite well." She told an interviewer from the Times of London a few days ago she had lost 80 pounds in the past year.

Miss Elliot's 7-year-old daughter by singer James R. Hendricks, Vanessa, was reported with her grandmother in Baltimore, Md.

Born Ellen Naomi Cohen in Baltimore, she grew up in Virginia and Maryland and took the name Cassandra Elliot before going to New York at 19 to try for a stage career. After a few small parts and a role in a touring company of "The Music Man," she turned to singing, first with Denny Doherty and Tim Rose in a group called The Big Three, then with Doherty and two others as The Mugwumps.

The Mugwumps also failed with the public and split up. Then Miss Elliot and Doherty teamed with John and Michelle Phillips as The Mamas and the Papas. Success came quickly in the form of million-selling gold records and sellout concerts across the country.

Hearing On Aging Held Here To Get Opinions

The fourth in a series of hearings conducted by the North Carolina Governor's Coordinating Council on Aging was held this morning in Greenville.

According to Robert Q. Beard, executive director of the organization, the public hearings held to discuss state plan Title Three and Title Seven are required by federal regulations.

The hearings, held also in Greensboro, Asheville and Wilmington, were conducted to learn public opinion and comments on the program for the aging.

Four hearings have been held so that a better cross section of opinion could be obtained.

It is hoped that information and suggestions received from hearings can be used to improve the program for the aging. Transcripts from the hearings will be given to Governor Holshouser and to a federal office in Atlanta, Ga., with the hope that the program will be improved.

Beard stated that one purpose of the meetings was to build a file of information and continue to develop comment and participation to effect change in the council on aging in North Carolina.

Also included on today's program were various speakers who commented on several aspects of the Council of Aging Program, such as the nutrition program.

The hearing was scheduled to adjourn at 1 p.m. today.

To Meet Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman said today President Nixon's Watergate defense lawyer, James D. St. Clair, was ready to meet an afternoon deadline for surrendering the first batch of 20 tapes of presidential conversations to U.S. District Judge John D. Sirica.

Nixon and St. Clair spent much of Monday afternoon reviewing the materials, being surrendered in accord with last Wednesday's Supreme Court ruling that the tapes are needed by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski for a Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to begin Sept. 9.

St. Clair had until 4 p.m. EDT to turn over the originals of 20 tapes to Sirica, who will study them to determine what portions are relevant for Jaworski's purpose. Under the court ruling, tapes and memoranda covering an additional 44 presidential conversations must be provided later.

Fordham Here

UNC Medical School Dean Christopher Fordham and UNC-ECU Medical Schools Liaison Person William Cromartie will be at Pitt Memorial Hospital for a meeting today at 5 p.m.

The two will meet with the executive committee of the hospital board of trustees and the education committee of the medical staff.

Trustees Chairman Ed Warren said he does not expect any decisions to come out of this meeting, that it is supposed to be a question and answer session about the Area Health Education Center concept as it would apply to Pitt County.
