Collective Bargaining By State Employes Backed At Democrat Convention

two issues came Saturday near the end of the party's seven-hour convention when most of the 2,428 delegates had left.

The platform committee had voted to table or kill a number of liberal resolutions favoring amnesty, tax reform, collective bargaining for state employes and impeachment.

The convention selected five delegates to represent the state at-large at the national miniconvention in Kansas City next December. The five included three blacks, three women and no white male over 30 years old. It represented an effort by party leaders to put some racial and sexual balance into the state's delegation.

The five chosen were Zoe Barbee of Greensboro, Tom Bacote of Fayetteville, Barbara Wall of Morganton, Gladys Bullard of New Bern and Mayor Howard Lee of Chapel Hill.

Thirty delegates had been selected earlier at district conventions. Of the 30, only one was black, five were women and three were under 30.

In addition, Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., party chairman James A. Sugg, vice chairman Alfreda Webb and the state's seven Democratic congressmen will be delegates.

Ervin delivered the keynote address. He invited Democrats who voted Republican in 1972 to "come back home."

Ervin told the delegates he wasn't going to talk about the Republicans because "I have a compassionate heart." Then he told an anecdote about a librarian at a federal prison being asked whether the library had the current best-seller, "All The President's Men," a book about the Watergate scandals.

Ervin said the librarian replied: "We don't have all of them yet but they're coming in every day."

Junior ROTC Gets Additional $10,000

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners this morning approved the transfer of $10,000 in surplus school funds for the Pitt County Board of Education so that junior Reserve Officer Training Corps programs can be instituted at three county high schools.

Pitt County school superintendent Arthur Alford told commissioners that Junior ROTC programs have been authorized for North Pitt, Farmville Central and Ayden-Grifton Schools for the coming year and requested the additional money to fund the establishment of the programs.

A Junior ROTC program has been in operation at D.H. Conley for the past several years. Total cost of the four programs will be about $300,000 ($75,000 at each school) Alford indicated with the county providing about $50,000 of the total.

The Board of Commissioners and Alford also discussed the fact that some people have the misconception that the Board of Commissioners, rather than the Board of Education allocates special district school funds to the various schools.

Alford in agreement with the members of the Board of Commissioners emphasized that the allocation of special district funds—money raised by Commissioners approval of a special district tax levy for support of the schools—"is a matter for the Board of Education, not the Board of County Commissioners". He told commission members that the Board of Education has in the past attempted to equalize the money raised by the special district levy that goes to the four high schools. Commissioners this morning were told by Dr. C.R. Prewett, interim director of the Mental Health Center that the center has received two grants recently.

Dr. Prewett said the center has received a $65,000 state grant for the establishment of a Group Home for emotionally disturbed children, and a $6,000 grant for use in a program for persons with developmental disabilities.

The Mental Health Center interim director told the board that in his opinion, Pitt County officials and residents alike should be proud of what the county has in the way of facilities, saying commissioners have "done an outstanding job" in their support for "mental health, school facilities, and other areas of service to the populous of the county."

Hesaid many persons in the county seem to practice "self flagellation" and fail to realize just what the county has to offer. "It's time to say we are about as good as anybody," Dr. Prewett emphasized.

In other business at their morning session, Commissioners heard reports from various county departments and agencies.

Jack Richardson, administrator of Pitt Memorial Hospital told the board.

Cyprus Truce Agreement Still Largely Inoperative

By The Associated Press

Talks on the demarcation of cease-fire lines and buffer zones on Cyprus between Greek Cypriot and Turkish forces entered a fourth day today as truce agreements remained largely inoperative.

Military officers representing Britain, Greece, Turkey and the United Nations peace-keeping force, who are conducting the talks, took their search for firm cease-fire lines to the battle zones on Sunday.

As they inspected the zones, skirmishes were reported along the northern coast near Kyrenia and along the "Green Line" separating the Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot sections of Nicosia.

The U.N. role in the peace effort apparently was downgraded on Sunday. A late-night press briefing on the deliberations was given by a secretary of the British High Commission in Nicosia, instead of by U.N. spokesman Rudolf Stajduhar as usual, after a British official announced that the United Nations henceforth would be in an "observer status."

In an earlier briefing, Stajduhar had referred to the work of the officers as "the four-party talks," but when the British spokesman, Geoffrey Stephens, took over, he called it "tripartite talks."

Asked to explain the change, both Stajduhar and Stephens declined comment. In New York, a spokesman for U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim said he knew nothing about a downgraded U.N. presence.

Greece, Turkey and Britain are participating in the talks as signatories to the 1960 treaty granting Cyprus independence from Britain and setting up the three as guarantors of its independence.

Relations between Turkey and the United Nations are known to have deteriorated in the past week, after Turkish insistence that U.N. troops withdraw from Turkish-controlled areas on the Mediterranean island.

"We are having difficulties with the freedom of movement of the United Nations forces in areas controlled by the Turkish armed forces," Stajduhar said Sunday. There are 3,750 U.N. soldiers on the island, but its functions have not been spelled out since the July 15 coup on Cyprus that deposed President Archbishop Makarios and began the slide toward a Turkish invasion five days later.

CAN BE RAINED ON

At the Pitt County Animal Shelter, there are no shelters over the dropoff pens up front to protect the animals when it's raining. Also, I wonder if the animals dropped off say on Friday are fed and given water over the weekend. C.B.

Pitt County Rabies Control Officer Jarvis Worthington said coverings for the dropoff pens have been budgeted and hopefully will be built soon. He said he does take any animals he finds in the pens on Saturday and Sunday mornings to the larger pens and that he feeds all animals present during the same visits.

WILL FUEL CHARGE GO UP?

VEPCO has filed for a 17 percent rate increase for North Carolina. If this is approved will the fuel charge also be increased? Mr. G.W.

There are a couple of things that should be explained first, according to Utilities Commission Director Charles Horne. VEPCO has asked for an interim rate increase for their retail customers, not the wholesale customers. Greenville is considered a wholesale customer and this proposed 17 per cent increase will not affect Greenville bills, according to Horne. It would affect towns such as Bethel and Williamston, whose residents buy on a retail basis. Horne added that a rate increase would not affect the fuel charge, if it is approved.

GARNISHED FOR TAXES

Can a person's wages be garnished for property taxes? N.G.

"Yes, garnishment is one legal means of tax collection," says Pitt County Tax Collector William Smith. "We're talking about taxes that are delinquent, usually for the second or third year, though we can legally do it during the first. When it's necessary, a garnishment notice is served on the employer, and it becomes his responsibility to collect the taxes. The standard rate is 10 per cent each pay period until the bill is paid, though it's up to the employer and employee to work out the arrangements."

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

Some of the plywood appealed for in Hotline on behalf of the Greenville Boys' Club was supplied by Mrs. A.F. Vars. More is needed to complete the boat house being built by the boys, Director Graham Gutting says.

Congress Seeks To Clear Desks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Appropriation bills for defense, veterans, space and housing programs are coming before the House and Senate, both of which are trying to clear essential business before taking up impeachment matters.

House debate was scheduled today on an $83.7-billion defense allotment. The Senate is taking up this week a $21.3-billion appropriations bill to fund the veterans, space and housing programs.

The need in the House to clear up essential business is more immediate than that of the Senate. Its impeachment floor debate is expected to begin Aug. 19. A Senate trial of President Nixon would depend on whether the House voted to impeach.

The Senate Rules Committee, however, already is working on the possibility of overhauling its impeachment rules. It was scheduled to hear from nine senators today.

In the Senate, supporters of a consumer protection bill planned to make another attempt this week to end a filibuster against the measure and bring it to a vote. Two previous attempts to shut off debate failed, by 10 votes the first time and seven votes the second.

The veterans-space-housing bill before the Senate is $139 million under President Nixon's budget.

However, economy advocates are expected to make efforts to cut it more.

No Undue Problems Raised By Heavy Rainfall

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Last week's rainfall continued on through most of the weekend as the Greenville area received roughly two and a half inches of measured precipitation.

A spokesman at the Greenville Utilities weather station said that rainfall for the 24-hour period ending today at 8 a.m. measured 1.46 inches while rainfall for the period ending at 8 a.m. Saturday was recorded at 1.03 inches.

The spokesman noted that no measurable rainfall was charted during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. Sunday as the area managed to have one day of relatively clear weather on Saturday.

High temperature for the 24-hour period ending today at 8 a.m. was 86 degrees and it represented a slight drop from highs recorded on the previous two days. Low for the same period was 70 degrees.

The weather spokesman reported that high temperature for the period ending Saturday morning was 90 with a low of 72 and for the 24-hour period ending Sunday at 8, the high was 90 with a low of 72.

The river level changed very little over the weekend in spite of the rain and this morning's reading of 1.8 feet represented only a slight rise from the 1.7 feet reported on Saturday morning.

The weekend rains, although steady, caused no significant problems as far as streets closures or washouts were concerned, according to Mayo Allen, director of Public Works. Allen said that two or three calls were received concerning street water and several manholes were reported clogged but crews were on the job correcting the problems.

Allen said that work crews were out this morning checking potential problem areas and so far, nothing major had occurred as a result of the rain. A spokesman at the Greenville division office of the Department of Transportation also said that the department had experienced no more problems than usual with the heavy rains.

He said that a few minor washouts had been reported but nothing major to interfere with normal traffic activities. Highway crews were out this morning repairing the damages, he noted.

More Leaf Marts Begin Sales

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Flue-cured tobacco sales began today on most markets in northern North Carolina and Virginia, the last areas to open their 1974 season.

The markets opening this week are part of the former Old Belt or Middle Belt. A new marketing system ignored the traditional belt lines in setting opening dates this year.

Sales of flue-cured tobacco—the type used for smoking products—began on the Georgia-Florida and South Carolina-Border North Carolina markets on July 15, and in eastern North Carolina on July 22.

North Carolina markets opening this week are: Burlington, Durham, Greensboro, Henderson, Louisburg, Madison, Mebane, Mount Airy, Oxford, Reidsville, Roxboro, Stoneville, Warrenton, Winston-Salem and Yadkinville.

Virginia markets opening are: Brookneal, South Boston, Martinsville, Danville, Chase City, South Hill, Clarksville, Lawrenceville, Kenbridge and Petersburg.

The North Carolina and Virginia markets opening this week will sell under a revised schedule which has cut by 30 per cent their maximum daily sales rate.

The "sales opportunity" revision came at a special meeting last week of the Industrywide Flue-cured Tobacco Advisory Committee, a quasi-federal agency of growers, warehousemen and buyers.

The action came after reports that much of the leaf in the Old Belt and Middle Belt areas of North Carolina and Virginia would not be ready to sell for least two more weeks.

To keep a steady flow of 85 million pounds of tobacco per week to the buying companies—the most they can process—the maximum sales rate was hiked 30 per cent at Georgia-Florida markets and 13 per cent in South Carolina and eastern North Carolina markets.

More tobacco is ready for sale in these southern areas, the committee said.

The revised schedule is effective for the next two weeks only.

The regular limit will be allowed for first day sales this week in northern North Carolina and Virginia, but the lower limit will be effective for the rest of the period. Growers generally have been disappointed at early market prices in Georgia, Florida, South Carolina and eastern North Carolina.

Last week's average price of more than $94 per hundred pounds on the South Carolina-Border North Carolina markets was a record, but farmers say it isn't enough to offset higher production costs.

John Cyrus, tobacco specialist with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, believes the price will reach over $100 later this year as the quality of tobacco improves.

Most early sales have been leaf from the bottom of the tobacco stalk. As the better leaf comes to market, prices have improved, and Cyrus predicts they will continue to do so.

Cyrus believes the season average must be about $97 per hundred pounds for growers maintain their standard of living with last year.

The season average to date is near $88 per hundred pounds.

LOST HIS LIFE—Bob Pleso, 22, is shown shortly after the collision with the last three automobiles in a chain of thirty as he attempted to break the motorcycle jump record of 171 feet. (AP Wirephoto)

Stunt Cyclist Dies In Trying Out-Do Knievel

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP) — Calling motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel a "con artist," cyclist Bob Pleso said a few days ago. "I'm going to jump so far, it's hard to figure how I'm going to land."

Pleso died of massive internal injuries Sunday after his motorcycle landed on the 20th car in a string of 30, hurling his body to the asphalt surface of a drag strip.

Witnesses among a crowd of about 3,000 said the force of the cycle hitting the car tossed Pleso cartwheeling 40 feet through the air before he landed on his neck and shoulders and skidded another 20 feet.

His motorcycle careened off the drag strip and hit a Columbus, Ga., television cameraman, Santiago Rivera, who was listed in fair condition in a Phenix City hospital with a broken hip.

Tommy Bush, an announcer for another Columbus station, said Pleso seemed to be in good shape as he took off at about 100 miles an hour from a five-foot ramp.

"After he hit, he just flew up in the air, his arms and legs straight out; he looked like a rag doll," Bush said.

The stuntman died in surgery about two hours after the crash.

Pleso, 22, of Ocala, Fla., had told the crowd he was gunning for world records in distance and number of cars jumped. He hoped to clear 200 feet, surpassing what he said were records of 171 feet and 23 cars.

He said 21 cars is the most ever cleared by Kniefel, the nation's best-known cycle stuntman, who is famous for his crashes and injuries as well as for his jumping exploits.

"I've walked away from every jump and have no broken bones," Pleso said before his jump.

Pleso said he was one of a small number of jumpers who take off from a ramp but land on pavement. Most cycle stuntmen, including Kniefel, jump ramp to ramp.

"Ramp-to-ramp jumpers are a dime a dozen," Pleso said.

"On the last 40 to 50 feet of my jump, all my forward motion — which is the only motion the rampers experience — will change to downward motion. I have been able to compute my landing force on all other jumps but I just don't know how heavy it will be this time."

He was aided in designing his cycles and studying jumps by his brother, Bill Pleso, who was one of the first to reach him after the crash.

Pleso scorned Kniefel's ballyhooed Snake River Canyon jump scheduled for next month in Idaho, saying, "For $6 million all he's doing is rocketing off a ramp...pulling a ripcord and then he and his skycycle will float like a feather to the ground."

But he gave the stuntman credit for setting up the bright future he thought lay ahead.

"Evel is an old-fashioned con artist, but none of the riches I expect to make would be possible if he hadn't broken the ground."

Found Mama Cass Victim Of Obesity

By ED BLANCHE Associated Press Writer LONDON (AP) — "Mama" Cass Elliot, the 276-pound American singing star who died last week in her luxury London apartment, was the victim of her own obesity, the official coroner's report said today.

Coroner Gavin Thurston said Miss Elliot, whose body was found a week ago in her London apartment, died because "part of the heart muscle turned to fat due to obesity."

Simpson said she apparently had suffered a heart attack while lying in bed.

At the coroner's inquest, Britain's top pathologist, Prof. Keith Simpson, testified that the 33-year-old onetime member of the Mamas and Papas singing group was "grossly overweight" — twice the proper weight for a woman of her height and build.

Miss Elliot was buried Friday in Hollywood as more than 300 persons, including many show business personalities, paid their respects.

Simpson, who conducted the autopsy, testified that he found no traces of alcohol or drugs.

'Unhappy' With Soviet Weapons

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indian defense officials are reported dissatisfied with some of the major weapons received from Russia and turning elsewhere to buy new submarines and aircraft.

U.S. intelligence sources report the Indians are unhappy with the performance of F class diesel-powered attack submarines and some jet fighters supplied by the Soviet Union, as well as spare parts and other logistic support provided by Russia.

As a result, these sources said, the Indians have shown renewed interest in buying advanced planes and other arms from the British, who used to be one of their main suppliers.

Meanwhile, the Indians are reported enlarging their own weapons industry, which has supplied home-manufactured tanks and other weaponry.

There is no indication that the Indians are actively considering any major arms procurement from the United States. Unaligned India grew closer to Russia in recent years, particularly when the Soviet Union supported the New Delhi government in India's war with Pakistan over Bangladesh. Pakistan was backed by Communist China.

Russia is reported to have sent India six diesel subs, nine destroyer escorts, surface-to-air missiles, and more than 300 jet fighters, many of which were assembled at Indian aeronautics plants.

Indian navy crews went to Russia several weeks ago to take possession of a seventh submarine and a 10th Petya-class destroyer escort, these sources said.

For future arms purchases, the Indians are believed by U.S. intelligence sources to be considering the new British Jaguar jet fighter and the Nimrod anti-submarine warfare plane, among a variety of weapons.

These developments fit in with persistent reports that India is expanding its sea and air operations in the Indian Ocean, which is receiving increased attention from the United States because of oil tanker routes passing through those waters.

India opposes big power naval presence in the Indian Ocean.

Camilla Hall Burial Held

ST. PETER, Minn. (AP) — The remains of slain Symphonie Liberation Army (SLA) member Camilla Hall were buried in this small southern Minnesota town Sunday night.

Miss Hall was killed in Los Angeles May 17 during a shootout between SLA members and police. About 150 family friends watched Miss Hall's father place her ashes beside the graves of two brothers and a sister.

Her father, the Rev. George Hall, dug a hole with a shovel and personally buried the ashes.

He was silent at the burial service at Resurrection Cemetery, speaking instead at a reception afterward.

He said he received a report 10 days ago from Los Angeles police on the May 17 shootout, and contended that new evidence indicates that the SLA members were trying to surrender, and that a letter found on Camilla indicated perhaps "she had that as her mission when she broke out in the open and was felled."

Burke Tax Council To Fight Food Sales Tax

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP)—The Burke County Tax Council, which successfully fought the proposed one-cent local sales tax here, is making plans for a statewide campaign to repeal the sales tax on food.

Council spokesmen say they will request legislative candidates to state their position on the repeal of the tax.

North Carolina has a three per cent tax on food. Ninety-five of the state's 100 counties have tacked on the additional one-cent local tax.

The kickoff for the campaign is planned for September in Morganton, with state Sen. McNeil Smith of Guilford County as the main speaker.

Smith, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general, is one of the state's leading proponents of tax revision. He has called for repeal of the food tax.

Members of the council plan to meet with a sister group from Scotland County this week in Charlotte to map plans for the campaign.

The Burke County group has proposed increases on cigarette and liquor taxes to offset revenue loss if the food tax is repealed.

"If necessary, normal people can restrict or do without liquor and cigarettes," the group said in a statement. "None of us can live without food."

"In plain truth, the food tax affects everyone. It critically diminishes the buying power of large families as well as those in the lower through the upper middle income brackets."

The group says a higher tax on cigarettes would also eliminate the cigarette smuggling to states with higher tobacco taxes.

"North Carolina's (cigarette) tax is so low, however, that it has invited the Mafia and other underworld elements into North Carolina," the statement said.

Lady Sheriff To Carry No Gun

CHESTERFIELD, S. C. (AP)—A 58-year-old grandmother assumes her duties as sheriff of Chesterfield County today, filling the term of her husband who died recently after 16 years in the job.

Margie Hill says she'll carry her badge and identification, but no gun. "There's no need for that," she said. "I have 10 very fine deputies."

Mrs. Hill will serve until Jan. 10, when the newly elected sheriff takes office. Gov. John West appointed her to fill out her husband's term because of her familiarity with the job.

"We all wanted her to get the appointment," said Deputy William Thurman. "It may seem a bit unusual, but she knows as much about the job as any of the deputies, and besides, she's been here longer than any of us."

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday Travel By Other Means, Don't Drive

MRS. ERNEST GEORGE HARGETT II

In a candlelight double ring ceremony Sunday at 3:00 p.m., Miss Linda Carol King became the bride of Ernest George Hargett II in Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John A. Farmer. A program of wedding music was presented by Jimmy Hyatt, organist, and Mrs. Todd Pair, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw King and Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Barker Hargett, all of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of silkened organza of peau de soie and Venise lace. The gown was styled with an empire waist encircled with Venise beading interlaced with pink satin ribbon. The applied bodice was styled with a scooped sculptured neckline and long tapered sleeves with applied cufflets and beading. The skirt flowed into an attached chapel train, bordered with lace appliques.

Her chapel length veil of white illusion was bordered with matching Venise lace and attached to an open Camelot headpiece of Venise lace beaded in pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, gardenias, baby's breath and pink roses.

Miss Larkin Ward of Fayetteville was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of romance blue crepe designed with a shirred bodice, scooped neckline with a collar and long sleeves edged with white lace. She carried a nosegay of yellow blue and white daisies with baby's breath, tied with blue satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Eva Harrington, Jan Flanagan, Guen Rogers and Anna White, all of Greenville, and Mrs. Kathy Carnevale of Fayetteville. Their gowns were styled identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried matching nosegays.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Bill Futrell of Statesville, Christopher, Peter, Gregory and Joel Hargett, brothers of the bridegroom, Richard Bethune and Feeto Williams, all of Greenville.

The couple will reside in Greenville after a wedding trip to Florida.

The bride is a graduate of Wayne Community College, Goldsboro, with a degree in dental hygiene. She was a member of Phi Theta Kappa fraternity and is employed by Dr. Jay M. Collie and Dr. Robert F. Cargill, Greenville. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with a degree in pharmacy. He was a member of Phi Delta Chi fraternity and is employed as a pharmacist at Biggs Drug Store.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Ralph C. Tucker.

The mother of the bride wore a pink formal gown with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom selected a yellow formal gown, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Grandmothers of the bridegroom, Mrs. Floyd A. Bell and Mrs. Benjamin Dailey Stowe Sr., were remembered with orchid corsages.

The church was decorated with pyramidal candelabra holding lighted chase candles with greenery. On the Communion table were arrangements of white mums, snapdragons and fern. At the altar was a profile prie-dieu where the bridal couple took their vows and knelt for the closing prayer.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the ladies parlor of the church. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe L. King.

Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Mullen presided at the guest register. The refreshment table was covered with a white satin cloth edged with lace and centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons and pom poms in silver candelabra with lighted tapers.

Mrs. Linwood Stoneman and Mrs. Ralph Sullivan poured punch. The cake table was covered with a white satin cloth garlanded with improved smilax and centered with a three tiered wedding cake. Mrs. William M. Swindell and Mrs. James H. Ward served cake. Others assisting in serving were friends and relatives of the bride.

The wedding party and guests were honored at an after-rehearsal dinner Saturday night at the Greenville Golf and Country Club given by the parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd A. Bell, Mrs. Benjamin Dailey Stowe Sr., Dr. and Mrs. Wingate Elwood Swain and Mr. and Mrs. William I. Wooten Jr.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Henry A. White. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. W. N. Jackson Jr., Mrs. Grady Nichols and Mrs. William Mann.

The bride remembered her attendants with gifts.

DEAR ABBY: These are the facts: Married 35 years to a charming, talented, beautiful and loving wife. She is generous and kind to animals, but she has one fault which drives me up a wall.

She has an uncontrollable urge to do the driving from the passenger side of the front seat. Her blue eyes are focused sharply on the road even before we pull away from the curb. "Watch that man coming toward us! You're going too fast! You're going too slow! He's trying to pass us! Don't change lanes now! There's a stop sign ahead!"

Abby, I have had 50 years of accident-free driving experience and I am a careful driver.

I have been wanting to take a drive up to Tahoe, down to Carmel, or to some of the other lovely places in this area, but I don't think I could tolerate a copilot.

I've thought of adhesive tape and blinders, but I just couldn't. I love her too much. Any suggestions?
SAN FRANCISCAN

DEAR SAN: Driving from the passenger seat is done impulsively and reflexively. You can't change her, and she can't help it. Take a train, plane or a bus, but don't drive.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married recently. After the invitations went out, an out-of-town cousin wrote and asked if I would make an overnight motel reservation for her husband, herself and their two children, as they were coming in for the wedding.

I made the reservation gladly. The day following the wedding, when these relatives were checking out, I had a phone call from the motel manager. He said these people told him to send their bill to ME! I was shocked, but not knowing what else to say, I said, "Yes. Send it, and I will take care of it."

The bill showed lots of extra charges for room service and long distance phone calls.

Abby, are the bride's parents expected to pick up the motel tab for out-of-town guests? Or was I had?
STILL FUMING

DEAR STILL: You were had. If the bride's (or groom's) parents can afford it, they sometimes pick up the tab for out-of-towners. It's a lovely, gracious gesture, but never expected.

DEAR ABBY: To "Short in Lubcock"—the bank teller who wound up $1000 short: I feel sorry for you, but I once tried to tell a bank teller that I thought she gave me too much, and she said in a very sarcastic tone, "We (meaning the bank) do not make mistakes!"

So I took the money home and when I counted it again, sure enough, I had ten dollars too much. So I gave it to the Shrine Hospital in the bank's name.
LONG IN FLA.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to know if there is anything in insecticide that could excite a man.

Arthur is 55—just the age most men start to slow down, but he's still going strong. He gets especially aroused right after he sprays our property for bugs.

I noticed it last year when we moved into this house. We had ants and roaches, and right after Arthur sprayed he started looking for me. He would get so passionate that he didn't care if I did my housework or even cook. Last year was bad enough, but this year it's worse. On weekends he sprays sometimes two and three times a day. It's really getting me down.

We live in Florida. What brand of bug bomb will kill the bugs down here without bringing out my husband's manhood so strong?

He uses Raid, TNT and Rid-a-bug, and they all have the same effect on him. The brands that don't affect him don't have any effect on the bugs either. Please help me.
TIRED

DEAR TIRED: My chemical experts know of nothing in any brand of insecticide that will rejuvenate the waning desire of man. If there were, we'd have a lot more dead bugs, livelier husbands and tired wives.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to Abby: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclosed stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Demonstration Lectures Given On Freezing, Canning Produce

Editors: Following is the first of two dispatches on freezing or canning fruits and vegetables coming to harvest.

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — So your strawberry crop is finished and it's too early for the sweet corn and the peaches. But the first tomatoes are ripening faster than you can eat them and the summer squash seems to grow from a few inches to baseball bat size almost overnight.

What can you do to salvage the fruits and vegetables of your lovingly tended garden? Farmer John Youngs and Wanda Mead, a Nassau County home extension specialist, came up with some practical, economical answers in demonstration lectures here: freeze or can them.

The daytime program was attended by about 75 suburbanites and at least one New Yorker—Janardan Bhatt, a Brooklyn insurance broker who wants to start a home canning business in his native India.

Has Road Stand
Some in the predominantly female audience said they were gardening this year for the first time. Angela Schill, Hicksville, N.Y., is one of them. She said she had come to the lecture to learn how to can and freeze the harvest for her family—husband John, their son, 23, and daughter, 21. Mrs. Schill has a six-by-eight-foot plot where the family's swimming pool used to be.

"We sold it and we swim at Jones Beach," she said.

Youngs is a fourth generation farmer who sells the produce from his 130 acres at his own road stand in the north shore community of Old Brookfield. He showed up with a basket of produce that brought admiring gasps from the audience. To name a few, there were shiny, rich red strawberries and rhubarb, burgundy-colored beets with crisp leaves, full-podded peas an appetizing light green color and bright red tomatoes.

The shine on strawberries is a sign of maturity and freshness, just as bright color is a sign of ripeness, Youngs said. Dull-looking berries may have been picked green or refrigerated overnight.

Some Gardening Tips
He had other tips for recognizing maturity and ripeness:

—Fully blood red tomatoes have optimum flavor. Growth cracks are normal and do not affect flavor or quality. They are caused by stress—a dry spell followed by heavy rain. For freshness in store tomatoes, check the stem. It should be green, not brown or withered.

—Skinny carrots may look pretty and they will be tender, but they lack the full flavor of mature ones.

—Beets about two inches in diameter are ideal. Larger ones may be woody.

—Mature peas have nicely rounded pods that are green. When they start to turn white, the vegetable is past its prime.

—Pick broccoli before the tight green buds of the florets start to open into yellow blossoms.

—Pick hybrid summer squash such as yellow straight neck and zucchini while they are small. They will be more tender and flavorful than large ones. Don't let them grow to the size of baseball bats or they'll finish the plant.

—If you buy summer squash instead of growing it, look for vegetables covered with light fuzz. It means they are freshly harvested.

—Most people eat corn too young, Youngs said. Tiny kernels, like skinny carrots, are tender. But full flavor and sweetness come from ears with kernels about one-fourth inch wide, or slightly larger for some varieties.

—Refrigerate corn right after picking if you are not going to cook or can it at once. Left unchilled, all its sugar will turn to starch within 10 hours.

You don't need a lot of expensive equipment to freeze or can your garden produce.

A blanching basket is useful but either a colander or cheesecloth makes a satisfactory substitute for dunking fruits and vegetables in scalding water for specific amounts of time to stop enzyme and bacterial action that can spoil frozen food.

Peanut butter jars with rubber sealing rings in their lids are safe for packing pickles by the open-kettle or the water-bath method.

Mayonnaise jars also can be used safely with both canning methods, but their tops should be replaced by self-sealing home canning lids or new rubber rings and porcelain-lined zinc lids.

Don't Reuse Jars
These were among the tips and advice given by Nassau County cooperative extension specialist Wanda Mead in a demonstration-lecture here.

Until now, both the state extension services and the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) have warned against reusing commercial canning jars for anything except foods packed by the open-kettle method and sealed with paraffin.

Mrs. Mead said the new recommendations were made by Cornell University's College of Human Ecology, following extensive testing. She said that commercial jars free from scratches, chips or cracks actually are safer than old canning jars that have been knocked around and weakened during years of storage. Any jar that is scratched or has chips at the top or a warped top can let air in and spoil the food, she said.

Commercial canning jars can also be used for freezing food, she added, but square or rectangular containers are preferable because they take up less space.

Round Jars Best
Round jars are best for canning because they permit safe, even heat penetration to the center.

Mrs. Mead said food also can be frozen safely in plastic or good coated containers from dairy sour cream, cottage cheese, margarine, whipped toppings and the like. But their lids are not as secure as those on home freezing containers, and should be sealed with freezer tape.

Coated cartons made especially for home freezing also can be reused, she said, because the food in them must first be sealed in plastic bags. To prevent bulging, place the bag in the carton before you fill it.

Some plastic bags are made especially for home freezing, but Mrs. Mead said any good quality plastic food bag is suitable. It can be sealed with either a wire twist or a curling or an electric iron, using the lowest heat setting.

Plastic food bags are handy also when you soak a large number of cucumbers in brine for pickling. Mrs. Mead said even a diaper pail could be used if it first is lined with a large plastic bag such as the kind used for turkeys. She warned against using plastic garbage bags for this or any other kind of food storage, because some are treated with deodorizing chemicals.

A water-filled plastic bag also makes a good weight for keeping cucumbers or other vegetables or fruits from floating in soaking solutions or syrup.

Other economies:
Cut corn from the cob after it has been blanched. Cobs take up a lot of space that could be filled more thriftily with something edible.

Boned meat takes less space than unboned. If you plan to make soup stock from the bones, either do it right away and freeze it for future use. Or bag and freeze the bones separately, if your freezer is large enough.

Energy Costs Raise All Costs

Another one of those economic reports (they're usually bad reading these days) announced the U. S. balance of trade has undergone a new degree of imbalance. . . meaning the value of imports outweighed value of our exports. It's bad news.

There was an explanatory note. Seems the increased cost of petroleum sold to this country was the factor behind that imbalance of trade. Without that higher oil price, we'd have actually been ahead of the game.

It made for a reflective mood. We, our society, is based on an "energy economy". Everything produced for our comfort and health, recreation and convenience (not even excepting agriculture) depends on energy.

Petroleum is the dominant energy-source today.

Small wonder that with the geometric progression of petroleum costs, coming from outside our borders, that the cost of everything else has risen; and actual shortages and fears of shortages plague the most commonplace aspects of living.

"Normalcy" in the form of a more equitable distribution of necessities and the small luxuries of life will be more easily within our grasp when the cost of energy approaches that share of over-all income we used to know.

It will come a lot sooner when this country's development of energy sources begins to hit high gear.

A Common Ground Is Difficult To Locate

Dr. Leo Jenkins has frequently been advised by many state newspapers that if he would only shut up all the problems of higher education in North Carolina would go away.

Well, Dr. Jenkins pretty much kept quiet in the most recent ECU Medical School controversy concerning the leadership purge. He referred all questions to Chapel Hill Medical School Dean Christopher Fordham.

The Raleigh News and Observer had a comment on that, too. Jenkins took a posture of "public pouting," was the editorial observation.

Somewhere between speaking out and remaining silent, there might be a common ground that Dr. Jenkins could take. . . but it might be difficult to find.

A BIT DISTRACTING, TO SAY THE LEAST!

Nixon Studies Tactics

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP)—President Nixon has rejected, at least for now, suggestions that he take his case against impeachment to the people with a major nationally televised address, aides report.

Speculation that Nixon was preparing such an address was spurred Sunday when he summoned his top two speechwriters and his impeachment lawyer to his mountaintop retreat.

But after a five-hour discussion with speechwriters Patrick Buchanan and Ray Price, lawyer James D. St. Clair and White House aides Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Ronald L. Ziegler, a presidential spokesman said "there will not be a speech this week."

Meanwhile, The Washington Post quoted White House sources as saying Nixon is being urged by key advisers to adopt a new impeachment defense posture in which he would acknowledge some degree of participation in the Watergate cover-up while stressing that he had no intention to break the law.

A story by reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein said the sources reported that the new tactic was proposed because the 64 tape recordings which Nixon has been ordered to turn over to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica contain information potentially damaging to the President.

White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren issued the denial of plans for nationally televised address by the President concerning the impeachment and said he knew of no plan for a written presidential statement either.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and House GOP Leader John Rhodes of Arizona had suggested that Nixon make a major public address on the issue now dominating most of the President's working hours.

Disclosure that Nixon had called the speechwriters to his secluded compound also fed rumors he was considering resigning but Warren issued a steadfast denial.

"No," the spokesman said. "Nothing has changed."

Nixon arrived at Camp David Saturday night with his wife, daughters and sons-in-law and his closest friend, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo. After dinner Saturday night, Julie and David Eisenhower returned to Washington but the others remained for the rest of the gray, rainy weekend.

As Nixon flew to the presidential retreat Saturday, Senate Republican Whip Robert Griffin of Michigan said he was sending to the White House a letter saying he would consider it an impeachable offense if Nixon refused to heed a Senate subpoena for more tape recordings of presidential conversations.

Warren confirmed receipt of the letter but refused comment, except to say that "Sen. Griffin, of course, will get a response."

Prisons Danger Signals

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Overcrowding in the state's prisons is not simply a matter of statistics or the logistics of finding a bed for every body.

It is, in these hot, muggy days of summer, a matter of a potentially explosive situation. Especially is this true as the majority of those in prison are undergoing a period of enforced idleness this summer with the end of working on the public roads before a substitute program is provided.

Prisons Commissioner Ralph Edwards agrees with the current assessment of danger signals in the system put forth in recent days by a number of knowledgeable people.

"It is true that in the hot months of the year, the prisoners have shorter tempers and less patience. "This is a critical time," Edwards said.

Need Work
Edwards is pushing hard to get more of the men off their bunks and out of the steamy barracks and onto jobs. So far, 335 men have been returned to work on the roads—but this time under a work release arrangement for pay instead of under the gun.

His goal is to have 1,000 on the highway program by the end of the year.

The 1973 General Assembly ordered the men off the road, and this year set up the work release plan. But putting prisoners to work on the roads has hit some snags especially in the form of resistance from supervisors across the state who used to work the prisoners under guard and have been reluctant to accept them without guard. Officials in the prison system, and at the highway division, insist those problems are ironed out, now.

Meanwhile, a former prisoner who now runs a halfway house in Charlotte and is in close touch with prison units across the state, labels the inmate mood explosive. "We're sitting on a keg of powder just waiting for the spark," says Stacy Long.

"The men are telling me just get them a bush-axe or a hoe or anything, but let them get outside and work instead of sitting all day," Long said.

A nationally recognized penal authority, retired Alcatraz warden Fred Wilkerson, echoes that warning. Wilkerson is now living on Lake Norman near Charlotte—and near a prison unit at Huntersville.

He said that in the past year there have been 124 escapes—almost 100 per cent turnover—at the prison camp.

"The state took these men off the roads before it was ready to provide any productive use of them," Wilkerson argues. Idleness, he said, is breeding strain.

Beds No Problem
"Beds is not the problem. Simply providing beds is easy, we can find the space for the men. But it's the strain put on programs and services—everything is in short supply due to overcrowding: medical services, counseling, work release, jobs," Wilkerson said.

What is boils down to, the hardnosed former warden argues, is that the overcrowding "means everything involves a line—you have to line up to eat, to exercise, anything. And this becomes a strain, and moods get bad."

Work is the answer, Wilkerson proposed. "Work is the best security in the world; it's better than towers and guards. . . Constructive, productive work is the most important thing is that it keeps the men busy, trains them for good work habits, teaches them to compete in a healthy way, and gives them the satisfaction of seeing a product completed."

From inside the walls, continued reports are heard of increased assaults, fights, escapes.

Edwards said the system is moving to alleviate conditions. He argued that the Huntersville escape problem has been largely overcome, and that the 124 escapes can not be compared to a prison population of 170 to conclude there has been nearly 100 per cent turnover. More than 1,200 men have gone through the unit, which is a processing center, he explained.

Despite that, however, the commissioner is concerned with the idleness and overcrowding which is contributing to the escape problem and other tensions.

The INSIDE REPORT

Guerrilla War In Govm't

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—At a time of potential economic disaster when businessmen fear the Nixon administration can no longer govern, the official most commanding their respect—William Simon, Secretary of the Treasury—is the target of guerrilla warfare inside the government.

Simon returned last week from a two-week overseas mission livid that the White House was seemingly oblivious to such warfare. He has made clear his bitter disappointment that President Nixon's top assistants did not immediately repudiate distorted leaks of his budget-cutting efforts. That failure can only tacitly encourage guerrilla fighters in the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and in the White House in guest of Simon's scalp.

Rough treatment for the best of his cabinet members has been habitual during Mr. Nixon's presidency. But what was merely vicious in past years can be disastrous in today's crisis atmosphere where confused guerrilla rumblings in Washington further panic Wall Street and Main Street.

Animosity toward the dynamic and highly visible Simon which has grown steadily among faceless

Nixon staffers is the underpinning to the power struggle between Simon and OMB director Roy Ash.

That struggle has centered on Ash's opposition to Simon's insistence on daring and politically dangerous budget cuts to fight inflation. Simon has won support from people who count: Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee; New York-based business economists and the business community generally. When no preoccupied by his own survival, President Nixon was thought to side with Simon.

In response to the President's request, Simon on July 6—five days before his overseas mission—wrote a memorandum to economic coordinator Kenneth Rush pointing out possible budget cuts if Congress would change laws that now freeze so-called uncontrollable spending. Although Simon listed reductions totalling $25.6 billion, the memo clearly precluded all this being pressed in any one year, much less this year.

While Simon was flying to Saudi Arabia, a version of his program was leaked. In published form, he was painted as a barefoot bond salesman from Wall Street pushing a morally corrupt and politically destructive $20 billion immediate budget reduction. Mr. Nixon, furthermore, was suggested as tilting against the Simon plan. The White House greeted the published report with deafening silence.

White House aides whispered the leak came from OMB. At OMB, the finger was pointed at the White House. Simon is known to consider Ash personally responsible. Whatever the actual source, it is not difficult to find OMB officials who will expound at length on the Simon memorandum's "primitive" economics. One such official praises Mr. Nixon's dishwasher-dull July (Continued on page 5)

Emperor's New Clothes

WASHINGTON—Chairman: The clerk will read the Articles of Abdication.

Clerk: Resolved that the Emperor violated his oath of office when he paraded down the streets under a canopy with no clothes on.

That he made false and misleading statements to the effect that he was wearing clothes at the time, and that he was party to a coverup and interfered in a lawful investigation as to whether in effect he did on said day parade in the nude.

Chairman: Each member

Grazinda: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. The question we have been asked to vote on today—a question that could affect the empire for generations to come—is did the Emperor know he had no clothes on and what did he do about it.

Let me review the evidence. The Emperor, we can all agree, spent all the taxpayers' money on clothes for himself. He had a coat for every hour of the day. Now from the Emperor's own parchments we know that on June 17 two cheats arrived

Other Editors Say Doing Double Duty

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

When is up down? Answer: When you make more money but it buys less. That's exactly what has been happening to millions of Americans. From May, 1973 to May, 1974, real spendable earnings of a married worker with three dependents dropped 5.6 per cent.

In other words, prices are rising faster than wages and salaries and have been for some time. What are people doing about it? Some are worrying a lot. Some are arguing with their spouses more often over money problems. And some, probably, are borrowing money merely to meet expenses.

Others, of course, are moonlighting. The most recent figures from the U.S. Bureau of Labor reveal that nearly 7 per cent of all employed men hold two or more jobs. Yet, there's a multi-million dollar alternative being chosen by an increasing number of Americans—an alternative that apparently has escaped the notice of public and private agencies that watch the economy.

The alternative is self-employment in second jobs (as opposed to working for someone else), a development which has been revealed only fairly recently. There are many indications of this phenomenon, such as front yard signs saying "Saws Sharpened," "Small Appliance Repair," "Picture Framing." There are also roadside vegetable stands, and homes with business signs saying "Day Nursery," "Income Tax Service" or "Beauty Shop."

The "cottage industry" common in developing countries is flourishing in affluent, industrialized America.

More than a half-million people were self-employed in non-farming secondary jobs during 1970. The same year another 600,000 who worked full time were also self-employed in agriculture.

It is apparent that almost anyone who is motivated can earn extra money in his spare time. Even college professors do it when they provide consulting services. So, one wonders, "who is motivated?"

The young, uneducated and semi-skilled are most likely to want more work, according to findings by the Institute for Social Research at Stanford.

An indication of "who earns second incomes through self-employment is found in a report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics on those who hold second jobs: farmers, policemen, firemen and security guards lead the list." There is little doubt that millions are working for themselves in their spare time—and that the millions of dollars they earn apparently are an uncalculated element in the national economic picture, all brought about for the most part by rampant inflation, creating conditions, under which many breadwinners simply can't make ends meet with one source of employment.

and claimed they were weavers and that they could make such magnificent clothes that they would become invisible to anyone who was unfit for the office he held.

We know the Emperor ordered a set of robes and gave a great deal of cash in advance to the cheats. The Emperor then sent one of his closest aides to confirm that they indeed were working on his clothes.

When the aide went to see the cheats, he discovered they weren't wearing anything at all. The aide went back and lied to the Emperor. Then on March 31 the Emperor himself went to the weavers and he saw with his own eyes that there was no cloth; there were no trousers; there was no robe. Did he arrest the weavers? Did he report them to the justice minister?

No, Mr. Chairman. He praised them as two of the finest men he had ever known and he told the country they had woven him a magnificent set of clothes. That, gentlemen. (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

IN TRANSCENDENT TERMS
The meaning of the ordinary, everyday things of life often depends upon how we think about these things. Take a person's daily work, for example. If he thinks about it only in terms of today, it is a job; if he thinks about it in higher, transcendent terms, it is a calling. Or take marriage. If people think of it in terms of what it can do for them, it may be nothing but a rather unpleasant fact of life. When they think of it, however, as the joining together of two lives in the providence of God, when they make an eternal spiritual relation out of it instead of a temporary and worldly one, then it indeed becomes a sacrament. In other words, when we think of anything in a small setting, no matter how significant it may be, we make it insignificant. But when we think of it in aspects which transcend the here and now, no matter how humble it may be we invest it with some measure of nobility.

Placing The Blame On Govm't

By GEORGE GALLUP (Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.—President Nixon's recent speech on the economy—in which he exhorted the U.S. public to form an anti-inflation lobby and to control their spending—came at a time when a record number of Americans believe that the federal government is chiefly responsible for inflation.

Nearly half (48 per cent) of all persons interviewed in a mid-July survey blame the government, compared to only 19 per cent who name labor and 17 per cent who say business is chiefly responsible for inflation.

When persons in a recent survey were asked what steps the government can take to curb inflation, little agreement is found among the two-thirds who offer an opinion while the remaining one third do not express an opinion. The only answers given with some frequency are wage-price controls and a reduction in federal spending.

Change Since July 1972
While little change in views has occurred since the previous survey in July 1973 on the question of responsibility for inflation, the proportion naming government has increased rather markedly when compared to a survey taken in July, 1972.

That survey showed 39 per cent saying government is mostly to blame for inflation, as against 20 per cent who said business and 29 per cent who said labor.

High Cost of Living Is Top Worry Of American Public

The findings reported today are recorded at a time when the high cost of living is far and away the top worry of the American people, with a near record 48 per cent of all persons interviewed in a recent survey naming this as the nation's chief problem. Evidence that the high cost of living has reached into every home is seen in the fact that this problem is named by the largest percentage of people in each region of the nation, as well as in each economic, occupation, and age group. Views On Where Blame Lies Depend On Politics

Although most persons say government rather than labor or business is chiefly to blame for inflation, their views depend in considerable measure on such factors as political affiliation, occupation, educational attainment, and income.

More than half of Democrats (54 per cent) say government is most responsible for inflation, while 17 per cent blame business and 13 per cent blame labor.

In contrast, 35 per cent of Republicans point the finger of blame at government, but almost as many, 34 per cent, say labor is chiefly responsible for inflation, and 13 per cent say business.

25 economic speech as a repudiation of Simon's flamboyant adventurism.

The White House was surprised at Simon's outrage when he returned home last week, personally confronting presidential aides Alexander Haig and Kenneth Clawson for their failure to knock down the anti-Simon leak. That anger is shared by Dr. Burnes and Chairman Mills. Burns would like to see the Quadriac, the government's top economic policymaking body, summoned immediately so that Simon could confront Ash on the leak.

The guerrilla fighting obscures what Simon actually proposed in his memo to Rush: if uncontrollable spending (Social Security, health care, housing, etc.) is uncuttable and defense is not to be reduced significantly, the rest of the budget would have to be cut an unthinkable 40 per cent for only a few billion dollars in overall reduction. "As long as uncontrollables are viewed as inviolable, budget cuts will become progressively less possible," Simon warned.

Simon has not proposed permanent cuts in Social Security payments but a six-month postponement of increased (saving $4.5 billion). Nor is the memorandum all-inclusive. Besides what is listed there, Simon also talks of cuts in space spending, construction projects, food stamps and the highway program. In addition to all this, he is intent on economies in the Pentagon of $1 billion to $1.5 billion.

"All of the above recommendations are illustrative," Simon concludes his memo. They are, therefore, a guide for what might be done if the President meant business. But with Mr. Nixon signing the costly livestock credit bill against the advice of Simon (as well as Ash and Rush), the President seems more interested in appeasing his jurors in the Senate than making dramatic moves against inflation.

Indeed, White House failure to defend Simon was almost surely caused by the preoccupation of Haig, Clawson and the President himself with impeachment. Nevertheless, Simon is known to feel in much the same position as Peter Peterson, the highly regarded Secretary of Commerce, before the palace guard forced Peterson out at the end of Mr. Nixon's first term. In those happier days, Peterson's passing went virtually unnoticed by businessmen. In 1974 the departure of Bill Simon would be viewed by them as a catastrophe.

tlemen, was the beginning of the coverup; a coverup that continued until the very day when the Emperor walked down our streets in nothing more than his birthday suit.

Chairman: Your time has expired. We will hear from the other side now. The courtier from Tearturnia.

Tearturnia: Mr. Chairman, I can't believe that I have been sitting here for six months and heard the same evidence as my learned friend from Grazinda. If you read the Emperor's parchments as I have done, you can only come to one conclusion. The Emperor was wearing clothes on the day in question.

Now if you follow the story, the Emperor did not take the word of his aide concerning the weavers—he sent another aide and this aide also reported back that the weavers had indeed made a magnificent robe for His Imperial Majesty. Let us remember that at this point in time the Emperor was busy with affairs of state and could not devote time to his clothes. His closest advisers lied to him but, where, where in all the evidence is there anything to indicate the Emperor himself was part of the coverup?

Now we have been speaking of evidence. The only evidence that the Emperor wore no clothes came from a little boy who was sitting on his father's shoulders as the Emperor went by.

The boy said, and I quote from his testimony, "But he has nothing on." Now anybody can read anything they want into that statement. They can read the Emperor had nothing on his head. They can read he had nothing on for the evening. I defy anyone to show me where the boy said, "He has no clothes on." And even if he did—even if he did, I am asking this august body—are we going to believe the word of a little boy or are we going to believe the word of our Emperor, the leader of the greatest empire in the world. Mr. Chairman, if the Emperor says he had clothes on, it's good enough for me.

Chairman: The hearing is recessed until tomorrow at 10 a.m.

Relatives Of 2 Slain Hostages Not Bitter

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Relatives of the two women hostages killed during the shootout that ended a lengthy siege at the state prison here have praised the Texas Department of Corrections for its handling of the situation.

Troy Standley, an ex-FBI agent and the former husband of Julia Standley, said his family was aware of the official policy that no inmate with hostages would be allowed to leave the prison walls.

"If we did not have that (the policy), we might as well tear down all the walls of all the penal institutions in the nation," Standley said in an interview following Sunday services at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Standley was a member of the congregation and Elizabeth Beseda, the other hostage who was killed, frequently attended services at the church. Funeral services for the two were to be held at the church today.

They died Saturday night after 10 days as captives of three armed convicts who held the women and 10 other persons hostage. Two of the convicts also died and another hostage was wounded.

The shootout came during an escape attempt to which the convicts apparently thought authorities had agreed. Prison officials said later that they never had any intention of letting the convicts go free.

Standley said he had faced similar situations in his career as a law enforcement official. "Of course there were times during this past situation when I wished I could have been on the other side of the gun ... but I realized it would not be all right."

R. L. Beseda, the husband of the other victim, issued a statement Sunday saying: "In spite of the tragic outcome, from our personal standpoint, my family and I wish to express our great commendation of the handling of the recent prison break and preceding events by officials of the Texas Department of Corrections."

Two of the hostages who survived also said they had no criticism of officials' handling of the situation.

Ronald Robinson, 35, of Conroe, Tex., said the rescue attempt by police was "as professional as could be done by any group of men under similar circumstances."

Ann Fleming, another of the hostages, said she felt no bitterness for her captors or for the way the Texas Department of Corrections handled the siege. "We knew all along that a few had to die in order for others to live," said the 50-year-old Mrs. Fleming.

thought given to the granting of any illegal freedom to any captor," said prison systems director W.J. Estelle. He described Saturday as "one of the meanest days anyone ever spent in public service."

Burks and other officers inside the prison yard said the four persons died inside a crude "Trojan Horse" Carrasco had constructed of blackboards and thick lawbooks. The shield, designed to get Carrasco from the library to an armored getaway car, collapsed as officers fired at it and tried to topple it with powerful water hoses.

In the midst of the violence, Lt. Willard Stewart of the Texas Department of Corrections (TDC) rushed out into the courtyard of the prison and cut the ropes which bound the eight other hostages, who had been forced by the convicts to surround the wooden shield.

Carrasco, Dominguez and another convict, Ignacio Cuevas, began the climactic move when they walked out of the third-floor library surrounded by hostages and headed down a steep ramp toward the armored car they had demanded.

Inside the makeshift shield were Mrs. Beseda, Mrs. Standley and two other hostages; the Rev. Joseph O'Brien and Mrs. Novella Pollard, who was handcuffed to Cuevas. Cuevas was captured unharmed. Mrs. Pollard was not hurt, but Father O'Brien was shot once in the left side of the chest.

Cuevas has been charged with capital murder.

Burks, wearing a flak jacket, said he was hit once in the chest by a bullet fired from within the shield.

"It knocked me down. I saw two other officers go down the same way. Our bullet-proof vests saved our lives," he said.

Walker County Sheriff Darrell White said officers fired only when gunshots came from within the shield after the hoses were turned on it.

There were more shots and then it was over, White said.

Authorities said Mrs. Beseda, a prison math teacher, was shot once, the bullet exiting her body. Mrs. Standley, a librarian at the prison, was shot four times in the back.

Tennessee Beats Greenville For 6-0 Win

Perry Spitter May See Revival

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It may be back to the wet look soon for Gaylord Perry. The Cleveland Indian pitcher ace dismissed the spit ball from his repertoire at the start of the season, but he's never needed it more than he does now.

After winning 15 of his first 16 decisions, Perry now has lost five in a row—including Sunday's 8-3 thumping by the Milwaukee Brewers in the second game of a doubleheader. The Indians won the opener 4-3.

"I'm disturbed with some of the hits they got and I walked too many, but I'm not going to get down on myself," Perry said.

Elsewhere, the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers in a doubleheader 6-3 and 13-10; the Detroit Tigers whipped the Baltimore Orioles 6-1 in the first game of their doubleheader before losing the second 9-3; the Boston Red Sox beat the New York Yankees 7-3 before their second game was rained out; the Kansas City Royals took a pair from the California Angels 10-4 and 3-0 and Oakland and Minnesota split a doubleheader—the A's winning the first game 10-4 and the Twins the second 2-1.

White Sox 6-13, Rangers 3-10

Chicago took advantage of a pair of errors by Texas shortstop Toby Harrah in the seventh inning to score two unearned runs and beat Texas in the first game of their doubleheader.

Bill Melton's two-run homer capped a four-run uprising in the sixth inning and Jorge Orta drove in five runs to lead Chicago's victory in the second game. It was the White Sox' first doubleheader sweep of the season.

Tigers 6-3, Orioles 1-9

Joe Coleman pitched a two-hitter and Dick Sharon slugged a two-run homer to help Detroit beat Baltimore in the first game of their doubleheader. Brooks Robinson drove in four runs with a homer and single to lead Baltimore to victory in the nightcap.

Red Sox 7, Yankees 3

Luis Tiant scattered 10 hits and Rico Petrocelli and Bernie Carbo knocked in two runs apiece, leading Boston over New York before their second game was postponed by rain. Tiant, 17-7, pitched out of a few tough innings, including a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the fourth and a Yankee uprising in the ninth.

Royals 10-3, Angels 4-0

Fred Patek capped big rallies in the sixth and seventh innings with run-scoring doubles to lead Kansas City's first-game triumph. Fran Healy singled home two runs in the sixth inning of the second game as the Royals completed their sweep.

A's 10-1, Twins 4-2

Joe Rudi's two-run homer and Sal Bando's two-run single highlighted a six-run seventh inning that powered Oakland's first-game victory. The Twins won the nightcap as Eric Soderholm doubled home a run in the sixth and scored on Jim Holt's single.

National League scores: Chicago 4-1, Pittsburgh 3-7; Philadelphia 6-0, St. Louis 1-11; Atlanta 4-2, San Francisco 2-5; Cincinnati 7-0, San Diego 2-1, and Los Angeles 2, Houston 1. Rain postponed New York at Montreal.

Fans Slap Players

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The fan has spoken. Silent until now as the warring parties in the National Football League traded charges, the fan struck the loudest blow yet this weekend. His message was clear: he's not very interested in watching rookies and free agents play football.

The striking NFL Players Association, which had knocked out the College All-Star Game, hoped to do the same thing to the league's exhibition season.

The union didn't pull it off, but the strike—which forced most clubs to field teams virtually devoid of name veterans—did chop average attendance figures at least in half during the first full weekend of preseason play.

On Sunday, the Players Association's executive committee met for five hours in Washington, D.C., and voted to continue their adamant stand against the owners in the 36-day-old strike.

Bargaining which broke down Thursday is scheduled to resume Tuesday.

There was nothing approximating a sellout last weekend and, in some cases, the crowds were downright meager.

In 71,000-seat Illinois Memorial Stadium in Champaign, Ill., 12,877 fans showed up as St. Louis beat Chicago 10-7 Saturday. Officials estimated the game would have drawn 40,000 fans without a strike.

The Oilers beat the New York Giants Saturday night before 15,501 fans, one-third of what they drew a year ago. And in Washington Friday night, 16,403 spectators—the fewest ever to see a pro football game in 54-374-seat RFK Stadium—watched New England beat the Redskins 21-16.

But, there were a couple of good crowds, too.

The New Orleans Saints, who lost to Pittsburgh 26-7 Saturday night, attracted 45,329 fans—still about 20,000 under New Orleans' 1973 average exhibition attendance.

And Oakland had 41,049 fans on hand—about 11,000 below last year's preseason sellout figure—to see the Raiders beat Dallas 27-7 Saturday night.

Philadelphia had taken a 6-1 victory in the opener of their Sunday doubleheader, Brock swiped three bases to pace St. Louis to an 11-0 rout in the nightcap.

Those three thefts, added to one in the opener, lifted Brock's season total to 72, tops in the majors by far.

Lopes, meanwhile, swiped four bases in helping the Dodgers to a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh, winning 4-3 and losing 7-1; Atlanta split a pair with San Francisco, winning 4-2 and losing 5-2; and Cincinnati split with San Diego, winning 7-2 then losing 1-0 in 14 innings. New York at Montreal was rained out.

Phil's 6-0, Cards 1-11

Mike Schmidt was the hero of the opening game, slugging a pair of home runs to boost his season total to 25.

But in the second game it was all Brock and his teammates. The Busch Stadium crowd of 48,245, largest of the year and fifth largest in stadium history, was in a constant uproar, cheering Brock's every move.

Dodgers 2, Astros 1

Stolen bases led to all runs in the Houston-Los Angeles game. The Astros took a 1-0 lead when Cesar Cedeño stole second for his 39th theft of the year. He scored on Lee May's single.

After Houston took a 2-1 lead in the top of the first, the Dodgers came back to tie the score in the bottom of the inning when Lopes singled, stole second and scored on Bill Russell's single. In the fifth, Russell singled with two out, stole second and came in on Jimmy Wynn's RBI single.

Cubs 4-1, Pirates 3-7

The Cubs won the opener behind the eight-hit pitching of Bill Bonham. But Andy Thornton's two-run homer in the fifth inning was the deciding blow. Pittsburgh gained a split when Dave Parker belted a three-run homer to cap a four-run fifth inning surge in the second game.

Braves 4-2, Giants 2-5

Dusty Baker's two-run homer in the ninth inning lifted Atlanta to victory in the opener, after Mike Lum had homered in the seventh to tie the score. Gary Matthews and Chris Speier hit consecutive homers for the Giants in the fourth inning. Matthews' run-scoring double capped a three-run first inning that got the Giants going in the second game.

Reds 7-0, Padres 2-1

Tony Perez capped a two-run rally with a tie-breaking single in the sixth inning of the opener, then the Reds broke the game open with three runs in the eighth. In the nightcap, Fred Kendall's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the 14th inning produced the only run of the game.

Virginia 6

South Carolina 3

Jimmy Moore's run-scoring double highlighted a four run sixth inning as Virginia came back after losing its first game to take its second beating South Carolina, 6-3.

Virginia in winning eliminated South Carolina from the tourney. In the sixth, Kevin Smith had led off with a single and three walks forced him in. A single by Bryon Sharp bought in a run. After Moore's double, Bobby Needham singled in Sharp.

Virginia had scored twice earlier in the third inning as doubles by Moore and Tommy Foskey gave Virginia a 2-0 lead. South Carolinian scored twice in the third and once in the seventh on just four hits.

North Carolina 11

Mississippi 3

Mississippi suffered defeats at the hands of both the North Carolina teams as the North Carolina champs scored a decisive, 11-3 win over Mississippi sending Mississippi packing.

The loss eliminated Mississippi, the second team to get the boot from the tournament.

The first Greenville game was played at 5:00 Saturday afternoon. The second game they played did not start until 12:30 a.m. Sunday morning and the tired Greenville team could not get the first hit as Tennessee, which drew a bye in the opening round, took its first win of the Southeast Regional tournament, 6-0.

Tennessee's Mike Mitchell struck out 12 Greenville batters and walked three. He held the Greenville Stars hitless.

Tennessee got a man on in the first by an infield hit but could not score. They did in the next frame. Pat Satterfield walked and Terry Boyd got a single. Both scored on a double by Mitchell.

Greenville shut out Tennessee in the next frame but in the fourth Tennessee rallied for four to insure their win. Satterfield singled and Robinson doubled to right driving in Satterfield. Boyd scored on a wild pitch.

Mitchell was safe on an error and Tommy Cartwright walked. Phillip Stinson also walked to load the bases. Mitchell scored on a ground out and Cartwright on a wild pitch.

Tommy Cobb walked for Greenville in the fifth being the only baserunner in the last three innings.

Lou Brock and Dave Lopes are running; St. Louis and Los Angeles are winning.

The Worry Clinic

Testimony Of The Doctorate

Florence and Hamlet are in that same state of indecision about murder which was indicated in Hamlet's "to be or not to be." But many maudlin sentimentalists need to read the Bible and use God's type of "Horse Sense."

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

CASE B-607: Florence R., aged 20, is a college coed.

"Dr. Crane," she pleaded, "what should I do?"

"For I was brutally beaten and raped by a couple of men who attacked me while I was trying to change a tire on my car."

"It was broad daylight, too, when they stopped their auto so I thought they were gallantly going to offer to help me."

"But they dragged me into a woods and assaulted me."

"Fortunately, I noticed the license number on their old car and later told the police who arrested them."

"Later a court psychologist tested their I.Q. and found they were feeble-minded (morons) unable to finish the 6th grade in school."

"Now I find I am pregnant so would you advise an abortion in this case?"

Abortion Debate

You readers can develop a superb debate out of this type of unwanted pregnancy.

It obviously differs widely from the frequent desire of a young wife to have an abortion just because she wants to wait a couple of years later before starting her family.

Other career-hungry wives may ask for an abortion because they don't want to be tied down with the "bottle and diaper" care of a baby.

Some women ask us doctors for an abortion when they have caught German measles during the early months of their pregnancy and thus dread that they will bear a deformed infant as a consequence.

And in our large cities, as well as many rural homes, girls aged 13 and 15 will get pregnant by male relatives, such as fathers, grandfathers; uncles and brothers.

Sometimes these men are half drunk, or at least use their alibi to excuse their incest.

But on many other occasions, they merely intimidate a frightened girl in the middle of the night and threaten her if she tattles.

Miscegenation and many other complicating situations make this current debate over abortion a difficult task for any judge.

"But, Dr. Crane, doesn't it violate the Bible commandment against taking human life, if a woman submits to an abortion?" many sincere church people often ask.

To which a college debater might aptly reply that almost 60,000 Americans are killed each year on our automotive highways, yet those same church folks cite the Bible in protest thereat.

And sincere Bible followers don't accuse the prophet Samuel of violating the commandment against killing, though he deliberately slew the captive King Agag (I Samuel, 15:33);

"And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the Lord in Gilgal."

Samuel had previously told King Saul (verses 2 and 3):

"Thus saith the Lord of hosts: 'Now go and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not, but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and ass.'"

If God thus ordered the slaughter of even all babies of the enemy, what do you readers think God would suggest in Florence's case?

And why should so many "bleeding hearts," including many modern clergymen, have been so incensed at Lt. Calley's case?

Maybe the Lord prefers "Horse Sense" instead of blind and maudlin sentimentality, even in this later year of 1974.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There is much confusion present in today's aspects and this applies to self-deception by thinking what you want to think instead of studying the true facts of the situation. Be wary of accepting inaccurate information.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you schedule your activities well, you can easily combine business and pleasure. An adviser can give fine suggestions now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you don't want to handle routines now, it's important you do so before you look into new outlets. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take care that kin does not prevent you from keeping promises with an associate. Being concerned with prestige is wise now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Attend to routine tasks and avoid a possible argument with co-workers. Know what is expected of you. Don't complain.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Engage in new interests that will help you expand. Don't waste time and money on the frivolous. Use extreme care in motion.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study new interests that could bring success and happiness. Avoid a family tie who has a knack of making you want to argue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keep appointments with persons who have information you need. Don't fret about conditions you can do little about. Be cheerful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listening to what good friends have to suggest is wise at this time. Avoid an argument over money. Show others you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care not to find fault with a higher-up or you could get yourself in trouble. Attend the social tonight and have fun.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the right way to add to present abundance. You can expand easily now. Do nothing that could hurt your good reputation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't argue with persons who owe you money, but see to it that you do what is right. Do some entertaining in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Remain neutral if an argument develops in which you are not involved. Get busy at own affairs and work with a vengeance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to be interested in everything, including private affairs of others, so teach early to mind own business exclusively and to keep out of trouble. Anything of a trouble-shooting nature is fine, so direct education along such lines. Give good spiritual training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Canadian League Deal Called Off

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — We now have World Football League games on TV. Soon we'll have National Football League play. What about the Canadian Football League games scheduled to appear on the tube this summer?

That deal was called off, not primarily because of WFL competition, but because of the economy and a shortage of sports advertising dollars, says the firm that has televised CFL play for U.S. viewers since 1972.

Marty Rosenblatt, an executive of Ralmar Sports Productions, Inc. here, said his company planned to start its 12-game CFL schedule on June 26 and end it Nov. 25 with the CFL's Grey Cup championship game.

"We had to throw in the towel about a week or so before June 26 and convert the series into a CFL highlight package," he said.

He referred to a half-hour film series about this season's action. He said the series, which will run 13 weeks, will be syndicated and start appearing in the United States the first week in September.

He said the show is being sponsored by the Canadian Olympic Coin Committee, which he said hopes to sell proof coins from the Royal Canadian Mint and defray some Canadian costs for the 1976

Olympics in Montreal.

Interest by American stations in CFL play was down from last year, when Rosenblatt said 93 U.S. television stations carried the games. This season, he said, only 65 were on the roster.

Even so, he said, "we felt we had a reasonable station lineup. But some clients that had committed themselves found themselves in a dollar jam" and bowed out.

"We were in a unique situation, considering that once we were the only football game in town during the summer," he said. "In fact, I'm sure we probably planted the seed for World Football two years ago."

This year the economy was tight and its effect "had just started reaching the (Ralmar) clients. They had just so many dollars to spend. And an American football package appeared more attractive than a Canadian football package. Suddenly, we appeared like soccer."

Apprentices In Short Supply

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN © 1974, The Chicago Tribune

Q.1—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ932 ♥AJ87 ♣Q105 ♦6

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1♣ Dble. 1♥ 2♣ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three hearts. East's heart bid has a distinctly fishy smell. Since your hand is unbalanced, you should not be disposed towards the no trump game. A major suit contract would be preferable, and your bid will clear the air for partner. If he is all that well protected in the minor suits, he is forced to three no trump.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠Q10963 ♥Q76 ♦A8732

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South 1♣ Dble. 1♥ 2♣ Pass 2NT 5♣ ?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have a strong hand opposite partner's double. Including distribution, it is worth 13 points in support of one of partner's suits. You are an odds-on favorite for game, and we recommend that you show your second suit by bidding five diamonds. It is true that you might go down when you could have collected a penalty from five clubs doubled, but it is worth the risk to close out the rubber.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A♥82 ♦J743 ♣KQJ1042

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West Pass 1♣ 2♣ 2♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. The virtually certain spade lead will remove your only side entry, and if partner does not have the ace of clubs, your hand could be worthless to him in a no trump contract. The rebid of your minor suit will warn him to proceed with caution unless he has help for your suit.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q82 ♥873 ♣K765 ♦K43

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North Pass Pass 1♥ 1♣ 4♥ ?

What action do you take?

A.—We are inclined to bid four spades. It does not appear that we have sufficient defensive values to defeat four hearts, and at favorable vulnerability the sacrifice should not be expensive. On a good day, four spades might even make.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KJ5 ♥AJ10 ♦Q1098 ♣J42

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North Pass Pass Pass 1♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Though your club stopper is tentative at best, your hand is no trump oriented and this is the bid that best describes your holding. By a passed hand, a jump to two no trump shows 11-12 points. It is not forcing, but suggests that partner go to game if he has better than a bare minimum opening.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠J72 ♥K8 ♣K65 ♦A7652

The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Pass 1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass 3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. You have a promising hand, but no more vigorous action is indicated. Your response at the two-level has already described these values.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ10985 ♥AK82 ♦Q5 ♣3

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1♦ Pass 1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass 3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. What started off as a possible slam hand has deteriorated as the auction progressed, and game is all you should have in mind. It is only a question as to whether four spades is safer than three no trump. The singleton club and strong spade suit swings us to the former.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, with a 70 per cent score, as South you hold:

♠AQ7 ♥8742 ♦A98 ♣J96

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1NT Pass Pass 2♣ Pass Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Double. The sacrificial lamb has come to the slaughter. West's decision to compete should be regarded as an act of generosity, and it would be churlish not to accept it. The size of the penalty will depend in part on partner's club holding, but it should be substantial in any event.

Walter Brennan Still Ailing

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — Academy Award-winning actor Walter Brennan remains in guarded condition at St. John's Hospital here, a hospital spokesman says.

The spokesman said Sunday that the condition of Brennan, under treatment for emphysema, had remained unchanged for the past week.

Brennan, 79, was admitted to the hospital in March for the same illness but returned to his nearby ranch when his condition improved.

Ready To 'Quit' Hawaii-Five-O

HONOLULU (AP) — Actor Jack Lord says only a plea from acting Hawaii Gov. George Ariyoshi stopped him from quitting his leading role in the television series "Hawaii Five-O."

Lord, who had boycotted filming sessions, said on Saturday he had been ready to quit over a complex dispute with the show's producer. He said Ariyoshi called on behalf of himself and Gov. John A. Burns, who has been away from office since cancer surgery last fall.

"The things he said and the sincerity and conviction with which he said them so touched my heart that the decision was easy," said Lord, star of the series since 1967.

Farm Scene

By Edwin L. Yancey

You can continue to enjoy fresh vegetables if you plant a fall garden. But now is the time to get started.

Squash, beets, cucumbers, and carrots will do well if planted by August 15. Snapbeans will still produce a crop if planted immediately. It's too late for melons, okra, corn, tomatoes and eggplant. Turnips, always a fall favorite, should be planted during August. Purple Top White Globe is still the best variety. Just Right is a new one that looks good. It is an all white type with slightly flattened roots. Make sure you don't plant them too thick.

The key to rutabaga production is to plant now. It takes longer to mature rutabaga than purple tops, so they should be seeded early August. Don't forget to thin them if you want to produce large roots. If you should happen to get a poor stand, the thinned plants can be transplanted to the missing spots.

Fall cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, and brussel sprouts should be seeded before August 15. Plant the seed directly in the garden soil. Transplanting bare-root plants may delay maturity as much as 30 days.

Two of the keys to fall gardening to plant at a proper time and prevent insects and diseases from destroying the young plants. This means careful attention should be given the spray program, especially in selecting pest control materials.

The Agricultural Extension Office can provide additional information about varieties, planting dates and insect control. Call 758-1196 or come by 203 W. Third Street.

ECU Graduate In Jamaica

Patricia Gail Price, a Peace Corps volunteer from Raleigh, supervises and trains teachers of five basic schools in and around Chapelton, Jamaica.

A graduate of East Carolina University and a native of Spartanburg, S.C., Miss Price observes the teachers teaching methods, submits performance critiques, conducts demonstration lessons, helps to develop teaching aids and visits with the parents of children.

The basic schools program, and the participation of Miss Price and other Peace Corps volunteers, reflects one aspect of Jamaica's long-standing expansion activity for upgrading teachers at all levels.

Currently there are 195 Peace Corps volunteers working in Jamaica. They are involved in such diverse programs as vocational training, agricultural development, home economics and a broad range of teacher-training projects in addition to those of the basic schools program.

Miss Price is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Illa Price of Spartanburg, S.C. She majored in grammar education at ECU.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Nearly perfect season-long control of cocklebur in soybeans has been achieved by N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station research workers with the new postemergence herbicide basagran.

Dr. John W. Schrader said control was excellent in the two years of testing the West German-developed product on a severely infested Wake County farm field.

The material was tested at different rates in single and split applications, in conjunction with the preemergence herbicide sencer and in conjunction with mechanical cultivation.

The best cocklebur control and the highest bean yields were on plots that received a split application of basagran applied early and late postemergence, using one pint per acre for each application. This split application — one pint per acre twice — was more effective than a single treatment of one quart per acre.

"The split application gave better than 90 percent control up to harvest time," Schrader said. The North Carolina State University scientist described the level of cocklebur infestation on the test site as so serious that the owner had given up trying to grow soybeans on it.

Southern farmers have such a bitter history of fighting the tough cocklebur that it may be difficult to believe that a chemical applied over the top of the growing crop can knock out the weed but not harm the soybean. Basagran apparently does that.

Although Schrader noted slight plant injury early in the season, the soybeans recovered and yields weren't affected. Schrader said basagran is regarded as a major breakthrough in chemical weed control in soybeans, since it gives growers a material that can be applied safely over the top of the crop at virtually any stage of growth.

This could make possible the elimination of mechanical cultivation on many acres of soybean land. Schrader pointed out that a preplant of pre-emergence herbicide probably would have to be used with basagran where grass is a problem. Also, basagran is not consistently effective in controlling morningglory and would need to be supplemented where this weed is a problem.

Basagran currently has an experimental label and has been available only in limited quantities. A number of North Carolina farmers tried the product on part of their crop last year and more are expected to do the same this year.

Report 'Super Farms' Produce Larger Share

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New government figures show that 109,000 super farms with sales of $100,000 or more each turned out nearly one half of the nation's food and fiber last year.

At the same time, small farms with sales of only $2,500 or less produced a declining share of U.S. farm goods. Production from those, often described by agricultural economists as rural residences rather than farms, accounted for only 1 per cent of 1973 output.

The new figures were included in an annual farm income review published last week by the Agriculture Department. Over-all, it said soaring prices for grain, livestock and other commodities pushed net farm income to $32.2 billion last year, an 84 per cent gain from 1972.

Also, the report showed, the per capita disposable personal income of farmers in 1973 — from all sources including jobs in cities — exceeded for the first time the average take-home pay of city and other non-farm people. It rose to $4,820 on a farm per capita basis, compared with $3,153 in 1972.

Per capita disposable income of nonfarm people rose to $4,270 last year, a gain of $394 compared with the boost of $1,667 for farmers. Traditionally, farm disposable income has lagged far behind that for urban residents. Last year it topped nonfarm per capita income by 12.9 per cent.

The figures showing sales values indicated that many farmers advanced into higher brackets, partly because 1973 was a top year for most production but mainly because prices averaged 37 per cent higher than in 1972.

At the top of the scale were the 109,000 super farms which sold commodities worth $100,000 or more last year. Those rose sharply from 70,000 farms in that category in 1972.

The figures showed the super farms accounted for 45.7 per cent of the total value of farm products sold last year, up from 38.2 per cent in 1972. And those farms made up only 3.8 per cent of the nation's 2,844,000 farms counted in 1973.

At the bottom, in the $2,500 or less category, were 753,000 farms making up 26.4 per cent of the U.S. total. Those accounted for 1 per cent of sales, down from 2.1 per cent in 1972.

The report showed that nationally there were 26,000 fewer farms of all kinds last year compared with 1972. That trend has been going on since the 1930s.

Between the super farm and small unit extremes, the general pattern showed a distinct moving up to larger sales categories.

The top three, for example, involve farms with 1973 sales ranging from $20,000 each to the highest category of $100,000 or more.

Last year, the report showed, the $20,000-and-over groups totaled slightly more than one million farms. That was an increase of 314,000 from 1972. Collectively, those accounted for 88.6 per cent of the nation's farm output, based on sales, compared with 80.8 per cent in 1972.

In the middle were sales categories ranging from $2,500 per farm to the $20,000 level. Those farms totaled 1,082,000 last year, a drop of 77,000 from 1972.

Net farm income — the reported $32.2 billion in all — was apportioned generally according to size: The larger the farm, the higher the income.

The $100,000 sales farms, for example, got 34.8 per cent of the total net income although representing only 3.8 per cent of all the farms in the country.

Feel Safe In Minnesota

WASECA, Minn. (AP) — "I don't want to go back," said 10-year-old Marie O'Neill. "It's much nicer here. The people are better ... I'm not scared here."

Marie is among 120 youngsters who will be returning in two weeks to their Belfast homes in the heart of Northern Ireland's war zone after spending six weeks in the Midwest.

About 30 of the children got together Sunday for a small-town picnic, at the edge of Clear Lake near Waseca, featuring a potluck buffet and softball games sponsored by the Irish American Club of Southern Minnesota.

The youngsters came to Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin June 28 via a project sponsored by the Hibbing, Minn., Rotary Club, to help them escape the Protestant-Catholic violence which has plagued Northern Ireland.

Marie, a summer guest of the Joe Jacobs family of Maple Plain, Minn., was not the only one who didn't relish returning home. But some expressed concern for relatives.

"It'll be kind of glad to get home because I miss my sisters," said Jackie Scarsfield, 10. She added, "But America's fantastic."

They return home Aug. 12.

Investigative Outlays Raised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators have been asked to determine the amount of federal funds spent on government investigative and intelligence units.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said the agencies are proliferating to the extent that they threaten "the basic liberties of Americans."

The exact budget and number of employees of the agencies is unknown, Percy said in a statement Sunday. He said he has asked the General Accounting Office, Congress' investigating agency, to determine the exact number and funding of government investigative units.

NEW YORK (AP)—Prices showed some scattered losses in a listless, drifting session in the stock market today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.41 at 751.17. Had it not been for ex-dividends in six of the Dow 30, however, the average would actually have shown a slight advance.

The Big Board's 11 a.m. composite index was down .09 at 41.08.

Colwell Mortgage Investors, which omitted its second quarter dividend, was down 2 1/4 at 43.

Japan Fund, a closed-end investment company, gave up 3/4 to 5 1/4 as share prices declined sharply in Tokyo.

American Telephone & Telegraph rose 3/4 to 42 1/2. The coalitions Workers of America reached a tentative contract agreement, heading off a threatened nation-wide telephone strike.

Northwest Pipeline certificates climbed 3/4 to 15 1/4 on top of a 2 1/2-point gain Friday. The company, spun off earlier this year by El Paso Co., reported earnings of $1.10 a share and declared its first dividend.

Protest Ban From Bishop

WASHINGTON (AP)—An order banning a newly ordained woman priest from celebrating the eucharist at an Episcopal church here was protested Sunday by cancellation of the church's rite of Holy Communion.

Instead, the rector of St. Stephen and the Incarnation Church substituted a brief prayer service. The congregation applauded the decision.

"For the first time in 14 years at this church the Eucharist will not be celebrated at the 10 a.m. service," said the Rev. William A. Wendt, the rector.

Mrs. Alison Cheek, one of 11 women ordained in a disputed ceremony last Monday in Philadelphia, had been forbidden from celebrating the eucharist at the church by Episcopal Bishop William F. Creighton, the presiding bishop of Washington.

Berlin Protest

WASHINGTON (AP)—A formal note protesting interference with access to Berlin is due to be presented today in Moscow by ambassadors from the United States, Britain and France.

The officials said there were reports this morning that one or two buses bound for the city had been impeded. Earlier, traffic appeared to be moving slowly.

To Organize Reading Plan

The Reading Is Fundamental program is holding an organizational meeting Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. at the Wesley Center 501 E. 5th St. in Greenville.

RIF is a national program designed to encourage children to read by letting them choose from a variety of books and then letting them keep the books as their own. It is hoped that given free choice and the opportunity to own their own books, children will discover the fun in reading that they may have missed in school.

In the Moyewood housing project, the target area for the first year, 150 to 200 children between the ages of four and 14 will be involved in the program. Although minimal staff and limited funds have made it necessary to limit participation of the children, the program ideally will continue for three years and expansion is planned. Since the community itself is the force behind any RIF program, the residents of Greenville need to be involved in all phases of the program. Hopefully enough interested people will attend the meeting so that the community can begin to take on some of the responsibilities of the program.

A pedestrian was hit Sunday afternoon by an automobile forced off the road by another automobile, according to records of the N. C. State Highway Patrol office.

According to the patrol report, the accident occurred at about 6 p.m. Sunday. A car driven by Theron Earl Jones, 24, of Oak City, was forced off N. C. 11-13 near Burroughs Wellcome, striking a pedestrian walking along the highway, Harold Smith Harrington, 19, of Rt. 6, Box 44, Greenville. The Jones vehicle then ran into a ravine along the highway, where it came to rest.

Harrington was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital. A check with the hospital this morning revealed that Harrington is not listed as a patient there.

There were no other injuries reported in the mishap, and no charges have been placed against Jones. Identity of the vehicle that reportedly forced Jones off the road has not been made. Damage to the Jones vehicle is estimated at $1,000.

Abduction, Extortion Trial Claimed 'Unfair'

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
 Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—"I didn't get a fair trial," said William A. H. Williams, who could be sentenced a maximum of 50 years for his conviction of extortion in the abduction of Atlanta Constitution Editor Reg Murphy.

Williams, 34, made the comment as he was led handcuffed from the federal courthouse late Sunday after his week-long trial ended.

The husky building subcontractor stared glumly through heavy, dark-rimmed glasses as the verdict was read after the jury deliberated four hours.

U.S. District Court Judge William O'Kelley set Aug. 30 for the sentencing of Williams, whose defense was that he was not legally responsible for his acts due to insanity.

Murphy, who was released after Cox Enterprises Inc., which owns The Constitution, paid $700,000 to free him, said: "I think that proves the American jury system works well. It reinforces the earlier evidence that kidnaping and political terrorism and extortion won't work."

Murphy, 40, and his wife were in the courtroom among spectators waiting for the verdict.

Also in the courtroom was Williams' petite brunette wife.

Pitt Bd. . .

drowning exists for tobacco and other crops located in low-lying areas as a result of the saturating rains.

Bateman noted that the extensive rainfall may also present a problem as far as harvesting tobacco is concerned. He noted that more drying will be required to remove exterior moisture from the leaves and the soggy soil will make the farmer's harvesting job even more difficult.

The agent said that the tobacco crop in Pitt County is in various stages of harvest ranging from the first leaf cropping to completion of harvesting. He noted that the rain might aid in filling out the upper leaves of the stalk in some instances but the plant is generally already mature at this stage of the season.

The county board was also told that about 45 percent of the foundation work for the new hospital has been completed and structural steel may be delivered to the site this week if the weather permits.

Attend Water Works School

Michael P. Bell, Jesse James Staton of Greenville and Johnny Thorne of Farmville attended the 35th Annual Water Works Operator's School held last week at North Carolina State University at Raleigh.

This school was conducted by the Department of Civil Engineering, School of Engineering and the Division of Continuing Education, with the assistance and sponsorship of the North Carolina League of Municipalities and the State of North Carolina Department of Human Resources-Health Services Division.

The purpose of the school is to improve the general level of water plant operation.

Williams faces a maximum of 50 years imprisonment — 20 years for extorting money from a corporation engaged in interstate commerce, 20 years for use of the U.S. mails in an extortion demand and 10 years for illegal use of a firearm.

Charged with murder was Ted Carter, 25, a former Gaston County resident whose address was listed as Florida; and Arthur David Chandler, 24, of Smyre Mill Village, near Stroup's store just east of Gastonia. Carter was also charged with violation of probation.

Lynn Ledford, 19, of Gaston County was charged with receiving stolen goods. Police said $850 taken from the store was recovered at his trailer home a mile west of Dallas.

June Driesbeck, 20, of Ranlo, was charged with accessory before the fact of murder.

Chandler was held at the Lincoln County jail and the others were jailed in Gastonia. Officers said Carter, Chandler and Miss Driesbeck were arrested at a small house in a wooded area northwest of Gastonia. Ledford was arrested at his trailer.
