Cyprus Peace Talks Fail And Turks Begin Attack

By The Associated Press

Turkey walked out of the Geneva peace talks and its armor broke through Greek Cypriot lines east and west of the Cyprus capital of Nicosia today. Greece in turn announced its withdrawal from military participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and summoned political leaders to discuss the possibility of war with Turkey.

In northern Greece, witnesses reported brand new tanks on flat cars and trains moved through the night and early today in the direction of the Turkish border.

Air space over Turkey, Greece and Cyprus was closed with the new outbreak of fighting on the Mediterranean island, and telephone and telex lines to Cyprus were cut off.

The U.N. Security Council met at 3:30 a.m. EDT and in less than 10 minutes unanimously adopted a British resolution calling for a new ceasefire and resumption of the Cyprus peace talks.

In Ankara, Premier Bulent Ecevit said Turkish troops on Cyprus intend only to gain control of a "fair share" of territory for the Turkish Cypriots and not the entire island.

He was believed to be referring to the northern part of Cyprus, a region cut off from the south by a line running from the Turkish village of Kokkina in the northwest to Famagusta on the eastern coast.

On Cyprus, the Greeks began falling back, taking antiaircraft batteries with them as the Turkish tanks and infantry broke through the Greek Cypriot lines behind heavy air strikes and rolling artillery and mortar barrages.

The Greek radio claimed three Turkish planes had been shot down, but air attacks that began at 4:35 a.m. continued through the morning at various points across the northern part of the island.

Other reports said the Turks advanced 400 yards beyond the so-called Green Line dividing the Turkish and Greek quarters of Nicosia and enveloped the British high commissioner's office.

Just before midday, a Turkish jet rocketed the Nicosia Hilton Hotel, used as the center for the International Red Cross and more than 100 foreign newsmen.

One journalist—Carl Sorensen, a Danish cameraman for CBS Television, was reported wounded in the neck.

Cyprus Radio said at least 28 patients were wounded when Turkish jets bombed a psychiatric hospital on the southwest outskirts of the capital. The same hospital was bombed by Turkish planes July 20, and 30 patients were killed.

A U.N. spokesman announced that 12 soldiers of the U.N. peace force on the island—eight Finns and four Britons —were wounded in the latest fighting.

Ford, Kissinger Confer On Cyprus

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford summoned Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to an early morning meeting today on the Cyprus crisis.

They met in the wake of a renewed outbreak of fighting on the Mediterranean island and the calling of an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council in New York.

As he as leaving his Alexandria, Va. home this morning for the White House, Ford told reporters he also had conferred Tuesday night by telephone with Kissinger on the latest developments in Cyprus. The President did not elaborate.

It was the new President's first international crisis.

On domestic matters, a White House spokesman conceded for the first time that Ford may be growing attached to his new job and Ford served notice that he intends to be his own man in economics as well as politics.

White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst relayed the word on Tuesday that there would be a "Ford program" to fight inflation, with the firm imprimatur of the new President.

One of Ford's economic proposals was to be revealed today when Budget Director Roy L. Ash appears before the House Banking and Currency Committee to outline recommendations for an anti-inflation agency.

Asked if the economic policies that former President Richard M. Nixon had announced only a month ago in a Los Angeles speech were under review and liable to change, terHorst said, "That would be a fair statement."

The question came after terHorst reported that Ford had told a private meeting of lower-level administration officials that he did not expect to come up with any instant panaceas for the nation's inflation, but "at least there would be a Ford program."

Reminded that Ford had the same economic advisers who formulated Nixon policies, terHorst said Ford "has told them that the country has a new President," who expects to have his own inputs and perhaps come up with some new ideas.

"He thinks the country expects it of him," terHorst said. "He thinks he has reason to believe that Congress would cooperate if he can offer programs that make sense on Capitol Hill."

TerHorst also let slip another change in Ford ideas when he conceded that Ford's previous "no" to a possible 1976 presidential candidacy is now a "maybe."

The press secretary was careful to explain at a news briefing that too much should not be made of Ford's remarks in his Monday night speech to Congress about making "at least" three State of the Union addresses during his presidency. More than three would mean a second term.

COUNTED COINS BEFORE THEY HATCHED

Some time ago I purchased a savings certificate (CD) from the local First Federal Savings and Loan Association. On July 10, I received a notice that this CD would mature on July 17 and it should be cashed or the money would be re-invested. I was going to be out of town for a period of time and wrote the institution to hold the money and I would collect it when I returned. During my trip I had a chance to re-invest this money at a higher interest rate and made arrangements to do so, "knowing" I would have the CD money available when I returned. Upon returning I was told that a mistake had been made and that my CD had another year to go before maturity. I explained to them that I had re-invested this money on the basis of their notice and I felt I was placed in a very embarassing position. Mr. J. E. J.

First Federal was approached with your problem through the firm's president, Clarence Tugwell, and they responded by saying, "All Federally insured savings and loan associations and banking institutions operate under very strict federal laws requiring a penalty being charged for any certificate funds being withdrawn before the maturity of that certificate. An error was made in sending an expiration notice to the customer. This error did not alter the certificate contract which showed the proper expiration date. This certificate contract was in the customer's possession. The customer was apologized to on two different occasions in two different offices," for the mistake.

Swamp Near New Bern Combed For Two Of Four Prison Escapees

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)— Law enforcement officers manned roadblocks in Great Dover Swamp about 15 miles west of New Bern today as the search continued for two of four men linked with a North Carolina bank robbery.

A Craven County sheriff's office spokesman said the four escaped last Saturday from the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., and included Richard F. McCoy Jr., 32, convicted skyjacker from the little Cove City community about 15 miles west of New Bern and a couple of miles north of the swamp area where the search was centered.

Two men were taken into custody in the swamp late Tuesday afternoon after an exchange of gunfire with a Highway Patrol helicopter which spotted their car on an unpaved logging road.

Officers, working with a North Carolina Forest Service map, surrounded the almost impenetrable section of swamp and carried on their search sometimes in waste deep water.

The sheriff's office identified the men jailed in New Bern as Joseph William Havel, 60, of Philadelphia, and Larry LeRoy Bagley, 36, of Des Moines, Iowa.

Sought with McCoy was Melvin Dale Walker, 35, of Morley, Mo.

Police said four men figured in Tuesday morning's holdup of the Bank of North Carolina in Pollocksville, in sparsely settled Jones County about 20 miles south of Cove City and 15 miles southwest of New Bern.

A spokesman in the sheriff's office said it was believed the men fled with about $10,000. A Highway Patrol spokesman said he believed some of the money had been recovered.

In describing the holdup, the 36th in North Carolina this year, officers said three men walked into the bank, took the money, and then fled in a car driven by the fourth man.

They said the getaway car, reported stolen in New Bern, was abandoned about five miles north of Pollocksville.

The escapees then switched to another car, officers said, and fled from it when the helicopter descended to check it out in the swamp. Officers said the second car carried a Pennsylvania license tag.

McCoy was convicted in April 1972 of hijacking a United Airlines jetliner and bailing out of it with $500,000 after the plane had made a landing at Denver on a flight from Newark to Los Angeles. He was sentenced to 45 years in prison.

Under Fire At Nicosia

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The green-capped Greek officer and a dozen of his men lay spread-eagled under the concrete stairs of a new factory building at the edge of the Nicosia airport.

It was 7 a.m. and the sun was beginning to glow burning hot. A hundred yards away Turkish mortar rounds exploded along a red dirt ridge, spraying the bone-dry earth into the air.

"They are 4.2s," said one of the soldiers. "I was in America two months ago. Do you think they care what is happening to us?"

The whine of Turkish jets in the far distance stopped the conversation for a time.

"We are the next bombing target at this building," said the officer, who identified himself as the commander of the Greek forces securing the airport.

"Two hours the jets bombed a barracks over there" and he pointed to a plume of black smoke rising from behind a hill. "And they bombed the Finns (the Finnish United Nations detachment) over there," he added, pointing to another pillar of black smoke.

The U.N. Command announced that five Finnish soldiers were wounded in the bombing.

The Greek officer said his camp on the southwest side of the airport was bombed at 4:45 a.m.

"Suddenly four tanks came through our front fence," he continued, and at the same time Turkish infantry pushed from two directions against his perimeter.

The officr said he had to pull back.

His troops still held the ridge line ahead, he said, "and my men will hold firmly. I don't think they will try to get further into Nicosia than here. There are too many embassies. There would be too many troubles."

The mortars seemed to be edging closer to the concrete factory, and explosions began erupting to the south and west. But "we are safe enough," the officer said. "Unless the jets come back, that is."

Deny Morgan Probe By Any 'Present Employe'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Holshouser administration, following an in house probe, says none of its current employes made "background investigations, political or otherwise," against Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and two newspaper reporters.

But, the report of the investigation within the Department of Transportation states that one officer in the Enforcement and Theft Bureau of the Motor Vehicles Division did make "improper investigations" into a non-political matter.

The officer, M. V. O'Daniel, will be demoted five pay grades and transferred to Murphy, N.C., effective Sept. 1, according to the report.

Transportation Secretary Troy A. Doby ordered the investigation on Aug. 2 after Morgan, the Democratic U.S. Senate candidate, said agents of the Enforcement and Theft Bureau has probed his background in Harnett County.

Gov. Jim Holshouser later acknowledged that agents had been studying records of the Harnett County District Court, but said he warned them not to get involved in politics. Holshouser said he also ordered agents to return materials which were taken from the courthouse.

The governor denied previously that there was any investigation of Greensboro Daily News reporter Ned Cline. He acknowledged then that a state employe had unofficially checked Raleigh News and Observer reporter Daniel Hoover. He apologized to Hoover and called the probe a "dumb stunt."

The report Tuesday left open the question of whether there was a probe of Morgan's political background in Harnett County. The report said only that no one "presently-employed" by the Enforcement and Theft Bureau had made such a probe.

The Charlotte Observer reported Tuesday that at least six secret investigations had been made by the division with the knowledge of gubernatorial aide Gene Anderson and former Secretary of Transportation Bruce Lentz.

The Observer said Anderson had asked former Enforcement and Theft director Nicholas Smith for the investigation into Hoover's background.

Its report also said that Anderson and Lentz directed and participated in an investigation by Smith and investigator Timothy Bowers into the backgrounds of several Democratic employes fired in a purge of the Department of Transportation.

Doby, Childs and Anderson would immediately comment on the report this morning.

Doby said officer O'Daniel had improperly investigated the theft of a truckload of television sets. Doby said this was out of the O'Daniel's jurisdiction in Enforcement and Theft and was more properly a matter for the State Bureau of Investigation or local law officers.

System Of Legal Insurance In N.C. Prepared

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE

RALEIGH (AP) — A system of legal insurance designed to make legal services more easily available to middle income persons has been prepared by the North Carolina Bar.

The bar will seek legislative approval to set up a nonprofit corporation to offer prepaid legal services, B.E. James, secretary of the state bar, said Tuesday.

Under the proposed plan individuals or groups could pay a regular fee into the corporation and would be entitled to legal services from an attorney of their choice. The bill would be paid by the corporation.

James said the program will be presented in the next session of the legislature and he anticipates no difficulty in gaining approval. The state bar endorsed the program at its annual meeting last month.

James said prepaid legal services would be available to persons of all income levals. But he said it is, "geared especially to relieve middle income people who can't afford legal representation."

The concept has been under study nationally and on the state level for five or six years, James said.

It was born out of a growing concern that only the wellhealed and the indigent have access to the judicial system.

Some attorneys resisted the idea at first, James said.

"Initially this concept struck the profession like Medicare struck the medical profession—this looks too much like socialism. But the more we studied it we found it's just a means for the middle income man to pay for his services before he needs them," he said.

James said he hoped a statewide program could be functioning by next June.

Utah has a statewide program in operation, he said, and several other states, including Kansas, Oregon and New York, are preparing statewide plans. California has scattered local prepaid plans and Shreveport, La., has a local plan.

A pilot program of prepaid legal services was put in effect for three months this spring by the Teamsters Union local in Greensboro, N.C. It was approved by the state bar in February as an experimental effort.

David James, a member of the Greensboro law firm that drew up the plan, said from all reports he received, the union members were happy with the program. A union spokesman said the members would vote in September on whether to set up a permanent group program.

Couple Weds Today At High Noon

The marriage of Miss Louise Hortense Moye and Ford McGowan, Jr. was solemnized today at high noon in a ceremony at St. Gabriel's Catholic Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Charles Mulholland assisted by the Rev. Alex Viola of Asheville, cousin of the bridegroom. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Richard Powell, organist, and Mrs. Todd Pair, soloist.

The church was decorated with bouquets of white mums and pom pons and standards of emerald greenery. The altar was adorned with two seven branch brass candelabra holding lighted candles. A prie-dieu was used at the altar where the bridal couple knelt for the closing prayer. Family pews were marked with satin bows and greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James McKinney Moye of Greenville, and the late Mr. Moye. She was given in marriage by her brother, James McKinney Moye, Jr. The bride wore a formal length gown of white dotted swiss flocked with tiny rows of pastel pansies. The gown was designed with a portrait neckline and short pouf sleeves with the lined floral pattern accentuating the tucked princess line.

She wore a white braid garden hat encircled with fabric to match her gown and carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses, purple statice and tuberoses tied with narrow pink and white satin.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ford McGowan of Greenville.

The bride is a second year student at Pitt Technical Institute, enrolled in the mental health program. The bridegroom attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and is now a student at East Carolina University.

The maid of honor was Nancy Renner McGowan of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom. She was dressed in a formal length gown of baby blue dotted swiss with short pouf sleeves and hemline flounce accented with narrow bands of white lace. She wore a white hat similar to that of the bride with floral trim around the crown. She carried a nosegay of pink and blue miniature carnations and baby's breath tied with pink satin ribbons.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Frank Herbert Moye and Michael Forbes Moye of Greenville, brothers of the bride. David Alexander McGowan, brother of the bridegroom, was acolyte.

The mother of the bride wore a street length dress of powder blue crepe and carried a hand bouquet of bridal pink roses tied with a matching bow. The mother of the bridegroom selected a street length silk print sleeveless dress and carried a hand bouquet of American beauty roses tied with a matching bow.

The couple will reside in Greenville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

Immediately following the ceremony, the mother of the bride entertained the wedding party and guests at a reception at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The buffet table was centered with an arrangement of mixed summer flowers. The wedding cake was flanked by candelabra decorated with sprays of miniature pink carnations.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Ford McGowan, parents of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Broadhurst Banzel of Warrenton, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, entertained the bridal party, families and out-of-town guests at a wine tasting party at the McGowan home followed by a dinner at the Ramada Inn.

Should She 'Resist' Police Officer?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: While I was driving my car, a traffic officer suddenly appeared, and signaled for me to pull over. I promptly obeyed and asked him what I had done wrong.

He asked me to get out of the car, and when I did, he looked me over—but good. Then he asked me for my driver's license, which I gave him. Meanwhile, I was trembling like a leaf.

I noticed that he made a note of my name and address. Then he said: "You were exceeding the 35 mile-per-hour speed limit—but if you let me see you when I'm off duty, I'll call this a 'warning'." Then he smiled and told me his first name.

Abby, I was NOT going over the speed limit, and I was angry because he tricked me into stopping. Besides, I have a boyfriend and I'm not interested in seeing anyone else, but I didn't want a ticket so I said, "Okay."

Now, what if he calls me? BLONDIE

DEAR BLONDIE: Tell him if he wants to charge you with "resisting an officer" to go ahead, because he's not all that irresistible.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you had something in your column about people who have a misdemeanor on their record and how to get it removed.

At age 18, I was wrongly accused of being an accomplice to a minor shoplifting offense. (Ten dollars.) Being very much upset by the whole thing, I didn't fight the charge. I just went to court, paid the fine and it was put on my record.

I am now 21, married and want to apply for employment, but the previous job (where the shoplifting incident took place) was the only one I've ever had, so I wonder if you can help me.

I don't think a person should be penalized the rest of his life for one minor mistake at an early age.

If it's possible to get this off my record, how do I go about it? BEWILDERED

DEAR BE: If you have been in no legal difficulty for a year following the incident, go to the Probation Department and inquire about the possibility of "sealing" your records. Once they are sealed, it is as though they never existed and you may apply for a job without mentioning the fact that at one time you had this on your record. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Was I ever glad to see that letter in your column from "Foolish Question," whose mother kept insisting that she felt pain in her leg—which had been amputated.

It was not a foolish question, and I am glad you didn't tell her she was "nutty" as so many call me when I tell them that my toes itch when, indeed, I have no toes.

I had my leg amputated below the knee, and one day when I was all alone sitting on my bed, the stump started jumping up and down on the bed. I couldn't even hold it still with my hands!

By the time the doctor arrived, it had stopped jumping, but he explained that nature, which is a wonderful thing, was "rebelling." There should be more nerves in my leg than I had, and nature was letting me know it.

You did a lot of amputees a big favor by printing that letter. Now, when we tell people that some part of our anatomy that isn't there is itching or throbbing or giving us pain, they won't look at us like we're loony.

ANOTHER AMPUTEE

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Remodeling Is Solution For Many Homeowners

By DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you can't buy the house you want, improve the one you have.

That seems to be the solution for many homeowners who need or want to upgrade their living quarters but just can't swing it with today's soaring housing costs and tight mortgage market.

The American Bankers Association (ABA), noting a remodeling boom is underway as it becomes more difficult to finance the purchase of a new home, says funds for home improvement still are available.

"Since your home is your collateral, you may borrow up to 90 per cent of your equity in the house," Rex J. Morthland, ABA president, said.

"Interest varies from bank to bank —from about 12 to 15 per cent —so it pays to shop for the lowest rate. Repayment periods extend from 5 to 10 years."

Generally bank financing is less expensive than working with a home improvement firm, Morthland said. A passbook loan, a loan guaranteed by other collateral, borrowing on insurance all are possibilities.

Morthland suggested several ways to undertake a remodeling project. You can go to a home improvement firm that will handle the job from beginning to end, including the planning, financing, construction and finishing. You can arrange your own financing, work out your own plans or have a professional do it for you, and let contracts for as much or as little of the work as you choose.

While few families will want to handle a major remodeling project on a do-it-yourself basis, many will find they can cut costs by doing some of the work themselves. Just be sure, Morthland warns, that you consider carefully your abilities and the time you are willing to invest in do-it-yourself. And make certain all improvements conform to local building codes, especially electrical and plumbing work. Non-critical jobs such as preparation and clean-up, finishing chores such as painting and papering, installing moldings and panelling, laying floor tile are more time consuming than challenging, he said, but still represent a substantial reduction in labor costs when done by the homeowner.

Morthland stressed the need for care in choosing an established contractor whose ability and reputation are well known. "The home improvement field," he said, "attracts its share of fast-buck operators who pressure customers into agreeing to more than they need and who fail to live up to their promises. Recourse through the courts is a headache, expensive and not always successful."

In choosing a contractor, look around, inquire of friends who have had work done. Check local banks, chamber of commerce, better business bureau. "You may," Morthland said, "without feeling unduly suspicious, ask a contractor for references and check on work he has done.

It pays to get at least two and preferably three (some banks require three) written estimates, with each based on the same written specifications, Morthland said. "There may be a considerable difference even among reputable contractors depending upon their overhead, size of their sales force and how much their suppliers charge them for materials. Bear in mind the lowest bid may not always be the best choice, especially if it is far below the others."

If you are sure your contractor is experienced and honest, Morthland said, you may be better off heeding his advice about building materials, fixtures, appliances and possible substitutions because of shortages in order to avoid construction delays and possible price increases.

On major projects, it may pay to hire an architect, if you can find one who will take on the job. In addition to the rewards of professional design, often his fee will be made up in savings made possible by his knowledge of materials and construction and his supervision of the job as it proceeds.

At any rate, Morthland recommends, be sure to keep close watch on the work while it is in progress to make certain it is being done to specification. Don't harass workmen on the job, but do discuss with the contractor any questions you may have. Remember it is expensive to change your mind after work has started. Make any changes in the planning stage.

Morthland advises, "It is good planning to limit yourself to those improvements which will increase the resale value of a house, or for which added livability for your own family makes the cost worthwhile, even if you should recover nothing on resale.

Adding a new room or central air conditioning," he said, "probably will return full cost. You probably will realize about 75 per cent of the outlay for modernizing existing rooms and 50 per cent or less for such things as a swimming pool or patio."

Remodeling costs, like everything else, are rising these days. "It is estimated that could boost the cost anywhere putting off a job until next year from 10 to 50 per cent."

DINNER FOR TWO

Chicken Maria — Rice
Snap Beans — Tomato Salad
Fresh Peach Ice Cream Cake

CHICKEN MARIA

A friend's version of our recipe for broiled chicken.

2 chicken leg quarters (from broiler-fryers), about 1¼ pounds
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, soft
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 small clove garlic, crushed

Cut chicken drumsticks from thighs at joints; wash and dry with toweling. With a spoon, beat together the remaining ingredients. Place chicken pieces, skin side down, on a small broiling pan without a rack. Spread with ½ of the butter mixture. Broil 6 to 8 inches from high heat for about 20 minutes; turn skin side up and spread with remaining butter mixture. Continue broiling, adjusting heat or rack if necessary, until tender and browned — about 25 minutes longer. Serve with the curried butter mixture in pan over hot cooked rice. Makes 2 servings.

All Hinges On Inflation-Curb

The nation's new president, Gerald Ford, was straightforward and to-the-point in his address to Congress and to the nation Monday night.

He had only last week assumed the presidency after the unprecedented resignation of Richard Nixon and months of Watergate agony.

He placed top priority on stopping inflation as an aim of his administration. That is not surprising because inflation is constantly on the mind of every housewife as she goes about shopping for her family. It worries corporate executives. It has badly depressed the stock market.

"It may take some time to stop inflation," President Ford told the nation. As a first step he called for reactivating the Cost of Living Council to monitor wages and prices, although he would not return to controls.

"My first priority is to work with you to bring inflation under control," Ford told Congress. "Inflation is our domestic public enemy number one. To restore economic confidence the government in Washington must provide leadership. It does no good to blame the public for spending too much when the government is spending too much."

The president also pledged to continue a strong defense for the nation and to continue the U.S. foreign policy of better relations with Moscow and Peking.

The president made it clear that there would be no bugging or "dirty tricks" in his administration, and in view of what had happened in the administration of his predecessor, it was not difficult to believe him.

Gerald Ford's speech to Congress was entirely believable; in fact he came across as a man who can be trusted. The enthusiastic ovation that the members of Congress gave him as he prepared to deliver his talk gives the public still more reason to feel that a good, honest man is in the White House.

We think Ford will have the good will of Congress and the public for several months. During that time he must act to erase the memories of Watergate. To insure future good will he must act to curb the raging inflation that is robbing us all. The nation's economic problems must be solved if the Ford administration is to be judged successful.

"And here it is . . . the big play . . . a quick pitch-out to the all-American substitute, Jerry Ford . . .!"

Staying AloofOn Nixon

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has signaled his intention to stay out of any decision to prosecute Richard M. Nixon for Watergate crimes.

The President indicated that he would leave it up to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski to decide whether to seek an indictment againt the former president, Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Tuesday after a private meeting with Ford.

"He made no statement on it, but I got the feeling that it will just run its course, that he has no intention of intervening one way or the other," Saxbe told reporters.

The attorney general said he raised the issue with Ford only briefly during a session scheduled to inform the new President about pending Justice Department matters.

"I told him that this was in Mr. Jaworski's area, that it would just have to run its course," the attorney general said as he reaffirmed his own intention to leave Jaworski free to decide the issue.

Legal experts familiar with the Watergate investigation say Nixon could face a gamut of criminal charges ranging from obstruction of justice to subornation of perjury for his role in the scandals.

The grand jury that indicted Nixon's one-time advisers on charges of obstruction of justice in the Watergate cover-up named Nixon as an unindicted coconspirator after being told of the doubtful constitutionality of an indictment against a sitting president.

Nixon's resignation stripped him of that shield.

Jaworski has said nothing about the possibility of charges against Nixon. On the eve of Nixon's resignation, the prosecutor said there was no deal promising Nixon immunity if he quit the presidency.

Ford has the constitutional authority to pardon Nixon for any Watergate crimes even before formal charges and a trial. Saxbe said he and Ford did not discuss that possibility.

Asked whether Ford is considering pardoning Nixon, White House Press Secretary Jerald F. terHorst said, "I'm not aware that it has come up."

He told reporters, "The President is not keeping that question on the top of his priorities for the nation. He feels it's very important tha the country move ahead on positive programs."

Saxbe said Jaworski's charter of office clearly assigns the prosecutor the responsibility for deciding whether to prosecute Nixon.

Whether or not he is charged with crimes, Nixon faces the prospect of being summoned as a witness in Watergate-related civil and criminal trials. He has been named as a defendant in one lawsuit and could face other civil suits.

All of those proceedings could cost Nixon hundreds of thousands of dollars in legal fees, but he can't draw from some $2 million in leftover campaign funds to pay them.

The money can't be used to pay legal fees of anyone who was not a campaign official, said two of the three trustees administering the leftover funds.

Record Mountain Crop

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—While most eyes are on eastern tobacco markets, mountain farmers are looking at the rain clouds and hoping that this will be another record year for this growing segment of the economy in western North Carolina.

Burley tobacco, raised on the hillsides and in the hollows of western North Carolina, is the pace setter in the tobacco industry: last year's burley sales generally set the trend for this year's flue-cured market.

Thus, it's hard to say how the burley market fare come November. But the experts are predicting a good year.

Burley is harvested in late August and September, and is air cured in preparation for the three markets which are generally held from Thanksgiving through Christmas at Asheville, Boone, and West Jefferson

The richer leaf is used as a blend in pipe tobaccos and cigarettes, and generally sells higher than flue-cured. Last year, North Carolina marketed 16.6 million pounds of burley for a crop value of $15.2 million. Prices on average were up from $10 to $15 per hundred pounds over 1972 figures.

Up 12 per cent

This year, according to state Agriculture Department tobacco experts, the size of the crop should be up from 10 to 12 per cent, with reported acreage in the mountains running about 8,700 acres planted in burley, compared to 7,800 last year.

J. T. (Tommy) Bunn, tobacco market specialist for the state, said two factors were working in favor of the farmer this year: the pool supplies of burley held in cooperative storage are very low, and manufacturers' demands are high.

But weather is the key factor, Burn said. "There's been fairly heavy rain in the burley area, and some tobacco in low-lying areas may be damaged. . .some may drown. On the hillsides the leaf is doing fairly well despite the excess of rain."

Bunn explained that too much rain produces a thinner leaf with less body, and pointed to the market trend in the eastern sales as showing that tobacco manufacturers are seeking the heavier bodied leaf.

Bunn said he could not make a projection of prices in the burley belt come November, based on eastern sales, since the burley market generally sets the pace itself, rather than following the flue-cured sales.

An educated guess, however, is that burley will hold strongly in the upper 80s to $1.02 per pound. In the 1972-73 season the average price was 77.37 cents per pound; that jumped to 91.73 per pound in the 1973-74 market.

Good Year

If the crop does increase as expected, and prices go up correspondingly with past year increases, the western counties can look forward to an extremely good year, Bunn feels.

While still a small industry compared to the flue-cured tobacco market, burley has been steadily growing in importance to western North Carolina.

Total sales last year were $15.2 million for burley, compared to nearly $700 million for flue-cured. But the value of the mountain crop has increased steadily in recent years.

From 1950 to 1967, annual sales hovered in the $10 million to $12 million range, but started climbing sharply toward present records.

The major burley growing counties in order of importance are Madison (5.6 million pounds); Buncombe (4.1 million); Yancy (3.2 million); Ashe (3.2 million); Haywood (2.6 million); Watauga (2.3 million); and Mitchell (1.5 million).

Atotal of 31 counties report some burley production, including some as far east as Iredell and Gaston.

The Maitre d' Stays On

One of Gerald Ford's first acts as President was to ask Paul Delisle to stay on as maitre d' of the Sans Souci Restaurant. As most people know all the important government decisions are made at lunch time at the Sans Souci, and the President felt it was essential that in order to have an orderly transition of government no personnel changes should take place at the restaurant.

A White House aide told me, "We feel that Paul will serve us with the same loyalty that he served previous administrations. The whole world is watching what we do, and I can't think of a better way of instilling confidence than Paul remaining in this key post in government."

Many ambassadors who eat at the Sans Souci expressed delight at the news that the President asked Paul to stay on. "We don't know President Ford," one told me, "but we do know Paul and we can deal with him. I have already cabled my government that Mr. Delisle will keep his maitre d' post, and despite the changeover in government our country can still be assured of a table."

Lawyers and high officials of the media were also pleased that Paul would stay on. One leading pundit said, "In this grave hour of crisis the country needs continuity.

"By asking Paul to keep his position Mr. Ford is saying, 'No matter what happens America will survive.' "

As soon as the announcement was made I went over to see Paul to congratulate him on the appointment.

He read a statement. "I am proud and humble that the White House would ask me to remain in office. I promise to see that nothing but the prices will change at the Sans Souci. Despite the anguish of the past year and the shock that everyone has undergone, we must never forget government officials still have to eat. We have to forget the past and look to the future. The Sans Souci stands ready to face the challenge. I will now take questions."

"Paul, it seems to me your major problem is going to be to take care of President Ford's aides who work at the White House. How will you be able to do this?"

"It will be hard at first because I won't know who they are. Unless they make the reservation in the name of the White House, I may make a mistake and turn them away, but as time goes on I will know where the power is and adjust my reservation list accordingly."

"But can you handle all this new business?"

The INSIDE REPORT

Job Of Belling The Cat

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Highly secret talks between White House chief of staff Alexander Haig and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, together with extremely delicate planning betweeen Haig and three senior Republicans in Congress finally resolved the crucial question of extracting a presidential resignation: who would bell the cat and how?

The simple facts of Richard Nixon's last four days in office, filled with emotionally draining details which compelled his resignation Friday, began with a telephone call from Haig to Kissinger on that fateful Wednesday, July 31.

Haig, trusting no one outside the closed White House innner circle so much as his former boss on the National Security Council staff, gave Kissinger the bareboned details of the infamous June 23, 1972, tapes.

Kissinger, too, was appalled. Possessing primacy in the cabinet, as well as the greatest store of national and world prestige of any American, Kissinger was immediately perceived by Haig as the single person in the Nixon administration who still could wield influence over the President.

During the next five days of the nation's ordeal, Kissinger was approached in highly oblique fashion by powerful Republicans. Would there be some way for the cabinet to bell the cat—to inform the President that only by speedy resignation could the nation be salvaged from a far worse ordeal?

The proposal was discarded. "For such a purpose, the cabinet did not exist," one cabinet member explained. "There was only Henry."

Kissinger's central role in belling the cat was underscored by the crucial nature of his job. High State Department officials calculated the agonies that might spring from prolonged chaos and the threat to the legitimacy of the U. S. government. Outbreak of a major crisis, not then perceived but never to be ruled out, could prove disastrous with a President lacking the moral authority to marshal the country's backing.

A more subtle problem: the longer it took to bell the cat, the more likely that foreign countries would find it irresistible to expolit the vacuum and, in one diplomat's phrase, "raise the asking price by 5 per cent in all our negotiations across the board."

So it came down to Kissinger. What he did and how he did it may never be known fully. But he fairly lived with the President and Al Haig those last four days.

The aid of Republican congressional leaders was quickly enlisted by Haid. Sen. Barry Goldwater, Sen. Hugh Scott and Rep. John Rhodes knew Mr. Nixon was finished the moment Haig sent James St. Clair, the President's lawyer, to brief them on the June 23 tapes in the early afternoon of Monday, Aug. 5.

Haig's plan was terse and simple: the deadly danger of a leaderless America in world politics was being demonstrated to Mr. Nixon in undramatic fashion by Kissinger (the tireless propounder of national "legitimacy"); the hard facts of the President's collapse in Congress must be demonstrated to Mr. Nixon in the same way by the congressional leaders.

Haig's advice to the men of Congress was sound: he himself had provided the bare facts to Mr. Nixon "with the bark on." He was buttressed in this by White House congressional liaison chief William Timmons, who provided Mr. Nixon with what Haig called "a running count on the damage assessment" in Congress. What Haig needed to bell the cat was proof before the President's eyes that there was no honorable way out except resignation.

Goldwater, Scott and Rhodes were cautioned by Haig: don't push, be honest and fair, or resignation won't happen.

The three party elders arrived in the Oval Office agreed among themselves that belling the cat must be a purely Republican affair. As one told us: "Only Republicans could grapple with the disaster that had struck the country and the

Other Editors Say Campaign Reform

(The Wilson Times)

We are glad to find that Congressman L.H. Fountain voted to lower the spending limits proposed in the campaign finance reform bill for primary and general election campaigns for the House of Representatives. The House by a vote of 240 to 175 lowered the spending limits proposed in the campaign finance reform bill.

The amendment cut the spending limit for each candidate from $75,000 to $60,000 for each campaign, primary and general. We agree with those who claim the $75,000 figure was too high and only encouraged "profligate campaign spending."

On the other side of the argument, opponents contended that the $75,000 limit was a fair compromise between the spending needs of candidates in urban and rural districts. Any lower figure would make the reform measure an incumbent's" bill increasing the difficulty for challengers attempting to unseat them.

Those voting for the lower spending limit: Fountain, Henderson, Jones, Ruth, and Taylor. Those voting against lower spending limit: Andrews, Broyhill, Martin, Mizell, Preyer and Rose. You can understand why each voted for the higher figure, their competition is keener.

Another point is the House, by a 187-228 vote turned back an amendment to the campaign finance reform bill that would have provided partial public financing of congressional elections through grants of federal money that would match funds raised by candidates.

Backers of congressional public financing contended the reform was needed to curb the political influence of large campaign contributors and end the possibility of future Watergate type campaign scandals.

Opponents warned that public financing was unconstitutional and would eventually lead to federal regulations covering the conduct of campaigns.

Voting for public financing: Andrews, Henderson, Preyer and Taylor. Voting against public financing: Broyhill, Fountain, Jones, Martin, Mizell and Rose.

Strength For Today

THE WORLD UPSIDE DOWN

"Bury me on my face," said Diogenes; and when he was asked why, replied, "Because in a little while everything will be turned upside down."

Although Diogenes lived about 400 B.C. he expected that a great cataclysm would come shortly after his death. Even at this early date he was not alone in these expectations. In a museum in Istanbul is a little piece of papyrus on which is the oldest piece of writing to come down to us. It says, "Times are not what they used to be. Children no longer obey their parents, and everybody wants to write a book."

Yet the expected and oft-prophesied cataclysms seldom come. If they buried Diogenes on his face, we can be sure that the good old sage stayed in that position until his body turned to dust. The day has not yet come when everything is turned upside down, and probably never will.

Actually, prophesying doom is often a ways by which we rationalize an unwillingness to work for a better world.

'Honeymoon' To See Short Run

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Since the economy is the No. 1 problem, President Gerald Ford's honeymoon isn't likely to have an indefinite run.

Eventually, if not immediately, he must decide on what anti-inflation course he will pursue. And that means he might offend large segments of economic society, despite his desire for cooperation and mutuality.

The schools of economic thinking today can be divided and subdivided more sharply than at almost any time in a decade or more. In the extreme, one side insists on an economic straightjacket, the other urges more freedom.

This division is partly the legacy of five years of experimentation that led the Nixon administration back to where it began — tight money, a spending holddown, a balanced budget.

Alan Greenspan, who was Nixon's choice to be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, exemplifies this thinking. Arthur Burns, head of the Federal Reserve, does to a large degree. So does Herbert Stein, outgoing council chairman.

But those economists more identified with the Democrats, such as Walter Heller, Otto Eckstoen and James Tobin, all advisers in the Kennedy-Johnson years, disagree sharply.

They suggest that moderation, exceptions to the rule, special handling of sensitive issues such as housing — even a little experimentation — might still be called for, despite Nixon's failures in these directions.

Perserverance in a tight monetary-fiscal policy, they believe, might lead to social dislocations even more severe than those attributed to inflation, such as joblessness, financial disorder, recession.

In arriving at their conclusions, each side sometimes uses the same reasons as the other.

The Democratic economists argue that an overly tight monetary policy would bring more financial disorder.

Indications that the divisions are even more extreme can be gathered from the growing assumptions of some legislators, businessmen and others that the entire policy of tight money may be counterproductive.

This position is based on the assumption that inflation isn't domestically generated nearly so much as it is caused by foreign events, such as oil prices, over which tight money has no restraining impact at all.

President Ford is acclaimed for his ability to elicit cooperation from all parties, but if he can handle the anti-inflation program without offending great numbers of people, that acclaim will become awe.

Bank Robbery Suspect Captured By Four Kids

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Police say a suspect in a $2,800 robbery was captured during a chase by four youngsters while a television crew filmed the episode.

The FBI said George A. Thomas, 26, a participant in a work-release program at the Vanderburgh County Jail, was charged with bank robbery.

Agents gave this account:

A man entered United Savings and Loan Association on Tuesday and held up a teller with what later was discovered to be a water pistol. The robber fled in a stolen car, but it struck a tree three blocks from the savings institution.

Stumbling from the auto and clutching money to his chest, the driver told David Monks, 12, "Don't say anything. I just robbed a bank."

David rushed to a group of teen-agers playing baseball nearby and reported the conversation. Monks and three other youths chased the bank robber across a golf course.

Steven Grainger, 15, of Chicago, who is visiting his grandmother, tackled Thomas and then held him with the aid of the other youths until police arrived.

Meanwhile, David Berry, news director of WTVW, and cameraman Ernie Hicks arrived to investigate the auto crash. They saw Thomas sprinting ahead of the youths, scattering currency behind him. They filmed the chase.

An Evansville policeman quoted Thomas as complaining, "I'm jinxed. I try to hold up a bank and I get caught by a bunch of midgets."

Grainger is about 5 feet tall and David 4 feet.

"I believe I can. Many of the former Nixon aides are no longer in Washington, for one reason or another, so their tables will be filled by the new regime."

"Will you still accept reservations from former Nixon people who have not been sent away?"

"Of course. They may have to wait until the present White House staff is fed, but as long as I am maitre d' anyone who worked at the White House and can still afford it will be welcome. I still have customers from the Kennedy and Johnson administrations and, although they no longer have decision-making powers, they get the same food as everybody else."

"One last question. Some of the plotting of Watergate and the coverup took place at the Sans Souci. Did the FBI ever question you about what you knew?"

"Yes, but I couldn't give them much help. Every time they asked me about someone I always replied 'That wasn't my table.' "

Republican party."

And so they laid the evidence starkly on Mr. Nixon's desk. They avoided the word "resignation," sticking to the bare facts, just as Haig and Kissinger, in playing their own parts in the funereal drama, stuck to the bare facts.

The last time he cried, Mr. Nixon told them, was on the death of Dwight Eisenhower. He wanted "no tears" now and "no bloodshed." When the leaders left, Mr. Nixon's choice was simply unavoidable.

Haig, Kissinger, Goldwater, Scott, Rhodes. They had performed a horrendous task, unknown in 200 years of American history, and performed it effectively, discreetly and with a certain nobility.

Mrs. Crisp Is Appointed

RALEIGH—Mrs. Florence Nelson B. Crisp of Greenville has been named to serve on a nine-member Board of Correction.

The appointment was made by Governor Jim Holshouser. The board was established by the 1974 General Assembly to advise the Secretary of Correction, assist in the development of major programs and to recommend priorities for new programs.

Mrs. Crisp was born in Greenville where she now has a private law practice. She attended Duke University, East Carolina University, the University of California, and received her law degree from the University of North Carolina.

She is active in the First Presbyterian Church, where she is a Deacon and Sunday School teacher.

She holds membership in the American Bar Association, North Carolina Bar Association, Greenville Art Society, Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, and the North Carolina Women's Political Caucus.

Govm't Loan Deal Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $100 million loan agreement for production of the F14 jet fighter by the Grumman Aerospace Corp. has been killed by the Senate.

"It is time to put a stop to the corporate bailout syndrome," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Tuesday in winning passage of a resolution voiding an agreement between Grumman and the Navy.

Proxmire said the Grumman-Navy relationship with Congress "has been characterized by concealment, deception, mismanagement of government programs and corporate bailouts."

The resolution, adopted by a 53 to 35 vote, won the support of Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who said that although he believes the F14 is a fine aircraft, he wanted "to get this perpetual headache solved."

Charged After Backing Mishap

Lucy Leary Dudley of Route 1, Vanceboro was charged with failing to keep a proper lookout while backing following investigation of a 10:26 a.m. collision on Charles Street 300 feet South of the 14th Street intersection yesterday.

Officers said the Dudley car collided with a parked truck owned by the N.C. State Highway Commission causing an estimated $100 damage to the Dudley auto and $250 damage to the state-owned truck.

Temporary Cut In Beef Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government farm experts say sharply lower corn yields will bring consumers a temporary easing of beef prices toward the end of this year.

But the experts also warn that the reduced corn crop, down 12 per cent from last year, eventually will translate into higher retail meat prices in 1975.

The drought in much of the Midwest, the prime reason for less feed next season, supposedly will force more cattle onto the market this fall because of rising production costs and dried up pastures.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz predicted on Tuesday that the reduced corn crop will mean "some curtailment" of cattle feeding and the sale of more cattle for slaughter later this fall.

Butz told newsmen, however, that recent rains in the Midwest will boost USDA corn estimates next month from the four-year low of 4.96 billion bushels estimated as of Aug. 1.

If the rains continue, they also could mean an improvement in parched grass conditions in the Great Plains and result in many cattle, which might otherwise go to market, being held in pastures later this year.

George Hoffman, a livestock economist in the department's Econonomic Research Service, told a reporter on Tuesday that cattle prices now are the highest since last winter.

Hoffman said cattle prices lately have been around $47 per 100 pounds, roughly 30 per cent above the low levels last June of $35 or less.

Hoffman said the current cattle price is probably near the peak for the July-September quarter. And, if drought forces more cattle onto the market, the prices should go down in the fall.

Thus, according to USDA reasoning, as more cattle go to market later in the year, retail beef prices should ease a bit.

But Hoffman said he had to qualify the outlook considerably. He said that if rain brings good pasture grass to large areas many of those cattle will stay on the land.

He said that if that should happen to any large extent, cattle prices late this year could rise sharply, perhaps to the range of $50 per hundredweight, or near the record levels set in August 1973.

That would mean higher beef prices to consumers next winter instead of lower prices now predicted by administration officials. But, by spreading out cattle marketing, it also might mean a better supply of cattle for market in 1975 and a more temperate beef price increase then.

Merchandise Reported Taken

An estimated $517 worth of merchandise, including televisions, radios and record players, were taken from the Goodyear Service Store' on Dickinson Avenue in a break-in reported Monday.

Detective Capt. Jack Russell said the break-in was reported at 8:14 a.m.

Thieves, he said, gained entrance to the building by breaking glass from a door.

Reported missing, the officer said, were one color television set, two black-and-white sets, three travel clock radios, one tape player and one record player.

Investigation of the case is continuing.

Dialysis-Care Provided For Pet Dog, Too

By ROBERT GLASS
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Spot, a mongrel, has his blood filtered 100 times every five hours through a life-sustaining kidney dialysis machine.

In the emergency room, veterinarians diagnose a sedated 9-year-old German shepherd watchdog for a respiratory ailment.

A sad mutt with jaundiced eyes lies unable to move on an examining table under a huge X-ray machine.

Treatment for these dogs at the University of Pennsylvania's Veterinary Hospital is remarkably similar to human patient care. The hospital operated by the School of Veterinary Medicine accepts animals with every conceivable disorder, from malnourishment to cancer.

About 50 per cent of the animals are referrals from private clinics and are of particular interest because of their research value, according to Dr. Kenneth C. Bovee, chief of medical services. Other cases are accepted routinely at costs comparable to private vet clinics.

Large animal research and treatment is done at New Bolton Center, a 750-acre complex in Chester County, 32 miles southwest of Philadelphia. Among the facilities at the site are a clinic and hospital for large animals, research laboratories and orthopedic and rehabilitation centers.

Because domestic pets are treated at the small animal hospital in the city, it receives wider public exposure. Dealing with the pet owners is a persistent and often frustrating part of the routine at the hospital.

"A funny thing happens when people get into trouble with their pets," explains Dr. Bovee. "They need help, and they'll do anything to get it. After the animal gets well or dies, they forget you."

Occasionally, the hospital will provide extraordinary treatment at costs well beyond the reach of most pet owners for the sake of research.

For example, Bovee says, arrangements may be made to treat an animal with the kidney dialysis machine, a procedure that can run into thousands of dollars. "All we ask is for the people to bring the animal back every six months. They say they will and then they never come in."

Research at Penn's veterinary school is one of the main reasons for operating elaborate hospitals such as the small animal clinic and New Bolton Center.

Dr. Robert Marshak, head of the veterinary school, is responsible for the only veterinary school research program on bovine lymphosarcoma, a disease affecting cows' blood.

Pennsylvania established the first comparative cardiovascular studies unit in the country, which has been designated as the international training center for such diseases by the World Health Organization. Veterinarians here were the first to implant a pacemaker in a dog for therapeutic purposes.

Penn's is the second oldest of the 19 veterinary schools in the country and entrance requirements are identical to those at the medical school. In the fourth and final year of study, students work exclusively in the small animal hospital and New Bolton Center. Two students are assigned with a veterinarian to follow the progress of each animal until it is released or dies.

Brinksmanship Is Italian Way

By PETER J. SHAW

ROME (UPI) — Italy appears to have more chaos than spaghetti on its plate. Government crises are nearly as frequent as the strikes that disrupt daily life.

Inflation is galloping near 20 per cent. Interest alone on the national debt of $10.5 billion runs about $700 million annually.

Bureaucratic inefficiency and political patronage, often called the worst in Europe, soak up millions more, while in the depressed South, education, housing, prisons, transportation and health services plead for long overdue aid and reform.

Entrusting mail to Italy's postal system is akin to selling it for pulp. Some postal workers have.

Olive oil, meat, wine, taxes, gasoline, electricity, rents, medical costs—all these and more have soared in cost since spring.

So when will Italy buckle and collapse?

Save your wagers. The people who gave you Michelangelo, Machiavelli and the Mafia are more astute than that.

Probably no European nation plays domestic brinksmanship better than Italy. It has again pulled back from the edge just in time through a combination of import restrictions, stiff austerity measures, swift political and labor union compromise—and the new shock that this time the edge had crept closer than ever before.

Italy's affluence is but two decades old. The industrial boom of the 1950s and 1960s that has made it the world's seventh biggest industrial nation and the ninth biggest exporter led many Italians to spend and live beyond their means.

Labor unions sought and won excessive wage demands. Italians developed a taste for imported prime meat, Scotch whisky, other foreign luxury goods. They became less dependent on their own agriculture, which began to wither.

They got away with it until the Arab oil crisis.

Italy imports 90 per cent of its oil and depends on oil for 75 per cent of its energy, more than any other European nation. The cost of crude oil imports in the first five months of this year rose 2.5 times.

The government applied a Sunday driving ban and other austerity measures but they failed to sour the pursuit of la dolce vita. By April the country's foreign trade deficit hit a record $1.4 billion.

Premier Mariano Rumor's coalition government survived a brief collapse over disagreements on an unprecedentedly stiff austerity program and pulled itself together to reach a quick compromise.

The program is designed to drain $5 billion from the country's purchasing power within a year in order to curb inflation. It is also aimed at containing the national budget deficit currently running at $16 billion a year and reducing the balance of payments deficit by $2 billion within the next 12 months and by $3 billion within 18 months.

The austerity steps hiked corporation, real estate and value added taxes, pushed the price of gasoline to $1.95 a gallon, boosted electricity rates and health insurance contributions, surtaxed cars and motorcycles.

"Italians are being asked to make heavy sacrifices," Rumor said. "This we well know."

And Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo warned: "Without courage for unpopular steps now, we can expect even more serious consequences."

There are some encouraging signs.

Although oil import costs have soared, Italy's exports of refined petroleum products have increased by 162 per cent.

To What Avail 'The Crying Years' Of N. Ireland?

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondentdn

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Five years it is now since the British army arrived to keep Protestants and Catholics from mutilating each other in Northern Ireland, and where, as Sean O'Casey asked in his play "Shadow of the Gunman," has anything gotten anyone?

To what avail all the white papers and changes in government, all the defiance and marches, Protestant parades and hunger strikes, the building and bursting of the barricades, the weapon sweeps and the internments with and without trial, and all the death and destruction?

A merchant speaks, Jim McKenna, surveying the bomb-cratered city center of Armagh, St. Patrick's ancient cathedral town;

"You might say we are back to square one. Except the square is not there any more. It's been blown away."

A Catholic priest speaks, Father Fernando Carbery of the Ardoyne Chapel where more than 100 parishioners, including two young girls, have been "lifted" by the British and interned at the long Nesh camp on suspicion of Irish Republican Army activities:

"The women have had the hardest time of it; getting on each other's nerves all day and afraid to go out at nights. Since the sectarian assassinations started, if the man of the house is 15 minutes late home from work or stops off at one of the two pubs left around here, they are on the phone to the priests and the neighbors in a total panic. You wouldn't believe the pill popping that goes on around here."

A Protestant leader speaks, Harry Murray, the shipyard shop steward who organized the 10-day Ulster Workers' Council strike recently that brought the province to its knees and toppled the Catholic-Protestant power-sharing government coalition:

"Has anything been achieved because of all the deaths here in the past five years? It's time for the politicians to get back to the bread and butter issues. You can't eat the tricolor of the republic or the Union Jack. The violence is destroying us north and south because people will not invest in Ireland."

A British soldier speaks, Corp. William Jones of B Company, Royal Regiment of Wales, on his fourth tour in Ulster, going all the way back to August 1969 when he slept in a burned-out bus and didn't know "who was bloody who":

"Five years leaves you tone deaf to insults. There can't be any new curse words I haven't heard. Time teaches you to keep on your toes. You learn not to pose for a sniper when someone stops you with a question. You know something is cooking if the kids have suddenly gone from the streets; and not to go near a parked vehicle that wasn't there before. The gunmen keep getting younger — 14 and 15 some of them — and less expert. But it doesn't pay to take them for granted."

A social worker speaks, the Rev. Sydney Callaghan, head of "The Samaritans," a volunteer organization that ventures into both Catholic and Protestant enclaves at any hour to aid the suicidal and despairing:

"The surprising thing is that the suicide rate and the intake at the mental hospitals in Belfast has actually gone down since the troubles resumed. The psychiatrists say this is normal — whatever that means — for a wartime situation.

"It's a sad commentary and a spin-off from our times that the less adequate feel more fulfilled in a disturbed situation. The heartening thing is that the ghetto areas demonstrate intense community concern. If an old age pensioner gets the windows blown out in a bomb blast, the young people are around next morning to paint and plaster. Surely, there is something worth building on here if we can ever get i all sorted out."

Five characters in possession of a tragedy and in search of a solution. But in the grim drama of tormented Ulster, death has all the best lines.

From Aug. 14, 1969, when British troops arrived to keep the peace between Protestant loyalists and Catholic activist-cum-Republicans in the now forgotten civil rights marches, 1,045 people have been killed, including 218 soldiers and 54 policemen. Sectarian murders, a newer phase in the IRA guerrilla campaign and its attending Protestant backlash, have claimed the lives of 149 Catholics and 78 Protestants.

In the past five years the government has paid out more than $180 million in property damage claims and $20 million for personal injuries, much of it emergency money to get the shopkeeper and the factory owner back in business. Thousands of more claims are pending.

The devastation which began with the burning of Belfast's linen mills and warehouses and left Derry without a single hotel and only the shell of a shopping center has now wrecked Newry, Strabane, Armagh, Dungannon and Downpatrick. Tiny Belleek, a hot spot right on the border, now looks as fragile as its famous chinaware.

"Out of 15 villages in my constituency I doubt whether there is one that has not been bombed, and the first six months of this year have been the worst ever," asserted hardline Protestant leader John Taylor, who is calling for an armed home guard of 30,000 volunteers as a "third force to assist the army and police against terrorists."

The Europa Hotel, Belfast's largest, marked its third year in business a few weeks ago with damage claims passing the $3 million mark, which is about one-third of what it cost to erect the 300-room showplace.

Northern Ireland came into being half a century ago as an artificial entity to reconcile the political aspirations of its one million Protestants. They feared Rome and remained steadfasly loyal to the British crown while half-a-million Catholics, mostly of Celtic origin, romantically if not always actively identified with the Irish Republican Army's dream of a free united Ireland.

The new troubles erupted in late 1968 with a series of civil rights marches on behalf of Ulster's Catholic minority, which complained of years of coming off second best in jobs and housing and elective representation. The protest turned to bloody riots and Protestant extremists, who looked upon every concession as a sellout to Rome, broke up the demonstrations and marched into the ghettoes of Belfast and Londonderry, burning and beating.

Perhaps a third of the people in Northern Ireland, especially in the upper middle-class suburbs and the heavily Protestant towns, have never heard a shot fired.

But in the ghettoes, shootings are an everyday occurence. On Aug. 9, 1971, the day internment began, 198 houses were burned out in Farringdon Gardens, a mixed Catholic and Protestant neighborhood near the Ardoyne chapel.

Despite the daily devastation in Ulster there are still pockets of cooperation among the mutually suspicious sects. The courageous fire brigade, the ambulance corps and the public health nurses still answer emergency calls anywhere in Belfast regardless of their own beliefs.

All kinds of ironies mark the five-year struggle. In prim, proper Belfast, that gray Victorian city, massage parlors have sprung up to soothe the bomb-burdened businessman. With the security forces busy hunting for bombs, smuggling and poteen making have become growth industries and cockfighting has made a big comeback in the countryside.

There has been a marked increase in venereal disease, pot smoking and juvenile vandalism, yet in the ghetto areas children do better in school because there is no place to go at nights. They learn other, more lethal lessons, like how to hobble an army armored car by winding the barbed-wire coil that sits on the bumper around the axle.

The latest in an endless series of solutions to the Irish problem calls for a constitutional convention some time in the next six months or perhaps later for the people of Ulster to decide for themselves what to do with themselves.

But since the Protestants, in an unprecedented display of solidarity, swept 11 of the 12 Ulster seats in the London Parliament in the last elections and locked arms to tie up the province in the subsequent general strike, the Catholic community is more apprehensive than ever about its future under Ireland's Orange majority rule.

And while the Irish army, as distinguished from the outlawed IRA, is patrolling the border more effectively against arms smuggling, the Dublin government increased traditional Protestant fears of rule from Rome when Premier Liam Cosgrave crossed the floor of the parliament to vote with the opposition and help defeat his own party's bill to legalize contraceptives.

Protestant leaders talk more and more of establishing a separate country of Ulster, on a commonwealth basis if necessary, as the clamor grows in England, which has suffered its own bombs at the Tower of London and elsewhere, to pull the troops out of Ireland.

Medical Phone Service Enjoys Large Audience

By QUINTON SMITH

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Physicians in the Portland metropolitan area have embarked on a new method of helping citizens before they reach the doctor's office.

When Portlanders want to get information on a disease or ailment, all they have to do is pick up the nearest telephone and dial 248-9855.

That's Tel-Med, an apparently successful tape system designed to kill half-truths and old wives tales about most anything that ails a person.

The Multnomah County Medical Society began Tel-Med four months ago. The 191 tapes, hooked up to 10 telephone lines, and handled by a special operator, dispense the latest information on diseases ranging from acne to varicose veins.

The switchboard has been deluged since accepting its first call last March. More than 58,000 calls were logged in the first four months, with monthly figures rising steadily.

"This is our opportunity to get good, reliable and basic information to the public," says Dr. Donald Dobson, who heads the Tel-Med committee for the Medical Society. "All these ideas that people have—we're just trying to correct them."

The program first was tried in San Bernardino, Calif., two years ago. Eight California communities now have a similar program. With a $25,000 gift from the Oregon Physicians' Service, the Medical Society bought the equipment and hired an operator.

Dobson obtained 180 tapes from the San Bernardino Library and accepted two-thirds of those for use after screening. Thirty-six more tapes were developed by the committee, local doctors doing the writing and professionals recording them.

Dobson said the tapes are designed to help people remain healthy, recognize early signs of illness and adjust to a serious illness.

The most popular tape so far is one entitled "Masturbation," while others in the top 10 usually include "Marijuana," "Vasectomy," "Am I really Pregnant?" "LSD," "Gonorrhea," "Cancer," "Acne," Hay Fever," "Fears of the After-40 Man" and "Contraceptives."

More unusual tapes include, "Advice for the Parents of Teenagers," "Are You Afraid of the Dentist?," "Tommy Gets His Tonsils Out," and "Baldness and Falling Hair."

"The tapes are not to diagnose diseases," Dobson said, "but to give accurate medical information. They help patients who need information and don't want to bother the doctor."

Dorothy Price, who supervises the operators at the Medical Society and keeps statistics on the calls and most requested tapes, said that 55 per cent of the callers are women, 25 per cent men and the others children.

There are usually 650,675 calls daily, Mrs. Price said, and even a few long distance ones.

Romanians See "Mannix' Too

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The American detective serial "Mannix," shown on Romania television in this Communist nation, had its effect.

A cartoon in the government paper showed a housewife saying her bedside prayers and asking that "no harm come to Mannix."

The Communist party paper reported on a 13-year-old student, alone at home in the town of Brailita, when a burglar entered his house. When the burglar left the student trailed him to his lair and noted the address.

He told the police, who captured the intruder. The paper congratulated the youngster saying "Bravo, Mannix of Brailita!"

Best Choice In Sunglass Lens

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The preferred colors for sunglass lens are neutral gray and sage green.

So say sunglass makers Ray-Ban, explaining these two colors are recommended for best acuity and color perception. Your eyes do not respond equally to all colors, and in fact they are quite a bit more sensitive to the green wave lengths than to those of other colors. A sensitivity curve of the eye rises from the blue, peaks in the green, and drops in the red.

Vientiane Has Changed Little In Decade Of War

By ROBERT KAYLOR

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — A foreigner who lived in this sleepy capital on the banks of the Mekong River in the 1950s returned recently and was asked what changes he noticed.

"I guess the most remarkable thing is that, really, almost nothing has changed," he said.

In the intervening years Laos has experienced the second Indochina war, 10 years of American bombing in its hinterlands, three coalition governments with the Communist Pathet Lao, and four coups or attempted coups. The crises have done little to disturb the languid pace of life here.

A mountain kingdom that was carved out of the western flank of Indochina by the French, Laos remains Southeast Asia's least developed country. Ethnic Laotians comprise less than half of a total population of possibly 3.5 million, with tough hill people of various tribes making up most of the rest.

In an age when other Asian cities are going through economic booms and building skyscrapers, Vientiane is one of a few remaining capitals that are out of the pages of Graham Greene.

The town, with 176,000 inhabitants, is a sun-baked collection of wooden shacks and red tile-roofed colonial buildings that stretch along two narrow main streets with open drains.

Sleeping dogs dot the sidewalks. Foreigners who live here joke that about the only thing that occurs on time in Vientiane is the daily siesta. Practically all activity lapses at noon and does not resume until three.

Underneath the tranquil surface, however, long-time residents of Vientiane do see significant changes. The country's third coalition government since 1957 was formed last April 5, and before he was stricken by a heart attack in mid-July, neutralist Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma had been performing a delicate balancing act trying to get Communists and non-Communists to work together.

Most of the Americans who conducted the so-called "secret war" in Laos have picked up and left. They included paramilitary advisers who armed, paid and organized guerrilla troops to fight the war. They also included highly paid pilots of Air America, the charter airline that flew for the CIA.

Villas rented to the Americans by military officers and businessmen now stand vacant, and night life at the bars and night clubs which catered to them is languishing.

The departure of Air America alone took an estimated $4 million a year in salaries of Laotian employes and local purchases out of the town's economy. The total impact of the U.S. cutback has not been fully determined at a time when Vientiane has been caught in the worldwide inflationary squeeze.

Communist Pathet Lao troops in baggy green uniforms and caps now patrol the streets with government police. There are a total of about 2,000 armed Pathet Lao in Vientiane, both as police and security forces for Communist ministers in the government.

In an incident that many people here see as a sign of the times, a retired American pilot was arrested by the joint police last month for shooting a bandit who tried to hold him up as the American was leaving a restaurant he owns.

Pathet Lao police officers charged he was an American military officer in disguise. The restaurant owner is still languishing in jail. The regular police were unable to release him because peace protocols required all decisions to be made unanimously by the two sides.

The Pathet Lao police also broke up an attempt by rightists to get names on a petition to prevent the dissolution of the National Assembly by the coalition. Souvanna backed the Pathet Lao in order to maintain a fragile peace.

Vientiane's university students, formerly regarded as docile and non-political, are starting to take a page from young people in other Asian countries who have been exerting political power.

Earlier this year they staged protests against rising living costs, blaming Souvanna's government. They have also announced plans for demonstrations against the Pathet Lao to protest the presence of North Vietnamese troops in Laos.

Pathet Lao ministers in the coalition, who for years lived in austere caves in remote jungles, have quickly developed tastes for air conditioners and scotch whisky since arriving in Vientiane.

Some Laotians voice hopes that the comforts of the big city, Vientiane style, will make the Pathet Lao easier to deal with. But other Laotian observers point out that the most senior men in the movement stayed behind in the caves, and that their policy pronouncements seem as hard-line as ever.

Virus Is Threat To America's Wild Ducks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harassed for many a long year by dried up breeding areas, by hunters and by the march of civilization generally, American wild ducks now face a new hazard: DVE.

That's an acronym for the disease called duck virus enteritis or duck plague. Present among domestic fowl in Europe for about 50 years, it was first reported on farms in this country six years ago. Then in the winter of 1972-1973 it killed 43,000 wild ducks and geese at the Lake Andes National Wildlife Refuge in South Dakota.

Biologists fear that the virus, known to be present now in some domestic flocks and probably in wild flocks, may spread. Stricken birds die within a week after being seized first with lethargy and then with convulsions. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is marshaling its laboratories, scientists and managers to try and deal with the threat.

Left A Mess In Home Ec Room

VINCENNES, Ind. (AP) — It's a fine way to give thanks for a free meal.

Thieves who broke into the Lincoln High School and took a small amount of cash from an office and two pencil machines stopped in a home economics room long enough to fix themselves breakfast.

"They didn't even wash their dirty dishes," a disgruntled school official complained.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were stronger Tuesday. Supplies barely adequate, demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 60.65, medium whites 51.15, small whites 40.98.

NEW YORK (AP) —Stock market prices dropped still further today, extending a sharp week-long decline.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was almost a point below Tuesday's close, and losers more than doubled the number of gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts noted that renewed fighting in Cyprus had lengthened the list of the market's worries, which already included persistent inflation and record high interest rates.

Today's prices on the Big Board included MGIC Investment, down ¾ at 11; Citicorp, off ½ at 30; Continental Oil, down 1⅛ at 36¼, and Avon Products, down 1⅛ at 27¾.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average skidded 10.88 points to 756.41, bringing its total loss over the past four sessions to more than 41 points.

Advances overwhelmed declines by nearly a 4-1 margin on the Big Board in turnover of just 10.14 million shares.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell .66 to 41.19.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .59 at 78.10.

Ask 'Special Concern' For Outer Banks

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The state Department of Natural and Economic Resources has proposed that all of the Outer Banks in North Carolina be designated as an area of special environmental concern.

The proposal was made to the new Coastal Resources Commission, which is empowered to designate special areas of concern under the 1974 Coastal Area Management Act.

Under the Coastal Management Act, the commission must be notified of proposed development in specially designated areas at least 60 days before construction can begin.

The barrier islands are included on a preliminary listing of special areas presented to the commission at a meeting Tuesday.

Also included on the list are coastal wetlands, estuarine waters and other special areas in the 20-county coastal area.

Natural and Economic Resources (NER) officials emphasized that the list, drawn up according to guidelines in the act, is tentative and subject to change.

Before a final listing is prepared, proposals will be discussed by the coastal commission and at a series of public hearings.

Hearings on the proposed areas of concern are scheduled Aug. 29 in Wilmington, Aug. 30 in Jacksonville, Sept. 5 in Morehead City, Sept. 6 in Washington, N.C., Sept. 12 in Manteo and Sept. 13 in Elizabeth City.

All of the Outer Banks in Brunswick, Carteret, Currituck, Dare, Hyde, New Hanover, Onslow and Pender counties are listed because of a combination of five features, the NER report said.

Those features include the presence of sand dunes, ocean beaches and shoreline, coastal wetlands, unique geological formations as identified by the state geologist, and "various areas were geologic and soil conditions are such that there is a substantial possibility of excessive erosion."

First Storm 'Alma' Is In S. Atlantic

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Severe flash flooding was predicted for several of the Windward Islands today as the first tropical storm of the season approached land.

The center of tropical storm Alma, with heavy rains and maximum winds of 55 miles an hour, was expected to pass between the islands of Trinidad and Tobago before noon today, said forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

At 6 a.m. EDT today, Alma was located about 70 miles east of Trinidad.

"Severe flash flooding is likely during the day in Trinidad and Tobago with some flooding possible in the other southern Windward Islands," the center said.

Forecasters said the storm was moving toward the west at about 23 m.p.h. and was expected to continue westward at about the same speed and strength until this evening.

Gale warnings and a hurricane watch were up for the southern Windwards and residents on the islands of Trinidad, Tobago, Grenada, Grenadines, St. Vincent and Barbados were advised to take precautions.

A tropical storm becomes a hurricane when it has sustained winds of more than 74 m.p.h.

The center of the storm was expected to pass between Trinidad and Tobago today and affect islands northward to Barbados. Residents of Trinidad, Tobago, Grenada, the Grenadines, St. Vincent and Barbados were advised to take precautions.

Maddox Faces A Runoff Test

By DALLAS LEE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Lester Maddox, the ex-Georgia governor who once made a brief try for the presidency, led a 12-man Democratic gubernatorial primary but failed to escape a runoff.

State Rep. George Busbee, 47, of Albany, appeared to have captured a Sept. 3 runoff spot by running second to Maddox with nearly 22 per cent of the vote as tabulations from Tuesday's primary election continued today.

The chance for Calhoun banker Bert Lance, 43, to make a second-place finish dimmed as he collected fewer than 17 per cent of the votes.

With nearly 85 per cent of the precincts tabulated, Maddox held 263,842 votes, or nearly 35 per cent.

Busbee—after a tight battle with Lance which lasted until the early morning—had 171,681 votes, or more than 22 per cent.

Lance had 125,951, or more than 16 per cent.

The 58-year-old Maddox, currently lieutenant governor, had 34.6 per cent of the votes — about 6 percentage points below what many observers felt he needed for a firm runoff foundation. He needed 50 per cent to win without a runoff.

Maddox, who briefly sought the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968, ran successfully for lieutenant governor in 1970 when the courts rejected his challenge to a state law that prevented him from succeeding himself.

In the five-man Republican gubernatorial primary, Macon Mayor Ronnie Thompson held a firm lead with 41 per cent of the votes. However, he appeared headed for a runoff with former state employe Harold Dye of Atlanta, who had nearly 25 per cent of the votes.

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, 61, easily defeated Democratic primary challenger Carlton Myers, a Pine Mountain veterinarian.

Julian Bond, 34, Atlanta, the black state representative who received a vice presidential nomination at the 1968 national Democratic convention, overwhelmingly defeated black minister Charles Scott in a state Senate primary.

Bond has expressed interest in entering one or more Democratic presidential primaries in 1976.

All but one of Georgia's 10 incumbent congressmen won renomination without serious threat.

In the 7th District, incumbent Democrat John Davis trailed Marietta physician Lawrence McDonald by seven percentage points.

Hosea Williams, president of the Atlanta chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, won the Democratic nomination for a state House seat.

In a state Senate race, Sen. Leroy Johnson of Atlanta, who in 1962 became the first black state legislator in the post-Reconstruction South, lost in the Democratic primary to black educator Horace Tate.

GI Bill Is Shaping Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans attending school this fall under the GI bill would get a 23 per cent increase in their monthly payments under legislation approved by Senate and House conferees.

They also would be eligible for a new $1,000-a-year federal loan program and would get an extra year of regular benefit payments, 45 months instead of the current 36.

Ending a months-long deadlock, Senate conferees agreed to shelve until next year a provision to provide veterans with $720 a year in tuition grants, in view of adamant opposition by House members. Their main objection was that there might be abuses similar to those that occurred after World War II.

Chairman Vance Hartke, D-Ind., of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee, announced the agreement Tuesday and said he hopes the Senate and House will act quickly so the bill will be on President Ford's desk next week.

Chas. Evers Is Indicted

FAYETTE, Miss. (AP) — Mayor Charles Evers, who often had government support in his battles for civil rights for blacks, is now preparing to defend himself on federal income tax charges.

"I will repeat that I haven't done anything wrong," Evers said Tuesday after he and his former wife, Nannie Laura Evers of Jackson, Miss., were indicted on charges of tax evasion.

The federal indictment alleges that for the years 1968, 1969 and 1970, Evers paid $3,644 in taxes when he should have paid $56,237. The indictments said his three-year income was $179,556, instead of the $20,219 reported.

Evers' former wife, from whom he was divorced this summer was named in the indictments for the 1968 and 1969 returns. Evers is the lone defendant in the indictment for 1970.

Report Nixon Gave Order Of No Pleas

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Before he resigned as president last week, Richard M. Nixon ordered his aides not to seek any deals preventing his future prosecution, the Baltimore Sun says.

Quoting what it called authoritative sources, the Sun said in a story in today's editions that Nixon ordered his key aides, even before his final decision to resign, to make no approaches to Congress for lenient treatment.

The Sun also said it was told that the subject of immunity for Nixon was not discussed when White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr. visited special prosecutor Leon Jaworski shortly after then-Vice President Ford was informed of Nixon's decision.

Haig has refused to discuss his conversation with Jaworski. Jaworski has said no deal was made or requested regarding immunity to prosecution.

The Sun quoted one unidentified White House source as saying that Haig was specifically instructed not to attempt any deals and that Nixon "certainly wasn't going to get into an Agnew posture of plea-bargaining."

The Sun quoted another unidentified White House official as saying Nixon did not attach great importance to his conversations of June 23, 1972, with then-White House Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman in which Nixon directed a halt to an FBI investigation of Watergate.

The reaction to the transcripts of those conversations, made public by Nixon last Monday, eventually forced him to resign.

Spending Curb Plea Faces A First Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's appeal to hold down federal spending faces its first test as the House takes up what top Republicans call the budget-busting $20-billion mass transit bill.

House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes said Tuesday he would recommend that Ford veto the bill if the money authorized over a six-year span isn't cut severely.

In his speech Monday night, Ford appealed to Congress to keep spending down.

Rhodes said the bill, to be taken up today, should authorize no more than $11.8 billion. Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, said he would try to reduce or knock out the operating subsidies for existing subway or fixed-rail mass transit systems.

Democrats have been confident they can pass the bill, perhaps with some compromises on the total dollar figure. The Nixon administration originally proposed $9.6 billion.

The bill would triple the authorizations for federal spending on mass transit systems, including buses, and for the first time extend federal help to systems in rural areas and small towns.

One-third of the money would go for operating subsidies, with the bulk of that to the northeastern cities with massive, often debt-ridden subway or fixed-rail systems.

'Invited' To Donate $100

RALEIGH (AP)—Invitations to contribute $100 to their future boss's campaign have been sent to several North Carolina Justice Department attorneys by workers for James Carson.

Carson, the Republican nominee to succeed Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, will be feted at a $100 per person reception on August 26, the date he is scheduled to be sworn in as Morgan's successor.

Dep. Atty. Gen. Nick Weaver said Tuesday that he and several other Democrats in the department had received invitations to the event.

A Carson aide, Dick Jensen, said that an overzealous campaign worker had mistakenly sent the invitations to some Justice Department attorneys.

Jensen said the invitations were mailed first to Republican contributors and then to attorneys listed in telephone books.

Gov. Jim Holshouser will host the affair. His press secretary, Jack Childs, said Tuesday that it will not be held against an employe if he fails to contribute to Carson's campaign.

George Burns' Condition Good

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian George Burns is a "joy to be around," says a spokesman at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, where Burns underwent open heart surgery last Friday.

Surgeons replaced three arteries in and around his heart, said Jack Langdon, the entertainer's personal secretary.

A hospital spokesman said Burns, 78, was in good condition Tuesday.

"The hostesses say he's the most cheerful man they ever saw," the spokesman said. He said Burns is expected to be moved soon to a private room from the intensive care unit.

No Appearance By Performer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Actress Shirley MacLaine left about 1,500 persons standing at the door when she failed to appear for a performance of her show, "If They Could See Me Now."

Miss MacLaine was reportedly upset over the sound system in Chrysler Hall here.

City officials who operate the theater said on Tuesday, "Tonight eveything's working fine, but we haven't got a star."

Mart Average Still Rising

FARMVILLE—Averages continued their climb on the Farmville Tobacco Market, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor.

Top practical prices ran as high as $1.10 per pound, with averages breaking all previous records. Leaf and cutter grades were in strongest demand, with all grades selling a few cents above support prices. Offerings existed of more cutter than leaf grades for any day this season. Volume of primings and non-descript grades showed a marked increase on the sales floor.

for any day this season. Volume of primings and non-descript grades showed a marked increase on the sales floor.

Stabilization receipts were the smallest of the season, accounting for .17 percent of the gross sales.

On the day, Farmville sold 692,172 pounds of leaf for $735,273 for an average of $106.23 per hundred pounds of tobacco. For the year, Farmville has sold 7,751,352 pounds for $7,161,938 for an average of $92.40.

Rampants Begin Hard Work; 2 Weeks Left

With just over two weeks to go before their first game of the season, Rose High School's Rampants put on the pads today and began serious work toward preparation for this fall's football campaign.

"We're not aiming as much toward conditioning this year as we did last year," Coach Dave Bumgarner said. "This is going to come anyway, and we're trying to do more running and learning at this point."

The coach said that Rose, in addition to some conditioning during the first week of drills, had put in a lot of work on running, on getting its putting and kickoff game in order and in encouraging the players to learn their assignments.

"Timing is what worries me more than conditioning," Bumgarner said. "We feel that our work is going to help us develop both."

Now the job turns to finding some people to fill up the holes left by graduation last year. "We lost a lot of defensive players and we're going to be moving some people over from offense to help here. This is going to create some more timing problems, so you can see we need to work them out."

Bumgarner feels that the Rampant varsity has gotten some good players up from the junior varsity, "and they look good right now. We don't know if they can hit, but they have good speed and range," the coach said.

Again, Rose will not be a big team. "We're have to defend on quickness and fitness to do the job," Bumgarner said. "We're going to have to work a lot on this."

While he is moving some people over from the offense to the defense, Bumgarner is still looking for someone to take over in the middle linebacker spot on one side, and in the two outside linebacker positions. "We also need three new defensive backs. I expect juniors to fill a lot of these positions, but we're going to be lookingfor some seniors to come through also."

Bumgarner feels that the offense should be strong. But he's worried about the number of backs he has. Although there are five quarterbacks, there are only about seven running backs for his wishbone offense. "This is only fair depth for this type offense," he said.

"We also have four or five good ends, but our interior line is going to be mostly juniors."

As last year, only a few sophomores will remain with the varsity, with most playing on the junior varsity club. "This is another of our problems might be hurt, and this will hurt in the future."

One of the problems the Rampants have had during the past several years has been the lack of a passing attack to take some of the pressure off the running game. "But I think we'll have a little more this year. I expect to pass about 15 per cent of the time, and I think we'll be improved in this", Bumgarner said.

Last year, Rose finished second in Division I and got a trip to the State Playoffs, winning its first round game before bowing in the second. This year, some observers are picking Rose to win.

"I don't see it, however," Bumgarner said. "Defense means a lot to our game, and we don't have the defense we had last year right now. Also we won a lot of our games on extra points and field goals. And right now, we don't even have a kicker."

First, however, is important this year, since it is the only position this year that earns a playoff slot for the division under the state's allocation plan of 16 teams from its 10 divisions.

Palmer Hurls Orioles To Win

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Jim Palmer is alive and well, and suddenly the Baltimore Orioles' pennant chances in the tight American League East look a lot healthier.

Palmer, 28, returning to the starting rotation after spending 54 days on the disabled list with arm trouble, tossed six strong innings Tuesday night in pitching the Orioles to an 8-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"I've got to be happy, he had good velocity," said Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver.

White Sox skipper Chuck Tanner was more than impressed by the performance of Palmer, last year's Cy Young Award winner.

"He threw free and easy," said Tanner, "and when he got in trouble he reached back and extended himself. This guy could be the difference in the division."

Elsewhere in the American League, Milwaukee tripped Texas 5-1, Kansas City defeated Detroit 6-2, Boston blanked California 3-0 and Oakland beat New York 6-1.

Cleveland and Minnesota were not scheduled.

Boog Powell made Palmer's job easier by belting a grand slam in the first inning.

"All I had to do was throw strikes," Palmer said. "There was no pressure on me at all ..." The Orioles scored seven runs in the first two innings.

Brewers 5, Rangers 1

Johnny Briggs' two-run single keyed a four-run eighth inning that carried the Brewers to victory.

Billy Champion, 7-2, pitched the first seven innings, scattering eight hits for the Brewers. Tom Murphy finished up.

Royals 6, Tigers 2

Amos Otis drove in two runs with a pair of sacrifice flies to pace the Royals attack.

Al Fitzmorris, 8-3, shut the Tigers out on four hits through seven innings, but gave up a two-run homer to Gary Sutherland in the eighth. After Al Kaline followed with a double, Steve Mingori came on in relief and preserved the victory.

Red Sox 3, Angels 0

Crafty Luis Tiant scuttled California on four hits for his 18th victory against eight losses, striking out five and walking four. Tiant joined Chicago's Wilbur Wood as the only 18-game winners in the major leagues.

It was Tiant's seventh triumph in his last eight decisions.

Boston scored two runs in the second. Tommy Harper singled home the final run in the eighth.

A's 6, Yankees 1

Oakland rallied for three runs in the sixth inning and three more in the seventh to beat the Yankees behind the seven-hit pitching of Ken Holtzman, 13-13.

Reds Surrender 14-3 Victory To Pirates

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Sparky Anderson may put in for combat pay.

"When Al Oliver hit his homer to make it 12-2, I yelled out: 'Tell Danny Murtaugh we surrender, '" the Cincinnati Manager noted with chagrin Tuesday night.

But the Pirates didn't stop the heavy artillery. They continued shelling the Reds and went on to a 14-3 rout on 21 hits.

"That was just good, old-fashioned country hardball," Anderson said. "The ball hit hardest all night was a single to center by Willie Stargell. If that would have hit concrete, it would have moved it three feet."

But Stargell wasn't the only Red-killer. Richie Zisk drove in a run for the 10th straight game, and Al Oliver drove in five.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros stopped the Chicago Cubs 3-1; the Atlanta Braves stopped the Montreal Expos 4-3; the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the San Francisco Giants 6-5; the New York Mets turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-0 and the San Diego Padres beat the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1.

Zisk and Ed Kirkpatrick each drove in two runs during a five-run Pittsburgh first inning and the Pirates kept punishing the Reds' pitching staff.

The victory pushed Pittsburgh over the .500 mark for the first time this season and gave them eight victories in their last nine games and 22 in their last 31.

Astros 3, Cubs 1

Cesar Cedeno's leadoff triple sparked a two-run ninth inning that carried Houston over Chicago. Milt May followed Cedeno's triple with a single to snap a 1-1 tie.

Braves 4, Expos 3

Dusty Baker belted his 14th home run of the year and an RBI single that highlighted a three-run fourth inning, leading Atlanta over Montreal for the Braves' fifth straight win.

Atlanta's Ron Reed, 8-6, scattered eight hits for the victory.

Phillies 6, Giants 5

Mike Schmidt ripped a pair of towering home runs and drove in three runs, leading Philadelphia past San Francisco.

Schmidt hit a two-run homer in the first inning and a solo shot in the third, his 27th, as the Phillies built a 6-1 lead against San Francisco starter Jim Barr.

Mets 3, Dodgers 0

Left-hander Jon Matlack tossed a four-hitter and Jerry Grote's first home run in three months helped New York over Los Angeles.

Tourney Postponed

The Church Softball League's City finals between Black Jack and Oakmont were postponed last night because of rain.

Tournament director Charles Vincent said he was uncertain this morning whether the teams would try to get their best-of-three series started tonight, or whether they would wait until Thursday, the next regular playing date.

Event Set To Begin

The Second Annual Greenville Recreation Department's Men's Invitational Slow Pitch Softball tournament begins Monday, August 19th, at Evans Park. Teams from eastern North Carolina are expected to enter. The deadline is August 15th, at 5:00 P.M.

Interested teams should contact Charles Vincent at the Greenville Recreation Department.

(Editor's Note: Letters with questions, comments and views on sports are solicited for Sportline. Letters must be no more than 300 words, and must be signed.)

To the editor:

My family and I have just spent one of the most delightful weeks of our lives as Host Family to two Senior Babe Ruth players who participated in the Senior Babe Ruth Regional Playoffs which were recently held here in Greenville. Many congratulations to the University Kiwanis Club who took on this tremendous project. However, I hope that they are not as disappointed about the support they received from our city as I am. I, too, was filled to the brim with baseball from Small Fry to Little League, but I attended most games played at Guy Smith Stadium and even sat in the stands waiting for games when they could not be played because of rain. I was asked to be a Host Family for four days longer than necessary because of the rain and was more than happy to do so.

I think the fact that Greenville was either asked to host or volunteered to host these regional playoffs and was host to eight other state teams is a great honor. I am a bit surprised that our newspaper and city officials did not feel as I did. Thank goodness one member of the City Council did buy tickets and attended the games, though not in any official capacity.

Saturday, when the final game was played and the winner of the Southeast Region was determined, I was embarrassed that no one representing our city officially was there. Nor was there anyone from our newspaper to take a picture of the winning team receiving the Regional Trophy. It was a good thing that the Host Families in Greenville were able to keep up their spirits during all the rain, because had they not, there would have been very little attendance at the games after host-team Greenville lost out.

I do hope that the next time a civic organization sponsors anything of this type, that our citizens and most especially those we expect to represent us at official functions will put in an appearance to cheer on those fine young men who were out there trying their best through mud, etc. to go to the Senior Babe Ruth World Series. I'll be watching our local paper to see how our Regional winner did in the World Series.

Birmingham Is Out To Fatten WFL Mark

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The Birmingham Americans, the World Football League's only unbeaten team, hope to fatten up on the injury-riddled Hawaiians tonight before an expected turnout of 45,000 fans in Birmingham.

Coach Jake Gotta's Americans lead the league in offense but are last in defense. They have won all five games they've played but just barely, averaging only eight points a game more and 15 yards a game less than their opponents.

Birmingham kept its perfect record intact last week with a 28-22 victory over Detroit on the strength of a touchdown pass from rookie Matt Reed to Alfred Jenkins in the final 30 seconds.

The Hawaiians, 1-4, dropped a 21-14 decision to Jacksonville last week and lost several players along the way with injuries, including wide receiver Jerry Powell and offensive guard Jim Cadile.

"We really took a beating," said Coach Mike Giddings.

Philadelphia visits Chicago, Jacksonville is at Florida, New York hosts Portland and Detroit entertains Memphis in tonight's other WFL action.

Southern California is at Houston in Thursday night's television game.

The Chicago-Philadelphia game features a matchup of top quarterbacks. Virgil Carter of the Fire has thrown for 11 touchdowns and King Corcoran of the Bell has hit 10, four of them in a 45-21 triumph over Memphis last week.

Chicago is averaging 29 points a game and Philadelphia about 24.

Florida, leading the Eastern Division with four wins in five tries, boasts a one-two punch of veteran quarterback Bob Davis and rookie running back Richard James. Davis hit 10 of 17 tosses for 135 yards and James rushed for 100 yards last week in a 46-21 victory over Chicago.

Jacksonville, 2-3, will go with Reggie Oliver or Kay Stephenson at quarterback in place of the injured Eddie McAshan.

New York has won three straight games after dropping the first two.

Portland is winless in five outings.

Memphis will be out to repeat its 34-15 triumph over Detroit in the season's opener. The Wheels are 0-5.

Seagren Leads Superstar Field

ROTONDA, Fla. (AP) — Pole vaulter Bob Seagren's domination of a 13-man Superstars qualifying field has made him $14,700 richer and guaranteed him a spot in February's $122,000 Superstars finals.

And Seagren, who won the initial Superstars event in 1973, is entered in both of today's final qualifying events with a chance to earn more money at $100 a point.

Three firsts and a second in five events Tuesday gave Seagren a two-day total of 47 points and $4,700 and clinched the $10,000 top prize in the qualifier. The three other qualifying positions remained unsettled, however.

Seagren faces hockey's Yvan Cournoyer and Dave Schultz, hurdler Rod Milburn, speed skater Ard Schenk, basketball's Jim McMillian and pole vaulter Steve Smith in weight lifting. He's up against Smith, basketball's Bill Bradley and John Havlicek, Schultz, hockey's Rod Gilbert and middle-distance runner Dave Wottle in swimming.

Schenk has 23 points, Smith 21, McMillian 20, Havlicek 18, Wottle 12, Cournoyer and basketball's Pete Maravich 10, Gilbert 8, Milburn 7, Bradley and Grand Prix driver James Hunt 6, and Schultz 4.

Seagren won Tuesday's 100-yard dash in 10.65 seconds, the half mile run in 2:11.56 and the obstacle course in 23.97. He was second to Schenk in the one-mile bicycle race as Schenk finished in 2:47.56 to Seagren's 2:48.89.

Simpson Leads Players Into Training Camps

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

"There is no longer a strike," said Buffalo running back O.J. Simpson. "I hope they can get the negotiations over within the next two weeks."

Simpson's opinion seemed prevalent Tuesday as National Football League players continued to pour into training camps across the country. The players association strike officially entered its 46th day Wednesday but it was fast becoming a skeleton strike.

The majority of players entering camps under the Association's 14-day cooling off period, which is supposed to start today, gave no signs of wanting to walk out again in two weeks, regardless of the outcome of talks with owners scheduled to resume Thursday.

"Maybe one or two individuals would leave," admitted Simpson, "but we won't leave en masse. I wouldn't leave."

If the players' strike appeared to be crumbling, the association got some support from an unusual quarter when 12 members of the House of Representatives threatened owners with a thorough inspection of pro football's antitrust status if they don't deal fairly with the players.

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., whose subcommittee on commerce has jurisdiction in antitrust matters, said in a letter to the NFL Management Council that he hopes owners will play fair in dealings with the players union.

"If they do not or if the union is significantly injured, we want it known we will undertake a complete review of the National Football League's antitrust status, and if the facts warrant, introduce appropriate legislation."

A Management Council spokesman, in New York where an owners' group was meeting, responded to Moss' letter. "We know that the record of these negotiations will show that we bargained in good faith," he said. "We will invite Congressman Moss or any others to examine the record."

Most veterans reported to camps without incident but there were exceptions in Fullerton, Calif., and Huntsville, Tex.

Twenty-two Los Angeles Ram veterans who showed up in Fullerton were greeted by General Manager Don Klosterman who had two questions for everyone—"Did you come of your own volition or because you were ordered to by the association? Do you plan to stay here?"

Klosterman said all 22 players, including player representative Tom Mack, said they had made their own decisions and would stay.

Los Angeles was apparently the only organization officially polling its players.

In Huntsville, Coach Sid Gillman, a hard-liner who among other things at first demanded that all returning veterans sign a pledge to stay in camp but later backed down, greeted 27 returning Oilers.

Trevino Out To Extend Streak

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Lee Trevino, a notorious streak player, goes after a second consecutive victory this week in the Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

The flamboyant Trevino, winner of the PGA National Championship last Sunday in Clemmons, N.C., heads a strong field arrayed for the Thursday start of this $200,000 event that offers a $40,000 first prize.

"There's no reason I ought to have a let-down," Trevino said. "I've always been a streak player. When I get it going good, I usually keep it going for a while."

Last season he won twice—both within a three-week span. And, of course, in 1971 he achieved that unmatched, one-month sweep of the American, Canadian and British Opens.

"Besides," Trevino continued, "I usually play real good here."

Again, the record book supports him. He won this tournament in 1972 and tied for third last year.

And, while he's fresh off a victory in a major championship, he's taking a dead-serious approach to this tournament.

He made a hasty departure from North Carolina, got to the Wethersfield Country Coub and practiced Monday and Tuesday.

His principal opposition in the 144-man field includes South African Gary Player, defending champion Billy Casper and Hubert Green.

Casper discounts himself. Player and Green are playing extremely well. Player has won the Masters, British Open and another American tournament, collected more than $100,000 in prize-winnings and is enjoying the best season of his globe-trotting career.

Green, a three-time winner this season, ranks second on the money-winning list, played well in this tournament last year and had a strong, third-place finish last week in the PGA.

Rookie standout Ben Crenshaw withdrew because of the death of his mother Tuesday. Other major absentees include Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Tom Weiskopf, Johnny Miller and U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin.

Some other standouts in the field include Lanny Wadkins, Jerry Heard, John Mahaffey, Forrest Fezler, Tom Watson, Lee Elder, Dave Stockton and Ray Floyd.

Pitt School Psychologist Is Announced

MRS. BOBBE ROUSE

Mrs. Bobbe Martin Rouse has been employed as a psychologist for the Pitt County Schools.

Mrs. Rouse will be in charge of the development and implementation of a program of psychological services for the county schools. This includes the administration and evaluation of psychological tests and the interpretation of these tests to school administrators, supervisors, counselors, social workers, teachers, and parents when such information may aid in the understanding and modification of a child's behavior.

The school psychologist also maintains contact with other agencies such as Child Welfare, the Mental Health Center, the Developmental Evaluation Clinic.

The school psychologist supervises psychology interns in the school system. In addition she cooperates with other professional staff members in organizing conferences, symposiums and workshops.

Mrs. Rouse will work in each of the county schools except for Ayden Primary, Belvoir Primary, Bethel Primary and Grifton Primary. These schools will be under the supervision of Miss Katherine Green, school psychologist employed under the Title I Program.

This is the first year a school psychologist will be available for all the county schools.

A graduate of Rose High School, Mrs. Rouse is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where she received a degree in psychology. She is currently completing the M.A. program in clinical psychology at East Carolina University.

Mrs. Rouse is the wife of Robert D. Rouse III, a lawyer in the firm of James, Hite, Cavendish and Blount. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Martin of Bethel.

Won 4-Year Scholarship

THOMAS CAYTON

Thomas Gary Cayton of 1403 Brownlea Dr. has been named the recipient of a four-year scholarship by the North Carolina Division of Veterans Affairs.

The scholarship includes free tuition, room and board allowance and exemption from certain mandatory fees and charges as set forth in the law.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. T.G. Cayton, he was a 1974 graduate of Rose High School where he was a member of the Cross Country Team and the Track Team.

He plans to attend the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT

WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 1 through 7.

HOUSE

NERVE GAS Adopted, 214 for and 186 against, an amendment which eliminated a $5.8 million Pentagon request for development of binary nerve gas. The amendment was attached to the fiscal 1975 defense appropriations bill, later passed and sent to the Senate.

Unlike present forms of nerve gas, binary gas does not become lethal until its chemicals are mixed upon firing of the projectile. It is thus safer for domestic handling.

Supporters argued that the U.S., with up to 50 million pounds of gas now stockpiled, has ample supplies. They also opposed development of new gas while the government takes part in ongoing Geneva disarmament talks aimed at a worldwide ban on chemical warfare.

Opponents of the amendment said development of binary gas should proceed immediately because it is less dangerous than existing gases. They also urged spending the $5.8 million in order to keep pace with the Soviet Union's gas weaponry. "We must do something to deter their use of that ability," said Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D-N.Y.).

Reps. Wilmer Mizell (R-5), James Martin (R-9) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L.H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Earl Ruth (R-8), Roy Taylor (D-11) and Charles Rose (D-7) voted "nay."

DEFENSE SPENDING Rejected, 178 for and 216 against, an attempt to cut $2.2 billion across-the-board from the $83.4 billion fiscal 1975 defense appropriations bill.

The amendment would have set an $81.2 billion ceiling, leaving the Pentagon rather than Congress with responsibility to eliminate the $2.2 billion.

Supporters and opponents reflected the traditional "priorities" disagreement over domestic needs vs. the need for a strong defense.

Many supporters of the reduction also cited the need to curtail federal spending in the face of inflation. "In these days of inflation and needed budget tightening, we cannot afford window dressing, extra gold braid and luxuries," siad Rep. Joseph Addabbo (D-N.Y.)

Opponents said the defense bill already had been substantially trimmed, and argued against the principle of an cross-the-board rather than itemized reduction. "This is an abrogation of the responsibility" of Congress, said Rep. Glenn Davis (R-Wisc.).

Andrews and Mizell voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Preyer, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

CAMPAIGN SPENDING Rejected, 187 for and 223 against, and amendment to limit to $42,500 the amount a candidate for the House could spend in each primary and general election campaign. It was offered to a bill reforming the way congressional campaigns are financed.

The vote of rejection left intact a proposed $75,000 ceiling plus an allotment of $18,750 for fund-raising expenses—a total ceiling of $93,750.

Supporters of a $42,500 ceiling argued that, as a Watergate lesson, private money in campaigns should be minimized. "We are not talking about Monte Carlo," said Rep. John Dent (D-Pa.), "We are talking about the House of Representatives. . ."

Opponents argued that any spending ceiling should be high enough to give challengers opportunity to overtake better-known incumbents. Rep. Gilbert Gude (R-Md.) siad the higher ceiling "gives incumbents and challengers equal opportunities for success" at the polls.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Ruth and Taylor voted "yea."

Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Martin and Broyhill voted "nay."

SENATE

HERBICIDE CONTROVERSY Rejected, 34 for and 56 against, an amendment banning use of a controversial herbicide, named "2,4,5,—T" on any lands within the U.S. National Forest System.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wisc.), sponsor of the amendment, siad the Forest Service plans to use the herbicide on 61 forests in 23 states. The states, he said, are:

Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, California, Oregon, Washington, Arkansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Michigan, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Utah, Missouri and Minnesota.

Nelson said that "2,4,5—T" was used in the defoliant employed by the U.S. in Vietnam, and cited scientific opinion that it can poison the environment and the food chain.

One opponent of the amendment, Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.), said that Nelson "may turn out to be right," but objected to the measure on procedural grounds. The issue, Bible said, was raised after hearings had been completed on the Interior Department appropriations bill, to which Nelson sought to attach his amendment.

Bible said that later in this session of Congress "we could have a hearing and get into this problem a little more thoroughly."

Sen. Sam Ervin (D) voted "yea" and Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

'PORK BARREL' BILL Rejected, 41 for and 56 against, a proposed five per cent across-the-board cut in the $4.6 billion fiscal 1975 public works appropriations bill. The unsuccessful attempt was in the form of a motion to send the bill back to committee, where the cut was to have been made.

The overall bill appropriates money for power development and water resource projects carried out by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and other federal agencies.

Supporters of the five per cent reduction argued that federal spending must be cut to combat inflation. "We have to come to grips with a problem of two-digit inflation of a type that historically can break the backs of society," said Sen. James Buckley (R-Conservative, N.Y.).

Opponents said that the bill had been significantly reduced already by the Appropriations Committee, and indicated that most senators have a stake in the "pork barrel" aspect of public works spending.

One opponent, Sen. John Stennis (D-Mass.), said, "There are mighty few here who would vote for the proposal who would stand up and publicly advocate taking out anything substantial in their state."

Helms voted "yea" and Ervin voted "nay."

More Whales In Annual Count

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — A new high has been reported in the gray whales counted during migration off Yankee Point near here.

The number spotted by National Marine Fisheries Service observers during the period Dec. 18, 1973, through Feb. 4 of this year was 3,492 — nearly 200 more than the previous year, and more than in any winter since the count began seven years ago.

Inflation Results In New Patterns Of Investment

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Commercial paper. Treasury bills. Floating interest rate long-term notes.

A few years ago they were obscure concepts in specialized corners of the financial world. Today they are as likely to come up in cocktail party conversation as Watergate or "The Exorcist."

What has made the difference is inflation, and one of inflation's key by-products, high interest rates.

Indeed, the surge in the cost of living — 8.8 per cent last year, an even higher rate this year — is changing the approach Americans take toward investing as profoundly as it is altering their spending habits.

Record high interest rates have lured many newcomers into the short term money markets, where banks, industrial corporations and the government borrow from each other through such instruments as Treasury bills, commercial paper and certificates of deposit.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, part of the nation's central banking system, reports receiving more than one thousand phone queries a week this summer for information about Treasury bills and other interest-bearing government securities. This is double the number of queries received last summer.

Treasury bills, with interest rates this year ranging from 7 to 9 per cent, start at $10,000 and go up in increments of $5,000. They are the instruments the Federal government uses to borrow money for short periods, normally three months to a year.

Certificates of deposit, which banks issue to acquire money, and commercial paper, through which big business borrows, generally require a minimum invesment of $100,000. But small investors, attracted by the 10-per-cent-plus yields this year, have found ways to buy.

Some have simply pooled their money, the way members of stock market investment clubs do, appointing an individual or committee to manage the money.

Others have gone to the half-dozen or so new mutual funds that specialize in the currently lucrative money markets. These funds invest the money they receive in securities and pass interest payments along to individual shareholders, in the same way that many other funds operate in the stock market.

The Reserve Fund, the largest of the new money-market funds, has acquired assets of over $250 million from investors in the less than two years it's been operating, according to Lipper Analytical Services, which keeps track of mutual fund performance.

Michael Lipper, president of Lipper Analytical Services, says the new money-market funds are drawing a considerable amount of "indecisive money" — the capital of people who can't figure out, in the present inflation-clouded climate, any better place to put it at the moment.

For the investment community itself, the shifting attitudes and flows of money create uncertainty and upheaval.

The National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, representing 482 savings banks in 17 states and Puerto Rico, reported that deposits in savings accounts declined by $480 million in the first six months of 1974. During the same 1973 period, there was a $1.5 billion net increase in deposits. A similar decline in deposits has been reported by savings and loan associations and other savings institutions whose deposits pay less than 6 per cent interest.

Last year the New York Stock Exchange reported the first drop in decades in the number of investors in stocks. By contrast, the Chicago Board of Trade — the nation's largest commodity futures market — listed a 36.5 per cent jump in contracts traded during 1973 compared with 1972. The trend continues this year.

Some of the money flowing out of the stock market and out of savings bank deposits is being invested in a new, controversial security: long-term notes with floating interest rates. They are notes that pay interest after the first 10 months and then semi-annually. The interest rate fluctuates one percentage point above an average interest rate for Treasury bills.

Citicorp, parent company of First National City Bank, issued the first of these floating interest rate notes on July 24 — a $650 million, 20-year issue in denominations of $5,000 initially and $1,000 later. The opening interest rate was 9.7 per cent. The notes can't be redeemed for two years. After that they can be cashed in every six months, or held the full 20 years.

The New York Bank for Savings, the nation's fourth largest savings bank, followed City Bank with an announced issue of $50 million in floating interest rate notes. They are to go on sale Wednesday (Aug. 14).

Other banks and financial institutions are planning similar issues.

A depreciating dollar, meanwhile, has drawn other investors toward such "tangibles" as art, wine, silver coins and commodity futures — contracts for the future delivery of such things as soybeans or copper.

Many young people "are ready even to overspend a bit to get into things — things that they see as likely to be worth more tomorrow, unlike money," said James D. Farley, executive vice president in charge of retail banking at New York's First National City Bank.

Gold Statue Of Pegasus Found

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — The forequarters of a solid gold statue of Pegasus, the flying horse of mythology, was dug up recently in Bulgaria, "Sofia News" reported here.

The report said the statue weighed 417 grams (15 ounces) and "was a unique find for Bulgaria."

Took Pollution To A Meeting

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — A disgruntled taxpayer left the Richmond Common Council literally holding the bag on a pollution problem.

Councilman Greg Merchanthouse appeared at a recent meeting with a bag full of yellow insulation puffs belched from the smoke stacks of a local plant.

"One of my constituents brought this to me," Merchanthouse said. "He thinks it needs the board's attention.

New Patrolmen For District 5

Two new Highway Patrolmen has been assigned to Troop A's District 5, which includes Pitt and Martin Counties.

Troop A Commander Capt. John T. Jenkins said Walter J. Featherston has been assigned to Greenville, while Robert H. Wright has been assigned to Willaimston.

Both of the new Troopers completed the Highway Patrol's 15-week Basic School at the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill August 2. For the next six weeks the new officers will work with a veteran member of the Patrol as a continuation of their training program.

Trooper Featherston, a Person County native, graduated from Person County High School before moving to Newark, N.J. where he was employed as a spot welder at a metals fabrication company and an assembly line employee at the General Motors plant in Linden, N.J. before entering Shaw University in 1967.

He graduated from Shaw in 1973 and was employed by a Raleigh linen service before joining the Highway Patrol.

Trooper Featherston is married to former Venita Ratcliff of Bladenboro, and his wife is employed as a nurse at Wake County Memorial Hospital.

Trooper Wright, a Fredericksburg, Virginia native is a graduate of Jacksonville (N.C.) Senior High School.

He served five years in the U.S. Army, including one year in Vietnam where he received a Bronze Star sitation, and three years in Germany. He was a field artillery captain.

For the seven months before joining the Highway Patrol, Wright was a computer analyst at the Naval Air Rework Facility at Cherry Point Marine Corps Air Station.

Trooper Wright is married to the former Christal Kettner of Berlin, East Germany.

Featherston is the fourth black Trooper to be assigned duties in the 24-county Troop A area, Capt. Jenkins noted.

Car Fell Apart After 69 Miles

VALPARAISO, Ind. (AP) — A Valparaiso man who waited more than three months for delivery of his new car had driven only 69 miles when the car started to fall apart.

Architect Douglas Pierce took his 1974 car to a garage, where mechanics told him a tie rod had fallen off, bolts inside and outside the transmission, in the bell housing and in the tie rod system were loose and the clutch linkage was dangling.

When Pierce complained, an observer quipped, "What do you expect for $4,000?"

Successful In His CPA Exam

CHAPEL HILL—Frank Trent Hill Jr. of Greenville has successfully completed the Certified Public Accountant examination given May 8-10.

The announcement was made Tuesday by the State Board of CPA Examiners.

YUGOSLAVS NOW LIVE LONGER

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The average life span of Yugoslavs is now 67 years — 65.5 for men and 68.2 for women. In 1939 the average was 45 years.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THIS FLORIDA RETIREMENT HOME, especially designed for waterfront living, is a masonry structure made of eight-inch thick concrete blocks with stucco on the outside and insulation and furring on the room-side. It features an L-shaped, cross-lighted and cross-ventilated living-dining room built around a corner fireplace, two bedrooms and a bath. The one-way sloping roof allows for a 10-foot high porch and living room along the waterfront. There is a separate laundry storage room accessible both from the kitchen and the carport. Architect Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710, designed Plan HA839R with 935 square feet plus carport and screened porch. FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, AUGUST 15, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This can be an upsetting day if you allow yourself the luxury of feeling you are being imposed upon, so control any martyr attitudes. Don't make dramatic or sudden changes, but do your work well.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If an argument begins between a partner and kin, remain neutral, or you become the goat, and the dispute soon ends. Show kindness to kin.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use tact with co-worker who is trying to get out of doing work to get him or her back in line. Drive or walk with care to avoid trouble. Have insurance in order.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have some monetary matter that needs your immediate attention, so wait until the p.m. for the pleasure you want.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get that family member straightened out diplomatically today and have more harmony. Don't bring up any controversial subjects that could start arguments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't permit some worry at home to keep you from going out and accomplishing the important things in business that are now possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget that social affair that a pal wants to take you to, or you could get into trouble. Get together with a clever businessman and progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't permit anyone to keep you from handling some important matter now. Decide on aims. Take no chances with one who is an old hypocrite.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study into various situations that are puzzling and come up with the right answers. Don't be inquisitive, and you avoid trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen to suggestions from an adviser and a good friend, then use your own good judgment to choose the best ideas given. Don't let others color your thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) An associate is trying to get you to lambast a higher-up, but don't. Handle worldly affair satisfactorily, even though it is rather difficult. Help a good friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do your job perfectly despite your desire to be off to new and more interesting outlets. Once work is out of the way, then you can study new matters.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't spend money foolishly; save it for practical things. Don't permit others to take what belongs to you. Reach better understanding with mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will want to make changes constantly, but teach early to think out the best course first and then follow through without deviating from such. The field of merchandising is best here and the education should be slanted along such lines, whether male or female. Sports are a natural and should be indulged in. Give good religious training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Pioneer Is A Choice Target

Michelangelo could easily have answered Milo's question. Why do you readers think the greatest hostility to a great man's discovery or accomplishment comes from his own colleagues and classmates? Maybe Dr. Ivy needs Michaelangelo?

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE B-610: Milo T., aged 29, teaches chemistry.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am convinced that Dr. Ivy's horse blood hormone beats surgery and X-ray in combating cancer.

"For my mother had a breast removed as malignant; then submitted to all the X-ray the doctors dared give her.

"But the cancer flared up about a year later and invaded her liver.

"Cobalt was employed as a final attempt to save her life but it failed to reduce the enlarged liver.

"So her specialists told us she had not more than 6 weeks left.

"In desperation, we consulted Dr. Ivy, who gave her bi weekly shots of his Carcalon, derived from horse blood.

"Her intense pain subsided within 72 hours.

"Now, 2 years later, her liver is back to normal, she is active and happy and apparently has no sign of cancer.

"So why does the FDA veto use of Dr. Ivy's hormone, since the FDA even admits that no ill effects result from its use?

"What is behind this bias against our greatest living American physiologist, namely, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy?"

Page Michelangelo

Michelangelo could explain the hostility to Dr. Ivy, who is the greatest living physiologist, even admitted by Russia!

A recent survey of 2,000 scientific journals tabulated how many times various scientists were quoted by their colleagues.

And Dr. Andrew C. Ivy of Chicago turned out to be the most quoted scientist in the entire world!

He pioneered the mouth-to-mouth resuscitation method.

He discovered various enzymes and is the world authority thereon, as per medical physiology textbooks!

He also discovered chalones, now the "hottest" item among cancer researchers.

And he advanced the idea back in 1917 that we have a natural cancer resistant substance that keeps most of us cancer-free till we reach middle age.

Then it often seems to become so reduced that Dr. Ivy suggests we merely inject some of this same hormone from a healthy animal, such as the horse, to bring our own resistance back up to 100 per cent.

His theory re cancer is comparable to the injection of insulin from an outside source to supplement the diabetic's reduced manufacture of its own internal insulin.

But pioneers are usually belittled, ostracized and maligned by their peers, as a face-saving device for the lazier members of their profession.

The medics of France thus tried to ostracize Pasteur from his homeland.

Dr. Jenner was also attacked by his British medical colleagues for his discovery of smallpox vaccination.

Semmelweis was even driven into insanity by his medical colleagues for suggesting that childbed fever was due to infection by the doctor's contaminated fingers.

Michelangelo likewise knew he couldn't get recognized by the snooty art critics till he was maybe 200 years in his grave.

So he hid one of his statues; then led a search party for ancient Greek art objects and ostensibly discovered this "ancient" statue.

The art critics pronounced it a true "find" from earlier Greece sculptors after which Michelangelo revealed the hoax and since the critics now were out on a limb, they were forced to concede his greatness while he was still alive!

Sinai's American Family Found New Lifestyle In Ancient Land

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer

SHARM el SHEIK, Sinai (AP) — Lee and Eytan Zucker left the big city to live in a shack with a back yard that stretches 23,000 square miles.

With their three daughters, ages 4 to 8, they are the only Americans in this remote pioneer desert town where Zucker runs the Israel Nature Reserves Authority in the southern Sinai.

"People think there is nothing in the desert, but they're wrong. It's fascinating. Right here in Eytan's territory — which is bigger than Israel — there's an Egyptian temple, old inscriptions carved in the rocks, coral reefs in the Red Sea and endless things to explore," Mrs. Zucker says.

"And there are animals," injects 8-year-old Danya. "There are foxes, wolves, hyenas and antelope, and birds and scorpions and crawly things. And there are rats — we've got rats in our house."

Zucker folded his New York insurance business, and his wife left her job as an editor for B'nai B'rith to spend 3½ years trekking through Europe, the Mideast, India and Africa in a motor home. They settled in a cluster of four prefabricated huts perched on the bay here just before last October's war.

Their new nome gave them a grandstand view.

"Egyptian MIGs attacked the Israeli navy base nearby and made two or three passes right in front of us. We all hid under the bed. The whole house shook from the noise," Mrs. Zucker recalls.

"Then a friend took us up to the rock cliff behind the house and we hid there. He was killed later at the Suez Canal by a sniper."

War gave the Zuckers a social life. Sharm el Sheik's pioneer population is about 200 strong, most of them construction workers without their wives. There are only four couples in town, and no playmates for Danya or Ina, 7, or Carmel, 4. But the October war brought dozens of Israeli soldiers to Sharm el Sheik, at the southern tip of the Sinai peninsula.

The war added to Zucker's job.

"Pollution can be a leaking oil tanker or a smokestack, but we have a tremendous problem with just plain garbage," he explains, picking up an unexploded machine-gun bullet and adding it to a deadly collection in the glove compartment of his panel truck.

Israel captured the Sinai from Egypt in the 1967 war. Huge sections of the triangular peninsula with its wild mountains and sand tracts look untouched by man. But parts of it resemble a military junkyard. Wired-off fields of land mines, wrecked planes and tanks lie in the sand. Some are from 1967, some from the 1956 Suez campaign and some debris of last October's 18-day war.

Israel may eventually return much of the conquered Sinai to Egypt, but in the meantime, numerous zones have been set aside as nature reserves. Zucker supervises them, trying to protect the shore and coral reefs as well as stemming the tide of litter on shore.

Neither Zucker nor the Nature Reserves Authority wants to keep the whole Sinai sealed off. Tourism is encouraged, and hotels and holiday camps are sprouting along the wild eastern coast.

But visitors are encouraged to behave themselves. Neatly painted signs tell tourists "Enjoy Your Visit," but warn that shooting animals or fish or even taking seashells from the beach is illegal.

Zucker's aides — seven Israelis and 30 Bedouin Arab tribesmen — put up the signs and install litter bins by the score. They also build campsites, shelters against the sun, latrines and beach facilities.

It is sound defensive technique to force declarer to win tricks before he wants to. This type of play occurs frequently when dummy has a long suit and the defenders refuse to allow declarer to duck a round of the suit. When the long suit is in the closed hand, the correct defense is far more difficult to find.

South had a difficult rebid problem. His hand was too strong to permit him to pass, so he compromised by raising partners suit. After North showed spade values, South decided that three no trump was the best chance of game.

West led the queen of hearts. Declarer allowed the defenders to win the first two heart tricks, holding up the ace until the third round. The contract was not a happy one. To have any chance of success, declarer would have to find a 3-3 diamond split and be able to duck an early diamond trick to West. In addition, communications between declarer's hand and dummy were a problem. If South crossed to dummy with a low spade to the queen to lead a diamond, West could win the diamond and return a club, forcing declarer to rise with dummy's ace and remove the entry to the ace of spades.

Declarer therefore decided to cash the king of spades before leading a spade to dummy's queen. Now, he led a low diamond. East was Paul Lukacs, who has represented Israel in world bridge competition and is a renowned problem composer. He rose to the occasion by inserting his queen of diamonds!

This brilliant stroke left declarer with no play for his contract. He could not allow East to hold the trick, for the defender had three hearts to cash. South had to win the trick, and even though he could set up his diamonds, he could not get back to his hand to enjoy the two extra tricks he developed.

Candidates Will Appear

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Republican and Democratic candidates for the U.S. Senate and state attorney general will address the annual convention of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners this week.

Democratic Senate candidate Robert Morgan and Democratic attorney general nominee Rufus Edmisten will address the 700 delegates, wives and guests at a luncheon Friday.

Republican Senate hopeful William Stevens and GOP attorney general candidate James Carson Jr. will speak to the group at a Saturday luncheon.

During the convention, which begins Thursday, county officials will discuss common problems and possible solutions.

M. H. Brock, association president and chairman of the Harnett County commissioners, has appointed 12 committees to work during the convention on development of long range goals and policies.

Waverly F. Akins, Wake County chairman, is incoming president of the association.

Commercials Believed True

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI) — Nearly half of the elementary students in a recent study accepted television commercials for health-related products as true, the monthly scientific journal Pediatrics reported. Overall, the 281 students surveyed believed 70 per cent of the 781 commercials they viewed.
