

Nixon Subpoenaed As Ehrlichman Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Nixon was subpoenaed today to appear as a witness for John D. Ehrlichman in the Watergate cover-up trial next month.

The subpoena was filed in U.S. District Court by Ehrlichman's lawyer, Andrew C. Hall.

It said: "You are commanded to appear in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia ... on the 9th day of September, 1974, at 9:30 a.m. to testify on behalf of John D. Ehrlichman ... and to remain until called."

The subpoena was addressed to Nixon at the "Presidential compound, San Clemente, Calif." where the former president moved after resigning his office last Friday.

Ehrlichman, formerly domestic counsel to Nixon, had been one of the former president's closest advisers.

There was no indication in the filing at district court that the subpoena actually had been served.

Any party in a lawsuit may issue subpoenas for witnesses without prior court approval. However, the recipient may ask the court to dismiss a subpoena later.

Ehrlichman is one of six defendants scheduled to go on trial Sept. 9 on charges of obstructing justice by attempting to thwart the investigation of the Watergate break-in at the Democratic party's national headquarters in 1972.

The other defendants are former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman; former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell; former Haldeman aide Gordon Strachan, former Nixon re-election committee aide and one-time assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian; and Kenneth Wells Parkinson, a re-election committee lawyer.

Ehrlichman had attempted to subpoena Nixon while he was still president.

That was in connection with California state charges against Ehrlichman, most of which have since been dismissed, growing out of the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding of Beverly Hills.

A California judge issued a subpoena in that case but before the Washington, D.C., Superior Court could act on it, the issue was made moot by dismissal of the charges.

Ehrlichman was convicted July 12 in U.S. district court on one count of conspiring to violate Fielding's civil rights and two counts of lying to a Watergate grand jury. He was sentenced to serve 20 months to 5 years in prison, but is free while appealing the sentence.

Before that trial began, Ehrlichman was in a subpoena fight with the White House over access to personal notes he had left there when he resigned April 30, 1973.

That dispute was settled in a compromise with the White House after U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell threatened to dismiss the case if the White House withheld evidence.

Turks Drive On Nicosia

By The Associated Press
Turkish forces launched a two-pronged attack on the eastern and western approaches of the Cypriot capital of Nicosia today in what appeared to be a move to surround the city completely.

"We are in a desperate situation, ready to clutch at any straw to save ourselves or preserve as much as we can," a senior Cyprus government official said.

The camp of the 950-strong Greek army contingent, permanently based on Cyprus, was one of the main targets of the assault, and fighting raged at midday.

The camp, known as the Eldyk, is on the main western highway to Morphou. It lies two miles outside the capital, about a mile from the perimeter of Cyprus airport, still in Greek hands.

Another area heavily hit was a five-mile string of factories on the east side of Nicosia, stretching between the main roads to Famagusta in the east and Larnaca to the south.

The invading Turks reached Famagusta, 35 miles east of Nicosia, earlier in the day. But the Greek Cypriots claimed they halted the other arm of the Turkish drive to cut off the northern third of Cyprus — a force moving toward Lefka on the northwest coast 20 miles from the capital.

Famagusta was under heavy Turkish and artillery attack. But U.N. soldiers discounted a claim by the Turkish Cypriot radio that armored units had broken through to the Turkish Cypriots in the old walled medieval sector of Famagusta, the second largest city on Cyprus and the island's most important port.

Cyprus President Glafcos Clerides called a conference of Greek Cypriot leaders to probe their reactions on concessions the Turks are expected to demand because of their overwhelming military presence on Cyprus.

The British government said there was virtually no chance of a diplomatic breakthrough to resolve the Cyprus crisis until Turkish troops stopped advancing on the island.

City School Bd. Adjusts Budget Upward $13,000

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A $13,000 increase adjustment in the Greenville City School 1974-75 school year current expense budget; the naming of a new agent of record for school property insurance; approval of school personnel; and confirmation of opening dates for the new school year highlighted the special call meeting of the city schools board of education on Wednesday night.

Acting on recommendations arrived at in recent budget workshops, school board members approved an adjustment in the current expense budget presented by Supt. Glenn Cox.

Essentially, changes in the budget are:

Increases: Instructional supplies, an increase of $7,500, bringing that item up to $47,500; instructional costs (in-service), up $500 to a total of $6,500; and maintenance personnel, an increase of $5,000 to $68,000, to hire an extra employee, a carpenter.

Decreases: Board of education expenditure item, a reduction of $1,000 to $3,000; other administrative expenses, a $1,000 reduction from $3,000 to $2,000; and maintenance of plant, other expenses category, a reduction of $1,000 from $2,500 to $1,500.

The total of the three decreases amounted to $3,000.

To balance the upward revision of current expenses of $13,000, an amount of $10,000 will be taken from 1973-1974 unencumbered fund.

The revision results in a total 1974-75 current expense budget of $1,527,982.

Cox presented the board a "statement of values" of all city school property, covering buildings and contents. The list numbers 43 separate items, and includes all buildings and the mobile units owned by the school system.

Total property value for insurance purposes is $9,047,000. School property is currently insured at a 90 per cent rate. "This represents an increase in replacement value of about 10 to 11 per cent," Cox said.

Based on this report, board members approved the firm of Goodson and Flanagan as the local insurance agent of record. The firm of Quincy Mutual Insurance carried the policy for the school system. "This year," Cox noted, "is the first time in seven years we have had all our insurance written on one single policy. This simplifies matters for us immensely."

Sharing with Goodson and Flanagan in the local handling of school insurance are the firms of Hooker and Buchanan and Moseley Brothers Inc. Until his death earlier this year, the late Mr. Bancroft Moseley was agent of record for the city school insurance program.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

HEALTH DEPT. LOOKING FOR PUPPY
Roger Barnaby, director of the Pitt County Health Dept. has appealed to Hotline to help in locating a small puppy taken from the county animal shelter recently. The two-month-old black mixed breed puppy was under observation after the dog had bitten a child. Unless the puppy is returned and can be observed, the child will be subjected to a series of rabies inoculations, says Barnaby.

The person or persons responsible for taking the dog from the animal shelter are asked to contact the Health Dept. and they will pick up the animal, with no questions asked. The person responsible can contact the Health Dept. at 752-4141 or leave a message with Hotline at 752-1336.

SEEKING PLANS TO BUILD CHURCH
Our church is in the process of planning to build a new church and we have looked for plans or designs to start forming an idea of what type of church we want to build. We have not been able to locate any type of service which provides a number of plans on churches. Do you know of any? Mrs. L.H.

We didn't, but an architect in Raleigh made several suggestions. A spokesman for the firm of Harris, Harwell and Hamilton told Hotline that you could write the headquarters for your denomination and usually they have a person responsible for maintaining ideas for the construction of new churches. Also, you could consult a publication called Faith and Form which has articles on plans and designs of religious architecture. Thirdly, the spokesman suggested you consult a local library. He stated there were numerous books published on religious architecture.

VET HAVING PAYMENT PROBLEMS
I enrolled at Pitt Technical Institute on June 4 and applied for my GI Bill benefits then. I have been in school for three months and still have not received any of my benefit checks. I have been in contact with the local N.C. Dept. of Veterans Affairs office, and they were able to determine for me where my paper work stood in getting a check mailed. On June 10 I was suppose to receive a check within two weeks, but still haven't received it. Mr. I.M.

Your check should be arriving within the next few days. Hotline turned your problem over to the new VA VET-Rep. on the ECU Campus, Ron Brown. Brown went straight to Winston-Salem with your problem and you told Hotline that a spokesman for the VA in Winston-Salem called you personally and explained their problem and indicated they would bypass the computer and get a check off to you within the next few days.

Recreation Body Priority Given City Residents

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Recreation Commission last night adopted a resolution giving priority to city residents participating in recreation programs.

Director of Recreation Boyd Lee told commission members that a number of complaints had been received during the summer from city residents saying that people living outside the city limits were registering for Recreation Commission sponsored programs, thus forcing some city dwellers out.

Following a discussion, Commission members voted in favor of a resolution saying city residents are to be given priority for participation in programs, according to established registration deadlines for the various activities.

The regulation provides that county residents may be considered for participation in programs, based on a waiting list, after registration deadlines for the various Commission-sponsored programs have passed.

Lee, who said "this gives us a tool to work with," indicated the action has become necessary due to increased participation in programs with a limited number of staff people available to give proper supervision.

Commission members reviewed briefly the 1974-75 budget, which includes some $348,100 for general operations and maintenance and some $186,500 for capital improvements for the coming year.

Some of the capital outlay items funded include a bath house and parking facilities for the new swimming pool now under construction at Guy Smith Stadium, improvements at Greene Springs Park, money for renovation of play lots in various sections of the city, some $10,000 to start work on bike trails within the city and funds for facilities at the Town Commons.

The Recreation body also approved the use of the Elm Street Gym for a teenage biennial dance tentatively set for October 5, and agreed to waive the normal $50 charge for use of the building.

Lee, reporting on participation in activities during the month of July said total attendance for all programs totaled 42,672 during the month.

According to Lee's report a total of 11,987 persons participated in activities at the playgrounds and recreation centers during 22 supervised sessions of July, while 1,255 persons attended 16 tennis lessons given during the month.

An average of 29 retarded children participated in four Camp Sunshine meetings (a special day camp program), while a total of 438 persons took part in three Track Association events. Lee noted that the Track Association program was the only Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) sanctioned program in the state this summer.

An average of 1,297 persons attended the four Sunday In The Park series performances during the month also.

Lee also reviewed for Commission members, action taken by the Greenville City Council in turning over the Moyewood Recreation Center to the commission. The Recreation Director said the Commission, according to the Council's action, is to maintain the center and to operate it with passive-type recreation and education type programs, such as arts and crafts programs and activities for senior citizens.

City Planning-Zoning Commission To Ponder Condominium Policies

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville's Planning and Zoning Commission approved five agenda items last night at its monthly meeting and discussed the "coming" of condominiums, as indicated by city planner John Schofield.

Schofield indicated he had been contacted by several individuals within the past weeks expressing an interest in the construction of condominiums in the Greenville area, and felt it was an appropriate time for the planning and zoning commission to start thinking of what policy the commission would take on the construction of condominiums.

In reference to this, the commission plans to hold a workshop in early September to discuss what action they should take on the construction of condominiums.

Agenda items approved included the approval of a motion to amend the central business district project boundary to include the Pitt and Greene Streets connector in accordance with the proposed thoroughfare plan. The extension would allow for the continuation of Reade Circle.

The commission also passed a rezoning request that will allow the Merritt-Holland Co., a welding supply firm, to move into a building located at 405 E. Fourteenth St. The zoning change only affected the one building and its designation was changed from "CN", neighborhood commercial to "CDF", downtown commercial fringe.

Approval was given to the preliminary plans for the development of a plot of land located south of Pitt Plaza and west of Highway 43 and owned by the James L. Evans heirs. Approval was also given to the preliminary plans for the development of the North Commercial Center, located in the southeast quadrant of the intersection of Greene Boulevard northeast, and Highway 30.

This property is adjacent to the J.H. Hudson Construction Co.

Finally, approval was given to the owner of Colonial Mobile Home Park for the final two sections of the park to be developed for rental purposes only. The park is located on the north side of Highway 11 opposite Burroughs-Wellcome. The commission stipulated in approving the motion that the property could be used for rental purposes only.

Assassin Killed Wife Of S. Korea President

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park escaped an assassination attempt today, but his wife was killed, a presidential spokesman announced.

He said she died after a nearly six-hour operation at the Seoul National University hospital of a gunshot wound she suffered during the assassination attempt.

The attempt took place as Park was making an Independence Day address. A man opened fire, the president ducked down behind the speaker's desk and was not hit, but his 47-year-old wife was hit in the head.

Security guards wounded the gunman and arrested him.

A 16-year-old girl choir singer in the audience also was killed, possibly by police bullets.

The government said the gunman carried a Japanese passport, and the Japanese Foreign Ministry said it was issued in the name of Yukio Yoshii, 23 of Osaka. But Yoshii told a television interviewer in Osaka: "I am not the gunman. I am in Japan. Somebody must have taken advantage of my name." Park was making an Independence Day address to about 1,000 persons in the National Theater to observe South Korea's 29th anniversary.

Witnesses said the man ran toward the stage and opened fire from about the third row. The government statement said the man's revolver misfired, then he fired twice. One bullet struck the desk that protected Park. Another hit Mrs. Park, who was sitting behind her husband.

The young girl was a member of a 200-voice girls' choir that was to perform for the celebration. She was sitting in the front row.

Miss Portia Brown Is Bride

MRS. RICHARD LEE O'PHARROW

Miss Portia Faye Brown and Richard Lee O'Pharrow were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at five o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Officiating at the double ring ceremony, which took place on the lawn, was the Rev. William Moore of Greenville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fornie Brown, Jr. of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Lucy B. O'Pharrow of Washington and the late Mr. James Frank O'Pharrow.

Johnnie Wooten, organist, played a program of wedding music. Mrs. Barbara Gaynor sang "O Promise Me," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The lawn setting for the nuptials featured a white arch decorated with triple wedding bells attached to a double satin yellow bow. Twin baskets of mixed yellow and white gladioli, white nuns and fern were used on each side. Palm trees were placed at the base of the arch.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza chantilly lace over peau de soie. The gown was styled with a portrait neckline and a bodice lined with cluny lace.

Venice flower motifs scattered with pearls extended down the sleeves. The A-line skirt featured tiers of lace at the hemline and the back was accented with a white satin bow which carried a detachable train finished with lace.

Her three-quarter veil of illusion encircled her bridal hat. Mrs. Carolyn Tillery, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was dressed in a formal empire style yellow dotted swiss dress with a protrait neckline finished with ruffles. The dress was accented with a yellow satin bow. She wore a triple yellow satin bow with streamers and carried a bouquet of yellow and green mums.

Jo Ann Tillery, niece of the bride, carried the bride's train and was dressed in a formal pink empire nylon over dotted swiss gown.

J. Earl O'Pharrow, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were William T. and Louis O'Pharrow of Washington, brothers of the bridegroom. Joseph O'Pharrow Jr., nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer and carried a white satin heart shaped pillow trimmed with lace.

Mrs. Delores Barnhill attended as wedding assistant.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brown wore a formal length apple green dress with a matching turban. The mother of the bridegroom selected a beige ensemble with a matching hat and pearl accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home.

The bride's table was centered with a mixed arrangement of yellow and white carnations, daisies and white pom poms. Yellow tapers in gold candleabra flanked the centerpiece. The cake table was covered with a lace cloth.

Punch was poured by Mrs. Ester Fullworth of Wilmington. Hostess was Mrs. Marian O'Pharrow, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

Miss Brenda Langley presided at the bridal register. The register table was marked with the bride's book and a portrait of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Epps High School and is employed by Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. The bridegroom is a graduate of Johnson C. University and was a member of Omega Psi Phi fraternity. He received his master's degree from the University of Detroit and is employed as an instructor for Forsyth Technical Institute.

For wedding trip, the bride changed into a two-piece floral double knit suit.

The couple will reside in Winston-Salem.

Let Daughter Dress For Comfort

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our 17-year-old daughter wears practically nothing but jeans. She spends hours on her hair, nails and makeup before going on a date, then she puts on jeans! (She has a closetful of lovely dresses.)

I keep telling her that I think boys like to see girls in dresses at least part of the time. She has a beautiful figure and looks nice in anything she wears.

She agrees to listen to you, and we'd like to hear some comments from boys, too.

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER

DEAR OLD: It all depends on the occasion, and (I'm sorry to say) what the OTHER girls are wearing. More important than looking "nice" is looking "like the others" in her crowd, so don't pressure her, Mother. Let her wear what she feels most comfortable in.

DEAR ABBY: My ex-husband, Jess, is getting married again. Jess and I have three children—a girl, eight, and two boys, 16 and 17.

The little dummy who Jess is marrying evidently has never heard that when a person has already had one big wedding (and Jess has), the second wedding should be small and simple. At least that's the way it is in Louisville, Kentucky.

Anyway, Jess wants to use my kids in a big church wedding. He's asked my daughter to be the flower girl, and the boys to be ushers. He never mentioned inviting me, which is just as well, because if I get invited I will not come.

Three questions: Does Jess have the right to use my kids at his wedding? Should he even be having a wedding like this? Should I send a gift?

COURIER-JOURNAL FAN

DEAR FAN: Of course Jess has the right to "use" your kids at his wedding. They're his kids, too. A bride who has been married before usually has a quiet, simple wedding, regardless of how many times the groom has been up to bat, so if this is her first, she's entitled. And if your sincere good wishes go along with a gift, send one. Otherwise, don't.

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen this in your column, but I'm sure I'm not the only woman with this problem.

For 23 years I've been married to an extremely handsome professional man. He is very well-built and wears his clothes like a fashion model. When he enters a room, everyone wants to know who he is. He is loaded with self-confidence (who wouldn't be?) and exudes charm, wit and personality.

My problem is the obvious amazement and disbelief I encounter when I am introduced as his wife. Some do a double take; others say: "REALLY?" They do everything but come right out and ask: "What on earth did he see in YOU?"

Although we are the same age, I look older. I'm blind as a bat without my glasses and can't wear contacts. I've fought weight all my life, due to a thyroid condition. Let's just say, a beauty I'm not. But I do have feelings. I've had people insinuate that ours must have been a shotgun wedding. (It wasn't.) Or that I must have had money. (I didn't.) But worst of all are the women who try to butter me up to get next to my husband.

Please put this in your column. I'd like to clip it out and hand it to the next woman who tells me what a "terrific" husband I have, and lets me know it's a miracle that I got him.

LITTLE ME IN HARTFORD

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I was cleaning the house the other day and got a little light-headed.

"What's wrong with you?" asked Mayva.

I steadied myself on the bathroom door. "It's nothing. Just as overdoses of herbal."

"What's herbal?"

"Are you serious? It's that green, refreshing, woody scent that the kids wash their hair in, deodorize their room, brush their teeth and take a bath in. Herbal is the scent of the month. Haven't you heard?" I laughed uncontrollably. "Lemon is out! Herbal is in!"

"Get hold of yourself," she admonished. "It can't be that bad."

All I know is that every morning I wake up, take a deep breath and have the feeling our Christmas tree just died." Mayva sniffed. "I'd say it smelled more like Euell Gibbons' breath. So why don't you buy another scent?"

"Are you suggesting I send three teen-agers out into this world with split ends? What kind of an animal are you? We've searched too long and come too far to give up now. Why, I've devoted my entire life to finding just the right shampoo. First they saw this TV commercial of a beautiful girl skinny-dipping and a homely girl sitting on a rock being ignored. You have to be a fool not to know that the girl on the rock had dandruff, so I bought No Crud shampoo.

"No Crud cured their dandruff, but their hair didn't squeak like it should so I bought another brand called Gentle Tornado. Then a virile looking man with balloon-filled muscles appeared on the tube one night and said, 'Guess what I use? A baby shampoo.' So I bought Boo Hoo Shampoo for a couple of months until a sexy babe convinced them that if they weren't using her brand they were using detergent, so we switched again. We've used 'Sex Head,' 'Scalp Lustre,' 'Frizzie Behave,' 'Reflection' for people who wash their hair every three hours and are going bald."

"You have to admit your kids have healthy hair!" said Mayva. "Healthy! It's lousy with protein, massages and stimulates itself, is conditioned for extra body and sheen, is tangle free and super manageable. A doctor told me their hair would go on living for three years after the body died."

"So who promised you a rose garden?" shrugged Mayva.

"So who promised me a forest?" I sneezed.

Old Goose

Brought Luck

GODALMING, England WNS—Margaret Baker, 70, claims to own "the luckiest bird alive and the oldest Christmas dinner in Surrey." In 1939, Mrs. Baker's son-in-law bought her a live goose to kill and cook for the holiday meal. Instead, she named the bird Sue and kept her for a pet. "Sue was a big bird when I got her and could be 38 years old by now," said the English widow. "I thought she was a gander until she started laying eggs." For years Sue paid her way by providing breakfasts for the Bakers. "One egg scrambled was enough for three people," reported Mrs. Baker. "You can't imagine what that meant during the war years."

Shopping bags don't have to look utilitarian. One handbag manufacturer shows a hand-screened paisley leather one for fall and winter '74. The tote, or shopping bag, with deep side gussets, is paired with a matching clutch with hidden shoulder chain. The clutch fits in the tote.

Casual style is mixed with formal fabrics in a new fall outfit from Gil Aimbe. He mates satin gaucho pants with a mohair topper with its own scarf.

Piccione's sculptured organza gown with a fox bordered circular chapel train is designed for fall and winter weddings. And it can go on afterwards to dances and other formal evening occasions.

Teal Traina uses brown sawtooth crochet trim on the neckline, cuffs, pockets and hood of a classic sheath for fall and winter '74. The hood can be dropped to make a smoke ring collar.

Strickland Says Pres. Friday Held 'Accountable'

Panamanians Stone Embassy; No Action

PANAMA (AP) — Panamanian students stoned the United States Embassy here, smashing 80 windows as Panamanian national guard troops stood nearby directing traffic around the demonstrators.

Officials said the protest, which included banana peels thrown on the embassy's front steps, was against the refusal of an American banana company, United Brands, to pay the export tax levied by Panama, Costa Rica and Honduras.

An Embassy spokesman said a formal protest would be filed with the Panamanian government because of the demonstration Wednesday.

An estimated 300 high school students gathered in front of the embassy and for 45 minutes protested peacefully. But as most of the students began to leave, some of the group tried to haul down the American flag in front of the building.

Failing to do so, the students sang the Panamanian national anthem, burned a crude reproduction of the U.S. flag and threw banana peels on the front steps.

At this point five national guardsmen who usually protect the embassy called in reinforcements but they did not try to break up the protest.

The embassy spokesman said no one inside the embassy was injured in the rock throwing spree. He said some of the rocks went through the windows of the office of Ambassador William Jorden.

United Brands suspended its Panamanian operations July 24 in protest over the $1 tax per 40-pound crate of bananas.

GOLDSBORO—Sen. Thomas Strickland said here yesterday that members of the General Assembly are holding University of North Carolina president William Friday and Dr. Christopher Fordham, Dean of the Medical School at Chapel Hill "responsible to achieve what we have mandated."

The Wayne County senator's statement came as he was commenting on the expansion of the one-year medical school at East Carolina University.

A supporter of expansion at the Greenville school, Sen.

Strickland indicated that the General Assembly "mandated that the Board of Governors (of the University of North Carolina) first expand the first year of the medical school at ECU, and second, plan and develop a second year medical school."

The legislative mandate also calls for the construction of a medical science building "and that a distinctive program be developed giving priority to family general practitioners and giving priority to minority students.

According to the senator, "not as much progress as we had hoped for has been made, but we are hopeful significant steps are in the process."

"The program is now directly under the direction of the UNC medical school and I think President Friday is directly responsible and had delegated that responsibility to Dr. Fordham."

"I have been assured by both of them that progress is being made."

The 1974 General Assembly authorized expansion of the one-year medical school at East Carolina—by doubling the size of the first year class and adding a second year program—but said the UNC Board of Governors should present plans to the 1975 Legislature for the expansion program.

"A site committee has been appointed," Strickland said. And "they (Friday and Fordham) say that a program plan will be presented by Mid-October and that an architect can then be employed after planning has been made for the expansion program."

They cite the fact that there is an "acting director on the job now and they are in the process of finding a full-time director for East Carolina."

"The legislature expects its mandate to be carried out and would like to see some results by the January session, the senator emphasized."

"I am impatient," he added. "But I feel we should be patient. We are holding Friday and Fordham responsible to achieve what we have mandated."

Art Show Opens At Ft. Raleigh

The 12th Annual John White Art Show opens Friday for a three day exhibit period at The Lost Colony Building at Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island.

Local and area artists and craftsmen will show and sell their works during the three day event. In addition, memorabilia from past productions of "The Lost Colony" and works of cast members will be displayed.

On Sunday, August 18, a birthday celebration will commemorate the birth of Virginia Dare, the first English child born in America. The Sunday night production of "The Lost Colony" will honor Miss Dare.

Parents, Too

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The North Carolina Juvenile Correctional Association has been told the state needs new laws giving judges authority over the parents of juvenile offenders.

A state District Court judge, Larry Thomas Black of Charlotte, made the statement Wednesday to the opening session of the convention.

"Anything we do working with the child is half the battle," against juvenile delinquency, he said.

Inspired By Pres. Ford

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Inspired by President Ford's attack on a record price increase planned by General Motors, a millionaire Republican who owns a Pontiac dealership has asked GM to reconsider.

In a letter to GM President Edward Cole on Wednesday, James S. Gilmore Jr. said: "You are recognized as a leader and others feel comfortable following your example. I strongly recommend that that example be one of a concerned corporation, whose profits are second to the national interest."

Gilmore said the major price hike could contribute to a continuation of the slump in auto sales that have cut his gross by 30 per cent since last winter. Until then, he said sales at his dealership totaled $10 million a year.

GM reserved comment on the letter, saying it had not yet been received.

The President on Monday described GM's increase as inflationary and a bad example for other firms.

Meanwhile, the National Automobile Dealers Association sent telegrams to the nation's auto makers criticizing their pricing plans for the 1975 models.

Farmville Mart Had Record Day

FARMVILLE—Farmville's tobacco market recorded its highest sales date on record yesterday as better quality leaf and cutter grades were being sold.

The better quality offerings brought prices up while prices on other grades remained steady. Volume of priming and nondescript grades continued to decrease. Primings, cutters and leaf grades accounted for approximately 50 per cent of yesterday's sales.

For the first day this season, the government did not receive any tobacco. The market sold 352,034 total lbs. for $383,871 averaging out at $109.40 per 100 lbs. To date the market has sold 8,103,386 lbs. for $7,545,809 for an average of $93.12 per 100 lbs. Average yesterday was 21.66 lower per 100 lbs. than for the same sales date last year.

Infant Dies In Apartment Fire

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—An infant girl burned to death early today in an upstairs bedroom of an apartment in a public housing project.

The other four persons in the apartment got out safely. They were her mother, another child and two men.

Firemen said the fire started in a bed, and was confined to the bedroom of the apartment in the Rosemary Place housing development, whose brick buildings are only two or three years old.

Firemen found the child, Vanessa Smith, between 3 and 6 months old, on the floor of the bedroom.

Staggering The Imagination

The huge new $220 million facility for the mining of phosphate in Beaufort County, announced Tuesday by North Carolina Phosphate Corp., staggers the imagination.

It was announced as the largest initial plant investment ever for North Carolina, excluding the expensive nuclear plants constructed by utilities companies.

The big investment will provide more than 600 new jobs in a job-sparse area of our state, and will pay higher than the industrial average. It could mean other related industries developing and it certainly means huge increases in shipments for the state port at Morehead and for railroads serving the area.

We would be the first to welcome North Carolina Phosphate for the economic boost it will give to Beaufort County, and also to Pitt and other nearby counties.

It is not inappropriate, however, to express some caution about the environmental factors involved in the opening of the mining operation.

The thought is not new since the same questions were raised when Texasgulf announced plans for developing a phosphate mining operation at Aurora. There was the question of whether the ground opened by the strip mining operation could be returned to some desirable use. It was asked if the operation would pollute the Pamlico River.

The big question, though, was if the dry pit mining operation would lower the water table enough to bring an infiltration of saline water under the area. Texasgulf eventually satisfied state authorities concerning these questions and phosphate mining operation got underway.

All these questions will have to be looked at again now that a second mining operation has been announced. State authorities should make it clear from the beginning that the environment will be protected. The laws are on the books which require environmental safeguards and there should be no question in anyone's mind that North Carolina intends to enforce them.

A world wide food shortage seems to be looming and it would be almost inhumane to deny this Beaufort phosphate to the world. Still it is our state and we have an equal duty to see that the streams, the air and our precious fresh water supply are not polluted. If North Carolina Phosphate can demonstrate to the proper state agencies that it can, and will, protect the environment, then we will be delighted to see this tremendous project develop.

THIS AFTERNOON

Synthetic Weed Tested

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The Golden Weed of North Carolina has been challenged in the past, but nothing as serious as current industry scurrying to perfect a synthetic tobacco product.

Strangely, with tobacco growing and product manufacturing both concentrated in North Carolina, the industry is looking to Great Britain for the answers to how synthetics will fare. Soon, a committee headed by Professor R. B. Hunter, vice chancellor at Birmingham University in England will issue a report which will ultimately prove crucial to the tobacco industry.

The Hunter committee was set up to look into testing of new synthetic materials, putting Britain in the forefront of studying implications of new smoking materials being researched by at least two major firms. Britain—by that Hunter report—will set the precedents and standards for everybody else, including the United States and North Carolina.

Recent remarks by Gov. James E. Holshouser and a discussion of the subject of synthetic tobaccos in this column raised a number of questions about the history of synthetics—and where the situation stands today.

During World War I, when tobacco supplies were cut off, German cigarettes were made from lime flowers. By the time of the Second World War, technology had advanced—the Germans used clover, coltsfoot, chrysanthemum leaves, seaweed, watercress greens, and even a roll-your-own called the "dandelion gasper."

Obviously, none of those seriously challenged King Tobacco.

Current work with synthetics, however, will produce a more acceptable substitute. But a variety of experts take special care to note that production is some years away, use of synthetics will be limited to "filler" purposes, and initial testing and marketing is aimed at Great Britain.

Two major firms are involved as frontrunners in research, although there is behind-scenes activities by all major tobacco firms.

The two leaders are Celanese Corp. where 16 years and $12 million has been poured into a pilot plant at Charlotte making 1.5 million pounds of Cytrel yearly; producing cigarettes from a blend of 80 per cent tobacco and 20 per cent Cytrel at the rate of 4,000 per minute; and the Imperial Tobacco Imperial Chemical partnership in England where seven years of research has led to present construction of a manufacturing plant in Aberdeenshire, Scotland, which will turn out some 10 million pounds of New Smoking Material (NMS) by the end of 1975.

Imperial and Celanese are anxiously awaiting the Hunter Committee report to Parliament. That will set out the first scientific guidelines for synthetic tobacco materials. After that, toward the end of 1975, both will start producing commercial quantities, and early in 1976 the three major tobacco companies in Britain will start selling cigarettes with some 80 per cent tobacco and 20 per cent synthetics.

Market Tests
Test marketing results have been mixed. Celanese conducted smoker tests with a product of 30 per cent Cytrel and reports smokers liked it. In England, a brand called Planet was tested on the market for three weeks then pulled off after complaints from Parliament, not long enough to get reaction.

Test smoking is going on now in Japan and Switzerland.

All reports indicate smokers will take to a synthetic if the mix is around 30 synthetic-70 tobacco; beyond that, taste falls flat.

For that reason alone, tobacco experts say farmers in North Carolina have little to fear since cheaper tobaccos from other parts of the world have long been used as "fillers" and the demand will remain strong for the taste and aroma of good, flue-cured.

Health is naturally one of the big reasons for the push toward a synthetic, but research to date does not permit a label of "safe" for synthetics. They are, after all, being made from a wood-cellulose material which produces tar itself, though in greatly decreased amounts. The synthetics also produce no nicotine. But that, after all, is what a smoker smokes for and some experts predict that cutting down the nicotine will make smokers smoke more cigarettes to get what they're after—and that will be even more hazardous to the health.

Voting A Commissar?

Just before we were interrupted, we were talking about the bill to create a Consumer Protection Agency. It is an extraordinary bill—a profoundly un-American bill—and it merits your careful thought.

One version of this bill, H.R. 13163, passed the House in April. A Senate version, S. 707, is now pending in the upper chamber. If the Senate succumbs to the virus of galloping consumerism, eventually the two bills will be reconciled, and with President Ford's approval, we will wake up some morning to find we have voted ourselves a wet blanket.

Perhaps Mr. Ford will not approve. His conservative instincts run deeper than those of his predecessor. As he reminded us a few days ago, he takes office beholden to no man—not even to Ralph Nader. And who's afraid of Virginia Knauer? Let us hope this well-intentioned but fundamentally bad bill never becomes a public law.

In describing this bill as "un-American," I have this in mind: One of the first principles of the American way of life is that ours is not a monolithic society. Ours is a free society, composed of men and women with different interests and different values. The idea of state-decreed uniformity is alien to us.

Another cherished American principle is the principle of political accountability. Over the years we have created an intricate system of checks and balances, of reviews and controls, of restraints upon power. Working in tandem, the public sector and the private sector have operated in an effective state of tension. The system may not be perfect, but it has given America a reasonably free and reasonably prosperous economy.

Now comes this bill to create a Consumer Protection Agency. The agency would be headed by an Administrator whose first duty is to define the "consumer interest." A few days ago, before the interruption, I was saying that no such singular consumer interest can possibly be defined. The

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)
Here is a leader you can believe—the kind of man you would buy a used car from.

Sure enough, he was in a friendly arena—comfortable with his colleagues of the past 25 years. And every new President automatically has a honeymoon period. But it wasn't really that. In fact, President Ford specifically said he didn't want a "honeymoon."

In his manner he was first of all sincere, then strong, determined, confident, easy-going, even jovial, and with an appropriate common touch of humility. What a remarkable combination, yet how credibly it all came across.

There was very little oratory. These words right to the point sounded much better:

"We have a lot of work to do. Let's get on with it...I'm not here to make an inaugural address. This nation needs action, not words."

"My office has always been open and that's how it will be at the White House."

"The state of our economy is not so good...and the people blame the government. I will work to bring the budget into balance in fiscal 1976...." But: "I have a confession...I have sometimes voted for spending in Grand Rapids while opposing a boondoggle in Oklahoma."

"The first thing we have to learn is to say no."

To the voters: "Support candidates who consistently vote for tough decisions—cut the cost of government."

"Inflation is domestic enemy Number One. To restore confidence in government is our first priority."

"In my administration there will be no buggings, no tapping, and no break-ins."

"I hope to never see the day I can't admit I made a mistake."

"I want to be a good President. I need your help. With it, nothing can stop the United States of America."

These are very plain-spoken fundamental words. They come from a forthright, veteran public servant, suddenly thrust in the most important elective post in the world. He isn't afraid of the task, and he inspires belief in his constituents.

His appeal was simple: "Communication, conciliation, compromise, and cooperation." With these elements, applied through the skill and determination of President Gerald Ford, a fifth alliterative quality can be restored: Confidence.

POLITICS With Ed O'Herron

Working For Himself

By JOHN KILGO
Ed O'Herron, a successful Charlotte businessman who has worked for other political candidates in the past is trying to garner support to run for Governor himself in 1976.

O'Herron is a top executive with the Eckerd's Drug chain. He worked very prominently in Dan K. Moore's successful gubernatorial campaign in 1964, and he's now in the process of working for Robert Morgan in the U. S. Senate race. O'Herron headed up a recent fund-raising dinner for Morgan in Charlotte.

O'Herron early campaign has been quiet and almost all behind the scenes. Reliable sources say Dan Moore, now a State Supreme justice, is encouraging O'Herron to run for Governor.

O'Herron himself was candid about his hoped-for plans when I interviewed him.

"I'm seriously thinking about running," O'Herron said. "I want to run. I've talked to a lot of people about my chances, and many have called and written encouraging me to do it. It's certainly too early to say that I will run, but I hope things work out so that I can."

O'Herron's name, of course, would not be a household word in some sections of the state. He understands this a problem.

"I've never been exposed to a state-wide campaign," O'Herron said. "I understand that I don't have state-wide name identification at this point. I'm trying to find out now if I could get it."

O'Herron served on the State Budget Commission during the Moore administration. Now his political interest, in addition to the Governor's race, rest in helping Morgan win the U. S. Senate campaign.

"I'm trying to help Bob Moore," O'Herron said. "He's been a very good attorney general and I think he'll make an outstanding Senator. He's very dedicated and very sincere."

O'Herron feels that his experience as a businessman, and the fact that he isn't an established politician, would work to his benefit in a race for Governor. He believes people are looking for fresh faces.

"And I believe we could use a little experience and maturity in the Governor's office," O'Herron said. "Just because a man's a lawyer qualify him for high office. It looks like we might have had too many lawyers up there in Washington who made a mess of the situation."

O'Herron says his business activities are now to the place "where I have the time to campaign for Governor, should I decide to run."

He says he has many more people to talk with before a decision is made. He has established no definite timetable as to when a final decision must be made.

O'Herron is the third Charlottean known to be considering the Governor's race for 1976. The other two are NCNB executive Luther Hodges, Jr., and State Senator H. Edward Knox.

Strength For Today

JOY IN SACRIFICE
A traveler recently returned from Africa with a story of a day's sojourn in the home of a Christian missionary.

The traveler does not believe in Christian missions and was very puzzled by what he encountered. He found doctor and his wife living on the edge of a jungle among some of the most primitive people in Africa. The dampness and oppressiveness of the climate was intolerable. Yet for some strange reason the doctor and his wife appeared to be very happy and cheerful. They got along well with the natives, but what was more astonishing, they seemed to be on the best of terms even with the animals.

Every since his return home, the traveler has been pondering this astonishing situation. To him a man is a fool who gets no material reward for his efforts, and no telling will ever make him see that those who serve their fellow men in the name of Christ and for his sake have daily reward that makes a hut in the jungle preferable to a palace in the city.

Feeble Peace Force

By GENE KRAMER
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — They're called peace-keeping troops, so why don't the United Nations forces on Cyprus stop the fighting?

The most obvious reason is that the blue-helmeted U.N. army from eight countries is heavily outnumbered and out-gunned.

The U.N. force has been doubled since the Cyprus crisis erupted a month ago, but it still numbers only 4,400 men. An estimated 40,000 Turkish soldiers have landed on the Mediterranean Island, and there are 12,000 Greek Cypriots in the Cyprus national guard.

The U.N. troops' basic weapon is the rifle, and they have some machine guns. The Turkish invaders have planes, tanks, artillery and warships.

There are other practical and legal obstacles to U.N. peace-keeping and peacemaking. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim stresses that a basic condition for U.N. peacekeeping is acceptance of it by all sides in a conflict.

U.N. forces have been accepted by Egypt, Israel and Syria in the Middle East, he points out. But on Cyprus, with cease-fire lines not yet firm, many U.N. positions are being challenged by the Turkish army.

Peacekeeping experts say the U.N. flag and troops provide an effective deterrent against flareups of local fighting once cease-fire lines are drawn. But if one command or the other is determined to seize territory, the U.N. position becomes untenable.

The U.N. force was set up on Cyprus a decade ago, not as a buffer between national armies but to curb fighting between the Greek Cypriots and the Turkish Cypriots. Cypriots of Turkish origin, outnumbered 4 to 1 by the Greeks, were living in about 75 towns and villages across the island.

The July 30 agreement that Greece, Turkey and Britain signed in Geneva gave U.N. forces the additional task of setting up buffer zones around the territory occupied by the Turkish invasion forces.

Waldheim says this required specific Security Council authorization. The fighting erupted before this was arranged and before cease-fire lines could be fixed.

Some diplomats say the secretary-general is being overly cautious about the additional duty for the U.N. troops.

On July 31, the Soviet Union vetoed a Security Council resolution authorizing Waldheim to evaluate the new role proposed for U.N. troops on Cyprus. The next day it allowed a similar resolution to pass by abstaining instead of using its veto.

Jawboning Can't Beat Facts

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Gerald Ford took what is widely viewed as tough, firm action in criticizing General Motors for raising its prices roughly 10 per cent. But firm as it was, it was too weak.

Jawboning, while probably of some value in restraining price increases, simply cannot overwhelm the facts, and the underlying fact, according to GM, is that expenses have been rising, necessitating higher prices.

Neither can jawboning invalidate the rules of economics. In wishing that other automotive manufacturers decline to follow GM's example, the President may, in effect, be asking them to accept smaller returns on investments and sales.

For any company willingly to accept such a situation is to commit a breach of faith with stockholders, risk a decline in its ability to attract capital with which to stay alive, and otherwise endanger its competitive position.

But, with inflation threatening to become even worse, the President probably had little choice but to speak out. He could do little else, even though he has declared inflation to be the nation's primary problem.

The next moves, since the President probably has no others at the time, appear to be left up to the automotive companies. GM can resist, or it can cut back its increases, for which it conceivably made an allowance. The other manufacturers can raise their prices by 10 per cent also, or they can scale them down.

The most unlikely course, however, would be for GM to rescind its increase and for Chrysler, in the national interest, to forego any price changes they might have considered.

This still would leave Ford, which announced several weeks ago that average retail prices would rise more than $400 over 1974 models, also to consider whether it would retain or rescind its increases.

For these events to occur there would have to be a total commitment to the President's ability to turn back the tide of inflation.

When increases like GM's are announced, it is all but impossible for the administration quickly to ascertain if they are justified. Without any automatic probing machinery, it can only jawbone with dubious effect.

It is for this reason the President has accepted a Democratic proposal for a summit conference on the economy and other domestic affairs, and for legislation to create a new Cost of Living Council.

Armed with facts, he can counter the moves of big business and big labor, which always are armed with batteries of statistics "proving" their case. Without similar ammunition, the President's pleas are relatively ineffective.

Portent Seen In Heroin Cargo

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal narcotics officials describe their seizure of a $112 million transatlantic heroin shipment as an ominous portent of what may happen if Turkish farmers resume full-scale opium poppy growing this fall.

"Normally, a seizure of this kind would be a happy event," John R. Bartels, administrator of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration said Wednesday. "This is not a happy event... The epidemic might resume."

Federal narcotics agents last week located a shipment of 75 kilograms of French-processed heroin packed in the hollowed-out recesses of $7,000 worth of Louis XIII furniture. Officials estimated the heroin could have supplied 4,800 users for a month.

Four French citizens and an Argentinian were arrested after one of them tried to sell information about the smuggling scheme to narcotics agents for $400,000.

On Wednesday, announcing the arrests at a news conference, U.S. Atty. David Trager of Brooklyn drew a parallel with the celebrated "French Connection" seizure in 1962 of $98 million worth of heroin, a case on which a book and popular movie were based.

He said the new seizure shows the traditional heroin smuggling route from Turkey through processing plants in the south of France is still usable, although it was supposedly destroyed a year and a half ago. Turkey declared a ban on opium poppy growing under a 1971 agreement with the United States, but Premier Bulent Ecevit has said his government intends to allow resumption this fall.

Trager and Bartels both said they feared the new shipment means French processors already have begun unloading stockpiles of processed heroin which they kept while the Turkish ban drove prices up.

The five arrested are Maurice Leon Schoch, 39, and his brother Claude, 28, both of Nice, France, and both previously indicted as heroin smugglers; Albino Garro, identified as an Argentine citizen who gave his occupation as news reporter; Claude Breteche, described as the operation's French courier; and Nadine Besset, said to be Maurice Schoch's girlfriend.

Authorities said Maurice Schoch approached French authorities a week ago—two months after the heroin-packed furniture had been delivered to a Queens warehouse—and offered information about a major heroin shipment for $400,000. The authorities said the French officials contacted American narcotics agents, and Schoch was never paid.

The Schoch brothers and a sister, Denise, had been indicted Aug. 3, 1973, on charges of conspiring to import more than 600 kilograms of heroin between Jan. 1, 1970 and that date.

U.S. District Court Judge Jacob Mishler set bail at $2.5 million apiece for the Schoch brothers and Garro; at $1 million for Breteche, and at $500,000 for Miss Besset.

Talk High Rise Fire Safety

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A public hearing was held today on proposed regulations to improve fire safety in all new high-rise buildings in the state.

All buildings with more than 12 floors would be required to have sprinkler systems throughout. There would be other regulations to increase fire safety on upper floors.

The regulations would become law as soon as the 10-member North Carolina Building Code Council adopts them. This is expected in a few months.

STEPPING DOWN
OTTAWA (AP)—Robert Stanfield, the Conservative leader whose party has lost three elections to Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Liberals, says he will step down from his leadership post.

"I think it's really great that this group of young people is taking the time to put on this show and have invited handicapped youngsters to get them involved," Miss Alice Kenne said. Miss Kenne is in charge of programs for handicapped people within the Greenville Recreation Department.

"Hopefully," she added, "the concern of young people like the Bath group will lead to even more involvement of young handicapped people in programs such as water sports."

Party Of Handicapped To Be Ski Club Guests

About 30 handicapped young people from Greenville and Beaufort County will be the guests Sunday afternoon of the members of the Port Bath Ski Club in a performance of water sports being staged for their benefit.

The Port Bath Ski Club (until recently known under the name of the Albemarle-Pamlico Ski Club) will begin its show of water skills at 3 p.m. in Back Creek, Bath.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend. Back Creek is on the eastern edge of the town of Bath.

Kilpatrick...

What is the consumer interest in automobiles? The Administrator would have power to intervene in every proceeding of the Department of Transportation having to do with automobile safety and design. The Administrator would be expected to intervene in every environmental proceeding having to do with air pollution.

Is it in the consumer interest to require that new automobiles come equipped with air bags, hydraulic bumpers, and catalytic emission controls? Perhaps it is. But these devices may add as much as $400 to the cost of a car. Is it in the consumer interest to have inexpensive cars? Perhaps it is. But these two opposing interests cannot possibly be reconciled.

A hundred such examples could be offered. It is anticipated that the Administrator would define a consumer interest as to the packaging of goods. But what is the consumer's interest? Does the consumer want packages that are secure, very secure, or practically impenetrable? Does he want his pound of bacon sealed once or sealed twice? The difference inevitably must be reflected in the price of the product. The Federal Register bulges with regulations affecting everything from peanut butter to cherry pies. How can one Administrator prescribe a universal taste?

In every other agency of the federal government, the decrees of a commissioner or secretary of department head are reviewable. The checks and balances of due process of law operate to provide restraints against an abuse of power. Congress provides some oversight. An overweening official can be fired. But as this bill is now set up, the Administrator of the Consumer Protection Agency would have a virtually unreviewable power to do as he pleases, and it would be almost impossible to dismiss him. In a different society, under a different concept of state supremacy, we would call such an officer a Commissar. What in the world do we want with a Commissar here?

Spectators will gather at a site near the bridge that crosses the creek there.

"We'll have about 28 boys and girls performing," Johnny Marsh of Bath, spokesman for the club stated. "There'll be pyramid formations, trick ski acts, regular barefoot skiing, and a new act, the girls in the club doing a water ski ballet."

"Robin Wollard will perform on the flat kite, and Carroll Shealy will do the backwards barefoot act," Johnny added.

Members of the club are from Bath, Pantego, Belhaven, Washington, Williamston, Goldsboro, Wilson and Greenville.

As a special treat, members of the ski club, following their water show, will take the handicapped young people for boat rides and explain to them the techniques of the various types

Committee Report Says Nixon Directed Cover-Up

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The final draft of the House impeachment inquiry's report concludes that former President Richard M. Nixon "from the beginning ... knowingly directed the cover-up of the Watergate burglary."

The draft House Judiciary Committee report says about the Watergate break-in and cover-up:

"The president adopted course of conduct which caused illegal surveillance for political purposes, and the concealment of responsibility for that surveillance, obstruction of justice, perjury, destruction of evidence—all of which are crimes."

Galley proofs of the draft report were sent to the committee's 38 members Wednesday night and The Associated Press obtained a copy of the report's conclusions. The draft still can be changed before the report is adopted.

Nixon's disclosure Aug. 5 that six days after the Watergate break-in he approved an effort to steer the FBI away from his re-election campaign money's financing of it is inserted in the report as additional evidence.

Nixon said loss of congressional support after that disclosure forced his resignation. But the draft report contends the disclosure only confirmed the evidence the committee already had.

The report summarizes previously disclosed evidence supporting the three articles of impeachment the committee voted against the former President.

It says the evidence that Nixon directed the Watergate cover-up is "a pattern of undisputed acts." The draft lists 30 acts that it says cannot be rationally explained any other way.

In addition, Nixon's public statements for two years from the time of the break-in until last June 9 "deliberately contrived continually to deceive the courts, the Department of Justice, the Congress and the American people," the report says.

The section on evidence supporting proposed impeachment for abuse of power, including the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist and misuse of the Internal Revenue Service and other agencies, concludes: "He violated the obligation that every citizen has to live under the law."

Saying the Constitution requires that the president not only live under the law but assure its faithful application, the draft report charges: "Richard M. Nixon repeatedly and willfully failed to perform that duty."

"He failed to perform it by authorizing and directing actions that violated the rights of citizens and that interfered with the functioning of executive agencies."

As for recommending the third impeachment article, for Nixon's defiance of committee subpoenas for Watergate tapes, the draft report says acquiescence by Congress this time might tempt any future president to ignore impeachment subpoenas.

Although the report accuses Nixon of a course leading to the illegal burglary and wiretapping of Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate office building, the 30 acts cited relate only to the cover-up that followed.

The report says the 30 include what it calls Nixon's instructions that $75,000 in alleged hush money be paid to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr. and that witnesses give false testimony.

The report says more than $400,000 was paid to the Watergate defendants. And it says that Nixon told former aide John D. Ehrlichman on April 17, 1973, "to give false testimony concerning (Nixon lawyer Herbert W.) Kalmbach's knowledge of the purpose of the payments to the Watergate defendants."

It lists as what it considers the first indication that Nixon already knew of the cover-up the fact that he decided not to attend a meeting of five top aides on the Watergate break-in three days after it happened.

The draft report also cites the famous 18½-minute gap on a taped discussion between Nixon and Haldeman three days after the break-in. It says the erasure occurred at a time "the President stated that the tapes had been under his 'sole and personal control.'"

The list also includes Nixon's firing of former special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, his comments on containing the Watergate investigation and his praise of former White House Counsel John W. Dean III for "putting your finger in the dike every time that leaks have sprung here and sprung there."

Outlaw Gave Two Escapees Believed Still Holed Up In Swamp

RALEIGH (AP)—Outlaw Gerald Wayne Autrey, who said he would only be taken "feet first" has surrendered quietly to police in Raleigh.

Autrey, 22, was declared an outlaw Wednesday by Judge A. Pilston Godwin.

Hours later, police surrounded the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wood. "Put up your guns. He's coming out and give himself up," Mrs. Wood said.

Autrey came out and was taken to Wake County jail, where he was held without bond.

He was wanted on several charges, including stabbing a storekeeper during a holdup and the rape of a woman at gunpoint.

His status as an outlaw meant that he could have been killed with impunity by any citizen for refusal to surrender.

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—Authorities speculated two escaped convicts sought since Tuesday afternoon following a bank robbery were still holed up today in nearly impenetrable Great Dover Swamp.

For the second straight night officers manned road blocks along logging roads in the area a few miles south of Cove City and about 15 miles west of New Bern.

Convicted skyjacker Richard F. McCoy Jr., 32, convicted in 1972 of hijacking a jetliner and bailing out of it with $500,000 ransom, and Melvin Dale Walker, 35, of Morley, Mo., still were sought while two companions were in jail in New Bern.

The four men escaped last Saturday from the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., and authorities said they figured in a bank robbery Tuesday in the little community of Pollocksville, about 15 miles south of Cove City, a tiny community where McCoy grew up.

Authorities said McCoy's wife and mother live in the community while his father lives in Raleigh.

Jailed in New Bern, according to authorities, were Joseph William Havel, 60, of Philadelphia, and Larry LeRoy Bagley, 36, of Des Moines, Iowa.

Officers said they were taken into custody Tuesday afternoon after an exchange of gunfire with a Highway Patrol helicopter which spotted their car, which later was discovered to have a Pennsylvania license tag.

A Highway Patrol spokesman said four men jumped from the car when the helicopter flew low to check it out. The spokesman said Havel and Bagley were captured while McCoy and Walker managed to elude law enforcement officers and flee into the swamp.

Edward J. Krupinsky, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, said Wednesday McCoy was familiar with the swamp and it would be difficult to flush him out.

Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, estimated that officers had closed off an area of about five square miles, which included a portion of the Great Dover Swamp and some timber and farm land.

All four men are under federal fugitive charges. McCoy, who was living in Provo, Utah, at the time, was convicted of air piracy and sentenced to 45 years in prison. The other three were convicted bank robbers.

'Alma' Hits In Venezuela

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Alma was moving across northwestern Venezuela today after lashing Caracas with 55 mile an hour winds and heavy rains.

Gale warnings were up for the islands of Bonaire, Curacao and Aruba and for the Paraguan Peninsula in Venezuela and the Guajira Peninsula in Colombia, said officials of the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

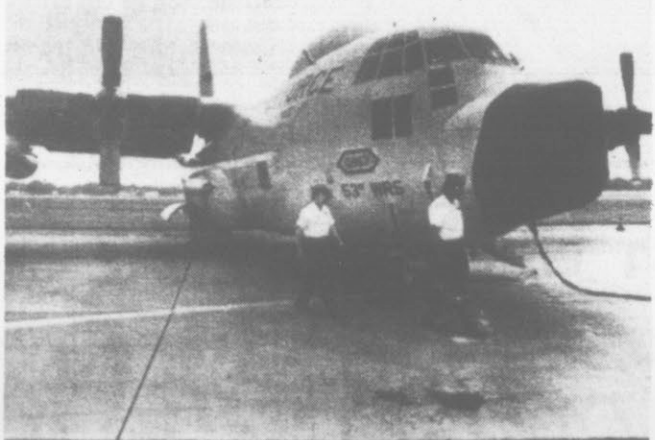

At 6 a.m. today, a spokesman said Alma was located about 1,250 miles southeast of Miami. The storm was moving westward at about 28 m.p.h.

The season's first tropical storm raked the island of Trinidad on Wednesday, leaving one person dead and a trail of fallen trees and electricity poles. Police said a woman standing on a road was killed when she was struck by debris blown from a rooftop.

Weathermen said all warnings had been discontinued for the southern Windward Islands and for the Paria Peninsula in Venezuela.

NEW AMBASSADOR—The White House has announced that Jack B. Kubisch, above, will replace Henry J. Taska as the U.S. Ambassador to Athens. Following the overthrow of the Greek military junta, cabinet ministers in the new civilian government criticized Taska for supporting the old regime and privately expressed their desire to see him replaced. Fragile Barriers Against Nuclear Arms' Spread

By WILLIAM STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — As it rushes to embrace nuclear power, the world must trust a fragile system of international treaty, forbidden technology and on-site inspection to avert spread of nuclear arms. The aim is to keep peaceful atoms from becoming atomic bombs, built perhaps by terrorists or a country nervous about a neighbor. But there is no certainty the system will succeed.

Some nuclear weapons control experts are pessimistic, asserting that mankind is fighting a rear-guard action against inevitable nuclear arms proliferation.

Others are hopeful that hold-out nations eventually will renounce development of nuclear arsenals.

But government sources warn that within the next decade a dozen or more nations could build nuclear weapons if they desire. They will need only weapon-grade nuclear material and the determination to withstand probable international criticism.

As nations turn to nuclear power to solve energy problems, the possibility grows that one might use its peaceful power reactor as a stepping-stone to nuclear weapons.

More than 100 American-type power reactors are operating, being built or planned abroad. Other nuclear nations also are exporting reactors. The total number will rise into the hundreds in coming years.

As a result, the volume of nuclear materials available will grow rapidly. Some will be uranium now used in nuclear power reactors but unsuitable for atomic weapons. Some will be plutonium, to be used in nuclear power reactors of the future.

Plutonium, an excellent bomb material, will be stored in many places and widely transported. It is relatively scarce now, its possession confined to the countries that possess nuclear weapons.

But by 1980, reactors throughout the world are expected to produce more than 130,000 pounds a year.

"If a country is determined to obtain weapons-grade nuclear materials, there are many ways they can proceed," said Dr. Fred Ikle, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

"There is nothing, absolutely nothing, not even in this country, that gives absolute protection against diversion," Ikle told a congressional committee in July.

What protection there is against diversion of nuclear materials comes from the Non-Proliferation Treaty and the International Atomic Energy Agency's system of inspections, inventories of nuclear materials, tamper-proof seals and surveillance cameras in 50 countries.

Negotiated in 1968, the Non-Proliferation Treaty has been signed and ratified by 82 countries. They have pledged not to develop nuclear weapons or, if they already possess them, not to aid other countries in acquisition.

But 62 countries either have not signed or have not ratified the treaty. France and China, which both possess nuclear weapons, including the hydrogen bomb, haven't signed. They may export any nuclear technology they choose.

India, which exploded her first nuclear device in June, is not a treaty signatory. She became the sixth nation to possess nuclear explosives. The others are the United States, Russia, China, France and Britain.

Government sources say some 20 countries, among them Japan, West Germany, Argentina, Brazil, South Korea and Pakistan — all not parties to the treaty — probably could produce nuclear explosives if they wanted to do so.

For two decades the details of how to build an atomic bomb have been widely known. Control of their spread has come from control of the availability of nuclear fuels.

Uranium ore must be treated to separate a rare isotope, U235, using large, closely guarded plants that cost hundreds of millions of dollars to build. There are several dozen of these enrichment plants in the United States, the AEC reports, but won't give the exact number.

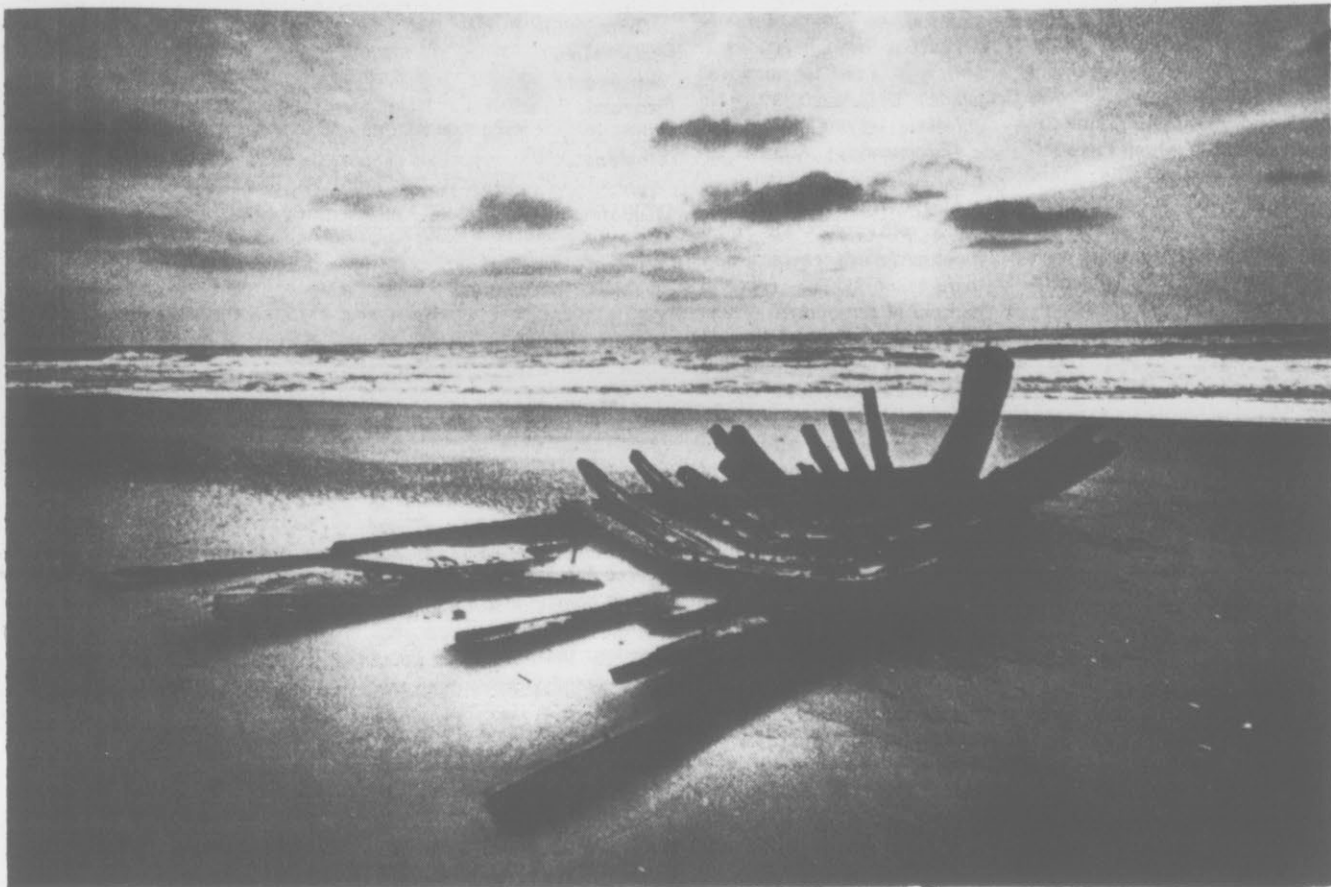

Plutonium of the grade used in atomic weapons is found in the spent fuel of nuclear reactors, including those using uranium to generate electricity. But the spent fuel is so radioactive that large, remotely operated and expensive plants are needed to extract it.

Uranium enrichment and plu-tonium extraction remain secret technologies jealously guarded by the nuclear nations.

But in 10 years, the flow of nuclear materials from reactors to plutonium extraction plants and back to reactors as fresh fuel will be enormous. That's because the next generation of reactors producing electricity will use plutonium as fuel instead of uranium. To serve them, a dozen plutonium extraction plants may operate outside the nuclear weapons nations, their output readily converted into bombs.

Several nations also are known to be experimenting with a potentially simple and cheap uranium enrichment method using lasers. Success could put weapons-grade enriched uranium within grasp of many nations.

OLD BONES—Dawn breaks over the gaunt wreckage of a sailing vessel at Nags Head on the North Carolina coast. The vessel, which has not been identified, is believed to have run aground at Bodie

Attorney Malcolm Howard Plans Return To Private Law Practice

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

After five months of preparing a defense for the former President of the United States, attorney Malcolm Howard now is left with tidying up the paper work around what could have been one of the most historical law cases in the history of the United States.

The North Carolina native and former U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District says he plans to return to Greenville and start a private law practice by early September.

Picked as an assistant special counsel to the President five months ago, Howard had been working closely with Nixon's former defense attorney, James St. Clair, on impeachment.

That special defense team is presently breaking up and Howard personally accompanied St. Clair to the airport in Washington yesterday for St. Clair's return to Boston and his private practice.

For Malcolm Howard, the future now calls for his picking up the roll of an everyday Eastern North Carolina attorney. He must find an office and get settled in a home.

Howard is now heading up the clean up operation in the aftermath of President Nixon's resignation and getting together the paper work that dealt with the President's defense so that it can be turned over to the future Presidential Library.

"Hopefully we will be returning to Greenville within the next few weeks," Howard added yesterday.

The defense attorney indicated he had no indication whether any further legal action will be taken by the special prosecutor's office against Nixon and stated he knew of no time limit that the decision would be placed under.

For Howard himself, the past five months have been a strain. "I'm a little tired and worn out and would like to take a couple of weeks off," he said.

Howard stated he had no prior knowledge of the former President's decision to resign, but that his office had been flooded with rumors just like all the rest.

"The President spent his last few days mostly in his EOB office which is just a few steps from my office, and naturally we noticed all of the traffic."

Howard indicated he knew that St. Clair had learned of the content of the last Watergate tape recording released, late in the week prior to Nixon's resignation and that its contents would have affected the President's defense.

"I don't know if it would have affected a vote on impeachment drastically in the Senate, but we would have had to begin research in that area all over again. It was detrimental to the case," Howard added.

A former GOP political candidate, Howard stated he did not want to get involved in a political situation within the near future, but would concentrate on starting his law practice.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a mild technical recovery today, with blue-chip and glamour issues leading the way.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 2.26 at 742.80, and gainers and losers were closely in balance on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was light. Analysts said the upswing reflected bargain-hunting and short covering, or the repurchase of borrowed shares sold earlier by bearish investors, after the deep declines of the past five sessions.

All the popular averages closed Wednesday at four-year lows.

Maremont was the Big Board's most-active issue, down 3/4 at 73.

Warner Communications, which said Wednesday it planned to buy one million of its own shares in the open market, was up 1/4 at 8 1/2 in active trading.

International Telephone & Telegraph gained 3/4 to 18 1/2. After Wednesday's close the company reported higher second-quarter earnings and raised its dividend.

Grumman rallied a point to 11 1/2. It was reported that Iran had offered to lend the company funds to allow continued production of the F14 fighter airplane.

Gold pulled back in profit taking. ASA, Ltd., was down 2 1/2 at 100 and Homestake lost 1 to 62 1/2 after both issues had traded at record highs Wednesday.

Among blue chips and glammers, IBM was up 2 1/4 to 202 3/4; Burroughs added 1 1/2 to 83 1/2, Eastman Kodak picked up 1 1/2 to 87, and Procter & Gamble was up 2 at 87 1/2.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index showed a .14 gain at 40.42.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was off .02 at 76.78. The Amex volume leader was Giant Yellowknife Mines, down 1/2 at 14 1/2.

TERMITES OR ANTS?

Don't be half sure. Call a professional pest control operator for an inspection today.

The potential damage to property from termites can exceed the damage from tornadoes, hurricanes and fire. This is why termite protection is as important as a homeowner's insurance policy.

Obituary Doby Acknowledges His Inquiry Limited

Fulford

The body will be taken from the home to the Church one hour prior to the time of service. Arrangements are being handled by the Wilkerson Funeral Home.

Mr. Fulford was born in Martin County and attended the Martin County Schools. He was a retired farmer and carpenter and a member of Crossroads Christian Chapel.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Daisy Bullock Fulford; two sons, J.S. Fulford of Williamston and Bobby Shelton Fulford of Washington; two daughters, Mrs. Tommy Locke of Williamston and Mrs. Charles Gurganus of Goldsboro; two brothers, John William Fulford of Portsmouth, Va., and Charles L. Fulford of Robersonville; and seven grandchildren.

RALEIGH (AP)—The controversy over alleged political investigations by the Holshouser administration continues.

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan charged again Wednesday that there had been "illegal and unwarranted" investigations into his background by agents of the Enforcement and Theft Division of the Department of Transportation.

And Secretary of Transportation Troy Doby acknowledged that his probe into Morgan's charges did not cover the activities of former employees who have been linked to the investigations in news reports.

Asked whether the former employees might have carried out political investigations, Doby said, "They might have. Hell, I don't know."

Doby said his in-house probe of the allegations had consisted of taking sworn affidavits from the employees currently in the Department.

He said all of them swore they had not carried out any improper investigations.

But Doby said the investigation had not touched on the activities of former Enforcement and Theft Director Nicholas Smith and investigator Timothy Bowers, both of whom have left the Administration.

Morgan, in a statement Wednesday, said newspaper reports on the investigations were independent, while the objectivity of the Administration's in-house probe was "difficult to assess."

Cox told school board members that plans are now to have the full school bus schedule ready for publication in the local news media on Sunday, August 25. Fees for school children for the coming school year will be the same as those of last year. These are, for all grades, an instructional supplies fee of $4.00 per student. Other fees applicable are: Physical education fees (Aycock and Rose schools), $2.00 per pupil; arts and crafts, $1.00 per semester; and home economics and industrial arts $1.25 per semester.

Cox reported that during the past school year, the collection rate for the $4.00 instructional supplies fees was good, running about 92 per cent.

Another matter discussed was that of immunization. Under state law, no student will be permitted to attend school if individual immunization requirements are not met within the first 30 days of school. This is a state, not a local requirement.

Under personnel matters, the school board approved the election of 17 new teacher

School board members Dr. James Bearden remarked, following the executive session, that "maternity leave is a matter we are taking up as individual cases. This is something that will be discussed thoroughly as a policy matter."

After concluding other agenda items, the school board went into executive session to discuss the subject of appraisal of unused school sites.

Revenues Rise

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's general fund tax collections last month totaled $107.6 million, an increase of $14.5 million over July last year, Revenue Secretary Howard Coble reported today.

The sales and income tax collections showed the biggest gain. The income tax receipts amounted to $51.5 million, an increase of nearly $10 million over the same month last year.

The sales tax, which reflects economic conditions, brought in $37.1 million in July, up $2.3 million.

In a report to Gov. Jim Holshouser, Coble said highway fund collections during July totaled $25.2 million, a drop of $1.2 million. Gasoline tax receipts were down last month, with collections amounting to $23 million, compared with $24.2 million in July, 1973.

Overtaken On A Curve

An early morning mishap today caused an estimated $10,100 property damage and sent a Raleigh man to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries he received when his car overturned.

Greenville Police said a car driven by Harold Hudson Weaver, 28, of Raleigh went out of control on a curve near the city limits on Dickinson Avenue some 221 feet west of Westwood Drive about 2:05 a.m. and traveled some 300 feet out of control—hitting three trees—before overturning and coming to rest upside down.

Damage to the Weaver car, a 1974 Lincoln Continental Mark IV, was set at $10,000, while damage to the trees was estimated at $100.

Weaver, the only occupant of the vehicle, was charged with failing to reduce speed while approaching a curve.

Most Report; Talks Resume

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It was back to the bargaining table again today in the National Football League labor dispute.

Negotiations were scheduled to resume in Washington this afternoon in the National Football League Players Association strike after veterans reported to training camps Wednesday under terms of a 14-day cooling off period.

Player representative Preston Pearson led Pittsburgh's returning veterans with handshakes and smiles punctuating the atmosphere at the Steelers' training camp.

"I don't think it got as emotional here as it did with some teams," said running back John Fuqua.

In Baltimore, 18 Colts veterans showed up only to be turned away by Coach Howard Shellenberger, who claimed logistical problems. "We can't handle this many players right now," he said. "We have to get rooms ready and things like that."

The Colts were told to come back later in the week but that's better than what happened to some other veterans, who were sent away for keeps.

New England placed quarterback Brian Dowling on waivers, sold tackle Jim Callier to Chicago and purchased punter Dave Lewis from Cincinnati. Lewis had refused to report to the Bengals.

Defensive end Carter Campbell of the New York Giants, who also said he wouldn't report until the strike was settled, was traded to Cleveland for tight end Chip Glass. San Francisco swapped tight end Dick Witcher and wide receiver John Isenbarger to Chicago for kick returner Cecil Turner. Cleveland also traded offensive linemen Bob Briggs and Bubba Pena to Kansas City.

Witcher, Isenbarger, Glass, Campbell and Dowling all have signed future contracts with the rival World Football League. Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick, two-thirds of Miami's celebrated trio of WFL jumpers, showed up at the Dolphins' camp. The third jumper, wide receiver Paul Warfield, was the lone missing Dolphin.

"The cooling off period indicates to me they've gotten pretty close to a settlement," said Csonka. "I'm looking forward to staying in camp. As it stands right now, I can see no possibility of a walkout in 14 days."

Mike Phipps, quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, agreed. "I can't speak for any of the other players," he said, "but I'm here to stay. I think it's about time to play football." Quarterback Joe Namath was among the New York Jets reporting vets and no sooner had he declared himself ready for Saturday's exhibition against the Giants than Coach Charlie Winner said Al Woodall would be playing.

"It's not fair to expect him to be ready," said Winner of Namath.

Blocking Complicated Job

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
"I often like to think that in order for linemen or any football player to play it takes a few qualities. I put them in this order: sight, movement, contact and second and third effort."

When East Carolina Offensive line coach Jim Fuller goes looking for offensive linemen, those are some of the things he hopes to find in a prospective player.

"We would like to recruit big strong offensive linemen, but the first thing we have got to find along with the size and the quickness and the potential to play is the fact that he has quick feet," said Fuller. "To play and compete in football you have got to have quick feet."

The most important thing Fuller feels he has to get his linemen to do is come off the ball. That is starting exactly the same instant the ball is centered to the quarterback. The next main objective is beating a one-one block. The wishbone relies more on other blocking schemes than one-one-one but it is often encountered.

"In order for an offensive lineman to make a block he has got to see who he is going to block. A player might be able to see a man and know which block he is going to use whether a drive block or one-one-one. He's got to move and if he doesn't move he isn't going to play."

"First he sees his opponent and the next thing, he's going to come off the ball, he's going to move to the man. We can teach these two things. . . and for the most part, you can work with a kid on his quickness. But contact and second and third effort has to be in the individual. If he has not got the ability to make contact with the guy, physical contact, it is awfully hard to play."

Fuller stressed that for an offensive lineman to play he has to make contact no matter what kind of block. The only way for an offensive lineman to improve, he said is through repeated contact work. He has to have it every time he lines up on the field. The next requirement is second and third effort, that force that keeps a player going beyond where he can't go.

"A lot of times we can take players who are unable to know for sure who to block and they might not be able to move off the ball and they might make contact but a guy with second and third effort is going to play."

Fuller said that while East Carolina is lacking the big lineman who is an outstanding player, the others make up for any lack of speed, strength, or ability by putting out, "the effort, they try every down and that's what we're looking for, guys that are willing to do what it takes to win."

But once Fuller has found his linemen he wonders what do they do in live situation?

Even on the simplest of running plays, each lineman has a possibility of using any one of 14 different blocks. Each play the offense runs will need each lineman doing a different block.

On a basic running play, every man on the field except the ball carrier is a blocker. "Our center will block the man over him," said Fuller. This means that the center blocks the man in front of him be it a lineman or a linebacker. "Our center's rule is 'o, which means a defensive man on his nose or back off the ball, inside, outside. Outside means the side the play is going to, outside to the other side."

If the play is going to the right, the guard will block the first man away from the center's man. This could be a defensive tackle or a linebacker. The right tackle will block the outside linebacker, wherever he is, inside the guard head-up or on the center.

This will let the defensive tackle through the line and he is one of the two keys to the option of the wishbone. If he comes inside, or towards the ball, the quarterback knows to go outside with it. If he should come outside, the quarterback can hand off to the fullback into the line. This is called reading because the quarterback is reading the defensive man's actions. The tight end will release and block one of the players who is coming up to make a tackle. The defensive tackle is not blocked.

The defensive end is another key; he determines whether the quarterback pitches to the halfback. If he goes outside, the quarterback can keep the ball; if he goes inside, then the ball goes to the back.

On the other side, the guard blocks straight ahead and the tackle releases downhill to help out there. From the front line to the back every one is blocking.

"It is an unselfish offense. Everybody is hitting on every play. Even the wide receivers," said Fuller.

On a pass, the blocking procedure is much the same. "All of our passes, with the exception of a few, are play-action passes which means we are going to make it look like a run as much as we can to free our receivers. This is the thing that makes it so effective. On our basic play-action pass it looks exactly like our base play off the veer."

If the defense continually comes up to stop the run, then the Pirate offense can come back with the same play and throw off it. The blocking is essentially the same except for the offside tackle who has to stay back and not go downhill.

Fuller is also in charge of the graduate assistants. The two helping Fuller are Fred Horeis, who graduated off the SC championship team last year, and Bill D'Andrea, who played at Indiana St. "Fred has been a real asset because he knows the people here, he played with them, he knows what they can and can't do." D'Andrea played both tight end and center.

They, along with Fuller, will divide up the linemen and make it easier for teaching purposes. "Fred will work with the offensive scout team. He will be able to work with the younger kids. Bill and myself will divide up and I'll take the side the play is going to and Bill will take the other side. On every play he will coach those two and I'll coach the others."

The two graduates will also help in scouting and some recruiting. This is the first time Fuller has worked with the wishbone type offense. "Not only has it been a learning experience for the players here but it has been a learning experience for me. "I feel fortunate to work with Coach Dye who has been with the wishbone for several years."

Beanball Contest In Atlanta Disillusioning

Atlanta's Craig Robinson, hit in the jaw by a pitch from Montreal's Dennis Blair Wednesday night, had more than his mouth bruised by the ball.

Although X rays showed that Robinson's jaw was not broken and he was able to return to Atlanta Stadium to see the end of the Braves' 6-1 triumph over the Montreal Expos, he was a very disillusioned young man.

"When I was lying there on the ground, there wasn't a thing I liked about major league baseball," said Robinson. "If that's major league baseball, I'm ashamed of it and don't want any part of it."

Immediately before Robinson was hit, Dusty Baker had slammed a three-run homer off Blair and Dave Johnson had hit a solo homer.

Then in the ninth, with the Braves holding a five-run lead and two out, Braves pitcher Carl Morton (who had just hit Tim Foli) received a warning and an automatic $50 fine.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York trimmed Los Angeles 3-2, San Francisco beat Philadelphia 6-4, Chicago edged Houston 6-5, Cincinnati nipped Pittsburgh 3-2 in 10 innings and St. Louis defeated San Diego 5-1.

Morton, 12-7, scattered eight hits to give the Braves their sixth consecutive victory, Atlanta's longest winning streak of the season.

Hank Aaron's two-run homer in the seventh capped Atlanta's scoring. It was his 16th home run of the season and 729th of his career.

Giants 6, Phils 4
Bobby Bonds' 17th home run of the season, a two-run shot with two out in the ninth, gave the Giants the victory over Philadelphia.

Mets 3, Dodgers 2
The Mets completed a three-game sweep over Los Angeles by scoring two runs in the ninth inning off the Dodgers' ace reliever, Mike Marshall. The tying run scored on Tom Paciorek's two-base error, the winning tally came on Rusty Staub's single.

Cubs 6, Astros 5
Chicago scored four runs in the first inning, then added two more in the seventh to snap an eight-game losing streak.

In the seventh, the Cubs extended their lead to 6-3.

Reds 3, Pirates 2
Cesar Geronimo's run-scoring double in the 10th inning boosted Cincinnati to victory.

Dave Concepcion singled to lead off the 10th and ended up on second when Willie Stargell couldn't field the ball cleanly. One out later, Geronimo delivered his RBI double.

Cardinals 5, Padres 1
Alan Foster's six-hit pitching helped the Cards move 1½ games in front of Philadelphia and 2½ in front of Pittsburgh in the NL East. Reggie Smith's 17th home run of the year, and his second in two games capped a five-run fifth inning burst.

He said he thought about joining the Jet picket lines, but was dissuaded by his lawyer, Jimmy Walsh. Then he thought about splitting with the union and showing up at camp.

"But I'm glad I didn't," Namath said.

Now that the NFLPA has told its troops to report to camp, Namath expects to stay here "unless something drastic happens. I'll do what the Association has ordered."

The 31-year-old superstar admitted that last season might have been his last season.

"I gave it a lot of thought at the season's end, when I went to Puerto Rico," Namath said. "I was not happy with the way the season went and I was hurt. I had a negative attitude. But one thing I couldn't get rid of at the time was wanting to play."

There were indications that he hoped he would begin his 10th season with the Jets this Saturday afternoon when they meet their intra-city rivals, the Giants.

But new Jet Coach Charlie Winner doesn't think Joe will play.

"It wouldn't be fair to expect him to be ready to play this Saturday and I won't take the guys who aren't ready."

And Namath, who is playing out the option year of his contract, hinted that he won't be with the Jets next year—or anybody else.

Namath Makes His Appearance

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath sashayed into camp about the time he usually does. Late.

But since more than 1,000 other players were also late reporting to their jobs, it wasn't such a big deal this time.

Namath, accompanied by his chauffeur and his attorney, reported to camp at 1:15, EDT, Wednesday. No one asked about the health of the lawyer or the chauffeur.

Namath, the Jets' injury-prone quarterback, said the separated shoulder that kept him out of most of New York's 1973 games was fine, the bad knees that have bothered him throughout his career were fine, but a severe hamstring pull was not.

Namath injured himself in a bizarre water skiing accident during a February vacation in the Bahamas.

Namath, who is paid an estimated $250,000 a season to endager his crippled body during the football season, said the hamstring trouble was "going away. I am now able to drop back and do my maneuvers while ball-handling, but I don't get back as fast as I have, and it bothers me when I sprint straight ahead."

Namath, who said he had been working out twice a day at the University of Alabama, had conflicting thoughts during the National Football League Players Association strike.

Golfing Winners

Joe and Peggy Hallow took first place in a "Dates & Mates" Better Ball of Pair Tournament held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. They carded a 29 with handicap.

Second place went to Al and Jan Woodworth with a net 30, while Reg and Betty Akin beat out Smith and Jean Creech in a playoff for third, after both finished with 31.

A Twilight Better Ball of Four for Dates and Mates will be held on Thursday, August 29, with a shotgun start at 5 p.m. Signups, by pairs, are now underway, and a dinner will follow the tournament.

Plans are also underway for the annual W. S. Moye Memorial Tournament, to be held August 31 through September 2 at the club. All members playing will be flighted by their handicap, but they may advance one flight upon request prior to the start of the tournament.

Players are to make up their own foursomes for Saturday and Sunday and get a starting time. For Monday's play, golfers will be paired and given starting times.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY REELE

Four former East Carolina University Pirates have been getting in plenty of playing time in the National Football League, but some of that is expected to change now that the veterans are reporting to camp.

The man who has gotten the most ink so far has been Buffalo Bills running back Carlester Crumpler, who in three pre-season games, has been the leading rusher on the team.

Crumpler has picked up 123 yards in 29 carries, a 4.2 yard average. He's also caught five passes for 40 yards. "He's been the starting tailback for us," a Buffalo spokesman told the Daily Reflector, "but we have a fellow by the name of Simpson coming in this week, and we understand that he's a pretty good runner." O.J., of course, became the first 2,000 yard single season rusher in history last year in the NFL, and is expected to have little trouble in retaining his job.

"Crumpler was hurt during our first game and didn't play much," the Buffalo spokesman said, "and he told me Tuesday night that he wasn't real pleased with the way he's been playing—that he'll really have to get to work now that the veterans are coming back."

Buffalo isn't committing itself to Crumpler as yet, but they do appear pleased with his work so far. Apparently he's destined to be Simpson's backup man.

Up in the same area is Carl Summerell, a rookie in the New York Giants camp. He's played right much in the two Giant games so far. Against Houston, he was 13 for 29 for 157 yards, and against New England, he tossed 16 or 33 for 185 yards and one touchdown. He's run twice for three yards.

Our only contact with the Giants, however, was through a secretary, who could tell us little beyond the statistics. No one else was in the office at the time we called. There have been reports that Summerell is the number three quarterback—behind Randy Johnson and Norm Snead—and that he was injured against New England, but we were unable to confirm these with the Giant office.

The only other rookie is San Francisco 49er Tom Frazier, who, according to our reports, appears the least likely to make the team now that the regulars are back. "He's played quite a bit," 49er publicity man George McFadden told us. "He got to run back a kickoff the other night, taking it three yards before handing it off to a regular runner."

"As a free agent, he's played quite a lot because of the strike, and getting a longer look than he would otherwise," he added. "He's been at offensive tackle from the start, and currently is the number three tackle in camp."

But that doesn't sound good, he admitted. "Our veterans in this position have been strong, and all are returning. I'd really have to say that Frazier's chances are not too good—he's a longshot."

The lone ECU veteran is Dallas Cowboys' running back Les Strayhorn, who did report, despite the strike, and has been doing well.

In the two games of the Cowboys so far, he's run the ball 15 times for 78 yards, a 5.2 yard per carry average. He's also caught four passes for 94 yards, including a 69-yarder that set up a touchdown against the Rams in the last game. He hasn't scored as yet, but apparently, Les appears in good shape to remain with the Cowboys unless he happens to be traded.

Another former East Carolinian is returning to the East. It has been announced that former ECU basketball coach Wendell Carr has been appointed athletic director and associate professor of physical education at Campbell College.

Carr was the coach at East Carolina during the final years as an independent and in the first year of actual Southern Conference competition. He resigned following the 1965-66 campaign, and Tom Quinn replaced him. Quinn, as most everyone knows, was relieved of his duties this spring, and is now in Europe coaching a semi-pro team.

Base-Running Causes Texas To Drop Game

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Rangers died with their boots Wednesday night. They made a lot of base-running mistakes and lost a 6-5 decision to the Milwaukee Brewers.

Three of their runners were thrown out trying to steal second, another was out trying to go from first to third on a single and still another was nailed at home.

Even an attempt suicide squeeze blew up in the Rangers' faces.

"That's the first time I've seen anything like that," said Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall.

Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter was responsible for a lot of the Texas frustration. He threw out the three runners trying to steal, tagged one out sliding home on a great throw from right-fielder Dave May and contributed a big double in the eighth.

"It's the best game I've played this year," said Porter.

In other American League games, the Minnesota Twins edged the Cleveland Indians 1-0; the Baltimore Orioles stopped the Chicago White Sox 5-4; the Kansas City Royals whipped the Detroit Tigers 9-1; the California Angels blanked the Boston Red Sox 5-0 and the New York Yankees trimmed the Oakland A's 4-1.

Porter doubled home the tying run in the eighth inning and scored on Tim Johnson's pinch single to provide Milwaukee's win.

Twins 1, Indians 0
Led by the combined four-hit pitching of Joe Decker and Bill Campbell, Minnesota blanked Cleveland. The Twins scored their run in the top of the seventh when Glenn Borgmann hit a fly to deep left field, scoring Bobby Darwin from third.

Orioles 5, White Sox 4
Brian Downing's run-scoring single in the eighth inning lifted Chicago over Baltimore. Bill Melton, leading off the eighth, was hit by a pitch from Doyle Alexander, 5-9. He was sacrificed to second and scored on Downing's single.

Ken Henderson drove in the first three Chicago runs with a first inning single and a two-run homer in the sixth, his 14th.

Royals 9, Tigers 1
Steve Busby fired a five-hitter and Kansas City scored six runs in the first inning, three on Tony Solaita's homer, and went on to defeat Detroit. The victory was the Royals' sixth in their last seven outings, while the Tigers have dropped five of their last six.

Angels 5, Red Sox 0
Rookie Frank Tanana stopped Boston on seven hits, pitching the California Angels to a 5-0 victory over the Red Sox.

Storm Hasn't Even Been A Gentle Breeze

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Dick Coury, coach of the winless Portland Storm, indulged in a little post-game analysis Wednesday night after watching his team absorb a 28-16 thumping at the hands of the New York Stars.

"They beat the devil out of us," said Coury. "We simply do not have a very good football team and we're not improving."

New York quarterback Tom Sherman got the Stars rolling early by throwing for two touchdowns and running for another as the Stars built a 30-0 halftime lead. Sherman shared Coury's opinion of the Storm.

Elsewhere in the WFL, Birmingham rocked Hawaii 39-0, Chicago shaded Philadelphia 32-29, Florida defeated Jacksonville 33-26 and Memphis whipped Detroit 37-7.

Southern California is at Houston in tonight's television game.

Sherman completed 11 of 18 passes for 144 yards for New York, including touchdown tosses of 20 and three yards to George Sauer. Sauer hauled in seven passes for 92 yards.

The Storm is 0-5-1 while New York has won four straight after dropping the first two. About 14,000 paying fans saw the game.

Birmingham 39, Hawaii 0
The Americans, scoring from long range, maintained their position as the WFL's only unbeaten team. Willie Smith raced 81 yards on a punt return and George Mira teamed with Alfred Jenkins on a 95-yard pass play for a pair of Birmingham TDs. The Hawaiians, who had four passes intercepted, fell to 1-5.

A crowd of 43,297 paid watched the game in Birmingham.

Chicago 32, Philadelphia 29
Quarterback Virgil Carter threw an 11-yard touchdown pass to Jack Dolbin with 1:34 remaining to give the Fire its fifth victory in six tries. Cyril Pinder and Mark Kellar rushed for a combined 263 yards for the winners. King Corcoran threw for two TDs and ran for a third for the Bell.

Announced paid attendance in Chicago was 27,607.

Florida 33, Jacksonville 26
Jim Strong scored twice on short runs and halfback Tommy Reamon hooked up with Matt Maslowski on a 51-yard pass play for Florida. The Blazers, 5-1, lead the Eastern Division. Jacksonville rookie Reggie Oliver ran for one TD and passed seven yards to Tom Whittier for another.

Attendance at the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando was announced at 21,212 paid.

Memphis 37, Detroit 7

J.J. Jennings ran for 113 yards on 24 carries for the Southmen, who raised their record to 4-2. Willie Spencer scored on a pair of one-yard runs for Memphis. Bubba Wyche sneaked one yard for the lone Detroit score. The Wheels are now 0-6.

The game was played before 14,424 fans in Ypsilanti, Mich. and Wheel's officials said "a handful" of complimentary tickets had been given out.

Mazda's rotary engine licensed by NSU-WANKEL

The car of the future will be smaller on the outside, and larger on the inside.

Like the Mazda of today.

Smaller cars are here to stay. But that doesn't mean you have to give up the comfort of a larger car.

Consider the Mazda RX-4. The two-door hardtop gives you about as much headroom and legroom as a Monte Carlo. Yet it's 41 inches shorter. And the RX-4 doesn't just give you the comfort of a larger car. It also gives you the performance of one.

Mazda's rotary engine delivers power and smoothness on a par with many larger engines. With the fuel economy and efficiency you'd expect from a small car. All in all, the difference between the Mazda RX-4 and most large cars is the difference between room for comfort. And room for improvement.

Mazda's rotary engine is about 2/3 the size of a typical six-cylinder engine.

Marshall Expected To Show At State

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—Running back Elijah Marshall, torn between the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Southeastern Conference, was expected to show up today in a North Carolina State Wolfpack uniform for the first day of the season.

Marshall, a Whitsett resident who played for Gibsonville High School, became the center of contention between the two conferences after he signed athletic grants-in-aid at both Tennessee and N. C. State.

Athletic directors from the two schools met in Greensboro Tuesday to discuss the situation but ACC Commissioner Bob James observed, "First of all, it's a decision for the young man."

A spokesman in the sports department of the Greensboro Daily News said Wednesday night Marshall had told reporters he was going to N. C. State.

Marshall was reported to have joined another N. C. State recruit, Johnny Evans of High Point Andrews High, for the trip to Raleigh.

N. C. State football officials scheduled a news conference for noon today and also planned a picture session for players later in the day.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 16, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Put your most creative ideas in operation. You can charm others into doing almost anything you wish and gain their cooperation in helping you have self-expression.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal day and p.m. to have fun at whatever is of an artistic and cultural nature and to be with congenials you really like.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your dwelling and see how to make it look more attractive. Establish more harmony with kin thereby. Study some new interest further before acting for best results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show good friends how much you admire them and you get fine response. Communicating with those out of town can bring fine results, also.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You need more money and can have it if you plan properly on how to get it. Confer with business partners, but don't invest unwisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are charming and magnetic today and can make a fine impression. Join with congenials at the amusements that most please you. Don't jeopardize your good name.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Sit down and think over just what you most want to accomplish and then take positive, direct methods in such direction. Give service. Have fun tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want a good friend to cooperate with you in gaining some personal aim, but be specific about your reason. Then get together with good pals for congenial pursuits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the public or career affairs that are important to your welfare now and put aside recreation for the time being.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study new ideas carefully before acting on them, or you could get into big trouble. Listen to associate, but follow only the best advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Rid yourself of drawbacks where money and partners are concerned. You can better understand mate's views now. Show others how much you appreciate them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Discuss your mutual projects with a partner, learn where you stand, and good things result. You can reach a better understanding with others, also.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to make your abode more charming and have more harmony, culture there than in the past. Discuss mutual work with fellow workers for greater efficiency.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will need much encouragement early to bring out the fine talents in this chart, then the life becomes successful. Slant education along lines of public works, or whatever has real breadth and scope to it. Make sure you give the right training at home early to set the pattern for life. Sports are a natural here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Struck Back At Mother-In-Law

ISTANBUL (AP) — Mothers-in-law can be hard to take, and Istanbul restaurateur Ismail Arduc found his especially difficult. When she finally persuaded her daughter to leave him after only nine months of marriage, Arduc thought up a revenge.

He had 1,000 handbills printed advertising the opening of a new brothel — at his mother-in-law's address — and distributed them on the streets of Istanbul.

The good lady, appalled by her stream of unwelcome callers, informed the police and Arduc has been arrested on a charge of defamation of character.

JCPenney

Caution!

If you have a
26" or 27" JCPenney bike
"made in Austria"
it may have a safety problem.

Please check your JCPenney bike immediately. If it has a decal that says "made in Austria" and the front fork is not chrome plated, there is a potential problem.

If you have such a bike, we urge you to bring it in as soon as possible. We will replace the front fork at no cost to you.

As carefully as JCPenney checks the quality of the merchandise it offers, a problem has developed which might make these bicycles unsafe in use.

We started selling these bikes in the Fall of 1972. If you have one, bring it in to the nearest JCPenney store selling bicycles or to the in-store catalog sales center where it was purchased.

And if you're at all uncertain whether or not your JCPenney bike requires a new fork, please contact us.

We first made this announcement on May 16. While we've gotten back a number of bikes, we want to make certain we get yours, if it requires replacement.

We're sorry to inconvenience you. But our reputation for quality has been hard earned over many years. And we intend to keep it.

U.S. Friend In Japan Is Losing Votes

By ROBERT CRABBE
TOKYO, July 20 (UPI) — Japan is America's only strong ally in Asia, but the alliance now depends on a crumbling political party supported by less than half the Japanese people.

For the last 22 years the U.S. Government's big friend in Japan has been the ruling Liberal-Democratic Party (LDP). It is anti-Communist, business oriented, and usually ready to cooperate with Washington's policies in Asia.

The LDP has won all the elections for Parliament since 1952, and its leaders have run the country. They let the Pentagon keep 60,000 American troops on Japanese soil and base the U.S. 7th Fleet at Yokosuka on Tokyo Bay.

They provide a business climate that has drawn more than $2 billion into American investments in Japan, and fostered the largest overseas trade between any two countries in the world.

President Nixon numbers two former LDP prime ministers, Nobusuke Kishi and Eisaku Sato, among his friends.

Now Uncle Sam no longer is a position to take the LDP—and Japan—for granted. The party's strength in the Diet (parliament) and its voter support are slipping.

Before the end of the 1970s it could well be replaced by a coalition of opposition parties dedicated to ending—or at least whittling down—Japan's partnership with the United States.

The Japanese voters' desertion of LDP has been going on steadily for years. In the general election for Parliament in 1960, the party was backed by 57.5 per cent of the electorate.

In voting July 7 for the largely ceremonial upper house of Parliament, LDP candidates were able to win only 44.34 per cent of the votes cast. The party lost seven seats, and its majority fell to one.

In the 491 seat lower house—the one that really counts—LDP was able to win a 25 seat majority in the last election in 1972. But that was a big reduction from its majorities in the past. There is little optimism at LDP headquarters about in next lower house election, which must take place before the end of 1976.

These setbacks come despite the fact that LDP, whose bills are paid by Japan's big corporations, has far more money to spend than any other party.

It might well have been ousted before this by four opposition parties, had they been able to drop their mutual quarreling and agree on a common strategy.

The Socialist and Communist parties are Marxist, opposed to the American role in Asia. They want a Socialist Japan. The other two, Komei and Democratic Socialist, are reformers rather than revolutionaries. But their long range goal is a neutral Japan, not tied to any of the great powers.

There are no signs that the United States has worked out any alternative to relying on the LDP. In all of non-Communist Asia, American policy tends to paint itself into a corner by over-reliance on close ties with the people at the top.

The large staff at the U.S. Embassy in Tokyo and its translation department supply torrents of information on Japanese intellectual and political trends to Washington, but how much of it percolates to the top is hard to tell.

U.S. policy makers were caught flat footed on the 1960 riots against the U.S. Japan Security Treaty. They certainly miscalculated the Japanese reaction to Nixon's secret diplomacy with China.

"China isn't an issue to anybody in Japan except a few editorial writers for Tokyo newspapers," a high embassy official told newsmen in a briefing shortly before Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's first visit to China in 1971. By mid-1972 Japan had recognized China and cut its diplomatic ties with Taiwan.

New winds are blowing through Tokyo today. The Japanese people have surprised Uncle Sam a number of times in the postwar era. And if not listened to they could surprise him again.

In 1905, the Ottawa Silver Seven retained Hockey's Stanley Cup by defeating the Dawson City Klondikers, 9-2 and 23-2.

The Worry Clinic A Recoil From Overkill Logic

Alan's survey of 162 students shows the hazard of "overkill," which results in "emotional recoil." Good editors know just when to change the front page menu and quit serving a rehash. People are more interested in their family than in Washington!

students in my various classes, 138 reported that their parents were nauseated by the very word Watergate in a front page headline.

"Yet over half of my students come from homes where the parents are registered as Democrats.

"So isn't it possible to 'overkill,' as it were, and change a potential political asset into a liability?"

Emotional Recoil
Dr. Raymond Dodge, former president of the American Psychological Association was one of my graduate school professors while I attended Yale.

And he stressed what he termed "emotional recoil."

This often results from what Prof. Alan calls "overkill."

For we human beings can become nauseated even by good things if they are forced upon us too long.

You Bible scholars will thus remember that the Hebrews criticized Moses because they lacked food.

So Moses said God would feed them with Manna, which proved true.

But it wasn't long till they became "fed up" with Manna and bemoaned the fact they weren't back in slavery in Egypt, for they said then they enjoyed the fleshpots of Egypt. When they threatened to mutiny against Moses, he besought God, who informed Moses that the people's complaint had been duly recorded and God was sending them flocks of quails.

But God also told Moses to warn the people that they'd ultimately be so nauseated by a heavy meat diet that it would come out of their noses!

Which proved true. For emotional recoil occurs regarding print and TV menus as well as the dinner table variety.

Even the modern "anti-establishment" attitude on the part of many youth, is but a form of recoil against dictatorial parents who forced conservative business doctrines upon them so steadily that they revolted.

On college campuses, too, we often find that the worst hellions, who sneak cases of beer into dormitories and flaunt moral regulations, are the sons of strict clergymen who employ "overkill" in their preaching about temperance.

One reason for the popularity of "middle-of-the-road" political candidates, in contrast to the extremists on the right as well as the left, is this recoil to "overkill."

During this period of severe newsprint shortages, it might thus have been better journalist "horse sense" to have buried the Washington stories in inside pages, especially after the first "shock" reaction of the initial front page headlined scoops.

For a scoop is only at its 100 percent peak the first day; then drops rapidly to a much lower reader interest score than such advice features as this "Worry Clinic."

In fact, my cases dealing with stodgy wives who fail to serve delectable boodier cheesecake, would have rated far greater readership than Watergate rehash, if run side by side with the latter on Page One!

Georgia Twitty Serves Nashville

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Hollywood has Rona Barrett to keep track of that town's world's famous, near-famous and infamous. But who is on duty in Nashville? Georgia Twitty, that's who.

A cheerful, pleasant-voiced lady of 40, she runs "Georgia Twitty's Music City Hotline," a radio gossip show that covers events and personalities in Nashville's pop and country music scene.

It's been on the air five years. By her count, it currently is heard on 104 stations. She tapes 18 one-minute shows per week.

Miss Twitty, a native of Florence, Ala., who said she was educated at Randolph-Macon College in Lynchburg, Va., and at Memphis State, says she doesn't try to spice her show with lurid stories about the stars.

For one thing, it might anger the stars' fans. For another, she says, "I think the country music audience, even though it's pretty cosmopolitan nowadays, is tired of 'who is sleeping with whom.'"

She says the fans tend to prefer detailed reports on the more innocent aspects of life among country music performers — what they eat, what sports they like, how they dress at home and so forth.

But she says she also chronicles stronger stuff, such as Music City feuds or romances. The latter, she adds, always are handled obliquely when the parties involved in the romancing are married to other parties.

Her pet peeve, she says, is a tendency of some country music performers to suddenly get religion amid much fanfare when they've gone without a hit record for several years.

In most cases, she says, this is purely a publicity ploy aimed at reviving a fading career. To the less sophisticated fans, she says, this approach "gets 'em in the gut every time."

How does she compare herself with Hollywood's Rona Barrett?

"I think we're both knowledgeable about our work," said Miss Twitty.

Opening lead: Queen of ♠
When this deal was played in a national championship, most pairs reached a contract of three no trump, though there were quite a few in four hearts. For the most part, neither contract was successful. However, after the lead of the queen of diamonds, four hearts was virtually a sure-trick contract. Cover up the East-West hands if you like, or treat the hand as a double dummy problem and see if you can take ten tricks at a heart contract.

You have seven tricks going in, and the total rises to nine if the jack of hearts is guarded no more than twice. Most declarers ruffed the opening lead, drew three rounds of trumps, discovering that they had a loser in the suit, and then tried either to endplay or squeeze West in the black suits. But all their efforts were doomed to fail.

The key to the play is taking a trick with the nine-eight of trumps in dummy. Together, they are equal to the jack and represent a sure trick if they can be utilized. To accomplish this, declarer must play a dummy reversal, using his trumps for ruffing and dummy's to draw trumps. His aim is to take five ruffs in his hand, ace-king in both spades and clubs, and a trump trick in dummy.

If you have worked that out, move to the top of the class. You ruff the opening lead and enter dummy twice with the ace and king of spades, and ruff two more diamonds. Next, use the ace and king of clubs as entries to ruff dummy's last two diamonds. You have accomplished your purpose. You have won the first nine tricks and used all your trumps for ruffing.

Now you can exit with any card you choose. Dummy still has intact the nine-eight of trumps, and since these cards represent a sure trick, you have fulfilled your contract.

Policeman Head Deeds Of A Cycle Club

By KATHLEEN PALM BREWER, Maine (UPI) — Chuck Shuman is a big, black-haired man with broad shoulders who likes nothing better than to get out on the road with his 500cc Yamaha beneath him. He's also a cop and has just become president of a new motorcycle club boasting 35 charter members that's causing quite a stir.

Shuman is president of the "Blue Knights."

"We thought it was about time somebody got rid of the Hell's Angels motorcycle image. You have to be a fulltime policeman to be a Blue Knight," Sgt. Shuman said.

The Blue Knights were born when the sergeant and some of his riding buddies from the Brewer and Bangor police departments realized how many policemen own their own bikes.

"We thought we'd start the club for the pleasure of the officers and their families, and have outings and trips," Shuman said. "Then we realized we could perform a public service and give lectures on motorcycle safety, and the thing really took off."

"I personally ride a 500cc Yamaha, but we have all kinds —250's, 350's, 750's—right up to the biggest Harley-Davidson made," he said.

"There are so many people riding these days—not just kids but older people too. We feel people are going to have to become more aware of motorcycles than they are now, because cycles are getting more and more popular all the time," he said.

"They're fun and inexpensive to run, especially good in this era of gas shortages," he added.

The Blue Knights recently made their first trip together, and Shuman spent only $4.45 for 350 miles' worth of gasoline, including the full-up when he got home.

"It was excellent," Shuman said. "Fifteen of us went up to Calais, then we toured around New Brunswick and St. Andrews-By-The-Sea. The front and back men carried portable radios so everybody could keep in touch the whole time."

"When we pulled into Machias, the gas station attendant said, 'Gee, you guys must be that policeman motorcycle club.' We thought that was great because, naturally, we didn't have our police uniforms on," he said.

"We're in the process of getting some real nice patches made up that say 'The Blue Knights,' and we'll have blue and white jackets made for all the members. Then we hope the public will recognize us on our outings or whatever, and if they need help on the road they can turn to us," he said.

Shuman said eventually the group will give an annual award to the member who does something outstanding while off duty. Club members are making themselves available to lecture at schools or civic groups on safety or laws involving motorcycle use.

Shuman said he backs the new state law requiring that motorcyclists keep their headlight on at all times, though the legislation was fought by some cycle groups.

Shuman says if a rider respects his bike and drives it as he should, the motorcycle is a safe machine. He is enthusiastic about another new law that will require driver education certification next year for anyone who wants a motorcycle license.

"People are going to have to become more aware of bikes, because they're a coming thing," he said.

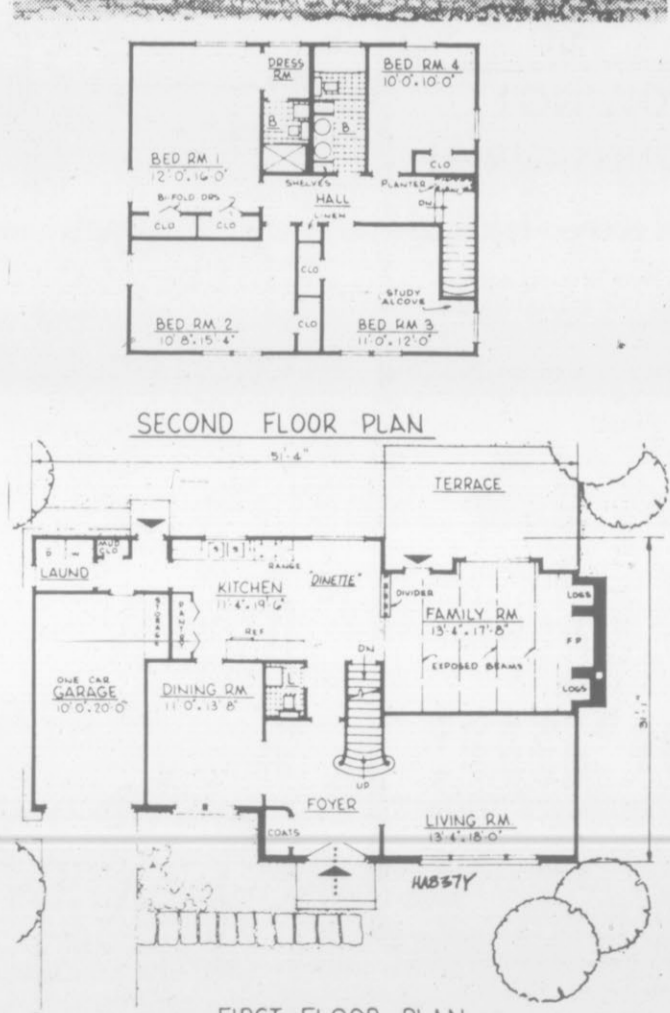

"We'd like to make this a national club if we could. I wish you'd put in your story that I'd like any policeman interested in joining to write to me, Sgt. Charles Shuman of the Blue Knights, in care of the Brewer police department."

"All we're trying to do is show that the police are human, too. We're not just out to hassle people riding bikes—hell, we love to ride them too."

TAKES SUMMER LEAVE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jaye Evangelista, news production assistant for WBC-TV, Boston, is on summer leave to participate in the overseas training program of the British Broadcasting Corp. She is the first American so chosen, taking the television production course of 14 weeks, followed by a month of observation at BBC.

SOUND STAGES TO TENNIS—This is an interior and exterior view of the Hollywood Indoor Tennis Club, which used to be a movie sound stage. (AP Wirephoto)

Old Sound Stages Now Echo To Tennis Noises

By BOB THOMAS
 Associated Press Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — On the stages where Glenn Ford once romanced Rita Hayworth there is a new kind of love game — tennis.

The question of what to do with Hollywood's empty movie stages is being answered, temporarily at least, by capitalizing on the tennis boom.

At least two studios that once bustled with cowpokes and dancing girls are now welcoming white-shirted tennis enthusiasts.

First into the field was the Hollywood Indoor Tennis Club, which rented the back part of the Columbia Studios, vacated when Columbia moved to Warner Brothers.

Resident pro and manager is Allen Tong, onetime captain of the University of Southern California tennis team.

"We run a 24-hour operation here," said Tong, displaying the two handsome courts that occupied a sound stage. "A lot of our members play at 2 and 3 in the morning. I start giving lessons at 6."

The courts are often occupied in the early morning hours by music stars seeking to unwind after late recording sessions and actors relaxing after night filming.

Why are actors playing tennis instead of movie scenes on the stages? Because few features are being made in Hollywood nowadays, young directors preferring to shoot on location. Television filming is also greatly diminished.

Tong's club has attracted many show biz personalities, and for some of them, it's a sentimental trip. Barbra Streisand whacks the ball in the same precincts where she belted "People" in "Funny Girl."

Other members are Bill Cosby, Sidney Poitier, Johnny Carson, Gene Kelly and Jim Brown.

Some of the club's 500 members own their own courts. Then why would they join a tennis club?

Some can't play in the sun, Tong explained. Others like the privacy and novelty of playing under controlled conditions indoors.

Members pay $250 a year and rent courts from $6 to $10 an hour, depending on what time they play.

The International Studio Tennis Club is a few blocks away on Cahuenga Avenue. It occupies half of the original Motion Picture Center studio. The other half is used by a storage company.

Motion Picture Center originated as an independent studio in the boom days right after World War II and went through metamorphoses as Enterprise, Desilu, Paramount TV and finally Cinema General.

The head of the International Studio Tennis Club is Clarence Ross, who reports a "very good" response to the membership drive.

"Indoor tennis is new to California," remarked Ross. "People say, 'We have such wonderful weather here, why play indoors?'"

The only true bass in Missouri are the white and yellow bass. Largemouth and smallmouth bass are not true bass, but are in the sunfish family.

First Crisis In The Four-Day-Old Ford Presidency

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the minutes before midnight, the white telephone beside his bed rang and Gerald R. Ford found himself facing the first crisis of his four-day-old presidency.

Henry A. Kissinger was calling from home. In a deep voice still shaded with traces of his native Germany, the secretary of state reported on events half a world away:

The Greek-Turkish peace talks in Geneva had collapsed, and the fragile cease-fire on Cyprus had been shattered by large-scale Turkish air and ground attacks.

It was a genuine, high-stakes international crisis—the kind Richard M. Nixon had thrived on. But four days earlier, Nixon had become a private citizen and Ford the President. Now the white telephone was beside Ford's bed.

A reconstruction of Ford's actions and reactions, based on interviews with White House and other administration officials, discloses that:

—He leaned heavily on Kissinger, repeatedly seeking his advice while "making all the decisions himself," one close aide said.

—His first person-to-person diplomacy via trans-Atlantic telephone calls developed almost accidentally.

—He kept a busy, domestically oriented schedule even while dealing with the international crisis.

The first public indication in Washington that a crisis was brewing came late Tuesday night when Kissinger and Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco were called from the table at the Egyptian embassy, where they were at a dinner honoring visiting Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy.

Sometime between 11 p.m. and midnight, Kissinger made his first call to Ford at his home in suburban Virginia.

The secretary reported that he had received messages that fierce fighting was likely on Cyprus, and that the U.N. Security Council was being called into emergency session in New York.

Kissinger telephoned updated information to Ford in the hours before dawn while Sisco met with Turkish ambassador Melih Esenbel at 4 a.m. to voice deep U.S. concern over the Cyprus developments.

Reporters waiting across the street from the suburban home—Ford won't move into the White House until next week—said the President seemed hurried but not harried when he stepped outside at 7:30 a.m.

The reporters shouted questions. Ford walked toward them, smiled and said good morning, and gave a few answers: He said he and Kissinger had "conferred about the matter last night" and that "I have to go ... meet with the secretary at the White House."

Newspapers and manila envelopes tucked under his arms, a briefcase in his hand, he stepped into the back seat of the black limousine for the 13-minute drive to the White House.

His first meeting, beginning minutes after his 7:46 a.m. arrival, was not with Kissinger but with Maj. Gen. Brent Scowcroft, deputy assistant to the President for national security affairs, and a Central Intelligence Agency representative.

They carried large maps into the Oval Office to brief the President on the military developments. An hour later, Kissinger briefed Ford on the political developments.

The United States was in a delicate diplomatic situation. Great Britain, not the United States, is the guarantor of the 1960 Cyprus independence agreement. Thus, it was London, not Washington, which was supervising Greek-Turkish talks.

But Kissinger and Nixon had been powerful, behind-the-scenes forces in shaping the now-shattered cease-fire, and now Kissinger and Ford were pressing to have it patched up.

While the secretary was with Ford, British Foreign Minister James Callaghan returned a call Kissinger had placed to him earlier. The call was routed into the Oval Office and the veteran British diplomat found himself speaking to a President new at diplomacy.

While they talked it was decided that it would be diplomatic for the U.S. chief of state also to talk to the British chief of state, so a follow-up call was placed to Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

From these calls and conferences flowed a statement of the U.S. position: The use of force is deplored. Only through negotiations can peace be restored. If the two nations resort to war, U.S. military aid to both will be cut off.

The public position was backed up by private messages to the capitals involved, but contents of these weren't disclosed.

While arrangements were made for an afternoon meeting of the Washington Special Action Group, a panel of crisis-managing senior officials, Ford was turning to other matters.

One aide who saw Ford several times throughout the day said, "there was no panic. There was an air of concern, but nobody was frantic or tense. There was a job to be done ..."

Finally, it was 7:36 p.m. A shaky cease-fire had been declared in the capital of Nicosia. The President's 12-hour work day was over and it was time to go home to the suburbs for dinner. As Ford stepped toward his limousine on the White House driveway, a reporter asked how he thought he had weathered his first international crisis.

"I think we handled it all right," he answered.

Marijuana Farmer Watched, Charged

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—Between the corn and the peas was the pot.

Hiding in the woods on pot watch were detectives Art Guertin and Bill Richards, swatting giant mosquitos and waiting for the marijuana farmer.

The itching and the sweating paid off about 9:45 Wednesday morning.

Down one of the footpaths leading to the half-dozen sections of marijuana plants pedaled a young man on a bicycle.

"He walked to the well in the middle of the sections," said Guertin, a narcotics detective. "And got some water in one of the two five-gallon buckets he had. Then he proceeded to do some watering and some tilling, and he even picked a little."

That was enough for Guertin and Richards, who had spent most of the night lying on sleeping bags in the weeds armed with pistols and insect repellent.

They arrested Howard John Anderson, 24, on charges of possessing and manufacturing marijuana.

After dropping Anderson off at police headquarters to be booked, Guertin returned Wednesday afternoon to help harvest the crop for evidence.

The site is less than a mile from the North Carolina line just west of Back Bay.

"There are corn fields on one side and peas on the other," Guertin said. "The marijuana sections, most of them about 12 feet in diameter, were in cleared-off spots in the woods. It was a pretty neat little hideaway farm."
