

Water, Sewer Rates Increased

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor
Utilities commissioners Tuesday night approved increases in water and sewer rates to take effect Sept. 1. The water rate increase would bring in an additional $47,597 based on a full fiscal year projections. The increase in revenues would be 7.5 percent.

Sewer increase in revenues, based on a 12 month fiscal year, would be $89,752. The percent increase is 21.5.

For the average small user the monthly bill for water and sewer will increase by 56 cents; the average users increase is 65 cents; medium and large users, 70 cents.

A typical commercial user water and sewer bill will increase by $55 and a typical industrial user's, $224. There was more bad news for consumers in the form of a letter from Virginia Electric and Power Co., GUCO's supplier that it intends to request an increase in wholesale rates. The letter said the request will be filed with the Federal Power Commission around Oct. 7 to be effective Jan. 7, 1975.

A bid from So-Par Utilities Co. for construction of water lines to serve the industrial area north of the river and the new Pitt Memorial Hospital area were approved. The low bid was $192,237. Also approved was a bid from Hastings Ford to furnish two trucks at a total cost of $5,586. The bid was less insurance payment for an old truck which was wrecked. Commissioners accepted the payment from Summit Insurance Co. of a performance bond bid of $60,914.75. The payment involved a utilities line being constructed to the Singleton

Partial Rollback

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors announced today that in response to a request by President Ford it will partially roll back a planned price increase for 1975 cars. GM said it would reduce the scheduled increase by an average $54 from the previously announced figure.

The auto maker's action had been predicted by the Detroit Free Press in a dispatch from its Washington bureau.

The newspaper said the President had indicated the move was coming when he conferred at the White House with leaders from the House and Senate.

building on N. Greene. Another contractor has begun work on the project.

Commissioners tabled a request for transferral of insurance to Tadlock Insurance Agency, pending a study of all the Utilities insurance needs.

Action was tabled on a proposal to rent unused space in the Utilities building to the local office of the N. C. Department of Veterans Affairs.

Commissioners voted to keep salaries of top officials as they have been approved, after hearing a request from the City Council to lower them in accordance with city positions.

Commissioners approved a preferred rate for natural gas for Pitt Memorial Hospital and approved a one cent per million cubic feet rate increase for gas effective Sept. 1.

Branch Is OK'd

The Bank of Winterville has received final approval from the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. to establish a new branch on Memorial Drive here.

The new office, the bank's second facility in Greenville, will be located on the southeast corner of Memorial Drive and Farmville Boulevard with a 701 Memorial Drive address, according to W. C. Glidewell Jr., Bank of Winterville executive vice president.

Glidewell said that construction of the new branch, which will be similar in design to the present Greenville office, is expected to begin shortly with completion aimed for the first of the year.

The northwest branch will be a full service facility, he reported, offering a convenient drive-in feature. The new office will have some 3,000 square feet of space, the official added.

The branch will be the Bank of Winterville's third facility. Glidewell pointed out, and will be the first bank in the Farmville Boulevard area.

EMBASSY ATTACKED

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—About 200 demonstrators stormed the shuttered Japanese Embassy today and tore the embassy sign from the building. They were protesting Tokyo's disclaimers of moral or legal responsibility for the attempted assassination of President Chung Hee Park.

Dr. Christopher Fordham, dean of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine at Chapel Hill said yesterday that UNC planners are evaluating clinical facilities in the Greenville area in an effort to determine how best to expand the medical school at East Carolina University.

Clinical teaching facilities, according to officials, are necessary for more than 50 per cent of the medical courses after the first year. The 1974 General Assembly

'Alphabet Bomb' Suspect Nabbed In Los Angeles

By MIKE GOODKIND
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Yugoslavian immigrant with a record of sex offenses has been arrested for investigation of murder, and police say he is the "alphabet bomber" whose deadly charges have killed three persons.

Police and the FBI said Muharem Kurbegovic, 31, was taken into custody on Tuesday night after he planted a tape recording in a trash can in a rest room at a Hollywood take-out restaurant.

They said Kurbegovic was the man who identified himself in telephone calls and other tape recordings as "Issac Rasim," military leader of an organization he called Aliens of America.

He was called the alphabet bomber after threatening to spell out the group's name "in blood" unless immigration and sex laws were repealed.

William A. Sullivan, assistant director of the FBI in charge of the Los Angeles office, said Kurbegovic was apparently acting alone and "at this time it would be my opinion that there is no such group as the Aliens of America."

Police said Kurbegovic, who had been employed until this week at a blueprint company in Los Angeles, was unarmed and offered no resistance when he was arrested.

Kurbegovic, who has light, curly, short hair, was marched past newsmen at police headquarters and booked in connection with an Aug. 6 blast at Los Angeles International Airport that killed three persons and injured 35.

Last Friday night, in response to a warning from the man who called himself Isaac Rasim, police found a 25-pound bomb planted in a locker in a downtown bus station. The device was disarmed.

After Kurbegovic's arrest, police aided by bomb-sniffing dogs searched his Hollywood apartment and hauled away what they described as a large cache of chemicals and explosives.

They said the haul included numerous bottles of clear liquids, several cans of gunpowder, a large spool of electrical wire, a cassette tape recorder, a gas mask and a number of books on how to make bombs. Police would not say what the clear liquid was, but they said all of the material found could be used in making a large quantity of powerful explosives.

Living Cost In July Inched Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living rose eight-tenths of a per cent in July despite an easing in the increase in food prices, the government said today.

The July report marked only the second time this year the monthly increase in the government's Consumer Price Index has been less than 1 per cent.

The July increase would amount to an annual rate of inflation of 9.6 per cent, still ahead of last year's 8.8 per cent inflation rate.

Prices as of July 31 were 11.8 per cent higher than in July 1973, the government said. That is the biggest 12-month jump since the year ending September 1947, when the increase was 12.6 per cent.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said, however, workers managed to gain ground last month in their race with inflation.

Spendable earnings, after taking account for inflation, moved up by two-tenths of 1 per cent.

But since it was only the second monthly increase this year, real spendable earnings were 5.3 per cent less than a year earlier. The major factors pushing up prices in July, the department said, were higher interests costs for home buyers and higher prices on cars, medical care and restaurant meals.

The increase in prices for regular gasoline showed from six-tenths of a penny in June to a two-tenths of a cent jump in July. The latest national average price worked out to 55.8 cents a gallon.

Food prices actually rose by one-tenth of one per cent. But because they usually rise much more in July, the Labor Department adjusted the change for seasonal variation. The result was a four-tenths of one per cent drop as far as the government's index is concerned.

The price of beef, dairy products, eggs and fresh fruits, which normally rise in July, declined.

Fresh vegetable prices declined even more than usual. Grocery store prices increased on poultry, pork, sugar and sweets and cereal and bakery products.

However, the food price sluggishness in July did not reflect healthy increases already working their way up to the grocery store level.

The government had reported earlier this month a whopping 6.4 per cent increase in prices for food and farm products at the wholesale level. This rise is expected to work its way to the consumer level over the next few months.

Big Hospital Budget OK'd

By TOM FOREMAN, JR.
Reflector Staff Writer
Approval of a $6.9 million budget was the major topic on the agenda of the Board of Trustees Meeting of the Pitt Memorial Hospital last evening.

According to administrator Jack Richardson, this year's budget, which will become effective Oct. 1, entailed seven months of work in order to get acceptance.

This includes a 10 per cent increase for most employees—five per cent cost of living and five per cent increment, and the funding of several new positions. Operating costs were estimated at 25 per cent of the total figure, which was broken down to $4.22 per hour of operation.

The August approval allows sufficient time for computer programming, Richardson said. Dr. John L. Wooten, chief of staff, and Kenneth Dewis, gave a report on the hospital's acceptance in the Area Health Education Center. University of North Carolina officials claimed, according to Wooten, that local officials dragged their feet on AHEC. He said that the hospital was waiting on the outcome of the ECU Medical School before it made any commitments.

AHEC is a program funded by UNC to sponsor educational health programs in various hospitals. Ralph Hall, construction representative, gave a report to the board on the progress of the hospital. Rain had been a major factor in the progress of the foundation work, Hall said. He expected the upcoming month to be productive due to the arrival of the steel. Hall added that the work on the foundation corresponded with the steel work, and that if any more rain delays occur, both foundation and steel work could be held up.

In other business, the board approved the appointment of Richardson to serve on the State Advisory Committee on Rehabilitation Centers for the Physically Disabled.

Nominated To Ambassadorship

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former actress Shirley Temple Black has been nominated by President Ford to be ambassador to Ghana.

The 46-year-old Mrs. Black, of Woodside, Calif., will succeed Fred L. Madsel, who has held the post since September 1971.

Mrs. Black made an unsuccessful bid for a GOP congressional nomination from California in 1967, and then served as U.S. representative to the United Nations General Assembly in 1969.

Most recently, she was special assistant to the chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality from 1972 to 1974.

VISITORS WELCOMED
What are the possibilities of helping out and visiting people I don't already know at the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Center? N.M.

The possibilities are practically limitless, according to Linda Wise, social director of the Nursing Center.

She suggested you come in any time between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. and talk to her. She can direct you to any number of people you would like to get to know. If you have a special interest, be it sewing or reading or farming, or carpentry, or whatever, tell her about it and she can find someone with similar interest and background. There are many residents who would love a wheelchair push or a steady arm for a trip down the hall and possibly outside, if the weather's good. You can help out with games, refreshments, arts and crafts, Bible discussions, and other activities, she said.

Any age person is welcome. Older persons have a lot in common with most of the residents; younger adults take the place of a son or daughter who may not be able to visit; and children are a special joy to most of the residents, Ms. Wise said.

SEEKING ITEM PUT ON LAY-AWAY
I had put an item on lay-away at the Glamour Shop here in town prior to its going out of business. They sent me a letter saying they were closing and to collect my item, but I was sick and couldn't get to the store. I would like to locate someone that could help me get money back or buy the item.

Hotline contacted Glamour Shop's main office in Burlington which owns 50 stores in six southern states. According to the president of the company, R. C. Leibe, Jr., their records show you put two items on lay-away, one on Dec. 27, 1972 and another on Jan. 21, 1973. In each case the contract called for a payment of $5 per week, and the recorded records of payment show you paid $17.25 on the first item over a year period and $14.75 on the second item over a year.

Leibe indicated their contract terms specifically state no exchanges or refunds will be given after 30 days and that you were notified a month in advance before the store was closed.

However, Leibe indicated you could pick up the merchandise at their Washington, N.C. store if you would merely finish paying the balance on the items.

'Survey' Clinical Facilities For Med School authorized expansion of the one-year medical education program at ECU—doubling the size of the first year class and adding the second year to the medical school—but instructed the UNC Board of Governors to return to the 1975 Legislature with a plan to implement the Legislative mandate.

UNC president Dr. William Friday initially designated ECU officials to plan the program for expansion, but later directed Dean Fordham to head the planning effort after the Liaison Committee on Medical Education (the accrediting body of the American Medical Association and the American Association of Medical Colleges) said the proposed two-year school at ECU would have to operate as a component of the UNC program if accreditation is granted.

No clear-cut planning has as yet been announced by UNC officials. Dr. Fordham indicated what is eventually proposed will be determined, in part, by what clinical facilities are available in the area.

There has been much debate over the past weeks on the question of expanding the program at ECU, and many officials feel the expansion question may surface in the political arena of the General Assembly again in 1975.

Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt said Monday that he has been unable to "get a definitive answer" from Friday on the second year program planned for East Carolina. And last week, Sen.

Thomas Strickland of Wayne County told newsmen, "I am impatient. But I feel we should be patient," noting that members of the General Assembly are "holding Friday and Fordham responsible to achieve what we have mandated."

Today, Pitt representative Horton Rountree said, "I think that East Carolina University, before Chris Fordham took over, had already analyzed the clinical facilities in the area.

"All Fordham has to do," the Legislator said, "is look back over what East Carolina University has already plowed the ground on and he could find out about all different types and kinds of clinical service in Eastern North Carolina.

"It looks like a foot-dragging thing as far as I'm concerned," Rountree said.

The House member also noted that the 1974 General Assembly appropriated several million dollars "for the specific purpose of upgrading clinical facilities for teaching purposes."

Legendary Buford Pusser Killed In Auto Accident

By DOUG STONE
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS (AP)—Buford H. Pusser, 36, whose brushes with violence and death as a small county sheriff had made him a living legend, was killed early today in a traffic accident.

The one-car mishap on U. S. 64 near his hometown of Adamsville, Tenn., took place a matter of hours after Pusser had told a news conference in Memphis he would play himself in a sequel to the hit movie "Walking Tall," which has grossed $50 million in 14 months.

Highway Patrol Trooper Paul Ervin said Pusser was killed, apparently instantly, when his 1974 Corvette left the highway and struck an embankment, throwing Pusser from the vehicle, which then burst into flames. Pusser was listed as dead on arrival at a hospital. Ervin said Pusser had attended a fair at Selmer, Tenn., and was returning home at the time of the accident at 12:55 a. m.

He said Pusser's daughter, one of his three children, was following Pusser in a second car filled with young people and witnessed the accident. "There was no apparent reason for the accident that I could find," Ervin said. "I don't know if there was a tire blowout or not. I couldn't tell from the burned car. There was no evidence of foul play as far as I could determine."

Ervin, who said he arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, said the car was impounded for further investigation of the cause of the accident.

Pusser, among the youngest sheriffs in Tennessee history when first elected at 26 after serving in the Marines and working as a professional wrestler, said plans for the new film called for it to pickup where "Walking Tall" left off—just after the Aug. 12, 1967, ambush of a patrol car in which Pusser and his wife, Pauline, were riding. Mrs. Pusser was killed in barrage of automatic rifle fire. Pusser's jaw was shot away.

Pusser, who had been working with screen writer Howard Kreitsek on the script for "Buford," said scenes were to include his search through moonshine and gambling dens for his wife's slayers and further attempts on his life. During six years as sheriff, there were seven attempts to kill the 6 foot-6, 250-pound sheriff and he was forced to kill four persons. He had said in interviews, however, that he deplored violence and had only used it as a last resort when all else failed.

Referral Service Gets Results For Visitors

By CHRIS CONKLING
NEW YORK (AP) — Lila Burkeman is one of a select group of persons who know where to get bagels in London on Sunday.

In many careers she has had during her 30-odd years, Mrs. Burkeman has been everything from fashion model to literary agent. Last January she combined her varied experiences to create "Everything You've Always Wanted to Know About London and Didn't Know Who To Ask," a referral service for the American in London for business or pleasure.

For a yearly subscription fee she and her one assistant will answer questions about London that would likely stump the Queen: What to do with your mother; Where your dog can get a whirlpool bath; Where to get a landau in a hurry; How to rent a screening room; Who is Michael Caine's agent; and practically everything else you may think to ask. Mrs. Burkeman will also plan any type of party, move you into a house, escort you around the city personally and, she promises, "save you money." Non-subscribers can be helped for a special fee.

"So far I've not been stumped," reports the vivacious brunette, who looks much like Barbra Streisand, though she admits she herself cannot sing. There's good reason for her being an aficionado of London life. Her life began there, and she has lived it all there, through a marriage which ended in divorce, two kids and a slew of odd jobs, including a year as assistant to Broadway and Hollywood producers and directors working in London.

The referral company evolved out of boredom, Mrs. Burkeman explained in an interview here. "It started seven months ago," she said. "I had been a literary agent for three years and I hated it. It offered so little creativity.

"Also, I knew many people in different businesses who came over from New York and wanted me to help them set up work in London. I got to thinking there must be some way I could formulate a service to help people who are not native Londoners to get around the city."

Mrs. Burkeman set up shop in her home on Abbey Road. "Before I knew it," she remembers, "the London Times heard about it and the Times 'Diary,' which everyone reads, did a piece on me. Then I did a BBC television show, a few radio shows, and some magazine interviews. With all this publicity, plus the word-of-mouth of my subscribers — I've got a lot of big-mouthed subscribers, thank God — the service was a going thing."

This woman who knows everything about London displays a natural enthusiasm for England's capital city. "I'm not flag waving at all," she maintains. "I love London. I'm a big fan of hers and it's not a phony thing."

"There's an old saying, 'Paris is like a young girl; London is an old woman.' Well, there's a lot of excitement in old women. In London, everyone is not as uptight as people in New York. Londoners are more concerned with doing their own thing — not just talking about it, but doing it."

She visits New York frequently, and says it's the only other city in the world where she would want to live. She sees her affinity for both metropolises as an advantage in her work.

"I know I love New York almost as well as London," she claims. "New York's my second home. I know what's good and bad about both places, whereas other people may not. That's my advantage. I've seen New York deteriorate while London changes for the better. It has the lowest pollution rates in the world."

What Mrs. Burkeman enjoys most about her current business is its variety. "I'm asked to do a lot of different things," she says happily. "One day I'm asked to find someone an apartment and the next day I'm out hunting for antique furniture. I'm kept very busy, but most important of all, I'm having a ball."

"I've found that I'm not as ambitious as I thought I was. My lifelong ambition is to have a lifelong ambition. I don't plan next week, much less forever. I love what I'm doing, but the minute it stops being pleasurable, I'll do something else."

Convention Reports To Highlight Thursday Meet

Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, will hear reports on the annual state convention at the August business meeting Thursday night at the Moose Temple at eight o'clock.

Twenty-one local women registered at the three-day convention in Charlotte this past weekend where they saw one of their members assume her duties as deputy grand regent for North Carolina.

Miss Ada Jones, a member of the Greenville chapter since 1963, succeeds Mrs. Helen Grayson of Burlington in the state's top WOTM Office. She was appointed to the post at the recent national convention in Chicago.

Appointed chairman of the social service committee in 1963, Miss Jones was named sentinel in 1965 and elected chapter chaplain the following year. Elected junior regent in 1967 and as senior regent in 1968-69 and as junior graduate regent in 1969-70.

Miss Jones is a member of the Academy of Friendship and the College of Regents, the latter honor being conferred at Mooseheart in 1971.

The appointment of Miss Jones marked the third time a member of the Greenville chapter has attained this honor. Mrs. Louise Carrigan held the office in 1960-61 and Mrs. Bonnie Singleton in 1962-63.

Mrs. Jessie Nutto of Fayetteville was crowned state Queen of Sponsors for her accomplishments in membership enrollment at convention.

Representing the Greenville chapter at the convention were: Mrs. Peggy Jamieson; Mrs. Linda Thompson; Mrs. Virginia Morgan; Mrs. Virginia Shaw; Mrs. Molly Harris; Mrs. Betty Diehl; Mrs. Mary Knapp; Mrs. Mary Edgerly; Mrs. Shirley Daughtridge; Mrs. Mae Carr; Mrs. Hazel Barnes; Mrs. Bonnie Singleton; Mrs. Hollie Simonowich; Mrs. Edna Murphy; Mrs. Mary Beddard; Mrs. Wilma Turner; Mrs. Cora Wilson; Mrs. Eva Spain; Mrs. Mary Warren; Mrs. Liz Moore; and Miss Jones.

College Graduates Enroll In Secretarial School To Learn

By PETER A. BROWN
BOSTON (UPI) — Gwen Wendell spent more than $15,000 for a Vassar education, but two months after graduation started secretarial school because employers said her liberal arts degree was worthless.

Along with more than 150 over-educated, but undertrained coeds, many from equally as prestigious colleges, she is paying an additional $525 to be the business world's equivalent of the "90-day wonder."

Gwen is taking the Katherine Gibbs School's special program for college graduates who can quote Shakespeare, but can't type, spell or support themselves.

"A lot of my friends laughed at me when I told them I was going to secretarial school," said Gwen, of nearby Wellesley. "It's kind of depressing, but if it gets me a job..."

"I really wasn't surprised I couldn't find one," she said.

"In college you're trained to be an academician, but nothing else. You aren't qualified for anything."

Most of the girls say they enrolled to find a way to support themselves, though a surprising number are disenchanted teachers willing to take an initial pay cut to get into the business world.

Growth of the eight-week program has been rapid since its inception in 1970. The size of the summer class, in which a college degree is the only prerequisite, has tripled.

School officials report the competition for entrance is competitive during other seasons because of size limitations imposed by Gibbs' year-long courses for non college grads.

Almost all call the course a means to an end, admitting they are somewhat embarrassed to be attending secretarial school, but find the training a necessity in a tight job market. "You find that practically everyone including janitors have Masters' degrees," said Margaret Peters of Boston. She said she has been unable to find anything but menial work since graduating from Manhattanville College in 1973 with a degree in cultural anthropology.

"We give them the skills to get their first job and after that they advance because of their other qualifications," said Mrs. Judith Gideonse, placement director.

A few are disillusioned by the inability of their college degrees to support them.

"It's kind of frustrating and sometimes I think it isn't fair," said Phoebe Oftus, of Delmar, N.Y., a former teacher who returned from teaching in Europe to find her fluency in three languages didn't impress employers like typing 80 words per minute.

A handful of the students will be college seniors in the fall and say they enrolled to give them a jump on other graduates next spring.

"I thought it was a good idea and so do our fathers who are in business," said Laurie Bryant of Princeton, N.J., a senior at Smith College. "I need the skills. My education has taught me to write a research paper, but nothing else."

School officials say the tight job market nationwide is indicated by the 171 colleges in 32 states represented in the class of 426 students taking the course this summer in five cities. Besides Boston, it is offered in New York, Providence, R.I., Montclair, N.J., Huntington, N.Y. and New York.

"I graduated (from the University of South Carolina) in December and was able to get a job cleaning in a bank, but that was it," said Helen Reynolds of Sumter, S.C. "I really don't want to do that the rest of my life."

"I was tired of teaching," said Ann McIntyre, 26, of Montpelier, Vt. "I wanted to try something else and this appeared to be the only way."

Abby Advises Her To Forget Scheme

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: John and I have been married for 14 months. He had a 3-year-old son by a previous marriage. We had no trouble getting custody of the boy because his mother didn't want him. (She hasn't come to see him once.)

I am 29 and John is 35, and I want to have a child of our own. John's son, whom I honestly couldn't love more if I had given birth to him, would dearly love a little brother or sister, and I desperately want one, but John says no. His excuses are lame. ("The world is in such a sorry state, we shouldn't increase the population now. We have one healthy, normal child now, why press our luck?")

I am on the pill, and could conveniently "forget" to take it a few mornings, but I hate to be dishonest. If I were to get pregnant, he couldn't force me to have an abortion, and I'm sure that after the child was born he would grow to love it like he loves his son.

Please help me sort-out my feelings, Abby.
TORN IN CHICAGO

DEAR TORN: About your scheme to "conveniently forget" the pill: Forget it. (The scheme, not the pill.) Ideally, you and John should get some counseling together. Most clergymen are well equipped; also Chicago has many expert marriage counselors. If John refuses to go, you can't force him, but do go alone. You need some sound, objective counseling to help you resolve this knotty problem.

DEAR ABBY: A writer was unhappy about her flat chest and asked you whether breast implants were considered deceitful and therefore sinful in the eyes of the Lord. You suggested that she ask her clergyman for a ruling. I disagree. Every clergyman cannot keep abreast of new developments in plastic surgery; some clergymen are big busts as advisers on these points.

Dental Care Is Recognized

By SANDRA GITTENS
NEW YORK (AP) — Dentistry is probably where health care was in the '30s, just beginning to break through as a recognized responsibility beyond individuals, claims Martin Dubilier, chairman of the board for a dental products and services group.

According to his statistics, 50 per cent of all Americans never go to the dentist and half of those have severe tooth problems. This is particularly true of people over 40. Once teeth deteriorate, he says, a person would have to spend anywhere between $1,000 to $2,000 putting his mouth back into decent shape. "Most people," he explained, "don't have that kind of money, so their teeth get worse."

"But the thing is, dental insurance is going to cause a revolution in the field of dentistry. Right now there are some 22 million Americans covered with some form of insurance. And this is giving the older person a chance to get work done in his mouth."

Dental procedures are simple, Dubilier declares. Yet for a sophisticated job requiring coloring, matching, the use of attachments and bridge work, he says only 20 per cent of dentists are well qualified to carry out those procedures, along with perhaps 10 per cent of the lab people. He notes it takes a good ceramacist approximately five hours to build a bridge, depending on how many teeth he's constructing. So it's labor that brings about high costs.

"But if people start getting coverage from a dental plan they're going to get the work done. In the future," he says, "this is going to be a major problem."

"Dentists up until five years ago were only 60 per cent occupied. Because of dental plans, this has changed, with most dentists being between 80 to 90 per cent occupied. Dentists have reached a point where they've just about used up their capacity. Although there's a 2 per cent increase in dental population a year, that doesn't even come close to satisfying what's happening in terms of demand."

His statistics also forecast that between 80 and 100 million people will be covered by 1980 owing to recent trends for unions to negotiate dental plans in their packages. Within the next five years almost everyone can expect some form of dental coverage, he says.

"But assuming," he continues, "60 million new patients are added to the roster, and of the 60 million some 25 million need major work done, that means something like five visits per person. So you're adding 125 million visits over and above what dentists now have, just for people having major work done. The dental population can't handle it. There's no way they can take 125 million new chair patients. That's really a problem and no one's come up with solutions yet."

For those seeking insurance, Dubilier does not recommend the majority of existing private companies. His reason — cost. He says the primary need for insurance is in case of a catastrophe. But in the event a serious accident should happen requiring dentistry, one's medical insurance would cover it. So the purpose of dental insurance has to be different.

"Most of the individual plans I've seen are not worthwhile," says the Sterdent executive. "Usually these companies call for an individual to join the plan getting so much per procedure. But the amount he gets is so small, leaving him with 30 to 40 per cent of the costs."

"The good ones are where companies pay a piece of the action and negotiate a rate that's reasonable. Basically, it's like health insurance. You can get health insurance reasonably or unreasonably; some are state regulated, some aren't. The same holds true for dental insurance, only they are newer so there isn't as much regulation. But there will be."

Preventive dentistry is still the best effort, according to Dubilier. And there are devices on the market now which drastically reduce the rate of deterioration, particularly for youngsters. Fluoride, he says, is just one.

The dental industry is working on a number of new products to reduce the time factor involved in dental procedures. For example, he says, it takes an orthodontist 12 hours on the average to treat a young patient and it requires three years of his time thereafter before he's completed the mouth. Now there are methods available which allow him to do the same thing in four hours and one year and charge the same amount of money. "So you can imagine per hour of work, he's getting a fantastic return. This is attracting a lot of intelligent people," says Dubilier.

Other new things coming out include a device that measures teeth color with absolute certainty. Others include one that gives the dentist a clear view of the total mouth without having to look in the mouth. Another, under study, will allow teeth to be drilled without the use of a rotating device.

"All this will cut down on patient-dentist time," Dubilier says. "Finally, there's beginning to be a lot of money spent on dental research."

Shower Given Miss Tetterton

On Saturday afternoon Miss Linda Tetterton, bride-elect of Michael J. Conley, was honored at a linen shower given by Mrs. Harroll Weaver at her home.

Upon arrival the bride-elect was presented a corsage of pink roses. The house was decorated with arrangements of roses and magnolia.

Guests were invited into the dining room for refreshments. The dining table was centered with an arrangement of red and pink roses.

Thirty guests were present including Mrs. Jesse Tetterton Jr., mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Albert R. Conley, mother of the bridegroom. Also present was Mrs. David Crott, friend of the bride-elect, from Raleigh.

After the opening of gifts, good-byes were said by the hostess. Other hostesses were Mrs. Charles Holliday and Mrs. Woodrow Tice.

The wedding will take place Sunday, Aug. 25, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

A Minimum Of Controversy

In one of those rare well-kept secrets of government, President Ford announced the nomination Tuesday of former New York governor Nelson Rockefeller as vice president of the United States.

Rockefeller will be the third vice president the nation has had since the present presidential term of office began. We can only pray that he will hold the office until the term expires.

To say that Rockefeller is not controversial would be incorrect. He served 15 years as governor of New York before resigning this year to lay the groundwork for a Republican presidential nomination bid in 1976. Rockefeller's presidential ambitions are well known and he has been a contender for the nomination at previous GOP conventions. At age 66, however, time had almost run out on him as a presidential possibility. Rockefeller obviously recognized that Ford's assumption of the presidency virtually ended any chances of his obtaining the nomination in 1976, since the GOP nomination will go to Ford if he wants it. This must have influenced Rockefeller's decision to accept the vice presidential nomination.

Rockefeller is considered a liberal Republican and as such he has the suspicions of the conservatives who see little difference in him and a liberal Democrat. On the other hand liberals are wary of Rockefeller since he is a member of one of the world's richest and most influential families. Some question whether national decisions can be properly made without consideration of how the family fortune will be affected.

With all that, however, the Rockefeller choice was a good one for President Ford. The president obviously needed to choose a member of his own party. At the same time he needed a man whose nomination he could get through the Democratic-controlled Congress with a minimum of controversy. As a conservative, Ford needed a man of liberal reputation, particularly as he attempts to bring all the nation's factions together in a healing process following the agonies of Watergate.

President Ford must have considered all these things as he offered the nomination to Rockefeller. The nominee accepted and the outlook is that he will be approved by Congress and will soon be the nation's newest vice president.

Green Vine A Nuisance

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—If the Jolly Green Giant ever came to North Carolina, he wouldn't be laughing so much.

He'd probably be lying by the roadside wrapped up in a not-so-jolly green vine called Kudzu.

That, at least, sometimes appears to be the fate of anything along the side of a highway in North Carolina.

The stuff grows so fast and covers things so thoroughly that state highway officials are getting more and more concerned.

Several weeks ago highway crews sprayed and chopped the creeping vine from a steel guardrail alongside N.C. 42 some 10 miles from Wilson. Typically, three weeks later, R. S. Boyette, assistant landscape engineer for the state Department of Transportation, found the guardrail covered again.

How much Kudzu is there in the state? "Oh, Lord; there's no way of telling," Boyette moaned. While the most visible vine is on roadsides, that is not all of it by a long shot. Kudzu was also used extensively along lakes and river shores, and on private land by farmers to control washing in gullies and small canyons.

Still, the average citizen blames the state highway people for the spreading blight. Not so, Boyette argues: the vine was introduced in North Carolina by federal Soil Conservation Service people.

The state only planted one little patch, and later wiped that one out completely. But, the state did give the federal agriculture people permission to plant some on highway shoulders.

Then widely hailed as the best possible kind of erosion control, Kudzu grew on red clay banks where nothing had worked before.

But, it also grew off the red clay banks onto nearby fields, over trees, abandoned houses, utility poles, roadside signs, guardrails, fences, pastures—you name it, Kudzu would cover it.

Today, Boyette has a simple philosophy about the vine: "If I catch anybody planting any on a highway right-of-way, I'll have him indicted."

Things have gone from bad to worse in the last few years. Back in 1962, the state set up an eradication program in hopes of wiping out the vine. The law provides for the state to spray the stuff on state property with a herbicide (245-T which is strong enough to get to the roots) if the adjoining property owner will agree to spray on his land.

Boyette says it won't do any good for either to try to kill the vine out if the other doesn't—it will just grow right back. And despite the fact that Kudzu might have spread from state property onto private property, the state won't try to kill it on private land.

Getting Worse Even with the effort to wipe it out, the problem is getting worse, Boyette admits. "I don't have any idea how much there is, but we know there is some in every county in the state. It just runs everywhere and takes over, causes problems and is getting worse. It definitely needs attention."

Is there, after all, any value in the vine? "No, it's terrible stuff. Some people use it for grazing, but it would take a mighty hungry cow to eat the stuff," Boyette said.

Federal officials say they shouldn't accept all the blame although the Soil Conservation Service "did have a lot to do with bringing it here," according to John Hungerford of SCS.

Conservationists are still not convinced that Kudzu doesn't have its merits, and just recently proposed using the vine along the banks of a channelling project. "We were criticized for that... we're not pushing it much any more these days," Hungerford said.

Recent reports, however, still insist that Kudzu has some merits, including the ability to cover bare ground rapidly, control growth of small trees, require little expense in planting, and will not grow across water, making it useful in limited places.

One hailed as the Wonder Plant and known in the South as Porch Vine, Kudzu was introduced from China and Japan. Federal agents who once promoted the vine have since labeled it a common weed.

Kid-Swapping Practices

Nobody likes to talk about it, but there is a lot of kid-swapping going on in the United States. It isn't going on just in the suburbs or the small towns but in the larger cities as well.

I hadn't realized how prevalent kid-swapping was until I moved to Washington. One night I came home from the office and, instead of finding my dark-haired little beauties, I discovered a 7-year-old-blond stranger doing the twist.

"Who's she?" I asked my wife.

"That's Ann Lindsay. She's staying here for the night with Connie."

"Where's Jennifer?" I asked.

"She's sleeping at Priscilla's house because Ann Lindsay's sleeping here."

"Who's Priscilla?"

"Jennifer didn't know her last name, but she says she's her best friend."

"That's nice. Where is Joel?"

"He's sleeping at his friend's—B. J. He said if Jennifer can sleep somewhere else so can he."

"Where does that leave us?" I asked my wife.

"Well, we had three to start with, we got rid of two for the night, and we gained one, so we're only short one."

"It saves on food," I agreed.

"Not really," my wife said. "We had fish tonight, but Ann Lindsay doesn't like fish, so I had to go out and get her a steak. Then when Connie saw Ann was getting a steak, she wanted one, too."

"I wouldn't mind having a steak myself," I said.

"You can't. Somebody's got to eat the fish."

The next weekend when I came home Connie was missing, but Jennifer had two friends and Joel had B. J.

At 8 o'clock I ordered them all to bed.

"B. J.'s father lets him watch television until midnight every night," Joel, who is 9 years old, said.

"Is that true, B. J.?" I asked.

"Sometimes later," B. J. said without batting an eye.

"When I stayed at B. J.'s last week," Joel said, "we didn't go to bed until 2 in the morning."

"My parents don't like me to go to bed early," B. J. said, "because then I wake up early."

"Well, you don't wake up just call up your parents and ask them what time you go to bed?"

"Oh, you don't have to do that," B. J. said hurriedly. "They've probably gone out to a movie."

Just then the phone rang. It was Mrs. Lindsay who said, "What time do you usually put Connie to bed?"

"Eight o'clock," I said.

"She said you let her stay up till midnight to watch television. I was a little worried," Mrs. Lindsay seemed relieved.

Later that evening I said to my wife, "We've got to put a halt to this kid-swapping. Everyone on Cleveland Avenue is starting to talk."

"Oh, it's harmless," my wife said, "and they get so much fun out of it."

But I knew what I was talking about. A few weeks later I came home and found three kids at the dinner table—none of them mine.

"What happened?" I asked.

Rocky Awaits Orders

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller is going on duty as White House understudy with a pledge to do President Ford's bidding and a forecast that his new boss will be running for a full term in 1976.

Rockefeller, at 66 a durable if unsuccessful presidential campaigner, took pains to emphasize that he understands and accepts his subordinate role as Ford's vice president-designate.

He said that what he does now is entirely up to the President.

Rockefeller underlined that theme by declaring that he expects Ford to top the Republican ticket in 1976, while declining to talk about his own political future. The former New York governor has sought the GOP nomination three times, twice as a declared candidate. He was widely regarded as a likely entry in 1976.

Ford's candidacy would foreclose that last chance. And Rockefeller said he is convinced the President indeed will run for the office he now holds by appointment and succession.

"He has every intention of it," Rockefeller said Tuesday as he called on the congressional chairmen who will supervise the vice presidential confirmation process. "That was my impression, that's what I urged, that's my assumption."

As vice president, Ford had said he would not be a candidate for president in 1976. But after Ford succeeded to the presidency, a spokesman said the chief executive had not decided whether to seek election to a full term.

Rockefeller also said that he will be on the road campaigning for Republican candidates this fall. He said he had discussed that 1974 campaign role with Ford and is delighted at the prospect.

But a one-time political adversary warned that not all Republicans are going to be delighted with Rockefeller. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who beat Rockefeller in a bitter contest for the GOP presidential nomination a decade ago, said the vice presidential nominee "is not going to sit well with the conservatives in the Republican Party."

Goldwater said he had warned Ford of that prospect, and "I am sure he understood." He also said Rockefeller is eminently qualified, and had been one of the names on his list of suggestions for the vice presidential nomination.

Rockefeller's background, experience and easy manner were major assets at the polls, although he never managed to convert them into nominating strength at a GOP national convention.

Ford evidenced no concern that Rockefeller might upstage the president. He said Rockefeller would be a good teammate and partner. For his part, Rockefeller emphasized his role as No. 2. "To preside over the Senate of the United States and to otherwise simply carry out any assignment..." from Ford.

For, said Rockefeller, "the role of a vice president totally depends on the President. If the President wants to use him, wonderful. If he doesn't, fine."

Rockefeller said he had no detailed understanding with Ford as to what he will be assigned to do in his new job.

He said that and the problems facing the nation led him to accept the vice presidency he once had dismissed as only standby equipment. While he

The INSIDE REPORT

Arthur Burns' Bad News

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Dr. Arthur Burns, relied on for economic advice by President Ford during his first week in office, in three confidential Oval Office chats, has painted a bleakly realistic picture not faintly resembling the soothing fantasies of administration pollyannas.

Burns, independent of the administration as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has minced no words with the new President. He warned that this country is moving toward financial collapse. Mr. Ford can prevent calamity, he said, but may have no more than 60 days in which to act.

Such blunt talk breaks what one administration policymaker derisively calls "the good news syndrome"— high government officials disguising a worsening economic malaise with deceptively rosy statements to both the public and the President. Even with Richard M. Nixon gone, the syndrome persists with budget director Roy Ash and, to a lesser extent, Treasury Secretary William Simon talking about sunlight around the corner, some five or six months ahead.

With his Cassandra prophecies unwelcome to a Watergate-obsessed President, Burns got nowhere near the Oval Office during Nixon's last year. It is, then, highly significant and reassuring that Mr. Ford has given so much time in these crowded transition days to Burns' bad news. "The most positive thing to come out of Washington during the first week was the relationship between Ford and Burns," one astute Wall Street observer told us.

Burns has long preached reduced federal spending and fervently supports Mr. Ford's promise of a balanced budget as the essential anti-inflationary weapon. But he privately conceded last week the difficulty in achieving the immediate $10 billion cut he has proposed. Thus, Burns realizes that budget-cutting is not enough and is pushing new economic proposals—many of them contradicting dogmatic administration officials.

Proposals Burns would like Mr. Ford to embrace include business tax incentives to increase industrial capacity, fighting inflation by increasing supply and satisfying demand. Those economic analysts who view Burns as an economic stand-patter with a bias against capital investment are simply unfamiliar with his current thinking.

Beyond budget-cutting and tax incentives, Burns inclines toward schemes sure to be opposed by free enterprise stalwarts inside the administration. One is government rationing of credit. Another is a revived Cost of Living Council with the power to subpoena evidence and actually defer price and wage increases.

The Burns package, in sum, is a sharp departure from what had been the Nixon administration's intention to practice the "old-time religion"—keeping hands off the economy and cutting the budget—while playing pollyanna. Moreover, besides drawing fire from the free enterprise dogmatists, it will be attacked by liberals and organized labor because of tax advantages for corporate business.

Indeed, Mr. Ford would have no chance to sell such tax incentives to the heavily Democratic Congress were it not for expected help from a figure who was the hairshirt for the previous two Presidents: Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Though his power and prestige have declined a bit, Mills remains the single most formidable ally or antagonist a President could have in Congress.

Burns and Mills have slowly and quietly built a

Other Editors Say Capital Idea

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

While the current inflation has focused attention on the plight of the fixed-income elderly and the poor, federal spending under the broad budget heading of "human resources" is setting new records.

All human resources programs (education, manpower, health, veterans' benefits and income security) topped defense outlays in 1971 and now account for 49.8 per cent of the 1975 budget.

The fiscal 1975 budget for the first time calls for outlays of more than $100 billion for income security programs. In 1974, outlays for these programs (Social Security, unemployment insurance, public assistance and related programs) topped national defense spending for the first time. This gap, less than $5 billion in 1974, will widen to more than $12 billion in 1975.

Spending for health ($26.3 billion) and income security ($100.1 billion) totals $126.4 billion in the new budget. This compares with $108.3 billion in 1974 expenditures.

The five-year rise in income security spending has been 129 per cent and health spending is up 104 per cent. In a report last March, Tax Foundation, Inc., showed that health and income security programs will take $1,665 of the average federal tax burden of $4,013 per household in fiscal 1975.

The Foundation said that with congressional approval of a national health insurance program possible this year, the outlook is for a continuation of increasing social welfare expenditures. Besides the new taxes on employer and employee set in the variety of health proposals under study, there are government subsidies of benefits to the poor and the near-poor involved in health plans.

For other social programs, spending increases are already established. This year more than half of some 80 million individual taxpayers will pay more Social Security taxes than federal income tax.

The food stamp program also rises to a $4 billion high in fiscal 1975, a billion dollars more than for the year ended June 30. New revenue will also go to the Supplemental Security Income program, which is bringing funds to about 200,000 persons who were not eligible for financial assistance before last January.

Strength For Today

RELIGION AND NATIONAL LIFE

The famous Russian novelist, Count Leo Tolstoy, was one day questioning a Japanese traveler about the ideals of his nation. The Japanese gentleman replied that among his people the greatest ideal was reverence for the emperor and love of country. To which the Count replied, "Too low, too low. There is no hope for a nation which does not love God or does not make religion the basis of its life."

Prescriptions for improving the internal conditions in nations today usually center around the bettering of the material welfare of their peoples. But, as Jesus said, man cannot live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Man is trying to improve his position today by any means other than the cultivation of the inner life.

That ideal is too low either for a man or a nation which does not enrich the spirit and bring a deep and satisfying knowledge of the will of God.

Labor-Cost Ratio Is Trailing

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The cost of labor in relation to industrial sales during the past few years has remained considerably below that of the 1960s. But it might end this year.

The ratio perplexes a good many people who note, for example, that unit labor costs last year rose 1.4 per cent in manufacturing and 5 per cent for all nonfarm businesses. Why, then, shouldn't the cost of labor percentage rise?

The explanation lies in sharply higher sales and output per manhour at the very time that controls kept labor's gains below their rate of earlier periods.

The annual labor cost study by Standard & Poor's, the investment research organization, shows that wages-salaries-fringe benefits accounted for 25.6 per cent of each dollar of industrial sales in 1973.

A year earlier the percentage was 26.4, and in 1971 it amounted to 25.9 per cent, but throughout the sixties it never dropped below 26, and more often ranged between 27 and 28.

Stock market analysts, among others, find such statistics highly useful in assessing the impact of changes in wages on specific industries and companies.

For example, when wage increases are general throughout the economy some industries find the impact far more pronounced than do others.

The oil industry, to illustrate, is highly automated, with labor costs amounting last year to only 9 per cent of sales. But for air transportation the equivalent figure was 40 per cent.

Here are a few others: Aerospace and aircraft, 37 per cent; automobiles and trucks, 31; meats and dairy products, 13; electrical-electronics, 38.

The figures for individual companies within these industries varies almost as much as between industries. In aerospace, the percentages range from 27 to 45, and in oil from 6 to 23.

However, indications are that the trend will end this year, a legacy of the removal of controls and a feeling among labor leaders that unions must make up for past restraints.

Economic fears are providing an incentive for labor to secure what it feels is a fairer share of the sales dollar, either through direct wage increases or fringe benefits.

Escaped In Subway Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — "Coming through that tunnel was like coming through hell. If we were down there longer, there would have been deaths," said Fred Rontonz, 27, who walked to safety from a subway fire.

A board of inquiry convenes today to investigate the rush hour fire that trapped more than 1,000 commuters for two hours in a sweltering, smoke-filled tunnel 90 feet below the East River on Tuesday evening. Four trains were stranded when electric power to the tube was shut off. Firemen said tunnel temperatures reached an estimated 100 degrees.

At least 125 persons, many weeping and covered with soot, were taken to hospitals for treatment of heat fatigue, smoke inhalation and other injuries.

No serious injuries were reported, however, and most were released after getting first-aid.

Two of the trains were partially evacuated, with passengers walking in darkness along an underground catwalk to emergency exits on either side of the tunnel in Manhattan and Brooklyn.

As they emerged, scores immediately received oxygen administered at the scene by hundreds of police and firemen.

The fire was extinguished within 90 minutes, but it was another 40 minutes before power was restored to allow the stalled trains to be moved.

(Continued from page 4) personal alliance, with late afternoon meetings in Mills' private retreat on the second floor of the Capitol. They are in essential agreement on what must be done. Thus, if the President accepts Burns' proposals, he has a running start at getting Mills' help.

What's more, Mr. Ford can become the first President since John F. Kennedy to establish a close working relationship with Mills. When Mills last winter wanted to discreetly advise Nixon to file amended personal tax returns, he sought out the administration official he trusted most: his old House colleague, Vice President Ford.

The new President and Mills have not yet conferred personally, and their only telephone conversation was concerned solely with health insurance legislation. But they will meet soon and under unusual circumstances which will demonstrate that Mr. Ford puts Mills in a very special category and will go out of his way to enlist him as an ally.

The renewed eminence of wise men Burns and Mills is a sign of the sudden change in Washington. Barred from the Oval Office by the Haldeman-Ehrlichman coup in the spring of 1969, Burns was still being ignored as of Aug. 8. Mills was not only ignored but until the end was the target of clandestine smears from the Nixon White House. That their wisdom and talent are being sought by President Ford is reason for hope despite the grim economic prognosis.

Bank Robbery Charged Four

NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—Four men charged as fugitives in an escape from the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa., also have been charged in a North Carolina bank robbery, according to the FBI.

Edward J. Krupinsky, special agent in charge of the Charlotte FBI office, announced filing of the bank robbery charges Tuesday as the search continued for two of the fugitives.

The search was in its eighth day today in Great Dover swamp about 15 miles west of New Bern for convicted air pirate Richard Floyd McCoy Jr., 32, and Melvin Dale Walker, 35, of Morley, Mo.

McCoy grew up in the tiny community of Cove City, near where the search centered, and his mother and wife live there. His father, separated from his mother, lives in Raleigh.

The other two men, Larry LeRoy Bagley, 36, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Joseph William Havel, 60, of Philadelphia, are in custody in New Bern.

The four escaped from the Lewisburg prison Aug. 10 and have been charged in the Aug. 13 robbery of a Bank of North Carolina branch in Pollocksville, about 15 miles southeast of Cove City.

Bagley and Havel were captured after an exchange of gunfire with a Highway Patrol helicopter after it swooped low to check a car on a logging road. The other two men escaped into the swamp.

McCoy, who was living in Provo, Utah, at the time, was convicted of air piracy in April 1972, after being charged with parachuting from an jetliner with $500,000 ransom. He was sentenced to 45 years in prison.

The other three men are convicted bank robbers.

Krupinsky said McCoy, a former helicopter pilot in Vietnam, and Walker are considered armed and extremely dangerous. He added that McCoy, according to relatives in the Cove City area, has an intimate knowledge of the swamp.

Two Wrecks On Tuesday

An estimated $1,800 property damage resulted yesterday from two collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted when cars driven by Katherine Diane Smith of 1307 Evergreen Dr. and Patricia Ann McLawhorn of 1115 South Washington St. collided about 10:50 a.m. at the intersection of 14th and Cotanche Streets.

Police, who charged Miss Smith with failing to stop for a stop sign, estimated damage at $300 to the Smith car and $1,200 to the McLawhorn auto.

Miss McLawhorn was reported injured in the collision. No charges were made by investigators following a 4:20 p.m. mishap on Dickinson Avenue 325 feet East of the Memorial Drive intersection.

Officers identified drivers of the two vehicles involved as Catherine Meeks Mills of Route 1, Greenville and Felton German Moore of Route 4, Greenville.

Damage to the cars was set at $75 to the Mills auto and $225 to the Moore vehicle.

No injuries were reported.

Oil Companies Will Pay For Overcharging

By CHARLES J. LEWIS
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten oil companies have agreed to repay some $103.7 million in alleged overcharges to their customers, the Federal Energy Administration reports. In addition, agency officials said on Tuesday that four other oil companies have been notified they are suspected of overcharges totaling some $90.7 million.

Voted 'No' On Amnesty

CHICAGO (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars national convention has voted unanimously to oppose amnesty for draft dodgers and deserters. About 4,000 delegates approved without dissent on Tuesday a resolution opposing amnesty. The vote came one day after President Ford chose the VFW convention to announce a review of policy toward the estimated 50,000 Americans living abroad because of draft resistance or desertion. The VFW resolution urged that deserters and draft evaders be made to face the judicial process. It read in part: "We sustain total opposition to general and selective amnesty for draft dodgers and military deserters. And they should be required to stand trial for their crimes and shall pay such penalties as the laws prescribe." The resolution declared the VFW will continue to pursue its no-amnesty doctrine without amendment.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 8 through Aug. 14.

HOUSE
PUBLIC CAMPAIGN FINANCING Rejected, 187 for and 228 against, an amendment to provide for partial public financing of House and Senate general election campaigns. It was proposed to HR 16090, a campaign-finance reform bill later passed and sent to a House-Senate conference.

The rejected amendment was designed to take effect in 1976. Its failure strongly suggests that House and Senate races will continue to be privately financed, even though the Senate has approved partial public financing. House-Senate conferees will resolve the issue.

The amendment would have diverted taxpayer-checkoff money, as opposed to general U.S. Treasury funds, to a kitty for congressional candidates. To qualify for public money a candidate would have had to raise a "threshold" amount in small, private contributions. The public money was to have been spent only for certain expenses, with unused amounts remaining in the Treasury, and would have comprised a minority of the candidate's total campaign revenue.

Supporters called it a purifying amendment. Rep. Joseph Gaydos (D-Pa.) said public financing would "eliminate the evil of private funding as reflected in the Watergate matter" and make campaigns more competitive.

Opponents said the overall reform bill attacks Watergate-style abuses by limiting spending in congressional campaigns, and warned that public financing would diminish the important fund-raising roles of the Democratic and Republican parties. "The parties might be brought to a state of atrophy..." said Rep. James V. Stanton (D-Ohio).

Reps. David Henderson (D-30), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L.H. Fountain (D-2), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "nay."

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATING CONVENTIONS Rejected, 205 for and 206 against, an amendment to prevent public financing of the major parties' presidential nominating conventions. A vote against was a vote in favor of the public financing proposal, which was included in HR 16090 (above).

With this vote the House went on record as favoring public financing of conventions. The Senate version of HR 16090 does not approve of such public financing, leaving its future uncertain.

The House language provides that a major party could receive up to $2 million for a convention. Parties other than the Democrats and Republicans could receive limited funding if they have sufficient public support.

The $2 million would be raised through the existing system of taxpayers diverting one collar of their federal taxes to presidential campaign expenses.

Members supporting the amendment (opposing public financing) argued that minor parties would be discriminated against, and that federal financing would trigger eventual federal control of nominating conventions and political parties.

Opponents of the amendment called for reforming the traditional practice of labor unions, corporations and other special interests underwriting much of national convention expenses, and then writing off their outlays as tax deductions.

Fountain, Mizell, Ruth, Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Jones, Henderson, Andrews, Preyer, Rose and Taylor voted "nay."

HOME SETTLEMENT COSTS Rejected, 199 for and 202 against, an amendment to retain the Department of Housing and Urban Development's authority to regulate settlement costs that are charged to persons buying homes with Veterans' Administration and Federal Housing Administration loans.

The amendment was proposed to HR 9989, which would establish a degree of nationwide uniformity in settlement procedures, with the intent of making such procedures fairer and more understandable to home-buyers. But HR 9989 eliminates HUD's four-year-old but little-used authority to discourage excessive settlement charges.

With this vote the House favored removal of the HUD authority. The Senate has voted to continue it and the issue will be resolved in a House-Senate conference.

The sponsor, Rep. Fortney Stark (D-Calif.), said support of his amendment is "a vote for the consumer" and against title insurance companies, banks and lawyers, "whose fees are high enough." He added: "Every member who has voted against this amendment is going to have to explain to his constituents about why he has not done something about closing costs."

Opponents noted that HUD has rarely if ever used the regulatory power, and called it "an ambiguous and controversial provision" that should be eliminated. Rep. Richard Hanna (D-Calif.) said "more uniform" nationwide home-settlement procedures must be established before a national regulatory policy can be implemented. "There is no way we can pole vault from where the law is to where some people would like to have it be," he said.

Ruth voted "yea." Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

SENATE
NUCLEAR SAFETY Rejected, 28 for and 60 against, an amendment dealing with the insurance liability of utility companies in the event of nuclear power plant accidents. It sought to increase a utility's liability level by permitting states to set standards that would be tougher than existing federal standards, and was proposed to HR 15323.

Under present law, a utility's maximum liability is $560 million, according to Sen. Richard Schweiker (R-Pa.). Had the amendment passed the Senate and gone on to become law, states would have been able to require a higher indemnity level.

Schweiker argued that damages from a nuclear accident "could cost billions of dollars." Supporters also argued that some nuclear power plants pose greater danger than others, due to top population and geographic factors, and that state-by-state flexibility in setting insurance standards is therefore necessary.

Opponents said the amendment would upset the existing uniform national policy on nuclear power plants, slow construction of plants at a time of energy shortages and, in the words of Sen. John Pastore (D-R.I.), "bankrupt every public utility in this country."

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and

Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay." TAX BREAK Adopted 45 for and 43 against, an amendment whose effect is to interpret a gray area of the U.S. tax code so as to benefit the trona ore industry. It was attached to a bill (HR 7780) dealing with the tax classification of silk yarn. At issue was the point at which the mineral-depletion allowance should cease providing tax breaks for handlers of trona ore. The Senate vote means that several corporations may be able to claim depletion benefits for processing work which takes place after the mining stage but before what they define as the marketing stage.

Benefitted most by the vote are companies such as Allied Chemical Corp. and Texas Gulf Corp., which mine most of their trona ore in Wyoming. Sen. Clifford Hansen (R-Wyo.) sponsored the amendment.

Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), a supporter of the amendment, said the measure compensates investors for a previous Treasury Department error in interpreting the tax code. He said it's unfair for stockholders to lose anticipated dividends "because Treasury said it revised what the law was intended to be and what the law is."

Sen. William Proxmire (D-

Wis.) said the amendment typifies how the tax code has been "filled with loopholes, potholes, truckholes, exceptions, and special favors since its inception."

Helms voted "yea" and Ervin did not vote.

Accused Killer To Be Arraigned

HIGHLAND PARK, Mich. (AP) — The attorney for Rudolph Acosta, the accused killer of a 12-year-old newspaper delivery girl, says Acosta will appear today for arraignment on second-degree murder charges.

Attorney Gerald Sherman also said Acosta wants to pay for the funeral of Edith Perchman and the hospital bills of her father, Marion, who was seriously injured when he tried to remove his wounded daughter from the shooting scene.

Police said Acosta shot the girl in the dark early Sunday in the belief she was a "hit man" out to kill him in a drug-related family feud.

The girl had delivered Acosta's paper almost every morning for the past 10 months. Her father knew Acosta because he collected for Edith every Saturday.

Sugar Refinery Profit Reaches Record Level

NEW YORK (AP) — The profits of sugar refiners have jumped to record levels while the price of sugar in the supermarket has soared in a year from 79 cents to $2 for a five-pound bag.

Refiners say crop failures in recent years have stimulated world bidding for the scarce commodity. And the United States, which imports more than half its sugar from Latin America, the Philippines and other foreign sources, is in the competition.

They also say the tight supply situation has given them the opportunity to raise their profit margins on the once-abundant but low-profit item.

Amstar Corp., the nation's largest sugar refiner with more than $1 billion in annual sales, reported a 110 per cent increase in annual profits to $31.4 million for the year ending June 30.

In the fourth quarter alone, Amstar's profits were $15.2 million, compared with $5.9 million the previous quarter and with $5.2 million for the previous year.

Sucrest Corp., which last reported profits for the quarter ended March 31, showed earnings of $758,000 for that quarter, compared with a deficit of $61,000 for the same quarter of 1973.

Holly Sugar Corp., which reports profits only on a yearly basis to Feb. 28, said profits last year rose to $5.3 million from $2.6 million in 1973. Sales last year were $111.7 million.

In the first quarter of this year, Holly Sugar's sales reached $60.4 million, more than half of the previous year's total. The company would not say what its quarterly profits were.

"The cost of raw sugar is more than 80 per cent of today's refined sugar prices, and that price has risen from 12 cents a pound last year to more than 32 cents a pound today," said an Amstar spokesman.

Amstar and other sugar companies say poor crops in Russia and Cuba in recent years and in Western Europe and the United States this year have aggravated the world supply and sent prices up sharply.

"In recent months, prices have been sent further up by persistent buying of available supplies by the dollar rich Arab countries, and also by inflation," the Amstar spokesman said.

He said returns also have gone up since price controls ended.

VEPCO Again Seeking Increase In Earnings

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia Electric & Power Co. has asked the State Corporation Commission for its third earning increase this year — this one for $127.3 million.

The increase would add 22.5 per cent to present rates and bring an average residential bill of $24 to about $29.50.

Veeco President T. Justin Moore called the increase requested Tuesday a temporary surcharge.

But he indicated the utility will ask for additional permanent rate relief to bolster sagging earnings when the SCC conducts its annual financial review of the company next year.

In January, the SCC granted the utility an $18.5 million surcharge and in June, Veeco was allowed a general rate increase of $28.3 million.

The June increase was little more than half the $50 million requested. Veeco officials expressed keen disappointment and indicated even then a request for emergency relief would be coming soon.

The request filed Tuesday cited the utility's critical financial problems.

It followed by one day a request to the North Carolina Utilities Commission for a 17.3 increase in rates to Veeco's 63,000 customers in that state. The North Carolina increase would produce additional income of some $4 million annually.

Last month Veeco announced its 1974 construction budget was being reduced by some $103 million, and Moore said Tuesday the company's 1975 construction expenditures were expected to be cut by about $181 million.

"Without the rate relief, the company will be unable to continue to finance construction that is necessary to render adequate and reliable electric service in Virginia," Moore said.

"The company's financial problems are critical and remedial action is urgently required," he said.

Moore said the common stock the company plans to sell in November is essential to implementing much of the construction program.

His First Car Has Sudden End

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Who needs a driver's license? Not George Nelson.

After managing for 50 years without driving a car, the San Diego man got a driver's license last week and bought a new car.

He drove it around the block once and parked it in front of his house, then went to his job at a clothing store.

When he returned home that night he met another new driver, a teen-age girl who had just driven around the block and squarely into the back of Nelson's new car. His insurance company says it's a total loss.

Rockefeller Family Has Early Roots In America

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In the spring of 1720, Johann Peter Rockefeller left his home in the German Rhineland and settled in the then-wilderness of New Jersey. He was a man of little wealth and his name meant nothing.

Seven generations later, the Rockefeller name is synonymous with power and wealth, with public service and with philanthropy. The second son of that seventh generation, Nelson A. Rockefeller, was named on Tuesday by President Ford as his nominee for vice president.

In a country not given to titles and ruling class, the Rockefellers have perpetuated a dynasty of great influence on economic affairs and now political life.

Family members are spread through corporate, industrial, banking, real estate and international business ventures. The Rockefeller Foundation and other organizations annually dispense millions from family endowments and gifts. In the past decade and a half, Rockefellers have found a new role in the political arena.

It is a dynasty based on wealth, and the origin of that wealth can be dated with precision.

On Jan. 10, 1870, the Standard Oil Co. was incorporated in Ohio with John Davison Rockefeller as president. He was called a robber baron by many. He gave away $530 million before he died. He was Nelson Rockefeller's grandfather.

The early generations of Rockefellers had survived in America as tradesmen and farmers, neither spectacular successes nor failures. The family now dates its history from the birth of John D. Rockefeller in 1839. His father was an itinerant salesman who sometimes used the name "Dr. Rock" to peddle patent medicines.

John D. Rockefeller had a knack for acquiring money and a willingness to give it away. He was imaginative and ruthless in his business dealings, pious and utterly correct in his private life. His attributes have become trademarks of a family that considers wealth a public trust and waste a sin.

Under his direction, Standard Oil acquired control of the oil industry through mergers, favorable railroad rates, rebates and other practices, many now illegal. By 1885, the company controlled 95 per cent of the nation's oil refining capacity. At the turn of the century, John D. Rockefeller's annual income was estimated at $50 million. He was called the richest man in the world.

The break-up of Standard Oil in 1911 under new federal anti-trust laws had little effect on the family fortune. John D. Rockefeller had retired from active business life.

His most trusted adviser, a Baptist minister named Frederick T. Gates, had warned him, "Unless you distribute your vast fortune quicker than it grows, it will crush not only you and your children, but your children's children."

With the aid of his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., the senior Rockefeller spent the rest of his life giving away money and polishing his public image. He died in 1937, three months short of his 97th birthday.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. spent his life in the shadow of the family fortune. He was a shy, retiring man with little taste for the world of business and finance. He seemed almost apologetic about the family's wealth and spent most of his life giving part of it away.

In 1913, he organized the Rockefeller Foundation. By the time he died in 1960, the foundation and other family-funded agencies had given an estimated $2.5 billion to education, medical research and other social and charitable causes.

Despite such philanthropy, the children of John Jr. inherited considerable fortunes. A daughter and five sons, Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller included, seemed to wear their millions more comfortably. While their father was content with the quiet bankrolling of philanthropy, they have acquired a taste for active control and public leadership.

John D. Rockefeller 3rd, 68, eldest of the brothers, has been a leader in efforts to assess and deal with world population problems as founder and chairman of the Population Council.

Nelson Rockefeller, 66, spent much of his life in government service and politics. The third son, Laurance Rockefeller, 65, has combined an interest in conservation with business as developer of resort hotels in Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and elsewhere. Like the others of his generation, he has been willing to use the family wealth and influence in matters that concern him, such as environmental quality.

Winthrop Rockefeller, who died in 1973, displayed another trait of this Rockefeller generation, a willingness to move outside the family base in New York. He was twice elected governor of Arkansas after serving eight years as chairman of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

Youngest of the five brothers is David Rockefeller, 59, board chairman and chief executive officer of Chase Manhattan Bank, third largest in the country. He has gained a worldwide reputation as a powerful spokesman for the banking and business community.

A fourth generation of the dynasty now waits in the wings. There are more than a score of them, the children of Nelson Rockefeller and his generation, and they are already active in the arts, sciences, politics and the family's business and financial enterprises.

Changes Are Scheduled For Museum

By REESEHART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Museum of Natural History will undergo major changes in an effort to remove the stigma of a report which termed it "old-fashioned and aesthetically unappealing."

"Changes are already taking place," said Dr. John B. Funderburg, who took over his new job July 1 as museum director.

J.B. FUNDERBURG

"We plan to shift things around and close off areas where the space is not being utilized properly," he said in an interview.

"This museum should come alive with lecture programs and workshops for teachers. The people of North Carolina are on a cultural kick that delights me."

Although he has never served before as a museum director, Funderburg said he has "been interested in museums all my life."

He was chairman of the biology department at Dandolph-Macon College in Ashland, Va., before being appointed museum director by North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham. His salary is $20,664 a year.

In a report made public last November, a visiting committee of the American Association of Museums criticized the Tar Heel museum, terming it "institutional."

The committee recommended 2½ years ago that the museum be denied accreditation by the association.

Funderburg said that after arriving in Raleigh, "I spent a solid week giving instructions to the staff on what I wanted done. I intend to do proper planning first. We'll waste time and money if we undertake just a face-lifting job."

"We're not going to throw any of the exhibits out, but they many not always be on display. We plan to rotate exhibits. Don't expect us to be miracle workers and throw things together."

He acknowledged that "as far as the public and legislative support is concerned, the museum has been neglected."

Graham has made unsuccessful attempts in recent years to get the General Assembly to appropriate funds for a new museum building.

Funderburg, 52, a native of Wilmington, said the museum concept has remained unchanged for many years. "I promise changes."

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were one to two cents strong Tuesday. Supplies barely adequate, demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 64.07, medium whites 56.02, small whites 44.64.

RALEIGH—(AP)—(NCDA) — North Carolina F.O.B. dock broilers: market steady with this week's F.O.B. dock-weighted average price at 35.45 cents per pound. Supplies adequate, demand good; weights desirable. Estimated slaughter to today 1,161,000; Hens: market steady on heavy types. Supplies adequate and demand fairly good. Too few sources reporting.

RALEIGH—(P)—(NCDA) — North Carolina hogs: market steady to 50 lower. Kinston and Lumberton 37.50-38.50; Rocky Mount, 36.50-37.00; Tarboro and Bethel 36.00-36.50; Salisbury 38.00.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted lower today as Tuesday's modest technical rebound ran out of momentum.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.50 at 720.35, and losers held an 8-to-7 advantage over gainers in quiet trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the decline reflected some disappointment on Wall Street that Tuesday's recovery had not carried over into early trading today.

They also noted continuing discomfort over inflation prospects.

The government reported this morning that the rise of consumer prices slowed to a 9.6 per cent annual rate in July from 12 per cent the month before.

But the difference was accounted for by a decline in food prices, which is expected to reverse itself as the inflationary effects of the Midwest drought work their way through the distribution system to supermarket shelves.

Polaroid, the NYSE volume leader, fell 3 to 19 1/2. Late Tuesday the company said it had begun laying off some employees under a decision announced in July to "streamline operations."

AMP lost 1 1/2 to 31 1/2 in trading that included a 150,000-share block at 32.

Builders Investment Group was up 1 at 6 1/2, rebounding from some sharp declines over the past two sessions. The real estate investment trust said it had increased its credit facilities with a new $310.6-million revolving credit agreement running through next Jan. 31.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of nearly 1,500 common stocks was down .12 at 39.20.

On the American Stock Exchange, a bright earnings report for the fiscal year ended June 30 lifted Riley Co. 1 1/2 to 10 1/2.

The Amex market value index stood at 74.50, up .12.

Dr. Singh To Attend Meet

Dr. Avtar Singh of the Department of Sociology & Anthropology, East Carolina University, will attend the VIII World Congress of Sociology to be held at Toronto, Canada, August 20-24.

Dr. Singh will present a research paper "Community Structure & Project Accomplishment" in the joint meetings of Rural Sociological Society and American Sociological Association in Montreal, Canada. There, he will also preside over a Session on "Agriculture and Changing Rural Society."

In addition to research papers published in international journals of the United States, Europe, and India, Dr. Singh is the author of a monograph, and a book on leadership published in 1973. His forthcoming book on Community Structure and Technological Development based on a research carried out abroad is now with the Press.

Find Body Of Slain Woman

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The body of woman who had been shot twice in the neck was discovered in a field in Fayetteville Tuesday night.

Authorities tentatively identified her as Denise Louise King, 20. They said they believed she had been living recently in Hope Mills near Fayetteville, and that her 1972 drivers license indicated she had lived in Reidsville.

The police said she clutched a bottle of a prescription drug in her hand. She was wearing a halter and shorts when residents of the neighborhood found her. She is believed to have been dead from several hours to a day.

Liquid Theft

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Thieves chopped their way through a warehouse wall during the night and stole 7,000 bottles of whiskey and 2,500 bottles of champagne, estimated to be worth $150,000, police said today.

Columbus Day Set As Oct. 14

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has designated Oct. 14 as the day to honor Christopher Columbus.

In proclaiming the second Monday of October as Columbus Day, Ford said on Tuesday that "Americans of the 20th Century strive to follow the vision and unshakable faith of Christopher Columbus by seeking to discover a 'New World' of peace and cooperation among all men."

A long-standing congressional resolution requests the President to proclaim the holiday each year.

New Prexy For Singles Club

Luis Acevez was elected vice president of the Greenville Singles Club Monday in a meeting at the home of Gennie Heath.

Marty Bunn had resigned the office.

A membership meeting of the club will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Bank of North Carolina on Tenth Street here. There is no charge for the meeting and a social will be held following it. All singles over 21 are invited, according to the president, Ed Sturgeon.

Ford Pledges Shun Controls

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has pledged not to seek wage-price controls, saying recent experience makes it clear that compulsory controls would be most undesirable.

He made the statement on Tuesday as Congress was completing action on his request for legislation to re-establish a wage and price monitoring agency. The new agency would depend on investigation and disclosure of increases that threaten to feed inflation. It would have no authority to impose controls.

"I will do my best to see that the new price and wage monitoring agency works effectively to combat inflation," Ford said. "There will be no mandatory wage and price controls."

The President added that he wanted to get this message to labor and business leaders so they can act accordingly.

Ford also moved to set up a steering committee to prepare for an economic summit conference scheduled for late September or early October.

He has promised to preside at the economic summit, which also would include representatives from Congress, management, labor and consumer groups.

The bill setting up a Council on Wage and Price Stability, in effect a revival of the old Cost of Living Council, was the first specific legislation Ford asked for.

The House took the final action approving it on Tuesday, 369-27. The Senate already passed the bill.

While many congressmen, especially Democrats, have publicly expressed skepticism about the efficacy of an agency without

Tempers Are Still Hot

Kermit Alexander, an aging veteran and vice president of the National Football League Players Association, became the latest tug in the continuing war between the players and owners Tuesday.

One side contended that Alexander, who was given permission by the Philadelphia Eagles to negotiate with other teams, was an aging veteran, while the other side stressed he was the union vice president.

This latest disagreement between the players and owners indicates that even though the 14-day cooling off period in the NFLPA strike reached the halfway point today, passions once again are approaching the boiling point.

Alexander, an 11-year NFL veteran, was told by Eagles

Coach Mike McCormack Tuesday that he no longer fit into Philadelphia's plans.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, called Alexander's case "another blatant example to discriminate against the union," while McCormack said, "Kermit's standing on the strike had absolutely nothing to do with my decision."

Alexander, a veteran safety who has played sparingly for the Eagles the past two seasons, joined the club as a free agent in 1972.

Elsewhere on the disagreement front Garvey said his side had kicked the ball over to the owners with their new offer of Saturday night; now the owners have to do something with it.

However, a spokesman for the NFL Management Council, which rejected the union offer last Sunday, said:

"The players' bottom line offer" contained two totally new proposals, which we had never discussed before," Terry Bledsoe said in a New York telephone interview.

"The owners have not put any offer on the table," Garvey said in a Minneapolis press conference Tuesday. "The time has come for the owners to do something."

To that point Bledsoe replied, "We have put things on the table. I think the players are ignoring the fact that on July 19 we put a total offer on the table. If the terms of that offer had been satisfactory to them, we'd have a settlement right now."

Bledsoe admitted that the burden is now on the owners to make the next move.

"As a practical matter we're going to respond," said Bledsoe, who revealed that the executive committee of the NFLMC was to meet today in New York to draft "a more detailed response" to the union's latest offer.

First Two Are Out Of Field

Lancaster. First Free Will Baptist, and University Seafood of Greenville advanced in the winners' bracket along with Bank of North Carolina of Farmville in the Greenville Invitational Softball Tournament last night.

The first two teams were eliminated from the double elimination field as Moore Motor of Washington and Morgan Printers of Greenville fell by the wayside.

In the opening game, Bank of North Carolina took a 6-3 victory over Moore Motor BNC scored two in the first, then came up with four in the fifth for their total. Moore got one each in the second, third and fourth. Kennedy and Holbman homered for BNC.

University Seafood downed Marco Hi-Fi in the second game, 8-4. University got five in the first, all they were to need, but they added two in the third on Ward's homer, then got one in the fifth. Marco got two in the first and two more in the seventh.

First Free Will Baptist nipped Carolina Dairy, 8-7, in the next game. Both teams scored two runs in the first inning, but FWB got the lead with three in the second on Hines' homer. The Dairy got only one, but came back with four in the fourth for a 7-5 lead. FWB tied it up in the sixth and pushed over the winning run in the seventh.

Lancaster took a 9-1 win over Liberty Free Will Baptist. Lancaster got one in the first, six in the second, with Bass homering, one in the third and one in the fourth. The lone Liberty run came in the fourth.

In the losers' division, RCN took an 11-4 win over Moore, eliminating the loser. Moore got two in the first, but RCN came up with six in the third, three in the fourth and two in the sixth to wrap it up. Moore got one each in the sixth and seventh.

The final game saw Marco take a 7-3 win over Morgan Printers. Marco got three in the first, then added two more in the second, and two in the third. Morgan got one each in the second, third and sixth.

The tournament continues tonight with eight games scheduled.

Taiwan Opens Title Defense

By BOB WARNER
Associated Press Writer
WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The winning pitchers in the opening games of the Little League World Series, including one who tossed a one-hitter, said they were not overwhelmed by their twin shut-outs.

Right-hander Bob Trauger, a 12-year-old from Tallmadge, Ohio, gave up seven singles Tuesday in his 8-0 win over Athens, Greece, the European champions. The team is composed of children of American military and diplomatic personnel.

"They were hitting me pretty good," he said after the game.

Lin Wen-Hsiung, another 12-year-old, pitched the one-hitter to lead Kao Hsiung, Taiwan, to a 16-0 victory over New Haven, Conn.

Lin gave up three walks, blaming them on nervousness. Despite giving up only the one hit, he said he hoped to do better in the next game.

For Taiwan's remaining opponents in the 28th annual series, that can mean only bad news. Teams from the Asian island have won three straight Little League titles, and after Tuesday's game the islanders are favorites again this year.

Lin and three teammates each smacked home runs to lead Taiwan's 10-hit attack. They racked up 10 runs in the first two innings and coasted the rest of the way as Lin struck out 13.

New Haven's Lorenzo Vincent, who started on the mound and took the loss, led off the fourth inning with a double to spoil Lin's no-hitter. But he was stranded on third by an infield grounder and two strikeouts.

Trauger, tapped to pitch after Ohio's top two hurlers were reported too tired to play, said he didn't feel nervous until late in the game.

"I just wanted to go out and do the job," he said. "The rest of the team backed me up."

In the second set of first-round games today, Victoria, Canada, plays Red Bluff, Calif., and Jackson, Tenn., goes against Maracaibo, Venezuela.

America's Cup Eliminates Two

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — It's down to Courageous and Intrepid in the battle to decide which yacht has the honor of defending the America's Cup.

The New York Yacht Club eliminated Mariner and Valiant from the America's Cup trials Tuesday night. The selection committee, headed by Henry S. Morgan, announced its decision shortly after Intrepid beat Valiant by 10 minutes, 10 seconds and Courageous defeated Mariner by 8:10 in two light-air races sailed over the same 20-mile course on Rhode Island Sound Tuesday.

"Thank you for all you have done. It was a great effort," Morgan told George Hinman, manager of the Mariner syndicate, as members of both crews crowded around.

"I'm sorry we didn't do better," Hinman replied, "but I hope we made a worthwhile contribution to the defense of the cup."

The series between Courageous and Intrepid—for the right to face either France or Australia in the America's Cup races beginning Sept. 10—is expected to be a close one.

Intrepid holds a 7-5 edge in match races dating back to late June, while the rivals have split two meetings since the final trials started last week.

Courageous is a new aluminum boat built this year. Intrepid, by contrast, is a wooden boat which successfully defended the America's Cup in 1967 and 1970 against Australian contenders.

Both boats were designed by Olin Stephens.

The two foreign contenders, the French vessel France and the Australian yacht Southern Cross, begin a best-of-seven competition Thursday for the right to challenge for the cup.

First Round In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Two NCAA basketball tournament first-round games will be played in the Charlotte Coliseum next March 15.

The Atlantic Coast Conference and the Southern Conference champions will play at large teams in the Saturday afternoon doubleheader.

Winners will advance to the Eastern Regionals at Providence, R.I.

Under the new 32-team playoff system, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion will not receive a first-round bye.

Davidson College will be the host school for the first-round games in Charlotte. Dr. Tom Sitt, retired Davidson athletic director, is past chairman of the NCAA basketball committee.

Last year, no school in the Carolinas bid for first-round games. So the game between Southern Conference champion Furman and independent South Carolina was played in Philadelphia's Palestra, where it drew a very small crowd.

The other first-round games in the East next year will be at Penn State. The NCAA finals, won last season by North Carolina State, will be played in San Diego.

There is a possibility a second ACC team will be chosen for the 1975 tournament. If it is, it will have to compete in the West or Mid-West Regional.

It also is possible that the at-large teams competing in Charlotte could include the Pacific-8 or Western Athletic Conference runnerup, as well as an area independent such as South Carolina.

Standing Around Doesn't Pay Off—Except In Some AL Games

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Sometimes it doesn't pay to just stand around ... sometimes it does.

Third baseman Lenny Randle of Texas just stood around the bag—and nearly got tagged with a punch in the mouth for not moving away during the Rangers' 2-1 loss to Baltimore.

And Bert Blyleven of Minnesota just stood around near third base and got tagged with an error and a 2-1 loss to the New York Yankees for not being 90 feet away.

In his way. "I told him to move aside and one word led to another." After a few punches, Randle backed off and both benches emptied.

When the dust settled, Baylor went back to third, then scored on a single by Brooks Robinson.

Yankees 2, Twins 1
Blyleven was near third. Catcher Glenn Borgmann was down the first base line, chasing a wild throw by shortstop Danny Thompson.

And Bobby Murcer of the Yankees, was rounding third and suddenly noticed that nobody—except umpire Larry Napp—was anywhere near home plate. So Murcer raced home with the run that beat the Twins.

Royals 2, Indians 0
Homers by Tony Solaita and Fran Healy sent Kansas City past Gaylor Perry and the Indians. Fitzmorris pitched five three-hit innings but had to leave because of injuries sustained from hard grounders that bounced off his right leg and his pitching hand for hits.

Tigers 1, Angels 0
Bill Freehan's single in the 11th inning gave Mickey Lolich and the Tigers their victory over the Angels, spoiling Ryan's near-record performance.

Red Sox 8, White Sox 2
The Red Sox widened their

East Division lead to 5½ games as Dwight Evans hit a three-run double in the third and second baseman Doug Griffin turned in a series of sensational fielding plays to beat the White Sox.

A's 7, Brewers 1
Sal Bando singled home Oakland's tie-breaking run in the eighth inning, then Gene Tenance slugged a grand-slam homer in the A's victory over Milwaukee.

In National League action it was: Los Angeles 18, Chicago 8; Atlanta 8, St. Louis 6; Cincinnati 7, Philadelphia 1; San Diego 3, Montreal 0; Houston 6, New York 2, and San Francisco 8, Pittsburgh 7 in 10 innings.

Second Teams Made Eligible

ST. LOUIS (AP) — More than one team from a conference will be eligible to participate in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament in the future, according to action taken Tuesday by the NCAA Executive Committee.

The committee, which held its annual meeting here, announced a policy change which permits a team other than the conference title holder to be eligible for one of the 12 "at large" berths in the national tournament.

Sixteen of the 32 tournament spots go to conference champions and four others are taken from regional tournaments conducted by the East Coast Athletic Conference.

ever, no more than two teams from a conference may participate in the national tournament.

Tickets for the 1975 tournament will cost more than before, the NCAA said. Ticket prices for early-round action will go up from $4 to $5 and prices for the finals—to be held in San Diego—will go up from $10 to $12. The price for admission to the 1976 finals in Philadelphia will go up to $12.50.

The policy makers also announced that a 1974-1975 operating budget of $2,495,000 had been approved. The budget includes $200,000 for use in enforcing the NCAA's recruiting rules.

Also adopted was a rule requiring coaches to open their locker rooms to newsmen 10 minutes after the end of a game.

Man Banned In Park Of Iguazu Falls

By WILLIAM R. LONG
Associated Press Writer
IGUAZU FALLS, Brazil (AP) — Sightseers come from thousands of miles away to watch tons of river water tumble noisily over high brinks beside subtropical woods. And there's always a roaring welcome for visitors at Iguazu Falls, the Niagara of South America.

But the welcome stops at the edge of the adjacent Iguazu forest, a primitive preserve of cinnamon trees, palms, wildcats, deer, monkeys, snakes and butterflies.

"Man is prohibited," says Jaime de Paiva Bello, administrator of the 420,000-acre national park.

Bello said a force of 50 forest rangers has orders to keep anyone without special permission from penetrating the virgin areas of the dense woods.

"We should not go into the forest because we pollute it for animals," he told an interviewer. "It is a museum of the flora and fauna of southwestern Brazil. It maintains a primitive state and system of ecology."

Tourists can scan the forbidden forest from above when the airliner bringing them to this remote corner of Brazil dips and circles the famous cataracts.

Woods similar to those of the park can be seen along the road from the nearby airport, which is being expanded for big jetliners that will bring growing droves of sightseers to the falls. Visitors entering the park for a close-up look at the cascading water of the Iguazu River may step into the shady fringe of the forest preserve. But they will see little or none of the wildlife hidden deep inside the restricted wilds — the panthers, parrots, tapirs, anteaters, furry spiders and giant beetles.

The park administrator said 286,000 tourists came to see the falls in 1972, and 326,000 in 1973.

The growing number of sightseers, however, isn't seen as the greatest threat to the forest's natural habitat. Bello said more damage is done by hunters, woodcutters and settlers.

And thieves. "They steal a lot of palmettos," he said. The palmetto tree, which produces succulent and marketable hearts of palm, is among the wide variety of plant life in the national park.

The settler problem, Bello said, dates back to the early years of the park, which was founded in 1939. He said about 30,000 acres of parkland is occupied by about 430 families — mostly farmers of German and Italian origin.

"They bought the lands, but there was a sale that wasn't quite right," the administrator said.

Bello, a 58-year-old retired army colonel, was brought into the park's top job three years ago with the main goal of re-settling the 430 families on outside land.

"There are persons who accept this, and others who don't," he said. "But what is certain is that they all will get out."

One complication in the move is that some of the new land designated for the settlers may be flooded by a giant reservoir, to be created in the Itaipu hydroelectric dam project. Bello said other land will have to be found for the settlers before work is finished on the 10.7-million-kilowatt dam, planned as the most powerful in the world.

The $3-billion structure, to be built in eight years by Paraguay and Brazil on the Parana River between them, is also expected to flood the Sete Quedas waterfalls on the same river.

Sete Quedas, 150 miles north of Iguazu Falls and also part of a national park, is known for the force and velocity of its plummeting waters.

It is not as high or spectacular as the Iguazu Falls, nor as accessible to tourists. But some nature lovers have complained that a major natural wonder will be eliminated when the Itaipu reservoir backs up in Sete Quedas Falls.

The Itaipu project will not alter the Iguazu Falls or river, whose waters flow into the Parana downstream from the planned dam.

The dam's construction, which will bring thousands of workers and better transportation to the area, is expected to boost the number of visitors to Iguazu Falls. Once finished, the high dam and the big reservoir will be added attractions for visitors.

But Iguazu Falls will remain the area's main magnet for sightseers.

Germans Still Remember Postwar Inflation Crisis

By ROON LEWALD
Associated Press Writer
BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germans have the lowest inflation rate of the major industrialized countries, but still they worry about it.

Many of them remember 1923 when postwar inflation went haywire, with the mark plunging from four to the dollar to several trillion to the dollar in a matter of months.

Workers were paid then by the day and they carted their money away in wheelbarrows, rushing to the butcher of the baker to unload it before the mark's value fell in the next hour or so.

That inflation was brought on by reparations payments to the World War I allies.

Many more West Germans remember inflation after World War II, with black market barter and cigarettes replacing Hitler's now-worthless reichsmark.

So when inflation began sweeping the world — helped on by Arab oil prices — the West Germans already were acting to keep it down.

Declaring lower prices the priority goal, the government, then headed by Chancellor Willy Brandt, instituted in May 1972, Germany's toughest anti-inflation measures in years. It slapped temporary 10 per cent tax surcharges on 800,000 Germans earning more than $9,200 a year and on 50,000 businesses. It taxed capital investments by 11 per cent and lowered tax write-offs on housing, both measures designed to lower investments, thus taking money out of circulation.

Other anti-inflation moves included cutting "back government spending by $400 million and floating "stability" loans to provide high interest rates and encourage investors to tie up money in savings. The Frankfurt Central Bank clamped rigorously high interest rates on credit.

The result was that this European economic giant so far has withstood better than any other Western country the inflationary surge caused by massive oil and raw material price increases.

Its 7.2 per cent annual increase in prices for the German consumer contrasts with 10.7 per cent in the United States, 10.9 in Canada, 8.5 in Sweden, 9.8 in Switzerland, 13.5 in France, 16 in Britain and 23.9 in Japan.

The German rate went down even more in the spring. In a recent interview, however, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, who was finance minister before succeeding Brandt in May, said he expects higher rates this year but that the over-all 1974 level will be less than 8 per cent, a record in postwar Germany. In 1973 it was 6.9 per cent.

The drive hasn't been without its difficulties. The measures to cut back housing construction were so successful that there were 37,400 construction workers unemployed in June. Overall unemployment due to the anti-inflation moves and oil price increases more than doubled in a year from 230,000 to 490,000, up from 1.2 per cent of the work force to 2.2 per cent.

The important auto industry, including Volkswagen, the world's third largest car manufacturer, has had to resort to short-time schedules and bonus incentives for workers to resign.

Economics Minister Hans Friderichs' latest estimate is that growth in the country's gross national product — the total value of goods and services — will decline to 2 per cent this year from last year's 5.3 per cent, mainly as a result of the oil crisis.

And the German consumer, who recalls that a 3 per cent inflation rate helped topple the government of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard just seven years ago, is reeling.

A blue-collar worker here earns about $600 a month; his colleague in the white collar about $840.

He pays $2.38 a pound for pot roast that cost $1.85 three years ago. A man's suit that used to cost $84 now sells for $106, a man's haircut is up from $1.56 to $2.08, and a gallon of regular gasoline now costs $1.29 instead of 90 cents.

Though high by German standards, the price increases still are close to half the average of the nine Common Market countries. How was it done?

Friderichs, the Economics Minister, believes the deutschemark's participation in a joint float of West European currencies helped fight inflation by maintaining flexible exchange rates.

But Schmidt, considered a leading anti-inflation apostle, attributes the comparatively low inflation rate to the domestic moves that helped fashion what he calls the "hyper-solid" German economy.

Unlike many other Western countries, Germany's balance of payments is sound, which means that the total amount of money flowing into the country is more than the outflow. Although the balance includes the movement of capital — German companies investing in other countries and vice versa — tourism, services and freight, international trade is the key.

And Germany's booming exports almost doubled the trade surplus from $5.1 billion in the first half of last year to about $10 billion in January-June, 1974.

Also, West Germany's currency reserves stood at $37.2 billion on July 31, more than any other industrial nation including the United States. This is a soft and plush cushion to absorb future economic shocks.

In recent months, Schmidt has repeatedly said imposition of domestic measures similar to Bonn's is the only way for embattled economies like Italy's to fight their balance of payments difficulties.

If the consumer is hurting, and unemployment on the rise, Schmidt's government is waiting for further developments before major overhauls in its program, especially regarding high credit costs. It feels as do many other governments, the program has worked rather well.

It contends that the woes of the auto and construction industries are due to structural difficulties within the industries, not to the government's stabilization measures.

Report Franco Has Recovered

LAR CORUNA, Spain (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco, 81, has so completely recovered from three weeks in the hospital that his health is now "better than a normal man his age," his doctor says.

The dictator, who has ruled Spain for more than 35 years, was treated in July for thrombophlebitis, an inflammation of the veins.

"He is taking walks every day through the gardens of El Pazo de Meiras," his doctor said Tuesday, and soon plans to play some golf.

'Gainesville Eight' Still Feel Effects Of Trial

By JOHN MUELLER
Associated Press Writer
GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A year after they were acquitted, defendants in the Gainesville Eight conspiracy case say they're still trying to recover from the trial's effects.

"I still don't trust a whole lot of people," said Scott Camil, a defendant whose best friend turned out to be a government informer. Camil's feelings seem to mirror those of the other defendants.

Seven members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War and a sympathizer were found innocent last Aug. 31 of plotting violence during the 1972 Republican National Convention.

The trial lasted nearly five weeks but the jury took less than four hours to decide their innocence.

The eight were Camil,

Stanley Michelson, Alton Foss and John Briggs, all of Gainesville; Don Perdue, of Hollywood, Fla.; Peter Mahoney of New York; Bill Patterson of El Paso, Tex., and John Kniffin of Austin, Tex.

In May, the eight filed a $1.2 million suit against government prosecutors charging they deprived the defendants of their constitutional rights by using paid FBI informers.

The government's case was based primarily on informers and paid agents who infiltrated the VVAW. One of the informers was Emerson Poe, a close friend of Camil.

"I keep much more to myself than I did before the trial. It's a bummer because I like people," Camil, 28, said.

Camil left Gainesville briefly after the trial, shaved off his curly black beard and then slipped quietly back into this North Florida university community to write a book and help produce a movie about his experiences.

After the trial, the defendants scattered across the country.

"We're trying to get together a reunion of the Gainesville Eight trial," Camil said. "We're trying to get it set for the end of August in Gainesville."

Kniffin, 32, is working as a mechanic in Brenham, Tex., and taking night courses at the University of Texas in Austin, working toward a degree in sociology.

"The trial created financial hardships that will be hard to overcome," Kniffin, who is married, said.

Defense attorneys donated their time, but after the trial Kniffin estimated the defendants still owed some $40,000 for transcripts, legal costs and travel expenses for themselves and witnesses.

Kniffin is still active in veterans' affairs and participated in the veterans' demonstration in Washington, D.C., on July 4.

Briggs, 22, is working as a recording engineer in Gainesville and manages a rock band.

"I've had just hard times getting things together. I feel really afraid to open up to new people who come into my life. I just don't talk much," Briggs said.

Michelson, 25, is back in Gainesville after working on a Puerto Rican farm. He is active in the American Veterans Movement. He was among a group that recently took over an elevator in the Washington monument.

"I went to Puerto Rico so I could be Stanley. I had to be just Stanley, just myself. A lot of people introduce you 'This is Stan Michelson. He's one of the Gainesville Eight,'" Michelson said.

Patterson, 26, who represented himself at the trial, is attending the University of Texas branch in El Paso, "trying to recover," and trying to get his head and his finances together.

"I think I had probably the highest level of blind hostility I've ever had in my life" when the trial ended, Patterson said. That hostility, aimed at police and law enforcement agencies, caused him to be harassed by the police and arrested.

He was taken before a judge for failure to identify himself to an officer and was arrested another time for having a weapon, which turned out to be legal, he said.

Patterson said he's still suspicious of people.

Foss, 27, still faces legal trouble. He is accused of selling five pounds of marijuana to an undercover narcotics agent.

His trial was postponed in July because he was committed to a Veterans' Administration Hospital mental ward strapped to a stretcher after a weekend of using cocaine and barbituates in nervous anticipation of the trial.

He left after a week and a half in the hospital, when he woke up one night to find another patient urinating on him. "There's nobody who's ever going to get well in that place," he said.

Foss said he's been apolitical since the trial, raising food in his own garden and keeping bees.

Perdue, 25, is working as a diving instructor in Hollywood, Fla., and plans to return to school part-time in the fall to finish up a degree in oceanography.

"I think a lot of people are seeing it our way now," Perdue said, adding that

Quick Divorce Is Denied Foxx

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Comedian Redd Foxx has lost a bid for a quick divorce and a later property settlement with his wife Betty Jean.

Foxx, star of television's "Sanford and Son" series, moved for a summary judgment, but it was denied on Monday by District Court Judge Keith Hayes. A hearing was set for a later, unspecified date.

Foxx testified he and his wife were incompatible.

"We just don't get along. She wants to go out at night and I'm too tired," said Foxx, 51.

The couple has been married five years. They have no children.

people are believing the defense claims that their prosecution was tied to Watergate.

Mahoney, 26, has been attending Hunter College, working part-time in an off-track betting shop and participating in an occasional demonstration.

He said that following the trial he had trouble for a long time trusting new people and was treated by a psychiatrist.

Perdue and his wife planned to spend a month this summer in Europe.

"This is the trip we were supposed to take in August of 1972. We never quite got there," he said.

Reveal Queen's Jet Was Met

RAMSTEIN, West Germany (AP) — Queen Elizabeth's jet was en route to Bali in March when it was approached by four Phantom jets, the U.S. Air Force has disclosed.

A spokesman for British Airways in London said the Queen's pilot reported the incident at the time and said the fighter planes were never close enough to the monarch's VC10 to constitute a "near miss."

The Air Force's European headquarters in West Germany said on Tuesday that the incident occurred during a NATO maneuver over Karlsruhe and the pilots were keeping strictly to their prescribed routes.

LEFT HOLDING THE BABY—Italian actress Sophia Loren is left holding five-month-old Jacqueline Turner between takes of the film "Brief Encounter" in southern England. Miss Loren is starring with Richard Burton in the film version of the Noel Coward play about two people, both married to other partners, who meet and fall in love in a rural train station. The baby was among extras in a crowd scene. (AP Wirephoto)

Ship-Sinking Is Delayed

Threatening weather has delayed the sinking of a World War II Liberty Ship off Wrightsville Beach. The state Department of Natural and Economic Resources said the ship, which will form the nucleus of an artificial reef, was to have been sunk Aug. 22. However, the ship, which will be towed, did not depart a Newport News, Va., shipyard as scheduled Monday and could be delayed longer if offshore threatening weather moves closer to the coast. If the weather improves and the ship is pulled out of the yard Wednesday, state commercial and sports fisheries officials are hoping to sink the ship by the end of the week. The sunken vessel will attract fish, officials say. The reef, which will include tires and measure approximately one-half mile by one fourth mile, will be located about three miles northeast of Wrightsville Beach in the Atlantic Ocean.

WOMAN ALONE
BONN (UPI) — Nearly four million women live alone in West Germany either as "bachelors," widows, or divorcees, but many of them find it hard to make ends meet. The Federal Statistical Office said the average monthly income, tax exempt, was 640 marks ($206) but many of the women actually earned less. Despite the hardships, three of four women managed to deposit monthly sums in savings banks.

Opening lead: King of ♥

There is a sound general rule of defensive play: If an expert declarer presents you with a trick early in the play, it could be right to refuse to take it. Unfortunately, East was unaware of this concept.

South, former world champion George Raape, is one of the great players of all time. Though he did not hold much in the way of high cards, his hand was strong distributionally and he refused to allow West's preempt to shut him out of the auction. Despite the vulnerability, he boldly introduced the spade suit at the four-level and bought the contract.

West led the king of hearts and continued with the jack, declarer ruffing. If trumps broke 3-2 and West held the ace of diamonds, the contract was safe. However, in view of West's preempt there was a good chance that one of the black suits would break badly. To trick three Raape led the ace of spades, and the nine from West caused declarer to suspect—that trumps were going to divide 4-1.

It was tempting to enter dummy with a club to take a trump finesse. However, Raape realized that, even if the finesse won, the contract would fail, for there would be no way to draw the fourth trump and run the clubs. With campaign. The opulent, 83-foot car was purchased by the Burlington Railroad in 1944 and renamed the "Blackhawk."

In 1966, the car changed hands again. It was purchased by two San Diego distributing company executives, S. Steve Sourpas and John Cuchna. They renamed the car the "Victoria."

Now they are turning over the plush pullman to the Pacific Southwest Railway Museum Association of San Diego, which plans to prepare it for future travels.

"This is a real rarity," said Jack Stodelle, director of the museum. "It has a diesel stove, two rear staterooms, a solarium lounge that seats 12 and it can sleep eight. We'll have it on display to the public for a while, but when we get the money we'd like to get her ready to get back in service."

He said the museum needs $8,000 to put new couplings on the car to conform to modern equipment and then "she'll be ready for charter."

How much will it cost to rent the car?

"In the neighborhood of about $200 a day plus rail costs, which run about a dollar a mile," he said. "Of course, that's not bad if you're taking 20 people."

CONFESSION PRAISED

NEW YORK (UPI) — A proposed Declaration of Faith under study by the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. has been lauded as "potentially historic" by the American Jewish Committee because the confession specifically repudiates antisemitism.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your desire now is to produce results and you have many practical ideas how this can best be done. Start a campaign to gain your overall aims. You can take the best from the past and coordinate them with a modern approach.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Find a more modern system of handling routines so they are not so boring. Discuss with mate how you can make the future brighter.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make it a point to talk with associates about better arrangements for the future. Discuss new projects that can increase income.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your ideas are good for improving routines. A more cooperative attitude with fellow workers brings right results. Be logical.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are highly inspired now and can accomplish much in your line of endeavor. Show greater interest in the scientific.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan the social and other pleasures and have a good time today. Charm bigwigs as well as others. Be sure to count your blessings.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Think of a practical way to get good friends to join you in a pet project you have. Ideal day for engaging in favorite hobby.

Doesn't Want To Stay On As One-Man Utility

By T. LEE HUGHES
Associated Press Writer
LOWPOINT, Ill. (AP) — For 32 years, Lynn L. Banta has operated a one-man utility providing water to this tiny Midwestern village. Now he wants out.

Residents will vote in a referendum Aug. 31 on whether to form a water district to take over the Lowpoint Water Co. And Banta says he doesn't even want to remain on as a trustee.

"I would prefer to have nothing further to do with it," said Banta, 63, who lives in Peoria. "I think 32 years is probably long enough for one individual. They might have somebody else who could do a lot better job, really."

Lowpoint is a quiet rural community in Woodford County with a population of about 250. But Banta, who also operates four grain elevators, has problems not unlike the giant utilities that serve metropolitan areas.

"It hasn't been that much of a care really," he said. "We handle our bookkeeping right through our regular grain office."

"But we do have to go around and read the meters. And if for some reason or another a pump goes out and you don't have water tomorrow morning you get about a dozen phone calls awfully quick," he said.

The water works was set up in the early 1900s to serve the employees of Banta Bros. Inc.,

Heartworm Is Spreading

SILVER SPRING, Md. (UPI) — A dog heartworm epidemic that started in the southeastern United States is spreading throughout the country, says veterinarian Ronald Jackson.

The disease is transmitted by mosquitoes and usually is fatal, Jackson said. He is president of the newly formed American Heartworm Society, which was organized to combat the disease.

Jackson said heartworm is hard to treat because it reaches advanced stages before typical symptoms become visible.

The veterinarian said one dog infected with the disease can infect an entire area if there are mosquitoes around.

He had this advice for pet owners:
Spray your property with an approved insecticide.

Spray your dog with an insecticide to protect him outdoors.
Drain puddles and other stagnant water around your home.

Remove cans and other containers in which water might collect.
Drain stopped-up house gutters.

Empty small, plastic swimming pools if you are going to be away for an extended period.

And have your pet examined twice yearly by a veterinarian to be sure it is free from heartworm disease.

Country Music Team Planning Tour in Russia

By CHRISTOPHER CABOT
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—American country music is getting dressed up, packaged and shipped to the Soviet Union next month — compliments of Opryland U.S.A.

The month-long export tour features Tennessee Ernie Ford and country music ingenue Sandi Burnett plus 21 youthful singers, dancers and musicians, all of them Opryland summer stock.

"This will be a complete show," said Dick Kugeman, Opryland entertainment director. "It will trace the evolution of country and western music from its Anglo-Celtic origins to the present day, contemporary electric sound."

Written, produced, directed and choreographed entirely at the $43 million Opryland complex outside Nashville, the show will tour Russia under the auspices of the U.S. State Department.

"The idea was conceived about a year and a half ago," Kugeman said. "Except for a small tour by George Hamilton, no country music shows have ever toured the Soviet Union."

"We look on it as a national and moral responsibility to do this show. It's a marvelous opportunity to present the U.S.S.R. with an idea, a show, of American country music."

The troupe members are mostly in their 20s, many of them college students or graduates. All are summer performers at Opryland's musical shows. All have musical backgrounds, but few have much professional experience.

Miss Burnett, a 23-year-old brunette from Gulfport, Miss., sang for two summers at Opryland before signing a recording contract with Columbia Records. She has made a guest appearance on the Grand Ole Opry and on the television show "Music Country U.S.A."

"We considered trying some established, well known country artists, but then decided we had the talent right here at Opryland," Kugeman said. "People are taken by the youth, vitality, energy these young people possess."

"These are people without exception who are competent, capable musicians. They're very versatile which a traditional country artist might not be."

"The principal goal is for us to put together a show that's understood and well received. We're dealing with a type of music that Russians have no knowledge of or experience with — and a type of showmanship they've never seen before."

"They have no frame of reference for country music. That's why it's the kind of thing this country should do to promote understanding."

"It would have been utterly impossible as little as three years ago to do something like this. But with the detente policy, we have an opportunity to present the U.S.S.R. with this kind of show."

The show itself will be divided into such categories as folk, Bluegrass, cowboy, railroad songs and modern country. On the program are such favorites as "This Land is Your Land," "Foggy Mountain Breakdown," "John Henry," "Wabash Cannonball," "Folsom Prison Blues," "Red River Valley" and "Jambalaya."

In addition many group numbers, Ford and Miss Burnett will both sing solos.

The itinerary calls for shows in Yerevan, Tbilisi, Baku, Leningrad and Moscow.

Find Wreck, Seven Dead

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — The wreckage of a U.S. Air Force cargo plane and the bodies of its seven crewmen were found strewn across an icy 20,000-foot-high plateau two days after the plane disappeared in a storm.

The itinerary calls for shows in Yerevan, Tbilisi, Baku, Leningrad and Moscow.

A U.S. embassy spokesman said the C141 transport crashed into the taller of the two Huayna-Potosi peaks moments before it was to land at La Paz, 17 miles northwest of the mountain. It was carrying 16 tons of cargo for delivery to La Paz.

The search patrol was plagued by four-below-zero cold and a stiff wind as it collected the remains of the crew on Tuesday.

"The aircraft crashed against one of the peaks, the tallest, and hurtled onto the snow-swept mesa (plateau)," said an officer of the U.S. military mission in La Paz. "The wreckage is spread over several miles, and the bodies of the crew members are badly broken up."

Heavy snow and high winds had been buffeting the area for more than a week. Bolivian pilots sighted the wreckage Monday during a brief clearing in the weather.

The C141 had come from the Charleston, S.C., Air Force Base, and the embassy said the bodies would be returned there. The victims were from the Charleston area.
