Ford Says "Inflation Can Be Licked"

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Declaring "inflation can be licked," President Ford took a first swing at it Saturday by signing legislation to establish a wage-price watchdog council equipped only with powers of persuasion.

At the signing ceremonies, Ford also pledged he would bring the 1975 federal budget back under the $300 billion mark and said, "we can do it."

Official creation of the new economic monitoring panel, Ford's first move toward developing his own anti-inflation strategy, capped a typical working Saturday for the President and set him up for a weekend of golf, swimming and relaxation.

"This legislation is not the forerunner of wage-price controls," Ford promised as he signed the Cost of Living Stabilization Act rushed through by Congress at his request as a presidential honeymoon present.

Nonetheless, he said at signing ceremonies, it will provide guidance and convey restraint to labor and management in the economic field, and proves Congress and the White House can work together to fight inflation.

The new council will have eight members chosen by Ford to monitor wage-price trends and, as its maximum power, hold hearings on wage or price hikes it considers unreasonable as a means of exerting persuasive pressure against them.

Ford said he will announce the membership of the council shortly so that it can convene promptly and develop an agenda for immediate action.

"Inflation can be licked here as well as abroad," he said.

"This new council will provide us with one means of identifying and exposing some of the causes of inflation," Ford said in a formal statement issued after the ceremony.

But, he added, "I must re-emphasize that the council should not be a stepping stone back to mandatory wage and price controls. We have learned from experience that in today's economy, controls lead to disruptions and new troubles."

—Signed a bill extending for one year appropriations authorizations for the National Health Service Corps scholarship program and the Health Professions and Nursing Students programs. The bill authorizes $135 million for the loan programs and $40 million in the scholarship program.

Fishing Boats In Protest

TOKYO (UPI) — A fleet of more than 200 fishing boats rallied around "Mutsu," Japan's first nuclear-powered ship, in Mutsu Port in northern Japan Saturday in protest against its first trial run scheduled for Sunday.

Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka said Friday the test run, to be made in the Pacific some 480 miles off the coast, will be carried out as scheduled despite the nonviolent protest.

"Mutsu," which is manned by a crew of 49, is capable of making 7½ round-the-world cruises without refueling at an average speed of 16.5 knots.

$400 Million Postal Deficit

ATLANTA (UPI) — Postmaster General E. T. Klassen says a possible $400 million deficit for the postal service in the next fiscal year will require either a rate increase or a government subsidy.

Klassen told a meeting of the National Association of Postal Supervisors Friday night that the deficit will be caused by increased fuel costs and salary costs, and he predicted postal rates will be raised within the year unless Congress authorizes a federal subsidy.

Fire Destroys Exhibit

TORONTO (UPI) — A fire early Saturday destroyed a $500,000 Spanish art exhibit and the $10 million Canadian National Exhibition that housed it on the shore of Lake Ontario.

The fire razed the 65-year-old International Building, described as one of the finest pieces of architecture on the grounds. There were no injuries.

The exhibit, on loan from the Spanish government, included ceramics, paintings, antique costumes and armor, and intricately embroidered bullfighter costumes.

Wachovia Tries For Hickory

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)— Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. of North Carolina has filed an application to open a branch office at Hickory, N.C., according to John Hensel, regional administrator of the National Bank Examiners.

Hensel said objections to Wachovia's application have been filed by First National Bank of Catawba County in Hickory, the Bank of Granite and First Citizens Bank and Trust Co. in Smithfield.

Greece Accepts Soviet Plan

By United Press International

Greece and the Greek Cypriot president spurned a British proposal Saturday for the revival of the defunct Geneva Cyprus peace conference and at the same time tentatively accepted a Soviet plan for expanded peace talks with participation by the Communist powers.

The United States has not yet officially reacted to the Soviet proposal, but diplomatic sources in London predicted Washington would turn it down.

Turkey has not officially accepted or rejected the Soviet plan either. An Ankara foreign ministry source reacted cooly to the plan, saying Turkey "is willing to negotiate with the interested parties only."

Turkey warned the Cypriot government its troops now controlling one third of the island in the Mediterranean would retaliate against Greek Cypriots if they conducted guerrilla warfare.

The Turkish warning in Ankara came in reaction to a statement by Greek Cypriot President Glafcos Clerides, who said in Athens that if a peace settlement is not reached:

"There is nothing left for us but to conduct a guerrilla war against the Turks, who will soon find out that their perimeter in Cyprus is not inviolable."

"We have accepted the Soviet proposal in principle," said Greek government spokesman Panayotis Lambrias. "The government reserves to itself the right to express its observations on the proposal when it answers officially to the Soviet Union through its ambassador in Athens on Monday."

No Headway

By United Press International

Syrian Foreign Minister Abd al-Halim Khaddam and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger wound up three days of talks Saturday with no significant headway in solving the problem of Palestinian refugees which Arab leaders say is the key to unlocking a lasting Middle East peace.

The Washington meetings ended without publication of a joint communique similar to those issued after Kissinger's other meetings this month with Arab and Israeli officials announcing the participants found some common ground in settling Middle East problems.

Remarks by Kissinger and Khaddam at a Friday night dinner in the Syrian's honor indicated the two did not come up with any acceptable ideas on a Palestinian state for the refugees.

Vietnamese Fighting Intensifies

By NGUYEN ANH TUYET

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist rockets aimed at the sprawling Bien Hoa air base north of Saigon fell short for the second day in a row and struck a residential area Saturday, killing five civilians, the Saigon command said.

Field reports said Communist troops also cut a vital road link to Da Nang in a new drive just eight miles from South Vietnam's second largest city.

Four other persons were wounded when at least six 107mm mortars crashed into a populated quarter in Duc Tu district on the edge of the Bien Hoa base, 14 miles north of the capital, the command said.

The air base and the surrounding area were struck at sunup Friday with 15 Russian-made 122mm rockets, the biggest in the Communist arsenal. Most of the rockets fell into civilian areas, killing eight persons and wounding 11.

The city has a population of about 175,000 and houses the military headquarters which commands government units in the 11 provinces around Saigon. Government planes fly from the base each day on bombing runs against Communist positions.

UPI photographer Lim Thanh Van said the battle south of Da Nang on Highway 1 killed at least 11 civilians, most of them war refugees. Military casualties were not known.

South Vietnamese units based at the Cau Ren bridge tried to defend their position and the civilians were caught in the crossfire, field officers said.

In Laos, Premier Souvanna Phouma appealed to his countrymen in a nationwide radio broadcast Saturday to take special precautions to avoid "every possible conflict" while he is in France recovering from a heart attack he suffered July 12.

The neutralist premier named Deputy Premier Phoumi Vongvichit, a member of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, to preside over the four-month-old coalition government in his absence.

Military sources said the plane was not hit and the aircraft continued its flight. They said it had not been determined why the plane strayed into the restricted area.

Razak Wins In Malaysia

By RATAN SINGH

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI) — Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak's ruling National Front won an easy landslide victory today in Malaysian general elections to retain power for another five years.

In partial voting returns compiled early today, the front won a simple majority of 78 seats in the 154-seat parliament and seven of the 12 contested state assemblies.

In the incomplete returns, the only opposition party winning parliamentary representation in Malaysia's fourth post-independence elections was the Democratic Action Party, which got four seats. Opposition was badly fragmented.

An officially estimated 70 per cent of the four million voters cast their ballots when polling closed at 6:30 a.m. EDT in a peaceful, even sluggish turnout.

Unlike 1969 when 200 persons were killed in race riots between minority Chinese and majority Malays, elections Saturday were uneventful.

The 40,000 strong national police force was out in full force while army units in tanks were on standby alert near urban centers as a precaution against attempts to disrupt the voting by racial or Communist elements. No incidents were reported.

Vacations End For Students

Monday will bring to an end summer vacations for some 12,000 Pitt County students as the county schools begin another year.

School officials say an estimated 8,500 elementary students and 3,600 high school young people are expected to attend Pitt schools this year.

Elementary students will begin classes tomorrow at the regular time — 8:30 a.m., but for them, school will be out at 11:30.

High School juniors and seniors will attend half-day schedules, either from 9 a.m. to 11:30 or from 1 p.m. to 3:30 Monday, with freshmen and sophomores having one additional day of vacation.

Transporting the students to school this year will be 184 buses (including those assigned to the Greenville city unit which starts operations on Tuesday).

One Year 'Crowded ' Situation Due To 2nd Year Medical School

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

According to the administrator of the Pitt Memorial Hospital, Jack Richardson, "Crowded" situation may exist at the local facility in late 1975 and early 1976 when second year medical students from East Carolina University use the hospital for clinical facilities.

In commenting on his meetings with the UNC officials, Richardson added, "They have been very cooperative ...professional...everybody has been working to find a solution and we've been encouraged."

However, Richardson adds that this situation is not one which the hospital could not live with until the new Pitt General Hospital is completed in 1976.

The possibility of crowded situation has been brought out from discussions between hospital, UNC and ECU officials within the past weeks as an affiliation agreement has been discussed for the hospital and the ECU medical school.

"The way the time table has been presented to us, at the most there will be one year between the opening of the new hospital and the closing of the old one where maybe two times per week there will be second year medical students in our hospital," says Richardson, in explaining a factor that would cause a crowded situation.

Tax, Amnesty Are Issues

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WILMINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms and Republican Senate candidate William E. Stevens agreed on opposition to a gasoline tax increase but disagreed on amnesty in a joint appearance Saturday night.

Helms, North Carolina's first Republican senator, and Stevens, who would like to be the second, said they both opposed a proposal floated as a trial ballon by the Ford Administration this week.

Raising the gasoline tax by 10 cents, they said, would not curb inflation. They advocated a balanced federal budget to combat the price spiral.

Speaking at a fish fry, Helms said he disagreed with Ford on amnesty for Vietnam draft resisters and military deserters.

"As far as I'm concerned, they can stay there (in exile)," Helms said.

Stevens took his position earlier in the evening as he circulated through the crowd. A querulous Vietnam veteran asked him whether he favored Ford's call for leniency and individual treatment of draft resisters and deserters.

Stevens replied that while he resented those who refused to serve in Vietnam, he would support an amnesty proposal that would require "real and useful" alternative service as a condition for returning to the country.

Stevens said he would include Peace Corps or VISTA service among the alternatives "if it contributed to the peace, safety or well-being of the nation. But it must not be token service."

Although rally organizers said they expected 2,000 persons, only about 300 turned out to eat fish and meet the candidate. The event came at the close of a day of campaigning which took Stevens to four eastern towns.

Helms was originally scheduled to travel with Stevens to Smithfield, Goldsboro, Kinston and Jackson. However, he pleaded prior commitments and the schedule was changed to include only the Wilmington rally.

Without Helms as a drawing card, the planned Stevens caravan developed into a lonely drive in the family station wagon.

Parolees Increase Expected

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The new chairman of the state Paroles Board says the public can expect to see "a noticeable increase" in the number of paroles given North Carolina convicts in coming months.

Jack Scism, a former newspaperman who took over the chairmanship less than a month ago, said in an interview that from July 20 to Aug. 20 the board granted 134 paroles, a sharp increase over the 39 approved in the same period last year.

Scism says a factor in the increasing number of paroles is the increase in Paroles Board membership from three to five, a change which was approved by the 1974 legislative session.

The fifth member of the board, James Cline of Raleigh, will be sworn in Sept. 3.

Scism said the five-member Paroles Board "can give more study and consequently review more cases for parole.

"Our goal is to be able to give a prisoner the state on which we will consider him for parole and notify him on that date of our decisions," he said.

Scism said he feels that a strong crackdown in crime—not a slowdown in paroles—is the No. 1 reason for the current overcrowding of state prisons. He noted that government has pumped millions of dollars into law enforcement in recent years and police are doing a better job.

All the emphasis in recent years on courtroom action has been one cause for the increased number of prisoners.

"Judges are now sending men to prison that they might not have at one time because of the public reaction," Scism said.

The number of paroles granted in North Carolina last year showed a drop of 1,100 from the record 3,382 in 1972.

However, Scism said that new members were appointed to the board early last year "and they might have been a little too cautious in granting paroles."

The state's prison population is nearly 12,000, some 2,500 more than it can adequately accomodate.

Parisians Celebrate 30th Liberation Anniversary

BY BILL BRANIGIN

PARIS (UPI) — Parisians Saturday celebrated the liberation of their city from Adolf Hitler's Nazi hordes in World War II.

French, American and British flags flew from public buildings, fireworks burst over the River Seine and artillerymen fired a 21-gun salute to mark the day, 30 years ago, when the Allied forces marched into Paris and ended the Nazi German occupation.

Then, there were tanks in the street and barricades on the crowded sidewalks — Saturday only automobiles and cotton candy sellers.

Pleasure craft took tourists down the river in brilliant sunshine. Knots of youths who were not even born in 1944 strummed guitars at street corners where Resistance fighters once set up their machine-gun nests.

The only uniforms belonged to the gendarmes and bus drivers. The only Germans in sight were tourists buying up miniature models of the Eiffel Tower.

The tower itself again drew crowds of summer visiters, a sight they never would have seen if Hitler's orders 30 years ago had been obeyed.

The tower, Notre Dame Cathedral, the Opera House, the Louvre art museum—all were earmarked for destruction in the dissolution of Adolph Hitler's Third Reich.

In a "most secret and urgent" order of Aug. 23, Hitler instructed his commander in Paris, Gen. Dietrich von Choltitz, to defend Paris to the last man or to leave it "a field of ruins."

Von Choltitz temporized, nine times, he said. He got the order, and plans were laid to stow tons of dynamite in the Notre Dame crypt while engineers were called on to wire other city landmarks for dynamiting.

Convicts Kill Man

ROTAN, Tex. (UPI) — Three escaped convicts, including a convicted murderer, slipped past police patrols between Colorado and Texas Saturday and kidnaped an elderly farmer who was found later shot to death near his ranch.

The farmer, T. L. Baker, had provided critical prosecution testimony in the conviction of one of the men, and the convict had threatened to kill the farmer.

All three convicts had escaped from Colorado State Prison Thursday night.

Baker's body was found in rough, arid country 12 miles northeast of Rotan. Police said he had been shot once in the stomach or chest with a rifle and his beagle dog had also been killed by a bullet through the body.

"We do know the subjects are armed with shotguns and they (officers) did say he was dead," said Stonewall County Sheriff's Deputy Leona Elkins. "He had been shot."

She said officers set up roadblocks and ordered a helicopter and two airplanes into service to search the arid West Texas countryside for the fleeing convicts.

Baker had been warned earlier that the convicts might come looking for him. The heavily-armed men managed to evade detection after escaping from Colorado, took Baker hostage and then fled into the countryside in a pickup truck stolen in New Mexico.

"They got out (of prison) and come back to get him," said Rotan Police Dispatcher M. A. Hughes. "T. L.'s boy was there but they didn't take him but they took T. L. We don't have any idea which way they left."

Police Chief Kenneth Hardin said one of the convicts, Dalton Williams, 29, of Snyder, Tex., had been convicted of stealing some of Baker's guns a few months earlier.

Bodies Exhumed

By EDWARD F. ROBY

PETERSBURG, Va. (UPI) — A second murder indictment against a former nurse's aide may be sought and as many as 10 more bodies exhumed in an investigation of suspicious deaths in a hospital's coronary care unit, authorities indicated Saturday.

Petersburg Commonwealth's Attorney J. Thompson Wyatt said autopsies have already shown that two patients in the Petersburg General Hospital coronary unit died from overdoses of lidocaine, a drug that should be used under carefully-controlled conditions in emergency treatment of some serious heart ailments.

Wyatt said lidocaine was found in the bodies of Josephine Thomas, 73, who died June 30, and Thomas W. Wray, 85, who died June 29. He has said he will exhume as many more bodies as necessary for his investigation.

Wyatt ordered Wray's body exhumed Aug. 15, the day after Lee Roy Hargrave Jr., 21, was charged with murdering Miss Thomas. Hargrave worked the 11 p.m.-7 a.m. shift at the hospital. Officials said both Miss Thomas and Wray died during those hours.

At least 10 other coronary unit patients died between June 13 and June 30, which hospital officials said was nearly double the normal death rate for a full month.

Lidocaine is kept on a cart in the coronary unit, along with other drugs for emergency use.

Priest, Laymen Seized In Philippine Raid

By LEON DANIEL

NOVALICHES, Philippines (UPI) — Helicopter-borne soldiers hunting the head of the Communist party in the Philippines raided a Roman Catholic seminary Saturday and arrested 20 laymen and a priest.

The Rev. Benigno Mayo, head of the Jesuit order in the Philippines, was arrested on his way to the Sacred Heart novitiate, questioned and later released without charge.

Officers in charge of the raid produced a warrant authorizing them to search the novitiate for Jose Maria Sison, head of the Communist party of the Philippines. He was not found and priests said he had not been on the premises.

Those arrested were taken under guard by bus from the seminary 14 miles north of Manila to Camp Crame on the outskirts of Quezon City, the capital on the outskirts of Manila.

Priests at the novitiate said those arrested, all Filipinos, had come to the seminary early Saturday to attend a community development seminar.

Priests and nuns from several foreign countries who came to the rolling 50-acre campus to attend separate religious retreats watched in amazement as the raiders streamed from three helicopters and made arrests, searched rooms and carried off documents.

Asked what charges had been filed against those arrested, Father Victor Helly, superintendent at the institution, said "nobody is ever charged."

"I was praying when the soldiers came in," said Sister Eileen O'Neill, an Irish nun now doing missionary work in India. "Now I know what martial law in the Philippines means."

Father Mayo was on his way by car to the novitiate when he was stopped and taken to Camp Crame.

The priest said that after his identity was established he was flown by helicopter to the novitiate, which was swarming with 100 soldiers, police and agents.

Frinks Begin Jail Term

MAURY, N. C. (AP)—Golden Frinks, veteran civil rights leader who has been in jail many times, has begun serving a six-month prison sentence growing out of a racial protest last year.

Frinks, 54, field secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was taken into custody Wednesday by deputies after an appeals judge ruled he could find no error in Frinks' conviction. He was given the six-month sentence for blocking a city street during a protest in Chowan County.

Frinks was brought to the state Department of Correction's processing center at Maury in Greene County. He will be transferred to another prison unit to serve out the term, the longest he has ever received.

Tobacco Price Still Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Improved quality led to higher prices this week on the flue-cured tobacco markets of North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

On the combined Old and Middle Belt markets of northern North Carolina and Virginia, gross sales for the week ending Thursday totaled 23,096,395 pounds at an average $101.46 per hundred pounds.

The Federal-State Market News Service said the average topped the one for the previous week by $7.15 and was $14.65 above the return of two weeks ago. The average price for the corresponding sales days last year was $88.37.

The upward trend also continued on the Eastern Belt of North Carolina where the average price reached a record $107.41 during the fifth week of auction sales. Gross sales were 27,476,398 pounds. The average was $3.05 per hundred above the previous week. During the same period last year, the average was $86.38 per hundred.

More Sentenced In Case

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP)—Three more men have been sentenced to prison on charges growing out of the firebombing of Gibsonville Mayor Harold Younger's car and the burning of the word "Satan" on the lawn of a member of the town board.

Gregory Moon and former Police Sgt. Steven Donald Montgomery got 2-3 years and Bobby Glenn Jr. got 1-2 years after they pleaded guilty Friday.

The former police chief at Gibsonville, Donald Paul Bindyke, had been sentenced to 2-3 years Wednesday after he was convicted by a jury.

Brazilian Indians Fighting To Keep Jungles Free

By WILLIAM R. LONG
Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — In a scenario reminiscent of the American West, bands of primitive Amazon Indians are fighting to keep their jungles free of modern exploitation.

The Brazilian government has long been eager to push development of the Amazon Basin but has found the going slow and troublesome, partially because of native resistance.

President Ernesto Geisel issued an order on Friday restricting access to an area occupied by the Waimiri and Atroari tribes in northern Amazonas state, where a road is being cut through the jungle between Manaus and Caracari.

The government in recent years has laced the Amazon Basin with a number of road-building projects, which the government hopes will encourage business, industry and agriculture to develop the region.

In recommending Geisel's order, Interior Minister Rangel Reis told the president the two tribes "offer serious resistance to pacification." He warned of an "ever-present danger of new clashes" between the Indians and road-building crews and travelers.

Despite the deaths of three Indian agents last January, Reis said agents will continue to try to establish friendly relations with the Waimiri and Atroari.

An Indian agent was killed and another seriously wounded a week ago near the border with Peru in an attack by Marubo Indias as they tried to make friendly contact with the tribe. The attack was near the route of another road being built through the jungle.

In the state of Goias, the government is continuing an effort toward friendly contacts with the Ava-Canoeira Indians, and after two years it issued an announcement this week saying: "Pacification of the Ava-Canoeiros is near."

Government agents reported last month the first contacts with a small tribe of what they described as white-skinned, green-eyed natives in Amazonas. Athropologists say the Indians, called Nereyo, may have descended from white explorers. Other Indians in the region say that Nereyo are cannibalistic.

The National Indian Foundation once had a policy of keeping Indians isolated from encroaching development and of fostering their native culture.

Hollering For Roads

BREVARD, N.C. (AP) — State Transportation Secretary Troy Doby says, "Everybody's hollering to pave the roads, so let's get on with it."

Doby made the remark Friday as he informed the Secondary Roads Council that it must begin to move more aggresively if the administration's seven-year road improvement program is to progress at a favorable rate.

"The people want more roads," he said, "we are going to give them more. We have not been doing our job, but we are going to do our job."

Doby said a survey within the Department of Transportation showed that unspent allocations for secondary roads have doubled from $16 million in 1971-72 to $33 million in 1973-74.

He said there were "valid reasons" for the leftover money, but the administration is "quite concerned that the Seven Year Roads Program, released in October 1973, is not progressing at a rate and in a manner favorable to the administration."

Reasons cited for unused road funds were unavailability of construction equipment and "people who refuse to make right of way agreements.

Chairlift Injuries

MAGGIE, N.C. (UPI) — At least 11 persons were injured, apparently none seriously Saturday when a 1,600-foot chairlift carrying vacationers to a mountaintop amusement area near here stalled and stranded passengers in mid-air, some for more than three hours.

A spokesman for the Haywood County Hospital said 11 persons were being treated in the hospital's emergency room in Waynesville, about 15 miles east of the resort area.

Rescue workers removed between 25 and 40 persons stuck on the lift, which ran from the base of Buck Mountain to its 3,200-foot top to ghost town, a tourist attraction in the Western North Carolina mountains.

Those stuck in the chairs were stalled between 10 and 35 feet off the ground.

The most serious injury reported was a broken leg.

Bicentennial Craft Plans

Additional plans have been announced for exhibits, demonstrations and sales of crafts as part of Greenville's Bicentennial observances.

Mrs. Lucille Sumrell, one of the chair persons of the Craft Show, announces the show will open on October 4 and continue through October 12. The show and sales will be held in the Kroger Building on Greenville Boulevard. Hours will be from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. daily, except for Sunday, October 6, when hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m.

Volunteers will be available to help those making entries set up display booths and counters. Also, police protection, bags, utilities, insurance, wrapping paper, stickers and tags will be provided by "Greenville 200".

Persons entering crafts for exhibit are responsible for providing tables, chairs, scissors, tape, electric cords, pencils, change box and money, signs or any other items needed for an individual display area.

Also, persons having crafts for sale are responsible for being at their booth, or having a representative there, from opening to closing hours. Crafts for sale will be charged a small fee for expenses. Entrance fee is $2.00 for a five by five foot space, $4.00 for a ten by ten foot space, etc.

In addition, craftsmen wishing to display items but not wanting to sell them will be provided space to do so without charge.

Applications for the craft show are now available at the Bicentennial Headquarters at 9th and Evans Street or at the Elm Street Recreation Center. These should be filled out at the earliest possible date to insure reservation of space for those desiring to enter the craft show.

Operation Sunshine Activities Reported

Summer activities of Operation Sunshine were reported to the Board of Directors Monday evening.

Mrs. Richard Miller said the Sunshine Center concluded its program with a weekend camping trip to Carowinds, made possible through donations from several churches and businesses.

It was announced that the annual business meeting of Operation Sunshine will be held Monday, Sept. 16 at 7:30 p.m. The future of the center will be decided at this meeting, Mrs. Miller said. "We have been unable to find a new location for our center and the present building is in deplorable condition," she said. "The house is very old and dangerous. We have to consider the safety of the girls. Our present funds are not enough to meet the cost of buying and maintaining a building, so we must face terminating Greenville's only organized center for girls."

She added, "We would like to invite any individuals, clubs, or churches to attend this meeting in hopes of raising some ideas and much-needed interest. At that time we will determine if Operation Sunshine is to continue. Anyone having questions about our center may phone 752-7631."

Agnes Fullilove Open House Delayed

The Open House for parents of incoming seventh graders scheduled for Monday night, August 26, at Agnes Fullilove School has been postponed indefinitely.

Agnes Fullilove School has been undergoing renovations this summer in anticipation of the assignment of the seventh graders this year. The rainy weather has slowed the transfer of materials from E.B. Aycock Junior High and caused the ground to be very muddy. Very little of the new equipment order for the shcool has arrived. The staff waited on the equipment until the last moment and then had to move old equipment for use until the other arrived.

The board meeting scheduled for Monday will be held at Agnes Fullilove as announced with the exception that it will begin at 8:00 p.m. instead of 8:30 p.m.

Students will report on Tuesday as scheduled and Wednesday, August 28, will be the first full day of school.

Carson To Hire More Minorities

CHARLOTTE (AP) — James H. Carson Jr. plans to hire more Republicans, blacks and women after he becomes North Carolina's first Republican attorney general on Monday. Carson was appointed by Republican Gov. James Holshouser to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Democratic U.S. Senatorial candidate Robert Morgan. He told newsmen there are no Republicans in the state Justice Department.

"Every single attorney in the department is a Democrat. They have not hired one Republican attorney or secretary."

Carson added there wouldn't be wholesale firing of Democrats, but he would fill vacancies with Republicans and minorities.

He made his remarks Friday following a debate with the Democratic attorney general candidate, Rufus Edmisten, at the N.C. Police Executives Association Convention.

Carson, who will serve about two and a half months as attorney general before the Nov. 5 election, said once there is a good balance of minorities, he will "de-emphasize politics in the attorney general's office."

He said he had been refused an opportunity to meet with Dunn and other SBI employes until Thursday, when he declined an invitation because of a packed schedule.

"The custom has been for the people to elect a representative and send him to Washington, not to have Washington send a representative to here to be elected," said Carson.

Edmisten, calling his opponent, "brother Carson," dismissed the charge as a "little ridiculous. I'm a little bit proud of my service in Washington for North Carolina."

He said his experience in investigating various matters and supervising lawyers gives him more than enough credentials to be head of the state Justice Department.

"In State," "Out Of State" Residency Fees Makes Economic Difference For ECU Students

B CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Deborah Clement is one of many young people returning to college campuses this fall with the hope of obtaining an education at a lower cost, and she may be one of many who will be discouraged when they find out their hopes will be entangled in a maze of legal terminology.

At the beginning of the maze is the expression "resident", and at the center of the maze are the qualifiers, "in-state" or "out-of-state" for tuition purposes.

Depending on the term placed in front of the word "resident", will be the determination of whether or not some individuals will return to college this fall, and Deborah Clement, 21, is one of those individuals.

North Carolina, like many other states, offers a much lower tuition rate for students considered "in-state residents." Deborah Clement feels she is a resident of North Carolina and thinks she should be receiving the benefits of a resident. East Carolina University doesn't agree with her.

Because of this disagreement, Deborah says she may not be able to finish the last quarter of her college education. She attends college on funds provided by the Veteran's Administration, her father was killed while on active duty in the military.

She receives the GI Bill that her father would have received, at the same rate of a single veteran. This rate does not go very far in paying the fees it takes to attend a state supported school in North Carolina, as an out of state student. Deborah also received some money from her mother in the past, but a year-ago stopped school to work in North Carolina and seek "resident" status because she says she "fell in love with North Carolina's gracious people, old fashioned mores, and clean country air. Deborah says she intends to make North Carolina her permanent residence.

East Carolina University doesn't see it that way and for this reason will not allow her to attend school at the rate paid by state residents.

According to Julian Vainright, assistant to the business manager at ECU, many students will return to college campuses this fall with the false impression that they are now residents of their states and will be accorded the rights thereof.

The hang-up, says Vainright, is the fact that there is a difference between being a "legal resident" for the state's purpose and a "legal resident" for tuition purposes in a state supported school.

The question of residency for tuition purposes is a growing one, and for Vainright it requires 40 per cent of his work time.

All of the 16 North Carolina state-supported institutions have individuals similar to Julian Vainright who handle change in residency applications. None of them have an easy job.

The matter of residency for tuition purposes is one that has at times required the services of the courts to try and sort out, and even these bouts haven't clarified the situation that much.

No Clear Answers Obtainable

For some reason, virtually no one seems to be able to get clear answers from Chapel Hill as to how planning will proceed on the development of the ECU medical school, as mandated by the Legislature.

Dr. Christopher Fordham, dean of the UNC Medical School, who has been assigned responsibility for developing the school, last week said only that Chapel Hill is evaluating clinical facilities in the Greenville area to determine how best to expand the school.

Prominent legislators and public officials are unable to obtain the full benefit of Chapel Hill thinking in determining how the planning is going. Last week even Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt was quoted as saying that he had been unable to get a definitive answer on the second year planning at ECU.

The gap between the Chapel Hill officials and the public reached the point recently where Dr. William Friday, president of the University, wrote a public letter to the Raleigh News and Observer defending his UNC Medical School dean.

That such a letter was necessary is evidence of the woeful credibility gap which exists between Chapel Hill and the citizens of our state.

We have no doubt that Dr. Fordham is an able medical administrator, but if planning for this and other projects were conducted openly there would be no need for the president to have to write letters to the editor saying so.

There is a feeling at the grass roots that Chapel Hill closes itself off from the citizens of this state and listens only to the powerful intercircle of close advisors. Chapel Hill administrators can surround themselves thusly and really have little input or understanding of the wants and needs of North Carolina's average citizens.

Chapel Hill should be open with the public, whether it is planning for expansion of the ECU medical school or development of some new program at Chapel Hill or Appalachian. Neither Chapel Hill or any other governmental agency should look down on the tax paying citizens from the heights; rather they should look on the public as a partner in the building of our state government.

"True, there is at least one holdover whose resignation has been requested . . . and who refuses to leave."

Unpaved Tar Heel Roads

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Mountainous Wilkes County, near the northwestern corner of the state, ranks first among the 100 counties in miles of unpaved roads: 613.87 miles of dirt road.

In second place is Randolph County, in the center of the state, with 521.87 unpaved miles.

Those two counties are among 10 with more than 400 unpaved highway miles as shown by a recent study of "paved and unpaved mileage" by the Department of Transportation.

The 10 counties with the dubious distinction of most dirt roads are, in addition to Wilkes and Randolph: Ashe (457.28 miles); Guilford (453.84 miles); Surry (442.19 miles); Wake (414.27 miles); Iredell (411.15 miles); Rockingham (404.95); Stokes (402.84); and Buncombe (401.41).

Incidentally, a total of 20 North Carolina counties, many of them smaller than those listed with the most unpaved miles, have more unpaved than paved roads inside their borders.

The comparison of paved versus unpaved mileage was used by Cecil Budd, chairman of the Secondary Roads Council in lining out allocations for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

Budd reported a total of $17.9 million for the program, compared to $28.7 million the previous year—a 38 per cent drop.

Still, that sounds like a lot of money for secondary road work until you look at the average cost per mile of building a raod and split that money up among 100 counties. Wilkes, for instance, where mountains make road-building expensive averages $57,750 per mile. Down east on flat land, the coast is around $35,000 per mile.

So, Wilkes will receive $600,556 in the current fiscal year based on its 613 miles of dirt road. That amount will build about 10 miles of road.

Watauga County, Gov. James E. Holshouser's home, is among those with more than half the roads unpaved: 320 miles dirt; 142 paved. Watauga is allocated $342,662 which, at the rate of $63,000 per mile, would yield five miles.

New Definition

Budd, by the way, takes exception with the "farm to market" label put on the state's secondary system back in the days of Gov. Kerr Scott.

"These roads are vital to our rural cities and towns... an increased number of urban citizens have (moved) into the counties. . .secondary roads have become to a large degree 'home to work' roads," he believes. The state has about 61,000 miles which Budd says should not be looked at as "secondary" roads, but out to be rejuvenated.

A First Step

Historians hold the meeting of the First Provincial Congress in New Bern 200 years ago this weekend one of the most important steps toward freedom taken in North Carolina.

As the kick-off to statewide Bicentennial activities, the New Bern recollection of that giant step toward independence is particularly appropriate.

Amidst the pageantry, air shows, musical performances, and speech-making, it is well to recall that the First Provincial Congress found representatives gathering from almost all of the state's then-35 counties in direct defiance of the royal governor, who refused to call the assembly, hoping to short-circuit election of delegates to the Continental Congress set for Philadelphia the following month.

Thus, North Carolinians determined that they could name delegates, organize an assembly , and meet without royal authority.

The INSIDE REPORT

Cyprus: A U.S. Defeat

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The menacing prospect of an American defense system in Southeastern Europe without either Greece or Turkey as fully participating allies is now being examined by top administration strategists as the possible outgrowth of the Cyprus disaster.

It may not come to that. But the fact it is under discussion here dramatizes the Ford administration's drift and helplessness throughout the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

The Cyprus crisis has pushed Greece out of the NATO military alliance, with the further danger of an anti-American leftist government taking over Athens.

If, as seems likely, the U.S. cuts back sharply on military grant aid to Turkey because of Cyprus, Turkey would probably be knocked out of the defense system too. That, in fact, is the reason why the U.S. at this writing has refrained from moving against the Turks.

"Start a cutback in military aid shipments," one high administration official told us, "and it will be at least 10 years, if ever, before we get back to the status quo ante."

Turkey is one of the prime world benefactors of outright U.S. military aid, now running close to $60 million a year. With Congress already up in arms against the Turkish takeover of an ever-larger chunk of independent Cyprus, a decision by President Ford to cut down on this absolutely essential asset to Turkey's invasion forces would immediately assume a life of its own. Congress would take it as a major policy switch, ruling out any further congressional approval of grant military aid for years to come.

That would mean Turkey would have to buy its share of military weapons under the North Atlantic Treaty commitment, imposing an unbearable financial burden on Ankara. Result: the military security of Turkey, squeezed between Russia, its ancient enemy, and Syria, a Soviet military ally, would be mercilessly exposed.

That's why President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger have been so loath to tamper with the existing arms arrangement. Besides, Kissinger believed Turkish Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit's pledge that once Turkey gobbled up the northeastern third of Cyprus, his forces would stop. Kissinger has pegged all his hopes on that dubious premise. But Ecevit's military commanders, their appetite increasing with conquest, refused to go along.

Thus, Mr. Ford may soon be forced to risk the Turkish alliance by cutting back aid. But by waiting this long in an effort to maintain Turkish ties, the Athens-Washington military relationship has become, if possible, even worse.

To stay in power in the face of humiliating reverses in Cyprus, the new pro-U.S. prime minister just returned from exile, Constantine Karamanlis, must act as though the U.S. were his harshest enemy, in league with the hated Turks. To foster that image, Karamanlis renounced his country's military obligations under NATO but is being pressed harder every day to go further: end the bilateral defense relationship with the U.S., close down American defense installations and in effect terminate Greece's nearly 30-year military alliance with Washington.

With Kissinger and the United States dirty words in Greece, Karamanlis would invite a revolution from the left if he did anything less. Indeed, there is growing concern here that continuation of Turkey's "mopping up" operations in Cyprus might soon encourage left-wing parliamentary leader Andreas Papandreou, also just returned from exile, to move against the prime minister.

Such a dread eventuality has been long warned against by farsighted critics who charted the growth of anti-American sentiment during seven years of military dictatorship in Athens blessed by the Johnson and Nixon administrations.

The extremely delicate political position of Karamanlis, in power and helpless during his country's Cyprus humiliation, has ripened that prospect for the well-financed Greek left-workers, students, intellectuals—as nothing else could have. But even if he

CONCERNING FOOLS

A short time ago a collection of quotations about fools was made. There are many of these quotes which those of us who hope we are not in the category of fools may well contemplate to our advantage.

Here is one. "A fool in high station is like a man on a mountain top — everything appears small to him and he appears small to everybody." According to an Arab proverb, "fool may be known by six things: anxiety without cause; speech without profit; change without progress; inquiry without object; putting trust in a stranger; and mistaking foes for friends."

The Spanish have a maxim, "What a fool does in the end, a wise man does in the beginning." The English novelist Thackery once said, "A fool can no more see his own folly than he can see his own ears." The French writer Boileau declared "A fool always finds some greater fool to admire him." And from an unlikely source, the German Statesman, Otto von Bismarck, "There is no greater fool than he who says, 'There is no God,' unless it is the one who says he does not know whether there is a God or not."

Sunday Morning Notes

Assistant Utilities Director Malcolm Green explained at a recent meeting that consideration was being given to use of concrete poles, rather than wood.

Commissioner George Coffman asked how long they would last.

"Forever," Green replied.

"Nothing is forever," Coffman, who is in the clothing business, laughed.

"You told me that suit you sold me would last forever," City Manager Bill Carstarphen said.

"That's different," Coffman answered quickly.

Glenn Cox, city school superintendent, dropped by the office the other day. Naturally he was sporting a beard—for the bicentennial, you know.

"I wrote my mother about it, and she didn't even answer the letter," he laughed.

"Haven't seen you lately," he said. ". . .or maybe I should say I haven't seen as much of you behind that beard."

ALVIN TAYLOR

Kiwanis President Bill Taylor, his wife Etta and David Stevens, counsel at ECU all went to the Kiwanis convention in Denver a few weeks back.

Stevens is an old Air Force pilot and when they went to Raleigh-Durham airport Etta said she wanted to sit away from the wing so she could see out.

As they studied the seating diagram of the plane Stevens asked the clerk where the wings were located.

"Why we have one on each side," the clerk replied.

Stevens is a great jogger and he kept it up in the hotel parking lot, wearing an ECU sweat shirt, even in Denver.

One morning a man approached and asked Stevens if he were from Greenville. Stevens replied that he was, and the man said he, too, was from Greenville and in Denver for summer reserve training. He identified himself as Don Taylor.

Small world.

Safer Crossing

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Every highway-rail grade crossing holds a potential for serious accidents.

It is a legitimate concern of government at every level, and now grade crossing safety has been given a higher priority.

For the first time in history, federal Highway Trust Fund money is authorized specifically for rail-highway crossing safety projects.

Another historic first is the availability of federal money for crossing projects off the federal-aid highway systems.

The Association of American Railroads has issued a brief pamphlet directed to local authorities for the purpose of making local leaders aware of federal money that can now be obtained to assist in removing the perils of rail-highway crossings.

The purpose of the pamphlet is to provide a guide for follow-up action at local and state levels.

Special attention is called to the Federal-Aid Safer Roads Demonstration Program, created by the Highway Act of 1973.

The Act authorizes $250 million in funds for improvements to correct designated safety hazards on public streets or roads not included on any federal-aid systems.

The authorization covers a three-year period. The money is intended primarily for use by local authorities on safety projects for which other state or federal funds are not available.

The elimination of hazards at railroad-highway grade crossings is among the projects eligible for inclusion in the Demostration Program.

As funds are made available for this purpose, it is incumbent upon state and local authorities to cooperate as closely as possible with federal efforts to carry out that obligation.

Terms To Fit A Need

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — "Widowese — a new language — born out of necessity."

So observes W. Scane Bowler, chairman and chief executive officer of a national financial services organization with headquarters here.

"Women who face entering the ranks of widowhood — too often with relatively little preparation or knowledge of financial matters — need a vocabulary all their own," Bowler says.

Family allowance: An allowance out of the estate provided for by statute and granted by the court to help tide over the surviving spouse and-or children during the period the estate is in process of settlement.

Joint return: A surviving spouse with a dependent may take advantage of federal joint income tax rates for two years.

Annuity: A contract that provides the widow with an income for a specified period of time or for life.

Letter of instruction: A personal letter spelling out exactly what to do in case of death. It alleviates confusion — even helps lessen the blow of sadness.

Tenancy in entirety: Property jointly owned by man and wife. At the death of one, all property passes to the surviving spouse. Tenancy in common is jointly owned property — it is partitioned so that the spouse's share may be willed to whomever he designates.

Estate tax: That which is levied by the federal government on an estate. The state levy is called an inheritance tax.

Marital deduction: A marital deduction automatically reduces the estate tax if everything is left outright. It can still be done with a trust — but make certain that the trust is set up by a professional.

Adjusted gross estate: The gross estate minus funeral costs, administration costs, and debts of the estate. Up to one-half of the adjusted gross estate may go to the surviving spouse tax-free — no matter how much is involved.

Taxable estate: What Uncle Sam looks at and taxes — if it amounts to enough. This is what is left after subtracting funeral costs, legal and executor's fees, whatever debts owned, the marital deduction, charitable bequests — plus a flat $60,000 exemption.

Testamentary trust: One that is part of the last will and testament. If a will does not exist, your spouse will have died intestate and will have surrendered the privilege of disposing of property in keeping with his own ideas.

The more "widowese" a wife is familiar with — the better.

"A husbandless future is grim enough without having financial problems as well," Bowler points out.

Did The American People Win?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford won. And so did General Motors. Ford asked GM to reconsider its $500 increase on 1975 models. GM did so, "rolling back" its price increase to "only" $446.

Both scored public relations victories in the battle against inflation. Ford symbolically demonstrated his power to obtain cooperation. GM gave token evidence of its willingness to sacrifice, to do its part, for the good of the nation.

But did the American people win? It is difficult to say they did when the net result is a difference of 1 per cent — that is, an increase of 9 per cent instead of 10 per cent.

And neither the public nor the President can be certain that this is a rollback at all. It might be just a delay. GM made clear it was retaining its option to raise prices later.

Since GM maintains that a cost-price squeeze has existed since August 1971, it seems likely that if inflation continues it will also raise prices in stages on 1975 models.

The company's attitude, as expressed by its top executives at a security analysts conference here on June 24, is that "price adjustments" continue to lag behind cost increases.

O. A. Lundin, executive vice president, noted at that conference that consumer prices are about 45 per cent above those of 1967, but that new car prices had risen only 14.6 per cet.

This tells only a partial story, however. Lundin gave the analysts an interesting insight into GM marketing. "We are increasing our profitability by selling more car per car," he said.

He related that since 1967 the installation of air-conditioning in all GM cars has expanded from slightly more than 40 per cent to 80 per cent. Vinyl roofs now appear on 50 per cent of GM cars. Stereo radios and electric defoggers, introduced in 1969, now appear on 26 per cent and 14 per cent of GM cars, respectively.

Other aspects of the GM story, as told to the security analysts who assess GM's investment potential, take on a slightly different tone than that used in justifying big price increases.

"Over the period shown," Lundin said, referring to a chart of sales since 1960, "GM has had increasing dollar sales, with the one major exception being the strike year 1970. Sales have grown from $12.7 billion in 1960 to almost $36 billion last year.

"In terms of profit margin, GM has been able to maintain a relatively high level of profitability. In recent years, this ratio has hovered around 7 per cent, down from the high of 10.3 per cent in 1965 and slightly below the level of the early '60s...."

"At the end of 1973, GM had outstanding only $727 million in debt ... GM's profitability, measured in terms of return on stockholders' equity, has been favorable."

Not a bad picture. It isn't likely that GM will sacrifice that picture at a discount sale even to the President.

Confidence Was Fading

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—The changeover in U.S. administrations came at a time when confidence among the British public regarding the ability of the U.S. to deal with world problems had slipped to a low ebb.

In a survey conducted by the British Gallup Poll just following the resignation of former President Nixon, confidence in the U.S. was found to have declined to the point where only three in 10 (31 percent) among the British expressed a great deal of confidence in the ability of the U.S. to deal with world problems. In sharp contrast, six in 10 (59 per cent) said they had little or no confidence in the U.S. in this respect.

The same survey showed that opinions toward Nixon had deteriorated rapidly since July, with six in 10 saying their opinion of Nixon had recently declined.

Following are the questions asked by Social Surveys (Gallup Poll) Ltd. and the trends:

"How much confidence do you have in the ability of the United States to deal wisely with present world problems—very great, considerable, little or very little?"

	August	July	May
Very great	7%	7%	9%
Considerable	24	29	28
Little	24	23	22
Very Little	22	23	23
None at all	13	9	9
Don't know	10	9	9

"Has your confidence in the ability of America to deal with world problems tended to go up lately, go down or remain about the same?"

Go up	10	11	12
Go down	35	31	27
Remain the same	46	50	52

"Has your opinion of President Nixon of the United States gone up, gone down or remained the same recently?"

A Conservative View
Gerald Ford Has Turned To The Middle Road

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Within a couple of hours after President Ford completed his remarkable amnesty statement in Chicago, TVnewsmen had lined up a few young exiles in Toronto. The exiles proceeded to spit in the President's eye.

Ford's statement was remarkable for several reasons. Both in tone and in substance, his gesture of conciliation represented a sharp break from the Nixon administrations's position of "never". Demostrating a rare political courage, he made his statement before an audience—the Veterans of Foreign Wars—that predictably would disapprove. Coupled with his nomination the next day of Nelson Rockefeller for the vice presidency, the amnesty statement indicated a deliberate refashioning of Ford's own conservative image. He is moving to the middle of the road.

The two actions, taken together, will produce a considerable thunder on the right. Many conservatives (I count myself among them) have no use for the contentious attitude displayed by draft-dodgers and deserters. Many of us wanted Barry Goldwater, if a 66-year-old man were to be named as vice president; and many of us still regard Rockefeller as a patsy who floats over the political net like a soft second serve.

There will be time enough, as confirmation hearings proceed, to get to Rockefeller; he has many good points, and if enough freaks of the New Left start shrieking "Attica!" he may look better by reason of those who oppose him.

Ford's statement on amnesty was far removed from the unconditional amnesty demanded by spokesmen for the exiles. Their position seems to go something like this:

We draft-dodgers and deserters are morally pure. All those who sanctioned the war in Vietnam are morally rotten. We were right. All others were wrong. It is not we who have broken laws; it is Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, and six Congresses who have broken laws. Unless we are given an apology, back pay, other rewards, and the hero's reception to which we are plainly entitled, we will not condescend to return to a corrupt and degraded country that does not deserve our purity and light.

This was the general attitude displayed by the spokesmen interviewed in Canada on Tuesday. The general reaction of many observers here at home will be to suggest that the exiles stay in Toronto until their beards grow down to their ankles. More particularly, this is likely to be the bitter reaction of many whose husbands, sons, and brothers died or suffered wounds in Vietnam.

The grim fact cannot be blinked away that for every serviceman who deserted because he could not stomach Vietnam, another youth went in his place. For every young man who dodged the draft, another had to be called for military duty. Many thousands who obeyed the law did not like the law; but they did not take the law into their own hands.

The President made two points that ought to be kept in mind as public discussion continues. The first is that "there are differences" among the exiles. The second is that those who wish to come home "should have a second chance to contribute their fair share to the rebuilding of peace among ourselves and with all nations." In brief, they must "earn" their re-entry.

This makes sense. Deserters fall into different degrees of culpability. Those who fled to avoid the draft may have fled for reasons ranging from heartfelt conviction to cowardice. Not all the exiles may be as contemptuous of compensatory public service as their TV spokesmen seemed to be.

In tipping the scales of justice to the side of leniency, Ford has extended a hand. He has rejected the concept of "revenge." Most Americans, I believe, will buy that firm but compassionate position. They may be willing to swallow their prejudice. It remains for the exiles to swallow their pride.

FIRST, YOU CATCH THE RABBIT----

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

The popular enthusiasm which has greeted the White House change has tended to obscure the possible impact of this unprecidented event on the grimy business of partisan politics.

So, while waiting for President Ford to translate his top priority anti-inflation policy into specifics now might be a good time to consider the outlook for the two major parties. The potential for shifts in fortunes is great.

This stems largely from what might be called two big surprise factors — the suddeness with which Richard Nixon departed the White House and the tremendous applause which greeted Ford.

When Nixon resigned, quit Washington overnight, it was as if he took Watergate with him. It's hard to see how the scandal, which had been pinpointed on Nixon and his men, can now be kept alive as an effective political issue.

Ford's acceptance as President could not have been more widespread if he had won the White House by a landslide. If there was any question that he planned to be just a caretaker, it is now gone. His picking Nelson Rockefeller as Vice President will broaden his base of support, even if it does offend some in his party.

On the face of it, the Democrats seem to have lost advantage. Watergate, with Nixon around, was thought to be a great sledge. It promised to hammer out a veto-proof majority in Congress in the November elections and then pound out a White House victory in 1976. It all seemed like a sure thing.

But now, the Democrats again find themselves looking up-hill. Their chief issue, scandal, has been severely weakened. And with Watergate no longer dominating the news, the party's political weakness will be in the spotlight. And so will its long record in Congress of voting the deficit spending programs which set the stage for inflation.

At this stage, it's much too early to say what kind of President Ford will be. But, so far, he has earned good marks. The job has a way of adding to a man's stature. Ford will have no trouble picking good men. With his public popularity high, he is in good position to ask voters this fall to elect men to the House and Senate who will help in the effort to curb inflation.

Of course, the Democrats will try to make the most they can of Watergate. But without Nixon in the White House, this will be something like beating a dead horse.

On using the Watergate issue, the problem is this: How do you transfer the tar from Nixon and his men to Ford, especially when Ford is being hailed as "Mr. Clean."

Of course, inflation will be made an issue in November and again in 1976. The danger in this, though, is that the Democrats may well be forced on the defensive, as "big spenders" and "easy credit" advocates.

The lack of leadership on the Democratic side came through strongly in Kansas City a week ago when the so-called Charter Commission was unable to agree on a charter. The fight was between what might be called the regulars, including the unions and the splinters which took over in 1972 and nominated Senator McGovern.

McGovern, while, the party's titular leader, is no help in trying to patch things up. Senator Ted Kennedy, while still talked of as a 1976 candidate, is too controversial to do much healing. A party without a rallying point, either an issue or a personality faces hard going.

Politics has always produced ironies. If "Tricky Dick" has, indeed, pulled the Watergate issue into the hole with him, then what has been hailed as Democracy's greatest triumph can mean Trouble for the Democrats.

Accordingly, the stage now seems tragically set for permanent, dangerous alteration of America's quarter-century domination of foreign and military policy in Greece and Turkey. What finally takes its place, no one yet knows. But it is now too late to salvage the easy old relationship no matter what happens on the bloody island of Cyprus.

Love's Labor Lost, Or, The Death Of An Azalea

I am definitely not green thumb material. When I moved to Greenville, I knew nothing about plants. I thought Philodendron was a river in Afghanistan. I watered the rubber plant that my mother-in-law gave me for three weeks before I realized it was artificial.

When we moved into a house in the Lakewood Pines area, my inverior knowledge of plant life became more and more marked. I'd look out across our neighbors' wide expanses of green lawns and meticulously kept flower gardens; then I'd look out across our wide expanse of crabgrass and a couple of ragged dandelions. I decided that my lawn was definitely in need of major surgery.

I went to a local nursery and ordered four dogwoods and three azaleas. When the salesgirl totaled the bill, my stinginess overcame my need to belong, and my order dwindled to one small azalea.

I took my little azalea home and planted it right in the middle of the front yard. It looked a little sick sitting there all alone. I was sure I needed to cheer it up. So I took out all the articles and books I'd collected on plants. The consensus seemed to be that I should talk to the plant.

So I gave it a name. I named it "Myrtle" to rhyme with "fertile." I talked to Myrtle. I whispered sweet nothings to her root system. I read her Jack and the Beanstalk to inspire her. (I didn't tell her about Jack's cutting the beanstalk down.) I recited poetry to her — "Flower in the Crannied Wall," by Alfred, Lord Tennyson; "A Thing of Beauty," by John Keats; "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," by Mother Goose. After two weeks of this, Myrtle was so droopy that she looked as if she were praying to Mother Nature for deliverance.

I consulted my plant scholarship again. Plants like music, I learned. I tried to give Myrtle variety. I dragged the record player outside and played Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Then I played the Iron Butterfly. This was evidently too heavy for Myrtle's liking — she drooped some more.

So I went out and danced around her as I sprinkled fertilizer and sang "Ring Around the Rosies." Myrtle began to wither, and my husband threatened to file for divorce.

Myrtle finally responded to Andy Williams. Her limbs stretched out a little, and her leaves began to perk up. Then the eventful day came when I ran in shouting, "Myrtle is with bloom!"

The only problem was that, due to my husband's rather irregular grasscutting schedule (once every two months), Myrtle's blooms were not visible. I told my husband I would cut holes in all his underwear if he didn't get out and cut the grass.

GAIL MICHAELS

After three pairs had heart-shaped vents in them, he gave in. An hour later I looked out to see that the grass was gone. So was Myrtle.

"You murdered Myrtle!" I wailed. "And she was pregnant!"

"I'm sorry, Honey. I didn't see her."

I resumed my cutting with a vengeance.

The last thing I heard as he stalked out of the house in his only whole pair of underwear was, "Well, at least she won't be singing any more."

Explanation By Assembly Of ECU Med School Bill Is Needed

By JACK A. KOONTZ, M.D.

Section 46 of Senate Bill 977 as passed by the 1974 General Assembly reads as follows and I copy from the bill:

"The Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina is hereby directed to submit to the General Assembly in its operating budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year comprehensive plans (1) to expand as soon as practicable the program of first-year medical education at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, and (2) to add a second year program of medical education at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, and (2) to add a second year program of medical education at the East Carolina University School of Medicine, and (3) that concentration be placed upon the training of family care physicians, and (4) that special efforts be taken to encourage the recruitment and medical education of racial minorities.

In carrying out the purpose of this act, the University of North Carolina School of Medicine at Chapel Hill and the East Carolina University School of Medicine shall work cooperatively toward full accreditation of the expanded medical education program at East Carolina University to the end that its graduates may transfer freely to other units of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine.

The sum of seven million five hundred thousand dollars ($7,500,000) in Section 2 of this act is appropriated to the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina to be expended for the erection of a basic medical science building at East Carolina University and for the purpose outlined in this section.

Funds appropriated in 1973-74 to the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina as a reserve for an additional degree-granting school of medicine and carried forward to fiscal year 1974-75 shall be available for the purposes outlined in this section.

In addition to this state law one must also be aware of certain provisions formulated by the national accrediting committee to the August 18, 1974, News and Observer. The provision in question deals with two-year schools which are not intended to become full four-year degree-granting schools. To wit, such schools will not be allowed to receive independent accreditation. Nor will any such future two-year program not controlled by a full four-year degree granting school receive accreditation according to President Friday. Apparently this provision established the climate for the recent drastic changes at the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

Yet, other states seem to be accorded more leeway. I enclose the following from the American Medical Association Newsletter of August 12, 1974, and I copy directly.

"Two-year program in basic medical sciences is to be developed at Morehouse College, Atlanta, with $800,000 grant from the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Target date for the admission of the first class is September, 1977."

Conspicuously absent is any mention of a four-year degree-granting program to which this two-year school is allied.

Dean Wallace Wooles and his staff have taken the directions given to them by previous General Assemblies and have been able to create the beginning classes and faculty at the East Carolina University School of Medicine. That they have been successful is best noted simply in that those students transferring to the second year of medical training have done equally as well as those students who initially began at the University of North Carolina. The very success of these students seem to render as totally unwarranted the recent actions of President Friday and Dean Fordham.

The removal of Dr. Wooles as Dean of the East Carolina University School of Medicine and the appointment of a Director for the East Carolina University School of Medicine acting directly for the Dean of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine do not bespeak of the cooperation set forth in Senate Bill 977. Rather these actions allow one to conclude that the East Carolina University School of Medicine is to become only an extension of the already existing University of North Carolina medical program. Do the accomplishments of Dean Wooles and his staff mean nothing in the continuing development of the East Carolina University School of Medicine?

Since the entire burden of the costs of medical education in our state must come from our collective pocketbooks, since the total responsibililty to produce more physicians must come from our own created medical schools, since we are paying the salaries of all those involved in what ever functions they have in providing these schools and ultimately their graduates; then I respectfully request that (1) the General Assembly with all due speed and using language readily understandable to every North Carolinian, tell us precisely what kind of medical school at East Carolina University is intended by Senate Bill 977 as to how many years of training will be provided, when these years are expected to be functioning, and if East Carolina University is to become a four-year degree-granting medical school; and (2) that the Dean of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine using the same type of easily understandable language tell us, the taxpayers, how he will implement that specific requirement of Senate Bill 977 concentrating on the training of family care physicians.

I submit that as we, the taxpaying people, will have to pay the bills, then, we the people, are entitled to a full and impartial disclosure of why, where, how and by whom the provisions of Senate Bill 977 are to be interpreted and executed. The General Assembly in passing Senate Bill 977 intended the end of this unseemly controversy between two publicly funded institutions. Now, it appears President Friday and Dean Fordham are proceeding with actions to create another "fight" by ignoring what the taxpayers of this state wish to see accomplished.

I for one hope that the 1975 General Assembly will act directly to correct the current situation by authorizing that the East Carolina University School of Medicine be developed to a four year school to educate and produce family doctors for North Carolina.

For Ten Days, Watts Comes Alive And Glows

EDITOR'S NOTE: On a sultry summer night nine years ago, the Watts area of Los Angeles burst into flames. A curtain-raiser to race riots that would rock other American cities, the six days of violence ended with 34 dead, $40 million in property damaged or destroyed. Today a summer festival celebrates the anniversary, but has anything really changed in Watts?

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The saucy, straw-hatted girls drill team draws shouts of "Right On!" and "Tell it, sister" as they strut down Central Avenue chanting a soulful marching song.

Behind the girls, black celebrities ride in bright convertibles, waving and smiling. Some give the clenched-fist black power salute.

Every August since 1965, when Watts burned its way into notoriety, the streets have come alive for the 10-day Watts Summer Festival. It is a malange of black fashion shows, Afro-American cultural exhibits, outdoor concerts, flea markets and a proud, swingy parade.

The pride of the people is on display where nine years ago there were flames and death. Watts is showing its energy, hope, joy and pride.

But in these nine years little has changed in Watts, a five-square-mile community that is the heart of predominantly black south-central Los Angeles.

On other days, most other days, the only parade on Central Avenue is jobless black men wasting hot afternoons sitting on upturned soft drink crates or leaning against parked cars.

Joblessness among inner city blacks now stands at about 16 per cent, the same as it was in 1965. It is the highest unemployment rate in Los Angeles County, which has an over-all rate of 7 per cent.

There are a few new businesses and new jobs in Watts. But statistics haven't been kept to determine whether they're enough to offset the jobs and businesses that vanished in the fires of the August 1965 riots.

Welfare is still a way of life. In city housing projects in the area more than 90 per cent of the residents are on relief.

Watts schools, among the oldest in the city, are rundown and lack the money for programs to improve reading and math skills. Voters recently defeated a bond issue that would have provided more school funds for all of Los Angeles.

Recent tests of South Central High School teen-agers showed median reading and math scores in the high teens and low 20s. The national norm is 50.

Watts is a community of one-story frame homes. Most are old and broken, gone to seed along with their brown-weeded yards.

Yet some houses are mended, painted and cared for with obvious pride. There are blocks that seem to hang in the balance between renewal and decay.

In the business section, vacant lots stand out among the buildings. Before August 1965, there were buildings on the empty lots, too.

Rioting erupted across 46.5 square miles of south-central Los Angeles when crowds attempted to stop police from arresting a young black for alleged drunken driving. In the next six days, 34 persons died and $40 million in property was damaged or destroyed. The riots took their name from the ghetto's heart, Watts, named for a man who operated a livery business there in the 1880s.

During the worst days, 10,000 blacks were in the streets, looting, overturning and burning cars, beating whites and shooting at police and firemen. More than 600 buildings burned. The main business artery, 103rd Street, became known as "Charcoal Alley."

Watts has been free of violent racial conflict since the riots. Blacks also got a spiritual lift with the election in 1973 of Mayor Tom Bradley, a black.

"He has raised the hopes of the people here," says the Rev. Edgar Edwards, pastor of a Baptist church and a community leader. "I think he's trying to do the best he can to help them help themselves."

Bradley is seeking more federal and state aid for underprivileged blacks. But he has been criticized for failing to organize a citywide minority recruitment program. His aides say he is concerned that too much aggressive action for blacks would bring charges that he would turn Los Angeles into "a black city."

About 75,000 blacks live in Watts. With the riots, the Watts name became synonymous with the poverty, oppression, violence and despair felt by the approximately 290,000 blacks in the south-central area.

For a while after the riots, officialdom poured emergency relief dollars into the black community. But as the Vietnam war gathered steam, quick money fell off.

Today, what's left of the poverty programs is incorporated into the Greater Los Angeles Community Action Agency (GLACAA), which has a $32 million budget for fiscal 1973-74. In 1965-66, just one of the groups now in GLACAA had a budget of $70 million.

Landmarks to the money and effort poured into the black ghetto are sprinkled throughout the community. There is a still-new welfare building, a sparkling Bank of America branch, a small industrial park, and the new medical center.

Police-community relations, singled out as a major cause of the riots, appear to be better now. Police programs like Neighborhood Watch, the Basic Car plan and monthly block meetings get much of the credit. People are getting to know the police patrolling their area.

About half the school personnel in Watts is black, quite a bit more than in 1965. But new teachers "don't want to to work there and those there want out," one school official said. "Violence is a problem in schools," he added. "That and assaults on school personnel."

One in three southside youths does not finish high school, compared with the average of one in four in the rest of Los Angeles County.

If there is little to celebrate, why a summer festival?

"Because we can generate thousands of dollars into the community rather than out ... and that has to have a positive impact," says Tommy Jacquette, who has run the festival since 1968. "And we can create a community spirit."

Jacquette, 30, is a tall former gang leader with a full beard and an air of authority. The riot, he says, "changed my whole life ... turned me right around." Since then he has been connected with a number of community action groups.

"After 1965 people said, 'There's massive unemployment and crime and poverty,'" Jacquette says. "Hell, they were all here before the riot. And if another incident were to break out, they'd say 'Unemployment is higher now than in 1965 ... there are no opportunities' ... just like they're just discovering that now."

Award Goes To Dr. C.E. Cliett

Dr. Charles E. Cliett of the East Carolina University psychology faculty is the recipient of the annual Zimmer award at the University of Georgia.

The award is given each year to the recent PhD degree recipient at the Georgia campus whose dissertation is judged the most original contribution to the science of psychology.

It was established by the late Dr. Zimmer, an electrophysiologist at the University of Georgia, about ten years ago.

Dr. Cliett's dissertation, "An Auditory Evoked Response Measure fo Frequency Sensitivity in the Rat," was chosen by a 55-member faculty committee as the best in the field of electrophysiology as well as the best overall doctoral study in the field of psychology.

The study proves conclusively that the auditory sense in rats is much more acute than the visual sense, rivaling the well-known hearing ability of the bat or dog. The rats tested showed extraordinary ability to hear extreme high frequencies, as indicated by measurements of electrical responses in their brains.

While rats are often used in laboratory tests related to the visual ability, Dr. Cliett's research indicates that their eyesight is relatively poor compared to their ability to hear sounds which are inaudible to humans.

Dr. Cliett joined the ECU Department of Psychology last fall, and has since been engaged in research into the psychological aspects of human response to various kinds of stimuli.

...Ruling On Residency Fees Makes Economic Difference To ECU Students

The problem has grown in magnitute because of two recent changes, says Vainright.

One, on July 5, 1971 the legal age of majority, or adult status, was changed to 18, and on May 23, 1973, a court decision stated that the 12 months a student spends in college can be considered as time spent in residence required in attaining a state's residency status.

These two acts placed thousands of students in the category whereby they could be considered for "in-state" residency.

During a seven month period from the beginning of June 1973 to Dec. 31, 1973, Vainright says he received 370 applications from ECU students wishing to have their residency status changed.

Of these, 136 were denied and the remainder were allowed a change in their classification in order to be allowed the lower tuition rate.

At ECU, that rate is considerably lower. For instance, this fall an in-state resident can attend the university for $156 per quarter and not live on campus. This covers the students tuition and fees. An out of state student would pay $672. To live on campus, the in-state resident would pay $276 and the out-of-state student would pay $792. Over a year's time, the difference would be $1,548 for both the on-campus and off-campus student.

If a student left college last spring expecting to be able to attend school at the in-state rate this fall, this could be quite a jolt to his budget, says ECU Business manager, E. C. Moore.

There are some misunderstood notions of what it takes to obtain in-state residency says Moore.

Trying to untangle the web of "legal terminology" which explains what it takes to become an in-state resident for tuition purposes isn't an easy process.

The University of North Carolina system is trying to help the campus individuals responsible for making the initial determination on change in residency applications by publishing a 36-page manual which spells out what to consider when taking an application.

To the out-of-state student, the difference in tuition rates may seem one that is meant to punish the out-of-state resident. According to the manual, it isn't.

The manual states "The tax-supported institutions of higher education (in North Carolina) were established and are maintained by the State of North Carolina primarily for the benefit of qualified legal residents of North Carolina. The substantial commitment of public resources to higher education is predicated on the belief that the State does benefit significantly from the existence of large numbers of citizens whose capacity for effective discharge of civic, professional, and social responsibilities has been enhanced by the opportunity for advanced educational experiences. Accordingly, as a matter of State policy, the benefits of higher education are provided at minimal cost to students who are legal residents of North Carolina."

The document acknowledges that the admitance of out-of-state residents to North Carolina's public institutions is "educationally sound" but that such students should pay the approximate actual cost of their participation in the system of higher education maintained by the taxpayers of North Carolina.

This difference is computed by the institutions and is very close to the actual difference between the support money provided by the legislature and what the in-state students pay in tuition, compared to the actual cost of running the institution.

According to Moore, the university actually received $5,709,414 in fees from in-state students last year. The institution spent $19,649,901 and the difference was made up by funds appropriated by the General Assembly, coming from resident's tax dollars.

When the difference in these two figures is divided by the total enrollment of in-state students on the Greenville campus, the figure of $1,516 comes up. An out of state student wishing to attend ECU must make up this difference. Last year an out-of-state student would pay a difference of $1,556 in his tuition and what an in-state student would pay, a figure very close to the difference the taxpayers contribute to send their sons and daughters to a state supported institution.

To Deborah Clement and to other "out-of-state residents" for tuition purposes, this may seem unfair. But the institutions consider other factors. One being that other states do not have higher education systems of the quality that North Carolina maintains. If there wasn't a substantial difference in the tuition, North Carolina might find its institutions overrun with out-of-state students, and the in-state students would find themselves shut out of their own state supported schools.

For the 1973-74 term, ECU's student body was composed of 1,186 out of state students, or 13.2 per cent.

New Jersey and Virginia contribute the most of these out of state students, says Vainright. New Jersey doesn't have a state supported school system, he indicates, and it pays its residents to attend institutions in other states.

North Carolina isn't alone in its residency requirements. Most other states have similar rules which protect their state's residents. According to Vainright, Tennessee is presently proposing an exchange system, whereby students from North Carolina and Tennessee could attend state institutions in each state and be charged the in-state tuition rate.

Whether or not this will be worked out can't be determined, says Vainright, "first you've got to decide who is a resident for tuition purposes," and again you are back to the main problem.

The law on residency for in-state tuition purposes is a wolf in sheeps clothing. It reads, "To qualify for in-state tuition a legal resident must have maintained his domicile in North Carolina for at least 12 months immediately prior to his classification as a resident for tuition purposes. In order to be eligible for such classification, the individual must establish that his or her presence in the State during such 12-month period was for purposes of maintaining a bona fide domicile rather than for purposes of mere temporary residence incident to enrollment in an institution of higher education."

The "Catch 22" clause, "the individual must estasblish that his or her presence in the State during such 12 month period was for purposes of maintaining a bona fide domicile rather than for purposes of mere temporary residence . . ."

As business manager Moore put it, "how do you determine intent."

The manual says you must look at the individuals actions. Among the actions taken into consideration are if the person registers to vote, files income, personal property or real property tax returns; registers or licenses a motor vehicle; acquires a driver's license; own real property; is employed; maintains membership in social, fraternal, religious or other organizations; maintains banking accounts and the list goes on.

But the mere fact of doing anyone or all of these actions does not establish specific intent, says Vainright.

Deborah Clement found this out. She registered to vote in January, bought a car and registered it in North Carolina and acquired a state driver's license and purchased city tags for her car. She has worked in Greenville both part and full time since June of 1973, but she is not a legal resident for tuition purposes, says ECU, even though she is a resident of Greenville.

Deborah's initial application was turned down but the road does not end there. She can "appeal the decision to a campus review board" says Vainright and "we encourage applicants to do so."

Vainright feels the majority of those whose applications are turned down do not appeal them, but some do, and the road doesn't end there either. If the person feels the review board ruled incorrectly, on a technicality, he can take it to a state review board, established in the fall of 1973.

This state review board has members from the state supported schools along with members of the community college system, the attorney general's office and representatives of UNC President William Friday's office.

According to one of these representatives, David Edwards, secretary to the state board, they have received 42 appeals from students throughout the state system. Of those appealed, seven were reversed in favor of the student and three were held for further investigation by the institutions. Thirty-one were ruled as affirming the campus revue board decision and one was held for further study.

As mentioned before, the average at ECU is above 50 per cent for the decision to be in favor of the applying student.

But the fact remains, a person can be a legal resident of the city of Greenville and still not be considered an "in-state" resident for tuition purposes at ECU unless he or she can prove their intent of making North Carolina their permanent residence.

For Deborah Clement, she feels her intentions are clear. She says she is going to stay here and not return to the "smoggy" north, but she is having a hard time convincing others of her intentions.

Model Air Show At Kinston Today

The Kinston-Greenville Air Modelers will hold an air show on the grounds of Lenoir Community College at Kinston at 2 p.m. Sunday.

The main event of the air show will be performances by radio-controlled model planes, including two pylon races, with some of the planes reaching speeds exceeding 125 miles per hour.

In addition to the radio controlled and regular flying models, radio-controlled helicopters will be demonstrated along with two full-size Pitt Specials (one-man airplanes with 20-feet wing spans).

Weather permitting, a hot air balloon will be assembled and flown during the afternoon.

Ancient Indian Art Endangered

CAPITOL REEF NATIONAL MONUMENT, Utah (UPI) — The ravages of time, vandals and construction are slowly destroying a unique American art form—rock scratchings made a millenium ago by wandering Indians.

In Utah, an estimated 80 per cent of all the sites of petroglyphs—as the scratchings are known—have been at least partially marred.

But a team of University of Utah art students, financed by the National Endowment for the Humanities, is working to document some of the art work for posterity and awaken public interest in saving endangered sites.

Gary Stilovich, 26, a senior graphic design major, hopes to take pictures and "rubbings" of 60 sites before his six-month, $10,000 grant runs out.

Rock art is scattered throughout North America, but it has generally been overlooked in comparison to spectacular discoveries elsewhere in the world. Utah's drawings are associated with the Fremont culture, which flourished between 1,000 and 1,200 A.D.

Typical drawings feature mountain sheep, coyotes and hunters. In some regions, trapezoidal human figures wearing headdresses have been pecked into the rock.

Stilovich said professional archaeologists have tended to shelve consideration of the scratchings in favor of other research at digging sites because of the difficulty in correlating the art with specific native cultures.

As a result, he said, much of the work has been done by those interested in the art itself.

"Many contemporary artists say rock art is too simple, yet much of the work displays a high degree of skill in composition, planning and execution. It's actually a very approachable art form that can involve anyone on any level."

Researchers agree that the pictures were used as a record of objects, hunt tallies, concepts and legends. Some were mere scrawls for amusement, but most of the work was done by the tribe's shaman, or others under his direction, as an aid in insuring health, fertility, rain or prosperity.

The Utah student and his aides begin their work by studying rock drawings and photographing sections of particular interest. Then they tape large sheets of transparent mylar over selected panels and work over the entire sheet with an opaque wax pencil, capturing the texture of the rock and defining the recessed image.

A "rubbing," as the procedure is known, may require several hours or days to finish, depending on the size and amount of detail. Stilovich said his largest drawing was 12 by 20 feet and took two days to finish.

"Unexpected things start appearing in the rock as we work on the rubbings," he said. "The feeling of the background is as important as the pecked image, and so we try to get the figures in the context of their settings."

"The native artists used natural cracks and corners in the rock to advantage in telling their stories, and we try to convey the full extent of their planning."

NEW ARK THEORY

COLLEGEDALE, Tenn. (UPI) — An archaeologist who 15 years ago spent several weeks on an expedition searching for Noah's ark now believes the boat may have been destroyed shortly after the flood.

SPIRAL STAIRCASE CONNECTS LEVELS

By Gerry Bishop

Every bedroom of this attractive vacation home offers its own private porch or balcony with access through sliding glass doors. Thus, a view is ensured for every member of the vacationing family.

The living room, faced by a view-filled front porch, opens onto the kitchen area and is graced by a modern spiral staircase which provides access to the second level.

The kitchen is only a few steps from a carport, built for step-saving convenience. Also on the first level is a full bath, storage for the furnace and hot water heater, and a roomy bedroom with its own back porch.

The second level features two bedrooms. Closets and storage area plus a bath act as sound buffers between the two units and give greater privacy to each room. Each of the bedrooms has a balcony.

The home is designed for active vacationers, with the living room the focal point of activity. The convenient arrangement of the kitchen allows for informal entertaining, serving large groups of children, or for simple, relaxed dining of the vacationing family.

The "Parkway" does not sacrifice privacy, however, for the living arrangement, as the bedrooms are set aside for individual solitude.

EVERY BEDROOM OF THE "PARKWAY" ENJOYS PRIVATE PORCH, BALCONY.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A residential door made of steel-reinforced polyurethane.

Manufacturer's claim — That the door looks and feels like hardwood ...that it will not warp or crack...that is is resistant to stains and can be varnished or otherwise finished...that it is available in two styles, one a louver model with raised panels, the other with all raised panels...and that the initial color of so-called golden walnut will be followed by several other colors.

Manufacturer's claim — That a scoring design on the panel permits the do-it-yourselfer to use the bricks individually or as a 12-brick panel...that, in either case, application is possible with ordinary household tools...that the man-made masonry panels are constructed of 60 per cent crushed limestone reinforced with fiber glass for added strength.

Manufacturer's claim — That the paneling is very sturdy and durable ...that it resists scratches, scuffs and stains and can be damp-wiped clean...that the authentic-looking woodgrain designs are protected by a 2-mil thickness of vinyl veneer...that they come in 4 by 8 panels that can be easily installed.

THE PRODUCT — A rule with a 25-feet long, one-inch wide blade that supports itself when being used.

Manufacturer's claim — That the blade, when stretched out, remains rigid up to 7 feet for hard-to-reach measurements...that it will span an opening like a stairwell without buckling, or cross a ditch, a foundation or driveway or run up rafters...that it has easy-to-read numerals and stud markings every 16 inches, all protected with a clear, tough film of plastic...that a thumb lock holds the blade firmly in place and a true zero hook insures accurate measurements.

(Home handymen will find Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," invaluable around the house. It can be obtained by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

(The residential door is made by Grandor Corp., 35 Market St., East Patterson, N.J., 07407; the brick paneling by Roxite Div., Masonite Corp., Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690; the wall paneling by Permaneer Corp., 201 Progress Parkway, Maryland Heights, Mo. 63043; and the rule by The Stanley Works, 195 Lake St., New Britain, Conn. 06050.)

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — In one of your recent replies to a reader, who told about the black soiled areas at the bottoms of the shingles on his house, you told him how to test to determine whether it was mildew. I have the same condition on our house, but the color of the stain is green. Could that also be mildew?

A. — Yes. Mildew on exterior, painted surfaces usually shows up as black, but may be one of several other colors, including green.

Q. — A few floor boards in our living room squeak whenever they are walked on. I'd like to avoid going to the trouble of putting new nails into the floor to halt the squeaks. Someone suggested putting powdered graphite between the boards. Will that help?

A. — In some cases, putting powdered graphite or talcum powder between the offending boards will halt the squeaks — sometimes only for a short time, sometimes indefinitely. Generally, however, this is a temporary measure. If you are forced to drive nails through the boards into the joists, be sure to use threaded nails.

Q. — I'm making a wooden shed to cover the garbage cans at the side of our house. I'm using plywood. Since it is the exterior-type plywood, is it necessary to coat it with a wood preservative?

A. — Yes. While the glue in exterior plywood is waterproof, it is advisable to coat the plywood with something that will protect it from the weather over a long period of time. Wood preservative is fine, so is an exterior paint.

Q. — There is a slight crack at the bottom of the flush tank in our bathroom. It has been there for years, but only recently a slight leak developed. Can this be fixed?

A. — Yes. But first you'll have to get all the water out of the tank. Shut off the water to the tank, flush it, then soak up the remaining water with a sponge. Once the inside of the tank is thoroughly dry, apply an epoxy resin or some other waterproof adhesive to the cracked area. Force the adhesive into the crack with the blade of a putty knife. Allow the adhesive to harden for several hours longer than the time recommended on the container. Refill the tank.

Does Insurance Reflect Value?

By DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Would you sell your home for the face value amount on your homeowner's insurance policy?

Do you know what it would cost to rebuild your house on the same foundation if it were completely destroyed?

If your answers to these questions are no, chances are your insurance needs updating. Certainly, it means you should review it to be safe.

Today's soaring inflation can outdate housing values in as little as one year, the Insurance Information Institute warns. And, should your home be damaged, to say nothing of destroyed, this could cost you heavily.

For instance, the Institute points out, Department of Labor statistics show $100 worth of construction in 1967 would have cost $152 in December, 1973, an increase of more than 50 per cent. Figures for specific areas of home construction and maintenance show even greater increase — as much as 80 per cent for roof reshingling.

An analysis of fire losses on homes in one state, the Institute noted, revealed that only one homeowner in three carried enough insurance to cover even one-half the replacement value of his house.

Most homeowners have insurance under a special package policy commonly called homeowner's insurance. A provision of this policy waives deduction for depreciation in claims involving damage to the building as long as the policyholder carries insurance at 80 per cent of replacement value or more. This means a damaged roof, for instance, would be repaired or replaced without cost to the policyholder no matter what its age. Without 80 per cent coverage, there would be deduction for depreciation. Assuming a 20-year life for a roof, as an example, damage to a 10 year old roof would be compensated for at only half the replacement cost.

The amount of coverage on a dwelling also becomes the basis for determining the amounts of coverage which are automatically assigned to appurtenant private structures —a garage or other outbuildings —personal property and any additional living expenses made necessary by damage to the house.

American Mutual Insurance Alliance of Chicago, in a leaflet on home insurance, says "Almost any homeowner who has not reviewed the limits of his insurance recently will find his coverage too low to protect his investment."

In addition to inflation, the Alliance says, homeowners often forget to add coverage to take into account home modernization. Some, in the financial crush of buying a new home, take out only the minimum coverage demanded by the lender —sometimes barely enough to cover the amount of the loan, providing almost no protection of the owner's equity. In the event of total loss, the company must be paid first.

American Mutual offers the following checklist:

—Examine your homeowner's (or fire and extended coverage) policy to determine coverage limits.

—Determine accurate replacement cost of your home. The builder, in the case of a relatively new home, or a qualified real estate appraiser in your area, are the best sources for such an estimate.

—Discuss coverage with your insurance representative. Ask about any special coverage needed. Additional buildings — garages, play houses, studios, guest houses, for instance — may exceed the 10 per cent of coverage on the main dwelling which is allowed under the standard policy. Or you may have personal possessions which should be insured separately.

A general indication of what it would cost to replace a house can be determined from nationwide statistics in the following table provided by Marshall & Swift Publications:

Year Built	Multiplier
1973	1.000
1972	1.107
1971	1.208
1970	1.323
1969	1.369
1968	1.494
1967	1.592
1966	1.639
1965	1.720
1964	1.761
1963	1.798
1960	1.901
1955	2.188
1950	2.750

To find replacement value for a home built in 1968 for $20,000, for instance, multiply $20,000 original cost by 1,494, the multiplier shown for 1968, giving an average replacement cost of $29,880.

Since replacement costs vary from city to city, this will give only a general idea of increased value. A local estimate is needed to obtain a true estimate of a home's value.

The Garden Clinic

N.C.State University Answers Timely Gardening Questions

Q. We have an American holly near the house which has never fruited. What can be done to make it set berries? (C. G., Salemburg)

A. Hollies may fail to fruit for several reasons: (1) Too young. Holly usually blooms for the first time when between 5 and 10 years old. (2) A male plant. A male plant does not fruit. (3) A female too far from a male for pollination, or near males that do not bloom at the same time as the female. (4) Flowers injured by late freezes. (5) Lack of effective pollination because of unfavorable weather at the time of blooming. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscaped horticulturist)

Q. How deep should we plant Madonna lilies. (C. G., Winston-Salem)

A. Set four inches deep in a well drained soil. Put a layer of sand in botton of hole or trench, letting base of bulb rest on it. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. We want to grow some onions from seed. When should we plant them? (M. D., Dunn)

A. Between Sept. 15 and Oct. 10 in your area. Choose a corner of the garden and plant seeds one-fourth to one-half inch deep. You will probably want to transplant the seedlings into rows in February. (George Hughes, extension horticulturist)

Q. Please describe the most efficient way to rid a plot of ground of Johnsongrass. (Mrs. C. H., Siler City)

A. Spray with Dowpon or MSMA when the Johnsongrass is 8 to 10 inches tall and actively growing. Wait three or four days and disc or till the soil. Spray again when Johnsongrass regrows 8 to 10 inches. Wait three or four days and disc or till again. Repeat this process as long as regrowth appears. Johnsongrass seed will remain in the soil for several years, and a herbicide should be used for controlling the plants coming from these seed. Treflan can be used if the land is being used for growing soybeans, cotton and certain begetables crops (check the label.) Sutan can be used in corn. (W. M. Lewis, extension agronomist.)

Dried Fruit Sales Go Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nutrition awareness has boosted sales of dried fruits and natural cereals.

Condiment sales are up sharply over the past year, influenced not just by a long term trend toward greater variety in meals but also by the energy crisis and inflation, says Progressive Grocer. The trade publication said both factors have led people to entertain more at home instead of eating out or traveling long distances for entertainment.

Variety, more foreign type meals and economizing have helped spur sales of macaroni products. And the economy and natural foods trends have increased sales of baking needs, according to the magazine's second annual study of sales of about 320 product categories in super stores.

It defined a super store as a market whose dollar sales are $100,000 or more a week; or ten times as high as a standard supermarket, and which occupies 30,000 or more square feet. By 1980, such stores are expected to account for half of all grocery sales in the United States.

Taxes Take Big Part Of Work

CHICAGO (UPI) — An average American worker spends two hours and 39 minutes of his 8-hour work day earning money to pay federal, state and local taxes, says the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Earning enough to buy a day's supply of food and beverage requires only 58 minutes of work, while earning your clothing takes 25 minutes; recreation, 18 minutes; and housing, one hour. The remaining one hour and 37 minutes pays for all other categories.

YOGURT, ANYONE?

ROSEMONT, Ill. (UPI) — A few years ago, most Americans had never heard of yogurt, let alone eaten it.

Now a study shows that more than 10 per cent of U.S. families bought yogurt during an average month between April 1972 and March 1973. The survey covered 7,500 families in five geographic areas nationwide, says the Marketing and Economic Division of the United Dairy Industry Assn. here.

Almost three fourths of yogurt purchases were made in large cities and by higher income families. Flavored yogurts represented 90 per cent of the sales, with strawberry the leading flavor.

HOW MUCH HOT WATER?

One of the items frequently overlooked when remodeling or buying a new home, is the capacity of the hot water heater. First notice of this oversight normally is discovered while under a hot shower when it turns ice cold permaturely. But, then it is too late. So, here's a short course on the subject.

The capacity of storage water heaters is rated in two ways and is usually imprinted on the nameplate of the tank. One number tells you the capacity of the tank, and the other number shows the recovery rate per hour. The sum of the two numbers gives you the number of gallons of hot water a tank can supply in one hour.

A tank of 50 gallons capacity with a recovery rate of 40 gallons will supply 90 gallons an hour which should be plenty for a family of five in a home with two baths and an automatic dishwasher and clotheswasher. A family of four without the diswasher should be able to get by on a 30 or 40 gallon tank with 30 gallon recovery.

Alternative Service By Conscientious Objector

By DOUGLAS STANGLIN

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Max Woodfin is a conscientious objector from the quiet, conservative hill country of Monroe County, Ark., who, for the last two years, has worked among the old and dying in a convalescent home in Galveston, Tex.

Woodfin, 23, a former stuudent at Southern Methodist University, has worked as a janitorial supervisor for the Moody House convalescent center after receiving conscientious objector status from his draft board during the final months of the Vietnam war.

The past 24 months have given him a chance to think, and a chance to lose part of his bitterness.

"In the first six months or so when I was down here, I was very depressed about the whole thing, just the idea of having to spend two years being told to do something, just for refusing to go into the military," he said. "I think the most depressing part was being around people who were about to die.

"After six months I began to develop a more optimistic attitude about people. In the home I found out how people spent their younger years, what careers they had, some of their dreams that had been dashed. I got to know them as a person, it made me feel a lot better about what I was doing.

"No one wants to think two years have been wasted. And I've changed. I'm pretty much convinced—it might be rationalization-but I love my family, I love my friends, and all in all, I think that it is worth it to stay in America."

He said in the last three or four months he has been able to sit down and talk to people he disagrees with, without getting mad.

"I gave up standing on top of barricades," he said.

Woodfin, an athletic young man and former football star, wears his hair long. A moustache curls along his mouth. But he shuns the radical label and has drawn much of his criticism from radicals who think he took the easy route by seeking CO status.

"Speaking from a very prejudiced position—as I say, I really love my family, and I love this country—whatever that means. I think running from the draft, particularly running to Canada, would have been completely avoiding the issue.

"What has bothered me since is whether I should have gone to the induction station when I got my notice and refused to take the oath, and faced court charges. And I don't think I'll ever answer that question to my satisfaction. Prison is a fairly brutal step.

"I hope that I have done as much good in this way, I know I have helped more people this way, even if it wasn't in educating them toward pacifism."

His own introduction into pacifism came after meeting his draft board secretary, a widow whose husband had died in World War II.

"When I registered for the draft, she told me she felt it was her duty as an American to see that every young man in Monroe County had the same chance to die as her husband did," he said.

He first received status as a noncombatant, but turned it down.

"I just didn't want anything to do with the military. I figured being in the military in any form or fashion would give support to violence."

The next confrontation was with the draft board.

"The board meeting was very hostile. One of the men sat in the corner and kept muttering, 'You're just a chicken, and just don't wanna go, do you, sonny?'"

He said only three of the five board members showed up for the final meeting. The vote was 2-1 in his favor.

"One of the men had a son I had played high school football with. He remembered me as a good little boy who went to Sunday school.

"The second vote was a black man who had been put on the board to come up to federal qualifications," he said. "He later said that I was the first white man in the county to say 'yessir' to him—I don't know if he had any idea what I was talking about."

He said the ordeal strained his relations with his parents.

"They were very upset, but I think they were more concerned about what their friends would think, than what they thought.

"They are very much religious oriented people, and began to talk to different ministers and bishops, and after four or five months my parents became convinced I had done the right thing. Right now they are very happy about it."

For the future Woodfin said:

"My plans are to go home for a while, go home to see how much I've changed. I think that's important.

"I'm not going to show off how much I've learned in a strange and foreign city. I just want to see if a conscientious objector can get along in Eastern Arkansas."

New Pastor Is Assigned

The Rev. E. H. Miles, a veteran of 34 years in the ministry, has been assigned as the pastor for the Greenville Church of God.

Rev. Miles is married to the former Bertha Roland, and both are natives of Atlanta, Ga. The couple has one son, David Miles.

Prior to coming to Greenville, Rev. Miles served at a church in East Burlington for three years. He was educated in Georgia.

Weekly worship services at the Greenville Church of God are: Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.; morning worship, 11 a.m.; Young People's Endeavor, 6:45 p.m.; and evening worship at 7:30 p.m.

During the week, services are held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday evenings. On Thursday evenings at 7 p.m., the minister conducts services at the Greenville Nursing Home.

Speical music is on the program for each of the church's services, and the public is invited to attend.

They Pay More For Early Death

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — The New Zealand government is to make lump sum payments of up to $3,750 to the dependents of any citizen dying before the age of 65.

The formula provides $1,500 cash to a totally-dependent widow or widower, including a partner or a de facto relationship.

There are additional payments of $750 for each dependent child, up to a limit of $2,250.

Payments are reduced in cases of partial dependency. Lump sum payments have been paid to the dependents of accident victims since April last year.

The extension of the scheme by Prime Minister Norman E. Kirk's Labor government to cover all deaths becomes effective in April 1975.

Restructuring Wildlife Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Fish and Wildlife Service is restructuring its law enforcement division, says Director Lynn A. Greenwalt, so that it can deal more effectively with wildlife law violations.

The service's six regions will be divided into 13 districts, each managed by a special agent who will have a modest force to cover the district's investigative and law enforcement responsibilities. These responsibilities have been increased by Congress in recent years.

No 'Hunting License' In N.C. Outlaw Designation

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Recalling the days of posses and vigilantes, North Carolina maintains a statute which in effect deputizes the citizenry and allows officers to shoot designated felons on sight.

The statute, enacted in 1866, empowers judges to declare felony fugitives outlaws. Once a person has been declared an outlaw, he is subject to arrest by any citizen. If the outlaw refuses an arrest warning, any citizen "may slay him without accusation or impeachment of any crime."

State officials say they cannot determine how many persons have been declared outlaws in modern times, although the statute has been used against four men in the last six months.

There is no record of a modern outlaw ever being shot by a citizen, officials say.

In one of the latest instances, a 19-year-old youth facing 65 years imprisonment for various robbery convictions was declared an outlaw after he escaped from a Fayetteville jail.

Law officers who have sought outlaw status for felons say they do not expect private citizens to go after criminals like posses of old.

"It's not a hunting license," said Burley Mitchell, district attorney of Wake County. "If a felon flees, law enforcement officers cannot shoot him unless the officer determines he's in immediate danger...Now if he becomes an outlaw, the law enforcement officers or any private citizen can shoot him. What it really does is deputizes the citizenry and gives law enforcement officers more authority."

The statute does not empower officers or private citizens to lay in ambush for an outlaw. In a turn of the century decision, the North Carolina Supreme Court determined that outlaws must be "called upon and warned to surrender before they are allowed to be slain."

The statute itself gives wide latitude to judges in labeling felons as outlaws. Any judge of the state Supreme Court, Superior Court "or any criminal court," or any two justices of the peace, need only "to receive information that a felony has been committed...and that such a person flees from justice" to make an outlaw declaration.

A felony suspect may be declared an outlaw before he has actually been convicted, provided a judge deems that his guilt or potential danger appear convincing. Last April two prisoners who escaped a Rockingham County jail while awaiting trial for murder were declared outlaws.

"It is a drastic step," said Judge Julius Rousseau Jr., when he issued the proclamation. "But when you have a man who is indicted for a capital offense, overpowers a jailer and escapes, it is appropriate."

Mitchell, who has recently asked a judge to declared a 22-year-old man an outlaw, said he took the action to scare the fugitive into surrendering.

The Wake County sheriff's department quoted the young man, who was charged with rape and armed robbery, as saying he would never be captured alive.

A few hours after being declared an outlaw, he meekly turned himself in to authorities.

Opposition to the statute exists among state attorneys, but has never been strong enough to strike the law from the statute books.

In 1968, the State Judicial Council asked unsuccessfully that the law be replead, saying "it would seem to belong to the days of the posse and the bounty hunter."

WANTS PAVING—Ada Evans, Fairplay, Colorado's mayor and the first popularly elected black mayor in Colorado's history, walks up a winding staircase in the tiny mountain town's city hall. She won a three-way race for the unsalaried top job in the town of 500 last April and says one of her goals is first to get the dusty town's streets paved. Fairplay was founded by gold-miners over a century ago. (AP Wirephoto)

Pirates Open Grid Practice On Monday

Come Monday morning, Coach Pat Dye and his East Carolina University football staff are going to be quite busy looking for the solution to three problem areas. They've been thinking about these since spring practice came to an end.

Hopefully, the solutions will come prior to September 14, when the Bucs open the 1974 season by playing host to Bowling Green of the Mid-America Conference.

"We've got to solve these three problem areas real quick," Dye said.

The first of the problems concerns the defensive secondary.

"We have two people back who'll play," the coach said, referring to veterans Jim Bolding, who was one of the nation's top interceptors last year as a freshman, and Reggie Pinkney, another freshman who saw starting duties after the first game.

The other two positions are currently held by Ernest Madison and Greg Pingston, both sophomores. Should they hold their positions, it would give the Bucs an all sophomore backfield on defense.

"We are going to look to the freshmen for some help," Dye said. "We just really need to find out who wants to start. We are also going to be looking for some more depth behind the defensive line and the linebackers."

Problem area number two concerns the quarterback position. "We've got to settle this right away," Dye said.

Mike Weaver started the spring here, and appeared to be the man most likely to take over the reigns from the graduated Carl Summerell. He missed the spring game because of an injury, however.

"But he's the number one quarterback for the start of practice and we'll go from there," Dye said. "This certainly doesn't mean that he'll be the number one man when we play Bowling Green, but based on his spring, he'll be the one. We also have several freshman quarterbacks we want to take a long look at."

The third, and probably the biggest problem area lies in the offensive line, where there is little experience returning.

"We're going to play a lot of sophomores if things don't change," the coach said. Jake Dove, a tackle; Randy Parrish, a guard; and Ricky Bennett, a tackle, are all sophomores. Center Tim Hightower and Jimbo Walker are juniors. "But Walker is a transfer (from Marion Institute Alabama), and that's almost like being a sophomore," Dye added.

"We're inexperienced and young to say the least. We've got to do some growing up in a hurry, and we have to get some depth."

It all rounds up to the fact that the coaches are going to be looking for "some winning football players where we didn't have them in the spring."

Perhaps the strongest position on the field will be the running backs, where a large number return. One sour note, however, is that the man billed as the best of the runners, Kenny Strayhorn, hasn't returned to full form following a knee injury and surgery during the spring. "We hope he's going to be ready," Dye said. "We're not going to press him however. We have some people who can play there without a great loss in ability, but he should be our best runner if he is healthy."

Dye doesn't look for any freshmen to earn starting berths on the team, but he's hopeful that a number of them will respond early and provide badly needed depth for the team. "Some of them are going to do a lot of playing," he said. "We have some speed on the team, but we have even more coming in."

The practice schedule, which begins bright and early Monday morning, looks like this. The Bucs will work in shorts—without pads—for the first three days, an NCAA rule. They'll hold a meeting at 8:30 a.m., and hit the field at 9:15. They will practice again in the afternoon, at 4:50.

This schedule will continue, with hitting starting on Thursday, for about five or six days, according to Dye. Then, depending on how things are going, the schedule may be altered.

"How hard they work will depend on the condition they report in. We also have to take a look at our new people, and the way we can do this to let them hit people."

The Bucs haven't lost a Southern Conference game in two and a half years now—a 15 game streak, and Dye would like to keep that up as the Bucs go for a third-straight Southern Conference title. If they make it they'll be the first team to win three in a row since West Virginia won four in succession, 1953-56. No other team in the history of the conference has ever won more than two in a row.

TIME FOR PRACTICE—East Carolina University's football team reported in Friday and will begin practice for the fall season on Monday. The Bucs will work out light on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, then don full gear on Thursday. Here lineman Buddy Lowery tries on a set of shoulder pads, as Equipment Manager Addison Bass and other players look on. Pearson On Yankee Pole

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — For the ninth time in 11 starts this year, David Pearson has won the front row pole position for a major stock car race.

The 39-year-old $1 million career winner from Spartanburg, S.C., wheeled a Mercury around the two-mile oval Michigan International Speedway Saturday at 157.946 miles pe hour to claim the honor of leading a 36-car starting field to the post in Sunday's $82,200 Yankee 400.

The race, expected to draw 50,000 to the scenic Irish Hills area, 70 miles southwest of Detroit, begins at 1:30 p.m. EDT.

Buddy Baker, a Ford driver who has yet to win a race this year, nailed the other front row spot in a Ford with a speed of 157.832 m.p.h. Baker's elapsed time around the oval was only .033 seconds off Pearson's clocking.

Pearson, with four victories and no worse than a fifth-place finish in his other starts, already has logged $144,050 in prize money. Though Baker hasn't won, his chart shows six top five finishes in 11 starts and $58,493 in purses.

The second row positions went to Cale Yarborough in a Chevrolet and Richard Petty in a Dodge with speeds of 156.836 and 156.528 m.p.h., respectively.

Those two are locked in a close race for the NASCAR driving title and for seasonal money honors. Petty, already a four-time champion and stock car racing's biggest money and events winner, leads both categories. His money total stands at $201,270, Yarborough's $172,930. Each has eight victories.

Bobby Allison, driving track owner Roger Penske's American Motors-backed Matador, and 1973 Grand National champion Benny Parsons in a Chevrolet will start in the third row. Allison was clocked at 155.002 m.p.h., Parsons at 154.460. m.p.h.

Filling out the first 10 positions in the 36-car lineup will be Earl Ross, Clifton "Coo Coo" Marlin and 18-year-old rookie Richie Panch, all in Chevrolets; and Ron Keselowski, winner of the United States Auto Club's Pocono 500, in a Dodge.

Pearson, himself a three-times Grand National titleholder and winner of more "superspeedway" races than any other driver, clocked two laps around the banked oval in excess of 157 m.p.h. His first trip was the fastest and it gave him the pole position.

Baker, who says "I need a victory so bad it hurts, if for no other reason than to show I can do it," also was above 157 on both of his circuits.

Pearson captured the pole position for the June Motor State 400 at Michigan Speedway, but wound up third behind Petty and Ross when a yellow flag late in the race caught him in his pit. The green racing flag never came out again, leaving the greying South Carolinian no chance to make a late race charge.

Perry Inspires His Foe

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Bart Johnson was nervous about pitching before a national television audience Saturday, but it didn't show as the 24-year-old right-hander limited Cleveland to five hits in hurling the Chicago White Sox to a 3-0 victory over the Indians and Gaylord Perry.

"I was so nervous last night thinking about national television that I couldn't sleep," said Johnson. "I didn't want to embarass my family. If I did a lousy job, they'd have to explain it.

"But pitching against Gaylord Perry is inspirational," Johnson added. "When they give him the ball you know he's going to nine innings, so you just have to keep up."

Johnson, who two years ago gave up as a pitcher when he was sent to the minors and tried his hand as an outfielder, recalled his only other major league shutout.

"That came in 1970 against Kansas City," he said. "It was late in the season and I guess less than a thousand people were in the stands. I imagine a lot more people saw this one.

"The shutout against KC got me an extra $1,000 in my contract the following year, but this one cost me $250. I was supposed to go on the post-game show, but got out there too late and blew the loot."

Run-scoring singles by Carlos May and Bill Melton in the first inning started the White Sox on their way.

Johnson, 5-2, was recalled from Iowa of the American Association less than two months ago.

Perry, 16-9, who earlier this year posted 15 consecutive victories, suffered the eighth loss in his last nine decisions.

Pat Kelly opened the White Sox first with a walk, Jorge Orta followed with a single and May, ending an 0-for-20 slump, singled home the first run. After Ken Henderson struck out, Melton singled to right-center, driving in Orta.

The White Sox added an unearned run in the fourth when Henderson doubled, went to third on Perry's errant pickoff attempt and continued home on centerfielder Rusty Torres' wild throw to third.

The loss was the Indian's 11th in their last 15 games.

Johnson struck out seven and walked one. Perry, who allowed seven hits, struck out five and walked one.

Johnson retired the first eight Indians before Dave Duncan singled in the third inning. Rico Carty singled with one out in the fourth but Johnson struck out Charlie Spikes and John Ellis flied out to end the inning.

Oscar Gamble opened the fifth with a single was stranded there as Johnson fanned two of the next three batters.

Johnson didn't allow another baserunner until the eighth when he issued his only walk of the game, to Torres. Frank Duffy fanned but pinch-hitter Tom McCraw singled to center. Joe Lis, however, bounced into a double play to end the threat.

Pinch hitter Leron Lee singled to open the ninth but Carty hit into a double play and Spikes popped up to end the game.

Johnny Miller Races Into Westchester Lead

By BOB GREEN

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Brilliant Johnny Miller, showing no effects of a long layoff from the game, came from four strokes off the pace with a gaudy 65 and established a two-shot lead Saturday after the third round of the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

Miller, the All-American boy who has played only twice in more than two months, put together a 202 total, a distant 14 under par on the hilly 6,614-yard Westchester Country Club course.

"Not bad for a guy in a slump," murmured Johnny, who won his fifth title of the year in April. "Everyone has been saying I'm in a slump. I haven't said that, but everybody else has.

"It's just that I haven't won for awhile.

"I'd like to win again. I really would. I want to win real bad.

The 27-year-old Miller, the season's leading money winner with more than $205,000 for the year despite his inactivity of the last couple of months, had a two-stroke advantage over Tom Weiskopf but was looking at the threat of Jack Nicklaus going into Sunday's last round of the chase for a $50,000 first prize.

"He's the one I've got to think about," Miller said.

Nicklaus was three strokes back at 205. He had a third-round 68 in the hazy, threatening weather.

"I've played three adequate rounds," Nicklaus said. "I'm due for a good one. Maybe tomorrow."

Weiskopf birdied the final hole—several minutes after national television cameras had completed their coverage of the event—to take second alone at 204.

He had a 68.

Nicklaus, second-round leader Dale Douglass and non-winning tour regular Don Bies followed at 205. Douglass had a par 72, Bies a 70.

Larry Ziegler managed a round of par 72 despite a double bogey on the first hole and a two-stoke penalty on the 12th where he took an improper drop. He was tied at 206 with chipper Jerry McGee, who had a 70.

South African Gary Player had a sparkling 66 but was well back at 210. Arnold Palmer shot 71 for 212.

PGA champion Lee Trevino is not competing.

The tall, blond and handsome Miller said he has great confidence going into the last round.

"I've got to the point where people expect something from me. I'm ready for the late-season finish. I'm not gonna let go of my leading money winner spot without a fight.

"I've given these guys three months to nail me to the wall and they haven't done it. Now I want to finish strong."

Miller didn't miss a green, missed only one fairway and didn't even come close to making bogey.

He holed birdie putts of 15, 10 and 10 feet on the front side, missed two others of 10 feet, reached the par five 12th in two and two-putted, scored again from 10 feet on the next hole and finished up birdie-birdie after lofting soft iron shots close to the cup.

DEJECTED—Arnold Palmer bows his head in disgust after missing an easy putt and bogeying the third hole of the Westchester Country Club Saturday. Johnny Miller shot into a two-stroke lead in the tournament, which winds up today. (AP Wirephoto)

Royals Get Shutout Victory Over Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — George Brett's double play grounder drove in the game's first run in the fifth inning and Al Fitzmorris hurled a three-hitter as the Kansas City Royals beat the Milwaukee Brewers 4-0 Saturday.

After both teams were held hitless over the first four innings, Hal McRae led off the Kansas City fifth with a single, Tony Solaita singled him to third and Cepeda walked on a 3-2 pitch to fill the bases. Brett grounded to second for a double play as McRae scored.

The Royals jumped on Rodriguez, 6-4, in the ninth on a walk, sacrifice, McRae's RBI double, an intentional walk to Solaita and Cepeda's double.

The victory for Fitzmorris, 10-3, was his second shutout decision over the Brewers this season. He retired the first 12 Milwaukee batters before Johnny Briggs singled. McRae then made a diving catch of Darrell Porter's liner in short left, but Bobby Mitchell singled Briggs to second.

However, Bob Coluccio grounded into an inning-ending double play and Fitzmorris allowed only one more hit, Tim Johnson's leadoff single in the ninth.

Murcer's Double Sparks Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Murcer's tie-dreaking two-run double with two out in the sixth inning following a intentional walk to Elliott Maddox lifted the New York Yankees to a 3-1 victory over the California Angels Saturday.

Pat Dobson, 12-14, scattered eight hits, one in every inning except the eighth but needed help from Cecil Upshaw with one out in the ninth.

Sandy Alomar, puchased from California earlier in the season, started the tie-breaking rally with a one-out double, only the third New York hit off loser Frank Tanana, 9-15.

After Roy White struck out, Maddox, who homered and singled for the Yankees' first two hits, was purposely passed. Murcer, who had been struck out twice by Tanana, then drilled the left-hander's 0-2 pitch to left-center and both runners scored.

Maddox snapped Tanana's 21-inning scoreless string with a first-inning homer, his second of the season. California's John Doherty tied it in the second with his first major league home run.

Taiwan Again World Champs

By BOB WARNER
Associated Press Writer

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Pitcher Lin Wen-Hsiung fired a two-hitter and hit two home runs Saturday to lead Kao Hsiung, Taiwan, to a 12-1 win over Red Bluff, Calif. in the Little League World Series championship final.

It was the fourth straight year that a Taiwan team has won the annual tournament and the fifth time in six years.

Lin, a 12-year-old right-hander, used a quick fast ball and a slow curve to strike 15 of the 21 California batters he faced. He walked one.

The only solid hit off Lin was a fifth-inning homer by Red Bluff first baseman Greg Shoff. That made the score 9-1 and stopped a 45-inning streak in which Taiwan teams had held their Williamsport opponents scoreless.

The only other California hit was a second inning infield single by Schoff off the second baseman's glove.

Taiwan rapped Red Bluff pitcher Mark Keluche for five runs in the first inning to take command of the game. The big blow was Lin's first homer, a towering two-run shot over the left field fence.

Lin ended the series with five homers in three games and a .727 batting average. He also pitched a one-hitter in Taiwan's opening round 16-0 win over New Haven, Conn.

Little League volunteers from the United States have been increasingly disturbed at Taiwain's domination of the annual tournament. The number of leagues on the Asian island was increasd this year from 23 to 41 in an attempt to reduce the pool of talent from which league all-star teams are chosen.

Cup Race Postponed

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Saturday's America's Cup races were abandoned because of heavy fog on Rhode Island Sound.

Called off while under way was the race between the American boats Intrepid and Courageous as well as the French yacht France and the Australian Southern Cross, dueling to see which nation will try to wrest the prestigious yachting cup from the United States.

Intrepid and Courageous will attempt to race again Sunday. So will France and Southern Cross.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY REELE

Bob Moyers, the Sports Information Director at Bowling Green University—East Carolina's first football opponent this year—is an award winner. Since 1971, he's won six awards from the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) for his programs and brochures.

We've just received our copy of the 1974 football brochure, which carries the title, "The Illustrated Encyclopedia of Bowling Green Football." And aside from giving you a lot of information, it also provides some laughs.

Ambidexterous—According to Donna Moyers, what one hand can do and the other hand thinks it can do better. According to basketball coaches, being able to shoot equally poor with either hand. According to the athlete, being able to chew gum and walk at the same time.

Average—A football player who is the best of the lousiest and the lousiest of the best.

Bathing Beauty—A girl worth wading for.

Bikini—A baiting suit.

Corpse—A human been.

Cornerback—A defensive player who must find a corner of the bench for his back if he lets a man get behind him for a touchdown.

Debt—The only commodity on which a man does not have to pay taxes.

Dogs—The cry of "calling off the dogs" applies to a plea for mercy of football coaches playing a top 10 team at night after knowing that Ohio State or Michigan has defeated another Big Ten team by a 50-0 score in the afternoon.

Draw Play—Subtle offensive play whereby the quarterback fakes a pass and give the ball on a delayed handoff up the middle to either the fullback or tailback. The play is not so subtle at BG because of a usual lack of passing attack. Thus BG's draw play usually works better on the drawing board. However, basic philosophy dictates that it is better for the fullback to get creamed instead of the quarterback.

Fly Pattern—The "bomb" play in football where the wide receiver just runs straight down the field to take a long pass from the quarterback that usually is dropped or falls 20 yards short of the mark. Usually used more as a threat instead of a promise.

Jump—The last word in parachuting.

Lies—According to a football coach, there are four kinds of lies: white lies, damned lies, statistics and won-lost records. All of them can get you fired.

Love—The delightful interval between meeting a beautiful girl and discovering that she looks like a turtle.

Money—It isn't everything. In fact the way things are going, it soon won't be anything.

Option play—A quarterback runs the option play. He can either give the ball to the fullback up the middle, the tailback off tackle, or the winback on a reverse. That's what they play is often called the triple option. The quarterback's fourth option is to keep the ball and get killed.

Wife—She is a wonderful person who can look in the top drawer and find your socks that aren't there.

Zymurgy—The last work in Webster's dictionary and the last work in the Bowling Green Football Encyclopedia. Zat's All, Folks.

Killanin Asks Ford's Help

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has been asked by the Lord Killanin, president of International Olympic Committee, to create a presidential commission to study all amateur sports in the United States.

Killanin also told Ford that Senate-passed legislation to establish a federal government agency to regulate amateur sports in the United State "is giving the International Olympic Committee and the International Sports Federations considerable concern."

In a letter dated Aug. 13 and made public Friday, Killanin said: "A comprehensive study, which would take into consideration the relationship between the national and international governing bodies would make a substantial contribution not only to sports in the United States but to the Olympic movement throughout the world."

He wrote a similar letter to Former President Richard M. Nixon on Aug. 6.

In his letter to Ford, Killanin said the proposed federal agency would not only have the right to recognize but also to revoke the charters of specific governing bodies of any independent sports federation in the United States.

"This could well lead to conflict with the international sports federations as it is not only their responsibility but their right to recognize the national federations which comply with their rules," Ford was told.

Killanin said there is a possibility the government agency might charter a governing body which might not be recognized by an international sports federation.

"His could result in the exclusion of the United States from all international competition inside and outside of the country, in that sport, resulting in the isolation of the United States in world competitions," Killanin said. "This possibility, I am sure may not have been appreciated by the Senate in passing the bill.

"We do not wish to interfere in the United States, but I feel that it is my duty to write to you to point out that only national Olympic committees recognized and approved by the International Olympic Committee can enter competitions in the Olympic games," he wrote.

"A national Olympic committee must be composed of national federations which in turn must be affiliated to the international federations governing each sport on the Olympic program. Further, the national federation representatives in the national Olympic committee shall be of their own choice and must constitute a voting majority of the national Olympic committee."

Killanin said the International Olympic Committee and international federations always welcome and encourage government assistance to amateur sports in all countries of the world, "but they would certainly object to government interference with the automomy of national sports federations or national Olympic committees, who appoint their own officials or determine their own policy."

Rangers Top Lolich, 6-4

DETROIT (AP) — Lenns Randle singled home the tie-breaking run in the 10th inning and the Texas Rangers went on to beat Mickey Lolich and the Detroit Tigers 6-4 Saturday.

Toby Harrah of the Rangers tied the score in the ninth inning with a leadoff home run, his 17th of the season, and squeezed home an insurance run in the 10th with a bunt single.

Jeff Burroughs opened the 10th with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Randle's single. Randle went to third on Jim Fregosi's infield hit and a throwing error by third baseman Aurelio Roriguez and scored on Harrah's bunt.

Texas scored single runs in the first, third and fourth, the tallies coming on a single by Tom Grieve, a bases-loaded walk to Randle and a squeeze bunt by Dave Nelson.

A double by Rodriguez and Ron LeFlore's single gave Detroit a run off Jackie Brown in the third. Gene Lamont and John Knox singled runs home in the fifth to tie the score 3-3.

Rookie Tom Veryzer's double put the Tigers in front 4-3 in the sixth after Ben Oglivie opened the inning with a single and was sacrificed to second.

The setback broke Lolich's four-game winning streak and evened his record at 15-15. However the veteran left-hander struck out 10 to run his career total to 2,510 moving him three ahead of Christy Mathewson into eighth place on the all-time list.

Giants Edged By Chicago, 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jerry Morales tripled home one run and scored the other in a two-run first inning and five Chicago pitchers collaborated on a six-hitter as the Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 2-1 Saturday.

Jim Tyrone's one-out walk started the uprising against loser Ron Bryant, 3-13. Morales' triple scored Tyrone and Andy Thornton's grounder got Morales home.

Ex-Giant Steve Stone, 6-4, worked the first five innings and was lifted after allowing two hits in the sixth. Relievers Ken Frailing, Burt Hooton, Oscar Zamora and Dave LaRoche preserved the victory.

San Francisco got its only run in the ninth when Dave Kingman walked, took second on an infield out, moved to third on Bruce Miller's infield single and scored on a fielders choice.

It was the second victory in a row for the Cubs over the Giants, who bowed 1-0 to Rick Reuschel Friday night.

Briton Set New World Record In 200 Meter Individual Medley

By NOEL HUGHES
AP Sports Writer

VIENNA (AP) — Britain's David Wilkie became a double gold medal winner and set a world record at the European swimming championship Saturday when he scored a dramatic victory in the final of the men's 200 meter individual medley.

Wilkie, a 20-year-old student at the University of Miami who had earlier won the 200 meter breaststroke, looked in a hopeless position at the halfway mark, but came through in scorching style for a world mark of 2:06.32.

The performance was one of 16 world records in seven days at these championships involving 26 countries which end Sunday.

East German women have been responsible for most of the records and they smashed two more Saturday in the final of the 400 meter medley relay.

Ulrike Richter set the pace with a world record in opening backstroke leg with a time of 1:03.08. That beat the world best—1:03.30—that she had made Friday in the individual backstroke fnal.

The remainder of the East German sprint squad kept up the pace and anchor Kornelia Ender rushed home with half a length of the pool to spare in a record 4:13.78. The team's previous world mark was 4:16.84.

East German Cornelia Doerr set a European record of 08.52.45 and proved much too strong for second place Novella Calligaris of Italy in the final of the 800 meter freestyle for women.

Miss Calligaris,who had the old European mark of 8:52.97, finished about five meters behind in 8:57.93.

Peter Nocke of West Germany, who also won a gold medal in the 200 medal freestyle, grabbed the gold by a fingernail in the 100 meter freestyle, in 52.18, one-hundredth of a second ahead of second place Vladimir Bure of the Soviet Union.

Wilkie admitted he was worried when he slipped so far behind Christian Lietzmann of East Germany in the 200 meter medley.

"I was wondering how much he had left," Wilkie said. "I knew I had something in reserve and decided to hold off my effort until the last 25 yards.

"Then I felt Lietzmann dying."

The world record and two gold medals were ample compensation for Wilkie who started the week in disastrous fashion.

In the 100 meter breaststroke, Wilkie mistook the horns of some fans for the false start signal. He stopped swimming and failed to qualify for the finals.

Klaus Dibiasi of Italy won the men's platform diving event for hs second gold medal in the championships. Dibiasi collected 562.83 points to 557.28 for Falk Hoffmann of East Germany. Alexander Gendrikson of the Soviet Union was third with 522.51.

Late Rally Is Enough For Reds

MONTREAL (AP) — Run-scoring singles by Tony Perez and Cesar Geronimo in the ninth inning lifted the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-4 victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday.

Pete Rose led off the ninth with a double and Joe Morgan walked. After Johnny Bench popped out, Perez drove in the go-ahead run with a single to left. After Morgan was thrown out at the plate on Darrel Chaney's grounder, Geronimo singled up the middle to score Perez. It was Geronimo's fourth run batted in of the game.

Cincinnati jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Rose led off with a double to the left-field corner and Morgan walked. Rose moved to third on long fly by Perez, Morgan stole second for his 52nd stolen base of the year and then Cesar Geronimo stroked a two-run single to right.

Bob Bailey led off the Expos second with a single to left, went to third on Hal Breeden's hit through short and came home to as Barry Foote reached base on Dan Driessen's error.

Cincinnati made it 3-1 in the third when Bench hit a ground-rule double to left, took third on an infield ut and scored on an RBI single by Geronimo.

An eighth-inning throwing error by Montreal second baseman Pepe Frias on an attempted double play allowed Perez to score and put he Reds ahead 4-3. But in the bottom of the eighth Hunt led off with a double and scored on Breeden's two-out single, tying the score.

'Cats De-emphasize Football

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

Some time back, when Furman University was de-emphasizing football, one writer tagged them the "Football for Fun Bunch." Now, that epitath could be hung on the Davidson Wildcats.

They have all but left the Southern Conference in a quest for what they call "football on their level," but what others have called as little football as possible.

Grants are only given on the basis of need, and the Wildcats are scheduling only those teams in the conference which they feel they might have a chance against. For this reason, they are playing only The Citadel, VMI and Appalachian, the three most likely to occupy the four lower positions in the ranking of the league with Davidson.

To make it even tougher on the Wildcats to get along, they are going through a transition of coaches also—usually an experimental time no matter what the program. Ed Farrell takes over from the departed Dave Fagg, and despite the program's lack of a striving for conference honors, he is enthusastic about the future.

He admits that getting off to a late start hurt recruiting, and that he isn't as familiar with the situation at Davidson as he would like to be.

"Our priority was to get the best football players that we could get. I think we accomplished this to a great deal—largely because of the new 30-man recruiting limit. We got better players, but then, if the rest got better players, are we helped?" Farrell said.

There are 43 upperclassmen returning to the team, not all of whom came out for spring drills (injury, other sports), so Farrell admits that the freshmen may have to play a bigger role than he would normally want.

But Farrell does feel that there are some good athletes on the team, and some good potential on the incoming freshman squad. "Our primary goals in the spring were to teach the players our offense and defense and to sell them on our philosophy of football. I think we did this, and squad morale is extremely high. We will be an emotional, hard-hitting, ever-improving football team, and the record will take care of itself."

One of the strong points of the team is the return of Dave Harper at quarterback. Last year, he was one of the nation's top passers, but under Farrell's more balanced attack offense, he has had to make an adjustment. "I think he's done this and will be a good leader for us," the coach said. "But we're still not afraid to pass, and we will when we want to."

When the 'Cats do pass, they'll have one of their top receivers back in Gary Pomeroy who also ranked nationally in receiving. He'll be at the flanker position, while Tim Barr and Mike Harris back him up. Greg Love, Bill Winkenwerder and Dave Wolter are the top candidates for the split end position, while Hal Peacock and Foney Mullis, along with sophomore Jim Dulin will battle for the tight end spot.

When Davidson runs, they'll look to two of five players who had good springs to fill the two-back set behind Harper. Steve Still and Larry Hardaway appear to have the inside track, but Steve Stec, Bob Sanders and Chip Crawford all can come in. "Davidson opponents," Farrell said, "could find themselves facing a host of runners in any one game."

In the line, Bill Smith and Jim Kleinfelder seem set for starting jobs, with the other three positions up for grabs. Chief candidates are Joel Pressley, Pete West, Ben Hedrick, George Kutcher, Earl Hesterburg and Nick Guy. Guy is the only one without varsity experience, giving Farrell a good group to choose from.

Defense will be a stronger phase of the game for the Wildcats. The linebackers look to be the strongest group on the team, led by George Weicker, Roger Whitley, Paul Andrews, Al Schaberg, Bob Sanders and John Perry, all with experience. Schaberg, Sanders and Perry have been moved, to the defensive line, but could be called back to the linebacking spot if needed. "Weicker is one of the best linebackers the Wildcats have had," Farrell says.

In the secondary, there are both bright and dim spots. Ed Womack is back at safety, joining Tom Fleischer, Mike Eubanks and John Braddock. Womack missed last year, along with lineman Jim Deville, due to injury. And if he stays healthy, it can only help the 'Cats.

There isn't much depth in the secondary, with only Jose Rodriguez experienced.

In the line, there are only six players to fill the four down positions. With Deville back, the situation is helped. Joining him at tackle are Schaberg and Jay Kopel. The end position is somewhat up in the air because of the lack of experience, but Perry, a converted linebacker and Mark Wifley should be the starters.

The kicking game should be strong. Pomeroy returns as the punter and soccer-kicker Joe Duncan showed good ability during the spring in kicking off and handling the extra points.

Depth is going to be a real problem, and freshmen may have to fill a lot of holes.

It doesn't especially look bright for the Wildcats, who aren't even elibgible for the title—and who probably won't ever be if they continue their de-emphasis of the sport.

It may be the start of Davidson's exit from the conference.

Capsule Report

OUTLOOK—With a new coach, a de-emphasis of football, and a definite lack of depth, Davidson may be suffering this year. They play only three conference teams and aren't even eligible for the title. A switch in offense from a pure passing game to one of more balance between the pass and run may see nationally high standing passer David Harper do less this year as the pacesetter. It isn't a bright picture, and injuries will make it even darker.

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — "Golf is dying on the putting green," Fred Corcoran, director of the $250,000 Westchester Classic, said today, urging an end to the rule that permits a player to mark his ball before every putt.

"It now takes a player longer to putt out than it does to go from tee to green," added the stocky Boston Irishman, long a leading force in the game as manager and official

"We have reached the era of five-hour golf. That's how long it takes to play an 18-hole round. It used to take only two-and-a-half or three hours. We are in danger of losing spectator appeal. It is too draggy."

Corcoran's comment were aimed at the relaxed regulations, adopted officially in 1960, which permit players to mark, pick up, clean and replace the ball before every putt.

"If a man three-putts, he goes through this ceremony three times," the former PGA tour manager and current director of the World Cup competition, said. "If he takes four putts, then it's four times.

'We are playing winter rules on the putting greens the year around. We have abandoned one of the basic precepts of the game — that the ball should not be touched from the time it is driven off the tee until it is put into the cup."

Besides almost doubling the time of a round, the ball-marking practice has created other problems. It has posed charges of "fudging" against certain players on the tour.

"Most players are very ethical," a prominent tournament pro, who asked to remain anonymous, said. "But there are some who are known to abuse the privilege. They replace the ball in a more favorable position and even go so far as to tee it up.

"We all know who these guys are."

After marking the ball, a player usually throws it to his caddie for cleaning. The caddie can do a sleight-of-hand and throw in a new ball. This is done, although not flagrantly.

By pressing the marking coin hard behind the ball a player can, in effect, tee it up. It's also possible to gain a better lie by maneuvering the coin. Players also replace the ball with the trade mark on top, using the trade mark as an arrow pointing the direction to the hole.

It is virtually impossible to nail a culprit who may be guilty of such subtle skullduggery in a sport renowned for its ethics.

However, it is the time-wasting factor more than any improper advantage gained which has frayed the nerve ends of Corcoran, whose international golf involvement dates back to the 1930s.

"In the old days, such a practice was unheard of," Corcoran said. Francis Ouimet won the 1913 National Open and never once touched the ball from tee to cup. Gene Sarazen and George Fazio once played a round at the Masters in an hour and 56 minutes.

"Walter Hagen didn't walk any faster than Jack Nicklaus, Bob Jones no faster than Arnold Palmer, but they got around the course in about half the time."

"I asked Sarazen once if Duncan was really that fast. Gene replied: 'I turned my head to sneeze once and when I looked back, George had four-putted."

Corcoran recalled that the pros instigated a change in the "no touch" rule back in the 1940s when they were playing on all sorts of greens, including the cottonseed greens at Breckenridge Park in San Antonio.

"I remember there was a meeting which Ouimet, Joe Dey and other USGA officials attended with pros Craig Wood, Ed Dudley and myself. The pros wanted to change the rule. Ouimet and the USGA were dead set against it. But it was finally agreed that the ball could be cleaned once. Finally, it was decided it could be cleaned before every putt."

Shaw Leading Record Assault

By GREGORY A. GROSS
Associated Press Writer

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — On the unlikely diet of hamburgers and chocolate chip ice cream, Tim Shaw is destroying world records at the Amateur Athletic Union National Swimming Championships.

Shaw outstroked the field in the men's 200-meter freestyle in a world record performance of one minute, 51.66 seconds Friday. The 16-year-old high school senior from Long Beach, Calif., led a second straight day of assaults on world swimming marks at the Concord meet.

Thursday, Shaw propelled himself to a pair of world record times on the same diet.

Shirley Babashoff, of Fountain Valley, Calif., came from behind to win the women's 200 meter freestyle with a world record performance of 2:02.94 — shattering the 2:03.22 mark set Thursday at East Germany's Kornelia Ender at Vienna, Austria.

Miss Babashoff, 17, had to produce a record time to edge Kim Peyton of Portland, Ore., who finished five-hundredths of a second behind her.

The winners and second-place finishers at this meet will form the U.S. national swimmming team which will face a strong East German contingent in a dual meet here next weekend.

Steve Furniss, a teammate of Shaw's on the Long Beach Swim Club, produced the night's final world record performance, swimming the men's 400-meter individual medley in 4:30.56.

Friday's three world record times brought the total to five with the meet only half finished. But the swimmers are hard-pressed to keep up with the marks being set in the European swimming championships in Vienna, where 13 records fell after five days through Friday.

Meet records have been set in all 14 events here thus far.

"I'll have to do eight seconds better against them—probably more," said Jenni Franks, 15, of Wilmington, Del., who won the women's 400-meter individual medley in American record time of 5:00.51 Friday night.

The world's record is 4:52.42, set Wednesday by East German Ulrike Tauber.

How The Point System Works

By JIM DEAN

What exactly is the "Point" system? How will it work this season? Will I be able to shoot more ducks, or less ducks? What does the "point" system do for me? What does it do for the ducks?

These are among the many questions that have arisen since August 14 when the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission adopted the "Point" system for the 1974-75 season from a mandatory framework of options offered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

There were several other options offered, but the some 75 waterfowl hunters who attended the hearing were largely in favor of the "point" system and urged the Wildlife Commissioners to adopt it. So they did.

I'm not going to discuss any pros and cons of the "point" system. That has already been done. The idea is to try to explain how it will work for the hunter this fall.

Basically, the "point" system is designed to help biologists protect certain species of ducks, while allowing other ducks to be more heavily harvested. In other words, scarce ducks should be protected more carefully than abundant species of ducks.

Okay. The point system assigns a certain point value to each species of duck depending upon that species' population. An abundant duck—like a blue-winged teal or American merganser—would have a low point value, while a less common duck—like a black duck or hooded merganser—would be assigned a higher point value.

For the 1974-75 season, female mallards, black ducks, wood ducks and hooded mergansers are all considered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as needing extra protection and are therefore designated as 70-point ducks. Blue-winged teal, scaups, sea ducks and American and red-breasted mergansers are far more common, and are therefore assigned 10 points each. All other ducks (and this includes drake mallards, widgeon, ruddy ducks, gadwalls and many others) are 25 points each.

As a hunter, you may shoot until you reach 100 points a day, but you can exceed that 100 point total under certain circumstances. For example, you may keep shooting as long as your total is under 100 points—even though the next duck you shoot may put you over 100 points.

Let's say you shoot a female mallard (a 70-point duck). You can fill out your daily bag limit with several choices, including three 10-point ducks or two-25 point ducks or one other 70-point duck. As you can see, only one of these examples—the 70-point duck and three 10-pointers—actually totals an exact 100 points. But all of these examples represent legal limits.

The reason you are permitted to exceed the 100-point total under certain circumstances is to make allowances for misjudgement. Suppose you had already killed a 70-point black duck and some mallards few over. You aim at a male mallard, pull the trigger and lo and behold, a female mallard drops out of the bunch. You didn't mean to shoot the female, but it's lying there dead.

Under the point system, that female mallard is legal because when you shot at those ducks, you still had 30 points to go on the total. After shooting that female mallard, however, you then had a total of 140 points and could no longer legally shoot any more after that.

The system is designed to protect the fellow who doesn't know one duck from another until he gets them in his hand, but it gives the fellow who can identify ducks on the wing a chance to get more shooting if that's what he wants. The hunter who can identify ducks on the wing can intentionally pick out only 10-and25-point ducks, and shoot more ducks.

Under the "point" system, the smallest legal daily bag you can take would be two 70-point ducks. The highest would be ten 10-point ducks. There are, of course, all sorts of combinations in between.

The smart hunter will want to get hold of a copy of the Federal regulations on the point system, or write to the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission, 325 N. Salisbury Street, Raleigh, N. C. 27611 for the special publication that is being prepared to help hunters understand the system.

There are a couple of other things that should be mentioned. There will be no open season this year on swans, snow geese, brant, redhead ducks and canvasback ducks. Also, coots do not fall under the "point system. The season on coots will correspond with the season on ducks, and the daily bag limit on coots is 15 with 30 in possession.

The season on sea ducks will open October 2 and last through January 16 with a daily bag limit of seven and a possession limit of 14. However, during the period when the regular duck season is in effect, sea ducks will be 10-point birds under the "point" system.

By the way, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has again set the Canada goose limit at one per day with two in possession.

In case you missed it, this year's duck season will be split with the first segment opening Wednesday at noon, October 9, 1974, and running through October 12, 1974. The second portion of the duck season will open at noon on November 27, 1974, and run through January 16, 1975. Overall, that's a total of 55 days. The 50-day goose season will open November 28, 1974 and run through January 16, 1975.

Stricter Rules Sought

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stricter recruitment rules and the hiring of investigators to enforce them will be recommended to the membership of the National Collegiate Athletic Association at its January convention in Washington.

The NCAA council, which wound up a three-day meeting here Friday, said it would support proposals to limit the recruitment of aliens, limit the number of paid visits a prospective player could make to a university and limit recruiting to the college campus.

A spokesman for the council said the group would also back a proposal to require a registering athlete to sign an affidavit acknowledging that he is aware of NCAA rules. Warren Brown, assistant executive director, said the council agreed on a plan to restrict, on a sport-by-sport basis, the number of grants in aid and recruiting inducements offered by a university to a foreign athlete.

The NCAA decided to hire eight full-time investigators—one for each NCAA district—to check on member schools to keep a close check on recruiting violations, Brown said.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The board of directors of the Indiana State Fair voted Friday to add $1,641 to the purse for Saturday's running of the prestigious Fox Stake, raising the total prize to $100,000.

The previous high for the Hambletonian preview was last year's purse of $79,000.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Saints' business manager figures the club lost about $195,000 because of preseason expenses and lost gate revenues due to the six-week NFL Players' Association strike.

"We were fortunate in playing only one game at home during the refund period," he said. "And we got 45,000, which was the top crowd in the league that weekend."

He scored 179.69 points and seven places and was followed by Paul Cechemanek of Luxembourg who had 165.32 and 14. Christophe Simond of France was third.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Athletic Commission announced Friday that is has withheld payment of the $1,250 purse guaranteed Billy Daniels for the fight in which he suffered a first-round knockout to Pedro Lovell Thursday night.

Olmos said Daniels falsified his age on the application for a license to fight Lovell. "He's 37½ and he gave his age as 33 on the form," Olmos said. "We should have caught it earlier but we didn't."

Top Rookie Is Ready To Retire

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Rookie-of-the-year Douglas McMillan of the North American Soccer League's Los Angeles Aztecs is preparing for retirement rather than a long playing career. He is, after all, 29 years old.

The Scottish-born player, a United States resident since 1960, will lead the Aztecs against the Miami Toro in Sunday's nationally-televised NASL title game in the Orange Bowl.

His late start in the NASL, after switching from Cleveland of the American Soccer League, parallels the rest of his soccer career.

"I started playing soccer when I graduated from Cleveland West High school at 18 and realized I couldn't make it in American college sports," he said.

"College coaches would watch me play football and say, 'How big is he?' When they found out I was 5 feet 7, 140 pounds, they weren't interested.

"My brother had an amateur soccer team when I first came over but all the players were 25 and I was 16 and too young," he said. "So I went out for American sports. I'm just fortunate that I did go and practice soccer with my brother's team.

"This is a sport for anybody," he added. "It's a matter of conditioning and skill, not a matter of strength or size.

"I feel being rookie-of-the-year is quite an achievement at 29 years old. But I believe in myself, train hard and give everything I've got to the game.

"I think how long you play is up to the individual and keeping in shape. Right now, I can outrun most of the players on our team."

But McMillan realizes his playing career will probably be over by the time the NASL hits the big time, when big money will be available to both owners and players.

However, he's not fretting.

"I'm thinking of coaching," he said. "I'm sticking to it and want to be part of soccer when we see 80,000-plus fans in stadiums and America can say we have our own world champions. That's when I'm going to wear a smile on my face."

Decision Soon On Grid Team

CHARLOTTE, N.C.(AP)—Upton Bell met Friday with Mayor John Belk on prospects of moving a World Football League team to Charlotte. Then Bell said he still hopes to bring a team to the city in time to play several home games this season, and that a decision probably would be made by next week.

Bell, of Boston, formerly was general manager of the New England Patriots of the National Football League.

He has not said which WFL franchise he hopes to acquire as part owner and general manager. But the financially trouble Detroit Wheels have been mentioned.

The mayor said the city would work with Bell in any way it can, including reducing rental costs of Memorial Stadium, and possibly letting a team operate the concession stands for extra income.

Bell has said that a pro team will lose money playing in Memorial Stadium, which seats 24,000. But he also has said he is willing to operate at a loss for a few years and gamble that the team will encourage the city, or private interests, to build a new stadium.

He has failed to find local investors to help him buy a franchise and provide initial operating capital. He said he now may look for investors outside of Charlotte.

Braves Hot, Sweep Pair

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The Atlanta Braves ran their latest winning streak to five games with a sweep against the New York Mets Friday night, winning the 10-inning opener, 4-3 and then taking the nightcap 6-0. The sweep gave the Braves 12 victories in the last 14 games.

The Braves trailed in the first game against the Mets until the ninth inning when Dave Johnson's single, an error by George Theodore, an infield out and pinch hitter Paul Casanova's sacrifice fly tied the score.

Then in the 10th, Marty Perez singled, moved up on a sacrifice and scored on Mike Lum's two-out single.

The nightcap was veteran right-hander Lew Krausse's show. Krausse permitted just one hit in thesix innings he worked and slugged a two-run homer, giving the Braves the early lead. He was forced to leave the game because of a blister and reliever Tom House, working in his fifth straight game, completed the three-hit shutout.

Elsewhere in the National League Friday night Cincinnati defeated Montreal 10-7, Houston edged Philadelphia 1-0, St. Louis shaded Los Angeles 2-1, Chicago shut out San Francisco 1-0 and Pittsburgh downed San Diego 6-2.

Reds 10, Expos 7

Johnny Bench drove in four runs, three of them with his 26th homer of the season, as Cincinnati outslugged Montreal.

The Reds bunched seven hits for six runs in the fourth inning when bench tagged his homer. Willie Davis and Barry Foote homered for the Expos.

Cards 2, Dodgers 1

Lou Brock's two-out, ninth-inning single pushed across St. Louis' winning run against Los Angeles and shaved the Dodgers' West lead to 2½ games over the Reds while St. Louis remained 1½ ahead of Pittsburgh in the East.

Astros 1, Phillies 0

Larry Dierker pitched a three-hitter, hurling Houston past Phildelphia. The Astros also managed only three hits as Dierker, 8-8, outdueled Dick Ruthven.

The game's only run scored in the sixth inning when Roger Metzger doubled and scored on Bob Watson's two-out single.

Cubs 1, Giants 0

Chicago gave Rick Reuschel a first-inning run and he made it stand up, scattering nine hits to shut out San Francisco.

The game's only run came when Don Kessinger led off the game with a double and scored on Jerry Morales' ground out.

Pirates 6, Padres 2

Reuss scattered 10 hits for the victory while Richie Zisk and Manny Sanguillen led the Pirate offense with three hits each.

American League scores: Baltimore 4, Minnesota 1; Boston 3, Oakland 0, New York 10, California 4; Texas 5, detroit 2; Chicago 2, Cleveland 1; Kansas City 8-0, Milwaukee 4-1.

Tiant Shuts Out Oakland To Get His 20th Victory Of The Season

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Four years ago, Luis Tiant's career seemed at an end. After seven years in the majors, he had been traded away by the Cleveland Indians, then released outright by the Minnesota Twins.

But at the recommendation of Darrell Johnson, manager of the Boston Red Sox farm club at Richmond, he was signed by that International League club, then given one last shot in the majors.

Now Johnson is manager of the Red Sox, and Tiant is returning the favor. Friday night he became baseball's first 20-game winner by hurling a sparkling, six-hit, 3-0 shutout over the Oakland A's.

The Red Sox jumped in front when leadoff man Tommy Harper drilled Vida Blue's third pitch of the game high into the left-field screen for his fifth homer. Boston added two more runs against Blue, 14-12, in the sixth.

Elsewhere in the American League, the New York Yankees blasted California 10-4, Baltimore defeated Minnesota 4-1, Texas beat Detroit 5-2, the Chicago White Sox edged Cleveland 2-1 and Kansas City beat Milwaukee 8-4 in the opener of their twi-night doubleheader but dropped the nightcap 1-0 in 13 innings.

Yankees 10, Angels 4

Roy White, a late addition to the starting lineup because left fielder Lou Piniella came down with a sore throat, belted a two-run homer, a triple and two singles, drove in four runs and scored twice to lead the Yankee attack.

Rangers 5, Tigers 2

Steve Hargan fired a four-hitter and rode a four-run Texas outburst in the third inning to victory over the Tigers.

Joe Lovitto started the third with a walk and scored on a triple by Jim Sundberg. Dave Nelson doubled in a run, Cesar Tovar singled, Jeff Burroughs hit a sacrifice fly and Mike Hargrove singled in the other run.

Orioles 4, Twins 1

Earl Williams cracked a three-run homer to back the six-hit pitching of Dave McNally for Baltimore.

Baltimore got all its runs in the sixth inning. Don Baylor stroked a run-scoring single and stole two baes and Brooks Robinson walked before Williams hit his 10th season homer.

White Sox 2, Indians 1

Designated hitter Ron Santo singled home a run in the fourth inning, then scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth as Chicago handed the slumping Indians their 10th loss in 14 starts.

Royals 8-0, Brewers 4-1

The Royals took the opener 8-4 as doubles by Cookie Rojas and Vada Pinson sparked a four-run second inning and Tony Solaita slammed a two-run homer in the third.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Peter Wright of Chicago won the North American Star Class sailing championship Friday, despite a failing wind that dropped him to ninth place in the fifth and final race he had led most of the way.

John Briggs' run-scoring triple in the 13th inning broke up the nightcap, which ended just moments before the game would have been halted by an American League curfew.

National League scores: Cincinnati 10, Montreal 7; Houston 1, Philadelphia 0; Chicago 1, San Francisco 0; Atlanta 4-6, New York 3-0; St. Louis 2, Los Angeles 1, and Pittsburgh 6, San Diego 2.

Mail Boat Delivers To River Crews

DETROIT (AP) — The mail must float through is the motto of the Detroit River postman — until the ice floes cometh.

During the months when the river is navigable — usually from mid-April to mid-December — the Wescott Mail Boat delivers and picks up mail from personnel on passing freighters. For the crewmen who ply the Great Lakes, mail call is most important since they often have no contact with the outside world for weeks at a time. To these thousands of men and their families the 45-foot, diesel-powered "floating post office" is one of the most sought-after vessels in the world.

The method for delivery of mail on the river is unique. The mail boat rides alongside the large vessels as they move up or down the river. A rope is tossed between the ships and mail is placed in a pail fastened to the rope.

The service also provides other conveniences. Often ships will order coffee and the mail boat makes the delivery along with the mail. It also offers laundry and dry-cleaning pick-up and return. Deliveries may also include supplies from a local marine store, machinery parts, sailors' baggage and even newspapers from Detroit and other cities.

Occasionally, the mail boat takes on or debarks a passenger and even this operation is done without the freighter cutting down its speed. Just as the mail is put aboard, the Wescott brushes alongside the ship, keeps pace with it and then a crew member on the larger vessel lowers a ladder and the passenger grabs it and hoists himself aboard. The mail boat then turns around and heads back to shore.

During the eight-month period when the Detroit river is ice-free and open to ships, the Wescott serves some 14,000 vessels a year. In 1972 it accounted for 714,576 pieces of mail and parcel post packages compared to 47,000 pieces of mail in its first year of operation in 1895.

When the mail service began as an experiment 79 years ago under Postmaster John J. Enright, the "Florence B" was used as a carrier. The mail was delivered in a somewhat different manner. A man in a rowboat was set out in the path of the oncoming vessel. The man would row alongside the ship and toss a line up onto the deck, wait for the slack to be played out, then be taken along at speed with a jerk while the mail bucket was passed down and returned. Once this was done, he was cast adrift to row to the next ship or to be picked up by the "Florence B."

After several changes in ownership, the J. W. Wescott Co., a marine reporting agency, acquired the contract for the service. Although the mail boat is not owned by the U.S. Postal Service its services are obtained by government contract.

At one time the mail boat was used as a complete post office with sorting and cancellations made on board. Today the office is located ashore at the foot of 24th Street, which is known as the "River Station," with its own Zip code number 48222.

The boat acts as a carrier only. A total of ten persons, not including one postal employe who works an eight-hour day sorting and preparing the mail, make up the operation. On-board crews consist of three two-man crews each working an eight-hour day to give the river men a 24-hour service, seven days a week, throughout the navigable seasons.

PENNY PINCHER?

If you are, this is the buy for you. Why? Because it has a hard to find 8¾ per cent loan and the home is brand new, has four bedrooms, three baths, an office or study, living room, dining room, immense family room with fireplace, upper wood deck and lower patio, dual heating and air conditioning systems, and a garage. We have landscaped the wooded corner lot, in fact, we have done everything. Buy now at this low interest rate, prices will probably be going up!

ONE OF A VERY FEW

We're not kidding when we say that there are not many houses in this price bracket left in Greenville. The smart buyer would purchase now because property is appreciating. Three bedrooms, two baths, foyer, living room, formal dining, family room with fireplace, kitchen with breakfast area, garage, electric heat and central air. Don't take our word, call now and look at it.

$42,800

WE'RE CRAZY ABOUT IT

Only 1½ years old and immaculate with four bedrooms, two baths, family room with beamed ceiling and fireplace, completely carpeted over hardwood floors. Large double garage. Central air, intercom and central vacuum. You will wander around this home with amazement. It's moderately priced, so call now, hear!

8 ¾ PER CENT OR VA LOAN AVAILABLE

on this brand new tri level. It has over 2000 sq. ft. of living area. Can you believe that the lot is over 300 feet deep and completely wooded? Beautiful quality with four bedrooms, 2½ baths, living room, dining room, lower level family room with fireplace, laundry room, double garage, central air and electric heat. It's priced only in the mid 50's. We challenge you to look at this home and compare the price and low interest rate loan with others.

Let Your Sister Make Own Decision

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Talk about a situation which is incredibly unbelievable—but true—the one in my own family takes the prize.

I have a 36-year-old sister who is unmarried and pregnant. She is attractive and self-supporting, and believe it or not, she is a practicing physician!

The problem is, she refuses to marry the baby's father. She says she knows who he is but she doesn't want to get married. She could have had an abortion with no trouble at all, but she didn't want one. Have you ever heard of anything so crazy in all your life?

No friend or relative can convince her that she is wrong. We were all so proud of her, and now she is about to disgrace the whole family.

She respects your advice, Abby. Can you help us convince this foolish, bull-headed woman that she should get married?

OLD-FASHIONED SISTER

DEAR SIS: Knowing nothing of the "baby's father" or your sister's reasons for refusing to marry him, I can't join your team. It's her life and her decision, and as a grown woman, it's her prerogative to decide what is best or HER. A person can disgrace only him (or her)self. You are not your sister's keeper.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe you can help me with a problem in my personal life. I hope so, because I can't ask anyone else.

I have known this young lady for about two years. Well, in the last month I have taken her out a few times, but only on a friendly basis. Now she tells me that she is in love with me!

The problem: Very recently, she introduced me to one of her friends who is also her neighbor. As soon as I met this friend, something sparked between us. I would like to ask her out. Even if she turned me down, it might cause hard feelings between her and her friend, and I would be out in the cold.

I want to avoid this. Dont tell me to forget the girl because girls like her are few and far between.

THREE IS A CROWD

DEAR THREE: You are a free agent. You've made no commitment to your old friend, and she has no claim on you, so go ahead and ask the "few and far between girl" for a date. If the "spark" was indeed a two-way ignition, she'll accept. You have more to gain than to lose.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow (nearly 60) who has been alone for two years. Before George died he asked me to promise him that, if anything happened to him, I would not marry a certain bachelor friend of ours. I was shocked at his request, but didn't know what else to say, so I said: "Of course, George, I promise," never dreaming anything would happen.

I have been going with this bachelor friend for nearly a year, as we were good friends. He says he loves me and wants to marry me. I want to marry him, too, but I am haunted by that promise I made George. Please advise me.

HAUNTED

DEAR HAUNTED: It is my feeling that since most deathbed promises are charged with emotion, they shouldn't be regarded as binding. But the decision is yours, so if you let that "promise" continue to haunt you, face it, you'll find no happiness with this man.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hand care begins with cleanliness. At least once daily, scrub your fingernails with a firm bristled nail brush, soap and lukewarm water. Avoid hot or cold water which redden the skin.

If you use a nail buffer for shining your fingernails, buff in one direction only. Back and forth motion causees friction that can erode your nails.

Couple Weds Saturday In Vanceboro

Miss Tammy Leigh Mills became the bride of Judson Tyson Whitehurst in a double ring ceremony Saturday at 4:00 p.m. performed by the Rev. Wayne Ayers.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Mills of Vanceboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Alton Whitehurst of Rt. 3, Washington.

The ceremony was conducted at the home of the bridegroom. The house was arranged with a basket of white gladioli and daisies interspersed with greenery. The two columns where the couple spoke their vows were entwined with ivy flanked by two lighted white candles and magnolia leaves.

Mrs. Judson Tyson Whitehurst

The bride, give in marriage by her parente and escorted by her father, wore a gown of white organza and chantilace re-embroidered with seed pearls.

Her chapel length veil of bridal illusion was outlined with chantilace and she carried a nosegay of white pom pons, yellow daisies, baby's breath and greenery.

The matron of honor and only attendant was Elsie Buck. She wore a floor length gown of yellow dimity and cluny lace with a matching veil headpiece. She carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

The mother of the bride wore a beige polyester dress and matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a beige and rose floral dress and accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of carnations.

The bride is a senior at D. H. Conley High School and the bridegroom is a senior at North Pitt High School and is engaged in farming.

The couple will make their home at Rt. 3, Washington.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arragement of mixed flowers. After the couple cut the traditional first slice of the wedding cake, the mother of the bride served guests. The mother of the bridegroom poured punch.

The mature woman is no longer expected to dress like Whistler's mother, in plain clothes, dark or pastel colors and sensible shoes. But she should choose styles that flatter and conceal her weak points. Choose dresses and blouses with sleeves if upper arms are either thin or flabby.

Miss Anna Elizabeth White Weds

The Immanuel Baptist Church was the scene of the Saturday afternoon wedding of Anna Elizabeth White and Frank Trent Hill Jr.

The Rev. Irby Jackson officiated at the 4:00 p.m. double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Ellen Reithmaier, organist, Mrs. Lee Todd Pair, soloist, and Phillip Thompson, clarinetist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander White of Greenville. She wore a formal length gown of white organza designed with a high neckline encircled with scalloped chantilly lace, centered with floral chantilly lace appliques and pearls. A panel of lace encircled the flared, A-line skirt and edged the hemline. She wore a chapel length illusion mantilla edged in lace to match her gown.

For good hand care when gardening, either wear gloves or dig your nails into a cake of soap before you start so dirt won't get imbedded under them.

SHE RIDES

NOTTINGHAM, England (WNS)—Girl jockey Linda Goodwill made a handsome debut in the man's world of horse-racing by riding Pee Mai to victory in the first flat race featuring both male and female jockeys here. Two other ladies brought their horses in second and third. "Male bettors were delighted," said an officia!. "They collected after making her horse the favorite. Lord Oaksey, one of seven male jockeys in the race, added, "Girls definitely have a future as jockeys. After the results of this race, it's a question whether we males still have one." Miss Goodwill praised the men for their behavior. "I didn't hear a single swear word from the jockeys," she said.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Nowadays chicken dipped in batter (a mixture of flour, liquid and other ingredients that is thin enough to pour) and cooked in deep fat goes under the broad name of Fried Chicken. But a century ago, when this recipe appeared in a cookbook published in Charleston, S.C., it was called Battered Chicken!

Although through the years the recipe has changed in a few particulars, Battered Chicken — yes, we're all for reviving the good old direct name — is still one of the most delicious versions of fried chicken you can make. The batter is light and crisp, the chicken juicy and tender—a pleasure to serve.

BATTERED CHICKEN
Broiler-fryer chicken, about 2½ pounds
½ cup flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
Salt
1 large egg
1-3rd cup milk
Corn oil

Cut up chicken so there are 2 drumsticks, 2 thighs, 2 wings, 2 pieces of breast meat and 4 pieces of bony back. (Remove wing tips and use in making broth another time.) Wash and dry chicken; sprinkle with ½ teaspoon salt.

In a medium mixing bowl stir together the flour, baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt; add egg, milk and 1 tablespoon corn oil; beat until smooth.

Pour 1 quart corn oil into a heavy 3-quart saucepot or a 3-quart capacity electric skillet; heat to 350 degrees.

Taking up 1 piece of chicken at a time, with tongs, dip into batter and drain off excess by allowing dripping batter to drop back into bowl; place in the hot oil; fry chicken in small batches so as not to crowd. Do not use a frying basket. Fry until cooked through and golden-brown — about 15 minutes. Drain on brown paper or several thicknesses of paper toweling. Keep pieces, as they are cooked, in a slow oven to stay hot until all are fried. Serve at once.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A reader in California has asked me to make a comment on men's threshold of pain.

It seems her husband recently was advised to wear contact lenses. The ceremony he stages makes the Rose Bowl parade look like an impulse.

"First," she wrote, "he spreads a white Turkish towel on the dining room table, takes an antique shaving cabinet off the mantle and sets it in front of him. Around this, he arranges three other mirrors (including a hand mirror with gold angels floating around). Then he gets a little custard cup half-filled with water to wash one lens in, and opens cases of little bottles of wetting and soaking solution.

"He has a gadget of rubber with a tiny cup upturned at the end to lift out by suction the lens from the upper part or the extreme lower part of his eyeball. Then he is ready to insert the lens, he summons me to assist. It eats up a good half hour.

"When evening comes, we repeat the entire operation to take them out."

What can I tell you? Some men can endure a war and then go to bed for three days after they've had their teeth cleaned.

The same man who can cut a fish hook out of his hand will discover a bee in the car, slam on the brakes, exit and yell back, "Don't fiddle with it. Just get whatever you can for the car."

If I have any observations to make on pain it is that it's a real attention grabber and it's a rare man who does not have his story of bravery to relate.

At a party one night, my husband and I listened in absolute horror to a man tell us in detail how he got his finger severed in a power mower and remained conscious during the entire ordeal.

Not to be outdone, another man joined us and told a grisly story of how he picked up a hitchhiker and was shot. My husband opened his mouth and I knew he was going to tell that pitiful story of how he scraped his arm on the rose bush. He described his surprise at seeing all the blood and quickly added that he acted instinctively to stop the bleeding and drove himself to the hospital emergency ward. I have to admit by the time he finished he made that simple scratch sound like a valve by-pass performed in Houston.

Mrs. California, at that moment, I would have given a fortune to see your husband tell how he readies the room for surgery before inserting his contact lenses.

Women's threshold of pain is supposedly quite high. But even we have a limit to our endurance.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Interest in others now is the best means for you to replace some difficult conditions. Give yourself a chance to understand a problem of long standing. There are prevalent pressures that could cause you to make errors.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good day to go to new places and meet interesting persons. Be somewhat dramatic and be helpful in impressing others now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't try to reneg on certain responsibilities or you would regret it later on. Try to be more understanding of closest tie.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid a pal who could be in a bad mood at this time. Be more considerate of the problems of others. Evening is for relaxing.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't try to force others to do what you wish. Use diplomacy and show you are fair with everyone. Take time for meditation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Forget that fun spree and do whatever will be of help to those you love. Gain the support of one who counts most in your life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't bring up any controversial subjects at home or there could be real trouble today. Do some entertaining at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct. 22) Know what it is that allies expect of you. Study reports carefully and make sure they are correct. Catch up on your reading tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study monetary matters now and figure out how to have more abundance. Make plans to invest wisely. Take time for the social tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure to avoid making blunt comments that could get you in trouble with others. Control your temper and all is fine.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may be feeling hemmed in but so are many others. It would be wise to wait and assert yourself on another day. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go about in your fine gregarious way today and make new and interesting acquaintances. A friend extends a favor you want.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It is best not to push anything just to have your way or you could run into danger. Engage in philsophical studies today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will want to be the center of attraction but unless you teach to smile more and be courteous with others, your progeny could run into a great deal of misfortune. Give as fine an education as you can afford. Sports are a must here. Be sure to give ethical training early in life.

Man Travels With His Kidney Machine

Batey, a retired railroad electrician, has no kidneys. His life and health depend on an $8,500 kidney machine which he takes with him in travels around the United States.

He believes he is the only kidney patient in the United States who travels with a kidney dialysis machine in a van.

"I heard of one other mobile fellow, but he has all his equipment in a trailer home," Batey said.

A kidney patient since 1970, Batey must attach himself to the machine three times a week.

He sits in his van during the process, which takes six hours. After each dialysis, Batey must put a new plastic kidney, which costs $18, into the machine.

Batey's van contains many of the comforts of a modern home in addition to the kidney machine and water softener. In the rear is a double bed where he stretches out and watches television, reads or visits while his blood flows through the machine.

He has to take special care to ward off infection. The connections on his leg are covered with sterilized gauze when he isn't using the machine. Another problem is clotting in the leg tubes.

"I have to pull my own clots once in a while, but it's nothing so serious that I can't wait until I get to a hospital," he said. "We've never had what you would really call an emergency."

Batey carries with him a large supply of dialysis fluid and several disposable kidneys. These he recycles by cleaning and filling them with colored rocks so they can be made into lamp bases, which he sells for $6 each.

Batey does all of the driving on family trips and he enjoys camping and fishing. The only requirements for him are to camp near water and electricity.

Kenya Plans For Games In 1982

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Kenya, Africa's leading track and field nation, is making a firm bid to stage the 1982 Commonwealth Games in Nairobi. Isaac Lugonzo, chairman of the decision-making Kenya National Sports Council, said the Kenya Olympic Association had been entrusted with the advance work in connection with the Kenyan offer.

KOA chairman John Kasyoka said five other nations — Nigeria, Australia, Trinidad and Tobago, India and Malaysia — have already indicated an interest in hosting the games, billed as a "mini-Olympics." If the Games are held here, they will be the first ever held on African soil since they were initiated 44 years ago in Ontario.

TOOK IT FOR GRANITE

GRIFFITH, Ind. (AP) — A Gary youth's girlfriend told him their friendship was dead, so the youth and two companiones decided to decorate her lawn with a tombstone.

But police said the trio got carried away and swiped 10 grave markers from a local cemetery.

CREE SPOKEN HERE

EDMONTON (AP) — The Grant MacEwan Community College here will begin a program in fall with emphasis on oral Cree as spoken in Western Canada. The course, with 20 full-time openings at the outset, includes 600 hours of instruction in two trimesters of 15 weeks each.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, AUGUST 26, 1974

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime is not good for you to accept statements without checking up. Your associates could be mistaken in their conclusions. An influential person gives you the support you need later in the day. Be alert at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't neglect to look into a new interest even though you may be bogged down. Others may criticize, but don't let it bother you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You know what your responsibilities are now, so get right at them and don't go off on any tangents. Mate is helpful to you tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to please an associate more since greater success can result. Don't permit a family tie to interfere with your future plans.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Begin the week properly by getting much work done. You can relieve the load you have by more cooperation with associates.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Visit congenials for the enjoyment you want and need at this time, once important work is done. Be sure to stay within your budget.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan time for doing whatever means a great deal to those who dwell with you. Handle important work early in the day. Relax tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Making appointments and keeping them on time makes this a most successful day. Plan activities and time wisely. Think contructively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't let friends keep you from doing important work, especially financial matters. Avoid one who gossips too much. Be logical.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you stick to duties at hand you will make progress, even though not as fast as you think you should. Take health treatments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle pressing matters early in the day. Try to be of assistance to one who is having a difficult time. Visit friends tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have responsibilities that should be handled quickly and well in the morning. Plan what should be done tonight that is important.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) An associate wants to take up your time while you have work to do for a higher-up, so use tact and get it done. Listen to an expert.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be interested in travel, so be sure to give little duties to perform and the fine mind here can be set to what is practical. Give the academic education your gifted progeny deserves. There is perseverance here that could lead to great success. Religious and ethical training is a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Andy Griffith On Kay's Show Today

Andy Griffith, one of North Carolina's best known native sons, is the star attraction on Kay Currie's "Hospitality House" on WITN-television, Channel 7, from noon til 1 p.m. today.

"I filmed the interview with Andy at his lovely home in Manteo," Kay said. "He spoke about many phases of his long successful career, including the famous football monologue that first brought him public acclaim.

"Another very interesting experience he related," Kay said, "has to do with Miss Mae West. Andy also talked candidly about his nervousness and contrasts this with the calmness of Don Knotts, who as everyone familiar with Andy's TV shows know, plays the role of a nervous, fluttery person."

Miss Currie said that Andy, who in his youth performed the role of Sir Walter Raleigh in The Lost Colony for several years, has two children now performing in the outdoor drama.

"Andy said he thoroughly enjoys the time he spends on the Outer Banks, where he can feel the sand on his toes. At the same time," she added, "he was anxious to return to Los Angeles to get back to work." Andy's next role is that of a drunkard.

Others appearing on today's "Hospitality House" program includes two young entertainers — Sara Heilbroner, originally of Washington and David Paton from England. The two sing and play a number of popular songs. Both are students at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The 1974 runner-up for America's Majorette Princess, Miss Janet Swain of Washington; and Betsy Owens with a prize winning recipe, round out today's "Hospitality House," personalities.

A Retrospective Show To Honor Francis Speight

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

by Kay Taylor

With the advent of the Woman's Liberation Movement, people have been seriously reconsidering the roles of men and women in American society. Many people for the first time ever have been made aware of the oft-times subtle discriminations people suffer because of their sex. Of course, the Movement has had its impact upon children, too, Parents wonder how to raise their children fairly. Often the result is that the child is caught in the middle, not knowing which way to turn. Such is the case with Cress Richardson. Her mother is extremely active in the Woman's Liberation Movement. Mother is determined that Cress shall not be the victum of sexism, yet at the same time she wants Cress to be free to be herself.

Everything in the Richardson house is run on a cooperative system, with mother, father, and daughter taking turns by weeks being responsible for meals and housekeeping. Cress does not really object to this arrangement, but she does find herself at odds with her mother when she bakes cookies for her friend Davey. Mother thinks Davey is taking advantage of the friendship and as it turns out, she is right.

The impending marriage of Cress' cousin Xandra is another source of sharp disagreement. Mother thinks Xandra is utterly foolish to drop out of college to support Bill through medical school. Cress, on the other hand, is delighted for Xandra and Bill. She cannot, however, reconcile the opposing views of her mother and Xandra. She pleads with Xandra to tell her "Who's right," but of course Xandra cannot tell her. Cress must come to grips with the problem of role herself and discover what is right for her.

Lila Perl deals perceptively with Cress' situation in THAT CRAZY APRIL. Available in the Children's Library, THAT CRAZY APRIL will give youngsters a better perspective as to the role of women today.

Children who enjoyed HARRIET THE SPY will be eager to read Louise Fitzhugh's THE LONG SECRET. Harriet is at it again, scribbling notes in her beloved notebook. This time she is involved in discovering who is leaving strange religious notes all over town. Join Harriet in her search.

Tom Fitzgerald, alias The Great Brain, is the craftiest kid in the neighborhood. All the other kids complain vigorously that Tom swindles them out of their toys and money. When all the kids band together and pledge to have nothing to do with Tom if he tries to out do them again, Tom must at least pretend to reform. His reformation is short lived, however, as he becomes more and more crafty in finding ways to outwit his cohorts. THE RETURN OF THE GREAT BRAIN by John Fitzgerald takes the reader on hilarious adventures with Tom.

Library Films

Show times are Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. at Carver Library, 4 p.m. Thursday in the Children's Library at Sheppard Memorial Library, and 4 p.m. Friday at East Branch Library.

The films, totaling 55 minutes showing time are:

—"The Doughnuts", 26 minutes, in color. About the dilemma of Homer Price, who finds himself unable to shut off the automatic doughnut machine he is tending for his uncle.

—"The Merry-Go-Round Horse", in color. 17 minutes. A poor boy admires a merry-go-round horse that is replaced by a car and sold to a flea market. The discarded horse is bought for a wealthy child who abuses it. The poor child rescues the horse, treats it with love and care, and a miracle takes place.

—"Frog Went A Courtin' ", 12 minutes, in color. John Langstaff in a singing version of a 400 year old Scotch ballad about the wedding of Miss Mousie and Mr. Frog. Set to the illustrations of Feodor Rojankovsky.

Through the courtesy of a local merchant, a card will be provided each child attending the showing of "The Doughnuts" that will entitle them to a free doughnut.

Last Friday under what many of his admirers would call "a Francis Speight sky," museum director William Hull and two assistants were in eastern North Carolina calling at homes and museums to pick up paintings by the venerable eastern North Carolina native.

When people speak of "a Francis Speight" sky, they have in mind cloud filled skies rich in tints of pinks, golds, greens and whites splashed against the gray of clouds passing over openings revealing distant sky blue.

Hull and his assistants earlier that day had picked up a painting from the home of Mrs. B. B. Everett in the small rural town of Palmyra on the Roanoke at the border of Halifax and Martin Counties.

The director of Pennsylvania State University Museum of Art in University Park, Hull said "I'm a long time admirer of Francis Speight's paintings. We're delighted to have this retrospective show coming up in September."

Altogether, Hull said, "There will be about 60 of his works. The first dates from 1925, with the latest painted in 1973. This means the Speight exhibition will be representative of all stages of his work."

To assemble a show of this size and scope, director Hull said it required considerable time and effort. "We're traveling in two vehicles," he pointed out, "a station wagon van and a car so that we can be sure we'll have enough room to take back all the paintings we're picking up as we travel."

At Dr. Speight's home on East Eighth Street, three paintings were added to those already stored in the van, including the most recent one of the show, "Sans Souci in Winter," painted in 1973 when a snowfall lay on the ground of the Bertie County scene Speight has made a well-known place through a series of paintings.

At Sans Souci there is a wide, gentle expanse of dark Cashie River water in a long sweeping bend, old cypress trees lining both shores, a cable drawn ferry, and on one bank, rustic frame buildings with weather stained tin roofs. (Current issues of telephone directories for eastern North Carolina towns have a reproduction in color of one of Speight's Sans Souci paintings).

"It's a fine place to paint,,' Dr. Speight remarked. "Each season has its own quality of light and change in the colors of trees and vegetation."

In more than 50 years of painting, Francis Speight has time and again captured the poetry of light and shadow at all times of days in all seasons of the year.

With a lover's persistence he has never departed from the pursuit of the beauty of light, whether it's in a canvas showing smoke laden skies in Pennsylvania or the clearer air of his native area.

Buildings — their shapes, colors and textures are important elements in many of his paintings, more in the Pennsylvania paintings than those of eastern North Carolina. But at home too he has often recorded subdued grays and silvers of old houses and gnarled trunks of oak and cypress trees.

When the Francis Speight Retrospective Exhibition opens in two galleries of the Pennsylvania State University Museum of Art on Sunday, September 8, the event will be just three days short of Speight's 78th birthday. He was born in Bertie County on September 11, 1896.

The exhibition will remain on view through October 27. Gallery hours are from noon til 5 p.m. daily except Monday, when the museum is closed.

Paintings for this show come from private collectors in several states, including a sizeable number of eastern North Carolina owners. Several galleries and museums have also been called on to loan a Speight painting — among them the Boston Museum of Fine Art, the North Carolina Museum of Art, and the Greenville Art Center.

Hull mentioned that the Speight exhibition is the second retrospective in recent years on the work of eastern North Carolina native artists. "A couple of years ago," he said, "we had a retrospective showing of the art of Hobson Pittman." The late Mr. Pittman was a native of Tarboro.

The painting careers of Speight and Pittman have been associated with the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. Speight was on the faculty there from 1925 to 1961, when he returned to eastern North Carolina as artist-in-residence at East Carolina University, a position he still fills.

Dr. and Mrs. Speight will attend the opening reception on Sunday. Dr. Speight is also to give a lecture at the gallery on Tuesday, September 10 before returning to Greenville.

Pitt 1774 Delegates

As New Bern's Bicentennial observances are being celebrated, the 200th anniversary of the First Provincial Congress is the focal point of the week long event.

It was 200 years ago today, on August 25, 1774 that the first gathering of an elected assembly in the State of North Carolina met in defiance of royal authority.

Two of the delegates attending the meeting were Pitt County men—George Moye and John Simpson. Both men were later to serve with distinction in the Revolutionary War; Moye as a captain and Simpson as a brigadier-general.

A Review

Thoughts On Two Regional Literary Efforts

The Crucible, Spring 1974, No. 2 of Vol. 10, 52 pps, Wilson, Atlantic Christian College, $1.00; and Rebel 74, 44 pps, Greenville, East Carolina University, no price listed.

It's probably not the best idea to review these two eastern North Carolina literary publications together, as each is designed to fill an entirely different role.

This combined review will hopefully bring to public attention the existence of these two worthy regional literary efforts.

Just days ago, both publications were returned to this paper with apologies on the part of well-intentioned persons who earlier accepted review assignments—the summer had slipped away. Regretfully no time was left for the task.

The spring issue of Crucible contains five short stories depicting divergent viewpoints of the human scene. Douglas McReynolds, until this summer a faculty member of the ECU English Department, won first prize in prose for "The Clyde and Callie Syndrome."

"Those things which from our past return to haunt us are often phenomena we had observed merely, situations we never could have exercised real control over even had we wanted to. . ." the story begins. In narrative form, the theme of "The Clyde and Callie Syndrome" story is a reflection without dialogue.

McReynolds, in a stream of recollections, presents a quiet portrait of a young girl frequently but casually encountered in a rural atmosphere, and later observed on campus.

Here, a transition takes place. "The metamorphosis from country girl to flower child took altogether less than eight months and the metamorphosis was complete." Low-keyed and bittersweet, McReynolds' story captures the essence of lingering sadness without striving for this effect.

Charles Blackburn, Jr.'s "Jerusalem Notes" (third place winner in prose) is a strangely moving tale bracketed in a few hours time. A brief bond of friendship between a young American student and an older, wily Arab (or is he Jewish as he claims) grows from an accidental meeting. Blackburn's control of the dual emotions of fascination and revulsion are handled simply, convincingly. The two men part in a situation tense with physical undertones. This little story is one to nag the memory long after the details have faded.

"I Call This Place Mine," Sue Ellen Bridgers' story (sharing third prize with Blackburn's), is a splendid evocation of a widow's attachment to familiar domestic surroundings—her house and its well appointed rooms on which she lavishes love she cannot give to humans. When the well-ordered routine of her life is disrupted by news that her only son has married, we know we are witnessing the disintegration of one human's familiar world. In a vein strongly similar to Blackburn's story, the story ends with the introduction of a hinted at possibility of forbidden physical desire.

Thomas N. Walter's story, "So Long, Crises" (the second prize winner) is enjoyable as a contemporary account of the collegiate streaking fad. Walters has a sure ear for both individual and crowd dialogues. He brings this lightweight piece off with complete aplomb.

In this issue, the contributions of poetry do not, in my limited knowledge of this form, match the quality of poems in earlier issues of Crucible. Here's a brief extract from Ann Deagon's first prize poem "Mothering."

—"She does not notice the knife—under her ribs—until her hand is very—red and the drops—congeal among her toes. . . ."

This somewhat brusque comment on my part should not discourage poetry lovers from looking into the 20 poems in the spring issue of Crucible. Also, there's a 14 page illustrated supplement on "Commercial Design by A.C.C. Students."

To sum up—Crucible is without question one of the best dollar buys anywhere. This consistently excellent literary magazine deserves its growing reputation as a prestigious publication. (The fact that 127 writers and poets submitted more than 500 pieces of writing for this issue amply tells the tale)

Copies are available by mail from: The English Department, Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, N.C. 27893, at $1.00 each.

As I commented at the beginning, ECU's Rebel 74 has an entirely different role from that of Crucible.

Student edited, and from all I can father, student written, Rebel 74 has some very strong points along with obvious shortcomings.

To deal with the negative side first—my biggest question has to do not so much with content as with utilization of valuable space. Would it not be good to include substantially more material?

In the issue under review, several of the 44 large format pages are given over to a very few lines of poetry in large type. This same situation prevails even in the lead short story spread over six pages in large type. Surely there's more than enough literary talent in the ECU student body to provide any number of stories, poems and articles.

Now for some big pluses. Rebel 74 is visually a beautiful production. The cover and four interior drawings by freshman Brian Vines alone may eventually qualify this issue as a collector's item. Then there's Glenn Lewis' handsome centerfold (refreshingly, of an insect); an Edward Reep (faculty member) drawing, and a striking full page photograph by John Foster—to mention only the highlights.

Rebel 74 contains 16 poems and four stories from ten contributors. Much of the material is, quite understandably, in the tentative stage. These are young people, searching for workable techniques, struggling to find the most fitting means to express what they feel.

—"it was such a year as this—such a yellow year as this—but some said it was a black year—blowing in bare trees. . . ." ("Untitled", poem by Phillip K. Arrington); or "her eyes, for one brief moment—rivet upon mine—accusing me of life. . . ." ("Afternoon on Wilshire Blvd. ", a poem by Mitchell Reep).

John Alexander's short story, "Once Upon A Time, A Queen," is another, if more literate, variation on a cryptic "I tell you it's like this" conversation. Even the setting, a bar; and the situation, an older man maneuvering to get the attention of a younger man, and the outcome,are predictable.

Of promise, but at this stage only a sketch, is Arrington's too brief "Walking through a vision of vines." A catalogue of fantasy, there's lines like. . ."You have not noticed the hag of time drinking her tears, sitting behind the hourglass and giggling as she counts her fingers and turns them into laughing birds." So much could be done with this lively fragment of a story.

Rebel 74 offers proof that there's literary talent on the ECU campus. It would be heartening to see more of this talent find its way into the pages of the university's student literary magazine.

Reform Provoking Extremists

MEXICO CITY —President Luis Echeverria's efforts to promote social reform in Mexico are provoking a division of political opinion and an upsurge of extremist violence.

Just in Guadalajara, Mexico's second largest city, more than 50 people have been killed in extremist violence so far this year.

The tragedy is that this political deterioration has coincided with the administration of the first Mexican president in 30 years who has seriously tried to bring about much-needed economic, political and social reform.

But Echeverria inherited a difficult economic and political situation, and he set his sights too high by wanting to socialize economics and liberalize politics in one short six-year term.

After the Mexican Revolution between 1910 and 1917, the country's main interest groups worked out an amazing political formula by which they were all represented in a single amorphous party. While the resulting Institutional Revolutionary party (PRI) has lost no presidential election since its foundation in 1929, the principle of "no reelection" has prevented individual dictatorships and has assured different ideological factions regular access to power.

Between 1940 and 1970, however, power was held by increasingly conservative politicians who ignored the essentially populist origins of the PRI in favor of the interests of bankers and industrialists.

Popular resentment resulted in a massive antigovernment movement in 1968 in the days before the Olympic games. Beginning with student protests in Mexico City, the movement spread so rapidly through the middle classes that within weeks as many as 400,000 people were joining marches through the capital's main streets.

President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, stunned by the size and vehemence of the movement, reacted slowly and even allowed some student leaders to think that the government might be overthrown. Then, on Oct. 2, 1968, the regime decided to respond. The army attacked a protest meeting in the Plaza de Tlatelolco and killed upwards of 300 people; hundreds more were wounded or arrested; and "peace" was restored to Mexico in time for the Olympic games.

When Echeverria came to power, he decided to promote economic and political reforms in order to defuse some of the serious tensions that had built up in Mexican society, not only since 1968 but for the past 30 years.

But the immediate result of his efforts was to alienate the sectors that had become the new pillars of power.

Within a year, the political panorama became highly confused and division of political opinion accelerated. The conservative private sector succeeded in sinking the government's ambitious economic reforms by threatening to freeze investment and send its money abroad.

The moderate and intellectual left, which supported Echeverria's original reformist proposals, rapidly became disillusioned at the lack of progress and abandoned its support for his government.

The extreme right demanded tighter internal security and tougher action by police and the army against the leftist guerrillas. And when the government failed to respond in order to preserve its progressive image, the right began sponsoring its own terrorist groups.

Particularly in northern Mexico, tensions have escalated to the point that few political groups are now interested in the customary negotiated solution of their differences. Politics have in fact moved from the party level to the ideological plain and increased violence has been the result.

Political observers see a gradual deterioration and radicalization of politics, leading perhaps to an undisguised rightwing dictatorship with army backing but without populist pretensions.

This Season, Corporal Klinger Gets Married!

Is it a bird? No! Is it a plane? No! Is it Superman? Definitely NOT! OK, then, is it a man? Well.... sort of... how about a woman? I dunno.... it kinda' looks like one to me, but I'm just not too sure. Could it, well.... could it possibly be one of those... what do you call them... one of those 'gay' things? Oh, no, it couldn't be... but I'll be darned if I know. He, or is it a 'she', is dressed in a ruffled, gay (oops! excuse me!) print dress, big ruffled bonnet, panty hose (!), bloomers and high-heeled shoes... size 12 yet!

This 'creature' who blew in from California... or did he swim in, is none other than Corporal Klinger, alias Jamie Farr, one of the stars of the popular CBS show, "M-A-S-H." The wild, zany, totally-unlike-anybody-you've - ever - seen - before young man I'm interviewing is really an ali-right guy who hails from Toledo, Ohio.

What's more, he's a bona-fide actor, attended the Pasadena Playhouse, and his first professional work was in a West Coast production of "Mister Roberts," followed by "Stalag 17."

To further compound your dilemma, Jamie is a family man and the father of two children, Jonas is 5½ and Yvonne is 2½.

In this unique role of the wild corporal who will try absolutely anything to get out of the army, Farr has the dubious distinction of having the most extensive wardrobe of any of the "M-A-S-H" regulars... seventy outfits, all of them the female variety.

"Mr. Farr, Wha-"

"MS. Farr, please."

"Excuse me, MS. Farr, what kind of fan mail do you get?

"Not the kind you think. I get very nice fan mail, usually from an awful lot of young people, both boys and girls. They're either very healthy or they're potential homosexuals."

I gasp in horror. He laughs heartily.

"No, I was joking, of course. Usually it's from the young people. They seem to like Radar and Corporal Klinger because visually we attract them. 'Who's that silly guy wearing a dress?' They probably don't understand the dialogue but they like the character. And, speaking of the character, I must say that this is truly an original character. You think back and tell me if you've ever seen a character where a man has put on womens' clothes and played it this way.

Is he worried about "M-A-S-H" moving to Tuesday night?

"No, I'm not. I feel that we're strong enough now that we have our own audience and that wherever we are, people are going to find us."

"Tell me about your wedding."

"I get married in the series this year... my bride is La Verne Esposito from my home town.

JAMIE FARR is featured as the eccentric dress-searing Cpl. Klinger when MASH begins its third season this fall on Tuesday nights on CBS-TV.

'The 34th Star' Will Shine Tuesday Night

"The 34th Star," dramatic historical special in which two-time Tony Award winner Richard Kiley portrays the head of a family through whose lives the birth and growth of the state of Kansas are depicted, will be broadcast Tuesday, Aug. 27 (8:30-9:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11. The special is the third in The American Parade series of 13 hour-long American history-oriented programs being presented in prime time on the CBS Network over a three-year period in conjunction with the country's 1976 bicentennial.

"The 34th Star" was filmed entirely on location in Abilene, Kans., amid America's "amber waves of grain" on the expansive prairies surrounding that city. It is devoted to the evolution of Kansas from a barely habitable land identified on early maps as "the great American desert," through its bloody birth as a free state in 1861 and into the era when, with the planting of a hardy strain of wheat called Turkey Red, the roots of the state's present agricultural prosperity took hold.

The pioneer family depicted in the special is representative of those early settlers who made possible the emergence of the 34th star, which became a part of the American flag after a pre-Civil War battle for statehood between pro-slavery forces and the ultimately victorious free-state advocates.

"The 34th Star also follows Kansas into the 20th century to its present position as a thriving area characterized by rolling wheat fields, oil-well derricks, great cattle herds and towering grain storage elevators.

Kiley, who won his Tony Awards for his roles in the Broadway musicals "Redhead" and "Man of La Mancha," has also been the recipient of numerous other acting honors.

"The character I play in 'The 34th Star' is a man — Ed Simpson — who takes his family in a covered wagon from Illinois to Kansas and builds a hut in the middle of nowhere at a time when it was a challenge even for a man to keep alive out there," explains Kiley. "He is faced with seemingly unsurmountable difficulties, and he survives.

RICHARD KILEY (seated) portrays the head of a pioneer farming family through whose lives the birth and growth of Kansas are depicted in "The 34th Star" to be broadcast Tuesday, Aug. 27 (8:30-9:30 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11. Also appearing are (left to right) Polly Holliday, Frank Rohrbach and Ronnie Clarie Edwards.

Show Adds Ruta Lee

Actress Ruta Lee has joined emcee Alex Trebek as hostess on NBC-TV's new Monday thru Friday daytime game show, "High Rollers." The new program is a TV adaptation of the game of dice, with contestants rolling for cash and merchandise awards.

Since starting her 'show business' career as a cashier at Grauman's Chinese Theater in Los Angeles, Ms. Lee has logged more than 500 television appearances in a wide variety of drama, comedy and talk programs, and, for six months, hosted the Los Angeles talk show, 'Tempo.' Her motion picture credits include roles in "Sergeants 3," starring Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin and Sammy Davis, Jr., 'Witness For the Prosecution," starring Marlene Dietrich and Tyrone Power, and "Bullet For a Bad Man" in which she appeared with Audie Murphy and Darren McGavin.

Ms. Lee is president of the Thalians, a group of concerned performers who help provide hospital and psychological services for mentally retarded children.

TWO CROCKETTS — Actor Fess Parker portrays the American folk hero Davy Crockett, pictured right, in three legendary tales about the famed frontiersman scheduled for airing on "The Wonderful World of Disney," Sunday, August 25 and September 1 and 8. The nostalgic triology, which also stars Buddy Ebsen, includes "Davy Crockett, Indian Fighter," "Davy Crockett Goes to Congress," and "Davy Crockett at the Alamo". These shows originally aired at part of Disney's first season on TV 20 years ago.

Disney Hour Nostalgia: Davy Crockett Is Back

In 1954 Davy Crockett streaked across American TV screens and started a craze that instantaneously made the coonskin cap a national symbol.

The five buckskin adventures about the legendary folk hero were produced by Walt Disney for the then titled "Disneyland" television series on ABC. Viewer response was so overwhelming that relatively unknown actor Fess Parker, who played Crockett, became a star practically overnight. Buddy Ebsen, Parker's sidekick in the series, also became an international celebrity. Both later went on to greater fame — Parker in his hit series "Daniel Boone," and Ebsen in "The Beverly Hillbillies," and more recently as the star of "Barnaby Jones."

Not only did the Crocketts garner some of the highest ratings ever recorded in the history of TV, but they also assured the success of the newly launched Disney series which soon begins its 21st consecutive year of programming this fall.

Sinatra Plays A Private Eye

Frank Sinatra is back as private eye Tony Rome, dealing with killers, blackmailers, ex-mafia chiefs and Raquel Welch on a wild ramble through the seamy underside of Miami and tourists don't see, in "Lady in Cement," the "ABC Sunday Night Movie," on August 25 (8:30-10:15 p.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

"Lady in Cement," which provided "Bonanza's " Dan Blocker with his first movie role, also stars Richard Conte, Martin Gabel, Lainie Kazan, and Pat Henry.

Links Story To An Early Hang Glider

The next time you hop on a jet plane for a trip, just remember that if it wasn't for Otto Lilienthal, you may not be enjoying such a modern convenience.

Lilenthal, a German aviator who experimented with hang gliders in the late 1800s is known as the "father of hang gliders." His discoveries in the elements of soaring aided the Wright brothers in their historic 1903 flight.

Harold Jack Bloom, producer of "Hec Ramsey,"[9] decided to incorporate some history into the "Only Birds and Fools" segment, to be colorcast on the "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie" series August 25 (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Through the United States Hang Gliding Association, Inc., Bloom came up with a pilot and a hang glider to appear in a three-minute flying sequence which climaxes and drama. Mike Riggs, a 30-year-old aeronautical engineer, constructed and piloted the craft, a replica of a 1902 biplane hang glider.

Modern-day gliders are kite-shaped and made of dacron or polyethylene sails. Since the beginning of contemporary hang gliding in the late 1960s, an estimated 10,000 to 15,000 persons enjoy the sport.

"As an aviation sport you don't need much to get started," Riggs explains. "It's not too daredevilish. The glider can be carried in your car and you can buy one for as little as $200."

Riggs is happy that hung gliding is finally getting some exposure on television and is hopeful that the "Hec Ramsey" segment will create added interest in the sport as a national pasttime.

Bengals And Lions 'Roar'

"NFL Monday Night Football" pits the Detroit Lions against the Cincinnati Bengals August 26 at 9:00 on Channel 3W-5-12.

Coach Paul Brown has won two division championships in six years with the expanded Cincinnati Bengals and heads into the 1974 season with bigger goals than ever before.

The Bengals, newest team in professional football, pulled themselves together in 1973 after their injured were healed and went on a six-game winning streak to win the championship of the rugged American Football Conference Central Division with a 10-4 record.

The outlook for 1974 is bright if key personnel remain healthy.

Serious Role Is Fun Role For Star Comic

Why would the star of a hit comedy series like "Lotsa Luck" interrupt his busy schedule to guest in a straight dramatic role in "MEDICAL CENTER?"

"Because it was fun," Dom DeLuise replies. "Every comedian wants to try serious acting. It's a challenge and it gives a little zing to life."

"Probably everyone gets a certain amount of pleasure in his regular work but a change of pace is always welcome—and it's good for us. By broadening our base we are sharpening out skills, extending ourselves just a little bit farther instead of sticking in the same easy familiar pattern."

The "MEDICAL CENTER" episode in which DeLuise guests it titled "The World's A Balloon" and airs August 26 on Channel 3N-9-11. DeLuise portrays a middle-aged ventriloquist who never quite got his career off the ground. He has assumed guardianship of a 14-year-old nephew without legal approval and suddenly faces a contest over custody.

The role calls for a great deal of agonizing on Dom's part, but the comedian says he met the challenge by sticking to the same approach he has used throughout his career.

"In preparing myself mentally for comedy, I tell myself I've just come from work, I've been on the subway and I'm irritated with the world," he says.

For 'MEDICAL CENTER' I tell myself I've just come from work, I've been on the subway, I'm irritated with the world, I love my nephew and now they're trying to take my nephew away from me. It's the same technique as for comedy and it works."

That's how DeLuise creates the mood. Then to be convincing in the role, he says he asks himself, "Who am I? Where am I going? What do I want?"

Rivera Salutes Top Stars Of Broadway

Encore airings of "The Second David Frost Presents the Guiness Book of World Records" and "Murder Works Overtime," and a new "Wide World: In Concert," starring contemporary music stars, are other attractions during the week.

All programs will be seen from 11:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. on Channel 3W-5-12.

CONRAD BAIN and Rue McClanahan co-star as Arthur and Vivian Harmon on "Maude" now seen Tuesdays. This fall, "Maude" moves to a new day and time, Mondays, 9:00-9:30 p.m. on channels 3N-9-11.

Caught In Same Web

A young woman's investigation into the seemingly unmotivated suicide of her sister leads her to an exclusive academy where she is caught in the same satanic grip that drove her sister and others to their deaths, in "Satan's School for Girls," the "Tuesday Movie of the Week," August 27 (8:30-10 p.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

Roy Thinnes, Pamela Franklin, Kate Johnson, Jo Van Fleet and Lloyd Bochner star in the 90-minute feature which co-stars Cherl Stoppelmoor, Terry Lumley, Gwynne Gilford and Frank Marth.

The drama unfolds as Martha Sayers (Terry Lumley), a student at an exclusive old Salem, Mass., girl's academy, drives in terror to the home of her sister Elizabeth (Pamela Franklin), Martha's only living relative. Martha panics when she finds her sister has gone out. When Elizabeth returns, Martha has taken her own life and the police are unable to uncover evidence of foul play. Determined to learn what drove her once-happy, well adjusted sister to suicide, Elizabeth enrolls under an assumed surname at the Salem Academy, where she is greeted warmly by the headmistress (Jo Van Fleet), a handsome young instructor, Joseph Clampett (Roy Thinnes), and befriended by a lovely student named Roberta (Kate Jackson).

Artist Becomes Killer's Target

Donna Ederle's plans to work late mark her as the next victim of a killer who has already taken the lives of two of her co-workers in "Murder Works Overtime," a "Wide World: Mystery" which will receive an encore presentation on Tuesday, August 27 (11:30-1 a.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

Angie Stars In 'Police Story'

Angie Dickinson will make her debut as star of a weekly network television series in the new program, "Police Woman," scheduled to be colorcast Fridays beginning this fall on NBC.

In the series, Miss Dickinson will re-create the role she originated in one of this season's most successful episodes of NBC-TV's "Police Story," titled "The Gamble." This segment of "Police Story" will be re-broadcast Tuesday evening, August 27 (10:00-11:00 p.m.) and seen on Channel 6-7.

"We are delighted to have Angie Dickinson as star of this important new series," Lawrence R. White, Vice President, NBC said. "She has proven herself as a major star in motion pictures and television, and we are certain that this new venture, in a continuing series, will strengthen her reputation as a fine all-around performer."

Miss Dickinson's starring role in "Police Woman" will mark the continuation of a long association with NBC-TV programs. She has guest-starred on a number of variety and dramatic series and specials.

As a child, Angie Dickinson lived just a few blocks from the studios where "Police Woman" will be filmed but she had no desire to become an actress.

Born Angie Brown in Kulm, North Dakota, she and her parents, both of whom worked in the newspaper business, moved to Burbank, Calif. After graduating from high school, she attended Immaculate Heart and Glendale College, Angie enrolled in secretarial school.

Urged by friends, she entered a beauty contest and surprised herself by winning. This gave her the acting bug. A casting director saw the contest and arranged for her to appear on a Jimmy Durante show on TV. She gained further television experience in a commercial as a girl wearing a giant cigarette pack for a costume.

She enrolled in an acting workshop and financed her training by working as a secretary. Her first motion picture role was a one-liner in Doris Day's "Lucky Me."

Her first major role was as Feathers, the provocative young lady with a past, in "Rio Bravo," starring John Wayne. Later roles included "Oceans 11," "The Bramble Bush," "The Chase," "The Art of Love" and "Point Blank."

She met and married Burt Bacharach after being introduced by Burt's father, columnist Bert Bacharach. The couple lives in Beverly Hills with their daughter, Nikki, 7.

HIS HOME

Don Meredith, who is co-starring in the 1974-75 season "NBC World Premiere" drama, "Terror on the 40th Floor," lives in Elephant, Pa., when he's not working in Hollywood.

"With a name like that," Don says, "people tend to remember where you live.

Story Of WWII Era

Richard Crenna and Claire Bloom star in "Red Sky at Morning," a story about the adjustment of a Southern family to World War II, on "NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies" August 28 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

In the summer of 1944, Frank Arnold (Crenna), a Mobile, Ala., small boat builder, turns his plant over to his foreman and enters World War II as a naval officer. Before leaving, he moves his family to Segrado, Mexico, in order to get them away from what he believes to be the stultifying atmosphere of the South.

Their son, Josh (Thomas), enrolls in Sagrado High School where for the first time he must socialize with members of a variety of ethnic groups. As Josh adjusts to his new environment, making friends with fellow students Marcia Davidson (Miss Burns) and Steenie Moreno (Desi Arnaz Jr.), he must also accept the new responsibility of being head of his household.

The film was produced by Hal B. Wallis and directed by James Goldstone. The screenplay by Marguerite Roberts is based on Richard Bradford's novel.

ANOTHER CLIFT

Brooks Clift, who portrays Mr. Short in "Give Me Liberty," is the brother of the late Montgomery Clift. Mr. Clift, an Atlantan, has been active in local and regional film and television commercial productions.

PAMELA FRANKLIN (left) and Kate Jackson are terrified students in a college infested with evil in "Satan's School for Girls," a supernatural thriller on ABC Teelevision Network's "Tuesday Movie of the Week," August 27 (9:30-10 p.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

Forerunner Of A New Series

Michael Landon stars as the head of a family that struggles to survive in the mid-1870's as new homesteaders on the plains of Kansas in "The Little House on the Prairie," a fact-based World Premiere drama to be colorcast on "NBC Friday Night at the Movies" August 30 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7. The drama is the forerunner on the new NBC-TV fall series of the same name.

SHARON ACKER makes friends with a baby chimpanzee during rehearsals for the "Death of a Hunter" episode on "Cannon" Wednesday, Aug. 28 (9-11 p.m. on channels 3N-9-11).

Ambition Realized

For Sharon Acker, playing the wife of a big-game hunter of a wildlife preserve where animals roam freely as on the African veldt represents "a dream come true."

The beautiful blue-eyed blonde realizes an ambition to act with animals, in the "Death of a Hunter" episode of "Cannon" Wednesday, August 28 (9-10 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

"Being on film with animals is my idea of fun," explains the actress, whose regular television roles have been as a Senator's wife ("The Bold Ones") and an attorney's aide ("The New Perry Mason"). Some day I would love to share billing with animals in a series."

In "Death of a Hunter," of course, she shares billing with series star William Conrad, but giraffes, elephants, white rhinos, hippos, zebras and lions formed an animated backdrop for the dramatic action.

Miss Acker's love for animals stems from an interest she shares with her husband, Peter Elkington, a noted producer of wildlife and environmental films in Canada. The couple are on the board of directors of "The Fund for Animals," a group dedicated to the preservation of wildlife.

'Blacula' Has Debut On TV

A voodoo ceremony in the back country of Louisiana raises the dread vampire, Blacula, from the grave in the television premiere of "Scream, Blacula, Scream," a two-hour movie presentation, airing on Wednesday, August 28 (8-10:00 p.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

"Scream Blacula, Scream" stars William Marshall in the title role and co-stars Pam Grier, Don Mitchell and Bernie Hamilton.

At the deathbed of a Mamalio (voodoo high priestess), Lisa (Pam Grier) is preparing a funeral ceremony, when the Mamaloi's son, Willis (Richard Lawson), bursts upon the scene. Rebuffed in his demand to be named his mother's successor, Willa leaves in a rage vowing revenge on the cult.

Willis hastens to the shack of the Ragman (Bernie Hamilton), who is himself a disgrunted, deposed Papaloi. The Ragman supplies Willis with a bag of human bones and instructions for bringing the grisly remains back to life. Believing he has the instrument for his revenge, but unaware that he is in possession of bones of the dread vampire, Blacula, Willis performs the ceremony. Angry at being recalled from his eternal rest, Blacula (William Marshall) makes Willis his first victim and the first of many vampire slaves.

On the following day, Lisa and her fiance, Justin (Don Mitchell), an ex-policeman, are discussing plans for a party to be held at Justin's house when they are visited by Sheriff Dunlop (Michael Conrad). The sheriff wants to know who is going to be the new voodoo leader and if there is any reason to expect trouble.

Trouble grows when Blacula, known by his African name Mamuwalde, attends the party to inspect some artifacts from his native land on display in Justin's home. He is drawn powerfully to Lisa, sensing that her voodoo powers might be the means to return to the oblivion he seeks.

A growing list of missing persons — the result of Blacula's search for victims — leads to an investigation by Sheriff Dunlop, aided by Justin, who is suspicious of Lisa's relationship with the strange Mamuwalde. A wild battle between the police and the army of vampires assembled by Blacula results when Dunlop's men interrupt the ceremony that Lisa hopes will return Blacula to his rest.

Fell Off Horse In Full View

It was one of those little embarrassments an actor sometimes suffers, but for Stephen Newman, it had to happen in full view of cast and crew. He fell off his horse in rehearsing a scene for "Give Me Liberty," a 90 minute historical drama to be televised Tuesday, Sept. 3.

Neuman portrays the neighbor and friend of George Washington in the period drama (1774-1776), and is an excellent horseman. His 'accident' occured when someone attempted to give him a foot-up in mounting. "It was a little too hard, and I continued all the way over."

NBC News To Present 'More Than A Dream'

The social revolution which turned life in the South upside down 20 years ago following the historic Supreme Court decision on civil rights, will be examined in "NBC News Presents: More Than a Dream," to be colorcast Thursday, August 29 (10-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

DETECTIVE Steve Keller (Michael Douglas) and his partner, Detective Mike Stone (played by Karl Malden) investigate the slaying of a college professor, apparently by a deranged sniper at large on the campus, in "Crossfire," on "The Streets of San Francisco," Thursday, Aug. 29 (10-11 p.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

"This revolution has touched almost every person in the South and it has severely altered the 'Southern Way' of life as it was once lived," says executive producer Wallace Westfeldt, "and it's still going on with no end in sight."

During the fifties and sixties, the black man's South was characterized by the attack dogs of Birmingham's Bull Connor, the axhandle justice of restaurante Lester Maddox, and the racist politics of Alabama's George Wallace. But not, Westfeldt says, "Blacks have a life with hope, and that's more than blacks had 20 years ago."

The evidence of this, Mr. Westfeldt feels, is found in the schools, in the labor forces, in politics, and perhaps most important, is reflected throughout the region by a new style of living. It has freed blacks from what amounted to a form of slavery. It has changed whites, and in some ways freed them too.

To sharpen and define this profound change in a traditional way of life, Mr. Westfeldt reports the story primarily through the lives of two working class families — one black and one white — who live in Nashville, Tennessee. The black family is Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson and their four children; the white family, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Underwood and their three children. Both men hold two jobs, both wives work, both families are Baptist, both have similar hopes and fears, and both are trying to fulfill the great American dream.

To measure change in the South, Mr. Westfeldt says, "The black voice must be heard, so we chose the Wilson family who we feel are an excellent example of Southern change, and they have told us they feel free for the first time in their lives, not completely free, but free at last — almost."

The effect on whites of equal opportunity, mixed schoolrooms — integrations in all its form — will also be part of the story. Mr. Westfeldt and his film crew spent several weeks with the Underwoods to explore their attitudes and way of life to see how they are adjusting to the new Southern life style.

In addition, Mr. Westfeldt spoke with two spiritual and former civil rights leaders in the Nashville area who present their views on the social revolution. The Rev. Kelly Miller Smith of the First Baptist Church, Capital Hill, who is also assistant dean at Vanderbilt University Divinity School, believes that integration is still the best way to bring about complete equality. The Rev. Will Campbell, Executive Director of the Southern Churchmen (an organization of Southern clergymen who become involved in social matters throughout the South), works with poor whites who he feels are the forgotten people in the story.

Says Mr. Westfeldt: "No other country, as far as I know, has ever done such a thing, really tried to free a minority from what amounted to tacit slavery, and do it for all to see as it wrestled in anguish with a malignancy of its soul. It has been an awesome thing to see and it has been an exciting thing to see too."

Sean Connery In Late Movie

Sean Connery portrays a prisoner in North Africa during World War II, in "The Hill," gripping drama to be televised on "The CBS Late Movie" Thursday, August 29 at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 9-11.

This black-and-white film co-stars Harry Andrews, Ian Bannen, Alfred Lynch, Ossie Davis, Roy Kinnear, Jack Watson and Ian Hendry, with Sir Michael Redgrave in a special role.

Ex-Warrant Officer Joe Roberts (Connery) is imprisoned at a British military stockade in North Africa for striking an officer and for cowardice under fire. Four fellow prisoners are also regarded as troublemakers. As the prime means of punishment in the stockade, the prisoners are forced to double-time up and down a man-made hill of rock and sand, under the broiling sun, while carrying full packs. After one of the prisoners dies from this physical torture, mutiny breaks out, bringing with it surprising results.

SPECIALIST

Becoming Paul Revere in "Give Me Liberty" was no problem for actor John Chappell, a specialist in historical parts. Chappell tours one-man shows of both Mark Twain and Clarence Darrow, and has received high praise for both interpretations.

"Give Me Liberty," a 90 minute historical drama, will be televised Tuesday, Sept. 3.

Unknown Starts At The Top

How does an unknown actress manage to make her motion picture debut in a co-starring role? And as Michael Landon's wife?

The motion picture, made for television, is the World Premiere drama, "Little House on the Prairie," which will colorcast on "NBC Friday Night at the Movies" August 30 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

In this true story about a family's struggles to homestead on the American frontier 100 years ago, Landon plays the young father, Charles Ingalls. In the role of his wife, Caroline, is Karen Grassle — virtually unknown on TV, but far from inexperienced in acting.

Miss Grassle, born in Berkley, Calif., studied drama in London on a Fulbright Scholarship, did a year of repertory work in Memphis, Tennessee, then moved to New York. On stage there, she appeared in "Butterflies are Free" and "Gingham Dog" on Broadway and in Joe Papp's Shakespeare's in the Park and on TV in three daytime serials.

She went West to do a large part in an independent motion picture, which never materialized. Shortly after that, last fall, her agent's West Coast man phoned to tell her he had gotten her an audition for the Ingalls role.

"He said they would like to see some film on me," Karen recalled, "and I had to tell him I was sorry, there was no film on me and there was nothing we could do about it. I didn't really hold high hopes for the role because he had pretty well indicated that the film was important.

"For the interview I had been told not to wear make-up. I was glad that they were going to try to do something in that period of American history that wouldn't be glamorous. But I wasn't sure I would look right.

"I told them my story in 15 or 20 minutes, but I didn't think it was that interesting. So I was surprised when my agent phoned that evening and said, 'Well, they're pretty excited about you.' He said they next wanted to hear me read Caroline's lines.

"The next morning I prepared, went to the reading, shook a lot and read. I did about four scenes. I could tell everybody was pleased. Mike Landon was great.

TENNIS STARS — Master hustler Bobby Riggs (center) and tennis champion Billie Jean King, guest starring as themselves, meet in a "table tennis battle of the sexes," after Bobby beats Oscar (Jack Klugman, left) and Felix in a match in which he spots the pair 19 points in "The Pig Who Came to Dinner," on "The Odd Couple", Friday, August 30 (9:30-10 p.m.) on Channel 12.

Drama Special For January

"A Girl Named Sooner," a two-hour drama special based on the critically acclaimed book of the same name and starring Lee Remick, Richard Crenna, Cloris Leachman, Don Murray and Anne Francis, will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network in January, 1975.

The story focuses on young Sooner Hawes, a free spirit raised in the hill country of Indiana by an old lady (portrayed by Ms. Leachman) after being abandoned by her parents, and on a couple (Ms. Remick and Crenna) whose lives the child enriches.

Original Drama On 'Go'

In a complete departure from its regular format, "GO" will present an original drama on the colorcast of Saturday, August 31 (12:30-1 p.m.) on NBC. Gary Merrill will star in "How Do You Know When You're Not a Kid Anymore," written, produced, and directed by Rift Fournier.

The story concerns E. R. Murkland (Merrill), an elderly man who liked to dress in monk's robes on Halloween and walk around a room filled with the aroma of incense while playing audio tapes of the great horror shows of radio—such as 'Inner Sanctum." A girl named Darcy (Lisa Essary), who is celebrating her 13th birthday on Halloween, helps her friend Jackie (Renee Courtney) escort a group of small children to Halloween costume contest. They meet Mr. Murkland and go through some scary moments.

Darcy and Mr. Murkland have an interesting talk about Darcy's birthday in which he tells her that accepting mysteries is part of growing up. According to Rift Fournier, "How Do You Know When You're Not a Kid Anymore?" is as much about the scary fun of Halloween."

Czech Film Movie Set

"Adventure in Golden Bay," winner of the Grand Prize at the Motevideo Film Festival in 1956 and the Grand Prix at the Venice Film Festival the following year, will be rebroadcast on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, August 31 (1-2 p.m.).

This black-and-white film from Czechoslovakia concerns a young orphan who lives in the country with his grandfather. His playmates consist almost entirely of animals — frogs, birds and even a carp which he has trained to eat out of his hand. One day the carp is threatened by a large pike, and the young lad declares he will catch the predator before nightfall. His human friends torment him, and he becomes the laughing stock of the village until he really does catch the pike.

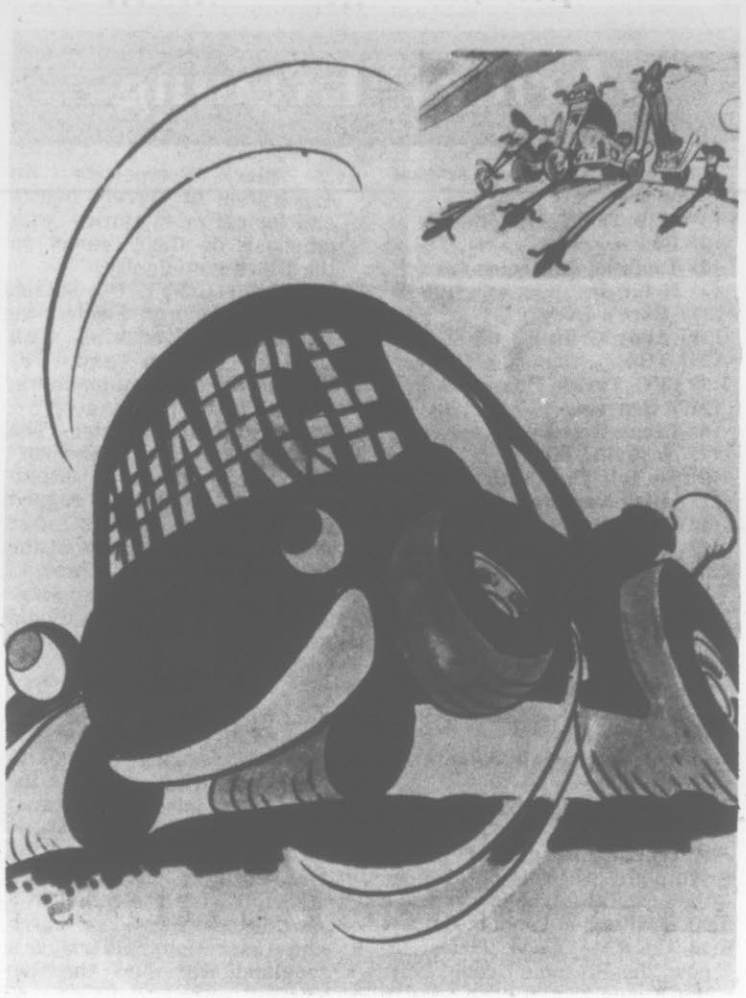
Re-Run Cloris Leachman Film

A predictable woman making her annual drive to San Francisco to visit relatives, unwittingly picks up a murderer and begins a relationship with him that jeopardizes her life, in "Hitchhike!" on the "ABC Suspense Movie," Saturday, August 31 (8:30-10 p.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

Cloris Leachman, Michael Brandon, and Henry Darrow star. Also starring is Cameron Mitchell. Co-starred are Linden Chiles and Sherry Jackson.



FASTEST THING ON WHEELS — Wheelie, the souped-up little car, outruns and outwits the Chopper Bunch, a would-be tough gang of motorcycles, on new Saturday morning children's series, "Wheelie and the Chopper Bunch," premiering September 7 (8:30-9).

Wheelie New Star Of Children's TV

When a souped-up little star, accompanied by a lovely-humming - rotary - engine - girlfriend, Rota - Ree, outruns and outwits a would-be tough motorcycle bunch, bizarre action is bound to follow.

The two characters are part of NBC Television Network's new Saturday morning animated children's series, "Wheelie and the Chopper Bunch," to be colorcast from 8:30-9 a.m. beginning September 7.

Wheelie, the small car complete with upswept exhausts, exposed rear engine and wide-track tires, doesn't talk but he communicates via a musical language and trick lights on his windshield. He is a combination of the roadrunner and Harpo Marx — a mute with charming innocence.

His antagonists are led by Chopper, head of the Chopper Bunch, who tries to be tough but usually comes off as a not-so-smart loser. Chopper and his Bunch are forever trying to beat and embarrass Wheelie but they always come off second best and must swallow their pride as Wheelie salutes then with his musical horns.

Scrambles is the baby of the Bunch who is always scrambling to get a good view of the action. In spite of his constantly being pushed aside, Scrambles is the brightest of the gang and generally sees a simple solution to problems.

Voices for the animated cast are provided by Frank Welker as Wheelie and Chopper; Don Messick as Scrambles; Judy Strangis as Rota-Ree; Paul Winchell as Revs; and Lennie Wienrib as Hi-Riser.

Reviewing Changes In Football Rules

"There Have Been Some Changes Made," a CBS Sports special focusing on National Football League rule changes that will be incorporated in professional football during the 1974-75 season to restore a more even balance between offense and defense, will be presented Sunday, August 25 (9-9:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

Pat Summerall, host and narrator, Wayne Walker, Tom Brookshier, and former quarterback great Bart Starr, will be the commenators for the special, among others.

After three years of investigation, study and discussion, the NFL put together an interrelated package of rule changes for the 1974-75 season that will add more offense, and therefore more zest excitement to the game. These new rules will be detailed in "There Have Been Some Changes Made."

The changes include moving the goal posts 10 yards deeper to the back of the end zone; missed field goals being returned to the line of scrimmage or 20-yard line, whichever is farther from the goal line; kickoffs from the 35-yard line instead of the 40; and members of the kicking team (punt or field goal) not being able to cross the line of scrimmage until the ball is kicked, except that two wide men can go downfield on the snap. Pro and con statements from leading coaches, kickers and returners will be included on the broadcast.

"There Have Been Some Changes Made" will also focus on the passing game, which has received a shot in the arm for this season by the elimination of roll blocking, "cutting" of wide receivers and limiting downfield defenders to one "chuck" — warding off a receiver who is in front of a defender by contacting him with a quick extension of arm or arms followed by the return of arm (s) to a flexed position, thereby breaking the original contact.

The Bills In Action Sunday

"I can't think of any bigger challenge in pro football than aiming at winning the division, conference, and Super Bowl within a few weeks of one another," says Ralph Wilson, Jr., owner of the Buffalo Bills, the team you will see in action against the Minnesota Vikings Sunday, August 25, 9:30 p.m. on Channel 9-11.

Wilson's long involvement — spanning more than 30 years — has only served to whet his appetite for professional football.

"A love of the sport is something that grows deeper each year and more emotional each Sunday during the season," he admits.

Nor was it unusual during the years of conflict between the AFL and NFL for Wilson to spend long periods of time working to affect the merger which became reality in June, 1966.

Nor when the Bills are playing is distance any barrier to Wilson's presence. On more than one occasion, he has made an overnight flight from Europe to be on hand at kickoff time.

And that same desire for victory on Sunday permeates Wilson's organization — from General Manager, Bob Lustig, and right on down the ranks through the coaches and the players.

Lou Saban has been the head coach of the Buffalo Bills since his 1971 resignation as General Manager-Head Coach of the Denver Broncos. He was the coach of the Bills from 1962-1965 and returned in the wake of five straight losing seasons. But this did not dim Saban's enthusiastic outlook. "We have some fine young football players with their futures ahead of them," he emphasized.

In assembling the championship teams through his years of coaching, Saban earned a reputation for being able to win with players who were found wanting by other teams. He became known as "The Garbage Man" because of his penchant for giving waved players "a look."

The future looks bright and the challenge the '74 season presents to the Buffalo Bills is a big one. Ralph Wilson and Lou Saban can't wait to meet this challenge head. . . excuse me. . . helmet on.

HAVE SAME COACH

Phyllis George, Miss America of 1971, and Terry Meeuwsen, Miss America of 1973, who will team up to co-host the 54th annual Miss America Pageant on September 7, have the same drama coach—actor and TV executive Darryl Hickman.

BOB CHANDLER should be receiving more passes this season as the Buffalo Bills meet the Minnesota Vikings at Metropolitan Stadium in Bloomington, Minn. August 25 at 9:30 p.m. in an NFL pre-season game on CBS channels 3N-9-11.

Quest For A Theme

By FAY KANIN

Whenever you've finished a piece of work, the question you're most often confronted with is "How did you come to write it — what turned you on to this particular subject at this particular time?"

I always find the question provocative. Answering it forces me to think about myself — where I am and what I'm feeling. That doesn't come easily to me, or, I suspect, to most of us. We've been brought up on a moral code that puts us on the honor roll for thinking about others, and makes us feel slightly apologetic, even ashamed, to be caught thinking about ourselves.

I guess what really impelled me to write "Tell Me Where It Hurts" is a growing rejection of that thesis. The more I learn about people, the more I realize that, in the words of one of my characters, "You can't love anybody else unless you can love yourself." And loving yourself means coming to terms with your own feelings — looking at them, talking about them and eventually doing something about them.

The major characters in my story are women who are unused to dealing with their own feelings — middle-aged housewives and mothers whose lives have revolved around their husbands and their children. I became fascinated with the notion of what would happen (and, surprisingly enough, is happening in many places throughout the country) to a group of such women, far removed from the activist woman's movement yet who feel the winds of change all around them, who stumble into the opportunity to talk and share and open up their feelings to each other. What does it do to them? What does it do to their husbands? What does it do to their lives?

I chose women as my protagonists, not because I think the pain of alienation and the necessity for opening up is any less important for men, but because I'm tired of seeing women depicted solely in the narrow and demeaning terms of the past few decades. I'm tired of the golden-hearted prostitute, the zany, empty-headed housewife, the sex kitten who exists only to entrap a man or be exploited by one.

I want to see women back on the big, and the small, screen — real women with strength as well as weakness, minds as well as bodies, women who feel and hurt and wonder and aspire and grow and change. Because they are out there I the woods are full of them. And maybe recognizing themselves on the television screen will give many of them a sense of identification and affirmation and some much - needed pride. It might even encourage others to ask hard questions about themselves and their lives, and not be afraid to look for answers.

In preparation for writing the film, I sat down with small groups in cities from Hoboken to Glendale. They were women who had never been in any "talking" or self-examining experience before, who were not sophisticated in the language or procedures of sensitivity or consciousness - raising groups. I told them of my film, and I assured them I wouldn't violate their confidences or anonymity, though their ideas and attitudes might well turn up in the composite characters of my fictional women. Then we started to talk.

At first, I found them careful, slightly embarrassed or jokingly defensive — using the covering devices with which we all protect ourselves from the risks of revelation and the fear of getting hurt. But in every case, as the evening progressed, I found them opening up and revealing feelings and experiences and exchanged tentative hopes and desires.

LEO SAYER, English singer-composer whose hit tunes include "Giving It All Away," "One Man Band," and "The Show Must Go On," performs on the popular music series "The Boarding House" seen Wednesday, Aug. 28 at 9:30 p.m. on channel 25.

Facelift In Drama Is Real

The ABC Television Network's daytime drama, "All My Children," (Monday through Friday, 1-1:30 p.m.), has a well earned reputation for tackling current social issues head-on. Under the guidance of the show's creator, Agnes Nixon, and producer Bud Kloss, the continuing story line has dealt with such topics as the plight of the families of the MIA's in Vietnam, abandoned children, child abuse, abortion and mental illness.

When Eileen Letchworth, who plays the role of Margo Flax, spoke with Mrs. Nixon several months ago about taking time off from the show to have a face-lift, Mrs. Nixon's reaction was predictable. Recognizing that cosmetic surgery is of great current interest, she asked Miss Letchworth if she would be willing to have her personal experience written into "All My Children." Miss Letchworth's reaction was positive and enthusiastic.

So, when Eileen Letchworth has her face-lift, in real life, she will share her expeiences with the viewers through Margo Flax who, is the continuing story line of "All My Children" is also going to have a face-lift.

Miss Letchworth has a very practival motivation for her face-lift. As an actress, she feels it will extend her career in her roles she is currently playing by about ten years. She does not feel it is something that should be done secretly. She reasons: if you go to the hairdresser to have your hair colored and the dentist to have your teeth capped, why not go to the hospital (August 7) for her operation which requires four hours of major surgery. On August 12, she will have the bandages removed by her doctor. The following day, Tuesday, August 13, she will go before the "All My Children" cameras to have the bandages removed as Margo Flax.

That segment will be taped for airing on Monday, August 26, on "All My Children."

It marks the beginning of the most interesting and educational part of the story for the viewers. When the bandages are removed, Ellen Letchworth (and Margo Flax) will not be sporting a beautiful new face. She will have two black eyes, and a general puffiness and discoloration of her face.

The course of the story line will follow the gradual healing of the performer's face as Miss Letchworth appears before the cameras without the benefit of makeup for apprximately a month, showing the different stages of recuperation.

LANDMARK ACTOR

Henry Fonda, who stars in the title role of "IBM Presents Clarence Darrow" on September 4, has starred in several landmark films including "The Grapes of Wrath," "The Ox-Bow Incident," "Mr. Roberts," and "Twelve Angry Men."

Football Preview On August 31

ABC Sports will preview the NCAA Football season with an hour-long television special, "College Football 1974 - The Quest to Be Number One," airing Saturday, August 31 (10-11 p.m.), on Channel 3-5-12.

The special, to be narrated by Sportscaster Keith Jackson, play - by - play announcer for ABC Sports' NCAA Football telecasts, will take an unusual and in-depth look at the teams the experts predict will be battling for the title "Number One" - 1973 winner Notre Dame, Ohio State, USC, Oklahoma, Alabama and dark horse, Penn State.

The program, which will include game action film footage from the 1973 season, will focus on the personal side of the coaches and key players of the nation's top-ranked squads, as they prepare for what is expected to be one of the hardest-fought and most evenly - matched championship seasons in recent memory.

These top teams are returning this season with few personnel losses, and they are expected to be as strong if not stronger than they were last year.

To give viewers new presepectives on these teams that will be making headlines this fall, Keith Jackson talks with the coaches — Ara Parseghian (Notre Dame), Woody Hayes (Ohio State), John McKay (USC), Barry Switzer (Oklahoma), Bear Bryant (Alabama) and Joe Paterno (Penn State) - in a series of insightful, informal conversations.

The coaches' comments range from evaluations of their teams' strengths and observations on their standout performers to their views on the changing attitudes of young people today and what place college football has - or should have — in their lives.

Cameras spotlight one or more star performers on each team, focusing on their gridiron exploits and their private lives, with results that are frequently surprising and fascinating.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR RICHARD HARRIS

As an Irishman by birth, who makes his home in England, how do you feel about the IRA's terrorist activities?—K. B., Ft. Collins, Colo.

● I resent the attitude of the British Government. It's imperialistic. And, for your information, I don't live in England. My home is in the Bahamas. I don't condone terrorist activities, regardless of the country in which they take place, or the cause. But I do feel that the English people are not fully aware of what their government is doing in Ireland. The English people are fair, but their government is acting tyrannically. The people have not been given the information to make them fully cognizant of what's happening in Northern Ireland.

FOR SHEILA MACRAE

As you worked with Jackie Gleason, perhaps you can tell me: Is it really booze he drinks from his cup—and what kind of a man is he?—S. B., Athens, Ohio

● Yes, it is booze, but I wouldn't say he "drinks" it. Sips it is a better description. He's absolutely great to work with. He's probably the most talented man I know but, more than that, he's a very decent person and a fine human being.

FOR JIMMY COCO

I never have any luck with women and wonder—is it because I'm fat like you?—A. D. Berendt, Chicago, Ill.

● No, no and NO! I'm not saying that if women could choose between me and Burt Reynolds, they'd pick me. But in my last two movies I costarred with Sophia Loren and Raquel Welch. [Raquel and Jimmy are in "The Wild Party."—Editor] Believe me, personality outshines — or outweighs — weight every time. Stop worrying about your weight and concentrate on your personality. That's what I do.

FOR GEORGE MONTGOMERY

Why do you do those furniture-wax commercials? Are you friendly with the company, or is it because you know a lot about furniture?—Mrs. J. Ballon, Miami Beach, Fla.

● I've always led a double life—as an actor and a furniture maker. I took acting seriously, and it brought me fame and fortune, but the building of furniture is where my heart is. It began as a hobby, but news of my "talent" spread. I began to sell my creations and, believe it or not, today some of my pieces are appraised as high as $24,000.

FOR EARL WILSON, author and columnist

For a man who professes to be against pornography ("Pornography must and should go" is a direct quote from your newest book, "Show Business Laid Bare"), how could you possibly have written such a dirty book?—B. J. Ogle, Cape Coral, Fla.

● If a writer says there is an excess of pornography, he must offer evidence. And I did.

FOR JULIE ANDREWS

How many of the films you made in England will not be seen in America?—E. H., Battle Creek, Mich.

● I've made nine movies so far, and only my latest, "The Tamarind Seed," was filmed in England. And all nine have been shown in this country. All the other eight films were made in the U.S., even though I started my career at the age of 12 in London—where I was born.

FOR CAROL BURNETT

● Last year I did "Pete and Tillie" with Walter Matthau, and this year I did "6 RMS RIV VU" with Alan Alda. Both were dramatic to a certain extent and I enjoyed doing them. But I don't think I'd ever want to get completely away from comedy.

FOR EVEL KNIEVEL

How is the atmosphere around your house now that your attempt to leap over the Snake Canyon is impending?—Mrs. T. J. Donovan, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● My wife, two boys and little girl are geared for it. The night before the attempt is not something I'm looking forward to. I hate the idea of saying good-bye to them, knowing I may not make it back.

FOR ANNE MEARA

I've seen you do comedy and serious drama and heard you on commercials. Which do you prefer?—I. S., Las Cruces, N.M.

● I actually have no preference. I grab all offers that come my way, particularly if the script is good. But I'm not completely without discrimination—the only time I'll pause to consider a stage role is if it calls for me to be over 30!

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

What is the inside story on Nancy Kissinger, the bride of our ex-playboy Secretary of State? Now that she's setting up housekeeping in Washington, does she shop in only the most expensive stores? And incidentally, how does she dress to go shopping?—G. B., Detroit, Mich.

● Recently Nancy was observed pulling up in her limousine in front of one of the large economy stores in Washington that cater to the home handyman. As her chauffeur drove round and round the block, Nancy, followed by a security man, made the rounds of the self-service shelves, picking up bargains—such as a set of kitchen cannisters—and carrying them herself. As for what she was wearing, it was blue jeans—actually a pants suit of bleach-faded denim.

Are We Turning "Pursuit of Happiness" Into a Mindless Footrace?

By Joanna Barnes

Tyler Thornton

"Nobody ever gets where he wants to go. There's always something glimmering distantly on the road ahead."

Actress-writer Joanna Barnes is the author of "Who Is Carla Hart?" (Pocket Books, $1.50) and other novels.

HAPPY: "delighted, pleased, or glad . . . indicative of pleasure, contentment, or joy."—The Random House Dictionary

My friend Seymour travels a lot and often finds himself in awkward dialogues with transitory acquaintances, dialogues that start with inquiries about his plane flight and hotel accommodations and ebb to a rehash of the local weather. When it becomes apparent that the conversations are about to run aground and lapse into stranded silence, Seymour reaches into his bag of conversational tricks and pulls out one of his never-fail statements for starting small talk. His most successful gambit goes: "It isn't the destination that matters. It's the journey." Despite the fact that I suspect he found this one in a fortune cookie, I have to hand it to Seymour. The thing works every time. Irresistible conversational catnip.

Why? Easy. Nobody ever gets where he wants to go. Even those who get where they thought they wanted to go quickly discover that it isn't enough, there's always something glimmering distantly on the road ahead, if only they can reach it. Even the achiever is doomed to failure, and each of us is forced to rely on the journey itself for an affirmation of his own worth.

But what the devil is it that everyone wants so desperately and fails to get? We all know what the answer is to that one: happiness.

The Constitution of the United States is, to my knowledge, the only government charter that flatly states the right of each citizen to pursue happiness. It's a warm and friendly gesture, to say the least, that our Founding Fathers instituted a government under which happiness can be hunted down legally.

So. The first order of business for each of us would seem to be to map out our priorities in this hunt. As always, the media are on hand to pitch in with all-too-generous guidelines. When I was a kid, books and movies told me what would make me happy. Jane got the puppy that Mother and Daddy said they couldn't afford, and the four of them lived happily ever after. No mention of paper-training, responsibilities, worming, distemper or biting your best friend. Even dopier books sold you on the fact that a baby brother or sister was going to bring joy to your house. The movies gave us the cowboy and the schoolmarm riding contentedly off into a rainbow-colored sunset or Joe coming home from the war to bliss in a vine-covered cottage.

But the dog I had as a kid became ill and had to be put away. The one that followed was stolen. And like so many other well-intentioned marriages, mine ended in divorce. The fact that I had no children was probably a blessing, under the circumstances. I chucked my adolescent dreams aside. But I had learned something. To idealize any situation that depends in great part on another living creature is to court disaster.

No. A houseful of pets and children and a married life, while they can provide incidents of profound pleasure, cannot and never could guarantee happiness.

In our middle years, success and money are hawked as panaceas. Sure, who wouldn't want those? But have they brought happiness to, say, the Kennedy family, Judy Garland, Marilyn Monroe? Success is rewarding because we all like recognition for a job well done, and money frees us from the terrors of unpaid bills. But only a fool would expect anything more of the two. In fact, one of the greatest ironies of being a celebrity lies in its loneliness. And I've had my doses of that. So many times on promotional tours I am shuttled from city to city like an air-expressed package to talk to people I've never met before and will never see again.

"Between the first tear and the last smile/You only live once in a while."*
—Singer-Songwriter Mickey Newbury

I answer the same questions, pose for the same photos, and while I am superficially being presented as a "personality," that part of me that is truly personal is almost without identity. Cut off from friends and family, allowed no spare time and minimal rest, I find myself waking up in still another strange hotel room and, as often as not, reaching for the phone book to remind me of what city I am in that day. The dichotomy of being exposed to an unremittingly public life yet having no real life of one's own is peculiarly isolating. While I wouldn't trade my lot for anything, I do know that success is not to be confused with paradise.

In later years, "the golden years" as the retirement communities advertise them, leisure time is the plum. That's handy, because our current retirement policies are going to dump you out of your job then whether you like it or not. For active people, retirement can be just as much a threat as a promise. Psychologists and sociologists are now beginning to grapple with the crises of age, of leisure time suddenly thrust upon people whose self-worth has depended on a lifetime of being useful. Nobody's denying that it's a relief not to have to buck the commuter traffic to get to work or get out of bed to give the baby a 2 a.m. feeding. Nobody's denying that it's fun to take up golf or oil painting or study Swahili, if that's what you always wanted to do. But can we honestly expect these things to provide happiness? Diversion, maybe, but that's about the size of it.

So what are we knocking ourselves out for? Why the pang of disappointment each time we come face to face with the fact that happiness has once again eluded us? Shall we abandon the whole idea and wallow in our despair?

The answer, like most answers, lies in moderation. Anyone who sets unrealistic goals for himself or herself is doomed to failure and chagrin. And that's a bum way to run the only life you've got.

We first have to come to grips with the fact that we run too hard, too feverishly, after something that simply is not there. Not only is there no real all-the-time happiness, but believing in such a thing can only promote most-of-the-time unhappiness. There is no such thing as feeling totally secure, no cure-all, no bonanza, no "happily-ever-after." But if we can never get

How You Can Make a Killing in Coins...

That May Be Slipping Through Your Fingers Every Day!

Do you know what the coins in your pocket or purse are really worth?

Is it worth a few minutes of your time each day to find out, if it can mean earning enough extra cash to buy a few of the luxuries in life before you are too old to enjoy them? Then continue to read and find out how profitable your coins can be.

In case you missed the news. Collecting is the craze now in the U.S.

More than at any other time people are collecting everything. From oil paintings to old magazines. From records to plates. With coins heading the list as the most popular and profitable item. Yes. The very coins you spend and receive every day are being turned into fortunes.

Now you can discover how to cash in on this bonanza by taking advantage of the collector's demand for your find.

Hit the jackpot big and you can make more money than you would be able to earn in a week's time at your present job.

For example, a taxi driver who knew nothing about coins turned a penny into $55 profit by accident. Now he examines carefully every coin he receives in fares.

Or, for just a minute imagine yourself as one of the lucky owners of a 1973 dime worth an incredible $35 (a slight error actually made the dime increase in value almost overnight).

It's so easy to make extra money this way, anyone can do it. There are literally thousands of collectors with plenty of cash waiting to buy your find... at a big profit to you.

It's hard to believe but it's true. And so ridiculously simple.

To start making money in coins you don't have to do anything different than you are doing right now. There is no investment to make. You can train yourself to be a coin expert... and learn to recognize valuable coins. When you know what to look for — you profit. When you don't — you will spend the coin and someone else will make the killing.

Just think of the money that may be slipping through your fingers each year because you are not in the habit of watching your coins. There is nothing to lose... and the money you can make is unlimited.

If you happen to discover one of the rarest of coins (17,000 were originally distributed) you would make $28,000.

Or, you could make almost $1,000 profit if you discovered one of the 7 million coins worth 100 to 1000 times their face value.

Even if you don't discover one of these extremely valuable coins, it is possible for you to add a coin of value to your pot-of-gold almost every day. A penny worth $2... a dime worth $7... or a quarter worth $16 change hands constantly just waiting to be discovered. Not a bad reward for doing nothing more than going through your coins daily.

The trick is to know what you are looking for. A slight difference — like a special marking — can make two identical coins vary considerably in value... as much as $1,000 in fact.

"Too fantastic to be true," my wife and I were told. But we discovered coins to be the safest way to make money. Just a few minutes a day is all it takes for you to start cashing in on this bonanza.

Have you spent a coin today worth more than its face value? By training yourself to watch for valuable coins you can easily double or triple your money.

You could easily have a coin worth a lot of money only to pass it on to someone else for no more than face value.

I guarantee this will never happen to you if you have a copy of the book that tells you how to make money in coins.

The book is entitled "How to Make a Killing in Coins." Everything you need to know to make a killing is included in this book. It is written so anyone can understand. And profit.

Every U.S. coin and its present value is included — along with the names and addresses of several hundred collectors who will buy your coins at the current market value. The tips, advice and guidance you will receive make this book a gold mine.

Even though it may mean thousands of dollars to you, the book is priced at only $4.95. It will really open your eyes to this incredibly simple way of making money. For example.

- — You will discover how to avoid wasting your time. Go after the coins that guarantee you the greatest return.
- — You will discover what coins are valuable and what profits you can expect.
- — You will discover which coins you should save for future sale... to earn the most profit.
- — You will learn how to avoid the one mistake almost everyone makes that will cause valuable coins to be almost worthless.

You will be amazed at how fast your new found knowledge will start making money for you. Soon you will be the envy of your relatives and friends. They will be coming to you for advice on which coins you think are valuable enough to keep.

One word of caution. When you start saving and selling coins your friends may ask why you bother "that penny is only worth 10¢...or that dime just 25¢" they might say. Pay no attention to them. In one year's time if you managed to acquire $500 face value in valuable coins just think of the profits you would have.

You Can't Lose

You can make a killing in coins with absolutely no risk. The coins you discover will never be worth less than their actual face value. The same is true of the book, "How to Make a Killing in Coins." There is absolutely no risk. If you don't like the book when it arrives, return it for an immediate refund. Or, keep it and use it for a full year. If you are not convinced you have discovered the easiest, safest way to make money, return the book. You still get your $4.95 back.

Three Reports — FREE

The value of coins can go up overnight (remember the 1973 dime). To guarantee you will make the most money on each coin, a special monthly report entitled the "How to News" has been prepared to keep you current and up to date. If you order the book right now, you will receive free, a three month trial subscription.

Grass Seed Is For The Birds! Zoysia Saves Time, Work, Money

Amazoy is the Trade Mark Registered U.S. Patent Office for our Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass.

By Mike Senkiw Agronomist

Every year I see people pour more and more money into their lawns. They dig, fertilize and lime. They rake it all in. They scatter their seed and roll and water it.

Birds love it! Seeds which aren't washed away by rain give them a feast. But some seed grows, and soon it's time to weed, water and mow, mow . . . until summer comes to burn the lawn into hay, or crabgrass and diseases infest it.

That's what happens to ordinary grass, but not to Zoysia.

"MOWED IT 2 TIMES," WRITES WOMAN

For example, Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn ". . . is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays as green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in . . . Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing, we never have to pull any weeds—it's just wonderful!"

And from Iowa came word that the state's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn – nearly perfect" in its area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August!

These represent but 2 of thousands of happy Zoysia owners. Their experiences show that you, too, can have a lawn that stays green and beautiful thru blistering heat, water bans—even drought!

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money

Your deep-rooted, established Amazoy lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement . . . ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS

Thick rich, luxurious Amazoy grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring—a true perennial!

FOR SLOPES, PLAY AREAS, BARE SPOTS

If slopes are a problem, just plug in Amazoy. When established, it will end erosion—also plug it into hard-to-cover spots, play-worn areas, etc.

YOUR OWN SUPPLY OF PLUG TRANSPLANTS

Your established turf provides you with Zoysia plugs for other areas as you may desire.

WEAR RESISTANT

Your Amazoy lawn takes such wear as cook-outs, lawn parties, lawn furniture, etc. Grows so thick you could play football on it and not get your feet muddy. Even if children play on it, they won't hurt it—or themselves.

NO SEED, NO SOD!

Do not mistake Amazoy pre-cut plugs for sod or seed of any type of grass. There's no seed that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass carries with it the same problems as seed —such as weed, diseases, frequent mowing, burning out, etc.

Order now for Bonus Plugs and immediate delivery, for fullest growing season. Orders are shipped same day as taken from the soil, shipping charge collect, via most economical means.

MEYER Z-52 ZOYSIA GRASS WAS PERFECTED BY U.S. GOVT. • APPROVED BY U.S. GOLF ASSOC.

NO NEED TO RIP OUT PRESENT GRASS

Now's the time to order your Zoysia plugs—to get started on a lawn that will choke out crabgrass and weeds all summer long and year after year.

Plug it into an entire lawn or limited "problem areas". Plug it into poor soil, "builder's soil", clay or sandy soils—even salty, beach areas, and I guarantee it to grow!

PLUG AMAZOY INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

FREE PATENTED STEP ON PLUGGER. SENT FREE WITH LARGER ORDERS – 600 PLUGS OR MORE.

A growth-producing 2-way plugger that saves bending, time, work. Cuts away competing growth at same time it digs holes for plugs. Invaluable for transplanting. Rugged yet so light a woman can use it.

According to the sports editors of FAMILY WEEKLY newspapers, the Best Lineman in college football this fall comes from the same household as the winner of that award in 1973.

Dewey Selmon, Oklahoma's left tackle (and brother of last year's winner, Lucious Selmon), drew more votes for the first team than any other defensive lineman. In a separate ballot to determine the nation's Best Lineman, Selmon beat out Notre Dame's great offensive guard Gerry DiNardo by two votes. Another member of the Fighting Irish, defensive tackle Steve Niehaus, finished three votes out of first place.

Archie Griffin of Ohio State was named the Best Runner, while Pat Haden of Southern California was selected Best Passer (though he finished only third in the voting for first-team All-America quarterback). Tom Clements of Notre Dame and Condredge Holloway of Tennessee were the top quarterback vote-getters.

Griffin, the voters' choice for Best Runner, and Pat Haden, the Best Passer designee, also rate superlatives from their coaches. "Archie never gives us a bad practice," says Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes. "His willingness, his pursuit of excellence–he's just a great, great person. The finest back we've ever had."

A native of Columbus, Ohio, where he attended Eastmoor High School, Griffin gained 1,577 yards on the ground in 1973 and broke the Big Ten record for consecutive 100-yard rushing efforts (11 straight games). His best one-game display was a 246-yard splurge against Iowa last fall. He broke through Southern Cal's defenses for 149 yards on 22 carries in the Rose Bowl, to lead the Buckeyes to their surprisingly easy 42-21 triumph.

A. D. Davis of the Southern Cal Trojans, the runner-up to Griffin, won top honors in the same contest last year after a sensational sophomore season. When he gained 1,112 yards in 1973, Davis became only the second USC player in history to gain more than 1,000 yards in two consecutive seasons. (O. J. Simpson was the first.)

Key to the passing game at Southern Cal is Haden, the Trojans' blond senior from West Covina, Calif. "Pat is the greatest quarterback I've ever coached," says USC Coach John McKay of his star passer. Haden pitched for 1,832 yards a year ago, good for 13 TD's and a completion percentage of better than 56 percent. Pat is also a fine scholar. He was named to the Academic All-America last year after recording a 3.74 grade average (of a possible four) in English. Haden is one of this season's leading candidates for the Heisman Trophy.

The battling for the Heisman Trophy may go down to November 30, when Southern Cal plays Notre Dame at Los Angeles. Notre Dame's Clements was the field general of the Fighting Irish squad that captured all 12 of its 1973 games and last year's national championship. Tom, a senior from McKees Rocks in western Pennsylvania, is an accurate passer on the run and capable of turning a broken play into a long gain with his excellent running abililty. Overall, Tom was responsible for 1,242 yards in 1973, 882 through the air, 360 on the ground. He averaged 8.3 yards.

Clements is one of three Notre Dame players to make FAMILY WEEKLY's first-team All-America. The others are offensive guard Gerry DiNardo and defensive tackle Steve Niehaus.

Ohio State's Buckeyes have five players on the first team. In addition to Best Runner Griffin, they are offensive tackle Kurt Schumacher, defensive end Van DeCree and defensive backs Neal Colzie and Steve Luke.

Oklahoma, like Ohio State,

How the Voting Went

Who Were the Strongest All-America Challengers?

Besides the men on the first and second All-America teams, these football players drew considerable support from FAMILY WEEKLY's panel of sportswriters:

OFFENSIVE TEAM

BEST PASSER–David Humm of Nebraska and Tom Clements of Notre Dame finished second and third behind the winner, Pat Haden.

BEST RUNNER–A. D. Davis of Southern California, Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh and Joe Washington of Oklahoma were the only runners besides Griffin to draw a substantial number of votes.

BEST LINEMAN–This was a narrow victory for Selmon. In second place was Gerry DiNardo of Notre Dame. Steve Niehaus, also of Notre Dame, was next, and everyone else lagged far behind.

QUARTERBACK – Behind Clements and Holloway came Nebraska's Humm and Southern California's Haden, in a tie for third place. Dennis Franklin of Michigan and Gary Rutledge of Alabama also had backing.

RUNNING BACK–Except for the men who won first- and second-team berths, only Brad Davis of LSU and Sonny Collins of Kentucky had more than ten votes.

Feel like being someone special? You can, you know. By joining something special... the U.S. Air Force.

There are many different ways to become part of the Air Force team. If you don't plan to attend college in the immediate future, active duty Air Force would be a good move. Because the Air Force will guarantee you training in a skill. A skill you can use in civilian life.

While on active duty, you can enroll in the Air Force Community College curriculum most closely related to your Air Force job and earn the accredited equivalent of a two-year civilian degree. Plus, you earn a 30-day paid vacation every year.

If you're planning to attend a civilian college now, you can still become part of the Air Force team. Air Force ROTC programs for women and men can be found on numerous college campuses. Scholarships are available... as well as flying lessons in some specific cases. There's also the Air Force Academy to consider for college-minded guys.

If you plan to start a civilian career after graduation, consider the Air Force Reserve as a part-time job. A great way for men and women to earn extra income and learn skills.

There are lots of ways to become part of the Air Force team. Think about it. For more information fill out the coupon. Or for the location of your nearest Air Force recruiter call 800-447-4700, toll free. In Illinois call 800-322-4400.

has heavy representation. Five Sooners earned top spots in the balloting. In addition to Dewey Selmon, they are a pair of offensive linemen, center Kyle Davis and guard John Roush, plus wide receiver Tinker Owens and linebacker Rod Shoate.

Dewey Selmon at Oklahoma leads a brigade of All-America brothers of former All-Americas. First-team defensive end Dean Zook of Kansas is the brother of John Zook, who was an All-America at Kansas and now stars for the Atlanta Falcons. Oklahoma wide receiver Tinker Owens, a junior, is the younger – and considerably smaller – brother of Steve Owens, the 230-pound fullback of the Detroit Lions who won the 1969 Heisman Trophy as a member of the Sooner varsity.

Maryland's Steve Mike-Mayer, the first-team place-kicking specialist, is the younger brother of Nick Mike-Mayer, a former Temple University standout who now boots for the Atlanta Falcons. Steve kicked 15 field goals in 28 attempts for Maryland last year, including one for 54 yards, an Atlantic Coast Conference record.

Gerry DiNardo, the top man in Notre Dame's offensive line, is carrying on in the tradition of his older brother Larry, who was an All-America guard at South Bend in 1970. The elder DiNardo went to law school after graduating from Notre Dame.

There are still more brother acts among this year's All-America squad. Richard "Batman" Wood, the great linebacker from Southern California, is the brother of Jake Wood, second baseman for the Detroit Tigers between 1961-1967. Archie Griffin, one of seven boys, is the fourth member of his family to play college football.

There are father-son tales here, too. Johnny McKay, USC's senior split end, is the son of the Trojans' coach, John McKay. The younger McKay is a member of our second team.

Randy "Rocket" Rhino of Georgia Tech, who received more votes for a defensive backfield spot than any other player, is carrying on in the footsteps of his father, Chappel Rhino, who also played football for the Engineers.

Besides Tinker Owens, other receivers are tight end Dan Natale of Penn State and flanker Danny Buggs of West Virginia. Natale received his first national acclaim when he was named to the FAMILY WEEKLY preseason All-America first team in 1973. He fully justified his membership by the end of the season and is back on the first team again. Buggs, a 6-3, 190-pound speed burner, makes the select first team after placing on our preseason second team a year ago.

Some schools always seem to produce outstanding offensive linemen. John Hicks won the Outland Trophy as the nation's outstanding lineman last fall after a brilliant year at tackle for Ohio State. Kurt Schumacher played in Hicks' shadow but now appears ready to reap his share of honors. Nebraska's top offensive lineman in '73 was Daryl White, a FAMILY WEEKLY first-team choice. He's graduated, but in his stead there's Marvin Crenshaw, who received more votes than any other offensive tackle for this year's All-America squad.

The punter on the first team is Neil Clabo of Tennessee, who ranked fourth in the nation last season with an average of 43.6 yards per boot. He's a master at kicking for the coffin corner.

Now—for the first time—an international Jet-Setter reveals the "inside" story:

How The Beautiful People Get Rid Of Both Cellulite And Ordinary Fat—Without Dieting!

Those stunning, sleekly-slim couples who grace the pages of the fashion magazines and society columns...who spend each new Season in New York and Cannes and Saint Moritz and Saint Tropez...who live surrounded by a horde of admirers and photographers must remain youthful and slim right up to 50...60...70!

And, if you were to ask them what they do to maintain their Beautiful People Bodies, the answer would always be the same: "I don't do ANYTHING; I don't diet!"

That's right! The Beautiful People Don't Diet! They enjoy the finest food in the world and yet the needle on the scale barely moves! How do they do it?

For the first time, Luciana Avedon (former Princess Pignatelli and now the wife of the European cosmetics executive, Burt S. Avedon) reveals the "BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE MIRACLE FORMULA" responsible for all those lusciously svelte figures on the society pages. How they NEVER go on fad diets, NEVER take dangerous amphetamines, diuretics or diet pills, and NEVER give up their favorite foods either! How they simply go right on eating the foods they like—but in a special way that keeps them always fashionably slim, without their having to jump on and off the diet merry-go-round.

One California socialite says: "I always keep my weight fluctuation within two pounds. It's bad for the face when you go up and down."

Another stunning fashion leader says: "I weighed more at age 25 than I do now." (She's now 37!)

Another says: "Sitting down to nothing but clear soup or health food depresses me; it makes me feel like an invalid."

But yet they know how to splurge like this without incurring disaster on the scales! They get their food kicks—constantly—but their figures never show it!

They eat the finest food in the world (even the delicacies and "tempters" you'd be horrified to touch), but they do it in a way that never lets them put on more weight than they can simply "peel off" in a few days any time they decide to!

(In fact, these Beautiful People secrets of delicious figure-maintenance are so powerful that, when one young, overweight model was introduced to just one of them, she lost 22 pounds in one month and stayed at that weight from then on! And another young girl, when shown how, lost 20 "impossible" pounds in two short months, even though not a single meal demanded special preparation!)

So, From Now On, Forget About Debilitating Diets! The Beautiful People Don't Use Them—Why Should You?

Once again, let us emphasize that the Beautiful People think dieting is a "bore." They eat well—very well—and they are not fat! They wouldn't think of doing without their favorite foods and the needle on the scale barely changes!

Why then shouldn't you follow their plan and lose weight—pounds and pounds and pounds of it! The process is the same, even if you start with a 50 pound handicap. And you do it all by yourself (without "fat" doctors, or the group therapy approach of diet clubs.) And, yet, (to repeat once again) you do not "sacrifice" the foods you love for a single minute!

Yes, you can still enjoy parties, restaurants, business lunches or dinners, and "super-relaxed" vacations. You can eat all the foods you usually do, and still find the pounds and inches gradually, but permanently, melting off!

ABOUT THE AUTHORS:

Roman-born Luciana Avedon, the former Princess Pignatelli, was educated in Switzerland. Her husband, Burt S. Avedon, is Director of European operations for Eve of Roma, an internationally famous cosmetics firm. She has been a fashion designer and coordinator, and is currently a beauty consultant. Her first book, The Beautiful People's Beauty Book, was a best-selling title here and abroad.

Listen, As The Beautiful People Tell You How To:

Condition yourself by developing your own built-in "Fat Radar" so that the minute your weight starts to shoot up, you can shoot it down!

Take off fat while it's still "soft"...before the body has had a chance to make it part of the muscle structure. Before it marbelizes, as in a fat steak, and becomes even harder to lose!

Make the natural diuretic power of food even MORE effective, so that accumulated tissue water drains out of your body faster and you NEVER get that bloated look!

Lose tons of weight—all in the right places—and NEVER get "scrawny" looking in the face. Actually melt unwanted pounds right off your body, and still retain that "youthful" bloom in your face the Beautiful People way!

PLUS...

How to be thin as a model, and still have the energy and stamina of a truck driver!

The Beautiful People's special "Secret Elimination Diet" that disintoxicates your system...drains out internal poisons...at exactly the same time that you are painlessly losing weight!

The Beautiful People "Easy-Diet Plan", a permanent part of your life, so that you continue to lose weight for as long as you wish, and yet NEVER feel deprived!

How to prevent your body from automatically "adjusting" to your first massive weight loss, so that it actually prevents you from taking off even more pounds.

What to do if you are a "sandwich fiend" and don't want to cut them out of your diet.

Why the Beautiful People make sure that they never lose more than 18 pounds at a time.

How they painlessly "retrain their nervous system so that they don't go on eating binges during an "anxiety attack."

Why the Beautiful People feel that American men are a "disaster...overweight, over-tobaccoed, over-alcoholed, and undersexed." And, what Beautiful People Males "over 30," do to retain their very special attractiveness.

Yes, The Beautiful People Have Been Looking Fabulous For Years THIS Way. Now You'll Learn How, WITHOUT RISKING A PENNY!

You are just as capable of keeping younger, prettier, slimmer and more attractive as any of the Beautiful People you'll read about in this book. And once you know their "secrets", you'll be well on your way to joining the ranks of all the Beautiful People all over the world, who realize that being beautiful also means being slender

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS:

How The Beautiful People "Smooth Away" Ugly Cellulite, The EASY Way!

Yes, while these Beautiful People are incredibly slim and supple at all ages—actually glowing with good health—they have also learned how to FREE themselves of ugly and distorting CELLULITE! (Cellulite, as you may know, is "orange peel fat"—the hard lumps of hideous fat that stick to the back of the thighs, knees, arms, buttocks and back. The same ripply fat pockets that cause desperation and unhappiness in thousands of American women who cannot walk down a beach, or up to a husband or lover, without feeling unattractive or just plain ugly!)

This is not ordinary fat, by any means. And it can't be gotten rid of by ordinary means. Instead, it's bumpy, hard lumps of toxic material—really a gel-like substance—that become trapped in bubbly, immovable pockets just beneath the skin. It's found in pencil-slim models and housewives alike. In fact, it's reputed to disfigure almost 90% of the women in the world! But not the Beautiful People! Why?

BECAUSE OF THESE TWO SIMPLE "CELLULITE CHASERS" THAT YOU CAN USE YOURSELF RIGHT IN YOUR OWN HOME, STARTING IN JUST A FEW MINUTES A DAY!

No, you don't need fancy doctors, or expensive health spas to be able to bid farewell to these unsightly globules. You can achieve spectacular results simply by following these two simple steps beginning on Page 26:

Second, follow the unique Anti-Cellulite-Food Program that will actually help your natural circulatory system to rid your body of annoying substances BEFORE they can build up and become IMMOVABLE CHUNKS OF FAT!

Both these Cellulite Fighters are yours, as just one section of this great Beautiful People Over-All Body Beauty Plan...yours to read from cover to cover, entirely at our risk!

Dog Bites Self Constantly Drives Owner Crazy

"My dog has been biting her back almost two years, driving me crazy. She was driving herself crazy, too. I want to thank you for Sulfodene. I tried soaps, collars, lotions. Nothing worked. After two days of Sulfodene she stopped biting and soon the scabs were all gone."

Megan Hughes, Lennox, Cal.

SULFODENE is a scientific medication for dogs. In 9 out of 10 cases tested, healing proved remarkably rapid with SULFODENE. Veterinarians explain that many germs which cause dogs' infections are different from human bacteria. Only 'special' medication can help destroy these dog germs and effect prompt healing. For dogs' skin problems, pat on SULFODENE. It's painless, won't sting or stain. Also use SULFODENE SHAMPOO. It's specially medicated to remove scales and help keep your dog's skin healthy. our hands on the pot of gold. there are still enough nuggets around for sustenance. Like most nuggets, though, they require a sharp eye for finding and the farsightedness to realize that the most minute particles, when gathered together, carry a lot of worth.

Ethel Kennedy, a lady who has certainly known unhappiness, once remarked to an interviewer that she believed tragedy to be as valid a part of life as happiness. Ethel Kennedy is a very wise woman. Moments of tragedy and happiness enter our lives often when we least expect them, but in the meantime, as Mrs. Kennedy has proved by her own extraordinary example, we are able to survive on fragments of good humor, warmth given and received, entertainments, involvement and the joy of peaceful thoughts. While they may not completely assuage the hungering we have, should a starving man refuse to eat anything less than a six-course banquet? Surely that would be the epitome of self-destructiveness.

If we each looked at our lives a little more realistically, perhaps we wouldn't wear ourselves out, panting in pursuit of the unattainable and whimpering in frustration at our failure to find it. So many times, in a blue funk, I've slipped into the pitfall of thinking that everyone else is a good deal happier than I am and that there must be something uniquely wrong with me. Now I know that that kind of thinking is self-pitying nonsense.

No woman is as beautiful as she wants to be, she can only try to look her best. She can only make a determined stab at being a great wife and mother; there are too many variables standing in the way of triumph. And does anyone feel totally fulfilled? If that were so, it wouldn't be worth getting up in the morning; where do you go from perfect? No man will live up to his ideals of virility, no, not even a Joe Namath. But he can feel fit trying. And as for success, in many cases it simply isn't worth the high price of admission. That's an equation that each individual must weigh himself, and carefully.

We are guaranteed the right to the pursuit of happiness, but America has always been a speed-crazy country, and a word like "pursue" has come to take on the connotations of a race to the prize money. Maybe it's time to slow down, to stalk happiness gently, as bird watchers stalk winged creatures and find pleasure not in snaring them, but in simply catching a glimpse of them.

A DOCTOR DISCOVERS VERMONT'S SECRET

Health News

WHY PEOPLE IN VERMONT ARE HEALTHIER, LESS OVERWEIGHT, STAY YOUNG LONGER, LIVE LONGER THAN PEOPLE OF ANY OTHER STATE IN THE UNION

Did you know that:

* You were designed by nature to live an average age of 105?
* A high protien - low carbohydrate diet is unnatural for you and dangerous to your health?
* Overweight is caused by bad nutrition which also causes other common visible disorders such as loss of hair, acne, arthritis, nervous tension, insomnias, etc.
* Senility, and loss of productivity in old age can be avoided and in fact is not in natures plan?
* The average American diet creates a perfect blood chemistry for the growth of harmful bacteria that leads to both minor and serious diseases?
* You can get high without the use of drugs if you have the proper nourishment that nature intended.

These are just a few of the discoveries made by Vermont doctor, D. C. Jarvis M. D., in his life-long study of the unbelievably effective health practice known as VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE. VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is a practice that can help you achieve good health, increase your life span, avoid senility, become more attractive and more productive. For 200 years, before publications by Dr. Jarvis, this practice has been known only to native Vermonters.

VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE was developed by countless generations of Vermonters. Dr. Jarvis M. D., a respected doctor of modern medicine himself, states that VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is superior to modern medicine for the following reasons:

* VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE was developed from natures plan - not man's. It was developed by watching the animals who rely on their instincts provided by nature. This is the same way the super-effective defense arts of Judo, Karate and Kung Fu were developed. How can anyone expect to develop a better system than the designer of it all - Mother Nature?
* VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE works. It was developed by trial and error over a 200 year period. This also means it has passed the acid test of time.
* Although it contains some of the best cures known to man, which cannot be found in medical books, the main design of VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is to prevent disease before it starts. Modern Medicine is directed, mainly at curing disease - diseases you should never have in the first place.

Dr. D. C. Jarvis

VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is based on the premise that man does not have to undergo psysical impairment and weakening with age. In Vermont you can see people in their eighties putting in a full days work in the fields with sound minds and bodies.

VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE was designed to help man live his full average life which by nature's plan should be 105 years. Yes, it's true. It is a common fact that an animal lives to be 5 times his maturity age. A horse matures at 4 years and easily lives to be 20. A cow matures at 2½ years and easily lives to 12. A dog matures at 1½ years and easily lives to be over 8-many live much longer. Man is an animal. BUT, THE AVERAGE MAN IN THE U.S. WHO MATURES AT 21 WILL DIE AT AGE 62. THAT'S 43 YEARS BEFORE HIS TIME! With the exception of a notorious retirement state, which can't be counted, Vermont leads all other states in percentage of population over 65. Not long ago it had 40,000 persons over that age, and each year nearly 2500 reach it!

Short lives, senility, excessive disease, and so on are not in nature's plan. What's the culprit? The free will of man! Although free will is indeed a wonderful thing, it does have some bad side effects. Unlike the animals, we stray away from our childhood instincts.

The first thing discovered by VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE is that each species is designed to have a different diet. Nature's plan for man's diet requires a high intake of carbohydrates represented by fruits, berries, edible leaves, and honey, and a low in take of protien represented by eggs, meat, milk, cheese, etc. Man was also designed to eat foods derived from corn and rye and not from wheat, which produces an alkaline blood condition.

Nature designed nearly all animals to have a natural blood condition on the acid side. Blood which leans toward the alkaline side is a health hazard. Medical school studies show that harmful bacteria breeds best in an alkaline environment. Also, alkaline blood is thicker than acidic blood. This makes it more difficult for the blood to nourish cells, and increases the probability of heart attacks.

So, everyday Americans are killing themselves with high protien-low carbohydrate diets which contain many wheat products. In turn, the diets are 1) hard on the system, 2) do not provide the correct elements for nutrition.3)Produce the bad alkaline condition in the blood. Many of these diets are the result of weight watching. Little do these people know that overweight is caused by 1) bad nutrition of the glands, 2) a blood condition which is not acidic and 3) a wrong carbohydrate consumption. The correct carbohydrates burn up instantly and do not turn in to excess fat.

The following are symptoms of bad nutrition and a diet that is contrary to nature's plan: low energy, depression, insomnia, itchy skin, chronic headache, sensitivity to temperature, sinus trouble, lingering colds, dizzy spells, gas and indigestion, poor blood circulation, falling hair, dandruff, blemishes, lack of skin color, and overweight.

Two important foods in VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE are honey and apple cider vinegar. They are a major contribution toward providing the correct carbohydrates, the correct nutrition and an acidic blood condition.

Why honey? Nature intended that we have a trickle of sugar passing thru the intestinal walls at all times and one teaspoonful of sugar in our blood stream at all times. The latter is ultra critical. In honey, the sugar has already been digested in the bee's stomach. Therefore, honey contains two natural sugars dextrose and levalose, which go into the blood stream immediately. Honey is free from bacteria. Experiments show that bacteria will not live in honey. Honey is a mild, natural sedative which is calming to the body. Honey is a mild, natural laxitive. Honey is nonirritating to the digestive track. Honey is, of all sugars, handled best by the kidneys. Honey is rich in vital minerals from the flowers. By an infallible instinct, the bee has a way of knowing which flowers are high in quality and which are not. Therefore, honey is a perfect food derived from only the healthiest plants. In Vermont there is a saying, "We've got to trust someone - why not let it be the bee?"

Why apple and vinegar? Apple cider vinegar carries with it all the vital life elements of the apple. Apple cider vinegar maintains the proper acid level of the blood. Apple cider vinegar can maintain your proper weight. Dr. Jarvis's book describes a method using apple cider vinegar where the person eats normally but will gradually lose weight until the body finds its proper weight level. With this method women will gradually see their dress size go from 20, to 18, to 16 and gradually stop at their natural body size. Men will see a 40 inch waist line drop to 38, then 36 finally to the proper size as the body properly burns off excess fat because it is in the proper chemical state that nature intended.

It is not enough, however, to only know the ingredients of good health. You must know how and in what combination to use honey, vinegar and other vital products of nature. Dr. Jarvis has published the results of his life long study of VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE in his book titled FOLK MEDICINE. In every day language he tells you how to use VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE. Here are some of the highlights of this book:

* How to use honey and apple cider vinegar to: 1) gain renewed health and energy, 2) as part of prenatal care to produce a strong healthy baby, 3) Produce sound sleep, 4) Reduce your susceptibility to disease, 5) Reduce the chance of heart attacks, 6) Produce a relaxed comfortable state of being.
* How to use honey and apple cider vinegar to cure: 1) morning sickness, 2) sinus, 3) migrain headaches, 4) dizziness, 5) arthritus, 6) bed-wetting, 7) coughs, 8) hay fever, 9) colic in babies.
* How to use apple cider vinegar, castor oil, and corn oil to 1) produce beautiful healthy skin and bring color back 2) clear up blemishes, 3) get rid of dandruff, 4) grow healthy hair and eyelashes, 5) cure hives, 6) cure hemorroids, 7) get rid of moles, 8) relieve lameness, 9) treat poison ivy, 10) treat shingles, 11) eliminate night sweats, 12) get rid of varicose viens, 13) get rid of ring worm, 14) treat impetigo, 15) get rid of hangover.
* How to get your daily requirement of the all important minerals phosperous and potassium which: 1) form healthy bones, teeth and hair; 2) maintain proper growth control; 3) replace wornout tissue; 4) fight disease; 5) cure high blood pressure; 6) cure heart trouble, 7) cure migrane headaches.
* How you can rebuild your body after age 50 and be alert, active and productive in your eighties and beyond.

At this point I would like to insert the opinion of the writer. Today there are many exagerated claims and falsehoods. I can tell you that everything you see written here is true. VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE and Dr. Jarvis's studies do exist. A phone call or letter to any official office such as the Greater Vermont Chamber of Commerce will verify this. As a reporter, I rarely get excited about a project. But, before writing this article, I used the diets and methods described in Dr. Jarvis's book for 3 months. Few Americans have any idea what it is like to be truly healthy as nature intended. Life was meant to be very pleasant. VERMONT FOLK MEDICINE has had the following effect on me: I feel very calm and at peace with the world. I have an abundance of energy and endurance. I look better and healthier. But, most of all, I just feel good all over. In fact, at times, I feel so good that I tingle all over and feel like I'm walking on air. If people would only know what it's like to feel as nature intended, they would never take drugs. Nature's plan allows you to get high without drugs.

For those interested in obtaining a copy of Dr. Jarvis's book, FOLK MEDICINE, the following information is given: The book is being distributed by PCA - The Publishing Corporation of America. On a blank piece of paper write the words, "FOLK MEDICINE," followed by your name and address. Mail this along with $9.95 in cash, check or money order to P.C.A.; Dept. C-23 6233 Whipple Avenue N.W.; Canton, Ohio 44720. The price includes postage and handling. Make checks payable to PCA.

Today, if you wish, you can get this book at a large discount. P.C.A., in a survey, would like to know what age group is interested in this book. During this survey, those who include their date of birth along with their order will get a bonus discount. The cost to you, if you submit your date of birth, is only $6.95. You get a full 30% discount. To qualify, simply write your month, day and year of birth after your address.

Should you spend a couple minutes and a few dollars to acquire this valuable health knowledge? Studies show that people will think nothing about spending hundreds or thousands of dollars on homes and cars, but are reluctant to spend a few cents on themselves. As the proverb goes: "When you have your health you have everything - lose your health and nothing else really matters."

WATER BED?
There's method in this madness

This portable tub is not as funny as it looks when you consider that it is designed for invalids who have difficulty getting in and out of standard-sized hospital bathtubs. Designed by Robert Whalen, a Stanford research assistant, the tub is made of a plastic and nylon cloth. It can be rolled up and carried in a shopping bag. For a bedridden patient, the deflated bathtub is spread out beside the person, who rolls over while it is placed under him. The patient then rolls back and the two side rings a inflated in less than a minute with small blower (a vacuum cleaner is su gested). A special faucet connecti enables the hose to be used to fill empty the tub. When the tubs are pr duced in quantity, they will cost abo $150. In the meantime Whalen is loo ing for a manufacturer. ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

RING MASTER

Women's earrings vary greatly.
I've seen some really wild ones lately.
Some look like rings for birds to cling on
Or circus acrobats to swing on,
While others look like buttons which
When pressed would maybe turn a switch.
Still others look like chandeliers
Suspended from high-ceilinged ears.
I've thought, "If only such an earring
Would help not only looks but hearing
I'd take two from my good wife's shelf
And wear one on each ear myself."

The man at the corner table in the restaurant had been waiting a long time for his order of fish. Finally, the waiter approached and said, "We'll have your fish for you in just a few minutes, sir." The diner looked interested. "Tell me," he said, "what kind of bait are you using?" —Lane Olinghouse

Sure it was, Phyllis

We won't get much of a vacation if we have to do all the chores.

Just one thing—

Virgil may be getting more of a vacation than we are.

He does relax quite a lot, doesn't he?

Pipe? I've never seen Virgil smoke, Phyllis.

Oh, yes, Walt. He smokes.

The reason I bought you that new pipe was so we could get rid of your smelly old one.

Phyllis!!

Phyllis, you didn't!

Oh, yes I did. It was time for a change.

Virgil, you and I have to have a little talk.

Sure, Mr. Wallet. Just as soon as I light up my new pipe!

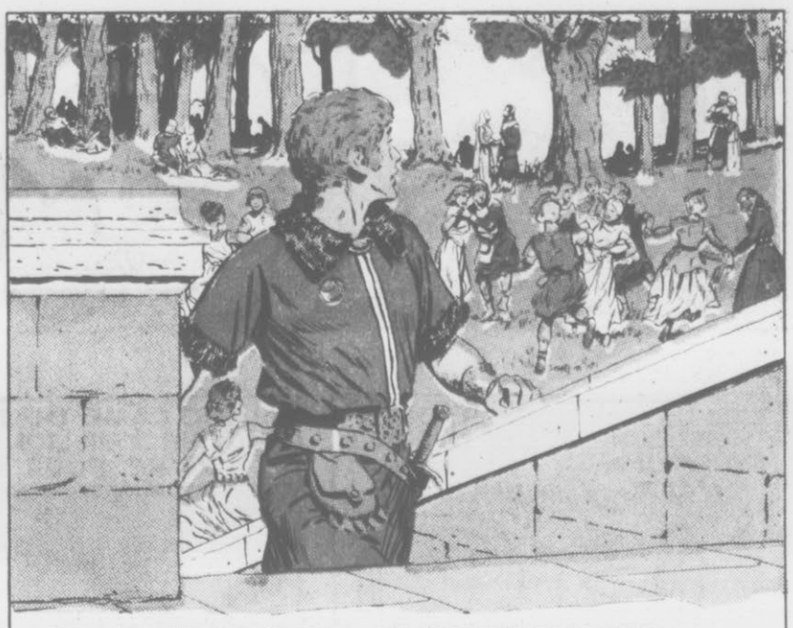
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: THE LONG JOURNEY NEARS ITS END. VIKINGSHOLM IS IN SIGHT. THEN ARN SEES THE GAILY DECORATED BOATS THAT CROWD THE BEACH. HE COUNTS THE NOTCHES ON THE CALENDAR-STICK.... IT IS MIDSUMMER'S EVE!

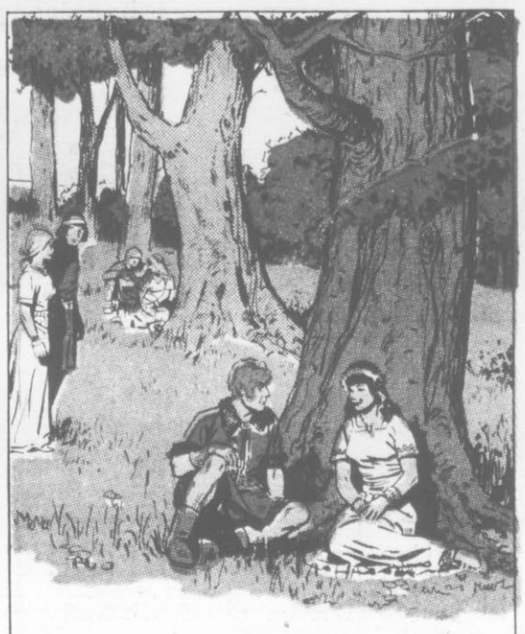
HE MAKES HIS WAY THROUGH THE MERRYMAKERS, EAGER TO SEE HIS MOTHER, AND THEN SEARCH FOR LYDIA.

ALETA SEES HIM COMING AND HER LONG VIGIL IS ENDED. HE HAD SAILED AWAY A BROKENHEARTED BOY AND HAS RETURNED A STALWART YOUTH. SOON SHE WILL HOLD HER SON IN LOVING EMBRACE.



SHE WATCHES HIS COMING. HE REACHES THE STEPS..... THEN HESITATES, SEARCHING THE DANCERS FOR ONE SPECIAL FACE, AND SLOWLY DESCENDS.
ALETA SMILES AWAY HER TEARS, FOR SHE KNOWS THE TIME HAS COME WHEN A MOTHER MUST SHARE HER SON WITH SOME GIRL.

HE FINDS LYDIA IN THE SAME GLADE WHERE SHE HAD KISSED HIM AND SAID GOOD-BYE. BOTH HAVE CHANGED DURING THEIR LONG SEPARATION, BUT THE LIGHT IN THEIR EYES SHOWS THE CHANGE IS FOR THE BETTER.



THE MUSIC AND LAUGHTER COME FAINTLY THROUGH THE GLADE AND THE HOURS PASS.

ARN LEAPS TO HIS FEET. "COME, WE MUST GO FIND MOTHER."
"YOU GO, I WILL FOLLOW LATER," AND SHE GIVES HIM A PUSH, "THAT MOMENT IS FOR YOUR MOTHER ALONE."

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. TV controls are missing. 2. Pillow is different. 3. Book is missing. 4. Comb is missing. 5. Cat's tail is shorter. 6. Sofa is different.

ANYONE can exert magical powers that will defy the laws of gravity. Here's how: Announce that after long and arduous effort you have discovered a means of suspending gravity about your person. Add that you will demonstrate this ability with a pencil stub.

Now, place the pencil stub against your forehead. Alakazam! It remains in place without support.

Secret: When the pencil is touched to your forehead, press it firmly and slide it slightly upward. When this is done, it will adhere for some time. P.S.: A key, coin, button, etc., will also work.

BULLETIN BOARD

● STAR PLAYER? Challenge: Use five wooden toothpicks to form a five-pointed star. Secret: Bend each toothpick in two and use each bend as a point in the star.

● Eight heads; eighteen feet—how many people and pigs in a pen? Answer quickly.

● Medical fact: Almost everyone has a trapezium and a trapezoid on his person. Where are they located?

(© 1974 King Features Syndicate, Inc.) 8-25
