Planned His 'Final Trip'

Lindbergh Dies Privately

HANA, Hawaii (AP) — Charles A. Lindbergh, who sparked worldwide excitement with his "Lone Eagle" flight from New York to Paris in 1927, has been buried in a small, seaside graveyard less than eight hours after his death.

The only family members present on Monday when the 72-year-old aviator hero was buried beside the non-denominational Kipahulu Hawaiian Church were his widow, Anne, and one of the five Lindbergh children, Land.

The other four living children of the man who flew out of obscurity with an epic solo crossing of the Atlantic in a single-engine plane were too far away to fly to Hawaii in time for the service.

The eulogy — part of which Lindbergh had written himself — was delivered by a young Protestant minister, the Rev. John Tincher.

Lindbergh penned these words:

"We commit the body of General Charles A. Lindbergh to its final resting place, but his spirit we commend to Almighty God, knowing that death is but a new adventure in existence and remembering how Jesus said upon the Cross, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

At his own request, Lindbergh was buried in a khaki shirt and dark cotton trousers. His casket of eucalyptus wood was built by cowboys from nearby ranches.

"The Lone Eagle planned his final trip as much as he planned his Atlantic trip or anything else he ever did in his life," said Dr. Milton Howell, a longtime friend.

Howell said Lindbergh died of cancer of the lymphatic system. The pioneer aviator had spent the last eight days of his life in Hawaii after a monthlong stay in New York's Columbia Presbyterian Hospital.

"When he knew he could not recover, Mr. Lindbergh requested that he be taken here from Columbia so he could die. He had made his vacation home here for many years and wanted to die here," Howell said.

In addition to his widow and Land, Lindbergh is survived by sons Jon of Washington state and Scott of Paris and daughters Reeve of New England and Anne Lindbergh Feydi of Paris.

President Ford, who only last Friday had sent Lindbergh a telegram wishing him a speedy recovery, said:

"For a generation of Americans, and for millions of other people around the world, the 'Lone Eagle' represented all that was best in our country — honesty, courage and the will to greatness....

"Nearly half a century has passed since his courageous solo flight across the Atlantic, but the courage and daring of his feat will never be forgotten."

Memorial services are scheduled today at 2 p.m. (8 p.m. EDT) at the Kipahulu church, nestled in a grove of trees 11 miles south of Hana.

ECU Vice Chancellor? No Way, Avers Scott

RALEIGH (AP)—"The Board of Governors would die in hell before they would approve me as a chancellor of any institution under their control."

That was former North Carolina Gov. Robert Scott's reaction today to a report that he was considering an offer to become vice chancellor of East Carolina University.

The report said Scott, if he took the job, would be the logical successor when chancellor Leo Jenkins retires, sometime before 1978.

Scott said there was no chance he would take the job, although he acknowledged that Jenkins had spoken with him about it. "He asked me to consider it, and I did for all of about 30 seconds. It's not feasible."

Scott said he had enemies on the board due to his higher education restructuring program and his support for the ECU medical school.

"The power structure at Chapel Hill opposed both and they are still in control of the board. I don't have an academic background and in today's higher education system, a man doesn't stand a chance unless he has a Ph.D."

Scott said he is also unwilling to give up his family residence in Haw River, in Alamance County. He presently commutes to Raleigh where he is executive vice president of the North Carolina Agribusiness Council.

Scott said he had no plans to talk further with Jenkins about the matter and that he considered it an honor to be asked to consider the job.

He also indicated that he has no set political plans for 1976 although he has been mentioned as a candidate for nearly every state job from governor to secretary of state.

"If Terry Sanford seeks the Democratic presidential nomination, I'll probably help him, but other than that I have no particular plans," he said.

Action On School Property Taken At Meeting Of Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Action involving school property was taken at the August Greenville City School Board meeting Monday night when board members voted to declare the Eppes School property excess and heard a report that checks have been written to acquire the contested Evans property near Hooker Road.

Following up on decisions made at a closed session of a special call, school board meeting on August 14 to discuss unused property sites belonging to the school system, board members last night declared the property where the former Eppes School was located to be excess.

Also included in the "excess" motion was a stipulation that the Greenville City Council be given the first opportunity to acquire the site. Such action is legal under state law, which provides that one official agency can sell to another without placing property up for disposal through the normal procedures of sale that requires a public auction. If the City Council is not interested in acquiring this property within a reasonable time, then it can be put up for private sale through the regularly prescribed legal means.

In the case of the Evans property, a 30 acre tract that has been the subject of condemnation procedures since September 1973, Supt. Glenn Cox reported that attorney Louis Gaylord has been given two checks to deliver to the owners of the land, Guy and Plato Evans.

The price for settlement directed by the court was $147,350. Since the land is in two separate parcels, one check is drawn for $67,310, the other for $80,040.

Cox said Gaylord reported that Guy Evans had agreed to accept the check for his part of the property, Cox then noted he had received a federal summons in a suit filed by Plato Evans and his wife, Sara, versus the Greenville City School Board of Education. Cox said it is his understanding "the suit is being filed on the grounds that condemnation laws in North Carolina are unconstitutional."

This suit will entail a hearing before three judges on a federal panel to determine the next action to be taken. Cox said no date has been set for the hearing, but he expects it to be announced soon.

School Board Chairman Henry Dunn commented "the presentation of the checks in the amount set by court for the land completes action required by the school board. So far as we're concerned at this point, this completes our action." September 10, 1974 was the deadline established for the settlement of the condemnation procedures.

In a status report on the condition of Agnes Fullilove School, which this year is being used for the city's seventh graders and has been undergoing renovation, Cox reported receipt of two letters.

One is dated August 20 from City Fire Marshall Captain Jerry McLawhorn. The second letter is dated August 26 and is signed by Alton E. Warren, Chief Inspector for

COMPUTER'S YOUR FOE

Last spring my fifth grade son was asked by his teacher if he would like to get a monthly facts kit put out by World Explorer of New London, Conn. He got several at $2.98 apiece and then we decided to cancel, as it was understood we could do at any time. Two weeks later we got another kit, so we returned it to the Post Office unopened. They're billing me repeatedly now for this last one and are threatening to turn it over to a collection agency.

You were doing battle with a computer, Hotline learned. Once a human being by the name of Phyllis Stimson at the company which handles the World Explorer program was contacted, your problem was eliminated. You tell us you got a letter last week saying that your account has been cleared.

BABY SHOES DELAYED BUT NOT LOST

My daughter took our little granddaughter's first shoes to Best Jewelers Feb. 16 to be bronzed, with the promise of getting them back in three or four weeks. These shoes are priceless to us and we're worried that the long delay means they're lost. Mrs. E.W.P.

A spokesman for Best's told Hotline your shoes did not come in with the last shipment from the company that does their bronzing. However, there was a note saying that they were backordered and would arrive later. You got your shoes about a week ago, you say.

CAN I SHOOT?

What can be done to a person for shooting another person's dog? I don't know who the owner is, but this dog turns over our garbage can night after night. V.S.

Beaufort County Jailer Slain; Woman Escapee Is Sought By Lawmen

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A jailer at the Beaufort County Jail at Washington in eastern North Carolina was stabbed to death with an ice pick early today.

His body was found in a cell in the women's section of the jail. Sheriff J.D. Harris said the only prisoner in that section had escaped.

The sheriff said she was Joanne Little, 25, of Chocowinity, a small town three miles south of Washington, who was being sought for questioning in the stabbing of the jailer, 62-year-old Clarence Alligood.

The sheriff said a bloody icepick was found near Alligood, who had been stabbed eleven times—seven times in the chest, twice in the right temple and twice in the right ribs.

Sheriff Harris said the keys to the jail were missing. The jail is in the basement of the Beaufort County Courthouse.

The sheriff said the door to jailer's office is usually locked, and he is investigating whether someone first attracted the attention of the jailer and got in to take the keys before he was slain.

Harris said that Alligood was a farmer and formerly drove a truck for the state before he became a jailer about 18 months ago. He was one of four jailers and was the swing man, taking various shifts.

The sheriff said Alligood was married and had children, but Harris didn't know immediately how many children.

The sheriff said there were five prisoners in the men's section of the jail, but nothing was amiss there.

Harris said that the Little woman had been appealing a sentence of 5 to 10 years on conviction of breaking and entering house trailers and homes in the Chocowinity area, and $15,000 appeal bond had been set for her.

The sheriff said that Alligood had been seen alive at 2:50 a.m., and was found dead at 4:05 a.m. by a city policeman who had brought another woman prisoner to the jail for booking.

The sheriff said the only other staff member in the jail during those times was a woman radio dispatcher, and she reported hearing nothing.

Cornered Escaped Convicts

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — "The dogs barked. We threw the light at them and we saw the silhouettes. We hollered for them to stop. They did not and then started running and we started firing."

That's how Jim Ellmore, a Mineral Wells policeman, described the cornering Monday night of three escaped convicts who had terrorized the ranch country of central and west Texas for four days.

One of the three convicts, Richard Mangum, 22, was killed in the gunfire as law enforcement officers moved in to end the bloody rampage that had left two dead and five wounded and had chased frightened residents from their homes. Jerry Ulmer, 22, a convicted murderer, and Dalton Williams, 29, the third escapee, were arrested.

Police said the convicts did not return the hail of gunfire.

Mangum was shot in the face, arms and body, police said. They said Ulmer sprained his ankle as officers arrested the pair. An ambulance driver said that Ulmer was taken to the Stephenville police station, where he joined Williams.

The three escaped from the Colorado State Prison at Canon City last Thursday. They headed at once across New Mexico and into Texas to seek revenge against persons who had testified to send them to prison.

Those killed in Texas had testified against two of the convicts at separate trials. Officers said the convicts had mentioned the victims to other inmates as objects of revenge before escaping from Canon City.

Smooth Opening Is Reported For City Schools

Greenville's city school system opened its doors to a new school year this morning with approximately 5,700 students attending.

From early reports, the opening went off smoothly, with some minor problems arising because of the rainy weather.

Paul Rasberry, principal of the E.B. Aycock Jr. High School stated he "didn't know how it could have gone any better" and added that the moving of some 485 seventh graders from his school to Agnes Fullilove had eased his crowding situation tremendously.

"The students now have room to pass each other in the halls without crowding," Rasberry added.

Agnes Fullilove was renovated this year in order to take the Junior High students, with finishing touches still to be completed on the opening day.

Glenn Cox, city school's superintendent reported some problems at Fullilove between the wet weather and some sewer construction presently underway.

"We had some tracked-up floors from the wet weather, but other than that things went smoothly," Cox reported.

The city school's will operate on a normal schedule beginning tomorrow, while today's gathering was for orientation purposes.

Rose High principal Robert Alligood stated he was "extremely impressed" with his school's opening and was "pleased with the attitude of the students. ... I think we are ready for a real good school year."

Elementary students attended from 8:15 to 10:30 this morning while junior and senior high students went from 8:45 till noon.

Nixon Asks 'Do They Want To Pick The Carcass?'

By DOUG STONE
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS (AP)—Rep. Dan Kuykendall, R-Tenn., said he had a "sad" telephone call Monday from Richard M. Nixon in which the former chief executive was concerned about the nation's possible desire to "pick the carcass."

"He asked me one pointed question. 'Do you think the people are going to want to pick the carcass?'" Kuykendall said.

The congressman said he told Nixon that he could not detect indications that there was a punitive mood in the nation toward Nixon.

"I told him, 'Let me speak from the point of view of Congress. My friends—even on the liberal side of the Democratic party—don't seem to want any part of this revenge thing.'" Kuykendall said.

Kuykendall had been a strong Nixon supporter through the Watergate scandal and was among a handful of friends and officials who met with the former president on the evening of Aug. 8 just before Nixon went on national television and became the first president in history to resign.

Kuykendall said at that time that Nixon had "cried like a baby" before leaving the room to make the resignation announcement.

Kuykendall said he believes Nixon, who has been maintaining silence since the resignation, also called some other friends on Monday, but Kuykendall said the former president did not mention any names.

"The conversation, the whole thing is sad. It was a terrible realization for me after we stopped talking that this man a few weeks ago was the most powerful man in the world. It is tragic in the Grecian sense and this episode will also be written about for years to come."

Kuykendall, who is spending a week at his family ranch in Cherokee, Tex., said Nixon reached him there after first trying his Washington office.

"My reaction to the call is one of wonder, in a way," Kuykendall said.

"I just wanted to call and tell you I appreciate men like Dan Kuykendall who stood up when the going was tough," Kuykendall quoted Nixon as saying as a way of opening the five-minute call from San Clemente, Calif.

Kuykendall said he asked Nixon in a very personal manner how the former president was getting along.

"He said, 'We've got problems with that fellow...uh...uh...'"

"Jaworski? I said. He said, 'Yes,'" Kuykendall said.

Kuykendall said Nixon added, "We're going to be all right. If there's any help you fellows need from me, just let me know."

Kuykendall said he told Nixon that he believes that at a future time "you will be able to be a lot of help to the country with your knowledge and expertise."

"I thank you for that," Kuykendall quoted the former president as saying.

Police Dept. Launches School Safety Effort

The Greenville Police Department has begun its annual drive to alert motorists to be more cautious while driving near schools and near school buses.

Chief Glenn Cannon said colorful "School's Open" signs and bumper stickers are being displayed throughout the city in an effort to call attention to the fact that children will be walking to and from school as classes resume today for another school year.

The chief noted that nationwide each year, some 500 children between the ages of 5 and 14 killed and 11,000 injured as they travel to and from school.

Kindergarten and first graders suffer the greatest number of pedestrian injuries. Chief Cannon noted, and urged parents to walk with their children to school one or two times to make certain that the students take the safest route and are aware of the dangers along the way.

If at all possible, he noted, parents should avoid driving children to school because this only adds to the traffic congestion around school areas, thus creating extra dangers for all youngsters.

The police official suggested that parents warn children not to play in the street on their way to classes, and avoid running into the street while playing on the way home.

He also cautioned motorists to be especially watchful and to slow down when approaching children walking to and from school. He said drivers should expect a child to dart into the roadway and be driving slow enough to be able to avoid striking them.

Amnesty To Require Work, Contrition

WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe says the Ford administration's conditional amnesty plan for Vietnam-era draft dodgers will require at least "an act of contrition" and, at most, two years of public service work.

Saxbe said Monday night the amnesty plan will carry an assurance they will not be imprisoned. "What we're talking about is that we're going to give these people a chance if they want it," he said.

President Ford has asked the Justice and Defense Departments to develop proposals that would allow fugitive draft-evaders and deserters to return to the United States under certain conditions.

Saxbe said the administration will insist on "an act of contrition." A draft dodger will "have to come into either the draft board, the U.S. attorney, the state Selective Service headquarters or a special commission and say 'I'm sorry, I want to take my medicine.'"

He said the medicine could "run from an extreme of two years of substantial assistance to some public works, some good works of various kinds... that's the most we can expect."

The minimum requirement could be an appearance at a quasi-judicial proceeding at which charges would be dropped for a promise of good behavior, Saxbe said. He discussed the issue in an interview on the public television program, "Martin Agronsky: Evening Edition."

Horse Industry Hearing Sept. 4

RALEIGH—The North Carolina Board of Agriculture will hold a public hearing concerning the recently adopted regulations of the horse industry requiring all horses congregated at sales, shows, etc. to have a negative test for Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA).

In-state horses presently must be tested each 12 months. Out-of-state horses require a six month test to be brought into North Carolina.

The hearing will be held Wednesday, September 4 at 10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Highway Building in Raleigh.

Named Director Exhuming More Bodies In Deaths At Hospital

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP)—The bodies of two more heart patients who died in Petersburg General Hospital during the last two weeks in June will be exhumed this week, Commonwealth's Atty. J. Thompson Wyatt said Monday.

Wyatt said he will draft the court papers allowing the exhumations and autopsies to determine if the bodies contain the heart depressant lidocaine. He declined to identify the bodies.

Wyatt said it will probably be the middle of the week or later before the bodies are exhumed, since the circuit court judge is on vacation.

Lidocaine has been found in the bodies of two other heart patients who died at the hospital during the June period.

Lee Roy Hargrave Jr., a 21-year-old former nursing aide, has been charged with murder in the death of one of them, Josephine L. Thomas, 73, by giving her a lethal dose of the drug.

Wyatt said he will seek another murder charge against Hargrave in the death of the second patient, Thomas Wesley Wray, 85.

Neither patient reportedly was scheduled to receive lidocaine.

Wyatt denied Monday earlier published reports he plans to exhume the bodies of at least 12 heart patients.

"I have said all along that if it becomes necessary to do so, I'm prepared to get all the court orders I need to accomplish this fact," Wyatt said.

"Right now I'm working along the lines of these two additional bodies and no more."

Wyatt said he has been contacted by relatives of several persons who died in the hospital's heart unit during those two weeks in June. Several have asked Wyatt to have the bodies exhumed.

Wyatt said he referred them to their family doctors, who are reviewing the deaths of patients in the unit during the period.

Wyatt said if the doctors suspect that the deaths, first thought to be natural, were the result of foul play, he will exhume those bodies also.

Wyatt said he decided on further exhumations after the medical examiner told him Friday that Wray's body contained traces of lidocaine.

Wray's body is the only one thus far to be exhumed. An autopsy was performed on the body of Miss Thomas before she was buried.

Proceeds Given Crisis Center

A $425 check was presented to REAL Crisis Intervention Center here by the Greenville Jaycees Monday.

Jaycee Larry Garrett made the presentation to Marge Baney, director of REAL. The gift was the proceeds of "The REAL Revue," a four-hour program on WRQR-FM radio station in Farmville. The Jaycees sold the ads for the program and all the money went to the REAL House, as the station agreed to give the radio time. This is the third year the Jaycees have had such a project.

Ms. Baney expressed appreciation to the Jaycees and said the gift will be part of the $10,000 local matching money needed by next July to keep the center open.

Daughter is retarded and pregnant

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We are just about to lose our minds over this problem and are hoping you can at least tell us where to go to get some help.

Our 14-year-old daughter has always been very developed for her age, but she's slightly retarded mentally. We just found out that she is pregnant. The boy responsible for it is only 15. (He doesn't even shave yet.) The kids say they went all the way only once, but that is awfully hard for us to believe.

Anyway, the boy's father has been very nice about it. (He's divorced and has custody of the boy.) He has agreed to do anything we want, but we don't know what we want yet.

We really don't want to punish the boy because he's not a bad kid. He's never been in any trouble before, and sending him to a penal institution wouldn't help our daughter any.

A forced marriage, if it's possible for kids of their ages, doesn't seem right either.

We've considered an abortion, also letting her carry the child to term and adopting it out, or even keeping it ourselves to raise. We are so confused. Everyone we talk to has a different solution.

Can you help us decide what is right for all concerned?
TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Consider all the options and discuss them with a professional who has had experience in such matters. Your clergyman, Family Service, or a counselor from your local Planned Parenthood Association can help you. You are wise to ask for guidance. God bless you, and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: This problem has been bothering me for a long time, and I hope you can help me.

My son, who is a priest and clinical psychologist, sends mimeographed letters to all his relatives and friends every year at Christmastime. It's the only time he writes.

His brothers and sisters have told me that they do not like this idea. They say they realize that he is very busy, but in those Christmas letters all he does is brag about what he has accomplished and the "honors" he has received.

Should I pass their criticism on to my son in the hope that he won't send them this type of letter in the future?
I have already told him that I do not like receiving an impersonal, mimeographed letter.
HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You've told your son how you feel. Let the others who share your feelings tell him themselves.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old woman who might have a problem.

You see, about six weeks ago there was a 14-year-old boy living in my neighborhood who had a pretty wild crush on me. His folks were fairly bad off, he didn't seem to have any friends and he seemed so blue and downhearted, one day I invited him in for milk and freshly-baked cookies. He was painfully shy at first, but by the end of the visit he was talking up a storm, and when he left, he looked happier than I've ever seen him.

Two days later I received a letter from him. It said all the usual stuff a 14-year-old might say in a "love" letter. I received one nearly every day after that. Also, he would walk by my house fairly often.

A few weeks ago, his family suddenly moved out of town for some unknown reason and his letters stopped coming.

Now, finally, we come to my problem. I miss him dreadfully. It's awfully lonely without him popping up from out of nowhere. Is it abnormal for me to feel this way? I mean, does it seem right for me to be affected this way by a teen-age boy?
LONESOME

DEAR LONESOME: If you actually are entertaining romantic ideas about this lad, yes, it is a bit unusual. But apparently he filled a need in your life, so don't feel guilty about an honest emotion. It's not all that "abnormal."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Sunday Ceremony

AYDEN—Miss Muriel Elizabeth Smith and David Jatie Spain were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church here. The Rev. Kemery Ard officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the adopted daughter of Mrs. Helen Smith of Ayden and the late Mr. Smith. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Spain Jr. of Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Randy Buck, organist, and Miss Elaine Vernelson, soloist. Miss Vernelson sang "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "More" and "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction. Mrs. Ruby Robinson of Ayden directed the wedding and Mrs. Johnnie Carraway of Winterville, cousin of the bride, presided at the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Raymond Worthington, wore a formal white gown designed by Bridal Originals, fashioned with a high neck of peau d'ange chantilly lace and pearls. It had a transparent yoke of English net, wide cuffed sleeves and an empire bodice overlaid with peau d'ange chantilly lace. The lace extended down the front of the gown forming a redingote effect. A detachable chapel train fell from the waist and was accented with matching peau d'ange lace.

Her mantilla, designed by Chance Bridal Veils of California, was of matching lace and flowed into a full chapel length train. It was attached to a Camelot cap of lace and pearls.

The bride also wore a gold locket given to her by the bridegroom. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white bridal roses with springerli centered with a white orchid and satin ribbons with tuberose in satin streamers.

Mrs. Douglas Strickland of Wilson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of orange organza rose print fashioned with an empire waistline, accented at the neckline and waistline with Venise lace and matching orange velvet ribbon. She wore a white picture hat trimmed with orange velvet ribbon and carried a bouquet of Valeria glamellias.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Michael Russell of New Bern, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Randall Spain of Ayden, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Mrs. Marion Blevins of Winston-Salem, Miss Gwenn Hatley of Raleigh, Miss Janet Mills of Raleigh, all cousins of the bride, and Miss Kay Meeks of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom. Their gowns and hats were identical to that of the matron of honor. They also carried a bouquet of Valeria glamellias.

Miss Rhonda Carol Worthington of Nashville, Tenn., niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Wesley McLawhorn of Winterville, cousin of the bride, was ringbearer. He carried a heart shaped satin pillow with sprays of miniature flowers. Michael Worthington, brother of the bride, was the train bearer.

Randall Spain of Ayden, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Stephen Worthington of Knightdale and Glenn Worthington of Greenville, brothers of the bride, Dalton Worthington of Ayden, and Karl McLawhorn of Winterville, cousins of the bride, Gary Galloway of Greenville, and Carlos Cannon of Kinston.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mrs. J. H. McLawhorn of Winterville, Mrs.

A. C. Hailey Jr. of Raleigh, Mrs. A. L. Mills of Raleigh, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Claudie G. McLawhorn, Mrs. Karl McLawhorn, Mrs. William C. Peede, and Mrs. Johnnie Carraway, cousins of the bride entertained at a reception in the church educational building.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden High School and received her B.S. degree in social work from East Carolina University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Chicco High School and attended Lenoir Community College and Pitt Technical Institute. He is presently employed with DuPont, Kinston.

The couple will reside at Rt. 3, Ayden.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained the wedding party, friends, and out-of-town guests at an after-rehearsal party in the church educational building Saturday evening.

Assisting were Mrs. Clifton Cannon, Mrs. J. Bryant Hudson, Mrs. James Meeks, aunts of the bridegroom, Mrs. Calvin Mills, Mrs. Coley Vainwright, and Mrs. Carl Arnold, all of Greenville.

Miss Linda Tetterton Weds Mr. Michael Conley Sunday

St. Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene of the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Linda Lucille Tetterton and Michael John Conley. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lawrence P. Houston at 3:00 p.m.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Tetterton of Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire white crepe gown. Self ruffled and re-embroidered alencon lace highlighted the neckline and sleeves.

Her veil of silk illusion was attached to a half hat of lace. The bride carried a sheath of pale pink roses.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Albert R. Conley of Greenville.

The bride graduated from East Carolina University, where she was a member of Kappa Delta sorority. She has been employed as quality assurance supervisor of the Social Security Disability Determination Section. She is working toward a master's degree at N. C. State University. The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University, Naval Officers Candidate School, Naval Supply Corps School and N. C. State University.

Mrs. Patricia Crofts of Raleigh was the honor attendant. She wore a gown of floral pink organza with a matching pink headpiece. She carried a long-stemmed pink rose. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Nancy Tetterton of Greensboro, sister-in-law of the bride, and Patty Tetterton of Greenville, sister of the bride. They were dressed in pink gowns fashioned like that of the honor attendant and each carried a long-stemmed pink rose.

The bridegroom's father was best man and ushers were Trent Tetterton of Greensboro, Phillip Tetterton of Greenville, brothers of the bride, and David Crofts of Raleigh.

After a wedding trip to Quebec, Canada, the couple will reside in Blacksburg, Va.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Parish Hall.

A rehearsal dinner was held Saturday evening at the Holiday Inn.

Peszko-Burns Vows Said In New York

NEWARK, N.Y.—Karen Sue Burns and Raymond John Peszko were married in a candlelight ceremony at the First United Methodist Church in Newark on Aug. 17.

The Rev. James LeGro officiated at the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ellsworth Burns of Newark and the late Mr. Burns. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peszko of Greenville, N.C.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Doris Gifford, pianist, and Linda VanHarken, soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, David Burns, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza designed with a high neckline encircled with re-embroidered lace. The sheer yoke of the bodice was accented by miniature covered buttons and a panel of chantilly lace. Ruffled cuffs edged in lace lighted the full sleeves and the modified A-line skirt was designed with a pleated flounce and an overlay of scalloped chantilly lace.

She wore a formal length illusion veil edged in matching chantilly lace and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white baby carnations.

Mrs. Bradley Timerson of Newark was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Glen VanHarken of Newark and Kathleen Robertson of Virginia.

Tracey and Todd Salerno, niece and nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer. Chip Steidle of Philadelphia, Pa., was best man. Ushers were Mike and Steve Peszko, both brothers of the bridegroom.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Newark Central School and a 1974 graduate of East Carolina University. She will begin teaching kindergarten in Portsmouth, Va., next month.

MRS. RAYMOND PESZKO

The bridegroom attended East Carolina University. He is presently serving in the U.S. Navy stationed in Norfolk, Va. After a wedding trip to Maine, the couple will reside in Norfolk, Va.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at Zappia's Z on 88. Prenuptial events include a rehearsal dinner given by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peszko.

VFW Meeting

President Carrie West presided at the meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Thursday night.

She announced the local auxiliary has received several awards from the district meeting held recently in Washington.

The awards include: youth activities, quota in membership, rating sheet—100 percent in all programs, outstanding work in Veterans Hospitals, contributions over 110 percent to the Cancer Aid and Research, silver tray for greatest percent increase in membership in District Two.

Those attending from the local auxiliary were Margie Angstadt, Carrie West, Dorothy Golden, Merle Austin, Dora Jones, Margaret Joyner and Margaret Brown.

The group voted to participate in Greenville's bicentennial celebration and to carry all newspapers and cardboard boxes to the local stations for the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop.

A cash donation was sent for furnishings of the North Carolina cottage. A contribution was given to the Cancer Aid and Research Program in memory of J. A. Joyner, a past commander of the post.

It was reported that Margaret Brown is a surgical patient in the hospital.

Final plans were made for an outdoor supper with all post members and their families attending Thursday at 7 p.m.

Informal Party For Mrs. Brunson

GARDNERVILLE—Mrs. Keith Brunson was entertained at an informal party honoring her birthday Sunday at the home of Mrs. Alton B. Gardner. Mrs. Leroy Hardee was co-hostess.

The refreshment table was covered with an imported linen and lace cloth and centered with a floral arrangement and lighted candles.

Train Story Comes True

PARIS, France (WNS)—Novelist Francoise Chaumette, who writes best while traveling, has been busy completing a mystery story about a lady writer crossing Europe on a train. "All went well until I returned home and discovered that I had left the finished manuscript on the train," she reported. Two days of telephoning finally uncovered it in Italy.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I've read stories recently of young couples who have publicly announced they do not want children in their lives. This, of course, is their choice.

But the gutsiest stand I've heard so far is a young couple from Minnesota, Howard and Sylvia (last name withheld for their own safety) who said quite frankly, "We don't want a dog."

No one in this country publicly admits they want a dogless marriage. It's absolutely un-American.

I talked with Howard and Sylvia about their decision not to have a dog and some of their reasons.

"Quite frankly," said Sylvia. "We talked a lot about it before we got married and we asked one another, 'Is this a fit world to bring a dog into? Treeless and full of curbs. The rivers polluted, our air limited. . . and acute paper shortages.' And we answered ourselves, how could we raise a dog without paper?"

"Also, it's a matter of freedom," said Howard. "Some people say we're selfish, but we want to come and go as we like without always getting a dog sitter, or a kennel or chaining him to a clothesline. We have friends who are absolute prisoners by their pets. You can't take them to a motel, on a boat, at the beach, to the movies, picnic grounds and until some of the dog care centers improve, we elected to go dogless."

"It's not easy," said Sylvia sadly. "Especially when someone in the office announces they're expecting a puppy. But Howard and I have to be practical. They're downright expensive. There are vet fees, special food, collars, sweaters, leashes, obedience school, dentist bills, treats, toys and when he's older, he's bound to want to go to camp."

"I read where a camp in New York for dogs cost $140 a week. And of course there's grooming and booster shots. . . but the real reason," said Howard, "is Sylvia's health."

"Oh, please, Howard," said Sylvia. "We weren't going to mention that."

"I want the truth known, Sylvia just isn't up to a dog. She's extremely high-strung and nervous and the potty training, the exercising each day and letting the dog in and out a couple of hundred times would make her a nervous wreck."

"But won't you miss a little wet nose waking you up in the mornings? Little paws scratching at the door? Your Christmas card with his picture on it? Someone to carry on after you've gone?

"For crying out loud," said Howard. "We've got five children."

This new breed is hard to understand.

Aznavour Vows To Continue

PARIS, France (WNS)—On his 50th birthday, French singing star Charles Aznavour declared that he is not afraid of losing his feminine public to younger pop singers. "Girls in their teens go for young stars," he explained. "But as soon as women fall in love, they need love songs like mine. We veterans concentrate much more on the words and real feelings than do the inexperienced young shouters."

Aznavour said he'll never retire: "I come from Armenia where people live longer than anywhere else in the world," he said. "My grandmother lived to 96 and made me promise that I would sing until I am 120."

It Will Be Everybody's Fight

No doubt President Ford is trying to instill a little confidence in business and the public, by saying flat out that "inflation can be licked." Nevertheless it is an absolute truth that it can be.

Inflation and our other economic troubles have to be looked on as just another in the endless series of problems which have always plagued our nation and the world. As with any problems once we get to the roots of inflation, we can do something about it.

In the case of inflation it will take some self restraint on the part of all individuals and businesses in the nation to bring it under control. Of course, there will be some business giants in the nation and some groups who think they are too big and powerful to be called upon in the inflation fighting efforts. For them there will have to be a strong hand from government to restrain their greed.

There will also be forces outside our nation who think that they can feed the fires of inflation and reap huge profits from our country and other nations. They, too, can be dealt with if our government has the courage to move against them.

We live in a land which is still tremendously rich in natural resources. We have developed a technology which can, if it will, make the most efficient use of the resources that we have.

The time has come for all of us to stop wringing our hands and standing by wondering if either inflation or a crash will wipe us out. Every family, every business and every industry can find ways to operate more efficiently so that savings can be realized without badly affecting our standard of living.

The family that doesn't buy food more efficiently and use electricity and gasoline more efficiently will soon find the budget strained.

As for big business, it should be told right now that it will have to operate at a greater peak of efficiency, rather than to continue shooting prices upward to cover rising costs.

THIS AFTERNOON

Self-Interest Does Job

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A wise fellow who has broken his back and his heart on a lot of worthy causes over the years recently offered a simple philosophy for the successes he has enjoyed.

"You don't win public support and public dollars by appealing to the public's sympathy, or even their sense of right and wrong. It's enlightened self interest that does the job."

If you can convince people—show them in black and white—that a particular project will save them some money—better still make them some—then they'll go along, he has found.

If his maxim is true, then a lot of hungry people in North Carolina are going to get food stamps, for the state's Department of Human Resources is preparing to sell the food stamp program as a way for local governments and local businessmen not only to save some money—but to make some.

Letters will go out of Raleigh shortly to members of boards of county commissioners across the state spelling out how increasing the numbers of food stamp recipients in a county is just like landing a new industry.

Big Business

It means an influx of new dollars to be pumped into the local economy (at the grocery store), and more dollars for local tax coffers. And that is accomplished, the pitch will go, without local government having to invest a dime in new schools or roads or water and sewer facilities to support the "new industry."

The amount is not to be taken lightly, state food stamp experts can prove: every person added to the food stamps list can pump $26 of new money every month into the local economy.

Of course that is federal money, and comes in the form of tax dollars back into the local community. But the traditional view that if North Carolinians don't get it, somebody will, still holds.

Secretary David T. Flaherty, chief of Human Resources under which the food stamp program and social services (formerly welfare) operate, is expected to tell county commissioners that "feeding the hungry just makes good business sense" as he points to a potential $200 million increase in buying power for food across the state.

Right now, critics of the food stamp program argue that there are upwards of 800,000 North Carolinians who are hungry.

About 320,000 in the state are now receiving food stamps.

Flaherty says that depending on who is making the estimate (conservative or liberal) some 300,000 to 350,000 more are eligible. A statewide outreach effort will hopefully net an increase of 200,000 or so to a figure of 550,000 recipients by mid-summer of 1975.

Millions

That—using the average of $26 per month per person—is equivalent to a payroll of $14.3 million monthly in the state. For local governments charging the one-cent local tax on food it means $1.7 million per year in additional tax income.

Thus, a chart accompanying that letter to county commissioners will attempt to give a breakout for each county and municipality on just what they can expect to gain.

Even so, there are some opponents to the outreach effort and the attempt to sell food stamps as a money-maker to local communities. Some experts are fearful that the federal government may fold, or cut back, on its investment in food stamps, leaving the state or local units to pick up the tab.

Additionally, there are those who have been lobbying for repeal of the food tax statewide, and they argue that putting emphasis on income from food stamps for local governments will simply make it harder in the 1975 General Assembly to cut that source out completely.

Nonetheless, state officials believe they can convince a lot of people to support food stamps from a business-sense viewpoint when taxpayers see just what it can mean to the local economy.

As top social service officials put it: "We would break our backs in North Carolina to attract an industry with nearly a $200 million payroll. Here we have it with no investment."

"But we may have a solution! Rockefeller's lending us his credit cards!"

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Nixon Forced Self Out

Out in Albuquerque, N.M., the other evening, I happened to be addressing the annual banquet of the National Legislative Conference. It had been a long evening, made even longer by Senator Montoya's brief welcome, and it was perhaps a mistake for a speaker to talk about Mr. Nixon at all.

But this was the top of the news, and I began by remarking the tragedy of a President who had resigned his office because of the certainty of impeachment and the probability of conviction.

"Horse manure!" cried a gentleman on a deck of the speakers' platform. "The press drove him out!"

"Nonsense!" I replied. "The gentleman reported I persevered, and the conference adjourned. But it occurs to me that, while

"horse manure!" is a sufficiently definitive accusation, "Nonsense!" is hardly a comprehensive reply. The gentleman's charge merits a more measured answer.

The charge is widely attested in my mail. A gentleman in New Orleans complains of the "dirty and vicious" conduct of the press. A gentleman in Fayette, Mo., identifies himself as one of "many millions of Americans who firmly believe the American press drove Nixon out of office." A gentleman in Vienna, Va., says "the news media must share the major responsibility in this tragic happening."

The INSIDE REPORT

The Suicidal Democrats

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—The menace posed to the Democratic party in the uproarious meeting of its Charter Commission in Kansas City last weekend was epitomized in the strange decision of Joe Crangle, state chairman of New York, to walk out on the heels of bolting black members.

Crangle, a party professional from Buffalo, N.Y., is no radical and scarcely a reformer. But like so many other prominent leaders, he desperately fears offending the party's black minority. When party leaders like Crangle shy from confrontation, operatives of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE) are isolated—labelled villainous reactionaries thwarting legitimate minority aspirations.

Labor has had just about enough of that, as witness this private ultimatum in Washington by COPE director Al Barkan to Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio: if you and the other party leaders will not fight to prevent recurrence of the disaster of 1972, organized labor will not man the barricades alone; instead, we will cut formal ties with the party.

That would propel the Democratic party lurching leftward precisely at the moment President Ford is wisely trying to position his party in the center. It would mean the dreaded midterm party convention at Kansas City in December would be less like the 1968 Chicago bloodbath than the 1972 Miami Beach festival of the left.

A repeat of Miami Beach is precisely what a small party faction on the left wants. Willie Brown, the black California state assemblyman who led the walkout in Kansas City, made clear that he liked Miami Beach where his notorious hazing was a hit on national television.

Behind the walkout in Kansas City last weekend was an effort to retain at least a de facto quota system into the future. This intent had been obscured by skillful maneuvering for party unity by Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss, tirelessly working to avoid confrontations (much to Barkan's displeasure). But by the time of last week's meeting, COPE and other moderate elements of the party were insisting on removing from the proposed party charter implications of a quota system and European-style centralized party control—even if this means confrontation.

There has been wide misunderstanding about what was really involved at Kansas City. At no time was there any attempt to close party doors to women, blacks or other minorities or (as has been widely reported) to reinstitute the discredited unit rule for conventions.

What's more, the moderate caucus at Kansas City was not dictated to by Barkan's COPE operatives. In charge were three sensible and widely respected moderates:

Rep. Thomas Foley of Washington, Rep. James O'Hara of Michigan and state chairman Don Fowler of South Carolina (helped by Strauss's key aides).

But even granting that moderate aims were reasonable and moderate leadership broad-based, could not turmoil have been avoided by simply ignoring the necessity of cleaning up the party charter? "Sure," replies one of the moderate leaders, but that's like saying you shouldn't criticize your son's table manners because he might kick over the table."

There is not much question that Willie Brown, his political career sagging after losing out for the speakership of the California Assembly, fully intended to kick over the table. It is not surprising that eight of the nine other black members followed Brown, some reluctantly. Far more surprising, enough party leaders followed to break up the commission meeting. The reason was obvious: courting the black vote.

"We just can't be doing anything in this party to antagonize blacks," one white commission member told us. The commission chairman, Duke University

Other Editors Say Not Worth Reading?

(Goldboro News-Argus) Reporter Daniel C. Hoover, writing in the Raleigh News and Observer, reveals that a $38,270 study of the North Carolina Ports operations was ignored for months during a period in which administration officials were pressuring for the resignation of the ports director.

The administration claimed the ports had not been properly managed.

One would have thought that at a time when administration people new to their own jobs were about to force out a veteran head of the ports operations, the study report would have been of particular interest to them.

But apparently it wasn't. Department of Transportation Secretary Bruce Lenz was quoted by the Raleigh paper as saying: "I never read it. I never had time to sit down and read the darn thing."

This cannot help but be disconcerting since back in the winter of 1973 Mr. Lenz's office had time to sit down and ask the Ports Authority to authorize money for the "darn" study to be made.

One is moved to suspect, at worst, that the results of the study were not what Mr. Lenz's office had anticipated so the report was conveniently ignored.

At best, one can but conclude that we have state officials who feel a study of ports operations is important enough to spend $38,270 of taxpayers' money on, but not important enough to bother reading.

From reading the News and Observer account, we were left to conclude that about the only person who has bothered to read the report, other than those who prepared it, has been reporter Daniel C. Hoover.

If nothing else, the report has provided the public with an interesting and enlightening news story which perhaps reveals more about our present state government than about our ports.

Public Forum

The editor: George Platts from Ormond Beach, Florida stated:

"The demise of leadership in America dates back nearly 40 years to the time when Franklin Roosevelt stumbled upon the concept that he could be President forever (almost) by having Government confer economic benefits upon the people. The sinister greed that lies beneath the surface in all of us came out in the open and, from that time on, we voted for whatever charlatans promised us the most. Change will come when and only when, men of character, intelligence, charisma and courage rise up to tell us the truth about ourselves. We may have to wait a long time."

America should pray that Gerald Ford is such a man. Perhaps now the time has come... are we ready to listen?

Higher Auto Prices

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Car buyers will be paying up to 14.5 per cent more for a new car from General Motors this fall, including a 10.3 per cent boost in the price of the Chevrolet Impala, the nation's best-selling car.

And according to a 1975 model base price list released Monday, GM's three new sporty subcompacts will list for about $4,000 each.

Of the 176 models in GM's lineup this fall, only two will list for under $3,000. Both are Vegas.

GM's lowest-priced car, the two-door Vega sedan, is going up $295 or 11.8 per cent to $2,799. The most expensive GM car, the Cadillac Fleetwood four-door limousine, will cost $14,570 this fall, up $1,316 or 9.9 per cent.

The base price list gives the manufacturer's suggested retail price for each model, not including options, shipping charges or state and local taxes.

Last week GM said the price increase on its equipped 1975 models would average $416 or 8.2 per cent. That figure included an average $70 rollback from a price increase announced the week before and took into account popular options ordered with each model.

GM said options are going up an average 2.8 per cent in price across the line.

GM, the auto industry's price leader, is the first car maker to disclose 1975 base prices for each model. Its competitors, Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors, are expected to raise prices in line with those set by GM.

According to the base price list, GM cars will be going up between 3 and 14.5 per cent, with the new compacts reflecting the largest increases. Most models will be going up eight to 12 per cent.

For example, the lowest-priced compact Chevrolet Nova is going up $407 or 14.5 per cent.

Strength For Today

ABSALOM
The description of Absalom in the Bible is this: "From the sole of his foot even to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him."

But Absalom's career showed how superficial and misleading judgments based on externals can be, for Absalom's character did indeed have many grave blemishes. Perhaps some of these were indirectly fostered by the constant indulgence with which the brilliant young prince was treated by his adoring father, King David. In any event, the first time he was crossed, Absalom did not hesitate to set in motion a plot to bring about his father's overthrow.

But the followers of the old king were by no means as indulgent with the young man as his father had been. They scattered his forces in battle and forced him to flee through the woods on his mule. When his long, flowing hair caught in a tree and left him hanging, his arch-enemy Joab ran him through with a spear. Often in history this has been the destiny of brilliant young people who have everything except character.

Doubtful Over 'Floating Notes'

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The performance last week of the corporate bond market's newest investment vehicle—notes with floating interest rates—left Wall Street debating whether they are really here to stay.

Floating notes brought to market last week by The New York Bank for Savings, Mellon National Corp. of Pittsburgh and Crocker National Corp. each nearly sold out.

But in all three cases, the size of the offerings had to be reduced from originally planned levels. The issuers blamed "market conditions," but a spokesman for a leading bond underwriting house suggested that the small investor—the target of the floating rate notes—may be signaling he is not as willing as many believed to withdraw all his savings and lend them to corporate floating bond issues.

The notes are sold in $1,000 denominations to give investors access to high-yield, short-term issues.

"I think there is a point where the bond market can be saturated with these floating notes," the underwriter's spokesman said. "The source for almost all the money is individual savings accounts. When people stop raiding their savings banks, where will the money for these bonds come from?"

More optimistic was a spokesman for Philadelphia National Corp., a bank holding company which plans to offer a $50 million floating rate note around mid-September.

"Last week's offerings were more than the market could support. But that doesn't mean the floating rate vehicle itself is wrong," he said. The idea of tying, or "indexing" the interest rates of a bond to other inflation-sensitive money rates—in particular, short-term Treasury bills—is here to stay until inflation is genuinely under control.

Meanwhile, in addition to reductions in the offerings, issuers also were pushed into raising the initial interest rates on their notes.

Crocker National Corp. had already increased their rate to 10 per cent last Aug. 5 and Mellon National Corp. and Continental Illinois Corp. last week increased their interest to 10 per cent from the previously planned 9.75 per cent. After two years, the interest floats, one percentage point above the yield on three-month treasury bills.

Market conditions again were cited for the moves. One bond analyst added the increases interest rates on last week's floating notes were a direct response to the sudden rise to 9.80 per cent in short-term Treasury notes at their latest auction last Monday.

But a spokesman for one of Wall Street's biggest bond underwriters expressed doubts that floating rate notes would be used extensively as a capital raising vehicle by industrial borrowers. The spokesman said underwriters are, and will continue to be leery of backing floating issues offered by any companies except those generally in the business of borrowing and lending money in large sums.

Policemen Plead Guilty

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Five Charlotte policemen pleaded guilty Monday in connection with a series of robberies. Judge Sam Ervin III delayed sentencing until Sept. 5.

After receiving the pleas, Judge Ervin ordered an investigation on each defendant. As news story since Hayes-Tilden in 1876. Does the gentleman speak of horse manure? In Watergate we found Augean stables.

Did the press hound Mr. Nixon out of office? I deny it absolutely. It was not the press that burglarized the Democratic national headquarters. It was not the press that laundered dirty money through Mexican banks. It was not the press that covered up the involvement of top officials of the re-election committee.

The press did not hire a squalid trickster and set him to writing anonymous letters. The press had no part in preparing an "enemies list"—a list to be used in harassing the press. It was no anchorman who sought to manipulate the CIA. No editors extorted illegal campaign contributions. The Washington Post did not commandeer public funds to pay for private shuffboards. CBS did not put the FBI on Daniel Schorr. The media were not involved in erasing tapes and falsifying transcripts.

These acts were the responsibility of the President and the President's men. In the beginning, the press—chiefly Bernstein and Woodward—exposed some of these acts; but as the story gained momentum, the role of the press was largely to report the evidence exposed by the courts and by Congress. When the dam finally broke on August 5, the President's resignation was impelled not by the press, but by a flood of denunciations from his disillusioned supporters on the Hill.

Yes, the press is powerful; and yes, the press here and there has abused its power. But I will stand by "non-sense!" as a fair description of the charge that such journalistic stars as Bernstein and Woodward drove Mr. Nixon from his office. The fault was not in these stars, but in himself.

Egypt Fortifies Strip Of Sinai Against Attack

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Egyptian army has built an extensive system of fortifications to shield its strip of Sinai desert from possible Israeli attack, U.S. intelligence sources report.

The Israelis also have put in various barriers, but they appear less elaborate than the Egyptian works, the sources said.

Reports discussing defensive works on both sides in the disputed Sinai came through U.S. intelligence as tensions rose in the Middle East, sparked in part by an Israeli mobilization drill.

Also contributing to the tension was an incident last week in which an Egyptian SA7 anti-aircraft missile was fired at an Israeli F4 phantom jet, U.S. sources said. The Israeli plane, evidently was checking on Egyptian army maneuvers. It had been recovered.

Girl Students Killed In Crash

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Two girl students at Independence High School in suburban Charlotte were killed and two were injured Monday when their car slammed into a utility pole minutes after they had finished the first day of school.

A highway patrolman identified the dead as Katherine Ungerbuehler, 16, and Camille Alene Newlon, 15. Miss Newlon was engaged to be married Oct. 19 to Jerry L. Byrd of Charlotte, who is in the Army and is stationed at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

Katherine Bryant, 16, was treated at a hospital and released. Joyce Skibbee, also 16, was listed in satisfactory condition with a back injury.

The lowest-priced Chevrolet Impala, the No. 1 seller in the country, will cost $4,561 this fall, a $426 or 10.3 per cent increase. Similarly, the full-size Pontiac Catalina, will be up $435 or 10.4 per cent to $4,625.

Chevrolet's new sporty subcompact Monza will list for $3,966, $1,000 more than the Vega and $300 more than the sporty compact Camaro, which the Monza resembles in a smaller package. The 8-cylinder Camaro will cost $3,698, up $332 or 9.9 per cent.

In addition to deciding whether counties may opt to legalize parimutuel betting on horse races, Oklahomans will also select candidates for governor, one Senate seat, the state's six House seats and other state offices.

In his bid to become the state's first two-term governor, Gov. David Hall faces opposition in the Democratic primary from Rep. Clem McSpadden, 48, a Chelsea rancher, and state Rep. David Boren, 33, of Seminole.

Political observers predict McSpadden will lead the three-man race, with Hall and Boren fighting it out for second place and a spot in a Sept. 17 runoff primary.

McSpadden gave up his 2nd Congressional District seat to make the run against Hall and Boren.

The Republican gubernatorial primary matches state Sen. Jim Inhofe of Tulsa and former state Sen. Denzil Garrison of Bartlesville in what is expected to be a close race.

Sen. Henry L. Bellmon of Billings has only taken opposition in the GOP primary. Former Congressman Ed Edmondson and Corporation Commission Chairman Charles Nesbitt seek the Democratic nomination.

In Alaska, voters will decide for the third time since statehood in 1959 on an initiative proposing that the capital be moved from Juneau to a more centralized location in the sprawling state. The two previous proposals were rejected.

Balloting on the relocation issue figures to be tight, as is a three-way battle for the Republican gubernatorial nomination between Naknek fisherman Jay Hammond and two former governors, Walter J. Hickel and Keith Miller.

In the Democratic primary, Gov. William A. Egan is expected to win easily over Don Wright of Anchorage.

State Sens. C. R. Lewis and Terry Miller were locked in an apparent narrow duel for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate. Incumbent Mike Gravel faces the challenge of Anchorage attorney Gene Guess and Dick Greuel, a Fairbanks insurance salesman, on the Democratic side.

State Sens. C. R. Lewis and Terry Miller were locked in an apparent narrow duel for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate. Incumbent Mike Gravel faces the challenge of Anchorage attorney Gene Guess and Dick Greuel, a Fairbanks insurance salesman, on the Democratic side.

Rep. Don Young was unopposed in the Republican primary for the state's lone seat in the House, while former Atty. Gen. John Havelock and state Sen. Willie Hensley of Kotzebue battled on the Democratic side.

A total of 162,000 persons are eligible to vote.

Bullets Enter 2nd Year

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

JAMESVILLE—This past year, Jamesville High School fielded the first football team in the school's history. As in any program like it, there were nightmares and bright spots.

This year, with a little more experience, things may be a little brighter, but with any program in its second year—there won't be much.

Ten lettermen return from last year's team, which lost only three starters off the offensive unit and four off the defense. In most cases, the starting unit had boys going both ways.

"It's kind of hard to tell right now exactly how many we'll have on the team," Coach Link Page said. "We've got a lot of kids still working who come one day and miss the next. We look for about 25 by the time we get back into school and everything settles down."

With as many starters back, Page is hopeful about the first unit, but admits that what little depth he will have will be relatively inexperienced.

"Our line on offense is intact, but we do look for one newcomer to beat out one of the veterans the way things are going now. Our quarterback is also returning, and this will help us. We also will have two people in the backfield who played other positions last year."

Page feels that the Bullets have good size in the offensive line, but that the team lacks quickness. "This is going to hurt us," he added. "We're also fundamentally weak. Last year, we tried to get the program underway, and we've having to work quite a bit on this this fall. We need to learn to execute."

The tackle positions will probably go to Eric Martin and either Billy Brown, a veteran, or Early James, a rookie. The guards look to be Ronnie Padgett and Aaron Lacy. Ramsey Simmons returns at center.

"We have a good passer," Page said of the quarterback, Curt Ange, who returns, giving that position good experience. "But the receivers haven't shown up to par as yet."

Split end Jerry Ange, a veteran, was late coming out and hasn't rounded into form as yet. "He's a good receiver, but he's got to get back into the swing of things first," the coach said. A rookie will probably get the wide receiver spot, either Clifton Hardison, Glenn Ellis, or Robbie Hardison. Rufus Simmons, a good blocker, who can catch the ball, is the tight end.

Joining Ange in the backfield to take care of the running game are two men who will be new to their positions. "We're going to try and keep our running game simple," Page said. "Our program still isn't that far advanced, as to try and put in a lot of fancy, razzle-dazzle stuff."

We'll just have to try and run straight ahead with simple blocking assignments."

Capsule Report

Outlook—In only their second year of football, Jamesville's Bullets return 10 lettermen. They have some experience in their first team players, but little in the second line. They return their quarterback, however, and this may help. Also playing against a few junior varsity teams will aid. A non-eligible member of the Tobacco Belt Conference, they are building toward the future.

Offense: Slot-1
Defense: Four-four.
Schedule:—August 30, Aurora; Sept. 13 South Edgemore; Sept. 20, Creswell; Sept. 27, Pantego; Oct. 4, Belhaven; Oct. 11, Oak City; Oct. 18, at Columbia; Oct. 25, at Bath; Oct. 31, at Robersonville JV.

Eric Davis, who was the wingback last year, will move into the tailback position. "He's got good moves and good speed and he can catch the ball too," Page said. The fullback will be Mitchell Barber, a converted guard. "He'll do some carrying of the ball, but he's a good blocker too."

On defense, there are some question marks, mainly in what kind of defense the Bullets will have. "We've worked up a four-four, but until we get some sort of idea of who's going to be out we really haven't been able to settle it. We hope to get it done this week. It'll really depend on the personnel we have."

At the tackle positions will probably be Eric Martin and David Marriner, a rookie. Chester Davis and Rufus Simmons will be the ends.

Behind the line will be Barber, Byron Davis, Padgett and either Brown or James.

"Our secondary right now looks to be an all rookie one," Page said. It will probably include Eric Davis, Jerry Ange and either Randy Simmons or Glenn Ellis.

"Overall, I'd have to say we're still in a learning process," Page said. "We've got a lot of teaching to do; we've had to start from the basic."

The Bullets are a provisional member of the Tobacco Belt Conference this year, but are not eligible for the title, nor do the games they play against Conference teams count.

"By next year, since we have so many underclassmen, about two-thirds of our team could be seasoned. And by then, we might be ready to be a true member of the conference with winning potential."

Defensive Substitute Backfires On Reds; Jim Perry Claims 14th

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Junior Kennedy was a defensive replacement ... sort of.

The young Cincinnati second baseman replaced Dan Driesen in the eighth inning Monday night and promptly made the play — the bad one — that gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 7-6 victory over the Reds.

The Phils loaded the bases on two singles, a sacrifice and an intentional walk, then Dave Cash punched a grounder to Kennedy's left side. The 24-year-old second baseman fielded the ball, appeared to glance toward first base for an instant, then threw home — late and wild.

The ball sailed about 10 feet wide of the plate. Mike Anderson scored the tying run on what was ruled a fielder's choice and a run batted in for Cash. And Del Unser continued home on the throwing error. It proved to be the winning run when the Reds got one back in the ninth.

In other National League games, New York beat Houston 5-4 and Atlanta defeated Montreal 3-2. In the American League, Milwaukee topped Oakland 2-1, Cleveland downed Kansas City 4-1, Minnesota nipped New York 7-6 and Detroit tamed California 6-2.

The lost dropped secondplace Cincinnati three games behind Los Angeles in the National League West. Third-place Philadelphia ended a three-game losing streak and pulled within 2½ of first-place Pittsburgh in the East.

Mets 5, Astros 4
Felix Millan squeezed home the tying run with a perfect bunt single, then Rusty Staub singled home the winner that carried New York past Houston.

Braves 3, Astros 2
Buzz Capra held Montreal scoreless for eight innings and Dusty Baker hit a home run, leading the Braves over Montréal. Capra struck out eight and allowed only three hits until the ninth, when the Expos broke his shutout bid on singles by Ron Fairly, Mike Jorgensen and Jim Northrup. Max Leon relieved Capra and Jorgensen scored Montreal's second run as Bob Bailey hit into a double play.

Brewers 2, A's 1
Billy Champion and Tom Murphy combined on a six-hitter for Milwaukee. Champion gave up only four hits before leaving after Joe Rudi singled in the seventh inning. Murphy hit Gene Tenace with a pitch and Jesus Alou's single scored Rudi but Dick Green ended the inning by grounding into a double play.

Indians 4, Royals 1
Jim Perry cooled off Kansas City on five hits for his 14th victory, only two fewer than brother Gaylord. Sacrifice flies by Rusty Torres in the third inning and Frank Duffy in the fifth off Paul Splittorff gave Perry the runs he needed.

Twins 7, Yankees 6
Rod Carew's two-run, bases-loaded single capped a three-run sixth inning and the Twins held on to snap New York's five-game winning streak.

Tigers 6, Angels 2
Bill Freehan, Ed Brinkman and Ron LeFlore smashed home runs while Lerrin LaGrone scattered 10 hits, including a homer by Lee Stanton of the losers.

Brown Unhappy With Win

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The undefeated Cincinnati Bengals have always been ahead after the game was over this pre-season, but rarely while it's been going on. And their coach, Paul Brown, doesn't like what's happening. "We have nothing to be proud of," Brown said Monday night after a late-game revival carried the Bengals to a 27-14 victory over the Detroit Lions. "If we keep getting behind like this, we're not going to escape with our lives."

Elsewhere in the National Football League, the Atlanta Falcons beat the Houston Oilers 10-6 and the Chicago Bears downed the Baltimore Colts 20-16.

Brown criticized the Bengals for their conditioning, saying "a lot of players are not in shape to go the whole ball game."

But they seem to be able to go a little farther than the opposition, pulling victory from defeat late in all four of their pre-season games, including last week's overtime thriller against Atlanta.

The Bengals flexed their fourth-quarter muscles for 14 points, erasing a 14-13 deficit with 4:24 left in the game on a seven-yard scoring pass from quarterback Ken Anderson to fullback Doug Dressler. Less than 2½ minutes later, defensive back Bernard Jackson raced 52 yards on a fumble recovery to ice the Bengals' 13th straight home victory party. Brown wasn't the only winning coach who wasn't pleased with just a winning performance.

"When the chips were down, we didn't capitalize on our chances," said Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin after the Oilers outlasted the Oilers on Bob Lee's 17-yard touchdown strike to Louis Neal. "Our execution was bad but it will improve next week."

Bucs Open Grid Drills

East Carolina University head football coach Pat Dye praised Monday's first full-scale Pirate workouts in a manner common to football coaches at this point in the season.

"They looked good in shorts," said Dye. "And I can see a big improvement over spring practice. But we still have a long way to go."

Dye noted that the Pirates, who participated in two workouts, were showing a lot of enthusiasm, which was helped probably by the weather.

"We had a cool afternoon, which was nice," said Dye. "Our kids showed a lot of enthusiasm today."

Dye noted that Mike Weaver threw well at times at quarterback and that running backs Don Schink and Bobby Myrick were impressive at times. The only casualty the Pirates suffered was Bod Brandon, a defensive tackle who failed to pass the team physical.

The inference is that Van Brocklin's troops can expect to do some heavy scrimmaging before next weekend. And they won't be alone.

"Get ready for some more work, men," Houston Coach Sid Gillman informed his players. "That's the only way to do it. We've just had one week together and we have to tie some things together."

Coach Abe Gibron came closer to fitting the mold of a coach flushed with the thrill of victory.

"I thought everybody on our team played well. They were really hustling," Gibron said after the Bears used a razzle-dazzle play to wipe out the Colts.

A 30-yard pass from tight end Bob Parsons to wide receiver Charley Wade, after Parsons had received a lateral from quarterback Joe Barnes, set up Carl Garrett's one-yard game-winning touchdown, giving the Bears their first pre-season triumph.

Tourney Field Drops To Six

The Bank of North Carolina from Farmville and the Little Sluggers of Greenville remained in the winners' bracket of the Greenville Invitational Softball Tournament last night, as six more teams were eliminated, leaving a total of eight.

Tonight, weather permitting, the play was to continue with six more games, cutting the field down to three. The tournament would then wind up with one more night of action.

Shirley's defeated Grace Free Will Baptist in the opening losers' bracket game, 10-7. Grace got three in the second, two in the third, one in the fourth, and four more in the sixth. All seven of the Grace runs came in the seventh as they put on a rally that fell three short.

Northside Seafood nipped Parker's Barbecue, 2-1, in the second game. Northside got one each in the first and third, while the lone Parker's run came over in the fourth.

Kentucky Fried Chicken then ousted Northside, 10-3, in the next game. Northside picked up two in the first and another in the second, but it was in vain as KFC pushed in three in the fifth and then added five more in the second to wrap it up. They added two more in the fifth.

Shirley's downed Diamond Jim's, 4-2, in another game. Diamond Jim's got one in the first, then added another in the sixth. But Shirley's came up with two in their half of the sixth, then pushed over two more in the seventh to win it.

RNC rolled to a 24-3 win over Daniels. Daniels got two in the second and one in the third, but it was already out of reach. RCN had scored four in the first, two in the second, two more in the third, and two in the fourth. They added five more in the fifth, and had pushed in nine more in the sixth before the game ended.

Marco Hi-Fi gained a 10-2 win over First Free Will Baptist. Marco pushed over four in the first, then came back with one in the second. They got two in the fifth on Swift's homer, and added three more in the sixth. First Free Will got two in the second.

In the winner's bracket, BNC took a 14-3 win over University Seafood. BNC pushed in six runs in the first inning to take the lead for good. They added one each in the second and third, and another in the sixth. They closed out with five more in the seventh. University got one in the third and two in the fourth.

The Little Sluggers closed out the evening with an 11-3 win over Lancaster's. The Sluggers got four in the first, with Kuykendall homering. They added four more in the third, with a homer by Seymour and another by Waters. One came in the fourth on Fleming's round-tripper, while the final two came in the sixth. All three Lancaster runs came in the sixth.

New York area businessmen Ozzie and Daniel Silna, Donald Schupak and Harry Weltman are the new owners of the Carolina team in the American Basketball Association.

FROM WARNER BROS.

He sat.
 "Now tell him to open his mouth," Dr. Dan urged Natty Bo.
 "Open your mouth," Natty Bo ordered.
 "No!" came the boy's emphatic reply.
 This shocked Natty Bo.
 "He said 'NO!'" Natty Bo added, incredulously, as he turned toward his daddy.
 For Natty Bo apparently felt every command in a doctor's office should be performed, uncritically.
 My purpose in citing this early cooperation between a doctor and his son (aged only 2 years and 10 months), is to show you fathers how to brainwash your children into following in your own business or professional footsteps.
 Many talented parents will groan at the open resistance of their college son to join his dad in a typical "Father & Son" partnership after the younger man leaves college.
 "Dr. Crane," such fathers often protest to me, "my boy seems to look upon ANY other job in life with far more favor than to come into a partnership with me!"
 Such sons usually defend their attitude by saying they don't want to be accused of riding their dad's coattails to success.
 Solve this problem early by inflating the ego of the son with reference to the dad's trade or profession! For we like what makes us feel important!
 Maybe Natty Bo will not select dentistry as a career, even so, but his daddy has certainly started him on an early fondness for that profession.
 Dr. Dan has 2 deft Dental Assistants, but Natty Bo even relishes helping them clean up the operatory rooms, too, so he feels he "belongs" to the dental "team" already!

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 28, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is fine for making long-range plans and for being able to engineer others into doing what can be of greatest service to you. Later some upsets arise which could cause a change in plans.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can get many jobs done today in a conscientious and efficient way, but don't permit strange action on the part of an associate.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A new idea you have can be exactly what is needed to put new life into your operations and have more success. Take it easy tonight.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure to carry through with promises you have made. Although you are being pressured show mate you are still loyal and devoted.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) During the morning you can come to a fine agreement with associates. Steer clear of an outsider who tries to mix in the day.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle routines early in the day. Later make sure you do not get into a financial bind. Much care in motion is necessary at this time.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The morning can be pleasant but later some confusing conditions could arise, so be alert. Don't be sarcastic with others. Be calm.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Do whatever family desires early in the day. You may think distance pastures are greener, but not for you. Keep temper in control.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can now easily obtain the information you need. Assist a friend in need. Don't be late in keeping an appointment. Be wise.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Getting money matters under control is fine, but don't go off on a spree later and spoil it all. Avoid one who is a spendthrift.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can go after your finest aims now in a positive fashion and gain them. Avoid one who wants to waste your time. Be logical.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make plans for the future early in the day and take the initial steps necessary to make them a success. Avoid an irate associate.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Morning is the best time to talk with an associate since other things may come up later to prevent you from doing so. Relax tonight.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she should be given a fine education since the mind is very receptive and when big problems arise upon maturity, your progeny will know how to handle them. Teach to understand the needs of allies early. Religious training will help prevent this becoming a materialistic kind of existence.
 "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Corn production is off 12 per cent from 1973 levels and soybeans 16 per cent below last year. USDA forecasters put old crop supplies of corn at the lowest levels in more than 26 years (as of October 1). That is little more than enough to meet the needs for three weeks.
 The demand for feed grains in the United States, plus a strong demand from foreign countries, resulted in the use of 5.9 billion bushels of corn in 1973-74. The August 1 forecast by USDA estimates the 1974 crop at just over 4.9 billion bushels. With more than 1 billion bushels

Lindbergh Kidnap Case Retold

Editor's Note: Samuel G. Blackman, former General News Editor of The Associated Press, covered the Lindbergh kidnap case when he was an AP reporter. Blackman, now retired, tells the story of that tragedy.

By SAMUEL G. BLACKMAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Forty-two years have passed since Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's son, 19-month-old Charles Jr., was kidnaped from the Lindberghs' Soudland mountain home in Hopewell, N.J.
Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a 36-year-old Bronx carpenter, died in New Jersey's electric chair for the child's murder. But the then-governor, the late Harold G. Hoffman, stirred wide controversy by expressing doubt even on the eve of the execution and many years later that Hauptmann committed the crime — or could have done it alone.

I covered the kidnaping that blustery night of March 1, 1932, and the execution of Hauptmann the night of April 3, 1936. The case against him was largely one of circumstantial evidence and Hauptmann continued to insist he was innocent. In the intervening years there has never been a shred of evidence to alter the verdict that Hauptmann acted alone.

The baby, first son of the famous flier and the former Anne Morrow, had been tucked early in the evening into his crib because he was suffering from a cold. Several hours later, nursemaid Betty Gow visited the nursery on the second floor and found the baby missing.

Lindbergh, reading in the downstairs library, searched the nursery in vain.
"Anne, they have stolen our baby," he testified later that he told his wife.

He notified the state police, took a rifle from a closet and began a search of the estate. He was accompanied by three state troopers when I came across him.

"I'm Col. Lindbergh," he said, introducing himself. "I can't say anything now."

With flashlights blinking, he and two troopers continued the search. One stayed behind and related what was then known — Miss Gow had found the crib empty, and a $50,000 ransom note, a wooden ladder and a chisel had been found.

Much of the case against Hauptmann turned on this ransom note (and on later ones) and on the ladder. The original note, crudely and ungrammatically written, demanded "25,000$ in 20$ bills 15,000$ in 10$ bills and 10,000$ in 5$ bills." The note said: "After 2-4 days we will inform you where to deliver the money."

The "signature" on the note, and promised on future ones, was two overlapping circles with three square holes.

Dr. John F. Condon, a Bronx schoolteacher, was named intermediary and became famous as "Jafsie" (from his initials J.F.C.).

On the night of April 2, 1921, Condon paid the $50,000 to a man who from a hedge in a Bronx cemetery yelled, "hey, doctor" and again, "hey, doctor, over here." In return Condon got a note which said, "The boy is on the Boad Nelly — you will find the Boad (c) between Horseneck Beach and Gay Head near Elizabeth Island," presumably the waters off Martha's Vineyard, Mass.

Lindbergh searched there and in many other places in vain. For two months by land, sea and air he pursued flimsy clues and phantom ships and then learned when he returned May 12 from a search of the Virginia Capes that the child's body had been found in a shallow grave five miles from the Lindbergh home.

The ransom money led to Hauptmann's arrest. The government had distributed 250,000 circulars giving the serial numbers of the notes — $35,000 in gold certificates, $15,000 in other paper currency.

On April 5, 1933, President Roosevelt, in a measure born of the depression, ordered that all persons possessing more than $100 of gold certificates exchange them by May 1 for other currency at banks of the Federal Reserve System. On a central map at state police headquarters in Trenton, N.J., Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, the superintendent, stuck a locator pin where each note was found. Most of them were in the Bronx.

It was there that Walter Lyle, a gas station attendant, received a $10 gold note on September 15, 1934, and wrote on it the license number of the car whose driver bought five gallons of gas. Hauptmann was arrested four days later. He had a $20 gold note on his person and in his garage they found $14,600 more.

Hauptmann's explanation was that the money had been given him in a shoe box by a friend and business partner, Isidor Fisch, when Fisch left for Germany. He died there before Hauptmann was arrested.

When this money was offered in evidence in the trial, Atty. Gen. David T. Wilentz, who prosecuted the case, asked a witness, Frank J. Wilson, special agent in charge of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Service:

"So far as you know, Mr. Wilson, since the indictment of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for murder has there been one ransom bill turned up?"

"No sir," Wilson replied. He conceded that all the ransom gold notes were never detected, saying that "several billions" of dollars worth of gold certificates had been exchanged and it had been impossible to detect every one.

Wilentz could not be reached Monday, but he has told me in many interviews that nothing has ever been developed to change any of the testimony. In an interview on the 40th anniversary of the kidnaping he said: "Not one thing that I know of has developed since the trial that could cast doubt on the positive proof that the defendant wrote the ransom notes; nothing has developed to disprove that he hid the ransom money in his garage or that lumber from his attic was used in the construction of the ladder."

Seven handwriting experts for the state compared the handwriting on the ransom notes with Hauptmann's handwriting and testified that Hauptmann wrote them all.

Arthur Koehler, a wood technologist of the United States Forest Products Laboratory of Madison, Wis., one of the state's star witnesses, traced the wood in the kidnap ladder from a mill in McCormick, S.C., to boards from Hauptmann's attic.

Koehler said a ladder rail had once been part of a floor board in the attic. Koehler said he laid the board on a joist in the attic and found the nail holes in the board matched those in the joist.

Koehler said that knives with plane lumber at a mill often leave tell-tale markings on the wood. He said he detected a tiny groove which he knew had been made by a knife of a certain type. He spent 18 months checking 1,598 planing mills to trace the origin of the wood.

One with markings spaced like those on the ladder rail led to the South Carolina firm. Koehler said. He traced 45 carloads of lumber from the mill to 25 firms and in November 1933, — 10 months before Hauptmann's arrest — found a lumber company in the Bronx which had lumber with markings matching those on the ladder rail. Hauptmann had bought $10 worth of lumber there in 1931.

Wilentz argued the ladder broke as Hauptmann was leaving the nursery "and down he went with this child." He said the child died instantly and then said of Hauptmann: "Knowing the child was dead ... he yanked and ripped that sleeping garment of that child off his body ... he didn't need the child ... he needed the sleeping garment ... some few miles away he scooped up a hastily improvised and shallow grave and put this child in it face downwards."

Condon received the sleeping garment in the mail as proof that he was dealing with the right man.

Hoffman, who had granted Hauptmann one 30-day reprieve the day before he was scheduled to die, said he shared "with hundreds of thousands of our people the doubt as to the value of the evidence that placed him in the Lindbergh nursery on the night of the crime ... I do doubt that this crime could have been committed by one man ..."

Hauptmann's appeal from the death sentence was carried to New Jersey's highest court which said: "Our conclusion is that the verdict is not only not contrary to the evidence but one to which the evidence inescapably led."

Toys Given Area Center

Toys worth about $100 have been donated to the Eastern TEACCH Center here by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Carter on behalf of the Tarboro Jaycees.

The toys, manufactured by Carolina Enterprises of Tarboro, will be used in treatment of autistic and communication-handicapped children served by the Center, according to Dr. Jerry Sloan, Center Director. In addition, they will be used in the special education classroom at Elmhurst School here, where the Carters' son, Kem, five, is a pupil.

The TEACCH Center serves autistic and children with severe communications delays or disorders from all over Eastern North Carolina. Its new location is Apartment 30-B, Stratford Arms Apartments, Greenville. The phone number is 756-5488.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sagged lower today, despite some optimism over the Ford administration's ability to check inflation.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 0.06 to 680.07 and declines outnumbered advances 600 to 402 among 1,478 issues traded.

A brief technical rally that sparked trading Monday afternoon failed to catch hold, and the market continued its decline of more than two weeks in slow trading.

Some investors appeared to be hoping that President Ford's 2 p.m. EDT news conference Wednesday would provide signs of a policy to bring inflation under control, analysts said.

But general pessimism over prospects for the nation's economy prevailed.

Manow Kisor, of Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, said he doubted the President's conference would provide the spark to change the market's drift.

"The market is pretty clearly headed for a test of the May 1970 lows," Kisor predicted. The Dow's low point was 631.16 on May 26, 1970.

Morse Shoe, the Big Board volume leader, was unchanged at 2 1/2, following a block trade of 117,700 shares at 2 1/2.

Homestake Mining, which dropped 7 1/2 points in trading Monday, was down 2 1/2 points to 51 1/2. Barron's magazine had said it seemed unlikely that Homestake could bank on a continued upward spiral in gold prices.

Among the blue chips, Bethlehem Steel was off 1/4 at 29 1/2, Chrysler was down 1/4 at 12 1/2, and General Motors was off 1/2 at 38 1/2.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .14 to 37.68.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index fell .40 to 71.22.

The Amex volume leader was Syntex Corp., down 3/4 at 36 1/2.

Damage Suit Dismissed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A $1 million damage suit brought by a woman who claimed she was pressured into a sterilization operation by the Washington County Social Services Department has been dismissed in U.S. Eastern District Court.

Miss Nial Ruth Cox, 27, of New York and formerly of Plymouth, said in the suit filed last year that the operation was performed in 1965 after she had given birth to a child.

She contended her family was threatened with loss of welfare aid if the operation was not performed. She also said she was not told the operation was irreversible and that she learned she could no longer bear children in 1970.

Judge John D. Larkins ruled that the statute of limitations, the time in which legal action can be brought, had elapsed between the time Miss Cox learned of the effects of the operation and filed the lawsuit.

Miss Cox, who is now a nurse's aide, had charged that she was denied the right to bear children and was discriminated against because of her race, sex, age, marital status and indigency.

Named as defendants in the lawsuit were officials of the county social services department and the doctor who performed the operation.

the City of Greenville. Both state that a joint inspection conducted by the two shows: "All violation that were found in our previous inspections were checked and it was found that the building has been repaired to where it is in a safe condition." Warren noted that all major deficiencies had been repaired or replaced, and added "None of the repairs that are left to be made are detrimental to the safety and health of the students that will be attending school at Agnes Fullilove."

Mention was made of service beyond the call of duty provided by the staff of Agnes Fullilove who have been working long hours, including Saturday and Sunday, to help the crew working there in getting the school ready for occupancy today. "It is in readiness," Cox assured board members and other persons attending. "There's still things that must be done, but the facility is ready for occupancy." Things not yet completed include water connections to the mobile units and placing of books in the library.

Board members voted for the school administration to move ahead on necessary planning that will lead to accreditation of the Greenville City School system at both the State and Southern Association level. "Under the new regulations," Cox explained, "it is the system and not the individual school that is involved in accreditation."

Board members voted a resolution that permits the school administration to take the first step in working for accreditation. This is an official expression of intent to proceed on the matter in accordance with prescribed policies.

The second step will be informing accreditation people that the system is implementing a local comprehensive plan; and the final step, which Cox said will probably take two to three years or longer, will be a report of documentation showing that significant progress has been attained.

Cox noted that only five units in North Carolina have reached any one of the three steps (or levels) under the new accreditation plan.

At the present time, Rose High School is the only accredited school in the Greenville system. For the past school year, Rose was placed in an "advised" status by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. Cox said, however, for the 1974-75 school year previous deficiencies at Rose have been taken care of, and now Rose is in a "cleared" status.

In other matters, agenda items considered and applicable action taken were:

—Food service: Cox reported that for the 1973-74 school year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture had donated food with a value of $60,742 to the Greenville City Schools;

—Milk prices for extra milk (any other than the milk that comes with meals) was set at eight cents per half pint;

—Cox emphasized the importance of parents paying as early as possible the $4.00 student instructional fee that has been established. He also called for early payment of other fees;

—Approval was given for the resignation of two teachers and the election of four additional teachers, including a band director at Aycock Junior High;

—Cox asked, and was given approval, to work with Rose High principal Robert Alligood in following up on the possibility of a Student Advisory Board; and —An earlier announcement that all immunizations must be in progress by the end of the first 30 days in school, and if this requirement is not met, that a student must be taken from school; was recon-

Blacked Out By Lightning

A severe lightning storm this morning knocked out one-third of the electricity service to the Meadowbrook area, according to Malcolm Green, assistant director of Greenville Utilities. According to Green, the heavy storm also hit a switcher at the intersection of Highway 264 and 14th Streets, discontinuing service to East Carolina University and the rural areas South of the by-pass and to Winterville and Ayden, for about one hour.

Green stated the storm did heaviest damage to GUCO's transmission system, but did not take a high toll in monetary damage.

"Most of our systems now are shielded from electrical storms," Green added. "We had a number of direct strikes this morning. I noticed three poles in a row that had the ground-wire covering burned off because of strikes," Green stated.

"Some of the bolts looked to be a yard wide," he added.

$640,405 Worth Of Building Permits Issued

Building permits totaling $640,405 were issued in Greenville during July, according to State Labor Commissioner Billy Creel.

Creel said that Greenville's permit total for the first seven months of the year amounted to $4,412,566. The commissioner reported that permits totaling $54,805,616 were issued in July by 38 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population. He added that the figure was 15 per cent higher than last July's $47,590,509.

Building permits amounting to $387,857,919 were issued during the first seven months of 1974 in the 38 cities, he said, and represented a 9.3 per cent drop over totals for the same period in 1973.

Right-To-Life Speaker Here

Dr. Paul Osteen of Duluth, Minn. will outline the purposes and programs of the National Right to Life Committee at a meeting to be held in the Methodist Student Center Thursday at 8 p.m.

The National Right to Life Committee urges respect for the life of the unborn child. It seeks the passage of laws to safeguard his rights and raises the moral, as well as the legal, issues involved in abortion.

The public is invited to attend this meeting.

School board members also approved an assignment plan for out of districts students attending elementary schools in Greenville. The plan adopted will place out of district fourth graders at Wahl-Coates and those of other elementary grades at Elmhurst. Because of full classrooms in the fourth grades at Elmhurst, it is not possible to provide space for out of district pupils there in that grade.

In addition, Cox reported it was not possible to accept out of district kindergarten children. Totally, there were 313 kindergarten applications for 312 vacancies. Seven of the 313 were out of district applications. Cox said that there was no problem in placing out of district applicants for students in grades seven through 12.

Mrs. Crisp Is Sworn In Today

RALEIGH—Mrs. Nelson B. Crisp, a Greenville attorney, was one of eight members of the newly created nine-member North Carolina Board of Correction sworn in at 10 a.m. today.

The ceremony was held in the Old Senate Chamber of the Capitol in Raleigh. The board's ninth member, Secretary of Correction David L. Jones, will serve as ex-officio chairman of the board.

Jones said the board, appointed by the Governor, will "assist the Secretary of Correction in the development of major departmental programs, recommend priorities for programs within the department, and hold other responsibilities and perform other duties specifically given to it by the Secretary of Correction."

Established under Phase II of State Government

Reorganization, the new board will act as an advisory body to the department, replacing the former Correction, Youth Development and Probation Boards.

Judge James Bailey Jr. administered the oath of office to the new board members.

In addition to Mrs. Crisp, other members taking the oath today included: Dr. Johnnie L. Gallemore Jr., a psychiatrist from Duke University Medical Center; Clarence C. Malone Jr., a Durham attorney; District Court Judge Samuel L. Osborne of Wilkesboro; former state Senator W. H. S. Burgwyn of Woodland; Rep. David D. Jordan of Charlotte; William S. Anderson, an Arden businessman; and Dr. Leon Raymond Camp, an associate professor of English at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

Cromartie Sees Timetable Met

Dr. William Cromartie, acting director of the East Carolina University Medical School said Monday he sees no obstacles in meeting legislative and accreditation requirements for expanding the present one-year program at the Greenville campus.

Dr. Cromartie said planning for expansion is "moving along in a productive manner" and that work is expected to be completed as scheduled by November.

The 1974 General Assembly authorized expanding the one-year program at ECU by doubling the size of the first year class—from 20 to 40 students—and adding the second year to the school.

The legislative mandate instructed the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina to return to the 1975 General Assembly with plans for carrying out the expansion.

Officials of the UNC Medical School at Chapel Hill were placed in control of the planning—and of the ECU program itself
