

Turks Say 'No' To Cyprus Conference

By The Associated Press
Turkey has rejected the Soviet proposal for an 18-nation conference on the future of Cyprus.

Meanwhile, the Greek Cypriot government asked for a United Nations Security Council meeting to discuss the plight of the 200,000 Greek Cypriots reported driven from their homes by the conquest of the northern third of the island.

Foreign Minister Turan Guner told the Soviet ambassador to Turkey that the proposed parley — which would include the 15 members of the Security Council plus Greece, Turkey and Cyprus — might set a precedent for unwarranted Security Council interference. It also might prolong negotiations, Guner added.

Guners reiterated his government's position that the future of Cyprus must be decided in negotiations between the Greek and Turkish Cypriot communities along with Turkey, Greece and Britain, the guarantors of Cypriot independence under the island's 1960 independence treaty.

In Washington, Turkish Ambassador Nuri Eren accused Moscow of trying to prevent a solution to the Cyprus problem and create chaos in Greece. He asserted that Greece also does not like the Soviet proposal, although the Greek government has accepted it formally.

The Security Council meeting requested by the Cypriot government was expected Thursday. The meeting also will provide a platform for Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik to urge his government's conference proposal and for a report from Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on his three-day tour of Athens, Nicosia and Ankara.

The U.N. high commissioner for refugees, Prince Sadruddin Aga Khan, completed a six-day inspection of the refugee situation on Tuesday and flew back to Geneva to issue a plea for international help.

Turkish troops in northern Cyprus rounded up hundreds of Greek Cypriot men on Tuesday for interrogation, and a Turkish officer said those who were "soldiers in civilian clothes" or members of the EOKA-B underground army would be sent to Turkey as prisoners of war.

Becky Appears

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A storm system southwest of Bermuda developed into the second Atlantic tropical storm of the season today. Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center here said conditions favor Tropical Storm Becky becoming the year's first hurricane.

The Atlantic hurricane season's second name storm was located 225 miles west of Bermuda, the center said.

Maximum sustained winds were 50 miles an hour, with gusts up to 75 miles an hour.

Forecasters say an increase to hurricane strength, with sustained winds of 74 miles an hour, is favorable during the next 24 hours.

Weather forecasters said Becky was moving north-northeast at about 12 miles an hour.

Charge Woman In Murder Of Jailer

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A woman escapee from the Beaufort County jail has been charged with murder in the stabbing death of a jailer, a sheriff's department spokesman said today.

Chief Deputy O.E. Davis said Joanne Little of Chocowinity was charged in the slaying of Clarence Alligood, 62.

Sheriff J.D. Harris said the jailer's body was found in a cell in the woman's section of the prison early Tuesday. Harris said he had been stabbed 11 times and a bloody ice pick was found at his side.

The woman, the only occupant of that section of the jail, had escaped, he said.

Deputies from several counties and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation continued the search today, Davis said. He said the keys to the jail, missing after the woman fled, were recovered near the jail, but that the escapee had not been sighted.

A search for the woman shifted briefly to neighboring Pitt County on Tuesday when it was thought she had been sighted, but Sheriff Ralph L. Tyson said it was a case of mistaken identity.

Harris said the woman had been convicted of breaking and entering homes in the Chocowinity area. He said she was sentenced to five to 10 years in prison and was held under $15,000 appeal bond pending appeal.

The chief deputy said Alligood was stabbed twice in the head, seven times in the chest and twice in the hip. A part-time farmer, he had been employed at the jail for 18 months.

New Drink At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — They're serving a new drink at the White House these days.

"What's that drink?" President Ford inquired across the Cabinet room when he saw some of his economic advisers sipping an apricot-colored, iced drink.

"Iced tea and pineapple juice," came the reply.

Plans No Firings

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Atty. Gen. James H. Carson Jr. said today he is has no plans to fire any Department of Justice staff members, including Charles Dunn, director of the state Bureau of Investigation.

Carson, who assumed office Monday as the first Republican state attorney general in modern times, told his first news conference he hoped Dunn would stay on the job for the entire two and one-half years left in the term of former Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan.

Morgan, a Democrat, resigned Monday to campaign full time for the U.S. Senate.

Carson will serve as attorney general at least until Nov. 5, when he faces Democrat Rufus Edmisten in an election fill the remainder of Morgan's term.

There had been speculation, much of it from Edmisten, that Carson would dismiss Dunn upon taking office. There also was concern among Democrats that Carson might fire other members of Morgan's staff who are still in the Justice Department.

Expect Pupil Count To Rise

As usual on opening day in the Greenville City Schools, enrollment figures are lower than the number of students expected from pre-enrollment figures, 5,184 on Tuesday as compared to 5,549 at the end of the year.

"This is a normal process," Glenn Cox, Superintendent of the city schools said this morning. "There's always a number of kids still on vacation with their parents, when school first opens so that we don't get a true picture of enrollment till after the Labor Day holiday."

"Also the big rain yesterday morning undoubtedly contributed to the low first day attendance," Cox added.

Unofficial figures furnished by the central office this morning are for first day attendance Tuesday compared with figures recorded at the end of the school year last year:

School	Opening Day	Last Year
Eastern	462	458
Elmhurst	450	453
Sadie Sautler	464	444
South Greenville	628	585
Third Street	144	152
Wahl-Coates	480	494

Last year, a total of 170 kindergarten children were enrolled. With this year's expanded program, the figure is up by 142 to a total of 312.

Also, with the removal of the seventh grade from Aycock to Agnes Fullilove and 907 eighth and ninth graders at Aycock. This compares with a total for the three grades of 1,468 last year.

Rose High School, which last year had 1,367 students at the end of the year, reported a first day attendance this year of 1,209.

U.S. Reassessing Policy Of Embargo Against Cuba

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration is reassessing the long-standing U.S. policy of support for the hemispheric embargo of Cuba, according to diplomatic informants.

The policy reappraisal comes in the face of mounting hemispheric pressure for an end to the diplomatic and economic sanctions imposed against Cuba 10 years ago by the Organization of American States. Presently, seven of the 23 OAS member nations have relations with Cuba in violation of the sanctions.

Costa Rican Foreign Minister Gonzalo Facio said on Tuesday there are more than enough OAS votes for lifting the embargo and he predicted its end within two months.

Sources said, however, that American acquiescence on an end to the embargo would not necessarily be a prelude to a normalization of U.S. relations with Cuba.

Cuban support for revolution in Latin America — long an irritant to Washington — has diminished considerably. But Cuba is still a force for fomenting anti-American sentiment in Latin America, a strategy that may be accelerated as Cuba secures additional diplomatic footholds in the hemisphere.

Cuba also is one example of the limitations of the detente policy pursued by the United States and the Soviet Union.

Officials note that detente has not produced a moratorium on Soviet efforts for "anti-imperialist upheavals" in Latin America and other Third World areas. In the words of one Moscow theoretician, Cuba is an important ingredient in the "development of the revolutionary process in Latin America."

Accordingly, diplomatic observers here believe a protracted thaw process will be required before there can be serious talk of an exchange of ambassadors with Cuba, even after the OAS embargo is lifted.

Murder Charges

STEPHENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Murder charges have been filed against two Colorado state prison escapees who survived a hail of police bullets after a three-day crime spree in Texas and New Mexico.

A third convict, Richard Mangum, 22, of Denver was killed in the fusillade north of this central Texas city on Monday night.

Dist. Atty. Bob Glasgow of Erath County said Dalton Richards, 29, Snyder, Tex., and Jerry Ben Ulmer, 22, Garland, Tex., were charged with the murder of Mrs. Ray Ott, a resident of the county.

Mrs. Ott was killed on Saturday, one of two persons officers said were slain by the three escaped convicts as they made their way through the state hunting down witnesses who testified against two of them.

The three convicts escaped from the Colorado prison at Canon City last Thursday.

Delay Is Pondered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger is considering arguments of former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman and Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski over whether to postpone the Watergate cover-up trial.

Jaworski's reply, filed with the Supreme Court on Monday, disputes Ehrlichman's contention that he needs more time to study evidence and that he can't get a fair trial if it starts Sept. 30 as scheduled.

Burger could decide by himself whether to grant Ehrlichman's request that the trial be delayed until next year, or he could confer with the other justices and announce a joint decision. If the chief justice denied the delay by himself, Ehrlichman could then seek a postponement order from another justice.

The trial was originally set for Sept. 9. U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica granted a three-week postponement at the suggestion of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington.

Lillian Woo Silent On Possible Offer Of Post

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Consumer leader Lillian Woo says she and Atty. Gen. James H. Carson Jr. have discussed the possibility of her taking a job as consumer advocate in the state Department of Justice.

Mrs. Woo, of Raleigh, declined to say Tuesday, however, whether she had been offered a post in the Justice Department or whether she had decided to accept such a position.

Mrs. Woo, president of the North Carolina Consumers Council and a member of the state Milk Commission, said in a statement:

"I have talked to the attorney general. He is very interested in consumer affairs and public advocacy. We have talked about the possibility of a job. Details and a decision are not definite."

Carson, who took office Monday, could not be reached immediately for comment on the matter.

Mrs. Woo, who has been active for several years in consumer-related issues, was appointed earlier this year to the Milk Commission by Gov. Jim Holshouser.

Mrs. Woo said that the position she discussed with Carson was that of a special assistant to the attorney general for consumer affairs with jurisdiction over antitrust matters, regulatory agencies and the consumer protection division.

Mrs. Woo is not an attorney but has completed most of the work for a Ph.D. degree in economics.

While it would be legally possible for her to remain on the Milk Commission if she takes a Justice Department job, Mrs. Woo said "this is one of the details that has not been worked out."

Legislators 'Probably' To Encounter Surplus

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's legislators probably will be met with a surplus when they convene next January to decide on state spending for the next two fiscal years.

This became apparent Tuesday when Budget Director Ken Howard reported that the state's General Fund wound up the 1974-75 fiscal year with a $174.7 million surplus. This was $30 million more than the budget office had estimated last January, at the height of the energy crisis.

Howard reported that the Highway Fund wound up the fiscal year with a $110.9 million credit balance.

The budget officer said the surpluses resulted both from higher revenues and greater reversions than had been expected. Reversions occur when a state agency does not spend all the money it has been allotted.

Early in the legislative session last winter, Howard estimated the General Fund credit balance would be $144 million on July 1. This figure was raised to $160 million in March.

Howard said the surplus would be larger except that unspent revenue-sharing funds of more than $5 million are kept in a separate account.

Howard will explain the figures to a legislative study commission Friday.

Former Beauty Queen Remembers Becoming A Senior Citizen With Style

By IVA DRAPALOVA
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — In 1910, when a Czech beauty queen was chosen there was no parading in front of judges clad in a bikini. A newspaper had asked girls between ages 18 and 25, "virtuous and with a spotless record," to send in their photos.

Ruzena Brozova, who won the title that year and went on to become queen of beauty in Paris, has no idea of what her vital statistics were then. "I was very slender," she recalls, and adds jury members guffawed when some fathers sent in the bust measurements of their daughters.

national peasant costume. The Parisian queen of queens was chosen out of 20 queens elected in the various Paris districts and a foreign beauty queen was invited each year. Election of a beauty queen was then held and the title invariably went to the Parisian. Ruzena had no golden crown, no ermine cloak, but a fresh beauty which brought Paris to her feet. Her sudden popularity took by surprise even the police, who had to keep in check the huge crowds which dogged her every step.

A long-standing tradition was broken when she was elected the queen of beauty over the Parisian queen of queens, Elisa Gaillard, who good naturedly kissed Ruzena's cheek after the results of the voting by 600 guests were announced in the Circus D'hiver.

At 26 she married Antonin Opravil, a professional soldier. He put down his foot firmly; no more acting, he declared. When his beautiful frustrated wife was almost ill with boredom he told her: "Why don't you write?" And write she did, first stories which appeared in the most prestigious pre-war Czech daily, later books and dramatizations of books and fairytales for Czech theaters. "Whatever I wrote always got published," she says with a hint of surprise in her voice. "I wish I could find more time to write my memoirs. The publishers are waiting for them. I have 150 pages so far and have reached only the time I was 16."

Mrs. Opravil, who lives with her married daughter and grandchild, revisited Paris for the first time in 1973 and tried to trace some of the people she had met more than 60 years ago. "But it is all so changed, though we did find the house in which the Dolezals had their travel bureau," she said.

DEAR ABBY: I identified with that woman who wrote in saying we should try to be more patient with our elderly parents.

I am trying to be patient with a mother who is at times quite exasperating. However, not all elderly people are the same. Some of Mother's contemporaries are charming and quite remarkable.

I do believe that as we grow older, we should try to keep active and interested, so that we will be interesting to others.

For many years we had my wife's grandmother living with us, and now my mother-in-law, who is nearly 80, is making her home with us.

With my vast experience in dealing with the elderly I've been meaning to make a list of things to do and not do so that I will one day be a charming senior citizen, but with my luck, my memory will probably fail, and I won't be able to find the list.

GETTING THERE

DEAR GETTING: Thanks. You've given me an idea. I think I'll compose such a list from the experience of others. My own parents weren't lucky enough to become senior citizens. And my husband's parents are in their 70s—but a more beautiful, independent and ageless couple I've never known.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's business partner, who is a fine young man of 29, recently married a 20-year-old girl. She was very promiscuous before they met, but he probably knows nothing about it as he is a newcomer to this town. Being pretty, she "swept him off his feet" and they married after a whirlwind romance.

She is pregnant, and it wouldn't surprise me one bit if her husband wasn't even the baby's father. I heard that shortly after their marriage she was seen with another man.

We must see them socially, which is very painful to us because we know about her background. My husband and I are torn between telling this best friend and business partner the truth and keeping quiet. Please tell us how to cope with the situation.

NO ADDRESS, PLEASE

DEAR NO ADDRESS: Keep quiet, of course. And don't believe everything you hear. The gossip could be entirely without foundation.

DEAR ABBY: A poor, homely type girl became impregnated by a married man who had no intention of leaving his wife and marrying her. The poor girl says it's too late for an abortion, but the father of the unborn suggested that she have the baby and let him and his wife adopt it as they were childless and desperately wanted a child.

This would have been a perfect solution to everybody's problem. But you say "no," and even have the gall to suggest that the child be handed over to an adoption agency!

How can you be so narrow-minded? Any child born under such circumstances would rather be in a home with its biological father than in a "nice" home with adopted strangers.

Are you so arrogant that you think you can play "God" with people's lives with your often biased advice? It seems to me that you need a little advice yourself.

DEAR MR. F.: What assurance have you that after this unwed mother hands over the child to the man with whom she's in love (a "detail" you ignored) she will simply disappear forever?

Home Preserving Is On The Increase

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Pectin sales are running about 15 per cent above this time last year, a sure sign home preserving is increasing.

The manufacturer who first noted the increase last fall says it has held steady ever since. It is the first since the mid-1950s to early 1960s, when pectin sales slid to all time lows.

The price of sugar has increased dramatically since last summer but there is a way to use less of it and still enjoy the flavors of homemade spreads: go back to grandmother's preserving recipes, which used no commercial pectin.

Pectin is the substance in fruit that makes jam and jelly products set. It occurs naturally in all fruit, but the amount varies widely, depending on the variety of fruit, growing conditions and degree of ripeness.

Powdered and bottled pectins that were developed early this century cut cooking time drastically and produced higher yields, but they also led to sweeter spreads because more sugar is needed to make them work.

Old fashioned preserving recipes use less sugar and make fruitier tasting spreads because they use less sugar. Most fruits need only three quarters cup of sugar per cup of cooked fruit or syrup (for jelly) and those which are very low in pectin and acid content need a ratio of only two thirds cup of sugar per cup of fruit. Less sugar should not be used without special recipes and special packing methods to prevent spoilage.

Citrus fruit, sour apples, concord and wild grapes and sour plums are rich in both pectin and acid. They usually take equal amounts of sugar for each cup of cooked fruit or juice.

Testing for both pectin and acid content is quick and easy. Unsweetened juice should taste as tart as one part fresh lemon juice mixed with three parts water. If it does not, add from one and a half teaspoons to one tablespoon of lemon juice per cup of fruit or juice.

To test for pectin gently stir half a teaspoon of cooked, cooled, strained juice into one teaspoon of either grain alcohol (the basis for most liquors) or 70 per cent rubbing alcohol, which is poisonous. Let stand at least one minute, then pour into a saucer.

If the juice forms a solid mass of gelatin, pectin content is high, calling for equal amounts of fruit and sugar. If the flakes are large and broken, use three fourths cup sugar for each cup of fruit mixture.

If flakes are scanty and small, either boil the fruit mixture down for 10 to 20 minutes and retest, or add bottled liquid pectin this way: measure one cup of fruit into a small bowl. Stir in one tablespoon of pectin until well mixed. Retest for pectin. Continue adding pectin and retesting until mixture is as fortified as you wish. Then, fortify the remainder in the same ratio, add sugar, and cook in small batches—4 to 6 cups at a time—for best results.

Always discard test batches without tasting and never leave an open bottle of either alcohol near a stove or a lighted cigaret. Both are highly inflammable. And while grain alcohol is not poisonous like the rubbing variety, it is 190 proof, or 95 per cent alcohol.

Women Marines March

PARIS ISLAND, S.C. (AP)—From administrative assignments that would "free a man to fight" to the firing lines of the rifle range, that's how far today's Woman Marine has come since the first women were recruited under the Women's Reserve Act of 1942, and from all indications the female Leathernecks are still advancing on all fronts.

Recently First Lt. Susan V. Wagner, Executive Officer of Headquarters Company, Woman Recruit Training Battalion here at the Marine Corps' East coast recruit training facility, marched 41 Women Marines onto the firing line at the rifle range.

The distaff Marines, toting M-16 rifles, the Corps' standard weapon, sang as they passed on their way to marksmanship training.

While the Marine Corps has no current plans to assign women to infantry units, the Women Marines volunteered to learn the function and operation of the rifle.

The women were coached by regular male Marine marksmanship instructors and coaches to what their mentors called surprising success. First Lt. Harold B. Petersen, the range officer, remarked, "All I can say is they did some superior shooting."

From the tower at the center of the firing line, where range officials monitored the targets being shot at, came running commentary. "Target No. 26, you're shooting into Beaufort." "Target No. 18, you're supposed to aim at your own target! Target No. 20, outstanding score!"

When the day's shooting ended, so had many reservations held by the male Marines on the range, said Lt. Petersen.

Alaskan Voters Okay Moving Their State Capital

No Fanfare For Lindbergh Rites

By BOB MURPHY
Associated Press Writer
HANA, Hawaii (AP) — The memorial service for aviation pioneer Charles Augustus Lindbergh was simple and without fanfare, the way "the Lone Eagle" wanted it all to end.

Friends and family gathered at the tiny Kipahulu Hawaiian Church on Tuesday to honor Lindbergh one more time. He had been buried in a lava-stone grave next to the 19th century church Monday after his death from cancer. He was 72.

During his last eight days of life, Lindbergh planned for his death, including the memorial service, said Dr. Milton M. Howell, the aviator's personal physician. Fewer than two dozen persons attended the candlelit service, including his widow, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, and two of their sons, Jon and Land.

Another son and two daughters were unable to attend. The Rev. John Tincher, a Protestant minister from Hana, conducted the half-hour ceremony.

"... They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint," read one scripture recited during the service.

The Rev. Mr. Tincher and the family selected some of the Bible scriptures, "and the general even had designated some," said the minister.

"He was an amazing man who had everything planned out to every detail," he added.

Continuing the theme of simplicity, Mrs. Lindbergh was dressed in a purple Hawaiian print dress with a string of pearls around her neck. The Lindbergh sons wore casual shirts and trousers.

After the ceremony, Mrs. Lindbergh thanked each person who attended. Sitting through the service without showing emotion, she wiped back a few tears as she left the chapel for their home.

Asked later what plans the widow had, Jon Lindbergh said he knew of none "at this time."

Conservationist Jay Hammond, a former state Senate president known for his poetry, won the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Alaska today, defeating a field of four candidates which included former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel.

Hammond will face incumbent William A. Egan, a Democrat who won renomination easily in a primary that also saw Alaskans vote overwhelmingly to move their state capital from Juneau to a more central location.

In Oklahoma, where primary votes were also cast on Tuesday, House Speaker Carl Albert nailed down his 15th consecutive term in Congress, and Gov. David Hall's try for re-nomination ended in failure.

Oklahomans also apparently rejected a controversial proposal to legalize parimutuel betting on horse races by county option.

Hammond, 52, a commercial fisherman, bush pilot, big game guide and former state legislator from the southwest Alaska village of Naknek, often read his own poetry to his colleagues while serving in the state Senate from 1967 to 1972.

With 348 of 441 precincts reporting, Hammond had 23,520 votes or about 48 per cent. Only a plurality is required for victory. Hickel had 16,326 votes; former Gov. Keith Miller had 8,366; and two minor candidates trailed far behind.

Hickel, 55, is a former governor who left the Statehouse in 1969 to join the Cabinet of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon Hires New Lawyer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon has retained Herbert John Miller Jr., a Washington attorney, to replace James D. St. Clair as his personal lawyer.

"It's no secret. I have been retained," Miller, a former Justice Department lawyer, said on Tuesday. "Beyond that, I have no comment."

St. Clair, of Boston, quit after Nixon resigned from the presidency.

Miller, 50, was assistant attorney general for the criminal division of the Justice Department from 1961 to 1965. Since then he has been a partner in the Washington law firm of Miller, Cassidy, Larroca & Lewin.

He was the attorney for former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and also represented two other Watergate figures, former White House special counsel Richard Moore and William O. Bittman, E. Howard Hunt's attorney, when they appeared before the Senate Watergate committee last year.

Beer Bust

CHIVENOR, England (AP) — Airmen at the local Royal Air Force base are on a party-night binge to drink all the beer on the base before it closes next month.

"The beer is already ours," said an officer. "If we don't drink it all up, it will be sold into a central fund and someone else will profit from it."

"I'm a gin-and-tonic man normally, but I'm doing my bit for my fellow men."

The men refused to say how much remained to be drunk. A sergeant said several of the base's best drinkers have been transferred, but he foresees no real problem.

"We're working hard," he said.

Pres. Leone To Be A Visitor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Giovanni Leone of Italy will come to the United States next month to talk with President Ford.

Jerald F. terHorst, White House press secretary, said on Tuesday that the visit will give Leone and Ford a chance to review current issues involving both countries.

President Ford issued the invitation, renewing one extended months ago by former President Richard M. Nixon.

HOSPITALIZED
NEW YORK (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has been admitted to Doctor's Hospital for treatment of severe gastritis, a U.N. spokesman said today.

During his last eight days of life, Lindbergh planned for his death, including the memorial service, said Dr. Milton M. Howell, the aviator's personal physician. Fewer than two dozen persons attended the candlelit service, including his widow, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, and two of their sons, Jon and Land.

Store Robbed By Armed Trio

Three black men, armed with a pistol, made off with $50 in cash and some change after holding up the Stop And Go store at 2900 East Tenth St. early today.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon the three robbers entered the store, told clerk Bill Pender of 411A East Second St. "this is a robbery" and ordered him to lie face down on the floor.

The robbers then took $50 in cash and some change from the register and left.

The incident was reported at 12:50 a.m.

Investigation of the case is underway.

Bob Scott As Vice Chancellor?

It is interesting that former governor Robert Scott is being considered for the position of vice chancellor for external affairs at East Carolina University.

The Greensboro Daily News first reported the development in its Tuesday editions. Scott confirmed that he had been approached about the vice chancellorship. The position has been vacant since the death of Gen. John Lang.

Scott didn't do much to encourage any speculation that he might take the position, although he and Dr. Leo Jenkins are scheduled to meet Friday on another matter. The Greensboro Daily News speculated that Scott would be in line for the chancellorship when Jenkins retires. That could be as late as 1978, but perhaps sooner.

Scott said he didn't want to move his family from Haw River and also indicated that he didn't feel the board of governors would approve his nomination.

Later, in a comment to the Associated Press, Scott said, "The Board of Governors would die in hell before they would approve me as a chancellor of any institution under their control."

Indeed, some of them will fight. There are still left in Chapel Hill a few of the old University-Big Business-Political complex who even now resent Scott's father, Kerr Scott, derailing things way back in 1948, and virtually everything the Scotts have done since.

Even given that, though, it is well to remember that the Board of Governors must operate in the public spotlight and its every action is subject to public review, so to speak. Thus the public uproar would be tremendous if some members of the board attempted to block the nomination of a respected former governor for petty and self-serving reasons.

Scott also raised the point that "a man doesn't have a chance (in higher education) unless he has a Ph.D.," but the president of the university system does not have an earned Ph.D., and he has certainly fared well with the board of governors.

There is no one around who has a better understanding of North Carolina higher education than Robert Scott. He obtained his education the hard way while wrestling with the problems of higher education during his term as governor. That broad experience could be put to valuable use at East Carolina University, and we don't think even Bob Scott's bitterest enemies would deny that he still has much to offer in public service to North Carolina.

Pioneer Shrimp Farms

By F.T. MACFEELEY
Associated Press Writer
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)

Officials of two firms that are pioneering commercial shrimp production in the United States say it will be a long time before their harvests affect open market prices.

"We estimate our first year's harvest at 100,000 to 200,000 shrimp," Ed Thurman, vice president of marketing for Harrell International Inc. of Jacksonville, said Tuesday. "That comes from the eight ponds we operate."

"If we have 700 ponds with a density of 100,000 shrimp each and turned a crop every eight months, we'd still produce only 3 per cent of the shrimp consumption in the United States."

Initial production from the ponds at Vero Beach will go to quality restaurants in selected markets, Thurman said. It will be a long time before enough shrimp are produced for the open market, he said.

The giant shrimp, averaging six or eight to a pound, were started from stock brought to this country from Thailand.

Harrell International has spent $300,000 for initial production facilities and for research by Jacksonville University's Dr. George Kelley.

Another commercial enterprise, Marifarms, has been in operation seven years at Panama City, Fla. Company officials said they have been deep in the red every year.

Marifarms President John Cheshire said his firm is operating with annual expenses of about $1 million and that last year's gross receipts were about $300,000.

This firm leases 2,500 acres of St. Andrews Bay from the state for the salt water shrimp it cultivates.

"We harvested 435,000 pounds last year," Cheshire said. "It was marketed basically to processors, principally canners, at 62 cents a pound. We feel we will have a real good harvest this fall and move closer to a break-even operation."

Both operations say their shrimp are fresher and purer than those harvested by shrimp boats.

"We have a fresh, clean bay and our harvest is processed within 24 hours," Cheshire said. "A shrimp boat is out three weeks to complete its catch."

Wilson L. Harrell, chairman of Harrell International, said that "because of their fresh-water habitat, our shrimp have no iodine taste and are free from mercury or other harmful elements."

While both firms are pioneers in their field, Cheshire said fish farming is an old art, dating back to ancient China.

The modern market problem, he said, is to get a large enough harvest to make it commercially practical.

The Swamp Fever Tests

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Tar Heel horse lovers are involved in debate over statewide rules requiring tests for swamp fever.

Agriculture Department officials, responding to a barrage of complaints, will hold a public hearing in Raleigh on September 4 to air the conflicting viewpoints. The meeting will begin at 10 o'clock in the auditorium of the Highway Building.

If earlier portests are any sample, the hearing will be crowded with the Carolina horse set which has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years.

Horse owners themselves are strongly divided over the new rules, with many wanting stronger control; many wanting less control.

Since testing for swamp fever, a viral infection limited only to horses, began in earnest at the start of 1973, there have been 234 infected horses found in the state. Dr. Tom Zweigart, state veterinarian, said 17 of those were found in one herd, and some of those died after the herd was quarantined.

No Cure

There is no cure for swamp fever, and some horses can be carriers of the disease—infected well horses—without showing any outward signs.

There are presently two categories of horses covered in state law requiring the test for swamp fever: those animals going to any public assembly point for a show or campout or such; and those coming into the state from outside.

That covers about 50,000 horses in North Carolina, out of an estimated horse population of 120,000. As of mid-August, 26,706 horses had been tested, and the infection rate is running at less than one per cent. Horse specialists figure this low percentage puts the state in good shape to wipe out the disease, as compared to some states where infection runs as high as 10 per cent.

There is no cure for swamp fever, Dr. Zweigart said, and when a positive horse is located, it is placed under quarantine for life.

State Horse Specialist Glenn T. Petty said many owners with infected animals have decided to kill them. "This no doubt may cause many tears to children around the state, but if consideration is given to future tears prevented, it seems a worthwhile sacrifice. Few people would want to take the chance of infecting other horses in their own herd—or in their neighbor's."

A few years ago there were periodic horse quarantines, particularly in Southeastern states, when outbreaks of swamp fever occurred. Testing for the disease, until a couple of years ago, was difficult with the test running many months, and costing the life of another horse as a test animal. About two years ago, a new test was found that is reliable, does not kill a horse, and can be run in about 72 hours.

Development of the new test procedure led to the state regulations that horses going to public gatherings or crossing state lines must be tested.

Drawbacks

Dr. Zweigart agrees that current rules have drawbacks, but that any other approach would prove equally nettlesome.

Many horse owners are now pushing for requirements that all horses be tested—not just meet animals—feeling that once public assembly horses are cleaned up, many "backyard" horses will remain untested.

Other horsemen are pushing for repeal of the test requirements in light of the low numbers of infected animals.

Petty said either course raises more problems. If the state should repeal testing rules, North Carolina could become a dumping ground for infected horses, and "clean" horses from other states with testing programs could be stabled with untested horses at shows and sales in this state.

Dr. Zweigart noted that tests are required only for the approximately 40 per cent of the horses in the state which go to public meetings because they are the ones with the greatest chance of becoming infected and of transmitting swamp fever as large numbers of horses come in contact.

Officials are not, however, closing the door to future expansion of the testing program.

The INSIDE REPORT

Whose Economic Policy?

By ROBERT EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Opposition by Nixon holdover officials to public-service employment, absolutely essential for both political and economic reasons, is fueling deep concern over President Ford's dangerous delay in building up his own economic policymaking machinery.

Budget director Roy Ash and economic counselor Kenneth Rush both have entered objections to the cost of providing public jobs in areas of high unemployment. Yet such a program is so necessary to soften the effect of draconian budget cuts that Mr. Ford undoubtedly will propose it for the September-October session of Congress. Thus, the continuing vacuum in Mr. Ford's economic policymaking is both unnecessarily delaying the inevitable and costing the new President political benefits in dealing with the economic crisis.

Indeed, economic prospects are so frightening that he may be FORCED to act with far greater haste. While seeking to ease out Nixon holdovers slowly in the interests of continuity, he may have to speed his changing of the guard and designate his lieutenant for the economy immediately.

The lack of a firm decision on public service employment is the present case in point. Besides deadening the liberal argument that budget-cutting tends to make the poor bear the brunt of anti-inflation programs, the plan would give Mr. Ford the essential initiative in developing an economic strategy of his own, not to mention strengthening his courtship of organized labor. Besides, it is strongly supported by both Dr. Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and William Simon, Secretary of the Treasury.

But many others in the now formless economic policymaking machinery, including Ash and Rush, have been putting up conventional conservative objections. That will not prevent the scheme from being adopted ultimately, but it has blocked fast action.

Conversely, the absence of policymaking machinery led to what is widely regarded as the President's first blunder in the jawboning attempt on General Motors auto prices. Had they been consulted, Treasury officials would have informed Mr. Ford that the effort would unduly alarm Wall Street without succeeding in rolling back much of the GM increase.

But neither Simon nor anybody else at the Treasury was consulted. Lacking any economic organization, the President cooked up the GM jawboning play with counselor Robert Hartmann, his most intimate adviser but no economic expert. To prevent recurrences of that kind of madcap economic policymaking at a time of unparalleled economic danger in the western world, the President is being urged to take two steps quickly.

Step No. 1 is the rapid jettisoning of the old Nixon aides, even at the cost of hurt and the image of continuity. According to mutual friends, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has passed word that Ash must go. One powerful Democrat in Congress has urged Mr. Ford to get rid "of those incompetents"—meaning Ash and Rush, but not Simon.

Step No. 2 is to cut through the layers of economic officialdom and designate the President's top lieutenant. The transition report strongly urges that he be the Secretary of the Treasury, not an economic "czar" as President Nixon intended for

Warranties I've Known

Betty Furness in a recent speech revealed something that the average consumer has known for years. It is that the warranties that come with most American products aren't worth the computer cards they're printed on.

There may have been a lot of changes in Washington, but one thing you can be sure of: The American consumer is getting a shafting by the great free-enterprise system.

Not long ago I went to McCarthy, Swaine and

"Yes, I did."

"And what happened?"

"The can opener still didn't work."

"I see. Could you tell me how soon you filled out the Green Warranty Card after you got the electric can opener?"

"Maybe three days, a week. I'm not sure."

"But it specifically says that the Green Warranty Card must be filled out 24 hours after purchasing the appliance."

Sen. Barry Goldwater has warned that the "free enterprise system is under concentrated attack by forces which are out to nationalize American business."

In addressing a meeting of steel industry representatives, the Arizona senator said, "Today's energy crisis is tomorrow's steel crisis and the next day's crisis of the enterprise system itself."

"Very shortly you gentlemen may find yourselves on the witness stand accused of conspiring to cause a steel shortage, bring about inflation and increase unemployment."

"You can expect to be accused of reaping windfall profits at the expense of helpless consumers and taxpayers."

"And Congress will be considering a barrage of bills to nationalize your industry."

Steel, of course, isn't the only target involved. There have been attacks on virtually every major industry in America over the past few years

The philosophy has been spread that "big" business is "bad" business. This is erroneous and can be interpreted as such if only one looks closely at the facts and at history.

How could America enjoy the fruits of its gigantic enterprise today if it were not for men of vision who thought "big"?

An assembly line is big. It means big production. Big production means goods available to everybody at prices within reach. By contrast, other countries considered modern by every standard still have difficulty providing all the goods and services their people require because the means of providing them have not been employed.

Providing energy for a huge nation, for example, cannot be done by a penny-ante shop on a street corner. The same goes for food, transportation, and every conceivable item that we all take for granted. If you want to learn the difference, try nationalizing the American economy.

Economic Miracle Is Needed

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An economic miracle is likely to be needed if prices, jobs, interest rates and a whole string of related subjects aren't to be chief among the issues of President Gerald R. Ford's 1976 election campaign.

Since economic miracles have been forever sought but seldom found, some economists now concede that the campaign issues are being written at the moment, and that the writing is looking even grimmer than before.

Consultants and other seers now are revising their outlook to include a continuation of recessionary factors into 1975. Poor growing conditions are expected to force food prices higher. The jobless rates is headed to six per cent.

Unpleasant as they are, these easily understood indicators of performance are mere symptoms of underlying difficulties that some business analysts term grave and that few consider less than worrisome.

For one thing, business is finding it difficult to finance itself. Utilities, unable to sell stock, are paying inflationary interest rates for borrowed money. Other companies are seeking federal help.

Wall Street has fallen into a coma, and has little to offer either small or large businesses. Relatively few companies now attempt to sell new stock issues, especially the small, emerging businesses. Incorporations are way off.

Housing is very hard hit. The thrift institutions, which support housing, can offer only half the interest rate available at some other institutions. And so they have little money to lend on mortgages.

This has the predictable impact of reducing the demand for housing and putting some builders into a bind that is almost diabolical. It goes like this: The thrifts offer only 5.25 per cent on passbook savings. With higher rates available from others, including Uncle Sam, people withdraw their funds. This is disintermediation.

The loan-making ability of the thrifts — savings and loan associations and savings banks — is thus impaired. The housing industry goes into a recession. While people might want houses they can't finance them.

Neither can the builder finance himself. The banks which lend to builders specify that the borrower maintain a minimum net worth in order to remain credit-worthy. But the builder can't sell enough homes to maintain his net worth.

For Ford to untangle knots such as this quickly and under pressure of time would make the late great magician Henry Houdini's underwater escapades seem dull.

ANXIETY
Anxiety! Worry, worry, worry!

This is the tempo of many a life. Anxiety is at one and the same time an appalling curse and a corroding sin.

Jesus realized this when in the Sermon on the Mount he said, "Be not anxious. Take no thought for the morrow." By this he meant not that people should be imprudent, but that they should be trusting.

Some people worry about their health, about their jobs and businesses, and even about their social standing. Yet when they look back over every season of anxiety they can see that nothing was made better by it and many things were decidedly made worse.

The English poet, Cowper, has given us a very helpful word on the subject. He said, "The cares of today are seldom those of tomorrow; and when we lie down at night, we may safely say to most of our troubles, 'You have done your worst and we shall see you no more!'"

Apathy Over Crime Is Seen Major Handicap

By CHRIS J. HARPER
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Police leaders say a major battle in the war on crime may be the fight to overcome public apathy toward solving crimes. "Police are not the beginning and the end," said Detroit Police Chief Philip G. Tannian. "All the public has to share in the burden, but many turn and look the other way." And Police Commissioner Donald D. Pomerleau of Baltimore, Md., said, "Society is on the defensive. In the final analysis, the police can't solve all the problems." Sheriff Peter Pitchess of Los Angeles County put it more bluntly. He said "community apathy" poses a significant difficulty in solving crimes. The three men gave their views on Tuesday after Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe warned a meeting of police leaders from 25 major metropolitan areas that "there is every possibility that crime will inundate us."

Rush. Standing in the way of both these steps are Ash and his Office of Management and Budget (OMB). Ash, no bundle of warmth, has been displaying surprising personal charm for the new "resident and his assistants. At OMB, word is out that Ash intends to stay through the preparation of the next budget—that is, into January.

Moreover, OMB institutionally shudders at the thought of economic power concentrated at the Treasury. Consequently, it is proposing that a new presidential assistant—perhaps Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller—be given overall economic power.

Privately, Simon strenuously objects. He feels the Secretary of the Treasury, whoever he is, must be in charge—uncluttered by bureaucratic complications. His position boils down to this: if Mr. Ford does not want Bill Simon in charge (perhaps because of his association with the departed Nixon administration), then name a new Secretary of the Treasury.

The President has resolved none of these questions, and time is shorter than he knows. Talk of national and international financial collapse has bred fear and obliterated confidence. Some White House action other than the projected economic summit conference is eagerly awaited. But Mr. Ford cannot provide that action until he puts his economic policymaking house in order.

"How could you discontinue making them? I just bought this one for Christmas."

"That's why we discontinued them. A lot of people bought them, and they didn't work. I guess our mistake was putting the head of our tire division in charge of electric can openers."

"What do I do now?" "I'll take your name and see if there is some way of getting Leavenworth to accept your Green Warrant Card even if it was sent in late."

"And will that get me a can opener?" "Of course not. But it will put you on our mailing list for any new appliances we plan to put out this year."

First Black On Alamance Board

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP) — Jack O'Kelley was sworn in Tuesday as the first black man ever to serve on the Alamance County Board of Commissioners. O'Kelley, who is director of extension instruction at the Alamance Technical Institute and has served as principal of several county schools, was appointed by a 3-1 vote by four members of the board to fill the vacancy created by the resignation June 1 of Bill Horne.

O'Kelley, a Democrat, also has been nominated by the county Democratic executive committee, to run for the post during a special election to be held at the time of the general election Nov. 5.

By LUDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I know what I have to do," Patty Hearst said in her most recent statement from the underground. "My comrades didn't die in vain.... I still feel strong and determined to fight."

With that enigmatic promise of action, delivered in a tape recording on June 7, the renegade newspaper heiress vanished from center stage.

She has not been heard from since. Published claims have placed her in such diverse possible hideouts as Guatemala, Panama, Canada, Illinois, Los Angeles and the San Francisco Bay area.

Miss Hearst, 20, was dragged screaming from her Berkeley apartment on Feb. 4. Two months later in tape recordings she denounced her newspaper publisher father, jilted her fiancé, adopted revolutionary rhetoric and said her name was now "Tania."

She is wanted on charges of kidnaping, assault and robbery along with captors-turned-comrades William and Emily Harris, thought to be the last members of the SLA. If captured and convicted, she could be imprisoned for life.

"We do not know whether or not she is out of the country," FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley said at one point. "We do not know where she is."

Reports of eyewitness "sightings" of Miss Hearst and the HARRIS continue. "We've got new leads in this case and we still get new leads coming in almost every day," FBI Special Agent Charles Bates said on Tuesday.

But Bates, who has been directing investigation of the case from San Francisco, added, "I don't have anything specific as far as developments are concerned."

Bates, who has admitted that he loses sleep worrying about the case, said, "I think our chances of catching any federal fugitive are good. We catch thousands of them every year. I think we will catch Miss Hearst and the other two, but I just can't tell you when."

The San Francisco FBI alone has interviewed 22,000 people in connection with the case, Bates said.

In California, police have stopped hundreds of persons for questioning because they were suspected of SLA connections or resembled the fugitives.

More tips have been followed by law enforcement agencies in other parts of the country. Six SLA members, including the group's leader, Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze, died in a fiery shootout that destroyed their Los Angeles hideout May 17.

Two witnesses said they believed Miss Hearst left the hideout shortly before the shootout, but the FBI discounted the reports.

The last reliable sighting of Miss Hearst was on May 19 when a Los Angeles landlady said two black men and a white woman tried to rent an apartment for the night for $500. She said that when she told them there was no room, one of the men nicked her dress with a knife. The landlady picked out a picture of the heiress from a row of photos.

The tape with the heiress' vow to fight on for the SLA was found under a mattress in an alley after an anonymous telephone call to a Los Angeles radio station.

In Salt Lake City, Utah, the Highway Patrol issued a bulletin for a man resembling Harris. In Sandpoint, Idaho, a jail escape briefly was linked to the SLA but was later discounted as a connection.

Last month in the Los Angeles suburb of North Hollywood more than 150 police officers surrounded an apartment building after being tipped that Patty Hearst was there. Police later complained that mobs of spectators rushed to the scene so quickly that police could barely get through the crush when they arrived.

Miss Hearst's distressed parents, Randolph A. and Catherine Hearst, who had rushed to Los Angeles by plane, left saying they were "very disappointed." Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, said, "I wanted to be of help in the final end of this story if it came here."

The Hearsts returned to the seclusion of their Hillsborough, Calif., home to continue the ordeal of waiting for word of their daughter.

Hearst has said he believes his daughter was brainwashed by her captors. Authorities have been plagued with fake letters contending to be from the SLA.

In early July, a television reporter, crediting an unidentified police source, claimed that Miss Hearst and the HARRIS had traveled to Guatemala and made contact with underground political leaders there but returned to the San Francisco Bay area.

Bates termed that report "news to me" and said, "I know nothing that would lead me to the conclusion that any of them were ever in Guatemala."

Then, a Washington reporter, crediting "informed Latin American sources," claimed that Miss Hearst had traveled from San Jose, Costa Rica, to Panama where she was given asylum by a Panamanian general. The story said Miss Hearst's travels were arranged through diplomatic channels.

The State Department's Latin American office branded the report false.

From Chicago came a claim that Miss Hearst and the HARRIS have been trying to make contact with the radical Weather Underground.

In San Francisco, a claim surfaced last week that the mother of a San Quentin convict may be hiding Miss Hearst and the HARRIS in a racially integrated neighborhood of Los Angeles.

Bates said he was checking out all leads and "we have known that there were people who have acted to assist the SLA here in this area and in Los Angeles." But he would not confirm the report.

The three-month lull in actual developments has not dissipated public interest in the Patty Hearst saga. Tips continue. Although reports of "sightings" have diminished, each published rumor draws responses.

Country Music's Baseball Team

By JOE EDWARDS

Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — For the price of admission to a major league baseball game, fans also are getting the opportunity to see a $6 country music show.

And the country music industry has found a novel way of exposing its sound.

The Nashville Pickers, a baseball team comprised of country music singers, musicians, songwriters and executives, is playing games in major league ballparks before the regular game.

Afterwards, they put on a 90-minute country music show that would normally cost $4 to $6 a ticket.

"To be quite honest, I think most people come to see the baseball," said Gene Ferguson, a team member and National Promotion Manager for Columbia Records.

"But we can expose our music," he said. "We have the fans captured; maybe they don't like our music when they come, but maybe they do when they leave."

Members of the team include Roy Clark, who plays several positions; Jerry Reed, a third baseman; Bill Anderson, a first baseman; Tommy Cash, a catcher; Bob Luman, a first baseman; Roy Drusky, a shortstop, and Charlie McCoy, a centerfielder.

"I think most of these players would surprise you at how well they play, if not offensively, then defensively," said Ferguson, who formed the team three years ago.

"Roy Clark is a good hitter," he said. "We try to play well enough not to embarrass ourselves."

The team contacts major league ball clubs and offers itself as a promotion. Essentially, the team asks for a fee to cover only its expenses and the cost of sponsoring Little League teams in Nashville, plus a fund for building a stadium here.

"It would normally cost $50,000 to book this type of 90-minute entertainment," Ferguson said. "We love to play and we want the exposure."

Re-Refined Oil Also Helpful

By BILL JOHNSON
 Associated Press Writer
 OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — For Cameron L. Kerran, that dirty, sludgy stuff drained from an auto crankcase is the beginning of a cycle that not only eases the energy shortage, but is helping the ecology too. That waste motor oil is the raw material for Kerran's Double Eagle Refining Co., one of the few oil re-refiners left in the United States. And Kerran says if restrictive laws on re-refiners aren't changed, the shortage of lubricating oils will make the gasoline and heating oil shortage look like a potter's feast compared with a backyard picnic. Kerran takes that dirty oil, runs it through his refinery and says the finished product is as good, or better, than it was the first time around. And re-refined oil sells at only 60 to 70 per cent of the cost of new lubricating oil from a major oil company. The waste oil comes from service stations, garages, truck lines and airports within a 600-mile radius of Oklahoma City. And, for average Joe Motorist who changes his own car oil, Kerran has even placed barrels at fire stations where the old oil can be dumped. But Kerran is worried about the future supply of lubricating oil. "I've been to meetings where people who know a lot more about it than I do have presented papers saying that the lubricating oil is that part of the barrel of oil that is going to be in much greater shortage than anything else because the crude oil in the world today is not of lubricating oil quality," he said. To add to the problem, Kerran said that "when the energy crisis got critical last winter, many of the industrial plants in the North and East began to use waste motor oil for fuel oil for industrial burners and boilers. "Once it's burned, you're done — you'll never recover it again." By re-refining, however, much of the oil is saved. But he said the waste in burning the motor oil is only a small part of the problem — that an even greater danger comes from the contaminants the burning produces. He said that on the national level, moves are being made to ban the burning of waste motor oil in boilers or burners, just as moves are being made to remove what he calls restrictive laws on re-refiners. But he said the action is slow. The Double Eagle plant has been here since 1931 and started out as a service to garages which had to find a way to dispose of the oil they drained from customers' cars.

Have Eyes On Wage Increase

By ARTHUR H. ROTSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Despite President Ford's hopes to jaw-bone wage and price increases, the United Transportation Union says it will seek wage hikes totaling 35 per cent in fall negotiations.

Al H. Chesser, president of the 250,000-member rail union, told a news conference on Tuesday that the group wants a 20 per cent hike in 1975 and 15 per cent more in 1976.

"Ford's request for (wage-price) restraint comes at a time that makes it most difficult," Chesser said. "We've had to live with this inflation."

Chesser criticized what he called enormous corporate profits and hikes in consumer prices such as General Motors' average increase of $416 for 1975 model cars.

"If we're going to hold down on the prices of consumer goods, that's something else," he said.

The United Transportation Union represents railroad operating personnel whose annual salaries range from $10,000 to $15,000. Negotiations on a new contract are to begin in Washington next month. The current two-year contract expires Dec. 31.

The Brotherhood of Railway, Airlines & Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express & Station Employees will seek a similar wage settlement, Chesser said. The two unions represent most U.S. rail employees.

Chesser also said the federal Department of Transportation is not properly enforcing railway safety regulations.

He warned that unless safety problems are resolved, he would not rule out strike action.

He said the two biggest safety problems facing the railroads are bad trackage and faulty tank cars.

Teen-Age Girl Smokers Soar

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The percentage of teen-age girls who smoke cigarettes is catching up to that of boys, according to new government figures. In 1968, the proportion of girls smoking was just over half that of boys.

The new figures for 1974 have spurred the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health to intensify its efforts to reach teen-agers, particularly the girls.

The Clearinghouse also is getting out new posters and pamphlets directed at woman smokers — "These days there's no such thing as a dumb reason for not smoking," they say.

The 1974 survey for the clearinghouse of 2,553 boys and girls reports that 15.8 per cent of boys, ages 12 through 18 years, said that they smoked cigarettes regularly. The figure for girls is 15.3 per cent.

The 1968 figures were 14.7 per cent for boys, 8.4 per cent for girls. The 1974 survey also showed that 74.5 per cent of the boys and 76.2 per cent of the girls reported that they never had smoked a cigarette or had experimented only.

It also showed that 9.2 per cent of the boys and 7.9 per cent of the girls reported they were ex-smokers and five-tenths of one per cent of the boys and six-tenths of one per cent of the girls were occasional smokers, meaning less than one cigarette a week.

The clearinghouse, part of the Public Health Service, estimated that there are about 4 million teen-age cigarette smokers in the country today.

$450,783 In Tax Receipts

RALEIGH—The North Carolina Department of Revenue has reported that Pitt County and municipalities within received $450,783 in county sales tax for the quarter ending June 30, 1974.

Total collections from the one per cent sales tax in the county totaled $454,717 with net proceeds distributed on a per capita basis totaling $450,783. A charge of 86.5 cents per $100 of collections, or $3,933 was made for collecting the taxes by the state, the Revenue Department report indicated.

The per capita distribution for the county government totaled $283,538, while the per capita distribution to the municipalities within the county included: Ayden, $13,363; Bethel, $5,716; Falkland $492; Farmville $17,148; Fountain, $1,627; Greenville, $116,065; Grifton, $5,867; Grimesland $1,514 and Winterville $5,451. In addition, Grifton received $232 from Lenoir County's one per cent tax collection.

Competition Said Unfair

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—Transportation Secretary Troy Doby says the situation under which small North Carolina communities must compete with the larger cities for financing of major thoroughfare projects is "grossly unfair" and "intolerable."

Doby told Wilson city and county officials Tuesday that to correct this situation the Transportation Department will present a "roads plan" to the state Transportation Board at the same time road projects are presented. He said the plan would list categories of road needs based upon the population of municipalities across the state.

If this is adopted, he said, "the road needs of Wilson and other cities its size will be in competition with each other instead of the larger municipalities."

Doby told the group that maintenance of existing highway will take priority over construction in allocating highway funds.

"We're not going to watch our roads we've already constructed degenerate," he said. "What monies we have left over after maintenance work is accomplished will then be used on our highway construction program."

The original stone that marked Thomas Jefferson's grave is located at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Braless Bandit Strikes Again, Drops Her Loot

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The braless bandit has struck for the second time in two days, but this time she dropped the loot.

Police said the woman, wearing a sheer blue blouse without a bra, robbed a South Pasadena branch of the Bank of America of about $400 Tuesday after telling a female teller in a note:

"Give me all the money you've got or you're dead." The bandit ran from the bank with the money in an envelope but dropped it while hopping into a late model Cadillac. The car, driven by a man, sped away before she could retrieve it, officers said.

On Monday, a person believed to be the same woman held up a Los Angeles savings and loan office and made good her getaway with $2,600. Police said a red-faced male teller was unable to describe the female bandit's face, noting only that she was braless under a light-colored blouse.

Vans Bringing Data New French On Vets' Benefits Arms Policy

Four mobile vans, stocked with information about veterans' rights and benefits, were ceremoniously dispatched from Raleigh Monday to begin a week-long Veterans' Aid Tour of North Carolina.

Sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans, they will be joined by three additional vans in the eastern and western portions of the State to provide one-stop service and technical assistance to Armed Forces veterans and dependents.

One of the vans will be in Greenville August 29.

Greenville State Employment Office Manager Jim Hannan reports that the tour of North Carolina is part of a nationwide effort by the DAV to provide outreach services to veterans. During their stay, the vehicles will be staffed by representatives of the DAV.

DAV officials believe the vans give veterans a one-stop service center where they can gain information about veterans' rights and benefits without visiting a multitude of agencies. Ceremonies before the Legislative Building attended by a number of State department heads and veterans employment officials kicked off the campaign. Featured speaker was General John Tolson, Secretary, Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs.

According to Hannan, the tour is the vans' first in North Carolina. They will leave the state at the end of the week and go into another area as part of a nationwide campaign to acquaint Veterans with their benefits.

Arrested On Robbery Count

Dallas Parker, 30, of 417 Moore St. was arrested Saturday on charges of robbery following investigation of an incident earlier that day.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Parker allegedly beat and robbed Dallas Dudley of Route 8, Greenville on North Greene Street about 9:30 p.m.

Parker was taken into custody about an hour later by police, Cannon noted.

Parker's bond, pending hearing of the case in court, was set at $500.

Revival Series Begins Tonight

Revival services will be conducted at Christ Temple Holy Church beginning tonight and continuing through Friday night.

The services are being conducted by the pastor, Bishop D.L. Payton. Services begin each night at 8 p.m.

PARIS (AP) — The French government today lifted a seven-year-old embargo on arms sales to Israel and some Arab countries, a Cabinet spokesman announced.

Weapons sales to these countries "could henceforth be authorized after a case-by-case study," spokesman Andre Rossi said.

The change in policy was prompted when it was revealed earlier this month that Libya had loaned French-built jets to Egypt for last year's October war with Israel.

Besides Israel, the embargo affected Egypt, Syria and Jordan. Libya violated the clauses of its arms accord with France and thereby made the French embargo policy irrelevant.

Egypt and Syria have been getting all their weapons from the Soviet Union but Cairo's recent improved relations with Washington has dried up the arms pipeline from Moscow.

Rossi did not say whether France has been approached by Egypt or Syria for possible weapons sales. Jordan has relied on the United States and Britain for most of its weapons.

The French aircraft industry is ailing and in need of sharply boosted sales abroad.

Cost Of New Weaponry Seems Unending Spiral

By JOHN WHEELER
AP Newsfeatures Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The name of the game is military hardware and it's the biggest high-stake action in town.

The principal players are the military, congressmen and defense contractors, with the taxpayer a sort of off-stage banker providing billion-dollar chips each time one of the players announces, proposes or approves a cost increase for new weapons.

The chips are flowing for 51 major weapons systems now being developed or built. They range from the B1 supersonic bomber and the Trident missile-launching submarine to Army tactical missiles.

The original price was $94 billion for the 51 weapons systems, some of them under development for a decade. But this has risen to $133 billion today, the General Accounting Office reports. And cost will continue to rise, say government experts, until the last of the new weapons is completed in the 1980s.

"The patience of the public ... has been worn thin by repeated experiences with contractor and Defense Department cost forecasts ... that are unrealistic," Elmer B. Staats, the U.S. comptroller general, said of the weapons cost explosion. "The public has become skeptical of not only the Defense Department but also of the Congress on defense issues."

The Congress this month approved $22.2 billion for weapons purchase and research in fiscal 1975. That was only $1 billion less than the Defense Department sought. The total proposed military budget is $85.8 billion.

The B1 supersonic intercontinental bomber, now being developed for the Air Force's Strategic Air Command as a replacement for the aging B52, is a case study of how in the world did those billions get added. Four years ago, when the first contracts were signed, the Pentagon estimated that the cost of a fleet of 244 B1's would be $11.2 billion. Last year, the cost estimate went to $13.3 billion and this year the Air Force says that $15 billion is the correct figure for the B1 fleet. The first prototype is to be flown this year and the planes are to be operational by 1980 or 1981.

The B1 story began in the early 1960s when the Air Force became concerned about the improving quality of the Soviet Union's air defenses and the future combat reliability of the mammoth B52s. The men gathered around the Pentagon conference tables a decade ago had three major problems to consider:

—What sort of technical breakthroughs could American air frame, engine and electronics systems manufacturers logically come up with over the next 10 to 15 years?

—Could they design a bomber that Soviet plane, missile and electronics manufacturers could not outsmart and make totally obsolete by the time the bomber became operational?

—Given increasing public resistance to the huge costs of the defense establishment, how could the program be sold without touching off a taxpayer revolt?

As the concept of the plane evolved, major gambles had to be taken, according to interviews with those involved in weapons planning. It had to be assumed that future aircraft design would permit construction of a fast plane carrying heavier nuclear weapons over longer ranges than in the past. The plane had to be strong enough and electronically smart enough to fly close to the ground at high speeds, the best way to elude Soviet air defenses. At the same time, it was assumed that jet engine makers, in the coming years, could increase the power of engines while reducing their weight.

A mistake in any of this gambling would lead to higher costs because of design changes, delays and the added cost of inflation resulting from delays.

By 1970, the B1 had jelled in the Pentagon's thinking, and development contracts were let in June of that year. Rockwell International Corp. is building the 380,000-pound, four-jet bomber and General Electric the engines, each in the 30,000-pound thrust class.

The B1, described by critics as the most expensive weapons system in military history, is a swept-wing aircraft with a supersonic speed capability at high altitudes. But it could be flown 200 to 300 feet off the ground at just under supersonic speed to avoid enemy radar. The B1 is two-thirds the size of the B52, but will carry four times the payload, fly faster and farther on less fuel and pose tougher defense problems for the enemy, the Air Force says. The plane's primary weapon is to be a nuclear-tipped short-range attack missile (SRAM), which can be fired 70 to 100 miles from a target, thus avoiding anti-aircraft weapons massed around major Russian cities.

What would it all cost?

The Pentagon's 1970 reports to the General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog over the executive branch, said development would be $2.685 billion and production $8.5 billion — totaling nearly $11.2 billion.

Did anyone in Washington really believe in 1970 that the B1 could be delivered at that price?

"There is no doubt that key congressmen, the Pentagon and defense contractors all work to bring in low cost estimates to get the momentum going for flation and other "normal" unforeseeables.

A General Accounting Office expert, in an interview, said the actual cost estimate today is about $16 billion, with future cost increases probable. That would be $65 million for each plane. By comparison, a 747 jumbo jet costs about $30 million.

What concerns such B1 critics as Seiberling and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a World War II bomber pilot, is that even if B1 costs can be held at $16 billion, which they doubt, the full cost of the bombers will be higher because of the B1 support system. They estimate $70 billion based on research by their staffs.

The Pentagon says nonsense, but issues no figures on the expected cost of missiles, nuclear warheads, maintenance, replacements and the like.

The Pentagon, stressing national security as a justification for cost problems, notes that a pre-World War II Congress nearly let the B17 Flying Fortress die because the congressmen thought the bomber would cost too much to produce. The B17 became the mainstay of the U.S. bomber force in the opening years of World War II.

Moeller At Texas Meet

H. G. Moeller, coordinator of the East Carolina University correctional services program, attended the 104th Annual Congress of Corrections in Houston, Texas, last week.

Sponsored by the American Correctional Association, the congress drew about 3,000 ACA members.

Moeller attended the annual meeting of the organization's Board of Directors, to which he was recently re-elected, and also was a panelist in a discussion organized by the National Commission on Accreditation for Corrections, of which he is a member.

He also chaired a meeting on program evaluation sponsored by the ACA Research Council, which he serves as vice chairman.

Moeller and eight other members of a group of national correspondents to the United Nations met to discuss plans for U. S. participation in the fifth United Nations Congress on Crime Prevention and Control which will meet in Toronto in September, 1975.

Comic Books To Be Educational

NEW YORK (AP) — The comic book has joined the more serious text books of education to help developing readers.

"The Electric Company," television's contribution to easing education's reading crisis, has published "Spidey Super Stories," a new four-color comic starring the super-hero "Spider-Man" as an education device.

While not the first time the comics have been used as an educational tool, Spider-Man's adventures for the Electric Company are believed to be the first in which educational researchers have applied their knowledge of the way in which young children — particularly beginning readers — approach the printed comic book page.

Four From ECU In Rhode Island

Four members of the East Carolina University faculty are attending a national marine education conference at the University of Rhode Island this week.

They are Dr. Richard A. Stephenson, director of the ECU Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources; Dr. Michael P. O'Connor, chairman of the ECU Department of Geology; Dr. Vincent J. Bellis, associate professor of biology; and Dr. Ralph H. Steele, associate professor of parks, recreation and conservation.

The group is being sponsored by the ECU coastal and marine resources institute, as part of an effort to improve marine related education at ECU.

ECU Offering Degree Courses

East Carolina University will begin two graduate degree programs at Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point on September 16, 1974. A Master of Arts in Elementary Education Degree and a Master of Administrative Services will be offered at the two off-campus locations. Military personnel and civilians within commuting distance of the bases may enroll.

The courses are scheduled during the evening hours and the two programs are designed for part-time students who are employed full time.

Cosmonauts Returning Without Link-Up In Space

States' Offshore Oil Claims Are Rejected

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A special master appointed by the Supreme Court has rejected the claims of 12 Atlantic Coast states to oil and other rights on the offshore continental shelf.

The report by Senior Circuit Judge Albert B. Maris of Philadelphia was filed on Tuesday with the court, which is expected to decide the case sometime after returning from a recess on Oct. 7.

Bruce Rashkow, head of the marine resource section of the Justice Department, said adoption of Maris's recommendation would net the federal treasury a "phenomenal amount" of money.

It would mean that the federal government, not the states, would receive any royalties and bonuses from oil drilling off the East Coast. Although there has been no deep drilling, there have been explorations, mostly off Georgia, Maryland and Delaware.

Maris, appointed to hear evidence in the case four years ago, recommended that the court rule the United States owns the seabed from three miles out to the edge of the continental shelf.

His 87-page report, delving deeply into American history, rejected claims by the states that they controlled the seabed as a result of British and Dutch grants in colonial times.

The government asked the Supreme Court to settle the question five years ago after Maine granted exclusive oil and gas rights to approximately 3.3 million acres of submerged land more than three miles offshore.

Maris said that "Colonial law and practice prior to 1776 do not support the claim that property rights to the seabed of the marginal sea seaward for 100 miles or any lesser distance had been granted to the colonies."

He said that even if it had been the national government rather than the states would have assumed these rights after the United States gained its independence.

The case involves North Carolina, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, South Carolina and Georgia.

Acquired 38 Minibuses

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Office of Child Development has purchased 38 minibuses to be used in the delivery of child development programs and other human services in western North Carolina.

The Office of Child Development administers federal-state funds from the Appalachian Regional Commission for a child development program which current serves over 2,700 children in the 29-county area of the state served by the commission.

The buses cost approximately $280,000, according to Gov. Jim Holshouser. Thirty-one of the vehicles have a 16-passenger capacity and seven buses will handle 12 passengers each.

Holshouser said the buses would be available for a wide variety of human services programs when not needed to transport participants in child development programs.

For example, the buses could be used to transport elderly citizens to receive meals provided in nutrition programs. Or they can be used to transport high school students getting work experience in child development centers under manpower programs.

The Office of Child Development is part of the Department of Administration.

Sentencing Of Reinecke Put Off By Judge

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A federal judge has postponed sentencing Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke for at least another month and Reinecke says he's gaining confidence that his perjury conviction will be overturned.

"I have said previously my attorneys and I are confident ... that the trial record would be stricken," Reinecke told reporters Tuesday after learning of the decision by U.S. District Court Judge Barrington Parker. "With today's announcement my attorneys and I are even more confident."

Parker, who presided over Reinecke's trial in Washington, announced the delay in Washington but did not give a reason for his decision.

Reinecke was scheduled to be sentenced Friday for his role in the ITT affair. Sentencing is now scheduled for Oct. 1.

MOSCOW (AP) — Less than 40 hours after they were hurtled into space, two Soviet cosmonauts aboard Soyuz 15 are returning to earth without docking with an orbiting Russian space laboratory, Tass reported today.

The Soviet news agency gave no explanation why the cosmonauts, Gennady Sarafanov and Lev Demin, would not link up with the Salyut 3 unmanned laboratory. Earlier reports indicated the two spaceships would link up.

Tass said only that the Soyuz 15 made many approaches to the space lab, "made observations of the approach to the station," and inspected Salyut 3, which was sent up June 25.

Tass said, "Under the program of the second day, the cosmonauts made experiments to perfect the technique of piloting the ship in different flight regimes ... According to reports of the crew and data of telemetric information, the cosmonauts feel well."

Tass indicated the return to earth would not start before 4 p.m. Moscow time (9 a.m. EDT).

Soyuz 15, which was given the name Dunai, or Danube, was launched late Monday from the Baikonur space center in Soviet Asia. Tass said then that the purpose of the flight was to continue the work of Soyuz 14, which docked onto Salyut 3 for two weeks while the two crewmen worked aboard the orbiting lab.

The Russians as usual did not announce that such a linkup was planned for Soyuz 15, but the Tass announcements and the similar orbits of the two satellites led Western observers to expect one.

Both recent Soyuz missions have been in preparation for a joint Soviet-American space venture scheduled for July. American officials have reportedly been pressing the Russians to test the redesigned Soyuz craft and its linkup equipment thoroughly.

A problem in the Soyuz could lead to a postponement of the joint flight.

Nixon To Get Two Subpoenas

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon will be served personally with two subpoenas "within the next few days," U.S. Marshal Gaylord Campbell says.

Campbell declined to say on Tuesday exactly when the subpoenas would be served, but he said he would serve them on Nixon at his seaside estate in San Clemente, Calif.

In Washington, Chris Rice, a spokesman for the U.S. Marshals Service, said the delivery would take place today or Thursday.

One subpoena was filed by John B. Ehrlichman, who wants Nixon to appear as a defense witness at the Watergate cover-up trial. Ehrlichman, once Nixon's chief domestic adviser, and five others face trial Sept. 30 on charges of conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

The second subpoena seeks an oral deposition from the former president Sept. 24 in connection with a civil suit filed in Charlotte, N.C., by 25 persons who contend they were illegally kept out of a Billy Graham Day rally that Nixon attended on Oct. 15, 1971.

Campbell said his office had negotiated with Nixon's lawyers on the time and place to serve the papers. The marshal said he received the first subpoena on Aug. 19, four days after it was issued in U.S. District Court.

Campbell said there was a delay in serving the subpoenas because there had been "many other things in the office with more pressing deadlines."

In response to questions, Rice said serving the subpoena right after receiving it "would make the Marshals Service look a little bit pushy."

Rice said Marshals Service Director Wayne Colburn had told Campbell "just to hold onto it, to cool it until arrangements could be made to serve it."

Rockefeller Hands Over His Income Tax Returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional committees considering the nomination of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president have been supplied with copies of his federal income tax returns for the last seven years.

Still awaited is a financial statement listing assets and liabilities of the former New York governor. Committee aides said they have no information on how soon the statement will be available.

Rockefeller voluntarily turned over copies of his tax returns to the Senate Rules and Administration Committee and the House Judiciary Committee in compliance with a request for returns of the last six years.

A Senate committee aide said on Tuesday that Rockefeller's liaison man, New York lawyer Robert Douglass, apparently thought returns for the last seven years were sought. The returns will be analyzed by the staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which will submit a summary report of its findings to the Senate and House committees.

The committees already are receiving data on Rockefeller, ranging from newspaper and magazine articles on him to speeches he has made. And in addition to a full FBI investigation, the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, is checking on the financing of Rockefeller's campaigns for public office.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, have been asked to report if they have found any information bearing on Rockefeller's fitness for vice president.

Senate and House committees have agreed to exchange information, as they did when President Ford was nominated for vice president last October.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets stronger Tuesday. Supplies barely adequate, demand very good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 67.38, medium whites 62.39, small whites 47.20.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina hog prices were steady to $1.00 lower today, mostly 50 cents lower. Tops of 37.00-38.00 at Kinston and Lumberton; 37.00-37.50 Rocky Mount; 35.50-36.00 Tarboro and Bethel; 38.00 Salisbury; 36.00 Wilson and High Falls.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina F.O.B. dock broilers were steady today with a firm undertone. This week's weighted average price is 37.33 cents per pound. Supplies were adequate and demand good. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter 1,124,000.

North Carolina hen were steady to slightly weaker on heavy types. Supplies in balance with trade needs. Heavies, at farm, 11 to 12 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices slipped a bit today, but an upswing in some recently depressed glamour issues slowed the severe slide of the past three weeks.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.64 at 669.90, and losers led gainers by 5-to-4 on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was comparatively light.

Analysts said the market got some scattered support from short covering, or the purchase of borrowed shares sold earlier in the hope of profiting from market declines.

They said some investors who had been short evidently chose to take their profits in advance of President Ford's scheduled news conference later in the day.

Among the institutional favorites which have taken the worst of the market's battering lately, Sears, Roebuck was up 1 1/2% at 56; Xerox gained 1 1/4% to 81 1/4; Burroughs rose 1 1/4 to 79 1/4; and DuPont gained 1/4 to 112 1/4.

As an illustration of the role played by such big-name issues in the latest decline, Robert Stovall at Reynolds Securities pointed out that four of the 30 stocks in the Dow accounted for more than half of the average's 126-point slide over the past three weeks.

They were DuPont, Sears, Eastman Kodak, and Procter & Gamble—the four highest-priced issues among those which make up the average. Ramada Inns was the Big Board volume leader today, down 1/4 at 4 in a 242,000-share block trade.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. Composite index was up .09 at 37.27. On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index gave up .05 to 70.56.

Giant Yellowknife Mines, the most-active Amex stock, was down 7/8 at 9 1/2.

FBI Agents Checking Out Wanted Man's Car

FBI agents are carefully checking a 1974 model vehicle that was apparently sold to a local car dealer by an ex-convict wanted in the kidnapping-slaying last week of a South Carolina woman.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Jack Leland Allen, 33, also known as Jack Steele, apparently checked into a Greenville motel early Thursday and later sold a 1974 Ford Bronco to Hastings Ford on E. Tenth Street.

Sheriff Tyson said that Allen is alleged to have then cashed the check for the vehicle sale at Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. on E. Tenth Street and then rented a car here before driving to Kinston where he boarded a plane for Hilton Head, S.C. The sheriff noted that his office received an alert to be on the lookout for Allen in connection with the alleged kidnapping and murder of Mrs. Nancy Amaker, 27, a St. Matthews, S.C. housewife. Mrs. Amaker's body was found Thursday afternoon near a lake about 50 miles from St. Matthews. She had been shot in the head, it was reported.

The Sheriff's Department was notified of the vehicle purchase, Sheriff Tyson said, and FBI personnel were summoned here from South Carolina. He noted that Allen had informed Hastings Ford personnel that blood stains in the vehicle were from a deer he had shot.

A check of the vehicle's serial number and other descriptions matched that issued by the FBI from Columbia, S.C.

The sheriff said that it was learned that Allen also rented a car at Hilton Head, S.C. after arriving there from Kinston.

Warrants charging Allen with kidnapping and murder have been issued by the FBI which has put out a nationwide alert for the former convict. Allen, a parole violator, is also accused in three warrants from Michigan, including one for assaulting a Grand Rapids doctor.

FBI officials have described Allen as armed and extremely dangerous. The State of South Carolina is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the fugitive.

Arrested For 'False Report'

A full-scale search Tuesday, triggered by the spotting of a person thought to have been connected with the stabbing of a Beaufort County jailer, resulted in the arrest today of an area man on charges of causing a false report to be broadcast over police radio.

According to Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson, deputies arrested Holly Mims Streeter, 20, of Rt. 2, Box 32, Greenville at his home this morning and, in addition to the false report charge, cited him with his fourth offense of driving without an operator's license.

Sheriff Tyson said that a Pitt deputy observed a black person jump from a car near the Winterville Cemetery on the Reedy Branch Church road around 11 a.m. Tuesday and run. The sheriff said that the person had a black stocking pulled over the head.

The spotting, following the early Tuesday stabbing of a jailer in Washington, led to a search of the area by Sheriff's Department personnel, State Bureau of Investigation agents, Highway Patrol troopers, ABC officers, and Winterville police who used a plane in canvassing the area.

A woman, in custody at the Beaufort County jail at the time of the stabbing, is being sought in connection with the incident, it was noted, and the person seen running from the car near Winterville was apparently mistaken for a woman.

Sheriff Tyson said that Streeter had reported to the Sheriff's Department that his car had been stolen.

He is being held in Pitt County Jail on $200 bond on the false report charge and $100 on the no operator's license count.

Turn Lilliston loose on your peanut crop—
Count on the highest possible harvest returns

Lilliston 1500 Peanut Combine

It has been called as near perfect a machine as ever built. Few implements of any kind anywhere have been as effective, as versatile, as dependable as the Lilliston 1500. That's why there are far more of them picking the world's peanuts than any other combine made.

Sixty-four years of peanut production experience are squarely behind this world-famous Combine. Proof enough that it will pick better, work more dependably, last longer and trade higher—a combination that can only build bigger profits for you.

Lilliston 6000 Hi-Cap Peanut Combine

Here is a completely new dimension in peanut combining, a working concept that goes far beyond anything else operating in peanuts today. The capacity of the Hi-Cap 6000 is massive. In many conditions the 6000 will harvest at twice the speeds of conventional units.

Besides being engineered for greater harvesting capacity, the Hi-Cap lowers pod damage and produces superior cleaning. This is the big one—the super harvester—first, fast and in all ways superior to any other harvester in the field.

Malone Expected To Ink Pro Contract

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer
PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — Whiz kid Moses Malone appeared on the verge today of becoming the first player ever to go directly from high school into professional basketball — if, indeed, he hadn't already done it.

A source close to the 19-year-old Petersburg High School star said Tuesday night Malone already had signed with the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association, but Malone refused early today either to confirm or deny the report. It was learned, however, that Malone, his mother and three executives of the ABA team were booked on an Eastern Air Lines flight leaving nearby Richmond for New York this morning. And the ABA tentatively scheduled a 2 p.m. EDT. news conference in New York at the Americana Hotel, presumably to introduce Malone.

Jim Bukata, the league's new public relations director, said in New York he would not announce the news conference formally until he knew Malone had been signed.

Three executives of the Stars — Jim Collier, president; Arnie Ferrin, general manager; and Bucky Buckwalter, player personnel director — reportedly left Washington about 8:30 p.m. EDT Tuesday en route here.

Malone, who averaged 35.8 points and 25 rebounds per game in leading Petersburg to its second successive state championship this past season, was due to have begun classes today at the University of Maryland, which won the college recruiting war for his services.

The news Malone had signed or was about to sign a contract, which a high ABA source in New York said was in excess of $3 million spread over a 13-year period, brought Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell and his staff hurriedly to this South Central Virginia city Tuesday night.

It was learned Malone met with Driesell during the evening, but he declined comment on the session when he talked briefly with newsmen on his second visit to his small frame house in a low-income section. "The latest news will come out tomorrow and it's going to be me who makes the decision. You all will hear about it," Malone told newsmen.

Asked whether the news would occur here, Malone said, "No," then quickly amended the statement to "you'll have to find out." Terms of the contract were hammered out Tuesday in negotiations between officials of the ABA team and Donald Dell, a Washington attorney retained to advise Malone, only the second player ever drafted directly from high school by a pro basketball team.

Wilt Chamberlain was drafted by the National Basketball Association's then Philadelphia Warriors out of Philadelphia's Oerbrook High School in 1955 but didn't go into pro ball until after playing at the University of Kansas. Many college scouts have rated Malone the best high school player since 1965, when Kareem Abdul-Jabbar — then Lew Alcindor — was the nation's No. 1 prospect at Power Memorial High in New York City.

The source who reported Malone's signing said the contract called for him to receive $125,000 a year for four years, $25,000 for signing, $25,000 for reporting to Utah's training camp and $60,000 to attend college, plus additional benefits.

Thin Ranks Hurts Rams

(One of a series)
SNOW HILL—The lack of numbers will probably make Greene Central's Rams less of a threat to the Eastern Carolina Conference title than they were last year.

"We just don't have the numbers," Coach Stewart Smith said. "We have some pretty good experience on defense and in the backfield, but I'm afraid that we are going to have too many people going both ways to really be a threat in the league."

Ten lettermen return to the team this year, but one of them, a starter from last year, Tim Butts, won't be able to play until late September. He suffered a shoulder separation, and probably will miss about half of the season. Six of those 10 started last year, mostly on defense.

"We're small too," Smith said. "We range from 5-2 to 5-10, and from 120 to 170 pounds mostly. I'd say our average weight will be between 140 and 150. Butts is the only guy on the team over 200 pounds."

In addition to the 10 lettermen, there are 15 up from the junior varsity and two sophomores on the varsity. "This will give us around 27 people... really not a lot," the coach said. "But our juniors should really help us, since they went 7-1 on the junior varsity last year." The JVs lost only once, to Goldsboro, in the final minute of play.

"We're going to try the wishbone on offense this year," Smith said. "We want to get more running into our game, and we feel we can do it this way. If it doesn't work out, however, we may switch back to the pro-I. We have a good passer in Jerry Carraway, our quarterback, and

Outlook—Despite a fine JV team last year, the return of a veteran quarterback, and most of the defense, the Rams will be bothered by a lack of experienced linemen and backs and a switch from the pro-I to the wishbone. Without depth to give key players a rest, the Rams will have to go hard to become a threat in the league this year.

Offense—Wishbone and pro-I.

Defense—Five-man front. Schedule—Sept. 6, Saratoga; Sept. 13, at Southern Nash; Sept. 20, Southern Wayne; Sept. 27, at C. B. Aycock; Oct. 4, D. H. Conley; Oct. 11, at North Pitt; Oct. 18, at Ayden-Grifton; Oct. 25, Farmville Central; Nov. 1, North Lenoir; Nov. 8, at Eastern Wayne.

Corbett, are both up from the junior varsity. "They both have real good speed (4.6 in the 40), but blocking may be a problem. Underhill might also play some in the backfield."

"I think we can move the ball," Smith said, "but the line will take some time to get together and get their timing down."

On defense, the Rams will probably put up a five-man front, with variations. "I think our defense will be a strong point," Smith said. "But again, we're going to be playing a lot of people both ways, maybe seven, and this can hurt us."

There are more veterans back here: free safety Shackleford, strong safety Blizzard, tackle Moye, middle guard Dunn, linebacker Rasberry, and end Butts, all slated for offensive duty also.

The other tackle will likely be Underhill, while Melvin Briggs, the second string quarterback, will sub for Butts at one end. The other end will be Letchworth. The linebackers will be Lonnie Jones, Warren and Rouse.

"Naturally, the defense is far ahead of the offense," Smith said. "The weather has really hurt us, too. We just haven't been able to practice a lot."

The coach added however, that the defense, although small, had some hard hitters on it, and

The Little Sluggers remained as the one unbeaten team in the double elimination Greenville Invitational Softball Tournament following last night's action. Only two other teams remain in competition, Bank of North Carolina of Farmville, and Marco's Hi-Fi of Williamston.

Those two meet tonight in the first game to decide which shall take on the Little Sluggers in the finals. A third game, if needed, would follow, closing out the tournament.

In the opening game, Marco ousted RCN of Vanceboro, 6-2. Marco scored five runs in the first inning to lock it up. They added one more in the fifth. RCN got one each in the first and fourth.

The second game saw Shirley's nip Kentucky Fried Chicken, 11-10, in an upset. KFC got three in the first, but Shirley's came back to score six in their half of the frame. They added one more in the third before KFC came back with four in the fourth. Shirley's got three more in the fourth, but three by KFC in the fifth tied it at 10-10. Shirley's then pushed over the winning run in the sixth.

In the lone winners' bracket game, the Sluggers took a 13-1 win over BNC. BNC got its run in the second for a brief lead. But the Sluggers tied it up with one in the bottom of the second, then pushed in three more in the third. They added five in the fourth and four more in the sixth, with Seymour and Kuykendall homering.

Marco returned to action with a 13-5 win over University Seafood. Marco got two in the second, then pushed over seven in the third. They added one in the fourth and three in the fifth. University put all its scoring together in the seventh.

Lancaster then ousted Shirley's 6-5, in the next game. Shirley's got three in the first, but Lancaster came back with four in their half of the game.

They added one in the fourth, but Shirley's scored two in the seventh to tie it up. Lancaster pushed in one in the eighth, with a bases-loaded single to win it.

In the final game, Marco then downed Lancaster, 8-4. Lancaster got three in the fourth, while Marco came up with a pair. It stayed that way until the sixth, with Lancaster made it 4-2 with another run. But in the bottom of the sixth, Marco rallied for six runs to charge ahead and take the victory.

State To Pace Team

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The basketball team Coach Norm Sloan of North Carolina State will lead against the Soviet Union in a series starting September 3 will have a familiar look for Wolfpack fans.

The team will include five players from Sloan's NCAA champions, plus one State freshman who has never played college ball. It will also include six other players from across the country.

The Wolfpack coach said the Basketball Federation of the U.S.A., which holds the international amateur basketball franchise for the United States, told him he could use six players from his own squad when it asked him to coach the team.

From the rest of the country, Sloan picked Rich Kelly of Stanford; Ron Lee of Oregon; Quinn Buckner and Steve Green of Indiana; John Garrett of Purdue; and Junior Bridgeman of Louisville.

He said he had not talked with John Wooden of UCLA about using any of the Bruin players. "Kelly and Lee were both All-Pac 8, and I don't think any UCLA players who are still amateurs were," he said.

"There were a lot of coaches I didn't talk to and there are hundreds of great players not on the team. The ones I selected were the ones I thought would fit in with my style of play and represent the country well."

Moye Tourney This Weekend

The annual W. S. Moye Memorial Golf Tournament will be held Saturday through Monday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, with Jim Ward seeking his fifth straight title.

Ward has won the tournament in each of the past four years, dominating the field since Marvin Blount, Jr. won in 1969. The tournament is open to all male members of the club, 16 and older. All golfers will be flighted by handicap, but may advance one flight by appeal no later than Friday.

Golfers should make up their own games for the first two rounds and call the pro shop for starting times. Golfers will be paired for Monday's final round, and assigned starting times.

The tournament, one of the oldest in the area, began in 1953, when W. L. Allen captured the title. He repeated in 1954, then Molt Massey captured the prize. He repeated in 1966.

Reynolds May won the tournament in 1956, and Don Conley followed with wins in 1957, 1959 and 1960, while Ernell Webb won in 1958. Ben Harrison won in 1961 and 1965, while Sammy Kee took the 1962 tournament. Joe Harvey was a three-time winner, in 1963, 1964 and 1967, while Ben Harrison Jr. won in 1968.

A junior tournament was held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club this week. In the 10-12 age group, Lee Hardee took first place with an 89, while Jay Lanier was second at 106.

Taylor Pace won the 13-14 age group with a 94, and Sandy Abbott finished second at 95. In the 15-17 group, Mike Wooles won with an 80, while Connor

Rain Hits Buc Camp

East Carolina University completed its second day of practice here Tuesday once again aided by the uncharacteristically cool weather. The area was rocked by an early-morning thunderstorm that shut down most places for about an hour and prevented the Bucs from working out in the morning on the rain-soaked field.

"Our quarterbacks threw well this afternoon," said first-year head football coach Pat Dye. "Our veterans did a good job of getting down the offense and defense."

Dye said that he believes the question now for the Pirates is a matter of how far the young players come along. A big portion of that answer will come Thursday when the club dons full battle gear for the first heavy workouts of the season.

Finals In Race

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Defending champion Intrepid faced an uphill battle today in an effort to prevent the aluminum Courageous from becoming the U.S. entry for the 1974 America's Cup yacht races.

The wooden Intrepid, winner in 1970 and 1967 of the latest two Cup finals, was to race Courageous again on Rhode Island Sound with the final U.S. trials nearing an end. Courageous holds a clear 4-2 lead.

Australia's Southern Cross, meanwhile, was set for a final race against the wooden France in the best-of-seven for-sign competition. The aluminum Southern Cross has won three races by wide margins.

Intrepid triumphed by 1 minute, 12 seconds against Courageous Tuesday in rolling seas and a 15-knot southerly breeze, complicating the problems of the New York Yacht Club's selection committee.

The club — owner of the America's Cup trophy — has less than a week remaining to choose the U.S. entry in the final Sept. 10 competition for international sailing's oldest prize, which dates to 1851.

Courageous and Southern Cross were both built to new 12-meter specifications that allowed aluminum hulls for the first time.

Players Reject Proposal

By JOE MOOSHL
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — In football terms, the cooling-off period moved into overtime today, the latest proposal by the owners to end the National Football League Players Association strike was tackled hard at the line of scrimmage and there's a time out in the negotiations.

By a 25-1 vote Tuesday night, the NFLPA strongly rejected the owners' newest offer, but the players will remain in their training camps as the 14-day cooling off period has been indefinitely extended.

"We gambled the 14-day period would work. It didn't," Ed Garvey, executive director of the players union, told a press conference early today. "We wanted a good faith offer but they did not make the effort. This offer is hardly what we consider a good faith offer."

"The negotiations have been recessed," Bill Curry, union president, said. "It's been decided for the players to remain in camp and continue without an agreement."

Neither Garvey nor Curry, who announced the near-unanimous rejection, said which representative from the 26 NFL teams cast the dissenting vote.

"The negotiations have been called off and when the owners come up with a substantial offer, we'll go back," Garvey said. "We intend to remain flexible and we'll play it by ear. No, they didn't break the union. We feel it is stronger than ever."

W.J. Usery Jr., head of the federal mediation team, was saddened that the 14-day cooling-off period, which was his suggestion to the union, did not foster an agreement.

"I have encouraged both sides to play the season," Usery said. "I don't plan to call them back into negotiations in the near future — by that I mean the next few days.

The 14-day cooling-off period, which allowed veterans to enter training camp while negotiations in the prolonged labor dispute rolled on, went into overtime at 12 midnight, EDT Tuesday.

John Thompson, NFL Management Council executive director, said the crux of the 59-day labor dispute, the longest in the history of major professional sports, was still the so-called Rozelle rule in which the NFL commissioner can compensate a club for a player who plays out his option and signs with another team.

A modification of the owners' stance on the Rozelle rule was an important part of the new package delivered by the Management Council, bargaining unit for the 26 club owners.

The players' union had withdrawn its demands for abolition of the Rozelle rule earlier, saying it should be left up to the courts to decide.

Thompson said, however, that action was not viewed as "a concession on their part ... we are determined to resolve the Rozelle rule at the bargaining table."

The four-year contract proposed by management also included modifications of the option and waiver rules, an increase in the minimum salary level to $18,000 for veterans and $15,000 for rookies, plus a total of $25 million over the life of the agreement to pay for pensions and insurance. This is an increase of $5.9 million over the four-year commitment made in 1970.

Jenkins Boosts Texas Past Baltimore, 2-1

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
On the field, the Texas Rangers have been one of baseball's big surprises. Tuesday night's 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles boosted Texas' record to 67-63, good for third place in the American League West.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York beat Minnesota 4-2, Oakland edged Milwaukee 3-2, California trimmed Detroit 7-6, Boston defeated Chicago 6-1 and Cleveland beat Kansas City 12-8 in the opener of their doubleheader, then lost to the Royals 13-2.

Ferguson Jenkins allowed just five Oriole hits in boosting his record to 19-11, the only Baltimore run scoring on an infield single by Paul Blair, a bloop hit on a hit-and-run play by Tommy Davis and a forecoat.

Texas scored its runs in the first inning against Jim Palmer, 4-10, on Dave Nelson's single and back-to-back RBI doubles by Cesar Tovar and Jeff Burroughs. Jenkins made them stand up.

Yanks 4, Twins 2
Roy White's two-run, bases-loaded single in the seventh inning highlighted a four-run rally that boosted the Yankees to victory.

New York loaded the bases against Minnesota starter Bill Hands, 4-5, on two singles and a walk with none out. Pinch hitter Bill Sudakis drove in the first run with a sacrifice fly. Sandy Alomar's single again loaded the bases and White followed with his go-ahead hit. Bobby Murcer's single delivered the fourth New York run.

Angels 7, Tigers 6
Bob Oliver's sacrifice fly in the 13th inning drove in the winning run for the Angels.

Ellie Rodriguez led off the 13th with a double, moved to third on Bobby Heise's bunt and scored on Oliver's fly ball to left.

A's 3, Brewers 2
Mike Hegan, who entered the game at the start of the eighth inning as a defensive replacement, committed an error that let in a pair of runs as the A's turned a 2-1 defeat into a 3-2 victory.

With Bert Campaneris on third and two out, Reggie Jackson was intentionally walked. After Jackson stole second, Sal Bando hit a bouncer to Don Money who threw to Hegan at first, but Hegan dropped the ball and Campaneris scored to tie the game.

Joe Rudi followed with a single to center, bringing in Jackson with the winning run.

Red Sox 6, White Sox 1
Reggie Cleveland got the starting nod when Juan Marichal came up ailing, and he responded by pitching Boston to a 6-1 victory, scattering seven hits over the first eight innings.

Indians 12-2, Royals 8-13
Rico Carty's second run-scoring double of the game drove in the go-ahead run in the eighth inning for the Indians, who added four runs in the ninth, three of them on John Ellis' bases-loaded triple.

In the second game, Nelson Briles pitched a five-hitter and coasted behind a seven-run first-inning uprising by the Royals.

The merger committee of the American Basketball Association includes Commissioner Tedd Munchak, Mike Storen and Dick Tinkham.

Sun, Storm Providing An Unusual Forecast

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
The law of averages is on one side and the laws of logic on the other as the Portland Storm sweeps down the coast to play the California Sun in a meeting between the Western Division's last and first place teams.

The Storm and the Sun are as divergent as the weather patterns they were named for. Portland's season has been a torrential downpour of six losses and one tie, while California has a bright 4-3 record, 1½ games ahead of runner-up Houston.

But form in football is about as dependable as weather predicting, so California Coach Tom Fears is wary.

"Any team is overdue when they haven't won," said Fears. "You never know when they might strike."

Portland Coach Dick Coury thinks the Storm's lightning will strike for the first time tonight.

"It will take our best effort of the season if we're going to beat the Sun," Coury said. "And I think we're ready for that after the Florida game."

Last week, the Storm dropped an 11-7 heart-breaker to the tough Florida Blazers, while California notched its second straight victory.

The California-Portland match-up is one of four World Football League games on tap tonight as the rookie league moves into its eighth week of play.

The rest of the schedule has the New York Stars meeting the Texans in the Houston Astrodome; the Florida Blazers hosting the Memphis South-men; and the Detroit Wheels invading Philadelphia to play the Bell.

In Thursday night's nationally televised game, undisputed possession of first place in the Central Division is at stake when the Chicago Fire, 6-1, entertain the Birmingham Americans, 7-0.

The Texans, 2-4-1, saw lots of Stars last week while absorbing a 43-10 knockout from New York.

Houston Coach Jim Garrett chopped eight players from his starting lineup, including the team's leading rusher Jim Nance.

The Stars, 5-2, lead the league in rushing and, after five straight victories, trail Florida by one game in the Eastern Division.

The Blazers, 6-1, ranked No. 1 in overall defense, are adding some new wrinkles to their offense with the activation of two wide receivers — Hubie Bryant, a former Pittsburgh Steeler, and Gary Collins, an All-Pro performer with the Cleveland Browns.

Rookie's Homer Lets Mets Top Houston, 4-2

By BRUCE LOWITT

Cuno Barragan, where are you now? And wherever you are, stay away from Benny Ayala.

Benny Ayala, a 23-year old outfielder, joined an elite group — if 39 other players can be called elite — Tuesday night when, in his first major league at-bat, he clubbed a home run.

The line-drive shot triggered a three-run second inning that carried the New York Mets to a 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros.

In Tuesday night's other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds blanked Philadelphia 3-0, the Los Angeles Dodgers clubbed the Cubs 12-5, the Pittsburgh Pirates swamped San Francisco 13-2, the San Diego Padres beat St. Louis 3-1 and the Montreal Expos defeated Atlanta 6-1.

Ayala had been recalled from Tidewater of the International League earlier Tuesday and started off with a bang, jumping on a Tom Griffin fastball and powdering it over the 341-foot sign down the left field line.

One out later, Teddy Martinez singled and Tug McGraw and Jim Gosger walked, then Felix Millan lined a single to left for two more runs.

Reds 3, Phillies 0
Tony Perez slammed a Dick Ruthven curve ball into right-center field for a two-run double in the sixth inning that carried Jack Billingham and the Reds past Philadelphia.

Dodgers 10, Cubs 5
Jimmy Wynn hit a two-run homer and Bill Buckner and Joe Ferguson slugged solo homers to lead the Dodgers' 13-hit attack against the Cubs.

Jose Cardenal and Jerry Morales hit two-run homers for Chicago, which had a 5-4 lead before the Dodgers ripped Rick Reuschel for three runs in the third, two on Bill Russell's bases-loaded single.

Pirates 13, Giants 2
Al Oliver drove home five runs, four of them with a double and a single in Pittsburgh's nine-run third inning, and helped Dock Ellis to breeze to his eighth straight victory.

The Bucs paraded 14 batters to the plate in the third.

Padres 3, Cardinals 11
Homers by Willie McCovey and Dave Winfield off Bob Gibson wrecked the Cards. Gibson permitted only four hits but issued three walks, two of them preceding Dave Hilton's run-scoring single in the second inning.

Expos 6, Braves 1
Homers by Bob Bailey and Ron Fairly and two-run singles by Mike Jorgensen and Jim Northrup gave Montreal all the runs they needed to turn back the Braves.

that would make a lot of difference.

In the conference, Smith looks for more balance. "If anyone is a step or two ahead, it's Southern Wayne. They have more numbers and more size than anyone else. After them, however, it's pretty even."

So if Southern is a favorite to nail down one of the two post-season berths the league has, who will get the other. "It could be anybody, but I don't think it will be us unless a lot of things happen. We don't have the numbers to rest our key people, so we're going to have to outplay them with what we've got. Our young men are going to have to do the job of two men."

"And I really look for us to be around the middle of the pack," Smith said.

World Hockey Association champion Houston Astros have signed right winger Don Larway, their No. 1 draft choice, Aeros President Jim Smith announced Tuesday.

Larway scored 46 goals and 36 assists for Swift Current in the Western Canadian Hockey League last year and also was the first round selection of the Boston Bruins in the National Hockey League.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings have traded right wing Henry Boucha to the Minnesota North Stars for left wing Danny Grant, team officials said Tuesday.

Boucha, 23, scored 19 goals and picked up 12 assists in 70 games last season. He played for the U.S. Olympic team in 1972 and was acquired by the Wings later that year.

Grant, 27, NFL rookie of the year in 1969, averaged 29 goals a season in his six years with Minnesota.

OAKLAND (AP) — Joe Roberts, 38, assistant basketball coach at Iowa the past three seasons, was added to the Golden State Warriors coaching staff Tuesday, Richard Verlieb, general manager of the National Basketball Association club, said.

It will be a return to the NBA for Roberts, who played with the Syracuse Americans for three years after he co-captained Ohio State to a national championship in 1960.

Gold Bug Has Never Stopped Luring Mankind

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The elderly, white-haired man walked up to the counter and pulled a crumpled tissue out of his pocket.

Unwrapping the paper, he revealed a shiny coin. "Is this worth anything? My father gave it to me when I was a boy."

The coin was a $20 gold piece of a particularly unusual kind. To Les Fox, director of the numismatic division at Perera Fifth Avenue, it was worth $3,000 — more than 100 times the face value of the coin.

Several hours later, after Fox bought the coin, it was worth even more. Perera sold it to a collector for $3,500.

The incident reflects the growing interest of inflation-weary Americans in anything made out of gold. The prospect that it soon may be legal for Americans to own the cure metal has spurred the demand.

Perera, which is known for selling foreign currency to tourists, recently opened a special office for its numismatic division to handle increased business. Another coin dealer, who preferred to remain anonymous, said he has about 50 per cent more customers this year than last.

"And they're much more knowledgeable than ever before," the dealer said. "They come in with magnifying glasses and microscopes. They know to the penny just what a coin will bring — even if they pretend they don't."

Lionel Simmons, the head of the Simmons Refining Co. of Chicago, presides over an operation that will produce an estimated $24 million worth of gold this year. He extracts the metal from scrap and prepares it for sale to industry.

"It isn't that gold represents money. It represents pure, sheer beauty. It's the most fascinating color, the most beautiful metal, and after 30 years in this business, it still excites me," says Simmons.

If gold ownership by private citizens becomes legal, Simmons says his firm may market one-ounce bars. To try to test the market, he recently offered 100-ounce silver bars and he says he's sold 400 of them for about $500 each.

"We've had some farmers, school teachers and other persons come in here and buy the bars," he says. "Some say they're going to bury them out in their back yards. I guess it's whatever makes people feel secure."

Coin expert Fox points out that publicity about rising gold prices has convinced many people — wrongly — that they couldn't lose money by investing in the metal. At the same time, rising inflation and stock market declines have forced people to look for new investments.

"There are an estimated 10 million people collecting coins in the country today," Fox says. In 1936, when the government first started issuing mint sets of U.S. coins, it turned out less than 10,000 sets. Now the government issues more than three million mint sets a year.

Most of the people who invest with Perera, one of the nation's largest coin dealers, spend between $200 and $3,000, Fox says, "although there have been cases when someone walked in here with an envelope and just laid out $50,000."

Buying gold coins strictly for their metal value is risky, Fox says, advising instead that people split their investment between coins purchased for their gold value only and those that have a historical value because of rarity.

Since 1933, it has been illegal for Americans to trade in gold, except for industrial use, for coins or for jewelry. Legislation repealing the ban has been passed by Congress and is awaiting President Nixon's signature.

James U. Blanchard II, the director of the National Committee to Legalize Gold, says that legalization will bring another surge of interest.

"I calculate that if one out of 10 Americans buys one ounce of gold, that would take up one half of the yearly worldwide production of gold," said the 30-year-old Blanchard.

Commercial gold traders such as Handy and Harman in New York, foreign currency dealers like Perera and the commodity exchanges are preparing for the retail gold market.

Call Perera outside of working hours and you're greeted by a recorded announcement: "You've called our gold line, a 24-hour, seven-day service ... Gold closed in London Friday July 19 at $145.50 an ounce, up $1.50 from the day before and up a few dollars from a week ago. The most popular gold coins were sold at the following prices ... Thank you for calling and keep calling the gold line."

Several U.S. commodity exchanges have drawn up contracts for gold futures. The Winnipeg Commodities Exchange has offered gold futures contracts — which Americans were not allowed to buy or sell — since 1972.

The International Monetary Market of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange already has started advertising. "Soon Americans will be able to trade gold futures," the ad says and goes on to offer a 32-page booklet on the ins and outs of the market. The futures market isn't for the small investor, however. Mark J. Powers, senior vice president of the International Monetary Market, said officials of the exchange were thinking of offering 100-ounce contracts — which works out at almost $15,000 for one contract at current gold prices.

Gastronomic Fair For Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The Kenya capital is to play host later this year to the first International Gastronomic Fair for Africa. The slogan of the October event will be, appropriately, "Foodstuffs are fruits of earth and the result of human toil."

Foodstuffs, national dishes and drinks and other delicacies from all over Africa will be on display at the four-day event.

ATLANTA, GA.—Keigh Duayne Holmes, Jr. of 501 East 11th Street, Greenville, received the Ph. D. degree in Chemistry at graduation exercises at Emory University recently.

Holmes also received the Sigma Xi award for original research in pure and applied science.

TAXING NEWS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The average American worker will work 2 hours and 38 minutes of each day this year just to pay his taxes — or one minute per day longer than in 1973.

Tax Foundation, Inc., which made the estimate, said it means that if that worker puts in a 40-hour, 5-day week, he will work all of Monday and until 2 p.m. Tuesday just to get his tax bill paid.

How Tar Heel Senators And Representatives Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 15 through Aug. 21.

HOUSE
MASS TRANSIT SUBSIDIES Rejected, 197 for and 202 against, an amendment in opposition to federal operating subsidies for mass-transit systems. The amendment sought to eliminate $6 billion in subsidy money from the Federal Mass Transportation Act (HR 12859), a measure proposing $20 billion for construction, maintenance and other mass-transportation expenses borne by communities nationwide.

Supporters of the amendment argued that most of the $6 billion would benefit the largest cities, and that such subsidies are a waste of taxpayers' money. "Operating subsidies actually encourage inefficiency, encourage transit strikes, encourage the levying of unreasonably low fares... at taxpayers' expense," said Rep.

Dale Milford (D-Texas). Opponents called mass transportation an essential public service which needs federal help to stay out of debt, and said it eases the energy crisis and traffic congestion. "Riders cannot be attracted without special inducements or incentives in the form of subsidies to stabilize fares in the face of continuously soaring operating costs," said Rep. Thomas O'Neill (D-Maa.).

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Rep. Charles Rose (D-7) voted "nay."
MASS TRANSIT FUNDING Adopted, 257 for and 155 against, an amendment to HR 12855 (above) which reduced from $2 billion to $1 billion the six-year authorization for federal mass transportation assistance to communities. Supporters called a "yea" vote anti-inflationary and noted that President Ford had promised to veto any authorization exceeding $11 billion. Many supporters also felt that the bill was too generous to big cities.

Opponents were willing to lower the authorization to $15.8 billion but not to $11 billion. They argued that the issue was essentially one of spending priorities rather than of inflation. Some opponents disputed the Ford economic theory that balanced budgets are anti-inflationary, saying inflation is fought chiefly by other remedies.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

TRUCKS Adopted, 252 for and 150 against, an amendment to prevent heavier trucks from using the federal interstate highway system. The amendment struck mass transportation bill (HR 12859) language permitting states to increase weight limits allowed on the U. S. interstate network. States would have been able to raise the present interstate limits from 18,000 to 20,000 pounds on a single axle and from 32,000 to 34,000 pounds on a tandem axle.

Supporters cited safety factors. "There is not a truck in this country which is obeying the 55-mile-an-hour limit," said Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio). "They will blow one off the road if one is going 50 miles an hour." Hays added that members could vote against the amendment, "but you be prepared, because your constituents will know about it."

Opponents noted that most states already permit higher-than-federal weight limits on their own highways, and argued that divergent federal and state limits make it difficult to route and regulate truck traffic. Rep. William Harsha (R-Ohio) said: "It makes little sense to me to deny the use of the interstates which are built to standards to handle traffic of this weight."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Broyhill, and Taylor voted "yea."

Rose, Ruth and Martin voted "nay."

IMPEACHMENT REPORT Accepted, 412 for and three against, the filing of the House Judiciary Committee report which underpinned the committee's votes recommending that President Richard Nixon be impeached by the House. The historical document contains a narrative of Watergate-related events and evidence presented for and against the President's case. It was "accepted" by the House, as distinguished from "approved." Members considered the report essential to history's understanding of why Nixon resigned the presidency.

Voting against acceptance were Reps. Earl Landgrebe (R-Ind.), Sonny Montgomery (D-Miss.) and Otto Passman (D-La.).

The 19 members not voting were Reps. John Anderson (R-Ill.), Les Aspin (D-Wisc.), John Blatnik (D-Minn.), Frank Brasco (D-N.Y.), John Davis (D-Ga.), W. J. Bryan Dorn (D-S.C.), Bill Gunter (D-Fla.), Richard Hanna (D-Calif.), Julia Hansen (D-Wash.), F. Edward Hebert (D-La.), Phil Landrum (D-Ga.), Delbert Latta (R-Ohio), Clem McSpadden (D-Okl.), Lucien Nedzi (D-Mich.), Bertram Podell (D-N.Y.), John Rarick (D-La.), John Rooney (D-N.Y.), Bill Stuckey (D-Ca.) and Lionel Van Deerlin (D-Calif.).

All other House members voted to accept the report.

SENATE
DEFENSE CUTS Rejected, 37 for and 55 against, an amendment to cut $1.1 billion from the fiscal 1975 defense appropriations bill, reducing it from $82.1 billion to $81 billion. Sen. Thomas Engleton (D-Mo.), the sponsor, said national security would not be harmed because the cut would attack "waste" and "mismanagement" by the Pentagon. He said his amendment would also combat inflation.

Opponents noted that $82.1 billion was $5 billion below the White House request of $87.1 billion. The bill represents "one of the tightest defense budgets we have had in years..." said Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.).

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

CONSUMER AGENCY Rejected, 59 for and 35 against, a move to close debate and force a vote on the bill (S 707) to establish the Agency for Consumer Protection, a body with power to speak for the consumer to business and other federal agencies.

A two-thirds majority was needed to kill the filibuster. The House-passed legislation is expected to die this session if the fourth and final attempt to break the filibuster, scheduled for mid-September, is unsuccessful. The proposed agency, having legal teeth, is supported by

Ralph Nader and Common Cause and opposed by such organizations as the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the Grocery Manufacturers of America. Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

Aboutface By Chronic Truant

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Michael J. Ellis of Bloomington was such a chronic truant in high school that his principal penalized him by lowering his grades by 5 per cent. And counselors told him to forget about college.

Ellis followed that advice for two years, then convinced Indiana University officials to give him a chance.

He graduated this year with a perfect four-year attendance record. "It may sound corny, but I really like going to classes," Ellis said.

Yo-Yo Brings Degree Of Fame

By WARREN TALBOT
PAWTUCKET, R.I. (UPI) — Larry Sayco, 41, has yo-yoed his way to fame if not fortune.

Sayco is the world's yo-yo champion, a title he won nine times. The last time was in 1964, and there has been no recognized world competition since.

He took up yo-yoing seriously "for fun and profit" during the 1950s when he realized that a career in show business would never go anywhere but downward.

Sayco, a short, wiry man with curly black hair greying at the temples, is a former acrobat and an acknowledged ham who once aspired to be a comedian.

"That career was going nowhere so I took up the yo-yo." His tricks with the yo-yo are amazing. Among the many, perhaps the most impressive are the "rocket-in-the-pocket" and one he invented called "yo-yo limbo."

He also managed to impress a reported by flicking the ashes off a lit cigarette in his mouth while standing seven feet from the take-off point of the yo-yo.

During a recent exhibition the stunt which seemed most to delight the 100 children gathered at a playground was the "rocket-in-the-pocket" sayco propels the yo-yo about 30 feet into the air, and lands it snugly into the inside pocket of his sportcoat. The champ began yo-yoing at age 14, competing against other youngsters at the Pawtucket Boy's Club.

During the 50s he landed a job with the Duncan Yo-Ho Co. as an exhibitor. Duncan held world championship meets in Chicago annually, but that stopped when the firm went out of business in 1964.

"I would practice eight hours a day, for six months before the competitions in those days," he says.

Sayco says some would dispute his title, but invites anybody to compete against him. He says he has been trying to convince other yo-yo companies to revive a world meet.

He has traveled to 25 foreign countries and 36 states giving exhibition. "I enjoy them. Naturally I am a show-off."

He said the first yo-yo was invented 2,000 years ago in the Philippines. The very first were made of stone and used as weapons. Most now are made from plastic.

Wherever he goes, he has a pocket-full of yo-yoes to give kids. He owns his own yo-yo manufacturing firm.

What is a grown man doing playing with a yo-yo every day?

"Well, many people ask me questions like that. I tell them that one does what he enjoys.

"If I ever meet a woman I like as much as I like yo-yoing, I suppose I'll marry her," he says.

Fellowship For ECU Student

Billy Giles, graduate student in the East Carolina University Department of Geography, has been awarded a fellowship from Indiana University to begin studies toward his PhD degree.

Giles recently completed his master's thesis at ECU, the result of his research into morphometric characteristics of the N. C. coastal plain.

The Indiana fellowship carries an annual stipend of $3,800.

Giles is a 1965 graduate of Cary High School.

School Is Old Link To Past

By KENNETH T. WALSH
Associated Press Writer
RIO BLANCO, Colo. (AP) — Folks hereabouts say the Rock School is one of the few remaining links with the American frontier.

Just as in pioneer days, boys and girls of different ages attend classes together. There is no formal grade division at the two-room elementary school.

And just as in the past, the school also serves as a summertime civic center for the sparsely populated ranch area, the site for Bible school, sewing and women's club meetings and health education classes.

Rock School was built in 1897 by the ancestors of cattle ranchers now living in the Piceance Creek Basin of northwestern Colorado.

Parents and grandparents of recent students also took lessons at the school.

Bob King, superintendent of the Meeker public school district which includes Rock School, says the current pupils are sons and daughters of ranch hands and gas well crewmen. They often move away in the middle of the year.

Twenty-six youngsters started the last school year and nine of them finished. But 18 other families moved into the area so 27 youngsters finished the year at Rock School.

In the last few years, there have been many applicants for the teaching post because of a job shortage.

"We want people who like to hunt and hike and appreciate this part of God's country," King said. "If they can't appreciate it, the experience may be a disaster."

Jim and Joanne Stanko have just completed their third year of teaching at Rock School. They plan to leave the post in fall because they inherited a ranch in nearby Steamboat Springs from a relative.

Both are Coloradans who took bachelor's degrees at Western State College in Gunnison. Stanko also has an M.A. degree in secondary education and social studies.

The Stankos stressed individual attention to pupils. Stanko concentrated on social studies and science, and Mrs. Stanko taught reading, English and "language arts."

Sweet Tooth Is His Undoing

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (AP) — While in police custody, Brian Landis of Noblesville drove off with a patrol car, lied about his name and address, commanded a police radio and disarmed the chief of police.

Brian is 4 years old.

He wandered away from home while his mother was sleeping and took police on a wild goose chase that ended after they bribed him with candy and sweets to tell them his correct name and address.

Says Mental Illness May Be Inherited

By BILL BUCY
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — A psychiatrist who has just completed a study of the inheritance factor says schizophrenia is hereditary and not produced by environment.

"Just as tall parents have tall children, schizophrenic parents produce schizophrenic children," Dr. Paul Wender said in an interview.

Dr. Wender, professor of psychiatry at University of Utah College of Medicine, said his study of adopted children in Denmark deals a serious blow to the idea that schizophrenia—one of the most common mental illnesses—is caused by environmental factors.

"This study may get psychiatrists and social workers off the backs of parents with mentally ill children," Dr. Wender said. "For years they have been blaming parents for destroying the mental health of their children."

"This attitude is incorrect, cruel and hurts the chances of the children for getting treatment."

Wender and four other doctors began the study in 1963, using former mental patients in Denmark as test subjects. The Scandinavian country keeps detailed records of persons hospitalized for mental disorders and the team chose 79 parents who showed symptoms of schizophrenic disorders.

The research team located, interviewed and tested offspring of these patients who had been placed for adoption as infants. The study found definite evidence of schizophrenia among these children—even if they had been reared by normal parents.

The study then looked at 30 children who had normal natural parents but who had been reared by schizophrenic adoptive parents. The results showed that those children were no more psychologically ill than children whose natural and adoptive parents were psychologically healthy.

And, he said, the results remained the same when the team studied adults, both schizophrenic and normal, who had been adopted as children.

Dr. Wender defined the chronic schizophrenic as "the typical state hospital psychotic," who has a history of social maladjustment, exhibits periods of confusion and often suffers from delusions and hallucinations.

He said these severe cases usually can be treated, "but they seldom get back into the mainstream of society." However, he said, studying the schizophrenic may help to identify the "borderline" schizophrenic.

"This could be of considerable importance because so-called borderline schizophrenia affects between 5 and 10 per cent of the population," he said.

He said the borderline schizophrenic is often considered eccentric, has trouble relating to others and suffers from chronic mild depression.

"But if we can identify these people through the study of records and relatives, we may be able to help them before they become really schizophrenic," he said.

Dr. Wender said the same techniques — studying parents and then looking at the behavior of children adopted into a different environment—may be used to study other human problems.

"Other researchers have taken the idea we began with and are now studying alcoholism and even criminality to see if there is a genetic correlation," he said.

New Process In Planting Rice Offered

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN BULACAN, The Philippines (AP) — A new way of planting rice that challenges the practices of centuries is the latest hope for a breakthrough in the race to boost food production in Asia ahead of the needs of its rising population.

"There is no doubt that we are going to change the way rice is grown in Asia," said the man about to oversee a major test of the method called direct seeding. He is Vernon Ross, a 6-foot-2 former University of Tennessee agriculture specialist and director of training at the International Rice Research Institute at Los Banos, the Philippines.

To make good his optimism, Ross and other advocates of direct seeding will have to overcome the entrenched practices of centuries of rice farmers in a continent where people depend for their lives on the staple.

But the new method will increase the farmers' yields from three to five times on land depending for its water on rainfall instead of on irrigation, according to Ross. From some experimental plots, Ross has extracted rice at the rate of more than 10 tons per hectare from land which previously yielded 1.4 tons.

If Ross carries off the change, it will have immense impact. He said 67 per cent of rice land in Asia is rainfed. Much of increased yields of new seed varieties has been concentrated on irrigated land.

A major test is underway this crop year in this and other rice provinces near Manila. The government of the Philippines is turning over 24,000 hectares, about 60,000 acres, to direct seeding. On the basis of experiments carried out on nine scattered plots last year, Ross is wagering the rice yields will triple on the test hectare.

Like many Asian countries, the Philippines does not grow enough rice to satisfy its population, which is growing at the rate of more than 3 per cent each year. Partly because of the lag, it is promoting direct seeding more than a year ahead of Ross's schedule.

Under the direct-seeding method, the Filipino farmer will plant dry seed into dry but prepared soil from mid-April, using plenty of chemical herbicides to kill weeds as well as fertilizer and pest killers. The technique is designed to permit his land to take advantage of the increasing moisture of the rainy season starting late in May to allow him a harvest before the flood and typhoon season, and to give him time to plant a second crop of rice or some other item.

For centuries, rainfed-land farmers have nurtured their seeds for three weeks to more than a month in specially prepared muddied paddies, then transplanted them when the rains were at their height. That was about July in the Philippines. Ross said the rains controlled weeds which are a major deterrent to a high-yielding crop.

Because of the shifting pattern of rain, the farmer often guessed wrong about the right time to transplant his seedlings into his fields or kept them in the seed bed until they were too mature to yield much. Ross said transplanting usually meant the farmers' crops grew during a time of decelerating rainfall.

Ross said the technique will be just as applicable in rainfed parts of Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand and Bangladesh as in the Philippines.

A Lady Photographer's Work Is Treasured By N.C. Historical Buffs

By Dr. H. G. JONES
Written for
The Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL (AP) — One magazine described her as "The Dirty Lady Photographer," though she ever photographed a dirty lady.

But in a New Orleans restaurant she turned to a stranger and announced, "I'm Frances Benjamin Johnston. I am 85 years old. And I am the greatest woman photographer in the world."

Whether history will accord the irrepressible Miss Johnston her self-pronounced supremacy is doubtful, but there is wide recognition of her pioneering work in architectural photography. North Carolina's historical consciousness was certainly influenced by her.

It was in 1935 that Frances Benjamin Johnston, in her own inimitable way, swept into North Carolina, a state which possessed, according to one prominent Tar Heel, only four buildings of real historical significance. She headed for the office of Jonathan Daniels, who described her as an "energetic and agreeable spinster."

Daniels assured her that North Carolina did indeed have a rich architectural heritage and directed her to Dr. Christopher Crittenden, secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission, who in turn put her in touch with people around the state.

Armed with a grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, Miss Johnston set out on a tour of the state. She tramped through briar patches and all manner of terrain to obtain stunning photographs of hundreds of North Carolina buildings, many of which sadly have disappeared in the past three decades.

The North Carolina Society of the Colonial Dames of America wisely recognized the importance of the undertaking and agreed to sponsor the publication of the landmark book, "The Early Architecture of North Carolina." The volume appeared in 1941; it contained over two hundred of Miss Johnston's photographs plus an architectural history of the state written by Thomas Tilletson Waterman.

The published photographs, however, comprised only a fraction of the pictures taken; and Charles Rush, librarian of UNC, contracted with Miss Johnston for the printing of other negatives.

He selected a young university graduate, Samuel H. Boone, to go to New Orleans to do the work during the summer of 1949.

Boone, now chief of inter-library services at UNC, not only worked in the darkroom, he also served as chauffeur, escort, and general factotum to the grand dame. He remembers her love for cherry wine, her devotion to her "four roses" hat, and her amusing immodesty.

Boone credits Miss Johnston's superior photography to her persistence and her faith in the "actinic quality of the sunlight."

He recalls that to photograph Christ Church in Raleigh she had the police reroute traffic for several hours while she awaited the perfect sunlight. Then, as she began focussing, she discovered a limb blocking her view.

Nothing would do but to have the limb of the Capitol Square tree sawed off, and the photographing was delayed until harassed state officials agreed to do so.

Miss Johnston was born in 1864 at Gafton, West Virginia, but she grew up in Washington, D. C. Her interest in photography was heightened by correspondence with George Eastman, and she attracted wide at-tentation by photographing working conditions in Pennsylvania coal fields.

Perhaps her most notable assignment came in 1899 when a news syndicate hired her to accompany Admiral Dewey on his victorious return voyage. Her reputation spread, and she became one of Washington's popular figures.

It was in her later years that Miss Johnston became engrossed in architectural photography. Most of her work in North Carolina was done after her seventieth birthday. She died in 1952.

Couple Wed In Utica Zoo

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — With chimpanzees for spectators, and a lone crow screeching overhead, Robert Shirley and Linda Ravenscroft were married — at the Utica Zoo.

Shirley, 22, is a fulltime zookeeper and his 20-year-old bride is assistant supervisor of the children's zoo.

The Unitarian ceremony was held on a July Saturday night on a grassy area between the zoo's Main Building and the Feline and Primate Building. The bird entered from the Main Building's World of Wildlife section.

"It was mostly Linda's idea," the bridegroom said of the unusual setting. "But we both wanted an outdoor wedding."

Shirley is a June graduate of Cornell University and his bride, formerly of Middleburg, N.Y., graduated from Mohawk Valley Community College. They met 15 months ago at the zoo where they were coworkers.

Worry Clinic Explaining A Tobacco Cough

Arnold's Boy Scouts wanted specific scientific reasons to explain "tobacco cough" plus the fact that drinkers produce 50 per cent of the deaths on the automobile highways. Use the "analogy method" in persuasion!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE B-626: Arnold G., aged 28, conducts a summer Boy Scout Camp.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "while you are visiting us today, would you mind having a little forum discussion after lunch?"

"For many of the older Scouts, especially those working toward merit badges for their Eagle Scouting awards, are eager for medical facts. "They'd like the specific medical reasons why cigarettes produce what is called a 'tobacco cough' and also why alcohol causes half the deaths on the automobile highways."

Parable Selling
If you wish to persuade teenagers not to adopt such nuisance habits as cigarettes, liquor and drugs, they will react faster if you employ analogies, like Christ's famous parable technique.

For example, all of you readers know that if you wield a hoe or an ax or even a golf club when out of practice, you will likely develop blisters. Why? Because excessive irritation of the skin brings more blood, which colors the spot red, after which a watery blister forms.

The cigarette smoke likewise irritates the lining of the windpipe and bronchial tubes.

So extra fluid then develops over the irritated area.

Normally, the air passage ways from nose to lungs are always wet.

But smokers have far more moisture, due to this abnormal irritation.

White blood corpuscles also are attracted to the irritated areas, causing the white phlegm that smokers cough up.

Picture in your mind the vertical windpipe as the smoker is standing during the day or sitting in a chair.

The moisture lining of his lungs is maybe twice as thick as that of the non-smoker.

Which helps explain why he gets "winded" faster when he runs or plays tennis.

For oxygen takes longer to pass through a thick layer of fluid than it does through a thin layer!

Now try to visualize what happens when that smoker lies down in bed.

His windpipe suddenly changes from the vertical to the horizontal position.

The thicker fluid lining it, then begins to peel off and hang down in drops, much like the stalactites in Mammoth Cave.

But this peel-off causes a tickling sensation, for the cells lining the bronchial tubes have tiny hairs protruding, which are called cilia.

And as the phlegm peels off, pulling on those hairs, the smoker coughs for maybe 15 minutes.

He may sound as if he has pulmonary tuberculosis!

But after about 15 minutes, gravity has peeled off most of the moisture, so the tickle ceases till morning.

But as soon as he springs out of bed, his windpipe changes from the horizontal to the vertical position.

Then those drops of sticky phlegm swing back against the sides of the bronchial tubes and windpipe, again producing a tickle.

The smoker now coughs for 15 minutes till gravity has smoothed out the phlegm along the vertical sides of the tubes.

Regarding alcohol, it acts as a mild anesthetic, thus slowing down your reaction time an average of 10 per cent, so your foot is 10 per cent retarded in reaching the brake pedal.

Moreover, your judgment is then poorer, due to that

Florida Ships Almost Half Of Vegetables

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida supplies 48 per cent of all fresh vegetables shipped in the nation, according to figures from the Division of Marketing of the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

Division Director John Stiles said Florida shipped 3.2 billion pounds of fresh vegetables during the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Stiles said Florida shipped 97 per cent of the nation's supply of endive and escarole, 89 per cent of the sweet corn, 80 per cent of the green beans, 77 per cent of the radishes, 52 per cent of the peppers, 49 per cent of the celery, 42 per cent of the cucumbers, 41 per cent of the cabbage, 40 per cent of the squash, 39 per cent of the tomatoes, 37 per cent of the eggplant, 12 per cent of the strawberries, 10 per cent of the carrots and two per cent of the lettuce.

Invite Rose High Seniors

Highly qualified senior students at Greenville's Rose High School have been invited to participate in a program at East Carolina University during the 1974-75 academic year in which three college courses will be offered.

The courses offered during 1974-75 are: Perspectives in Biology, Geography of Contemporary World Problems and Introduction to Ethics. Each carries credit applicable to general education requirements at most post-secondary institutions and which will advance the students toward graduation at all schools. These courses will be taught on the ECU campus at the same time of day in successive quarters, fall, winter and spring.

Instruction in all courses will be provided by those East Carolina professors who customarily teach these courses. Perspectives in Biology will be taught by Dr. Mark M. Brinson.

Hasty play at trick one proved to be declarer's downfall when a bad trump break resulted in dummy's long suit being shut out for want of an entry.

Despite the fact that he held quite a good hand, his one-suited nature swayed North to make a simple overcall at his first turn. However, when South entered the auction freely in the other major, showing at least a five-card suit, North expressed the trick-taking ability of his hand with a jump raise, and South went on to game.

With no attractive opening lead, West settled on his singleton trump. Declarer called for dummy's king—and lost his chance to make the contract. A low heart to the ten held, but West won the continuation and shifted to a club to East's ace, and a second club forced declarer to ruff.

South cashed the queen of spades, and had both defenders followed that would have ended matters. But West showed out and declarer could not make use of dummy's long hearts, for East ruffed the fourth heart. Declarer's only tricks were five trumps, two hearts and the ace of diamonds—down two.

Declarer should have taken time out before playing to the first trick. Only a 4-1 trump split places the contract in jeopardy, but it can be overcome if East is the defender with the long trumps. Declarer must win the first trick in his hand and knock out the ace of hearts. Now, South can ruff the second club and enter dummy with the king of trumps.

When East turns up with four trumps, declarer simply runs dummy's long hearts. East can ruff whenever he wishes, but South can overruff and reenter dummy with the trump ace, drawing East's last trump in the process, to cash the rest of the hearts. Declarer's ten tricks consist of four trumps and an overruff, four hearts and the ace of diamonds.

School Lunch Price Policy

St. Gabriel School today announced its policy for free and reduced-price meals and free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch, and Special Milk Program.

Local school officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

Family	Lunch-Free	Reduced Price
1	0-2910	2911-4080
2	0-3830	3831-5360
3	0-4740	4741-6630
4	0-5640	5641-9000
5	0-6480	6481-12700
6	0-7310	7311-10240
7	0-8060	8061-11290
8	0-8810	8811-12340
9	0-9510	9511-13320
10	0-10190	10191-14260
11	0-10860	10861-15200
12	0-11530	11531-16140

Each additional family member—670, 940

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced-price meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, it should contact the school.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Under the provisions of the policy the Principal will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Rev. H.C. Mulholland, 1120 W. 5th St. Greenville, 27834, 758-1504, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Each school and the office of the Greenville City Schools has a copy of the complete policy which may be reviewed by any interested party.

our Glaucoma Screening Nurse was able to conduct considerably more tests in the six-hour period because Mrs. Boyd volunteered assistance at the clinic.

Testing of eyes for the presence of glaucoma is recommended for all adults 35 years of age and over at least every two years. Grifton residents who were unable to participate in this week's testing can be seen at the Health Center in Greenville on September 9, 11, or 25th from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

"If enough people in Grifton are interested in receiving the glaucoma test, it will be possible for the Health Department to conduct a second clinic in the fall," Barnaby explained, and suggested that people get in touch with Mrs. Boyd in Grifton or call or write the Health Department in Greenville, 752-4141.

Glaucoma Screening Offered in Grifton

GRIFTON—Twenty-six Grifton residents took advantage of the Glaucoma Screening conducted Monday by the Pitt County Community Health Department, Health Director, Roger Barnaby, announced today. "This is a remarkable turnout due to the organization of the screening day by Mrs. Percy Boyd, President of the Grifton Extension Homemaker's Club and her members," Barnaby stated. "Mrs. Cleo Wiley, R. N.,

CP&L Will Raise Bills

RALEIGH (AP)—The average Carolina Power and Light Co. customer will have $1.36 added to his bill in September to pay for the rising cost of fuel.

CP&L said Monday the increase would result from the fuel escalator clause, which has driven average bills up $5.67 since it was first permitted by the State Utilities Commission in February.

The clause allows the company to adjust its rates to pay for changes in fuel costs without consulting the commission.

With two emergency, interim rate hikes added in the latest boost means that the average customer's September bill will be $27.63. That's 40 percent higher than the $19.71 that prevailed at the beginning of the year.

According to a company spokesman CP&L has been forced to buy more coal on "spot" markets to supplement the cheaper coal it purchases under long term contracts.

N.Z. Premier Is Hospitalized

WELLINGTON, New Zealand. (AP)—Norman E. Kirk, prime minister of New Zealand, has entered a Wellington hospital after being ordered to rest for six weeks. It was not known how long he will remain hospitalized.

The only bulletin issued so far says that Kirk suffers from persisting symptoms similar to those which forced him to rest for two weeks in May after an operation for varicose veins.

At that time, a blood clot settled in his right lung, giving rise to a condition similar to pneumonia. Ten days ago Kirk contracted what was diagnosed as gastric influenza.
