

Labor Day Thoughts Focused On Economy Flash Flooding For N.C.

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany denounced wage-price guidelines shortly after Labor Secretary Peter Brennan said the administration may have to employ them in the fight against inflation.

"I would look on guidelines as completely unfair to the worker and I would resist them very much," Meany said Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

One hour earlier, Brennan said such guidelines, under which workers and businesses would voluntarily keep wage and price increases below a government-suggested limit, "may be the way we have to go" in combating inflation.

Speaking on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation" program, Brennan said guidelines were definitely going to be discussed by the new Council on Wage and Price Stability, which President Ford obtained from Congress to monitor the inflation fight.

Meany contended that such guidelines are enforced on wages but not on prices.

"I think wage and price guidelines would be just as unfair as wage and price controls because our experience shows prices are not controlled.... But wages are very, very definitely controlled because every employer becomes an enforcer," Meany said.

Guidelines would have to rely on governmental "jawboning" for their effectiveness, Brennan said, and would have to be established on an industry by industry basis.

Meany said that guidelines were tried during the Johnson administration and "became sort of a laugh in the industrial complex on both the union and the employers' side."

The only equitable situation would be no controls at all or the creation of an enormous federal bureaucracy to control wages and prices at every level of the economy, Meany said, but he said he was not in favor of such controls.

Brennan declined to offer specific guidelines for labor contracts but said unions should try to keep wage demands within the increase in the cost of living.

Meany said he expected to see a tax increase after the November elections although Ford's spokesmen have ruled out any tax hike requests before the end of the year.

The labor chief often repeated earlier remarks that the country is headed for a depression unless the administration makes a quick reversal of its economic policies. Ford "is not going to turn this around by following the same policy that's been a disaster for the last 5½ years," Meany said.

Asked if the Labor Department was equipped to handle a depression, Brennan outlined a federal plan to increase public service employment in response to increases in unemployment. If the present rate of 5.3 per cent were to go as high as 7 per cent, the federal government would create some 800,000 public service jobs, Brennan said.

Meany called for an end to tight money policies, saying high interest rates are the "most inflationary factor in our economy."

In his Labor Day statement, Ford said the nation needs the support of workers "in a new struggle for productivity — for more purchasing power and less inflation."

"I am confident that the men and women of the American labor movement know that the struggle against inflation is a joint venture by all segments of the American people — and that they will do their part,"

the President said.

Brennan's Labor Day statement labeled the Watergate scandals one of "the most difficult periods in (American) history." He predicted "equally difficult economic problems in the days ahead."

"Each of us must exercise the restraints and make the sacrifices necessary to control inflation," Brennan said.

"Candor and fair play have replaced obfuscation and criminality" in the White House, Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers said in his holiday statement. "But this Labor Day is a time of crisis for workers. The crisis is economic."

He said the current unemployment rate "would be intolerable in most industrialized nations."

He joined Meany in urging that high mortgage interest rates come down, because they "not only penalize workers who need new and better housing, they also accelerate both unemployment and inflation."

He called for reform of the tax structure, passage of national health insurance legislation, and efforts to eliminate job safety hazards.

GREENSBORO (AP) — Thunderstorms ripped across North Carolina's mid section Sunday night, causing flash flooding in Greensboro, High Point and Asheboro and interrupting power in Burlington.

The sudden storm, accompanied by high winds, heavy rain and hail, dumped more than two inches of rain on the Greensboro area in less than an hour, the National Weather Service said. Water up to 12 feet deep was reported in lowlying areas.

Boats, helicopters and scuba divers were dispatched to rescue persons trapped inside floating cars, atop houses and in other endangered areas of Greensboro. Residents of one apartment building were evacuated after it was surrounded by water.

Two apartment complexes, La Mancha and Latham Park, were caught in several feet of water spilling from rapidly rising streams.

A police spokesman said the ground floor of La Mancha Apartments had six feet of water that hit with such force it washed furniture against walls.

"We used boats and a scuba team to rescue about 100 people up to about 2 o'clock this morning. All the people were gotten out that we knew were in there," he said.

Cleanup operation began today as the water receded.

A shelter was set up at a junior high school as the evacuation was carried out during the night.

Flash flooding was reported near Guilford College west of Greensboro and a newsman said one car was submerged. Others were washed into walls of buildings. Traffic along I-40 around Guilford College was clogged by the flooding.

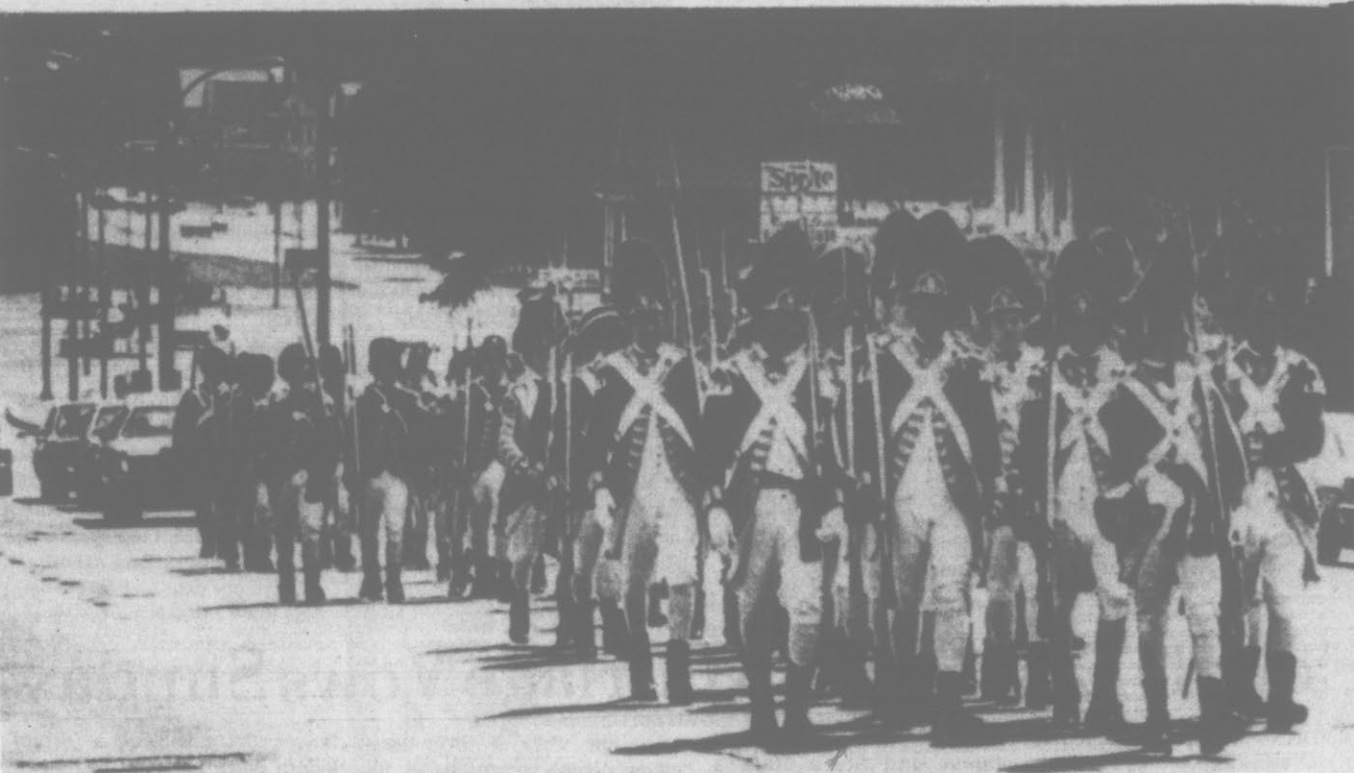

Some Greensboro streets were blocked by trees, electrical wires, cars and debris. Emergency crews said some bridges were impassable and in danger of being washed away.

Capt. O.E. Pickard of the Greensboro Police Department said many persons were trapped in their cars, many basements were flooded and "all low-lying streets" were blocked by the flooding. Authorities in High Point, about 15 miles away, reported water two to four feet deep. Wreckers were towing stalled cars from the flooded streets.

Several smaller towns in the area also reported street flooding, including Asheboro and the Randleman-Level Cross area. The Weather service said as much as four feet of water was reported in Asheboro while the water level reached the hoods of stranded cars in the Randleman-Level Cross area.

Police said power lines were downed in Burlington, about 20 miles east of Greensboro.

There were no reports of deaths or injuries attributed to the storm.

TO FOG OR NOT TO FOG

Oh where, oh where is the mosquito fog machine? Does Greenville still have one? Mrs. S.T.

Yes, Greenville has one and plenty of supplies to run it, but it's a machine of contention, Public Works Director Mayo Allen says. "We routinely fog all recreation areas, low grounds, and open spaces hoping to rid the town of as many mosquitoes as possible," he said. "But we go into residential areas only if there are a substantial number of requests, and even then, we often get complaints from other residents of the same area. Any neighborhood that has any kind of organization should let us know if it wants to be fogged, and residents of others should talk among themselves and decide and let us know. The Public Works Department can be reached through the main city number, 752-4137."

DELIVERY PROBLEMS DELAYS FURNITURE

I moved here recently from Greenville, S.C. and upon arriving, purchased around $800 worth of furniture from the Johnson Furniture Co. They had to order a night stand. That was in May, and I've had problems getting this piece. When it did arrive, I had to be out of town when it was to be delivered, and upon returning home discovered it was delivered to the wrong address. I was told they would have me another stand in two days. I still haven't received it and that was around 10 days ago.

Your night stand has been delivered. Hotline spoke with the manager of the store, Bob Kimery, who said that your piece of furniture had been on hand for some time. They have had problems scheduling a delivery time with you. Kimery said he would call you personally and make arrangements for the delivery. You stated this was done and a time convenient to you and the store was worked out.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

PITT TECH, OFFICIAL G.E.D. CENTER

G.S. McRorie, Chief Examiner for the G.E.D., reports that, though information in Hotline last week about earning an N.C. High School Equivalency Certificate is correct, it should be pointed out that Pitt Technical Institute is an official G.E.D. Center.

The G.E.D. consists of five general tests and successful completion with an average score of 45 entitles a student to the certificate. The tests are free and are given on the first two Wednesdays of each month from noon to 5 p.m. at Pitt Tech. It takes both Wednesdays to complete the tests. Although there are no educational prerequisites for the tests, some may like to take refresher courses available at Pitt Tech in either the Learning Center, where one sets his own pace, or in evening classes, McRorie said.

Arabs Defer Summit Talk

By The Associated Press

The Arab states have delayed their next summit conference until late October to give King Hussein of Jordan and the Palestinian guerrillas more time to resolve their dispute over who represents the Palestinian people.

Foreign ministers or ambassadors representing 20 Arab nations decided Sunday at the opening of a three-day conference in Cairo to hold the summit on Oct. 26 in Rabat, Morocco. It had been scheduled to begin on Tuesday.

The postponement was requested by Hussein, who contends that his government should represent Palestinians living in Jordan and the Israeli-occupied West Bank in peace negotiations with Israel. However, the Palestine Liberation Organization claims that it is the representative of all of the 2½ million Palestinians living both in and outside of Jordan.

Egypt and Saudi Arabia favored the postponement. They want the Palestinian issue resolved so that the summit meeting can be devoted to formulating a united stand for the next phase of the Geneva peace talks with Israel.

In Amman, Jordanian Premier Zeid Rifai said the king's recent talks with President Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in Washington "yielded positive results" toward a pullback of Israeli troops from the Jordan River. But Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin said on Saturday that there would be no withdrawal "without significant progress toward peace."

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy told the Cairo meeting that his government is continuing its preparations for war, because "the war is not over yet."

"If Israel challenges the world's desire for peace, then we have no choice but to take the path we did last October," he said.

Yucatan Peninsula Reels Under Hurricane Carmen

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Winds gusting to 175 miles an hour and tides 15 feet above normal lashed the northeast coast of the Yucatan Peninsula today as Hurricane Carmen reached land. Carmen, the second hurricane of the 1974 Atlantic season, turned toward the west-northwest early today, saving Belize City, Belize, from the full brunt of the storm.

Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said the change in direction "saved the city of Belize from the devastation that could have been as severe as that observed in 1961 when Hurricane Hattie ravaged the city."

Frank said the eye of the hurricane was expected to pass over or just to the north of Chetumal, Mexico, and heavy rains posed the threat of flooding to most of the peninsula including Belize, formerly called British Honduras.

A news dispatch from Mexico City reported that communications to Chetumal had been cut off in the wake of the hurricane.

At 9 a.m. EDT today, Carmen was located at latitude 18.7 north and longitude 88.2 west, or about 25 miles north-east of Chetumal. The hurricane, with highest sustained winds of 150 m.p.h., was moving toward the west-northwest at about 12 m.p.h.

Forecaster Joe Pelissier said Carmen now threatened land along the southern and western Gulf of Mexico and offered a potential threat to Texas.

"The direction change means that it won't have as much land to go over, though the peninsula is still pretty wide," Pelissier said. "We just don't know how much strength it will maintain."

"It does mean that we will have to watch it closely and it does mean that there is a potential threat to Texas," he said.

Sees Foothold In N.C. Cigarette-Smuggling

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The state's new Republican attorney general, James Carson Jr., says organized crime is getting a foothold in North Carolina through the profitable smuggling of cheap cigarettes to the high tax states in the North.

Carson said in a taped television interview Sunday night that he would seek legislation from the General Assembly to prohibit smuggling of cigarettes out-of-state.

Carson appeared on "Report to the People" on WXII-TV.

"The ideal situation would be if New York and other high (tobacco) tax states would lower their taxes. But realistically this is not going to be done, and I don't think we should allow organized crime to get a foothold in North Carolina," Carson said.

"We need law on the books that we can enforce," he added. Under current law, it is not illegal to transport cigarettes out of North Carolina for resale.

Carson said he has begun discussions with State Bureau of Investigation Director Charles Dunn about the cigarette smuggling problem.

He said the cigarette traffic is just one aspect of the activity in which organized crime is involved in the state. He expressed concern that stolen goods and other items are being transported in the trucks sent to the state to pick up the cigarettes.

"They are getting involved in other business enterprise, land frauds and things of this nature where the consumer is being bilked out of his money," Carson said.

Placing a top priority on fighting organized crime, Carson said, "One of the first things I want to do is organize a task force to fight organized crime and keep it out of the state. Whatever the cost, we've got to do it."

Sky Diver Fell To His Death

ABERDEEN, N.C. (AP) — A Southern Pines sky diver fell about 5,000 feet to his death Saturday during a routine jump at the Roseland Jump Zone five miles south of Aberdeen.

The victim was identified as Harry Gene Tyson, 26, a member of the Roseland Sky Divers Club.

Moore County Coroner A.B. Parker said Tyson's main chute failed to open and the reserve chute opened about tree-top level.

Charge Slayings

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkey claims that Greek Cypriots massacred scores of civilians in a village near Famagusta, while the government of Cyprus is blaming Turkish troops for the death of a noted Greek Cypriot artist.

The Turkish state radio in Ankara said that at least 40 bodies of Turks, mostly children and old people, were removed Sunday from a mass grave near the village of Muratgo. It said the victims had been shot and some of the bodies mutilated.

Meanwhile, the Greek Cypriot government announced that Michael Kashalos, a 90-year-old primitive painter died Saturday of injuries inflicted on him two weeks ago by Turkish troops.

The Greek Cypriot police reported that they killed a gunman of the EOKA-B Greek Cypriot underground army when he refused to surrender his automatic rifle.

A police statement said the gunman, Ioannis Vengos, was firing his automatic rifle into the air during a wedding reception Sunday night in a mountain village west of Nicosia.

Miss Sylvia Rose Dixon Is Bride Tetterton-Leggett Vows Solemnized

The marriage of Miss Sylvia Rose Dixon and Michael Lewis White was solemnized Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Vernon Dixon Sr. of Rt. 3, Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Lewis White of Greenville.

The Rev. R. M. Stewart, pastor of the couple, officiated at the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev. J. T. Hammond Jr., brother-in-law of the bride.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. R. M. Stewart, pianist. Mrs. Stewart sang "More," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal Victorian style gown of peau de soie and Alencon lace fashioned with a scalloped lace mandarin collar, full length Bishop sleeves, and an empire waist with an illusion yoke. Alencon lace motifs and appliques trimmed the full length A-line skirt and tubular chapel train was attached to the back of the waist.

Her three-quarter length mantilla of Grench illusion was bordered with appliques of matching Alencon lace. She carried a white Bible covered with pink carnations and baby's breath centered with a white orchid tied with white satin streamers.

Mrs. J. T. Hammond, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of pink crepe fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, short sleeves and an empire waist. White lace with matching ribbon was used at the empire waist with streamers in the back. She wore a white picture hat tied with pink ribbon and carried a Colonial nosegay of miniature carnations tied with pink satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Elaine Dixon, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Carolyn Stokes, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Mrs. Beverly Stokes, Miss Jane Porter, Miss Kim Adams, cousins of the bride. They wore gowns of Romance blue styled identically to that of the honor attendant and carried similar nosegays.

Miss Jennifer Dixon, sister of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid and Misti Clark, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Their gowns were fashioned like that of the honor attendant.

Rufus L. White Jr. served his son as best man. Groomsmen were Mack Vernon Dixon Jr., brother of the bride, Randy Stokes, Walter Gaskins and Michael Clark, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom. Ricky Buck and Ronald Lassiter, all of Greenville.

Mrs. Janet Gaskins presided at the guest registry.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dixon wore a formal gown of pink crepe with a short matching lace coat with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a formal gown of crepe with a bodice overlaid with lace and long sleeves. She wore matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The grandmothers, Mrs. Mamie Ruth Mills, Mrs. Mamie Dixon, Mrs. R. L. White Sr. and Mrs. Callie Cannon were remembered with white orchid corsages.

For traveling, the bride changed into a blue floral pantsuit with matching accessories and the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

MRS. MICHAEL LEWIS WHITE

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of D.H. Conley High School. After a wedding trip to Tennessee, the couple will reside on Rt. 2, Greenville, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gurkins greeted guests. Cake was served by Mrs. Edna Mills and Mrs. Edna Earle Adams poured punch.

Also assisting in serving were Mrs. Eloise Mobley, Miss Lois Ann Mills, Mrs. Shirley Gladson and Mrs. Lou Ellen Wilson.

An after rehearsal party was held Saturday night in the church fellowship hall. Given by Mr. and Mrs. R. L. White Jr., parents of the bridegroom, the appointed table was covered with an ecru lace cloth and a centerpiece of mixed spring and summer flowers was used.

The marriage of Janet Batchelor Leggett and Charles Frederick Tetterton was solemnized in a candlelight ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Tar River Party Room, Tar River Estates.

The Rev. Curtis Tyler officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corbett Moore Batchelor of Scotland Neck. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lillian Tetterton of Bethel and the late Mr. Horace Tetterton.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Ellen Heidenreich. She sang and played the guitar. Her selections included "You've Got A Friend", "We've Only Just Begun," and "Time In A Bottle."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of light blue sheer organza flocked in a tiny white lace pattern with pink and white flowers over light blue taffeta. The gown was designed with a high neckline encircled with ruffled organza, and long fitted sleeves with deep ruffled cuffs. The A-line flared skirt was edged in an organza ruffle at the hemline which extended to an attached sweep train. She wore an elbow length veil of illusion which was attached to a Juliet cap of white cluny lace centered with a pastel blue satin bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, carnations, baby's breath and white ribbon streamers. Mrs. Shirley Acree of Carrollton, Va., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of pink voile flocked in tiny blue and white floral bouquets. The gown was designed with a scooped neckline and short puffed sleeves. The empire waistline was encircled with blue satin ribbon. She wore a pale pink garden hat trimmed in blue satin ribbon. She carried a colonial nosegay of pastel daisies, baby's breath and pink ribbon streamers.

Miss Sybil Louise Batchelor of Scotland Neck, sister of the bride was bridesmaid. Her gown was styled identically to that of the honor attendant in the floral pink voile fabric trimmed in the self fabric. She wore a pink garden hat rimmed in matching fabric and carried a nosegay like that of the honor attendant.

James Horace Tetterton of Richmond, Va., was his brother's best man. Ushers were Eddie Beverly and Reggie Etheridge, both of Greenville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Batchelor chose a formal gown of beige knit designed with an empire waistline. She wore matching accessories and a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a formal length gown of blue knit with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Dora Batchelor of Bethel, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Sally Tetterton of Bethel, paternal grandmother of the bridegroom, wore a white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Cecil G. Batchelor of Tarboro, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding.

The bride attended Pitt Technical Institute and is presently employed by Burroughs-Wellcome Company. The bridegroom is a graduate of Bethel High School and is an employee of Burroughs-Wellcome Company.

After a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception on the lawn overlooking the river at Tar River Estates.

The refreshment table was covered with a blue cloth overlaid with lace and centered with an arrangement of mixed summer flowers.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Vicky Braddy of Scotland Neck, Mrs. Jeannie Warner of Greenville, Mrs. Edith Vaughn of Scotland Neck and Mrs. Peggy James of Bethel.

The ushers entertained the newly married couple with a party at the Tar River Room Sunday night. Music was provided by a jazz band.

Couple Exchanges Marriage Vows Sunday

AYDEN—Miss Nancy Lulene Garris and James Talmadge Bowman Jr. were united in marriage in a ceremony Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. Kemery Ard officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lester H. Garris of Rt. 3, Greenville, and the late Mr. Garris. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. James Talmadge Bowman Sr. of Brown Summit, and the late Mrs. Bowman.

A program of wedding music was presented by Randy Buck, organist and Steve Rogers, guitarist. Their selections included "A Time For Us," "We've Only Just Begun" and "The Wedding Song."

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Kenneth Garris of Grifton. She wore a formal length white organza gown styled with an empire bodice and A-line skirt. Re-embroidered chantilly lace trimmed the high neckline, bodice and skirt front. The long camelot sleeves featured appliques of lace.

She wore a three-tiered elbow length mantilla of imported silk illusion bordered with Rosepoint lace which fell from a camelot cap of matching lace. She carried a formal bouquet of cascading stephanotis, butterfly roses laced with variegated greenery and accented with purple statis.

Mrs. Joyce G. McGalliard of Greenville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss June Whitley of Grifton and Miss Mary Lai Jarvis of Ayden, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Louis B. Busick of Gibsonville, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Teresa C. Hart and Mrs. Joette M. Brown, both of Greenville, and Mrs. Peggy L. Mickler of Charlotte.

The attendants wore formal gowns of pink floral chiffon over peau de soie designed with portrait necklines bordered with a ruffle which extended and encircled the back bodice. A short double flounce was featured at the sleeves and the set-in waistband extended across the back into a long sash. A wide ruffle fell at the border of the long full skirt.

The bridesmaids wore picture hats of pink and the matron of honor wore a lavender picture hat trimmed with a band of matching material which tied in the back and fell into streamers. They carried Williamsburg bouquets of autumn gold daisies and rubun lilies entwined with autumn wheat.

Miss Leslie Kay Garris of Grifton, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a formal length gown identical to that of the other attendants and carried a natural wicker basket of golden petals with autumn streamers.

Edward Bowman of Brown Summit was his brother's best man. Ushers were J. W. Busick of Gibsonville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, John W. Mitchell of Greensboro, Ronald Garris of Ayden, brother of the bride, Jerry McGalliard of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bride, Mike Hall and Woodrow Mitchell, both of Greensboro.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Annie E. Chappell, cousin of the bride, presided at the register.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jarvis, aunt and uncle of the bride, greeted guests. Mrs. Edwina Whitley, aunt of the bride, served cake and Miss Jean Bowman, sister of the bridegroom, poured punch. Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Garris, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Greensboro.

The bride graduated from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and is employed by the Madison-Mayodan City Schools as a first grade teacher.

The bridegroom graduated from Greensboro College and is employed by the Madison-Mayodan City Schools as a fifth grade teacher.

More on the cat food casserole controversy

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A reader wrote confessing that she had served her family a casserole containing tuna cat food. (They didn't know what was in it, but found it so "delicious" they asked her to make it again.) Her question: "Is there something in cat food that will harm humans?"

Your reply: "I didn't pussyfoot around. I went right to the leading cat food manufacturer, and the word from them is: 'Don't serve cat food to humans.'"

Abby, you copped out with your answer. I would like to know why pet food shouldn't be served to humans. Does it contain something that is indeed harmful to humans or not? Are the conditions under which it is canned sufficiently sanitary for animals, but not for humans?

Please give a straight answer to my questions.

STEADY READER

DEAR READER: In defense of my first reply, a spokesman for a very large pet food company very capably declined to commit himself, hence my admittedly inadequate answer.

However, your letter (and many others) prompted me to take another stab at it, so I called the Food and Drug Administration, and after speaking with a Daniel Clink, I knew this time I was barking up the right tree.

ABBY: "Is pet food safe for humans? Yes or no?"

CLINK: "It's safe for humans—but not recommended."

ABBY: "Here we go again. WHY is it not recommended for humans?"

CLINK: "Because pet food is nutritionally balanced for animals—not humans—and the nutritional requirements for each are vastly different."

ABBY: "All right, but it's highly unlikely that a human would confine his diet exclusively to pet food, so if someone wanted to fill his stomach, an occasional Alpo meatloaf wouldn't kill him, would it?"

CLINK: "Certainly not. But there's another reason why pet food is not recommended for humans. You see, most pet foods contain certain parts of animals that humans wouldn't care to eat—for psychological reasons. Like the lungs, intestines, spleens, stomachs, and ———"

ABBY: "Thanks, I think I get the idea. How about the regulations with regard to sanitation?"

CLINK: "Oh, pet food manufacturers are required to meet very high standards with regard to those conditions. And the government inspectors make sure these standards are met."

So now, dear readers, you know as much as I do about why pet food is safe for humans but not recommended.

DEAR ABBY: Now this can be told. Ever since that letter appeared in your column about the woman who made a casserole with cat food tuna, I've been wanting to confess to my family that they have eaten quite a lot of cat food without knowing it.

The first time it was an accident. We have two cats, and I absentmindedly used the cat tuna in a tuna fish salad I was making for my family.

They all remarked on how good it was, and nobody got sick, so I've continued to use it whenever my budget is tight.

Arrest Ignited Picnic Disorder

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A pre-Labor Day picnic has ended in a bloody disorder involving thousands. Two men were shot; two police cars, a fire department car and a motorcycle were burned, and a young girl was run down by a police horse.

Authorities didn't say how the disturbance at Branch Brook Park began, but some police reports indicated the crowd's anger was set off by officers making gambling arrests at the annual event sponsored by Focus, a Hispanic group.

Witnesses said, however, that the violence broke out late Sunday afternoon after a girl was trampled by a horse ridden into a crowd by a mounted policeman. A police cruiser sent to retrieve two mounted officers from the crowd stalled and was set afire after it was abandoned, police said.

They said firemen responding to the blaze retreated from a barrage of missiles thrown by the mob. Four firemen were injured, their truck was damaged and a deputy chief's car burned.

Two men were shot in the chest and hospitalized, and rumors spread that the girl had been trampled to death. Officials later announced that she had been treated at a local hospital but neither her condition nor the name of the hospital were known.

Later thousands marched on City Hall and Mayor Kenneth Gibson, who participated in the march, announced he would meet with leaders of the Puerto Rican community today. Gibson said there would be an inquiry into the shootings. Police said officers had not fired their guns and said they did not know the origin of the shots.

Seven persons were arrested, and later released on recognizance.

Segregationist Lester Maddox, seeking to become Georgia's chief executive for the second time, takes on state

Sen. George Busbee in a runoff election Tuesday for the Democratic nomination for governor. In Nevada, meanwhile, former Gov. Paul Laxalt was among three Republicans trying for the GOP nomination to succeed retiring U.S. Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev. Three other candidates sought the Democratic nomination.

And in North Dakota, another ex-governor, William L. Guy, tangled with businessman Robert McCarney for the Democratic nomination and a chance to unseat U.S. Sen. Milton Young, a Republican who was unopposed for renomination.

Maddox, Georgia's chief executive from 1967 to 1971, served as lieutenant governor for the last four years. Georgia law prohibits a governor from serving two consecutive terms. He led a field of 12 in the Democratic primary last month but fell short of the 50 per cent vote needed to win the nomination. Busbee, a state legislator, was second.

The GOP nomination contest took on a new complexion Sunday with charges from Mayor Ronnie Thompson of Macon, one of the candidates, that he had been told to drop out of the race or face possible indictment. He did not say who had asked him to drop out.

Harold Dye, a retired Army officer who finished second to Thompson Aug. 13, denied anyone had threatened to have the controversial mayor indicted.

At issue, apparently, were the "shoot-to-kill" orders issued by Thompson to Macon police in a crackdown on crime. A federal judge recently ordered the mayor to pay $25,000 in a civil suit involving the wounding of a 12-year-old boy by police, but the orders were not lifted.

Leading candidates in the race for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate in Nevada were Lt. Gov. Harry Reid and Maya Miller, a political newcomer.

Nevada Gov. Mike O'Callaghan, a Democrat, had no serious opposition in his bid for renomination, while Bill Bickerstaff, a state assemblyman, and party worker Shirley Crumpler fought it out for the Republican nomination.

In a race that has drawn national attention, the madam of the Cottontail Ranch in Lida Junction, Beverly Harrell, sought the Democratic nomination for the state assembly.

The Guy-McCarney race was the feature in North Dakota, but there was considerable interest, too, in the battle between incumbent U.S. Rep. Mark Andrews, a Republican, and state Sen. Lawrence Naden. Byron Dorgan, the Democratic candidate for Congress, had no opposition.

Seventy-One-Year-Old Had Survival Know-How

By ROXINNE ERVASTI
Associated Press Writer
BRIDAL VEIL, Ore. (AP) — Seventy-one-year-old Frances

Hodge, lost for four days on the rugged slopes of a 4,000-foot mountain, kept herself alive by eating berries, sleeping on a fern bed and using survival techniques learned years ago.

And when she was rescued she apologized for the wild huckleberry stains on her hands and shoeed away photographers and reporters.

Miss Hodge disappeared Wednesday when she left a group of picnickers from a Milwaukie, Ore., retirement home to find a rest room. When she did not return to the party, the group searched, then called authorities.

She was found Sunday by a forest ranger just over a mile from the headquarters of a 100-member search party.

"She was sitting in a trail, holding two sticks she used for walking," said David Kiser, the ranger at Mt. Hood National Forest east of Portland who found Miss Hodge. "I was surprised that she looked in as good condition as she did. SHE LOOKED ALMOST AS NEAT AS THE PICTURES CARRIED IN THE NEWSPAPERS. EXCEPT HER DRESS WAS A LITTLE SOILED."

"She said, 'I'm lost,'" Kiser said.

Searchers, who had called in helicopters to bolster their efforts, shook their heads in disbelief when they were told she had been found just a short distance from the boundary of string they had set a few days earlier.

Clad in a housedress and sturdy oxfords, the former biology teacher and medical librarian told Kiser that she had kept herself alive with survival techniques learned years ago in a hiking club.

"She was in pretty wild country," the ranger said. "If she would have gone north she would have hit the steep bluffs overlooking the Columbia River. Otherwise, she would have continued in the rolling terrain with some pretty steep slopes and canyons."

Kiser said he had a brief conversation with Miss Hodge, determined that she was in good condition, and left her so he could alert the search party.

"She didn't seem alarmed at being left again," said Kiser. "She just asked for something to sit on, so I gave her my vest."

When a team of sheriff's deputies and Explorer Scouts arrived with a litter, Miss Hodge asked for a drink of water or orange juice.

Later, at Gresham Community Hospital, she had another request — no more huckleberries. "She said she'd just had huckleberries to eat and she didn't want to see another one," a nurse said.

Yugoslav Rail Toll Is Lowered

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — Officials have lowered the toll in the wreck of the Belgrade-Dortmund express train to 121 dead and 97 injured, but workers are still sifting through the wreckage.

Earlier reports estimated that 150 persons died Friday night and 150 more were injured when the train carrying vacationing Yugoslav workers back to their jobs in West Germany ran off the rails and overturned as it approached Zagreb station in northern Yugoslavia.

Seoul's Mayor Loses His Job

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Mayor Yang Taek-shik of Seoul was dismissed today because of the attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park two weeks ago.

Following the assassination attempt in which Park's wife was killed, some 40 officials including all members of the cabinet and the mayor submitted their resignations to assume responsibility for the assassin's penetration of the security screen around the president.

Park at first accepted only the resignation of the home minister, who was responsible for the police. But he has now fired a total of 31 officials.

More Orderly Leaf-Marketing

A plan to provide for orderly seasonal closings of tobacco auction markets has been approved by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Advisory Committee.

Warehouses generally will close when they do not have enough tobacco for half or more of their daily designated leaf sales.

Under the plan, warehouses with less than the daily sales quota would have to suspend auctions until the quota is reached. An alternative would be to announce that the next auction would be the final sale of the season.

The sales opportunity left from a closed warehouse would be redistributed among other markets in the belt.

There are other limitation on what markets can sell of the undesignated leaf, but the system, if it works properly, should provide for a systematic closing of the various markets.

This has been a difficult year for growers, warehousemen and buyers as they attempted to cope with the new system of selling tobacco. For this area, though it seems the system has worked reasonably well, considering it is the first run.

Certainly the mad dash to sell in Georgia was eliminated this year, and farmers were able to receive some cash for their crop early. Prices were disappointing at the opening but have strengthened steadily since.

The industry has learned a lot from this year's sales and with some refinements, the selling system should be useful next year.

World Trade Center Idea Is Far-Reaching

The idea of a World Trade Center was born at a meeting on the ECU campus, and it appears that establishment of such a center on the campus will be recommended by Dr. Leo Jenkins.

The chancellor met with representatives of the N. C. World Trade Association here last week and said following the meeting that he would recommend establishment of the center.

The impact of such a center can be far reaching and we are enthusiastic about its early establishment.

THIS AFTERNOON Police Chief Pressures

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—So far this year, there have been changes at the top of 43 local police departments across North Carolina: on the heels of 1973 when 65 local police chiefs left their jobs, a total of 108 changes in less than two years.

What is happening is an apparent revolution in local police agencies, and those closest to the scene expect pressures on local chiefs to continue for another two or three years before some measure of stability is gained.

"What is happening is just that management responsibilities are catching up with the police chiefs across the state," says John Faircloth, head of the state's Criminal Justice Training and Standards Council.

"Being a chief of police is a much more complex job that it used to be."

Changing Times

A review of the record for chief changes in 1974 shows that at least 34 of the 43 men replaced were victims of the changing pressures and times.

The Criminal Justice Training and Standards Council is a young organization, and does not have data over the years to compare statistics.

Figures for the current year, however, show 10 local police chiefs resigned for "personal reasons," largely conflicts with governing boards locally; six were fired; six transferred from one town to another; five retired; four resigned "under pressure;" three were demoted; three transferred as chief from one town to another; and two were "acting chiefs" replaced by a regular appointee.

In 1973, 10 chiefs were demoted in rank, but remained on the local police force; 10 left office due to "personal reasons;" eight transferred; five retired; four left law enforcement; three were forced to resign; two were fired; one was injured, one killed, and one left to continue his education.

North Carolina now has 371 local law enforcement agencies, with 67 per cent of those having five men or less. Nearly one-third of those local agencies saw change at the top over the past two years. If the trend continues this year at the present rate, as expected by some experts, that one-third change ratio will certainly be achieved.

Cities, Too

The changes are not all taking place in small towns, but range right on up to some of the largest departments, including Durham, Hickory, and Wilmington.

Jim Hoyng, a staff man with the training and standards council, is one of those closest to the local police picture, and recently attended a conference in Charlotte of the statewide Police Executives

Association where the sweeping change was a prime topic of conversation.

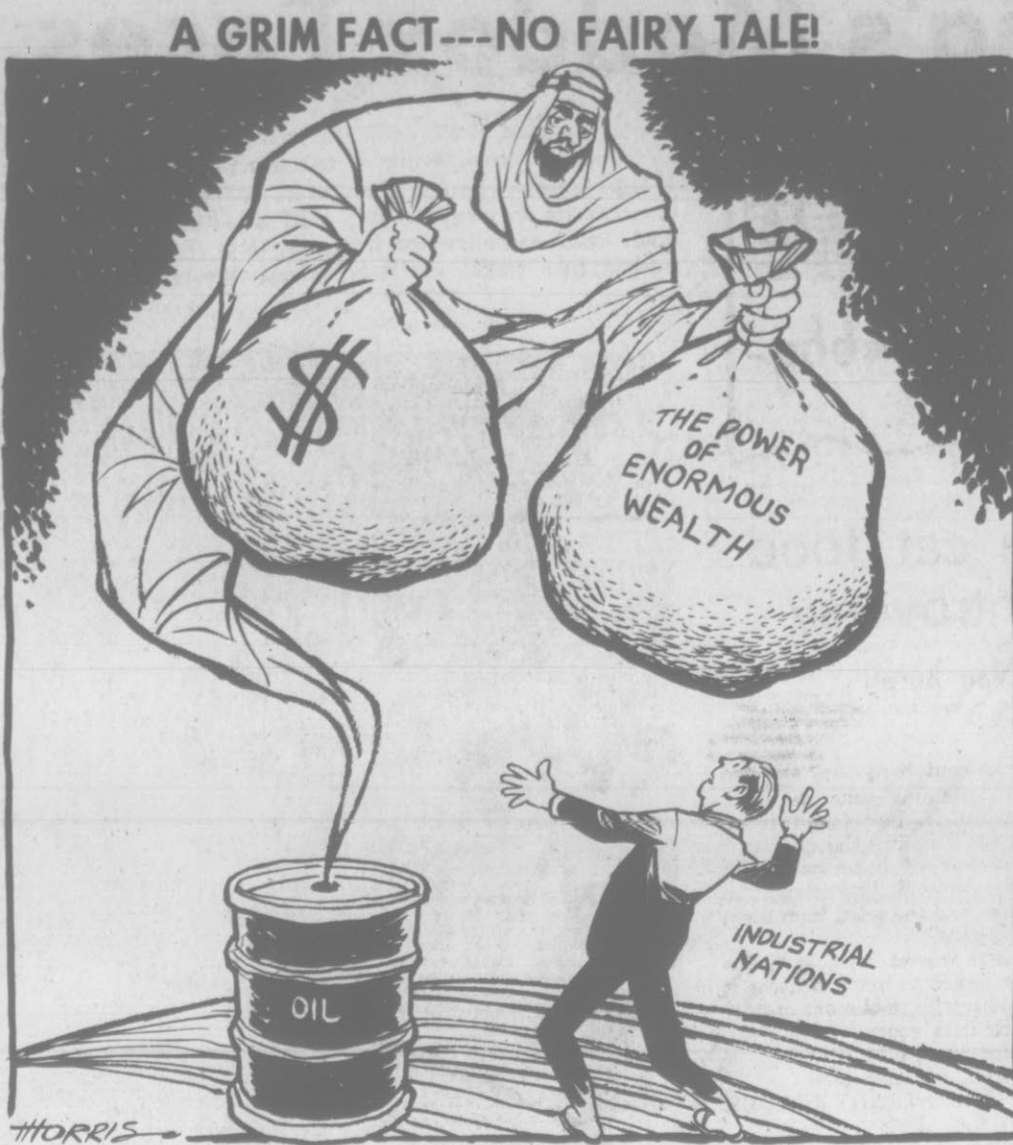

Hoyng thinks the changes reflect a basic shift in police responsibilities away from routine patrol, parking ticket writing, and waiting on a crime to occur.

"This represents an incorporation of the local police department into the city government as a part of the city administration. It used to be that people left the police department pretty much alone and the chief ran it."

"But that has changed drastically. Now, the city manager runs things and the chief must take an active part in the total city operation—budget processes, planning, personnel allocation, affects of recreational programs and such on police work—and that requires management expertise," Hoyng believes.

Additionally, citizens are questioning police service and demanding more

By ART BUCHWALD Oh, To Be A Swinger!

It's very hard for many college students to live up to the roles they have been given by the mass media. What newspapers, magazines and television networks expect from students is more than most of them can deliver. I discovered this when I was speaking at a Midwestern campus not long ago.

A student, whom I shall call Ronald Hoffman, seemed very troubled and I asked him what the problem was.

"My parents are coming up next week, and I don't know what to do."

"Well, you see, I told them I was living off campus with this coed in an apartment. But the truth is that I'm living in the dormitory."

"That shouldn't really disturb them."

"Oh, but it will. They're very proud of me, and they think I should have a mind of my own. When my dad heard I was living off campus with a coed, he doubled my allowance because, as he put it, 'Anyone who is willing to spit in the eye of conformity deserves his father's support.' I don't know what he's going to say when he finds out

I used the money to buy books."

ART BUCHWALD

"It'll hurt him," I agreed. "What will your mother say?"

"I don't know. She's been crying a lot since I wrote her about living with this coed, and Dad's been arguing with her that she's not a real woman. Mom's likely to get pretty sore when she discovers she's been crying for nothing."

"Not to mention how silly your father will look for making her cry?"

Ronald shook his head sadly. "The trouble with parents these days is they believe everything they read. Newsweek magazine, in a 'Sex on the Campus' article, made it sound so easy to find a coed to live with. Well, let me tell you, for every girl who's playing house with a male student, there are a million coeds who won't even do the dishes."

"Then all this talk of students living out of wedlock is exaggerated?"

"Exaggerated? When I got here, I asked 10 girls if they wanted to live with me. The first one said she didn't come to college to iron shirts for the wrong guy, four told me frankly that it would hurt their chances of finding a husband, four told me to drop dead and one reported me to the campus police. I was lucky to get a room in the dormitory."

"I guess it's no fun for a

The INSIDE REPORT Senator Ramsey Clark?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK—Optimism among New York Democrats that 1974 may be the year to end 16 years of suicidal defeat is tempered by this astounding fact: barring a minor political miracle, Ramsey Clark will win the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate Sept. 10.

With views well left of the New York consensus, Texas emigre Clark—now resident in Greenwich Village—seems a sacrificial lamb against liberal Republican Sen. Jacob Javits's fourth term bid. But beyond that, Democratic leaders fear he may poison the whole ticket. "No doubt. It makes it harder for us to win in November," confides the manager for another statewide candidate. What then is he doing to prevent Clark's nomination? Nothing.

Only in New York Democratic politics would party leaders assume this attitude: Clark threatens the long-awaited Democratic resurgence but, oh well, it can't be helped. Such fatalism typifies the politics of suicide that has produced two decades of Republican victories here.

Ideology aside, Ramsey Clark, 47, is an improbable candidate. Dressed in his Levi slacks and hushpuppy shoes, he denounces "the political power of wealth" in moralistic speeches delivered in a monotone Texas twang. Speaking to supporters in a posh apartment on Manhattan's east side last week, Clark recited a W.H. Auden poem verbatim and quoted from Jose Ortega y Gasset, Reinhold Niebuhr, and Benito Juarez, lulling one drowager off to sleep.

Still more exotic is Clark's ideology. After serving out his term as Lyndon B. Johnson's last attorney general, Clark's course turned sharp left—climaxed by his 1972 appearance in Hanoi with Jane Fonda. He abhors compromise today; unequivocally supporting cross-county busing and backing unconditional amnesty for draft evaders and deserters.

What separates Clark from conventional candidates was underlined at last June's state convention in Niagara Falls when his seconding speech was delivered by Herbert X. Blyden, under indictment on four counts of kidnapping and two counts of murder as a 1971 Attica Prison rioter.

Describing Blyden as "a magnificent human being," Clark told us last week he was trying to impress critical social problems on the politicians.

This posture may offend ethnic workmen in Brooklyn and Buffalo in November, but it gives Clark a running start with hardcore left ideologues sure to vote Sept. 10—important, since even the 26 percent Democratic primary rise has been made possible only by another of the habitual collapses in New York Democratic leadership.

Ironically, Javits at age 70 might have been vulnerable this year. But state Democratic leaders, preoccupied with the governorship, never focused on the Senate except for a passing attempt at Niagara Falls to tap Rep. Ogden Reid.

Guided by regular leaders, the convention designated mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse as its Senate choice.

Handsome, looking younger than his 46 years, an ethnic (Greek-American), a moderate liberal and a proven winner in a Republican city, Alexander seemed an excellent challenger against Javits if he could become known throughout this big state.

He was doomed from the start. Although Alexander's supporters promised in Niagara Falls he would raise $600,000, commitments to him evaporated. He is running with a ludicrously small $70,000 (compared with $1 million-plus war chests for the governor candidates and Clark's $180,000 raised by individual contributions not exceeding $100).

Underestimating Clark's campaign and overestimating the regulars' commitment to him, Alexander planned ahead for contesting Javits. His primary campaign did not really begin until Aug. 25. By then, polls showed Clark around 40 per cent and Alexander around 5 per cent with a huge undecided vote.

When Alexander appeared in Manhattan last week walking down Fifth Avenue at midday, it was as if a candidate from Mars had landed here.

Lacking funds for a television blitz, Alexander is now seeking the undecided vote by painting Clark as an

Other Editors Say Scott's Comments

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

Always outspoken squire Bob Scott petulantly states that he couldn't become vice chancellor of East Carolina University because of "the power structure at Chapel Hill."

According to press reports, the ex-governor talked with ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins about taking a job as his second in command. Jenkins is always considering running for governor, and may do so in 1976. Hence Scott as vice chancellor would logically move up if Jenkins were elected.

But because the University's "Board of Governors would die in hell before they would approve me," as Scott is quoted as saying, he considered (in a conversation with Chancellor Jenkins) the idea for only about 30 seconds.

The attitude of Scott toward the high office of chancellor, reflected in his further declarations on this matter, shows that 30 seconds is too long a time to consider his fitness as an academic administrator. He gives the best reasons himself: he doesn't have an academic background and he doesn't have an earned doctorate degree. Furthermore, though he didn't say so at the time, he has continually indicated his interest in further elective state office.

Scott's self-revelation and obvious political orientation speaks volumes as to why he shouldn't be a North Carolina public university academic administrator. The University system was set up to divorce higher education from politics. Its Board of Governors is making good strides to this end, in keeping with the legislation that created the fledgling 16-campus system. Squire Bob would be way out of his briar patch. While by some reverse logic he has distorted the reasons, the saints may be praised that he won't be an academic administrator.

Trial Of Nixon Favored By 56%

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J.—In the latest nationwide survey, a majority of 56 per cent think former President Richard Nixon should be tried for possible criminal charges arising from Watergate, while 37 per cent oppose such action and 7 per cent do not express an opinion.

As in the case of many Watergate-related issues in the past, views on this issue are strongly partisan from a political standpoint. Democrats are nearly 3-to-1 in favor of bringing Nixon to trial, but Republicans are nearly 2-to-1 opposed.

Nixon was named as an undicted co-conspirator by the grand jury that formally accused many of his associates and aides of Watergate-related crimes. And since he resigned from the presidency, forfeiting what immunity may have protected him in that office, there has been a great deal of speculation over whether or not he should be indicted and prosecuted.

President Ford could ultimately pardon Nixon and others for any federal offenses committed. And Ford, in saying he thought Nixon had suffered enough, told reporters at his first press conference as President last Wednesday that a pardon for Nixon was an option he was holding open if the former President were brought to trial and convicted. But the decision as to whether or not the prosecution will proceed, and in what form, rests in the hands of Watergate special prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Arguments Pro And Con

Arguments in favor of prosecuting Nixon include the concept that failure to do so would diminish public respect for our system of justice.

Also cited as a reason to proceed with the prosecution is the concept of "equal justice under law." If the law applies equally to everyone, it is argued, Nixon should be treated no differently.

Among those in the survey who reflect this point of view is a 46-year-old salesman who says, "If he violated the law he should be prosecuted, just like I certainly would be."

Another argument in favor of prosecution is that many former Nixon subordinates have stood and will in the future stand trial. A failure to proceed with Nixon's case, it is argued, would be unfair to those men who have already stood trial and, in some cases, gone to jail.

Making this point, a 39-year-old New Jersey housewife said, "Just because he's the President doesn't make any difference. And, if they're going to let him get away, they shouldn't prosecute his aides either."

Finally, the argument is made that if Nixon does not stand trial, he would be free to say he has done nothing wrong, a claim that would be supported by some who believe he was hounded from office by the press and political adversaries.

Should Nixon Be Tried?

	Should	Not	No Opinion

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — It's becoming hard to tell whether North Carolina's political leaders are running for office or trying out for the lead role in a Camel filter commercial.

The rage this summer in campaign advertising is for posing candidates in the Camel filter stance: tie loosened and jacket carried over the shoulder.

Ward Purrington, the Republican candidate for Congress in the 4th District, strikes the pose with his eyes focused nervously in the distance, looking toward Washington, no doubt.

Jim Carson, the new attorney general, faces front and smiles toothily in his campaign brochures.

Even Gov. Jim Holshouser's office has begun to distribute posters showing the governor in the Camel filter pose, his hair brushed youthfully down over his forehead. If Holshouser is running for something, however, he hasn't announced what it is yet.

A person who wasn't personally acquainted with these gentlemen and others who use the pose might come to Raleigh and expect to see the streets full of politicians walking with their ties loosened, their coats slung over their shoulders, their teeth bared in a grin and their eyes focused on distant places.

But they don't. Purrington would have received a stern admonition from the rostrum if he dared walk onto the floor of the state House so disarrayed.

Carson likes to work in his shirtsleeves, but he carries his coat over his arm.

And Holshouser never appears in public in Raleigh without his tie knotted firmly to his neck and his coat on.

Someone, somewhere, has obviously decided that if the pose can sell cigarettes, it can sell politicians, too. But how does it work?

"Well, it gives the impression that this is a hard-working guy, ready to roll up his sleeves and get to work. But he's a regular guy, too, you know," said Jerry Loucheim, the governor's ad man. Loucheim designed Carson's brochure.

Butch Gallagher designed the governor's poster, selecting the Camel filter pose from 1972 campaign shots. It's supposed to tell people in rural areas where the governor will be on his People's Tour days.

"It connotes informality, approachability," Gallagher said. "We're trying to tell people know that they shouldn't feel uncomfortable about coming up and talking to the governor." Gallagher, by the way, says he has actually seen Holshouser in the pose when there were no cameras around.

Maybe the real explanation came from raven-haired Nancy Jones, who is gubernatorial news aide Jack Childs' secretary.

"Don't you just love it?" Nancy said, when the pose was brought up in Childs' office. "It turns me on. I have the poster on the wall in my bedroom."

'Spy Plane' Crosses Atlantic In Under Two Hours

AFTERMATH OF ATTACK—South Vietnamese civilians walk dejectedly through ruins of their village home near the northern province town of Quang Ngai in the aftermath of a Viet Cong rocket attack. Relatively quiet since the Jan. 1973 cease-fire accord, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops in the past month have stepped up a series of attacks on district towns and government outposts. (AP Wirephoto)

FARNBOROUGH, England (AP) — A United States Air Force spy jet has flown the Atlantic in less than two hours, more than an hour faster than any previous crossing.

The sleek, black Lockheed SR71 flew from New York to the south coast of England, a distance of 3,490 miles, in 1 hour 55 minutes and 42 seconds Sunday. Flying as high as 15 miles, it averaged 1,817 miles an hour, a spokesman said.

The plane, known as the Blackbird, overshot the runway at the Farnborough International Air Show 20 miles southwest of London, raced on to Amsterdam in the Netherlands, wheeled sharply and flew back to Farnborough.

"One slight miscalculation and we would have made it a New York-Paris record," one of the two crewmen, Maj. Noel F. Widdiefield, told President Ford when the President telephoned to congratulate him and Maj. Jim V. Sullivan on their "magnificent achievement."

The Air Force said it was asking the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, which accredits all aviation records, to certify the Blackbird's time as the New York-to-London record.

The fastest previous crossing of the Atlantic was 3 hours 9 minutes from Boston to Paris, flown last June by the Concorde, the Anglo-French supersonic jetliner. The previous New York-to-London record was 4 hours 46 minutes, set five years ago by a British navy Phantom fighter.

Sullivan, the plane's 37-year-old pilot, is from Wheeler, Mont., and Widdiefield, 33, is from Anderson, Ind. Widdiefield is the reconnaissance systems officer and operates the Blackbird's intricate spying equipment.

Sullivan and Widdiefield took off from the U.S. Strategic Air Command's base at Beale, Calif., crossed the United States at subsonic speeds, and slowed down to 500 miles an hour to refuel twice over the Atlantic, near Newfoundland and south of Greenland.

Sullivan's English wife, Maggie, was at Farnborough to meet her husband.

"I didn't worry at all," she said. "Jim is safer up there than on the freeway."

The Blackbird, a successor to the U2, has been in service since 1966, but its appearance at the Farnborough show was its debut before the public. The Air Force said it has a range of more than 2,000 miles without refueling and can photograph an area the size of Britain in just over an hour, producing pictures detailed enough to show the numbers on automobile license plates.

The Blackbird's achievement was marred by the crash at the airshow of a stunting American Sikorsky Black Hawk helicopter in which the pilot, Stewart Craig, 34, of Guilford, Conn., was killed and the copilot, Kurt Cannon, 40, of Seymour, Conn., was seriously injured.

Cannon was taken to a hospital in Aldershot. A spokesman said he had extensive burns and fractures of his spine and of both legs.

The big helicopter was making a low pass when a rotor struck the ground. The helicopter hit the ground, bounced 50 feet and exploded.

Dune Snared In Red Tape

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's effort to buy and preserve the massive Jockey's Ridge sand dune near Nag's Head is mired in a bureaucratic stall.

The 1974 legislature responded to pleas from environmentalists and appropriated $500,000 to purchase the dune as a state park.

But Asst. Sec. Arthur W. Cooper of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources said plans to purchase the initial 100 acres of the tract "are at an absolute standstill until we can get an appraisal."

The state Department of Administration is the agency charged with doing that job. But the department has acquired a new secretary and a new director of real property this summer and the job hasn't been done.

Nat Robb, the new real property director, said his office is currently engaging an appraiser and expects to have a report within a month.

When that happens, the state can begin negotiating with the property owners who hold pieces of the dune, the highest on the Atlantic coast.

Recruiters Earn Awards

Five Greenville Army recruiters received awards recently from the Raleigh District Recruiting Command in recognition of service achievements.

Lt. Col. Howard J. Hoffman, commander of the Raleigh District, presented the Army Commendation Medal to SFC Ray O. Boose, S.Sgt. George Taylor Jr., and SFC Raymond R. McCombs. The ACM presented to Boose carried a second Oak Leaf Cluster.

S.Sgt. Marlon K. Haddock and SFC Norman J. Harrison received the Meritorious Service Medal for achievement. McCombs and Harrison have been stationed in Greenville since 1972 while Boose, Taylor and Haddock have been assigned here since 1973.

The Raleigh District Recruiting Command, comprised of 53 eastern counties, was recognized as the top recruiting district in the country, achieving 150 per cent of their objective for fiscal year 1974.

Drugs And Violence In Background Of Sniper

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — Authorities say a history of drug addiction and sporadic violence haunted the man charged in connection with three sniper deaths that turned a desert highway into a corridor of terror.

Dr. Thomas Cox, former director of the Hope Center drug rehabilitation clinic in Tucson, Ariz., said Richard Harold Hicks, 34, voluntarily sought aid there nine months ago for his addiction to heroin.

Cox said Sunday that Hicks was dropped from a methadone program after wielding a gun in a waiting room. Cox said that Hicks returned the next day heavily armed, was arrested, released on bail, then failed to appear in court after being charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Authorities said Hicks later moved to the Los Angeles suburb of Santa Fe Springs, and got a job as a foreman in a plastics plant. A sheriff's spokesman said Hicks was fired from that job last Friday, but he declined to say why.

Hicks was booked Saturday for investigation of murder and attempted murder in connection with a shooting spree earlier that day that left three motorists dead and seven injured along a 105-mile stretch of Interstate 10.

Hicks surrendered about 25 miles from the Arizona border after a truck driver trailed his car for nearly an hour, relaying information to police on a citizens band radio, authorities said.

Authorities said they knew of no motive for the killings.

Killed by the roving sniper, each shot once in the left side of the head as they drove, were Jose Borjan Romero, 50, of Pasadena; Billy Gene Tegar, 41, of Bell Gardens; and Herman Ronald Edge, 27, of Long Beach. Dorothy Furguson, 43, of Buena Park, the most seriously hurt of the wounded, was reported in fair condition at a Palm Springs hospital.

responsive and responsible performance, he said.

Officials, far from being distressed by the sweeping change, are convinced changes for the better will result when the period of unrest ends. Towns replacing chiefs invariably look for a combination of law enforcement experience, education and training in a new man able to meet the demands of the modern department, Hoyng said.

extremist. But in liberal New York, he cannot push too hard by raising matters such as that famous trip to Hanoi.

No prominent Democrat gives Alexander a chance, and the regulars have virtually abandoned him. "I feel pretty bad about Ramsey on the ticket," one Queens regular leader told us. "But my people really don't give a damn about it. They're interested in governor."

Such mindless apathy is familiar in Democratic politics here. But the advent of Ramsey Clark could be the syndrome's final spasm. The race for governor shows a different spirit building, the subject for a future column from here.

Traffic Death Toll Hits 18

By The Associated Press
North Carolina's Labor Day weekend traffic death count moved to 18 today with the homeward exodus still to come.

The N.C. State Motor Club has predicted that 20 people will die during the 78-hour period that ends at midnight tonight.

The deaths thus far brought the toll for the year to 985. A year ago, it was 1,246.

Lorenzo L. Cunningham, 20, of Clinton, died when his car hit a telephone pole in Clinton this morning.

Robert L. Hayes, 24, of Dudley died when his car left U.S. 701 and hit a tree less than a mile south of Garland in Sampson County.

Billy T. Lawson, 24, of Goldsboro lost his life when his car ran off U.S. 64 east of (Robersonville and struck at telephone pole.

Douglas Graham Brinkley, 17, of Asheville was killed when the car in which he was a passenger went out of control and crashed into a utility pole on a rural road near Asheville.

Reba Jenkins Woodward, 22, of Stecoah was killed when the motorcycle on which she was riding collided with a car on N.C. 28 six miles south of Fontana Village.

Laura Ann Bass, 11, of Rt. 1, Scotland Neck, was fatally injured when she was struck by a car on a rural road near her home.

David Lee Hurdle, 21, was killed in a one-car crash on a rural road two miles west of Hertford.

Other weekend fatalities included:

- Ester Lynnett Hair, 7, of Salemburg
- William T. Styres, 22, of Rt. 7, Winston-Salem
- Cecil Ryland Brann, 20, Rt. 1, Leasburg
- Ebron Perry, 2, Greenville
- Terry Lynn Hopson, 16, Rt. 3, Hillsborough
- Patricia Louise Penland, 15, Rt. 1, Hillsborough
- Edmons Sherrill Rollins Jr., 24, of Rt. 1, Bostic

Evacuated In Rail Wreck

MUSTANG, Okla. (AP) — Two Frisco Railway freight trains — both carrying tanks of flammable chemicals — collided head on near here, forcing evacuation of residents in a square-mile area.

Flames still were burning at the scene today as rescuers continued the search for a crewman feared killed during the collision Sunday.

After the crash, flames shot several hundred feet in the air when a tank car loaded with LP-gas caught fire. Sixteen cars loaded with aviation fuel did not catch fire, authorities reported.

As the fire continued to burn early today, heavy rain hampered rescuers. Officials said the explosion threat had lessened but there still was some danger.

Threat of an explosion forced evacuation of several families in the sparsely populated rural area.

Those evacuated were allowed to return home late Sunday night but were ordered evacuated again near midnight when flames again flared as the side of the burning tank car collapsed and one of the aviation fuel tank cars began leaking.

Three other crewmen injured in the crash were taken to Baptist Hospital in Oklahoma City.

Mustang is on the southwest edge of Oklahoma City.

Supporters Are Executed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two supporters of former Chilean resident Salvador Allende were fatally shot after being detained by police near Santiago, Chile, the Washington Post reported in today's editions.

The newspaper also said that its correspondent in Chile, Joseph Novitski, was temporarily placed under house arrest after Chilean authorities learned that he was writing an article about the two deaths.

The two shootings appear to be the first summary executions in Chile since an end to such killings was ordered earlier this year by the junta that overthrew Allende last September, the Post article said.

Ms. Hedgpath was also honored with the Mallinckrodt Award, which is given to the

Believe Trio Given Ride

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina prison officials have given up their active search for three honor-grade inmates who escaped from a Raleigh prison Saturday night.

A prison spokesman said Sunday he feared the men had managed to get a ride out of the area.

The prisoners escaped from North Central Correctional Center by scaling a fence while they were returning from a movie.

One of the four who went over the fence was captured a short time later and identified as Cornelius Prue, 23 of Washington, D.C. Prue is serving five years for robbery.

The other three were identified as George Baldwin, 22 of Chapel Hill, serving four years for assault with a deadly weapon; Marvin Culberth, 21, serving 10 years for armed robbery; and Edwin McLeon, 21, serving 9-12 years for robbery with firearms. Both McLeon and Culberth are from Washington, D.C.

A prison spokesman said five or six guards were still searching in the prison area for the men and police had been alerted to watch for them.

and stipulates that any proposed loan to a Communist country in excess of $50 million must be explained in writing to Congress 30 days before it is to take effect.

Rep. Richard Ichord (D-Mo.), the sponsor, said his amendment would help to counteract public opinion that Congress has "surrendered its responsibilities to the executive branch," and would give Congress more control over questionable loans. There were no floor remarks of opposition.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy

Taylor (D-11) voted "yea". Rep. Richardson Preyer (D-6) voted "nay."

RAILROAD GRADE CROSSINGS Rejected, 190 for and 223 against, an amendment to kill a proposed "demonstration project" to improve traffic flow in Hammond, Ind. The effect of the vote was to retain a $14 million authorization for removal of highway railroad grade crossings in the northwestern Indiana city situated near Chicago. The authorization was part of the Federal Mass Transportation Act of 1974 (HR 12859).

Rep. Ray Madden (D-Ind.), the Hammond congressman, said the project is necessary because his district has more traffic congestion than any other single congressional district has.

"There is not one area of the United States that can compare with the Calumet region of Indiana as far as traffic congestion is concerned," he said.

Rep. H.R. Gross (R-Ia.), sponsor of the amendment, said all other congressman have railroad grade crossings that tie up traffic, "but we cannot get $14 million worth of special treatment and privilege." He said a federal demonstration project is unjustified because "they have been relocating railroad tracks and eliminating grade crossings ever since they started to build railroads."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill, and Taylor voted "yea."

Mizell and Preyer voted "nay."

SENATE
DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS Rejected, 44 for and 47 against, an amendment to lower U.S. military aid to South Vietnam from $700 million to $550 million in fiscal 1975. The amendment was proposed to the Defense Department appropriations bill (H.R. 16243).

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), the sponsor, cited Defense Intelligence Agency statistics showing that the United States is providing eight times as much money to South Vietnam as the Republic of China and the Soviet Union together are giving to North Vietnam. Proxmire warned that unless the Senate reduces "unnecessary" military spending "inflation will continue to rage." If domestic programs such as mass transit aid must feel the pinch of inflation, so should aid to South Vietnam, he said.

Quoting a State Department report, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) disagreed with Proxmire, saying that the 8-1

Driver Died In Accident

ROBERSONVILLE — A Goldsboro man was killed and two other persons injured when a car went out of control three miles East of here on U.S. 64 about 12:10 p.m. Sunday, struck a utility pole and overturned several times.

Investigation Patrolman B.W. Parker reported Billy Tyrone Lawson, 25, of Goldsboro, the driver of the car, died almost instantly of head injuries he received in the crash.

Passengers in the car, Lawson's brother Douglas Lawson, 27 of Washington, D.C. and Norris Thomas, 27, of Goldsboro, were injured.

According to Trooper Parker, the Lawson car was headed East at a high rate of speed when it ran off the right side of the highway, hit and broke the pole, then overturned. The force of the collision tore the back end of the car from the front portion.

Value of the car, a total loss, was set at $2,000 while damage to the pole and lines was estimated at $900.

ratio actually is 4-3 and that a greater U.S. outlay is justified because "it is more expensive to guard a bank than to rob it."

Goldwater added that unless the U.S. continues a high level of aid South Vietnam will "go down the drain."

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

INFLATION CONTROL
Tabled, 50 for and 35 against, an amendment giving the new Council on Wage and Price Stability power to delay major wage and price increases for 60 days. The amendment had been proposed to White House-requested legislation (S. 3919) setting up the council to fight inflation.

Supporters of the tabling motion, who opposed the 60-day cooling-off provision, said the amendment would smack of wage-and-price controls, which President Ford had not requested. They said Congress should give the President only the tools he requests.

Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), sponsored the amendment and opposed the tabling motion. He said the new council's power to hold hearings into wage and price increases will be of little value without a cooling-off period, for hearings are scheduled to take place after the increases occur. "A major review procedure before the increase was put into effect would cause corporations or unions to proceed more cautiously. . .," Javits said.

Tabled, 50 for and 35 against, an amendment giving the new Council on Wage and Price Stability power to delay major wage and price increases for 60 days. The amendment had been proposed to White House-requested legislation (S. 3919) setting up the council to fight inflation.

Supporters of the tabling motion, who opposed the 60-day cooling-off provision, said the amendment would smack of wage-and-price controls, which President Ford had not requested. They said Congress should give the President only the tools he requests.

Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), sponsored the amendment and opposed the tabling motion. He said the new council's power to hold hearings into wage and price increases will be of little value without a cooling-off period, for hearings are scheduled to take place after the increases occur. "A major review procedure before the increase was put into effect would cause corporations or unions to proceed more cautiously. . .," Javits said.

Ervin and Helms voted "yea."

Quoting a State Department report, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) disagreed with Proxmire, saying that the 8-1 ratio actually is 4-3 and that a greater U.S. outlay is justified because "it is more expensive to guard a bank than to rob it."

Goldwater added that unless the U.S. continues a high level of aid South Vietnam will "go down the drain."

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

Brock Is Just Seven Away From Record

BROCK GETS BACK—Lou Brock, St. Louis Cardinals, dives back into first safely as Giants first baseman Dave Kingman starts to make the tag. Brock got up and on the next pitch to the plate stole second base. It was his 96th steal of the season. He stole two more bases before the game was over and is now only six short of the record held by Maury Wills. More important St. Louis won the game 8-1 to stay in the race for the lead of the Eastern Division of the National League. (AP Wirephoto)

ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Today's lesson in larceny comes from Lou Brock, base stealer extraordinaire:

"I just wait for a spot, pick it—and take it."

That formula for success helped Brock swipe four bases in the St. Louis Cardinals' 8-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants Sunday, giving him 96 for the season. Maury Wills' single-season standard of 104 is about as safe as those voyagers on the Titanic.

Brock's four steals Sunday moved him into second place on the stolen base list, eclipsing Ty Cobb's 96 thefts in 1915. Only Wills, who swiped 104 in 1962, remains for Brock to catch.

Elsewhere in the National League Sunday, Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh 6-2, Philadelphia blasted Houston 8-1, New York blanked Atlanta 3-0, Cincinnati edged Montreal 2-1 and Chicago defeated San Diego 4-1.

Bob Gibson scattered seven hits and two errors by San Francisco's Dave Kingman helped the Cards to four unearned runs, but Brock's thievery was the main attraction.

Dodgers 6, Pirates 2

Two-run homers by Steve Yeager and Dave Lopes in the sixth inning powered Los Angeles past Pittsburgh in a battle of National League division leaders.

Don Sutton, 13-9, got the victory, with ninth-inning relief help from Mike Marshall. Dock Ellis, 11-9 took the loss, his first since July 10.

Phillies 8, Astros 1

Philadelphia's Dick Ruthven fired a three-hitter and rapped two singles and a double himself.

Del Unser collected three hits and Mike Schmidt slammed his 33rd homer of the season to highlight Philadelphia's 13-hit attack.

Expos 2, Reds 1

Mike Torrez, 11-8, fired a five-hitter and Ron Hunt scored twice for the Expos, once after being hit with a pitch for the 14th time this year and 241st ner and Rusty Staub and a sacrifice fly by Benny Ayala, then added two in the fifth.

Cubs 4, Padres 1

The Cubs scored three runs in the first inning, two on an American League scores: Oakland 5, Detroit 3; Minnesota 9, Boston 6; New York 7, Chicago 5; Milwaukee 3, California 1; Baltimore 7, Kansas City 1, and Texas 10, Cleveland 3.

Places

Dean Collins of Greenville recently placed second in the Men's division of the National Water Skiing championships held at Calloway Gardens Pine Mt., Ga. He scored 3040 points. Collins also completed in the slalom scoring 33½ points. He won second place in the Nationals last year. That event was held in Petersburg, Va.

Collins has taken a first place in the Virginia Beach Open, a second at Anderson S. C. and third place in slalom and tricks in the Mid-Atlantic Open in other tournaments this year.

'The Time Is Ripe'-Brock

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "The time is ripe to break the record," said St. Louis Cardinals' speedster Lou Brock after he proved that point emphatically against the San Francisco Giants.

The 35-year-old Brock stole the Giants blind Sunday and became the second-best single-season base thief in baseball history with 96 after streaking to four steals in an 8-1 rout.

Brock stole second in the third inning and equaled Ty Cobb's once-legendary 96 thefts in the sixth. Then he crowned his brilliant performance by stealing second and third in the eighth in pursuit of Maury Wills' record.

Wills, who stole 104 bases in 1962, didn't record No. 98 until the Dodgers' 157th game Sept. 25. Brock's No. 98 came in the Cardinals' 134th contest—and his 126th.

"Everyone expects me to break it, so I might as well try with a record in St. Louis," said Brock. "We have eight games at home this week, so it can be done. But, as you guys know, the closer you come, the harder it gets."

"It will be nice to break the record, but that certainly wasn't my goal when the season started," Brock explained after stealing four bases for the third time in his career. "I'm as much surprised as anybody."

"I've never seen anyone like Brock," offered Giants' catcher Dave Rader, the victim along with pitchers Ed Halicki, Randy Moffitt and John Morris. "He has everything down—timing, speed, acceleration."

St. Louis second baseman Ted Sizemore, who also played on the same club with Wills at Los Angeles added: "Maury took a bigger lead than Lou and he mastered different slides to get around the tag."

"Brock's speed is so great, he can compensate if he makes an error," Sizemore said. "Lou just goes right for the bag. There's nothing fancy about the way he steals bases, but he sure gets there quickly."

time of his career.

He was hit by a pitch from Don Gullett leading off the third and scored on singles by Bob Bailey and Ron Woods.

Mets 3, Braves 0

Tug McGraw, making only his second start of the season, fired the first shutout of his major league career by stopping Atlanta on five hits.

The Mets got a run in the fourth on singles by John Mil-

Andy Thornton homer, and sailed past the Padres behind the combined six-hit pitching of Rick Reuschel and Oscar Zamora.

Cockroft Has Perfect Day-Passing

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A strange name appeared in the passing statistics of the Cleveland Browns' 21-17 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals: Don Cockroft, one-for-one, 12 yards.

The Cleveland kicking specialist's pass to Van Green Sunday proved to be an integral part of the Browns' feverish comeback, producing two touchdowns in the last 30 seconds of the National Football League exhibition.

Cockroft's pass from punt formation on a fourth-and-10 situation at the Browns' 48 caught the Bengals off guard.

The play gained 12 yards and kept alive a touchdown drive capped by Billy Pritchett's two-yard burst with 30 seconds to go.

Milt Morin's 19-yard touchdown reception from Mike Phipps won the game 24 seconds later.

Another gamble, a recovered onside kickoff by Mark Ilgenfritz, launched the Browns on their winning touchdown drive.

The Bengals' scoring came on one-yard runs by Doug Dressler and Charles "Boobie" Clark in the second quarter and a 40-yard Horst Muhlmann field goal with 5½ minutes to play.

Greg Pruitt squirted 94 yards with a kickoff return for Cleveland's only touchdown prior to the last minute heroics.

The next-to-last weekend of the NFL exhibition season will wind up tonight in San Francisco when the 49ers, 0-4, play the Oakland Raiders, 3-1, in a nationally televised contest.

San Francisco rookie Wilbur Jackson, a No. 1 draft choice from Alabama, will get a chance to make his NFL rushing debut against the tough Oakland defenders. Jackson is coming off an ankle injury.

The Raiders, meanwhile, will start prize rookie Dave Caspar, a Notre Dame tight end drafted No. 2.

In NFL action Saturday, Minnesota beat St. Louis 14-10, Los Angeles defeated San Diego 30-16, New Orleans upset the New York Jets 24-7, Philadelphia downed the New York Giants 24-21, Atlanta crushed Baltimore 23-7, Dallas topped Kansas City 25-16, Denver trimmed New England 27-21 and Houston pounded Chicago 37-20.

Reserve quarterback James Harris notched the triumph for Los Angeles, 4-1, against San Diego, 2-3, with two fourth-quarter TD passes—a 12-yarder to Les Josephson and a nine-yarder to Pat Curran.

New Orleans, 2-3, beat the Jets, 2-3, on three touchdowns in the fourth quarter—Jess Phillips' two-yard plunge, line-backer Rick Kingree's 25-yard fumble return, and Bobby Scott's eight-yard run.

Tom Sullivan's eight-yard scoring run with 70 seconds left gave Philadelphia, 2-3, its victory against the Giants, 2-3.

Quarterback Pat Sullivan led Atlanta, 3-2, past Baltimore, 13, by completing 14 of 25 passes. Dallas, 3-2, tripped Kansas City, 2-3, on Calvin Hill's one-yard TD plunge after a 49-yard pass interference call against Jim Marsalis.

Denver, 4-1, needed a one-yard touchdown dive by sub QB John Hufnagel in the final quarter to defeat New England, 3-2.

Lynn Dickey fired touchdown passes to Ken Burroughs—22 yards—and Jerry Broadnax—55 yards—to lead Houston, 3-2, by Chicago, 1-4.

Nicklaus Leads Field

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Jack Nicklaus enters today's shortened final round of the unusual $250,000 Tournament Players Championship with a two-stroke lead over J.C. Snead and only five holes left to capture his first golf tournament in six months.

"I haven't won for a long time and I want to win," Nicklaus said Sunday. A victory would push Nicklaus over $200,000 in earnings for the year by capturing the $50,000 first prize.

The unusual circumstances which set up the 10 a.m., EDT, starting time were brought about by Sunday's violent weather which turned the 6,883-yard, par 72 Atlanta Country Club course into a virtual swimming hole.

Nicklaus put on one of his patented charges Sunday in what was expected to be the final round of the event, overcoming the three-shot lead which Snead had taken after the third round of play.

There were 12 players still on the course when a third thunderstorm occurred, halting play for the day. Two earlier rain delays of two hours and 38 minutes had threatened to wipe out play, but 60 golfers in the field of 72 finished before the rains struck for the third time.

Tournament officials said all scores would count and Nicklaus, who carded five birdies Sunday, through 13 holes, went off from the 14th tee today. Snead, 32, and the nephew of Sam Snead, was in the final threesome just behind Nicklaus and had six holes to play.

ABC will televise the final holes beginning at 4:30 p.m., EDT.

Snead birdied his first two holes Sunday for a five-stroke lead over Nicklaus before faltering. He bogied the third of six holes while Nicklaus got even with Snead, knocking in

Tied For Moya Lead

First round leader Carl Thumber fell two strokes back of the pace into third place as Reynolds May and Frank Hill took over first in the championship flight after 36 holes of the W.S. Moya Memorial golf tournament being held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The tourney was to wind up today with the final 18 holes. Play began on Saturday.

Thumber's 73 on Saturday gave him the first round lead but May and Hill, tied in the first day with 76's passed him as they fired 76's again to be eight over par.

In fourth place is Erroll Webb with a 155 and in fifth is Mike Woolees having shot a two-day total of 157.

Ed Warren continued to lead the first flight with a 160. Ed Tipton took over the lead of the second flight with a 170, Wallace Woolees leads the third flight carding a 169 and Cliff Everett, Jr. still leads the fourth flight with a 180.

birdies on Nos. 3, 4 and 6.

Nicklaus, who only won at Hawaii in February, then birdied 11 and 13 for his margin."

"After being three shots back, I had to like my comeback," said Nicklaus. "Despite all the rain, I feel pretty good." Nicklaus said he kept dry while waiting out the rain delays by visiting at some of the homes just off the course.

In third place behind Snead and Nicklaus, were Lou Graham, Gene Littler and Dave Hill, all at 10-under par. They will finish out their rounds today.

Bob Murphy with a 68 for 279 was the leader Sunday among those who finished. PGA Champion Lee Trevino had a 74 for 284 while U.S. Open winner Hale Irwin shot a 72 for 288.

Leading money winner Johnny Miller withdrew during Friday's second round while Masters and British Open champion Gary Player, along with Arnold Palmer, failed to make the 36-hole cut.

Teams Battle To Blow Leads

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox, front-runners in the American League's East Division, and the tailgating New York Yankees made valiant efforts to blow big leads Sunday. The Red Sox succeeded.

"Good!" said Bill Virdon, whose surging Yankees downed the Chicago White Sox 7-5 less than 10 minutes before the Red Sox succumbed to the Minnesota Twins 9-6 when pinch hitter Bob Darwin singled home the tying run in the ninth inning and Pat Bourque followed with a three-run homer.

"Now that makes it two games out," Virdon added.

Elsewhere, the Oakland A's stretched their lead in the AL West to 7½ games over Kansas City by defeating the Detroit Tigers 5-3 while the Royals lost to the Baltimore Orioles 7-1, the Texas Rangers routed the Cleveland Indians 10-3 and the Milwaukee Brewers shaded the California Angels 3-1.

Sandy Alomar and Chris Chambliss had three hits apiece for the Yankees, who rallied out 14 safeties.

The Yanks wrapped it up with a four-run fifth inning that kayoed Bart Johnson, who had pitched two consecutive shut-outs.

Pat Dobson blanked the White Sox until Jorge Orta's two-run triple in the seventh.

O'Leary Carries Hawaiians

HONOLULU (AP). — Enrie O'Leary said he wasn't too good at his job as an assistant equipment manager for the Hawaiians, but he has proved his worth as a running back. O'Leary picked up 107 yards in 23 carries and 43 yards on pass plays to join relief quarterback Norris Weese in pacing the Hawaiians' 33-15 win over the Houston Texans in a World Football League game here Sunday.

"When you're in the huddle, you see the ball boys run out and that was the job I would have had. But now they bring me the water," said O'Leary, who had been cut from the team during the Hawaiians training camp.

He stayed on as assistant equipment manager and returned to the Hawaiians' roster four weeks ago.

"I wasn't too good at being a manager," he said.

O'Leary plunged one yard for Hawaii's third touchdown and earlier added the bonus point with a run after Weese connected with Grady Richardson on a 36-yard touchdown pass in the third quarter to put Hawaii ahead, 11-7.

Weese, who started as a wide receiver and pulled in one pass for nine yards early in the game, took over the play-calling from Edd Hargett in the second period.

"We've been making a lot of mistakes, but all we need is a few more wins like this to get our confidence back," said Weese, who completed seven of 13 passes for 160 yards and added 40 yards on four keeper plays.

Twins 9, Red Sox 6

After cutting a 6-2 Boston lead to 6-5 with three runs in the seventh, the Twins pulled it out after Tony Oliva opened the ninth with a single off reliever Diego Segui. Eric Soderholm sacrificed and Steve Braun walked before Darwin singled to score pinch runner Luis Gomez with the tying run. Bourque smashed Segui's next pitch for his second homer of the season.

A's 5, Tigers 3

Oakland tagged Mickey Lolich for three runs in the first inning, two on a homer by Sal Bando, and Catfish Hunter became a 21-game winner for the fourth consecutive season with eighth-inning help from Rolie Fingers. Gene Tenace also homered for the A's.

Detroit's Reggie Sanders, in his first time at bat in the major leagues, smacked a pitch from Hunter into the upper deck in left field in the second inning.

Orioles 7, Royals 1

Dave McNally scattered seven hits and Enos Cabell and Earl Williams led a 14-hit attack against Steve Busby and two KC relievers that helped the defending champion Orioles pull within five games of Boston in the AL East.

Brewers 3, Angels 1

George Scott's two-out bloop double triggered a three-run first-inning rally for the Brewers after the Angels scored in the top of the inning. Jim Slaton settled down after a shaky start and pitched a seven-hit.

Rangers 10, Indians 3

Cesar Tovar's three-run double capped an eight-run third inning—six of them unearned thanks to two Cleveland errors—that enabled the Rangers to rout the Indians.

McGraw Finishes Second Game

NEW YORK (AP). — A relaxed Tug McGraw of the New York Mets wore a broad smile after pitching a complete-game shut out against the Atlanta Braves in only his second start of the season.

"This is my don't-trade-me drive," kidded McGraw Sunday after blanking the Atlanta Braves 3-0 at Shea Stadium on five hits. "I just wish I could have pitched like this earlier in the year."

McGraw, 6-7, a hero in New York's successful pennant race last season, has had problems this time around in his usual role as a reliever. He began the Atlanta game with a 4.22 earned run average.

"It was funny being in a situation like that as a starter," the outspoken lefty admitted. "I felt like I was always in trouble."

McGraw, who struck out three Braves and walked one, had made 31 relief appearances before his temporary duty as a starter.

"He pitched real good with real good stuff," enthused New York manager Yogi Berra, saying McGraw would return to the bullpen.

"That's the first time I've ever thrown a shutout," said McGraw, who indicated he would rather keep working as a relief pitcher.

Tiger Ranks Thinned Out

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

WILLIAMSTON—Last year, the Williamston Tigers rolled up a 6-1 record just after mid-season, but injuries took their toll, and the Tigers limped home with a 6-4 mark when it was all over.

This year, Coach Dink Mills warns that the same thing could happen. "We have a good nucleus to build around, but we're going to have a lot of people hurt in the wrong places, it can kill us."

Nine starters return from last year's team, some of them who went both ways. "Most of them are going to have to go both ways this year," Mills said. "We started practice out with about 41 people out for varsity ball, but we've only got about 31 left who want to play."

Mills looks for an improved passing game this year. Quarterback Phil Selby returns for a second year over center, and Mills says he's greatly improved in his passing. "We also have some good receivers," he added.

But the overall offense may not be as potent as it was last year, mainly because of heavy losses in the offensive line, and some new backs stepping in.

OUTLOOK—Despite the return of nine regulars, Coach Dink Mills' Tigers will be very thin. Their offensive line will be relatively inexperienced. Passing should be improved, but the running game may be weaker. Injuries played a big role last year, and could destroy the hopes of the Tigers this year because of the depth

"Our running game carried us last year, but we're going to have to be more varied this year."

Joining Selby in the wishbone backfield will be Paul Scott at fullback, and Kenneth Speller at one of the halfback slots. The other halfback will be either Roy Lilly or Dino Lloyd. All but Speller are new to the backfield.

Although Speller picked up over 900 yards last year, he'll have extra pressures on him this year.

The team will operate with both ends in tight, and Mills feels both are good receivers. One will

Possibility Still Open

CHARLOTTE (AP). — Investor Upton Bell of Boston, former general manager of the New England Patriots, returns this week to further explore the possibility of moving the financially ailing Detroit Wheels of the World Football League to Charlotte.

The 36-year-old Bell is to meet with the Charlotte Park and Recreation Commission, hoping to negotiate special cut-rate terms for the city's 24,000-seat Memorial Stadium.

Bell is concerned that the stadium, home of the annual Shrine Bowl High School football game, would be too small to be profitable unless he gets certain concessions.

The Charlotte Chamber of Commerce is hoping to attract a pro football team to the city and some business leaders are shooting for a bond referendum for construction of a stadium. Bell has asked to rent Memorial Stadium for a flat fee of about $2,500 per game instead of the standard 12 per cent of the gate. That percentage could amount to $20,000 per game, depending on the ticket price.

He is also seeking permission to operate the stadium concession stands and to sell beer in addition to operating the parking lots.

Bell said he is counting on a new stadium within the next four years, although the city has made no formal commitment. He said he believes he can build a successful team, drawing from the one million-plus population that lives within 50 miles of Charlotte, and generate a demand for a larger stadium.

Blalock, Roberts Share Open Lead

By DOUG TUCKER
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP). — Jane Blalock and Sue Roberts, close friends who shared putting miseries, share the lead today going into the final round of the rain-plagued Southgate Open.

Miss Roberts and Miss Blalock begin today's action with 36-hole scores of 142, two under par for the Ladies Professional Golf Association event on the Leawood South layout.

The 54-hole $35,000 tournament was supposed to be completed Sunday. But thunderstorms Saturday interrupted the second round and rains overnight allowed only nine holes, forcing tournament officials to schedule the final round today.

Two strokes behind the leaders are Mary Mills, who moved into contention Sunday with a one-under-par 35, and Shelley Hamlin, who scrambled to a 36. One stroke farther back was Kathy Whitworth, the defending champion, who carded a 38 Sunday. Cathy Duggan, Donna Caponi Young and Jan Stephenson stood at 146, four strokes off the lead.

Miss Blalock, who led after Saturday's round, had eight pars and a bogey Sunday. Miss Roberts, playing in the same threesome, had two birdies and a bogey.

Each girl seemed on the threshold several times of moving ahead of the pack, but each time their putts refused to drop. Miss Roberts, one of the longest hitters on the ladies' tour, grabbed a share of the lead when she holed out a chip shot for a birdie on the 18th green. But earlier in the day, she lipped out four short putts, three for birdies, including a two-footer on the par three 17th.

In contrast to the other member of their threesome, Miss Hamlin spent the day chipping over bunkers and around trees and sinking six and seven-foot putts for par.

"I was shaky out there today," said Miss Blalock, "I guess it's all the waiting and the anxiety. When you have to wait and wait like this...it can have an adverse psychological affect."

Miss Roberts was unsure about her putting frustration.

Pirate Offense Improved Sunday

Coach Pat Dyé did not see all the scrimmage he wanted to see on Saturday afternoon, due to rain and also due to his team's lack of consistency on offense. As a result, Sunday afternoon was spent on the practice field with three full hours of scrimmaging.

"Our offense was much better on Sunday," said Dyé. "At times our execution was real good. But there's still far too many fumbles and mistakes. Until we get those ironed out and start hitting on all 11-cylinders, our offense will not be good."

Dyé logically said that the offense is just as far away as it takes to eliminate mistakes. But Dyé added to that, "When we eliminate those mistakes, we're going to move the football."

Reflecting back on Saturday and a look at the scrimmage film, Dyé did find some good points to his club. Both tight ends, Benny Gibson and Mike Shea had good days according to Dyé, in handling their blocking assignments.

In the backfield, Don Schink at fullback was credited with doing some good things, while Kenny Strayhorn was tabbed by Dyé as having run well, but Dyé says Strayhorn must be more consistent with his blocking.

As for the quarterback position, three are very much in the running: Mike Weaver, Tom Chipok, and Steve Hale. It's a matter of which one steps up and really takes control of things that gets the job, according to Dyé.

Defensively, Dyé felt his secondary played well, as did the back-ups on secondary. The first unit is all sophomores: Jim Bolding, Reggie Pinkney, Greg Pingston, and Ernest Madison. The others pointed out by Dyé were Milton Brown, Jesse Brown, Kent Wilford, Drew Fish, and Paul Belin.

Up front, the play of Butch Strawderman, Kenny Moore, Cary Godette and Buddy Lowery was singled out by coach Dyé.

For your children's brighter tomorrow.

Worry Clinic If They Could Exchange Jobs

Arnold's view brings a vehement "Amen" from millions of smart housewives. For women dislike the upset in their family budgeting that results from strikes! It may take years for workers to recoup what they lost while idle during a strike.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case B8631: Arnold T., aged 34, is a political science professor.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "it seems to me that our economic climate would improve if labor and management could change places for 6 months.

"For example, my mother used to recite a story about a feud between a husband and wife over their respective duties.

"The husband scornfully claimed housework was easy and he'd be glad at any time to trade places with his wife.

"So she finally agreed, and took his office job, for she had been a talented young executive before marriage.

"Then the husband began to realize the true difficulties of running a household, including shopping, cooking, cleaning and especially caring for their 3 youngsters.

"Within a week he was begging his wife to come back to her household duties and let him work at the office.

"Same would probably occur if labor leaders and management exchanged jobs!

"If our labor leaders think it is so easy to make huge profits in private business and thus yell about the earnings of Big Business, why don't they invest in private businesses, factories or newspapers, farms and coal mines and then operate the latter in our competitive market?

"Henry Ford thus offered to take in the union workers as unofficial partners via letting them become stockholders.

But the labor leaders opposed. Why?

"Was it because then the workers would really learn that Big Business, now the whipping boy of politicians and labor leaders, is the much slandered and libeled benefactor of all workers via jobs and weekly paychecks?

"For the net dividends they are able to pay to their millions of stockholders, now run less than 3 percent on the invested capital.

"Last year, for example, the splendid Fidelity Mutual Fund of Boston, with shrewd investments in 50 or more of our big Big Business corporations, didn't pay but 1½ percent dividends.

"So where are all those exorbitant profits that labor leaders and politicians keep accusing Big Business of making?"

Easy To Criticize

Some newspapers have actually been started by labor organizations in direct competition with private newspaper firms.

But the labor-backed papers have folded up, for labor leaders, despite their glib charges of excessive profits by Big Business, soon find out there "ain't no such animal" nowadays.

The Dallas NEWS, thus reported a survey of apparently literate voters, asking what they estimated to be the net earnings of Big Business AFTER TAXES, and those typical voters replied that 28 percent would be their conservative guess.

Then they were requested to state what they thought Big Business should be entitled to earn, and they stated 10 percent.

Yet Big Business was really earning only 4 percent.

Which shows a crucial lack in business gumption by the average American, including labor leaders and politicians who promulgate that "Excessive profits" argument, to justify calling more strikes or winning more votes at the November 5th election this year.

Fair play, instead of political clubbing of Big Business, is long overdue in America, else Big Brother will take over all private farms, factories, mines, railroads, etc.

Then a military dictatorship will end the greatest experiment in popular government ever attempted on this planet Earth.

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 7 ♥ AK8652 ♦ K3 ♣ AJ92
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 3♥ Pass
4♣ Pass 4♦ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. You have already decided to play at least a small slam in hearts. Thus, it can do no harm, and might do considerable good, to show your king of diamonds enroute. Partner will be in a good position to judge the final contract.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ 5 ♥ J10872 ♦ A976 ♣ KQ4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♥ Pass

What do you respond?
A.—Had you not passed previously, you would jump to three hearts, forcing to game. However, by a passed hand this bid is not forcing. Your hand is too good simply to bid four hearts, which might result in a missed slam. We suggest that you first jump shift to three diamonds which is, of course, forcing for one round, and then raise hearts.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ 72 ♥ 962 ♦ Q10943 ♣ A76
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1♦ 2♦ ?
What action do you take?
A.—East has announced a game-going hand, and its tempting to take preemptive action to disrupt enemy communications. However, at this vulnerability you cannot afford to preempt at too high a level lest the opponents decide that it would be more profitable to double than to bid their game. We suggest a raise to three diamonds, advising your partner that you have good support and side values, and leave the rest up to him.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ K8743 ♥ 1098732 ♣ A6
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 1♥ Dbie.
Rdbie. Pass 1♥ Dbie.
3♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Don't let the fact that you hold only an ace and a king lull you into the belief that you have a weak hand. In view of the auction, in which your partner opened the bidding, redoubled and then jump raised your suit, a slam should depend only on partner's spade holding. If he has a spade control, he certainly won't show it over a mere bid of four hearts, but he will if you cue-bid four diamonds.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ A76 ♥ 82 ♦ Q8732 ♣ 1094
Your partner opens with one spade. What is your response?

A.—Two spades. It's tempting to respond one no trump on your bare minimum, but you do have three trumps to a high honor and a ruffing value in hearts. Partner will be interested to hear about this.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ AJ10 ♥ A1082 ♦ AQ93 ♣ KJ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 2♣ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Once partner has responded at the two-level, game is assured and slam is a possibility. The way to let him know of your strong, balanced hand is to jump in no trump, allowing him to proceed if he has extra values.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠ J7 ♥ AK10954 ♦ 6 ♣ A1076
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass
2♥ Pass 3NT Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Bid four clubs. You have not yet fully expressed the strength of your hand and, in view of partner's strong initial response, you owe him one move towards slam. If North simply rebids four diamonds over your try, revert to four hearts. It is up to North to make the next move.

Q. 8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠ J7 ♥ 1076 ♦ AKJ ♣ QJ854
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♣ Pass 2♣ Pass
2♥ Pass 2NT Pass
3♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Partner's auction marks him with a singleton diamond, but that should not deter you from a no trump game, since you have that suit more than adequately protected. By rebidding no trump, you also warn partner that your diamond holding represents duplication of values, should he be thinking of higher things.

The annual meeting of the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association and Peanut Field Day will be held September 12, at the Peanut Belt Research Station, Lewiston, North Carolina.

Congressman Walter Jones

will speak at the morning session, which is the growers association meeting. Also, during the morning, you will have an opportunity to observe displays on Black root rot, new rapid test for Aflatoxin, commercial herbicide displays, along with machinery exhibits.

The afternoon program will consist of a tour of three stops: Weed control, Spider mite control and Land Preparation.

Two Saved By Raleigh Pilot

ELKINS, W.Va. (AP) — A Raleigh, N.C., pilot was credited with saving the lives of two passengers when a single-engine plane crashed and burned near here Saturday.

State police said the pilot, Bjorn Stolsbotten, 21, helped the two passengers from the wreckage and then summoned help. The passengers were identified as Robert Mason, 25, and Millie Edwards, 27, both of Raleigh, N.C. Both were hospitalized.

The craft had refueled at the Randolph County Airport, but struck a tree following takeoff, police said.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1974

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute
GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have good ideas for pioneering new activities that can be helpful to you. Study every factor, then plan appointments for tomorrow to put them into action at that time. Be alert to suggestions from brilliant persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study present situation and plan helpful new conditions. Don't put new plans in action until you understand every phase of them.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to study every detail before you get started on that new project if it is to be successful. Help good friend and be more understanding of him.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what your ambitions are so that tomorrow you can plow through whatever work is necessary to gain your aims. Avoid the social now. Be more kind.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you first study those career matters well, you can then make the right arrangements to get good results. Don't get yourself in any kind of bind.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get all the data you need before going into new projects. Make new associates whose background has been different from yours and add to present success.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A different approach is needed if you are to discharge your responsibilities well. Study that request of an attachment before you agree.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Listen carefully to what a clever partner has to say and you benefit. Otherwise this becomes a most disappointing time. Don't confide in one who is actually an opponent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have much work ahead of you and can now handle it with efficiency and speed. Take needed health treatments to improve vitality.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to have a good time and can forget tensions thereby, but make sure you are not forceful with others to get them to go along with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study whatever will make the situation at home more harmonious and charming. Then carry through with what should be done tactfully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking very clearly and can accomplish much, have fine rapport with those you deal with now. Check reports for errors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can now add to your income if you are wide awake to present opportunities. If in doubt about anything, get advice from a big business mogul you know.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be alert to almost everything going on, and you should plan early to give an excellent education so this fine mind will find the right avenues through which to express itself, and your progeny will not become the proverbial rolling stone that gathers no moss. Don't be afraid to teach to work as well as attend school, and thus prevent possible trouble with the opposite sex.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Alert Tourists To Hotel Thieves

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP) — Most of San Francisco's summer visitors come to see the Golden Gate Bridge, tour Fisherman's Wharf and visit other famous landmarks. But a few spend their time indoors, stealing thousands of dollars in cash and other belongings from the tourists.

They are well-dressed, professional burglars who frequent major hotels in San Francisco, New York, Chicago, Miami, Los Vegas, Los Angeles and Honolulu, says police inspector Robert Kane.

They are believed responsible for about 150 burglaries in the last three months in this city's 25 largest hotels, Kane said. Losses, mostly in jewelry, travelers checks and cash, average about $2,000 for each burglary, he said.

"They're pretty cool," Kane said. "They don't use violence. They're usually well-dressed and sort of blend into the background."

"The sad fact is that the marks identify themselves for the thief by flashing too much jewelry or displaying too much money," he added.

Some hotel burglars read society and gossip columns religiously to keep track of the travels of rich and prominent persons.

Others are skilled locksmiths who sometimes rent a room, remove their own lock, replace it with a dummy lock, then disassemble the lock to fashion a pass key.

"If the thief doesn't have a pass key which he has made himself or perhaps bought from another thief, he sometimes simply walks up to the hotel desk and asks for the key by the room number," Kane says. "Key control is a built in hazard of the hotel business."

"Forced entries with a pry bar are a thing of the past. So are hot prowls," or burglaries which occur as the victim sleeps.

Arrests are infrequent, police say, because the burglar is almost impossible to identify unless caught red-handed.

But hotel security officers and executives say tourists should place valuables in the hotel safe, never invite strangers to their room and always lock the hotel door and latch it while sleeping.

Claim 'Abduction' A Lover's Quarrel

BASSETT, Va. (AP)—What appeared at first to be the violent abduction of a young girl Saturday night turned out to be just a lover's quarrel, the Henry County Sheriff's Department said Sunday.

The presumed abduction had been witnessed by several persons and heard by police in a nearby station house here.

Police arrived in time to see the girl being driven away in a car and take the license number, but too late to stop the proceedings.

Witnesses said the girl, who appeared to be 13 to 14 years old, was dragged screaming and fighting from a sidewalk into a car.

A county police spokesman said officers in a station nearby reported hearing the screams. One officer who rushed out of the building said he saw a young black man pull a white girl into a car in front of Nelson's Grocery and speed away.

But Bassett Police Chief Frank Vaughan said Sunday the girl later denied that anything unusual had happened and refused to press charges.

Vaughan said his officers had stopped the car involved early

Sunday in the Bassett Forks area, between here and Martinsville.

"I guess that's the end of it," he said.

They'll Choose New Premier

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — The 54 members of the Labor party in Parliament will meet Friday to choose a prime minister to succeed the late Norman E. Kirk.

Kirk, 51, who died Saturday from a heart seizure, will be buried Thursday at the country hamlet where he was born, Waimate, near Christchurch. His body was brought today to the Parliament building to lie in state. A large group of Maoris gave the chant for the laying to rest of a chief and placed tree fronds on the coffin.

Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne, is expected to represent Queen Elizabeth II at the funeral. President Ford is sending Secretary of Labor Peter J. Brennan.

Pension Security Becomes Law Today

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A landmark bill designed to protect the retirement benefits of 30 million American workers enrolled in private pension plans becomes law today.

President Ford chose Labor Day to sign the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the culmination of several years work in Congress. He invited 194 business and labor leaders, congressmen and administration officials to attend today's ceremony in the White House Rose Garden.

Among the labor leaders who accepted the invitation were presidents George Meany of the AFL-CIO, I.W. Abel of the Steelworkers and Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers.

Ford was interrupting his first weekend visit to Camp David, the presidential retreat in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, to return to the White House for the signing.

The pension bill for the first time guarantees workers rights to some retirement benefits if they change jobs after a certain length of service. It also seeks to assure that the money for pensions will be there when workers retire.

Some 300,000 to 400,000 existing private pension plans and those that may be set up in the future are affected by the law. But the law does not require employers without pension plans to establish them. Only about half the U.S. work force has such protection.

Nor does the bill necessarily increase pension benefits, which now average about $141 a month for retired workers.

But the legislation contains so-called "vesting" provisions, which guarantee the employee all the pension benefits to which he is entitled after no more than 15 years of service.

An employer may pick one of three options for vesting: The first would provide a worker at least 25 per cent of his benefits after five years on the job and 100 per cent after 15 years.

The second would give total rights to accumulated benefits only after 10 years, but nothing if the employee left before.

The third provides for 50 per cent vesting when an employee's age and years of service equal 45. The final 50 per cent would come in the next five years.

The bill requires that each company put enough money into its plan so that it is fully funded.

A Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp., established under the Labor Department and funded plans. Plans already in existence would be allowed until Dec. 31, 1975, to put the new vesting rules into effect.

It offers tax incentives to individual employees not in pension plans to set up their own retirement programs and to self-employed persons to improve their programs.

For the first time, the law fixes tough standards of conduct and accountability for persons administering pension plans. Plans must be certified by an actuary at least every three years.

Finally the bill requires that all employees be admitted to a pension plan when they reach age 25 and have at least one year of service with a company.

The new pension regulations are effective immediately for newly established retirement

Flood Insurance For Boone, Too

NEW YORK (AP)—Residents of Boone, N.C., will be eligible to buy flood insurance under a government supported program, the National Flood Insurance Association has announced.

Flood insurance will be sold on residential and non-residential property and its contents through private insurance agents.

Standard property insurance does not cover damage from flooding.

Under the federal Flood Disaster Protection Act communities must restrict unwise land use in flood-prone areas in order to become eligible for flood insurance.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development must study the flood hazard in the community to establish insurance rates.
