

Unemployment Sees Slow Upward Climb

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The nation's unemployment rate in August continued its slow upward climb, rising by one-tenth of a per cent to 5.4 per cent of the work force, the government reported today.

Although the change from the July rate of 5.3 per cent is not considered statistically significant, the Labor Department said the increase taken over the past two months represented a break from the 5.2 per cent plateau that had prevailed during the first half of the year.

The jobless rate now has risen by eight-tenths of a percentage point from last October's 6½-year low of 4.6 per cent and is expected to continue climbing as the economy falters.

The Labor Department said 4.9 million Americans were unable to find work last month, an increase of about 19,000 since July.

The Ford administration has prepared a program of gradually rising payments to local governments to create additional public service jobs as unemployment mounts. If the jobless rate reaches 5.5 per cent, Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan has said the government would move to create about 100,000 more jobs.

Total employment as measured by the department's sample survey of households stood at 86.2 million in August, practically unchanged in the last two months. Nonfarm payroll employment as measured by the survey of business establishments was unchanged in August at 77.2 million.

Looking at wages, average hourly earnings were reported up three cents in August, to $4.24, a level 33 cents more than a year ago. Weekly earnings averaged $157.73 in August, an increase of $1.12 from July and $11.10 from Last August.

However, the Hourly Earnings Index in dollars of constant purchasing power declined three per cent over the past year, the government said.

The length of the average work week and factory overtime were essentially unchanged last month, both reflections of the sluggish economy.

Stone-Stealing

LONDON (AP) — A 24-year-old Scot was charged in court today with stealing the Stone of Scone, ancient symbol of Scottish sovereignty, from London's historic Westminster Abbey.

David Carmichael-Stewart, described as an unemployed laborer, was ordered held for a further preliminary hearing. He made no plea at this stage.

Carmichael-Stewart was arrested Thursday when an alarm triggered by removal of the stone from under England's Coronation Chair brought more than 100 police officers to the abbey. The stone was found beside the chair on a trolley that had collapsed under the 448-pound weight.

Congress Is Prepared To Stay On Job

By EDMOND LEBRETON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has launched his public search for a way out of the nation's economic woes and has received assurances from the Democratic Congress that it will stay in session as long as he has proposals for it to consider.

The word from Capitol Hill came as Ford met on Thursday with some 30 economists who offered a wide range of suggestions, including an apparent majority view that the money supply should be expanded to bring interest rates down. There was less agreement on how to moderate the wage-price race.

"There is no question but that we will cooperate with the President," House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said in a telephone interview from Cambridge.

"We have got to instill confidence in the public and if remaining in Washington will do it, then we have to stay."

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., concurred, with the observation that Congress alone cannot act on the economic problem.

At the end of the day-long, televised session, about half of which he attended in person, Ford told the economists, "I couldn't agree more that we have to act ... on sound and responsible recommendations."

He made no commitments on the suggestion that the Federal Reserve Board be urged to ease its tight money policy or on any other specifics.

These included suggestions from individual economists for renewal of mandatory wage-price controls, for avoiding even the suggestion of such controls and for intermediate steps such as giving the new Council on Wage Price Stability standby rollback powers or concentrating on big industries and big unions whose policies were relatively immune from competition.

But Ford dropped a hint that he would avoid extreme measures.

"As in the political arena, there is a wide area of agreement, and a few in both parties fall on the far ends. Most of the American people fall in the middle, and they want us to take those actions, I believe, that fall within the middle ground of the spectrum."

While they differed widely on particular proposals, the economists generally agreed that the way out of what has been called stagflation — simultaneous inflation and sluggishness in the economy — would not be simple, quick or painless.

Speakers emphasized that the economic malady has no single cause but a variety, both national and international, that would have to be attacked separately.

And, Arthur M. Okun, a former presidential economic adviser now on the staff of the Brookings Institution, said his colleagues, while not agreeing on a number, generally saw inflation, now running higher than 10 per cent a year, dropping below 10 per cent next year and falling somewhat more in 1976.

HURRICANE CENTER WAR ROOM—Members of the National Hurricane Center staff stationed in Miami, Fla., follow their familiar routine as they track tropical storms in the "war room" of the center. (AP Wirephoto)

Satellite Photos Key To Tracking Of Hurricanes

By RALPH IZARD

Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — It takes about as much common sense as it does sophisticated equipment to track a hurricane accurately, says Dr. Neil Frank. He's the man responsible for the tracking.

"We have access to lots of equipment, but everything we do has to have that personal override," Frank said on Thursday. "Somebody has to evaluate all that information."

Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center here, has a staff of 85. But most of the evaluation is by five hurricane specialists who work in what they call the "war room" of the center.

The war room staff is surrounded by satellite pictures of half the world, plus charts, maps, graphs and several television screens capable of providing satellite pictures of almost any place in the world.

"The satellite is backbone of our whole information-gathering operation," Frank said. "With our present ability to take pictures of these storm systems, day or night, we stand a better chance of predicting where they're likely to go."

But satellite pictures aren't enough, he said. It's like seeing smoke. It doesn't give a clear indication of how big a fire is. That's where information gathered by airplanes which fly into the storms becomes essential.

The information is pumped into a computer in Washington, D.C., which uses mathematical models to predict probabilities.

"But there are limits to how much we can trust mathematical models," Frank said. "So someone has to weigh the probabilities in light of all we know before we make a prediction."

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

DOG MUST BE LOCATED

Will the owner of the large black dog—possibly a Labrador retriever—which bit eight-year-old Alan Batchlor at Elm Street Park Tuesday between 5 and 6 p.m. please call the Batchlors at 752-3917?

Mrs. Batchlor said the man, who drives a small blue car, offered to give her son his name, but the boy refused. She needs it desperately now, though, since Dr. F. B. Haar has said he must start rabies shots Sunday if the dog has not been found.

Mrs. Batchlor may also be reached at work, 752-3143.

WANTS CHILD WARNING SIGN

We had a child hit by a car in our area recently, and he was injured pretty badly. I think we need a warning sign to slow drivers down when they come through here. How do you go about getting a children playing sign erected? Mrs. J.W.

Contact Mayor Allen of the City Public Works Department. Allen told Hotline that he would be glad to have one of the signs erected, but he would need your permission to put the sign in your yard, as "some people don't like signs placed in their yards." Allen can be reached through the city's main switchboard, 752-4137.

LOST LUGGAGE—CLAIM PROCESSED

I was traveling to Greenville from New York on the bus and had two pieces of luggage lost that contained about $200 worth of new clothes that I had purchased in New York. This was in August of 1973. I made several trips to the local terminal after returning trying to locate the luggage and completed a tracer on it in September of 1973, but have never heard any more from it. Can anything be done now? Miss A.H.

Exactly what happened to your original paper work wasn't determined, but when Hotline contacted the main office of Carolina Trailways in July, they started some action. First tracers were sent to seven terminals that might have handled your luggage.

Four weeks later, Hotline contacted the main office again and learned that the tracers had not unearthed your baggage. From there a claim form was processed and after another month, a check for $50 was mailed to you on Aug. 26. This was quite a bit below the value you estimated on the clothing, but according to a Trailways spokesman in Raleigh, no baggage is insured for more than $50 unless the passenger informs the ticket agent that the luggage contains items of a higher value and extra insurance is purchased. The agent also stated that the search for your luggage will continue.

Carmen Gaining Power

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Carmen moved sluggishly north from the southern Gulf of Mexico today and forecasters advised residents of a wide swath of the Gulf Coast to keep aware of the storm's movements.

"A hurricane watch may be needed for a portion of this coastline Friday," forecaster Paul Hebert said late Thursday at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Carmen, with sustained winds of 90 miles per hour, was or about 130 miles north-northwest of Merida, Mexico, early Friday.

It was expected to turn north-eastward during the day, gradually gaining in forward speed and strength.

The path could take it anywhere in an area ranging from Louisiana to the eastern Florida Panhandle, Hebert said.

Carmen had remained stationary off the coast of Campeche, Mexico, decreasing to tropical storm status, for several days before regaining strength on Thursday and beginning its slow northward drift.

Meanwhile, the hurricane center said a reconnaissance plane was to take a closer look at a new tropical depression churning through the Atlantic toward the Leeward Islands.

The depression early Friday was centered about 110 miles east of Antigua and 400 miles east-southeast of Puerto Rico.

It had winds of 35 m.p.h. and was moving west to west-northwest at about 15 m.p.h., on a path aiming it to the north of Antigua, the center said.

If sustained winds in the depression reach 39 m.p.h., it could become Elaine, the season's fifth tropical storm.

Record $348 Million Will Be Asked For Education

RALEIGH (AP)—The 1975

North Carolina General Assembly will be asked to appropriate a record $348 million for new public school programs and services during the 1975-77 biennium.

The Board of Education agreed Thursday to make the budget request and gave top priority to funds to expand reading programs.

The total school budget request will be more than $1 billion a year.

In addition to the new programs, $225 million will be requested for the two-year period to provide 10 per cent cost-of-living pay raises each year for teachers and other school employees.

The board's controller is working on a budget request to support the existing programs in the schools.

The board gave top priority to $22.9 million to hire more reading personnel, retrain present personnel and supply materials, equipment and diagnostic laboratories.

Second priority was given to a $40.5 million request to increase the number of state supported kindergartens by nearly 1,400 classes during the biennium.

The third priority is $45.3 million to expand services for exceptional children. Next is $23.6 million to upgrade occupational education.

In other action, the board approved an $85.2 million budget, including cost-of-living pay raises, for the system of community colleges and technical institutes. The board also agreed to request $45.6 million for equipment and books and $68.4 million for construction.

Chou Condition Said 'Worse'

By The Associated Press

Reports that a Chinese official had told Americans visiting Peking that the condition of Premier Chou En-lai has worsened in the last two months caused a flurry of concern for the 76-year-old leader. But one of the Americans was quoted today as saying the reports were inaccurate.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., was quoted in a Mutual Broadcasting System interview as saying, "The vice premier told us Chou's condition was worse."

The New York Times said today that Humphrey said in a telephone interview from Peking that Deputy Premier Teng Hsiao-ping had told the visiting seven-member congressional group that "Chou's condition was worse than it was when Sen. Jackson saw him."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., met with Chou while on a trip to Peking in early July. It was disclosed at that time that the Chinese premier had suffered a heart attack.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who is leading the congressional delegation on a 13-day tour, was reached by phone at his Peking hotel and told The Associated Press, "All I know is that he (Chou) is not well enough to receive foreign visitors. He was unable to receive us and he was unable to receive the president of Togo yesterday."

Fulbright said Humphrey had denied saying that Chou's condition was worse or anything similar because the Americans had no information to that effect.

But Humphrey, reached by The Associated Press, said he had not been misquoted by Mutual. He said, "The vice premier told us Chou's condition was worse than it was when Sen. Jackson saw him. This was why the premier was unable to see us. This was a fact but it didn't mean that his condition was critical or that it had worsened."

Chou last appeared in public about five weeks ago at an Army Day reception.

Javits Proposes 'Condemnation'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen.

Jacob K. Javits has proposed that Congress condemn "repeated violations" by Turkish armed forces of the cease-fire in Cyprus and call for withdrawal of all foreign forces except those of the United Nations.

The New York Republican introduced the proposals in a resolution that would express the "sense of the Congress."

The resolution would call for continued U.S. participation with other nations in providing relief assistance for Cyprus refugees and aid for economic rehabilitation in Cyprus.

Pitt County School Project Grant Announced

The Pitt County Schools have received a grant under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education School Act for Farmville Middle School and Ayden Grammar School.

In both schools a "Training for Living and Learning Center" is in the process of being developed.

A trained school counselor and two counselor assistants with associate of arts degrees from the Mental Health Technology Program at Pitt Technical Institute will staff the centers.

Mrs. Elaine King, Miss Wanda Moore and Miss Shirley Anderson will work at Ayden Grammar School where Gaston Monk is the principal.

Working under Charles Carrick, principal at Farmville Middle, will be Mrs. Sarah Orgel, Mrs. Yvonne Pierce and Miss Lynn Scarborough.

The objectives of the centers are to increase community involvement with the schools, reduce the number of students referred to the court system and to the attendance counselors, reduce the number of students suspended from school, and provide means for teachers to become familiar with tried methods for improving curriculum for middle grade students.

The project, funded for $35,000 in each school, will be evaluated by an external consultant, Dr. Charles Coble of East Carolina University.

Parents in both school attendance areas are encouraged to contact the counseling staff to volunteer services in tutoring and in other methods of helping to meet the needs of students, as well as in seeking assistance for their own children.

The project is aimed at all students in the target schools, and emphasis will be placed on the average and above-average students.

Scientist Develops Lipstick

By SURIN RUANGDEJ
BANGKOK (AP) — Adman-inspired colors like "golden poppy," "pink berry" and "red glory" may soon fade from Thai women's lips because a woman scientist has come up with the humble name "ASRCT."

ASRCT stands for Applied Scientific Research Corporation of Thailand, a government-owned research organization which is finding new uses for materials that are local, cheap, plentiful — and often go to waste.

Rice bran wax is one of those, and that is what ASRCT lipstick is made of. ASRCT has also developed soda pop and wine made of roselle, a variety of hibiscus, and writing paper from kenaf, a fibrous plant also used for snacks.

"We certainly cannot yet call ours 'the rich lipstick with the million-dollar shine,' as they call them in the West," says Miss Sasithorn Wasuwat, wearing a new shade of shocking pink ASRCT lipstick and sitting among her bottles of waste materials. "But soon we can because we are improving our quality."

When that day comes agricultural Thailand can save part of the 10 million U.S. dollars it spends annually on cosmetic imports. The cheapest imported lipstick, from Japan, costs $2.50 here, and an American lipstick sells for $4 to $5.

Sasithorn is head of the pharmacological department of ASRCT. The ASRCT lipstick worn by her female colleagues has a slightly oily sheen.

ASRCT lipstick is a product of over three years of research by Sasithorn herself. It is a new lipstick formula evolved by her with the help of other ASRCT experts.

This new rice bran wax lipstick contains no carnauba wax, which has been the main raw material for lipsticks in Europe and the United States. This is the first time rice bran wax from Thailand's rice fields has been used in cosmetic production.

Household Hints

Now is the time to have your home's heating system checked and put in good condition for cool weather ahead. Wait until the last minute and you'll find your request on a waiting list.

Add a decorative touch to drinking glasses for party punch. Especially colorful for glasses: chenille pipe cleaners. Wrap around glasses from the bottom up to middle or top. The wrapping also insulates the drink a bit and keeps the glass from slipping due to moisture produced by condensation. Arts and crafts stores stock the pipe cleaner. So do smoke shops.

FOR LIPS THAT SHINE—Miss Thailand's Applied Scientific Sasithorn Wasuwat shows a sample of rice bran wax-based lipstick she developed in her laboratory at Research Corp. Oven in background is used in temperature tests on experimental lipsticks.

The primary objective of ASRCT has been to establish the applicability of this wax as the basic ingredient in the lipstick formulation, capable of replacing carnauba wax, Sasithorn says.

Her objective has now been fulfilled. She has found that the product produced in ASRCT factories using rice bran wax compares favorably with most commercial brands.

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Sasithorn says she hopes that the data and information already obtained and to be further collected from the ongoing study will stimulate interest in the manufacture of this material.

Possibilities are clearly indicated of the rice bran oil industry's increasing its profit-making capability through the marketing of its by-product hitherto classified as a waste.

Screening locally available raw materials for use in the manufacture of cosmetics and toiletries is part of the wide-ranging research activities of ASRCT's pharmacy and pharmacology unit. Apart from plants, minerals, essential oils, vegetable and mineral waxes and oils, the materials experimentation on have included industrial wastes from factories in and around Bangkok.

One other main accomplishment of ASRCT is pulp and paper research. The center's writing paper produced from kenaf pulp is in great demand in Thailand.

ASRCT, established by Royal Act 10 years ago, is charged with carrying out applied scientific research and investigations concerned with national development, national resources and administrative services of the country.

In view of the worsening international paper supply situation and especially of the local shortage growing more acute as a result of rising prices and freight rates, ASRCT has been collecting used papers on streets and dumping places to experiment with ways to turn them into writing paper. The product is now being used in schools and universities.

ASRCT also provides consultancy service to local and foreign commercial firms in Thailand. All research projects are designed to help develop the nation by using available national resources for new products.

Unwilling Hostess Needs Lawyer's Help

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: After 13 years of marriage, my husband and I were divorced for the age-old reason. Another woman. We have two children, 10 and 12, which made it a very painful ordeal for me.

My husband married the "other woman." He has visitation rights, which are fair enough, but when he comes to pick up the children, he and his wife and her eight-year-old son come right to my door. I feel I have to invite them in, and then I have to ask them to sit down. Once they are seated they stay and stay until I feel compelled to offer them some refreshments.

Meanwhile, making small talk with them is sheer torture because I feel so uncomfortable in this woman's presence. I can hardly look at her at my husband's side without wanting to burst into tears.

It seems an eternity until they take my children and leave. They sometimes come back "early," and again they are all at my door, expecting to be invited in. These visits are a terrible strain for me.

I can't help how I feel, Abby. Am I wrong? How should I handle this?

STILL HURTING

DEAR STILL: Ask your lawyer to write your husband a letter suggesting that he either pick up the children alone, or leave his wife and stepchild in the car. You're not wrong. There's no reason why you should be cast in the role of an unwilling hostess.

DEAR ABBY: A reader signed "Ms W." requests a non-sexist salutation for business letters.

Why is a salutation necessary at all? It should have been discarded years ago with such useless phrases as, "Beg leave to reply to your favor of the 15th instance," and "your most obedient servant."

"Dear Anybody" is both redundant and archaic, along with the traditional "Very truly yours," which, in a business letter, is the ultimate in hypocrisy. No?

MISS BRANIGAN

DEAR MISS B.: Yes. Many non-sexist salutations for business letters were submitted. For example: "Gentleperson," or the plural, "Gentlepeople."

Others suggested the bright and cheery, "Good publicity.

The candy sale is the only club money-making project for the Jay-C-Ettes. Profits from the sale are used for such projects as: Supplying milk and cookies each month at the Pitt County Crippled Children's Clinic; buying clothes; braces; crutches; and special orthopedic shoes for the children; and paying the expenses for X-ray diagnosis; drug therapy; and transportation to Duke and Chapel Hill.

The Jay-C-Ettes also use these funds each year for a Christmas party for the crippled and handicapped children and the club has in the past sent children to the Coastal Plains Camp, Washington.

Jay-C-Ettes To Sponsor Candy Sale

Candy for the 19th annual Jay-C-Ette Candy Sale is scheduled to arrive this week. As in the past, proceeds from the sale will fund projects to help the crippled and handicapped people of Pitt County. This year the Jay-C-Ettes will again be selling bags of Bit-O-Honey candy at $1.00 per bag.

Officers for this year's sale are: Judy Rivenbark, Chairman; Jean Hall and Ellen Goldfarb, fringe sales; Nikki Adams, treasurer; and Betty Cox and Jackie Brown, morning!" (How about those who don't get around to reading their mail until 4 PM?)

Try, "Dear Person." (That's too impersonal, like "Occupant.")

Also, "Hi there," or would you believe, "Howdy!" Come to think of it, "Dear Sir or Madame," or "To whom it may concern" are beginning to look better to me.

DEAR ABBY: I was pleased to see that you view reading a spouse's mail as a violation of privacy, and place it in the same class with reading a child's diary or listening in on the extension telephone. Those are exactly my sentiments.

I don't want to see my wife's mail, and that means even after it has been opened and is in plain view. When my wife has had a telephone conversation, I never ask: "Who was that, dear?" I figure if she wants to tell me, she will volunteer the information.

I offer you free of charge my father's philosophy: "Don't ever put another person in the position of having to lie to you."

VALUES PRIVACY

DEAR VALUES: We agree—to a point. But no one "has to" lie. Simply say: "I prefer not to answer that question."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Local Economy Seeing A Boom

No one can predict how the national economy is going to go, but there seems to be plenty of activity in Greenville and Pitt County.

A recent Daily Reflector survey turned up the surprising information that the major apartment complexes were virtually filled. Only a short time back it was popular to guess how many years would pass before the surplus of apartments would be taken up.

The housing was needed, no doubt in part, to take care of the construction and beginning of production at two major new industries and the expansion of several established older ones here. But, also after several years of static or declining enrollment, East Carolina University suddenly finds itself with an increase of students for the fall quarter. The prediction was for a record 10,500 students to descend on the campus next week. Now it is believed the figure could go over 11,000.

The result of that is that dorms on campus, which had empty spaces all last year, will be filled to capacity this fall and there is a waiting list for rooms. Some students may come to town next week thinking that finding housing won't be difficult, only to find that nothing is available in the way of dorm rooms or apartments.

All of this will create problems in the way of housing, traffic, policing and general city cleanliness, but we suppose that they are the kinds of problems a community prefers to grapple with.

The empty dorms of last year and surplus apartment units didn't make for the best economic situation for our area. Suddenly, however, all that is gone, and the big problem of today is where to put everyone who needs to work or study in Greenville.

Municipal Pool May Be Ready Next Summer

Contracts were awarded last week for the bath house to serve the new municipal pool complex at Guy Smith Stadium and that work will soon get underway.

By next summer Greenville should have a municipal pool available for use by its young people and other citizens for the first time in 20 years.

It should provide a safe, protected place for swimming.

Conflicts In Education

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Current debate among educators focusing on the issue of management techniques in school administration is just an isolated part of a growing behind-scenes clash which is not limited to North Carolina, but has national implications.

While capturing public attention because of the emotional contest of the "boss versus the bossed" portrait which has been painted of the debate, the argument has been going on for some time and involves a variety of topics.

The conflict between administrators and the classroom teachers can be seen in continuing debate over accountability, in the argument over whether teachers should take the National Teachers Examination for certification, efforts by teachers to secure legislation guaranteeing the right to present grievances to school boards, teacher resistance to policy by state officials regarding work hours, and in the growing political activity of the North Carolina Association of Educators, among other recent events.

Militant Growth

North Carolina's problems are part of a national trend, and can be traced back to the growth in recent years of an increasing militancy among classroom teachers—and the rise to control of the various local, state, and national associations by the classroom teachers.

Unionism also becomes a part of the clash. Many school administrators view the effort by state association leaders to push professional negotiation between teachers and local school boards as a step in that direction.

Additionally, administrators are concerned that the policy of "unification" means that to join the local teacher association one must also join the state (NCAE), and the national (National Educators Association). The national unit, administrators argue, has close ties to the American Federation of Teachers, an arm of the AFL-CIO. In short, many principals and superintendents see classroom teachers becoming union members.

Last September at a principal's meeting in Raleigh, the nature of the conflict surfaced as principals complained privately that classroom teachers dominated the NCAE so strongly that the legislative proposals handed over to the State Board of Education and General Assembly pushed only for salary and fringe benefit hikes, the professional negotiation system, and a professional practices program—all to the great benefit of classroom teachers, but leaving out many things the principals and superintendents wanted.

Accountability

The struggle is still going on over accountability, and is likely to surface at any time. In essence, that program is an effort by administrators to outline a means of measuring a teacher's efficiency and effectiveness; while some opponents view it as a move toward merit pay techniques.

Classroom teachers have fought long and hard to win professional status, tenure rules, equal pay, and a certain amount of autonomy in the classroom.

Thus, the current argument zeroes in on still another of those areas in which the teachers, and the association which they control, resist what they consider a reduction in that professional status.

At the heart of this clash is a technique called

Management by Objectives in which administrators set up certain long-range goals and short-range objectives clearly defined as steps toward achieving those goals.

For instance, a long-range goal might be to teach every child to read at grade level before he leaves junior high school. Objectives might include a reading specialist in each school, remedial programs in certain grades, intensive tutoring at particular times, etc.

Critics of Management by Objective, however, contend that this would interfere with the classroom teacher's professionalism and right to determine directions.

Administrators, on the other hand, view with alarm the growing militancy of teachers and their demands to be relieved of supervision and direction; and efforts to bypass administrative channels in favor of direct contact with school boards and legislators.

As one state school official sees this, "we are headed for a crash between teachers and administrators." There is growing concern that ultimately this conflict will be reflected in the classroom, and not just in behind-the-scenes politicking.

Tight Money Primer

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The way to tell when money is tight is when the economy is hurting.

That's how it is now, with unemployment at 5.3 per cent and expected to edge upward to 6 or even 7 per cent. The prime rate, the interest banks charge their best customers, is at a record 12 per cent. Home loans are pushing 10 per cent, and the home building industry is in its steepest slide in history.

Such were the developments that prompted a recurring theme among the economists who advised President Ford Thursday to seek a looser money supply.

But the President, for all his power, can only persuade when it comes to regulating the money supply. That chore is entrusted to the Federal Reserve Board, known as the Fed. The Fed was created shortly before World War I and is now headed by Arthur F. Burns.

Burns and his seven fellow governors have tightened the money supply by keeping it from growing as fast as it has in recent years.

The money supply grew an average of about 4 per cent a year in the 1960s, then ballooned 8.7 per cent in the boom year of 1972 before the Fed applied the brakes. The board cut the growth rate to 6.1 per cent last year and is shooting for something between 3 and 7 per cent this year.

Tight money means lower demand for goods and a downward pull on rising prices.

The Fed has three tools for tightening the money supply.

One is to increase the amount of money banks must hold in reserve to back up their depositors' accounts. Currently, the Fed requires the nation's biggest banks to maintain reserves to 18 per cent of customers' checking account balances. That's up by half a percentage point since November 1972.

The second tool is the discount rate, or the interest the Fed charges member banks to borrow money. The discount currently is a record 8 per cent and a full 3 per cent above January 1973, when the Fed began tightening the money screws in earnest.

The Fed's third, and preferred, method is something called the "Open Market Committee," headed by Burns and composed of his fellow governors and four other members elected by the Federal Reserve banks around the country.

When the committee wants more money in circulation, it buys securities on the open market, thus pumping money into the economy. When the money supply is growing too fast, the Open Market Committee sells some of the securities it holds, siphoning money into its coffers.

The Fed orchestrates the committee's operations as finely as possible by keeping a close watch on growth in the money supply and the effect of the growth on a key money market vehicle — the federal funds rate.

Federal funds are excess reserves that banks lend to each other. A high federal funds rate usually signifies tight money.

The rate had never hit 10 per cent before last year. It has already gone over 13 per cent and currently has receded to about 12 per cent.

Changing Neighborhood

WASHINGTON—Every time you come back from vacation you find some old neighbors have moved out and new people have moved in. Take my neighborhood, for example. You can imagine my surprise when I saw some strange kids playing on the lawn at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

"Who are those kids?" I asked my friend Marty.

"Oh, didn't you know? The Nixons moved out in August."

"They did?" I said in surprise. "It's funny they didn't mention anything about it when I left in July. It must have been awfully sudden. Did they give any reason why they were leaving?"

"No," Marty said, "one day they were there, and the next day a moving van pulled up and they were gone. You know how old man Nixon used to keep his thoughts to himself, so we weren't too surprised when he upped and left."

"That's a shame," I said. "He was a nice fellow and never caused anyone any

"Well, they kept talking about Peoria all the time. Every time they did something they wanted to know if it would play in Peoria. So we figured that's probably where they went. But that's just a guess. They could have gone anywhere."

"Does anyone know why they moved?"

"Something to do with trouble in the government. The gossip we heard is that if he resigned, he'd be assured of a pension. But if he tried to stick it out, he'd be canned with nothing. So I guessed he took the money and ran."

"Who moved into the house?"

"Family called the Fords. They're really nice people. Everyone seems to like them."

"What's he do for a living?" I asked Marty.

"He used to be a congressman, but now I think he's got some high job in the government. though you wouldn't know it to talk to him. He makes his own breakfast and he leaves the door open so anyone can talk to him. Those are his kids on the lawn there. His wife's a charmer. Used to be in show biz, I hear, but real down to earth. She cooks her own breakfast, too."

"It's good to have nice neighbors," I said.

"Nice isn't the word for it. Do you know the Fords hadn't moved in a week before they gave a dinner dance and invited everyone on the block to come?"

"No kidding?"

"Yup. And they say they're

Public Forum

To the editor:

Commenting on the Editorial of Thursday's (August 29th) Reflector and certain remarks in the Wednesday (August 28th) Roll Call Report is appropriate in light of current economic conditions as well as the return of Public Transportation into Greenville.

The Thursday Editorial is particularly unsettling. In these days of skyrocketing gas prices and rapidly rising automobile costs, and when the dangers and follies of asphaltting the landscape are known, we are still advocating the construction of new expressways.

Greenville is excellently situated for rapid railroad connections to the Coastal cities, Raleigh and points West and North.

Representative Dale Milford's remarks that "...subsidies actually encourage inefficiency...transit strikes, encourage the levying of unreasonably low fares...at the taxpayers expense," is also unsettling in this respect. We all know that significantly improved railroad service will be expensive, but (1) convenience to the traveling public (mid-city to mid-city service with good schedules), in addition to economies for shippers, (2) mobility for those who do not own or have access to cars (teenagers, Senior Citizens and primarily the poor), (3) reliability in bad weather, (4) back-up systems in case of a national emergency (no gas), (5) savings in fuel costs, (6) reduction in air and noise pollution, (7) speed (on good track Greenville to Raleigh in less than 80 minutes), and perhaps most importantly, freedom from the tyranny of poorly made and poorly serviced, gas-guzzling cars, seem to me to overshadow the expense of subsidies to public transportation.

Of course we will have to pay for it, but consider (1) savings from reductions in new road construction and maintenance, (2) savings in transportation cost resulting in increases in disposable income, (3) new jobs: both to build equipment, rebuild tracks and grade crossings and then to operate, administer and manage an extensive system, which could help us in the current recession and permanently reduce unemployment.

Of course this will cost money. But would we really be losing money on Public Transportation? Consider the alternatives.

The INSIDE REPORT

Prisoner Of Own Staff?

By ROWLANE EVANS
And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The danger of continuing factionalism over economic policy within President Ford's official family, with the Treasury Department still in a distinctly secondary role, was grossly dramatized last week when Pierre Rinfret, a leading business economist, was summarily disinvited from the President's economic summit conference by decision of his staff.

What makes the snub to Rinfret inexplicable is the fact that President Ford himself had offered the invitation in a telephone conversation he had with Rinfret on Sunday, Aug. 25.

Moreover, according to informed White House officials, the President not only intended Rinfret to be included in the preliminary summit conference session of professional economists, but also designated his Chief of staff, Gen. Alexander Haig, as the Presidential aide with whom Rinfret should keep in regular touch.

Yet, three days later—on Aug. 28—Kenneth Rush, Richard Nixon's economic coordinator just named by Mr. Ford as chairman of the new Council on Wage and Price Stability, informed Rinfret there would be no invitation. When the list of 21 invited economists was released by the White House the next day, Rinfret's name was not on it.

Rinfret, the president of Rinfret, Boston Associates, Inc., of New York, was accepting no calls from reporters on this bizarre and disturbing sequence of events. Yet, the antecedents of the President's telephone conversation with him on Aug. 25 and the subsequent snub threaten the White House with unpleasant political repercussions.

The original suggestion that the President consult Rinfret, one of the most successful business consultant-economists in the nation, came from none other than Rep. Wilbur Mills, the influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. It was Mills who told Mr. Ford that Rinfret could be counted on to provide the "unvarnished truth" on the economy, no matter how disagreeable and no matter how much in conflict with the President's official advisers.

Indeed, the flamboyant Rinfret is widely regarded as the Peck's bad boy in the esoteric world of economists. His slashing critiques of administration economic policy have sometimes drawn blood—but his record, particularly in the hapless years of Nixonomics, scarcely suffers in comparison to Nixon's stable of advisers.

It was Rinfret who issued a private warning about Nixonomics to his high-paying industrial clients in July 1969 in a manifesto titled "We Accuse." Despite Rinfret's bold charge then that the administration was "totally and utterly underestimating the inflationary bias in the economy," he continued to be used as a frequent Nixon adviser.

In addition to Mills, Rinfret has a close relationship with Secretary of the Treasury

Strength For Today

A COMPREHENSIBLE GOD

A power line carries 60,000 volts of electricity from the place where it is generated to a great city where it is used. When the line reaches the city the 60,000 volts is stepped down to 110 by transformers. Sixty thousand volts would bring death into a household. One hundred and ten volts brings light and comfort.

The coming of Christ into the world was God's way of stepping down his omnipotence so that man could recognize it. The Christ who God sent into the world was his only begotten son, equal with the Father as the second person of the trinity. But he divested himself of all royal prerogatives and became the humblest of the humble. His description of himself was that he was meek and lowly of heart.

When men looked upon him they looked upon God—but God whom they could not understand. They could not have understood the message had it been told by angels; but they comprehended it in the humble man of Galilee.

Executives Don't Feel 'Pain'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The sting of inflation was greatly relieved last year for the top executives of America's leading corporations through the application of higher salaries, bonuses and other contractual amounts of cash or stock.

A survey by a management consultant firm shows that the chief executives of 581 of the largest U.S. corporations received total compensation averaging 8.5 per cent higher than the previous year.

No less than 76 per cent of the 504 chief executives in office during both 1972 and 1973 received pay increases, said McKinsey & Co., which has conducted the survey for 20 years. Fourteen per cent took pay cuts. Ten per cent received the same pay.

McKinsey attributed the glittering figures to "the heftiest profit increases in more than 20 years." Profits of the 581 companies soared 29.1 per cent and sales rose 20.7 per cent over the previous year.

But the survey revealed also that companies reporting profit declines were reluctant to lower the compensation of their chief executives. Among 82 showing lower profits, only 31 reduced the top man's compensation, and 37 awarded increases.

The highest average salaries for the biggest companies—those with more than $1 billion in sales—were in the pharmaceutical industry, where total com-penetration averaged $316,000. Following in order were soaps and cosmetics, $309,000, alcoholic beverages $294,000, diversified companies $268,000 and tobacco $266,000.

The lowest average compensation for chief executives was found in the meat products industry, at $132,000, retail food chains, $144,000 and apparel makers, $167,000. The average for all billion-dollar-plus industries was $223,000.

The word compensation was used by surveyors because executive pay comes in many forms besides salary. Most of the companies involved in the survey have long-term stock programs under which executives are awarded bonuses or provided with the opportunity to exercise options.

Options, which permit the executive to buy the company's shares at a reduced price, provided some of the heftiest compensation gains.

The survey showed that five executives had pretax options gains for one year in excess of $1 million, on paper at least. Sixteen showed gains in excess of $500,000, and 73 had gains of more than $100,000.

The survey showed that 432 of the companies surveyed have annual bonus plans for executives, and that 110 concerns provide deferred employment contract credits, or income that can be received in the most tax-practical way.

Disagree On Withholding

RALEIGH (AP)—The Kemper Insurance Co. and State Insurance Commissioner John Ingram are in disagreement on whether it's legal for the company to withhold dividends to auto liability insurance policyholders because they live in high-risk driving areas of the state.

A Kemper official said Thursday his firm is not improperly or illegally withholding dividend payments to some policyholders in North Carolina despite a statement by Ingram that three of the firm's affiliates are withholding dividends to policyholders in three counties.

A Kemper vice president, Harry A. Lanson, said that because of poor loss experience dividends were not declared in Mecklenburg, Cumberland and Onslow Counties. The Kemper subsidiaries involved are Lumbermen's Mutual, American Motorist and American Manufacturers Mutual.

Evans-Novak.

William Simon. As we reported last week, Simon is convinced that primary economic policy-making must be returned to the Treasury from the madcap hodgepodge of competing Oval Office aides—wholly apart from whether Mr. Ford wants Simon or someone else as his Secretary.

That is also the majority view of the President's transition team, whose recommendation to make the Secretary—any Secretary—the administration's chief economic spokesman is now under Mr. Ford's scrutiny. Yet in preparing for the economic summit, the first effort by President Ford to come to grips with the frightening Nixon legacy of national and international economic crisis, the Treasury is playing a secondary role.

Rush, not Simon, has been placed in charge of the Cabinet "talking-point" papers leading up to the summit. It is William Seidman, a top White House aide and Ford intimate, not the Treasury, who is supplying the logistical backup and planning for the preliminary sessions and the Sept. 27 summit.

The fact that presidential advisers have now blackballed Mr. Ford's personal proposal that Rinfret take part in tomorrow's pre-summit session of professional economists carries disturbing implications. It suggests that Mr. Ford's economic advisers are unwilling to offer an administration forum to so blatant and formidable a critic as the blunt, outspoken Rinfret and his unceremonious advice.

That may smooth the path of the session, but it contradicts the President's own desire to hear advice from all sides. It also suggests that Mr. Ford may become a prisoner of his own White House staff, now teeming with old and new economic advisers.

Considering the President's well-advertised contempt for the pervasive power of the Nixon White House staff, and the consequent downgrading of the Cabinet departments, that would be a supreme irony.

One Township Is Free Of Crime

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The FBI once again has told the nation crime is going up almost everywhere. But there are exceptions and Coal Township, Pa., is one.

The small central Pennsylvania town emerged as one of the safest communities in America while most other places, small and large, city, suburban and rural, were plagued with rising crime rates.

Nationally, crime increased 6 per cent in 1973, according to the full-year figures released on Thursday by the FBI. More than eight million serious crimes were committed, one every 16 minutes.

Murders were up 5 per cent, assaults 7 per cent, rape 10 per cent, and on and on.

But the picture was considerably brighter in Coal Township, population 11,789, where there were no murders, no manslaughters, no rapes, no assaults and no robberies.

"Why, we haven't had a murder in Coal Township in 15 years," boasted Police Chief Jesse Weaver in a telephone interview.

In the FBI list of hundreds of cities of 10,000 and larger, Coal Township was one of only nine that reported no violent crimes in 1973. Of those nine, the Pennsylvania town reported the fewest total offenses.

The village, spreading over 42 square miles, encircles the town of Shamokin in a valley 120 miles northwest of Philadelphia. As described by Weaver, who has lived there all his 48 years, Coal Township is home for many who work in factories in nearby cities and for a high proportion of retired people.

Why is crime so rare in Coal Township?

"Well, we do have police patrols out all night. Our churches have extra activities to keep the young people off the streets. We don't have much marijuana and much heroin, none of that stuff," Weaver theorized.

But Coal Township was not entirely crime-free last year. There were a few burglaries, about one every two weeks, and a half-dozen cars were stolen. The town had a regular rash of sneak thievery; something was stolen at least once a week.

The predominant picture was considerably more troublesome for law enforcement authorities who breathed relief when the 1972 figures showed a national crime decrease of 4 per cent, the first decline in 17 years.

But the drop now seems to have been a fluke. The new full-year figures show that total reported crime was 6 per cent higher in 1973 than in 1972. The first quarter figures for 1974, released several weeks ago, reflected a 15 per cent increase over the comparable months last year.

The volume of crime in the seven Crime Index categories jumped 30 per cent during the past five years, 120 per cent since 1960.

In 1973, the violent crimes of murder, assault, rape and robbery were up by 5 per cent, the property crimes of burglary, larceny and auto theft by 6 per cent.

Dog Owners Save Buying Big Time

If value means something to the dog owners of Greenville, they will soon be buying out every can of Big Time they can get their hands on.

Big Time has announced that their dog food is equal in every way to the other premium dog foods except in price. Big Time costs important pennies less per can than the nationally advertised premium brands.

Should Greenville pet owners switch to Big Time to save all this money? "That's just good cents!" is the Big Time reply. (ADV.)

Space Mail Scheduled To Begin This Month

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Satellite transmission of public mail between New York and Los Angeles will begin later this month, Western Union and the Postal Service have announced.

Postal Service and Western Union officials disclosed at the same time on Thursday that space mail traffic linking the East Coast with Texas and other parts of the West is planned for the end of the year.

Announcement of the planned schedule came in ceremonies marking the first domestic space transmission of a letter from New York to Los Angeles via the satellite Westar I. The letter traveled 47,000 miles at the speed of light.

The first message, signed by Postmaster Gen. E.T. Klassen and R.W. McFall, chairman of Western Union Corp., was addressed to guests at the ceremonies at a local hotel.

"Mail by satellite has been a much discussed, much dreamed-of possibility for

Brief Freedom For Escapee

RALEIGH (AP)—Hard-won freedom did not last long for a 19-year-old inmate of the Polk Youth Center who escaped Thursday by concealing himself in a load of mattresses and being hauled outside the prison. Prison officials reported to-day that Correction Department officers, aided by a Highway Patrol helicopter and bloodhounds, caught Mike Moore of High Point Thursday night about three-fourths of a mile from the prison.

Moore is serving a term of one day to two years for breaking, entering and larceny.

English Tops Language List

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—When West Germans must learn a foreign language, English tops the list.

A Berlitz School of Languages survey said 46 per cent of all scholars took English lessons compared to 17 per cent French, 5.7 per cent Spanish and 3.1 per cent Italian.

Less than one per cent found it worthwhile to study Russian or Portuguese.

Missions Rally Here Sept 12

The Greenville District Missions Rally is to be held at Holy Trinity United Methodist Church Thursday, Sept. 12, 11:30 a.m. Missions leaders from the 75 churches of the district will attend.

Guest missionary speakers are Rev. Joseph M. Davis, who has served in Zaire (formerly the Congo) since 1950, and Rev. James M. Brinks, who served in Sarawak, Malaysia.

Davis' most recent appointment has been as a teacher at the Kayeka-Kimbulu Theological School in Mulungushi where he was also treasurer. He has also been the principal of a primary school, legal representative to the government of the Central Congo Methodist Conference and chairman of the board of trustees of the Union Theological School at Mulungushi. He was also administrative assistant to Bishop John Wesley Shungu.

A native of Oklahoma, Davis studied at Asbury College and Asbury Theological Seminary from which he received an honorary D.D. degree. He has done graduate work at Hartford Seminary Foundation and the University of Kentucky.

Brinks, a native of Alabama, is now the director of Mission Interpretation for the Southern Association of United Methodist Mission Schools, which are: Allen High School, Asheville; Boylan-Haven-Mather Academy, Camden, S.C.; Sager Brown School, Baldwin, La.; St. Paul School, Tampa, Fla.; and Vashit School, Thomasville, Ga.

These two men can be heard on television's "Carolina Today" program on Sept. 12.

State Clinic Rule Upset

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A three-judge federal panel has ruled unconstitutional a state regulation which requires North Carolina abortion clinics to have an agreement with a nearby hospital so that emergency care can be provided abortion patients in the event of complications.

The ruling, disclosed in Charlotte Thursday, was handed down in the case of Dr. Harold R. Hoke, whose clinic faced closing by the state after he was dropped from the staff of Charlotte Memorial Hospital and denied a transfer agreement.

A federal judge ruled last April that Hoke was dismissed unconstitutionally and ordered his reinstatement pending another hearing by the hospital. No date has been set for the hearing.

Earlier, a federal judge had ordered that Hoke be allowed to keep his abortion clinic open until a three-judge panel could rule on the constitutionality of the transfer regulation.

The panel in the case was comprised of Judge J. Braxton Craven of the 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and U. S. District Court Judges James B. McMillan and Franklin T. Dupree Jr.

William F. O'Connell, an assistant attorney general who argued the case for the state, said it had not been decided whether the ruling against the state regulation would be appealed.

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious leaders are registering warm support for the new man in the White House, President Ford, including his moves toward some sort of amnesty for Vietnam draft resisters.

Major religious groups have urged such action.

There also were tentative gestures toward more direct communication between U.S. church leadership and the presidency, a channel that largely had been shut off under former President Richard M. Nixon.

President Ford is a "sincerely religious person himself" who "takes the churches seriously," observes the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Marshall, head of the Lutheran Church in America.

Recalling that Ford twice met with denominational executives while a member of Congress, Dr. Marshall suggests in a letter to him that he hold similar meetings in his new capacity, adding:

"All of us can benefit from understanding each other in this time when both government officials and leaders in the churches have reason to be concerned with morality, justice and the welfare of people."

Give-and-take meetings with church leaders had been a common custom in past administrations, including those of Presidents Harry S. Truman, Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy, but lapsed under President Lyndon B.

Johnson and church criticism of the Vietnam war.

Nixon shunned such confrontations, except for the ceremonial White House services over which he presided and which were dropped in the latter part of his administration. They didn't allow for discussion, however.

Ford has said he won't revive them. An Episcopalian, he plans to continue worshipping at Immanuel-Church-on-the-Hill in Alexandria, Va. As a congressman, he also has been active in Capitol prayer groups, but this probably will be limited in his present role.

Recalling his meetings with church leaders at congressional prayer breakfasts, the Rev. Dr. Robert V. Moss, president of the United Church of Christ commended him in a letter for his "devotion to high moral standards."

Concerning his stand favoring some form of amnesty for draft evaders, in contrast to Nixon's opposition to it, Dr. Moss told the President:

"Your compassionate concern for the welfare of our youth ... is especially welcome. Your initiation of a process under which they may be reunited with their homes and homeland

is a first step toward justice

Bishop James Rausch, general secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, called it a "constructive step," suggesting that unconditional amnesty should be considered in view of the need for national healing.

The President has said amnesty should be conditioned on some kind of alternative service, and is now consulting various groups on the matter.

Four Of Spain's Quintuplets Die

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Four of the quintuplets born prematurely on Wednesday to 29-year-old Julia Gomez Solis have died, and the surviving girl is in critical condition, doctors said today.

The dead were a boy and three girls. The babies were born two months premature and weighed an average of 1 1/4 pounds.

It was the first recorded quintuplet birth in Spain.

Attend Rites For Abrams

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of generals, admirals, senior civilian officials and workers attended the Pentagon's final tribute to Army Chief of Staff Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

Abrams, who died on Wednesday of complications resulting from lung cancer surgery, was to be buried today in Arlington National Cemetery.

The memorial service on Thursday on the Pentagon mall included the reading of a citation in which President Ford conferred on Abrams a posthumous Distinguished Service Medal.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger added a separate Defense Department Distinguished Service Medal to the long list of awards given Abrams during his 38-year military career.

Also attending the service were Abrams' widow and six children.

When man's aspirations are filled with religious faith and a sense of spiritual mission, he rises to heights of unselfish dedication. But when he keeps his sights lowered to greedy goals, he often becomes entangled in his own materialistic web.

As we train a youngster to look to God, we are unlocking the potential of a soul.

Police Check 2 Collisions

An estimated $3,300 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday afternoon.

Investigators said heaviest damage resulted from a 5:17 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive 150 feet North of the Sixth Street intersection and involved cars driven by Brenda Fields Lovic of 126 Josie Lane and Clarence House of 803 Bancroft Ave.

Officers, who reported Mrs. Lovic was injured in the mishap, estimated damage at $800 to the Lovic car and set damage to the House auto at $1,000.

House was charged with exceeding a safe speed and no operators license.

James Edward Hollis of Washington, N. C. was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of a 4 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Charles Street.

Police said the truck being driven by Hollis collided with a car driven by John Andrew Porter of Oakmont Sq. causing an estimated $1,500 damage to the Porter car. No damage resulted to the truck operated by Hollis.

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press Writer
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Machine guns and mortars blazed across the cease-fire line in Nicosia on Thursday night, but there was no indication the shooting would block Greek and Turkish Cypriot talks scheduled for today.

The Greek Cypriot government reported an "intense exchange of fire" for an hour and a half at three points along the so-called Green Line dividing the Greek and Turkish Cypriot sectors of the capital.

It was the heaviest firing in Nicosia since the cease-fire

Aug. 15. The government said the shooting stopped after United Nations peace forces arranged a truce.

Thousands of Greek Cypriots fled from the city again in panic, filling the roads to the south with cars and tractors piled high with luggage.

Earlier on Thursday, Vice President Rauf Denkash, the leader of the Turkish Cypriots, announced that he and President Glafcos Clerides, the head of the Greek Cypriots, would meet today to discuss ways to alleviate the plight of the estimated 234,000 refugees driven from their homes by the fighting on the island.

Weekly meetings between Denkash and Clerides on "humanitarian problems" had been arranged by U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim. But Denkash called off the meeting scheduled for last Monday because of the discovery of a mass grave containing remains of 84 men, women and children in the Turkish Cypriot village of Maratha.

Surviving villagers charged that the bodies were those of Turkish Cypriots executed by Greek Cypriot gunmen. The find triggered a barrage of atrocity charges and counter-charges and demands for an impartial investigation by the United Nations and the International Red Cross.

So far no action has been taken on the demands.

The Turks, meanwhile, expanded their territory. Denkash reported that Turkish forces seized control of the northwest coast between Lefka and Kokkina, a Turkish enclave 12 miles to the west. The push gave the Turks control of the entire coast of Morphou Bay, from which the island's copper is exported.

Airlines Ready To Talk Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Executives of Trans World Airlines and Pan American World Airways, both financially troubled, say they are willing to discuss a merger.

They stressed, however, that while a possible merger might provide a long term solution to their problems, federal subsidies were essential in the short run to offset increased jet fuel costs.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., had suggested the merger on Tuesday as an alternative to a $10-million-a-month federal subsidy requested by Pan Am.

Secretary of Transportation Claude S. Brinegar met separately in Washington on Wednesday with the chief executives of the two airlines and urged them to consider a merger. Spokesmen for the airlines said on Thursday that they were willing to do so.

Pan Am and TWA have lost a total of $46.5 million during the first seven months of the year.

TWA chairman Charles C. Tillinghast had earlier rejected any merger possibility and the airline still insists that "a period of temporary subsidy" would be critical until the economic benefits of a merger would be felt.

The airlines discussed merger in 1962 and 1971 but could not agree on terms.

Revival Series Begins Monday

AYDEN—Revival services will begin Monday night at the Ayden Pentecostal Holiness Church. The Rev. Paul Jackson of Grimesland will be the speaker.

Services will be held nightly at 7:30. The public is invited to attend by the pastor, Ola Porter.

Contribution Given Police Cadet Post

The Pitt County Shrine Club this week presented the Greenville Police Department's Junior Police Cadet Post 33 with a $50 check for its work with the Shrine chapter during the convention held in Greenville in July.

The cadets handled parking during the convention and acted as guides and provided security patrols throughout the affair.

The presentation was made by Pitt County Shrine Club president Roland Stocks and Police Lt. Paul Jewett. The check was accepted by Post secretary Larry Baldree.

"The cadets did a fine job and demonstrated quite aptly their knowledge of traffic control and the ability to work with the public," Stocks said.

The Police Cadet program—a program of youth involvement—was conceived by Chief Glenn Cannon and in cooperation with the Explorer Program of the Boy Scouts of America.

It provides a unique opportunity for young people to experience exactly what is involved with becoming a law enforcement officer and provides a pathway for young adults to enter the law enforcement community.

At present there are 18 members of the Junior Police Cadet program, according to Cannon, who noted that the program is available to both males and females, 15 to 18 years of age.

The chief said the cadets, who meet once a month, aid Greenville police at ball games, parades and other such events, working with regular officers.

Fulbright Has Mission-Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., is reported to be President Ford's choice for ambassador to Great Britain.

However, it was learned on Thursday that Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has not said definitely whether he wants the post.

Fulbright, who last spring lost a re-election bid in the Arkansas Democratic primary, is currently with a seven-member joint congressional delegation visiting the People's Republic of China.

Reached by telephone at his hotel in Peking, Fulbright told The Associated Press that the ambassadorship report was "just speculation." He declined to discuss the matter further.

The Associated Press was told that Fulbright's pending nomination has been cleared with key Republicans in Congress and given the nod by the British government.

If he assumes the London post, Fulbright, 69, would replace Walter H. Annenberg, a former Philadelphia publisher and long-time supporter of ex-President Richard M. Nixon.

In another pending diplomatic change, Peter M. Flanagan, a White House assistant for international economic affairs during the Nixon administration, is reported in line for the ambassadorship to Spain.

PTA Council Board Met

Mrs. Gaynor Mills, director of the Pitt County PTA Council's reading and math tutorial program, presented the program at the Council's advisory board meeting last week.

Mrs. Mills discussed in detail the directions of the program and asked for suggestions for improvement.

A report was given concerning spending of the money received from the Mid-East Commission for summer recreation. The funds were spent for five field trips and for recreational equipment which will be used throughout the year in the individual schools.

Mrs. Mills reported the instructional phase was underway with a combined enrollment of 235 students from several of the county schools.

The board decided to meet quarterly and consult by phone or letter during the other months. The next meeting will be held in November.

Student Named To Honor Soc.

RALEIGH—Miss Peggy Sears Corbitt of Greenville has been elected to the Chi Beta Chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa National Honor Fraternity of American Junior Colleges.

To be invited to join this honor society, a student must maintain at least a 3.25 scholastic average.

Miss Corbitt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Corbitt Jr. of 608 Oak St., Greenville, is attending St. Mary's College where she is a sophomore.

She and seven other inductees were honored Tuesday at a ceremony held at St. Mary's Sarah Graham Kenan Library in Raleigh.

Don't be half sure. Call a professional pest control operator for an inspection today.

States Act To Defend Questioned Lotteries

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a high-stakes match with the Justice Department, the states with lotteries have sent officials to defend the legality of their multimillion-dollar games.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe summoned representatives of the 13 states to a department conference today to discuss what he intends to do about possible state violations of federal antilottery statutes.

The session caps a three-month-long department review begun after a federal prosecutor threatened to file a lawsuit to halt the Maine lottery.

Department officials say the issue turns on the interstate aspects of state-operated lotteries, lucrative revenue-producers that began in New Hampshire in 1964 and spread gradually from the East to the Midwest. The government lawyers have been concerned about the distribution of lottery tickets into neighboring states where gambling is illegal.

Some department officials say Saxbe has been motivated in part by his insistence that the department enforce the laws fairly and without special favors. To ignore an apparent state violation of federal law could appear to be unfair, these officials suggest.

Saxbe's attention to the issue also was viewed as an effort to force Congress to decide whether the federal statutes should apply to state lotteries.

Legislation exempting state lotteries has been introduced in Congress, but there has been no push for quick action.

The department said last week that Saxbe is considering

"civil action seeking a permanent injunction against the lotteries ... unless remedial legislation is passed by Congress."

Million of dollars are at stake for the 13 states — Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Maryland, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island.

The states have been turning to lotteries to relieve tight budgets for education and social programs without the political pain of squeezing wage-earners and property owners for more taxes.

A poll of the 13 states showed that lottery revenue generally has matched predictions. In almost all cases, the state systems have operated without scandal.

Young Rivals In Old Rivalry

By KAROL STONGER
AP Sports Writer
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors and long-shot Roscoe Tanner are only 22 years old, but they have been competing against each other on tennis courts longer than old pros John Newcombe and Ken Rosewall of Australia.

"I grew up with him in juniors," said Tanner. "We've been playing events together since we were 14."

The two big-serving American left-handers will meet Saturday in the semifinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, a crown neither has won.

Newcombe, 30, and Rosewall, 39, meet in the other. They first met in 1968 after each already had taken the first of two U.S. titles.

In the women's semifinals today, Connors' fiancée, Chris Evert, the Wimbledon winner and top seed, tries her luck against Evonne Goolagong, the 1971 Wimbledon champion. Chris has yet to beat on grass.

And Billie Jean King, the No. 2 seed, was given another chance against Julie Heldman. Mrs. King defaulted to her American foe last year in the third set.

With three Americans and an Australian left in the women's bracket, an all-American final was a possibility. But the men's final was assured of being a duel between the two tennis powers: the United States and Australia.

The all-American semifinal was shaped when Connors overpowered Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-1 and Tanner toppled third-seed Stan Smith, 7-6, 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

The Australians advanced when Rosewall defeated Indian Vijay Amritraj, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2, and Newcombe ousted No. 8 seed Arthur Ashe, 4-6, 6-3, 3-6, 7-6, 6-4.

AMONG LOCAL PIRATES—These three freshmen are among seven area youths participating on the East Carolina University football team this fall. Sitting is Harold Randolph, a defensive linebacker from Greenville Rose, flanked by Milton Brown, left,

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY REELE

The year has rolled around to September again, and it's time to get out the old crystal ball and see what's inside.

Now that's a cliché if I ever heard one!

Nevertheless, we are going to try and pick some of the winners again this year. There will be some new faces on the weekly poll (which, by the way, will not begin until next week—the first full collegiate week of competition). In fact some of the faces are so new that we still haven't gotten around to finding out who they're going to be.

We do know that this writer will return to represent the Sports Staff, while Tom Baines will again represent the Newsroom, and Jack Whichard will represent management. George Holland returns in the Composing Room, but we're going to have to get a new man in circulation and a new panel member from our women employees. A few arm twists between now and next Friday should take care of it.

This week, the high school football season gets underway with a full slate of action. Last week, there just weren't enough games to give us a pick— with just two in our area.

This week, however, there are six games, and they look like this:

Rose will be traveling to meet Farmville Central. The Rampants have already played a game, so that's an advantage—but they haven't had a chance to scout Farmville Central, so that's an advantage to the Jaguars. Still in all, the Rampants have too much offense and defense—and mainly too much depth for the Jaguars. Rose to win there.

Kinston will be visiting Ayden-Grifton. The Chargers appear to be doing some rebuilding, even though they probably will again be a threat in the Eastern Carolina Conference. Kinston expects to be improved, too. It's a game that really could go either way, but we'll have to let our first vote go with the Vikings of Kinston.

Southern Wayne is at Conley in the lone Eastern Carolina Conference game. The Saints are picked to win the conference title this year, and there are good reasons for it—experience and depth. Conley should be improved this year, but it's going to be too early for them to be a threat to the Saints. Southern Wayne is the pick.

Robersonville visits North Pitt in a neighborhood battle. Former Robersonville assistant Pat Smith will be going up against his old boss, Noland Respass, and would like nothing better than to beat him. But the Panthers still have a ways to go in building a football powerhouse, and that's what it will take to beat the Eagles. Robersonville gets the nod here.

Saratoga travels to Greene Central in another old rivalry. This game could mean a lot to the Rams, who need to get off to a quick start to be a threat in the Eastern Carolina Conference. They should be able to get the win.

Finally, Williamston will entertain Gates County. We go into this one blind, not knowing what Gates has. However, we know that Williamston does have some problems. It could be a tough one, but since Williamston is at home, we'll choose them.

In the collegiate ranks, there are several ACC and Southern early openers. We see them like this: N.C. State over Wake Forest, Appalachian State over East Tennessee, Richmond over Villanova, and Mississippi State over William & Mary.

Crumpler Traded To Washington

WASHINGTON—Former East Carolina University running back Carlester Crumpler was traded yesterday to the Washington Redskins by the Buffalo Bills.

Crumpler, who set rushing and scoring records in the Southern Conference, had been a fourth round draft choice of the Bills, and had been one of their leading ground gainers during the exhibition season.

The 6-3, 215-pounder was traded for "future draft choices" of the Redskins, in a typical George Allen move.

"Carlester likes the Redskins," his wife, Gertha, said this morning, "and I think he'll be happy with them." She said that he reported yesterday to Washington and was scheduled to have a meeting with the coaches this morning.

The 'Skins are slated to play their final exhibition game of the season tonight against Baltimore, and Mrs. Crumpler said she doubted that Carlester would play since he was unfamiliar with the Redskin offense.

"He feels that he has a real good chance to make it with Washington," Mrs. Crumpler added. "He told me that there were still nine backs left in camp at Buffalo, while there were only five other backs at Washington now."

Mrs. Crumpler said that while her husband was surprised by the trade, he wasn't as shocked about it as she was. "He's really happy about it, and he feels that he'll enjoy playing for Washington," she said.

Maryland Given Nod By ACC Sportswriters

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—All nine returning players from last fall's All-Atlantic Coast Conference football team are picked to make the team again this season.

They are on a 24-player pre-season squad selected by writers and sportscasters who visited the seven camps last week in Operation Football-ACC.

The returning all-conference players selected on the offensive unit are tight end Charles Waddell of North Carolina, guard Ken Peoples of Clemson and running back Louis Carter of Maryland.

Those on the defensive team are lineman Randy White of Maryland, linebackers Dick Ambrose of Virginia and Keith Stoneback of Duke, and backs Peanut Martin of Clemson, Bob Smith of Maryland and Jimmy DeRatt of North Carolina.

Unanimous choices were Carter, White, Ambrose, Stoneback, and safetyman Mike Devine of N.C. State.

The writers and sportscasters, who have correctly picked the last three ACC football champions, were near unanimous in selecting Maryland as the winner this season.

All but one of the 21 voters chose the Terrapins. North Carolina State, last year's winner, got the other vote.

Seven points were given for a first-place vote, six for a second place, and so on. The Terps got 146 of a possible 147 votes.

Next in order were N.C. State 121½ votes, Duke 91, North Carolina 84, Clemson 80, Virginia 43½, and Wake Forest 22. Each school placed at least one player on the preseason all-conference squad, which includes 12 players on offense and 12 on defense. Maryland placed six, and Clemson, Duke and North Carolina have four apiece. N.C. State has three, Virginia two and Wake Forest one.

The offensive team includes wide receiver Frank Russell of Maryland, tackles Stan Rogers of Maryland and Mike Arthur of Wake Forest, guard Ken Huff of North Carolina, center Justus Everett of N.C. State, quarterback Scott Gardner of Virginia, running backs Stan Fritts of N.C. State and Tony Benjamin of Duke, and kicking specialist Steve Mike-Meyer of Maryland.

The defensive team include down linemen Ronnie Robinson of North Carolina, Willie Anderson of Clemson, Dennis Turner of Duke; linebacker Jimmy Williamson of Clemson, and return specialist Troy Slade of Duke.

The ACC starts its 22nd season with one game Saturday, N.C. State at Wake Forest.

The other teams begin play the following Saturday, Sept. 14.

Buc Offense Shows Improvement In Drill

The East Carolina University football team got just a taste of the Bowling Green team last night in Ficklen Stadium. The first and second units (offense and defense) of the Pirates formed the Purple squad to scrimmage under game conditions against the remainder of the squad. The Whites ran a mockup of the Bowling Green plays and provided the Purple squad an opportunity to get at the Bowling Green attack.

Coach Pat Dye was more pleased with last night's scrimmage than the one last Saturday, but he's still very concerned over mistakes, penalties, and a lack of pass protection.

"We're making just too many mistakes and having too many busted assignments for our offense to click," said Dye. "Those 15-yard penalties for clipping and hitting late and other things could really change a close game around. We've got to eliminate those things to make the offense go."

The passing game was poor again, and Dye knows why. "Our pass protection was just terrible," said Dye. "Our quarterback's don't even have time to look for a receiver, let alone throw the ball. The defense is on the quarterback before he even sets up. That's coming in part from young players up front, and our lack of practice on pass protection."

Dye was slow in commenting on individual performances until the coaching staff can study the scrimmage film. But a few players did stand out to Dye even on the field.

Tom Daub at fullback, according to Dye, ran the ball real well and looked good with some key plays. Also, the play of Kenny Strayhorn and Raymond Jones was pleasing to Dye, in respect to some big plays. Jimmy Howe also was pointed out for running well, but for lacking in his blocking.

At quarterback, Mike Weaver looked good. Dye did point out that Weaver had some spring in his legs where others did not. This came from the fact that Weaver missed four days of practice with the flu. At this time, Dye feels Weaver is his top quarterback, although all in camp have improved.

Four starters missed the scrimmage due to the flu bug. Those out were Don Schink, Bobby Myrick, Jimbo Walker, and Benny Gibson.

At this point, coach Dye feels two big items are needed to make his offense get rolling. "We have got to find a oneness on offense and leadership," said Dye. "These are a must, along with eliminating mistakes. When we get these things, our offense can go. We do have the ability to run the wishbone and be effective."

Incidentally, the Purple team downed the Bowling Green Whites 35-0. Tom Daub scored on runs of 8 and 27 yards. Kenny Strayhorn had a nine yard score. Al Boudreau had a three yard scoring run, while Mike Weaver topped the night off with a 52 yard dash. Jim Woody was good on five kicks for extra points, and was just barely wide on a 42-yard field goal that had plenty of carry.

Wheels Closer To Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Upton Bell has obtained use of the city's 24,000-seat Memorial Stadium in his efforts to bring the financially troubled, winless Detroit Wheels of the World Football League to Charlotte.

Bell, Boston investor, said he would know within two weeks whether he will be able to buy the team and move it here. He said he planned to talk to potential investors in the Carolinas and in Boston.

He has an agreement with the WFL for first rights to a team in the Carolinas. He says he also has an option to buy the Detroit team unless someone else puts up the money to keep it in Detroit.

Bell is a former general manager of the New England Patriots of the National Football League. He is the son of the late Bert Bell, former NFL commissioner.

The Charlott's Park and Recreation Commission agreed Thursday to rent him the stadium at a special rate. Bell had asked for a rate of $2,500 to $3,000 per game. The Charlotte Observer said Bell and the commission had agreed on a flat per-game rental charge instead of the stadium's standard 12 per cent of ticket sales. The amount of the flat charge was not disclosed.

Bell also wanted all profits from food and drink concessions, and from parking. The Observer said he had won permission to sell beer at games, if permission can be obtained from state liquor enforcement officials.

Bell has said a pro football team cannot make money in the 24,000-seat stadium. But he hopes the city or private investors will build a larger stadium.

He said it probably would be more practical to move the team next season rather than come in at midseason this year, but circumstances in Detroit may make it impossible to wait.

He said the commission is keeping four Wednesday night-dates open at the stadium in October and November in case the team moves to Charlotte this year.

Perhaps.

For it seems to us that we have the kind of car you want. One that skimps on gas without skimping on quality. And frankly, we think you'll be more willing to look at one if we lowered the price. When you do, you'll discover a car that got 31.3 mpg in a cross-country test certified by the U.S. Auto Club...a car that comes loaded with "extras" as standard equipment. Rose Strong In Running

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

Last year, Rose High School's cross-country team captured the Division I championship. It was the first time the league held a championship meet, and the Rampants walked away with it.

This year, only two members of that team, Art Klose and Melvin Roberson return, but Coach Ron Williams feels that the Rampants have a good chance to defend their title and bring home another championship trophy.

"We feel that most of the other teams lost as many good people as we did," Williams said. "So we figure that our strongest competition is going to be about even with us."

Last year, Wilson challenged the Rampants strongest, and Williams again looks for the Titans to be the biggest threat to Rose. "They have a shorter course than all of the other schools we run. When we run over there, we've grown used to a longer distance, and start pacing ourselves. Then, suddenly we find out that the race is over."

Also this year, Williams isn't sure just who his competition is going to be. "Northern Nash cancelled out of their first meet with us, and we're not even sure that they are going to field a team. I don't think Northeastern has a team either—we don't have them on our schedule."

Williams looks to Klose, who was named the team's Most Valuable Athlete last year, to provide most of the spark for this year's team. "He's coming along well, and is in better shape than the rest of the team, despite the fact that he was late coming out. He's been running all summer, however, and this makes a difference."

To help Klose, Williams looks to Melvin and Marvin Roberson, a twin brother pair, to keep the Rampants packed together at the finish. "They still have to get into a little better shape," Williams added. "Donald Kelly also looks like he'll be a strong runner, but after that, it's hard to say who'll be next."

Overall, there are 15 people on the team. "This is a few more than we had last year, but we have some basketball players and swimmers out who are running more or less to get in shape. They'll help, of course. Besides those already mentioned, the boys include Robert Bellesheim, Jimmy Davis, Mark Boudreaux, Mike Allen, Mac Davis, Bill Billica, David Pendered, Ernie Stine, Jimmy Peszko and Ricky Reese.

Joining those 14 boys is one girl, Rosie Cox, who ran for the fledgling girls' track team last spring. "She runs well and is beating some of the boys," Williams said. "She's one of the few girl distance runners I've seen in this sport, and I think it'll be good for us to have her on the team."

Williams feels that the Rampants have as much potential as they had last year. "It's a disciplined sport that requires the people participating to work a lot on their own. They have to run on weekends to stay right with it. It will be hard to top last year's record, but I think we have the capability. And I'm sure that we have a shot at the championship again."

The schedule—Sept. 9, at Wilson; Sept. 12, Bertie (site to be decided); Sept. 16, Northern Nash, Wilson and South Lenoir; Sept. 19, at Bertie; Sept. 23, Northern Nash and Rose at Rocky Mount; Sept. 26, Rocky Mount and Rose at Wilson; Sept. 30, Wilson; Oct. 3, at Northern Nash; Oct. 7, Bertie and Rocky Mount; Oct. 10, Rocky Mount; Oct. 14, at South Lenoir; Oct. 17, Division I at Rocky Mount; Oct. 26, Sectional; Nov. 2, State meet.

College Slate Set To Begin

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

"Only a few months ago I felt our biggest challenges this year would be our schedule and ourselves," says Ara Parseghian, coach of Notre Dame's defending national champions. Having come out second best against themselves, Notre Dame is about to begin its schedule. The Fighting Irish, third in The Associated Press preseason poll, meet Georgia Tech in Atlanta Monday night in a nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 9 p.m., EDT).

The college football season actually gets under way Saturday with a slim schedule of 20 games involving at least one major team. The national TV slate opens at 4 p.m., EDT, with 12th-ranked UCLA facing 16th-rated Tennessee in Knoxville.

North Carolina State, No. 18, begins defense of its Atlantic Coast Conference crown at Wake Forest while 15th-ranked Arizona State entertains No. 11 Houston in a night contest. New Mexico State is at Wichita State for a Missouri Valley Conference meeting.

The remainder of Saturday's schedule:

East Tennessee State at Appalachian State, night; Dayton at Drake; Cal Poly, Pomona at Fresno State, night; Kent State at Central Michigan; Memphis State at Louisville, night; Mississippi at Tulane, night; William & Mary at Mississippi State, night; Northern Illinois at McNeese State, night; Oregon State at Syracuse; Sacramento State at Pacific, night; Villanova at Richmond; San Jose State at Santa Clara, night; Arkansas State at Southwestern Louisiana, night; Tampa at UT-Chattanooga, night, and Texas-Arlington at Western Michigan.

Notre Dame's biggest concern is the secondary, where only Reggie Barnett returns. Bob Zanot and Tim Simon were lost with knee injuries in practice while Luther Bradley, one of last year's sensational freshmen, was one of six players suspended from school for breaking dormitory rules.

Two other 1973 freshmen, defensive ends Ross Browner and Willie Fry, also were suspended, along with speedy running back Al Hunter. Eric Penick, a starting halfback, suffered a severe ankle injury in spring practice while guard Steve Quehl was injured in a summertime truck mishap.

"Injuries, accidents and suspensions have changed the picture radically," says Parseghian. "Now we must regroup and face the challenge of bouncing back from adversity."

Pepper Rodgers, Georgia Tech's new coach, isn't having any of that.

"Notre Dame's losing those people is like the man with $10 million who lost a million dollars," Rodgers says. "He's still got $9 million left."

The Irish don't know too much about Georgia Tech, but they are well aware that Rodgers' UCLA team knocked off Nebraska, another defending national champion, in the 1972 opener.

Sox Lose; Yanks Lead

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

Gorman Thomas checked in with the Milwaukee Brewers, took one look at Fenway Park's famed left field wall and thought he was back in Sacramento.

Just recalled from the Pacific Coast League where he capitalized on Sacramento's 233-foot left field fence for 51 homers, the 23-year-old slugger took aim on Fenway's "Green Monster," just 315 feet down the line.

With the score tied 2-2 and one out in the ninth, he became another of Fenway's long list of fence-breakers, belting a two-run homer to provide the Brewers with a 4-3 victory over the reeling Red Sox.

In handing Boston its seventh consecutive defeat, the Brewers knocked the Red Sox from the American League East lead for the first time since July 14. The idle New York Yankees moved one-half game in front. Third-place Baltimore, also idle, remained two games off the pace.

In the other American League games, the Minnesota Twins trimmed the Kansas City Royals 4-1; the Oakland A's blanked the Texas Rangers 3-0 and the Chicago White Sox nipped the California Angels 1-0. The Philadelphia Phillies nudged the Chicago Cubs 6-5 in 11 innings in the only National League game Thursday.

After watching Mike Hegan and Pedro Garcia hit solo homers in the seventh, tying the score, Thomas got the idea.

With Darrell Porter on first with a walk, he looked at two balls thrown by Boston reliever Diego Segui. Then he unloaded.

Twins 4, Royals 1.
Steve Busby's throwing error on a bases-loaded pickoff attempt in the sixth inning let in two runs and triggered Minnesota's slump over Kansas City.

It was the eighth straight loss for the Royals, who now have dropped 10 of 11 on the current homestand.

A's 3, Rangers 0
Jim "Catfish" Hunter notched a personal single-season high of 22 victories by pitching a four-hitter in Oakland's decision over Texas.

The victory put the A's 8½ games ahead of the Rangers in the American League West race.

White Sox 1, Angels 0
Ken Henderson's sixth-inning double drove in Jorge Orta with the only run of the game as Chicago beat California.

Loser Ed Figueroa, 2-7, permitted only three hits but two of them came in the decisive sixth — a lead-off single by Orta, who had two of the Chicago hits, and Henderson's one-out dou7 nQ4

Phillies 6, Cubs 5

Bob Boone's bases-loaded single in the top of the 11th inning delivered two runs as Philadelphia defeated Chicago.

The Cubs had tied the score 4-4 in the eighth on triples by Jose Cardenal and Peter La-cock.

Strayhorn Gets TD In Defeat

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Duane Thomas, the recalcitrant, controversial running back, begins his "comeback" with the Washington Redskins tonight.

Thomas was being counted on as a starter until recently, when he became involved in a disagreement with assistant coach Charley Waller and was put on waivers. Thomas later apologized to head coach George Allen, was recalled from waivers a week ago and was reinstated by earlier this week.

But he hasn't yet regained his starting job. "He's got to work his way back up," said Allen.

Thomas will begin that work tonight, when the Redskins meet the Baltimore Colts in a National Football League exhibition game at Washington.

In other NFL preseason action tonight, the New York Giants will be at Buffalo, St. Louis at Kansas City and Cincinnati will play Green Bay at Milwaukee.

On Saturday, it will be the New York Jets against the Oakland Raiders at Berkeley, Calif., Cleveland at Detroit, New Orleans at Houston, Miami at Chicago, and San Diego at Minnesota.

The NFL exhibition season will conclude Sunday, with Los Angeles at San Francisco, Philadelphia at New England and Atlanta at Denver in a nationally televised game. The regular season begins Sept. 15.

The final weekend of exhibitions began Thursday night, with the Pittsburgh Steelers romping over the Dallas Cowboys, 41-15, in another nationally televised game. Joe Gilliam threw two touchdown passes to lead the victory.

One of the two Dallas touchdowns came on a long pass to former East Carolina University running back Les Strayhorn.

Veteran Larry Smith, acquired from Los Angeles, is scheduled to start in place of Thomas and alongside Larry Brown against Baltimore, but Thomas is expected to see much action.

Baltimore Coach Howard Schnellenberger also is revamping his offensive backfield, shifting Bill Olds, who has not carried the ball in four exhibitions, into the fullback slot and moving Don McCauley from fullback to halfback in place of Lydell Mitchell.

The Giants will continue to be without their No. 1 running back, Ron Johnson, in their game against Buffalo. Johnson has missed the entire exhibition season with a pulled hamstring muscle, but is expected to be ready in time for the season opener. Joe Dawkins, acquired from Denver Wednesday, probably will make his debut at running back for the Giants.

The Bills will have O.J. Simpson, the only runner in NFL history to gain more than 2,000 yards on the ground in a single season. He appeared in midseason form last week, rushing for 116 yards on 19 carries against Detroit.

The championship of Missouri — and the Governor's Trophy — will be at stake in the St. Louis-Kansas City game. Kansas City will be without rookie running back sensation Woody Green, sidelined with a cracked collarbone.

Essex Johnson, Cincinnati's top running back who missed last week's game against Cleveland with a knee injury, may return to action against Green Bay.

Vanderbilt University has won the past two Southeastern Conference baseball titles.

Storm Coach Is Optimistic

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Coaches are by birth and nature an optimistic lot. But Portland Storm Coach Dick Coury appears near the head of the class.

Portland is 3½ games behind the first-place Southern California Sun and the guaranteed playoff spot in the Western Division, but Coury thinks his team "may not be out of the West Division race by any means."

"If we put together a strong finish in the last 10 or 11 games, we have a chance for a playoff spot," said Coury, whose optimism got a powerful injection last week when the Storm broke into the victory column by topping the still-winless Detroit Wheels.

Coury's positive thinking meets a big test tonight when the Storm, 1-7-1, can move up a notch in the standings by beating the third-place Hawaiians, 2-7, as the 10th week of the World Football League continues.

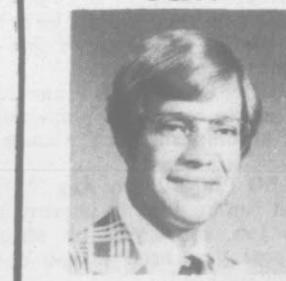

In other WFL action tonight, the New York Stars, 6-3, and Florida Blazers, 6-3, share the bill and the billing, but one club is almost assured of second billing when their Eastern Division tangle is over.

And in Detroit, Southern California, 5-4, gets its chance to spin the Wheels, 0-9.

The Jacksonville Sharks started this week's WFL football bouncing Thursday night when rookie quarterback Reggie Oliver outgunned flamboyant King Corcoran to beat the Philadelphia Bell 34-30. Oliver passed for 321 yards and two touchdowns.

addressed earlier this year at Indianapolis.

"Dr. Crane," she said afterwards, "I saved my marriage by reading your column in our Indianapolis STAR.

"For I soon lost much of my enthusiasm for marital relations after our first baby was born.

"And it wasn't till you told of wives who ask their mates an irrelevant question, even at the very height of marital congress, that I got wise to why my husband often groused and griped and even slapped me once during our boudoir relations.

"For example, the slap occurred during relations one night, when I thoughtlessly blurted out: 'Oh, I see I missed that cobweb on the ceiling when I cleaned house today!'"

"Well, the very next morning in the STAR you described another wife who likewise wounded her husband's erotic ego by a similar inappropriate comment.

"You then said a smart wife should at least let her husband THINK she was romantically interested, even if she were only passively acquiescing while meanwhile planning next day's menu!

"That column finally woke me up to why my husband had slapped me.

"So our marriage has now been very happy for the ensuing 15 years!"

Boudoir Cheesecake

Boudoir cheesecake is far superior to any of the concoctions of Betty Crocker, as regards preventing divorce!

Wives, please keep vividly in mind the fact that the sirens who wean your mates away from you, don't do so via study of kitchen recipes.

If you thus wish to insure your marriage against disaster, never become so preoccupied with your kitchen stove that you ignore boudoir cheesecake!

It isn't your superb roast beef, hot rolls, fancy salads and even homemade pies that keep your husband from straying!

No, indeed!

It's boudoir cheesecake, so wake up to reality!

Alas, millions of otherwise intelligent wives still make an idol out of their kitchen stove and thus spend hours thereof, to tantalize the gastric hunger of their husbands.

But they meanwhile don't devote even 15 minutes to the much more important task of titillating the erotic appetite of their mates.

"Call" girls and designing sirens don't win husbands away from devoted wives by their feminine superiority in the kitchen.

It's via the boudoir where such poaching Cleopatras expect to steal other women's husbands.

Perhaps a million of you wives reading this column today, have made errors, like that of Mary, by some stupid and irrelevant question, just when your mate thought you were erotically as excited as he was.

Indeed, many irate husbands protest to me that their wives actually snore during their boudoir "chore."

But even her snoring is not as deflating to a husband's erotic ego as to find that she is wide-awake but not paying the slightest attention to his fervent love-making!

So send for my booklet "Sex

Tax Changes Said Helpful

Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and learn how to rate a blue ribbon for your boudoir cheesecake!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Some of the new changes will be of great help to many people in the Greenville area, according to Gary S. Cooke of the local H & R Block income tax office.

Cooke said that one of the major changes will be in the area of business travel, where an individual uses his own personal car for his employer, or in his own business to produce his income. Business travel also applies for the person who commutes between two different job locations in the same day.

Under the old method of computing the expense, Cooke explained, 12 cents per mile applied for the first 15,000 miles and nine cents for every mile over 15,000. Now, it is 15 cents per mile for the 15,000 and ten cents for every mile over 15,000.

He added that the person who drives to doctors, hospitals and to pick up medicines prescribed by his doctors may now deduct seven cents per mile as long as it is medical mileage. In addition, the person who drives for charity work and keeps his mileage tabulated may also deduct seven cents a mile.

A Better Show About Pentagon

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've time tonight, take a gander at a CBS News special called "Peace and the Pentagon." It lasts an hour and covers the current and potential shape of the post-Vietnam U.S. military establishment.

viewer seeks out "Highway Patrol."

This show doesn't escape that trap, particularly in one segment in which Paul Warnke, a Defense Department chieftain in the Lyndon B. Johnson administration, holds forth on what military capability might be had in terms of "constant 1974 dollars."

But on the whole, the program is remarkably lucid and concise in its study of military matters, with a large amount of credit due narrator-correspondent, Bob Schieffer, CBS' man at the Pentagon until he replaced Dan Rather at the White House this month.

Declarer took advantage of the opening lead to create an extra entry to dummy—a move that was a vital element in his campaign to bring home an aggressive game.

Despite the fact that he held 6 points, North might have passed his partner's two no trump rebid. His 4-3-3-3 distribution was unattractive, and his suit was hardly the sort that could be established with any degree of ease.

Fortunately, his partner had the skill to seize the opportunity offered at the first trick.

West's opening lead of the jack of hearts is the text-book lead from his holding, but his choice had disastrous consequences. The sight of dummy brought no joy to declarer. There were only six fast tricks to be taken, and he could not afford to surrender the lead, for the opponents could then take at least four diamond tricks. The only place to develop three more tricks was in clubs with the help of a finesse. Since six missing cards rate to divide 4-2, there was a distinct possibility that declarer might have to finesse three times. The trouble with that was that there were only two obvious entries to dummy.

From the opening lead, declarer assumed that West held the ten of hearts. Thus, dummy's nine in the suit offered the chance to conjure up the third entry. Declarer grabbed dummy's ace at trick one, and dropped the king from his hand! A club was led to the ten and, when that held, the rest was easy.

South led a low heart and, when West played low, confidently finessed the nine. After repeating the club finesse, dummy was re-entered with the queen of hearts and a third club finesse allowed declarer to score his nine tricks.

Note that it is not good enough to win the first trick with the queen of hearts. After the club finesse succeeds, if declarer then leads a low heart with the intention of finessing the nine, West can wreck declarer's scheme by going up with the ten, which forces the ace and leaves declarer stuck with the king in his hand. That would limit to two his entries to dummy.

N. Viet MIG Threat Grows

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam reportedly has moved MIG jet fighters close to the South Vietnamese border in what U.S. intelligence calls the most active air threat so far. Meanwhile, reports to the Pentagon indicate South Vietnam's air defenses are in poor shape.

U.S. officers say one of the basic problems is that the South Vietnamese air force was designed by the United States mostly to bomb and strafe ground targets in support of South Vietnamese troops.

Its pilots have virtually no experience in air-to-air combat, while North Vietnam's air force has seen action against U.S. bombers and fighters during the years of American strikes into the North.

To make the air defense situation worse, South Vietnamese radar at the key Da Nang base often is not in working order, Pentagon sources say.

Some U.S. experts estimate that MIGs could reach to within a few miles of Da Nang without being spotted.

At the same time, North Vietnam has extended its surface-to-air missile coverage across a belt of territory its troops control inside South Vietnam below the old demilitarized zone, intelligence men say.

This means any South Vietnamese jets that flew up there to contest MIG intrusions would have to worry about being knocked down by ground fire.

Reports of MIGs moving into the Dong Hoi base, some 30 miles north of the demilitarized zone, began reaching here nearly a month ago. Since then, other reports have indicated the planes are remaining there.

So far, the numbers are small, but intelligence men expect more.

Say 'No' To Phone Taps

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans surveyed in a Harris poll are 81 to 13 per cent against having their phones tapped without a court order.

By 68 to 27 per cent, the respondents opposed letting the government wiretap citizens suspected of crimes without a court order.

"The Watergate disclosure left an indelible impression on American public opinion that extreme care must be taken in the future against invasion of privacy," Harris said.

The poll also showed these results on Thursday on a survey of 1,495 households:

—Americans are 77 to 14 per cent against letting the government open their mail without court orders.

—They are 80 to 12 per cent against being spied on by any kind of electronic device, except with a court order.

—By 80 to 12 per cent they oppose allowing the telephone company to give out records of long distance phone calls, except by court order.

On each of the questions, a few of those questioned had no responses.

Petrified Tree Found

HAMPTON, Tenn. (AP)—A petrified tree trunk, estimated to be 100 feet long, has been discovered on the shore of Watauga Lake.

The tree, said to have been about 250-years-old when it died, was discovered by Paul Mosteller, 30, of Hildebran, N.C.

Mosteller, a plumber, happened upon the tree when he went into a small fishing cove on the lake.

In his initial digging, he found 40 feet of the tree remains from the water's edge to the spot where it enters the earth. Of the unearthed portion, the greatest diameter is 10 feet with the hard core portion having a four-foot diameter.

"This particular tree fell on the north side of a shaded hill while the others are all on the south," said Mosteller, who began researching the process of petrification immediately after his discovery.

Using the customary growth ring method, he computed the tree's age to be about 250 years.

State's OEO Office Revived

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) has been revived by Gov. Jim Holshouser and transferred from the Department of Human Resources to the Department of Administration.

In an executive order issued Thursday, Holshouser also moved the state Office of Child Development from the Department of Administration to the Department of Human Resources.

North Carolina's community action agencies brought suit against the Administration after the state OEO was allowed to die this year. The agencies charged that Holshouser was trying to eliminate them by placing control of social spending in the hands of regional organizations of local governments.

The charge was denied by Holshouser who agreed to revive the OEO and to give the community action agencies fair treatment in the allocation of federal funds for social service programs. This agreement was made in settling the suit.

The state OEO will be part of the Department of Administration's Division of Intergovernmental Relations.

The community action agencies charged this division was Holshouser's tool in attempting to eliminate them.

Robert Spearman, attorney for the community action agencies, said he would have no comment on the executive order. Edward Deckard, director of the Intergovernmental Relations program, said the state OEO would have the same function under his supervision that it had in the Department of Human Resources.

He added the federal government wants the state OEO's to be as closely affiliated with the governor's office as possible.

Deckard said the community action agencies would still be receiving a substantial amount of federal anti-poverty money.

Homecoming At Church Sunday Auto Industry Sees Big Summer Sales

Homecoming and quarterly meeting will be held at Cedar Grove Missionary Baptist Church Sunday with Moderator W. S. Wilson as speaker.

The Rev. S. Jones of Haddock Chapel Church will preach at 3 p.m.

DETROIT (AP) — The United States auto industry continued its midsummer resurgence last month, with sales the strongest of the 1974 model year.

Domestic deliveries in August, were the second best in history for the month, the last devoted exclusively to the 1974 models. Sales fell just 5 per cent below the August 1973 record level.

American Motors reported sales up a healthy 21.5 per cent. Ford said its deliveries were one per cent ahead of last August, while the Chevrolet and Cadillac divisions of General Motors set monthly sales records.

The domestic makers reported monthly sales of 667,237 cars, down 5.05 per cent from 682,660 last August. For the year, sales were 5.3 million cars, down 22 per cent from the 6.71 million of 1973.

Ford sold 196,608 cars in August, up from 194,615 in 1973; GM sold 333,738 cars, down 3.2 per cent from 344,767 in 1973, and Chrysler sales reported at 107,834 were down 10.4 per cent from 120,434.

AMC, the only maker to report an increase in profits last quarter, said sales of 29,057 were up from 22,844 in 1973. Import makers reported sales totaling about 141,000, the fourth best month ever for foreign producers.

American makers, heading into the 1975 model year in earnest this month, were optimistic about the sales picture.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market hesitated for a while today but then resumed the technical rally it began Thursday.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 7.04 at 677.80, and gainers led losers by about 2-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said weekly banking figures released after Thursday's close by the Federal Reserve put a damper on the market in the early going because they tended to cloud hopes for an early letup in the pressures of tight and expensive credit.

But they said the position of the market after a long summer of decline was such that an advance apparently could occur for purely technical reasons.

Magnavox was the Big Board's most-active stock, up 1 1/4 at 9 1/4. North American Philips raised the price tag on its offer to buy all of Magnavox's shares from $8 to $9 apiece.

North American Philips was unchanged at 14.

Federal National Mortgage was unchanged at 13 1/4 in a 104,600-share block trade.

Some of the other so-called "interest-sensitive" stocks pulled back from their gains of Thursday in an apparent response to the Fed banking data. Gibraltar Financial was down 1/4 at 7 1/4. First Charter Financial lost 1/2 to 6 1/2, and CMI Investment was off 1/2 to 7 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .04 to 37 at 11 a.m., before the market began climbing again.

On the American Stock Exchange, the 11 a.m. market-value index was off .15 at 68.16.

The Amex volume leader was Imperial Oil A, down 1/2 at 27 1/2.

Robbery By One Gunman

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating an armed robbery that occurred Thursday night at the Happy Store on the Pacolus Highway.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the store's night clerk told deputies a young man wearing a stocking over his head entered the establishment around 11:20 p.m. armed with a pistol. She told deputies the man took the cash drawer from the register and fled.

The sheriff said that bloodhounds were called in following the report of the incident, which occurred in the Parker's Chapel community just east of the city limits.

He noted that an undetermined amount of money was taken from the Happy Store. The night clerk, who was alone in the store at the time of the robbery, was not harmed, Sheriff Tyson said.

EMBASSY ATTACKED

Williamston Approved Project Bids

WILLIAMSTON—Bids for work to be done in Williamston totaling nearly $325,000 were approved Thursday afternoon at the September meeting of the Williamston Town Board.

In bids for water and sewer improvements, the successful low bidder at $120,430 was the Hendrix-Barnhill Firm of Greenville. Barrus Construction Company of Kinston submitted the successful low bid of $204,568 for street improvements that will include curb and gutter work.

Five public hearings were held, with action taken on one issue. Town board members approved second action year plans presented by Henry Leggett, executive director of the Williamston Housing Authority. The hearing was required to approve changes directed by HUD for the town's Neighborhood Development Program; changes that primarily dealt with budgeting allocations.

The other four public hearings, all dealing with rezoning requests and recommendations for changes in rezoning ordinances were heard as scheduled, but action on these four was delayed until the October meeting. The delay was necessitated by the fact that such hearings require action by three-fourths of the town board members, and only three of the five members were present for yesterday's meeting.

Also approved was a plan presented by David Hughes, chairman of the Central Business Development Committee of the Williamston Chamber of Commerce. The plan calls for beautification of the Main Street area downtown extending from Smithwick to Houghton Streets. Under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 recently signed by President Ford, the town of Williamston expects to receive about $1.5 million over the period of the next five years.

Members approved execution of a contract extending for another year the services of a State Department Planner who currently holds a contract with the town. The planner is from the N.C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

Jack R. Haden was appointed chairman of a Grievance Panel to work with the Williamston Housing Authority. HUD has requested establishment of such a panel to act as a clearing agent for grievances between tenants and members of the housing authority. Other members for the panel will be appointed, some by the housing authority, others by another official board.

The town administrator was directed to make an effort to determine a true population count for Williamston. This resulted from a resolution from the State Department of Administration asking the town board to accept as official a 1973 population estimate of 6,380. Board members expressed an opinion that since the 1970 census showed a population of 6,470, the 1973 lower figure might not reflect the true population count at this time. Population figures are important economically, as this is the basis for receipt of revenue sharing and other state and federal funds.

The N.C. Department of Transportation, in response to a town board request for relocating a cross-over on U.S. 17 south, have agreed to relocate a new cross-over at McGaskie Road provided the one now at Country Drive be closed. Action on this was deferred.

On the question of law jurisdiction over the new Williamston High School, located just outside the city limits, a decision was made that since it is on county land, jurisdiction for law enforcement at the school is the county's primary responsibility. However, it was agreed city police officials would give assistance when and if needed, and would respond in any emergency situation.

Break-In, Theft Is Investigated

Greenville police are investigating an early-morning break-in today at the Etna Station at 3000 Memorial Dr.

Chief Glenn Cannon said robbers removed an air conditioning unit from a window to gain entrance to the store and took and estimated $200 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes from the building.

The break-in was discovered by police about 4 a.m. Investigation of the theft is continuing.

'LITTLE CHOICE'
DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp. said today it would have little choice but to raise prices several times during the 1975 model year on top of an expected $400 to $500 introductory price boost this fall.

VEPCO Rate Requests Regarded As 'Outrage'

Virginia Electric & Power Co.'s plan to turn on more electricity with the help of a $127.3 million rate increase is turning off many people in the state.

Nowhere was the public outrage over the utility's rate increase request more noticeable Thursday than in Virginia Beach where a housewife called for a state-wide one-hour blackout Sunday night.

Mrs. Sherry Sawyer, a leader of the forces against the projected increase in electric rates, said the blackout would serve notice on Vepco that its consumers don't believe the utility needs a vast expansion program.

It was also evident Thursday that much of the opposition to the utility's rate increase is centered in the state's most populous area — Tidewater.

Spurred by a consumer rally which attracted some 500 people and former Lt. Gov. Henry Howell in Newport News Wednesday night, the battle against Vepco drew more leaders, as well as foot soldiers.

Del. George Grayson, D-Williamsburg, said consumers would put the heat on Vepco to prevent the implementation of the proposed rate hike.

Howell, a long-time foe of Vepco, told the rally audience that the State Corporation Commission should delay action on the rate hike application until a study of the company could be completed. Earlier in the day, Howell had entered the rate case before the SCC in Richmond by asking that he be permitted to testify in the rate hearing starting Sept. 13.

As cries of anguish were sounded in Tidewater, Vepco's president was disclosing plans in Richmond for still another rate increase request.

T. Justin Moore confirmed that the company plans to file for an increase in its gas rates. Vepco serves about 125,000 gas customers in Tidewater and the gas sales produced about $26 million of Vepco's $550.9 million in revenues last year.

Haldeman Petitioning Indictment's Dismissal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman wants his indictment in the Watergate cover-up case dismissed.

In a petition to the Supreme Court, attorneys for Haldeman argued on Thursday that the term of the grand jury that indicted him and five others was improperly extended and thus its charges are invalid.

They requested a lower court review of the situation, which they hope will lead to dismissal of the charges.

Meantime, one of Haldeman's codefendants, John D. Ehrlichman, once chief White House domestic adviser, lost a second appeal to delay the trial, now set to open Sept. 30.

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas gave no reason for rejecting the appeal of Ehrlichman's lawyers, who earlier had been turned down by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger. They had cited pretrial publicity as grounds for seeking a delay.

The Haldeman petition said the Watergate grand jury should have been allowed to expire once its normal term of 18 months had run out. The lawyers said that instead, it was extended by Congress "in the name of expediency."

They argued that the courts, not Congress, should decide on any extension of grand juries, if they should be extended at all.

The indictment was returned on March 1, 1972, nearly 22 months after the grand jury was impaneled. Congress first gave it six months of new life on Dec. 4, 1973, and allowed U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to extend it for six additional months.

The other defendants are former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former White House aide Gordon Strachan and former presidential re-election committee officials Robert C. Mar-dian and Kenneth W. Parkinson.

Signals Are In Operation

The City Engineering Department reminded local motorists that traffic lights have been installed and are now operating at the corner of Chestnut and 14th Streets.

Ron Sewell, assistant city engineer, said that the new light was turned on Thursday for the first time and several motorists were observed driving through the red stop signal.

Noting that five or six close calls were observed at the intersection, Sewell urged drivers to be aware of the new light.

He said that signs are being erected warning drivers of the upcoming signal. Loop detectors have been installed on Chestnut Street and motorists traveling east to west will cross the loops and trigger a signal change.

Plans call for 14th Street to be widened in the near future in the vicinity of the Dickinson Avenue and Chestnut Street intersections.

Car In Parking Lot Robbed

An estimated $10.80 in money and two packs of cigarettes were reported taken from a car parked in a private lot on Ninth Street near the Dickinson Avenue intersection yesterday afternoon.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the theft was reported to police at 5:30.

He explained that the thieves broke a window in a car owned by Harold Evans of 200 York Road, and took a pocket book, containing the money, from under the car seat.

Damage to the car was set at $50. Investigation of the theft is underway.
