Dear Price For Pardon

WASHINGTON (UPD) — Whatever his motives, President Ford's grant of complete pardon to Richard M. Nixon may well cost a very dear price—his credibility with an American people hungry for a president they can trust.

One week after his bombshell pardon announcement, followed by a series of confusing White House statements intended to soften the blow; the new president has conceded he is in trouble. Privately, he is reported to have told friends that he wound up with "egg on his face." Publicly, at his golf match at Pinehurst, N.C., with pros in their own game; Ford remarked wryly:

"I spent much of today in an unsuccessful attempt to get a hole in one. Tomorrow I'll be back in Washington trying to get out of one."

Trip May Collapse Government

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)—Turkey's coalition government appeared headed toward collapse Saturday over Premier Bulent Ecevit's scheduled trip to Scandinavia.

The Moslem National Salvation party announced it would not endorse a government decree authorizing Ecevit's visit to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland starting Wednesday.

Necmetting Erbakan, party chairman and deputy premier, told a news conference the party considers Ecevit's trip inappropriate because of the Cyprus crisis and that he should postpone it.

To Unveil Amnesty Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford will unveil next week a conditional amnesty program requiring repatriated Vietnam war resisters to serve from six to 24 months of alternative service, according to administration sources familiar with the plan.

The minimum period of service is sharply lower than originally proposed by the Defense and Justice departments, with the length depending in part on the individual's military or Selective Service record, one source said.

Soviet Writer Sentenced

MOSCOW (AP)—Russian writer Mikhail Heifitz has been sentenced to four years in a labor camp and two years of exile for violating laws against anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda, dissident sources said today.

The 38-year-old writer and history teacher was arrested in April when security police found a draft of an article on exiled poet Josef Brodsky in his apartment, the sources said.

Next Archbishop Of York

LONDON (AP)—Bishop Stuart Yarworth Blanch of Liverpool has been approved as the next archbishop of York.

He will succeed Dr. Donald Coggan, who becomes archbishop of Canterbury and primate of all England in November.

Plane Search Reopened

WYTHEVILLE, Va. (AP)—The Civil Air Patrol reopened its search Saturday in southwest Virginia for a light plane and its three occupants missing since Aug. 30 on a flight from Athens, Ga., to Charleston, W. Va.

A spokesman for the patrol said the search, which earlier had been called off because of bad weather, primarily was concentrated in an area around Galax, Va., located in the southwest portion of the state near the North Carolina-Virginia border.

Although patrol officials would not release the names of the occupants or a description of the single engine airplane, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta identified the pilot of the missing craft as Jerry A. Bowserox of Perry, Fla.

Dawkins Head UF Industrial Div.

Howard Dawkins, executive director of the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center, has accepted the position of chairman of the Industrial Division of the Pitt Industrial Fund campaign.

Hugh Bazemore, chairman of the upcoming fund drive, commented, "It is a pleasure to announce that Howard Dawkins has agreed to head this important division. I am sure that he will provide inspired leadership for the industrial segment of our campaign."

A Mt. Gilead native, Dawkins earned his B.A. degree from Wake Forest University and received his Master of Theology from Southern Baptist Seminary. He also received his Masters in Vocational Rehabilitation from East Carolina University and studied at Auburn University. Dawkins received training in clinical education and counseling from N.C. Baptist Hospital and Bowman-Gray School of Medicine.

Currently a member of Immanuel Baptist Church, Dawkins served pastorates in Hertford from 1942 through 1945, in Kinston from 1945 to 1961, and in Concord from 1961 through 1967. He has served on the general board of North Carolina Baptist and on the executive committee.

The division head served as campaign chairman and president for the Cabarrus County United Fund and served 12 years as a director of the Council of Boy Scouts. A Rotary Club member for 27 years,

Terrorists Are Offered Safe Passage

By WILLEM VUUR THE HAGUE (UPI) — Three "Japanese Red Army" gunmen holding the French ambassador and eight other weary hostages under death threat Saturday won the release of a comrade jailed in France and an offer of safe passage out of Holland.

The government ordered a KLM Royal Dutch DC8 jetliner readied at Amsterdam's international airport and volunteer crew arrived to fly the guerrillas to freedom.

A last-minute snag developed when the government refused to allow the plane to leave unless the guerrillas laid down their weapons and disclosed their destination. The extremists apparently balked.

An estimated 200 policemen ringed the modern glass and concrete French embassy where the three "Japanese Red Army" gunmen seized French ambassador Count Jacques Senard, 54, and eight other persons Friday.

As the tense drama wore on into its second day, police snipers took up positions in an uncompleted government building 30 yards from the embassy building.

Long-haired police officers in blue-and-black uniforms smoked pipes to pass the time as they stood ready with high-powered rifles and sub-machineguns cradled in their arms.

A French government spokesman in Paris, however, ruled out a direct assault on the embassy in an effort to rescue the hostages.

At one point during the negotiations, Ambassador Senard poked his head from his office window and shouted down to Dutch Foreign ministry officials on the street below. The message was not released.

Dutch Premier Joop Den Uyl headed initial negotiations with the three extremists, but then flew to Paris to keep a scheduled dinner appointment with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

Arriving in Paris, Den Uyl said: "The situation is improving a little, but remains very grave. Contact with the terrorists has been broken several times but we hope the hostages will be saved and all the efforts of the government are directed towards this goal."

"We have a very close collaboration with the French government and I hope this affair will be terminated tomorrow."

A spokesman for the French Interior Ministry said, "the last of the solutions being considered is a direct intervention. There are nine persons involved and the Dutch government has no intention of putting their lives in peril."

Dutch Interior Minister de Gaay Fortman took over from Den Uyl to conduct the negotiations.

Government sources close to the talks said the two sides spoke at short intervals over the telephone.

French authorities bowed to a guerrilla ultimatum early Saturday and released Red Army member Yutaka Furaya from Paris' Sante prison, where he had been jailed on charges of entering France with forged passports and counterfeit money.

Furaya, 25, was flown to Amsterdam's international airport, 35 miles from the Hague. Police kept Furaya handcuffed in a yellow airport car during the long negotiations.

A government spokesman said the bargaining had been crippled by poor communications with the embassy. Two Japanese diplomats finally shouted instructions to the guerrillas over megaphones.

The gunmen, armed with three pistols and a hand grenade, held their captives in the ambassador's office on the top floor of the five-story building.

During the takeover of the embassy, one gunman wounded two police officers—one of them a woman—in a brief gunbattle.

A police spokesman said it was not known whether all three guerrillas were Japanese. He said one of them may be an Arab.

Kissinger Plans Several Trips

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger plans to visit Cairo and other Middle East capitals next month to make final preparations for a new phase of the search for a permanent Arab-Israeli peace settlement, diplomatic sources said Saturday.

That new phase is likely to center on negotiations between Israel and Egypt conducted through an American intermediary, sources said after the departure from Washington of Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

Kissinger, they added, may hand over the role of honest broker between the two sides to Joseph J. Sisco, the No. 3 man in the State Department and a diplomat with long experience in Middle East affairs.

A pledge of non-belligerency would move the quest for peace to a halfway point between the present situation—marked by military disengagement agreements between Israel and Egypt and Syria—and the ultimate goal of a formal accord to end the state of war between Israel and the Arab governments.

Kissinger hopes to visit Yugoslavia this fall during a major trip to the Soviet Union, the Indian subcontinent and Europe, State Department officials said Saturday.

Officials said Kissinger tentatively plans to call on President Tito in Belgrade Nov. 4 on his way to the world food conference which opens in Rome the same day. They said, however, that details of the Yugoslavian visit have not been firmly worked out.

The major trip in late October and early November is only one of several journeys Kissinger plans before the end of the year. His other trips include a ten-day visit to the United Nations beginning Sept. 22, a brief trip to the Middle East in mid-October, and a trip to Peking at the end of December or early January.

He plans to go from there to India, Pakistan and Bangladesh. U.S. officials said one of Kissinger's main concerns in India would be a discussion of India's recent nuclear explosion, which U.S. experts believe has demonstrated that India could develop nuclear weapons.

Police Chief Francisco Duenas said six men and five women, including a policeman, were killed, 71 injured, many of them seriously, when the bomb exploded at lunch hour in a crowded bar opposite the headquarters of the National Security Police in the heart of Madrid. Eleven of the wounded were policemen.

Prime Minister Carlos Arias, accompanied by Interior Minister Jose Garcia Hernandez, met with officials in the headquarters. Later, with six of his ministers, he attended the burial of the policeman who died in the blast, Concepcion

Basques Blamed For Bomb Blast

By WILLIAM B. LYON MADRID (UPI) — Police blamed Basque separatists Saturday for a bomb blast that killed 11 persons and injured 71 in the bloodiest act of terrorism since the end of the Spanish civil war.

A police statement said Juan Manuel Galarraga Mendizabal, a member of the outlawed separatist organization "Basque Homeland and Liberty" (ETA) was being sought for Friday's bombing.

A reward of one million pesetas ($16,700) for information leading to his capture was offered by the government.

Police Chief Francisco Duenas said six men and five women, including a policeman, were killed, 71 injured, many of them seriously, when the bomb exploded at lunch hour in a crowded bar opposite the headquarters of the National Security Police in the heart of Madrid. Eleven of the wounded were policemen.

As her casket was carried from the building, a crowd of some 4,000 gathered to watch. Many of them shouted, "Death to Assassins!" and "Down with the ETA!" while others raised their right arms in the stiff Fascist salute or sang the Falangist anthem, "Cara al Sol" (Facing the Sun).

They broke up peacefully and no incidents were reported. In the Basque country, police announced the seizure of ETA arms and explosives material.

Government officials said it was the bloodiest act of terror in the 35 years Generalissimo Francisco Franco has ruled Spain since the civil war ended in 1939.

However, the bomb slaying of Prime Minister Luis Carrero Blanco in Madrid nine months ago—for which the ETA claimed responsibility—had more political impact.

The ETA was silent on Friday's act.

Thousands of police Saturday searched road, rail and plane routes out of the capital, but did not report any arrests.

School Board Meets Monday

The Greenville City Board of Education will meet Monday, September 16, at 8 p.m. at the Sadie Saulter School Library.

Included on the agenda of the regular meeting are discussions of school facilities, a legislative questionnaire, budget and finance, and personnel matters.

Kissinger hopes to visit Yugoslavia this fall during a major trip to the Soviet Union, the Indian subcontinent and Europe, State Department officials said Saturday.

Rescue Squad Takes Top N. C. Honors

Unorthodox Medical Training May Be Considered For ECU Med School

RALEIGH (AP)—University of North Carolina officials will report to the Board of Governors next month on plans for expanding the East Carolina University medical education program.

William Friday, UNC system president, told the governing board Friday that UNC Medical School officials are working with ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins on several aspects of the ECU medical school. The one-year program is to be expanded to two years. Among aspects being considered are the search for a permanent ECU medical dean, a study of the availability of clinical training facilities in the area and plans for constructing a medical science building on the Greenville campus.

Dr. William J. Cromartie, associate dean of the UNC Medical School, current is acting director of the ECU program. In a news interview Friday, Cromartie said UNC officials are considering establishment of an unorthodox medical training program at ECU.

The proposed program would not include a traditional sophomore year of medical school, but probably would involve more medical education at Greenville than would a traditional second-year program. Cromartie said the program being considered also would include emphasis on family practice, rural medicine and recruiting disadvantaged students.

A successful student could receive his degree in the same amount of time as in a traditional medical school, but the program would be flexible enough to allow more time for disadvantaged students if necessary, Cromartie said.

He said some members of the General Assembly would probably be satisfied with nothing more than a traditional second year program. But, he said the program under consideration could be implemented more quickly than a traditional second-year program. He said the program being considered could begin as early as 1976.

Dr. Christopher Fordham, dean of the UNC Medical School, told the UNC governing board that the October report would center on the proposed academic program.

Marine Dies

CAMP LEJEUNE, N. C. (AP)—A Marine who was in correctional custody died Saturday at the Camp Lejeune Naval Hospital apparently of a heat stroke, base authorities said.

A spokesman said the Marine, whose name was withheld pending notification of next of kin, was participating in what authorities labeled a "conditioning hike."

He was stricken about 9:45 a.m. and died about seven hours later, authorities said. They added that an investigation is under way to determine the circumstances of the death.

Asks For $18 Million ECU Improvement Funds

By CARL L. TYER Reflector Staff Writer East Carolina University's Budget and Building Committee has sent a request for $18,244,000 to the UNC Board of Governors to be forwarded to the General Assembly for capital improvement projects for the Greenville campus.

The possibility that all of the requested projects will be approved isn't at all likely, says ECU Vice-Chancellor for Business Affairs, C.G. Moore, but the possibility for more construction on the ECU Campus is very strong. Two construction projects that the next General Assembly will probably take into consideration for ECU that have a high probability of approval are the renovation and alteration of the old Wahl-Coates School and the construction of a new teaching plantarium.

Estimated cost of the Wahl-Coates project is $2,073,000 and the plantarium $856,000.

According to Moore, the plantarium would possibly be located on land near the new student union in the Eighth and Ninth Street area.

The plantarium would be a teaching facility and not one similar to the Chapel Hill plantarium. ECU is also hoping for the approval of $297,000 for the removal of architectural barriers that would further allow handicapped individuals to enter and make use of university buildings.

The school has already undertaken some barrier removal projects, enlarging doorways, installing ramps and handrails. The $297,000 request would include the cost of six elevators that could be entered from the exterior of a building. All new buildings constructed on the campus are now barrier free, says Moore.

The site of the old Greenville Junior High School, at the intersection of Fifth and Reade Streets, could one day be the location of a new administration building for ECU.

The Building and Budget Committee has proposed that $1,027,000 be designated for the construction of an administration building that would contain the office of the chancellor and all vice-chancellor's except for the vice-chancellor for business affairs. The new structure would also contain a Board of Trustees meeting room.

According to Moore, ECU is the only state supported school which doesn't have adequate facilities for Board of Trustees meetings.

From there, the list of proposed capital improvements takes on the air of a dream sheet, indicates Moore.

The outlook for capital improvement funds isn't very bright, says the vice-chancellor. The list includes the acquisition of land from Cotanche Street to the present boundary of the campus and the construction of a new residence for the Chancellor.

Also, the reconstruction of a running track and field events area, eight new tennis courts, including lighting plus lighting for the Minges' courts, improvements of the present intramural field, prefabrication storage for maintenance department equipment, a new school of education building, costing an estimated $4,945,000, construction of a new language classroom building, at an estimated $6,095,000 and an addition to the present Allied Health and Social Professions Building, at a cost of $590,000.

According to Moore, the School of Allied Health is the fastest growing school on the campus.

The capital improvements requests will go to the Board of Governors who will pass on their approved items to the next General Assembly. Just how much construction actually takes place at ECU in the coming years is up to them.

Nixon Suffer Another Blood Clot, But Works

By ROBERTA GOOTMAN
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon was reported in good mental condition Saturday and working at his office despite some swelling and pain caused by another blood clot in his left leg.

There has been no official word on how serious the former President's condition is, but Paul Presley, a personal friend who lives next door to Nixon, said he doesn't think Nixon's condition is grave.

"If he was as ill as they say he was, his daughters would be here. They love him very much," Presley said.

"I think the White House should tell you about his condition," he said, referring to the former Western White House, Casa Pacifica, "and not give you the privilege to speculate on his condition."

Presley said Nixon was probably working at his office which is a short distance from the seaside home.

"I can imagine, for example, that there are a lot of letters to answer. He has always been a great one to answer letters," Presley said.

Presley noted that when Presidents Lyndon Johnson and Dwight Eisenhower left office, both had lengthy transition periods in which to put their affairs in order.

But Nixon's transition period from public person to private citizen, he said, was more abrupt.

Dr. Walter Tkach, who was Nixon's personal physician during his presidency, flew here Friday to examine the former President.

Dr. Tkach said there was a new "veinous clot" in Nixon's upper left leg that was causing some pain. Tkach added that the clot from the earlier phlebitis still troubled Nixon. He said he recommended that Nixon be hospitalized, but that the former President refused. Instead, Tkach said, Nixon will continue to receive medication and weekly medical examinations. Tkach said he and Dr. John Lundgren, Long Beach physician who examined Nixon Tuesday in Palm Springs, will make weekly evaluations on the former president's condition.

Historical Soc. Meets Thursday

The Pitt County Historical Society will hold its first meeting for the 1974-75 year on Thursday evening, Sept. 19, at seven o'clock p.m. in the Blue Room at the Candlewick Inn. A buffet dinner will be served.

The speaker for the meeting will be Ian Lowe, the Assistant Keeper in the Department of Western Art (Fine Arts) at the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford, England. Lowe's address will be entitled, "Oxford and Its Art Treasures", and will be illustrated with colored slides.

Lowe was awarded the Lawrence Binyon Prize for 1958 for the study of baroque and rococo decorative arts in Germany and Austria. He joined the staff at Christies', the well-known auction house, in 1959, and worked in the painting and picture department. From there, he went to the Ashmolean Museum in Oxford.

He has had wide experience in lecturing at some of the most famous museums in the United States, including the National Gallery and the Metropolitan, at Yale University and Williams College and the Boston Public Library. In 1969, the British Council invited him to make a lecture tour of Italy.

Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, president of the Historical Society, urges all members and potential members of the group to be present for this meeting which will also include a report on the Society's participation in the forthcoming Bicentennial of Greenville. Mrs. Lib Wilkerson of the Bicentennial Committee will give a brief account of the activities planned for the observance in October.

Reservations for the dinner must be made with the secretary, Miss Annie Turner, by noon on Tuesday, September 17.

Seeks New Approaches To Stop Bus Stoning

BOSTON (AP) — New approaches were sought today to stop the stoning of school buses and the pupil boycotts that marred the first two days of busing to integrate the city's schools.

U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr., who ordered the busing, said today he does not expect further court action on the issue this weekend.

The plaintiffs in the case filed a report late Friday afternoon, he said, in which they summarized events of the first two days of busing but did not specifically ask for action by the court at that time.

The report said U.S. marshals, Massachusetts State Police or the Massachusetts National Guard might be needed to keep order, according to Garrity.

Thomas I. Atkins, president of the Boston Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said today a request for action in the case would "depend on the nature of conversations we are having with Boston police this weekend."

The hospitalization of a juror has placed in jeopardy the eight-month trial of two Indian leaders charged with assault, conspiracy and theft in connection with the takeover at Wounded Knee, S.D., last year.

Asst. U.S. Atty. R.D. Hurd said after juror Therese Cherrier was hospitalized Friday that he would balk at having the remaining 11 jurors decide on the five felony charges faced by Russell Means and Dennis Banks.

Should Mrs. Cherrier, 53, who was hospitalized for high blood pressure, be unable to return to jury duty and the government refuses to let the other 11 jurors decide the case, a mistrial would result.

The jury began deliberations Thursday afternoon and was scheduled to resume on Friday morning. But Mrs. Cherrier, a postal clerk and wife of a State Highway Department employe, was reported ill.

Her doctor examined her and directed that she be hospitalized at least 24 hours.

Banks, 42, St. Paul, and Means, 35, Porcupine, S.D., are charged with assault counts, theft and conspiracy in the 71-day armed occupation of the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation hamlet in the spring of 1973.

Plan Registration Of Handicapped Children In County

A "Count the Children Drive" has begun as an attempt to identify all handicapped children in North Carolina.

This is because, all children, regardless of the nature or severity of their handicap, if any, must be given a public education, according to the Equal Educational Opportunities Act which went into effect July 1.

A series of public meetings will be held throughout the state to talk about how this act and a state policy for adequate, appropriate programs for all will be implemented. The one here will be held at the Carol Belk Allied Health Building Thursday, Sept. 19. For further information, one should contact Mrs. Sarah Allen at 758-6921 or A. H. Gillihan at 758-2171.

The meetings are being called by Parents and Professionals for Handicapped Children. Mass registration of handicapped children in the public schools is the goal. "For the first time handicapped children—whether they are retarded, crippled, blind, autistic, emotionally disturbed, or learning disabled, or whatever their handicap—are being considered equal under the law and are entitled to the same educational opportunities as other children," said Jack Gladstone of Roanoke Rapids, chairman of the board of PPHC.

The Sounds of Death Heard In Charlotte Crash

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—"I thought it was somebody dynamiting...it was loud, it was so loud...the screaming, yelling and crying, it was hysterical..."

The sounds of death for 69 persons, braced and buckled for a routine landing at Douglas Municipal Airport. Seconds later, dead in the wreckage of Eastern Air Lines Flight 212.

One of the 13 who survived the crash, Deborah Sanders, 17, of the Bronx, N.Y., died Saturday of her injuries. Two others remained in critical condition with extensive burns.

The DC9-30, with 82 persons aboard, crashed Wednesday off N.C. 49 as it prepared to land. The flight originated in Charleston, S.C. and was bound for Chicago after the stop in Charlotte.

Investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board say they will spend another week examining the wreckage. The engines were hauled away from the crash site Friday and carried to the airport, where they will be torn apart for clues.

Federal investigators will not speculate on what may have caused the crash. However, NTSB spokesman Ed Slattery says a preliminary examination indicated that the engines were operating normally at the time of the crash.

A NTSB hearing will be held in Charlotte in about three or four weeks, he said. The team's final report will be made public about six months after the hearing, he added.

A few residents of the crash site area thought the plane may have exploded or been on fire before impact. One resident of a nearby apartment house said the plane "looked like a ball of fire" when it passed over his building.

Mrs. Thomas Cox, who lives a few hundred yards from the site, said the aircraft "went three big booms when it went right over our house. I never heard it sound like that."

But an FBI agent on the scene, who asked not to be identified, said searchers found no evidence of a bomb. An Eastern spokesman said he had no reason to suspect sabotage.

The survivors also said they were unaware of any problems until the final seconds.

"I looked out the window and saw a tree go by," said a young sailor. "Everything felt normal," said stewardess Collette Watson. "I felt a real hard jolt and my first impression was that our gear had come down and that we were on the runway."

"Then I looked up and saw flames."

Federal Aviation Administration officials also indicated that the flight appeared to be proceeding routinely. Eastern said the pilot, J. E. Reeves, was an experienced aviator who had flown into Charlotte several times.

Reeves was killed. The copilot, James Daniels, survived and is listed in satisfactory condition in a Charlotte hospital. Hospital officials would not permit him to be interviewed Saturday.

Many passengers may have survived the crash, only to die as flames from exploding engine fuel engulfed the plane. Medical teams conducting autopsies said most of the victims burned to death.

Rescuers told of hearing pitiful screams from those burning to death. "This girl was lying beside the fuselage and had burns from head to toe," said Jim Stanley. "She was screaming real loud and I got sick."

Among the charred bodies were those of a mother and a child, cradled in her arms. Near their bodies was a child's book: "The Woods and Wild Things I Remember."

The survivors were either thrown from the aircraft, or were lucky enough to find an exit before smoke and fire filled the cabin.

"There was a big flash of heat," said Frances Mihalek of Charleston. "I started rolling around, feeling the heat all the time I was being twisted around in my seat. Then I stopped rolling, unbuckled my seatbelt and stepped out of the plane into a field."

A government safety expert said fire from exploding jet fuel is so intense that it will consume a cabin and the airplane's aluminum shell as well.

"We're not at a state where you can design for that kind of condition," said Nelson Shapter of the Federal Aviation Administration. "What we are doing as an agency is moving in the direction of minimizing the impact when fire exists."

Shapter said those who managed to get out were lucky.

Luck, both good and bad, played a part in the drama too. Pilot Reeves had not been scheduled for the flight, but traded with another pilot so he could be off with his family on his birthday.

Two Charlotte men overslept in their Charleston motel and missed flight. "I believe in God," said Guy Henderson. "Now, I believe God believes in me."

On its descent, the aircraft passed over an apartment complex less than a mile from the crash site. Had the aircraft landed a few hundred yards to the west, it could have struck a private home.

Eastern spokesman Robert Raynesford said Flight 212 would normally have carried fewer passengers. However, National Airlines has been on strike, and "our loads have been extremely heavy."

The condition of the bodies made identification difficult. An Eastern official said medical and dental records were used to establish positive identification.

Until the identifications were made, relatives of those feared dead waited in Charlotte in facilities provided by the airline.

"There's no assurance that the people on the list were the people on the plane," said an Eastern official. "You can buy a ticket under a false name, or you can give your ticket to someone else."

By Saturday 48 bodies had been identified.

Pepsi Pioneer Minges Dies

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP)—Luther L. Minges, a pioneer Pepsi Cola bottler in North Carolina and Alabama, died early today at his home at the age of 90 following a lengthy illness.

Minges, a native of Catawba County, N.C., operated six bottling plants in North Carolina and three in Alabama until his retirement in 1968.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Trinity Lutheran Church in Rocky Mount. Dr. Charles R. Whittcar of Salisbury, president of the North Carolina Lutheran Synod, will conduct the services.

Calm Reigns In Protest

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The weekend brought at least brief calm to a violent protest against a new series of school textbooks called "rotten and filthy" by angry parents.

Leaders of the crusade against the controversial texts Saturday called off demonstrations, saying they had made their point.

Hymn-singing, flag-waving parents started the protest two weeks ago against supplemental textbooks with titles such as "Man," "The Dynamics of Language" and "Informative Articles."

They said the books were obscene, unpatriotic and anti-Christian.

Rains throughout the Appalachian coal country helped cool off the dispute, which led to shootings, beatings and the closing of mines, business places of schools.

"The pickets are gone, at least for the weekend," said a Kanawha County sheriff's spokesman. "The weather helped."

The books, published by D.C. Heath, McDouglas, Littell & Co. and other firms, were approved by the county School Board this year for all grade levels. They are now out of the classrooms for a 30-day review by a citizens committee.

One elementary text asks children if they ever feel stealing is all right and asks: "Tell when it is."

In Market For Jets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four European defense ministers in the market for 350 new fighter jets have seen the "showroom" and gotten the sales pitch from their U.S. peer.

According to a Pentagon spokesman, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger told the shoppers from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that, not only will the new lightweight U.S. fighters be technologically superior and competitively priced, but cost-sharing maintenance arrangements could be worked out.

The United States expects to sell 3,000 of the lightweight fighters, now estimated to cost $5 million apiece.

Customers, in addition to the four seen Friday, include Iran and other Middle Eastern countries and the air forces of South American and Asian nations.

A 19-gun salute at the Pentagon began the day for Paul Van Den Boeynants of Belgium, Erling Broendum of Denmark, Henk Vredeling of the Netherlands and Alv Jakob Fostervoll of Norway.

Arrests Made In Bomb Case

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—Two persons have been arrested and three more were being sought in the bombing last Tuesday of a narcotics investigator's car, it was announced today.

Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, said Jeanette Martha Grier, 32, and Otis James Blackman, 24, were arrested Friday night in Charlotte.

They were lodged in the Rowan County Jail on charges of assault with the intent to kill and malicious damage to occupied property.

Dunn would not identify the three being sought.

Last Tuesday, Albert Stout Jr., 32, an SBI investigator, was critically injured when a bomb demolished his automobile. Officers said the explosion occurred when Stout turned on the ignition as he prepared to leave his home for work.

Stout lost a leg and received other injuries, and was reported in serious but stable condition at Rowan Memorial Hospital.

Earlier this week, Dunn said the attack was believed to be linked with Stout's investigation of heroin traffic.

Dunn, who was directing the investigation from a Salisbury motel, said other warrants might be issued in the case.

Ball Of Liquid Fire Burns

GRIFFITH, Ind. (AP)—Liquefied petroleum gas escaping from a massive underground storage cavern here erupted into a ball of flame early today, but authorities said there didn't appear to be any danger to persons in the immediate area.

"It caught fire about 5:15 a.m.," said Larry Bartley of the Indiana State Police post in Schererville just south of here. "We could see it explode in a big ball of fire, but now there are hardly any flames."

Bartley said experts from Lakehead Pipeline Co. of Madison, Wis., owners of the large underground vault containing 3 million cubic yards of gas, told him the explosion was probably the best way of controlling the geyser of gas.

"There is no danger for anyone in the immediate area now," Bartley added.

He said it was not known if anyone was injured in the explosion, the cause of which had not been determined.

A geyser of the clear, misty liquid began spewing over 100 feet into the air at 10 p.m. Friday after a cap blew off a storage line used to transfer the liquid into the cavern.

As many as 1,600 persons in Schererville and neighboring Griffith were evacuated from their homes, some of which were only 2,000 feet from the vault. Traffic on railroad crossings near the storage site was halted for fear sparks from trains would ignite the gas.

Revenue Collections Up

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's General Fund revenue collections continue to increase, but Highway Fund collections are down slightly because of nearly stagnant gasoline tax collections.

This picture was sketched Friday by Revenue Commissioner J. Howard Coble in his report on August collections to Gov. Jim Holshouser.

General Fund collections in August were $151 million, up $15.1 million from August 1973 collections.

For the first two months of fiscal 1974-75, General Fund collections were $258.6 million compared to $229.1 million for the first two months of fiscal 1973-74. This is an increase of 12.89 per cent, Coble said.

Crash Hearing Set

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The National Transportation Safety Board has announced that it will conduct a public hearing in Charlotte into the crash of an Eastern Airlines jet that claimed 70 lives.

The hearing will be within the next three or four weeks, a safety board spokesman said.

The twin-engine DC9-30, on a flight from Charleston, S.C., crashed and burned Wednesday three miles from Douglas Municipal Airport after being cleared for landing.

Sixty-nine persons were killed in the crash, and one died four days later.

Concern Over Marsh Lands

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—An Elizabeth City planner says the state Department of Natural and Economic Resources has not gone far enough in designation interim areas of environmental concern in North Carolina's 20-county coastal area.

James B. Bradshaw recommended Friday that "vast stretches of wilderness or marshlike swamp environment surrounding Elizabeth City and Pasquotank County" be designated as interim areas of concern.

Ford To Support Stevens

WASHINGTON (AP)—William Stevens, Republican Senate candidate in North Carolina, expects President Ford to campaign for him in Charlotte or Greensboro on Oct. 19.

Stevens, a state representative and a furniture executive from Lenoir, was one of a number of Republican Senate candidates who met with the President Friday.

He also conferred with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. Stevens told newsmen he had started his race behind the Democratic candidate, Robert Morgan, former state attorney general, but has been steadily "closing the gap."

Ex-Convict On Commission

RALEIGH (AP)—John D. Campbell, a 32-year-old ex-convict who served two years in Central Prison, has been hired as a hearing officer for North Carolina's new Inmates Grievance Commission.

Fred Morrison Jr., executive director of the commission, recommended Campbell for the $12,800-a-year post and the commission approved at a meeting Friday.

The five-member commission was created by the 1974 General Assembly to hear prisoners' grievances and take action when appropriate.

17 Year Old Gets Life

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—James Brunson, 17, has been sentenced to life imprisonment for the hammer slaying of a nine-year-old girl in February 1972.

A Cumberland County Superior Court jury returned the guilty verdict Friday after about two hours of deliberation. He was taken to Central Prison in Raleigh pending appeal.

It was the second time Brunson had been convicted of killing Vanessa Dale Lewis. His earlier conviction was overturned last year when the North Carolina Supreme Court ordered a new trial. The high court ruled that the presiding judge should have allowed the defense to admit school attendance records as evidence.

Lawyer Fined In Tax Case

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Doran J. Berry, prominent Fayetteville lawyer and former district solicitor has received a suspended 18 month prison term and been fined $10,000 in federal court for willfully failing to file federal income tax returns for 1969, 1970, and 1971.

Judge Algernon Butler also placed Berry on probation for three years. Berry pleaded no contest to the charges in April. The Internal Revenue Service said he had paid taxes, penalties and interest totaling $24,352.28 for the years involved.

Berry was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in the 7th District two years ago.

Recreation Crafts

The Greenville Recreation Department will resume their fall classes in Arts and Crafts at Elm Street and South Greenville Centers beginning September 16th. Classes at the Moyewood center will be announced later.

In anticipation of the Greenville Bicentennial, two special crafts are being offered. You can try your hand at nut dolls. Materials needed for nut dolls are scissors, needle, thread, thimble, remnants of 1/2" wide or smaller white lace or narrow rickrack, one third yard of calico material. If you do not have all of these things, a Kit will be available for you at the class. The second craft will be old fashioned bonnets. You will need to bring 1 yard of calico print, thread and trims. Sewing machines will be available.

There will be no charge for classes except for materials used.

Class schedule:
South Greenville - Monday 1:30 - 5:00 p.m.
Elm Street - Tuesday 9:00 - 11:00 a.m., 1:00-5:00 p.m., 7:30-9:30 p.m.
Wednesday 2:00-5:00 p.m.
Moyewood—Thursday 1:00-5:00 p.m.

Male Chauvinism Is Well, Alive And Profitable

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A California publisher is betting a bundle that male chauvinism is alive, well and profitable.

Bob Peterson of Los Angeles, who has made a fortune publishing magazines, has purchased True magazine from Fawcett Publications.

Aside from making money, Peterson says his aim will be to promote "a definite return to and recognition of the male mystique — the "Macho Man."

Tom Siatos, the magazine's new executive publisher, says that the male image in America is at best battered and at worst unrecognizable.

"Madison Avenue has done a fine job in unraveling the image that man had, so that today, just by looking around at magazines, television and most movies, you would think the average guy is a fop ... a raging nothing," he said.

"But damn it, that's not real. There are males and there are mannish activities. Believe it or not, your average American male isn't walking around on four-inch platforms and a shirt split to the navel. And he isn't unisex."

Siatos has chosen the boar as the magazine's symbol. He picked it because it is a takeoff on the male chauvinist pig epithet.

"We decided to go them one better, make the pig into a wild, raging, tusktacular that with one snort would send women libbers searching for safe ground," Siatos said, grinning.

Siatos, 50, a former publisher of Guns & Ammo, has put together a format that he says will make men feel like men and infuriate women libbers.

True plans to hit such topics as adventure, sports, crime, outdoors, history-nostalgia collecting, machines and locomotion and current news. But no sex.

True will leave that to Playboy and others of its type. A number of years ago True was the leading men's magazine with a circulation of 3 million. But with the advent of Playboy and other slick men's magazines it went steadily downhill.

TOM BETS ON THE BOAR—Tom Siatos, executive editor of True magazine, says the publication's new leadership has put together a format which will make men feel like men and infuriate women libbers. The editor chose the boar as the magazine's symbol because it's a takeoff on the male chauvinist pig epithet. (AP Wirephoto)

Another Law School Is Likely

The East Carolina University board of trustees has asked the board of governors to consider the local campus as a site for a new state-supported law school, if one is to be established.

The board approved a letter of intent indicating a desire to be considered for a law school. UNC-Charlotte and Appalachian State have also filed such letters with the board.

It is, of course, too soon to know for certain that another law school will even be established in North Carolina. There are two state supported schools now, at Chapel Hill and at N. C. Central in Durham. In addition Duke University and Wake Forest have established law schools. All the private colleges in the state are currently asking for increased state support.

Thus the board of governors should, and we feel certain it will, make a complete study of the state's higher education needs, along with the need for additional attorneys before any hard decisions are made.

It is likely though, that for our growing state, another law school will be established in the future, and it is not too soon to begin planning for it.

An excellent case can be made for establishment of a law school at East Carolina University, since much of the state's growth in the future appears to be set for the eastern section. Currently all four of the state's law schools are in the Piedmont area and it does not make a great deal of sense to establish a fifth one there, if we are truly interested in developing all sections of the state.

The ECU board of trustees has acted responsibly in expressing an interest in a law school for East Carolina University. If the board of governors looks fairly at all the factors, we think there is an excellent chance that a law school will eventually be established on the ECU campus.

End Foot-Dragging On Site For Med School

The ECU Medical School site committee, headed by Dr. Andrew Best, of Greenville, has located and obtained an option on an excellent site for construction of a new medical sciences building for the ECU medical school.

The site was recommended to the board of governors by the ECU board of trustees last week.

The UNC board of governors must see that it is imperative to end all the confusion and foot-dragging at Chapel Hill so that this property can be obtained and planning proceed for the building. Any thing else would be at odds with the public interest.

THIS AFTERNOON

Teachers Will Question

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Another clash between school officials and classroom teachers is developing over a budding teachers aide program.

State Superintendent A. Craig Phillips has said he will push for major advances in use of aides, and has told some legislators that the $12,000 annual cost of a fulltime teacher "can provide three teacher aides... and there are cases where this is more valuable."

At a time when teaching jobs are scarce, many school systems are hiring fully certified teachers as aides—at $3,500 for a 10-month term. Aides are concentrated in the kindergarten program at this time, with 64 per cent of the 5,700 employed across the state working in kindergarten classrooms. But plans call for rapid expansion.

Teachers generally favor use of aides, so long as they spend most of their time doing clerical and paperwork relieving the teacher of the tedium.

A. C. Dawson, executive director of the North Carolina

Association of Educators, says use of aides is developing into a major issue, and their duties and responsibilities need to be clearly defined.

"We (teachers) have the same concerns over our professional status as do physicians or lawyers who are concerned over the roles to be performed by the paramedics or lawyer aides," Dawson said.

Good Kudu
Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt takes exception with a comment in a recent column about Kudu in which state highway officials unofficially declared war on the "foot-a-night" vine covering the Tar Heel landscape.

Talking about cows, a state man said some use Kudu for feed, but he couldn't imagine a cow liking the stuff.

Hunt says his cows love it and thrive on it, and it is in fact a very good forage crop. Others also use Kudu for feed, and some recent reports indicate cows eating Kudu are quite contented and give more milk, too.

Still, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has taken Kudu off its "miracle" list, and reclassified it as a common weed.

What School Mean
The increasing push for more money for better schools applies to every North Carolinian, not just those with kids, state education leaders are saying.

The major pitch, nowadays, is that good schools simply make good sense from a money viewpoint.

"An industry seeking a location always has education at the very top of its priority list. They look at other things, such as transportation, health care, recreation... but if a county doesn't have good schools, forget it," says Waverly F. Akins, chairman of Wake County Board of Commissioners.

In the end, counties without good schools can't experience economic growth, and the only industries they can expect are the "cut-and-sew" operations... "you don't get off first base until you've got an outstanding school system," Akins said.

As president of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners, Akins is co-sponsoring with the School Boards Association a statewide workshop (September 19-21) in an effort to improve school systems across the state.

Bulletproof
Gov. James E. Holshouser is revamping his office space in the Administration Building since he decided not to return to the historic office in the Capitol.

The governor's office is being moved from the front corner to the rear, into larger quarters. New bulletproof glass has been installed on the new office, and bulletproof glass which surrounded the previous office remains in place.

That office will be occupied by the governor's aide, Gene Anderson. Space for public relations activities also was hugely expanded, and the governor now has two press secretaries in an expansive, richly carpeted suite of offices nearby.

Sunday Morning Notes

Maintenance crews at ECU were ready to pour the concrete for a 100 foot section of sidewalk on the slope from Clement dorm to Reade Street.

Then the late summer rains began to fall. Doug Caldwell, of the ECU maintenance department, says the rains started each time the crew began to pour the concrete. They counted rain on 21 of 23 days from late July through most of August. A dry day finally came and the sidewalk was put down before the students arrived. "It got so that Jim Lowry (plant director) was basing rain forecasts on when we were ready to pour concrete for the sidewalk," Caldwell says. Knew something was causing all that rain.

Billy Laughinghouse of Bostic-Sugg Furniture Co. was well aware that utilities bills were shooting skyward, but the July bill he received from Greenville Utilities was ridiculous.

The bill for the store was $11,118. Laughinghouse rushed down to the Utilities office with the bill and it was determined to be in error. The actual bill for the month was $450 and the adjustment was made.

Other Editors Say Sea Talks Failed

(Jacksonville Daily News)

After seven weeks of speech making, the Law of the Sea Conference at Caracas has ended, and about the only significant decision reached was to meet again next year, first in Geneva, and again in the capital.

The conference did not even manage to draft any treaty proposals for debate and discussion next year. The 5,000 delegates from some 150 nations and would-be nations spent most of their time in procedural discussions and lengthy expostulations of their respective positions on new rules governing use of the seas. This did serve to illuminate a deep split between the 30 or so industrialized maritime nations and the more than 100 developing nations, many without a coastline, that want some voice in sea control and in division of whatever riches are eventually harvested from the sea.

Whatever their numbers, the United States of America and other industrialized nations made it clear they have no intention of being "out-voted" by the others in a manner that would interfere with traditional open access to the world's sea lanes. Yet there seemed to be little interest in compromise by most of the delegates, and as a result the threat of unilateral action looms large, with each nation trying to write its own rules for fishing, mining, exploration and other claims of off-shore sovereignty.

It is discouraging that the delegates failed to perceive the dangers of their own inaction. Without enlightened modern laws of the sea the nations that are genuine maritime powers will still be obliged, for their own preservation, to establish whatever de facto rules exist.

The Utilities Commission was shown a new format for its monthly financial report at its meeting last week.

As the commissioners scratched their heads over the format, Gene Prescott commented, "What you don't understand now is better than what you didn't understand before."

That clears it up.

And Customer Representative George Reel commented that complaints about high electric bills hadn't been quite as bad this year as last.

That moved Chairman Howard Gradis, who was elected this year, to say, "They've been griping to me, and not to you."

The commission had received one letter from a satisfied customer during the month, which Director Charles Horne read to the group.

"We're going to frame it," he laughed.

Darla Hood Recalls

By STEWART SLAVIN
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — When little Darla Hood broke into a dimpled smile, batted her tiny eyelashes and sang "I'm in the Mood for Love" in one of those "Our Gang Comedies," it was enough to give any 6-year-old boy his first crush.

Darla is 41 years old today, weighs a bare 98 pounds, stands just under five feet tall, and can still entrance you with the same dimples and pixie features that launched her into the "Our Gang Comedies" back in 1936 when she was only 3.

She still performs professionally, and opened recently at the Santa Monica Music Hall with Ken Murray, one of the pioneers of early television with his "Blackouts" series.

Dancing and singing, Darla's booming voice belies her small stature as she goes through a routine that includes impressions of Ethel Merman and a spoof rendition of "Sweethearts," playing the parts of both Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy.

"What I'm doing today is far more glamorous than my early days with the 'Gang' because yesterday I was cleaning house and today I'm here with my makeup on, false eyelashes and singing," Darla said.

Miss Hood, who with her husband and three children lives in Studio City, recalled how the Hal Roach Studios recruited her as the "new girl" in the "Our Gang Comedies" in 1935.

"I was born in a small town in Oklahoma and I guess my mother wanted to get out of there because she took me to Oklahoma City and signed me up with a dancing teacher," she said.

Darla said her dancing teacher then talked her mother into letting her go to New York City, where Darla wound up leading the band at the Edison Hotel and caught the eye of the "Our Gang" casting director.

"I signed the contract in 1935 when I was 3 years old and did my first 'Our Gang' film a year later," she recalled.

Jackie Cooper and "Stymie" Beard had outgrown their parts and left the gang by then, but the new little rascals—Spanky McFarland, "Buckwheat" and "Alfalfa" were already in the troupe when Darla arrived.

"We were together for eight years," Darla said. "My first recollection of playing as a child was on the 'Our Gang' set. They told me that I would have to come and do my lines before I could go back to my dollhouse to play."

Darla said because she was the only girl in the troupe, she was open to a number of boyish pranks.

"Alfalfa was the troublemaker," Darla said. "He was in a particularly ornery mood the day we were filming a dog catcher sequence."

Darla explained that the scene was simple enough, calling for the kids to jump on the back of a truck and cry as the dog catcher drove away.

"The first time the truck drove away, Alfalfa fell off and I made the mistake of saying the exhaust fumes of the truck were making me sick."

"May I tell you that Alfalfa fell 32 times and we did the scene 32 times," Darla said. "I finally passed out and had to be taken to the hospital and revived."

The INSIDE REPORT

Behind Nixon's Pardon

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Hours before resigning the presidency in the face of hard obstruction of justice evidence against him, Richard Nixon was convinced that his successor, President Ford, would issue him a full and complete pardon.

But outgoing President Nixon never received assurances from Gerald Ford himself that a pardon could be counted on.

Indeed, even though President Ford secretly informed intimates that a presidential pardon for Nixon—eventually—was an absolute certainty, he did not undertake direct negotiations with Nixon on the pardon question.

The bridge between Nixon and Mr. Ford was Nixon's White House chief of staff, Gen. Alexander Haig, and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, the senior member of the cabinet and Nixon's closest collaborator outside the rancid White House itself during Nixon's five and a half years in office.

In addition, one key Republican member of the House who supported impeachment against Nixon was authorized to inform Nixon just before his resignation that powerful House Democrats were totally opposed to his criminal prosecution. That strengthened Nixon's confidence about a pardon.

Against that background, Mr. Ford inexplicably succumbed to pressure last week from Nixon intimates and agents and secretly decided, without consulting a single politician, to pardon Nixon months before anyone expected it — except possibly Nixon himself.

It was Haig and Kissinger who carried on their shoulders the awful burden of convincing Nixon he must resign. Although neither one committed incoming President Ford to a Nixon pardon, Nixon left the White House convinced that President Ford was, indeed, committed.

"Nixon had one thought and only one on his mind during those last days and that was his pardon," one highly qualified Ford insider told us. "If he hadn't believed he had the pardon in his pocket he might have put the country through the torture of full impeachment proceedings."

It was precisely the prospect of that calamity which propelled Haig, Kissinger and every other major figure in the transition drama five weeks ago to get Nixon out of the White House. If the prospect of a full pardon was held out to Nixon in exaggerated form, that was the reason. All else gave way to the single objective—get Nixon out.

Nixon had been judged mentally aberrant for fully two years by observant officials who had worked with him closely and known him well. Their judgment was ruthless—but, in the circumstances, inevitable. Nixon must be removed from the presidency to safeguard the nation.

With Nixon back in San Clemente, convinced his pardon was only a matter of time, and with Mr. Ford having revealed to close aides his hard intention to grant the pardon—presumably months in the future—the stage was set for the course of events that led to last Sunday's shocking decision.

SPIRITUAL TEMPERATURE

A young minister tells the story about how on one occasion when he was preaching as a visitor in a church other than his own he noticed a thermometer attached to the outside of the pulpit. It had been put there, of course, so that the minister could ascertain what the temperature of the church was. But on turning the matter over in his mind, the minister felt that in a symbolic way a more important function of the thermometer was to register the spiritual temperature of the ministers who preached from that pulpit.

A man's passion for Christ and inner devotion to righteousness will have much to do with his ability to touch the hearts of other people. Love brings with it a kind of warm-bloodedness which makes a man an effective minister.

If you are ever on a church committee to call a new minister, one of the questions about a prospective candidate you may wish to have answered is, "What is his spiritual temperature?"

'Deep Recession' Talk Raised

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — The advisories that banks, investment advisers and economic consultants circulate to customers and others are acquiring a tone that can be interpreted in at least two ways.

More and more of them, that is, are talking about the possibilities of a deep recession. But many of them then proceed to debunk the notion and scoff at what they term superficial comparisons with the 1930s.

The consensus, shared by leading economists at a White House meeting Sept. 5, is for a gradual recovery, a return to stability beginning in 1975. But why, some will ask, is the subject even being discussed?

Argus Research, whose studies are wholesaled to many brokers and institution who then pass them on to their retail customers, has just released a report entitled, "The 70s Are Not The 30s."

"It is our opinion," says Argus, "that the likely course of events in the world economy in the second half of the 1970s will no way resemble what occurred in the first half of the 1930s."

The current problem, it states, is one of inflation produced by excessively expansionary government policies. "The problems that began in 1929, by contrast, were problems of deflation brought only by extremely restrictive monetary and fiscal policies."

In its monthly economic letter, the First National City Bank states confidently that history never really repeats itself. It argues:

"Economic conditions in the 1930s differed significantly from those of the 1970s, a fact overlooked in current predictions of another "Great Depression." The fact is that a replay of that tragedy is virtually impossible."

It agrees in general with Argus' thesis. "The chief point to grasp," it says, "is that in the 1930s a U.S. recession, induced by monetary restraint, was allowed to get out of hand. "When a gust of panic touched off a stampede of withdrawals from U.S. banks, the Federal Reserve clung to its tight money policy, letting hundreds of banks go to the wall."

While making no comment on what many people feel is a destructively tight monetary policy now being pursued by the Federal Reserve, the First City commentary adds: "No central bank today would — or politically could — repeat the Fed's dismal 1928-1932 performance. With this crucial element missing, a catastrophe of the 1930s type is not likely to recur."

The Boston Consulting Group is more pessimistic. "I am convinced that we are heading into a long period of stagnation at best; a real depression is possible," writes Bruce Henderson, its president.

In a commentary called "Common Sense," Henderson states "we invested vast amounts of capital into environmental investments which produce nothing we can use. Moreover, for a generation and more we have suppressed the efficient and protected the inefficient in the name of antitrust."

Prospects for the rest of the decade aren't attractive, Henderson believes, because "we have eaten our seed corn." The nation must sharply reduce consumption of goods and services and increase the production of the same.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Do Laws Need An Overhaul?

Two private citizens have filed suit challenging the state law that prohibits the playing of Bingo as a game of chance. Perhaps it is time the law was challenged.

We would not argue that the law is loosely and erratically enforced across the state.

Enforcement depends in many cases on who is violating the law.

Games of Bingo are not uncommon in church and fraternal organizations and certainly not at county fairs.

Lotteries flourish across the state. How many of us have purchased tickets that are, in fact, chances on cars, boats, television sets, or other items of value? And, always, the proceeds go for a good cause.

The chances are sold in shopping center parking lots and on the streets and in private businesses.

But a lottery is illegal in North Carolina.

It is just as illegal as it is commonplace.

The states as they now stand make law-violators out of some of our more respected citizens and out of some of the most civic minded of our young people.

Is it reasonable to have on the books laws that are not uniformly enforced?—The Goldsboro News-Argus

Just Not So

At a recent conference in Raleigh involving social service workers in North Carolina, someone allegedly pointed out that "there are 800,000 people today starving in North Carolina."

David Flaherty, Secretary of the N.C. Department of Human Resources, took strong exception to the 800,000 figure. And we agree that it is just not so that in North Carolina today we have "800,000 people starving."

We agree that there might be 300,000 people eligible for food stamps who are not receiving them. This figure seems realistic. And while some people who are eligible for food stamps never will accept them, there are others who perhaps do not know that they are eligible.

We agree that there are hungry people in our state. It is unfortunate, and we must take immediate steps to assure them and ourselves that the situation changes.

However, when anyone says that better than 15 percent of our population is starving, the emotionalism involved is far stronger than the realism.

Let us feed our hungry. Let us make sure that no one is starving. But in our efforts to serve, let us not make sensational charges not backed up with the proper evidence.—The Washington Daily News

Keeping Up A Landmark

An English visitor said it was built in "early Charles Addams" style. Some Tar Heels winced at its Victorian porches and its dated air, wishing for a new governor's mansion in contemporary style.

But the governor's mansion in Raleigh has grown on Tar Heels. Victorian architecture is no longer disdained, and while Greek Revival may be the favored mode in some circles yet for executive mansions, the General Assembly has decided to stick with what an earlier generation called "Jarvis' folly" (after the governor in whose term it was begun in the 1880s).

Governor Holshouser will have to move out in a few months, and it may be 1976 before a governor moves back. The state will have spent by then over half a million dollars on the old home, nestled in parklike setting where it should be, on one of Raleigh's original squares near the Capitol.

Inside, the house has always been highly suitable for a governor, spacious for entertaining, handsome in setting, attractive to visitors. Restored, it will no longer alarm its residents with falling plaster or sagging floors. It will be a fitting residence for governors and a landmark of which the state can be proud, even if some Tar Heels may still hanker for white columns and others for lots of plate glass and cast concrete panels.—The Greensboro Record.

Stealing The Dome?

Over the years we've heard the warning to keep an eye on certain politicians or they will steal the Capitol Dome.

Well, that hasn't happened. But someone did make off with most of the copper taken from the Dome in Raleigh in recent renovation work.

UPSETTING EVERYTHING!

A Conservative View About The 'Bilderberger Plot' To Enslave Us

By JAMES KILPATRICK

Charles McC. Mathias, the senior senator from Maryland, is catching a touch of the old high life these days from Liberty Lobby. The senator's sin is that he has been a Bilderberger, not once but several times, and to be a Bilderberger is to be a "Secret Conspirator."

A couple of weeks ago, Liberty Lobby published an ad in the Washington papers, asking the senator what he was hiding. "With all due respect," said Liberty Lobby, in a tone of voice suggesting little respect is due, "we find it strange that you refuse to disclose any information concerning your trip to the Bilderberg meeting in Megeve, France, April 19-21, 1974."

Liberty Lobby went on to ask what was discussed at the secret meeting, and to remind Mathias that his loyalty lies with his Maryland constituents, not with international bankers. "Or," asked Liberty Lobby, putting a little spin on the ball, "do you feel your senatorial oath of office is superseded by your oath to the Bilderbergers?"

The senior senator from Maryland, now up for re-election, doubtless can take care of himself. He is a high-toned gent, civilized and soft-spoken, with a voting record that runs from medium to medium-rare. His response to Liberty Lobby is to raise a defense of innocence by association, or maybe fuzzy-wuzzyness by association. Many of his best friends, he says, are Bilderbergers. And so what?

These Bilderberger meetings have been going on since 1954, when a group of global thinkers gathered at the Hotel de Bilderberg in Oostbeek, Holland. Ordinarily, about 100 participants are invited. They include politicians, bankers, industrialists, journalists and academics from Europe, Canada and the United States. In the jaundiced view of my friends of the Far-out Right, their purpose is to promote the Secret Conspiracy that soon will enslave us all. Senator Mathias says their purpose is to discuss problems confronting the Atlantic community. Last spring they talked about inflation, energy and natural resources.

The Secret Conspiracy, as is well known, operates from several locations. Henry Kissinger is manager in charge of the Washington office. David Rockefeller runs the branch in New York. The Bilderbergers have the European franchise. (Actually the North American Conspiracy is in charge of the Council of Foreign Relations, which secretly manipulates governments through a small clique of power-mad billionaire bankers whose goal is world domination through a new socialist order.) Everyone knows this.

Being a Secret Conspirator used to be an exclusive kind of thing. To judge from a rollcall of recent Bilderberg meetings, the Conspiracy is getting a little down at the heels. Among the participants over the years, one finds such United States senators as Edward Brooke, Clifford Case, Frank Church, Ralph Flanders, William Fulbright, Fred Harris, Bourke Hickenlooper, Henry M. Jackson, Jacob Javits, Gale McGee, Mike Monroney, Hugh Scott and John Sparkman. Most of these are sinister types, of which anything could be believed, but Hickenlooper? The late senator from Iowa? Say it ain't so.

Gerald Ford has been a Bilderberger. So have Congressmen Richard Bolling, John Brademas, Chet Holifield, Peter Frelinghuysen, Dante Fascell, F. Bradford Morse, Henry Reuss and Brooks Hays. Not surprisingly, Columnist Joe Kraft is a Bilderberger; no plot to promote slavery is beyond Mr. Kraft. Barry Bingham of the Louisville Courier-Journal also is a Secret Conspirator. And Scotty Reston of the New York Times. And Bill Moyers. How do you like that? Moyers!

Well, all I can say is that the Bilderbergers never have asked me to their annual convention. I am as ready to plot, conspire, manipulate, dominate, control and enslave the world as Scotty Reston or Barry Bingham. If Liberty Lobby would just give me a little endorsement, maybe I could caddy for Mathias next year.

Economic Health Has Priority, Not Nixon, In Safeguarding Future

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

For most of us, the political rape of the dollar is becoming far more important than any theoretical damage done the nation's foundation by the misbehavior of ex-President Richard Nixon.

That's what makes the latest Watergate flap in Washington so dismaying. Whether Nixon is dragged through the ditches until his confessions and pleas for mercy satisfy elements in Congress and the press isn't, of itself, going to make a great deal of difference in the way we work and live.

But if tearing Nixon apart also means tearing President Ford down in such a way that he is unable to focus government attention and action on the evil of inflation, then we are in for a tough time, indeed.

Right now, the economy is moving mostly sideways—a flat line on the chart. But economies don't hold level for any long period of time. The trend turns, either up or down.

That's why public confidence in Washington is so important at this time. Without a government climate which gives reason for hope on the inflation front, the economy is going to turn down, probably at a steep angle, meaning a hard recession or even a depression.

For one short month, there was hope that Ford would prevail in persuading political Washington that it was time the economy got full attention from the forces of government. But the honeymoon lasted just as long as most such affairs—until the opposition felt it safe for a new try at making political hay. Anti-Nixon forces, in Congress and the press didn't need much encouragement to renew their assault on the White House.

This has taken up the front pages and dominated the news shows. The increasingly bad news about how we work and live got pretty well buried.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents reported further weakening of the economy in August. New orders stopped their long rise and turned flat. Forward buying was off—and inventories were being accumulated at a hefty pace.

Government figures showed unemployment creeping on up. Retail sales are on the sick side. They probably have been down, except for the push behind year-end sales on 1974 cars. On autos, many dealers are hoping that four-year financing will become common for the higher priced 1975 models.

Then, there's new trouble in the banking field, this time in South Carolina. In what apparently amounts to a "bail out" operation, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation announced it will help the American Bank & Trust Co., Orangeburg. It was explained that the bank has some real estate loans which have become "illiquid" in today's market.

Back in the summer, the Federal Reserve System came to the rescue of New York's Franklin National, which had trouble in the foreign exchange markets. The full scope of that bank's problem has not yet been put on the record.

Washington is hopeful, of course, that serious problems in the banking industry will be avoided. It has recognized, however that bank liquidity is a matter of concern. The Federal Reserve has announced that it has no intention of allowing the big banks to go under and that it expects the big banks to help the smalls.

On this point, it might be recalled that in the days leading into the depression of the 1930s, the FED made no such commitment. It came under severe criticism for not doing what it could, as "the lender of last resort," in those days.

Obviously, this is no time for political leadership, of either party, to indulge in political games, no matter the fascination. The well-being of too many people is at stake.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Sept. 15, the 258th day of 1974. There are 107 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1949, Konrad Adenauer became the first chancellor of West Germany.

On this date — In 1777, the Polish aristocrat, Count Casimir Pulaski, was commissioned a major general in the American Revolutionary Army.

In 1789, the U.S. Department of Foreign Affairs changed its name to the Department of State.

In 1914, during World War I, German New Guinea and the Bismarck Archipelago surrendered to the British.

In 1938, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain flew to Germany to try to mediate a German-Czechoslovak dispute.

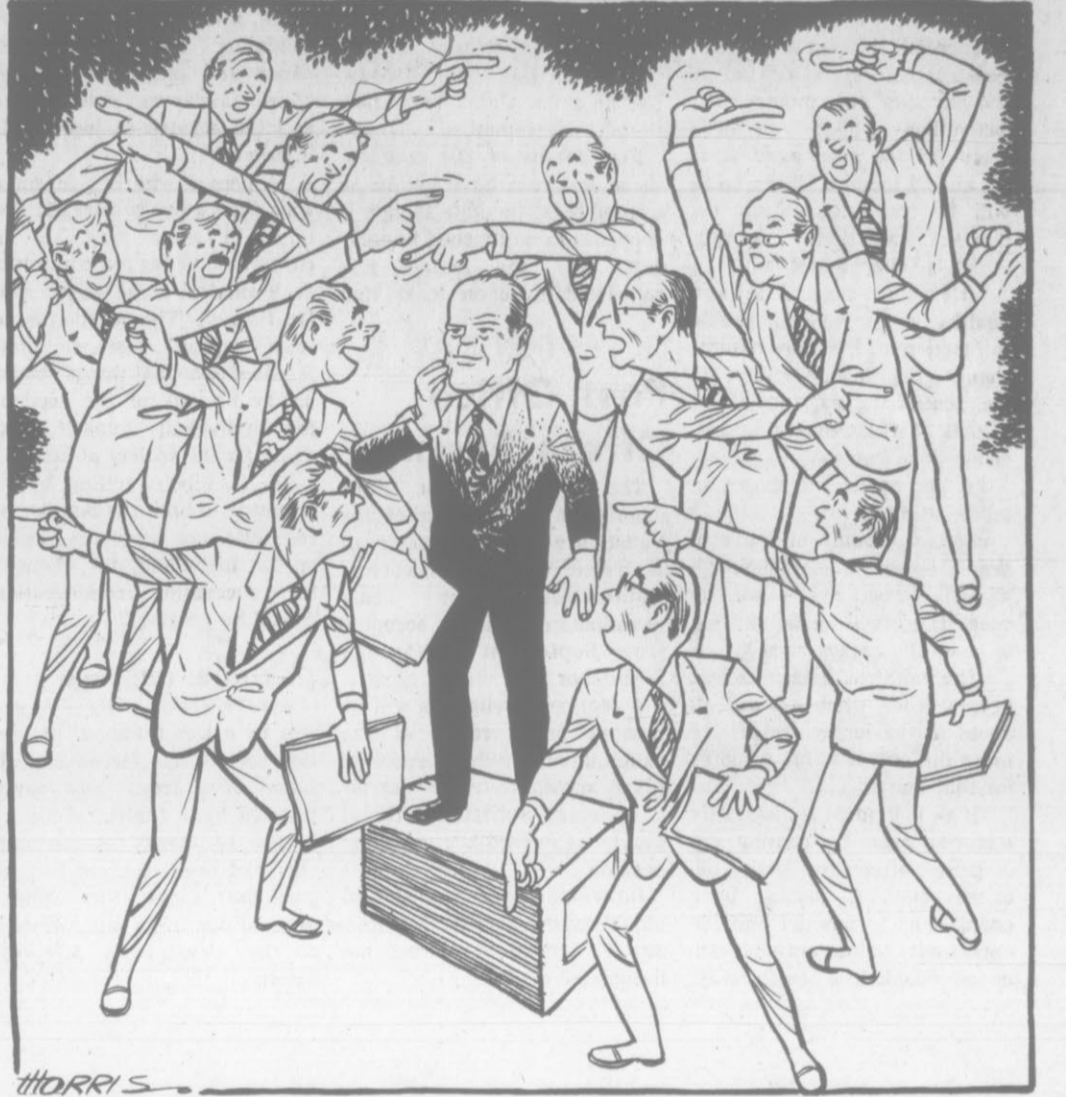

In 1942, in World War II, German armies attacked the Soviet city of Stalingrad.

In 1959, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev arrived in Washington to begin a 13-day visit to the United States.

Ten years ago: There was a major breakthrough for religious freedom behind the Iron Curtain when the Vatican and the Hungarian government signed an agreement restoring the church's right to form a hierarchy in Hungary.

OUR EXPERT ECONOMISTS ADVISE MR. FORD!

By Gail Michaels

The Laundromat Poses Horrors Known To Few

Some people have acrophobia; some have school phobia; I have laundrophobia. I'm terrified of laundromats. It started when my husband left a pen in his shirt, and my laundry was automatically tie-dyed. On each following trip my phobic reaction became worse.

Last Friday was laundry day. I paced the floor most of Thursday night. Friday morning at breakfast, I told my husband, "I can't go! I can't! Do you know what I dreamed last night? I dreamed that the Bold One put a ring around my collar and dragged me through a mud puddle. Then some wild-eyed man in a white suit grabbed my Clorox away from me and scared me so badly that I broke my free Swedish crystal glass. Then all my towels started barking at me, and I was run over by a mule team driven by some round enzymes who ate the mud stain off my blouse!"

My husband looked more frightened than I did. "You're right. You do need your own washing machine. You also need psychiatric help. We'll order the washing machine when I get home, and I'll call the doctor as soon as I get to the office."

When he left, I took a tranquilizer, dumped 50 pounds of dirty clothes in the back seat of the car, and made my last trip to the laundromat. When I walked in, the attendant started crying, her usual reaction upon seeing me. Twenty minutes later I found her hiding in the bathroom.

"I'm sorry to bother you," I yelled through the vent. "But I think one of my machines is on strike. All the other machines are finished, but this one is stopped at the suds stage."

"It figures," she muttered, as she stomped out of the bathroom. "Which machine?"

I pointed out the machine. "Of course it won't work," she said. "You have it set on delicate. You'll have to turn it to the normal cycle."

"But my clothes are not normal," I argued.

"Nothing about you is," she remarked, as she upped the speed on the washer.

Fifteen minutes later I was knocking on the bathroom door again. "You know those clothes that you turned up to normal? The knits in that wash will now fit the Statue of Liberty."

"Can't you read?" she screamed, refusing to open the door. "We are not responsible for any damage."

Ten minutes later we were again conversing through the door. "My clothes aren't drying," I said. "I put three dimes in, and my wash is still soaking wet."

"Tough!" she barked. "Put them in another dryer."

Thirty minutes later I banged on the door. "You know those knits that would fit the Statue of Liberty? Well, I set the dryer on 'permanent press,' but it stuck on 'very hot.' Those knits will now fit my two year old niece."

GAIL MICHAELS

No response.

"I just thought you'd want to know," I mumbled.

Five minutes later, I yelled to her, "I'm leaving. I'm taking my midget knits and my seven unmatched socks, and I'm going. I'm not even going to locate the mother of that kid who ran me down with the laundry cart. It doesn't matter. Because I'm never coming back."

The attendant's head popped out of the bathroom door. "What was that you just said? Did you say you weren't coming back?"

"Yes. I'm getting a washing machine."

"The Tide of my luck has turned," she laughed hysterically.

When I left, she was a changed person. Instead of locking herself in the bathroom, she was sprinkling Cheer all over the laundromat.

Soaring Cost Of Living Is Biggest Worry To Most People

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N. J.—A record 77 per cent of Americans name the high cost of living as the most important problem facing the nation today.

This represents the highest proportion naming this problem since regular Gallup surveys of the public's chief concerns were initiated nearly 40 years ago. In a June survey, far fewer than today (48 per cent) said the high cost of living was our No. 1 problem.

Concern over the economy has temporarily pushed all other problems aside, both domestic and foreign. Watergate-associated issues—lack of trust in government and corruption in government—are named second and third most frequently as the nation's top problems, but importance of these problems in the public's thinking has decreased markedly since the previous survey in June. And the problem of unemployment, named by 5 per cent in January, is hardly mentioned today.

Economy Has Been Top Worry During '70s

The high cost of living has been the overriding concern of Americans during most of the 1970s. Spurred by a sharp rise in food prices, concern over inflation hit a previous high in the summer of 1973 when 64 per cent named it as the nation's most serious problem. Concern over an economic-related problem—the energy crisis—temporarily pushed aside concern over the high cost of living at the outset of the current year. Worry over prices, however, soon continued unabated, while the energy crisis faded as a top concern. In the current survey, the energy situation is named by less than 3 per cent of persons interviewed.

Concern Over Economy Seen In All Levels Of Society

Concern over the high cost of living reaches into every home, regardless of region, income or political persuasion. Rarely has such unanimity regarding a particular issue been found in these regular Gallup Poll measurements going back to the 1930s.

Public's Economic Outlook Is Pessimistic

As reported previously, two Americans in three expect the economic situation to worsen during the next six months. In fact, nearly half go so far as to predict that the U. S. is heading toward a depressing such as that of the 1930s.

As many as a fifth of persons interviewed in a recent survey admit that they are currently living beyond their means.

And, almost two-thirds of Americans, 64 per cent, say they plan to reduce their spending as a result of rising prices. And many, in fact, say they already have reduced their spending on certain items.

In a survey conducted prior to President Ford's stated opposition to wage-price controls as a way of dealing with inflation, the public by a vote of 5-to-4 indicated that they favored a return to a "freeze" on wages and prices.

At the same time, almost half the public, 44 per cent, placed the blame for inflation on the federal government.

Curbs Sought On Egypt's Legal Slave-Bride Trade

By MICHAEL S. BARRETT
 CAIRO (UPI) — The Arab version of the mail-order bride is legal but too often young wives end up many miles from home and little more than slaves to husbands old enough to be their grandfathers.

The Egyptian government wants to put a stop to it. According to a report published recently in the semi-official Al Ahrām newspaper, nearly 10 girls are sold each week, especially in summer, through marriage contracts to husbands they have never seen.

They find themselves in Libya, Qatar, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi and other Arab states, unable to cope with their new lives and wanting to go home, sometimes suffering nervous breakdowns, bruises and starvation.

The bride broker may be a taxi or truck driver who shuttles across the desert to neighboring Libya. He has the power of attorney to purchase girls, many of them from the poorer section of Giza outside Cairo, for a fixed price her parents gladly accept.

"But they gave us 200 pounds ($500) and they didn't ask for any dowry and I do not think I could ever have a like amount in my hands again," one mother told Amer Mahgoub, undersecretary of state in the notary affairs section of the Justice Ministry.

"I see this sad situation and we're trying to talk sense to the families of these girls," Mahgoub told Al Ahrām. "But when we tell them about this operation of buying and selling their daughters, whose ages range from about 14 years, nobody pays any attention."

To marry legally with parents' consent in Egypt a girl must be 16, but often parents claim their daughter is of age even though she is not.

A committee of representatives from the notary affairs office and Interior and Foreign Ministries approved a resolution for curbing these contract marriages. It proposes:

- Marriages through an intermediary representative be outlawed when the bridegroom never appears and his age, social position and previous marriages are unknown.
- The Interior Ministry refuse to issue passports to girls unless the husband deposits money for her return to Egypt in the event of divorce.
- The husband be required to two days after arrival in the bridegroom's homeland, often in bad physical and mental condition, asking for passage money home.

Al Ahrām gave the example of an Egyptian girl sold to a husband in another country who divorced her. Others promised to help and even give her a holiday in Beirut, where she was sold into white slavery, losing the last hope of contact with her home.

The newspaper said several Arab countries have promised to take up the problem. So far only Abu Dhabi has pledged to help by turning down a girl's application for entry visa unless the government approves of her husband's age and financial status and she of the match itself.

Connecticut Building Coed Correction Unit

CHESHIRE, Conn. (AP) — Connecticut correction officials say coeducation behind bars is one way they hope to make life easier for inmates when they are released.

The state's first coeducational correctional center is under construction here at the site of the old boys' reformatory. The $43-million project will have room for 360 men, aged 16 to 21, and 72 females. The women will be transferred from the Niantic center for women, which is being phased out.

"It's a more normal, a more healthy environment for people to function in. It's more natural than segregating by sex," said Dr. Joseph Hickey, special assistant to Correction Commissioner John Manson.

The new center will have separate sections for men and women, but many of the programs — educational, industrial and recreational — will be coed. There will be no sharing of beds, Dr. Hickey said.

"The more you tend to isolate people from what life is all about in the larger world, the more difficult it is for re-entry for that individual."

"If an individual is absolutely terror-stricken by coming out of prison after three years because clothing styles have changed or he has not had the opportunity to interact with other individuals in a healthy way, with people of the opposite sex, clearly he will have a more difficult time adjusting to life on the outside," said Dr. Hickey.

He said the vast majority of people who return to prison after release fail within the first 90 days of release. He said those who fail knew nobody, had no skills, didn't know how to talk to a woman.

Full details of the coeducational program have yet to be worked out. The male section is supposed to be finished in early 1976, with the female side scheduled to open later that

Post Office Offers Exams

The Greenville Post Office announces the opening of the Substitute Rural Carrier of Record Examination. Applications for this examination will be accepted from September 16 through September 27.

A register of eligibles will be created as a result of the examination for the purpose of filling substitute rural carrier vacancies. Substitute Rural Carrier of Record is a part-time position.

year or early 1977.

Another reason for the two-sex facility is economics. Running a large facility such as Niantic for a relatively small number of people doesn't make sense, said Dr. Hickey. By consolidating services, maintenance and programs at Cheshire, taxpayers save money and the service to inmates is improved.

"A person who has in some way offended or broken the law must in some way be incarcerated or his freedom must be limited in some way," said Dr. Hickey. "The question is, to what degree must we limit freedom and what things should not be limited for the good of the individual himself and again for the society at large."

"In this kind of setting, by attempting to limit the number of restrictions or pressures placed on the individual, the chances for successful reintegration should be greater."

SAVE THE FROG
 AMSTERDAM (AP) — A protest by a Dutch animal protection society has forced cancellation of a frogs' legs party planned by a student group at Leiden University. A Parisian chef had been engaged to prepare the delicacy for celebrations of the 160th anniversary of the University's Minerva Society.

THE GRANADA—Ford Division's 1975 Granada is about a half-ton lighter and two feet shorter than most standard-size cars. It is available in two- and four-door models as a basic Granada and a more luxurious Granada Ghia. Standard equipment includes a 250-cubic-inch six-cylinder engine and manual front disc brakes. Two V-8 engines are available. Power assists are offered for steering, brakes, windows, driver seat and sunroof.

'Micropolis' May Be Answer To Big City Problem

By KAY BROWN
 ATLANTA (UPI) — From the balcony of her 4th floor apartment, Mrs. Ruth Duckworth rocks and watches people scurrying across the well landscaped plaza of "the world's first micropolis."

The memories of the 78 year old woman are of the past, but her view is of what developer James E. Cushman believes may become the salvation of the cities — a model inner city community where life is enjoyable and personal.

"I am of the conviction that the more a person is known, the less likely he is to commit crimes and the more likely he is to make a contribution to his community," says Cushman, developer of the multi-million dollar Colony Square and the driving force in its eight-year development.

Mrs. Duckworth was one of the first residents to move into Colony Square, a sleek development of offices, apartments and shops that will be worth more than $100 million when completed. She said she found her large, three-bedroom home too much to take care of after her husband died and decided to move to Colony Square at the urging of her daughter.

"I just won't let myself sit here and be lonesome," she says. "I'm going to make the best of what's left of my life."

Colony Square, situated on a 12-acre site just north of downtown Atlanta, includes two office towers with 750,000 square feet of office space, an underground parking garage for 2,000 cars, a large indoor ice skating rink and a 200,000 square-foot shopping mall that will open this fall.

It also includes 97 high rise apartments with monthly rents starting at $340, and 167 high rise condominiums with prices ranging from $37,750 to $212,000. A 31-story Fairmont Colony Square Hotel, the first Fairmont Hotel to be built on the East Coast, will open this month.

This is one answer for the future of cities," Cushman says. "It is approaching an answer. The real answer is the smaller community within the city, and Colony Square could very well one day be studied as a model. It can be the salvation of cities."

Miss Sheppard Patterson, director of residential properties, says people who live in the complex want more out of life than just a place to live.

"They want to look out the window and think, 'I'm in an exciting place.'"

"Atlanta doesn't have a tradition of high-rise living, and many people think the high-rise doesn't offer much privacy. But they find that's just not true. This is a very civilized, and sophisticated, way of living," she says.

Colony Square's residents include the Japanese and Canadian consuls general, Coca Cola executives, a concert pianist, a beauty shop owner, a retired school teacher, insurance executives, several widows, 14 children and a justice of the Georgia Supreme Court. Miss Patterson says 65 per cent of the residents are under 35.

Colony Square offers numerous social activities for its residents, including covered dish dinners, seminars, speakers, dessert parties on the mall and football brunches with a bus ride to the stadium.

The service is outstanding. For a fee, Miss Patterson says, Colony Square's staff of maids will serve breakfast, water plants, feed cats, do the laundry and help plan and serve parties.

Cushman, 43, president of the Cushman Corp. which owns Colony Square, has been firm, some say stubborn, in his determination to keep the living

Right-To-Life Meeting Slated

An organizational meeting of the Greenville "Right To Life Movement" will be held on Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will take place at the Methodist Student Center, 501 East Fifth Street.

"Right To Life" is a non-sectarian organization offering alternatives to abortion as solutions to unwanted pregnancies.

Those who are interested but unable to attend, may call Miss Pat Chenier at 756-1593, or Mrs. James E. Murphy at 756-5264 for additional information.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

Generation Gap Replaced Board

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When the date was chosen for Marin County Day at the California State Fair this year the county supervisors were invited to attend. But, alas, it was their regular meeting day.

A singing group called the "Generation Gap" was chosen in their place.

environment high. He has refused to let corporations rent or buy property in the residential section, believing "every apartment is a home and people just don't want strangers parading in and out."

The architects for Colony Square, Jove-Daniels-Busby of Atlanta, see the mini-city complex as a place where human needs can be dealt with efficiently.

"We wanted a place with 24 hour vitality, an almost self sufficient community," says Stanley Daniels, an architect who helped with the original planning in 1966.

Cushman says he is now studying the possibility of another similar development, a "sister-city" for Colony Square.

North Ireland's Children Have Learned To Hate

By DONAL O'HIGGINS
BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Jimmy Brent puckered his small face in a way that made all his freckles run together and talked with his 8-year-old's experience of his enemies.

"It's like this, mister," he said. "We throw stones at them because we're still too young to shoot them."

Jimmy, a Roman Catholic, lives in Ballymurphy, a bleak and soulless housing project in Belfast. It has few social amenities and fewer recreational facilities.

Jimmy was talking about British soldiers who are engaged in grim guerrilla war with the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA). He could just as well have meant the Royal Ulster Constabulary (RUC) police, or his Protestant neighbors across the "peace line."

Jimmy's world is a violent one. Ever since he was old enough to notice what was going on around him it has been that way. His playground is the back alley and the street corner.

He lives in an ugly, bruised street of dreary cream-colored houses that stand behind broken fences and stripped privet hedges. The windows are cracked. The doors are chipped and peeling. The toilet is out back. The street is spread with rocks, rubble and glass, reminders of nightly turmoil.

Jimmy is one of the 30,000 children who live in Northern Ireland's so-called troubled areas. For five years he has been caught in a whirlpool of violence. His street has become a battleground, his songs a chant of hate, his heroes the shadowy gunmen who live in ambush along the darkened streets, his enemies the men in uniform.

"We'd be okay if the bleedin' British would get out," Jimmy said fiercely. His pals shouted their agreement.

They clustered around, some with grubby faces and runny noses, some undernourished and pale, others pink-cheeked and tousle-haired. All had set, hard faces, old beyond their years.

Jimmy flung a stone expertly at a lean and scarred tomcat that appeared suddenly on a broken wall.

"Soon I'll be able to throw a blast bomb," he said excitedly. "They promised they'd let me. Honest they did."

Jimmy's school has barbed wire fence around it. The windows are wire-netted. It is flanked by two sandbagged army observation posts.

Why do you hate the soldiers, he was asked.

"Because they're bleedin' Brits," he replied.

Why do you hate the police?

"Because they're bleedin' Protestants."

Why do you hate the Protestants?

"Because they're bleedin' different," Jimmy said.

There are thousands of Jimmy Brents trapped in the sprawling slums of Belfast and Londonderry, where fear and hate are integral ingredients of growing up.

Dr. Morris Fraser, a child psychiatrist in a Belfast hospital, has been treating child victims since the violence began in the summer of 1969.

"They are absorbing hatred like sponges," he said.

Jimmy scuffed the caked mud on the ground where once a paved street had been.

"You'd hate them all too if you lived here, mister," he said. Asked how the IRA was going to help him, Jimmy replied:

"They're going to change things. They're going to make things different." He turned suddenly, and shouted: "You just wait and see. They'll change things."

An British army Saracen armored car trundled along the street in the distance. Jimmy's freckled face grew pinched.

"British pigs," he muttered.

Social workers in Northern Ireland report the process of fear and deep distrust has seeped down to the toddler stage.

In one of its reports on the violence, the Northern Ireland Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children said that riot games and barricades had taken over in the nurseries as the favorite play pastimes.

"The innocent, old-fashioned games seem to be out," the report said.

Like most kids in the ghetto areas, Jimmy's play and games have made him an expert on bombs and bullets.

"The blast bombs are easy to make," he said, "but they're not much use. They make too much noise and do too little damage."

"Then you have the nail bombs. They're not much use against armored cars." He thought for a few moments.

"I think fire bombs are best," he said. "They're more fun."

Although Jimmy won't admit it, his immediate aim is to join the Fianna, the junior branch of the IRA, where he will get disciplined training in how to kill.

"I don't like joining things," he said. "I just like to knock around with my mates and help the Provos (the Provisional wing of the IRA) whenever I can."

Across in Protestant East Belfast, things are depressingly similar. People live in the same bunched-together little houses, showing the same frustrated faces, the same kids kicking around in the rubble and dirt.

Only here the colors are red, white and blue instead of the Irish green, white and orange. The insults scrawled on gable ends are against the pope instead of the English queen. The poverty and hate are the same.

Billy Simms, 10, shrugged his shoulders. "I don't mind them if they leave us alone," he said, tossing his head toward the Catholic ghetto.

Billy, a Protestant, lives in a small terraced house near the shipyard where his father works on a casual basis. It is the very heartland of Protestant Belfast.

"The Catholics are disloyal," he said. "That's why I don't like them."

Billy began by thinking of the British army as his army. Now he's not quite so sure.

"I think we'd do better on our own," he said. "I think the UDA (Ulster Defense Association) would handle things better."

For many Protestant children the paramilitary UDA has replaced the British army in their affections. Billy and his pals intend to join it as soon as they are old enough.

"Everybody around here belongs to the UDA," Billy said, proudly. "It will defend us from the IRA and anyone else who attacks us."

Although a lot of Protestant youths have joined various

"tartan" gangs, Billy and his friends don't think much of them.

"They're always causing trouble," he said. "They're always wrecking things."

Asked if he would ever make friends with the Catholic boys across the river, Billy paused a moment before answering.

"How can you be friends with people like that?" he asked. "They're disloyal. And they're different."

Coffee Demand Said Declining

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Kenya's coffee farmers are in trouble. Demand for coffee on the world market is on the decline, and prices are at a low ebb. In February Kenya coffee was selling at $170 per metric ton; two months later the price fell to $162 per ton. And the downward slide has continued. Kenya coffee is now selling at $128 a ton. Kenya earns $100 million from coffee annually. While coffee production is holding at last year's levels, Agriculture Ministry officials are worried that low prices might cause output to fall off.

Real Witch Gundella To Open Lecture Series

GUNDELLA THE WITCH... inaugurates the ECU lecture series on Wednesday, September 25. Tickets, priced at $2.00, are available to the public.

The East Carolina University will open its 1974-75 lecture programming in a most unusual way, featuring Gundella. Gundella is not an ordinary lecturer, she is a witch, an authentic modern-day witch.

Gundella the Witch is a descendant of the Green Witches of Scotland. She is an active member of an ancient coven that meets regularly in Ann Arbor, Michigan.

A school teacher for 22 years, she did her undergraduate work at Central Michigan University, Wayne State University, and Michigan State University, and her graduate work at Eastern Michigan University. The Witch Gundella is provocative and entertaining.

Gundella believes that "in the simplest form, witchcraft is simply the power of positive thinking." She will speak on the subject "You and Your Powers... Casting A Spell."

The lecture is scheduled for Wednesday, September 25, 1974 at 8:00 p.m. in the Mendenhall Student Center Theatre.

Tickets for the lecture are available in the E.C.U. Central Ticket Office located in the Student Center. Public tickets are priced at $2.00.

74-75 Artist Series Set

Five internationally acclaimed solo artists and attractions are featured on the East Carolina University Student Union Artists Series scheduled for 1974-75. The Artists Series is a quality concert series primarily for the eastern section of North Carolina. All concerts will be presented in Wright Auditorium. Curtain time will be 8 p.m.

The Series will open on October 24, with the Royal Uppsala Chorus of Sweden. This eighty voice all male chorus, known in Sweden as "The Sons of Orpheus," is under the direction of Eric Ericson.

Christopher Parkening, appearing on Nov. 4, will present a classical-guitar concert. At age 25, Parkening is already hailed as "an impeccable classic guitarist, perhaps the finest technician this country has yet produced on his instrument."

The Series will continue on Dec. 5 when Russian pianist Alexander Slobodyanik will perform.

The San Francisco Chronicle wrote that Slobodyanik "is the finest pianist to emerge from the Soviet Union since Sviatoslav Richter."

One of Europe's finest chamber orchestras, the Paul Kuentz Chamber Orchestra of Paris, will be presented on Feb. 11, 1975. This ensemble is composed of 14 prize

BRUHN WITH NUREYEV IN 'LA SYLPHIDE'

NEW YORK (AP) — Danish dancer Erik Bruhn appeared in his own production of "La Sylphide" with the National Ballet of Canada here in August.

Bruhn, one of the most famous interpreters of the role of James, danced the small role of the witch, Madge, for the first time. Rudolf Nureyev danced James.

Bruhn last danced in New York three years ago, shortly before he retired from American Ballet Theatre. He now is resident producer of the National Ballet of Canada.

winning instrumentalist, who have toured extensively throughout North America.

Under the patronage of Her Majesty Queen Julianna of the Netherlands, the Rotterdam Philharmonic will be presented on April 15, 1975. This orchestra is considered the third jewel in Holland's crown of internationally celebrated ensembles. Under the baton of Music Director, Edo de Waart, the one hundred-ten musician strong orchestra has achieved a position of international excellence.

Season ticket orders at $10 for the 1974-75 Artists Series are being taken now through Oct. 24, 1974. All season tickets are in reserved sections. Mail orders will be taken by the East Carolina University Central Ticket Office. For further information, telephone 758-6611.

A SCENE FROM "SAINT JOAN"... Bernard Shaw's play that opens the Student Union Theater Arts 1974-75 season on September 23. Members of the Alpha-Omega Players are presenting the play, and tickets are on sale to the public at $3.00.

Shaw's 'Saint Joan' Coming To ECU

The Student Union Theatre Arts Committee begins its second season on September 23, when it will present the Alpha-Omega Players in George Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan.

Was Joan of Arc truly a saint? Or was she a constant thorn in the side of the state and the church, both of whom finally were forced to consign her to be burned at the stake to regain their own authority. George Bernard Shaw ponders this question in his drama, Saint Joan.

Saint Joan is the stirring story of Joan of Arc's faith and inspiration, and it depicts her career from simple peasant girl to great heights and her death by fire in Rouen.

"Godspell" Auditions

Auditions will be held Tuesday, September 17th and Wednesday, September 18th for East Carolina's Playhouse opening of Godspell.

The tryouts will be in McGiness Auditorium from 7:30 p.m. through 10:30 p.m. Anyone interested is invited.

Persons who want to audition should plan to sing, preferably a song from Godspell. However, any song will do. An accompanist will be provided.

The roles of the men in Joan's history provide added excitement to this unusual evening in the theatre. They are the pompous Squire de Baudricourt, forceful and staunch Captain Dunois, the sympathetic but militant churchman Ladvenue, the childlike Dauphin, and the sincere but sinister Inquisitor.

The production of Saint Joan directed by Drexel H. Riley, will appear in the Mendenhall Student Center Theatre on Monday, September 23 at 8:00 p.m. Tickets for this attraction are on sale in the Central Ticket Office. Tickets are priced at $3.00 for the public.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By JOE STINES

Back to school doesn't mean less emphasis upon juvenile and young adult reading materials at Sheppard Memorial. Among our new young adult books is JACK THE BEAR, a novel by Dan McCall which has been referred to by some critics as the HUCKLEBERRY FINN or CATCHER IN THE RYE for the 1970s. It is the story of Jacky, a wise, irresistible boy who survives against the odds in a hostile adult world. His mother is dead; his father, a natural clown and the "Monster of Ceremonies" on a TV horror show, is preoccupied with booze, dope, and grief. The setting involves a decaying suburb of Oakland, California. Jacky's neighborhood consists of such characters as: Norman, a psychopath who sits in a tree across the street and plots wickedness, Mrs. Mitchell, an elderly alcoholic who crashes one time too many before the story ends, and Jack's father who occasionally, when he feels up to performing, assumes a favorite role such as Marcus Superfluus and staggers around the community roaring, "Eat a kid! Eat a kid!" It is a bad time for his father, but Jacky tries to understand and cope with the situation. Most of the responsibility of taking care of Dylan, his little brother, and of keeping the family together falls to Jack. It's hard, because he also has to cope with routine problems such as girls and sex and growing up. Jacky the Bear and his father love each other in a very special way, and they share a desperate need for laughter in life. They survive the ordeal that ends the story with courage and a smile. "You've got to be kidding," Jacky says near the end of the story. "That's my choice for what they write on my tombstone."

JACK THE BEAR is an unreal book with today's real world in mind. You've got to read JACK THE BEAR if you care about young people growing up today. It's frank, fast and, best of all, presented through the eyes and ears of a teenager.

TEETONCEY by Theodore Taylor is among our new children's books at Sheppard. This exciting adventure has its setting on the outer banks of North Carolina in 1898. It is the story of an eleven-year-old boy, Ben O'Neal, who tries desperately to show the men of his village that he possesses the same courage that his dead father had. Life within Ben's maritime community is rough, and he must learn to accept and deal with the disadvantages as well as the benefits of the sea. He knows only too well the disadvantages — having lost both his father and an older brother to its curling waves. A stormy night and a tragic shipwreck provide the opportunity to prove his courage and to look inward at himself, to view his own desires and feelings. From the sea Ben rescues a young girl who seems half-dead. From where did she come? Who is she? Why can't she speak? Will she remain a human vegetable for the remainder of her life? Ben tries to solve these riddles and find the answers to his own troubling questions in this moving and suspenseful story.

TEETONCEY follows a modern trend in children's literature of treating death in a natural and realistic manner rather than in a supernatural explanation. It also gives a vivid description and historical understanding of North Carolina's outer banks, The Graveyard of the Atlantic. TEETONCEY is guaranteed to capture the imagination of any young reader.

Children's Film Program

Two films will be shown this week in the children's film program in the Greenville City Libraries.

The first is Frederick, a six minute film in color based on Leo Lionni's fable about a field mouse. The title of the second film is not known at this time, however, it will be a longer film than Frederick.

Showing times are: Carver Library, Tuesday 4 p.m., Children's Library (basement of Sheppard Memorial Library), 4 p.m. Thursday, and East Branch Library, Friday 4 p.m.

There is no admission charge and children of Greenville of elementary age are invited to attend.

Long, Cruz Featured On Hospitality House

Two dynamic young men well known for their work with youth in a continuing fight against drugs and crime are guests on Kay Currie's "Hospitality House" today from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. over WITN-Television, Channel 7.

Albert Long and Nicky Cruz are the two who were interviewed by Miss Currie for today's show. Long, a former four letter athlete at the University of North Carolina, has traveled extensively lecturing and demonstrating to young people.

people, speaking on the dangers of drugs.

Also appearing on Kay's show today is Clyde Erwin, president of Wayne County Community College, who shows a collection of seashells. Among these are shells that the Smithsonian Institute have verified as being 20 million years old.

A final feature on "Hospitality House" today is a show of straw and paper flower arrangements presented by Peddler's Village Candle Shop of Rocky Mount.

New Shows At The Mint

An unusual show of photographs, "Leo Touchet: Jazz Funeral Photographs" is now on view in the Round Gallery of the Mint Museum of Art in Charlotte.

A series of 43 photographs cover the classic jazz funeral in three phases—the spectators, the funerals and processions, and the second line.

This exhibit will be on view at the Round Gallery through September 29.

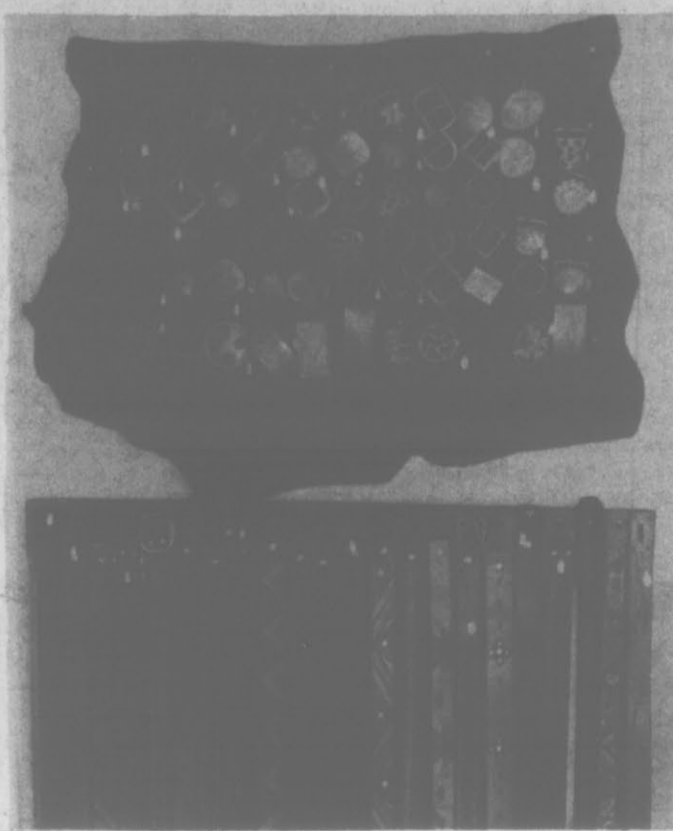

Also showing at the Mint in the Dwelle Gallery, is an exhibit reflecting the drama and splendor of the American Landscape in the 19th century. Thirty paintings constitute this show.

Among artists featured are Frederic E. Church, George Inness, Thomas Moran, Jasper Cropsey and Bierstadt. Through October 15.

A third exhibit, in the museum foyer, is from a private collection of 18th and 17th century Dutch paintings. Sixteen works range in subject from religion to portraiture, with early years represented by a Quinten Massys painting.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to visit the Mint to see the exhibits now on view.

New Shop Dresses Up Old Area

BELTS AND BUCKLES... at Easy Leather Shop

The Easy Street Leather Shop at 1016 Myrtle is one more good thing in a surge of clean-up and renovation underway in what was formerly a much run down section of town.

Max Whitley and Kathy Connell, assisted by Tommy (T. Z.) Keene, have joined forces in this new venture of a craft-art shop away from the downtown area. Kathy is general manager. All three are contributing their own creations to the items stocked in the attractive shop at the corner of Myrtle and Spruce Streets.

"It's pleasant here," Max said, "peaceful and quiet and away from the rush. We're glad to be part of the new development in this area. If you look around, you'll see the area is really being upgraded. Lots of students are also moving into this area."

And indeed it is looking better in that part of town.

Tottering wooden sheds, big piles of junk and garbage that a year ago marred the scene are now gone. Lush high grass is neatly mowed.

The inventory of Easy Street Leather, Etc. is all hand-made, all created by the three except for belt buckles. "These come from California craftsmen," Max said, "and are hand-cast solid brass."

Leather shoulder bags, large and small, some fitted with snaps to make them adaptable as bicycle bags; solid pottery pots and vases; simple and intricate watch and wrist bands and men's belts form the bulk of the handsome items offered for sale.

"Right now we're featuring Indian designs in pottery and leather," Kathy said. "Most are designs adapted to contemporary crafts, and each piece is one of a kind."

Max and Kathy are both graduates of East Carolina University. Max majored in geography. "But I've been working with leather for ten years now, so I feel my real interest is in this work." Kathy was an art major.

"Pottery is my first love," she said, "though I like to work in other fields too."

Emily Farnham Unveils Recent Paintings

We're all aware that for a long time Emily Farnham's creative time was taken up with work on a splendid biography of a moody gifted artist (Charles DeMuth—Behind A Laughing Mask, published in 1971).

Now, with the demands of research and publication behind, the long-time instructor at the School of Art,

East Carolina University has unveiled her return to the world of visual art. It's a relief to see the artist represented by something other than the hard-edged footlocker construction which had faithfully made its appearance at a number of faculty group shows during windup days on her book.

At the Mushroom Gallery

downtown Greenville (through September) Dr. Farnham is showing a collection of 18 works. The earliest dates from 1952, there's three or four dated in the 60s. Several are hardly dry—new paintings from the summer of 1974.

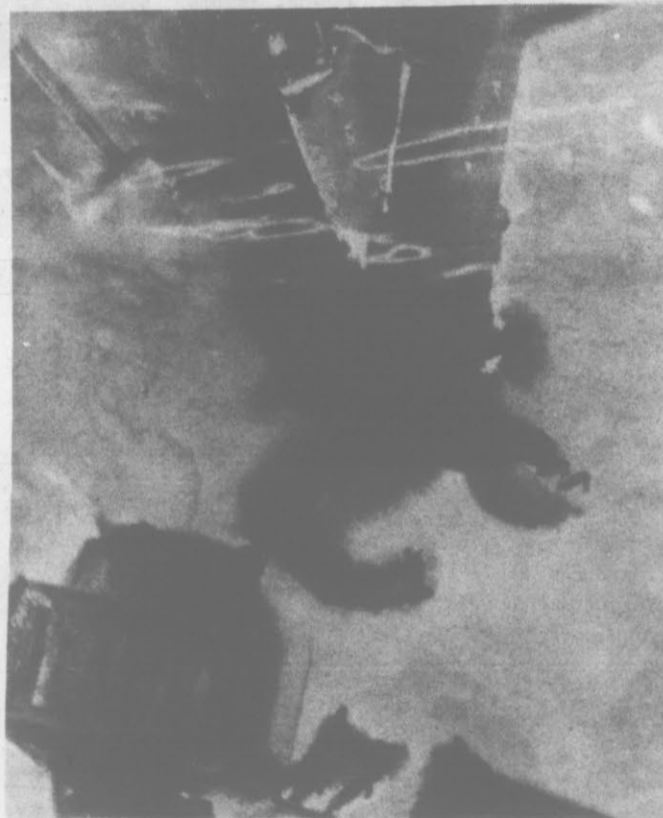

Clouds are the theme of Dr. Farnham's new paintings, heavy, summer clouds, abstracted in bold washes. One series, the latest, are entitled "Clouds Over North Carolina" and some are dated August 1974.

Recalling those recent weeks of daily clouds that covered the Tar Heel landscape, she could not have chosen a more appropriate time to turn her attention to moisture laden clouds—dash of red. Most of the new surely she was never in want of a ready model to choose from.

Blues, grays and black-grays are colors that predominate in these paintings—with an occasional painting are watercolors, a few are watercolor collages. The latter I find more satisfying, the pasted in bits breaking up the almost ominous stretches of lowering cloudscapes.

Dr. Farnham's use of geometric patterns within the restrictive medium of watercolor is an interesting facet of her new work.

This first show at the Mushroom of the new 1974-75 season is a good beginner for a promising year of art shows ahead at the Mushroom gallery. Jerry Raynor

College Prexy Tried Moonlighting As Garbageman

By MARK HELMS
HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI) — One hot day this summer in Rockville, Md., a tall, attractive man, dressed in the work clothes he was using as a garbage collector, knocked on the door of a home and asked for some ice water.

"The woman said 'no' and closed the door," Haverford College President Dr. John R. Coleman recalled.

"Another just stripped me naked with her eyes and said there was no way she would let me in her house," Coleman said during an interview in his modestly furnished office on the Haverford campus on the suburban Philadelphia Main Line.

importance as a college president," he said. "You're accorded an awful lot of respect whether you are a good college president or a bad one."

"It's exactly the opposite on the garbage job. They don't care whether you're a good garbageman or a bad one. There's a certain amount of abuse and contempt that goes with it."

Coleman added, "When I came back here I felt refreshed, just very, very refreshed. I came back all charged up even though I had put forth a tremendous amount of physical effort. A whole lot of things were cleared out of my head. I had a new perspective on things."

Coleman drew national attention in 1973 when he started the unusual "moonlighting" recounted in his book, "Blue Collar Journal," now in its fourth printing.

In the book, Coleman tells how he was afraid looking for the jobs, since he had not told anyone what he really did for a living and all he had to offer was that he could start immediately.

"I only knew I had a compulsion to prove myself," Coleman said. "I needed to have somebody, somewhere say, 'Yes, we want you.' Any pride I had in the job I do as president or anything I did before didn't mean a thing then. I still had to prove myself in that environment without any of the trappings I have back here."

Coleman, a labor economist who has written several books on that subject, started in Atlanta in the summer of 1973 as a ditchdigger.

His next job was in Boston where he worked two hours as a dishwasher before being fired, an incident that still irritates him since his employer never told him why he was dismissed.

The college president, jobless and despondent about being fired, stayed in Boston and eventually worked as a sandwich and salad man in a restaurant there.

"Now, when I eat out I have to look at every club sandwich somebody orders to inspect it," he said.

He spent the remaining two weeks of the 1973 sabbatical as a garbageman in College Park, Md.

Coleman would only stay on each job for about two weeks because he had to attend the regular meetings of the Federal Reserve Bank in Philadelphia.

Coleman said he worked at the jobs because of "what I thought was the growing dramatic split between blue collar workers and intellectuals."

He said he supports the idea of people exchanging roles for a certain period of time but admits there would have to be certain exceptions.

He said a 26-year-old laborer from California wanted to be president of Haverford for two weeks after reading his book.

Coleman reasoned that such a switch wouldn't be practical because while he could dig a ditch without doing damage, the ditchdigger as college president might make a mistake that would have profound future effect on the school. idea of exchanging roles wouldn't work, but I wish it 'be a logical reason why the weren't so."

For the past two summers, Coleman, 55, a somewhat shy, but friendly man who is also chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank in Philadelphia, worked as a ditchdigger, dishwasher, salad and sandwich man in a restaurant and finally as a garbage collector.

This was the second summer that Coleman worked as a garbage collector, the job he liked best mainly because of the physical exercise and because it was outdoors. It was also the job which had the most obvious impact on Coleman.

Rose Mistakes Key 28-27 Bear Victory

MAN ON THE MOVE—Rose High School's Doug Paschal seems surrounded by New Bern defenders as he picks up ground to set up the first Rose touchdown last night. Paschal picked up 143 yards during the game, as Rose dominated the contest, but lost, 28-27. Identifiable Bears are Cesar Augustus (32) and Ned Armstrong (84). (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
The New Bern Bears took advantage of Rose High School mistakes to squeeze their way to a 28-27 victory over the Rampants Friday night. The win left New Bern with a perfect 3-0 mark, while the Rampants fell to 2-1.

Rose, after coming from behind twice in the first half, took the lead just before the end of the period, 15-14, they stretched that to 21-14 early in the third period, but there the troubles began.

Dennis Stilley ran the following kickoff back 78 yards for the tying touchdown. Rose then fumbled the next kickoff and New Bern recovered it.

William Booth scored two of the Bear touchdowns, on runs of one and 11 yards. The other came on a two yard plunge by Kelvin McRavin. Bryan Smith, who has had trouble in earlier games, kicked four of four extra points, and that was the difference.

Trick Play Beats Terps

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Third-ranked Alabama took a 14-0 lead on touchdown runs of seven and 73 yards by Calvin Culliver, but needed a trick fourth-down play and two turnovers in the final quarter to hold off 14-ranked Maryland 21-16 in a football opener Saturday.

drive, and Carter scored after a 22-yard run by quarterback Ben Kinard.

Alabama gained much of its first-half yardage up the middle, and then switched to the wide-running plays after Maryland made adjustments at intermission.

Todd, a junior quarterback, gained 64 yards on the ground and completed five of eight passes for 61 yards.

Rose, meanwhile, got two touchdowns out of Andrew Newton, on runs of 24 and two yards. Tommy Joe Payne pulled in another on a 37-yard pass from halfback Lindberg Morris, while Max Joyner scored the other after scooping up a Newton fumble at the five. Jeff Hagans kicked one of two extra point tries, while Doug Paschal ran in one two-pointer.

While the Rampant mistakes opened the door for the Bears, Rose dominated the statistical chart. They had 10 more first downs, 18-8, and picked up a total of 342 yards in total offense, while New Bern got only 182 yards.

chout, then pumped off a pass to Payne, who made an excellent catch and raced into the end zone to cut the score to 14-13.

Rally Lifts Nicklaus Into Tie With Miller

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus, once five strokes behind, scrambled back with a wildly erratic 70 and tied Johnny Miller for the third-round lead Saturday in the $300,000 World Open Golf Tournament.

Each matched par 71 in the hot, muggy weather.

The group at 212 included Bob Murphy, Gene Littler, Frank Beard and another Australian, David Graham. Murphy and Littler had 73s in the generally high scoring, Graham 74 and Beard a 75.

PGA champion Lee Trevino had a 73 and appeared to be out of contention at 214, five shots back going into Sunday's final round for the biggest prize in golf this year, $60,000.

Homers Pace Yankee Win

DETROIT (AP)—Bobby Murcer hit a two-run homer in the four-run seventh inning and the New York Yankees, aided by three other homers, pounded the Detroit Tigers 10-7 Saturday.

Miller, meanwhile, blew 10 strokes higher than his fantastic round of 63 in Friday's second round. He went to a 73 and was dropped back into a share of the lead at 209, only four-under-par.

Miller, the winner of six tournaments and more than $250,000 already this season, and Nicklaus were paired in the final group and it quickly developed into a head-to-head duel.

Jack bogeyed three of his first five holes—"I just couldn't seem to get into the round"—and Miller had a five-stroke advantage over the man he figured he had to beat.

After Murcer flied out, Piniella clubbed a bases-empty homer. Thurman Munson was thrown out by Ed Brinkman before Graig Nettles smashed his 18th homer, giving the Yankees a 4-0 lead and sending Tiger starter Mickey Lolich to the showers.

After Murcer unlocked the tie with his homer, the Yankees added two more runs on Bill Sudakis' RBI single and a passed ball.

The Tigers scored their last run in the ninth on Ben Oglivie's RBI bouncer off relief pitcher Sparky Lyle.

North Lenoir Eases Past Panthers

TRYING TO GET OUTSIDE—North Pitt running back James Carr (23) tries to get outside Wynn (74) behind an unidentified Panther blocker and the other members of the North Lenoir defense in last Friday night's game at North Pitt. The Hawks beat North Pitt, 18-0. (Reflector photo by Craig Faulkner)

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL—North Lenoir scored on a 50 yard pass play with just 51 seconds to go in the first half and then later added two second half touchdowns as the Hawks fought to an 18-0 win over the Panthers of North Pitt, Friday night.

The two teams had traded blows through the first half but neither had broken the ice until Craig Walton hit Jeff Jones with a pass over the middle for six points.

In the third quarter, Walton again found Jones open on a similar play and the Hawks had another six. Charles McPhail added the final score for North Lenoir with just over a minute left in the game going over from 31 yards out.

Neither team had a good statistical game. North Lenoir ground out just under 100 yards: 99 rushing and added 105 passing. North Pitt had six first downs to nine for the Hawks.

All the Panther rushing yardage was picked up in the second half, even though they were in Hawk territory on only one play. The Hawks were on the Panther side of the field on all but three plays. North Pitt only had two sustained drives during the game; one in each half.

The Panther defense did not look all that weak. Only on the three scoring plays were they caught flatfooted letting the Hawks slip past the secondary for TD's. North Pitt found holes in the Hawk line for medium-sized gains but several losses set them back and ended any potential drives.

North Lenoir took the opening kickoff and drove 22 yards before grinding to a stop on the North Pitt 36. Behind the running of Marion Barnes the Panthers moved to the Hawk 46 before they had to give up the ball.

Neither team took control for any type of sustained drive. Both defenses refused to yield much ground. Near the end of the second quarter, North Pitt had to punt the ball back to the Hawks. North Lenoir got the ball at midfield and on the first play, Jones slipped through the Panther backfield on a post pattern, hauled in the Walton pass and out-ran the Panthers 51 yards to score. The extra point run failed.

North Pitt could not get started on their first possession of the second half and turned the ball back to North Lenoir. From the Panther 49, the Hawks used four plays to get to the 33 and a first down. Three short gains got another first down and a sweep by McPhail put the ball inside the Panther 10 at the seven.

The drive ended there as the Panthers pounced on a Styron Wood fumble preventing a possible score.

It did not take the Hawks long to get it, however, after getting the ball back on a punt, Walton threw to Jones for a second score to put the Hawks up by 12-0, as the play covered 43 yards.

After that both teams went back to the see-saw play of the first half. Only late in the fourth period, did North Pitt get out of their own territory moving the ball to the Hawk 48. A loss of two yards on fourth down turned the ball back over to the Hawks.

With 1:09 left to play, North Lenoir used a Panther penalty to set up its final score, a 32 yard sprint by McPhail. The conversion attempt was not good. The Panthers drove to the North Lenoir 32 in the final seconds getting a break on a 28 yard pass from Donnie Perkins to Jackie Best and a 15 yard face-mask penalty. The time ran out ending the game.

Conley Tops Aycock, 14-0

PIKEVILLE—D. H. Conley overwhelmed the Falcons of C.B. Aycock, Friday night, limiting the Falcons to only 43 yards total offense while taking a 14-0 victory, the first for the Vikings in the conference.

The Vikings are now 1-1 in the Eastern Carolina loop. They lost last week to Southern Wayne, 53-18 winners over Ayden-Grifton, Conley's opponent this week.

Conley rolled up 150 yards rushing with Calvin Clemons getting almost half of that rushing for 73 yards on 10 carries. Keith Gould was the leading Viking receiver catching five of the six Conley completions for 47 yards.

Conley opened the scoring in the second quarter with a 15 yard pass from quarterback Joey Baggett to Edward Clemons and Baggett's kick made it 7-0. Later in the frame, Conley scored again with Curtis Clemons diving over from the three. Baggett again added the extra point.

Coach Chuck Dunn called the game a "complete reversal of last week." He praised the play of the defensive line made up of Ben Layton, Lionel Streeter, Lorenzo Carmon, Lennox Green, Nuggie Worthington and Barry Purser. The defense picked off five Falcon passes, Calvin Clemons pulling down two.

"Their offense never crossed midfield," said Dunn, "We stayed in their territory all night."

Friday night, Conley hosts Ayden-Grifton which will still be smarting from Friday's loss to Southern Wayne.

Jaguars Down Eastern Wayne

DUDLEY—Farmville Central rebounded off last week's loss to Rose High and pushed over two second period touchdowns enabling them to blank the Warriors of Eastern Wayne, 13-0.

Neither team was able to get anything going. Then in the second quarter, the Jaguars got a break when Walter Gorham recovered a Warrior fumble in Eastern Wayne territory and less than a minute later, Greg Joyner threw eight yards to Ricky Shreve for the score. Tony Oakley added the extra point.

In the same period, Gorham recovered a second fumble with 1:01 left in the half. This time Gorham took in the bouncing ball, himself, going 34 yards for the TD.

Saints Trample Chargers

DUDLEY—Southern Wayne High School not only established itself as the favorite in the Eastern Carolina Conference Saturday night. The Saints struck fear into the hearts of the rest of the league.

The reason for this was an astounding 53-18 manhandling of defending league champion Ayden-Grifton, which had flexed its muscles the week before in a rout of Kinston, a 4-A school.

Ken Mack, whom opponents are probably starting to call a Mack truck, played a key role in the rout, carrying the ball 23 times for 227 yards in the game. He scored four of the Southern touchdowns, and added four two-point PAT conversions.

Ayden-Grifton was able to move the ball against the Saints, but couldn't stop them from moving it a great deal more. Ayden-Grifton had 300 yards in total offense, while Southern rolled up 422.

Southern started the scoring in the first period, putting up one touchdown on a 32-yard romp by Mack. He also added the conversion for an 8-0 lead.

Ayden-Grifton came back in the quarter with their own touchdown. That came on a two-yard run by Ned Craft. But the run for the conversion failed, and the Chargers accepted an 8-6 deficit at the end of the period.

But then the Saints went marching in. They pushed over four touchdowns in the second period to put the game on ice. Craig Clark got the first, on a seven yard run, and Mack ran over the conversion.

Mack followed with another score, this one from four out, and again got the two-pointer. Danny Coghill hauled in a 51-yard pass from Ron Pelletier, with Mack again getting the conversion.

The Saints finished off the half with a 51-yard interception return by Dannie McLean, and Anthony Williams ran over the next conversion giving them a 40-6 lead at the half.

Both teams picked up scores in the third and fourth quarters. Southern scored first on a 14-yard run by Mack, and Pelletier kicked the PAT.

Ayden-Grifton came back with its second score, as Twendie Simpson went in from the three. The other Charger score also was by Simpson, this time from 11 yards away. On both occasions, a run for the PAT failed.

Between the two Charger scores, Mack finished up the evening with his fourth touchdown, a 58-yard run. Southern also failed on its conversion try, a kick.

Ayden-Grifton returns to action Friday, traveling to D. H. Conley.

High Hopes For Losers In Opening NFL Games

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The Houston Oilers and the San Diego Chargers, teams that combined for a total of only three victories last season, have high hopes heading into their National Football League opener Sunday in the Astro-dome.

"We've worked hard and this team has a great deal of spirit despite what has happened to distract us from football," said Houston defensive end Elvin Bethea, referring to the prolonged players' strike.

The Chargers, under new head coach Tommy Prothro, also say they mean business.

"We don't intend to be the laughing stock of the league this year," said wide receiver Jerry LeVias. "I don't think the Oilers do either. The Oilers aren't going to be a soft touch any more than we are."

Oakland visits Buffalo in the Monday night game. Both Houston and San Diego will be opening with relatively inexperienced quarterbacks. Lynn Dickey starts in place of the injured Dan Pastorini for the Oilers while second-year man Dan Fouts opens for the Chargers.

The Dolphins, in pursuit of an unprecedented third straight Super Bowl title, could be without middle linebacker Nick Buoniconti and running back Mercury Morris, both slowed by injuries. The Patriots are coming off a 4-2 preseason, their most wins since 1960.

The Vikings, Super Bowl runners-up, are seeking their sixth division crown in seven years.

Dallas, heading for its ninth straight trip to the playoffs, has beaten Atlanta in all four previous meetings. Falcon Coach Norm Van Brocklin is 0-for-5 against the Cowboys.

Pittsburgh, the league's only unbeaten team in the pre-season, will be going with Joe Gilliam at quarterback. The Colts are expected to start a pair of rookies at defensive end, John Dutton and Fred Cook.

Washington Coach George Allen, who has never lost an opener in eight tries, will have Larry Brown at one running back position and either Duane Thomas or Larry Smith at the other. The Giants, under new coach Bill Arnsparger, have a rebuilt club but may be without the services of injured running back Ron Johnson.

New Coach Charley Winner is expected to have Joe Namath, suffering with a bruised hip, in the starting lineup for the Jets.

Philadelphia, bolstered by the addition of middle linebacker Bill Bergey, will have Roman Gabriel engaging in an aerial duel with Jim Hart of the Cardinals.

Greene Central Stops Firebirds

SPRINGHOPE—Greene Central scored twice in the second quarter and held off Southern Nash to take a 13-6 victory the second of the season for the Rams.

Greene Central rolled up 217 yards rushing and added 98 passing.

After a scoreless first period, the Rams broke the ice when Anthony Corbett scored on a 14 yard run and Jerry Carraway added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

A few minutes later, Linwood

Underhill scored on a 10-yard run for a 13-0 lead.

Southern Nash scored its only touchdown in the second quarter on a 40 yard run by Melvin Crawley. The kick for the PAT was not good.

South Edgecombe Downs Jamesville

JAMESVILLE—South Edgecombe High School lead by running back Bill Cotton, rolled to a 20-2 victory over Jamesville High School Friday night.

It was the third loss of the year for the Bullets, in as many games.

The two played to a scoreless deadlock through one period, but Cotton broke the ice in the second frame with a 10-yard run that put South Edgecombe ahead, 6-0.

He came back in the third period with two more touchdowns, one of 26 yards, and the other of a yard, to run the score out to 20-0 following a two-point conversion.

The lone Jamesville points came in the final period of play. The Bullets had finally got a drive mounted and drove down to the South Edgecombe 10 before turning it over on a fumble.

Jamesville sacked South for a six-yard loss on the first play, then Ronnie Padgett broke through to tackle the Edgecombe quarterback in the end zone on the next play, giving Jamesville its two points.

"We are just having the same problems that have bothered us all year," Coach Linc Page said. "We can't get the offense going. We run three good plays, then break down. It's just that we can't get our execution in order."

The Bullets will play host to Creweell next Friday, seeking their first victory of the year.

Tigers Trip Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE—Behind the rushing of Kenneth Speller and Neno Lloyd, the Williamston Tigers battled to a 19-0 win over cross-county rival, Robersonville Friday night.

Speller rushed for 108 yards on 16 carries and Lloyd rolled up 90 in six carries. Each scored a touchdown. Paul Scott added 68 yards on nine runs.

Williamston first threatened in the first period as they drove to the Robersonville nine. A fumble ended the Tiger bid.

Then in the second quarter, Williamston broke through as Phil Selby capped a 61 yard drive with a one yard plunge to put the Tigers on top by 6-0. The drive had started at the Williamston 39 and had been helped out by an 18 yard pass from Selby to Eric Goddard. Williamston made it 12-0 as the Tigers scored on the fourth play of the third quarter as Lloyd raced 61 yards for a Tiger TD. Williamston had taken over on their 26 and four plays later Lloyd broke loose.

In the last period, Speller scored from the three ending a 58 yard drive which saw Speller pick up a 23 yard gain and Scott a 16 yard pickup.

Williamston drove to the nine in the third quarter but another fumble stalled the drive.

Robersonville's only threat ended at the Tiger 35 on an interception just before the first half ended.

Rangers Hanging On As Oakland Falls, 3-1

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Rangers as pennant contenders? It sounds strange, but consider this: except for the world champion Oakland A's, the Rangers have the best record in the American League.

Friday night's 3-1 victory over Oakland boosted Texas' record to 78-68—10 games over the .500 mark and one-half game better than the New York Yankees, who are in first place in the American League East.

What's more, the victory behind the seven-hit, 10-strikeout pitching of Ferguson Jenkins lifted the Rangers to within five games of the front-running Oakland A's, who seemed to have the AL West all to themselves a while ago.

Elsewhere in the American League, Detroit beat New York

6-3, Milwaukee tripped Boston 8-5 in 10 innings, Minnesota edged Kansas City 6-5 in 10 innings, Chicago swept California 8-0 and 3-1 and Baltimore beat Cleveland 3-2 in the opener and was leading 8-6 when their second game was halted by curfew.

Jenkins has been a mainstay of the Rangers' staff. Friday night he outdueled Oakland's Catfish Hunter to raise his record to 23-11 and tie Hunter, also 23-11, for most victories in the majors.

Orioles 3-8, Indians 2-6
Paul Blair's two-run homer and Boog Powell's solo shot, the 300th home run of his career, powered the Orioles to victory in the opener. Mike Cuellar, 19-10, scattered six hits for the victory.

The second game was a rain-delayed affair which was suspended after eight innings by the AL curfew which forbids any inning from starting after 1 a.m. local time. It will be resumed from the point of suspension before tonight's regularly scheduled game.

Tigers 6, Yankees 3
Ben Oglivie drove in four runs, three of them on a fifth-inning homerun, to lead the last-place Tigers to their 11th victory in 16 games against the Yankees, the front-runners in the AL East. The loss cut New York's lead to 1½ games over Boston.

Red Sox 8, Brewers 5
Rico Petrocelli smacked a tie-breaking double and Bob Montgomery delivered a two-run single in the 10th inning for the Red Sox' victory.

Darrell Evans led off the 10th with a single and Petrocelli doubled to left, scoring Evans. Mario Guerrero singled, Petrocelli stopping at third and Guerrero taking second on the throw to home plate, then Montgomery came through with his single to left.

White Sox 4-3, Angels 0-1
Jim Kaat shut out California on four hits in the opener and Bart Johnson and Terry Forster combined on a seven-hitter in the nightcap.

Twins 6, Royals 5
Rod Carew's leadoff home run in the 10th inning gave the Twins a 6-5 victory. It was his third home run of the season.

Record Number Of NFL Rookies

By The Associated Press
The National Football League opens its season Sunday with a record number of new faces and a lot of changes among the old ones.

As a result of the prolonged players' strike, some 272 rookies had earned positions on the NFL's 26 teams as of Friday afternoon. The previous high was 265, following the last NFL strike.

Last year, 168 rookies were on NFL rosters at the start of the season.

Atlanta leads the league in rookies with 17, followed by Baltimore and the New York Giants with 16 each. Washington has the least, three, and two of them are veterans of the Canadian Football League.

They don't keep records on how often player representatives are traded but if they did, this could be a record year for that too. All four officers of the Player's Association have been let go by their respective clubs and seven player representatives have been shuffled around — two of them placed on the injured reserve list, two placed on waivers and three traded away.

Association President Bill Curry was waived by Houston and claimed by Los Angeles. Vice president Kermit Alexander was cut by Philadelphia and hasn't been claimed, and Tom Keating, the other vice president, was traded from Pittsburgh to Kansas City. Secretary-treasurer John Wilbur was waived by Washington and hasn't been picked up by anyone.

Green Bay placed Ken Bowman on the injured list, even though Bowman says he's not injured, and Baltimore did the same to Rex Kern. Del Williams of New Orleans and Charlie Evans of the New York Giants were both waived. Williams has since retired.

And Frank Pitts, Ken Reaves and Mac Percival have all been traded.

Club officials say their union activities had nothing to do with the moves but union supporters have their doubts.

Two other player reps—Minnesota's Alan Page and Denver's Jim Turner—have resigned to concentrate on football.

Hammer Is Axed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Hammer" has apparently gotten the ax.

Fred "The Hammer" Williamson has been fired from his job as a commentator on ABC's Monday night pro football telecasts, industry sources said Friday.

Williamson, on location in nearby San Pedro filming "The Rookies," could not be reached for comment.

In an interview with the St. Petersburg Times last week, Williamson said: "It's obvious to everyone that there are problems, but the fault is not mine."

"It's Howard Cosell's. He's avoided me on all three games we've done... just let my lines die," Williamson said.

The usually garrulous Cosell was also unavailable for comment.

After playing pro ball 10 years, Williamson switched to a movie career, acting mostly in black-oriented action films.

St. Petersburg Times Sports Editor Hubert Mizell first revealed the dismissal in a copyrighted story for today's editions.

Surgery For John

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On July 17, Tommy John felt something snap in his left elbow but he kept insisting that he'd be back pitching for the Los Angeles Dodgers before the end of the season.

Friday it was learned that John will undergo surgery, probably in about a week, to repair the ruptured ligament that sidelined him with a 13-3 record just before the All-Star break.

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sparky Anderson plays it cool when asked about his Cincinnati Reds and their crucial series against the Los Angeles Dodgers, but he hotly maintains his shortstop, Dave Concepcion, is the best in baseball.

"No doubt in my mind that he is the best at his position," Anderson said, after the 6-foot-2 stringbean played the major role in turning back Los Angeles 6-3 in the opener of their all-important three-game series.

In the other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 in 17 innings; the Montreal Expos nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2; the Houston Astros edged the San Francisco Giants 5-4; the Atlanta Braves routed the San Diego Padres 9-0 and the New York Mets beat the Chicago Cubs 6-0 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 4-3 in 11 innings.

"Who can do what he can do? Nobody," said Anderson.

Anderson's soliloquy, with newsmen listening in, came after Concepcion walked, stole two bases and scored in the fourth inning and then belted a three-run homer into the Dodgers' bullpen in the eighth.

The Dodgers had a crowd of 52,337 on hand for the opener. They have sellout crowds coming up today and Sunday.

Concepcion's work, augmenting the pitching of ex-Dodger Jack Billingham, cut the Los Angeles lead in the West to 2½ games.

Manager Walter Alston of the losing Dodgers had two pluses going into the second game. First, center fielder and star hitter Jimmy Wynn probably will be able to play after sitting out three games because of the flu.

Second, relief pitcher Jim Brewer, out since July 14, returned to action with a perfect ninth inning Friday night.

Tony Perez put the Reds ahead in the second inning with his 26th homer of the year, this time at the expense of starter Doug Rau. In the last half of the inning, Ron Cey evened the score with his 17th season home run with a blast off Billingham.

Dan Driessen's triple in the third set up the Reds' go-ahead run as he scored on an infield out. Then, in the fourth Concepcion walked, stole second and then third before scoring on Cesar Geronimo's single.

Joe Ferguson singled for the Dodgers with one out in the fifth, advanced on an infield out and then scored on newcomer Charlie Manuel's single. The Dodgers scored again in the eighth, but that was after Concepcion had hit his three-run homer.

Anderson named Don Gullett (16-10) to pitch tonight against Geoff Zahn (3-4) of the Dodgers. That leaves the finale on Sunday up to Fred Norman (11-11) for Cincinnati and Don Sutton (15-9) for Los Angeles.

Cardinals 7, Phillies 3
Bake McBride singled home one run and later scored another as St. Louis rallied for five runs in a rain-delayed 17th inning to beat Philadelphia.

The marathon game broke a National League record for most players used, 51. The old record of 50 was set just last Wednesday when the Cardinals went 25 innings with the New York Mets.

In addition, the Phillies used 27 players to break the single club record set by the Cards against the Mets.

The Cardinals moved within a half-game of the division-leading Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East. The Pirates were beaten earlier 3-2 by the Montreal Expos.

Singles by Ted Simmons, Keith Hernandez and McBride gave the Cardinals their go-ahead run against the Phillies.

A bases-loaded walk to Luis Melendez scored the Cardinals' second run of the rally and Jerry Davanon then knocked in McBride with a sacrifice fly.

Lou Brock hit another sacrifice fly and Ted Sizemore then singled in the Cardinals' fifth run of the inning.

ENGLISH TUDOR DESIGNED FOR FAMILY LIVING

"BUCKINGHAM" BLENDS TRADITIONAL STYLING WITH SPACIOUS DESIGN.

By Gerry Bishop

This English Tudor design is planned for the family. No small kitchens or cramped rooms have been allowed to creep into the roomy living areas of the "Buckingham".

A large foyer gives promise of spacious rooms, and the two coat closets in the center hall are designed to hold coats of even the largest of families. The living room is reached through the foyer, to avoid cross traffic, but is also open into the family room, creating ideal conditions for informal entertaining of large groups of friends.

The family room, even larger than the 15' by 13' living room, features a wood-burning fireplace and sliding glass doors onto a massive patio. A third closet is provided in this area.

The kitchen, opening either from the dining room or the center hall, includes a built-in dishwasher and is designed for multiple-cook preparation. A hall from the kitchen area leads to a half bath and utility area. A fourth downstairs closet is housed in the utility area, along with washer and dryer.

The second floor of the "Buckingham" follows the center hall design, with four bedrooms providing secluded sleeping space. The master bedroom has two closets and a full bath, while the second bathroom is extended to include a linen closet and double vanity.

A double garage and full basement complete the family plan of the "Buckingham."

Size: 1,220 sq. ft. first floor; 1,064 sq. ft. second floor; 1,064 sq. ft. basement; 576 sq. ft. garage. Over-all dimensions: 74 ft. by 28 ft.

Home owners discovered during the energy crisis the psychological and physical warmth of fireplaces they hadn't used in years.

Soaring sales this year show that, crisis or no crisis, interest in fireplaces has increased rather than waned. But the planning and placement of your fireplace must be carefully considered. Once the hole is made in the roof for the flue of a wood-burning or gas fireplace, the hearth fire is part of the room and your home.

The following checklist will aid in the planning:

Where will it be located? Living rooms and family room are traditional sites, but today's manufactured units are easily installed in bedrooms, dining rooms and even kitchens. Decide where the family does most of its relaxing.

How large should the fireplace be? As a rough guide, a room 25 feet long and 12 feet wide, with an 8-foot ceiling, should have a fireplace opening that is 30 to 36 inches in width.

What style is best for a room? A fireplace can dominate or blend into the over-all decor. The traditional stove or brick fireplace will remain the preferred type when money isn't tight. For millions of others, manufactured fireplaces are the answer.

How practical are the built-in or free-standing prefabricated units? The built-in, wood-burning or gas-fired models come with an assembled firebox and insulated flue sections which interconnect with prefabricated metal ceiling housing. The unit is boxed in, then faced with brick, tile or paneling. The free-standing fireplaces are designed to use less space and thus are more flexible for small rooms.

What about insulation of a factory-built fireplace? The all-steel unit requires neither masonry walls nor supporting foundation. Since most prebuilt units have multiwall construction, no insulation is needed. However, free-standing units must rest on a noncombustible floor covering, such as stone or brick.

How much heat will a fireplace provide? It depends on the type of fireplace, its placement in a room, the quality of the damper installation and many other variables. A free-standing unit will radiate more heat than a wall-hung or built-in unit. The latter types will usually disperse into the room about 10 per cent of the heat built up in the firebox, but quality damper controls can increase that figure.

What about costs? According to the Fireplace Institute, a masonry fireplace will cost about $1,100 installed. The prefabricated units range in price from $250 to $660 installed.

(Data on 35 do-it-yourself problems are given in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Q. — You recently gave someone advice on the difficulty of repairing a badly damaged section of a plastic laminated surface. About 10 years ago, I faced the same problem. After vainly trying to repair the damaged area, I hit upon this solution. I routed out the damaged section to the necessary depth and area and set in a piece of ceramic tile. I put in a piece 16 inches square in a pattern which harmonized with the counter top. It not only looks good, but my wife uses the ceramic areas as a kind of pot holder. To do the job, I used a router, a sharp utility knife, two wood chisels and the usual pencil-square-measuring tape collection.

A. — Thanks for the information.

Q. — I want to buy a workbench. What kind can I buy that won't cost too much?

A. — I don't know how to answer that, since there are many variables connected with the cost of a workbench, the most important of which are the type of wood and the solidity of the construction. A good workbench usually has a hardwood top, but here is something that I did many years ago that saved money. I bought a piece of tempered hardboard, cut it to the size of the wood top and attached it with four screws in the corners. My intention was to change the hardboard top every couple of years or so when it got battered, but the material was so tough that, aside from a few scratches, it never did have to be replaced.

Q. — Can I apply varnish to a dining room table top which already has varnish on it without removing the old finish?

A. — Yes. Sand down the old finish, not only to smooth it, but to remove any gloss that still remains. Wipe clean with turpentine to remove any grit that might be on the surface. Varnish in the usual way.

SOME BENEFITS OF AGE

If you want more house for your dollar, you will have good cause to look over older houses. But there are other good reasons for shopping the old ones too.

For one thing, there are simply more old houses than new ones. For every new house that will go up this year there are some 45 existing homes already on the market.

Many older homes, especially those built before World War II, offer more abundant space than new homes do — a special attraction if you have a large and growing family, but a limited budget.

Most old homes are in well-established, well-developed neighborhoods. There will be no waiting for streets to be paved, sewers to be connected or schools to be built. All that is going to grace the neighborhood is probably already there, so that worrying about the future will have been done for you already.

If there is anything, we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at LOUIS CLARK AGENCY, 315 Evans Street, Greenville. Phone: 752-4173. We're here to help!

MARKET HITS 12-YEAR LOW - The Dow Jones industrial average closed at 627.19 Friday, down 50.69 from the week prior. The Associated Press average closed at 195.6, marking a decrease of 16.2 over the same period. The market fell steadily during the last six sessions, with inflation worries keeping buyers away. The indicators lost much of their strength and the Dow Jones industrial average ended the week at its lowest point in 12 years. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Business Notes

DINNER HELD
Approximately 75 persons, including owners and managers of the Foodland and Clover Farm Group Retail Food Stores, and their wives were guests of Ormond Wholesale Co. at a dinner recently in the Greenville.

During the evening, John Langley, who retired earlier this year from Ormond Wholesale, was presented an engraved plaque in recognition of his work as vice president of sales and as division manager for Foodland and Clover Farm Group Stores. H. L. Ormond Jr. made the plaque presentation.

Billy Elks, director of sales for Ormond Wholesale, served as master of ceremonies during the evening and introduced guest speakers Miss Muriel Gallagher of E. J. Brach & Sons Candy Co. and George Gaines of Merico Inc.

Special guests for the evening were H. L. Ormond Sr., founder of the company, and Mrs. Ormond.

QUARTERLY DIVIDEND
The board of directors of Wilson Freight Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, declared a quarterly dividend of eight cents per share on the common stock of the company, payable Oct. 3 to shareholders of record at the close of business on Sept. 19.

The dividend, the 35th consecutive payment declared by the company, represents a 14.3 per cent increase in the rate of the quarterly dividend over the second quarter of 1974.

NEW POSITION
The appointment of Mrs. Aldine Knox to the position of group leader, Key Punch Section, Data Processing Department, was announced by Burroughs Wellcome Co.

Mrs. Knox joined the company in 1970 as a key punch operator and was promoted to chief key punch operator in 1973.

RECENT PROMOTIONS
J. V. Brittle, president of Home Federal Savings and Loan, with headquarters in Kinston, announced the recent promotion of three staff members.

Brittle said that Mrs. Margaret Cox has been promoted to assistant secretary, Mrs. Annette Sutton has been named assistant treasurer, and Mrs. Vivian Sutton has been promoted to head teller.

ATTENTION
...We have added a new service. If you want to buy a home from us and will trade with you, we will trade with you. We will take your home in trade and you can move right in. Saves time and worry. Let us show you your new home and then let us trade!

CHARM WITH A CAPITAL "SEE"
You really own it to yourself to see the quality constructed new home with a family room that has a corner fireplace, game room, kitchen with breakfast area, four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, double garage, central air, large patio. Its in the country on 1/2 acre of land. Let us show you the country colonial. Only $48,300.

LET'S MAKE A DEAL
Let's talk about this fine estate home. Living room, dining room, breakfast room, new room, central air, double garage. When you see it, so let's talk.

WE BUY SELL TRADE

THE HORSES ARE COMING
If you buy these stables, you can fill the stalls with horses, practically any other horse and you'll have a great investment. Only $25,000.

CONGRATULATIONS JACK on obtaining "Realtor" Status

FIRST HOME FEVER!
...here is the remedy! Near as a pin is this terrific smaller home with three bedrooms, bath, good sized living room, dining area and a well arranged kitchen with built-ins. We've even included a refrigerator. Perfect for the beginner. The price is low, only $18,000.

COST OF LUXURY LIVING
Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! The price for home with luxury is just west down. Living room, dining room, kitchen with built-ins, central air, double garage, corner lot. $28,000.

LOTS OF LITTLE INDIANS?
Well, try this wigwag for six bedrooms, formal living room, formal dining room, fireplace, formal kitchen with built-ins, double garage, corner lot. On a nice acre evergreen. Just right for your crowd. $43,500.

ONCE IN A HOUSE TIME
You will find something like this. On a picturesque tree covered lot. This two year old Georgian home has that extra quality and craftsmanship with bay windows, family room with fireplace and expanded beam ceiling, three bedrooms, two baths, double garage, central air, electric heat. $44,000.

THE "YS" HAVE IT

right from the greens to your own backyard. This golf course home has family room, two baths, living room, formal dining, room, formal dining, double screened porch, double garage, central air. $78,000.

The time is RIGHT
Housing starts are down in every part of the country. This means many things, but most important to the prospective home buyer, it means the cost of buying a home of your own is bound to increase in the coming months and years. The time to buy is NOW... before higher prices arrive.

The price is RIGHT
Inflation has hit the home building industry as hard, or perhaps harder, than any other industry. The cost of new home construction is mounting every day. Eventually this will reflect on the cost of existing homes. The time to buy is NOW... while pre-inflation prices still exist.

Mortgage money is available!
YES... Mortgage money is available. At some lending institutions. Through private investors. And other sources. You just have to know what they are. That's where we come in. We're Realtors, who are pledged to a strict code of ethics. And have the knowledge and contacts to help you find the money you need. So if you're in the market for a mortgage, shouldn't we be the ones you see before you ever start looking for a home?

COMPARE SQUARE FOOTAGE VERSUS DOLLAR COST IN THAT NEW HOME YOU'RE THINKING OF BUYING.
THEN COME OUT TO CAMBRIDGE

You'll find more value and quality in each square foot of craftsmanship, confidence in knowing your home was built by nationally rated professional builders, and the peace of mind that comes from buying wisely and with taste.

Come out and see our new 3 and 4 bedroom homes today, ranging in price from $34,000 to $40,750. We have 8 1/2% per cent financing available for the entire subdivision, built by REALTY INDUSTRIES, INC.

Wealthy Flying Enthusiasts Get Their Kicks In Jet Trainers; The Hero Thing

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer

The vast brown plain of the Mojave Desert rotated slowly below as the middle-aged, helmeted pilot rolled his gleaming silver Korean War vintage T33 jet trainer over and over.

"I wanted to fly jets in the Air Force, but my eyes were too bad," Leroy Penhall was saying as he straightened out the jet. "So I told myself I'd have to go out and buy one. I guess I overdid it."

He now owns nine of the jets. The one he was flying cruised along at 12,000 feet, at 450 miles per hour. His interviewer was in the rear seat, holding down breakfast as Penhall gently rolled and looped the venerable T-bird.

A ruddy-faced, 44-year-old multimillionaire building contractor from the beach city of Balboa, Calif., he's one of a handful of men in the United States who get their kicks flying old jet trainers and fighter planes.

It's a new sport — only a few years old — and strictly for the rich. The T33 Penhall flew, for example, sells for about $100,000 and burns $100 worth of fuel an hour.

All the civilian jet jockeys are former propeller plane pilots. Most of them used to race — some still do — in a league of such World War II fighters as the Corsair, the Hellcat and the famous P51 Mustang.

Penhall used to race the old warbirds "but I just don't feel safe racing prop planes any more," he says. "When an engine blows you just don't pull over to the curb."

He patted the black instrument console in front of him and said, "With these beauties you can run all day at 100 per cent power and never worry about engine failure. There are practically no moving parts."

Penhall graduated to prop planes after winning several world speed titles in motorboats. He quit boats in 1966. "I was racing four inboards at the same time . . . it was over-exposure, I guess."

Last October he sponsored the first jet plane race in 27 years at the California Air Classic — and won in the T33 category with an average speed of 519 miles per hour.

Penhall also owns Fighter Imports, Inc., at Chino, 35 miles east of Los Angeles, the only company in the United States selling war surplus jets. He started in 1971 after Gary Levitz of Dallas, scion of a furniture-making family, bought a T33 Penhall built from surplus parts.

In 1972, Penhall concluded a deal with the Canadian government to buy used T33s, a plane in which U.S. pilots trained for the faster F86s in the early 1950s. He plunked down close to $1 million for 18 T33s, nine of which have been resold.

T33s were built in Canada and other countries under agreements with Lockheed Aircraft Corp. The 18 were up for sale.

"I said, 'I'll take them all,'" says Penhall, "but they took an awful good look at me. They want to be sure no one is gathering these up for a banana war."

There are about 40 civilian-owned used jets in the United States now, 10 T33s sold by Fighter Imports, the rest F86s and other models built from surplus parts or imported by private buyers. Many are owned by commercial jet pilots. The FAA requires prop-qualified pilots to pass stringent written exams qualifying them for jets.

While most of the men racing jets have extensive aviation backgrounds, there are a number of well-heeled businessmen who use their jets like second cars — or second planes.

Gary Levitz, who also races, is one.

Others include Jack Ormes, a Van Nuys, Calif., attorney who bought a T33 to go with his two prop planes, and Tom McMullen, a Placentia, Calif., motorcycle owner who bought a T33 "because I wanted to be a neat-guy.

"Let's face it," says McMullen, who painted his jet with flames before switching it to white and purple, "any kind of plane except a business plane is a hero thing. Some guy might wear wild clothes to stand out in a crowd. Me, I go up and play with the clouds."

"The jet has to be the Walter Mitty thing for the private pilot."

Three T33s and three F86s competed in separate races at the California Air Classic at Mojave, which drew 30,000 spectators who stood in scorching heat to watch the 400-m.p.h. prop planes and the jets whistle by. They also saw one pilot drill into the hard desert sand from 5,000 feet after his Bearcat propeller plane's engine caught fire.

Bob Laidlaw, a test pilot with more than 3,000 hours in jets, says he races "for the thrill of it. I like the spirit of competition. You're flying under the toughest jet environment there is."

Laidlaw won the F86 race at Mojave with an average speed of 636 m.p.h. Like the other jet racers, he kept his plane about 50 feet off the ground over the 15-mile oval course, marked by candy-striped pylons.

Although F86s were raced at Mojave, Penhall doesn't plan to try it again. He hopes to have more and more T33s competing, eventually forming a class.

"The F86s are just too fast," Penhall says. "You can easily exceed the plane's structural envelope and not know it until the tail comes off."

Private Duty Nurse Schedule

The schedule for private duty nurses taking calls follows: Sept. 16-22—Ann Barlow, 758-2360; Sept. 23-29—Grace Turner, 756-0375; and Sept. 30-Oct. 6—Beulah Haddock, 746-3838. If no answer, one should call the hospital, 752-5141, and ask for the nurse on call.

LWV Meeting Set Tuesday

The League of Women Voters of Greenville-Pitt County will meet Tuesday night, September 17, at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. The meeting, the first to be held this season will begin with a potluck salad supper at 7:00.

Mrs. Nelson B. Crisp will be speaking on "Women and the Law." A local attorney, Mrs. Crisp received her undergraduate degree from Duke University and her law degree from UNC—Chapel Hill School of Law.

All interested persons, men and women, are invited to attend.

BIG BABY MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — Municipal zoo authorities have reported the birth of the first baby elephant born in captivity in South America. It was a male, weighing in at 233.2 pounds.

City School Lunch Menu

Lunchroom menus for the coming week at Greenville elementary schools have been announced as follows:

Monday—cheeseburger on bun, sliced tomato, lettuce, french fries, cake, milk;

Tuesday—meat loaf, rice and gravy, carrot sticks, green beans, biscuit, gelatin, milk;

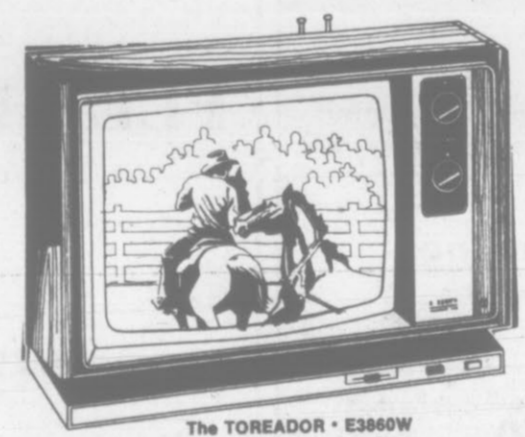

Wednesday—barbecue pork on bun, cole slaw, stewed apples, gelatin, milk;

Thursday—beef-a-roni, tossed salad, rolls, sliced peaches, cookie, milk;

Friday—tuna salad on lettuce, mixed vegetables, gelatin with fruit, orange juice, rolls, milk.

Greenville Girl Teaches In El Salvador

By Carolyn Graves, Peace Corps Writer

Judith Cramer finds beauty in a tropical climate and satisfaction in Peace Corps work in Central America's smallest republic.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador—"The heart of a country may be its farmland, and its mind the educational system, but the soul is found in the local art forms," says Judith F. Cramer of Greenville.

Miss Cramer, 27, is entering her second year as a Peace Corps volunteer dance instructor in El Salvador, Central America. She is helping the country interpret its own cultural traditions through modern dance techniques.

Working out of the Nation Dance School in San Salvador City, Miss Cramer is encouraging students to express themselves in ways that reflect the Latin Culture of the country. Seven advanced members of the 30-member troupe are already staging performances throughout the country.

At first, many of the school's ballet students and their parents were reluctant to accept modern dance forms. The parents liked to see their sons and daughters in the traditional ballet fairy tale roles of princes and princesses. The ballet students were unaccustomed to moving their bodies in modern dance.

She and another volunteer are the second Peace Corps team to be assigned to the dance school. Besides rehearsing with the main modern dance group, they teach two beginning classes in modern dance every day and work with ballet students on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Miss Cramer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Cramer of 1408 Evergreen Drive, Greenville.

She is a 1968 graduate of East Carolina College in Greenville with a bachelor's degree of French and Spanish. She also holds a 1973 master's of fine arts degree in dance from Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Tex. and a 1970 master's degree in French from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

In 1971, after teaching Spanish and French in the public school system in Winston-Salem, Miss Cramer returned to college for her master's degree in dance. While attending school, she taught modern dance at Richardson Community College in Richardson, Tex. and at the YMCA in Dallas.

In September, 1973, she enrolled in the Peace Corps. After three months of training, she began her two year teaching tour in San Salvador last December.

Her knowledge of Spanish, along with the pointers on local pronunciation she received during Peace Corps training, enabled Miss Cramer to communicate effectively as soon as she arrived in Spanish-speaking El Salvador.

El Salvador is the smallest of the mainland Central American countries. However, its population density of 410 per square mile is one of the highest in the world.

The large number of people was something Miss Cramer had not anticipated. "I thought I was coming to a tropical travel poster paradise," she said. "The country is beautiful, but I didn't imagine it would be so overly populated."

So far, she feels the biggest problem she has had to overcome was her dislike of riding the buses. Volunteers often say that the local bus system makes riding the New York subway at rush hour seem a breeze.

"The first month I was here I walked almost everywhere because I didn't like the push and tug of the overcrowded buses.

I was soon cured, however. One day I had to catch the bus and I wound up riding with one foot on the step, one hand clutching the handle bar and the rest of me swinging out of the door.

After that experience it was easy to ride snug in the middle anywhere, anytime," she said.

Two of her most satisfying experiences since she's been a volunteer in El Salvador were having the first performance by her dance group readily accepted by the public and seeing a couple of her students begin to choreograph their own material and teach the steps to the class.

Miss Cramer is one of 68 volunteers serving in El Salvador in agricultural, cultural and educational programs. Around the world, about 7,300 Americans are serving as Peace Corps volunteers in 69 developing nations.

GREENVILLE NATIVE . . . Judith F. Cramer is shown coaching two modern dancers in San Salvador, El Salvador. Miss Cramer is a Peace Corps worker in the small Latin American country.

Antique Furniture Gift To Museum Of History

FOUR ACQUISITIONS . . . of furniture, a gift of Dr. and Mrs. Henry C. Landon, are labeled by Michael Smith, Historic Sites curator of the North Carolina Museum of History. The pieces will be on exhibit at the museum and later placed in historic homes in North Carolina.

A major gift of American and English antiques has been given to the North Carolina Museum of History by a North Wilkesboro donor.

The exhibit of 18th and early 19th century furniture pieces opens Sunday, Sept. 15 in the Museum in the Archives and History - State Library Building. This outstanding gift by Dr. and Mrs. Henry C. Landon of North Wilkesboro represents an extremely valuable addition to the Museum's collection, according to Michael Smith, Historic Sites curator.

The pieces of both American and English origin will be on display in the second floor special exhibit area for approximately two months during regular Museum hours, Smith said. After that, the individual pieces will be added to the furnishings of the state's various historic sites.

The exhibit will feature several North Carolina made pieces, among them a Chippendale secretary from Orange County (c. 1790-1810); a Wilkes County walnut chest-on-frame (c. 1780-1810); a North Carolina Chippendale china press with pedimented top from Oxford in Granville County (c. 1780-1810); and a primitive North Carolina made Hepplewhite walnut chest (c. 1800-1820).

Also featured prominently are two English made secretaries in the Chippendale style circa 1770 and 1760 respectively; a handsome New England Chippendale pine corner cupboard; and a transitional Sheraton-Empire sideboard signed and dated by its cabinetmaker of Staunton, Va., in 1821.

Dr. Landon, a busy physician and his wife, are well-known collectors of 18th and 19th century American and English furniture, and the pieces given to the Museum are from his own collection.

Most of the pieces are in perfect condition, Smith commented.

The exhibit, which includes early cabinet-making tools to add accent, is expected to stay in place through October. Pieces will then be moved to the historic sites which are most appropriate for each.

The Museum of History is open Monday through Saturday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., and Sunday, 2 to 5 p.m. There is no charge for admission.

Makers Of Tar Heel Pottery Live A Simple Life-Style

By Ann Greer, State Travel Writer

SEAGROVE — As you step into one of Seagrove's many potteries, you take a step back into an unhurried, simpler way of life.

There are no sales people giving you the ours-is-bigger-and-better pitch. The creators of the product are right there for you to talk with, not thousands of miles away in Japan. And there's a quietness that can't be found in even the most intimate city shops.

It doesn't take much imagination to see how potters in this Piedmont area lived a century or two ago. Pottery making, and the attitudes that go with it, have changed little since the wheels started turning in Seagrove around 1750.

"We like people, but we don't cater to them," said Dorothy Auman, who runs Seagrove Pottery with her husband Walter. "People want more than just to buy a piece of pottery. They come to get a little piece of this world."

Auman, Cole, and Owen are names that have been linked with pottery for generations. Dishes, mugs, casseroles, and vases are turned out in large quantity and varied design. Potting is a business at Seagrove, not a hobby, and the articles are made to be used. Shops are open around Monday through Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

There are several required steps in the pottery-making process. The abundant clay found in the area is dug by the potter. He hauls it to his shop in truck loads for six months' to a year's supply. It is dried so it will crush easily into powder.

Then water is added and the clay is ground, or "pugged".

The rolls of clay that are formed after pugging are left to age, then "worked" to remove air bubbles. Scales are used to weigh the amount of clay needed for each piece. For example, about two pounds make a dinner plate. Now the clay is ready for shaping.

"Clay has a life of its own," said Mrs. Auman. "It's as alive as a tree. And it also has a mind of its own!"

A motorized wheel is used to help the skilled hand turn a lump of clay into a useable pot or mug. Then the piece is air dried for one to five weeks and baked in a kiln, a large oven that many times reaches temperatures of over 2000 degrees.

Each shop has its special glazes and shapes. It's a good idea to visit all the potteries and choose which is best suited to your taste.

Next to their pottery the Aumans have renovated the old railroad station to house a potters' museum. Here you can see "depression pottery", when paper had to be substituted for expensive and hard to find glazes; the grotesque faces of the "voodoo jug", used by slaves to ward off evil spirits from the graves of their dead; and heavy gray jugs used for transporting moonshine.

Potters find variety in their trade that the layman may not notice.

As he dipped a large vase into a glaze, Walter Auman said: "Like everything else" it gets to be a job. But it is so interesting because there are different things to do. There is no way we can make two pieces exactly alike. Also, weather and kiln conditions make each batch a different color."

Because of increasing interest, Montgomery Technical Institute at nearby Troy offers an accredited course for those who want to make pottery for a living. Many students become apprentices at the Seagrove shops.

Down the road from Seagrove Pottery is Jugtown, where Vernon Owen and two other potters do their turning in log cabins. Owen's father has a shop nearby, and six of his eight children are involved with potting.

Owen has been at Jugtown 14 years. He admits to a desire to drive a big truck for a while, but his first love is potting.

"I always see improvements to be made on the size or shape of things. Though potting is easy to me now, I want to stay aware of changes that need to be made," he said.

Owen has his own idea of how the renewed interest in pottery came about.

"It's the flower children that changed the pottery business from what it was 15 years ago. They wanted to get back to the simple things, things from the earth, and they got others interested too. Myself, I kinda like their way of life."

Owen and other potters have rejected the get-rich-quick ethic that means fast production. They are industrious, but they do only what they want to do.

A few young potters are showing up around Seagrove, without the familiar names of generations. Phil Pollet, who runs Old Gap Pottery, explains why.

"I don't consider the competitive aspect," he said. "Being a potter it's just nice to be around other potters. If I run out of something, folks are glad to lend. And the give and take of ideas is nice."

Pollet is university instead of family taught. He says his scientific knowledge of physics and chemistry for glazes and forms compares with the older potters' practical knowledge. The tradition he is carrying on is Oriental, not Western.

For all the differences, Pollet's basic idea of potting is much like Vernon Owen's and the Aumans'.

"It's not just a job," he said. "It's a total way of living—an approach to life."

Composer Writes 'To Hear It'

Ned Rorem has a simple answer when people ask him why he writes music.

"Because I want to hear it," he says.

What he wants to hear will be heard also by North Carolinians as part of the state's bicentennial celebration.

The North Carolina Symphony, with a grant from the North Carolina Bicentennial Committee, has commissioned Rorem to do an orchestral piece to help celebrate the anniversary.

At 51 the Indiana-born Rorem has a well-established reputation among American composers.

He has received commissions from the Ford, Koussevitzky and Lincoln Center Foundations. His opera, "Miss Julie," was commissioned by the New York City Opera Co. with the assistance of the Ford Foundation.

His orchestral pieces have been performed by such distinguished conductors as Bernstein, Mitropoulos, Ormandy, Paray, Reiner, Steinberg and Stokowski.

Though best known for his choral work—Time Magazine has called him "the world's best composer of art songs"—Rorem also has composed three symphonies, three piano concertos, five operas, several ballets and other music for the theater.

"Rorem has done some very exciting things," John Gosling, symphony conductor, said in discussing the commission. "While he is known for his choral music, he is very interested in the challenge and opportunity to do something orchestral that this commission provides."

Gosling said the piece, not to exceed 20 minutes in duration, will be a "showpiece for orchestra" intended to highlight various instruments and "show off first chair players."

Rorem, Gosling said, "is attuned to what's happening" in music and in the world. Gosling described Rorem's music as "palatable . . . fresh and modern."

When the work is completed, the North Carolina Symphony will have first performance rights for a year. At the end of that time other orchestras will be able to play the piece.

The state symphony also will have first performance rights in New York. Gosling said he hopes to take the orchestra to New York for a concert within the next three or four years.

Rorem is a man of words also and has written five books, including two volumes of diaries, and a collection of lectures called "Music From the Inside Out."

He has written that his music is a diary as uncompromising as his prose, but that unlike a written diary, a piece of music does not reflect a present mood which, inscribed an hour later, could emerge quite differently.

"I don't believe that composers notate their moods, they don't tell the music where to go—it leads them," he has written.

"Why do I write music?"

Because I want to hear it—it's simple as that. Others may have more talent, more sense of duty. But I compose just from necessity, and no one else is making what I need."

COMPOSER NED ROREM . . . has composed an orchestral work to be performed by the N. C. Symphony as part of the State's bicentennial celebration.

Miss Suzanne Jenkins Is Bride

MRS. ROBERT MARCUS LODGE

Miss Suzanne Nancy Jenkins and Lt. Robert Marcus Lodge (USN) were united in marriage at four o'clock in the afternoon Saturday in a double ring ceremony performed at the home of the bride's parents, 605 E. Fifth St., in Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University.

Dr. Robert L. Holt, vice chancellor and dean of East Carolina University, officiated.

The wedding vows were spoken before an altar in the entrance hall of the chancellor's home facing a patio between dividing circular stairways which were garlanded with green smilax. At the altar was a decorated prie-dieu flanked by standards of emerald greenery and bouquets of white bridal flowers. The aisle to the altar was outlined with white silken cords.

The bride wore a formal length gown of white organza designed with a high neckline encircled with scalloped chantilly lace. Matching lace beaded with pearls extended over the sheer tucked organza yoke centered with tiny covered buttons. The long-fitted lace sleeves featured flared ruffled cuffs of organza. The modified A-line skirt featured appliques of lace with panels of lace encircling the hemline and attached sweep train. She wore a formal length illusion mantilla edged in lace to match her gown.

Her attendants wore formal length gowns of romance blue crepe designed with a scoop neckline featuring a white crepe collar edged in ruffled white cluny lace. The long, full sleeves were styled with ruffled cuffs of blue crepe edged in white cluny lace. The modified empire bodice of smocked crepe featured a self-tie belt with long streamers that extended down the back of the gown.

The bride carried a semi-cascade bouquet of white roses and baby's breath with trailing smilax tied with white satin.

The attendants carried cascades of American beauty roses and baby's breath tied with matching ribbon.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom carried hand bouquets of white roses. The grandmother of the bride wore a corsage of white roses.

The bride's table was decorated with mixed summer flowers accented with blue. The home was decorated throughout with summer flowers.

Lt. James Bogart of Virginia Beach, Va., was best man.

Miss Patricia Ann Jenkins, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sallie Jean Jenkins, sister of the bride, and Mrs. John David Bain of Greenville.

Dr. Everett Pittman was organist and Mrs. John David Bain was soloist.

The ushers were Lt. Cmdr. Bill Eldred (USN), and Lts. Dean Henry, John White, and Steve Herbert (USN) all of Virginia Beach, Va.

Lt. Lodge is the son of Lt. Col. (USMC-Ret) Orland Robert Lodge of Fairfax, Va. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia, where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. A lieutenant in the U. S. Navy he is stationed aboard the U.S.S. Claude V. Ricketts (DDG-5) at Norfolk, Va.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University, where she was a member of Chi Omega sorority. She is a fifth grade teacher at Alanton Elementary School in Virginia Beach. The bride made her debut at the Debutante Ball of the Terpsichorean Club of Raleigh in 1968.

After a wedding trip, the couple will make their home at Virginia Beach, Va.

The East Carolina University Combo provided music for a reception which followed the wedding. Mrs. John A. Lang presided at the register and Mrs. Douglas Jones was assisted with serving of cake by Mrs. Robert Holt, Mrs. Troy Dodson, Mrs. J. C. Lann Jr. and Mrs. C. G. Moore.

A rehearsal dinner was given by Lt. Col. and Mrs. O. Robert Lodge, parents of the bridegroom, and a wedding day breakfast was hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Jones, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Holt, Mrs. John A. Lang, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Taylor, Dr. and Mrs. John Howell, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Dodson and Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Paschal. Mr. and Mrs. David J. Palm Reader Plays Footsie

PARIS, France (WNS)—Fortune-teller Genevieve Musset, who began reading heads at 20 and graduated to palms at 40, celebrated her 60th birthday by announcing that feet are a more accurate guide to male character. "Flat feet or bent toes don't indicate much except that the fellow doesn't take good care of himself," she said. "The smaller the foot, the better the man as far as getting along with women." Lines and circles on the foot tell a fuller story. According to Mme. Musset, a large loop under the big toe indicates money. "The straighter the lines under the arch, the smoother will be the love life. A cross at the end of the line means he's a good man for marriage. Grab him!"

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A prominent psychologist recently announced that due to the economy, the emphasis on overpopulation, and working mothers, there has been a cutback of children and we are entering the era of the Only Child.

Do you have any idea what the impact of that statement is? It means there has been a breakthrough in Sibling Rivalry. That's right. Someone has finally come up with a cure for it—the one-child family. I don't know why our generation never thought of it.

Imagine. No more having to cut a maraschino cherry into four equal pieces. No more trying to convince your younger son that hand-me-down boots are neither male nor female. No more taking a number at mealtime to talk.

With each addition to our family, we tried to explain how wonderful a brother or sister would be, but they never bought it. Few children do. We used to have a neighbor child who treated his smaller sister like chopped spinach. His disgust for her culminated when he dragged her to school one day for Show and Tell, shoved her before his classmates and said, "This is my sister. I told you she was dumb."

All three of my children pretend to be an only child. Their hostility often isn't even subtle. One used to set the table for four and when I'd ask where the other plate was she'd say, "is HE still here?" (referring to small brother).

"Yes, why?"

"How long is he going to stay?"

"Through dinner or until I can

Mrs. Buck Is WOTM Speaker

Mrs. Janice Buck, general director of the Greenville Bicentennial celebration, was guest speaker at a chapter night program for Greenville Chapter No. 1308. Women of the Moose held Thursday at the Moose Temple.

Mrs. Buck outlined plans for the community-wide observance which opens Oct. 4.

She explained that the Bicentennial celebration will feature events for all ages. Resumes of the program may be obtained at the Greenville "200" office at the corner of Evans and Ninth Streets.

Mrs. Wilma Turner, chairman of the chapter publicity committee, was in charge of the program and introduced Mrs. Buck.

Four new members were enrolled: Mrs. Charlotte Flanagan; Mrs. Novella Fleming; Mrs. Deborah D.

Gillis; and Mrs. Betsy G. Overby.

Mrs. Peggy Jamieson, senior regent, reminded WOTM co-workers of a reception honoring Miss Ada Jones, deputy grand regent for North Carolina, Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Red Room.

She also urged members to turn in items for the Moose-sponsored flea market, which will be held at the Moose Temple Sept. 28 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

If you haven't kept maple syrup in a cool dry place, it may be fermented. The fermentation, however, does not spoil the syrup; to restore it to its normal flavor, heat it to its boiling point and skim. Turn into a jar, cover tightly and refrigerate.

Couple Exchanges Vows Saturday

In a ceremony Saturday at 5:00 p.m. in the Memorial Baptist Church, Miss Donna Leigh Riddle became the bride of Phil C. Hathway. The Rev. Norman E. Bennett conducted the double ring ceremony.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Riddle of Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown fashioned and made by her mother and her aunt, Mrs. Grace Warren. The gown was of candlelight angel cloth designed with an empire waist and long flowing train edged with imported alencon lace. Lace medallions seeded with pearls enhanced the skirt and edged the neck and sleeves.

Her mantilla of imported silk illusion was outlined with alencon lace and was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses, miniature yellow carnations interspersed with ivy and lace fern.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hathway of Harrisville, N. Y.

The bride attended East Carolina University and is employed by A. B. Whitley, Inc. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of New York at Canton, N. Y., and is a project accountant with Daniel Construction Co.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The honor attendants were Carol Patterson of Greenville, and Mrs. Louis B. Adams of Raleigh, sister of the bride. They wore formal length gowns of baby blue crepe featuring chiffon sleeves and a ruffle at the neckline and wrist. Blue ribbon bows were worn in their hair and they each carried a yellow mum embedded in baby's breath tied with baby blue streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gene Riddle of Fayetteville, and Mrs. Greg Riddle of Greenville, sisters-in-law of the bride, Miss Dorothy Doyle of Greenville and Miss Lisa Adams of Raleigh, niece of the bride. They wore formal length gowns of sunshine yellow crepe identical to those of the honor attendants. They carried blue mums embedded in baby's breath and tied with yellow streamers. They wore yellow bows in their hair.

The flower girl was Kelly Vogler of Greenville. She was attired in a flock dot pinafore with sunshine yellow flowers over a formal length crepe dress accented with yellow ribbon at the waist. She carried a white wicker basket of mixed flower petals tied with yellow ribbon.

The ring bearer was Kevin Adams of Raleigh, nephew of the bride. The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Don Hathway of Greenville, S. C., Dave Hathway, brother of the bridegroom, Kenny and Keith Hathway, nephews of the bridegroom all of Stevensville, Md., Bruce H. Lawrence of Greenville, S. C., Fred Jenack of Harrisville, N. Y., and Steve Adams of Raleigh, nephew of the bride.

A program of wedding music was presented by Joe Goodwin, organist, and Greg Riddle, brother of the bride, soloist. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Rosalind Johnson.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of blush pink doeskin with a short coat and pink accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal length gown of orchid and blue printed silk chiffon and white accessories. Both mothers wore cymbidium orchids. The grandmother of the bride was remembered with a corsage of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Riddle entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doyle and directed to the guest register where Mrs. Virgil Clark presided.

Mrs. Grace Warren, aunt of the bride, served the cake and Mrs. Lillian Sutton and Mrs. Hazel Riddle, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Marie Mills, cousin of the bride, poured punch. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Reel.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Thomas Vicars, Mrs. Ed Jones, Mrs. W. H. Tripp, Mrs. Alvah Salisbury, Mrs. William Shelton, Mrs. R. D. Harrington Jr. and Mrs. D. L. Moore.

A rehearsal dinner was held Friday evening given by the bridegroom's parents at the Ramada Inn.

A bridesmaid luncheon was held at the home of Mrs. Virgil Clark for the bride.

An informal party was given by the bridal couple for the wedding party and friends at Tar River Estates party room on Saturday.

Bicentennial Activities Are Announced

The Greenville Bicentennial was the program topic for the luncheon meeting of the Greenville Welcome Wagon Club held Wednesday.

Mrs. Janice Buck and Mrs. Nancy Whitlow gave a report on the activities to take place in October during the celebration.

Club members modeling costumes of yesteryear were Janit Black, Daiquiri Baxter, Barbara Stoneman, Leslie Pressel, Pat Swanda, Joanne Goodman and Patsy Harris.

Mrs. Mary Jones was nominated to represent the group in the contest for queen of the Bicentennial.

Mrs. Baxter introduced the following prospective members: Carol Nowak; Glenda Mitchell; Dorothy Jensen; Dot Dry; Bernice Parker; Sherry Maira; Marjorie Holmes; Betsy Clayton; Jean Derner; Carolyn Hibbard; Dottie Hackett; Jackie Roche; Eleanor Blackwell; Donna Olafeld; Kay Galya; Dorothy Bowser; Judy Veany; and Ruth Berkey.

Mrs. Lisa Kannen introduced her mother-in-law, Elfriede Kannen, of Frankfurt, Germany, and Mrs. Jones presented Alexanne Clarke of Pink Hill, Welcome Wagon supervisor, and Marian Higdon of Kinston.

The Evening Group of Welcome Wagon will meet Tuesday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m. at First Federal. Leslie Pressel will speak on the Bicentennial. Mrs. Kannen should be contacted for reservations.

Joke Teller Seeks Abby's Opinion

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can help me. At a convention dinner, my husband and I were having a wonderful time until I told an off-color, Polish joke. It didn't go over very well.

Later, I found out that one of the couples sitting at our table was Polish. I felt so stupid. I didn't know what to do or say. Needless to say, the rest of the evening was ruined for me.

Abby, what should I have done? Would an apology have helped?
EVENING RUINED

DEAR RUINED: Possibly. Now, do yourself (and your husband) a favor and vow never again to tell a joke that puts down an ethnic group. (And don't laugh at one, either.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, a divorcee with two children and am considered attractive. About a year ago I spotted an eligible bachelor in town, so I moved into this apartment building hoping to make his acquaintance. I made his acquaintance all right, but that's about all. He says hello pleasantly when we meet in the hall, but I've never been able to get him into my apartment.

I telephone him one evening to tell him my bedroom window was stuck (it really was), so he sent a janitor up with a hammer. He's not going with anybody special, and he's not a goody-goody because I've seen him entertain women in his apartment. None of them is as attractive as I. How can I get him interested without having it look like I'm chasing him?
GETTING NOWHERE

DEAR GETTING: It's not easy to chase a man without having it "look like" you're doing what you're doing. Face it. He's not interested in you. And any more moves in his direction will make your scheming so obvious that he's apt to hide when he sees you coming.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I don't really have a problem, but I'd like to get this off my chest.

My husband has a young woman working for him who I can't help being a little jealous of. She's younger than I am, much prettier and she's with him all day. What really bothers me is the fact that she is seen all over town driving my husband's car. She's running errands for him—that's why she uses his car, but, Abby, it looks bad. A few of my friends have remarked about it. Am I foolish to let this bug me? And what should I do?
JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: You're foolish to let it bug you, and don't "do" anything. And if any of your "friends" remark about it again, say, "So!"

The Gad-a-bouts will attend a tobacco auction on Sept. 18 and Sue Turner can be contacted for further information. Persons interested in joining a mixed couples bowling league should call Mrs. Kannen. The needlework group will meet Sept. 23 at 10 a.m. at the home of Marian Bennett.

A bridge benefit, sponsored by Welcome Wagon, will be held Monday, Sept. 23, at 7:30 p.m. at First Federal. Reservations can be made by calling Donna Lee, 752-6815.

The next board meeting will be held at the home of Barbara Stoneman, on Sept. 25 at 10 a.m.

nerve, bone structure in the middle ear and foreign matter blocking the ear canal," she added. "If a hearing problem is suspected after the first screening, additional testing will be conducted. In turn, parents or a guardian will be notified if a referral is necessary," continued Mrs. Dana Phillips, also a speech therapist.

"Approximately 15 per cent of the children tested will require further evaluation," she pointed out. The testing will be supervised by Mrs. Phillips and Ms. Neese. The 20 volunteers aid them in the screening programs as well as in record keeping. A training session for the volunteers was held Friday. Later in the school year, the kindergarten-first grade groupings will be tested and volunteers will again be needed.

"The teacher-principal cooperation has been fantastic—the screening would not be possible without their help and assistance," concluded Ms. Neese.

Hair Styles Created For Fall Fashions

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
Hairdressers are charting the hair style course for fall — full hairdos to go with the new big shapes of coats and dresses now being shown. But this year their annual predictions do not include the usual how-to-get-young-girls-into-beauty-salons advice.

"We don't need that now. Young girls are accepting permanent waves even, all over the head, and the influence is not only in the east. Hairdressers over the United States are talking about it," says Julius Caruso of New York, fashion director of Intercoiffure America.

"The girls are scared, coming in three at a time, two to hold the hands of the one having it done. Then one of the others comes in another time, and so on. One 18-year-old giggled the entire time I gave her a permanent wave."

It is an easy-sell, in a way. He thinks the girls enjoyed the action their hair got from hot rollers; now they want the effect to be permanent.

"And permanent can be a long time — four months or so even if the hair is short — and six months if the hair is longer."

Although the girls aren't being told what length to wear their hair, many are wearing it short, he says. In fact, few of the girls in the 18 to 35 set that forms his own clientele have straight long hair.

"They may come into the salon that way (long, straight), but they don't go out that way. They want something different and they take our advice."

How did this hoped-for turn-out take place?

"It is a matter of being intrigued. Permanent waves have been out of fashion for a long time and they've never really seen them. A permanent wave needs a little more control and attention though than they've been accustomed to giving their hair. You can't just blow it dry, however. A lot will depend on how much time they are willing to give to their permanented hair."

Although the new hairdos shown by 20 leading hair stylists of the coiffure group at its annual hair fashion show were designed for the coats with regular sleeves and the fuller dresses, and so on, the head will look smaller even with the full hair, he explained. There may be "one, two or three crazy dips" or whatever and the hair length will vary from nose to mouth to chin to shoulder. They don't really care what length the girl wears it, he says.

As for color, "streaks are out because they made young girls look old." It once was status with wealthy young girls. But now they, too, have adopted the new highlighting — high up over the temples.

Caruso, a hairdresser for 36 years, won his first hair award at 16. In recent years his long-time faithful clientele has died off and with the new 18 to 35 group which forms 80 per cent of his business, he is on to a whole new thing, he says.

Becky Bailey of Kinston was entertained at a shrimperoo given in honor of her 23rd birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cameron.

The dining area was decorated with shrimp nets, beach sand and dried seaweed table arrangements. Following dinner, Mike Pearce gave an inspirational message and Babs Winn, visiting from New York City, entertained guests with a tap number from "No, No, Nanette."

A cake made especially for the occasion was served later to guests at the Crow's Nest. Special guests included Norma and Carole Cameron.

Garden Club Organized

The organizational meeting of the Lyndale Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Broome Thursday morning.

Interim officers elected were: Mrs. Alfred G. Hutton Jr., president; Mrs. Edwin L. Yancey, vice president; Mrs. Harold Priestly, secretary; and Mrs. Thomas B. Allen, treasurer.

The charter meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 8, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Hutton, 110 Kenilworth Dr.

Home Made For Pets

HAMBURG, West Germany (WNS)—Christine Roehm, 26, has organized a Free Animal Club to find new or temporary homes for pets of persons sentenced to jail. "There is no reason why the dog or cat of a criminal should be put behind kennel bars just because his master must go to prison." She said that prisoners are so eager to find new homes for their pets that "some have even offered me money to pay their expenses."

On The Local Scene

by Rosalie Trotman

Adjusting the earphones, a child becomes an airplane pilot or astronaut and the world of make believe is incorporated into a serious subject—taking a hearing test.

Over 2,000 children in the Greenville School System will be tested for possible hearing loss beginning Monday. The program will continue through Sept. 24.

The screening is a part of the Hearing Conservation Program of the Speech Language and Hearing Services in the city schools. The beginning session will involve all children in grades two, four, six and special classes. Any referrals from other elementary grades, junior high and high schools will also be included.

The screening program will be at the Greenville Moose Lodge and the children will be transported by school bus.

"The screening will be conducted because of the problems which can result from undetected hearing loss such as interference with school work, behavior, emotional and social problems.

"Quite often a child might be 'termed dull' by his teacher, class mates and even his parents due to poor hearing," said Ms. Lynn Neese, speech therapist with the city schools.

"The most common causes of minor hearing problem in young children are ear infections resulting from colds, sore throats and allergies. Other causes might be damage to the auditory

Circle Members Hear Speaker

Harold Creech was guest speaker at the Tuesday night meeting of The Patient Circle of The Kings Daughters.

Manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, Creech spoke on the history of Greenville and told of plans for the Greenville Bicentennial celebration.

He presented each member with a copy of "Greenville's History" by Wyatt L. Brown.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess. The meeting was held at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

SHOES

FROM A. SANDLER

RISING SUN
The sun never sets on SANDLER'S crepe sole wedge. It's stitched to stay in a soft kid leather sky. And echoed again in the silvery metals of the sling-back. The fair weather look for Fall. From SANDLER of Boston.

TUNNELO
SANDLER creates a study in contrasts. Soft dark calfskin with bright light stitching. Open back, close toe. A little nostalgic, very new. Coming, going. Everything a shoe should be, this is. From SANDLER of Boston.

GROUNDHOG
SANDLER'S Groundhog brings back spring in the Fall. All the spring and bounce and comfort you want in an easy shoe is here. On cushioned crepe and fully leather lined. The new soft shoe, as only SANDLER of Boston can do it.

272-Year-Old Business Feared Near End Of A Line

By KRISTIN GOFF
Associated Press Writer
WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Ask J. Edgar Rhoads what it takes to make a good business these days and he'll tell you that a company, like a man, has got to have character. At 90, Rhoads is in a unique position to comment on what it is that makes a business solid. He has spent more than 70 years working at J.E. Rhoads and Sons, a leather and industrial belting firm listed by the Business Founding Date Directory as the oldest company in the country.

"I've never felt a desire for a get-rich-quick business," says Rhoads, a thin, soft-spoken man who still works each day. "So many of them go bad, or if they don't, they hurt other people. I think character is as important in business as in churches."

Edgar Rhoads and his cousin, 65-year-old Richard H. Rhoads, are the seventh generation of family members to manage the firm, founded in 1702. Like their ancestors, who fled England for the religious freedom offered in the colony founded by William Penn, the Rhoads are Quakers. Rhoads leather was used in production of boots, harnesses and other necessities of colonial life. Around the Civil War era, industrial belting production began. In this century the family produced some of the largest industrial belts in the country, some as large as 6 feet wide and 500 feet long. Not until the 1960s, when the emergence of synthetic materials pushed aside the importance of leather in the industrial belting field, did the Rhoads family finally abandon their tanning operations. But the Rhoads' traditional ties to leather started to break down in the 1950s, when a nylon-reinforced German belt and other synthetic products began making strong inroads on the market. Between 1951 and 1958 their sales, which had peaked at service to 3,000 companies, dropped by half.

Within 10 years, the company closed down its tanning vats and abandoned its family ownership and partnership form of management.

The business was incorporated in 1965, but Richard, who is chairman of the board, and Edgar, chairman emeritus, still own almost all of the stock.

between the estuaries and the ocean."

Hartwell calls his drift experiments pioneering efforts to trace the flow of ocean currents near the shore. The studies show a "net southerly drift" by the Gulf of Maine, but Hartwell says his experiments also document how vulnerable the near-coastal waters are to wind and storms.

The experiments show an oil spill off the Maine-New Hampshire coast would generally move southward toward Boston Harbor and the Atlantic side of Cape Cod, where Hartwell first became intrigued by the sea while still a boy.

"I always loved the ocean. I think my summers on Cape Cod were a guiding influence for me," he said.

Both men concede they are likely to be the last generation to play an active role in operating the family firm. A professional team of managers now make most of the day-to-day decisions.

A new emphasis on growth is also making a substantial break with the company's past.

Edgar, who set up the firm's chemistry lab in 1903, also points to development of cements used to piece together strips of materials for the belts.

He estimates that he personally developed 50 to 100 different glues, including the first waterproof cement, during his 70 years with the firm. He still spends much of his time experimenting with materials suited to synthetics.

Others in the firm are working on such things as development of a conveyor belt flexible enough to go around corners.

Although the Rhoads have purchased two smaller belting firms in recent years to expand their operation, they have no plans to diversify from their specialized production of industrial belts, tapes and packings for hydraulic and pneumatic equipment.

"They tried diversification in the 1960s when they attempted to make flowerpots from cohesive sawdust. The project ended a costly failure.

"We made a major mistake by trying to get into a completely different line ... For a time it looked like it would go, but it flopped. That was a bad mistake," says Richard Rhoads.

"Since then we've stayed pretty much in belts and tapes and it seems advisable to stay in that field now."

BELFAST BOY RETURNS—Robert Cousins, 12, one of 120 Belfast youngsters who spent six weeks in the Upper Midwest this summer on a vacation from war, returned Wednesday to Eldon and Mary Voorhee. The Voorhees, a farm couple who live near Appleton, Minn. Robert's mother sent the boy back from the most troubled area of Belfast to live on the Minnesota farm in hopes of finding a better life for the boy. For the childless Voorhees couple, it was a complete surprise to get the boy back. (AP Wirephoto)

Oceanographer Respects Sea

By STEWART POWELL
MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — The sea. It lures men and sparks their dreams. Allen Hartwell knows because he answered the call.

The lanky 29-year-old professional oceanographer has turned a barefoot fascination into a healthy respect. And despite the piles of charts, graphs and maps stacked around his carpeted office, the fire for the sea still burns in him.

"The important thing you get is a great respect for the sea. It is a frightening, treacherous place. The more you learn about it the more you come to respect it," he says.

"Maybe it's not as romantic as when you first get into this line of work, but then I still get that thrill pacing the deck as we head out."

Hartwell's work has put him on the receiving end of a lot of other people's dreams about the sea.

During the past two years, he has dumped about 4,000 bottles into the massive Gulf of Maine between New Hampshire and Nova Scotia to study the drift of wind, tides and water. He's been hearing from people ever since.

"Please if you can send me a little information on what you are doing, as I am very interested in my ocean," wrote Tim Clark, a Rye Beach, N.H. beachcomer who found one of the soda pop sized bottles with an enclosed postcard.

Normandeau Associates, a local consulting firm conducting the offshore experiments, offers a $1 reward for the return of information about where the bottles were found. About 20 per cent of the bottles and seabed drifters used to chart undersea currents are recovered.

"I'm sure in 10 or 15 years we'll get one back from England," Hartwell says.

Many finders reject the reward in exchange for a little information. "Please keep the reward as a small contribution to your work," wrote Donald Ayers of Nashua, N.H. He found a bottle on the beach at Plum Island along Massachusetts' North Shore.

Hartwell has concentrated his drift studies on the waters near the seashore. His company's clients include oil companies and New Hampshire's largest power company which plans a $1.2 billion marsh-front power plant on the coast at Seabrook.

"The classical oceanographer considers the continental shelf a nuisance," says Hartwell. "It's kind of a twilight zone

Tin Woodsman Bowed Out, And Into Business

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack Haley, 76, flashed his Irish grin and said, "there's a time to take the center of the stage, and a time to walk into the wings."

"A smart performer knows when to get off."

Haley sat in an alcove of his showcase Beverly Hills home. A Rolls Royce was parked in the carport. He is rich, retired from show business but vigorously engaged in business enterprises.

He still treads lightly on his dancer's feet and while the inevitable wrinkles and loss of hair are apparent, his girth is slender, his eyes lively.

There will be no benefits for Jack Haley. He planned it that way. He left show business graciously, playing happy roles in upbeat films.

"It wasn't a wrench leaving movies, television and the theater," he said. "I was never an exhibitionist. It was a business with me. I don't believe there's no business like show business."

"Most stars don't get off graciously for economic reasons. If performers save and invest their money they don't have to appear before audiences in denigrating roles."

"Some stars get an emotional lift from an audience — Bob Hope and Milton Berle — but not me. Comedy is too full of tension."

"Some stars can afford to bow out. Cary Grant and Jimmy Cagney. How I admire them for not trading on what they once were. Like me, they don't miss standing in front of an audience. Adulation belongs to the younger people. Show business is a youthful thing."

Haley frowned thoughtfully. "Youth looks at old people and sees gray hair, wrinkles and worn bodies. It doesn't occur to them that we old people have young minds. All of us. The mind doesn't get old."

"I think as youthfully as I did 50 years ago. I go to my office every day about noon and work until 6 o'clock."

Haley has a staff of four who work for his various companies, mostly pertaining to investments and real estate operations. He can be counted among the largest holders of California property.

Although he doesn't play golf any more Haley is a member of Bel Air Country Club where he and his wife, Florence, center their social activities. His son, Jack Jr., is a movie producer-director engaged to marry Liza Minnelli. Daughter Gloria has twice made him a grandfather.

Haley looks back on his long career in vaudeville, the Broadway theater and movies without sentiment. He is writing his memoirs. Even his unforgettable portrayal as the Tin Man in the "The Wizard of Oz" does not evoke nostalgia. "All of the cast are gone except me, Ray Bolger and Margaret Hamilton," he said. "There's nothing to date that picture. It's a toy for a new group of kids every year. I get more fan requests for photographs now than I did when I was a star."

A devout Roman Catholic and a Knight of Malta, Haley attends mass every Sunday. He also works with the St. Francis Center in downtown Los Angeles helping the destitute, the troubled and the lost.

He pities the stars who die broke in charity wards.

"It's tragic they don't protect their economic life," he said. "When a man loses his economic dignity it's terrible. Most performers pay no attention to business details. They leave it to other people and get robbed."

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine Sunday to wind up decision making already under way and to think out anew your long-range plans. After studies of your choice, improve your environment.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do favors for those who have been good to you in the past. Make plans for improvements in the next few weeks. Keep smiling.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show more affection for family and friends. Get out to the recreations that relieve tensions, too. To bed early tonight for an early start in a.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal day to have a good time with own family and to establish more harmony at home. Plan now to put plans in action to attain aims.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to follow your philosophical tenets of the past that were ideal. Enjoy good friends, relatives. Something fine can come of this for the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't get so engrossed in the big interests of your life that you fail to give attention to the minute detail that is important for their success.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Analyze just how far you have gone toward your most cherished goals and plan how to correct mistakes as well as make progress easier. Attend worthwhile socials.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your paper and magazines well for ideas on how to improve your regular routines, make your home more charming. Take mate to some attractive place.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Start wheels rolling in the right direction to get good results for personal aims. Join social group that can help further your career.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get into the social work that can help the community and make big strides forward. Dine with bigwigs you know and gain their approval.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study new ideas and plan for expansion so you get fine results in the future. Discuss ideas with others of different background.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Quietly think out how to have more harmony with others and get on the good side of them. Show more devotion and be less critical.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Decide how to cooperate better with regular associates by considering their finest qualities and abilities. Put those excellent ideas to work that will improve your civic life.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will want to know about everything that is going on and will desire to use own influence early in life to improve conditions within own orb, or with the public in general. Both purpose and persistence are in this nature and your progeny can be a boon to the masses in due course of time. Any profession requiring precision and depth of thought is fine here.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1974

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are stirred to get much done in connection with other persons and you would be wise to channel your conversations in constructive directions. Display your feelings so that you won't lose the support of close allies.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take advantage of the fact that associates want to cooperate with you and get much accomplished today. Listen to what others say.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan a better way to do your work efficiently and derive more benefits in the future. Improvements at home can increase harmony.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Discuss the kind of amusements you want to enjoy later with good friends. First make sure you handle personal responsibilities.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Instead of complaining, think of the support your family has given you in the past. Show gratitude and make the future brighter.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you want this to be a productive day, be sure you are most careful in motion. Don't retort with anger if a friend is sarcastic.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do those things that will add to the intrinsic value of your property. Don't spend money lavishly or you could regret it later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It's fine to be concerned about making progress but take care you don't step on the toes of others in doing so. Control your temper.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You want to understand how others operate but make sure it's for mutual benefit. Show increased devotion to loved one. Be alert.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Fine day for sociability, but only with congenials. Pay your share of the entertainment cost. Strive for more harmony.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have much to do but take time for planning and scheduling hours so that you don't become confused. Cooperate with others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't go off to new interests without first handling an important matter. Obtain the information necessary for a new project.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you discuss a financial matter with an expert before going ahead with your plans. Gentility with mate brings fine results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be eager to get along with others, so teach early in life to be diplomatic. Add psychology to the education so that your progeny will know how to regulate own affairs and be of greater help to others. Permit your child to study various religious beliefs so the insight is strong.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

D.H. Conley is back into full swing. For the first few days, it was sheer bedlam for the wide-eyed freshmen. Some found themselves lost in the new halls, late for class, or never even finding the class. But now as the second week rolls by, things have settled down.

This year, we are fortunate to have several new classes. Modern dance is taught by Deborah Little, who reportedly is pleased with her students. Presently, they are learning the basics and doing slimnastic exercises for good body development and tone. Soon the class will be broken up into groups. These groups will then learn to choreograph their own dance routines.

Another new class is band. With an enrollment of 37, Sherry Broussard has bright visions. She hopes to really get started sometime next week, as most students are still in the process of getting their instruments.

School pictures were taken Monday and Tuesday. Those who ordered pictures should receive them in three weeks.

The Junior ROTC program is again in full force this year. With an enrollment of 140 this year, Lt. Col. Allen Applewhite has high hopes. The school is fortunate in having MsSgt Charles Holly on the faculty this year. With his vast knowledge and experience, MsSgt Holly will be a valuable asset.

JROTC was also fortunate in having Private First Class Prince Bunting to speak to them this week. PFC Bunting is a 1974 graduate of D.H. Conley and a former JROTC cadet. He is an example of the advantages of JROTC. With only two years of JROTC, PFC Bunting entered the army as a Private First Class, deleting the first two ranks because of his experience.

THE SHIELD, the school newspaper, will be back in circulation this year. The staff has been chosen and work is underway for the first edition. THE VALKYRIAN staff has also been chosen and they are busy producing an outstanding yearbook.

Dust Settled By Boy Scouts

FAIRFAX, Calif. (AP) — When a builder proposed tennis courts in this area, he immediately received protests from residents claiming the construction work would cause too much dust and noise. He had a ready response.

He pointed out that there would be very little grading necessary because Boy Scouts who had used the area for many years had cleared and established camp sites, making perfect spots for tennis courts.

'Fiddler On The Roof' Is Tonight

"Fiddler on the Roof," Norman Jewison's joyous musical affirmation of life that the Reader's Digest hailed as "Movie of the Year," comes to television for a full evening's family entertainment as a Special Motion Picture Presentation as the season premiere of the ABC Television Network's "ABC Sunday Night Movie," September 15 (8-11:45 p.m.), on Channel 3-5-12.

The United Artists film, which will have a single TV showing, is based on the Broadway musical (the longest-running show in Broadway history), and critic Rex Reed found that "Norman Jewison's direction adds so much embroidery to the original musical stage play that the screen literally turns into a tapestry of beauty and excitement."

The film version stars Topol as Tevye, the milkman in Czarist Russia who must cope with three marriageable daughters, his own poverty and the breakdown of traditional values that he sees destroying the world he has always known. Reed called Topol a "dignified improvement... a wonderful tower of bearlike gentility and strength."

New Yorker critic Pauline Kael called "Fiddler on the Roof" "an absolutely smashing movie... it seems to me the most powerful movie musical ever made."

Associated Press critic William Glover welcomed the film as "shining, stirring and spellbinding... a cause for celebration," and Judith Crist said, "what really counts is that this universal story of tradition, of generations, of man and God... is in many ways, refreshed... Above all, 'Fiddler' is now for always — as if any of us doubted that for a minute."

Also starring in the film, which provided American music with such songs as "If I Were a Rich Man," "Sunrise, Sunset" and "Matchmaker," are Norma Crane as Tevye's long suffering wife; Leonard Frey as an eager tailor with dreams of a better future; Molly Picon as the matchmaker who arranges everybody's future, and Paul Mann as a butcher with an eye for a young wife.

The entire company received high praise from Judith Crist: "An impeccable and fresh-faced cast that makes the film work so well in personality... Rosalind Harris (simply perfection), Michele Marsh and Neva Small, as the three sisters, make an unconventionally beautiful trio IMAGINARY FIDDLER — The legendary fiddler from the musical of the decade "Fiddler on the Roof," is a symbol of how shaky life can be, how things change, and how people must change with the times. "Fiddler on the Roof," the longest running play on Broadway, proclaimed the "Movie of the Year," with music that will live forever, will air as the premiere presentation of "The ABC Sunday Night Movie" on September 15 (8-11:45).

Another Savalas Has Treasured Memories

By SUSAN BOWMAN

Demosthenes Savalas, who plays the plant-loving Detective Stavros on CBS's highly popular show, "Kojak," is in real life as warm and lovable as he is in the series. And I really think, if the truth were known, he's even more so. He relishes his memories of childhood and frequently speaks of his parents in a most endearing manner.

"Ah! When my mother cooked," clapping his hands together and casting his eyes heavenward, "Oh, how delightful it was! Not hamburger... or a steak you merely throw on the grill... the delicious aromas that greeted me when I came home in the afternoon... not just food... it was LOVE!"

His favorite topic of conversation? His wife and children. Tears stream down his face as he recalls the immensely beautiful joy he experienced at the birth of his little daughter, Militza. (There are also 5 sons and, following Greek tradition, Demosthenes has given each of his sons the middle name of George.)

A man of great sensitivity, Demosthenes relates closely to his role on "Kojak." "With society as it is today, with all these unfortunate, demented depraved people who choose to be lawless and anti-establishment... where they'll spit on the so-called 'Pigs'... we show the other side of the coin... tell the other side of the story with as much semblance, as much authenticity as we can. It's time people knew." He continues, "Altho Stavros is usually a comedian, when the chips are down he's tops. After all, you don't get to be a detective Sergeant in the NYPD by being a dunce. But he's also a human being, and I love it when children come up to me and say, 'Oh! It's Stavros!'"

MEET SHIRLEY—She's the one on the right. Demosthenes, a series regular, portrays the plant-loving right-hand-man to star Telly Savallas as the police lieutenant, Stavros, in "Kojak", now seen on Sundays (8:30-9:30 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

Savalas...

Again he gestures in that richly full, highly emotional way of his, "Oh, how I love that!"

QUESTION: "You were a successful business man, yet you went into acting. Was it because Telly (his brother, Telly Savalas, star of "Kojak") was making so much money?"

ANSWER: "Well, first of all, let's get that misconception straight... I have never worked so hard in my entire life. As far as business is concerned, we attribute those experiences to my father who was a millionaire five times and a pauper six."

QUESTION: "It must have been wild for you to grow up in the same house with Telly Savalas."

ANSWER: "It was wild for him."

QUESTION: "Have you ever considered going 'bald' like Telly?"

ANSWER: (Leaning forward, he whispers confidentially) "You know, if the truth were known, if Telly let his hair grow, he'd look like an Oragutan."

QUESTION: "How do you plan to expand the Stavros character this season?"

ANSWER: "There's not much further he can go... he's just a cop... he's an emotional person... sensitive... so much so that he can talk to a plant and to a human being the same way that he would regard both... with an eye for those things that really touch a person."

Please... listen to me, you beautiful plants sitting so serenely in Stavros' office. You... yes, you with your lovely green leaves and your healthy new growth... you and your dear friend, Stavros, have a great wonderful year ahead of you.

'Kojak' Premiere One Of Nostalgia For Cast

Author Thomas Wolfe once expressed the thought that "You can't go home again." As with most truisms, there are exceptions. This was recently demonstrated when the "Kojak" case and crew returned to New York City to do location filming for the special two-hour movie "The Chinatown Murders," which will premiere the series' second season on Sunday, September 15, 8:30 to 10:30 p.m., on Channel 9-11.

Series star Telly Savalas felt right at home upon his return to the "Big Apple." In fact, he and series regulars Dan Frazier, Kevin Dobson and Demosthenes are all native New Yorkers. So when word spread through the city that "Kojak" was filming there, Savalas was delightfully surprised when old friends unexpectedly would turn up. "I don't know how they found us," he exclaimed, "but I saw friends that I hadn't seen in 10 years." Savalas also made some new acquaintances . . . detectives from all parts of the city made it a point to drop by and express their appreciation for his realistic portrayal of their jobs. "The detectives in this city don't lead boring lives," Savalas reflected. "We had fun comparing cases."

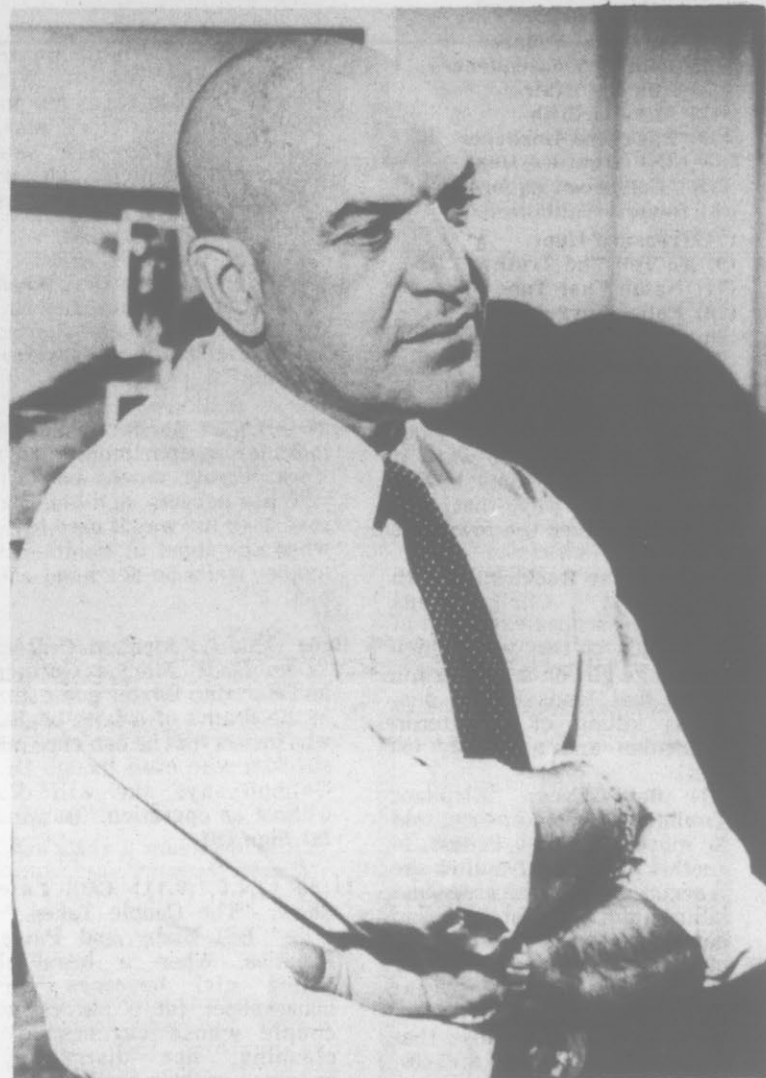

Frazier, who maintains a permanent residence in New York, naturally did not have any trouble adjusting to the location work. "I spent my free time catching up on plays, movies and the opera," he said. "It was a vacation for me."

Dobson, whose parents live in the Jackson Heights, Queens, section of the city, found his spare time "booked" by a proud father . . . he appeared at a fund-raising affair for a youth organization and presented awards at a band concert. During the "Kojak" filming, various members of the Dobson family were present to share the exciting work of a son who at one time seemed destined for a career on the Long Island Railroad.

Demosthenes, nursing a hand sore from signing autographs, found it ironic that only a few years before he was a fan seeking autographs himself.

"I remember one time when the late Gene Krupa was playing at the old New York Paramount Theater," Demosthenes recalled. "I played hockey from school to see him, and, in the middle of his performance, jumped up on the stage. Krupa indicated that it was all right for me to stay, so I sat beside him during the rest of the show. When it was over, he gave me his drum-sticks. That was a thrill, just like it is now when people ask me for my autograph."

So the stars of "Kojak" definitely enjoyed going home again . . . it was, after all, their city.

TELLY SAVALAS as police Lt. Theo Kojak, is involved in an unusual crime when a young Chinese street gang kidnaps the head of an underworld family in "The Chinatown Murders", special two-hour movie to be seen as the second-season premiere of "Kojak", tonight, (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

Sandy Starring In Zany Disney Tale

Whenever anyone asks Sandy Duncan if she is as happy as she always appears to be, Sandy has a ready answer.

"I'd be nuts if I weren't," she says smilingly. "I have a happy marriage, a successful career, peace of mind, and I always manage to keep busy."

Sandy, who began her show business career with a string of rave reviews in Broadway hits, made her motion picture debut in 1971 in Disney's comedy, "$1,000,000 Duck." In the zany spoof, which premieres the new fall season of "The Wonderful World of Disney" as a first-run movie, Sunday evenings, September 15 and 22, on Channel 6-7, she plays a kooky wife of a scientist who is a little peculiar himself because he owns a duck that lays solid gold eggs. The zaniness of Sandy's part really lets her effervescent personality bubble to the surface.

"I've always been a positive person," she sparkles, "ever since I can remember. I just like doing crazy things. One of my friends labeled me Miss Turnstile," she giggled, "because I was into lots of different activities all at once. I was coming and going so fast I couldn't even keep track of myself."

What keeps Sandy hopping is demand from producers. She's just finished a special with Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Pearl Bailey which will air later this year. She's also guesting on a new fall show with the Harlem Globetrotters and is preparing a third variety special to be filmed in London for Lew Grade which might turn out to be her next TV series. She previously starred in the sitcom "Funny Face" several seasons ago.

"I love doing variety shows best," quips Sandy.

HALLMARK OF THE HOME

Decoratively speaking, today's living room is forced to walk a delicate tightrope. More than any other room, it sets the tone of your living. It must, therefore, be something of a showplace and yet live up comfortably to its name. This is not impossible to attain but difficult, as it is easier to lean in one direction. Include comfortable seating pieces arranged in inviting groupings. Stamp the room as special and also warmly personal with pictures and accessories.

Since your living room sets the tone of your living, carpet it beautifully and comfortably. We invite you to stop in to see our fine selections. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale."

Bill Bixby Develops Into A Multi-Talent

Bill Bixby is becoming a one-man conglomerate. The popular star of the recent "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" series has branched out. These days it's Bixby the director and Bixby the producer as well as Bixby the actor.

Bill's most recent show-business effort is a co-starring role with Paula Prentiss and Valerie Perrine in "The Couple Takes a Wife," a blithe comedy airing on "The CBS Late Show" Monday, September 16, at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 9-11. But diversification is now Bixby's byword.

When reminded by a co-worker that it is great to have so many irons in the fire, Bixby replies with a smile, "Yes, it may keep me in the business an extra year."

In fact, Bill has a multiple contract with Paramount studios and has directed episode series. It is an all-encompassing deal as an actor, director and producer in the development of motion pictures as well as television series.

"It opens up a side range with the sky the limit," he said. "I can look at properties from three different points of view. Now that I've played a number of heavies, my immediate goal is to direct a dramatic show."

Once one of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors, Bill is now married to actress Brenda Benet, with whom he toured in "Come Blow Your Horn."

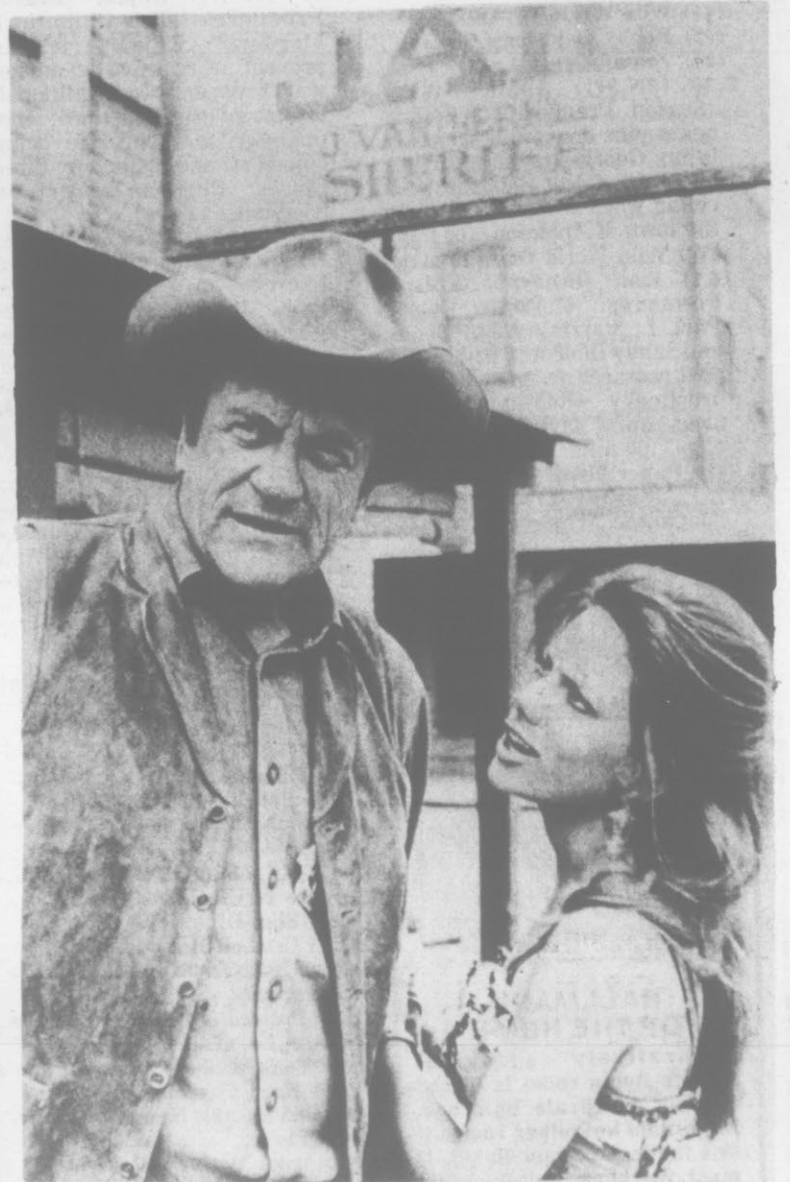

"We played all over the country, and it was exhausting. I don't intend to tour again for at least two years."

Brenda, who is particularly excited about her husband's bustling career, recalls how she turned Bixby down when he first proposed.

"He'd been a bachelor so long, I didn't think he knew what he'd be getting into. But later I relented. You know, he still has the air of a bachelor, and that's kind of nice—I feel like I'm being courted all the time. I suppose things will settle down when we have children, and we do want children some day."

TIPS DILLON — Arlene (Gretchen Corbett), a tough saloon girl in a small town, tells Marshal Dillon (series star James Arness) about a giant heist by five bank robbers, in the "A Town in Chains" episode of "Gunsmoke" Monday, September 16 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

HORRIFIED — Shelly Winters as Helen Hill, head of a children's talent academy, is haunted by terrifying memories from her past, in "What's the Matter With Helen?", a suspense drama to be colorcast of "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" September 16 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Visitor With Ali, Foreman

The very different personalities and life styles of George Foreman and Muhammad Ali, the two men contending for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world, are spotlighted on a "Wide World: Event" airing Tuesday, Sept. 17 at 11:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.

In "On Location with George Foreman and Muhammad Ali," famous actor-athlete James Brown interviews Foreman in Pleasanton, Calif., and Ali in Deer Lake, Pa. The two boxers fight for the title Sept. 24, in Kinshasa, Zaire.

Brown's interviews reveal that both men, their camps and their personalities are about as different as they possibly can be.

Foreman, who holds the title, lives in a ranch-style house near Pleasanton where a gym and boxing ring have been set up for him in the Gym and Mineral Building on the Alameda Fairgrounds. He generally stays to himself until he shows up at the gym at 2 p.m.

A Glamor Wardrobe

Not only does Connie Stevens have what she considers her "role of a lifetime" in "The Sex Symbol," the "Tuesday Movie of the Week" which will air Sept. 17 at 8:30 p.m. on ABC, but she found herself in her glory in the most glamorous wardrobe she has yet worn in a film.

Connie portrays a composite of several Hollywood sex goddesses in the movie, and she has no less than 36 different outfits to wear.

She also slipped into an additional 12 sexy creations for special pinup photo sessions, the results of which are seen throughout the movie as pictures on walls, magazine covers, poster art and inserts denoting her rise as filmdom's reigning sex symbol of the 1950's.

The costumes were intriguing for Connie because they were fashioned after the period of the picture - slinky evening gowns that hug every curve, plunging necklines, a silver lame pants outfit that Connie literally had to be sewn into, one piece bathing suits (the bikini hadn't been revealed yet), seductive nightgowns, etc.

And where did they all come from?

"Our wardrobe coordinator for the picture, Eleanor Parker, haunted every boutique and fashion center, scouting up the correct clothes," Connie says, "A lot of the outfits the kids are wearing today are similar to the fashions of the '50's."

Between shopping sprees and the Columbia Pictures TV wardrobe department, Mrs. Parker came up with all the clothes needed. Alterations were necessary, however. Necklines had to be opened and lowered, sleeves shortened and a lot of hems lowered.

"The clothes show a lot of me, but still leave enough to the imagination," Connie notes.

Bob Stack Insists He Can Smile

"There are people," Robert Stack was saying only half facetiously, "who think I don't even know how to smile."

After years of playing the grim-visaged Elliot Ness on "The Untouchables" and Dan Farrell on "The Name of the Game," Stack figures he's stereotyped now as a sourpuss.

"But that's not me at all," said Stack, proving it by his smiling and affable manner between takes on the set of a World Premiere mystery - thriller, "The Strange and Deadly Occurrence."

The film, to be colorcast this Fall on the NBC Television Network, stars Stack and Vera Miles as a couple who, shortly after moving into a new home in a remote area, are harassed and frightened by a series of inexplicable occurrences.

And once again he doesn't get a chance to smile much. But he recently appeared on the stage in Philadelphia in the comedy "6 Rms. Riv. Vu," which also featured his wife, Rosemarie Bowe, as his stage wife.

"I loved it," he said. "I really enjoy comedy and I'm not half back at it, if I do say so. But I'm hardly ever given a chance to do it." Prior to "6 Rms. Riv. Vu," Stack hadn't done comedy since the early days of live television. "Some people got the idea I had to play psychos like my role in 'Written on the Wind' or cold-eyed cops," he said. "But an actor has to take roles that stretch him. The last year of 'The Untouchables' I was dangerously close to doing a parody of myself as Elliot Ness," he said, smiling again.

TV's Longest Weekday Show

Television network's longest running weekday program is the award-winning "Today" show, seen Monday thru Friday mornings from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. It has been on the air since January 14, 1952, and max a day has been started with NBC's "Today" show giving the latest news and weather reports while viewers prepare for the days activities.

The format has never been changed, but the program has been continually updated to keep pace with current and often controversial issues.

TRAPPED—John Forsythe stars as a senior business executive who is trapped on the top floor of a burning skyscraper in "Terror on the 40th Floor", a drama to be colorcast on "NBC World Premiere Movie" Tuesday, Sept. 17.

Hartman Enjoys His Work

David Hartman, star of NBC's "Lucas Tanner," is a firm believer in the life theory that you like what you do for a living. With this ever present in his mind, he zeroed in on three of his favorite pursuits... communication, music and athletics... and wove a many-faceted, enjoyable way of life for himself.

David's a native of Pawtucket, R. I., and by the time he graduated from Mt. Herman Preparatory School, he had earned seven letters in sports. He was offered baseball contracts by the then-Boston Braves and the Philadelphia Phillies. These he refused, however, because he wanted to continue his education.

"I entered Duke University for a number of reasons. Partially, because of the fine music and liberal arts program, partially because of baseball and, finally, because I wanted a change of scenery from New England."

After a stint in the Air Force (he held the rank of 2nd Lieutenant), Hartman enrolled in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York. He appeared in a number of off-Broadway musicals and in summer stock prior to signing for the role of Rudolph, the singing waiter, in the original Broadway cast of "Hello Dolly!"

Some 800 performances later, Hartman joined the original cast of "The Yearling." He also toured with the Harry Belafonte Singers and followed with a year in the national company of "My Fair Lady." Hartman also was in the off-Broadway revival of "Best Foot Forward."

In 1966, he signed a contract with Universal Studios and was cast in the "World Premiere: I Love a Mystery." He later appeared in the World Premiere movies, "Nobody's Perfect" and "Ballard of Josie." He starred for a year in NBC-TV's "The Virginian."

Following four years of starring in "The Doctors" on NBC-TV's "The Bold Ones," David made a guest appearance on "The Carol Burnett Show," made his television singing-dancing debut on "The Bing Crosby Christmas Show" and starred in television's "Miracle on 34th Street."

Presenting the 84 mpg Volkswagen.

Since all the car manufacturers are conducting their own mileage tests these days, we at Volkswagen thought we'd conduct one too. So we modified our body—and our engine. And, of course, we got someone who didn't weigh much to drive.

To and behold, we got 84 miles per gallon! Ridiculous? Nobody normally drives like this? Of course. That's precisely our point. Nobody normally drives like most of those tests you're seeing.

Volkswagen. An honest 25⁺ miles per gallon.

A Bear Is Actor In 'Sierra'

An "actor" with the unlikely name of Murgatroyd has landed a recurring role in the new adventure series "Sierra," which is televised Thursdays on NBC-TV. Murgatroyd is only 8 years old but already is a veteran performer. He has appeared in dog food commercials, and has had roles on "Lassie" and in the Walt Disney movie "The Loner". In "Sierra," dramatizing the exploits of National Park Service Rangers and their service to the public, this "Youngster" portrays Cruncher, the troublesome park bear, who harasses tourists and frustrates the efforts of rangers to get him out of the park for good. He was "discovered" by animal trainer Ted and Pat Derby, who have trained other bears, cougars and tigers, among other animals, for live appearances, movies and television.

The Derbys bought Murgatroyd when he was a cub from a Los Angeles pet store where he was being kept in a small cage. They nursed him, trained him and soon discovered that they had a lovable "dingaling" on their hands.

Murgatroyd obviously enjoys performing. A nosy set and hot lights do not bother him in the least. He is always on cue and does not mind retakes. In short, he is a "ham".

An American black bear, Murgatroyd stands 6½ feet on his hind legs and weighs about 600 pounds. If blondes have more fun, then Murgatroyd has more fun in the summer when he turns that color. But most of the year his coloring is cinnamon.

When he's not on location in Yosemite National Park, where "Sierra" is filmed, he relaxes in his permanent home with the Derbys in Buellton, Calif.

Special Movie For December

"The Red Badge of Courage," Stephen Crane's story of a young soldier facing battle during the Civil War, will be colorcast as a 90-minute NBC-TV special on "NBC World Premiere Movie" in December. Richard Thomas, the Emmy-Award winning actor who plays John-Boy on "The Waltons," will star as Henry Fleming, the youthful soldier going into battle for the first time. "The Red Badge of Courage," regarded as a classic because of the universality of its theme — the personal and emotional reactions of the individual under stress during battle — was first published in 1895 and has enjoyed enduring popularity over the years. Lee Phillips will direct the television adaptation by John Gay. Charles Fitz-Simmons is producer. Filming will begin in Patagonia, Ariz., in Mid-September.

FACES PROBLEM— Richard Thomas (right), as John-Boy Walton, inadvertently faces the dissatisfaction of the head of his college English department (Lawrence Dobkin) in "The First Day" episode of "The Waltons" Thursday, September 19 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

Jas. Garner No Gunfighter In Film Role

James Garner stars as a runaway bridegroom who runs straight into the toughest job out West—that of a hired gunman in a money-crazed, mineral boom town, in "Support Your Local Gunfighter," which will have its television premiere as the season's first presentation on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, Sept. 19 (9:00-11:00 p.m.), on Channel 3N-9-11. Suzanne Pleshette, co-star of "The Bob Newhart Show" on CBS, also appears in the film, along with Jack Elam, Joan Blondell and Harry Morgan. In order to escape from matrimony, easygoing cowboy Latigo Smith jumps the train taking him and his bride-to-be, Goldie, to their wedding and finds himself in the strife-torn town of Purgatory, where he is trapped in a money struggle between two rival families and becomes the romantic target of Patience Barton, the lovely daughter of one of the embattled clans. Both sides are convinced that Latigo is a hired gunman.

'Kodiak' Created For Clint

Clint Walker starring as "Kodiak" in modern-day Alaska is a natural. Alaska is the last frontier and Clint's love of the outdoors fits right in with that big setting. ("Kodiak" is seen Fridays at 8 p.m. on ABC-TV)
 The series was created with Clint in mind. He has an outstanding appeal with the viewing public as his eight-year-run on the "Cheyenne" series confirms.
 It was not a simple matter coming up with just the right vehicle for Clint. We wanted to keep him outdoors but not tied down as a regular member of a law enforcement body. We wanted to keep him free and to work alone. As a result, he is a member of the fictitious Alaska State Patrol. He has no visible superiors to answer to, but when he captures a lawbreaker, he transports him to a coastal city for trial. He works within the law.
 Alaska is the perfect setting - it has the frontier atmosphere but modern techniques, equipment and means of transportation are used.
 In the role, Clint is independent of society and solves all the monumental problems with his own initiative and strength. There is no one to help him out in the wilderness. His many abilities, along with preserving law and order, let him serve the people as a symbol of help and a lifeline to the rest of the world. He is a laconic individualist who moves through life and gets things done.

TRAINS RATS— Bruce Davidson stars in the terrifying tale of a young man with the startling ability to control an army of rats, in "Willard," suspense - drama which has its world television premiere on "The CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, September 20 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

The various types of equipment we use in the series, snowmobiles, trucks, 4-wheel-drive vehicles, etc., are handled by a producer's dream-a giant of a man who is not only proficient in the use of the equipment but he can tear it apart and put it back together again. Clint's own backyard contains a bewildering array of tools and mechanical parts.

"Kodiak" was the answer to what Clint has always wanted in a series - a series filmed entirely on location in the natural setting of mountains, streams and with the feeling of real people.

'Wolfman' A Rock Legend

Wolfman Jack, a living legend in the field of rock and roll music, has received additional recognition. Six musical groups have paid tribute to Wolfman by recording songs about him.

Wolfman Jack has been the regular announcer on NBC Television Network's "The Midnight Special" (1:00 to 2:30 a.m.), following the Friday presentations of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson," since the show made its debut in February of 1973.

Millions of people find Wolfman and rock synonymous. Years ago he was playing rock music before it caught on over this country's top stations.

SATURDAY WORK

NBC-TV's new "Petrocelli" series, starring Barry Newman as a young lawyer in a southwestern city, has a Saturday shooting schedule because courtroom scenes must be filmed when the courthouse is not in use.

Experts Supply A Voice

Most television viewers have watched actors or singers lip-sync recordings, but few ever consider the off-camera actor speaking the words supposedly coming from the on-camera actor's mouth.

That's the job of voice experts Sidney Miller and Walker Edmiston, who supply voices for many characters on the cartoon shows.

Miller speaks for Blurp, the sea monster; Uncle Siggie, the school teacher; Buzzer Berman, the hip DJ; and Mister Telly. Edmiston is the voice of Pufnstuf; all the males in Lidsville; Sigmund, the friendly sea monster, and his evil opponents Slurp and Big Daddy; and the peacock on all NBC-TV.

Both men rehearse with the onstage actors, then go into a special booth to read their scripts while the cameras roll.

The most difficult job, according to Edmiston, is doing five or six characters at the same time: "Sometimes each of us does several characters all talking to each other and interrupting each other. It's like needing an automatic transmission because you don't have time to shift."

Miller, a director and lyricist in addition to being an actor, can currently be seen as the drunk driver who runs into Barbra Streisand's trailer in the movie "For Pete's Sake."

Edmiston, who also duplicates the voices of famous people, once had his own Los Angeles TV series which featured puppet characters and his own voices.

Huskers To Tame Badgers?

According to pre-season predictions, the Cornhuskers of Nebraska should have little trouble in defeating the Badgers of Wisconsin. Nebraska was ranked 8th in the nation while Wisconsin was rated 25th. However!... there lingers a scent of upset in the air.

Beyond any doubt, Nebraska will have a potent offense with a ground attack led by Tony Davis (1114 yards last year) and his back-up from last season, John O'Leary (333 yards). The quarterbacking chores will rest with All-America Dave Humm who passed for more than 1800 yards and 12 scores last season. Humm is as adept a runner as he is a passer. Also returning is Rich Baha, Humm's favorite target who picked up 441 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Despite their powerful offensive alignment, all is not ripe in Cornhusker Country, especially on defense. The entire defensive secondary has graduated along with Rich Sanger, their secondary kicking specialist. This presents a lot of questions for Nebraska's National Title aspirations.

Wisconsin returns eight starters on offense and eight on defense. All of their receivers are back along with quarterback Gregg Bohlig, who had 78 completions for 1211 yards and 8 touchdowns last season. Bill Marek, 2nd leading rusher in the Big Ten last year with 1207 yards and 14 touchdowns will again add punch to the Badger ground game. To give Wisconsin added fire power, they have punter Ken Simmons, best in the Big Ten, with 41.9 average in '73, and their entire defensive secondary returning.

The Badgers have never been known to be anything but tough; however, the Big Red Machine should be able to tame the upset-minded badgers.

TONY DAVIS, last season's super soph gained 1,114 yards and scored 13 touchdowns for the Nebraska Cornhuskers. This season he will be moved from I-Back to Fullback so that his understudy from last year, John O'Leary, can join him in the backfield. Nebraska will visit the Badgers of Wisconsin Saturday, Sept. 21, on channels 3W-5-12 at 1:30 p.m. for their second game of the season.

Chuck Connors Will Star In Will Host 'Go' 2-Hour Movie

Chuck Connors will be host of NBC Television Network's "GO" when the program visits in Red Bluff, California, Saturday, September 21, 12:30 to 1 p.m. ("GO" may be seen on Channel 6-7.) The Red Bluff Roundup is the largest two-day rodeo in the country.

Connors guides young viewers through the six main activities of the rodeo: bareback, saddle bronc, bull riding, calf roping, team roping and steer wrestling. Tom Ferguson and Bob Ragsdale, two of the country's leading rodeo performers, are the principal contestants. Also appearing are Gene Clark and Bill Lane, two bull-fighting clowns, whose job it is to keep the bulls away from fallen riders.

The activities of the stockman, Bob Christiansen, who supplies all the animals, will be explained by Connors.

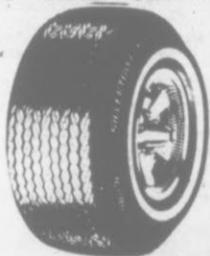

This segment of "GO" was produced and directed by J. Phillip Miller, and written by Red Lewis.

Joseph Bologna and Renee Taylor have been signed by Harris L. Katleman, President of MGM Television, to star in "Woman of the Year," their first two-hour movie for television slated for CBS.

The multi talented husband and wife team will co-write the project with Bernie Kahn.

Miss Taylor and Bologna reaped an Academy Award nomination for their "Lovers and Other Strangers" screenplay as well as an Emmy nomination for a Marlo Thomas television special.

Star Cast For 'The Cruise'

An all-star cast of top film stars has been signed to appear in "The Cruise," a 90-minute film currently in production for airing on the ABC Television Network's "Movie of the Week."

The cast is Edward Albert, Polly Bergen, Tom Bosley, Michael Constantine, Cesare Davona, Kate Jackson, Celeste Holm and Richard Long.

Three couples on a ten-day pleasure cruise find their holiday turned into a nightmare when mysterious deaths occur. The mystery-suspense screenplay was written by Jack B. Sowards and directed by Ralph Senesky.

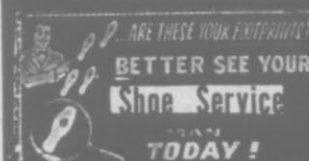

Much of the filming will be done on board the Queen Mary, anchored in San Pedro, California.

CHANGE OF PACE

James McEachin, who played a "good guy" investigator in last season's "Tenafly" on NBC-TV, will guest star as a police lieutenant of a different character in "Communication Gaffe," an upcoming episode of NBC-TV's "Emergency!"

Meredith 'Loyal' To Signal-Caller

Former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Don Meredith, making his first NBC TV start as a football commentator this summer, gave clear evidence that his on-the-field loyalties still lie with the man behind center. Meredith's first appearance with Curt Gowdy and Al DeRogatis was when the Los Angeles Rams hosted the two-time Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins, and it carried through his personal credo regarding sports television reporting: "Let's have fun!" Personifying Los Angeles quarterback John Hadl as "my old Kansas kid" and his Miami counterpart, Bob Griese, as "my boy scout leader," Meredith focused frequent attention on the two signal-callers (and their successors) in a game won by the Rams 31-13.

After Hadl had been forced to run in the face of a Miami blitz, then expertly hit the dirt ahead of an impending tackle, Meredith admitted: "I can't help it, I'm partial, but I love to see quarterbacks protect themselves. . . wait a minute, I'm paid to hand off and throw."

Later, after a Hadl scramble resulted in a short yardage pass completion, Meredith exclaimed: "That's fun, that's cool! When you've got one covered, try somebody else!"

As irreverent as ever, Meredith noted following a play in which Miami halfback Ben Malone failed to gain much yardage despite a series of impressive fakes and feints: "He who hesitates is lost" was written about a running back who didn't gain but two yards."

A sampling of other Meredithisms:

"Slant 35 is not what I call one of second- and -33 best plays."

"I one time forgot not only the snap count, I forgot the play I called."

"Good indication that was a rookie quarterback out there"

Taylor Assures A TD

Charley Taylor, the star of the Washington Redskins, became the 7th player in NFL history to catch at least 500 passes in a career last season when he caught 59 to lift his 10 year total to 528. This places him fifth on the leagues' all-time list with a chance to move into the top three in 1974 when fourth-place Lance Alworth (542 receptions) and third-place Lionel Taylor (567) will be his targets.

Taylor's per season average of 52.8 receptions, plus the fact that his 59 catches at age 32 in 1973 marked his highest season total in four years, stamp him as a definite threat to become the all-time reception leader.

In addition to catching many passes, Taylor has developed a distinct fondness for the end zone. During his career he has made 79 visitations to the promised land found at the ends of the gridiron. Taylor needs only five more touchdowns to become the 10th player in NFL history to score at least 500 points on touchdowns. Of his 79 touchdowns, 68 were scored receiving and 11 rushing.

The 1974 season gets underway Sunday, September 15, at 1 p.m., on Channel 9-11 with the Washington Redskins visiting the New York Giants.

With Charley Taylor on the field, fans can be assured that a quick touchdown strike is a definite possibility at anytime from anywhere on the field.

Winning Is A Big Thing To Staubach

Things happen — usually for the good of the Dallas Cowboys — when Roger Staubach's on the football field. For instance, in 1973 he completed 179 passes in 286 attempts for 2428 yards and 23 touchdowns. That's a 62.6 percent completion, an average of 8.3 yards per toss.

The 6'3", 197 pound Staubach is a talented scrambler, but he goes along with pro thinking that a quarterback should be doing other things first. "It's wrong to go in there and think 'run,'" says Staubach. "I really want to stay in the pocket and control things. At times, though, running is a necessity, and if it's there, I will take it."

He has gained 919 yards on 135 rushes, an average of 6.8 during his five-year NFL career.

His aerial marksmanship goes back to undergraduate maneuvers at the U.S. Naval Academy when, as a junior, he won the Heisman Trophy.

IN 11TH SEASON—Charlie Taylor, the star-receiver for the Washington Redskins, will open his 11th season on Sunday at 1:00 p.m. when the Redskins kick-off pro football on CBS against the New York Giants. Taylor was the NFL's No. 2 receiver last season with 59 receptions.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR GEORGE PEPPARD, star of "Banacek"
Do you like doing love scenes with all those pretty girls on screen? What's your feeling about marriage?—M. Adams, Ogden, Utah

● Who could NOT like doing those love scenes? But doing them in front of a bunch of people rather takes the edge off it. I'd prefer to do those scenes in private! As for marriage, I've been married twice, but it hasn't soured me. I'm a one-woman man, that's for sure, but whether it develops into a marital relationship depends on the woman. When "Miss Right" comes along, without any hesitation, I'll make her Mrs. George Peppard.

FOR JEAN NIDETCH, founder of Weight Watchers
What's the most memorable story you can tell about weight loss?—A. S., Little Rock, Ark.

● I'll never forget a priest at a Weight Watchers convention in Madison Square Garden telling 17,000 people that he was prompted to join Weight Watchers because his weight stopped him from bending to kneel as he prayed. He subsequently lost more than 300 pounds. I shall always remember the emotion in his voice as he explained how, when he could finally kneel again, he felt much closer to God.

FOR ELSA LANCHESTER, costar of the movie "Arnold"
How do today's stars compare with those of your generation?—S. Weiss, Colorado Springs, Colo.

● They're too stuck-up! Most of them have enormous egos and feel superior to any other line of work. Also, they don't want this role or that role because it's below their dignity. That's nonsense! We were taught a performer must perform. Also, they're ill-prepared to do any other sort of work.

FOR PAT COOPER, comedian

My mother-in-law, who came from Italy, thinks she may know your relatives there. What town and province do your people come from?—Elinor Filice, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● I'm sorry, but I don't really know. I was christened Pasquale Caputo, which is a very common name in Italy and elsewhere—almost like John Smith. But I wish we were related, because I've always wanted to go over Niagara Falls in a barrel—with my family watching and cheering me as I do wonderful tricks like looping-the-loop.

FOR HARVEY KORMAN of "The Carol Burnett Show"

You're such a good comic. Do you ever plan to have a show of your own?—Kate Allen, Bloomington, Ill.

● Sometime in the future, if the right format could be found, I might like to have a show of my own. But the thing I really want to do more of is directing. I tried it a couple of times and I loved it.

FOR PHYLLIS DILLER

Are you seriously thinking of opening a chain of chili restaurants?—Cheri Aird, Sprakers, N.Y.

● You bet I am. I feel it's my duty to open a chain because my chili cures ulcers. It very quickly eats out your entire stomach, which is a quicker and more enjoyable way of kissing your ulcers good-bye than surgery.

FOR IRVING WALLACE, author

Your new novel, "The Fan Club," is about the kidnapping of a Hollywood sex symbol by four average men. Is that based on a true incident?—F. Leeburg, Memphis, Tenn.

● No, I made it up entirely. However, after the book was well on its way I read a story of four men in the Philippines being condemned to death for the abduction and rape of a popular film actress. Funny how life and art sometimes tell the same stories!

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

How can an adult raise his IQ?—Miss J. R. Berning, Cuba City, Wis.

● He can't. An IQ is just an indication of his capacity. No one works up to his (or her) capacity; and it's been estimated that we only use ten percent of our capacity. So by continuing to learn, to be interested in the world around him and to make himself open to new ideas, although he (or she) does not raise his IQ, he raises his functioning ability.

FOR DON SHULA, coach of the Miami Dolphins

People say you shouldn't be critical of Larry Csonka for jumping to the World Football League because you jumped from the Baltimore Colts. Agreed?—Jack Stevenson, Canton, Ohio

● There is absolutely no parallel. My position as coach in Baltimore was deteriorating rapidly, and owner Carroll Rosenbloom was quoted as saying he was going to fire me. When I got the offer from Miami, Rosenbloom was traveling out of the country, so I received permission to leave from his son.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

What would you say is the toughest political job in the nation today—excluding the Presidency?—L. K., Los Angeles, Calif.

● It could well be running the Republican party in Democratic little old New York. What makes the job so difficult now is that, in addition to Watergate, which all Republicans must face this year, New York County Democrats out-register Republicans 4-1. Also, this fellow, Vincent F. Albano, Jr., is leader in a city in which only two Republican mayors have ruled in the past half century, and one of them, John V. Lindsay, wound up as a Democrat. The other, Fiorello LaGuardia, only became mayor because he was a Fusion candidate. That's why many politicians feel Albano's job may be the most difficult in the whole world.

Vincent Albano

By Robert A. Heinlein
Author of "Stranger in a Strange Land,"
"Time Enough for Love," etc.

A Famous Author

"A tribe or a nation can lose a high percentage of its men and still pick up the pieces and go on as long as the women and children are saved."

Patriotism—an abstract word used to describe a type of behavior as harshly practical as good brakes and good tires. It means that you place the welfare of your nation ahead of your own even if it costs you your life.

Men who go down to the sea in ships have long had another way of expressing the same moral behavior tagged by the abstract expression "patriotism." Spelled out in simple Anglo-Saxon words, "patriotism" reads "Women and children first!"

And that is the moral result of realizing a self-evident biological fact: Men are expendable; women and children are not. A tribe or a nation can lose a high percentage of its men and still pick up the pieces and go on as long as the women and children are saved. But if you fail to save the women and children, you've had it, you're done, you're through! You join Tyrannosaurus rex, one more breed that bilged its final test.

I must amplify that. I know that women can fight and often have. I have known many a tough old grandmother I would rather have at my side in a tight spot than any number of males who disdain military service. Nevertheless, as a mathematical proposition in the facts of biology, children, and women of childbearing age, are the ultimate treasure that we must save. Every human culture is based on "Women and children first"—and any attempt to do it any other way leads quickly to extinction.

Possibly extinction is the way we are headed. Great nations have died in the past; it can happen to us.

Robert A. Heinlein is one of the foremost science-fiction writers of our time. His novel "Stranger in a Strange Land" has earned him a large following on college campuses—and off them. Mr. Heinlein delivered the James Forrestal Memorial Lecture on April 5, 1973, to the Brigade of Midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., his alma mater. This is an excerpt from the conclusion of the lecture.

Looks at Patriotism

Nor am I certain how good our chances are. To me it seems self-evident that any nation that loses its patriotic fervor is on the skids. Without that indispensable survival factor, the end is only a matter of time. I don't know how deeply the rot has penetrated—but it seems to me that there has been a change for the worse in the last 50 years. Possibly I am misled by the offensive behavior of a noisy but unimportant minority. But it does seem to me that patriotism has lost its grip on a large percentage of our people.

I hope I am wrong, because if my fears are well-grounded, I would not bet two cents on this nation's chance of lasting even to the end of this century.

But there is no way to force patriotism on anyone. Passing a law will not create it, nor can we buy it by appropriating so many billions of dollars.

I said that "patriotism" is a way of saying "Women and children first." And that no one can force a man to feel this way. Instead he must embrace it freely. I want to tell about one such man. He wore no uniform and no one knows his name, nor where he came from; all we know is what he did.

In my hometown 60 years ago, when I was a child, my mother and father used to take me and my brothers and sisters out to Swope Park on Sunday afternoons. It was a wonderful place for kids, with picnic grounds and lakes and a zoo. But a railroad line cut straight through it.

One Sunday afternoon a young married couple were crossing those tracks. She apparently did not watch her step, for she managed to catch her foot in the frog of a switch to a siding and could not pull it free. Her husband stopped to help her.

But try as they might they could not get her foot loose. While they were working at it, a tramp showed up, walking the ties. He joined the husband in trying to pull the young woman's foot loose. No luck.

Out of sight around the curve a train whistled. Perhaps there would have been time to run and flag it down, perhaps not. In any case both men went right ahead trying to pull her free—and the train hit them.

The wife was killed, the husband was mortally injured and died later, the tramp was killed—and testimony showed that neither man made the slightest effort to save himself.

The husband's behavior was heroic, but what we expect of a husband toward his wife: his right and his proud privilege, to die for his woman. But what of the nameless stranger? Up to the very last second he could have jumped clear. He did not. He was still trying to save this woman he had never seen before in his life, right up to the very instant the train killed him. And that's all we'll ever know about him.

This is how a man dies.
This is how a man lives.

If You Can Lick a Stamp—You Can Lick Your Weight Problem!

Now, if you can lick a stamp, you can lick your weight problem! That's a guarantee—and Northwestern Pharmaceuticals takes all the risk.

Because Northwestern will not deposit your check or money order for four weeks after your order is mailed. That'll give you plenty of time to receive it, try it—and see for yourself that it really works for you.

If—for any reason—you're not thrilled with the results, all you have to do is return the unused portion within the four weeks. Your uncashed check or money order will be sent to you by return mail!

Here's why Northwestern dares to make this unusual guarantee:

In the first place, it's a proven product. Northwestern's Weight-Loss Plan has been on the market for over 11 years. Hundreds of thousands have tried it—and less than 2% have asked for their money back! And if you have any questions about its safety or potency, Northwestern urges you to check with your doctor.

It's a different product. Northwestern's Weight-Loss Plan is different—and effective—in all these ways:

First—It's your plan... your age, your height, your weight, and how much you want to lose... these things are all taken into account when you select your Plan! The truth is that if you need to lose 50 pounds, you need a different kind of diet than someone who needs to lose 10. And you get it.

Second—You choose the foods you like best. Most diets fail because they're so limited or tasteless that you start cheating. Then you get discouraged and give up—or go on a real food binge. Northwestern expects you to cheat. Their plan encourages you to treat yourself to satisfying amounts of such foods as pie with cream topping, pastries, ice cream sundaes, cheesecake, waffles with maple syrup, nutty brownies, mashed potatoes and gravy, creamy salad dressings, milkshakes, creamed vegetables, chili con carne, chow mein, beef stroganoff, and fried chicken!

Northwestern's Plan not only "allows" these diet-breaks—they actually include the special, delicious recipes!

Third—Your diet is automatically "adjusted"... as your weight goes down. You don't follow a 500-calorie diet or a 1000-calorie diet. In fact, you don't count calories at all! But as you reach your weight goals, you "automatically" eat less—and keep on losing weight.

Fourth—You'll lose... without starving! Follow the Plan and you don't ever have to leave the table feeling hungry! You can even eat out or go on a picnic—and no one will guess that you're dieting!

Fifth—It's inexpensive! You get everything you need to know and everything you need to take for 60 days. Tablets that supplement food and safeguard your health, but play no role in weight loss, are included at no extra cost. And the full price is just $5.50—less than a dime a day!

How much weight you lose and how fast you lose it obviously depends on you, but here are some excerpts from unsolicited, unusual letters. They were mailed to Northwestern with reorders:

Teenager lost 14 pounds

"I am sixteen years old and have been on the diet for two weeks, and have lost fourteen pounds."

Lost 18 pounds

"Without the fear of getting off my diet or nervous tension, I have lost 18 pounds. Thanks to you, I look human again."

Lost 13 pounds in 3 weeks

"Your diet plan is wonderful. Have lost 13 pounds in 3 weeks."

Wonderful list of foods

"I have enjoyed being on your diet, and the results have been more than I expected on a diet of this nature, that includes such a wonderful list of foods. I was getting desperate, for I found I could not leave food alone. Now I'm back in my size 9 again."

You don't get hungry!

"I started 30 days ago. At that time I weighed 197 pounds. Today I weigh 186 pounds. I feel much better and everyone tells me how much better I look."

"P.S.: Your formula gives you so much to eat that you don't get hungry."

Mother lost 37 pounds

"My mother took them for 6 months and is down to 138 pounds. She weighed 175. I would like to order."

Down to size 12

"It has done wonders for me. I was a size 18 last year and am down to size 12 now."

Painless way to diet

"The first week I lost weight and didn't realize it until I weighed myself and took my measurements. Thank you for a wonderful and painless way to diet."

Lost 30 pounds in 2 months

"I lost 30 pounds and 2 dress sizes with a 2-month supply. It was out of sheer desperation that I answered your ad in the Chicago Sun-Times. Believe me, I will be eternally grateful."

Easiest way to lose

"It is the easiest way I ever lost weight. I have lost 37 pounds."

Shots and pills couldn't help

"I am extremely overweight, and found that shots and pills could not help me because of my nervousness. I tried your plan, starting September 25th and to this date, October 13th, I have lost 12 pounds. The best thing is I am much happier and more active, with no 'nerves'."

No ill-feelings, nervousness

"It has been approximately 2 years since I last took your product. At that time I took it for three months and lost 40 pounds. Never for one minute did I experience any ill-feelings, nervousness or weakness. Having had another addition to the family, I once again need your assistance."

Weight stayed down

"I lost 30 pounds in only 12 weeks of following the plan and after four more months I have not gained any of it back. I had tried every other diet in the past 20 years and this is the first time my weight stayed down after losing."

And Northwestern is so sure their Plan will work for you that they won't cash your check 'til you're sure. You can lose weight—can't lose money. Why not fill out and mail the Agreement right now?

A Tasty Challenge for Men Who Cook:

Is there a chef in your house? Herewith is a potpourri of delicious recipes designed especially for men. (Editor's note: But that doesn't mean we women might not have to pitch in and pull some of these great dishes across the finish line!)

Dishes Your Man Will Love (And Maybe Love To Fix)

Chinese Sweet 'n' Sour Beef

- 1 lb. top round steak, ½ to ¾ inch thick*
- Natural meat tenderizer, seasoned or unseasoned
- 5 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 large onion, cut in thin wedges
- 1 can (8½ ozs.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
- 1 green pepper, cut in squares
- 1 can (13¼ ozs.) pineapple tidbits or chunks, undrained
- 2 tablespoons ketchup
- 1 tablespoon wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 3 tablespoons cold water
- 2 firm, ripe tomatoes, cut in eighths
- Hot cooked rice

1. Trim excess fat from beef. Prepare meat, one side at a time, with meat tenderizer as follows: Thoroughly moisten meat with water. Sprinkle tenderizer as evenly as salt over entire meat surface. To insure penetration of tenderizer and retain meat juices, pierce meat deeply with fork at ½-inch intervals.

2. With sharp knife, cut beef diagonally across grain into thin slices.

3. In wok or large skillet heat 3 tablespoons vegetable oil until hot but not smoking.

4. Quickly brown beef over high heat, stirring rapidly 3-4 minutes. Remove meat and pan drippings to platter.

5. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons oil in same skillet. Add onion, water chestnuts and green pepper. Stir-fry until tender-crisp, about 3 minutes.

6. Add undrained pineapple, ketchup, vinegar, soy sauce and sugar. Heat to boiling.

7. Mix cornstarch smoothly with cold water. Add to sauce in skillet and heat, stirring, until sauce clears and thickens.

8. Return meat and drippings to skillet and add tomatoes; heat through. Serve over hot cooked rice.

Makes 5-6 servings

*Or use 1 lb. lean boneless pork.

If you enjoy cooking with a wok, try this Chinese Sweet 'n' Sour Beef. Oriental Bean Sprout Salad makes a good side dish.

A Salad With Sprouts, A Swedish Bread With Raisins

ORIENTAL BEAN SPROUT SALAD

- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1/4 cup wine vinegar
- 2 tablespoons toasted sesame seeds*
- 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 lb. mushrooms, sliced, or 1 can (6 ozs.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 4 cups shredded iceberg lettuce
- 1/2 lb. fresh bean sprouts or 1 can (16 ozs.) bean sprouts, drained

1. Combine first 6 ingredients for dressing; mix thoroughly and chill.
2. Just before serving toss with mushrooms, lettuce and bean sprouts. Makes 6 servings

*To toast sesame seeds, heat them in small skillet, stirring until lightly browned.

SWEDISH LIMPA

- 3-4 cups unsifted all-purpose white flour
- 2 1/2 cups unsifted medium rye flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- 2 pkgs. active dry yeast
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/4 cup light molasses
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 2/3 cup chopped dark seedless raisins
- Cornmeal

1. In a large, warm bowl thoroughly mix 1 cup white flour, 1 cup medium rye flour, sugar, salt, grated orange rind and undissolved active dry yeast.
2. Combine milk, water, molasses and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low heat until liquids are very warm (120°-130°F.). Margarine doesn't need to melt.

3. Gradually pour warm milk mixture into dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally.

4. Stir in raisins, remaining rye flour and enough white all-purpose flour to make a stiff dough.

5. Turn out onto a lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 5-8 minutes (dough may be sticky).

6. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

7. Punch dough down, turn out onto lightly floured board. Divide in half. Shape each half into a ball. Flatten slightly. Slash tops diagonally 1/4 inch deep with sharp knife or razor. Place on greased baking sheets that have been lightly sprinkled with cornmeal.

8. Cover loaves; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

9. Shortly before rising time is up preheat oven to 375°F. Bake loaves 35-40 minutes, until they are done or sound hollow when thumped.

10. Remove from baking sheets immediately and cool on wire racks.

Makes 2 loaves

Pardon the intrusion.
We wanted you to notice that the Miracle pound spreads two more loaves...

than unwhipped margarines.

Miracle Brand Margarine is whipped. Which means more pats per pound. 36 more, to be exact. And that's enough to spread two extra loaves of bread at 18 slices per loaf.

In these times, that's a small miracle in itself.

OVEN-BAKED CHICKEN KIEV*

- 4 whole chicken breasts (about 1 lb. each)
- ¼ lb. butter or margarine (1 stick)
- 1 tablespoon freeze-dried chives
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon thyme leaves
- ½ teaspoon marjoram leaves
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 2 eggs, lightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons water
- ½ cup toasted wheat germ
- ¼ lb. butter or margarine, melted
- Watercress sprigs

1. Cut chicken breasts in half. Skin and bone carefully. Flatten each piece of chicken between sheets of waxed paper. Pound chicken gently until ¼ inch thick, using meat mallet or hammer.

2. Cut butter stick in half cross-wise. Cut each half into 4 lengthwise sticks. Chill.

3. Combine chives, salt, thyme, marjoram and pepper. Sprinkle an equal amount of seasoning over each piece of chicken.

4. Place a butter stick on edge of each chicken breast. Roll up tightly, folding in sides to enclose butter and make a firm, tight roll. Secure with toothpicks. Refrigerate covered.

5. Beat eggs with water lightly. Dip chicken rolls in egg mixture. Drain and roll in toasted wheat germ, then in melted butter.

6. Preheat oven to 450°F. Arrange chicken in greased, shallow baking pan. Bake for 20 minutes, or until chicken is tender and lightly browned.

7. Arrange on heated serving platter, garnish with watercress. Makes 4-8 servings

Make-ahead note: May be made ahead through Step 5. Refrigerate covered until just before baking.

Oven-Baked Chicken Kiev is an easy, up-to-date method of making a show-off dish.

RUSSIAN SAUERKRAUT SOUP*

- 2 lbs. beef short ribs or beef brisket
- 2 lbs. beef soupbones, cracked
- 2 cups chopped carrot
- 2 cups chopped onion
- 2 cups chopped celery and tops
- 8 cups shredded cabbage
- 3 cloves garlic, crushed
- 3 qts. water
- 1 can (28 ozs.) tomatoes
- 2 bay leaves
- 3 teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 can (1 lb.) sauerkraut, rinsed and drained
- 4 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2-3 tablespoons sugar
- Sour cream

1. Preheat oven to 450°F. Place short ribs and beef bones in a roasting pan. Bake 20-25 minutes, until meat is brown. Turn once.

2. Transfer short ribs and soupbones to an 8-qt. soup kettle. Add carrot, onion, celery, celery tops, cabbage, garlic, water, tomatoes, bay leaves, salt and pepper. Bring to boiling; skim off foam with slotted spoon. Reduce heat; simmer covered 1½-2 hours, until meat is tender.

Banana Breeze

A luscious, creamy, no-cook filling in a crunchy, no-bake crumb crust. Convenience ingredients cut your time and work. Almost as easy as peeling a banana. Here's how:

No-Bake Crust

1/3 cup regular margarine or butter
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon (optional)
1 cup Kellogg's® Corn Flake Crumbs
Melt margarine, sugar and cinnamon in small saucepan.

Place over low heat, stir constantly until bubbles form around edges of pan; remove from heat.

Add Corn Flake Crumbs; mix well.

Press mixture evenly in 9-inch pie pan to form crust. Chill.

No-Cook Filling

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 can Eagle® Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk* (not evaporated milk)
1/3 cup bottled lemon juice (measure accurately)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
5 medium size ripe Dole® bananas
2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice

*Magnolia® or Dime® Brands may be used.

Beat the cream cheese until light and fluffy.

Add sweetened condensed milk. Blend thoroughly.

Add 1/3 cup lemon juice and vanilla and stir 'til thickened.

Slice three of the bananas; line crust with banana slices.

Turn filling into crust. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours, or 'til firm. (Do not freeze.)

Slice the other two bananas and dip in remaining lemon juice. Garnish top of pie with banana slices as shown.

Yield: 8 servings.

Chicken With a Delicate French Touch

3. Remove soupbones from kettle, discard. Cut meat into chunks and return to soup. Add sauerkraut, lemon juice and sugar to taste. Add more water if necessary.

4. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer covered 1 hour longer.

5. Serve from heated tureen or ladle directly into soup bowls. Pass sour cream as a garnish.

Makes 4 qts.

Make-ahead note: This soup may be frozen.

*Of Russian origin, this soup is called Schchi ("sh-chee"). Serve with a robust pumpernickel, sliced raw onions, cheese and beer.

Chicken a la Provençale is simmered lazily in a sauce flavored with garlic, onion, tomatoes and peppers.

CHICKEN A LA PROVENÇALE*

6 tablespoons olive oil
4 lbs. chicken parts, rinsed and dried
2 cups green pepper strips (2 large)
1 1/2 lbs. (4 medium) tomatoes
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1 bay leaf
1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
2 cups sliced onion
1/4 lb. spicy sausage, sliced (kielbasa, smoky links, chorizo or Italian)
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup water

1. Heat oil in a 5-qt. Dutch oven. Add chicken a few pieces at a time. Brown slowly on all sides over medium heat. Remove as browned.

2. Sauté green pepper strips in same oil about 5 minutes, stirring. Add tomatoes, garlic, bay leaf and thyme. Sauté, stirring, for 5 minutes.

3. Return chicken pieces to Dutch oven. Add onion and sausage; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer covered 30 minutes, until chicken is tender.
4. To thicken sauce, stir flour into water smoothly. Add to Dutch oven. Heat, stirring, until sauce boils.

Makes 4-6 servings

Gary Collins: "I Miss Italian Food in Kenya!"

Gary Collins with his wife, Mary Ann Mobley, who was Miss America in 1959.

By Gary Collins

In conversation with Helen Dorsey

Gary Collins, who appeared in the series "The Sixth Sense," is now starring for NBC-TV in "Born Free." It is being filmed in Kenya, and he talked with Helen Dorsey from there:

We have had some very good African food here in Kenya, but for the most part, we have European cooking. I miss Italian food particularly because I love to cook. I cook all our meals at home: roast pork, steak, lasagna, spaghetti (Mary Ann is very good with spaghetti sauce) or osso buco. And I make a terrific spinach salad almost every night.

OSSO BUCO

- 8 pieces veal shank, about 3 inches thick
- Seasoned flour
- 4 tablespoons fine-grade olive oil
- 1 onion, peeled and chopped
- 1 clove garlic, pressed
- 1 teaspoon basil
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- Salt
- Pepper
- 1 cup chopped tomatoes (fresh or canned), drained
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- 1 cup chicken stock
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 4 small carrots, peeled and diced
- 6 pearl onions, peeled
- 4 potatoes, peeled, cut in quarters
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley
- ½ teaspoon dried sage
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind

1. Dredge veal liberally with seasoned flour. Brown on all sides in olive oil in large skillet or Dutch oven. Remove shanks; set aside.
2. Add onion and garlic to skillet; sauté until onion softens. Return veal to skillet.
3. Add basil, oregano, salt and pepper to taste, tomatoes, lemon juice, chicken stock and wine. Stir lightly. Cover, bring to boil. Simmer 1 hour, or until meat is tender.

4. Add carrots, onions and potatoes; cover, simmer 30 minutes longer, or until vegetables are tender.
5. Add parsley, sage and lemon rind; taste to correct seasonings. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings

SPINACH SALAD SUPREME

- 4 slices crisp bacon, drained
- 1 tablespoon bacon drippings
- 4 tablespoons fine-grade olive oil
- 3 tablespoons wine vinegar
- 1 lb. raw spinach, washed and well drained
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, peeled and sliced
- Small white onion, peeled, cut in rings
- Freshly ground black pepper
- Salt

1. Crumble bacon; drain again on absorbent paper.
2. In small bowl or glass jar, combine bacon drippings, olive oil and vinegar. Mix well; set aside.
3. Place spinach, eggs, onion and bacon crumbles in salad bowl. Season liberally with salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle with dressing, tossing well. Makes 3 servings

Why Models Stay Young Till Sixty!

Revealed at last! By the world's most beautiful women — who make their living by being, and staying, young! What they really do to:

- add not a single pound to their figures, even though they add five, ten, twenty or thirty candles to their birthday cakes!
- rinse so much shine into their hair that it has to be powdered down so it doesn't glare into the TV cameras!
- smooth out ugly veins from their hands and feet, in exactly the same way that they smooth out ugly lines from their necks and faces!
- leave their double-chin in bed when they get up in the morning, because they know the right way to simply "sleep it away"!
- "pearlize" their skin, so you would never dream that they too suffered from blackheads, enlarged pores or acne!

These Beauty Secrets — And Dozens More Just Like Them — Earn These Women Up To $100 An Hour! Now They Are YOURS For Only A Few Pennies Apiece!

What we are offering you, in fact, is the world's first "inside" manual on how ordinary women (with perhaps a slightly better face and a slightly better figure than yours) are transformed overnight into stunning beauties! With pounds carved painlessly off their figures! Years smoothed effortlessly off their faces! Every good feature perfected, and every bad feature either corrected or disguised!

And then — when the absolute exquisite face-figure has been created out of the raw girl who first came into the studio — this dazzling physical beauty is then "frozen" against time and weight-gain-of-even-an-ounce for ten . . . twenty . . . even forty years!

For great models are not born; they are made! (On page 10 of this eye-opening volume, you are taken behind-the-scenes in the most glamorous "sorority" in the world, and you are shown that there is scarcely a model alive who did not need to have ten or twenty pounds whisked off her figure, and a major transformation made on her face, before a top model agency offered her a contract!) But these women made themselves slim, and made themselves radiant far more cleverly and easily than you have ever dreamed. Let us prove that to you right now:

Take Slimming, For Example! How Would You Like To Eat What You Want, When You Want It — And Still Get And Stay Slim Forever!

Let us just quote one of the models whose "forever-young, forever-slim" secrets are revealed here! She says, quite frankly, "I positively adore food. And I never, but never, starve myself. Yet I weigh the same today as when I started modeling more than ten years ago." (Italics ours.)

Why? Because she uses the "Self-Maintaining Diet"! The diet that's fun, that's the happiest of adventures! That actually tames, overnight, those sudden wild urges that destroy your figure! That re-educates your taste buds and your metabolism, so that you find yourself able to eat what you want, when you want it, without gaining so much as an ounce — and (at least at the beginning) losing as much as a pound a day!

Using this diet strategy, food becomes an ally rather than an enemy! It fills you up, but never out! Using this strategy, one model went from 140 pounds to 123 pounds in well under a single month — and she still ate what she pleased on weekends!

Using this strategy, every other model (with the exception of one or two) who faithfully followed it for ten days lost ten big pounds — to start! Another (a perfectionist) went from 133 to 97 pounds! Another, who was bottom-heavy, not only shed ugly pounds all over her body — but spot-exercised the flab right off her bottom so perfectly that she now does bathing suit ads!

And This "Frozen Slenderness" Is Only The Beginning Of The Stunning New Beauty These Top Models Can Give You! Without Your Risking A Penny!

For example: Of all women, a successful model must always be a healthy, sexually vibrant, powerhouse of energy! She must be able to "turn on the dazzle" at a moment's notice — despite the fact that she has been dashing all over the city, toting pounds of clothes, a make-up kit, and often a wig box! Here are the "glamour vitamins" that turn on such amazing stores of physical vitality — ready to go to work for you within seconds after you read page 42!

Nor can an $80-an-hour model afford the slightest trace of dandruff! After trying all the expensive treatments and preparations, here's how they simply rinse the ugly flakes away, at home, in seconds — for pennies! (Page 63.)

And glasses are out too! Weak eyes, aging eyes, dull eyes can cost a model her career! These top models believe that most women take to spectacles simply because of lazy eye muscles, just as most women take to girdles because of lazy body muscles! And if you want to escape the "eye-glass-prison" — perhaps far faster than you've ever dreamed — check page 68 the moment you get this book!

And how about strong, sexy teeth! Did you ever hear, for example, of the new sealants that can be applied to your teeth in seconds, to shield them from harmful bacteria! (See page 73.)

SPECIAL BONUS SECTION: Tips from top hand models that may solve your rough, red problem forever! They say bluntly that there is simply no excuse any longer for hands that are anything else but silken smooth — and nails that are as strong as steel! One glance at the "magic" hand exercises on page 81 may convince you, for good!

PLUS, of course, the same "million-dollar-know-how" for your feet as well! Including a natural-fruit way to keep their skin exquisitely white and fine-pored! And a simple little action that builds a natural-shield against calluses right into them!

These Models Say Old-Fashioned Huff-And-Puff Exercises Are OUT! If You Want A 28-Inch Waist At Age Sixty — Do This Instead . . .

Just MOVE the way you're shown on pages 89 to 103 . . . and watch inches seem to evaporate!

Here are special, super-effective slimmers for the stomach, legs, hips, calves, derriere, arms, bosom — and especially that embarrassing "below-stomach bulge" that otherwise grows larger and larger! Also two startling "firmer-uppers" for neck lines and for bags under your eyes that you must try at once if you suffer from either one!

Incidentally, if you want to smooth out lip wrinkles, also check page 101 at once!

And this is still just the beginning! We just don't have room enough here to mention all the professional beauty secrets revealed at last in this eye-opening book! For example:

How to eliminate muddy, bumpy-looking complexion with nothing but water . . .

How to build a voice as seductive as your new body — a complete mini-course . . .

How to achieve the illusion of a near-perfect face (for example, if you have a receding chin, how to "add" to it in seconds) . . .

How to blend your own shampoos, skin creams and facials, that cost almost nothing, but far outperform the expensive kind . . .

8" PARING KNIFE

Revolutionary new technological advances combined indestructible Vanadium and Molybdenum into superb Total Edge Knives, so unique, so superior, they're guaranteed to stay sharp forever or we'll refund your money—anytime.

THE TOTAL EDGE KNIVES

Forget what you know about knives. This is the age of the fantastic Total Edge Cutlery Set, a revolutionary, unique set of knives with blades that always remain sharp and even. It became possible to design the Total Edge Knife only after our research technicians discovered a way to combine two rare and expensive metals, Vanadium and Molybdenum, into a tough, everlasting cutting tool that won't rust, bend or dull. American Consumer, Inc. stands proudly behind every knife we sell. We unconditionally guarantee them forever. No matter what happens, we'll replace the knife or your money, a month from now, a year, 20 years, anytime.

FOR EVERY CUTTING CHORE

These exciting products of man's imagination and scientific know-how are lightweight, thin and flexible. They can be used for every purpose, chopping, dicing, filleting, mincing, paring, carving... you name it. The permanently razor sharp Total Edge Knives cut cleanly and swiftly. They cut as thin a slice as you could possibly desire—meat, poultry, fruit, vegetables, bread—even onion slices so thin you can see right through them. And, they're uniquely engineered to protect fingers with handles safety-bonded to the blade.

SENSATIONAL LOW PRICE

Best of all—the low, low price—only $9.98 for the set of 4. Yet, the Total Edge set out-performs any knives you've ever seen, even sets selling for up to $24.98. How can we make the best for less? We feel our knives are so good, so unique, we've made an unusual commitment. We've gambled that this spectacular set of knives at the spectacularly low price of $9.98 will sell by the hundreds of thousands. That's a lot of knives. This volume permits us to pass on the unusual savings to you. Now, every household can have the finest cutlery set in the world. Take advantage of this unheard of offer now.

SET OF 4 FOR THE UNBELIEVABLE PRICE OF

Razor sharp and precise, the Total Edge Knives cut meat, onions, luncheon meats, vegetables, cheese—anything—paper thin.

On ordinary knife, edge is but a fraction of total surface. On the Total Edge Knives, the entire blade is the cutting edge.

GUARANTEE

American Consumer unconditionally guarantees the 4-piece Vanadium Molybdenum Cutlery Set FOREVER! They are guaranteed to be the finest, toughest, sharpest you've ever seen or we'll return your money, anytime, anywhere. Even if a truck runs over one, we'll replace it, one month from now, one year, 20 years—forever!

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

What Do We Know About "Worriers"?

True or False: Anxious people, who go through life feeling apprehensive, are the most enthusiastic spreaders of rumor and gossip. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Just as misery loves company, anxiety-ridden people prefer the company of others who are similarly worried and anxious.
2. A worried, anxious state of mind makes you much more subject to motion sickness, whether traveling by land, sea or air.
3. When you get up in the morning oppressed by a feeling of vague worry and free-floating anxiety, you'll feel better if you wear something that's blue or yellow.
4. Anxious people, who go through life feeling apprehensive, are the most enthusiastic spreaders of rumor and gossip.
5. An anxious, apprehensive state of mind makes you much more subject to accident—either as a pedestrian threading your way through traffic or as the driver of an automobile.
6. Anxiety makes people miserable and unhappy. There's nothing good about it.

ANSWERS

1. False—as shown by the findings of a psychological study that proved that more often than not people who scored high on anxiety tests preferred the company of calm, unruffled people who were as far from anxious as you can get. Despite the saying to the contrary, the investigation showed that "Misery sometimes loves non-miserable company."
2. True—as evidenced by psychological studies at the University of London that evaluated the findings of leading researches on why some people are susceptible to motion sickness. The conclusion: Available evidence strongly suggests that "motion sickness (in its various and sundry forms) is related to a person's general anxiety level."

3. True—according to the findings of a university study assessing people's instinctive psychological responses to color, which showed that blue had a calming effect on subjects and that "yellow produced increased 'positive' feelings [e.g., happiness]."

4. True. In a Temple University study, students' anxiety was measured by a standard anxiety scale. The students were then divided into two groups: the high scorers and those who evidenced low anxiety. Rumor transmission was studied by exposing members of high- and low-anxiety groups to various rumors. Results: "High-anxiety groups confronted with a rumor transmitted that rumor throughout the group with a higher frequency than did similar groups of low-anxiety subjects." Moral: If you don't want a rumor to spread, the last thing you should do is confide it to someone who's anxious and worried.

5. True. University studies show that an anxious, apprehensive state of mind makes a person more vulnerable to accident or injury because it interferes with his mental processes, slowing his reaction time significantly and making it more difficult for him to get out of danger's way when there's a split-second margin of safety.

6. False—according to a special study of anxiety conducted at the Economic and Social Research Institute (Dublin). It was concluded in summing up the findings that anxiety can be useful or unuseful. A moderate level of anxiety is useful if it manifests itself as strong motivation. Anxiety is unuseful if it becomes so high that it turns into neurosis. Thus anxiety can be good or bad, depending on its degree of intensity.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ARTHRITIS PAIN

- Backache
 - Circulation
 - Nervous Tension
- ...and how you can now get Blessed Relief

Doctors know that no cure for arthritis has yet been discovered. However, a method has been developed to ease the minor pain of arthritis whenever it occurs. Indeed, this same hospital-tested method also helps increase circulation, soothes nagging backache, even eases simple nervous tension to help bring restful sleep without drugs.

You'll discover a new joy in living

Imagine firm, but gentle, "fingers" massaging you where it hurts...in three separate directions: now up and down, then sideways, then in a circular motion. Couple this with controlled warmth penetrating your muscles and joints—and those minor aches and pains of arthritis and backache just melt away, circulation is increased, nervous tension is eased from your body in just minutes. You have to feel it to believe it!

Ask your doctor—proven effective in hospital tests

Fifteen years of hospital tests and over a million dollars in research prove that used as directed Niagara's unique combination of welcome warmth and 3-way massage help give temporary, repeatable relief from minor aches and pains, tension and fatigue. Your life may become active and full again. Peace of mind returns with a remarkable feeling of well-being. Sleep is natural, without drugs or pills. Almost instantly you discover a new joy in living.

Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

©1974 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

Almost everyone at the beach today has a gimmick. Find the one who doesn't. 1. Nope. He's Harmon Nee. Gimmick: His singing voice, that sounds like two chalk slates mating. Even his cigarette sings—every time he inhales, its multiple filter whistles "Dixie." 2. Not Laura Eneria, beach queen. Gimmick: More movable parts than a Swiss watch. Has a waiting list for crew when she surfs. Smokes Ms. feminist cigarettes—whose taste just msses, too. 3. Not "Bull" Gene Biceps. Gimmick: His waterproof makeup. Doesn't always hold arms that way—this morning he mistook spray starch for his under-arm deodorant. Smokes his fat cigars down so far, the ashes drop behind his teeth. 4. No. He's Tyrone Shulace, beach pest. The "58" stands for his I.Q. (He thinks "off shore drilling" is something the Marines do.) Smokes Huff 'N Puff superfiltered cigarettes. You have to draw so hard, an art diploma comes with them. 5. Right. He enjoys the beach, not the beach crowd. Needs no fads or gimmicks in his cigarette, either. Camel Filters, Honest tobacco. Good, rich flavor. 6. Unidentified frying object.

Camel Filters.

Sports Mini-Profile

Wimbledon Champ JIMMY CONNORS:

Women Trained Him to Beat the Men

Jimmy with bride-to-be Chris Evert.

Jimmy Connors, the 21-year-old southpaw who vaulted to the top of the tennis world with his victory at Wimbledon this year, has had an unusual association with women players. He is the first top tennis pro to have been taught by women—his grandmother and his mother, both former tournament players and teaching pros—and he is engaged to 19-year-old Chris Evert, who won the women's crown at Wimbledon. Jimmy and Chrissie were among the youngest to win this most famous of all net tournaments and represent the only engaged couple to win it. . . . The couple have no truck with the so-called "new morality." They both come from devoted, religiously oriented families and, until their marriage in November, will continue to be chaperoned. Chrissie's mother, Colette, usually accompanies her, and Jimmy is occasionally accompanied by his mother, Gloria Connors. Though both have become wealthy at a young age—each earns well over $100,000 a year in prize money and more via endorsements—they insist they play for the love of the game more than for the financial reward. . . . The two are poles apart in temperament. Chrissie is the polite, well-mannered "Miss Goody Two-Shoes." Jimmy is colorful and temperamental. He alternates between being the clown on court and playing the role of a firebrand who fights with the officials and gets into noisy arguments with opposing players and fans who heckle him. . . . Jimmy was born in St. Louis and then moved across the river with his family to Belleville, Ill. His dad (a non-tennis player) manages the bridge that crosses the Mississippi between Belleville and St. Louis. Jimmy's two female tutors introduced him to tennis when he was three, and by the time he was eight, he was playing—and winning—boys tournaments. "I never had time for any friends," Jimmy recalls. "From the beginning, tennis was my life." . . . When Jimmy began winning from his mother regularly at 17, she decided he was ready for advanced coaching and took him out to California. He was placed under the wing of an old friend of the Connors' family—one-time tennis great Pancho Segura—and developed the blistering drives and pinpoint accuracy necessary to win in the male tournaments. He went to UCLA for a while and won the NCAA tennis championship, but then dropped out to become a full-time net performer. At 5-10 and 155 pounds, he is comparatively small for a professional, but he compensates for this by his tremendous speed and a leaping, lunging style. To maintain his speed and power, he runs two miles every day and does a long rope-jumping session. He became the youngest player ever to win the U.S. professional championship, and won 12 out of 19 tournaments before Wimbledon. When he routed the veteran Ken Rosewall in the finals of the big tourney, Rosewall said of him, "He's just unbelievable. He is without a doubt the finest young player in the world today."

COLD in the BONES?

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE who ordinarily suffer from the "miserics" due to damp, cold changeable weather are wearing the remarkable new underwear knitted of THERMOLACTYL fiber by Damart®. Here's the reason! THERMOLACTYL, an amazing new miracle-like fabric, not only brings extra warmth . . . more important, it soothes those aches and pains that are caused by dampness that "goes right through you", by sharp drops in temperature, by winds that knife into your marrow.

ENTIRELY DIFFERENT, underwear made of THERMOLACTYL retains and reflects back your body warmth. What's more, it helps promote circulation in those tiny blood vessels just below the skin. Easy to wash. No perspiration problems either . . . since THERMOLACTYL underwear won't absorb moisture; instead, perspiration evaporates rapidly. You stay warm and dry.

Discover for yourself its wonderful softness—learn how snug and warm you feel even on coldest, B-r-r-r days!

INDEPENDENT TESTS prove that THERMOLACTYL gives much more warmth than bulky layers of so-called "protective" fabrics.

WHY WAIT ANOTHER DAY! Learn why thousands of people who used to have the "miserics" from severe weather praise THERMOLACTYL underwear. It is especially recommended for you folks who dread the aches and pains caused by cold and dampness.

MILLIONS OF DELIGHTED CUSTOMERS. THERMOLACTYL underwear is acclaimed throughout the European continent and the chilly damp climate of England. Last year more than a million customers placed repeat orders—the perfect testimonial to THERMOLACTYL underwear effectiveness.

Trying something new

You're always trying something new. This year you began ballet lessons. And today, you finally mastered that new position. You feel wonderful.

Trying Tampax tampons

for the first time can be a wonderful new experience, too. They're worn internally so you can always be your most active. No one will know you have your period, even in a leotard, a bikini, or a tennis skirt. They're easy to use, too. The silken-smooth container-applicator makes insertion safe, easy and comfortable. And the exclusive Junior absorbency-size is just right for a beginner.

Try Tampax tampons and every day of the month can be a good day to try something new.

The internal protection more women trust

It doesn't matter if you are 16 or 60, underweight or overweight, fighting fit or out of condition, Bullworker can get you back in shape. See and measure your strength increase from the very first day. All it takes is 5 minutes a day—in the privacy of your own home. Read the full fascinating story and scientific proof of Bullworker's effectiveness in your free booklet, and details of Bullworker's 14-day Free home trial. Just mail the coupon today—no cost, no obligation.

Booklet shows how Bullworker can help

- Forge excess stomach fat into solid muscle.
- Transform weak arms into pillars of strength.
- Lift and broaden sagging shoulders.
- Develop a chest that breathes power.
- Strengthen your back, forearms, wrists, thighs and calves.

Just 7 of the eighteen muscle groups improved by Bullworker.

1. Front upper arm (Biceps) - ensures an athletic upper arm.
2. Forearms (Flexors and Extensors) - forms a sinewy forearm.
3. Chest (Pectorals) - ensures a wonderfully arched chest and deeper breathing.
4. Front stomach (Abdominals) - prevents fat accumulation on the stomach following exercising.
5. Side stomach (External Obliques) - forms a narrow waist by being exercised.
6. Front thigh (Quadriceps) - forms athletic well-shaped thighs.
7. Calf (Gastrocnemius) normalises the shape of the calf.

"Home, James!"

Bounding up from the relatively humble but good-paying beginnings of hamburger commercials, Rodney Allen Rippy faced a problem with autograph-seeking fans in England this summer. Like most five-year-olds, he can't write. While he learns the craft of writing, the million-dollar child star is using a rubber stamp with his "signature" on it to satisfy the rushing crowds. Rodney, who enjoyed being called "Mr. Rippy" while in London, convinced the Englishman in our photo that he'd wait a while before trying to drive a Rolls-Royce. Rodney has an upcoming date starring in a new Saturday children's TV series, "The Harlem Globetrotters Popcorn Machine."

Pictorial Parade

Today Roger Bannister jogs to work in a business suit and tie, but 20 years ago his attire was different. On a cold, blustery evening then Bannister ran the first "four-minute mile" — in three minutes and 59 seconds, breaking all previous records. As he celebrated the anniversary of the event, Bannister admitted the years have caught up with him somewhat. Now the chairman of the British Sports Council, Bannister says that he can still run the mile—not in four minutes, perhaps, but in "closer to five minutes than six."

New York City's Churchill School offers a new approach to children with learning disabilities. It is named after Winston Churchill, says Director Harry S. Valentine III, "because Sir Winston was a notoriously slow learner." Valentine, an independently wealthy social registerite, had a speech impediment in his youth and still stutters under stress. The school, now going into its second year, combines physiological, psychological and educational training. "We have found that many learning problems stem from neuro-physical disorders," says Valentine. The school offers a unique foster-parent plan for children who live outside the city. For more information, write: The Churchill School, 22 E. 95th St., New York, N.Y. 10028.

QUOTE: How to tell what a face-lift would do to you: "Look in the mirror, place your index fingers flat against the temples and pull the skin back toward your ears, to get a slight idea of how lines would be smoothed out by an eye-lift. Put the same fingers on your cheeks and pull away the loose skin around your mouth. Next flatten your palms on both cheeks and pull back the skin a bit on each side of your face to gain an overall impression of what a face-lift might accomplish." From "Doctor, Make Me Beautiful," by James W. Smith, M.D., and Samm Sinclair Baker (Bantam, $1.75). UNQUOTE.

Quips & Quotes

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

HOUSE CALLS

If doctors don't make house calls, think
Not of a stopped-up nose but sink.
Imagine if you phoned the plumber
And told him what was on the bumper

And he replied, with firm-set chin,
"You'd better bring your sick sink in,"
Or, lights gone out, the electrician
You asked to make a mercy mission
And he, of whom you'd been admiring Till now, advised, "Bring in your wiring."

I guess I shouldn't do much grousin':
A house call could be: "Bring your house in."

An ecologist is someone who writes 600-page books asking where all the trees have gone. —Robert Orben

An angler carrying a huge two-foot-long trout met another fisherman whose catch consisted of 12 little bony minnows. "Howdy," said the first man as he laid down his big fish and waited for a comment. The other fisherman stared at it for a moment, then calmly remarked, "Just caught the one, eh?"

Prince Valiant
 IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
 BY HAL FOSTER

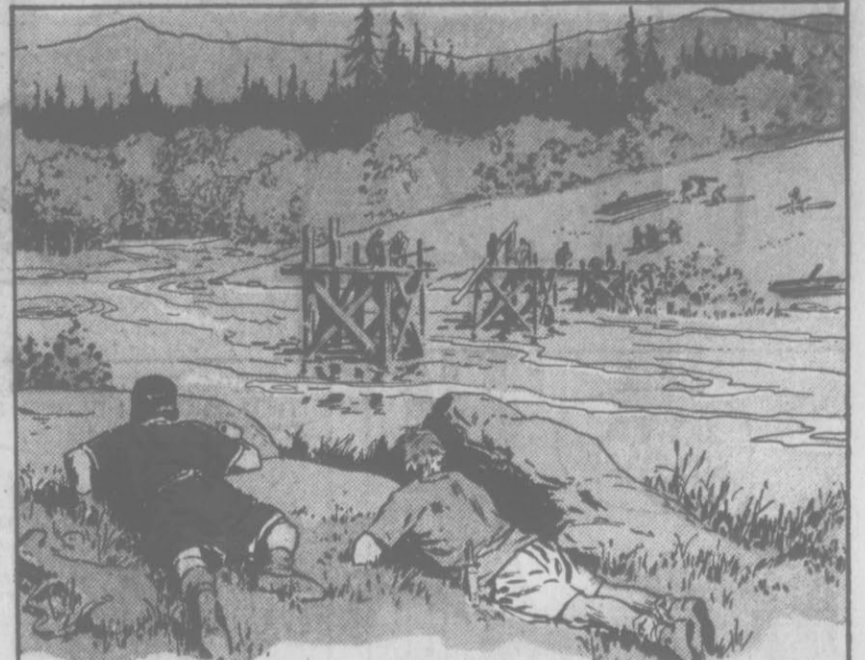

Our Story: PRINCE VALIANT TAKES UP THE OLD SINGER'S LUTE. "I WILL BECOME KARAK'S SKALD AND LEARN THE SECRET OF HIS POWERS."

"NO! NO! DON'T GO NEAR THAT MAD MONSTER. BETTER TO STAY THIS SIDE OF THE RIVER, FOR KARAK HAS A GREAT FEAR OF WATER AND WILL NOT CROSS UNTIL A BRIDGE IS BUILT."

THEY FOLLOW THE BRAWLING STREAM WHILE THE OLD MINSTREL TELLS OF THE HORROR EXPERIENCED IN KARAK'S MEADHALL.

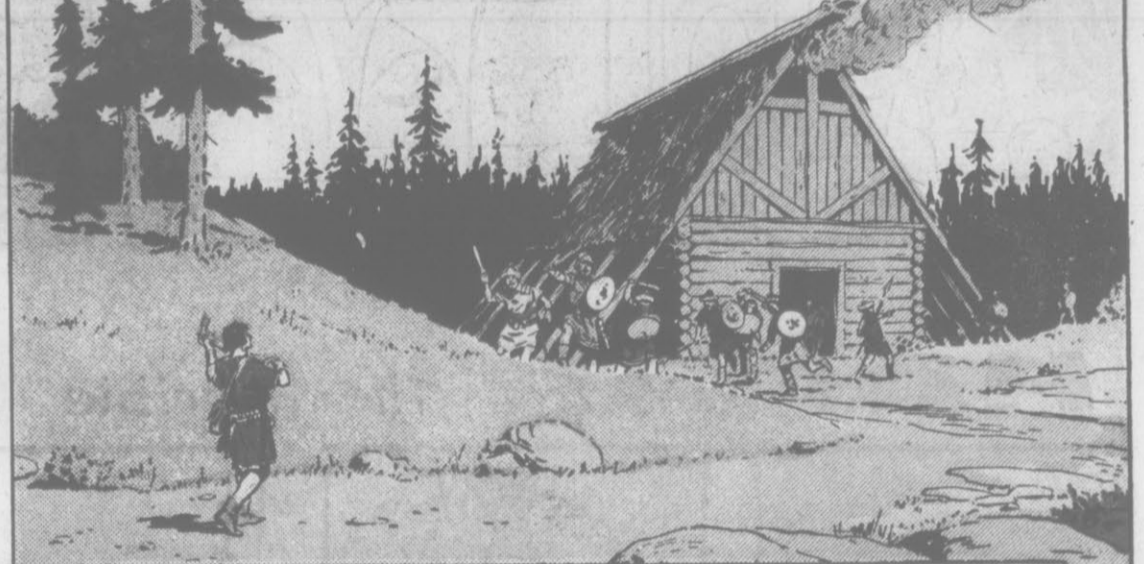

WHERE THE RIVER WIDENS AND FLOWS GENTLY OVER A GRAVEL BED, A BRIDGE IS UNDER CONSTRUCTION. UNTIL IT IS FINISHED, THE INNER LANDS WILL BE SAFE FROM INVASION.

NIGHT FALLS, THE WORKERS LEAVE, AND VAL ENTERS THE RIVER. THE CROSSING IS EASY, BUT HE COULD NEVER HAVE MANAGED IT ENCUMBERED WITH SHIELD AND ARMOR.

THE OLD TROUBADOUR LIMPS INTO HALP ATLA'S STRONGHOLD AND TELLS OF THE STRANGE BATTLE PLAN VAL HAS SUGGESTED.

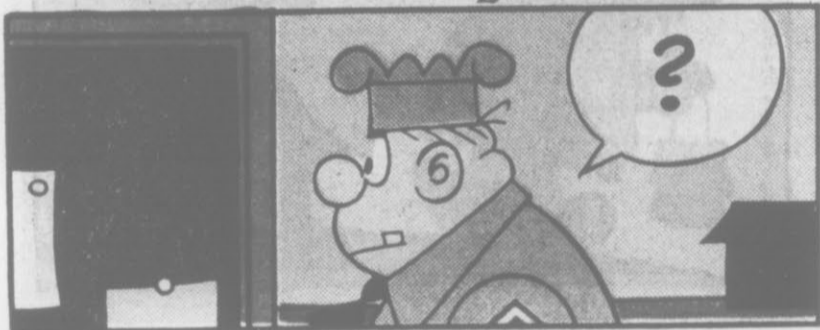

VAL DOES NOT BELIEVE IN GIANTS, BUT AT SIGHT OF THE HUGE HALL, THE MASSIVE TIMBERS AND WIDE DOOR, HE HAS MISGIVINGS. FIERCE ARMED MEN RUSH OUT AND SURROUND HIM, BUT AT SIGHT OF HIS LUTE THEY HESITATE; FOR THE PERSON OF SKALD OR TROUBADOUR, STORYTELLER OR POET IS HELD SACRED AS THE ONLY SOURCE OF ENTERTAINMENT.

ZERO, WHERE'S THE NOTICE I TOLD YOU TO PUT ON THE BULLETIN BOARD?

OH, I FORGOT

IT MAY SEEM SMALL AND UNIMPORTANT TO YOU, ZERO, BUT IT ISN'T

"FOR WANT OF A NAIL, THE SHOE WAS LOST. FOR WANT OF A SHOE, THE HORSE WAS LOST."

"FOR WANT OF A HORSE, THE RIDER WAS LOST."

"FOR WANT OF A RIDER, THE BATTLE WAS LOST."

NOW, DO YOU KNOW WHAT THAT MEANS, ZERO?

THE POOCH IS OKAY! HEAD FOR THE PIER.

ATTA BABY!

THE BAG, FORTUNATELY, WAS NOT TIED AND IT HELPED LESSEN THE SHOCK.

"THE LEAP KILLED FENCER, SO THE SCUBA CREW WILL HAVE TO GO TO WORK."

WHAT ABOUT THE $10,000 BAIL THAT CRYSTAL PUT UP FOR FENCER'S FREEDOM?

THE COURT WILL RETURN HER MONEY TO HER AS SOON AS HIS BODY IS IDENTIFIED.

LATER, CRYSTAL READS THE HEADLINES.

I NEVER SHOULD HAVE PUT UP HIS BOND MONEY. TRACY WAS RIGHT. FENCER WOULD HAVE BEEN SAFER IN A CELL.

"NOW THEY'RE ALL GONE, ALL MY ASSOCIATES KILLED."

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Headboard is changed. 2. Headboard is changed. 3. Cap is changed. 4. Dresser is changed. 5. Foot is repositioned. 6. Sheet is shorter.

Hal Kaufman's JUNIOR WHIRL®

GIRLS, here is your chance to show that yours is not necessarily the weaker sex. Here's how: Place one hand atop your head. Now, challenge any or all muscular males to grasp your wrist and try to lift your hand from atop your head.

Result: No one will succeed, for hardly any strength is needed to keep the hand in place, despite opponents' efforts.

To add to the frustration of your opponents, clasp both hands atop your head and invite two males--one at each side--to push upward against your elbows. Not only will your hands remain in place, but you will be lifted from the floor.

HIT OR MISS? Our fisherman friend above has caused us concern, for his expression shows. Connect dots to learn why.

- ### BULLETIN BOARD
- EASY DOES IT! If a peacock lays an egg standing on its head with its tail pointing south, in which direction will the egg fall?
No direction. Peacocks don't lay eggs; pehens do.
 - Add animals' names to complete these terms:
1. DANDE ____ 2. ____ WOOD 3. ____ WILLOW
4. ____ SLIP 5. ____ CABBAGE
Add lion, dog, pussy, cow and skunk, respectively.
 - Challenge: Ask someone to touch his ear (either ear) with his elbow (either elbow). You try it!
 - Reportedly, a $50,000 prize once was won for defining the word CRWTH. It's in the dictionary (unabridged, two-ton job). What is it?
It's a musical instrument of Celtic origin, similar to a lyre or harp.
