

Warns Against Oil, Food Confrontation

Ford Pledges U.S. To Ship More Food

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.
(AP) — President Ford, pledging increased food shipments abroad, told the United Nations General Assembly today that "a global strategy for food and energy is urgently required."

In the text for his first appearance before the world organization, Ford said the alternative to cooperation is confrontation.

"Let us not delude ourselves," he said. "failure to cooperate on oil, food and inflation could spell disaster for every nation represented in this room. The United Nations must not and need not allow this to occur. A global strategy for food and energy is urgently required."

Discussing what the United States is willing to do to help hungry nations, Ford said food aid abroad would be increased this year by an unspecified amount and the United States is "prepared to join in a worldwide effort to negotiate, establish and maintain an international system of food reserves."

The President said the United States would "set forth our comprehensive proposals" to meet present and future world needs at the November World Food Conference in Rome.

The President set forth four principles which he said should guide a global approach to food and energy problems:

"First, all nations must substantially increase production. Just to maintain the present standards of living the world must almost double its output of food and energy..."

"Second, all nations must seek to achieve a level of prices which not only provides an incentive to producers but which consumers can afford ... By confronting consumers with production restrictions, artificial pricing and the prospect of ultimate bankruptcy, producers will eventually become the victims of their own actions."

"Third, all nations must avoid the abuse of man's fundamental needs for the sake of narrow national or bloc advantage. The attempt by any country to use one commodity for political purposes will inevitably tempt other countries to use their commodities for their own purposes."

"Fourth, the nations of the world must assure that the poorest among us are not overwhelmed by rising prices of the imports necessary for their survival. The traditional aid donors and the increasingly wealthy oil producers must join in this effort."

Honduras Pounded

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Gale force winds and heavy rains pounded Honduras today as Hurricane Fifi with wind gusts up to 125 miles an hour approached the country's northern coast.

Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center in Miami predicted that "the eye of the hurricane will skirt the north coast of Honduras and the most severe conditions will remain offshore."

But Neil Frank, director of the hurricane center, said Fifi would produce a serious threat of flash flooding in Honduras and Nicaragua.

At 9 a.m. today, the center of the hurricane was located at latitude 16.3 north, longitude 83.2 west or about 50 miles northeast of the Honduran coast. Fifi, with highest sustained winds of 100 m.p.h. was moving westward at about 10 m.p.h.

Frank warned that tides might reach 10 feet above normal along the coast of Honduras if the center crossed the coastline. He said small craft along the east coast of the Yucatan Peninsula from Guatemala northward should seek safe harbor.

NO PROFIT FOR PORTION

I worked for Belk-Tyler Company for a number of years. About two months after my employment was terminated last year, I received my profit-sharing check covering the years up to 1973, but not even an annual statement about 1973. Mrs. D. J.

Hotline called Belk Services in Charlotte and spoke to someone in the profit-sharing department. She explained that profit-sharing benefits are paid only on a yearly basis, and not for any portion of a year's employment, except in case of the death or total disability of the employee. She checked your file and found that you do not fall into either of these categories. You say you are glad to understand the reasons, even though your pocketbook's no fuller.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is going to send a list to Congress later this week of $20 billion that it has appropriated but he does not want to spend or proposes to delay, sources report.

But these so-called impoundments in federal spending programs will be different from the controversial ones practiced by the Nixon administration.

Under new legislation, Congress can block these impoundments if it wishes. And some will even need outright congressional approval.

The impoundments also will be renamed rescissions and deferrals to denote their less authoritarian aspect.

The sources expect the list will be sent Thursday.

Included in the impoundments will be $600 million from the current fiscal year, with the remainder from future budget years.

Sources said there will be few surprises in the list, because most of the impoundments were previously announced by the Nixon administration.

They will include several billion dollars for construction of sewage treatment plants, highway construction funds and funds not spent for various education programs, it was learned.

President Ford discussed the list with the bi-partisan Senate leadership at a White House dinner Tuesday night.

A spokesman at the Office of Management and Budget, which helped prepare the list, cautioned that the impoundments will not reduce the 1975 fiscal year budget below the original budget figure of $304 billion.

"They were all contemplated in the budget to begin with," he said. "If any amount of it is not approved by Congress, it would increase the budget..."

The Ford administration is expected to send a separate list to Congress on proposed new budget cuts for 1975.

Dedicate Clinic At ECU

By STUART SAVAGE

The Developmental Evaluation Clinic at East Carolina University was dedicated this morning to its founder Dr. Malene G. Irons.

ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, noting that the clinic will now be known as the "Malene G. Irons Developmental Evaluation Clinic," said the large number of people attending the 11 a.m. service "is a great tribute to a great lady."

A portrait of Dr. Irons, to be hung in the building bearing her name, was unveiled by her grandson, Thomas Grant Irons, Jr., and in accepting the portrait on behalf of the university, Robert L. Jones, chairman of the university's Board of Trustees said Dr. Irons, "is a woman that makes things happen recognizing a need ... doing something about it."

Dr. Jenkins termed the developmental evaluation clinic "a one-woman project," saying Dr. Irons originated the program and has kept it going.

The clinic was opened in 1964 as the result of cooperative planning between the Maternal

Report Hospital Construction Schedule Lags

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Construction of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital is about 60 days behind schedule because of rain and delayed arrival of structural steel, Construction Engineer Ralph Hall told the Hospital Board of Trustees. He said rough grading is 90 per cent complete; storm drainage, 65 per cent; and foundation work for boiler house, emergency room, and patient towers, 45 per cent.

Most of the structural steel has been delivered and is now stored, he said. He commented that Pitt County is fortunate their hospital was planned and started when it was. "Many plans for other places have gone back on the shelves because costs have doubled and tripled in the past few months," he said.

Board chairman Ed N. Warren commented on the good job Hall is doing. "He knows every detail of this tremendous project and nothing escapes him," he said.

Administrator Richardson announced that an employee banquet and recognition service will be held at the Moose Lodge Oct. 17 at 6:30 p.m.

Also planned is a meeting with William Henderson, Health Care Systems consultant, who will help Pitt Memorial Hospital apply for a grant for improved emergency services.

Richardson said the Gifts Committee kickoff banquet held Monday, Sept. 9, was very successful. About 85 people heard Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt praise the East Carolina Medical School and predict the mutual benefit of the school and Pitt County's new hospital.

Dr. John Wooten, Chief of Staff, said the executive committee of the medical staff has been meeting every Wednesday and on alternate Wednesdays with representatives of the ECU medical school. "At our last meeting we drafted a letter stating our willingness to give of our time to the medical school, to allow for the addition of full-time medical school professors to the hospital staff, and to give the school the use of our plant for teaching purposes. We just wanted it in writing that we are being cooperative, since there have been reports that

Brother Of Local Man Killed In Bombing Mishap

HAVELOCK—The brother of a Greenville man was fatally injured yesterday when his small boat was bombed by practicing military aircraft near here yesterday.

It was a Greenville resident, Jim Harris who picked up the victim who was his brother, Charles Michael Harris.

Mike, a fisheries agent for the Agricultural Extension Service of N.C. State University, was alone in a boat at the mouth of the Neuse River near Cherry Point Marine Air Station. Witnesses on another boat said his boat was hit by a bomb from a jet which had not previously flown over. The witnesses were afraid to enter the area, but summoned Jim Harris and Lee Butler, who are taking water samples nearby as part of their job with the N.C. Division of Environmental Management, which had headquarters in Greenville.

Butler said the two boats went to the accident site on the assumption that two boats together would be seen by a plane. It was then that Jim

Harris discovered the victim was his brother. Butler said Mike was able to talk to them and that they placed a tourniquet on his injured leg, but he died on the way in to shore probably from loss of blood prior to their reaching him.

The Harris brothers are originally from Carteret County. Mike was a 1967 graduate of East Carolina University. Carteret County Sheriff Department and military official were investigating at the site, located in Rattan Bay in northern Carteret County, this morning.

Aircraft from the 2nd Marine Aircraft Wing at Cherry Point and Air Force aircraft from Myrtle Beach S.C. used the bombing range Tuesday, an air station spokesman said. The spokesman said the range is marked on navigation charts, but there were no signs showing the area to be restricted. The area is reportedly seldom used, and planes using it usually make several passes to warn persons in the area before bombs are dropped.

Hat Designer Interprets Future Fashion Trends

By SANDRA GITTENS
NEW YORK (AP) — The hat is definitely coming back. Accessories are fashionable. And the younger woman feels the freest to express herself. These are the opinions of hat designer Frank Olive.

The designer, Olive says, is now left to interpret society rather than dictate, and as a result there's a hat for everyone. What with the jet age and television, Olive points out, it doesn't take the six years it once did to make the transition from creativity to mass production. Now fashions cover America in a matter of minutes so the girl in Gary, Ind., can be as together as the girl in New York City.

"The hat is a finishing touch," says Olive, who travels 22 weeks a year checking out the life-styles of women in order to incorporate these differences in his hats. "And actually," he adds, "the hat is more of an identification — a signature."

Commenting that while in the '30s and '40s hats were used to create personalities such as movie idols, with girls being manufactured to create a certain mood or mystique, he says this is no longer true.

SAUSAGE SQUASH

The acorn variety of squash is in peak supply in September and October.

2 acorn squash, each about 3 1/2 pound
4 tablespoons dark brown sugar
1 pound bulk sausage
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped celery
1 cup soft breadcrumbs

Wash squash. With a sharp heavy knife, cut each in half lengthwise; score each half by making shallow lengthwise and crosswise cuts into flesh in 4 places. Sprinkle each squash half with 1 tablespoon brown sugar. In a 10-inch skillet over moderate heat mash sausage with a fork until crumbled and cooked through; with a slotted spoon remove sausage to brown paper; pour off all fat in skillet except about 1 tablespoon. To sausage drippings in skillet add onion and celery; cook gently, stirring often, until onion is wilted but not brown. Thoroughly mix together the sausage, onion and celery and breadcrumbs; place a portion of the mixture into each squash cavity, patting down. Place stuffed squash in an ungreased oblong glass baking dish (11 1/4 by 7 1/4 by 1 3/4 inches) or similar utensil. Cover dish tightly with foil. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until squash is very tender when pierced with a fork and sausage topping has browned — about 1 1/4 hours. Makes 4 servings.

"We had a lot of liberation in the '60s," he says. "We had defiance, we had terror, our cities were unsafe, there were problems at universities, and we had women's lib. Then, right after the war propriety vanished, and the old way of life changed so drastically there wasn't room for an old hat. There just wasn't room for this formal type of living."

Olive explains the mood today as being experimental, with the younger woman the one who's trying on hats for size. Seeing her as sitting on the edge of the Aquarian age, going from a flower child to gypsy woman, he says his buyer is in her 20s and 30s.

"Wearing her gypsy scarf and granny dresses she was all things. She has personality and she's playful. She skis and goes to discotheques. So that young girl is living with expression. She's the one who buys the hats, for the rain, for skiing or just walking in the winter snow."

What type of hats are these young ladies wearing? Anything from the mood-making mystiques to "being seen" hats or "hide under" hats. But what Olive has noticed in hat buying trends is that the "pretty" hat is becoming "in."

"I think what happens is when the cycle of the economy changes, during affluent times you sell the most sophisticated styles in the world, but when there's tight money, people buy differently. They buy soft things and pretty things. I think it has something to do with the psychological aspect of spending. The '60s is gone, along with the hard leather and militant look."

"Clothes are becoming soft and sensual. The hat brim is here because the brim is very soft looking. But hats are not the show pieces they were in the heyday of millinery, when Joan Crawford and that type of woman wore them. That type of fashion is not here, not the ostentatious fashions, but there is a softer mood. In clothes you'll find crepe dresses that mold the body. The heels and toes of shoes are more delicate, not quite as clumsy. So it's all changed."

Olive sees the accessory aspect in today's women's wear as a reaction to the classic look in clothes. Clothes, he says are becoming basic, not fancy or stuffy. They can be with a collar or without, have long sleeves or short, perhaps patched pockets or maybe a flare pleat. Clothes are taking on a leisure look.

"So if a woman was well groomed by the standards of grooming during the early '70s and latter '60s she looked stuffy."

"She would then take off the pin she had in her lapel, or she would take off her earrings, and she left off the hat as well. She did something because she knew she looked wrong."

"But today she's putting the accessories back on but differently. I think today she's doing it more tongue-in-cheek by not being as serious about it as were her predecessors. She has a lot of imagination. She knows how to tie her scarf and what hand bag to carry. Now when she puts on that hat she knows exactly which one to choose."

One thing Olive doesn't take credit for is selling a woman a hat. He says he "can't," not today. "I can offer it, but she chooses. I don't think anyone buys anything anymore because we have to. And we buy things for different reasons."

Church Women United Fall Forum Is Held

Church Women United met at the First Presbyterian Church Thursday for the Fall Forum of Area V. Fifty-two women of seven denominations were registered.

State President Mrs. H. W. Dotson, Vice President Mrs. Ferd Hayes and Chairman of the Program Concerns Mrs. Clifford R. Miller conducted the meeting.

The theme for the meeting was "In These Times—Women." Mrs. Hayes gave the morning meditation "The Woman You Are With God."

Slides of Church Women United in action and films where women move together in ecumenical action were presented by Mrs. Miller. She told of benefits of inviting a foreign student to live in one's home for a year, of Volunteers in Action going abroad for three months of service, of the Senior Citizens Telephone Assurance for housebound people and of the Foster Grandparents plan.

The Rev. Terry Bonnett, director of the Virginia-North Carolina Regional Office of CROP, told of several projects, CROP Walk for the Hungry and CROP Fast for the Hungry to make a local community aware of the crisis of world hunger.

Head of the WICS Job Crop in Atlanta, Miss Ruby Valdez introduced the director of the training center in Guthrie, Okla., and his assistance, who told of the center and showed pictures.

Mrs. Dotson reported that to date CWU have donated 696 Bibles to Central Prison, Raleigh.

In Greenville, women will work on ecumenical celebrations of World Day of Prayer on March 7, May Fellowship Day on May 2 and on Sunday, Oct. 27, the children will collect for UNICEF.

School Lunches Are Termed Bargains In Today's Economy

By BERNARD BRENNER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — When children troop back to school this fall, they'll be returning to one of the few comparative bargains in today's economy—a daily meal priced at only about half its current real cost.

In the school year which ended last June, for example, youngsters at more than 87,000 schools participating in the National School Lunch program paid an average of about 42 cents for their meals.

The price was up about a nickel from the previous year. But officials of the Agriculture Department's child nutrition division—which handles federal aid to the lunch program—say the tab paid by youngsters was only about half the 84 cent total cost of the average school lunch. Who paid the 42-cent difference?

About 24.5 cents of the gap, officials say, was paid by state and local governments in the form of cash or services such as warehousing, transportation and utilities. Another 10.5 cents came in the form of cash from the Agriculture Department which has been subsidizing school lunches since 1946.

Finally, a further 7 cents came in the form of Agriculture Department donations of commodities like hamburger, chicken and butter.

Food prices have risen since last year, which means that the total cost of the average school lunch this fall is expected to rise above the 84 cent level of the 1973-74 school year. But Agriculture officials say they don't expect any widespread hikes in the average of about 40 cents paid by elementary school pupils and 46 cents charged in many high schools.

The increase in costs, one expert said, should be mostly or entirely offset by increased federal aid being provided under several recent laws liberalizing government subsidies to the lunch program. The Agriculture Department's cash contribution, for example, went from 8 cents to 10.5 cents last November and will be up again to 11 cents in the new year. The agency's commodity contribution will rise from 7 to 10 cents per meal.

Besides, officials point out, all these figures on federal lunch aid apply only to middle and upper income children who pay "regular" prices for what is actually a heavily-subsidized meal. For needy children, the subsidy is much greater.

According to Agriculture estimates, about 9.3 million of the 24.1 million youngsters eating lunches under the National School Lunch Program this coming year will qualify as needy and will get their meals free or for token prices of about 20 cents. Almost all of the needy will be in the completely free category, since only about 1 per cent of all lunches served go to youngsters qualified for the token-price plan.

For free and reduced-price lunches, the federal cash contribution this coming school year will average 47 cents compared with 46 cents in the 1973-74 year.

In many ways, the meals children will get this fall will differ from the lunches their mothers and fathers ate under the lunch program a generation ago. New types of foods are being served, new methods of central preparation and cost-cutting service are being used—but one thing remains unchanged.

As it did back in 1946, the federally-subsidized "Type A Lunch" must consist of four basic elements—milk, a protein food, fruits and vegetables, and bread with butter or margarine.

Today's youngsters, however, are getting some foods their parents never saw. Federal regulations, for example, now allow school cafeterias to mix up to 30 per cent textured vegetable protein (TVP) into hamburger to reduce the cost of meat without cutting protein content. Other new "engineered" foods approved for school use include fortified macaroni, and officials currently are considering possible approval of a "cheese alternate" made without butterfat.

Another change affects milk. When the mothers of today's first graders were in school, they got only whole milk. But regulations today permit schools to offer youngsters their choice of regular, low-fat or even skim milk—and more children are drinking milk under the new plan.

Total federal spending for the lunch program in the coming 1974-5 school year is estimated at $1.467 billion compared with $1.078 billion in the 1971-72 year.

Not all of the children eligible will participate if past patterns are followed. In past years, schools have reported that only about two-thirds of their pupils generally chose to eat the school meal, with others bringing their lunch or eating away from school.

Officials estimate, however, that about 86 per cent of all youngsters attending U.S. elementary and high schools—both public and private—are in schools where the lunch program is available.

Denim Revolution Continues Upward

By DR. DEBORAH T. SHARPE
NEW YORK (WNS)—Just when the fashion designers and writers thought that they had laid denim to rest, the denim beat goes on bigger and better than ever. A denim-clad bride recently strolled down the aisle followed by eight bridesmaids similarly attired. There are now denim evening dresses, shoes, button earrings, bags, chokers and hats. And I predict a denim shroud.

The tough bodied, stiff denims were dismissed along with such fashion obsolesces as the hard-edged, crisp, sculptured clothes of Courreges and Gernreich. A segment of the non-nostalgic-prone population was categorized as the faded-denim and corduroy set—an obviously inferior fashion breed, but a tougher breed of fashion cat than the fashion writers and designers had reckoned with. For it is becoming abundantly clear that denim will not only survive but will prevail.

While fashion reams rhapsodize the nostalgia of the '30s and '40s, the Jean Harlow and Greta Garbo look and garden party clothes, the big-name designers are quietly fortifying their line with denim. While the fashion press extols the virtues of plunging hemlines and necklines, supple, billowy skirts and opulent fabrics, denim is hanging in there with designer labels and prices that range from a $500 rhinestone-studded jacket at Nieman Marcus to a $5 jacket at the corner store.

In fact, denim may well be on its way to becoming a grassroots art form. The Museum of Contemporary Crafts recently presented "Denim Art"—winners in the Levi Strauss contest for hand-decorated garments.

This is unquestionably one of the most exciting, imaginative, creative explosions of jewels, studs, feathers, lace, embroidery and paint around today. And a tribute to the creative spirit of our young.

The report of the demise of denim like that of George Bernard Shaw—I think it was he—when told of the report of his death, replied that it was premature.

Embroiderers' Guild Meeting Set For Thursday

The N. C. Chapter of the Embroiderers' Guild of America will meet Thursday for a "Christmas in September" workshop in the First Presbyterian Church fellowship hall at 9:30 a.m.

Members of the guild and anyone interested in becoming a member may attend. Ideas for thread count, crewel, bargello and canvas embroidery will be demonstrated. Materials will be available at a minimum cost, or persons can bring their own scraps of canvas and linen, red and green yarn.

The guild is an organization to promote interchange of ideas for those interested in needlework and meets four times a year. The membership fee is $10.00 per year. It seeks to maintain high standards and instructs the members in needlework skills.

This Doctor's Bedside Manner Needs Improving

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I took my little girl to the doctor for her annual checkup. We were called into the examination room, and as soon as she saw the doctor coming toward her in his white coat, she began to cry. When he touched her, she started to squirm on the table and cry even harder because she was frightened.

The doctor very gruffly said, "Who needs this," and stomped out of the room.

A few minutes later, he came back and in a very nasty tone, said to me, "Take her home, and don't bring her back unless she is really sick!"

I thought doctors were supposed to be patient. What can I do about him?
A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Most doctors try their best to calm and reassure frightened children. Perhaps your doctor was having a bad day, but if that's his usual manner, he is guilty of unprofessional conduct and deserved a reprimand from his county medical society. Mail this column to him. I think it will help him.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19, going to college and work part-time in a department store. There is a guy who works here who is very good-looking. He's 31 and married. He has made advances to me in the stockroom in the back of the store. I really am attracted to him, but the fact that he is married stops me from going out with him. (He's asked me.) Please advise me. I'm weakening.

KNOWS THE SCORE

DEAR KNOWS: Tell good-looking to get lost. So far, the score is no hits, no runs, no errors. And if you're smart, you'll keep it that way.

DEAR ABBY: I have had a reasonably happy marriage to a man who has come up from the ranks to become an executive with a large company. Now, after 36 years, he told me recently that I have never learned how to be an executive's wife.

He is nearly 60 and has been an executive with this company for over 20 years.

My creed has always been to be myself, and as long as I acted like a lady, which I am, I thought that should be sufficient. According to my husband, it was not enough. Where have I failed?
WORSE HALF

DEAR HALF: In addition to being a lady, have you always reciprocated social invitations promptly? Have you graciously initiated a social contact at your husband's suggestion? After having been entertained, do you promptly send a written note of thanks? Do you refrain from gossiping about people whether they're associated with your husband in business or not? If you have had time to devote to your church and/or community activities, have you done so?

If you can answer yes to all these questions, you qualify as an asset to your husband, whether he's an executive or not.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. K. IN OKLAHOMA CITY: I do not recommend washing out the mouths of youngsters as a punishment for "talking dirty." Some youngsters grow to like soap.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Salute To Spicy Foods Of Naples

By TOM HOGE

AP Newsfeatures Writer

I spent two months in Italy some years ago, but I can't boast even a nodding acquaintance with the roast suckling pig stuffed with herbs that is said to entice the people of Rome. Nor can I catalogue the delights of the broiled deviled chicken made famous by the cooks of Florence.

But I did spend some time in Naples and sampled a cross section of the culinary delights of southern Italy.

Naples is the cradle of the pizza, I'm told, but today Neapolitan kitchens roll out these ubiquitous discs mainly for homesick American tourists.

The southern port city is also noted for its pasta and a number of other specialties, including the marinara, or mariner's sauce, that is used on so many Italian dishes the breadth and length of the Italian boot. It is also used as a base for many other sauces. The union of spaghetti and clams so popular in Rome is made by cooking clams in a thick marinara sauce. I didn't have to visit the Eternal City to find that out.

Unlike the American version which is usually made with canned tomatoes and drowned in tomato paste, Neapolitan marinara is made from fresh tomatoes, onions, green pepper and sometimes chopped anchovies. I like to add dry red wine to deepen the flavor and put in a dash of cayenne pepper for a little bite.

Naples goes in heavily for stews of mixed fish seasoned with onion, garlic, parsley, tomatoes, bay leaves and dry white wine. The gimmick is to pour it over slices of fried bread arranged in a soup plate.

The Neapolitans like to consume crusty Italian bread with sharp cheese and wash it down with red wine. When we went boating in the Bay of Naples we used to take along a loaf, a block of provolone and a bottle of robust red.

My favorite Neapolitan dish was braised pork chop with marinara dressed up with wine and brandy.

4 tablespoons olive oil
6 center-cut loin pork chops
1½ inches thick
1 teaspoon minced garlic
½ teaspoon dried oregano, ground
¼ teaspoon ground thyme
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
½ bay leaf
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper ground
½ cup dry red wine
1 ounce cognac
1 cup tomato puree
1 tablespoon tomato paste
½ pound sweet green peppers cut in strips
2 flat anchovy filets, drained and rinsed in cold water and minced

In a large, heavy skillet heat 2 tablespoons olive oil, brown chops 3 minutes on each side and set aside on plate. Pour off most of fat and throw in garlic, oregano, thyme, cayenne, bay leaf, salt and pepper and stir over medium heat for 30 seconds. Add wine and brandy and boil to reduce mixture to about ¼ cup. Stir in tomato puree and paste and return chops to skillet. Baste with sauce and cover, simmering 40 minutes, basting once or twice.

Heat remaining oil in another skillet and throw in green peppers, frying 5 minutes. Transfer to pan with pork chops. Add anchovy bits and simmer covered 10 minutes, and uncovered another 10 minutes, till pork is tender and sauce is thick. Serve with a dry red wine. Serves 3.

Christian Women's Retreat Is Announced

WASHINGTON — The first annual meeting of the Roanoke Christian Women's Retreat will convene at the Roanoke Christian Service Camp Saturday.

The camp is located three miles east of Washington on the banks of the Pamlico River.

"A Closer Walk With God" is the theme for the retreat with Mrs. Helen Sizemore of Atlanta, Ga. as the featured speaker. She is a graduate of Butler University and the wife of Denver Sizemore, professor at Atlanta Christian College, who also serves as the minister of the Central Christian Church of Atlanta. She is the mother of four children, a public school teacher, and a former professor in Christian education for many years at Atlanta Christian College. Mrs. Sizemore has served in the Western District Missionary Society and has written for the Standard Publishing Co.

The retreat will start at 9 a.m. and continue until 4:00 p.m. Songs will be rendered throughout the day by special singing groups. Several session groups with pertinent topics will be held in the afternoon.

Since this is the first ladies' retreat in this area each church or individual is asked to carry a covered-dish meal to be served at the camp at 11 a.m. Drinks will be served at the camp site.

Ladies of the Churches of Christ and Christian Churches are hosting the retreat. However, an invitation is being issued to all ladies of the surrounding churches in the Carolinas and Virginia.

Anyone not previously registered may do so upon arrival at the retreat by paying $2.50.

During the business session, two new members, Estella Dunbar and Sarah Lassiter, were accepted into the club bringing the club membership to

Toenails Will Help Swap

LONDON (WNS)—Marilyn Ring, 22, has been collecting toenail clippings and locks of hair before leaving for a 10-month expedition in Africa with three other graduates of Surrey University. They plan to swap them with the natives. "Millions of Africans believe that anyone who possesses their nails or hair has magic powers over them. We hope to convince them that they will have equal power over us by swapping." Why toenails and hair? "From the trace elements in them, we can tell if the donors have heart disease and can help them," explained Miss Ring.

James Horne Served Pitt Well

James R. Horne, Jr., who has been executive director of the Pitt Development Commission since 1971, will soon be leaving to take a position with the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

Horne will be manager of the Industrial Development Council for the Chamber.

Pitt County's industrial growth has been unprecedented during the years that Horne has served as executive director here. Right now, there are major industries under construction and more are certain to be announced. In addition, inquiries are received frequently from industries expressing interest in Pitt County sites. Just the tax return alone from new industries locating here more than pays the bill for the operation of the Pitt Development Commission office.

We regret Horne's leaving, but wish him well in this new opportunity.

We would hope that the search will begin immediately for a new executive director. The Development Commission should proceed carefully in choosing the person to fill this important position, but at the same time there should be no delay in getting the search underway. We are a county which is seeing new industry develop quite rapidly and a full time executive director is needed to discuss our assets with prospective industries, as well as to handle matters with the presently established industries.

The Pitt County Development Commission was established with a tax voted by the people. It was a farsighted move which has paid dividends for our county. Since its beginning the office of executive director has gone from something which was desirable to an essential position as our largely farming area has moved into the industrial age.

Winning Is A Habit To Local Rescue Unit

It has become repetitious, but our congratulations go to the Greenville Rescue Squad for winning first place in heavy duty rescue and first aid competitions at the N.C. Association of Rescue Squads meeting last weekend.

The local squad has consistently placed high in state and international competition. For our area this means more than just honors. It means that highly trained rescuers are available when disaster strikes. This has a value to our community that cannot be measured in monetary terms.

No Funds For Bikeways

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The wording in a 1965 statewide bond election has put a crimp in hopes of bike lovers for immediate funding for bikeway construction.

That bond election contained wording which in effect says no highway fund money in North Carolina can be used for anything other than building highways, and that goes for state, federal, and local money derived from gasoline or other taxes earmarked for roadwork.

More than 250 bike riders, many representing local clubs around the state, attended a recent public hearing and bikeway conference in Raleigh, sponsored by the Department of Transportation.

Hopes were high that the state would get into the construction business—as some others have—providing help for local bikeways and looking ahead to a statewide network of trails.

Those hopes were dampened, but not entirely dashed, by the negative report on finances.

Plan Ahead
Curtis B. Yates, state

bicycle coordinator with the Department of Transportation, thinks the non-availability of money for construction is not as serious a drawback as some might believe.

First, the General Assembly has written provisions for future funding of bike trail construction using funds which don't fall under the bondvote ban.

Secondly, the lag is providing time for solid, careful planning rather than hasty building.

The expansion budget for the Department of Transportation for the 1975-77 period will include a request for one million dollars in state funds, and if approved by the Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly, that money would get a building program off the ground.

State funds would go to local governments on a matching basis—probably a 50-50 match—and Yates said following the daylong conference that he would "urge local groups to move ahead on their planning, and make sure they're ready when the funds become available."

Yates said the matching provision will be kept, he is sure, since building bike trails should "certainly be kept as a local initiative... we don't want another statewide highway program in bicycles. We must get local involvement."

Funds Used

Still, bike lovers are arguing that the state law which prohibits use of funds for bike construction hampers local plans, and makes it impossible to get their hands on federal money which is available for bike trail work.

Critics of that stand point out that highway funds are already being used for things which are not roadway construction: landscaping projects, and rest stops, for instance.

Two proposals put forth which might have a chance of circumventing the 1965 prohibition and allow use of highway money for bike trails were these:

—Construct a "breakdown lane" some four or five feet wide alongside the pavement, and paint a broad white line to keep cars out of the bike lane;

—Use landscape funds to build a meandering limestone pathway along the highway right of way, and bikes could ride on that.

State officials don't look favorably on such suggestions, feeling rather that a straightforward approach is desirable.

Yates believes there will be some trails built in North Carolina, and funds will be available in a year or so. "It would be a little sad to see people poo-poo the idea that something is happening... but we do not, unfortunately, have the drive of some states."

Still, he thinks some states moved too quickly into construction without adequate planning, and sees the delay as favorable in the long run.

The state bicycle program is also putting insistence on the safety and educational aspects of local efforts, and not just on construction. "We have an opportunity, now, to do some work on a logical approach to cycling—planning and working ahead for a total program," Yates said.

The INSIDE REPORT

The Ford Depreciation

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
INDIANAPOLIS—Here in the heart of what used to be Nixon country, President Ford's pardon of Richard M. Nixon has traumatized the Republican faithful into ugly resentment against their new President and despair over their election prospects Nov. 5.

Although the old Nixon hardcore has diminished to a corporal's guard even in Indiana, the angry mood here goes not to the substance of the Nixon pardon but to its political impact. From top to bottom of the Indiana Republican hierarchy, one consistent theme is sounded: the uphill fight by Mayor Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis to unseat two-term Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh has been undercut by Mr. Ford's timing.

These Republicans are disappointed that Mr. Ford instantly transformed himself from glittering asset to at least a temporary liability. But beyond that is deep resentment that Mr. Ford thought so little of the pardon's political consequences. "I keep asking myself: why did he do it now?" says one county chairman. "We were just starting to get moving."

Indiana is no isolated case. In Ohio the day after the Nixon pardon, one hard-pressed Republican candidate removed from his campaign brochure a letter of praise from Mr. Ford (explaining to us: "I just couldn't take the chance"). In New Jersey, an incumbent Republican Congressman facing a stiff challenge scrapped a campaign flyer because Mr. Ford's picture was on the cover.

The surest test of how much the pardon deflated Republican prospects came in Nixon-loving Indiana. When a fund-raising visit to Indianapolis Oct. 16 by the new President was announced in the midst of the Ford euphoria, Bayh's managers trembled. They toyed with the idea of counteracting the $500-a-ticket Ford reception with a $1-a-ticket Bayh rally here the next night.

But the pardon immediately undermined the Ford visit. "My husband told me he just doesn't want to pay $500 to see the President now," a party worker confided. Even though Republican leaders claim tickets are selling briskly, few see the President's visit as a political bonanza. Neither do the Democrats; Bayh's managers have abandoned the $1 counter-rally.

Bayh's own campaigning also has been affected. While last week's television commercials were crediting Birch Bayh as principal sponsor of the 25th Amendment, which made Jerry Ford President, the Senator sharply changed his tune last week. "It's surprising how fast a new Ford depreciates in value these days," a grinning Bayh cracked to a cheering Democratic rally in conservative southern Indiana.

The new President was scarcely mentioned at Republican rallies. Campaigning in southwestern Indiana, Lugar ignored Mr. Ford except when reporters or students questioned him about the pardon. His answers were cautious and tentative. While suggesting the pardon was an effort to get rid of Watergate once and for all, Lugar added dryly that the effort "may not have been successful."

The Nixon hardcore has so-

Strength For Today

HEALING THE BROKEN-HEARTED

"He hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted." Statesman and reformers propose to alleviate pain and deprivation by changing the conditions under which men live. But Jesus here makes the proposal to change men themselves until they are equal to their circumstances.

Jesus knew that much of the world's sorrow is inevitable. It arises out of the shortcomings of the human beings who live in this world. The more deeply we study the gospels the more do we realize that Jesus was not a reformer. His object was to change men; not circumstances. His principle was this: what we need amid the troubles of life are hearts that will enable us to surmount these troubles.

People who believe in Jesus Christ find at last that their hearts are healed. The promise of the gospel is that Christ will heal the broken-hearted—not just comfort them, not just protect them from the head inclemencies of life, but heal them.

Needed: 10 Volunteers

WASHINGTON — When President Ford pardoned Richard Nixon he said in his speech, "I do believe the buck stops here and that I cannot rely on public opinion polls to tell me what is right. I do believe that right makes right, and that if I am wrong 10 angels swearing I was right would make no difference . . ."

Gabriel came on the Cloud 9 drill field, blew his horn, and all the angels lined up in close order formation at attention.

"All right," he barked, "I want 10 volunteers front and center."

No one moved.

"Aw, c'mon guys. This is a very important mission. It's going to bring you down to earth."

Still no one stepped forward.

Gabriel was becoming angry. "If no one volunteers, I'm going to pick 10 of you willy-nilly from the group."

"What do we have to do?" one of the angels in the back row asked.

"I want 10 angels to go down to Washington, D. C."

"You must be crazy, Gabriel. An angel can get killed there."

"I know it's dangerous."

That's why we're offering everyone hazard pay. But this is a very important job, and the future of the United States of America depends on it."

"What's the mission?" an angel asked.

"We want 10 of you to go to the White House and swear that Gerry Ford did the right thing when he pardoned former President Nixon," Gabriel replied.

"Are you out of your blinkin' mind?" an angel cried. "Why would we want to swear to something like that?"

Gabriel said, "Mr. Ford needs all the support he can get. This pardon thing has him in a box, and if he could get 10 angels to support him it might turn the country around."

An angel said, "Anyone that gets involved in that can of beans has to be bonkers." Gabriel protested, "But we have to show mercy. That's our job. Surely out of the many thousands of you up here, there are 10 angels willing to swear that Gerry Ford's decision was the right one."

Someone said, "Gabriel, there's a long-distance call for you."

"I'll do it," a deep voice said on the phone.

Gabriel went white. "I'm sorry, Lucifer. I don't think you'd be right for this mission. But I appreciate your volunteering."

"I know more about this thing than anyone else," Lucifer said.

"We're well aware of that. But there is a certain credibility problem. There

Cafes Being Looted

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Inflation has brought on the biggest cafe caper in history, says a restaurant executive. Customers are walking off with just about everything but the kitchen sink.

"People are calling for more rolls, bread, butter and crackers for their tables and are carting much of it away in their pockets, purses and in doggie bags — there never have been so many requests for doggie bags," says Larry Buckmaster, executive director of the Chicago and Illinois Restaurant Association.

Buckmaster said the take-home trend has been noted by many of the association's 4,800 members, who blame spiraling food costs.

"If it's happening in Illinois — where the caper is costing thousands of dollars a week — it certainly is going on all over the country," said Buckmaster. He adds that the amount of tips also is falling off.

"Consumption of sugar has risen 100 per cent in the last year," he said. "It is being taken from the tables by the handful. One woman even was spotted unscrewing the caps of salt and pepper shakers and pouring the contents into envelopes. Another stuffed an individual loaf of bread into her purse. Bread and cracker consumption is up by more than 33 per cent."

Buckmaster said several cafe owners outsmarted ketchup bottle filchers by leaving them uncapped.

"They couldn't pour the stuff in their pockets," Buckmaster explained.

"It has always been taken for granted that ash trays will be taken," he said. "But cups, silverware and plates are going now."

"We have a report of one brazen customer slyly substituting old silverware for a new table setting. And we'd give anything to solve the problem of disappearing toilet paper rolls."

"Restaurant men are beginning to cut way back on condiments at the table and limiting rolls and crackers. They say

The Borrowing Syndrome Seen

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Financial advisers often discourage insurance policy owners from borrowing the cash value of their insurance, claiming that loan off—in a parody of Shakespeare—lose both itself and policy.

Since there is no rule that says the money must be paid back in a specified time, they argue, the borrower sometimes permits loan and interest to erode and even destroy the policy's value.

Nevertheless, policyholders today owe more than $21 billion to insurers for loans taken out with their policies as collateral. The figure compares with $7.14 billion in preinflationary 1964.

The lesson appears to be this: more and more families are using credit to finance a life style made more expensive by inflation. To some extent, this marks a break with the past.

Bankers, insurers and other lenders have long noted the tendency of families to reduce their credit when recession threatens. They turn conservative, learning to cut waste and frills. It is a self-protective act.

The present combination of recession and inflation seems to thwart that tendency, forcing families to borrow in spite of their feelings that a conservative posture is safest. It may be that they have no choice.

The borrowing syndrome is showing up in other areas also. Total consumer credit—not including borrowings on insurance—exceeds $180 billion now, and appears to be climbing after a brief early summer pause.

Installment credit, the kind that is repaid in regular weekly or monthly payments, makes up the bulk of consumer credit, totaling close to $152 billion on Aug. 1. It rose by $1.5 billion in July alone.

A big reason for the continued increase, it appears, is the rising price of automobiles. When car prices rise, the amount owed rises also. Strapped for funds, car buyers choose more credit rather than bigger down payments.

While these trends develop, lenders are studying an even more worrisome set of figures that indicates the burden is becoming excessive for some borrowers. Repayments, they feel, are slower than they should be.

Released POW Knows Of No Others

By ARNOLD EITLIN
Associated Press Writer
CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — Emmet James Kay returned today to freedom as the last known U.S. prisoner of war in Indochina. He insisted he knew of no other Americans in custody.

The lanky commercial pilot said the pro-Communist Pathet Lao had treated him so well he left good friends behind him.

Kay, 47, of Hawaii, landed here shortly after sundown after a two-hour flight from Thailand in a C9 Nightingale hospital jet to climax a day in which he went to freedom from imprisonment in a cave in Sam Neua in northeastern Laos.

"As far as I know there are no other Americans there," he said on arrival.

A British army major who flew to Sam Neua to pick up Kay, said he saw the American exchange warm embraces with his Communist captors in an emotional farewell.

The officer, Maj. Peter Shield, said he pledged them he will work toward peace in Indochina and quoted at length from a book the Pathet Lao gave him. He strongly opposed U.S. intervention in Indochina and said he fully supports the Indochinese people "in their struggle for peace," Shield related.

Maurice Gralnik, political-military officer of the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane, said Kay had been told by his captors that whenever they had come across the site of a plane crash, they had buried the bodies of the dead and had taken no one prisoner.

"Presumably, they meant Americans," said Gralnik, who escorted Kay and his wife, Florence, after the pilot was turned over to American authorities in Vientiane.

Kay, wearing a blue silk shirt, spoke briefly to newsmen after his plane landed at Clark and then was taken by bus to the base hospital for a complete physical examination.

During the plane ride from Thailand, Gralnik said, an Air Force flight surgeon took Kay's medical history and pronounced him looking fit.

"He looks fine," said his wife, Florence, who met him in Vientiane where she and their children lived until July awaiting Kay's release.

He said he was given food and medicine and competed in sports, especially volleyball, with his captors. Gralnik said Kay had lived in a bungalow as well as a cave, and servants prepared his food.

Kay said he was given no indoctrination of Communist ideology.

"I'm happy to be back," Kay said to the small group of military personnel and civilian dependents who greeted his plane at Clark.

Maj. Gen. Leroy Manor, commander of the 13th Air Force, and Paul Phillips, deputy public affairs officer of the U.S. Embassy in Manila, greeted Kay.

Kay was greeted by U.S. Ambassador Charles Whitehouse when he reached Vientiane and exchanged jubilant greetings with friends.

Attorney Speaks On 'Women And The Law'

The League of Women Voters of Greenville-Pitt County held the first meeting of the 1974-75 year at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church on Tuesday night. Approximately 65 people met to hear a presentation and to participate in a discussion on "Women and the Law."

The speaker was Mrs. Nelson B. Crisp, a local attorney. Mrs. Crisp is Vice-Chairman of the N. C. Women's Political Caucus and a member of the N. C. Advisory Board of Corrections.

Mrs. Crisp reviewed the historical status of women under the law. She cited examples of legal inequalities based on sex and discussed why the Equal Rights Amendment is needed to end the inequalities.

Laws based on classification by sex, instead of individual qualifications or characteristics result in inequalities, she told her audience.

One example of a law she cited in which sex is viewed as a reasonable basis for classification is the North Carolina law which requires women to accept the domicile of their husbands when they marry.

Therefore, Mrs. Crisp pointed out a North Carolina girl who marries a Virginian loses her in-state tuition status at E.C.U. Another example of a law based on sex classification is the North Carolina law which declares that when a husband and wife own property, the husband alone is entitled to rent from that property or is responsible for upkeep of that property.

Mrs. Crisp said "The basic principle of the Equal Rights Amendment is that sex is not a permissible factor in determining the legal rights of women or of men."

"Many of the efforts to create a separate legal status for women stem from a good faith attempt to advance the interest of women. Nevertheless, the preponderant effect has been to buttress the social and economic subordination of women."

Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States of any state on account of sex, but would be undergirded and hastened under the Equal Rights Amendment," Mrs. Crisp said.

Rhea Resnik, president of the local LWV announced that the United Nations has designated 1975 as International Women's Year. The Greenville LWV will sponsor a program on the United Nations on March 18, 1975.

200-Mile U.S. Claim Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is opposed to Senate passage of a bill to extend U.S. fishing jurisdiction to 200 miles offshore. The unfavorable report came in a 9 to 8 vote. The bill previously had been approved, 14 to 2, by the Senate Commerce Committee. The bill is opposed by the Ford administration, on the grounds that unilateral action by the United States would jeopardize chances for an international agreement on a 200-mile economic zone and encourage other nations to make claims damaging to U.S. fishing interests.

Evaluation Will Begin

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (AP)—State Sen. Dallas L. Alford Jr., D-Nash, said today a 10-member state study commission will meet in Raleigh Friday to begin its evaluation of the state Textbook Commission.

Alford, who introduced legislation this year to create the study commission, said it would consider possible changes in statutes dealing with the composition and duties of the Textbook Commission.

The commission's report will be turned over to Gov. Jim Holshouser, who will transmit it to the 1975 General Assembly.

Members of the commission are Alford; Carolyn McGee of Greensboro; Joyce Wasdell of Durham; state Sen. Luther Britt, D-Robeson; Rep. Sam Bundy, D-Pitt; Rep. Jeter L. Haynes, R-Yadkin; Dr. Robert Nelson of Graham, superintendent of Alamance County schools; Will T. Brown of Fayetteville, assistant superintendent of Fayetteville schools; Mildred Strickland of Smithfield; and George Willard of Wilson, superintendent of Wilson city schols.

diminished in his old heartland that Hoosier enthusiasts for the pardon were hard to find. "I was amazed," relates one county chairman, "how many Republicans wanted Nixon to eat some crow before he was pardoned."

However, hard-boiled leaders of the Indiana Republican organization are long past caring what happens to Richard Nixon, pardon or no pardon. Their despair stems from fearing that persistent disregard for Republican fortunes in the Nixon White House may continue in the Ford White House. Lugar conceded to us he expects nothing of benefit from Washington, but wistfully added: "I hope I won't get bombed from Washington every other week."

Lugar's campaign manager, national committeeman L. Keith Bulen, is considerably less phlegmatic than his candidate. Angered enough by the pardon, Bulen was absolutely outraged by last week's maladroit suggestion from the White House of possible blanket Watergate pardons. What infuriated Bulen was continuing Oval Office disregard for party affairs.

In fact, Bulen had been simmering even before the pardon over a less cosmic event: Mr. Ford's selection of Mary Louise Smith, whose credentials in organizational politics are meager, to be Republican national chairman without consulting national committee members.

What makes the Bulens of the Republican party so frantic is that Mr. Ford's conduct as President, from the appointment of Mrs. Smith to the Nixon pardon fiasco, suggests he realizes no more than his predecessor that the Republican party and the two-party system are on the brink of destruction. Their grumbling about the President stems from genuine anguish that even the Ford Oval Office may have forgotten that there is a Republican party.

CADILLAC 1975

Then and Now...an American Standard for the World.

And what a standard it sets for 1975! There's the brilliant new six-window Sedan deVille, on the right. The bold new Eldorado Convertible, left, with that great profile. And seven other new models in the tradition of our 1931 Phaeton and other great Cadillacs of the past. Including a sleek new Coupe deVille. A magnificent new Fleetwood Brougham. Exciting new Calais with youthful plaid interiors. And new special edition cars for that special touch of elegance.

Efficient as it is elegant. The best overall operating economy in years is one of the benefits of a series of advancements we call The System. Included is the Catalytic Converter, a new device that does its job of emissions control outside the engine—rather than inside—making it possible to recalibrate the engine for smoother overall performance. Another vital link is our High Energy Ignition that delivers higher voltage to fire marginal fuel mixtures under adverse conditions.

Additional benefits. All this, combined with the use of unleaded gas, a "tighter" torque converter, steel-belted radial tires and other advancements adds up to the best Cadillac performance in years. As well as reduced maintenance and lower overall operating costs. Longer intervals between service. And cleaner air for everyone.

Our feature attraction. Consider that Cadillac 1975 has an array of standard features unsurpassed in Cadillac history. Including Automatic Climate Control, a six-way power seat, AM/FM radio with automatic power antenna (signal-seeking stereo on Brougham and Eldorado), lamp monitors, steel-belted radial tires, power door locks and tinted glass.

For your added pleasure . . . there is an inviting selection of other new features available. A glass dome Astrorof. An illuminated entry system for nighttime convenience and security. An air cushion restraint system. A reclining front passenger seat in Eldorado. And shortly after introduction, Electronic Fuel Injection will be available on all models.

This year, slip into something really comfortable . . . any 1975 Cadillac. The ride is smooth and quiet. Interiors comfortable and sumptuous.

When second best isn't good enough.

Most Students At ECU Don't Eat On Campus

By CARL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

What do ECU students eat? Hamburgers, pizzas, fried chicken, french fries, chinese food, etc. And where don't most ECU students eat? Well, most of them don't eat on campus.

According to C.G. Moore, vice-chancellor for business affairs at ECU, the university is only operating one cafeteria this year, that being in Jones Dormitory, where a few students and the football team take their meals.

The university closed its main cafeteria this year after they lost $1,000 last year. For some reason, the ECU students don't want to eat on campus.

That probably explains why the more than 50 food service establishments in Greenville make a go of it.

When ECU students do take a snack on campus, they probably pick up a sandwich at the new student union lunch counter or at the student supply store counter.

The new union lunch counter is being operated by Huey Haislip, who also runs the cafeteria in Jones Dorm. Moore says he feels the students will make use of the Jones facility more when they learn that Huey is operating the cafeteria. He has a reputation for serving good food in Greenville, says Moore.

Huey also provides the sandwiches for the supply store lunch counter.

The Jones Dorm and main cafeteria were operated by a firm out of Raleigh last year, and they suggested to the university that the main cafeteria be closed this year because of a lack of student support.

Moore's financial figures back their recommendation up. The students seem to enjoy the trek off-campus to satisfy their hunger more than eating on campus.

Long live the hamburger!

Two Coffees By LWV Thursday

Shirley Taylor, LWV Membership Director, announced that the League of Women Voters of Greenville-Pitt County will hold two membership coffees on Thursday. All persons who are interested in learning more about the LWV are invited to attend.

The 10:00 a.m. session will be held at 2111 Southview Drive, the home of Mrs. Mildred Indorf. Free babysitting will be provided for those attending the morning coffee.

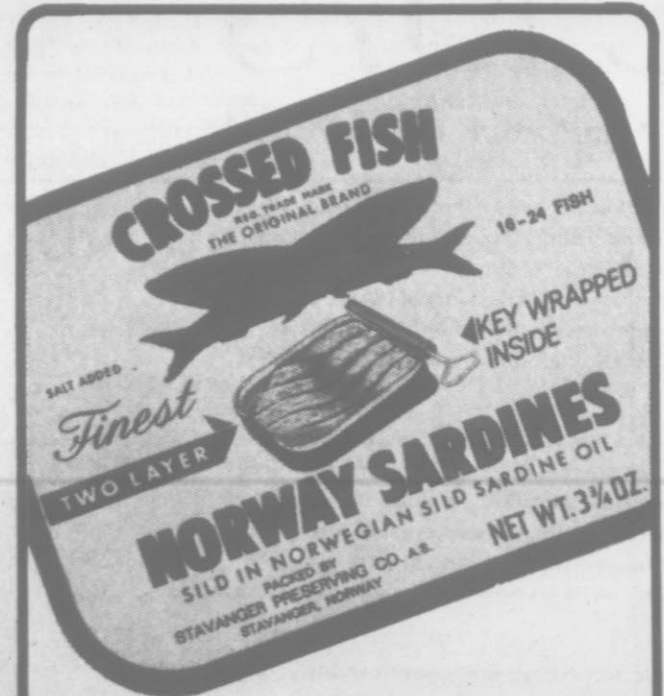

The evening session will be at the home of Mrs. Mary Alvin, 506 Westchester, at 8:00 p.m.

Visiting Fellow Opened Series

Dr. Sashi Ayra, a Rhodes Visiting Fellow at Oxford University, opened the 1974-75 Colloquium Series at the East Carolina University mathematics department Monday.

She spoke on sum theorems for topological spaces.

MEET TONIGHT
Morning Light Tent No. 458 and Loving Union Tent No. 464 will meet at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home tonight at 7:30 for the ceremony of Sister Carrie Glover. All members are asked to wear white.

Gold Mines In Revived Ghost Town Spurred

GOLD IN FRONT YARD—Bob Kress pans for gold with aid of a garden hoe in his front yard near Murray, Idaho. (AP Wirephoto)

By JOHN KUGLIN
Associated Press Writer
MURRAY, Idaho (AP) — The sign near the Four Square Mine, dormant since 1934, would hardly encourage an amateur prospector.

"Use bridges at your own risk — survivors will be prosecuted."

But Bob Kress wasn't at all unfriendly as he sat in his front yard, panning for gold with the aid of a garden hoe.

"People come all the time wondering what gold looks like," Kress said. "But I can't see how you can miss it. Nothing else looks like gold."

The Four Square gold-tungsten mine is two miles southwest of Murray, a historic mining town that was home for 10,000 in its heyday in the 1890s.

S spurred by higher gold prices and the discovery of a half-pound nugget last year, three gold mines are being developed in the center of this revived ghost town of 87 persons and several dozen weathered buildings.

Murray is nestled in a steep, wooded canyon along the banks of Pritchard Creek and is 20 twisting miles of road from the Shoshone County seat of Wallace.

A morning's panning for Kress had produced four small flakes of gold, and the mine watchman calculated he'd need 100 pieces — a level teaspoon full — to make an ounce.

"You can be in gold-bearing ground and never get anything. Or you could become a millionaire overnight," Kress said.

"I think this is good gravel. I dug it from around the roots of a cedar tree that must be a couple of hundred years old."

A skeptical companion said: "You don't get rich from panning. Why, if I found a nugget the size of a pea I'd probably get drunk to celebrate."

Many Murray residents are optimistic that gold, which now sells for about $150 an ounce, may double in price.

There are stories of hidden riches in the timbered hills dotted with colorfully named mines like the Wakeup Jim, Dew Drop, Treasure Box, Golden Chest and Terrible Edith.

Kress pointed to the heavily-timbered hillside behind the Four Square mine and mill, which has been dormant since 1934.

But on this day, in Murray, a dozen tourists were excitedly panning for colors in the back of Chris Christopherson's bar — one of three in the town.

No one was having much luck.

Some of the tourists had just bought gold pans in Wallace.

"It must be the rising price of gold, but we are selling the pans as fast as we get them," said Donna Mullen, a clerk in the Wallace Supply Co. hardware store.

Christopherson triggered a continuing community-wide epidemic of gold fever last year when he found what was then reported to be a half-pound nugget from a shaft sunk in his bedroom behind the bar. So he named it the Bedroom Gold Mine.

The nugget, displayed in the Wallace Elks Club, probably contains about six ounces of pure gold and slightly more than two ounces of quartz, an assayer has said. But the discovery of the nugget was the first significant gold find in Murray since the 1920s when, legend has it, 350 pounds of gold were recovered by a dredge in one sweep near Christopherson's bar.

"We let people pan on the muck pile without charge," Mrs. Christopherson said. "It gives the kids something to do when their parents are drinking beer."

A tourist ran into the bar displaying an almost microscopic flake of gold in his pan. There were a few oohs and aahs as the flake was placed on a matchbook cover. "This is awfully fine gold," snorted a miner nicknamed Caribou.

There was a frantic search for the flake after Mrs. Christopherson accidentally knocked the matchbook over while cleaning the bar.

"This is getting to be a busy place up here," said Christopherson, who also operates the town's only gasoline pump.

Though he is reluctant to say how much gold the Bedroom Mine has produced, Christopherson said, "There should be a whole bunch more nuggets down there."

"I'd rather have this gold backing our money than some of that paper the government is issuing."

Tightening Up Of Welfare Rules Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tightening of welfare rules to require some poor people to seek work in order to qualify for welfare payments has been proposed by the Ford administration.

The new rules "will result in substantial increases in the number placed in jobs," according to a joint statement Monday from the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The tightened rules would apply to the 1.2 million persons registered in the Work Incentive (WIN) program and all future applicants, including the 800,000 who the government estimates will sign up during the current fiscal year.

Concur On Public Funds For Political Campaigns

Indictments Against 2 LINC Men Dismissed

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Superior Court Judge Robert Browning quashed indictments and dismissed charges Tuesday against two former officials of the Learning Institute of North Carolina, bringing a surprise end to a week-long trial.

Dr. Richard S. Ray and Dr. Hugh I. Peck, accused of obtaining consulting fees under false pretenses, were freed after Browning ruled that elements of the misconduct they were charged with did not fit the criminal statute under which they were indicted.

Ray, with tears rolling down his cheeks, told newsmen after the judge's ruling that he felt all along he had not done anything wrong.

"I felt everything I did was in the best interests of the kids of this state," he said.

Ray is a former director of LINC and Peck is a former associate director. They were indicted last year by the Durham County grand jury after an investigation by the State Bureau of Investigation into alleged conflicts of interest and moonlighting by LINC officials.

Ray and Peck were accused of misrepresenting to two Winston-Salem agencies the relationship of LINC with Specialized Educational Consulting Services (SPECS) and using the misrepresentation to divert payments earmarked for LINC to the SPECS bank account.

Testimony began Monday, a week after the trial began. One witness was Mrs. Agnes David, former director of the Urban Coalition Day Care Association, one of two Winston-Salem agencies allegedly defrauded.

One question about the indictments concerned whether any agency had suffered as a result of the alleged pretense, but Mrs. David's testimony indicated that her association received what it paid for in the way of a study.

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees have agreed that the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates should be given $20 million in public funds apiece for their campaigns and not be allowed to spend more.

The money would come from the voluntary system established in 1971 under which taxpayers can check off a political contribution on their federal income tax forms. The conference committee working on the legislation has been advised that this system will generate enough money to finance the plan.

While neither the Democratic nor Republican party is mentioned in the bill, it is drafted in such a way that only the major parties would get the full public financing. However, if a third-party candidate won the presidency his expenses would be reimbursed up to $20 million.

An additional $10 million could be spent by the major candidates in seeking nomination. The government would supply up to half of this by matching private contributions of no more than $250 each.

The spending limits contrast with the nearly $60 million spent by former President Richard M. Nixon in winning re-election in 1972 and between $30 and $35 million spent by Sen. George McGovern, his Democratic opponent.

The conference committee, working to compromise separate campaign finance bills passed by the Senate and the House, has agreed on public financing of presidential campaigns.

But after the initial meeting Tuesday, there was a dispute over whether tax funds should be used to finance Senate and House campaigns.

Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the House conferees, said that although no vote was taken, there was a consensus to delete Senate-passed provisions for public financing of congressional races.

However, the Senate conferees disputed this after some of them met separately later in the day and vowed to insist at a second committee session today that Senate and House races be included in the public financing provisions.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that if they failed in that, the Senate conferees would at least try to win House acceptance of government subsidies for Senate campaigns.

The conferees accepted the House bill's limits of $1,000 on individual contributions to candidates for federal offices and of $5,000 on contributions by organizations.

Individuals and organizations could give these amounts in each of a candidate's races: primary, runoff and general election. But no individual could contribute more than $25,000 in one year to all candidates for federal offices.

The limit on all campaign expenditures by candidates for the House, in primary and general elections, would be $60,000 exclusive of an additional 25 per cent for fund-raising costs.

Candidates for the Senate could spend on their primary campaigns $125,000 or 8 cents times the voting-age population in their state, if that figure is higher. In general elections they could spend $175,000 or 12 cents times the voting age population.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 5 through Sept. 11. The Senate met all week and the House returned from recess on Sept. 11.

HOUSE

PATENT RIGHTS Removed, 182 for and 142 against, language aimed at resolving the question of whether the government or private enterprise is entitled to ownership of energy-related inventions that were financed by taxpayers' money.

Killed by the vote was a provision that the government generally would own rights to technological discoveries made by private industry under contract with the new Energy Research Development Administration (ERDA). ERDA, however, would have had authority to waive government ownership under certain conditions.

ERDA will become the chief federal agency for developing non-nuclear sources of energy in order to make the U. S. independent of foreign energy suppliers.

The vote put the House on record as favoring a six-months study of the issue, with the possibility that Congress will not set patent rules for ERDA. The Senate disagrees and a conference is scheduled.

Supporters of removing the language argued that ERDA will need the full and enthusiastic cooperation of private industry. They said that agencies such as the Atomic Energy Commission have solved the patent question by giving limited exclusivity to private inventors.

Opponents argued that private industry should not reap riches from the investment of taxpayers' money. Rep. Peter Rodino (D-N. J.) said: "The fruits of all the government's energy research funds may well end up in the exclusive control of a few dominant firms contrary to the interests of the taxpayers who paid for the research."

Reps. David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Charles Rose (D-7) and Earl Ruth (R-8) did not vote.

SENATE

TELEVISION SPORTS Tabled, 36 for and 24 against, an amendment directing the Federal Communications Commission to determine the extent to which cable television can broadcast professional sporting events.

The amendment was proposed to the Copyright Revision Law bill (S.1361), which was later passed and sent to the House.

One major issue was how far the government should go in keeping competition from cable television from undercutting commercial television contracts. Most supporters of the tabling amendment favored the maximum possible cable pick-up of games televised commercially.

Supporters argued that the proposed FCC study would lead to undue restrictions on cable television, which in turn would create sports black-outs in regions which have no other television access to major sporting events. "The guts of what we are talking about is sports blackout and not FCC rulemaking," said Sen. Edward Gurney (R-Fla.).

Opponents of the tabling motion argued that FCC expertise is needed to resolve deep and bitter conflicts between cable interests on the one hand and commercial television interests on the other hand.

Clouding debate was the fact that the FCC already has begun separate rulemaking proceedings on cable televising of sporting events.

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea." OIL SHIPMENTS Passed, 42 for and 28 against, the Energy

Transportation Security Act of 1974 (H. R. 8193) requiring that a specified portion of imported oil be carried in United States flag ships. American-flag tankers now carry five percent of the nation's oil imports. The proposed quota would raise that figure to at least 30 percent by June 30, 1977.

One supporter, Sen. Russell Long (D-La.), said the bill would generate business for the American shipping industry and thus strengthen the U. S. balance-of-payments posture. This, in turn, would ease inflation, he said.

Long added that the bill would be an environmental plus by increasing the number of ships subject to American environmental standards, and would bolster national defense by raising the supply of tankers for use in times of crisis.

Sen. Norris Cotton (R-N.H.) warned that the legislation would cause inflation by prompting the oil-producing countries to raise prices. He doubted that the bill would help American labor outside of the shipping industry and said that any labor gains would be erased by the penalty of more inflation for American consumers.

Ervin voted "yea." Helms voted "nay."

SPEED LIMITS Rejected, 22 for and 63 against, an amendment to raise to 60 m.p.h. the speed limit states must set to qualify for federal highway funds. It was proposed to S. 3934, which authorizes money for federal highway construction in fiscal years 1975 and 1976.

The amendment would have given states the option of raising speed limits by as much as five m.p.h. over the national speed limit of 55 m.p.h. that was imposed during the height of the energy crisis.

Sen. Robert Dole (R-Kan.), the sponsor, cited statistics showing that less-populous western states can make their highways safer by raising limits to 60 m.p.h. He said that because of geographical and population factors 60 m.p.h. in western states is the equivalent of 55 m.p.h. in New Jersey and New York.

One opponent of the amendment, Sen. Robert Stafford (R-Vt.), countered: "The reduced speed limit . . . has been saving about 1,000 lives a month on our nation's highways . . . How can we consider any increase above the 55 m.p.h. limit when we know such an increase means more people will be killed?"

Ervin voted "nay." Helms did not vote.

Power Mower Standards Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers Union has been tentatively picked to prepare a proposed mandatory federal safety standard for power lawn mowers. The Consumer Product Safety Commission said final approval depends on whether the private consumer advocate group can do the job for less than the $96,000 in public funds that it requested for the project.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were stronger Tuesday. Supplies were adequate and demand was good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs delivered in cartons to nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 71.78, medium whites 65.40, small whites 49.59.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned downward in quiet trading today, ending a two-session rally.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 7.98 at 640.80, and losers outnumbered gainers by close to 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the enthusiasm over recent softening in interest rates in the short-term money market that helped spark the advance Monday and Tuesday was apparently tempered by signs that the Federal Reserve apparently was not inclined to help push borrowing costs down any further at the moment.

Meanwhile, most experts were cautioning that any significant declines in banks' prime lending rates were probably at least several weeks off.

In addition, the market had to deal this morning with the government's report that the nation had a $2.74-billion deficit in the second quarter in its basic balance of payments.

Consumer Power, a Michigan utility, was the Big Board volume leader, down 1/4 at 10 1/2.

Eastman Kodak slipped 3 1/2 to 70 3/4. The company disclosed plans late Tuesday to convert to full last-in-first-out inventory accounting in its domestic operations, and said the move would trim its reported 1974 earnings by some 25 cents a share.

Digital Equipment, subject of a Wall Street Journal article which said one analyst had cooled in its appraisal of the issue's prospects, was down 6 1/4 at 73 1/4 after a delayed opening.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index was off .45 at 34.80. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index showed a .27 decline at 63.86.

Ryan Homes was the Amex' most-active stock, down 5/8 at 5 1/2.

Planned Fall Campaign

The Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee met recently at the Grimes Farm of Sen. Vernon White and formulated plans for the fall Democratic campaign.

Guests attending the session, which followed a pig picking on the farm grounds near the Tar River, included First District Congressman Walter Jones; State Democratic executive secretary Ben Utley; Charles Winberry, campaign manager for senatorial candidate Robert Morgan; and a number of area candidates who were recognized.

According to Mrs. Betty Spier of Bethel, county Democratic vice chairman, the executive committee voted to open a general Democratic headquarters for Pitt County for the fall campaign.

Mrs. Spier said that the gathering, estimated at approximately 80 persons, was urged to promote the Jim Hunt dinner scheduled for Oct. 3 at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Tickets for the affair will be available to the public, it was noted.

Holshouser For Limited Wiretapping

RED TIDE'S EFFECT—Beach goes near Panama City, Florida, make their way through thousands of dead fish at St. Andrews State Park, the result of the red tide blown in by Hurricane Carmen last week, along the state's Gulf coast. (AP Wirephoto)

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser said today he would favor legislation to grant limited wiretapping authority to the state Department of Justice to fight organized crime.

Holshouser made the remarks in announcing the appointment of an Organized Crime Prevention Council headed by Atty. Gen. James Carson. If the council recommends wiretapping legislation, Holshouser said, he would support it.

Holshouser also announced his decision to retain the "Motorist's Prayer on state highway maps. The prayer has been attacked recently by civil libertarians who say it violates the separation of church and state.

The governor also said the 1975 state budget would be too tight to permit cutting or eliminating the sales tax on food.

North Carolina law currently does not authorize any wiretapping by state law enforcement officials. Holshouser said he would favor it under "the strictest kind of supervision."

He explained that he felt the federal law requires the proper amount of supervision. Federal agents must obtain a court order before they can wiretap.

Holshouser said organized crime in the state included a number of "homegrown criminal rings" engaged in auto theft, hijacking and other activities. He said he feared that the drug traffic around military bases and cigarette smuggling from the northeastern part of the state would provide an entree for out-of-state organized criminal elements. Holshouser said he felt the prayer on the state maps is effective in promoting highway safety.

And he said that campaigning legislators promising to support repeal of the food tax are making promises they will not be able to keep with fiscal integrity.

Holshouser reminded reporters of his 1972 campaign pledge against raising taxes, saying he could not support legislation combining food tax repeal with increased income taxes in the upper brackets.

While the food tax repeal is a "desirable goal," he said, the 1975 budget will be the "tightest within my memory," and will not contain enough extra money to permit the repeal of the sales tax on food. Last year, legislators estimated that the tax produced $60 million per year in state revenues.

A-G, Conley In Cross-County Meeting

Conley's Keith Gould

Utility Man Aiding Conley

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

No matter what sport you talk about, there is one type of player every coach would like to have a hundred of but never seems able to have more than a couple. This is the so-called utility man.

The utility man, whether he be in football, baseball, track or swimming, can play several different positions and play all equally as well. These players are few and far between.

This year's D. H. Conley football has just such a player in senior running back Keith Gould. A three sport letterman, Gould has played more football positions than you can count on one hand. When he was a freshman he made the varsity as an offensive guard and a defensive lineman. Then as a sophomore, he moved out to tackle and played another year at defensive line.

Last year he continued to move along the line to tight end and was used as a linebacker on defense. This year he has found himself in the offensive backfield as the Vikings starting fullback and is again a linebacker.

Of the six places he has played, Keith likes where he is now the best. "I like fullback and linebacker more than any other position," he said. "I like to hit people and be able to feel that I'm better than who I'm playing against."

Normally freshman do not play on the varsity team but when Gould was in his first year of high school, the football program was just getting started at Conley. "I had played Little League and didn't really expect to make the varsity. I was just inspired by the other guys," he said. "When I was a freshman I started at guard; when I was a sophomore I started at guard and defensive end then moved to tight end and line backer and now I'm playing fullback and linebacker."

This year, Keith is finishing up his college entrance requirements: He is in the student government body at Conley as well as being in the science club, a member of the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church Youth Choir and a bus driver. He also plays basketball and baseball but feels that football is his best sport.

"It seems I can show myself in football better. I play basketball for relaxation and I like baseball because I pitch. That puts you up against somebody better or just as good as you." Keith has lettered in all three and has been a starter in all three.

"Wolf" as Gould was named by his baseball teammates, helped the Viking basketball team win the regular season championship providing bench strength and depth.

In those three years Keith has scored only once and that was on a strange play. Once, when he was playing defensive end, he intercepted a lateral behind the line. "I ran 45 yards for a touchdown."

After he graduates, Gould wants to go to college and play football. "If any college will have me, I'll play," he said. "I would like to go to ECU or State or a junior college where I could get some experience." He would like to study police science or recreation.

"I'd enjoy coaching. I worked with young boys at the Chicod recreation center and I like being

Golfing Results

The team of Carl Faser, Ed Monroe, Betty Akin and Julia Painter took first place in a recent Captain's Choice Golf Tournament at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The team shot a 67 to win it. Second place went to the team of Mary Dale White, Mike Bell, Dorothy Woolees and Jack Bircher, who had a 69. Third place was Harriette White, Katie King, Henry Leslie and Dean Painter, also with a 69, while fourth was Bruce Sauter, Wallace Woolees, Harriette Wooten and Anne Whitehurst. They also had a 69. The ties were dissolved by comparing score cards.

In the first Ladies Day, which saw 54 participate, a Captain's Choice was also held. First place went to Mable Blount, Peggy Hallow and Betty Lou Howard with a 36. Second was Irene Bircher, Gail McClelland, Patsy Ward and Janice Merritt with a 37, while Louise Webb, Margaret Sutton and Mary Rachel Winslow were third with a 38.

The next Ladies Day will be Friday, September 27. A low net and gross tournament will be held. Signups are now underway.

Of the several games played in the Eastern Carolina loop last Friday night one game left nine teams of the ten-member conference shaking in their cleats and reaching for something to sit down on.

The only team not rattled by that game was Southern Wayne—the winner of a 53-18 decision over Ayden-Grifton. It was only the second game of the year for both teams and no doubt few teams elsewhere in the loop are looking forward to their shot at the Saints.

In other games around the area, Conley won its first with a 14-0 score over C. B. Aycock; Farmville Central also won its first game beating Eastern Wayne, 13-0; and North Pitt fell to North Lenoir, 18-0.

Robersonville dropped a 19-0 loss to Williamston, Greene Central slipped past Southern Nash, 13-6 and South Edgecombe downed Jamesville, 20-2.

This week sees Southern Nash at Farmville Central; Southern Wayne visiting Greene Central; Ayden-Grifton at Conley; Eastern Wayne at North Pitt; Murfreesboro at Williamston; Plymouth at Robersonville; Creswell at Jamesville.

A-G, after roaring past Kinston the week before, 21-0, ran head long into the Southern Wayne trucking company, namely Ken Mack. Mack mauled the Charger defense for 212 yards rushing, an 11.2 yard-per-carry average, and four touchdowns and four extra point conversions.

A-G was in the game only through the first few minutes. Both teams scored the first time they had the ball but after A-G scored, it was all over for the Chargers.

"Our defense just could not stop them," said A-G coach Mike Overton. "They were too physical for us. They were the best team I've played against in four years."

A-G lost three key players in the first half; Paul Ricciarelli, a split end, Ned Craft and Twendie Simpson, both running backs. Overton was also amazed at the Saint defensive line. "They average over 260. We average around 185," he said.

Against the Vikings this week, Overton said the Chargers will have to play defense. He doesn't expect anything unusual from

Pirate Kickers To Open Season

First-year head soccer coach Curtis Frye, boasting 16 returning lettermen and a promising crop of newcomers, will begin indepth preparation this week for the season opener when the Pirate booters travel to Raleigh September 28 to face Atlantic Coast Conference rival North Carolina State.

Frye's team got their first taste of action last Saturday afternoon in the teams' annual Purple-Gold intra-squad scrimmage. Fullback Tommy O'Shea booted two goals to pace the Gold team to a 3-2 victory over the Purple team. Frye divided his team up evenly rather than running the first team against the second team which accounted for the close score.

"Overall we had a great scrimmage and I was really pleased with a lot of things I saw out there," said Frye. "We had four key people injured that were unable to play so I got to see how all of our younger and inexperienced players performed."

Frye was particularly impressed with the overall execution both teams exhibited throughout the scrimmage. "Everyone is developing a sense of team play and they're executing much better then they were were at the beginning of the year. They did a lot of things I wanted them to do. They're getting the idea of passing and controlling the ball rather than going for the score all the time."

As far as putting points on the scoreboard this season, Frye foresees no critical problems. "We've got eight fullbacks that have all looked very good this year. The fullbacks are a great addition to our team and they're the ones we're counting on in the pressure situations."

The Pirates will look to senior fullback Brad Smith, captain of last year's squad and an All-Southern Conference performer, and halfback Bob Poser, the leading scorer in the school's history two years ago, for most of the scoring punch.

"What more can you say about Brad Smith?" Frye asked. "You wouldn't even have to know who he was and just watch us play for a few minutes and you could tell. He's the sparkplug of the team. He constantly hustles and is a very aggressive player with exceptional speed, even though he's hampered with a bad knee. Frye continues to be surprised at the play and consistent improvement of his young players. He singled out Ed French, a freshman from Atlanta, Ga., who has looked better and better each day in practice. "French is a surprise to this whole program," said Frye. "He's going to surprise some other people in this conference before this season is over."

Frye also singled out the play of Harry Hartofelis, a junior from Raleigh, N. C. "Harry could make the difference in this team being a real good one and just a mediocre one. I think he's going to be a real credit to this program."

Tommy Long is another youngster that's looked exceptional and has done an outstanding job in practice. The Pirates schedule is getting tougher and tougher every year, but Frye feels the team should improve over last year's 4-7-2 record and hopes the Pirates can knock off one of the Big Four teams and capture the coveted Southern Conference crown. East Carolina will face North Carolina and Duke as well as the usual rigorous Southern Conference schedule. "Right now we're really looking forward to playing The Citadel. They

Conley because, "they're a good enough football team that they won't have to do anything different."

Conley beat Aycock handing the Falcons their second loss of the year. Chuck Dunn felt the game was just the opposite of the Viking performance of a week earlier. "This week we had the defense but not the offense. We didn't play very well offensively; we made a lot of mistakes."

Defensively, the Vikings were able to contain the Falcons keeping the Aycock offensive unit from crossing midfield. "They ran the wishbone and we did what we had planned to do." Dunn envisions a fired up A-G team to come to Hollywood this Friday. "They will come with fire in their eyes," he said.

Farmville Central made up for their opening loss to Rose with a 13-0 decision over Eastern Wayne, North Pitt's opponent this week. The Jags got a pair of second quarter breaks as Walter Gorham recovered a pair of Warrior fumbles deep in Eastern territory. He ran one in for a score. The Jags did a better job defensively, according to coach Gene Brewer but offensively, they did not do as good a job as they could have.

"Defensively, our tackling could have been better. Offensively we didn't do a lot good. The offensive line made some mistakes by not concentrating." Brewer does not plan to change anything for this Friday night. "We need to learn to tackle but the defense can stand for itself."

Against North Lenoir North Pitt had another trying night. "As far as defense goes," said Pat Smith, Panther head coach, "We played a good game. Only two mistakes cost us the game."

Smith was referring to two long touchdown passes completed by the Hawks. Otherwise the defense was much improved over the previous week. The two passes resulted in two of the three NL scores. "We gave them the last one because I let the younger players play. We feel we got beat, 12-0," Smith said.

The offense still has Smith worried. "We're not doing anything. We can't get a drive going. The pass protection and blocking was weak but we did not make as many mistakes."

This week, Smith expects "another tough game; we won't have an easy one." Eastern Wayne is a big team, he says, and the Panthers will have to work hard.

CHAMPION THIEF AT WORK—St. Louis Cardinals Lou Brock goes into second on a tenth inning steal during action with the Pirates in Pittsburgh Tuesday night as second sacker Rennie Stennett reaches for the throw from catcher Manny Sanguillen. Palmer Pitches Birds By Yanks, Gap Closes

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

As Jim Palmer painfully found out this season, the Cy Young Award doesn't do anything for a sore arm.

Palmer helped salvage some of what's left of his long season with a masterful seven-hit shutout Tuesday night, pitching the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

It was a crucial game for the Orioles since a loss would have dropped them 3½ games behind the high-flying Yankees in the American League East.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Detroit Tigers beat the Boston Red Sox 5-3; the Kansas City Royals edged the Oakland A's 2-1; the Milwaukee Brewers shaded the Cleveland Indians 3-2; the Minnesota Twins punished the Chicago White Sox 8-0, and the California Angels-Texas Rangers game was rained out.

Palmer's victory, his seventh in 19 decisions, moved the Orioles within 1½ games of the Yankees.

The pressure shifted back and forth Tuesday night as Palmer and Yankee ace, Doc Medich, 18-14, matched zeroes for six innings.

But Elrod Hendricks doubled with one out in the seventh, took third on Mark Belanger's bunt single when Medich was slow covering first, and just beat leftfielder Lou Piniella's throw to the plate on Al Bum-bry's sacrifice fly for the only run Palmer needed.

Month Delay In Fight Schedule

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — You can cut George Foreman, but you still can't push the heavyweight champion around.

"We'll fight when he's healthy and not before," said Foreman's trainer, Dick Sadler, whose adamant posture now raises the most serious of several obstacles to the rescheduled fight between Foreman and Muhammad Ali.

The government of Zaire regretfully announced Tuesday the postponement of its show of shows, the title fight between Foreman and Ali, from Sept. 25 to Oct. 23 because of the deep one-inch gash the heavyweight champion suffered over his right eye Monday.

But, with the heavyweight championship crown hanging in the balance, Sadler was not committing himself to a particular date, just a healthy George Foreman.

"Don't put too much confidence in that Oct. 23 date," Sadler told a news conference here Tuesday, adding that it was "too early to say" when his fighter would be ready.

"We hope it can be around the 23rd or the 30th" of October, but he later told reporters "it could be two (months)," which would push back the fight to the end of November.

"It will take three or four days to tell if there's any infection or how it's healing because the wound has to heal from inside. In the States, you know, you can't box for 30 days after a cut."

The new date for Zaire's boxing spectacular, sporting the highest ring price tag ever — $30 million — was announced by the African nation's main fight official, Bula Mandungu. He said Sadler's reluctance to flatly accept the new date was understandable, but added he was sure the fight would be held on Oct. 23.

Mandungu's government has poured massive sums of money into the bout, hoping to use it as a springboard to increased international respect and recognition.

Foreman, the seemingly invincible champion who pounded the heavyweight crown off Joe Frazier's head 20 months ago in Jamaica, then secured it for himself with rapid knockouts of challengers Joe "King" Roman and Ken Norton, was cut Monday in a sparring session with 36-year-old Bill McMurray.

Old Faces In New Uniforms

By HOWARD SINER
AP Sports Writer

The World Football League, offering spots to veterans recently dropped by the National Football League, returns to action tonight with a cast of familiar players in different uniforms.

"I don't look at playing in the World Football League as a comedown," said Leroy Kelly, the fourth-leading ground gainer in NFL history, after being signed Tuesday by the Chicago Fire.

"What brings me to Chicago? Money, dough," said Kelly. "The Mean Green, my man, is where it is all at."

A Fire spokesman said Kelly, cut last week by the NFL Oakland Raiders after a long career with the Cleveland Browns, had an outside shot at starting against the visiting Memphis Southmen.

In other WFL games tonight, New York is at the Hawaiians, Detroit at Southern California, Philadelphia at Florida and Portland at Jacksonville. Houston at Birmingham is Thursday's national TV game.

"We have to keep our chins up and keep fighting, and this will be a real tough one," said Fire coach Jim Spavital about Memphis.

The Fire, 7-4, has dropped two games in a row on last-minute defeats. The Southmen, 9-2, have seven consecutive victories.

Against New York, 7-4, the Hawaiians, 3-8, plan to start quarterback Ed Hargett, who began the season with the NFL Houston Oilers. He threw two scoring passes last week for the Hawaiians.

The Honolulu club might also use two former New York Giants players — quarterback Randy Johnson and cornerback Willie Williams.

New faces are common on the rosters of both Southern California, 7-4, and Detroit, 1-10. Both clubs jumped on former NFL players.

Wide receiver Dick Witcher of the San Francisco 49ers was signed by the Sun, for instance. The Wheels added former Atlanta tackle Jim Coode and former Pittsburgh linebacker Brian Stenger.

Philadelphia, 5-6, said defensive end Rick Cash, New England's former player representative, will face Florida, 7-4.

Newly sold Jacksonville, 4-7, will have to figure out how to stop ex-NFL passer Pete Beathard of Portland, 2-8-1. Beathard got off to a slow start last week, running only three plays for the Storm.

Owner Fran Monaco sold controlling interest in the Sharks — reportedly in a $2.5 million deal — to a group headed by New Yorker William Pease. But he said the team will finish the year in Jacksonville.

signed about eight foreign players which could really boost their program. William & Mary returns everybody and, of course, Appalachian is the defending champion.

Brock's Steal Helps Cards Win

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Even in a tired condition, Lou Brock, the St. Louis Cardinals' base-stealing wizard, can outfox the slyest pitchers in the National League.

Brock used his feet and his brains to weave his magic against the Pittsburgh Pirates and Jerry Reuss Tuesday night, and his feats of prestidigitation produced a 2-1 St. Louis victory in 13 innings that stretched the streaking Cardinals' lead to 2½ games over the slumping Pirates in the NL East pennant race.

That was the Pirates' problem in the 13th—they couldn't keep Brock off the bases. He opened the inning with a single, and after Reuss threw six consecutive times to first base, he stole second easily. It extended his single-season record to 109 stolen bases and lifted him into second place on the all-time list with 744, one ahead of Eddie Collins, who played from 1906-1930, mostly with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The all-time stolen base leader is the immortal Ty Cobb with 892.

Meanwhile, in the NL West, first-place Los Angeles and runner-up Cincinnati both lost, leaving the Dodgers 2½ games ahead of the Reds. The Houston Astros beat the Dodgers 7-0 and the San Diego Padres whipped the Reds 6-1.

Elsewhere in the NL, the Chicago Cubs downed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, the Atlanta Braves topped the San Francisco Giants 4-3, and the New York Mets at Montreal Expos game was postponed because of wet grounds.

Astros 7, Dodgers 0
Houston's Tom Griffin handcuffed NL West-leading Los Angeles on five hits for his third shutout of the season and 14th victory.

Lee May drove in three Houston runs with his 24th homer and a sacrifice fly, and Doug Rader smashed his 17th homer.

Padres 6, Reds 1
San Diego also received strong pitching — from Bill Grief — in beating Cincinnati and jolting the Reds' pennant hopes. Grief allowed only six hits.

Meanwhile, the Padres, led by Dave Winfield, tagged Cincinnati's 19-game winner Jack Billingham for five runs and eight hits in less than three innings. Winfield cracked a two-run single and his 18th homer.

Cubs 4, Phillies 2
Don Kessinger was virtually the entire offense for the Cubs, either driving in or scoring all of Chicago's runs. He walked in the first inning and came home on Peter Lacombe's double. Then in the fifth, he doubled in two runs and scored on Jose Cardenal's single.

Braves 4, Giants 3
Atlanta's Buzz Capra pitched a seven-hitter for his 15th victory and Marty Perez knocked in the winning run with a seventh-inning single.

American League results:
Detroit 5, Boston 3; Baltimore 4, New York 0; Kansas City 2, Oakland 1; Milwaukee 3, Cleveland 2; Minnesota 8, Chicago 0, and California at Texas, postponed, wet grounds.

Australian Promises To Try Again For Cup

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW PORT, R.I. (AP) — "It's very hard to come to a foreign country and take away something that has been here 123 years."

That was Australian Alan Bond talking Tuesday after his challenger Southern Cross had met defeat for the fourth straight time in the America's Cup yacht racing series.

"We will be back, however, and you can be sure we'll be tough," he assured the sponsoring New York Yacht Club. "We learned a lot, and we'll learn more."

The American defender, Courageous, walloped Bond's challenger by a horrendous 7 minutes, 19 seconds in the fourth outing of the best-of-seven series Tuesday and assured that the most prestigious trophy in yachting will remain on its permanent pedestal in the New York Yacht Club.

It was the worst defeat handed a foreign challenger since Constellation beat the British entry Sovereign by 15 minutes, 40 seconds in 1964.

"It is not easy to say you have been beaten by better men," the 37-year-old Bond said in a lengthy explanation of his failure — an effort said to have cost him upwards of $6 million.

"On this occasion I don't necessarily think it's the men. The technology was simply better, and they sailed the defender well," he added.

Old salts who throng the Newport docks during Cup races aren't so sure the Aussies weren't shorthanded in something else besides their boat.

At the outset of the series on Sept. 10, most agreed that the contenders, Courageous and Southern Cross, were about equal in hull speed. Courageous was given a slight advantage in light wind, Southern Cross the nod in heavy winds and choppy seas.

As it turned out, Courageous' conditions prevailed in all four of the races. But the Aussies were guilty of serious errors in sailing, particularly in tactics and navigation.

Bond admitted as much after losing the initial race by 4 minutes, 54 seconds.

"We were guilty of human errors," he said. And he tried to correct them by replacing both his navigator and tactician in the second race, but himself taking a winch grinder's job below deck.

The changes didn't help. The Aussies did manage to narrow the margin to 1 minute, 11 seconds in the second race, but in the third outing the advantage climbed to 5 minutes, 27 seconds and the Aussies knew their cause was hopeless.

Courageous thus ran the America's Cup score to 68-9 since the first race in 1851. The string since 1958 includes three 4-0 shutouts and two 5-1 margins. The Aussies won the last two victories over the Americans.

Matches Delayed

Rain forced the postponement of two girls' tennis matches in the area yesterday. Postponed was the match between Wilson and Rose, and the one between Farmville Central and Charles B. Aycock.

The Farmville match was rescheduled for October 9, while the Rose match has been tentatively reset for Saturday.

Parker Says Pack On Track

By The Associated Press

North Carolina State may have gotten off to a slow start in its defense of the Atlantic Coast Conference football crown. But at least one ACC coach believes the 'Pack' has regained its poise.

The 'Pack' "is a better football team than they were last year," said Clemson Coach Red Parker this week. "There was a hundred percent improvement from the Wake Forest to the Duke game, maybe more."

Parker will find out first hand Saturday whether his observations were correct, when his Tigers play the 15th-ranked Wakepack in Raleigh, N.C.

A victory Saturday would give N.C. State a 3-0 conference record, thanks to earlier victories over Duke and Wake Forest.

Meanwhile, 14th-ranked Maryland, the favorite to unseat N.C. State as conference football king, will travel to Tampa for a game with Florida. The Terrapins, who lost their opener last weekend in a respectable showing against Alabama, have yet to face an ACC rival.

Maryland's ACC debut will come Sept. 28 in a televised encounter with North Carolina on the Terps' field.

In other games Saturday involving conference teams, Duke is at South Carolina; North Carolina plays at Wake Forest and Virginia hosts William & Mary of the Southern Conference.

It will be North Carolina's first conference game. The Tar Heels opened last Saturday with a 42-7 victory over Ohio University.

The Tar Heels were being cautious in their public estimates of Wake Forest, although the winless Deacons have already dropped two games this season.

"Wake certainly has an improved team over last year," said asst. coach Sandy Kinney. "And there's no doubt they're better defensively."

The Deacons, who face a long season with such opponents as Oklahoma and Penn State, will have to muster all their defensive skills against the Tar Heels, who clicked off six touchdowns in their opener.

Duke's game with South Carolina may give the Blue Devils a chance to take another look at quarterback Bob Corbett, who came off the bench Saturday to win ACC rookie of the week honors.

Although Corbett played only 23 minutes, he connected on 14 of 22 passes for 196 yards and tallied the best offensive statistics for a Duke signal caller in the last four years.

Corbett, who spent two years on the junior varsity, entered the game as Duke was trailing 28-0 but managed three touchdowns for a more respectable 35-21 finish.

Virginia's game with Southern Conference William & Mary will be like old times for Cavalier Coach Sonny Randle. He left the Southern Conference's East Carolina team last season to take the Virginia post.

William & Mary won its first bout with an ACC team with a victory last Saturday over Wake Forest. Virginia lost its opener to the Navy.

95 Draft Evaders Freed From Prison

By W. ROBERT WELLER
Associated Press Writer
President Ford's clemency program has temporarily freed most of the 95 Vietnam-era draft evaders in federal prisons, but some may be back. To some, Ford's offer to do alternative service in lieu of jail was no different than what they had refused to do before they were imprisoned. They said they owed the nation no service for refusing to fight in what they called an immoral war.

Steve Bezich of Chicago was one. He refused to leave the federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla., saying he wouldn't accept anything short of complete amnesty.

Several others who did leave said they would return rather than accept alternative service.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe had ordered the imprisoned draft evaders released late Tuesday on 30-day furloughs to give them time to appeal their sentences to a newly created clemency board.

Presumably that board might rule that some inmates must spend time doing public service work in lieu of completing their sentences.

The board was set up by President Ford after he decided to offer amnesty to draft evaders and deserters — both those in jail and those in exile or hiding — if they agreed to alternative service.

Earl reports indicated the offer wasn't faring much better with those who had avoided prison by leaving the country.

Only one draft evader was known to have turned himself in Tuesday.

John S. Barry, 22, turned himself in to federal authorities in San Francisco. Barry, who had never registered for the draft, said, "This whole mess is not going to be a stigma I'll carry the rest of my life."

Doug Bittle returned to San Francisco from Canada to take a look at Ford's offer, but he was cautious. Bittle said, "I want to look at it a lot more closely. If they want reasonable service, reasonable work, I'm interested. I wouldn't mind working at Napa State Hospital or doing anything in which I felt I was helping someone."

The Justice Department said

draft evaders like Bittle may re-enter the country without fear of arrest for 15 days. Border stations have been told to allow any draft evaders or deserters on their wanted lists to enter the country after giving them a copy of Ford's amnesty proclamation.

The Justice Department said a telephone center set up to handle inquiries from draft resisters, deserters and others had received calls from 42 evaders, 21 deserters and 50 other interested persons.

Saxbe's directive had set prison officials in 30 federal institutions to work to determine which inmates were serving only draft evasion sentences. A spokesman said preliminary reports indicated as many as one-fourth of the imprisoned draft evaders might be ineligible for the furloughs because of other charges pending against them.

The furloughs allow the inmates to return home and go about their business freely for 30 days and prison officials said all possible efforts were made to free all those affected by Tuesday night.

The Bureau of Prisons said the clemency board is expected to complete action on the inmates' cases within 30 days but if it takes longer, extensions could be added.

INVESTIGATED? — Ruth Farkas of New York City, a $300,000 contributor to former President Nixon, met with the head of Nixon's re-election finance committee prior to her appointment as ambassador to Luxembourg, says U. Ten Traffic Accidents On Streets Yesterday

More than $7,400 property damage resulted yesterday from a series of 10 traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 4 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fourth and Eastern Streets involving cars driven by Martie Jan Webb of Garner and James Hebert Flake of 2402 East Third St.

Police, who estimated damage to the Webb car at $1,500 and set damage to the Flake vehicle at $1,000, charged Miss Webb with failing to yield the right of way.

Haywood Dail Laughinghouse III of Greenville was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of a 5:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Reade Streets.

Police said the Laughinghouse car collided with an auto operated by Patricia Herring Sturtevant of 214 Nichols Dr. causing an estimated $125 damage to the Sturtevant car and $800 damage to the Laughinghouse auto.

Mark Alan Sosnik of Gastonia was charged with exceeding a safe speed in connection with a 6 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard 45 feet West of the Arlington Boulevard intersection.

Drivers of the other two cars involved in the mishap were listed as William Clifton Nelson Jr. of 1211 Drexel La. and Robert Alston Fowle Jr. of Route 5, Washington.

Damage was estimated at $5 to the Nelson car, $600 to the Fowle auto and $150 to the Sosnik vehicle.

Cars driven by Betsy Sleva Eubanks of 1212 Red Banks Rd. and Mark Aaron Conway of 2001 Forrest Hill Dr. were reported involved in a 5:25 p.m. collision on Elm Street 415 feet south of the Tenth Street intersection.

Damage to the cars was set at $150 to the Eubanks auto and $300 to the Conway vehicle.

Conway was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

No charges were made when the brakes on a car driven by Timothy Steven Pearce of 129 North Library St. failed and the vehicle struck a utility pole.

Officers set damage to the Pearce car at $350. No damage was done to the pole.

The mishap occurred about 9 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Library Streets.

Again no charges were made when cars driven by William S. Woodall of Route 2, Princeton and Jasper Willard Davenport of Route 4, Tarboro collided about 5:35 p.m. on Memorial Drive 45 feet North of the Trade Street intersection.

Officers estimated damage at $100 to the Woodall car and $125 to the Davenport vehicle.

Clarence Edwin Chapman Jr. of Huntington, N.Y., was charged with following too close following investigation of a 5:31 p.m. accident on U.S. 264 just East of River Bluff Dr.

Police reported the Chapman car collided with a vehicle driven by Dianne Mizell Haddock of Route 5, Greenville, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Haddock auto and $200 damage to the Chapman car.

No charges were reported following investigation of a 6:43 p.m. mishap on Dickinson Avenue, 57 feet East of the Memorial Drive intersection.

Police identified the drivers of the cars involved as George Donald Presser of 110 Rotary Ave. and Doris Lee Weaver of Rocky Mount.

Damage was set at $50 to the Presser car and $200 to the Weaver auto.

Ronald Earl Russell of 304B Page Dr. was charged with leaving the scene of an accident following investigation of a 9:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Greene Streets.

Investigators reported the Russell car collided with a utility pole causing an estimated $10 damage to the pole and $500 damage to the car.

Albert Stewart III of 211 North Oak St. was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of a 2:25 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Elm Streets.

Investigators reported the Stewart car was involved in a collision with cars operated by Pattie Lanier Mizelle of 2307 East Fourth St. and Accriah Moore of 101 Tifton Ave.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the Mizelle car, $25 to the Moore vehicle and $450 to the Stewart auto.

No injuries were reported in any of the collisions.

Nixon Subpoena Hearing Is Set

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A hearing has been scheduled for Monday on a motion to quash a subpoena requiring former president Richard Nixon to give sworn testimony in the Billy Graham Day lawsuit in Charlotte.

In a motion made public Tuesday, lawyers for the former President said Nixon is ill enough that he should not be required to testify in the matter.

Some 25 Charlotte persons are suing former White House aide H. R. Haldeman and others, claiming they were illegally excluded from the Bill Graham Day rally in Charlotte in 1971. Nixon attended the rally.

In Charlotte, Daly said he would agree to a delay in the testimony "for a reasonable length of time."

"When a lawyer says that his client is sick, it's perfunctory to grant a continuance," Daly said.

Although Nixon is not a defendant, he had been subpoenaed to testify concerning security arrangements for the visit. The attorney for the plaintiffs, George Daly Jr., said he hoped to take Nixon's statement in Santa Ana, Calif. on Sept. 24.

In their motion, which was filed Monday, Nixon's lawyers also argued that the subpoena should be quashed because their client enjoyed presidential privilege at the time of the rally. They also contended that tapes and other materials sought were also privileged.

The motion said claims of privilege should be honored in civil proceedings unless it is shown that "the information does not fall within the privilege."

Attorneys Herbert J. Miller Jr. and Raymond Larroca said:

"In the opinion of his personal physician, Mr. Nixon has in recent weeks shown serious fatigue. He has suffered a recurrence of the phlebitis he had in June of this year, and a new venous blood clot has formed in his upper left leg."

Drug Bolsters Cold Defenses

CHICAGO (AP) — University of Illinois researchers say an experimental drug significantly increases the body's defenses against the common cold and may be the answer to control of the ailment.

The drug, propanediamine, stimulates an increase in the body's natural production of interferon, a chemical that defends the body against viral and some other infections.

Because interferon is effective against all viruses, it has been considered promising in the control of respiratory infections, such as the cold.

Colds are caused by so many types of viruses that a vaccine against all of them is thought impractical.

The scientists at the university's medical school in Chicago said they used 39 young volunteers to study the effects of propanediamine.

Writing in the New England Journal of Medicine, the scientists said the results of their study make them optimistic that ultimately effective drugs can be developed for the common cold and other viral respiratory infections.

An editorial in the journal points out that the limitation on use of the drug is that it must be administered throughout the period in which a person might catch a cold.

And it notes that the production of interferon decreases with repeated stimulation.

Fifteen subjects in the Illinois experiment were given the new drug via nose drops. Then they were exposed to cold-causing viruses.

They developed either no cold symptoms or so few that they were considered insignificant.

Other subjects not given the drug were exposed to the same viruses. They developed severe colds.

State Line Splits Club

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—If you want a cocktail at the Crystal Springs Golf Club, you have to buy it in the lounge. Mixed drinks in the snack bar, located in the same building, are taboo.

Why? Because the state line separating North Carolina and South Carolina runs through the clubhouse. In South Carolina, liquor is sold by the drink. Not so in North Carolina.

"People just sit in here and they look out the window and they get just drunk as hell," said manager Gene Thomas. "They like being able to order all the mixed drinks...that they can't order in Charlotte."

Thomas said nearly all of his members live in Charlotte, where nothing stronger than beer or wine can be legally sold in clubs.

Thomas said he planned to build the clubhouse on the state line because "we felt South Carolina would vote liquor by the drink."

When the Crystal Springs club opened last year, Thomas obtained one of the first liquor licenses issued under the new South Carolina statute.

High And Low In Same Region

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Missouri Tourism Commission reports that both the highest and lowest points in the state are in the Big Springs region of southeast Missouri.

Taum Sauk Mountain is the highest point, at 1,700 feet. The lowest point is 230 feet above sea level, near Arbyrd, in the Bootheel.

Indicted In Bike Theft

NEW YORK (AP) — Grand jury testimony by John F. Kennedy Jr. has resulted in indictment of Robert Lopez, prosecutors say.

The indictment was handed up Tuesday in connection with the theft of the 13-year-old Kennedy's bicycle in Central Park. It charges Lopez with third-degree grand larceny and possession of a dangerous weapon.

Criminal court charges against Lopez had been thrown out after the son of the late president failed to appear in court for the fourth time.

But Manhattan Dist. Atty. Richard H. Kuh pledged to personally take the case to a grand jury and Tuesday he said, "As indicated, the Kennedy family and John Kennedy Jr. cooperated fully. John testified in the grand jury last week and this indictment is the result of that testimony."

Lopez, who is to be sentenced Sept. 23 for an unrelated bicycle theft, could be sentenced to up to 25 years in the Kennedy theft.

Jim Hunt Proposes N.C. Conference On Housing

RALEIGH (AP)—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt proposed Tuesday the holding of a statewide conference next month to ascertain the "true plight" of the North Carolina housing industry which has been buffeted by inflation and high interest rates.

Hunt made his proposal to a meeting of the North Carolina Housing Finance Agency which voted to endorse the idea.

Hunt told the housing finance agency board that inflation and high interest rates have resulted in a "critical situation for most home builders in North Carolina who are struggling to stay financially solvent and remain in business."

"The conference would focus on the need for and potential sources of short-term help for home builders," Hunt said. "There may be sources of financing which might be freed by influencing federal housing and money policies of investors, bankers, leaders and savers in the state."

Hunt said the date, place and agenda of the proposed conference have not been settled. He suggested it be held in mid-October and that the program include presentations by representatives of the state home builders association, savings and loan institutions, mortgage bankers, small and large builders, realtors, and representatives of the building trades. Hunt also proposed to have speeches by federal officials.

Hunt urged the finance agency to "move . . . as quickly as you can" in developing a program of state assistance to families seeking housing.

The housing finance agency was set up by the 1974 General Assembly with the aim of providing home loans to lower income families at interest rates below prevailing market rates.

"I want you to go ahead and do something now knowing that there is some risk," said Hunt who supported the housing legislation during the 1974 session. "As lieutenant governor, I want to say to you we expect you to move ahead even though it is not foolproof."

After Hunt spoke, the agency's 13-member board of directors launched into a lengthy, detailed discussion of a proposal that it first concentrate on the program of purchasing federally-insured mortgages for single-family homes.

Board member George E. Carr of the Greater Greensboro Housing Foundation Inc., outlined the proposal. He said it offers the best hope of "putting a program into operation in the shortest possible time."

Possible Coverup Over Role In Chile Queried

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 14 government officials have reported to Congress on American policy toward Chile between 1970 and 1973 without mentioning the covert U.S. activities exposed during the last 10 days.

According to most congressional and administration sources, former CIA director Richard M. Helms' testimony is receiving the most attention by those looking into possible misstatements of fact about the American role in Chile.

President Ford acknowledged Monday night that American money was clandestinely funneled into Chile to preserve the opposition press and political parties after the election of Marxist President Salvador Allende in 1970. It was a rare public admission by an American president.

With the exception of CIA director William E. Colby, who testified before a closed House subcommittee session last April, no other government official reporting to Congress has admitted CIA actions against Allende.

As seen by administration and congressional sources, most of the remaining officials who testified on Chile fall into several categories. Some were not asked relevant questions by inquiring congressmen. Some may have testified while ignorant of the nature of the U.S. role. Others gave evasive answers. Still others simply said that the United States was not directly involved in Allende's downfall.

Most sources agree this statement is technically true although they say it is another question whether the use of American funds created a situation out of which the revolution could occur.

In addition to Helms, the list of officials reporting to Congress on Chile includes Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, two former ambassadors to Chile, four assistant secretaries and one deputy assistant secretary of state, and officials from the Treasury and Commerce departments.

LWV Plans Participate

The League of Women Voters will participate in Greenville's Bicentennial with a meeting on education and a hospitality booth at the Kroger Building.

The public is invited to attend a meeting on "The Child of the Future is What He Studies Today; a look at the curricula of the Greenville-Pitt County Schools" which will be held in the parlor room of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church from 10-12 on Wednesday, October 9.

The League will also sponsor a hospitality booth with free refreshments and a place to rest at the Kroger Building on Senior Citizens' Day, October 7, and Family Day, October 11, of Bicentennial week. The Kroger building will have a variety of displays and craft sales.

The League will sponsor a decorated car in the Bicentennial parade.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An excellent time to go straight to the most powerful and experienced bigwigs with whom you have any contact. Ask them to release information you require to better the problems facing you. Others are inclined to help you now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Keep promises to others in a kind and efficient way now. Once your work is done, devote yourself to the romantic side of life.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan time for conferring with associates about future plans. You will benefit by engaging in civic work. Show courtesy to Bigwig.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be cheerful in handling important duties. Spare time should be spent looking for clothing that will improve your appearance.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Being with people you really like can make this a productive and pleasurable day. Elevate your level of consciousness now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A new project you have in mind can be worked out on paper very successfully now. Home is where you should center your attention.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make the appointments with those who can further your career. Find the right appliances that make your work easier and more productive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Consult with one who has fine experience where financial matters are concerned and who understand your position. Be more practical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) The planets are favorable for whatever you have in mind to put across that will help your position in life. Avoid a spendthrift.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you don't confide in others the information you get that is important to your future. Show that you are sensible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Put your fine organization ability to work and get much accomplished. Find out exactly what you want to accomplish in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have to take the initiative now with a higher-up if you want to achieve your cherished goals. Show that you have wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Obtain all the information you can that is pertinent to your way of life and be prepared for new projects ahead. Take it easy tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be full of talent, will love to do research work, be inventive, and will be able to help the masses. Be sure to give the finest education you can to your promising progeny. This is a mind that cannot easily be changed, so give spiritual training early in life. A fine person here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Declarer chose a line of play that would succeed three times in four. However, he overlooked an additional chance to improve those odds, and went down in a makable slam.

West's overall made it easier for North-South to reach a good slam on minimal high card values. North showed his strength with a cue-bid of the opponents' suit, and when South expressed the quality of his hand and length of his suit with a jump to game, North went straight to slam because there was no danger of two quick losers in any suit.

Declarer won West's opening spade lead with the ace. Faced with a certain spade loser, it appeared that the slam depended on guessing the location of the queen of clubs. However, South who was a notoriously bad guesser, searched for a better line—and found it.

If East held one of the two missing diamond honors—a 75% prospect—declarer could set up a diamond trick with the help of a loser-on-loser play combined with a ruffing finesse. Accordingly, he drew trumps in two rounds, then led a diamond towards the ace-jack. West made a brilliant play when he refused to split his honors, so declarer, pursuing his plan, went up with the ace and ran the jack, discarding the losing spade from his hand. He ruffed the spade return, entered dummy with the king of clubs and led the ten of diamonds. When East followed with a low diamond, South discarded his ten of clubs. Unfortunately, West turned up with both diamond honors, so declarer was down one.

South is to be commended for playing for split diamond honors—for this line of play is superior to a club finesse—and he deserved a better fate. Nevertheless, he did not play the hand to best advantage.

After losing a diamond trick to West, it would have cost declarer nothing to cash the ace and king of clubs before trying to ruff out the remaining diamond honor. There was a slight chance that the queen of clubs would come tumbling down, and if that happened, the ruffing finesse in diamonds would become unnecessary. If the queen did not drop, declarer could still try the ruffing finesse in diamonds in an attempt to get rid of his remaining club.

Unfortunately, West turned up with both diamond honors, so declarer was down one.

South is to be commended for playing for split diamond honors—for this line of play is superior to a club finesse—and he deserved a better fate. Nevertheless, he did not play the hand to best advantage.

After losing a diamond trick to West, it would have cost declarer nothing to cash the ace and king of clubs before trying to ruff out the remaining diamond honor. There was a slight chance that the queen of clubs would come tumbling down, and if that happened, the ruffing finesse in diamonds would become unnecessary. If the queen did not drop, declarer could still try the ruffing finesse in diamonds in an attempt to get rid of his remaining club.

Declarer won West's opening spade lead with the ace. Faced with a certain spade loser, it appeared that the slam depended on guessing the location of the queen of clubs. However, South who was a notoriously bad guesser, searched for a better line—and found it.

If East held one of the two missing diamond honors—a 75% prospect—declarer could set up a diamond trick with the help of a loser-on-loser play combined with a ruffing finesse. Accordingly, he drew trumps in two rounds, then led a diamond towards the ace-jack. West made a brilliant play when he refused to split his honors, so declarer, pursuing his plan, went up with the ace and ran the jack, discarding the losing spade from his hand. He ruffed the spade return, entered dummy with the king of clubs and led the ten of diamonds. When East followed with a low diamond, South discarded his ten of clubs. Unfortunately, West turned up with both diamond honors, so declarer was down one.

South is to be commended for playing for split diamond honors—for this line of play is superior to a club finesse—and he deserved a better fate. Nevertheless, he did not play the hand to best advantage.

Better Diet Is Reflected By Japanese

By STEVE WILSON
TOKYO (AP) — Double chins, bulging stomachs and more heart trouble seem to be some of the results of prosperity for the Japanese these days as they eat more and exercise less.

The improved diet makes the average Japanese taller. Women's legs are getting better-looking due to a higher protein diet and modern homes with chairs, which means they spend less time squatting and otherwise contorting their legs.

But various authorities say the increasing amount of sweet and fatty foods eaten by the Japanese makes it harder for young girls to look good in a bikini or fit into the new fashions emphasizing the waist.

A growing number of men have stomachs hanging over their belts, in part because they have given up the nation's traditional lean diet of vegetables, fish and rice.

Like many Westerners, the Japanese are trying to learn how to adapt to their new life where there seems to be an ice cream or cake shop on every corner and physical exertion often is unneeded.

So far it has not become a major issue. But there are a growing number of books on losing weight and various exercise clubs have sprung up.

"Today life is Americanized. Walking and washing clothes by hand are out...so we are getting fatter and fatter," said Shizuo Wada, head of a major reducing salon near Tokyo's Shibuya station.

"When we were poor we couldn't get much to eat, but now there is milk and bread for breakfast and meat for dinner," Wada said.

The Japanese are getting bigger over-all. But it seems that women's waists are growing particularly fast and removing many of their attractive natural curves, said Choichiro Tamagawa, head of the research section of Wacoal, Japan's biggest lingerie maker.

"I've got a sense of beauty, so I'd like to see Japanese women becoming more beautiful...but I'm very sorry that their bodies are becoming more like a tube," he said.

"In the past Japanese women were shapely, but now because of food and fashion women's bodies are becoming shapeless."

Wacoal's studies of 10,000 women from 18 to 35 years old shows that from 1961 to 1974 their average waist grew 7 per cent to nearly 26 inches, while their busts grew only 2 per cent to 32½ inches and hips remained nearly constant at about 35 inches.

The average 20-year old Japanese woman now is about 5 feet 3 inches tall, an increase of nearly 4 inches in about 60 years, according to official government figures. The average man of 20 is about 5 feet 7 inches tall, also a gain of nearly 4 inches in 60 years.

The average American male is now about 5 feet 10 inches, according to Japanese sources.

The weight of the average 20-year-old male has jumped nine pounds in 18 years, from just over 121 pounds in 1951 to about 130 pounds in 1969, according to the latest official figures.

The new diet and easier way of living for the Japanese are not only changing their shape, but are also changing the type of diseases from which they suffer the most, according to Dr. Yoshiko Kagawa of Tokyo's Women's College of Nutrition. She is a biochemist, medical doctor and a leading dietician and expert on food and health.

"I don't think any other nation could change its eating habits so radically and completely as this nation," said Dr. Kagawa. "I'm worried about the future and I keep warning people. But they keep on eating what they like."

She said the changes in the total number of calories consumed are not as critical as the fact that the amount of fat eaten is soaring.

The method of measuring sugar consumption has changed during the years and a strict comparison is not possible. But "one thing is certain that in 13 years the amount of candy eaten has gone up 100 per cent," she said.

The increase in sweets and fats has not been matched by a growth in the eating of beans, fish, rice and wheat, all foods which are generally considered to be fairly healthful.

Dr. Kagawa said this changing diet has been responsible, in part, for the sharp decline in tuberculosis and pneumonia

Automated Streetcars Flunk Test

By KEN JACOBSON
Associated Press Writer
AMSTERDAM (AP) — Automation has turned the Amsterdam streetcar conductor, once renowned for his folksy humor, into a plainclothes enforcement agent who stalks nonpaying riders on the city's transit system.

The conductors went out in 1969 to be replaced on the capital's 200 trams by automatic ticket vendors and bright yellow punching machines. The new system depended heavily on the honesty of the city's commuters. Sadly, they flunked the test.

City transit officials estimate that Amsterdam loses two million Guilders (about $770,000) annually in unpaid fares.

First, the problem was tackled by uniformed inspectors who worked in pairs and uncovered slightly under 3 per cent of all passengers checked as "black riders." Plainclothes men were introduced experimentally last year and the detection rate went up to 4.8 per cent. They work in teams of six — flashing a badge when challenged — and go through a crowded tram much more quickly.

City transit spokesman Jan
Freeke said problems started right after introduction of the automatic system. "It's funny — passengers on a train don't see the inspector as someone who hunts down people without tickets. It's an accepted method of control. But it was different with the trams."

Another problem, said
Freeke, was that people missed the wisecracking conductors of old, who buttered up the old folks and flirted with the girls.

Freeke said these problems have been overcome and the control system is now virtually trouble-free. Most offenders simply pay up the automatic $2 fine, which is extracted on the spot.

The control system also traps a large number of foreign visitors, who get confused by automated ticketing despite conspicuously posted signs in English, French and German.

"About 30 per cent of nonpay-ing riders are tourists," Freeke said. "The controllers recognize their confusion and often allow them to avoid the fine by buying a regular ticket. But then there are wily Amsterdammers who carry a 10 Mark bill and claim to be Germans if they are caught."

Despite the diminished cordiality of the new ticketing scheme, Amsterdam streetcars are still good for an occasional laugh. Crowded trams sometimes empty out mysteriously from one stop to the next when a controller steps aboard.

One Amsterdammer tells of an early-morning confrontation between a controller and a local citizen who had spent a night on the town. The rider, a gleam in his rather bloodshot eye, stepped aboard a streetcar with a smile on his face and a bag of cherries in his hand.

"May I see your ticket?"
asked the controller. "I don't have one," replied the citizen.
"I spent the last cent I had on this bag of cherries."

Then the citizen had an idea.
"What is the fare in cherries?"
he asked. The two men eyed each other, both breaking slowly into grins. The controller scratched his chin. "That will be six cherries, sir," he answered, and, collecting the

Artrain At Washington

Friday is the opening day of the five day visit of Artrain to Washington, with the event officially getting underway at 3:30 p.m. on that day. Artrain will remain in Washington through Tuesday, September 24.

A traveling art and demonstration exhibition-studio arranged in a train, Artrain's appearance will also include a number of local related events—two concerts, a dance performance, a cavalcade of entertainment in a Sunday In The Park program, demonstrations on arts and crafts, and a showing of art at WITN-TV.

Artrain will be located along Glidden Street adjacent to Seaboard Coastline Railroad Station. This is between Main and Third Streets two blocks from the river bridge.

The public is invited and there is no admission charge. There will, however, be a box where visitors can place voluntary contributions to help defray expenses.

Polecat Of The Orchard Is Treasured

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer
NONTABURI, Thailand (AP) — Each year before the big rains a peculiar aroma haunts the byways and market-places of Thailand, and people flock to buy Durian, the world's most precious and pungent fruit.

It's nothing at this time of year for a working man to plunk down a week's wages for one big green dragon's egg with a rind like a dinosaur and a smell like the Great Dismal Swamp.

The fragrance of Durian allows no indifference: you love it or you leave the room.

The rich brimstone musk, whispering of depravity and month-old eggs, is banned from hotels and airplanes, has broken up marriages and is a good way to get an elevator to yourself at rush hour.

But still men will fight and steal and travel miles for this polecat of the orchard. Durian is to fruit what limburger is to cheese and pornography to literature. Once seduced the addict sinks without shame into lush and expensive gluttony.

A single prime Durian can fetch up to 50 U.S. dollars in Bangkok and confer status on its owner with the sweet stench of success.

The parsimonious cruise the narrow roads of this suburban province, noses alert for a bargain. For three months a year Nonthaburi is stinking rich with Durian.

Here barbed wire, sharp bamboo stakes and hedges of red hibiscus gird Durian orchards that earn their owners an average 25 U.S. dollars a tree.

"We keep a guard out all night during the season but the thieves come in trucks and we lose some anyway," says farmer Pien Hinyu, whose crop this year should bring in 15,000 U.S. dollars — about 75 times the national average income.

"We eat them every day ourselves, and those we can't sell we give to friends before they go bad," he says. "The money isn't as important as the enjoyment."

In the countryside a small Durian sells for as little as $1 at the little roadside stands where the proprietor will save you the lacerating task of splitting the spiny husk and serve you a cracked cup of jasmine water to wash down your investment.

The first look inside a Durian is dismaying, rather like opening a coconut and finding a pancreas. But those who can survive the smell and the appearance learn first-hand the flavor that Western writers for centuries have burst their metaphors trying to describe.

Since words cannot hope to capture that essence, here is a recipe — untested — for do-it-yourself Durian:

- 3 bananas
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 pinch powdered sulfur
- 3 tablespoons limburger cheese
- 1 clove garlic, mashed
- 1/4 lb. cream cheese for body
- 1 shoelace for texture.

Blend ingredients into a custard, mold around a horse chestnut and serve with apprehension.

Named Carson's Pitt Chairman

Jim Cheatham, a local attorney, has been named Pitt County chairman by North Carolinians for Carson, the organization working to elect Jim Carson as attorney general.

John Boling, Carson's state campaign manager, said that Cheatham will coordinate local campaign activities and lead the Carson forces in Pitt County.

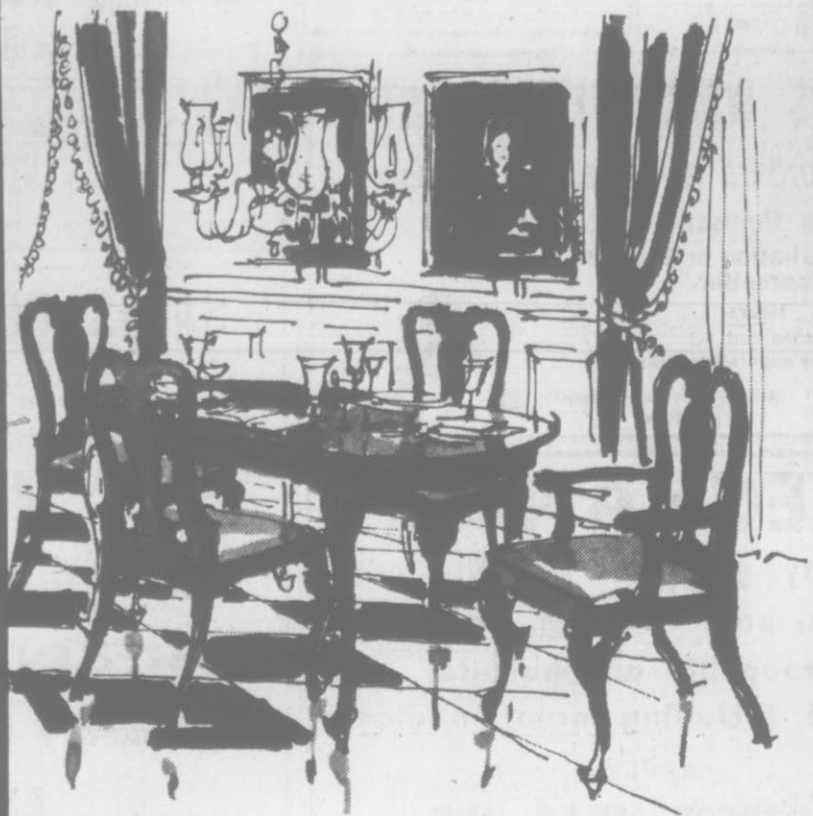

Carson, a Charlotte native, became the state's first Republican Attorney General in this century when he was sworn in Aug. 26. He was appointed by Gov. James Holshouser to head the state Justice Department until the Nov. 5 election.

Free-Ballooning Flight Fad Sees Popular Gain

By STEVE GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Free ballooning, the oldest form of man-made aerial transportation, is rapidly becoming the latest fad in aviation recreation.

In recent years, the recreational revolution has sent increasing numbers of people into the skies for personal enjoyment.

Some fly ordinary aircraft. The sky diver is a special sort of individualist, who arrives at the local airport before the wind comes up, buckles on heavy boots, a helmet and two parachutes, and crams himself into a waiting airplane that will take him several thousand feet into the air. After the aircraft climbs to the proper altitude the sky diver is out the door and falling gently under a canopy of silk.

Sailplane enthusiasts disdain the thought of a roaring, smelly engine dragging them through the sky. The sailplane pilot endures the ignominy of being dragged aloft by a powered craft just long enough to get sufficient altitude to catch rising currents of air that can take a powerless craft thousands of feet into the air for hours at a time.

Then there are the balloonists.

Balloons have been around ever since the brothers Montgolfier first defied the law of gravity in 1783. The two Frenchmen simply saw smoke rising from a chimney and decided if they put a bag around the smoke, the bag would rise too.

They did and it did. The hot air balloon was born.

The hot-air balloon flies simply because hot air rises. The hot air inside the bag is lighter than the surrounding air so up it goes.

Early balloonists were a hardy lot. The balloons themselves were made of paper. The passengers were carried in a wicker basket suspended below the bag.

Often one passenger was kept busy stoking the wood fire that provided the hot air for lift while the other passenger tried to keep the paper balloon from catching fire itself.

The gas-filled balloon was developed shortly after the hot-air variety. Another Frenchman, Jacques Charles, produced a 124-foot-diameter, hydrogen-filled balloon by inflating the bag with the "flammable air" produced by heating iron filings and acid.

As years went by helium replaced hydrogen as the "lifting gas." Hydrogen is more efficient than helium but helium doesn't burn.

Modern balloons are of the hot-air variety. Propane burners have replaced a bonfire in the basket and tough rip-stop nylon has replaced paper as the bag material.

Other than that, not much has changed. You heat the air in the bag to go up and let it cool to come down.

The key to successful ballooning is a good ground crew. It takes help to fill the 85-foot bag with hot air — without having the whole thing take off like a child's balloon at the county fair. But the biggest job of the ground crew is to get you, the pilot, back.

In ballooning, you never really know where you're going.

The airplane pilot chooses his destination. The sky diver pretty much hits what is under him. The glider pilot can do amazing things to get back to the airport.

But the balloonist follows the wind.

As a matter of fact, you usually plan on winding up in somebody's back yard or corn-patch. Your ground crew, which has been in hot pursuit, comes charging up to meet you.

A modern, nylon, hot-air balloon costs about $7,000. For that you get the balloon, an aluminum gondola (wicker baskets are out of style) and the propane burners.

Like everything else that carries passengers off the ground, free balloons are regulated by the Federal Aviation Administration. Before you load up and lift off, you must pass a written test, gather a few hours of instruction from a qualified teacher and demonstrate to a friendly FAA inspector that you can handle the 85-foot-tall device without being a menace to earth-bound people or property — or yourself.

Once you receive your pilot certificate you're off as part of a very select — but growing — fraternity. There are about 125 registered balloons and 375 licensed balloonists in the U.S.

You can fly higher than most light airplanes — and cheaper too. And, for a little snob appeal, federal regulations say you have the right of way over all other types of aircraft.

Okay, up and away. Sound like a song? You're right — written in a hot air balloon by songwriter Jimmy Webb.

Carolinians Have Seen Near-Revolution Steps

By Dr. H. G. JONES
Written for the AP
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — What causes a revolution? Strictly speaking, North Carolinians have participated in only one "revolution"—the rebellion against the British in the 1770s—but on several occasions public anger has led to the use of arms.

Among these events were the Culpeter Rebellion, the Cary Rebellion, and the Regulator Revolt.

On another occasion North Carolinians appeared on the verge of taking extralegal steps to force a change in the state's constitution. That was in the period from 1822 to 1834 when leaders of the western counties failed repeatedly to get legislative approval for the call of a convention to amend the constitution of 1776.

The influential Carolina Watchman of Salisbury warned that the west would act without legislative approval if necessary.

The chief object of the displeasure of the "up country" counties were the illiberal provisions of the state's first constitution when measured against the newly pronounced principles of the Jacksonian era.

The original constitution had been adopted during the first year of the American Revolution, and its provisions reflected the fears of a strong executive.

In placing all power in the hands of the legislative branch, however, the framers did not take into account the shifting of population. Each county, regardless of population, sent one member to the Senate and two members to the House of Commons.

As the population of the west increased, the unfairness of the legislative apportionment became more apparent. In order to assure their control in the General Assembly, the easterners were careful not to create too many new counties up country.

By 1830 the "western" counties (including the Piedmont) had a larger population than the east, though the latter still dominated both houses of the General Assembly.

There were other unpopular features of the constitution of 1776, but it was the feeling of westerners that they were being discriminated against that brought on near-revolution. A stroke of fate perhaps avoided trouble. That was the burning of the State House in 1831.

Some citizens, particularly those along the Cape Fear River, had never liked Raleigh as the capital, and they saw an opportunity to raise the question again. The westerners were quick to negotiate for allies, and 1834 it was the support of the Fayetteville area delegates that helped the west win legislative approval for a vote of the people on the question of a convention. By that time, of course, Raleigh had been reaffirmed as the site of the capital.

The Convention of 1835 removed some of the most objectionable features of the original constitution, but the result was by no means a democratic government. On the issue of legislative apportionment, however, the west was satisfied. Under the amended constitution, there were to be 120 commoners selected on the basis of population but with each county having at least one, and 50 senators to be elected from districts based on taxation.

This meant that theoretically the west could now control the House and the east the Senate. Sessions were changed from annual to biennial.

There were other changes—such as popular election of the governor, abolition of borough representation and free Negro suffrage, and provision for amending the constitution in the future—but it was a more equitable method of representation that gave great significance to the action of the convention. The west had won an important victory.

Eight Rocky Mountain states have only 4 per cent of the nation's population, but they contain 24 per cent of its lands and 12 per cent of all roadway miles.

U.S. Sonar Is Developed To New Peak

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — The United States has improved its sonar detection to the point where it may be able to find Soviet nuclear missile submarines in any ocean—a development some experts believe will radically change the strategic balance in American favor.

According to papers delivered at the 8th International Acoustics Congress here, and reported in an article in New Scientist, the intensive American research has paid important dividends which significantly curtail Soviet ability to retaliate to a first strike by the United States.

"The sound propagation characteristics of the ocean have always been so unpredictable that it was assumed that nuclear missile submarines could easily hide for months at a time," the article said.

"This was critical to defense policy because so long as a missile submarine remained hidden, it could retaliate even if its mother country was virtually destroyed by a missile attack. This in turn, made a first strike too risky for either the U.S. or the U.S.S.R."

Disarmament experts had been warning, the article said, that if either nation discovered how to find the other's submarines it would create a dramatic imbalance.

No one expected it to come so soon. But the U.S. Navy has been spending $2.5 billion a year, much of it with universities and private research institutes, to study the physical and biological characteristics of the ocean and to develop sound propagation models.

And it was this research which produced some of the papers at the congress, F. D. Tapper of Bell Laboratories, for example, described a computer simulation, combining oceanographic and satellite data, intended to locate a submarine up to 16,000 kilometers (10,000 miles) away and probably pinpoint its location within 16 kilometers (10 miles).

"Within that small an area," wrote Farooq Hussain, a defense expert who analyzed the papers, the sub can then be found by conventional airborne detection devices which in turn improve the pinpointing to within the range of anti-submarine missiles.

"The sub cannot even dive to the bottom to hide because a shipboard computer simulation system can process sonar echoes to provide very accurate depth measurements.

"Just how well these new systems work, and to what extent they can be confused by electronic countermeasures, is hidden under the veil of military secrecy," the article states. "But the quantum jump to working systems has been made and under the normal worst case analysis the opposition must assume they work."

"The U.S.S.R. must assume that its submarines can no longer hide safely and the U.S. must assume that the Soviet Union will have a similar capacity soon.

"The result will be two forms of military escalation. In defensive terms, both sides will now rush to improve sonar systems to make sure they work; in offensive terms both sides will push for more effective missile submarines and other new weapons."

Family Imports Bike Rickshaws

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Bill and Genny Davenport, in an effort to employ an ancient means of transportation to meet a modern problem, have come up with the pedicab.

They have purchased five of the pedicabs, a bicycle version of the rickshaw, once common in the Orient. The cabs are equipped to haul two persons between the University of Oregon and downtown Eugene.

Trade Deal For Japan, Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — An $8-million contract was signed here providing for the export of at least 120,000 tons of Kenyan fluorspar to Japan over the next three years.

Japan has become the principal importer of Kenyan fluorspar. The Kenyans have plans to produce more than 200,000 tons of metallurgical and acid grade fluorspar annually.

Our People Make Us Number One

Pitt Plaza Shopping Center
Open 10 A.M. to 9 P.M. Monday thru Saturday

DEAR CUSTOMER,

Tear off the attached savings certificates and you'll have $19.50 more spending power than you did two minutes ago!

It's all part of a plan we have at Zales — a plan to give you the most for your money. And these certificates are a special treat for our special customers during Pitt Plaza's Anniversary Sale.

Spend them as you like — on diamonds, watches, housewares, china, silver, giftware anything at all that catches your eye. What you've got is greater savings on top of our already low prices; that's really something! And you can use them on charge purchases, too!

At Zales, things like saving you money never change.

Sincerely, ZALES JEWELERS

Savings certificate must be presented at time of purchase.
