Amnesty Rules Apply To Deserters, Evaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger pledged Saturday that war deserters will not be tracked down and arrested on the basis on written or telephoned inquiries into President Ford's earned re-entry amnesty program.

"To do otherwise," Schlesinger said in a statement "would not be in the spirit of the President's program."

A Pentagon spokesman, amplifying on Schlesinger's promise, urged that deserters write or telephone their initial inquiries to military authorities rather than seeking information in person.

The spokesman said any deserter who came to a military installation seeking information about amnesty would get a speedy undesirable discharge, whether or not he decided to join the amnesty program, provided he fled during the Vietnam War and was not wanted on any other military criminal charges.

Justice Department officials announced a harsher standard Friday for draft evaders, who fall under civil rather than military law. Officials said an evader who inquired about amnesty in person and then failed to take it on the spot could be immediately arrested and tried for draft law violations.

The only alternative to the automatic discharge for a deserter who showed up in person and was qualified for amnesty, the Pentagon spokesman said, would be to request a court martil for desertion.

Deserters accepting amnesty can exchange the undesirable discharge for a more favorable clemency discharge after completing up to 24 months of alternative public service. But they do not risk prosecution, whether they accept amnesty or not, because the discharge removes them from the reach of miliary law.

The spokesman said a deserter should write or call before coming in to make sure he qualified for amnesty and to make sure no other charges were outstanding against him. If other charges are outstanding and the deserter comes in person to a military base, the spokesman said, he could be arrested and courtmartialed on those charges despite the amnesty offer.

Schlesinger's promise apparently was prompted by the slow response from deserters eligible to take advantage of amnesty.

Exile Views

TORONTO (UPI) — About 50 U.S. exiles from four nations were told Saturday that public pressure could make President dent Ford's conditional amnesty plan for deserters and draft dodgers "more lenient."

Jack Colhoun, a 29-year-old deserter from Madison, Wis., said Ford's plan was riddled with "glaring inconsistencies."

"The plan was so poorly constructed that there is surely going to be more pressure put on to make it more lenient," he said. "There is still a need for universal and unconditional amnesty."

Colhoun said the plan contained a loophole which allows deserters to take an undesirable discharge and escape the alternative public service requirement of the President's proposal.

There are an estimated 28,000 men affected by the amnesty plan, all Vietnam-era draft dodgers and deserters. Most are living in Canada.

New Opium Poppy Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new method of controlling the cultivation of the opium poppy to keep it from the heroin market has been approved in principle by Turkey, the State Department says.

The agreement, announced Friday, followed several weeks of discussions between U.S. and Turkish leaders that began after Turkey decided in July to lift its 1971 ban on poppy cultivation.

Under the new process, Turkish farmers will be required to cut the entire poppy plant in the field, with the opium gum extracted later by government agents under strict supervision.

In past harvests, Turkish farmers have extracted the gum themselves and apparently diverted portions of it for processing into heroin, officials said.

To Study Embargo Lift

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Organization of American States foreign ministers' meeting was called for Nov. 8 in Quito, Ecuador, to determine whether the Cuba embargo should be lifted. The OAS permanent counil voted 21 to 0 to convene the meeting. American Ambassador William Mailliard said in voting that U.S. willingness to "re-examine the matter does not imply a judgment on the substance of the issue." A two-thirds majority of the 21 OAS nations will be required to overturn the 10-year-old ban on diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba.

Steve Ford Forgot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steven Ford, 18-year-old son of the President, forgot to register with his Selective Service draft board on time, a White House spokesman said today.

"It just slipped Steven's mind," said Deputy Press Secretary John W. Hushen.

Young Ford's draft board, while noting that it was a "technical violation" of the law, decided that it was typical of many other young men who miss their deadline and that there would be "no action taken" against the President's son, Hushen added.

May Deport Evangelists

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 582 of South Korean evangelist Sun Myung Moon's youthful disciples from Germany, France, Italy, Japan and Korea face possible deportation, officials said.

Maurice Kiley, New York district immigration director, said the South Korean preacher's supporters arrived earlier this year with visas specifying six-month pleasure visits.

In April, Moon's Unification Church sought to have the visas modified to types which cover foreigners here for training, but immigration officials refused.

Moon's church appealed to U.S. District Court in Washington. Kiley said that unless the court rules against the immigration service, he is prepared to proceed with deportation.

Jehovah's Witnesses Sentenced

LARISSA, Greece (AP) — A military court today sentenced five Jehovah's Witnesses to 20 years in jail each for refusing to take up arms during the Cyprus mobilization.

It also stripped them of their civil rights for 10 years.

They have no right of appeal.

The sentences brought to 30 the number of Jehovah's Witnesses sent to jail for the same reason since early this month.

Ford Meets With Foreign Leaders

By RICHARD LERNER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Ford and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko held another round of detente discussions Saturday but achieved "No break-throughs, no agreements," a White House spokesman said.

Ford devoted the full day to high-level foreign policy talks, meeting also with Argentina's Foreign Minister Alberto J. Vignes in the morning and scheduling a late afternoon session with Japan's Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka.

Ford invited Gromyko back to the White House in company with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger "to complete the far—ranging discussions begun yesterday," deputy White House Press Secretary John W. Hushen said.

Those talks covered most of the major issues involved in U.S.-Soviet efforts to promote detente, including recently-resumed negotiations for a new Strategic Arms Limitation (SALT) treaty and attempts to swap U.X. trade concessions for expanded emigration rights for Soviet Jews.

"No new subjects were brought up and the discussion was not limited to any specific subject," Hushen said.

"There were no breakthroughs, no agreements," in the talks, which lasted just over half an hour, he added.

Ford's meeting with Tanaka was described as mainly a get-acquainted session and an opportunity to go over plans for the President's three day visit to Japan, starting Nov. 19.

Ford will be the first American President to visit Japan while in office and he will travel from there to South Korea for two days of talks in Seoul.

Plans Reportedly Point To Conventional 2nd Yr. For ECU Med School

By CARL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

ECU Board of Trustees Chairman Roddy Jones says he believes that Dean Christopher Fordham of the UNC Medical School thinks that the final results of the expansion of the ECU Medical School should be a four year medical school.

Jones indicated he had made this conclusion after a meeting with Fordham and ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins last Thursday.

At that time, Jones said Fordham reported that he had decided to begin planning for a conventional second year of medical education at ECU.

An unorthodox program had been mentioned for the expansion of the ECU Medical program that had been considered controversial by ECU backers.

"This is what we have been looking for," said Jones regarding Fordham's decision to plan a conventional second year at East Carolina.

"I was real pleased to be in a meeting with Dean Fordham and Dr. Jenkins on Thursday at which time we received a report from Dean Fordham that he was going to alter his plans for a more conventional second year," said Jones yesterday.

"I might add," said Jones, "that Dr. Fordham seems to think that the real final results should be a four year school at ECU."

Jones added that Fordham does not have the legislative mandate to proceed toward such a desired end at this time.

Jones added that he felt the reason for the change in Dean Fordham's position on the ECU planning was "public opinion."

"He thought his idea would have been innovative and something different. . .but I think after conversations with legislators and doctors in the community he decided it was not going to be accepted and he felt he should change the planning for the second year of medical education at East Carolina."

Gloomy Forecast Made For American Economy

By DON PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON (UPI) The Joint Economic Committee of Congress issued a gloomy forecast Saturday, saying Americans face "several more years" of both high inflation and high unemployment, and offered its own prescription for dealing with the problem.

Among its recommendations were a series of long-term measures, such as tax reform and steps to increase competition in concentrated major industries, coupled with immediate aid for the jobless, the poor and depressed industries such as housing.

But the committee specifically rejected such stringent inflation-fighting steps as wage and price controls, severely restrictive monetary policies, and "indexing" to automtically increase income and wealth as inflation increases.

The committee, which includes members of both the House and the Senate, presented its report to President Ford as a hurried preview of a more comprehensive document to be issued early next year.

"The restoration of healthy non-inflationary growth will not come easily or quickly," the report said.

"At best, the nation faces several more years in which both the unemployment rate and the inflation rate will significantly exceed levels previously regarded as acceptable."

Key recommendations included:

—Reducing federal spending to $300 billion, $5 billion below the amount requested by former President Nixon.

—Tax reforms to take money from the wealthy and give it to the poor, including Social Security tax cuts for low income workers, reduced income taxes for low and moderate income persons, a higher minimum tax for the wealthy, and elimination of such tax subsidies as the oil depletion allowance.

—Moderate easing of tight money policies, which have kept interest rates high.

—Active jawboning by the new Council on Wage and Price Stability.

—A major public service employment program to create 150,000 new jobs when unemployment reaches 5.5 per cent and add up to 500,000 or 650,000 jobs if unemployment hits 6 per cent.

—Antitrust action against major non-competitive industries.

—Measures to channel money into depressed industries such as residential housing construction, public utilities, agriculture and small businesses.

Conservation Measures Set For Natural Gas Shortage

RALEIGH (AP)—Saying the supply of natural gas in North Carolina this winter is expected to fall short of demand by 30 to 40 per cent, the North Carolina Utilities Commission issued an order Friday to deal with the situation.

The order calls for conservation steps, curtailment procedures and sets priority users.

The big difference between the order and one issued last winter is that the commission expects a shortage twice as severe and it warned that last winter's warm weather may not prevail this year.

Under the commission order, some industries will get no gas at all while others will get only limited supplies. Residential users and essential services such as hospitals would have the highest priority for gas.

The expected shortage of 30 to 40 per cent compares with 16 per cent last winter.

"Conservation efforts by all natural gas customers are vitally important," said the commission in a statement explaining the order.

It said if necessary it will reimpose the excess use penalties of last winter for customers who fail to cut back on their gas use. The penalties could run as high as 500 per cent for units of gas burned in excess of the conservation goal.

When shortages develop, the commission said cutoffs of gas will start with large industries which use gas in boilers to generate steam or electricity. Next to lose service will be industrial users whose alternate fuels are expected to be short.

Next to feel the pinch would be those industries which use gas for "critical" purposes. They include manufacturers of feedstock or temperature sensitive products.

Next to face cutoff would be small business and industries with no alternate sources of energy.

The commission said if factories and plants are forced to close, it will declare an emergency in the service territory of the affected utility and require even higher conservation efforts by residential and small commercial customers.

Meanwhile, the state Department of Agriculture warned that the cutbacks in natural gas could lead to a shortage of fertilizer next spring.

The department said much of the state's nitrogen fertilizer is made by Farmer's Chemical Co. of Tunis, a large volume user of natural gas.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said the fertilizer manufacturer should be given an exceptional priority to avoid a fertilizer shortage and consequent shortages of food and fiber.

Tank Cars Explode

By RONALD L. LITTLEPAGE

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two tanks cars exploded in a railroad yard Saturday and the giant shock wave shattered windows and damaged buildings up to five miles away. Dozens of persons were injured, 19 were hospitalized and up to 3,000 persons were evacuated because of a temporary danger of more explosions.

A spokesman for the fire department, Paul Carr, said 100 tankcars and boxcars, some loaded with highly flammable materials, industrial items and grain, were destroyed. Many small fires were quickly extinguished, but five cars —one loaded with highly flammable styrene —burned past sunset.

"We anticipate having the fires under control by nightfall," Carr said. "The danger of more explosions has lessened. There's one pitiful thing I heard and that was a bunch of those cars were loaded with beer."

Tony Aleman, spokesman for the Southern Pacific Railroad, which operates the huge switching and loading facility, said two tankcars carrying butadiene, a flammable hydrocarbon used in making synthetic rubber, apparently bumped together and ignited leaking vapors.

"Someone saw some vapor rising and then there was an explosion," he said.

About 3,000 persons, including 100 from a hospital and nursing home, were removed from the area because of the danger of more explosions if the fires reached other railroad cars and their flammable cargos. Fires were scattered along a six-block-long stretch of the maze of railroad tracks.

Police reports that one man had been "blown to pieces" in the first explosion were later discounted, but dozens of persons were injured either by the blast or flying glass. Carr said 19 persons were hospitalized.

Carr said windows were broken as far away as four miles from the blast site, and virtually all of the windows in a half-mile radius were broken. No buildings were burning, but several sustained heavy damage.

One of the most seriously hurt persons was sitting in a barber shop two miles from the blast site, and when the first shock wave hit knocked the front window out and flying glass cut his throat. Another man in the railroad yard had third degree burns over 100 per cent of his body.

"It was a big one," Garrett said. "We loaded as much as three and four people in an ambulance at a time. There for a little while I thought it was going to get the best of us."

Hurricane Fifi Death Toll Mounts In Honduras

By J. PAUL WYATT

SAN PEDRO SULA, Honduras (UPI) — Refugees from Hurricane Fifi poured into San Pedro Sula in steady streams Saturday, leaving behind thousands of others believed killed when fast-rising flood waters overwhelmed them in their sleep.

An international relief effort was mounted to aid the estimated 50,000 people driven from their homes by Fifi across Honduras, some of them perched precariously on rooftops or in trees. Mercy plans flew relief supplies into Honduras from the United States, Venezuela, and Mexico.

More than 2,700 bodies have been recovered from the nearby flood-devastated town of Choloma, a military spokesman said. Another 1,000 bodies have been counted in La Ceiba on the coast, according to the spokesman, Lt. Juan Acosta.

"They are still counting bodies so we do not know the total yet," Acosta said. The Honduran National Relief Emergency committee earlier estimated the total number of casualties in Honduras alone at 5,000. Four other Central American nations and Mexico were also hard hit.

"Flooding river water caused 16-foot waves at Choloma and wiped out the town while nearly everyone was asleep. They had no time to flee," Acosta said.

The scene in San Pedro Sula, Honduras' second largest city and industrial center, 150 miles northwest of the capital city of Tegucigalpa, was utter chaos as refugees poured in from surrounding disaster areas. There was no public transportation and merchants were charging whatever the market would stand for goods and services, when available.

The airport was open but cut off from the city. The only way to reach town from the airport was to walk to a caved-in bridge and ford a river, then hitch a ride on a dump truck.

The view from the air of the area around San Pedro was an endless muddy sea, with only some trees and rooftops breaking the monotony.

Fifi's 20 inches of rain also wiped out much of Honduras' banana crop and other harvests. Relief officials said Honduras would need vast amounts of relief foods for prolonged periods to avert a bigger calamity.

Relief efforts were hampered by washed out roads, bridges, rail tracks, port facilities, air strips and oil refineries. An official for a banana company said its helicopters were air-dropping food packages to many people on rooftoops.

Fifi could rank as one of the deadliest storms in history. Cyclones killed more than 200,000 and 11,000 persons respectively on the Indian subcontinent in 1970 and 1942, but in the Western Hemisphere, the worst were Hurricane Flora (6,000 dead in Cuba and Haiti in 1963) and an unnamed storm which killed 6,000 people in Galveston, Tex., in 1900.

"The problem immediately is one of health hazards from contaminated water," Sanchez said.

The Mexican weather bureau said the hurricane was centered at midday Saturday about 100 miles southeast of Acapulco and moving west with winds of 60 miles an hour.

Favors Project Delay

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)— The state AFL-CIO has taken a position opposite that of the national labor organization by favoring legislation to delay the Blue Ridge power project.

Delegates voted 55-19 Friday for a delaying resolution near the end of the state convention, when many delegates already had left. The vote was taken over the objection of the state president, Wilbur Hobby.

The national AFL-CIO is lobbying against a bill in the U.S. House Rules Committee that would delay for two years the proposed project on the New River in northwestern North Carolina and Virginia. During that time, a study would be made to see if a 70-mile srtretch of the river in Alleghany, Ashe and and Watauga counties can be included in the national wild and scenic rivers system. on which no commercial development is allowed.

The resolution said a dam would flood 40,000 acres of farmland and force 800 families from their homes. The national AFL-CIO says construction of the power project would create jobs that union members might seek.

N. C. Faces Tight Budget

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt says that as a result of galloping inflation North Carolina faces a tight budget situation and soon may face the possibility of raising taxes or cutting spending.

Hunt said in a speech prepared for delivery to the State Employes Association that cutting expenditures is the course the state must follow "in the short run."

The lieutenant governor said, however, he could "support a salary increase for state employes." But he urged the state workers to help find ways to make government more efficient in order to "help us find the money to pay for that increase."

Hearing On Police Dept.

HIGH POINT, N.C.(AP)—Police Chief Laurie Pritchett has been instructed to bring records on his financial status to a public hearing on the police department which begins Monday.

The daily sessions are expected to last two weeks. They will follow a five-month special investigation ordered by the City Council in an attempt to resolve rumors of scandal within the department.

Greensboro attorney Luke Wright, who headed the investigation, has subpoenaed more than 100 persons.

Milk "Loss Leader" Issue

RALEIGH (AP)—Two officials of the state Milk Commission defended before a legislative study commission Friday a state law prohibiting retailers from selling milk as a "loss leader."

Milk Commission Chairman F. Rockwell Poisson of Charlotte and W.C (Buck) Harris of Raleigh, the milk panel's attorney, told the commission permitting loss leaders would pressure dairy farmers and milk processors into circumventing the milk commission's pricing regulations for raw milk.

Poisson argued that if retailers were allowed to sell milk as a loss leader, or below the cost to them, "I think it would disrupt the marketing of milk...and force a lesser price on the producer."

As a result, Poisson said, many dairy farmers would eventually go out of business paving the way for market domination by "one or two nationwide co-ops."

Urges Probation Transfer

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislative study commission was urged Friday to consider moving probation activities from the Department of Social Rehabilitation and Control to the Administrative Office of the Courts.

"Probation officers are an arm of the courts," Superior Court Judge Frank Snepp of Charlotte told a subcommittee of the Commission on Sentencing, Criminal Punishment and Rehabilitation. "We ought to think about giving the judicial system some control over them.

"Transferring probation to the judicial branch would pretty much insulate them from politics," he said.

Defers Sorority Buildings

RALEIGH (AP)—In an unusual action Friday, the Advisory Commission refused to okay an ordinarily routine request to authorize the issuance of revenue bonds to build two sorority houses at North Carolina State University.

Before reaching the decision commission members engaged in a debate over whether it was proper for the government to finance a project that would not be available to every student.

The commission voted 5-4 to put off action on the bond request until University of North Carolina officials clarify university policy on equal access to campus facilities.

Sororities and fraternities select new members by a vote of the current membership. Living quarters in sorority and fraternity houses are generally restricted to members.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon was spending a quiet weekend with his family, including his daughter Julie, before entering a Long Beach hospital Monday morning.

In Washington, special prosecutor Leon Jaworski asked U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica to appoint a team of medical experts to examine Nixon and see if he is too sick to testify at the Watergate cover-up trial.

The former President received a subpoena to testify Thursday, ordered by Jaworski and delivered by an FBI agent to Nixon personlly.

Nixon is scheduled for treatment of his phlebitis condition. A painful and serious clotting of veins in his left lgg.

He will be under the care of Dr. John Lungren, a Long Beach specialist who has treated Nixon before along with former White House physician, Air Force Maj. Gen. Walter Tkach.

Tkach earlier quoted Nixon as saying, "If I go into a hospital, I'll never come out alive."

Friends of the former President speculated that he may have changed his mind at the urging of his daughter, Julie Eisenhower, who arrived Thursday for her first reunion with Nixon since his resignation six weeks ago.

She was scheduled to leave Monday for Detroit, Mich.

The former President is to be a star witness at the Watergate trial in Washington which is to begin Oct. 1, for both sides.

In addition to the Jaworski subpoena, he was also subpoened by John Ehrlichman for the defense.

Judge Sirica took no immediate action on Jaworski's request for a medical examination, but denied a motion on behalf of Ehrlichman for a delay of 60 to 90 days requested because of Nixon's poor health.

As a witness for both sides, Nixon could be questioned on all phases of the Watergate cover-up under oath and in public. If he lied he could be indicted for perjury. President Gerald Ford's pardon would not protect him from prosecution for offenses committed after leaving office.

Efforts Made To Calm Kootenai Indians

By BRIAN MOTTAZ

BONNERS FERRY, Idaho (UPI) — Bureau of Indian Affairs agents, a congressman and a senator came to Idaho's rugged northern panhandle Saturday to try to calm Kootenai Indians who are threatening war to regain tribal land.

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, and Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, flew to a nearby airport and were escorted by two state patrol cars through roadside posts declaring "Entering Kootenai Nation. Toll 10 cents."

The cars sped by the signs, their occupants declining to pay the voluntary toll.

"The major reason we came up here was to let these people know there are ways to get something accomplished and it is not necessary to take violent action," McClure said. "There are ways to get things done other than knocking heads. You sit down and talk things over."

The Kootenais, who want 1.6 million acres of tribal land they claim was denied them for 120 years, are first threatened to blockade roads into this remote community, but backed down Friday after some 100 law enforcement officials arrived.

Instead, Kootenai informational pickets collected donations in tin cups from motorists who stopped at the roadside posts. About one in four drivers offered money.

The arrival of Martin Seneca, BIA director of trust resources, quieted the rebellious Kootenais, but tribal spokesman Doug Wheaton said the Indians' goal would not be abandoned.

"If Seneca just came here to pacify us he can just go back to Washington," he said. "We're all done backing down."

The Kootenais had offered to settle their claim of 1.6 million acres in return for a 128,000-acre reservation and $2.8 million. The government has offered them 12½ acres.

Young Man Drowns

BATH, N.C. (AP)—Rescue teams recovered the body Saturday of Harold Wayne Woolard, 26, of Washington, N.C., who drowned after his fishing boat caught fire and exploded late Friday night.

Authorities said Woolard was fishing in the Pamlico River with two other men when the engines on the 37-foot boat caught fire. All three men were thrown clear of the burning vessel, but Woolard sank before he could swim to shore.

His companions, Howard Lee Norman, 27, and Larry Apple, 26, both of Washington, were picked up by another boat as they swam towards shore. They were treated for shock at Beaufort County Hospital and released.

MANILA (UPI) — Premier Chou En-lai, a driving force in improved U.S.-China relations, is able to walk about unattended in the Peking hospital where he has been confined for most of the past three months, the Philippine News Agency reported Saturday.

To Transfer Alligators

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Alligators, some up to 12 feet long, have eliminated the duck population of City Park lagoons, dug into the fish and started attacking nutrias and turtles.

But when one nabbed a dog, park officials decided to act.

"You cannot take this alligator problem lightly," said Ellis P. Laborde, park superintendent.

Although Laborde said park visitors who stay away from the lagoons are in no danger, police and Louisiana WildLife & Fisheries agents have organized a hunting program to capture the estimated 10 alligators.

Because they are listed as an endangered species they cannot be killed and will be transported elsewhere when caught.

Braniff Pilot Strike Shuts Down Service

DALLAS (UPI) — Braniff International Airlines' 1,328 pilots Saturday went on strike for shorter flying hours and higher pay and the airline quickly laid off 7,900 other workers—5,000 in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The strike shut down Braniff service to 46 cities in the United States and 12 in Latin America. About 25,000 persons a day fly Braniff planes, but a spokesman said alternate plane service was available on all its routes.

"We could not agree to super-inflationary and unreasonable demands of the (Air Line Pilots Association) union," Braniff spokesman Jere Cox said.

"The average annual cockpit crew pay is $31,000 and a captain makes $67,000. They wanted an increase of 40 per cent."

Cox declined to say what he called an "excellent" Braniff offer was. He said no meeting was scheduled between company and union negotiators but Braniff was willing to resume negotiations at any time.

Jack Hagey of the ALPA said he did not know precisely how far apart Braniff and union negotiators were on money, but, "They're not close or we wouldn't be in the posture we're in."

Howard Hutton, a spokesman for the ALPA, said Braniff's average pay for pilots "is the lowest of the 12 domestic airlines in the U.S."

The pilots also want their maximum monthly flying time reduced from the present 77½ hours a month to 55 hours, said to be the national average of other airlines.

Complaint Against Publishing Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — The complaints of 44 women publishing employes have prompted state Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz to launch a sex and racial discrimination complaint against the Macmillan publishing companies.

The complaint, filed with the State Division of Human Rights Friday, said Macmillan filled 76 per cent of its highest three job levels with men, while women hold 94 per cent of the lowest three levels.

Bella Linden, a lawyer for Macmillan, said an answer will be filed which "will make it abundantly clear that the case is without merit."

The company's book clubs were also accused of giving male club directors higher pay than women with the same duties.

The complaint said minority people are hired almost exclusively in unskilled or low-skilled jobs.

The complaint demanded that in positions of managing editor, senior editor, executive editor and department or division director, 35 per cent be women in three years, and at least 50 percent in four years.

Twenty Arrested In Two County Raid

SHELBY, N.C. (AP)—State and federal agents arrested 20 persons in Cleveland and Gaston counties Friday night in raids on 19 private social clubs, an agent of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms ATF reported.

ATF agent Stanley Noel said 50 officers participated in the raids, which began at 5 p.m. and continued until midnight. He said 170 gallons of liquor, over 10,000 cans of beer and 19 slot machines were seized.

Noel said those arrested were charged in federal warrants with failure to have a retail liquor dealer's stamp. He said they were charged by the state with possession of gambling devices and possession of liquor for sale.

ATF agents, State Bureau of Investigation agents and state and county Alcoholic Beverage Control agents, participated in the raids. Local law enforcement personnel assisted.

The arrests followed six to eight weeks of undercover work by state and federal agents.

Pasadena Quake

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — An earthquake early Saturday shook an area from east of Riverside through the Coachella Valley. No damage was reported.

The Seismological Laboratory at California Institute of Technology said the epicenter of the quake was three miles west of Beaumont.

Preliminary figures showed the magnitude to be 4 on the Richter scale.

To Keep Schools Open

By DAVID M. ROSEN

BOSTON (UPS)—Boston Mayor Kevin H. White conceded Saturday that the court-ordered integration of public schools posed a "challenge that is just beginning." He vowed to keep all schools open next week and to insure protection for all pupils, black and white.

The city was calm Saturday and there were no incidents reported in connection with forced busing that prompted several disturbances Friday.

School attendance was down in East Boston and Hyde Park High School was closed because of a major clash involving hundreds of rock-throwing black and white students on Thursday.

Hyde Park will open Monday on a restricted schedule, with no lunch periods and classes ending at 12:45 p.m. instead of 2 p.m.

White issued a statement Saturday afternoon saying "I promised every parent in this city that his child would be protected, and I intend to do whatever is necessary to fulfill this pledge.

Anti-Freeze Supply Tight

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Three major antifreeze producers say there should be enough of the product to meet the demand this winter, but they warn the market will be tight and that some retailers already are charging exorbitant prices.

"Our view is that the situation is tight and we expect that there will be a shortage in isolated retail markets from time to time," said a spokesman for Union Carbide Corp., the nation's largest antifreeze producer.

The company has increased the wholesale price of Prestone antifreeze from $1.77 a gallon last fall to $2.40 to $2.50 a gallon because of higher production and raw material costs. But there are reports of individual retailers charging from $6 to $12 a gallon.

"It's a rip-off of the worst kind," said Robert J. Cassidy, antifreeze marketing manager for Union Carbide.

"There's no rhyme or reason for some of the prices we're seeing," agreed Frank Chesek, marketing director for automotive chemicals for Northern Petrochemical Co., the third-largest antifreeze manufacturer.

"You find one retailer selling it at $3.17 a gallon and three blocks away some one else is selling it for $6," he said. "I think it's a panic situation and they're taking advantage of it."

Chesek said he would classify the antifreeze supply "as a tight market with spot shortages." The company sells its Peak Grand antifreeze and coolant for $2.28 a gallon plus freight.

A spokesman for the Dow Chemical Co., which markets the second-largest selling brand, Dowgard, said "We estimate there will be enough for individual car owners. There may not be enough for some industrial users."

Dowgard sells for $2.52 a gallon in truckload quantities, the company said, up from $1.55 a year ago.

"We're concerned about panic buying" as a result of shortage rumors, the spokesman said. "We're making a special effort to make as much auto antifreeze as we can."

Feasting Society Honors 19th Century Cannibal

By KENNETH T. WALSH
Associated Press Writer

LAKE CITY, Colo. (AP) — The mystique of Alferd Packer, the Colorado cannibal, is being parlayed by this small, isolated Rocky Mountain town into a business proposition aimed at luring tourists.

Officials say Packer's story, in which legend and fact are freely mixed, is a natural to attract tourist dollars.

"Some people think it's distasteful, but we think this is the best way to get national recognition," said Chamber of Commerce President Bill Hall, who also owns a sporting goods store.

An Alferd Packer Festival, complete with barbecue, is scheduled today to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the Colorado man-eater's exploits.

Packer, a former shoemaker, is said to have killed and eaten five companions to survive the harsh mountain winter of 1874.

Packer left Bingham Canyon, Utah, in November 1873 as a guide for 21 men seeking gold in Colorado Territory.

Plagued by extreme cold and snow, they stopped their trek near Montrose, Colo., in January 1874 at the camp of Ute Indian Chief Ouray.

But Packer and five companions left camp in February to get a jump on the others and reach the gold fields early.

Only Packer, well-fed and free-spending, arrived at an outpost 80 miles away two months later.

Packer later admitted living off the flesh of his companions.

He was convicted at a Lake City trial of killing them, and he was sentenced to death. Later, however, he was retried, given a lesser sentence and eventually released from jail.

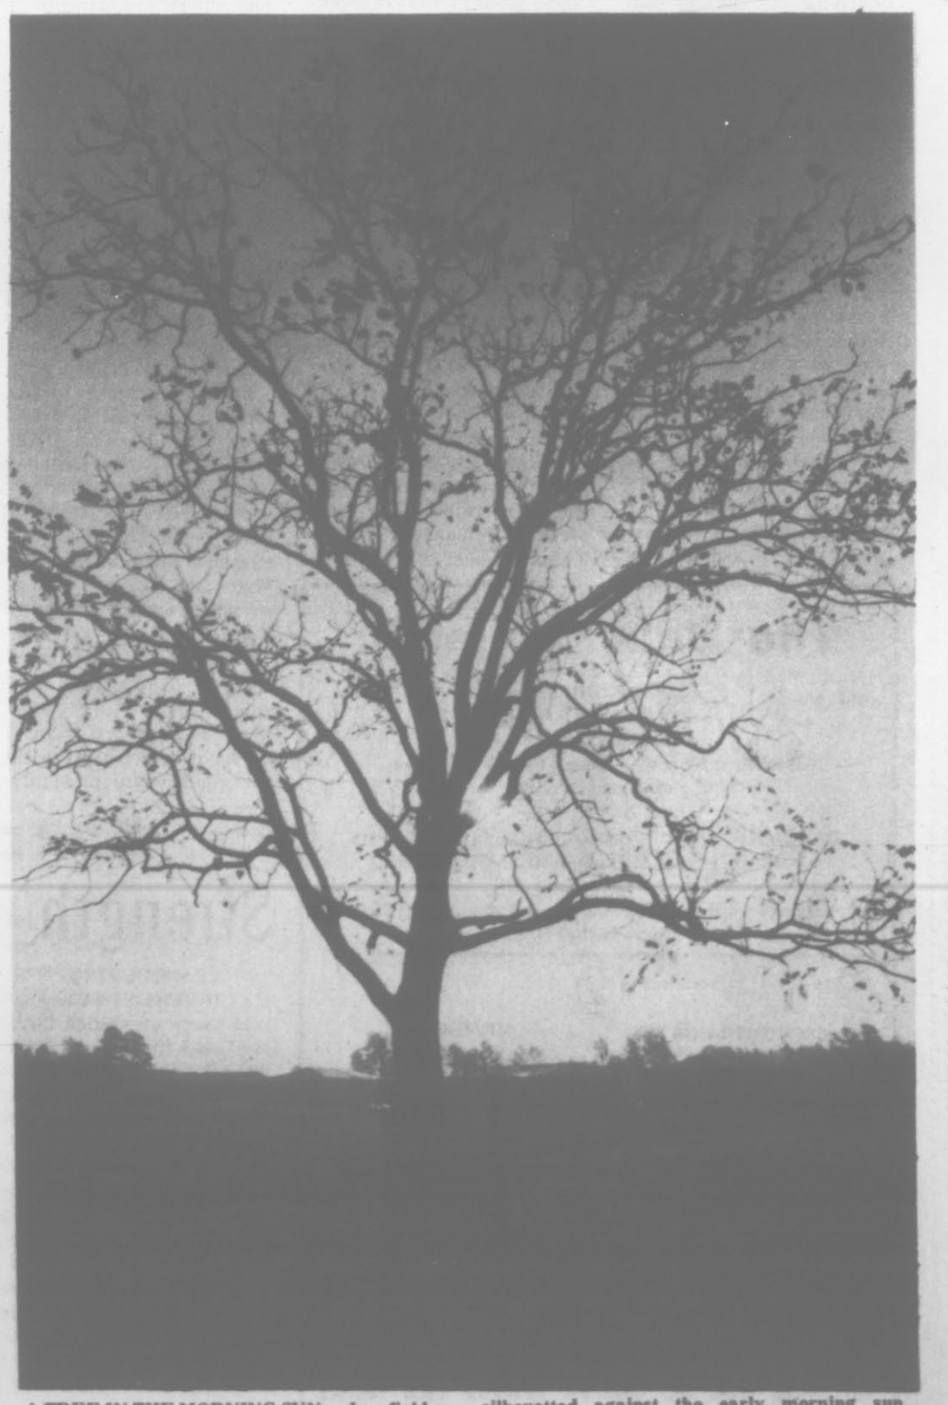

Packer died peacefully at Littleton, a Denver suburb, in 1907.

"The logical place to start a revival is the place where he was convicted," Hall said. "We plan to start an Alferd Packer Feasting Society and, of course, we'll hold a barbecue this weekend."

The barbecue will feature nothing more exotic than various cuts of beef. Hall is proposing as a motto for the feasting society, "Have a Friend for Dinner."

Hall says interest in the Packer legend lures a small number of tourists to the region but he expects the number to grow.

At least one Packer Club has already formed in the state, based in Denver. An Alferd Packer Cookbook has been published. And students at the University of Colorado in Boulder created an Alferd Packer Memorial Grill, serving Packer Burgers, of course.

Can't Kick It Around Anymore

Those of us who have been around East Carolina University for a long time were astounded to learn from a Daily Reflector article that the main dining hall on the campus won't be operating this year.

The big dining hall building in the center of the old campus has been closed down entirely and South Dining Hall stands empty.

Traditionally students have eaten there for decades, dating back to the days when there were no drive-in hamburger restaurants and students didn't have the automobiles to get to them, even if they had existed.

The dining halls seem to be the victim of the multiple restaurants in Greenville ranging from hamburger, pizza and fried chicken places to full service restaurants.

Things got so bad last year that the contract firm which operated the main dining hall recommended that it be closed. The university administration agreed and South Dining Hall was shut down. Only the Jones dormitory cafeteria, far removed from the central campus dorms, is open and football players and some students dine there.

Mostly, though, students load up in cars at 5 o'clock and begin the daily treks to the drive-ins, or they walk downtown to the various eating places there.

Through the years the meals served at the old dining hall were usually balanced and nutritious and planned by dieticians. Traditionally though, the dining hall meals were the object to constant griping by generation-after-generation of East Carolina students. Lord only knows what nutritional value the students are getting out of the various snacks of hamburgers, french fries and pizzas which, along with beer, seem to make up so many student diets these days. One thing is certain, however; the students won't have the main dining hall to kick around anymore.

Most Fitting Tribute To Dr. Malene Irons

The Developmental Evaluation Clinic building has been dedicated to the director and founder of the clinic, Dr. Malene Irons.

Dr. Malene is one of Greenville's great ladies. For years she doctored our young as a practicing pediatrician. Then she turned her talents to the ECU Developmental Evaluation Clinic as its director.

Naming the building for her is a fitting honor.

THIS AFTERNOON

Left Turn? Right On!

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A left turn on red when a pair of one-way streets intersect downtown seems to be a logical extension of the new state law permitting right turns on red.

After all, the circumstances are the same if a driver is in a curb lane on the left and turning into a curb lane on the left.

State officials agree with the concept, even though the law doesn't spell it out. In Charlotte, police and traffic engineers gave the green light to left turns; H. Y. Kinard, assistant secretary of the State Department of Transportation thinks that is fine.

"I'm sure drivers are doing that, and I don't think the law enforcement people would get tough on that. . .I know our Highway Patrol people won't," Kinard said. He was the man who pushed the right turn provision, and recalls that the left turn question came up during legislative debate, but wasn't written into the law because adjournment was near and might have slowed passage.

Law Expires

Meanwhile, the right-turn law expires Jan. 1, at the end of a "trial period." Kinard says the expiration is technical, and the law permitting right turns will remain in effect after Jan. 1.

Kinard has a new bill already written and ready for action by the General Assembly when it convenes in mid-January, a process he expects to require little time since extension is, in his view, a technical matter. The extension bill contains provisions for the left turns, too.

Kinard thinks the right-turn system is working well, despite some drivers whose habits won't let them take advantage.

Critics of the new system are especially concerned that signs prohibiting turns on red are cluttering many streets—especially in Charlotte, and along U.S. 64 bypass at Asheboro, for example.

"Yes, that just tears me apart. I can see using the prohibition signs where you have a complex intersection, but some places are just putting them up all around . . . at routine intersections. I hope public reaction against that will bring about change," Kinard said.

Meanwhile, state officials are thinking about signs on major highways entering the state telling visitors that right turns on red are Okay.

Fewer Students

The budget for the next two years recently adopted by the State Board of Education reflects projections for future declines in student enrollment.

Overall, the budget is up and calls for major increases. But some quick arithmetic shows how much the downward trend in births will affect schools.

Basic funding of school programs is done on the basis of dollars per child in average daily membership.

Some division shows that school officials expect the present membership figure of 1,160,825 pupils to decline in 1975-76 to around 1,125,380; a drop of 35,445. In 1976-77, projections show further decline to 1,118,258; a drop of over 7,000 kids.

The decline in North Carolina follows a national downward trend reflected in the zero population growth figures recorded last year, which also means further declines in future years.

Some states are now closing schools due to loss of population, and are converting buildings to other uses. In North Carolina, the decline has proved a boost for the new kindergarten program in which about half of the state's five-year-olds are now enrolled, and full emrollment of some 86,000-plus is expected by 1978. Declines in other grades is allowing room for the kindergarten program without major building expansion in some areas.

Sunday Morning Notes

A dog slipped under the fence at the East Carolina - Bowling Green game and was frockling on the sidelines.

"That's just like a dog," an observer commented. "Pay to come to a ball game and not pay attention to what is going on."

Bet the dog didn't pay.

And a pretty girl was standing at the curb at Tar River Estates only minutes prior to the kick-off of the ECU Bowling Green game.

She looked sad and perplexed.

What was wrong?

"I gave my boy friend the wrong directions and he's riding around out here somewhere," she explained.

Problems, problems.

An important government official stuck his head back in the door of Biggs Drug Store just as your columnist was entering the other day.

That is news.

Other Editors Say Diet Saboteurs

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Spouses, beware that diet! Willing spirits tend to blame diet failures on weak flesh, but the trouble may lie within the dieters family instead.

Bariatric physicians (those who specialize in weight control) now say that "sabataging spouses"—and parents—constitute one of the most serious problems in weight control.

Typical cases show that the dieter is able to lose the necessary weight, but rapidly gains it back.

On investigation, doctors learn that patients have been liberally plied with food by a wife or husband or parent.

For one reason or another, not always easily apparent, they can't live with their newly slender partners and make every effort to fatten them up again.

A September Reader's Digest article reports that in a survey of 236 obesity specialists in the United States, 213 of them declared that their patients encountered anti-diet action from friends or relatives.

Considering that obesity often appears in conjunction with high blood pressure, heart disease and diabetes, it is not exactly an act of love.

While motives vary, the prevalent—and usually subconscious—one is jealousy.

A husband may resent attention paid to his wife's newly-acquired slender figure, or he fears he may have to diet too.

Wives sometimes fear their reputations as good cooks are at stake.

An overweight child is frequently isolated from his peers, if only to avoid teasing.

When he joins his crowd after successful dieting, an anxious mother may fear she's "losing" him—so his portions get larger and sweeter.

Such sabotage makes the difficult job of dieting even harder, but there are ways to combat it. As soon as he realizes what's going on, the dieter should try to talk it over with his friendly saboteur.

Frequently the spouse or parent will do his best to cooperate.

But if the problem is too difficult to handle alone, guidance from a family doctor, psychiatrist or marriage counselor may be the answer.

Since any overweight wife, husband or child may be living on borrowed time, diet sabotage should not be ignored for the sake of family harmony.

Smoker Pays & Pays

By WELLINGTON LONG

BONN (UPI) — Beware of lighting that first cigarette, young man, for a West German survey shows there is a 70 per cent chance that thereupon you will keep puffing away for another 40 years.

And in that time, according to a German insurance institute, you will have spent enough on cigarettes to have financed two round-the-world trips for yourself and your wife.

But if you do not start smoking by the time you are 20 years old, chances are you never will take up the habit.

So says Prof. Rainer Toelle of the Psychiatric and Nerve Clinic of Muenster University, in a new book, "Cigaret Smoking."

Toelle interviewed 1,000 smokers, drawn from the ranks of craftsmen, industrial workers, civil servants and other office workers, university students and alcoholics.

Most important among factors that cause a young man or woman to start smoking, according to Toelle, were parents who already smoke, friends who smoke, and wishing to appear adult.

Seventy per cent of those who do start smoking, at any age, will puff away for about 40 years. They steadily increase consumption until they are about 45 years old, when use declines slightly, Toelle reported.

According to a survey by the advertising trade magazine, "Werben und Verkaufen," the average male West German smoker consumes 21 cigarettes daily, the average woman smoker 14 cigarettes. Half of the men and a quarter of the women in Germany between the ages of 16 and 65 smoke, the magazine said.

The Hesse State Insurance Institute, launching an anti-smoking campaign, decided almost no one is deterred by further warnings that smoking is unhealthy.

So the Insurance Institute tried another tack.

"If you smoke 20 cigarets a day," the Institute reckoned, "you will have lost one

The United Textile Workers Union has called for an end to the textile strike, and has instructed workers to return to the mills Monday.

Strike committee chairman Frank Gorman said the union accomplished a great deal by the strike.

Gorman said "we have accomplished definite things: an end to the stretchout; a method of determining hours on the basis of fact; a basis of determining wages on the basis of facts; practical recognition of our union and reforms in the whole administration of the labor provisions of the code on a scale so sweeping that we must confess ourselves surprised at the character of the victory we have won."

The Greenville City Schools will open Monday with the largest enrollment in the school's history.

The INSIDE REPORT

A Decision Postponed

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — In affirming on Tuesday that Henry Kissinger would still wear two hats as both Secretary of State and director of the National Security Council (NSC), President Ford was postponing the ultimate choice between Kissinger and Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger.

Although Mr. Ford denied published reports that his transition team recommended that Mr. Kissinger be stripped of his NSC hat, the President did not divulge confidential recommendations from intimate advisers. They had been urging the appointment of a new NSC director, ending Kissinger's unprecedented control over global policy and perhaps even reducing him to roughly the same level as Schlesinger. Accordingly, these same advisers believed (perhaps hoped) that cutting Kissinger down to human size would result in his abrupt resignation.

This showdown has been postponed, but there seems little chance that Kissinger and Schlesinger can coexist in the Ford administration into next summer. Furthermore, despite Tuesday's assurance from the President, Ford insiders believe it is Schlesinger rather than Kissinger who may ultimately survive.

Even if they agreed on policy, confrontation between Kissinger and Schlesinger would have been inevitable. Never before have two such brilliant intellectuals simultaneously held the cabinet portfolios for State and Defense. "Here are two egomaniacs," contends one high official who knows them both well. "Two smart egomaniacs, which makes it worse."

But the fact is that they most certainly do not agree. Schlesinger believes Kissinger's detente diplomacy concedes too much to Moscow on all fronts — SALT, mutual force reductions, the European security treaty. Contending that detente is not so fragile a flower, he would take a much harder bargaining line.

It was therefore predictable that Schlesinger would grow restive with total domination of national security policy by Kissinger, wearing both his NSC and State Department hats. But President Nixon, obsessed by Watergate, never even approached the problem. Kissinger reigned supreme.

Mr. Ford's accession seemed to confirm that supremacy. As Vice President, Mr. Ford sought a personal relationship with Kissinger while privately expressing doubts that the pipe-smoking, donnish Schlesinger could sell defense budgets on Capitol Hill. Gen. Alexander Haig, Kissinger's old deputy temporarily kept on as chief of staff by President Ford, felt that diplomatic strategy in negotiating with Moscow was no business of the Secretary of Defense.

The impression of Schlesinger's impending doom was confirmed by Mr. Ford's first weeks in office. Intimates reported him displeased by Schlesinger's professorial style of exposition. White House staff papers gave the President the totally erroneous impression that the Pentagon brass distrusted Schlesinger because he had never worn the uniform. The President was not happy about Schlesinger's publicly revealing his precautions against a military takeover during the Nixon-Ford transition.

But within the past week or so, the climate has changed. Key Ford aides now defend

CONQUERING INHERENT EVIL

In every generation there are many individuals who insist that most of the evil in the world is inherent and so much a part of the nature of things that it cannot be eradicated. And yet in every generation many of the evils so described are alleviated or done away with because of the unremitting efforts of a small group of men who believe in the power and justice of their cause and refuse to be discouraged by those who believe that most evil is inherent.

The power of chattel slavery was broken by men who kept knocking at the doors of men's hearts until their consciences were aroused. The power of widespread ignorance was broken by men who kept insisting that education is the right of every person. Free government came as the result of the presistent efforts of those who believe that all men have certain inalienable rights.

If good men and women, particularly professing Christians, really believe in a better world, we can have it.

Air Problem, But No Solution

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The government sponsored meetings in inflation during the past two weeks have served to publicize the problem, but so far they haven't produced any common agreement on a solution.

Less government spending and easier money seem to be among the more popular suggestions for lowering the inflation rate, but nobody claims that these moves alone will bring equilibrium to a troubled economy.

In fact, the multiplicity of suggestions, the disagreements, the appeals to self-interest, seem to suggest that the American public is acquiring an education in how complex, pervasive and indelible the problem is.

It is learning also that no one person or group of persons has the answers. The naively optimistic hope that inflation might go away if the proper levers were pulled must now have vanished completely.

No heroes have emerged. No stunning new ideas have revealed themselves. The critics, now that they are having their say, can come up with nothing more than the conventional suggestions.

What has been produced is such an overwhelming mass of opinion that it might make even more difficult the anti-inflation action that must follow, or at least encumber the decisions sought at a National Conference on Inflation Sept. 27 and 28.

Meanwhile, there are indications that the airing of conflicting views and the realization of how difficult is the economic situation might be having a negative impact on public attitudes, and even firing their fears.

Albert Sindlinger, the Swarthmore, Pa., pollster who follows consumer attitudes by telephone seven days a week, claims the preliminary conferences, of which there are f ve remaining before the summit, are hurting the country.

"They are producing an antibusiness, antilabor, antigovernment attitude," he said. "They are proving how selfish everyone is."

Sindlinger says his index of consumer confidence took one of its biggest dives ever in the first two weeks of September, a drop that he says is now being reflected in the stock market.

He maintains that in the past three weeks about three million shareholders have left the market, "individuals, small people, old ladies" who finally gave up after waiting patiently for a recovery.

The drop to a 12-year low in the Dow Jones Industrial Average, 627.19 points on Friday, Sept. 13, scared a lot of people both in and out of the stock market and convinced them the economy was in terrible shape, Sindlinger said he learned from his staff's telephone calls.

The bigger culprit, however, is the string of anti-inflation conferences that have been held during the past two weeks, Sindlinger maintains.

To illustrate the mood created by these conferences, he quotes the wife of an Iowa farmer who maintains that the cause of inflation is greed.

"Washington says we have to be educated, but I haven't heard one economist or any businessman or any labor leader say what he knows is true — that the cause of inflation is greed," the woman said.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Fooling With Mother Nature

Recreation-prone Americans often regard naturalists, ecologists, environmentalists, and those who just love and want to preserve nature, as nuisances to be tolerated but ignored if possible. Tolerated, that is, if they don't get in the way of the so-called march of progress.

But, for all the shrewdness of man, the natural laws of science of man, the natural laws of science usually manage to have the last say. Now, comes a report that rain water in Europe and the eastern United States is 100 to 1000 times more acid than it used to be—in some cases practically as acid as pure lemon juice. Such a mixture, say the ecologists, may stunt the growth of forests and crops.

The cause of the acid water comes from a totally unexpected source—man's own ineffective efforts to correct his own abuses. The principal cause, say the experts, is "the proliferation of antipollution devices on smokestacks, which filter out visible matter, but permit the escape of invisible acidic gases."

Seems the dirty-looking matter used to neutralize the gases, but the antipollution devices changed all that.

There's a lesson here. It suggests one very obvious fact—when man tampers with the natural balances more often than not he sets up an endless chain of detrimental effects he cannot control. — Northern Virginia Daily

Computerized Justice

A Michigan State University computer, with the programming help of Professor Harold Spaeth, has correctly predicted 33 out of 34 Supreme Court decisions in the last two years. Its only miss was the court's ruling this year against class action suits.

The accuracy, according to the professor, has prompted suggestions that the computer replace the court. Proponents of this 1984 scheme argue that the computer would save time, trouble and expense. Spaeth, quoted in a dispatch from East Lansing, Mich., does not specify who supports computerized justice, but it is a little frightening that such a proposal would even be made.

The day judges and justices, whatever their human failings, give way to the machines is the day society comes apart. Computers may work wonders but they lack man's creative powers and sense of compassion, his ability to adjust. When it comes to being judged, we'll take our chances before a human being every time. — Asheville (N.C.) Times

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Sept. 22, the 265th day of 1974. There are 100 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1949, the Soviet Union exploded its first atomic bomb, four years after the first American nuclear detonation.

On this date:

In 1776, Nathan Hale was hanged by the British as a spy. As he was led to the gallows in New York, he said: "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country."

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln issued the preliminary Emancipation Proclamation.

In 1927, Gene Tunney successfully defended his heavyweight boxing title against Jack Dempsey in the famous long count bout in Chicago.

In 1931, Britain abandoned the gold standard.

In 1961, The Interstate Commerce Commission issued rules forbidding racial discrimination in interstate bus transportation.

In 1965, a cease-fire was declared in a war between India and Pakistan over Kashmir.

Ten years ago: The third session of the Vatican Council approved a move to give bishops a greater hand in helping the Pope set church policy.

Five years ago: The Pentagon announced plans to cut U.S. military strength by 77,000 men and to take 200 planes and 20 ships out of service in an economy move.

One year ago: Henry Kissinger was sworn in as secretary of State, becoming the first naturalized citizen to gain the office.

Public Forum

To the editor:

Well, that does it!! For President Ford in his news conference of Sept. 16 to justify U.S. CIA intervention in Chile on the grounds that, under the Allende-Marxist government, there were no opposition political parties or freedom of the press is the final straw. Would he really have us believe that there are opposition political parties to the military junta in Chile today — or freedom of the press? I call his attention to the Sept. 16 Newsweek, page 49, which describes conditions in Chile since the military takeover in September of 1973: "The price being paid by Chileans for the military's brand of law and order is a high one. Political parties no longer operate, Congress has been disbanded, and as many as 8,000 political prisoners are locked away. . .The midnight knock on the door is again a reality."

Only the Americans, Canadians and British smoke more than the West Germans, the advertising magazine said.

And why do smokers continue to smoke?

Toelle said the smokers he interviewed usually gave several reasons. Most common were that it was a habit, that it provided pleasure, or that it helped overcome nervousness or boredom.

The German Professor's studies confirmed those made in other countries, including the United States, that show a higher percentage of smokers among the lower than among the higher social classes. Alcoholics smoke more than teetotalers.

A Conservative View

Now, Up In Boston, They Were Saying 'Nevah'

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Over a period of many years, in the bad old days of segregation, Southerners smarted under the superior morality of Boston. For a few days last week, these same Southerners might have been forgiven a sense of retribution. Up in Boston, the white folks were crying "Nevah!"

The mind rolled back to April of 1964 in St. Augustine, Fla. Among the leaders of a civil rights march was Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Peabody, wife of a retired Episcopal bishop, and mother of Governor Endicott Peabody. She had come down from Boston, along with a couple of Boston reverends, to instruct the Deep South in brotherhood.

The story got quite a play at the time. Mrs. Peabody wound up by spending a night in jail, charged with trespass. Pictures of the Boston contingent made all the papers. The general idea was that all the bigots were down in Dixie and all the angels of enlightenment were up north in Massachusetts, and why couldn't the Southerners be like them?

Well, chickens come home to roost, and last week they were roosting in Boston. A federal district judge, W. Arthur Garrity, had ordered integration of the Roxbury and South Boston communities. Pursuant to his order, South Boston High School, which last year enrolled 2,178 whites and 15 blacks, was to have 1,604 whites and 941 blacks.

White parents protested. They prostested violently. Some black parents also objected to busying their children miles away to alien schools. Newspapers and television brought vivid accounts of jeering crowds, racial epithets, helmeted police, angry voices. White parents bitterly united in a boycott. Some objectors were arrested. And all this took place, of all places, in Boston, Mass.

Very well. It is perhaps unkind to rub it in. South Boston's reaction to Judge Garrity's order tends to confirm Simmons' Law, formulated some years ago by a distinguished Mississippian, which holds that one's enthusiasm for coerced integration increases by the square of the distance by which one is removed from the actual event. So long as racial-balance busing was decreed only in the South, many Northerners thought such orders were great. Is it conceivable that even Senator Kennedy may have second thoughts now?

Racial-balance busing, which triggered the Boston violence, strikes me as dead wrong no matter where it is ordered. Here were the innocent black children of Roxbury, herded onto buses for shipment into a hostile neighborhood, for one reason only: Their skins were black. And here were the white children being shipped for a like reason: Their skins were white.

North or South, this is racism. Such court orders violate not only the color-blind Constitution; they violate the essential dignity of the human spirit as well. Does racial-balance busing promote bettter education? The evidence in support of that proposition is remarkably flimsy. Does racial-busing promote better race relations? That notion is nonsense. So long as children are labeled, certified, and carted around because they are black, or because they are white, they cannot escape a constant awareness of race.

Perhaps good comes out of evil. Perhaps the unhappy news from Boston — news in which no one truly can find any satisfaction whatever — will help to form a national constituency for sanity in our race relations. Once we perceive that prejudice knows no Mason-Dixon Line, that man's inhumanity to make is not greater in the South than in the North, and that resentment against coercion stirs families in the same way everywhere, perhaps we approach understanding. With national understanding, in time, perhaps some national answers can be found.

Prof. Paul McCracken Probably To Bear The Inflation-Cure Burden

By GEORGE BRYANT JR.

Professor Paul W. McCracken of Michigan University is an economist who feels strongly that a tough monetary and fiscal policy is key to any attack on inflation.

The significance of this is that McCracken will play a major role, probably the key role, in shaping what will become known as President Ford's economic policy for the nation. He has been selected by the White House to "assembly and review" proposals advanced at the so-called economic summit conferences.

The selection of McCracken as a special consultant comes at a time when it is clear that the White House sponsored discussions of what ails the economy and what to do about it isn't going to product much in the way of agreement.

The only thing that can be called a "consensus" at this time is the advice from all sides that something must be done to slow inflation before it leads to steep recession or depression. As to the ways and means proposed, these have reflected political and special interest considerations to a large extent.

Liberal economists, such as Dr. Walter Heller, want inflation curbed, but in a painless way. Businessmen come down hard for restraint on spending, but cry for plentiful credit and low interest. Labor is loud on doing something about prices. But it insists it should have cost-of-living wage boosts, plus other things. Few welcome higher taxes as a way of curbing excess demand.

So, it is a rather critical assignment that President Ford has given McCracken, who is no stranger to the White House and Washington's political ways. He was former President Nixon's first Economic Council Chairman, has known Ford for a long time and has been in and out of the White House these past few weeks.

McCracken's views on what has caused the inflation and what, in general could be done about it, are no mystery. He drafted the 1969-71 anti-inflation policy which was based on fiscal and monetary restraint. Nxion abandoned the policy in favor of direct wage-price controls in August, 1971, for political reasons.

not only insists that the earlier policy of budget and monetary restraint was working when it was abandoned, but holds that the same treatment is called for in the current situation.

In an August issue of The Wall Street Journal, McCracken deplored the notion restraints failed in the 1969-71 try. He produced figures showing that the serious price rise got underway in the 1960s, when Congress piled the Great Society on top of the Vietnam war.

In the first half of 1967, McCracken figures show, the cost of living rose at a rate of 2.3 percent. By the second half of 1968, it had reached 4.9 percent—considered out of hand then. It reached a high of 6.1 percent in 1969, Nixon's first year in the White House and the beginning of the budget down-hold and tight credit. Then, the inflation rate eased off to a low of 2.9 percent in the second half of 1971.

It was at this time, that Nixon went to direct controls and pulled back on spending and credit restraints. This brought a sharp rise in business activity. But it also produced strains which forced abandonment of wage-price controls.

McCracken made it clear that the 1969-71 approach is in order today. In doing so, he recognized that credit cannot be held too tight too long. He seemed to favor a slight easing now. But on the overall problem, he said:

"Basic reliance on fiscal and monetary restraint must be basic to the strategy."

And McCracken sees the road as rough and long—nothing short and easy.

Schlesinger and urge his retention. His position is certainly not hurt at the White House by Haig's imminent departure. Moreover, Schlesinger's friends have this long-range view: Mr. Ford is essentially a congressional bargainer without Nixon's Wilsonian world vision; as such, he in time will be attracted by Schlesinger's insistence on tit-for-tat bargains with the Kremlin.

Finally, Kissinger's perceived indispensability has been sharply eroded by the Cyprus crisis and the Chilean revelations. Newsmen last Tuesday morning were stunned when told by Rep. Albert Quie of Minnesota, a close congressional ally of Mr. Ford's, that Kissinger should go. But Quie's view is increasingly prevalent in congressional cloakrooms. Accusations that he masterminded Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) intervention in Chile has energized bitter, simultaneous campaigns against him from both left and right.

Preoccupied by the Nixon pardon and Vietnam amnesty, Mr. Ford has not addressed the important disagreements over detente policy between Kissinger and Schlesinger. Nor does he have to decide between them immediately.

But following the Chilean revelations, Ford insiders began urging that Kissinger's authority be diluted by the appointment of a new NSC director. The threat to Kissinger's supremacy posed by this recommendation was unsettling, obviously to President Ford and less obviously even to some officials who disagree with Kissinger on policy. Contending that there is no alternative to Kissinger as possible Mideastern peacekeeper in the coming months, they want the status quo retained.

Even some of these officials, however, believe the long-term coexistence of Kissinger and Schlesinger is impossible. Within no more than six months, they believe, the President must choose between them. While it would not have been credible just a month ago, it is by no means certain today that the choice will be Henry Kissinger.

WHOLE NEW CAN OF WORMS!

August Survival Keyed To Just Thinking Cool

Greenville is the only place I know of where the dew stays on the grass 24 hours a day. This humidity is especially bothersome considering my primitive living conditions—I don't have air conditioning.

I begged my husband to buy an air conditioner when we first moved into our house. He refused. "Don't you know that there's an energy crisis going on?" he said. "We might as well start tightening our belts now."

"I'll die of heat prostration," I answered.

"Oh, I'm sure you'll survive," my husband said dryly. "Just think cool."

I spent two months thinking cool. I used up ten cans of antiperspirant. I sprinkled on so much talcum powder that I looked like a polar bear. We ate cool food every night at supper—iced tea and tuna popsicles. And, except for a slight case of malnutrition, I survived until August.

Then came the monsoons. The first week in August everything in the house warped. Our picture frames rocked gently on the wall. I got seasick every time I walked on our hardwood floor. Our dresser drawers stuck, and we had to wear towels for two weeks.

The second week we were invaded by mold and mildew. Our shower curtain looked like it was in the advance stages of leprosy. Our clothes, our furniture, our walls, and our ceiling were coated in green fuzz. We're still trying to convince the Department of Forestry that the house shouldn't be declared a national park.

The third week I began to physically deteriorate. First I contracted bronchitis from breathing water vapor instead of air. The bronchitis was complicated by sinusitus. Thinking I'd save on the doctor's bill, I tried to cure myself by wearing a garlic necklace and sniffing Phillip's track shoes. This cured my sinusitus, but I developed an allergic reaction to garlic and brain damage from the track shoes.

At the end of the fourth week my husband came in waving the mail. "What is this $200 bill from the lumber company?" he screamed as he grabbed a Dramomene and lunged toward a chair.

"It's for the ark I'm building," I replied. "It's already rained for 30 days and 30 nights. I just wanted to prepare for the next ten."

"You're warped," he muttered.

"No, the dresser's warped, the floor's warped, the doors are warped. I'm wrinkled."

"Wrinkled?" he repeated shakily.

"Yes, wrinkled. It's from the cold baths I 've been taking. Twelve a day. Great for the memory, but terrible for the complexion."

"That brings to mind this other bill," he bellowed. "Have you looked at our utility bill?"

GAIL MICHAELS

"Well, I know it's a little high," I admitted defensively. "But you told me to conserve energy. And the only way to do that in this house is to take cold baths and sit in front of the open refrigerator."

Anger spread over his face like mold on tomato paste.

I added hastily, "But I don't do that any more. It melted the tunasicles."

He began to cry.

"Don't do that, sweetheart," I pleaded. "You'll mildew."

"I can't take this every summer. I'll blow my stack," he sobbed.

"Oh, you'll survive," I said sarcastically, spraying him with Lysol. "Just think cool."

Large Majority Say Govm't Should Finance Vote Campaigns

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J., — President Ford's omission of campaign reform legislation from his priority list for congressional action is likely to disappoint many Americans. Not only is curruption in politics cited by the public as one of the nation's top problems, but a large majority of persons interviewed in the latest survey favor having the federal government provide a fixed amount of money for campaigns, prohibiting all contributions from private sources.

Two Americans in three (67 per cent) express support for government financing of campaigns for federal office, while 24 per cent would oppose this change, and 9 per cent are undecided.

Proposal Given Impetus By Watergate Excesses

The public has not always favored federal funding of presidential and congressional candidates, but the idea was given impetus by the excesses revealed in connection with the Watergate affair. In a survey taken shortly after the Watergate hearings got underway in June, 1973, 58 per cent wanted a federally imposed limit on campaign spending; by September the figure had increased to 65 per cent.

Legislation Now Being Considered

Many illegal campaign contributions were uncovered throughout 1973, and while numerous ideas have been introduced as ways to remedy the problem, none as yet has been enacted into law.

Both the Senate and the House have proposed separate bills and a compromise committee is currently trying to work out the differences between the two bills. The most important difference between the two versions is that the Senate bill provides for funding of congressional as well as presidential campaigns, while the House bill does not.

'Would Eliminate Obligations To Big Business. . .'

Here is what people said about the survey proposal: "It would suit me fine," said a 37-year-old factory worker from Ashtabula, Ohio, "because it would eliminate the obligations of politicians to big business and individuals who have a lot of money."

A 26-year-old male from Chicago, just out of law school, holds similar views: "Let's face it — when a major private contribution is made, the favor has to be returned in one way or another."

A 60-year-old postal clerk from San Diego had this to say: "Such a law would help candidates where funds are not available. . .such as in poor areas. Heretofore, it took a certain amount of personal wealth to get elected."

These are the views of a 31-year-old woman, a substitute teacher from Maryville, Mo.: "This country can certainly use money that could be used for causes other than to get somebody elected. The way I see it, a person should run on his own character, background and integrity — not because someone helped him buy the position."

Views Of Those Opposed To Limit On Spending

Among the 24 per cent who vote against federal funding is a 41-year-old truck driver: "This is supposed to be a free country—if a corporation or individual would like to support a candidate with their life savings, — it's their own business."

A retired nurse from Amsterdam, N.Y., had this to say: "I object strongly to giving my financial support to those I oppose — for example, someone from the Communist party. Besides, how will we know there won't be underhanded dealings even with a law?"

Here is the question asked in the latest survey:

"It has been suggested the federal government provide a fixed amount of money for the election campaigns of candidates for the presidency and for Congress and that all private contributions from other sources should be prohibited. Do you think this is a god idea or a poor idea?"

Here are the national figures and the trend:

	TODAY	Sept. 1973	June 1973
Good idea	67%	65%	58%
Poor idea	24	24	29
No opinion	9	11	13

(The results reported today are based upon in-person interviews with 1,509 adults, 18 and older, in a nationwide survey conducted in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period Aug. 16-19.)

Heavy support for a fixed amount of federal moneys to finance campaigns for federal offices is found among all income, age, and occupation groups.

Republicans, understandably, are less enthusiastic about the proposal than are Democrats since the GOP has had fewer difficulties in raising large sums for campaign purposes. Still, as many as 6 in 10 Republicans (62 per cent) favor the legislation proposed in the survey question.

Costs Up For Coffee Grower

By WILLIAM R. LONG
Associated Press Writer

LONDRINA, Brazil (AP) — When North Americans and Europeans pay more for the coffee they drink, Julio Suzuki gets a welcome lift.

Suzuki, whose immigrant father cultivated silkworms in Brazil, makes his modest living growing coffee beans.

He has problems with leaf blight, rising fertilizer costs and aging coffee bushes. What trickles down from higher international coffee prices gives Suzuki, 32, more money to pay his bills.

"The price of coffee has increased, but the expenses have too," Suzuki told a visitor to his farmhouse near Londrina, in the heart of Brazilian coffee country.

The fertilizer Suzuki buys comes from petroleum, and the price he pays has multiplied along with world oil prices. The antifungus spray he uses to fight coffee "rust" blight is made of copper, another increasingly expensive primary product.

Brazil leads the world in coffee exports, and that primary product is the South American country's No. 1 revenue earner.

Brazil's No. 1 coffee buyer is the United States, which took nearly nine million of the 19½ million sacks exported in 1973. Each sack contains 132 pounds of green coffee beans.

Suzuki is one of more than 250,000 Brazilian farmers whose 2.7 billion coffee bushes produce the beans.

Like Suzuki, many of the people who farm the rich, red lands of Sao Paulo and Parana states in southern Brazil are of Japanese origin. He said his father, who came to Brazil in 1933, was a silkworm supplier in Sao Paulo state.

Suzuki bought his coffee farm here in Parana state in 1952 and built a two-story wooden house on it. Since then he has acquired more land, and now he has a total of 28,000 coffee bushes on 104 acres.

"As they say, it's enough to live on," he said.

The farmer lives with his wife, two children and widowed mother in their four-bedroom home, which needs a new coat of blue paint. Their possessions include a television set, a telephone, a Volkswagen car and a Chevrolet pickup.

Suzuki said he has two regular employes who help with fertilizing, spraying and other chores. The two workers make the equivalent of about 27 cents an hour, he said.

At harvest time, starting in May and lasting three or four months, Suzuki hires additional temporary workers.

He is planning on a 1974 harvest of 1,200 sacks of coffee, or 158,400 pounds. He hopes to make a profit of about 35 per cent on the sale price, deducting costs of labor and materials.

Although international coffee prices have been well over 70 cents a pound this year, Suzuki is sure to receive considerably less than that. The international price is what exporters get, but Suzuki must sell his crop to processors who mill the shells off the beans.

The processors often sell to middlemen who sell to exporters. The exporters sell the green beans to coffee companies that roast, grind and package the product.

Suzuki said that last year he made no profit on his coffee because his production was cut by the "rust" blight and by the after-effects of a 1972 frost that caused heavy damage to Parana coffee bushes.

After intensive and expensive treatment for the blight, Suzuki's trees will produce at about 60 per cent this year.

Historic West Point A Hudson River Bastion

By CRISMON S. LEWIS
For AP Newsfeatures

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — A chunk of hard, crystalline rock in the lap of the Hudson Highlands 50 miles north of New York City has put a permanent kink in the mighty Hudson River for centuries.

Two hundred years ago it also helped turn the course of history.

That bulwark of stone, which forced the abrupt angle in the strategic waterway — the sharpest in the river's 300-mile channel — was called West Point and earned its name long before it became the home of the U.S. Military Academy and the Corps of Cadets.

West Point was the "Gibraltar of America."

It was, as General Washington described it, "the most important post in America" during the Revolutionary War. It controlled navigation of the Hudson, which the British had planned to use as a wedge in splitting the struggling colonies.

West Point was the post Benedict Arnold had plotted to sell to the British in his treason.

It was where the colonists stretched a 60-ton cast iron chain across the Hudson River to block British ships, and then fortified the entire area with a masterful network of forts, redoubts and gun batteries which in itself became a revolutionary concept in building fortifications.

Although a battle was never fought at West Point, its forboding strength alone was crucial in winning America's independence.

It is this relatively unknown story of West Point that will unfold to an estimated five million visitors in 1976 as the result of a volley of Bicentennial projects underway at the U.S. Military Academy, according to Lt. Col. John H. Bradley, director of the Bicentennial activities at West Point.

Heading the list of Bicentennial projects is a two-part Symposium on Military History of the American Revolution, to be held from November 1975 to April 1976. It will feature lectures by nine leading Revolutionary War scholars who will present original papers on the American Revolution and then attend a concluding conference in late April 1976 to review and critique the papers.

Other projects underway include pamphlets, monographs, scholarly research, an original documents collection, a commemorative medallion and possibly a commemorative postage stamp.

Lt. Col. Bradley said the Academy will focus on Fort Putnam — the first stone fort at West Point and the key to the dozen strategically placed forts protecting each other and guarding the Great Chain.

Fort Putnam, perched on a ridge 450-feet above the river on vantage ground overlooking the surrounding forts, will be partially restored by December 1975.

A 20-man archeological team from Temple University excavated within the walls of Fort Putnam this summer, turning up cufflinks, coins and musketballs, and charting the fort's original layout as it was before it was rebuilt in 1794 and again restored in 1910.

The network of forts protecting the Great Chain was a product of Yankee ingenuity and the keen eye of a Polish military engineer, Col. Thaddeus Kosciuszko.

At the time, the colonists were bereft of men, time and money and had to scrap their attempts to build the conventional European fortress — a single massive structure — at West Point.

So, under the guidance of Col. Kosciuszko, they resorted to throwing up smaller forts and redoubts, fanning out from the Great Chain up along the Hudson River and into the Highlands, using the rugged terrain to their advantage.

The colonists relied heavily on Col. Kosciuszko and other foreign military engineers during the Revolution. However, such a heavy reliance on outside advisors prompted General Washington to push Congress for a Military Academy to train American military engineers.

That dream was finally realized in 1802, under President Jefferson, when the U.S. Military Academy was founded at West Point. It became the first engineering school in America and West Pointers went on to engineer most of the new nation's highways, canals, dams, lighthouses, bridges and railroads.

First Hot Dog From Ohioan

NILES, Ohio (UPI) — An Ohioan gave America its first hot dog.

Harry Stevens of Niles is said to have been the first to sell frankfurters in bread, and later in rolls.

Stevens called the combination hot dogs after seeing a newspaper cartoon in 1900 that showed a frankfurter that looked like a daschund.

Egypt Acknowledges PLO As Arab Representative

By United Press International

Egypt switched signals Saturday and acknowledged the Palestine Liberation Organization as the "sole legitimate representative" of the Palestinian people.

The acknowledgement was part of an agreement reached at a high-level two-day meeting in Cairo of Egyptian, Syrian and PLO officials to coordinate their Middle East crisis strategy.

A joint statement issued at the end of the talks said the three sides agreed on "continuation of support to the Palestine Liberation Organization in its capacity as the sole legitimate representative of the Palestine people, and the extension of assistance to it in order to ensure Arab steadfastness inside Israeli-occupied lands."

Diplomatic sources in Cairo saw the move as climbdown from an Egyptian position stated in a joint communique with Jordan last July that the PLO represented all Palestinians except those living in Jordan.

The sources recalled that at an Arab Summit conference in Algiers last November Egypt went along with all other Arab countries except Jordan in recognizing the PLO as the "sole representative."

Diplomatic sources said Egypt explained the July shift as a "tactical move" to involve Jordan in the collective Arab effort for an overall settlement with Israel and guard against the Amman government seeking a unilateral deal with Israel.

The Cairo announcement followed a broadcast Friday night by Israeli premir Yitzhak Rabin calling on Egypt, Syria and Jordan to declare a "state of non-belligerency" as a step toward peace in the Middle East.

In an interview broadcast Saturday, Rabin said the United States has acted to provide Israel with enough weaponry to prevent war.

"I believe there is no doubt in the American mind," he said, "that we have to have the capability to deter war and also to be capable to defend ourselves by ourselves. Sometimes the argument is about one item or two items, but basically the approach of the U.S. government is no change whatsoever in their readiness to translate it into deeds."

Rabin said that since he returned from a trip to Washington last week "this has been translated into deeds."

Soviets Criticize Ford

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union indirectly criticized President Ford for the first time Saturday, attacking him for announcing plans to visit South Korea.

The official Tass news agency said in a Washington dispatch that Ford's trip "will undoubtedly be a demonstration of support of the repressive policy pursued by the park Chung-hee government."

It was the first time since Ford succeeded former President Richard M. Nixon that the Soviets have singled him out personally for criticism.

Last month, Tass denounced the President's statement that the Soviet Union had three naval bases in the Indian Ocean but blamed Ford's advisers for misinforming him.

Tass quoted Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., as saying he doubted the expediency of the Ford visit to Seoul.

The Soviet press often publishes statements and selected criticism by prominent foreigners or newspapers to make a point or reflect the official view.

Mild Case Of Gas War

A few gas skirmishes have broken out in Michigan and Pennsylvania but widespread, all-out gas wars remain only a memory across most of the nation, a United Press International spot check showed Saturday.

Gasoline dealers dropped prices to a nostalgic 49.9 cents a gallon in Detroit and in Pittsburgh, Pa. where motorists lined up for blocks to get a crack at Rocco Minetti's gasoline.

Minetti's competitors allegedly tried to disrupt his business by using tactics like ordering $1 of gasoline and paying for it with a $100 bill.

Federal Energy Administrator John Sawhill said gasoline supplies were good enough that price wars have erupted among several service stations in Detroit, Tampa Fla., Denver, Colo., and north of Los Angeles.

Industry sources in Los Angeles disputed the report, a Florida dealers representative said there was no gas war "yet," and sources contacted in San Francisco and Minneapolis, Minn., said there were no price wars in their areas.

However, many industry sources across the country reported lower gas prices and better gas supplies.

"I can't call it a gas war yet," said Jim Miller, president of the Florida Allied Gasoline Dealers Assocition.

He said stations operated by Charter Oil Co. lowered prices and if the cheaper prices continue, "We could then see the majors starting to drop the price to meet the competition."

Charter Vice President John Fricke said the firm made some "very favorable crude oil purchases" that were passed on to consumers, but said he doubted "if it will continue at that level."

Beer Fest Begins

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — Mayor Georg Kronawitter tapped the first barrel of foaming beer Saturday to signal the beginning of this year's Oktoberfest which has turned into the world's biggest beer bust and fun festival since its inauguration 164 years ago.

Shouting the traditional "Ein Prosit der Gemuetlichkeit!" (Cheers, Your Health), Kronawitter's barrel tapping act was accompanied by a 12-gun salute.

Thousands of residents of the beer-brewing capital and visitors from many countries climbed atop chairs and tables to watch the ceremony.

Afterward, a brass band, clad in Bavarian costumes, blared the traditional "Bayrische Defilier Marsch (Bavarian Parade March), a tune dear to the hearts of Bavarians and for decades a must in any Oktoberfest opening ceremony.

Bvarian King Ludwig I, father of the "Mad King" Ludwig II, laid on the first Oktoberfest in 1810 to celebrate his marriage to Princess Therese of Sachsen-Hildburghausen.

TWO-STORY LIVING ROOM INVITES LEISURE

SMALL CABIN CONTAINS EXTRAS

By Gerry Bishop

A two-story living room with exposed beams is the unique feature of the "Sagamore," a rustic-appearing cabin which holds many surprises in comfort and convenience.

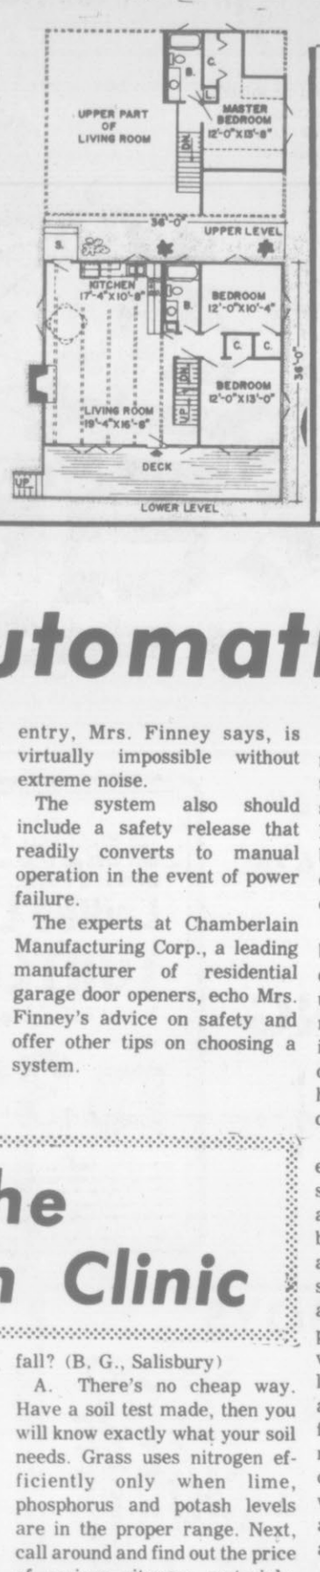

The living room opens directly from the front deck and is warmed and lighted in the evenings by a wood-burning fireplace, creating a charming atmosphere for a fishing or hunting cabin. The living space is open to a dining area and an L-shaped kitchen, designed for efficient cooking. Not hidden away from the living area of the home, the kitchen encourages informal dining and participation by all those enjoying the vacation.

Although the cabin is small in overall size - - about 1,300 square feet excluding the basement - - three bedrooms and two baths are cleverly placed within the home. The master bedroom is on the second level, ensuring privacy and a lovely view, and enjoys its own bath and large closet. A linen closet is placed next to the bath.

The second level is reached by a center hall staircase which opens on the lower level with access to the second bath, also accompanied by a linen closet.

The bedrooms on the lower level are nearly as large as the master bedroom and share the second bath.

To increase the livable space, a full basement is provided. Here can be found extra sleeping space for guests, recreation room or storage. The frame exterior and stone chimney provide an interesting exterior designed to blend into vacation surroundings.

Size: 1,008 sq. ft. first floor; 281 sq. ft. second floor; 1,008 sq. ft. basement.
Over-all dimensions: 36 ft. by 36 ft.

Safety In Automatic Systems

By DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — An automatic garage door opener: like the dishwasher, anyone can live without one —until he's had one.

Basically, the automatic opener does by remote control what the driver does for himself: opens the garage door, turns on the light, closes and locks the door, turns off the light.

The convenience and luxury of not having to get out of the car is obvious, particularly in these days of the mandatory seatbelt interlock which makes it harder than ever to climb in and out of an auto. No more struggling with a heavy door in all kinds of weather.

The safety features are an even stronger incentive.

As Marian Finney, home consultant for the NuTone Division of Scovill, points out, "Light is a powerful crime deterrent. With an automatic system you need never be in the dark from the time you enter your driveway until you're safely in your home. Light also eliminates the chance of stumbling over toys or whatever else is stored in the garage, before reaching the light switch."

With the automatic opener, you won't be tempted to leave the door open because you're in a hurry —an announcement to burglars that no one is at home. Because there is light in the garage before you get out of the car, there's less chance of a prowler lurking in wait.

Safety is a consideration, too, in buying an automatic garage door opener, Mrs. Finney stresses. "The first thing to look for is safety. There are certain features that are optional, others you simply should not do without. Safety is one of them."

Good systems, she said, should have built-in safeguards to prevent the disaster of a child or pet being crushed by a descending door. In an automatic stop system, the door stops immediately if it encounters an obstruction during the opening or closing cycle. When you activate the operator again, it realigns itself and reverses the door. With an automatic reverse system, when a door comes in contact with an obstruction, it reverses itself and returns to its original open position. This feature is particularly good, she said, where there are small children.

A good automatic system includes a positive security lock that automatically locks the door each time it is closed. It is designed to open only in response to the signal from your particular transmitter, an outside key-operated switch, or a pushbutton inside. Forced entry, Mrs. Finney says, is virtually impossible without extreme noise.

The system also should include a safety release that readily converts to manual operation in the event of power failure.

The experts at Chamberlain Manufacturing Corp., a leading manufacturer of residential garage door openers, echo Mrs. Finney's advice on safety and offer other tips on choosing a system.

"It is wise," they say, "to make careful examination of the existing manual door and spring system on your garage. Many homeowners mistakenly believe an automatic garage door opener will solve a variety of garage door ills.

"If the existing door has a bent track, for instance, or the door itself is warped or unbalanced, the automatic mechanism may be overloaded in opening the door. Automatic openers can do only what the homeowner does manually — only more efficiently."

It is suggested that in evaluating an opener you make sure both opener mechanism and remote controls are made by the same manufacturer as assurance the two independent systems will operate properly, and to simplify dealings if problems should arise. It is wise, too, to check to see if local installation and service is available either from the dealer from whom you purchase or the manufacturer. The opener and control should have the Underwriters' Laboratory seal of approval as with any electric appliance.

You should check that the system you choose is designed for your type of garage door. Some are meant for one-car, others for two-car garages. Design and operation of doors vary widely. Check drive mechanism of the opener. Some operate under the rotating screw principle, some use a chain-cable combination and others combine sprocket and roller chain. The last, Chamberlain says, is the most popular drive in the industry because it gives positive transmission of power for a variety of door sizes and weights and provides quieter operation, especially important in attached garages.

Finally, the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), a government regulatory agency, allots certain radio frequencies to communication devices, which include the portable remote control you operate from your car.

Some controls operate by VHF signals, others by UHF. Selection of the right signal frequency is important because other signals —among them airplane, police or emergency vehicle communication or even citizen's band radios —can interrupt or command the door mechanism to operate. Most of these signals operate on the VHF band, Chamberlain said, because it is the widest band the FCC has allotted. UHF therefore is most preferable, it says. Some automatic openers, it notes, have provision for locking out these unwanted signals.

Chosen with the same careful consideration as other home improvements an automatic opener can add comfort to living and value to your home.

N. C. State University Answers Timely Gardening Questions

Q. My muscadine grapes fall off the vine before they ripen. My neighbor tells me I need to spread lime around the vines. How much should I use? I notice also the grapes look rusty and the skin feels rough. (C. P., Greenville)

A. A soil test is the best way to tell if your grapes need lime. However, from the description you give the grapes are probably infected with a disease called powdery mildew. This fungus can be controlled by spraying with Benlate or similar fungicide every 10 days from just before bloom until two weeks prior to harvest. Start next spring. It's too late this year. (Joe Brooks, extension horticulturist)

Q. I never had whiteflies until two years ago. They started on eggplants, went to squash, and finally to tomatoes. How can I control them? (A.P., Chapel Hill)

A. Whiteflies are most difficult to control. Try malathion. If it doesn't work, try Cygon (dimethoate). Follow label directions. Scientists with the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station are trying to find a better control for whiteflies. Let's hope they are successful. (H. E. Scott, extension entomologist)

Q. With the price of nitrogen so high, what is the cheapest way to fertilize my lawn this fall? (B. G., Salisbury)

A. There's no cheap way. Have a soil test made, then you will know exactly what your soil needs. Grass uses nitrogen efficiently only when lime, phosphorus and potash levels are in the proper range. Next, call around and find out the price of various nitrogen materials. Then figure out which is cheaper per pound of elemental nitrogen. For example ammonium nitrate, is 33 per cent actual nitrogen. If it sells for $10 per 100 pound bag, the cost would be 30 cents per pound of nitrogen. Sodium nitrate is 16 per cent nitrogen. If a 100-pound bag sells for $7.50, the cost would be 46 cents per pound. (Carl Blake, extension agronomist)

Q. I ordered strawberry plants a few days ago and expect them to arrive any day. My problem is I haven't been able to prepare the soil. What can I do to keep the plants alive until I'm ready to plant them? (P. J., Conover)

A. You have two choices: (1) "heel" them in along the north side of a building and water frequently until you are ready to transplant, or (2) seal them in a plastic, air tight bag and place in the fresh vegetable (crisper) section of your refrigerator. Don't wet or add moisture. They should keep six weeks without any problems. (Joe Brooks, extension horticulturist)

REALTOR

BUYING VS RENTING

To buy or to rent — that is the question. Both have their place. First, renting can be the answer for families who know they'll only be in the area for a short time or who prefer not to contend with maintenance. It's also the only solution for anyone with insufficient funds for the down payment on a home.

The main disadvantage of renting is a financial one. As living costs rise — so do rents. A lease may protect you temporarily, but when it expires, the landlord is free to increase the rent — even under rent control when justified. Rent payment cannot be deducted from income tax as the homeowner can deduct real estate taxes and interest on the morigage payments.

Your best buffer against inflation is to own your own home. You'll also be pleasantly surprised to find it also is one of the best financial investments you ever made. Your payments will remain level while your resale value — especially in this area — will continue to rise.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

An important part of the popularity of aluminum in and around the house is that it is by nature a low maintenance material. But aluminum products do become dirty and require occasional cleaning.

Because harsh abrasives do more harm than good, the rule of thumb about cleaning aluminum is to use the least strong cleaner that will still do the job. The No. 1 choice, therefore, is water and, after that, water and mild soap.

Aluminum siding can be effectively cleaned with a long-handled brush, preferably the hollow-handled type often used for washing a car. If you make a practice of cleaning aluminum siding a couple of times a year, water alone will do the job. A garden hose will make it easy, but be sure the house windows and doors are closed tightly.

Aluminum screens should be washed once a year to keep them from building up a residue of air-borne dirt. Some persons find that the screens are easier to clean if they are sprayed with thinned screen lacquer. A coat of lacquer or wax is also excellent for keeping newly cleaned bare aluminum from turning gray. If you use wax and it yellows after a long period of time, it can be removed with a solvent before applying a new coat.

If you are using an abrasive of any kind on a textured or grainy surface that is especially dirty and cannot be cleaned in any other way, be certain to work only with the grain. And always test first on an inconspicuous spot to be sure you will be satisfied with the result.

Cleaners which are harmless to aluminum may damage other materials on contact. And in some cases, cleaners tolerated by some materials will discolor aluminum surfaces. This is another reason for making a spot test.

Before painting aluminum, never use a polish cleaner. These products leave a wax residue which will prevent the paint from adhering properly.

When using a cleaner on a surface that is not to be painted, be sure not to use more or less water than called for in the directions. Many persons think that if they use a stronger concentration, they will get better results. This is a dangerous practice with aluminum. As a matter of fact, it can produce unsatisfactory results with almost any kind of material. If the manufacturer recommends a specific solution of water and concentrated cleaner, follow his advise.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I am getting ready to buy some kind of stationary saw, but I can't make up my mind whether to get a bench saw or a radial arm saw. Which is better?

A. — Woodworkers have conflicting opinions about this. Each saw handles the same kind of work in a slightly different way. With a bench saw, the lumber is pushed into the blade, which cuts the wood from below. With a radial arm saw, the saw is moved across the lumber, which is held in place while the blade cuts from above the wood. The radial arm saw usually costs a bit more than a bench saw of comparable size and quality, but it is preferred by those who don't like the idea of pushing lumber across a table. Isn't it possible for you to try out both types of saws, either in the homes of friends who have them or in one of those woodworking shops which permit the tools to be used for a certain period of time at a set fee?

Q. — I'm planning on building an extra room that will be used for rehearsals for a group of teen-age musicians. I intend to use soundproof ceiling tiles. The walls will be of 'gypsum board. Would it add soundproofing to the room to use a double wall of such material?

A. — Yes. But you would accomplish the same result with a single wall plus floor-to-ceiling drapes of an absorbent material. And it would be a lot less work.

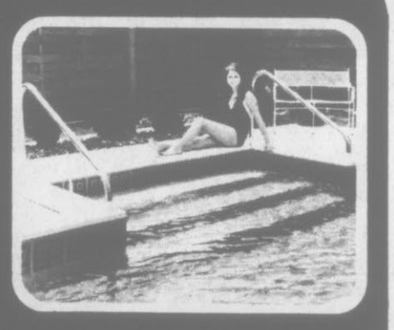

Q. — We're getting new window screens soon. How do I keep the mesh from getting rusty?

A. — These days, most new screens come in rust-proof materials. For a slight extra cost, such screens will prevent headaches about future rusting.

Scenic River Rapids Offer Rugged Death Trap

By WILLIAM STRACENER

CLAYTON, Ga. (UPI) — Deceptively beautiful, the whitewater rapids at Woodall Shoals are death lures for unknowing thrill seekers riding the wild Chattooga River in rafts, kayaks and canoes.

The rapids are part of a six-mile stretch rated by experts as one of the most hazardous whitewater runs in the United States. Of the six people who have died on the river popularized by the book and movie "Deliverance," three have lost their lives at the shoals.

Its attraction is its beauty and remoteness. Nestled among typical Appalachian hardwood varieties of oak, hickory and poplar, the shoals will never be seen by a casual motorist unless he discovers the logging road to the pool at the base of the rapids.

The danger is a "hydraulic" or souse hole on the first drop, made even more treacherous when the water level rises over 1.7 feet. Dr. Claude Terry, an Emory University microbiologist and a seasoned veteran of the river, says the hole ensnares rafts, sometimes ripping them apart. Writing in Brown's Guide to Georgia, Terry says he has seen several rafts trapped in the hole from five to 30 minutes.

"If you insist on trying the drop," writes Terry, "stay far left in the strong tongue dropping to the 'notch' in the rapid and paddle like hell at the bottom. The hydraulic will pull boats (and people) back up into the hole from 10 to 15 feet downstream."

The danger of Woodall Shoals and other rapids on the river, the other deaths and untold number of injuries and the crush of novice "river rats" seeking excitement have caused the U. S. Forest Service, which has jurisdiction over most of the river, to prepare tough restrictions to preserve the safety of the adventurers and the primitive nature of the river.

The Chattooga is the only river system east of the Mississippi with Class VI rapids, the highest and most dangerous rating for whitewater. Beginning at the crest of the Blue Ridge Mountains near Cashiers, N. C., the river winds southward for 50 miles, forming part of the border of Georgia and South Carolina in an area once the exclusive domain of the Cherokees. The waters drop an average of 49 feet per mile before emptying into Tugaloo Lake.

The river is a bounty of scenic waterfalls and cascades, treacherous rapids and dramatic geological formations. Trout and redeye bass roam the upper portions. There are short stretches where water movement hardly can be detected and places such as the Narrows, a three-or four-foot opening through which a torrent of water rushes.

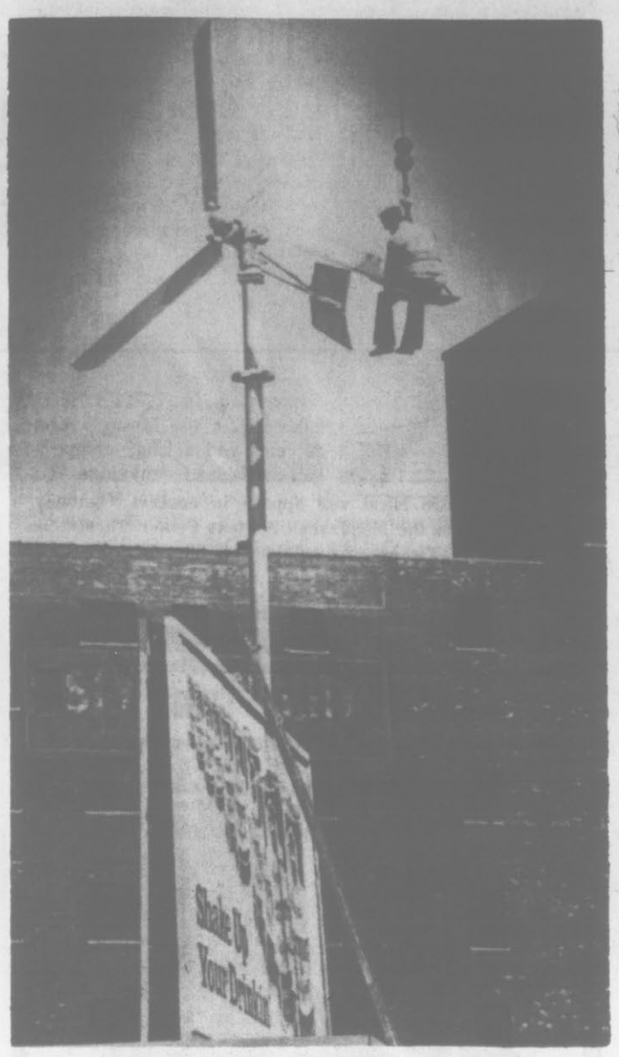

There are the beautiful Rock Gardens; Bull Sluice, dangerous to canoeists because of its 10-foot-high falls; Eye of the Needle; Roller Coaster, a series of large waves which Terry thinks is the best ride on the river; Jawbone; Sock'em Dog; Raven Rock; and picturesque Five Finger Falls.

The Forest Service wants life jackets and helmets required equipment on the rapids, a mandatory minimum of two boats and two people to prevent solo trips down the river and the U. S. Coast Guard's or manufacturer's recommendations followed as to boat capacity. Under the proposed new rules, a violation could result in a $500 fine or six months in jail.

Congress added the Chattooga to the National Wild and Scenic Rivers Act of 1968 in May, preserving the dense forests and relatively undeveloped shorelines from commercial development and preventing the river from being used to harness hydroelectric power.

But federal funds have not been appropriated to develop the Forest Service proposals for maintaining the river.

R. A. Harper, recreation and unit planning staff officer in the Forest Service's office at Gainesville, said some work is being done. Several logging roads have been closed to control access and eliminate or at least reduce erosion into the river. Rangers are checking access points to make sure individuals and members of relatively new raft tour groups are attired with proper safety equipment.

Pear-Shaped Will Go Far

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

LONDON (AP) — If you have a shape like a pear, don't let it bother you too much. You are more likely to succeed in life than most people.

At least, that is the noncaloric observation set forth in an article in "The Director" magazine, a journal of the British Institute of Directors.

Some of the pear-shaped people who have reached the top, says the article, are Napoleon, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the late president of France, and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, also Wilson's predecessor as prime minister and now British opposition leader, Edward Heath.

The article was written by John Byrne, managing director of a glass manufacturing firm, who noted that many pear-shaped people showed the qualities of intelligence and leadership.

The successful type, says the article, has the rather narrow shoulders and elongated limbs of the lean type, and the wide hips and somewhat pudgy chest and belly of the fat type.

In exaggerated form, the successful shape "is like a pear or an inverted top," says the magazine. It is also known as the "Burgundy bottle" look.

General de Gaulle was a good example of man so clearly pear-shaped that even a military cloak did not hide it, the article says.

And, it went on, Napoleon was very small and clearly pear-shaped.

Harold Wilson falls into the category also, says Byrne, adding that cartoonists always capture his pear-shape when they draw him.

As for Edward Heath, Byrne says he conceals his figure nicely when wearing conventional suits but illustrates the pear type pretty well when in his sailing outfit.

Leisurely Strolling Emphasized For Sept. 29 Historic Hamilton Tour

On Sunday, September 29, beginning at 2 p.m. and lasting until 6 p.m., the town of Hamilton on the Roanoke will celebrate the bicentennial of Martin County. A tour of historic sites, buildings and homes will highlight the anniversary commemoration.

Hamilton, incorporated in 1804, is joining in the festivities by an emphasis on its own history. The tour begins in the Darden Hotel in the center of the town. Currently under restoration, the hotel dates from about 1830 and is a classic Greek Revival structure of two stories.

At the visitor center in the Darden Hotel, there will be a temporary exhibit of period pieces of furniture, a showing of photographs of contemporary Hamilton; and next door, at the Town Hall, a country-bluegrass band will provide musical entertainment. Tour maps will be available with points of interest noted.

Among buildings in Hamilton and nearby open to the public are the Sherrod Grove plantation house, built about 1810 in the Federal style; the Hickory Grove plantation house dating before 1840; and the antebellum Waldo-Haislip House.

Homes of the last half of the 19th century on the tour include the Waldo-House, the Salsbury-Etheridge, and the Long-Haislip houses. Of particular interest is St. Martin's Episcopal Church, an example of Victorianized Gothic church architecture of the 1860's.

In an open grassy plot across from the Darden Hote, visitors can see three Civil War cannon and a cannon carriage. These were salvaged a couple of years ago from the Roanoke River near Ft. Branch.

Ft. Branch, located about four miles out of town (in the direction of Williamston) is a well preserved example of an earth works fort. A foot bridge gives easy access, and foot trails make viewing easy.

Also on the tour itinerary will be the two Hamilton cemeteries, the older Methodist Church Cemetery and the 19th -20th century Cemetery which features a central gazebo.

Because of its small size and its open rural beauty, it is suggested persons making the tour plan to see Hamilton by walking. This will provide an opportunity to view the natural charm of old trees, big lawns, open lots of wild flowers, and home gardens.

Automobiles will be needed to reach Sherrod Grove plantation, Hickory Grove and Fort Branch. Camera fans are urged to bring their cameras along.

The public is invited to attend. There is no charge made for the tour. A large number of Hamilton's citizens will help in directing the event, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry S. Johnson, Jr. The anniversary tour is sponsored by the Historic Darden Hotel Foundation, whose representatives will guide tours of the building. Light refreshments will be served to visitors.

Paul Gerni To Demonstrate Pocket Billiards At ECU

Pocket billiards professional Paul Gerni will give two promotional demonstrations at East Carolina University's Mendenhall Student Center Tuesday, Sept. 24.

Scheduled for the Center's multi-purpose room, Gerni's ECU appearance will consist of two trick shot exhibitions, at 4 p.m. and at 8 p.m. No admission will be charged to persons wishing to attend.

The 25-year-old Gerni has been a professional since 1970. He previously won the Indiana Championship at the age of 16 and was a finalist in the 1970 National Amateur tournament. The son of a minister, Gerni began his billiards practice in the recreational room of his father's church.

Gerni believes that a great revival of interest in pocket billiards has begun to reach people of all ages and backgrounds, rather than just the "slick-talking hustlers" and "knuckle breakers in the back alley."

He says his aim is to give the game "an image completely different from the atmosphere of the old-time pool hall."

Gerni has performed his exhibition shots in shopping malls, sports shows, colleges and other locations throughout the nation. He has also appeared on the Merv Griffin show and other television talk shows and has organized several major tournaments.

His high run (consecutive ball pocketed) is 152 for exhibition and 108 for tournament competition.

Takeichiro Hirai To Perform Thursday

World renowned cellist Takeichiro Hirai will perform at East Carolina University Thursday, at 8 p.m. in the Mendenhall Student Center Theatre.

Tickets for the concert are now on sale in the ECU Central Ticket Office. Since the Hirai performance is an added attraction to the 1974-75 ECU Artists Series, the regular season ticket does not cover this event.

A native of Tokyo, Hirai began his early studies under his father, noted Japanese composer Kozaburo Hirai. Takeichiro Hirai himself is a prolific composer, with more than 100 compositions to his credit before he reached 13 years old.

Hirai studied with Hideo Saito, a pupil of Feuermann at the Toho Conservatory of Music in Tokyo, and at the recommendation of Gregor Piatigorsky, he later studied with Pablo Casals.

With the statement, "I have taught him all I know," Pablo Casals travelled to Japan and conducted six cello concertos for his brilliant disciple. The Paris press quoted Maestro Casals in this tribute to Hirai:

"Takeichiro Hirai is a great promise for music. He possesses great talent and I predict for him a brilliant future. He will be my successor."

Since then Hirai has performed as soloist with leading orchestras in Asia, Eastern Europe and America.

His accompanist for the ECU appearance is his brother, pianist Takejiro Hirai, who holds a Doctor of Musical Arts degree from the Juilliard School and made his own successful New York debut at Alice Tully Hall last year.

Cellist Takeichiro Hirai will appear in concert Thursday, September 26 in the Mendenhall Student Center Theater on campus at ECU. Tickets are available at $2.50 each.

Anyone interested in auditions for a solo or choral part is urged to telephone Dr. Hiss at 752-4687 for an appointment on either of the two audition dates.

Alcoholism Featured Today

Today's "Hospitality House," Kay Currie's hour long program over WITN-TV, Channel 7 from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., will be a show of broad local interest.

According to Miss Currie, the entire program is being devoted to the subject of alcoholism, how it affects the individual, the family and society.

Guests appearing on the show today are Wade Williams, Eastern Regional Alcholism Director; Lee Walton, Alcoholism Services Coordinator; and Perry Hammonds, Director of Family Enrichment Services. Both the latter two men are with the Tideland Mental Health Center in Washington which serves a five county region, including Pitt County.

Also, for the first time, a feature film on alcoholism, "America On The Rocks," will be shown during the "Hospitality House" hour.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By LINDA M. STANCILL

James Michner's latest novel, CENTENNIAL, deals with the North American west, especially Colorado, from prehistory to the present. Based solidly on the facts of history, it's an illuminating account of the development of this country and of the immigrants from many nations who came to the west and drove the Indians out. It is a story of people involved in dramatic events and conflicts: Indians, trappers, adventurers, explorers, gold-seekers, ranchers, cowboys, homesteaders, farmers, hunters, speculators. One of the main characters is the heroric Arapaho, Lame Beaver, whose tribe had never seen a white skin until Lame Beaver, encounters Pasquinel, a French trader-trapper who adds Lame Beaver's daughter to his numerous wives and produces half-breed sons who harass the imigrants moving west along the Oregon Trail. Other notable characters are Levi and Elly Zendt, who start their perilous journey in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, and Oliver Seccombe, the Englishman who puts together a ranch of over 5,000,000 acres. Huge herds of cattle are driven west and north by intrepid cowboys to stock the huge enterprise. With the first cattle drive comes Jim Lloyd, a Texas boy who stays in Colorado and prospers. Other characters include Frank Skimmerborn, the Indian hater; Mervin Wendell, actor and confidence man turned real-estate operator; "Potato" Brumbaugh, the German from Russia, who learns how to make the land fruitful; Messmore Garrett, who dares to invade cattle country with sheep; the Grebe family, who struggle to tame the drylands. These are a few of the memorable characters, most of whom are in some way related to the man who dominates the final section, Paul Garrett, rancher and ecologist. The narrative ends with Garrett and other thoughtful men trying to find ways to repair the damage done to their land by the headlong industriousness of their predecessors.

Powerful men attempt to manipulate the silver market and each other in Paul Erdman's THE SILVER BEARS. Author of the international best seller, THE BILLION DOLLAR SURE THING, Erdman has writtten a gripping novel of intrigue that involves a bank founded by the Mafia in Switzerland, an ancient silver mine rediscovered in Iran, the bullion smugglers of Dubai on the Persian Gulf and a billionaire American speculator living in England. With excitement and humor, Erdman, an expert on the money markets of the world, takes his novel through the twists and turns of a complex plot to make a huge fortune in silver. His story goes from the empire of the Firdausi family in Iran to a fantastic international party in Italy, teaming up an elegant Italian prince with a clever and dangerous member of a prominent Mafia family. THE SILVER BEARS convinces the reader that such a scheme to rig the world's silver market could actually happen.

Library Films

A change in show-time for one of the showing sites of children's film has been announced by Mrs. Kay Taylor. Beginning this week, the films will be shown at the Children's Library, basement of Sheppard Memorial Library, at 7 p.m. each Thursday instead of at 4 p.m.

Show times at Carver remain at 4 p.m. Tuesday and at East Branch at 4 p.m. Friday.

Two films are scheduled for the coming week. These are:

—Ranch Girl, a 16 minute color film about the way of life of a teen-aged girl on a modern ranch in Wyoming; and —Of Cats and Men, a Disney film, 13 minutes, in color. The movie is an animated history of the domesticated cat.

There is no admission charge and elementary age school children are invited to attend one of these showings.

A Review

No Spirit Captured In Volume of Poems

Some Rhymes of a Rolling Stone, by Andrew Pelham Lane. Philadelphia, Dorrance and Company, 1973. $3.95. (Contemporary poets of Dorrance series.)

This new collection of poetry is supposed to capture the spirit of modern man the wanderer. It is true that the author himself has traveled extensively, first for his British military service, later on his own in Canada and the U. S. He became a U. S. citizen in 1964 and recently settled in Wilson, N. C.

Unfortunately his poetry fails to benefit from all this experience and captures no spirit at all. The ideas are not original and the use of words is inept.

John Crowe Ransome has said of writing poetry, "I begin with a fury against the abstract." He would be furious with Some Rhymes. Its poems are like "Birth of Spring" which Mr. Lane wrote from Wilson:

Mother Nature sounds her joy
Over Spring, her newborn boy
Bursting out of Winter's strife
Comes vibrant Spring—and zest for life!

Does the reader feel a Carolina spring? Hardly.

How shocked can we be by a whore "far gone in sin" ("Tale of a Golden Alligator Skin")? Perhaps mention of the word "whore" is supposed to be shocking enough.

Apparently someone has told Mr. Lane that poetry, in order to be poetic, must use lofty poetic terms and must rhyme. He therefore writes with a plentitude of "Oft," "o'er," " 'twas," "sylvan shade," and yes, "Mother Nature." Who could fool her? A simile unhinges him. He declares that southern heat makes a person sweat "as like a heavy, stifling blanket." ("Southern Heat")

Rhyme seems to be the author's only sensitivity to sound and his obsession. He chooses words not as organic parts of the poem but in order to fill out the rhyme. Naturally this disrupts the sense of the poem.

Farewell, green hills, how oft I've climbed you!
How oft in cities I have missed you!
This cold clear wind; this winter sun;
Even the furtive snake, who sleeps, are one
In warmth of summer, when days are long.
It's here that I belong.
("Farewell to Mount Tampalpais in Winter")

The poems, because of the poor word choice, become verbose, lumbering, repetitive.

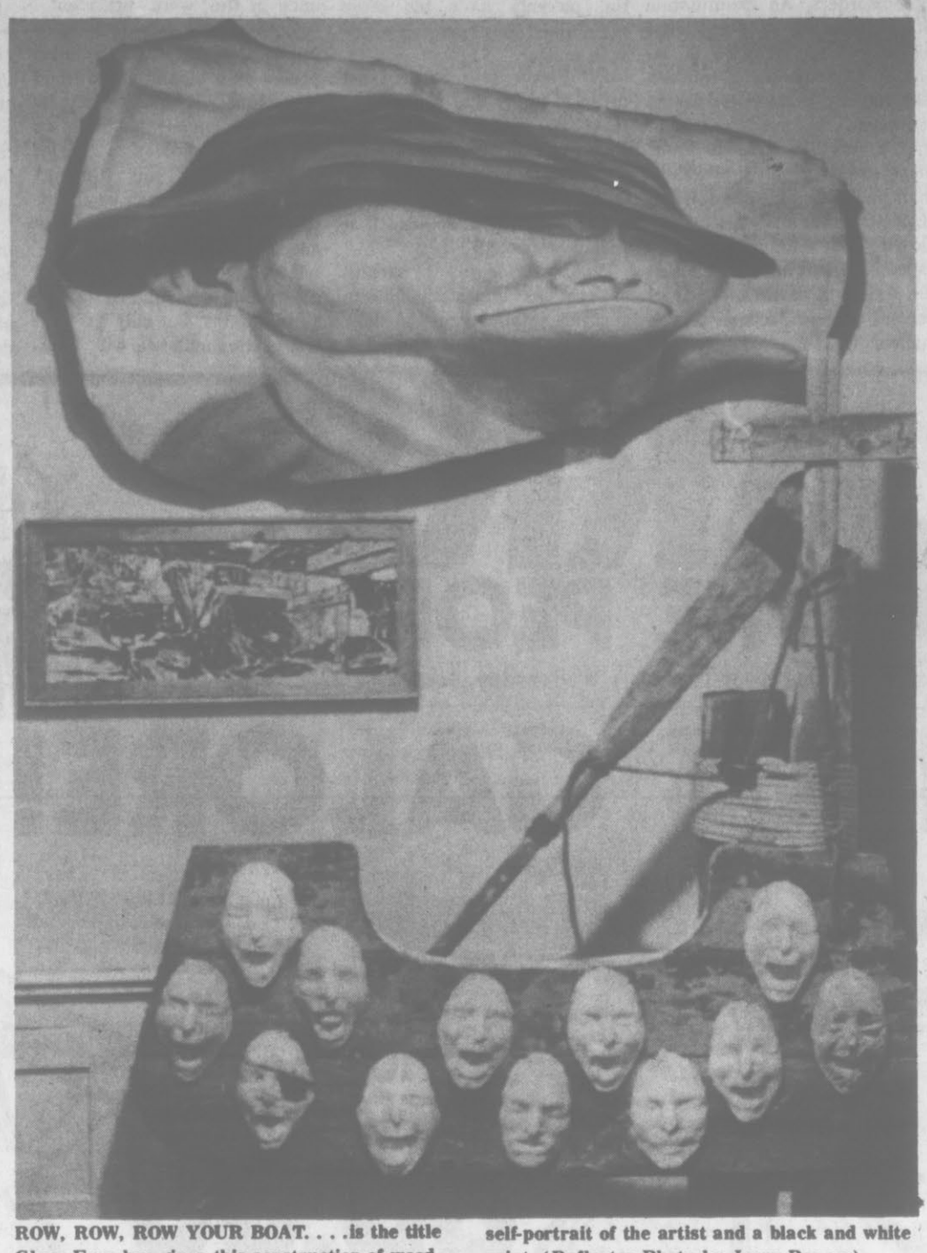

The ideas on which the poems are based include a rolling stone gathers no moss, life's a stage, nightmares are awful, spring is lovely, and old age brings disillusionment. If there is not boring enough in itself, the respective poems repeat their ideas, and repeat them, and repeat them. There is little development but lots of space to fill in.

The title poem, concerning the rolling stone, informs us that a rolling stone like the author gathers no moss as do trees and most people in nearly every stanza. To be different, the author sometimes describes the rolling stones in one stanza and the still ones in the next.

The examples quoted above show Lane's use of exclamation points and italicized words. They are sprinkled liberally throughout the book to compensate for poor word order, poor word choice, and no use of rhythm.

The rhythm of "Birth of Spring" is basically the rhythm of the whole collection. It becomes monotonous. Mr. Lane is very fond of the couplet. That becomes monotonous too.

This year's Art Center opener is a big show from the hands of a professional military man who turned to art full time after a 1970 retirement.

U.S. Army (Retired) Major Glenn Eure, now a senior at the School of Art, East Carolina University, is exhibiting about 70 works—mostly prints and paintings, with a couple of pieces of sculpture and one or two constructed pieces.

"Most of my art relates to things I've seen and experienced since my military days," the Honolulu, Hawaii native said about his art. And for an Army man, Glenn's favorite subject matter is a bit of a turn-about from what might be expected—nautical themes and subjects form a big share of his subject matter.

"I like anything to do with the sea," Glenn said. "I thoroughly enjoyed the work I did for the past two summers on the Outer Banks." He explained that he took part there both summers in the Resident Arts in The Park program, a sort of holiday outdoor art school of which Glenn was one of several ECU students participating.

"There was always the unexpected coming up," he said. "For instance, one man this summer caught a 600 pound blue marlin. He asked us to make fish prints. This we did by applying a coat of acrylic paints to the fish and taking prints on big sheets of paper. We made several prints and I understand the man was going to use the prints as wallpaper."

On one wall (the show covers the three south galleries of the center) is a series of black and white prints made by a combination technique of using natural grains of wood plus areas carved by Glenn. This results in woodblock prints that are in part natural prints from nature and in part traditional style woodblock cuts.

"This is my Lighthouse series," Glenn said, "All the wood from which the prints were made are pieces of driftwood I found. You could say this is totally a driftwood series."

This is Glenn's first one-man show. "However," he pointed out, "my work is being handled by three galleries on the Outer Banks, one in Manteo and two at Nags Head."

Although Glenn had a late start in formal art training, he has long had an abiding interest in art. "Before my retirement, I belonged to the Fayetteville Art Guild and was vice-president of the Pope-Bragg (Pope Air Force Base and Ft Bragg) Art Association. For years, I've been dreaming of the day I'd have time to get into art."

In 23 years of service, Glenn spent considerable time on tours in the Far East, including two tours in South Vietnam. His first tour was in 1963-64 and he returned for a second tour in 1966-67.

"During my second tour, I worked with the Australians, as a battery commander in an Australian Artillery Regiment."

The father of four children, he takes pride in the fact "that my oldest daughter is going into the Army in a couple of days. I feel she's making a good choice. For me it was a good life."

Glenn's show reveals an artist with tremendous energy, a Johnny-come-lately student who is experimenting with a wide range of techniques—some more successful than others. It will have particular appeal to all who find pleasure in art derived from North Carolina's coastal scenery.

The Glenn Eure show can be seen daily from 9 a.m. to noon and from 2 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The Art Center is closed on Sundays except on Sundays when 3 to 5 p.m. receptions are held for new shows going up.

Art Membership Drive Underway

The annual drive to gain new members for the East Carolina Art Society is now underway as the new 1974-75 art season begins in Greenville.

Membership fees is one of the primary sources of funds for operating and maintaining the Greenville Art Center and its multiple activities. Other sources are annual contributions by the governments of the City of Greenville and Pitt County, profits from commissions on gallery sales, and profits realized at the annual Sidewalk Art Show.

Membership fees are currently designated in five basic categories — individual membership, $10; family membership, $15; donor membership, $25; benefactor membership, $50; and sponsor membership, $100. These amounts represent annual membership fees.

Privileges attendant on membership in the East Carolina Art Society include those of attending the annual dinner business meeting and voting for all officers and trustees of the society; advance notice of exhibitions, receptions, and special events through receipt of a monthly newsletter; an invitation to the annual fine arts ball; a ten per cent discount on all gallery sales; and the satisfaction of supporting a cultural activity in Greenville.

Each year the Greenville Art Center is open from September through June.

Traditionally, an annual sidewalk art show is held on the first Saturday in May. Changing shows each season bring to public attention the work of local, state and national artists, and also annual exhibitions of children's art by students from the city and county schools.

Anyone interested in supporting the Greenville Art Center by becoming a member of the East Carolina Art Society is urged to contact Mrs. Edith Walker, director of the Greenville Art Center, telephone 758-1946, or to visit Mrs. Walker at the center.

Illness Often Marked Great U.S. Presidents

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Were the best presidents of the United States the sickest ones?

"Not necessarily," says Dr. Milton Plesur, professor of history at the State University of New York at Buffalo.

But, he points out, of the 11 "great" and "near great" U.S. presidents listed by the 1962 Schlesinger poll, eight had illnesses which affected their performance in office, and six died before their statistical life expectancy.

Dr. Plesur, who bases his conclusions on his research for a recently published book, "The Presidency Reappraised," believes that "although presidents are not 'great' because they are sick, illness tends to elevate the president in the eyes of historians."

Illness has been prevalent among the presidents of this century, he notes, but the "most arresting medical story" is that of Franklin D. Roosevelt. He was plagued all his life with a sensitive respiratory tract, contracted polio at age 39 and it was rumored that he might have suffered several minor strokes in 1938.

"Despite the fact that the President was suffering from hypertension and fatigue, according to his last physician, he was able to perform his duties," adds Dr. Plesur, who feels that Roosevelt's "optimism in the face of severe economic depression and during the war years might have been due, in part, to his personal experiences in overcoming an illness that would have defeated a lesser man. Roosevelt was obviously ill, and this was known by many even before his return from Yalta."

However, asserts Dr. Plesur, the White House physicians insisted that Roosevelt was not even sick in 1944, and that the fatal stroke in 1945 was unforeseeable. "Roosevelt's case history raised many questions and highlighted the problem of presidential health," he observes.

And linked to presidential health is the problem of disclosure, the history professor points out. "When does a physician's responsibility to the community supercede the traditional patient-physician relationship?" he asks.

Would Franklin D. Roosevelt have acted differently at Yalta if he had been completely well? If Woodrow Wilson had not suffered from the after-effects of a post-stroke syndrome, would he have compromised during the League of Nations debate?

"The course of history is irrevocably linked with presidential disorders. An examination of the number of presidents who have been seriously ill, including at least six of thirteen 20th-century presidents, seems to uphold the public's feeling that it has the right to know more about presidential health than political bosses and White House physicians have disclosed," he continues. "This is especially true in an age when the future of civilization could depend upon a decision to use nuclear weapons. White House physicians and their presidential patients have too often maintained that health is a private matter."

Dr. Plesur says he does not mean to imply that a president must be in perfect physical condition. The leader is elected "for his ability to deal with the issues. If the president is in reasonably good health, that should be enough.

"Intimate details of health are not as important as the general implications of how that health problem might affect an individual's performance if he were president," says the author, who feels these implications ought to be interpreted by a bipartisan panel of physicians. He suggests one way to implement this might be to give candidates a health checkup, with any findings which the panel feels would affect the candidate's performance in office made public.

Poor health, by itself, should not be the determining factor, he maintains, but only as "one test of a candidate's will, ability to make decisions, initiative and determination, rather than a formative force." However, he notes, it would seem that "sickness and even a personal struggle to avert death enhance a person's strength of character and hence he becomes a better president, as in Roosevelt's case."

Dr. Plesur believes that, in the future, political parties should pay closer attention to the No. 2 spot and to the health of the vice presidential candidate.

Self-Renewal At Grassroots

By KENNETH FRANCKLING

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — Stirred by the feeling that government has dragged its feet for too long on urban renewal, residents are breathing new life into the once-congested and picturesque neighborhood that serves as the center of the city's Italo-American culture.

"Un pezzetto del colletto" —a piece of the hill —is the intangible offered by New Homes for Federal Hill Inc. for $2 a share in a model program of self-renewal.

The grassroots effort which started last fall has a simple goal of building and selling houses one at a time, so people will stay in the neighborhood instead of heading for the suburbs and creating more urban blight. Ground breaking for the first house was held in early September.

Each individual is limited to one share and one vote in the corporation because the founders want to spread the control as broadly as possible and avoid domination by a few wealthy backers. Donations beyond the initial $2 will be accepted, they pointed out, and are tax-deductible.

"It's up to us now. Nobody is going to renew Federal Hill for us," says Louis Viti, co-chairman and a moving force behind the effort. "It's the people who live here and who care about Federal Hill that are going to do it."

The effort to revitalize the old and honored section of the city —dominated by one and two family homes where beautiful backyard gardens once cultivated by frugal Italian workers are now rare —has attracted about 1,500 shareholders.

Each participant in the non-profit corporation receives a share certificate, but gets no cash dividends.

The group sought to raise $5,000 to obtain a construction loan on the first home it is building and selling on one of 14 vacant lots in the neighborhood.

It got an assist earlier this year when the National Center for Urban Ethnic Affairs in Washington, D.C., agreed to match all funds raised locally, up to a $2,500 total.

People wishing to stay in Federal Hill rather than opt for the suburbs also can go to the corporation for help in arranging financing if they desire to buy and build themselves.

"A share in new homes for Federal Hill is much more than a $2 donation, but a sign of faith in our community and its future," said Rev. Decimo Crevani, associate pastor at Holy Ghost Church where the group meets.

"When you hang that share on your wall, you really can say you own a piece of the hill —'un pezzetto del colletto."

East Carolina Upends East Tennessee

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University pushed over 17 first half points and eased its way to a 24-8 victory over East Tennessee State University last night.

The win was the second of the year for the Pirates, who were beating the ETSU Buccaneers for the first time in six games. They had lost four and tied one in the past.

The Pirates rolled up 418 yards in total offense in the game, 344 of that on the ground. But they allowed East Tennessee to pick up 279, including 245 on the ground, mostly in the second half against the second unit.

Mike Myrick scored two of the Pirate touchdowns, both on one yard plunges. The other touchdown was a 37-yard pass from quarterback Mike Weaver to Theodore Ashford.

Jim Woody added the PAT kicks and a 45-yard field goal. The three-pointer was Woody's 10th in his career, breaking the old ECU record first established by Ricky McLester.

The lone East Tennessee touchdown came on a halfback pass from Pierre Harshaw to Bo Howard with 35 seconds left in the game. Bobby Neff passed to Bill Perry for the two-point conversion.

East Carolina got the kickoff and drove 80 yards downfield for their first touchdown as the game got underway. Weaver picked up 12 yards for the first big play, to the ECU 45, then hit Benny Gibson with a 22-yard pass to the ETSU 33. In three to seven yard bursts, the Bucs moved it downfield with Don Schink, Myrick and Ken Strayhorn carrying the ball. Then, on third down, from the one, Myrick cracked up the middle for the score with 8:08 left in the period. Woody added the conversion for the 7-0 lead.

A 15-yard penalty helped stop the Bucs on their second possession, at midfield, but on their third, they drove again, this time from the East Tennessee 47, following a 12-yard punt return by Jim Bolding. Weaver hit Vic Wilfore for 15 yards to start it, then ran for 11 more to the 19. Short yardage on the next five plays put it at the two, but as Schink hit into the line, he fumbled, and East Tennessee's Benny Denton recovered, killing the drive.

Late in the half, the Bucs got the ball back following a punt on their own seven, and moved for their second touchdown, this time with Tom Chipok at the helm. He helped things along by sprinting around the right side from his own 13 all the way to the East Tennessee 26, a 61-yard run, before he was finally pulled down. After Schink got three, Chipok carried twice for 12 yards to the nine. Schick got two more, then Myrick picked up six to the one. He cracked over right tackle on the next play for his second score, and Woody's boot made it 14-0 with 3:58 to go.

The Bucs got it back after a punt on their own 44. Jimmy Howe pushed it 10 yards to the ETSU 46, but the Pirates appeared to be halted at the 44 where it was fourth and eight. But a fake punt was perfectly worked, with Kent Williford racing 16 yards for a first down at the 28. From there, with three seconds left, Woody went for a 45-yard field goal that just cleared the crossbar to make it 17-0 at the half.

East Tennessee, which hadn't crossed the 50 in the first half, got moving in the second, using the pitchout to its best advantage. A 32-yard run by Bob Hardy pushed the ball to the East Carolina 25, but the Pirates dug in and halted the Bucs and a 35-yard field goal attempt hit the crossbar and fell back.

After an exchange of kicks, the Bucs got it on their own 36, and drove for their final touchdown.

Raymond Jones rushed for 14 yards, then got five more to cross the center of the field. Tom Daub hit it down to the 37, and from there, Weaver tossed the bomb to Ashford, who pulled in the pass as he stepped into the end zone right between two defenders.

Woody again kicked, and with 5:30 left in the third period, the Bucs were up 24-0.

But as the younger players filtered onto the field, the momentum began to swing toward East Tennessee.

East Carolina got off an early fourth quarter threat, however, driving from their 42 to the ETSU 36 before having a halfback pass intercepted.

From there, the Bucs drove down field against the Pirates, and nearly cracked the ice. They were helped along by a 51-yard burst by Hardy, from the ETSU 27 to the Pirate 22. But the drive fell by the way as the "Wild Dogs" came back on the field and stopped them on fourth down.

East Tennessee again crossed midfield, but only by a pair of yards on its next possession and was forced to kick.

But as time ticked away (unseen by the fans—the scoreboard was broken throughout the game), the Buccaneers finally got their scoring drive underway.

From their own 25, they went 75 yards in seven plays. Nat Cherry picked up nine on the first play, and after a first down at the 36, George Fugate took a pitchout down to the ECU 42, a 22-yard gain. Quarterback Gary Jennings kept for four yards, then hit Howard for 20 to the 18.

From there, with 35 seconds left, the halfback pass by Harshaw was pulled in by Howard in the back of the end zone, just dragging his feet in bounds for the score.

On the extra point, kicker Neff picked up the snap and flipped the ball to Perry for the two-pointer, closing out the scoring.

Hardy led the ETSU rushing with 130 yards, while Fugate had 66.

The Pirates were led by Chipok with 77, while Weaver had 62 and Strayhorn had 61. Again, the Bucs used a lot of backs, with 10 carrying the ball. Weaver also hit three of six passes for 74 yards.

Now 2-0, and riding a five-game winning streak, the Pirates will be home for the third straight week Saturday, entertaining Southern Illinois in Ficklen Stadium.

Duke Defeats South Carolina

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Larry Martinez scored three touchdowns, and he gained 196 yards on 36 carries, to lead underdog Duke to stunning 20-14 football victory over South Carolina Saturday night.

The Duke Blue Devils of the Atlantic Coast Conference ripped apart South Carolina in the last two periods to overcome a 14-7 halftime deficit.

It was Martinez time after time who got the critical yardage as Duke, staying almost exclusively with its devastating ground game, handed the independent Gamecocks their second consecutive defeat.

It made no difference whether it was inside or outside, Martinez always found running room. When he got a breather, which wasn't often, it was fullback Mike Bomgardner who ripped through the porous South Carolina defense.

The Gamecocks showed some offensive flashes in the first half but could only muster one threat in the final two quarters.

Duke took the opening kickoff and rolled 83 yards in 12 plays for a touchdown. Martinez carried seven of those times, gained 50 yards, including the last one.

South Carolina struck back with a 65-yard drive as Jay Lynn Hodgin and Tom Amrein chewed up big chunks of yardage. Amrein did the touchdown honors on a three-yard plunge. Hodgin was the offensive weapon for the Gamecocks with 104 yards in 10 carries.

South Carolina got its second touchdown on a four-yard run by Andy LeHeup.

From then on it was Duke all the way. First, it was Martinez scoring for eight yards out, and then Martinez again from two yards away.

Cubs Shellac St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Steve Swisher belted his first major league grand slam home run and Tom Dettore scattered six hits, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 19-4 romp over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

The Cubs' 18-hit assault, which included a three-run homer by Jose Cardenal, produced the highest run total of the season against the Cards, who used six pitchers.

Despite the defeat, second-place St. Louis remained one-half game ahead of Pittsburgh in the National League East race. The Pirates were beaten 4-2 by the New York Mets.

Dettore, 3-4, also chipped in a two-run single to a six-run Cubs explosion in the third inning.

Jim Tyrone's single led off the Cubs' decisive third against Claude Osteen, 9-11, and the Cardinal left-hander was lifted after Bill Madlock singled with one out.

Ray Bare relieved and worked the count to 3-2 on Cardenal, who pounded the next delivery off the top of the left-field wall for a three-run homer.

Chicago added an unearned run for a 7-0 lead in the fourth, then boosted its lead to 12-0 in the sixth when the Cards' Barry Lersch walked four straight batters and Swisher followed with his grand slam to left.

The Cards, absorbing their third defeat in four games, finally broke through against Dettore in the sixth on singles by Lou Brock and Reggie Smith, a triple by Ted Simmons and a double by Bake McBride.

Brock also stole his 112th base of the season for the Cards, adding to his own major league record for one season.

Barber Pulls Out To Lead

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Old pro Miller Barber managed a two-under-par 69 and opened up a three-stroke lead—including six strokes over heavily favored Jack Nicklaus—Saturday in the third round of the $150,000 Ohio Kings Island Golf Tournament.

The 43-year-old Barber, trying to extend a seven-season string of at least one victory a year, put together a 54-hole total of 205, eight-under-par on the 6,990-yard, Jack Nicklaus Golf Center. But he failed to completely shake the still-threatening Nicklaus.

The Golden Bear holed one putt of 72 feet—"It's been a long time since I made a putt that long and I stepped it off," he said—and birdied two of his last four holes for a 69.

"I'm sitting in pretty good position," Nicklaus said. "Six strokes can change hands very quickly. If I play a good solid round tomorrow, well, you never know what might happen.

"It's not so much how many strokes you're behind—it's how many guys are in front of you. There's only three."

In addition to Barber, they are Mexican upset-maker, Victor Regelado, and Graham Marsh, a globe-trotting veteran from Australia who rarely plays in the United States.

Regelado, a surprise winner of the Pleasant Valley Classic earlier this season, had a third-round 69 and was second at 208. Marsh, who came to this country to play in last week's World Open, shot a 70 in the cool, crisp, fall weather and was alone in third at 210.

Fritts Sparks State To ACC Win

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Stan Fritts, a bull near the goal line, scored three second half touchdowns to ignite 15th-ranked N.C. State to a 31 10 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over Clemson Saturday night.

The Wolfpack had trouble getting its offense going until it decided to stick to a basic attack featuring quick handoffs and pitchouts to Fritts and his backfield running mate, Roland Hooks.

Clemson held a 10-9 halftime lead before Fritts went to work, scoring twice on short plunges and once from 10 yards out. Hooks got the other State touchsdown on a 63-yard pass from Dave Buckey.

The Tigers put together their only sustained drive in the first period. Staring with good field position after a short punt, they moved 42 yards to a score with quarterback Mark Fellers rambling the final 15 on a rollout. Bog Burgess added a field goal as the half ended.

State, meanwhile, had trouble getting its offense started. Buckey did not complete a pass until the second quarter, but when he did it was explosive.

He found Hooks all alone in the middle of the field. The speedy senior reached to grab the pass and outran the Clemson pursuit to the end zone. State's first two points had come on a safety when Clemson snapped the ball over its punter's head in the end zone.

Fritts was the Wolfpack workhorse particularly in the second half when he scored his three touchdowns.

All three of his scores culminated long, time consuming overland marches in which State broke the back of the Clemson defense.

Fritts finished the game with 164 yards on 26 carries. Hooks had 121 yards in 144 attempts.

The Wolfpack's passing game was not nearly as sharp. Buckey completed three of 13 for 86 yards, most of them on the one long strike to Hooks.

The victory was N.C. State's third straight this season, all in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Clemson's record fell to 0-2 for the season, 0-1 in the league.

Appalachian Claws 'Cats

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP)—Freshman halfback Emmitt Hamilton passed for one touchdown and ran for another Saturday to lead Appalachian State to a 30-0 victory over Davidson in the Southern Conference football opener for both teams.

Hamilton, one of a bevy of offensive standouts for the Mountaineers, hit split end Bill Yeager for a touchdown in the second quarter. Hamilton came back in the third period for a 22-yard scoring run.

The victory, third in a row for Appalachian, spoiled Ed Farrell's debut as Davidson coach.

Davidson, trying to beef up its offense under Farrell's version of the I-formation, ran into an Appalachian defense that has allowed only two touchdowns in three games.

Davidson managed only 24 yards net on the ground and 87 through the air.

The Mountaineers included Davidson quarterback David Harper, third-ranked passer in the nation last year, among their victims. Harper connected on only 9 of 20 passes for 87 yards, while picking up 14 yards in 13 rushes.

Appalachian scored on its second offensive series, with Robbie Price capping a 46-yard drive that took only four plays. Yeager's second period score sent Appalachian into the halftime break with a 14-0 lead.

Sophomore Devon Ford, a punt return specialist, set up both third-quarter touchdowns. Ford returned a punt to the Davidson 32, clearing the way for a quick series that ended with sophomore Richard Patrick going over from the three.

Ford came back moments later with a 29-yard punt return to set up an Appalachian threat that was wiped out by an interception. On the next series, Ford carried the ball back 24 yards to clear the way for Hamilton's touchdown.

Ford's game total was nine returns for 146 yards.

Delaware Whips Bulldogs, 48-12

NEWARK, Del. (UPI) — Senior halfback Vern Roberts piled up 134 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead Delaware, the nation's No. 4 ranked small college, to a 48-12 romp Saturday over the Citadel.

Roberts scored two of his three touchdowns in the second quarter, one on a three-yard run and the other on a six-yard pass from junior quarterback Bill Zwaan. Zwaan was six for nine in the passing department for 86 yards and one TD.

Junior fullback Nate Beasley totaled 103 yards and one touchdown for the Blue Hens.

Delaware completely dominated the game, piling up 501 yards total offense, 395 on the ground and 106 in the air. That compared to 224 yards for the Citadel, 151 rushing and 73 passing.

Both teams committed numerous errors as they turned the ball over repeatedly. The Citadel fumbled six times, losing four, and had two passes intercepted. Delaware also lost four fumbles of five but had no passes intercepted.

With the Blue Hens dominating play completely, the Citadel only managed one serious threat in the first half and that came to an abrupt end when Delaware defensive back Bernie Ebersole picked off a Gene Dotson pass on the 11.

Delaware, which won its season opener against Akron 14-0 two weeks ago, is now 2-0 while the loss dropped Citadel's mark to 1-1. Citadel won its opener against Presbyterian 6-0.

Vandy Smears VMI, 45-7

NASHVILLE (AP)—Vanderbilt quarterback David Lee and Fred Fisher combined to hit 13 of 16 passes and Adolph Groves scored on three short runs as the Commodores blitzed Virginia Military Institute 45-7 in college football action Saturday afternoon.

Lee, a reserve, hit eight of nine passes for 118 yards and Fisher connected on five of seven for 64 yards. Groves scored on runs of two, one and one yards.

Fisher and Lee completed all seven of their first half passes and Vandy scored four of the first times it had the ball, building up a 28-0 lead.

VMI had only three sustained drives the entire game and its only touchdown came on a 38-yard interception return by defensive end Glenn Jones.

Vanderbilt's other touchdowns came on one-yard runs by Fisher and Jamie O'Rourke. Lee ran 11 yards for another score and Mark Adams kicked a 40-yard field goal.

The victory gave Vanderbilt a 2-0 record and marked the first time since 1970 the Commodores have won their first two games. The triumph gave Steve Sloan a 7-6 career head-coaching mark.

VMI is now 1-1.

VMI had little offensive punch, penetrating only to the Vanderbilt 49 during the first half.

O'Rourke gained 90 yards in 14 carries and Fisher had 88 yards in 10 carries, one of them a 54-yard run to the two-yard line in the first quarter.

The Commodores, who now play four straight Southeastern Conference opponents, used nine different ball carriers and played reserves as early as the second quarter.

The points were the most Vandy has scored since a 49-19 victory over Mississippi State in 1971.

The Commodore defense, a question mark when the season opened, turned in another fine effort. Vandy beat the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga 28-6 last week.

Carolina Mauls Wake

By Robert B. Cullen
Associated Press Writer

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina, using precise passing by Chris Kupec and Bill Paschall, and a tenacious goal-line defense, shut out Wake Forest 31-0 Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

The Tar Heels, normally a running team, needed their passing game to occupy the blitzing Wake Forest linebackers who bogged down the running attack in the early going. Kupec and Paschall, the alternating quarterbacks, got the job done with Jimmy Jerome as their chief target.

After the Deacon defense loosened, tailbacks James Betterson, Mike Voight, and Charlie Williams scored on touchdown runs. Freshmen scatback Mel Collins scored on a 42-yard punt return, and Ellis Alexander added a field goal.

The field goal was the only scoring in the first period. North Carolina's Russ Conley intercepted a Wake Forest pass to start a 48-yard drive that Betterson capped with a 10-yard breakthrough over right tackle early in the second period.

The Tar Heels swept 78 yards after the second half kickoff to put the game effectively out of reach. Voight cracked seven yards over the middle and went into the end zone standing up for the touchdown.

Collins, a heralded breakaway threat, proved his credentials were in order shortly afterwards. He took a short Deacon punt on the 42, outlegged the pursuit to the right sideline and went all the way for the score.

Williams added the final score in the fourth quarter with a 15-yard run with a pitchout around the left end.

Wake Forest did next to nothing offensively until the second half, when freshman flanker John Zeglinski entered the game. Returning kickoffs, running end-arounds, and throwing the option pass, Zeglinski twice pushed the Deacons into scoring position. But the Tar Heel defensive line led by Ronnie Robinson and Rod Broadway, twice held inside the one.

The victory gave North Carolina a 2-0 record for the year and 1-0 in the ACC. Wake Forest dropped 0-3, 0-2 in the league.

Things are likely to get worse for the Deacons. After taking a week off they face Oklahoma, Penn. St. and Maryland in consecutive road games.

For the game, Paschall and Kupec combined to hit 16 of 21 passes for 250 yards. Jerome caught seven of them for 149 yards. Betterson was the top rusher with 77 yards gained.

Virginia Rallies For Win

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Scott Gardner blitzed William and Mary with four touchdown passes, three to split end Ken Shelton, as Virginia's Cavaliers overcame an 11-point first period deficit for a 38-28 football victory over the Indians Saturday.

The triumph was the first for Virginia under new Coach Sonny Randle and squared the Cavaliers' record at 1-1. William and Mary dropped to 1-2.

Shelton, a 6-foot-4, 200-pound senior, set school and Atlantic Coast Conference receiving records with nine catches for 241 yards.

Gardner rolled up 344 yards in total offense, dimming a stellar performance by Indian quarterback Bill Deery, who threw two touchdown passes and ran for another score in racking up 356 yards in total offense.

Virginia, leading only 24-21 at the half, shocked the Southern Conference Indians on the first play after intermission when Gardner connected with Shelton on a 74-yard scoring play.

The Gardner-to-Shelton combo clicked again on a 28-yard scoring play with 9:26 left in the final quarter, seemingly to put the Cavaliers out of reach with a 38-21 lead.

But William and Mary's Dick Pawlewicz took the ensuing kickoff and ran 100 yards up the middle to score with 9:13 remaining.

The Indians jumped to a 14-3 lead in the first quarter on Deery's 58-yard pass to Pawlewicz and his 79-yard run, but the Cavaliers drew within four points with 38 seconds gone in the second quarter when tailback Joe Sroba bolted over from the four.

Virginia took a 17-14 lead with 5:56 left in the half on Gardner's four-yard pass to tight end Jim Wicks.

But the Indians once again gained the lead with 1:15 remaining when split end Bruce McCutcheon made a diving fingertip catch in the end zone of Deery's 39-yard pass.

Gardner then took the Cavaliers 62 yards in six plays, hitting Shelton with a six-yard scoring pass with nine seconds remaining in the half, giving the the Cavaliers their intermission lead.

Shelton's conference yardage record eclipsed the 209-yard mark set in 1968 by Henley Carter of Duke as Virginia rolled up 509 yards in total offense, 309 through the air and 200 on the ground, to 452 for William and Mary, 157 passing and 295 rushing.

Rampants Survive Vike Scare, 14-7

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Contrary to rumor, there is no truth to the report that Rose High School is thinking of changing its school colors to red and white, adopting Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer as its school mascot, and making "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" as its school song.

No, despite the fact that team after team is learning that there is a Santa Claus, the Rampants will remain the Rampants.

Their fans may have to have a cardiac unit on the sidelines, but the Rampants did their thing again Friday night.

Oh, they won—their third victory in four starts—beating Kinston, 14-7.

But the way they did it!

Customarily, the Rampants rolled up over 300 yards in total offense, picking up 315 on the ground and 10 in the air. They held Kinston to only 138 rushing and 22 passing—and until the final two minutes of the game, the Vikings has under 100 yards total.

But mistakes—giving the ball up in poor field position cost Rose time and again. Kinston, unlike New Bern last week, just couldn't take advantage of it—even though they did score their first touchdown of the year, getting the ball inside the 10 for that one.

As they have done in all but one game, the Rampants made a quick turnover of the ball to put it in great field position for their opponents. On the first series, they fumbled it away at their own 42, then penalized themselves 20 more yards deeper into their own territory before finally digging in to hold Kinston.

Max Joyner, who must be the highest scoring offensive guard in the state, scored the first Rose touchdown, falling on teammate Andrew Newton's fumble in the end zone for it. Then, in the third period, Lindberg Morris rushed 14 yards for the other. Jeff Hagans kicked both extra points.

The lone Kinston score, in the third period, came when Kenneth Koonce inched in from the one. Hayes Foscue added the PAT kick.

After turning it over at the 42, Rose was hit four times for being off-sides as Kinston moved it down the field, the easy way. Kinston offset one of these with their own five-yarder, and after pushing as far as the five, were thrown back by the Rampant defense, and tried a field goal from the 16. A host of Rose blockers broke through to crush the attempt, and the blocked kick was recovered on the Rampant seven.

Rose drove from there, going 93 yards for their first score. Doug Paschal, who gained 158 yards for the Rampants in the game, picked up 17 on the first carry, and Morris added 16 on a pitch out the second play.

Paschal picked up 10 more on two runs, and short gains forced a fourth and one at the Kinston 41, but Henry Trevathan sneaked through for two and the needed yardage. After a seven yard run by Morris, Kinston was hit for five for being offsides, and Trevathan hit Curtis Creech for 13 to the Kinston 14. Morris got around end for two, then on the next play, Newton took off around left end, got near the end zone, and had the ball knocked loose. It rolled into the end zone, and Joyner finally found the handle to claim the score—his second of the year on a fumble recovery. Hagans' PAT made it 7-0 with 1:27 left in the first period.

Kinston drove back to midfield, but had to kick away, and Rose drove back down to the Kinston 28 before fumbling it away.

Kinston again got just beyond midfield, to the Rose 45, but was held. The Rampants took over on the six, and behind Paschal's running moved it down to the 18 before the Viking defense dug in and held for four downs at the 16.

Rose, early in the second half, tried for a fourth and one gain at their own 44, but were again held, giving Kinston good position again. The Vikes were held without a first down, however, and punted away.

The Rampants fumbled the punt, however, and Kinston pounced on it at the Rampant eight. Theodore Sutton picked up two yards, and quarterback Bruce Reese kept for five down to the one. Koonce then just inched the ball over from there for the score, and Foscue's kick tied it up, 7-7 with 5:28 left in the period.

Rose promptly played Santa again, fumbling on the first play from scrimmage to give the Vikes the ball at the 23. But they were unable to move it and a 38-yard field goal was wide of the mark.

Rose then drove 80 yards for the decisive score. Paschal gained 11 in two carries, and Newton picked up 10. Morris broke through the middle for 23 to the Kinston 36, and Paschal added six more. Morris got around the right side and Paschal pulled it to the 14. From there, Morris went over right tackle and danced into the end zone, giving Rose the lead again, 14-7 after Hagans' kick, with 1:11 left in the period.

Rose got the ball back in Kinston territory late in the game, after a short punt, but couldn't push in to ice the game. Kinston fumbled it back at the 19 three plays later, but again, Rose failed.

From the 19, Paschal hit to the seven, but three plays netted but a yard, and the Rampants turned down a chance at a field goal with under two minutes left to try for fourth and six.

They didn't make it, and it almost proved fatal.

Kinston moved the ball from there, for the first time in the game, moving from their own six—almost to a touchdown.

After a yard gain on the first play, Reese broke away for 16 yards on the next. Again, after short yardage on first down, Reese hit for 11 and a first down at the Vike 36. Reese then hit for two yards and lateraled to Henry Pittman, who raced down the side lines 62 yards for the score—putting Rose in great jeopardy.

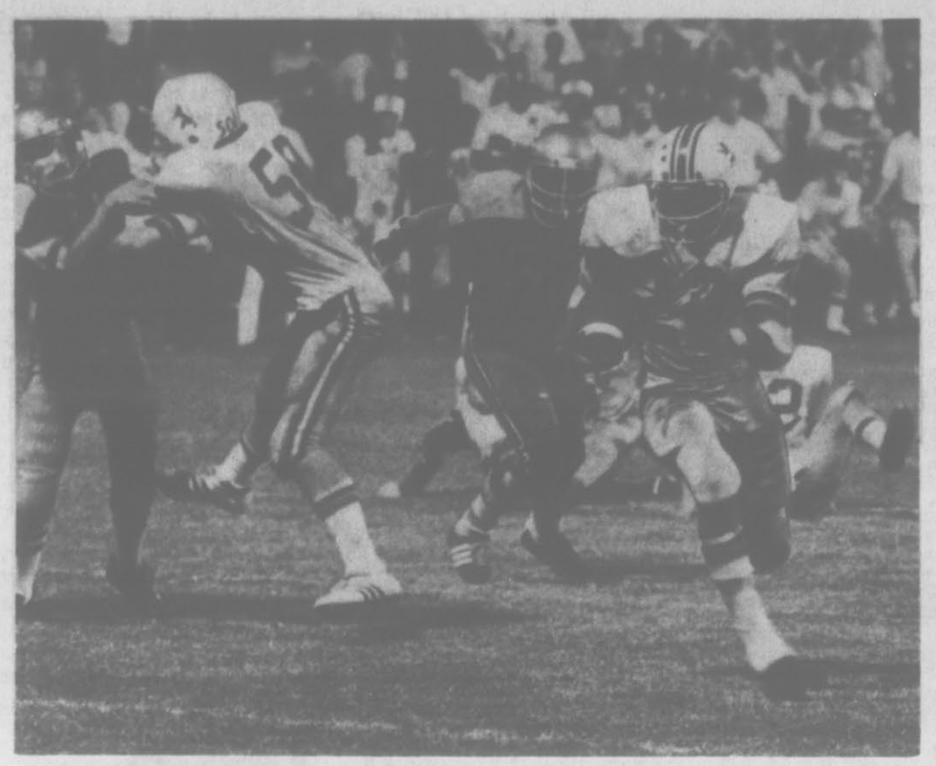

But a clip had been called at the 39, and that put the ball back on the Kinston 46. They continued to push the ball, moving it to the 23 before time finally ran out on them and the scare was over.

Rose, hoping to correct the many mistakes, now will return home, playing host to Jacksonville next Friday in Ficklen Stadium.

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy White's three-run homer and Bobby Murcer's two-run shot powered the New York Yankees to a come-from-behind 14-7 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Trailing 7-2 after the Indians raked Doc Medich and Mike Wallace for seven runs in the third inning, the Yankees rallied for five runs in the fourth and four runs in the fifth.

A crowd of 14,648 and a national television audience saw Murcer's homer—his first ever at Shea Stadium—climax the Yankees' fourth inning comeback to tie the score at 7-7. Murcer's ninth homer of the season also routed Indians' starter Jim Perry.

White, the Yankees' designated hitter, unloaded his sixth homer of the year against Milt Wilcox in the fifth inning. It put the Yankees in front 11-7.

The Yanks had gone ahead 8-7 earlier in the fifth on Sandy Alomar's forceout grounder with the bases loaded. Singles by Chris Chambliss and Graig Nettles and a fielder's choice in which Chambliss eluded a run-down tag had loaded the bases.

Nettles hit a solo homer in the fourth for the Yanks and John Lowenstein belted a two-run homer in the Indians' seven-run uprising.

The Giants took a 5-0 lead in the first inning against Reds starter Jack Billingham, who was making his second attempt to become the first 20-game winner in the National League.

Bobby Bonds and Tito Fuentes walked to start the inning and Gary Matthews drove both home with a triple to right-center. Goodson singled Matthews home and Steve Ontiveros doubled Goodson across, knocking out Billingham. The final run of the inning came on a throwing error by Chaney.

Chaney's second-inning homer made it 5-1 and the Reds got two more runs in the third, helped by an error by Matthews. The Giants made it 6-3 in the bottom of the third, but Cincinnati closed to within 6-4 in the seventh on singles by Griffey and Chaney and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Joe Morgan.

Garrett Leads Mets To Win

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Wayne Garrett hammered a three-run homer in the seventh inning to power the New York Mets and Jerry Koosman to a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

Garrett's blast broke up a pitching duel between Pittsburgh's Juan Pizarro, 0-1, and New York's Koosman, 14-10.

Koosman gave up a home run to Bob Robertson in the fifth for the first run of the game. Prior to that, the left-hander hadn't allowed a runner reach second base.

Pizarro had surrendered two harmless singles until Cleon Jones opened the seventh with a double. With one out, Duffy Dyer was safe on a throwing error by Pittsburgh shortstop Frank Taveras. After Teddy Martinez popped out, Garrett unloaded his homer. All three of the runs were unearned.

The Pirates scored their second run on singles by Rennie Stennett, Manny Sanguillen and Al Oliver in the eighth inning. Koosman delivered the Mets' final run with a double in the ninth.

Frank Saunders kicked a pair of field goals for ECU and Ike Sherlock scored a TD in the Buc win.

Florida Defeats Maryland

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Lee McGriff wiggled past two defenders into the end zone after catching a third-quarter pass to give Florida a 17-10 football upset over 14th-ranked Maryland Saturday night.

McGriff's five-yard run after catching a 13-yard pass from quarterback Jimmy Fisher came after the Gators' defensive back Wayne Fields intercepted a pass.

Irish Smash Northwestern

By JERRY LISKA
AP Sports Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Top-ranked Notre Dame, shaking off a stuttering start, ignited a 21-point third quarter on Ron Goodman's 62-yard touchdown run, and crushed struggling Northwestern 49-3 Saturday for the 13th straight football victory by the Fighting Irish.

After struggling to a 14-3 halftime lead, mainly on quarterback Tom Clements' passing to Pete Demmerle, the Irish demoralized Northwestern with the third-period outburst which also included Clements' 14-yard scoring toss to Robin Weber and reserve quarterback Frank Allocco's one-yard touchdown run.

Seven players scored for the Irish.

Clements left in the third quarter with the Irish ahead 28-3 after hitting on 13 of 23 passes for 182 yards and carrying eight times for 44 yards.

The second Irish victory of the season, following a 31-7 romp over Georgia Tech on Sept. 9, gave Coach Ara Parseghian his 87th Notre Dame triumph, matching the record of the late Frank Leahy.

Northwestern, routed by Michigan State 41-7 last Saturday, was blown out of the game after a tenacious first-half of play and lost starting quarterback Mitch Anderson in the third period because of a shoulder injury.

A rainbow hovered over the crowd of 54,301 at Dyche Stadium after a drizzle began in the third quarter.

Notre Dame used substitutes freely, with freshman Mark McLane spurting for an 11-yard touchdown run to cap a 71-yard drive in 10 plays for a 42-3 Irish lead midway in the fourth quarter. The final Irish TD also was scored by a freshman, halfback Terry Eurick, on a one-yard run as the Irish went 55 yards in five plays late in the game.

Halfback Russ Kornman ran two yards for the opening touchdown late in the first period as the Irish drove 76 yards in 14 plays.

After Northwestern's Jim Blazevich booted a 27-yard field goal, Wayne Bullock plunged one yard for a touchdown, giving Notre Dame a 14-3 halftime lead.

Then came Goodman's 62-yard scoring burst and the rout was on.

Red Sox Rally To Beat Orioles

BOSTON (AP) — Deron Johnson singled home the winning run in the 10th inning, providing the Boston Red Sox with a comeback 6-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles in a game marked by three long rain delays Saturday.

The loss dropped the Orioles one game behind the New York Yankees in the American League East pennant race. The third-place Red Sox remained four games off the Yankee pace.

A one-out single by Tim McCarver, a double by Tommy Harper and an intentional walk to Juan Beniquez loaded the bases before Johnson drove home Boston's game-winner.

The Red Sox tied the game at 5-5 with four runs in the ninth inning, three on Dwight Evans' home run. Carl Yastzremski singled home the first run of the rally.

The scheduled nationally televised game took six hours and 27 minutes to complete, with the actual playing time 3:06. It started at 2:21 p.m. and wound up at 8:48.

Baltimore starter Jim Palmer withstood two delays, but needed relief help from Bob Reynolds after the third. Reynolds came in during the seventh inning and checked Boston until the ninth, when Grant Jackson took over and gave up the tying runs.

The Orioles tagged Boston southpaw Bill Lee for two runs on a bunt single by Paul Blair, a double by Bobby Grich and a single by Don Baylor before the rain hit with two out in the first inning.

That delay lasted 2 hours and 29 minutes. With a crowd of 21,555 on hand and a championship race involved, the umpires wanted to get the game in.

The Orioles added a run on a single by Andy Etchebarren, a sacrifice bunt by Mark Belanger and a single by Blair in the fifth. Then the game was interrupted for 30 minutes more by rain.

Baltimore made it 4-0 in the sixth as Brooks Robinson singled and came around on a double by Earl Williams and a single by Enos Cabell, then the rain hit again, causing another 31-minute delay.

Fred Lynn singled home a run for the Red Sox in the sixth and the Orioles took a 5-1 lead on Etchebarren's homer in the ninth.

Ayden-Grifton Downs Conley By 26-13

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Quarterback David Pratt threw a pair of touchdown passes to Paul Ricciarelli and Ned Craft and William West each scored once as the Ayden-Grifton Chargers ran past the D. H. Conley Vikings, 26-13 in an Eastern Carolina conference clash, Friday night.

Pratt passed to Ricciarelli for scores of 31 and 10 yards and Craft scored on a one yard plunge added to West's 13-yard scamper after the Vikings had scored on their first possession.

Conley scored on a 34-yard run by Randy Adams and a 23 yard pass from Joey Baggett to Adams for Conley's two touchdowns.

Conley was fired up at first and drove 77 yards to first time they had the ball for the opening score of the game. A-G matched the score near the close of the first period and then zoomed ahead with two second quarter tallies.

The Charger backs rushed for 114 yards while Pratt passed for 197 yards. Conley only managed 54 yards rushing but came up with 98 passing. Both teams had nine first downs.

The Vikings began their first series at their 23. After a short gain the Vikes began rolling with a 16 yard pass from Baggett to Edward Clemons. An A-G penalty of five yards helped them and Curtis Clemmons picked up 21 through the middle moving the ball to the Charger 34. From there Adams raced his way into the end zone for the Conley score. Baggett's kick made it 7-0 with just over three minutes gone in the period.

A-G got good field position on the kick but gave the ball up on downs after driving to the Viking 27. A-G held the Vikings and got the ball back on a punt at the Conley 43. William West carried three times as the Chargers moved to the 31. A penalty cost A-G 15 yards but they got it all back as Pratt hit Ricciarelli who fell into the end zone just in bounds to score.

The Vikings almost got a break early in the second period but a penalty erased it. On fourth and five, a bad snap forced punter Curtis Clemons to run the ball. He picked up 25 yards and a first down but the penalty forced another kick.

After an exchange of punts, A-G took over on its 49. Pratt's first down pass fell incomplete but on second down he hit Vern Davenport over the middle for 45 yards moving to the Conley one. From there, Craft bulled his way in to put A-G on top, 12-7.

An interception by Ricciarelli gave the ball back to A-G a few minutes later and the chargers drove to a third TD. After a three yard loss, West ran for four. Pratt found Davenport for a pass netting 39 yards and putting the ball on the Viking 25.

Another pass moved the ball 19 yards closer to the goal line but West was dropped by Viking linebacker Keith Gould for a four yard loss. Pratt got two and then passed to Ricciarelli for the TD with :21 left in the half.

The Chargers put the game away on their first possession of the second half. From their 38, they drove 62 yards in nine plays with West carrying five times for 27 yards, Twendie Simpson twice for eight and Pratt once for 14. Simpson also caught a 20 yard pass setting up a first down at the Viking 13.

With 7:19 left in the third period, West struggled through the middle 13 yards for the score making it 24-7. He also added the conversion for a 26-7 lead.

The Vikings could not sustain a drive for the rest of the period and for well into the fourth quarter. They got the ball back with just under three minutes to go as Lionel Streeter intercepted a screen pass and ran it back to the A-G 36 for the Vikings. After a run for no gain and an incomplete pass, Baggett threw to Edward Clemons for eight yards then threw to Adams who made an amazing finger-tip catch at the one and stepped over the goal line for the last Conley score.

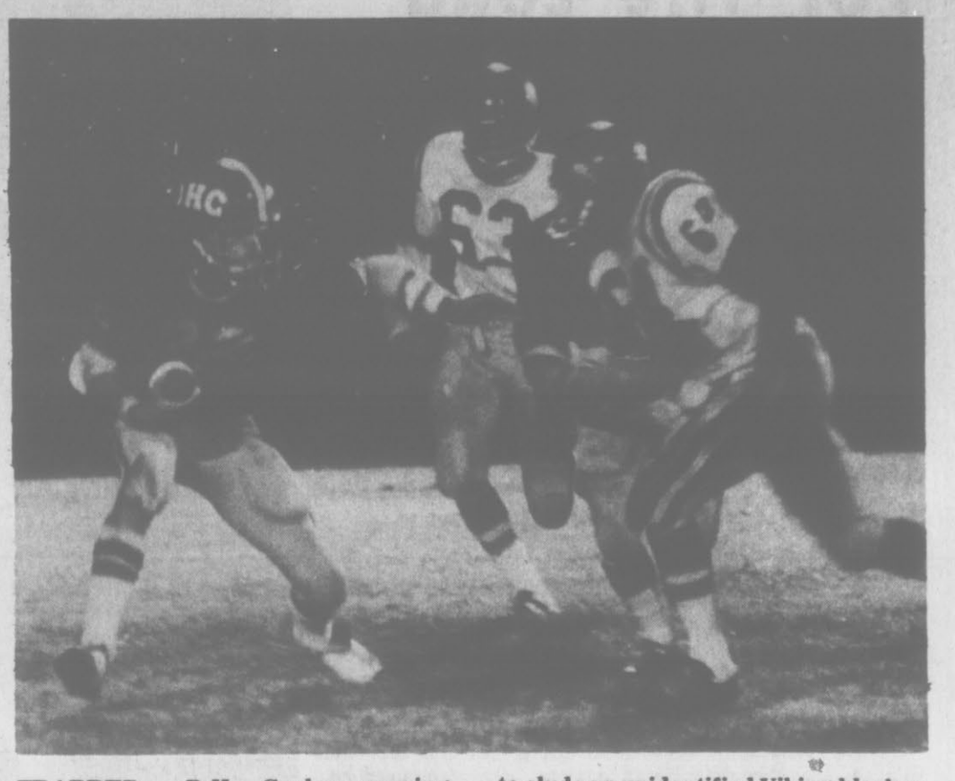

Conley looked ready to take the Chargers in the opening minutes of the game but after A-G scored the Viking offense slowed down to a virtual standstill and it was not until they got the passing game going in the third quarter did they start moving again. Baggett threw to Edward Clemons four times as Clemons picked up 68 yards.

This week, Conley travels to West Craven while the Chargers will be hosting Farmville Central.

Eastern Wayne Edges Panthers

BETHEL—David Farmer scored three times on runs of one, 30 and four yards to lead the Eastern Wayne Warriors to a 20-12 victory over the North Pitt Panthers, Friday night.

It was the third loss in a row for North Pitt but they finally generated a scoring offense. Quarterback Donnie Perkins connected on nine of 19 passes for 122 yards and one TD, a 30 yard pass to Dennis White.

The Warriors rushed for 174 yards while they held the Panthers to 29.

North Pitt surprised the Warriors by scoring first. Perkins capped a 70 yard drive diving in from the one. They had taken the opening kickoff and with help from an 11 yard run by Marion Barnes and a 35 yard pass to White the Panthers moved to their first score of the year.

Eastern Wayne quickly matched it as they drove 60 yards on the ensuing kick to a score on Farmer's one yard plunge. Farmer added the PAAT for a 7-6 lead.

The Warriors scored again as Farmer put up seven second quarter points on a 30 yard scamper and kicked the extra point.

Farmer finished off his night in the fourth quarter on a four yard touchdown run and again kicked the PAT. North Pitt put up its final six points in that period as Perkins threw to White for a 30 yard TD.

Farmville Captures Win Over Firebirds

FARMVILLE—Farmville Central's Jeff Wilkes scored twice and Tony Oakley kicked a pair of field goals as the Jaguars plucked the Southern Nash Firebirds, 33-18, Friday night.

The victory was the second in a row for Farmville Central. They downed Eastern Wayne last week.

Southern Nash rushed for 40 more yards than the Jaguars, 293-253, but Jaguar quarterback Greg Joyner picked up 51 passing completing seven of 15 attempts. The Firebirds fumbled five times with Wardell Blow recovering twice for the Jags.

Oakley put the Jaguars on the boards first with a 25 yard field goal with 7:45 left in the opening period. Farmville Central gained possession as Keith Gay recovered a fumble at the 'Bird 19.

Farmville Central scored again four minutes later as Gay ran three yards for a touchdown after the Jaguar defense had forced a Southern punt.

Less than a minute later, after the Firebirds had gotten the ball on the FC kick, they fumbled at their ten. Blow picked the ball up and ran to the goal line but he fumbled. Bynum Satterwhite fell on the ball in the end zone for the score. Oakley added the PAT for a 17-0 lead.

With 1:38 left in the first period, Southern's Carl Pulley scored on a three yard run. He set up his own score with a 78 yard run the play preceeding the score.

Wilkes opened the second quarter scoring returning an interception 71 yards for a Farmville Central touchdown. Farmville had punted to SN and the Firebirds tried to pass on first down but Wilkes picked it off. Oakley added three more points in the frame hitting a 28 yard field goal after Blow had recovered another SN fumble at the SN 40.

Melvin Crawley scored the first of his two TD's in the second half on a run with 9:28 left in the third quarter. Farmville Central matched it later in the period as Wilkes scampered 36 yards and Oakley's kick made it 34-12.

The final SN score came in the final minute of play as Crawley scored on a 35 yard run with :48 left to play.

Williamston In 18-0 Romp

WILLIAMSTON—Williamston High School overcame its own mistakes to take an 18-0 victory over Murfreesboro Friday night.

The Tigers fumbled the ball away four times—three of them well within scoring range, at the Murfreesboro 25, 14 and 18 yard lines.

The Williamston defense, however, held Murfreesboro in check allowing less than 125 yards in total offense by the visitors.

Nevertheless, the game was scoreless until very late in the first half. But with 22 seconds left in the half, Paul Scott went over from the eight , climaxing a 65-yard drive. Ken Speller led the drive, running for a long gain of 14 yards on the series. The two-point conversion failed, and the Tigers settled for a 6-0 lead at halftime.

In the final period, the Tigers picked up two more touchdowns, as Tim Hardison came in to replace the injured Phil Selby at quarterback. Selby suffered leg cramps and is expected to be ready to play next week.

The first drive, an 81-yarder, came to an end with 7:31 left in the contest as Speller ran over from the 13. Earlier, he had raced 29 yards to help set up the score. That raised it to 12-0 when the PAT again failed.

The final touchdown came with 4:23 left, and took only 47 yards. Hardison hit Deno Lloyd with a five-yard pass to end the scoring. Lloyd had run twice for 11 yards each and Speller had picked up 16 yards in the drive.

Speller finished with 144 yards in 23 carries, while Lloyd had nine for 84 yards, Scott had eight for 43, and Selby had five for 20.

Murfreesboro's deepest penetrations went to the 22 in the first half and the 31 in the second.

Williamston opens Northeastern Conference action on Friday, traveling to Roanoke Rapids.

Southern Wayne In Third Loop Victory

SNOW HILL—Undefeated Southern Wayne High School rolled to its third straight Eastern Carolina Conference victory Friday night, downing Greene Central, 33-19.

The Saints took advantage of Greene Central mistakes, as they picked off one interception and grabbed off six fumbles. They were hurt by their own mistakes, however, turning the ball over five times on fumbles.

Hard-running Ken Mack led the Saint attack with 173 yards in 20 carries, two of them for long touchdown runs.

Southern got on the scoreboard first, grabbing off a Greene Central fumble at the Ram five-yard line. Craig Clark scored the touchdown from the one, and Ron Pellitier's kick made it 7-0.

Greene Central came roaring back on a 73-yard drive to score, with Donnie Blizzard hauling in a 26 yard pass from Jerry Carraway for the score. The PAT failed, however, and the Rams trailed, 7-6, at the end of the period.

Southern got the last touchdown of the first period, when, on the second play from scrimmage, Mack broke away and raced 70 yards to paydirt. The PAT failed, and it was 13-6.

The Saints came back again with another in the second period, the only score of that frame. After recovering a fumble at the Ram 22, Pellitier ran in from there on the first play, upping the score to 19-6 at halftime.

Greene Central came back after taking over a Saint fumble at the 37. Jeffrey Warren got the score, from the 11, and Carraway kicked the PAT cutting it to 19-13.

Southern matched that, however, as Mack again got away on a long run, going 71 yards after Greene Central had driven to the Saint 20 before fumbling. Pellitier passed to Nelson Smith for the conversion, to up it to 27-13.

The Rams got their final score on a 76-yard fourth quarter drive. Linwood Underhill cracked over from the one to end it, cutting the lead to 27-19.

The Rams then got another drive going, but an interception cost them both the ball and a chance at the victory. The ball was returned to the Ram 29, and a penalty put it on the 14. Clark then went in from the three to wrap it up.

Greene Central travels to Charles B. Aycock next week, seeking their third victory in four starts against the winless Falcon.

Plymouth Nips Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE—Tough 3-A Plymouth inched past 2-A Robersonville Friday night in a 14-13 thriller.

Plymouth jumped out to a 14-0 lead in the game, only to see Robersonville come charging back and nearly pull it out.

Neither team was able to establish any aerial action, as both teams failed to complete a pass. Fumbles played a big role in the game as both teams lost a pair. Plymouth fumbled six times, but was able to scramble back onto four of them.

The first score came in the opening period when Plymouth fullback Kevin Hill punched the ball over from the three yard line. A kick for the conversion failed, making it 6-0.

Plymouth came back in the opening minutes of the second period to score the touchdown that eventually made the difference. Hill again did the honors, this time on a 39-yard run. Bill Sexton pulled in a pass from Gavin Carter for the two-pointer, making it 14-0.

But Robersonville came back after that. Jimmy Stalls finally put the Eagles on the scoreboard with a 12-yard run. He added the PAT kick to cut the margin to 14-7.

Then, in the third period, Robersonville came up with their second touchdown. Fullback Robin Fowler ran that one over from the 18, but the attempted PAT kick failed, and that was the margin in the game.

Tony Purvis, who had 10 tackles, Neno Hayes and Ricky Purvis were the defensive standouts in the contest, which was a hardhitting affair according to Coach Noland Respess.

Hill led the Plymouth attack with 100 yards on the ground.

Yankees Tie For The Lead

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The New York Yankees are certainly having their ups and downs these days. Right now, they're up in the American League East Division pennant race.

The Yankees, who dropped out of first place Thursday night, moved back in Friday with a doubleheader sweep over the Cleveland Indians.

"I don't think ups and downs bother this team," said New York Manager Bill Virdon after the resilient Yankees beat the Indians 5-4 and 3-0. "This team seems to handle pressure pretty well."

The Yankees moved into a tie with Baltimore in the pressurized race as the Orioles defeated sagging Boston 2-1 and plunged the third-place Red Sox four games off the pace.

In the other American League games, the Chicago White Sox blanked the Oakland A's 20; the Minnesota Twins nipped the California Angels 3-2 and the Detroit Tigers trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 8-5. Rain postponed the Kansas City-Texas game.

Bobby Murcer's run-scoring triple in the ninth inning gave the Yankees their first-game victory. They won the second game as Larry Gura pitched a six-hitter.

New York got all the runs Gura needed in the fourth inning. Elliott Maddox opened with a double and Murcer was hit by a pitch. Lou Piniella singled to left, scoring Maddox, and after Thurman Munson forced Piniella, Chris Chambliss doubled. New York added another run in the sixth.

Orioles 2, Red Sox 1

Don Baylor and Boog Powell belted home runs and Ross Grimsley and Grant Jackson combined to pitch a six-hitter, leading Baltimore over Boston.

In the second inning, Baylor drilled his 10th homer of the season—a drive into the screen in left-center field. Powell's 10th of the year broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh.

White Sox 2, A's 0

Bart Johnson and Terry Forster combined on a three-hitter and Jorge Orta's run-scoring single keyed a two-run sixth inning, pacing Chicago over Oakland.

The loss cut Oakland's American League West Division lead to four games over the Texas Rangers, who were rained out.

Twins 3, Angels 2

Minnesota took advantage of California starter Nolan Ryan's wildness and an error by first baseman John Doherty to score two runs in the seventh inning and defeat the Angels.

Tigers 8, Brewers 5

Rookie Dan Meyer belted two home runs and John Knox' two-run single capped a seventh-inning rally that gave Detroit its victory over Milwaukee.

FINE CATCH — Jimmy Smith of Greenville shows off this 20-pound striped bass he caught recently below Washington in the Pamlico. The fish measured 37½ inches long, and was the largest of nine caught. The others included a 12 and a 9-pounder. Miles Stafford of Greenville was fishing with Smith at the time. The catch was off Rebel bait. (Reflector Photo)

Cards, Bucs Both Win

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates, tying for the lead of the National League East, took opposite routes to the same destination Friday night.

The Cards used the long ball, a three-run blast by catcher Ted Simmons, to beat the Chicago Cubs 5-2.

The Pirates didn't get any home runs, but made the best of two weak singles, a walk, a wild pitch, a passed ball, two infield grounders and some alert baserunning to beat the New York Mets 4-3.

The victories kept the Cards in first place in the NL East, one-half game ahead of Pittsburgh.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles beat San Diego 2-1, San Francisco edged Cincinnati 4-3, Atlanta blanked Houston 1-0 and Philadelphia whipped Montreal 10-2.

Cards 5, Cubs 2

Mike Tyson opened the Cards' big inning with a walk, pitcher Bob Forsch sacrificed and was safe at first base on a fielders' choice and Lou Brock singled to load the bases. After Ted Sizemore fouled out, Reggie Smith singled home Tyson to put St. Louis in front 2-1 but Forsch was thrown out trying to score. Simmons then blasted his 18th home run of the year.

Pirates 4, Mets 3

Mets starter Ray Sadecki had a 3-1 lead and a five-hitter until the Pirates rallied in the ninth.

Rookie Art Howe led off with a walk, and Tug McGraw relieved Sadecki. Howe took second on a wild pitch, but McGraw struck out pinch-hitter Dave Parker. Pinch-hitter Paul Popovich tapped a weak single, Howe going to third, and Rennie Stennett followed with a bloop single to score Howe, move Popovich to third, and chase McGraw.

Harry Parker took over on the mound, but Sanguillen hit a bouncer to shortstop Teddy Martinez, who threw to third trying to get Stennett. His throw was too late, and Popovich crossed the plate with the tying run.

After Parker walked Al Oliver intentionally and loaded the bases, Willie Stargell hit a ground ball and Stennett crossed the plate.

Dodgers 2, Padres 1

Steve Yeager's fifth-inning home run provided the winning margin for the Dodgers.

Giants 4, Reds 3

Tito Fuentes singled, stole second and rode home on Gary Thomasson's single in the eighth inning, breaking a 3-3 tie and lifting the Giants past the Reds.

San Francisco had rallied for two runs in the seventh to tie.

Braves 1, Astros 0

Knuckleballer Phil Niekro, 18-12, fired a four-hitter and drove in the only run of the game with a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning for the Braves.

Phillies 10, Expos 2

Steve Carlton fired a four-hitter and Del Unser and Willie Montanez ripped two-run homers for the Phils.

American League scores: New York 5-3, Cleveland 4-0; Baltimore 2, Boston 1; Detroit 8, Milwaukee 5; Minnesota 3, California 2, and Chicago 2, Oakland 0. Kansas City at Texas was rained out.

Oilers Hope For 2nd Win

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

In the past two National Football League seasons, Houston victories were a contradiction in terms. The Oilers won regular season games as often as the Miami Dolphins took home the Super Bowl.

The Oilers have viewed victories in moral terms because their statistical ones were singular. For 1972, the record book said 1-13 and 1973 was no improvement whatsoever.

Here it is 1974, the season is one game old and the Oilers are 1-0. Now they only hope they aren't victims of some sort of quota system.

Houston brings its undefeated season into Cleveland Sunday to face the Browns, who have beaten the Oilers all eight times the two clubs have gotten together.

Besides the Oilers, 11 other teams risk undefeated records Sunday when the second week of the NFL season swings into action with Miami at Buffalo, St. Louis at Washington, Kansas City at Oakland, New Orleans at Los Angeles, Minnesota at Detroit, San Diego at Cincinnati, San Francisco at Atlanta, the New York Jets at Chicago, Pittsburgh at Denver, Green Bay at Baltimore and New England at New Haven, Conn. to play the New York Giants.

Then the Dallas Cowboys put their undefeated season on the line Monday night in Philadephia against the Eagles in a nationally televised game.

O.J. Simpson, who injured his ankle last week when Buffalo rallied to beat Oakland is listed as a probable starter.

Those Kansas City and Oakland folk are feudin' again. The Chiefs, 1-0, and the Raiders, 0-1, have battled to a standoff, dividing the previous spats 14-14-2.

Quarterback Joe Gilliam satisfied his first-period critics with a dazzling passing display of 257 yards and two touchdowns in the Steelers' 30-0 rout of Baltimore. The Broncos lost a close one to the Rams last week but hold a 3-0 career edge over Pittsburgh.

Joe Namath and Abe Gibron will both be available for the Jets-Bears clash. Namath has a bad back in addition to a chronically sore right knee.

Gibron spent the early part of the week hospitalized for treatment of a left leg afflicted by cellutitis and phlebitis, but insisted he would be on the sidelines Sunday.

San Diego stands in the way of Cincinnati's 15th consecutive home victory. The Chargers, 0-1, lead the league in total offense with 411 yards.

Baltimore quarterback Marty Domres was hurt in last week's 30-0 loss to Pittsburgh but is expected back against the Packers. So is Jerry Tagge who was hurt by three interceptions in Green Bay's 32-17 loss to Minnesota.

Punt, Pass Kick Is Set

Registration for the annual Punt, Pass and Kick Competition is now underway in Greenville.

The contest is sponsored annually by the Greenville Optimists Club and Hastings Ford.

The annual contest will be held on the local level on Saturday at Elm Street Park. It is open to all boys and girls, ages 8 through 13. Trophies will be awarded to the first three place finishers in each of the six age groups. Winners will move on to further competition.

Nebraska Stunned By Wisconsin, 21-20

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gregg Bohlig passed for 242 yards, including a 77-yard touchdown strike to Jeff Mack with 3:29 left, leading Wisconsin to a 21-20 upset over fourth-ranked Nebraska in a college football game Saturday.

Bohlig's decisive bomb came two plays after Nebraska had driven to a first down at the Wisconsin two-yard line, but had to settle for a 22-yard field goal by Mike Coyle that gave the Cornhuskers a 20-14 lead.

Mack, a senior flanker, caught Bohlig's pass at the Wisconsin 35 and outraced Cornhusker defenders to the end zone.

Junior safety Steve Wagner preserved the victory by intercepting an Earl Everett pass with 2:40 to play, enabling the Badgers to run out the clock.

Everett, a sophomore, played most of the way at quarterback for Nebraska after its star passer, David Humm, left with a hip injury in the second quarter.

A one-yard plunge by Jeff Moran gave Nebraska a first down at the Wisconsin two-yard line with five minutes to play, but defenders Bob Czeckowicz, Rick Jakious and Wagner pushed the Cornhuskers back to the three on their next three plays, setting up Coyle's second field goal.

Wisconsin took over on its 29 after the kickoff and Bohlig, who completed 14 of 21 passes, connected with Mack for the game-breaker two plays later.

MEDITATION PITCH

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Jim Lonborg, star pitcher with the Boston Red Sox before being injured in a ski accident several years ago, gives part of the credit for a comeback with the Phillies this year to his practice of Transcendental Meditation, a mind and body relaxant dependent upon periods of deep, restful thought. "It calms me," says Lonborg.

Sports Briefs

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Pistons didn't make a move to settle contract disputes with Dave Bing and Don Adams Friday, and the starting pair was missing again from the team's National Basketball Association training camp.

Pistons General Manager Ed Coil said he wasn't about to call the two players, considering that he doesn't have any intention to re-open negotiations on their contracts, as the two have requested.

Coil suspended Bing without pay, and said the eight-year veteran guard will be fined $250 for each practice missed. Coil said he would not consider renegotiating Bing's contract, nor expanding the money offer to Adams. Adams is on the trading block, Coil said.

HOUSTON (AP) — A state court judge is expected to rule Monday whether the Houston Texans will play their next scheduled World Football League game against the Memphis Southmen in Houston or in Shreveport, La.

The Texans already have announced they are moving to Shrevepot and had planned to play the Southmen in Shreveport's 48,000-seat stadium Wednesday night.

However, Sate District Court Judge Arthur Lesher on Thursday granted a temporary restraining order requested by a meat products firm that blocked—for the time being—the Texans' Shreveport move. A hearing on a temporary injunction has been set for Monday morning.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Kim Hughes, the fourth-round draft choice of the San Antonio Spurs, is planning a trip to Milan. And that means the 6-foot-11 center will be missing the American Basketball Association season.

Hughes' agent sent a telegram to the Spurs on the opening day of preseason training camp Friday, saying Hughes planned to play with Milan of the Italian Basketball Association.

Spur's Executive Vice President Angelo Drossos received the news about Milan early Friday. He said he is considering a suit to keep the rookie in a Spurs uniform.

Twins Cage Angels, 8-1

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Eric Soderholm drove in four runs and Minnesota's Bert Blyleven throttled California on four hits Saturday for a 8-1 victory.

Blyleven, 16-16, struck out 12 to run his season total to 237, second to Nolan Ryan's major league-leading 343. Soderholm drove in two of the four Minnesota runs in the first inning with a double and delivered two more with a bases-loaded single in a three-run sixth.

California starter Chuck Dobson, 1-2, surrendered two runs in the first on Pat Bourque's pop fly double.

Dobson departed in the second after walking home the fifth Twins' run with the bases loaded.

California Angel manager Dick Williams was traded five times during his playing career.

Futures In Doubt

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Stars, who recently acquired high school center Moses Malone with a reported multimillion dollar contract, Friday gave up Zelmo Beaty, the veteran center who took them to an American Basketball Association crown in 1971.

The futures of as many as four other Stars players also were in doubt as the team was to begin workouts today.

In a two-paragraph statement, the Stars said they would release Beaty, the 6-foot-9, 235-pound star who scored his 13,000th career point last season. The statement said Beaty had a contract with another team, but neither the Stars nor Beaty would say what team.

Meanwhile, an attorney for veteran forward Willie Wise said the player "had a strong desire to be traded" and he reportedly did not plan to show up for workouts. James Jones, a standout guard, said he had yet to negotiate a contract and would refuse to report to the camp.

Jim Eakins, acquired in a trade with the Virginia Squires during the summer, was reported a hold-out. And one report said Larry Miller, also obtained from Virginia during the off-season, would not attend camp.

Parachuting, A Sport of Grace And Thrills

ONLY ONE WAY TO GO—DOWN!. . . . . .David Swink, clutching the brace of a wing, gives a countdown to Danny Scollin as Scollin leaves the strut of the plane for a freefall jump. Moments later, Swink turned loose for his jump.

In a popular song of several decades ago, "The Daring Young Man On The Flying Trapeeze," the courage and grace of a young acrobat performing his breathtaking feat is praised.

Today's counterpart of the trapeeze artist is the young men and women who practice the colorful air sport of parachuting. For these modern performers, the wide stretch of sky is their backdrop.

In Greenville, the East Carolina University Sport Parachute Club is attracting a growing number of enthusiasts who find a deep satisfaction and a special thrill in jumping. For a brief time, supported by a billowing canopy of sturdy material, they float earthward.

Lonnie Willer of Greenville, a veteran of service in Vietnam, heads the ECU club and instructs novices enrolling in sport parachuting. Willer has trained about 100 students in the past year. The ECU Sport Parachute Club now numbers about 30 members.

Students are given thorough training before permitted to make a first jump. Emphasis is stressed on safety precautions—in the careful attention given to pre-jump inspection of rigs, and the packing of the canopy.

Each jumper carries an auxiliary, or reserve chute which can be manually or automatically opened in event the main chute should fail to open. On the first jump, students are not allowed to pull their own ripcord. For this memorable occasion, the ripcord is activated by a static line fastened to the chute.

Sporting parachuting is one sport where a fast beginning soon becomes a slow descent. Depending on the altitude, a jumper will fall as fast as 125 miles an hour earthward until the ripcord is pulled and the silk canopy opens to slow the jumper.

It is an exciting sport, one in which teamwork creates a close bond of friendship among the men and women who find beauty and fulfilment in the airborne way of coming back down to the earth again.

To Reopen S. C. Bank

WASHINGTON (AP) — All 29 offices of the closed American Bank and Trust Co. of Orangeburg, S.C., will be taken over and reopened by the Southern Bank and Trust Co., it was announced Friday.

The announcement was made in Washington by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the South Carolina Board of Bank Control.

The accounts of all creditors and depositors of the closed bank will be assumed by the Southern Bank and Trust Co., the announcement said.

The announcement said the agreement avoids a payoff to American Bank and Trust's 65,000 depositors by the FDIC and prevents financial loss or delay to hundreds of depositors whose accounts exceed the $20,000 insurance limit.

All offices of the closed bank will be reopened Monday morning, the joint statement said.

The FDIC said the agreement is part of a sale of the closed bank to the Southern Bank and Trust Co.

New Autos Vie On Gas Usage

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While car-hunters scanned government fuel economy ratings of the 1975 models today, the four major U.S. auto makers made the best of it, scoring points off each other and ignoring the foreign cars that beat them all.

In the official test results issued on Friday by the Environmental Protection Agency, small cars by Datsun, Volkswagen and Mercedes-Benz held the top dozen places, unmatched by any U.S. model in either city or highway driving.

Best in both categories was the Datsun B-210, delivering 27 miles per gallon in the EPA lab test simulating city driving and 39 miles per gallon in simulated highway driving.

Close behind were two VW entries, the Rabbit and the Scirocco, both with 24 in the city and 38 on the road, and the Mercedes 240-D and 300-D, both at 24 and 31.

The first U.S. manufacturer to show up on the list was General Motors, grabbing off the 13th through 17th positions with the Chevrolet Vega at 22 and 29 miles per gallon; Pontiac Astro, 22 and 29; Chevrolet Vega Kammback, 21 and 29; Pontiac Astro Wagon, 21 and 29; and Chevrolet Monza, 21 and 29.

In Detroit, GM vice president Howard H. Kehrl expressed pleasure that the government tests confirmed fuel economy improvements and an efficient antipollution system resulting from "an intensive development program at GM."

GM's closest U.S. rival in the gas-guzzlers' derby was American Motors' Gremlin, placing 23rd on the list at 21 and 30 miles per gallon.

In their worst fuel economy performances, GM and AMC ran neck-and-neck; both GM's Buick Electra and AMC's Matador Wagon delivered 11 miles per gallon in EPA's city test and 15 on the imaginary highway.

Still, in both their best and their worst, they outdid Chrysler and Ford.

An AMC spokesman proudly claimed the EPA tests "clearly point to the superior fuel economy of American Motors cars, and the fact that the Gremlin was rated best among U.S.-built cars for highway driving."

Chrysler's best performance was by its Plymouth Valiant and Duster, delivering 18 miles per gallon in simulated city driving, the same as Ford's best entry, the Pinto.

But the Pinto got 26 miles per gallon in simulated highway driving, while the Valiant and Duster got only 23.

Still, Chrysler found a silver lining in EPA's comparison of general companywide fuel economy, taking into account the expected sales of all makes and models.

Chrysler's sales-weighted average, estimated at 13.6 miles per gallon, edged out General Motors' 13.5 and beat Ford's 11.5, allowing a Chrysler spokesman to claim that his company's cars "provide better average fuel economy than those of our two largest competitors."

The Big Three were all surpassed, however, by their smallest U.S. competitor, American Motors, whose sales-weighted averagewas 16.9 miles per gallon.

The sales-weighted average means little to a customer shopping for only one car that gets good mileage.

But a low sales-weighted average may mean the company expects to sell a lot of big, fuel-gulping cars along with its economy models.

Thus, Ford's low average was matched by a large number of Ford models at the very end of EPA's list.

AMC's lowest fuel economy was a Matador Wagon getting 11 and 15 miles per gallon; GM's lowest was a Buick Electra, also 11 and 15; and Chrysler Wagon signed off at 10 and 15 miles per gallon.

Ford finished off the EPA list with eight models showing 10 and 15 miles per gallon, six at 10 and 14, and two — the Ford wagon and the Lincoln Mercury wagon — bringing up the rear at nine miles per gallon in the city and 14 on the highway.

Seek TVA Rate Hike Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Joe L. Evins, D-Tenn., whose House subcommittee oversees the Tennessee Valley Authority, is seeking support for a plan to limit TVA power rate increases to once every two years.

Evins, the senior member of Tennessee's delegation, said he has received support for the move from two other Tennessee congressmen, Reps. John Duncan, a Knoxville Republican, and Rep. Ed Jones, a Democrat from Yorkville.

Rep. Bob Jones, D-Ala., the acting chairman of the House Public Works Committee, has rejected the proposal, Evins said.

Evins, chairman of the house Public Works Appropriations subcommittee, said his bill would place a control on TVA similar to that governing the Bonneville Power Administration, another federal agency in the Pacific Northwest.

The TVA recently adopted an "escalator" system of monthly rate reviews and adjustments, tying the cost of power to the rising cost of coal. Before adopting the system, the TVA's board reviewed its rate structure every three months.

"This bill," Evins said, "would authorize reviews of TVA rates upwards only every two years. There could be a reduction at any time, but the rate could not go upwards more than once every two years."

Evins said the escalator plan "is an open invitation to the monopolistic coal companies to increase their costs."

TVA produces most of its power from coal-fired steam generating plants. In recent weeks, TVA officials have warned of the possibility of brownouts or drastic reductions in the amount of electricity available if the supply of coal does not improve.

The agency said this week that it had less than a 45-day coal reserve across the system. A 90-day supply is considered normal.

Jones informed the Tennessee lawmaker in a letter Thursday that he is unwilling to support his plan.

The deposit will be returned to all unsuccessful bidders. The property to be sold under sealed bids shall be sold as a unit and not separately. Said property is described as follows:

"That certain property formerly known as the "GE Center", a building and surrounding lots at the corner of Main Street and Highway No. 64 in the Town of Bethel, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina, comprised of several tracts heretofore conveyed to J. C. Wynne, Sr. in the following deeds:

(a) Deed from Grover C. Wynne, Sr., et ux, to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated November 25, 1949, recorded in Book M-25, at page 603, in the Pitt County Registry.

(b) Deed from W. C. Whitehurst, et al, to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated March 30, 1948, and recorded in Book C-25, at page 511, of the Pitt County Registry.

(c) Deed from Isabelle Smith Markley to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated September 2, 1949, and recorded in Book M-25, at page 283 of the Pitt County Registry.

The aforesaid property is subject to a lease between J. C. Wynne, Sr. and Wynne's, Incorporated, the terms to be furnished upon request.

The heirs reserve the right to accept or reject all bids within seventy-two (72) hours of said sale. All sales will be subject to any outstanding taxes or municipal assessments.

SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION:

The following real property will be sold to the highest bidder for cash at public auction at the front of the Town Hall in the Town of Bethel, Pitt County, North Carolina, at 11:00 A. M., Tuesday, October 8, 1974, the highest bidder will be required to deposit the sum of ten percent (10 percent) of his bid pending acceptance or rejection of said bid, which deposit will apply on the purchase price if said bid is accepted and the sale consummated. The real property will be sold as separate tracts and is described as follows, all in the Township of Bethel, Pitt County, North Carolina:

"TRACT NO. 1: That lot fronting on the Bethel-Greenville Highway (Main Street) with dimensions of 100 by 110 feet, being a vacant lot now leased by Wynne's, Inc. as a used car lot, and described in a deed from Mattie A. Barnhill, et al, to J. C. Wynne, Jr., et al, dated June 24, 1955, and recorded in Book P-28, at page 230, in the Pitt County Registry."

"TRACT NO. 2: That triangular tract of land east of the Town of Bethel, adjoining Seaboard Coastline Railroad, Blount Brothers, et al, containing three (3) acres, more or less, known as the "coal yard lot", with right of egress and ingress thereto, as described in a deed from Davis L. McWhorter, et al, to J. C. Wynne, Sr. by deed dated November 19, 1945, as recorded in Book M-24, at page 269, in the Pitt County Registry. Excluded from the above property is that property described in a deed from J. C. Wynne, Sr., et al, to J. C. Wynne, Jr. as recorded in Book P-33, at page 26, in the Pitt County Registry.

"This tract is further subject to a lease between J. C. Wynne, Sr., et ux, to Wynne's, Inc., the terms of which will be furnished upon request.

"TRACT NO. 3: That certain lot in the Town of Bethel located at the southwest corner of East and Pleasant Streets, known as the W. R. Baker property and described in a deed from Allie Baker Cherry, widow, to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated May 25, 1968, and recorded in Book T-37, at page 209, in the Pitt County Registry.

"TRACT NO. 4: House and lot in the Town of Bethel on the south side of Jefferson Street, adjoining the Theodore Andrews lot fronting approximately 75 feet on Jefferson Street (Carolina Avenue) and adjoining the Old Barnhill workshop lot, more particularly described in two deeds, one dated December 9, 1944 and recorded in Book E-24, at page 208, of the Pitt County Registry, and one dated June 20, 1952, and recorded in Book N-26, at page 83, of the Pitt County Registry."

After the sale of the aforesaid tracts separately at public auction, the undersigned will then offer for sale in the aggregate all four tracts and if the bid for all four tracts exceeds the sum total of the bids for the four tracts sold separately, then that bidder will be deemed to be the highest bidder and said four tracts will be sold to that one bidder.

The sale of the aforesaid real properties sold at public auction to the highest bidders for cash will be final, subject, however, to acceptance or rejection by the heirs of J. C. Wynne, Sr. (owners thereof) within seventy-two (72) hours of said sale, at which time, the highest bidder will be notified of said acceptance or rejection. Said sale shall further be subject to any outstanding taxes or municipal assessments.

In either the sale by sealed bids or the sale at public auction, final consummation and delivery of deeds shall be within thirty (30) days of the dates of holding of said sales.

Any persons desiring to inspect the premises above described prior to the sale of said property may do so by contacting Harold L. Manning, Jr., Whitehurst Street, Bethel, North Carolina, Telephone No. 825-7521, Bethel, North Carolina.

The Portsmouth
Lynndale Subdivision

Look at this! The Portsmouth in Lynndale subdivision is the ideal home for any family. The large family room with fireplace and built-in bookshelves add warmth and charm. Ladies, you'll love the U-shaped kitchen with dishwasher, disposal and trash compactor designed for comfort and to make cooking fun again. The pass-over bar to the breakfast nook is a great step-saver. A beautiful entrance foyer reveals the spacious living room highlighted by triple windows on front. Long covered porch provides a spot for relaxation — a warm weather hide-away. The half bath is convenient to front entry and entire lower level.

The second level consists of four spacious bedrooms and two baths. The master bedroom with double closets and private bath add a touch of luxury, and is a time saver during the morning rush. Ladies, those glorious closets in each bedroom solve that problem of never having enough storage space! Attractive double windows allow cross ventilation for every bedroom.

Gentlemen, the double garage is a feature you will like. Finally you'll have adequate storage space for your sports equipment and gardening tools. There are 2,247 square feet in this lovely home on a beautiful wooded lot! Central air conditioning and a split heating system are additional features. Now we've come to the great part! 8 per cent financing is available. If you have any questions — just pick up the phone and call us.

The Cascade
Commerce Street

Perfect for the growing family! The Cascade on Commerce Street is a lovely three bedroom, 2 bath home. You enter this home from a covered porch that shades the living room in summer and shelters entry from rain and wind during the cooler months. The spacious kitchen with adjoining family room has over fourteen square feet of counter space which gives you ladies plenty of room when cooking for a crowd. Compact corner kitchen keeps everything within easy reach and affords plenty of room for your dining set. The handy side entrance leaves tracked-in dirt in the garage, not on your clean floors. Just step from car to kitchen, that garage entrance is handy in bad weather, and a backsaver on shopping days!

Maid bath which includes wall to wall vanity is easily reached from all rooms and gives privacy to the second bath in the master suite. Now lets move along to the bedroom wing. The corner master suite is soundproofed by a wall of baths and a wall of closets. The five-shelf linen closet is convenient to all bedrooms and baths. Bedroom doors are arranged so that a glance down the hall never reveals an unmade bed. An "extra" closet is centrally located for guests and so your storage problem is solved. There are 1,107 square feet in this home. It can be yours at only 7¾ per cent financing! We'll be waiting to hear from you!

The Roxboro
Club Pines

We have more to come! The Roxboro in Club Pines is a beautiful home on a wooded lot. This home has 1,748 square feet. Now let's take a walk through this home. We'll begin by entering a spacious foyer through double doors from a 22 foot covered porch. The wonder of this "L"-plan is that it offers the advantages of three separate homes. One wing for informal living, one for sleeping, and out of the way in-between is a formal dining room and living room. The corner living room receives least possible traffic therefore it stays spotless. Use the wide hallway as an excellent area to display your art treasures. Convenient to all rooms is the main bath and the split arrangement of master bath makes these two baths often as useful as four. The 12 foot by 21 foot master suite includes a huge "walk-in" closet, linen closet, split bath and a bedroom with space to spare.

Moving left through this home we enter the time saving U'shaped kitchen with dishwasher and disposal. Your garage has loads of space for tools and sports equipment. An extra feature is the exposed beams in the 13 foot by 10 foot family room which gives the room a rustic air. Super financing at 90 per cent is available. Call us!

ITS CHARMING AND THEN SOME

And we just added the finishing touches yesterday. If you're tired of those small bedrooms, check this new home. We made the bedrooms extra large, the way they should be. We provided lots of extra storage cabinets in the kitchen for all the nic-nacs and goodies. We made the baths light and airy to give you that happy feeling in the morning. We stretched the family room so it will accommodate all the kiddies and still provide that extra space for mother and dad. The living room will accommodate your furniture and piano. The formal dining room will easily seat your family and the boss with his kids too. A big double carport and storage room. Oh yes, we completely landscaped the lot, so you can forget that expense. Now the good news, an 8¾ per cent annual interest rate loan is available and the price is $53,600.00

OUTTA SIGHT

Airport Traffic To Be Problem For Years To Come

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

Airline passengers can zip from New York to Chicago in two hours and coast to coast in five.

But, as any seasoned traveler knows, getting to and from and through most major airports can be an annoying, choking sensation.

Approach roads are jammed. Taxi rides frequently are long and expensive. Parking lots are full. Ticket lines can be lengthy. Long walks to a departure gate or between terminals are common. It sometimes seems an eternity before baggage arrives.

The swift and reliable jet airliners, especially the wide-bodied jumbo jets, are attracting millions of new passengers each year. That adds to the airport saturation problem many cities are trying to solve with new, modern airports or expanded facilities.

Scheduled U.S. airlines carried 202 million passengers in 1973. The Air Transport Association forecasts more than 300 million passengers in 1980 and more than 700 million by the year 2000.

Automated "people movers," resembling miniature transit systems, now carry passengers around a few of the new airports, but the people movers haven't always worked properly. In the drive to modernize and expand airport capacity, computers have been installed in some places to handle baggage, but with mixed results.

Five cities — Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Kansas City, Tampa and Washington — have built new, modern airports in recent years, incorporating the latest technology. Other cities have tried, but have been blocked by environmentalists, by cutbacks in airline landing fees, by noise problems, and by financing troubles. Some cities have settled on the interim step of enlarging existing facilities, postponing the construction of new airports until the 1980s or 1990s.

The newest, largest and spiffiest U.S. airport is the ultramodern facility that opened last January halfway between the rival Texas cities of Dallas and Fort Worth. Larger than the island of Manhattan, the 17,000-acre, $800 million complex features the latest in computer-controlled people movers and baggage handlers.

Designed to accommodate eight million or more passengers in its first year, it eventually can be expanded to take care of 50 million annually.

Two airlines at Dallas-Fort Worth operate an automatic baggage system called "Docutel," a 4,000-foot complex of rails and cars resembling a miniature roller coaster. The computers that drive the system frequently guided bags to wrong bins or off the edge of the beltway or sent carrier cars crashing into suitcases with devastating results.

Another sticking point is the distance to the airport, 15 miles from Dallas or Fort Worth, a $14 cab ride.

Distance from downtown, 19 miles, is a sore point, too, at the new Kansas City International, which opened two years ago as the world's first airport featuring a "drive to your gate" processing system. Passengers and their baggage arriving at any of three circular terminals are never more than 200 feet from their aircraft. "The world's shortest walk: to fly," proclaim airport brochures. A fleet of mini-buses efficiently whisks people between terminals and parking lots.

"We have no people movers or other automation here like Dallas-Fort Worth," said Howard Willoughby, Kansas City International's deputy director. "When we designed the airport we looked at various systems. The costs were horrendous, nothing really worked and nothing impressed us. So we designed the 'drive to your gate' concept to avoid such things as people movers."

Tampa's new $100-million international airport employs four computer-driven people-mover shuttles to take passengers from the central terminal to four satellite boarding areas. Maximum walking distance from ground transportation to a boarding gate is 700 feet.

Since the airport opened three years ago, the shuttles have ferried 40 million people, with only two persons injured in a freak accident caused by human error.

The modern terminal has six floors. The first level is for baggage, second for ticketing, third for shops, restaurants, hotel and shuttles, and the top three for parking 1,800 cars. The airport is handling about 5.2 million people a year and has a capacity for 20 million.

"As far as we're concerned, the airport has exceeded our expectations," reports Paul MacAlester of the Hillsborough County Aviation Authority.

The oldest of the new airports, Dulles International, opened in 1963, hopefully to relieve congestion at Washington National Airport. But its location 27 miles from the nation's capital earned it a reputation as a lonely Taj Mahal in the Virginia countryside.

Both airports are run by the Federal Aviation Administration and thus are subject to the whims of Congress, whose members prefer flying from close-in National. Thus, airlines were slow in scheduling flights into Dulles.

In 1965, two years after it opened, Dulles logged only 827,000 passengers and many called it a white elephant. But gradually it has come into its own as Washington area and international traffic has increased.

The barring of jumbo jets from National and the restriction on takeoffs and landings between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. helped Dulles raise its passenger load to 2.6 million in 1973.

Washington National, too, has continued to raise its traffic in its crowded confines along the Potomac, registering 11.7 million passengers last year.

Airlines normally produce as much as 50 per cent of a large airport's revenue, mostly through landing fees. An economic downturn and the higher cost of fuel resulting from the recent energy crisis have cut into airline profits and have forced major cutbacks in spending by airport users.

In some communities, new issues of general obligation bonds for the funding of airport projects are being put aside to permit financing of politically more popular measures such as school construction or urban development.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ADAM KENNEDY,
author of "Somebody Else's Wife"
How are you related to the Kennedy family?—F. O'Neill, Lowell, Mass.

● I'm not, but because of a facial resemblance, it's assumed I am. When my passport was checked on arrival in Portugal recently, I was asked the usual question. I denied the relationship, but until we left, we were followed discreetly by a security man. He stuck out like a sore thumb in his business suit, especially among the farmers when we rode on a chicken bus. We always had the best hotel rooms, the best tables in restaurants and the best theater seats. That holiday gave me an inkling of what it must be like to be a "real" Kennedy. I was quite sorry to return to the U.S. and dissolve once more in my well of oblivion and anonymity.

FOR RAQUEL WELCH

Were you surprised by Henry Kissinger's marriage?—A. M., Waco, Texas

● If you mean was I surprised that he didn't marry an actress, no. I would have been startled if he had—because we're all supposed to be slightly bananas! His dating a few stars didn't make Kissinger a playboy. In fact, in this Watergate era, he's the only one who commands confidence and respect. Nancy Kissinger is a very lovely, intelligent and attractive lady. I'm sure they're ideally matched.

FOR HOWARD COSELL

Every once in a while you have a real dog of a game on "Monday Night Football." Do you pick the games or work within a schedule made up by Commissioner Rozelle's office?—John Dawson, Canton, Ohio

● Jim Kensil, executive director of the National Football League, makes up the schedule with the help of two other league officials. Commissioner Pete Rozelle has final approval. We have absolutely no say as to what games we get.

FOR SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE

It's well known you jog the 4.7 miles from your home to the Senate. How do you keep fit outside D.C.?—Ms. Laurene Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● Wherever I am, I make it a point to run at least five miles every morning before breakfast. How do I know I've run five miles? I check my watch as I start, run for 20 minutes in one direction, then back. It takes me 40 minutes. Incidentally, in Washington I also run home at night. I don't know if you live longer this way, but it certainly seems like it.

FOR MICHAEL LEARNED,
star of CBS-TV's "The Waltons"

Did your parents hope for a boy when they named you Michael?—Mrs. Rose L. Sands, Brookfield, Conn.

● No, my parents (Bruce and Betti) didn't want a boy when I was born. In fact, I'm the eldest of six girls, and with the exception of Susan, we all have unusual names (Gretl, Sabra, Dorit and Phillipa). My father remarried, and I have a five-year-old half brother, Tarquin. My own three sons are called Caleb, Christopher and Lucas.

FOR ANN CORIO of "This Was Burlesque"*

I understand that, although you have been in burlesque for many years, you are old-fashioned in your views on sex. True?—J. R., Atlantic City, N.J.

● It depends on what you call "old-fashioned." I'm terribly shocked by today's permissiveness. Sex should be an act of love, and it isn't any more. By having sex without love, kids are wasting beautiful, precious years.

FOR JACQUELINE SUSANN, author of "Once Is Not Enough"

You leave nothing to the imagination in your books. Does anything embarrass you?—B. Harris, Utica, N.Y.

● Yes. Quite recently my husband and I were with Melina Mercouri at Chasen's in Hollywood. As we stood in the doorway, a streaker ran into the lobby of the restaurant. The maitre d', completely deadpan, chided: "You must wear a jacket and tie in here." I don't know why, but I blushed scarlet and was mortified.

FOR BEN GAZZARA

Is it true you're helping to fight addiction?—M. W., Hartford, Conn.

● Right. I've been involved for many years in encouraging addicts to kick their habit. I was recently elected to the board of directors of Phoenix House, which teaches ex-addicts, alcoholics and the lonely to start afresh. By the way, in 1955 I starred on Broadway in "Hatful of Rain," in which I played an addict. I think that's when I became emotionally involved with the problem.

FOR JOAN CRAWFORD

What's your reaction when you see yourself on the late shows?—Tom Walters, Washington, D.C.

● I am seldom up that late because my 18-hour day starts at 6 a.m.! But if I ever am, I study what I see as a critic would, and what usually comes to mind is, "Why did the director let her do this instead of that?" I watch myself as I view everyone else—dispassionately. It's not me I'm looking at, but an actress I don't know. I think of acting as a craft—whether I do it or anyone else.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I just love Bette Midler. How come we don't read more about her?—K. O., Alexandria, Va.

● Miss Midler, one of this country's fastest rising and most talented singers, won't cooperate with the press, who are anxious to include her in stories and articles. She says that unless the story is about her, and her alone, she doesn't want to be in it, because she doesn't like the idea of being lumped together with similar celebrities. Last year she won "After Dark" magazine's Entertainer of the Year award, and this year she won a Grammy Award for the Best New Artist. Incidentally, another star who thinks the same way is Barbra Streisand.

A European Observer Asks:

Why Do You Americans Love to Scream About New York Violence?

By Geoffrey Bocca
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

Some years ago, Charlton Heston, Heywood H. Broun, TV writer Jim Lee and I discussed New York violence over dinner in Lee's apartment on Central Park West (that is to say, three of us did most of the listening and Broun did most of the talking, which tends to happen when New York's most fluent conversationalist is around). We discovered that none of us had experienced violence in New York. I myself had seen more violence in London, Paris and Nice in half an hour than I had seen in New York in 25 years.

From that premise, a game emerged. Whenever the subject of violence comes up at dinner parties, as it so frequently does, we put the question, "How much violence have you seen in New York?"

Answer: "Violence! My sister from Tennessee was walking along 72nd Street at Madison Avenue at midday, and. . . ."

"Not your sister from Tennessee. You."

"Well, personally—you mean personally?"

"Yes."

"Well, I haven't. . . ."

Point made, the next victim is set up for destruction. The story is nearly always the same. Everybody knows somebody who knows somebody who. Not the least interesting aspect of the party game is the invariable astonishment of New Yorkers when it dawns on them how much violence they have not seen.

In London I have seen sickening scenes of violence at Stamford Bridge soccer stadium and in the Piccadilly Circus subway station and in Soho. I learned to my surprise that trueborn Englishmen, perhaps as an offshoot of joining the European Common Market, have taken to the continental practice of kicking their opponents in the face when they are lying helpless on the ground (whatever happened to the Marquis of Queensberry Rules?). At Shea Stadium I have seen some lousy baseball—even bad sportsmanship—but never real violence. In Britain, packs of teenage troublemakers, known as bother-boys, are a sordid part of the sporting scene. Their weapons are darts and heavy boots. A particularly vicious little weapon is a pre-decimal penny piece (the size of a 50-cent piece), honed to razor-sharpness and tossed into the crowd.

One European correspondent wrote, tongue-in-cheek: "New Yorkers have a fatalistic attitude toward death. Every night at midnight you can see couples strolling in the scores and hundreds, many women in mink, men in tuxedoes. They don't seem to care that they will all be lying dead, mugged or stabbed in the next few minutes."

In Nice, the cultural heart of the French Riviera, I have been caught in crossfire between rival Corsican gangs. In Montmartre, Paris, I have seen knives out and blood flowing. But in New York I am one of the three to five million out-of-towners and foreigners who visit the place as a holiday city every year. All but a handful return home having had a splendid time.

To assert that New York is not a violent city would be absurd. The Daily News confirms the violence every day. Yet the recent statistic that New York rates only ninth in big-city violence surprised the nation—including New York.

Occasionally, in our party game, we get our ears pinned back by people who have had bad experiences in New York. And those who did tended to have had more than one. Europeans and out-of-towners seem to have more trouble than resident New Yorkers. One spectacular example was Gerry Albertini, the English millionaire, who briefly made headlines as a friend of Clifford Irving. Albertini, at Irving's request, hid the phony Howard Hughes manuscript, brought it to New York to give it to Irving and was mugged outside the Plaza. He immediately flew back to Ibiza, Spain, in a state of shock, and swore never to return to Manhattan.

Who then are the bad-mouthers? Certainly not the big foreign-press corps. A London newspaper editor recently asked his New York bureau chief to write an article on the theme that Times Square is the most dangerous spot in the western world. The correspondent, tongue-in-cheek, cabled back: "New Yorkers have a fatalistic attitude toward death. Every night at midnight you can see couples strolling in the scores and hundreds, many women in mink, men in tuxedoes. They don't seem to care that they will all be lying dead, mugged or stabbed in the next few minutes. They are making their way from the Broadway theater they have just attended to Sardi's or Dinty Moore's for suppers. . . . The amazing thing is that in these restaurants, which should be deserted, one cannot get a table. . . ."

Alistair Cooke was recently asked by an English friend on his way to New York what were the risks of being attacked. Cooke replied, "I am often asked that question, and can only give the same reply. Your chances of being attacked in New York are about the same as your chances of being burgled in London."

After years of studying the subject, it seems to me that three principal groups give New York a bad name, and I will leave the worst—or most damaging—till last. Out-of-towners are the most understandable. A recent movie, "Little Murders," shows Elliot Gould, bleeding from a stab wound, staggering from car to car in a subway train, while the other passengers glue their eyes to their newspapers. New Yorkers may think this a funny scene, but for someone who has never been to New York, it would be understandable to believe it happens every day.

The second category consists of a band of filthy-rich East Side New Yorkers who would never dare accept party invitations outside their own neighborhood. Imprisoned in their Park Avenue duplexes, guarded by doormen and elevator operators, they flee from taxi to front door, and from front door to taxi. They have created a legend of their own, symbolized by the famous old joke, "The only time I go across town is to catch the 'Queen Mary' to Europe."

But the most bizarre group of rogue-propagandists, and perhaps the most influential, is that of the American expatriates living in Europe. The horror—terror—of New York nurtured by Americans living abroad can be more easily understood by a direct comparison. During World War II, the bombing of London gave nightmares to Englishmen living in safety abroad. They imagined the capital a wilderness of smoking rubble, the people starving. Newspaper photographs of wrecked palaces and churches, St. Paul's Cathedral ringed in flames, housewives standing in food lines, seemed to confirm their worst fears. Those who returned were flabbergasted to find that London still stood, restaurants and pubs were open, theaters thrived, Margot Fonteyn danced, Thomas Beecham conducted, food rationing was adequate, morale was high. Londoners could not understand what the fuss was all about.

Today, Americans abroad read the stories of crime, violence and menace. They see photographs of handcuffed muggers and murderers, and they spread the word. The fear does not apply to students. But it spreads through all the higher social levels, such as American bank vice presidents in Paris, American stockbrokers in Monte Carlo, American writers in Italy, even American airline executives. One—I obviously cannot name him—has confessed to me on innumerable occasions that he is terrified when he is summoned back to New York for conferences, and catches the first available plane back to Europe. In the daytime, of course, he is enthusiastically selling tickets from Europe to Fun City.

But the most astounding picture of New York as it isn't appears in Richard Condon's otherwise marvelous new best seller, "Winter Kills." Condon is an expatriate who, over the last 30 years, has lived in Mexico, England, Spain and Switzerland, and now makes his home in County Kilkenny, Ireland. The reader is commended to turn to page 127, and read the following:

"For a cab . . . he fought off three men (who had body-blocked two women), made it into a cab, slammed the door and locked it instantly. There was no thought in anyone's mind that he should have offered to share the cab, because everyone there knew that everyone else there was probably a homicidal maniac who carried a concealed icepick that would flash out and pin the cab-sharer's heart to the back of the seat. The driver, locked inside a steel compartment behind the wheel, didn't want to know who rode, who killed whom or who didn't. Everything but the street traffic hurried across the funeral parlor of the western world (my italics) in taut silence and with frightened faces. Even with the doors locked, and a good grip on his blackjack . . . Nick sweated out the passage . . . to the Plaza. . . ."

People who know New York will be intrigued to learn that Mr. Condon is describing Penn Station at rush hour!

Open the door, Richard! There's no one there. Except for your own fears, of course. But that's not really New York's fault, is it?

The New Life of Lady Bird Johnson:

"Pleasure yourself in little ways. Dare to do something that may seem trivial to others but has meaning to you."

Frank Wolfe

Lady Bird cuddles her granddaughter Nicole: "I want to know what my grandchildren think and to help expand their minds. . . ."

She walks down her own nature trail, a lone, small figure, stopping here and there to sniff each wild flower, examine every leaf and bush. Secret Servicemen watch at a respectful distance, silent lest they disturb her, lest they intrude. Now and then she looks over at them and smiles, wanting them to know she is all right, she is not sad.

Lady Bird Johnson's eye is not entirely introspective, though, a year and a half after her husband's sudden death in January, 1973. "I have many reasons for happiness," she says, "happy memories of our life together in and out of the White House, friends all over the world, wonderful daughters, wonderful sons-in-law, the most darling grandchildren a woman could have, and now the mission of helping to carve my husband's words in granite for the inspiration of all people."

Whenever Lady Bird is tempted to "act sad" or mope around, that is when she gets to work—studying her husband's speeches, writing letters and answering her mail, which still runs at an incredible 4,000 pieces a month. And incredibly, too, she answers all letters herself, reads all mail that comes in. "I've been the wife of a congressman too long not to do my own homework or not to care what people are saying or thinking," she says.

Nash Castro, who is chairman of the committee for the LBJ memorial, is only one of the old friends that Lady Bird leans on for strength and inspiration since her husband's death. "I am lucky," she says, "to be surrounded by all those who cared deeply about my husband and worked for him with great dedication." Such people as Liz Carpenter, who was her press secretary in the White House and who now is helping her with the memorial, and three executives of the LBJ Library who were with her husband in Washington—Harry Miller, director of the library and once an LBJ speech writer; Mary Rather, who was secretary to LBJ from the time he was elected to the House of Representatives in 1937; and Dorothy Territo, who went to work for LBJ when he was Vice President and who is now assistant library director.

Lady Bird and her frequent escort R. Max Brooks, an architect of the LBJ Library in Austin, Texas.

Even with friends stopping in and 700 to 1,000 tourists driving by each day Lady Bird still feels too great a loss to stay at the ranch alone during the week, too conscious every moment of the presence that is no longer there and the grave that is.

So she stays at her Austin apartment in the same building that houses the TV station that was the major part of the family holdings until it was sold after LBJ's death.

But every weekend finds her the center of family life again at the ranch. Then Luci and her husband Pat Nugent, who runs the family radio station, KLBJ, and their children—Lyn, seven, Nicole, four, and just-born Rebekah—visit her there, and Lady Bird takes time to develop a close relationship with each child "on a one-to-one basis."

Her All-Out War on Loneliness

Lyn brought me a present. It was the discarded skin of a snake he'd found."

Little Lyn, so far her only grandson, is the apple of her eye, and Lady Bird wears a locket with his picture in it. Since he is named Lyndon, for his famous grandfather, it sometimes brings a lump to her throat just to say his name. And one day the lump was just a little bigger when she watched Lyn take his first ride on a big horse all by himself. But she swallowed hard, flashed a big smile and said, "Oh, wouldn't Lyndon have loved to see that, wouldn't he have been proud!"

Lady Bird has worked out her own solution to widowhood with points that could help millions of other women faced with the same sudden emptiness of feeling after losing a husband:

1. "Don't give in to sadness. Fight it. Smile, and a happy thought will follow." Others know what you are going through, she says, and are sharing your suffering already, so it isn't fair to inflict still more pain on them.

2. "Don't feel you must stay riveted to the spot where everything reminds you of your departed husband." Not too long after LBJ's death, Lady Bird took a trip to Europe with her daughter Lynda and son-in-law Chuck Robb, going to out-of-the-way places she had been unable to see when she was First Lady.

3. "Pleasure yourself in little ways. Dare to do something that may seem trivial to others but has meaning to you." As an illustration, Lady Bird took a trip to New England last autumn simply to see the leaves change color. It was something she had always wanted to do.

4. "Retrace your journey through life so you can see it in perspective and turn to other things." Along this line, the former First Lady made a sort of pilgrimage to the places she and Lyndon had lived during his long political career—first to the rather small house on 30th Place in Northwest Washington, where they lived when Johnson was in Congress, and then to the huge, elegant estate, The Elms, that they bought from famed hostess Perle Mesta and where they lived during the vice presidential days. The trip got something out of her system. She then drove all over Washington and saw her own influence on its parks and roadsides. "I saw the blossoming of a city, and it was beautiful."

5. "Have many goals—as many as you can handle." Lady Bird Johnson has many goals. A major one is the beautification of the towns, cities and highways, not just of Texas but of states all over the nation.

In line with her goal to make America a more beautiful place for her own grandchildren and all children to grow up in, Lady Bird has called together city architects and urban leaders in a symposium aimed at finding new ways to make cities "live" again.

Another goal is to handle her husband's estate so well that it will help her grandchildren lead busy, useful lives free from poverty. Does that mean she would like to see her grandson become President someday and spend the money necessary to win political battles? "Yes, I would like to see that," she says, "but only if he is tough enough and wise enough to be President."

It's an interesting thought. And then Lady Bird laughs, knowing that her "liberated" daughter Lynda would argue that by the time Lyn is old enough to be President, his stiffest competition for the Presidency may come from his own sisters, Nicole Marie "Coco," and Rebekah "Becky" Johnson Nugent, and his girl cousins, Lucinda Desha "Cindy," and Catherine "Cathy" Lewis Robb.

But the most immediate of Lady Bird's goals is the enhancement of the nation's memory of her husband and the project she calls "the living memorial," but which is more formally designated by the National Park Service as "The LBJ Memorial Grove on the Potomac." On September 27, when she rises to speak at the ground breaking and tree planting, she will feel that she is giving her husband the best "birthday present" she could, even if it is a month late.

Friends cannot help but wonder if there will ever be another romance in Lady Bird's life other than the one she is now seeking to honor in memoriam. Surely it is clear that so far she isn't looking for that kind of excitement, although she still diets carefully, buys fine designer clothes and spends time at a beauty spa. Her makeup is flawless.

Some say Lady Bird is becoming more glamorous than her daughter Lynda Bird, but they feel it is somehow done more to be true to her memory of Lyndon, who was always carping on beauty and good grooming, than to please any new interest. She herself admits that she is still so conscious of the presence of Lyndon that she catches herself turning down the page of a book with a quotation to show him, just as she used to do when he was alive.

But there are at least several eminently eligible men around Lady Bird who have been friends of years standing and whom she does see from time to time. Two on this list are R. Max Brooks, one of the architects of the LBJ Library, and Frank Erwin, a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas.

So far they are just good friends.

And so far, as those who know her best seem to agree, romance is not what is on her mind right now. As Lady Bird herself said, "I'll tell you what my New Year's resolution was for this year—serenity!"

Friends predict her resolution for next year will be more of the same.

Mrs. Johnson's Living Memorial To a President's Words

How nice it would be, Lady Bird reasoned, if Bicentennial visitors to Washington could start their pilgrimage at some lofty point of land from which they could see all the great landmarks and memorials while picnicking under a beautiful grove of trees.

What emerged from this idea was a plan for a "living memorial" to Lyndon Johnson—a grove of 500 white pines that would not include a single statue but would be like the man himself, rugged and roughhewn and a part of nature.

The centerpiece of the park will be a 45-ton piece of pink granite on which will be chiseled some of Johnson's more memorable remarks. Here are some of the quotations under consideration:

ON POVERTY:

"The real war to end all wars must be the war to eliminate poverty." (Remarks to the Members of the International Labor Press Association, the White House, April 27, 1964.)

"The war against poverty will not be won here in Washington. It must be won in the field, in every private home, in every public office, from the courthouse to the White House." (State of the Union Address, January 8, 1964.)

"If the attack on poverty is to mean anything, it must reach all the poor—including those whose educational experience and past behavior make them difficult to teach, motivate and discipline." (Message to Congress, March 14, 1967.)

"We won't win this fight in a day or in a year, or perhaps in this generation, but let no man be deceived. This is a fight that we will win. Poverty may be the oldest scourge, but tools available for fighting it are man's newest tools in our vast new technology, in our expanding science, in the steady growth of all of our resources. This, in fact, is how I see the war on poverty. I see it above all as a fight for opportunity, not a handout, not a dole, but a vast upgrading of all of our people's skills. This is also the basic sense of the wider struggle that we wage, the struggle to extend these opportunities to the whole family of man." (Remarks to the Convention of the United Auto Workers, Atlantic City, N.J., March 23, 1964.)

ON POWER:

"We often say how impressive power is. But I do not find it impressive at all. The guns and bombs, the rockets and the warships, all are symbols of human failure. They are necessary symbols. They protect what we cherish. But they are witness to human folly." (Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., April 7, 1965.)

ON PREJUDICE:

"I condemn, as most Americans do, anyone taking the law in their hands or anyone organizing for the purpose of hate and dividing his fellowman and practicing upon the prejudices and playing upon the prejudices of the people of this country." (News Conference, July 18, 1964.)

ON THE PRESIDENCY:

"The Presidency of this nation is no place for a timid soul or a torpid spirit. It is the one place where a petty temper and a narrow view can never reside. For the Presidency is both a legacy from the past and a profusion of hope for the future." (Remarks at a Democratic Reception, Miami Beach, Fla., February 27, 1964.)

"I know of nothing in the President's job that is more important than being held accountable to the people." (News Conference, February 29, 1964.)

Mrs. Johnson and the memorial committee invite contributions—no matter how small—to help raise the $2 million needed for the project. $500 buys a tree. $250 pays for a bench. $100 buys a cluster of flowering shrubs. But even $1 would be appreciated, they say.

The Hamilton Mint Proudly Presents...

THE OFFICIAL MEDALLIONS HONORING THE INDUCTEES INTO THE

AT PINEHURST, NORTH CAROLINA

An Extremely Limited Edition in Proof Finish Pure Silver

Medallions shown slightly larger than actual size

This first edition is limited to only 25,000 in pure silver — the only ones that will ever be minted commemorating this historic event

ON SEPTEMBER 11, 1974 an extraordinary and exciting event in the world of golf took place. The thirteen greatest champions in the history of the sport became the first golfers ever inducted into the newly completed "World Golf Hall of Fame," at Pinehurst, North Carolina.

These magnificent athletes from the past and present are the men and women most responsible for turning a little known Scottish pastime into the world's greatest participant sport.

Elected by the Golf Writers Association of America, they were enshrined in this new sport mecca dedicated to the glory of golf.

Their names are legend with golfers and non-golfers alike. Great champions all, they are: Jack Nicklaus; Bobby Jones; Arnold Palmer; Walter Hagen; Byron Nelson; Gene Sarazen; Francis Quimet; Harry Vardon; "Babe" Zaharias; Ben Hogan; Patty Berg; Sam Snead; and Gary Player.

Their great accomplishments on the links are the inspiration to excellence for golfers worldwide and they will always remain topics of conversation wherever and whenever golf enthusiasts gather.

A Magnificent Commemorative 14 Medallion Collection in Pure Silver

To honor both the opening of the Hall of Fame and the new inductees, The Hamilton Mint, named the Official Mint of The World Golf Hall of Fame,will strike in precious metal, fourteen magnificent fine art medallions. Thirteen will bear the finely sculptured likeness of each of the new Hall of Fame members and the fourteenth will show the beautiful Official Emblem of The Hall of Fame itself. Each medallion will measure 1½" in diameter and contain 480 grains of Pure Silver. The special Hall of Fame medallion will measure 2" in diameter and contain 840 grains of Pure Silver.

A Superb Treasury of Fine Art

The Hamilton Mint, known for its magnificent relief sculpture has painstakingly crafted each medallion to a fine art masterpiece. Each will have a gleaming mirror-like proof finish and the medallions will be issued, as they are minted to your order, at the rate of two a month.

A Strictly Limited First Edition

To fully insure the integrity of this collection as a valuable heirloom that will be treasured from one generation to another, only 25,000 proof finish sets in .999 fine silver, the finest and purest silver available, will ever be minted. And once the edition limits have been reached, the dies will be destroyed. Proof finish sets are traditionally reserved only for masterworks of medallic art and this series will be especially valued and sought after by collector and golf enthusiast alike.

Your Valuable Personal Serial Number

Each medallion will be expressly minted for you and bear The Hamilton Mint Hallmark plus your personal matching and registered serial number. Subscription numbers will be assigned in the exact order that subscriptions are received, the lowest numbers, of course, going to the first subscribers.

A Rare Opportunity with Guaranteed Price Protection

While leading economists are predicting that gold and silver will become more valuable in the years ahead, you are guaranteed the original subscription price for your entire collection no matter what happens to the price of silver and gold on The International Metals Market. For the collector who seeks to build and own an important treasury in precious metal—this is a rare opportunity to do so.

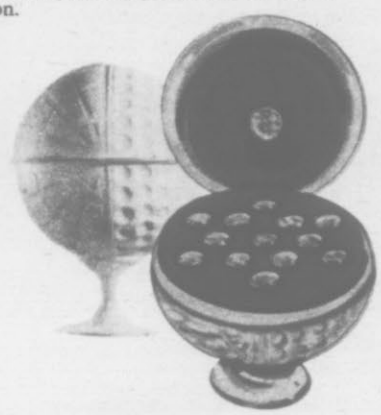

Remember, this is a strictly limited edition. There is an absolute limit of one set per subscriber and all orders received after the edition limits are reached must regretfully be declined and returned.

Collectors Archive Edition of 24KT Gold on .999 Fine Silver

This special edition combines the rich beauty and lustre of gold with silver. 24KT gold is joined with the silver to further enhance the potential value of this edition. Each magnificent medallion will be individually serially numbered and hallmarked. Only 10,000 sets will be minted and each medallion will cost only $20.00 with the larger Hall of Fame medallion costing $35.00.

Custom Display Case Included at No Charge

Undoubtedly the most unique display unit ever devised for a Limited Edition medallion series, the unit is in the shape of a golf ball on a tee and duplicates the design of the official emblem of the World Golf Hall of Fame. It is lush red velveteen lined and fitted to display and protect the entire collection.

Something "homespun," something new, something green, honey-colored, too— that's today's most visible trend in interiors.

By Rosalyn Abrevaya, Women's Editor

Decorating Goes "Back-to-Nature"

Thoreau had the right idea about nature. So did the writer who penned these words on a poster picked up in southern Vermont: "A man who has begun to abandon nature has begun to abandon himself."

Apparently this philosophy has started to work into the fabric of home life. The ecology movement has gone indoors—and we applaud it!

How does the natural look show itself? In basic materials, like cotton, wool, silk or their look-alikes; in neutral, earth-toned colors; in homespun touch-me textures; and in handicrafts. It is elemental, like the graining of wood; primitive, like an earthenware vase; old, like a slab of granite; new, like a flowering plant.

The look of natural fibers and textures in upholstery fabrics has had a lot to do with the popularity of the nature trend. And unlike our Colonial forebears, we do not have to put up with the limitations of dye resistance. Modern technology has surmounted such problems and also made possible authentic-looking substitutes for leather and suede, for example, that are lower priced and easily maintained. Nylons, rayons and polyesters can imitate yarns that might have come right from the spinning wheel.

The best part about back-to-nature decorating is that you can do it in a big way (redo the living room and dining room in bleached maple, pine or oak), opt for the look only in the family room or treat your home to refreshing touches with accessories—basketwork, a lamp, clock or wall system.

If you like the look, study these room settings. They'll help you start to bring the outdoors in!

Hues of white, yellow, green and beige create a breezy mood.

Natural Wood as a Room Decoration

Shined only with oil, these walnut pieces show their real color against bright-blue walls. An office, breakfast nook or study can all work in this versatile foyer. Designer Peggy Walker economized on space by using a pair of System Cado storage units, only 31 inches wide, with bookshelves that can be adjusted at a moment's notice. Area rug by Concepts International.

Use Nature's Own Colors

Here's an earth-tone atmosphere with a fine greenery finish. The room is kept airy with directors' chairs, a glass coffee table and a cornerful of plants. Add plush to posh in your living room with thick Bigelow carpeting in a sandy color that won't show the dirt. A commodious sofa by Selig can take care of any overnight guests.

Wood without a heavy finish adds a warm, light touch to this additional "room."

Best Buys for Your Home

ANNOUNCING THE FINISH-IT-YOURSELF HOUSE™

THE HOME YOU THOUGHT YOU COULDN'T AFFORD AND THE FINANCING YOU THOUGHT YOU COULDN'T GET.

These days, you're not likely to find a $40,000 house selling for $25,000. But if you're willing to do some work, you can earn yourself a bargain. We'll even finance it for you.

Here's how it works.

CHOOSE YOUR LOCATION

First, decide on the area where you'd like to live. Then find a nice piece of property and buy it.

Suitable building lots can range from a few hundred dollars on up, depending on size and location.

CUSTOMIZE THE HOUSE PLANS

Choose one of our 78 designs. You can modify the plans to suit your family size, your way of living, and your budget.

You also select the roofing, siding, and all the interior appointments such as kitchen and bath accessories, doors, windows, flooring, lighting fixtures and so forth.

This way, you can make your home just what you want it to be.

OLD-FASHIONED CONSTRUCTION

We do the heavy construction and completely enclose your home.

You'll find that we don't compromise on quality. Our materials and building specifications are considered old-fashioned in this day of the jerry-built wonder, but that doesn't bother us. We've been building quality homes for almost 30 years and we're too proud to change now.

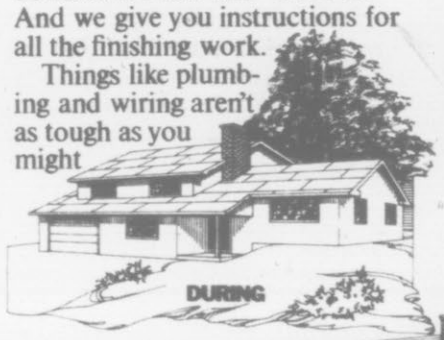

FLOOR PLANS YOU CAN MODIFY

KITCHENS AND BATHS, THE WAY YOU WANT THEM

FINISHING YOUR HOME

You can get everything you need to finish your home—right down to the last nail—from us. And we give you instructions for all the finishing work.

Things like plumbing and wiring aren't as tough as you might think, even for people who've never done more than hang a picture.

You can do the work yourselves, get your friends to help out, or even sub-contract some of it.

The more work you do, the more you'll save. But even if you hire people to help, you'll be saving a sizeable amount by eliminating the general contractor's profits.

And when you're finished, you'll not only have a home that's worth a lot more than you paid for it, you'll have a real feeling of accomplishment.

WE'LL PROVIDE FINANCING

Because we believe in our homes and in the people who buy them, we provide the financing.

Your down payment won't put a big dent in your savings. (The cost of your building lot can be the only major cash outlay you'll have to make.) You can finance the rest of the cost through us at competitive rates. And if at any time you find a better financing arrangement, you can switch over with no pre-payment penalty.

104-PAGE CATALOG

If our finish-it-yourself plan makes sense to you, send the coupon to Capp Homes, and we'll mail you our full-color "Idea Book" of 78 plans.

Why let the high cost of housing force you to settle for less?

Furniture for today's family living is taking on new dimensions. The varied activities of dining, lounging, entertaining, even accommodating an occasional overnight guest, call for furnishings that will work in more than one area of the home. Smartly appointed, versatile pieces are the answer. FAMILY WEEKLY editors culled the market to find what we think are "good buys": items that represent money well spent for what you get in return—not calculated on price alone.

The Classic Rolltop

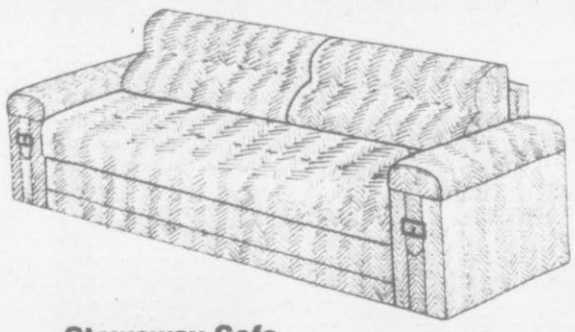

This chrome-trimmed tambour rolltop desk is perfect for the woman who wants a private place to work. Created by Bassett, the walnut-finish desk provides door-enclosed storage space, a roomy pullout desk surface and a working drawer. The foldaway top keeps papers safe from curious fingers. A good living room, den or kitchen (why not?) addition, the desk measures 27″ wide by 18″ deep by 44″ high and retails for about $180.

Versatile Lounger

Snuggle up with a good book and a glass of sherry in extra-handsome seating. A variation of the classic French lounge chair, this chaise provides a comfortable place to rest your feet without an ottoman. Designed by International in an Indian motif, it's mill treated with Scotchgard fabric protector to keep its good looks fresh in the family room, bedroom or living room. In a pinch it can even rest a guest. It measures 63″ long by 32″ deep by 30″ high. About $250.

Stowaway Sofa

Why didn't someone think of this before? One arm of this sofa opens to reveal a tiny bar, complete with cutouts for bottles, glasses and an ice chest; the other arm flips up to store sheets and blankets for the hideaway queen-size bed. And there's no more heavy pulling to get the bed out; it's just a touch away beneath the cushions. The sofa, from Burris, measures 94½″ wide by 32″ high by 35″ deep and retails for under $400.

A Fold-Up Rocking Chair!

Sit back and relax in this new lightweight rocking chair that folds and stores easily when not needed. Designed by Flexsteel as a special Bicentennial model, its gleaming black-enamel finish is decorated with an American eagle crest on the top rail, and there is a commemorative brass plate affixed to the back. The tailored corduroy-velvet seat and back insure comfort and elegance. The rocker is as much a part of America as the Fourth of July, since it was originally designed by Ben Franklin, who simply put rockers on his favorite chair. About $70.

Red Heart vs. Herbie.

Herbie's all boy. He's the first to shinny up the tallest tree, skateboard down the steepest hill and jump over the widest mud puddle.

That's precisely why his mom chose Coats & Clark's Red Heart Wintuk* yarn of Orlon® to knit his sweater. (Red Heart is just about the only thing that's tougher than Herbie.)

If he plays baseball, basketball, street hockey or football in it, so what? Our yarn is so springy and resilient that his sweater springs right back into shape. Even if it's spent the day stretched out over a pair of shoulder pads.

And the way Herbie plays, you'd better believe that sweater goes into the washer and dryer just about every day. And it comes out beautifully bright and soft to the touch. Time after time after time after time.

Yes, Herbie is quite a challenge. But really, it's no contest.

COATS & CLARK'S RED HEART®

Tougher than Herbie.

"There I was, counting my daily thousand calories and studying every health-food book in sight. And I came up with what were, for me, four little friends that made me skinny." This reporter discovered a weight-loss secret that worked for her and even surprised her doctor. Is it right for you, too?

The amazing Cider Vinegar, Lecithin, Kelp, B-6 Diet

By MARY ANN CRENSHAW who has been writing on beauty and fashion for the New York Times for ten years.

"THERE ARE TWO sensible safe and tested diets that can make you lose weight, all right. If, and only if, you pick one of them after reading this book and checking with your doctor and then stick with it – and stick fast. One is a high-protein, low-carbohydrate (notice we said high-protein not high-fat) diet, and the other is a low-calorie diet – aided and abetted by my four fabulous discoveries.

"I didn't discover them all at once, you understand. One at a time I tried them. And when I had counted all four, I seemed to have come up with a formula that was, for me, seemingly infallible for making my weight come off with a sudden rush that surprised even ever-doubting me. It may just work for you, too!

"The four were lecithin, cider vinegar, kelp and vitamin B-6. I can only say that I put them all together and came out thin! In two weeks, I lost 12 pounds. I found it difficult to believe. My doctor had to be shown before he would believe it, and it seemed pretty ludicrous for him to be asking me how I did it. But there I was – thin again and still healthy.

Has Never Failed to Take Off Pounds

"Now, since this fortuitous fat-off formula fell into my lap by sheer luck, I have tried the same recipe on many guinea-pig friends. So far, the mysterious mixture of these four ingredients has never failed to take off pounds, as long as a low-calorie regimen was strictly adhered to. For I wouldn't dream of suggesting that these four, together with unlimited food intake, would make you lose weight. If you ever come up with a formula like that, you've no doubt got a ready million waiting for you. And for now, those of us who wish to get our weight down and keep it there will have to diet in one form or another. But my four little friends sure did make things easier . . . and quicker, which is the best part of all.

"Now, I wish I could tell you that I had vast numbers of control subjects and laboratory tests on the usefulness of these four seemingly magic weight-losers. I can't. But I have tried them. My friends have tried them. We have all lost weight, rapidly. And each of them is nothing more than food – with the single exception of B-6, which is just what it says it is, a vitamin – so I don't see how it could hurt you to try. Of course, you should check with your own doctor, anyway. I did."

Introducing Mary Ann Crenshaw's "four little friends that made me skinny."

Friend #1. Lecithin.

In "The Natural Way to Super Beauty," Mary Ann Crenshaw introduces you to the first of her "skinny friends," Lecithin. Pronounce it "less-i-thin" and call it a miracle. For lecithin is a substance that, while not exactly misunderstood, is perhaps not yet fully understood. It is found in egg yolks and in some vegetable oils. But mostly lecithin is a little soybean stuff you may take as you like – in oils, in capsules, in granules. It is a food, not a drug. Miss Crenshaw reports of a doctor's experiment in which it was found that lecithin produced as much as a 30% decrease in cholesterol. Another thing she discovered with lecithin is that it appears simply to shift your weight around to where you want it. And if perchance you are skinny, but have lumpy hips or thighs, it seems to streamline them!

Friend #2. The Cider Vinegar Brew.

Mary Ann Crenshaw reports how she experimented with that old folk remedy of one teaspoonful of cider vinegar in a glass of water. How she began to drink vinegar brew every day, after every meal. And inches is what she lost!

Friend #3. Kelp.

Along with lecithin and cider vinegar brew, Mary Ann Crenshaw next discovered her "third friend" in her diet, Kelp. She tells you that kelp contains iodine, and iodine is what makes the mysterious metabolic system burn up the fuel the way it should. Since her metabolic system burns everything too slowly (perhaps like yours) so that fat tends to pile up, she reveals how this wonder food acts in some mysterious way to make the fat grow thin! On her "help me, kelp" program she tells you how many tablets of kelp she downed with her vinegar brew – and kept getting thinner!

Friend #4. Vitamin B-6.

Mary Ann Crenshaw reports next how she came across a mind-blower! A Texas physician noted the slimming effects of Vitamin B-6, in the course of treating patients' leg cramps and numbness in fingers and toes with B-6, he discovered that they were losing weight and inches, especially around their waistlines – without changing one other element in their diets! According to the doctor, B-6 works with the sodium and potassium in your body to set up a balance that regulates body fluids and prevents water retention – the same water retention that makes your clothes tight and shows up as extra weight! By adding B-6 to her diet, Miss Crenshaw saw her body getting slimmer by the day! Every meal was ended with cider vinegar brew that washed down the kelp. And now the B-6. Suddenly, miraculous things began to happen. Her clothes actually hung on her. All of the weight she didn't want went off, and then some. And the inches went off as well. Maybe yours can, too!

Chart your way to a slimmer, more beautiful you!

Even if you don't reduce your present caloric intake, merely adding these four "wonder foods" to your diet may still help you reshape your shape. But Miss Crenshaw makes it easy for you to lose faster – by cutting down on your calories without giving up the nutrition you need! She has researched the most complete, most accurate nutrition charts you've ever seen – charts that tell you everything you need to know about everything you eat. And she has expressed them in terms and quantities that really make sense – the sort of quantities you can easily measure for yourself when you prepare your meals. The information is so exact and so complete, it makes it easy for you to custom-plan your diet to enjoy the greatest possible amounts of the foods you like best, right down to the last calorie. And you'll find all kinds of useful tips on how to chart your diet to fit in with your family's eating habits – to make your shopping and your cooking easier. You'll find that the charts alone are more than worth the cost of the book!

She Lost 12 Pounds in 2 Weeks.

Mary Ann Crenshaw shows you step by step how with the help of her "four friends" – Lecithin, Cider Vinegar, Kelp and B-6 – she lost 12 pounds in only two weeks! Better yet, she found that these amazing allies did as much to heighten her health as to lessen her waistline! Between them, this healthsome foursome not only shifts fat (to reduce ugly bulges), prevents water retention and washes out weight-adding water . . . they also, reports Miss Crenshaw from interviews with doctors, normalize your thyroid, and help maintain the sodium/potassium balance your body needs. They can make it easier for you to take in fewer calories without getting hungry, irritable, and tempted to cheat on your diet. And they're just part of her wonderful head-to-foot beauty diet that can strengthen your hair, toughen your nails, tone your skin . . . and do your health a world of good! Learn everything about this marvelous diet now.

Mary Ann Crenshaw's "four little friends" are only a few of the natural beautifiers she brings into your life in her "The Natural Way to Super Beauty." You'll find page after page of specifics on how to avoid expensive chemical cosmetics that only mask the damage they help create . . . and on how you can often replace them with inexpensive natural ingredients that bring out and build up your own natural beauty. Including a pennies-a-day hot beautifier that works wonders for your skin. And an instant test for any beauty product you're considering using. (If it shows up blue, so will you!) And a "healthy hair cocktail" that goes to your hair – not to your head! And even a list of foods that have just the right nutrients to help your skin . . . your hair . . . your nails . . . your eyes. And more. Much, much more. All yours for a more beautiful you – in "The Natural Way to Super Beauty," Only $9.95 ppd. General Nutrition Corporation; 418 Wood Street; Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania 15222.

IS IT WORTH $2 TO YOU TO BANISH UGLY CELLULITE FOREVER?

Yes, for only $2 you can get the full low-down on A SPECIAL NEW WAY to rid yourself of ugly, figure-distorting cellulite—once and for all...THE SAME INCREDIBLE BREAK-THROUGH INFORMATION THAT THOUSANDS OF WOMEN HAVE BEEN EAGERLY PAYING UP TO $13 FOR!

And, now it's all yours in one fact-packed little pamphlet, small enough to carry in your handbag, but big enough to now make it easy for you to help:

Banish, forever, those orange-peel thighs!
Say "Goodbye" to cottage cheese knees and upper arms!
Bid "Farewell" to those saddlebag hips and buttocks that have been making you burn with shame every time you have to be seen in sports clothes, or a bathing suit, or even walk around in front of your husband or lover!

Because Now—For The First Time In Condensed Form—Here Is A PROVEN Way To Break Down Ugly Cellulite Fat And Speed It Right Out Of Your Body!

What exactly is cellulite? It's that doughy, flabby mass of flesh that afflicts almost 90% of the women in the world, distorting the feminine curves of ladies from 15 to 90. And the sad truth about cellulite is that most women don't even know that cellulite is completely different from ordinary fat! And, because they just don't know the facts about cellulite, they have classified themselves as hopeless "fatties."

So they just keep trying to lose cellulite the ordinary way. They experiment with every new fad diet that comes on the market—the water diet, the grapefruit diet, the drinking man's diet, the low-carbohydrate diet, the high-protein diet, and who-knows-how-many-more. They starve themselves, get pummeled and kneaded at health spas, pay countless visits (and countless dollars) to "fat" doctors, eagerly join in the "group therapy" at their local diet club.

And, although they sometimes lose pounds, and inches, they still have lumpy, bumpy, ripply fat clinging to their thighs, buttocks, hips, upper arms, stomachs, to the insides of their knees, and, in some cases, even to their backs!

No wonder these women have become discouraged! They try their very best—and yet they still recoil with disgust at the sight of their naked body in a mirror!

But, Now, From The Women Of Europe Comes New Hope In The Form Of A Tried And Proven Cure For This Heartbreaking Problem!

Yes, recently uncovered facts now confirm that these women are not "just fat!" They are the unwitting victims of the Cellulite Scourge! And cellulite is not ordinary fat. It's lumpy, bubbly globules of toxic material which has become trapped in small pockets just underneath the surface of what used to be flawlessly smooth skin. It's really a gel-like substance containing fat, water, and poisonous waste material, which attaches itself to the vulnerable connective muscle tissue and just can't be budged by any ordinary diet!

If you've taken the simple Cellulite Detection Test shown above, and you're now sure that you're one of the thousands afflicted with this figure-distorting mess, this is what you must do:

Right now, clip out the coupon and mail it with $2. When your copy of Say Goodbye to Cellulite arrives, you will have all the information you will need to break down this hardened toxin-packed ugly fat, and speed it on its way right out of your body. Literally push it out in a completely "natural" way, without the crutch of diuretics or synthetically-produced chemicals that might further unbalance your delicate eliminatory system!

Yes, You CAN Win The Cellulite War Quickly And Easily, Right In Your Own Home, By Using These THREE SPECIAL CELLULITE CHASERS!

Once again, let me state that you will not have to spend one cent over the purchase price of $2. You won't have to buy dangerous appetite depressant drugs, special exercise apparatus, or expensive diet foods. You won't have to attend "pep" rallies to keep from falling off the diet-wagon, visit doctors, or even buy any high-priced "special" cuts of meat. All you need to know about cellulite is contained right here—condensed into these three all-important methods of self-treatment:

First, how to break down the hardened masses of flab that have been making your curves into lumps with unique Anti-Cellulite Self-Massage Treatments. (You'll also discover how to detect any incipient cellulite formations long before they become hardened and "marbleized" into fat!)

Second, the wonderfully simple and satisfying Anti-Cellulite Food Program. Once again, you will have to buy no special foods, prepare no special dishes, cope with no agonizing hunger pangs. You simply pick your meal from the complete listing of perfectly "normal" and delicious foods (including between-meal snacks) that you can reward yourself with, day after day—all the while knowing that they are actually helping your body to "wash" cellulite poisons right out of your system!

And third, you will be shown a few simple Anti-Cellulite Relaxers—a new type of condensed, effortless exercise, that will also bring a youthful glow to your complexion, increase your circulation, and promote an over-all general feeling of health and strength that you may have never experienced before in your lifetime!

Yes, Within Weeks After Beginning This Cellulite Elimination Program, Your Body Will Take On A New Shape! Bumps And Bulges Will Seem To Smooth Out, And Your Skin Will Be Softer And More Supple Than Ever Before!

You will actually feel more vibrant and alive than ever before because this special three-step Cellulite Elimination Program has a dual effect: Not only does it help give you the slim figure you've always wanted, free of ugly and distorting lumps and bulges; but it also acts as a natural booster, to accelerate the functioning of your body's normal elimination system so that harmful toxins are continually flushed out of your body!

But that's not all! For once you regularly practice this simple anti-cellulite routine, you will actually help:

Revitalize weary, neglected and abused muscle tissue by throwing off the wastes that are now weakening it!

Practice the one simple trick that will prevent you from diluting your stomach's natural digestive juices, thus, unwittingly, slowing down normal digestion.

Stop relying on drugs to bolster your lagging self-control, and discover how to use nature's own appetite depressant to keep you from overindulging in foods that are harmful to your cellulite battle.

Discover how to identify and avoid the "food combinations" that actually impede your progress in eliminating cellulite.

All this valuable information is now yours. Yours for the unbelievable low price of $2! Once again, let us point out that this is the very same information that is being snapped up by women all over the country for as much as $13! (That's a saving of $11 to you!) Return the coupon and begin to look forward to a cellulite-free future.

DO YOU HAVE CELLULITE? Here's How To Tell. Just Take This Simple Test . . .

You can tell the difference between cellulite fat and ordinary flab in two ways:

First, examine the surface of your skin under a strong lamp. If little shadows appear on the surface of what should be smooth skin, you've got it!

OR

Press or squeeze the suspect flesh between your thumb and index finger. If it's cellulite, the skin will ripple and look like an orange peel. (In the more advanced stages, the ripples are all too noticeable without applying any pressure at all!)

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Does Being "Good" Really Count?

True or False: People who practice the Golden Rule are healthier than those who don't. (See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Nobody can really define what "being good" is. Behavior that is termed "good" by one person may be labeled "bad" by another–there are no fixed standards to go by.

2. People who practice the Golden Rule are healthier than those who don't.

3. If you're insincere in your dealings with others, you have a good chance of becoming paranoid.

4. The good die young.

5. Science cannot explain why some people seem to be more subject to accidental mishaps than others.

ANSWERS

1. False. "Being good" is defined succinctly by behaviorial specialists thusly: It consists of doing to your fellowmen as you would be done by; of keeping on speaking terms with your conscience; and of doing the best you can to bridge the distance between your actual self and your ideal self–the kind of person you'd like to be. As one psychologist has observed in formulating a yardstick for measuring virtue, "It's pretty hard to be a louse and practice the Golden Rule at the same time."

2. True. People who practice the Golden Rule have fewer colds, digestive upsets, headaches–and are less subject to all types of serious ailments and diseases. Medical studies conducted at the National Institutes of Health, Cornell Medical Center and elsewhere have shown that people who are the least subject to illness tend to differ markedly from others in that they are more concerned with the welfare of others, more trusting of others, more charitable of people's faults, more outgoing in their general outlook on life. Personality tests also showed that they are more at peace with themselves and easier to get along with. It was also found that when people in this category did become ill, they averaged a far speedier recovery time.

3. True. A wide-scale psychological study of the personalities of men and women of various temperaments showed that persons who were evasive and deceptive in their dealings with others were significantly more fearful than those who were sincere and forthright. Other studies have shown that when someone is dishonest, his self-esteem suffers and he becomes unhappy with himself. And a person who is unhappy with himself, psychologists point out, tends to be suspicious and distrustful of the actions of others–that is to say, paranoid.

4. False. People who sincerely try to do their best and who are considerate in their relations with others average much longer lives. Sociological studies at Johns Hopkins University and at the University of Pittsburgh show that such a person is far less likely to die in a traffic accident than someone who is habitually belligerent, loudmouthed or otherwise socially obnoxious. The good-living individual has also been found to be much less subject to other types of accidental injuries.

5. False. Studies show that latent guilt feelings are a basic cause of accident-proneness. The individual who suffers them seeks consciously or unconsciously to assuage his conscience by self-punishment – either by "forgetting" to take ordinary precautions in his everyday comings and goings or by exposing himself to unnecessary hazards.

VERY UNUSUAL TWINS
Born 15 minutes apart

Not considering the "fair or foal" of the situation, a bay mare, "Carrickant," gave birth to twins this summer. It is extremely rare in the horse world for twin foals to survive birth or to be born perfect, and it is still harder for them to be reared. Usually one is small and sickly and has to be hand-fed. These two, a filly and a colt, are quite lively, and by the second day after their birth were enjoying the fresh air and each other's company.

Japanese bargains abound: Recent visitors to the Land of the Rising Sun report that bargains are still available for tourists despite the already famous Japanese inflation. Electronic equipment, in particular, is still cheaper than anywhere else in the world. Top-quality cameras and lenses, for another example, are selling for 50 percent less than in the U.S. And they are tax-free for Americans, provided you can show your passport as proof of identification. On the inflationary side, pineapples are selling for $1.25 each; two gift-wrapped melons cost $28.50; and prime beef is going for $25 a pound!

MILLION-HEIR TO BE
A marriage of convenience

When Sir John Waller's cousin willed him over a million dollars, he did so on the condition that Sir John would receive the money only on the birth of a son. That was 12 years ago. This year Waller, a 56-year-old writer and poet, got around to choosing a wife. He and his bride, pretty 30-year-old Anne Mileham, posed for photographers after their wedding in London. "Apart from the money," said Sir John, "it so happens I like the lady." He neglected to say what would happen if all their children are girls.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

Picture, picture on the wall,
What was it, tell me, made you fall?
Was it the nail that from long use
And from your weight at last came loose?
Was it the wire that well resisted
But finally became untwisted?
Was it the glue, was it the plaster,
That caused the crash, the sad disaster?

Upon the wall, but on the floor,
What caused your fall means less, far less,
Than does the fact that you're a mess.

A businessman lost the combination to his safe and in desperation called the warden of a nearby prison to see if anyone there knew how to open a safe. The warden obligingly sent over a guard with a convicted safecracker. The prisoner twirled the dial on the safe a few times, then swung the door open. "Thank you," said the appreciative businessman. "How much do I owe you?" "Well, the last time I did a job like this," replied the convict, "I got $7,000." —Lane Olinghouse

My six-year-old daughter Jennifer, on her first trip to Martha's Vineyard, was very concerned about how our car could be transported to the island on a boat. As we watched the ferry unload, the first vehicle to come off was a truck piled with the flattened remains of junked cars. "Is that what they have to do to our car?" she asked me.

Here I am at 204 pounds. I not only had pudgy cheeks, but also heavy thighs and a bottom that was out of sight.

Now that I see these photographs of me side by side, I realize what a tremendous difference coming down to 138 pounds has made in my appearance. And I might add, it has completely changed my outlook on life.

The thought of wearing a bathing suit made me lose 66 pounds.

By Mavis Molina — as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

From my own personal experience, I know there's nothing quite like being lonely, homesick and snowbound to turn a person's appetite on. In my case, I ate everything in sight and wound up weighing 204 pounds.

You see, I'm English by birth, married to an American Air Force man. Happily for me, our first years together were spent "at home" near my parents. But soon after our third child was born, we were transferred to the States. We had hoped to be sent to Florida, because I love the sun and swimming so much. But instead, we ended up at an isolated base in North Dakota, and in the dead of winter.

I don't think I've ever felt so lonely or unhappy in my whole life. Not that the people were unfriendly. But drifts of snow separated the 18 houses on the base and instead of ploughing out to visit neighbors, I stayed indoors fussing over the children from December until almost June. I also spent the time trying to cure my homesickness with donuts, cake, cookies and candy bars.

I didn't have a scale or a full length mirror at the time. And although my jeans were getting tighter and tighter, I had no idea how big I really was until the summer thaw came. My parents had arrived for a visit about then, and one day we drove 35 miles into the nearest town for a look around. That's when I saw a reflection of myself in a store window. I was so huge, I nearly died. I'll tell you, the very thought of my getting into a bathing suit made me absolutely shudder.

Right then I knew that I had to take some action. So I walked into a drug store and bought a bathroom scale and a box of Ayds®, the chocolate mint kind. You see, while I was snowbound, I'd read those stories of people who'd lost weight on the Ayds plan. And since I'd learned that Ayds Reducing Plan Candy contains vitamins and minerals, but no drugs, I wasn't afraid to start on the plan the next day.

I took one or two Ayds before each meal with a hot drink, coffee for me, and they really helped me cut down on what I ate. For breakfast, I'd have an egg and sometimes bacon which I'd blot with a paper to remove the grease. At noon, I'd have Ayds and coffee and maybe a chef's salad. For dinner, I'd have my Ayds and coffee again, then eat what the rest of the family did, but much smaller portions. And in the evening, instead of a piece of cake, I'd have a couple more Ayds. Soon the weight started coming off. The first two weeks on the Ayds plan, I lost nearly eight pounds. Then I tapered off to two pounds a week and later one pound, until at the end of the year I'd lost 66 pounds.

I think I ought to mention that during the time I was losing weight, we moved from North Dakota to Panama City, Florida, which gave me even more incentive to reduce. You see, I couldn't stand the idea of being a fat blob on a beach full of bikini-slim women. But that Ayds plan worked beautifully for me and it brought a lot of sunshine into my life.

One last thing. And I say this for the benefit of people like me who overeat when they get upset. Ayds are marvelous for controlling your appetite, whether you want to lose a little weight or a lot. I know, because several months ago my husband went off on a special tour of duty and loneliness moved right in on me.

I immediately began to overeat and put on pounds again. But this time, thank goodness, I knew exactly what the Ayds plan could do for me. In very short order, it made my bathing suit look just great on me again.

Johnston-Joyner Vows Solemnized On Saturday

The marriage of Gail Joyner Peaden and Bruce Earl Johnston was solemnized in a candlelight ceremony Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in the Greenville Church of God.

The Rev. Willie Bell Jr. officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. James Riggs, soloist and Obie Godley, organist. Mrs. Riggs sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of light blue sheer organza flocked in a white lace pattern of white flowers over light blue. The gown was designed with a high neckline encircled with ruffled organza and long fitted sleeves, with deep ruffled cuffs. The A-line flared skirt was edged in a organza ruffle at the hemline.

She wore a shoulder length veil of illusion, in light blue, attached to a Juliet cap of white cluny lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, blue carnation, baby's breath tied with white ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Ann Harris of Greenville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of light pink sheer organza trimmed with hot pink ribbon and white floral bouquets. The gown was designed with a scooped neckline and long pouf sleeves. She carried a colonial nosegay of pastel daisies, baby's breath and pink ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Vicky Bonner of Aurora, sister of the bride, and Miss Mary Mac Williamson of Greenville were bridesmaids. Their gowns were of hot pink sheer organza, designed with a high neckline of beige with hot pink ribbon. The A-line skirt was edged with a ruffle at the hemline. They carried a nosegay like that of the honor attendant.

Miss Sandy Jean Peaden was flower girl. She wore a formal length gown of light pink, with hot pink ribbon. She carried a natural wicker basket of blue and pink petals, with pink streamers.

MRS. BRUCE EARL JOHNSTON

Billy Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Warren of Robersonville, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Okay. All you women who take your ironing boards down every week and launder your dust before you throw it away, you're through!

You heard me. Turn in your ashtray sweeper attachment and your antiseptic bathroom cups. It has just been announced that by 1984, the fastidious homemakers of this country will be a minority group. That's right, the "lived in" house is making a comeback.

By golly, I haven't felt this giddy since the grease in my sink caught fire. Oh, it's not that I'm against a spotless house, it's just that I have never identified with a woman who could open her draperies in the daylight.

It's really going to be interesting to see how television commercials handle the new status of dirt. For years, this media has pitted housewife against housewife to see who can get things cleaner.

I've seen them competing for the cleanest sink, the cleanest bathroom tile, the cleanest laundry, and dishes that mirror your ecstasy at having the cleanest china in your block.

One could only ache for the losers. Especially, the little thin one who used to compete with the smug old broad in the mop contest to see who got the most dirt off the floor. With mops poised, the moderator would count down to "Go!" My favorite mopped her little heart out only to have her opponent hold up her mop with enough dirt on it to start her own coal mine.

Because I'm a rotten loser, I can hardly wait until I see a commercial where Aunt May comes to visit and as she goes through your kitchen sniffs and says, "My dear, what's that odor coming out of your sink?"

"It's cat food, Aunt May, that has been there since the disposal broke down last Wednesday."

"Smells delicious," she beams.

How refreshing it will be to have a guest stoop down with white gloves and run her fingers through the corners of your kitchen and say, "How do you get wax build-up to stay in your corners. I've tried everything."

Or your mother-in-law burying her face in your newly-washed laundry and smiling, "Now, that's dirt I can smell."

Yep, kids, it's going to be a whole new ball game for the slobs of America. I can hardly wait until my mother comes in, looks at the fingerprints on my refrigerator that spell out, "MAKE ICE CUBES. . .NOT WAR" and says, "Erma, how in the world do you do it?"

Somebody Should Have Voiced An Opinion

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I was recently a member of a wedding party. On the way to the reception hall after the church ceremony, the bride and groom turned into the driveway of a cemetery. They had planned to place the bride's bouquet on the grave of the groom's father.

Of course, the other cars in the wedding party followed them into the cemetery, since we had been told they expected us all to go.

At the gravesite, the groom's mother become hysterical and cried her heart out. Then the bride and groom broke down and cried, as did several others. It was a miserable, sad scene.

At the wedding rehearsal we were told of the planned gravesite visit. We talked about it among ourselves, and nobody wanted to go except the bride and groom and the groom's mother, but none of us had the courage to say so.

It was so depressing to see the family break down after such a happy and beautiful wedding. It ruined the whole occasion. What do you think about this?

MEMBER OF THE WEDDING

DEAR MEMBER: The gesture of placing the bride's bouquet on the grave of the groom's father was a tender and loving one. But the couple and the mother should have arranged to do so at another time.

To have imposed that sad and private moment on the entire wedding party was inappropriate. And since nobody in the wedding party wanted to go to the cemetery, somebody should have said so.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old woman who is in love with a married man. He is 40. (No lectures, please, just advice.)

I know he really loves me, but he won't divorce his wife because of their two children who are 10 and 12. He says he can't leave his family until the 10-year-old is 18. Abby, I'll be 34 years old!

He keeps telling me how much he loves me, and I know he means it. I never go anywhere because I want to be home in case he calls. One hour with him is better that a whole weekend with somebody else.

I don't know what to do, Abby. You give such sensible advice. Maybe you can give me some.

FORBIDDEN FRUIT

DEAR FORBIDDEN: You credit me with "such sensible advice," I think you knew what my advice would be before you sought it. But the fact that you asked anyway tells me that you know the way out of your dilemma, but need support in taking it.

Okay, honey, send this man home to his wife and look for an eligible man. The forbidden fruit which tastes so sweet today will be rotten in eight years.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 54-year-old married man. (I've put in 22 years with this woman.) For the past four or five years, she has been accusing me of running around with other women, which is not true. By the way, my wife is 42, and a good-looking blond. Even though she's put on a few extra pounds, physically she is just as appealing to me now as she was 20 years ago.

To get the point, I have been accused of playing the game so much that two weeks ago I joined the team.

I met an attractive 30-year-old woman who makes me feel like a man of 20. She says she loves me, and I could love her, but the problem is, I still love my wife.

Is it possible to love two women at the same time?

DOUBLE TROUBLE

DEAR TROUBLE: Only if you have the time. (You can "love" more than one person—but in a "different" way.) Obviously your conscience is bothering you, so the advice from here is to knock off the extracurricular affair and play it straight.

She's Sure To Enter Rifle Contest

By ALAN FREEMAN

SOUTH MARCH, Ont.)ap) — Vicki Boa does not look like a typical target rifle shooter.

Vicki is slight, blond and pretty. And she was one of the few women competing in the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association DCRA annual meet near Ottawa.

Major Gordon Switzer, the DCRA's secretary-treasurer, said there were about 20 women among the 125 shooters here.

Vicki started shooting last summer.

"I guess I started to keep my dad company," the 19-year-old student said.

Vicki's father, Gil Boa, was a member of Canada's shooting team at five Olympic Games, including the Munich Games in 1972. He died last September.

Shooting is a family tradition with the Boas.

"I'm the fourth generation of shooters in the family," she said.

Jim Boa, Vicki's grandfather, was a member of a Canadian team at the Commonwealth shooting matches in Bisley, England.

The Boa shooting tradition is also maintained by Vicki's 17-year-old brother, Sandy, who competed at the DCRA meet as well.

Shooting is one of the few sports where women compete in the same events for the same prizes as men. Vicki wouldn't want this to change.

"In a lot of sports, women's muscles are different from men's," she said. "But in shooting, it's different. It takes a lot of concentration, steady nerves, keen eyes and yes, a bit of muscle."

Vicki is a food sciences student at the University of Guelph and she competes for the university rifle team.

She often practices with her brother at a shooting range in Winona, Ont., near their home in Ste. Catharines.

There's rivalry between the two, but Sandy, who has been competing six years, usually comes out the winner.

Vicki said that for the most part, the men on the shooting range accept her.

"But sometimes," she added, "they don't like to be beaten."

Nevertheless, Vicki isn't too anxious for more women to take up the sport.

"I wouldn't want the odds to change," she said with a smile.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Ceremony On Saturday

ARCHDALE — The marriage of Miss Camille Paige Davis and James Warren Clark III was solemnized in the Archdale Friends Meeting House Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Isaac Harris. A program of organ music was presented by Dolores P. Farlow.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vernard Davis of High Point. She wore a formal gown of white jersey designed with a scoop neckline, long sleeves and attached chapel train. The neckline and waist were banded in Venise lace and seed pearls. Venise lace appliques adorned the flared skirt and cuffs.

Her chapel length veil of English net, edged in jersey, was attached to a Camelot headpiece of jersey. She carried a bouquet of butterfly orchids, stephanotis, miniature glamelias, English ivy, accented with coral star flowers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Warren Clark Jr. of Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Trinity Senior High School, Trinity, and East Carolina University. The bridegroom is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and of The Citadel, Charleston, S. C. He is employed by Cherry, Bekeart and Holland of Goldsboro.

The couple will reside in Goldsboro after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The maid of honor was Miss Rebecca Sue Bailey of Kinston. She wore a formal gown of coral satin jersey designed with a deep V-neckline and flared skirt. She,carried mixed Williamsburg colonial bouquet of wood fibre and straw flowers in autumn colors.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Julie Whitney Thornburg of Charlotte, Mrs. Judy Clark Gidley of Mount Holly, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Sandra Ashburn Davis of Archdale, sister-in-law of the bride. The attendants were dressed identical to the honor attendant.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Gregory Lee Jones, Ray Cannon, Bobby Cannon, Frank Mallory and Mark Ellis Tipton, all of Greenville, William Earl Calloway of Charlotte, and Mark W. Davis of Archdale.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents in the social hall of the church. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lane Farlow of Jacksonville, Fla., aunt and uncle of the bride.

The entertainment area was decorated with arrangements of magnolia, mixed summer flowers and white candles. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth overlaid with lace. The refreshment table was covered with a matching cloth and centered with a candelabra arrangement of white candles and epergnette of white snapdragons, daisy pom pons, baby's breath and coral star flowers.

Miss Brenda Kay Mullins of Catawba presided at the register table, which was covered with a linen cloth and lighted by a candle.

Mrs. Howard B. Davis served the wedding cake after the bridal couple cut the first slice. Others assisting in entertaining were Mrs. William R. Mullins, Mrs. Lester F. White, Mrs. William B. Fulton Jr. and Miss Bobbi Mullins.

The bridal couple was honored at a wedding luncheon Saturday at the Holiday Inn given by the parents of the bridegroom and family friends.

Approximately 50 guests were greeted by the bridal couple, their parents and the hosts and hostesses.

A summer arrangement of mixed flowers and greenery centered the bride's table. Rice bags were placed at each setting.

Rehearsal Dinner

The bridal couple was honored at a rehearsal dinner party Friday evening by the bride's parents and the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Harvey Wilson Farlow, at the Davis home.

Guests were invited into the entertainment area where the buffet table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of white and yellow daisies accented with orange baby's breath and yellow candles in crystal candelabra.

A yellow and white color scheme was used on the tables set up on the lawn where guests were seated. The central arrangement of yellow and orange summer flowers was flanked by yellow candles. Smaller arrangements of the same flowers, greenery and yellow candles were used on auxiliary tables.

Cooking Is Fun

Youngsters who take lunch to school will undoubtedly often carry along peanut-butter sandwiches to enjoy with a glass of milk.

That's all to the good because two peanut-butter sandwiches plus a glass of milk supply about three-quarters of the protein a school-age child needs every day.

On a day when a sandwich is of another variety, tuck in a couple of Peanut Butter Bran Muffins. These, unlike most other muffins, are good cold as well as hot from the oven.

PEANUT BUTTER BRAN MUFFINS

¾ cup flour, fork-stir to aerate before measuring
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup ready-to-eat whole bran cereal
1 cup regular or skim milk
½ cup creamy or chunk-style peanut butter
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 egg
½ cup raisins

Grease 12 medium-size muffin-pan cups (each 2½ by 1¼ inches).

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder and salt.

In a small mixing bowl stir together the bran and milk to moisten bran.

In a medium mixing bowl cream peanut butter, butter and sugar; add egg and beat until blended. beat in bran mixture. Stir in raisins. Add flour mixture and stir only until flour is dampened. Fill muffin-pan cups 2-3rds full.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 25 minutes. With a small metal spatula, loosen edges and remove; serve hot. Or remove muffins to wire racks to cool and serve cold — in this case store muffins in a tightly covered tin box.

Makes 12.

Four hundred recipes are given in the illustrated "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Drivers Need That Inspection

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS)—"Cars don't have accidents. Drivers do." Such is the motto of Suzanne Spaak, 29, who has made a profession of checking drivers on their driving once a year. "People get sloppy in their driving habits," she said. "They need annual check-ups more than their cars do." Most of her customers are men, "working and driving in European Common Market nations, where driving customs change from country to country."

Jolting Changes Loom For Red China's 800 Million

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

China now has had 25 years of Communist rule and the Chinese People's Republic at this moment obviously stands at a historic fork in its revolutionary road.

For China's 800 million, jolting change may be just ahead. The leaders who founded the CPR still rule it, but they are advanced in years. The time has to be close by when nature will dictate that others take over. Those others now stand in the wings. The evidence points to tense struggle.

The quarter century brought earthshaking changes to China. Yet much remains as it always was. "New" China is old in many respects, as much an enigma as the Middle Kingdom of the distant past.

Who will rule China's destinies after the deaths of giants like Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai? Few except China's own inner circle can do better than educated guessing about what really takes place in Peking's mysterious politics.

On Oct. 1, 25 years ago, Mao stood atop the Gate of Heavenly Peace and gazed down at teeming, hysterical millions of ragged and tired people in vast Tien An Men Square.

From atop the purple wall Mao, then 55 and in glowing health despite the rigors of civil war, proclaimed the People's Republic. It succeeded the shattered Kuomintang regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who fled with his remnants to set up a government on the island of Formosa, now called Taiwan.

"The Chinese people have stood up," intoned Mao, his moon face solemnly benevolent. "Nobody will insult us any more."

Never again, he pledged, would China be abused by the colonial foreigner.

There followed vast purges of "enemies of the people," Peking's entry into the Korean War, political upheavals that toppled stalwart party veterans, a violent quarrel with a Soviet leadership which sought to dictate China's revolutionary future, internal struggles that damaged even Mao's position, bad crop years, years of natural calamities. All that was prelude to the incredible storm that burst early in 1966, the "great proletarian cultural revolution."

After three years of uproar, terror and wanton cruelty spearheaded by legions of teenage Red Guards, China gasped for breath. Her economy was damaged, her educational system hurt, her party and government structures shredded, her image abroad smeared. Many a luminary had fallen, including the redoubtable Liu Shao-chi, who in 1959 replaced Mao as chairman of government.

The violence subsided in mid-1969 and the ninth Communist congress adopted a new party constitution anointing Defense Minister Lin Piao as Mao's successor. A new central committee was top-heavy with military names.

The cultural revolution seems to have depersonalized Mao, turned him into an institution, a sort of godhead. Nearing 81, Mao retains enormous authority and evidently has been able to enforce a balance that keeps the factions from each other's throats.

Maoist China worries thoughtful outsiders. In possession of nuclear arms, China seems to have a dangerously simplistic view of the world. Her leaders profess to see the United States and the Soviet Union vying for global domination, their detente a "sheer hoax." In the world they see, the superpowers and rich nations plunder the poor Third World which Peking seeks to champion.

Yet Peking describes both "Soviet revisionist expansionism" and "United States Imperialism" as paper tigers, seeing America beset by political and economic crisis and the Kremlin running afoul of popular resistance at home and abroad.

Palpably China herself has plenty of domestic trouble, however, and on top of that the political situation appears to have become stickier as the health of 76-year-old Chou declines.

As matters stand, China has no head of government, no minister of defense, no armed forces chief of staff. Many important posts remain vacant in the wake of the cultural revolution and the subsequent shocking purge of Defense Minister Lin Piao.

The deep Lin purge began three years ago. He was accused of a list of crimes including "a wild attempt" to make China a colony of "the Kremlin swindlers" and plotting to kill Mao. Peking says Lin died in a plane trying to flee to Moscow.

A noisy campaign against Confucius, whose 2,524th birthday is Sept. 21, suggests the Lin purge continues, directed at the provinces where Lin's military influence was strong.

"The party must rule the gun" has reappeared as a slogan, as it had before when the military pushed the bureaucracy too hard. But the power picture is difficult to fathom.

In foreign policy, however, there's little prospect in the foreseeable future of China ending her feud with Moscow, and with 60-odd Soviet divisions on the frontier facing China's more numerous but less mightily armed forces, the regime is likely to continue to want its opening to the United States as a counterweight.

Check A Preschool Child's Eyes At 3

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — If there's a pre-school boy or girl at your house, you should know about amblyopia.

This is the doctor's word for lazy eye. Children need to be checked for that around the age of three.

There are other visual defects that can be spotted at the examination for amblyopia. There may be a tendency to farsightedness, crossed eyes, astigmatism, nearsightedness.

Lazy eye is just that. It is one eye that lets the other eye do all the work. As a result, early in the game, the eye becomes lazy and goes through life letting the other eye do all the seeing.

Correction of this tendency at the preschool stage often is possible. The lazy eye is made to work when the doctor prescribes a patch over the good eye. That way the lazy eye learns to function as it should.

The American Optometric Association says parents can help change a child's fear about a first vision examination. This can be done with the aid of some items found in most homes.

Let your child experiment with binoculars. This is practice for peering into the vision diagnostic equipment in the optometrist's office.

Before going for the examination, parents should not mention the possibility of their child needing glasses. For psychological reasons parents should avoid the mention of blindness.

Other suggestions to help prepare a child for his first vision examination:

—Plan for an appointment early in the day—before the child is tired. Allow ample time for the examination. The youngster will need time to adjust to the new situation and to relax.

—Talk naturally about the visit to the eye doctor's as you would about any other routine experience.

—Compare the "E" chart to a puzzle and instruments to a tiny flashlight and a kaleidoscope.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Carry through any ideas of a creative nature during your spare time. Engage in your favorite hobby in afternoon and evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen carefuly to what a family member has to say instead of trying to dominate over this person. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Imbue your mind with lofty thoughts during a meditation period in the morning. Later join friends. Think kindly of others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to visualize greater abundance and show more initiative to achieve your aims. An expert can give excellent advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideal day for meditating and searching for the truth that will help you become a more prosperous and happy individual.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's aspects are most confusing. At one moment conditions are difficult and people contentious, while the next moment they are pleasant and cooperative. So try to adjust quickly to these changes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You feel that you're getting ahead at one moment, then it's just the opposite, so try to coordinate your efforts wisely. Be consistent.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Many new conditions and interests crop up today, so look into them. Make notes to remember statistics you learn.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle credit matters well, or you could regret it. Listen to what mate has to suggest. Try to please mate more and you get more support.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't be worried if others are not kind today — they are out of sorts. Tomorrow it will be different. Keep cool if partners vascillate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your enthusiasm for getting things done may run into small troubles that annoy you. Use magnetism you possess to placate those who are tiresome, frustrated.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care not to spend too much for fun today and don't take any bad risks with your health. Do a favor for one who is helping you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Have needed work done on abode and placate a family tie who is feeling out of sorts. Accept social invitation for the p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Much care in motion is imperative today. A partner is in a slightly rascally mood, so do not take the bait that could cause a big argument.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You think you can buy your way out of some situation now, but it would be more ethical and less expensive to do the right thing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You feel you want to be overly dramatic because you are not happy, but this would only worsen matters. Take a firm stand with troublemaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You may feel others are imposing on you because you have so much to do, but you assumed your responsibilities, so carry through conscientiously.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want to see different people, friends, but take care one overly aggressive doesn't take up too much of your time. Avoid arguments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have fine organizational powers, will be able to solve difficult problems, especially those of others, also where mechanical involvements are concerned, so be sure to give the finest education you can afford. Teach early not to look so serious all the time, but to smile more so others are attracted. Religion a must here.

Violence Racks Kenya Schools

BY ALFRED ARAUJO

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Kenya's school system has become virtually paralyzed by classroom violence that sometimes spills over into the streets.

Hooliganism and riots by students have forced the closure of a number of secondary schools by education authorities in recent months. Strikes by students in support of demands ranging from better food to sanitary conditions have led to the closure of others.

The air of rebellion has also permeated the corridors of the country's highest institution of learning, Nairobi University, which was closed down mid-August after its 5,500-strong studenty body refused to end a week-old boycott of lectures to back up demands for sweeping campus reform. University authorities have said it may not be reopened for a few months.

The pattern of student indiscipline has become all-too-familiar: students, for one reason or another, boycott lessons, hold their tutors captive, destroy property and generally wreak havoc in a move to initiate corrective action.

School authorities retaliate by expelling the students "en masse" and closing down the school, declaring that the militant students will be readmitted only on condition that they come back with their parents, repent, pay for the damage and pledge in writing that they will be of good conduct henceforth.

Secondary students at one school in the Busia District in Western Kenya could not flush their toilets because of a sewage block; they wrecked the headmaster's residence and rioted at the school. The laboratory, library, generator and offices were destroyed. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

Students at another school in Nyanza on the shores of Lake Victoria in Central Kenya demanded good food and bedsheets. To make sure their demands got attention, they damaged the school bus.

At another school upcountry the students walked out on their black teachers, saying they would only return if white graduate teachers were hired to teach them.

Nairobi consultant psychologist Dr. A.W. Rogan-Kamper offered a basic psychoanalytical explanation of campus violence.

"Parents have become indecisive in exercising their traditional authority and dubious of their right to exercise such authority in the face of youth dissension. Imitation of foreign behavior patterns in the wake of the mass media depicting youth rebellion in other parts of the world has been a major complementary reason to student unrest."

Modern education systems provide no recognized outlet for the latent aggression in every individual, he said. Such aggression is at its biological peak in secondary students, he added. Aggressive sports only provide a miniature outlet for this aggression.

Ebsen, Versatile Talents

Remember Buddy Ebsen, the overall-clad, hip-slapping, county bumpking star of "The Beverly Hillbillies'? I'll bet you didn't know there's also a Buddy Ebsen, serious history student, whose research of the Civil War eventually led to his writing a play about the controversial Northern general, George McClellan. (The play, "Champagne General," was produced last year in California.)

Then, there's the Buddy Ebsen who danced his way into a Ziegfeld production on Broadway and later became a successful songwriter. Also, Buddy Ebsen, the sailing enthusiast ("We've won a lot more races than we've lost," he modestly says) and boat-building company owner.

Truly a man of many talents and vast capabilities, Buddy, born Christian Ebsen, Jr. in Belleville, Illinois, is one of the entertainment world's most versatile citizens.

Presently starring in the highly successful CBS series, "Barnaby Jones," seen Tuesday evenings from 10 to 11 on Channel 9-11, Buddy is cast in the title role as a low-key detective whose folksy approach belies his shrewd knowledge of criminalistics and of human nature.

During a recent interview, Buddy answered my questions in his ever-pleasant, relaxed way.

"Buddy," I asked, "How close is Barnaby Jones to the real Buddy Ebsen?"

"I don't know, but when they started this notion, which didn't come from me, I would have never cast myself as a detective. Originally, the producers (Fred Silverman and Quinn Martin) booked me for a guest on "Cannon." I don't remember what the part was to be. . . but, all of a sudden, they switched to my guesting on "Cannon" to a 13 week group of shows with "Cannon" guesting on my first one!" Buddy continued. "There was no pilot. . . it was a gamble. . . . and, apparently it's paying off.

"That's how Barnaby started and, really, nobody had any idea what Barnaby should be. Quinn Martin said something about a 'foxy grandpa,' and I said I could never deliver a 'foxy grandpa.' Then he said, 'Well, just play him like yourself.' So, I take the view that police, cops, detectives, no

EBSEN AND FRIENDS — Relaxing with some of man's best friends on his California ranch is Buddy Ebsen, who stars as the private detective on "Barnaby Jones," action series seen Tuesdays (10-11 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

Only New TV Variety Show By Sonny Bono

Sonny Bono will have the only new variety series on network television this fall.

It's "The Sonny Comedy Revue," premiering Sunday, September 22 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 3-12. Sonny's new show also has the distinction of being one of only two variety shows on network TV, the other being Carol Burnett's returning series.

"These two facts, plus all the other things we have going for us," say Allan Blye and Chris Bearde, producers of the show, "bode well for the success of the show. There is a vast audience for variety series because there are so many people who like a fast-paced potpourri of music, comedy, song, skits and — a little extra we're throwing in — a surprise or two each week.

"We've got the talents of Sonny Bono, honed to a sharp edge during his three-and-a-half very successful years on 'The Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour.'"

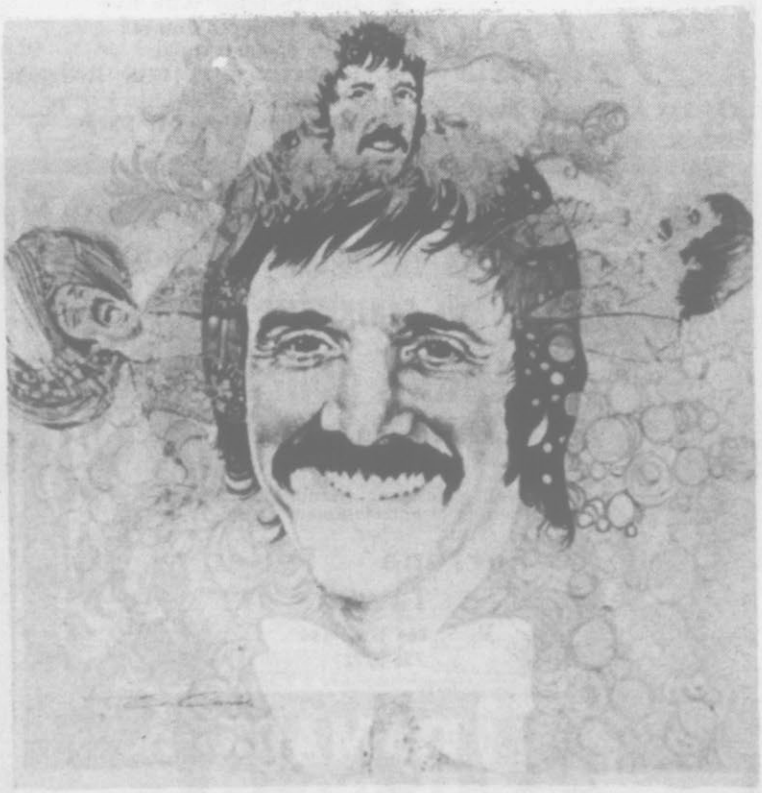

Sonny is expert at playing a sort of appealing, Chaplinesque "little man" type who is always being put down by his guests and manages to evoke extraordinary sympathy from his audiences. His audiences just love him and empathize with him as the underdog.

He is going to keep this comedic stance, too. To help him, there are three strong guest booking for his premiere outing. The first is blonde and vivacious Sally Struthers of "All in the Family." The second is that master of the putdown, ABC's Howard Cosell. The third is a group, the incredibly popular Jackson 5, whose youngest member, Michael, can match wits with anyone.

"The three are examples of the kind of bookings we're striving for:" continue the producers. "Glamorous, strong and self-assured female stars; headliners from the world of sports and news; and the very best in contemporary music.

"In addition, Sonny will have the backing of his regular comedic troupe which includes Ted Zeigler, Billy Van, Peter Cullen, Murray Langston and Teri Garr.

"We hope to bring the legendary glamor and excitement of Hollywood to TV viewers. To do this, we're taping the show before a studio audience at ABC Television Center in Hollywood. We're also, with the help of Emmy-winning director Art Fisher, going to keep the fast-paced look of "The Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour," a look which delighted both critics and the show's audience and contributed immensely to the excitement generated by that show.

HOWEVER YOU LOOK at him. . .in whatever mood, he's going to make you feel happy. You'll like Sonny Bono's brand of comedy and his music on ABC-TV's series "The Sonny Comedy Revue" which premieres Sunday, Sept. 22 (8-9 p.m.) on channels 3W-12.

matter what age, are human beings and I try to play my part like a human being."

"Are there any major changes in the series this year?"

"No, I don't think so. We're just trying to make it better and find ways of heightening the suspense.

"I lean toward the real 'whodunnit,' although viewers prefer the 'open-story,' where they know who committed the crime from the very beginning."

"How many of Buddy Ebsen's personal interests are in the character?'

"Well," he drawled, "I don't drink that much milk."

"Have you any plans for the future?"

"You know what I'd like to do?" his voice picked up, "I'd like to do a 'special' about music. . . . jazz, blues, American music. . . . the effect it's had on my life. . . bring my family into it. . . my three children are all actively involved in contemporary music. . ."

Well, friends and neighbors, here comes another Buddy Ebsen; producer - director - star of his own musical 'special'; a 'special' guaranteed to cut another deep notch in Buddy Ebsen's six-shooter of success.

DECORAMA

YOUR FIREPLACE

Since the beginning of time, fireplaces have always been a source of pleasure for the homeowner. Originally, their need was wholly functional as the gathering place for the family, providing warmth, light and heat for cooking. In recent years they have been needed only seasonally for their aura of gracious living for the ease of convivial grouping, for their decorative value as the focal point of interest in any room. Although this is all true, practically speaking the family now enjoys the warmth it provides. For decorative value, you should have a focal point in your living room. For comfort and beauty, you should compliment it with wall to wall carpet. Eastern Carpet Inc. 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale."

'Mannix' Starting 8th Year

Mysterious threats on the life of a pop singer lead Mannix to turn up a variety of suspects with sufficient motive to do away with the musician, in "Portrait in Blues", new-season premiere episode of "Mannix," which returns for its eighth year Sunday, Sept.22 at a new time (9:30-10:30 p.m.), on Channel (3N-9-11)

Mike Connors is once again in the title role of private detective Joe Mannix, with Gail Fisher as his secretary, Peggy Fair. Ward Wood continues in his recurring role of police lieutenant Art Malcolm, Larry Storch and Robyn Millan guest star in the opening episode.

Before Mannix even attempts to establish why the life of on-half of a singing duo would be threatened, he must rack down the mysterious woman who hired him. Once he does that, the case is further complicated by the fact that the most likely suspect, a heartborkern father whose daughter committed suicide because the singer spurned her, is only one of many persons with a grudge against the musician.

Making their debut as a singing team are Kim Milford and Bruce Scott as the pair of musicians, The are both currently starring in the Los Angeles production of a London rock musical, "The Rocky Horror Show." For "Mannix", the new musical combination composed three numbers, which they sing and play in the premiere episode.

'Columbo' A Hit In Japan, Too

"COLUMBO," the Yank detective series, is threatening to crowd Japan's most popular sports off television. The NBC show starring Peter Falk has become such a favorite that NHK airs the program every other Saturday or whenever scheduled pro baseball games are rained out.

"Columbo" lovers, who number in the hundreds of thousands, persistently phone NHK, write letters, demanding that the program be aired as scheduled . . . ballgame or no ball game. They even requrest reruns of previous episodes.

AGENT 007 — Sean Connery is embattled in Bond once again as "Thunderball" comes to television for the first time on ABC-TV's "ABC Sunday Night Movie" Sunday, September 22 (9-11:45 p.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

Special To Follow Economic Summit

On September 27 and 28, President Ford will convene a unique domestic summit meeting in the White House to study the nation's confusing economic crunch.

The economy and the Presidential summit meeting (which will follow a series of 13 smaller meetings dealing with specific problem areas) are to be the subject of two CBS News Special broadcasts on the CBS Television Network.

Prior to the summit, CBS News will explore the range of current economic problems in "What's Going On Here? — The Troubled American Economy" Sunday, September 22 (6-7 p.m.), on Channel 9-11.

The day after the summit, CBS News will provide summary and analysis of the unprecedented two-day session in another hour-long special broadcast on Sunday, September 29 (6-7 p.m.).

Both broadcasts will be anchored by CBS News Correspondent John Hart. The executive producer will be Leslie Midgley. These two men last collaborated on the penetrating CBS Reports: "Inflation: How Much, How Long?," which was broadcast on the Network last June.

The inflation that broadcast examined is still in the explosive stage, despite earlier forecasts to the contrary by Administration officials. But it is just one of the problems faced by the economic summit and studied on "What's Going One Here? — The Troubled Economy."

RUNAWAY—Kay Lenz stars as a runaway teen-age girl who leads officials to a group of credit card thieves in "The Barefoot Girls of Bleeker Street" On NBC Sunday Mystery Movie colorcast Sept.22 (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on channels 6-7.

ORIGINATED ROLE

Sally Stark of "Love of Life," originated the role of Joan in the off-Broadway musical "Dames at Sea" with Bernadette Peters. It led to her television role.

GROWS TREE

Carolyn Jones, frequent television talk show guest star, has more than a dozen fruit trees at her home in Palm Springs. "All you have to do is throw water on the desert and anything will grow," Carolyn claims.

NINE-YEAR veteran running bak Walt Garrison has been a solid starter in the Dallas backfield for the past several seasons. Garrison, a steer wrestler on the professional rodeo circut in the off-season, is expected to wrestle a few yards away from the Philadelphia Eagles Sept. 23 (9:00 p.m.) on ABC Sports "NFL Monday Night Football" on channels 3W-5-12.

Garrison Runs On And On

Walt Garrison just keeps rolling along, steadily moving up in the ranks of the all-time Cowboy greats. He stands third behind Don Perkins and Calvin Hill in rushing and went into the '74 season as the team's No. 5 all-time receiver.

To hear Garrison tell it however, he thinks being a rodeo cowboy is a great deal tougher than being a football player. "I consider it a good training ground. After you've ridden a few broncs and tackled a few cattle and maybe went one-to-one with a brahma bull, hell, what is there to smashing a couple of defensive linemen or linebackers." (Walt and the other Cowboys . . . football variety, that is . . . ride herd on the Philadelphia Eagles on "Monday Night NFL Football," Sept. 23, starting at 9 on Channel 3-5-12.)

Many linebackers around the league, even toughies like Mike Curtis and Dick Butkus, quickly admit that Walt is about as easy to stop as a determined Texas Longhorn. Tacklers are forced to lock arms and hang on as Garrison drags them along for the ride.

Tom Landry, in his understated way, says, "At Fullback, Walt Garrison is solid, a starter for the past several years who has performed consistently well. He's the kind of guy who never shows up on the injury report and has played for us when nobody else would have tried."

Garrison cracked his collarbone last year and missed the last game of the season. The next week, as the playoffs opened, he was back in the lineup.

When pinched nerves in his neck during the pre-season caused headaches so severe he couldn't sleep, Garrison was forced out of the lineup until the sixth game of the season. Once he returned, he still managed 440 yards, second on the team, and was third in receiving with 26 catches. He also contributed 48 points to the Cowboys' scoring column with 6 touchdowns and 2 recoveries.

Despite his lack of size and breakaway speed, Garrison is one Cowboy who averages 4.4 yards per carry before he gets shot out of the saddle.

Old Tucson Has Hollywood Aura

A little bit of old Arizona that "went Hollywood" is a featured setting of "The Guns of Cibola Blance," a two-part "Gunsmoke" episode to be broadcast Monday, September 23 and Monday September 30 (8-9 p.m.), on channel 9-11.

The drama was filmed in Old Tuscon, an authentic—and now permanent — replica of the city as it was in 1860, which was originally built in 1939 for "Arizona," a motion picture starring William Holden and Jean Arthur.

Located outside the present city, Old Tucson has grown considerably from its original basic structures. The combination movie lot and tourist attraction has been enlarged to the point where a film director has multiple choices for his backgrounds, such as wooden buildings of old time Wichita or Dodge City, as well as the adobe structures of old Santa Fe or Tuscon. Moreover, if a director needs a set or building which doesn't exist, he is encouraged to build a permanent structure which in turn can be used by others in future movies and television series.

Since the early 1940s hundreds of movies and television programs have been filmed in the area. And local residents are big boosters of the industry, since many of them appear in parts which are cast locally.

So, with all the film activity in and around Tucson, the city can easily claim the title, "Hollywood in the Desert."

Paul Newman Directed Film

Joanne Woodward stars as a lonely, smalltown schoolteacher in "Rachel, Rachel," a poignant drama to be colorcast on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" September 23, (9 to 11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7. The film marks the feature film directing debut of her husband, Paul Newman. Estelle Parsons and Geraldine Fitzgerald co-star.

Rachel Cameron (Miss Woodward), living with her demanding, widowed mother, finds herself trapped and frustrated by her bleak existence as she approaches 35. Feeling she has reached the 'exact middle' of life, Rachel takes, what is for her, a dramatic step where she experiences the release of her pent-up emotions.

Deciding that she can break her existing pattern of life only by exposing herself to things she dreads, Rachel begins to date Nick Kazlik (James Olson), a farmer - turned - teacher whom she knew as a child. Though the affair means only a brief respite from boredom to Nick, it represents for Rachel the complete upheaval of life and she falls hopelessly in love.

Sisters Reunited

Of the 18 kids in the Rolle family of Pompano Beach, Florida, three have found success in the theater as adults. Indeed, one of them, Esther Rolle, is now the star of the comedy series "Good Times," seen at a new day and time this fall; Tuesday evening, 8 to 8:30, on Channel 9-11.

Another of the sisters, known professionally as Rosanna Carter, whose New York stage credits include "My Sister, My Sister," recently visited Esther in California and was talked into taking a guest role in the new-season premiere episode of "Good Times."

This was only the second time the two sisters had worked together, the first having been several years ago in an off-Broadway production of Alex Foster's "Community Kitchen."

Their older sister Estelle had preceeded them to New York in the 1950s and established herself in the theater in a production of "Our Land."

During the first few days of rehearsal on "Good Times," Miss Carter was noticeably nervous because she wanted to be especially good for Miss Rolle, who was getting nervous, too, because she knew exactly why her sister was nervous. By taping day, however, director Herbert Kenwith was delighted with the chemistry between them.

Godspell To Air In November

"Godspell," the joyous retelling of the Gospel of St. Matthew as a modern musical celebration of life and faith, comes to television as a Special Motion Picture Presentation on the ABC Television Network, on Wednesday, November 27.

"Godspell" will be followed by "Annie and the Hoods," a comedy special starring the award - winning actress Anne Bancroft providing an entire evening of very special entertainment.

"Godspell," which is now in its fourth year as an off-Broadway hit, was translated into a movie last year with the original cast, which critic Judith Crist called "first-rate, as individuals and as ensemble players." For the movie, the production left the theatre to film almost entirely on locations in New York City, including Central Park, the Brooklyn Bridge, the Statue of Liberty, the top of the World Trade Center, the Cloisters and the Andrew Carnegie mansion on Fifth Avenue. Mrs. Crist said the locations "have been captured with a sense of innate beauty."

The storyline of "Godspell" consists of a series of Biblical parables told in song by a Christ figure in a superman sweatshirt and workman's overalls. Unlike other musical translations of the gospels, "Godspell" (which is an archaic spelling of the word "gospel") is light-hearted and youth-oriented, with each parable sung and danced by a cast of previously unknown young performers. The Independent Film Journal hailed "a musical score that is rock contemporary and a sense of high spirits that is timeless. This film jumps and jigs and jabbers at you with such abandon that the heart can't help singing."

RICHARD BOONE (center) drives his sons Randy Quiad (left) and Michael Sacks (right) to fulfill the family destiny by going over the treacherous waters of Niagra Falls in "The Great Niagara", a drama of man unconquered on ABC-TV's "Tuesday Movie of the Week", Sept. 24 (8:30-10 p.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

Academy Award Film 'Edited'

"Midnight Cowboy", Academy Award winner as Best Picture of the Year, will have its television premiere on ABC-TV in 1974-75 season, it was announced today by Barry Diller.

The film was been edited in accordance with network policies, as established by ABC's Broadcast Standards and Practices Division. Jerome Hellman and John Schlesinger, producer and director, respectively, of "Midnight Cowboy", were consulted with respect to the final edited television version.

"Midnight Cowboy" also earned an Academy Award for Waldo Salt's screenplay, a number of international awards some $22 million at the box-office in the U.S. and Canada alone.

TO NARRATE

Hanna-Barbera Productions has finalized a deal with Burgess Meredith to narrate 16 episodes of "Korg: 70,000 B.C.," new live action series for ABC-TV, it was announced recently by Joseph Barbera, president. The series, which depicts survival of a family of Neanderthals, debuted earlier this month.

Sea Lion Star Of Own Series

Salty, the flippy, flouncy young sea lion who has already starred in her first movie — named after her, of course — returned home to the Miami Seaquarium by plane and special car this week after another tour-de-force in Nassau.

She spent nearly six months there completing 20 segments of a new television series. Also named for her, of course.

As benefits any star, Salty arrived with an entourage: two pelicans, a seagull, a cat and two dogs. They were in the film, too. There was also "Splash," another sea lion who is Salty's back-up performer. Sort of a marine-type stand-in.

Salty, wearing her own mink-colored fur coat and wiggling along the way with a Mae-West - like walk alongside trainer-owner Ricou Browning on her way to the car, enjoyed a few squirts from a hose to cool down in the warm Miami afternoon. The squirt also accidentally caught a television newsman who really hadn't planned to cool down like that.

Salty's arrival also marked her fifth birthday. She will now stay at the Seaquarium relaxing and doing her Mark Spitz-type swim bit in her own special pool for the "audience" of visitors who will soon be seeing Salty on their TV sets at home.

The series has a similarity to that of the popular Flipper in that it was a movie first, then adapted for a television series. On TV, Salty will belong to one of two orphaned boys who live with a man who runs a marina in Nassau. Julius Harris, who recently played in a James Bond movie, "Live and Let Die," will be the marina's operator. Mark Slade and John Durant will play the young boys. And a neighbor, Vincent Dale, will complete the regulars of the cast of the show, produced by Kobi Jaeger. The show has four directors, including Salty's owner.

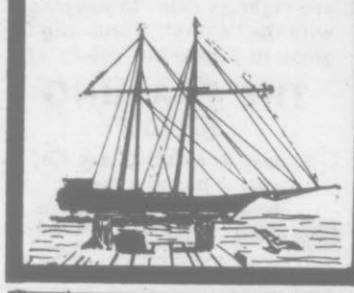

Browning bought Salty as a four-month - old pup in California. For two and a half years the little sea lion grew up as part of his family of four children, three dogs, three cats, a horse, a pony, a peacock and 24 mallard ducks. Salty was never lonely.

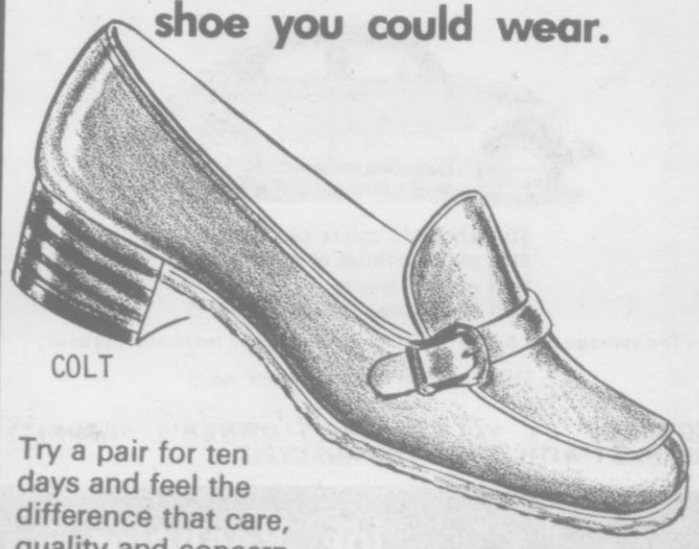

"Training a sea lion or anything naturally wild is different from training anything tame," said Browning, who was the original trainer of Flipper and was a director of 'Gentle Ben.' "The most difficult part is the taming, getting them used to people, to things like the sounds of automobiles (Salty rides in cars like a dog), even camera sounds." By growing up with the family for more than two years, Salty had her basic - taming down pat. Browning said that the pace of learning of Salty and Flipper was "about the same. The only thing was that we had had to learn by trial and error with Flipper. Because of this, we knew more about that particular type of training by the time we started with Salty. In that respect, it was easier."

Now Salty will just relax. Like they say in the trade, Sally is "between commitments." Except for being a Sequarium star, of course.

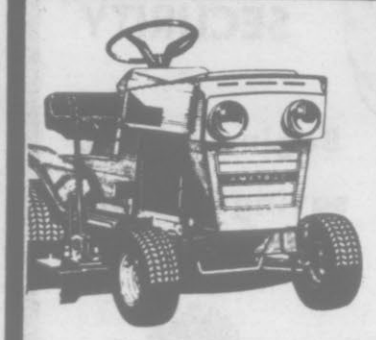

JAMES GARNER stars as a clever con-artist who sells his most prized possession—in town after town in the early West—in "Skin Game," a comedy Western on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" September 26 (9-11 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

Five In The Wheeler Family

Normally, a fifth wheel is thought of as a real 'drag,' someone who should've stayed home and read a good book. Not so, however, where "The Texas Wheelers" are concerned, because all five of them are vital parts of this delightful new series which premiered earlier this month on ABC, and seen on Friday evening from 9:30 to 10:00 on Channel 3-5-12.

First, there's Papa Wheeler. Jack Elam stars as the cantankerous but lovable Zack, who has a totally unorthodox approach to life and shrinks from work like the plague.

Jack Elam was one of the highest-salaried movie auditors in the business when his yearn to act finally won out.

His first picture, "The Sundowners," was a hit and his acting career was launched. Since then, he has appeared in more than 100 motion pictures and even more television dramas.

The eldest Wheeler son, Truckie, is played by Gary Busey, whose hometown is Tulsa, Oklahoma.

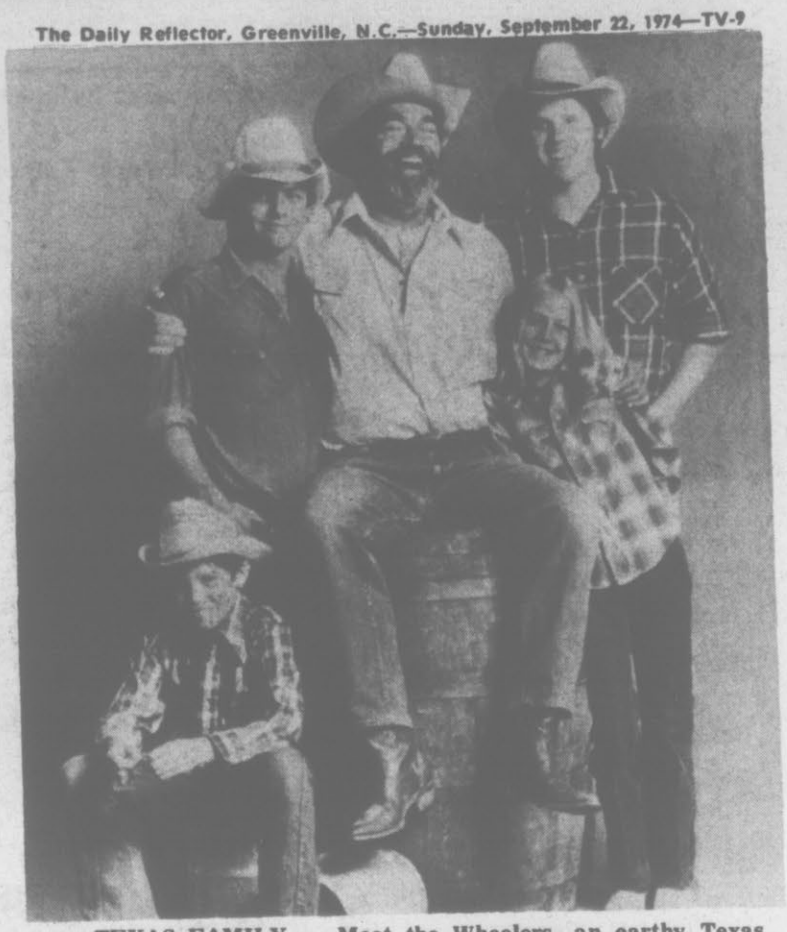

"Truckie Wheeler is me!" says Gary, who appears each week as the sensitive, honest member of the Wheeler family.

The energetic Busey "has to be doing something all the time." When not before the camera, he enjoys yoga exercises, racketball, singing, composing music, playing the guitar and tennis.

Mark Hamill is cast in the role of 16-year old Doobie Wheeler. As a child, Mark was always interested in acting, but it wasn't until he accompanied his father on a business trip to New York that he set his sights on a dramatic career. "After seeing eight plays in six days, I was hooked," he says.

When not acting, Mark enjoys "all water sports" and collecting old magazines.

Ten year old Tony Becker plays T. J., the youngest member of the Wheeler family, and he is also the youngest of four children of Ken and Patricia Becker. His dad, a former actor, is now an audio man at a local independent station in Los Angeles. Mrs. Becker is an actress-director currently involved with a West Coast repertory theater group.

TEXAS FAMILY — Meet the Wheelers, an earthy Texas family who meet life in their own free - wheeling style and have a lot of laughs along the way in "The Texas Wheelers," the new ABC comedy series on Fridays (9:30-10 p.m.) Jack Elam (center) stars as Zack, widower-father of the clan, flanked by Gary Busey (right) as Truckie the oldest son, who shoulders responsibilities ducked by Jack, and Mark Hamill as Doobie, the second son. Tony Becker, lower left, plays T. J., youngest son, and Karen Oberdiean is Boo, the only daughter.

Molded Herself Into 'Bonnie'

"Bonnie is very close to me," confided actress Faye Dunaway about the gun-toting, poetry-writing and notorious Bonnie Parker, who robbed and gunned her way through middle America during the difficult years of the Depression in the early '30s.

It seems like a very odd admission from the lissom, attractive actress with an incredible flair for style who portrayed half of the title role in "Bonnie and Clyde," which will be rebroadcast on "The CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, September 27 (9-11 p.m.), in color on Channel 9-11. The film ollows the notorious Barrow gang from its brief rise to public attention to its sudden end.

Jim Backus To Narrate A Special

The Christmas season is filled with legends and myths, but the story of eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon and her letter to Editor Francis Church of the New York Sun really did happen. A new ABC Television Network animated special, inspired by that event, entitled "Yes, Virginia There Is a Santa Claus," will be aired on Friday, Dec. 6.

"Yes, Virginia" is being created by Bill Melendez, the Emmy Award - winning producer of the Charlie Brown television specials, and Mort Green, who has won several awards for such series as "The Perry Como Show" and "The Andy Williams Show," and the special, "Tonight With Harry Belafonte." Green has written the half-hour script, which Melendez will direct.

Jim Backus, the voice of the famous Mr. Magoo, narrates the story of Virginia, who is the only child among her skeptical friends to still believe in Santa Claus. Strong in her faith, Virginia tries every source for the answer. Finally, Virginia writes to the old New York Sun newspaper to ask: "Is there a Santa Claus?" The editor's response supplies the show's ending.

AT CONEY ISLAND—Singer-dancer-actress Rita Moreno went to Coney Island with a group of New York children to enjoy the amusements and food. The trip was taped for the "GO" show of Saturday, Sept. 28, so youngsters around the country can share the delights of the amusement area (12:30-1 p.m.)

Debuts In TV Drama

Taryn Power, 18 year old daughter of actress Linda Christian and the late Tyrone Power, will make her American acting debut in "The Count of Monte Cristo," the two-hour "Bell System Family Theatre" drama special starring Richard Chamberlain which will be colorcast on the NBC Network in January.

Chamberlain will portray Edmond Dantes in the special. Miss Power is to appear as Valentine, daughter of deVilleforte, who has Dantes imprisoned. DeVillefort will be played by Louis Jourdan. Also starring with Chamberlain are Trevor Howard as the Abbe Faria; Donald Pleasence as Danglers and Tony Curtis as Mondego.

"The Count of Monte Cristo," a Norman Rosemont Production, is now being filmed in Rome. Most of the special will be filmed on location in the Italian capital and its outskirts as well as at Porto Venere, near Genoa. Exterior scenes also will be filmed at the historic Chateau d' If off the coast of Marseilles, a site which figures prominently in the book by Alexandre Dumas. It has been adapted for television by Sidney Carroll.

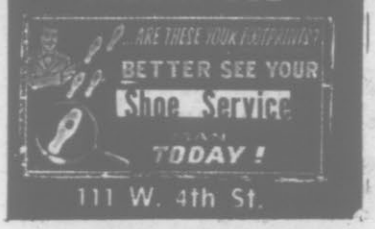

VERSATILE Keith Jackson, winner of the Sportscaster of the Year Award for the past two years, is a mainstay of ABC sports coverage, and is seen regularly on "ABC's Wide World of Sports", ABC's golf specials and Championship Auto Racing. This season, Jackson will handle the play-by-play for ABC Football telecasts.

'McCloud' Set For 5th Year

Entering its fifth season, "McCloud" brings with it an Emmy nomination — its first — for the 1973-74 season.

The longest running of the mystery segments on the "NBC Sunday mystery Movie," "McCloud" began an entry in the "Four-in-One" series in 1970. After that season, it went on to join "Columbo," and "McMillan & Wife" on the "NBC Wednesday Mystery Movie" before NBC moved it to Sunday nights.

Acting Always His Goal

"I've always wanted to be an actor," says Paul Sand, "but I never really thought about being a star."

Now, as the headliner of the new comedy series "Paul Sand in Friends and Lovers," which premiered this month and is seen on Saturday evening, 8:30 to 9 p.m., on Channel 9-11, Sand takes time to reflect about his ambition.

"As long as I can remember, I've wanted to act," he notes. "At a very early age I was trying to convince my parents it's what I should do, but they sort of discouraged it."

During that period, Sand points out, the frustration of knowing what he wanted and not being able to accomplish it led to a great deal of unruliness on his part.

"I did poorly in school," he admits, "and was even somewhat of a discipline problem for my parents and teachers."

Finally, at age 11, Sand began studying acting, although his parents, wanting to avoid the child - star syndrome, refused to let him work professionally.

"Once I started studying to learn how to act," Sand continues, "my whole life straightened itself out. My frustrations were gone, and I was able to pay attention to my school work, participate in sports, and no longer be a problem to anyone."

It wasn't until he was 18, however, that Sand began working professionally. One of his first jobs was that of a mime, with Marcel Marceau's troupe in Paris.

Next to acting, Sand would rather travel than do most anything else. "I used to save my money just so I could live in Europe," he says. But with the new series occupying almost all of his time, Sand has had to put his wanderlust on hold.

"It doesn't bother me though," he insists. "I was born in Los Angeles, and one of my earliest dreams was to do what I'm doing now,. . . work in a studio in my hometown."

$600,000 Man Is Proven Performer

College stars that fall into the National Football League amidst dollar signs, about 600,000 of them to be precise, create an environment with both fans and sportswriters that calls for miracles. When Donny Anderson made such an entrance in Green Bay at a time that saw the Packers on their way down, the spectacular was a difficult and scarce commodity to produce.

(Donny's now with the St. Louis Cardinals who meet the Washington Redskins Sunday, Sept. 22, 1 p.m., on Channel 3-9-11.)

Fans badmouthed Anderson, claiming he never never earned his money there. His conflicts with head coach Dan Devine in 1971 were interpreted as a 'prima donna' attitude.

Upon examining the statistics, you find that Anderson was no slouch in Green Bay. In his four seasons as a Packer, he established himself as their fifth all time leading rusher.

Since arriving in St. Louis, Anderson has been a solid performer and consistently near the top of the NFL's list of leading rushers. Last year, the versatile offensive star had the best all-around NFL season, leading the Cardinals offensive star had the best all-around NFL season.

Elkins Prefers Hitting

Ted Elkins used to receive a lot of hard knocks when he lugged the football as a high school fullback in Charlotte — but Ted is doing the hitting now. (Watch Ted and his fellow Tar Heels Saturday, Sept. 28 at 1:30 p.m. on Channel 3-5-12 when they clash with the University of Maryland.)

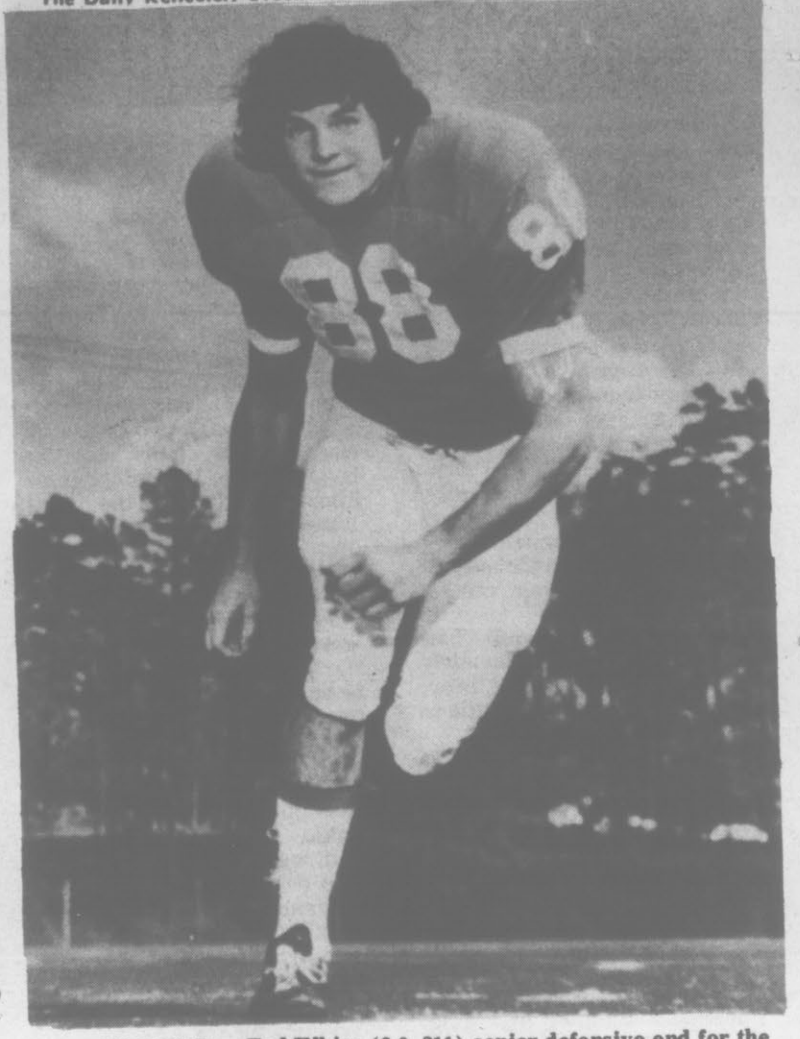

A star defensive end at the University of North Carolina, Elkins appears to be headed for a banner senior season with the Tar Heels. His coaches enthusiastically rate him one of the top defenders in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"Ted started for us as a junior last year and made vast strides," says defensive end coach, Al Groh. "Now I beieve he's ready to become one of the premier players in the ACC. Ted is an exceptional football player."

Head Coach, Bill Dooley, seconds the motion. "We have great confidence in Ted," Dooley says. "We're counting on him to help provide the senior leadership we need to be a winner."

Elkins was a star fullback at South Mecklenburg High in Charlotte and then played fullback his freshman year at Carolina. Coaches here quickly recognized his defensive potential, however, and moved him to end during his shophomore year. He's been at home there ever since.

"It wasn't too difficult to make the move," Elkins says. "Football is football, no matter where you play. Learning the basic fundamentals is the big thing. The only difference now is that I'm doing the hitting instead of getting hit. I like it."

UNC END — Ted Elkins (6-0, 211) senior defensive end for the University of North Carolina is hailed by coaches as one of the best players in the ACC. Elkins will be leading the Tar Heel defense against the very offense minded Maryland Terrapins on Saturday, Sept. 28, at 1:30 p.m. on Channels 3-5-12.

Animated Dog Explains Rules

It really is not stretching a point to say the NBC-TV Network is putting on the dog for its telecasts of National Football League games this season. The fact of the matter is, a floppy and fat hound dog named Tackles, an animated creation of Hanna-Barbera Productions, is used to help explain the new rules which apply to NFL action this fall.

Robertson And Unitas Join CBS Team

Two of the dominant figures in professional sports over the past two decades, NFL star Johnny Unitas and NBA standout Oscar Robertson, have been signed to multi-year contracts as sports broadcasters by CBS Television Sports.

Robertson will serve as analyst for the CBS Television Network's NBA broadcasts, which begin Sunday, October 27, and Unitas will be an analyst on NFL broadcasts.

Robertson, an All-American at the University of Cincinnati before joining the NBA in 1960, played in the league 14 years before retiring for this new assignment. Considered one of the game's all-time great guards, he holds a number of league records.

Unitas played for 18 years in the NFL.

September 27 is the day your Ford Dealer introduces his new 1975 Fords, including the new Granada.
Automobiles built to back a challenge:
The Closer You Look, The Better We Look.
Ford honestly believes this is the finest, fullest range of automobiles we have ever offered.
And here are the facts–facts on quality, innovation and value–to back up that belief.

Granada Ghia 4-Door Sedan. Shown with optional deluxe bumper group.

Granada 4-Door Sedan shown with optional bodyside accent molding, WSW tires and deluxe bumper group.

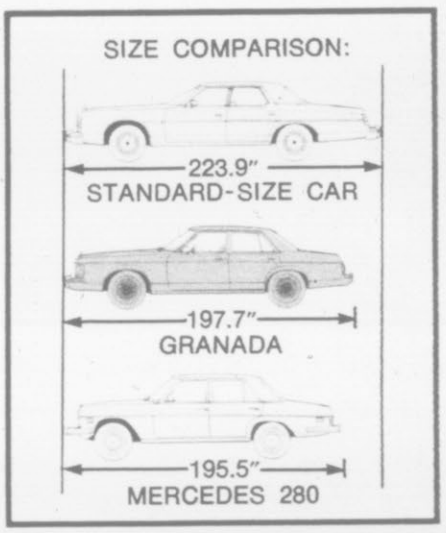

Introducing a new car designed to give you efficient use of space, fuel and money. Ford Granada: 14-18 mpg city, 18-26 mpg highway.*

The design:

Ford Granada is designed to help deal with such problems as crowded roads, increased fuel costs and maintenance. Granada is about two feet shorter and a half ton lighter than most standard-size cars. So you can expect excellent gas mileage. Yet there's family-size room inside.

Granada was designed to be functional. It has a generous glass area that doesn't slant or curve severely so visibility is good all around.

Granada's high roofline provides excellent front and rear headroom. The squared-off tail houses a roomy luggage space that can hold eight assorted pieces of luggage.

The economics:

A luxurious car today has to earn its keep. Granada doesn't back away from that fact. Its trim design helps reduce needless weight and excessive fuel consumption.

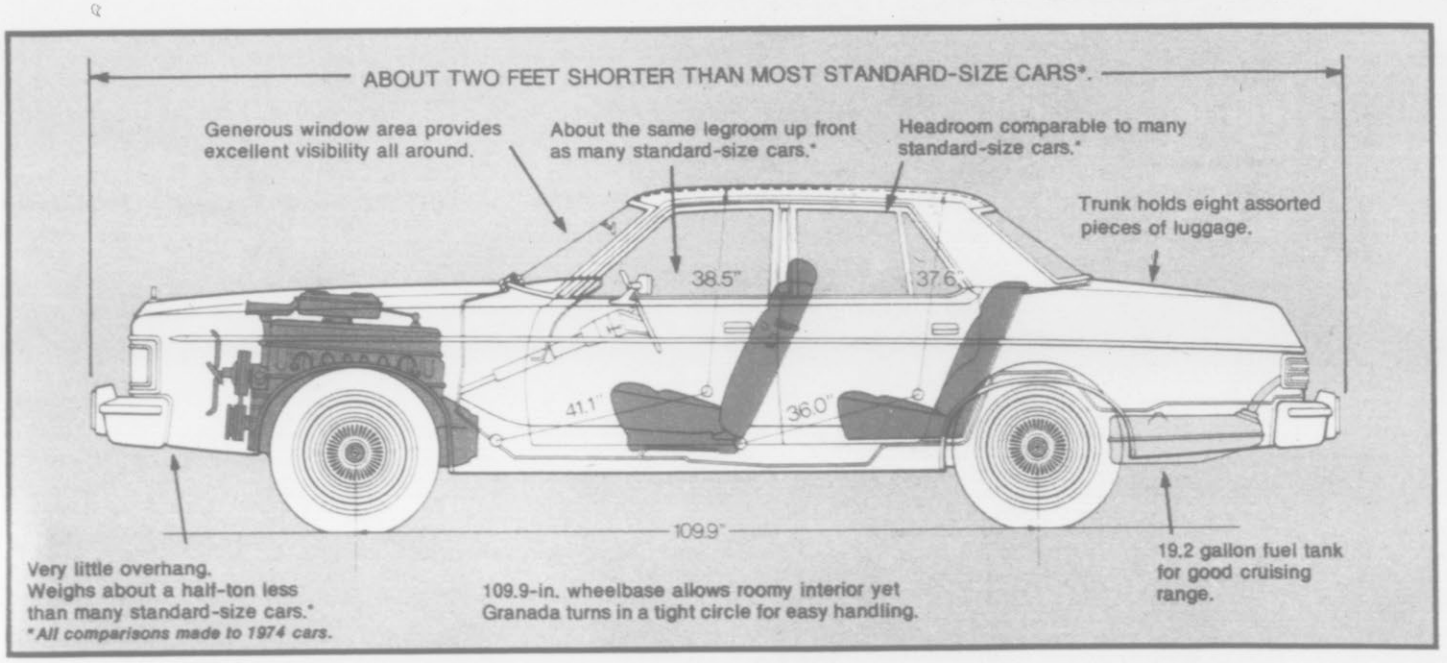

It comes with gas-saving, steel-belted radial ply tires that deliver excellent tread wear.

Granada's base engine is a 200 CID† Six that's economical and easy to maintain. Along with the optional Six (250 CID) and V-8's (302 and 351 CID), it's precisely balanced to resist the vibrations that can cause engine wear. All Granadas feature solid state ignition for less scheduled maintenance than former systems.

†200 CID not available in California.

*HOW MANY MILES PER GALLON

Based on results of tests conducted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (as of 8/9/74) using a dynamometer to simulate city and highway driving conditions, on this type of car equipped with a 250 1V engine and frequently purchased options. Your gas mileage will depend on the type of driving and driving habits, maintenance, road and weather conditions and how your car is equipped. For example, a larger engine or power-assisted options like air conditioning (in constant use) or power steering can reduce your gas mileage somewhat.

FORD GRANADA— WHAT YOU GET

In addition to standard equipment noted at left, Granada comes with ▫ Front disc brakes ▫ Individual reclining seats ▫ Deep cut-pile nylon carpeting ▫ Burled walnut tone instrument panel ▫ Full wheel covers.

And Granada Ghia offers even more standard features and appointments ▫ 250 CID Six engine ▫ Odense grain vinyl roof and matching bodyside molding ▫ WSW steel-belted radials ▫ Deluxe wheel covers ▫ Remote control mirror ▫ Deluxe sound and ride package ▫ Deluxe interior with super-soft vinyl seats ▫ Map pockets ▫ Assist straps ▫ 22 oz. cut-pile carpeting ▫ Deluxe door panels ▫ Quartz crystal digital clock ▫ Luxury steering wheel, and more.

The comforts:

Granada offers a lot of pure driving pleasure. A closer look shows that this car was thoughtfully planned for passenger riding comfort and durable good taste. Both contoured front seats recline and adjust in more than one hundred positions for your individual comfort. (A feature you'll especially appreciate on long trips.)

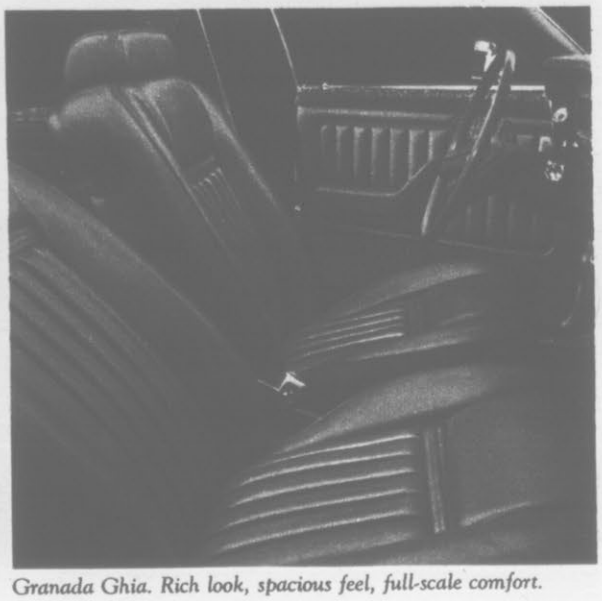

The instrument panel, with its handsome burled walnut woodtone applique, is recessed to add to front passenger comfort. Controls are within easy reach. The plush nylon cut-pile carpeting is molded for smoothness and is stain resistant.

There's weatherseal around doors and windows to cut wind noise. Granada's tuned suspension, tight body construction and sophisticated use of insulation result in a smooth, quiet ride.

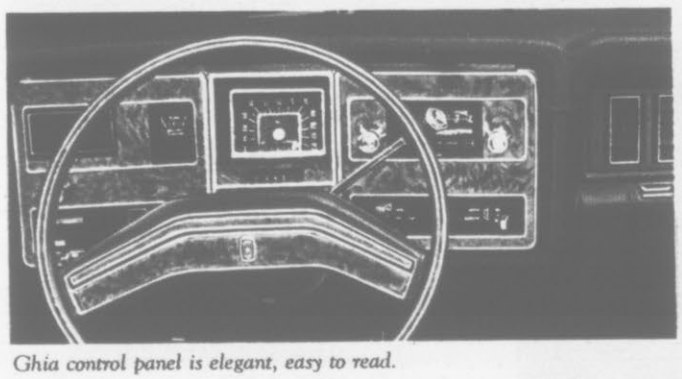

For added elegance there is the quiet luxury of the Granada Ghia in both 2- and 4-door models.

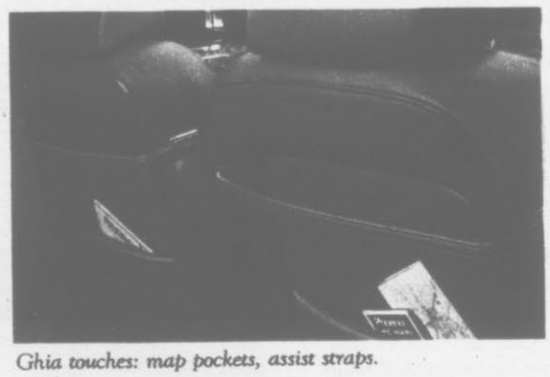

Granada Ghia 2-Door Sedan gives you a remarkably roomy interior and a wide door for easy entry. Shown with optional deluxe bumper group.

Granada Ghia. Rich look, spacious feel, full-scale comfort.

Ghia control panel is elegant, easy to read.

Ghia touches: map pockets, assist straps.

Ford's lowest-priced Granada comes with opera window. Spacious interior. Options shown: deluxe bumper group, WSW tires, bodyside accent molding.

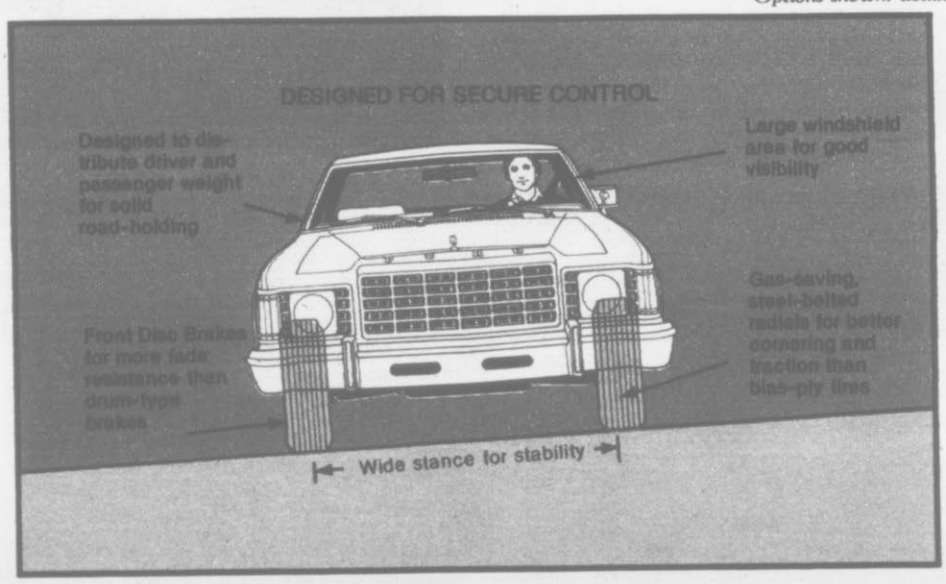

The construction:

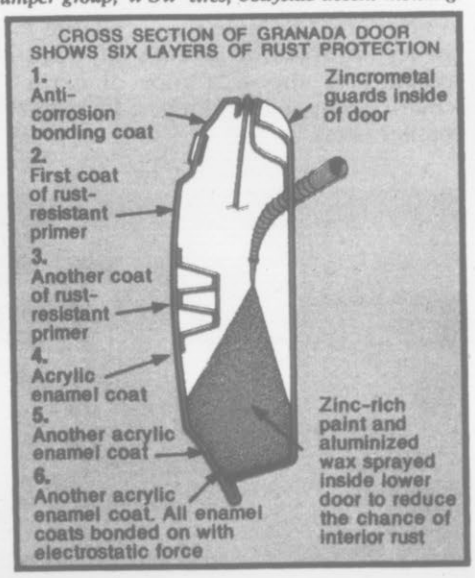

Granada is put together to stay together. Precision machinery holds body parts in tight alignment as they are welded into a solid unit. In a separate process, the body panels are treated to help minimize vibration.

To help protect against rust, Granada's body is covered with 13 pounds of primers and chip-resistant baked enamel.

Every Granada is subjected to hundreds of inspections while it's being built so that every Granada owner will have a car with the same high level of quality.

The feeling inside Granada is solid and secure; it hugs the road. It has about the weight of a Mercedes 280.

EVERYONE SAYS COMPARE FORD TELLS YOU HOW.

Tips on how and where to look for quality and value in a new automobile.

Sheetmetal: Notice the quality of the body work. Make sure that large sheetmetal areas are not wavy. They should look smooth and taut.

Paint: A good paint job helps make a quality automobile. Be sure there are no "runs," and be sure that the texture of the paint is not rough or grainy. The color should be uniform, with all surfaces having a high gloss and luster.

Body seams: Where two panels join, make sure that the seam is even and narrow. Adjoining surfaces of metal panels should be uniform.

Vinyl top: There should be a tight fit free of ripples over the entire surface. Seams must be straight, the metal trim snug and there should be no sealer or untrimmed edges showing.

Trim: Check bright-finished areas such as bumpers and door handles closely. Surfaces should be free from discoloration. Look for a tight, even fit around windshield and windows, with no gaping joints. Exterior moldings should fit snugly and align properly.

Carpeting: It should fit snugly around seat bases, door sills, and floor tunnel. It should lie flat with no unsightly bulges and it should be thick and color-coordinated.

Instrument panel: All segments of the panel should fit precisely. Instruments must be easily readable and should be illuminated. Controls must be reachable and easy to operate. The steering column and wheel should be color-coordinated.

Windows: Raise and lower all windows to check that they move smoothly. Check for even fit all around, and full contact with weather stripping when windows are closed.

Doors: The opening line between a door and the body should be narrow and even for its full length. Door should latch firmly with a solid "slam." A handle should not feel loose to your touch nor contain rough edges. Interior door paneling should harmonize with the seat trim, and have "scuff" protection along its bottom edge.

Ford introduces two new luxurious standard-size cars...

LTD Landau 4-Door Pillared Hardtop shown with optional Landau Luxury Group (see interior below) and fender skirts.

Ford LTD Landau: A logical alternative to longer, heavier, more expensive luxury cars.

Compare the workmanship in LTD Landau as well as its size, comfort and luxury, to much more expensive luxury cars. The main thing you don't get is hundreds of pounds of extra weight and almost a foot of extra length (compared to longer, heavier, costlier cars).

Yet you have the security of a solid full-size, well-made automobile.

The LTD Landau has all standard equipment featured in the LTD (see right). And in addition, special features and appointments of its own that make the Landau so distinctive. Compare them with more expensive cars:

□ Hidden headlamps for distinctive styling □ Color-keyed vinyl bodyside moldings □ Front cornering lamps □ Flight bench seat with center armrest □ Lush knit cloth and vinyl trim □ Vinyl roof □ Electric trunk lid release □ Right- and left-hand remote control mirrors □ Automatic seat back release (2-Door).

Ford LTD: Traditional LTD Quality. Value priced.

"LTD Quality" is synonymous with a well-made, comfortable full-size car. And for 1975, LTD comes to you as the lowest-priced car in the line with a high level of quality.

Consider LTD's reputation for quiet ride. Consider its resale value. Consider that it comes with steel-belted radials and solid state ignition.

Consider the peace of mind you get from its solid construction. Designed and priced as it is, we think it offers a new level of value in a standard-size car.

What you get for your money: An impressive list of standard features and appointments.

For basic value
□ SelectShift Cruise-O-Matic transmission □ 351 V-8 engine □ Power steering □ Power front disc brakes □ Vinyl insert bodyside moldings.

For economy and low maintenance
□ Solid state ignition □ Steel-belted radials.

For luxury details that make an LTD an LTD
□ Brocade cloth upholstery trim
□ Color-keyed cut-pile carpeting.

LTD 2-Door Pillared Hardtop shown with optional WSW tires, vinyl roof, full wheel covers, deluxe bumper group, front cornering lamps, paint stripes and convenience group. Note distinctive center-pillar window. An even higher level of luxury can be found in the popular LTD Brougham 2- and 4-Door models.

INSIDE STORY:

Ford shows you hidden value you can't see for yourself.

1. Solid state ignition

On all Ford car engines for 1975. It eliminates points and condenser for less scheduled maintenance.

2. Steel-belted radial ply tires

Reduced rolling friction for better gas mileage. Excellent tread wear. Standard on all Ford cars for 1975.

3. Long intervals between routine service stops

300000

. . . can save you maintenance. All Ford cars, for example, are scheduled for oil changes just once every 5,000 miles and chassis lubes every 30,000 miles.

...and other family transportation values.

Torino: Six-passenger comfort in a solid mid-size car.

We put six seat belts in the Torino because it seats six people comfortably.

Torino gives you full-size passenger space with plenty of room for knees, heads and hips. Yet you have easy handling and mid-size economy.

Torino has the solid construction and the remarkably smooth, quiet ride that makes it such a good mid-size value. Plus a higher level of standard equipment than ever offered before on our mid-size car: 351 V-8 engine, Power Steering, Power Front Disc Brakes, Select-Shift transmission, Steel-Belted Radials. Even Solid State Ignition.

Miles and miles on one tank of gas. With a big 26½ gallon fuel tank, Torino has an impressive cruising range. So for comfort and confidence on the road with mid-size operating economy, take a good look at the '75 Torino, Gran Torino, Gran Torino Brougham and Gran Torino Sport.

Gran Torino 4-Door Pillared Hardtop with optional WSW tires, deluxe bumper group, deluxe wheel covers.

Maverick: The proven family compact.

The one that sets the standards. Maverick—a choice of over 1,400,000 owners. Designed to be a practical car, easy to service, handle, and park. Yet very stingy on its diet of gas thanks to a standard 200 CID Six* and 3-speed manual transmission. And despite the emphasis on economy, Maverick has the luxury you'd expect in a car costing much more. If pressed to pick one word that best describes Maverick we'd choose "value." And maybe that's why Maverick has been the best selling 4-Door compact in America.

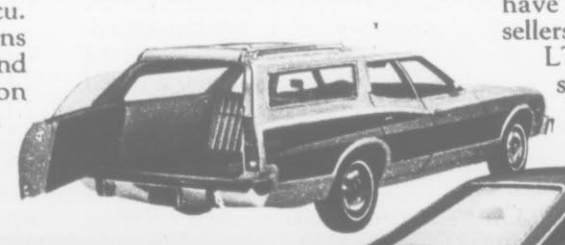

Maverick 4-Door Sedan shown with Luxury Decor Option.

200 CID not available in California.*

Three sizes from the Wagonmaster:

In all three sizes the big plus is the efficient and flexible use of cargo and passenger space. The best-selling compact Pinto Wagon carries four passengers comfortably, or with back seat folded down has almost 60 cu. ft. for cargo. All three Torino Wagons offer the economy of mid-size and 85 cu. ft. for cargo. The LTD Wagon has 94.6 cu. ft. of cargo space. And with the rear seat option both LTD and Torino Wagons can carry eight passengers.

But it is wagon conveniences that have helped make Ford Wagons best sellers, like the 3-way doorgate on both LTD and Torino Wagons. Cargo space that converts to passenger space in seconds. The optional recreation table in the LTD is designed with children in mind.

Whatever your wants or needs, Ford has the Wagon and the features to match. No wonder we say, The Closer You Look, The Better We Look.

Center: Pinto Wagon with Squire Option, optional WSW tires, luggage rack and deluxe bumper group.

Above: Gran Torino Squire with optional rear-facing 3rd seat, WSW tires, luggage rack and deluxe bumper group.

4. Nine-point Insulation Package

At least nine different locations of insulation materials are used in all Ford car lines to promote a quiet, restful ride.

5. Side door beams

Located in the doors and designed for added protection in the event of side impact collision. One of Ford Motor Company Lifeguard Design Safety Features found on all Ford-built cars.

6. Six-step paint process

Anti-corrosion bonding coat, two coats of epoxy primer and three coats of acrylic enamel for lustrous, durable, corrosion-resistant finish.

Something else you can't see.

Mustang II Ghia 2-Door Hardtop shown with optional V-8 engine and bumper guards.

Mustang II: The sporty personal luxury car...now with a V-8 engine.

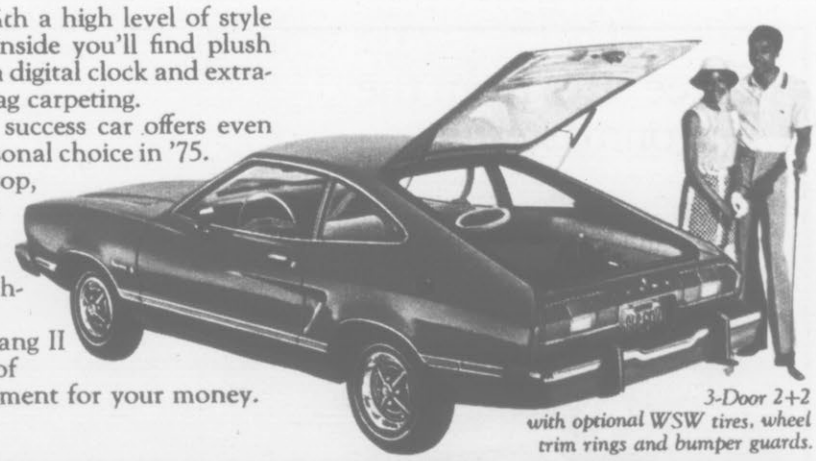

The success car of '74 is doing it again.

In its first full year Mustang II was a new idea that ran away from all its so-called competition.

Now for '75 we've made Mustang II even more exciting with a new optional 302 V-8 and a 2.8 Liter V-6. And to the impressive list of standard features, we've added improvements: gas-saving, steel-belted radial ply tires, and solid state ignition for less scheduled maintenance. Other standard features include bucket seats, 4-speed transmission, front disc brakes, a gas-stingy 2.3 Liter 4-cylinder engine, rack-and-pinion steering.

For '75, the luxurious Mustang II Ghia sports exciting new styling changes. From its distinctive new grille and opera windows to the classic vinyl roof, Mustang II Ghia is a small car with a high level of style and luxury. Inside you'll find plush bucket seats, a digital clock and extra-thick deep shag carpeting.

Last year's success car offers even more of a personal choice in '75. 2-Door Hardtop, 2-Door Ghia, 3-Door 2+2, and a sporty Mach 1. Whichever one you choose, Mustang II offers plenty of driving excitement for your money.

3-Door 2+2 with optional WSW tires, wheel trim rings and bumper guards.

Mustang II Silver Ghia features Cranberry crushed velour seating. Shown with optional Moonroof, cast spoke aluminum wheels, convenience group, bumper guards, V-8 engine and Silver Luxury Group.

...and at three price levels.

Elite shown with optional WSW tires, deluxe bumper group, power-operated glass Moonroof, interior decor group, and deep dish aluminum wheels.

Ford Elite for 1975: The tradition of Thunderbird in a mid-size car.

This mid-size is unique because Elite combines the economies of mid-size with classic styling and luxury in the Thunderbird tradition.

And in the Thunderbird tradition of value, Elite comes to you complete. Vinyl roof. Protective bodyside molding. With driving conveniences standard too: Power steering, power front disc brakes, SelectShift transmission, and steel-belted radial tires. Even an electric clock. Elite also comes with Thunderbird-inspired options such as a power-operated glass Moonroof. A luxury upholstered split bench seat and 22 oz. shag carpeting.

But with Elite it is luxury designed for the times. Along with mid-size operating economy, Ford Elite offers a 26½ gallon gas tank that gives you a cruising range you can rely on—even on long highway trips.

Personal luxury mid-size for 1975. Built by the same company that built Thunderbird. And built for the way you drive today.

Thunderbird shown with optional Copper Luxury Group, convenience group and power antenna.

The 1975 Thunderbird: Could it be the best luxury car buy in America?

Owning a Thunderbird is something very, very special. Yet most of Thunderbird's "luxuries" actually come standard. Air conditioning, steel belted whitewalls, and a whole lot more. Thunderbird 1975. Simply beautiful. And a beautiful buy.

Pinto 3-Door Runabout shown with optional WSW tires, deluxe bumper group and exterior decor group.

Pinto: Still a leader in basic transportation.

Check out Pinto's price for 1975. It's very competitive. Check out Pinto's gas mileage. It's great. Then when you discover how well-made it is (see column at right), you understand why Pinto remains a leader.

Lots of room, too. Open up a Pinto 3-Door Runabout and you'll find a surprising amount of luggage space. Sit inside a Pinto and you'll enjoy the design efficiency that makes for real riding comfort.

Important features. Pinto is the only American-made subcompact from a major manufacturer to offer rack-and-pinion steering for precision handling. Pinto has a 4-speed transmission standard, not a 3-speed. And a 2.3 Liter engine. New this year is an optional 2.8 Liter V-6 engine on the Runabout and Wagon models. You can even order power steering and power front disc brakes on all models.

With three kinds of Pintos to choose from—2-Door, 3-Door, and Wagon—is it any wonder Pinto's outsold every other subcompact in America since its introduction.

Pinto, like all Ford cars—well made at any price.

The Pinto is built up to Ford standards not down to a price. Because a small car has to offer the same thing as a big car . . . value for the money. Here are some of the common features:

1. Big Car Safety Features. All Ford Lifeguard Design Safety Features in an LTD are found in the Pinto.

2. Solid state ignition. For less routine scheduled maintenance.

3. Full immersion electrocoat body primer. Electrical attraction forces rust-proofing primer into nooks and crannies of the Pinto body.

4. Long scheduled maintenance intervals. Pinto's long intervals between service help make it economical to own.

5. Self-adjusting front disc/rear drum brakes. Pinto's disc brakes that resist heat and moisture are combined with long-wearing drum brakes for good stopping power.

6. Rubber-insulated suspension components. Road noise and vibration are greatly reduced with Pinto's front and rear rubber-insulated suspension system.

7. Steel-belted radial tires. They give excellent tread life and also help gas mileage.

8. Six-step electrostatic paint process. Anti-corrosion bonding coat, two coats of rust-resistant primer and three of acrylic enamel are applied to the steel body shell by an electrostatic process for a tough, beautiful finish.

9. Double-wrapped aluminized muffler. Saves money on the service life with a muffler that resists corrosion.

10. Corrosion-protected under body parts. Galvanized sheet steel and zinc-rich primer protect vital areas.

You haven't seen anything yet.

We can't show you everything here. There's just too much to see. In value. In features. In exciting new models. Both cars and trucks, too. So go to your Ford Dealer. Above all, get set to look close.

How to look close at pickups

Ask your Ford Dealer for this new free book. It covers tips on how to check pickup quality, durability, operating economies, resale value, and more.

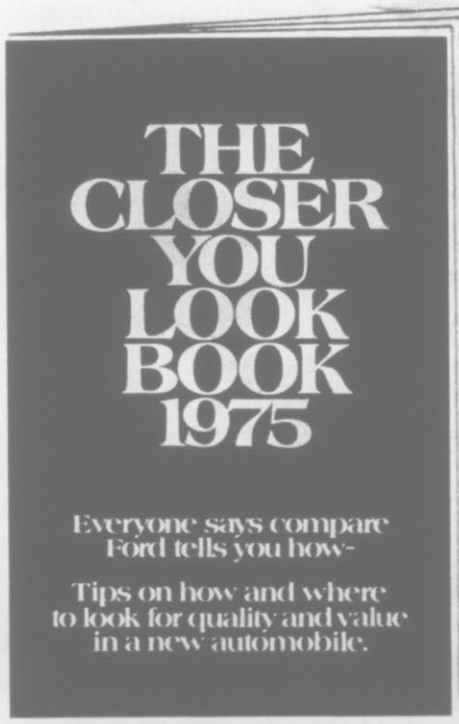

Everyone says compare. Ford tells you how. When you're about to buy a new car or truck, you'll probably look around for the model that you feel will give you outstanding quality and value. How can you be sure what you look at measures up?

To help you decide, Ford asked its technical experts for suggestions on what to look for in judging any size car or pickup. Their helpful tips have been compiled in two books available free at your Ford Dealer's.

"The Closer You Look Books" cover tips on how and where to look for quality and value. For example—how to look for extra precautions taken to ensure durability—like careful workmanship and the quality of materials used. Body fit and finish. How well the interiors are tailored. How easily windows work. Small details, but all together they tell the story of quality and value.

Now that you've had a brief look at the well-made '75 Fords—Thunderbird, LTD Landau, Elite, Torino, Ford's new Granada, Mustang II, Maverick, and Pinto—you can recognize some of the innovations that are a hallmark of Ford. Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.,
editor of "The National Review"

You often refer to Sen. James Buckley as "my sainted brother." Are you being sarcastic or affectionate? Do you get along well together?—Juanita E. Trammell, Nashville, Tenn.

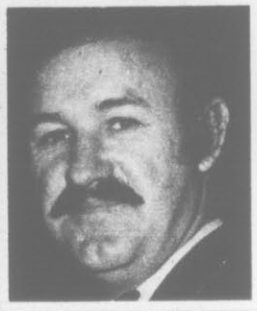

● Actually, we don't get along very well and never have since the time when I was nine and he was 12 and he stole a speech I was preparing to give. He changed all the tenses and embarrassed me before my audience. I refer to him as "sainted" because a messenger appeared to me in my sleep and divulged to me the news that my brother would save the U.S. I thought of referring to him thereafter as "the savior" but decided not to because it would sound blasphemous and it would embarrass him. So I settled on calling him "the sainted junior Senator from New York." I like that "junior" because that bears out my reputation and his modesty.

FOR BING CROSBY

Has your lung operation forced you to stop singing?—John Stinerock, Wayne, N.J.

● No. Fortunately, I didn't have cancer, but a fungus (which my wife calls "athlete's foot of the mouth"), and I didn't get it in Africa, as reported, but right here at home in California. I'm just fine, and recently got back from Mexico, where my son and I had a hunting-and-fishing vacation. I'm doing a couple of TV Christmas specials—as I've done with my family for the past 38 years. I'm still talking and singing and doing everything that comes naturally.

FOR GENE HACKMAN, actor

In "The Poseidon Adventure," when the boat was turning upside down, were the people really falling?—Suzanne Mongan, Belleville, Ill.

● They really were! Producer Irwin Allen hired the greatest array of stunt people I've ever seen for this sequence. They were unbelievable! Some of them fell 40 feet. Naturally, Allen doesn't take chances with his people. Every precaution was taken to guarantee that no harm would come to them. But you can believe it was a thrill to see!

FOR TATUM O'NEAL

How did you feel about upstaging your father in "Paper Moon"?—Barry Tarlton, Austin, Texas

● It was a lot of fun to be able to work with my father. I don't really understand what "upstaging" means, but I think my father is the best actor in the world, and he showed me how to do things in the movie so that I would be good, too.

FOR MRS. RICHARD M. NIXON

I understand you traveled more than any other U.S. President's wife. How many miles in all?—Sylvia Lynd, Ironton, Ohio

● During the Nixon Administration, I traveled 131,723 miles. Although all our trips carried special meaning and purpose, the historic journey to China was the most memorable because of its significance to international diplomacy and world peace.

FOR BILL VIRDON, manager of the New York Yankees

Doesn't it bother your ego that you were fired by the Pittsburgh Pirates and are now second choice (after Dick Williams) as manager of the Yankees?—Stan Harbster, Daytona Beach, Fla.

● Firing is one of the hazards of managing a major-league club. Anyone who can't handle this shouldn't be in the business. And anyone who plays second fiddle to Dick Williams is in pretty good shape, since Williams is probably the best in our profession.

FOR BOB HOPE

You celebrated your 71st birthday recently. What do you consider the best years of a man's life?—L. S. Ward, Avon-by-the-Sea, N.J.

● I guess I'd have to vote for the late 20's and the 30's, when a guy is at the height of his physical powers, his ambitions, his love life and his hopes for the future. But there's also a lot to be said for the years when you don't have to worry about the rent, when you've "paid your dues" and can take time off to play golf once in a while.

FOR ERIC SEVAREID, news analyst

Do you use a monitor on the Walter Cronkite evening news or just your own notes?—Virginia Pellandini, Lake Hamilton, Ark.

● I use the teleprompter as well as my own script. In a tightly compressed news program these things must be timed almost to the second and ad-libbing wouldn't do.

FOR LYNN REDGRAVE,
star of Broadway's "My Fat Friend"

How much of your acting success do you attribute to having the name Redgrave, and what's it like being part of a famous family?—F. W., Scranton, Pa.

● My "famous family" is the only one I've ever had, so I have no basis for comparison. We're just like any other family of two parents and three children. As for my name helping my career, I'd be lying if I said it didn't give me an advantage. Also, I got valuable guidance at home.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

We hear a lot about Liza Minnelli, but what about Judy Garland's other two children?—F. N. G., Joliet, Ill.

Lorna Luft Joey Luft

● Lorna Luft is probably not as talented as her older half-sister Liza, but she, too, is in show business. She prefers nightclub work. Last year Lorna played an engagement at New York's St. Regis and, after that, was booked into London's Talk of the Town club. She also tours abroad—her most recent trip was to Australia. She's now working on her first record album. Joey Luft, Judy Garland's youngest child, is 19, and leans toward being a musician. He plays the drums but, as yet, hasn't definitely decided on his career.

The Arabs and Us:

A New Feeling Of "Getting to Know Each Other"

A look at the Saudis also brings a glimpse of what makes the Arab world tick.

Photographs by John Neubauer

Prince Fahd Ibn Abdel Aziz, deputy prime minister of Saudi Arabia and the brother of King Faisal, during his recent meeting with Secretary Kissinger in Washington.

By Max Gunther

When I asked Saudi Arabia's Ambassador Ibrahim al-Sowayel what the climate is like in his homeland, he smiled. "That is like asking what the climate is like in America," he said. "It is a big country with many climates. We must get to know each other's country better."

It was a warm summer evening in Washington, D.C. A dinner party was in progress at the Saudi Embassy, and Americans and Saudis were busy doing what the Ambassador suggested: getting to know each other better. One prominent Saudi present was Prince Fahd Ibn Abdel Aziz, deputy prime minister and the brother of King Faisal. He and Sheik Ahmad Zaki Yamani, the petroleum minister, had spent the day conferring with President Nixon and others about a new era of close cooperation between the two nations. Among prominent Americans at the Embassy were Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, the former federal energy chief.

Saudi Arabia has abruptly become one of the world's great economic powers, and its influence on our lives is certain to grow still more profound in years ahead. What are the Saudis like, and what are their visions of the future?

Oil

Saudi Arabia is the world's biggest oil exporter. Its proven reserves of some 150 billion barrels—enough to last about half a century at present rates of pumping—are the biggest in the non-Communist world, and probable reserves are at least twice as big. This is why Saudi Arabia – with about four times the land area of Texas but only two-thirds as many people—has risen to such power in world affairs.

The Saudis, however, have no intention of wielding that power carelessly. For one thing, I learned, they are economic conservatives with a fear of inflation that matches our own, maybe surpasses it. The last thing they want to do is disrupt world economies by withholding oil or driving up the price. "If we make you pay more for our oil," one of Yamani's aides said, "then everything goes up, and we pay more for your machinery. Who wins?"

Education

The Saudis feel their most pressing need right now is for more trained citizens to carry on the nation's ambitious modernization program. "We need more schools and more people in the schools," Prince Fahd told me.

Education, he said, is free to all Saudi citizens—right up to and including college. "Not only that," added oil chief Yamani, "but we pay them a salary if they go to college. We want to encourage them to get more training instead of dropping out early."

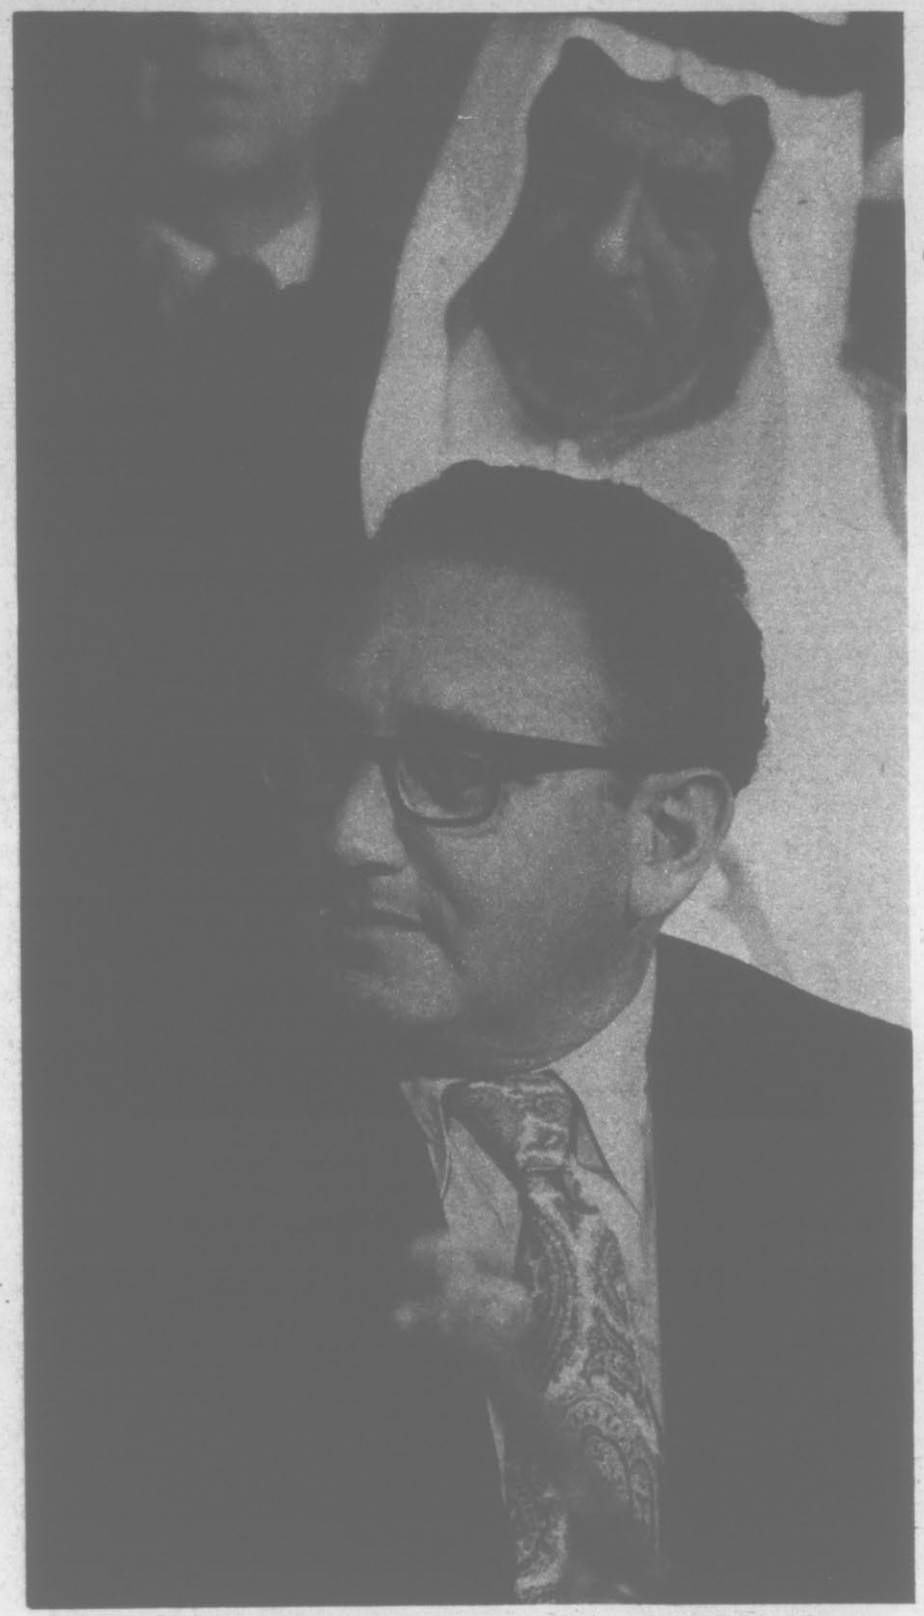

English is taught as a second language in most schools and is a required course in the colleges. Girls are educated separately and, to date, haven't enjoyed as many opportunities as are opening up for men. Women aren't allowed to drive cars at the moment. However, there are extensive government programs for educating Saudi Arabian women. Many women have already graduated from European and American universities and are practicing in specialized, ultramodern hospitals in Jiddah and Riyadh. An official of the U.S. Arab Chamber of Commerce guesses privately that women will become much more visible in the next few years.

The Saudi government has pumped huge amounts of money into institutions like the University of Riyadh (the capital city), the College of Petroleum and Minerals, and the National King Abd al-Aziz University at Jiddah (near Mecca on the Red Sea coast). Enrollments at some colleges have increased more than tenfold since the late 1960's, and the expansion is still going on.

But the government still finds itself in the embarrassing position of having much more money than it can spend, mainly because there aren't yet enough trained people to spend it. Millions of Saudi oil dollars are sitting in New York banks right now, unused. The kingdom gets so much oil revenue that it has no need to levy an income tax on its citizens—a setup that most Americans would find Utopian. "But the money is no good unless it is used," said Ambassador al-Sowayel. "We want to build roads, factories, hospitals . . . and for this we need American help."

The Good Friend

It was American technical and management know-how that brought the kingdom its wealth in the first place. Oil was discovered and developed there

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger looks across the table at Prince Fahd as they signed their historic accord expanding American technological aid to Saudi Arabia.

"'If we make you pay more for our oil,' one of Yamani's aides said, 'then everything goes up, and we pay more for your machinery. Who wins?'" in the 1930's by the Arabian American Oil Co. (Aramco), then a wholly owned subsidiary of Standard Oil of California. Texaco bought a half share of Aramco in 1936, and after World War II Exxon and Mobil bought smaller shares. The Saudi government bought a quarter share in 1972, and this year the government's share will move up to 60 percent.

Thus the Saudis now have a majority vote in the management councils of the world's biggest oil producer. But American executives, geologists, engineers and others will continue to play a major role in the giant company's day-to-day affairs. As Prince Fahd put it, "We and you Americans—we need each other."

During the Prince's visit, in fact, he and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger signed a far-ranging six-page pact under which American technological aid will be greatly expanded in months to come. The U.S. Geological Survey, which has had teams exploring Saudi Arabia for several years, will intensify its hunt for new oil deposits and also for other minerals such as zinc, copper and uranium. The Agriculture Department will send experts to study new ways of turning deserts into farmland—especially in the vast southern wasteland known as the Rub' al Khali, the "Empty Quarter." It is conceivable that some desert regions might be irrigated with desalted seawater, and U.S. desalination engineers are now being recruited to work with the agricultural teams.

Politics

What does the U.S. get in return for this help? Oil and trade, of course. "But don't make it sound too much like a bargain between two greedy merchants," one Embassy official begged. "It's true each of our countries has something the other wants, but we would be natural friends anyway."

This is perfectly true. King Faisal, Prince Fahd and most Saudi leaders see America as a sturdy bulwark against Communism, which they fear as much as most Americans do. "We are basically capitalists like you," said one Saudi. "When we look into the future, we see our country growing strong through free enterprise. You Americans should stop talking about our 'oil weapon,' as you call it. We don't feel it is a weapon. If America gets hurt, we will be hurt, too."

Not only do Americans and Saudis think much alike in political terms, but they get along pretty well personally, too. The Saudis are people of great grace and charm, sometimes a little formal but unfailingly friendly. When I talked to Prince Fahd, he was obviously very tired. He had spent more than an hour in a receiving line at an Embassy dinner party, and before that he had been shaking hands all day long with U.S. officials and businessmen. Yet his handshake was firm and he had a ready grin, and he seemed genuinely pleased that an American reporter would ask questions about his country.

"It is good that our countries come together like this," he said through an interpreter. "We should do it more often."

As things look now, we almost certainly will.

The Prince and the Secretary. Said the Prince: "We and you Americans—we need each other."

People Quiz

In Which Ways Are Men and Women Unequal?

True or False: Men are really sissies when it comes to enduring pain—women can tolerate more than they can. (See number 2)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Women can't throw and men have clumsy fingers.

2. Men are really sissies when it comes to enduring pain—women can tolerate more than they can.

3. Women have a harder time than men telling right from left.

4. Men react differently to threats than women do.

5. Men are better at judging distances and estimating the speed of moving objects.

ANSWERS

1. True. As one team of investigators has noted in evaluating the findings of leading researches, men generally outclass women in "speed and coordination of gross bodily movements in climbing, jumping, catching and throwing balls, etc." This is attributed to the male's greater strength and quicker reflexes, his ability to bring his muscles into play more quickly and with more power and accuracy. But women have it over men when it comes to manual dexterity—the swift and skillful use of the hands and wrists. It's suggested that "the female's more delicate physique and her greater tactile sensitivity are the assets that contribute to her superior manual dexterity."

2. False—as evidenced by a study sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service. A test of pain tolerance was included in the routine health examinations given to more than 40,000 persons of both sexes. Pain was induced by a specially designed instrument that gradually increased pressure on the subject's ankle tendon. Each person was told: "This test cannot injure you in any way. Try to stand it as long as you can. It will be stopped as soon as you request it." Results: "Men tolerated more pain than did women. Pain tolerance decreased with increasing age for both sexes . . . but even the oldest men had a higher average pain tolerance than the youngest women."

3. True. Studies of hundreds of men and women at the University of Southern California Medical School have demonstrated that "Right-left confusion occurs often in adults—even with gifted individuals of superior intellect—and is commoner in women."

4. True. A university study that compared the behavior of men and women students in response to various forms of threats found that "males are somewhat more likely to comply with a threat. But of the non-compliers, males are more likely to behave aggressively and attack the other. Evidence indicates that females respond to a hostile situation by passively resisting or withdrawing."

5. True. Consensus of studies shows that men are superior to women as far as space-perception abilities are concerned. This includes judging distances and estimating the size of stationary objects or the speed of moving ones.

BEFORE YOU BUY A CHEAP PIANO, THINK ABOUT RENTING A BALDWIN.

Low-priced pianos have a way of becoming lower priced pianos in a hurry. They can depreciate fast. And well they should, because they are built to be sold, not played.

Baldwin, on the other hand, is not a low-priced piano. But a Baldwin is a bargain, because it holds its value. It holds its value so well that we can afford to let you rent a Baldwin piano for a very reasonable payment—a perfect plan if someone in your family has started the piano, but might not finish. Then, if you should decide you no longer need a piano, you're not out a great deal of money, and we take back the instrument. But if you decide to keep the Baldwin piano, all payments will be applied to the purchase price.

If you want a piano in your home, we'd like nothing better than to sell you a Baldwin piano—a sound investment for a lifetime. But before you settle for something less, think about renting a Baldwin piano. After all, if you buy a cheap piano, it won't be long before you're singing the blues.

BALDWIN

To receive a copy of the booklet entitled "I wish I had started playing the piano when I was a child", visit your local participating Baldwin dealer, or send 25¢ for postage and handling to P.O. Box 2525, Department FW, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. It contains some sound advice for parents who are thinking about piano lessons for their child.

Maybe you'll smoke them for the same reason I do.

There's been a lot of words in the papers about smoking.

Kind of reminds me of that old line — 'everything I like is either illegal, immoral, or fattening.'

Now I won't say that I wasn't hassled by what I read.

But, I just didn't want to give up smoking. I guess I enjoy it too much. But it sure was enough to get me thinking.

So I tried one of those low 'tar' menthols. It was like sucking a straw of hot air.

Then I noticed that a lot of guys I knew smoked Vantage Menthol. Its special filter didn't make Vantage the lowest 'tar' and nicotine menthol. Just the lowest they enjoyed.

So I tried it, and liked it. And discovered something else I liked, too. The tobacco taste comes through the menthol.

Now I can feel I'm still smoking a cigarette. Not a piece of menthol candy.

If you like Vantage Menthol as much as I do, you could wind up writing their next ad.

How to Make Up to Fall's Fabulous Clothes

Autumn's fuller silhouettes fairly wrap you up—here's how to keep your face and hair the showstoppers.

By Rosalyn Abrevaya
Women's Feature Editor

The big loose look is here this fall. Lots of full coats and swashbuckling capes will be wrapped with yards of scarves and mufflers that go on and on. Heads will be covered with real hats, schoolgirl berets or bulky-knit caps.

After-five clothes will be a breeze, with flowing chiffons or jerseys often wrapped with ostrich feathers. Tentlike cover-ups will flow over styles eased away from the body, and the evening pajama will play on for another season.

The fall colors often will be somber, running the gamut from deep navy, wine and bottle green to earthy neutrals.

Will your face get lost above layers of muted dressing? Not if you wear brighter, natural-looking makeup. Then attention will be focused where it really belongs: on you, not the fashion.

Hair will be more important than ever, too, worn soft, often fluffed at the sides, and casually placed to balance the wider silhouettes.

Wigs with the look of real, healthy hair will be one way to achieve an instant frame for your face above the fuller proportions. Experiment with the many new reds. Even non-redheads can have auburn tresses or flaming locks with a wig and appropriate makeup. (Nancy Dziuban, shown here, is wearing a trio of Elura wigs that look and feel like the real thing.)

How do you achieve a captivating face for the current fall season and beyond? Turn to the complete beauty lesson on page 16.

Makeup by Evelyn Marshall. Jewelry: Alexis Kirk
Hair Stylist: André Douglas

For evening wear, try a deeper eye shadow—accented by a full hairstyle that's rolled and anchored into a wig.

The sweeping line of her hairdo offsets this season's bulky look. A highlighter rouge enchances skin tone.

Bright color on your face contrasts with the new earth-tone clothes to bring out a more natural look. Why not add a fresh and full short red-haired wig, too?

Would You Wear a Wig?

By Arlene Dahl

For a completely authentic look with a wig your own color, sweep your hair back into the wig.

Why not, says this beauty celebrity, when you've seen what a long way they've come!

4 months ago I was a gray, plump mother of 3. Now I'm a trim, brunette college freshman.

I'm still a mother of 3. But I'm a whole lot more. And nobody's happier about it than Jim and the children! I guess it all happened because I saw my "babies" growing up so fast, needing me less and less.

If they missed a meal my whole day would seem shot. And I knew I had to do more with the next decade of my life than sit around counting my birthdays and gray hairs, making my children feel guilty for leading their own lives!

I think the whole thing got going the day I got the courage to color my hair. I'd always been a little afraid of haircolor, but I'd heard that Loving Care® lotion was a very different proposition. And it is!

It's not a permanent dye or a peroxide thing. It doesn't change your own color. It just rinses away the gray. And looks really natural—with soft natural highlights.

Well, it was so exciting to get my own brunette color back it gave me the encouragement for once to really stick to my diet. And now here I am—starting college! Of course, I only go part time. But it's a start.

But that's what's so great. To see, at this point in my life, so many things ahead. To feel, in so many ways, I've only just begun!

© 1974 Clairol Incorporated

Dress up with a different color and style of hair. You can scratch your head through the mesh!

Far left: Give your hair a beauty rest under a wig. To change your mood, go blonde. Left: Whose hair is this? It's as natural as Arlene's own—because it is!

If two heads are better than one, then why not three, four or five!

I'm speaking of wigs, the instant chic for those occasions when:

- You've run out of time and your husband is bringing the boss home to dinner.
- That handsome new VP in the office asks you to dinner and your hair isn't "done."
- You're going on your first business trip and want to make a good impression day and night.

Wigs are the answer. Fashion-conscious women are adding wigs to their wardrobes in multiples – the way they buy dresses, pants suits, shoes–to mirror their changing moods and complement their lifestyles; to alter their image with a smashing new color; to bring out another facet of their personality. New hairstyles and colors are translated into wigs the instant they make news, which means you can find the exact style and color you want, as well as the special effects of tipping, frosting or streaking.

HOW WIGS PERFORM

Wigs today are no longer a luxury but a necessity. They bear no resemblance, either in performance, price, upkeep or comfort, to the wigs of yesterday. They are made of synthetic fibers that look so much like real hair that no one, not even an "expert," can detect the difference. (I know, I've actually won bets on this!) Anything your hair can do, a synthetic wig can do–sometimes better. Since both color and style are permanent, you can wear your wig in the sun without changing its color or in the rain without damaging its set. Synthetic materials also shun dirt and dust, so you only have to wash your wig a few times a year–a quick, easy task performed in minutes with cool water and a mild shampoo. An occasional shaking out and brushing is all the additional attention it needs. And it travels beautifully. Just turn it inside out and toss it in your suitcase.

ARE WIGS COMFORTABLE?

In the past, wearing a wig was a hot and heavy experience that made heads ache and in some cases damaged hair and scalp. Not anymore. Heavy, tight caps have given way to lightweight lacy bands or honeycomb stretch nets into which the strands of hair are sewn. These innovations allow the scalp to breathe naturally while they stretch gently in all directions to fit any head size or shape. (You can even scratch your head through them!)

DO WIGS HARM HAIR?

Wigs are not harmful. In some cases they can actually improve the condition of your hair. Hair that is dry, sun-damaged, overteased or overbleached can "rest up" under a wig. I even wear a wig while treating my hair with an oil conditioner–and no one's the wiser. I apply the conditioner, massage it through my hair and into my scalp. Next I cut off the upper half of an old stocking, tie a knot at one end, slip it over my head and tuck my hair under it. Then I put on a wig that duplicates my usual hairstyle.

HOW TO PUT ON A WIG

Putting on a wig takes practice. This is how I do it:

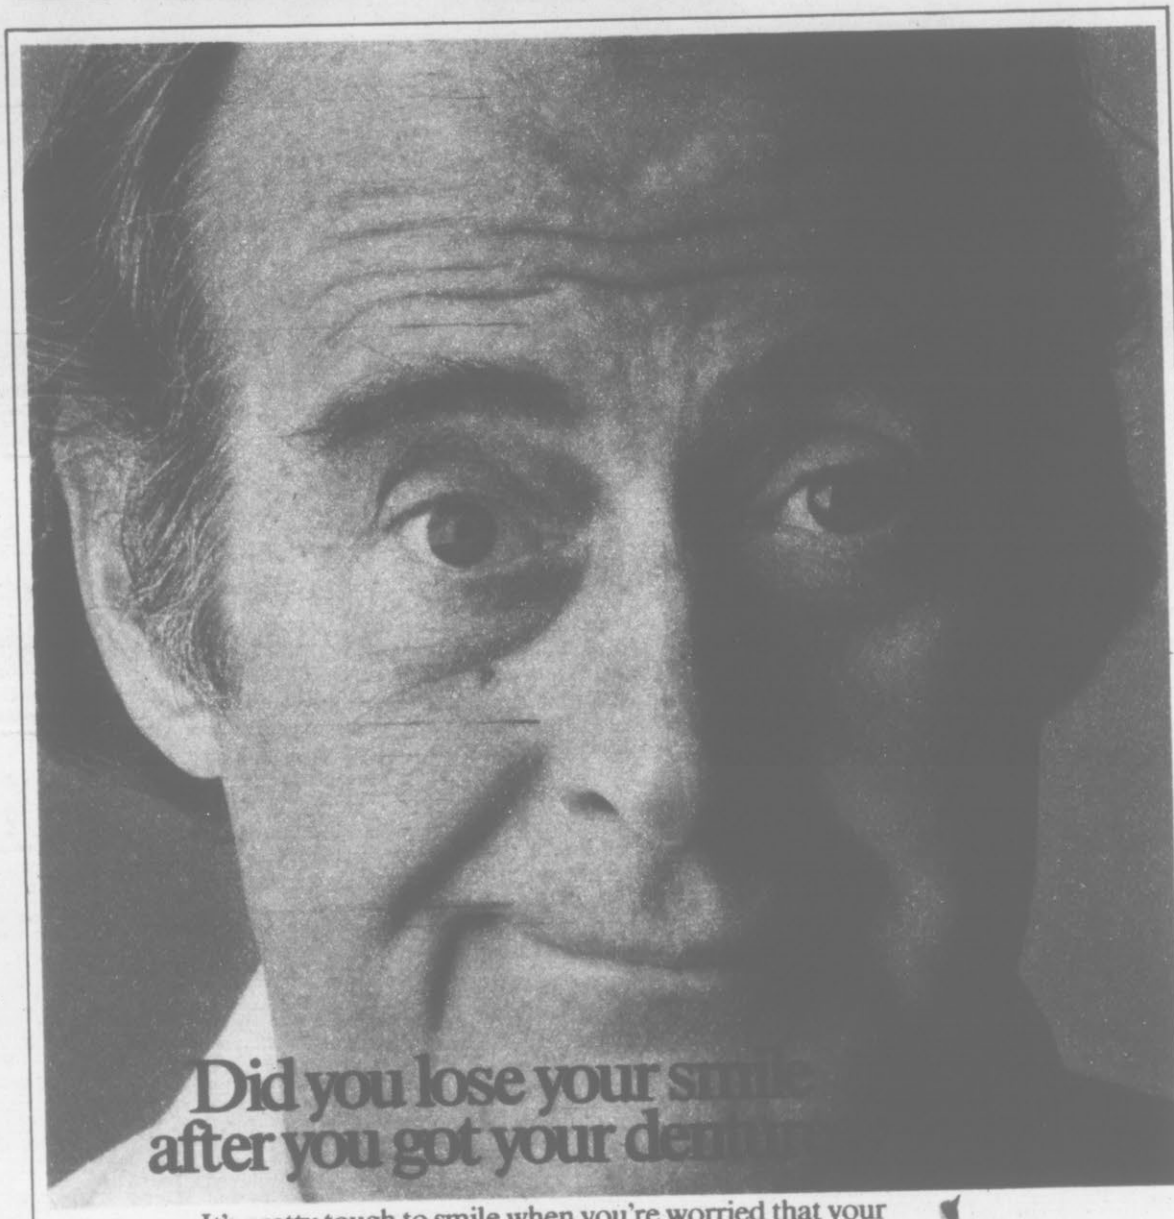

First, pin up every strand of hair firmly. A stray end sneaking out from under your wig will give your secret away. (I use bobby pins to arrange my hair in a French knot in back.)

Now take hold of the temple pieces inside the wig (the small bits of buckram attached to the lining on both sides) and, keeping the label at the back, put on the wig as you would a bathing cap–from the forehead on back (the buckram pieces should be in front of your ears). Once the wig is in place, set it slightly back from your hairline and secure it at the crown, in back of each ear and at the nape of the neck with hairpins or bobby pins. (Be sure the pins match the color of the wig and are completely covered by the hair.)

Now, with the tail of your comb, bring out your front hair (about an inch from ear to ear should do) and comb or brush it back into the wig. If your wig is not an off-the-face style, brush your hair down onto your forehead into curls or waves. Ideally, your hair should be approximately the same length in front as the wig, as well as the same color. If your hair is a lighter shade, you can achieve a streaked effect, which can be flattering if you are prematurely gray or if you are a blonde and have chosen a light-auburn wig.

For practical reasons (no time for extra fussing after work, swimming or tennis) or for fashion reasons (instant chic, a new image, variety), the important fact about wigs is that they can help every woman to look properly groomed at all times.

It's pretty tough to smile when you're worried that your dentures don't have the natural look they were made with.

Dentu-Creme® can help fix that.

Dentu-Creme, the toothpaste for dentures, is made to get rid of the dingy yellow film that can make dentures look unnatural.

Brush every day and the yellow doesn't come back.

But chances are your smile will.

It gives you back your smile.

Make Up to Fall

Cosmetic genius Evelyn Marshall, who has made up more than one Hollywood star (including Greta Garbo) in her time and has her own makeup-consultant business, believes in the natural look. "Sometimes it takes the application of more makeup for a face to look as if it has none on," she says.

Here's how to get a "total beauty" effect:

Foundation: Choose a color as near to your complexion as possible. The correct texture is important, too. Here's how to judge your current foundation: If it skids into the expression lines on your skin after a few hours, it is too oily. Or if it changes color and looks mottled (yellow or rose-splotched in certain areas), it is because the foundation is too oily or the moisturizer used before makeup should be eliminated.

Cheek Color: Find your true blush tone by rubbing a spot on the inside of your wrist at the base of the thumb (do this when choosing a foundation, too) until it feels warm. Your blood will surface and give you your natural tone. When using rouge, if your nose is wide, keep the color away from the center of your face, applying it no closer to your nose than under the outer corner of your eyes, then over the cheekbones. If your nose is too narrow, bring the rouge closer.

Eyeshadow: If your eyes are too deep-set, you can apply a pale pastel, beige or off-white to the lids. To disguise a hooded or puffy lid, use a gray-brown shadow applied with a thick, slanted shadow brush, following exactly the shape of the top of eyeball under the brow bone.

Compare photos. A defined eye makeup and blusher help when wearing a new tuck-in beret.

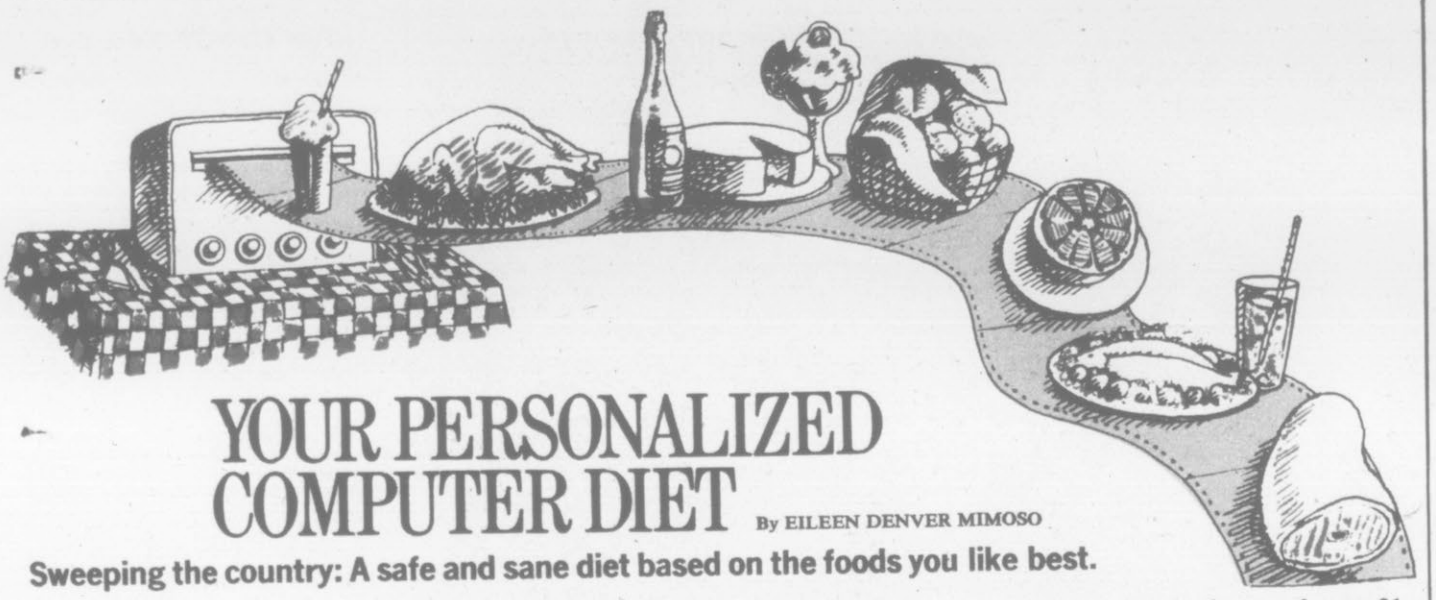

Eyeliner: The proper use of eyeliner can make your eyes appear larger and your lashes look longer. The idea is to choose a color near to your own hair color (but not a harsh black) in a cake liner (for a softer look). Use an extra-fine brush, dipping it in water, then working it into the cake; roll the brush to a fine point against the cake and apply the liner in the thinnest line possible from the inside corner to the outer. Do not extend the line beyond the outer corner.

A marvelous trick for any eye: Softly etch a blue pencil inside the lower rims. The color reflects into the eyes, making them appear whiter and brighter.

Eyebrows: Properly contoured brows, which Evelyn Marshall believes can "make or break" a total look, should be brushed and groomed into a natural shape (tweezing stray hairs from below the brows), with sparse areas filled in with a brush-on-brow powder. Use a back stroke to apply the powder from the outer end of the brows inward, then brush them back into place. Do not round off the brows at the ends—it calls attention to jowls at the chin line.

Lipstick: Finally, for the fall fashions, choose one of the new muted lipsticks in a brownish-red or medium-toned copper shade. Too light a lipstick is aging and accents facial shadows; a too bright one detracts from the desired big-eyed look.

To finish off your cosmetic effort (this includes eyelids), blot your face with a moist sponge. Your makeup will last longer.

YOUR PERSONALIZED COMPUTER DIET

By EILEEN DENVER MIMOSO

Sweeping the country: A safe and sane diet based on the foods you like best.

Now you can get a diet that is tailor-made to your eating habits and your personality. No more regimens of grapefruit and cottage cheese, no more juggling calories. The Cadence Computerized Diet lets you eat the foods you love—to lose the pounds you hate.

The innovative brains behind this miracle program are a concerned woman doctor and a busy computer. Georgina Faludi, M.D., a distinguished obesity specialist. Her method is to conduct an in-depth interview with each patient, then work out a meal-by-meal diet for them. She has had remarkable success in bringing patients to their ideal weight and maintaining it. "But I wanted to help many more people," she explains, "and how could I do that without time-consuming individual interviews and diets?"

The computer was the answer: Now you, too, can have an "interview" with Dr. Faludi and get a diet designed just for you. It's simple: First, you fill out a detailed questionnaire on yourself: this is put into a computer that has already been fed with data based on the doctor's long experience in treating overweight people. In seconds, the computer works out a safe, meal-by-meal 21-day diet in booklet form that is yours alone.

The Cadence diet, introduced just a few months ago, has been phenomenally successful so far. "I think it's because it treats people like the individuals they are," says the doctor. "Most reducing programs are the same for everybody. But you can't prescribe the same diet for an active 6-foot 2-inch businessman and a 5-foot 1-inch secretary who sits all day."

To get your own computerized diet, you supply a bit of preliminary information on coupon (below) and send it in, along with $14.95. (To participate, you cannot be pregnant and must be over 16.) In return, you receive a long, confidential questionnaire that covers your physical makeup, medical and dieting history, exercising and eating habits.

The questionnaire includes a list of close to 200 foods. Next to each, you check off: "Like to eat often," "Like to eat occasionally," "Eat if I have to," "Absolutely dislike or am allergic to." The whole thing is much like the patient history you would give Dr. Faludi in an interview.

The diet booklet you receive begins with personalized advice about the way you should eat and exercise, and about any problems your case may present. And there's a 21-day breakfast/lunch/dinner diet.

The diet, which comes with a three-month guarantee, is completely balanced nutritionally. You don't have to count calories; the computer does that for you.

Being overweight is a problem, of course, and many people today are beginning to realize that it is more than a mere matter of looks. "Overweight shortens life," says Dr. Faludi. " It is the greatest contributing factor to cardiovascular death—our nation's single largest killer."

Attempting to lose weight, the average overweight person has been on at least six fad diets, with only temporary success. There's only one real answer, according to Dr. Faludi: "You must retrain your eating habits, learn to pace yourself—eating what you like, but eating less. If you follow the Cadence diet exactly, you can use it for the rest of your life without ill effects.

At the end of 21 days, you can simply repeat the plan or pay the cost of a new 21-day program based on what's happened so far. On a follow-up questionnaire, you list your new weight and note any diet changes you might wish—more meat, maybe, or less tuna fish. This goes back into the computer and out comes a new program.

"Ideally," she adds, "every overweight person should see a diet specialist, but that's expensive and often impossible. The computerized diet is the next best thing. If you fill out the questionnaire honestly and follow the diet you will lose weight—safely, slowly and permanently."

Dr. Georgina Faludi, the woman behind the new computer diet, has been treating overweight people for years. She heads the Obesity and Diabetic Clinics at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia and is also a busy wife and mother of two active sons.

COOKIE ROJAS:
The Gallant Saga of Cookie, a Hero Back From Defeat

Baseball players may not have nine lives but Octavio "Cookie" Rojas has proved they have at least two. The 35-year-old Rojas was an infield star for years with the Philadelphia Phillies and was even voted Philadelphia's greatest all-time second baseman. Then he began to slip and the Philadelphia management decided that old age had caught up with him. They traded him away, and he wound up with Kansas City in the American League. But instead of quitting, he embarked on a physical-conditioning program that included losing weight and playing winter baseball to improve his legs. The treatment worked—he regained his old skills and became a four-time selection for the American League's All-Star team. . . . A native of Havana, Rojas came to the U.S. in 1956, but became homesick and returned to his homeland to play for the Havana Sugar Kings. When Castro broke off relations with the U.S., the Sugar Kings were moved to Jersey City. Rojas returned to the States to stay, and when he moved up to the major leagues tried to arrange for his family to join him here. The Castro government refused to allow them to emigrate. For seven years Rojas expended a great deal of time, energy and money trying to get them out. His efforts finally paid off when his father, mother and three sisters were allowed to come to America and share in his success. . . . Homesickness has not been Rojas' only ailment. In 1971 he suffered a cracked bone in his right ankle and was knocked out for the last portion of the season. There was fear that he was through, but he disproved this in the years that have followed. He reached new major highs in runs-batted-in, doubles and stolen bases in 1973, but then was jolted by the discovery that his wife Candy had an abdominal tumor. He said if she failed to recover, he would not return to baseball. But surgery proved successful, and Rojas has been the spark plug for the Kansas City team throughout the current season.—By Barry Abramson

Demond Wilson: Sanford's Son Talks About Everything But Sanford

Pictorial Parade

Demond has just recently been married to actress-model Cicely Johnston.

"Cicely and I get along well. In fact, she's the only real friend I have. I don't mix well. I never did."

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

We met at the Hollywood Brown Derby for lunch. Demond Wilson looked dapper, dressed in the latest fashion—and was enjoying it.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Demond—what kind of a name is that?

DEMOND: Kind of odd, isn't it? I was named after a love of my aunt's. She was a dancer, and during the Depression she went to Paris hoping to find work. Instead, she found a boyfriend—a Frenchman named Demond. When Mother became pregnant with me, my aunt suggested that she name me Demond if I was a boy. My mother said, "That's a name I never heard of and it sure isn't a name for a black kid, especially not my black kid."

FW: So how did you get it?

DEMOND: My aunt told my mother if she didn't name me Demond, she'd never talk to her again.

FW: Did your mother push you into show business?

DEMOND: You mean, was she a stage mother? She certainly was. Thanks to her I did my first Broadway play when I was four and a half.

FW: What does your father do?

DEMOND: He's a tailor in the cleaning business. He's a very simple man. I often tell him, "Pa, you're a very simple man." He's also a great-looking guy. I get my good looks from him.

FW: You've played Redd Foxx's son since "Sanford and Son" started on TV. How did you feel when he refused to go on?

DEMOND: Sorry, but I won't answer any Redd Foxx questions, except to say he's a great guy and I love him dearly.

FW: How far did you go in school?

DEMOND: I had two and a half years of college. I left when I was drafted.

FW: Did you go to Vietnam?

DEMOND: Yeah, I ended up near Pleiku,

in the infantry.

FW: Is it true you were badly hurt when you were in the service?

DEMOND: I don't want to talk about my time in the service. But I can tell you one thing: I came back bitter and depressed. That's why I wouldn't stay in the States then. I was so full of hostility I had to leave.

FW: Where did you go?

DEMOND: I went to Europe, mostly to Paris and Copenhagen. I think I had something like 75 cents on me when I arrived in Paris. I stayed in Europe for 16 months.

FW: What made you come back?

DEMOND: I thought I was kind of hypocritical. On the one hand, I wanted nothing to do with anyone or anything that reminded me of Vietnam. On the other hand, I kept buying American magazines and newspapers. So I decided I might as well come back and get adjusted to starting life all over.

FW: You just got married recently to Cicely Johnston. What does your wife do?

DEMOND: She's a model. She's been on a lot of album covers.

FW: Obviously there must be a lot of things about her that you like. Is there anything that you don't care for?

DEMOND: We get along well. In fact, she's the only real friend I have. I don't mix well. I never did. Of course, there are times when I get bored with her. I am sure there are times when she gets bored with me. I think that's rather normal.

FW: Why don't you have any friends?

DEMOND: Probably because I am not a man's man. I never got along too well with men. With ladies—that's a different thing. The only time I got along with men was in Vietnam because we were in a situation where we had to learn to lean on one another out of necessity.

FW: How did you ever get the nickname Peter Prep?

DEMOND: Because I like clothes. Nice clothes. It would be kind of difficult to be dressed in sandals and blue jeans and then have a great big Cadillac like I do.

FW: Where do you live now?

DEMOND: We have a house in Beverly Hills, and a housekeeper and a Japanese gardener to take care of it.

FW: Didn't you spend some time in Japan?

DEMOND: Lots of it. But black people in Japan are like double outcasts.

FW: What do you mean?

DEMOND: Well, it seems to me that to most Japanese, except in cities like Tokyo, Americans are no-nos. If you are a black American, you are a no-no-no. When I was in Yokohama, kids would stare at me. Adults, too. But I liked it better than Hong Kong. Everything is so smelly there. So dirty. So crowded. And so many clip joints.

FW: What do you want out of life?

DEMOND: To fulfill myself, to enjoy what I'm doing. I don't like being bored. Mostly I like to do things that make me happy without hurting other people in the process.

FREEDOM FROM FEAR

FREEDOM OF WORSHIP

FREEDOM FROM WANT

FREEDOM OF SPEECH

AN IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL AMERICANS AND ART COLLECTORS

THE HAMILTON MINT PROUDLY PRESENTS

Norman Rockwell's Four Freedoms

A Memorable New Limited Edition of 1000 Grain Pure Silver Ingots
The Largest and Heaviest Ever Struck by The Hamilton Mint

A Strictly Limited Edition.
Orders must be postmarked
by November 30, 1974
LIMIT: ONE SET PER SUBSCRIBER

NORMAN ROCKWELL, by far America's greatest and best loved artist, has for more than fifty years brought joy to millions of Americans young and old.

Now, by exclusive permission of The Saturday Evening Post, The Hamilton Mint is extremely proud to issue, and thus preserve, forever, in stunningly beautiful silver ingots, the greatest of all his works, "The Four Freedoms."

Rockwell created the original masterpieces during World War II in a burst of patriotic fervor. They depict ever so wonderfully those great values held very dearly in the hearts of all Americans. And they are just as truly inspiring now as they were then.

The Hamilton Mint believes that in these troubled times, our nation sorely needs to rededicate itself to these great beliefs: Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Worship, Freedom from Fear and Freedom from Want. So with purpose, and with great pride, we present this magnificent collection.

Mr. Rockwell Talks About His Four Freedoms

"When Roosevelt and Churchill issued their famous Atlantic Charter, with its Four Freedoms proclamation, I tried to read it . . . but I hadn't been able to get beyond the first paragraph. The language was so noble. Then one night . . . I thought, that's it! I'll illustrate the Four Freedoms using my Vermont neighbors as models. I'll express the ideas in simple, everyday scenes . . . put them down in terms everybody can understand."

Norman Rockwell depicted these great beliefs with his own inimitable and unique brand of genius. Freedom of Speech is portrayed by a man unafraid of reprisal as he speaks his mind at a town meeting . . . Freedom of Worship shows all people free to worship according to their own dictates . . . Freedom from Want is depicted by a family sharing their Thanksgiving meal together and Freedom from Fear is shown tenderly by a mother and father as they snuggle their children safely in bed for the night. Rockwell himself says "The Four Freedoms was the best idea I ever had."

A Strictly Limited First Edition

This First Edition will be of special interest to knowledgeable collectors. Not only because they represent Rockwell's greatest work but traditionally, first editions have always been the most valued. To insure the integrity of this edition, ingots will be struck to fill orders postmarked by November 30, 1974. Once those orders are filled, no more first edition ingots will ever be minted.

An Exclusive Treasury in .999 Fine Silver of Rockwell Masterpieces

The original Rockwell paintings shown at right, are of epic proportions. And so will be the ingots. Each beautifully sculptured ingot will measure 1¾" x 2¼" and will contain 1000 grains of .999 fine silver, the purest and finest silver available. These ingots will contain more than twice the silver of our standard ingot. Each magnificent ingot will be struck in high bas-relief with a satiny image and antique finish to clearly show every detail of the great art. These will be the largest and heaviest art ingots ever struck by The Hamilton Mint.

Quotations from "My Adventures As An Illustrator" by Norman Rockwell

Your Valuable Personal Serial Number

Your First Edition Collection will be minted expressly for you and each ingot will be inscribed with your personal matching serial number along with The Hamilton Mint Hallmark. As an advance subscriber you will anticipate the same thrill that all art sponsors feel as they await their commissioned art. In addition, you will receive a certificate of authenticity to certify the limited edition status and precious metal content of each ingot.

Significant Investment Potential

We feel that many limited edition silver mintings are good investments but none do we feel has the potential of this particular Rockwell collection. And this important artistic and historic collection comes at a time when leading economists are predicting that silver and gold will continue to become more valuable in the years to come. Collectors have already realized bonanzas. For example, a 1970 Christmas Ingot was issued for $12.00 and now brings $195.00. A 1972 Thanksgiving Ingot containing 1 oz. of silver originally sold for $4.50 and now brings about $25.00. So please act promptly to share in the excitement of owning this magnificent collection.

Guaranteed Price Protection

Subscribers to The Four Freedoms are guaranteed the original purchase price, no matter how high the price of silver may escalate. You will receive your first ingot soon after your application is accepted and the three additional ingots at monthly intervals thereafter. The Hamilton Mint will not accept any orders postmarked after November 30, 1974, but if your application is postmarked by the deadline and accepted, your subscription price is guaranteed.

Deluxe Edition of 24 KT. Gold on .999 Fine Silver

This special edition is the ultimate in beauty and combines the Pure Silver ingots with a layer of 24 KT. Gold. To further enhance the potential value of this edition, it is being offered to a very restricted number of subscribers. Only those orders postmarked by November 30, 1974 will be accepted. Each ingot will also be individually hallmarked and serially numbered.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

I DIDN'T MAKE THIS UP

My wife makes up our beds each morning.
She needs no prompting, scolding, warning.
From side to side and foot to head
With every move the task is sped.
She has the skill, the strength, endurance;
She does the job with great assurance.
And as she gives the final touch
And smooths the covers just so much,
I wish (a thought I shall not tell)
She made her mind up half as well.

Boy to friend on school bus: "This morning I woke up with chills, fever, headache, sore throat and upset stomach, but it didn't work."
—Conrad Fiorello

Two infants were reminiscing and one said, "Goo-goo-da-da [Remember when the doctor raised his huge hand to slap your behind]?" The other said, "Goo-goo? Wa, ga-ga [Remember? Why, my whole life flashed in front of me]." —Robert Brault

My life is an open book – and my wife is the editor. —Robert Orben

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

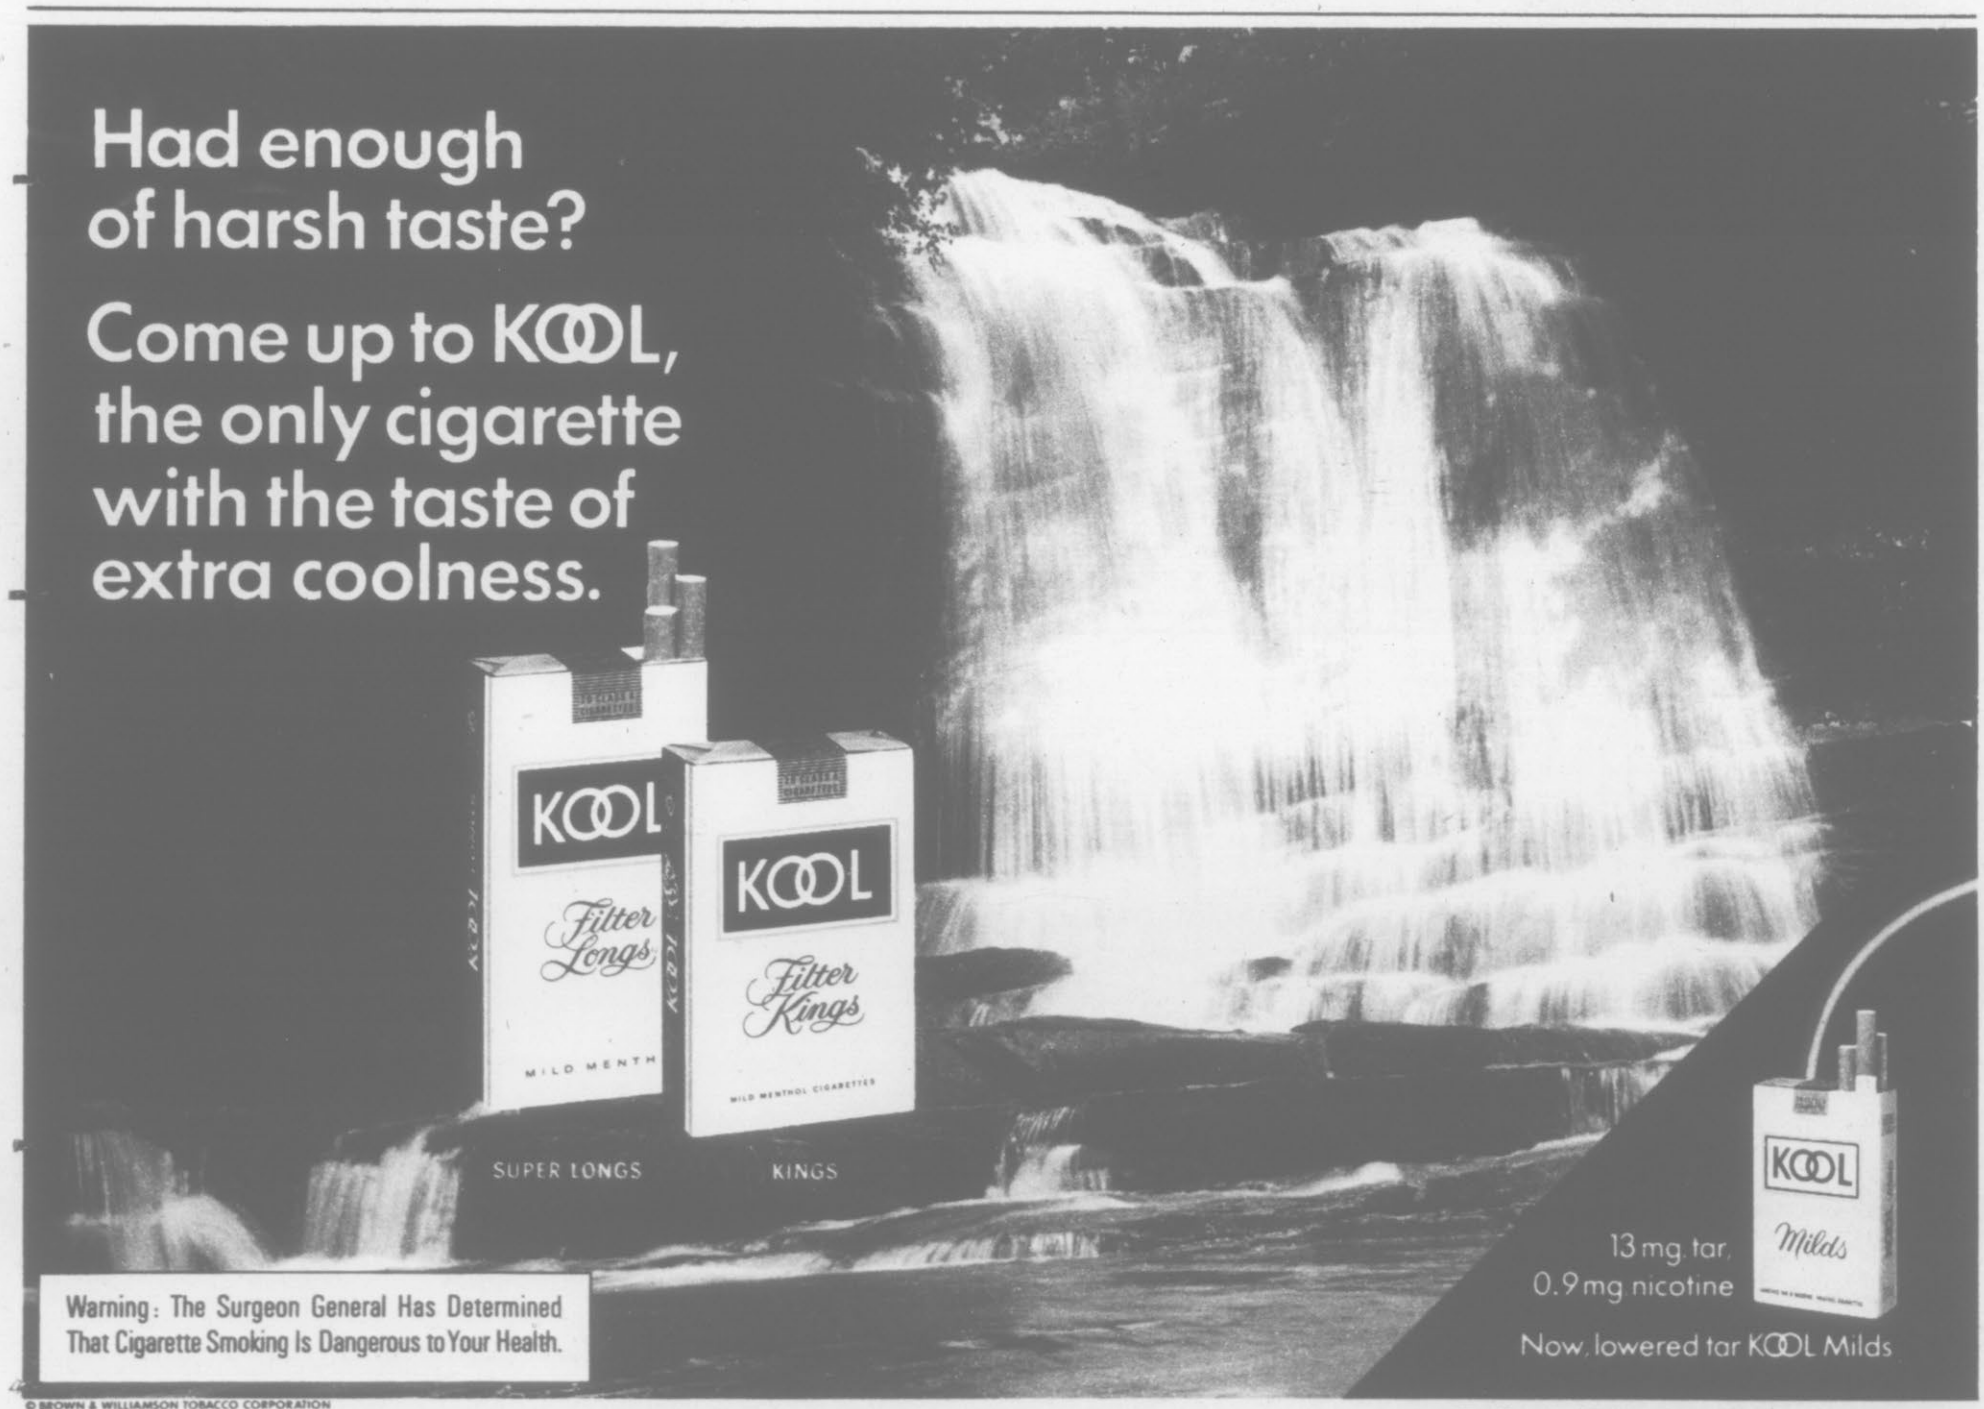

My six-year-old daughter was looking forward with excitement to her first day in school. When the great day dawned, she bounced out of bed at seven and was outside waiting for the bus at eight. She was still enthusiastic when she got home that afternoon. The next morning, however, when my wife woke her at 7:30, she wasn't quite so happy. "What?" she protested angrily. "Again?" —Richard T. Krajecki

PSYCHIC DAVID HOY
New "readings"

Kentucky psychic David Hoy, who has used his ESP powers to make thousands of dollars in real estate and investment interests, made these "readings" for FAMILY WEEKLY:

- A tennis star will turn TV star in a series to begin shooting in late September.
- Patty Hearst will turn up—outside the country!
- A ship collision in the approach to New York; oil spill will be minor.
- Another outbreak of hostilities in the Middle East (but not involving Israel) in the early fall.
- A conglomerate of African nations will explode a nuclear device in the summer of 1975.
- A political assassination in the winter of 1975 will send shock waves all the way to Peking.
- Gerald Ford will not be the Republican nominee for President in 1976.

PRINCESS CAROLINE
Rumors and smiles

No sooner did Californian Mary Jo Watkins return from England where she visited Prince Charles, than rumors started up again linking Charles with Princess Caroline, daughter of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier of Monaco. Reporters say Caroline and Charles have met recently. Whatever is really going on, however, remains to be seen.

How can anyone who's heard of Budd Rice, Jr., criticize young people as creatures with a tendency to sit around all day? Over 300,000 of them from 1,500 schools participate in the Marine Corps Youth Physical Fitness program every year. This year, Budd Rice, a 16-year-old high school sophomore from Seneca, Pa., was one of the finalists in Washington, D.C. He completed 100 sit-ups in two minutes and 60 push-ups in the same amount of time. He also made a standing broad jump of 9 feet, 9¾ inches and ran a 300-yard shuttle course in 47.4 seconds. What have you done for exercise today?

BIG BROTHER BELT
It takes your temperature

A fascinating belt that keeps a watchful eye on your body temperature, the air temperature and the level of air pollution has been developed by Dr. Thomas Davison, James Fergason and Maryann Scherr of Akron, Ohio. It is made out of stainless steel inlaid with silver and is decorative as well as useful. The belt works this way: Its five circles are filled with liquid crystals. As soon as there is a marked difference in atmospheric or body conditions, the crystals change color from red to blue or back again. The visual effect is informative as well as intriguing.

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Plume is missing. 2. Pendant is missing. 3. Book is missing. 4. Pillow is missing. 5. Skirt is different. 6. Foot is repositioned.

WHAT'S UP? Can you guess what the fisherman above has on his line? To check your answer, connect dots 1 to 2 to 3, 4, etc. You may be surprised.

BULLETIN BOARD

Your right ankle, for one thing.

● Eliminate one letter from each of these two-letter words to discover a common saying: EH AS SO IT HE MA AT OK BE IS OW AW US TO YE.

The saying is "Haste makes waste."

● Beachcomber Bill found something on the beach whose name consisted of a large body of water and a pesky lawn plant. What was it?

Seaweed.

● Tongue Testers! Repeat as fast as you can: Pat Spratt snapped a backpack strap. Rutherford Drubbs wraps red rubber rugs.
