

Sen. Kennedy Won't Run In '76 Election

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said today he would not be a candidate for president or vice president in 1976. "I will not accept the nomination. I will not accept a draft," he said, adding: "My primary responsibilities are at home."

The Massachusetts Democrat said his decision was final and unconditional. He said, "I would be unable to make a full commitment to a campaign for the presidency."

Kennedy, 42, brother of the late President John F. Kennedy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, both of whom were assassinated, said he made the decision after discussing it with his wife.

He made the announcement at a Boston news conference. His wife Joan, who has been in rest homes twice in recent months, was at his side.

Kennedy said he expected that he would have been able to win the Democratic nomination if he had decided to seek it.

Kennedy said his announcement "will permit others who have been interested in gaining the nomination the chance for exposure during this campaign."

He said, "The real question before the people is who's going to come up with some solutions to our economic problems."

Asked what effect the Chappaquiddick incident of 1969 had on his decision, Kennedy said: "This decision ... would have been made irrespective of the tragedy that happened in 1969 ... Were I to run, it would have been a factor that would have been raised."

Mary Jo Kopechne, a former secretary for Robert Kennedy, was killed when a car driven by Kennedy went off a bridge at Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast.

Kennedy said "I can live with my testimony" about the Chappaquiddick incident and why there was a delay in reporting the accident and added: "Although I regret the incident I would have been able to focus the campaign on other issues."

The senator was reminded that he had earlier said he would not make a decision until the middle of next year and was asked why he had made his announcement earlier. "I had set the middle part of next year as the outside time for a decision," he said, "but I always felt in my own mind that when I made a firm decision I would announce it. During the course of the summer I made a firm decision ..."

Saying that he would be unable to give a full commitment to the campaign, he stated: "I simply cannot do that to my wife, children and other members of my family."

He said he made the announcement now "in order to ease the apprehensions of my family." He called his decision, "firm, final and unconditional. There is absolutely no circumstance or event that would alter this decision."

Kennedy said he would be a candidate for re-election as senator in 1976.

Kennedy is the sole surviving son of the late Joseph P. Kennedy and is the guardian of his slain brothers' children.

Last November, Kennedy's son, Edward Jr., lost part of a leg because of bone cancer.

Kennedy had been considered by many observers a favorite to win the Democratic presidential nomination if he sought it, although he has become embroiled in a controversy with some colleagues regarding proposed campaign reform legislation.

He encountered hecklers on a campaign trip to Indiana last week and drew mixed political notices on a visit to California to campaign for congressional candidates. He also got a stormy reception here recently at a meeting involving school busing.

Kennedy's major handicap, however, was considered the Chappaquiddick incident and he had said that if he decided to run, he would reveal the details of the accident.

Asked today if his decision not to run meant he would not answer questions about Chappaquiddick, Kennedy said no.

Blunt Warning To Arabs From Sec. Kissinger

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In a blunt warning to Arab oil producers, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today a world poised on the brink of general depression cannot afford current petroleum prices, much less continuing increases.

The poorer nations, many of them trying desperately to cope with food shortages, could be overwhelmed in a never-ending inflationary spiral, Kissinger told the 29th session of the U.N. General Assembly.

While oil producers are entitled to "a fair share," Kissinger said, "it cannot be in the interest of any nation to magnify the despair of the least developed who are uniquely vulnerable to exorbitant prices and who have no recourse but to pay."

The speech followed President Ford's own warning to the General Assembly last week that manipulation of the energy crisis could lead to counteraction using food as a political and economic weapon.

Arab delegates who detected a veiled ultimatum in that address will be fine-combing Kissinger's speech for evidence of a U.S. effort to turn sentiment, particularly in Third World countries, against initiators of the fourfold increase in petroleum prices this year.

Kissinger said the United States is ready to join with all nations in a massive effort to meet the world's needs for doubling of food production by the end of the century.

"We have an obligation to strive for an adequate supply of food to every man, woman and child in the world," he said.

At the international food conference in Rome on Nov. 5, he said the United States will present a number of specific proposals to increase fertilizer production, expand research programs, and rebuild food reserves against the vagaries of weather.

"At a time of universal concern for justice and in an age of advanced technology, it is intolerable that millions are starving and hundreds of millions remain undernourished," Kissinger said.

In a gesture to the oil producers, Kissinger said the United States is prepared to accept substantial investments of the oil-price revenues and welcomes a greater role for producers in the management of international economic institutions.

But he said there must be a "new understanding" between consumers and producers.

"The high cost of oil is not the result of economic factors, of an actual shortage of capacity, or of the free play of supply and demand," Kissinger said.

"Rather it is caused by deliberate decisions to restrict production and maintain an artificial price level."

Kissinger said the result is an "unprecedented attack" on the world's economic system, poisoning it "on the brink of a return to the unrestrained economic nationalism which accompanied the collapse of economic order in the '30s."

On another subject, he made an impassioned plea for controlling the spread of nuclear weapons. He said the United States, itself a chief supplier of technology, will soon propose new safeguards on the use and transfer of nuclear material. He will be the beneficiary and all mankind will have lost."

In addition to his address to the 138-nation assembly, Kissinger plans a series of private meetings in which he hopes to accelerate peace negotiations in the Middle East and narrow the differences between Greece and Turkey on the future of Cyprus.

He meets on Tuesday with Foreign Ministers George Mavros of Greece and Turan Gunes of Turkey, along with a string of others.

Since another negotiating trip to the Middle East lies immediately ahead for Kissinger, he must focus considerable attention on the Arabs.

Hurricane Fifi Toll May Run As High As 10,000

By EDITH LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

SAN PEDRO SULA, Honduras (AP)—Rescue workers are burning the dead left by Hurricane Fifi in northeast Honduras to prevent outbreaks of disease adding to the toll of one of the worst catastrophes in Central American history.

As refugees began straggling back to their devastated towns and villages and relief supplies started to arrive from abroad, officials said at least 5,000 bodies had been found. They estimated this toll would double when all reports were in.

They said the storm, which hit the region with winds of 110 to 130 miles an hour and torrential rains on Thursday night, drove 150,000 persons from their homes, wiped out most of the banana crop and virtually destroyed the cities of Choloma, Omoa and Trujillo.

Floodwaters turned the rich Uluva River valley from San Pedro Sula to the coast into a lake 20 miles wide at some points. Thousands of persons were reported still stranded on rooftops or in trees, but a shortage of helicopters and fuel delayed their rescue.

Col. Ruben Villanueva of the National Emergency Relief Committee said damage from the storm was estimated at $1.8 billion in the San Pedro Sula region alone. An executive of United Brands, one of the two major producers of bananas, the country's chief export, estimated that 90 per cent of the crop was destroyed.

President Oswaldo Lopez

Arellano flew over the flooded area on Sunday and told newsmen the situation was "terribly sad." He made a new appeal for food, clothes, medicine and vaccines.

The first plane loads of emergency aid, including a complete field hospital from Cuba, arrived at nearby La Lima airport on Sunday. U.S. Air Force C130 transports brought boats, lifejackets, food, drinking water and other emergency supplies from the Panama Canal Zone.

The United States also has sent trucks and helicopters, desperately needed in the search for stranded persons. Mexico sent 10 planes. Costa Rica's minister of health brought a field hospital. Venezuela, El Salvador and Guatemala sent medical aid and rescue workers.

Villanueva said Choloma, a town of 7,000, was 95 per cent destroyed; Omoa, a town of 14,000 on the coast, was 90 per cent destroyed, and the port of Trujillo, which had 20,300 people, was totally destroyed.

Two offshore islands — Utila and Jose Santos Guardiola — still had not been heard from, Villanueva said. He said a third, Roatan, with a population of 5,000, was 80 per cent destroyed.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

COLLECTIONS CONTINUE

St. James United Methodist has taken full responsibility for collecting gifts in Greenville for a family written up in Hotline Aug. 23.

The Mitchell Brown family of 14 in Penny Hill had their home and almost all their belongings burn. The church secretary, Mrs. Margie Bowers, said sofas, chairs, beds, bed linen, some dishes, some cash and much clothing has been brought there for the family. Church member Dr. Donald Jeffreys has taken the gifts to the Browns' present home, also in Penny Hill. Mrs. Bowers said she believes the church will continue to collect for the family as long as anything is brought.

Earned $47 Million In 10 Years: Rockefeller

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller told the Senate Rules Committee today he earned nearly $47 million and paid more than $21 million in taxes over the past 10 years.

The former New York governor opened his vice presidential confirmation hearings with a 72-page statement, crammed with financial data about the Rockefeller's worldwide investments and tidbits of family and personal history.

He promised that, "should I become confirmed and should Congress request, I will place immediately all my securities which I own outright" into a blind trust while he retains federal office.

Sen. Howard M. Cannon, D-Nev., the chairman of the Rules Committee, said on Sunday the panel will consider that possibility, but he expressed reservations about imposing a requirement on Rockefeller beyond the requirements of the Constitution.

In his statement, Rockefeller detailed his career in national and state office, including his three unsuccessful bids for the presidency.

He said the "most agonizing" event of his governorship was the loss of lives at Attica State Prison in 1971, but he defended his decision to quell an inmate rebellion as the "best at the time under all of the existing circumstances." Forty-three persons died as a result of the uprising, most of them when law officers stormed the prison behind a fusillade of rifle and shotgun fire.

In his financial disclosure, he failed to answer questions about the over-all extent of his family's economic power, omitting information on stock holdings of Rockefeller-controlled tax exempt foundations and of banks and companies in which his family has a substantial interest.

Highlights of his financial disclosure included:

—His net personal worth as of Aug. 23 was $62.5 million with more than half — $33.5 million — of his $64.1 million in assets accounted for by art holdings, $12.8 million in stocks and bonds of some 50 companies, and $11.2 million (Continued on page 8)

Researcher Blames EPA For Auto Industry Woes

EMISSION CONTROLS—John Moran, research expert for the Environmental Protection Agency, is shown with two types of catalytic converters to control emission of pollutants from cars. By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—An Environmental Protection Agency research expert blames foot-dragging by EPA for some of the problems the auto industry is having in controlling emission pollution.

John Moran says if EPA had gotten its present research program under way sooner it would have allowed time to do something about a major fault in catalytic converters before they were installed on automobiles.

The catalytic converters being put on many 1975 model cars to control the emission of such pollutants as carbon monoxide, unburned hydrocarbons and oxides of nitrogen (NOx) have one big flaw: they emit a fine spray of potentially hazardous sulphuric acid.

Moran told the Associated Press in a recent interview that as a result of EPA's foot-dragging, "we are working on a research program now that will be under way for the next two years that we should have started three or four years ago."

"The effect is we're not going to have the information the (EPA) administrator needs to make a decision on this issue based on solid scientific facts until after catalytic equipped cars have been on the road for at least one year," he said.

Marlin Fitzwater, EPA press relations director in Washington, said when asked about the foot-dragging, "I just don't know what he might be referring to."

Moran, 37-year-old Michigan native who heads up EPA's emission research program in North Carolina's Research Triangle, expressed the hope the catalytic converter is a temporary expedient. He expressed the opinion "the most promising thing" now in sight to cure emission problems of automobiles is the "stratified charge" engine.

"I think all of us hope... that the catalytic converter is only an interim means of meeting standards" Moran said.

Ernest Starkman, General Motors vice president for environmental activities, objected, however, that "if and when something that is as good or better than the catalytic converter is available we will surely be ready to consider it."

Moran explained that the "stratified charge" process employs "basically the same engine we are used to today with a substantially different technique for the introduction of the fuel air mixture" into the engine.

"It can achieve the statutory hydrocarbon emission standards without the use of catalysts," he said, "but it may not be able to meet the NOx standards."

Moran said, however, that relaxation of the NOx standards is now under study. He said the National Academy of Science, reported to the U.S. Senate recently that "reconsideration of the oxides of nitrogen standards might be appropriate."

Moran said if it is determined that relaxation of NOx standards is "appropriate from a public health point of view," he feels that stratified charge process "holds the most hope for getting engines into the hands of the public that would have very low emissions and good fuel economy."

Auto industry spokesmen agreed that the stratified charge engine looks promising. Charles Heinen, Chrysler's emission control planner, said relaxation of NOx standards "would help considerably but that the chance of meeting more stringent emission standards in 1978 by using the stratified charge engine "are very very slim."

Starkman said "until we are assured that oxides of nitrogen constraints are relaxed we cannot consider stratified charge as the answer."

Moran and the industry spokesmen disagreed on the extent of the health hazard that will result from the sulphuric acid emitted by catalytic converters.

Moran said EPA has studied the health aspect and had concluded that "sulphates specifically have adverse effect on certain susceptible people in our population, particularly those with existing heart and respiratory diseases, such as asthmatics and people with bronchitis and emphysema."

"Our projection indicates that in the most highly traveled sections of the country...these concentrations of sulphuric acid would exceed what we believe to be the health effect threshold in susceptible people after two model years of cars equipped with catalytic converters," Moran stated. "In less busy areas we feel we have six years."

Starkman expressed the opinion that under the worst of conditions there "will be no effect upon the health of the most easily affected persons in our community for a period minimally of two to six years."

Both Moran and the industry spokesmen agreed that it would be technologically feasible to solve the sulphuric acid or sulphate problem by removing the sulphur from gasoline.

However, there was disagreement about the cost of a desulfurization program and how long it would take to get sulphur free gasoline.

"It is expensive and it will take time," Moran said.

Heinen said removal of sulphur from gasoline would require the construction of new plants by the petroleum industry and "you haven't got the chance of a snowball in hell of doing that in two years."

Starkman said removal desulfurification is feasible and is immediately possible.

"According to reports we receive from the Arthur D. Little Co. sulphur free, unleaded fuel can be supplied and with no cost penalties for the immediate future and at no more than a one-cent cost penalty in the far future."

"This, we believe, is more of a logical move than outlawing the catalytic converter because thereby we can reduce carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and sulphur in the atmosphere."

Walter Brennan Noted For Brevity In Words

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — Walter Brennan played many different personality types over a half century, but he was known for brevity and simplicity in his own life.

Brennan, who died at 80 on Saturday after a long battle with emphysema, was noted for playing the grizzled sidekick to the big stars of Westerns early in his career. He later gained national fame as the wise and wisecracking grandfather, Amos McCoy, in television's "The Real McCoys."

His acceptance speeches for three Academy Awards were gems.

Brennan's first Oscar was awarded for his 1936 performance in "Come and Get It," in which he played a lumberjack who ages from 25 to 75. His acceptance speech: "Thank you."

Two years later, he won an Oscar for portraying an 84-year-old man in "Kentucky," and his acceptance speech was: "Thank you very much."

In 1941, Brennan won again for his role as Judge Roy Bean in "The Westerner," starring Gary Cooper. Brennan accepted again with: "Thank you very, very much."

The three Oscars were for best supporting actor.

The white-haired veteran appeared in hundreds of films dating back to 1923 and starred in four television series before retiring two years ago to his 11-acre grapefruit ranch in Moorpark, about 35 miles north of Los Angeles.

In the last year, he was in and out of St. John's Hospital here for treatment of emphysema. His wife of 54 years, Ruth, and three children were with him when he died.

Brennan was known as a patriot, once telling an interviewer, "For me, it's American first, last and always, and I'm proud to be privileged to enjoy its freedom."

"What have you done for America?" he once asked. "If nothing, you better start teaching your children how to count rubles." The reference was to Russian money.

He began playing roles as an old man while still a lad. The late Gary Cooper once said of Brennan, "He'll come into the studio sprightly as ever and disappear into his dressing room. When he comes out for a scene he'll be shuffling and croaking like an old man."

Brennan said his role as Grandpa McCoy was his favorite — "I used to watch old Grandpa McCoy and laugh and cry at myself. Of course, I'm nothing like the man."

Among his last acting roles were appearances in two successful movies written for television, "The Over-the-Hill Gang" and "Return of the Over-the-Hill Gang."

Merit Awards System For State Employees Proposed By Governor

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser proposes to set up a meritorious service awards program, a system of deferred compensation to boost retirement pay and more paid holidays for some state employees.

The governor outlined his plans to the State Employees Association convention Saturday night. He said he will ask the state Personnel Board to extend holiday premium pay for state workers in essential jobs such as highway patrolmen, prison guards and hospital workers, to include all official holidays recognized by the state.

This could mean that these employees would get time and one-half premium pay for work done on four holidays in addition to the five for which they already receive premium pay. The governor said the extra holiday pay would cost the state $400,000 a year, "but it will go a long way toward a policy of fairness for state workers."

Holshouser said he expects the meritorious service awards program to be put in operation by Jan. 1. He said the program will include cash awards of up to $1,000 for "employees' suggestions which are adopted and save the taxpayers' dollars."

"Many good suggestions, of course, do not result in the tangible savings of dollars," the governor said. "Suggestions involving improvements in working conditions, changes in procedures, revisions of forms or improvements in employee morale, health or safety will be eligible for an intangible but appropriate award.

"We also want to be able to show appreciation for an act of heroism that results in the saving of a life or the discovery or development of a significant scientific idea or device which has a far-reaching value to the state," Holshouser stated. "There will also be awards for groups of employees as well as individuals."

The governor said the state plans to set up the North Carolina Employees Deferred Compensation Trust soon and to have it in operation shortly after Jan. 1.

The plan, he said, would permit a state worker to choose to have a portion of his pay deferred—it would not be in his pay check and he would not pay income taxes on it. Meanwhile, the funds would be invested and would be growing.

"When an employee reached retirement age he would receive his accumulated deferred pay in regular monthly installments" and "he will pay income taxes on the amount he actually receives," the govern-nor explained. "Most likely he will be in a much lower tax bracket by that time and therefore will pay much less tax."

He said a worker who saved $40 a month under the deferred compensation plan would accumulate more than $24,000 in 25 years.

ACTION Chief Is Area Visitor

Paul R. Jones, Director of ACTION's Region IV in Atlanta, visited Greenville and Kinston last Friday to see first hand work being accomplished by VISTA volunteers in the two towns.

In Greenville, Jones was accompanied on visits to various points by Rick Cagan, Greenville VISTA project director.

Jones was interviewed briefly at television station WNCT-TV before going to Moyewood Social Service Center. Local VISTA personnel currently have as a project the building of a playground at Moyewood for children of the community. Greenville VISTA volunteers are engaged in both the planning and construction stages of the playground.

During his afternoon stay in Greenville, the Region IV director also toured VISTA headquarters on East Fifth Street. The local headquarters is sponsored by the Wesley Foundation.

Jones, a native of Alabama, is responsible for administration of ACTION program in eight southern states. He has served in Bangkok, Thailand as Peace Corps County Deputy Director, was probation officer with the U.S. District Court in California, and was Director, Model Cities Program in Charlotte. Jones has also served in other capacities with various ACTION programs.

In Kinston, he was principal speaker at the Greene Lamp Foster Grandparent Recognition dinner on Friday evening.

Identify Body Found In Car

Greenville Police have identified the body of a man found in an abandoned car behind Louie's Lounge on Tenth Street as that of Walter Benn Kinion, 48, of the Flynn Home.

Kinion's body was found around 8 p.m. Saturday night. Pitt County Coroner E.W. Harvey said the cause of death has not been determined, however, Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon says he does not suspect foul play.

Harvey said Kinion had been dead between 18 and 24 hours when the body was found.

Injuries To Head Fatal

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey has ruled that a 60-year-old Farmville resident died as a result of head injuries, received sometime late Saturday.

Cornelius Dixon, 60, of 202 Horton St. was found dead near his residence by Farmville Police and volunteer firemen around 6:15 p.m. Saturday, according to Sgt. Bryan Pippin of the Farmville Police Dept.

A fire which slightly damaged the kitchen of the Dixon home was first thought to have been an explosion which might have caused Dixon's death. When police investigated, they found that the man had not been injured in the blaze.

According to Pippin, the victim was last seen around 5 p.m. Saturday. Investigating officers suspect robbery as a factor in the incident.

Pair Facing Rape Counts

Two Greenville men have been charged with the rape of a 14-year-old girl according to Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon.

The incident allegedly occurred early Sunday morning. Arrested in connection with the case were Bobby Simpkins, 17, of Lot 8 Paris Ave., and Charlie Bright, 28, of 1600 B Spruce St.

According to Cannon, both men were charged and placed in the county jail under a $1,000 bond.

Investigating officers report that the girl was walking home with a male friend early Sunday morning when they passed the Bright residence and the girl entered. She was allegedly attacked there, and again at the Simpkins residence later, according to Cannon.

The incident was reported to police early Sunday morning when the girl's father brought her to police headquarters, states Cannon.

Gerry-Anderson Vows Solemnized On Sunday

Miss Shirley Ann Anderson became the bride of Douglas Steven Gerry Saturday at 4:00 p. m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Joseph Arps.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jasper W. Anderson of Greenville, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Gerry of Woodbury Hill, Auburn, Me.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white taffeta designed with a high neckline encircled with white floral Venise lace. The sheer yoke of white sate, peau was outlined in matching lace. The Renaissance sleeves also featured the Venise lace and the modified empire skirt extended to an attached chapel train.

She wore an off-face profile headpiece of alencon lace accented with pearls and attached to an elbow length illusion veil. The bride carried a cascade of daisy pom poms and lily-of-the-valley with baby's breath, tied with white ribbon.

COMPANY DINNER

- Roast Chicken with Stuffing
- Potatoes Broccoli
- Apple Chutney Bread Tray
- Caramel Pudding
- APPLE CHUTNEY

Because Worcestershire sauce contains tamarind, used in the best India chutneys, it's worth adding to this relish.

- 2 pounds tart apples
- 2 cups chopped onion
- 15-ounce package seedless raisins

- 1 1/2 cups firmly packed dark brown sugar
- 3 cups cider vinegar
- 3 tablespoons

- Worcestershire sauce
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons ground ginger

Pare, quarter, core and dice apples — there should be about 2 quarts. Turn into a large saucepot with remaining ingredients and mix well. Bring to boiling point; simmer, uncovered, stirring often until thick — about 45 minutes.

Ladle into hot sterilized canning jars, leaving 1/4-inch head space; add caps and screwbands according to jar manufacturer's directions. Process in boiling water bath for 10 minutes. Makes three one-pint jars.

If your family neglects salad when you serve it as an accompaniment to the main course or after it, try offering the salad as a first course.

Have A Lawyer Translate Your Binding Document

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are getting on in years and would like to make out our wills leaving everything we have to each other.

I don't want to go to a lawyer and go through all that "party-of-the-first-part, party-of-the-second-part" red tape. I just want to write a couple of sentences saying my wife and I want to leave all our worldly goods to each other. Will that be okay?
SHORT AND SNAPPY

DEAR S AND S: Wills are a touchy business. Their validity is subject to many unforeseen conditions, including a wide variety of state laws. Let a lawyer translate your intentions into a binding document. You'll be glad you did.

DEAR ABBY: A reader offered $100 to the charity of your choice, and you picked the Cancer Crusade. Abby, I think you made a poor choice. Curing cancer and other diseases of old age will create far worse problems for our society than it will solve.

Do you realize that if we find cures for cancer, strokes, heart diseases and kidney diseases, we will double the number of years between age 65 and death (at 96) for the average person? Coupled with reduced birth rates, this means we will more than double the proportion of old people in our society, and we will astronomically increase the numbers of the very old. And while we go on looking for medical miracles to extend life, we condemn the increasing numbers of old people to a life of poverty and neglect.

I think it is wrong for society to try to offer people a longer life when we cannot assure them of a better life. That is why I favor a moratorium on life-extending medical research until the year 2000.

In times past, people looked to the old for wisdom and guidance. I think we need their guidance now. I would like to see the opinions of old people, and even of terminal cancer patients. I would ask them, "What is more important to you, a longer life or a better life?" And, more generally, "What should society do to make longer life better?"
JOHN LOZIER
ASS'T PROFESSOR, ANTHROPOLOGY
W. VA. UNIVERSITY, MORGANTOWN

DEAR PROF: Your proposed "moratorium on life-extending medical research" as an aid to population control is, to say the least, unique.

Personally, I would rather deal with the "problems" that result from reduced suffering and longer life, than return to the "good old days" when only the strong and lucky survived. And if this conflicts with the message of anthropology, I would be surprised.

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing this letter just to say a few words to "No Complaints." (She said big noses and flat bosoms are "in.")

I don't know what magazines you read, honey, but in all the ones I see, the models do wear bras. Furthermore, if big noses and flat busts are "in," it sure beats me why most guys would sooner take out a good-looking, big-bosomed girl than a big-nosed, flat-chested one (assuming they are both intelligent and have good personalities).

I'm not putting anyone down, just voicing my opinion. If "No Complaints" is happy, then good for her. But for those other flat-chested girls who aren't, a little padding never hurt anybody.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bennett of McLean, Va., announce the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, to Stuart Malcolm Wolcott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Wolcott of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. Albert DuBree of Woolwine, Va., on Sept. 7 in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The couple will reside in Blacksburg, Va.

Household Hints

Plastic bags can be put through the washing machine, then hung up to dry. You may have to turn them inside out to dry completely.

Top canned pear halves with vanilla or coffee ice cream and serve with chocolate sauce for a company dessert. Easy but good!

When you serve very hot chili or curry, have a generous amount of plain yogurt on hand so that eaters who like blander fare can top their portions with the yogurt.

When you are serving buffet-style without setting up small tables for guests, be sure to offer a main course that can be fork-eaten.

Encouraged By Fordham Views

It is the most encouraging thing in the world to us that Dr. Christopher Fordham, dean of the UNC School of Medicine has indicated that planning is again moving in the direction of a two-year ECU medical school program.

A plan revealed earlier called for an unorthodox approach which would have seen ECU medical students leave for Chapel Hill after the first year and return for additional training in their senior year of medical school.

The plan drew widespread criticism and suited almost no one, since it did not follow the intent of the Legislature-approved enabling act which called for expansion of the ECU school. As Dr. Fordham, himself, said, UNC planners "haven't gotten much interest" in the unorthodox plan.

While a final determination has not been made, Dr. Fordham said that an assessment is being made of clinical facilities in Greenville as a basis for establishing the sophomore year of medical school.

We are highly pleased that planning has again turned toward developing the first two years of medical school at East Carolina University. This is the approach that has been discussed for a decade and there is no doubt that the Legislature expected this to be the approach when they voted for the ECU bill earlier this year.

It is past time to move on with the development of the two year medical education program at East Carolina University. The matter has been fought out time-and-time again and there should be no doubt in anyone's mind that the school should be developed.

North Carolina has many pressing problems in higher education and elsewhere that need our attention and energies. It should not be necessary for us to fight the ECU medical school battle still again.

A full time dean should be hired as soon as possible, and planning is underway for this. Planning for a medical sciences building, for which funds have been appropriated, should get underway immediately and the building should be constructed without delay. Finally the class size should be expanded and the second year added as rapidly as possible. These procedures have been followed without difficulty many times in developing medical schools. Certainly they can be done here without further controversy.

Plans Begin To Mesh?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The years ahead will see the average North Carolinian taking on new and strong responsibilities in deciding what kind of community he wants to live in, and how to set about the task of getting the job done.

Wrapped up in historical division of governmental responsibility involving state and local officials and saddled by the traditional isolation of the man on the street from decisions which ultimately affect him most, past and current community development activities generally have come as surprises to most.

Change will likely be a long while coming, and it's too early to tell what shape the new rules will come in—or even where they will be lodged in the governmental pecking order—but there are strong signals that some new ways of doing business are developing.

To put in a nutshell all the complexities in community growth and development is difficult.

Nonetheless, the heart of the issue is this: can the people who make up a community determine for themselves what kind of community they want, and set about building that sort of setting through deliberate planning and action to get business and industrial growth which fits that plan down through the years.

The question underlying a variety of discussions and activities in scores of local and state agencies, both public and private, is one of searching for ways a community can shape its own future rather than letting uncontrolled and unknown developmental factors continue to dictate things.

Ultimately there will emerge from present fragmented activities along these lines some consensus of methods, and some lodging of central responsibility in both local and state government. Those actions will naturally be politically oriented, and colored largely by the people and their political persuasions at the time the actions occur.

Meanwhile, here is a thumbnail review of current comment and activities which are basic ingredients of the emerging new structure:

—A Research Triangle Institute study and report from a task force of state and local industry hunters, sponsored by the State Department of Natural and Economic Resources, is due for release in about a month. New policy guidelines will emerge from that on what kinds of industry North Carolina will seek. Emphasis will be on quality, high-pay high-skill operations which fit into a local community's plan for itself.

—A local community plan for itself, and how to go about that, is the subject of intensive work by the Division of Community Services working with a handful of towns across the state as pilot projects. Policy guidelines is in a booklet widely distributed to local governments called A Community Development Handbook: Management, Planning, and The New Localism. In a preface, Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. says: "Planning... is pointless unless governmental actions are affected."

—North Carolina is credited by national experts in land use planning and management with being a leader in this field; witness the Coastal Area Management law, pending legislation for the mountain section, and future law on land policy statewide. The key ingredient in North Carolina action putting it a step ahead of other state legislation is the requirement that each country take stock of present land use patterns, project future growth and development, and consult with residents in preparing a full scale planning program: setting long range goals, objectives toward those goals, and law governing present and future development.

—County governments have moved into modern times, with legislation giving them powers equal to those of municipalities; counties are into land use planning, water and sewer, recreation, waste disposal, etc. In short, local boards of county commissioners now have both the authority and responsibility for total county development.

—County commissioners are beginning to come to grips with the fact that they must ramrod community development, and the message is going forth that their job includes schools, health care, transportation, industrial growth, land use—all those things which determine what a community is and will become. What kind of community local people build today will shape what kinds of growth it attracts, and that will determine what the community will be tomorrow.

Now, To Tell The Truth

WASHINGTON — There is some question as to whether State Department and CIA officials told the truth when they testified in front of congressional committees concerning U.S. involvement in the overthrow of the Allende regime in Chile. There is even some talk of perjury charges being brought against high U.S. government officials.

This could play havoc with congressional hearings, particularly where our foreign policy is concerned. If they can't lie, many State Department and CIA types say they may refuse to appear on Capitol Hill.

This is what could happen. "Secretary Sangfroid, do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth so help you God?" "I didn't understand the question."

ART BUCHWALD

"We are going to ask certain questions regarding our foreign policy and we want to know if you intend to respond with honest answers."

"Hmmm, can I consult with counsel?"

"Yes, you can."

"What was the question again, senator?"

"Do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth so help you God?"

"Is that a multiple-choice question?"

"Just answer yes or no, Mr. Secretary."

"Counsel advises me that since national security is involved I can't tell you whether I will tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth without consulting with Dr. Kissinger."

"There will be a 5-minute recess while you call Dr. Kissinger."

Five minutes later.

"All right, Secretary Sangfroid, I will pose the question again. Do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth so help you God?"

"Dr. Kissinger says I can't swear to that unless you go into executive session."

"We are in executive session, Mr. Secretary."

"Then could you clarify

Other Editors Say How To Kill Industry

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The national well-being in this critical time demands a tax policy that encourages both private saving and the ability of American business to invest and maintain modern facilities.

Writing in the Tax Foundation's monthly publication, Tax Review, Charles W. Stewart stressed the importance of business capital formation in relation to the overall economy.

Stewart used Department of Commerce data to examine the tax system in relation to investment in his article on "The Crisis in Capital."

His analysis revealed that after-tax profits of nonfinancial corporations, when adjusted for inflation and other important factors, were cut by more than half between 1965 and 1973.

Much business investment comes from retained profits.

For 1965, the profits were $38.2 billion, with the adjusted figure $36.1 billion.

But with 1973 adjustments of $9.1 billion for underdepreciation of fixed assets and $17.3 billion for the conversion of inventory consumption charges to current cost equivalent, the after-tax profits declined from $49.9 billion to $23.5 billion.

Stewart pointed out that the adjustments were made in current—not constant—dollars.

"If we deflate by use of constant 1965 dollars the adjusted after-tax earnings in 1973 were slightly less than half of those for 1965."

Taxes can kill American industry through the simple expedient of removing enough available profits which would normally be plowed back into investment, capital improvements and other forms of expansion.

Today production is lagging. This means fewer goods. Fewer goods mean higher prices. It's the old story of inflation which simply defined, means money chasing after scarce goods.

If the government cannot see this simple truth, then there is really no point in it continuing to pursue any other blueprint to fight inflation.

To the editor:

Well, that does it!! For President Ford in his new conference of September 16, 1974, to justify U.S.—CIA intervention in Chile on the grounds that under the Allende-Marxist government there were no opposition political parties or freedom of the press is the final straw. Would he really have us believe that there are opposition political parties to the military junta in Chile today—or freedom of the press? I call his attention to the September 16, 1974, Newsweek page 49, which describes conditions in Chile since the military take-over in September of 1973: "The price being paid by Chileans for the military's brand of law and order is a high one. Political parties no longer operate. Congress has been disbanded, and as many as 8,000 political prisoners are locked away... The midnight knock on the door is again a reality."

The INSIDE REPORT

'Hoosier Country Boy'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
BEDFORD, Ind.—The dimensions of the Republican problems in this year's campaign were brought home here last week when Sen. Birch Bayh, an automatic liberal vote in Washington whose reelection is a major national priority of organized labor, turned himself into a good ol' Hoosier country boy before the conservative southern Indiana home folks.

"I love my country," Bayh told a fried-chicken rally. When the American flag goes up, "I still get shivers up my back." He revealed that when returning from abroad "I always thank God I'm an American." Bayh, still boyishly handsome at age 46, grinned. His audience grinned right back.

Plenty of such plain old-fashioned corn is a major reason why Bayh has amassed one of the Senate's most undeviating liberal records (85 per cent in 1973) and still managed to win in this essentially conservative state. A masterful campaigner, Bayh has so fuzzed over ideological questions that he is today a heavy favorite over his Republican challenger, Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis.

That poses for Republicans a deadly question bearing national implications: If the party cannot capture a Senate seat in Indiana, where can it win in 1974? Because Lugar had been viewed as perhaps the year's best Republican Senate challenger and a future presidential prospect, the outlook here reflects the party's national malaise.

By any standards, Kugar is a remarkably high quality candidate. A 42-year-old former Rhodes scholar with a computer mind, he can fluently discuss economics, energy and foreign policy to political audiences without a note. His moderate conservatism fits the Indiana consensus. What's more, the Indiana Republican party, fueled by anachronistic state patronage, is perhaps the nation's best organized.

In contrast, the Indiana Democratic party is stagnating. Since long-time state Democratic chairman Gordon St. Angelo left politics early this year, party fundraising has atrophied. Besides, many county chairmen feel Bayh has gone high-hat during 12 Washington years and are sitting out the campaign.

raising has atrophied. Besides, many county chairmen feel Bayh has gone high-hat during 12 Washington years and are sitting out the campaign.

Labor fills the gap. Bayh's reelection is a national goal of the United Auto Workers (UAW), which is massively contributing cash, energy and manpower. The steelworkers' and machinists' unions are only slightly less energized. Realistically, Bayh this year would be described as a labor candidate more accurately than Democratic candidate.

The labor label, still a mark of Cain in southern Indiana hamlets, adds to what Republicans felt would be too much ideological baggage to carry through this state. Bayh is on the politically wrong side—opposite to Lugar—of such emotional issues as gun controls, abortion and busing. In a year when surveys show the public connecting federal spending with galloping inflation, Bayh has a decade-long record as a big spender.

Yet, Republicans are bathed in gloom, partly

Strength For Today

HABIT FORMATION

We often fail to realize how profoundly our lives are conditioned by the law of habit formation. Everything we do makes it easier for us to do that same thing the next time.

Every smallest act traces a groove in the nervous system, so to speak, through which, under the stimulus of a similar impulse, energy finds it a little easier to flow. Bad habits are easily formed because they require nothing more than taking off the brakes and coasting. The formation of good habits, on the other hand, requires long and sometimes painful effort. It is easy to become an addict and hard to become a musician; but the same law of habit formation produces addition and proficiency. Life is a tissue of habits which have come into being either because we have weakly succumbed to the easy and the evil, or have valiantly striven for the worth-while and the righteous.

Preliminaries To The Summit

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Now that hundreds of the nation's allegedly most competent theorists and practitioners have hacked their way through the economic foothills in eight presummit inflation conferences, the summit is in sight.

On September 27 and 28, President Ford and his staff will try to bring some focus to the scores of messages that have come forth from economists, labor leaders, government officials, bankers and others.

But the summit meeting will by no means be the culmination of the anti-inflation effort. More, instead, like the beginning. Opinion and fact has poured down in a torrent in the past three weeks and now it must be distilled.

That job falls to Paul W.

McCracken, chief economic adviser under former President Richard M. Nixon. McCracken was assigned the temporary job of formulating an economic program.

While L. William Seidman, the summit's executive director, maintained earlier this month that the effort wasn't "designed to be a decision-making apparatus," it cannot be anything but that, for political and economic reasons.

Evidence of restlessness comes from all sections of the country, and congressmen and others know that such murmuring generally is articulated at the polls.

Besides, the worsening economic situation demands action.

As preparations for the conference proceed, the readings on the nation's health indicate a worsening fever.

The consumer price index in August rose 1.3 per cent, or one of the worst readings since 1947. Wholesale prices rose 3.9 per cent in August, meaning more retail price increases are already in the works. Industrial production is off, unemployment may be rising. Housing already is in a depression.

At the same time, an area of bright sky has appeared as the summit comes into view. The sun hasn't burst through by any means, but short-term interest rates seem ready to fall. And Arthur F. Burns, Federal Reserve Board chairman, maintains there'll be no further tightening of the money supply.

Two assessments of the presummit already can be made:

—The various conferences turned up very little that wasn't already known by the so-called experts, but there is little doubt that the meaning and dangers of inflation have been effectively publicized.

—There is no easy cure for inflation. There is no quick cure. There is no cure that will satisfy everyone.

Nevertheless, two wide areas of agreement have been demonstrated:

—Spending should be discouraged, especially excessive government spending — that is, spending that exceeds revenues.

—Interest rates are too high and should come down.

The disagreements were more obvious, not only among economists, for example, but between business and labor, housing and lenders, stock brokers and representatives of the poor.

Since no moves are likely to win complete approval, the most effective answer to inflation might eventually turn out to be leadership.

Beyond British Ability

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The prediction making the rounds here is that whoever wins next month's election will fail to solve Britain's problems.

The Laborites and Conservative have tried for a decade without success to arrest Britain's long postwar economic decline. Once again the same men are offering much the same policies.

The Liberals and other small parties suggest new ideas, but they come from men with no governing experience.

Various coalition governments remain possible if, as in February, the British public denies a majority in Parliament to any one party. But peacetime coalition governments in Britain have a poor record.

In short, wherever the British voter turns — to major parties, to minor ones or to coalitions — the prospects appear less than encouraging. Politicians in all parties agree that in the Oct. 10 election the British democratic system could be on trial.

Part of the problem is beyond Britain.

All parties cite Britain's annual inflation rate of 16.9 per cent as the top issue in the campaign. Yet inflation is a worldwide problem and other countries have had little more success than Britain in slowing down soaring living costs.

As an island which imports half its food, Britain must trade profitably with the outside world to live. Yet the annual trade deficit is now running to some $10 billion, which can only force living standards down.

At least a third of that loss is due to the quadrupling of Arab oil prices. Britain must import 80 per cent of its fuel until North Sea oil starts flowing in the 1980s.

Not all problems, of course, are beyond Britain's control.

Wiretap Appeal To Clarify Law

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is supporting an appeal by a convicted Soviet spy for a Supreme Court ruling on the president's wiretapping powers to protect national security.

The controversial issue also is to be taken up by the Senate Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on criminal laws and procedures at hearings on Oct. 1 and 2.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley are to be among the witnesses.

A recently filed brief by Solicitor General Robert H. Bork in the case of Igor A. Ivanov, the convicted spy, agrees that issues raised in his appeal should be decided by the Supreme Court.

As stated by Bork, a principal issue in the case is whether it is constitutionally permissible to conduct warrantless electronic surveillance for the purpose of gathering foreign intelligence information.

Bork's brief argues that "a president through his attorney general may authorize electronic surveillance without prior judicial approval under his constitutional authority to conduct foreign relations and to protect the national security."

However, legislation introduced by Sens. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., would prohibit government wiretaps or electronic surveillance for any purpose without prior approval of a court.

The hearings of the Senate subcommittee will be on this

Neither Labor nor the Conservatives were able to intervene to control the strikes of British unions or the decisions of British managements which lost markets and led to the collapse of household names like Rolls-Royce.

Now inflation is the biggest problem.

New SCUBA Course Will Begin Oct. 3

Jordan To Boycott The Geneva Peace Parleys

A SCUBA diving basic certification course—sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education—will be held at East Carolina University beginning October 3.

The course, consisting of eight three-hour sessions, will meet in Minges Coliseum on Tuesday and Thursday nights, and is open to persons who are good swimmers.

The course, to include instruction in emergency recovery and rescue techniques, the use of SCUBA equipment, diving physics and diving medicine, is designed to train the student to react favorably under both normal and adverse conditions, both on the surface and under water.

The first session, on October 3, will include a review of the course and instruction in equipment used in diving as well as a swimming test.

The final class meeting will consist of a deep dive test near Morehead City, to be arranged between the instructor and student.

Students must supply their own flippers, mask and snorkel. Other equipment, including air, may be rented from the instructor.

Class size is limited to 20 students.

Persons wishing additional information about the program or desiring to pre-register for the classes should contact the ECU Division of Continuing Education at Box 2727, Greenville, or call 758-6143.

something for me? If you ask me a question, do you expect me to give a truthful answer to it, even if it compromises the Administration and the State Department and the CIA and gets somebody into trouble for making a stupid mistake?"

"That is correct."
"Dr. Kissinger was afraid of that. I'll have to consult with him again."

"Five minutes later."
"Mr. Secretary, we really do have to get on with these hearings, and in order to do so we have to swear you in as a witness under oath."

"Why can't I lie?"
"Because it is essential that Congress be kept informed as to what this country is doing abroad."

"In Russia I could lie."
"We're not in Russia, Mr. Secretary. The Constitution specifically gives the Senate the right to advise and consent on foreign policy."

"In order to do that we must have information from your department. You can see that, can't you?"

"But if you know what we're doing and you don't agree with it, you'll have to do something about it. How can we have a strong foreign policy if you keep asking the State Department to tell you the truth?"

"Mr. Secretary, I must warn you that if you refuse to tell us the truth we shall have to hold you in contempt of Congress."

"But if I took the oath seriously, Dr. Kissinger could get very angry with me. The way I see it, if I'm convicted for lying, I can always get a pardon from the President. But who would give a pardon to anyone who told the truth to Congress?"

By The Associated Press
Jordan has declared it will boycott the Arab-Israeli peace talks in Geneva following agreement by Egypt and Syria to work for an independent Palestinian state on former Jordanian territory.

Jordan's decision was announced on Sunday, the day after Egypt, Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization announced they agreed that an "independent national authority" would be established on Palestinian lands freed from Israeli occupation.

Their goal is the West Bank of the Jordan River and East Jerusalem, both held by Jordan from the 1948 Palestine War until the 1967 Arab-Israeli War, and the Gaza Strip, which was administered by Egypt until the 1967 war.

Jordan insisted it must first retrieve its former territory and then would allow the Palestinian population to determine its future in a plebiscite. Many West Bank Palestinians are known to support Jordan's King Hussein and might vote for an autonomous state federated with the rest of Jordan. "The government will as of today freeze its political activities connected with the Geneva conference," a government spokesman said in Amman. He stressed Jordan was thus "freezing" its earlier agreement to participate in any Geneva peace talks.

The spokesman indicated, however, that the decision was subject to change if the other Arabs changed their stand at a summit conference scheduled to open in Rabat, Morocco, on Oct. 26.

He emphasized that Jordan is willing to negotiate separately with Israel.

The conflicting claims to future control of the West Bank has been a major obstacle in Arab efforts to form a common front for the Geneva talks.

The absence of Jordan from the negotiating table would pose a serious problem for the Arabs, since King Hussein, a moderate, is more acceptable to Israel than Yasser Arafat and the other guerrilla leaders of the liberation organization.

Deserters Flown To Processing

ENDANGERED FALCON—Professor Heinz Meng holds one of the peregrine falcons he has raised at his home in New Paltz, N.Y. The ornithologist has been working for a decade to save the endangered bird from extinction. Recently he became the first scientist to release a pair of captive-bred peregrines into the wilds. One was found dead in a nearby woods with an unnaturally severed wing. The other remains missing. Dr. Meng believes the birds may have been killed by someone who disliked the birds because of their "killer instincts."—"He had no idea how ecology works", Dr. Meng said. "The peregrine kills for survival alone, to eat."—(AP Wirephoto)

By JERRY GARRETT
Associated Press Writer
CAMP ATTERBURY, Ind. (AP)—A military charter flight brings 75 military deserters to this one-time Army basic training camp today to begin processing under President Ford's conditional amnesty plan.

Atterbury is to be the central processing point for military deserters seeking amnesty. Officials said another 18 are at Ft. Benjamin Harrison, about 30 miles north in Indianapolis, where the first 27 men to turn themselves in already have been processed.

There was no indication where the charter flight was originating, or where the deserters had been collected. But a Ft. Harrison spokesman said 75 deserters would arrive today at Indianapolis's Weir Cook Airport and be brought here by bus.

The camp, quarters during World War II and the Korean conflict for 250,000 recruits and a mustering-out facility for about 500,000 after the 1941-45 war, can process 150 men daily. Its present capacity is about 5,000 men. Although the deserters will not be incarcerated, some 40 military policemen have been sent here from Fort Knox, Ky. Officials said the men will be free to come and go as their schedules permit.

The deserters will be hustled through about four days of processing. Records will be checked to make sure they're eligible for the program. Then they will receive physical examinations and legal counseling. Financial records also will be checked to determine whether they are due back pay. Before leaving here, participants must sign a loyalty oath and will be issued undesirable discharges. After two years of alternative service, the discharges may be changed to clemency discharges.

After military processing, the Joint Alternative Service Board at Ft. Harrison probably will have decided how much alternative service must be completed for the deserter to earn a "clemency discharge." Officials said the alternative service is not required and the individual may elect to take the undesirable discharge and leave.

Some deserters may be allowed to return to active duty, but must enter at the lowest rank and agree to serve for two years. To be eligible, one must have served in Southeast Asia and have received a decoration.

In other amnesty developments, black leaders Roy Wilkins and the Rev. Jesse Jackson proposed on Sunday that other veterans with less than honorable discharges be included in the clemency program.

Speaking on ABC's "Issues and Answers," Jackson labeled the program "a middle-class white program," while Wilkins noted that "more than 200,000 blacks have less than honorable discharges."

Also on Sunday, the latest Gallup Poll reported that 59 per cent of a nationwide sample of 1,583 adults surveyed the week before President Ford announced his program agreed that conditional amnesty was the best way to deal with Vietnam war draft-evaders and deserters. Thirty-four per cent favored amnesty without conditions and 7 per cent had no opinion.

Witnesses said it appeared that the nation's highest judge was trying to avoid a car and may have been brushed by the vehicle's fender on Friday.

Holshouser Points To Economy's Handicaps

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Built-in cushions for special interest groups have made the American economy arthritic and inflexible and caused continuing inflation, North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser said today.

Holshouser's remarks were prepared for delivery to a state and local government conference on inflation in Washington.

The economic system, he said, "is encrusted with institutions, both public and private, whose major objective has been to insulate special interests from forces of competition and change."

"We have created an economic system with a built-in ratchet; every shortage we face pushes prices upwards and those prices do not fall as the shortage is relieved through increased production.

"Big unions, big business and big government have diligently pursued ways to protect special interest groups from the adversity of competition."

Holshouser listed a variety of things, from wage-price escalators in union contracts to anti-trust exemptions as examples of the special interest cushions.

"Such controls may have been well intended. Viewed separately they may not seem dangerous. But they add up to a massive network of artificial constraints upon the normal operation of labor, capital and commodity markets."

Holshouser said, "We cannot hope to deal with inflation in the long run until we begin to clear away interference with healthy competition."

In the short run, Holshouser suggested balancing the federal budget, limiting exports of raw materials, assisting the private sector to provide employment, and using retirement benefits and a shorter work week rather than a wage increase to compensate employees.

Mrs. Moore Improving

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Mrs. Bette Moore, who was rushed to Charlotte Memorial Hospital after she set herself afire Thursday night, has been taken off the critical list.

A hospital spokesman said today that Mrs. Moore, 43, the estranged wife of state Sen. Herman Moore, was listed as "unsatisfactory."

She set fire to herself after calling a radio talk show producer to tell him of her intentions.

Her mother found her with her clothing burning and was trying to put out the flames when police arrived.

Mrs. Moore reportedly told the radio producer that she had drenched her body with charcoal lighter fluid.

She had burns over most of her body when admitted to the hospital, a nursing supervisor said.

A 25-year-old Fayetteville man was arrested by Greenville Police Saturday and charged with impersonating a peace officer.

Arrested was Mitchell Simmons of Rt. 5, Box 360-B, Fayetteville. Simmons was placed under a $500 bond. According to police, the man allegedly approached a woman in a parked car near the Pitt-Greenville airport, displayed a badge and told the woman that the car she was operating was stolen. The incident was reported to police and the man was later arrested.

Proceeds will go toward paying Bicentennial expenses. A float for the queen contestants will be entered in the Bicentennial parade and crowning of the queen will take place at 7:30 on Friday, Oct. 11th, after the Family Day picnic.

Persons interested in entering the contest should call Anne Pridgen at 758-4215 or Brenda Whichard after 6 at 756-4675. The deadline for entering the queen contest is Wednesday, Sept. 25th.

BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission has instituted an investigation into the intrastate toll rates and charges, intrastate WATS rates and charges and intrastate inter-exchange private line rates and charges of all telephone companies under its jurisdiction. This action was made necessary as a result of the Commission's review of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company application for increased rates in Docket No. P-55, Sub 742, wherein Southern Bell proposes to increase its intrastate toll rates, intrastate WATS rates and intrastate inter-exchange private line rates, which if approved in whole or in part for Southern Bell only would result in non-uniform intrastate rates for these services in North Carolina.

The primary changes in toll rates herein under consideration are to convert the initial period from three minutes to one minute for station-to-station direct distance dialed (DDD) calls. This change if authorized, would permit the completion of a DDD toll call lasting one minute or less for a lower charge than such a call would cost under existing schedules. However, in most instances a call lasting three minutes would cost more under the schedule proposed by Southern Bell. As indicated in the above schedules, an increase is also requested in the rates for operator handled calls which remain at a three minute initial period. If authorized state-wide, the toll schedule as proposed will increase toll revenues by $14,880,823 for all companies combined.

The present full time WATS service at $550 per month is proposed to be changed to a limited 240 hours per month service at $605 with additional charges for overtime.

Other changes in rates, charges and regulations are proposed relating to the three services under investigation. Details of the changes are available at all Southern Bell business offices or at the North Carolina Utilities Commission, Ruffin Building, One West Morgan Street, Raleigh, North Carolina, where a copy of Southern Bell's application is available for public review. In addition to the changes proposed, the Commission Staff is directed to offer testimony and alternate toll schedules for Commission consideration, to be filed with the Commission no later than 20 days prior to the hearing date of January 2, 1975.

The Commission requires that each company inform its customers of the following procedures by which their comments regarding the rate application can be made part of the record of the case upon which the Commission must base its decision. Persons desiring to intervene in the matter as parties of record should file a motion under North Carolina Utilities Commission Rules R1-6, R1-17 and R1-19 on or before December 16, 1974. Persons desiring to present testimony for the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to send written statements to the Commission should submit their statements prior to the hearing, and should include any information which those persons wish to be considered by the Commission Staff in its investigation of the matter. The contents of letters and petitions will be received in the official file as statements of position. Specific facts will be considered on the basis of testimony presented at the public hearing. Interventions or statements shall be addressed to the North Carolina Utilities Commission, P.O. Box 991, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602.

North Carolina law provides that the Attorney General may represent the using and consuming public in proceedings before the Utilities Commission. Should you wish to contact the Attorney General, his address is as follows: Mr. J. Beverly Lake, Jr., Deputy Attorney General, P.O. Box 692, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Bakers' Art With Dough Draws Plenty Of Interest

BREAD ART—Baker Sal Purpura checks the mane on the lion he created out of dough. Turtle, bottom, and sculpture of Adam and Eve with serpent, right, are other examples of his use of the unusual medium of bread to fashion animals, holiday ornaments, toys and various replicas. Customers often bring in photographs to have them reproduced in dough.

By CHRIS CONKLING

NEW YORK (AP) — It looks more like a city street scene than a bakery display window: busy, smiling women, kewpie-doll girls, moms with kids, ball-players, loving couples — and even a horse — parade behind the glass.

Realistic though they look, the figures are not of flesh, but of dough.

Bakery owners Sal Purpura and his son, Tony, specialize in the creation of elaborate bread sculptures and claim they can fashion any design up to six feet tall in bread dough.

They have often had to support their claim by making to order such wheaten wonders as trains and trolley cars, Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, sesame seed lions and tigers, horse-drawn carriages, turtles, and clowns with circus dogs. Customers often bring in photographs from which replicas are fashioned.

For 20 years the elder Purpura's customers have happily carried away turkeys, Santas, Yule trees, Easter bunnies, shamrocks and ballet dancers, all made of bread.

Sal wandered into the world of commercial bread art by chance. When he immigrated here from his native Sicily in 1953 he went to work for a Queens baker. He had never baked before. To commemorate his first Thanksgiving in the United States, he designed bread turkeys for his boss as a gift. Customers saw the unusual birds, wanted their own, and the orders flooded in.

Sal's fortunes rose with his dough. After two years he and a couple of partners opened a bakery in midtown Manhattan, where he developed his craft. Then in 1966, he moved back to Queens to open the store he presently owns.

Tony, now 27, was 21 when he came to work with his father, beginning what they hope will become a family tradition.

"Our busiest time for bread figures is the holidays," Tony said, interpreting for his 62-year-old father who speaks little English. "That's when people have the most parties, and bread figures are a decorating novelty. The rest of the year we usually make three or four figures a week."

Dressed in baker's white and with his father's dark good looks and congenial manner, Tony explained that the figures are fashioned by hand. No molds are used.

"The standard items like dolls, which are our most popular request, and baseball players take four hours from scratch to finish. It takes only about 10 minutes to shape a figure, an hour to bake it and a couple of hours to cool it to get the moisture out."

"If we've made the figure before, we know just about how much dough to use in different places to get the right proportion. But when we're asked to do something new it may take us two or three tries to get it right."

A standard-size chef d'oeuvre, measuring from one to four feet, costs $4 to $6. Life-size sculptures can be had for $12.

The bread figures come alive in a huge rotating oven. Thirty can be baked at once on the oven's six shelves, but no more than 10 are made at a time. "If you try to make 30, by the time all of them are baked, the first few will be way out of proportion because of overheating," Tony said. "With only 10 figures, each one will bake evenly."

Baking bread designs is not as easy as pie: Tony admits that many monstrosities have sprung from the Purpuras' hands.

"The toughest thing about baking bread figures is hot weather," he said. "The dough loses its strength and firmness. A lot of bakeries use ice in hot weather to preserve the dough, but we don't because ice makes the dough too firm. So when it's hot we have to work twice as fast to compete with the heat."

The business does have its leisurely moments, however. "The easiest part of baking is waiting for the bread to cook, and then eating it," added Tony with the sly look of a kid who'd just snatched forbidden cookies.

Sal and Tony continue to find novelty in their novel trade after many years. "Although we prefer the challenge of a new figure," Tony said, "we don't get tired of making the standard favorites. It's all work."

Do father and son bake at home in their free time for fun? Tony's look was incredulous. "You gotta be kidding!"

Tourism Had 1884 Start

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia has had active tourism for 130 years. Opatija, the northern Adriatic resort, was the first Yugoslav tourist resort. The first foreign tourists, on an organized tour in 1884, came in addition to Opatija, to Dubrovnik, the South Adriatic walled city, aboard an Austrian ship carrying 153 tourists.

Hotel Kvarner, opened in 1884, is the first hotel on the Yugoslav Adriatic, in Opatija. That year 1,412 tourists came, starting a permanently upward climb, except in times of war.

In 1899, 14,865 tourists came to Opatija spending 333,000 nights there, in 1912 there were 54,696, and in 1913 as many as 865,001 tourists.

In 1952, Yugoslavia began actively encouraging foreign tourists to visit the country.

In 1972 there were 37.8 million nights spent by foreign tourists along the Adriatic coast, and 56.2 million in all of Yugoslavia. In 1973 there were 44.4 million nights spent on the Adriatic and 64.05 million in all of Yugoslavia.

New 'Fund' By Rabbi Korff

JERUSALEM (AP) — Rabbi Baruch Korff, a supporter of former President Richard M. Nixon, says he's establishing an international "Nixon Justice Fund."

Korff, who formed a committee to defend Nixon while he was still in the White House, said the fund would help pay Nixon's legal fees.

The rabbi, who is in Jerusalem for the Jewish New Year, said on Sunday he had talked to Nixon by telephone last week and the former president said it was hard for him to accept President Ford's pardon.

"The only difficulty is for an innocent man to accept a pardon," Korff said Nixon told him.

Farm Scene

By KENNETH R. BATEMAN

It is time now to start thinking and planning for the 1975 tobacco season. There is no better way to start the 1975 season than participating in the 1974 R-6-P (Reduce 6 Pests) program. The program includes four steps:

1. Cutting or shredding tobacco stalks.
2. Turning out stubbles
3. Disking all the crop beneath the soil two weeks after plowing out roots, and
4. Seeding winter cover crop.

This production practice helps control mosaic, nematodes, brown spot, hornworm, budworm and flea beetle. The R-6-P operation is important on individual farms, however, best results will occur if there is 100 per cent participation.

This year, Pitt County tobacco farmers are competing in the R-6-P contest, which is based on the percentage completion of the above four steps. Pitt County is competing against other counties that grow 10,000 or more acres of tobacco. Weekly progress reports are sent to Raleigh. The report of September 4 shows:

County	% Harvest Completed				Percent Participation
	Step 1	Step 2	Step 3	Step 4
Columbus*	98	73	54	35	30
Greene	98	52	37	6	1
Johnston*	75	32	15	0	0
Lenoir	98	85	55	35	10
Nash		55	30	10	0
Pitt	97	48	25	10	0
Wayne	90	15	5	0	0
Wilson	75	50	25	10	0

*August 28 Report

If you have completed this task and your neighbor has not, encourage him to do so. If you have not started this task, please begin immediately before these pests bed down in tobacco stalks and roots for the winter. Let's make Pitt County a 100 percent R-6-P County!

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

The world's first mechanized tobacco auction system to be operated on a commercial basis was installed at Fuquay-Varina this spring, in time for the 1974 marketing season.

The installation follows several years of research and testing supervised by Albert H. Graves, a U. S. Department of Agriculture industrial engineer stationed at North Carolina State University.

Several warehousemen at Fuquay-Varina, 17 miles south of Raleigh on U. S. 401, are cooperating in the project. Each will operate his own warehouse in the conventional way, but in addition the mechanized system will be installed and operated at the newly constructed five points warehouse under the name "Fuquay Auction Center."

Graves said the new system was designed to permit a farmer to bring a load of tobacco to market, sell it, and be on his way home in about 30 minutes. Traditionally, the process requires several hours and in many cases the grower must return the next day to complete his sale and receive his check.

Under conventional methods, sheets of tobacco placed on the warehouse floor remain stationary until after they are sold. Graders and buyers, along with farmers and other market personnel, walk up and down the rows of sheets as the sale proceeds. With the new method, graders remain stationary in one area, and buyers in another, and the sheets of tobacco are brought to them on conveyor belts.

Auctioning to the highest bidder is in the usual manner. With the aid of a foot pedal or switch, the auctioneer controls the movement of the conveyor belt and is able to speed up, slow down or stop the sale as necessary.

Under normal conditions the belt moves at 33.3 feet per minute, a speed that will permit the sale of 500 sheets per hour.

There are three conveyor lines at the starting point, where farmers' tobacco is unloaded, weighed and graded. The three lines converge into one for the auction process.

After auction the tobacco passes through an area where the farmer may observe the results of his sale and reject any bids he considers unsatisfactory. Tobacco for which bids are rejected is taken off the conveyor belt and returned to the farmer's truck.

The remaining tobacco is moved farther down the line by conveyor to a "jacking area" where the sheets are carried on jacks to designated sites for the various buying companies. Jacks are two-by-two foot platforms equipped with rollers.

Graves said the tobacco companies should benefit from the system by receiving tobacco that is fresher and also by lowering their operating costs. He said warehousemen should benefit because they will be able to provide better service for their farmer-customers.

One feature of the plan is that the farmer is assigned an exact time and date for delivering each load of leaf to the warehouse. This procedure not only saves time for the grower but also results in a more orderly flow of tobacco to market.

A two-man crew at each of the three unloading docks uses a chain hoist to move sheets of tobacco from farm trucks to conveyor belt.

Martha Caused A Commotion

LONDON (AP) — Martha Mitchell caused a commotion at a London airport when she refused to submit to a routine security check, an official of British Airways says.

The official said Mrs. Mitchell "was shouting and refused to be touched by one of the security girls. In the end, when we told her she would not be able to fly if she was not searched, she calmed down, and we used an electronic device to search her."

Mrs. Mitchell, the estranged wife of former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, boarded a plane for New York on Sunday. She had been in London for a television appearance.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

HERE IS A COLONIAL design with that country look, with half brick siding and half frame. This livable floor plan has a center foyer, preventing direct intrusion into any room. The living room has plenty of wall space for furniture groupings. The kitchen-nook is one spacious room with an island-type range. A welcome feature is a nearby pantry. One step down leads to the family room; upstairs are two baths and four bedrooms. Architect for Plan HA843G is Carl E. Gaiser, 25600 Telegraph Rd., Southfield, Mich. 48075. The plan has 1,352 square feet on the first floor and 1,043 on the second. Anyone wishing to know the price of the blueprint can write to Gaiser, including a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs were steady today. Tops of $5.00-36.00 at Kinston and Lumberton; $4.50-35.00 Rocky Mount; $3.00-33.50 Tarboro and Bethel; $5.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina F.O.B. dock broilers were steady today with this week's average price at 35.53 cents per pound. Supplies adequate, demand fairly good and weights desirable. Estimated slaughter today 960,000.

North Carolina hens steady on heavy types. Supplies about adequate and demand good. Too few sources reporting to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices backed away from some early gains today, with traders apparently disappointed no major bank has yet lowered the prime lending rate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was 0.39 lower at 670.37 after being about 4 points higher in the opening hour. Gainers still held a 3 to 1 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

In a near-repeat of Friday's trading pattern, prices opened strong on the hope the Federal Reserve's more lenient monetary stance might mean an imminent reduction in banks' prime lending rates — that charged on short-term loans to best-rated business borrowers.

But around 11 a.m. First National Bank of Chicago said it was keeping its prime at the prevailing 12 per cent level, thus disappointing Wall Street's hopes for the moment.

The Southern Co. led Big Board actives, gaining 1/4 to 10 1/2.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index was up 0.17 to 36.91.

She continued, "There are many organizations and agencies that need our support and I hope that the people of Greenville realize just how important their contributions are."

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Former President Richard M. Nixon, ailing with phlebitis, checks into a bright, new hospital wing today.

Preserving the same secrecy which surrounded him in the White House, Nixon and his aides declined to reveal his expected check-in time in advance. A hospital spokeswoman and nurses said the staff had no idea when he would arrive.

According to the hospital schedule, Nixon was to go directly to his room after check-in. There, hospital personnel will take blood samples and complete other diagnostic procedures.

Hospital spokesmen said it was likely, considering Nixon's symptoms, that he would undergo intravenous treatment with anticoagulant drugs.

Such treatment thins the blood and aids in keeping the blood clot in the patient's leg from flaking off and producing smaller clots which might move to other parts of the body.

During such treatment, the patient must remain immobile because any physical injury could bring on profuse bleeding.

A bloc of eight private rooms at Long Beach Memorial Hospital Medical Center was cleared of patients on Sunday in readiness for Nixon's arrival.

Hospital spokeswoman Karen Krantz said hospital officials decided to use the rooms as a "buffer zone" between Nixon and other patients on the sixth floor west wing.

She said it was not known if the ex-president would be billed for all eight rooms, which each usually cost $85 a day. Nixon had requested only two rooms. Hospital officials also would not say who is paying the bill.

Get well cards, a few telegrams and bouquets of bright fall flowers, mostly chrysanthemums, were waiting for the former president, sent to the hospital by well-wishers before his arrival.

Miss Krantz said the hospital switchboard had been busy with phone calls from both well-wishers and a few pranksters.

Miss Krantz said Nixon apparently chose the 14-year-old hospital because his long-time physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, is on the staff. The staff said there were no requests for Nixon to have a private nurse.

Nixon's room is located in the west wing of the hospital, which was opened only last June and features the most modern equipment and cheerful surroundings in the building.

She said it was not known if the ex-president would be billed for all eight rooms, which each usually cost $85 a day. Nixon had requested only two rooms. Hospital officials also would not say who is paying the bill.

Get well cards, a few telegrams and bouquets of bright fall flowers, mostly chrysanthemums, were waiting for the former president, sent to the hospital by well-wishers before his arrival.

Miss Krantz said the hospital switchboard had been busy with phone calls from both well-wishers and a few pranksters.

Miss Krantz said Nixon apparently chose the 14-year-old hospital because his long-time physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, is on the staff. The staff said there were no requests for Nixon to have a private nurse.

Nixon's room is located in the west wing of the hospital, which was opened only last June and features the most modern equipment and cheerful surroundings in the building.

It was the second bombing in the county within two weeks. A rural church was damaged heavily by a bomb on the night of Sept. 11.

Ed Garrison of Rocky Mount, an agent for the U. S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said the blast at the Haynes Rainbow Court Motel was still under investigation.

The device went off near the exterior wall of one of the motel's cabins. No one was in the cabin.

The motel, which is adjacent to U. S. 301 north of Wilson, was raided in August by federal and state officers who charged two women with prostitution. The manager, Barry Ruffin, and his wife Carol were charged Aug. 31 with assignment in connection with the prostitution charges.

Ruffin also was charged with possession of dangerous drugs. Officers said they found 21,500 barbitol pills during the raid.

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—An estimated 50 blacks, mostly teen-agers, staged a march Sunday in support of Joanne Little, charged with murder in the death of Beaufort County jailer Clarence Alligood earlier this month.

Police Officer John Rose said the group marched from the Beaufort County recreation center to the county courthouse.

Miss Little, 22, is accused of stabbing Alligood with an ice-pick in the county jail. She escaped but later surrendered in Raleigh.

Cat An Excuse To Vent Dislike

CAKOVEC, Yugoslavia (AP)—Cats are not in short supply anywhere in this country but the case of a cat in this Croatian town sent dozens of witnesses to five court probes where an unspecified sum of money was spent.

Farmer Josip Gersic, 50, and housewife Barbara Medlobi, 40, both laid firm claims on a cat. Observers, however, said the animal was rather used as an excuse for the two to vent off their mutual and accumulated dislike for one another.

The court tried to reconcile the two, to save them from expenses, but finally gave the right to Barbara to keep the cat.

Josip has submitted an appeal to the verdict, with no end of the trial in sight.

Yankees Hold Slim Lead

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Yankees are in front in the American League East — but only by one game — after beating the Cleveland Indians 2-1 Sunday on Bobby Murcer's tie-breaking homer and the four-hit pitching of Pat Dobson and Sparky Lyle.

The second-place Baltimore Orioles remained one game back by whipping the Boston Red Sox 7-2. Boston is now five games behind the Yankees.

Elsewhere in the American League Sunday, Chicago beat Oakland 3-1, Texas edged Kansas City 4-3, Minnesota defeated California 6-2 and Detroit nipped Milwaukee 6-5.

With the score tied 1-1 and two out in the sixth, Murcer cracked his 10th homer of the season, a blast off Cleveland starter Bruce Ellingsen, 1-1, that sailed over the 371-foot mark in right center. It was his second home run in two days, but only his second of the season at Shea Stadium.

Dobson gave up three hits over the first eight innings, but John Lowenstein singled to lead off the ninth. He moved to second on a sacrifice bunt and, after Frank Robinson walked, took third on a long fly ball. Lyle then relieved Dobson and retired pinch hitter Charlie Spikes on a tapper to the mound to record his 15th save of the season.

Orioles 7, Boston 2
Boog Powell's three runs batted in, including his 11th homer of the season, helped Baltimore beat Boston again Sunday. Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver feels his club is in pretty good position, despite being one game back of the Yankees with eight games to play, but Boston skipper Darrell Johnson, said "We're just about going to have to win three in a row now in New York (Tuesday and Wednesday)."

Rangers 4, Royals 3
Ferguson Jenkins posted his 24th victory of the season, equalling Oakland's Catfish Hunter for the top figure in the majors. The Rangers won it with three runs in the sixth inning on just one hit.

White Sox 3, A's 1
Chicago's Jim Kaat stopped Oakland on five hits to raise his record to 19-13. The loss cut the A's lead over Texas in the AL West to 4½ games.

The White Sox went ahead 2-1 in the sixth on singles by Bill Melton and Ken Henderson, an infield out and a sacrifice fly. Henderson tripled in the eighth and scored an insurance run on Tony Muser's single.

Cards, Pats Surprise Teams

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Both lightly regarded in most National Football League circles, the New England Patriots and St. Louis Cardinals remain unbeaten today following the second weekend of play.

New England, which stunned Miami in its opener a week ago, got three touchdown passes from Jim Plunkett and a balanced offense to upend the New York Giants 28-20 Sunday. And St. Louis, a narrow winner over Philadelphia in its first game, stung more prestigious Washington 17-10.

Those results left the Pats and Cards as NFL unbeaten along with some fancy company that includes Minnesota, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Dallas. Philadelphia tries to knock Dallas off that elite list tonight in the nationally televised game that completes the NFL's week-end action.

Sunday's other scores were San Francisco 16, Atlanta 10; Miami 24, Buffalo 16; San Diego 20, Cincinnati 17; Cleveland 20, Houston 7; Minnesota 7, Detroit 6; Green Bay 20, Baltimore 13; the New York Jets 23, Chicago 21; Los Angeles 24, New Orleans 0; Oakland 27, Kansas City 7; and Pittsburgh 35, Denver 35, in the first regular season overtime game in NFL history.

Patriots 28, Giants 20
Plunkett hit flanker Randy Vataha and running backs Sam Cunningham and Mack Herron for one score apiece. Herron, scabback-sized at 5-foot-5, and Cunningham, a powerfully-constructed 6-3, contributed 150 rushing yards to beat the Giants.

Cardinals 17, Redskins 10
St. Louis struck for two touchdowns inside of two minutes and the defense made that margin stand up for the victory over Washington.

Defensive end Ron Yankowski went 71 yards with a recovered fumble for the first Cards' touchdown, then Terry Metcalf ran 75 yards from scrimmage for another.

Chargers 20, Bengals 17
San Diego ended Cincinnati's 14-game home field winning streak with quarterback Dan Fouts climaxing a 98-yard march by plunging in for the Chargers' winning touchdown.

Dolphins 24, Bills 16
Stalled by New England in its opener, defending world champion Miami got untrampled against Buffalo, converting a pair of Bills' turnovers into touchdown passes by Bob Griese for the victory.

Doug Swift and Jake Scott recovered fumbles by O.J. Simpson and Jim Braxton, and Griese made the Bills pay for the mistakes with scoring passes to Jim Mandich and Marv Fleming.

49ers 16, Falcons 10
Skip Vanderbundt and Jimmy Johnson intercepted two Atlanta passes in the first five minutes and San Francisco turned the turnovers into touchdowns that beat the Falcons.

The 49ers also picked off another pass and recovered three fumbles against the Falcons.

Vikings 7, Lions 6
Chuck Foreman's 11-yard run in the second period provided the game's lone touchdown, but it was enough for Minnesota to defeat Detroit.

Foreman's score finished off a Minnesota drive that had started at the Viking 42 and the defense made that TD stand up, limiting Detroit to a pair of field goals by Erroll Mann.

Browns 20, Oilers 7
Cleveland played opportunistic football, forcing six Houston turnovers and beating the Oilers with Greg Pruitt running for 89 yards and Mike Phipps passing for 141.

Jets 23, Bears 21
Bobby Howfield missed an early extra point kick but made up for that with a 39-yard field goal that gave New York its winning margin over Chicago.

The Jets raced to an early 20-0 lead behind Joe Namath but almost blew it. Howfield's field goal nailed down the victory despite Chicago's late rally.

Packers 20, Colts 13
Green Bay intercepted four Baltimore passes to defeat the Colts with MacArthur Lane scoring two touchdowns.

Chester Marcol kicked two long field goals, one from 39 yards and the other from 52 for the Packers.

Rams 24, Saints 0
Los Angeles dominated New Orleans completely with John Hadl throwing two touchdown passes and the defense sacking Saints' quarterback Archie Manning five times.

Lawrence McCutcheon gained 102 yards rushing for the

Cards Win Fight, Game

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

St. Louis reliever Al Hrabosky survived both physiological warfare and a ninth-inning brawl that stemmed from it with two innings of hitless relief Sunday to beat the Chicago Cubs 6-5 on the strength of a run-scoring single by Ted Simmons with two out in the ninth.

The victory moved the front-running Cardinals 1½ games ahead of second-place Pittsburgh in the National League East. The Pirates were blanked, 4-0, by the New York Mets.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles increased its lead in the West Division to 4½ games over sagging Cincinnati with a 6-5 victory over San Diego, the Reds were shut out by San Francisco 6-0, Houston outlasted Atlanta 3-2 in 14 innings and Philadelphia and Montreal split a pair, the Phils winning 3-2 and the Expos 8-5.

The Cards and the Cubs were locked in a 5-5 tie in the top of the ninth when Chicago's Bill Madlock stalked out of the batter's box in protest over Hrabosky's habit of turning his back on the batter and psyching himself up.

Umpire Shag Crawford ordered Madlock back to the box and when he didn't come, Hrabosky delivered a pitch and Crawford called it a strike. Madlock then hustled back for Hrabosky's next offering but brushed Cards' catcher Simmons on the way.

Simmons said he and Madlock exchanged words and he hit Madlock.

The battle raged for about two minutes with players from both sides rolling around Busch Stadium. When the field was cleared, Cubs' Manager Jim Marshall was ejected.

Hrabosky retired the side without further incident and the Cards won it in their half of the inning when Lou Brock singled, Reggie Smith walked and Simmons singled to center off loser Dave LaRoche.

Mets 4, Pirates 0

Lefty Jon Matlack stopped Pittsburgh on three hits, all infield singles, for his seventh shutout of the season. Matlack also drove in a pair of runs with a single and a squeeze bunt.

Dodgers 6, Padres 5

Dave Lopes clubbed a three-run homer and Joe Ferguson added a two-run shot as Los Angeles reduced its magic number for clinching the division title to five games.

Giants 6, Reds 0
Rookie John Montefusco shackled slumping Cincinnati on seven hits and belted a home run to boot. Dave Kingman added a two-run homer for the Giants off loser Don Gullett.

Astros 3, Braves 2
Pitcher Tom Griffin, pressed into service as a pinch-hitter, won it for Houston in the 14th with a run-scoring single off reliever Max Leon.

Phillies 3-5, Expos 2-8

Jay Johnstone's two-run triple in the first inning lifted Philadelphia to victory in the opener. Tim Foli's two-run triple keyed a five-run outburst in the second inning that led Montreal to its triumph in the nightcap.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

After looking over the scores that rolled in Saturday afternoon and evening, Coach Pat Dye wasn't quite as disappointed as he was originally following his East Carolina University team's 24-8 win over East Tennessee State University.

"I have mixed emotions about the game," Dye said. "I was disappointed in some degrees, but we won, and when you look and see how many upsets there were Saturday, it's good to get a win. Anytime you win, it's good."

The coach, who won his second straight victory as a head coach, felt that the Pirates moved the ball well. "We should have had another touchdown in the first half," he said, referring to a fumble at the goal line that turned the ball over to East Tennessee and kept the Bucs from another touchdown. "We were inconsistent on offense," Dye said.

"Defensively, I think our first bunch played good. In fact I'm not sure they would have gotten a hundred yards rushing against them. (East Tennessee had 62 yards rushing in the first half, and finished with 245). The second unit (which played most of the second half) didn't play well. A few of them did a good job individually, but not as a whole unit. We just don't have a second unit."

Kenny Strayhorn, Raymond Jones and Tom Daub drew praises for their running and Dye noted that all the backs blocked well. "(Mike) Weaver had another fine game and (Tom) Chipok showed a lot of improvement. But we still have to iron out some of our offensive mistakes."

Dye complimented his opponent, Ray Frazier of East Tennessee for his defense against the Pirates. "They did some things in their secondary and with their linebackers that we weren't expecting, and we didn't adjust to it too well. I expect that we'll see some of the same stuff later on, and we'll be ready for it."

East Tennessee, Dye felt, played much better against the Pirates than they had against either Appalachian State or Carson-Newman. "I don't feel we were quite ready to play."

He also was a little disappointed that East Tennessee scored (with 35 seconds left). "I didn't want to put the first team back out there that late, but I'm unhappy about the score for the sake of the first defense."

Dye was also pleased with the coverage on punts, and with Jim Woody's 45-yard field goal. He noted too that the failure of the scoreboard clock to work was not a problem for the Bucs. "The referees kept us posted on the time. When you're ahead, it's no problem—only when you're behind."

The Bucs suffered only one injury in the game, Dye believes. Receiver Vic Wilfore hurt his leg making his first reception of the year. "I haven't talked with the doctor yet to see how badly he was hurt, but I kinda feel like he'll miss the Southern Illinois game."

One other note: Dye was not too surprised by the romp of Dayton by Bowling Green. "I knew they had a good team," he said of his first opponent. "They're going to beat a lot of people."

SC Falls Off Against Their Outside Foes

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer

It will be no consolation to East Tennessee to know Coach Pat Dye of two-time Southern Conference football champion East Carolina feels his Pirates have "made no progress and perhaps have even gone backwards some."

Dye's assessment came after the Pirates ran their record to 2-0 Saturday night with a 24-8 victory over East Tennessee, which didn't score until 35 seconds were left in the game.

The triumph was one of only two conference teams against five nonleague foes compared to a 5-0 sweep a week earlier. Furman's Paladins evened their record at 1-1 with the other victory, a 22-19 Saturday night squeeze past Presbyterian.

Three league clubs were beaten in the afternoon, William and Mary's Indians, 1-2, dropping a 38-28 decision at Virginia;

Virginia Military's Keydets, 1-1, taking a 45-7 drubbing at Vanderbilt; and The Citadel's Bulldogs, 1-1, being routed at Delaware 48-12.

Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 3-0 over-all, tied VMI for the conference lead at 1-0 with a 30-0 romp over Davidson's Wildcats, who were opening their season, in the only league game.

In beating Bowling Green 24-6 in its opener, East Carolina also had a shutout for three periods, but Dye wasn't as happy this time, saying the defensive unit forced only one turnover compared to six the previous week.

"We weren't consistent in practice, and we weren't consistent in the game," said Dye. "I did a poor job of getting them ready. They weren't ready mentally to play."

Coach Dietzel Resigning

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A few days before South Carolina opened its 1974 football season, Paul Dietzel said in an interview, "We are entering the golden years of our program. It is exciting to begin my 20th year as a college head coach."

Saturday night, after two games and two defeats, Paul Dietzel, 50, said this would be his last year as head coach of the Gamecocks, although he hoped to remain as athletic director. The surprise announcement came shortly after South Carolina had been upset by Duke 20-14. A week earlier the Gamecocks had lost to Georgia Tech 35-20.

Whether Dietzel will remain in his job as athletic director is a decision to be made later by the board of trustees. One source said the matter would have to be negotiated.

Dietzel read a prepared statement to newsmen in a post-game interview, pointing to health and his family as the reasons for his decision.

He said he had planned to make the announcement later in the year but, "I thought it was kind of foolish to have my family and friends have to defend me everywhere they go because a couple of fellows are trying to tear down the program at Carolina."

Dietzel had been under heavy fire in the past few years as his Gamecock teams failed to reach the goals set by many fans. There was a weekly publication last year called GROD — get rid of Dietzel — distributed throughout the state. It criticized Dietzel's record and his over-all handling of the job as coach and athletic director.

He had many loyal supporters, however, and any attacks in the news media brought stacks of letters from his backers.

During his eight seasons at South Carolina, Dietzel won 38, lost 46 and tied one. He had three winning seasons, two years at 7-4 and one at 6-5. The Gamecocks went to the Peach Bowl in 1969 and were beaten by West Virginia.

Dietzel was hospitalized last year for a brief period for treatment of a stomach ailment. He said this illness "disrupted and scrambled his plans. And on my doctor's advice, I gave much prayerful thought to re-evaluating my future at Carolina. In early summer, I finally reached a conclusion. Only Carolina President Dr. William Patterson and my wife knew this was to be my last year as coach."

Now, Paul Dietzel, the national coach of the year in 1958, is stepping out. His over-all record to date, including the two games this year, is 105-90-5.

Season Changes For Kings Island Winner

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Miller Barber's victory in the Ohio Kings Island Open Golf Tournament turned the whole season around for the troubled, worried veteran from Sherman, Tex.

"You get to the point, Barber said Sunday after his front-running three-stroke triumph, "where you begin to think you're not ever gonna win again."

"Fortunately, I was able to turn it all around today," Barber, 43, balding, paunchy, wearing his trademark dark glasses despite the leaden, threatening skies, needed only a one-over-par 72 in the final round to coast in to his 12th career triumph.

He set the pace from the second round on, led by three when the final round started in chilly, raw weather, and had a four-shot advantage most of the last 18 holes.

"I had to put some heat on him right at the start and I just couldn't do it," said Jack Nicklaus, the man expected to dominate this tournament for which he is a major promoter.

Barber won with a 277 total, seven under par, and extended to eight the number of years in which he has won at least one title. Only Nicklaus can match that performance in the same span of time, going back to 1967.

Nicklaus, a six-shot winner in this event last year, designer of the 6,990-yard Jack Nicklaus Golf Center, a heavy favorite again and the only one of the oame's superstars in the field, started the last round six shots back.

He three-putted the first hole, missed a half-dozen more from six feet or less and never really got in the chase.

He had a closing 73, two-over-par, and a 284 total, seven back.

George Johnson took second when Mexican upset-maker Victor Regalado put one in the water and made double-bogey seven on the final hole. Johnson had a 69-280. Regalado's closing 73 left him tied for third at 28 with Leonard Thompson, who matched the day's best round with a 67. The victory was worth $30,000 from the total purse of $150,000 to Barber.

"It's probably as big a win as I ever had," Barber said. "It's a big boost to me, not only monetarily but mentally, too. I'd really really been down."

Correction

In Sunday's sports section, there was an error in the D.H. Conley-Ayden-Grifton football game story on page B-3. A Viking interception was credited to Lionel Streeter. Defensive lineman Barry Parser was the player who intercepted the pass and not Streeter as was mentioned.

Kaline One Away From 3,000 Hits

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Perhaps destiny stopped Al Kaline from getting his 3,000th hit in Milwaukee.

Now it can come in one of only two places — Baltimore, where he was born and where he developed his baseball skills; or Detroit, where he spent 22 years carving a large niche in Tiger and major league baseball history.

Kaline collected two singles in the weekend series against the Brewers, including one in Sunday's 6-5 Tiger triumph, to pull up one short of the exclusive 3,000-hit club.

It seems likely he'll get the next hit in Baltimore where the Tigers open a two-game set Tuesday night after having today off.

If he fails there, it will almost certainly come at home. Detroit plays its last seven games at Tiger Stadium beginning Thursday night against Boston.

"I'd like to get it in Detroit but it doesn't look that way," Kaline said.

About the only way the 39-year-old designated hitter wouldn't get it is if a serious injury occurred. In the Brewers' series he played despite a slightly pulled hamstring muscle.

Brewer pitchers did their best to keep Kaline from reaching 3,000. Neither starter Clyde Wright nor reliever Ed Rodriguez threw many good pitches to him. Kaline fell to the ground twice avoiding pitches and on a third he had to jump away.

"I'll be glad when it's over with," he said. "But I'm not really all that concerned — unless I got hit in the head today. I told Porter (Milwaukee catcher Darrell Porter), 'Geez, don't let me get hurt now!'"

He later gave Porter an autographed baseball.

After almost hitting him in the head in the first inning, Wright walked Kaline and was booed by the meager County Stadium crowd of 5,126.

In the third he hit a soft fly to rightfielder Sixto Lezcano, then forced Gary Sutherland in the fifth.

He opened the ninth inning with his first shot at 3,000. He hit a Rodriguez offering some 380 feet to left-center near the warning track where Bob Coluccio made the catch.

"I was just trying for a base hit," Kaline said.

Kaline reiterated he would retire after this season if he gets one more hit, but he wants to play the rest of the games even if he gets the hit in the next day or two.

Blind Girl Wondering About Post-College Job

By D.J. HILL
RALEIGH (UPI) — Debbie Sugg is a tomboy who majors in animal nutrition and spends her spare time with horses and enjoying football, softball and basketball.
Miss Sugg, 23, also is blind. The candidate for a masters in animal nutrition at North Carolina State University dismisses her high grades as just a "knack" for the subject matter and as airily dismisses any thought of barriers in acquiring her education.
"There's just some things I learn to do differently than other people and I just face it," Miss Sugg said.
She hopes to get her masters by next summer without special problems: "I'm just waiting for my guinea pigs to breed," she said.
Miss Sugg, like many other handicapped students, has been meeting and coping with the problems of college.

And like most college students, she worries about finding a job after college. She would like to teach in a junior college or technical institute, but realizes job shortages as well as her blindness will be a problem.
"(Employers) don't know my capabilities," she said. "They don't know what I can actually do. They don't know how I handled problems in school."
Miss Sugg figures she's luckier than most blind or other handicapped children whose parents "smother" them.
Her parents left her free to roam the neighborhood to play football "with the fellows" and to play softball and basketball with her younger brother and sister. She adds she wasn't hauled back in when she broke her arm or knocked out her teeth.
"I play basketball," she said. "But I foul a lot because I forget and grab. I just need someone to point me in the direction of the basket and I can shoot pretty good."
"Miss Sugg was born prematurely. Too much oxygen was released into her incubator, destroying the retinas of her eyes.
Her parents sent her to swimming lessons when she was 4 or 5. When she was older they gave her riding lessons for a Christmas gift and she has been riding horses ever since.
Miss Sugg has captured numerous horseshow awards and trophies since she was 15. She keeps her 17-year-old horse, Dream Merchant, at a barn near North Carolina State and tries to see him every day. She's also helping to teach a horse management lab at State during the fall semester.
Learning to cook is one of her newest ventures. She recently moved into her own apartment finding the transition from dorm life to apartment living easy.
Miss Sugg calls her freshman year at state her toughest. She lived on the tenth floor of a dormitory which had an elevator located in the center of the hall.

"It took me ages to figure that stupid thing out," she said, laughing at the memory. "The ironing board was directly across the hall from the elevator and the first couple of weeks I kept trying to ride down on the ironing board."
Miss Sugg's freshman year also was difficult because she had not yet gotten her guide dog, Toni, a Labrador. She had to depend on girls in the dorm to take her to classes.
She now rides to campus with other students in her complex, sharing gasoline expenses. She and Toni also go to classes alone.
Miss Sugg admits her "limitations" and works from there. She has given up a childhood dream of becoming a veterinarian because she could not do much of the work. She also shrugs at teaching at a university because she would have to have help to do her research.
The only barrier she admits difficulty in surmounting is "public ignorance."
"You would be surprised at the ignorant people there are," she said.
Some people at school pass her by when she asks them directions and some restaurants have refused to admit her with her dog.
Helping out with riding classes at a Raleigh barn has brought her in contact with children, to whom she doesn't mind explaining her blindness.
"A lot of times they (the children) will say 'are you blind or something' and their mothers go wild," Miss Sugg said. "I'd rather for them to learn now.
"I accept my handicap the way it is and I want you to accept me the way I am."

DEBBIE SUGG enjoys a cool "kiss" from her guide dog "Toni" as they take a break during registration at N.C. State University. (UPI Telephoto)

Image Of National Guard Soldier Rapidly Changes

By RON HARRIST
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The image of the weekend soldier who dons his National Guard uniform only for a local disaster is changing rapidly under the nation's all-volunteer military.

National Guard officials in the Southeast agree that while there remains responsibilities to help in local emergencies, the guard is no longer a third party in national defense.

It is "more important than it has ever been to our total defense structure because the National Guard makes up 48 per cent of the total combat strength of the Army," said Maj. Gen. Henry W. McMillan, Florida adjutant general.

"The guard is assigned mobilization missions that would have been unheard of just a couple of years ago because of the reduced strength of the active army," he said.

With the added responsibilities of national defense, the guard officials said, army and air guard units in the Southeast are becoming better equipped.

Maj. Gen. E. A. (Beby) Turnage of the Mississippi National Guard said the added responsibilities could be traced to finance.

Turnage said the cost in training, weapons and support equipment had climbed with inflation, and "they have found it much cheaper to keep a guardsman supplied and trained than a regular."

There was speculation by some that with the end of the draft, the national guard would be hard pressed to recruit and keep men. But a survey of the Southeast shows most units are at or above authorized strength.

Alabama has 18,300 Army guardsmen of the 17,700 authorized and 3,000 of the 3,300 Air guardsmen authorized; Louisiana has 9,022 of the 8,979 Army guardsmen authorized and 1,172 of the 1,185 Air Guard quota; North Carolina has 11,356 of its 11,142 Army guard quota and 1,006 of its 1,044 Air guard quota;

Florida is over its authorized 8,455 Army Guardsmen and 908 Air guardsmen; South Carolina has 1,004 of the 1,102 authorized Air guard and 10,758 of its authorized 10,529 Army guardsmen; Georgia reports more than 97 per cent of its authorized Air and Army guard strength, while Mississippi's Army guard is over its authorized 11,000 men and near its 2,000 authorized Air guard.

Jackson, Miss., National Guard add: Air guard.

Where shortages exist they are primarily in rural areas where recruiters are competing with the regular services for a limited number of candidates.

Guard officials credit ambitious recruiting programs with keeping units near full strength.

Turnage said the Mississippi National Guard began to see the danger signals of a declining enlistment in early 1973 as the Vietnam conflict and the draft ended. During this period, Mississippi guard strength dropped below 100 per cent for the first time in years.

"In June of 1973, guard units across the nation put on a recruiting drive, he said. "The Mississippi National Guard set a record of 823 enlistments in a 19-day period. This is impressive when you consider the overall recruiting for the nation was 2,100."

Turnage said Mississippi's success brought inquiries from guard organizations in other states and many adopted the plan, "which was a concerted effort from everyone in the guard to try and get more people."

The types of recruitment programs vary from state to state. In Tennessee, a national guard recruiter accompanies a guard band during performances at county fairs and at shopping centers. In Louisiana, a state law allows guardsmen to attend any state university free of tuition.

Other states have used radio, television and newspaper advertising to attract recruits.

Capt. Norman Arnold of the Alabama Military Department, said that while his state had no special recruiting program, designated recruiters within local units were constantly "beating the bushes" to get new men.

"No other organization provides the reservoir of skills and diversity of capabilities available on short notice," said Tennessee A.J. Gen. William Smith. "In time of emergency, it is the only resource containing trained and disciplined personnel with adequate equipment to deal with large scale disasters or disorders."

Guard units in the Southeast also work closely with the regular military.

Jackson, Miss., National Guard 2nd add: regular military.

Air guard units in Tennessee participate in special training flights that take them to Europe on a rotating basis.

During the Vietnam conflict, large aircraft flew training missions to Southeast Asia from bases in Georgia, and Mississippi air guard cargo craft made annual airlifts into that area.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN © 1974, The Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠1097 ♥K5 ♦AQ1095432
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1♦ Pass
3♦ Pass 3NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—No trump is unappealing because your hand is so distributional, but to support partner's spade suit when he did not rebid it is unwise: Your trump suit is almost self-sufficient, especially since partner almost certainly has support, for he did not rebid another suit, so our vote goes to five diamonds.

Q.2—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q765 ♥KQ7 ♦A7 ♦KQ105
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1♦ Dble. Pass 1♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. You have better than a minimum double, but not enough to jump raise partner's response. A leap to three spades would show a hand worth 19 points.

Q.3—North-South vulnerable with 60 on score, as South you hold:
♠AK87 ♥AKQ932 ♦J4 ♦K
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1♥ Pass 1♦ Pass
3♦ Pass 4♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five spades. Once partner makes a slam try, the hand revolves around the diamond suit. Partner should be able to interpret your jump to five spades as showing that every suit is solid except for diamonds, where you have two losers. He can go to six with second round control in that suit, or cue-bid six diamonds with first-round control, which may enable you to get to seven.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠743 ♥K ♦10873 ♦Q7652
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass Pass 1♦
1♥ Pass Pass Dble.
Pass 2♦ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—So far you have promised partner nothing, so your two court cards and fifth club look most impressive. Partner has bid very strongly, and failure to raise to three no trump could be grounds for impeachment.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQ765 ♥A10965 ♦5 ♦72
The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♦ Pass
3♦ Pass 3♦ Pass
4♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five clubs. You are in a game forcing situation on a misfit. Partner rates to be 6-5 in the minor suits, so he can't have three-card support for either major. To bid four hearts might lead him to believe that your suits are better than they are, and he might take a preference to four spades on a singleton.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠954 ♦A76 ♦AKQJ1043
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1♦ Pass
1♦ Pass 3♦ Pass
3♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four diamonds. Despite the fact that partner passed originally, prospects for slam are there because you have a secondary fit for his suit. If partner shows the ace of hearts over your cue-bid, sign off in four spades—there is duplication of values. However, if partner, by chance, bids five diamonds, six clubs should give good play.

Q.7—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠7 ♥AJ ♦10765 ♦A87632
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass Pass 1♦
Dble. ?

What action do you take?
A.—Pass. In high cards, you have a borderline redouble. However, if you take that action you will be awkwardly placed when the opponents bid hearts and partner passes that round to you. It is more discreet to pass temporarily and await developments, for it's just possible that partner will do something to help you out of your dilemma.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J43 ♥KJ87 ♦A963 ♦J10
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
Pass Pass 1♥ 1♦
Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Bid one no trump. If partner has a sound overall, your most likely game is in no trump. At a spade contract, your hearts would be badly placed and might not be pulling full weight. For the moment, one forward move is all you can afford, and you must await clarification of partner's strength.

Americans Appear Apathetic About Civil Defense

"Everyone on earth lives within 30 minutes of potential destruction by nuclear bombs or missiles...Even with the worst nuclear attack imaginable, it is still possible that a very large portion of our population could survive if the proper steps are taken now in civil defense preparedness." (Wernher von Braun, 1968)

"In view of the arms race and the aggressive policy of the imperialist states, the Communist party and the Soviet government have worked relentlessly to strengthen the defense capabilities of our country and to improve civil defense." (Foreword to Moscow Civil Defense Handbook, 1973)

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
WASHINGTON (UPI) — At 1:45 one morning last month, the civil defense siren in Annandale, Va., 10 miles from the heart of Washington, D.C., began a steady wail that lasted for 90 minutes.

Local press reports said most of the suburb's residents who were jolted awake thought burglars, pranksters or vandals had set off the siren. They either complained to the police or turned over and tried to go back to sleep.

About 50 citizens were curious enough to troop to the parking lot of Wakefield Forest School, where someone was trying to shut off the rotating yellow horn blaring out its message of alarm.

If the siren had emitted a 5-to-10-minute series of wavering sounds instead of the steady wail, it could have meant detection of an actual enemy attack against the United States.

"I thought it could be an air raid," said Mrs. Janice Christensen.

She did the sensible thing by turning on her radio to hear an announcer assure listeners the siren was stuck and there was no cause for alarm.

Collectively, Americans turn over and go back to sleep when public officials begin preaching the wisdom of being prepared for a nuclear attack. The urgency of the bomber shelter craze of the late 1950s and early 1960s has long since given way to yawning public indifference.

John E. Davis, a former North Dakota governor and World War II veteran, has been director of the Defense Civil Preparedness Agency since May, 1969. He sits in a Pentagon office with an $82 million budget—down from a peak of $260 million in 1951—and acknowledges that his biggest and hardest task is to overcome apathy.

"Everyone always says 'it won't happen to me,' but it can," Davis said in an interview. "The motivation has decreased because of detente, but our program is valid."

While Davis struggles to teach Americans how to cope with that seemingly remote disaster and improve their odds for survival, his Soviet counterpart, deputy defense minister A.T. Altunin, faces no such dilemma.

Civil defense instruction for the entire Soviet population is required by law, and Western experts believe the Russians have the most comprehensive and detailed plan in the world for swift citizen evacuation and dispersal in the event of nuclear attack.

The 1970 Soviet Civil Defense Handbook for Moscow, continually updated, is a 140-page volume replete with illustrations ranging from silhouettes of American bombers and missiles to blueprints for homemade shelters and bicycle-driven ventilating fans.

One of the booklets Davis' agency has distributed to junior high school students begins simply:

"Disaster is a fact of life. More than 25,000 disasters, large and small, strike somewhere in the United States each year. That's more than 68 disasters every day ranging from hurricanes and tornadoes, earthquakes with massive destruction, to train wrecks and neighborhood fires. We face these...and the possibility of attack on this country. This book is an attempt to help you live safely in this increasingly complex, cluttered and dangerous world."

IN 1961, Windowshoppers at 42nd St. and 7th Ave. in New York cleared the area within moments during a Civil Defense Drill. In Russia, civil defense instruction is required by law. (UPI Telephoto)

Davis' agency has plans for mass evacuation of Americans from vulnerable areas, given sufficient warning. But he estimates that citizens would be 40 per cent safer inside than outside in case of nuclear attack if they used basements of homes and office buildings, subways and underground parking lots.

"Fully half the population could be protected in large buildings and several million private dwelling shelters," Davis said.

Part of the problem is that unlike the Soviet Union, Europe or Japan, "our nation has never experienced war at home," Davis said.

Davis noted that when Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller was governor of New York, he once ordered that all new business, factory and home construction in the state capital of Albany include fallout shelter facilities.

"But that was during the worst of the Cold War and Cuban crises," Davis said. "We still have specialists available to advise how to include shelters in new construction, but no one seems able to afford the extra costs now."

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger said last month that "the likelihood of nuclear war is exceedingly low, and as long as both sides retain a balance it will remain low in my judgment."

But Schlesinger has said a strong civil defense program is essential because of the world's potential for nuclear devastation, "the ultimate horror which could affect mankind."

"Development of civil defense capabilities which are essential to our national security also generates, as a bonus, an improved readiness on the part of state and local governments to conduct coordinated operations in peacetime emergencies and disasters," he said.

The government no longer sponsors the dramatic general alerts that emptied Times Square in New York and many other city centers more than a decade ago. The last such evacuation exercise in New York took place in May, 1960.

Instead, Davis said, his agency's assistance to localities during natural disasters provides continuous practice in emergency communications, evacuations and logistical planning that benefit all areas of the country.

A spokesman for the U.S. Agency for International Development's Office of Foreign Disaster Relief said Honduras hadn't officially requested American aid but the military was authorized to send medicine, other emergency equipment and medical and survey teams.

The Red Cross and Salvation Army also said they were sending personnel to help in the disaster.

Americans are responding to the devastation in Honduras from Hurricane Fifi with money, medicines and other emergency supplies.

A Spanish-language radio station in Miami collected more than $20,000 within hours after issuing an appeal. New Orleans' large community of Honduran-born residents made donations at a half dozen relief centers, and two Mississippi Air National Guard planes left for Honduras early today with emergency supplies.

A Honduran Embassy spokesman in Washington said the greatest need was for medicine for survivors of the hurricane, which left 5,000 confirmed dead and an estimated 150,000 homeless.

In Miami, Honduran Consul-General Anthonio Valladares said there is a need for almost everything along the country's devastated coast.

"We don't have anything," he said. "We need everything, especially medical supplies, antibiotics, fuel to boil water, food and clothing."

Red Cross officials said local Red Cross chapters would take donations, and the Honduran Embassy spokesman said contributions could be sent to the Embassy or consulates in Atlanta, Boston, Los Angeles, Houston, Baltimore, New York, New Orleans, Miami and San debut last Monday on ABC's football show, broke into sportscasting two seasons ago covering televised games of the Canadian Football League.

He was among those whom ABC initially considered as Meredith's replacement, but theorizes he didn't get the nod because of "people who thought I might hurt the game in some respects."

"I'm not pointing the finger at (club) owners or anything, but an awful lot of people thought I didn't hold the National Football League in reverence along with the Johnny Mann singers or the American flag."

"That was my problem," he laughed. Did the NFL hierarchy object the most to the idea of him as Meredith's successor?

"Yeah, I think so," he said. "And I don't blame 'em because I've always been a rebel and the kind of guy who never really got along too famously with anybody when I was playing football."

An NFL spokesman said he knew of no objections to Karras. He also said the league has no say about whom the three networks hire as commentators.

Karras, who lavishly praised Cosell and Gifford for their help in his ABC debut, won't lack employment should ABC decide against him as a permanent third man in its Monday night football gabfest.

He's got a role this month in "Death Stalk," a made-for-TV film, and plans to emote next month in Chicago in "Growl Like a Bear," a serious football film he says he helped write. Who's the star of it?

"Me," growled the ex-Lion. Then he broke up. "Who the hell else?"

Fred packaged them at night and traveled over the state selling them during the day.

The powders have changed little since then, and the price remained 10 cents a package for two doses until two years ago when it went up to 15 cents.

Stanback still goes to his office at least once every working day, and has had his pharmacist's license renewed each time it expired. He recently obtained a new driver's license and retains a strong voice in how the company he founded operates.

He formed the Stanback Co. with his brother, Fred Stanback, Sr., who died a few years ago.

Nashville Built Into A City By 'Hillbillies'

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the place from whence the twanging sentimental sounds of a shirt-sleeved singer, captured in electronic trance, rolled out over the country. This is Nashville, the city that music built.

By SYLVIA RECTOR
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Boom town, they call it. Not just here. Ask in New York or Los Angeles, where they're wondering how the hillbillies did it.

The "hillbillies" know. They grin about it as their hard leather boot heels urge Cadillac along Middle Tennessee's hill country roads. They're heading out to Franklin or Hendersonville, where a discreet mailbox punctuates the end of a long curving drive leading to a ranch-style estate.

Boom town, but not built on oil or steel. It's the city music built.

"The Row" hints the story. The industry offices and recording studios hiding inside a dozen blocks of converted wooden dwellings now rub shoulders with occasional glass and steel. And there's a fancy new hotel there on the corner across from the Country Music Hall of Fame.

But there's no neon Music Row. And they still work in shirt sleeves. Does Chet Atkins wear a coat and tie to work? "Hell, no, lady!" he laughs incredulously.

Downtown, from Capitol Hill over to the Cumberland River and beyond, the high-risers and honky tonks squeeze together like those in most other cities of a half-million people.

But this city's bloodstream and soul are different.

Walk down Broadway and run into Del Reeves or Dolly Parton. Skirt some kid lugging a guitar case nearly as worn as his shoes.

The Ryman Auditorium, that red brick Gothic womb of the Grand Ole Opry, stands around the corner from Tootsie's Orchid Lounge, a former haunt of stars who stopped in to wet their whistles before the Opry curtains opened. And then they'd sit down and hit a few licks — just for Tootsie Bess.

But the Opry moved out Biley Parkway to Opryland, U.S.A., a vast music "theme" park with acres of shows and amusement rides. With it went something special.

The country music aura downtown these days is only a ghost of its former self. The wreckers who may eventually splinter the Ryman practice on a few old tourist traps. But aura or no aura, $200 million worth of country music records were sold last year, and more than 95 per cent of them were cut in Nashville.

This city is sophisticated enough to host the Grammy awards, to be set and scenery for three movies this summer and to allow big-name entertainers to come and go with little fanfare.

And the tourists, out of place in their new, straw cowboy hats, still flock to Tootsie's to gawk at walls papered with thousands of celebrity pictures. The stars don't come in as often, but things haven't changed that much.

"Yeah, them funky pickers still hobo in off the streets, thinking they're gonna get rich, and I just tell 'em they better catch the next train out."

Mama Bess's voice rises a couple of octaves above the jukebox's latest Conway Twitty single.

The city's mood is slower than in New York or Los Angeles. That's part of its secret.

"It's a good creative atmosphere. Like the Village in New York a few years ago or Paris in Gertrude Stein's day," observed Jerry Wood of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP).

And Jerry Bradley, head of Nashville's RCA product, wouldn't leave. "Now you take

New York for example. I wouldn't even catch a plane to go there and record. The musicians come in and do their sessions and take their 10-minute breaks and come back and play some more. And then they take the subway home.

"Down here, all of us get together and everybody puts their heads together and throws in their own licks and we make a record. All of us together."

"I can remember when they could only do one session in this town at a time because there was just one string section," recalls Bradley. The American Federation of Musicians local now lists 2,200 members.

The 15,877 recording sessions completed in Nashville in 1973 are roughly triple the 1969 figure. Fifty-two per cent of all singles produced in the world last year were cut here.

In 1962, 81 radio stations in the nation programmed country music. Now, 12 years later, 1,116 stations have at least two hours of country music each day.

The swelling country tide is pulling Nashville with it. How many people and how much money is the country music industry worth? The state's Department of Economic and Community Development counts 5,000 employed in recording, booking and publishing alone. That doesn't include promotion, trade magazines or any of the related industries.

The department estimates gross receipts from the industry for the greater Nashville area at $300 million annually.

If this is a boom town, music is its fuse.

ASCAP's Jerry Wood said: "Music is two things: entertainment and money. So far, there's a kind of honesty within the context of the business world here. I'd hate to see this become a rip-off town."

Bradley added, "We haven't gotten to the place yet where we're jealous of each other's success. But we may be approaching it. It'll be a few years if it comes."

"The Solemn Old Judge," George D. Hay, was the Opry's first emcee. And he always knew the value of honesty and simplicity, too.

"Keep it close to the ground, boys," he'd say before every show.

Now—$1 enrolls you in The Doctors Hospital Plan to help you safeguard your income and savings if a covered sickness or accident puts you in the hospital, and you can renew at these sensible monthly rates:

INDIVIDUAL PLAN
$5.25

HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN
$8.95

ALL-FAMILY PLAN
$10.95

ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN
$7.95

(These rates apply for all ages under 65)

Pays $19.04 Daily

When you are hospitalized
(See all plans below)

Pays $14.28 Daily

When your insured wife is hospitalized
(See All-Family and Husband-Wife plans below)

Pays $9.52 Daily

When an insured child is hospitalized
(See All-Family and One-Parent Family plans below)

50% INCREASE IN CASH BENEFITS FOR CANCER OR HEART ATTACK

Plan pays cash benefits direct to you unless you tell us otherwise. Cash benefits in addition to any other company or government insurance—even Medicare... cash benefits to use as you please!

Regardless of your age or the size of your family, you can enroll now—right from this page. No salesman will call.

You can enroll yourself and all eligible members of your family simply by mailing the Application Form below with $1. There's nothing else to do—but accidents and sickness strike without warning... so act today.

Think of it. Now, with a stroke of your pen, you can have cash benefits paid direct to you (unless you tell us otherwise) when a sudden accident or unexpected illness hospitalizes you or an insured member of your family! And you may enroll now without having to see a company salesman. All you need do is mail the Application Form below together with your first month's premium. It's that easy!

This plan provides the extra protection you need to help meet the high cost of hospitalization today.

Anyone who has been in the hospital recently knows ordinary hospital insurance—even Medicare—simply may not cover everything. You may have to pay many "extras" out of your own pocket—and it can add up to hundreds of dollars in a frighteningly short time.

But even if your ordinary hospital insurance covers most of your medical and hospital bills, what about the bills that keep piling up at home?

If you, as husband, father and breadwinner are suddenly hospitalized, your income stops, your expenses go up. Even if you have some kind of "salary insurance" it probably won't come close to replacing your full-time pay.

If your wife is suddenly hospitalized, who will look after the family, do the laundry, the marketing, the cleaning? You may have to take time off from your job—or hire full-time domestic help—to take care of things at home.

If one of your children is suddenly hospitalized, you will certainly spare no expense. You wouldn't even think of the cost.

If you're over 65 and are suddenly hospitalized, Medicare, fine as it is, won't pay all of your hospital expenses or any household expenses. Most Senior Citizens won't want to use up savings it may have taken a lifetime to accumulate... they want to retain their independence and not become a "burden" to their children or community.

Without enough protection, a hospital emergency may leave you with savings gone, debts you can't pay, peace of mind shattered—even your recovery can be seriously delayed by money worries!

Regardless of your age, regardless of your health, you are eligible to enroll in this plan.

Now, with the protection of The Doctors Hospital Plan you can avoid these worries because you can be assured of cash benefits when you or any insured member of your family are hospitalized. No matter how large your family, no matter what your age or occupation and without any qualifications whatsoever, you can choose any of the four low-cost plans shown at right to meet your family's special needs.

In addition to the hospital benefits, you get all these valuable "extra" features:

Every month you stay with this plan, more benefits build up.

Here's a wonderful "plus" benefit you enjoy, no matter which plan you choose: When your policy is issued your insurance provides from $6,666.66 to $13,333.33, depending upon the plan you select. This is known as the "Aggregate of Benefits" in insurance language—what we call your maximum cash benefits.

Then, every month your policy is in force, a sum equal to your regular monthly premium (including your first monthly premium) is actually added to your maximum—your maximum grows each month! Similarly, when you have claims, your benefits are subtracted from the maximum.

Your policy is guaranteed renewable. We cannot drop you or raise your rates because of age, health or number of claims.

Your policy is Guaranteed Renewable for as long as you live and pay your premiums when due. We cannot refuse to renew your policy simply because you're another year older, there's been a change in your health or you've had a number of claims. Furthermore, the premium for your policy cannot be changed unless we do the same on all policies of this type in your entire state.

The benefits you collect are yours to keep or to spend.

The cash benefits you receive from The Doctors Hospital Plan are all in addition to any other company or government insurance benefits you receive—hospital, major medical, or even Medicare. Every cent is paid direct to you unless you tell us otherwise. Spend it, use it any way you please, without having to account for this cash to anyone. Naturally, we can issue only one policy to you on a guaranteed issue basis. If you are already a Physicians Mutual policyholder and would like information about additional coverage available to you, please write for details.

You get increased benefits when both husband and wife are insured.

If both you and your wife are insured by The Doctors Hospital Plan, you also get the following increased benefits. After your policy is 10 months old, maternity or any consequence of maternity will be covered. And should both you and your wife be hospitalized at the same time due to accidents, each of you will collect double the regular benefits we would ordinarily pay.

You receive a 50% increase in cash benefits for cancer or heart attack.

Yes, daily cash benefits are increased 50% if any insured member of your family is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease) or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).

Your policy is backed by the insurance company run by doctors since 1902.

Your policy is backed by the resources, integrity and reputation of Physicians Mutual Insurance Company. From its inception in 1902 until 1962, the company specialized in health insurance for physicians, surgeons and dentists exclusively. (Its Board of Directors is still composed entirely of respected members of the medical and insurance professions.) Today the company's policies protect over 1,000,000 Americans from all walks of life direct-by-mail. In fact, last year alone the

Now $1 enrolls you for the first month regardless of your age or the size of your family.

Choose the plan that suits you best:

Monthly renewal rates, thereafter, if under 65 are:

$5.25 for the INDIVIDUAL PLAN

PAYS YOU $19.04 a day cash—that's $571.20 for 30 days—when you are hospitalized. Maximum total benefit for all losses due to accidents and sickness under this plan—$6,666.66. The perfect plan if you live alone or wish to insure just one member of your family.

$10.95 for the ALL-FAMILY PLAN

PAYS YOU $19.04 a day cash—that's $571.20 for 30 days—when you are hospitalized; $14.28 a day—that's $428.40 for 30 days—when your wife is hospitalized; and $9.52 a day—that's $285.60 for 30 days—for each insured child hospitalized. *Refer to monthly renewal rates above. 17 IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED ABOUT THE DOCTORS HOSPITAL PLAN WITH INCREASED BENEFITS

- Can I collect even if I carry other health insurance?
Yes. The Doctors Hospital Plan pays you in addition to any other company or government health insurance you carry—individual, group—even Medicare!
- How do I qualify?
Your only qualification is to complete and mail your Application Form with $1 for your first month.
- Which plan should I choose?
You may choose any of four low-cost plans—you can actually select the exact plan that suits you best!
If yours is a young, growing family, we recommend the ALL-FAMILY PLAN. Covers you, your wife and all your dependent children (including future additions) from birth, except for well baby care, to 21 years of age who are unmarried and live at home.
If you are the only parent living with your children, we suggest the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN. Covers you and all your dependent children from birth, except for well baby care, to 21 years of age who are unmarried and live at home.
If you have no children as yet, or if you have children who are grown and no longer dependent on you, you will want the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN.
Or, if you are living by yourself, choose the INDIVIDUAL PLAN.
- When does my policy go into force?
Your policy is issued immediately, just as soon as we receive your Application Form. From that day on, you are covered for accidents 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, anywhere in the world. Coverage for new sicknesses does not begin until your policy is 30 days old. This is a one-time-only waiting period. What's more, you collect for every day you spend in the hospital for a covered sickness or accident. We don't make you wait 3 or 4 days after you enter the hospital before you can begin getting benefits.
- How much can I be paid?
Each plan has its own "Aggregate of Benefits," what we call the maximum.
For example, under the INDIVIDUAL PLAN, the maximum is $6,666.66—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized.
Under the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, the maximum is $10,000.00—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized; $14.28 daily when your wife is hospitalized.
- Under the ALL-FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $13,333.33—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized; $14.28 daily when your wife is hospitalized; $9.52 daily for each insured child hospitalized.
- Under the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN, the maximum is $10,000.00—$19.04 daily when you are hospitalized; $9.52 daily for each insured child hospitalized.
- Are any additional benefits included in The Doctors Hospital Plan?
Yes. You receive a 50% increase in cash benefits if you or any insured family member is hospitalized for cancer (including Leukemia and Hodgkin's Disease), or heart attack (acute myocardial infarction, coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion).
- What are the "double" cash benefits?
If you and your wife are both hospitalized at the same time due to accidents and are covered by the ALL-FAMILY or HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN, you get double cash benefits. You get twice the amount—$66.64 daily!
- Does this plan pay in any hospital?
You will collect cash benefits for confinement in any hospital of your own choice. Confinement in nursing homes, convalescent or extended-care or self-care units of hospitals, is not included in your coverage under this policy.
- Do I collect even if I go to a Federal hospital?
Yes. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for any one sickness or accident that puts you in a Federal hospital. And if the same condition puts you back in the hospital after you have resumed your normal activities for 6 months, you are eligible to collect again.
- What if someone in my family has had a health problem that may occur again?
Even if one of your insured family members has suffered from chronic ailments in the past, pre-existing conditions are covered after the policy has been in force for one year.
- Will I collect for job-related conditions even though I may receive Workmen's Compensation?
Yes. Even conditions for which you receive Workmen's Compensation or Employers Liability Law benefits are covered. You will receive one-half the applicable
- daily benefits for up to 4 weeks for any job-related condition that puts you in the hospital. And after you resume your normal activities for 6 months, you become eligible to collect again if the same condition puts you back in the hospital.
- Will I collect benefits for mental disorder?
Yes. You will receive one-half the applicable daily benefits for up to 4 full weeks for mental disorder that puts you or any insured family member in the hospital. And, after you return to your normal activities for 6 months, if the same condition puts you back in the hospital, you are eligible to collect again.
- What conditions aren't covered?
Pregnancy or any consequence thereof (unless you have the ALL-FAMILY or the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN), alcoholism or drug addiction.
- Can I drop out any time? Can you drop me?
We guarantee to renew your policy for as long as you live and pay your premiums... regardless of your age, your health or how many claims you have. What's more, we cannot change your monthly premium for this protection unless we do the same on all policies of this type in your entire state. You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.
- How do I claim my cash benefits?
With your policy, you will receive a simple, easy-to-use Claim Form, which you send directly to the company when you want to claim your cash benefits.
- How much does my first month cost?
Only $1.00, regardless of your age, the size of your family or the plan you select. After the first month, if you are under 65, you pay: $5.25 a month for the INDIVIDUAL PLAN; $8.95 a month for the HUSBAND-WIFE PLAN; $10.95 a month for the ALL-FAMILY PLAN; $7.95 a month for the ONE-PARENT FAMILY PLAN. (When you become 65, or if you are over 65 now, premiums increase. See rates in box above.)
- Why should I enroll right now?
Because an unexpected sickness or accident could strike without warning—and you will not be covered until your policy is in force. Remember, if for any reason you change your mind, you may return your policy within 10 days and your $1.00 will be refunded immediately.
