

Oil Exporters Demanding U.S. Reduce Its Export Prices; Justify Claims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The oil exporting nations are responding to the Ford administration's campaign to roll back the price of crude oil by demanding that the United States and other industrial nations cut the cost of their exports.

The tough new American line also brought a warning from France's foreign minister against trying to bully the Arabs. He said oil prices could be brought down only through a peaceful dialogue.

President Carlos Andres Perez of Venezuela, America's chief foreign supplier of oil, told President Ford in an open letter that the higher prices are a justified response to "economic oppression" by the industrial powers.

"We see no other way to confront the economic totalitarianism that has been coming to the fore in business and world trade," he declared. He added that for many years oil prices steadily declined while the cost of industrial machinery and manufactured goods from the United States increased.

"Inflation did not begin with the increase in oil prices," a ranking official of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries said in Vienna. "It is rather because of inflation that oil prices have had to be adjusted.... however high the crude oil prices are, they account at present for no more than 1 or 2 per cent of worldwide inflation."

The assistant secretary-general of the Arab League, Sayed Nofal, said the threats by Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger in recent speeches could have a serious effect on Arab-American relations.

The President warned the United Nations General Assembly last week that food could be used as a weapon against those wielding the oil weapon. On Monday, he told the World Energy Conference in Detroit that exorbitant or rigged oil prices can "threaten the breakdown of world order and safety."

Kissinger, meanwhile, told the General Assembly on Monday that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' high prices and production cutbacks could drive the world into a new general depression.

Both Ford and Kissinger urged global cooperation to solve the energy crisis and arrange a new system of oil prices acceptable to all. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries official commented that the people of the United States and other industrialized countries should start such cooperation by sharing the oil countries' standard of living.

There was no comment from Saudi Arabia, the largest Arab oil producer, or from Iran, which led the successful drive in the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise prices.

The president of the United Arab Emirates said his government would consider reducing oil prices only if other countries lowered their prices on "hundreds of other commodities and primary goods that have doubled several times."

Other West European diplomats at the General Assembly said that Kissinger had not consulted their governments before he and Ford launched their assault on the oil prices. One of them predicted the American campaign would fail.

Revenue Chief Hints 'Action' On Edmisten

RALEIGH (AP)—Revenue Commissioner J. Howard Coble raised the possibility today his department may take action against Democratic candidate for attorney general Rufus Edmisten for failing to file state income tax returns.

Coble did this as he refused to comment further in the case in which Edmisten acknowledged at Chapel Hill Tuesday that he had not filed a North Carolina return while he was working in Washington as an aide to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr.

Edmisten, who said he maintained his legal residence in Watauga County and voted there, said he paid state income taxes to Virginia.

When Coble was asked about Edmisten's admission Tuesday night he said, "my gut reaction is that it's irregular."

However, when contacted today, Coble said he could not comment further because of the possibility Edmisten might become a defendant in a tax case, and "I would not want to make any comment at this time that would adversely affect any litigation that might follow."

Meanwhile, Edmisten said the claim by Atty. Gen. James Carson that Edmisten was criminally and civilly liable for failure to file state income tax returns constituted "harassment" and was evidence of his opponent's "low road campaign."

In a news release Tuesday night, Edmisten said, "it is evidence that someone has gained access to my tax records and made use of them in an attempt to embarrass me politically."

Coble said he regarded Edmisten's statement as an implication that he or someone else in the Department of Revenue had illegally made Edmisten's tax records available to the camp of Carson, the republican nominee for attorney general. Coble said he "strongly resented" such an implication.

Edmisten made the disclosure about his taxes in response to a question at Chapel Hill Tuesday from a campaign worker for Carson. Edmisten and Carson were speaking at a debate on the University of North Carolina campus.

Carson immediately took the platform to say that Edmisten was liable to criminal and civil penalties for his failure to file.

Carson said state law requires that a legal resident of North Carolina, even if he moves temporarily out-of-state, is required to file a state tax return.

Edmisten said he had paid his state taxes to Virginia. While working for Ervin, he lived in an apartment in Alexandria, Va. but he did not change his legal residence to Virginia.

Many states, like Virginia, require all persons staying and earning money in the state to pay state income taxes, whether or not they become permanent legal residents.

All-Time High

East Carolina University today confirmed the largest student body enrollment in the institution's history on campus this fall.

Figures released by the director of institutional development, Dr. C. Q. Brown, showed 11,392 total enrollment for the fall quarter. This grand total includes 11,219 students enrolled in regular university courses and 173 in the evening college.

The previous all-time high enrollment was 10,250 for the fall quarter of 1972. Last year's fall quarter enrollment had declined to 10,086.

A break down of enrollment as to males and females will be available in about two weeks.

Costs Rising Again

RALEIGH (AP)—The cost of electricity is going up again for some North Carolinians and the retail price of natural gas also may be going up soon.

Carolina Power and Light Co. announced Tuesday it will increase its rates to cover the higher cost of coal. The Raleigh-based utility said it expects the increase to average 59 cents a month per customer.

The increase—to take effect next month—will bring the total fuel adjustment increase since February to $6.26 for the average customer. In February, the state Utilities Commission gave CP&L tentative approval to adjust rates with fluctuating fuel costs. Rates have gone up monthly except August when they dropped 47 cents.

CP&L officials said coal costs went up from $10.7 million in August 1973 to $24.4 million last month.

Customers of Piedmont Natural Gas Co. may also face higher costs. Tuesday, the company filed a request with the Utilities Commission for higher rates to cover increased wholesale prices of natural gas.

The company said its supplier, Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp., has increased the price of natural gas and Piedmont asked permission to pass the increased cost along to its customers.

The utility said if the increase is allowed, the customer using the average of 8,000 cubic feet of gas per month will pay 12 cents a month more. In a year's time, the increase would amount to $1.261 million, the company said.

Consulting Firm

The Raleigh architectural firm of Holloway-Reeves has been chosen as consultant during the planning of East Carolina University's proposed medical science building.

William L. Powell Jr., chairman of the building and budget committee of the ECU Board of Trustees, said the decision was made during a meeting of his committee held last night. Representatives of ECU, including ECU Board Chairman Roddy Jones, attended the meeting. This was the only order of business, he said.

The General Assembly last February voted to direct the UNC Board of Governors to use $15 million for the erection of a basic medical science building on the ECU campus. The Board of Trustees of ECU was asked to choose the architect, after a meeting last Thursday of UNC President William Friday, ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins, and Trustees chairman Jones.

Judge Overturns Conviction Immediate Freedom For William Calley

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)—A federal judge today overturned the controversial My Lai murder conviction of former Army Lt. William L. Calley Jr., ruling Calley "was not accorded due process of law" and ordered him freed immediately.

In the lengthy, historic ruling, U.S. District Court Judge J. Robert Elliott based his decision on three key constitutional contentions:

—That Calley was denied a fair and impartial trial because of massive adverse pretrial publicity.

—That he was denied his right of confrontation with witnesses and was denied compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor.

—That he was denied due process by being convicted on charges and specifications which were improperly drawn and illegally used by the prosecution.

Army lawyers could seek an immediate stay of Calley's release by filing a brief with Elliott, or by filing directly to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

Calley, 31, has been confined to the disciplinary barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., since Elliott took his appeal under advisement June 25.

The heart of Calley's plea was that he was a victim of "unequal justice" when convicted by military tribunal in March 1971 for the slaying of 22 Vietnamese civilians.

The first 86 pages of the judge's ruling deal with the issue of pretrial publicity.

The ruling states that "Calley was originally painted as a mass murderer involved in the unlawful killing of some 567 Orientals which number included men, women and children."

Elliott said that Calley was described as "everything from a mass murderer to a ghoul."

He said that by the time Calley went on trial for the March 1968 My Lai slayings, that "the American public (including all prospective jurors) and, indeed, the entire world had ... been so impregnated with the thought of Calley's guilt that it could well have been assumed that all that would be necessary would be for the courtmartial to convene and the judge to announce, 'bring the guilty rascal in and we will give him a fair trial.'"

He concludes his section on pretrial publicity by saying, "If there has ever been a case in which a conviction should be set aside because of prejudicial publicity, this is it."

Elliott said that there is no right under the Constitution more fundamental to the concept of a fair trial than the right of the accused to confront witnesses.

Elliott said also that during the trial, Calley petitioned the House Armed Services subcommittee for its investigation of the My Lai incident.

Fought Over Relief Food

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Thousands of starving Hondurans grabbed and fought for food dropped from helicopters today while volunteers used hunting dogs to find corpses hidden in thick gray mud left behind by Hurricane Fifi.

The official estimate of dead in the worst disaster in Honduran history stood between 7,500 and 8,000, with 100,000 or more homeless and untold thousands of others wondering when they might get their next meal.

Lt. Col. Eduardo Andino, coordinator for the national relief committee, said the Organization of American States reported its survey team agreed with government estimates and predicted that 1975 would be a very difficult year for this Central American nation of 2.6 million people.

Dogs sniffed out 18 additional bodies in the Tela area near the Caribbean coast, Andino said. The bodies were promptly burned or buried without identification to avoid contamination after six days in the sweltering tropical heat.

Collect 38 Pints

AYDEN—Only 38 pints of blood were collected here Tuesday during the Bloodmobile visit at the Ayden Community Building.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt chapter of the American Red Cross, said that 12 persons were rejected during the visit.

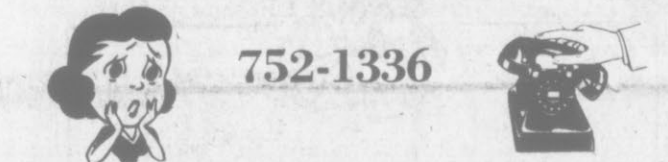

She thanked Mrs. Elliott Dixon of Ayden for spearheading the local drive and she also expressed her appreciation to the volunteer help that assisted in the blood visit.

Mrs. Taylor pointed out that the county, although still using a large amount of blood, is not meeting its collection quota. She appealed to local citizens to support upcoming blood drives.

The Bloodmobile will be at the Du Pont Plant in October and at East Carolina University in November.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

SEEKING SON

My son is assigned to an Air Force Hospital somewhere in Texas. There was a serious misunderstanding in our family five years ago and we have not heard from him since. I think about him all the time and wonder, if you'd ask him, if he would call his father and me, Mrs. H. S.

Hotline asked an Air Force veteran the name of the biggest Air Force hospital in Texas. Then by calling person-to-person to Wilford Hall Hospital at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, we were able to reach your son with one call. We told him of your request and all we knew about your present family situation, assuring him that all of you are fine. He said he would call you the minute he hung up.

You elatedly reported that he did, indeed, call you the same afternoon. You say the differences of long ago mean nothing now, and that since he has no leave time soon, you and his father may visit him and your grandchildren in Texas within the month.

MUST GIVE A NAME?

Is there anywhere a person can go in Greenville for alcoholism without giving his name? This is very important to me, and I would imagine it might be to a lot of other people around here, also. N. N. G.

You may have all the services of the Alcoholism Program of the Pitt County Mental Health Center and never give your name, a spokesman for the Program said. Counselors are Robert Spence and Frank Kidd.

And, of course, you don't have to identify yourself if you attend an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting. As the name implies, you are anonymous, unless you choose to be otherwise, and you are urged to keep everything that goes on in the meeting confidential. A meeting is held each Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the AA Building on Highway 264A just west of Greenville. Anyone who is making a sincere effort to stop drinking alcohol is invited. The AA phone is listed in the telephone directory—752-2961.

BB GUN HAS ITS OWN LAW

In light of the Greenville law against discharging a firearm in the city limits, is a BB gun a firearm? L. M.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said a BB gun is not a firearm and is not covered in the firearms law. However, it has its own law: one may not discharge an air rifle (BB gun) in the city limits within 200 feet of a dwelling or other occupied building.

World Grain Supply Sees Downward Revision

WASHINGTON (AP)—The world grain supply has been reduced to the point where it is unusually tight because of harvest declines in the United States, Soviet Union and other key countries, the Agriculture Department says.

Officials said the situation as of mid-September indicates significant downward revisions from crop estimates made Aug. 20.

The department's Foreign Agricultural Service said the revisions included declines in grain harvest for the Soviet Union, down 5 million metric tons; Western Europe, down 2.1 million; Canada, down 3.4 million; and other countries, down about 2 million tons.

"Projected world wheat production in 1974 has been lowered from 360.5 million tons to 351.6 million tons, reflecting primarily reduced harvest prospects in the United States, Canada and the Soviet Union," the report said Tuesday.

It noted, however, that wheat production in Europe is up 2.4 million tons over the August projection. Production of coarse grain, including corn, was estimated at 581.8 million tons, down from 585.3 million a month ago. Most of the decrease was attributed to reduced harvest in Canada, Western Europe, India and the People's Republic of China.

Feedgrain output in the United States, the world's largest producer, improved the past month and is expected to total 160.8 million tons, up from 158.9 million in August.

The cutback in wheat prospects points to a smaller world reserve during 1974-75 instead of a "modest increase" which was anticipated in August, officials said.

Let Husband Tell His Relatives To Visit Elsewhere

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I have had it! All summer long we ran a free hotel for my husband's relatives. His sister and her husband came for six weeks. His brother and his wife came for two weeks. (The brother used my car, so I had to take taxis the whole time!) Others took turns. We had company from June 1st until after Labor Day.

No one offered to give me a lift with the work, and my grocery bills were like, forget it. Nobody even picked up the tab when we ate out. (We are supposed to be "the poor relatives" compared to them.)

I've put up with this for three summers, and I'm sick of it. How can I keep this from happening next summer short of divorcing my husband? He's a soft touch.

HAD IT IN WISCONSIN

DEAR HAD IT: They're your husband's relatives. HE should tell them what the ground rules shall be for future visits. If he refuses, then YOU tell them. And if you don't, you can expect a re-run of the last three summers and every summer henceforth. And if it happens, don't complain. You're both a couple of soft touches.

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to "Scared," who was dating a young man who had been arrested for indecent exposure, you recommended that if the man claimed to have had therapy, she should ask to talk to his therapist.

As a practicing therapist, I must take exception to that advice. If I were confronted with such a request, I would have to explain that to do so would be violating professional ethics.

I know of one psychiatrist who was successfully sued for divulging information under similar circumstances. This is as it should be, since the therapist is the agent of the patient, not of others.

"Scared" should obtain information about exhibitionism in general from a professional in the mental health field (not from her boyfriend's therapist, if he has one).

NEW YORK PSYCHIATRIST

DEAR PSYCHIATRIST: I did not suggest that the young woman should attempt to get privileged information from her boyfriend's therapist without the boyfriend's consent.

It would seem that if the boyfriend had indeed had treatment and the girl was in no danger by continuing to go with him, he would be eager for her to talk to his therapist for reassurance.

If a patient asked you to talk to his girl friend, would you then refuse to see her?

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the family who, when relaxing outdoors at a barbecue, or just sitting and visiting, were always "joined" by a neighbor, who stayed until they went inside, even when they were entertaining guests.

You advised the writer to either suffer the intruder's presence, or tell her that you'd like a little privacy.

May I add another solution? Why not build a six-foot fence?

AL CENTENO, HOUSTON, TEXAS

DEAR AL: That's a pretty sneaky way to get a plug in for the fence business, but it's a good idea for those who can afford it. How about a moat stocked with crocodiles?

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped self-addressed envelope, please.

Brown Rice Featured In Garden Salad

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Recently at a dinner given by a young friend who is a good cook, she was upset because the brown rice she had prepared was an inedible mess — positively gummy. Since I had served her well-cooked brown rice several weeks before when she was at my house, she wanted some advice. This may sound like a soap opera, but I hastened to impart my "secret": I had used long grain parboiled brown rice. This comparatively new product has a lot going for it: the grains keep their shape and are not likely to adhere unduly.

Brown rice — regular or the new variety — is never as tender as white rice because although the outer hulls are removed, the bran layer underneath is not. This chewiness stands brown rice in good stead when it's used in a salad to serve as the main course for lunch or with meat, poultry or fish for supper.

BROWN RICE GARDEN SALAD

1 cup long grain parboiled brown rice

½ cup mayonnaise-type salad dressing

2 small or 1 medium zucchini, about ¼ pound

1 large tomato

1-3rd cup thinly sliced scallion, green top included

½ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon white pepper

Cook the rice according to the package directions; cool and then fold in the dressing.

Scrub zucchini with a vegetable brush under cold running water; cut a thin slice from each end and discard; do not pare. Slice thin — there should be about 1½ cups. Slices may be halved or quartered. The zucchini is used raw.

Cut tomato in half horizontally; gently squeeze out seeds and discard; slice and dice — there should be about 1 cup.

Add zucchini, tomato, scallion, salt and pepper to rice mixture; mix gently but well.

Serve at room temperature or chilled.

A Good Decision By Kennedy

Sen. Edward Kennedy made it as clear as it possibly could be Monday that he would not be a candidate for president or vice president in 1976.

"I will not accept the (Democratic) nomination," he declared in a news conference. "I will not accept a draft. My primary responsibilities are at home."

The senator said it was a final and unconditional decision. "I would be unable to make a full commitment to a campaign for the presidency," Kennedy said.

"There is absolutely no circumstance or event that would alter this decision," was Kennedy's emphasis.

The senator's statement could not have been any more emphatic than that; yet his name is still going to come up in the speculation about presidential prospects during the next two years. We accept the decision as final, but there will be those, both friends and enemies who will speculate that he can still be drafted. The enemies will reason that Kennedy is playing for a draft, while his friends will hope that his mind can be changed by a draft campaign.

It is our own opinion that Sen. Kennedy meant what he said; that he honestly doesn't intend to accept the nomination. We think it is a good decision both because of the problems of Chappaquiddick and the tragedies which have stalked his family.

We also think Kennedy showed unselfishness by making his announcement early so, in his words, that others who are interested in the nomination will have "the chance for exposure during this campaign."

The Kennedy's have been loved and hated as no family ever has in the history of our nation. Two of the Kennedy brothers have been shot down, one as president and the other seeking the presidency. As terrible as the thought is, it could happen again.

In addition Chappaquiddick has never been fully explained by Sen. Kennedy and he would either have to tell the full story in a presidential campaign or be plagued by questions from now until the election of 1976. These are realities that Sen. Kennedy had to face.

Monday's announcement will have a refreshing effect on the Democratic party because it throws the race for the nomination wide open. For that reason, Sen. Kennedy has done a service to his party and the nation by making his announcement early.

THIS AFTERNOON Defender Of A Prayer

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr., cut to the heart of the matter in a recent press conference when he defended the printing of A Motorist's Prayer on state-published road maps.

"There are those who would want us to have a non-religious, atheistic society...that would be a sad day," the governor commented.

Basing his reason for keeping the prayer on its value as a safety message, the governor nonetheless took the opportunity to answer attackers of the prayer on the grounds of constitutional legality, and on the foundations of tradition.

"It is very obvious that many parts of our nation have our backgrounds and roots in religion," Holshouser recalled, as he pointed to the phrase "In God We Trust" on coins, and to the inclusion of the term "one nation under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Those who founded this nation did so with a reliance on God and expressed a faith in God "but they did not want a state imposed religion such as they had lived under before," Holshouser said.

No Religion

A key point in the criticism of the prayer put forth by representatives of the Civil Liberties Union is the Constitutional restriction on governmental involvement in establishment of a religion.

To that contention, the governor says bluntly that "in this particular case...the purpose...is not to promote (organized) religion," then characterized printing of the prayer on maps over the past decade as "one more effort in our continuing battle for improved driving safety."

To the extent that this prayer reminds drivers of their responsibility to others, it "serves us well, and its inclusion on the map serves us well...the prayer will stay on the map," he said.

Aides to the governor anticipate a suit against the state on the question, and the action in keeping the prayer was based on the attorney general's office.

Needled by some newsmen during the press conference, the governor stood strong on his decision, and all signs point to a vigorous state defense of the practice should a suit develop.

One newsman asked if it would not serve a more useful purpose to print safety slogans such as "fasten seatbelts," or don't follow too closely rather than a prayer.

Admitting that such reminders might be useful, Gov. Holshouser hastened to add that those could be added to the map, not replacing the prayer.

By tradition, the governor's picture also appears on the map, along with a short message. Some newsmen wondered if that should be removed.

No Change

No, the governor opined, it would probably serve better to replace one of the scenic pictures rather than either the prayer or his own picture. But he did not hint that this would occur.

For those who have not seen the official state map, the prayer is printed on a cover fold, and generally appears on a background of scenic nature. It is not identifiable in terms of "established" religion, and reads simply:

"Our Heavenly Father, we ask this day a particular blessing as we take the wheel of our car. Grant us safe passage through all the perils of travel; shelter those who accompany us and protect us from harm by Thy mercy; steady our hands and quicken our eye that we may never take another's life; guide us to our destination safely, confident in the knowledge that Thy blessings go with us through darkness and light...sunshine and shower...forever and ever. Amen."

The INSIDE REPORT Same Old White House

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—How little both the substance and style of policymaking have changed at the White House is reflected by the fact that the same economist who wrote President Nixon's last economic speech experts to write President Ford's speech concluding his economic summit conference Sept. 28.

The speechwriter is economist Sidney Jones, a major backstage policymaker at the Nixon White House who remains highly influential in planning the Ford economic summit. What's more, Jones has no apologies for the last Nixon economic speech in Los Angeles July 25 which advocated "the old time religion"—that is, fiscal and monetary conservatism—and not much else.

Although Nixon's July

speech was in itself a depressant on the economy, other government official expect Jones to follow the same general script for Mr. Ford. Apart from perpetuating Nixonomics, this shows that economic policy is still being made in the White House rather than by Secretary of the Treasury William Simon, as once seemed probable.

Such a pattern generally holds true for all government policymaking during President Ford's first six weeks in office. Despite his genuine desire to decentralize power away from the White House and back to cabinet-level departments, little has changed. Indeed, the White House Domestic Council under Nixon holdover Ken Cole, is more influential than ever. No wonder, then, that policies remain as they were.

This can be partly explained by the lack of the usual transition period between Presidents. Moreover, there never was much chance for appreciable change as long as Gen. Alexander Haig maintained the old Nixon system as White House chief of staff; with Haig leaving this week, administration officials outside the White House hope a new day will dawn for them.

Nevertheless, intimate Ford advisers are deeply disappointed about the first six weeks at the Ford White House. What follows is a sampling of recent incidents there which are disturbingly similar to the prevailing pattern of the Nixon White House:

Item: The recent legislative message sent Congress by Mr. Ford was prepared entirely by the Domestic Council. When one White House aide bootlegged a copy to a cabinet member, angry Domestic Council staffers launched an investigation to discover the "leak."

Item: A dozen conservative Republican Senators, led by Sen. Carl Curtis of Nebraska, some two weeks ago asked for a private session with the President to discuss their complaints about what they consider his leftward drift.

The lack of any response to the Senators is the responsibility not of Mr. Ford but of his staffers. For various strategic reasons, they did not want the Senators to see him now.

Item: The Domestic Council staff has dominated the presidential decision-making about the government's new energy policy machinery—a decision crucial to both diplomatic and economic problems. The Domestic Council paper on the subject, submitted to Mr. Ford last week, was treated as a top secret document not available to high government officials outside the White House.

Item: Rep. Albert Quie of Minnesota, a highly regarded Republican moderate, had argued unsuccessfully that President Nixon should not veto funding of anti-poverty community action programs. When he renewed the argument with the Ford White House, Quie encountered exactly the same resistance and exactly the same arguments in reply. That was hardly surprising; he was talking to exactly the same Domestic Council staffers.

But the aftermath of this last incident shows that, for ANOTHER SESSION OF THE WATCHED POT!

By ART BUCHWALD Greenspan The Jokester

WASHINGTON — Prof. Alan Greenspan, chief presidential economic adviser, endeared himself last week to the country with a remark he made to a group of leaders representing the old, sick and handicapped.

Greenspan said Wall Street brokers have suffered the most from the nation's economic decline.

When I saw Prof. Greenspan say this deadpan on television, I broke into laughter and thought to myself, "The Ford Administration does have humor after all."

Public Forum

To the editor:

Read with interest Senator White's and James Horn's comments on the industrial site in Grimesland. Obviously, it will be some type of heavy polluting industry or they would not be ashamed to tell us what it is. Mr. White lives in Winterville and Mr. Horn is taking a new position in Atlanta so they are not too concerned with what will happen to Grimesland, the air and water of our county, and the Tar River. Based on Texas-Gulf's operation in Aurora and according to Aurora's mayor, Grace Bonner, any prosperity will take place outside the area. Evidently, Grimesland's part in the bicentennial will be to watch its own destruction. I'd appreciate if you could find out just what is coming here rather than getting denials and evasive answers from our so-called public servants.

Sincerely,
Robert M. Brown

To the editor:

In your article of September 10, 1974 the Wilmington District U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has sought comment on the plans for the drainage of Green Mill Run from the upper end of Green Springs Park to Charles Street. This is a very needed project and will improve greatly the health conditions of our city and also much damage from flash floods which has occurred in the past.

In addition to the drainage project, it would be well to continue the old idea of extending Green Springs Park to Charles Street, and at the same time beautify the area on the Mill Run to the extent that we may have a walkway or a road for bicycles and other non-motor traffic. When Green Springs Park was acquired, it was done with the idea that we would endeavor to continue the park through the main part of town. If sufficient land could be acquired for this purpose, it would also add to the safety of our school children who ride bicycles. Now that we have discontinued building sidewalks and our pedestrians and people on bicycles have to take to the main highways and streets, we hope that something can be done in this direction. This would bring great relief to our city in health as well as traffic conditions.

To the editor:

Monday was a dark day for the City of Greenville. The Board of Directors of Operation Sunshine voted to close the center September 29th unless immediate public support is forthcoming.

This program for girls was started in 1966. It has provided a summer and after-school program for girls from ages 6 to 12. In 1970 a house at the corner of Washington and 3rd Streets was provided by Memorial Baptist Church. This has served as a home for the girls, although in the past year it has become quite run-down and is a dangerous place for them to gather.

The board of directors has appealed for another house. They have sought funds to buy a center. They have asked for assistance (both financial and physical). The response has been extremely poor.

We wonder, as interested citizens, how Little League, Babe Ruth League, Boy's Club can be so strongly supported and this — the only program of its kind for girls — can be ignored by the general public.

We hope the citizens of Greenville will recognize the value of this type program for girls, whether it be Operation Sunshine, Girl's Club, Y.W.C.A. If you are interested in helping re-establish such a program, please write P. O. Box 3412, Greenville. Thank you.

A Food Tent Show?

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is considering a traveling tent show to tell consumers through displays, hymns of thanksgiving and prayers by local clergymen that food prices are not high and that Americans never had it so good.

USDA sees the plan as a way to counteract what its author calls "the distorted view" consumers are getting.

Also, according to a draft obtained by The Associated Press, the project — tentatively called American Food Forum — would be designed as leverage in support of the Ford administration.

A draft of the plan was submitted to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz last month.

The plan was designed by Steven Laine, a consultant to Butz and newly designated director of public affairs for USDA.

Laine's plan, outlined in a memo to Butz, described the forum as "a tent-type townhall meeting which moves from major city to major city." He said the first show should play within 30 days because "timing is essential to establish a better image for the department."

Objectives listed included:

- "Communicate to citizens in major metro markets the facts about today's food situation, why food is a bigger bargain here than anywhere in the world."
- "To give citizens an opportunity to ask questions and voice complaints, thus giving useful feedback to USDA."
- "To instill in the public a greater confidence in the department, to strengthen the department's credibility."

Laine's memo said the theme would be "America's Food and Farm Heritage — A Preview of the Bicentennial."

The memo also said it would be appropriate to set the theme firmly by using an "audio-visual display telling about the country's food and farm history from the first Thanksgiving of the Pilgrims to this fall's harvest."

For maximum emotional impact, all audio will be musical rather than verbal, ranging from a hymn of thanksgiving as the Pilgrims bow heads over their first harvest to "America the Beautiful" as the best of this year's crop stands for harvest.

Strength For Today Brazil Credit Policy Strained

TOUCHING THE GARMENT

There is a story in the New Testament of a woman suffering a physical affliction who in the press of the crowd reached out and touched Christ's garment, and was healed.

Many people seek Christ in the church; others go into the quiet of their chambers and pray to the Father. But those are few who in the crowded ways of life seek to touch the hem of the Master's garment. The woman in the Bible story was moved by entirely different impulses than those of the rest of the crowd. The mass was merely curious; she was spiritually aspiring.

We can be sure that if we do not touch the hem of Christ's garment in the press of the crowd, we will never catch the radiance of his person in the quiet of the sanctuary. Christ is to be found among people, and only those rare people of the crowd who press to touch the hem of his garment know the beauty and power of this life.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — "Buy now, pay later" sales, long the way of commercial life for Brazilian shoppers and merchants, is losing status in this business-oriented country.

Statistics from credit bureaus show a growing "pay never" pattern in retail trade.

Rio's Credit Protection Service says it has files on 1.5 million shoppers, and 900,000 of them are classified as poor credit risks.

The Credit Bureau, in nearby Niteroi, says it has 200,000 negative files among a listing of 500,000 installment buying customers.

In Sao Paulo, Brazil's biggest and richest city, the Credit Bureau says its negative responses to merchants' credit queries totaled 430,000 in the first six months of 1974—up from 331,000 in the first half of 1973.

Brazilian store owners expressed concern about the trend in a recent national meeting here.

"The increase in negatives is a result of the difficulties the people have in meeting their obligations," said Oscar Gimenez, coordinator of the conference. "The bad payer also exists to a large extent because of the ease of buying with credit, without planning the possibilities of paying."

Most Brazilian clothing, appliance, variety and department stores all advertise their prices broken down into monthly installment payments.

About 70 per cent of all sales by such stores are made on credit.

Gimenez said this publicity often makes credit terms look easy, even to low-income shoppers. But he said when the buyer has to choose between meeting an installment and buying food, the installment goes unpaid.

Additionally, the Store Owners' Club of Rio reported that total retail sales in August were down nearly 10 per cent from August of the previous year.

West Bengal Villages Seeing Severe Hunger

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Hunger officially described as the worst in a decade has gripped the back-country villages of West Bengal, raising fears of widespread famine. The president of the state's ruling Congress party, Arun K. Maitra, estimated 1,000 persons already have died because of food shortages and diseases connected to malnutrition. Thousands of villagers have quit their huts in hard-hit isolated areas to beg for food in cities and towns, their babies in their arms and their possessions in bundles on their heads. The state government has launched an emergency relief operation to keep them alive. "We shall deal with this situation on a war footing," pledged Sidhartha Shankar Ray, West Bengal chief minister, in an interview. Scarcity also has attacked rural pockets in seven other Indian states, leading to predictions that New Delhi will have to get massive food imports soon to avoid famine in the countryside. The predictions are reinforced by estimates from agricultural experts that the fall crop, mostly rice, will be sharply down in West Bengal and the rest of India because of broad areas suffering from drought and lack of fertilizer. Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's government already has signed deals for importing about two million tons of foodgrains through December, much of it from the United States. But the International Wheat Council said last week she will need a total of three million to five million tons to get the nation by until next summer's wheat comes in.

Mrs. Gandhi's envoys abroad have quietly made India's needs known in the hope of getting aid and concessional food sales or loans from the United States, Western Europe and the Soviet Union. President Ford pledged last week that the United States will increase its world food aid but the quantities available are expected to be disclosed only at the World Food Conference in Rome in November. Indian officials in New Delhi and state officials here in Calcutta have been reticent to cry publicly for help from abroad because the Indian public has been told since the good crop years of 1970-71 that the nation is virtually self-sufficient in food. Nowhere has the scarcity hit harder than in the backward villages of the West Bengal countryside where landless farm hands have been caught in a vicious grip of high prices and unemployment.

Some have resorted to eating weeds, snails and frogs because they cannot get the traditional rice or even the less desirable crude wheat. Thousands have poured into towns to line up at cut-rate kitchens set up by local officials. President Ford pledged last week that the United States will increase its world food aid but the quantities available are expected to be disclosed only at the World Food Conference in Rome in November. all the similarities between the Nixon and Ford White Houses, there are differences which hopefully will be dominant eventually. Unable to make his point with the Domestic Council staff, Quie insisted on seeing the President himself, a friend and ally for 16 years. Quie got into the Oval Office, made his pitch to Mr. Ford and came away convinced there would be no veto. The point is that Quie never would have gotten close enough to Nixon to contradict the staff. In contrast, close personal aides brought to the White House by Mr. Ford feel open access will be the essence of his presidency. Once Haig leaves, they believe, Mr. Ford's personal inclinations for a de-emphasized White House staff will be translated into reality. Whatever happens in the post-Haig White House, however, the last six weeks cannot be washed away. At a time when Mr. Ford's closest advisors felt changes in both the policies and procedures of the administration were imperative, the new President was unable to budge more than slightly the monolithic Nixon System that he inherited.

trying to contain myself. "I want to write this all down." "You must remember that, when inflation strikes, brokers' commissions, which are fixed by law, are immediately affected. When you have low turnover in Wall Street stocks, the broker is the first one to feel it. Who's hurt by high interest rates more than anybody else?" "Don't tell me," I said chuckling. "Let me guess." "I'm not sure you're taking me seriously," the man said. "Of course I am. I think the most important thing during a crisis is for people to laugh at themselves. If Prof. Greenspan can provide us with a line like he did about the brokers every week, we can win the war against inflation. Let me ask you something. Does Greenspan have any good ones about people suffering in the oil industry?" The man hung up on me. "I called back my friend in Congress. 'I know you're not going to believe this,' I said, 'but Greenspan writes his own jokes.'" "I'll be damned," said my friend. "You mean the line about the brokers was his?" "Yup. Greenspan's a fountain of mirth, and he comes up with things like that all the time. It must be great for the President to have somebody like that around to take his mind off the economy."

vest," the memo said. The plan then calls for a townhall meeting and panel discussion involving a local consumer advocate, local media representatives, two USDA spokesmen and a moderator from the department. At the close, the plan calls for "a prayer by two local clergy and singing of America the Beautiful."

Ford To Visit Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — President Ford will come here next month to give "a boost to everyone running" on the GOP ticket in Oklahoma, Sen. Henry L. Bellmon says. Bellmon, who is opposed for re-election by former Democratic Congressman Ed Edmondson of Muskogee, said Tuesday that details for Ford's visit are being worked out by his staff with the Oklahoma Republican Committee and GOP gubernatorial candidate Jim Inhofe. He said Ford will visit Oklahoma, Tennessee and Ohio on Oct. 22.

Ingredients Of Crisis Remain

DETROIT (AP) — The president of the American Petroleum Institute foresees no new oil embargo by the Arab nations this winter and says rising gasoline prices in this country have leveled off.

But Frank Ikard cautioned at a news conference on Tuesday that "all the ingredients that make up a crisis are still there."

Ikard, here to attend the World Energy Conference which has attracted some 3,500 delegates from 85 nations, said: "We're dependent for about 40 per cent of our oil from foreign sources. And we don't know what the weather holds in store for us."

"We are unquestionably going to have some interruptions in natural gas supplies in the Midwest and some portions of the East."

He said these would affect mainly industrial users.

He estimated that U.S. reserves of home heating oil and gasoline generally are about 10 per cent higher than they were a year ago.

He said he does not expect a new oil embargo to develop, but if one is imposed the nation is in better shape to cope with it now than it was last year.

"I think the price of gasoline has pretty well leveled off," Ikard said in response to a question. "I think you will see some ... reduction of price. But how widespread this will be would depend on what level our stocks are at."

Tie Award Won By Greenville Schools

Two North Carolina school systems, Greenville City Schools and Alamance County Schools, have tied for the North Carolina Association of Educators (NCAE) award for audiovisual presentations.

Each of the two schools will receive an award. The Greenville winner is a color slide show on Elmhurst School designed to acquaint parents with curriculum and programs at Elmhurst. The slide show was produced by Steve Norwood, who is now principal at the Ocracoke School.

David Steele, a student at East Carolina University and son of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Steele of Greenville made the sound track that accompanies Norwood's slides.

Altogether, five school systems and one NCAE unit earned awards for excellence in communication in selections made during the Second Annual School Press Award Program, sponsored by the NCAE through its Public Relations Committee.

School systems winning awards in addition to Greenville City Schools and Alamance County are the Sanford-Lee County Schools for a newspaper for parents and the general public; Richmond County Schools, two awards; one for a brochure and the second for operation of a FM radio station; and Greensboro City School, which also won two awards, one for a radio program that is broadcast locally, and the second for a newsletter.

All the awards will be presented at the annual association convention to be held November 15 in Winston-Salem.

Farmers Received Bit More Of Food Dollars

AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers received a little more last month of what consumers spent for food, according to the latest marketing study by the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Tuesday that a market basket of U.S. farm-produced food cost a record annual rate of $1,751 in August, up $25 from July. Higher returns to farmers accounted for $22 of the increase, with middlemen getting $3 more as their share.

The report said farmers in August received an equivalent of 41.7 cents of each $1 shoppers spent in retail stores for U.S. farm-produced food, up slightly from 41 cents in July. In August last year the farm share was 51.9 cents of each food dollar spent.

Over a one-year span, the figures showed, it has been the middleman who has contributed

The appointment of a new executive director for the Pitt County Boys' Club and plans for a non-stop three day swim marathon in October to raise funds were major items on the agenda of the recently held monthly meeting of the board of directors.

Cambodians In Retreat

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Insurgent forces today pressed their attack on government positions near Kompong Chhnang, in central Cambodia, and government troops were reported retreating without a fight.

Field reports said militia units had lost 18 fortified village posts west and north of the provincial capital in the past 10 days.

Some observers in Phnom Penh think the insurgents may be planning to try to take the town to give them a significant military victory before the United Nations General Assembly votes whether to seat representatives of the Phnom Penh government again or admit representatives of Prince Norodom Sihanouk's government-in-exile in Peking.

Bank Robbed By Lone Gunman

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—An armed man with his face wrapped in a red towel has pulled off North Carolina's 50th bank robbery of the year.

The FBI said the man, armed with a pistol, entered the George Street branch of First Union National Bank around 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Police said the bandit threatened two tellers, struck one of them on the head with his weapon, and made them go into a back room.

He then scooped up money from the tellers' cages, put it in a paper bag and escaped on foot.

The teller who was struck by the bandit was not hurt seriously.

Bank officials did not disclose how much money was taken.

New Formula For Unemployment Benefits Ahead

SAVINGS ACCOUNT EXEMPTIONS—Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., left, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., hold a news conference in Washington on Wolff's bill which would allow an exemption of $400 of interest in savings accounts or $800 for a couple filing a joint return. (AP Wirephoto)

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

On Tuesday, October 1, 1974 a new formula for persons drawing unemployment benefits will go into effect. Under the new formula, major changes will be in the method of payment of compensation and means of determining who is eligible for compensation.

"Under the current program," James Hannan, manager of the local office of the Employment Security Commission of North Carolina pointed out, "an individual is eligible to draw a set amount for a period of 26 weeks, either in straight consecutive weeks or intermittently over a period of 52 weeks."

"The new formula," Hannan said, "will permit the person drawing compensation to vary the amounts of payment. For example, based on previous earnings, a person could draw $90 for a 12-week period, and another person could receive $25 for a 26-week period. These are merely examples of any number of eligibility arrangements that can be made."

Keyed To Wages
Determining an applicant's amount of unemployment insurance under the current law is keyed directly to aggregate wages in a prior 18 month period, using a table devised in the compensation law.

Because of varying factors, however, this amount is not necessarily in direct relationship to a person's average weekly wage. Such factors as salary increases during a year's period or weeks of work missed can change the entire picture.

Under the amended law to be effective October 1, benefits are designed to: (1) Pay to eligible claimants a weekly benefit amount equal to one-half the average weekly earnings during the highest quarter in the base period, and; (2) Relate the maximum number of weeks an individual may draw unemployment insurance during a year to his previous work history, or his attachment to the labor force.

Entitlement to unemployment compensation under the new law has a mandatory requirement that an employee's wages in the base period (preceding work period of four quarter year periods within 18 months) must have totaled at least $565.50. This amount must also be equal to at least one and one-half times his highest quarter wages. Furthermore, to be eligible, an employee's single high quarter wages (the amount earned in one three months period) must equal at least $150.

Examples of how two employees, one earning $3,700 for the base period can be eligible for unemployment benefits; and another employee, earning $3,200 for the base period, might not be eligible are shown here:

—(Claimant A): Earnings:—

1st quarter, $1,600; second quarter, $800; third quarter, $800; and fourth quarter, $500; for a total of $3,700. Based on the rule of the total for the base period equaling one and one-half times the highest quarter earnings, we see here that one and one-half times the highest period ($1,600) is $2,400, with the result that the $3,700 total is more than equal the $2,400 figure for one and one-half times the highest quarter wage earnings.

As a result, this hypothetical claimant is eligible to apply for and receive unemployment compensation.

—(Claimant B): Earnings:— 1st quarter, $2,500; second quarter, $400; third quarter $300; fourth quarter, none, for a base period total of $3,200. To qualify, this claimant would need at least a total amount of $3,750 (or one and one-half times the $2,500 earned in the highest quarter). Since the $3,750 figure is higher than the claimant's total base period earnings of $3,200, this hypothetical claimant is not eligible to receive unemployment compensation under the new formula.

Although the two examples shown are not typical examples of two worker's wage earning patterns, it does show that consistent earnings are a significant factor in eligibility for compensation in the event a worker is faced with unemployment.

"Actually, this means an hourly employee with low earnings can get hurt," Hannan said.

Source of Money
Hannan agrees that there exists several common misconceptions relative to source money used to pay unemployment compensation.

"There's no individual tax money, state or federal, involved in unemployment compensation," Hannan said. "All the money paid to unemployed people in North Carolina comes 100 per cent from money paid into the state wide fund by employers. They foot the bill entirely. Employers pay insurance on the first $4,200 earned annually by the individual employee."

"The rate employers pay varies," Hannan explained, "and ranges from as little as two-tenths of one per cent to as much as 4.7 per cent."

Asked if money paid into the statewide fund is allocated back to individual counties on a pro-rata basis, Hannan said that is not the case. If, for example, over a one year period Pitt County employers pay $1 million into the fund, and it takes $2 million to take care of unemployment compensation paid out in Pitt County, the county is not penalized because more is paid out than is paid in.

"However," Hannan added, "individual firms, companies and other employers are affected by instances where workers are paid compensation greater than the amount paid in by the employer. This is reflected in raising the percentage amount, up to 4.7 per cent of the initial $4,200 on each employee that the employer is required to pay on salaries of employees."

Eligibility Restriction
Not all workers, Hannan hastened to explain, are eligible to receive unemployment compensation. "First off," he said, "availability is limited to persons who have had the minimum earnings in a base period."

"Another important factor," he continued, "is that the claimant be able to work. Persons no longer able to work fall into another category, that of workmen's compensation."

Hannan said "yet another condition is that a person be available for work. Let's take the case of a person who has to take care of children. This person will have to make arrangements for a child care center or other arrangements to take care of children so that he or she could be available for work, otherwise there'd be no compensation."

Another criteria for drawing compensation is that "the applicant must be taking action to look for work on their own. And this does not mean an applicant can take a negative attitude, such as a person off-handedly contacting five or six employers with the approach 'you don't have such and such a type of work, do you?'"

"In such cases of negative attitude," Hannan continued, "we can report this to the Claims Deputy if an employer lets us know."

"The Claims Deputy," Hannan explained, "is somewhat like a circuit rider judge. He has the authority and the power to penalize someone with this kind of attitude, and there are times when he takes penalizing action."

Two groups of workers are automatically not eligible for unemployment compensation. "These are the self-employed and the full-time student," Hannan said. "Full-time students can draw food stamps if they meet the Department of Social Services criteria during unemployment times, but no unemployment insurance no matter how much the student worked."

Help The Sincere
"What a lot of this really comes down to," Hannan remarked, "is that despite imperfections, the program is designed to help eligible people out of work who are sincerely making an effort to get other employment."

"All too often," he continued, "there are hard working people who when they become unemployed think there's a stigma about applying for unemployment insurance. This is not so, and it's unfortunate that this feeling has developed."

"We have about 300 openings for work at this writing to which we can direct people. This may not always be work in a person's field, but if someone is really looking for work, we can usually manage to get at least stop-gap employment for that person."

"Within the past year, our total of placements have risen to in excess of 1200 from the previous year's placement of about 900," Hannan said.

Not Welfare
A final point Hannan emphasized is that unemployment insurance is "not a form of welfare payments. We do work with the welfare people, but it's important to bear in mind that unemployment insurance is a fringe benefit income earned by a worker during employment. And I want to say again, it's entirely supported by funds paid by an employer on his employees."

"I hope this will clarify any confusion," Hannan added, "and that people who may be unemployed will check with us so that a determination of eligibility can be made. That's the only way we can make sure we're reaching all the people that we should be helping in this program."

Credit Insurance Rates And Abuses Are Argued

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Department of Insurance officials say for every dollar customers paid in 1973 to insure loans and merchandise bought on credit, insurance companies and creditors kept 73 cents.

Much of the 73 cents went to banks, small loan companies and merchants as commissions for selling the credit life insurance, according to the officials.

They testified Tuesday at a hearing conducted by Insurance Commissioner John Ingram on credit insurance rates and abuses.

Ingram scheduled the hearing, in view of the high sales commissions, to determine whether new laws or regulations are needed to protect the public.

It was disclosed at Tuesday's session that the sales commissions averaged 50 to 55 cents for each dollar of credit life insurance paid by the consumer, who received only 27 cents in death benefits.

Wharton Separk, a life actuary with the insurance department, produced figures showing that North Carolinians paid $55 million of credit life insurance in 1973, and received $14.7 million in death benefits.

Credit life insurance pays off a debtor's loan if the debtor dies before completing his payments.

North Carolina's rates for credit life insurance are among the highest in the nation.

Separk, and other department officials, testified that the decreasing credit life rate of $1 per $100 of coverage per year is excessive.

In addition, North Carolina is one of a handful of states that have not outlawed the so-called "level" credit life insurance, which costs $2 per $100 coverage a year.

Sid Moore, a consumer law specialist hired by the state Attorney General's Office to question witnesses, sought to show that level insurance provides excessive coverage for a debtor.

He said the insurance remains at the initial amount of the debt throughout the life of the loan, even as the debt goes down.

Ingram indicated he would order that the rates be lowered, if it is not done voluntarily by the insurance industry.

Trucker Needs A Return Favor

NASHVILLE (AP)—Mike Perac estimates he has helped hundreds of people during his 17 years as a trucker. Now he needs help from a stranded motorist he aided July 28.

Perac, a former employee of Shatterproof Glass Co. of Detroit, said he was fired for carrying unauthorized passengers in his truck.

But he said he has been told he can have his job back if he can locate the man and his small son.

He said all he knows about the man is that he is from Nashville and drives a 1969 or 1970 Ford that experienced engine trouble two months ago.

"If I can find the man and his boy and get a letter from them that what I did was an act of humanitarianism, then I can be rehired," Perac, 39, said.

"If I can't do it, I'm out of my job."

Perac said he stopped when the Nashville man and his son flagged him down near Cleveland, Tenn., on Interstate 75. The man said his car had broken down. He asked for a ride south of Cleveland where he hoped to get help from some friends.

Perac said he refueled at the Ryder Truck Leasing Co. terminal in Cleveland while he had the passengers aboard. Ryder leases trucks to Perac's former employer, he said.

"Nothing was said to me about having unauthorized passengers in the truck at that time and I even logged it," the driver said.

He said he was discharged after he returned from a vacation.

"The man who refueled my rig at Cleveland, Tenn., had reported me to Ryder and they sent a letter to the company I worked for saying that they would not insure any truck I was driving because of what happened in Tennessee," Perac said.

"I'd do it all over again," he said. "I've stopped hundreds of times to help people on highways...I'm a Shriner. I like to help people."

Jos. Alsop Plans Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Syndicated columnist Joseph W. Alsop has announced plans to retire at the end of the year after 42 years as a newsman.

The 63-year-old Alsop, a leading Washington observer, announced his decision in a column for today's newspapers. He told a reporter he would continue to write an occasional column after retirement on New York's Day and planned an around-the-world trip.

He became a newsman in 1932 and started a syndicated Washington column, The Capital Parade, in collaboration with Robert E. Kintner in 1937. After World War II service in China, Alsop began a new column with his younger brother, Stewart, which ran until 1958 when Stewart joined the staff of the Saturday Evening Post magazine.

Since then, Alsop's column, distributed by the Los Angeles Times Syndicate, has been a solo effort. Stewart died of leukemia last May 26.

Colonists landing on the banks of the Piscataqua River at Portsmouth, N.H., in 1630 found the area thick with strawberries. They named the town "Strawberry Banke," but it was changed to Portsmouth 23 years later.

The Warrants Mrs. Onassis Is Club Director

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Onassis has been appointed a director of the financially pressed Lambs club. She is only the second woman member in the century-old theatrical group.

The first female member of the Lambs was Mrs. Theodore Newhouse, wife of the associate publisher of Newhouse Newspapers. She was inducted as honorary chairman last month after having pledged $25,000 to the club.

The Warrants

The Sept. 23, 1974, edition of The Daily Reflector reported the arrest of two Greenville men involved in an incident with a 14-year-old girl.

In that article, the charge against the two individuals, Bobby Simpkins, 17, of Lot 8 Paris Ave., and Charlie Bright, 28, of 1600 B Spruce St., was listed as rape.

The charge as stated on the warrants, reads, the accused did "feloniously carnally know and abuse a female over 12 and under 16."

The warrants for both men read the same.

How Tar Heel Senators And Representatives Voted

WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 12 through Sept. 17.

HOUSE
RAILROAD PENSIONS
Passed, 343 for and ten against, a bill to protect the railroad retirement fund from bankruptcy and to generally restructure the fund. The Railroad Retirement Act of 1974 (H.R. 15301) now goes to the Senate.

Since 1935 the federal government had administered the retirement fund for railroad workers. The arrangement is unique in that the government manages the retirement program of a private industry.

Floor debate revealed that the fund, unless restructured, would go broke by 1981 and be unable to meet its pension obligations to railroad retirees. The major thrust of H.R. 15301 is to authorize shoring up the fund with as much as $4.5 billion in U.S. Treasury funds over the next quarter century.

Supporters said the retirement fund is approaching insolvency because of mistakes made by Congress, principally in 1951 legislation, and that Congress must therefore supply the remedy.

Opponents said the bill sets a bad precedent of the government bailing out private industry, and that it unfairly requires all taxpayers to assume the burden of the railroad workers. "Congress does not do the same thing for a retired employee who was a carpenter, an electrician, a plumber, a dress factory worker, a lumberjack or a painter," said Rep. Jim Collins (R-Tex.).

Reps. L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Rep. Walter Jones (D-1) did not vote.

SENATE
WATERGATE PARDONS
Adopted, 55 for and 24 against, a resolution expressing the "sense of the Senate" that President Ford should not consider pardoning Watergate defendants until related judicial proceedings are completed. The resolution (S. Res. 401) lacks legal force and did not move to the House after passage. It was drafted in response to reports that Ford was considering Watergate pardons in addition to the one granted Richard Nixon.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.), a sponsor, said Watergate trials must take place before they are "the American people's best chance of learning what has not come out about Watergate."

Opponents said the resolution infringes on the Constitution. Sen. Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.) argued that a congressional resolution would incorrectly "presume a power vested under the Constitution in the Executive."

Sen. Sam Ervin (D) voted "yea." Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

ABORTION Rejected, 34 for and 50 against, a motion to table an amendment which virtually prohibits federal funding of abortions. Those opposed to tabling were generally anti-abortion.

The amendment was attached to the FY 1975 Labor and Health Education and Welfare appropriations bill (H. R. 15580), later passed and sent to conference with the House. If the House and President Ford go along the vote will deny federal funding of abortions.

Sen. William Hathaway (D-Maine) moved to table the amendment on grounds that denying Medicaid funding for abortions discriminates against the poor, since wealthier women can and do pay for abortions without help from Medicaid. Hathaway also questioned the germaneness of attaching a complex and controversial legislative amendment to an appropriations bill.

Sen. Dewey Bartlett (R-Okla.), one opponent of tabling, said that the use of Medicaid money to finance abortions amounts to an unjust taxpayer subsidy of a practice which he said has not been constitutionally sanctioned. Referring to a recent Supreme Court ruling which did not specify when life begins, Bartlett asked, "Do you think it is right to use the taxpayer's money to resolve this issue?"

Ervin and Helms voted "nay." ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENT Passed, 64 for and 23 against, a bill setting a broad policy to govern the extraction of oil and gas from the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS), the mineral-rich land which generally begins at a distance of three miles from the nation's shoreline. The energy Supply Act of 1974 (S 3221) now goes to the House.

The bill sets rules under which the Interior Department will lease OCS land to commercial interests in search of oil and natural gas. It contains environmental safeguards, provides grants to states to ease social and environmental problems, and seeks to accommodate an existing law dealing with the orderly development of coastal areas, the 1972 Coastal Zone Management Act.

Supporters argued that the legislation is needed to protect the environment and the public interest from the possible ravages of uncontrolled oil and gas exploration. They said the bill strikes a proper balance between environmental concerns and energy demands.

Opponents generally favored less governmental regulation of OCS lands. They argued that, because of the nation's urgent need to develop self-sufficient energy resources, oil and gas explorers deserve a freer hand in seeking new sources of energy.

Ervin voted "yea." Helms voted "nay."

ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENT Adopted, 54 for and 39 against, an amendment to S 3221 (above) giving governors of coastal states strong powers to protest leases awarded by the Interior Department for oil and gas exploration on the Outer Continental Shelf.

The amendment enables governors to seek a three-year postponement of a lease approved by the Interior Secretary, pending further study of the lease's environmental and economic impact on his state. An adverse decision by the Interior Secretary could be appealed by the governor to the National Coastal Resources Board.

Sen. Charles Mathias (R-Md.), the sponsor, said his amendment would "provide reasonable respect for the states and for the public servants who have the responsibility of administering the laws within the state."

Opponents said the bill already contained ample safeguarding of states' rights. Sen. Paul Fannin (R-Ariz.) said delays caused by the amendment would "frustrate the attainment of the sufficiency program that we are trying to have in energy."

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

Child Custody Knotty Problem

By ALICE CUNEO
SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — The courtroom is the battlefield. The parents are the warring parties, and child custody and visitation rights is what the war is all about.

Enter Warren W. Weiss, family counselor and head of the Santa Clara County Superior Court Conciliation Service.

For the past year and a half, Weiss has been unraveling some of the knottiest child custody and visitation cases before the family court—cases where parents resort to legal action because they are unable to handle the matter privately.

Under the Santa Clara family court system, believed to be the first of its kind in the nation, the decision-making process in contested cases is shifted from the courtroom to a neutral setting with no lawyers present.

"Once people get into court, the lines are pretty well drawn," Weiss said. "The name of the game becomes an adversary proceeding. The lawyers see everything in black and white. Each party is out to clobber the other. And nobody represents the child."

Weiss and his partner see about 15 cases a week, and the conciliation team boasts a voluntary settlement rate of better than 90 per cent. In deadlocked cases, Weiss makes a recommendation to the trial judge, who can accept, reject or modify it.

Presiding Superior Court Judge John S. McNery, who inaugurated the program, believes the system has speeded up "tremendously" the domestic court process. "Cases that would have taken two to three hours in the past now take 15 minutes and on what used to be a 30-case calendar there remain only four or five cases," he claimed.

McNery said he decided to experiment with the system when he realized that in some cases he needed information about the "psychological nature" of the parties involved—not just the number of bedrooms in the house or whether the house was clean.

Weiss meets separately with lawyers, the couple and children over six before making a decision based on accepted psychological practice and the child's best interest.

In his talks with the lawyers, Weiss disseminates the issues. Then, in his sessions with the couple, he tries to determine "to what extent the parents are concerned about the child's best interest—as opposed to their own self-interest."

"Often, child custody and visitation is not the real issue at hand," Weiss said. "The parents are continuing a negative courtship, and visitation or custody is the vehicle through which the hassle is continued. I let them have the first 10 to 15 minutes to vent their hostilities."

Weiss admits to some bias in making decisions.

"All things being equal, a child under six belongs with the mother," he said. "The parent who relinquishes custody of a child must realize there's no way his influence on the child's life will be the same as if the parents were living together."

And Weiss prefers not to rotate important days in a child's life, such as holidays and birthdays. "Let him spend his birthdays with his friends in the neighborhood in a normal fashion—don't rip him apart by forcing him to leave the custodial household when the Christmas tree goes up."

He attempts to let the parents leave with an understanding of his decisions and not the feeling "that something unjust and arbitrary has been laid on them."

Often, Weiss' office becomes the front for battles which are nearly impossible for him to sort out. "If a mother says her former husband molests her two year old every time he sees the child, and the father says the mother is lying, then what's the truth?" Weiss asked.

In some instances, Weiss checks out the parents' stories by calling school teachers or den mothers, or by sending out county workers to look over a potential home.

Some local attorneys distrust Weiss' offices, he admits, "perhaps because they believe they may lose some of their client control," since parents and children meet with Weiss with no attorneys present.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market greeted the news of a prime-rate cut by a major New York bank with a full-speed-ahead rally today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 10.48 at 664.58, and gainers jumped out in front of losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Prices were drifting quietly downward shortly after 11 a.m. when New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust, fifty-largest bank in the country, announced it would lower its prime rate from 12 to 11 1/4 per cent Thursday.

A surge of buy orders appeared immediately, and the Big Board's ticker tape was running as much as five minutes late soon afterward.

The Dow had been down about 6 points when the news broke.

The prime, or basic short-term lending fee to large corporations, has been at 12 per cent since early July.

The NYSE's ticker tape had not run more than three minutes late since July 1968, when it was redesigned to handle reporting of trades faster, an exchange spokesman said.

Armada Corp. rose 1 1/4 to 6 1/2. The company said it would buy back at least 500,000 of its own shares at $7 apiece.

Curtiss-Wright, holder of the North American rights to the Wankel rotary engine, fell 1 1/2 to 6 1/2. General Motors put off introduction of a Wankel-powered car indefinitely.

GM shares eased 1/4 to 37 1/2 in early trading.

Uniroyal was the Big Board volume leader, down 1/4 at 6 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the most-active issue was Syntex, up 1 1/4 at 34 1/2.

Williams has had campaign experience with the United Fund, serving as a division chairman in 1970 and in 1971 in Raleigh, and in Durham in 1972.

He joined NCNB in Raleigh in 1969 and transferred to Durham in 1972 and to Research Triangle in 1973. Williams joined the bank's Greenville office in May of this year.

Currently a member of the University City Kiwanis Club, he is serving on the Greenville "200" finance committee.

The division chairman and his wife, Jo, have a two-year-old son and reside at 200 St. Andrews Drive. They attend the Presbyterian Church here.

"I believe the United Fund concept is most integral to the community's development and progress," Williams said in accepting the UF post. "The annual drive is of singular importance in aiding the agencies the United Fund serves, and I look forward to working with the citizens of Greenville in exceeding the goal."

Bazemore related, "It is very obvious that we are indeed fortunate to have a man of Mr. Williams' previous experience with various United Fund drives on our staff as a divisional head for our campaign this year. His tremendous desire to associate himself with the needs of the community will make him a definite asset to our cause."

NOW Meet On Thursday

The first fall meeting of the Eastern Carolina chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) has been scheduled for Thursday, September 26, at 8 p.m. at the First Federal Savings and Loan Building meeting room.

President Barbara Ellis said the meeting would be primarily a planning session for the year's projects, the most important being assistance with the Pitt County Equal Rights Amendment Coalition. Thus far the Coalition has secured endorsement of the ERA from 15 local political, civic and social organizations, but many more will be needed, she said.

The agenda will also include final plans for NOW's Bicentennial activities, including a program of panelists Wednesday, Oct. 9, at the Court House, and staffing of an information and hospitality booth at the Kroger Building during Bicentennial Week.

All interested persons are invited to attend the Thursday meeting and become NOW members. NOW is the oldest and largest feminist organization in the U.S. and is composed of women and men of all ages who are interested in equal opportunities for women in all phases of public life.

Car-Buyer Has Lifelong Fan

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley's purchase of five new Continental Mark IV's for $60,000 has made a lifelong fan out of the man who collected the commission on the sale.

The singer bought the cars — in aqua, silver, red, black and blue — on Saturday and drove one of them off the lot on Saturday night, said Raymond Surber, a salesman for Schilling on Union, a local dealership.

"I recognized him the minute he came in the showroom and I didn't really have to do much of a sales pitch because he pretty well knew what he wanted," said the salesman.

"I did suggest some colors and he accepted at least two of my suggestions," Surber said. "I was already a fan, but I have to admit, I even like him more now."

Jaguars To Get Test From Chargers

Ayden-Grifton's David Pratt

Oakly Has Got His Kicks Coming

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

FARMVILLE—An important part of a football team and a quite often overlooked part is the specialty teams. These teams do the work of starting the game, getting extra points, handling kickoffs and taking over on fourth down punting situations.

The main feature of the specialty team is the kicker and that position is hard to fill for a high school coach. But at Farmville Central the Jaguars have a kicker that is proving his worth.

Tony Oakley is in his second year of varsity football at FC. He is the number one place kicker handling kickoffs, points-after-touchdown, and also punts. Last Friday night was his best game of the year kicking two field goals of 25 and 28 yards. He also connected on three of four PAT attempts for nine points, to be the second leading scorer in the Jaguar win over Southern Nash.

In the three games the Jags have played, Oakley has made five of eight PAT's and punted 36 times for a 36.6 average. He also plays on the defensive team as a tackle.

One thing unusual about Oakley's style is that he used half a shoe to kick off and kick extra points. It's sort of cut off at the toes so that I can get to the ball better," Tony said, "I use a whole shoe for punting."

Tony feels that once he makes the first PAT or field goal, "It takes a lot of pressure off and makes the other extra points a chip shot. The defense knows now that if we get inside the 30 we are going to get some kind of score."

Oakley plays football because he likes the hitting. "You can let go with your emotion. I like 40 people playing as one unit," he said. "Every time you step on the field you have something to prove, to show your talent. I just love to play. I don't even like to go to the game unless I'm playing in it."

While he likes football, his favorite sport is baseball. Tony has played catcher, shortstop, pitcher and some outfield in the

If Friday night past was any indicator, the big battle in the Eastern Carolina Conference this year will not be for first but for second place.

Southern Wayne, picked by nearly everybody to win the title running away made it three-in-a-row trouncing Greene Central, 33-19. The Rams had come into the game 2-0, one of two teams left unbeaten in the loop.

Ayden-Grifton, which was soundly thrashed by the Saints two weeks ago, got back on the winning track with a 26-13 victory over D. H. Conley. Farmville Central captured its second loop win against no losses with a 33-18 decision over Southern Nash and Eastern Wayne scrambled past North Pitt, 20-12.

Williamston blanked Murfreesboro, 18-0, and Plymouth surprised Robersonville by handing the Eagles a 14-13 loss.

For the Panthers of North Pitt, even though they lost by eight points they won in another sort of way. They generated an offense that could score.

"I was pleased with the overall performance," said coach Pat Smith. "It was the first time we moved the ball all the way." Smith was speaking of the Panthers first score, a drive beginning near their 30 and they moved to their first TD of the season.

"We played as well as we could play. It's just that while we get better so is the opposition." The Panthers will be traveling to Southern Nash ending a three-game home stand. Smith said the Panthers might have trouble stopping the Firebirds, a big strong team. "We will get some offense going, though," he said.

The Panthers' passing game was impressive but the running was still not up to par. "We are just not blocking anybody. We worked a lot on passing but the blitzes hurt us."

Smith singled out Marion Barnes saying that the back has been the most consistent player on the team through the first three games. Quarterback Donnie Perkins, a sophomore, will "just get better," Smith said.

The Vikings of Conley still are making alot of unnecessary mistakes that are costing them points and Friday night they cost the Vikes a game. "I could sum it up by saying we lack consistency," said Chuck Dunn. "The defensive secondary was off."

This week, Conley travels to face West Craven which Dunn says is a team that likes to hit people. "They are fairly conservative. We have a lot of work to do to start hitting."

The A-G Chargers, victors over Conley, will host Farmville Central in a cross-county match that has been one of the big games of the year for both team for a long time. Mike Overton's defense came through Friday night holding Conley to 54 yards rushing and picking off a pass. "We were satisfied with the defense; they did some things they were supposed to have done before," Overton said. "We changed some people around, got some who wanted to hit. We were pleased with the offensive line blocking. Mike Teachy, a freshman, did a good job." Overton cited four players for their defensive play; Ned Craft, Markham Wheatly, Twendie

Several Bucs Receive Honors

Co-captains for this weekend's East Carolina University game have been named by Coach Pat Dye, based on their play in Saturday night's contest with East Tennessee.

This week's game will send the Pirates against Southern Illinois University, with the kickoff in Ficklen Stadium set for 7:30 p.m.

Heading the defensive unit for this week will be Billy Hibbs, and Buddy Lowery. Hibbs, a 215-pound, 6-1 senior, is a linebacker from Swansboro. Lowery, 6-1, 240, is a senior from East Spencer, and plays tackle.

On the offensive side of the field, Bob Bailey and Greg Harbaugh will captain the team. At 6-1, 220, Harbaugh is a senior guard from Westfield, N. J. Bailey, from Bloomingdale, N. J., is a 6-1, 185-pound senior, who has the specialty job of holding for placements. He is also a reserve quarterback.

Woody, who cracked the ECU career field goal record against East Tennessee with his 10th, is a 6-1, 170-pound senior from Clinton. He is only three shy of the ECU career PAT record. He kicked a 45-yarder against ETSU, and made all three of his

PAT attempts.

The Pirate coaching staff also singled out two other Pirates, the "Wild Dog of the Week," and the "Hitter of the Week."

The "Wild Dog" award went to senior All-America candidate Danny Kepley. The 6-1, 215-pound senior from Goldsboro, harrassed the East Tennessee runners and quarterback. Gary Niklason received the honor the first week.

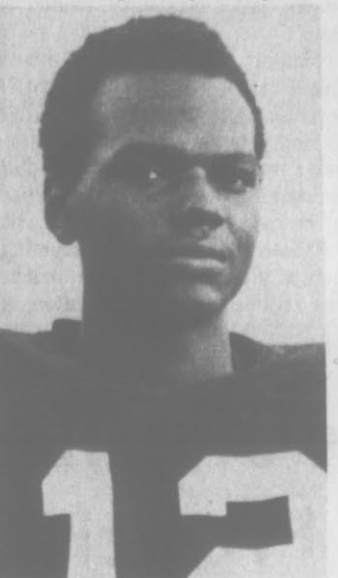

The "Hitter" award went to freshman linebacker Gary Dale, a 6-2, 200-pounder from Warner Robins, Ga. Kepley got the first week's award.

It was also announced that two players are on the injured list. Willie Hawkins, former Conley High School running back suffered a bruised thigh against Bowling Green, and missed the East Tennessee game. It is expected that he will be able to return to action some time this week.

Vic Wilfore, the seventh leading pass receiver in ECU history, suffered a sprained knee in the East Tennessee game, and will miss two to four weeks of action.

Kepley Given League Laurels

"Captain Crunch" has struck again.

Danny Kepley, leader of the East Carolina University "Wild Dogs," has been named the Southern Conference's Defensive Player of the Week.

The weekly honor is the second for Kepley, who was named once during the 1973 season.

The 6-1, 215-pound senior from Goldsboro, was named for his play against East Tennessee, where he saw only slightly more than one half of action. Most of the second half was played by the second team on defense. Once, however, when East Tennessee threatened to score early in the fourth period, "Captain Crunch" and his teammates re-entered the game, and Kepley was directly responsible for halting the drive, sacking the quarterback once, and forcing him out of the pocket the next time on fourth down where another "Wild Dog" made the tackle for a loss.

Kepley finished the game with 10 individual tackles, two assists, and a pass break-up. On the former, Kepley nearly picked the ball off for an interception.

He was also honored as the "Wild Dog of the Week," a team honor, by the coaching staff, after being picked "Hitter of the Week," following the Bowling Green game.

Bill Deery, William & Mary's versatile quarterback, was named the Offensive Player of the Week for his play in the Indians' loss to Virginia. He rushed for 199 yards in 21 attempts and hit nine of 19 passes for 157 yards, including three touchdowns.

Swim For Charity

East Carolina University's championship swimming team will be participating soon in a special kind of championship event.

Ray Scharf, Pirate swim coach, announced that the team will participate in a swimming marathon Oct. 18-20 at the Minges Natatorium. The event is being held to raise money for the Greenville Boys Club and the swim team's winter training.

Scharf explained that a "swimming marathon" is exactly what the name implies, even if you are not familiar with the lingo.

"Our team members will be getting in shape for the coming season," said Scharf. "During these three days, we will be swimming around the clock, in accordance with sponsorships we receive."

To sponsor a swimmer, a person can donate any sum they wish per lap. The team is hoping to get a 25 cents per length or 50 cents per lap minimum put in use. Scharf said that a number of swimmers had already enlisted sponsors, but many more are needed, and that the Boys Club Board of Directors will be assisting the team in helping secure sponsors for the event.

"I hope the community will respond to the event," said Scharf. "We have three high school All-Americans joining the team, plus a solid group of returning veterans."

Youth Nite Scheduled

Youth Night will be observed Saturday night during the East Carolina-Southern Illinois football game in Ficklen Stadium, including special guests and a number of prizes.

For the game, all high school students, and younger youths will be admitted for $1.

WGNC Radio's "Chicken Man" will be a special feature at halftime, and through special offers in the game programs, $1,000 in prizes will be available to the fans by the station.

Prior to the game, NASCAR star Buddy Baker will be on hand for autographs, along with Miss Rockingham Speedway. Five sets of tickets to the American 500, in October, will be given away during the half.

Three Greenville golfers have shot their best rounds recently. Dorsett Ward carded a 68, while Carl Pierce had a 77. Bernie Rawl had her best score on the front side, a 40.

Top Cat Can't Play

CULLOWHEE, N.C. (AP)—Western Carolina University's captain and pass catching ace, Jerry Gaines, will not play in Saturday night's football game with Appalachian State at Boone.

ASU is a member of the Southern Conference, which has eligibility rules that will prohibit Gaines' participation in the contest.

Gaines missed the last eight games of his freshman season due to a broken ankle, but Western Carolina obtained NCAA permission for him to play this year as an injury hardship case.

Southern Conference rules do not permit an extra season.

Orioles Grab Last Lead Pirates Jump Past Cards

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

A tie-breaking suicide squeeze bunt by Andy Etchebarren, who doesn't get to play all that much and is asked to bunt even less, catapulted the Baltimore Orioles past the New York Yankees and into first place in the torrid American League East Tuesday night.

Etchebarren's squeeze bunt delivered Brooks Robinson with the winning run in the eighth inning and gave the Orioles a 5-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The Yankees, who started the day with a one-game lead, dropped a two-night doubleheader to the Boston Red Sox 4-0 and 4-2 and slid into second place.

Etchebarren's squeeze and Baltimore's climb to the top of the AL East took some of the glamor away from Detroit's Al Kaline, whose fourth-inning double made him the 12th player in major league history to reach 3,000 hits for his career.

Elsewhere in the American League, Milwaukee nipped Cleveland 4-3 in 11 innings, California defeated Kansas City 9-3 and Oakland trimmed Minnesota 5-1. Chicago's doubleheader at Texas was rained out.

Trailing 4-3 after seven innings, the Orioles tied the score on doubles by Don Baylor and Robinson in the eighth. Robinson moved to third on a wild pitch to set the stage for Etchebarren's bunt.

Etchebarren, who has played in just 58 games this year and had only one previous sacrifice, laid his bat on the high curveball from Tigers relief ace John Hiller and tapped the ball down the first base line. There was no play on Robinson, who scored with the winning run, and Etchebarren even beat it out for single.

The 39-year-old Kaline, playing in the 2,827th game of a 22-year career, is the first player to reach 3,000 since the late Roberto Clemente did it on the final day of the 1972 season. It's been nearly 50 years since an American Leaguer achieved the feat.

Red Sox 4-4, Yankee 0-2

The New York Yankees were depressed and frustrated after being stopped on six hits by Luis Tiant in the opener and on seven hits by Roger Moret in the nightcap.

The Orioles have seven games to go and the Yankees six in the regular season, which ends next Wednesday. Boston, in third place, is 3½ games behind the Orioles.

A's 5, Twins 1

Gene Tenace's third grand-slam home run of the season helped the A's stretch their lead in the AL West to five games over the idle Texas Rangers. Oakland's pennant-clinching magic number is now four.

Angels 9, Royals 3

Nolan Ryan boosted his record to 21-16, scattering five hits and striking out nine. He now leads the majors with 352 strikeouts, and should have two more starts to try to match his record of 383 set last year.

Brewers 4, Indians 3

Dave May belted two home runs for the Brewers, but it was Bobby Mitchell's 11th-inning blast which provided the winning run for Milwaukee against Cleveland ace Gaylord Perry, 20-12.

National League scores: Chicago 6-2, Montreal 4-11; Philadelphia 6, Houston 3; Cincinnati 5, Houston 1; Pittsburgh 7, St. Louis 1; San Diego 3, San Francisco 2, and Los Angeles 2, Atlanta 1 in 10 innings.

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Willie Stargell was playing hurt. But that was nothing compared to the pain he was inflicting on the St. Louis Cardinals.

"This time of the year, you've just got to play with pain and forget about it. There's no tomorrow," Pittsburgh's huge slugger said Tuesday night after his three-run homer helped power the Pirates past the Cards in more ways than one.

His 24th homer of the year not only contributed mightily to the Bucs' 7-3 victory, but it helped vault them over St. Louis and into a one-half game lead in the National League East.

In the West Division, Los Angeles' comfortable lead got even cozier as the Dodgers beat Atlanta 2-1 in 10 innings. They remained five games ahead of Cincinnati and reduced their pennant-clinching magic number to three.

In other National League games, Cincinnati beat Houston 5-1, Philadelphia downed New York 6-3, San Diego edged San Francisco 3-2 and, in a doubleheader, Chicago beat Montreal 6-4 before the Expos bounced back to romp 11-2 in the second game.

Stargell had been hit on the right wrist by a pitch in the sixth inning, when Dave Parker drilled a two-run pinch-single to give the Pirates what proved to be the winning run.

Dodgers 2, Braves 1

The Dodgers can clinch a tie for the West Division crown in their last home game tonight. "It would be great to do it at home," said Ron Cey, whose eighth-inning home run brought the Dodgers into a 1-1 eighth-inning tie.

Braves knuckleballer Phil Niekro had one-hit Los Angeles before Cey homered. Then, in the 10th, Steve Yeager doubled with two out, the Dodgers loaded the bases on two walks and Yeager dashed home when catcher Johnny Oates couldn't handle one of Niekro's fluttering pitches.

Reds 5, Astros 1

Johnny Bench signaled for a hit-and-run play, then did both, breaking a tie with a triple in a three-run fifth inning to help the Reds defeat Houston and keep alive Cincinnati's flickering pennant hopes.

Phillies 6, Mets 3

Shortstop Larry Bowa banged

out three hits and knocked in two runs while Greg Luzinski hit a three-run homer in the Phillies' victory over New York.

Padres 3, Giants 2

Pinch-hitter John Grubb's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning lifted the Padres over San Francisco.

Cubs 6-2, Expos 4-11

Willie Davis knocked in four runs, three with a homer, and Gerry Carter drove in three to give Montreal a split after Rick Monday and Bill Madlock hit two home runs apiece in the Cubs' first-game win.

Rose In Net Win

KINSTON—Rose High School's girls' tennis team avenged one of their earlier losses by taking a 6-3 victory over Kinston yesterday, 6-3.

Rose took five of the six singles matches to sew up the event before the doubles began. Kinston took two of the three doubles.

The match was hard fought, with two matches going into the third set, and only one of the afternoon was a shutout.

Rose, now 2-3, will be hosting Wilson this afternoon, and Farmville Central tomorrow.

Summary: Marty East (R) defeated Betty Pearson, 6-1, 6-2. Jackie Cauthen (K) defeated

World Football Loop Shifting Franchises

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

A flash flood of red ink has drowned three World Football League franchises and claimed countless casualties in the last week.

The Houston Texans were the first to fall victim seven days ago, when the team, unable to obtain sufficient financial backing, was moved to Shreveport, La., and renamed the Steamer.

Not much later the league was forced to assume operation of the Jacksonville Sharks, who will receive their first paychecks in close to five weeks tonight before their game against the Southern California Sun.

Two more developments followed Tuesday, when the problem-prone New York Stars were moved to Charlotte, N.C., and the Detroit Wheels—already funded by the league for the last few weeks—filed a bankruptcy petition in U.S. District Court with outstanding debts of $2.5 million.

The moves by Houston and New York were the seventh and eighth shifts in the 12-team league's brief history. Earlier, the Toronto Northmen had moved to Memphis; the original Memphis team shifted to Houston before cruising on to Shreveport; the original Washington franchise traveled to Alexandria, Va., then Orlando, Fla.; Boston moved to New York before its latest trip to Charlotte, and the charter New York franchise crossed the continent to Portland.

The geographic hopscotch may not be over. Detroit Coach Dan Boisture noted that the Wheels had been the original team intended for Charlotte.

"We thought we might move to Charlotte. Now there is some talk about Louisville," said Boisture Tuesday night when his club had lost 37-7 to the Stars after learning its owners had succumbed financially.

The cost of renovating New York's aging Downing Stadium, steadily declining attendance and a prospective million dollar deficit made it impossible for Stars owner Robert Schmertz to continue a death struggle for the entertainment dollar.

Schmertz, who also owns part of the World Hockey Association New England Whalers and a controlling interest in the National Basketball Association Boston Celtics, had denied reports his club was up for sale.

"I am not actively seeking to sell this franchise," he had said, "but if I get an offer for more than I think the team is worth, I'd think differently."

Evans Is ACC's Rookie Of Week

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Freshman Johnny Evans, North Carolina State's No. 2 quarterback, is this week's pick as the rookie of the week in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

A High Point, N.C., native, Evans was voted the honor for his play in the Wolfpack's third straight ACC win of the season, a 31-10 decision over Clemson. Evans, who has seen action in all three contests, carried the ball five times for 20 yards and completed his only passing attempt for 14 yards.

The Wolfpack's No. 1 punter, Evans kicked four times against Clemson for 167 yards and a 42.2 average. One of his punts, a 51-yarder, backed Clemson up to its own 12-yard line, and led to a safety when the Tigers attempted to put on fourth down and the center snap sailed over the punter's head.

Earlier in the week, a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association, which makes the weekly selections, picked Virginia end Ken Shelton and Duke back Larry Martinez as the offensive player of the week. Lineman Ronnie Robinson of North Carolina and back Jeff Christopher of Duke were chosen as the defensive standouts.

Meanwhile, the six league members scheduled for action this weekend continued their workouts today in chilly but good football weather.

Wake Forest has an open date Saturday, and the winless Deacons need all the extra time they can get to prepare for third-ranked Oklahoma.

North Carolina State, ranked 13th in the latest Associated Press college football poll, travels north Saturday to take on Syracuse, which has won once and lost twice.

Wolfpack Coach Lou Holtz is not taking the Orangemen lightly, however.

Connors Will Play

By The Associated Press

Jimmy Connors, U.S. Open and Wimbledon tennis champion, has changed his mind about skipping the $100,000 international open tennis tournament at the Cow Palace and will be here for his first-round match Wednesday night, his agent said.

And Connors' fiancée, Chris Evert, says playing in Denver is much easier than she expected. In fact, she complained that it was too easy after she defeated Kristy Pigeon 6-0, 6-0 in the opening round of a women's pro tennis tournament here.

Connors' agent, Bill Riordan, telephoned tournament director Barry McKay Tuesday night to say Connors would arrive in San Francisco at 1 p.m. and be on hand for his 8 p.m. match with Richard Dell of Bethesda, Md.

Team members were equally ebullient. Coach Marshall Taylor said, "it's like a weight has been lifted off their heads," as his club, 3-8-1, prepared to meet the Southmen, 10-2.

The Americans, 11-1, will be after a victory against the Storm, 3-8-1 in order to maintain their one-game lead over the Southmen in the Central Division.

Jacksonville, 4-8, has had its share of financial woes. The players will get paid today, for the first time in nearly five weeks, before the game against Southern California, 8-4.

Stars Moving To Charlotte

NEW YORK (AP) — The Detroit Wheels and New York Stars were too stunned to pay any attention to the outcome of their World Football League game Tuesday night.

Before the Wheels dropped a 37-7 decision to the Stars, losing for the 12th time in their 13-game history, they were informed that the club had filed a bankruptcy petition in U.S. District Court.

After the Stars recorded their eighth triumph in 13 starts to move within one-half game of the East Division-leading Florida Blazers, they were told by Coach Babe Parilli that the club was being purchased and moved to Charlotte, N.C.

"I still don't believe it," said New York defensive end Gerry Philbin. "You would think this team could make it in New York."

Philbin wasn't distracted by the fact that there already are two pro football teams here, competing for the inflation-riddled football dollar.

The shock of the pre-game announcement showed in the Wheels' play. Stars' runners cruised for 277 rushing yards — nearly three times the total of offense Detroit produced. Don Highsmith scored two touchdowns for New York, both on one-yard runs, for enough points to beat Detroit.

"The players were upset be-Simpson and Norwood Garris. This week's game will be a tough one says Overton. "They (Farmville Central) are always tough. It will depend on who wants to block and tackle."

Farmville Central's Gene Brewer had much the same opinion. "It will be a tough game, as usual," he said. "They have a good young club."

The Jaguars had one of their better games beating Southern Nash. Jeff Wilkes scored twice for the Jags and Tony Oakley kicked a pair of field goals and three of four extra points. The Jaguars rushed for 253 yards but gave up 293.

"We capitalized on their mistakes well but defensively we just did not play well. We missed assignments and did not play heads up."

One of Wilke's scores came on a 71-yard interception return. "It came at a good time," said Brewer. "We were ahead by 10-0 and the touchdown forced them to have to play catch-up."

In the other games this Friday, Robersonville will travel to West Edgecombe; Williamston to Roanoke Rapids; Greene Central to Aycock; and Oak City to Zebulon. Jamesville is at home facing Pantego.

Wilderness Warning For Alaska Pipeline Workers

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer
FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — "This is the law of the Yukon, and ever she makes it plain: 'Send not you foolish and feeble; send me your strong and your sane.'"

The clean-cut young man was reading a poetic warning penned by Alaska visitor Robert W. Service more than 50 years ago. As he read the middle-aged men with the work-worn boots and tattooed arms and the long-haired young men with the pimply cheeks and embroidered blue jeans slumped in their chairs and fiddled with their cuticles.

Four young women made no motion, staring wide-eyed at the instructor who was bidding farewell to the 62 pupils he'd spent the past six hours tutoring.

The "Class" was about to board a yellow bus for the short drive to Fairbanks International Airport for a two-hour hop into the wilderness. The men and women all were headed north for the same reason: Money. Lots of it.

So far this year nearly 6,000 workers have gone to the 12 camps which dot the 340 mile trans-Alaska pipeline route between the Yukon River and the Prudhoe Bay oil fields near the Arctic Ocean.

Each of them had to attend the half-day seminar sponsored by the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., and taught by Bechtel Co. personnel at the modern Alaska Career Development Center.

The briefing is divided into seven time periods for the various courses: the project's history; environmental issues; safety; cold weather indoctrination; human relations; camp life; the history of Alaska and its native people.

Five instructors and a small staff of office personnel under the directorship of Jim Kisselburg run the seminar six days a week, from 6 a.m. until 3:20 p.m. when the charter planes are airborne toward the North Slope.

Besides the classes, each employee who's been hired for a specific job on the recommendation of his union gets a thorough physical examination. Men and women over 40 years of age take electrocardiograms and intensive eye examinations.

Taking its cue from the Army, the service company conducts its preparatory operation according to the clock and the computer. There is a time to eat and a time to sleep, a time to smoke and a time for coffee. Threats of dismissal accompany disobedience of each rule.

Paperwork is a mainstay of the indoctrination operation. Booklets and pamphlets chocked full of "dos" and "don'ts" abound.

Instructors tell their charges the environmental course has been written "almost word for word" by the U.S. Department of Interior in order to acquaint the workers with "the unique situation the environment plays in Alaska."

They also tell the drivers and cooks, welders and loaders, dishwashers and laundresses, that during the past two months two men have died on that isolated North Slope in "accidents brought about by carelessness."

The message is clear: obey the rules, pay attention and survive.

Among the taboos: avoid animals; leave the delicate tundra alone; don't bring any liquor, drugs or firearms; no horseplay; don't run; stay clean; be polite; no gambling; no private vehicles.

Next to protecting the environment, the heaviest emphasis is on personal safety in the deadly arctic winter.

To reinforce the two-hour lecture on how to keep warm, the service company gives each man and woman an illustrated booklet entitled "Staying Alive in the Arctic."

It cautions pipeline road workers to "always prepare yourself for possible disaster," and urges them always to carry a sleeping bag, medical kit, emergency rations for five days, a knife and flashlight, area map, matches, and above all warm arctic gear.

"Carry this booklet with you whenever you leave camp," it adds. "Even if you know everything written herein, its pages can be valuable tinder for a fire."

Each employee is responsible for his own arctic clothing, and examples of the best were held up for class inspection. A good set of warm gear could run as high as $500, but when paychecks averaging as much as $1,500 per week are at stake, the investment usually is worth it.

But there are exceptions. Alyeska officials cite a turnover rate of between 25 and 30 per cent, but union officials in Fairbanks put it much higher.

Kay Martin 31, of Fairbanks a secretary at the orientation course, told several stories of would-be workers who went through the seminar with trepidation, boarded the plane with a nagging fear, and finally refused to disembark when the aircraft landed amidst the beautiful desolation "up yonder."

"We had two guys from Florida who went up last month and absolutely refused to get out and stay," she said. "The pilot kept saying they couldn't make the return flight to Fairbanks because their names weren't on the return manifest, but they told him to 'go to hell, we ain't gettin' off and that's that.'"

Seek Assure Nixon Tapes Available

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bills to assure that former President Richard M. Nixon's White House tapes and papers will be available for Watergate proceedings are headed for House and Senate action.

The House Appropriations Committee has deleted from a Nixon appropriations measure the money for a vault to store the tapes near San Clemente, Calif. And the Senate Government Operations Committee approved an agreement to supercede the Sept. 7 Nixon documents agreement and to prohibit destruction of any of the tapes or papers except as provided by Congress.

Meanwhile, one of the defendants in the cover-up trial said he plans to call 80 witnesses including Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and outgoing White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr.

In other Watergate-related developments Tuesday:

—U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica set a hearing for Monday on whether to allow transcripts of taped presidential conversations to be used in the cover-up trial. The accuracy of transcripts of 33 conversations is being challenged by defense lawyers.

—President Ford informed a House subcommittee that he will offer no further explanations of his pardon of Nixon.

—California Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger asked Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski to give him any information that might be used in any state prosecution of Nixon.

Besides Kissinger and Haig, lawyers for former White House adviser John D. Ehrlichman said they plan to call former presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler and James D. St. Clair, an attorney who represented the former President. Jaworski, meanwhile, released his own list of 44 witnesses for the trial that begins Tuesday, including former FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III and the foreman of the grand jury that indicted the defendants, Vladimir Pregelj.

Both Ehrlichman and Jaworski have subpoenaed Nixon to testify.

The bill approved by the House Appropriations Committee Tuesday includes $398,000 expense money for Nixon but none of the $110,000 requested for a vault near San Clemente in which to secure the tapes and papers.

The $398,000 approved for Nixon to wind down his affairs is a $452,000 cut from the $850,000 President Ford requested for him.

House Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon said he expects House actions on the bill early next week.

Choice May Be Food, Warmth

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Many older Americans may be forced to make choices this winter between such necessities as food and warmth, a Senate committee has been told.

"There is little question that the poor and the elderly face a winter of very serious hardship," Alvin J. Arnett, former director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, told the Senate Committee on Aging on Tuesday.

He was part of a panel on the impact of rising energy costs on older Americans that predicted a long, cold winter for the elderly.

"Whether or not there are official national shortages of fuel this winter, you can be sure there will be shortages in the fuel tanks, the stoves, and the furnaces of the poor and elderly," said Arnett.

"Without an emergency program of aid to the poor, there is an excellent chance that many persons in colder areas of this nation will simply be unable to heat their homes or apartments," said James L. Feldesman of the consumer Federation of America.

Panel members cited expected increases in fuel prices of from 100 to 400 per cent.

Although the poor use less energy than other Americans, they pay more for it per unit as well as a higher percentage of their income, panelists said.

Feldesman said the only federal agency that responded meaningfully last winter in aiding poor Americans with fuel problems was the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Arnett described one of the OEO programs that provided funds for winterization of homes and relief for people in emergency situations.

He said Project Fuel in Maine winterized between 5 and 10 per cent of the substandard housing in the state at an average cost of $100 per house. Winterizing includes insulating the roof and windproofing the windows with plastic covering.

been purchasing cigarettes out of state, applying counterfeit Pennsylvania stamps and selling them at three retail stores they own.

"In the past, we have intercepted truckloads of cigarettes smuggled into the state and sold for lower rates," Landau said Tuesday in describing the weekend arrests.

"But this was the first time we have actually been able to get the counterfeit equipment, the stamps and the cigarettes."

Arraigned on charges of counterfeiting, possession of un-stamped cigarettes and transporting cigarettes from out of state were George W. Gaster, 46, and his sons George E., 27, and William B., 26, all of the Collier area.

"They had three stores that they owned themselves and had what they thought was a perfect situation," said Landau. "Their stores are in the boon-docks and they obviously didn't think they would get caught. And they didn't have cigarette licenses. But it wasn't good enough."

He said the cigarettes were purchased in North Carolina, the original seal was removed with an ink eradiator and a forged Pennsylvania stamp was applied.

Further arrests are expected in the case, he added.

Counterfeit Tax Stamps Claimed

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A Fayette County man and his two sons have been arrested by state tax agents and charged with selling cigarettes bearing counterfeit tax stamps.

Paul Landau, director of the Bureau of Cigarette and Beverage Taxes, said the men had

Air Scrubber Said Proven

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency said today that equipment to take health-endangering sulfur out of power plant smoke has proved itself effective and reliable, contrary to power industry publicity.

EPA Deputy Administrator John R. Quarles said the success of these "scrubbers" will allow the use of all of the nation's coal without creating hazardous air pollution.

"This makes it possible to make full-throttle use of Eastern reserves of high-sulfur coal, without requiring a shift to Western low-sulfur coal," Quarles told reporters here just before issuing an EPA report on recent power company experience with the "scrubbers."

But the scrubbers are expensive; EPA estimated some 120 power plants must install them to meet clean air standards by 1980 at a total cost of some $5.4 billion — an average of $45 million or more per plant.

Quarles said the industry has resisted installing them, fearing the new devices might not work.

Quarles said the experience of power companies which have installed scrubbers, however, proves they do.

Brothers Face Murder Count

SANFORD, N. C. (AP)—Two Sanford brothers, Floyd Edward Eades, 37, and William Lester Eades Jr., 21, have been charged with murder in the slaying of a nightwatchman, according to police.

They were charged Tuesday after the body of W. T. Fowler, 78, was found in a warehouse.

Police said Fowler apparently had been shot in the head and beaten severely.

Officers said Fowler's wallet was missing and they believed robbery was the motive for the slaying. They quoted Fowler's wife as saying her husband sometimes carried as much as $300 in cash.

Grad Passed CPS Exam

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va.—Mrs. Gale Adams Nicholson, a 1968 graduate of East Carolina University, has successfully completed an exam to be a Certified Professional Secretary.

There are only 7,700 people throughout the country who have passed the 12-hour exam. This spring only 900 out of 4,000 persons passed the exam.

Mrs. Nicholson is a teacher and department chairman of business education at Frank W. Cox High School in Virginia Beach.

Some of Mrs. Nicholson's previous accomplishments include being a Merit Scholar at ECU and being listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

She received the bachelor of science degree and business administration degree from ECU and is currently working on her master's degree at Virginia Tech.

$11,600 To Researcher

The East Carolina University has received notification that the North Carolina Alcoholism Research Authority has granted the sum of $11,600 to Dr. Sam N. Pennington for a research project entitled "Chronic Ethanol Induced Changes in Membrane Phospholipids".

This project will occupy the period of one year beginning January 1, 1975 and will be conducted by Dr. Pennington in his laboratory in the Department of Biochemistry at East Carolina University.

Dr. John A. Ewing, of Chapel Hill, the Executive Secretary of the Authority in announced the award.

Dr. Pennington is an Associate Professor of Biochemistry at the East Carolina University. It is expected that in January of 1975 he will participate in a special meeting being arranged by the Alcoholism Research Authority to be held in Raleigh called the Alcoholism Researchers' Forum. This will be part of a State wide Alcoholism Awareness Week.

BUICK 1975: TO THE FREE SPIRIT.

Free spirit. Just about everyone has it. Maybe not always a card-carrying, banner-waving sort of spirit. But the need, nevertheless, to express yourself in your own way. For a moment in time, at least, to be alone against the world.

The choice of an automobile is just such a moment. It involves some very personal and individual decisions. And it represents an opportunity for you to be a free spirit.

It is to that spirit that we dedicate our 1975 Buicks.

SKYHAWK. The smallest Buick in 60 years. And the sportiest ever, obviously.

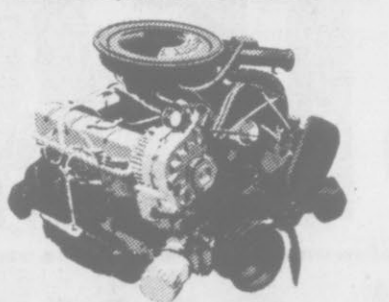

To tell the truth, we at Buick just can't help chortling about the Skyhawk. Not just because it's something of a departure for us. But because it's so good at being what it's supposed to be. A small and agile little car, rakishly good looking, that can be practical and make your heart beat faster both at the same time.

Naturally, Skyhawk offers standard features dedicated to quick, responsive movement. Buick's new V-6. Front and rear stabilizer bars. Power front disc brakes. GM Specification steel-belted radial-ply tires. A 4-speed manual transmission.

All the right gauges are there, too. Including a standard tachometer. But let's not get into any lengthy lists.

Instead let's focus on the totality. A Buick with a 97-inch wheelbase that's reasonably priced, economical to operate, fun to drive, and so neat-looking it can turn the heads of at least two generations. Maybe three.

THE NEW BUICK V-6. A six that we think even V-8 fans will like.

It's time that we shook up your thinking a tad. Because, if you're like a lot of people, you think of a six as something just to save money with. Which is simply no longer true because of Buick's new V-6. Something altogether different from a straight-six.

The "vee" design incorporates a shorter crankshaft. The piston stroke is shorter. The engine weighs less than Buick's straight-six. And the horsepower is greater.

All in all, Buick's V-6 shares many of the design concepts of a Buick V-8, but with generally greater fuel economy.

One thing's for sure. This engine is going to change the way a lot of people feel about six-cylinder engines.

SKYLARK S/R. Skylark is back, with V-6 power, a European touring car-like interior, and a sporty new look. It joins other Apollo models as sort of the Executive's Economy Car.

What better way to bring back the Skylark name than with bucket seats (the passenger's reclines), GM-Specification steel-belted radial-ply tires, sporty cloth-and-vinyl upholstery, a rallye steering wheel, a great new 3.8 liter (231-cubic-inch) V-6 engine, center console, map pockets, and the like.

Listen, it's no accident that the Skylark S/R bears a startling resemblance to a European touring car. We wanted to show what could happen to an essentially practical car if essentially nifty things were done to it. But even with the nifty things we've done to it, Skylark S/R isn't any less frugal with a gallon of gas.

And it's still reasonable in terms of price. It's just that it also happens to be fun to drive... most enjoyable to sit in... and more interestingly appointed than a practical, economical car is supposed to be.

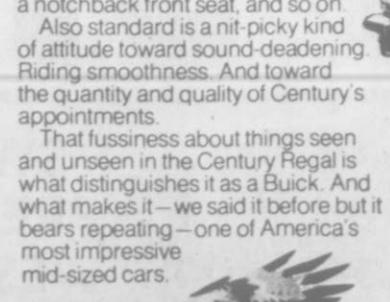

CENTURY REGAL. One of America's most impressive mid-sized cars. Inside. Outside. Or under the hood.

You've already had the word on Buick's V-6. How peppery it is. How efficient.

It certainly won't hold its own if you insist on those two extra cylinders.) Standard equipment includes more than things like deep full-foam seats, carefully refined styling, GM Specification steel-belted radial-ply tires, power steering, Full-Flo ventilation, a notchback front seat, and so on.

Also standard is a nit-picky kind of attitude toward sound-deadening. Riding smoothness. And toward the quantity and quality of Century's appointments.

That fussiness about things seen and unseen in the Century Regal is what distinguishes it as a Buick. And what makes it — we said it before but it bears repeating — one of America's most impressive mid-sized cars.

That's the nice thing about dealing with Buick. You don't find a lot of corner-cutting creeping into the scene. So when you finally decide that the family car is going to be a LeSabre, the rewards are visible and immediate.

Styling. There's most decidedly nothing down-home about it. LeSabre is a richly designed, beautifully turned-out automobile. Well, look at it.

Performance. The 5.7 liter V-8 has High-Energy Ignition and several other refinements that help increase operating performance. (More on that a little later.)

The suspension is the kind that has given Buick its reputation for smoothness.

And let's not forget standard GM-Specification steel-belted radial-ply

Skyhawk Hatchback

ELECTRA PARK AVENUE. Anytime you can buy a Buick this spectacular, well, you needn't wander off looking for something better.

The Electra Park Avenue is the most elegantly appointed Buick ever built. You get a hint from the special "halo" vinyl top that something special is going on here. But we'd have to say that the real story is on the inside (as it really should be in any luxury car worthy of the title).

In front, you have individual easy-chair seating for both driver and front passenger. And all the seating is covered with velour, loosely draped like on fine furniture, and very soft. Overhead, more velour — just as soft and just as rich looking. Even the extra-large console is covered with velour.

The carpeting is of the shag variety. Not so unusual in a fine home, but special indeed in an automobile.

Then there are the little touches. Like the impeccably designed instrument panel. The power windows. The super-accurate quartz-crystal digital clock.

Big touches. Little touches. They all make the Electra Park Avenue a most remarkable automobile.

LESABRE. It liberates the American family car from a position of Mr. Ordinary.

Riviera Sport Coupe

Interior. Thick, heavy cushioning — richly covered. An instrument panel that's both elegant and convenient. Thick carpeting. Quality appointments abound.

Some family car.

Riviera Sport Coupe

RIVIERA. It's hard to believe that anything this well-built and richly-appointed can be so much fun to drive.

To really understand Riviera, you've got to take your eyes off the square headlamps, ignore all the luxury for a moment, and fix your attention dead-center on the following:

A standard 7.5 liter V-8 engine with High-Energy Ignition and other performance-promoting refinements. GM-Specification steel-belted radial-ply tires. Front stabilizer bar.

Four coil springs. Highly readable and informative instrumentation.

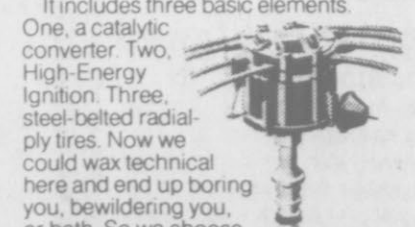

Then you have to drive Riviera. Only then are you allowed to savor the classic styling. The standard power windows. The standard notchback seating. The standard tilt steering wheel. And all the other creature comforts Riviera indulges you with.

The point is that you appreciate Riviera for the very special kind of car it is. Luxurious. Even a little snobbish. But more than prepared to hold its own in motion.

MAXIMUM MILEAGE SYSTEM. We've provided every 1975 Buick with certain standard equipment that has collectively come to be called the Buick Maximum Mileage System, because it represents the most advanced engineering and technology Buick can offer for 1975.

It includes three basic elements. One, a catalytic converter. Two, High-Energy Ignition. Three, steel-belted radial-ply tires. Now we could wax technical here and end up boring you, bewildering you, or both. So we choose not to. Suffice it to say that the System does much to make every Buick operate more efficiently. Spark plugs fire more dependably and last longer than in the 1974 Buicks. The engine is tuned for operating economy. And the tires offer lower rolling resistance.

The key to the Buick's Maximum Mileage System is really quite simple. It works.

New Thrills In Key West Night-Diving

By ERIC SHARP
Associated Press Writer
KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) —
To newcomers, the underwater world at night is a dark, frightening place filled with threatening shadows, the most frightening being those that decide to move.

Thousands of sport divers visit the coral reefs off the Florida Keys every day, enjoying the beautiful scenery and creatures in the clear waters. But a growing number are learning that the reefs are even more fascinating after the sun goes down.

Many diving guides from Key Largo to Key West now offer night trips. The requirements for participants are the same as for daytime divers—competence in swimming and diving skills and a guide fee that averages $12 per person.

Night divers stick closer to the boat and cover less territory than they would in the daytime. A beacon light hangs beneath the boat to guide the divers home, and each diver carries a small underwater light for individual viewing.

Most of the reef's inhabitants are more active at night. Moray eels hole up in caves in the daytime, and the first time a night diver's light illuminates a 6-footer swimming freely across the coral is a moment never to be forgotten.

Night diving is a relatively new pastime. In his book,
"Something Rich and Strange," Dr. Robert Schroeder tells of some of the first night dives on the reefs in the early 1960s.

The sea is black at first, but the diver can see surprisingly well without his light once his eyes adjust to the gloom, especially on moonlit nights.

Safety precautions for night diving are more stringent than for day diving.

The divers never lose sight of the beacon light under the boat.
Since a diver who surfaces any distance from the boat is almost impossible to find at night, many carry small strobe lights or flares to help searchers locate them.

Most novice night divers ask the same question—what if you run into a shark or other potentially dangerous animal?

The experience of most night divers is that sharks ignore lights or flee from them, but divers who run into sharks should beat a prudent retreat. Moray eels also ignore lights. Barra-cuda sometimes seem excited by them, so wise divers avoid shining lights on a cuda.

But as in any form of diving, 99 per cent of the hazard comes not from marine life but from the diver himself.

Science divers working for weeks out of underwater laboratories often spend more time in the water at night than in daylight.

Their experience has shown that safe night diving means following the same common sense rules of day diving—follow safety procedures closely, and if something goes wrong,
keep your head.

New Bridge For Rio Grande

LAREDO, Tex. (UPI) — The U.S. Coast Guard has issued a permit for the construction of a second international bridge across the Rio Grande, designed to relieve a bottleneck at the present bridge that connects Laredo and Mexico.
City planners said construction of the bridge, estimated to cost $5 million, would begin within 45 days from the time the property is acquired south of the present bridge.

Research Lab Contract Signed

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission has signed a new five-year contract with the University of Tennessee for operation of its animal research laboratory here.
The research is a continuing effort to determine the effects of nuclear radiation on animals and plants.

YPSILANTI, Mich. (UPI) —

Australian bird.

Blacksmith Restoring Old Tractor

By ARTHUR FREDERICK
WELLS, Maine (UPI) — The 1910 Harvester tractor had spent its autumn days running a sawmill in Gorham before the owners drove her into the woods to die 14 years ago.

The Harvester was pretty well corroded when Lester Stevens found it and hauled all seven-tons of it out and turned it over to Waldo Chick, the blacksmith from Wells.

The tractor is sitting outside Chick's blacksmith shop now and when the restoration work is done it will join other old farm equipment at Steven's Museum at Ogunquit.

"I started working on it last March, but I haven't worked steady on it, only when I have a little time to put in," Chick said. "I worked an hour on it this morning, worked on the
it again for a week."

Chick is 71 and has had his blacksmith shop for 25 years and he's done quite a lot of work for Stevens. "He has a lot of farm and road equipment over at the museum, a lot of steam and gas powered equipment, and I've done a lot of work for him over the years," he said.

When he's not working on the Harvester, Chick does a little welding and some wood working in addition to his blacksmithing.

"I do a lot of customwork for the neighbors," he said. "I do one thing one day and something else the next. I work until I'm tired and then I stop."

When Chick started on the tractor, it's single cylinder, 20 horsepower engine was coated with rust and he had to make up new parts for the water and fuel pumps.

"I took it all apart and freed everything up okay, and I had to make a piece of bronze for the water pump and another one for the fuel pump," he said.
"Everything looked okay, the rings were all okay, the only thing wrong was there was a mouse nest in the head."

"I haven't got it running yet, though. We'll probably have to hook a tractor to her to get her going."

The Harvester was huge six-foot steel wheels in the back but Chick said the tractor was probably used to run other farm equipment more than it was used as a conventional tractor.

"I guess it was used mostly as portable power," he said. "It didn't have no hitch on it."

The old Harvester, which is started with gasoline but which actually runs on kerosine "after everything is warmed up real good," according to Chick, probably will be ready for the museum just as soon as the paint work is completed by Stevens.

"It's going to depend on how long it takes him to get it done," Chick said.

Although Chick has done a lot of restoration work for Stevens over the years, he seldom works on automobiles and hasn't done any automotive restoration work.

"I don't work on cars much," he said. "I'm getting too old to crawl underneath them."

True Love Can Afford Wait

Dolly's daughters were all guilty of sexual infatuation. They mistook it for true love. So follow the dictates of your brain more than your heart. For love can be developed AFTER the wedding, if you pick wisely!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE B-650: Dolly K., aged 48, is a beautiful woman.

"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "I married at the age of 17 and had 3 daughters, all of whom were very pretty girls.

"But they rushed into early marriages, despite my protests.

"And each of my daughters has already gone through 2 divorces, yet the oldest girl isn't even 30 years of age!

"Moreover, I now have 9 grandchildren by 6 different fathers.

"For each of my daughters bore children to both of her former husbands.

"Now it grieves me to see the mixed up emotions of these grandchildren.

"So how could such tragedies be avoided by the oncoming generation of teenagers?"

Blind Cupid

"Love is blind," runs an old adage.

So is physical magnetism, which leads to illicit affairs.

But true love involves intelligent thinking and the use of one's brain to foresee future contingencies.

It insures a permanently happy home for the adult couple, plus their innocent kiddies.

If you young people are thus involved in a "true love" romance, you will not rush into a quickie wedding based on mere sexual infatuation!

Instead, you will postpone the ceremony until you are financially able to pay the bills required for a happy home.

That usually means a girl should not plan to marry until she has been out of high school for at least 2 years.

After graduation, she should thus have taken a Business College one-year course or similar specialized job training so she can obtain a good position.

Then she should work for at least a full year to learn how to live on her own budgeted salary.

Meanwhile, the boy should be acquiring a trade or else taking extra college preparation for a profession.

If he expects to go into medicine, dentistry, law or other specialized fields, he should not marry till he is at least out of Liberal Arts college and admitted to a professional school.

If his parents then wish to advance him a loan and his prospective wife is equipped to work to help pay his way through graduate training, they may marry without too great danger of later divorce.

Even so, it is wiser to wait till the boy is in practice, for many wives who work their husbands' way through professional school, then tearfully complain that their husband discards them, since his ego has been deflated by feeling obligated to his wife.

Alas, 50 per cent of teen-age marriages end in divorce before the 5th wedding anniversary!

Smart people play the batting averages and stay married!

For they don't let sexual infatuation becloud their good judgement.

Marriage is supposed to be a lifelong contract where children will not be disturbed by being shuttled back and forth between feuding divorced parents.

And love can actually be developed AFTER the wedding, if you first pick quality matrimonial prospects and then play the game according to the rules.

So pick your future lifelong partner by your brain, for your heart is not an adequate guide!

The General Services Administration announced that half the fort's property would be sold pending a survey. The GSA will pay for more than half the cost of the survey, estimated at $60,000, and city manager Bill Rivers said the city and other organizations using the fort's facilities would pay the remaining $25,000.

also the first of a string of 10 straight wins for the Italians, who retired undefeated in 1969 before making a successful comeback last year.

This hand came up early in the championship, and it got our opponents off to a flying start after which they never looked back. A club slam was reached at both tables. Our West player led the ace, cashed the ace of diamonds and conceded a spade trick. Though East shifted to a trump, declarer was able to cash his high diamonds and ace of hearts, then collect the rest of the tricks by means of a crossruff.

Against out club slam, the Italian West led a heart. This seemed innocuous enough, but it played havoc with the entry situation, because declarer must discard a heart from dummy before he can concede a spade to set up a crossruff situation. Therefore, declarer was forced to forgo the crossruff in favor of going after the spade suit. Unfortunately for us, both black suits split 4-1, so this turned out to be a hopeless enterprise. South ended up two tricks short.

Thus, on a hand where none of our players can really be faulted, we were left almost 1,100 points in the lurch before the match was properly under way.

Wild West Show In England Is A Do-It-Yourself Project

By GREGORY JENSEN
CHIPPING SODDBURY, England (UPI) — It seemed likely that a Wild West rodeo in the manicured grounds of an English stately home wouldn't be quite like the Calgary Stampede or the way they do things in Texas.

It wasn't. John Wayne can rest easy.

The Tab Ryder Wild West Rodeo pulled up in its single truck the other day and set up its canvas corral on one of the tailored hills of Dodington House, in the west of England.

Ignoring this beauty, the Shropshire farmer in chaps and stetson who insisted on being called Tab Ryder lounged against a truck marked "T.A. Bowler, Norbury, Shrops," and explained how an English wild west rodeo works.

"We've been going for about 15 years," he said without a trace of western drawl. Always have plenty of bookings."

For each engagement, 10 or 12 horses are picked from the farm's herd—horses which do nothing but toss riders at these shows.

"In the winter we turn 'em loose on a mountain in Wales, and they don't see a man until spring," Ryder said. "Then we round 'em up and start the circuit."

At a show like this one, Ryder calls for volunteers to try to stick on one of the ponies for 10 seconds. This Sunday he got 32 volunteers.

They have to ride bareback, without so much as a rope or strap, since some obscure Victorian law makes it illegal in Britain to do this sort of thing with a horse which has anything attached. That makes it easy for the horse.

These long-experienced ponies, rather bored, had developed tricks for shucking riders. Freekies, a white horse, came out of the chute at speed, then planted all four hooves as he turned, and sheer momentum took the rider into the dirt. "He'll never win the rodeo," drawled Ryder into the mike, "but he might win the divin' championship."

Ryder spiced the show with macabre patter designed to make the thing look dreadfully dangerous.

"Take a good look at the riders," he would say, "'cause you may be called on later to identify the remains."

"Nice red shirt he's wearin'. That way it won't show the blood." A father and two sons volunteered to ride: "Never killed a whole family in one day before."

Two riders among the 28 lads and 4 girls managed to hang on for 10 seconds. Ryder was unperturbed.

"If they have a good ride people cheer the rider," he said behind the corral. "If they go off quick, people cheer the horse. We win either way."

Central Park Is No Joke To Bob

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Hope was in Central Park last week, taping part of his first special for the new TV season. And while he mugged a bit, he wasn't mugged. He says he didn't even joke about mugging.

Was that at the request of Mayor Abraham Beame?

"No, he didn't ask for that," said Hope, whose show airs tonight on NBC. "I just decided it'd be stupid to come in and start that kind of jazz. It's been done to death on TV in the last two or three years."

Some viewers may recall that former Mayor John Lindsay used to issue occasional pleas for comedians to cease joking about Fun City's muggings and other hazards and stress the positive side of life here.

Is Beame now also trying to tidy up Manhattan's tousled image?

"Yeah," Hope said. "And I think we're helping, because the things we're doing on the show are all very positive. We're not doing any mugging jokes because that's the cheap, easy way to go."

He said Beame suggested doing the special in New York four months ago, when Hope was here to get an award from an organization called the Junior Achievers.

"The mayor was there and it was such a delightful occasion to see these boys and girls," he said. "It was exactly the opposite of the image New York has today."

The mayor said, "You ought to come back here and do a show." I thought it was a marvelous idea and so here we are."

Tonight's program, which Hope says marks his 25th year on NBC-TV, features Jackie Gleason, Glenn Campbell and Carol Channing.

He said his first TV effort for NBC co-starred Beatrice Lillie, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Dinah Shore and a bosomy damsel named Dagmar.

Hope has six more specials in the works for the 1974-75 season. He snorted when asked if he's thinking about retiring from television after the season ends.

"Hell, no," the 71-year-old comedian said. "I'm already signed up to 1977."

WEC CHAIRMAN—Roger Gaspard, 72, will take over Friday for a six-year term as chairman of the International Executive Council of the World Energy Conference. Porn Peddlers Lament Business Seeing Slump

By BILL HELTON
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — From the seedy bookstores of the Tenderloin to the garish night clubs of North Beach comes an unfamiliar lament from San Francisco's sex peddlers: business is bad.

There are no statistics, but a survey of operators of adult bookstores, movie houses and night clubs indicates sex may have lost some of its potency to attract crowds — and money — in a city once known as America's pornographic capital.

"People are getting used to the nude stuff," said Ran Jalan as he tended his J&B Adult Bookstore, one of many in the downtown Tenderloin area. "They are simply getting fed up with it."

"It is not like what it was a year ago. I think it is going to get worse in the future. Business is bad."

Jalan said magazine sales are down and he has had to cut the prices of such films as "The Playmate" from $35 to $10. "At this time last year, I made from $2,000 to $3,000 a month. Now, I'm making about $1,000."

Others are less willing to discuss their finances, but most agree that selling smut has lost some of its financial appeal. "No customers, no business," said a clerk at the empty International Bookstore.

It was the same refrain at some—though not all—of the city's theaters.

"It's down. It's not like it used to be," manager Bill Stein said of trade at the Art Theater, where "Deep Throat" and "The Devil in Miss Jones" were showing. "But we're still making a profit. We're still open."

Vince Stanich, 32-year-old manager of the O'Farrell Theater, said his house still is doing well because "We strive for a quality hard-core product." The O'Farrell is one of five Mitchell Bros. theaters in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

He said the firm operates on a "high risk, high gain" policy of turning out comparatively high budget films like "Behind the Green Door" and "The Resurrection of Eve." Four years ago, the O'Farrell grossed $460,000, compared to $424,000 last year, a spokesman said.

The current film at the Copenhagen Cinema didn't impress patron Tito Tiberi, 24, fell asleep in the darkened theater and awoke at 3 a.m. to find himself locked in. He had to call police to get out.

Business also is said to be down in the topless bars and night clubs of famed North Beach, though some operators contend they are doing well on tourist trade.

BEAR RAIDERS

FORT YUKON, Alaska (UPI) — Grizzlies and black bears are on the warpath against trans-Alaska pipeline construction camps here.

State game officials said a lack of proper garbage disposal techniques leads animals to invade camps, break into buildings for food and cause other problems. They said some survey crews had been chased from their jobs by the bears.

"Business is so bad that many topless places are closing," said Police Sgt. John Vanucci, who works the nude encounter parlors and movie houses. "For many people, it was a one-shot deal," he said. "Now they've seen topless, they've seen a pornographic movie, and they don't want to do it again. It has run its gambit. Business is getting progressively worse."

The city's nude massage parlors are faring even worse, Vanucci said.

"They were a fad, but the novelty's gone," he said. "Many places are closing in the day time because their girls are leaving. They work on a commission basis and they aren't making any money."

Oil Hopes In Vietnam Are Justified

BY MAX VANZI
SINGAPORE (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government has announced an oil strike from its first offshore test well with justifiable enthusiasm.

South Vietnam's chances for eventual offshore petroleum production on a major scale are good and getting better—and the same can be said for other countries nearby.

Such is the consensus among a number of U.S. oilmen based in Singapore, the unofficial offshore oil capital of Southeast Asia.

As pointed out by the management of the company that sunk South Vietnam's first test well and found an oil sample, the find doesn't mean that or any other well sunk in the same area is even likely to produce oil in commercial quantities.

"But it's a good area, one of the best in Southeast Asia," one geologist said. Discoveries to the south and west of the previously untested South Vietnam offshore block of concessions have either proven encouraging or led to production.

A just announced test case recently in a Thai concession in the Gulf of Siam looks to the practiced eye of some oilmen to be even better than the South Vietnam test announced Aug. 28 over the country's national radio network and to the foreign press corps.

Located in an offshore block about 300 miles south of Bangkok, the U.S. company's well tested "a little more definite" than the one in Vietnamese waters, an oil source said.

The Vietnam well is located in the southeast corner of the portion of the South China Sea where Saigon controls mineral rights, about 250 miles south of Saigon and 120 miles east of the southern tip of South Vietnam.

Not far south of there begins the region of the South China Sea where offshore oil and gas are already in production.

Concessions controlled by Malaysia and Indonesia contain producing wells about 150 miles south of the Vietnam test well. These wells, operated by the U.S. Continental Oil Co., presently form the northern boundary of the offshore petroleum producing region of Southeast Asia.

Southeast Asia as a whole produces about two million barrels of oil a day, most of it on land and offshore wells in and around Indonesia.

But it is the waters to the north, off the coasts of Vietnam, Cambodia and Thailand on the east side of the Malay peninsula, and off the west coast of Thailand and Burma to the west, that oilmen are watching with keener interest.

Geologically just as promising as the undersea producing wells off Borneo, Java and New Guinea, the offshore regions of the Indochina countries and their neighbors were late in getting colored onto the oil map of Southeast Asia, oilmen say.

South Vietnam and Cambodia have been fighting interminable wars, Thailand took years to untangle its mineral laws so the search could begin and Burma for a decade wouldn't permit Western companies with the necessary know-how to help prospect.

Over the past year and a half, each of these countries has managed to get the offshore oil search underway, about five years behind Indonesia.

The recent test well off South Vietnam was drilled into shelf formation that is an undersea extension of the Mekong Delta, geologists say. It's an area where the odds are encouragingly short in the long-shot business of searching for oil.

The important thing, the Singapore-based oilmen say, is not the result of one test well but that the search has finally been allowed to get under way in such a promising location.

Revival Series Through Sunday

Revival services at Faith Assembly of God continue through Sunday.

Thursday night, in addition to the Rev. Frederick Schmidt, the congregation will hear The Gospel Seekers Quartet from Pinetown.

The public is invited to all the services, each at 7:30 p.m., according to the pastor, the Rev. Steve Jones.

Angela Davis Has 2 Commitments

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Angela Yvonne Davis wears two chains about her neck, one of gold, one of ivory. More than adornment, they are chains of commitment.

From a thin golden chain hangs a small hammer and sickle, symbol of the Communist Party to which black militant Angela Davis belongs.

From an ivory strand of beads hangs a dragon, ancient symbol of strength and harbinger of the revolution Angela Davis predicts will crush capitalism.

The writhing, almost translucent dragon evokes other forces—prison and private passion—which have made Angela Davis both celebrated and notorious among American and international revolutionaries.

"People who come out of prison can build up the country," wrote North Vietnamese Communist Ho Chi Minh in a prison poem. "When the prison doors are opened, the real dragon will fly out."

Bike-Taxi Licensed In Copenhagen

COPENHAGEN (AP) — For the first time since World War II, Copenhagen has a licensed bicycle-taxi offering "sight-seeing in slow-motion" and plastic raincoats in case of rain.

Jens Nielsen, a 22-year-old bearded student of medicine, and Freben Palsgaard Jensen, a 21-year-old mailman, window decorator and semiprofessional ventriloquist, are partners in the 800-kroner ($135) venture that is part fun, part business and part provocation.

"Frankly, we expect to get more fun than money out of this," Nielsen said while soliciting fares for the two-passenger "taxi-bike" among reluctant tourists in Copenhagen's Town Hall Square.

The first weekend in business brought just two paying passengers — an elderly, but sporting, American couple who paid $3 to ride through the city to their plush hotel in relative splendor on the cushioned plywood seat mounted on the old, red-painted, three-wheel carrier-cycle-turned-taxi-bike.

Nielsen and Jensen, who will go from weekend to regular daily service if the business picks up, see the taxi-bike as the answer to many current problems.

"It consumes no fuel, it's noiseless, it doesn't pollute and the pace is less than nerve-racking," Nielsen said.

The two taxi-bike owners, who take turns at the pedals, admitted police are still frowning at their vehicle. But after several initial brushes with unsympathetic patrolmen they now have the Ministry of Justice's written word that "nothing in the traffic laws forbids the use of this vehicle for passenger transport."

The basic fare is 80 kroner ($14) per hour, somewhat less for "pretty females," more for "overweight males."

There is a fixed price of 30 kroner ($5) for the standard trip from Town Hall Square to the Little Mermaid statue on the Langelinje pier. This is more than the fare by ordinary taxi.

"It's permitted to talk to the driver," Nielsen said. "Theoretically, we will go wherever a passenger wants to go, but we reserve our rights to refuse to go uphill."

So far, however, business has been slack.

"People are enormously shy and self-conscious about it," Jensen said. "And one man declined a ride on the grounds that it would degrade a fellow human being, me, to a kind of slavery."

Once imprisoned herself, Angela Davis is bound to the prison reform movement and the effort to free thousand of persons of all races she considers unjustly jailed as political prisoners.

The convoluted chain also evokes memory of the man Angela Davis loved — prison revolutionary George Jackson, slain by San Quentin Prison guards in an escape attempt on Aug. 21, 1971.

By one account, as he pulled out a gun, Jackson said: "The dragon has come ... The black dragon has come."

The chain of gold, the bond of ivory; these hang gently, hang heavily in the life of Angela Davis.

Once a pig-tailed Girl Scout from Birmingham, Ala., where her parents taught school, Angela Davis today is an Afro-coiffed Communist who believes with passion and cold historical analysis that revolution is inevitable.

She says she believes that, next to South Africa, America is the most racist country in the world; that racism and repression are rising and that, more than ever, America is receptive to socialist revolution and that Watergate helped sow the seeds.

"I'm going to be committed to the struggle as long as I live," she says. "There is no alternative. It would be like committing suicide to leave the struggle."

Tall, slender and gentle in manner, Angela Davis also is a private person who says she someday would like to teach again and earn her PhD in Emmanuel Kant's philosophy of violence.

She says she would like to live without police surveillance of her small home in a black working class neighborhood of East Oakland; to live without threats of death and violence.

She would like to go shopping without being recognized and asked for her autograph which she gives with the word "solidarity."

"I really would prefer to have someone else do all this," she says.

But those things must come later, if at all, for Angela Davis.

"You know," she said very softly, bending her head into shadow, "when I start thinking about all the things that I would really like to do, then I also reflect upon what might have happened if all the people involved in the movement for my freedom had decided they would do what they like, instead of making sacrifices."

The bond of gold and ivory circles the life of Angela Davis.

"History is moving in the direction we represent," she said during a rare interview. "In the end we know we are going to win... People are receptive to revolutionary ideas."

"Watergate," she said grimly, "has helped a great deal. We have been saying for years that there is an apparatus of repression used against political activists and people who express their opposition to government."

Wearing burgundy slacks, high-collared burgundy shirt and brown leather jacket, Ms. Davis (she prefers that title) arrived for the interview with two women friends who sat quietly by.

Her conversational voice is soft, level, deliberate, sometimes nearly inaudible, a Southern accent faintly discernible beneath the modulated speech of East Coast education.

Her words are carefully, precisely chosen. Again and again she speaks of historical inevitability. She might be addressing a class.

Angela 30, settled into a corner armchair, reached into a large leather purse and withdrew a small, well-polished pipe, puffing occasionally and gesturing in slow circles for emphasis.

"I took up smoking this pipe because I used to smoke four packs of cigarettes a day. Everyone asks me what's in it," she grinned, holding it up and filling the round bowl with tobacco.

The state of North Carolina and its prisons are a major national focus of the National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression. Ms. Davis calls it "The state which exhibits the most concentrated forms of repression in the country."

There are 50 people on Death Row in North Carolina, more than in any other state. This fall the U.S. Supreme Court will hear a challenge to the state's death penalty law.

"If a precedent is set there for executing human beings once more, it's going to happen all over the country," she adds.

"There's really not much to say about me," Angela Davis shrugged.

But her famous gap-toothed smile and extravagant Afro are recognized wherever she goes.

When she travels, people tell her a brother is in jail, a sister is in trouble, somebody needs a lawyer. Everyone needs help. "It just goes on and on," she says.

Angela leans forward, relights her pipe and puffs rapidly.

"People relate to me, not as an individual, not the way people relate to movie stars or someone like that," she laughs. "It's because of the sense of solidarity with the movement."

"If I didn't think there was going to be a revolution in this country, I wouldn't be doing what I'm doing," Angela Davis said.

And what would she be doing?

"I'd like to teach again and complete my PhD. Oh, I like a lot of things. I like to read. I like music. I like to attend concerts. I like to go to museums. I like to go to parties. I like to dance. I like to ride bicycles. I like to go to the movies."

Would a revolutionary, a feminist, like to get married and have children?

"I'd like to," Angela Davis said slowly, a little shyly, as though speaking of a distant goal. "But it's difficult to talk about that realistically when you don't even have the time to do the kinds of things that are conducive to meeting people that you would want to have children with."

"My first commitment is to the Alliance ... If in the context of my commitment to the struggle, I can find time to do the things I'd like to do ... then I will. But all that has to be secondary."

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The city that was home to aviator Charles A. Lindbergh, first person to fly the Atlantic solo, claims three other flying firsts.
St. Louis also was the scene of the first airplane flight west of the Mississippi (1909) and the first parachute jump (1912). And an aerospace firm here was the first to produce a manned orbiting spacecraft, the McDonnell Douglas Mercury, built in 1962.

All Mourned Over Passing Of Zeb Vance

By DR. H. G. JONES
Written for
The ASSOCIATED PRESS
CHAPEL HILL, N.C.(AP)—
The news swept the state: "Zeb is dead." There was never anything in North Carolina to compare with the outpouring of grief for the loss of one man. No wonder, then, that one newspaper described his last rites as "the saddest funeral that was ever seen."

Senator Zebulon Baina Vance was just short of his 64th birthday when he died in Washington, D. C., on April 14, 1894. Too young for a giant to die, his followers thought.

Zeb Vance had practically been weened on politics in his native Buncombe County. In Congress when Lincoln called for troops to suppress South Carolina in 1861, Vance rushed home and organized the "Rough and Ready Guards."

His subsequent military leadership boosted him to the governorship in 1862 at the age of 32. As governor he was about as much a thorn in the side of Confederate President Jefferson Davis as he had been to Union troops.

The South supposedly seceded because of his devotion to state's rights. Vance insisted, therefore, in the maintenance of the rights of his state in the Confederacy.

At the end of the war he was arrested and placed in the Old Capitol Prison in Washington. Upon his release he returned to practice law in Charlotte.

In 1876 he was again elected governor and energetically promoted the recovery of the state from the effects of war and a vengeful "reconstruction."

In 1879 he was sent to the United States Senate where, as a southerner without bitterness toward the North, he was one of the most influential men from the South.

Vance was not universally loved—certainly not by thousands of Republicans—but the devotion of his followers has probably never been matched by another North Carolinian.

They felt that Vance had redeemed them from the dark period of reconstruction and helped restore the self-respect of the state.

Upon news of Vance's death, mass meetings were called spontaneously around the state so that the people could honor their fallen leader. Even the great oratory of Vance was probably outshone by some of those who spoke in his honor.

Col. John C. Tipton told a Shelby meeting, "As a citizen I grieve with you, but my loss is greater, for when this grand old man is laid to rest in the land he loved, there will be buried my personal friend, by highest type of a statesman, one whom I loved."

The body of the dead senator was sent by train to Raleigh to lie in state in the Capitol. Long lines of citizens filed past. Then on April 17 the body was placed on a special train for Asheville.

At nearly every stop crowds met the train and were allowed to enter the funeral car, and even in the dark of the night the mountain people who lived near the tracks kept their lamps burning.

At Asheville, a procession of more than 10,000 persons formed, and thousands of others stood along the black-draped route from the train station to the Presbyterian Church and then to the cemetery. There were mounted police, military units, Washington dignitaries, state officials, and even a contingent from the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Charlotte Observer devoted four columns on the front page to the "Solemn Journey from the Table Lands to the Mountain Tops." It described the courthouse, with a huge portrait of Vance and marine signals hanging from the belfry spelling "We mourn for Zebulon Vance," and referred to the cemetery "around which the dirge-singing French Broad sweeps with majestic curve." It was a funeral unequalled in North Carolina history.

Conny Van Dyke Is Aiming High

By CRISTOPHER CABOT
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Singing and acting aren't enough for Conny Van Dyke.
She wants to blend her talents into that special amalgam — an all-round entertainer.

Her recent efforts have been both frenetic and successful.
She has played singing-acting lead roles in two motion pictures, made television guest appearances, performed in clubs from Florida to Reno and worked on her second album — all in the past year.

"I don't want to specialize," she insists. "I'm not more of a writer than a singer, or more of a singer than an actress. I like to do everything."

"My strongest point is that I'm just an entertainer."

Sitting on the rug at her suburban home, she held her hands, palms up, in front of her chin. She shook her blonde hair, smiled and raised one eyebrow — an expression of enthusiasm and a little insolence.

Larry Coates, her husband and manager, sat behind her.

"She can do anything," he said. "But, basically, we hope it will be a combination of singing and acting. There just isn't time for everything."

After years of modeling, dancing, filming commercials and playing minor television roles, Conny wound up in Nashville and recorded her first album last year.

Then, Twentieth Century Fox came to town to film "W.W. and the Dixie Dance Kings" starring Burt Reynolds. The producers were looking for local talent for the lead female role, Dixie, a country music singer.

"I just walked into the producer's office prepared to stay until I was interviewed for the part," Conny remembers. Persistence paid off, and she was given the part.

After "W.W.," Conny was chosen for another acting-singing lead role in a Paramount film, "Framed," starring Joe Don Baker. Both pictures will be released later this year.

"Dixie is country," Conny says. "She's young. She really wants to make it in country music. She's an innocent — a little on the wacky side and wears her emotions on her face.

"Susan Barrett in 'Framed' is completely different. She's a little on the worldly side. A mature girl who runs a club and who sings."

In both roles Conny put her singing talent to work. As Dixie she's a country music singer, but as Susan Barrett she sings the blues. The theme song from "Framed," "I'll Never Make It Easy," is the basis for a new album to be recorded by Dot Records.

After two major film roles, Conny says she's ready for more. Brimming with self confidence, she believes she can play any part.

"It's not the acting that is hard," she insists, "It's getting the part. It's finding the right role."

"I have this strange philosophy. I feel like I am — maybe any woman can say this — I am a combination of every female that's ever been born."

"I'm Helen of Troy. I'm Cleopatra. I'm Louisa May Alcott. I'm all of these. It took all of those women, all of those times and all of those errors to make now. And I am now."

"So I believe I am capable of playing any part."

Kenya Trains Peace Corps

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—
The entire training program for Peace Corps volunteers in Kenya is now run by Kenyans rather than by Americans.

Peace Corps director Bruce Mazzei, announcing this, said the Peace Corps in Kenya is the first in the world to turn the training responsibility over to the host country.

Under Kenyan administration and management, "the program is progressing exceptionally well, and I'm proud," Mazzei said.

The Peace Corps has more than 250 volunteers working in various parts of Kenya, mainly in teaching activities.

The lifespan of a chicken, if uninterrupted, would be 30 years.

$30 Million Oil Refinery

By BRAD SMITH
LOVINGTON, N.M. (UPI) — The largest oil refinery in New Mexico, which its owner calls the first new refinery to be built in the United States in five years, started production recently on the high, grassy plains of southeastern New Mexico.

Its owner, Walter Famariss, likes to think of the $30 million facility as an "energy refinery" and sees it as a partial answer toward energy self-sufficiency for the nation.

"What we have here is a bare piece of prairie where nothing was before and 14 months later you have a $30 million refinery," Famariss said in a telephone interview.

He says the Lovington refinery is the first refinery built in the nation "from scratch" in the past five years representing new oil production.

"There has been other refining capacity developed in the United States, especially since the energy crunch," Famariss says. "Some companies have hung a lot of hardware, adding equipment. But this is the first grass roots refinery."

The Famariss refinery, which began production during the summer and will be dedicated next month, has a capacity of 37,000 barrels of oil daily. That capacity, coupled with Famariss' other facility at Monument, N.M. (5,000 barrels), represents more than half of New Mexico's oil refining capacity.

All of the new refinery's production is being purchased by Southern Union Gas Co., which in turn will supply it to heavy industry. None of the production will go to residential or small business use.

That's why Famariss calls it an "energy refinery."

"We'll have nothing but burning fuels," he says. He says the cleaner burning natural gas is being given priority for residences and industry must shop around for other energy.

The Lovington refinery production fuels such industry as the large Phelps-Dodge copper facility at Tyrone, N.M., and will "energize" a new copper refinery being built in southwestern New Mexico.

Famariss thinks the nation must build more refineries to gain self-sufficiency, not just "hang hardware."

"What's wrong with the United States is that we are horribly short of machinery to manufacture petroleum products," he says. "I know we're very close to a daily use of petroleum products of 19 million barrels."

"Our refining capacity for many, many years —while the major oil companies built those mammoth foreign refineries —hung around 11 million barrels, jumped to 13 million and now they claim it is 14 million."

WORTH TWICE THE PRICE AND THIS IS THE REASON WHY...

Several years ago we went to a well known chair maker in Tennessee that had designed this handsome chair and asked him if he could furnish us with all the chairs we wanted. His answer—NO—WHY—because each one of his chairs is an individual project like the hand-crafted hardwood frame of seasoned oak carefully fitted together to stay. Then there is the matter of springs that are flexible, yet strong, installed by hand. The thickness of the soft cotton and foam padding must be just right for comfort. It takes a person years to learn to install the pliable vinyl upholstery that is charming because of perfection. The base of the chair consists of four angle legs attached to a special plate that allows the chair to swivel and rock—So all we can do is just wait until he approves a chair for sale—and then buy all he can make—we have stockpiled one truck load for this event. You will find all the most wanted colors.
