"Consistent" Anti-Inflation Program To Be Announced

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford, closing his economic summit conference, announced today he will lay before the nation within the next ten days "a coherent and consistent program" to over come inflation.

Ford helicoptered to the Washington Hilton Hotel to announce his plans from the Bethesda naval hospital where his wife, Betty, underwent surgery for removal of a cancerous right breast earlier in the day.

The concern about the president's personal troubles was apparent among the 800 delegates and 700 guests at the massive meeting. At the urging of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., himself the cured victim of bladder cancer, the participants—a cross-section of the leadership of America—rose in silent meditation before Ford's arrival.

In his address, Ford announced three steps he was taking immediately:

—The creation of a 16-member White House labor-management committee to give him advice "man to man and face to face." Among its members are AFL-CIO President George Meany, leaders of other unions and executives of Alcoa, General Electric, General Motors, Mobil Oil, Sears Roebuck, the First National City Bank of New York, and U. S. Steel.

—The consolidation of all federal domestic and international economic efforts under a new economic Policy Board chaired by Treasury Secretary William L. Simon.

The appointment of Princeton economist Albert Rees as director of the recently-created Council on Wage and Price Stability which is to monitor the economy in an attempt to curb excessive wage and price increase.

Earlier today, defense Secretary James B. Schlesinger warned that the defense budget cannot be made the victim of the federal spending cuts which most delegates appeared to favor as an anti-inflation tool.

One Hostage Escapes, Wounded

Captors Extend Ransom Deadline

By MIGUEL GUERRERO

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI) — One of the hostages held by leftist guerillas under a death threat in the occupied Venezuelan Consulate escaped Saturday but was critically wounded in the chest, Dominican police sources said.

The guerrillas, holding U.S. diplomat Barbara Hutchison and at least five other hostages, extended their deadline for the release of 37 political prisoners and payment of a $1 million ransom from noon to 5 p.m. EDT.

Miss Hutchison, in a telephone interview taped in Spanish by Radio Cristal, said in a strained voice she did not think the United States would pay $1 million for her release.

Guerrilla leader Radames Mendez Vargas said in a telephone interview shortly after noon that if his demands were not met by the deadline he would "act according to the circumstances."

He said that a Japanese captive fled through a window after asking permission to go to the bathroom. He did not mention any shooting.

Police sources said the man, variously identified as Pablo Caho, a Japanese, or Pablo Chao, of Chinese descent, was shot in the chest by the guerrillas. He was later rushed to a military hospital by troops surrounding the occupied consulate, the sources said.

He was reported by police to be in critical condition.

"We are hungry, that's one problem," she said. "The lights and water are cut off."

Later she sent a frantic telex message to U.S. Ambassador Robert Hurwitch asking him to head off a police rush at the building, which she said was imminent. Hurwitch telexed her back that he had been assured no such action was contemplated "for the time being".

Police ordered re-establishment of telephone service to the consulate Saturday morning as the first execution deadline approached. Authorities disconnected the lines Friday night.

Venezuelan Consul Jesus de Gregoria, one of the captives, pleaded for a doctor to treat one of the persons inside who had suffered injuries, but it was not immediately clear who that person was.

The guerrillas said they numbered 23, but only six were known to have been seen inside the consulate.

In addition to Hutchison and the Venezuelan consul, the guerrillas are holding the vice consul, two secretaries, and a Spanish priest who was visiting the consulate by chance when the guerrillas burst in.

The guerrillas have identified themselves as members of the pro-Castro Jan. 12 Liberation Movement, named for the 1972 date of a gunfight between leftist extremists and police.

The group occupied the Venezuelan consulate after kidnaping Miss Hutchison shortly before noon Friday.

Mendez Vargas, a skyjacker who was freed from prison by presidential pardon two years ago for alleged failing health, said the building was mined and would be blown up if troops rushed it.

Watergate Trial Set

By WESLEY G. PIPPERT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some time around 9:30 a.m. EDT Tuesday, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica will bang his gavel to begin the long-awaited Watergate cover-up trial.

Despite all the advance hullabaloo, the trial may turn out to be little more than a footnote in the history books. Less than two months ago, it might have been the trial of the century.

But now the star witness, Richard M. Nixon—named an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up by a grand jury—has resigned the presidency and is in the seclusion of hospital bed 3,000 miles away.

His lawyers suggest he is too ill to testify at the trial of six of his former White House and campaign aides, or to answer questions the lawyers say only he can answer about their innocence or guilt.

More than any of these, the former President, an unindicted co-conspirator in the case, will be the center of attention.

Since Nixon received full pardon from President Ford on Sept. 8, the trial may provide the fullest airing of whatever his role was.

Israel Shells Lebanon

By United Press International

Israeli artillery staged unusually heavy shelling attacks on two separate village regions of south Lebanon Saturday, killing two civilians and wounding a number of others, Lebanese reports said.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli military sources confirmed that Israeli artillery batteries fired into Lebanese territory during the day, but said shelling was a preventive action against would-be Palestinian infiltrators.

On the Jordanian frontier, Israel said, an Israeli Patrol foiled a second Arab guerrilla attempt within a week to capture hostages in exchange for the release of imprisoned comrades.

The Lebanese defense ministry said that in the first bombardment, on the outskirts of the border of village of Aita el-Shaab. "Lebanese citizen Ali Mohammed Jawad and his wife were killed and a number of other citizens wounded."

Local newsmen identified Jawad as a 35-year-old farmer and said his wife, Zeinab, was aged 35.

The attack on Aita el-Shaab, just one mile from the Israeli border and frequent target of Israeli artillery attacks and commando raids in recent years, started at 10 a.m. and lasted 10 minutes.

Later, between 4 p.m. and 4:45 p.m. Israeli shells pounded into the outskirts of four villages in the Arakoub region, about 30 miles northwest of Aita el-Shaab, witnesses reported.

This region has been the target of repeated Israeli air and artillery attacks over a period of months. The most recent air attacks were on Tuesday and Wednesday.

In October

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N. C. (UPI) — Wrightsville Beach Chamber of Commerce President Bob Pentz says vacationers visiting this coastal resort town can enjoy two full moons in October.

It's the only month in 1974 offering two full moons —on the 1st and 30th.

"That's two for one, and in these days of rising prices, that's a bargain," Pentz noted.

Robbery

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Police were left with hardly a clue Saturday to a $1 million bank robbery, biggest in Nevada history, pulled by a three-man team working precisely under cover of a Shriners parade on casino row.

"Right now we have absolutely nothing except a few skinny leads," a detective said. "If you get any information, I'll be glad to listen to you."

Two Dead, 7 Injured

WILLIAMSTON—A spokesman for the North Carolina Highway Patrol Office in Williamston confirmed that two persons were killed and seven injured in a headon collision last night on N. C. 903 about nine miles north of Hamilton.

The spokesman could not furnish further information on the accident.

To Use Dangerous Material

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission is about to precipitate a national crisis with a decision to allow the nuclear power industry to use plutonium as fuel, say two senators and a group of scientists.

"This is perhaps the most dangerous single product known to man," Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said Friday at a joint news conference with Sen. Philip S. Hart, D-Mich.

They said the commercial use of plutonium could dramatically increase the dangers of cancer and terrorist activities.

J. Gustave Speth, a scientist with the Natural Resources Defense Council, said an atomic bomb could be fashioned from a grapefruit-sized lump of plutonium with comparatively little technical difficulty.

Storm Over Picture Price

The Australian government bought the painting "Woman V" by naturalized Dutch-American painter Willem de Kooning from collector Ruth Culbert Rosenberg of Chicago, who reportedly bought it for about $280,000 in 1953.

Gives Employees His Money

LONDON (AP) — Douglas McMinn turned his small store into a million dollar business in 28 years. Now, he has sold his firm for about $3.6 million and has decided to give his 205 employes most of the money.

"I was born broke and that's the way I'm going to die," said McMinn, 63. "Any success I had is almost entirely due to the men and women who have stuck by me all these years."

He said he planned to give the workers $2.4 million from the sale of his firm, which markets everything from nails to heavy industrial equipment. The remainder would go to charity.

Lunch Hour Belly Dancing

HONOLULU (AP) — A Greek belly dancer, complete with see-through veils, treated a lunch hour crowd in Honolulu's financial district to some sinuous gyrations Friday.

It was all part of a program to bring working people in the downtown area together and have some good old fashioned fun, said fashion designer Jolen Farkas, who heads a merchants' group that staged the event.

"It's our plan to bring a lot more fun to the downtown area, you know, kind of like the old block parties of the '50s and '60s," she said.

Leroy James Chairman Of Pitt County UF Division

Leroy James, agent with the Pitt Argicultural Extension Service, will coordinate the Pitt County Division of the United Fund this year as county chairman.

Hugh Bazemore, overall campaign chairman, announced that James has agreed to serve as head of the important county segment of the United Fund.

"We are very pleased to have Mr. James associated with our drive this year," the campaign chairman observed. "His organization brings him in contact with people throughout our county, and he is certainly a natural for this postion."

James announced the chairmen who have volunteered their services for individual town and community UF functions. The town chairmen include: Delyle Evans, Ayden; Joe Butterworth, Bethel; Frank Lawrence, Farmville; Miss Beatrice Moore, Falkland; Clifton Gentry, Grifton; Joyce Andrews, Grimesland; Mrs. Hattie Thompson, Simpson; Judy Warren, Stokes; and Tommy Langston, Winterville.

LEROY JAMES

The county head said that chairman for Fountain, Pactolus and Bell Arthur are yet to be announced.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. James of Hertford County, James attended A&T State University in Greensboro, graduating in 1957 with his B.S. degree in animal husbandry. He earned his M.S. degree in agricultural education from A&T in 1971.

A Mason and Shriner, he currently serves on the board of trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital and is a member of the hospital's memorial gifts committee.

James and his wife, Bettye, and 15-year-old child attend Sycamore Hill Baptist Church were he is a director of religious education and a deacon.

James, who has served as an extension agent for some 17 years, worked in Goldsboro for approximatley three and a half years before moving to Greenville.

Prospects For Mrs. Betty Ford

By HELEN THOMAS

UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surgeons removed Betty Ford's cancerous right breast plus surrounding lymph and muscle tissue Friday and said prospects for recovery seem "favorable", but they could not yet be sure whether the cancer had spread further.

President Ford, shaken and somber, said he was optimistic his wife would pull through. "Our faith will sustain us," he said.

"The general prognosis is favorable," said Navy Capt. William Fouty, one of two surgeons who performed the sudden, three-hour operation on the 56-year-old First Lady Saturday morning after laboratory tests confirmed that a three-quarter inch breast tumor was malignant.

Fouty said he and Dr. J. Richard Thistlethwaite had seen no other cancerous tissue during the operation, known as a "standard massive mastectomy," at Bethesda Naval Medical Hospital, but he added: "One cannot make the statement that she is relieved of all malignancy.

"I don't have microscopic eyes. I cannot tell if there was tumor in the lymphoid tissue."

He said it would take several days of laboratory tests of tissue removed from Mrs. Ford's chest and underarm area to determine whether the cancer had spread to the lymph system.

But both doctors stressed at a news conference that the breast cancer had been caught at an early stage, improving Mrs. Ford's chances of recovery, and said she had come through the operation strong and in good spirits.

Water On Benefit Menu

SEATTLE (AP) — It was the typical table setting at the Olympic Hotel, with candles casting a warm glow throughout the ornate dining room.

But instead of veal cordon bleu or chicken Kiev or roast leg of lamb, the menu Friday included Chad Kabob ($6.95), Senegal Souffle ($10.95), Scalloped Sudan ($12.95) and Marinated Mauritania ($4.95). And regardless of what he ordered, each diner got only a glass of cold water.

King's Garden, a local charitable organization, staged the "Cup of Cold Water Luncheon" to raise money for food shipments to famine-stricken nations in Asia and Africa.

About 75 persons attended the luncheon, donating the amount specified for each item on the special menu. Organizers of the affair said donations from major food companies made it possible for each $10 in donations to provide 1,600 meals for starving persons.

Six Day Pitt County Fair Opens Tomorrow

By BLANCHE HARDEE

Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Agricultural Fair will open Monday for a six-day run in Greenville. The event is sponsored each year by the American Legion posts in Pitt County.

According to fair manager, S. C. Winchester, an unusual feature of this year's fair will be an exhibit of more than 200 farming and homemaking tools of yesteryear.

"Among the antiques pieces, some up to 300 years old, is a froe which was brought to America from England more than 250 years ago," Winchester said. A froe is a metal wedge used for splitting logs used to make handmade shingles.

Also featured among the antiques is a cotton planter which looks like a rolling drum with holes punched in it.

The antique items will be displayed next to an information booth which will be manned by people involved in "Greenville 200."

Another new feature this year will be special events for senior citizens, preschool children and handicapped children. Wednesday morning from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. has been designated as Senior Citizens Day; Thursday from 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. is preschool children's day; and Friday, 9:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. will be handicapped children's day.

"Special events and demonstrations have been planned for these groups by the local police department, fire department, rescue squad and Pitt County Community Health Service. Special music will be presented Wednesday morning for the senior citizens," Winchester said. "The kiddie rides will be open Thursday morning for the preschool children and some rides will be open Friday morning for the handicapped children."

Winchester said there will be 42 educational displays in the main exhibit hall. Exhibits will feature safety in the home, at work and at play.

Winchester said $4,200 will be offered in premium money this year.

Other exhibit hall displays include field crops, horticulture, eggs, crafts, poultry, pantry items (such as canned fruits and vegetables and preserves), homebaked products and floral displays.

Exhibitors must have their products entered and ready for exhibition by 5 p.m. Monday. Cut flowers may be brought in for exhibit as late as Tuesday morning.

Judging of the educational displays will begin Tuesday at 8:30 a.m.

The swine show and judging will begin Tuesday at 9 a.m. and the livestock judging and exhibit will include beef cattle, 1 p.m. and dairy cattle at 2 p.m. that same day.

Monday night will be "ladies night" and ladies will be admitted free until 8 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday will be observed as school children days. Children will not be given free passes this year but will be admitted at half price at the gate.

Thursday is East Carolina University Day and Pitt Technical Institute Day. Students from these two schools will be admitted to the grounds for half-price Thursday upon presentation of their school identification card.

Winchester said the fairgrounds open each day about 2 p.m.

Four Cars, Bicycle In Chain Reaction Mishap

Four cars and a bicycle were damaged in a Saturday traffic accident—and none of the cars had drivers.

Calvin Russell Gurganus was working on a 1966 Mercury near the intersection of Grand Avenue and Tenth St. when he accidentally knocked the car into gear.

The car rolled backward over a bicycle owned by Kathy Lee of 913 College View Place, causing $25 in damages. The car kept going, next hitting a 1971 Volkswagen owned by Ernest David Horne of Wilmington, with damages estimated at $600.

Finally, the car owned by Lee hit a 1971 Chevrolet owned by Atlantic Discount of Wilson, Incorporated, damages to that car were estimated at $100.

Gurganus was charged with failing to set the brakes and stop the engine of the car he was working on.

Two Accidents Investigated

One person was charged and damages totaled $1,025 in two weekend accidents investigated by the Greenville Police Department.

Adrian Smith Lineburger, III, of Fairfax Station, Va., was charged with failure to see safe movement in a Saturday accident at the intersection of E. Tenth St. and Oak St. Damages to his car were estimated at $350.

Also involved in the accident was Ella Hardee White of Route 3, Greenville. Damages to her car were estimated at $75.

No charges were filed in a Friday accident at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Sylvan Dr. Involved in the accident were Alonza Eugene Manning of Route 1, Grimesland and Howard Earl Mills of Route 3, Greenville.

Damages were estimated at $400 to the Manning car and $200 to the car driven by Mills.

Injuries Reported In Two Local Accidents Friday

Greenville Police investigated two traffic accidents Friday, both, according to police records, involved personal injuries.

Nila Bruno Osborne remains in Pitt Memorial Hospital after she suffered serious injuries in a motorcycle accident late Friday night at the intersection of 10th and Elm St. Kenneth Carraway of Hillcrest Trailer Court in Greenville, the driver of the Honda, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Carraway's motorcycle was in a collision with a car driven by Jed Mack Leazer of 819 E. Fourth St., Washington. Leazer was charged with a safe movement violation.

Damages to the motorcycle was estimated at $1,500. Damages to Leazer's car were estimated at $400.

Archie Lynn Bailey of 113 Chipaway St., Greenville, was charged with following too close in an accident Friday at the intersection of E. Tenth St. and Jefferson Drive. He and a passenger, Mary Wall of ECU, were slightly injured and taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital and later released. Damages to Bailey's car were estimated at $600.

Also involved in the wreck was Melbourne Dail Lewis of Pine View Trailer Park. Damages to his car were estimated at $500.

Food Stamp Program Subject Of Meeting

RALEIGH — Local workers in PROJECT REACH will meet Wednesday, October 3 at the Allied Health Building, ECU University, Charles Street, for an orientation session on the Department of Human Resources program to extend the food stamp program to more eligible citizens.

The Greenville meeting will cover the counties contained in the Department's Region IV — Beaufort, Berite, Brunswick, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Columbus, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Duplin, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Halifax, Hertford, Hyde, Jones, Lenoir, Martin, Nash, New Hanover, Northampton, Onslow, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Pender, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell, Washington, Wayne and Wilson Counties. The orientation sessions will last from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Local volunteer participation has been a key part of PROJECT REACH throughout the planning. Human Resources Secretary David Flaherty stressed that involvement when he revealed the formal plans recently "We need all the local support possible," Flaherty said. "The response from all areas of business, civic and church groups has been outstanding — now we need to keep up the pace and get this response channeled into action."

The regional meetings will involve county coordinators who will conduct the activities. The orientation will include instructions in how the food stamp program works, how to set up group contacts and work with groups already interested in the program. In some areas transportation pools will be established, others expect to mount door to door canvasses and pamphlet distribution.

PROJECT REACH is expected to extend the food stamp program to 500,000 eligible recipients by the end of February. The plan is to continue past that time to reach 100 percent participation by those eligible during fiscal year 1976.

Conducting the meetings will be representatives from the Social Services Division of the Department of Human Resources, and local Social Services Departments.

Holshouer Claims No Confidentiality Violation

RALEIGH (AP)—Because no state law was violated, Gov. Jim Holshouser refused Friday to order an investigation of the Department of Revenue to determine whether anyone had released information from state tax records.

In a news conference, Holshouser said it wouldn't be against the law or violate the Revenue Department's confidentiality for an employe to say whether an individual had filed a return.

Holshouser had been asked by Democratic attorney general candidate Rufus Edmisten to open the investigation. Edmisten had said it was likely that someone in the Revenue Department had violated the agency's confidentiality.

The Republican governor, however, said the call for an investigation was a political red herring aimed at taking attention away from Edmisten's problems. He also said he didn't think Edmisten's charge was true.

Tuesday night during a debate between Edmisten and his Republican opponent, Atty. Gen. James Carson, a Carson campaign workers asked Edmisten if he had filed state income taxes while working for a decade in Washington for Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C. Edmisten admitted that he hadn't and said he didn't know he should.

Carson then accused Edmistion of breaking North Carolina law and said Edmisten is liable for criminal and civil prosecution. State Revenue Commissioner Howard Coble is looking into that matter and Wake Dist. Atty. Burley Mitchell said he would prosecute his fellow Democrat if Edmisten had broken the law.

During Friday's news conference Holshouser gave reporters a copy of an opinion signed by two Democratic attorneys in the Department of Justice—James Bullock and Harry McGalliard. They said state law prohibited disclosure of information from tax records but didn't forbid someone learning whether an individual had filed a tax form.

Edmisten said he didn't file North Carolina tax returns because he lived in the Washington suburb of Alexandria, Va., and paid Virginia income taxes. He maintained a legal residence in North Carolina, voted in Watauga County and paid tax on property he owned.

Holshouser said Edmisten was guilty of willful tax evasion or ignorance of the law. "I'm willing to give him the benefit of the doubt and say the mistake was one of honest ignorance," he said.

Prior to the governor's news conference, Edmisten said he was guilty of only a "technical violation" and would do whatever necessary to settle the matter.

Holshouser said it would cost Edmisten thousands of dollars to close the case. He said Edmisten's income was earned in Washington, not in Virginia, so the candidate should have paid income tax in North Carolina and claimed a credit against the Virginia tax. He noted that North Carolina's tax rate is higher than Virginia's.

The governor said Edmisten must pay the 10 years of back taxes, interest and penalties to North Carolina then file for a refund from Virginia based on his paying the tax in Virginia.

Building Slump Continues

RALEIGH (AP)—Further decline in building activity in North Carolina was reported by Commissioner of Labor Billy Creel Friday.

Creel said building permits issued in 38 North Carolina cities declined last month for the eighth consecutive month.

The labor commissioner said the figures indicate continuation of a building slump which has been in evidence since the middle of last year.

Creel's report showed $44 million dllars worth of building permits were issued by the 38 cities in August as compared with $73 million in August of last year.

Suit Against Prayer

GREENSBORO (AP)—An American Civil Liberties Union attorney says he will file suit in federal court to have a motorist's prayer removed from state maps issued by the Department of Transportation.

Norman Smith said he would file the suit in about 10 days, charging that the prayer violates the separation of church and state.

Smith's statement came Friday after Transportation Secretary Troy Doby said the prayer would stay.

Of No Significant Value

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—A study of the North Carolina Ports Authority by the Research Triangle Institute wasn't sufficiently complete to be of significant value in long range planning, Ports Director Ray Watts said Friday.

The study and its recommendations were reviewed by the North Carolina Ports Authority and tentatively accepted Friday during a meeting at New Bern. Final consideration of the report will be given at the authority's October meeting.

Scott Blasts Administration

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)— Former Gov. Bob Scott has accused the Holshouser Administration of an unprecedented misuse of power in refusing to order an investigation of the Revenue Department.

Scott's blast was leveled in a speech Friday night, after Gov. Jim Holshouser announced that he would not ask the State Bureau of Investigation to determine if confidential tax records were leaked.

The controversy stemmed from an admission by Democratic attorney general candidate Rufus Edmisten that he had not filed a North Carolina income tax return in 10 years.

Several prominent Democrats had called for an investigation of the Revenue Department to determine if Edmisten's tax records were provided illegally to GOP strategists.

Challenge On Art Building

RALEIGH (AP)—Because of the pending legal challenge, the state Art Museum Building Commission said it doesn't know how much construction will be possible at the site of the museum near Raleigh.

Architects were directed Friday to plan erosion control of an area already graded at the site. That was the commission's only action in toward resuming construction during its meeting Friday.

Thursday, a restraining order against the construction project was lifted in Wake Superior Court. The commission was sued and the order to stop work at the site was issued earlier this month.

Advocates of putting the building downtown Raleigh filed the suit with the hope that construction could be delayed long enough for the General Assembly to consider the issue when it convenes in January.

One Dead In Boat Collision

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C. (AP)—William D. Wren, 47, of Wilmington, was killed Saturday when his boat collided head-on with another vessel in the inland waterway, authorities reported.

Wren, a Henderson, N.C., native, drowned around 4:30 a.m. after his 12-foot boat sunk. Witnesses said Wren and Samuel Daughtry, 36, of Wilmington, were thrown from the boat when it collided with a 25-foot vessel.

Daughtry was tossed a line and rescued by the other boat. Authorities said the operator of the larger boat, Jeffert L. Earp of Wrightsville Beach, jumped into the water and tried to help Wren, but could not find him in the darkness.

Called The Most Do Nothing

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP)—Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter Saturday called North Carolina Republican Congressman Earl Ruth "the most donothing member of Congress with a totally negative record who has never done anything to improve the quality of life for the people."

Carter was in Southern Pines to support the candidacy of Concord businessman Bill Hefner, a Democrat running against Ruth. Ruth is seeking is fourth two-year term in the House of Representatives.

4 Dead In S. C. Crash

GREER, S.C. (UPI) — Four Woodruff residents were killed late Friday night in a car-train collision described by officils as one of the worst in recent years here.

Officials said the four died when their car was cut in half by a Southern Railway passenger train, traveling west through Greer Friday night.

The victims were identified as Lewis Simmons, 17, Deborah Simmons, 16, Michael McDaneil, 30, and Barbara McDaniel, 30, all of Woodruff.

Can Bump White Men

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A federal court has ordered the American Tobacco Co. and union officials to allow blacks and women to bump white men who advanced to better jobs with less seniority.

The ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. was believed to be the first time a court has sanctioned demotions in a civil rights case.

Bryan, in a ruling made public Friday, found the Tobacco Workers' International Union, its Local 182 and American Tobacco's two Richmond plants guilty of race and sex discrimination in violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Bryan said the company must stop hiring and promoting white male supervisors and adjust pension and profit-sharing plans in order to stop discrimination.

Nixon Resting

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former President Nixon was reported resting comfortably Saturday as he prepared for another week of hospital tests aimed at dissolving his blood clots and finding the cause of his phletbitis.

For the first time since Nixon entered Long Beach Memorial Hospital six days ago, there were no medical bulletins on his condition and none were scheduled until Monday unless new complications arise.

Possible surgery on the former President to remove a dime-sized flood clot on his lung was ruled out Friday

35,000 Auto Workers To Lose Jobs Soon

DETROIT (UPI) — More than 35,000 auto workers assembling the last of the 1974 model cars and trucks have been told that strikes will force them off their jobs in the next two weeks.

And if General Motors corp., the giant of the industry, carries out its warning to sharply curtail production, the unemployed figure could exceed 200,000 by the end of next week.

The most critical strike is at Arvin Industries Inc. at Franklin, Ind., which produces catalytic converters and exhaust systems for the auto industry.

The news came as the industry neared the end of a production year that saw overall car production fall 1.8 million from the record set by 1973 models.

American Motors Corp., the smallest of the Big Four carmakers, stopped most production Sept. 16 when the United Auto Workers struck over a new national contract.

AMC said Friday it will lay off 1,200 more workers at its Jeep subsidiary in Toledo, Ohio, where 2,400 others already have been idled by the walkout of 15,000 UAW members in Wisconsin and Ontario.

Chrysler Corp. said it plans to lay off about 18,800 workers over the next two weeks, and Ford Motor Co. said it would idle another 15,250 starting Monday.

Ford already has laid off 10,000 workers in Ontario, New Jersey, Kentucky and Michigan.

GM said it may close many of its plants next week, but would could make no decision until mid-week.

General Motors faces problems because of a strike at its Delco-Remy division in Anderson, Ind., where 14,000 workers walked off the job on Wednesday in a local contract dispute.

Industry analysts said production in the final week should reach 175,106 cars, compared with 207,422 built in the final week of last year.

The major carmakers built 7.53 million cars in 1973, but production this year will go no higher than 5.65 million, analysts said.

The major reason for the drop was the impact of the energy crisis on the sale of large and medium sized cars. The sales slump led to sharp cuts in production and indefinite layoffs for tens of thousands of workers.

Billion Dollar Rockefeller Tour

By DON LAMBRO

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backed by a retinue of lawyers, accountants and assorted aides befitting a multimillionaire politician, Vice Presidential nominee Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently convinced the Senate Rules Committee that it is possible to be rich and honest at the same time.

Gulping throat lozenges to soothe a raspy throat, Rockefeller delivered a virtuoso performance as he led the committee's members through a billion dollar tour of his family's enormous wealth.

He was asked about almost everything from school prayer to relations with Cuba to where he would live as vice president.

During nearly three full days on the witness stand he displayed a store of knowledge on many issues, particularly economic ones. He discussed the problems he encountered in trying to raise a blight-resisant strain of rice in South America, quoted from the Federalist Papers, and discussed a 2500-year-old book by a Chinese scholar on "The Art of War."

But the questioning focused primarily on Rockefeller's money.

"What assurances do we have," asked a doubting Sen. Robert Byrd, W. Va., "That when faced with a conflict between the national interest and private interests, you will decide in the national interest?"

"Solely my integrity and my record," Rockefeller replied firmly.

In his first day on the stand the 66-year-old former New York governor insisted it was a "myth" that he and his family controlled major industries

Honor Leaders

By HAROLD HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (AP) — Some 100 Indians, most of them young, erected a large tepee at the edge of the tiny village of Porcupine Saturday for a celebration honoring leaders of the occupation of nearby Wounded Knee.

The main celebration on the Pine Ridge Reservation was planned for Saturday night at the Porcupine site. Porcupine is the hometown of Russell Means, an Olgala Sioux and one of the two defendants in a recently ended trial in U. S. District Court, in St. Paul, Minn.

The trial ended with dismissal of charges against Means and Dennis Banks, a Minnesota Chippewa. The two American Indian Movement (AIM) leaders had been accused of several felony charges growing out of the 1973 armed occupation of Wounded Knee.

Oglala Sioux Tribal Chairman Richard Wilson, a longtime AIM opponent, has said he's assembled a special tribal police force to keep order this weekend. Wilson declared martial law under a tribal regulation

Considering Action Against Recruiters

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—An Army recruiting commander says he is considering courts martials for at least six recruiters following charges of irregularities within the Charlotte Recruiting District.

Lt. Col. Richard Marshall said Friday that 12 recruiters assigned to the North Carolina cities of Asheville, Kannapolis and Winston-Salem had been suspended.

"It appears right now that I will recommend special courts martial for six of the 12, with the strong possibility of courts martial for three others," Marshall said. "In addition, I'll probably recommend administrative action against three other personnel."

The suspensions followed an investigation by the Army Criminal Investigation Division begun in 1973. The investigation centered around charges that recruiters falsified birth certificates, parental consent forms, police record checks and high school certifications in order to circumvent Army enlistment requirements.

No Consistent Pattern In Payment Of N. C. State Taxes

RALEIGH (AP)—A number of North Carolinians who maintain their Tar Heel residency but work in Washington could well be in the same fix Rufus Edmisten is in, a survey by The Associated Press showed Friday.

Some of those who work for members of the North Carolina congressional delegation do what the Democratic nominee for attorney general and former congressional aide says he did. They pay state income taxes where they live even though they maintain their legal residence in North Carolina.

Others do what Atty. Gen. James Carson, Edmisten's Republican opponent, says Edmisten should have done. If they maintain their legal residence and vote in North Carolina, they file North Carolina income tax returns even if they also have to file and pay in other states.

Republican Rep. James G. Martin's administrative assistant James S. Lofton said he resides in Virginia but files a North Carolina income tax return. "We made an effort to find out," Lofton said. "We foundout from a certified public accountant that we had to file in North Carolina."

Ted Daniel, an aide to Democratic Rep. L.H. Fountain, said he maintains his legal residence in Raleigh but lives in Maryland. He said he pays his state income taxes to the state of Maryland and does not file a return in North Carolina. "I have never heard of any requirement to file down there," Daniel said, adding, "If there is a requirement, of course I will."

Clint Fuller, executive assistant to Republican Sen. Jesse Helms, said he maintains his legal residence at Louisburg, N.C., and lives in Virginia. "I pay in both places. I file in North Carolina and I file in Virginia. I deduct from my North Carolina taxes what I pay to Virginia," he said.

Pat Shore, administrative assistant to Democratic Sen. Sam Ervin, said she lives in the District of Columbia but votes in East Bend, N.C. She said she filed a North Carolina tax return for a number of years but for the last few years has filed only a District of Columbia return. She said she had never asked for a ruling.

Don Wills, administrative aide to Republican Rep. James Broyhill, said he lives in the District of Columbia but keeps his legal residence in Asheville where he votes. "I pay all my state income taxes to North Carolina," Wills said.

Tom Lambeth, administrative assistant to Democratic Rep. Richardson Preyer, says he maintains his legal residence in Raleigh while renting an apartment in Virginia.

"I have always filed and paid my state income taxes in North Carolina," Lambeth said. He said he moved his family to Virginia for about two years at one time and during that period filed and paid state taxes to both North Carolina and Virginia.

Lambeth said he consulted North Carolina tax authorities and was told that the law is uncertain. "I found so much confusion that I decided to file in both places," he said.

Lambeth said Bernice Pruitt, Preyer's appointments secretary, maintans her legal resident in North Carolina and has an apartment in the District of Columbia. Lambeth said she pays her income taxes in North Carolina and is not required to pay in Washington

Miriam Dorsey, a case worker in Preyer's office, said she keeps her legal residence in Raleigh and pays her state income taxes to the District of Columbia. She said she does not file a return in North Carolina.

"I was told by people up here that I did not have to file in North Carolina," she said. "If I am supposed to file returns down there, I will be glad to do it."

Floyd Lupton, administrative aide to Democratic Rep. Walter Jones, said he resides in the District of Columbia while maintaining his legal residence in Belhaven, N.C. He said he pays his state income taxes to North Carolina and is not required to pay in the district.

Margaret Sugg, administrative aide to Democratic Rep. Ike Andrews, said she maintains her legal residence and votes in Raleigh. She said she files and pays income taxes to the District of Columbia and doesn't file a return in North Carolina. She said she had not asked anyone about it and the question has "never even come up."

Flaws In Bypassing 2nd Year

The faults in UNC Medical School Dean Christopher Fordhams plan for skipping the sophomore year development at the ECU Medical School were very obvious.

Fortunately, the UNC planners have dropped their plans for bypassing the development of the second year of medical school at ECU and as a result another bitter fight has been avoided for the time being.

The bypassing of the second year plan was announced by Dr. William Cromartie, acting director of the ECU program, recently. It called for beginning a student's medical education while still in undergraduate work at ECU. The student would then have moved into the first year of medical school at ECU, then gone on to UNC for the second and third year and then returned to ECU for his final training. All along, the emphasis would have been on family practice and rural medicine, and disavantaged students would have been recruited.

The plan clearly bypassed the second year of medical school at ECU and rightfully raised an uproar. Subsequently Dean Fordham announced that the approach of developing the first two years of medical school at ECU was receiving the prime consideration again.

That, of course, is pleasing to all of us who have fought so long for the very logical development of the ECU Medical School through the first two years.

It would not be amiss, however, to note that Dean Fordham's plan wasn't all bad. Identifying the medical students during their undergraduate years and directing them into courses which would prepare them for rural and small town practice makes considerable sense. If the students that are chosen were from small towns and rural areas it would also be less difficult for them to adjust to small town life once their medical educations are completed. The students could then take their first two years of medical education at ECU, go to Chapel Hill for the third year, and possibly remain identified for return to Eastern AHECs for senior year clinical work.

It could be a very good and unique plan for developing physicians who would be happy to engage in family practice in the rural and small town areas. Certainly such students would always have to be chosen with basic ability in mind so that they could successfully complete the rigorous medical training. Still there are many people who genuinely like small town life and among them must be a reasonable number who are eminently qualified for medical school.

China's Love Is Illusion

By CHARLES R. SMITH
UPI Senior Editor

HONG KONG (UPI) — In China, love is a proletarian thing.

Love, according to the Thought of Mao Tse-tung, is only an illusion that must be subordinated to the needs of society.

And this means late marriage, based on planning and political ideology rather than impetuousness and puppy love.

Although the legal age of consent under China's marriage law is 18 for women and 20 for men, the "suggested" ages under the campaign for late marriages are from 25 to 27 for women and 27 to 30 for men.

Young people, Communist party directives say, should not be carried away with emotions and the illusion of love or that a hasty marriage brings happiness.

"It is impermissible to define happiness in a general or abstract manner or to look for answers to the question of happiness from the individual viewpoint," one commentary on late marriage said. "The word happiness cannot be discussed abstractly. Happiness is a historical notion and has a historical and class content...It is therefore necessary to sacrifice the interests of the individual to the interests of the whole."

"We must foster the proletarian concept of love," a resolution adopted by the Congress said. "Both young men and women must link their own ideal and future with the construction of a socialist new countryside.

"It is necessary to practice late marriage and planned parenthood so that vigorous energy can be concentrated on grasping revolution and promoting production.

"The promotion of late marriage and planned parenthood is in itself a revolution in society which aims at changing

Overlook Higher Prices

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The high price of gasoline is not keeping North Carolinians from buying.

During the shortage earlier this year, a variety of experts predicted that if gasoline went up in price considerable, motorists would stop using so much.

With the per-gallon price now running somewhere between 50 and 60 cents per gallon, depending on location, compared to 30 and 40 cents per gallon last year, sales continue to climb.

The latest report at the State Department of Revenue shows a two million gallon increase for August this year over last. Compare that with a 20 million gallon decrease in purchases during an early month of the gas shortage.

The revenue report for August showed 243.8 million gallons of gas sold in the state this year, compared to 241.8 million in the same month a year ago. The February report showed 193.8 million gallons, compared to 213.7 million gallons a year ago.

Revenue Secretary J. Howard Coble said the trend is contrary to earlier expectations. "We simply are not showing a decrease in gallons consumed. . . the situation turned around about April or May," he said.

No Backing

The legislative probe of governmental spending carried out by a joint Senate-House committee is not gaining any backing from Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr.

The spending probe, chaired by State Sen. I. C. Crawdord, D-Buncombe County, has been grilling state agency representatives, and thus far taken affirmative votes to curtail a State Highway Patrol plan to create 42 new field sergeant slots and a Department of Transportation program of expensive highway rest stops.

Action came in the form of resolutions, without the weight of enforcement, and so far there has been no indication that any state agencies intend to abide by the cutback suggestions.

The governor said he is not thoroughly acquainted with the work of the committee; that decisions by state agencies are generally being made within the framework of state law; and that his efforts at governmental efficiency by way of the Governor's Efficiency Study Commission appears to be paying off.

The General Assembly probe, he said, seems to duplicate several existing activities, and furthermore, "We don't need another branch of the executive department" Holshouser argued, hinting that some of the legislative watchdog activities are getting to close to his own authority.

Another Probe

While not related to the spending probe by the Governmental Spending Commission, another General Assembly study of spending is now underway in the Department of Public Instruction.

The Legislature's own Fiscal Research Division has been instructed by the Legislative Services Commission to make a top-to-bottom survey of programs and activities in that largest of all state agencies.

The Services Commission is a super-powerful group of veteran lawmakers chaired jointly by the speaker of the house and the president protem of the senate. Insiders say the motives of the groups in ordering the study have not been spelled out, but appear to stem from growing concern among legislators that the best possible teaching programs for the dollar are not being had in North Carolina.

A memorandum from the legislative commission to the Fiscal Research Division points out the law authorizing "in depth investigations of the major departments, agencies, or institutions of state government" by the General Assembly, and calls for this first application of that authority to determine, in public education, "the efficiency of operation; its compliance with legislative intent when funds were appropriated, and the effectiveness of the programs in achieving the legislative intent."

Sunday Morning Notes

Dr. E. B. Aycock's mother is 93 years old, but alert and active. She still lives alone in Fremont, with only some occasional doemstic help. She keeps a flower garden that is the envy of the neighborhood.

On a recent visit to Greenville she observed her son, Dr. Aycock, lighting a cigarette.

"You know," she commented. "When I was young and had a lot less sense than I've got now, I decided to start smoking."

She gave her son a steady look and said. "Never smoked but two."

Mothers never get too old to disapprove.

The surname Spain is fairly common around here and Jack Spain, former administrative assistant to Sen. Ervin, traced down its origin.

He says that his ancestors migrated to England from the Castilla area of Spain and later the name of the country was given to them as a surname. The Spains then migrated to the New World in the 1600s and the name stuck.

Spain tells the story of talking to an English woman army officer by phone in Washington during World War II.

Upon learning her name was Spain also, he said, "I bet you've got black hair."

"How did you know?" she asked.

The theory is that finding a job is tough enough after graduation, so it pays to do as well as you can.

Taking studies seriously has apparently come to the ECU campus. One professor was heard to remark, "Some students are even bringing pencils to class.

The Final Fling

(Henderson Dispatch)

Such things somehow escape widespread public notice, but the practice of congressmen embarking on long junkets to distant parts of the world goes on apace. Some attention has been stirred lately about the habit as it applies to lame ducks, who are out to take a final fling at government expense before being dropped from the payroll.

Some groups took off during the long Labor Day recess of Congress. One party went to Red China, then to Japan, and presumably to Taiwan and possibly to the Philippines. It was headed by Senator Fulbright of Arkansas who was nipped in the primary in his State last summer. Ostensibly, they claimed to have found it necessary to go to Peking in connection with relations between that communist country and the United States. If there was any improvement in conditions, it has not come to light. Fulbright, it is recalled, is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He has been in the Senate some twenty years. His tenure ends after the election.

One report was that Senator Ervin was mentioned for one of these jaunts, but he demurred to his credit.

The junkets are not limited to senators. House members also get in on the masquerade. Reasons given for some of the jaunts are slim indeed and apparently unnecessary, perhaps even useless. Often wives go along with their husbands, and they all enjoy the sight-seeing wherever they visit, with attractions in historic Rome and Athens not overlooked. At times there are junkets to Israel, site of the Holy Land with its meaning in the sacred shrines of Christianity.

Some effort is under way to prevent lame ducks from barging in on the ventures, since they will not be back to contribute of their knowledge to relations with other nations. It is not likely to get anywhere, but it is certainly in order. Nor should it be restricted to the honorables who will not be back at the next session. It could be made all inclusive.

40 Years Ago Today

SEPTEMBER 29, 1934

Two gangster convicted of gangland hold-up murders and sentenced to death escaped from the Richmond jail today. The escape was reported to be an outside job in which two policemen and a guard were reportedly shot.

The pair were both awaiting death in the electric chair for their participation in the holdup of a Federal Reserve Bank mail truck and the murder of the driver.

A movement began last night to link the power lines of eight cities of this part of the state to carry electric service to rural areas at a lower cost.

The proposal was presented at a combined meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs and the Chamber of Commerce. Officials of the other towns involved were also at the meeting.

On The Political Trail

Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate William Stevens was completely taken back during a recent press conference in Charlotte. Stevens had fielded the usual questions on inflation, Nixon's pardon and his stance on military spending.

All of a sudden a weekly newspaper editor jumped up, pointed his finger at Stevens and asked: "Don't you think the President should have the right to impeach the Congress?"

A startled Stevens didn't have to answer due to the laughter from the remaining members of the press corps.

Meanwhile, Democratic Senate candidate Robert Morgan tells people he thinks his successor as Attorney General, Republican Jim Carson, is blowing up the issue of organized crime.

"There is organized crime in North Carolina," Morgan says, "but I resent the implication that nothing has been done about it. The SBI has known about such activities and has kept it under surveillance for years."

You can look for supporters of Terry Sanford to increase the push to get their man to run for President. Sen. Edward Kennedy is out of the race and that leaves the campaign wide open. Some Tar Heel Democrats feel the present situation is perfect for a darkhorse candidate, which the former Governor would be.

There will be opposition to any move to repeal the state's 3 per cent tax on food.

House Speaker Jim Ramsey says he doesn't think the tax should be repealed. He acknowledged that the state had a large surplus, but he pointed out that the surplus gives the state a triple A credit rating and allows it to borrow money at extremely low interest rates.

Ramsey said there would have to be revenue alternatives if the food tax is repealed. He said he doesn't believe additional taxes on tobacco would be a wise move at this time.

Mecklenburg Rep. Larry Cobb, a Republican, agrees with Ramsey. He says the food tax shouldn't be repealed unless new sources of revenue were found. Cobb said this would probably have to come in a revision of the state income tax or a raise in the tobacco tax.

Cobb said the make-up of the General Assembly will have many new faces next year, and he wouldn't predict how a move to repeal the food tax would come out in the House.

Strength For Today

INCONVENIENT CHRISTIANITY

The English man of letters, Gilbert Chesterton, once made the often repeated statement that Christianity has not been tried and failed; it has been found inconvenient and so not tried.

The truth of this statement is on occasion demonstrated in a subtle, indirect manner. Sometimes you find people who are loud in their criticism of Christianity, declaring that it can never be made to work because it demands too much of the individual. When you encounter people who talk this way, ask your self whether these people are venting their anger and irritation against Christianity or against themselves. Inner conflict always tends to make us angry, and we try to vent anger not against ourselves but against someone or something else.

Many of the people who claim that Christianity has failed are trying to stifle within themselves the realization that they have never tried it. It has proved too inconvenient for them.

Man Of Ideas About Inflation

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — American society as we know it could be destroyed unless the United States wins the fight to curb inflation, some business leaders warn.

The most attention-arresting ideas about inflation are those of Robert S. Morrison, an Ashtabula, Ohio, businessman who has been writing and lecturing about it for a decade. Morrison is president of Molded Fiber Glass Co., which does about $25 million a year in sales.

Morrison insists practically everything the economists say about inflation is nonsense and says the politicians don't know anything about it either.

He is convinced we are losing the struggle against inflation. Instead of the current annual rate of inflation of 14 per cent in the United States dropping to 7 per cent, Morrison says, it soon may go up to 25 or even 30 per cent.

But when he starts proposing his ideas of how to solve the problem, Morrison becomes in the eyes of some people a radical of the right. He has proposed the creation of two powerful national boards, the National Job Evaluation Board and the Utilization of Manpower Board with powers to halt what he calls compensation-cost-push inflation. He says this is the kind of inflation that has been causing the trouble for 175 years in England, 40 years in the United States and longer periods in other lands.

Morrison's most important idea involves government regulation to see to it prices always are kept on the downtrend instead of allowing them to rise continually and then raising wages to offset the higher prices.

In the situation now prevailing in the United States, Morrison proposes four alternative ways of accomplishing this, all politically unpalatable and difficult to achieve. They are:

—Freeze wages and other compensation without price controls. This, together with legislation to prevent price gouging and product and service misrepresentation, would quickly stop inflation and cause prices to trend downward, he believes.

—Compensation freezing followed by national job evaluation to correct inequities and restore incentive. This is Morrison's personal choice. Under it, he says, there would be no increase in pay for doing the same work year after year but prices and the cost of living would go down over the long pull and the nation's manpower would be more effectively utilized.

—Adopting profit-sharing systems for all workers, either with or without a national job evaluation program.

—Ending the power of unions and professional groups to force their compensation demands on employers, consumers and taxpayers and give free rein to the law of supply and demand.

Since Morrison is a manufacturer who has had some battles with unions, some people read his ideas as simply anti-labor. However, in his latest book "Inflation Can Be Stopped," (Western Reserve Press, Inc., Cleveland) he comes down as hard on the other side of the fence, particularly the legal profession, accusing them of constantly aggravating inflation by litigous practices that enormously increase the cost of doing business.

Majority Is Not Hopeful

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J., — On the eve of the economic summit meetings, that began Friday in Washington, here was the shape of public opinion regarding the economy:

1. The latest nationwide Gallup survey shows seven persons in 10 expressing the belief that the economic situation in the U.S. will worsen during the next six months with large majorities in all major population groups and regions of the nation revealing pessimism in this regard.

This apprehension in part reflects a sharply accelerating rise in prices. The government recently reported that wholesale prices soared 3.9 per cent in August, prompting some economists to predict that that high inflation would continue well into 1975 and beyond.

Recent Gallup surveys have also shown:

2. Two out of three Americans (77 per cent) name the high cost of living as the most important problem facing the nation today — the largest proportion to name the economy in surveys going back nearly four decades. Worry over inflation has, temporarily, pushed all other problems aside.

3. Nearly half the public, 46 per cent, predict a depression similar to the one the United States suffered during the 1930s.

4. As many as one-fifth of persons admit they are currently living beyond their means.

5. Almost two-thirds of Americans, 64 per cent, say they plan to reduce their spending as a result of rising prices, with many indicating they have already cut back spending on certain items.

Among those who say they plan to cut back on their spending, four in ten (42 per cent) name food, 19 per cent say clothing. Next for gasoline and automobile expenses (cited by 18 per cent), vacations (14 per cent), unspecified luxuries or non-essentials (11 per cent), entertaining — going out to dinner (10 per cent), power — i.e., oil, electricity, water — (7 per cent), household furnishings (6 per cent).

6. While the largest proportion of Americans surveyed (44 per cent) say the federal government is chiefly to blame for inflation, as many as one-fourth (23 per cent) blame the people themselves — more than the proportion who blame business (15 per cent) or labor (13 per cent).

7. By a vote of 5-to-4, the American people are in favor of returning to wage-price controls as a way of combating inflation. Persons in labor union families hold views on controls almost exactly the same as those of non-union people.

Following is the question asked in the latest survey to determine the public's outlook regarding the economy:

"Do you think the economic situation in the United States during the next six months will get better or worse?"

A Conservative View
Searching For A Likely Democratic Candidate

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

By bowing out of the 1976 presidential race, Senator Edward Kennedy made the right decision for himself, for his troubled family, and for a nation that has had quite enough of ugliness. But his decision leaves the Democratic party like an anthilll just toppled by a tractor. Behold the beautiful scramble!

If the senator had decided to seek the nomiation, he would have invited one of the most bitter campaigns in American political history. It would have been worse than Cleveland-Blain in 1884, worse than Smith-Hoover in 1928.

No observers would deny that Kennedy is widely admired. He could have had his party's nomination for the asking. It may not be so well understood that the senator is widely hated, to. If he is an object of fervent adulation, he is also an object of passionate invective. His bid for the White House, had he formally announced, would have burst a boil of virulent hostility. Everything would have come flooding forth, from Papa Joe to Chappaquiddick. Kennedy's wife could not possibly have been spared; as a prospective first lady, her medical record would have had the Engleton treatment. Such a campaign would have left the country battered and bruised. This we are thankfully spared.

By 1980 or 1984, Kennedy still will be in a position to seek the presidency, and by that time the passions may have subsided. Meanwhile, he can afford to bide his time as an active legislator and potent fund-raiser.

What, now, for the Democrats: Within the party, the senator has stood like a Caesar. He bestrode the party's narrow world like a Colossus, while petty men walked under his huge legs and peeped about. With Kennedy's withdrawal, the Democrats' dilemma becomes glaringly apparent. Where could they find a winner?

They have one man, Senator Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who might give Gerald Ford a good run for the money in 1976. Jackson will then be 64, but that is no particular disadvantage against Ford at 63. On paper, at least, Jackson has fine credentials. His trouble, at this distance, is that he will have real problems in winning his party's nomination in the first place.

Jackson's difficulties became evident in the Florida primary of 1972. He worked doggedly in the pursuit of delegates, but the presence of George Wallace made his effort vain. Wallace is still around. The governor of Alabama lives, eats and breathes on the excitement of running for office. Under the 1975 convention rules, which prohibit the practice of "winner take all," Wallace will wind up with plenty of delegates. If by some bizarre stroke of fate, Wallace won just enough delegates to claim the Democratic nomination, the party would collapse. It would go the way of the one-horse shay. The prospect may be entrancing, but the prospect is hardly realistic.

Who, then? The happy warrior, Hubert Humphrey, is out of it. Senator Edmund Muskie, on the record, has no great appeal. Such leftovers from 1972 as Harold Hughes and Fred Harris have made their exits from the stage. What ever become of John Lindsay? There were boomlets in 1972 for Shirley Chisholm, Sam Yorty, and Florida's Governor Reubin Askew. There is not much boom left in any of them.

Are there fresh figures? Senator Walter Mondale of Minnesota would like the nomination, but Mondale's record of ultra-liberalism would cast him as another McGovern. Senator Lloyd Bentsen of Texas is an attractive possibility, but he has no national recognition. Such junior senators as Lawton Chiles, Sam Nunn, Adlai Stevenson, and William Hathaway are vice presidential saplings, not presidential timber. Birch Bayh of Indiana is a 100-to-one shot. Could the party make peace with Clean Gene McCarthy, the peerless first baseman? It seems exceedingly doubtful.

Kennedy was the Democratic party's greatest asset and the greatest liability too. Within a national convention, he could have produced the same unity among party workers that is shared by suckers on the back of a shark. With his departure, the Democrats are left with a school of small fish, and in the prospect of Governor Wallace, with a small but uncomfortable whale.

With Kennedy Out, A Difficult Choice Faces Democrats For 1976

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

Senator Ted Kennedy's departure from the ranks of Democrats who would like to run for President in 1976 was greeted this week by party leaders with what can truly be called a resounding lack of regret.

What surfaced was a sigh of relief, as if some great uncertainty hanging over the future had suddenly been removed. And, indeed it had. Bluntly put, many Democrats were scared of Kennedy, even though polls have shown him as the best known and most popular candidate in the field.

The fear was that if he sought the nomination, his bid could not be headed off, the party would be left hopelessly divided and 1976 would mean another defeat. The reasons for this state of mind are not hard to come by.

One, of course, is that Kennedy would end up a captive of the liberal left and be pushed the way McGovern went. But more important was Chappaquiddick — fear that Kennedy's story would not stand up and thus become, another Watergate.

But the Kennedy exit solves only one of the party's problems. It leaves others aplenty, including the prospect that so many candidates will join the fray that no one of them can line up a solid position ahead of the 1976 nominating convention.

In theory, this is good. It means a wide open convention where party members can count on their feelings being represented. But this usually turns into bargaining and power plays which leaves a great deal of bitterness.

Right now, the Washington political writers rank three senators as top contenders—Jackson of Washington, Mondale of Minnesota and Bentsen of Texas, in that order. Then, there are a host of other names carrying lightning rods.

Thus far, though, the speculation hasn't given much attention to the Three Georges—McGovern, the titular head of the party; Meany, the AFL-CIO boss, who walded out on McGovern; and Wallace, the Alabama Governor who has a hard core of backing scattered about the land.

Of the three, Meany and Wallace carry the greatest weight today. But McGovern backers are starting to come out of the wall and make noises. The line is that Watergate, somehow, vindicated their man.

It's unlikely that the Georges can ever agree on a candidate. Their views of things are too far apart. And neither has the strength to dictate a candidate. But Wallace and Meany do have power enough to put big questionmarks over the prospects of any man they oppose becoming president.

At this stage, political observers tend to rate chances of President Ford winning an elected term as fairly good. This is based, at least in part, on the fact that a sitting President has some obvious advantages over a challenger. And it also assumes that odds are against the healing of old Democratic wounds.

But the 1976 outcome probably is more uncertain at this time than in any recent reelection contests. Ford has a tough road ahead of him and could easily lose any advantages he has today.

He's now considered fair political game. The Nixon pardon signaled open season. The old anti-Nixon activists are crying that the pardon was a deal and raising impeachment questions. There's no doubt that Ford is in for a lot of political heckling.

This is unfortunate at a time when inflation is crying out for some sort of unity in Washington on action. But in the current political atmosphere, cooperation between the Democratic majority in Congress and the White House may be too much to expect. This majority has put politics above concern for inflation.

the existing habits and customs."

The same theme has been repeated in scores of other women's Congress sessions throughout the country this year.

"It is necessary to handle the problems of love and marriage with proletarian thinking, energetically promote late marriage and planned parenthood," a typical resolution by the Hupeh women's Congress said.

Hou Sheng-li, 30, a commune worker in Shensi Province, had the right idea. He resisted parental pressures to take a wife and raise a family while he was in his early twenties.

After convincing his own parents the party was correct, Hou went to work on his bride-to-be and her parents.

According to a report in the Communist party newspaper, "he visited the home of his financee many times to carry out ideological work on his fiancee" which was so effective that when they finally were wed, "the bride broke away from former traditions, and not long after the (wedding) ceremony, took part right away in gathering manure and gave an inspiration to the women of the whole production brigade."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Sept. 29, the 272nd day of 1974. There are 93 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1066, William the Conqueror invaded England to claim the English throne.

On this date —

In 1789, the U.S. War Department established a regular army with a strength of 700 men.

In 1918, the Allied forces in World War I scored a decisive breakthrough of the Hindenberg Line in Germany.

In 1923, Britain began to rule Palestine under a mandate from the League of Nations.

In 1941, in World War II, the United States and Britain agreed to send war supplies to the Soviet Union to help resistance to Nazi invaders.

In 1957, nearly 300 persons were killed when an express train hit a parked oil train in West Pakistan.

Ten years ago: The United States predicted that Communist China would set off its first nuclear explosion in the near future, perhaps within a matter of days.

Five years ago: The U.S. Army dropped charges against six Green Beret officers who had been arrested in connection with the alleged murder of a Vietnamese agent, explaining that the Central Intelligence Agency had barred its agents from testifying.

One year ago: The British-born poet, W.H. Auden, died in a Vienna hotel at the age of 66.

The Choice: Some Pain Or Life Of Naked Ears

To pierce or not to pierce, that is the question. Whether 'tis nobler to suffer the stings and arrows of outrageous torture, or to go through life with nude ears.

For me it was no easy decision; I wanted my ears pierced, but I'm allergic to pain, especially my own. The doctor has to sedate me to stick my finger. My dentist won't even see me any more—the last time he tried to give me novocaine, I sprayed him with mace.

Except for my sister-in-law, my family refused to help me make a positive decision. When I mentioned to my mother that I was considering having my ears pierced, she asked incredulously, "Do you mean to tell me that a woman who wears ten thimbles to thread needle is going to voluntarily let her ears be stabbed?"

"Well, I wouldn't put it exactly that way. . ."

"Anyone who gets her ears pierced has holes in her head," she snapped.

"That's the whole idea, Mother," I answered. "To get holes in your head."

"Sure," she replied. "You'll be stuck with huge, ugly holes in your ears for the rest of your life."

"Mother, they use a needle, not a hole-punch."

She ignored me. "And they'll probably get infected. You'll get gangrene, and the doctor will have to amputate your earlobes."

"I'll use alcohol," I said.

"I'm sure people with amputated earlobes have led useful lives without resorting to drink," she replied.

But my sister-in-law was determined that I should reap the benefits of decorative ears. "How are you ever going to be stylish with indecently exposed earlobes?" she argues. "It doesn' t hurt, much, and besides, isn't beauty worth little pain?"

I was convinced. With just a little pain, I could be transformed from squirrel to cover girl. I donned my super Chicken T-shirt, stuck an aspirin in each ear, and followed my sister-in-law out the door.

When we got to the jewelry store, we walked in calmly, Rather, she walked in calmly. My teeth were chattering so loudly that I sounded like the percussion section of the London Symphony. Seeing that I was incapable of making a coherent statement, my sister-in-law announced loudly, "She wants her ears pierced."

My eyes glazed terror. "It looks like a set-up," I whispered, expecting Vincent Price to appear at any moment. "Let's get out of here."

"You've come this far," she said. "You have to go through with it. Besides here's the man now."

He didn't look like Vincent Price, but then who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men.

"I'll wait outside," my sister-in-law said.

"Oh, no, you won't. I need you here," I said, grabbing her arm. Her enthusiasm for our adventure waned visibly.

GAIL MICHAELS

"I hope I don't shake too much," I whispered. "He might miss and hit my jugular vein. I can see the headlines now—'Woman Atacked By a Snaggle-Toothed Vampire.'"

"Would you shut up?" she hissed. She was beginning to look a bit peculiar.

"I'm ready," the ear-piercer said.

I shut my eyes and awaited my fate. He jabbed, and a piercing scream rent the air.

"Did I scream?" I asked. "It didn't even hurt.

"No," the man said. "She did."

He pointed to my sister-in-law, who was sitting, white and shivering, on the floor.

I'm sorry it upset you," I said. "But, like you said, beauty is worth a little pain."

"Yes," she answered shakily, "But you still look like a squirrel."

Kissinger's Next Middle East Mission Has Extra Urgency

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after the outbreak of the Yom Kippur War, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is about to head back to the Middle East to press for new Israeli withdrawals from conquered Arab territory. It is a mission tied directly to the West's thirst for Arab oil.

Kissinger's negotiating task promises to be as difficult as the shuttle diplomacy he used in achieving the Middle East cease fire late last year.

And it is made more urgent by the unspoken but evident risk of a new oil squeeze if the Arab states do not get the kind of territorial settlement they want.

In the months since the war, there has been ample evidence of closened U.S. ties with the Arab nations. Nevertheless, Kissinger knows he is under the gun to try to protect the inflation-plagued economies of the United States and western Europe from any renewed Arab oil embargo or cutback this winter.

Kissinger has found in his exhaustive personal diplomacy that after four wars with the Arabs, Israel has a mind and will of its own despite dependence on the United States for military and economic aid.

Signaling this independent mood, with its troubling implications for the Kissinger mission, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said at the end of a recent Washington visit "there will be no movement in terms of just giving back territory."

Rabin said there must be more, the beginning of an end to the Arabs' economic and diplomatic boycott of the Jewish state.

Rabin looks first to Egypt, hoping that President Anwar Sadat is prepared to swap a compromise settlement with Israel for a second pullback in Sinai. A deal with Jordan would follow, according to the preferred Israeli script.

When Kissinger returns to the region next month, his ear will be tuned to clues that this is more than wishful thinking. In any event, he is determined to maintain the momentum that produced disengagements along the Suez Canal and on the Golan Heights earlier this year.

Hanging over Kissinger's head is the implicit threat that should Israel balk at yielding more occupied Arab land, the stalemate could trigger the sort of oil squeeze that brought gasoline shortages to America last winter, sent prices up and turned off the heat in western Europe.

Knowledgeable U.S. officials see no immediate danger of another war, but neither do they anticipate a complete agreement over any specific period. Soviet arms shipments have substantially improved the quality of Syria's forces. The United States is attempting to offset this by speeding delivery of Phantom jets to Israel and otherwise upgrading Israel's defenses.

By both U.S. and Israeli reckoning, Syria is considered the most dangerous prospective antagonist. The U.S. intelligence estimate is that Israel would triumph should they come to renewed conflict.

If Kissinger has a blueprint for an over-all Middle East peace settlement he has yet to reveal it. For the short run, at least, he is trying to shelve the Golan Heights territorial dispute as well as the touchy Palestinian refugee problem except to the extent that Jordan would represent west bank Palestinians in negotiations with Israel.

The question remains whether the radical Baathist government in Damascus and the Palestinian terrorists will step up their pressures to the point that Sadat and King Hussein of Jordan could not readily negotiate with Israel through Kissinger.

Kissinger apparently has convinced King Faisal of his good intentions. The somber monarch, a revered figure in the Arab world, detests communism about as much as Zionism. Long a friend of the United States, his government alone has tried in oil councils to bring down prices, at least a little. Kissinger evidently will be given some more time to arrange Israeli withdrawals. But how much longer?

Kissinger's piecemeal diplomatic approach has several objectives:

—First, to avert the kind of crisis situation that sparked last year's Yom Kippur war. Principally, this involves setting the mood for negotiations by dealing separately with Israeli and Arab leaders and trying to arrange interim agreements by isolating the conditions the two sides are prepared to accept.

—Second, to accelerate the growing accord between Washingon and Cairo and other arab capitals. In one short year, Sadat has virtually abandoned his reliance on Moscow and refers easily in public to Kissinger as "my brother, Henry." The United States has sweetened the romance with promises of economic aid and the prospect of a nuclear reactor.

Chile Planning Monument To Women

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN took to the streets during the government of President Salvador Allende to protest chronic food shortages. Now the military government is planning to build a national monument to the Chilean woman. (UPI)

By CHARLES E. PADILLA

SANTIAGO (UPI) — On a continent long known for its "machismo" or manliness, Chilean women have elevated woman power to heights never seen before in South America.

The Chilean military government even is planning to construct a national monument to the women of Chile for their role in the overthrow of the leftwing government of President Salvador Allende one year ago.

"You were the first to raise the voice of alarm against Marxism," military junta leader Gen. Augusto Pinochet said recently in paying tribute to his government's most vocal and enthusiastic supporters.

Chilean women, long admired in South America for their beauty and brains, showed during the three years of the Allende regime that they also had courage.

The women first showed their spunk towards the end of 1971 when shortages began forcing housewives to stand in long lines for hours to obtain a handful of basic food items.

That was when supermarkets and stores began displaying crude signs that said "there is nothing of anything."

Tens of thousands of women of all ages, social status and political beliefs marched on downtown Santiago banging spoons on empty pots.

Every night for the following month, exactly at 10 p.m., the clamor of women banging on empty pots would spread through the vast Santiago metropolitan area.

Allende supporters, furious, would turn up the volume on their television and stereo sets to drown out the din.

On June 27, 1973, a lone Chilean woman forced the Allende government to declare another state of emergency in Santiago by merely showing her tongue.

She was Mrs. Alejandrina Cox, a gracious, middle-aged woman who stuck her tongue out at the then commander-in-chief of the army, Gen. Arturo Prats.

The act enraged Prats who drew his revolver and fired a shot into the woman's car. The leftwing press the next day called the incident a "Fascist attempt against Prats" while the opposition newspapers headlined "Gen. Prats Sparks Incident."

On Aug. 21, 1973, some 300 wives of army officers marched on the Prats home in Santiago to protest Prats' support of Allende, a longtime, close friend of the general.

Scores of thousands of women throughout Chile took to the streets again on Sept. 6, five days before the coup, to demand Allende's resignation. It was the largest feminine demonstration in the history of Chile.

That same day, a group of women sent congressional leaders a letter saying that if the congress did not remove Allende from office in one week, "we shall be forced to be at the doors of the armed forces to save the nation."

Campus ROTC Trends See An Upward Swing

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Rising civilian unemployment and the fadeout of the antiwar movement have prompted new interest in ROTC programs this fall. Enrollment on some campuses is up 25 per cent from last year.

An Associated Press survey showed the trend toward increased interest in Army, Air Force and Navy training programs spreads across all areas of the country.

Part of the motivation is economic: Reserve Officers Training Corps candidates get full scholarships, textbooks, subsistence allowances during part of their four years in college and a guaranteed job after graduation. In exchange, they agree to serve for two years on active duty and must participate in certain classroom training and drill programs.

The end of the Vietnam war also brought an end to the demonstrations and protests that hurt many ROTC programs, forcing some colleges to abandon them completely and causing others to make them voluntary instead of mandatory.

"Things are more relaxed now," said Richard D. Van Antwerp, the Naval ROTC commander at the University of California at Berkeley, a center of some of the bitterest antiwar demonstrations. "We can wear our uniforms on campus without any trouble."

The Pentagon does not have over-all figures for the school year that just started, since enrollments are not complete. Figures for past years show a steady decline — from 160,900 students in 1970 to 63,200 last year.

ROTC officials on campus, however, say the downward trend has been reversed.

At Berkeley, for example, there were 120 recruits for Navy ROTC last fall compared with an estimated 135 to 150 this fall. At the University of Mississippi in Oxford, Army ROTC enrollment up 19 per cent this year after a six-year decline.

Four Virginians Held In Robbery

BETHEL—Four Chesapeake, Va. residents are in jail in Pitt County following their arrests Wednesday on charges stemming from the break-in and theft of drugs at Bethel Pharmacy this week.

Bethel Police Chief Walter Gray said that Richard Allen Purdue, 16, 1308 Virginia Avenue; Arthur Wayne Stetson, 20, 2402 Virginia Avenue; Jiovanni F. Anderson, 18, 1314 Virginia Avenue; and Edward Lawrence Anderson, 20, 1314 Virginia Avenue were charged with breaking, entering and larceny.

Chief Gray said that all four men were arrested at a Virginia motel on Wednesday afternoon by officers of the Virginia Beach Police Department. He said that Bethel police were notified soon after the arrests were made.

The chief noted that some $300 in cash and an assortment of narcotics valued at $277 were taken from Bethel Pharmacy early Wednesday morning. In addition to the money and drugs taken, some $700 in damages occurred to the glass doors on the side of the business.

Chief Gray reported that the money and most of the drugs were recovered and all four persons are in jail under $2,500 bond each. He said that Purdue and Jiovanni Anderson are in Pitt County Jail while Stetson and Edward Anderson are in Bethel Jail.

Hearings have been scheduled for Oct. 8 in District Court here.

He said that Bethel Police, agents of the State Bureau of Investigation and members of the Pitt Sheriff's Department participated in the investigation. An earlier break-in and larceny of drugs at the pharmacy is still under investigation, Chief Gray noted.

Friends See Endangered Timber Wolf's Survival

EDITOR'S NOTE — The timber wolf is vanishing from America, says the U.S. government. But those who know the animal best believe that somehow he'll survive. "Wolves can think," says a man who raises them. "They remember things, and can reason things out. I guess that's why there's still a few wolves around."

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)— Almost crackling with energy, Chinook skittered down the wooded path, lunging to the end of her leash and whirling in a cloud of gray-black fur and flashing teeth.

"Ah, she got me again," shrugged Orin Benson, sucking the trickle of blood from the bright red scratch on the arm holding the rope. "She likes to play rough."

Chinook is an eastern timber wolf — extinct in most of the 48 contiguous states; a source of bitter controversy in the few areas with remnant populations.

Dancing nervously on long, slender hind legs, she snapped and pawed playfully at Benson's head and shoulders. Her long tongue lolled, but she took in every movement out of slanted yellow eyes.

Benson has raised several litters of wolves at his rural Eagle, Wis., sporting dog kennels since becoming fascinated with the beast's manners and morals several years ago.

"I study them and they study me," he said. "There's really no way to tame them. They get wild even when you let them out for a little bit."

The once-proud ruler of the forest has been on the federal government's endangered species list since 1967. There are several reasons:

—The wolf needs virgin wilderness to survive — 40 square miles per animal, scientists say. But today a wolf is fortunate to have 10 square miles of uninterrupted forest in which to roam.

—Hunters are competing with the wolf for the white-tail deer, a staple in a wolf's diet.

—And there is little public support for measures to save the wolf. That's because of an ingrained fear of the animal fostered in fairy tales, children's cartoons and horror movies.

John Harris, a Hayward, Calif., protectionist who has raised two dozen wolves, says the public is ignorant about them.

"There has never been a documented instance of a wolf attacking a human on this continent, Red Riding Hood to the contrary," said Harris, who travels the country, exhibiting his wolves and lecturing about them. Last summer, two on exhibit were poisoned in New York City.

Wolves number 3,000 to 5,000 in Alaska, but only between 300 and 1,000 still roam northern Minnesota, according to the latest estimates by biologists.

There are about two dozen on Michigan's Isle Royale in Lake Superior, but only a dozen or so — including four transplanted from Minnesota for study last winter — in the rest of the state.

Wisconsin, with an estimated 40,000 wolves in 1835, has fewer than six today.

There are no timber wolves in the rest of the United States. New England once had tens of thousands, but none has been sighted in the northeast in 30 years. Nationally, the wolf is now confined to less than one per cent of its original range.

The U.S. Interior Department classifies the wolf as "a species whose prospects of survival and reproduction are in immediate jeopardy." But this status provides no actual protection.

The Interior Department recently ordered Minnesota to scrap its predator control program, which allowed limited killing of wolves. That leaves Alaska as the only state paying wolf bounties. The wolf has had complete protection in Michigan since 1960 and in Wisconsin since 1967.

Scientists claim the wolf is vital to the survival of the deer — even though the normal adult wolf kills 20 deer per year — by culling out the weaker deer to improve breeding strains and preventing deer herds from overbrowsing.

"Deer would not be deer if wolves weren't around," said Dr. William Robinson of the University of Northern Michigan in Marquette. "The deer is a swift, graceful animal, and it's gotten that way through selective pressures brought by predators, and the wolf is the main predator."

"They say wolves are needed to thin out the deer," scoffed Arvid Haurunnen, head of the antiwolf Virginia (Minn.) Sportsmen's Club. "Hunters can do it just as well. The deer herd is down, and it's all because of the wolves. How about protecting the deer?"

Haurunnen, 71, has been hunting and trapping in the Minnesota wilds for 60 years. He's one of many woodsmen who does not believe the wolf is vanishing.

"I know for a fact there's over 4,000 wolves in northern Minnesota alone," he said. "They'll never be extinct. We've been hunting, trapping and poisoning them for 100 years and there's more now than ever."

Northwoods residents are especially critical of such groups as Help Our Wolves Live (HOWL) in Minneapolis and the celebrity-studded Fund for Animals in Washington. "We resent it when people in Los Angeles and New York try to tell us about wolves," said Dick Maw, a Lutsen, Minn., outdoors writer and Forest Service worker. "The wolves have wiped out sheep farming in northern Minnesota."

Many scientists explain that the greatest problem for wolves is not hunters, but the deteriorating deer habitat. They say that the maturation of northern forests has deprived the deer of the low shrubbery and other browse that sprouted after fires leveled the woods at the turn of the century.

Ecology-minded groups, such as the nonprofit Northwoods Environmental Institute, say better forest management to provide more browse for deer is the ultimate long-range solution.

"The wolf considers man either equal or below him," said Joan Gehr, whose family is raising nine wolves near Shawano, Wis. "He's not subservient like a dog."

This Collector Of Beer Cans Hunts Rarities

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — If you've got an empty "Playmate" malt liquor can lying aroung, please give Bruce Nist a call.

And if there's a 1955 vintage "Sir-Lady Frothingslosh" beer can in your basement, Jim Cyphers might be willing to give you 30 or 40 empties for it.

The "Playmate" can once made by the now defunct Sunshine Brewing Co. of Reading, Pa., is just what Nist needs to top off his collection of 1,950 beer cans. The light blue container bearing a woman's lips and legs is a classic.

And Iron City Brewing Co.'s 1955 "Frothingslosh"—picturing former Pittsburgh radio personality Rege Cordic in zany male and female getups — would complement Cypher's rare "Lederbrau one half gallon can," his 1955 8 oz. "Tech" and his 1950 "Tube City" conetop.

Nist, 23, a computer operator, and Cyphers, 24, a fast-food restaurant manager, are respectively secreatry and president of the Old Frothingslosh Chapter of the Beer Can Collectors of America.

The BCCA, a 3,000 member group, is dedicated to preserving and collecting obsolete, unusual, historical, attractive—in fact any and all kinds of—beer cans.

The members spend a lot of time and energy trading through the mails, picking up cans on vacations and attending BCCA trading sessions. Recently people from as far as South Carolina, Illinois and Massachusetts drove here for a swap session, and both Cyphers and Nist have traveled as far as Detroit in pursuit of their hobby.

Unlike stamp or coin collectors, BCCA members are not interested in making money. Organization bylaws forbid members from buying or selling empties, although they do buy full cans.

"The lack of money makes it a lot more relaxed and friendly," said Bill Whitworth, who drove from Wayne, Mich., to attend the Pittsburgh trade-in.

"My main hobby is collecting license plates—I've got about 15,000 of them—but I'm getting into beer cans more these days. With license plates everyone is in it for the dollar."

Whitworth kind of fell into his hobby, salvaging several hundred cans his uncle was throwing out.

"You see, my aunt was filing for divorce at the time and she was trying to prove he was crazy, so he thought it would look better for him if he got rid of the cans;" he said.

Nist said he started his hobby because he wanted to do something different from people on his street.

"I used to collect stamps and coins, but there's too many people into that. So I got this idea," he said.

"I just noticed all the different kinds you could buy and I started getting one of each. I was going to put them on our fireplace, but there got to be so many I had to start building shelves to put them on."

Cyphers, who has 2,900 different styles among the 7,000 cans stacked, shelved and boxed in an extra bedroom of his home, sees several reasons for his unusual hobby.

"One is the beauty of the cans and their easy displayability," he said. "And I think another thing is just because there's beer cans all around.

"And I think the other thing is the pleasure of trying out all the beers as you collect the cans... although there are a few people in the group who don't drink the beer."

The hobby, he said, does have one drawback.

"The problem is," Cyphers said, "the most collectable cans are the ones with the worst beer."

Pentagon Has Own Ideas On East-West Trading

By RICHARD C. LONGWORTH

BRUSSELS (UPI) — In early 1973, the American Fairchild Corporation signed an $18 million deal to sell integrated circuits to a Polish firm named Unitra.

This summer, in one of his last foreign policy acts, then-President Nixon vetoed the sale after the Pentagon ruled that the circuits, meant for calculators, also could be used in Soviet missiles.

This sort of thing not only causes problems for the growing number of U.S. firms doing business with the Communists but sends chills through the Communist nations themselves. For the kind of super-sophisticated American technology that the Communists need to modernize their economies is precisely the sensitive gear most likely to fall under a Pentagon security embargo.

The U.S.-Soviet political detente brought a business boom in its wake. A new trade center for Western businessmen is being built in Moscow. The United States will do $1 billion in trade with the six East European nations this year, up nearly 400 per cent in six years.

Soviet sources say their government's new 15-year plan, being prepared now, will institutionalize detente by making Soviet development until 1990 dependent on U.S. investment and know-how.

But Western and Soviet diplomats and Western businessmen dealing with the Communists report that the course of detente, like true love, seldom runs smooth.

One much-publicized problem is political—the limits which the U.S. Congress has put on trade with Russia in an attempt to win emigration rights for Soviet Jews.

Another reflects the internal Soviet situation. Western businessmen say the Soviet domestic crackdown has increased secret police interference in business deals and limited their contacts with Russian businessmen.

"Doors that used to be open wide are barely ajar now," one American electronics executive complained.

Gold-rich Russia has top credit rating but other Communist nations, particularly Poland and Romania, find it hard to get loans and impossible to pay sky-high interest rates when they find them. Western businessmen say Poland has been seeking medium-term loans at 6 per cent interest, at a time when commericial banks charge 15 per cent or more and even the U.S. Export-Import Bank wants at least 7 per cent.

But export embargoes on high technology for security reasons pose perhaps the greatest long-term threat.

This is ironic, because the so-called "export list" has been trimmed down in recent years from thousands of "strategic" items to a relative handful. Both businessmen and government officials agree that the trend toward fewer restrictions and liberalized trade in once-sensitive items is continuing.

But what few export controls remain are mostly on top-level, highly sophisticated technology, largely in electronics. And, as a U.S. Diplomat here explained the Communist countries are most interested in just this kind of technology, as their own economies become more sophisticated.

Soviet production in this area is still relatively primitive, businessmen say. Westerners who have toured Soviet factories and laboratories report that Soviet technology lags years behind America in such fields as electronics, computers, miniaturization and communications.

American corporations are willing to sell the Communists their latest lines, but the U.S. government is watching such trade closely. Some businessmen said the Commerce Department occasionally vetoes a sale for commerical reasons, but most problems arise from the fact that much of this equipment — huge computers, for instance—could be adapted easily to Soviet military purposes.

This is what happened to the Fairchild contract. U.S. sources said a report by Dr. Maurice Mountain, a Pentagon expert, recommended the veto, which was supported first by Defense Secretary James Schlesinger and then by Nixon.

Fairchild has signed a similar contract with Hungary, but a spokesman for the corporation said the equipment is somewhat different "and we are hopeful, not confident, that this deal may not be vetoed."

Sixty-Five Years Old, But Mountain-Climbing For Her

By ARTHUR J. LINGLE

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Dorothea Thorsen may not make it in the World Book of Records but she's happy to keep on climbing mountains.

"I may be 65 years old but on the trail I'm 49."

At her age she is something of a marvel in a community with a heavy population of elderly and retired persons. In Arizona, she has climed 116 mountains.

"I'm at number 87 now and I try to go twice a week. I should make the goal by October or November. Then I'm going to climb Wasson Peak. I just have 48 times on that one," she said with a laugh. It's a mere 4,678 feet high. "There's no hurry on that."

The former resident of Cleveland, Ohio, and her husband moved to Tucson in 1965, but her mountain climbing started much earlier.

"I was 8 years old. My mother was with me. We were going from Ohio to California to visit her mother, who was then 82. So we just happened to climb a couple of mountains on the way.

"When I was 13-18 I was in New York State in the summer and about every other week you could sign up to climb a mountain in the Adirondacks in northeastern New York State. The highest one of those was 4,100 feet. But they were steep climbs."

Mrs. Thorsen doesn't have any special diet to maintain her active schedule. "I just eat regular food. I'm just in shape. I go swimming, ride the bike. I swam 500 miles. It took me three years. One year at a time. I don't eat candy bars because you can lose teeth that way."

She usually climbs with companions but sometimes goes it alone. One of her fellow hikers is a man in his 70s.

"He completed his 100th trip up Wrightstown on July 20. We had a party for him; wine and cake on top."

Occasionally she takes a transistor radio with her but it is only with an earphone. "I don't want to disturb the animals. I've seen wild turkeys. I haven't seen any bears yet. There are lots of deer."

Any unusual experiences on the travels?

"I have to say that on the trail I was getting a certain deference when I told a 16-year-old boy how old I was. We were on a place called Elephant Head, sort of a rock formation. He was saying 'put one foot here and put your other foot there and let me carry your pack.' And I hadn't asked for help yet.

"So the next time I saw him I said, 'Now let's go back to me being 49 on the trail. It's much better. They don't do that to men. Just to ladies."

Hiking may run in the family. Her 88-year-old uncle, Harrison Moore, recently had to give up mountain climbing but still manages to walk 25-35 miles a week in town.

"He's very thin. I think that's what keeps him going. He's on a diet of frozen peas, corn and ground round steak."

Man Charged In Shooting Case

A Rt.1, Grimesland man has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon following a shooting incident early Thursday.

Billy Hardee, 26, was arrested by Pitt deputies and charged with shooting Dalton Lee Baker of Rt. 1, Box 107, Chocowinity, in the chest during an argument at a trailer located at the Seine Beach near Grimesland.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Baker was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment following the incident. Baker was shot with a .22 caliber pistol, he reported.

Bond for Hardee was set at $5,000, the sheriff said.

A Theater Of Living History

CHESTER, England (UPI) — Chester has opened a theater of "living history," with 2,000 years to cover.

Chester was the headquarters of the 20th Legion when the Romans ruled Britain. Many medieval buildings remain within its well-preserved city walls.

"The British Heritage" theater presents an audio-visual interpretation of the city's history, and reconstructs memories of periods from Elizabethan to Victorian times.

Early Cirrhosis Diagnosis Seen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Early and direct diagnosis of liver cirrhosis, now an elusive feat, could become as simple as a blood test using discoveries explained at the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Specific differences in the enzyme makeup of blood plasma from people with normal and fibrotic livers were described by Dr. Ada Wen-Shang Ma Lin of the Naval Regional Medical Center in Philadelphia. To date there is no direct test of liver function, except needle biopsy, which aids in the early diagnosis of cirrhosis. Liver biopsy is painful and often complicated. And it can only sample a very small portion of the liver at one time.

Went All-Out On Compliance

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Judge Harold Banks had asked members of a Superior Court jury to wear their orange identifying badges at all times, but one juror apparently overdid it.

When the juror arrived in court without the badge, Judge Banks asked her where it was.

Grass Roots Government Is Resilient, Innovative

By RICHARD E. MEYER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Far from the center of power, while Washington floundered in Watergate, state, county and city governments moved briskly and often innovatively to advance the commonweal.

Government at the grass roots acted with vitality in many areas despite the two years of scandal, impeachment proceedings and presidential resignation in Washington — perhaps even because of them.

Some states aided their elderly with tax and rent relief. Others, in cooperation with their municipalities, inaugurated new mass transit systems. Nearly all passed campaign finance disclosure laws. Several reorganized their governmental machinery from top to bottom. Many took new steps to improve the safety and security of their residents. And some took long-range steps to plan their futures.

"At the federal level," says Dan Evans, governor of Washington and chairman of the National Governors' Conference, "initiatives are still being debated or 'considered' — in such critical areas as consumer protection, governmental reorganization, energy use and controls, land use legislation, welfare reform, ethics in government — while states and their subdivisions have acted decisively."

A survey by The Associated Press has turned up a variety of state and local projects over the last two years — all of them determined efforts to grapple with the nation's political, economic and social problems.

THE ELDERLY

Massachusetts has guaranteed a minimum income for its elderly. It assures them of $195 a month from federal takeover of the state's aid-to-the-aged program, plus a state supplement of $214.52 for a couple living together without blindness or disability.

Several states, including Pennsylvania, have "circuit breakers" in their tax laws, pegging property tax payments to incomes.

The provision, plus rent relief to widows and widowers age 50 or over, has meant tax rebates for tens of thousands of elderly Pennsylvanians. They are paid with income from the state lottery.

Pennsylvanians have approved $100 million in bonds to provide low-interest state loans to nursing homes which find it virtually impossible to obtain money in the private market to upgrade fire safety. Arkansas provides free prescription drugs for the elderly. New York is letting persons 60 and older audit courses free at state universities and community colleges.

West Virginia is using a $4 million federal grant to provide transportation tickets for the elderly and disabled on both public and private carriers. And with its state lottery money, Pennsylvania is providing free rides for anyone over 65 on any of more than 70 participating transportation systems at any time but rush hour.

ENVIRONMENT

Boston has been ordered by the Environmental Protection Agency to reduce the number of cars on its old, narrow streets. To help meet the EPA ruling, cut air and noise pollution and reduce the traffic jams, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority offers "dime time" in nonrush hours, when passengers can ride buses, subways and commuter railroads anywhere for a dime. Normal fare is 20 to 25 cents.

Other cities and states are using mass transit to cut down auto damage to the environment.

Chattanooga, Tenn., is inaugurating a mass transit authority. A half-cent of Michigan's two-penny increase in gasoline tax is going to mass transit, and the state is deploying a fleet of minibuses in its smaller cities that can be summoned by telephone for door-to-door service. Michigan also is opening 51 parking lots at strategic spots around the state for car pools. St. Louis city and county, the neighboring state of Illinois and their Bi-State System are reducing bus fares to 25 cents and expanding service. Oregon is using highway money to build more than 60 miles of bikeways — and turning urban bikeways originally planned as scenic routes into bicycle routes.

To Brad Jones, 17, of Portland, who uses a bikeway to get to and from work in a department store, "it's really a great idea." Jones says he has friends who feel the same way. "It's a much safer way and it makes getting to work a lot faster and easier."

In other moves to improve the environment:

West Virginia is scrapping the half-million abandoned cars and assorted other pieces of junk marring its countryside. Connecticut is building 10 plants to process solid waste and recover reusable materials such as iron, glass and aluminum. Waste that cannot be recycled is converted to fuel for power plants. Wisconsin cities and counties collect trash and ship it to regional centers for recycling under supervision of the state.

In the urban environment, Philadelphia is rehabilitating 580 homes in a neighborhood development program and tearing down scores of abandoned homes to turn the lots into urban "green spots." Salt Lake City has forced its downtown businesses to remove the neon jungle of overhanging signs, which once rated its Main Street a mention in a book on kitsch.

POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT

Forty-seven states have passed campaign finance disclosure laws, many carrying stringent penalties for violation —some including loss of office if the violator should win.

The state of Washington requires all candidates for state office and all elected officeholders to file personal financial statements listing salaries, dividends, real estate and stock holdings, positions held in business firms and all clients of the firms doing business worth $500 or more each year. Washington also requires candidates or their election committees to list all campaign contributions of more than $5. It limits total campaign spending to 10 cents per registered voter in each candidate's constituency.

Several states have established watchdogs to keep an eye on their officeholders.

Some states have reorganized their governments.

Louisiana has written a new constitution. Massachusetts, Idaho, Kansas and South Dakota have consolidated their executive agencies into cabinet-like departments. Utah has established regional councils of government. Connecticut has consolidated its prosecutors and given them statewide jurisdiction. And South Dakota has curtailed patronage with civil service-type jobs for all but a few top-level, policy-making employes.

SAFETY AND SECURITY

Cities and states have taken steps to improve the safety and security of their residents and to provide help for citizens in distress.

Georgia provides a telephone information and referral service. ITS Department of Human Resources accepts telephone calls on a toll-free system. Counselors connect callers with appropriate agencies and stay on the line for "immediate feedback."

"We have gotten calls from people who are being evicted who run to the corner drug store and call on the tie-line and say their furniture is being thrown on the streets," says Joy Ruyle, director of the program. "We usually get it stored in temporary housing."

Charge Two In Robbery

Two arrests have been made following the investigation of a break-in and safe robbery at the Kiwk-Pik Market on Rt. 9, Greenville earlier this week.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Deputies Ivan Harris and Wayne Nobles arrested Michael Van Joyner, 21, of 43-C, Stratford Arms Apartments, and Doris Gale Jackson, 20, of 500 C-1, Berdant Street, on charges stemming from the investigation.

Sheriff Tyson said that Joyner was charged with breaking, entering and larceny and safe robbery of the Kwik-Pik while Miss Jackson was charged with being an accessory after the fact.

The sheriff said that some $556 was reported stolen from the store and deputies recovered $344.94.

Joyner was placed under $2,000 bond while Miss Jackson was placed under $1,000 bond.

The arrests were made around 11:35 p.m. Wednesday.

Many Turn To Ethnic Names

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two-year-old Kalim ("King") Jabar ("Justice") Pearson was named from a list of African names circulated by members of the Five Percenters, a black religious group. "I wanted him to be aware that he was black," said Kalim's mother Saundra, a bookkeeper at a publishing concern. "This was his heritage so I looked for an ethnic name, but I had to search."

Mrs. Pearson is part of the trend towards choosing ethnic names for newborns that is chronicled by Sue Browder in "The New Age Baby Name Book" (Workman). To help parents find names that will reflect their heritage the book lists more than 3,000 names from cultures all over the world. Each is presented with its meaning, source and pronunciation.

AnglicanRoofIn Romania Leaks

LONDON (AP) —The last Anglican church in communist eastern Europe and Russia is in danger of being lost by neglect, says the Bishop of Fulham and Gibraltar, the Rt. Rev. John Satterthwaite. There used to be 12 churches and now there is only the Church of the Resurrection in Bucharest, Romania.

The bishop has appealed for donations for extensive repairs to the church roof which are beyond the capacity of the local community.

New York City's Street Beggars Hustle A Living

By RICHARD SISK

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roland the panhandler estimates that he earns "about six or seven pints of wine a day" cleaning car windshields on the Bowery.

He is one of the city's diverse group of street beggars who will play a tune, do card tricks, turn cartwheels on the uptown subway or simply display their disabilities for spare change.

Their ranks include a laid-off advertising executive, a magician between jobs, the blind and disabled, kids playing hookey, college students in need of tuition, Roman Catholic nuns and derelicts like Roland.

Nobody knows how many of them there are but whatever the head count, technically they are violating Section 240.35 of the state's Penal Law which forbids "loitering in a public place for the purpose of begging."

Violators are liable to 15 days in jail and a $250 fine but a spokesman for the Manhattan district attorney's office said, "I can't remember the last time we locked up anybody for panhandling."

COLLEGE KIDS in need of money for their education are among the thousands of beggars entertaining on the streets of New York, hopeful passersby will appreciate their efforts with a cash "donation." (UPI)

"On the rare occasions when they haul one of them in here," he said, "it always ends up with an unconditional discharge."

Roland said the police are no problem. "Sometimes they tell me to move on. I just wait for them to go away," he said.

Otherwise, rag in hand, Roland sits on the ground on the island in the middle of Houston Street where it crosses the Bowery waiting for the light to turn red.

When it does, he pounces on the nearest car, spits on the windshield and starts wiping.

He has the pride of the self-employed. "The government is stealing, the millionaires are all crooks—at least I'm doing a little work and I'm doing it for myself," Roland said.

For Roland to go legitimate, he would need a license from the city's Human Resources Administration and a spokesman there said, "We only license nonprofit, eleemosynary groups. We do not license people to beg."

One of those with a license was Sister Flavia, a nun belonging to the Roman Catholic order of St. John the Baptist.

For 40 years, she said, she has carried her folding chair and tiny wicker basket to ballparks and train stations, airports and lobbies of skyscrapers, wherever crowds gather.

She sits there for six hours a day fingering a Rosary and smiles and says, "God Bless You" to anyone who drops a coin in the basket.

On a stairway leading to the subway at Grand Central Central Station, she said, "We have to earn our living this way. It's the only thing we have."

Around the corner, an old, bald man leaned on a fire hydrant with a cigar box in his lap. He said his name was Vladimir and he had his pants rolled up to expose his artificial legs.

He said he was 66 years old, a native of Yugoslavia and earned about $10 a day by begging.

"I get something else but it's not enough. After the rent and everything else, I'm left with $4 a day. I can't live on that," he said. "When I'm broke, I come here. I don't bother anybody. Why don't you leave me alone!"

Some panhandlers do so well that they are reluctant to say how much they make for fear it will glut the market.

After doing card tricks for a noontime crowd in front of the Plaza Hotel, Peter DePaola said, "If I told you how much I make doing this, there'd be a million magicians on the street."

He said he was 21 years old and a student at Baruch College. "I'm not a beggar," he said. "This keeps me in practice between club dates."

Across the street, on one of the walkways in Central Park, a brass quintet entertained a crowd of about 100 with baroque music. In front of them was a suitcase propping up a sign that read, "Please help us pay our way through school."

Further downtown on Fifth Avenue, near St. Patrick's Cathedral, a bearded man wearing a kilt played the bagpipes. He handed out cards saying his name was "Robert Psotto—Have pipes will travel."

Psotto said he had been playing the pipes on street corners for about six months, ever since he was laid off as an advertising executive. "It pays the rent," he said.

The police policy towards street beggars, according to a spokesman, is one of "benign neglect."

"The only time we bother is when they chase you down the street yelling, 'Hey, gimme some money!' Otherwise, we just tell them to move on," he said.

In the first six months of this year, the police gave tickets to 27 panhandlers; in the same period last year they handed out 40.

A block away from the bagpiper, two officers were trying to get a man who said his name was John Sheridan to move on.

He was sitting on the sidewalk with his dog "Spooky" in his lap. His crutches leaned against a building and his atrophied legs stretched in front of him.

"I used to be a bank guard," he said, "and I got shot in a holdup."

The two cops insisted gently and as Sheridan hobbled off, they looked to the next corner where a blind man with a tin cup shuffled through the crowd of shoppers.

The two cops looked at each other. "The hell with it," one of them said, and they walked away.

Season Of Tailgate Parties Is Here; Colorful And Innovative

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — In parking lots near the football stadiums Saturday afternoons all kinds of cheerful sounds ring out during pre-game time. Sunday afternoons, too.

The tailgate party and picnic season, now a fixture each fall, takes place among fans of the college, high school, sandlot and pro teams.

Victuals range from the simple —brown bag containing bottle of beer or soda and sandwich —to the really splendid: champagne, French bread, whole cold chicken, cheeses, nuts, fruits.

Some tailgate parties or picnics are complicated but fun. Sample: cooking on the site a spaghetti dinner, using a portable kitchen set up in a camper.

The tailgate party has been the mother of invention. Most inventing occurs when owners of the host vehicle search for a way to make the car be seen from afar — distinguished enough to be spotted almost instantly among the acres of cars on the huge parking lots.

The signal system makes it easier for late arrivals to head for the free victuals. The mission isn't always accomplished.

Usually a configuration of flags flown from the car aerial helps. Or a bunch of helium-filled balloons —distinctive and prearranged as to color so guests heading for your party can recognize instantly.

In parking lots before the pre-game parties persons have been seen sitting on car roofs —or standing —and waving flags or clothing. Pants. An unusual hat. Anything that flutters well. Yes, bras have been seen.

The most popular place for flying the identifying signal: the car aerial. Hats, straw baskets, pennants, banners, bunches of oversized plastic flowers.

Another way of letting carloads of guests know where your tailgate is parked: blowing a whistle. Persons sometimes sound bugles, bells, bombay taxi horns.

The more elegant tailgate affairs include tables, usually cardtables, spread with real tablecloth. A bowl of flowers suits such an al fresco eating and drinking ritual.

Tailgating takes its name from th use of a station wagon's tailgate as the fondation for the buffet setting. When there's no wagon the trunk deck of the car becomes the table.

The popularity of tailgate parties on autumn days has increased through the years.

With today's high food prices, sandwiches and a mug of beer would seem to be the best fare.

But elegant feast need not require the hosts to take out a second mortgage. For example, a $5 per person spread might include: whole cold chicken, assorted fruits, cheeses and nuts, fresh French bread and champagne.

Some ideas along that line:

—Put beverages in a lightweight, inexpensive styrofoam ice and drink chest. They come in all sizes. Your best price probably will be found at the local variety store.

—Get beer and soda in cans rather than bottles. Even then you can cut down weight by selecting aluminum cans.

—Use paper plates, napkins. Opt for plastic spoons, knives and forks. You won't have to cart dirty dishes and utensils home if you use disposables.

—Buy condiments in small containers. You can always refill from economy size packages and bottles at home. Otherwise you'll be toting a whole carton filled with salt, pepper, catsup, mustard, vinegar, oil and such.

Leftovers?

After the game is over avoid inching along in traffic jams. A post-game tailgate party gets you out of traffic jams and makes leftovers disappear.

P.S. —Don't be afraid to make your tailgate feast overly splendid. Anything, absolutely anything goes. I have seen lighted candles in sterling silver holders on folding tables with linen cloths in stadium parking lots. Black tie, anyone?

Arsenic Level Research Urged

NEW YORK (UPI) — Research is "desperately needed" to determine whether arsenic from agricultural, industrial and domestic uses is being magnified to precarious levels in the food chain or accumulating in soil, according to a report at the 168th annual meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Arsenic compounds are used as pesticides, herbicides and defoliants, wood preservatives in poles and fiber building boards, and, at least in the past, as pigments in wallpaper, according to Dr. Donald P. Cox of Union Carbide, Charleston, W. Va. As a research associate at Cornell University Dr. Cox found several bacteria that could convert arsenicals to a gaseous form under certain conditions.

Critics Say Toughest Drug Law Hasn't Hurt Traffic

EDITOR'S NOTE — The nation's toughest drug law is a year old, but critics claim it hasn't put a dent in New York drug traffic. Former Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, the law's author, believed it would control big pushers. Backers say time will show it more effective.

By JOY COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two days after his 16th birthday, Jerome Murphy's freedom ended.

He was arrested, on Sept. 17, 1973, for selling $30 worth of heroin to an undercover narcotics agent. Black, a school dropout, veteran of juvenile courts in Albany, N.Y., Murphy was convicted and given life in jail.

Murphy is one of 150 persons given life terms under a drug law that went on the books in New York State Sept. 1, 1973.

The new law put punishment for illegal drugs on a par with murder and kidnaping. But city and federal narcotics experts say that it hasn't put a dent in this city's huge drug traffic, at least not yet.

The year-old law says that anyone at least 16 years of age convicted of selling an eighth of an ounce or more of almost any drug must go to jail for a minimum of one year and a maximum of life. Lifetime parole supervision is mandatory after release from jail.

Under the old drug law, life terms averaged about two dozen a year, and then only for major offenders involved in big drug operations.

Heroin and cocaine are more available on New York City streets today than a year ago, law enforcement officers say. But, they add, the real impact of the new law will come once mandatory life terms are commonplace.

Some of the city's top judges and legal aid lawyers are sounding constitutional alarms. They argue that indefinite prison terms amount to cruel and unusual punishment. But police and district attorneys outside New York City say the new law has helped, at least by driving drug traffic deeper underground.

The controversy may not be New York's alone. Arizona, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts are studying this state's drug law, enacted in the final months of Nelson Rockefeller's 15-year term as governor.

Rockefeller proposed the law as an admittedly drastic measure. He contended that a billion-dollar drug treatment program had failed to halt the "wholesale mugging and robbing" of New Yorkers by an estimated 300,000 heroin addicts, about half of the known addicts in the nation. Most of the 300,000 are in this city.

New emphasis was to be placed on hitting the big pushers. But where the old law provided a 15-year-to-life term for the sale of one pound of narcotics, the new law levied that penalty for one ounce, a sale usually made by small dealers.

"Rightfully so," argues Deputy Police Chief Daniel Courteany, head of New York City's organized crime bureau narcotics division. "A guy with one ounce of heroin does more damage than an individual with a machine gun at Times Square at high noon."

Judge Leonard Shandler, a narcotics trial judge in the Manhattan Supreme Court, maintains the new law is a "menace to individual freedom."

The chief administrative judge for the Manhattan Narcotics Courts, David Ross, agrees. "How can you rehabilitate a man with a life sentence? Are you rehabilitating him for the undertaker?"

One major legal change, in New York City at least, developed this summer in the handling of illicit methadone cases. Methadone, a medical substitute for heroin, is distributed legally through city drug programs. But distribution is in carefully controlled amounts.

An extensive black market has developed because methadone is cheaper than heroin. A day's supply costs $5 compared with $50 for heroin. A number of deaths have been attributed to methadone overdoses from illegal sales.

To deal with the growing methadone problem, six men this summer were given life terms in New York City for sale of as little as $7 worth of methadone-laced orange juice.

Judge Ross termed it "inhuman." The city's top narcotics prosecutor, Asst. Dist. Atty. Frank Rogers, agreed to handle small, illegal methadone sales as misdemeanors in the future.

Upstate New York prosecutors, including Albany Dist. Atty. Ralph Smith, declined. They said stiff prosecutions would continue.

Smith's office prosecuted the Jerome Murphy case and has another pending against a 16-year-old white youngster who allegedly sold "speed." The Albany prosecutor says he likes the new law with its elimination of special treatment for juvenile offenders over 16. "Sure it troubles us to see a 16-year-old faced with this kind of stiff treatment. But that doesn't change the fact that his sales can hook 10-and 11-year-old kids. Drug dealing is an adult crime."

The new law, besides providing mandatory life sentences for drug sales, fixes life sentences for possession of a pound or more of most drugs.

Sale or possession of marijuana, on the other hand, has been reduced under the new law from a felony to a misdemeanor carrying one to 15 years in prison, with probation for first offenders.

The state lacks detailed statistics on the drug law after one year, but New York City alone accounted for more than 75 lifetime convictions.

So far, only five convictions brought the maximum 15 years before possible parole — all in New York City. Among them were a railroad worker who allegedly made more than a dozen heroin sales to an undercover agent and two individuals who sold more than a pound of cocaine.

Cases like those would have received the same stiff penalty under the old law, according to Judge Mary Johnson Lowe, another Manhattan narcotics trial judge. She and some fellow judges were concerned for first-time offenders, all given life terms for small heroin sales. Under the old law, they might have received probation or a maximum of 15 to 25 years for sales under one pound.

Computer Talks Back To Blind

WATERTOWN, Mass. (AP) — A computer is giving blind people back talk — to help them avoid mistakes.

The device, linked to a telephone line, helps sightless persons "look up" the spelling of highly technical words, prepare payrolls, check inventories, proofread printed copy and process invoices. The apparatus was developed by a team of researchers at MIT's Research Laboratory of Electronics headed by Dr. Kenneth Ingham, who has been blind for 17 years.

TERMITES OR ANTS?

Don't be half sure. Call a professional pest control operator for an inspection today

The potential damage to property from termites can exceed the damage from tornadoes, hurricanes and fire. This is why termite protection is as important as a homeowner's insurance policy.

Sonata Rediscovered

CHICAGO (AP) —Cellist Janos Starker gave probably the first American performance of a rediscovered sonata by Johannes Brahms this summer at the Ravinia Festival here.

The "Cello Concerto in D Major" is Brahms's own transcription of the great "Violin Sonata in G Major" and it was published in 1897, the year of Brahms's death.

The work, which Starker assumes was composed for Brahms's "ideal cellist," Robert Hausmann, was brought out in a limited edition and performed until 1930.

Prof. Gottfried Marcus recently found a copy, said to be one of only seven left, in the archives of the Vienna Conservatory. There is no record of it having been performed before in this country.

3 PREMIERES BY HOUSTON BALLET

HOUSTON (AP) —The Houston Ballet will open a subscription season on Oct. 24 in Jesse H. Jones Hall. Performances are scheduled from Oct. 24 to May 10.

ECU 74-75 Film Series Announced

This year the Student Union Lecture Series Committee will sponsor one of the finest Travel-Adventure Film Series ever presented at East Carolina University. The films will be personally presented by their producers and offer a variety of visual travelogue with vivid details. All programs are scheduled for the Mendenhall Student Center Theatre and curtain time is 8:00 p.m.

The Series opens on October 16, 1974, when Art Wilson will present his film, "Doing It Danish." The film is a succession of highlights in color, among them the White Cliffs of Mons Klint: tilting, inherited from medieval jousting: a survey of the mink industry from farm to models: and intimate glimpes into homes, factories, churches, and museums.

On November 6, Gene Wiancko will present his film, "Central America's Wonderland." The film is a study of the Mayan Peoples, their flamboyant regional costumes, picturesque markets, scintillating carnivals with brilliant tropical flowers, viridian beauty of mountains and valleys to provide the background.

James Metcalf's "Angola: A Different Africa" is the first film made in Angola, and it contains pictures of rarely photographed Giant Sable Antelope, as well as graceful herds of Spring Box, and Ostrich. All this and more comes to the campus on December 11.

The Series will continue on January 9, 1975, when Ken Richter returns to E.C.U. to present his new film, "To Austria With love." The program is a tribute to Austria, the land where ladies hands are still kissed and gentlemen called "Herr Dokto," where life without good music and the civilized graces is unthinkable.

Also returning to the campus is Jens Bjerre who will present his film, "The Last Cannibals," on March 17. The film is a combination of photography, organization of material information well grounded in fact, and a near-poetic verbal presentation.

The Series concludes on March 25, when Doug Jones presents his film, "Broadway U.S.A." The film takes the viewer on a tour of New York City as never seen before, from one end of Broadway to the other with much in between.

Season tickets are now on sale in the E.C.U. Central Ticket Office located in the Mendenhall Student Center and will remain on sale until October 16.

Season tickets are priced at $5.00 each with a group rate of $3.50 for groups of twenty or more.

Individuals tickets are priced at $1.00. Request for tickets or information may be obtained by writing or calling the Central Ticket Office, Box 2731, Greenville, N.C. 27834 or by telephoning 758-6611.

CHILDREN AT PLAY. . .on the old cobblestone and brick streets of a Danish town. This scene is from "Doing It Danish," the first of a series of travel films to be shown in the Travel-Adventure Film Series in Mendenhall Student Center Theater. Season tickets are now on sale at the Central Ticket Office.

Festival 74-75 Set

Three musical performance programs by noted artists will comprise the East Carolina University Festival '75 Series for the 1974-75 academic year.

The Festival Series is sponsored by the ECU School of Music and is distinct and separate from the annual Student Union Artists Series which also brings outstanding concert programs to the campus.

The public is invited to attend any Festival program free of charge.

The series opens Wednesday, October 9, with an evening lecture by American composer Daniel Pinkham. A performance by the Clarion Wind Quintet of the N.C. School of the Arts has been scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 16.

The final Festival program is to be a recital by internationally known pianist William Masselos April 10, 1975.

All Festival events will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the A.J. Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall.

Hamilton Tour Today

The tour of historic Hamilton marking the celebration of Martin County's bicentennial takes place today beginning at 2 p.m. and lasting until 6 p.m.

Historic Darden Hotel in the center of town is the visitor center and beginning point for the tour of sites in and near Hamilton.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

To reach Hamilton from Greenville, take N.C. 11 through Bethel to Oak City and turn right on N.C. 125 at Oak City. Total distance is about 30 miles.

ST. LOUIS HALL WINS PRESERVATION AWARD

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special award for the conversion and preservation of Powell Symphony Hall in St. Louis was presented here by the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

The hall, formerly the St. Louis Theater, was built in 1926. One of the lavish movie palaces of that era, its grand foyer was modeled after the chapel of Louis XIV at Versailles.

The St. Louis Symphony Society purchased it in 1967 for $388,475 and restoration amounted to $2 million. It was dedicated in 1968 and pronounced by critics to be first-rate.

25 Paintings By Frerichs At NCMA In Raleigh

Harried and robbed by Indians, imprisoned by soldiers or renegades, his work once destroyed by fire, William Charles Anthony Frerichs had no easy time of it during his life as an artist in 19th century North Carolina.

Frerichs went into mountains in western North Carolina seldom traveled by white men in his quest for the rugged beauty that haunted him.

Some of the results of his search can be seen in the first major exhibition of his work ever presented in this country. Titled "William C.A. Frerichs," the exhibition now on view at the North Carolina Museum of Art and up through October 20.

Twenty-five paintings, mostly landscapes, are in the show. Five of them are in the museum collection, the gifts of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Finch, Thomasville.

The exhibition is small because much of Frerichs' work was sold abroad.

Frerichs is among that band of 19th century American painters whose work has been neglected until recently.

Though born in Belgium and educated there and in Holland, he is considered an American painter. He was 21 when he emigrated to New York in 1850. Five years later he began teaching in Greensboro.

In 1863 the main building of the college burned, destroying Frerichs' own paintings and his collection of art. He began teaching then at the New Garden Boarding School, now Guilford College.

In 1865 he decided to try farming in Williston, a venture that proved unsuccessful.

Frerichs returned to the New York area where he continued to paint, and, in his latter days, became something of a "character," shocking his neighbors with the nudes he hung on his walls.

Besides the fire and failure at farming, Frerichs had endured other hazards in North Carolina, none of which seemingly affected the innate romanticism of his paintings.

Exploring for painting sites in the Sauratown Mountains in Stokes County during the Civil War, he was several times taken prisoner by roving bands of armed men.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By KAY TAYLOR

October is almost here, and with it comes a holiday dear to the hearts of children, Halloween. There is nothing like a good scary story to set the proper mood for this day of witches, ghosts, and goblins. A new book in the Children's Library, WHISTLE IN THE GRAVEYARD by Maria Leach is the perfect thing for those who like spine tingling tales. WHISTLE IN THE GRAVEYARD is a collection of 39 short folktales written to chill your bones. The stories come from many places, Australia, Alaska, England, North Carolina and other places. Read about Old Mr. Dinkins who crawls out of his grave every day to assure every passerby that he is not dead. Then there's the ghost with no head, and most fearsome of all is Raw Head and Bloody Bones. Prepare to be scared when you read this treasury of chillers.

Scott Corbett fans will be happy to find his brand new mystery, THE CASE OF THE SILVER SKULL. From his tree house detective office, Inspector Roger Tearle ponders the dangers of the upcoming open house displays of a collection of valuable silver and a collection of valuable porcelain. With recent robberies of just such valuables in surrounding towns, Inspector Tearle has plenty of cause for concern. Fortunately, the displays are to raise money for the Audbon Society, and, as a junior member, Roger can be present at one open house while his friends to go the other. Sure enough, Roger quickly spots two suspicious characters. Follow him as he foils the thieves in their robbery attempt.

For early readers, there is the story of THE OLD WITCH AND THE WIZARD by Ida DeLage. The wizard is eager to know how the old witch makes her secret brew, and he has tried every trick he knows to get the witch's secret. He even offers to give the witch his marvelous black cat if she whll tell him her secret. But, no, the witch is stubborn. She has her own black cat. Besides, what good would it be to be a witch if she did not have any secrets? The witch is very careful to keep her secret.

Even the preschoolers can join in the fun of Halloween reading with RICHARD SCARRY'S GREAT BIG MYSTERY BOOK. While the two stories in this book are not written specifically for Halloween, they are fine mysteries for young children. Sam Cat and Dudley Pig, two fine detectives have funny adventures catching the thief in the Supermarket Mystery. Their second case takes them on an even merrier chase as they hurry to find the pie thieves in The Great Pit Robbery.

Come on in and join the fun of Halloween reading!

Library Films

The first, a ten minute color film, "The Magic Tree," is a tale from the Congo about an unloved boy a tree whose leaves become people.

The second film, "The Magic Balloons," is also in color and runs for 17 minutes. This is a film about a lonely boy who sells balloons and the fantasies he creates about them.

Show times for the films are: Carver Library, 4 p.m. Tuesday; Children's Library (Sheppard Memorial Library basement), Thursday, 7 p.m. and East Branch, 4 p.m. Friday.

Two Win Awards

Short stories by two graduates of the master of fine arts degree in creative writing at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro have been selected for inclusion in the 1975 edition of "Prize Stories. The O. Henry Awards."

Jessie Schell's short story Alvia, Lettie and Pip, which appeared originally in the spring-summer 1973 edition of "Greensboro Review," and Angel, a story by Eve Shelnutt, will appear in the national anthology commemorating William Sidney Porter.

Recognized as one of the most distinguished collections of contemporary fiction published each year, the anthology includes stories reprinted from literary journals as well as from commercial magazines such as Esquire, Atlantic Monthly and The New Yorker.

Ruby Shackleford To Read At Poetry Forum

Ruby P. Shackleford, Wilson County poet, author of five books, will read in the auditorium of the Mendenhall Student Center of the East Carolina University campus at 8:00 p.m. Tuesday, October 1. There is no admission charge and the public is cordially invited.

Mrs. Shackleford's latest volume of verse, Ascend the Hill, was recently published by Windy Row Press, Peterborough, New Hampshire. Her previous volumes are Dreamer's Wine, A Visual Diary and Poems, Poems, and Poems - 4.

Mrs. Shackleford's poetry and articles have also appeared in various magazines, among them Arizona Quarterly, The American, Crucible, The Rebel, Bitterroot, Elementary English, and The Clearing House. Two of her poems appear in Sixty North Carolina Poets, an anthology recently published by the E.C.U. Poetry Forum Press.

POET RUBY SHACKLEFORD. . .of Wilson and a teacher at Atlantic Christian College will read selections from her poetry at 8 p.m. Tuesday, October 1 in the auditorium of the Mendenhall Student Center on campus. There is no adminssion charge and the public is invited to attend.

Born in Wilson County, N.C., Mrs. Shackleford received her A.B. degree from UNC—Greensboro and her M.A. from UNC—Chapel Hill. She has also done graduate work at E.C.U. At present she teaches English and creative writing at Atlantic Christian College and lives on a farm with her husband, Richard W. Shackleford, near Wilson.

Mrs. Shackleford will be introduced by Dr. John D. Ebbs of the E.C.U. English department, who wrote the introduction to Ascend the Hill.

Mrs. Shackleford spoke at The Awards Luncheon of the Greenville Woman's Club in 1973 and is well known in Greenville.

Her appearance here is sponsored by the ECU Poetry Forum, which meets on campus each first and third Tuesday of the month.

NCNB To Give Sculpture To NCMA

North Carolina National Bank has announced it will give a major sculpture by Richard Lippold to the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh.

The work, entitled "Homage to North Carolina," is an 88-foot-long, glittering creation of intersecting strands of gold and aluminum wire and prism-shaped rods of stainless steel. Designed for the main lobby of NCNB in Charlotte, the sculpture has been on exhibit there since the fall of 1970.

Lippold, known internationally for his work in wire and metal, assembled the complex work over a four-month period, employing a two-story scaffolding. He will remove the sculpture early next year, and NCNB will store it until new facilities of the state museum are ready to receive it.

The sculputre is presently valued at about $100,000. The bank will pay Lippold to remove the sculpture from its present site in Charlotte and later re-assemble it at the museum in Raleigh.

Other well-known Lippold works have been viewed by thousands in Lincoln Center and the Pan Am and Seagram Buildings in New York, the Jesse Jones Hall for Performing Arts in Houston, and the Cathedral of St. Mary in San Francisco.

ECU Senior Art Shows

The fall quarter 1974 schedule of senior art shows is fully underway, with the third student show of the quarter going up today to be on view through October 5.

Becky Chadwick is the senior whose work opens today at the Baptist Student Union on East 10th Street, to remain there through next Saturday.

In two previous fall shows, Rick Marshall and Jo Ann Twyman exhibited at the Baptist Student Union the week of September 15-21; and Georgia Getsinger had a show in the cases at Rawl Building from September 22-28.

The senior shows are on view for a week's period, and are exhibited at three different sites—the Baptist Student Union, the upstairs hallway gallery of Rawl Building; and the display cases on the ground floor of Rawl Building.

Watercolor Classes At Art Center

To be taught by Warren Chamberlain, retired faculty member of the East Carolina School of Art, classes will be for two hours beginning at 9:30 a.m.

The classes will be held each Thursday for a ten week period. There will be an admission fee charged, to be determined and announced at a later date.

Persons interested in the class are asked to call the Greenville Art Center, telephone 758-1946 for additional information and enrollment.

Ayden Native To Head Coastal Advisory Unit

East Carolina University's Division of Continuing Education has expanded its services to the coastal regions of the state with the hiring of a full-time Director of Environmental Education.

John Richard Buck, 27, a native of Ayden, has joined the ECU staff to direct its Marine Advisory Services program in coastal zone management.

The program will provide objective and balanced information to municipal and county planning bodies and to the general public on aspects of coastal zone management, with special emphasis upon the value of planning and zoning and the benefits of land and water classification.

JOHN R. BUCK

Buck said he would attempt to balance the program in its approaches to development, conservation, ecological and aesthetic interests, and to provide information which will enable the local public to make better use of available resources.

"The program is designed to provide accurate and unbiased information on the needs, purposes and practices of coastal zone management," he said.

"We hope to increase public awareness of the need to determine uses for our coastal resources which are environmentally sound."

Buck will also act as liaison between coastal communities and federal and state agencies.

Consideration Draws Workmen

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You don't need to treat your workman like a guest, but you sometime might offer him a drink of water. That's a tip from painter and wallpaperer, Fred Thompson of Cannondale, Conn., a popular type who is always booked up.

"Indoors it isn't too bad, but I've been up on the ladder at some houses in summer on sweltering hot days and the occupants are strolling around with a drink in their hands, but they never think to ask if I am thirsty."

Not all are that way, Fred says, and most of the time he has water or another beverage in his truck. But sometimes it is used up, and if you are painting a house outdoors, it may be a long time between drinks. He could ask for it but he likes to have people think of it, he says.

Congenial people have an easier time getting workmen than the thoughtless types, the grouches and the nags, he insists.

"Anybody who chews out a workman will find he'll have a difficult time getting tradesmen to come to his house. The word spreads rapidly."

He has had customers who haggle over every little thing as he makes an estimate. They want to take a few dollars off any price as a matter of course. In fact, one man asked him to reduce the price and use cheaper paint, but when he did, "the man complained that it didn't look good."

People take advantage of workmen in other ways. Women try to use workmen as baby sitters, he says. He wouldn't mind obliging when they say, "I'm just going to run down the road a moment" but if the child were to get hurt, he wouldn't know what to do. Many women do not consider the pitfalls, he says.

One of his pet gripes is the too-cluttered house. People know he is to come on a particular day. In addition, he checks the night before. But often when he arrives at the job, a room may be so cluttered he can hardly move much less put up a ladder. If he is working by the hour he doesn't mind being a moving man, he says. But he doesn't want to move a bedroom set out of a room when he comes prepared to start work.

"It doesn't even occur to the occupants to remove drawers which would make bureaus lighter to move. I don't mind moving light pieces, especially when there is enough room to work by shoving them around easily, but I draw the line at moving a 300-pound sleeping bed in a living room. The man of the family should do some preparation work before I arrive."

Some people are pennywise but they don't think to ask questions when they are getting an estimate. For example, when he paints a ceiling, he says, he must cover everything in a room, especially paintings, mirrors and frames. As long as he must cover everything, which takes time, he could paint the entire room for just a little bit more. But he is seldom asked for two estimates.

He doesn't like to pick out colors for people. He'll take a swatch to a store and have the paint made up, but even then women may insist the purple or green or whatever is not the same shade. Even white is not a definable color, he says. He always asks which white. There are many different ones, even in the off-white color range.

Off-white is very popular right now, he says. And people are painting rooms that go together in the same color. They've caught on to that decorating trick. And white bathrooms are back because people would rather put color into the accessories that can be changed at whim.

He also advises considering the cost of painting when you decide to install louvre doors. It raises the price of a job considerably. In one house, doors were strung across windows and walls of a living room, he says, and they were shocked at the $300 painting estimate.

And if you are planning to sell your house within a year or before you will redecorate again it is best to pick white or light colors that people can decorate around or repaint easily. It isn't a good idea either, in his opinion, to use far-out wall-coverings in a house that might be sold soon. In addition to the fact that not everyone may like the paper, it may put your house in an unflattering light, so that you might have two strikes against it when you are trying to sell it.

You should also remember to remove all priceless antiques and sentimental objects in any room that is to be painted or wall covered.

And you should meet the painter at the door in an acceptable costume, he advises.

"Baby doll pajamas (the short ruffled bloomer type) are all right in the bedroom, but women shouldn't wear them to greet workmen at the door. Many women talk about being fearful of strangers coming into their homes, but it is getting so some workmen are fearful," he has learned.

Service Awards Go To Nearly 100 Veteran University Employes

Nearly 100 veteran employes of East Carolina University received ECU Service Awards in ceremonies sponsored by the university's Department of Personnel Wednesday.

The service awards are given at five year intervals of individual service by an employe under the State Personnel Act. The first ECU employe service awards were presented under the awards program inauguarted last year.

Included in the group receiving awards Wednesday was Rosa Lee Parker of Greenville, an ECU Laundry employe, whose 30 years of service was the longest of any with continuous service at ECU.

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU Chancellor, congratulated the employes for their combined record of service in "building an institution." He pointed out that the present number of ECU employes, 1,600, exceeds the size of the student body when Jenkins came to ECU in the 1950s. ECU now has 11,392 students.

He also commented upon the effect and influence of individual employes on the reputation of an institution.

15 years—Lizzie I. Cox, Laundry; William C. Flake, Security; Corrine M. Heath, School of Business; Donald Y. Leggett, Alumni; Faye D. Leggett, Arts & Sciences; Anne B. May, Business Office; Willie Nobles, Post Office; Virginia B. Taylor, D.E.C.; and Jenny B. Tripp, Cashier.

Ruth B. Scott, Dean of Women; Shirley C. Smith, Housekeeping; James Statin, Building & Grounds; Annie C. Tyson, Housekeeping; and Linwood Wiggins, Security.

Five years—Dannelet A. Alley, Math; Jasper Barnes, Housekeeping; Walter J. Barnes, Housekeeping; Lillie B. Barrett, Housekeeping; Joseph L. Idolatry Among Some Residents

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Some residents of Northwest Argentina, Paraguay and Southern Brazil venerate an image known as Our Lord of the Good Death.

The image, a skeleton seated with chin resting on one hand, does not correspond to any saint of the Roman Catholic faith professed by most of the population. Prayers are said to Our Lord of the Good Death, also known as Saint Death, for luck in love, gambling and fighting.

No Rush Toward Acupuncture

DALLAS (UPI) — A University of Texas Southwestern Medical School professor recently returned from China says acupuncture will not be a fully recognized method of surgical pain relief in this country for a long time.

Dr. M.T. Jenkins, chairman of the medical school's anesthesiology department, said it was doubted acupuncture anesthesia would be accepted by western patients who tend to have relatively lower pain thresholds than Orientals.

RECOVERY TEAM

SAIGON (UPI) — The Joint Casualty Resolution Center here is staffed with 160 American troops charged with recovering the bodies of 1,100 U.S. servicemen still missing in Indochina. The unit's budget is $1.1 million a year.

ABC LANGUAGES

WILLEMSTAD, Netherlands Antilles (UPI)—Inhabitants of the three southern islands in the Netherlands Antilles — Aruba, Bonaire and Curacao — usually speak at least four languages: Papiamento, Dutch, Spanish and English.

Papiamento is the local dialect which developed when Curacao was a major slave market in the Caribbean. It combines words from various languages spoken by the slave traders, including Spanish and Portuguese.

Prior to the Yom Kippur war, Kissinger was quoted widely as having said that he would never touch the Middle East, partly because he is a Jew and partly because the situation seemed intractable.

His accession to secretary of state in September and the war's outbreak on Oct. 6, 1973, changed all that. An opportunist, he found in the indecisive struggle the seeds of settlement. The fighting gave way to cease fire on Oct. 24, 1973, and Kissinger engineered an agreement to preserve it.

Since the 1973 war Kissinger has made seven trips to the Middle East and now will make an eighth.

Kissinger says that he is prepared to engage in a brief round of new shuttle diplomacy "if there is an especially critical point."

"I do not think it is in the U.S. interests nor in the interests of other countries to expect me personally to settle every issue no matter where it arises," he said.

This would seem to suggest that Kissinger does not intend to play as large a role in the year ahead as in the year past. But it would be hard to find anyone in Washington willing to bet on that.

Pirates Squeeze Past Southern Illinois

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Some 15,000 fans packed into Ficklen Stadium last night to watch a real dog-fight between the Salukis of Southern Illinois and the Pirates of East Carolina.

They got their money's worth and few of them left before the final horn went off. When it finally did sound, East Carolina had come from 13 points down to nip the Salukis, 17-16, in what must go down as their poorest offensive effort of the year so far.

The victory did enable the Bucs to remain unbeaten this year, as they captured their third straight, while Southern Illinois was losing its third straight.

The Wild Dog defense of the Pirates took one quarter to get riled up, but when they did, they bit the Salukis—and bit them hard. At the end of the first period, Southern Illinois had run for 76 yards and passed for 26. They scored on a 12-yard pass on the first play of the second period, upping their yardage to 38.

But except for one 60-yarder late in the game, East Carolina got very stingy. They held Southern to minus four yards rushing the rest of the way—getting some help from a wild snap from center on a punt, allowed only 41 more yards passing.

Southern quarterback Fred McAlley, starting his first game, put Southern ahead on two touchdown passes, one of 15 yards to Pat Forys, and the other of 12 yards to Bruce Puhr. But aside from that, they got only one PAT, and a 37-yard field goal by Ken Seaman.

East Carolina got a two-yard touchdown run by Bobby Myrick and a four-yarder by Mike Weaver. They also got a freak safety, and a one-point PAT by Jim Woody and a two-pointer by Ken Strayhorn.

Southern Illinois, after the first period, did little on offense, but their defense was extremely tough, constantly knocking the ECU line back and holding the Bucs to little yardage. East Carolina failed to get a first down in the second half until 9:35 remained, when they launched their touchdown drive.

One of those set up their first score. Midway through the first period, Weaver, operating from his own 21, missed Myrick on a pitchout and Gary Powell recovered for the Salukis on the ECU 15.

On the first play from scrimmage, McAlley hit Forys in the end zone for the score, and Seaman's kick made it 7-0 with 6:51 to go.

Southern got the ball back after a punt at their own 29, and moved for their second touchdown. Joe Laws picked up five and Lawrence Boyd added six. Laws picked up eight more, and then Boyd broke away through the middle for 21 to the ECU 31. McAlley kept twice for seven yards, then hit Forys for 11 to the 13. After a yard gain, on the final play of the half, McAlley hit Puhr on the first play of the second period for the score. A bad snap from center forced the holder, Leonard Hopkins, to try and run for it, but he was halted and Southern led, 13-0, with 14:53 left in the half.

East Carolina got across midfield for the first time following the kickoff, moving to the SIU 43 before being forced to kick. But John Rende fumbled the punt and Skip Russell recovered for the Bucs on the 10.

Two plays netted a yard, but then Strayhorn took a pitchout down to the two. Myrick went around the left side from there for the first Pirate score, and Woody's kick made it 13-7 with 10:33 left.

The Bucs returned to Southern territory after a punt, moving from their own 13 down to the Southern 28 before a fumble cost them the ball and a chance to score. That was the last time in the half that either team came close.

Southern, after the second half kickoff, got to midfield on their first possession, but the Wild Dogs dug in and forced the kick. For the rest of the third period, it was simply four downs and a kick for both teams as it settled into a defensive struggle.

Fate then struck the Salukis—almost like history repeating itself (last year, two bad snaps cost them two touchdowns against the Pirates). Back to punt, Rende saw the snap from center (from the 37) sail over his head. He raced back to try and get the ball, finally trying to boot it again. The ball went backwards, however, and out of the end zone for a safety. With 5:02 left, it cut the Saluki lead to 13-9.

Astoundingly, however, East Carolina fumbled the free kick at their own 41, giving Southern a chance to put it away. They got one first down, at the 28, however, but the Bucs dug in and a 45-yard field goal attempt by Seaman fell short.

Southern got it right back on an interception by Powell at the Pirate 40. A 15-yard penalty against the Bucs put it on the 28, but again, the defense stopped the Salukis, and this time a 47-yard field goal attempt was again short as the fourth period opened.

Following an exchange of punts, the Pirates got the ball at their own 47 when Danny Kepley, who was as usual outstanding on defense, recovered a Saluki fumble.

That set up the go-ahead score. Schink carried twice for eight yards, and Raymond Jones got the first Buc first down of the half at the Southern 42. After a three-yard loss, Schink burst through the middle for 23 yards to the 22. Weaver carried for six and Schink hit twice more for 12 to the four yard line. Weaver then went left with the ball, cutting into the end zone to put the Bucs into the lead.

The Pirates used their "water-bucket" play on the PAT, with Strayhorn dancing untouched into the end zone with the key two-point PAT, making it 17-13 with 6:45 to play.

Southern came back, and just when it appeared that they were halted, McAlley hit Bob Habbe with a short pass over the middle, on third and long yardage, and Habbe broke away, finally being chased out of bounds by Ernest Madison at the Buc 14, saving a touchdown.

Southern couldn't move it in, however, and settled for a field goal, this one by Seaman from 37-yards away. That cut it to 17-16 with 2:53 left.

The Bucs managed to control the ball until just 16 seconds were left, and Mike Cox punted the ball dead on the Southern 10. Two passes fell incomplete and Gary Niklason intercepted on the final play of the game to preserve the hard-fought victory.

The Pirates put their winning streak on the line next week against North Carolina State, an unbeaten team so far this year, in a game that will probably be on regional television. A decision on that, as well as game time, is expected sometime Monday.

Carter's Score Beats Citadel

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Terry Carter's 22-yard field goal with 25 seconds to play beat The Citadel, 27-24, Saturday night and kept Richmond undefeated in three football games.

The Citadel came back from a 24-17 halftime deficit with a touchdown early in the final period on Rod Lanning's one-yard spurt.

Al Newby opened the scoring for Richmond with a one yard run in the first minute of the game after a fumble by The Citadel. The Citadel then ran off two touchdowns and a field goal, and Richmond got a field goal and two touchdowns to establish the lead that held up into the final period.

It was the first Southern Conference game of the season for both teams.

Paul Tanguay set a school record for field goal length with a 48-yarder for The Citadel in the first period. Carter promptly matched it with a 37-yard try.

The Citadel's first period touchdowns came on a one-yard sneak by Gene Dotson and a 29-yard halfback pass from Lanning to Mike Riley.

Andrew Johnson, running back for The Citadel, had his fifth consecutive 100-yard rushing game, including two games last season. He had 144 yards for the night. His longest run against Richmond was for 51 yards to the Richmond one to set up Dotson's scoring plunge.

Knight, ranked sixth among the nation's passers, was held by The Citadel to 118 yards and 11 completions in 21 attempts. The Citadel intercepted two of his throws.

The Citadel fumbled on the first offensive play of the game at its two. Its kickoff returner's knee had hit the ground at that point. The fumble that came after set up Newby's scoore.

Wolfpack Stops Rally, Wins, 28-22

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Running back Roland Hooks broke open a halftime tie with touchdown runs of one and six yards early in the third period and 13th-ranked North Carolina State held on for a 28-22 college football victory over Syracuse Saturday.

Trailing 28-14 with less than three minutes left, Syracuse pulled to within six points on tailback Ken Kinsey's three-yard run with 2:08 remaining and Don Magee's run for a two-point conversion.

A last ditch effort to pull the game out fell short when North Carolina State recovered an onside kick at their own 23 and ran the clock out.

Syracuse, 1-3, had moved on top 14-7 midway in the second quarter on quarterback Jim Donoghue's seven-yard keeper. Kinsey ran the ball in for a two-point conversion.

The Wolfpack, 4-0, came right back, however, moving 80 yards in 11 plays for a touchdown that pulled them even at the half, 14-14 Quarterback Dave Buckey hit Hooks on a two-yard pass for the score with 31 seconds remaining.

The Orangemen opened the scoring early in the second quarter on Kinsey's two-yard plunge. The scoring drive began at the North Carolina State 28 yardline after a ten-yard Wolfpack punt.

North Carolina State, which managed only one first down and failed to get past it's own 18-yard line in the first quarter, made it 7-6 on fullback Stan Fritts' four-yard run three minutes later.

North Carolina State took the opening second-half kickoff marching 80 yards in 11 plays. Hook's plunged the final yard for the touchdown. The 6-foot, 197-pound senior scored again from six yards out on the Wolfpack's next drive three minutes later to make it 28-14.

The Wolfpack victory overshadowed the running of Kinsey, who carried 31 times for 137 yards en route to his two touchdowns. The 5-foot-9, 180-pound sophomore now has run for 493 yards in four games.

Fritts led the Wolfpack with 93 yards on 25 carries. Hooks added 76 yards on 15 carries.

Buckey, a 6-foot junior who engineeered a 43-20 victory over Syracuse two years ago, completed 10 of 13 passes for 99 yards and one touchdown. His favorite receiver was tight end Pat Hovance, who caught four passes for 55 yards. Buckey's twin brother, Don, caught two passes for 26 yards.

Maryland Stops Tar Heels

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Louis Carter ran 76 yards for one Maryland touchdown and scored another on a 22-yard pass from Bob Avellini, pacing the Terps to a 24-12 victory over North Carolina in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday.

Carter rushed for 158 yards while setting a school record with 23 career touchdowns and Avellini tossed for two scores in his first start since being injured in the fifth game of 1973.

Recording their first victory after two losses to Southeastern Conference foes, the Terps checked the North Carolina offense for more than two periods after the Tar Heels had missed two 40-yard field goal attempts in the first 16 minutes.

But the Tar Heels, who had not crossed midfield in more than two quarters, struck for two quick touchdowns late in the game after two fumble recoveries by defensive end Ted Elkins.

Bill Paschall passed 10 yards to Andy Chacos for a TD with 3:51 remaining.

After another alert play by Elkins, Chris Kupec connected with Jimmy Jerome for 38 yards and another North Carolina score. For the second time, a two-point conversion failed with three minutes remaining.

Carter ran 76 yards on Maryland's first possession of the second quarter and scored on his pass reception with 3:05 left in the third period.

Avellini passed three yards to John Schultz with seven seconds left in the half to make it 14-0 and Steve Mike-Mayer booted a 37-yard field goal as the fourth quarter got underway.

The two costly Maryland fumbles were made by substitute quarterbacks after Avellini was taken out with Maryland ahead 21-0.

Freshman Mark Manges, in his first appearance, lost the first fumble and the other was dropped by Leon Harris.

Avellini, who replaced the injured Ben Kinard, completed eight of 17 passes for 121 yards. Carter, in addition to rushing the ball 26 times, caught three passes for 47 yards.

Kupec gained 112 yards for North Carolina while completing eight of 13 passes while Paschall's only completion in four attempts went for a touchdown.

Mike Voight gained 53 yards on the ground for North Carolina, which suffered a second consecutive loss to Maryland for the first time since 1960.

An all-day rain, which finally subsided in the second quarter, held the crowd for the regionally televised game to 17,800. A turnout of 35,000 had been expected.

Cubs Surprise Cardinals, 8-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Madlock's bases-loaded triple in the sixth inning vaulted the Chicago Cubs to an 8-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Pitcher Dave LaRoche opened the sixth with a single and Rick Monday singled off first baseman Joe Torre's glove. Don Kessinger walked to load the bases. Billy Williams, who had homered in the third, popped out before Madlock delivered his triple to right center off loser Lynn McGlothen, 16-12.

The Cardinals had taken a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning, scoring all their runs with two out and after a 29-minute rain delay.

Chicago starting pitcher Rick Reuschel walked Ted Simmons and Torre before the rains came. Reuschel did not return because of a blister on his right index finger. Laroche walked Bake McBride to fill the bases. Ken Reitz singled home two runs and Mike Tyson followed with a a run-scoring double.

The Cardinal defenses collapsed in the seventh when the Cubs struck for four unearned runs on a pair of singles and three successive Cardinal errors.

VMI Smashes Davidson, 43-7

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP)—Ronnie Moore returned punts 52 and 66 yards for VMI touchdowns Saturday as the Keydets mauled Davidson 43-7 in a Southern Conference football game.

Quarterback Tony Farry ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third as VMI brought its conference record to 2-0 and overall mark to 2-1. The loss was the second straight for Davidson, both in the league, under new Coach Ed Farrell.

Ronnie Norman ran 15 times for 104 yards and a touchdown to lead VMI's running game that netted 257 yards, while Davidson managed only 23 yards in 46 carries.

David Harper's 10-yard pass to Foney Mullins gave the losing Wildcats their touchdown in the second period.

Split end Moore, in addition to his two punt returns for touchdowns, totaled 169 yards on five returns, caught two passes for 44 yards and ran twice for 11 yards.

The Keydets scored twice in the first period and held a 19-7 halftime lead. VMI began the point parade after a drive that bogged down on Davidson's one. The Wildcats punted out and Moore's 23-yard return put the ball on the Davidson 22. In three rushes, Norman scored, going over from the eight. Davidson was unable to move to a first down on the next series and punted, Moore returning the kick 52 yards for his first touchdown.

In the second period, Davidson punted short to its 27 and in five plays VMI scored.

Duke Runs Past Cavs, Randle For 27-7 Victory

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Quarterback Hal Spears scored one touchdown and passed for another as he and Larry Martinez led Duke's Blue Devils to an impressive 27-7 victory over Virginia Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

Virginia, 1-2 for the season, rolled 80 yards for a first period touchdown with Ken Shelton scoring on a six-yard pass from Scott Gardner. From there on, however, Duke dominated.

The crowd of 18,250 saw Duke score on the first play of the second period when Martinez raced over from Virginia 11 for his seventh touchdown of the season. He scored again in the third quarter on a one-yard run after Jeff Christopher had intercepted a Gardner pass on the Cavaliers' 25.

Duke, now 2-1 for the season, ran its lead to 13-7 in the second quarter on a 20-yard scoring pass from Spears to Randy Cobb.

Spears turned in perhaps his greatest game as he completed 10 of 17 passes for 170 yards. In the third quarter he went over from the Virginia two to cap a 67-yard scoring drive.

Virginia's Joe Jenkins attempted a 51-yard field goal in the first period and another for 53 yards in the second quarter, both short.

Virginia was impressive in its scoring drive behind the running and passing of Gardner who hit on throws of 11 and 13 yards before completing the scoring pass the Shelton.

Christopher was outstanding in the Duke secondary. He intercepted a Gardner pass to set up one score and in the second period set up another by recovering a fumble by Don Flow on the Virginia 19. Two plays later Spears passed to Cobb for the touchdown.

Martinez led Duke in rushing with 64 yards in 17 carries. Joe Sroba rolled up 90 yards for Virginia in 18 carries.

Duke's Bob Grupp kept Virginia deep in its own territory with some long punts. He kicked eight time for an average of more than 37 yards.

Cincinnati Stops Giants On Homer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Concepcion's three-run homer in the seventh inning snapped a 6-6 tie and led the Cincinnati Reds to a 13-6 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

The victory kept alive Cincinnati's slim hopes of overtaking the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West race. The Reds were 2½ games behind the first-place Dodgers, who played a night game at San Diego Saturday.

The Reds took a 2-0 lead in the first when Pete Rose opened with a walk, moved to third on a single by Joe Morgan and scored on Johnny Bench's single. Morgan came in to score on Concepcion's two-out pop fly single to right.

The Giants got a run back in the second, but Cincinnati made it 5-1 in the bottom of the inning on a two-run homer by Morgan and a solo blast by Bench.

The Giants got three runs in the third, two of them on a homer by Dave Kingman, then tied the score when relief pitcher Ed Halicki led off fourth inning with his first major league homer.

Cincinnati took a 6-5 lead in the bottom of the fourth when Cesar Geronimo singled, stole second and scored on a double by Rose, but San Francisco evened it in the top of the seventh on singles by Gary Matthews, Kingman and Arnold.

But in the bottom of the seventh, Bench led off with a walk and Tony Perez singled. One out later, Concepcion blasted his 14th homer of the season.

The Reds broke the game open with four runs in the eighth. Rose tripled, Bench was intentionally walked and Tony Perez drove home Rose with a double for his 100th RBI of the season. Ray Knight then cracked a two-run double, his first hit in the major leagues, and Ken Griffey drove in the fourth run with a single.

Clemson Pulls Off Upset Of Georgia Tech

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Clemson overcame a rash of mistakes and a 10-point Georgia Tech lead to upset the favored Yellow Jackets 21-17 Saturday in the 44th football meeting of the long-time rivals.

The Tigers came alive midway in the third quarter, when they were trailing 17-7, and rode the passing and running of substitute quarterback Mike O'Cain to victory.

O'Cain came off the bench in the third period and guided Clemson on two touchdwon drives.

Helping the Clemson cause was 6-foot-5 tight end Bennie Cunningham who caught two touchdown passes, one for 12 yards, the other for four.

Cunningham's first scoring catch gave the Tigers a 7-0 lead, but Tech came roaring back.

First, there was a 33-yard field goal by Danny Smith. Then there was an 11-play, 49-yard drive with Adrian Rucker going the final yard.

Georgia Tech then took its 10-point lead when Eddie Porter penetrated a wave of blockers, intercepted an erratic pitchout by quarterback Mark Fellers and ran 19 yards for a touchdown early in the third quarter.

A Georgia Tech fumble gave the Tigers good field position midway in the third period and O'Cain came on. Clemson needed nine plays to score with Ken Callicutt going over from the one. Then came the winning 46-yard drive in the fourth quarter. With the ball on the Georgia Tech four, O'Cain fooled the defense with an inside fake, then passed to Cunningham in the end zone.

Clemson won its first game of the season after losing two in a row despite fumbling five times, losing two of them, having one pass intercepted, a punt blocked and getting 65 yards in penalties.

It was two different ball games in the first and in the second half. During the first two periods, Georgia Tech, led by halfbacks Tony Head and David Sims ripped the Clemson line for 177 yards. In the last two quarters, Georgia Tech didn't make a first down, gained only 10 yards rushing and 10 yards passing.

On the otherside of the coin, Clemson rushed for 85 yards in the first half and ended the game with 242 yards on the ground.

Georgia Tech had a chance to pull it out in the final minute when Danny Rhino blocked a punt. But the Tiger defense stopped the threat when Dennis Smith intercepted a Tech pass.

Rampant Rally Nips Jacksonville, 22-21

DIVING FOR A GAIN—Rose High School's Doug Paschal (24) is tripped up after a gain by an unidentified Jacksonville tackler. Paschal scored once and ground out 120 yards for the Rampants as they rallied to take a 22-21 victory over the Cardinals Friday night. Rose came from behind three times in the game to take their fourth win in five starts. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Rose High School overcame some sloppy play to outlast a tough Jacksonville team, 22-21, Friday night, scoring two fourth quarter touchdowns.

Tommy Joe Payne made two outstanding catches that kept the two drives alive, as Lindberg Morris scored on runs of 35 and 6 yards to nip Jacksonville.

Earlier, Doug Paschal, who proved almost unstoppable as the Rampant workhorse, picked up one from four yards out. Jeff Hagans kicked two extra points, and a game-opening safety by the Rampants provided two key points.

Jacksonville's scores came on 7 and 1 yard runs by Wayne Humphry and a 56-yard scramble by quarterback Leander Green. Collins Summrall kicked one PAT and passed to Reggie Sandlin for the other.

The Rose offensive machine didn't really get cranked up until the fourth period. They finished with 296 yards in total offense and 142 of that came during the crucial final frame.

Paschal, who carried the ball 34 times, picked up 120 yards, his third straight 100-plus night. He constantly crashed through for key yardage on third or fourth down plays when it was needed.

The injuries also piled up on both teams. Several Rampants were hurt, including quarterback Henry Trevathan, who had to sit out both of the final drives.

Jacksonville came into the game fired up, seeking their third straight win, but instead saw their record fall to 2-3 on the year. Rose, which opened the game very flat, proved that it is a good team by coming up with the plays when they were needed, and upped their record to 4-1, the only loss a one-point decision to New Bern, an unbeaten team.

Another key factor in the game was the punting of Jacksonville's Gary Jones, who averaged 52 yards a kick and kept Rose bottled up deep in its own territory most of the first half.

Rose got a break right away, however. On the kickoff, Sandlin had to retreat after the ball bounced away from him. He picked it up on the four and was dragged down on the one. Mike Brewington then shot through on the first play from scrimmage to drop Sandlin in the end zone for a safety and a 2-0 lead with only 29 seconds gone.

Rose then took the free kick in good position at the Card 47, and started what looked like a scoring match. A five-yard penalty on first and 10 at the 13 however, helped to foul them up, and they were set to try for a field goal from the 22, when they were hit by five more yards. This time, Tim Toates, 37-yard kick had the height and distance, but just fell off to the side, and the five-yards could have meant the difference.

Jacksonville, instead, took over at the 20 and marched in seven plays to the go-ahead score. On the first play, after only a one-yard gain, Rose was hit with a 15-yarder for face-masking, giving the Cards a first down at the 36. Sandlin took a pitchout around the left side and streaked 40 yards to the Rose 24 before he was finally forced out of bounds. Rose held there until fourth and seven, when Green hit Ray Washington for 14 yards and a first down at the seven. On the first play after that, Humphry scooted through a big hole at right tackle for the score. A bad snap spoiled the kick and Jacksonville led, 6-2 with 4:25 left in the period.

Rose came bouncing right back, however, and took the lead again. On the second play, a Jacksonville penalty for piling on moved it to the Card 40. Paschal hit for five and Andrew Newton added 10 to the 25. Paschal carried three times for 11 yards, then Newton added six. Paschal hit for four to the four, then with 28 seconds left, cracked over right tackle for the score. Jeff Hagans kick put Rose up, 9-6.

After Rose had been held following a giant 63 yard boot by Jones, Jacksonville got it at the Rose 41 and drove it in to take the lead at the half. Humphry went around the right side for 12, then Green kept for 12 more. After a three-yard gain, Green hit Robert Bowen for 11 to the three, and after three plays netted two yards, Humphrey moved over from the one on fourth down to put the Cards ahead again. Summrall kicked the PAT for a 13-9 lead with 5:44 left.

Jacksonville got good field position again after Rose was forced to punt from deep in its own territory again, as Sandlin's runback put it at the Rampant 16. But this time the defense held, as the half neared the end.

Then, late in the period, Rose got it on their own three and drove 97 yards for the go-ahead score. Paschal picked up a first down on fourth and one from the Rampant 12 out to the 17 as the quarter ended. Newton opened the fourth with an 11-yard spurt, and a 15-yard penalty against Jacksonville moved it to the Rose 42.

The Rampants lost three on the next play, but Payne then came to the rescue, pulling in a 26-yard pass from Morris between three defenders for a first down at the Jacksonville 35.

The Cards used the big play, however, to come right back. After first and 15 (following an illegal procedure penalty), Humphry fumbled and the ball was pounced on at the 44 by Greg McIver right under the noses of two Rose defenders. It netted 13 yards and set up a second and two. Green went back as if to run the option-pass, then headed upfield. Three times he was hit by Rampant defenders, but each time, he spun away, finally breaking into the clear to race 56 yards as Jacksonville climbed back on top. Summrall tried to run it in, found himself trapped, but then spotted Sandlin all alone, and his toss was perfect, making it 21-15 with 8:47 left.

Rose got it at the 35, however, and stubbornly drove downfield for the clincher. Ball hit Payne with another key pass, excellently caught on his fingertips, of 18 yards on third and 15 from the Rose 30. Morris then got six to the Card 46, but two more plays netted just a yard. On fourth and three, Paschal bowled over the Card defenders for an 11-yard gain to the 34. He added three, then Newton picked up eight. After three by Morris, Paschal hit twice for 11 yards to the nine. Newton set up the score to the six, and Morris went over right tackle to knot it at 21-21. Hagans' boot was perfect, and Rose led, 22-21 with 3:23 and it became the defense's job.

And the defense responded. Jace Hagans picked off a second-down halfback pass at the Rose 42, and the Rampants controlled the ball until the final seconds. Jacksonville got it back for one play, but couldn't get off their try for the bomb.

Rose won't get much time to relax this week, as they play another tough foe next week, traveling to Goldsboro.

Petty Sitting On Front Row

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—The garden-type wheelbarrow was stacked with $1 bills and Richard Petty stared at it as if he'd never seen that much money before.

The most prolific stock car race winner in history and said to be a millionaaire at least once over, Petty had just won the pole position for Sunday's Old Dominion 500. The money—1,000 $1 bills—was a bonus offered to the top qualifier in a 36-car field.

"Is that what money looks like?" the tall, handsome driver asked as Speedway President H. Clay Earles wheeled the cart up pit road and deposited it somewhere near the pole-winning Dodge.

"I've won a lot of the stuff over the years, but I almost never see any of it," Petty said. 'don't even want to count it; I'll take Mr. Earles' word for it."

Petty, whose career winnings total in excess of $1.75 million, will start his bid for a 14th victory at tight and tough little Martinsville Speedway from the inside berth in the front row.

Behind him will be 35 other drivers seeking a share of $70,925 in prize money, biggest purse ever offered at a short track.

Petty drove his Dodge at 84.119 miles per hour Friday to gain the No. 1 starting spot. It was 2 miles per hour short of the track record for the heavy Grand National stockers.

And it barely edged out the 84.078 m.p.h. posted by Sonny Hutchins, a visitor from the Modified ranks who is driving a Chevrolet. Hutchins was one of four non-Grand National regulars who made it into the top 10 starting positions.

But for Petty, it was the first step in what could be a $20,000 payday Sunday. The $1,000 pole position bonus was the starter. Another $5,000 will be paid to the driver who leads the most laps in the race, and there's a $14,000 check waiting for the winner.

Cale Yarborough, a Chevrolet driver who is the only man in contention with Petty for the Grand National championship, won $18,000 in Martinsville's spring race under a similar purse distribution.

Yarborough, usually a good qualifier, could do no better than seventh position in Friday's runs, when the first 20 starters were decoded. He drove his car too high in the speedway banking on both qualifying laps and lost valuable time under the clock.

Benny Parsons and Donnie Allison, both in Chevrolets, will line up behind Petty and Hutchins for Sunday's 1 p. m. EDT start. Jimmy Hensley, another of the visitors from the Modified ranks, and Buddy Baker have the third row slots in a Chevrolet and Ford, respectively.

Petty, who already has won the Grand National title four times, first went to victory lane at Martinsville in 1963. The Old Dominion has been one of his favorite events—six triumphs in the last seven races.

"Pretty soon, he'll buy the place," said a disgusted Yarborough, who not only needs to win Sunday but must also take at least two of the next three events on the schedule if he is to overhaul Petty in the championship.

Miller Cards Ace Taking Two Shot Lead In Kaiser

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — A hole in one, highlight of the stunning birdie-ace-birdie start, propelled Johnny Miller to a 67 and a two-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $150,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

Billy Casper, the portly, 43-year-old veteran who led the first two rounds, matched par 72 in the mild, Indian summer weather and slipped to second at 207.

"I hit the ball well, but I just couldn't get it in the hole with the putter," said Casper, who scored the last of his 50 tour victories more than a year ago.

"I'm just glad I'm still within two strokes of the lead after taking 33 putts." Australian Bob Stanton matched the course record with an eight-under-par 64, vaulted over some 50 players and moved into a tie for third at 209. He shared that position with rookie Frank Walzel, who had a third-round 72.

Tim Collins had 69—210 and was followed by Forrest Fezler, Leonard Thompson, Mike Reasor, Larry Ziegler and John Mahaffey at 211. Reasor had a 69, Thompson and Fezler 70s, Ziegler 72 and Mahaffey 73.

PGA champion Lee Trevino scored an eagle two on the 17th hole for a 69 and 212.

Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and U.S. Open king Hale Irwin are not competing in this late-season tournament in the northern California wine country.

Miller, who owns a home on the course, said he was up most of the night with his daughter, who is teething, and began to tire badly in the late going.

Miller holed putts of 25 and 20 feet for his first two birdies. He chipped to five feet and made it on the ninth and turned in 31, five under par.

But he missed the green and bogeyed the 13th, birdied the next hole with a long putt after a good shot from a fairway bunker, then three-putted the 15th.

He had a scramble for a par on the 17th, then got back to five under for the day with a good little chip to four feet for a birdie on the final hole.

The blond, handsome Miller, the outstanding player in the game this year, brought a joyous cry from his huge gallery when his soaring three-iron shot went in the cup on the fly for the hole in one on the 197-yard second hole.

That was sandwiched in between birdies on the first and third holes—four under par on the first three holes—that pulled Miller from three strokes off the pace to the lead he held the rest of the way.

His five-under-par effort on the 6,819-yard North Course at the Silverado Country Club gave him a 54-hole total of 205, 11-under-par, put him in prime position for his eighth victory of the year and all but assured him of a new, single-season money winning record.

He's just $4,159 short of Jack Nicklaus' standard of $320,542 set in 1972.

First place here is worth $30,000.

Hebner, Zisk Pace Pirates

NEW YORK (AP) — Richie Hebner hit a three-run homer and Richie Zisk lashed a two-run shot Saturday, leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-3 victory over the New York Mets.

The victory moved the Pirates into a one-game lead in the National League East over the St. Louis Cardinals, who lost 8-3 to the Chicago Cubs. Each club has four games remaining.

Hebner's three-run blast off loser Tug McGraw, 6-11, broke a 1-1 tie in the third inning. It was Hebner's 18th homer of the season. Hebner also scored a run in the eighth on Rennie Stennett's single.

Kickers Win First

RALEIGH—East Carolina won its first soccer match yesterday as the kickers blanked N. C. State, 3-0. No other details were available.

Blomberg, Nettles Lead Yankee Wins

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two-run homers by Ron Blomberg and Roy White highlighted a five-run outburst in the eighth inning that carried the New York Yankees to a 9-7 victory over the Cleveland Indians and a sweep of their Saturday doubleheader.

The sweep lifted the Yankees into a first-place tie with the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East race. The Orioles played host to the Milwaukee Brewers in a night game.

Blomberg belted a pair of two-run homers and Graig Nettles hit another two-run blast, powering the Yankees to a 9-3 victory in the opener.

The games were the first for the Indians since it was announced that Manager Ken Aspromonte's contract would not be renewed for next season.

With the Yankees trailing in the second game 7-4 after seven innings, Chris Chambliss doubled with one out and Graig Nettles singled for one run. Blomberg, pinch-hitting for Sandy Alomar, then smacked his third home run of the day and ninth of the season to tie the score and knock out Cleveland pitcher Fred Beene.

With the Yankees trailing in the second game 7-4 after seven innings, Chris Chambliss doubled with one out and Graig Nettles singled for one run. Blomberg, pinch-hitting for Sandy Alomar, then smacked his third homer of the day and ninth of the season to tie the score against relief pitcher Tom Buskey, 2-7.

Farmville Intercepts Win Over A-G

Vikings Romp By West Craven

VANCEBORO—D. H. Conley's Vikings rolled to a 22-0 victory over West Craven High School Friday night, completely dominating the game defensively.

"It was our best overall effort of the year," Coach Chuck Dunn said afterwards. "Our defense did a tremendous job—the whole unit played outstandingly."

The defense played so well that West Craven was able to pick up only 28 yards in total offense, 23 through the air and five on the ground.

Helping to key the victory were four fumble recoveries, one each by Donnie Cox, Curtis Clemons, Edward Clemons and Barry Purser.

The Vikings got on the scoreboard in the first period of the game, scoring after a 40-yard drive following a fumble recovery. Keith Gould got the score, going over from the one-yard line for a 6-0 lead.

That held until the third period, when Conley added its remaining two touchdowns.

The first of those second half scores came on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Joey Baggett to Cox. Baggett then hit Edward Clemons for the two-point conversion, making it 14-0. That climaxed a 72 yard drive after the opening kickoff.

Later in the period, Conley got the ball back around the 40 on another fumble recovery. This time, Cox and Baggett again teamed up for the score, this one a 10-yard aerial. Baggett and Clemons hit again on the conversion for the 22-0 margin.

Conley had two other threats, both stopped on downs inside the 20. West Craven never got the ball in Viking territory.

The Vikings, now 2-2 overall, travel to Greene Central Friday.

LITTLEFIELD—Farmville Central's offensive unit combined with the defense to score two touchdowns apiece as the Jaguars upended the Ayden-Grifton Chargers, 27-14, in a cross-county clash Friday night.

Two Charger errors led to the first two Farmville Central scores, both long interception returns. Both came after A-G had taken leads on scores by Twendie Simpson, the first on a 30-yard pass and the second on a 16-yard run.

The Jaguars closed the door on the Chargers in the second half limiting them to just four first downs of their total 14. The Chargers rolled up 243 yards rushing to FC's 140 but could not move the ball inside the Jag 20 during the second half.

Farmville Central's Greg Joyner missed two of his first three passes but then hit nine straight rolling up 110 yards.

The Chargers scored first going in on their second possession. They added another in the second quarter to break a 7-7 tie but that was the last time they got close to a score. Farmville Central pushed over a TD on its first drive of the second half and after that it was the Jags' ballgame.

Neither team could move the ball on their opening plays: Farmville Central turned the ball over on a punt, A-G on a fumble. From the 47, the Jaguars got 13 yards from Jeff Wilkes to move into Charger territory and Wilkes added eight more on two more carries. A screen pass got a first down at the A-G 28.

A penalty on the Chargers helped the Jags move to the 22 and a sneak by Joyner got a first-and-ten at the 16. The Charger defense toughened up there and FC's attempt at a field goal was missed.

The Chargers proceeded to get a drive going as they marched to the game's first score. William West carried for seven and Ned Craft picked up five. West added ten and on the next play he was stopped after a four yard pickup. He was hit hard and coughed up the ball but A-G lineman Willie Williams fell on the ball after it had bounced nine yards in the Chargers favor giving them a first down at the Farmville Central 45.

Craft carried twice for nine and West got seven. West lost a yard back to the FC 32 but on third down, David Pratt hit Simpson on a flare pass and Simpson raced his way into the end zone for the score. Vern Davenport's kick made it 7-0 with just :08 left in the first period.

After an exchange of punts, Farmville Central regained control at their 38. Joyner moved the Jaguars to the A-G 30 but gave the ball up on downs as the drive lost steam. On the Chargers first play, Pratt tried a short pass but it was picked off by Wilkes who raced across the goal line. Tony Oakley added the PAT to tie the game with 6:40 left in the half.

It took A-G only six plays to regain the lead. They got the ball at their 24 and on first down West swept right end for ten yards. The Chargers caught FC flat-footed on the next play as West got past the linebackers and galloped 41 yards before he was hauled down by John Langley at the Jaguar 25. Craft picked up three and then West took a pitch for 11. A penalty set the Chargers back five yards but it only made SImpson's run longer as he scampered in for the TD on the next play.

A-G was rolling again later in the period and had moved from their 32 to the Jag 26 and a first down. Pratt went to the air and found only FC's Wardell Blow who blew past everybody going 82 yards for the tieing score. Oakley added the PAT with 21 seconds left in the half.

FC forced a punt after kicking off to A-G in the third period. The punt was short and from the A-G 37 it took six plays for the Jaguars to get in. Joyner capped the drive passing 13 yards to Emerson Hobgood.

The Jaguars made it 27-14 in the fourth quarter and it took only two plays to do it. A-G turned the ball over on downs at their 35. Joyner snuck for three and then Ronnie Gay slanted over left tackle 32 yards for the final score. Oakley booted his third PAT with 9:40 left.

After that, the ball just changed hands until time ran out. Of the three A-G fumbles lost, Bynum Satterwhite, Floyd Bullock and Mark Little each recovered one.

This week Farmville Central travels to North Pitt while A-G hosts Eastern Wayne, both conference games.

Robersonville Rips Edgecombe

ROCKY MOUNT—Robersonville High School's Golden Eagles flew high and often Friday night as they humbled West Edgecombe, 57-0, in the opening Eastern Plains Conference game for both teams.

The win snapped a two-game losing streak against tough 3-A teams by Robersonville, and also cut loose a three-game winning streak by West Edgecombe, which had earlier measured Eastman, 67-0.

The Eagles completely dominated the game, rushing for 195 yards, passing for 216, and having 161 yards in return yardage. At the same time, they held West Edgecombe to 47 rushing, 29 passing and 20 in return yardage.

Five times, the Eagle defenders tossed the Edgecombe quarterback for losses, with Sammy Boyd credited with three of those, Tony Purvis led the defense, having nine tackles alone. Ricky Purvis added four tackles and broke up a pass, as well as catching five passes on offense.

The Eagles got things rolling early, scoring two first quarter touchdowns. The first came on an 85-yard punt return by Wyatt Daniels. Stalls added the PAT kick for a 7-0 lead.

Minutes later, Ricky Purvis was on the receiving end of a 70-yard pass from Stalls for the second touchdown, and Ricky Spruill ran in a two-pointer to up it to 15-0.

The Eagle offense slowed somewhat in the second period, producing only one touchdown. Spruill got that on a six yard run, with Stalls kicking to make it 22-0 at the half.

Robersonville more than doubled that in the third period, hitting through the Edgecombe defenders for 27 points. Spruill got it going quickly with an 85-yard kickoff return to open the half with a score. A few minutes later, Frankie Spruill got his name in the scoring column with a 24-yard run. Stalls again kicked to up it to 35-0.

Purvis got another touchdown pass, this one from Jeffrey Warren, covering 58 yards, while Gregory Bonds pulled in a six-yarder from Reid Bullock to close out the touchdown scoring in the third period. Daniels ran over the PAT after the second score for a 48-0 lead as the final period opened.

In that frame, Matthewson got on the scoreboard with a six-yard scramble, with bullock adding the two-point conversion to close out the scoring.

Robersonville, now 2-2 overall and 1-0 in the league, will play host to Lee Woodward next Friday.

Williamston Claws Roanoke Rapids, 41-0

ROANOKE RAPIDS—Williamston running backs Kenneth Speller and Deno Lloyd each scored a pair of touchdowns and rushed for over 150 each yards leading the Tigers to a 41-0 rout of Roanoke Rapids Friday night.

Speller ran for 151 yards on 14 carries while Lloyd gained 155 in five rushes. Other scores were by Paul Scott and Mike Koesy.

The Tigers rolled up 463 yards total offense, 392 of that coming on the ground. Williamston broke the ice with a TD in the first period, boxed the game with three in the second quarter and wrapped it up with a score in each of the third and fourth periods.

Williamston went 95 yards on their first possession. Speller moved the Tigers on runs of 41, 19 and 18 yards and capped the drive diving in from the one with 8:41 left in the quarter. Durwood Leggett added the Pat.

In the second quarter, Williamston started a drive on their 28. Two 14 yard gains by Speller and an 18-yard pass from Tim Hardison to Lloyd helped them move to the 43. From there Lloyd broke loose around his left end for 43 yards and a touchdown. Leggett made it 14-0.

A Roanoke Rapids punt backed the Tigers up to their goal line. From the six, Lloyd picked up nine but the Tigers lost five yards on a penalty. On the next play, Lloyd raced through a gaping hole in the RR line and zoomed 90 yards to score. Leggett converted with 4:39 left in the quarter.

Williamston got the ball back later in the second quarter as Hartley fell on a Roanoke Rapids fumble at the RR 15. A penalty cost Williamston five but they got it back on a 17-yard pass from Hardison to Roy Lilley. Paul Scott took it in from the three and Leggett added the extra point.

Williamston got a break in the third quarter when Lloyd picked off a Roanoke Rapids pass at his 45 and returned it to the RR 43. Speller picked up three on first down and a pass to Dwayne Bell got 11. Speller picked up 24 to the five and went in on the next play with 5:35 left in the period.

With just under five minutes left in the game, Williamston's Tony Gardner put Roanoke Rapids in a hole as his punt was downed at the seven. A few plays later, Mike Koesy recovered a fumble at the 12 and took the ball in for the final Tiger score.

Roanoke Rapids had no major threats during the game but did have a 92-yard punt return called back because of a clip.

Greene Central Romps Over Aycock By 46-8

PIKEVILLE—Greene Central High School romped to a 46-8 victory over Charles B. Aycock High School Friday night.

For the Rams, it was their second Eastern Carolina Conference win in three games, and their third overall. Aycock, 0-3 in the conference, is now 0-4 overall.

Anthony Corbett started the touchdown parade for the Rams in the first period, scoring on a 46 yard run for a 6-0 lead. That was only the first of three scores in the period, however.

Donnie Blizzard came back to score the second from 12 yards away, while Jeffrey Warren picked up the third on a 45-yard interception return. In all three instances, the PAT kick was off target or was blocked.

But with an 18-0 lead at the end of the period, the Rams were in full command. They added two more scores in the second frame, sandwiched around the lone Aycock score of the evening.

The first score was a four-yard run by Mike Cannady, with Jerry Carraway kicking the PAT. Cannady also got the second score, this time on a 16-yard pass from Carraway, who again kicked the extra point.

Aycock's score came on a 45-yard pass from Curley Summerlin to Alvin Brown. Lamont Kornegay ran over the two-point conversion.

The Rams picked up one score in each of the final two periods. Linwood Underhill hot the third period one, on a two-yard run, while Cannady picked up the final period one, his third, from a yard out. Carraway kicked both of the PATs to finish the night.

The Rams will be playing host to D. H. Conley on Friday night.

Southern Nash Tops Panthers

SPRING HOPE—Southern Nash rebounded of its loss to Farmville Central last week with a 39-12 romp over North Pitt handing the Panthers their fourth loss.

The Firebirds got a pair of TD's from Rick Matthews and one each from Melvin Crawley, Carl Pulley and Turner. North Pitt prevented a shutout as the Panthers scored on a fumble return and a 75-yard pass in the fourth period.

Crawley got the first Firdbird score as he went 20 yards and Matthews added the kick. Matthews made it 13-0 with a 13 yard sprint later in the first quarter and Turner ran in the conversion.

Turner outran the Panthers for a 37-yard score in the second period and Pulley scored on a one-yard plunge as the 'Birds took a 29-0 lead into the dressing room at the half.

Matthews got his second TD on a 3-yard dive in the third quarter and he ran in the conversion. The final Southern points came on a safety when the North Pitt punter was tackled in the Panther end zone.

North Pitt finally scored when Dennis White picked up a Firebird fumble and rambled 50 yards for a score. White scored the other Panther TD on a 75-yard pass from quarterback Donnie Perkins. Both times the conversion attempts failed.

Oakland Loses, But Wins

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — It was a fitting climax to a night of futility.

With a mighty swing of his bat, muscular Bob Oliver of Baltimore ended a 17-inning marathon with a meek infield tapper — but it was enough to drive home Bobby Grich for a 1-0 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Friday night.

With the bases loaded and one out, Oliver's vicious cut resulted in a roller which third baseman Don Money couldn't handle as he tried for a bare-handed pickup.

Grich scored without drawing a throw and suddenly, after four hours and 28 minutes of struggling, the Orioles had extended their lead to one full game over the New York Yankees in the American League's Eastern Division. Each has five games left to play.

New York's scheduled game in Cleveland was postponed, and the Yanks must play a doubleheader today while the Orioles engage the Brewers in another single game.

Meanwhile, the Oakland A's clinched the pennant in the AL West despite losing to Chicago 3-2. The defending world champion A's won their fourth straight division title when the second-place Texas Rangers dropped a 5-4 decision to Kansas City in 12 innings.

And although New York-Cleveland was rained out, the Indians made news by firing their manager, Ken Aspromonte, effective at the end of this season.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston beat Detroit 9-3 and California trimmed Minnesota 3-2.

Jim Palmer, the Baltimore starter, allowed four singles before retiring after 12 innings. Jim Colborn of Milwaukee, with an 0-5 lifetime mark against the Orioles, fanned nine and allowed eight hits in 13 innings.

Royals 5, Rangers 4

White Sox 3, A's 2

Chicago scored three unearned runs in the first inning, two of them on Brian Downing's single, to beat the A's. But the biggest cheer of the night came when Oakland third baseman Sal Bando threw out Ken Henderson on a routine grounder in the third inning, and the message, "Oakland Magic Number 0," was posted on the scoreboard.

Red Sox 9, Tigers 3

Boston battered Woodie Fryman for four runs in the first inning following a two-hour rain delay and then coasted past the Tigers.

Angels 3, Twins 2

Pinch-hitter Doug Howard's two-run single in the seventh inning lifted California to victory over the Twins.

Indians Dump Ken Aspromonte

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indian Manager Ken Aspromonte sat in his office Friday night an emotionally drained man.

He had just announced to the players on the team that he would not be returning as their field boss next year.

"I am not emotionally prepared to answer your questions," Aspromonte said, after their game with the New York Yankees was postponed because of rain. "I'll do the best that I can when I come back from Boston next week."

Aspromonte said he decided Thursday night to tell his players of the decision after learning from General Manager Phil Seghi that his contract would not be renewed.

Aspromonte had a written statement that he read to the ball players at a special meeting prior to the scheduled game time.

"I will not be with Cleveland next year," his statement read. "I was officially informed of this yesterday (Thursday)....

"I was given the choice of remaining or leaving the team at this time, but decided to remain on, in order to be with you fellows during these last six games."

"During the last remaining games it is my fondest hope that you will play them for yourselves," he continued. "Let your pride fly high and let those who play against you know that they are meeting the best."

Aspromonte said that Seghi did not give him any specific reason for not renewing his contract.

This is the end of a three-year pact for the former major league shortstop.

Seghi said "It's always difficult to make changes, particularly this one for Ken has worked hard and diligently during his tenure with the Indians organization. I wish him the very best of luck in his future endeavors."

Speculation has been running high that Frank Robinson, recently acquired on waivers from the California Angels will be the next manager of the Cleveland Indians.

If Robinson does get the job he will be the first black manager in the major leagues.

However, both Seghi and Robinson said that there has been no discussion between them about Robinson's being manager next year.

The announcement did not come as a surprise to anyone. Since Robinson arrived the talk has been that he would replace Aspromonte and Seghi has refused repeatedly to say anything about whether Aspromonte would have his contract renewed.

It has also been reported frequently that Seghi did not like the type of managing Aspromonte practiced. Seghi was given a new two-year contract with the club on Tuesday.

Aspromonte has been living with the threat of not having his contract renewed for quite a while and since Robinson was purchased the pressure became overpowering for him.

Jamesville In 12-0 Victory

JAMESVILLE—The Jamesville Bullets picked up their first victory of the year Friday night, shooting down the Pantego Warriors, 12-0.

Jamesville got its scores in the first and last periods of the game, both coming on passes. Each time, Curtis Ange hit Byron Davis for the score, as the Bullets snapped a four-game losing streak.

The Bullets, in their second year of football, lost their first four games last year, then went on to win their final five in a nine-game slate. This year, with 10 games, they are hopeful of stretching the string to six for another winning year.

The first touchdown came in the opening period of play, when Davis hauled in a 25-yard pass from Ange, ending a drive that had opened around midfield. The two-point conversion run failed.

Jamesville drove in the second period, moving down to the one before turning the ball over on downs.

Then, in the final frame, they got their other touchdown. This time, Davis again ended up on the receiving end of an Ange pass, but it almost didn't make it. The 15-yarder was batted by a Pantego defender, but Davis managed to haul it in the end zone for the score. Again, the two-point conversion failed.

Pantego was unable to mount any attack against the Jamesville defense and never threatened.

The Bullets will play host to Belhaven next week.

Chargers Try For 2nd Upset

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Miami's Larry Little is back where he should be — or where he should have been if San Diego had seen his potential.

And all of the Dolphins are back where they should be — in the victory column.

When the Chargers signed Little as a free agent in 1967, they tried him at fullback. It just didn't work. So, after the 1968 season, they dealt him to Miami for a cornerback named Mark Lamb.

Lamb never saw one minute of action with San Diego while Little went on to become the National Football League's first $100,000 guard. "The Chargers used me as a guinea pig," he said as Miami prepared for Sunday's game in San Diego.

The Chargers, under second-year Coach Tommy Prothro, used Cincinnati as the door to a victory last week, stunning the Bengals 20-17 while the Dolphins took advantage of Buffalo mistakes to beat the Bills 24-16.

Elsewhere in the NFL Sunday it is the New York Jets at Buffalo, Los Angeles at New England, Atlanta at New Orleans, Baltimore at Philadelphia, the New York Giants at Dallas, Detroit vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee, Kansas City at Houston, Chicago at Minnesota, Oakland at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at St. Louis and Cincinnati at San Francisco.

On Monday night, Denver visits Washington.

O.J. Simpson is due to return to action for the Bills. But, unlike last year, Buffalo has an offense without him. Young Joe Ferguson is currently leading the league in passing.

Of course, the Jets have a passer of some note named Joe Namath and the league's No. 1 rusher at the moment in John Riggins.

Both the surprising Patriots and the not-so-surprising Rams, each unbeaten, have passing games, too. Jim Plunkett, balancing his throwing with the running of Mack Herron and Sam Cunningham, has New England on the go while John Hadl is doing the same for Los Angeles.

The Packers, who evened their record by beating the Colts on MacArthur Lane's two touchdowns, face the Lions, who may be able to muster more of a passing attack with the return of wide receiver Ron Jessie. But quarterback Greg Landry still is out with a bad shoulder, so Bill Munson will once again be calling the plays.

Chicago, which has had a running quarterback in Bobby Douglass for the past few years, finally has a passer with the emergence of Gary Huff, who nearly brought the Bears back from a 20-0 deficit before they fell to the Jets by two points. But Chicago is running into a Minnesota team that has won its last dozen games at home and has an eight-game victory skein going against NFC Central division clubs.

Hot-footed Greg Pruitt leads the Browns into St. Louis. The Cardinals, with a defense that has allowed plenty of yards but only 13 points, are also an undefeated early-season surprise.

Cards, Bucs In Wins On Friday

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

First, Chicago Cub pitcher Tom Dettore hit Bake McBride with a pitch in the top of the fourth inning.

Then, Bob Gibson of the Cardinals plunked Pete LaCock leading off the Chicago fourth.

"It was a half-speed slider," advised St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst, indicating an accident.

Then, Dettore clipped Lou Brock leading off the Cards' fifth.

After that, the Cardinals did most of the hitting with their bats. Joe Torre's two-run homer and Ted Simmons' two-run single gave them a an 8-1 lead in the fifth and they cruised to a 10-4 victory.

The triumph enabled the Cards to keep pace with Pittsburgh, 2-1 winners over the New York Mets, in the National League East race. St. Louis and Pittsburgh remain tied at 84-73 records with five games to play.

Elsewhere, San Diego edged Los Angeles 3-2, Cincinnati shaded San Francisco 4-3 and Montreal blanked Philadelphia 2-0.

The Cardinals, who engaged in a free-for-all with the Cubs last week in St. Louis, won the game but came out of it with five injured players.

Pirates 2, Mets 1

Jerry Reuss outdueled Jon Matlack with a seven-hitter for his 16th victory against 11 losses. Both Pirate runs came in the sixth. Rennie Stennett led off with a single and took third on Manny Sanguillen's single. Stennett scored on Willie Stargell's double and Sanguillen came home on a sacrifice fly by Bob Robertson.

Padres 3, Dodgers 2

Pinch runner John Scott scored the winning run on shortstop Bill Russell's error with two out in the ninth. Rookie Dan Spillner, 9-11, scattered six hits in going the distance. Dave Winfield homered for San Diego and Bill Buckner hit one for Los Angeles.

Reds 4, Giants 3

Dave Concepcion scored all the way from first base with the winning run on a throwing error by San Francisco pitcher Gary Lavelle. Concepcion and Tony Perez added home runs for the Reds. Bobby Bonds accounted for all the Giant runs with a homer in the first.

Expos 2, Phillies 0

Mike Torrez, 15-8, picked up his sixth straight victory — a club record. Jerry White doubled home one Montreal run and Barry Foote singled in the other.

Perry Angry About His Pay

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland's Cy Young Award winner Gaylord Perry says he doesn't believe he can play with the Indians next year if Frank Robinson is named manager.

The pair almost got into a fist fight Friday night because of the comments Perry made to the news media about the salary he would like next year.

"I told (Phil) Seghi this afternoon (Friday) that I want one dollar more than Robinson is getting in my contract next year," Perry said.

Perry is reportedly making $85,000. Robinson is reported to be making $173,000.

"I've been around here for three years and every year they tell me they don't have the money to pay me more," Perry said. "Well, I must look like a fool. They got enough money to buy guys like (Rico) Carty (Tom) McCraw and then Robinson. They must have the money somewhere."

Robinson objected to Perry using his name in the statements he made about the salary he wanted and confirmed that an argument did start in the dressing room while the team was waiting during a rain delay of the postponed contest between the Indians and the New York Yankees.

"I simply told Gaylord that I didn't want my name used by anyone again in the newspapers about how much money I make, or how much money anybody makes."

Gaylord later said that he would use anybody's name he wanted to if it meant his getting more money.

Players who witnessed the argument said that it would have resulted in a fist fight if Manager Ken Aspromonte had not interceded.

Coming Up — Greenville's Bicentennial Week

Billy Stinson Writes A Bicentennial Song

Billy Stinson, the young teacher-artist-musician who has composed the music and written the words to Greenville's Bicentennial song, Every Road Leads To Greenville says "I've been in Greenville for ten years and I find it a very friendly place."

Billy, a native of Raleigh, teaches art at Rose High School. For years, his art has been expressed in a combined art-music relationship. As a student at East Carolina University, many of Billy's sculptures, based on variations of imagined musical instruments, soon evolved into unique sculptural pieces that are playable, tuneable instruments.

Sandra Matlock Stinson, Billy's wife, who hails from Greensboro, is also a teacher in the Greenville City Schools. Spanish is her subject. Sandra is the more accomplished singer of the singing couple.

Billy's Bicentennial song is not his first composition. Earlier this year, he and Sandra recorded an album single under the title, The Merchant's Ship Captain that contains nine of his songs, including Last Masquerade, Merchan't Ship, Arise And Go Hungry and Shepherd's Song. Recorded in Nashville, it has back up support by Donny Brooks, Joe McGlohon, Bill Stroud, Tim Hildebrandt, Norman MacLeod and King Carty.

Billy tells how he got the inspiration to write a Greenville Bicentennial song. "When the idea first occurred to me, I had nothing particular in mind, it just flowed to me. After writing it, I thought it might be useful so I mentioned it to a friend who asked me to attend one of the Bicentennial meetings. The committee liked it and suggested I record it to use in conjunction with Bicentennial radio advertising.

"I try to write in the folk style," Billy continued, "something that has a good chance to appeal to the community and to students and young people as well."

Billy and Sandra were two of the singers-musicians appearing on one of the Summer in the Park series. They have also been interviewed for regional television shows and are slated to make other television appearances soon.

Every Road Leads To Greenville has four verses and a refrain. The words to Greenville's own Bicentennial song appears elsewhere on this page.

EVERY ROAD LEADS TO GREENVILLE
(Words and music by Billy Stinson)

Every road leads to Greenville,
That's what this old road map shows,
Ain't it funny how in the end,
Greenville is where everybody goes.

I can't see in this dark night,
But I know I need to get there soon.
Greenville is the only place I know,
You can reach by following the moon.

When I came across the river,
I could see that things had changed.
There was real estate going up everywhere,
And the land was re-arranged.

So I hurried on down to Five Points,
And saw that things were fine,
Greenville is the only place I go,
To sit around with old friends of mine.

Refrain
Every road leads to Greenville,
I guess I'll always have some roots there.
Even though I'm living in a far place,
There will never be enough space,
To keep me from that city by the river,
To keep me from that city. . .near the sea.
Every road leads to Greenville.
Every road leads to Greenville.
Every road leads to Greenville.

Walking, Running Contests

Remember the days of walking or running everywhere? Greenville residents can relive those days and win the Bicentennial's Road Races. There are three cross-country runs—a four and one half mile run, a two mile run, and a one mile run for children under 12. The top ten places receive a Bicentennial medal. All finishers receive a ribbon.

The big event is the four and a half mile run. This begins at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday October 12th at Port Terminal. A two mile race will begin at 4:15 p.m. at Green Springs Park. The one mile run for children under 12 begins at 4:45 p.m. at the corner of Warren and First Streets. All races will end at Town Commons.

Each race has a $2.00 entry fee and is payable on October 12, the day of all the races. There is no pre-registration. For further information, contact the Greenville Recreation Department—752-4137, ext. 220.

Escort For Ervin

A special plane is being sent to Get Sen. Sam Ervin, Jr. for his appearance in the opening day's ceremonies of Greenville's Bicentennial Friday, October 4.

Accompanying the pilot, Carl Woxman, Jr. to Washington D.C. to pick up Sen. Ervin will be Mrs. Janice Buck, Director of the Greenville "200" Committee. The senator and a staff member, Hall Smith, will arrive in Greenville at approximately 4:45 p.m. for their appearance at the town common at 5:30.

Senator Ervin is the featured sspeaker for the patriotic event which includes the grouping of the flags which have flown over Greenville during its 200 year history.

Music for the event will be provided by the Cherry Point Marina Band and Color Guard, the Greenville Junior and Senior High School choruses, the North Pitt Chorus, and the Rose High School and East Carolina University Bands.

All citizens in Greenville are invited to this salute to its heritage. Merchants have been asked to close their stores for two hours 5-7 p.m. so their employees will be able to attend.

—Country Music Stars Coming—

AMONG THE BEVY OF STARS. . .to be performing in the Bicentennial Country Sounds of America program on Monday, October 7 at Minges Coliseum. The big three hour plus concert begins at 8 p.m. and features stars such as Sue Richards and Sonny Wright (shown above) as well as Tom T. Hall, Jerry Reed, Charlie Harrison, Sue Richards, O.B. McClinton, George Morgan, and Johnny Russell. Tickets are $5.00 each in advance and $6 at the gate if any are left.

The Bicentennial Calendar

For the benefit of Greenville citizens, coordinating members of the Greenville 200 Committee have compiled a list of highlight events scheduled to take place during Greenville's Bicentennial celebration beginning Friday, October 4 and continuing through Saturday, October 12.

The events listed here are not comprehensive. A number of other bicentennial events will be taking place during this period.

Anyone wishing further details or information on other events should call the Bicentennial Office, 752-1919.

Show At The Art Center

As it's contribution to Greenville's 200th birthday, the Greenville Art Center will stage a special exhibition beginning Thursday, October 3 which will be up through the bicentennial week.

Mrs. William Fore, chairman of the special show, says "We feel that people touring the Art Center during Bicentennial Week would be most interested in seeing examples of the richness of artistic talent amongst our citizens."

For the show, a number of local artists have been invited to contribute a couple of works.

The group invited includes professional and non-professional artists — painters, sculptors, and craftsmen. It is hoped to have on exhibit one recent work and one earlier work from each of the artists who participate.

"The theme of the show, Mrs. Fore said, "is 'Past, Present, and Future — Peace on Earth.' By choosing this theme," she explained, "we feel the artists can each express beauty, knowledge, and talent an essential factors of the truth that is in the heart of man."

There will be no admission charge for the show, and the public is invited to attend.

"SWISS-PLEX" OFFERS SIX UNITS WITH SUNDECKS

By Gerry Bishop

This imaginatively styled six-plex offers four large sun decks over the carports as well as large storage cabinets in each of the carports.

Occupants have a choice of one- or two-bedroom units here. One bedroom units are centered on each level, while two bedroom units fall at the two sides of each level.

Each single bedroom unit has two entrances - - one from the sun deck and one from an inside staircase.

Extras are the rule here. A coat closet is provided at the entry and a modern walk-through kitchen gives access to the dining room. A linen closet and washer-dryer area is compactly provided. The bath features a double vanity.

Circular staircases provide access to the two bedroom units, which also open to the deck on the upper level. Again, a utility area is provided, and the coat closet is joined by a second storage closet. The bedrooms share a roomy bath.

All tendencies toward sameness are avoided, as each apartment is different. Reverse arrangements provide noise buffers, ensuring privacy and quiet for sleeping or entertaining.

Six carports are provided, as well as extra storage, and lower level terraces add to the luxurious appearnace of the "Swiss-Plex."

Spurred by congressional action and funding by the National Science Foundation, a crash program in solar energy research has been undertaken. The ultimate goal is to make us self-sufficient in energy, and since the sun is a source of unlimited energy, a practical way must be found to tap it.

Until now, most of the work done in solar energy research concerned its application to home heating. As with all new developments, the first working models seem cumbersome, resembling Rube Goldberg contraptions. Most of them now operating use large flat-plate collectors — aluminum sheets ranging in size from 600 to 800 square feet and larger, painted black to absorb most of the heat. The aluminium sheets are covered with glass which has the ability to permit the sun's radiation to pass through it and be absorbed by the black aluminum surface, and which at the same time prevents any reflected radiation from escaping outward.

Attached to the aluminum sheets are copper tubes through which a mixture of water and antifreeze flows. The antifreeze is to prevent the copper tubes from freezing during cold nights or on days when the sky is overcast. To attain maximum temperature, the collector faces south, tilted at an angle equal to the latitude plus 10 degrees.

As the water in the coils gets hot it is circulated to a storage tank, and from there to the home heating system (radiators, baseboard heating panels, etc.) and the domestic hot water faucets. The storage tank is another large piece of hardware needed in solar heating since it must hold enough hot water to last for periods when there is no sun.

Although solar energy is only in its embryonic phase, research is going on to make smaller and more efficient collectors. One project uses parabolic "concentrating collectors" which track the sun, always tilted at the correct angle to face the sun directly. These collectors are only 6 square feet, less than one per cent of the size of the flat-plate collectors. They are also capable of attaining temperatures far higher than those reached by the flatplates.

Remember when television first took hold and every roof sported a new TV antenna? When solar energy gains acceptance, every home may be equipped with its own parabolic collector.

There are other possibilities which excite the imagination. One calls for the launching of a huge space station — about 12 miles square — covered with solar cells. These solar cells will produce electricity and beam it back to earth.

It all sounds far-fetched, but we have been assured by the National Better Heating-Cooling Council that it's within the realm of possibility. Nevertheless, it won't be easy. Many adjustments will have to be made, and it may cause some shifting of habits and values. For instance, you may have a legitimate gripe if one of your neighbor's trees grows tall enough to cast a shadow on your collector.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — Here's a problem that I have run into several times over the years and now it confronts me again. There is a large hole in the gypsum board wall in our attic. At that point, there is nothing behind the gypsum board, so if I try to put patching plaster into the hole it will just fall through. What can I do to make the patch hold? I know it involves putting some kind of backing behind the hole, but I don't know how to do it.

A. — Everybody who does this type of work has his own pet idea of how to handle this situation. One way is to take a piece of gypsum board or some other wall material that is large enough to cover the hole when it is in place, yet small enough that it can be inserted in the hole when held at an angle. Place a long screw in the material and put glue on the board so that when pressed against the sides of the wall, it will stay in place. You have to hold on to the head of the screw while getting the board in position until the adhesive takes hold. The next day, the board should be securely in place, at which time you take out the screw and can go ahead with the patching plaster.

Another method, which some persons consider a bit easier, is to get a piece of wire mesh larger than the hole in the wall. Put a piece of cord through it, then push the mesh through the hole while you cling to the cord. Pull the cord back towards you until the mesh is properly in place. Hold it there while you or someone else applies patching plaster against the mesh. When the plaster begins to harden, cut the cord. Wait a day, then fill up the remainder of the hole even with the surrounding surface, exactly as you would have done had a backing been there in the first place.

Q. — I am puzzled by the term "dry rot" in reference to wood. I always thought that wood decays only in the presence of moisture. Does wood also rot when it is too dry?

A. — The expression is something of a misnomer, because wood decays in the presence of fungi, which do not grow in dry wood. The fungi, which are plants consisting of microscopic threads that are visible to the naked eye only when many of them occur together, destroy the fibers of wood when moisture conditions prevail over a period of time. The term may have originated because decayed wood is often dry in its final stages after the fungi have done their work.

Q. — In building a bunk bed for my children, can I use one-by 10-inch stock for the frame?

A. — Yes. That's a popular size. One word of caution: don't even start building a bunk bed until you have purchased or have on hand the springs and mattresses that are to be used. If you build an off-size, you may have a difficult time getting springs and mattresses to fit.

Q. — How do I color concrete while the mixture is still wet?

A. — By adding powdered pigment. Hardware stores, lumber yards and other building supply dealers sell the coloring compound.

Housework Can't Be Avoided

By DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Housework. It's something that comes with every house.

And it's not to be taken lightly —unless you're among the lucky few who will move in complete with housekeeper and cleaning staff.

Despite the recent industry emphasis on "easy maintenance" building and decorating materials, all too seldom does the question of housework figure in the decision of whether or not to buy a house.

When it does, you can almost bet the couple involved has lived in a horror or two that required heroic efforts to keep presentable.

A three room city apartment, even allowing for the inevitable city soot and cockroach hazard, is no preparation for a wonderful "big old house" with oodles of nooks and crannies, miles of woodwork, great high ceilings, wonderful tall windows to be washed and curtained, four or five fireplaces, lots of room but little organized storage space, two flights of stairs, a basement, an attic, etc., etc.

Even a small, cozy old house has its housekeeping hazards. Perhaps dozens of those attractive small-paned windows to clean. No city soot, but a lifetime accumulation of fine white coal ash in the walls to sift over every surface. The original wide floor boards are most attractive, and require loving care to stay that way.

Even the new house has its pitfalls when it comes to housework. Great expanses of glass look wonderful —if clean. The open kitchen brings the cook —and her clutter perhaps —right out for all to see. The sprawling ranch house does away with climbing stairs, it's true, but offers miles of walking instead.

The old house has its cluttered back porch or hall that never can be kept neat, the front porch that has to be swept. The back entry in the new house brings the kids and their dirt right into the kitchen: the front entry lets guests and their wet umbrellas right into the living room.

The wonderful old house may have acres of lawn and dozens of flower beds. Beautiful, but more housework. The new house comes complete with swimming pool. That, too, is housework.

The answer, of course, is to be sure just what you are willing to undertake in the way of maintaining a house before you buy it. The beauty of complicated flower beds that friends ooh and ah over will never make up for the work involved if you don't love gardening. If you do, it won't be work. Your delight in settling down before a glowing fireplace may be worth the effort of the extra cleaning. You might rather have the time to sit around a fire on a weekend camping trip.

Be honest with yourself. Don't judge by anyone's standards but your own. And it's wise, too, to have some agreement on how the housework will be shared in the family.

Things are looking up on that front. The stereotype roles of "housewife" and "breadwinner" are fading. Signs that couples —young and old —are breaking away from traditional male-female roles were revealed in interviews and a survey conducted by the Eureka Home Care Institute in Bloomington, Ill.

A mail survey of families across the country showed 57 per cent of the men use a vacuum cleaner regularly to help their wives with household chores —a sharp increase from the 38 per cent who answered similarly in a 1970 survey.

In depth interviews, in which a Eureka representative talked with both husband and wife, revealed that couples who share financial responsibilities share domestic responsibilities.

During 30 man on the street interviews in a large metropolitan area, 26 men stated they considered housekeeping part of their responsibility. "It's absolutely natural. It's just. It would be unnatural for me to expect my wife to do all the housework," said Lee Oliver, assistant manager and teaching pro at a suburban Chicago tennis club.

For couples who begin marriage with both partners working —about 55 per cent — sharing housework is a natural part of their lifestyle. However, men who experience years of marriage as "sole breadwinner" often find it difficult to adjust to a working wife.

"My husband gave me one week to quit my job," said Edith Early of Denver, Colo., who went to work after 12 years of marriage. Seven years later, she and husband Frank agree her personal sense of fulfillment through work and their partnership in home care has made their relationship a happier, stronger one.

Most couples divide chores according to preference, ability and individual work schedules, maintaining a flexible schedule. "Whoever has the time, does whatever has to be done," said Diane and Ronald Prang of Chicago.

The survey showed while most women cook, wash clothes and clean the kitchen and bathroom, the vast majority of men are opting for dusting and vacuuming in addition to traditional home maintenance work.

A minority of men, the survey showed, still adhere to stereotyped male-female roles. When asked if he helped clean house, one man in Chicgo replied, "No way! I'm not henpecked."

If that's the situation in your family, be doubly sure you choose a house with an eye to the housework involved.

Pricing Your House Right

..The value of your house is not what you think it is—or what the buyer thinks. It is determined chiefly by the location, the neighborhood, and the current market. An overpriced house sitting on the market for months becomes almost impossible to sell. So first, you must get in line with the market. That means a realistic appraisal.

Nobody - but nobody - is more acutely aware of the current housing market than your local Realtor. A capable Realtor can bring in his own appraisal expert or even a team of salesmen who will individually price your home and then reach a fair concensus. Or you can hire a qualified independent appraiser. You may be pleasantly surprised to find out that you were intending to price your house for less than its fair market value. ..If possible, your price should include curtains, draperies, refrigerator, air-conditioners, dishwasher, built-ins. It's a better package deal and may hasten the sale.

Gielgud On Stage As Shakespeare

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — Sir John Gielgud has spent a lifetime as a Shakespearean actor, but he has never played Shakespeare until now.

That is to say, Gielgud has performed most of William Shakespeare's major male roles time and again. But not until "Bingo," the current play at the Royal Court theater, has he portrayed Shakespeare himself.

Shakespeare is the main character in Edward Bond's bitter new play. It is not a Shakespeare many people will recognize, but that is Bond's doing, not Gielgud's.

Sir John and Shakespeare have a working partnership going back 50 years. Gielgud first played Romeo in 1924, and half a century's deep study of the plays must have given him rare insights into Shakespeare's character and mind.

But the Shakespeare he plays is an embittered, suicidal, written-out old man, sunken into vegetable inactivity in his retirement garden, tortured and tormented by the world's cruelty and his inability to do anything about it.

Bond's framework is historically accurate in that Shakespeare did retire to his Stratford garden after "The Tempest," his last and most self-confessional play (and Gielgud's latest Shakespearean vehicle). He was a respected Stratford notable, and did sign a document which preserved his farm-land rents but helped dispossess peasants from common lands.

But Bond is not writing biography. At 40, Bond is a brutally serious playwright, asking big questions about capital-letter abstracions such as Life and Money and Society.

In "Bingo" he questions how Shakespeare—or any writer of wisdom and sensitivity—could bear to live in a world filled with so much misery?

This Shakespeare's world is awash in misery. He hates his family, which cares only for his coming legacy. Contemporaries such as Ben Jonson treat him with envy and scorn. All around, society strips peasants of their land, whips innocent girls into madness, is entertained by bear baiting and hangings.

The character Gielgud plays can't take this any more, and cannot live with the knowledge that he has only added to the misery, not alleviated it.

"Was anything done?" the Gielgud-Shakespeare cries. "Was anything done?" And when his final answer is "No," this Shakespeare quietly swallows poison and dies a suicide.

Bond, in an introduction to his play, admits he cannot prove Shakespeare killed himself. But if he didn't, Bond says, "then he was a reactionary blimp or some other fool."

Gielgud, his matchless voice largely stilled by bond's sparse style, makes this Shakespeare's anguish movingly convincing. But Bond's bitter, scalding play is full of arguments which remain arguable, and his Shakespeare is one dimensional.

Not all Gielgud's art can persuade us that this shriveled, guilt-ridden old man wrote those marvelous works Gielgud knows so well, or that Shakespeare's last days were as bleak and desperate as this.

Santa's Village Feels Inflation

EAST DUNDEE, Ill. (AP) — Even Santa has been affected by inflation.

Instead of a dime, it now costs a quarter to work the machine that signals a live chicken to dance on a small table top, or a duck to play a little piano with his bill, or a rabbit to hop into a fire engine and set off the siren.

Each act lasts about 30 seconds, and at the end a pellet of food automatically drops for each performer.

"We're caught in the spiral like everyone else," said Don Ruden, the animal manager. "We have four chickens, four ducks and two rabbits working in three-hour shifts."

ATTENDING CONFERENCE

The annual educational seminar is co-sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education at East Carolina University. Among the invited speakers are Dr. Ross Piper, assistant professor of the Department of Business Administration at ECU; and W. H. Watson, Greenville attorney.

BNC PROMOTION

The promotion of J. C. Saunders Jr. to senior vice president of Bank of North Carolina, N.A. was announced by the board of Bancshares of North Carolina Inc., the bank's parent company.

Saunders, who joined BNC in 1972, is in charge of the bank's Banking Division with responsibility for the bank's 69 offices in 47 communities across the state.

Marc Chagall Gives Mosaic To Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Artist Marc Chagall says the mosaic he has given to the city of Chicago represents "life itself."

The 87-year-old French artist unveiled the gigantic work, entitled "The Four Seasons," at an outdoor plaza Friday in downtown Chicago.

"I hope this will please you and that you will love it," he told thousands of onlookers.

The pastel mosaic, done mainly in sky-blue, is box-shaped. It is 70 feet long, 10 feet wide and 14 feet high. The piece is highlighted by fanciful images of fish, musicians and a flying woman embracing a bird.

Chagall worked on the mosaic for two years with Swiss mosaic artist Michel Tharin. He has been in Chicago for the past two weeks putting the finishing touches on the work.

The mosaic's cost was underwritten by financier William Wood Prince in memory of his cousin, railroad magnate Frederick Henry Prince.

The mosaic is next to the First National Bank of Chicago at Dearborn and Adams streets.

Congressman Preyer Comes Under Fire From Labor Party

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Congressman Richardson Preyer came under fire from members of the U.S. Labor Party on Friday night as he attended a banquet session of the Democratic Women of North Carolina convention.

Marion Porter, the Labor Party's candidate for attorney general, interrupted introductions of guests at the banquet to shout that Preyer was part of a "criminal conspiracy". She charged that Preyer had "suppressed" information supplied by the Labor Party about the role of the CIA in provoking terrorism across the United States.

The 6th District representative is a member of a House committee investigating the origin and actions of terrorist groups in the country.

Preyer, who delivered the banquet address, responded that he knew the Labor Party had given some information to the committee's staff, but that committee members had not seen it.

Ms. Porter and another young woman continued shouting for about 10 minutes and were eventually removed from the room.

BUSY FRONTIER

ROME (UPI) — A total of 7,631,000 persons crossed the Italian frontier at the Brenner Pass by automobile or train during the first six months of 1974, official statistics show. Of the total, 4,046,996 persons entered Italy while 3,584,024 departed. The majority were foreign tourists, the report said.

Oil Firms Rebated Milllions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven oil firms have voluntarily rebated almost $40 million in alleged overcharges, the Federal Energy Administration reports.

Meanwhile, the FEA announced it has accused Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) of gasoline overcharges amounting to $10 million and has ordered Sohio to make appropriate refunds. Sohio denied the charge.

The seven companies that agreed to the rebates are:

—The Charter International Oil Co. refunded $650,000 to Southland Oil Co. of Savannah, Ga., after the FEA found that Charter had incorrectly computed its maximum permitted price for gasoline.

—Pace Oil Co. reduced gasoline prices in May and June to make up for $3 million in alleged overcharges and has agreed to compensate for another $700,000 by Sept. 30.

—Champlin Petroleum Co. reduced gasoline prices by six cents and distillate fuel oil prices by five cents last June, for a total rollback of $1.9 million.

—ARCO (Atlantic Richfield) rolled back prices a total of $1.1 million and dropped $10.1 million from its account of costs to eventually pass through in the form of higher prices.

—Delta Refining Co. cut gasoline prices a total of $300,000 and dropped $520,000 from its account of recoverable costs.

—Koch Industries reduced gasoline prices by 2.5 cents from May 20 to June 30 for a total rollback of some $10.8 million.

—Kerr-McGee reduced gasoline prices a total of $10.7 million last June.

In addition to their voluntary rebates revealed Friday by the FEA, Charter was ordered in August to rebate $15.8 million and Koch was ordered to rebate $9.9 million.

Sohio said it is appealing the FEA order that was dated Sept. 20 but just made public Friday. It requires Sohio to recompute its crude oil costs for a four-month period and to submit plans "by which Sohio will compensate for the effects of the violations ...."

Alleged Founder Killed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Right-wing terrorists kidnaped and killed the alleged founder of a leftist guerrilla group and gunned down his son-in-law in a daylight raid Friday in the center of the capital.

Police sources said the bullet-riddled body of Silvio Frondizi, the brother of ex-President Arturo Frondizi, was found in a wooded area near Ezeiza international airport, about 18 miles from his midtown apartment where he was abducted earlier in the day.

Terrorists have killed an average of one victim a day since Isabel Peron became president July 1 after the death of her husband. The Argentine House of Representatives is considering a tough antisubversion law designed to clamp down on the mounting terrorist activities.

The Argentina Anti-Communist Alliance, a right-wing extremist group, claimed in a communique it killed Frondizi, a 67-year-old lawyer, because he was the "founder" of the Marxist People's Revolutionary Army.

BIG EATER

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Department of Fish and Game reports that a sea otter eats as much as one fourth of its body weight in food every day.

The otter favors abalone, crabs and other shellfish.

NOTICE OF SALE

The heirs of J. C. Wynne, Sr. will offer for sale the following described real property in the following manner:

SALE BY SEALED BIDS:

The following real property will be sold to the highest bidder for cash by the submission of sealed bids to the firm of Speight, Watson and Brewer, Post Office Drawer 99, Greenville, North Carolina 27834, by not later than 12:00 o'clock Noon, Monday, October 7, 1974. All persons interested in making a bid on this property shall submit said bid in a sealed envelope to said law firm enclosing a deposit of 10 percent of their bid. All bids will be subject to acceptance or rejection by the heirs of J. C. Wynne, Sr. Notification within 72 hours after Noon, October 7, 1974 will be made to all bidders of the highest bidder and whether said bid was accepted or rejected. The deposit will be returned to all unsuccessful bidders. The property to be sold under sealed bids shall be sold as a unit and not separately. Said property is described as follows:

"That certain property formerly known as the "GE Center", a building and surrounding lots at the corner of Main Street and Highway No. 64 in the Town of Bethel, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina, comprised of several tracts heretofore conveyed to J. C. Wynne, Sr. in the following deeds:

(a) Deed from Grover C. Wynne, Sr., et ux, to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated November 25, 1949, recorded in Book M-25, at page 603, in the Pitt County Registry.

(b) Deed from W. C. Whitehurst, et al, to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated March 30, 1948, and recorded in Book C-25, at page 511, of the Pitt County Registry.

(c) Deed from Isabelle Smith Markley to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated September 2, 1949, and recorded in Book M-25, at page 283 of the Pitt County Registry.

The aforesaid property is subject to a lease between J. C. Wynne, Sr. and Wynne's, Incorporated, the terms to be furnished upon request.

The heirs reserve the right to accept or reject all bids within seventy-two (72) hours of said sale. All sales will be subject to any outstanding taxes or municipal assessments.

SALE BY PUBLIC AUCTION:

The following real property will be sold to the highest bidder for cash at public auction at the front of the Town Hall in the Town of Bethel, Pitt County, North Carolina, at 11:00 A. M., Tuesday, October 8, 1974, the highest bidder will be required to deposit the sum of ten percent (10 percent) of his bid pending acceptance or rejection of said bid, which deposit will apply on the purchase price if said bid is accepted and the sale consummated. The real property will be sold as separate tracts and is described as follows, all in the Township of Bethel, Pitt County, North Carolina:

"TRACT NO. 1: That lot fronting on the Bethel-Greenville Highway (Main Street) with dimensions of 100 by 110 feet, being a vacant lot now leased by Wynne's, Inc. as a used car lot, and described in a deed from Mattie A. Barnhill, et al, to J. C. Wynne, Jr., et al, dated June 24, 1955, and recorded in Book P-28, at page 230, in the Pitt County Registry."

"TRACT NO. 2: That triangular tract of land east of the Town of Bethel, adjoining Seaboard Coastline Railroad, Blount Brothers, et al, containing three (3) acres, more or less, known as the "coal yard lot", with right of egress and ingress thereto, as described in a deed from Davis L. McWhorter, et al, to J. C. Wynne, Sr. by deed dated November 19, 1945, as recorded in Book M-24, at page 269, in the Pitt County Registry. Excluded from the above property is that property described in a deed from J. C. Wynne, Sr., et al, to J. C. Wynne, Jr. as recorded in Book P-33, at page 26, in the Pitt County Registry.

"This tract is further subject to a lease between J. C. Wynne, Sr., et ux, to Wynne's, Inc., the terms of which will be furnished upon request.

"TRACT NO. 3: That certain lot in the Town of Bethel located at the southwest corner of East and Pleasant Streets, known as the W. R. Baker property and described in a deed from Allie Baker Cherry, widow, to J. C. Wynne, Sr., dated May 25, 1968, and recorded in Book T-37, at page 209, in the Pitt County Registry.

"TRACT NO. 4: House and lot in the Town of Bethel on the south side of Jefferson Street, adjoining the Theodore Andrews lot fronting approximately 75 feet on Jefferson Street (Carolina Avenue) and adjoining the Old Barnhill workshop lot, more particularly described in two deeds, one dated December 9, 1944 and recorded in Book E-24, at page 208, of the Pitt County Registry, and one dated June 20, 1952, and recorded in Book N-26, at page 83, of the Pitt County Registry."

After the sale of the aforesaid tracts separately at public auction, the undersigned will then offer for sale in the aggregate all four tracts and if the bid for all four tracts exceeds the sum total of the bids for the four tracts sold separately, then that bidder will be deemed to be the highest bidder and said four tracts will be sold to that one bidder.

The sale of the aforesaid real properties sold at public auction to the highest bidders for cash will be final, subject, however, to acceptance or rejection by the heirs of J. C. Wynne, Sr. (owners thereof) within seventy-two (72) hours of said sale, at which time, the highest bidder will be notified of said acceptance or rejection. Said sale shall further be subject to any outstanding taxes or municipal assessments.

In either the sale by sealed bids or the sale at public auction, final consummation and delivery of deeds shall be within thirty (30) days of the dates of holding of said sales.

Any persons desiring to inspect the premises above described prior to the sale of said property may do so by contacting Harold L. Manning, Jr., Whitehurst Street, Bethel, North Carolina, Telephone No. 825-7521, Bethel, North Carolina.

Couple Exchanges Vows Saturday

The Immanuel Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Miss Susan Rebecca Raper and Terry Wayne Dail Saturday at 8:00 p.m. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Irby Jackson.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Kenneth Raper of Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of white peau de soie designed with a high neckline encircled with re-embroidered alencon lace. Matching lace, edged with pearls accented the sheer V-shaped yoke of sata peau and encircled the modified empire waistline. The bishop sleeves featured fitted cuffs trimmed in the re-embroidered lace with appliques of beaded lace accenting the full sata peau sleeves. Appliques of lace were also featured on the modified A-line skirt and detachable chapel length train.

She wore a fingertip illusion veil trimmed in appliques of re-embroidered lace attached to a Camelot headpiece of re-embroidered lace beaded with pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of mixed blue and white flowers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Calvin Dail of Greenville.

A program of organ music was presented by Miss Melinda Daniels. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilkerson sang "More" and "The Hawaiian Wedding Song."

Miss Ann Marie Raper, sister of the bride, and Miss Kathryn Rowlett of Greenville were maids of honor. They wore formal length cotillion blue knit gowns designed with an open collar of royal blue velvet edged in ruffled blue knit. The cuffs of the long fitted sleeves were banded in royal blue velvet and edged in velvet. The waistline of the full skirt featured a set-in panel enhanced by a self-tie with streamers. They wore cotillion blue braid garden hats trimmed in royal blue velvet and carried mixed nosegays.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Elaine Raper of Wilmington, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Jackie Dawson, Miss Mary Kay Dunn and Miss Terry Messner, all of Greenville. They were dressed like the honor attendants and carried similar nosegays.

Honorary attendants were Miss Debra Scott, Miss Cindy Thompson, Miss Jo Ann Jamieson, all of Greenville, and Miss Teresa Lynn Turnage of Kinston, cousin of the bride. They were attired in formal length gowns of mixed colors and carried mixed nosegays.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of yellow chiffon trimmed with yellow re-embroidered lace and matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal length gown of blue knit with a lace bodice and matching accessories. The mothers were remembered with wrist corsages.

The grandmother of the bride wore a formal length gown of pink knit, matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and the chief usher was W. Kenneth Raper of Wilmington, brother of the bride. Other ushers were William Gaston, Joel Clark, Steven Heath, Ervin Rowe, Mark Whitney and Randy Wynne, all of Greenville.

The bridal couple are both graduates of Rose High School and Pitt Technical Institute. She is employed by Wachovia Data Processing and he is a draftsman for Daniel Construction Co.

The couple will reside in Greenville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given by the bride's parents in the fellowship hall of the church. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. James A. Scott of Greenville, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barnette of Wilson, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Punch was poured by Mrs. Shirley Little of Kannapolis, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Charles A. Lewis of Greenville. Cake was served by Mrs. Freeman Turnage of Kinston, aunt of the bride.

The reception was directed by Mrs. Mae Norris of Greenville. She was assisted by Miss Terry Evans, Miss Judy Little, Miss Mary Lou Little and Miss Libby Roberson. Mr. and Mrs. Vince Degivilio of Havelock, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, presided at the register table. Rice was distributed by Miss Katherine Mills.

Following the rehearsal Friday evening, the parents of the bridegroom entertained at a dinner in the fellowship hall of the church for the wedding party.

Wheeler-Willcox Vows Said At High Noon

In a high noon ceremony Saturday in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Miss Winniford Susan Willcox became the bride of David Stewart Wheeler. The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Lawrence Patrick Houston Jr.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Tilton Lee Willcox of Greenville, and Mrs. Browning Wheeler of Chapel Hill, and Dr. Raymond M. Wheeler of Charlotte.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white silk faille designed by Christos for Galina. The gown featured a high neckline with a sheer deep V-yoke of Brussels lace outlined in a border of embroidered lace flowers. The lantern styled sleeves were styled in silk faille fabric and the Brussels lace with the deep fitted cuffs of lace edged in embroidered lace flowers. Miniature covered buttons extended down the gown front from the yoke to the hemline of the full flared skirt which extended into a chapel train. A matching border of embroidered lace flowers edged the hemline and train.

The honor attendant was Sarah Tilton Willcox of Davidson College, sister of the bride. She wore a formal length gown of canary knit designed with an open squared neckline and long fitted sleeves. The gathered bodice featured an empire waistline accentuated by a draped belt of the self-fabric with a full flared skirt. She wore a tailored bow headpiece of matching knit and carried a Williamsburg nosegay of golden daisies and bronze pom pons accented with purple statice with autumn streamers.

Bridesmaids were Margaret Browning Wheeler of Roanoke Rapids, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. William Sherrod Brown of Greenville. They were dressed like the honor attendant.

The best man was Randolph Fletcher Spainhour of Dunn, and ushers were Keith Mansfield, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Stephen Walker Hipp, both of Greensboro, Freddie Joseph Rabon of Virginia Beach, Va., and Michael Peoples of Annandale, Va.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's Junior College and UNC-Chapel Hill, where she was a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. She is now employed by the Greensboro Department of Social Services.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the School of Pharmacy at UNC-Chapel Hill and was a member of Kappa Psi fraternity and Chi Rho honorary fraternity. He is now a pharmacist at Cone Memorial Hospital, Greensboro.

After a wedding trip to Atlanta, the couple will reside in Greensboro.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was held in the Parish House of the church. Dr. Charles Pace greeted guests and introduced them to the receiving line.

Punch was poured by Mrs. John Paschal of Middletown, Ohio, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Keith Mansfield of Greensboro, sister of the bridegroom. Cake was served by Mrs. Lewis Pittman of Raleigh and Mrs. Van Buren Skinner of Enfield.

The guest register was presided over by Mrs. Charles Kersey Smith of Kinston, aunt of the bride. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Leon Lane of Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stanley Lewis of Rocky Mount.

Equality Is Refused In England

PARIS, France (WNS)—Male secretary Yves Moulin, 29, complains because lady secretaries refuse to join his equal-rights group. "The girls get better pay than we do in many cases, and their male bosses are kinder to them than they are to us males," insisted Moulin. Working for a lady boss is worst of all, he added. "Either the lady is putting us down because she hates her husband, or else she treats us like slaves to get even and show her superiority," said the tall, dark Frenchman. And romance with the boss? "Never," declared Moulin. "You get to know the lady's greedy ambition and maneuverings so quickly that passion and love don't develop."

Needs Help For Disabled

LONDON, England (WNS)—Betty Veal, 59, has begun her new job as chairman of the Disablement Income Group by asking the British Railroads to stop charging her full fare. Miss Veal pointed out that she has to ride in the baggage cars because she is confined to a wheel chair that can't go through the doors of passenger cars. "I ride with people's pets and sometimes have to hold them on my lap because they are unhappy or frightened there," she reported. In her new job, she is calling first for decent government benefits from the government, then for wider doors on some trains so that the disabled can ride with the human passengers.

Musical Program Given At Meet

Miss LaJoyce is an ECU graduate in drama and speech and Hendricks is a junior music major at ECU concentrating in organ.

A "getting to know you" session was held and Pilot members participated and gave a short account of their personal lives and careers.

Mrs. Juanita McCarthy, club president, announced that Pilots Mavis Butts and Jean Cox with their Co-Pilots, Thomas and Rudy, will tour Spain and North Africa Oct. 3-12. The tour is being sponsored by Pilot International.

Guests for the meeting were Emily E. Moseley from Staunton, Va., Anne Butler Shepard from Halifax, and Marjorie Shepard Busby from Haines, Alaska.

The next meeting of the Pilot Club will be a covered-dish meal and will be held at the Immanuel Baptist Church fellowship hall.

Miss Mary Blanche Jones Weds

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Mary Blanche Jones and Alan Gentry Williams Saturday at 3:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Horace Thompson and the Rev. Steve Hoffman. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Paul Braxton, organist, and Miss Dee Anna Braxton, violinist, both of Winterville. Mrs. Claude Williams Jr., mother of the bridegroom, sang "The Prayer of St. Francis" and Steve Miller sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Regan Judson Jones of Rt. 7, Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of white angel cloth peau and chiffon, which she designed and fashioned. The gown was styled with an empire waistline enhanced with a light blue satin ribbon. The bodice was appliqued with imported re-embroidered alencon lace and seed pearls. The rounded neckline featured chiffon and the collar was of matching lace and pearls. The long sheer bishop sleeves were appliqued with lace motifs and seed pearls and the deep cuffs were of alencon lace insertion with blue satin ribbon. The hemline of the modified A-line skirt and flowing cathedral train was encircled with matching lace insertion and blue satin ribbon.

She wore a cathedral length illusion veil attached to a Camelot headpiece of re-embroidered lace and seed pearls. The bride carried a white satin and lace covered Bible centered with white roses, blue statice and trailing stephanotis, blue and white satin streamers tied with greenery and baby's breath.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bernard Williams Jr. of Durham.

Miss Linda Armstrong of Henderson was maid of honor. She was dressed in a light blue formal knit gown with a high neckline overlaid with white French Nottingham lace. The empire bodice featured a bib effect lace overlay edged in the ruffled Nottingham lace. The bishop cuffs of the long sleeves featured the lace overlay and lace ruffled edging. A set-in panel enhanced the waistline with a self-tie with streamers. She carried three long-stemmed white roses with Baker's fern tied with blue and white satin ribbon streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Sutton of Goldsboro, Mrs. Bobby Tripp of Greenville, Mrs. Milton Teague Jr. of Gastonia, Mrs. Roger Rogers of Raleigh, Miss Pamela Williams and Miss Lisa Williams of Durham, sisters of the bridegroom. They were dressed identical to the honor attendant and each carried a long-stemmed white rose with Baker's fern tied with blue and white satin ribbon streamers.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. Keith Vaughan of Morrisville, Miss Diane Wall of Knightdale, Miss Janet Tucker of Winterville and Mrs. Daryl Faulkner of Denton.

The flower girl was Miss Dana McLawhorn of Wilmington, cousin of the bride. She wore a long white angel cloth dress with long sheer sleeves. The empire waist was accented with a light blue ribbon and blue ribbon was inserted through the white lace on the cuffs and hemline.

Each guest was presented a wedding program by Miss Regina Gray of Bon Aire, Va., and Miss Selena McLawhorn of Wilmington, cousins of the bride.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Judson Jones of Greenville, brother of the bride, Stan Wilkins, Bill Martin and Tom Atkinson, all of Raleigh, Tom Austell of Henderson and Kenny Dews of Winterville.

Mrs. Lloyd Hudson directed the wedding.

After a wedding trip to Beech Mountain and Williamsburg, Va., the couple will reside in Durham.

The bride is a graduate of Meredith College, Raleigh. The bridegroom is a graduate of N.C. State University and was a member of Theta Tau Engineering Fraternity and Order of Saint Patrick. He is now an engineer with Public Service Co. of North Carolina, Durham.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by parents of the bride in the fellowship hall of the church.

A wedding breakfast was held Saturday morning given by relatives and friends of the bride.

The bridal couple was honored at a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Ayden Country Club. Hosts and hostesses were parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harward Jr. and Dr. and Mrs. John Reed Jr., aunts of uncles of the bridegroom.

Reception Held Thursday Night

Dr. and Mrs. Leo W. Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University, entertained at a reception honoring new faculty members and heads of departments of the university at their home Thursday evening.

Frosted coffee was poured by Mrs. Robert L. Holt, Mrs. Douglas R. Jones, and Mrs. C. Richie Blake.

Couple Weds In Ceremony Performed Friday Night

The marriage of Barbara Hannah Frizzelle and Calvin Stephen Briley was solemnized Friday at 8:00 p.m. in a double ring ceremony performed at the home of the bridegroom.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hannah Jr. of Rt. 4, Williamston, and Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Earl Briley of Rt. 1, Stokes.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white crepe full length A-line gown fashioned with an empire waist, scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The sleeves and attached train of chantilly lace were enhanced with Venise lace. The bodice was sprinkled with seed pearls. The gown was made by Mrs. Ivey Vandiford.

Her bouffant silk illusion veil was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. The bride carried a nosegay of white and yellow roses accented with baby's breath and yellow and white streamers.

The mother of the bride wore a blue dress with long sleeves, matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a green dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a three-piece burgandy and creme pantsuit and matching accessories. She wore her mother's corsage.

The couple will reside at Rt. 8, Greenville.

The bride attended Bear Grass High School and is employed by Prepshirt. The bridegroom is a graduate of Stokes-Pactolus High School and Pitt Technical Institute. He is service manager at Joe Pecheles Volkswagen.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the first slice of wedding cake, cake was served by Mrs. Peggy Harrison, sister of the bride. Mrs. Carolyn Langley, sister of the bride, poured punch.

Mrs. Deborah Brewer, sister of the bride, presided at the guest register.

On The Young Side

By MARY CHARLES STEVENS

This week at Rose, many students are involved in making plans to participate in the Bicentennial and to begin work on Homecoming floats.

Also the Keywanettes are planning to sell coffee and doughnuts to visiting teachers and Rose High faculty during the teachers' meeting scheduled for Oct. 11 at Rose.

Members on the planning committee for this project are Chairman, Kathy McConnell, Janet Gantt, Wendy Harris, Cindy Jamieson, Cheryl Collie, Kathy Still, Ann Haigwood, and Mary Charles Stevens.

Eighteen Rose students will participate in the "Pageant of Greenville" Bicentennial celebration on the night of Oct. 10 at 7:30 in Wright Auditorium. They will portray characters described in a historical narration. Also taking part will be a chorus of about 450 fourth-graders and the Community Chorus of about 60 singers.

Rose participants are Mose Stocks, Hank Dunbar, Lisa Leshansky, David Pendered, Diane McGlohon, Nancy McGlohon, Jim McMillan, Donna Blackwell, Don Sullivan, Tina Brewer, Charlene Robinson, Robert Wease, Joey Howell, David Ostrow, Gail Porter, Kim McKinney, John Miller, and Mike Erway.

Junior David Ostrow presents Rose High news every Saturday morning on the "Rampant Report" over WGNL Radio. The report is taped now, but soon will be presented live. The exact time has not yet been set.

NSA Chapter Entertains At Monday Social

The Greenville Chapter of the National Secretaries Association International held a social Monday evening at the Ramada Inn for prospective new members.

The program entitled "How To Succeed On 12 Cents A Day" was presented by Judith Stancill. A film-strip was shown during the program telling about "The World Of NSA."

During the business meeting conducted by Yvonne Hardee, president, Peggy James was approved for membership. After the repeating of the Code of Ethics, the meeting was adjourned and the members and guests were entertained with refreshments served by the Membership Committee.

All interested secretaries in the Greenville area are invited to join NSA.

Ode To Segregated College Housing

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: Your recent exchange of letters concerning coeducational living at college prompts me to think you might be amused by this song which I wrote, published and copyrighted a few months ago.

Your constant reader,
RICHARD L. GREEN, NEW HAVEN, CONN

THE OLD FASHIONED CO-ED
(To the tune of "Don't Send My Boy to Harvard, the Dying Mother Said")

One busy Monday morning in the office of the dean
A pretty girl with downcast eyes appeared upon the scene;
The dean was brisk and businesslike; her slacks were neatly pressed;
She asked the girl the reason why she felt herself distressed.
"I'm dropping out," the student said, "although I'd hoped to stay;
I'm sure that I could never last until Commencement Day;
I know that coed living's great, but I cannot conform;
Chorus:
I did not come to college to lose my maiden flower;
I came to work and study hard for every credit hour;
For eighteen years I've walked upon the straight and narrow path:
I do not want a football man to share my room and bath.
"I cannot help you," said the dean; "our policy is clear:
In rich, mature relationships we do not interfere;
If normal, heterosexual life is making you so nervous,
I would suggest that you consult our psychiatric service."
"No, thank you," said the girl; "I know that here I don't belong;
I'll try to find some backward place were folks say 'right' and 'wrong'."
The tears were trembling on her lids; she quickly turned away;
And as she closed the office door these sad words she did say:
Chorus:
I did not come to college etc.

DEAR RICHARD: Beautiful! And bless your sweet whiffenpoof for sharing.

DEAR ABBY: If an advertisement on TV or radio is repulsive to me, I refuse to buy the product, even if it's the cheapest of several brands.

For example, the other day there were three different brands of toilet tissue on the shelf in a supermarket. One I had never heard of; another I had seen advertised occasionally, but not often; and a third whose TV commercials were so repulsive to me that I actually have changed the channel so I wouldn't have to look at it. I bought the middle brand.

My wife disagreed. She wanted to buy the brand with the repulsive advertising because she thought it was the best quality.

Who is right? Am I to ignore the repulsive advertising because of quality? Letters to the network don't help. I've written and complained, but the TV advertising gets worse.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You're complaining to the wrong people. Write to the president of the company whose product you refuse to buy because of the "repulsive" advertising and tell him why! If enough complaints cross his desk, he will inform his ad agency that he wants some changes made.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the "38-year-old professional woman" who wants to have a child to find her "ultimate fulfillment," I have a few thoughts:

My mother was just such a professional woman. She collected a husband, a daughter and a dog to "enrich" her life. The only one who was not damaged by the "enrichment" was the dog.

Babysitters, housekeepers, boarding schools seemed to be the child's lot.

Abby, I agree with your answer and strongly suggest she acquire a dog and two cats and call it a family. Using other human beings to fulfill oneself is worthwhile only if one can give as well as take.

VICTIM

Sleepy-Time Fashions For Tots

BABY THINGS—Catching bubbles or happy dreams can be fun in a Granny nightgown, left. Flame retardant, they are comfortable for the wee set in brushed acetate. Note the hemline and the smocked yoke. Right, a flame retardant stretch terry coverall of 85 per cent kojin and 15 per cent polyester, easy to care for and comfortable to wear. The colorful smocking follows the line of grippers, traveling from the neck to the ankle.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I saw an ad in the paper the other day that intrigued me. It said simply, "WANTED: Christian woman to do ironing."

Is there any other kind who irons?

If someone had told me before I got married that I would stand like a statue for six hours every week in front of a board with three pounds of steam and heat in my right hand and push it back and forth over a PRIMO beer sweatshirt, I would have called off the wedding.

I once lived next door to a Christian woman who ironed. Every Monday she would put up her ironing board and wheel out one of those baskets on legs and iron each piece as it came. I could have watched her for hours.

She ironed sheets, dish towels, socks, belt buckles, underwear, the tongues in tennis shoes, the binding on blankets and even zippers. I never saw such a martyr. One day I couldn't believe my eyes. She pulled her husband's shirt out of the basket and after painstakingly ironing both sides of the collar and cuffs, she ironed the front and started to iron the back.

"Are you crazy?" I shouted, ripping the shirt off the board. "Now you've gone too far."

"What are you talking about?" she asked.

"Ironing the back of a man's shirt. Are you bucking for canonization?"

It is just not woman's natural inclination to take to ironing. One of my friends hired a woman to iron after the birth of her fourth child. She still retains her and kid is 35 years old now.

Some hold theories that the aversion to ironing is genetic. This would seem to be the case as both my sister and I iron only during the months when oysters are in season—off the coast of Thailand.

Our phone conversations run something like this:

"Joe needs a shirt."

"You going to iron one?"

"No, make one."

"When are you going to iron?"

"During the next space launch, providing the month has an R in it."

I'll tell you something, world. When you are as behind in your ironing as I am, you'd settle for a woman who worshipped avocados during a full moon!

Chapter Plans Projects At Thursday Night Meet

Plans for two fund-raising projects for Greenville Chapter No. 1308 Women of the Moose were announced at a business meeting Thursday night at the Moose Temple.

"Christmas In October," an annual chapter night event, is set for Oct. 10th when WOTM members will bring gifts for children at Mooseheart and senior citizens at Moosehaven, according to Mrs. Marge Ipock, chairman of the Mooseheart Committee.

The Child Care Committee, with Mrs. Janet Umphlett as chairman, has planned a Tupperwear party for Oct. 3. Profits will be used for chapter projects. Both affairs will be held at the Moose Temple, starting at 8 p.m.

The appointment of Mrs. Janice Drew as guide and Mrs. Evelyn Cottam as chairman of the Membership Committee was announced by Mrs. Peggy Jamieson, senior regent.

Wilma M. Turner, chairman of the publicity committee, said that names for a birthday calendar will be turned in in October. The calendar will be distributed in December.

Mrs. Jamieson thanked the members for their cooperation during the first quarter of the chapter year. The Greenville chapter was awarded a qualified rating, fulfilling all the requirements set forth by the national WOTM organization.

Miss Ada Jones, deputy grand regent for North Carolina, urged members to attend a state-wide convocation in Greensboro late in October. The chapter plans to charter a bus for the trip is sifficient interest is indicated.

Craft classes for WOTM members were also announced, the first to be held Oct. 24, following the chapter business meeting.

Her 'Elementary' Marriage Is Delight

ZURICH, Switzerland (WNS)—Mary Smith, 22, is on honeymoon here with Sherlock Holmes, 38. "Of course, I married him for love, but the name is a delight, too," admitted the English bride. "Nobody paid much attention to me as Mary Smith, but I always get a double-take and special service as Mrs. Sherlock Holmes."

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Long-range plans made now can be successful. But first decide on your overall aims, then study ways they can be made to operate on down-to-earth levels. Rely on hunches now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over with kin ways to have more harmony, other improvements, at home. Plan just what it is you desire in other avenues as well.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Discuss with good friends of long standing how to become more helpful to each other. A senior partner will now give you good ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get wheels rolling to further wishes. Be ingenious. Get that credit affair handled satisfactorily even if it is Sunday.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study new philosophies of living to find one that is just right for you. Plan trip to get vital data. Avoid one who is tricky.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Put your intuitive faculties to work so you get more accomplished when dealing with others, but also use your common sense.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be diplomatic in dealing with others now, or you could get yourself into some kind of serious failure or tight spot. Discuss problems with associate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show gratitude to those who have been good to you. Relax tonight and restore your lagging energies. Get an early start in a.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get together with friends of long standing for a fine time now and to plan for the future. Help those less mature.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Sit down with kin and show you are understanding of their views, ideas, complaints. Come to a far better meeting of minds.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Investigate some new philosophy that could give you more peace of mind, greater pleasure. Accept favor from a good friend given in the right spirit.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan how to have more good things in an honest and clever way. A new associate may not be too trustworthy — test for such.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget new acquaintances and stick with the old for best results today. You can be highly creative now and should work along such lines.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be highly intellectual and can become successful provided a good education puts your youngster on the right road in life and he is taught to keep feet squarely on the ground. Take good care of the diet early to prevent ill health and give necessary exercise, otherwise there could be a destructive martyr complex emerging here.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, SEPT. 30, 1974

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The morning is fine for winding up whatever you have put in motion. Later you are able to find a new activity that is very much to your benefit. Display a pioneering spirit in your endeavors. Make new allies. Be outgoing.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make new plans for the future in the morning. An associate will give you full support. An evening at home could restore your energies.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listen to the ideas from a good friend, and then quietly put them in operation. Do whatever makes your mate amenable to your ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Know what it is you have to do careerwise, and then attend to duties. "Business before pleasure" is still a good motto. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study subject matter of new ideas in the morning. Later gain the backing of bigwigs for any big projects you have in mind.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get an early start on your responsibilities. Tonight you can find a way to expand your most cherished interests. Avoid strife with mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is best time to go over final details of any arrangements you have with associates. Plan how to deal with one you love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Do most of your work early in the day so that later you can be with associates and devise a better plan for success in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan amusements for later in the day early and then get right into all the work that is awaiting your attention. Use your talents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make your house look more charming before dashing off to other interests today. Talk over future plans with family members.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Set up appointments for the day and be sure you are on time keeping dates, or you lose out on benefits. Think constructively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Morning is a good time to plan for adding to present abundance. State your aims with friends and gain their full cooperation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get wheels rolling where financial matters are concerned early in the day. Discuss financial matters with business experts.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will take to learning as naturally as a duck takes to water and therefore should be given every opportunity to study so that the knowledge gained will be applied in a most productive way. There is a fine talent here for dwindling difficult tasks down to a practicality.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Leaf Theft Charged 4

Four persons have been arrested by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department on charges stemming from the theft of approximately 1,000 pounds of tobacco from a farm near Winterville.

Arrested and charged with breaking, entering and larceny of tobacco from a pack house on the Will Worthington farm were Holly Mims Streeter, 20, of Box 388 Winterville; James Albert Ross, 22, of Rt. 1, Box 701, Winterville; Bobby Earl Daniels, 25; of Box 149, Winterville; and Elmer Ray Corbitt of Box 276, Winterville.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson, who reported that the men were arrested on Wednesday, said that five sheets of tobacco, weighing some 1,000 pounds and valued at $1,200, was recovered.

Bond was set at $1,000 for each person and hearings have set for Oct. 4, in District Court here.

Ordered To Pay Child Support

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A Pittsburgh woman has been ordered to pay child support to her former husband, who has custody of the couple's two young children.

The presumption that the husband is solely responsible for the support of children "is clearly the vestige of the past and incompatible with the present recognition of equality of the sexes," Allegheny County Common Pleas Court Judge Louis J. Sparvero said.

The judge ordered Priscilla Meinhold, who has remarried since divorcing Armaud Centracchio, to pay him $30 a month, or one-third of the cost of caring for the two youngsters.

PRODUCTION UP

SAO PAULO (UPI) — Brazil's automobile production during the first six months of 1974 shot up 23 per cent compared with the number of cars manufactured during the same period last year.

TREE DAMAGE

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Young trees loaded with fruit may be a source of pride but unless the excess fruit is removed the trees can be permanently damaged, says University of Illinois horticulturist Dan Meador.

A THINKING MAN'S MESSAGE about Diamonds

Buying a diamond soon? Confused about diamond pricing? We wouldn't blame you a bit. A ¼ carat diamond may cost a variety of prices. The size may remain the same, but the quality of every diamond differs slightly from that of every other stone mined. Diamonds are a unique gem that require specialized knowledge on the part of a jeweler. As members of the American Gem Society, you may depend on our diamond specialists to properly explain the subtle differences. Come in soon and see for yourself.

SAILING ALONG AT 71—At a time in life when a lot of us think about taking it easy, Lawrence Welk today is busier than at any other time in his exciting life. The Lawrence Welk Show is seen locally Saturdays at 7:00 p.m. on channel 7.

'Welk Network' In Fourth Season

In 1955, when Lawrence Welk first was signed for nationwide television as a "13-week summer replacement," TV bigwigs snickered, predicting his show would not last four weeks. To their astonisyment, the program climbed steadily to the top, and continued for a record sixteen years as one of the best rated Saturday programs, toppling competitive shows in its time slot.

"Welk's is the longest-running '13 week summer replacement show" in television history," was the comment of a close friends of the maestro.

To the "experts" further astonishment, when his show was cancelled in the spring of '71, toward the close of its sixteen-year run, Welk and his associates immediately informed some six hundred TV stations that his program would continue in production without cessation, and invited them to join their new Welk network that fall. The show is currently seen on Saturday, at 7 p.m. on Channel 7.

And, so, the Lawrence Welk network was born the week after the final ABC program, 204 stations intially signed. The show thrived and the aroused and highly vocal millions of Welk fans were pacified.

This season marks commencement of Welk's twenty-fifth consecutive year in television, in 1950 when he debuted a local TV show in Los Angeles.

Today, at age 71, and in his 50th year as an entertainer, the genial maestro is a living legend, with virtually the same verve and energy that has spurred him throughout his entire career, which started when he left his father's farm in Strasburg, North Dakota on his 21st birthday.

His secret is, simply, an abiding love of music and of entertaining audiences. Simplicity, too, is a big part of the secret of his success ... simplicity of musical arrangements and the maintenance of simple harmony and beat.

"In my early days," Welk recalls, "arrangers forever were trying to give me over-written, complicated arrangements, and every time I offered them to the public, I learned quickly they disliked them. The great majority of people prefer simply written music, music they understand, just like the people I played for throughout the mid-west."

He is reminded constantly that, at 71, retirement is around the corner, but he smiles and shrugs off the reminder.

"Sure, I'll retire some day," he admits, "but why rush it? I'd miss the music, the great job and excitement of meeting old and new friends, and the satisfaction of knowing we're offering entertainment to families all over the country. And I'd miss my own musical family. If ever I should retire, I'd probably spend a lot of my time going around to wherever they were performing, just to enjoy them. Between rounds of golf, that is! No, I'm not ready to retire yet, and I probably won't be for quite a long while!"

IN THE GREEN ROOM—The Osmond view the action at "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" on a monitor inside the Green Room, where guests wait for their cues to appear on the late-night entertainment series Mondays through Fridays (11:30-1 a.m.) on channels 6-7.

No Real Secrets Kept Inside 'Green Room'

Just exactly what goes on behind the door to the Green Room, that mystery clad hide-a-way where guests wait to appear on NBC Television Network's "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson?"

Some of the guests relax; some are active; some are quiet; some are not. The pattern varies with personalities of the guests who visit the show (colorcast weekdays, 11:30 p.m. - 1 a.m.).

Don Rickles, for example, is usually "on," behaving about the same way waiting to go on stage as he does before the cameras. Generally, Rickles will watch the taping of the show on a TV monitor located in the Green Room and offer comments on what he sees. His ad-libs are as funny as the ones he delivers during the show.

Buddy Hackett's voice may be heard at almost any point in the building. Hackett has been known to heckle loudly while Carson has delivered his monologue on stage. Hackett walks in and out of the room many times until he is called to go on.

Tony Randall, a frequent guest on the late-night entertainment series, will usually deliver a running commentary on what he sees on the monitor. A man with a great sense of humor, Randall has an affinity for trivia and keeps those in the Green Room in high humor until he is called.

Truman Capote might make comments to a friend while waiting but generally is content to sit silently and await his turn. Authors usually are among the quietest group of guests. One exception is Jimmy Breslin, whose voice carries as far as that of Hackett. Euell Gibbons is a quiet man but also has a fine sense of humor. When he sees something on the monitor which particularly interests him, he leaves the Green Room to watch from behind the curtains backstage.

Youngsters appearing on "The Tonight Show" often are quite different in the Green Room than they are on camera. The Osmonds, for example, are a quiet group who enjoy watching other performers on the monitor. Such tykes as Rodney Allen Rippy or Ricky Segal may sometimes be found on the floor, playing games before and after they have appeared with Carson. Singer Lena Zavaoni, who, at 10, has been the object of much national attention, sits quietly with her parents and seems to be like any other 10-year-old girl watching a TV screen.

'Sierra' Star Likes To Run

Jim runs at least 12 miles every day — more if he's tired.

Richardson, whose first official entry in a nationally rated cross-country marathon will be on December 3 when he runs the 26 miles of the Culver City Marathon, explains that there is a big difference between jogging and running.

"Running is running. You don't slow down to catch your breath until you have finished."

Green Room. . .

Some performers who await their turn thoroughly enjoy watching the guests talking or performing. These include Joan Rivers, Elke Sommer, Dr. Joyce Brothers, Ernest Borgnine and Jack Palance. Their laughter is most spontaneous and can sometimes be heard filtering beyond the walls of the Green Room.

Whatever their reactions, all the guests in the Green Room are at the beck and call of a talent coordinator, who cues them for their 30-second walk from the Green Room to the stage.

MANNIX IN THE DESERT — When Jeannie Lassiter (Jane Actman) turns up missing, her father, a wealthy sportsman and gambler, calls on private detective Joe Mannix (series Mike Connor), in the "Game Plan" episode on "Mannix," Sunday, September 29 (9:30-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

Filming In New Mexico Desert Brings Crowds

Television actors and technicians in action on location invariably attract passersby, and in a place like teeming New York City, crowd control can be a real problem. But, out in the middle of nowhere, say on the high desert of New Mexico, it's a different story or is it?

T' is a sunny, windy mid-afternoon at a spot along a dirt road outside of Bernadillo. In the distance looms the 10,000-foot summit of majestic Sandia Peak. Series star, Mike Connors, is at work filming "Game Plan," an episode of "Mannix" to be broadcast Sunday, September 29, (9:30-10:30 p.m.) on the CBS Television Network.

No one can be seen in the vastness of the site but this small cluster of actors and crew members with their equipment. Word, however, seemingly has been carried on the wind.

Suddenly, a plane appears, low on the horizon. With a roar, the executive-type prp-jet buzzes the site at what would be tree-top level if there were any trees, then sweeps up in a steep climb and vanishes into the distance. Filming of the scene, which has been shattered, starts over again. Immediately, another plane, almost a carbon copy of the first, makes a duplicate run.

Filming is again resumed after this second interruption. Then, in less than 15 minutes, from up the deserted road come three helmeted motorcyclists. As they roar into the camer's field of vision, each of the bikers rears up on his back wheel, executing the stunt known as 'popping a wheelie.' Again the scene being filmed has to be scrubbed.

Wayne Newton To Host Own Special

Songs and comedy will highlight "The Wayne Newton Special," spotlighting a day in the life of the popular entertainer as he takes viewers on a musical tour of his ranch, Casa de Shenandoah, in Las Vegas, where he is joined by friends, including Farrah Fawcett, Robert Goulet, Carol Lawrence, Lee Majors, Barbara Mandrell, Freda Payne and Burt Reynolds. The special will be colorcast on Sunday, September 29 (11:30 p.m.-1:00 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

The program opens with Newton, in a desert setting, singing "Country Roads" as he rides along. He introduces viewers to his ranch, singing "Back in Your Own Backyard", and is joined by Goulet and Miss Lawrence singing "Ol, Man River."

He meets Reynolds at the stables for a comedy bit, does a musical number with Majors and Miss Fawcett ("The Entertainer"), reprieves "Back in Your Own Backyard," and finds himself on the receiving end of a stunt sketch involving Reynolds and Miss Fawcett.

Next, Newton is heard and seen in the nightclub setting. He sings "Come Back to Me" combined with a special tribute to the late Bobby Darin. He offers a medley of their respective recording hits, including "Red Roses for a Blue Lady" and "Danke Shoen" (Newton hits) plus "Splish Splash," "Dream Lover," "Beyond the Sea," and "Mack the Knife" (which were Darin best-sellers.)

FIDDLING AROUND—Singer Wayne Newton demonstrates his skill with the violin during a segment of "The Wayne Newton Special" to be colorcast Sept. 29 (11:30-1:00 a.m.) on channels 6-7.

FLOORING EFFECTS

The contribution of floors to decorative mood is nothing short of amazing. As a result, much can be said for using the floor as a design springboard. Because a floor is, obviously, one of the largest expanses you have to work with, it is part and parcel of an initial, over-all impression of a home or a room. Flooring helps to set the degree of formality in the home. If the floor is neutral in color and pattern, other elements can be played against it. If the floor is dominant, keep other elements subdued.

Since your floors are to be your design springboard, give them special notice. Visit us soon for the largest collection of carpeting for home or business. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale." "Carpet is our Business, Not a Hobby."

INTERRUPTORS FINED

A pair of young men who interrupted Walter Cronkite's CBS-TV newscast last December to protest the lack of coverage of homosexals have been fined by a N.Y. Criminal Court Judge. One was fined $250 and the other $100.

Miss World-USA Will Be Wide World Special

With Dick Clark and Meredith MacRae as the hosts, "The 1974 Miss World-U.S.A. Beauty Pageant," the American chapter of the internatinal beauty contest that will eventually choose the most beautiful young woman on the planet, will be seen as a "Wide World: Special," one of the entertainments in the late-night schedule for the ABC Television Network in the week of Sept. 30-Oct. 4. The programs are presented in the 11:30 p.m.-1:00 a.m. time period, and seen on Channel 3W-5-12.

Doug Henning, star of Broadway's "The Magic Show", will be Dick Cavett's major guest on an unusual program of legerdemain on "The Dick Cavett Show," and Patty Duke and her husband, John Astin, and Salome Jens star in "Wide World: Mystery" dramas in other programs during the week.

"Hard Day at Blue Nose," as "Wide World: Mystery" starring Patty Duke as the operator of a western dude ranch, and John Astin as a vacationing New York detective who is among her guests, will be broadcast on Tuesday, Oct. 1.

When a young woman, who arrived to establish residence for a divorce, is mysteriously murdered, Mike Greenberg (Astin) finds his vacation is not all play when the local sheriff names him as a suspect.

"The 1974 Miss World-U.S.A. Beauty Pageant," the "Wide World: Special" for Wednesday, Oct. 2, will focus on the 15 semi-finalists out of the starting field of 51, each selected in statewide eliminations.

Dick Clark, star of ABC's "American Bandstand," and singer-actress Meredith Macrae will, for the second consecutive year, act as hosts for these exciting and conclusive chapters of the pageant which will name the American woman to represent his country in the international finals to be held in London later this year. That pageant will also be telecast as a "Wide World: Special."

Julie Kavner Now Acting For Pay

The day Julie Kavner was notified that she had landed the much - sought - after role of Valerie Harper's younger sister Brenda in the new comedy series "Rhoda," seen Mondays (9:30-10:00 p.m.), on channel 9-11, she was busy filing and typing as a senior clerk typist A, step 2, level 1, at the UCLA Graduate School of Architecture and Urban Planning.

"I've always had jobs like that," Miss Kavner points out, "My role on 'Rhoda' is the first time I've ever been paid to act."

It's a rather startling statement to hear from a young actress whose poise and performances many a veteran would envy. Although Miss Kavner is new to the ranks of the professional actor, her training includes college theater, the famous Old Globe Theater in San Diego, Calif., where she once won a best-actress award, and little theater productions in Los Angeles.

"To support myself, I had to take jobs like being a receptionist in a real-estate office or breakfast cook in a sorority house," she notes. "Once I even got fired from a job as a cocktail waitress. The owner said I looked like everybody's daughter and no one wanted to come into a bar and see his daughter."

Miss Kavner goes on to point out that when she auditioned for "Rhoda," it was not the first time she had tried to become "one of the family."

"I auditioned for the part of Rhoda's other sister, Debbie, for an episode of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," but they changed the concept of the character and cast another actress."

However, when the part of Brenda was created for the new series, the producers remembered Miss Kavner and called her in. Thus far, the impact of performing in a television series hasn't affected the actress.

"I dont't think about the size of the television audience," she admits, "I just think about doing my part as best I can for the 300 people who sit in the studio audience each week."

"Besides," she happily adds, "I can't get over the fact that I 'm actually being paid for doing the one thing in the world I love most — acting."

CHOSEN AS TEXTS

"All in the Family" and "Maude" will be texts this fall for a Fairleigh Dickinson University course entitled "The Communication of Social Issues." Dr. Irving H. Buchen, head of the New Jersey school's English Department will stop the shows at critical moments to ask students to complete characterizations and plots. Buchen says he picked the programs because they "tell the truth in a very direct, human and honest way."

HERMIONE BADDELEY joins the cast as the new English housekeeper for the Findlays, on "Maude", now in a new time period, Mondays (9-9:30 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

What Happened To 'Toma' Role?

Television viewers throughout the country are asking this question and voicing their disappointment over the demise of this program that was so popular last year. "Toma," the story of a real-life Newark detective who racked up an amazing arrest record by assuming various disguises, did not hit the dust as a result of low rating. Rather, it passed the way of many another TV series because of the determination of it's star, Tony Musante.

When Musante signed his contract with ABC-TV, it was with the understanding that, success or not, he would not star in "Toma" more than one year. He made this decision because he did not want to be typed.' As you can imagine, this is highly unusual in this world of ours where the vast majority of stars will stay with a 'winner' come 'hell or high water.'

Tony Musante is a versatile young actor whose wide range of portrayals in major movies and TV programs includes roles as a detective, a hood, a homosexual, a Mexican revolutionary, a Sicilian prosecuting attorney and a young sophisticate, among other types.

Musante, oldest of four children, was born in Bridgeport, Conn., and grew up in neighboring Stratford. It was the birth of the Stratford Shakespeare Festival during his senior year in high school that sparked Tony's interest in the theatre. He joined a local group, The Polka Dot Players.

Tony went on to Oberlin College in Ohio to acquire a B. A. in Psychology and more acting, writing and directing experience in the school's then extracurricular theatre company. It was here, too, that he met his pretty wife, Jane, a fellow student.

Following graduation, Tony taught high school English in his home town, appeared in a children's theatre in Chicago, where he made his professional debut in the role of an elf, and directed in community theatres in Ohio, Chicago and Connecticut.

BUCKS THE SYSTEM—Glenn Ford stars as an Air Force Colonel who bucks official policy that refuses to acknowledge that UFOs might exist, and presses a search for two jets that have mysteriously disappeared in "The Disappearance of Flight 412", to be colorcast on "NBC World Premiere Movie" Tuesday, Oct. 1 (8:30-10 p.m.) on channels 6-7.

Carson To Begin 13th Year

Johnny Carson will celebrate the 12 anniversary of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" Tuesday, Oct. 1, with a special, two-hour color-cast (1:30 a.m. to 2:30 a.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Carson will launch the 13th year of his late-night entertainment series by sharing the stage with his long-time associates, announcer Ed McMahon and music director Doc Severinsen. Both were with Carson when the show premiered on NBC-TV Oct. 1, 1962 — McMahon as announcer and Severinsen as a member of the NBC Orchestra. (Severinsen became music director Oct. 9, 1967.)

Robert T. Howard, President of the NBC Television Network is to appear on the program and make a special presentation to Carson.

For Carson and his viewers it will be nostalgia time, as scenes from memorable shows of the past 12 years will be shown throughout the special anniversary colorcast.

John Byner, Rose Marie, Carl Reiner, Debbie Reynolds and George Lindsay, who, in mock anger, all walked off the panel (1969);

Dean Martin, Bob Hope, George Gobel and Judy Carne in a comedy sequence (1969)

There will also be a sequence involving Carson and Don Rickles in a Japanese-style massage-bath (1968), and a stuntmen's brawl with Doug McClure and James Drury (1968).

'Mark Of Zorro' In Production

The classic story of "The Mark of Zorro" is being produced for television for the first time and will be a "Movie of the Week" presentation on the ABC Television Network. Production has begun in Tuscon, Arizona.

Frank Langella stars in the dual role of Don Diego and Zorro. Co-starring are Ricardo Montalban, Gilbert Roland, Yvonne DeCarlo, Robert Middleton, Louise Sorel, Anne Archer and Tom Lacy.

"The Mark of Zorro" was originally produced in 1920 and starred Douglas Fairbanks, Sr. Then, in 1940 there was the much-heralded remake, which starred Tyrone Power. A great number of productions inspired by the original have been made over the years, including an ABC series called "Zorro."

The action-adventure film is set in the frontier days of California. A young nobleman returns from Europe to find his father oppressed by a powerful and cruel newcomer—a Don with a land grant from the Spanish throne. By day the young man pretends to be a friend of the Don, but at night he becomes the masked "Zorro," a bold and courageous avenger of his family's oppression.

Langella, who portrays the legendary swashbuckling hero, received critical and public acclaim for his performance in the film, "Diary of a Mad Housewife." His Off-Broadway performances in "The Old Glory" and "The White Devil" won him the coveted Obie Award. He guest-starred this past season in ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D." and will be joining Deborah Kerr on Broadway in Edward Albee's new comedy "Seascape," following the filming of "Zorro."

Ricardo Montalban and Gilbert Roland have epitomized dashing caballeros in scores of movies, on stage and on television. Both were born in Mexico and both migrated to Southern California in their youth. Montalban portrays the menacing co-conspirator, Captain Estaban, and Roland plays Don Diego's father, the ousted Alcalde (governor) Alejando Vega.

CHARLTON HESTON stars as the spirited island settler, with Geraldine Chaplin playing his wife, in "The Hawaiians", based on Michener's epic novel "Hawaii" to be seen for the first time on television on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies", Oct. 3 (9-11 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

CLORIS LEACHMAN as a juror in a murder trial learns that not only is the accused innocent, but her own husband is the murderer in "Death Sentence", the ABC-TV "Wednesday Movie of the Week" October 2 (8:30 p.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

Ken Howard Put It All Together

He's towering, rugged and rangy, and, for Ken Howard, his impressive height has been a defnite help in a booming career. Being handsome hasn't hurt, either.

It all comes together for Howard as the star of the new action-adventure series "The Manhunter," seen Wednesdays, 10-11 p.m., on Channel 9-11, as the second half of "The Detectives," starring "Cannon" and "The Manhunter" on the CBS Network.

Howard, 6'6½" tall, with blond hair and hazel eyes, portrays an ex-marine named Dave Barrett, who works on his family farm during the Depression and wins a reputation as an unusual arm of the law, using his country-honed logic to track down criminals.

It's quite a change from Howard's previous work, which was centered in musicals and dramas on the Broadway stage and in the sophisticated comedy of "Adam's Rib" on television, in which he played a very modern attorney.

"I enjoy all the action and location work we do for 'The Manhunter'." Howard says. "We have to film in rural areas and small towns to catch the feel of the show's locale, which is set in Idaho in the early 1930s.

"I'm pretty much city-bred myself, so it's interesting to play a character who depends on a kind of backwoods know-how to outwit the bad guys."

"I was 24 when I got to New York (from Yale Drama School) and I was so big, I knew immediately I wasn't going to get kid parts," Howard recalls. "I just had to get older fast."

He made his Broadway debut in the musical "Promises, Promises" and played Thomas Jefferson in the stage and film versions of "1776," another musical; played a coach in the drama "Child's Play," and then did the musical "Seesaw" before going into "Adam's Rib."

"We enjoyed doing that series," he says. "It was a good experience, but I wasn't too upset when it didn't continue. Nothing is better than change."

His role in "The Manhunter" plunges Howard into, among other activities, doing battle with aerial cattle rustlers, a wild set-to with payroll robbers aboard a speeding train, an encounter with a rampaging steer, and hair-raising chases in his vintage automobile.

"That's what I mean," Howard grins. "It's some change."

On Location At Cape Canaveral

Location filming is now underway at Cape Canaveral, Fla., on a major two-hour family-drama special, "Stowaway to the Moon," to be presented during the 1974-75 season on the CBS Television Network.

The tale of an 11-year-old boy's adventure on a manned space flight is being produced by John Cutts for 20th Century-Fox and directed by Andrew V. McLaglen. The script was adapted by Sidney Carroll from the William R. Shelton novel of the same title.

Capt. Kangaroo In 20th Year

"Captain Kangaroo," award winning children's program with its creator Bob Keeshan in the title role, will begin its 20th year on the CBS Television Network on Friday, Oct. 4. The series is presented Monday thru Friday (8-9 a.m.) on Channel 9-11.

In marking its 20th year celebration, the series — which made its debut on October 3, 1955 — has lined up an array of special guest stars for the coming season.

NINTH IN FAMILY

LADY RANGER—Susan Foster plays Ranger Julie Beck in the new NBC-TV outdoor action series "Sierra" Thursdays (8-9 p.m.). The series is filmed mostly in Yosemite National Park. Miss Foster was seen by filmgoers as Cindy in "Billy Jack".

Underworld Tale Will Be Re-Told

At 11:00 a.m. on a cold Tuesday in a dusky December lengthening into a wet winter, Bleecker Street between Jones and Cornelia in New York City's West Greenwich Village, an offside remnant of downtown bohemia, flowed with the expected urgencies of daily life. It was death, scheduled to be shammed later.

In one hour and 45 minutes, it would explode raucously, flamingly, in counterfeit, from a fast-moving, long black car—on direction. For now, the lean limo endlessly tracked the two marked victims up and down Bleecker Street, back and forth—on direction.

Since 9:30 that moisture-charged morning, that direction had stemmed from a tall, husky man wearing a blue-and-beige woolen stocking hat that hugged his forehead, and an oyster-white, three-quarter-length storm coat. Director Paul Wendkos was intently rehearsing his location scenes for "Honor Thy Father," based on Gay Talese's best-selling book about underworld life.

To be rebroadcast on "The CBS Late Movie" Thursday night, Oct. 3, 11:30 p.m., on Channel 3N-9-11, the film stars Joseph Bologna and Brenda Vacarro, with special guest star Raf Vallone and Richard Castellano.

Freddie's Forte Is Comedy

"Chico," whose "—IZ not my job, man!" expression is literally sweeping the country, is played by Freddie Prinze, who celebrated his 20th birthday on June 22, and has been acting since age 4, when he developed an imitation of Ed Sullivan that kept his family and friends entertained.

Freddie is a native of New York City. His mother is Puerto Rican and his father is Hungarian. Freddie says that that makes him Hunga-Rican.

He attended various parochial elementary schools and was accepted by the New York High School of Performing Arts. He graduated in 1973 as a drama major.

Freddie's forte is comedy and he already has appeared several times on "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson," twice on the "Merv Griffin Show" and once on the "Mike Douglas Show."

Freddie recalls that he would practice his comedy routines in the high school washroom during the lunch hour. His audience of fellow students convinced him he should try it professionally.

Freddie said, "I would go down to Budd Friedman's Improvisation club every night and wait my turn with the other performers to get on stage. Lots of nights I wouldn't get on until 3 a.m., but Friedman liked me and I made a few bucks at it. But it was tough getting to school for the first class."

"But it was "The Tonight Show" in December, 1973, that changed my life," Freddie confesses. And it was "The Tonight Show" that attracted James Komack, creator-producer of the "Chico and The Man" series (Friday nights on NBC) to the talents of Freddie Prinze.

"I learned a lot from the guests he had on Sunday after Sunday and I would find ways to get sent home from school on Monday so I could watch more television," Freddie reveals.

"Fortunately, I was playing football in a park league during the period of ballet lessons, or I might have been razzed out of the neighborhood. They didn't think much of ballet around Washington Heights."

NEIGHBORHOOD HI-JINKS—Freddie Prinze, star of NBC-TV's new comedy series "Chico and the Man", takes time out to engage in hi-jinks on a recent visit to his old neighborhood in Manhattan's Washington Heights. The show is colorcast Fridays (8:30-9 p.m.) on channels 6-7.

Director Gave Personal Touch

"If a thing is worth doing, it means that it is going to be at least nine or ten months or even a year of one's life," says "Bullitt" director Peter Yates. "Surely it's worth sitting down for two weeks and talking to actors and cameramen."

Yates, whose taut, sensitive action-thriller "Bullitt" will be rebroadcast on "The CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, Oct. 4, (9-11:15 p.m.), on Channel 9-11, got his initial training in the business by working with theatre repertory groups.

U.S. Debut For Canadian

Canadian actress, Kate Nelligan, acclaimed for her stage performances in England, will make her United States acting debut in "The Count of Monte Cristo," the new, two-hour "bell System Family Theatre" special starring Richard Chamberlain which will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network in January.

Ms. Nelligan is to portray Mercedes, whose plans to marry Edmond Dantes (Chamberlain) are destroyed on the eve of the wedding.

The actress was praised by London critics when she made her debut in the British capital earlier this year in the play "Knuckle." She has previously performed with the Bristol Old Vic troupe in 1972 and 1973. She has also acted on British television.

Mrs. Nelligan, 23, studied at the Central School of Speech and drama in London for three years after arriving in London from Canada in 1969. Her interest in acting surfaced while she was a student at the University of Ontario, where she participated instage productions.

As a child, she developed a love for tennis—side tracked for two years by an attack of polio. She recovered, resumed playing the game and went on to become Canadian Junior Champion at 16.

The quality has always come through.

Hudsons Enjoy The Fun

The Hudson Brothers are a study in three-part harmony — off-stage as well as in their music. They've always been close, but then they've never been apart.

The real-life brothers — Bill, born in 1949; Mark, in 1951, and Brett, in 1953 — Began singing together and noodling around on musical instruments when Bill was eight and Brett was just a tot. Little did they dream then, that in 1974 they would star in their own nighttime summer series, followed by their own Saturday-morning series, both on the CBS Television Network.

Their new series, "The Hudson Brothers Razzle Dazzle Comedy Show," seen Saturdays (11:30-11:56 a.m.,) on Channel 9-11, each week features the Hudsons, with zany supporting players, in a swiftly paced melange of fun-filled songs and comedy sketches.

"This is fun," says Bill. "It's a grown-up version of what we did when we were kids."

"At home in Portland, Oregon," adds Mark, "we used to do skits and plays for friends and neighbors, then in school."

"And now," Brett finishes the point, "It's the real thing."

The brothers also agree that their mother has been their greatest influence. "She was a singer and taught us harmonies," says Brett. "And, although she encouraged us a great deal, she never pushed us."

It was perhaps that encouragement that kept the threesome going, and together, in recent years. When they left Portland to seek fame and fortune on the East Coast, they encountered financial difficulties and shaky business deals and wound up scrounging for jobs while trying to get back home.

Granted, that kind of trouble isn't new to their profession. But it was comforting to take the hard knocks together.

"It also makes us more appreciative," says Bill, "of the good fortune we've had recently."

'GO' Visiting Grand Prix

Race driving champion Sam Posey will be host and participant for the visit to the mid-Ohio Grand Prix races by the "Go" show in the NBC Television Network colorcast of Saturday, Oct. 5, from 12:30 to 1:00 p.m., and seen on Channel 7.

The special PCP-90 camera was loaded into Posey's Talon racing car so viewers could get an idea of what it is like to go 180 miles an hour in a racing car. During the actual races Posey gets up to 200 miles an hour.

On the day of the race, this car, especially designed for and fitted to Posey by designer Norris Talon, did not win. The ups and downs of racing are explained by Posey, as Mario Andretti, at first in the lead, has trouble and also loses the race.

This segment of "Go," written, produced and directed by William W. Lewis, was shot last summer in Mansfield, Ohio.

PARTNERS — Walter Matthau (right) and Andy Robinson are partners in a series of small town bank robbers in "Charley Varrick," to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" October 5 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Walter Mattau The Bank Robber

Walter Matthau stars in the title role as "Charley Varrick," a crop duster whose avocation is bank robbery, in the contemporary action-adventure drama to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday night at the Movie" Oct. 5, (9:00-11:15 p.m.) on Channel 6-7. Joe Don Baker co-stars in the 1973 Universal release.

Charley Varrick (Matthau) robs banks — small ones — because they're easier to rip off and the average take of $10,000 to $20,000 isn't enough to keep the law interested in pursuit for more than a few weeks.

This time, however, Charley picks the wrong one, the Western Fidelity Bank of Tres Cruces, New Mexico.

The bank is actually a conduit for 'Dirty' syndicate money being shipped out of the country, and in the space of a few minutes, the robbery nets $750,000.

Varrick at once realizes his dilemma and must elude the FBI and the syndicate, in the person of Molly (Joe Don Baker), all the while trying to flee the country.

"Charley Varrick" was produced and directed by Don Siegel. Howard Rodman and Dean Riesner wrote the screenplay from the novel "The Looters" by John Reese.

'MAD DOG' — All-Pro linebacker Mike Curtis, No. 32 of the Baltimore Colts, will be playing Sunday, September 29 at 1 p.m. against the Philadelphia Eagles on Channel 6-7. Pictures above you can see Mike believes in hitting hard and fast.

Norm Snead Now Gets His Blocking

Norman Snead graduated from Wake Forest as an All American and was the No. 1 draft pick of the Washington Redskins in 1961. After three seasons in Washington, seven years in Philadelphia and one brief campaign in Minnesota, Snead was faced with a career of playing for losers with little or no offensive lines.

All was not lost, however, when Snead came to the New York Giants and finally got some blocking, things began to happen. All his experience gained from fleeing a mass rush enabled him to combine his talents with sound protection which allowed him only 8 'sacks' in his first year with the Giants, the lowest total of any regular signal caller. Norm also rifled a 60.3 passing percentage, an all time Giant record to lead the league, a significant jump over his 50.6 passing precentage.

Snead has exceeded 3,000 passing yards twice in 1967 when he was an Eagle and in 1963, his last season with the Redskins.

As 1974 unveils, Norm will be coming back from knee surgery with aspirations of regaining his 1972 form.

The Giants will be travelling to Dallas for their interconference contest with the Dallas Cowboys on Sunday, September 29, at 1:30 p.m. on Channel 3N-3W-9-11.

"THE PRODIGY"

Alfred Lutter, the 13-year-old who makes his television acting debut in "The Cay", the "Bell System Family Theatre" special starring James Earl Jones on NBC-TV October 21, appears also in the title role of "The Prodigy", an upcoming episode of NBC-TV's new "Lucas Tanner" series.

Don't Cross Mike's Line

When teams prepare to play the Baltimore Colts, they must make special plans for dealing with the "Mad Dog" that roams the center of the Colt defense. Mike Curtis is the "Mad Dog," and he believes "football's the kind of game where you can express yourself in a physical way. . . . where you can let it all go. In a game, I feel I have my territory and I'm alone in that territory. When a ballcarrier or pass receiver comes my way, he's coming into my territory and I'm going to get him and make him pay for trespassing on my turf."

Curtis' love of violence has become legendary. He used to rear-up and unleash his solid 232 pound torso into his own quarterback, John Unitas, a real 'no-no' in pro football. He would also launch vicious shots on teammates from time to time. This was a carry - over from his collegiate days at Duke. In typical Curtis fashion, Mike made a list of his adversaries and sailed into them head-on.

Mike recalls, "It was my spring of satisfaction, and I made sure I got even with every name on that list." A typical run-in was the Chuck Starvins case: Starvins, an offensive tackle, would constantly pick on defensive tackle Don Lynch. Lynch never said anything although he was big enough to fight his own battles. In a scrimmage, Curtis attacked Starvins completely ignoring the ballcarrier and just stayed on the ground beating Starvins to a pulp.

LOU GRANT (Ed Asner) has revamped his image and shows it to an ardent admirer, the television station's "Happy Homemaker" (Betty White) on the 100th episode to be filmed for "The Mary Tyler Moore Show", to be presented Saturday, October 5 (9-9:30 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

Television Role Brings 'Firsts' For An Actress

With more than 30 years of working as an actress, Gloria DeHaven thought she'd just about done everything that could be done in the business . . . but now she knows that's not so.

To begin with, her role as Irene James in the ABC Television Network's new action series, "Nakia," seen Saturday evenings from 10:00 to 11:00 p.m., on Channel 3-5-12, is her first in a television series. "I always wanted to do a series," she confides.

Futhermore, as Irene James, Gloria is a secretsry-type in a sheriff's office. "You know," she says, "I have never played a role in a uniform . . . I was never a nurse or anything like that. Now, here I am in a police uniform."

But more significant to her than her first series or even her first uniform is the fact that in more than three decades of movie work. "Nakia" marks the first time Gloria has ever been on location. The series is being filmed entirely on location in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

"Of course," says Gloria, "there were one or two-day locations, but nothing like this. I have had to set up a second home in Albuquerque. Oh, what a wonderful experience."

Women Being Changed

"It will be an evening of information, colored with emotion, sadness, comedy, entertainment, eyebrow-raising segments, and not a little anguish for many of us."

Eliot Frankel is speaking here as executive producer of the three - hour NBC News program that will deal with the basic and revolutionary transformation now under way in the relationship between women and men.

The program will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network in January.

By now, Mr. Frankel notes, only those people with "zero perception and intelligence" have been unaware of a change going on in the world — a change that began about 10 years ago — in the attitudes, goals, values and habits of American women.

"The changes have affected so many aspects of our lives that NBC News decided the full story could only be told in three hours of network time," Mr. Frankel says.

Among provocative questions the program will explore are these:

Are marriages becoming obsolete? Are the one-man woman and the one-woman man no longer acceptable? Should a divorced father get custody of the children, especially if he is the one who was caring for them? How has the radical change in sexual habits affected male-female relationships? Do extra-marital relationships generate a psychological boost — or do they, in the long run, simply create (often through rejection) more frustration and depression". How widespread are the popularly proclaimed beliefs that homosexuality and bisexuality are 'normal'?

Further, the program will examine the movement of young girls and women into intersports, the concern about "sexist" attitudes in many textbooks, the problems (or advantages) of a male student in a predominantly women's college and of a female student in a predominantly men's college, the increasing movement of women into politics, and the degree of willingness of men to give up traditional male power.

Dyan Plays Girlfriend

Production has started on "The Virginia Hill Story," an "NBC World Premiere Movie" to be colorcast during the 1974-75 season on the NBC Television Network.

Dyan Cannon will make her television dramatic debut in the title role as the girlfriend of Lost Angeles gangster Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, who was killed in a 1947 gangland ambush while seated in a Beverly Hills home.

Harvey Kietel portrays Siegel. Also co-starring are Alan Garfield and Robbie Benson.

Miss Hill, who died in 1966, made headlines through her nationally televised testimony before the late Senator Kefauver's Congressional Hearings on organized crime.

Miss Cannon, who won an Oscar nomination for her role in the film "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice," has also starred in other major films, including "The Last of Sheila," "The Love Machine" and "The Anderson Tapes."

Joel Schumacher, who wrote the script, is directing "The Virginia Hill Story." Deanne Barkley and Howard Rosenman are the executive producers.

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BOBBY RIGGS

What do you think about Men's Lib?—Sue Dubey, Durham, N.H.

● I didn't know there was such a thing, because I thought all men were liberated. Guys who feel in need of being liberated, or are reduced to powder by bossy wives, have my sympathy. My advice to them is not to form a group—but get out! The way to get liberated is either to stay single or else marry a girl the opposite of the one you unloaded. My idea of an ideal wife is one who thinks and fully believes that this is a Man's World.

FOR LEE TREVINO, golfer

What facet of being a celebrity bothers you most?—David Marlowe, Atlantic City, N.J.

● I can't take my wife to a pub restaurant without being bothered. I am just sticking my knife and fork into a steak when somebody comes up and asks me if I'm Lee Trevino. Then they start asking me how Jack Nicklaus' game is. They want to know what's wrong with Arnold Palmer and what I think of young players. It's a pain!

FOR SHELLEY WINTERS

You always seem to be losing and gaining weight. How does this affect your social life?—Rick Burger, Decatur, Ill.

● More than my social life, it affects my health and state of mind. If I'm not my desired size, I can't wear my favorite clothes. So if I'm invited to a marvelous party, and can't fit into anything, I don't go, and so I get depressed. Right now I'm trying to lose, and once I get down, intend to stay there. I fluctuate between sizes 12 and 18, which gives me a lot of leeway. I feel best at size 12.

FOR BEA ARTHUR

Do you in any way resemble Maude in your private life? —D. Maguire, Waco, Texas

● No, and if I ever do behave like her off-screen, it must be my subconscious working. I can't ever remember getting into "Maude situations." But I'm flattered by your question, because it means I've made the character so real and alive that people think we're one person.

FOR PETER FALK

On "Columbo," you play a sloppy detective. Are you much like him in real life?—Bob Berkeley, Salem, Ore.

● Well, I wouldn't say I'm the best-dressed guy in the world, but I'm not as bad as Columbo. I don't have Columbo's insatiable curiosity. I share with him a certain obsessiveness. He doesn't quit. I don't quit either.

FOR CARL BERNSTEIN, coauthor of "All the President's Men"

No one dug as deeply into the Watergate mess as you and Woodward did. Has the experience made you cynical about the American system?—John Foster, Waco, Texas

● I think perhaps I have much more of a belief in the system now than I ever did. I no longer believe it's necessary to go outside the system to effect change. I'm probably more conservative in that respect than I ever was.

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ, creator of "Peanuts"

Is Snoopy patterned after a real dog?—Shirley Moretti, Corte Madera, Calif.

● Snoopy was patterned slightly after a dog I owned as a teenager. His name was Spike and he was larger than Snoopy. Since then our family has owned a beagle named Snoopy, but he died just last year at the age of 15.

FOR ARLENE FRANCIS

What happened to the locket you used to wear?—Mrs. Louise Blackwelder, Wingate, N.C.

● I still have the locket, which was my husband's first-anniversary gift. The only time I take it off is if the chain needs repairing. I once teased that only a divorce would get that locket off my neck, so it's become my trademark. If people don't see it, they call to ask if there's a change in my marital status. I tuck it inside my dress if I wear another necklace. That's probably what prompted your question.

FOR TRICIA NIXON COX

Where and when was your first solo public appearance as a President's daughter, and were you nervous?—Barbara Throne, Milan, Ill.

● On January 25, 1969, at the Waldorf in New York. On my mother's behalf, I accepted the Republican Woman of the Year Award at the Womens National Republican Club's luncheon. I wasn't at all nervous. My mother, sister and I are alike—we enjoy meeting people and being able to exchange views with them.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

I just vacationed at the new MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas, and wonder if the nightclub there—or at one of the other Vegas hotels—is the largest in the world?—S. Penn, Green Bay, Wis.

● Vegas nightclubs are enormous but, according to the "Guinness Book of World Records," the biggest nightclub is at the Concord Hotel in New York's Catskill Mountains. The club there seats 3,000 people. It's reputed to be the No. 1 showcase on the East Coast, because performers such as Don Rickles, Shirley MacLaine, Johnny Mathis, Herb Alpert, etc., all headline there.

Our $125-a-Day Hospitals: Where Does All That Money Go?

"In 1971, only about 40 percent of the country's pediatric beds were occupied—36,021 out of a total of 89,420. Considering that each of these units cost an average of $15,000 to build, that means hundreds of millions of dollars worth of new facilities went unused."

By John Kelly

Almost everything is more expensive than it was a decade ago. But no item in the economy can match the precipitous 500 percent rise in hospital costs. In terms of your paycheck, this means that while you now work one-and-a-third times longer than you did in 1964 to purchase a loaf of bread and three times longer to buy a sirloin steak, you work five times as long to pay for a day of hospitalization.

Why?

According to Alexander McMahon, president of the American Hospital Association, hospitals have been caught in the same inflationary bind as the rest of the country – "but in our case, the situation has been worse. Our workers' wages have risen nearly 70 percent in the last six years alone. That's much larger than the pay increases given employees in other industries. Moreover," he adds, "people now expect much more from hospitals both in the way of treatment and personalized care."

All of which is true. But McMahon's answer tells only part of the story. While he's right that hospital workers' wage increases have outpaced those of the employees in other industries, in terms of the percentage of the patient's bill, labor costs are just the same. According to Harvard economist Martin S. Feldstein, an expert on hospital financing, labor costs in 1955 accounted for 60 percent of a patient's bill, and in 1971, they accounted for exactly the same proportion – 60 percent.

John Kelly is a New York-based writer who specializes in medical subjects.

It is also true that patients expect more from hospitals. But Louis A. Orsini, vice president of the Health Insurance Association of America (HIAA), says that the effects of this demand have been distorted by hospital administrators' "edifice complex." "When federal-loan funds became available for hospital construction, a lot of institutions began adding new facilities whether they needed them or not," says Orsini. "Cardiac monitoring units or a handsome new pediatric ward may add to a hospital's prestige, but if they aren't utilized, the cost will be passed on to the institution's other patients."

Government figures show that many of these new facilities aren't even being partially used. A study by the U.S. Comptroller General's office says that in 1971 only about 40 percent of the country's pediatric beds were occupied—36,021 out of a total of 89,420. Considering that each of these units cost an average of $15,000 to build, that means hundreds of millions of dollars worth of new facilities went unused. And, with our declining population growth, they will probably remain empty for some time to come.

The figures on cardiac-care units and emergency rooms make equally depressing reading. In 1972, only about three percent of the 416 hospitals equipped to perform open-heart surgery used their facilities more than four times a week. And of the 6,200 hospitals with emergency rooms, 3,744, or well over half, cared for less than 13 percent of all emergency cases reported.

Oklahoma City illustrates how out-of-hand the overbuilding mania can get. With a projected population of 700,000 in 1975, the community theoretically needs 2,696 hospital beds. But by the end of next year it will have 4,642 – a surplus of 1,946. Each of these extra beds costs about $50,000 to build and another $20,000 to maintain each year. And since the surplus is expected to remain at about the 1,000-bed level for the next 30 years, the unneeded units could end up costing Oklahoma City residents $650 million.

But overbuilding is not the only problem. Another major villain is what's known as the "cost-plus" method of payment. Nearly 90 percent of the more than $35 billion collected by hospitals last year was paid for by Medicaid, Medicare, Blue Cross and commercial insurance companies.

Under the usual arrangement, Blue Cross or a private carrier agrees to pay the hospital for the expenses it incurs caring for insured patients, as well as an extra bonus payment. In effect, the institution is guaranteed a profit no matter how inefficiently it operates. Hospital administrators claim that the third-party plans monitor their costs closely. But critics don't agree. Even Walter J. McNerny, president of the national Blue Cross Association, Inc., concedes "that the system is relatively unchecked."

Take a simple matter like hospital wages. As a rule, administrators and staff physicians can pay themselves pretty much what they choose without fear of being brought to task by the third-party plans footing the bill. Thus, it's not at all unusual for the chief pathologist in a hospital laboratory to earn $100,000 a year or more.

Far more serious and expensive, however, are the duplications and inefficiencies spawned by the cost-plus system. "There are so many areas of potential savings in an average hospital, it would make your head spin," says Herbert S. Denenberg, former Insurance Commissioner of Pennsylvania and a leading consumer advocate. "I know one institution, for instance, that pays $7.50 for tape measures it could buy for 25 cents." Laundry service may seem like a relatively minor budgetary expense. But 24 Boston hospitals cut their annual cleaning bills by over $1 million just by pooling their laundry facilities.

If private business operated so inefficiently, customers would be up in arms. But, says Harvard's Feldstein,

Dodge introduces the all-new Coronet two-door hardtop

We'd like you to meet the newest of all the new '75 Coronets—the Coronet two-door hardtop. The Coronet two-door hardtop has been restyled inside and out. It's a little bit smaller. It's got another new power team. Electronic ignition and electronic voltage regulator are standard. Also options such as a Fuel Pacer and automatic speed control. Engineering ideas that can all help you save money. The '75 Coronet two-door hardtop. We've made it a little bit smaller and a little bit sportier. And we think the spirit of this new Coronet will move you the first time you set eyes on it.

I believe that my MINK OIL will make your WRINKLES VANISH!

By Billie Ann Bender

You can find out for yourself without risking one penny! Here's what I did about my wrinkles . . . I always pampered my skin . . . Special creams, lotions, exotic balms . . . I used them faithfully. Yet nothing helped. I was ready to give up. You see unsightly premature wrinkles are caused by changes in climate, temperature, humidity, dryness, pollution even soaps and detergents.

Then something struck me—something I never would have known if my husband hadn't owned and managed a mink farm where we lived.

One day I was serving coffee to three of the men who handle the mink pelts. These men had worked for my husband for years. As I gave them their coffee, I couldn't help but notice their hands. How smooth and soft they were! I thought about them all that day. In my opinion it had to be something in the body or skin of the mink that made their hands so smooth and soft. And if it was good for hands, then it must be good for the face and throat. Could this be the answer to the signs that alarm every woman?

I told my husband what was on my mind and asked if he could possibly extract some of the oil from the mink pelts. At first he laughed at me, but then agreed I might have a point. He consulted a chemist friend and together they compounded the mink oil with a pure balm base. It was a costly process, but what it produced I believed was priceless.

After I'd used the mink oil my complexion looked fresher, clearer, smoother. There was no doubt about it. My formerly dull, dry skin now had a glowing, dewy look. I was really thrilled! The little lines had been eased away. Even my throat seemed petal-smooth and more firm looking. I could hardly believe it. My friends and relatives were astonished at the change in my appearance.

So I gave my precious mink oil a name and put it on the market. It's called Emlin®Mink Oil Essential Creme. It contains no hormones, estrogens or steroids—only the pure oil and balm. Already I've received hundreds of letters from delighted users. Many said the effects were beyond anything they had hoped for. These reports make me say "I believe that my mink oil will make your wrinkles vanish."

And mind you, there's nothing complicated about the application. (Who has time for elaborate beauty rituals? I'll bet you don't). Just apply Emlin®Mink Oil Essential Creme at bedtime and leave it on while you sleep. That's when it works its wonders, helping to penetrate below the surface of your skin replacing lost natural oils, restoring moisture balance, leaving a beautifully lovely skin you never dreamed possible.

I'm so confident my Mink Oil cream can do marvelous things for your skin. I offer it to you with an unconditional guarantee. Just try it. See for yourself, in your own mirror, how it helps ease away unwanted dreadful lines. Many women wrote of gratifying results after only two weeks. Some take longer. But I want you to understand this. If, for any reason, you are not pleased with Emlin®Mink Oil Essential Creme just return the unused portion to me, and I'll mail you a full refund, plus postage with no questions asked.

Now it's up to you. Here is your chance to have beautiful, attractive skin —at no risk. Fill out the coupon and mail today.

Can Hospitals Cut Costs?

Here Are 10 Ways Suggested by Consumerists:

1. Keep operating rooms and laboratory facilities open nights and weekends.

2. End needless duplication of costly facilities, such as intensive cardiac-care units. (Many communities that could easily get by with one ICCU have three or four.)

3. Full insurance-company coverage of outpatient services.

4. More coverage for extended-care facilities. (Many older patients are hospitalized simply because their insurance doesn't pay for care given in nursing homes and similar institutions.)

5. Limit the number of residents and interns a hospital may employ. (A large part of patients' bills go to pay their salaries.)

6. Hospitals should buy generic drugs rather than their more expensive brand-name equivalents.

7. Pool purchases of equipment and supplies. This would help save a great deal of money.

8. Each hospital should have at least one consumer representative on its board.

9. Liberalization of staff privileges. (A doctor should be permitted to practice in every hospital in his community.)

10. End overbuilding. The typical hospital administrator's "edifice complex" has resulted in the construction of thousands of needless, costly hospital beds.

Hospitals

hospital costs have been so cushioned through medical insurance that the average consumer really doesn't feel the pinch (except, of course, in his steadily rising insurance premiums).

Another way we could all save money is if hospitals would perform more diagnostic procedures and minor surgery in out-patient facilities. But insurance companies often won't cover out-patient treatment. This encourages hospitals to admit patients who really don't need full hospital care.

"I know one institution... that pays $7.50 for tape measures it could buy for 25 cents."

There are hospitals that are pointing the way to a brighter future. For example, whereas in most hospitals a private room costs anywhere from $100 a day upward, patients at Memorial Hospital in Long Beach, Calif., pay only $20 a day. The reason? Memorial's special daily unit. Patients scheduled for minor surgery or diagnostic procedures check into the hospital at 7 a.m. By 8 a.m. they've been given the necessary lab tests and presurgical preparations, and by 10 a.m. the operation is over. Most are home in time for dinner.

The 800-bed Albany Medical Center in Albany, N.Y., is also saving patients money. Instead of closing its operating rooms and labs at night and on weekends, the center operates them on a seven-day around-the-clock basis. As a result, the average hospital stay at the institution has been cut from 11.6 days to 8.9 days. That adds up to a savings of over $300 for the average Albany patient.

Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., has also been a leader in creating cost-saving programs. In its recently opened special minimal-care unit, blood pressures and temperatures are only taken when a physician requests them. The patients administer their own medications and go to treatments on their own. According to the hospital officials, the elimination of more elaborate forms of care cuts $20 to $30 off each patient's daily bill.

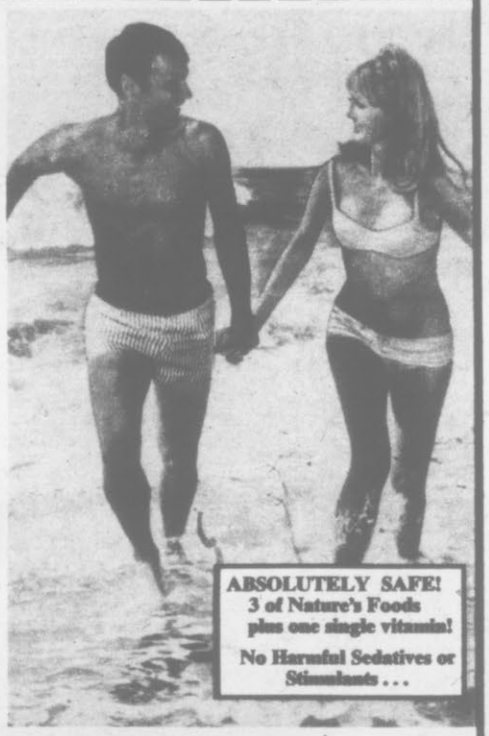
HERE'S THE AMAZING NEW FORMULA THAT IS TAKING THE HEALTH AND BEAUTY WORLD BY STORM!



CIDER VINEGAR LECITHIN, KELP & B-6

NOW AVAILABLE IN 4-IN-1 TABLET FORM

"NATURAL FORMULA" The 4 'fabulous' ingredients that everybody is talking about . . .

What is this "NATURAL FORMULA" that everybody is talking about? "NATURAL FORMULA" is the name we've given a specially formulated tablet containing Vitamin B-6, Lecithin and Kelp in a base of Cider Vinegar. The combination of ingredients talked about for weight control in low calorie diets.

Lecithin: A substance derived from vegetable oils that is actually a food, not a drug. In a recent experiment, a doctor found that Lecithin produced a decrease of as much as 30% in cholesterol and at the same time, tended to shift weight from one area of the body to another for a more streamlined silhouette.

Vitamin B-6: The fat-metabolizing vitamin that scientists have found works with body chemicals to balance and regulate body fluids to prevent water retention and bloat.

Kelp: Nature's great food mineral harvested from the ocean and our most reliable source for essential Iodine — so important in burning up fuel to melt fat accumulations away.

Cider Vinegar: Legendary solution used down thru the ages in weight control diets, is the basis for this outstanding new formula.

Why Did They Kill "Dirty Sally"? A Word From "Sally" Herself

"I can tell you honestly, I had no idea of how overwhelming the reaction would be. Wherever John and I go, people come up, and their testimonials about Sally are touching. My Lord, just fabulous. They love her. In my wildest dreams I didn't think she touched people so much."

Pictorial Parade

With their ballots, older readers of FAMILY WEEKLY propelled "Dirty Sally's" Jeanette Nolan to victory over "McMillan & Wife's" Susan Saint James as TV's most popular actress in this year's celebrity survey. But CBS-TV canceled the series only a few weeks later. A network spokesman blamed the show's ratings (it was playing opposite NBC's popular "Sanford and Son"), and pooh-poohed "Sally's" victory in our survey as "probably the result of the network's big promotion campaign." For the other side of that story, FAMILY WEEKLY went directly to "Sally" herself, whom we found living comfortably in her Laguna Beach home with her husband of almost 40 years, the well-known TV actor John McIntyre.

JEANETTE: No, we have two other homes. One is a 43-foot boat we keep at the marina down here and that we take to a marina near Hollywood to live on whenever one of us works there. But our real home is a rustic log cabin in the Yaak Valley of Montana.

FW: Why Montana?

JEANETTE: John was born there. As far as both of us are concerned, Montana is IT.

FW: You mean there is something of the rugged "Dirty Sally" pioneer woman in your own life?

JEANETTE: There always has been. We have a section of land in Montana —640 acres. It's beautiful! We turned the barn into our permanent home. Both our children have log cabins on the ranch. We live there at least half of our lives, and we've done so since we were married in 1935. Once, we quit our careers altogether to live there permanently.

FW: Has John always been an actor?

JEANETTE: No, he was a sailor. He quit Southern Cal after two years to go to sea. He was always sure that if he couldn't make it as an actor, he could make a living as a sailor anytime. That's why he didn't hesitate to quit. That was in 1937. His idea of life, and I agreed with him, was to live in the wilderness. He loved that kind of life and felt sure I would. John is a very nervous, sensitive person. He wanted to get away, to think and write. And that's what he did. He did a play about the sea. Unfortunately, it was never produced.

FW: How involved are you with the ranch?

JEANETTE: Totally. I even helped John build the cabins. I cultivate the land and help with the animals. The nearest neighbor is ten miles away. The only bad part is the bears. Black bears aren't so bad, but the grizzlies are unpredictable. When we first moved up there I wouldn't even go out on the porch alone. I remember one time a grizzly got into our root cellar. I got so mad that he was going to eat up our food, I shot him and then dressed him. Oh, yes, I can do that too.

FW: How did the "Dirty Sally" series get started?

FW: Has John always been an actor?

JEANETTE: No, he was a sailor. He quit Southern Cal after two years to go to sea. He was always sure that if he couldn't make it as an actor, he could make a living as a sailor anytime. That's why he didn't hesitate to quit. That was in 1937. His idea of life, and I agreed with him, was to live in the wilderness. He loved that kind of life and felt sure I would. John is a very nervous, sensitive person. He wanted to get away, to think and write. And that's what he did. He did a play about the sea. Unfortunately, it was never produced.

FW: How involved are you with the ranch?

JEANETTE: Totally. I even helped John build the cabins. I cultivate the land and help with the animals. The nearest neighbor is ten miles away. The only bad part is the bears. Black bears aren't so bad, but the grizzlies are unpredictable. When we first moved up there I wouldn't even go out on the porch alone. I remember one time a grizzly got into our root cellar. I got so mad that he was going to eat up our food, I shot him and then dressed him. Oh, yes, I can do that too.

"Dirty Sally" Continued

JEANETTE: Originally it was a segment of "Gunsmoke." The producer wanted to make a series of it but the network didn't believe the character could sustain. Two years later the producer went back to New York with 500 of the best letters he'd received after the "Dirty Sally" segment was aired. The network officials asked why he hadn't brought them before, and he said he'd forgotten. So the officials decided to make a test in New York, and the results were so good, they didn't believe it. They still didn't want to go with it as a series until they'd tested it in 30 cities and towns across the country. The results were equally good. So "Dirty Sally" became a series.

FW: Was it a surprise to you that "Dirty Sally" was canceled?

JEANETTE: Oh, my, yes. John and I had gone back to Montana with the understanding that I'd be back to do the show. They told us in the beginning that they'd be happy if we captured 23 percent of the audience against "Sanford and Son." We captured 34 percent. And we ended up among the top 40 shows, which is usually considered good. They even commissioned six one-hour scripts after they'd received so many letters saying, "Please make 'Dirty Sally' an hour show, instead of just a half hour!" And I thought, "Oh, gosh, that would be wonderful. I can do something with it, make Sally grow. . . ."

FW: What was the public's reaction when they learned of the cancellation?

JEANETTE: I can tell you honestly, I had no idea of how overwhelming the reaction would be. Wherever John and I go, people come up, and their testimonials about Sally are touching. My Lord, just fabulous. They love her. In my wildest dreams I didn't think she touched people so much.

FW: What was it about Sally that reached out to them?

JEANETTE: In the beginning, I was afraid she'd be too vulgar and repulsive to appeal. But Sally's real beauty is her spirit. People identified with her courage, her old-fashioned guts and morality. These were inspirational.

FW: Why did CBS cancel the show?

JEANETTE: I've been told the salespeople at CBS couldn't sell it. Sponsors were reluctant. This doesn't sound realistic to me because love is the quality sold in this particular situation. If a man can't sell love to a client, he's a sad salesman. They should show prospective clients the letters we've received—the petitions signed by whole neighborhoods! If these things aren't ammunition enough for a salesman, then I think maybe the sales staff is not as sharp as it ought to be.

FW: Were you personally sorry to have the show cut off?

JEANETTE: Yes, I was. When they first talked to me about the series, John wasn't enthusiastic for me to do it. He'd done series, and he was afraid it would be a drag for me. [Editor's note: John costarred in "Wagon Train" and in "Naked City."] But when he saw the reaction of people, he was thrilled.

FW: Do you feel resentment toward CBS?

JEANETTE: I could never be so naïve as to think things like this never happen. I've worked for CBS almost my entire life, and have sentimental attachments there. But I am also aware how cruel networks can be. "Naked City" ran for 18 months. In the middle of a show, a man walked in and said, "I hope they told you—this is your last show."

FW: Do you think this is the end of Sally?

JEANETTE: There's been talk of reviving her. They've threatened to bring her back on "Gunsmoke"—where she started. It's possible that will be her lifeline.

FW: And what about you—what's next?

JEANETTE: Right now I am working on a two-parter for Disney called "Ragwing." It's a wonderful story. I'm working with Pat O'Brien and Lloyd Nolan, and enjoying every minute. And then we can go back to Montana, and leave all of this behind us.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Does Our "Body Language" Really Give Us Away?

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If you're trying to determine whether the person talking to you is being deceptive and attempting to hide something, there is one gesture that can often tip you off.

2. Individuals who often touch other people—putting their hands on their arms or shoulders, patting them on the back—usually lack self-esteem.

3. People who "talk with their hands" do so because they lack verbal fluency.

4. It's easy to tell how much someone likes you simply by observing his gestures and movements.

5. People whose hands are seldom still when they talk are likely to be neurotic and emotionally unstable.

6. Women are more inclined than men to overlook the significance of telltale gestures when talking with another person.

ANSWERS

1. True. The gesture is the "hand shrug"—the spreading of the hands with palms upturned in the you-see-I-have-nothing-to-hide gesture. In psychological tests at the University of California, it was found that the "hand shrug" increased to a marked extent in interviews in which subjects were trying to deceive or withhold information from investigators.

2. False—according to the findings of a study of 80 male and female college students which showed that "the higher the subject's self-esteem the more intimate the subject was in communicating through touch, especially when communicating with a female." (Ah, there!) And similar studies conducted by Harvard psychologists showed that "touch privilege is a correlate of status."

3. False. There are exceptions to the rule, of course, but university studies have shown that, as a group, people who "talk with their hands"—who have a high rate of hand movements or gestures—are actually more fluent in their speech than others. Another interesting finding: When the subjects' hands were restrained, it took the people longer to describe a scene or picture.

4. True. Dr. Albert Mehrabian, associate professor of psychology at the University of California, has this to say: "Greater liking is conveyed by standing close to another person instead of far; by leaning forward instead of back when seated in a chair or at a desk; by facing the person directly instead of turning to one side; by touching; by extending bodily contact, as during a handshake; and by prolonged good-byes. . . ."

5. False. Psychological studies at the University of Paris show that people whose speech is accompanied by gestures tend to be outgoing and people-oriented, with well-balanced personalities. The investigators found that "Communicative gestures in general are strongly tied to emotional stability, i.e., the absence of neuroticism."

6. False—as evidenced by university studies which show that women are much more attentive to—and affected by—gestures and other nonverbal signals than men are. And it's noted that a woman's greater sensitivity to this form of communication often causes her to accord it more significance than the words the person is actually speaking.

True or False: Individuals who often touch other people—putting their hands on their arms or shoulders, patting them on the back—usually lack self-esteem. (See number 2)

Now, medical science has the power to say to you:

BEGIN YOUR "MIDDLE YEARS" AT 70, 80, EVEN 90!

retain the strength and grace and power of a trained athlete in your body beyond your seventies . . .

and keep you in vibrant good health till ninety or more . . . even if you feel "rotten" today . . . even if your mother or father died far too young of diseases that are STILL carried in your bloodstream!

Yes, This Medical "Youth-Building Program" is so Strong That It Can Even Overcome Poor Heredity!

It is so strong, in fact, that it may actually make you look twenty or more years younger than your parents did at the same age . . . at the same exact time that it enables you to live thirty or forty years longer than they did!

We realize, of course, that these facts may seem virtually impossible to you at this moment . . . until you are shown the new medical techniques by which these goals are attained! They are:

1. The most powerful "age-reversing mechanism" known to man . . . which takes exactly six minutes per day . . . may be done by any man or woman, no matter how poor their health today . . . and which is bluntly recognized by one of the leading physicians in this book to give far better "youthifying" results — far faster — than even "cell therapy" treatments costing hundreds of dollars apiece!

2. A direct attack on the stored-up emotional poisons in your body that eat away strength and youth like internal acid, and replace them with never-flagging fatigue! This incredibly simple technique drains out those poisons, and that deadly fatigue, in approximately ten of the most revivifying minutes you have ever spent!

And, finally —

3. A new way to lose weight — not a diet — designed to change your present suicidal eating habits in exactly 48 hours! And, to break at last the vicious fat-multiplying cycle inside your body, that causes you to put on more weight, from less food, than your thin friends.

Let Us Repeat Again: These Medical Techniques Are So Powerful That They Actually REVERSE THE AGING PROCESS — WITHOUT DRUGS!

They cause you, quite simply, to grow stronger and not weaker, as you grow older! And here is the medical documentation to prove it:

In tests conducted at a leading University and Medical School in Southern California, it was discovered that life-prolongation, accomplished this way, not only added decades to potential human life spans, but — even more important — also produced vastly increased vitality and vigor, as well as startlingly heightened resistance to dread "senile decline!" (Reported on page 129 of this thrilling new book.)

As a result of scientific observations and experiments conducted in several different locations in the United States (as well as in Europe and Soviet Russia), it was definitely established that these techniques will enable almost any individual to live beyond 90 . . . and even beyond 100 healthy, productive, thoroughly enjoyable years — even if he or she had tragically short-lived parents or grandparents! In other words, disastrous heredity can now be overcome! (See page 36.)

At a leading Gerontology Research Center on the Pacific Coast, its' president bluntly stated that a single one of the techniques given to you here had (in essence): ". . . reversed the aging process and over a period of time restored the characteristics of youth to the bodies of middle-aged men!" (See Page 129.)

And one of his colleagues, discussing the same simple procedure, went so far as to state that it: ". . . relieves joint stiffness, lowers the blood pressure, and reduces the amount of fat in the body tissues. It acts like a miracle drug, and it's free for the doing!" (Italics ours — see page 130.)

But All This Research Documentation Is Only The PROLOGUE To The Real Meat Of This Revolutionary New Book! FOR NOW THE YOUTH-RESTORING PRINCIPLES LEARNED ALL OVER THE WORLD ARE PUT TO WORK — INSTANTLY — FOR YOU!

How to lose weight without counting calories — by harnessing the same exact forces which made you overweight in the first place! (It is not unusual, with these methods, to lose 15 and more pounds the first week — up to 10 pounds the second week — and a good hundred pounds or more, in as little as 15 weeks. And the weight stays off — for decades!)

How to add 10 . . . 20 . . . perhaps even 30 glowing years to your life, simply by avoiding the everyday "Life-Traps" that make you grow old too fast!

How a careful examination of your eye can tell you, with unerring accuracy, if you've eaten the wrong foods that night for dinner . . . and therefore have to give them up for a few days till your body's digestive powers restore themselves to the correct balance!

"Hungry enzymes" that now infest your body! They are the real reason all past attempts to peel off ugly fat have been such torture for you! And you can "command" your body to destroy them — for good — as simply as this! (See page 82.)

Why most people's muscles simply "melt away" as they grow older! (No wonder "old age" to them means ever-growing weakness!) And how you can stop that muscle-melting process overnight . . . and replace it with vibrant new strength!

And More! And More! And More! Like This —

What really causes vigor to drain out of the "aging" body! A simple fluid that if the body gives up too much of, it then dies of old age! And how you can "pump that vital cell-nourishing fluid" right back into your body . . . actually increase your body capacity to utilize by as much as 133% . . . in just a few thrilling minutes every day!

How to exercise your heart! Anyone — no matter what age— can do it! And prevent the greatest tragedy of all — premature heart attack!

Read the line in the middle of page 144 as though your life depended upon it! Because, if you've ever worried about killing your own heart through the worst possible error you can make — this one line will show you how to avoid it . . . forever!

World's easiest exercise program — for men and women who are pitifully out of shape!

How to avoid the man-made diseases! And save your body, and your nerves, at exactly the same time!

What your sleep, or lack of it, is really telling you! And how to ease yourself into a good night's rest again!

What your fingers tell you that can save your life! Listen to them . . . obey their command . . . and you may be able to out-run your own youngster!

No more nervous breakdowns! And no more un-necessary heart attacks (or strokes!) The technique shown to you on page 197 may banish them from your life — for good!

How to add ten years to your life, by avoiding one little fatal mistake — at night! Before you go to sleep!

How to laugh at old age — at least till you're ninety! A simple program so effective that it may actually cause strangers to think that you are your best friends' grown children!

And Yours To Prove — In Its Entirety — For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

The choice is yours. This is a book for people who mean business. It costs you nothing! We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon — TODAY!

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS SECTION

How to survive a heart attack! Why so many heart attacks are the "silent" type, that kill without the victim even being aware he has been seriously ill before! The one warning signal you simply CAN'T ignore! Why HALF of all heart attack victims ACTUALLY KILL THEMSELVES because they just don't know what to do!

Helps Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Inflammation. Relieves Pain And Itch...

There's an exclusive formulation which actually helps shrink the painful swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by infection. In many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from itching and pain in hemorrhoidal tissues.

The sufferer first notices relief from such painful discomfort. Then this medication helps to gently reduce swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues. Tests conducted by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C., and at a Midwest Medical Center showed this to be true in many cases.

The medication used by doctors in these tests was Preparation H® —the same exclusive formula you can buy at any drug counter without a prescription. Preparation H also lubricates the affected area to protect the inflamed, irritated surface and so helps make bowel movements more comfortable.

There is no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

MAKING YOUR EARS HURT AND ITCH?

"Earitis"—annoying pain and itch in your ears—can be brought on by excess wax. But when you try to remove wax with pointed objects, you may injure your ears! There's a better, safer way to remove excess wax—with AURO Ear Drops. When excess wax is gone, pain and itch of "Earitis" is gone. Get auro® to help stop "Earitis."

When your child can't sit still, is it nervousness or is it Pin-Worms?

Fidgeting, distraction, fitful scratching of rectal itch—many people don't know these "nervous habits" can be caused by Pin-Worms. These almost invisible parasites are so common, medical authorities have said 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, may have Pin-Worms.

They can infect anyone—young or old, rich or poor. Worst of all, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

Fortunately, there is an easy-to-take medication called Jayne's® P-W® tablets that gets rid of Pin-Worms. Your pharmacist will tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that drives Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

BROOKS ROBINSON
Too much pressure

QUOTE: Baseball star Brooks Robinson on a game he'd like to forget: "I've been in over 3,000 ball games in my life—maybe more than 3,500 if I could recollect every game between sandlots and the World Series—and every one of them has left me some kind of memory. One that sticks with me far too firmly is something I did very poorly when I wanted to do so well. I had called my folks the night before we were going to be on a Monday night TV game against the Boston Red Sox and my mother told me it was going to be their 35th anniversary. She said friends were coming over to watch the game and asked me to play well. I was perfect. I went 0 for 5, struck out twice, booted a ground ball for an error and dropped a pop-up. After the game I wrote Mom and told her not to do that to me any more. I couldn't stand the pressure." UNQUOTE. From "My Home Is Third Base," by Brooks Robinson (Word, $5.95).

Caught out in left field when lightning strikes? For years people have been admonished to run away from the trees during a thunderstorm. Now, along comes a German inventor, Dr. Ing Johannes Wiesing, who feels he has the perfect protection — a small tent that can be set up in two minutes. It can withstand a two-million-volt charge, fits into a case and weighs only eight pounds. It consists of four folding tubes to which metallic canvas is attached. The occupant sits on an inflatable seat that holds down the tent — which can withstand winds of 65 to 75 miles an hour. For more information, write Firma Dehn U. Sohne, Nurnberg, Neumarkt, Germany. HUGH AND BARBIE
"He likes to see everyone happy"

Playboy Hugh Hefner's steady date, Barbie Benton, thinks her man would be good presidential material. "Hef is highly intelligent and very political minded. He thinks the Presidency would be a step down from being Hugh Hefner, but he would love to take on the job—if only so he could make this country a moral and wonderful place to live. He thinks there are so many nasty shenanigans going on that we need a good man to go in and clean it up. He'd be a good politician because he likes to see everyone happy and he just can't stand the slums. He loves to spend money and would like everyone to have some."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

ON MY SOLE

I have a pebble in my shoe.
~~Perhaps you've had a pebble too,~~
And maybe, between sole and sock,
It felt, as mine does, like a rock
Or as one grows more tender, older,
More like a fairly good-sized boulder.
If so, you know the way, no doubt,
I feel, my shoe off, pebble out,
On finding, if it's found at all,
The thing so very, very small.
I need no bandage, need no ointment;
I feel relief—and disappointment.

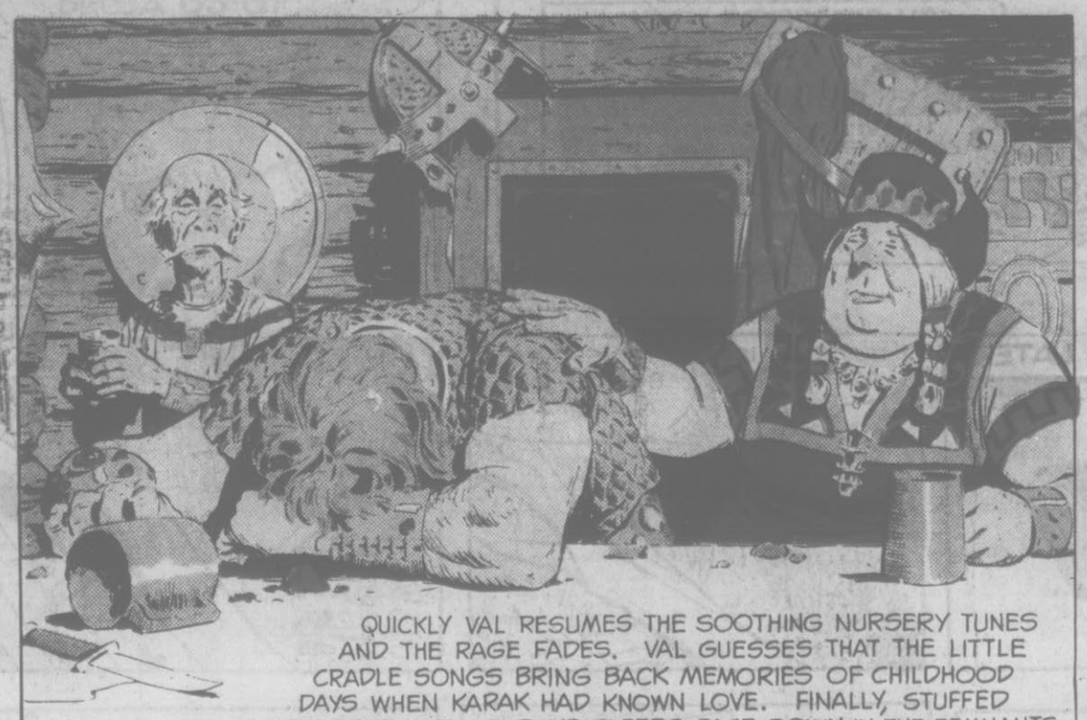
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAL FOSTER

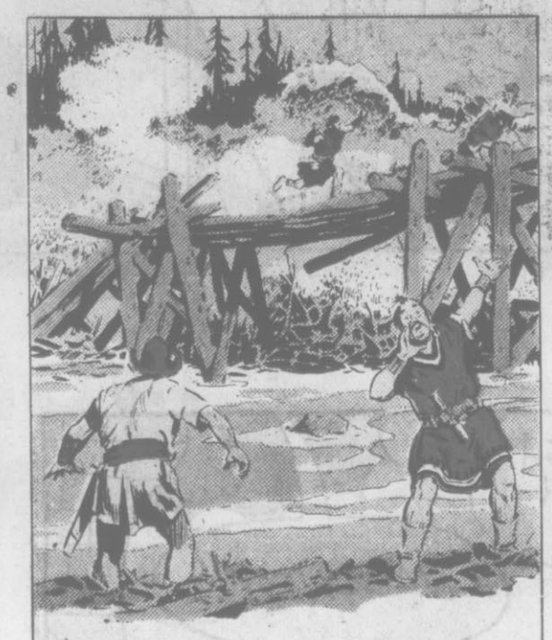
Our Story: AS LONG AS VAL SINGS NURSERY SONGS KARAK DREAMS QUIETLY, BUT WHEN HE STRIKES A FEW CHORDS OF A WAR CHANT HIS MAD EYES BECOME FULL OF MALICE.



QUICKLY VAL RESUMES THE SOOTHING NURSERY TUNES AND THE RAGE FADES. VAL GUESSES THAT THE LITTLE CRADLE SONGS BRING BACK MEMORIES OF CHILDHOOD DAYS WHEN KARAK HAD KNOWN LOVE. FINALLY, STUFFED WITH FOOD AND MEAD, HE SLEEPS FACE DOWN IN THE REMNANTS OF HIS MEAL.

VAL WIPES THE SWEAT FROM HIS BROW AND SITS DOWN. HE HAS DISCOVERED TWO WEAKNESSES IN KARAK: HIS ABJECT FEAR OF WATER AND HIS AWFUL RAGE THAT CAN BE CALMED ONLY BY MUSIC.

KING HALP ATLA IS PUZZLED BY THE BATTLE PLAN VAL HAS SENT HIM BY THE OLD SKALD. NEVERTHELESS HE SENDS HIS FORESTERS TO FILL THE RIVER WITH DRIFTWOOD, LOGS AND BRANCHES.



SWEPT DOWN BY THE CURRENT, THIS MASS PILES UP AGAINST THE BRIDGE PIERS, FORMING A DAM BEHIND WHICH THE RIVER RISES STEADILY.

A PANTING WARRIOR STAGGERS INTO THE GREAT HALL SHOUTING: "THE BRIDGE IS DESTROYED, BUT NOT BY MEN. IT IS THE ANGER OF THE GODS!"

KARAK LUMBERS TO HIS FEET AND TAKES UP THE GREAT SHIELD AND AXE HE CARRIES AT ALL TIMES. VAL FOLLOWS AT A SAFE DISTANCE AS THEY MAKE THEIR WAY TOWARD THE BRIDGE.

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Blanket is shorter. 2. Lamp is different. 3. Glass is missing. 4. Hairdo is different. 5. Hand is repositioned. 6. Outlet is missing.

BULLETIN BOARD

- UP TIGHT! Pupil: "My Dad beats me up almost every day." Teacher: "How awful!" Pupil: "YXEXAXH, XHXEXGXEXTXSXUXPXAXTX6; XIXGXEXTXUXPXAXTX7." Eliminate X's for pupil's reply.
- Borderline case: All but two countries in South America border on Brazil. Which two do not?

  Ecuador and Chile.
- Part of a referee's equipment in the early days of basketball was a stepladder. For what purpose was it used?

  To remove the ball from the basket.
- Twisteroos! Repeat rapidly aloud, several times: A flea and a fly found a flaw in a flue. Now try this one: Some sailors shun sunshine, son.

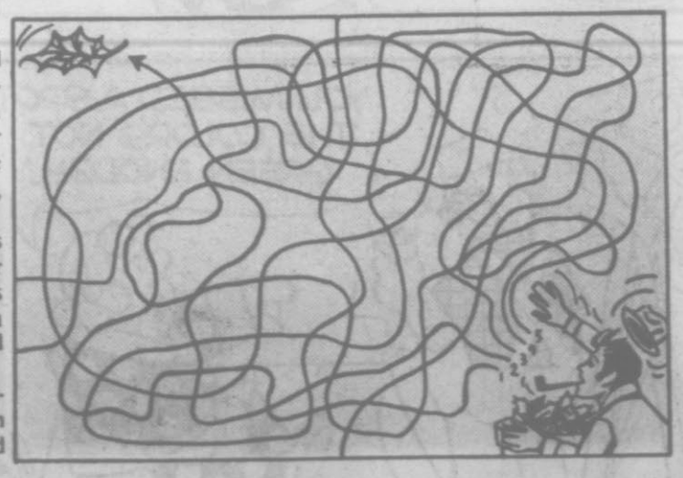
WILLIE purchased two hot rod cars which he wanted to drive to his home five miles away. Unable to find anyone to help, he decided to move them himself. He drove one car four blocks, walked back and drove the second eight blocks, then again walked back four blocks and drove the first car eight blocks, and so on.

Willie repeated this leap-frogging tactic for the entire five miles and, when he had both cars home, he bragged about his ingenuity.

Actually, he had completed his task, but in doing so had walked what distance?

He had walked the entire distance, five miles.



LEAF OF ABSENCE! An ornery leaf has flown from the basket of our friend at right above. Can you trace its erratic path?

SCORE 10 points for using all the letters in the word below to form two complete words:

P R O D U C E R

THEN score 2 points each for all words of four letters or more found among the letters. Try to score at least 50 points.

Possible answers: prod, cure.
