

Layoffs Raise U.S. Unemployment Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Widespread layoffs pushed the nation's unemployment rate up to 5.8 per cent of the work force last month, the highest level in 2½ years, the government reported today.

Another 440,000 workers joined unemployment rolls in September, bringing the total to a seasonally adjusted 5.3 million, the Labor Department said.

The increase in the jobless rate, from 5.4 per cent in August, was the largest monthly increase since last January when it also rose four-tenths of one per cent.

Unemployment has been creeping up gradually for the past several months and is expected to rise above six per cent late this year or in early 1975. Last October the jobless rate had dropped to a 3½-year low of 4.6 per cent. Since then the number of unemployed persons has risen by 1.2 million.

President Ford, who will send his economic program to Congress next week, has indicated he will propose an expanded public service jobs program using federal funds to enable state and local governments to hire the unemployed.

Most of the unemployment last month took place among women aged 25 and older and among teen-agers, particularly males 18 to 19 years old. Declining college attendance among young men, coupled with the slower growth in jobs, contributed to the higher joblessness among youth, the government said.

Total employment was reported up by 350,000 from August to September. Over the past year, total employment has climbed by 1.4 million, half the year-to-year gain recorded in the previous year. The increase was negated in the unemployment picture by additional job seekers.

Both white and blue collar workers felt the effects of the slowing economy. Both categories registered increases in joblessness. Heavy layoffs were reported in manufacturing, construction and wholesale and retail trade. Construction's unemployment rate, at 12.4 per cent, rose to its highest level in four years.

Within goods-producing industries, employment gained slightly in September due to a reduction in strike activity.

In September, the average work week of factory workers remained at 40.1 hours while factory overtime fell by two-tenths of an hour. The average hourly pay for a manufacturing worker last month rose eight cents to $4.51, while weekly earnings averaged $181.75, up from August's $177.64, the department said.

Among the major labor-force groups, the jobless rate for fulltime workers was reported up from 4.8 per cent in August to 5.3 per cent in September, while the rate for household heads moved up from 3.1 to 3.4 per cent. The unemployment rate for married men was listed at 2.8 per cent in September, compared with 2.6 per cent in August. The teen-aged jobless rate rose from 15.3 to 16.7 per cent.

In a racial breakdown, joblessness for white workers rose from 4.8 to 5.3 per cent, reflecting the increases among adult women and teen-agers. Unemployment among blacks increased to 9.8

per cent, compared with 9.2 per cent in August.

The civilian labor force usually declines in September but this year the government said the actual decline was much less than expected and thus on a seasonally adjusted basis rose by almost 800,000 to a level of 91.1 million.

Survey Quake Damage

By NESTOR K. IKEDA

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Peruvian air force planes and helicopters crisscrossed the countryside today to evaluate the effects of a severe earthquake Thursday.

Forty-four persons were known dead and at least 1,000 were reported injured, 92 of them seriously. Several cities or towns in central Peru reported extensive damage.

Workers in Lima, the capital, began clearing shattered walls, fallen cornices and broken glass from the streets. At least two houses collapsed.

In Canete and Chincha, coastal cities south of Lima, 60 per cent of the houses were reported destroyed.

Emergency medical centers treated a steady flow of slightly injured or hysterical people. Authorities said 92 were hospitalized, 970 more were given first aid and 460 were treated for shock.

The quake struck at 9:21 a.m., and shocks continued for nearly an hour after the initial tremor.

Widespread panic was due to the memory of the devastating earthquake on May 31, 1970, in which 20,000 persons were killed and another 50,000 were reported missing.

The U.S. Geological Survey reported that the quake Thursday hit 7.7 on the Richter scale.

Meet Monday

The Pitt County Commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. for their regular monthly session.

Included on the board's agenda is a proposed time change for the county's landfill operation for the winter months; approval of the Harold Dail Subdivision property; consideration of a joint resolution by the city and county planning boards for improvements to the Stantonsburg Road and N.C. 43; and appointment of Planning Board members whose terms expire.

The commissioners will also consider the Recreation Study Commission's findings and recommendations; appoint members to the Pitt County Mental Health Area board; discuss a $140,000 Hill-Burton grant for renovations and additions to the Health Department; and discuss a Town of Winterville water and sewer line proposal as well as other items.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says 55 per cent of Americans approve of President Ford's selection of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

Harris said Thursday that 31 per cent of those queried disapproved and 14 per cent were not sure in the nationwide sampling of 1,527 households.

Street Work Spurred By City Council Resolutions

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Resolutions directing that three important street improvement projects be scheduled as soon as possible were adopted by the City Council.

The Council, meeting for three and a half hours on what was considered a short agenda Thursday night, discussed the street matter in length with several property owners in attendance and then voted to waive the city policy in this case that requires that 51 per cent of the land owner's share in the improvement cost be in the hands of the city before the work is scheduled.

Public hearings were conducted on the installation of curb, gutter, and paving on DuPont Circle from Pinewood Road to Lamont Road, on Lamont Road from Pinewood Road to DuPont Circle, and on Pinewood Road from Evans Street to Lamont Road.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen told the property owners that the work would be scheduled as quickly as possible according to the city's priority system but early spring of 1975 will probably be the earliest the improvements can begin.

Councilman Percy Cox pointed out that since the streets have already been torn up for utility work, the city is obligated to go in and repair the streets regardless of whether the petitions are approved or not.

Carstarphen reported that the city has received signed statements from three persons who wish to have their names removed from the Pinewood Road petition. Council members asked City Attorney David Reid if the petitions, once certified, would be binding and Reid reported that the Council would be within its rights to hold the signees to the petition.

The Council adopted a policy statement deeming the petitions to be binding in light of their certification at last month's meeting.

William B. Whitehurst of Pinewood Forest told the Council that property owners in the area requested city representatives some three years ago to take a look at the ditches in the Pinewood area and it was pointed out then that curb and gutter would be needed. Whitehurst said that mosquitos have become more and more of a problem in the open ditches.

Council members agreed that all three of the streets should be improved as a lump project and failure to do one segment of the project would be a detriment to the other two streets.

"From a physical point of view," Carstarphen said, "it

Lt. Gov. Hunt Lauds Role Of Demo Women

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer
"The women of the Democratic party are the heart and soul of the democratic party," Lt. Governor Jim Hunt told the Pitt County Democratic Women Thursday night.

Hunt was guest speaker of the Pitt County Democratic Women's quarterly meeting held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

"I see that the Democratic women are realizing and accepting equal responsibilities in carrying out the democratic party's needs in Pitt County and North Carolina," Hunt said.

"The Republicans in the past two years have failed miserably," Hunt maintained. "We've seen partisanship. We've seen good people turned out of government jobs because they were Democrats. We've seen that not only have Republicans shown that they can't run the country, but the Republican experiment in North Carolina has failed," Hunt continued.

Hunt urged Pitt County Democrats to get involved with government. "Government is the only thing we all belong to. We're all members of the government of North Carolina and this thing called a state government that we're members of ought to be as good as it can be."

The Democratic party has reasons to be confident and faithful," according to Hunt. "Despite the unfortunate things of today this is not the first time that the country has been in trouble. Whenever these things have happened the country has turned to the Democratic party," he continued.

Oldest Party

"The Democratic party is the oldest political party in America because (1) we haven't shrunk back from change; we've championed it. (2) We are concerned about all of the people and (3) we get down to the level of the people," Hunt said.

"Our Democratic party operates with a firm belief that problems can be solved."

State School Board's Control Asserted Over Improvements Report

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Board of Education has asserted its control over the use that is made of a task force report on improving high schools in North Carolina.

The board unanimously accepted the report in a carefully worded resolution "as a recommendation." Then it asked the state Department of Public Instruction to provide the board with detailed information on each of nine "demonstration schools" where some of the report's recommendations are already being implemented.

The board also voted to circulate the report under a cover letter explaining that the board was not yet advocating the implementation of any of the report's 65 recommendations. Next month the board will begin discussing the recommendations one at a time.

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, the board member who proposed the resolution, told a newsmen after the vote that the resolution "has the effect of having the board consider all policy considerations and keeping up carefully with experimentation" involving the report.

Controversy erupted last month over handling of the report by Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction. Board member Evelyn S. Tyler charged that Phillips' department apparently had set up the demonstration schools without the board's consent.

The board approved last March the expenditure of $35,000 to set up the task force. In June, before it had seen the report, it approved a $69,000 allocation to set up a "leadership institute" for education representatives of several school systems in the report's recommendations and help the representatives assess their own schools' needs.

Mrs. Tyler said last month that it was not until later that she realized that the leadership institute would focus on the task force report. She accused Phillips of failing to adequately inform the board. Two other board members agreed privately.

In addition to the information about the schools, Hunt's resolution asked Phillips' staff to spell out what changes in laws, regulations and board policies are necessary to implement each recommendation. Some would require action by the General Assembly or state board. Others could be implemented by local boards of education or individual schools.

In Hunt's resolution the board accepted the report as a "recommendation." But in the final printing of the report which the board received Wednesday, Phillips inserted a "foreword," which said, "This report can and should be a guide to local and state decision makers as we move forward to improve our secondary schools."

When board member Barton Hayes objected Wednesday to the inclusion of the word "guide," Phillips answered that he had written the statement as "the duly elected chief education official in the state." He said he had signed the statement in his role as an elected official and not in his role as secretary to the board. The board, therefore, had no right to tamper with the wording, he said.

Undecided On Economy Plans

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford apparently has not made final decisions on the anti-inflation proposals he will present to Congress next week, a Republican congressional leader said today after a 90-minute White House meeting.

House GOP Whip Les Arends of Illinois, talking with reporters on the White House driveway, would give no details of the Cabinet Room meeting that also included other GOP congressional leaders.

"There was a general discussion," Arends said, adding that Ford "did not go into minute details" on the proposals he will outline for Congress and the American public in his Capitol Hill appearance.

Asked if the Republican leadership would support any Ford requests for a tax increase, Arends responded, "I don't know ... It depends on what they have in there."

He said, when asked if Ford had settled on the shape of his anti-inflation program, "I don't think so."

Ford's meeting with the congressional Republicans came shortly before the Labor Department announced a September jobless rate of 5.8 per cent, up four tenths of a per cent from August.

Motorists had at least some temporary good news. There were price cuts by two major oil companies and renewed indications that Ford is against increasing federal gasoline taxes.

Musical Buffet Luncheon Set For Wednesday

Greenville has a sellout crowd for the Ladies Day musical buffet luncheon Wednesday, Oct. 9.

Persons without tickets to the luncheon at the Greenville Country Club can purchase a standing room ticket to hear entertainments provided by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Bath, violinist and pianist, and Mrs. Harriet Woodcock, a professional singer, dancer and dramatist from Pennsylvania.

Bicentennial guests holding standing room tickets can also attend a garden party and tour the Williamsburg home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. White, named "World's Fair" House in 1964 and 1965, and hear ECU faculty-pianist Paul Tardif perform classical selections at the piano.

Tickets for 50 standing room guests only for the entertainments and garden party-tour may be purchased for $3.50 at the Bicentennial Headquarters, located at the corner of Ninth and Evans Street.

Eight hostesses dressed in costumes of 1880, with some wearing long black curls under lace ruffled bonnets, will welcome and direct guests to the buffet table at the country club, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

Hostesses are Mrs. J. Edwin Clement, Mrs. William H. Taft Jr., Mrs. William Reading Jr., Mrs. Pat Thomas, Mrs. Lawrence Tipton II, Mrs. Jack Whitchard, Mrs. Charles White Jr., and Mrs. Robert Woronoff.

Mrs. J. Herbert Waldrop will give an invocation followed by a Bicentennial welcome from Mrs. William M. Monroe, Greenville's hospitality chairman. At 12 Noon the Baths will perform and be introduced by the Bicentennial director, Mrs. Janice Buck.

At 1 p.m., Mrs. Woodcock will appear in her singing and acting performance of the Trapp Family from the musical production "The Sound of Music," prior to an introduction by the Ladies Day co-chairman, Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick. Also co-chairman with Mrs. Kirkpatrick is Mrs. Charles Kavanaugh.

From 2 p.m. until 3:30 p.m., immediately following the luncheon, the Charles A. White home and garden will be opened to four guests. Located at 425 W. Longmeadow Rd, the house will be decorated in colonial bouquets of flowers and tied with satin ribbons, adorning a wrought-iron railing of the main entrance.

At 2:30 p.m., Tardif will perform at the piano for an hour.

Entertaining guests throughout the White home and in the garden and headed by Mr. Allen Taylor, president, Mrs. Herbert Paschal and Mrs. Charles Stevens, will be 24 club ladies of the Dig and Delve Garden Club: they are Mrs. William S. Bost Jr., Mrs. James Bowman; Mrs. Morris Brody; Mrs. Joseph Davis; Mrs. Jack Edwards;

Mrs. Eric Fearrington; Mrs. Charles Gilbert; Mrs. T. J. Haigwood; Mrs. Ira Hardy; Mrs. Doug Jones; Mrs. Max Joyner; Mrs. J. B. Kittrell Jr.; Mrs. Roger Mann; Mrs. Fred Mattox; Mrs. Bob Messner; Mrs. Joe Murad; Mrs. C. H. Rand; Mrs. Paul Scott; Mrs. Barry Shank; Mrs. William H. Watson; and Mrs. Al Weimer.

Party foods will be served from the patio of the White home by the Dig and Delve Club, which is overlooked by a water fall in the garden.

The Brookgreen Garden Club will furnish potted plants for the garden party, according to Mrs. E. C. Wilkerson, president of the club.

She Wants To Talk, He Says Convert

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school senior. I attend church regularly and am active in our church youth group.

My problem is a friend of mine. He's a nice guy and we study together, but he belongs to another church, and keeps hassling me about my religion. He thinks it's his mission to go around converting people to HIS religion. We've had some pretty hot arguments about this, and I've told him he is wasting his time if he thinks he's going to turn me off my religion and on to something else.

I don't want to end our friendship because he's the most intelligent friend I have, but how can I convince him that I am happy with my own religion and don't want to change? J.

DEAR J.: Send him this quote from a letter that Thomas Jefferson wrote to Mrs. H. Harrison Smith in 1816: "I never told my own religion nor scrutinized that of another. I never attempted to make a convert, nor wished to change another's creed. I am satisfied that yours must be an excellent religion to have produced a life of such exemplary virtue and correctness. For it is in our lives, and not from our words that our religion must be judged."

And J., if your friend is as intelligent as you say he is, he will get your message and act accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I work together delivering morning newspapers. We start out at 1 a.m. and finish up about 5 a.m.

It's dark out at that time and many of the house numbers are hidden by big bushes, and some house numbers have been painted over and are impossible to read from the street, so my husband has to get out of the truck and look around for the house numbers with a flashlight.

With so much meanness in the world today, he could be mistaken for a prowler. Not only that, but it's time-consuming to get out of the truck, set the brakes, and go looking around for house numbers. I hope you use this in your column to let folks know how they can solve our problem.

PAPER PEOPLE

DEAR PEOPLE: Your letter could solve that problem for others who must make deliveries at night.

DEAR ABBY: "Stumped" asked how to say no to sex, since she was a divorcee and couldn't use that old "I'm saving myself for marriage" excuse. You told her she didn't need an excuse—just give him a flat "no!"

Well, that would run a guy off permanently, which may not be what the lady wants to do. Perhaps she would like to get to know him better.

I suggest that she say, "Don't rush me." That's not a flat "no," and she doesn't run the risk of hurting the man's ego.

ODESSA, TEXAS

DEAR ODESSA: "Don't rush me" has a ring of promise to it that may be misleading. And how long must a man remain in a holding pattern before the lady no longer feels "rushed?"

DEAR ABBY: "Stumped Divorcee" didn't know how to say "no" to a man. (She said, "If I had never been married, I could say I was saving myself for marriage, but a divorcee can't say that.") I have a solution for her: I was a divorcee for ten years. I never said "no" to a man because I didn't want him to think I was a prude. And I never said "yes" because I didn't want him to think I was a tramp. So I always said "maybe."

It worked like a charm. I had so many proposals I couldn't count them.

I am now married to the greatest guy in the world.

THE MAYBE GIRL

DEAR MAYBE: I can only assume that your "maybe" turned into a "yes." What was the time schedule on that?

Dessert Tips During The Sugar Pinch

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The rapidly rising cost of sugar may not be bitter medicine after all.

Many medical authorities say the typical American eats far too much sugar, and in fact, needs no sugar as such in a nutritionally balanced diet.

But few of us are apt to give up sweets altogether. So here are some ideas for making desserts and other sweetened dishes with either less sugar or natural substitutes.

Cook apples in frozen unsweetened apple juice or orange juice concentrate or sweet cider to make applesauce.

Puree naturally sweet fruits such as ripe bananas or prunes and blend into stiffly beaten egg whites to make fruit whips. Little or no sugar will be needed.

Choose the ripest fruit you can find if you plan to serve it raw. Then sweeten, if necessary, with a little corn syrup. It's better than sugar for this purpose anyway because the syrup makes a less watery mixture because it doesn't draw juices from the fruit.

The consumer service department of C P C International, a major manufacturer of corn syrup, says the price is expected to rise but not in proportion to that of sugar.

It can be substituted for sugar entirely in a variety of foods and beverages. To make good cinnamon toast, blend 2 tablespoons of corn syrup with 3 tablespoons of softened butter or margarine and 1 teaspoon of cinnamon. Spread on toast and broil until the spread bubbles.

Corn syrup can be substituted for simple syrup (sugar boiled with water) for use in cold drinks and punches. It can take the place of sugar in baked beans, barbecue sauce, dessert sauces and ham glazes. The consistency of syrup makes it cling better in basting sauces and glazes. Corn syrup also can be substituted for sugar in making the topping for upside down cakes and sticky buns.

It reduces the graininess of frozen desserts such as refrigerator tray ice creams, ice milks, ices and sherbets. One fourth of the sugar called for in such recipes can be replaced by syrup.

To use it as a glaze for cookies and fruit cakes, bring syrup to a boil and boil one minute. Use a natural bristle brush to apply it because the high temperature can melt synthetic bristles. The boiling is needed to assure a dry glaze even in humid weather.

Canned fruits in syrup can be pureed to make frozen desserts with little or no sugar added. Leftover syrup from canned or frozen fruit makes a good substitute for maple, maple blended or corn syrup on French toast, pancakes or waffles.

Making coffee gelatin? Melt marshmallows instead of sugar in the hot coffee before you add gelatin that has been presoaked in a little cold water.

Honey, molasses and corn syrup can be substituted in many recipes calling for sugar, although you will have to adjust the amount of liquid and sweetness to your taste. Used this way, allow in general a cup of corn syrup for each cup of sugar and reduce the liquid content of the recipe by about one fourth. Using honey, allow one cup for each cup and a fourth of sugar and reduce the liquid content by one fourth.

But for best results do not substitute honey, molasses or corn syrup in baking recipes calling for sugar. Instead, use recipes developed specifically for each.

Inflation Hurting N.C. Road Work: Holshouser

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina's highway program "has been hit hard" by inflation, Gov. Jim Holshouser said Thursday night.

In a prepared speech at a banquet honoring the state Transportation Board which meets here today, Holshouser pointed to two highway projects to show the effect inflation is having on highway building costs.

He said the project on N.C. 68 from I-40 to the Greensboro-High Point Airport was estimated at $4.55 million a year ago and that the estimate now is $11.5 million. Holshouser said the project to reroute U.S. 70 from Dover to James City bypassing New Bern was estimated at $44.6 million a year ago and the estimate now is $60 million. "But even with rising costs, our roads program is working," Holshouser declared.

He said his administration is "making a conscious effort to balance the needs of our smaller communities with those of our large cities."

"Without question, there are many road needs in our big cities," Holshouser stated. "But sometimes we tend to forget that the cities and towns that aren't so large also have vital needs."

The governor said major emphasis should be given to the secondary roads program.

"No longer can we think of secondary roads as strictly farm-to-market roads. They still serve that important purpose, but they also are being used by more and more people to drive to work in town from their homes in the rural and suburban residential areas," he added.

"We've got to upgrade existing unpaved roads to all-weather conditions, to pave some of the dirt roads that the state already is maintaining, and to bring many of the paved secondary roads to better safety standards," Holshouser declared.

Horticulturist To Teach Special Class

"Practical Horticulture and Landscape Design," a non-credit course for beginning or experienced home gardeners, will be offered by East Carolina University on Tuesday evenings Oct. 22-Dec. 10.

Herbert Rea, horticulturist for the Tryon Palace Restoration, will instruct the course. A graduate of NCSU and a professional horticulturist with several years of experience, Rea is now in charge of the well-known gardens in the Tryon Palace complex.

The course is designed to acquaint the homeowner or apartment dweller with the basic principles of horticultural science so he might successfully undertake gardening projects in and around the home.

Instruction will consist of classroom lectures with audio-visual aids and practical demonstrations of methods and materials. Upon completion of the course, the student should be able to:

1. Understand general principles of planting, fertilizing, pruning, propagating and general care of indoor and outdoor ornamental plants;

2. Understand the importance of basic planning in developing the landscape, lawn and planting arrangement;

3. Recognize insect, disease and physiological disorders more readily; and

4. Properly direct hired horticultural services and deal more effectively with professionals in the field.

Since enrollment in the horticulture class will be limited, early registration is advised. Registration materials and additional information about the course is available from the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville, or telephone 758-6143.

X-Rated But Not 'Obscene'

WINSTON SALEM (AP)—A Forsyth Superior Court judge ruled Thursday that the movie "Memoirs Within Miss Aggie" is not obscene under North Carolina law.

The X-rated film has been playing at a local theater since early September.

Judge James G. Exum, Jr., said the state failed to prove the film lacked serious artistic, literary and educational value and for that reason, he did not have to rule on whether the film's sexual scenes were patently offensive.

Forsyth District Attorney Frank J. Yeager, who had called on the judge to ban the movie, said the ruling seemed to mean that any type of sexual activity could be shown as long as the movie had a plot.

UF Touches Lives Of Us All

The Pitt United Fund drive is underway again with a 1974-75 goal of $196,643.

A kickoff luncheon was held Wednesday and the drive to raise the money was officially launched with Hugh Bazemore as campaign chairman.

The funds raised will be distributed as follows: Salvation Army, $31,038; Boy Scouts, $30,000; Red Cross, $26,000; Boys' Club, $18,500; local community services, $15,750; Pitt Mental Health, $15,062; N.C. United, $8,743; Retarded Children, $6,335; Association for the Blind, $3,250; 4-H Council, $1,965.

There is also $23,000 in the budget for operation of the Pitt United Fund office and $5,000 in contingency for unpaid pledges.

A look over the list of participating agencies shows that one or more of them touch virtually all of our lives. The loss of any of the agencies would leave a void in our county which would be impossible to fill.

Every citizen should dig deep this year and contribute early so that the United Fund goal can be met as quickly as possible. All of us are concerned about the effects of inflation on our individual budgets, but we must remember that inflation is cutting into the budgets of the United Fund participating agencies, too.

A goal board has been erected on the courthouse lawn. In this year when Greenville celebrates its 200th anniversary, there can be no better way for Pitt County citizens to show the pride we all feel for our area than to make the goal board show 100 percent in record time.

Hard To Imagine Costs Have Risen So Much

Virginia Electric and Power Co. has proposed a 28.7 percent increase in rates charged to wholesale municipal customers and a 31.2 percent in rates charged to co-ops.

VEPCO will ask the Federal Power Commission to approve the increase effective Jan. 1.

The wholesale customers plan to fight the increase, of course, and well they should. It is difficult to imagine how VEPCO's costs could have risen to that degree, when fuel costs have been absorbed by a monthly fuel charge paid by the customer.

Fight State Regulation

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—The question of state regulation of private schools does not seem at first blush an overly emotional issue.

After all, the state's position goes, failure of any school to properly educate a child becomes a problem of the larger society. Therefore, the state should at least require that teachers in all schools—public or private—be properly certified.

A move in that direction has touched off an explosive debate with state education officials and private school officials from the older established institutions on the one hand endorsing state regulation; parents and officials involved in the so-called "instant" private schools—largely associated with Fundamental religious groups—on the other insisting on "religious freedom" to teach what they want, the way they want.

Many of those involved in the "instant" church-related private schools plainly see themselves as the victims of a conspiracy with two key goals:

A Conspiracy
—To keep them from hiring

as teachers the graduates of certain "Bible colleges" who do not achieve certification as teachers under state law, thus causing them to close their doors.

—To force all children into public schools, where they will be subject to liberal, humanistic teachings which fly against the concepts held by their parents and their pastors.

There are 274 private schools in North Carolina. Only one is accredited solely by the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges, seven by the State Department of Public Instruction, and 15 jointly by the Southern Association and the State Department; a total of 23 accredited schools out of 274. Additionally, 13 applications for accreditation are pending.

State officials, with the backing of the North Carolina Association of Educators, have signaled intention to expand requirements to include certification of teachers in private schools to the same level as those in public schools.

That move, the private school supporters insist, would mean they could not get the kinds of teachers they want.

Plainly admitting that they hold a "narrow" view of religion which goes against the grain of the majority, the private school leaders say they have the right to educate their children as they see fit, and it would be impossible to find sufficient numbers of teachers who could meet state certification rules at the salaries they must pay; but more importantly teachers who are called to teach the Word of God and embrace a religious philosophy acceptable to the schools involved.

Polite Debate

The public debate of this issue is being politely carried out before a special commission of the General Assembly chaired by State Sen. Thomas E. Strickland, D-Goldsboro.

The majority position has been put forth by a host of professional educators and state officials; best summarized by Dr. Carl J. Dolce, dean of the school of education at N. C. State University, who stressed that public education is one area in which public good overrides individual rights.

Certification of teachers is not unlike licensing physicians or lawyers; and is similar to health or building codes designed to protect the public's rights over private interests.

Opponents maintain that this is state interference in religious freedom, and that private schools should be free to hire any teacher they want.

Finding qualified teachers with the required religious beliefs is a difficult job, they say, and one principal spelled it out thus: "That religious philosophy is a minority view, and not what a majority of teachers coming out of state colleges totally embrace. Anytime you require us to run our teachers through a state teachers' college, you have the state imposing its philosophy on us."

Away from the podium, the private school people are more vocal and emotional, insisting that the state is conspiring to expose their children to sex education and the Humanistic philosophies which go against parental and church teachings.

The INSIDE REPORT

The Politics Of Despair

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

BRANDON, S.D.—The mood of despair here on the great plains has reached such a point that an economic depression of the scale of 1929 is now seen as a "real danger" by nearly one-half the voters we interviewed in this barometer community.

President Ford's much-publicized economic summit was dismissed by one voter as "just another way of doing nothing." Indeed, only 15 of 50 voters interviewed in this small eastern South Dakota community feel "more optimistic" over the future now that Mr. Ford is in the White House.

South Dakota is the battleground between Sen. George McGovern, the worst-defeated presidential nominee in history, and Vietnam war-hero Leo Thorsness, his Republican opponent for the Senate. It is one measure of voter fear over the future that McGovern, not Thorsness, now holds what looks like a commanding lead.

McGovern benefits because cattle farmers west of here are desperately worried about foreclosures due to the high price of feed and the low price of beef-on-the-hoof. Thus, voters who rejected McGovern's presidential bid in his own state by 8 percentage points are turning back to him to preserve their interests in the Senate. In what may be the trend nationally, economic fears are inundating concerns of social ideology on the plains.

"We don't need a war hero in the Senate," said a butcher who voted for Richard Nixon against McGovern. "We need experience." The butcher plans to vote for McGovern this time.

Thorsness, who spent six years in a Communist prison camp after being shot down over North Vietnam in 1967, was thought by national Republican strategists to be just the ticket to take on the Democratic party's top dove. But our voter sample, taken with the help of Pat Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research polling organization, indicated strongly that the war-hero vs. war-critic scenario has gone awry.

The 50 voters interviewed gave McGovern only a bare margin of 23 with a "favorable" reaction to 19 who regard him "unfavorably." Yet McGovern demolished Thorsness in present voting intentions: 30 to 14 (with 6 undecided).

The clear reason:

McGovern's experience as a 12-year Senator and Thorsness's total lack of it. "I have a lot of respect for Thorsness," a housewife and 1972 Nixon voter, told us, "because he gave up a lot for his country. But they shouldn't have tried to put him up on this pedestal." She is voting for McGovern.

Our interviews in a community that matched statewide 1972 results led to this conclusion: McGovern's 1974 campaign is a mirror image of his 1972 disaster. Like Nixon in 1972, McGovern is far from universally popular. But like McGovern two years ago, Thorsness as of today is simply not credible as a U. S. Senator.

A middle-aged, motherly Democrat praised Thorsness's combat record, but asked: "What makes that qualify him for the Senate? We can't take the chance." That's what millions of voters said about McGovern's presidential ambitions:

Strength For Today

RULES FOR LIFE

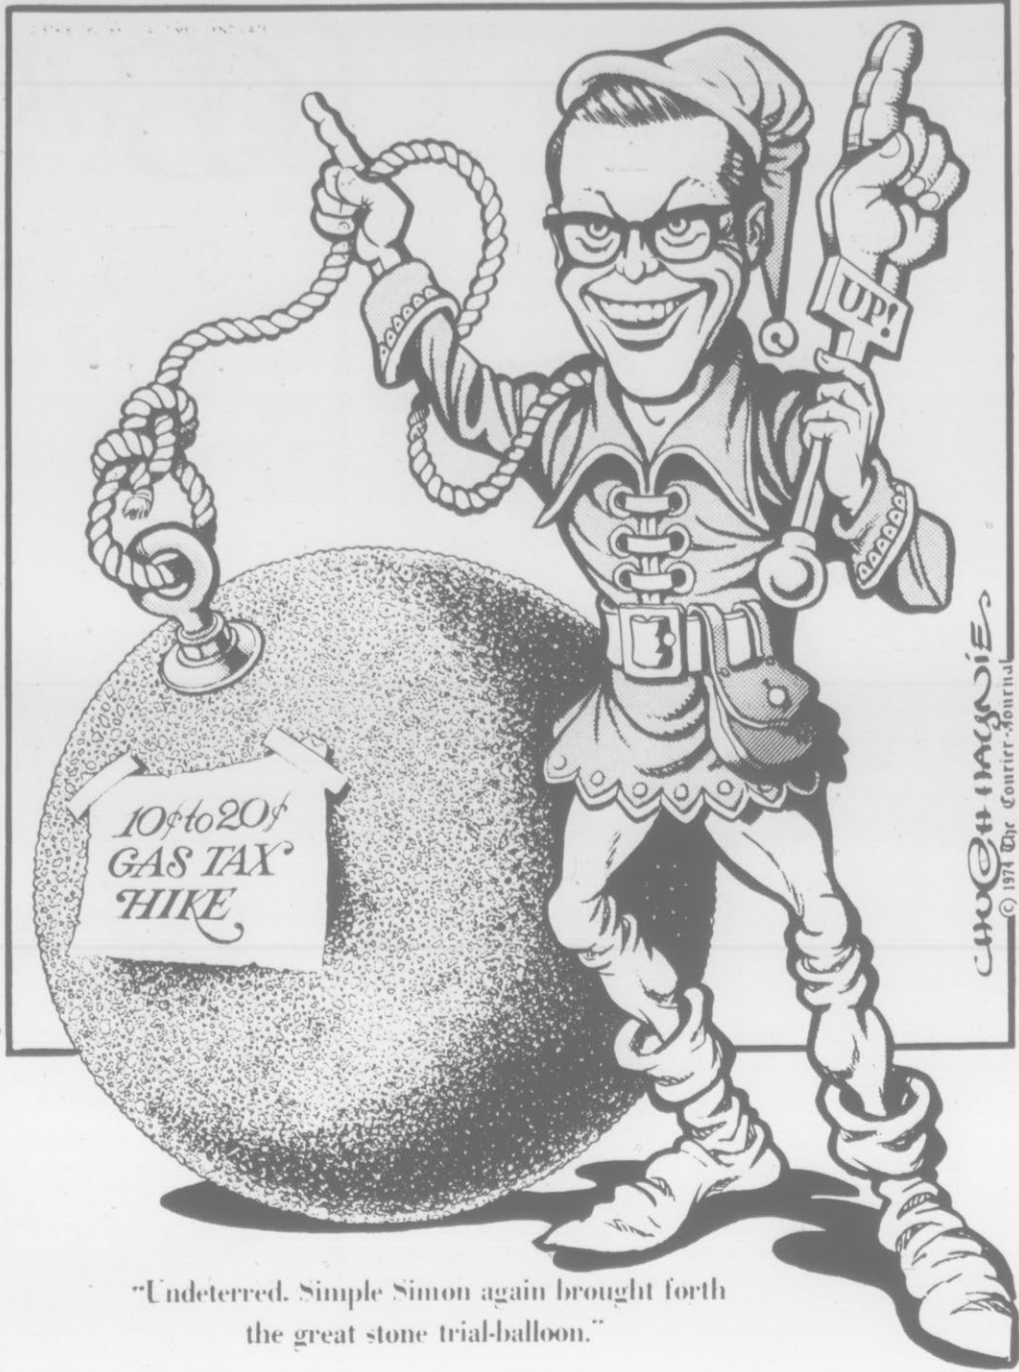

The eighteenth-century evangelist, Jonathan Edwards, early in life adopted the following resolutions:

1. To live with all my might while I do live.
2. Never to lose a minute of time.
3. Never to do anything which I would despise in another.
4. Never to do anything out of revenge.
5. Never to do anything which I would be afraid to do if it was the last hour of my life.

These standards are all the more important because they come from a man who had more influence on evangelical Christianity than any other American. He was responsible for "The Great Awakening" of the 1740's—the first religious crusade. He was also one of the three or four most notable theologians and philosophers which America has produced. No American ever wove together so skillfully the various strands of theological and philosophical thinking. Some have called him the American Thomas Aquinas. The latter was a medieval philosopher of monumental significance.

Economics Made Easy

WASHINGTON—I listened to the economic summit for two days and it was a great inspiration to see so many learned men from all walks of life tell us why the country is in such a mess. Although there was some disagreement, this is what we now know for sure.

The Republicans are responsible for inflation because of their tight money policies, high interest rates and giving in to big business at every turn.

The Democrats are responsible for inflation because of their large welfare programs, reckless government spending and catering to the interests of labor.

In order to cure the upward spiral of prices, we have to make more money available for business investment.

We must make bank loans more difficult for business investment.

Arthur Burns of the Federal Reserve Board is responsible for the recession we are in.

George Meany is responsible for the recession we're in.

There is no recession. We cannot solve our economic problems until we bring down the cost of fuel, particularly oil and natural gas.

The only way we can get more fuel is to raise the price of oil and gas to encourage the oil companies.

Congress is responsible for the crisis because of the large amounts of money it has voted for unneeded government programs.

Congress has to vote new funds to keep the country from going into a depression. Unless we have a tax cut, the economy will never recover from the doldrums it is in.

The only way to lick inflation is to raise taxes and keep the dollar from being devalued.

The Arabs are responsible for all our troubles.

There is no inflation. Our main problem is stagflation. We must stop selling agricultural products abroad so we can bring down the price of food at home.

We must increase our food exports so we can have a more favorable balance of payments.

Right Turn On Red

By REESE HART

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A North Carolina law which went into effect July 1 permitting a right turn on a red light at most intersections "is working fine," a state official says.

"The public response has been good. We've had very few complaints," said W. A. Ward, assistant manager of traffic engineering. "During periods when traffic is light it works good in permitting motorists to make a right turn after first coming to a halt."

"Of course, he added, "when traffic is heavy during peak hours the right turns are not as frequent. But for the most part the new law has helped the flow of traffic."

Ward said he had not received any reports that the right turns had caused an increase in accidents.

Ward's department is responsible for the replacement of traffic signals and signs on streets and roads that are part of the state highway system.

"We have 3,430 traffic signals that we maintain," he said, "and we put up signs at 849 intersections prohibiting right turns on red at one or more corners."

In Durham, Police Chief J.P. Kindice said, "Our enforcement people are happy about it (the new law) and traffic is flowing better. It is operating very nicely."

Kindice said the traffic and police departments did a lot of advance planning and were prepared for the new law. At first, some motorists were making turns without stopping.

"We went into a warning period," he said, "And motorists were cautioned to come to a stop before making the turn. Now it is working fine. I want to compliment the state for putting it into effect."

Raleigh Police Chief Goodwin said he feels the new law "is working good. Some people seem to be a little hesitant (Continued on page 5)

40 Years Ago Today

October 4, 1934

The total amount of money paid out on the Greenville tobacco market neared the ten million dollar mark today.

The official report of sales made public by sales supervisor K. W. Cobb shows a total of $9,691,987.50 with an average of $30.12 per hundred pounds. That average is nearly three times greater than for the same period last year.

Sales yesterday reached an average of $35 per hundred pounds.

Fire Prevention Week will be held in the nation next year and local fire chief George Gardner has urged local citizens to give attention to fire hazards during the week.

The fire loss in Greenville dropped last year and losses this year are expected to be even lower.

The Greenville Salvage Company has silk dresses on sale this week from $1.98 to $4.98. Boys suits are going for $5.95.

Look-Ahead On Grocery Prices

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press—Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A recent newspaper cartoon showed a woman shopper, cart loaded with groceries, rushing up and down the aisles of a supermarket. Over the loudspeaker came an announcement: "At the sound of the gong, all prices will go up 10 per cent."

Things aren't quite that bad, but to many shoppers the cartoon is based on an uncomfortable amount of truth. Prices seem to be going up faster than you can count. The government has estimated that by the end of this year, food prices will be 15 to 17 per cent higher than last year.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has predicted an 8 to 10 per cent increase for next year, but officials say even that may have to be revised upward because of frosts in the Midwest.

Americans spend billions of dollars in supermarkets each year. Where is the money going?

Twenty per cent of it isn't even being spent on food. The Super Market Institute, an industry research group, says only 8 per cent of the typical supermarket bill goes for food. The rest is spent on things like paper goods, magazines, records, toys and all the other "extras."

Supermarkets frequently display these profitable items where the customer is most likely to see them and consumer advisers warn shoppers to be wary of buying things they don't need.

According to the Super Market Institute, the average customer transaction at a so-called combination supermarket—a store devoting 25 per cent or more of its space to general merchandise—involves an expenditure of $8.68 on food and $1.65 on nonfood items.

The institute also came up with some interesting regional sidelights, although it provided no explanation. Customers in the Northeast and Midwest spend almost twice as much on food per transaction as those in the South. But the Southerners spend a higher percentage of the grocery bill on general merchandise.

No matter what type of item is involved, you're also paying for the package. The Agriculture Department has estimated that the value of packaging for farm-produced foods increased by over 8 per cent last year and now is more than $10 billion.

Metal cans went up 12 per cent last year, the department said; glass containers were up more than 9 per cent; paper products jumped 8 per cent; plastics increased 6 per cent; and wood containers went up 1 per cent.

Even the paper bag the groceries are packed in is costing more. The Agriculture Department reported, for example, that one national supermarket chain was paying two cents for every large grocery bag—up about 14 per cent over 1972. The bag held about $7 to $8 worth of groceries, the department said.

Question Of Carson's UNC Tuition Rate Raised

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Republican Atty. Gen. James Carson may have attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill as a Tar Heel resident when he may have been required to pay higher out-of-state tuition, The Associated Press learned.

Carson, a North Carolina native, had listed New Jersey as his home of record while in the Navy—until a month before entering the university. By registering at UNC as a resident, Carson saved $175 per semester. Tuition for North Carolina residents in 1959 was $75 a semester while out-of-state students paid $250 a semester.

Carson told The AP he believed he was qualified for the lower tuition because his parents were residents and that's what the determination of residency was based on.
A check with the university

revealed that wasn't necessarily the case. A spokesman in the UNC admissions office said an adult student must establish his own residency if he has been a resident of another state.

And, Andy Vanore, an attorney in the state Department of Justice who deals with educational law, said adult students must live in the state—and not go to school—long enough to establish residency before enjoying the lower tuition rate.

Vanore wasn't told whose case was involved. Vanore told The AP that such cases usually result in no criminal action even though fraud could possibly be involved. He said the normal action is to ask the student to pay the difference in fees for the time he attended school at the lower rate.

In Carson's case, however, the statute of limitations has elapsed and neither the state nor the university can demand the fees.

During a debate at Chapel Hill last week, Carson said his Democratic opponent, Rufus Edmisten, was subject to criminal and civil action because Edmisten hadn't filed North Carolina income tax returns for 10 years. Edmisten was an aide to retiring Sen. Sam Ervin in Washington and paid Virginia income taxes because he lived in that state, though he still claimed Tar Heel residency.

Carson, a Charlotte native, said he attended the University of Florida after graduating from high school. He was there until joining the Navy as a fighter pilot in 1955.

While in the Navy, Carson said he claimed New Jersey as his home of record because that was his wife's home. He was a fighter pilot stationed aboard the U.S.S. Ticonderoga with the 7th Fleet.

New Jersey has no state income tax, so he didn't pay any.
Had he listed North Carolina as his home of record, he would have been subject to the state's income tax.

Carson said he moved to Chapel Hill in January 1959 after his release from active duty and attended UNC beginning the next month. He said he paid the resident fees because of his parents' residency.

A spokesman at UNC said the 1959 regulations were that a student is considered a resident of the state where his parents are residents. The 1959 UNC catalog said the same was true of an adult student unless the student "set up one of his own"
in another state.

To claim residency in 1959, a student must have lived in the state for six months, worked, registered to vote, paid taxes and otherwise given proof of residency, the UNC spokesman said. Under the rules, a student couldn't attend school and establish residency at the same time, the spokesman said.

The spokesman and Vanore said the only way an out-of-state student could establish residency would be to drop out of school and work and pay taxes then return to school. He would also have to show the school "good reason" for claiming residency, the spokesman said. In 1959 it would have taken six months; now the requirement is 12 months.

Carson graduated from UNC in 1960 and graduated from the UNC Law School in 1963.

Vanore said a North Carolina native who claimed to be a resident of another state while in the military wouldn't qualify for the lower tuition.

The UNC spokesman said the school probably wouldn't check on a former serviceman's residency qualification if he used his parents' North Carolina home as a permanent address and claimed residency. "They just didn't check those things then like they do now.... It was very slack, very lenient," the spokesman said.

While being questioned on the matter, Carson commented that "a man running for public office has to go through a lot."
When he was reminded that his supporters had put Edmisten through a similar wringer, Carson said, "Yeah, I guess so."

Edmisten refused to comment on the situation. He said he is running a positive campaign on the issues and "won't make irresponsible statements." He said he doesn't know enough about the situation to make a statement, anyway.

unqualified.
Moreover, our door-to-door survey in this community of 1,400 gave McGovern high marks for having "learned from his mistakes" in 1972.
Those willing to express an opinion said McGovern "is back on the right track now" by a margin of 27 to 6.

Thus, McGovern ran almost 6-to-1 ahead of Thorness in voter perception of his "ability to get things done in the Senate." In only one category—preserving a strong national defense—did Thorness emerge over McGovern.

But national defense is sadly distant as a paramount issue in this campaign. There is only one issue: the economy, and President Ford's ability to stop inflation and recession.

Mr. Ford continues to hold an extremely high approval rating among voters here. By a score of 37 to 4, by far the highest for any politician here, Mr. Ford is still "favorably" regarded,
despite angry criticism of the Nixon pardon. But, as we have discovered in other voter samples, that favorable regard will waste away unless the President produces soon.

Given President Ford's continuing procrastination on how to deal with the economy, only 6 of our 50 voters believe the economy is going to be better a year from now. Far more ominous for Mr. Ford, those who had an opinion said by a 6-to-1 margin that the Democrats
"can do a better job" of managing the economy than the Republicans, even though we interviewed slightly more Republicans than Democrats.

For Mr. Ford, this means time is running out. But for McGovern, it suggests the calamity of 1972 is behind him. It is due in no small part to the inexperience of his war-hero opponent—the subject of a future column.

Local Attorney To Help Prepare State Agency Guidebooks

Ben Gibson Irons II, a Greenville attorney, has been appointed Guidebook draftsman for the N.C. Department of Correction.

Secretary of Correction David Jones said Irons would help develop a complete policies and procedures guidebook for the Department and its three subordinate divisions—Prisons,

Youth Development, and Adult Probation and Parole.

The year-long project is to be funded by a $49,568 federal grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and $5,509 in matching State funds.
"This Guidebook will be the Department's first attempt to provide a single up-to-date set of operating policies and procedures for the entire Department.

Besides making readily available rules and regulations for employees and persons under the custody of the Department, the guidebook will establish standard departmental operating procedures based on successful field procedures and legal precedents for custody, treatment, and rehabilitation of persons committed to the care of the Department.

Working with Irons will be attorney David P. Dickey of Fayetteville.

A Greenville native and a graduate of UNC Law School, Irons worked as a summer intern in the Department of

would be tough to do two streets and not do the other." Concern was expressed earlier in the meeting that if the three names were allowed to be removed from the petition on Pinewood Road, the entire project would be killed since Pinewood leads into the other streets from Evans.

Mayor Eugene West said that, "I think we have justification to tie in all three (streets) together."

Normally in acting on improvement petitions, 51 per cent of the citizens' share of the cost must be paid before the work is started and the balance of the cost is prorated to each property owner over a five-year period at eight per cent interest.

In other business, the Council approved and adopted the proposed Greenville Thoroughfare Plan with eight exceptions: elimination of the proposed bridge at Washington Street and relocation of the bridge to Pitt Street; elimination of the two-way pair on Fourth and Fifth Streets; elimination of the proposed bridge at Elm Street;

Continuation of Red Banks Road westwardly to U. S. 264 Bypass as shown on the 1963 thoroughfare plan; elimination of the southerly loop around Pitt Plaza to Bells Fork; realignment of Arlington Boulevard from Greenville Boulevard to Red Banks Road; realignment of Howell Street; and realignment of the proposed N. C. 11 Bypass one mile to the west of the Pitt-Greenville Airport property.

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath voted against adoption of the plan in opposition to one of the proposed street phases.

Carstarphen reported that the city now has the title to two pieces of property at 2405 and 2407 Memorial Drive as the proposed site for a new fire station.

West commented that the city is "in need of a fire station in the west end of the city" and it is necessary to have one located where the department trucks could "fan out with the least amount of difficulty."

West explained that the site is an alternate location and is not the one originally preferred by the city across Memorial Drive on property owned by Mrs. Ione Marshburn. He said that Mrs. Marshburn had not agreed to sell the property, however, and "we've got to do something in this area."

Eddie Dozier of Glenwood Avenue said that property owners are opposed to the location considered for the fire station since it would be built very close to the residences.

Dozier said that he objected to the manner in which the property was acquired, asserting that "when you use public funds, it's usually out in the open where the public sees it." He said the property owners in the area should have been contacted to get their reaction on the proposed station.

"It seems ridiculous to put a fire station on a lot that is 150 feet in width by 150 feet in depth," Dozier asserted. He contended that the trucks would hardly have room to turn around.

Dozier said that a site of some seven acres is available on Arlington Boulevard near Evans Park that would provide good access to the area and offer a more central fire station location.

The mayor told him that the city would not consider putting a station any further east of Memorial Drive "because the area we are trying to protect is . . . in the other direction."

West said that "if you and some of your friends would help us get the other piece of land," the city would prefer that and would take that site over the property in question.

Dozier said that the property owners would explain the situation to Mrs. Marshburn.

The matter must come before the Board of Adjustments for a public hearing before a variance to permit construction of the station can be granted.

The Council reappointed Billy Laughinghouse to a second five-year term on the Redevelopment Commission. Laughinghouse has completed his first term.

Anne Frost and Nancy Gustafson were named to the Sheppard Memorial Library Board replacing J.B. Kittrell and Mrs. Harriet Wooten who completed their final three-year terms on the board.

Mary Alice Yarbrough was named to replace D.D. Garrett who has resigned his position on the City Board of Adjustments. Mrs. Yarbrough, who was serving as an alternate on the board, will fill the unexpired term of Garrett (June of 1976). The Council appointed Mathew Lewis as an alternate to fill the vacancy created by the elevation of Mrs. Yarbrough to the board.

Other Council action included: renewal of mobile home permits for Pitt

Memorial Hospital for a mobile structure behind the main hospital building; renewal of a permit for the Pitt County Health Department for a mobile home at 1825 W. Sixth Street for use as an office;

Adoption of an ordinance amending Chapter 24 of the City Code relating to pool rooms and billiard rooms; approval of pool table permits for John Earl Bridges to place a pool table at 409-A Bonner's Lane and for The Ice House to operate six pool tables at 220 E. 14th Street;

Approval of a bid of $36,112.20 submitted by North Carolina Equipment Co. for a new motor grader for the Public Works Department; Denial of a request by Porter Auto Parts for permission to provide wrecker service for the Police Department on the grounds that the business is located outside of the city limits;

Acceptance of the annual report submitted by the Board of Adjustments;

Approval of an agreement with the Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority for provision by the city of certain financial and personnel services; and Waiver of the privilege license requirements for the Charles Gray Morgan Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7032 for a circus on Oct. 9.

In addition, the Council voted to have the city manager seek bids on lighting fixtures and posts for the Central Business District Urban Renewal Area Pedestrian Way System. Carstarphen was instructed to get bids on fixtures that are similar and comparable to those located in the Town Common.

A plan discussed by City Engineer Charles Holliday for proposed improvements to the 14th and Evans Street intersection was approved. Holliday reported that the state will pay for the materials used in the improvements and the city will furnish the labor. In addition, the state would put up new traffic signals at the intersection.

The city engineer reported that the city has also been requested by the State Department of Transportation to participate in a storm drainage project behind Dunn Building Supply and Hendrix Barnhill Co.

Holliday reported that the state will furnish all the pipe for the ditch project and the city would be expected to install the pipe.

The Council voted to rename the section of Charles Street from its intersection with the 264 Bypass to Tenth Street as Charles Boulevard. Charles Street will continue to be designated as such from the intersection of 264 Bypass south and from the original Charles Street and Ninth Street intersection south to the new Charles Boulevard.

The Council heard a report on the status of the Community Development Program Planning and approved a citizen participation process and budget calling for up to $5,300 in program funds.

Following a report by Councilmen Dr. Frank Fuller and Joe Taft Jr. on the recent meeting of the Transit Advisory Committee, the Council voted to apply for a technical studies grant to aid in financing a mass transit study here. Councilman Clarence Gray voted against the proposal on the basis of the delay involved in having a study made. He suggested that some type of interim system should be employed to serve the citizens of Greenville until a permanent system can be put into operation.

The Council also followed the recommendation of Fuller and Taft in adding two new members to the ad hoc committee. Named were Mrs. Liz Wilkerson and Richard Fulsom.

WASHINGTON (AP) — District attorneys who have tested a quick and tough system for prosecuting habitual criminals call it a promising weapon against rising national crime rates.

They delivered that report Thursday to Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, who plans to implement the system in 10 cities as the Ford administration's first effort to deal with the increase in crime.

Saxbe conferred with prosecutors who administered the system in the Brooklyn and Bronx sections of New York City and with other criminal justice authorities as the FBI issued new statistics showing still another boost in the nation's crime rate.

tion's crime rate.

The FBI said the volume of serious crime rose 16 per cent in the first six months of 1974 compared with the same period a year ago.

Brooklyn and Bronx prosecutors said top-priority prosecution has produced a high conviction rate and long prison sentences for repeat offenders.

The system works this way: After arresting an individual,

No Ruling In Girl's Death

A 16-year-old Greenville girl died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about 5 p.m. yesterday of a brain hemorrhage.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey said the death of Renet Manning of B-18 Glendale Court was from "apparent natural causes," but indicated the death is still under investigation.

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said Miss Manning was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday night after being found in a car at the Pitt County Fair. She was treated at the hospital and released Monday night, but admitted to the hospital Tuesday morning for treatment after being seen by a doctor at the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic.

The chief said Miss Manning, shortly after entering the hospital Tuesday went into a semi-conscious state, then lapsed into a coma.

Coroner Harvey indicated there was no sign of injury to Miss Manning. He said his ruling in the case is pending receipt of a toxicology report from the office of the state medical examiner.

police review his past record of arrests and convictions. If the individual has several recent offenses, his case would be assigned to a special team of prosecutors that would press the court for a swift trial and a harsh sentence. The prosecutors would inform the judge about the defendant's past record. The primary target is the violent offender.

The high-priority cases now come to trial in 75 days, while it sometimes takes two years to try other defendants handled routinely, he added.

Bronx Dist. Atty. Mario Merola said that 97 per cent of the defendants channeled through the special system are convicted. The rate could be as low as 50 per cent with routine treatment, he estimated.

Without special handling, cases often collapse as witnesses die, move away or forget what they saw while waiting years for a trial, the prosecutors told reporters after meeting with Saxbe.

The system also has encouraged judges to impose longer prison sentences, they added. Merola said the average for defendants given special treatment is almost 10 years.

The new FBI figures for the crimes reported to state and local police showed that the upsurge that began in late 1973 continued through the first half of this year.

The property crimes of burglary, larceny and auto theft rose 17 per cent, compared with a 2 per cent decrease for the same period last year.

Larceny, which includes such things as shoplifting and purse-snatching, increased 20 per cent, the highest of all seven categories measured.

Murder was up 5 per cent, rape 8 per cent, robbery 5 per cent and assault 7 per cent.

Broken down by region, the South led with a 21 per cent over-all crime surge, followed by a 15 per cent increase in western states, 14 per cent in north central states, and 12 per cent in northeastern states.

By population, cities of more than one million recorded a modest 6 per cent crime increase while those with fewer than 10,000 residents reported a 25 per cent boost.

In rural areas, the increase was 6 per cent and in the suburbs, 21 per cent.

'Heritage Day' For Churches

Sunday, October 6 is Religious Heritage Day in Greenville, with each church in the city taking the opportunity to look at its contribution to the community over the last 200 years. In addition each church has been asked to compile a church history to be submitted to Bicentennial Headquarters where it can be kept on file and shared.

From 2-4 p.m. there will be an open house at all Greenville churches followed by a community-wide worship service at Wright Auditorium at 4:00 p.m. Many churches are planning family picnics in addition to their regular activities.

The committee in charge of Religious Heritage Day is interested in displaying old Bibles, pictures and clothing at the Kroger Building. Any persons or churches having such items should contact Ted Gartman at Bicentennial Headquarters. 752-1919.

R.C. Braswell To Speak At Warren Chapel

Stop... and look

A child is born with imagination, with the ability to see the magic of the world around him. Yet so much creativity—so much "seeing"—is often lost as we grow older and the complexities of life sweep over us.

When a child confronts nature, he isn't in a hurry. He takes time to study each blade of grass, to appreciate the colors of a butterfly, to marvel at a flower or the soft fur of a kitten.

We shouldn't lose this sensibility as we grow up. God created the world, but man has often abused it. So stop—once in awhile—and look, feel and listen. This is communion, restoration . . . like the spirit you find in church.

Have you been there lately?

Urge Agricultural Co-Op Curb

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A confidential staff report of a Republican antitrust task force urges curbs on the power of big agricultural cooperatives as a means of fighting the high price of food. The report already has been criticized by the House panel's members, some of whom represent rural districts. Chairman Rep. H. John Heinz III, the Pittsburgh pickle heir, said his task force discussed the report Wednesday and found it premature and in need of further study.

"It does not represent the position or views of the task force," he said, stressing that the report had not been intended for publication.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the confidential report Thursday. Among its recommendations:

—A ban to keep corporations that process food from joining farmer-style cooperatives, which enjoy certain antitrust exemptions. This might force liquidation of one big co-op that already controls half the chickens sold in the United States.

—An amendment to allow the Justice Department to go to court to prevent mergers of farmer cooperatives into giants such as the three dairy co-ops that control 25 per cent of the nation's milk. Under current law, co-ops legally may grow to any size if they avoid predatory methods.

—Study of an idea to discourage expensive advertising of brand-name foods through tax laws. The report said such advertising tends to discourage competing new brands from entering the market.

—Freedom for independent supermarkets to join cooperatives to produce their own low-priced house brands, such as those sold by chain supermarkets.

—More democratic arrangements for farmers in voting on federally regulated markets for milk, fruit and vegetables. Co-op managers presently are able to cast bloc votes for all their members, even if a majority disagrees with the manager's position.

The Heinz committee, called the Republican Task Force on Antitrust and Monopoly Problems, seeks to fight inflation by fostering competition and avoiding wage and price controls.

Heinz said he is not repudiating the staff's report on the food industry, which was based on several days of hearings held a few weeks ago, but he said the panel has not adopted it. "We did not feel we had all the facts," he said.

Added Concern Over Italian Govm't Crisis

By ENRICO JACOMINI
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — The collapse of Italy's 36th government since World War II is causing more concern than usual because no new coalition capable of coping with the grave economic crisis seems possible without Communist participation.

The long-simmering question of a role for the Communists in the government was a major factor in the collapse Thursday of the center-left coalition headed by Premier Mariano Rumor.

The Italian Communist party is the largest in the West, the second largest party in Italy. It gets one out of every four votes in national elections and controls the powerful General Confederation of Labor. It also controls the city government in Bologna and several other municipalities.

Rumor's Christian Democrats, Italy's dominant party since World War II, have steadfastly rejected the Communists' demands for inclusion in the government. But the Socialists, the second largest party in the ruling coalition, have increasingly supported the Communist demand, and their battles with the Christian Democrats crippled the government.

The new crisis raised fears in Western capitals that admission of the Communists to the government might be the only alternative to government paralysis and economic collapse. The United States and other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization feared that once in the government, the Communists would try to pull Italy out of NATO.

Italy's importance to the alliance increased sharply when Greece, its eastern neighbor, pulled its forces out of NATO because of the Cyprus crisis last summer.

For the past 20 years, Italians generally have remained indifferent as their government changed at a rate of more than once a year. But this is the third cabinet collapse this year, and it comes as inflation rages at more than 20 per cent and the foreign trade deficit regularly tops $1 billion a month.

Farmville Mart Had Good Day

FARMVILLE—Prices yesterday were the highest of the season on the Farmville Tobacco Market. Quality grades of leaf and cutters continued to advance.

Top price paid for leaf grades was a $1.25 per pound. Top practical price paid was $1.15 per pound.

Leaf and smoking leaf continued to account for most of the sales. Primings increased in volume as compared with previous sales days this week.

The market sold 388,637 pounds of tobacco for $443,196, giving an average of $114.04 per hundred pounds.

To date, the market has sold 22,424,013 pounds for $23,436,869 for a season average of $104.52 per hundred pounds.

Pitt Native Headliner In 5-Hour Concert

Headlining a special Soul-Rock Concert is Farmville native, now of New York, Milt Matthews with his latest sound "All These Changes." The five hour show, which begins at 1 p.m. tomorrow will also feature the Wooten Brothers of Newport News, Virginia and The Group Justice from Washington, D.C.

The concert will be held outside in Guy Smith Stadium from 1-6 p.m. Saturday. In case of rain it will move inside to West Greenville Recreation Center (the old Eppes High School Gym). Tickets to this special event are $3 at the gate.

Edmisten And Auditor Confer On Tax Issue

RALEIGH (AP)—Attorneys and accountants representing Democratic candidate for attorney general Rufus Edmisten will confer with a State Department of Revenue auditor today in an effort to work out Edmisten's tangled state income tax situation.

In announcing the meeting Thursday, Revenue Secretary J. Howard Coble said the department was considering ways of settling the case without criminal prosecution of the Democratic candidate.

Edmisten's state income taxes got into the news last week when he admitted during a question-and-answer session at Chapel Hill that he did not file a North Carolina income tax return during the 10 years he worked as an aide to Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., in Washington. He said that he paid income taxes to the state of Virginia because he lived in Arlington, Va., even though he claimed North Carolina as his legal residence.

Atty. Gen. James Carson, Edmisten's Republican opponent, immediately charged that Edmisten was liable to criminal and civil prosecution because he should have filed North Carolina income tax returns and should have deducted what he paid in Virginia from his North Carolina taxes.

Coble said in a statement, "In the event that Edmisten appears guilty of having committed fraud in failing to file returns with the North Carolina Department of Revenue, he could be assessed for delinquent taxes for the past 10 years. If Edmisten is guilty of having failed to file tax returns without committing fraud, the North Carolina Department of Revenue will assess him for delinquent taxes for the past five years. Edmisten will also be assessed late filing penalties as required by law."

Frost Damage

WINSTON SALEM, N.C. (AP)—Freezing temperatures and frost caused heavy damage to flue-cured tobacco crops in the Winston-Salem area, agriculture officials said Thursday.

Damage estimates ran as high as $100,000 in the 500 acres which county extension agents said had been damaged.

The crop in Forsyth, Stokes and Yadkin counties had been late in maturing this year because of long, dry periods in June and July.

Interior Design Course Slated

"Interior Design for the Home," a non-credit Tuesday evening course, will be offered by East Carolina University's Division of Continuing Education beginning October 22 and running for eight consecutive sessions.

The course will include lectures and demonstrations on such topics as basic principles of design and color; good and bad planning of space; selection and use of furniture, fabrics, accessories, wall and window treatments and floor coverings; and other subjects relating to home interiors.

The course is open to all persons who are interested in learning more about how to improve their home surroundings.

ECU graduate student Ora Shaw, formerly a Greensboro interior designer, will instruct the course.

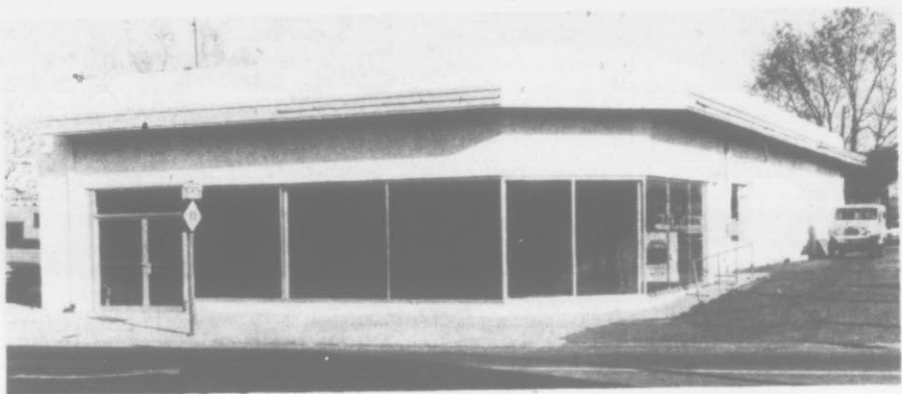

Since class size is limited to 20 persons, early registration is advised. Further information and registration materials are available from the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville.

Twenty Acts In Tonight's Talent Show

The Talent Show to be held tonight at the Rose High School Gym at 8 p.m. will feature 20 acts of wide variety according to Mrs. Libby Swinson, chairman of Talent Night. Each act will be between three and four minutes long.

"Charlie Huddle from WNCT will be our emcee," said Mrs. Swinson. "Everyone is invited. This is family entertainment and there is no admission charge."

One of the highlights of the evening will be Sandra and Billy Stinson singing "Every Road Leads to Greenville" with words and music by Billy Stinson, and accepted by the Greenville "200" committee as the city's Bicentennial Song.

FOR SALE BY SEALED BIDS

This attractive store and lot located in the heart of Bethel (at corner of N.C. 11 (Main Street) and U.S. 64 (Pleasant Street)) will be offered to the highest bidder for cash by sealed bids. Bucs Challenge State's High Ranking What's East Carolina University Coach Pat Dye doing to get his Pirates ready for tough N.C. State this weekend? Nothing!

"When you get beat 57-8 by a team, you don't need any incentive for the next meeting," he said.

Dye was referring to last year's season-opening game for both teams last year, when the Wolfpack snowballed the Pirates and left a lot of people wondering about what kind of a team East Carolina had.

The Pirates rebounded from that loss, however, and picked up nine victories in their next ten games, the only loss a one-point in a controversial game with North Carolina. They have added three more victories this year.

Over the past two and a third seasons, the Bucs have lost only four games, two each to Carolina and two each to State.

This weekend, they would like to get some measure of revenge. But the experts say that it will be the same this year as it was the past two—the Wolfpack should win by 18 to 20 points.

"They are the best executing team we've faced," ECU assistant Coach Wright Anderson said. "They do a good job of getting 11 people to all do the right thing at the right time."

Anderson said East Carolina's top defensive problems will revolve around just trying to figure out their offense. "They like to run the ball at you out of their veer, then suddenly pass the ball. Their passes come right off the run look, so it's awfully hard to figure out what they're going to do." Anderson said the veer and the wishbone are very similar, except that the flanker serves as the lead blocker on the outside plays, instead of the halfbacks. "This way, they can get more receivers downfield quicker," he said. And State has the personnel to move the ball effectively. "They can go inside to Stan Fritts (87 carries, 419 yards, 5 touchdowns) or they can give the ball to Roland Hooks (48 carries, 323 yards, 5 touchdowns) who can go anywhere. Both of them catch the pass too."

Anderson praised quarterback Dave Buckley as an outstanding athlete. "He's not a great quarterback, but he can do everything well and he has the uncanny ability to hurt you even when you think you've got him cornered." Buckley has connected on nearly 60 per cent of his 52 passes for 484 yards and five touchdowns.

On defense, Anderson feels the biggest problem the Bucs will have is the size of State's line. "They have two huge tackles and two real good inside linebackers. They all get the ball good. I don't believe they have the speed we have, but they have more size and strength and good experience everywhere."

Overall, Anderson rates State as an improved team over last year. "They're the best in the ACC both in offense and defense, and their ranking is higher than last year too."

The Wolfpack is averaging 449.3 yards a game in total offense, second best in the nation. They've scored over 30 points a game, and have held their opponents to considerably less—both in points and offense.

Coach Dye feels that the Pirates have put in a good week on the practice field, but he's not too worried about how they perform there. "We can't leave our game on the practice field," he said. "We have to be ready to play Saturday at 3:50."

The coach isn't passing this game off as just another one, however. "This game gives us a chance for the most prestige that East Carolina has ever had, noting State's ranking and the fact that it's being regionally telecast by ABC-TV."

"But we consider every game a big one for us. It's not the first big game we've been involved in, nor will it be the last."

Probably more than anything else, people have pointed to the lack of a passing attack by the Pirates as their number one problem. Should State be able to shut down the running game, and the Bucs be able to generate no passing, the entire load would be shifted to the defense to enable the Bucs to stay in the game.

"We've spent a great deal of time trying to improve the passing," Dye said. "And I think we've shown some this week."

He expects State to continue doing the same things it has done in its four previous games, all victories. "I don't believe that they are going to be taking us lightly, just as we aren't taking them that way. But I don't want us going up there with fire in our eyes. Too many times, those fires go out early, and you've got to play 60 minutes. I prefer determination rather than emotion."

If there is anything going for the Pirates, it may be in that State hasn't seen the wishbone offense in some time, and it might take them a while to adjust to it. And Dye also feels that the kicking game will be an important part of it too. "We can't give up the big play in our kicking game, and we've got to get the ball in good field position, and maybe come up with a big play of our own off the kick."

Some might say that the Pirates have nothing to lose and everything to gain in the game, but Dye doesn't believe that. "We have a lot to gain in the game, but Dye doesn't believe that. "We have a lot to gain, certainly," he said. "But we do have a lot to lose. We don't want to lose and we're not going up there with the idea that we are going to."

No doubt that it, it's a big game. Big for the Pirates in that a win could move their program a long ways. And big for State in that they have their national standing on the line.

Defensive Lineman Kenny Moore

Moore Helping Lead Stubborn Buc Defense

East Carolina University football fans were treated Saturday night to a football spectacle that has become quite uncommon in Ficklen Stadium: the Pirates fell behind, 13-0, to a visiting team.

The Pirates came back in the second half with eight points to win, 17-16, however, and the sighs of relief could be heard everywhere in the area. On the playing field, the Pirates felt the initial shock of falling behind, but as defensive tackle Kenny Moore said, "We felt like it was just a matter of time."

"Yes, it shocked us to start with," said Moore. "But then Coach Ruckert helped get the defense just fired up like you wouldn't believe. We knew we had to give it a super effort the rest of the way, and it finally came out the way it was supposed to."

The Pirates took the lead for the first time in the fourth quarter when quarterback Mike Weaver rolled to his left and scored on a keeper from four yards away. The extra-point was successful, and the scoreboard read 17-16, with 6:45 remaining.

Southern Illinois broke a 60-yard pass play on its next possession. But the Pirates'

"Wild Dog" defense stiffened, and following a bruising tackle in the SIU backfield by Moore, the Salukis had to settle for a field goal.

Moore said it was that type of play where "we worked as a unit" that keyed the Pirate defense in the second half.

"We made the plays we needed to in the second half working as a unit," said Moore. "But they gave us some problems with the passing game and they blocked to influence you away from the play."

Moore is a 6-2, 255-pound senior from Darrells, N.C. He was recruited originally as a fullback for the Pirates by former head coach Mike McGee. But, due to gaining "a lot of weight" he was switched to defensive tackle.

"Coach Randle (new head coach Sonny, who replaced McGee) said that he had Les Strayhorn to play fullback, but he wanted me to play somewhere," Moore said. "And I've been there ever since."

As a member of the "Wild Dog" defense that led the Southern Conference in statistical areas last season, Moore has been counted on as a leader. He was an honorable-mention all conference performer last season, and with the amount of experienced-performers rejoining Moore, the defensive team should be instrumental in the Pirates garnering post-season honors again.

Post-season honors are not on Moore's mind, and as he said, they "aren't on anybody else's mind, either."

"We're just trying to play this season one game at a time," said Moore. "Nothing else matters."

In that case, what matters most to the Pirates now is this week's contest with N.C. State. Both teams are undefeated going into the contest. Like on paper, Moore said the game should provide some "interesting matchups."

"I, as I am sure the rest of the team is, am looking forward to playing a nationally-ranked team," said Moore. "I think and hope we can give them a good game Saturday."

In 1973, the Wolfpack destroyed ECU by a 57-8 margin. The Pirates rebounded to win the Southern Conference championship, while N.C. State did the same in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Moore was hesitant, but did compare the 1973 team and this year's Pirate club.

"Offensively, we don't have the experience yet that we had last year," said Moore. "But on defense, we are much more physical, have more speed, size, and play together as a unit."

Defensive line coach Ben Grieb said Moore and running mate Buddy Lowery were "units" in themselves in the fourth quarter of the SIU game.

"Kenny caused a fumble, tackled the quarterback twice in the backfield and made the big plays when they were needed," said Grieb. "Buddy also, with five individual tackles and one sack of the quarterback, played extremely."

Grieb said, though, that despite all of Moore's physical attributes, his mental outlook is what makes him a great football player.

"He has a tremendous attitude and a strong desire to do well," said Grieb. "Without that, he wouldn't be as good."

Numbers Don't Phase Pirates

By ED PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirate slugger Bob Robertson had a prediction about the National League championship playoffs between his team and the Los Angeles Dodgers. At least he had a prediction about predictions.

"The sports writers are going to look at Los Angeles' record and our record and say we don't have a chance."

That record shows the Dodgers with 102 wins and 60 losses — the best in baseball this year — compiled in the tough NL West Division. The Pirates were 88-74 — the lowest total of victories by any first-place club — in the NL East where only one other team finished above .500.

Those numbers didn't phase Robertson, though.

"We beat them here and we beat them out there during the year. In a five-game series it's a dog-eat-dog situation and anything can happen."

In the regular season, the Pirates were 8-4 against the Dodgers, sweeping all six games in Pittsburgh and going 2-4 in Los Angeles. Against all clubs in the Western Division, Pittsburgh was 44-28, encountering much rougher sledding in the East with a 44-46 mark.

But there are some other numbers floating around that tend to favor the Dodgers. Take 19-9 and 20-6.

Those are the won-loss records of Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith, who will be starting the first two games for Los Angeles. Toss in their earned run averages of 3.22 and 2.59 and stack them up against their opponents on the mound.

Jerry Reuss, who had more triumphs than anyone on the Pirate staff with a 16-11 record, will carry a 3.50 ERA into the playoffs Saturday. Jim Rooker take a 15-11 record and a 2.77 ERA into Sunday's game.

Kickers Defeated

HARRISONBURG, Va. — Madison College rolled to a 5-0 victory over the East Carolina soccer team yesterday. It was the first defeat in three matches for the Pirates.

Details of the match were not made available to The Daily Reflector.

Further, Messersmith struck out 221 batters, second in the league, while Rooker led the Pirate staff with 139. So the numbers look like they favor Los Angeles.

That's on paper. On the field, there were some other numbers. Specifically, Sutton was 1-2 and Messersmith 1-1 against the Pirates. Reuss was 2-1 and Rooker 1-1 versus Los Angeles.

The numbers also show the different roads the clubs took in winning their division titles. Los Angeles got off to the best start in the majors and was able to coast through a late charge by the Cincinnati Reds. They won when necessary.

Pittsburgh got off to the worst start in the majors and climbed past five clubs to a September-long dogfight with St. Louis that went to the last day of the season. The Pirates, too, won when they had to.

The Dodgers, who arrived in town Thursday to rest up for a workout today, are in possession of their first division championship. Los Angeles' last pennant came in 1966, before the inauguration of division play.

Game time Saturday is 1:05 p.m., EDT, and the contest will be nationally televised on NBC. Sunday's game, starting at the same time, will not be carried by the network due to a football game.

Tuesday, the best-of-five series shifts to Los Angeles.

Rose High School's girls' tennis team split a pair of matches with New Bern High School yesterday.

The two teams met first to complete a match that had been halted in New Bern by rain. In that one, New Bern took a 6-3 victory.

But in the full match, the Rampants rebounded to take a 5-4 victory, advancing their record to 4-7 for the season.

The Rampants will next play host to Rocky Mount on Tuesday.

In exhibition doubles, Cooka Garret and Cassie Deyton of Rose downed Tiny Douglas and Rhonda Walston, 8-4; while Janet Fisher and Sally Augspurger of Rose beat Nan Holton and Linda Guetlin, 10-8.

Summary:
Ginger, Lancaster (NB) defeated Marty East, 6-1, 6-3.

Betty Jo Rhodes (NB) defeated Kitsy Bailey, 6-2, 6-3. Jill Carney (R) defeated Rene Barnwell, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

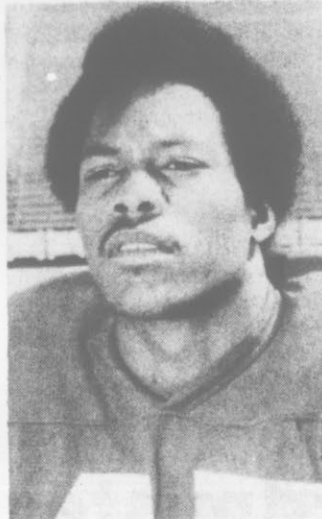

Serena Matney (R) defeated Shannon Blizard, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Robin Smith (R) defeated Donna Williford, 6-2, 7-5.

Sheri Augspurger (R) defeated Dail Dailey, 6-4, 6-3. Lancaster-Bjizzard (NB) defeated East-Matney, 9-7.

Rhodes-Barnwell (NB) defeated Catherine Garrett-Carney, 8-4.

Bailey-Peggy Barber (R) defeated Beth Pittman-Patty Pittman, 8-1.

Wolfpack, Rose Picked To Win

The pack did a little breaking up during the past week, but Tom Baines remained atop the totum pole — but his lead was cut in half.

George Holland continued to make up ground, and took over full control of second place in the standings. This week, he says, he's shooting for the top.

Baines holds the lead with a 28-8 record, while Holland is one back at 27-9. From there on, there are still no ties, but the gap widens.

Jack Whichard holds to third place with a 25-11 mark, while we are next with a 24-12 record. Diane Allen follows with 23-13, while Joe Jenkins continues, if nothing else, to be consistent (another 6-6 week) and an 18-18 slate.

There probably won't be that much change this week, since there is a lot of unanimity among the pickers—including one game that we did a little fixing on.

But more about that later. First, we'll take a look at the area high school games, where we now boast a 27-1 record.

Farmville Central travels to North Pitt, hoping to keep up its perfect record in the Eastern Carolina Conference. And, of course, they want to hold onto their share of the conference lead.

The Panthers have been showing a lot of improvement this year, but victory has eluded them. Farmville Central, unless it takes a great nose-dive, should come up with its fifth league win.

Conley goes over to Greene Central. The Rams are wanting to keep close to the Jaguars and Southern Wayne, while Conley is hoping to do the same. This could be a surprisingly tough game, but we'll go with Greene Central to pull out the victory.

Eastern Wayne will be visiting Ayden-Grifton. Eastern has put together a pair of wins in three league games, and could be a stronger team than anyone things. However, we'll look for Ayden-

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

Grifton to get it all together in this one and take the victory.

Lee Woodard is at Robersonville in an Eastern Plains Conference game. The Eagles are flying high after their big win over West Edgecombe, while Lee Woodard is flying high after winning two in a row (one in a row is somewhat of a miracle for them these days). But the Eagles, unless they take a victory for granted, should win it easily.

Now, we'll turn to our panel of prognosticators. Rose High School travels to meet tough Goldsboro. This is one that could easily be a tossup. Rose will have to play at their best to win their fifth in six games. Our panel has faith, however, and picked Rose to win it, by a 5-1 nod.

Then, the Pirates of East Carolina hit the road to N.C. State. We've all been with the Pirates down the line, but at this point, there has been a rash of deserters. In our hearts, of course, you know where our loyalty lies. But right here, it's a 5-1 nod for the Wolfpack.

Elsewhere, it'll be William & Mary over The Citadel; Richmond over Furman; Georgia over Clemson; Maryland over Syracuse; Georgia Tech over Virginia; Tennessee Tech over Appalachian State; VMI over Virginia Tech; Duke and Purdue a tossup; Pittsburgh over North Carolina; and Wake Forest over Oklahoma.

Now before you start laughing, let us explain. In order to make the Wake-Oklahoma pick something other than an automatic, we gave Wake 60 points, so those who pick Oklahoma must win by 61 to be right. So, here's the full poll:

Lot To Prove In Contest

North Carolina's football game with Pittsburgh on Saturday will be like a group therapy session: both teams should find out a lot about themselves.

The Tar Heels will find out if their heretofore rugged defense can contain the likes of Pitt's Tony Dorsett. And the 17th-ranked Panthers can see whether a couple of offensive shakeups will revive their attack.

North Carolina had allowed only seven points in two games, until Maryland tallied 24 points last Saturday in the Tar Heels' first loss.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh's offense sputtered out only 99 yards against Southern California last Saturday.

All seven Atlantic Coast Conference teams will face non-conference opponents Saturday. In other games, Maryland is at Syracuse; North Carolina State hosts East Carolina; Virginia is at Georgia Tech; Clemson entertains Georgia; Duke hosts Purdue; and Wake Forest is at Oklahoma.

Although Pitt's offense has not looked sharp, coach Johnny Majors is not ready for wholesale changes.

"We're not going to panic and make drastic changes," said Majors. "There are no east cures."

Majors is considering two offensive changes, however. First, he may move Pat Gleich from defensive tackle to the offensive line. Second, he plans to move guard T. Brozozza from the bench to the starting slot.

North Carolina's major defensive challenge will be stopping Dorsett, who lacks only six yards to become Pitt's first 2,000 yard rusher. Although he is only a sophomore, Dorsett is Pitt's leading all-time ground gainer. So far this season, he has tallied 308 yards in 69 carries.

North Carolina coach Bill Dooley says Dorsett may not be the biggest back in college football, but he is one of the fastest.

"And he hits the smallest hole because of tremendous balance," Dooley added.

Majors says he is impressed with North Carolina's aggressiveness.

"They're one of the most aggressive teams we'll play all year," he said. "They have quickness on their takeoffs and they'll come to you."

A victory would give the Tar Heels a psychological boost after the regionally-televized humiliation by Maryland.

Maryland's game with Syracuse will be the second time the Orangemen have faced an ACC club. Last Saturday, they lost to eighth-ranked N.C. State 28-22 after leading 14-7 in the first half.

The Duke-Purdue game will be a virtual rematch of last year's teams, since neither club was hard hit by graduations. However, Blue Devil players are hoping for a more favorable outcome. Duke lost last season 27-7.

"This team is tired of losing," said Duke defensive back Jeff Christoper. "Last year was a learning experience. We know now what it's like to lose, and I can say it's a lot more fun winning."

The Blue Devils also hope that Purdue might still be in the clouds after last Saturday's 31-20 upset over Notre Dame.

Glotzbach Leads In Second Day Qualifying

By RICHARD WATER
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Twelve more starting spots were up for grabs today for Sunday's National 500 stock car race at the Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Charlie Glotzbach led a dozen second-day qualifiers Thursday with a speed of 153.929 miles per hour in his Junie Don Layey Ford. His speed was nearly four mile per hour slower than David Pearson, who won pole position Wednesday at a speed of 158.749 m.p.h. in a Mercury.

Rookie Jackie Rogers had the second-fastest time of the day with a speed of 153.645 in his Chevrolet.

Forty cars will participate in the $161,877 five-hundred-mile race over the 1.5-mile super-speedway.

The roster of 62 drivers who have entered the race looks like a "who's who" in racing.

Three-time Indianapolis winner A.J. Foyt, current Indy champion Johnny Rutherford, Wally Dallenbach, Raymo Stott and Ron Keselowski from the U.S. Auto Club ranks will join National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) regulars Richard Petty, Cale Yarborough, Buddy Baker, Bobby Allison and Pearson.

Foyt made the best showing among his fellow USAC drivers, qualifying sixth in a Chevrolet. Stott, also in a Chevrolet, qualified 12th.

Rutherford, driving another Chevrolet, had the 17th best time and Dodge drivers Keselowski and Dallenbach qualified 21st and 22nd, respectively.

The National 500 also has attracted several rookie drivers, including Harry Jefferson of Naches, Wash., who will be making his debut on a super-speedway. Jefferson wheeled a Holman-Moody Ford, rebuilt by Hutchinson Pagan, around the track at 153.540 to earn the eleventh-fastest time.

"I've always wanted to take a look at the major league of stock car racing. I had to come here and pick up the car. So I thought while I was in Charlotte I would run the National 500, run Rockingham and then catch the Ontario race back home," the 27-year-old Jefferson said.

'Must Game' For Indians

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer

William and Mary Coach Jim Root calls Saturday's Southern Conference football encounter at home against The Citadel's Bulldogs "a must game . . . we've simply got to have it."

Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel says just about the same thing. "We need a win badly, and we need to start this week. We're not out of the conference race."

But either The Citadel, 0-1 in the league and 1-2 over-all, or the Indians, also 0-1 in the conference and 1-3 over-all, could be out of contention by Saturday night.

Another crucial league game is scheduled under the lights with Richmond's Spiders, 1-0 and 3-0, playing host to Furman's Paladins, 1-1 and 2-1, for whom a victory is almost as much a necessity as for William and Mary and The Citadel.

"We're still a young team," says Furman Coach Art Baker. "We've got some good young kids, but lack of experience still hurts us."

After being upset 7-0 in its opening game by Virginia Military's Keydets, Furman bounced back to edge Presbyterian 22-19 and shut out William and Mary 10-0, but Baker still isn't sure what kind of team he has this season.

"I guess we won't find out until we get to Richmond Saturday night," says Baker.

Richmond has had to come from behind in each of its three games—13-0 against Villanova and West Virginia and 17-7 against The Citadel—and Coach Jim Tait admits, "I'd kinda like to see how we play in front."

As for Furman, Tait says, "If they beat William and Mary, they have a fine football team. Art Baker has done a fine job. We'll have to play well to beat them."

A victory would move Richmond into a tie with VMI for the conference lead.

Two nonleague games are scheduled Saturday afternoon, while Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 3-1, go to Tennessee Tech for a noncounting game Saturday night.

East Carolina's two-time champion Pirates, 3-0, go to two-time Atlantic Coast Conference champion N. C. State, 4-0, for a regionally televised scrap and VMI, 2-1, takes on Virginia Tech's Gobblers, 0-3, in Richmond's Tobacco Festival game in the afternoon.

Although Virginia Tech still is winless under new Coach Jimmy Sharpe, VMI Coach Bob Thalman says, "Tech has a much better team than they had a year ago. It's always the biggest game of the year for our players. . . . We have tremendous respect for VPI and Coach Sharpe."

At the same time, Thalman says, "I promised improvement and I think we have improvement. We have been doing a lot of things well."

Sharpe says, "Nothing is going to come to us without much difficulty, but we're not pulling up our dresses and running to the house."

"The attitude is great. Our performance has to get much better, but as long as they're trying for all they're worth, that's all we can ask."

Despite three straight victories against nonleague opposition, East Carolina Coach Pat Dye is unhappy with his aerial attack, which has been all but nonexistent—the Pirates were blanked in the air in two of their three starts.

Goldsboro Wins, 8-0

Goldsboro High School's junior varsity took advantage of a couple of early Rose High School mistakes to take an 8-0 victory yesterday.

The loss was the second for the Rampant Cubs, who have also won two.

Early in the first period of play, Goldsboro picked up a safety for a two-point lead. Then, on the free kick which followed, Ronnie Roberson ran it all the way back for the game's only touchdown.

From that point, it settled into a defensive game. Goldsboro never offered another threat. Rose moved inside the 10 yard line late in the fourth quarter, but was unable to keep the drive alive, giving up the ball on downs.

Rose will play host to Rocky Mount next Thursday.

Goldsboro 8 . 0 . 0 . 0 — 8

"I'm very dissatisfied with the passing game," says Dye. "We get people open and they drop the ball. Something has to break."

It's unlikely the Pirates can rely solely on their ground game and defense against eighth-ranked N. C. State, which rolled up a 57-8 victory over East Carolina in the opener for both last year.

Wilson Is Tops

RED OAK—Wilson High School continued to dominate the cross-country scene in the area, gaining a sweep in a five-way meet held at Northern Nash High School yesterday.

Wilson finished the meet with the minimum 15 points, while the hosting Knights were second with 65. South Edgecombe finished with 83, followed by Rocky Mount with 103 and Rose High School with 122.

The Rampants, the defending conference champions, have not won a meet this year, and did not place a runner in the top ten finishers.

South Lenoir, Bertie and Rocky Mount are scheduled to visit Rose on Monday.

Summary of the top ten finishers: John Goforth (W) 12:02; Jay Newton (W) 12:03; Gary Lucas (W) 12:20; Russell Weiriden (W) 12:22; S. Broadhurst (W) 12:30; Ira Miller (NN) 12:32; Lee Tolar (RM) 12:37; Jay Jones (NN) 12:44; R. Harris (NN) 12:45; J. Deloatch (SE) 12:48.

Rose finishers included Ricky Reese, 16th in 13:15; Marvin Roberson, 20th in 13:35; Jimmy Peszko, 27th in 13:53; Melvin Roberson, 29th in 13:55; and Jimmy Davis, 30th in 13:57.

Homebuyers Trying To Dodge High Interest

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Homebuyers are trying to find ways of evading the high-interest money market, but tight money is still crippling the housing industry, a leading

North Carolina realtor said Thursday.

Thomas R. Lawing of Charlotte, president of the North Carolina Association of Realtors, blamed fiscal irresponsibility for record high interest rates which "have dried up the funds available to potential home buyers."

Lawing said buyers were turning to existing homes and using three methods to dodge new, high-interest mortgages.

He said families were buying homes whose mortgage was held by the seller. In this case the buyer would pay a 10 to 15 per cent downpayment and make monthly payments directly to the seller.

Families are also assuming existing loans, usually at lower interest rates than are available now, and paying the seller for his equity.

They sometimes use a second mortgage held by the seller, Lawing said.

But in discussing the mortgage market during the 53rd annual state realtors convention, Lawing said the government should take steps to relieve the tight money market.

The government's failure to take quick action will "break the back of the economy," he warned.

He suggested allowing savings and loan companies to better compete for investments by offering an investors credit program. He said such a program would be simple to start and administer. "People could simply deduct from their income tax at the end of the year," he said.

The realtor explained that savings and loan associations currently have less cash to lend because their investors have switched to treasury bonds, which carry a higher interest rate.

Another On Death Row

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A young Wilmington man has been sentenced to death for raping the wife of a New Hanover County narcotics agent.

Larry Bernard, 18, received the sentence Thursday in New Hanover Superior Court after a jury returned guilty verdicts on charges of rape, kidnapping, armed robbery and auto theft.

First degree rape carries a mandatory death sentence. Under state law, death sentences are automatically appealed.

It was Bernard's second trial on the rape charge. The first ended in a mistrial after a juror began shouting during the emotionally-charged summations.

The agent's wife said she was kidnapped at knifepoint from a Wilmington shopping center Nov. 30. She testified that she was driven to a wooded area, tied to a tree and raped.

Bernard was arrested in the victim's car.

An all-white jury of eight women and four men deliberated less than two hours before returning the verdict. Bernard is black.

The bidding:

South West North East
 1♥ Pass 3♥ Pass
 4♦ Pass 4♦ Pass
 6♥ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♦.

Declarer overlooked an important preliminary step in his plan of action and went down in a six heart contract because of unlucky distribution.

When North made a jump raise of his partner's opening bid, South immediately became interested in slam. Since it would not help him to find out how many aces his partner held—he was interested in which ace—South launched a cue-bidding sequence. North's cue-bid, showing first-round control in diamonds, was all the inducement South needed to leap to slam.

West led the ace of clubs, and dummy was a pleasing sight. Barring unfortunate splits in the red suits, it seemed that declarer would be taking a spade finesse for an overtrick. He ruffed the opening lead, laid down the ace of hearts and got the bad news that he had a certain trump loser. Suddenly, he was faced with the proposition of bringing in both the spade and diamond suits without a loser if he were to make his slam.

Since he could guard against a 4-1 diamond division if East held the length in that suit, declarer tackled the diamonds in the right way. After cashing the king of hearts, he led a diamond to the king and another toward the ace. West found the best defense—he ruffed the diamond and exited with a club, forcing declarer to ruff. South now had to rely on the spade finesse, and when that lost he was down one.

South could have improved on his play slightly, and thereby made the contract. After cashing the ace and king of trumps, he should immediately ruff dummy's remaining club. Now he cashes the king of diamonds and leads a diamond toward the ace. It no longer helps West to ruff, so declarer continues by taking the ace and finessing the ten of diamonds. All that remains is to throw West on lead with his trump trick. With nothing in his hand but black cards, West is left with a choice of evils—he can either return a club, giving declarer a ruff and sluff, or lead a spade into declarer's ace-jack tenace. Either way, declarer ends up with no loser in spades.

North Pitt School News

By GENEVA HOLDER
Annuals are now on sale. They are $8.32 if paid all at once. If a deposit is made, the price is $4.50 now, the balance when they come in May.

Students can buy annuals during homeroom or lunch periods, but only annual staff members are handling sales. Seniors who wish to have their names on their annuals should add $.52 to the price of the annual.

If students do not wish or cannot afford to buy an annual, they have two other choices. They may sell boosters, or they may enter the contest to name the school newspaper.

This week, North Pitt Notes features two teachers, Mrs. Rejeanor Scott and Robert Martin.

Mrs. Scott, a native of Edgecombe County, attended South Edgecombe High School. She attended East Carolina as an English major. She is now working on her Master's in English.

Mrs. Scott and her husband, Sidney Scott, live in Penny Hill with their 5 year old daughter, Alexis. Mr. Scott works for a tobacco company.

Mrs. Scott enjoys reading and cooking. She also enjoys working in her vegetable and flower gardens.

Mr. Martin was born in Martinsville, Va. He attended Fieldale High School in Fieldale just a few miles from Martinsville. He attended a junior college for one year then attended East Carolina as a history major. He teaches history courses at North Pitt.

Mr. Martin and his wife, Jennifer, live in Greenville. Mrs. Martin is a teller at NCNB in Greenville.

Mr. Martin enjoys sports, music, movies, and working on his car.

For all girls interested in playing with the Pant-Hers this year, basketball practices begin October 15 with Coach Peggy Taylor.

Mr. Miller is hoping that many students will join the band. This is North Pitt's first attempt at an instrumental band and Mr. Miller is doing a great job getting things organized.

The junior council has been meeting to discuss the Junior-Senior prom and some money-raising projects. Presidents Pat Morris and Florida Daniels say that plans are indefinite. Junior class sponsors are Mrs. Lucas and Mrs. Wall.

The Honor Society met in the auditorium fifth period Thursday. President Linda Mayo called the meeting to order.

It was decided that all members should pay their dues to John Pritchard or Pamela Short by October 25.

The regular meetings will be held the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. A trip committee, a constitution committee, a service project committee, and a money-raising committee were formed.

North Pitt has four exhibit booths in the Pitt County Fair.

Cub Scout Pow Wow Scheduled On Saturday

"Fun, knowhow, and inspiration" is the theme of this year's East Carolina Cub Scout Pow Wow to be held Saturday at Red Oak Christian Church near here.

The Pow Wow is an annual meeting of Cub Scout leaders from all sections of the East Carolina Council of B.S.A.

The general chairman of the Pow Wow is Claude Moore of Greenville, who is assisted by John Dixon of Wilson. Training personnel include Ron Keen in ceremonies; Floyd Wulfeck in den chief training; Marie Hardy and Barbara Mercer in crafts; Sherry Wilson and Ann Martin in skits and puppets; and Marie Endicott in games.

Registration is at 9:30 a.m., with the training sessions opening at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

Lunch will be served by the ladies of the church. The fee is $1, and all persons interested in Cub Scouting are invited.

Plantnappers Take Anything

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco has produced a new type of criminal — plantnappers.

Police say these people have taken to swiping everything from 10-foot palms to finger-size succulents.

Plantnappers are apparently folks of all ages who are caught up in the enormous gardening fad. They fill out their home collections with plants stolen from botanical gardens, corner parks, highway medians and even bars.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Raleigh corn and soybeans were stronger and oats and barley steady at North Carolina's leading grain markets Thursday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 3.40-3.65, mostly 3.40-3.50 in the East and 3.25-3.42 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans were 8.76-9.31. No. 2 red oats 1.60-1.70, barley 1.70-2.25.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were weaker Wednesday. Supplies were adequate and demand was generally good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs delivered in cartons to nearby outlets: Grade A large white 68.78, medium whites 65.40, small whites 45.25.

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina hog markets' today are steady to .50 higher with tops of 37.25-38.25 at Kinston; 37.00-37.50 Rocky Mount; 36.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—FOB dock broilers: Market stronger, supplies about adequate, demand good, weights mostly desirable. Average price 41.26. Estimated slaughter today 854,000.

Hens: Market steady on heavy type, supplies short, demand good. Too few sources reporting to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market remained on a downward course today, drawing little encouragement from a prime-rate cut by the nation's two largest banks.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 8.06 at 579.55, and losers outnumbered gainers by 2-to-1 in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Monte Gordon at Dreyfus Corp. said the market's lack of response to prime-rate reductions by New York's First National City Bank and San Francisco's Bank of America demonstrated that investors had turned the focus of their attention of late to other worries, notably the world oil situation.

Gordon defined the dominant mood as "fear and pessimism concerning the outlook for the world economy."

In Washington today, Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani asserted that oil conservation measures of consuming nations by themselves "will never put real pressure" on the exporting countries. He called for talks between the consuming countries and the producing ones on the oil price and supply situation and its economic effects.

An added drag on the market was this morning's report of a surge in unemployment last month, brokers noted.

Consolidated Foods was the most-active NYSE issue, up 1/4 at 11 1/4. A 142,300-share block moved at 10 3/4.

Concentrated selling showed up again in several of the top-rank blue-chip and glamor issues, which have been leading the way in the market's latest decline.

Du Pont was down 2 1/2 to 95 3/4. Sears, Roebuck fell 2 1/4 to 45 3/4, and Eastman Kodak lost 1 1/2 to 61 1/4.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index was down .30 at 32.59. On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index eased .11 to 60.97.

Syntax slipped 1/4 to 30 among the actives on the Amex.

Found Body In Roadside Canal

EDENTON, N.C. (AP)—The body of a Portsmouth, Va., man was found Thursday in a canal along state road 37 on the Chowan-Perquimans county line.

Sheriff's deputies identified the man as Joseph O'Shields, 66.

Officers said there was no indication of how long the man had been dead or how he died. The body was badly decomposed, officers said.

Apparently Died At Wheel

Lonnie Whitfield Brown, 57, of 700 Church St. died last night, apparently the result of a cardiac arrest.

Police investigators said Brown was driving his truck along Gum Road about 10:30 p.m. when he passed out. The vehicle collided with a utility pole, causing an estimated $1,000 to the truck and $500 damage to the pole.

He was dead on arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Two passengers in the vehicle, according to Police, were injured in the crash.

Pastor To Give Farewell Talk

Jury Rules Not Guilty

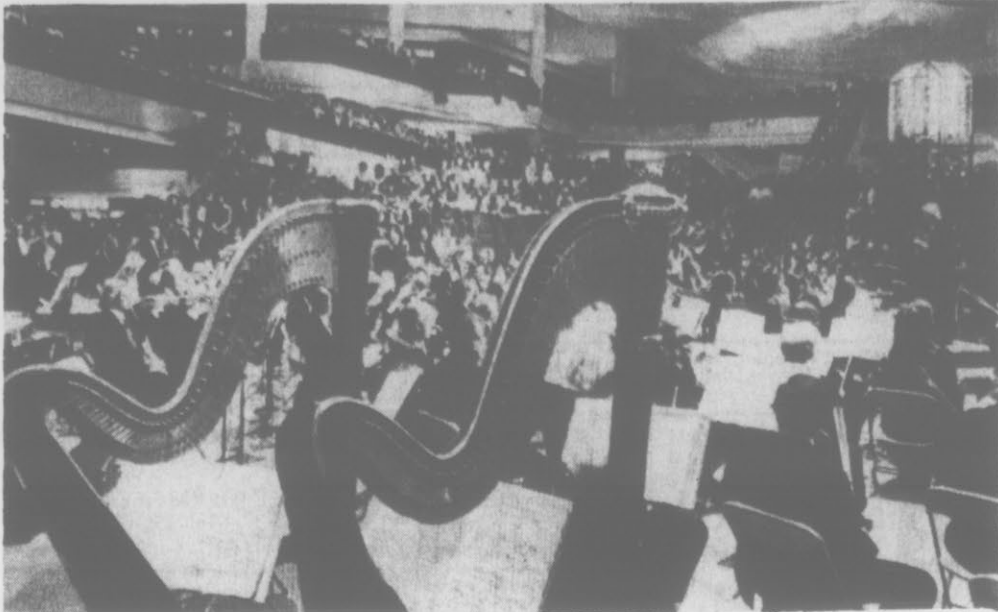

A Pitt County Superior Court jury yesterday found Robert Hawley of 108 Josie La. not guilty of carnal knowledge charges brought against him Monday when the Pitt County Grand Jury returned a true bill of indictment against the businessman.

Hawley, who operates the Stokes Antique and Auction House at Stokes was charged with rape after an alleged assault of a 14-year-old Pitt County girl in the rear room of his business July 16.

Monday, the Grand Jury returned a true bill of indictment charging Hawley with carnal knowledge of the girl.

The jury, composed of six men and six women yesterday found Hawley not guilty of the carnal knowledge charge.

The charge of rape against the 44-year-old businessman is still pending.

WOODFIELD WELCOME—The Chicago Symphony Orchestra performs for an estimated 30,000 people in the Grand Court of the Woodfield Mall shopping center in Schaumburg, Ill., northwest of Chicago. The symphony had just returned from a European tour and performed the free concert to celebrate their return. Crowds jammed the pedestrian bridges and stairways in the three-story mall. (AP Wirephoto)

Town Overrun By North Viets

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A North Vietnamese force overran a South Vietnamese district town in the central highlands Thursday after the garrison fled under a 9,000-round artillery barrage, military sources said today.

Hundreds of soldiers and civilians were reported missing after the attack Thursday on Chuong Nghia, 265 miles north-east of Saigon. Much of the military base in the town was reported destroyed.

About 500 soldiers and 2,200 civilians were in the town at the time of the attack. The sources said about 360 soldiers escaped and were trying to establish a new position, but the rest were killed, wounded or missing.

Casualties among the civilians were said to be high also. Chuong Nghia was the third district town to fall in recent months in the highlands as the North Vietnamese seek to expand their highway network across South Vietnam from the Cambodian and Laotian borders to the coast.

In Saigon, 50 Buddhist nuns held a rally in the central market to demand the release of political prisoners and President Nguyen Van Thieu's resignation.

In Cambodia, the Khmer Rouge rebels drove an estimated 300 government troops from the ruins of the Bakor, Bakong and Loley temples at Angkor. Military sources said seven government soldiers were killed and 40 wounded. It

Patients To Pay More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning Jan. 1, the 23.5 million persons covered by Medicare will have to pay 9.5 per cent more in out-of-pocket hospitalization expenses because of inflation.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, announcing the new schedule Thursday, said each Medicare patient checking into a hospital will have to pay the first $92 of expenses, compared with the current $84.

Should the hospital stay exceed two months, the patient will pay $23 a day for the 61st through the 90th days, $2 more than at present.

If the person enters a skilled nursing home following hospitalization, he or she will pay $11.50 a day for the 21st through the 100th days, a $1 increase.

The daily out-of-pocket expense rises from the present $40 to $46 if the patient draws upon his once-only reserve of 60 hospital days.

HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said the increases, based on current hospital costs, are required by the Social Security Law.

Driver Charged In Early Hours

Billy Wayne Owens of Route 8, Greenville was charged with driving under the influence, failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident and public drunkenness following investigation of a 2 a.m. mishap on Fifth Street 78 feet East of the Ash Street intersection.

Investigators reported the Owens car collided with a parked vehicle owned by John Marvin Aldridge of 905 East Fourth St. causing an estimated $1,500 damage to the Owens car and $900 damage to the Aldridge auto.

Owens was reported injured in the collision.
