Anti-Inflation Strategy To Be Submitted Tuesday

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is reported ready to recommend an income tax surcharge on corporations and upper income individuals as part of his anti-inflation program.

The President spent much of Sunday working on the package of proposals he will outline to Congress and the nation in a nationally televised and broadcast address from Capitol Hill at 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

White House spokesmen said Ford has settled on more than a dozen specific proposals, centering on problems with food and energy prices, the depressed housing industry and record high interest rates.

Administration sources said they expect the income tax surcharge to be among the President's recommendations. According to Time magazine, Ford is ready to seek a 5 per cent surtax on corporations as well as individuals in the higher income tax brackets.

Time said the surcharge "probably" would be on individual incomes of $7,500 and above and on family incomes of $15,000 and above.

The President, asked about the magazine report as he left Bethesda Naval Hospital after visiting his wife Sunday night, said "I make no comments on what we're going to talk about on Tuesday."

Administration sources acknowledged the 5 per cent surtax had been discussed at high level economic meetings.

It probably would be coupled with tax reductions for those in lower income brackets who are hit hard by inflation, the sources said. The surtax presumably would apply against taxes paid — not the full income of an individual or a corporation — but details were scanty as

Ford put the final touches on his major economic address. The President's proposals on housing are expected to include a recommendation for tax exemptions to encourage the flow of savings into financial institutions for use as mortgage loans. The housing industry is in its deepest slump ever because of tight money and high interest rates. After the Sunday meeting, White House press secretary Ron Nessen turned aside questions on the President's tax plans. But he said the President's program "calls for sacrifices" by the public, industry and government. "Sacrifices will be asked but there also will be proposals to make the sacrifices equitable so everyone bears his just share," Nessen said.

County Board Asked To Hire Additional Jailers

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners this morning heard a request from a group of Greenville citizens asking that the number of jailers on duty at the Pitt County Jail be increased in order to improve security conditions and allow more time for relatives to visit prisoners.

John Grier, prime spokesman for the group, told Commissioners he has talked with Sheriff Ralph Tyson about increasing the jail staff. According to Grier, the sheriff "felt like he didn't have enough funds to hire extra jailers. We're requesting funds to hire additional jailers."

The jail facilities are excellent, Grier told the board, but "if they had more men, there could be more visiting... and better security."

Board Chairman Bob Martin, commenting on Grier's request told the spokesman, "it's the sheriff's responsibility to operate the jail, and he hasn't asked for additional men... he has made no request to us. And as far as visiting hours... it's up to him to resolve."

Commissioner Charles Gaskins said "this board doesn't want to go over the sheriff's head. He sure ought to be here to hear these folks talk."

Noting that the operation of the jail is "within the domain and authority of the sheriff," Gaskins said the board would "work with the sheriff... relate to him what these folks have been saying..." and "help him correct it."

County manager Reginald Gray noted that "funds for an extra worker... a cookmatron, were appropriated by the board in the current year's budget, but the worker 'has not been hired yet.'"

In addition to Grier, Mrs. Danny Jacobson read a letter from Rhea Resnik, president of the League of Women Voters supporting the request for additional jail personnel.

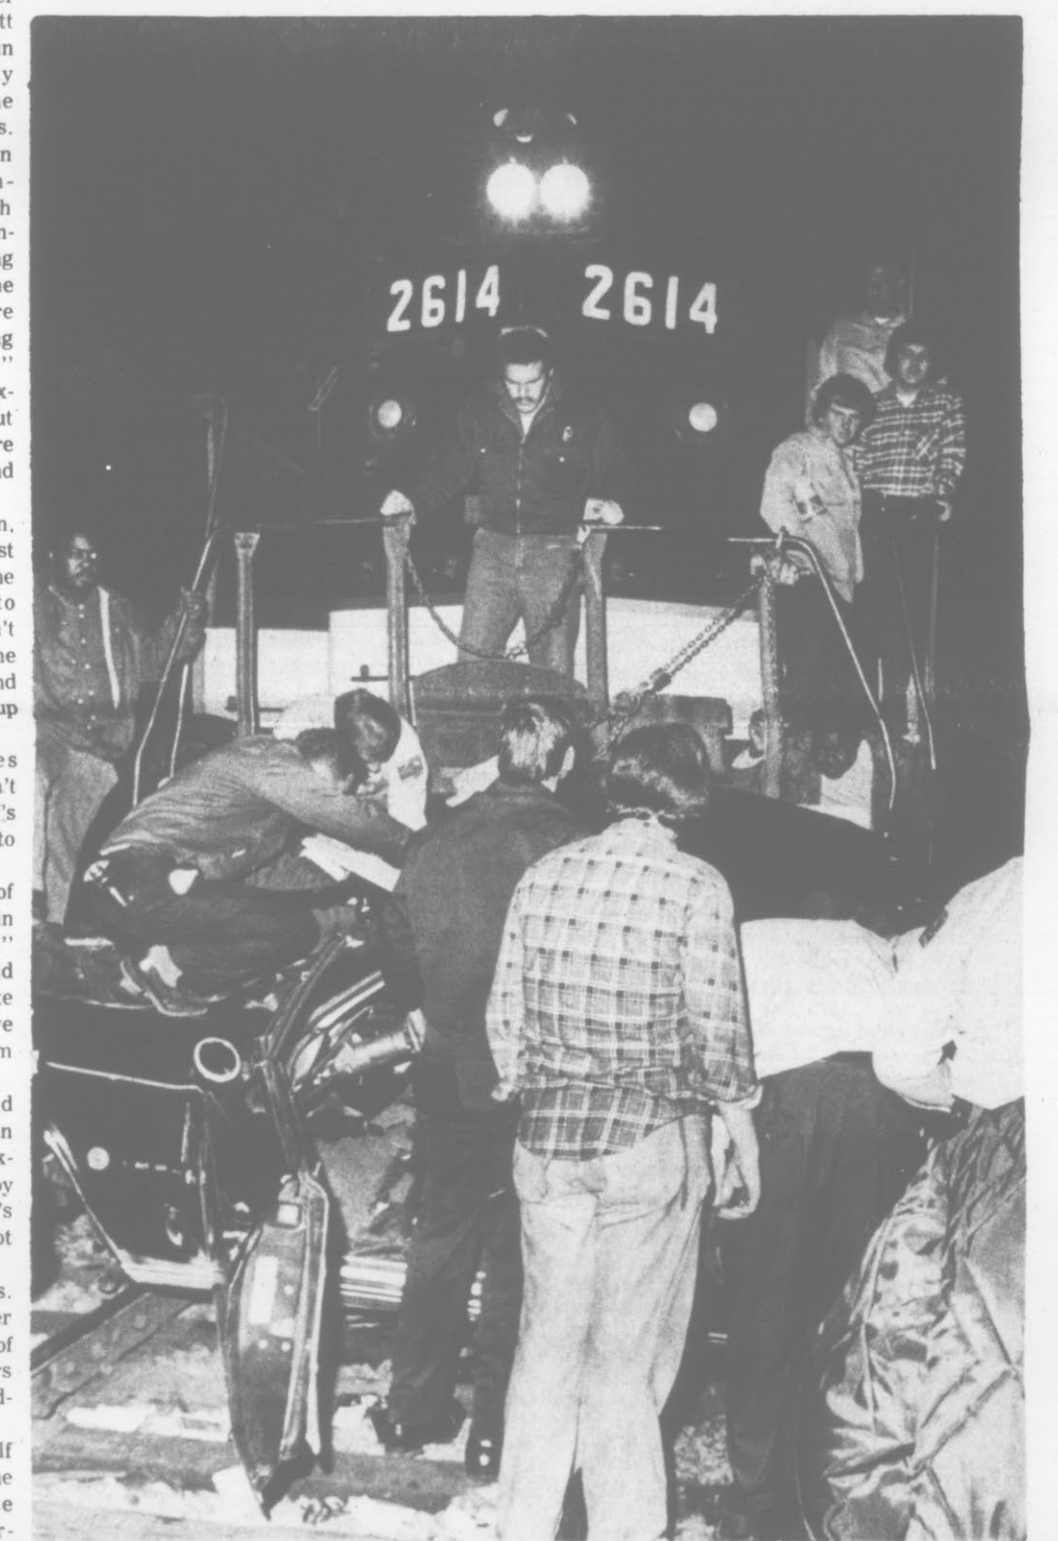

Mrs. Resnik's letter, on behalf of the LWV, suggested the commissioners "appropriate monies" for additional personnel, citing their "particular concern" over the fact that there "is no matron on duty at night or on weekends to be of help to juveniles..."

In other business this morning, Commissioners approved a re-subdivision of the Cherry Oaks subdivision upon recommendation of the county Planning Board; approved a joint resolution by the county and City of Greenville planning bodies requesting improvements to the Statonsburg Road, and N.C. 43 as well as rural road 1267 in the area of the new hospital; and approved changes in the hours of operation of the county land fill from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday beginning October 28 when Eastern Standard Time will be in effect once more. The county board also approved an increase in com-ensation for the chairman of the Planning Board, from $15 per meeting to $25 per meeting. (Continued on page 6)

GRIMESLAND—George Sylvester Carter, 18, of Grimesland died in Pitt Memorial Hospital early Sunday of injuries he received when the car in which he riding collided with a train here about 11:50 p.m. Saturday. Police Chief John Farr identified the driver of the car in which Carter was a passenger as Johnny Ray Wilson, 22, of Route 2, Ayden. According to the police of (Continued on Page 6)

Flags Stolen

Only three flags are flying over the Town Commons now... the Stars and Stripes, the North Carolina State Flag, and the City of Greenville banner.

Three of the six flags presented to the city by Pitt County Historical Society in ceremonies Friday afternoon officially opening the city's bicentennial celebration were stolen sometime late Saturday night, or Sunday morning.

Greenville police said the British Colonial Flag, the Grand Union Flag and the Confederate Battle Flag were taken by thieves after 11:25 p.m. Saturday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers checked the flag poles at 11:25 Saturday and the flags were still flying. They were reported missing from their poles at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Revive Greenville-Washington 4-Laning

The much-discussed Greenville to Washington four-lane project has been reinstated in the seven-year road plan of the N.C. Department of Transportation.

A spokesman in the department's Raleigh headquarters said today that the action, affecting the 1974-81 state highway improvements program, was taken on Friday at the Board of Transportation's regular meeting.

The spokesman said that the 14-mile project, involving a widening of the existing two lane N.C. 30 roadway to a divided four-lane section, is scheduled to go to right-of-way acquisition in 1981.

Estimated project cost is set at $11 million, it was pointed out.

The Greenville to Washington highway project had been in doubt since it was removed earlier from the state's schedule plan of improvement projects.

A 3.656 mile section of N.C. 30 from the Eastern Bypass to a point just east of Secondary Road 1534 (Tripp's Crossroads) is already scheduled for four-laning with a bid opening set for Oct. 22 in Raleigh.

Charles Snell, division engineer here, said that the project will involve the addition of two west bound lanes along the present N.C. 30 two-lane. A median will also be included in the four-lane process, he noted.

Following the awarding of the low bid, which normally takes place soon after the bids are opened, the contractor usually has approximately 30 days in which to begin construction.

The Department of Transportation also announced that a Greene Street from Second to Dickinson Avenue improvement project has also been added to the highway improvement program.

City engineer Charles Holliday said that the project on Greene Street, which is on the State highway system, will involve the widening of the present street to a 40-foot back to back section with curb and gutter. A ten-foot sidewalk will also be constructed on both sides, he noted, with the exception of a short segment near Fourth Street where the sidewalk will narrow down to approximately five feet.

He added that the overall project would mean the widening of Greene from eight to ten feet. The present street is 32 feet wide in most sections but narrows to 30 feet in some segments.

A one-half mile project in Farmville involving N.C. 121 and U.S. 264 Business was also approved by the Department of Transportation on Friday. The project consists of removal and reconstruction of the existing roadway and installation of curb, gutter and drainage facilities.

Luther Hodges To Be Buried Tuesday

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—When former North Carolina Gov. Luther Hartwell Hodges died Sunday he was close to the soil, as he was when he was born. Hodges, the son of a tenant farmer, was working in the rose garden of his home in Chapel Hill when he suffered a heart attack. He was declared dead at the age of 76 upon arrival at North Carolina Memorial Hospital. Between the tenant farm in Virginia and the rose garden in Chapel Hill, Hodges carved a career that included a longer term of service as governor of North Carolina than any man in modern history—six years and two months. He also served as Secretary of Commerce under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. Hodges left a widow, the former Louise Finlayson, whom he married in 1970. His first wife, the former Martha Blakeney, died in a fire that destroyed their home in Chapel Hill in 1969. Other survivors include his son, Luther H. Hodges Jr. of Charlotte, chairman of the board of North Carolina

National Bank; two daughters, Mrs. Betsy Bernard of Houston, Texas and Mrs. Nancy Finlay of New Delhi, India; two sisters, Mrs. Beulah Haizlip and Mrs. Ethel Edwards of Eden; and nine grandchildren. A memorial service will be held in Chapel Hill's University Methodist Church at noon Tuesday. He will be buried at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Overlook Cemetery in Eden. Hodges entered politics in 1952 after resigning as vice president of Marshall Field and Co., a textile chain. He ran successfully for lieutenant governor. Two years later, he became governor upon the death of William Umstead. He won his own term in 1956. Because governors are not allowed to succeed themselves after serving a full term, his tenure in the office exceeded that of any modern governor. Hodges campaigned enthusiastically for the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in 1960 and was appointed Secretary of Commerce. He served throughout Kennedy's term and for a year under Johnson. Then he retired and moved to Chapel Hill. Hodges, as governor, presided over the beginning of racial desegregation in North Carolina. His major concern, however, was expanding and diversifying the state's industrial economy. Hodges was the first American governor to go to Europe to seek foreign investment in his state. In 1957, he announced plans for the Research Triangle Park in the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill area. That project consumed much of his attention and energy for the rest of his life. Hodges' course when pressure for desegregation mounted in the 1950s was, for the South at that time, one of moderation. He vigorously advocated a plan called the "Pearsall Plan" which would have given white parents state aid to send their children to private schools. But, as he had hoped, it was never used. He once told an interviewer, "I consider the calm manner in which North Carolina handled its integration problems the number one achievement of my administration. It was also my thorniest problem." Hodges did not serve six years as governor without being criticized. Labor leaders protested vehemently when Hodges sent the state Highway Patrol to a textile mill in Henderson to quell a violent strike. He was also accused of doing the bidding of business interests in 1957 when he persuaded the legislature to change the formula for state taxation of corporations. The biggest political storm of his tenure came when he appointed B. Everett Jordan to the U.S. Senate in 1958. Critics said Jordan was sent to Washington to keep the seat warm for Hodges. But Jordan eventually served 14 years in the Senate before (Continued on page 6)

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

SIGNALS FOR READE CIRCLE?
Reade Circle would be a useful thoroughfare if there was some control of traffic. I'm avoiding it lately because it takes forever to get across Fifth or Cotanche or Evans Street or to get out onto Dickinson Avenue. And when is the section that would connect Reade and Greene Street going to be prepared? S.H.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen said signal lights have been ordered for Cotanche and Reade and Fifth and Reade. These should be delivered within the next 30 days and will be installed immediately after delivery, he said.

A similar signal for Evans and Reade will be ordered soon, he said. He said there probably will be no signal light placed at Dickinson and Reade until the completion of the Reade Circle project which eventually will connect it with both Greene and Pitt Streets. Work on this final phase possibly can be begun by next summer, he said, after completion of right of way acquisition by the Greenville Redevelopment Commission and approval of the plans by the State Department of Transportation.

IS LICENSE NEEDED?
My husband is very good at clipping our poodle and dogs of our friends. If he were to begin to offer this service in our home and charge for it, would he have to have a license? Mrs. B.S.

N.C. Revenue Officer R.D. Taylor said license is not required by the state, and Al Averett of the City Tax Office indicated a city license is not needed either. However, you should check with the City Inspector about whether you will need a variance from the Board of Adjustments to conduct such a business in a residential area.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK
SOFA AND CHAIR GIVEN
A sofa and a chair were donated to the Optional School Program of the Greenville City Schools as a result of the recent Hotline appeal. Home furnishings and baby care items continue to be needed, according to Mrs. Mavis G. Williams, counselor-instructor. She may be reached at either 758-0817 or 756-7604.

Open Forum Program Held At International Dinner Friday

Questions about how the needs of international students and faculty at East Carolina University might best be served were discussed in an open forum program sponsored by the International Affairs Committee of the Greenville Women's Club Friday night.

The discussion was a highlight of a covered-dish supper program to which all foreign students and faculty and others interested in international affairs were invited.

Seventy-eight persons attended the program held at the Greenville Woman's Club building. Twenty-four international students at ECU representing 21 countries and 18 international faculty members attended.

International students and faculty members were invited to express their views and to pose questions on the topic of meeting their needs and solving problems encountered in adjusting to the customs and culture of a new country.

The need for an "international house" for foreign students at ECU was cited, and several spokesmen reported on negotiations with the ECU administration about the possibility of obtaining such a location in which the international students may meet, entertain, and mingle.

A University spokesman said the need for such a facility has been reported by ECU Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins to the ECU Board of Trustees and that the matter is under further consideration by ECU officials.

One possibility mentioned by Chancellor Jenkins is that at some time in the future the present chancellor's home on E. Fifth Street might be converted to use as an International House. No definite plans have been made however.

Several international students indicated a willingness on the part of the international group to assume responsibility for maintenance expenses in the event such a facility is made available.

Mrs. Mary Faye Shires, chairman of the International Affairs Committee, was in charge of arrangements for the event and presided at the open forum session.

Mrs. Florence Holt, president of the Greenville Woman's Club, opened the meeting with a welcome to guests and club members. Dr. Sylvester Green gave the invocation.

Couple Weds In Recent Ceremony

The First Presbyterian Church was the scene of the wedding of Pauline Haggard and Richard Edward Warren Sunday, Sept. 29, at 3:00 p.m. The Rev. Richard R. Gammon performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Richard Edward Warren

A program of organ music was presented by Kenneth Woodard. Parents of the couple are Mrs. Jean Clark of Grifton, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Warren of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, wore a traditional gown fashioned in chantilly lace with a bouffant skirt edged with a lace ruffle at the hemline. The fitted bodice had a natural waistline accented with pearls and beads with a satin ribbon three tiered mantilla of imported illusion edged with matching lace.

The honor attendant was Donna Jones and the bridesmaid was Rebecca Warren, sister of the bridegroom, both of Greenville.

The brother of the bridegroom, Ken Warren, of Greenville was best man. Ushers were Johnny Corbett of Greenville, and Jackie Warren of Stokes.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Warren following the wedding ceremony.

Mrs. Steele Gives Program On Wednesday

The guest speaker at the St. Peter's Woman's Club Wednesday was Mrs. Marilyn Steele from East Carolina's School of Home Economics. Her topic was "Nutrition and Your Shopping Dollar."

Mrs. Steele distributed sheets which would prove helpful in determining the price of an item versus its nutrient value.

Father Spillane, the moderator, said the opening prayer. Mrs. Thomas Butler presided over the meeting. She commended the ladies for their assistance at the fall church picnic.

The next "coffee and doughnut" sale would take place on Sunday, Oct. 27, after both Masses. Mrs. Butler expressed her gratitude to Mrs. George Iaboni, Mrs. Frank Flowers, Mrs. Don Schlenz, Mrs. Joseph Sherwood, Mrs. Frank Trotta, Mrs. Joseph Tronto, Mrs. George Hill and Mrs. John Kozlowski for their aid at the last sale.

Miss Ada Jones submitted the cost of the bus for the Pilgrimage to Raleigh on Dec. 8 for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Diocese.

A schedule was presented by Mrs. James Murphy regarding visits to the Nursing Home.

Plans are being formulated for the annual card party and St. Patrick's Day party. The president introduced Mrs. Corse, Mrs. John Kozlowski and Mrs. Whitney Miller to the members.

The motif for the evening was in keeping with Halloween. Refreshments were served by co-hostesses Mrs. Don Schlenz, Mrs. John Herman and Mrs. Joseph Sherwood.

Spend Three Minutes To Insure Your Life

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR READERS: If statistics bore you, please read this anyway. The information may come in handy if you're ever on a quiz show. It could even save your life!

Q. When was the Chicago fire?
A. October 9, 1871. Exactly 103 years ago this week. But let's get a little more current, shall we? Did you know that last year in the U.S.A. 11,900 people died in 2,815,000 fires? And that in Canada, there were 830 deaths in 78,900 fires? Even more tragically, a large percentage of deaths were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone for just a few minutes.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were: 1.) smoking, 2.) electrical wiring, 3.) heating and cooking equipment, 4.) children playing with matches, 5.) open flames and sparks, 6.) flammable liquids, 7.) suspected arson, 8.) chimneys and flues, 9.) lightning, 10.) spontaneous ignition.

The total fire loss in 1973 was an estimated 3 billion, one million dollars in the U.S.A. and 254 million dollars in Canada.

Now for some tips that could save your life:
* Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. And never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.
* Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.
* Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.

* Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.
* Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.
* Never use flammable liquids for dry cleaning indoors.
* Never smoke in bed.
* Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire.

Remember, fire extinguishers put out 97% of all the fires on which they are used...Most large fires started as small fires...So invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher and keep it handy in your kitchen, or be a sport and buy one for your cottage, car, boat, and the back bedroom, too.

NOW, in case of fire:
Most fires occur between midnight and 6 a.m., so always sleep with your bedroom door closed. If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window. But first alert the rest of the household.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket and sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to call them. Get out—and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure—not even the family pet—is worth risking a human life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so. God bless. Have a good day! ABBY

Household Hints

Children's clothing can gum up your electric clothes dryer if a wad of the chewy stuff is left in a pocket. To remove gum baked on the drum, rub with a little petroleum jelly, then run the dryer at the hot setting for 10 minutes. The residue can be wiped away with a soft cloth or a paper towel.

After you've shampooed your hair and given it two warm rinses give it an ice cold one to bring out the sheen, advises a prominent New York hairdresser.

Early American Money On Display

In conjunction with Greenville's Bicentennial, the Federal Reserve System of the U.S. has made available to local banks a comprehensive display of American paper money with items dating back to early American days.

A traveling exhibition housed in six panels, the collection is arranged with currency of the Continental Congress and the Colonial Revolutionary period in the first panel. This includes examples of currency from North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Maryland, as well as some obsolete or "broken bank" notes issued in the Fifth Federal Reserve District during the years 1850-1866.

U.S. notes, commonly referred to as "legal tender" make up the second panel, with a showing of the very popular artistic series of 1869.

Other panels contain large old size currency issued by national banks during the 1875, 1882, and 1902 Charter periods; large old size Silver Certificates, which included the engraved "Allegorical" series, considered America's most beautiful currency; Gold Certificates, National Gold Bank notes of California; and National Gold Bank notes.

The sixth panel features fractional currency used to make "change" during and after the Civil War. This panel also includes Emergency Currency issued during World War II for armed forces use in Europe and North Africa, and for circulation in Hawaii after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The schedule of the exhibition of currency in Greenville begins Tuesday, at the Bank of North Carolina on Cotanche Street. On Wednesday, it will be at North Carolina National Bank at Five Points, on Thursday at Planters National Bank, Washington Street; and on Friday at Wachovia Bank on Washington Street.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to view the exhibit at any of the banks during regular banking hours.

'Old-Fashion' Revival Service On Wednesday

A Bicentennial old-fashion revival service, featuring North Carolina's First Lady, Mrs. James E. Holshouser, the Rev. James H. Bailey, minister of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, eight Greenville citizens, and a musical program will be presented at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday at Jarvis Methodist Church.

who will be presiding during the service. She will be escorted by Mrs. Robert R. Browning and Herbert W. Lee.

The revival service is part of the Bicentennial Ladies Day events and is being directed by Ladies Day co-chairman Mrs. Helene Higgs Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Kavanaugh. It is a city-wide church service and laymen and choir members from every church are invited to attend.

The Honorable Judge Dink James will give a prayer, followed by the congregation singing two hymns.

Featured speaker for the evening is the Rev. Bailey and his topic for the service is "Christians Must Make One Witness."

Eight other speakers, who will be giving their witness to Christ, are Mrs. Moulton Massey Jr., Mrs. Howard Hodges, Mrs. R.B. Hungate, Mrs. James Harvey Ward, Percy Cox, John Montgomery, Lanny Norris, East Carolina University assistant football coach; and Barry Teague, EC Campus Crusade for Christ representative.

A musical program during the service will feature a quartet by Jackie Willis Rausch, Claire Hurley, Jack Thornton of the ECU School of Business faculty and Bob Rausch, Jarvis Methodist Church choir director; a solo and violin duet by Mrs. Rausch and Miss Schaal; and a solo by Rausch, prior to the sermon.

A special offering will be taken to benefit the Greenville Salvation Army. Thirteen greeters will be dressed in Bicentennial costumes and will receive in the vestibule of the church, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

They are Mrs. Janice Buck, Dr. and Mrs. Robert G. Deyton Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Edgar S. Douglas Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Phil L. Goodson Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Holt, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Taft Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Warren.

REV. J. H. BAILEY

A 15-minute musical concert will begin at the church at 7:45 p.m. A children's chorus will sing, and Jackie Willis Rausch, soprano, Margot Schaal, violinist, and James Hyatt, organist, will perform.

Arriving in Greenville late Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Holshouser will speak at 8 p.m. She will be introduced by Charles Kavanaugh, a layman.

Veep's Office Still Functions

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — They still answer the phones "office of the vice president," even though the nation doesn't now have a vice president.

That's because "we still have a constitutional responsibility," explained Walter Mote, who heads the six-person staff that continues to occupy two vice presidential offices on Capitol Hill.

Mote, formerly administrative assistant to vice presidents Spiro T. Agnew and Gerald R. Ford, said the responsibility is to receive and log for the Federal Archives all official communications directed to the Senate.

As Ford did before him, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller is carefully avoiding any contact with the vice presidential office before he is confirmed.

When the former New York governor visited the Dirksen Office Building two days after his Aug. 20 nomination by President Ford, Mote invited him inside the office.

"I'm superstitious or I'd come in," Rockefeller said, declining the offer.

Meanwhile, Senate President Pro Tempore James O. Eastland, D-Miss., temporarily is receiving the vice presidential pay rate, instead of his senatorial rate, plus the vice president's limousine and expense allowances. The vice president's salary is $62,500 a year, $13,000 higher than a senator's annual salary.

He also has the use of the vice president's ceremonial office just off the Senate floor.

Eastland had received similar benefits during the two months after Agnew resigned and before Ford became vice president.

The six staff members, whose annual pay totals a bit more than $100,000, occupy offices in the Capitol and the Dirksen Building.

The communications that they receive include messages from the Executive Branch, reports from federal agencies, petitions from citizens groups, messages from foreign governments and formal notices of changes in the law.

Sirica Trying Speed Process

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is trying to speed jury selection for the Watergate trial by lengthening his court days.

The process of trying to find a jury is in its fifth day and some defense lawyers believe that, even with an extra hour each day, the panel of 12 and six alternates won't be chosen until the end of the week.

Even then, there are some issues that Sirica may decide must be worked out before testimony is heard. For example, lawyers for former President Richard M. Nixon have asked that subpoenas for Nixon's testimony be quashed.

As of last Thursday, Sirica had won agreement from defense and prosecution lawyers on only five potential jurors.

Today, Sirica continues questioning potential jurors on their general awareness of Watergate. Sources familiar with the closed courtroom session say the judge has been emphasizing heavily whether or not the prospective jurors watched either the televised Senate Watergate hearings or the House Judiciary impeachment hearings.

Once the jury is selected, its members will live in a motel and travel back and forth to the U.S. District Courthouse. Rare contacts with family members or anyone else not connected with the case will be made in the company of U.S. marshals.

Despite the anticipated three-to-four-month length of the trial, Sirica has found a large pool of Washington residents willing to endure the inconvenience. An initial group of more than 300 potential jurors is

Admits Plan To Kill Park

By K.C. HWANG
Associated Press Writer
SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Moon Se-kwang told a court today he tried to assassinate President Chung Hee Park because he thought it was essential to a Communist revolution in South Korea.

He said he made the attempt on instructions from a pro-Communist Korean resident of Japan, but was deeply sorry over the death of Park's wife because he didn't plan to kill her.

Moon said he had not known of Mrs. Park's death until investigators told him last week, and didn't know how a bullet hit her since she was sitting more than 16 feet from her husband.

Moon testified on the opening day of his trial for the Aug. 15 Independence Day attack in which Mrs. Park was shot to death but Park escaped injury.

A teen-age girl also was killed in the shooting in a Seoul auditorium. Moon is charged with murder, attempted murder, and attempted rebellion. If convicted he faces the death penalty.

Moon said he entered the country with a false Japanese passport and fired five shots with a revolver he had stolen from a Japanese police station in Osaka.

He said a Japanese couple, Yukio and Michiko Yoshii, helped him obtain the passport under Yukio's name, knowing that he was to go to Seoul to try to assassinate Park.

Stringent security measures apparently were ordered for Moon's trial because of rumors that the radical Japanese Red Army or Arab guerrillas might stage terrorist acts to rescue him.

About 220 newsmen and other civilians were searched by police before being allowed inside the courtroom.

Moon, 22, was indicted last month on 16 counts, including murder.

'Choo-Choo' In Hospital

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice, two-time All-American football player at the University of North Carolina, was in North Carolina Memorial Hospital today after suffering an apparent heart attack Saturday.

A hospital spokesman said doctors believed Justice suffered a heart attack during Saturday's Pittsburgh-North Carolina football game in Chapel Hill.

The hospital said Justice was "doing very well and progressing very satisfactorily" but said he remained under intensive care for observation.

Justice was an All-American tailback at North Carolina in 1948-49 and later played briefly with the professional Washington Redskins.

He operates an insurance agency in Greensboro.

The Bicentennial Fishing Contest will be held Friday, from 10:00 until 11:30 a.m. Location for the contest is on the banks of the River Tar immediately east of the Town Common walkway. A trophy will be awarded for the biggest fish caught during this time. Following is a list of rules for the contest:

1. Contestants are limited to the use of one cane pole and "natural or live bait. Fish caught on rods and reels and/or artificial lures or plugs are not eligible.

2. The fish must be caught during the hour and half of the contest. Fish caught before 10:00 a.m. are not eligible. Weigh in will be promptly at 11:30 a.m.

3. All fish must be caught within the vicinity of the contest area and from the bank of the river. People fishing from boats will not be eligible for the contest.

4. There are no age restrictions. Contestants are reminded that if they are not a Pitt County resident they will be required to have a valid North Carolina fishing license. Pitt County residents are not required to have a license when using "natural" bait.

Non-Dailies To Have Seminar

The North Carolina Association of Non-Dailies will hold a seminar on "Advertising in Non-Daily Newspapers" on Friday, Oct. 11, 1974 in the new Student Center, East Carolina University. The program will begin at 10 a.m., will break for lunch, and will continue until approximately 4 p.m.

Participating in the seminar will be George McMath, publisher, Accomac (Va.) Eastern Shore News, and George Weiss, with Metro Advertising Services, New York City.

The seminar is primarily for people working in advertising on a day-to-day basis, according to F. Frank Boylin III of the Messenger and Intelligencer, Wadesboro.

Nixon Said 'Resting'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has not spoken with his physician since Friday night, and the doctor says that apparently is a sign the former President is recovering normally from phlebitis.

"I assume that means things are going along satisfactorily," Dr. John C. Lungren said Sunday.

Nixon, 61, was released on Friday from Memorial Hospital Medical Center at Long Beach after a 12-day stay for treatment of phlebitis, an inflammation of a vein, in his left leg.

Nixon is receiving oral doses of an anticoagulant drug, Coumadin.

Aides at the former Western White House made no comment Sunday on Nixon's condition, but a spokesman said Saturday the former president was resting and following his doctor's orders to limit his activity.

Lungren, who described Nixon as more exhausted when he left the hospital than when he entered, said his patient told him on the phone Friday night that he was glad to be home.

Lungren has said Nixon, who resigned as President in August, should avoid traveling long distances for at least one month and perhaps three.

Confusion In The Years Ahead

The State Department of Transportation has just completed work on a five-lane thoroughfare leading from the intersection of Greenville Boulevard to Tenth Street.

There it ties in with Cotanche Street which is being improved in sections by the city from Tenth to First.

There it ties in with Cotanche Street which is being improved in sections by the city from Tenth to First.

Charles veered off from the old Charles Street route to cut across an open field and tie in with Cotanche. This left a short section of Charles which leads from the new thoroughfare to Tenth Street.

Thursday night the City Council decided to do something about the name of the fine new thoroughfare. The decision made was to name the section from Greenville Boulevard (N.C. 43, toward New Bern) would be left with the name Charles Street. The old section of Charles from the new thoroughfare to Ninth would be called Charles Street right on.

So what do we have but another street name situation which is going to lead to mass confusion in the years ahead. Visitors looking for an address won't know whether they are on Charles Street or Charles Boulevard even though they are in the same section of the city. Those looking for an address on Charles Boulevard will suddenly find themselves on Cotanche Street, and those headed south on Cotanche will soon be on Charles Boulevard without ever having changed directions.

It makes far more sense to us to agree on one name for the new thoroughfare, the section south of Greenville Boulevard and for Cotanche.

Since Cotanche is an original street of our city we submit that this name should be used all the way from First, then south along the new thoroughfare and on out of the city on N.C. 43. The old section of Charles from Ninth to the new thoroughfare could still carry the Charles Street name.

Changing the name of Charles along the thoroughfare can create some inconvenience to those who presently live or operate businesses along the way, but that will soon end. The confusion of dual street names will continue for years in the future.

Let's make the new thoroughfare Cotanche Boulevard, or Cotanche Street, along its entire length and save ourselves some headaches.

NEWSPAPERS: FREEDOM'S GUARANTEE

Demo's HQ In Need

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina Democrats, in the current campaign, are suffering the results of many years of neglect of their party's state-wide machinery.

Democratic state headquarters in Raleigh has traditionally been a neglected stepchild in the state's political system, without enough money or machinery to provide much help to the party's candidates.

Part of the problem stems from the state's election laws. The governor is the real head of any state party, and North Carolina's Democratic governors have had few incentives to keep the party machinery greased and rolling.

They won their offices in divisive intra-party primaries. To win, they had to build their own personal organizations.

Since they could not seek reelection, they had no personal stake in melding their organization with the party's once they took office. Nor did it profit them to spend much time or effort on state headquarters. Few did.

The party headquarters, for example, has no computerized master list of Democratic contributors. Such a list could have been culled from the donors to various Democratic campaigns in the past, but no one ever bothered.

Rufus Edmisten, the party's candidate for attorney general, is feeling the pinch right now. Edmisten's campaign did not officially start until this summer.

He has not had the time to assemble the organization of contributors and workers vital to a successful campaign. The party hasn't been able to give him much help.

By contrast, Republican state headquarters in Raleigh hums with efficiency.

For a long time, control of the state organization was all the Republicans had to fight over. As such, it became a coveted prize.

The long period the Republicans spent on the fringes of power drew them together and made them conscious of the interests of the party as well as individual candidates.

Gov. Jim Holshouser has worked hard, since taking office, to control and strengthen the party machinery.

When William Stevens and James Carson became the party's nominees, they simply merged their headquarters with the existing GOP offices and organization.

They inherited the GOP's staff of field workers, its mailing lists, and the expertise of its staff. Their campaigns were, in many ways, already organized for them.

In earlier years, the Republicans' organizational advantages were not sufficient to overcome the state's overwhelming tendency to elect Democrats.

That may not be the case any longer. The lesson of 1972 is that Republican candidates, given the right circumstances, can win. An effective party organization can create a lot of the right circumstances.

Right now, the only effective statewide Democratic organization in North Carolina belongs to Senate candidate Robert Morgan. Morgan has let it be known that if he wins, he plans to turn his attention to rebuilding the party machinery.

There has been some talk that Charles Winberry, Morgan's campaign manager, will become the new state party chairman after the elections.

But Winberry says his only interest right now is the Senate campaign and that he hasn't thought of running for chairman.

Teachers For Pay-Raise

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—It comes as no surprise to close observers of public education in North Carolina that if teachers were given a thousand dollars to spend to improve education, they would keep half for themselves.

There is growing resistance, both in the Department of Public Instruction and the General Assembly to that attitude among teachers.

And now, principals have joined the ranks of those who think perhaps education could be improved more by spending money in other ways, than just boosting teacher benefits.

That, at least, is the message contained in one segment of a research project just completed by the State Department of Public Instruction, and contained in a report called a "State Assessment."

As part of their work in providing information for the educational assessment, teachers were given a hypothetical $1,000 and asked how they would spend it compiling a "wish list." Vote Raise

Responding to that situation, some 12,000 elementary school teachers earmarked $460 for salary increases or direct benefits for teachers.

The remainder of the $1,000 would be spent for additional materials and supplies ($250); and the rest ($290) for hiring specialists in music, art, physical education, or reading, and aides to reduce class size.

Principals differed with that approach, the report showed. "When principals were given the opportunity to fund the three broad categories of teacher benefits, new personnel, and instruction supplies, they earmarked exactly half of the monies for new personnel while designating one quarter each to the remaining categories," the State Assessment reported.

While principals and teachers agreed on "all major points of capability and need... the basic differences arose over spending of new monies to meet the special needs of primary and elementary students, with principals giving a higher priority to new personnel; and teachers giving a higher priority to teacher benefits," that report suggested.

There is growing resistance in Raleigh to the constant pressure from teachers, and from the North Carolina Association of Educators, for accelerating pay schedules and benefits.

$12,000 Cost
Dr. A. Craig Phillips has spelled out for members of the General Assembly that it is now costing the state an average of about $12,000 for each full-time teacher.

That amount, of course, is not all salary. The average teacher salary during the current school year is $9,679. The lowest beginning salary is $8,130; the highest regular salary for a veteran teacher is $12,560.

The rest of that $12,000 figure comes in state contributions to Social Security, retirement, medical insurance, ($13 monthly per teacher), and hiring substitutes. Not included in these figures are local supplements to the state salary which are paid by most school systems in the state.

Critics of teacher pay-raise pressures also point to the 10-month work year for teachers; to the sick leave granted at the rate of six days per year and accumulated without restriction; to numerous holidays, plus two days of personal leave during the school year; and to annual leave accumulated at the rate of 1.25 days per month.

And while fearing the wrath of the Women's Liberation movement, some critics also point out that a goodly number of teachers are women, therefore representing second incomes in many families.

The survey report notes that fact when it shows that of the more than 12,000 teachers participating, 96 per cent are female; and one section of the report notes that the teachers themselves feel more men are needed as teachers at the elementary level.

Jawboning Didn't Work

WASHINGTON—In his closing speech last week to the economic summit, President Ford told Americans to "...make up a list of 10 ways you can save energy and fight inflation. Little things that have become habits, but that don't really affect your health and happiness... Exchange your family's list with your neighbors—and send me a copy."

Dear Mr. President, Enclosed please find my list of ways we could save energy and fight inflation. As soon as I made it, I went over to see my neighbor, Schlumberger, and asked him for his list. Schlumberger hadn't made up his yet, which didn't surprise me. It takes him three weeks to cut his lawn and he still hasn't returned the lawn chairs he borrowed in June. "Schlumberger," I said, "the President has asked us how we can save energy and fight inflation. My wife and I notice you always leave the light on in your bathroom. Now it's obvious to us that there isn't somebody in the bathroom all the time. Why couldn't you turn the light out when no one is there?"

Instead of Schlumberger accepting this in the spirit in which it was given, he said something like "We'll keep our (and then he said a terrible work) bathroom lights on all night long if we want to."

I then went to item No. 2. "I notice you always seem to drive to work alone. Is there any reason you can't car pool it?"

Well, Mr. President, I want you to know Schlumberger started screaming and yelling and telling me to mind my own (and then there was that work again) business. I couldn't believe someone would be so selfish during a crisis of this proportion.

I was tempted not to bring up item No. 3, but I decided the interests of the country came first so I said, "It appears the fuel truck comes around to your house every two months. The oil man told my wife you keep your thermostat at 74 degrees. Why couldn't you close off a few rooms in the winter and turn the dial down to 67 degrees?"

I want to tell you, Mr. President, you would have thought I asked Schlumberger to go streaking down Pennsylvania Avenue at high noon. He said he would keep the (put the word here) thermostat at any (the word again) temperature he (word) pleased. And then he said a strange thing. He said why didn't I worry about my own (word) thermostat?

I had a good mind to just walk out but I still had a few more things on my list. "Schlumberger," I said, "that gaslight you have in front of your house—it seems to me it's just a habit with you. Does it really do anything to affect your health or happiness?"

I guess I touched a sore nerve because Schlumberger asked me to get out of his (I wish he had a larger vocabulary) house.

I know it comes as a shock to you, Mr. President, that there are such thin-skinned people in this country. I went to the next item on my list which was what Schlumberger (Continued on Page 5)

The Way It Is

Newsman Not Satisfied

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written by Richard D. Smyser, editor of the Oak Ridge, Tenn., Oak Ridger and president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, in recognition of Newspaper Week, Oct. 6-12.

By RICHARD D. SMYSER
President, APME

Don Carter of Macon, Ga., says newspapers should carry more columns of opinion.

Wendell Phillippi of Indianapolis, Ind., wants more weather news.

Robert Haiman of St. Petersburg, Fla., wants better weather maps.

John Leard of Richmond, Va., thinks there should be a rather thorough evaluation of the press role in Watergate.

Barclay Jameson of Grand Junction, Colo., believes that the press quotes too many unnamed "sources."

Richard Tuttle of

Rochester, N.Y., asks: "Really now, should a national wirephoto network carry pictures of Australian bathing beauties?"

John Quinn, also of Rochester, N.Y., thinks editors ought to get closer to their readers.

Carter, Phillippi, Haiman, Leard, Jameson, Tuttle and Quinn are all stern critics of newspapers and news services like The Associated Press.

So are Hobert Duncan of Honolulu, Hawaii; Joe Shoquist of Milwaukee, Wis.; Robert Clark of Louisville, Ky., and Larry Jinks of Miami, Fla.

Duncan says that there is too much news about things that happen back East and not enough about what happens out West.

Shoquist worries about golf and tennis tournaments and automobile races that are named for commercial sponsors, thereby making for free advertising.

Clark feels that newspapers that presume to judge others should clean their own houses — not accept free trips and tickets.

Jinks thinks that all questions at presidential press conferences don't have to be the shootout type. Questioning can be civil and positive and still dig out useful information, he says.

Then there's Wes Gallagher of Rye, N.Y. He believes that people have, of necessity, "turned inward." This makes them more concerned with news of their own communities.

And Lou Boccardi of New York City, who says that newspapers must give readers the fullest possible information about "the three F's"—food, fuel and finance.

Also with some strong feelings about what newspapers should do are:

Tom Fesperman of Charlotte, N.C., who says he is sick and tired of so much news coming out of Washington and New York. Things are happening in the small towns, too;

Jenk Jones, Jr. of Tulsa, Okla., who believes that news of Canada and Mexico, our closest international neighbors, is neglected;

And Reg Murphy of Atlanta, Ga., who thinks newspapers should take a new look at the way they handle crime news.

Nor is all of the criticism negative. John McMillan of Huntington, W. Va., thinks that The Associated Press did a spectacularly good job covering the weeklong events that led up to President Nixon's resignation.

Critics of newspapers abound. They are in all cities and states. No matter what sort of job or economic level, they care about how their newspaper performs and they say so.

The newspaper critics quoted here, however, all have something in common. They are all newspaper editors or Associated Press executives.

Their comments listed here have all been stated in the correspondence, in the formal reports and at the meetings of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association during the past year. The APME is a national editors group that works toward better newspapers

Other Editors Say Stretching Dollars

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Stretching your health care dollars may be a lot simpler than you think, authorities say.

Probably the most simple advice comes from a study conducted by the Massachusetts General Hospital in cooperation with the department of preventive medicine at Harvard Medical School.

The study concluded that the best way to stay out of hospitals was not to get sick. That's not a facetious observation; it noted that 3 out of 5 hospitalizations can be avoided through preventive measures.

Therefore, eat properly, exercise, get sufficient rest, don't over drink or over smoke, and get regular physical checkups. This further advice on how to protect your family's health comes from the American Medical Association:

—Don't put off seeing your doctor until you become seriously ill. This defeats the concept of preventive medicine and is more expensive in the long run.

—Use the telephone. Your family doctor can often advise over the phone about minor problems. If the problem is serious he will instruct you to come to the office. Meanwhile, you will be saving both your money and the doctor's time.

—Follow his advice on diet, medicine and lifestyle. If you don't accept the expert advice you are paying for, you are throwing your money away.

—Buy health insurance. It is a bargain considering the devastating effects that prolonged illness can have on your family finances. Be certain to protect yourself against the expenses of serious, long-term illness.

—Take advantage of tax deductions. Note that doctor, hospital and drug bills beyond a certain percentage of your income can be claimed as deductions. Cost of travel to and from the doctor and drugstore, as well as the cost of many prescribed medical devices (such as wheelchairs, crutches and the like) can also be deducted.

—Keep away from quacks. Sound simple? Not so. Gullible Americans spend more than a billion dollars annually on quacks claiming sure cures.

Also, according to the AMA, millions of Americans are wasting hard-earned dollars on needless patent medicines that in some cases may be harmful.

Strength For Today

TO OVERCOME THE WORLD

"He that overcometh." These words occur frequently in the Bible and particularly in the Book of Revelation. In that great vision with which the Bible ends we are given a picture of the host of heaven about the divine throne. This immeasurable multitude is made up of those who have overcome—who stood before the hard and trying temptations of life and disciplined themselves with denial.

No one would expect to become a prize-winning athlete or gain musical fame unless he were willing to discipline himself day by day with constant practice. Think of the effort that goes into the gaining of outstanding competence in any of the professions! Yet some people expect to attain heaven without subjecting themselves to any discipline at all. Eternal destiny is harder to achieve than earthly fame, and the final approbation by God will be addressed to those who overcame their desires for ease and indulgence in the interest of righteousness.

Hawaii Airshipping Pineapples

By BOB MURPHY
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Representatives of Hawaii's two major pineapple producing companies, Dole and Del Monte, contend that mainland buyers are going to continue to have fresh Hawaiian pineapple at their markets.

This is their view despite reports that the two companies are phasing out their operations in Hawaii for cheaper labor markets in foreign countries.

"The future for the Hawaiian pineapple is in airshipping it fresh to the mainland," says Emil Schneider of Castle and Cooke, parent company of Dole. "Now that we have new lowcost agreements with the airlines on shipping the fruit, people on the East Coast are now getting good quality pineapple... something they never experienced before."

Many of the reports concerning the two companies pulling out of Hawaii were sparked by company announcements several months ago that they were closing down their pineapple operations on the island of Molokai at the end of 1975. Dole has 12,000 acres of land in pineapples there and Del Monte about 10,000, the spokesmen said.

The Del Monte Corp., citing an "increase in the world's demand for pineapple," now says it will continue the Molokai operation until Jan. 31, 1978. Dole, however, will close down on Molokai as earlier announced. While the companies are expanding their fresh-fruit shipping operation, they are, however, cutting back on their canning operations here.

The labor market in Hawaii for canning is too expensive to compete with labor in Southeast Asia and Africa, the companies say. A union laborer in Hawaii is paid $2.98 an hour, while pineapple workers in the Philippines and Taiwan draw as little as 15 cents an hour.

Bryson City Man Held For Gunning 2 Patrolmen

THE GREENVILLE BICENTENNIAL COIN . . . pictured above comes in a limited silver edition of 50 coins and a larger edition of 2,500 coins in bronze. Richard Kiernan, vice-president of the Greenville "200" Committee, has announced that sealed bids will be taken for the silver coins. Each coin is separately numbered ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A Bryson City man was held without bond today in the Buncombe County jail after two veteran highway patrolmen were gunned down in the county courthouse.

Edwards Collins Davis, 54, was charged Sunday with two counts of murder in the deaths of Patrol Sgt. W.D. Arledge, 53, and Trooper Lawrence Canipe Jr., 32.

The patrolmen were shot to death Saturday night as they attempted to administer a Breathalyzer test on Davis. Authorities said the gunman walked out of the courthouse after the shooting.

Sheriff's Deputy James Gaston arrested Davis at dawn Sunday as he walked across Pack Square in downtown Asheville. A massive manhunt had been mounted in the area after the slaying. Authorities said police involved in the manhunt had been issued pictures of Davis that had been made during previous arrests for drunk driving. They said officers were able to identify him through the pictures.

Patrol Capt. E.D. Young said the two officers were killed with bullets fired from Canipe's patrol pistol. Police found the pistol in a vacant lot near the courthouse Sunday.

Young said Canipe had taken Davis into custody early Saturday night on suspicion of driving under the influence of intoxicants. He said Canipe had removed a pistol, a rifle and a shotgun from Davis' car when he stopped it and that he had unloaded the weapons. The empty guns were found in the room with the troopers' bodies.

Young said Canipe arrested Davis after a high-speed chase that criss-crossed two counties at speeds exceeding 100 miles per hour. He said Arledge joined the trooper to help administer the chemical test for intoxication.

Apparently no one in the courthouse realized shots had been fired. The dead patrolmen were discovered after another trooper became alarmed that they had not emerged from the test room.

Magistrate Gary Moffitt, whose office is across the hall from the Breathalyzer room, said he heard muffled noises coming from the room, but did not realize it was shots.

"They heard the reports, but thought it was somebody banging on a door," Young said.

The two rooms are separated by wooden interior doors and a set of heavy glass doors.

Funeral services for Arledge, a 24-year patrol veteran, will be held Tuesday at First Baptist Church in Asheville. Burial will follow at the First Baptist Church Cemetery in Columbus, in Polk County.

Services for Canipe are scheduled for Wednesday at Miller Funeral Home in Black Mountain. He will be buried at Red Hill Cemetery near Bakersville in Mitchell County.

Canipe joined the patrol in 1967. Both men had wives and children.

Supreme Court Opens A New Session Today

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court returns from summer recess today to a docket of more than 2,000 cases that raise issues ranging from the death penalty to presidential impeachment of funds.

day, with Chief Justice Warren E. Burger expected to preside despite injuries received in a bicycle accident that have kept him away from the court most of the past two weeks.

After the ceremonial opening, the court will spend the rest of the week in closed conferences, during which it will consider a record 992 requests for action of one sort or another. Last year, the total was 976. In 1970, it was 696.

The court will announce decisions on some of these matters on its first decision day, Oct. 15.

Most of them are appeals, which the court must decide whether to hear. They are among about 1,000 petitions for hearing that were filed during the summer recess. The court already had more than 1,000 such requests pending at the end of its last term.

The court already has agreed to hear 89 cases beginning next week.

Among the cases it is expected to schedule for argument later are the appeals of

Pitt Countian Killed As Car Ran Off Road

AYDEN—A 31-year-old Route 2, Ayden man was killed in a one-car mishap two miles East of here on Rural Road 1723 about 8:50 p.m. Saturday.

Highway Patrolman J.W. Brooks identified the victim as Patterson Cox.

According to Trooper Brooks, the car driver by Cox went out of control on a curve, ran off the road, hit a ditch and overturned. The vehicle, he said, came to rest on its top, pinning Cox—partially out of the car—under the wreckage.

The officer, who noted Cox was dead at the scene, said the vehicle had been reported stolen about 20 minutes earlier. Owner of the car was listed as Benjamin Earl Stokes of Ayden. Valued at $600, the car was a total loss.

Jailed Youth In Car Theft

James Rodney Purser, 17, of 75 Lakewood Dr. was jailed here early Sunday morning on multiple charges following the theft of a car and a high-speed chase.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Daniel Lester Whitehurst of Oakmont Square Apts. reported his car stolen at 1:55 a.m. Officers spotted the car at 4:38 a.m. on Forrest Hill Drive and gave chase.

The chase continued on Beaumont Drive, North Overlook Drive, Fairview Way, Red Banks Road, 14th Street and on to King George Road and Oxford Road and Dundee Lane before the fleeing car was finally stopped at a road block at the entrance to Brook Valley at U.S. 264.

Purser was apprehended at the scene, Cannon said, but a passenger in the auto jumped and ran from the car, making good his escape.

Purser was charged with auto larceny, speeding in excess of 90 miles per hour in a 25 mile per hour zone, careless and reckless driving and failing to stop for a blue light and siren.

The Rose High School student was placed in the Pitt County Jail under a $3,900 bond.

Trial of the cases was set for October 22 in District Court.

Mrs. Manning To Be Speaker

FALKLAND—Mrs. Janie Manning, kindergarten coordinator for Pitt County Schools, will be the speaker at the Falkland Elementary School

PTA meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

She will speak to the parents and teachers on the kindergarten program in the county schools. The meeting will take place in the school auditorium.

Refreshments will be served following the program. All parents and friends of the school are invited.

Arrest 2 With Marijuana

Two 18-year-old Greenville men were arrested on charges of possession of marijuana Saturday night.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Elbert Burtis Jones of 2709 East Second St. was taken into custody about 9:45 p.m. at the intersection of Evans and Reade Streets while Cliff Anthony Allen of 115 South Woodlawn Ave. was arrested at 10 p.m. at the same intersection.

Bond for each was set at $500 pending hearing of their cases in District Court November 12.

APME operates a yearlong critique. This year 18 committees studied different aspects of newspaper content. Hundreds of letters were exchanged, scores of questionnaires filled out, tens of reports filed and numerous small and large meetings held.

(John Leard and Barclay Jameson, two of those quoted above, have been in charge of these committee studies. A lot of the others quoted have been their committee chairmen.)

As they assess their own performances and the performance of The Associated Press day by day and even hour by hour—there are a lot of telephone calls by editors to AP headquarters in New York—these editors worry whether the public fully understands what editors believe to be the role of the press.

One of the big things that editors believe they must do to increase public understanding is to tell the public more about their policies and practices.

One of the most universal policies and practices of newspaper and news service people is self-criticism.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market cut short its extended slide to stage a technical rally today, helped by signs of further easing in the Federal Reserve's credit reins. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was ahead 11.42 to 595.98, and advanced led declines by 4 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was moderately active.

Indications that the Federal Reserve was set to allow interest rates, including banks' prime rates, to fall further helped spark the market's rally, analysts said. They noted stocks were due for some sort of recovery after declining seven of the last eight weeks.

Analyst Ted Bukowski of E.F. Hutton added the market was encouraged by the cancellation this past weekend of the Soviet wheat deal. The move he said, "is a start in keeping inflation down."

He said there probably was some short covering amid favorable anticipation of President Ford's economic speech due Tuesday.

National Semiconductor was the most active Big Boar stock, off 1/4 to 7 1/2.

Kennecott gained 2 to 31. Reports over the weekend suggested that Kennecott, rich in oil and cash, might be a prime take-over target.

Among other high-priced gainers, IBM rose 5 to 161 1/4. Xerox 2 1/4 to 63. Johnson & Johnson 2 1/2 to 78 1/2, and Atlantic Richfield 2 to 78 1/2.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index rose 0.68 to 33.58. On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index climbed 1.04 to 62.15.

Castleton Industries, the Amex volume leader was unchanged at 1 1/4.

Hospital Committee Stand Reiterated By Dr. John Wooten

Dr. John Wooten, chairman of the Medical Liaison Committee of Pitt Memorial Hospital, today reiterated the committee's stand against committing 75 beds to the control of the UNC medical school teaching service.

"Our committee is composed of Board of Trustees and medical staff members," he said. "Pitt County citizens are building the new hospital and we're not about to relinquish control of a large part of the facility even before its reality. The ECU people tell us its not necessary for the medical school to control the beds in order to teach in a hospital, and we know there are hospitals in the country used by medical schools which do not have such an arrangement."

"This is not to say that our answer now on this matter is our final one. Perhaps eventually when the merit is shown some arrangement can be worked out, but not now when things are so nebulous. We don't even have UNC's commitment to a two-year program, yet they're asking us to commit 75 beds."

 ficial, the car driven by Wilson was headed South on the Grimesland-Pactolus Highway road and collided with the engine of the East-bound Southern Railway train. The car, he said, was pushed more than 1,000 feet down the track before coming to rest.

In addition to Carter and Wilson, two other passengers in the car, Rufus Spencer, 17, and James Brown Carter, 22, were injured. Wilson and Spencer were treated at the hospital for their injuries and released, while the older Carter was admitted for treatment.

Chief Farr said the dead man was pinned in the wreckage for about 45 minutes before rescue workers could free him from the twisted wreckage of the car.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey said Carter died of head and internal injuries he received in the crash.

Wilson was charged by Chief Farr with failing to yield the right of way to the train.

Assisting in the investigation of the fatal mishap was Highway Patrolman F. L. Overby of Greenville.

Dodgers Go Two Up; Oakland Evens Series

Series Shifts To LA

By GARY MIHOCS
AP Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — There's nothing like two victories on the road before going home to make a team feel like the National League champions.

"I'm not saying we're going to sweep, but we're the National League champs," said Jim Wynn, the power behind the Dodgers' season-long drive that has left them one victory short of the NL title and a World Series berth after Sunday's 5-2 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're in the driver's seat," said Ron Cey, who rapped a homer, two doubles and a single to tie the playoff record of four hits in one game set by Pittsburgh's Bob Robertson in 1971.

"Now the Pirates got to pull all the stops," echoed Willie Crawford, whose pinch-hit single brought Cey home with the winning run against Pittsburgh's relief ace Dave Giusti.

No team has overcome a 2-0 deficit since the best-of-five intra-league playoffs began in 1969 and the Pirates task is made more difficult by the series shifting to Los Angeles.

"I'd say we have our backs to the wall," Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh said after the Dodgers scored three runs off Giusti to snap a 2-2 tie.

"But we've been counted out of it nine or 10 times this year, and here we are playing in the big series," added Murtaugh, whose club was 14 games under .500 early in the season.

The Dodgers, who won 3-0 Saturday behind the pitching of Don Sutton, led 2-0 into the Pirates' seventh Sunday, and Pittsburgh's 15 scoreless innings matched the playoff record they set in two games against Cincinnati in 1970.

The Pirate famine ended in the seventh inning when singles by Paul Popovich, Richie Zisk and Al Oliver helped Pittsburgh pull to a 2-2 tie against Dodger starter Andy Messersmith.

However, Murtaugh had to sacrifice starting pitcher Jim Rooker for a pinch-hitter in that inning, and the Dodgers broke the game open in the eighth against Giusti.

Cey, who made two errors in the Dodgers' first-game victory, opened the inning with a double into the left field corner. He then beat catcher Manny Sanguillen's throw to third on a ball tapped weakly in front of the plate by Bill Russell and scored on Crawford's bloop single to left.

A single to right by freewheeling Manny Mota then chased Giusti and scored Russell, before Dave Lopes stroked another single off rookie Larry Demery to score Crawford with the final run.

FLIPS OVER BUNT—Oakland A's Dick Green flips past Baltimore first baseman Earl Williams for a single in the fifth inning Sunday at Oakland Stadium in the second game of the American League playoffs.

Bando Leads A's

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — It was a familiar script: Oakland trailing Baltimore in the American League playoffs until Sal Bando started swinging at Dave McNally's pitches.

There were a few new wrinkles thrown in, such as two errors by the usually sure-handed Baltimore Orioles. They enabled Bando and Ray Fosse to drive in four unearned runs with home runs as the A's rebounded from Saturday's 6-3 defeat to whip the Orioles 5-0 Sunday behind Ken Holtzman's five-hit pitching.

The A's, two-time defending World Series champions, victimized McNally for the second straight year to square the best-of-five-game series at 1-1. A year ago in Baltimore, Bando homered twice against McNally, and had a third homer taken away by a leaping catch.

Bando led off the fourth inning by watching two pitches miss the strike zone. Then, he said, "I tried to hold up on my swing and popped it up. I was just depressed."

But Bobby Grich, Baltimore's Golden Glove-caliber second baseman, dropped the high pop in foul territory.

"I had it right in my glove," Grich said. "It wasn't like the ball was right in the sun — just a little bit."

The reprinted Bando lined a three-ball, one-strike fast ball over the left-field fence, just eluding the glove of Baltimore's Don Baylor.

"I thought he caught it," Bando said of a play that would have been a re-run of Al Bumbry's leaping grab in Game Two of the 1973 playoffs in which Holtzman outpitched McNally, 6-3.

Fosse, sidelined much of the season from surgery on a disc in his back, credited teammate Jesus Alou's "magic wand" after belting a double in the seventh inning and the three-run homer in the eighth off Grant Jackson. An error by substitute shortstop Frank Baker kept the inning going for Fosse.

"It's heavier, 35 ounces, and has more wood," said Fosse, who wasn't sure he'd be a starter behind the plate until Friday night. "I dreamed I'd hit a three-run homer. It came two days later," he said.

The playoffs move to Baltimore Tuesday for the third and fourth games, plus a fifth if necessary on Thursday.

"It doesn't bother me at all," Dark said of the task of winning twice at Baltimore. "With these two teams, it doesn't matter where we play."

"It looks like it'll go the distance," Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson said. "I'm glad we're going back home."

Manager Earl Weaver of Baltimore said that Sunday "just wasn't our day. Our line drives were just within reach and those homers just made it."

"The name of the game in the playoffs is good pitching," said Dark, who sends left-hander Vida Blue, 17-15, against Baltimore's Jim Palmer, 7-12, Tuesday.

Blue is winless in four decisions as a post-season pitcher, and Palmer, last year's AL Cy Young Award winner, started 1974 with a sore arm.

Pearson Takes National 500

By RICHARD WATERS
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Superspeedway veteran David Pearson put it all together Sunday and held off a Richard Petty charge to win the $161,877 National 500 stock car race.

For Pearson, who beat Petty to the checkered flag by 1.4 seconds, it was a back-to-back victory at Charlotte Motor Speedway. For Petty, it was a continuation of his jinx at Charlotte. He has failed to win in 27 races here while finishing second five times.

Pearson's triumph was a duplication of his win over Petty in May in the World 600 when the Mercury driver nosed his car across the finish line a fraction of a second ahead of Petty's Dodge. It was the Spartanburg, S.C., driver's sixth victory of the season in 16 major races and his third at the Charlotte track. Pearson won the World 600 in 1961.

The turning point in the 500-mile race (334 laps) came on lap 281 when Pearson took the lead after experiencing tire and handling trouble. He led early in the race and then surrendered the front-running spot to 10 other drivers. Eventually, Pearson led four times for a total of 90 laps.

Pearson said he thought his chances of winning were gone when he had a flat tire and lost nearly two laps. He said the pit crew corrected his tire problems and changed a wedge un-

Vikes, Cards, Pats All Win

By FRED ROTHENBERG

The Minnesota Vikings, the St. Louis Cardinals and the New England Patriots all lived to spend another week as National Football League unbeaten, but each club discovered victories in their bags at different times.

The Vikings saw their victory with one second on the clock. The Cardinals realized the enemy was theirs at halftime and the Patriots felt they were 4-0 when they showed up for the game.

The Vikings saw their victory with one second on the clock. The Cardinals realized the enemy was theirs at halftime and the Patriots felt they were 4-0 when they showed up for the game.

Minnesota was losing its football game at the second-worst possible time — with one second remaining. But after Fred Cox booted a 27-yard field goal, the Dallas Cowboys were losing 23-21 to the Vikings at the worst possible time — the final gun.

The Cardinals felt their 34-9 victory over the San Francisco 49ers was on ice while they were cooling their heels during intermission.

"They were tired and dragging," said St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart of the team he victimized for three third-period touchdown passes. "We were in better shape and we knew if we sustained a drive we could tire them out."

Down 9-7 at the half, the Cards took the lead for good on Hart's 57-yard scoring pitch to Mel Gray, who gathered in a 59-yard touchdown strike 10 minutes later. In between Gray's work, Hart hit Donny Anderson on a four-yard touchdown pass.

The surprising Pats took the lead on the third play of the game, a 69-yarder from Jim Plunkett to Reggie Rucker, and laughed all the way to the final gun for a 42-3 rout of the Baltimore Colts.

Elsewhere, Atlanta defeated the New York Giants 14-7; Cincinnati tripped Washington 28-17; Buffalo bounced Green Bay 27-7; Oakland pounded Cleveland 40-24; Chicago beat New Orleans 24-10; Pittsburgh clipped Houston 13-7; Denver defeated Kansas City 17-14; Los Angeles dropped Detroit 16-13 and Philadelphia downed San Diego 13-7.

The New York Jets are at Miami to meet the Dolphins tonight, rounding out the NFL's fourth week of play.

Quarterback Fran Tarkenton guided the Vikings 68 yards in the final two minutes to set up Cox' third field goal of the game. Calvin Hill's eight-yard touchdown run had given the Cowboys, 1-3 and off to their worst start since 1965, a 21-20 advantage.

Bills 27, Packers 7
The Buffalo Bills can't be billed a one-man show anymore.

"O.J. (Simpson) has some leg problems, but teams can't just worry about O.J. anymore," said quarterback Joe Ferguson, who completed 13 of 16 passes, seven of them to Ahmad Rashad.

Jim Braxton cracked into the end zone for three short-yardage touchdowns and Ferguson accounted for 175 yards and one TD to Rashad.

Broncos 17, Chiefs 14
Little Calvin Jones was a big pain to Kansas City.

The 5-foot-7, 169-pound cornerback swiped a Mike Livingston pass and ran it back to the Kansas City 11, setting up rookie Jim Keyworth's winning touchdown run that gave the Broncos their first victory of the season.

Steelers 13, Oilers 7
Joe Gilliam completed four straight passes to set up Preston Pearson's game-deciding, nine-yard touchdown run in the third quarter.

Bears 21, Saints 10
Practice paid off for the Chicago Bears when Gary Huff passed 39 yards to Bo Rather for the clinching score.

"I really wasn't surprised, though, because we ran the play all week," said Huff, who also scored on a quarterback sneak.

Rams 16, Lions 13
The Rams' Lawrence McCutcheon, who says he's "not faster, but I think I have better quickness," proved quicker than the Detroit defense by gaining 124 yards on 21 carries and catching five passes for 43 more.

Eagles 13, Chargers 7
Philadelphia intercepted four San Diego passes, with Randy Logan taking one 46 yards for a touchdown, to beat the Chargers.

Bengals 28, Redskins 17
Cincinnati defensive back Lamar Parrish returned the Redskins' first punt 90 yards for the game's first touchdown and later scooped up a Jerry Smith fumble and darted 47 yards for (Continued on page 8)

Geiberger Talks Himself To Title

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Al Geiberger kept munching on peanut butter crackers and talking to himself.

"If I don't keep talking to myself, all the time, I tend to back off. I kept telling myself that second place doesn't do me any good at this stage of my career," the 37-year-old veteran said Sunday after his three-stroke victory in the Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

He talked himself into it, shooting a final round 69 — two under par on the sun-splashed, 6,800-yard Sahara-Nevada Country Club course — for a 273 total.

"When you go so long without winning, you begin to think you can't," said Geiberger, whose last previous triumph came in the 1966 PGA National Championship.

He paused for a moment, smiled broadly and said: "Johnny Miller wins eight in one year, I win one in eight years."

He got a little help in winning this one.

"All of a sudden everybody laid down," he said. "Usually they're going the other way — they're coming at you. But this time they backed off. It's a good feeling."

He clinched it when challenging Chi Chi Rodriguez, within one stroke of the top, hit his tee shot into the water on the 18th hole, dropped it into a depression, put his next in the woods, took a couple of shots to get out, finally got in a trap and made a 15-foot putt for a triple bogey eight.

It was Geiberger's last challenge.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

While the people of Eastern North Carolina may be proud and happy with the outcome of the game with N.C. State Saturday afternoon, Coach Pat Dye of East Carolina doesn't quite share their feeling.

Oh, he's proud of the way his Pirates played, let there be no mistake about that. But he's not happy. After the game, one of the first questions asked him was if he considered the 24-20 defeat by the 8th-ranked Wolfpack a moral victory. "Bull," he said. "There's no such thing as a moral victory. There is only victory."

Sunday afternoon, Dye again expressed his disappointment in the loss. "I feel badly for the players," he said. "They wanted badly to win. Just a few little things here and there meant the difference." Dye added that he felt the turnovers in the second half, one interception and two fumbles, one keep in State territory, hurt the Pirates. "We had one more turnover than they did in the second half, and it made the difference."

Dye praised the fine play of quarterback Mike Weaver, too. "He's gotten better every week, and when he gets to where he can throw and complete the pass, he's going to be a super wishbone quarterback." But the coach emphasized that the offensive line and the backs did a fine job blocking the state defense to grind out the yardage the Bucs got.

"When you don't have a lot of ability, you have to make up for it with heart, and our people really did this. We were smaller, but we got the job done."

He also felt the defense was outstanding. "We played as well on defense as we could," Dye said. "Not many teams are going to hold State to 24 points—they have a great offensive football team. (Dave) Buckey comes up with the big play when they need it, and we didn't do a good job of containing him. But they did a great job of protecting him, too. (Roland) Hooks and (Stan) Fritts are both fine blockers."

It was noted that people across the state have talked about the close call the Tar Heels of North Carolina had with the Bucs last year. Now will they talk for a year about this one? "I hope not," Dye said. "We have a lot more to do this year, and I don't want to dwell on it. We've got to reset our goals, now. We wanted to start into our conference schedule unbeaten. We wanted to beat State. The only way we can get over this is to win one."

That one will be an important one—if it comes next week, when it must if the Bucs are to get off to a successful start in their title defense. Furman University has "proven what we knew all along—that they are a great football team," Dye said, referring to their back to back victories over William and Mary and Richmond, the latter on the Spiders' home field.

"I hope that we won't have any letdown," the coach said. "We just have to start a new season."

But Dye did feel that the Bucs proved that they can play with the big boys of the area. "I hope that we can have the kind of season from here on in that we want—and get a bowl bid when we're finished. We feel we have an exciting team that people are going to want to see."

Of course, everyone from here on out will be out to beat the Pirates, especially their conference foes. "And we have to play them all on the road except for The Citadel," Dye reminded. "But I feel that our kids have the maturity to win on the road. We just have to get back together and improve. We can't stay where we are—we either must get better or get worse—and we want to get better."

We had a letter the other day from "An ECU Pirate" wondering why the Daily Reflector didn't print a rundown of Southern Conference statistics, as some morning papers do with the ACC stats. Unfortunately, the AP (our wire service) doesn't furnish these to afternoon papers, and the Southern Conference's mailing of these to us rarely gets to us in time to be used in even Friday's paper.

We do use those national statistics that we get involving Southern, ACC, and ECU opponent teams each week, and we usually include those Pirate individual stats in our Friday pre-game story.

A number of papers and other media people have complained over the late arrival of the Southern statistics, but apparently our complaints fall on deaf ears.

This Kind Of History Is Better Forgotten

By BILL RAWLINS
Associated Press Writer
LEBANON, Tenn. (AP)—Join Cumberland College, if you will, to remember a piece of history and mourn the most lopsided score in college football history: Georgia Tech 222, Cumberland College 0.

It happened on a sunny October Saturday in Atlanta, just 56 years ago today.

"I think one of our best plays of the game was when one of our players got the ball on a pitchout and he lost only 10 yards," recalls Haysler Poague, 76, one of the survivors of the massacre.

The game was scheduled with the Rambling Wreck at Georgia Tech guaranteeing Cumberland $500 if the Tennessee team would show up. Football was almost dead on the Cumberland campus in Lebanon and, as Poague recalls from his home in Clinton, Mo., some of the players were interested.

"We were more interested in the money than anything else. We figured we didn't have much of a chance, but we didn't think it would be that bad."

And, as might be suspected, if football were almost dead before, it was buried in Atlanta. Cumberland College never again took the field. Some even suspect the game led to the demise of the college's once famous law school several years later.

"We really didn't have such a bad team," recounts Poague.

"We were just so ridiculously outclassed that day that it was, well, ridiculous."

How did the crowd react to the slaughter?

Death Mars Watkins Glen Grand Prix Race

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP)—Carlos Reutemann won the battle and fellow Latin-American Emerson Fittipaldi won the war during Sunday's 15th running of the United States Grand Prix.

"It is good," both said, following Reutemann's wire-to-wire victory and Fittipaldi's fourth-place finish that gave him his second world driving championship in two years.

And both were somewhat subdued in their victory celebrations because of the death during the race of 25-year-old Austrian driver Helmuth Koinigg.

Koinigg, of Salzburg, Austria, was killed instantly when his Surtees-Ford failed to make a hairpin turn on the race course and crashed through a steel barrier.

His was the third death among Grand Prix drivers this year and the second at Watkins Glen in two years. American Peter Revson was killed in South Africa in March and Switzerland's Silvia Moser at Monza, Italy, in April. French ace Francois Cevert died in a crash at Watkins Glen the day before last year's race.

"It is very sad," Reutemann said of Koinigg's death. Fittipaldi also was deeply affected, as was his wife, Marie-Helena.

"Those guard rails are lethal," the dark-haired Mrs. Fittipaldi said.

Reutemann, who had qualified his Brabham-Ford team car in the front-row pole position, never trailed as he took the lead at the starter's flag and gradually built up a safe lead over teammate Carlos Pace of Brazil.

Pace passed Britisher James Hunt with only five laps left to claim second place. Hunt was third in a Hesketh-Ford, followed by Fittipaldi in a McLaren team car, and John Watson of Ireland in a third Brabham.

Reutemann, who earlier had won the South African and Austrian Grand Prix races, ran the 199.284 miles in 1:40:21.0 for a speed of 119.12 miles per hour—a new record for the redesigned Glen circuit.

He was paid $50,000 from the $300,000 purse, his biggest paycheck ever. He said he will share it with members of his team.

Belvoir Wins Title

Belvoir's Bombers stopped a Hamilton rally after three runs were scored and held on for a 9-7 victory to take the Pitt-Martin Semi-Pro Baseball league championship yesterday.

Belvoir broke into the lead with two runs in the first on run-scoring singles by J.C. Daniels and Marvin Hardy. Hamilton countered with one in the bottom of the inning.

Belvoir added five more runs in the next three innings as Hamilton picked up three in the second making the score 7-4.

Hamilton rallied for three in the ninth pulling within two but Belvoir retired eighth and ninth batters to win the game.

Worry Clinic Public Expects A 'Stereotype'

Dr. Delong realizes the value of a white shirt! Jesus warned against being so "democratic" in dress or behavior that your associates lose respect for you. Girls relish having men imitate their long hair but lose respect for such half-men!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE B-659: Robert F. Delong is a new District Superintendent of the Methodist Church.

His office is in the home city where DePauw University is located.

He and his charming wife recently had dinner with Mrs. Crane and me.

Dr. Delong started to Medical School but switched to the Seminary after his first year.

And he has held a number of large pastorates, so he has a versatile background.

"But, Dr. Crane," he said, "when I was being considered for this new position, some of the officials wondered about my age."

"So I told them I belonged to the 'white shirt' generation!"

White Shirts

Previously, I have warned you that the general public subconsciously expects its leaders to live up to their time-honored stereotype, whether as priests, doctors, bosses or teachers!

A general is thus expected to wear the appropriate uniform! A professor loses prestige when he also fails to dress like his stereotype.

Same goes for medical and dental experts.

And although colored shirts, open collars and other comfortable types of modern apparel have become fashionable, your leaders better watch your dress!

For people will even praise the departure of such executives from their stereotype, but meanwhile those leaders lose prestige!

For whenever a leader (or employer) lessens the gap between himself and his audience or followers, he may seem to rise in popularity as being more "democratic."

But in a medical, political or other crisis, people usually cry out for help from those who are ABOVE themselves!

"A prophet," said Jesus, "is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house."

Which means what? Namely, that "Familiarity breeds contempt!"

The physician or dental surgeon who is a "Hail-Fellow-Well-Met" may be slapped on the back jovially by his half-liquored pals.

But when their wives and children are to be sent for critical medical or dental surgery, the cronies of those same "democratic" doctors, pass them up in favor of the stereotyped surgeons.

Same goes for the young men nowadays who adopt a hippie hairdo and feminine apparel. The girls fawn over such half-females and apparently show great delight in them. Why?

Because those boys have been reduced to the lower status of their coed classmates, who previously felt in some awe of the masterful type of man with a white shirt and an executive haircut.

For women have always been unsure of themselves when with a virile male, and that's what added to the male's romantic charisma!

Girls don't get the erotic thrill out of half-males, though they feel at greater ease in the presence of such social equals.

For maximum romantic excitement, however, a girl wants to be pursued by a SUPERIOR, not by an equal or an inferior!

Many talented men, in trying to be socially democratic, have lowered their prestige and thus are passed over when the public craves experts in the real crises of life!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

A Hostess Role For Susan Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Ford, President Ford's 17-year-old daughter, has made her public debut as a White House hostess before Washington's diplomatic corps.

"It's not all that bad, but I'd rather have Mother do it," she said Saturday night after shaking hands with guests for about 40 minutes. She was filling in for the ailing First Lady.

She was dressed in a new red chiffon dress and her mother's white gloves and appeared cool and poised for the occasion. But she said later, "I kept shifting my feet and asking 'Dad, when is it going to stop?'"

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Improve home and family affairs in a.m., and get basic matters in better shape. Later, sidestep all arguments, take care of your health and avoid trouble.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study into some new outlet, but don't put in operation just yet. Establish more harmony in home and with family.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Set up appointments early and keep them on time; then get caught up on your important correspondence. Do nothing foolish tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Work out a better plan for your practical and money affairs early, then be sure to economize. Follow ideas of a clever business expert.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle personal affairs in a.m. Problems may arise that require quick thinking and acting to solve later. Plan future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Gain the aid of good pals for some project in a.m. since later you have to tend to business exclusively. Postpone action on what you want.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is best time to make new friends, but the afternoon is not good at all for such, so pretend to be busy. Take a good pal to lunch.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make a fine impression on a bigwig before you get at your work, then all flows more smoothly and you get more benefits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put those new and good ideas to work in a.m. Correspondence can bring the results you are seeking, so get that done, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have fine hunches in a.m., so jot them down. Listen to what mate says, then mul over in your mind to know what to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Cement bonds with closest ties in a.m., then be active in some new venture. Reconciliation with one who opposes you is possible. Stand up for your rights.

Analysts See No Great Upswing In Auto Sales

By MARTIN HIRSCHMAN, Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Independent analysts forecast little improvement in car sales in 1975, but their predictions conflict with those offered by the auto-makers themselves.

Top executives at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler recently estimated that 1975-model sales, including imports, would be between 10 and 10.5 million cars, up from 1974-model sales of 9.6 million.

However, Wall Street analysts forecast far fewer sales in the coming 12-month period. Their predictions range as low as 9.3 million for the 1975 calendar year, compared to 9.4 million for calendar 1974.

"The product this year is not smashing. The cars look the same," one independent analyst says. "Gas mileage is a little better, but 11 or 13 miles per gallon is nothing to write home about."

These pessimistic sales predictions are based partly on expectations there will be little real growth in the Gross National Product in 1975 — perhaps a percentage point or two.

Stagnation of the GNP, a measure of the goods and services produced in the United States in a given year, means little change in the amount of money consumers have available to spend on a new car.

Consumers also face sticker prices that have mushroomed about 20 per cent in the past 14 months and higher gasoline prices.

Detroit auto dealers indicate sales of new models are moving slowly, with many prospective buyers taking a wait-and-see attitude.

Imports are expected to hold onto about 15 per cent of the U.S. market, despite a surge to nearly 18 per cent in September. Analysts say importers indulged in something close to a "fire sale" last month in an effort to clear large inventories.

Price increases averaging almost $1,000 per vehicle are expected to help the makers improve their profits picture following record declines in the first quarter of the year.

In addition, analysts note, the makers spent hundreds of millions this year converting some plants to production of smaller-size cars to accommodate growing consumer concern about fuel economy.

The expensive process will not have to be repeated in 1975, and the domestic firms are now in a better position to compete in the small car market, financial analysts note.

Less strike activity is expected in 1975. A series of walk-outs in local disputes and at supplier firms have caused many missed production schedules this year.

Japan Retreats In Coal-Buying

By STEVE MOORE, Associated Press Writer

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Japan has broken off negotiations to purchase strip-mined coal from Montana because it feared a controversy that might jeopardize other dealings with the United States, a coal industry official says.

The issue at stake was an attempt by the Mitsui Mining Co. of Tokyo to make large purchases of Western coal for shipment through Oregon ports.

Farmers and ranchers, whose land sits atop federal coal reserves, oppose strip mining and said they had been told any exploitation would be to meet the domestic energy crisis, not for export purposes.

Pemberton Hutchinson, president of the Westmoreland Resources coal company, said Sunday night it appeared the Japanese were afraid any "brawling controversy" might result in legislation to limit the export of other coal reserves from Eastern states.

The Japanese are the United States' biggest customer of metallurgical coal, most of which comes from the Eastern states, Hutchinson said.

Industry and government officials contend strip-mining of massive coal reserves in Montana and surrounding states is necessary to ease the nation's energy crisis.

The battle lines began forming when it was learned Westmoreland had shipped 12,000 tons of coal, valued at about $60,000, to Japan by way of Portland, Ore., for a test burn by Mitsui.

The Northern Plains Resource Council, an agriculture group opposed to strip-mining, reacted angrily to the idea that Montana coal might be shipped to Japan.

Many ranchers have staunchly resisted development of the coal reserves, contending developers are interested in the vast reserves simply because the coal can be strip-mined at relatively low cost.

The New York Times said Sunday that Mitsui had taken a three-year option on a five-acre coal-dock site at Astoria, Ore. It quoted Astoria port officials saying Japanese companies had paid $35,000 for the option and were preparing to guarantee $20 million in revenue bonds for building a modern coal-storage and loading facility.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2NT Pass
3 ♠ 2 Pass 3NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five spades. North quite likely has the king of spades on this auction, so slam chances are bright unless you have two quick diamond losers. Your bid over game gets this message across, and at the same time tells partner that you have at least six hearts and five spades, and that you want to play in six of his better major if he controls the enemy suit.

A.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQ52 ♥83 ♦A6 ♠Q1098

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Dble. Rdbld. 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Double. This seems almost too good to be true. It would appear that West was in an experimental frame of mind when he entered the auction, and no thought should be given to such a petty matter as reaching game unless, of course, partner removes your double to two spades. Here, the penalty's the thing.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three clubs. While you have adequate support for hearts, you should delay raising partner to complete the description of your hand. When you raise hearts at your next turn, your singleton spade will become marked and partner can decide whether to make a move toward slam.

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—North has described a hand with six diamonds and five spades, and on that basis a preference to diamonds is indicated. However, South can give himself an extra chance by bidding three

Jack Dempsey's Eatery Closes

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the last outposts in the honky-tonk land of Times Square, Jack Dempsey's restaurant, has closed.

About 150 friends and well-wishers were on hand Sunday night when the former world heavyweight boxing champ, now 79 years old, closed the eatery he had run since 1947.

Dempsey and his partner, Jack Amiel, blamed an increase in rent, from $65,000 to $100,000 a year, for the closing.

"I don't know what I'll do now. Maybe I'll take some time off. Maybe I'll open another place in Manhattan," said Dempsey, who took his accustomed place at a table in the rear of the restaurant for the last night. At his side was his wife, Diana.

Fuel Conservation Efforts Have Lost Their Steam

OIL SPILLED—The tanker Messiniaka Bergen sits in its berth Sunday, in New Haven surrounded by oil that leaked, the Coast Guard said, after the ship split its hull while entering harbor.

Booms were set up around the moorage to keep the oil from spreading. But oil has been reported on the city beaches and at several points outside the harbor. (AP Wirephoto)

American fuel conservation efforts have lost some of their steam, and experts in and out of government are calling for new ways to save energy and slow the inflationary flow of dollars to oil countries.

An Associated Press survey completed on the eve of President Ford's economic policy speech shows that Americans are still traveling less, driving their cars more slowly and turning out lights.

The survey showed these efforts have slackened since the end of the embargo. They continue to provide considerable energy savings — more than a million barrels of oil a day. That's good, but not enough, many experts are saying.

With American crude production slowly declining and imports of expensive foreign crude slowly climbing, more conservation is needed to halt the dollar flow. The dollar drain is one of the biggest reasons for the inflation that plagues this country and much of the industrialized world, economists say.

France has already moved to cut oil imports by 10 per cent, and Italy is also taking mandatory steps to reduce energy use.

Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon said last week that conservation is the only tool this country has right now to bring down foreign oil prices.

President Ford is expected to announce some new measures for conserving energy Tuesday, but advance word is that no radical steps will be taken.

Simon's successor as head of the Federal Energy Administration, John Sawhill, is known to favor a federal tax on gasoline to cut demand. President Ford has said he does not favor such a tax.

The AP conservation survey, like several others taken during the past year, showed that people cited inflation and the high price of gasoline and electricity as the prime reasons for cutting back. Industry spokesmen also said they were cutting back because it saved them money.

"Since the oil embargo, only the price is making people conserve," said Dr. James Murray of the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago which has been polling citizen views on energy for the FEA. "It's strictly economic."

Many experts feel that voluntary conservation can accomplish only so much. They say any further reductions in consumption require stronger measures.

Former Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, one of Ford's leading unofficial advisers, says he favors a rationing system to curb gasoline consumption. Ford spokesman says the president is opposed to such a move.

Kissinger Visit A Sounding-Out

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's forthcoming visit to the Mideast probably won't yield any specific proposals on the next stage of peace talks, Israel's foreign minister says.

Yigal Allon talked Sunday with newsmen as he returned from a U.S. visit. He said Kissinger would be sounding out the Israelis and the Arabs for views on possible subjects at renewed Geneva talks.

Kissinger is to begin his Mideast mission Wednesday.

Bandits Escape On Bicycles

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Two men held up a Portland supermarket and escaped with an undetermined amount of money by using 10-speed bicycles.

They were able to evade arrest by taking a route a pursuing pickup truck could not follow.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Soybeans again this year offer farmers a good return on their work and investment. The situation encourages harvest time practices that will keep losses to a minimum.

Like corn and other grains, production of soybeans is expected to be heavy in North Carolina and the nation. Prices remain good and the market outlook for the 1974 crop is favorable.

The state has almost 1.5 million acres of beans. Unfortunately, a sizeable portion of the potential soybean profits will be lost during harvest. E. O. Beasley, Extension engineer at North Carolina State University, cites an estimate that puts harvest losses at about three bushels of beans per acre. "This would amount to a loss in value of from $18 to $36 million for North Carolina as a whole," said Beasley.

"Some of this loss can't be avoided," he added, "but about two-thirds of it is unnecessary. It could be avoided if recommended harvesting practices were followed."

He said special emphasis is being placed on reduced harvest losses this fall: growers and combine operators are being urged to follow seven points to minimize losses:

1. Begin harvest when beans reach 13 percent moisture and complete harvest as rapidly as possible. Delaying harvest can result in losses due to shattering, both before and during harvest.

2. Run combines at the right speed. Combine operation at high speeds tends to strip beans from the stalk. About three miles per hour is right for most machines.

3. Determine the pre-harvest loss by counting beans on the ground before combining so these losses won't be charged against the combining operation. Four beans per square foot equals about one bushel per acre. Pre-harvest losses might be cut next year by variety selection and timely harvesting.

4. Match the combine ground speed to the reel speed and reduce shattering losses. Reel speed should be about 25 percent faster than ground speed. The reel axis should be six to twelve inches ahead of the cutter bar, and the reel should enter the crop only enough to gain control of the beans. A "pick-up" type reel is recommended where beans are lodged and tangled.

5. Beans should be cut as low to the ground as possible to get all the pods.

6. Losses from gathering, cutting, threshing and separation operations should be determined to pinpoint where losses are occurring so proper adjustments can be made. Potential savings of $15 to $20 worth of beans per hour of operation make it worthwhile to spend time adjusting the machine.

7. The combine should be readjusted to changing crop and weather conditions as needed. Cylinder speed should be increased and cylinder clearance decreased for damp conditions. Watch the beans in the grain tank to determine when these adjustments are "too aggressive," causing excessive cracking.

Making these savings at harvest time is pure profit. All the costs are already paid, and it doesn't cost any more to harvest carefully than carelessly.

Farm Scene

By STEVE C. RIDDICK

Preliminary research reported at the 1974 Animal Science meetings indicated that we can expect gilts raised in complete darkness to be older at first estrus than gilts raised under normal day-night lighting cycles.

This research was based on two groups of 16 gilts. One group was housed in a commercial feed floor, very much like some North Carolina producers have purchased in recent years, which house the pigs essentially in complete darkness. The other group was raised under a 12:12 hour light-darkness cycle. This group averaged 183 days of age at first estrus compared to 222 days for the completely dark environment group.

Other research conducted at the University of Nebraska has shown that restriction of protein in swine diets during the growing-finishing phase of production may cause reduced reproductive performance. From experiments comparing a 10 percent and 14 percent corn-soybean ration, it was concluded that (1) reproductive development is affected more by low protein than growth rate, (2) Age at puberty is increased when low protein levels are fed, and (3) if reproductive development is retarded, future reproductive performance is decreased.

This could be one of the possible causes for the problem some farmers have had in getting gilts to reach sexual maturity and breed in confinement.

Chou En-lai In Hospital Again

TOKYO (AP) — A Peking broadcast says Premier Chou En-lai has returned to the hospital after addressing a reception for China's 25th anniversary.

Chou's first public appearance in two months came last Monday when he addressed the anniversary reception. The 76-year-old Premier is reported to have suffered a heart attack in May.

The official Hsinhua news agency said Chou met President El Hadj Comar Bongo of Gabon in the hospital during the afternoon Sunday for a friendly conversation.
