Arafat To Visit UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Yasir Arafat, to the Israelis a master terrorist and to the Arabs a freedom fighter, is expected at the United Nations early next month as the first outsider to speak to the General Assembly since Pope Paul VI in 1965.

The assembly Monday approved 105 to 4 a resolution inviting Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, the PLO, to participate in its debate on the Palestine question. The PLO would be treated as "the representative of the Palestinian people," the resolution said.

Only the United States, Israel, Bolivia and the Dominican Republic voted against the resolution sponsored by half the 138 U.N. members, led by Arab and Communist governments. Twenty countries abstained.

Two Share Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two British radio astronomers, Sir Martin Ryle and Antony Hewish of Cambridge University, today were named joint winners of the 1974 Nobel Prize in Physics.

The award was the first Nobel Prize given for work in radio astronomy.

Branch Jury Selection Continues

The selection of a jury continued this morning in Pitt County Superior in cases against Roy Lee Sullivan of Kinston and Connie Hardee Branch of Greenville.

Three jurors were seated Monday afternoon to hear the cases, in which both Mrs. Branch and Sullivan are charged with conspiracy to murder and being accessories before the fact of murder in the death of Mrs. Branch's husband, Lynwood Branch.

Branch was found in the driveway of his home near Greenville on the night of March 29. He had been shot in the head, and died in Pitt Memorial Hospital on the morning of March 31.

Sullivan and Mrs. Branch were arrested on the conspiracy and accessory charges in late April.

Two other persons, Matthew Jack Whelton and Harold Payne Wiseman have been charged with conspiracy to murder in connection with the case also.

Both Virginians, Wiseman is from Norfolk, while Whelton is from Chesapeake.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Perry Martin indicated yesterday that 14 jurors would be selected before trial of the cases begins.

Mungai Loses In Elections

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Foreign Minister Njoroge Mungai lost his seat in Parliament to an American-educated university professor as the results of Kenya's third national elections became known today. The loss almost certainly will remove Mungai from his cabinet post.

Three other ministers in President Jomo Kenyatta's 20-member cabinet and six assistant ministers also were defeated in a wave of upsets in the voting Monday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman's lawyer accused former President Richard M. Nixon today of deliberately withholding information about Watergate "to save his own neck."

William S. Frates said in his opening statement to the jury trying Ehrlichman and four others for conspiracy in the Watergate cover-up that:

"President Nixon, who knew the full story, withheld it from John Ehrlichman and prevented Ehrlichman from making a full disclosure of the facts that Ehrlichman recommended at that time over and over again."

Frates thus laid out Ehrlichman's defense: That "Richard Nixon deceived, misled, lied and used John Ehrlichman."

He said that at the same time that Nixon was calling Ehrlichman one of the finest public servants he had ever known "he was deliberately withholding information ... covering up to save his own neck."

As Frates spoke, Ehrlichman, who had been Nixon's number two aide until he resigned four months into Nixon's second presidential term, sat at the counsel table staring fixedly at the jury.

His lawyer said it was not easy for Ehrlichman to make such charges against the man he served so long.

Frates asked the jury of nine women and three men to treat each defendant separately in making their decision at the end of a trial he expected to last three or four months.

He referred to the White House tapes that Nixon fought so hard to retain in the White House. The tapes, obtained after extended court fights and a Supreme Court decision, will be played for the jury in the course of the trial.

"The tapes might have done some people harm," Frates said, "but they are the greatest thing that ever happened to John Ehrlichman."

Frates made the first opening statement for the defense. Lawyers for two other defendants, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson were to follow. The other defendants, H. R. Haldeman and John N. Mitchell, reserved their opening statements until the prosecution cases end.

The first witness was to be John Dean III, the first White House insider to accuse Nixon and his closest associates.

Dean was to testify to a jury that had been told by government prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste on Monday that Nixon once suggested Dean be given to investigators as a sacrificial "hors d'oeuvre (and) maybe they won't come back for the main course."

Quoting from tape recordings to be made public for the first time in the trial, Ben-Veniste told of conversations among the former President, Haldeman and Ehrlichman in April 1973 about the threat posed by Dean, then spilling the Watergate story to prosecutors.

On April 14, Ben-Veniste said, the three men "considered a strategy of pushing Dean outside the circle of wagons around the White House." It was then, he added, that Nixon suggested sacrificing Dean, a self-admitted participant in the cover-up.

"The president recognized that if Dean was guilty that half of his staff could be considered guilty," Ben-Veniste told the jury. He said Nixon made a strong suggestion that "Dean has got to look down the road and realize there is only one man who can restore him to the practice of law after it's all over."

But by then, Dean already had gone to prosecutors with his story. When that information was brought to the President by Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, Ben-Veniste said, the discussions turned to how the situation should be handled.

Haldeman, Nixon's chief of staff and Ehrlichman, his domestic counselor, resigned April 30. Dean, who had issued a public statement April 19 that "he would not become a scapegoat" in the Watergate case was fired April 30.

Other than disclosures from the tapes, the story Ben-Veniste outlined in his 3-hour, 10-minute statement, was a familiar one. It began with the meetings at which Mitchell, Jeb S. Magruder and G. Gordon Liddy allegedly planned the Watergate break-in, through its execution and the ever more-frantic efforts to bottle up the story.

All five defendants are charged with a conspiracy to obstruct justice, which Ben-Veniste described as "an agreement among two or more persons to violate the laws."

He told the jury of 9 women and 3 men that:

"We will prove to you in the course of this trial that the attempts of legitimate law enforcement agencies of the United States to ascertain the facts which led up to this Watergate break-in ... were met by an effort to cover up the facts and obstruct the investigation by the most powerful men in the government of the United States in a conspiracy that involved the participation of even the President himself."

Landscaping Package Approved

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Redevelopment Commission's share of a contract package involving landscaping of the Town Common and planting of street trees in Shore Drive and on Reade Circle was approved Monday night.

Joe Laney, executive director, reported that the commission has been working with the city, which owns the Town Common property, in securing bids for both the city's landscaping work and the commission's Reade Circle and Shore Drive tree work.

Laney, who noted that bids for the total project were opened on Sept. 10, said that the city's portion of the work in the Town Common amounted to a major portion of the bid.

The total bid package included five projects, he explained. The city work involved seeding of the Town Common ($6,490 successful bid), planting of street trees in the Common ($11,831 bid), and planting of shrubs in the Common ($17,769). The City Council has already approved the city's portion of the bid package, it was noted.

The two projects involving the Redevelopment Commission, planting of 48 trees for Reade Circle ($4,550) and 70 street trees for Shore Drive ($6,556), (Continued on page 14)

A HOTLINE APPEAL

YOUNG MOTHER HAS LEUKEMIA

Linda Adams Sutton, 24, has myeloblastic leukemia.

She and her husband, David, and their sons, David Jr., eight, and Rodney, four, live in Quail Hollow Trailer Park on Mumford Road here and she teaches Sunday School at Carson Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church when she is able. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Adams and her sister, Peggy, and David's mother help out with the children, but it's been difficult for family members to get Linda back and forth to Duke Hospital, where she's been going, sometimes as often as four times a week, since her illness was diagnosed in June. Usually, David has had to take time off from his job at Collins and Aikman in Farmville to take her.

The trips to the hospital and the cost of the experimental treatment Linda is receiving are wrecking the family's modest budget. Her mother says any assistance anyone can give, whether it's a ride to the hospital, a financial contribution, or just a card to cheer Linda will be appreciated by the entire family. The address is Mrs. Linda Sutton, Rt. 8, Box 379-A, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

MANY GIFTS

Michael Riley who appealed to Hotline on behalf of his fellow church members, Bill and Cathy Buchanan of Craven County, reports that many, many gifts were given because of the appeal Sept. 27.

"Bill and Cathy have rented a house and have it almost completely furnished with things given them by people in Pitt and Craven County," Riley said. The Buchanans' home was destroyed by fire while they were at Bill's father's funeral. Their two-year-old daughter, Rachel, was killed in the blaze. They have three young sons and are "doing amazingly well with God's help," Riley said.

ANOTHER PLACE

Another place to sell cardboard in this area, not mentioned in last Wednesday's Hotline item is Kinston Recycling Company near Grifton. They pay two cents a pound for large boxes and $12.50 a thousand pounds for smaller ones.

Dancer Backs Mills Story

By MARGARET SCHERF

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Breaking a week-long silence, the woman involved in a bizarre incident with Rep. Wilbur D. Mills has backed up his version and complained that the press "is trying to destroy a great man."

"What Mr. Mills said was exactly what happened," the 38-year-old Argentinian and former dancer said in a telephone interview Monday night. She reportedly worked as a stripper in a Washington nightclub and was billed as "the Argentine firecracker."

Speaking in a soft, slightly accented voice and sounding at times close to tears, Annabel Battistella said that accounts of the episode may also ruin "me and my chances of going back to school."

But she expressed confidence that the political career of Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, would not be ruined by the episode which took place in the predawn hours of Oct. 7.

"I am sure when he goes to Arkansas, he will be able to talk to his people like he used to," she said.

Mrs. Battistella refused to elaborate on Mills' statement about the events of Oct. 7 beyond saying it was accurate.

But she differed with U.S. Park Police accounts in at least one aspect.

Police said she jumped into the Tidal Basin, a backwater of the Potomac River, after police stopped Mills' speeding, unlighted car and he emerged smelling of alcohol and with a bleeding face.

A policeman pulled Mrs. Battistella from the water.

"I didn't jump into the Tidal Basin. I fell," she said. "I got hysterical because the officer was drowning me. I didn't need his help. I am an expert swimmer."

Charlie Rich Winner Of Entertainer Award

By CHRISTOPHER CABOT

Associated Press Writer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Fifteen years of sticking to a dream paid off for Charlie Rich Monday night as he won the Country Music Association's most prestigious award, Entertainer of the Year.

Accepting the award, the 41-year-old "Silver Fox" read from a crumpled piece of paper on which his wife, Margaret Anne, had written:

"If you have a dream, hang on to it. Because dreams do come true."

Singer-writer-band leader Frank "Pee Wee" King and recording executive Owen Bradley tied in balloting for the Country Music Hall of Fame. It was the first time that two personalities, instead of one, had been chosen for country music immortality.

Ronnie Milsap, a newcomer to country music recognition, was named CMA male vocalist of the year. Milsap, blind since birth, beamed, "I love you all," as he accepted the award.

Australian Olivia Newton-John, fresh from a string of hits, was named female vocalist of the year. Miss Newton-John accepted her award in a video-taped message from London.

Rich's honor came after a barrage of hit records and successful road shows during the (Continued on page 10)

Lake Withdraws Support For Robert Morgan

By DAVID R. NELSEN

Associated Press Writer

I. Beverly Lake has withdrawn support for Democrat Robert Morgan, who managed his campaign for governor in 1960. But, some political observers believe Morgan might actually profit from the move in his campaign for the U.S. Senate.

And, most observers contacted by The Associated Press said Lake's action would, at the least, have little impact on the campaign.

The reasoning: Tar Heel citizens are no longer swayed by racial issues. Even in areas where prejudice reportedly runs high, the attitude is said to be far more tolerant than 10 or 20 years ago.

But, an aide to William Stevens, the Republican nominee, predicted that Stevens stands to benefit because conservatives and liberals alike will now turn to him.

Lake, an avowed segregationist candidate for governor in 1960, withdrew his support for Morgan because the candidate made a bid for NAACP support. Morgan was Lake's campaign manager in 1960.

Lake sent friends and former supporters letters announcing his withdrawal of support for Morgan. He said Morgan agreed with him during the 1960 campaign and said Morgan also agreed that the NAACP was "the enemy."

The state Supreme Court associate justice also criticized

Stevens, saying the Republican "never would have been taken seriously by anyone except for the fact that his father-in-law is a very rich man and a deeply respected North Carolinian."

Lake said neither candidate should be supported by his followers and called for organization of a third party and promised he is ready to join it if it is formed.

Morgan and his staff issued a statement on the letter that said little more than he was "disappointed" and praised Lake as a lawyer and a jurist. They wouldn't comment further.

Several Tar Heel political leaders said Morgan has been edging away from the 1960 association with Lake. State Rep.

H.M. "Mickey" Michaux Jr., D-Durham, said, "Morgan has now grown up and Mr. Justice Lake can't stomach it."

State Rep. Chris Barker Jr., D-Craven, agreed that Morgan has been gradually moving to the middle of the racial road for some time. He said "all of us" have been doing that. He predicted that the Lake withdrawal won't hurt Morgan because Lake doesn't carry that much influence any more.

State Rep. J. Ed Davenport, D-Nash, said the issue probably will have a "negligible" impact on the race. He predicted that Morgan will gain as many votes as he would lose over the issue.

On the other hand, an aide for Stevens said the letter will remind Tar Heel blacks of Morgan's part in the 1960 Lake campaign and turn away many "conservatives" who would have voted for him. "No one likes a traitor," he said.

The issue boils down to how much North Carolina has changed in the past 15 or 20 years. If the people have moderated their racial views—as many observers say they have—it won't cost Morgan any votes. And, if Stevens had been making inroads into Morgan's black support, the issue could show that Morgan had "grown up" as Michaux, a black legislator, said.

Political observers generally were of the opinion that Morgan's current racial stand and his accomplishments as attorney general would overcome any negative reaction the blacks may have about his 1960 involvement in the Lake campaign.

During the campaign, Morgan has emphasized that he hired blacks as assistants to the attorney general and as agents for the State Bureau of Investigation, positions previously held by whites only.

As to the loss of the "conservatives," Davenport said Morgan probably never had them anyway. He said most of them have registered as Republicans and were going to vote for Stevens anyway.

Vitamin E: New Possibilities For A Controversial Nutrient

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two California researchers have raised new possibilities about the role of vitamin E, a mystery nutrient burdened over the years with unproven claims it could cure or prevent a variety of human ailments.

The lack of knowledge about vitamin E, once described as the "vitamin in search of a disease," has given rise to numerous rumors of its miracle effects. There have been claims, among others, that large doses could improve sexual prowess, prevent heart attacks, smooth facial wrinkles and banish body odor.

These claims were repudiated a year ago by a committee of the National Research Council, which said they had no basis in sound experimentation or clinical observations.

Now Drs. Lester Packer and James R. Smith of the University of California's Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory say they have found vitamin E capable of stopping the normal aging process of human lung cells in test tubes.

This is not to suggest the vitamin can make people live longer, the physiologists said, because it cannot reverse other aging processes of the human body. But their finding did suggest some interesting possibilities.

"Even if vitamin E can't turn a 40-year-old into a 14-year-old, it might prevent an early death, or brain disease, heart attacks or senility," Packer said. "Of course, we don't know these things at all yet. That's speculation."

"We don't want to overstate it," he said in a telephone interview. "We can't jump from experiments with isolated cells to the human body. I personally feel this is the level at which we need a lot more work before we can do intelligent tests in animals and humans."

What Packer and Smith found was that human lung cells survived twice their normal life span in a laboratory environment when vitamin E was added. These cells normally die in test tubes after reproducing themselves about 50 times. With the vitamin, they continued past 120 cell divisions and still appeared young.

"Quite frankly we don't really understand it very well," Packer said. "We have found these effects. The real significance remains to be explained."

A traditional view is that vitamin E functions chiefly to protect body cells against damage from chemicals known as oxidants. Oxygen from these chemicals can cause cell deterioration by entering molecules and changing their structure and behavior.

This led some scientists to speculate that vitamin E might protect people against air pollution.

Packer said it is possible such antioxidant activity might be involved in the extension of the cell division. He and Smith plan to continue their search for an explanation in studies supported partly by the National Institutes of Health, the Veterans Administration and the University of California.

Dr. John G. Bieri, a nutrition specialist at the National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism and Digestive Diseases, said the Packer-Smith report was interesting, "but it's too early to tell what it means."

Vitamin E was discovered in 1923 and 14 years later was isolated as a light yellow viscous oil from wheat germ oil. It is fat soluble like vitamins A, D and K and is widespread in nature.

Two-thirds of the vitamin E in an American diet comes from salad oils, shortening and margarine, and the rest from fruits, vegetables and grains.

Although scientists disagree on how much vitamin E humans need, the National Research Council committee said most people get enough in their normal diets.

"Self-medication with vitamin E in the hope that a more or less serious condition will be alleviated may indeed be hazardous, especially when appropriate diagnosis and treatment may thereby be delayed or avoided," the panel warned.

The only known vitamin E deficiency in humans sometimes occurs in premature babies because of a limited transfer of the vitamin from the mother's blood before birth.

Vitamin E is considered vital for human health, but its function is still not understood.

One possible role was suggested in 1971 by Dr. P. P. Nair, director of biochemistry research at Sinai Hospital in Baltimore. He and his associates suggested the vitamin was important in the formation of an iron molecule in hemoglobin. They said it might be useful in treating porphyria, a metabolic condition that can lead to abdominal problems, paralysis and mental illness.

Nair's report prompted the Journal of the American Medical Association, which had called vitamin E the vitamin in search of a disease, to ask: "Has the vitamin finally ended its quest?"

Quality Stressed As Key To The National Defense

FARMVILLE—Major Benjamin May Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met Saturday afternoon at the Chapter House here. Mrs. W. H. Harris, Mrs. John Wright and Mrs. W. C. Murray were hostesses.

Miss Nancy Darden was welcomed as a new member and the following visitors were introduced Mrs. O. G. Spell, Mrs. Z. M. Whitehurst and Mrs. L. E. Turnage.

The speaker for the meeting was Capt. Gerald A. Fabisch, assistant professor of Aerospace Studies, ECU. Captain Fabisch is a native of New Jersey, he did his undergraduate work at Fairleigh Dickinson University and received a Master's degree from Montclair State College. Captain Fabisch was commissioned as an Air Force officer in December, 1963.

Capt. Fabisch's subject was "A View of National Defense". He stated that the United States is still very much a world leader in every way and that it is, in fact, the only country to become so powerful without making any attempt to do so.

He went on to say that the U.S. has the responsibility for maintaining worldwide equilibrium and the survival of the free world. These facts pose the question of whether we can "maintain our military posture with reduced force."

Capt. Fabisch says this can be done since the watchword in the armed services is now quality, rather than quantity. Ten years ago only 55 per cent of Air Force officers had four years of college. Today, this percentage is between 85 and 90 with many officers having advanced degrees. The armed services are competitive in all areas now. National Defense is not hurting because of quality.

During the month of October, the National Society DAR is celebrating its 84th birthday. It was founded Oct. 11, 1890 and incorporated by an act of the United States Congress in 1896. The membership as of Feb. 1, was 196,516 in 2,983 chapters in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and overseas units in England, France, and Mexico.

Mrs. Frederick M. Tripp gave the National Defense report on the subject, "Should We Cut Immigration?"

Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti and Mrs. Edward Lee Hill of the Constitution Week Committee gave reports. They stated that proclamations from the mayors of Farmville, Ayden and Greenville appeared in the local papers.

Mrs. Charles Carr of the Bicentennial Committee told of the work of her committee. Plans are being made for the participation of Major Benjamin May Chapter in a special Bicentennial project. It was noted by the Regent, Dr. Emily Farnham, that DAR members may now be listed in the "Hereditary Register."

Those who attended the recent District VIII meeting in Scotland Neck were Miss DeVisconti, Miss Elizabeth Lang, Mrs. A. C. Darden, and Dr. Emily Farnham.

The State Regent, Mrs. John B. MacLeod of Chapel Hill, will meet with the chapter in November. She will describe the Sally-Billy house of the early eighteenth century which is being moved from Scotland Neck to the Historic Square in Halifax.

The featured speaker for the meeting will be Dr. Herbert R. Paschall, chairman of the Department of History, ECU. He will speak on "The U.S.A. Bicentennial."

New Members Installed

Four new members were recognized at the Thursday night meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club held at the Ramada Inn.

The installation and pinning ceremony was conducted for Audrey Andrews, Wanda Earp, Sarah Lassiter, and Carolyn Smith.

Couple Exchanges Vows On Sunday

The Belvoir Free Will Baptist Church was the scene of the double ring wedding ceremony of Janet Ray Brown and Lindsey Wayne Brewer Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Vicki Clark. The Rev. Will Edgar Bell officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spencer Brown of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Earl Brewer of Belvoir.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length white nylon gown styled with a fitted bodice, scooped neckline and short puffed sleeves. Pink roses were featured on the gown, made by the bride's mother.

She wore a bouffant elbow length veil attached to a cluster of lilies-of-the-valley, designed and made by Mrs. Ada Briley. She carried a long-stemmed pink rose tied with pink streamers.

The mother and sister of the bride were remembered with white carnation corsages.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a red and black pants suit. The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is employed by Giant Discount and the bridegroom works at Stencil Music Co.

A cake cutting was held at the home of the bride.

The bride's table was centered with a decorated wedding cake. Mrs. Lois Narron and Mrs. Linda June poured punch and assisted.

The house was decorated with a white mum arrangement.

Bridge Winners Announced

Mrs. Ted Hall and Mrs. W.Z. Morton Jr. were first place duplicate winners Wednesday morning at the Bank of North Carolina.

Others who placed were: Mrs. John Richards and Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, second; Mrs. Gretchen Goodwin and Mrs. E.L. Baker, third.

Wednesday afternoon winners were: Mrs. J.M. Horton and Mrs. Beulah Eagles, first; Mrs. Effie Williams and Mrs. George Martin, second; Mrs. L.D. Harris and Mrs. Clifton Toler, third.

Saturday afternoon winners at First Federal Savings and Loan were:

Adele Gray and Kitty Meares, first; Mildred Harker and Dorothy Ritchy, second; tied for third were Mrs. Carmi Winters and Mrs. Ralph Pate with Mrs. Clifton Toler and Mrs. George Martin.

A Unit Game with sectional rating will be held Oct. 16. The Saturday, Oct. 19, game will be cancelled for the Wilson tournament.

Sorority Names New Pledges

Four coeds from Greenville have been inducted as pledges of Chi Omega Sorority at East Carolina University.

They are: Ginger Flye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Paul Flye; Susan Ipock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ipock; Margaret Stevens, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stevens; and Jeanne Turcotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Turcotte.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A grade school principal in the East recently became so upset about the lack of nutrition in the lunches the children were eating that he declared an edict banning junk food from the cafeteria.

I have a feeling the kids jammed the edict between two potato chips and two squares of Hershey chocolate and had it for lunch.

There is certainly no quarrel with the theory. Children should eat nutritionally balanced meals. But children do not take to ultimatums. I'm no authority, mind you, but I would have tried the old "Accentuate-The-Negative-Reverse-The-Positive-And-Make-The-Kid-Think-Your-Idea-Is-His-And-He's-Driving-You-Crazy" approach.

Instead of an edict, the bulletin would have read something like this:

Memo to: School Children
Re: Nutritional Lunches

1. Carrots are illegal on school premises. Children bringing them from home will need a note from a parent giving permission to have them, or they will be confiscated by the office and held until dismissal time.

2. Locker inspection for thermoses containing hot vegetable soup or other nutritious dishes will be held periodically without warning. At that time, students are instructed to go to their lockers and stand at attention. DO NOT UNLOCK YOUR LOCKER UNTIL A TEACHER INSTRUCTS YOU TO DO SO. Thermoses will be destroyed by the custodian.

3. Because of student demand, we are selling fresh fruit by the door in the cafeteria. This is on a trial basis. If we find this is all students are having for lunch it will be discontinued. Remember, fruit contains sugar and Billy Tooth is watching you. To avoid congestion at fruit counter, please have correct change.

4. Teachers have reported to the office that raisin boxes and milk cartons have been found on the school grounds. We know there are students who have been sneaking nutritious foods on the premises and for this reason students have been posted and are instructed to "take names."

5. Your principal will be patrolling the lunchroom where he wants to see potato chips, candy bars, tortilla chips, soft drinks and ice cream. Remember, junk foods build soft bones, soft teeth, and make you sleep a lot.

Trust me. It'll work.

Nutritionists say Americans eat more fats than they realize because they fail to take into account the fat content of such items as whole milk, nuts, potato chips, pastries, cream, gravy and french fries.

DEAR ABBY: My formerly favorite nephew who lives in another state was married last June. I sent him a generous check for a wedding gift. I heard nothing from him, but noticed that when the bank sent my cancelled checks, the above-mentioned check was among them.

Isn't it customary for people to write thank-you notes for checks?

I recall how I laughed when I read in your column that a bride and groom had received a check for a wedding gift, and on the back they endorsed it and scribbled, "Thanks."

Not a very proper thank-you, but I was more than I got.

TICKED OFF IN TULSA

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating this real neat guy who keeps telling me that I don't have to worry about his getting me pregnant because he was injured while playing football. Should I believe him?

NANCY

DEAR NANCY: No. It sounds to me like he's trying to complete a pass. Kick him in the end zone.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the man who was married for 25 years and wanted his wife to give him one weekend off from his marriage every month: How I wish I were married to him. That's exactly what I want.

I suggested it to my husband once, and he hit the ceiling. Everyone but a wife gets a vacation. I mean a chance to really get away from the same old routine. Why does marriage have to be a prison?

I wish I were younger. I'm 56—too old to start over, or to go it alone. Besides, I have no special training, so I guess I'll just have to go on as I have even though my husband and I have little in common except our children.

So in order to be supported, and keep the high regard of our children (now married), I'll continue to allow my husband the intimacies I no longer enjoy. Talk about prostitution!

I honestly think that with all the changes taking place today women will eventually get a break, and have the sexual freedom men have. It's too late for me, but not for my daughters.

You can't help me, Abby. Nobody can. But it would be interesting to know if I'm all alone in my outlook. Or are there other women who feel this way?

BORN TOO SOON

DEAR BORN: I'm sure you're not alone. I hear from thousands of women your age who feel trapped in dull, tired marriages, but they ask how to improve those marriages. You didn't ask, so I'll not offer any advice. I can tell you, though, that the answer is not in the "sexual freedom" you wish you had.

Tar Heel Plants Announce Cutbacks

By The Associated Press
Westinghouse, one of the largest employers in Wake County, N.C., has announced it will lay off 120 workers during the next few days.

Harry Weingarten, general manager of the firm's Raleigh division, said the layoffs are related to the tight money supply squeezing the housing and utilities industries, prime markets for the meters manufactured by the plant.

"The reason for the cutback is the decline in our sales which has been caused by the drastic reduction in housing starts and the slowdown in expansion plans by utilities, both closely tied to the tight money situation," Weingarten said.

The plant employs a total of approximately 1,600 workers.

In Smithfield, N.C., 115 of the 2,050 workers at the Sylvania factory will be furloughed Friday. Most of those losing their positions are women.

Plant manager W.R. Turner said the cutback in the workforce is the result of poor sales of entertainment equipment.

Paul Simons, personnel manager, said the sales situation is being analyzed by marketing specialists, "and if it does not improve, there could be additional layoffs between now and the end of the year."

Meanwhile, the Adams-Millis

Corp. at High Point, N.C., announced it is phasing out its double-knit fabric operation at the cost of some 300 jobs.

Company president William Newborn said plants at Graham and Winston-Salem would be closed within a few weeks.

The mill at Haw River has already been closed, he said, and added that the mill at High Point will not be affected.

Newborn said the double-knit phaseout became necessary because "it is not profitable, at least for us."

Layoffs have also been announced at a number of plants in the Carolinas, especially in the textile industry.

Another Law School Is Being Studied

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—If trustees of the University of North Carolina go along with a study of the state's need for attorneys, there probably won't be another state-supported law school.

The study, conducted by the Research Triangle Institute (RTI) concluded that "further expansion of existing law school facilities or the creation of new facilities is not warranted at this time." The $8,500 study looked into the current and anticipated demand of lawyers in the Tar Heel state.

The board commissioned the study last summer because East Carolina University, the Charlotte branch of UNC and Appalachian State have asked for law schools. Trustees are expected to decide at their Nov. 15 meeting on whether to ask the legislature for funds to set up another law school.

North Carolina now has four law schools. There are state-supported schools at UNC in Chapel Hill and North Carolina Central, and Duke and Wake Forest each has a law school. The four schools have a combined student population of 1,842 this year and 575 persons were graduated last spring.

John Sanders, UNC vice president for planning, said the report will be a factor in the trustees' decision, but other factors could also be considered. One factor may be that more than 8,500 students applied to the four Tar Heel law schools but there were only 660 openings in the fall 1973 freshman classes.

Sanders estimated that it could cost $10 million to set up another law school. To establish a law library could cost as much as $2 million, he said. A new school would also need buildings and equipment, he said, adding that there would also be annual operating expenses.

Based on interviews and analysis of trends, the RTI study projected that about 300 new lawyers will be needed in North Carolina each year between 1974 and 1980. That number would fill vacancies that occur and allow for growth in the demand for lawyers.

Based on the current rate of new lawyers graduating from the four schools and those coming from out of state, the study projected an average of 450 new admissions to the North Carolina Bar annually—50 per cent more than anticipated need.

The study also said the state could have a surplus of attorneys by 1980 because a national surplus is anticipated.

Nationally, between 29,000 and 31,500 new lawyers are expected to enter the field every year through 1980 but only 16,500 jobs are expected to be available in the field annually, the report noted. "Despite this dilemma, increasing numbers of students are applying to the nation's law schools," it added.

Show Is Planned

"Godspell," the well-known rock musical by Stephen Schwartz, will open the 1974-75 season of the East Carolina University Playhouse. Based on the Gospel According to St. Matthew, the show has been termed "an explosion of warmth and friendliness."

The lead roles of Jesus and Judas will be played by Doug Burnett and Rodney Freeze. The production is directed and staged by Albert and Patricia Pertalion of the ECU drama faculty. Musical direction is by Barry Shank.

The show will open Monday, Oct. 28, at 8:15 p.m. in McGinnis Auditorium and will run through Nov. 2. A matinee performance has been scheduled for 2:15 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 30.

Tickets for the "Godspell" production can be reserved by telephone at 758-6611. Season tickets for all 1974-75 playhouse productions are available, as well as special group rates for parties of 20 or more.

amounted to a contract cost of $11,106.

Little's Nursery of Greenville, in conjunction with Pittman's Nursery of Weldon, offered the low bid on the total project. Unsuccessful bidders were Pratt's Nursery of Kinston and Farmville-Fountain Nursery.

Laney said that seeding work in the Town Common should begin this week. The whole project should be completed in 60 days, he added.

Real estate officer Kirby Boyd reported that two severences needed for the completion of Reade Circle and widening of Greene Street have been acquired from Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The severences, located on the east and west sides of Greene Street, were the final parcels needed to close out the Reade Circle project from Fifth Street to Greene.

The severence needed for the completion of Reade Circle adjoins the former Collins Pridmore property and contains some 8,719 square feet. The property on the west side of Greene Street contains 2,035 square feet and will allow for the street to be widened.

The Commission conveyed to the church Parcel Z-3, which adjoins the church property and fronts on Dickinson Avenue. The parcel, containing some 14,000 square feet, was needed by the church for additional parking, it was noted.

A bid of $3,305 offered by Ruland Davenport for Disposal Parcel S-10, located behind the Calico Restaurant on Evans Street, was approved. The parcel, containing some 3,148 square feet, faces Eighth Street and will be utilized for parking, the property owner reported.

Mrs. Janet M. Stoughton qualified as a bidder for Disposal Parcel H-3, which fronts on Cotanche Street and adjoins the present building housing Bank of North Carolina and Quixote Travels Inc.

Louis Clark, representing Mrs. Stoughton, said that the narrow tract would be utilized for additional parking for the two businesses. The parcel is only 30 feet wide and is some 136 feet deep, he added. Clark said that the present entrance on Fourth Street will be utilized and the additional land will allow the owner to put in another drive-in lane for BNC.

Boyd reported that three parcels were optioned in the Central Business District area since the last meeting and four condemnations have been handled since September. No demolition work took place in the project area, he said.

The real estate officer said that no acquisitions were handled in the R-134 Southside Project since the September meeting and one structure was removed.

CBD project manager Dan Sullivan said that no relocations took place since the last meeting but the staff has been working with area merchants on various property rehabilitation projects.

Southside project manager Mrs. Faye Brewington told the commissioners that two tenants were relocated in the project

Student Commended

Pamela S. Kuehn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keuhn of Greenville and senior at the Pamlico Community School in Washington Park, has been awarded a letter of commendation by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation for her high standing on the PSAT test.

Students receiving this recognition are those that are in the upper two percent of students who are expected to graduate from high school in 1975.

Miss Kuehn has also recently been nominated for the Morehead Scholarship which is a grant for four years of study at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

She plans to study Applied Mathematics in college and is presently studying advanced mathematics and calculus at Pamlico Community School.

Dr. Ames To Speak

Noted child psychologist Dr. Louise Bates Ames will speak at the Belk Allied Health Building Auditorium here tomorrow morning at 11:30 and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. There is no admission and the talk is co-sponsored by the ECU School of Allied Health and the Pitt County Mental Health Association.

Boyd Was Speaker

Bob Boyd, director of the Division of Personnel Affairs with the State Department of Public Instruction, was the speaker for a meeting of District 14 of the N.C. Association of Educational Office Personnel here Friday.

He stressed the importance of each person's enjoying his work, knowing the budget within which he has to operate, purchasing procedures, job descriptions, and about evaluations and authority he has.

The District is composed of Pitt and 15 other counties. Some 117 members attended. Special guests were Lena Bell Parsons, state president; Mildred Chrisco, state president-elect; Kate Elmore and Carolyn Hinton of the State Board of Education Controller's Office.

Big Brother Was Watching

Hardly had its use begun, before the auto safety interlock system may soon be legally abolished.

The Senate voted last week to rescind regulations which required that new cars be equipped with the interlock. The 1974 and '75 models had it and it required motorist and the occupant of the right front seat to buckle up before the car could be started. If the vehicle were started before the driver sat down, a buzzer cut in as the car was shifted in gear.

The systems were designed with an override switch in case of malfunction, but the driver had to get out of the car and open the hood to actuate it.

The interlock system worked all right. The only trouble was that motorist hated it. Padded dash boards, collapsible steering columns, better tires, and other safety devices were acceptable to the car buyer, but there was something repugnant to being forced by the government to buckle a seat belt.

The dissatisfaction was translated into votes in Congress and now the interlock system has been abolished. Only an eight-second buzzer will warn the motorist to buckle up.

We wouldn't for one minute minimize the value of seat and shoulder belts as a safety device, but perhaps the demise of the interlock system indicated that we still have the desire to keep government from telling us what to do.

Seat belts, will still be on autos and we would be the first to plead with everyone to buckle up whenever they get in a car. But a car which won't start until the belts are buckled up by government edict, smacks too much of Big Brother.

No New State Taxes Needed Presently

Gov. Jim Holshouser says there will be no increased taxes next year, and that includes a discussed increase in the gasoline tax.

Despite the obvious problems in raising adequate revenue to carry on the highway construction program, we think the no increased tax pledge is best.

We need to keep North Carolina government sound, but now is not the time to place new state tax burdens on our people.

Leaders Lose Pools

By STEVE WILSON
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — The new U.S. ambassador to Japan, James D. Hodgson, and President Ford have at least one complaint in common. Both lost their personal swimming pools recently when they took new jobs.

Hodgson used to enjoy a dip in the pool at his Beverly Hills, Calif., home. But the ambassador's pool in Tokyo was torn out when work began this summer on a new embassy building. Ford lost his pool when he moved into the White House.

"They took away my swimming pool, so I'm among the disadvantaged," the 57-year-old ambassador joked during an interview. "For a Californian not to have a swimming pool, he feels disadvantaged."

The former Lockheed Aircraft Corp. vice president and former secretary of labor in 1970-72 arrived in Japan in July with his wife, Maria, for his first diplomatic assignment.

Hodgson was nominated in March for the post, but his confirmation was held up by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Md. Symington reportedly feared Hodgson's appointment might give Lockheed an edge in international sales over the McDonnell Douglas Corp., the giant aircraft maker in Symington's hometown of St. Louis.

Hodgson said he used the time during the delay to do extensive research on Japan and now he is immersed in meeting as many people as possible and learning first-hand about Japan.

"One of the delights of diplomatic life, compared to business life, is that there are many things in which the wife can be included," he said.

"It is not only good for domestic felicity, but in this case it also is good for Japanese-American relations," the ambassador added.

He said the Japanese seem delighted with President Ford and his obvious demonstration of interest in the Japanese.

The ambassador pointed out that the first individual representative of a foreign nation Ford met as President was the Japanese ambassador in Washington. The new President declared that he plans to visit Japan this year, and he was invited Prime Minister Kakuei

Money Management Big Business

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Every working day, Ray Moore handles more money than most North Carolinians will ever see in a lifetime.

An assistant state treasurer in charge of funds and investments, Moore talks the "Money Market" language, and is dealing with big figures. Even though he never lays hands on cash, "you still realize it is money you're dealing with," the veteran state employee said.

How big are the figures he deals in? "So big that we actually will invest money for one day... we did that just the other day when we put in $20 million overnight at nine per cent and picked up $5,000 interest for the state."

Moore makes the state's cash work so hard that the total interest from investments in just one day is more than the yearly income from some tax sources.

The average daily income from state investments is $237,581; a total income from investments so far this fiscal year of $21.8 million; and Moore thinks the yearly total will hit over $90 million.

Buy-Sell

Moore's workday is tied to a bank of telephones and a video screen hooked up to a national computer that tells who is offering to buy or sell what securities.

At a given time, North Carolina has somewhere over one billion dollars on hand—almost all of it invested in savings, certificates of deposit at banks, U.S. Treasury Notes with various due dates, or U.S. Agency Securities, also with varying due dates and interest rates. Securities are loans to such federal agencies as the Federal Land Bank, Credit Bank, Home Loan Association, etc.

At the end of the first quarter, North Carolina had $112.3 million in U.S. Treasury Notes; $587.3 million in U.S. Agency Securities; $303.9 million in certificates of savings in North Carolina banks; $62.9 million in demand savings in North Carolina banks; and some miscellaneous millions in special bond payment accounts.

Money is going in and out so fast, it makes the observer's head swim.

Deposits are kept in nearly 300 banks across the state, some in the demand accounts so it can be got readily; most in certificates of deposit with future maturity dates.

Big deposits.

Banks from Aberdeen to Yanceyville share in the state deposits. The biggest single deposit is $60 million at Wachovia in Winston-Salem; the next largest is $45.8 million at First Union in Charlotte; and the next is $39 million at North Carolina National Bank in Raleigh. Practically every town in the state has some of the money on deposit in a local bank.

Moore's day starts with a running look at how much state money is going to be needed in various deposits to meet the costs of doing business that day.

"About 11 o'clock, we can strike a balance and see just what we need to do that day... we can project how much we will need on hand, or if we are going to have an excess to invest, or if we need to pull some out of savings and use it," Moore explained.

Generally speaking, the daily operations of state government will require

It's Congress's Baby Now

As part of its campaign against inflation, the White House last week devised a little postcard enlistment form to be sent to President Ford by every American who wants to enlist as "An Inflation Fighter and Energy Saver." The gesture probably is harmless, and it may appeal to boxtop buffs who love to print along dotted lines.

But the effort won't amount to much unless Mr. Ford gets enlistment forms back from 100 senators and 435 members of the House. The President has gone about as far as he can go in providing executive leadership against inflation. This ugly baby is Congress's baby now.

It is important to emphasize that point. For the past forty years, our people have acquiesced in a gradual transfer of both image and power. The tendency has been to exalt the White House and to downgrade the Congress. A pernicious notion is abroad that higher taxes will be "Ford's taxes." That is nonsense. If a 5 percent surcharge is adopted, Congress will adopt it. If the law as to capital gains is to be rewritten, Congress will rewrite it. It is true, of course, that in many areas of government one looks to the Oval Office: The buck stops here. When it comes to halting inflation, we ought to look toward Capitol Hill instead: The buck stops there.

Congress and Congress alone has the power to raise taxes and to appropriate public funds. If the budget for fiscal '75 is to be cut back to $300 billion, as Mr. Ford has urged, Congress will have to cut it. A president can ask for certain measures; a president can beg, beseech and entreat; he can scold, exhort, praise and condemn; but when the roll is called up yonder, he can't vote.

Will Congress take effective action? Will fish fly and birds swim? The one prospect is as likely as the other. Individually, one could name a number of senators and representatives who preach economy and practice what they preach. Collectively, the two bodies are fat and happy spenders. The record of the past ten years is one appalling record of irresponsible outlays—of deficits that have pumped a hundred billion dollars of paper into our money supply. These weren't "Johnson deficits" or "Nixon deficits." These were deficits sanctioned by the United States Congress.

What has the Congress done lately? Last month the Senate rejected a sensible effort by President Ford to save $700 million by postponing a federal pay raise until the first of the year. The Senate came within an eyelash of creating a new Agency for Consumer Advocacy that would have cost millions of dollars. Another proposal that commanded wide support was to pass a Youth Camp Safety Act, with a thousand bureaucrats to count tent pegs and test diving boards. Virginia's Sen. Harry F.

Ford's Honeymoon Has Ended

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.—The latest nationwide Gallup Poll, showing a 21-point decline in President Ford's approval rating since he took office, suggests that the traditional "honeymoon" period enjoyed by a President is at an end.

The survey shows half (50 per cent) saying they approve of the way President Ford is handling his job as chief executive, while 28 per cent disapprove and 22 per cent do not express an opinion.

The current rating represents a decline of 21 percentage points since the first measurement of Ford's popularity, taken shortly after he became President Aug. 9, and represents the sharpest decline recorded for any President during his first two months in office.

In that first measurement, 71 per cent approved of the way Ford was taking over the leadership of the nation, compared to only 3 per cent who disapproved and 26 per cent who were undecided.

His approval rating fell off 5 points between the first survey and the next conducted in early September. Then came the big drop to 50 per cent in the latest poll, which was conducted after Ford's pardon of former President Richard Nixon but before his recent speech on the economy.

Two Key Factors In Approval Drop

A key factor in the President's popularity decline was his pardon of Nixon Sept. 8. A special survey conducted immediately following the pardon found the public expressing opposition by a 2-to-1 margin.

Another important factor is concern over the economy. The overwhelming majority of Americans consider this to be the top problem facing the nation, with nearly half predicting a depression such as that of the 1930s. Analysis of earlier presidential popularity measurements shows the serious impact economic developments can have on the popularity of a President.

Losses Principally Among Democrats

Ford's popularity losses have been principally among Democrats. Although Democrats gave Ford a big vote of confidence when he took over the presidency, subsequent developments and actions by Ford—namely a worsening economy and the pardon of Nixon—have caused Democrats to fall away from President Ford at an accelerated rate.

Following is the question that has been asked over the last 35 years to measure presidential popularity:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as President?"

Following is the trend:

	Approve	Disapprove	Opinion
Latest	50%	28%	22%
Sept. 6-9	66	13	21
Aug. 16-19	71	3	26

Analysis of the latest survey findings by major population groups shows little fall-off in approval of Ford among Republicans, with two in three currently expressing approval. Democrats, however, are fairly closely divided in their views. Independents continue to lean heavily to the approval side, as seen in the following table:

Views By Party Affiliation	Approve	Disapprove	Opinion
Republicans	66	16	19
Democrats	43	37	20
Independents	52	24	24

Despite the differences by political affiliation, Catholics, who traditionally tend to identify themselves with the Democratic party, give Ford an even higher approval rating than do Protestants, as seen below:

Views By Religious Preference	Approve	Disapprove	Opinion
Catholics	54	23	23
Protestants	51	29	20

Younger adults, 18 to 29, although more oriented toward the Democratic party in their voting, give Ford a higher approval rating than do older persons, as seen in the following table:

Views By Age Groups	Approve	Disapprove	Opinion
18-29 years	56	26	18
30-49 years	48	28	24
50 and over	48	31	21

The results reported today are based on personal interviews with 1,527 adults, conducted during the period Sept. 27-30 in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation.

Public Forum

To The Editor:

The 1975 General Assembly will be of utmost importance and our people will want the most out of it possible.

With government getting too big and unresponsive, it might be a good idea if our Eastern legislators met sometime after the Nov. elections (perhaps in some centrally located city such as Goldsboro, Kinston, or Greenville) to discuss regional problems and how solutions to these can best be met.

Our legislators should coordinate their efforts to bring the best possible government to N. C. and the best possible progress to the East. As a regional gathering it would not be political and leading state officials such as Coy Privette, Jim Hunt, Bob Scott and others should be invited to speak and exchange ideas.

Such a meeting would give our legislators an early "assessment" as to the concerns of our people and the collective problems facing our region.

Bobby Simpson
Newton Grove

Many of our most competent eastern legislators have retired and the new ones need to learn the "ropes" early. Legislators from Granville, Vance, Warren, Franklin, Wake, Durham, and Anson should be included since their goals and ambitions are usually tied in the all of Eastern N. C.

Various topics such as ERA, road construction, law enforcement, and the possibility of a law school should be discussed.

Such a meeting of a couple of days would go a long way to help familiarize each with the statewide issues, but almost as important, it would give the voters a special feeling that our leaders are determined to face the issues head on. Today's difficulties are broader in scope, hence more complex. There is less confidence in yet more awareness of government. The electorate wants to participate and more should be done to encourage this involvement.

Ben Franklin Would Be Shocked

By RHONDA SEEGAL
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Benjamin Franklin, a far-sighted statesman who was bullish on America, would be shocked to learn his 200-year-old trust fund for Philadelphia is worth $16 million less than the $17 million he had envisioned.

When he died in 1790, Franklin left 1,000 pounds to Boston, his birthplace, and to Philadelphia, his adopted home. He specified the trust — worth about $4,400 then — was to be used for loans of "up to $300 at 5 per cent interest" to young, married craftsmen who apprenticed in the cities.

After 100 years, Franklin willed, the money was to be divided and used, in part, for public works, while the remainder was to be put back in trust for another 100 years.

By 1990, Franklin calculated that, barring any major catastrophe, the trusts would grow to more than four million pounds — or some $17 million dollars. But the balance here in 1973 was $615,000. The Boston fund contained $742,000 at last count.

In his will, Franklin acknowledged there might be unforeseen problems. "If no unfortunate accidents have prevented the operation," he said when making his estimate.

"He didn't foresee that young people going into business didn't always make a success," says Ruth Armour, assistant secretary of the Board of City Trusts, which administers the Philadelphia fund.

"For a long time the money sat idle because there was no one to make loans to," he said. "Franklin required two people to sign, and just as today, nobody wants to cosign a loan."

Over the years, Philadelphia officials won court approval to revise the terms of the trust, but they tried to follow Franklin's intentions.

The Board of City Trusts continued to make loans, as Franklin requested. But, by 1963, it had boosted the age limit from 25 to 39, changed the interest rate to reflect current inflation, and broadened the eligibility requirements.

The loans no longer are made only for businesses, but for real estate mortgages, Mrs. Armour says. "We have opened it up to any married worker, not just those apprenticed in Philadelphia."

The loan ceiling also has increased from $300 to $10,000.

At the end of the first 100 years, Philadelphia took its share, $133,000, and set it aside for "public works." Eventually the money went toward the new Franklin Institute. The total price tag was $1,522,804.

Boston used its share, $329,000, to purchase land for its own Franklin Institute, which opened in 1908 as a technical school.

The trusts will terminate in 1990, and Franklin took care to have the wealth distributed.

Alcohol, Not Drugs, Is Top N.C. Killer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Alcohol, rather than illegal substances like heroin and marijuana, is by far the greatest drug killer of North Carolinians, according to Drs. Page Hudson and Arthur J. McBay.

Writing in the current North Carolina Medical Journal, Hudson and McBay said that alcohol is the direct or indirect cause of 30 times as many deaths as all other drugs combined.

Hudson is the chief state medical examiner. McBay is the chief toxicologist. They examine the bodies of all North Carolinians who die of unnatural causes.

Using statistics from 1972 and 1973, the doctors reported that alcohol overdoses directly killed 175 people in 1973.

The drug indirectly killed at least 3,000 more people either through diseases like cirrhosis of the liver or from automobile, firearm and drowning accidents.

By contrast, they said, there has never been a death in North Carolina attributable to either LSD or marijuana; heroin caused four deaths in 1973 and methadone two.

Prescription barbiturates and pain relievers are the chief causes of death among medicinal drugs, the article said.

Barbiturates killed 35 people in 1973. Nearly all of the victims intentionally took an overdose.

A drug called propoxyphene killed another 21 people because of accidental and intentional overdoses. It is available primarily in the prescription pain reliever Darvon.

An additional 28 people died from overdoses of other legal drugs, including six from aspirin.

Even among teen-agers, Hudson and McBay reported, illegal drugs are a statistically insignificant cause of death compared to alcohol and others.

Most accidental deaths among teen-agers in 1972, they said, were directly caused by auto wrecks, firearms accidents and drownings. But in the majority of those cases, the victims had significant quantities of alcohol in their bloodstream.

They said that even where deaths have been attributed by

Early Frost Loss $30 Million

RALEIGH (AP)—Early October frosts will cost North Carolina soybean and peanut farmers more than $30 million, N.C. State University agricultural experts said Monday.

The frosts on October 2 and 3 damaged the quantity and quality of both crops throughout the eastern section of the state.

Dr. John Clapp said the frost stopped soybean growth two to three weeks earlier than normal. It will cost growers at least $28 million in lost crops. They will also suffer at the market with the beans they do harvest.

Clapp said some beans have shriveled and others have an undesirable green tinge. Particularly affected are the beans planted late this spring, after small grain and potatoes.

Soybean farmers from Chowan County to Columbus County are affected.

Peanut growers were caught on both ends of the season. Planting was delayed by a wet spring and the frost caught many more plants in the ground than usual.

Astor Perry of NCSU said the peanut losses will run around $3.5 million.

Perry said the frosts came when many peanuts lying atop the ground waiting to be combined. He predicted heavy docking at the market for them.

The frosts also hurt producers of snap beans, sweet potatoes and cucumbers. None of them are substantial crops in North Carolina, but individual growers may suffer heavy losses.

Deaths have been attributed by police and others to the indirect effects of marijuana or LSD. Medical examiners have found alcohol in the bloodstreams of the victims.

The examiners said six young people in 1973 died from sniffing either airplane glue or the freon from common aerosol spray cans.

Hudson, in an interview, said it was obvious that North Carolina should expend more energy on alcohol abuse than on illegal drug abuse.

"Alcohol is where the greatest problem is and it's what needs the attention. It is substantially more dangerous than marijuana. The dangers of marijuana have yet to be demonstrated."

"But there's a lot of evidence against alcohol."

Mexican Bishop Says More Women Priests

By ALFONSO CHARDY
Associated Press Writer
OAXTEPEC, Mexico (AP) — An Episcopal bishop, who already stands accused of breaking church law by ordaining women priests, today warned that more women would be ordained in defiance of the church if it fails to clarify its position on the issue by 1976.

Church officials said such a move could cause further disension among the 3.2 million Episcopalians and their leaders.

"Many bishops are ready to ordain women," asserted Bishop Jose Antonio Ramos of Cosca Rica, one of four bishops who ordained 11 women three months ago.

He claimed in an interview that most bishops are waiting for the church to authorize the ordination of women. But Bishop Ramos predicted that if the church does not clarify its stand at its 1976 general convention in Minneapolis, more unauthorized ordinations would follow.

He did not specify what clarifications he thought were needed.

The 11 women were ordained last July in Philadelphia, but their ordination was overruled the next month by the House of Bishops, the denomination's legislative body. Church officials estimate 200 women in the United States are working toward ordination.

The House of Bishops began its annual conference on Monday at this resort 40 miles south of Mexico City, and conference sources said the body has been divided into conservative and liberal factions by the female CARACAS (UPI) — Communications minister Armando Sanchez Bueno says Venezuela is 50 years behind the times in telecommunications facilities.

Bank Loses Millions

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Belgium's second largest bank said today it expected losses of $15 million to $37.5 million from unauthorized dealings in foreign currency.

The Banque de Bruxelles and the Belgian finance ministry reported Monday that four of the bank's dealers had made "irregular, unrecorded and unauthorized foreign exchange transactions" of U.S. dollars and German marks.

The prosecutor's office said that the dealers are being charged with falsification of accounting documents.

Finance Minister Willy de Clercq said the losses were covered by the bank's reserves. The Banque de Bruxelles has assets of about $7.5 billion and it is loosely associated with six other European banks.

Several banks in Europe and the United have suffered recently in the foreign currency market.

6th Graders Presented Play

The sixth grades of Wahl-Coates School presented a play Thursday which was written by Andrea Williams. The play was about the origin of the United States Flag and was entitled "How Our Flag Came To Be."

Following the play, Dr. Thomas Williams, editor of The Bicentennial Book, showed historical slides on Greenville.

After the program, the students participated in a physical education session consisting of games played during early historical times. They enjoyed an outdoor feast of foods typical of early days.

agency of HEW.

The supplemental funds, together with a previous grant, total an award of $88,544 for the academic year 1974-75.

According to Dr. Sheldon Downes, chairman of rehabilitation counseling at ECU, most of the money will be used to provide traineeships for graduate students studying in the department and some will be used to expand some of the department's area programs in vocational evaluation and rehabilitation services management.

Dr. Downes said this year's total grant is the largest ever received by the ECU rehabilitation counseling department since it began eight years ago. About 40 full-time and 70 part-time students are currently enrolled.

The Department of Rehabilitation Counseling is part of the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions.

What will happen—and about all that will happen—is that the Democrats who control Congress will follow in the wobbly footsteps of the Oklahomans of my boyhood who voted dry as long as they could stagger to the polls. The Democrats will talk economy and vote spending, and when things are worse next spring, they will blame it all on Jerry Ford.

Lo, How The Mighty Have Fallen

Dolphins Diving

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — How the mighty are falling.
Most experts figured the Miami Dolphins would romp to a fourth straight Super Bowl appearance this year, and perhaps even a third straight championship. But now Coach Don Shula is worried that his team might not even make the playoffs.
Somebody forgot to tell the rest of the National Football League that the Dolphins dynasty was supposed to end not this season but in 1975, when Miami loses five starters to the World Football League.
It had been expected that Miami would have little trouble taking another American Conference Eastern Division title. But the Dolphins have only a 3-2 record and trail New England (5-0) and Buffalo (4-1) in their division.
Pass defense is Shula's biggest worry. Miami gave up only 1,290 passing yards in 1973 but has already yielded 1,105 yards this season.
Shula doesn't place the blame with any individual or the defensive strategy itself, which is the same as the past. He explained, "What we've got to start to do is start playing the coverages."
Sonny Jergensen, checked for most of last Sunday's game, picked Miami apart in the closing minutes for a 20-17 Washington victory. Shula, miffed, said, "If there's anybody that should realize that anything can happen in the last two minutes, it's our team."
Adding to Shula's problems are injuries to two tackles, receiver Paul Warfield and running back Mercury Morris, which have decimated the offense.
Morris, who has missed three games, is the biggest loss since he is the Dolphins' chief outside threat. With him sidelined, teams have jammed the middle to stop fullback Larry Csonka.
Csonka, who has gained over 1,000 yards the last three years, is averaging only 3.6 yards a carry. Morris' replacements, Jim Kiick and Hubert Ginn, are getting only 2.5 and 3.5 yards a try, respectively.
Shula said attitude is not a problem. He fined Csonka and Kiick $100 each for missing a team dinner Saturday night, but said he has had fewer fines this year than in previous seasons.
"We gotta get going," he said Monday, looking to three straight games in the Orange Bowl. Miami has not lost at home in 25 starts.
If they do not keep that record intact through these next few home games, the Dolphins have to forget about their dynasty a year ahead of time.

Rams Sickly

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A year ago, John Hadl was the hottest quarterback in the National Football League and the Los Angeles Rams averaged 32 points a game to win their first five games of the season.
Now Hadl isn't even lukewarm, the Rams are averaging 15 points a game and they've lost two of five games. All this despite a defense which seems improved, allowing 100 fewer yards, 30 fewer points and owning seven more quarterback sacks than it did this time last year.
In a nutshell, a sick offense is what is wrong with the Rams, preseason favorites to capture the National Football Conference championship and play in the Super Bowl.
The Rams are still atop their division with a 3-2 record, but the talk about town is how they are likely to back into the playoffs because the division includes San Francisco, Atlanta and New Orleans.
Jack Teele, assistant to club owner Carroll Rosenbloom, said, "Everyone in our organization, from Carroll Rosenbloom to the coaches to the players, is concerned about our offense."
Nobody blames one person, or even one area of attack. "Our running backs have fumbled, our receivers have run the wrong pass routes, we've had dropped passes and poorly thrown passes," Teele said.
Knox benched Hadl last Sunday when the Rams trailed Green Bay 10-3. James Harris relieved Hadl and played better than his 3 for 12 pass completion record indicates. Hadl was only 6 of 16. Each threw two interceptions.
"We wanted to get a little life into our offense," said Knox, who said Hadl would start Sunday against San Francisco in Los Angeles.
Knox pointed to "more sophisticated defense," particularly the more popular defense which Miami uses, utilizing three down linemen and eight men capable of defending against the pass. It's a variation of the old Oklahoma defense, and ex-Sooner coach Chuck Fairbanks of New England employed it in a 20-14 victory over Los Angeles.
Also, as Teele said, the NFL draft is structured to strengthen the weak teams. New England and St. Louis are examples, he said, of "creating the best balance the NFL has had in recent years."
Of the Rams' problems, defensive end Jack Youngblood said, "We're going to be back. Who do we play next? The 49ers? They're going to be in trouble."

One Record He Can't Capture

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland A's Darold Knowles, inactive so far in the World Series, owns a pitching record that busy Mike Marshall of the Los Angeles Dodgers can't break.
"But if this thing goes seven games, I'm sure he'll tie it," said the Oakland left-hander who appeared in all seven games of the 1973 World Series to establish a record.
Marshall, who set a major league record with 106 appearances during the 1974 National League season, was the Dodgers' finishing pitcher in the first two World Series games at Los Angeles and was ready to back up starter Al Downing here tonight in game No. 3.
"I don't know how he pitches as much as he does. I know I couldn't do it," said Knowles. "Maybe he hypnotizes himself."
Marshall, a sturdy little right-hander with mutton chop sideburns and a buttoned-down mouth, isn't about to let any rival pitchers know the secret behind his durability.
"But I think I can read between the lines," said the A's Bob Locker, a right-handed reliever who sat out this season with a bad arm.
"It's partly a mental game. He believes there's no way you can get stronger by resting. The more he throws, the stronger he gets. I'm sure he'll pitch in 100 games next year, too," said Locker.
Locker was a teammate of Marshall in 1969 with the short-lived Seattle Pilots and recalls that Marshall "was low man in our bullpen, behind Diego Segui and me."
"Our pitching coach up there, Sal Maglie, didn't believe in Mike's theories and didn't like him throwing the screwball, his best pitch."
The Dodgers' Walter Alston, blessed with many great relief stars in his years in Los Angeles and Brooklyn, and most other big league managers are going to their bullpens more than ever these days.
The A's Alvin Dark pulled starter Ken Holtzman, who had allowed only an unearned run, in the fifth inning of the World Series opener, used relief ace Rolie Fingers into the ninth and then brought in 25-game winning starter Catfish Hunter to get the final out.
"That was a great move," said third baseman Sal Bando, who early in the regular season hollered after a tough loss, "Dark couldn't manage a meat market."
Fingers has appeared in 13 of the A's 16 World Series games, going into tonight's contest, since 1972.
The last pitcher to throw a complete game in the World Series was Pittsburgh's Steve Blass in the Pirates' 2-1 final game victory over Baltimore in the 1971 World Series.

Chesapeake Duo Wins Tournament

Ken Edgerton and Bucky Dennis of Chesapeake, Va., captured first place in the sixth annual Reynolds May Four-Ball Golf Tournament this weekend at Brook Valley Golf and Country Club.
The twosome shot a best-ball score of 65 the first day of play and came back with a 72, for a 36-hole total of 137 to win it.
Second place went to the team of Bob Helmick and Keith Hiller, both of Greenville, with a 138. W. L. Allen Jr. and Jim Ward took third with a 139.
Tommie Little and Harold McClain won the first flight with a score of 141. Troy Riddle and Charles Mitchell took second with a 142 in a playoff with the team of Herb Hancock and Billy McMillan of Virginia Beach, Va. Gilbert Peace and Larry Boyd of Creedmore took the second flight title with a 146. Joe LaMotte and Lee Alcorn were second with 147, beating out Cecil Lilley and Frank Harris of Grifton, who also had 147.
In the third flight, Jim Grauer and Alan Kersey won with a 150, while Dan Richards and Pete Peterson of Havelock were second with a 152. Third went to Dan Kinlaw and Doug Morgan, also with a 152.

Oakland Hopes To Explode With Bats Instead Of Their Tempers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — The tempestuous Oakland A's hope to explode tonight with their bats instead of their tempers in the third game of the 1974 World Series with the Los Angeles Dodgers.
"I'm expecting us to break out any day now, but I've been expecting that for six weeks ... So I don't really know," said Oakland Manager Alvin Dark, whose team has had more notice recently for hitting people than hitting baseballs.
A change in the batting order might be just the thing that the A's need to add some punch to their recent Punch and Judy hitting. Dark, whose team won the World Series opener with an undistinguished 3-2 victory Saturday in Los Angeles and then lost the second game by the same score, is thinking about an adjustment in his hitting alignment.
Noting that the A's face a left-hander in Al Downing, Dark revealed: "I might bat Bill North first instead of second. He has more power as a right-handed hitter. I might also move some of the others around in the lineup, too. We've just got to get some more runs."
The A's may not be hitting well lately, but they've certainly had the pitching. And the best on their staff goes tonight, 25-game winner Catfish Hunter.
The tobacco-chewing Hunter, well rested since he only pitched to one batter on Saturday after working in last week's American League play-offs, has been embroiled in a salary dispute with Oakland owner Charles O. Finley.
Hunter, mad at Finley because he claims the owner reneged on half of his yearly $100,000 salary, might make the Dodgers pay for it tonight.
The A's fight as well as anybody else, too. The Dodgers, or any other team in baseball, are sedate compared to this flamboyant, aggressive team of oddballs.
The combative A's started the Series out with a bang when pitchers Rolie Fingers and Blue Moon Odom exchanged blows in the clubhouse last week. And during Monday's off-day workout at the Oakland Coliseum, a sports writer was the target of wrath.

Reggie Jackson, Oakland's star outfielder, verbally challenged Murray Olderman, editor of Newspaper Enterprises Association in San Francisco, because of an article he wrote for a national magazine. Jackson roared out of the batting cage when he saw Olderman and abused him verbally before a crowd of gaping onlookers.
Jackson was unhappy about the general tone of the article, which dealt with his alleged battle with other players for sole leadership of the team.
Meanwhile, back at the World Series, Downing concentrated on keeping the A's in their protracted hitting slump. Despite his modest 5-6 season record, Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston feels that Downing can continue to maintain the Dodgers' masterful pitching of late.
The A's have managed only 12 hits so far off Dodger pitching, and the formidable Los Angeles arms were equally as effective in the National League playoffs against the Pittsburgh Pirates.
Alston planned no changes, other than going to his normal lineup for right-handers. In the first two games, the Dodgers faced southpaws but since Hunter is on the mound, Alston will have Willie Crawford in right field instead of Joe Ferguson. Alston will use the right-handed Ferguson behind home plate instead of Steve Yeager.

The Dodgers will need all the hitting edge they can muster against Hunter, the premier right-hander in the American League in 1974. Hunter not only won 25 games during the season but also led the league with a 2.43 earned run average.
The contest at the 50,000-seat Oakland Coliseum, first of three night games here, will start at 5:30 P.M., PST, a difficult period for the players because of the strange tricks that sunlight plays in this stadium in late afternoon in the fall. The Dodgers had a late workout Monday to get used to the conditions.

Apps Top Kickers

Appalachian State University, the defending Southern Conference champions, handed the Pirates of East Carolina a 6-2 defeat in soccer yesterday.
It was the first loss in two Southern Conference matches for the Pirates, who last year went to the finals of the league's playoffs against the Mountaineers.
Tom O'Shea got both of the Pirate goals, scoring the first early in the game to stake the Pirates to a 1-0 lead. But Appalachian came back to push ahead, scoring their six goals before the Bucs could score again. The final Pirate score came on a penalty kick with five minutes left to play.
The loss left the Bucs with a 4-2 overall record and a 1-1 Southern Conference mark.
East Carolina's next outing will be Saturday, when the Bucs travel to Pembroke.

Contest Winners

Dennis Barrett of Rt. 9, Box 270, Apartment 2A, is the winner of this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.
Barrett correctly picked the winners in 25 of the 32 games listed in last Tuesday's Daily Reflector.
Second place went to H. O. Hudson of 104 N. Green St., Farmville, who picked 24 right. Hudson won however on the basis of his point pick. His guess of 75 was the closest to the actual total of 61 scored in two different games. Four other people had 24 right, but were further off, or did not fill in a point guess.
Both of the tie games in this past week's slate were counted wrong on all ballots since it is possible to pick a tie.
The next contest appears in today's Reflector.

Jackson Tells Writer His Mind

OAKLAND (AP) — "You'd better not get around me alone if you do, you're in trouble."

The speaker was Oakland A's outfielder Reggie Jackson; the object of his wrath, sports writer Murray Olderman.

Jackson and Oakland pitcher Vida Blue were angered by a magazine article written by Olderman, general editor of Newspaper Enterprise Association in San Francisco, and they vented their wrath at Olderman during an A's workout Monday.

Olderman walked onto the field to watch batting practice and Blue said to Jackson, "Hey, here's Olderman."

Jackson then left the batting cage, waved a finger at the 52-year-old Olderman and gave the writer a 10-minute, explosive-filled dressing down in front of several dozen sports writers and photographers.

"I want to embarrass you," Jackson said. "I invite you to my home and you had to write that trash."

"I didn't call you a liar," Olderman said to Jackson.

"That's not the point," Jackson said. "I'm calling you one."

Finally Joe Reichler, special assistant to baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, stepped in and attempted to quiet Jackson down.

Blue then took over, but in a somewhat more subdued tone. He told Olderman that although he had been quoted in the article, "You never talked to me."

Jackson was apparently mad about the general tone of the article, which dealt with his alleged battle with other A's players for leadership of the team.

Olderman said he was surprised at the outburst. "I just returned from a trip to Russia and had come out to get my World Series credentials," he said.

What about his personal feelings toward Jackson? "I have no personal feelings toward him," Olderman said.

A's Manager Alvin Dark, asked for his comment on the incident, replied:

"What else is new?"

Storm Misses Payroll Call

By KEN DONEY
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Despite delinquent paychecks, there'll be no player boycott by the Portland Storm this week.

"We're just in a short-term cash crunch," General Manager Ron Mix of the World Football League team said Monday.

"We have no long-term problems," Mix told a news conference.

"The players were not paid for the last game," he said. "It's the only pay period we've missed this year. We don't consider our players have missed a pay period if they are paid between the end of one game and the start of another."

"We hope the problem will be solved by this weekend. I sincerely feel that it will," Mix said.

Mix called the news conference to refute published reports that Storm players had not been paid for two weeks and were considering boycotting Wednesday's game against the Hawaiians.

Bob Harris, the Canadian millionaire who owns the club, said he planned to have the money for last week's game with him when he arrived in Portland for the Wednesday night game.

Harris "was just caught short after injecting what he considered adequate financing to carry the club through the season," Mix said of the London, Ont., developer. "Bob's selling off some of his holdings in Canada to raise the additional cash and feels very strongly that something good will happen soon."

Mix, after a meeting with the team Monday, said the players "understood there is no certainty" the checks will be available Wednesday. "The morale is good," he said, "and they consider it a temporary inconvenience."

Mix cited three reasons for the short-term financial problem:

—Home attendance is averaging about 16,000 compared with a break-even figure of 28,000.

—The league did away with revenue sharing, which Mix said "hurt us to the tune of approximately $100,000."

—Poor original projection of operating capital.

Portland is the fifth WFL team reported to have missed a payroll. Two of the others, Detroit and Jacksonville, since have ceased operation.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals running back Ken Willard was to undergo knee surgery today and is expected to be sidelined for the balance of the National Football League season.

Willard received the injury two weeks ago in a game against the San Francisco 49ers and was not in uniform for the Cardinals' 31-28 victory Sunday over the Dallas Cowboys.

MIAMI (AP) — Calder Race Course paid off its season's high trifecta Monday when an unidentified patron picked up $28,761. The winning ticket was an 8-6-12 combination.

F.G. Rivera's Mr. Art, ridden by Jonas Garrido, took the seventh race for a $92 winning mutual payoff. Favored School Year was second in the field of 12, with $31.30-to-$1 shot Fleeting Spirit third in the mile event.

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Services are scheduled here Wednesday for longtime Purdue assistant football coach and athletic department figure Al Parker.

The 57-year-old Parker died Sunday, succumbing to a six-month bout with cancer.

He spent 17 years as an assistant coach, 14 of those under former Boilermaker coach Jack Mollenkopf and three under former Purdue mentor Bob DeMoss. For the past two years, Parker served as administrative assistant to Athletic Director George King.

Detriot Snaps String With Win Over 49ers

By LARRY PALADINO
DETROIT (AP) — No longer will the cynics chide: "Detroit's got the best 0-4 team in football."

Now it's got the best 1-4 team in football.

The one victory may not enhance the looks of the record much, but "it beats getting hit in the eye with a sharp stick," Coach Rick Forzano said after Monday's 17-13 key victory over San Francisco.

The Lions used a disputed pass interference penalty and a key goal line stand to notch their first triumph under Forzano.

The nationally televised game, played before a Tiger Stadium crowd of 45,199, had plenty of exciting plays to keep the viewers happy.

Among them:

—A 32-yard pass interference penalty which set up Steve Owens' one-yard touchdown plunge for Detroit in the second quarter.

—Four interceptions. One was returned 44 yards by Lion cornerback Levi Johnson and led to an Errol Mann field goal.

—A 45-yard punt return by Dick Jauron of the Lions to set up another TD.

—A 64-yard run by 49er rookie Wilbur Jackson to the Detroit one.

—The Lions' goal line stand after that run.

"We won by a few points ... We would have made it more but we didn't want to run up the score," Forzano said, grinning.

San Francisco Coach Dick Nolan rushed off without saying much but quarterback Dennis Morrison, making his first NFL start, didn't mind talking about the loss, the 49ers' third straight in a 2-3 record.

"I was nervous in the afternoon, but when we opened with the passing attack it calmed me," the left-hander said. "But in the third quarter I got more excited than I should have."

Detroit picked off three Morrison aeriels. One, by linebacker Charlie Weaver in the first period, ended a scoring threat. Then there was Johnson's interception in the second quarter, and linebacker Jim Laslavic grabbed another in the final four minutes to thwart a drive at the Lion 10.

Morrison finished with 17 completions in 40 attempts for 171 yards, including an 11-yard pass to Jackson with 33 seconds left for the only San Francisco touchdown.

Detroit's Bill Munson hit on 15 of 32 passes for 130 yards, including a 13-yard scoring shot to Larry Walton 15 seconds into the final quarter to clinch the victory.

Aaron Talking With Brewers

OAKLAND (AP) — The Atlanta Braves have given Hank Aaron permission to talk with the Milwaukee Brewers, possibly opening the door for baseball's most successful home run slugger to become the first black general manager in the major leagues.

The announcement Monday by Dan Donohue, president of the Braves, was made just one day before Aaron was to hold a news conference here reportedly to disclose his future plans.

The news conference apparently was arranged by Magnavox, an electrical firm with which Aaron has a $1 million contract.

If Aaron, who will be 41 next February, does sign with the Brewers and finish his major league career where it began — in Milwaukee — he probably would spend next season as a designated hitter before taking a general manager's position.

All along, Aaron had made it known he planned to retire after this season ... until Sunday, Sept. 29, when he announced that his future still remained in doubt.

Aaron's problems at Atlanta apparently stem from a financial squabble with the Braves, who have offered Hank a front office job for next year at substantially less than his $200,000 player's contract.

"Titles," Aaron once snapped. "Can you spend titles at a grocery store?"

Arizona Breaks Into Top Ten For 1st Time

TUCSON, Arizona (AP) — Saying simply that "it will be a real challenge to stay there," head Coach Jim Young and his University of Arizona Wildcats have made their debut in The Associated Press college football Top Ten.

The Wildcats' No. 9 ranking marked the first time in its history Arizona has ever broken into the Top Ten, while Ohio State held down the No. 1 ranking for the fourth week in a row.

Undeclared Ohio State whaloped Wisconsin 52-7 Saturday, its fifth victory of the season, and received 51 first-place votes to open a commanding lead over runner-up Oklahoma.

The Buckeyes received 1,160 of a possible 1,180 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Oklahoma had only five first-place votes and 1,020 points in the balloting.

Last week, Ohio State led over Oklahoma by a mere 20 points and a margin of 33-24 in first-place votes. Both teams finished 2-3 respectively behind national champion Notre Dame last season.

Michigan climbed from fourth place to third with one first-place ballot following a 21-7 triumph over Michigan State. The Wolverines supplanted Alabama, which dropped from third to fourth with one No. 1 vote and 814 points in the wake of a last-minute 8-7 decision over winless Florida State.

Auburn went from 10th to fifth with an impressive 31-13 trouncing of Kentucky. The Tigers received the other first-place vote and 636 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten are Southern California, Notre Dame, Texas A&M, Arizona and North Carolina State.

In a season of upsets, Young and his Wildcats are undefeated in five games and were 41-8 victors Saturday over Utah.

Last season Young took over essentially the same team that was 4-7 the year before, and came up with a winner — 8-3 for the season — and a tie for the Western Athletic Conference championship.

"We're happy to be in the Top Ten for the recognition our players receive," said Young, who brought a quiet, mild-mannered approach to the gridiron at the Tucson school. "It will be a real challenge to stay there."

Young was referring to Saturday's upcoming game with 16th-ranked Texas Tech, which lost its first game of the season last Saturday, 28-7 to Texas A&M.

The second ten are Penn State, Nebraska, Kansas, Florida, Arizona State, Texas, Texas Tech, Maryland, Miami of Ohio and Tulane.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season record and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-1816-14-12-10-9-8-etc.:

1. Ohio State (51)	5-0-0	1,160
2. Oklahoma (5)	4-0-0	1,020
3. Michigan (1)	5-0-0	924
4. Alabama (1)	5-0-0	814
5. Auburn (1)	5-0-0	636
6. So. California	3-1-0	574
7. Notre Dame	4-1-0	506
8. Texas A&M	4-1-0	425
9. Arizona	5-0-0	394
10. No. Caro. St.	6-0-0	323
11. Penn State	4-1-0	244
12. Nebraska	3-2-0	169
13. Kansas	4-1-0	141
14. Florida	4-1-0	107
15. Arizona State	3-1-0	73
16. Texas	3-2-0	69
17. Texas Tech	3-1-1	59
18. Maryland	3-2-0	49
19. Miami, O.	4-0-1	41
20. Tulane	4-0-0	39

Others receiving votes, listed alphabetically: Arkansas, Baylor, California, Illinois, Miami (Fla.), Missouri, Oklahoma State, Pitt, Temple, UCLA, Vanderbilt, Wisconsin.

Buckey Again Gets ACC Honor

By The Associated Press
North Carolina State quarterback Dave Buckey has been picked as the offensive back of the week in the Atlantic Coast Conference for the second week in a row.

Sharing honors with the Wolfpack signal caller is Duke guard Bruce Snyder, the offensive lineman of the week.

Buckey, a 161-pound junior from Akron, Ohio, directed the Wolfpack on three long second half scoring drives against Virginia to overcome a 21-0 deficit and give State a 22-21 decision.

It was the sixth straight win against no defeats this year for the Wolfpack, while Virginia fell to 1-4.

In the first march, which covered 76 yards, Buckey converted four third down situations, completing four of five passes in the drive.

On the second march of 80 yards he converted twice on third down and passed to Roland Hooks for 36 yards and a touchdown on a critical fourth-and-12 play.

Buckey drove the Wolfpack 74 yards in nine plays on the third drive, hitting three of three passes, and then scored from two yards out.

He passed for a two-point conversion after the second touchdown and pitched out to Hooks for the winning conversion following the third score.

For the game, Buckey connected on 23 of 30 passes for a school record 306 yards, and tied Roman Gabriel's mark for number of completions.

Snyder, a 250-pounder from Catawauqua, Pa., provided excellent blocking as Duke rushed for 299 yards in its 33-14 victory over Army.

He graded at 88 per cent and helped open huge holes in the Cadet defensive line all afternoon.

The selection of Buckey and Snyder came from a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association, which chose Duke linebacker Craig Stephenson and Maryland back Ken Schroy as defensive players of the week.

Stephenson, a former helicopter pilot in Vietnam, made eight tackles and eight assists against Army.

The 25-year-old native of Wilmington, Del., was credited with causing two fumbles, batting down a pass, tackling opposing backs for losses on three occasions and making a tackle that saved a touchdown.

Schroy, a senior from Quakertown, Pa., returned three punts for 84 yards and had a 74-yard touchdown run nullified by a penalty as the Terps clubbed Clemson 41-0.

His 38-yard run to the Clemson 15 set up the first Maryland touchdown. He played excellent pass defense and graded at 85 per cent on his assignments and made two solo tackles.

In games this Saturday, Virginia Tech is at Virginia, N.C. State visits North Carolina, Clemson entertains Duke and Wake Forest travels to Maryland.

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

First Congressional Showdown With Ford

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is heading into its first foreign policy showdown with President Ford with most leaders expecting to lose in the fight over a cutoff of U.S. military aid to Turkey.

Opponents of the Turkish aid said optimistically Monday that spot checks indicated they might be able to muster a two-thirds House vote today to override Ford's veto of the aid cutoff.

But the opponents agreed with predictions of leaders, including Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, that the Senate will sustain Ford's veto whether the House overrides or not.

Stanford's Dr. Flory Wins Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — American professor Paul J. Flory of Stanford University was awarded the 1974 Nobel Prize in chemistry today. He was cited for "his fundamental achievements, both theoretical and experimental, in the physical chemistry of macromolecules."

Flory, 64, has been a professor of chemistry at Stanford since 1961. He gained his doctor's degree at Ohio State University in 1934 and later worked at a number of institutions, both academic and industrial.

Flory has done extensive research in the field of the physical chemistry of macromolecules. Among the substances made up of macromolecules are the most common plastics, polymers, and also a great number of very important biological compounds, such as protein, nucleic acids, cellulose and rubber, the awarding Royal Academy of Science said.

A presidential veto can be overturned only by a two-thirds vote of both House and Senate.

Congress has postponed its campaign recess for a week to act because the Turkey aid cutoff is in an emergency stop-gap funding resolution for agencies whose legal spending authority expired Sept. 30.

Denouncing "reckless acts," Ford said in his veto message Monday that Congress' resolution to cut off aid to Turkey is "entirely destructive" to U.S. efforts to bring about Cyprus peace negotiations.

The President also said the aid cutoff might imperil U.S. relations with Turkey "and weaken us in the crucial eastern Mediterranean."

"It directly jeopardizes the NATO alliance," he added.

Both the House and Senate originally voted overwhelmingly, four to one, to cut off the U.S. aid after Turkey's invasion of Cyprus to force negotiations on Turkey's withdrawal from the island.

But Ford contended that rather than encourage negotiations the Turkey aid cutoff would lessen U.S. influence in getting Turkey to negotiate and "could mean the indefinite postponement of meaningful negotiations."

In a clear reference to congressmen's sensitivity to Greek-American lobby efforts for the Turkey aid cutoff, Ford said lack of negotiations will not help Greece or the Greek Cypriots who formerly dominated Cyprus.

"Reckless acts that prevent progress toward a Cyprus settlement harm Greece, for it is the Greek government and the Greek Cypriots who have the most to gain from a compromise settlement," Ford said.

Mine Workers Stalemate Apparently Been Broken

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for the United Mine Workers and the coal industry apparently have broken the stalemate over discussion of key health and safety issues and have resumed hard bargaining.

The deadlock held up the talks for a week and provoked union warnings of a nationwide coal strike Nov. 12.

Top union and industry negotiators held a lengthy meeting Monday after the Bituminous Coal Operators Association agreed to the union's demand to resolve their differences over noneconomic issues before moving on to wage proposals.

The meeting was the first since last Tuesday when the industry presented what was described as its final offer on the noneconomic issues. UMW President Arnold Miller accused the industry of refusing to bargain in good faith and warned of a strike by his 120,000 members, who mine 75 percent of the nation's coal.

"The UMW is entirely serious about its noneconomic demands, especially those in the field of safety, and the BCOA evidently has come to recognize this," Miller said in a statement after talks resumed Monday.

An industry spokesman said the mine operators had planned to present their economic proposals Monday but "decided to go further in their discussions on noneconomic issues to see if they couldn't arrive at some understanding."

However, it is still doubtful whether enough time remains to avoid a strike. The current three-year contract runs out Nov. 12 and any settlement would have to be submitted to the union rank-and-file at least a week in advance if it is to be ratified in time.

The UMW has proposed a number of safety rules that the industry contends would strip it of much of its management rights. Among them are proposals for full-time helpers on heavy mining machinery and a greater union role in the enforcement of safety laws. Some work rules also are in dispute.

Miller, who is negotiating his first contract, has made safety a key issue in the talks, citing the deaths of 22 miners since contract talks began Sept. 3.

A Male Queen?

MURFREESBORO (AP) — The newest candidate for homecoming queen at Middle Tennessee State University is a balding 6-1 sophomore sporting measurements of 35-31-39.

Bennie Barrett, following in the footsteps of a Pig named Paula, is one of 16 candidates for the honor. He is the only man in the field.

The 27-year-old Army veteran, an, concedes he may face a tougher race than Paula, who won the title in 1969, "because of a massive communication gap between myself and the people of this campus."

Paula broke tradition when she outpolled a number of human contestants and received the crown at appropriate ceremonies.

"I'm running primarily to disrupt the normal flow of events on campus. I don't see why I shouldn't run. I don't see how the homecoming queen serves any purpose anyway, except maybe as a sexual object."

last two years. His "Very Special Love Song," was named album of year. In 1973, he won the CMA's top male vocalist, top album and top single awards.

Accepting his award for top album, Rich rhymed, "I thought '73 was the year for me. Whoa, but '74 and this much more."

Before being named top entertainer, Rich sang a medley of his greatest songs, starting with "Lonely Weekend" and "Mohair Sam," and ending with his latest hit "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World."

King's "Tennessee Waltz" is counted among the greatest country western songs ever written. Bradley's pioneer studio began what has since become Nashville's Music Row.

Loretta Lynn and Conway Twitty won vocal duo honors for the third consecutive year. Miss Lynn was the first female entertainer of the year in 1972.

Jonny Cash, entertainer of the year in 1969, hosted the eighth annual awards show.

televised nationally from the Grand Ole Opry House. Dressed in a tux-frock coat and glittering knee-high boots, Cash introduced a dazzling array of country music stars.

Among those presenting awards were Roy Acuff, Country Charlie Pride, George Jones and Tammy Wynette, Anne Murray and Ray Stevens. The show was interspersed with singing performances by Cash, Rich, Hank Snow, Kris Kristofferson, Johnny Rodriguez and Kitty Wells.

Cal Smith and writer Don Wayne worked together on the hit single "Country Bumpkin" for which Smith won top single and Wayne won top song.

Danny Davis and The Nashville Brass were named best instrumental group for the sixth consecutive year.

The late Don Rich was named top instrumentalist. A guitarist for Buck Owens' Buckaroos, Rich was killed last spring in a California motorcycle accident.

The four Statler Brothers were selected vocal group of the year.

Drama Clinic

The annual Eastern Drama Clinic, co-sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction's Division of Languages and the N.C. High School Drama Assn., will be held Friday, at McGinnis auditorium on the campus of East Carolina University in Greenville.

The clinic is sponsored each year for high school students and teachers in the eastern part of the State who are participating in drama productions. Some thirty teachers and students are expected to attend.

The clinic will begin at 8:30 a.m. and run until 4:00 p.m. with workshops available on movement, costumes, scenery, and lighting. Special sessions on dramatic techniques and puppet technique in the classroom are planned for teachers attending.

Workshops will run continuously throughout the day so that participants can attend all of them.

Withdraws Support For Bob Morgan

verly Lake sent to former supporters. It explains why he severed relations with Robert Morgan and was accompanied by a brief cover letter giving his position. A recipient of the letter said it arrived Saturday.

"Ordinarily it is not proper for a judge to make a public statement concerning a political campaign in which he is not a candidate. I have not done so since I became a justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina."

"However, when candidates for the United States Senate gratuitously inject my name into their public debate and falsify the record, it is appropriate and necessary for me to set the record straight."

"Last week both Mr. Stevens and Mr. Morgan did this when they appeared before the NAACP to solicit the support of a block vote which it controls. Mr. Stevens berated Mr. Morgan for managing my campaign for governor in 1960 and called it a 'racist campaign.'"

"Mr. Stevens is either ignorant concerning my campaign, intellectually incapable of recognizing a high-level discussion of vital issues, or willfully distorting facts to curry favor with the NAACP. Whichever of these is the explanation, he had deliberately, without any redeeming circumstance, appealed to race prejudice for his personal advantage."

"His characterization of my 1960 campaign managed so well by Mr. Morgan as racist is false. Every speech I made in that campaign is available at my home for inspection by him or by anyone else. It was a high-level clean campaign on the major issues of that day, including the profoundly serious one of how to preserve the educational opportunities of all the children of North Carolina—white, black and Indian."

"I plainly and in good faith told the people what would happen to their public schools if they elected my opponent. They did, the NAACP's block vote providing more than his margin of victory. The conditions prevailing today in our public schools show that I was right."

"Mr. Morgan, apparently fearful of the NAACP which he fought so valiantly and honorably as my manager in 1960, now apologizes to that New York organization for having done so.

"Answering Mr. Stevens, he told the NAACP he managed my campaign because I taught him in law school, because we were friends and because I had helped him when he ran for clerk of court in Harnett County."

"While these specified reasons are factually correct, Mr. Morgan's statement was carefully designed to give the impression that in agreeing to manage my campaign, he yielded reluctantly to the request of an old friend."

"Nothing could be further from the truth. The truth is that in 1960, Mr. Morgan repeatedly urged me to become a candidate for governor because he knew and shared my views on the public schools and on other issues of that campaign."

"When in February of that year I said in a speech in Sanford, N.C., that I would not become a candidate because of insufficient campaign funds, it was Mr. Morgan who came immediately to me and urged me to reconsider. He volunteered to head a group in an effort to raise a few thousand dollars with which to start the campaign."

"This he did and I became a candidate."

"Mr. Morgan did a magnificent job as my manager, but with a tiny fraction of the funds he has spent in his own campaign this year."

"We were at all times in complete agreement as to the issues and how to present them. I wrote and delivered the speeches. Mr. Morgan handled news releases, advertising and the operation of the headquarters."

"Never during the campaign did I have any anxiety about or disagreement with Mr. Morgan's handling of these matters. I do not now. He never expressed disagreement with any public statement or speech I made."

"In 1960, Mr. Morgan and I both said repeatedly that our enemy was the NAACP, not the Negro people of North Carolina. I still believe that."

"I continue to be tremendously proud of the clean, honorable high level campaign I led and Mr. Morgan managed. When it ended, Mr. Morgan was also proud of it. Subsequent events have proved our position were correct."

"If, as now seems to be true, Mr. Morgan feels it would be good for North Carolina to have a United States senator chosen by and committed to the NAACP and to the Sanford wing of the Democratic party, then Mr. Morgan has indeed changed since 1960."

"The plain truth is that at this time, neither Mr. Stevens nor Mr. Morgan can be depended upon to represent faithfully in the United States Senate the thousands upon thousands of North Carolinians who voted for me in 1960 and the thousands more who now wish they had."

"Mr. Stevens is a candidate who never would have been taken seriously by anyone except for the fact that his father-in-law is a very rich man and a deeply respected North Carolinian."

"Mr. Morgan has now gone over to the NAACP and the Sanford wing of the Democratic party."

"The people who supported me in 1960 have no reason to support either of these candidates. They can best serve North Carolina by starting now to form a new political party based on principle, not expediency."

"If they do, I'm ready to join it."

Iowa ranks seventh in the nation in turkey production with 7.5 million head.

Sam Was Staunch Defender

Sam Pettingill belongs with our brave Founding Fathers, as a staunch defender of this Republic. He originally taught 20th Century school teachers why it is criminal to call this country a democracy! Do you know the difference?

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE B-668: Helen Pettingill, of Vermont, telephoned me long distance last spring.

"Dr. Crane," she mourned, "I wanted you to know that Sam just passed away."

"He looked on you as one of his best friends, so I wish you could be present at the Memorial Service we are having."

"And I'd like for you to compose a little tribute to engrave on the back side of his tombstone, for it is now bare, waiting for an appropriate tribute to be chiseled thereon."

Modern Paul Revere

Samuel B. Pettingill was a win for the brave Founding Fathers!

As an astute constitutional lawyer, he was elected to the U.S. Congress in the 1930s, as a Democrat.

But he became nauseated by the Roosevelt attempt to pack the Supreme Court, so switched to the Republican Party and later became its national treasurer.

He wrote some of the most effective prose I have ever read and I speak advisedly, for I majored in English at Northwestern University and took practically every course therein during my graduate years when I was gaining my Ph.D. in psychology.

Can Resist Oil Influence

BOSTON (AP) — The influence of Arab oil-producing countries on the world's economy will be short-lived if the industrial world resists it, according to Abba Eban, former Israeli foreign minister.

Eban also told newsmen Saturday night the "spirit of solid unity by oil-consuming countries" in finding alternative energy sources will eventually bring oil prices down.

Eban was in Boston to attend a private testimonial dinner.

ALL GONE
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The last grizzly bear in California was killed in Tulare County in 1922, says the California Department of Fish and Game.

BUSTER AND BILLIE
A should have been a love story

His trenchant feature was widely syndicated in American newspapers.

It was he who alerted me to the essential difference between our Republic vs. a democracy.

He tersely explained why we pledge to the "Republic" in our salute to the flag.

And first broadcast the information that until Roosevelt got elected, even our U.S. Army Manual expressly stated that the government of the United States "is not a democracy but is a Republic."

He also brought out the fact that Chief Justice John Marshall, who really put the starch in the judicial branch of our Republic, presided there for 34 years, wisely warned;

"A democracy is mobocracy."

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♦ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
3 NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♥.

Declarer selected the right suit to establish and had the right idea about how to go about developing it, but faulty timing destroyed his chances.

West's lead of his fourth-best heart against South's three no trump contract was doubly effective—it started the defense on the way to establishing their best suit and, at the same time, removed a vital entry to dummy. Declarer realized that if spades broke 4-2, as could be expected, he would not have time to attack that suit, for four spade tricks would bring his total to only eight. It was equally futile to play on diamonds. Declarer could not afford to surrender the lead twice, for then the defenders would get three heart tricks in addition to the ace-king of diamonds. His only hope, therefore, lay in getting four club tricks. Since declarer would have to give up a club trick and there was no entry to dummy outside of clubs, declarer decided to duck a club at trick two.

East won the jack of clubs and returned a heart. Declarer held up the ace one round, and won the continuation. He led a club to the king, but when East showed out, the only remaining hope was an even spade division. When that failed to materialize, declarer had to be satisfied with seven tricks.

Declarer's reasoning was correct when he decided to go after the club suit, but his technique was faulty. True, he had to concede a club trick while he still had a club in his hand with which to re-enter dummy, but the best play is first to cash a high club honor before giving up a club. Notice what a difference that would have made.

When the jack of clubs drops under the king, declarer continues with a low club to the nine. East shows out, but declarer doesn't mind. If West wins the ten, declarer can later finesse for West's queen of clubs, so making four tricks in that suit. It doesn't even help West to refuse the second club trick. Declarer can then no longer establish the club suit, but he has gained a third club while he still retains the ace of hearts. Now, he can shift his attention to spades. Correct technique is to lead a low spade from hand. One of the defenders takes the trick, but declarer wins the heart return and gets home with four spade tricks, two hearts and three clubs.

Bible into second place, however, for it was not written at a single time in history but is the product of many prophets over thousands of years!

Even today, 1974, if you ask teachers and many lawyers if our country is a democracy, they still parrot the fallacy that was started by Woodrow Wilson for mere political purposes.

When I was teaching psychology at George Washington University in our national capital, a public relations expert and confidant of Wilson told me that Wilson urged the deletion of "Republic" and the insertion of democracy, to stampede similitudes into marking their "X" under that heading on their November ballots.

"Ain't this a democracy?" they will exclaim, "so I'll put my 'X' under 'democratic' on the ballot."

Send for my booklet "How to Save Our Republic," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Sierra Meeting Tonight

Greenville members of the Sierra Club, a national conservation group dedicated to the protection and enjoyment of the natural environment, will hold an organizational meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the basement rooms of Planters Bank building on W. Third Street. It is open to all interested persons from Greenville and surrounding areas who would like to inform themselves about the Club's aims and activities.

The Sierra Club was founded by John Muir in 1892 in San Francisco, with the intent of promoting public ownership of a section of the Sierra Mountains in and near what has since become Yosemite National Park. The club has gradually become a national body, with chapters and sub-groups in all of the 50 states and Canada. Membership currently is around 150,000, drawn from all age groups and many backgrounds. The Sierra Club has been involved in many conservation and environmental issues throughout the US in the past decade. The Joseph LeConte chapter, covering the Carolinas, has been active in several environmental cases ranging from the designation of the Chatanooga River as a national "wild river" to the controversy over the future of Bald Head Island. Besides legal and educational activity, the club is also engaged in an extensive program of wilderness outings, canoeing trips and hikes for its members.

The Greenville members intend to organize into a local group affiliated with the LeConte Chapter and covering eastern N. C. north of Wilmington. This would make the eighth Sierra Club local group within the two Carolinas.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 16, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can investigate new ideas today and tonight but it's not the time to commit yourself to a definite course of action since all the factors involved are not yet fully understood. Postpone the signing of any documents.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you study your responsibilities early, you will be able to handle them efficiently. Strive for more harmony with loved one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't let it bother you if you don't agree with the ideas of associates. Be silent with one who is in a most irate mood. Relax tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Although you have many duties to perform, don't expect aid from others, since it will not be forthcoming. Show that you are sensible.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can enjoy yourself most now by sticking to pleasures that are wholesome and inexpensive. Put more zip into your life.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to cooperate more with family and strive for a firmer foundation. Get at the source of any friction and eliminate it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You should be careful in motion today if you want to avoid the unhappy influences. Don't criticize others today. Show consideration.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Elevate your consciousness to a greater degree and you will be on the road to success. Listen to advice of a clever business expert.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to please good friends in a social way and you find this opens new avenues of success to you. Sidestep a depressing activity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may want to renege on a promise you've made, but it would be wise to carry through with your commitment. Be cheerful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show that you will cooperate with a plan a friend proposes that could gain mutual success. Take time for meditation tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in a civic affair and gain the respect of a higher-up. Show you are conscientious in civic improvement. Follow your hunches.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be careful of stumbling blocks in a new project you have in mind. Don't permit a new contact to lead you astray. Be confident.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she may become impatient when the going gets rough and may want to turn to something else. Teach to persevere and to figure out how to get around pitfalls and complete whatever is started. Make sure as parents to have only the finest influences around. Give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for November is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter (name of newspaper), P.O. Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Dual Decoration By Error

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says an administrative error was responsible for Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr. receiving two decorations for heroism in Vietnam in separate commands at the same time and in the same battle.

Haig, former White House chief of staff who was recently named supreme allied commander in Europe, was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross (DSC) for heroism as a battalion commander during the Battle of Ap Gu on March 31 and April 1, 1967.

He also was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC) for actions as a brigade commander during the same battle.

Take Me To Your Liter

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. is a long way from adopting the metric system of measurement, but a major soft drink company is planning a radio-TV campaign it hopes will make consumers say, "Take me to your liter."

The firm, the Seven-Up Co. of St. Louis, Mo., says it plans to begin its broadcast and print advertising campaigns for liter and half-liter bottles of its product in 1975.

The company apparently is the first soft drink producer in the U.S. to take the metric step, according to officials at the National Soft Drink Association and the Glass Container Manufacturers' Institute, two major trade groups.

And the step will be limited at first.

The radio-TV ads extolling Seven-Up as the "leader in the liter" won't be the only kind set loose, says Lee Larkin, the company's director of public relations.

He says they'll just be one part of an overall campaign urging consumers to simply buy the drink, be it bottled by the liter or in traditional ounces, and that the liter phase-in will be gradual.

Larkin says bottled Seven-Up primarily is sold in units of 16 and 32 ounces. A half-liter will work out to 16.91 ounces and the liter to 33.82 ounces, he says, but he doubts there'll be a slight price rise to reflect the extra sip provided liter-bottles.

There are several reasons for giving the new measurement a tryout, says Larkin: "One is that we want to be the first to do it. The next is that it's a logical system of measurement."

"And three, it's going to come sooner or later."

Later is more probable, says William Sadd, president of the glass container association: "It's going to happen... but there's been no industry-wide move that I know of for the soft drink industry to go metric at this time."

No legislation is pending in Congress to make metric mandatory. If that ever happened, a call for a shot of booze — usually 1½ ounces — might someday come out in a "Gunsmoke" episode as:

"Say, Miss Kitty, give me 45 milliliters of red-eye."

Sad to say, the Seven-Up television ads for liters probably won't be much of a home study aid for grade school kids to whom hundreds of teachers across the U.S. now are trying to explain the metric system.

Larkin, who said he's seen one of the proposed TV ads, says "it doesn't go into depth," that is, explain the difference between the liter and the ounce. "It's not an instructional type of thing."

Musicians At Convention

Several faculty and student musicians from the East Carolina University School of Music attended the joint convention of the N. C. chapters of the National Association of Teachers of Singing and the Music Teachers National Association in Boone recently.

Pianist Peter Takacs, a member of ECU's artist faculty, performed at the convention. Other ECU faculty members attending were Dr. Charles Bath, Antonia Dalapas, Dr. Clyde Hiss, Virginia Linn, Dr. Charles W. Moore, Dr. Catherine Murphy and Gladys White.

Eight ECU voice and piano students also attended the convention, where they participated in master classes and attended lectures and other convention sessions.

They were graduate voice students Sheila Marlowe of Greenville, June Laine of Richmond, Va. and Sherry Riegle of Hays, Kansas; undergraduate voice students Ken Davis of Raeford, Linda Montague of Oxford, and Susan West of Wilmington; and undergraduate piano students Glenn Moore of Fairfax, Va. and Charles Tolson of Morehead City.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina F.O.B. dock broilers trending steady with this week's F.O.B. dock-weighted average price at 38.30 cents per pound. Demand good; supply adequate; weights desirable. Estimated slaughter today 1,050,000.

Hens: Market steady with a weak undertone noted on heavy types. Supplies adequate and demand fair. Too few sources reporting to release prices.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs trending .25 to 1.25 lower, mostly .50 lower. Rocky Mount 38.75-39.25; Kinston, 38.00-39.00; High Falls, 37.00-38.00; Tarboro and Bethel 36.50-37.00; Salisbury 39.00; Wilson 37.00 with Number 1's at 38.50.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slipped back today in a continuation of the profit-taking that appeared toward the close Monday.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off about a point, and losers took about a 5-3 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said at least a temporary round of selling was to be expected after the surge in prices that had pushed the Dow up some 89 points over the last six sessions.

Prices on the Big Board included International Telephone, up 1/8 to 154; Marcor, down 1/4 at 16; Fleetwood Enterprises, unchanged at 7 1/2, and Ford Motor, off 1/2 at 36 1/4.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average, up some 27 points at its mid-afternoon peak, closed with a gain of 15.33 at 673.50.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 3-1 margin on the Big Board in active turnover of 19.77 million shares despite the closing of banks and many other businesses for Columbus Day.

The NYSE's broad-based composite index was up .87 at 38.36.

The market value index on the American Stock Exchange rose 1.33 to 69.37.

Grange Resolutions

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Grange will consider a number of resolutions today as the annual convention concludes.

The delegates are to vote on resolutions involving pricing, marketing and other agricultural issues.

The farm organization opened its meeting Sunday. In Monday's session, Mrs. Harry Caldwell, master of the state Grange, urged continued price supports and improved marketing programs for farmers.

Musicians Negotiate

DURHAM (AP) — Musicians of the North Carolina Symphony, have threatened to walk off their jobs at midnight Saturday unless progress is made in contract negotiations this week.

John McClellan, chairman of the orchestra committee, said the 70 musicians were seeking a longer performing season, better per diem pay, and increased health benefits.

McClellan's committee represents the musicians in talks with the North Carolina Symphony Society.

He claimed the demands were necessary to attract talented musicians.
