$330,000 Loss In 2 City Fires

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Two large fires here yesterday—one at Johnson's Furniture Co. at West End Circle and the other a general storage warehouse at the intersection of 13th and Railroad Streets—resulted in more than $330,000 property damage, according to estimates.

The Johnson's Furniture fire was reported at 1:50 p.m. and fire officers said the west side of the building was totally involved with fire when fire fighting units arrived.

Store manager Bob Kimery said he saw smoke coming from the west side of the building and attempted to extinguish the fire with a fire extinguisher. Flames swept over the ceiling and Kimery said he told a customer and two clerks to get out of the building.

Fire department officials said the fire apparently started in the rear of the building in the vicinity of the heating plant. They noted that the cause of the fire has not been determined.

Four pumps and the department's snorkel answered the call and fire fighters used 3,200 feet of hose in combating the fire.

It took more than an hour for firemen to bring the blaze under control. Firemen stayed on the scene until 6 p.m. killing out small pockets of fire in the debris.

No estimate of damage was available this morning, but Pitt County Tax Department records indicate that the masonry and composition roof building—owned by B. S. Warren and Mrs. Ruby Brown, was valued at $100,990, while Johnson's Furniture listed inventory and equipment on December 31, 1974 valued at $74,802.

The storage warehouse fire was reported at 10:45 p.m., fire officials said.

The wood and tin building, owned by Marvin Buck and James Taylor, Jr., was totally destroyed, as was the contents of the structure.

Pitt Tax records showed a $26,170 value for the structure.

Fire officials, who said the warehouse was completely engulfed in flames when fire units arrived, said a half-dozen local business firms had merchandise stored in the building.

Officials at Spunwind Inc. said that firm rented about half the warehouse—some 10,000 square feet—for storage of waste polyester material for recycling. No estimate was available on that firm's loss, however.

Music Arts owners said that firm had "in the neighborhood" of $30,000 worth of organs, televisions and one piano in the structure, while the manager for Sherwin-Williams Co. here said that firm had about $20,000 worth of merchandise, including "90 per cent carpet, carpet cushion and unfinished furniture," stored there.

The garden speciality, Flora and Fauna Shop, had an estimated $15,000 worth of decorative glass ware, lawn and garden tools and plant food, in the warehouse, store officials said, while Larry's Carpet Land had some 3,000 square yards of carpet and

DIFFERENCE IN SENTENCES?

What is the difference between two prison sentences to be served concurrently and the same lengths of time to be served consecutively? Is the receiver of the concurrent one likely to be eligible for parole sooner? And how many years is a life sentence generally considered to be? Mrs. A. C.

District Solicitor Eli Bloom said a concurrent sentence would amount to only the length of the longer sentence, whereas a consecutive one would, of course, mean that one would start when the other is completed. For crimes committed prior to Apr. 8 of this year, a person could be eligible for parole after serving 10 years of a life sentence. According to a law enacted by the General Assembly, for crimes after this date, the lower limit is 20 years. All sentences usually call for eligibility for parole after one-fourth of the sentence is served.

POTPOURRI FOR SALE

I enjoyed the John Duncan articles in The Daily Reflector so much. I understand they were compiled into a book called Pitt County Potpourri. Do you know where I can get a copy? Mrs. M.F.

Wendell Smiley collected the late Mr. Duncan's articles into Pitt County Potpourri. He says he has about 100 copies for sale—$3 for unbound copies; $9 for bound. You may call him at 756-0388.

Energy Boss Is Replaced

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford announced today a major shake-up in the federal energy hierarchy, removing John Sawhill as administrator and replacing him with former Asst. Commerce Secretary Andrew E. Gibson.

Sawhill's resignation followed persistent rumors that some members of the Ford administration were trying to oust him, partly because of his outspoken urging of strong energy conservation measures. These included an additional 10-cent per gallon tax on gasoline.

The official said Sawhill had met with President Ford last Friday, but Sawhill himself said Monday that he had no "serious discussions" about resigning and no intention to resign. Sawhill said Monday that he would stick to his position even if it cost his job.

"Obviously, I've been somewhat controversial in my defense of and support for conservation and probably have gone further in conservation than others might think appropriate," Sawhill said.

"But my feeling is that's the right thing to do. And if there are others in the administration who feel that I can't really be effective in my job because I've taken these positions, then maybe I should leave."

This morning, only 24 hours later, Sawhill told his staff he was leaving.

Edmisten Hits 'Mafia' Fears

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Rufus L. Edmisten, candidate for the post of North Carolina Attorney General, said in an interview in Greenville this morning that he will not be a part of any action that will make the tobacco farmer and the tobacco industry a political football.

"I feel I know the problems of the small businesses and farmers," Edmisten said. "I am very upset with the way the Holshouser administration and my opponent James H. Carson Jr. have tried to tear down the tobacco industry. I was born on a farm. Rural living was all I knew until I went to work for Senator Sam Ervin as his chief lawyer."

Edmisten added, "my opponent would have people believe the state is being taken over by the Mafia because of tobacco . . . and I don't quite understand that."

Edmisten stated that thousands and thousands of American families depend on tobacco to make a living.

"All this talk about cigarette smuggling in North Carolina baffles me," the candidate emphasized. "There is no law in our state that prohibits a person from possessing as much tobacco as they want. So there is no cigarette smuggling.

"There are problems in states such as New York and Pennsylvania that have tried to tax tobacco out of existence," Edmisten said. "As attorney general I would want to cooperate to the fullest extent with other states about persons who take large quantities of cigarettes from North Carolina to other states."

Edmisten said he feels it is a bad idea to have the State High-

Nixon Doing Well After Operation

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon's surgeon said today that "Mr. Nixon is doing well" following an operation to stop a blood clot in his left leg from traveling any further toward his heart or lungs.

Dr. Eldon Hickman, who performed the hour-long operation, said Nixon's condition was "stable." He said Nixon returned to his room on the top of Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach for recovery.

Nixon's personal physician had said the operation was required because the clots in Nixon's leg posed a threat to his life.

"With the threat the clot could become a pulmonary embolus, we placed a mild clip . . . partially occluding but not completely occluding the vein," Hickman said.

He said the clip was permanent. He said the operation was uneventful and that the former president was "recovering in the normal manner."

The doctor said he had the usual postoperative effects of being sleepy and was confined to bed.

The operation began at 5:30 a.m. PST. None of Nixon's family was present at the hospital, but officials said his wife, Pat, was expected at the hospital later in the day.

Hickman said Nixon will probably be hospitalized for "another week," then the recovery would take four to six weeks at home.

Nixon was given no extra doses of Vitamin K to prevent excessive bleeding during the surgery.

Economy Index Slumps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of future trends in the economy plunged last month at the steepest rate in 23 years, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said its index of leading indicators dropped 2.5 per cent in September. It was the second sizeable monthly drop in a row, making the two-month fall 4.1 per cent.

Since inflation tends to make the index appear overly optimistic, the indication apparently is for a serious deterioration in the economy in the months ahead.

Such a deterioration would be in line with the recent projection of a sharp but short recession by economist Paul McCracken. Administration officials have also said they expect little evidence of a recovery until next spring.

The latest projection from the index of leading indicators, which is composed of a dozen separate economic fluctuations, was for sharply higher unemployment, decreased spending on durable goods, lower returns for raw material producers and an even-slower activity in the already-depressed construction industry.

Initial claims for unemployment insurance jumped by nine per cent in September to a total of 346,000.

More Nationalization Scheduled For Britain

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II announced today that the Labor government plans to nationalize Britain's shipbuilding and aircraft industries and extend government ownership in other sectors of industry.

The queen's Speech from the Throne opening the 48th Parliament also announced a series of measures to strengthen and overhaul the rusting welfare system. The speech, written by members of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government, said a National Enterprise Board will be set up to extend government participation in private industry and to nationalize the ailing shipbuilding and aircraft industries.

The queen gave no timetable for the nationalization program. Wilson's government could hold on for a five-year term unless the two-vote majority in the House of Commons which it won on Oct. 10 is not sufficient to prevent its defeat on a major issue.

Despite the threat of terrorist bombings and a blast Monday night outside the Birmingham home of Sports Minister Denis Howell, the queen took the traditional slow ceremonial ride down the Mall from Buckingham Palace in a horse-drawn carriage.

Supreme Court Agrees Review Death Sentence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to review the first death sentence case it has received since it ruled in 1972 that capital punishment as then carried out was unconstitutional.

The court said it will hear arguments later this term on the appeal of a North Carolina man condemned to die for murder.

Depending upon how broadly the court rules, its decision could affect only a limited number of North Carolina cases or the validity of the death penalty itself.

The court ruled 5 to 4 on June 29, 1972, that the decision whether to sentence an individual to death could not be left up to a jury.

Since then, more than half the states have passed laws designed to get around the court's objections. More than 100 prisoners are now under death sentences in state penitentiaries and awaiting execution.

North Carolina enacted such a law April 8, but the man who is appealing is among more than 40 condemned to die in the state under a judicial interpretation of a previous law.

North Carolina originally required the death penalty for first degree murder, rape, first degree burglary or arson. In 1947 and 1949, the state legislature changed the law so the jury could recommend life imprisonment.

In 1973, the North Carolina Supreme Court ruled that the previous year's U.S. Supreme Court ruling had invalidated only that portion of the state law which made the penalty optional with the jury. Treating the law as mandatory, judges continued to sentence men under it.

Attorneys for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, appealing on behalf of seven defendants, contend that this "reinstatement of the death penalty by judicial decision" was an "impermissible evasion" of the Supreme Court ruling. The court agreed to hear only one of the seven appeals, and did not indicate whether it would hear the others.

They also argue that the death penalty violates the constitutional ban on "cruel and unusual punishment."

More Moderate Costing Legal Help On The Way

By SIDNEY MARGOLIUS
NEW YORK (WNS)—Moderate-middle-income families find it hardest to get legal advice.

Low-income families may qualify for free legal aid. Upper-income people can afford private lawyers.

But because they hear frightening stories about high legal fees, moderate-income individuals tend to live dangerously. They neglect to get advice before signing contracts and leases, and sometimes even in buying and selling houses.

They fail to make wills in the hope that joint tenancy and state intestacy laws will distribute their estates in the desired manner. They forfeit potential tax-savers for lack of skilled counsel and fail to pursue damage, injury and other claims sufficiently to significantly reduce losses. Couples may even fail to get timely legal advice on matrimonial disputes.

Hearings before the Subcommittee on Representation of Citizen Interests, headed by Sen. John V. Tunney of California, disclosed that upper-income families use lawyers twice as often as lower-income people.

If this is a nation of laws as so often has been said recently, obviously not everybody is getting equal explanation of what the laws are.

Five types of legal "assistance" are now available; one, relatively new but expected to gain impetus from the 1974 Federal Pension Law.

1. LEGAL AID: This well-known free service is available only within relatively low income limits. To learn if you qualify, contact the legal aid office listed in your phone book, or consult a family service agency. Legal aid offices now handle an increasing number of consumer and rent cases as well as their traditional representation in criminal cases.

2. SMALL CLAIMS COURT: This is a potentially useful way to obtain relief for certain types of claims, particularly problems with merchants who have proved intractable to verbal complaints. You don't need a lawyer to sue and can fill out simple forms yourself. The court fees are low and may be recoverable from the defendant if you win. You also may be able to recover related costs such as lost work time and travel costs. Too, the cases come up relatively quickly compared to the most crowded higher courts.

But small claims courts have drawbacks, too. While you do not need a lawyer to sue, and some such courts ban lawyers altogether—in others the defendant may use a lawyer.

Such representation is particularly likely if the defending party is even a moderate-size business firm. Thus, the complaining consumer often is at distinct disadvantage.

Also, the small claims court is open not only to grieved consumers but may also be utilized as a relatively inexpensive way for creditors to collect consumer debts.

Availability may be a problem. Not all areas have small claims courts, although they are expanding.

3. LAWYER REFERRAL SERVICE: This is for people who can afford a private lawyer but don't know one experienced in the particular problem. Attorneys register with the local bar association's referral service in several fields with which they are most familiar. The referral service usually will have attorneys registered in most fields of civil and criminal law.

There is no charge for federal, and for a modest fee, usually 10, you are entitled to up to a half hour with the attorney to determine if you do in fact need a lawyer and if so, how to proceed to solve your problem. You aren't obligated to employ the attorney you're referred to and of course, can ask before hand what his fee will be for handling the case.

4. GROUP LEGAL PLANS: This is a growing new field of legal care for moderate income people. Labor unions have been especially interested and have led in developing this type of legal care, but some consumer groups such as the Berkeley, Calif., Consumer Cooperative have helped to sponsor community-wide programs.

Sleeping Husband Is Her Problem

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and her husband (married only a few months) both go to college and live with me. He is a fine young man and I like him, but he has one serious fault. He will not get up in the morning for his classes.

It breaks my heart to see my daughter calling him, going back to their bedroom, shaking him, pleading with him, and wearing herself out trying to get him up in the morning.

He was dropped from his 8 o'clock class because he missed so many classes. Naturally, he lost that credit. Now he is sleeping through his nine o'clock classes!

I have wanted to tell her to simply pour ice water on him, but I've used remarkable restraint staying out of this daily hassle. Any suggestions? MOM

DEAR MOM: He's your daughter's problem, not yours. If she were wise, she'd wake him once only, set the alarm to give him a five-minute grace period, then go about her business. If he knows he has to get up—he will. And if he doesn't, let him suffer the consequences.

DEAR ABBY: I have had lots of problems but I never had one like this, so here goes my first Dear Abby letter. I am a 57-year-old working man. I lived with my folks most of my life, but they are both dead now, so I'm living alone.

When I was younger I would ask girls for dates, but I got turned down, mostly because I wasn't very good-looking and didn't have much money. Being alone so much caused me to be kind of shy. I never enjoyed being alone, I just got used to it.

Well, I took a chance on the state lottery, and won $100,000. I had never won anything in my life. I still can't believe it, but it is true. Now I've got so many friends (mostly women), I almost have to hide.

I would like some female companionship, but don't want to end up married to some gold-digger. I don't have any experience at all when it comes to judging women, Abby, so how can I protect myself? E.B. IN ATTLEBORO, MASS

DEAR E.B.: Don't go in for anything as permanent as marriage until you know the woman well enough to trust her completely. Then see a lawyer about a pre-nuptial agreement. (He'll explain it to you.) You took a chance on a lottery and won, and marriage is a bit of a gamble, too, but the better you know the candidate, the smaller the risk.

Buddy Poppy Sale Set For Friday, Saturday

Plans for the annual Buddy Poppy Sale were made at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Thursday evening at the Post home.

Mrs. Merle Austin, chairman, announced that Friday afternoon and Saturday, Nov. 1-2, had been proclaimed Buddy Poppy Days in Greenville. Money received from the sales is used to assist disabled veterans and their families.

Members will be stationed at several places offering the flower of remembrance to the public. A wreath will be placed on the memorial plot of the courthouse lawn in memory of Pitt County servicemen.

Mrs. Carrie West, president, reported on the meeting of the Second District held recently in Pink Hill. Mrs. Ruth Evans, reported on the official visit of Mrs. Betty Butler, national president, in Greensboro.

Plans were discussed to send a Christmas cheer donation to the VFW National Home for widows and orphans and to send gifts to the children at O'Berry Center, who don't go home for Christmas.

The Auxiliary and Post members are making plans to give veterans in the V.A. Hospital, Fayetteville, a birthday party Wednesday, Oct. 30. Homemade cakes and birthday gifts will be provided by the local group.

It was announced that members have collected approximately 675 pounds of newspapers for the Sheltered Workshop.

Mrs. Bell Manning was welcomed as a new member.

Have Your Pick Of Hats

WHATEVER YOUR CHOICE—Hats are "brim full" of fashion excitement for fall as the designers launch their new season with a range of silhouettes emphasizing vari-sized brims from the sweeping cavalier to the headhugging cloche reminiscent of the 1930s. For sheer fashion flair to go with the new easier, flowing dress and skirt lines, this sideswept felt cavalier brim, top left, is an ideal choice. Pull it, roll it, or tilt it, top right, the medium brim of this green and white knit is an ideal fall choice for the girl of many fashion moods. The enticingly flirtatious mood of the face-flattering downturned brim is captured, bottom left, in this spectator hat of black and white tweed. The great wave of fashion nostalgia has returned to fashion favor the true badge of the '30s; bottom right, the headhugging, pulldown cloche with a tiny rolled brim is a tailored version in soft felt with matching grosgrain trim. At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My husband is an optimist. He refuses to accept the fact that beggars' night is dead. If I've told him once I've told him a hundred times, "No one is going to come." Each year the number of "beggars" has dwindled and all I have to show for Halloween are five packages of peanut butter cups hanging loosely over each hip.

Last year he set up his little table of treats by the door, turned on the porch light and sat down to eagerly await the sound of the doorbell. It was a good hour before it rang.

"Hey, Erma, get a load of this one," he said. "Let's see now if I can guess what you are. Tight denim pants with silver studs, jacket and boots and scarf around the neck. I GOT IT! YOU'RE A COWBOY!"

I peeked over his shoulder. "It's Marj from next door. Come on in, you want a cup of coffee?"

"What's with the hassle at the door?" she asked.

"It's beggars' night and he still believes in beggars." "It was just a matter of minutes before the bell rang again. My husband leaped up and grabbed the basket of popcorn balls. "Okay, let me guess. You got the big football pads and the socks falling down and the cleats and the football helmet. I got it. You're a football player. Good disguise."

"It's not a disguise, Mr. Bombeck. I'm Mark. Is your son ready for practice?"

"So have a popcorn ball anyway," he said.

Mayva had no sooner let herself in when she was nailed in the hallway. "Thought you could slip by, didn't you?" said my husband. "Oh, this is a clever outfit. What are you supposed to be? A man from Mars? A science fiction character? Something from the Twilight Zone?"

"Haven't you ever seen a mother of four at the end of a day with her hair in curlers?" snapped Mayva. "Where're Marj and Erma?"

"In the kitchen," said my husband stuffing a candy bar in his mouth.

It was close to 11:30 when the doorbell rang. "I knew it," he said. "Those little beggars wouldn't let me down." He sprang to the door and came back to get me out of bed. "You won't believe the trouble this one has gone to. His pants are baggy. His shoes have holes in them, his coat looks like he slept in it and the hair you wouldn't believe. What a bum!"

I didn't have the heart to tell him it was his son who forgot his key.

A new highlighting technique, which Clairol calls "hair painting," is a gentle brush on process that lightens selected strands or tips.

'Godspell' Is Seen As Bright, Cheerful

Last night's opening performance of Godspell, the musical inaugurating the 1974-75 season of the ECU Playhouse, promises once more another outstanding season ahead for eastern North Carolina's showplace of theater.

The Stephen Swartz musical was given a performance that is as bright and cheerful as the autumn leaves now in full color around Greenville.

Five females—Jennifer Applewhite, Claudia Boles, Amy Boyce, Jennie Miller and Janice Vertucci; and five males—Joe Badgett, Paul Perry, Doug Burnett, Talmage R. Fauntleroy and Rodney Freeze are cast in roles which keep all ten actively singing and dancing on stage nearly every minute to the two hour score of well known tunes.

All the performers are good. Amy Boyce did some beautiful singing in "Bless The Lord." Jennifer Applewhite and Claudia Boles were effective in the tender "By My Side"; and Joe Badgett had a fine moment leading the company in "We Beseech Thee."

Doug Burnett had full command of his taxing lead role, particularly in the dazzling song-dance sequence with Rodney Freeze, "All For The Best."

Barry Shank directed this small group of musicians: Paul Tardiff, piano; Scott Verrer, guitar; Larry Dowdy, bass; and Michael Carney, drums, providing instrumental back-up that was clear, concise and never overpowered the performers.

A special word must go to the combination of Carol Beule's costumes and Robert Williams' lights and scenery. Carole's designs range over a whole spectrum of sprinking colors in costumes that owe a debt of influence to many fashion styles. Her enchanting costumes are strikingly contrasted by Robert Williams' simple, dramatic lighting effects and a minimum of scenery.

A word about something that seems to bother potential audiences. I find nothing sacrilegious in the modern, rock-music oriented treatment of the Gospel According to St. Matthew that forms the basis of Godspell. A forthright, literal use is made of numerous passages, including parables. Dialogue threading together the passages have a child-like quality of innocent questioning and reaction that anyone would be hard put to find offensive.

Lively action, chiefly in dance and pantomime, forms a framework of good story telling that flows from one brief scene to another, naturally and convincingly.

My opinion is that parents would discover that young people of the ten and up age group would respond with understanding to the experience of this fresh interpretation of the greatest message we have on love.

Carless Day Is Asked

By GREGORY A. GROSS
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Employers throughout the city start asking San Francisco's 500,000 commuters today to give up their cars one day each week.

The object: Save fuel by breaking the car-commuting habit.

Thirteen major corporations already have agreed to urge all their employees — from top executives down to clerks — to use public transit instead of private autos once a week.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who announced the carless-day plan Monday, urged employers to ask their workers to go along with the program he said could cut fuel usage 20 per cent and reduce the dependence on Arab oil.

"The only realistic way to beat the sheiks is to get out of our automobiles," Alioto said.

San Francisco's streets are fed by only three commute arteries — the Golden Gate Bridge, San Francisco Bay Bridge and highway links to the San Francisco Peninsula on the south. Available mass transit includes the Bay Area Rapid Transit System, buses and trains.

The motto of Alioto's plan is "Once a week to WIN (Whip Inflation Now)." Its prime target is the suburban commuter.

Monday would be carless for employees of banks, stock brokerages and other financial institutions; Tuesday for the corporations; Wednesday for employees in city, state and federal government; Thursday for the city's two major utilities, Pacific Telephone and Pacific Gas and Electric Co.; and Friday for anyone not already covered.

The rotating no-car days would be coordinated with a program of staggered work hours in certain businesses to stretch out the peak commuter periods and avoid overloading public transportation.

The plan was prompted by President Ford's request to major cities to do something to cut auto usage and save fuel.

Sylvia Porter, chairman of the President's Citizen's Action Committee to fight inflation, praised Alioto for the move.

"The people of San Francisco have a unique opportunity to show the way to other cities across the nation," she said in a wire to him.

Housing Meeting Ordered

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A complaint has been sent to state Atty. Gen. James Carson by the Charlotte Building Inspection Department concerning a house Carson owns in a black neighborhood.

The complaint gives Carson 15 days to meet with inspection officials to agree on steps to bring the house into conformity with the city's housing code, according to the department's Bill Jamison.

At the meeting, a time limit will be set for Carson to make needed repairs on plumbing, electrical and other systems in the house on South Church Street.

Jamison said building inspectors have visited other houses—not owned by Carson—in the neighborhood and expect to file more complaints.

Fire Destroys Moose Lodge

BELMONT, N.C. (AP)—A fire destroyed the Belmont Moose Lodge before dawn today.

No one was hurt. The Gaston County fire marshal, Albert McGinnis, said the blaze apparently started in the kitchen in the center of the building.

The cement block structure was off U.S. 29-74 at the Catawba River Bridge separating Mecklenburg and Gaston counties.

The building was about six years old.

It's A Slowdown By Any Name

Whether the administration calls it a "recession" or not, there are obvious signs of a slow-down in the national economy.

The slow down may be necessary to cool down inflation; nevertheless there are going to be adverse effects on various areas of the nation, as plants lay off workers and even shut down due to declining demand.

We are already seeing auto sales off badly, with the threat of layoffs in Detroit and other auto producing area. Here in North Carolina, textiles and some other industries have curtailed operations because of declining demand.

Fortunately, a Daily Reflector survey of area industries shows that industry lay-offs have not yet affected Greenville and Pitt County to a great extent.

Most major industries in Pitt County reported that there had been few lay-offs due to economic conditions. Pitt County is fortunate that two major industries—Procter and Gamble and Eaton—are currently constructing plants here and they will be employing new industrial workers over the next several months. In addition, several supporting industries are planned.

Beyond the industrial effect on the local economy, tobacco has sold well this fall, which should give a boost to the farm economy. At ECU, there is a record enrollment this year, and certainly ECU is a major factor in our local economy.

There may be some stormy times ahead for the national economy as we readjust from an inflationary period, through a slow-down and hopefully into a period of more economic stability. In Greenville and Pitt County, however, we may be in the best position to weather an economic slow-down with the least possible adverse effects.

Best Preventive Step Is By The Individual

The SBI has announced a drive by law enforcement agencies to crack down on the mounting thefts of truck loads of tobacco.

There has been an increase in tobacco thefts, presumably because of the high prices tobacco is bringing this year.

Of course, the best way to halt tobacco thefts is for the farmer or company truck driver to watch and protect his loaded trucks. Prevention of a crime is always the best approach.

A HEAVYWEIGHT AT THE POLLING PLACE!

Wilbur Still Smiles

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — His trembling hands grip the lectern, his face reddens and perspiration glistens in the blaze of news camera lights, but Wilbur D. Mills still can smile.

The 18-term congressman has been intently observed, but only superficially questioned. It appears that he has laughed, joked and apologized his way through whatever political danger may have been posed by the Tidal Basin incident involving a former exotic dancer once billed as "the Argentine Firecracker."

Mills' manner seems akin to that of a youngster caught dipping into the cookie jar, not conceding any crime of consequence, but sheepish about it, nonetheless.

High school students at Conway grilled him about the incident and hooted at some of his answers, until Mills said he wasn't going to talk about it any more.

Most others—generally older civic-club members—have listened politely to economic talks, then applauded Mills, who has been campaigning here for the past two weeks.

"I have been embarrassed beyond words," Mills said at his first post-incident gathering in Arkansas. He appeared before the Little Rock Jaycees, who wisecracked among themselves about the Tidal Basin incident until Mills arrived. Then they applauded and laughed with the congressman.

Mills jokingly spoke of the perils of taking out foreign women who like champagne. He said his marriage was untroubled. He apologized. He said he had quaffed bubbly, but done nothing more serious.

While the Tidal Basin incident has provided a lot of gossip in Mills' district, most political analysts believe he was hurt more by reports of illegal contributions to his 1972 re-election campaign.

As chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, the 65-year-old Democrat also could be hurt by inflation and the tax bite.

Still, he is expected to defeat his Republican opponent, Judy Petty, 30.

THIS AFTERNOON

Farmers On The Short End

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The farmer is still on the short end of the spiraling increase in food costs, but is learning rapidly how to boost his income.

J. Phil Campbell, U.S. Under Secretary of Agriculture, was in Raleigh recently to talk with members of the North Carolina Agribusiness Council, and one of his key points was that the farmer is finally in line to benefit from the increases.

"They are becoming more and more knowledgeable in marketing products.

"This new marketing skill was illustrated this year by farmers holding their wheat beyond the harvest season rather than selling to middlemen—as had been the tradition—soon after the harvest," Campbell said.

Price patterns normally go down at harvest time; rise later before the next harvest.

Hold Out
"Wheat farmers this year have been holding their product for a better price. They are to be commended for it," Campbell said. free market system in agriculture, and gets angry when it is suggested that the American housewife is "getting a rip off" on food prices.

He rejects the term rip off, but does confess that the farmer has not gotten his fair share; while middlemen have managed to increase their take right along.

Despite doomsayers who predict food shortages and need for stringent controls in this country, Campbell says he is glad that conditions are boosting the price of farm goods $32.2 billion net income for U.S. farmers last year compared to $17.5 billion or less in previous years.

The climb will likely continue, as worldwide demand for food continues.

"Expanding demand among our international trading partners has emptied our government's shortage bins of... excess production," Campbell said. That surplus was accumulated over the years as farmers produced more than the market took, and goods were bought by the government to hold prices up.

Surplus Gone
The present administration has eliminated that surplus, and this is good, Campbell thinks. "Not only do farmers have a new challenge, but processors and buyers as well. They... will not be able to buy their needed stocks... from surpluses. They must go into the marketplace for their needs."

Still, Campbell foresees no shortages in this country. Campbell rejects claims that the world food supply is all but exhausted.

This country has a full year's supply of food either on the hoof, in the ground, or in bins, he said, and acres (33 million in the past two years) have been opened up for new crops.

This year would have been a superb crop year, except for the Midwestern drought, and Campbell said his experts are looking for a bountiful harvest next season. Meanwhile, Campbell insists that export of food is essential to this nation's balance of trade. Campbell flatly rejected export controls as a desirable objective—even if that would produce lower food costs in this nation.

This direction is essential to maintaining "reliability" as a producer for export, he said. If we fail to deliver, the customers will look elsewhere, "and once lost, it would be difficult to regain these markets."

Campbell also said that the corn and wheat sale to the Soviet Union recently halted by President Ford was done "to make certain we could deliver to our traditional customers. In the future, though, it appears that the Soviet Union may become regular buyers of our grain."

That explanation destroys the illusions of some that the sale was halted to protest American consumers from possible shortages and higher prices.

INSIDE REPORT

The Explosion In Portugal

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The depth of anxiety over Portugal's sharp move toward the left can be measured by the fact that the U.S. has cut Portugal off from certain highly classified military and nuclear information commonly available to all members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

That decision, disclosed here for the first time, was not the direct result of the overthrow of the longtime Salazar dictatorship on April 25. Rather, it appears to date from the time several weeks after the coup against Salazar when the director general of the Communist party was brought into the new government.

The Communist party boss, Alvaro Cunhal, was made a minister without portfolio late last spring. His position is believed to have been strengthened within the Armed Forces Movement, the politically murky but clearly left-leaning group of young military officers holding power in Lisbon, after President Spínola, the hero of the April 25 coup d'état, was himself forced to quit on Sept. 30.

What makes U.S. policymakers particularly uneasy about the turbulent, unpredictable politics of Portugal emerging from decades of right-wing dictatorship is the fact that Cunhal is now preaching a political line of sweet reasonableness. That same line was laid out for President Ford last week by Francisco da Costa Gomes, who was elevated to the presidency after left-wing officers forced Spínola out.

Gomes came to Washington pledging fast adherence to NATO and asking new U.S. economic and military aid. He was also most agreeable about the negotiations now going on to extend the agreement giving the U.S. vital base rights in the Portuguese Azores.

Thus, officials here note a sharp contrast between the conduct of the new, left-dominated Portuguese government, along with the Portuguese Communist party, and the blatant, anti-U.S. campaign in Chile when the late Marxist, Salvador Allende, took power.

As one key policymaker told us: "Moscow was deep into the internal politics of Chile and it is deep in Portugal, but it is playing a far more subtle game in Lisbon than it did in Santiago."

The purely military importance of Portugal as a member of NATO is marginal. It has no troops in Central Europe. Indeed, its importance to the U.S. hinges directly on the Azores, used as the vital link in the massive American military aid to Israel in the Yom Kippur was one year ago.

But politically, Portugal is perceived as crucial. If the softly reasonable line of Communist party boss Cunhal is simply a cover for time to extend Communist penetration deeper into basic Portuguese institutions (all but one daily newspaper is now under extreme left-wing influence), then Portugal may be headed for a Moscow-supported popular front regime with major Communist participation.

That dangerous development, regarded here as distinctly possible if the left-dominated regime consolidates its power, would have repercussions in both Italy and Greece — NATO's Mediterranean keystones for the past 15 years. Indeed, some diplomats here believe that Portugal under a popular-front regime could quickly lead to political instability in next-door Spain.

Accordingly, the Ford administration is proceeding with unusual caution in dealing with the new government of President Gomes. Having cut Portugal off from highly sensitive NATO security information, the decision now must be taken whether to ask Congress for a new aid program for Portugal. On The Political Road Democrat Rufus Edmisten, running for Attorney General, is an excellent broken field runner. Edmisten proved that the other night when he showed up to do some campaigning at Charlotte's Memorial Stadium. Nearly 24,000 fans were in the stands for a World Football League game, but Edmisten was able to head to each corner, shaking hands, waving, and generally having a good time. His escort was Harvey Diamond, Democratic Party chieftain in Mecklenburg.

Also at that game pounding the drum for Democratic candidates was Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt.

One fellow, who had had a little to drink, spotted Edmisten coming up the stadium stairs and started yelling: "Hey, Luther. Come shake my hand, Luther." The fellow mistook Edmisten for Luther Hodges Jr.

Many of the state's top Democrats descended upon Charlotte last Wednesday to push the candidacy of Milton Short, a Democrat who is trying to unseat Republican Jim Martin in the 9th Congressional District.

Sen. Sam Ervin was there. He urged the gathering to work for Short on Nov. 5. Ervin also urged the group "not to let a mistake be made that would end up in another Republican sitting in the Senate from North Carolina."

Robert Morgan, Rufus Edmisten, and Jim Hunt were among the Democrats there, but Sen. Ervin was the star attraction. He described himself as being a candidate for the Kingdom of Heaven, with no Republican opposition.

A recent Gallup poll showed that 63 per cent of those polled felt Democrats did a better job than Republicans in public office. "That's the highest it's ever been," DeVries said, in commenting on that survey.

Other Editors Say Thieu In Trouble

(Christian Science Monitor)

Rumblings of discontent are growing in South Vietnam. President Thieu faces the biggest challenge yet as Buddhists, Roman Catholics, students, the press, and others step up their attacks on his leadership.

Amid the growing turmoil the U.S. appears to be keeping its hands off. Needless to say, such a policy is prudent. Any sign that Washington is again becoming embroiled in Saigon's domestic affairs would trigger an enormous and adverse reaction in Congress. And we hesitate to think what a donnybrook would develop if it emerged that the CIA was doing anything more than observing the situation.

So far so good. The U.S. has in fact gently reminded Thieu that a hard crackdown on his opponents would only infuriate Congress and further endanger American aid. The South Vietnamese leader has exercised restraint in his handling of the protests and, hopefully, will continue to do so.

The resurgence of political activity in Saigon is due to dissatisfaction with the unending war and the bad turn in the economy.

The opposition is not united, however. The militant Buddhists favor Thieu's removal and some political compromise with the Communists. The more conservative Roman Catholics are agitating for an end of corruption and also want Thieu to go. But these groups do not trust each other and the South Vietnamese leader is probably playing off one faction against another to keep the opposition divided and weak.

But his own chances for survival may depend on broadening his base and allowing more participation by opposition groups in the Assembly. Of course the only group that has real power in South Vietnam is the Army. While some officers have joined the opposition, the key figures are still behind Thieu. But if Congress slashes American military aid or if he becomes so unpopular he can no longer govern they may drop him.

In short, it's a dicey situation, one of obvious concern to American policymakers — but one that must be left to the South Vietnamese to work out for themselves.

Public Forum

To the editor:
How do we W. I. N. (Whip Inflation Now), when a speech was made on this topic before our Senators and Congressmen in Washington, D. C. and then the next night in Kansas this was the topic of a speech. But the next morning, an inflationary spiral took place, in my opinion—$1,000 for a cup of coffee at a Republican fund-raising affair. On and on it went, some things for a plate that one would leave a table with stomach growling. I guess that is what was meant by tightening our belts. In some people's opinion, this is a poor way of showing willingness to do the same. (W. I. N.—tighten.) At prices of food up and wages down, some of us can't afford to do anything but. How do we explain such to a child that can't understand.

WHAT MAKES A CHURCH
Four things always characterize a true Christian church.

1. It is created not by man, but by God. The true church is supernatural. Men are used as instruments for bringing it into being, but the church is always born of the Holy Spirit operating on the hearts of men. It has in this manner that the Holy Spirit brought forth the first Christian church at Pentecost.
2. A true church is holy, which means that it is set apart from the world. It is in the world insofar as it constantly combats injustice and evil, but its ideals are not those of the world, but of God.

3. The true church must be witnessing. Christians, following Jesus' last words to his disciples, must spread the word not by preaching, but by their way of life.
4. The true church is missionary. The Great Commission says, "Go ye therefore and teach all nations..." A stay-at-home Christianity is never a complete Christianity.

The Message Of Mutual Funds

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Although some stocks are selling at their lowest prices in a decade, some mutual funds have chosen to maintain 20 per cent or more of their assets in cash or its equivalent.

In doing so, these funds are saying conclusively that they do not view the low level of the market as a buying opportunity.

Ironically, their bearishness undoubtedly is contributing to the low level of corporate share prices, thus reinforcing a situation that drove them from the market in the first place.

A study by Wiesnerberger

Services, which conducts a continuing survey of fund activities, shows the highest percentage of assets in cash or short-term notes on Sept. 30 was turned in by growth-oriented funds.

Close to 24 per cent of the assets of such funds, whose stated objective is maximum capital gains, remained uncommitted to the market on that date, a jump of 6 per cent since the end of March.

Theoretically, the low prices of blue chip companies, scores of which are selling below book value, represent an opportunity for portfolio managers whose primary goal is to buy low and sell high.

In remaining on the sidelines, as many of the funds obviously are, they demonstrate an uneasiness over immediate and long-range market prospects.

Funds with various other goals also increased their cash position since the end of March. On Sept. 30, for example, longterm growth funds reported nearly 20 per cent of their assets in cash, compared with 14 per cent six months earlier.

Even those funds committed to "growth and current income" had 17 per cent of their assets in cash, despite some unusually large dividends being paid by capital-hungry corporations.

In general, the purpose of all mutual funds is to return to the investor a larger sum of money, either in the form of capital gains or income. Money remaining in cash cannot contribute to those ends.

In fact, because of continued inflation of the dollar, the money that funds retain in cash actually diminishes instead of growing. Nevertheless, many portfolio managers obviously think that is a lesser evil than losing money in a declining market.

A sharp decline in the percentage of assets kept in cash would be interpreted by many analysts as a signal of greater confidence on the part of funds. So far, however, that signal hasn't been flashed.

Opposing Amendment On Nov. 5 Ballot

Saying it will "serve to mislead the voters," that North Carolina's "borrowing power is compromised," and that it is "an unconstitutional act," the Conservation Council of North Carolina (CCNC) Sunday went on record in a resolution opposing the constitutional amendment relating to the issuance of tax-exempt bonds for industrial development and political abatement that will appear on voting ballots statewide on Tuesday, November 5.

The resolution of opposition was drawn up and approved by CCNC representatives at the conclusion of a two day meeting last Saturday and Sunday at Camp New Hope near Chapel Hill.

In their resolution, members of the CCNC based their opposition on five points:

—"The text of the official ballot does not properly describe the content of the amendment. While the chief thrust of the amendment is to deem the issuance of such bonds to be for a 'public purpose,' within the meaning of the North Carolina Constitution, this central, and critical, feature of the amendment nowhere appears on the ballot. The text of the ballot, therefore, is fatally deficient, and will, in a fundamental way, serve to mislead the voters.

—"2. The use of the phrase 'pollution abatement,' or similar phrases, . . . represents a blatant effort to utilize environmental and legitimate pollution. Such a process, taking place beneath the tax-free umbrella of the state, can only serve to dilute and to diminish in the future the capacity of the State to borrow money. . . . To this extent, the State's borrowing power is compromised.

—"3. The chances are that very little of the money to be raised by this bonding scheme will ever find its way to the businessman who needs some help. . . . Actually, the revelation that Mecklenburg County stands ready to authorize up to $230,000,000 of such tax-exempt bonds to pay for a major portion of a Duke Power Nuclear Plant gives the whole plan away. The people of North Carolina are being asked to bail out the utilities industry, to enable them to grow still more, and ultimately at the rate-payers expense.

—"4. The most pernicious aspect of the amendment is its effort to validate any and all actions that might have been taken by local industrial and pollution abatement authorities which might have become operative under the terms of legislation passed in 1971 and 1973. This after-the-fact 'validation' of actions taken pursuant to legislation declared to be unconstitutional (by the N.C. Supreme Court) is, in itself, an unconstitutional act, and to place it within a constitutional amendment is the ultimate in arrogance and presumption. . . .

—"5. The amendment is an irresponsible abuse of legislative power and should not be put before the people, and if it is put before the people, it should be resoundingly defeated."

Assembling Exhibit On Black History

The North Carolina Museum of History has announced that it is now putting together a major exhibit on black history in North Carolina.

Planned for the exhibit are photographs, artifacts, documents, diaries, letters, art work and music and other material that will document black life in North Carolina.

To make the exhibit as extensive as possible, an appeal is being made. All Tar Heels who might own such articles and would be willing to place them on loan with the museum are being urged to contact Rodney Barfield, Museum of History, 109 E. Jones Street, Raleigh, N.C., 27611 (telephone 829-3896).

Barfield notes this is a chance to preserve valuable historical material about the history of North Carolina that might otherwise be lost. He notes, too, it is also an opportunity for every person in the state to participate in the creation of an educational project that will benefit every citizen, black and white.

In addition to actual items, the planners of the exhibit also welcome any and all information that might be pertinent to black North Carolina history.

Tax Collections Are Totalled

Net sales and use tax collections in Pitt County in September totaled $160,824.80, according to J. Howard Coble, secretary of the N.C. Department of Revenue.

Other counties and their net collections included: Beaufort, $88,272.52; Greene, $9,973.38; Martin, $47,384.55; and Edgecomb, $78,948.29.

Net collections of the 95 participating counties totaled some $10,175,090.07 in September, the secretary reported.

Evans-Novak.

(Continued from page 4) against all forms of foreign aid is now at a new peak. Lurking in the background is the vital matter of the Azores. Any American resupply line to Israel in the event of a new Arab-Israeli war would be infinitely more difficult without landing rights in the Azores.

Thus, along with Greece and Turkey, Portugal has now become yet another explosive package in the seemingly inexorable decline of American power and influence abroad.

Tavern Times Change

RALEIGH (AP)—Tavern operators and their customers were reminded Monday that the return to standard time means that beer and wine drinking in premises holding ABC permits must cease between the hours of 1:30 a.m. and 7 a.m.

State ABC Enforcement Director W.G. (Bud) Maupin said in a statement that the return to standard time "appears to be resulting in additional confusion for tavern operators and customers alike."

Maupin pointed out that legal hours for beer and wine sales in places with ABC permits differ when the state is on standard time from that called for when the state is on daylight time.

He noted that sale and drinking of beer and wine "must be curtailed an hour earlier this time of year."

"Failure of licensed operators to adhere to the statutory requirements could result in revocation or suspension of their ABC permits," Maupin warned.

Holshouser Supports Revenue Bonds Plan

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser has voiced strong support of a proposed amendment to the state constitution which would permit Tar Heel governmental units to issue revenue bonds for the construction of facilities for new industry.

"This new tool can be a key in developing a policy of balanced growth in this state—encouraging orderly growth on one hand and protecting the environment on the other hand," Holshouser said in a talk prepared for the annual convention of the North Carolina League of Municipalities.

Holshouser told the municipal officials that "approval of this constitutional amendment by the voters could mean that many high paying industries won't have to choose between locating in another state where it can get this type of financing or coming to North Carolina where it can't."

The governor pointed out that the bonds would be repaid by charging rent to industries using the facilities.

He said that only the state of Idaho beside North Carolina does not have provision for such bonds and said "the lack of this kind of bond has put us at a competitive disadvantage for industrial development."

"There is no evidence, either, that the availability of this type of bonding will have any effect on North Carolina's triple A bond rating," Holshouser stated. He said of 18 other states with this top rating, "every one has industrial revenue bonding."

The governor appealed to the municipal officials to fight to retain revenue sharing.

He said advocates of a centralized national government "are trying to kill revenue sharing—and return the flow of power back to Washington—by driving a wedge between the two natural allies on the side of decentralization—the cities and states."

Holshouser also said that a minimum of $427 million could flow into North Carolina over the next six years under the recently enacted Housing and Community Development Act "to help us solve our housing and social problems."

St. Raphael's Carnival Set

The 1960's Planters Makes Loans Through Checking Accounts

After years of making loans easy to get, we finally made them easy to pay back.

Planters National Bank has a new kind of loan you can get for practically anything.

It's called a Planters Simple Interest Loan and it was a stroke of genius.

We knew if we could give you one loan that was easy to repay, you'd come back for another one. And that's good business.

So we developed our Simple Interest Loan. And with it came many advantages you couldn't get with a conventional loan. Flexibility for one thing.

You pay interest only on the amount of money you owe. Only on your unpaid balance.

You can make your payments on any day of the month you choose.

If you pay earlier than scheduled you save money. If you pay later you pay a little more. It's your choice and we won't nag you about it.

Every month, though, we'll send you a bank statement showing how much you still owe, a record of your last payment, your interest and any other facts you should know.

You won't ever have to bother with coupons again. Remember, a PNB Simple Interest Loan is good for almost anything. Big items as well as small ones.

So the next time you need money, for any good reason, ask about our new kind of loan. It's not only easy to get, it's easy to get rid of.

Edmisten Top Spender In Attorney-General Race

RALEIGH (AP)—Democratic candidate for attorney general Rufus Edmisten is spending more than his Republican opponent, Atty. Gen James Carson, according to figures filed Monday with the state Board of Elections.

The campaign expense reports of both candidates met a deadline set by a law enacted by the 1974 General Assembly.

The Election Board's campaign reporting office said, meanwhile, that the second deadline brought better compliance than did the first deadline in September.

It said reports had been processed from 81 per cent of candidates compared to 68 per cent in September. The office said some candidates likely have been inactive and are not required to file and still other campaign spending reports are expected in Tuesday's mail and because of the Veterans Day holiday Monday will be marked "on time."

Edmisten reported total expenditures of $77,755 and contributions of $86,509 since the last reporting deadline and donations of $106,377 and expenses of $95,457 for the campaign.

Carson reported spending $43,277 and contributions of $23,169 for the Aug. 26-Oct. 19 period.

Carson's report, which appeared to carry conflicting figures, did not indicate specific total spending.

For example, although Carson reported expenditures of $43,277, his report showed total payments of $45,000 to Capital Communications of Raleigh, an advertising firm.

Neither Carson, who was campaigning in Western North Carolina, nor campaign aides, could be reached to explain the differences.

Both candidates reported numerous small contributions with relatively few exceeding $100.

Carson's major contributors included Richard T. Howard of Greensboro, $1,000; Cesar Cone, Greensboro industrialist, $200; Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Craver, $500; Mrs. Ann Leftwich, $400; State Sen. George Rountree, R-New Hanover, $250.

His top expense for the period was $12,122 paid to Capitol Communications for advertising, bringing the total paid the firm to $45,325. In addition, Carson was repaid $10,000 of the $35,000 he loaned his campaign.

Edmisten's report, unlike Carson's, did not itemize media expenditures, but showed payments of nearly $28,000 to nine Tar Heel television stations.

Also Edmisten's campaign organization has paid $18,999 to C-B Marketing of Durham, an advertising firm run by Chuck Barbour, former executive director of the state Democratic Party.

Edmisten's largest single source of campaign funds was a Washington, D.C., fund raising event in which $2,455 was contributed by Tar Heel Democrats living there.

Edmisten received $1,000 from Cecil Cantrell of Hendersonville, and Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Edmisten's political mentor, contributed $750.

The Commonwealth Association of Charlotte, composed of First Union National Bank employees, gave $500, and the AFL-CIO's Voluntary Dollar Fund gave $350.

Edmisten reported two loans to the campaign, one from Walter Edmisten of Boone for $5,000 and one for $25,000 from Charlotte businessman Harvey Diamond.

Student Visit Rapped

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Charlotte-Mecklenburg school board member William Boe says last week's visit by four Boston students was a "propaganda effort" by those who favor busing to achieve school desegregation.

"Our picture is not as rosy as our liberal do-gooders and printed news media have attempted to paint for you," he said in a letter to John Kerrigan, chairman of the Boston School Committee.

"This social experimentation has adversely affected education in Charlotte-Mecklenburg. Simply stated, it has failed miserably," he said.

Kerrigan headed a move last week by the Boston School Committee to recall the visiting students after racial fighting flared up at Charlotte's Olympic High School. Kerrigan said the visitors could learn nothing constructive about busing and desegregation from Charlotte.

The students spent about three days visiting West Charlotte High School before they returned to Boston.

In his letter, Boe told Kerrigan that Charlotte schools are still the scenes of disorders, assaults on teachers and children, and that the system has lost 20,000 students from what enrollment was expected to be this year.

School officials have said more and more white students are attending private and parochial schools.

Boe has fought against busing for desegregation during his four years on the school board.

"During this time, we have had a liberal majority on our school board which has favored forced busing to achieve racial balance," his letter to Kerrigan said.

"It is indeed unfortunate that the people of Boston have not received the true facts about the - Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools," he said.

DIET AND DECAY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nutrition expert Dr. Elwood Speckman of Chicago says a high protein diet reinforced with fluorides, vitamin D and calcium may provide strong deterrents to the development of tooth decay.

Price-Cut In Saudi Oil

NEW YORK (AP) — Saudi Arabia will reduce next week the approximate $11.65 per barrel price of its oil by less than a dollar and other oil producing nations are expected to follow its lead, the New York Times said today.

In a dispatch from Rabat, Morocco, the newspaper quoted an informed Arab source as saying Saudi Arabia was expected to freeze its prices at the lower level for about a year.

The Times said the impact of the gesture would be difficult to determine because of the complicated nature of crude oil pricing, but if all petroleum exporting countries implement even a small price reduction, the United States could save $1 billion or more in a year.

Saudi Arabia controls more than 30 per cent of the world's oil reserves.

NCNB Building Is Evacuated

CHARLOTTE (AP)—More than 1,000 persons evacuated the new 40-story North Carolina National Bank Building Monday after a bulldozer ruptured a natural gas line nearby.

Fumes poured into the unfinished lobby and seeped upward to about the seventh floor. The valve leading to the line was shut off quickly.

AERIAL CENSUS

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — An aerial census shows there are now 4,747 pronghorn antelope living on California's northeastern plains, the state Department of Fish and Game says.

That's the most during the 20 years the department has been keeping track.

Questions Which Stump Parents Are Desirable

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The "Why, Daddy?" and "Why, Mommy?" questions that often stump parents should be encouraged, says a University of Chicago psychiatrist.

Such questions, asked seemingly endlessly by some children, reflect the kind of inquiring mind essential for a creative person, says Dr. Lawrence Z. Freedman. He has been studying the creative process for nearly 30 years.

Too often, parents and teachers do everything they can to rob children of their uniqueness, that which makes them different, which is a key element of creativity, Freedman said.

Adults praise children for the things they do which are recognizable and conventional and for winning contests in acceptable areas of achievement, he said in a recent interview.

Encouraging children to be different is a hard task for parents, who feel that they must prepare them to earn a living, to compete for goods and recognition in life, the psychiatrist said.

Freedman said creativity is an individual, subjective trait, and therefore outside the mainstream of accepted ways of doing things.

Persons with unusually high IQs are not necessarily the most creative, he said he and other researchers have found. Many of these are limited to conventional thought processes, he said.

Extremely high IQs are related more to technical ability than to creativity, Freedman said.

Those with slightly lower — but still above-average — IQs may rely more on intuition, the hunch, and hit upon different answers, new approaches.

Emphasis on careers and professionalism may stymie creative potential because they force the individual to follow a logical path with no deviation, Freedman said.

But creativity is not confined solely to artistic pursuits, he said, citing the example of the noted scientist Albert Einstein, who came up with revolutionary answers.

Einstein, when asked the formula for his success, is quoted as having replied that he never stopped asking the questions of a child.

Two Teams Can Clinch Titles

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The Florida Blazers and Memphis Southern are within one victory of clinching ties for World Football League divisional titles—but a couple of other teams will have plenty to say Wednesday night whether that big step is taken.

With three games remaining, the Blazers, 12-5, are two games ahead of the Charlotte Hornets in the East and the Sputhmen, 14-3, hold a two-game Central Division margin over the Birmingham Americans.

And it's the Americans who'll be trying to stay in the Central race by knocking off Florida. Memphis will have its hands full with the revived Hawaiians, 7-10 and still scratching to stay in second place in the West.

In Wednesday night's other games, Western champion Southern California, 12-5, is at Charlotte, 10-7, and Chicago, 7-10, visits Philadelphia, 7-10. On Thursday night, Shreveport hosts Portland in a battle of Western teams tied at 6-10-1.

Birmingham's got plenty of firepower in George Mira's passing to Dennis Homan and Alfred Jenkins—but the Americans, who won their first 10 games but have dropped five of their last seven, are running up against the WFL's top defense. The Blazers have allowed an average of less than two touchdowns per game.

Fate Of Fire Decided Today

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An emergency meeting of World Football League owners today in Chicago may decide the fate of the Chicago Fire—the latest WFL team to face possible extinction, says league executive committee chairman John Bassett.

Bassett, chairman of the committee which screens new franchise holders, said in Toronto Monday night the 1 p.m. EST. meeting had been called to discuss the possible immediate withdrawal of the Chicago franchise. He termed the Fire management "completely irresponsible" for dropping out at this stage of the season.

There has been speculation that the Fire would pull out of the league with just three games remaining because its home schedule has been completed and there would be no possible source of new income.

Don Andersen, WFL vice president in charge of public relations, confirmed from his Newport Beach, Calif., home Monday night that the meeting was to be held—with the Fire situation to be discussed. But he added, "there has been nothing positive to this point as to the status or future of the Chicago club."

Andersen denied the report that the Fire had informed league headquarters it was halting operations.

Fire owner Tom Origer and Coach Jim Spavital were unavailable for comment Monday night, and Chicago publicist Jim Walker, reached at the team's office, said, "There has been no word from Mr. Origer to the ballclub. Everybody has been waiting for the outcome of the meeting. I guess we'll find out then."

Virgil Carter, the club's injured quarterback and player representative, said his contract had not been cancelled nor has he been paid for the remainder of the season.

"There have been rumors all year that the Fire was going to fold," he said.

Those rumors surfaced again Monday when Bassett, owner of the World Hockey Association Toronto Toros, said at the

Facing British

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The nine top finishers in last fall's PGA Club Pro tournament compose the United States team competing against a team of British club professionals in the Diamondhead Cup golf match which started today.

Sixteen matches will be played in three days, with one point at stake in each. The U.S. won 13-3 in last year's inaugural meeting, also at Pinehurst.

Foursome play, in which players hit alternate shots, made up today's four-match schedule. Four four-ball matches are listed for Wednesday, with the better ball of pair deciding each hole. Eight singles Thursday complete the schedule.

The U.S. team is made up of Rives McBee of Dallas, Tex., who won the PGA Club Pro event last year; Stan Brion of Palm Beach, Fla.; John Molenda, Southfield, Mich.; Rex Baxter, Old Westbury, N.Y.; Tommy Jacobs, Rancho LaCosta, Calif.; Jerry Barber, Los Angeles; Jim Logue, Canton, Ohio; Larry Mancour, Grand Blanc, Mich.; and Denny Lyons, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

British players include Vince Hood, Peter Ward, David Creamer, Doug Sewell, Bill Murray, Alex Caygill, David Huish, David Miller and Bob Jamieson.

Play is over the 7,000-yard, par 72 No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club.

The nonplaying captains are Henry Poe of Monroeville, Ala., PGA secretary, and Bryon Hutchinson, a member of last year's British team.

Dolphins Take Win

The Dolphins took a 12-0 victory over the Eagles yesterday in the Recreation Department's Flag Football Program.

After a scoreless first half, the Dolphins got on the board with a six yard pass from Leroy Harris to Willie Carney.

The second score came on a 39-yard interception return by Kenny Langley.

The two teams are tied for third with 3-3 records.

Spiders Have Brought On Their Own Problems

By The Associated Press

One person who isn't especially surprised at the sudden collapse of Richmond's football Spide, who've lost their last three games after winning their first three, is Coach Jim Tait.

"We told the kids before the season this would be a tough season," says Tait, who not only replaced highly successful Frank Jones in the coaching spot but faced the problem of completely rebuilding last year's fine defensive unit.

It could be too much was expected after Richmond rallied to beat Villanova, West Virginia and The Citadel in its first three starts. Since then, Richmond has been beaten by Furman, Ball State and Virginia Tech—and all have been by convincing margins.

"We're the ones that are causing some of our own problems," says Tait. Of last Saturday's 41-7 whipping at Tech, Tait says "we were taken out of our rushing game so quick we were forced into a passing game" and it didn't do the job.

"We've got to learn to do things we can do," Tait adds.

Things might not get any easier Saturday as the Spiders fight to stay alive in the Southern Conference race at home against Virginia Military's surprise league-leading Keydets.

VMI has won four straight in the conference and is 5-2 overall. Richmond has broken even in two league starts and will be knocked out of the title race with another defeat.

About the only thing the Spiders have going for them at the

Blazers Given Order To Sell

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Florida Blazers of the World Football League have 10 days to seal a contract with the team's intended buyers or face a temporary order not to sell the franchise.

In what he called a "put up or get out" decision Monday, Orange County Circuit Judge Claude Edwards also ordered an investor in the team to increase bond he posted with the court, to $500,000 by noon today.

David Williams Jr., a limited partner in the Blazers, had put up $5,000 bond after winning a temporary restraining order last Wednesday.

The temporary restraining order halted sale of the team to undisclosed buyers, including some from the Titusville area, for a reported $1.5 million.

Edwards said his order would be automatically lifted and the team could be sold at any time if Williams does not post the bond to insure payment of players' salaries and other debts. The posting of bond is common in injunction suits as a means of protecting the parties being restrained.

If both the Blazers and Williams meet the courts' provisions, Edwards said he will hold further hearings to review the contract and Williams' reasons for trying to stop the sale.

Williams and Blazer managing partner Rommie Loudd have sued each other and the WFL. Williams and Loudd each claim the other conspired with the league to drive the team into financial difficulty to force its sale.

Williams, who says he has a million dollars invested in the Blazers, claims the league will make $300,000 from a sale. He says Loudd and the league were trying to sell the team without his knowledge or consent.

Players are owed several weeks back pay and several companies have filed suit to force the Blazers to pay bills.

Harvard's only postseason football game resulted in a 7-6 victory over Oregon in the 1920 Rose Bowl game.

California turned back Ohio State 28-0 in the 1921 Rose Bowl game.

Strayhorn Southern Player Of The Week

The final score of the East Carolina-Dayton football game last Saturday night should have read Ken Strayhorn 24-East Carolina 10-Dayton 6.

The "Horn", as he's known around the ECU campus, has returned to his "Super Soph" form of big running and big scoring. The man is Ken Strayhorn.

Strayhorn had 103 yards in 18 carries, and 24 points coming off four scoring runs. The 24 points ties the school record for most points in one game, as well as the Southern Conference record for most touchdowns in one game. And for it all, he has been named Southern Offensive Player of the Week.

The Dayton game was obviously Strayhorn's best of the year. The wishbone offense has relegated Ken into as much a blocking back as a ball carrier. And that has not allowed Ken to get the yardage as he did last year with 823 for the season. For Strayhorn, it's mixed emotions about his role this year.

"I'm interested in East Carolina winning, whether I score the points or get the yardage or not," says Strayhorn. "But not carrying the ball more does not allow me to polish my running, and I don't feel as much like a running back. It has not allowed me to really get the feel of running the ball; a sense of where I'm going. But the 18 carries against Dayton brought that back."

Strayhorn is not complaining about his role. "I know that if I'm ever going to go further in football than college, I must learn all these other things," said Strayhorn. "And this year, I'm learning to do things in the backfield I never did before."

While Strayhorn did indeed have an outstanding game, it was not what Ken himself considered a good game. "I don't think I played that good a game," said Strayhorn. "Maybe I'm expecting too much from myself, but I felt I could have given more than I did. One time in particular, just a little more effort and I believe I could have scored again. But the big thing was that I didn't block very good. Due to their different defense, I was confused early about my blocking assignment, and I missed to many blocks. If I don't block good, I don't compliment our other backs. That I must do."

If one detects an unselfish young man, willing to help the team, one has detected the real Ken Strayhorn. Not just on the field but off.

One of his many extra involvements is cutting hair. "Yea, some of the players come down and I cut their hair for them," added Strayhorn. "The barbering business runs in the family. I have three uncles that are barbers, and I guess I've just picked it up. I've been doing this since the ninth grade."

Then there's the Ken Strayhorn that does the clothes mending. Yes, Ken is one that can use the needle and thread with expertise. Strayhorn makes some of his own clothes, but the time schedule for a football player puts that work on a small scale.

"When I was still in high school," explained Strayhorn, "this fellow offered me some material at a price I couldn't turn down. So I bought it. Then the problem was what to do with it. So I took a course in sewing with an agriculture agent at home and learned what to do with it."

Does Ken get ribbed about the sewing? "No, not really," laughs Strayhorn. "If I had feminine ways, I might, but I guess I'm masculine enough that no one ribs me about that."

A busy man indeed. Not just in football, but in other areas as well. For the Dayton Flyers last week, Strayhorn was too much a busy running back.

Maryland Headed To Perfect Year

By The Associated Press

In the last three years the Atlantic Coast Conference football championship has gone to a team with a 6-0 record in league competition.

Maryland is on its way to make it four years in a row that the leader has a perfect conference record.

The Terrapins are now 4-0 after winning 20-10 last week over North Carolina State's Wolfpack.

Maryland was the preseason pick to win the ACC title. It's only losses have been in the first two games, by four points to undefeated Alabama, ranked No. 7 nationally this week, and by seven points to 11th ranked Florida.

On its way to a 5-2 record in all games, Maryland has beaten Syracuse 31-0 in addition to conference foes North Carolina, Clemson, Wake Forest and N.C. State.

Maryland remains at No. 15 in this week's national poll. But N.C. State, which had been 17th, has dropped from the top 20 although it received votes this week.

N.C. State won the conference title last year by beating Maryland 24-22 for the Terrapins only league loss against five victories.

North Carolina won the previous two years.

Maryland has two more league games. They are season enders against Duke in Norfolk on Saturday, Nov. 16, and at North Carolina on Nov. 23. Before that, Maryland will play at 10th-ranked Penn State next Saturday and will be home to Villanova the following week.

The Maryland-Penn State game will be televised in the East by the ABC-TV network.

N.C. State and North Carolina now are tied in the conference, State at 4-2 and the Tar Heels at 2-1. Then come Duke, Clemson and Virginia, each 1-2, and Wake Forest 0-4.

Other games next Saturday for ACC teams are N.C. State home to independent South Carolina, Virginia at North Carolina, Georgia Tech at Duke and Clemson at Wake Forest.

N.C. State quarterback Dave Buckley blamed himself for the loss to Maryland.

"The only thing wrong with us today was my lack of execution," he said. "I had almost no pressure on me when I threw, most of the time, and I just didn't get the ball there."

Bradshaw Back; Paces Steelers To 24-17 Win

By GARY MIHOCES
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Terry Bradshaw predicted it. He's back, so is Franco Harris and so is the Pittsburgh Steelers' running game.

"And it feels good, real good," Bradshaw said after he made his first quarterback start this year and Harris rushed for a career high of 141 yards in a 24-17 victory over the Atlanta Falcons in Monday night's nationally televised National Football League game.

On opening day, Bradshaw was on the bench behind Joe Gilliam, who led the NFL pre-season passers by throwing almost twice as often as Bradshaw had in Pittsburgh's two previous playoff seasons.

"Joe's had the hot hand," Bradshaw said in September, "but the time will come when we have to establish a running threat. My style is ball control and I'll wait until this thing runs its course."

After Gilliam's 5-for-18 passing day in a narrow win last week over Cleveland, Coach Chuck Noll opted for Bradshaw, even though the Steelers were atop the AFC Central Division.

"It was pretty much a return to the bread and butter," Noll said after the Pittsburgh climbed to 5-1-1 and Atlanta fell to 2-5 under beleaguered Coach Norm Van Brocklin.

"We battled them. We fought as hard as we could," said Van Brocklin, target of a "Dump the Dutchman" campaign in Atlanta.

The Steelers pounded out a season high of 235 yards rushing against the Falcons, and stumpy Rocky Bleier added 78 yards to Harris' career high total.

"I get a kick out of making the running game go," said Bradshaw, who completed nine of 20 passes for 130 yards with two interceptions.

It was the first 100-yard game of the season for Harris, who had a career high of 28 carries, and he gained all but 29 of his ground yards in the second half. He also ran 29 yards with a swing pass from Bradshaw to set up the winning touchdown.

Harris, who had rushed for 206 yards previously this season, powered seven yards for what proved to be the winning touchdown in the final quarter.

Pittsburgh jumped to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter. Bleier plunged one yard for the first touchdown, set up by Lynn Swann's 52-yard punt return, and Bradshaw dove in from the one for the second score to cap a 57-yard march.

Atlanta quarterback Bob Lee, sacked seven times by the hard-charging Steeler front, fired a pair of touchdown passes in the second quarter to knot the score at 14-14 by halftime.

With Harris leading the way in the third quarter, Pittsburgh marched to the Atlanta 16-yard line before Roy Gerela booted a tie-breaking 33-yard field goal.

Harris' seven-yard touchdown in the opening minute of the final quarter capped a 55-yard drive.

Nick Mike-Mayer added a 32-yard field goal for Atlanta about five minutes into the final period, and the Falcons recovered a fumble by Bleier at their 47-yard line on the next kickoff.

However, tight end Jim Mitchell lost a fumble at the Pittsburgh 40-yard line six plays later, and the Falcons were held inside their own 30-yard line the rest of the game.

Ali, Foreman Battle Tonight

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Muhammad Ali continued his taunting tirades and George Foreman remained somber as a monk as the two whiled away the hours leading to their pre-dawn battle Wednesday for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

It was a scene that staggered the imagination.

Bongo drums beat an unnerving tattoo on the sensitive inner ear. Strident African music — with its heavy jumpy and jivy beat — poured out from the buses and shops. Native dancers, part of a carnival, sashayed with their bumps and grinds from the back end of trucks parading the boulevards. Tension began building to an electric pitch in this humid, sultry capital where two black Americans have come to pay homage to their ancestors and battle 15 rounds or less for the ring's richest prize.

Both Foreman, the titleholder, and Ali, a former champion who had the crown taken from him outside the ring because of his failure to enter the military, have made much of their odyssey to the land of their forefathers but don't shrug off other motivations.

Each is guaranteed a $5 million purse — richest of all time. It is money in the bank. And neither has to be overly concerned whether the strange conglomeration of producers and backers reaches the aim of $20 million to $30 million gross. The fighters themselves have been overshadowed somewhat by the fanfare and wild trappings surrounding the event but as time for the opening bell approached — 4 a.m. local time, 10 p.m., EST, Tuesday — Foreman held firm as the favorite despite escalating Ali sentiment.

The latest odds quoted from Las Vegas are 14-5. More conservative London bookies give the champion the edge 11-5. The international press corps, which has had the two boxers under close scrutiny for a week, has swung to Ali by a small majority. Ali has been very impressive in workouts — physically, mentally and vocally. Veteran Ali watchers contend that they have never seen him fitter or sharper. At 216½ pounds, he looks every inch the skilled meticulous assassin who twice stopped the awesome Sonny Liston in 1964 and 1965.

Foreman's advantage appears to lie in his age — 25, seven years younger than Ali — and his brute strength. He has demolished every opponent he has faced in the past two years, none going more than two rounds, and his victims have included such fighters as Joe Frazier and Ken Norton, who scored victories over Ali.

"Foreman didn't knock them out, he pushed them out," argues Ali. "He is a pusher. He is big and strong. But he is slow-footed, awkward, dumb. He has never met anybody like me."

"I am a dancing master. I am the best in the world. I am preparing to score the biggest upset in ring history."

There have been unusual heavyweight title bouts before.

But the sport never has seen a spectacle to match this one. At midnight tonight, when even all respectable leopards and zebras are asleep, tens of thousands of Zairians will be winding slowly toward the Stadium of the 20th of May to witness the first heavyweight fight ever staged in this part of the world.

They are expected to fill most, if not all, of the 62,889 seats in the massive soccer stadium, paying between $250 for the choice ringside chairs to $10 in the upper reaches.

Since President Mobutu Sese Seko and his government have paid $1.4 million as a guarantee of the live gate, the portals may be thrown open if all tickets are unsold.

The weird hour was picked to conform with prime time in the United States where the bout will be viewed coast-to-coast on theater television screens at a cost of $20 to $30 a seat.

This is the main source of revenue.

The 19-foot ring, with its red, white and blue ropes, is set up under a sprawling roof so that the fighters and the press rows will be protected in case of rain. Rain is possible. This is Zaire's monsoon season.

Units of Mobutu's army will be out in large numbers to control the highly demonstrative crowd, which already has shown a strong favoritism for Ali.

The crowd's favorite chant is:

"Ali, boma-ye Ali, boma ye."
"Kill him, kill him."

The controversial Ali has fed their emotions by terming Foreman an American Uncle Tom and even calling him a Belgian, an ugly word here where the Belgians held the old Congolese under their thumbs for decades.

Foreman, a one-time juvenile delinquent in the ghettos of Houston who joined the U.S. Job Corps and became very religious, shrugs off Ali's tantrums.

"Ali is a pitch man; talking is his game," Foreman says. "His fists are not as dangerous as his tongue."

Foreman is a hulking athlete — 6-feet-3 with the shoulders of a bull elephant and hands as big as ham hocks. Although just as tall and only 3½ pounds lighter, Ali looks much leaner.

Ali is the master craftsman — a mover, a sticker. He is like a man with a rapier in the ring — cutting, chopping, hurting, rarely knocking anybody out.

Foreman is just the opposite — powerful, a plodder with primitive skills which wreak devastating results.

"I hope to knock him out," Foreman said. "Nobody gets hurt as much that way."

Temple Moves Into Spot On AP's Poll

By JAN PRIDDY
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A winning attitude has helped the Temple Owls topple its first six foes this year.

In recent years "we found more ways to lose football games than win them," Temple Coach Wayne Hardin said. "But we have now learned how to win and have a winning attitude."

Following last Saturday's 21-17 victory over small-college power Delaware, Temple moved into 19th place in The Associated Press' major college football poll.

Hardin cited the Delaware game as the difference between this season's Owls and the past. Delaware took a 17-14 lead in the third quarter only to see the Owls win 21-17 on a 33-yard scoring pass from senior quarterback Steve Joachim to Jeff Stempel.

"A few years ago we might have folded when Delaware went ahead on us," Hardin said.

"But the kids hung tough and made the big plays when they had to."

The nation's Top Ten teams maintained their positions in the AP poll, with runner-up Oklahoma chipping away slightly at the No. 1-ranked Ohio State's comfortable lead.

Ohio State routed Northwestern 55-7 Saturday and received 45 first-place votes and 1,222 of a possible 1,260 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Meanwhile, Oklahoma crushed Kansas State 63-0 and earned 14 first-place votes and 1,123 points.

Third-ranked Michigan, a 49-0 victor over Minnesota, received two No. 1 votes, followed by fourth-place Alabama and fifth-ranked Auburn with one apiece.

Southern Cal, Notre Dame, Texas A&M, Nebraska and Penn State round out The AP's Top Ten.

Interviewed by telephone, Hardin said "I really haven't had time to think about being ranked. I'm worried about next week's game with Cincinnati."

Hardin says he looks forward to playing ranked teams in the future. The Owls have a 1975 date with Penn State. And Hardin knows that it's still early in the season. No Temple team has ever been ranked in a season's final poll.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season record and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8 etc.:

BOSTON (AP) — The National Football League New England Patriots announced Monday that tight end Bob Windsor will miss the rest of the season after successful right knee ligament surgery that his doctor said will put him in a cast for six weeks.

Windsor was injured during Sunday's 17-14 victory over Minnesota, as he scored the final touchdown. Also injured were wide receiver Steve Schubert, with a sprained knee, and cornerback Ron Bolton, with a broken finger.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Racers' Ken Desjardine, who suffered a fractured heel in Sunday night's World Hockey Association game against Quebec, will be out of action for six to eight weeks, the team announced Monday.

Desjardine, 27, who played for Quebec last year before coming to the Indianapolis WHA expansion club this season, collided with an opponent and slid into the boards during the third period Sunday. X rays showed he fractured a major heel bone in his left foot.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran Phil Roberto of the National Hockey League's St. Louis Blues, sidelined at the season's start by injuries, was sent Monday to the Blues' Denver Spurs farm club at his own request.

Roberto, the club said, will be required under NHL rules to remain with the Western Hockey League team for at least 14 days while attempting to play himself into shape.

The 25-year-old forward missed most of last season because of nerve damage suffered in his right arm during a summer accident at his home in

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) —

Tailback Louis Carter, who rushed for 180 yards in the Terps' 20-10 win over N. C. State, has been picked as the offensive back of the week in Atlantic Coast Conference football for the second time this season.

Picked as the offensive lineman of the week was Clemson's 250-pound tight end Bennie Cunningham. He caught two touchdowns passes in the Tigers' 29-28 loss to Tennessee.

Carter, a senior from Laurel, Md., who earned All-ACC honors a year ago, surpassed N. C. State's total ground production by himself as he exceeded 100 yards rushing for the second time this year. He had 128 yards on 20 carries in the opening half and added 52 on 15 tries in the second half.

He got the Terps' final touchdown when he blasted across from six yards out in the fourth period.

Ten of his carries were for 10 yards or better, and eight resulted in first downs. He also returned two kickoffs for 49 yards.

Carter fell just 14 yards short of Maryland's all-time single-game rushing record. But he did manage to establish a new school career mark. He has gained 1,952 yards in 29 games.

Cunningham caught only two passes against Tennessee, both were for touchdowns, one covering 6 yards and the other 10. On the first catch, he took a Mark Fellers pass at the Vols' 38 and then outraced four defenders. Cunningham out-jumped two defenders in the end zone for his second scoring catch.

Earlier, a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association picked guard Guy Deitz and safetyman Bob Smith, both of Maryland, for the defensive awards of the week.

Farms Develop Without Ecological Study

Editor's Note: The Winston-Salem Sentinel has taken a close look at massive farming operations that are being developed in eastern North Carolina. The results are reported in a four-part series made available by The Sentinel to The Associated Press.

By NASH HERNDON
Sentinel Staff Writer
Written for Associated Press
WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Two mass-production farms in eastern North Carolina that could cause environmental disaster for a large area are being developed without any state or federal ecological studies or permits.

A third farm has been denied a permit but is continuing to develop its operation.

Existing laws would allow, if not force, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the state Department of Natural and Economic Resources (NER) to require dredging permits and environmental impact studies. Spokesmen for the agencies say the permits and studies are not being required.

First Colony Farms, with 380,000 acres, and Shima-American Farm, with 7,500 acres, have not applied for permits nor have they filed environmental statements. They occupy more than 600 square miles in Washington, Hyde, Tyrrell and Dare counties.

Open Grounds Farm, an Italian-owned and operated development in eastern Carteret County's marshlike woodlands, is channelizing 45,000 acres despite disapproval of state and federal dredging permits. The NER and the Corps of Engineers indicate that a reapplication for permits would be approved although scientists at the Duke University Marine Laboratory have filed strong objections.

An Engineer spokesman at the Wilmington district headquarters said the corps is "unable to interpret" a 1972 federal law giving it authority to issue dredging permits for early development. An NER spokesman said the department usually does not require dredging permits for "legitimate agricultural operations."

Both agencies said permits may be required when drainage channels are tied to navigable waters. Each spokesman also said no pressure is being applied for permits partly because First Colony Farms has hired its own environmental experts.

First Colony is owned by Malcom P. McLean, a New Jersey industrialist and former Winston-Salem resident. Shima-American Farm is owned by Shima-American Inc. of Elmhurst, Ill., a Japanese firm.

A study by The Sentinel of Winston-Salem showed that Section 404 of the Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 gives the corps authority to require permits for drainage channels that ultimately will drain into navigable rivers or sounds. It also allows the corps to require an environmental assessment if the intended development is likely to affect "the human environment."

The corps has chosen to enforce a more limited section of the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1899. The law requires permits only when channels connect directly to navigable waters.

Charles Hollis, who supervises the permit office for the Wilmington district office, said the corps is unable to interpret the 1972 law because the scope of jurisdiction is "so broad." However, a lawyer for the Environmental Protection Agency in Atlanta said two federal courts have ruled in cases in Kentucky and Florida that the 1972 law is applicable.

"It covers any body of water ultimately draining into navigable waters, and that's just so broad it could mean the water standing in your yard is under our jurisdiction...." Hollis said.

Gus Speth, an attorney for the Natural Resources Defense Council in Washington, contends that the Wilmington engineer office is "probably the weakest corps district in the nation."

"The key phrase in this law is the one requiring an environmental assessment of development that 'may significantly affect the human environment'... But the Wilmington corps has traditionally found that no development affects 'the human environment,'" Speth said.

Speth said the "rest of the country's coastal areas are already gone, and now we're just throwing away the beautiful and fragile coasts of the Carolinas, and the agencies responsible for monitoring development are turning their backs because they don't want to get involved."

Arthur W. Cooper, assistant secretary of the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources, said the state may require permits when the farm ties into navigable rivers.

"Legitimate agriculture is usually exempt in this state... the channels used to drain the land are on private ground right now, and our understanding is that channels on private ground are exempt from our permits," Cooper said.

"I think it's inevitable that we'll require some form of permits somewhere down the line in future year."

White Morrow, an NER official for the Greenville regional office, said an environmental assessment of such massive farming operations could be difficult and costly.

"Technically, I suppose, we could require permits from First Colony. Cooper said the state denied a permit to Open Grounds Farms "because they provided just not good to stop and do an environmental study when it will take so long and cost so much... I suppose you could call it a political decision," Morrow said.

He estimated the cost of an environmental study for First Colony Farms, which would bear the expense, to be "maybe in the $200,000 range."

Morrow said the state and federal environmental officials have begun a series of monthly meetings with experts hired by First Colony.

Cooper said the state denied a permit to Open Grounds Farms "because they provided us with absolutely no information about their operation — how much land, how many head of cattle and so on. We can't issue a permit if we don't know anything at all."

'Major Progress' In Coal Negotiation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coal industry negotiators report major progress in contract talks with the United Mine Workers and say a tentative settlement is possible by the end of the week.

"We're hoping to make an agreement this week," said Guy Farmer, general counsel for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. "It's moving and I think we've got a shot at it."

Farmer joined UMW President Arnold Miller in saying that a tentative agreement could be wrapped up quickly.

However, Miller said last week that a contract would have to be agreed on by Nov. 4 to avoid a strike.

The UMW's contract with the soft-coal industry expires Nov. 12, and union officials say ratification will take about 10 days.

Even if the negotiators reach a tentative agreement, the question remains whether the union's 120,000 members will approve the first package submitted for ratification.

An indication of progress in the talks came Monday when the negotiations shifted for the first time to a general discussion of economic proposals, including wages, sick pay and pensions.

Since the talks began Sept. 3, the negotiators have concentrated on such issues as work rules and mine safety, which the union says are more important than money.

Wake County dairy farmers have been able to boost their milk production by many millions of gallons over the past 25 years without increasing the size of their herds.

Largely as a result of artificial breeding, milk output per cow was increased from 4,129 quarts in 1948 to 6,757 quarts last year. That's a gain of 2,628 quarts, or nearly 64 percent.

The statewide average for all cows in North Carolina dairy herds last year was 4,437 quarts.

The breeding program in Wake was handled by an organization known as Wake Breeders Cooperative, Inc. Breeding material or semen from bulls that had been proved to be of high-producing bloodlines was used to artificially inseminate 61,555 cows.

Of the calves produced, about 55,000 were added to the county's dairy herds. Their milk production rate generally was well above that of their mothers.

Butterfat production per cow also increased over the years, from 367 pounds to 530 pounds per year. In line with the desire of diet-conscious consumers for lower fat content in their milk, the test rate for butterfat dropped from 4.1 percent to 3.6 percent.

The breeding co-op is now discontinuing operations. Because of the development of frozen semen which can be kept on the farm in low-temperature containers for several weeks, many individual dairymen are handling their own breeding programs.

"At the beginning of the program, only highly perishable liquid semen was available and it had to be used within one to three days," recalled D. C. Worth of Raleigh, secretary-treasurer of the co-op during its entire history.

Another disadvantage of the liquid product, Worth said, was that the supply available during a given week didn't always come from the same source and it wasn't uniform in quality. Many dairymen were reluctant to breed their entire herds artificially until the more uniform frozen semen was developed in the 1950's.

The co-op in its early days serviced many individual family milk cows, but very few of these are left.

Grady W. Miller Jr., Agricultural Extension chairman in Wake, said the number of commercial Grade A dairy herds in the county has dropped from 65 a quarter-century ago to 40.

When the cooperative discontinued operations a short time ago, it had over $16,000 left in assets accumulated from service fees charged its members. Of this amount, $5,000 was presented to the North Carolina 4-H Foundation and the remainder will be turned over to the Wake Dairy Herd Improvement Association for the purchase of new testing equipment and establishment of a new records system.

Fourteen technicians were employed by the organization during its existence. It is estimated they drove a total of 1,250,000 miles in performing their duties. Fees paid by members during the entire period amounted to slightly over $500,000.

Man Charged In Deaths

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP)—A Winston-Salem man has been charged with murder in the pistol deaths of two men at a nightclub, authorities report.

The Davidson County sheriff's office identified him as Leroy Benton.

It said he had been charged in the deaths Sunday of Bobby Eugene Hayes, 37, of Kernersville, and Robert Eller, 36, of Midway. They were killed at a small nightclub in the Midway community near the Forsyth County line.

Davidson County Sheriff Fred Sink also said two women were wounded, not seriously. He said they were Oliva Hayes, wife of one of the victims, and Annie Ruff of Thomasville.

The Jersey Lily at Pecos, Tex., was the combined saloon and courtroom of Judge Roy Bean.

Schools Close Due To Deaths

LINCOLN, N.C. (AP)—Lincoln County schools were closed and flags were at half mast Monday for the funerals of five high school students killed in an auto wreck.

The two girls and three boys, all students at West Lincoln High School, died when their car hit a tree Saturday night as they were returning from a football game. The only survivor was 16-year-old Rosanee Peeler. She says from her hospital bed that she remembers almost nothing of the crash.

Ducks Unlimited Dinner Is Set

Eddie Smith Jr., Greenville area chairman for Ducks Unlimited, announced that plans are being made for the annual DU dinner meeting on Nov. 19 at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Smith said that the session will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour, followed by the dinner and business meeting.

The auction of a variety of items, including the DU limited edition shotgun and several limited edition prints, is again scheduled for the meeting, Smith pointed out, with proceeds from the sale going to the national Ducks Unlimited fund.

Over $3,000 was raised during last year's auction and raffle. The local DU committee has also scheduled another of the popular Ducks Unlimited feature films for this year's meeting. Members will see "Decision," narrated by John Wayne.

Tickets to the membership dinner are available from Dr. Ed Clement, Roger Collins III, John Farley, W. C. King, Dr. Ray Minges, Fred Stokes, Jack Whichard, and Smith.

The Greenville chapter is one of the largest in the state and is an active part of the national Ducks Unlimited Inc. Funds raised at local DU dinner meetings are channeled into the national fund for work involving the immediate and long range welfare of the waterfowl population.

Last year's meeting was attended by approximately 150 persons, all members of Ducks Unlimited.

Yearbook Dispute Is Resolved

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP)—Editors of the Davidson College yearbook have agreed to blank out strategic portions of a male streaker's photo, and to omit two words college administrators found obscene.

This will allow distribution of the yearbook, "Quips and Cranks" which the administrators had held up.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market jumped ahead in considerably accelerated trading today, with the encouragement of a continued decline in the bank prime lending rate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 9.78 at 643.62, and gainers outstripped losers by more than 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the upswing reflected encouragement among investors at the market's performance Monday, when the Dow reclaimed most of a sharp early loss despite a spate of gloomy news from the auto industry.

They said another principal stimulus was the downtrend in the prime rate, or basic short-term charge on loans to large corporations. It appeared some

Several banks cut their prime rates Monday to 11 1/2 per cent, and a few went to 11—a full point below the record high of 12 per cent which prevailed through most of the summer.

Bright third-quarter earnings reports lifted Gulf Resources & Chemicals 1 1/4 to 9% and Pampcraft 3/4 to 6%.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of nearly 1,500 common stocks was up .53 at 37.57.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index gained .74 to 68.16.

Clopay Corp. advanced 3/4 to 4 1/2 on the Amex after the company reported a third-quarter profit against a loss in the like period a year ago and raised its yearend dividend.

GOP Caravan Here

A caravan of Republican candidates will make a stop in Greenville on Friday morning at the Ramada Inn.

The delegation, headed by Gov. James Holshouser, will include senatorial candidate William Stevens, Attorney General James Carson, and First District congressional aspirant Harry McMullan III of Washington.

The GOP candidates will meet with local supporters from 8:30 a.m. until 10 a.m. before leaving for other eastern stops.

GOP officials invited the public to have coffee and doughnuts with the candidates.

Two Fires...

And owners of Tommie Willis Inc., an interior decorating firm, estimated they lost between $20,000 and $30,000 worth of merchandise in the fire, including dining room furniture, tables, chairs, lamps and metal furniture.

In addition to the merchandise destroyed inside the warehouse, spokesmen for Waller Tractor Co. said a combine, valued at $36,000 was destroyed. The combine was atop a railroad flat car on a siding next to the warehouse.

Firemen were still at the scene of the blaze at noon today to control blazing piles of rubble left at the scene.

Fire Department Capt. J. B. Meeks was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for first degree burns to his shoulders and wrists suffered at the fire, but he returned to duty following treatment.

Fire officials said an investigation in under way in an effort to determine the cause of the fire.

Builders Say 'Depression'

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Home-builders from the Durham area have told government officials the industry is in a "full-fledged depression."

Five hundred industry representatives from Durham, Orange, Wake and Randolph counties exchanged views with officials, candidates, and state and federal officials Monday.

The builders called for a minimum of $10 billion to be put into the housing market at below 9 per cent interest so people can afford to buy homes.

They also called for removal of government restrictions on the age and price of homes that can be financed with the assistance money.

And they asked that income-tax credit be given on interest on accounts in savings and loan institutions, to encourage such accounts.

Tax Surcharge Failure Seen

HOUSTON (AP)—A 5 per cent surcharge proposed by President Ford on individual incomes above $7,500 will not be approved by Congress, predicts Rep. Barbara Jordan.

"We don't consider an individual income of $7,500 or a family income of $15,000 as middle or upper income," the Texas Democrat told a meeting of the Houston Chapter of the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants Monday night.

"I'm not saying there won't be any move to alter the tax structure to help the problem (of inflation)," she said. She said some members of Congress are considering a 10 per cent surcharge beginning at levels of $20,000 to $25,000 per family.
