

Unemployment Rate Rises To 6 Per Cent

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN AP Labor Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate climbed from 5.8 to 6 per cent last month, its highest level in three years, the government reported today.

The increase, another indicator of recession, was a prelection blow to the Republican national administration. The October unemployment level was the highest since November 1971 when it also hit 6 per cent during a time of recovery from the recession of 1970 and 1971.

The last time unemployment was above 6 per cent was in November 1961, also a post-recessionary period. The Labor Department said 5.5 million Americans were without jobs last month, 200,000 more than in September and 1.3 million more than in October 1973.

Government analysts said the 5.5 million unemployed was the highest since the Labor Department began computing monthly unemployment figures in 1948.

Black workers accounted for much of the increase in the October rise in unemployment as their jobless rate rose from 9.8 to 10.9 per cent, the department said. The jobless rate for white workers was about unchanged last month at 5.4 per cent.

With economic activity in a slump, unemployment is expected to continue rising, possibly as high as 7 per cent next year, according to forecasts made by some of President Ford's economic advisers.

To aid the jobless the administration has proposed legislation that would extend unemployment benefits and provide additional public service jobs when the national unemployment rate exceeds 6 per cent for three consecutive months.

The Labor Department said total employment, which has risen 850,000 in the past year, was unchanged in October at 86.5 million. The civilian labor force also held steady last month — at 92 million.

The government said the biggest increase in unemployment last month was among blue-collar workers, especially those in durable goods industries. The rate for factory workers — at 6.2 per cent in October — was up from a 3½-year low of 3.9 per cent a year ago.

Both the lengths of the average workweek and factory overtime declined last month. Average hourly earnings rose 2 cents in October to $4.34, up 35 cents over the past year. Weekly earnings averaged $158.84 last month, down 14 cents from September and up $11.21 over the year.

Jail Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former top leaders of the nation's biggest diary cooperative were sentenced to jail terms today for making illegal campaign donations, the first time prison sentences have been imposed for such an offense since the Watergate scandals began.

U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. said the jail sentences were handed out to deter others from making illegal corporate campaign donations.

Hart sentenced Harold S. Nelson and David L. Parr to three years in jail but immediately suspended all but four months of the term. He also fined them both $10,000. Hart scheduled them to begin serving their sentences Nov. 8 at the federal prison compound at Montgomery, Ala.

Ford-Foe Of Big Spenders

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Ford has come up with a new battle cry for his final fling on the 1974 campaign trail: "Throw the big spenders out" even if they are Republicans.

He softened some of his earlier assaults on the Democratic opposition and, for the first time, suggested Thursday night in Los Angeles that perhaps some Republicans might be worthy of oblivion, too.

At a GOP fund-raising dinner in the Century Plaza Hotel, Ford said:

"If you are unhappy about the handling of the nation's finances over the past 20 years, if you think it is time for a change, remember next Tuesday who the big spenders are — and throw the big spenders out."

This prompted a burst of applause from party faithful, drowning out Ford's politically significant windup phrase:

"And if some of them are Republicans, so be it."

Ford said it was time "for responsible men and women of all political persuasions — Republicans, Democrats, independents — to come together, not in an effort at political advantage, but in a spirit of true American patriotism to whip problems like inflation, energy and the environment, to strengthen our successful foreign policy by the restoration of bipartisanship."

Halloween Revelers Turn Unruly; Near-Riotous Mob

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer A crowd of Halloween revelers turned into an unruly and near-riotous mob in downtown Greenville last night before being dispersed by law enforcement officers using a Pepper Fog machine and tear gas grenades.

The crowd, estimated to number between 200 and 300 persons at one time, began gathering in Cotanche Street between Fourth and Fifth Streets before 11 p.m. The mostly-college-age group — many wearing Halloween costumes — spilled into the street from near-by night spots and blocked traffic.

Greenville police requested the group to disperse and clear the street, but their pleas went unheeded. Then a rock was thrown at one police car and the windshield of the vehicle was chipped. Another police car was splattered with eggs.

About 11:30, a Pitt County deputy sheriff's car was surrounded and stoned by members of the crowd. The windshield of another police vehicle was smashed by a thrown beer bottle later when officers went to assist the sheriff's deputy.

As police attempted to reason with the yelling and drinking mob again, bottles and rocks began to be thrown, and the mob surged into the intersection of Fifth and Cotanche Streets, blocking that intersection to traffic.

Making still another attempt at dispersing the crowd, police warned that if the street was not cleared, force would be used to move them. East Carolina University's Dean of Student

Republican Caravan In Greenville This Morning

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer Several key Republican candidates brought their campaigns to Greenville this morning as the governor's GOP caravan continued its statewide swing.

Meeting with local supporters and GOP officers for a coffee and doughnut session were Gov.

James Holshouser and incumbent Attorney General James Carson, U.S. senatorial hopeful William Stevens, and First District congressional candidate Harry McMullan III. Carson, who is seeking to fill the seat vacated by Robert Morgan, utilized the occasion to comment on several issues that have been prominent throughout his race with Democrat Rufus Edmisten for the attorney general's post. Carson, 39, disagreed with recent statements made by Edmisten in Greenville, particularly concerning the cigarette smuggling issue and he noted that he is certain organized crime is involved. He (Continued on page 12)

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

HUNTING FROM ROAD Why does the state allow hunting from the highways, especially when land owners on both sides have their property posted. I see hunters send their dogs into posted land to drive deer out onto or near the road where they can be shot, and I see the mangled bodies of the ones they kill and leave and the ones they injure. C. M.

The practice you describe is not a sportsman-like way of hunting, but there's no law against it in Pitt County and no state law either, Wildlife Protector Kay Dunn said. "My phone jangles all the time during deer season because of people objecting to it, but my hands are tied," he said. "Some counties in the state have had their legislators introduce local laws against it. Maybe those who object should contact our legislators."

WANTS JOHNSON'S CONTACT We have furniture on layaway at Johnson's Furniture Store and want to know what to do and who to contact now that the store has burned. Mrs. F. W. G.

Mr. Tatro at the Johnson's Stores headquarters in Raleigh said the Greenville store manager, Bob Kimery, and his staff set up an office just yesterday in the warehouse behind where the store was located. The phone has been installed, using the same number, 756-5177.

A 40-CENT NICKEL I have a 1963 nickel. What is its value? H.W.

Hotline consulted coin collector George Fleming and learned that your nickel, if it's in good shape, is probably worth about 40 cents. Mr. Fleming says he will be glad to advise anyone about the value of coins they might have. His phone number is 756-1755.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK MANY MORE FLIGHT INSTRUCTORS Hotline, when naming a flight instructor here Oct. 21, did not realize there were so many in the Greenville area. There are two flight schools on the Pitt-Greenville Airport grounds, we are told, and names of free-lance instructors may be obtained at the airport.

Predicts Dip For November Electric Bill

"Electric bills for Greenville Utilities customers should be lower in November," according to George Reel, GUCO customer service supervisor.

Reel said that three major factors will influence November bills. He explained that November bills will be calculated on the winter rates which are less than the summer rate schedule. In addition, the fossil fuel charge by Veeco for November will be $8.63 per 1,000 kilowatt-hour, he added, which is down slightly from the $8.85 per 1,000 KW charged in October.

The third factor, Reel continued, is that the use of electricity in November is normally low since practically no air conditioning is used and cold weather has not yet set in.

"Of course, each customer determines his own usage and if consumption is up, then bills would not necessarily be down," he pointed out.

Reel reported, "With the high cost of electric energy today, plus the national emphasis to conserve all forms of energy, electric customers on Greenville Utilities system have shown a reduction in their usage during the past year."

He said that, "It will be necessary for all customers who heat with electricity to be very conservative in use of energy this winter, because of the anticipated cold weather, as well as the high cost of electric energy."

Information is available at the Greenville Utilities office to assist customers in finding ways to cut back on use of electric energy, especially during the winter heating season, the supervisor added.

N.C. Crime Reportedly Increased 29 Per Cent

RALEIGH (AP)—Atty. Gen. James Carson says crime increased "an alarming 29 per cent" in North Carolina in the first half of this year compared with the same period in 1973.

At a news conference held to release the crime statistics, Carson said crime has increased faster than the state's growing population and he didn't know the reason why.

Such violent crimes as murder, rape, aggravated assault and robbery increased overall 16 per cent in the first half of this year and nonviolent crime such as burglary and theft increased overall 31 per cent, Carson said.

"It is important to note that the overall percentage increase in crime was due in part to the increase in the number of (North Carolina police) departments reporting" this year over the number reporting last year, Carson said. Carson pointed out the program of reporting crime figures is voluntary and about 340 law enforcement agencies, representing about 90 per cent of the state's population, participate.

He called for cooperation among police, the public, and elected and court officials. The only major crime category that showed a decrease was murder. In the first half of 1974 there were 280 murders compared to 308 in 1973. Rape cases increased 10.5 per cent, 334 in 1973 to 369 in 1974; robbery was up 14.4 per cent, 1,360 to 1,867; aggravated assault was up 17.8 per cent, 7,733 to 9,111; burglary was up 36 per cent, 19,122 to 26,001; theft was up 30.9 per cent, 29,516 to 38,360; and auto theft was up 12.2 per cent, 3,859 to 4,330.

The occasion was highlighted by a covered-dish meal. Fall leaves and flowers complimented the buffet tables.

Mrs. John McCarthy president, read a message from P.I. President, Phyllis A. Manning which said, "... Since October, 1921, Pilot International has grown and grown and in 1974 has nearly 18,000 willing hearts and hands trying to make a better world in which to live."

Mrs. Louise A. Smith, first lieutenant governor of District Six, and Mrs. Lucy Ham, P.I. and District Six parliamentarian, both from the Pilot Club of Rocky Mount were introduced.

Dr. Malene G. Irons, who had recently accepted an invitation to become an honorary member of the club, was presented by Mrs. W.W. Howell. Mrs. Howell described some of her achievements and made special reference to the recent dedication of the Malene G. Irons building on the East Carolina University campus. This building is used for the Development Evaluation Clinic of which Dr. Irons is director. Honorary membership is conferred for life upon a woman, not a Pilot, whom the club desires to recognize for meritorious achievement in any one or more endeavor related to the unselfish advancement of human affairs.

Husband Should Handle Matter

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: My husband's secretary has given him many costly gifts, ranging from travel accessories to art during the two years she has worked for him.

Some of the cards she has enclosed with these gifts have been embarrassingly personal.

I feel certain she is pursuing him, although he says he thinks I'm mistaken.

This young woman is divorced and has two children, and I know she could put her money to better use than buying gifts for my husband.

And I wish she would. How do we let her know? PUZZLED IN N.J.

DEAR PUZZLED: This is not a job for "we"—your husband should handle it alone. And if he really wants to discourage further gift giving, he will—toot sweet!

DEAR ABBY: I've always been very proud of the fact that my family came to Massachusetts from England in 1637. My husband says it's nothing to brag about because the people who came here then were all criminals who had been run out of England.

My husband is of Italian descent. His parents didn't come here until 1900, but he claims he came from "royalty." He says that years ago when an Italian nobleman would get a peasant girl pregnant, the girl would leave her illegitimate baby on someone's doorstep. My husband says that he was such a child because his name, when translated, is the one given to those abandoned babies.

Anyway, I want to know whether I should be proud of my ancestry or ashamed? And how about my husband? NEW ENGLANDER

DEAR NEW: Intelligent, discerning people don't judge others by what their ancestors did, so don't take any bows, or accept any blame for yours.

As I see it, the only aristocracy worth bragging about is the aristocracy of achievement. Everyone must stand on his own record.

Party Chairman Sugg Sees Bright Prospects

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Democratic Chairman James Sugg said today "prospects appear bright for an overwhelming Democratic victory in next Tuesday's election."

"There is a general consensus that voter turnout will be relatively light, probably not exceeding 40 per cent," Sugg said in a prepared statement at a news conference. "Republican spokesmen have publicly maintained that their candidates will benefit from a light voter turnout, and there is little doubt this is true. In fact, Republican strategy has apparently been aimed at misleading and confusing the electorate, in a deliberate attempt to reduce the number voting."

Sugg said a vote in excess of 40 per cent "will help build a larger Democratic victory; every percentage point under 35 per cent will seriously undermine prospects for Democratic victories which would have been assured with larger turnout."

Sugg said his staff "has analyzed the results of a statewide poll undertaken by a Washington-based firm, and finds that it correlates well with the findings of our own poll undertaken with the Democratic county chairmen. It is further supported by independent newspaper polls undertaken on a regional basis." He did not identify the firm which conducted the poll.

Sugg said Democrat U.S. Senate candidate Robert Morgan "is at least a 9-4 favorite to win" over Republican opponent William Stevens.

"There is no serious threat of defeat for any of our incumbent Congressmen," Sugg said.

Also discussed was the possibility of starting a health screening program for local school children.

It was reported that $250 was raised in the recent Cyclethon, in which 10 bicycle riders traveled 100 kilometers each at 25 cents per kilometer.

Virtual Lifetime Of Service

Once again on Nov. 5, North Carolina citizens will have the opportunity to cast their votes for a man who has dedicated all his adult life to public service.

The ballots we receive on Tuesday will include one for the United States Senate and prominent on the Democratic side of that ballot will be the name of Robert Morgan.

We doubt if there is anyone in this section of North Carolina who is not familiar with that name. Robert Morgan rose from humble beginnings to obtain a college education at what is now East Carolina University. He went on from there to Wake Forest Law School, and showed a tremendous interest in politics along the way.

Morgan served in the State Legislature and then became an active attorney general for the state of North Carolina, putting special emphasis on consumer protection. He served as a member of the ECU board of trustees and as chairman of the board of his alma mater during a period of its greatest growth.

Now Morgan is seeking a seat in the United States Senate. He comes to this point with a virtual lifetime of public service as background, and it is a service which has been highlighted by a desire to help the common man.

Robert Morgan has a public record of service over the years which is there for all to see and examine. We think it shows him to be eminently qualified to serve his state as a senator. He has our unqualified endorsement for the United States Senate.

Inconvenient Now, But A Better Downtown

Workers are currently tearing out sidewalk on Fifth Street between Cotanche and Reade to install new walk. This has already been done on Cotanche from Fifth to Reade and work is also underway improving alleys in the downtown area.

The projects will mean inconvenience for businesses and shoppers, but the long range result will be a better downtown area with safer sidewalks and streets. Pedestrians and businesses will have to bear with the inconvenience in anticipation of the improvements.

OKAY, NOW TAKE IT FROM THERE!

Need Family Counselor

WASHINGTON—When Gerry Ford first became President he told Congress that he didn't want a honeymoon—he wanted a marriage. Everyone stood up and applauded.

But after being wed to Congress for a couple of months, Mr. Ford wants to call it quits. What this country needs more than anything else right now is a good family counselor to see if this marriage can be saved.

"Won't you come in and be seated?"

"I'm not going to sit anywhere near the Democrats," Mr. Ford said angrily.

"Johnson was right," the Democrats reply. "He did play football without a helmet."

"Now, now, the family counselor says, 'We're not going to get anywhere with that attitude. Let's deal with your side first, Mr. Ford. What seems to be the trouble?'"

"All they do in this family is spend money. I'm the head of the household and I'm trying to keep expenses down and they keep adding to inflation with a lot of stupid things we don't need."

"He vetoes everything we want to do," the Democrats chime in. "He still thinks he's in Grand Rapids."

"I can't live with them," Mr. Ford cries. "They handcuff me at every turn and they don't let me do anything with my neighbors. If we stay married, we'd probably go have a war with somebody."

The family counselor says to Mr. Ford, "But you've only been married less than three months. Didn't you know all these things when you first suggested tying the knot?"

"I thought they loved me," Mr. Ford mumbles, dabbing away a tear. "They kept saying I was such a nice guy and they flirted with me and made me feel like they wanted me. How did I know they'd be different once the vows were exchanged?"

The counselor turns to the Democrats. "Let's hear your side of it."

The Democrats purse their lips. "We wanted a good marriage. And we thought there would be one. But after he carried us across the threshold, we discovered the house was falling down. All he wanted to do was give it a light coat of paint when what it really needed was a new concrete foundation. He promised us once we were married he'd stop getting in bed with big business. But every time he goes on a trip, he makes love to them.

"He blames us for everything that has gone wrong. He tells all the neighbors we're sloppy and we can't keep a clean house and we don't know how to cook. Everything we serve up to him he sends back. What the heck kind of marriage is that?"

"I'm only doing what's best for the family," Mr. Ford replies.

"Besides, he promised to give up the Dick Nixon crowd he used to hang around with, and he hasn't," the Democrats complain.

The family counselor says, "It seems to me, Mr. Ford, that you're making a serious mistake talking publicly about how unhappy you are. Whether you like it or not, you're going to have to live with the Democrats for another two years. By accusing them of all these terrible things, you're going to make it so much more difficult to have any domestic tranquility."

"What am I supposed to do?" Mr. Ford cries.

"I know this may be difficult," the counselor suggests, "but is there any possible way of kissing and making up?"

"You must be out of your mind," the Democrats say. "Out of the question," Mr. Ford says.

"I was afraid of that," the counselor says. "Why don't you all come back the day after Election Day. Maybe we can talk about it then."

Amazon Tribes Resist

By WILLIAM R. LONG Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Brazil's stepped-up drive to conquer the Amazon Basin is carrying 20th century civilization deeper into one of its last major confrontations with primitive man.

The government launched a new Amazon development program in September in which it earmarked hundreds of millions of dollars for what it called the "economic occupation" of the huge area.

The program will mean increased contact between an estimated 100,000 or more Indians who live in the jungles and outsiders who go there to tame nature with steel and concrete.

The government says the Indians will be integrated gradually into Brazilian society. Defenders of Indian culture say the process will destroy tribal traditions and turn surviving Indians into misfits of an alien civilization.

Some of the tribes have taken to attacking those who encroach on their territory. The lands at stake are part of an area as big as the western United States.

In early October, one of many clashes involving Waimiri-Atoari tribesmen took place north of Manaus, Brazil's main city in the Amazon.

A group of the Indians made what appeared to be a friendly call on a jungle station manned by the National Indian Foundation, Funai. For reasons still unclear, the Indians suddenly attacked the government agents with bows and arrows. Two agents were killed a third was wounded and died later.

Numerous similar attacks by that tribe and others have been reported in the past decade.

Brazilian newspapers say the Waimiri-Atoari have killed more than 50 persons sent to them on pacifying missions.

Funai has given priority to pacifying the Waimiri-Atoari because a highway is being built near their area between Manaus and Caracari.

"These Indians are very difficult. For several years they have accepted contact but continue to be distrustful," said Gen. Ismarth de Araujo, president of Funai. "The Manaus-Caracari highway is seen by them as a threat to the autonomy of their reservation."

Job-Changes Seen In 1990

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH—What kind of work will most North Carolinians be doing in the year 1990?

There will be major changes, say the "think-tank" experts of the Research Triangle Institute and a steering committee of state planners and development people.

"White-collar workers will comprise the most rapidly growing occupational group in North Carolina between 1970 and 1990.

"Farm workers will decline... Blue collar and service workers will increase in absolute terms (but) their relative share of employment is projected to decline," a study concludes.

A host of factors are at work in these changes: fewer people will be leaving the farm to take jobs in town, simply because most of them have already done that; fewer unskilled women and blacks will be landing jobs, again because the market is saturated.

New Jobs Here is a breakdown of what the experts see as major changes in work patterns for North Carolina:

Professional and technical workers will increase from some 235,000 now to nearly half a million in 1990; managers and administrators will remain about the same at seven per cent of the work force.

Sales personnel will increase only slightly: up from 124,000 to 182,000.

Clerical work will increase some, as well as skilled craft work.

The big shift to the above "white-collar" jobs will mean a corresponding decline in laborer categories, the study predicts.

Farmers and farm managers will drop from 86,700 currently to around 37,000; farm laborers will show even more dramatic change—down from 66,100 to 28,300.

Those in service employment—household, foods, recreation, etc.—will increase in numbers from 265,500 to 321,000. But a decline from 12 per cent to 10.8 per cent of the total labor force is seen.

Aside from the decisions required at state and local levels as North Carolina attempts to form a new Economic Development Strategy—decisions on the mix of development possible and desired in various regions of the state—an overall emphasis on education will be a key part of the program.

Change, the study group concluded, will hinge on education: "the educational system must produce both long range and more immediate improvements in educational attainments. The public school system must provide more workers with high school degrees.

"Extension type educational activities must assist out of school workers so they may remain competitive as employment requirements change over time," the study reports.

Dropouts High

Research shows that North Carolina has far more than her share of elementary and high school dropouts, and has a need for more community college, vocational school, and public college extension courses to correct that deficiency; as well as beefed up efforts to keep current and future students on the track.

Another complication of the change in work patterns in the state was found in the domination of employment and wages—the actual monopoly of the economic picture in some sections—by "the nation's three lowest paying major industry group: textiles, apparel, and furniture and fixtures.

At this time, those three industries hold a 60 per cent share of total North Carolina manufacturing employment, representing both high employment and low wages. The study group concluded that "these industry groups have a large influence on the prevailing wage rates in most other industry groups (especially) where there are no competing employers of comparable size.

To overcome this problem, the strategy study suggests some alternatives: increase high pay industries; assist the low wage firms to improve technology and increase wages; ensure education for workers to gain higher pay employment; let competition for workers force out the marginal employer.

Another alternative was rejected because it was deemed "not politically feasible now," and because the likely result would be higher average wages, but lower per capita income, due to decreased employment.

That was the possibility of causing the low wage industries to close and relocate through tax discrimination, high minimum wage legislation, and legislation in support of unionization.

Michigan's GOP Troubles

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

DETROIT—The wreckage of Richard Nixon's new Republican majority swollen by blue-collar Democrats is so complete here that Gov. William Milliken, an extraordinarily popular liberal Republican, faces possible extinction Nov. 5.

That Milliken may barely survive the lust for revenge against Republicans is a mark of the unique respect he commands, plus Michigan's habit of widespread ticket-splitting.

But Milliken's popularity may be insufficient—a severe blow to Republicans here and nationally. In that case, not only would Michigan Democrats control the governorship and the legislature simultaneously for the first time in modern history, but Democrats probably would find themselves occupying the governorship in the seven most populous states. Moreover, the decimated progressive wing of the Republican party would have suffered another irreparable casualty.

The oppressive anti-Republican tide in President Ford's state has to be seen to be believed, and nowhere more so than in Macomb County, a largely blue-collar suburb of Detroit.

Two years ago, infuriated by the prospect of forced school busing and frightened by McGovernism, Macomb County working class Democrats defected in huge numbers. But busing is no longer an issue there and McGovernism is dead. That was crystal clear in door-to-door campaigning last week by Sander Levin, the youthful-looking 43-year-old Democratic candidate. Labor lawyer Levin, a former state senator and state party chairman, was beaten by a mere 44,000 votes by Milliken in 1970. But last week he was on easy street in Macomb County exploiting the anti-Republican mood.

"Taxes," replied an elderly auto worker when Levin asked what was troubling him. "Taxes and prices and housing. Why is Ford putting Rockefeller in as Vice President? Does he think the richest man in the world is going to stop up the tax loopholes?"

Levin, cashing in on anger against taxes and inflation, may have gone one step too far. He is pushing Proposition C on next Tuesday's ballot which would end the sales tax on food and medicine. Levin claims he can make up the $200 million revenue loss by more efficiency in state government, but even leaders of his own party publicly disagree.

Levin's refusal to specify how he would make up that loss in revenue is cutting into his credibility and exposing him to charges of demagoguery. That precisely fits Milliken's strategy of fighting the anti-Republican tide by campaigning as a proven fiscal expert who has reduced state taxes almost $500 million the past two years while keeping his budget balanced. Public Forum

To the editor:

Every since school started this year I have become increasingly concerned, frightened and angered by the elementary school "bicycle trade." To get to work, I must travel west on Fifth Street past Wahl Coates school. I enter Fifth Street from a northerly direction which means I turn right onto it. I would venture to say that 75 percent of the students who ride their bicycles to Wahl Coates School do so on the wrong side of the street. They ride against the traffic instead of with it as they are supposed to. It frightens me to have 25-30 children meeting me in my lane of traffic every morning on the way to work. They dart first one way and then the other. When making a right turn onto a street I naturally look good to the left and glance to the right. Two children on bicycles came barreling down Fifth Street to my right this morning just as I was beginning to turn right onto Fifth after having stopped and looked carefully to my left to see if oncoming traffic was clear. This kind of thing scares me silly and then angers me that apparently no one cares enough about these children to teach them how to ride a bicycle on a public street.

I read recently that law enforcement officers are cracking down on pedestrians who walk on the wrong side of the road. Why, in the name of safety, good sense, and love for them, can't parents, teachers, and law enforcement officers teach and enforce proper bicycle rules to the children. Their lives depend on it.

Strength For Today

SLOW HEALING We are told in the New Testament that on one occasion ten lepers came to Jesus and asked to be healed. Jesus told them to go and show themselves to the priests. The lepers followed the injunction, and, "It came to pass that as they went they were healed."

Some people, upon accepting Christ, are healed immediately of some affliction which constitutes their particular leprosy. It may be a besetting sin, or it may be sorrow, or fear, or guilt, or despair. But most people are healed slowly as they re-orient their lives in accordance with the commands of Christ. The healing comes while they are on the road. It does not come as they question or wring their hands in despair, but as they start out to obey the commands of the Lord, confident that He can do for them what they cannot do for themselves. Sometimes these commands might seem strange, as perhaps Jesus's commands seemed to the lepers, but faith is as integral part of the process whereby we are healed "while in the way."

Indicators Aren't Too Reliable

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Like the hands of a clock at the beginning or ending of Daylight Saving Time, the leading economic indicators sometimes mislead, but seldom totally.

The composite index of these economic indicators fell 2.5 per cent in September, the worst decline in 23 years, pointing to a sharp decline of economic activity the remainder of the year.

The indicators have been wrong before, and some of them cannot now be relied upon too uncritically. Stock prices, for example, are an indicator of future activity, but an unreliable one.

In fact, as the dismal report was being released, the Dow Jones industrial average soared 25.5 points. But the market was looking far into the future — not into next month.

As some stock analysts might observe, the market already had discounted the bad news for the remainder of the year and was looking into the middle of 6.75, when economic conditions might be better.

Perhaps more indicative of the immediate future was the 6.4 per cent drop in durable goods orders during September, and the 8.4 per cent decline in building permits.

The level of building activity, for example, follows directly from the number of permits issued several weeks before. It isn't an opinion about the future; it is a factual declaration.

The 9.1 per cent advance in new claims for unemployment insurance, on the other hand, is just as much a statement about past conditions as it is an indication of things to come.

However, a good many economists will interpret another indicator, the 4.2 per cent decline in industrial-material prices as a sign that the fires of inflation are cooling, although another month of declines is needed for confirmation.

The semantic argument about recession or no recession has become a senseless dispute. The facts seem to be accumulating heavily on the side of recession, no matter what some government officials say.

'Middlemen' Are Under Attack N.C. Bar Is Exploring Legal Aid To The Poor

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has opened a food conference by telling participants not "to flail the middleman," while a fellow Cabinet officer was announcing administration intent to probe that segment of the food industry.

raw sugar as it compares with the refined product, and he said: "When we get all the facts, we will take whatever action is warranted."

Meanwhile, President Ford reassured farmers that he would not allow foreign imports to further deteriorate their economic base. Speaking in Sioux City, Iowa, Ford promised to impose meat import quotas or negotiate voluntary export restraints if meat imports threatened to exceed a certain level.

He also pledged not to change the dairy import quota system without a thorough review of market conditions and listening to dairy producers.

The President also said he would ask Butz to consider increasing government purchases of beef for the school lunch program.

—Ford announced he is deferring the expenditure of nearly $82 million in public works and water and power development projects as an anti-inflation measure.

—The Civil Aeronautics Board approved a 4 per cent increase in fares for passengers flying within the mainland United States, effective Nov. 15.

—Brinkley said the initial survey had "indicated very strongly that there is a critical shortage of lawyers who are specifically trained and available to represent poor people in criminal and civil cases in North Carolina."

Butz issued his plea as he opened the conference on food productivity, costs and prices Thursday. Elsewhere in Washington, however, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon was saying the administration was ready to battle the food industry middleman, including refiners, canners and the packaging and transportation industries.

"With times as difficult as they are, we cannot permit one segment of the economy to reap unjust enrichment at the expense of everyone else," Simon said in discussing the administration plans at a National Press Club luncheon.

Simon said he was concerned that farm prices have been falling generally while consumer food prices have been increasing. He said the administration's efforts will begin with the sugar industry and that he had ordered public hearings on sugar prices by the Council of Wage and Price Stability.

Simon said that all facets of the sugar industry will be looked at, including the price of which might be needed to implement and operate a state-wide system."

Brinkley told a news conference Thursday a preliminary survey showed there are approximately one million persons in North Carolina "with incomes too low even to maintain normal health and well-being—much less to retain private attorneys."

"The state of North Carolina is simply not meeting the needs of these poor people," Brinkley said in a prepared statement. He pointed out only four counties have public defender programs and said there is "only a handful of counties with legal services programs."

Brinkley said a grant of $75,429 has been received from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and the state Division of Law and Order to finance the Special Committee on Indigent Legal Services Delivery Systems.

William L. Thorp of Rocky Mount and Lindsay C. Warren Jr. of Goldsboro were named chairman and co-chairman respectively of the committee which will be made up of 17 lawyers and judges from throughout the state.

Brinkley said a full-time administrative coordinator, a part-time project director and secretarial help will be hired to handle the committee's work.

The committee will work over a 13-month period seeking to determine the full nature and extent of the need in North Carolina for legal services for the poor, "determine the most effective and economical design, structure, financing and administration of a statewide system of legal aid and recommend any enabling legislation

Brinkley said the initial survey had "indicated very strongly that there is a critical shortage of lawyers who are specifically trained and available to represent poor people in criminal and civil cases in North Carolina."

"An irony of our times is that a person charged with mugging or assault or any one of a multitude of other crimes who is without funds is automatically provided with an attorney while the equally poor individual confronted with overwhelming legal problems of a 'civil' nature is most often on his own," Brinkley said.

Series Of Four Car Collisions Thursday

An estimated $2,575 property damage resulted from a series of four collisions investigated here yesterday.

Police said heaviest damage resulted from an 8:50 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Eighth and Evans Streets when a car driven by James Thomas Little of 2902 Memorial Dr. collided with a fire hydrant.

Police, who made no charges, set damage to the Little car at $200 and placed damage to the hydrant at $1,000.

Damage to the cars was set at $100 each.

Penelope Lynne Hall of Springfield, Va. was charged with failing to stop for a stop light and driving under the influence following investigation of an 8:08 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth and Evans Streets.

Investigators reported the Manning car collided with an auto driven by Rebecca Ann Hayes of 204 Adams Blvd. causing $250 damage to the Hayes vehicle and $25 damage to the Manning car.

No injuries were reported in either of the collisions.

Wilkerson's talk, part of a series of discussions concerning the various aspects of death, will deal with cremation and American burial practices.

In normal times, Milliken's mastery of politics and low-key image as a Republican most Democrats find it hard not to like would assure him a second full term. Campaigning with an easy smile in another part of Macomb County last week, Milliken gently reminded anyone who would listen that Michigan under Republican Milliken has had nothing in common with the U. S. A. under Republican Nixon.

But such tactics are undercut by the drastic shakedown of the automotive industry now closing in on him. Last week, Chrysler warned about closing down a plant employing 5,000 workers and Ford and General Motors released their own dire production forecasts.

Thus, next Tuesday's decision will test whether the popularity of a Republican governor with even a 70 per cent performance rating after six years in office can survive an anti-Republican cataclysm.

The polls strongly hint that the size of the vote will tell. The authoritative Detroit News poll gives Levin an edge if all those working class Democrats who voted Republican in 1972 actually go to the polls. But among voters "mostly likely" to vote, Milliken has a slender margin (running far ahead of his party, of course).

For the Republican party, the loss of Milliken would wipe out another of the dwindling band of moderate Republican governors able to win elections in liberal Democratic states, a cause of deep concern here even to some Democrats.

A lifelong Democrat who holds a high union position told us: "If it weren't for my conscience, I'd vote for Milliken for one reason. I don't like a one-party situation here or anywhere." But that could be precisely the situation in Michigan after next Tuesday.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina eggs markets were steady Thursday. Supplies were short to adequate and demand was fair to good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sale of consumer grade eggs delivered in cartons to nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 68.78, medium whites 66.40, small whites 50.98.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Corn was steady to strong and soybeans stronger on North Carolina's leading grain markets Thursday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 3.00-3.35, most 3.25 in the east and 3.40-3.60 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans 7.20-7.68. Wheat 3.25-4.00. Milo 5.00-5.25.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—The North Carolina hog market remained steady. Kinston, 39.00-40.00; Rocky Mount 38.75-39.25; High Falls 37.75-38.75; Salisbury, 39.00; Wilson, 37.75.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed today after bouncing back from some early profit taking.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.52 at 669.04, rebounding from a 5-point deficit in the early going.

Losers still trailed gainers by a slight margin, however, on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers traced the early selling to disappointment with Federal Reserve statistics released late Thursday on the money supply. They said the $2.1-billion weekly drop reported by the central bank temporarily cooled hopes for cheaper and more readily available credit.

But experts often warn against reading too much into the Fed data since it can show wide weekly swings that do not necessarily reflect continuing trends.

And investors searching for more bullish money news did not have far to look. New York's First National City Bank announced this morning that it would cut its prime lending rate from 11 to 10 3/4 per cent on Monday.

Brokers also pointed to substantial declines of late in bond yields, which have meant that long-term as well as short-term lending rates have been showing signs of falling.

The traditional script on Wall Street calls for stock prices to rise when interest rates fall because they make interest-bearing investments less attractive in comparison with stocks.

American Telephone & Telegraph was the Big Board volume leader, down 1/4 at 46. a 49,200-share block traded at 45 3/4.

Most other issues also showed only fractional changes. The 11 a.m. American Stock Exchange market value index was up .11 at 69.56.

Houston Oil & Minerals, the Amex volume leader, rose 3/8 to 28.

Pirates Host Citadel In Key Contest

Six times this year, The Citadel's Andrew Johnson has run for over 100 yards. He's already picked up 956, and seems assured of breaking former ECU running back Carlester Crumpler's single season mark of 1,309—barring injury, of course.

Maryland May Get Bowl Bid

By The Associated Press
John Reid, director of the Fiesta Bowl, is expected to attend Saturday's Maryland at Penn State football game. He is quoted as saying, "I just might have a Fiesta Bowl contract for Maryland in my pocket."
The Terps are doing well, five straight victories after opening with narrow losses to nationally ranked Alabama and Florida. But in Penn State, ranked No. 10 to their No. 15th, they are meeting a team they have defeated only once in 20 tries. The Nittany Lions are 6-1 this season.
The game will be televised regionally by the ABC Network.
The Terps who will appear in Beaver Stadium bear little resemblance to those visiting there in past years. They are bigger, stronger, quicker and more experienced. Twenty-five seniors will suit up.
Maryland gained its only victory in the 1961 game, 21-17 in its Byrd Stadium.
The Fiesta Bowl will be played Dec. 28 in Arizona State University's 50,000-seat stadium in Tempe near Phoenix. The host team will be the Western Athletic Conference champion. Arizona State now leads the conference.

Reid said that North Carolina, Oklahoma State, Georgia, Florida, Nebraska and Miami of Florida also are being considered.
The Atlantic Coast Conference has a 12-12 record against outside teams this season. ACC teams will play three outsiders Saturday. In addition to Maryland at Penn State, Duke will be home to Georgia Tech, and North Carolina State home to South Carolina.
In conference games, Virginia will be at North Carolina and Clemson at Wake Forest.
Virginia will be without quarterback Scott Gardner, the nation's total offense leader last week. He underwent surgery Monday to relieve muscle swelling in his lower right leg.
His loss leaves the Cavaliers with two quarterbacks, sophomore Andy Hitt and junior Jim Pruner. Only Hitt has seen varsity action, six plays against Duke, although he is the regular holder on extra point and field goal attempts.
It will be the 42nd meeting between Duke and Georgia Tech in one of college football's oldest continuous series. Tech leads 23-11.
Tech, 4-4, comes into the game with three victories in its last four games, over Virginia, North Carolina, and 18th-ranked Tulane. Duke, 4-3, has lost its last two games, to Clemson and 12th-ranked Florida.
Wake Forest has lost all seven games this year and Clemson is 3-4. However, Clemson has yet to win on the road this season. It has lost 24-0 at Texas A&M, 31-10 at N.C. State, 41-0 at Maryland, and last week by only 29-28 at Tennessee.

hopeful of spoiling the Homecoming game for the Pirates, as well as ending their hopes for at least a share of the Southern Conference title.

Kickoff is set for 1:30 p.m. in the game that will also see the inauguration of the East Carolina University Sports Hall of Fame. Ten people will be inducted into the Hall during the halftime ceremonies. They include the late Ken Beatty, the first coach at the school; Dr. N. M. Jorgensen, the first full-time athletic director, along with athletes Bobby Hodges, Bill Cline, Sonny Russell, William Shelton, Lacy West, Bob Sawyer, Glenn Bass, and Claude King.

While Johnson is the key to the Bulldog offense, he's not everything. Right behind him comes tough quarterback Gene Dotson, who operates the veer offense of The Citadel to perfection.

"They try to get the ball to him 25 or 30 times a game," East Carolina Assistant Coach Lanny Norris said. "He can go inside or outside on the option, and he's just as hard to stop both ways."

Norris noted that when Dotson doesn't hand off to Johnson inside, he'll sprint down the line and either keep or pitchout to Johnson. It has apparently worked pretty well. Johnson, in 184 carries, is averaging 5.2 yards a clip. Dotson has rushed for 316 yards, and has hit on 27 of 85 passes for 320 yards and three touchdowns.

"He's a pretty good thrower," Norris said. "In the last three games he's passed about 30 percent of the time. He uses short passes well to pick apart the defense."

Norris noted that while most of the other running backs on the team haven't carried the ball that much (next is number two quarterback Ron Lanning with 41 carries), they do let them run enough to keep the defense honest. That, coupled with Dotson's running and passing ability help Johnson to get things done.

"They also have an outstanding line," Coach Pat Dye said. "We've got to get past them to get to Johnson and Dotson, and that's not going to be easy."

Norris doesn't look for much new from the Bulldogs. "They've been successful with the run, and there is no reason to think that they aren't going to try and establish that against us."

Defensively, the Bulldogs line up in a wide-tackle six. They give a lot of different looks and variations on this, and this

Cowboys, Green Win

The Cowboys and the Green team won games in the Recreation Department Football Program yesterday.
The Cowboys took a 19-15 victory in flag ball from the Dolphins.
The Cowboys scored first in the opening half on a 44-yard run by Bill Saunders. But the Dolphins came back to tie it up on a 23-yarder by Leroy Harris. Mark Douglas put the Cowboys back on top with a nine yard run and Billy Dough passed to Roger Williams for the conversion and a 13-6 lead.
In the second half, the Cowboys got what proved to be the winning points as Douglas took a two-yard pass from Dough for a 19-6 lead. The Dolphins got a safety when Will Short tackled Dough in the end zone, and then later, Kenny Langley scored on a 25-yard pass from Willie Carney, and Harris got the PAT.
In the tackle game, the Green downed the Gold, 8-0.

The lone score came in the final period of play, when Danny Carmon scored on a three-yard run with less than three minutes left. Ron Butler added the PAT.

makes it very difficult to run against them. "Our problem too," Dye said, "is that we have so many inexperienced people playing. In the second half last week, for most of the time, we had only three experienced people on the field on offense: tight end Benny Gibson or Mike Shea, wide receiver Vic Wilfore, and halfback Kenny Strayhorn. This means that it's harder for us to adjust to things the other team does. They just haven't worked as a team long enough together."

Leading the Bulldog defenders is linebacker Brian Ruff, who leads the team in tackles with

152. The other linebacker Kemble Farr has 80, and has the respect of the Pirates. "Ruff is a real good one," Norris said. "He is quick, strong and agile, and covers a lot of ground for them."

"We'll have to be at our best to beat them," Dye said. "Despite the fact that they are only 2-5, they've been in nearly every game. Richmond beat them by three and William & Mary by four. They were in the game all the way with VMI, so they're tough."

Dye looks to see the two best running backs in the conference on the field during the game.

"Johnson is a super football player, and so is Kenny Strayhorn (who scored four touchdowns and was named Southern Conference Player of the Week last time out). Johnson is averaging 5.2 yards a carry, but Kenny is getting over seven. He just hasn't run as much."

In fact, Strayhorn has run only a third as many times as has Johnson, picking up half as much yardage.

"They have an experienced line," Dye said of his opponent. "So we've got to be at our defense best. We've got to control the ball on offense and

VMI Could Clinch Tie For Title With Victory

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
AP Sports Writer

In the unlikely event both Virginia Military's Keydets and The Citadel's Bulldogs win two of Saturday's three league games, they'll play the last three weeks of the Southern Conference football season just for kicks.

That combination of victories—VMI will be at Richmond to meet the Spiders and The Citadel at East Carolina to face the two-time defending champion Pirates—would give the Keydets their first league championship since 1962.

Stranger things have happened, for nobody prior to the opening of the season thought VMI would be leading the race with a 4-0 record or that Appalachian State's Mountaineers could beat East Carolina, to mention just two occurrences.

The Keydets take a 5-2 overall record to Richmond, which has lost its last three games after winning its first three. The Spiders, picked to finish second to East Carolina in the conference, are 1-1 in league play.

East Carolina also is 5-2 overall and has a 1-1 league record going against The Citadel, which won for the first time in four league starts last Saturday by knocking off Appalachian 28-17. The Bulldogs are 2-5 overall.

The third conference game has Appalachian, 2-1 in the league and 4-4 overall, at home against Furman's Paladins, 2-2 and 4-3. The loser will be out of the race—and both will be if VMI defeats Richmond.

Davidson's Wildcats, who won for the first time in five starts under new Coach Ed Farrell by edging Hampden-Sydney 17-16 last week, play at Guilford in a nonleague game. William and Mary's Indians, 3-5, are idle this weekend.

Because VMI is seventh in the conference in pass defense and Spider quarterback Harry Knight leads the league on both total offense with 169.7 yards per game and in passing with 12.7 completions per game, the possibility of a Richmond victory appears good.

Each week the Keydets' string of successes has seemed certain to end, but each week it hasn't—mainly because Coach Bob Thalman has a blend of opportunistic defenders with running backs Ronnie Norman and Kim Glidwell to take the pressure off quarterback Tony Farry.

"We're just staying on schedule," says Thalman. "Right now we're 4-0 and that's where we want to be."
Richmond Coach Jim Tait says, "We're the ones that are causing some of our own problems." Of the Keydets, he says, "I've never seen them not play well. They will be here to play football. They see the Southern Conference championship at the doorstep."

A defeat would knock Richmond out of the race and leave only East Carolina with a chance to tie the Keydets, assuming the Pirates get past The Citadel.
The Bulldogs will take the nation's third leading rusher, Andrew Johnson with 136.6 yards per game, but also an eight-game losing streak on the road to East Carolina.

"We haven't proved that we can win on the road. We've still got to prove it," says Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel.
Of the fact East Carolina—the conference leader in rushing—has failed to complete a pass in three of its seven games, Ross says, "People say East Carolina can't throw, but I just think they don't throw. They pass only when they have to."

But Pirate Coach Pat Dye has expressed disappointment in his passing game and says Ross "will definitely have his team ready to play. They must be good because they've played everyone close games."
East Carolina, meanwhile, is we've got to score. But they have good people in their defensive line, who are good technical people—making them very hard to block."

Dye also feels that The Citadel has a dangerous punt return game with Ralph Ferguson, who's averaging 10 yards a return. And Dotson, who does the kicking on punts is always capable of running or passing in a key situation. "As usual, I think the kicking game is going to be very important."

And East Carolina can't afford to look ahead toward the upcoming games. "There is no tomorrow for us. We've got to win every one of our remaining games to have at least a share of the Southern Conference title. And we've got to win them one at a time. If we lose to The Citadel, the rest of the games will mean very little."

Another Champ To Be Decided

TOKYO (AP) — With the world heavyweight boxing crown decided, attention turns Saturday to another superstar slugfest, to decide whether American Hank Aaron or Japan's Sadaharu Oh is the world's best home run hitter.

Aaron arrives in Tokyo Friday, less than 24 hours before his scheduled home run contest with Oh. The match precedes an exhibition game between the New York Mets and a Japanese professional baseball all-star team.

The first order of business is for the two fence-busters to decide the rules for the contest and such matters as who will pitch the balls they will be trying to blast over Korakuen Stadium's 300-foot right and left field fences.

Oh prefers to have each slugger take a certain number of swings. The alternative would be to count home runs within a definite time period.

Win or lose, Aaron is to receive $50,000 from the CBS television network, which will televise the contest in the United States at 2 p.m. EST Saturday.

Oh is to receive $20,000 from CBS.

Aside from the one-time contest, the 40-year-old Aaron currently reigns as the world's home run king on the basis of 733 blasts in his career. On April 8 he passed the old record of 714 set by Babe Ruth.

But the 34-year-old Oh, figuring he has at least six more seasons in him, is a good bet to break that record. The left-handed Chinese-Japanese first baseman for the Yomiuri Giants is only 99 homers behind Aaron, with 634, and if he keeps up his present pace will have 780 by the end of the 1977 season.

Raising his right leg high in a manner reminiscent of Mel Ott and then lashing out with wrists made strong by practice with bamboo swords, Oh won Japan's Central League home run championship for the 13th straight year this season with 49. Since 1963, he has fallen below 40 home runs a year only once, when he hit 39 in 1971.

Aaron, at 6 feet and 195 pounds, has the advantage in size. Oh stands 5-10 and weighs 180, but Korakuen Stadium has relatively short fences, 390 feet from home plate in straight-away center field.

One similarity is that both hitters rely heavily on their wrists. But Oh's unorthodox style always arouses comment. Even he says, "I look like a one-legged swinging scarecrow."

Aycock In Tie Game

E. B. Aycock Junior High School rallied to pull out a 12-12 tie against Kinston Junior High yesterday.

Kinston scored first, getting a touchdown in the second period of the game. It came on a 19-yard pass to Bert Staton.

In the third period, however, Aycock came back to tie the score at 6-6. The Phantoms got on the scoreboard when McDonald Blount scored on a 16-yard run.

Kinston came back in the fourth period to push ahead again. Walter Gardner scored on a short plunge into the line to put Kinston into a 12-6 lead.

But the Phants came back later in the period, scoring on a 44-yard romp by Blount to gain the tie.

The tie left Aycock with a 1-4-1 record on the season. They travel to Windsor next week to play Bertie Junior High.

Pirates Chosen To Top Citadel

Saturday, the action will be hot and heavy in Ficklen Stadium, both two games planned. Each of them have great significance in their own right.

First off, The Citadel will be visiting East Carolina and the Pirates must win if they are to have a chance to earn at least a share of the Southern Conference title.

Then, Rose High School will entertain Wilson. Wilson must win to have a chance at the title, and if Rose wins, the Rampants will wrap up the championship.

It all boils down to an exciting day on the turf. Things didn't get any tighter last week, as Tom Baines and George Holland managed to pick up a little ground on the rest of the pack. Both posted 9-3 weeks to remain even in their own battle.

Baines now leads with a 61-23 record while Holland is second at 58-26. This writer follows with a 56-28 mark, followed by Diane Allen at 53-31, Jack Whichard at 52-32, and Joe Jenkins at 47-37.

First, we'll take a look at the high school slate. Farmville Central travels to Conley for what could be a key Eastern Carolina Conference game. The Jaguars are now riding high in second place in the standings, with a playoff berth within their grasp. However, Conley is coming on strong, and the Vikings may be ripe to upset the Jaguars, who played a toughie last week. We'll stick with Farmville to win, however.

North Lenoir will be at Greene Central. The Rams lost to the Jaguars last week, and will probably be up for this one, since they'll want to keep their dwindling hopes alive. We'll go with Greene Central.

North Pitt visits Ayden-Grifton, where neither looks to have any post-season hopes. The Panthers have been struggling to better themselves, while Ayden-Grifton surprised everyone by coming up with a new quarterback last week. The Chargers should win here.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

Robersonville, flying high in the Eastern Plains Conference, visits Saratoga. The Eagles can set up a slam-bang affair in their season finale by winning this one. Next week they meet North Johnston in the game that will decide the title. They might be looking ahead, but even so they should handle Saratoga.

Williamston will be at Plymouth. The Tigers are coming off a heartbreaking, final play loss to Edenton. They may be down for this one, but they can still salvage the season by winning here. We think they will.

Now to our panel. First off, the Rose-Wilson game. This one is for the marbles as far as Rose is concerned. Rose could lose, then win next week, and still get it, providing Wilson loses next week. But why take chances—Rose can wrap it up here. The panel has faith in the Rampants: we vote 5-1 for them to win.

Then, the Pirates host The Citadel. ECU must win to stay in the title race. Even so, if VMI wins against Richmond, the Bucs can at best only tie for the title. So from here on out it's Bucs must win. We think they will, as all six pick the Pirates.

Looking over the rest of our picks, the consensus has Clemson over Wake Forest; Penn State over Maryland; State over South Carolina; Bowling Green over Ohio; Furman over Appalachian; VMI over Richmond; Georgia Tech and Duke, a tossup; Carolina over Virginia; Auburn over Florida; and Minnesota over Northwestern.

Walt Hurt; Earl Shines

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Walt Frazier, the heart of the New York Knicks' offense and the soul of its defense, scored the first two points at Madison Square Garden Thursday night.

Less than a minute later, the veteran guard lay sprawled on the court, his hands covering his face, his legs kicking out in agony.

"I thought I was blind. I couldn't open my eye," Frazier said later before being taken to a hospital.

The captain of the Knicks was scrambling for a loose ball under the Atlanta Hawks basket just 45 seconds into the game.

"Someone caught me in the eye," he said. "It was very painful. It was frightening."

A television replay showed Hawks' rookie sensation John Drew had accidentally jabbed his finger into Frazier's left eye. A spokesman for the National Basketball Association team said "Clyde," as Frazier likes to call himself, suffered a conjunctival tear, a cut on the white of the eyeball.

He will be examined again Friday and is expected to be out from five to seven days.

With Frazier, the team's leading scorer in each of the last four seasons, out of action, the burden fell on the Knicks' other veteran guard, Earl Monroe. Monroe pumped in 35 points, high for New York this season, as the Knicks edged Atlanta 93-90.

In other NBA games Thursday, Houston nipped Washington 95-92 and Cleveland defeated Detroit 118-101. There were no American Basketball Association games scheduled.

With Atlanta ahead 86-84 with 2:53 remaining in the game, Henry Bibby, Bill Bradley and Phil Jackson scored to give New York the lead, 90-86. After Lou Hudson pulled the Hawks back to within two, Monroe's spinning jumper from the foul line sealed the New York victory.

Austin Carr's 31 points sparked the Cleveland Cavaliers to their victory over Detroit. The Pistons led at the half, but Carr and Bingo Smith led a third-period spurt that sent the Cavaliers on top to stay.

Detroit center Bob Lanier scored 31 points in the first half, but could tally only 10 more in the final two periods against substitute Jim Chones.

Dave Wohl's two free throws with three seconds remaining in the game blunted a frantic fourth quarter rally by Washington as the Bullets lost their first game of the season.

Wohl finished with 29 points, a career high, to pace Houston, while Kevin Porter scored 17 for Washington.

STRUCK IN THE EYE — Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks writhes in pain after being struck in the eye just 45 seconds into a game with the Atlanta Hawks Thursday in New York's Madison Square Garden. Officials said Frazier would be out of action for a week. The team doctor said Frazier suffered a small conjunctival tear of the left eye. (AP Wirephoto)

Slippery Rock Wants Rank

By FRED FARRAR
Associated Press Writer

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa. (AP) — Slippery Rock has a 6-0-1 record this year, but Coach Bob DiSpirito says everyone still smiles at his school's football team.

DiSpirito, however, is not smiling about never having made the Associated Press Small College football poll. In fact, he's steaming.

"We are very upset," he says. "We have won two straight state championships and we're driving for a third, and we still can't get any recognition."

But opponents give the Rockets lots of recognition. Slippery Rock has not lost in its last 29 games against Pennsylvania competition, has a 20-game home winning streak and an 11-game non-losing skein going into Saturday's game at Lock Haven State. The Rockets won last year, 76-0.

"We feel we can play with anybody," says publicist John Carpenter.

The venerable Dunkel rankings have Slippery Rock rated ahead of more than a dozen major schools, including New Mexico State. It says the Rockets are 1.5 points better the 5-3 Lobos.

"Look, we might not beat Penn State if we played them, but we sure wouldn't lose 55-0 like Wake Forest did, either," says Carpenter.

The Rockets have tried to get some bigger-name opponents.

"We wrote letters to about 250 schools, including everyone in the Yankee Conference," says DiSpirito. "Almost no one answered."

School officials blame that silly-sounding name, which brings a smile to the faces of millions of college football fans. But, they feel, athletic directors at places like Massachusetts and Connecticut have a dread of finding themselves on the wrong end of a Slippery Rock score, as laughingly announced the nation.

"Our offensive line weighs 241," says DiSpirito. "No one is going to laugh about them."

The line helps running back Ed O'Reilly, who has gained over 100 yards his last 11 games. And it's helped DiSpirito, whose record the last four years is 29-6-2, a percentage of .816.

"But we still can't get any recognition," DiSpirito says. "I'm beginning to pull my hair out."

Brothers Grab Team Golf Tourney Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — "Well," mused veteran Don Messingale, "in this kind of competition, it really helps to know your partner, know what he can do, what he's likely to do."

So Don, playing with the man he knows best in the world, younger brother Rik, fashioned a 10-under-par 62 and took the first-round lead Thursday in the $250,000 National Team Golf Championship.

The 37-year-old Don and the 27-year-old Rik, softly-drawling natives of Jacksboro, Tex., teamed perfectly in this event in which scoring is based on the better ball of each two-man team.

Each made an eagle three. Each scored three birdies. They were in danger of making bogey only twice. Don made a four-foot par-saving putt one time. Rik made a four-foot par-saving putt the other time.

The result was a one-stroke lead over five other teams in this end-of-the-season event that offers $50,000 to the winning two-man team.

Tied at 63, one shot out of the lead in the event were Bob Murphy and Lee Elder, Gibby Gilbert and Bobby Mitchell, Al Geiberger and Buddy Allin, Steve Melnyk and Dave Eichelberger and another brother combination, Dave and Mike Hill.

Former Masters champions Charles Coody and Tommy Aaron headed a big group at 64 while Sam and J.C. Snead were at 65.

The game's great names had their problems in the bright, warm sunshine that favored the two courses in sight of the gleaming towers of Walt Disney World, a massive, multimillion dollar complex in central Florida.

Netters Down Meredith, 5-4

RALEIGH—East Carolina University's women's tennis team continued to mow down the opposition yesterday, taking a 5-4 victory over Meredith College.

The win was the eighth in 10 starts for the Lady Pirates. East Carolina split the singles with Meredith, then took two of the three doubles events to slip past their hosts.

The Pirates will close out their season on Thursday, traveling to Raleigh again to meet Peace College.

Summary: Sara Shell (M) defeated Cynthia Averett, 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Big Ten Giants Feasting

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Look who's coming to dinner at Columbus ... Illinois.

The crippled Illini would seem to be easy pickings Saturday for Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 team. The Buckeyes have been feasting on everyone else this year.

While the undefeated Buckeyes have the pleasure of Illinois' company, Big Ten Conference colleague Michigan, the other bully in that league, will be dining out in Indiana.

Michigan, No. 3 in the country and right up there with the voracious Buckeyes in the Big Ten race, is a prohibitive favorite to beat the Hoosiers.

Both the Illinois and Indiana coaches realize what kind of odds they face with those two bone-busters as opponents.

"We have nothing to lose but everything to gain," said Illinois Coach Bob Blackman. "And it doesn't change the fact that Ohio State is one of the great college teams of all time."

In preparation for his overwhelming task, Indiana Coach Lee Corso said: "Michigan is a team that has everything, but we'll really be supercharged — really go after them."

But both Ohio State and Michigan are undefeated in seven games and seem intent on keeping it that way until their much-heralded meeting in the last game of the regular season.

In the other games involving Top Ten teams Saturday, it's No. 2 Oklahoma at Iowa State; No. 4 Alabama hosting No. 17

Mississippi State; No. 5 Auburn at No. 11 Florida; California visiting No. 6 Southern California; seventh-ranked Notre Dame vs. Navy in Philadelphia; Arkansas at No. 8 Texas A&M; No. 9 Nebraska at Colorado and 10th-rated Penn State hosting No. 15 Maryland.

Among the rest of the ranked teams, No. 12 Texas entertains SMU; No. 13 Texas Tech visits Rice; No. 16 Miami plays Western Michigan; 18th-rated UCLA plays at Washington; No. 19 Temple visits Cincinnati and San Diego State, No. 20, takes on North Texas State.

Illinois, which has enough problems just facing Ohio State, will have to also overcome a lot of injuries. Illinois, battered on defense, has only two healthy tackles to face awesome Archie Griffin & Co.

Ohio State's fabulous running back is seeking to extend his NCAA record of 17 straight 100-yard games. Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes will try to get his 200th career victory, 167 with Ohio State. A crowd of 87,000 is expected to be on hand for the game.

The Big Two from the Big Ten aren't the only football bullies favored to kick their opponents Saturday.

Oklahoma, playing out a lame duck season because of NCAA violations, Southern Cal, Notre Dame and Nebraska all rate the "heavy" role in their games.

Alabama, Auburn, Texas A&M and Penn State are not so fortunate this weekend. All of those Top Ten teams have tougher sparmates.

Three newcomers to Michigan State's football team come from Norfolk, Va. They are Tom Graves, Leon Williams and Larry Bethea.

4♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Declarer's line of play would succeed three times out of four. On this occasion, however, that was not good enough. Unfortunately, South overlooked a line that was proof against almost any distribution except a heart void in one hand.

We do not approve of North's jump to two no trump at his first turn. Though his hand is perfectly balanced and has 13 points, in our opinion a jump in no trump should guarantee a stopper in all suits. North would have done better to simply respond two diamonds, to see how the bidding develops. On the actual deal, three no trump is a superior contract (there are nine top tricks), but it is not easy to get there and there was nothing wrong with the final contract.

West led the king of clubs, taken by dummy's ace. After discarding a club on a high diamond, declarer led a heart to the ten and queen.

West cashed the queen of clubs and continued with the jack. Declarer ruffed, crossed to the spade jack, and repeated the heart finesse. West won the king and return the suit. East's ruff was the setting trick.

East will have one of the missing heart honors 75% of the time, so declarer could count himself unfortunate that he failed to make his contract. However, had he counted his tricks, he might have realized that, once he had taken the ace of clubs and ace-king of diamonds, he could have made certain of his contract by ruffing a heart in dummy. Declarer started out with nine tricks. He could afford to lose two hearts and a club—his problem was to avoid a third heart loser. Since he held all the high trumps, he could ruff the fourth heart with dummy's jack of trumps for the tenth trick.

Correct technique was to cash the ace of hearts at the fourth trick and then concede a heart. Declarer wins a trump return (best) in his hand and leads another heart. Even if the defenders play another trump, declarer can win in his hand and ruff his remaining heart with the jack of trumps.
