

Predicts Inflation Will Be Cooled

Ford Will Ask For 'Sacrifice'

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — President Ford said today he will call on Americans in the weeks and months ahead to sacrifice for the national good, but he predicted "inflation will be cooled."

"There will be an upturn in the nation's economic patterns despite some economic weakness — recession — business fallback — call it what you will," the President promised in a speech prepared for the National Association of Realtors.

"In fact, here in Las Vegas where it's legal, I'll even bet on it," the President said.

Ford planned to fly to Phoenix later today and answer questions at a national convention of the Society of Professional Journalists, Sigma Delta Chi. The CBS television network planned to broadcast the session live.

Ford said that he and Congress must reduce federal spending and increase tax revenues and "all of us must save energy, so that we will import less high priced foreign oil."

But, while he wants Uncle Sam to "slim down to what I consider fighting trim for the battle ahead of us," Ford said this does not mean that the noose should be tightened on vital industries such as the housing industry.

He told the realtors he sees "hopeful signs" of more mortgage credit on easier terms for the hard-pressed housing industry, which he said was suffering more from inflation than most others.

And he announced that effective today, the government will make available up to $300 million for mortgages on existing homes to help both buyers and sellers.

He said the funds represent 10 per cent of the $3 billion authorized under the new Home Purchase Assistance Act, which provides mortgage aid for the purchase of new, single family homes.

Ford estimated the money in the law could mean up to 100,000 new homes for Americans with mortgage money they can afford. Now he wants to make sure there's mortgage aid for buying existing homes as well.

Wholesale Prices Surged In October

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher prices for food and 1975 automobiles contributed to a 2.3 per cent surge in wholesale prices in October, the Labor Department reported today.

Over-all, the Labor Department said wholesale prices in October were 22.6 per cent higher than a year earlier, the biggest 12-month increase since a 28.5 per cent increase in the year ending in June of 1947.

The increase in wholesale prices in October ranged across virtually the entire economy and indicated the Ford administration has not yet scored any major successes in its anti-inflation program.

Wholesale price increases normally lead to higher retail prices in months ahead.

The increase of 2.3 per cent in all prices in October was on a seasonally adjusted basis, meaning seasonal variations were taken into consideration. On a seasonally unadjusted basis the increase was 1.7 per cent. There had been virtually no change in wholesale prices in September on either basis.

Consumer foods increased 4 per cent in October, farm products were up 2.6 per cent, processed foods and feeds rose 3.2 per cent and industrial prices climbed 1.1 per cent.

The biggest factor in the increase in industrial prices, the Labor Department said, was a 6.4 per cent rise in motor vehicle prices.

All of the increase in 1975 auto prices had their impact on the October Wholesale Price Index, since that was considered the starting month for wholesale auto sales for 1975 models.

Among consumer foods, there were higher prices for pork, eggs, cereal, milk and bakery products, while prices declined for beef, veal and fresh and dried vegetables.

Also declining were prices for lumber and wood products, which fell for the sixth consecutive month and were 15.4 per cent below the peak levels of last April.

The Wholesale Price Index in October stood at 170 per cent of the 1967 average of 100, meaning it cost $170 to buy a statistical amount of goods that sold for $100 in 1967.

The October price increases reversed some September declines, especially for farm products and processed foods and feeds, but were not as high as the big surges in wholesale prices of 3.9 per cent in August and 3.7 per cent in July.

The increase in industrial prices in October pushed these prices to a level of 28.2 per cent above a year earlier. Besides autos, prices also rose for chemicals, fertilizer materials, and machinery and equipment.

The increase in processed foods and feeds of 3.2 per cent reflected higher prices for animal feeds, the Labor Department said, and could put additional pressure on cattlemen already hardpressed to buy feed for their livestock.

Middlemen Push Up Grocery Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — While high farm prices accounted for most of last year's gain in retail food prices, so far this year it has been the middleman who pushed up the family grocery bill, new government figures show.

In a related development, the Labor Department said today that wholesale price increases in October ranged across virtually the entire economy.

Over-all, wholesale price increases—which normally are reflected quickly at the retail level—were a seasonally adjusted 22.6 per cent higher than a year earlier, the biggest 12-month increase since a 28.5 per cent increase in the 12 months ending in June of 1947. Sharply high prices for food and 1975 automobiles contributed to a 2.3 per cent surge in wholesale prices in October.

Consumer foods increased 4 per cent in October at wholesale, farm products were up 2.6 per cent, processed foods and feeds rose 3.2 per cent, and industrial prices climbed 1.1 per cent.

The middleman's growing share of the family grocery bill was reflected in figures for a statistical market basket of farm-produced food. During the first nine months of this year, the market basket cost an annual rate of $197 more than it did for all of 1973, the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

Middlemen accounted for $166 — about 84 per cent — of the increase while the share going to farmers went up $31 on an annual basis in the first three quarters.

In other economic developments, the Federal Reserve Board moved to pump more money into the nation's economy for the Christmas shopping season and Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton resurrected the proposal to raise gasoline taxes to provide additional revenues and encourage fuel conservation.

Two Women Accepted Into Rescue Squad

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

If you are on hand when a Greenville Rescue Squad truck arrives at the scene of an accident or other emergency and see two young women jump out and go to work, trying to relieve the pain and suffering of the victims involved, don't be surprised.

The Fire Department's rescue unit has two new members now — both young women nursing students at East Carolina University.

For the first time in its 27-year history, the squad last night accepted two female applicants — the first two to apply — for regular membership in the emergency service organization.

Sharon Atwell, 22 and Marie Olchovik, 20 will receive the same training in emergency medical care, first aid, and heavy duty rescue, that the four full-time paid men and 21 volunteers receive. And they will have the same duties as their male counterparts.

Both of the new squad members feel working with a rescue unit in the field will aid them in their nursing profession . . . give them experience in handling emergency situations.

"I want to work into cardiac nursing . . . intensive care nursing . . . emergency room work," Miss Atwell said. "I'll gain experience through rescue work."

Miss Olchovik said she wanted to become a member of the Rescue Squad "because I work better under pressure, and I'm interested in emergency nursing . . . critical care, surgical or emergency room nursing. I like something demanding."

Miss Atwell, who calls Annapolis, Md., her home, received an A. B. degree in health and physical education from ECU in 1972, then entered the ECU School of Nursing. She was a member of the university's competitive swimming team in 1970, 1971 and 1972 and was team captain in 1971-72.

Currently the ECU co-ed is president of the Student Nurses Association at the university and a member of Sigma Theta Tau national honorary nursing fraternity.

She is also a water safety instructor, has been a life guard, and along with Miss Olchovik, is enrolled in an 81-hour Emergency Medical Technician course here —

THREE METHODS

Why don't Pitt County Rabies Control Officers put their unclaimed animals to sleep like the Greenville Animal Control Officer does? M.J.

Pitt County has for many years used a cyanide gas inhalant as its method of disposing of unclaimed animals. It makes the animal unconscious in about 15 seconds, but is unpleasant to watch because it causes convulsions, according to Willie Pate, director of the County Environmental Health Division.

Euthasol, the injection used by the City animal control officers, on the other hand, causes paralysis. Within three to five minutes the animal dies as a result of paralysis which interferes with respiration.

The County will soon go to using carbon monoxide inhalant to kill the unclaimed animals. This is the process recommended by Dr. John Freeman of the Veterinary Medicine Department of the State Division of Health. Carbon monoxide exhaust can be piped into a closed chamber through a water coolant and will cause the animals inside to go to sleep within five to seven minutes. It is considered by toxicologists to be the least painless of the three kinds of deaths, according to Veterinary Medicine publications, Pate said.

SMOKING ON BUSES

My daughter comes home with her clothes smelling of smoke every afternoon. Why are children allowed to smoke on the City Schools buses when there is a rule against it? J.S.

City Schools Superintendent Glenn Cox said he will see that the principal of each school reminds drivers that they are to report any smokers they see. All rules for the schools, and there is one against smoking, apply on the school buses, he said.

ANTIQUA RADIO PART NEEDED

Could you help me get a four-pronged tube for a Philco radio made between 1925 and 1929?

Hotline wrote to the Philco-Ford Corp. in Blue Bell, Pa. They sent us a photostatic copy of a letter from Forbes Stereo Service, 540 Foothill Blvd., La Canada, Calif. 91011, which says it collects and repairs antique radio and has many parts, tubes, and schematic drawings of them. Perhaps they can help you. It probably isn't the only or even the nearest source, but it's the only one we've been able to run down. Hope they have the tube you need.

Arafat Opened Campaign To Replace Israel

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Lebanon's Christian president today follows Yasir Arafat to the podium of the United Nations General Assembly to carry on the Arab campaign to replace Israel with a Palestinian state.

President Suleiman Franjeh, a moderate whose nation is half Christian and half Moslem, was designated by the Arab League to speak for it to the Assembly. Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization has its headquarters in Beirut, the Lebanese capital.

Arafat opened the assembly's two-week Palestine debate on Wednesday with a call for creation of a secular state for Moslems, Jews and Christians that would take in all of Palestine, including Israel.

The Arab summit conference in Rabat, Morocco, last month called for the creation of a Palestinian state on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip, both captured by Israel in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. But after Arafat's 90-minute speech, Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah told the assembly Israel will never allow the PLO to establish its authority in any part of Palestine.

The burly, 44-year-old guerrilla chief urged Americans and Jews everywhere to turn their backs on Israel. Zionist ideology and the leaders of Israel offer only "perpetual bloodshed, endless war and continuous servitude," he declared.

"I have come bearing an olive branch and a freedom fighter's gun," Arafat declared. "Do not let the olive branch

UNC Board Of Governors Is Expected OK Med School Plan

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

The University of North Carolina Board of Governors is expected to give its approval tomorrow to a plan recommended by UNC president William Friday last week to develop a four-year medical school at East Carolina University.

William Dees of Goldsboro, chancellor of the UNC board of governors, said he is expecting the recommendation of the policy and programs committee will be adopted by the board Friday.

"I hope very much that we can present a plausible and reasonable program to the General Assembly," Dees said.

When asked if any board member had expressed opposition to the recommendation, Dees said, "As you know one member of the planning committee stated his opposition and I would expect him to restate it on Friday. However, I would expect the recommendation to be adopted."

Dees said two other big issues on Friday's agenda include a veterinary medical school at N. C. State University at Raleigh and aid to private colleges.

David J. Whichard, publisher of The Daily Reflector and a member of the board of governors, said he felt the recommendation would be approved.

"There may be a few votes against the recommendation," Whichard said, "but I don't expect many."

Whichard said he was pleased with President Friday's recommendations to the joint committees and to the board.

"I think it is a responsible approach to meeting a fundamental need to provide more doctors for the people of North Carolina," Whichard said. "I feel the legislature will do its best to fund the program recommended by President Friday and by the Board of Governors."

President Friday said he has not received any communication from other members of the board this week expressing strong opposition to the recommendation.

"I hope the recommendation will be approved, but I have no way of knowing how the vote will go tomorrow," Friday added.

Dr. Ed Monroe, vice chancellor for health affairs at ECU, said this morning that his personal feeling is that the full board of governors will approve the recommendation of the joint committee.

"I think they will approve the recommendation because more than half of the board membership was on those two

Coal Negotiators OK Tentative Settlement

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The striking United Mine Workers won a hefty package of wages and benefits from the coal industry in a tentative contract settlement which could reopen the nation's soft-coal mines before Thanksgiving.

UMW President Arnold Miller predicted his 120,000 members would approve the pact. The union's ratification process is expected to take about 10 days.

In the meantime, the two-day-old strike that has already idled about 20,000 workers in the steel and railroad industries will continue.

"It's a very good settlement — one I think I can sell to the membership," Miller said in announcing the settlement Wednesday night. He said it would "eradicate some of the gross inequities that have existed for years."

The union's 38-member bargaining council, summoned from the coal fields, meets today to consider the three-year package. Its approval is needed before the proposed contract can be sent out to the members.

Under the tentative settlement, miners would receive wage increases of 9 per cent the first year and 3 per cent in each of the next two years. In addition, they would get cost-of-living increases in the second and third year. Miners now earn between $42 and $50 a day.

The contract also guarantees sick leave for the first time, and an increase in pensions from the present $150 a month to $250 at the end of the contract.

Numerous other fringe benefits, including a one-time $80 "inflation catch-up bonus," add up to what appears to be the biggest labor settlement this year.

The negotiators refused to put a price tag on the agreement, but industry sources said it represented a 46 per cent boost in wages and benefits over the three years while union sources figured it as closer to 40 per cent.

Coal prices have quadrupled over the past year and the settlement is likely to lead to further boosts; how much will be passed on isn't known. But with the electric power, steel and railroad industries heavily dependent on coal, consumers eventually face high electric bills and bigger price tags for automobiles and other steel products.

Union officials indicated that the earliest the mines could be reopened is Nov. 25, beginning with the midnight-to-8 a.m. shift.

This is the first time in at least a half-century that a coal contract will be put to a rank-and-file vote and no one is sure how the miners will respond.

But in the coal fields, initial reaction to the settlement from the miners was cautious, and most warned that it would have to survive critical examination before being ratified.

"We can't accept anything that the men won't be satisfied with," said UMW District 5 President Lou Antal of Pittsburgh Jack Perry, District 17 president at Charleston, W.Va., said if "it falls short of what we think we need, we'll certainly reject it."

Chemist Reveals Beauty Aids

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There are fashions in face creams, says long-time cosmetics chemist Robert L. Goldemberg who was explaining some of the newer ingredients in formulations used by his wife in her recent book, "The Complete Book of Natural Cosmetics."

"Creams are much lighter now. In the trade when we speak of heavy creams, we are talking about the '30s and '40s..."

The book is a second effort for the two. The first one, put together and researched by his wife using the name Beatrice Traven, was "Here's Egg on Your Face." But now with newer ingredients available to the average shopper, he agreed to cooperate and provide the "natural" formulations for the second book.

"At first I said absolutely no when she asked me. I thought it would be impossible to emulsify the creams at home, but then I thought of ordinary soap and such things as lanolin and lecithin and I became intrigued," explained Goldemberg, a past president of the Society of Cosmetics Chemists. In doing the research, Mrs.

Goldemberg says she was surprised "that many of the ingredients had been used for healing, bleaching the skin, baldness and so on for hundreds of years." She decided to include a glossary of the many facts she had dug up.

Brewing your own beauty potions does give you the satisfaction of knowing what is in them, agreed Goldemberg, who has made some popular formulations for the industry. But the trade has used many natural ingredients in their products, he adds. They just haven't wanted to reveal their formulas.

And we may not know much more when the industry complies with the new government regulations to reveal all on their labels. Much of it will not be understood, although it will be a great help to doctors in treating allergies, he maintains.

Revealing the natural formulas will not cut into his livelihood, insists the genial Goldemberg, who has been in the business for 24 years. "It is a different type of thing."

"A great many of the 60 formulas in the book couldn't be used by the trade anyway," he continued. "They must think in terms of shelf life. For example, a cucumber can go sour, but at home it can be used in a formula that can be made in small quantities and used promptly."

The Goldbergs' own favorite in the book is a lemon cream "which almost always turns out right if directions are followed," says Mrs. Goldemberg. It is made in three phases. The first phase may be made in a large batch and kept on hand so that the cream may be made when it is wanted.

Phase A — "The Mother Batch." Combine 4 tablespoons of lanolin, 2 tablespoons of solid vegetable shortening and 3 tablespoons of peanut oil and put it into a wide-mouth jar of 12 ounces or so. Melt over hot water (in a double boiler or heavy pan with 2 inches of water) until the jar can barely be touched by hand.

Phase B — Mix 2 tablespoons of corn syrup, one-fourth cup plus 1 tablespoon of fresh strained (or reconstituted) lemon juice and 1/2 teaspoon of lemon extract. Add "B" ingredients to "A" ingredients, slowly, stirring by hand until "A" has taken up all of "B." Cap the jar, shake it hard as the contents cool and a smooth lotion should form. It can be cooled under running water from time to time as it is being shaken.

The lotion must be at room temperature before the final step is taken: Add 3 tablespoons of water to the jar, one tablespoon at a time, whipping it with the highest speed of the electric beater. A rich, thick cream should result. If it separates a bit, just pour off a few drops of the water.

The recipes for tonics, lotions, face packs, shampoo creams, suntan oil, bath oil, eye cream, soap and the like use a variety of fruits, nuts, seeds and honey and can be formulated using ordinary kitchen equipment. There is a recipe for teen-agers that contains licorice and a bay rum shaving lotion for men.

Goldemberg doesn't hold out much hope for an antiwrinkle cream in the near future. "Wrinkling is a natural process where fat reservoirs are depleted," he points out, but the book does include a "Beeswax Wrinkle Thing" that his wife considers a great skin softener. It contains mink oil which Goldemberg says is being used more and more in modern cosmetic formulations because it is light and provides velvety richness.

As for makeup, it can't be made successfully at home because it is difficult to remove impurities from the colors. But the book includes a perfume formula.

The Goldbergs met at a party. Mrs. Goldemberg is also a playwright under the name Rose Leiman Goldemberg and her newest play, "Love One Another," is opening off-Broadway in the near future.

He Uses Their Money For His Charities

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: Our son, who has always been a very serious-minded and responsible boy, has just started college away from home.

We opened a checking account for him, and agreed to send him through college as long as his grades held up. We get all his cancelled checks, and were shocked to learn that so far he has written checks totalling $350 to support a far out religious group he became interested in since he started college.

My husband has worked hard for his money. We support our own church, and don't feel that our money should be used in this manner.

Our son has worked and earned some money, which is also in his checking account, and he claims that he is supporting this religious cult with HIS money, not ours.

He is a sensitive boy, but easily persuaded, and we fear he has been taken in. We are not made of mney, and want to know how to handle this situation. Thank you.

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR UPSET: You agreed to subsidize your son's education—not his religious charities. Pay his tuition and other related college expenses and let him donate his hard-earned money (not yours) to whatever he wishes.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter has a son, 9, and a daughter, 7. In the past, when I've been asked to keep the children overnight at my apartment, I've had to bed them down together in a large double bed because that's the only sleeping accommodations I have for them.

I am now of the opinion that the time has come when they should not be sharing one bed. When I told my daughter this, and offered to go to her home to stay with the kiddies, where each child has a bed alone, she said: "Well, if that's the way your thinking is, I might as well have a sitter come in." She gave me the impression that she thought I was an evil-minded old lady.

Abby, my training back in the "old days" is responsible for my thinking, and if I'm wrong, please tell me.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: If you're wrong, we both are. Boys and girls that age should be separated at bedtime, but no one should make a big deal of it.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law and I have a running discussion regarding the "normalcy" of her calling my wife three or four times a day, and expecting my wife to call her a similar number of times a day—each and every day!

To make matters worse, many of the calls wind up in arguments over petty things, which is bad for my wife's blood pressure.

When I tell my wife that I call my own mother only two or three times a week, even though I love her dearly, she claims I am "abnormal." Then she cites the case of a relative who calls his mother four times a day even though he is married and has two children. She considers that "normal" and I violently disagree.

Have you any helpful thoughts on this matter?

"ABNORMAL SON-IN-LAW"

DEAR AB: Quit going on about what's "normal" and

Chili Power Gives Many Dishes Zip

By TOM HOGE

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Legend has it that the famous outlaw, Jesse James, refused to rob a bank in a certain Texas community because his favorite chili parlor was there.

There are as many formulas for chili con carne as there are types of chili peppers — 61 classified varieties of pepper in Mexico alone at the latest count. Rivalry among chili cooks is so great in the Southwest that they stage cooking contests where the entries are judged on consistency, flavor and the type of chili pepper used.

The most common dried chili is the large and rather mild ancho. But for those who like to live dangerously, there are far more pungent varieties, like the long, dark pasilla and the tiny, volcanic pequin. Green chilis can be hot, too, but they are not widely available.

The origins of chili are clouded in legend. One account credits a group of nuns in Mexico with inventing con carne. Another says a German expatriate living in New Braunfels, Tex., originated modern chili dishes around the turn of the century by finding a way to extract the pulp from chili pods and mix it with spices to create chili powder.

Still another account says an Englishman who had spent many years in India sampling various curry dishes moved to Texas, where he was introduced to Mexican chili dishes. He was so impressed by the flavor that he began experimenting and came up with a blend of chili peppers, cumin seeds, oregano, garlic and salt; which is much the way chili powder is made today.

Most chili powder available in supermarkets is fairly mild, but you can give it a lift by adding ground red pepper.

The use of chili powder in other dishes besides con carne is growing. It adds zest to omelets, cottage cheese, shellfish sauces and stews. It is also used to liven up pork and beans, soups and sausage products.

Here is a recipe for chicken stew.

1/4 cup flour
2 teaspoons salt, divided
1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
2 (3 lb.) chickens cut into eighths
1/4 cup oil
1 pound tomatoes, diced
1 cup diced ham (optional)
1/2 cup onion flakes
1 tablespoon chili powder
1/4 teaspoon instant minced garlic
1 lb. zucchini, cut into 1-inch chunks
Combine flour, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper in paper bag. Add few pieces of chicken at a time to bag, shake well and repeat till all chicken is coated. Heat oil in large skillet. Add a few pieces of chicken at a time, browning on all sides. Drain excess fat, return chicken to pan. Add tomatoes and ham. Combine onion flakes, chili powder, garlic, remaining teaspoon salt and blend into skillet. Cover and simmer 45 minutes. Add zucchini and cook till chicken and vegetables are tender; about 15 additional minutes. Serves 8. Good with chilled dry white wine.

Winemaker Creates News

By MICHAEL RUBIN
Associated Press Writer
HEALDSBURG, Calif. (AP) — In the decidedly masculine world of winemaking, a name like Mary Ann Graf stands out. She is the only woman winemaker in a major California winery.

"When I was in college I didn't particularly give it a whole lot of thought whether it was a man's business or a woman's business," she said. "It was a business and I don't think I had any problems getting into it," she said.

Miss Graf, 31, graduated from the University of California at Davis in 1965 with a degree from their enology department.

The image of winemaking is so masculine that when the university's enology department added a woman to its staff not long ago it was an occasion for nationwide news attention.

But Miss Graf said despite her relatively young age, compared to much older industry figures, and her gender she had no trouble finding a job. "There haven't been any obstacles to me, really, because I'm a woman," she said. "I don't want to use it as a crutch. Sometimes it could be very useful ... if you can't get your way one way ... but people are wising up to that."

After college she spent 4½ years working for a winery near Sacramento that specializes in fruit wines. Later she worked at one of the state's largest wineries, in northern Sonoma County, then worked in the laboratory of a premium winemaker.

She was hired by the Simi Winery in February of 1973. She said in an interview in her lab at Simi, located on the outskirts of this Sonoma County town on the Russian River, that she had recently received a questionnaire asking about women in business. "I was hard pressed to find things to write about because I don't spend a lot of time thinking about it," she said. "I'm not particularly militant about the feminist movement because I've got other things to do. I have to worry about doing a good job just like any man has to worry about doing a good job."

Mary Ann is so enthusiastic about her work she occasionally helps out in the winery's tasting room on crowded weekends.

No one recognizes her, but that may change. "I do have an advantage being a woman," she said.

"You're interviewing me," she said to a writer, "and I've been on two television panel shows. It's a case of my being a novelty. People want to talk to me."

But she'd rather be known for the quality of wine she makes, which experts rate highly.

"I think the important thing is that ultimately, I hope I'm judged by whether I'm a good winemaker — not 'she's a good winemaker for a woman.'"

Simi was started in the last century but was in near dormancy until it was purchased five years ago and revived by Russell Green, the former head of Signal Oil. Green had a home and vineyard land in the nearby Alexander Valley.

Mary Ann helped finish the 1972 wines, already aging when she was hired, then had her first crush in the 1973 vintage.

As winemaker, she is essentially responsible for the product that goes in the bottle and on the shelf. That includes everything from the vineyard to the foil covering on the bottle.

"But the job of the winemaker varies from winery to winery," she said.

"In this winery, which is smaller, the winemaker has to do a little bit of everything. I buy all the glass (bottles), make sure we have corks, so on. These aren't necessarily winemaking things, but..."

"It's been said that a winemaker isn't just an enologist. You've got to be a microbiologist, an engineer, a plant pathologist, a little bit of everything."

Annual Antique Show And Sale Begins Friday

GOLDSBORO — The second annual Pilot Club of Goldsboro Antique Show and Sale, will be held tomorrow and Saturday at the National Guard Armory, 600 N. Jefferson St. here.

Proceeds from the show will be used for community service projects of the Pilot Club of Goldsboro. Two of the major continuing projects of the club will be financed—the Pilot Club library in the Salvation Army Citadel, and their high school scholarship to a deserving senior student. Tickets to the show are $1.25 each.

Mrs. Edna Lewis, is serving as over-all chairman of the show. Mrs. Dale Williams is president of the Pilot Club of Goldsboro. Antiques, including cut glass of the "Brilliant Period" (1880-1910) to period furniture and rare original paintings will be on display and offered for sale.

Hours for the show are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

Members of the Pilot Club will operate a snack bar during the show hours. Featured will be home-made cakes and pies, and a wide variety of other foods.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Some of the mail addressed to this column is absolutely vicious. I got one recently that said, "Paul Newman is short! Ha ha." Of course, it was unsigned.

"What kind of an animal would get me so upset?" I asked Mother.

"A wise one," she counseled. "Don't you know that writing letters is the greatest way in the world to get rid of your hostilities? People who bottle things up inside them eventually wind up hanging the laundry out in a driving rain, wearing bedroom slippers that don't match. Get rid of your anger. Write it down. Besides, every time I've complained about anything, the manufacturer has sent me a free case of his product."

I'm not much with words when I talk. When I'm angry, my tongue locks like it was just shot full of novocaine and I usually mumble something like, "Well, we'll see what we shall see." (Which when translated still doesn't make any sense.)

But when I sat down at the typewriter, my fingers danced along the keys like Van Cliburn's. I mean I was positively brilliant. I wrote to a major airline telling them I considered the Wright Brothers the foremost humorists in this country and that if God had meant for people to fly their airline (Trans Fright) he would never have invented old age.

I wrote to the president of a grocery store chain pointing out that there is a time in a woman's life (somewhere between Humperdinck and Sominex) when she can't cope with a cash register that runs out of tape in the middle of a $70 order on her bowling night.

I wrote to the manufacturer of a $12.95 pair of No-Shrink jeans and enclosed payment for them that had been left in the pocket during laundry. The check had shrunk in proportion to the jeans and amounted to $3.20.

I wrote to King Faisal and said, "I knew you when you were Alec Guinness and I Hope your camel loses its anti-freeze."

But my finest hour was probably a letter to the man who sold me my car. On a cleverness scale of ten, I was a 14. I told about my special license plates that spelled LEMON, how the carpet had worn out in the trunk, how the parts had to be ordered from behind the Iron Curtain, and how their explanation for everything was that it was a car built on Monday when everyone was hung over.

The only response I've gotten from any of them has been a newsletter from the car manufacturer. But as I told Mother, "Well, we'll see what we shall see."

Members Attend National Meet

Two members of the East Carolina University Department of Housing and Management attended the annual meeting of the American Association of Housing Educators last week in Boston and Durham, N.H.

They were Dr. Patricia G. Hurley, department chairman, and Thelma L. Snuggs, instructor.

Dr. Hurley has served on the AAHE Executive Board during the past year as Education Committee Chairman. Under her direction, a national survey was conducted of all colleges and universities offering a graduate degree in housing, household equipment or interior design.

Results of the survey were distributed to the 85 conferees.

The Education Committee also presented a program on alternatives to the lecture teaching method, and Dr. Hurley presided at a session on housing curricula.

The housing educators toured several Boston redevelopment sites, including the former Chickering Piano Factory which is now an apartment complex for artists.

Miss Snuggs is chairman of next year's Liaison Committee and will be co-ordinating efforts of other organizations and agencies with those of the housing educators. Dr. Hurley is a member of the ad hoc committee to plan a five-year program of work for the organization.

Household Hints

Store canned food in a dry, cool spot, away from hot pipes of radiators and sunlight. Warm storage can lower eating quality and dampness can corrode metal and eventually cause leaks.

Jars and cans of food to be stored in an extremely cold, unheated area should be wrapped in a layer of newspaper or a clean old blanket. Freezing can damage the seal and lead to spoilage.

A perishable food is one that must be refrigerated or frozen if it is to be kept for more than a short period.

Affirmative Decision Awaited

Tomorrow the University of North Carolina board of governors will be acting on an East Carolina University Medical School proposal that can be of great benefit to our state.

The board will have before it the recommendations of President William Friday, as approved by the planning and budget committees, calling for expansion of the ECU school to a full four-years, with authorization to award the MD degree.

Cost of constructing the school and an accompanying teaching hospital has been set at $50 million. Some $15 million of this is already on hand as appropriated by previous Legislatures.

Most observers think the board will follow the recommendations of the president and its two planning committees and vote to approve the expansion. If it does the board will be showing great wisdom.

The ECU Medical School issue has been around for more than ten years. Establishment of the school has been acted on favorably a number of times by the State Legislature and there has been little doubt that the long range intention was to develop a full four-year school.

The latest action early this year called for expansion to the second year with transferral of students to Chapel Hill for the final two years. Because of this the Chapel Hill Medical School dean was placed in charge of the ECU development, and there has been only confusion since.

Friday's plan is a good one. Chapel Hill Medical School will be able to get on with its work, while the East Carolina school will be developing over four years to graduate physicians.

In addition, the board's favorable action tomorrow will embark it on its first major developmental project since the UNC System was created. Not only will the ECU Medical School be removed as a controversial issue for the board, but the UNC administration will have the chance to oversee the development almost from scratch of a new medical school.

In the way of results we will see a school training new physicians to take care of North Carolina's medical problems; we will see a referral hospital in the East where it is badly needed; finally favorable action tomorrow should insure the success of the University of North Carolina System under the Board of governors.

Everybody will win, and we believe that the board's action tomorrow will be affirmative.

THIS AFTERNOON

Point Finger At Teachers

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Why can't Johnny read?

Because he isn't being taught properly, and the teachers in North Carolina schools are not prepared properly in college to teach kids to read.

That is the startling conclusion in a preliminary study now being written by the Council on State Goals and Policies.

Guaranteed to spawn controversy in education circles, the study cuts through statistics and educational jargon to conclude that new fangled "gimmicks, machinery, and other reading instruction equipment" and especially the modern-day "look-say" method of teaching are failing woefully.

The reading problem is a "teacher (and) teaching problem" because our teachers have not been taught properly, having been trained in colleges which "eschewed phonics and stressed the sight method."

Re-Train Teachers
The solution, the blunt-spoken study spells out, is to restructure colleges to provide proper teacher training, install massive teacher retraining programs in local schools for present teachers, and turn attention away from the "sight" method and back to the good, old ABCs of learning letters, their sounds, and how they go together to make words.

"We feel that the heart of the process is the classroom teacher and stress that in-service training should take priority over massive funds pumped into gimmicks, machinery, and other reading instruction equipment," the draft report states.

Informally, former State Senator Hamilton C. Horton, a member of the study group, puts it this way: "We need reading teachers, not more of that sophisticated, high-faluting equipment that never gets used... look in any school, and you will see it standing against the wall gathering dust."

The study, chaired by Mrs. Ruth Jones, an elementary school teacher and former president of the N.C. Association of Educators, worked with public and private school experts, the Learning Institute of North Carolina, officials at the Department of Public Instruction, and studied various reading textbooks in reaching its conclusions.

Even top state officials admit that North Carolina children are not learning to read, and Supt. A. Craig Phillips has readied a request to the General Assembly for $27 million to launch a "Right to Read" effort in the public schools.

The study disclosed, however, that Tar Heel kids read worse than their counterparts in Southeastern states spending much less than we are. "Better education is not simply a function of more money," and can be eliminated as a cause of this state's poor performance, the study reports.

A second possibility — that North Carolina students are less intelligent — was also rejected.

Poor Teaching
"The final possible cause of our poor performance lies in reading instruction," the report concludes.

Public schools make limited use of the phonics method, trending instead to the "sight" method of learning words by the way they look. This is only natural, however, since that's how the colleges teach what little reading preparation they offer, the study shows.

Private schools, where statistics show students read better, "invariably teach by (phonics) method" and the study shows that a first-grader develops a "working vocabulary of 200 words by the end of the first year using phonic instruction compared to 40 words using sight method," the report states. The experimental methods should be kept to aid in special cases, but "every child should be taught phonics."

The Council on State Goals and Policies was set up by the General Assembly in 1972 to annually inform the public of main problems facing the state and to "express the needs and aspirations of North Carolina citizens and identify the kind of future they want for themselves and their families." The report will be made to the governor and the General Assembly early next year.

A Sermon In The Caves

SANTILLANA, SPAIN—Pilgrimages come in many forms. The Catholic goes to Rome, the Muslim to Mecca, the Jew to Jerusalem. The purpose is not only to seek inspiration; the purpose is also to see with one's own eyes, and thus to confirm the transfer of dream to reality. This is about a pilgrimage to Altamira.

It could not tell you when my wife first began talking of the caves. It was a long time ago. She is an artist, a sculptor, a lover of anthropology. Whenever the talk turned to Europe, she would dream anew: Maybe, this time, Altamira. But Altamira is up on the northern coast of Spain, and unless you are beach people, attracted by the lures of Biarritz or San Sebastian, you have to work at getting there. This time we got there.

And it was work. If the planes are not flying from Madrid, you drive north to Burgos, across some of the emptiest land in Europe. At Burgos you leave the main road and cross a range of mountains en route to Santillana. By night, in rain and fog, it is heart-in-the-mouth all the way. A little before midnight you arrive at a dimly lit inn at the end of a narrow, crooked street in Santillana. In the morning the rain still is falling—great gray sheets of rain—and even the most determined pilgrim wonders if the trip is worth it.

It is worth it, not merely for the artist or archeologist, but for every man and woman who give even passing thought to the nature of man and to man's survival. In Dante's vision, the gates of hell bore a warning: All hope abandon, ye who enter here. The keepers of the caves of Altamira could post a better sign at the entrance: Here all hope regain.

The story goes back to 1879, when Marcelino Sanz de Sautola returned to Santillana to explore a cave he had heard about. Sautola was only 28. He was not professionally trained in the disciplines of science, but paleontology was his passion. On this trip his nine-year-old daughter Maria was with him. The little girl scrambled ahead of him into the cave, holding her carbide lantern. Suddenly she cried out, "Toros! Toros! On the ceiling of the cave were the paintings of bison. The paintings had been there, we now know, for 15,000 years.

Gas Tax Hike Is Lurking

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Ford's proposed 5 per cent income surtax in trouble, administration officials are talking again about a gasoline tax hike that they say would provide needed revenue and cut gasoline consumption.

Government officials say the administration is desperate to get congressional and public approval for one of the two taxes.

An increase in tax revenue would be used to pay for a proposed public service unemployment program, help the housing industry and offset tax cuts for low-income groups.

Nevertheless, some officials said privately they were surprised when Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said Wednesday he was studying a gas tax increase anew and might recommend it to the President.

These officials also said it was highly unlikely Morton would raise the gas tax idea again without prior approval of the White House. And they said it logically could be linked with a White House statement Tuesday that Ford no longer was "wedded" to his income surtax proposal.

The gasoline tax proposal that has had the widest support among administration economists is an increase of 10 cents per gallon, on top of the existing four-cent federal tax.

One Treasury official said a 10-cent increase would raise about $9 billion. He said it had been proposed in the past to pay for income tax refunds of about $4 billion to low-income persons and use the remaining $5 billion to pay for a public service job project and other programs.

Treasury officials, including Secretary William E. Simon, have made no secret that they preferred the gasoline tax to the income surtax. They have argued that the gasoline tax also would help reduce gasoline consumption.

Ford has said on several occasions there would be no gasoline tax increase, and he has argued that his surtax proposal was fairer.

However, the income surtax has run into heavy opposition, and congressional leaders like House Speaker Carl Albert have said it will never go into effect. Treasury officials also have said privately for weeks that the surtax is doomed.

These officials believe Ford decided against a gasoline tax because he felt it would not get through Congress. But they say that Congress might now be willing to consider the gasoline proposal because of congressional objections to the surtax.

GOP Politics

Victory Is Great Divider

By JOHN KILGO

Victory is the hardest thing in the world for a political party to overcome. Tar Heel Republicans used to sit by and watch with delight as Democrats cut themselves into many warring factions.

The worm changed in 1972 when Republicans elected a Governor and a U.S. Senator from North Carolina. Shortly after those history-making wins, the GOP found itself in a bitter campaign for the party's chairmanship. Tom Bennett defeated Frank Rouse for the job, but the bitterness that campaign created had more than a little to do with the walloping Tar Heel Republicans took at the polls last week.

The North Carolina Republican Party is as badly divided today as the state's Democrats have ever been. One group is loyal to Gov. Jim Holshouser; the other to Senator Jesse Helms. It was obvious from the recent campaign that the two sides are still very much at war.

Helms, for instance, was conspicuously absent from the GOP caravan that traveled the state on behalf of William Stevens, the candidate for the U.S. Senate, and Jim Carson, who was trying to win the Attorney General's office.

There is even political scuttlebutt that Sen. Helms was privately helping Democrat Bob Morgan win the Senate race. That may or may not be true, but it's a fact that Helms didn't do anything to speak of on behalf of Stevens. It's also a fact that Helms and Morgan have been good friends for many years.

Helms, and former party chairman Rouse, didn't feel obliged to bend over backwards for Stevens or Carson. Both of those men were choices of Gov. Holshouser. The Helms-Rouse wing of the GOP let those two candidates go it alone.

Most of this bitterness goes back to the campaign for the party chairmanship.

Frank Rouse, who was chairman, had done an impressive job. How, for instance, do you fire a man who headed the party at the time of its greatest triumphs?

It wasn't a hard decision for Gov. Holshouser to make. Rouse had taken a leave of absence to work for Jim Gardner in Gardner's gubernatorial primary against Holshouser in 1972. That isn't the kind of act that politicians forget.

Furthermore, Rouse and Gene Anderson, Holshouser's top aide, were bitter enemies. Adding more fuel to the fire was the fact that Sen. Helms was very close to Rouse and took his side in the battle for the chairmanship.

Gov. Holshouser won the battle against Rouse. But it wasn't a winner-take-all victory. The Governor now presides over a state Republican Party that is in ruins. He has only 10 Republicans in the entire State Legislature.

But while Holshouser is paying the price now, this fight might one day come back to haunt Sen. Helms. Said one prominent Republican, bitter over Helms' action in this campaign: "There's no damn way Jesse will get out of our primary in 1978."

Tar Heel Republicans are experiencing a lesson the Democrats have known for years: Victory is the great divider.

Strength For Today

THE COST OF MONEY
How much do you pay for your money?

In these days when the prime rate for business loans is so high, this question has an immediate economic significance. But it also has broader connotations. The price some people pay for money is lying, stealing, embezzling. Other people who will not pay this high a price will give up friendships which bring no financial or social profit, neglect their families, or turn their backs on other occupations which are more socially beneficial but less remunerative. Money is something which we all need, if only because we cannot fulfill our social and family responsibilities without it. But no fortune is worth having if it arouses hatred against the man who makes it, or separates him from his family, or gives him a troubled conscience. Money that keeps one awake at night tossing about in sleepless anxiety is a worse curse than poverty. Spiritually every man needs to know just how much he has paid for what he possesses.

That Opportunity Of October

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) —

"October is one of the particularly dangerous months to speculate in stocks," runs the legendary investment advice once offered by Mark Twain.

"The others are November, December, January, February, March, April, May, June, July, August, and September."

October this year, as it turned out, was different, at least from all the first nine months of the year. Stock prices ran up their first substantial monthly gain since the end of 1973, and the enthusiasm spilled over into the first week of November.

From the market's close Sept. 30 to last Friday night, the popular averages recorded gains ranging from 10 to 22 per cent. A random look at some diverse individual stocks shows some even more dramatic gains.

American Telephone & Telegraph, the nation's most widely held stock and one of the most stable, recovered more than half the ground it had lost from its 1974 peak early in the year, in the five-week period from Oct. 4 to Nov. 8.

So did such others as Hughes Tool, Deere & Co., Pittston and Kerr-McGee. McDonald's and Avon Products, in the seemingly out-of-favor glamor group, both scored advances of more than 50 per cent from their lows.

Few market experts were ready to pronounce it the certain start of a new bull market. But a good many agreed that if it were, it would match the classic pattern of a turnaround.

The rally came without warning, in the face of what seemed to be unrelieved gloom in the economic outlook.

"I don't know what starts a bull market," says Walter X. Burns of the Wall Street firm Lynch, Jones & Ryan. "I've never seen one that started on any news. They do it by themselves. At some point the sellers are just gone."

By late last week it was clear that the speculator—the investor with the financial means and the inclination to take big risks in hope of a fast profit—had missed an opportunity if he had not moved into the market early in the month.

But many investment advisers seemed to agree most investors could comfortably refrain from kicking themselves if they had stayed away while the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was sinking to a 12-year low on Oct. 4.

For one thing, it is generally agreed, fishing for a market bottom can produce an unpleasant catch if the investor isn't willing to ride out further declines. "It's not possible to buy at the exact bottom, except by luck," observes John Wright, president of the Bridgeport, Conn.-based Wright Investors Service.

The pessimists, of course, contend the advance will likely prove just another of the illusory rallies that have appeared several times since the middle of last year, only to give way to new and deeper declines.

N.C. Teacher Of The Year Inspires Young People

Editor's note: Forbes is a Greenville native, the brother of Mrs. Annie Faust and Mrs. Willie E. Bullock, both of Greenville.

By VEN CARVER
High Point Enterprise Staff Writer

A man of almost angelic demeanor, Herman L. Forbes doesn't seem the type who seeks to wield influence.

Nor would he try to impress people with his talents.

His modesty notwithstanding, Forbes was honored Thursday for outstanding service in his profession. A teacher at Parkview Elementary School.

He has been named the North Carolina Teacher of the Year by the Assn. of Classroom Teachers.

In a quarter of a century of teaching, Forbes has influenced strongly the youngsters whose names have appeared on his roll book.

And his talent to inspire young people during the most impressionable years has obviously not been lost on his peers. Fellow teachers at Parkview Elementary School promoted his Teacher of the Year candidacy.

He was selected as the local Teacher of the Year in September, and late the same month, he was chosen for the district honor.

The state award was presented to him Thursday at a ceremony in Raleigh conducted by the State Board of Education.

Witnessing the affair were 27 beaming children, Forbes' current crop of sixth graders at Parkview.

Despite his gifts as an educator and the good will he seems to attract, Forbes hasn't had it easy. For one thing, he is a man working in a profession dominated by women and is the only male teacher now at Parkview.

Besides that, he is black. When the school system decided to

Somersault On High Wire Free

LONDON (AP) — Karl Wallenda, the 69-year-old high wire daredevil, did a somersault for free on a cable suspended 70 feet above Clapham Common just south of the Thames River. Then admitted that he "honestly wouldn't have done it for $10,000."

Wallenda braved high winds and torrential rains to perform the stunt Wednesday at the request of the American "Food for the Forgotten" group, which is trying to bring attention to the plight of the world's hungry.

"When they explained it might help the world's starving millions, I agreed," Wallenda said of the stunt.

"It really was one of the hardest things I've ever done," he added.

experiment with faculty integration in 1966, Forbes was selected as one of the first models. He was sent to the predominantly white Johnson Street Elementary School, where he was the only black teacher.

Perhaps it isn't necessary to ask him whether he suffered apprehensions about the transfer, whether the experience was at first trying. "Certainly it was," recalls Forbes today. "But I knew it had to be done. I went into it with a positive attitude. We had to set the pace at the top."

His own fears and those of his students' parents were eventually overcome. He started out by visiting each student's home to get acquainted with parents. "They got a chance to visit

Bishops Ask Feed Hungry

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N.C. (AP)—Methodist bishops from around the world have called upon President Ford to take immediate steps to feed the hungry.

The 90-member Council of Bishops of the United Methodist Church urged him Wednesday to make available three million to four million tons of wheat to nations with critical hunger conditions. The council also asked him to make a "significant pledge toward the $5 billion a year needed for long-range agricultural development."

A message to the President approved by the council said: "As we meet, 450 million men, women and children are threatened with starvation, and a world food conference is in session in Rome."

The bishops also asked Methodists to skip a meal a week, and use the money saved to aid the hungry. They asked their congregations to "cooperate in efforts to address world hunger through relief efforts and/or changes in systems of food production, consumption and distribution."

The bishops are meeting at Lake Junaluska in the western North Carolina mountains, an assembly grounds for the church in the Southeastern United States.

Queen Ignored Thrown Eggs

HALIFAX, England (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II appeared not to notice when two eggs were thrown at her as she stepped into her limousine here. One of the eggs splatted on the car, another hit the sidewalk.

Police say they arrested a woman, who was not identified, and said she would be charged later in the week.

The incident occurred Wednesday as the queen completed a tour of a large company in this industrial city.

me, and I with them," he says. "People are people. They could see that I had been trained as a teacher and that I knew what I was doing."

His principal that first year at Johnson Street School was Dean Dull, who is now the principal at Parkview.

Dull's recollection of Forbes' performance that first year and his acceptance at the school are entirely favorable. "If there was any problem, I really wasn't aware of it," the principal says. "If he had any problem dealing with the students, he didn't complain about it. He made the best of the situation."

Kilpatrick...

Silent in the shadows, we seek vainly to summon the human beings who lived here. Who were these cave dwellers of Altamira? How could they have survived the cold, the wet, the incessant perils of existence? Here in this dark cavern they loved, gave birth, suckled young; here the exhausted hunters dragged their quarry. All that mattered, one might suppose, was sheer survival.

But that was not all that mattered. In the midst of this prehistoric community there appeared the artist, the shaggy Michelangelo who squatted on his haunches, squinted through the smoke of a sputtering torch, and decorated the ceiling with works that endure. We reach out and touch them with our hands.

This is a sermon in stone. The lessons of Altamira are as plain as the dark eyes of the bison: Man was, and is, and will be. The creative spark cannot be extinguished. Thirteen thousand years before Christ the human spirit rose from this rubble floor and brought beauty to a ceiling. It was a perilous time. So, too, is ours today a perilous time. But the pilgrim who goes to Altamira comes from the cave with this serene conviction: We of the 20th century are only prehistory, too; and whatever devastation we barbarians impose upon our planet, the spark will not go out.

So impressed was the principal by Forbes' competence and dedication that Dull wished to assign his own son to Forbes' class. A student reshuffling the year Dull's son was in the sixth grade, however, prevented the principal from fulfilling his aim.

Essential to any successful classroom program, Forbes feels, is planning. He spends hours at night working on future lessons. Following the recommendations set down in modern teaching journals, Forbes has devised a format that allows each student to learn at individual rate. After analyzing test scores, he establishes a "prescription sheet" for each pupil. Using these prescriptions, the student spends part of the day in individual study at various work stations around the classrooms. Each station contains exercises and instructions that Forbes has compiled and each involves a different subject area (reading, math or science, for example).

Individual instruction is not the only modern educational tool that Forbes supports. He also endorses outside-the-classroom study in remedial reading, math and other areas.

But there are special problems attendant to all the comings and goings of his students. "This diversification puts a lot of weight on the teachers," he says. "That's why there must be planning. You just can't do it all at school. It's a good thing I have a wife just as involved as I am. Otherwise, it would interfere with my homelife, I'm sure."

Forbes' wife the former Mary Hunter Jones, teaches at Montlieu Elementary School. They met in 1946 at the first faculty meeting at the then-black Fairview Elementary School. The couple was married two years later.

Before coming to High Point in 1946 to begin his career at Fairview, Forbes was in the wartime army. Earlier he had obtained a degree in science at Shaw University and later received his certificate to teach elementary education. He also taught briefly in Sampson County.

In 1951, Forbes earned his master's degree in elementary education at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

A deeply religious man, Forbes is active in church affairs at Mount Vernon Baptist Church where he and his wife are members.

He carries his religious convictions into his work, though he doesn't force them on his students. One trend he says he regrets is the deterioration of values among youngsters.

"I think the parents are falling down on the job," he says. "They're not giving the children the values and the attitudes they need."

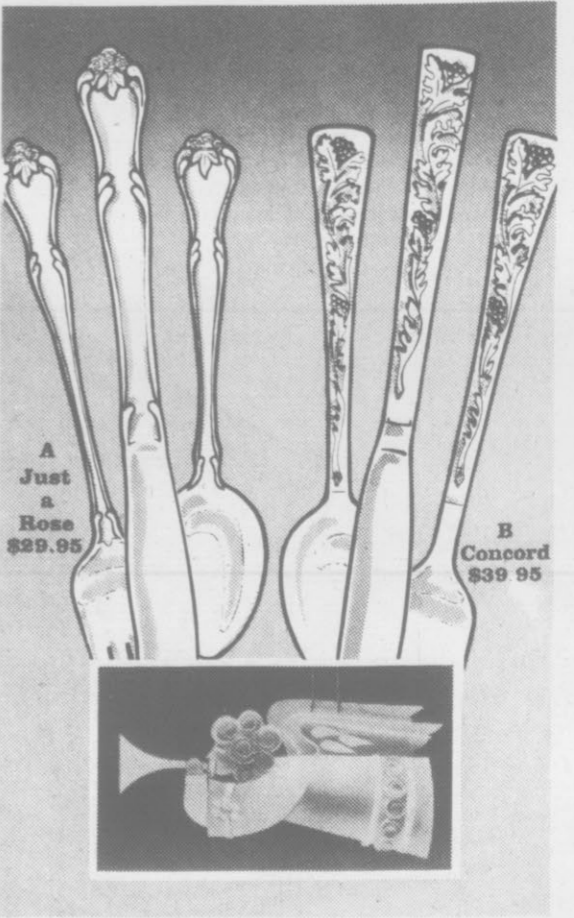

EVANGELIST—Paul Hlad of Denver, Colo., will conduct revival services Sunday through Nov. 24 at the Community Baptist Church, Ayden. Services will be held nightly at 7:30. Stanley Wingard is pastor of the church.

Physicians Named To Report On Nixon's Condition

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has selected three physicians to ascertain whether former President Richard M. Nixon will be healthy enough to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Sirica said Wednesday the three doctors, all specialists in heart and circulatory problems, would decide for themselves the best method for making the independent medical inquiry.

While Sirica moved to settle the issue of Nixon's testimony, Frederick C. LaRue was scheduled to resume describing his role in the alleged cover-up as a close assistant to defendant John N. Mitchell.

LaRue was to be followed to the stand by Lt. Gen. Vernon A. Walters, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Nixon, recovering from severe side effects of a chronic phlebitis condition, was expected to be released from the Long Beach (California) Memorial Hospital today.

Although Sirica said the mechanics of the inquiry would be left to the doctors, the judge also said in a formal order, "Should Mr. Nixon refuse access to appropriate and necessary medical records or refuse to submit to an appropriate physical examination ... the panel shall report immediately to the court."

In his order, Sirica said the three doctors should request permission of Nixon or his lawyer, Herbert J. Miller Jr., before examining confidential medical records or attempting a physical examination of the former president.

But a spokesman quoted the chairman of the panel, Dr. Charles A. Hufnagel, as saying he will wait for Sirica to work out preliminary arrangements for the inquiry.

Hufnagel, 58, has been chairman of the surgery department at Georgetown University Medical School in Washington, D.C., since 1969.

The other two physicians are Dr. Richard Starr Ross, a heart specialist at Johns Hopkins University Medical School in Baltimore, and Dr. John A. Spittell Jr., an internal medicine and heart specialist at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Nixon has been subpoenaed by cover-up defendant John D. Ehrlichman, whose lawyers say the former president's testimony is crucial if their client is to receive a fair trial.

In spelling out general instructions for the doctors, Sirica listed seven possible recommendations they might make.

They ranged from a conclusion that Nixon is currently fit enough to travel to Washington and appear as a witness to taking a written deposition from the former President under special conditions at his estate in San Clemente, Calif.

Sirica made no mention of the possibility that Nixon may not give any testimony.

Sirica said he wanted recommendations "either on an interim or a final basis," by Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving.

Watergate prosecutors, who do not require Nixon as a witness, have said they plan to complete their case by Thanksgiving.

In testimony Wednesday, retired New York City detective Anthony Ulasewicz, an indicted co-conspirator in the cover-up case, described how he made a series of deliveries of $217,000 in cash to the seven original Watergate defendants or their lawyers.

LaRue, a former Nixon reelection committee lawyer who has pleaded guilty to a conspiracy charge for his part in the cover-up, broke little new ground during his testimony, but implicated all of the defendants directly or indirectly in his testimony.

LaRue's testimony was particularly damaging to defendant Robert C. Mardian.

DEVALUATION DAYS

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— Charlotte spot cotton report for Wednesday for staple lengths of 1-1.32, 1.1-1.16 and 1-3.32 inches respectively: middling 40.90, 42.40, 42.65, strict low middling 39.15, 40.40, 40.65, low middling 35.40, 36.65, 36.90, strict low middling light spotted 35.40, 36.65, 36.90.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)— North Carolina egg markets were steady Wednesday. Supplies were barely adequate and demand good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs delivered in cartons to nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 67.78, medium whites 64.74, small whites 53.09.

NEW YORK (AP)— The stock market greeted the news of a tentative coal industry contract settlement with a broad rally in active trading today.

The 10:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 6.34 at 665.52, and gainers outnumbered losers by 3-to-2 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Late Wednesday negotiators reached an agreement on a new three-year contract. If members of the United Mine Workers ratify it, the coal strike that began Tuesday is expected to end within a couple of weeks.

Brokers said the response to that news in the market might have been more emphatic had it not been for negative news from another direction.

Just as trading was beginning, the government reported that wholesale prices surged at a 27.6 per cent annual rate in October after a much slimmer rise in September.

Investors had been braced for an unpleasant October figure, analysts noted, but it still apparently had some chilling psychological impact.

Among coal stocks, Pittston was up 1/4 at 36, North American Coal gained 3/4 to 26, and Eastern Gas & Fuel added 3/4 to 22%.

Kennecott Copper rose 1% to 38 3/4 on top of a 3 1/2-point gain Wednesday, when both the Tennessee Valley Authority and a group of private companies said they had made conditional offers to acquire Kennecott's Peabody Coal subsidiary.

Control Data was the Big Board volume leader, down 3/4 at 13. The stock has been under pressure for most of the week since the company said it looked as if inflation and high interest rates would continue putting pressure on its earnings in the current quarter.

At the American Stock Exchange, the most-active issue was Granite Management Services, up 1/4 at 1 1/4.

fall from my hand." Arafat told the assembly: "When we speak of our common hopes for the Palestine of tomorrow, we include in our perspective Jews now living in Palestine who choose to live with us there in peace and without discrimination. . . I am no terrorist. I believe a democratic state should exist on this land."

Israel's delegation boycotted Arafat's speech, while the Arabs, Chinese and Cubans walked out during Tekoah's reply. Tekoah said the PLO's members were "murderers who have come to the General Assembly certain that it would do their bidding."

"They have no place in international diplomatic efforts. Israel shall see to it that they have no place in them. Israel will pursue the PLO murderers until justice is meted out to them. It will continue to take action against their organization and against their bases until a definitive end is put to their atrocities." Arafat's speech was the first in the history of the assembly by someone who was not a representative of a recognized government. The assembly's Arab president, Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika, ordered the courtesies normally accorded only chiefs of state or prime ministers, including the U.N. chief of protocol to escort him to and from the rostrum and a chair there for him. About two-thirds of the delegations stood and applauded enthusiastically when Arafat entered the hall and after he finished speaking. The U.S. delegation, including Ambassador John A. Scali ad Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., sat quietly throughout.

NCNB Lowers Its Prime Rate

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina National Bank announced today that it was lowering its prime interest rate from 11 per cent to 10 1/2 per cent effective Monday. A spokesman for NCNB, North Carolina's second largest bank, said the action was taken following a decline in the demand for loans and in response to an action by the Federal Reserve Board earlier this week. On Wednesday, the Federal Reserve allowed banks to reduce the amount of money held in reserve.

Layoffs Made At Fieldcrest

Fieldcrest Mills here has joined several other Pitt industries in reducing employee staffs. Melvin Moore, general manager of the local plant, said that the company has shut down third shift operations and is now maintaining a two-shift work schedule. Moore reported that the layoff affected 38 plant employees. The general manager added that Fieldcrest considers the employee furloughs as temporary.

Rape Fears Have Eased

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina Central University says everything is back to normal after four weeks of fear following the reported rape of a coed. However, a moratorium has been declared on male visitation rights to coeds' dormitory rooms. The school has 4,000 students. The director of public relations, Alex Rivers, said some had left school since the rape was reported by a coed on Oct. 16. He said the campus had gone through a period of shock as students, university officials and police tried to lessen the fear.

"Immediately after the young lady reported that she had been raped, we got a report that a wave of rapes had occurred on the campus," Rivera said. "There was no such thing. We could find no other incidents at all. "Then they, we think they were students, circulated some notes that were placed in the girls' dormitories. We don't know whether they were placed by other girls playing pranks or by some fellows. "It created a hysteria among the young ladies."

Arrest Local Man On Armed Robbery Count

Samuel Joyner Jr., 28, of 200 Cadillac St. was arrested early this morning on charges of armed robbery in connection with a November 7 incident near R.B.'s Lounge on West Fifth St. Chief Glenn Cannon said Joyner allegedly robbed Denny Earl Mooring of Greenville of more than $100. Cannon said two other persons, Sheran Denise Brown and Leslie Satchell, both of Washington, D.C., were charged earlier this week with aiding and abetting in the robbery. Mooring said he and Robert Sidney Harris went with the women to the rear of the night spot where they were robbed of their money. Investigation of the incident is continuing.

Probation And Fine For Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor David Carradine was fined $250 and placed on one year's probation after the star of the television series "Kung Fu" entered a plea of no contest to misdemeanor charges of mischief and trespass. Municipal Court Judge Clarence A. Stromwall passed sentence Wednesday after Carradine entered the plea. The actor had been charged with breaking into a neighbor's Laurel Canyon home last Sept. 15 and smashing windows, rifling a bathroom medicine cabinet and overturning furniture. Michael Loehner, the owner of the home, told police he returned home and followed a trail of blood leading to Carradine's home nearby. Authorities said Carradine cut his right arm in smashing the windows.

committees which recommended the medical school be expanded to four-year program," Monroe said. ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins was out of town today and could not be reached for comment. The commission said that for the week ending November 9, there were 17,350 textile workers claiming unemployment insurance benefits, an increase of about 2,000 from the week before. The unemployment rate for the textile industry was 6.9 per cent. The commission said this was the highest level of unemployment in the textile industry since February, 1961, when the rate was 8.8 per cent. Only two months ago, the rate was 1.6 per cent.

GRIFTON—The Grifton Town Board Tuesday night endorsed the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District bond referendum scheduled for Dec. 10.

The CMSD project is being sponsored by the towns of Winterville, Ayden and Grifton as a joint effort to get new sewage facilities for the three areas. Police Chief Linwood Outlaw reported to the board that he is still concerned about large trucks double parking on Queen Street. He was instructed to issue citations to those drivers who continue to create safety hazards after being warned by the police department. Gene Coley, superintendent of utilities, reported that several repairs had been made throughout the town such as broken water line repairs, repairs on the garbage truck and that a retaining wall had been built to prevent erosion on a side street on old N.C. 11. Coley said the new leaf vacuum had been installed on the new garbage truck and that leaves would be picked up Tuesday and Friday afternoons and all day Wednesday.

Commissioner Catherine Condon was authorized to find a building to house the Health Clinic. Building inspector Ralph Thaxton told the board he had received a request from Joe Quinerly for the installation of a self-service gas station on his property. The recommendation was approved with the condition that the gasoline storage tanks be placed underground. The Department of Transportation recommended to the board that a 35 miles per hour speed limit be adopted for the area near the traffic light on Highland Avenue. The town was also asked to erect no parking signs on the south side of secondary road 1800 across from the Grifton Giants Clubhouse. Both requests were accepted by the board.

Mayor David Bosley announced a community development workshop will be held at Lenoir Community College Wednesday and Thursday. He asked that Grifton have representatives at the meeting.

Rampants Meet Defending State Champs

Moye's Punting, Play On Defense Paces Rose

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Two weeks ago, when Rose High School played Wilson High School for what proved to be the Division One championship, the Rampants were put into a punting situation.

Rose's Macon Moye dropped back to punt, got a bad snap, and saw a heavy rush on. "I knew I had to hurry," Moye said, thinking back to the kick. "I tried to kick it to the side and I just got it away." As a result of the hard rush, however, several Wilson players collided with Moye after the kick, and Rose was awarded a 15-yard penalty, good enough for a first down that kept the drive alive.

For Moye, a 6-3, 170-pound senior with the Rampants, it was an especially good moment. Twice earlier, bad snaps had resulted in his having kicks blocked, and against Goldsboro, one snapped over his head cost the Rampants a touchdown.

"Macon is not really playing where he's best," Rose Coach Dave Bumgarner said. "He's at safety, where he's doing a good job, but he'd probably be a better split end. But we are trying to play as many people as we can to keep people fresh." Moye has gotten in some time at the split end post, but has caught just one pass this year.

"He's a definite college prospect, and he's probably one of the best athletes in school," the coach continued. "There's not much he can't do. He's an exceptionally good punter, does a good job at safety and at split end when we play him there, and he's also good at basketball, baseball and golf."

Moye started his football career in the eighth grade at Aycock Junior High. He was put into the end position and played there for the next three years.

"They played me briefly at quarterback when I was on the junior varsity team, but they moved me back to end."

Moye missed his junior year of play, and he feels that this hurt him a little. "I didn't get a chance to practice and learn the plays, so I had to do it this year," he said.

Between the two positions, he prefers safety. "We just don't pass enough. I like the contact, and I enjoy being on the defense." He also enjoys the punting, despite the troubles he's had from time to time from the hard rush he sometimes gets.

But best of all, he likes to be able to pick off a pass and carry it back. Twice against Goldsboro, he intercepted, but his

For the second straight year, the Rose High School Rampants enter 4-A State Playoff competition Friday night, but the path isn't quite an easy one to tread.

Last year, the Rampants had to play Enloe, representative of one of the state's weaker 4-A conferences. They won there, then went on to bow to Wilmington's Hoggard High School in the second.

This time out, the Rampants drew the defending state champions, Sanford Central, which battled Hoggard tooth and nail for the Division III title. The two actually tied, each finishing with a 9-0-1 record. The tie came when they met, playing to a 7-7 tie.

And being in the state playoffs is no new affair for Sanford, even last year. They won the State 3-A title two years ago, before advancing to 4-A status.

The Rampants will be coming off a loss in their final game of the season, one which Coach Dave Bumgarner describes as a "nightmare."

"I really don't like to talk much about it," he said. "I guess we were just satisfied to get the playoff berth and were not ready to play Northeastern (which won 12-7). Northeastern was ready and the blame apparently meant something to them and nothing to us. We had several good opportunities to score, but didn't and I just don't know what happened."

Bumgarner did feel that the team had an overall letdown following the Wilson game. "We had poor practices all week before the Northeastern game. It was just an anti-climax to our season."

But this week, Bumgarner says things are different. "We've had good practices. There is a different attitude about the team and they are really working hard. One thing that is hurting us, however, is the early sunset. We can't practice as long as we'd like to."

Bumgarner feels the Rampants are going up against a very aggressive team in Sanford. "They've been this route before and they know what it's like. They've done a lot of good things in their program that have helped them along the way."

But Rose plans nothing new for the game. "We're going to do the same basic things we've been doing—going up the middle and around the outside. We've been successful so far, and I see no reason to change."

There are a number of basic differences between the two teams. Sanford is a high scoring team, averaging 32.3 points a game. Rose has averaged 18.1 per contest. At the same time, Sanford has allowed only 5.9 per game, while Rose has given up 11.7.

Of the 59 points scored against them, Sanford's first defensive unit allowed only 20-13 in the final game against Richmond County, and seven against Hoggard.

The team leader is P.J. Gay, son of Coach Paul Gay, who handles the quarterbacking duties. He's credited with 19 touchdowns responsible for—rushing for 10 and passing for nine. He's picked up 317 yards rushing, and has hit on 33 of 76 passes for 579 more yards out of the power-I offense.

The leading rusher is tailback Mitchell Stricklans, who has carried for 1,018 yards in 126 carries, an 8.1 yard average. He's scored 12 touchdowns.

However, Crainza McKoy, the starting fullback, and one of the best blockers on the team was injured last Friday against Richmond County, and will not see action in the game. Sherman Baker, who has been in only a little action will fill in for him.

Another ball carrier is wingback Morty Austin, who has scored three touchdowns, and picked up 212 yards in 20 carries. The leading receiver is Jim Atkinson, who has caught six touchdown passes in seven games.

Defensively, the Sanford team runs out of a 5-4 lineup, but will shift to a 4-4 at times. McKoy's injury will also hurt the defense, since he was a linebacker. Another starter, defensive tackle Anthony Williams, was injured in an automobile accident Friday and will also miss the game.

Other top defensive players include linebacker Greg Robinson, Atkinson at the corner, Gay at halfback, and Scott Mottler at tackle.

The team does have five or six who go both ways, but the coaching staff rests them as often as possible.

Oddly enough, Greenville is the only team that has even beaten Coach Gay in a playoff situation. He holds a 16-1-1 record in post-season competition.

Rose will counter of course with its wishbone offense, using the power running of Doug Paschal, 924 yards in nine games; and the outside speed of Lindberg Morris, 813 yards, and Andrew Newton, 538 yards.

The game is set for 8 p.m. in Sanford. The winner will advance into the second round of the playoffs, while the losers pack up its equipment until next fall.

WFL Set For Playoffs

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The World Football League has finally settled its playoff picture — everyone made it but Shreveport.

The fledgling league's first campaign, begun last summer with 12 franchises and high hopes, struggled to its conclusion tonight with nine more or less active clubs, rising debts and sinking credibility.

Florida visits Southern California in the nationally-televised regular-season finale. Both teams have already clinched playoff berths, an honor they would likely exchange for some money, a much more elusive commodity.

Florida players haven't seen any paychecks in 11 weeks, but a new set of owners is allegedly bringing in fresh money via a Swiss bank. Southern California players got their last paychecks about a week late and some front-office personnel still haven't seen theirs. The team is hoping to get new financial backing by game time. Charlotte meets Florida, Birmingham plays Philadelphia, Southern Cal takes on Hawaii and Portland goes against Memphis in the first round of the playoffs. The league is supposed to disclose the when and where of the games today. There were three games played Wednesday night. Birmingham rolled over Shreveport 40-7, Memphis got by Charlotte 28-22 and the Hawaiians blanked Portland 23-0. The Americans had a much easier time with Shreveport than they did earlier in the day in Jefferson County Circuit Court. The state of Alabama, claiming Birmingham owes more than $100,000 in taxes to state, city and county governments, obtained a lien against the club's property, including gate receipts, until the taxes are paid.

The team didn't seem to mind, though, romping to its 15th victory in 20 outings. Linebacker Warren Capone ran 29 yards with an intercepted pass for one touchdown and blocked a punt and recovered a fumble to set up two others. Jimmy Edwards ran for one score and caught passes from George Mira and Matt Reed for two more.

At Memphis, where the crowd was announced at 13,399, the Southmen wound up with a 17-3 record — tops in the WFL. Danny White threw touchdown passes of seven and 27 yards to Ed Marshall and J.J. Jennings rushed for 99 yards for Memphis.

In Honolulu, the Hawaiians erupted in the second half to whip paycheck-plagued Portland. The Storm, 7-12-1, didn't even stay around for the final gun.

The Portland players, who got their first paychecks in several weeks Tuesday, stalked off the field with two seconds left when the Hawaiians, 9-11, scored a late touchdown. The Hawaiians' first touchdown came in the third period when quarterback Randy Johnson connected with John Isenberger on a 12-yard pass play. Reserve running back Clayton Heath added a 24-yard touchdown run in the fourth quarter, and then reserve quarterback Norris Weese threw a 20-yard touchdown pass late in the game to Grady Richardson. The game, played in the rain, drew an announced crowd of 14,245.

Television Is Football Bonus

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The magic eye of television has made football a big-time business on the college campuses of America.

Penn State University, for example, will earn more than $1.1 million this season from four football games — two regionally telecast games worth $180,000 each, a Thanksgiving night game against the University of Pittsburgh in Three Rivers Stadium that will pay $244,000 and a Jan. 1 Cotton Bowl date worth more than $500,000.

The Thanksgiving night game against Pitt was originally scheduled on the following Saturday at Pitt Stadium. By switching sites and allowing television to tune in, both schools will clear more than $200,000 in profits, considerably more than they could have expected to earn at Pitt Stadium.

The key word here is television. Pitt and Penn State will be providing perhaps three hours of prime-time entertainment and, at today's rates, the half-million dollars or so that go to the two schools is a reasonable price for filling that much network time.

"We figure about $200,000 per hour to produce a regular filmed show," said one television executive. "That would include rerun rights which are not applicable to football."

Television, of course, will also be looking in on New Year's Day when the college football season concludes with the major bowl games. And the teams participating in those extravanzas will also be taking home healthy-sized paychecks. Just how much is in those checks depends mostly on whether the teams come from conferences or are independents.

Conference teams must share their bowl spoils with their sister schools. For example, the University of Texas earned $475,092.61 as its share of the Cotton Bowl last year. The school kept $100,000 and then divided the remainder among the eight Southwest Conference schools. That meant that each SWC school, Texas included, received about $45,600 for the Longhorns' Bowl appearance.

As the number of schools in a conference increases, the bowl take for the conference representative goes down. The Rose Bowl's net revenue of about $2.5 million is divided evenly between the Pacific Eight and Big Ten Conference representatives. Thus each Pac-8 team gets about $150,000 annually while the Big Ten, dividing the same income among more schools, realizes about $125,000 a team.

Independent schools do better financially. The 1975 Orange Bowl, for example, matches Alabama and Notre Dame. The game is a sellout and each school will receive about $600,000. Notre Dame keeps all of its income while Alabama must divide it among other members of the Southeastern Conference. The same thing happened when the same schools met in last year's Sugar Bowl. That paid $452,000 a team.

Indians Top Offensive Team

William & Mary, East Carolina University's opponent this Saturday afternoon, has taken over the lead in the total offense department in the Southern Conference.

The Indians moved past Furman last weekend, despite their 34-15 loss to Virginia Tech. They are now averaging 328.8 yards per game.

Furman, last week's leader, dropped to second at 326.0, while The Citadel is third at 323.1. East Carolina ranks fourth at 314.7, and Richmond is averaging 300.1. The remaining three teams have less than 300 yards a game.

Furman, however, continues to lead the overall defensive statistics. The Paladins are allowing 249.3 yards a game. Following them is Appalachian State at 272.7, and East Carolina at 281.8. No other team is allowing less than 300 yards a game, and William & Mary ranks seventh in the league, allowing 367.7 per contest.

The Pirates of East Carolina remained as the leaders both in rushing offense and defense. With the ball the Bucs are picking up 288.9 yards a game. William & Mary is second with a 242.1 mark, followed by Furman at 240.6, and The Citadel at 213.7. They are the only teams rushing for 200 or more yards.

Defensively, the Pirates are allowing only 165.9 yards per game. Furman is second at 176.0, and Appalachian third at 198.4. William & Mary stands fifth against the rush, giving up 251.3 per game.

Richmond continues to lead in passing offense, with 161.8 yards a game. Davidson is second at 130.9, and The Citadel third at 109.4. William & Mary is fifth at 86.7, while the Pirates are dead last at 25.8.

Defensively against the pass, Furman still leads with a 73.3 yard average allowed. Appalachian is second at 74.3, followed by Richmond at 83.8 and The Citadel at 93.6. East Carolina stands sixth at 115.9, and William & Mary seventh at 125.3.

The Pirates are still the scoring leaders in the league, averaging 24.0 points per game. No other team is averaging over 20. Richmond is second at 19.9, with ASU third at 19.0. William & Mary is fifth at 16.3.

Defensively, Furman moved past the Pirates into first against the score. They are allowing 14.0 a game, while the Bucs are giving up 16.0, and ASU, 16.3. VMI is fourth at 17.6, while William & Mary is sixth, giving up 25.1 points a game.

In the individual race for conference honors, Indian quarterback Bill Deery is the leader in total offense, averaging 175.6 yards a game. Harry Knight is picking up 153.5 for Richmond, while Andrew Johnson of The Citadel is third at 127.4.

Mike Weaver of East Carolina moved from ninth to eighth in total offense with an 80.2 mark.

Johnson is still the league's top rusher, with 1,117 yards, leaving him within 200 yards of Carlester Crumpler's season record of 1,309. He needs to average 96.5 yards a game for the two remaining, against Furman and Davidson to snap Crumpler's mark. Johnson is averaging 124.1 per game and is the only rusher over 100 per game. Deery is second at 90.7. Don Schink of East Carolina held to sixth with a 63.6 average, while Ken Strayhorn dropped one spot, to eighth at 58.0. W & M's John, Gerdelman is seventh at 58.7.

Knight continues as the passing leader, completing 11.9 per game. Deery is third with 6.3 per game.

Gary Pomeroy of Davidson is the pass receiving leader with 5.6 catches a game. Joe Parker of Appalachian continues to top the punters with 44.5 per kick, while Gill Job of ECU is second at 39.1, but he hasn't kicked in three games.

Devon Ford of ASU paces the punt returners with a 16.5 mark, while W & M's Dick Pawlewicz is the kickoff return leader at 30.0 per return.

Richmond's George Crossman is the scoring leader with 5.3 points a game, while Schink and Strayhorn are tied for second with 4.9 per contest.

Curtis Boyd of Furman is the top interceptor with five in nine games.

Bucks Are Struggling With Jabbar Absent

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

When Kareem Abdul-Jabbar joined the Milwaukee Bucks, he turned them from an also-ran to National Basketball Association champions.

Now, with the 7-foot-2 center injured on the sidelines, the Bucks are struggling with a 1-12 record, the same as the expansionist New Orleans Jazz.

Their latest defeat, a team record 10th in a row, was engineered by the Bob Lanier-led Detroit Pistons 98-91.

In other NBA games Wednesday, Washington defeated Kansas City-Omaha 118-81, Phoenix clipped Philadelphia 105-100 and Seattle stopped Los Angeles 108-103.

Lanier, operating without having to worry about the defensive skills of Abdul-Jabbar, fired in 40 points and hauled down 24 rebounds as the Pistons snapped a two-game losing streak.

"We gave it everything we had tonight, but we just couldn't handle Lanier," Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello said. "He killed us."

Even with Abdul-Jabbar missing from the Milwaukee lineup, Detroit didn't have an easy time winning. The tenacious Bucks tied the score at 76-76 at the end of the third period, but the Pistons outscored Milwaukee 22-15 down the stretch.

"I don't know how long yet" Abdul-Jabbar will be out, Costello said. "I can't even see him coming back soon."

"If we knew we weren't going to have Jabbar, we would have dealt for a first class center and not tried to use forwards for center."

Detroit Coach Ray Scott said reserve J.D. Davis "made the difference tonight. With (Curtis) Rowe sick, I'm forced to play Bob Lanier 48 minutes. But J.D. has been able to come in and help Bob."

Davis scored only nine points, but helped out defensively and on the boards. Dave Bing added 20 points for the Pistons. Milwaukee was led by Bob Dandridge, who scored 28 points, and George Thompson with 18.

Washington, with Phil Chenier pumping in 25 points, overwhelmed Kansas City-Omaha on both ends of the court. The Bullets limited the Kings to just 35 points in the first half and built up an 88-58 lead going into the final quarter.

Nate Archibald led the Kings with 16 points while Elvin Hayes scored 21 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked six shots for the Bullets.

Charlie Scott continued his torrid scoring pace, pouring in 41 points to pace Phoenix to victory. Scott entered the game as the NBA's fifth leading scorer with a 25.3 points per game average. High for Philadelphia was Doug Collins with 20.

Seattle used an 8-2 spurt to break a 92-92 tie and defeat Los Angeles. Spencer Haywood, Archie Clark and Fred Brown scored 24, 23 and 21 points, respectively, for the Sonics while Pat Riley led the Lakers with 25.

Happy Owner Invades Locker

The Kentucky Colonels owner was so excited over the team's double-overtime victory that she just rushed right into the dressing room after the game. That's right — she.

"I told them, 'thank you, what else could I say,'" said Ellie Brown.

The Colonels, with their coach banished from the game in the first half, outlasted the defending American Basketball Association champion New York Nets 132-129 Wednesday night.

In other ABA games, St. Louis edged Memphis 97-92, Utah crushed Indiana 114-103 and Denver rolled over San Diego 132-108.

"You know, a lot of people left this game early," Mrs. Brown said. "I wonder what they'll think tomorrow morning when they read the newspaper."

Louie Dampier and Bird Averitt, two of the smallest players on the Colonels' squad, scored all 14 Kentucky points in the final overtime session. Dampier finished with 32 points while Averitt added 27. New York's Julius Erving led all scorers with 44 points, 36 coming after halftime.

Kentucky battled from behind throughout the close game, outscoring the Nets 29-26 in the final period to pull even at 107-107 at the end of regulation play. It was tied up at 118-all after one extra session before Dampier and Averitt went to work.

Marvelous Marvin Barnes had another one of his nights. The St. Louis rookie scored 31 points, grabbed 24 rebounds, handed out eight assists and blocked two shots.

Maryland, 6-3 and ranked No. 13, will play Duke in the Oyster Bowl in Norfolk.

Bucs Have No Bragging Point

By The Associated Press

Even though East Carolina still could salvage one-third of the championship, some of the school's supporters know "the Pirates have lost something special they have held for the past two years: the bragging rights to Southern Conference football."

East Carolina's two-year reign began to topple in a 23-21 upset Oct. 19 at Appalachian State that ended a 16-game winning streak in league play and it all but evaporated last Saturday in a 28-20 setback at the hands of Richmond's Spiders.

For the Pirates, now 2-2 in league play, to gain even one-third of the title, the following events must happen: —Richmond, 3-1, must defeat Appalachian State, 3-1, in the Mountaineers' final game Saturday at Richmond.

—William and Mary's Indians must beat Richmond Nov. 23 at Richmond.

—East Carolina must win Saturday at William and Mary and then defeat Virginia Military's league-leading Keydets, 4-1, Nov. 23 at Lexington.

"Football for the rest of the season has become a matter of pride," says East Carolina Coach Pat Dye.

"We still have a chance to tie, and we are not going to lay down and die. We lost against best chance at a score came against Northeastern. He pulled in one in that game and returned it 27 yards, nearly getting away for the score.

"I thought I might have a chance after I got a good block, but then I saw that a couple of them had an angle on me," Moye said. He was eventually run out of bounds near the 20.

Following Rose's participation in the 4-A playoffs, which he hopes will last for the next four weekends, Moye will join the Rampani basketball team, where he's set to occupy one of the double post positions. Then, come spring, he'll be moving from his position at third base last year to center field.

He also enjoys golf and tennis. "It doesn't leave much time for anything else, but I do enjoy woodworking," he added. Visitors to the Rose High office can see some of his handiwork. He's helped put together a large set of drawers in a big desk-counter for use by the staff of the school. "I've also made several coffee tables and a lot of Christmas presents." Macon is also a member of the Key Club and the Monogram Club.

Following this year, he's got hopes of college and more playing time. "I'm not sure which sport I'd like to participate in," he said. "I've had a few letters from some of the schools in the state, but nothing definite."

As for post-collegiate plans, Moye is unsure. "Of course, I'd like to think about playing some sort of pro ball, but if that doesn't work out, I'd like to coach."

There's still a lot of sports left for Moye at Rose — how much football will depend on how long the team stays in the playoffs. "Then, it'll be back to basketball," he said.

WINTER DEMO DERBY—Traffic was snarled on bridges and overpasses throughout Muskegon County in Michigan yesterday as a light snow formed an icy trap for unwary drivers. At least 15 cars were involved in this overpass pileup near downtown Muskegon. Several drivers were slightly hurt. (AP Wirephoto)

Protest Ford's Visit To Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Extremists apparently protesting President Ford's visit to Japan and the Soviet Union hurled fire bombs at the American and Soviet embassies in Tokyo today and fought with police guards.

Damage was slight, but the police said three or four of their men were injured. The radicals were reported armed with steel pipes as well as beer bottles filled with gasoline.

The police said their initial investigation indicated the attacks were carried out by ultra-leftist student factions.

Eyewitnesses said two men hurled eight to 10 fire bombs at the U.S. Embassy compound from the roof of a 30-story hotel but most of them fizzled when they hit the street and a parking lot. Meanwhile, five other young men tried to charge into the compound and were arrested after a clash with the embassy's police guard.

About two hours later, a sound truck for a right-wing group drove by the Embassy with an American flag and a sign saying: "Welcome U.S.A. President Ford."

Meanwhile, three young men got into the Soviet Embassy compound and threw three fire bombs. Several window panes were broken, and the three men were arrested.

A group of 250 Americans living in Japan said in a letter to President Ford that they were appalled by his plan to visit South Korea en route to his meeting in Vladivostok with Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The letter, which was delivered to U.S. Ambassador James D. Hodgson, said Ford's visit to President Chung Hee Park "expresses support for a regime that denies its citizens all elementary human and political rights."

Ford is scheduled to visit South Korea Nov. 22-23.

Banks Signaled To Ease Credit

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board is signaling banks to pump $750 million into the slumping economy, meaning more money for holiday buying at department stores, automobile showrooms and elsewhere.

It was a traditional holiday move by the central bank to satisfy the seasonal demand for spending money. Whether it was another indication of a gradual shift from an anti-inflation to an anti-recession stance won't be known until early next year.

If shoppers take advantage of the new money, probably made available in the form of easier credit, the result could be fewer layoffs, more spending money for people like store clerks and auto workers and, eventually, an economy with more strength to fight off the recession which even the administration now sees coming.

This year's holiday money inflation took a form which buttresses earlier indications that the federal reserve is relaxing its grip on the money supply which fuels the economy.

Usually the Fed provides the extra holiday money by buying government securities, thereby putting more cash into the hands of the banks and others who owned the securities. After the holiday season, the Fed usually sops up that extra money by selling the securities back to the banks.

The purchase and sale of securities is the Fed's method for fine-tuning the money supply. But this time it adjusted a more basic, little-used device: regulations which specify how much money banks must keep on hand to back up their deposits.

Sees Profit In Manure For Power

By DENNIS KOIS
Associated Press Writer
NEENAH, Wis. (AP) — It looks, smells and feels like horse manure. It is horse manure.

But Donald Brockman says that when he gets through with it, it will be money in the bank.

Brockman is owner-operator of a stable where he boards and trains more than 100 horses, which produce about 100 cubic feet of manure per day.

He estimates that for a $10,000 investment in time and equipment, plus that much manure, he can produce enough methane gas to heat his home, a barn, four large stables, an office and an indoor riding arena as well as power generators for adequate electricity.

That alone could save him more than $5,000 a year in utility bills. But there's more.

He expects the waste digester plant he is installing on his land to turn out carbon for fertilizer and a residue slurry Brockman plans to use for five trout ponds.

"I think it's going to be a profit maker," Brockman said.

The carbon and slurry are byproducts of the methane-producing process, but they may be even more of a money maker than the odorless, nontoxic and clean-burning fuel.

Brockman, 48, said he will mix the carbon with lime and sell it as fertilizer to farmers. And he plans to raise 250,000 trout fingerlings for sale to restaurants and stores.

He says the fish will grow 11 inches in a year by feeding on the warm, protein-rich slurry.

"I think it would be fabulous for any farmer," Brockman said. "They could put this slurry right back on their fields and get crops like they never dreamed of."

Pledges Environmental Safety In Oil-Drilling

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has told coastal governors that the drive to expand offshore oil drilling will not jeopardize the environment.

Ford made the pledge Wednesday as he and administration officials briefed the governors on plans to lease drilling rights in the Atlantic and Gulf of Alaska for the first time.

"If our studies show that the development cannot occur in a particular area without acceptable risk, then we will not hold a lease sale," said Ford as he opened a two-hour session with the governors.

But Ford said he believed offshore oil and gas deposits "can provide the largest single source of increased domestic energy during the years when we need it most."

coast and 3 million more acres off the coasts of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Most of the nation's offshore drilling now is concentrated off Louisiana's coast.

New Jersey Gov. Brendan Byrne, a leader in the fight against offshore drilling, said after the meeting that he still feared the administration would not give full weight to environmental damage inflicted on Atlantic states by offshore drilling.

"I think the amount of oil coming from the outer continental shelf has got to be weighed against environmental impact," said Byrne. "If the impact from X barrels of oil means we destroy a $2 billion tourist industry in New Jersey, I don't think it is worth it," he said.

But Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards said the nation urgently needs to exploit fully its offshore oil resources. "It is no longer a question of whether it is good or desirable — it is an absolute necessity," said Edwards.

Over-Use Of Fertilizer

RALEIGH (AP)—The average North Carolina tobacco grower is using about 50 per cent more of some types of fertilizer than he needs.

This was shown in 5,000 research tests, according to A.L. Hatfield, chief agronomist with the soil testing section of the state Department of Agriculture.

Hatfield said in an interview Wednesday 14 out of 20 farmers could have produced the same or better yields by sharply reducing the amount of phosphate used.

He said common fertilizer use consists of about twice as much phosphate and about 30 per cent more potash than is needed, and "about the right amount of nitrogen."

Hatfield said many growers seem to think that if a little fertilizer "does a lot of good, a whole lot will do better."

Local Musicians At Ass'n Meeting

Nineteen young musicians from Greenville will be in Winston-Salem Sunday to perform before the convention North Carolina Unit of the American String Teachers Association (ASTA) that begins Sunday and continues through Tuesday.

The musicians, all string students from Greenville City Schools with the exception of a bass player from East Carolina University, students of violin, viola and cello, are members of the East Carolina University - Greenville Youth Orchestra.

As a special highlight event at the convention, the 20 students will perform the Brandenburg Concerto No. 5 by Bach.

The performance will be conducted by ECU faculty member Dr. Rodney Schmidt, who is also State President of the ASTA. Featured soloists will be Dr. Charles Bath, pianist, ECU School of Music, Chairman of the Keyboard Division; Joanne Bath, violinist; and Ann Searl, flute. All are from Greenville.

The student musicians to perform in Winston-Salem Sunday are: Pamela Bath, Margot Schaal, Nam Ji Kim, Del Hunt, Serena Matney, Jim Kittrell and David Sowell, all Rose High; Chris Tardif, Elizabeth Hackett, Dan Nelson, Jennifer O'Neal, all Aycock Junior High; Patricia Bath, Rosemary Nelson, both Agnes Fullilove; Hih Song Kim, Jeri Walter, Billy Kittrell, and Heather O'Neal, South Greenville Holly Rodgers, Elmhurst; and Mike Smith, East Carolina University.

The East Carolina University - Greenville Youth Orchestra receives continued support from the noted North Carolina philanthropist, A. J. Fletcher of Raleigh, for whom the music building on campus at ECU is named.

REAL Members At Workshop

Newly elected Executive Board members, program consultants, and staff of Real Crisis Intervention Inc. will participate in a two-day training workshop here Friday and Saturday.

The workshop on "How Executive Board Can Best Assist Crisis Centers in Meeting Community Needs" will be conducted by Tony Mulvahill and his staff of United Health Services in Durham.

REAL's volunteers and staff recently have completed a special 10-week course in community resources conducted through Pitt Technical Institute and they will begin a second course in crisis intervention technique in January.

Dr. Ira Hardy Chairman For Alumni Drive

CHAPEL HILL — Dr. Ira M. Hardy II of Greenville has been named advance gifts district chairman for the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill's Alumni Annual Giving (AAG) campaign for 1974-75.

Dr. Hardy will direct the AAG advance gifts effort in a 19-county area which includes the key towns of Ahoskie, Edenton, Elizabeth City, Greenville, Rocky Mount, Roanoke Rapids, Tarboro and Washington.

Hardy is a 1959 graduate of the university.

Last year, UNC alumni contributed $343,879.98 to AAG, the university's only unrestricted gift campaign.

AAG funds are chiefly allocated to campus programs not provided for by state appropriations.

Rocky Promises To Curb Gifts

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller has reluctantly promised to make no gift to any federal employe if Congress confirms him as vice president.

"I think, Senator, it's going to be necessary that I do that," Rockefeller told Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Wednesday after a hearing in which he was told repeatedly that his motives in making large cash gifts to public officials were open to serious question.

The former New York governor earlier said he did not want to foreclose the possibility that his money could be of help to any staff member or friend in government who faced dire medical expenses or other pressing humanitarian needs.

Rockefeller and more than a dozen other witnesses face further questioning today and Friday about the ways he has used the Rockefeller fortune and about his family's financing of a campaign biography.

Despite the questions, assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said at the close of Wednesday's hearings that Rockefeller likely will be confirmed by Congress, barring any new and more damaging disclosures.

Byrd, a key member of the Senate Rules Committee and one of Rockefeller's toughest questioners, said he will vote for the nomination as of now. But he said he would do so with some reservations.

"Nothing has been said here to warrant an adverse finding against you," Rockefeller was told by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, one of his leading backers.

In another development, it was disclosed that a study by the congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation places Rockefeller's estimated net worth at about $73 million, $11 million more than the value he placed on his personal holdings seven weeks ago.

Rockefeller said the higher figure was based on arbitrary judgments by committee experts about the present worth of his real estate holdings and large art collection, and said he questioned the estimate's accuracy.

Rockefeller acknowledged for the first time that he initiated the financing of a paperback book aimed against former Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, his 1970 Democratic opponent for governor.

He reacted angrily when

Byrd said he was reminded of the Watergate scandal by the "piecemeal" and fragmented fashion in which Rockefeller supplied the facts behind the book and the "devious" means by which the money for the Goldberg book was transmitted to the publishers.

Rockefeller blamed is own "sketchy" memory for the fact he had first denied all involvement with the book and later dictated a press release which did not mention the fact he had asked his brother Laurance to pay for the $60,000 paperback book by author Victor Lasky.

Accepting full responsibility for the incident, Rockefeller said his involvement was a mistake uncharacteristic of the traditions of his family.

"I'm not trying to hide, cover up or excuse," he said.

Will Smoke Out Fake ID-Users

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is launching a year-long effort to smoke out thousands of crooks hiding behind false identification papers.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe was to announce the project at a meeting today of about 60 government officials and private citizens. He has appointed them to a committee to determine the scope of the problem and develop recommendations for federal, state and local governments.

Saxbe has called the use of fake identification papers a substantial and growing problem contributing significantly to the nation's rising crime rate.

Justice Department officials say all sorts of crooks avoid detection and often perpetrate lucrative frauds through the use of false birth certificates, driver's licenses, passports, credit cards and other identifying papers.

Those documents have become relatively easy to obtain, the officials believe.

The scheme typically begins at a state or local bureau of vital statistics, said David Muchow, the department attorney who has coordinated the committee's formation.

"The individual starts by obtaining someone else's birth certificate, and he uses that to get a driver's license, Social Security card and other identification," he said in an interview.

The schemer usually tries to get the birth certificate of a dead person, making it easier to get the other papers and carry out transactions in that name. By impersonating a living individual, the schemer would risk being discovered when his own transactions crossed the path of the individual being impersonated.

Getting the birth certificate is fairly easy because few if any state and local record-keepers match death notices with birth records, Muchow said.

Textbooks Law Urged

RALEIGH (AP)—A study committee wants North Carolina to adopt a portion of a Florida law that forbids schools from using materials that show race or sex bias.

This was recommended Wednesday by the Ad Hoc Committee for the Improvement of the North Carolina Textbook process. The group is seeking to reform the textbook selection process in the state.

Several other recommendations were adopted for presentation to a group of legislators studying the work of the State Textbook Commission.

The committee said citizens should be made more aware of how textbooks are selected.

It recommended that all textbooks should be evaluated for their effectiveness one year after adoption.

Other recommendations include:

—Laymen should be included on textbook selection committees.

—The state should adopt guidelines for the selection of texts by local officials.

John Hawes, co-chairman of the committee and executive director of the Learning Institute of North Carolina, said some of the recommendations might require new laws.

Reviewing Draft Evasion Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is reviewing about 6,200 pending draft evasion cases and Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe has ordered that those which lack merit be dismissed.

Saxbe's order on Wednesday changed the department's policy of reviewing a case only after the alleged draft evader requested it.

"These instructions are in furtherance of the spirit of President Ford's clemency program," Saxbe said.

Features Of Tentative Coal Contract Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the highlights of the tentative three-year coal contract proposed Wednesday night by industry and union negotiators.

WAGES — Miners would receive wage hikes of 9 per cent the first year and 3 per cent in each of the next two years. They would also receive, for the first time, quarterly cost-of-living raises pegged to increases in the government's consumer price index, up to 8 per cent a year.

At current inflation rates, miners would be earning $57.28 to $65.66 a day after three years, compared to the current wages of $42 to $50 a day. Also, miners would receive an $80 one-time "inflation catch-up" bonus.

SICK LEAVE — Miners would receive five days sick leave. Currently there is no sick pay provision.

PENSIONS — Royalties paid by the industry into the miners' pension fund would be nearly doubled, adding $900 million to the fund over the contract period. Pensions for retired miners would be raised from the current $150 a month to $250 a month at the end of this period.

VACATIONS — A graduated vacation would start at the seventh year, with an additional day over two weeks' vacation for each succeeding year up to 13 additional days at the 19th year. The extra vacation days now begin at the 10th year.

HOLIDAYS — There would be an additional holiday before Christmas in honor of Joseph A. Yablonski, the slain insurgent union leader.

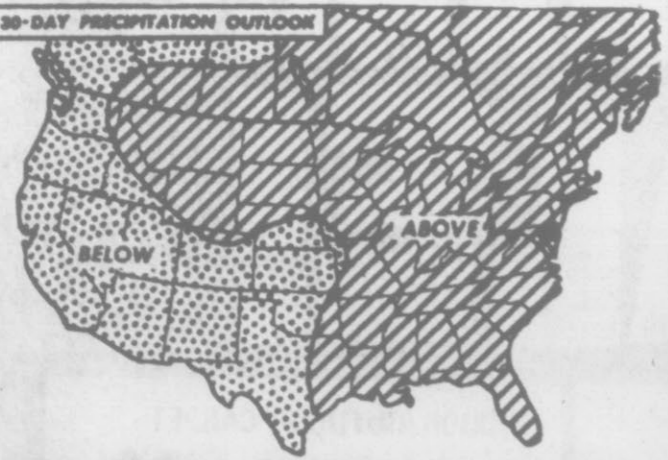

SAFETY — There would be guaranteed access to mines by UMW safety officials and individual miners would have the right to withdraw from unsafe work places. The company would pay for safety training for union safety committeemen and for a full inspection of the mine four times a year.

HEALTH AND DEATH BENEFITS — There would be sickness and accident protection providing $100 per week up to 52 weeks, depending on years of service. Any miner disabled in a mine accident, from his first day of employment on, would receive a minimum pension of $125 a month.

The widow of any miner killed in a mine accident would receive a $10,000 immediate payment, in addition to regular death benefits. These benefits, for widows of working and retired miners, would also be increased substantially.

JOB RIGHTS — There would be additional employees on coal face equipment in underground mines and on shovels and draglines in strip mining operations. There would be a new grievance procedure. Senior employe would receive preference for training opportunities.

Army's My Lai Report Aired

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army's own investigation of the

My Lai massacre of possibly 347 Vietnamese civilians concludes it resulted primarily from orders given by some task force officers.

The "Peers Report" released Wednesday says that no orders were given to kill everyone in My Lai but that some of the GIs involved thought that had been implicit in orders they were given.

Briefings by Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, commander of the task force, and Capt. Ernest L. Medina exaggerated intelligence reports that My Lai was an armed Viet Cong stronghold and that any one there would be the enemy, the report says.

The report said Medina's orders to the platoons that committed the atrocities "left little or no doubt in the minds of a significant number of men in his company that all persons remaining in the My Lai area at the time of the combat assault were enemy and that Company's mission was to destroy the enemy," the report said.

Col. Barker's orders to his commanders "created the potential for grave misunderstandings as to his intentions and for interpretation of his orders as authority to fire, without restriction, on all persons found in the target area."

The report says part of the cover-up of the massacre was the failure of the commander, Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, to send any word of the incident to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, then U.S. commander in Vietnam who later became Army chief of staff.

The report says some of the cover-up "continues to this day" with six officers refusing to talk and with others giving false testimony and key documents still missing. Because of this, it "has not been possible to sort out acts of concealment" that were initiated by the task force and those initiated by officers at higher levels.

However, the cover-up went no higher than Koster, according to the report.

The report estimates that 347 My Lai residents were killed in three hours on the morning of March 16, 1968, by members of three platoons, not just the one led by Lt. William Calley.

It says crimes committed by GIs "included individual and group acts of murder, rape, sodomy, maiming and assault on noncombatants and the mistreatment and killing of detainees."

The atrocities included an old man bayoneted to death, a man pushed down a well with a live hand grenade thrown after him and a young girl gang-raped, the report said.

The two-volume report was released Wednesday by Army Secretary Howard W. Callaway who called the massacre "a dark chapter in the Army's history" but said he does not think it could happen again.

He said the Army has a new esprit de corps and attitude and that the kind of officers training now "is different than it was then."

The secretary also said the Army has no plans for any further action against Calley, the only man jailed in connection with either the massacre or cover-up.

"This case is closed as far as I'm concerned," Callaway said.

The report is named for Lt. Gen. William R. Peers who headed a special Army inquiry into the massacre and cover-up.

Pet Starling Is A Talker

ZEBULON, N.C. (AP)—There are thousands of barn starlings in North Carolina, but not one like Joey. He's a rare bird.

He can talk, sneeze, crow like a rooster and whistle several tunes, such as "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

Joey belongs to Mary Jean Jones of Zebulon and has a vocabulary of between 30 and 40 words. Mrs. Jones' son, Bill, found him in a nest with four other baby birds four and a half years ago. He gave him to Mrs. Jones as a Mother's Day gift.

When Joey was four months old Mrs. Jones began working with him and taught him to wolf whistle. She said, "I figured if he could learn to wolf whistle he could learn to talk."

William Hammett, ornithologist with the North Carolina Museum of Natural History, said he had never heard of a starling that talked. But, he added, the starling is related to the mynah bird which mimics the human voice.

Joey has picked up expressions like "What time is it?" and "Hi, precious" from conversations around the house.

But Mrs. Jones doesn't know where he learned some others like "Wowie, baby."

Diplomat To Be N.C. Speaker At Annual Event

The Hon. Ivor Richard, barrister-at-law, former member of Parliament, and now permanent representative of the United Kingdom at the United Nations, will be the speaker for the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association annual dinner meeting at 6 p.m. Friday, at the Sir Walter Hotel.

The dinner, to be followed by presentation of awards, is one of the highlights of the 74th annual meeting of the Association's day-long activities. The title of Richard's address is "British View of the American Colonies on the Eve of Revolution."

Following his address, Olivia B. Burwell, Greensboro, will present the coveted Sir Walter Raleigh award for 1974.

The day's activities will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the annual business meeting, climaxed by the presentation of the American Association of University Women Award to be presented are the Roanoke-Chowan Poetry Award by Hargus Taylor of Murfreesboro, and the American Association for State and Local History Awards by Dr. H. G. Jones, Chapel Hill.

Will Push A&T Fight For Veterinary School

GREENSBORO (AP)—Two black spokesmen have urged the University of North Carolina Board of Governors to locate a proposed veterinary school at North Carolina A&T State University.

A&T Chancellor Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy said Wednesday a consultants' report recommending the school be built at North Carolina State University "did not give A&T credit for many of its facilities."

"This was a subcommittee report, and we are going to fight for the new school because we believe we are right," Dowdy declared.

Lawrence Cooper, chairman of the North Carolina Alumni and Friends Coalition, made his plea for A&T State in a telegram to William Dees, chairman of the board of governors. "The intent of the state's desegregation plan for higher education was clear," said Cooper. "It was not to destroy the black institutions, but to enhance them so that students would choose a college other than on the basis of race."

Dowdy said the subcommittee report "does not give credit for many facilities and other supporting evidence which would chance the score awarded A&T substantially."

"If the present procedure is used in the future for the location of new educational programs within the 16 institutions of the University of North Carolina, a good case can be made for locating all new programs at the large university campuses which offer the Ph.D. degree," he said.

"These institutions will have more library books, more equipment, more buildings and essentially more everything. Therefore, other units of the system will not stand a chance," Dowdy contended.

"The state has a golden opportunity to make a giant step toward greater desegregation of higher education by locating the school of veterinary medicine at A&T State University, because this move would attract more white faculty and students."

Cooper, a graduate of North Carolina Central University, said, "The argument to place the veterinary school at North Carolina State in Raleigh simply because of its many resources perpetuates the racist attitudes of the past."

Plays Grain Exporters For Failing To Pledge

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
ROME, Italy (AP) — International food officials blasted the United States and other grain exporters for failing to pledge millions of tons of grain to ward off starvation in south Asia and Africa.

"We're still not at the point where they are willing to sacrifice national interests for international reasons," a top official at the World Food Conference said Wednesday.

Addeke H. Boerma, head of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization, proposed last week that the United States, Canada, Australia, the Soviet Union, Argentina, the European Common Market nations and China take 8 million to 12 million tons of grain off the commercial market in the next eight months to supply Asian and African nations that can't afford to buy it.

That amount of grain would be worth $1.6 billion to $2.4 billion. Most of it would go to India, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka and the sub-Saharan region of Africa.

Boerma met again Wednesday with representatives of the United States, China, Canada, Australia, Argentina, Japan and India but failed to get the promises he sought. The FAO chief was reported angry and said he would call a meeting of exporting and importing nations on Nov. 29 to review "the supply gap of the most seriously affected nations."

Officials of the World Food Conference said there was no hope that a plan for emergency action could be agreed on before the conference ends Saturday.

Canada pledged at the start of the conference to increase its shipment of grain to the needy nations one million tons a year for the next three years. But that only restores the amount diverted to more affluent customers when prices on the world market soared following the 1972 droughts.

U.S. sources said their delegation had not responded because it had not been determined how much grain was really needed and who would pay for it.

American economist Lester

Brown, an adviser to the conference, said earlier this week that the United States had been asked to provide the bulk of the grain, perhaps as much as 4 million tons.

But Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, the chief of the American delegation, and the Ford administration are opposed to any large-scale diversion from the commercial market unless they can get the Arab oil nations to help pay for it.

The Worry Clinic Acidity Poses Baby-Barrier

Howard and his wife have had 2 babies (both boys) within the past 2 years, by following the "Horse Sense" medical suggestion below. If a couple are anatomically "normal," this strategy often gives them offspring!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE B-692: Howard T., aged

26, is a math teacher. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I've been married 3 years to a wonderful girl. "And we've been ideally happy except for one thing. "She can't get pregnant, though she seems to be organically O.K. "So I was tested and found to be normal, also, yet 3 years have passed without our having a baby. "Why can't a normal couple like us, in good health, have children?"

Pregnancy Facts
Literally hundreds of couples just like Howard and his wife have written me that they have now obtained children by the following "Horse Sense" medical suggestions:
(1) Since the male sperm and the female ovum may be capable of uniting for only a 6 to 12-hour span in the wife's menstrual month, timing is vitally important.
(2) This means the most likely ovulation date in her month should be determined.
A 28-day cycle is called "normal" for women.
But even such a wife may vary as follows during her 13 menstrual months in a year: 28, 29, 27, 28, 26, 25, 28, 30, 27, 31, 27, 29, 31.
The 15th day before the onset of the next menstrual flow is the usual target date for conception to occur.
"But, Dr. Crane," Howard protested, "since those monthly cycles vary between 25 and 31 days in length, how can a couple know the length of the current monthly cycle?"
Well, you can't so you must assume that this month might be that short 25-day cycle. Subtract 15 from 25 and you'll find that the 10th day after the known last menstrual onset would then be the conception target.

But if this should happen to be a long 31-day cycle, then by subtracting 15 from 31, the conception day would be the 16th from the onset of the last menstrual flow.
And those other varying months would then fall in between.
So pregnancy would most likely occur anytime between the 10th and the 16 days AFTER the known onset of a wife's last menstrual flow.
But the male sperm may lose its potency after 6 hours, while the ovum may likewise be too deteriorated to be fertilized after 12 hours, so have marital relations night and morning during that pregnancy week.
(3) Some vaginal secretions are more acid than others and acid stops the movement of the male sperm cells.
That's why many of the contraceptive jellies and foam products contain lactic acid.
To neutralize this acidic vaginal secretion, use a heaping teaspoonful of baking soda per quart of warm water as a preliminary douche just before marital relations. This alkaline (baking soda) douche may also increase the likelihood of a boy baby!

(4) Tension and anxiety, as in women who develop almost a mania to get pregnant, not stimulate more acid in the stomach, thus contributing to peptic ulcers, but upset your other internal glandular secretions.
That's why many a supposedly sterile wife, after adopting a baby, may soon get pregnant.
So send for my booklet "Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. Give it to newlyweds!
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Glenn Turner Ordered To Return To New York

By JOHN MUELLER
Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Super-salesman Glenn Turner must return to New York to face a six-month jail term for contempt of court, Gov. Reubin Askew says.
Askew signed the extradition order Wednesday to send Turner to New York.
Ruthie Dickson, Florida extradition officer, said the order would be sent to the Seminole County sheriff today, directing him to take Turner into custody.
But authorities are not likely to find Turner at his castle-like home near Orlando because he has taken his family on a vacation, said Tom Bush, Turner's spokesman.

"I have no idea where he's gone," Bush said in a telephone interview. "He just wanted to take the family and get away for a few days."
Bush added that Turner "isn't going to run away."
A New York judge last year ordered Turner jailed for contempt. The judge said Turner failed to live up to an agreement that he and his cosmetics firm, Koscot Interplanetary Inc., would follow certain repayment and notification procedures stemming from the sale of Koscot franchises. Florida Asst. Atty. Gen. Michael Corin had recommended to Askew that he find New York's request for extradition to be sufficient.

Corin delayed the recommendation until after the Sept. 10 Democratic primary in which Turner was a losing candidate for the U.S. Senate nomination.
Askew further delayed the decision until after the Nov. 5 general election. In that race, Turner lost a write-in bid for a Central Florida seat in Congress.
Corin said Turner could appeal the order in Florida courts.
Turner and seven former associates also face retrial on federal mail-fraud charges.
They are accused of using the mails to defraud persons "too numerous to mention" in the sale of distributorships in several Turner-founded firms.
The first trial was held in Jacksonville and lasted more than eight months, ending on May 30 in a hung jury. A date for the retrial, to be held in Tampa, has not been set.
Bush said Turner's "political days are just starting. We are going to keep the organization we formed (for this year's elections) together."
"We had only four people involved this time and they were all amateurs," he said. "I'm sure in two years he'll be going for something again."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOV. 15, 1974

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An excellent day and evening for you to rely more upon your prophetic insight. Advancement can now be gained by looking into activities and interests that have not been a part of your life. Be alert when opportunity knocks.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your success can be increased if you ally yourself more with persons whose experiences have been greater than your own.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You know exactly how to make a better impression on the one you love and should follow through on such. Don't neglect responsibilities.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Formulate a plan whereby you can ascertain what your position is with associates. Get rid of any unwanted pressures.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Delve into routine tasks that need doing instead of procrastinating. Take time to improve your health and appearance.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you study the details concerning entertainment plans you have, you can be successful with them later on. Think constructively.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Gain the views of family members and then make your home more comfortable in which to live. Happiness can be yours for the asking.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to entertain friends today after your work is done and have a delightful time. Plan your day's activities wisely.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are in need of more income now and will be inspired just how to get it. Consult an expert before making any repairs.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan for tomorrow's activity during spare time today. Attending the social affair tonight will be to your advantage.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Coordinate new ideas with the plans you have in mind. Be helpful to good friends who in turn can be of service to you.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you show good friends that you value the alliance, you will gain their loyalty. Show increased devotion to loved one.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put aside personal matters and handle important public matters in a most efficient way. A quiet evening is best for you now.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have many good ideas developing early in life. It is wise to plan a fine education that will include the study of foreign language and varying philosophies. There is likely to be much travel to foreign countries in this chart.
"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

stop the defenders from scoring their two aces and two trump tricks.
At five diamonds, most declarers ruffed the spade return at trick two with a high trump, then led a diamond to the jack and ace. East unkindly continued a third spade to seal their doom. If they ruffed high, West would make a trump trick by promotion, while if they ruffed low, West would overruff.
The one successful declarer was Pietro Forquet, star of many Italian victories in world championship competition. He realized that the spade opening lead reeked of being a singleton, so he ruffed the second spade with the ten of diamonds. However, he took into account that, since West was short in spades, he was likely to have long trumps, and that there was an imminent danger of a trump promotion play.
To counter this, Forquet led the king of clubs at trick three and overtook with dummy's ace. Now, he led a low trump from the table, and the defenders were helpless. East took his ace, but Forquet could ruff a spade return with the king of trumps, and still have the queen-jack in dummy to draw West's remaining trumps.
Some declarers ended in four hearts, but they had no chance after a spade lead and return. There was no way to

Local Artist Wins Honorable Mention

One Greenville artist, Melvin Stanforth, is the recipient of an honorable mention award for art entered in the 37th Annual North Carolina Artists Exhibition at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh.
Announcement of winners was made Wednesday night at the annual dinner of the North Carolina Art Society held in Raleigh at the Sir Walter Hotel.
This year for the first time, instead of cash and purchase awards given in the past, the Art Society gave medals.
1974 winners were: Gold medal, Thomas W. Spencer, Chapel Hill, for an acrylic, "Marine Doing Push Ups"; silver medal, Thomas E. Link, Raleigh, for an acrylic, "La Vol de Persephone".
Stanforth's honorable mention was for a mixed media work entitled "Acid-Mold-Rust-Chart 1". He was one of four artists to receive an honorable mention award.

Chances For Middle East Peace Appear Very Slim

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
For Americans and the world a lot rides today on what begins to look like an impossible dream.

Recent developments dramatically illuminated the towering obstacles to a genuine Middle East peace. Yet without it, the outlook is for an indefinite future of instability in the world's most sensitive area.

Kissinger's problem is to track down the elusive formula that would permit him to capitalize on whatever momentum his peace efforts have generated thus far. If he fails, it can mean a new superpower showdown.

President Ford has reported "some encouraging news" from Kissinger's latest peace pilgrimage, though others were finding difficulty in detecting reasons for optimism.

The President, meantime, looked forward, he said, to constructive talks with the Soviet leader, Leonid I. Brezhnev, in Vladivostok next week. That meeting could be critical for the Middle East.

The whole fragile structure of the new look in Soviet-American relations, the detente, is at stake, and that policy is of immense importance to the Soviet leader.

Because of the geology and geography of the Middle East, any war there inevitably engages the superpowers, raising the danger of showdown. Yet the palpable peril to their detente policy has failed to dissuade the Russians from following a scent of geopolitical profit from Middle East instability and tension.

The thunder of the October war last year nearly disintegrated the flimsy fabric of detente. A fifth Arab-Israel war could finish detente for a long time—maybe for good. For some hairy hours last year it looked like a replay of the 1962 Cuban missile showdown. Washington alerted U.S. forces worldwide in response to what it said was a Soviet plan to send, unilaterally, troops into Egypt to police a shaky ceasefire.

Egypt and Syria have more and better Soviet military hardware than ever, despite heavy 1973 losses, and Israel has been resupplied by the Americans.

Through six successive administrations, the United States has been guarantor of Israel's survival, and it's hardly likely any administration could consider abandoning her to dismantlement. The Russians are fully aware of the American problem, yet, even as they extol the boons of detente, they keep their monkey wrench at the ready, as they have done throughout all the Kissinger efforts.

because Walter has to do 'The Sunshine Boys' with Jack Benny.

"We might do it for educational TV or maybe make a movie. We'd have to do some of it in Dublin, shooting exteriors. It wouldn't do to just shoot it as a play; those things never work."

Since the October war—in fact, well before it—the Soviet activity did more to hamper than help peace efforts. Today the Russians join enthusiastically in applauding the idea of Palestine statehood under the Palestine Liberation Organization. Previously the Kremlin had confined itself to supporting a national home for Palestinians and vague recognition of their "legitimate rights."

Unless something happened behind scenes at the recent Rabat summit of Arab rulers that hasn't been made public, the outlook is for a long deadlock that will be particularly dangerous in the spring when the time comes to renew the mandate of the buffer United Nations forces on the cease-fire lines.

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt says he favors any move that will restore any bit of Arab land taken by Israel in 1967. But while the Egyptian says the Rabat summit shouldn't interfere with Kissinger's "step-by-step" approach, Sadat himself is in a spot.

Sadat has delayed the Arab summit from April until last month, which was all he could manage, while he attempted to bring the PLO and King Hussein of Jordan together. It wouldn't wash, and the Arab rulers at Rabat felt impelled to announce recognition of the PLO as the only representatives of Palestinians.

This demonstrated such PLO political clout that an Arab leader would hesitate to take any action that might lay him open to the domestic political consequences of a charge of hampering the Arab cause.

The Rabat summit decision on the PLO complicated and deepened the crisis. With the PLO clamoring for a Palestine state under its control, Israel sees security as a life-and-death consideration.

If there is a next stage of agreement with Egypt, Syria or both, it must be more than just military disengagement. It must involve, for one thing, guarantees of nonbelligerency, which the others, especially the PLO, will not give. In turn, Israel will be reluctant to make any territorial concessions.

Israelis point out, for example, that if the Arabs had possessed Syria's Golan Heights in October 1973, the outcome might have been disastrous for Israel. So she is naturally reluctant about giving up conquered territory.

The Arabs, including King Faisal of Saudi Arabia whose oil billions can fuel the Arab war machine, say east Jerusalem with its Moslem shrines must be returned to the Arabs. Israel, which took it in 1967, says she'll never give it up.

Everybody is asking for "all," and in such circumstances, fruitful negotiations at Geneva or elsewhere seem unlikely. The Egyptians want "all" their territory back. The Syrians want "all" the Golan Heights returned. The PLO demands to speak for "all" Palestine people, though there has been no referendum of any sort anywhere among the 3.2 million Palestinians scattered throughout the Middle East.

Israel won't negotiate if the PLO is to be seated at the table as representing all Palestinians, since the PLO openly has sought to end the Jewish state.

So as weeks grow into months the chance of new war seems to increase.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sure and it's a foin bunch doin' "Juno and the Paycock" at the Music Center—the odd couple themselves, Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau, and that darlin' Maureen Stapleton.

The Irish accents are flying like leaves in a Galway wind at the 650-seat Mark Taper Forum of the Music Center complex, which is marking 10 years of bringing culture to Angeles. It is the first time in the decade that any of the three theaters has sold out in advance for an entire run.

No wonder. Having three such luminaries in a tiny theater is rare experience. Obviously none is expecting monetary reward. Their pay for the six-week engagement of the Sean O'Casey masterpiece is the Actors Equity Minimum, $250.

Puts Bounty On Burglars

CARY, N. C. (AP)—The owner of a Cary shopping center has posted signs offering a $500 reward to anyone who shoots a burglar inside the center.

David J. Martin said Wednesday "prevention is more important than solving a crime."

The posted signs offer to pay $200 for the apprehension of a burglar at the South Hills Shopping Mall.

The center has been burglarized five times since July.

Cary Police Chief J. W. Boles frowned on the idea, saying: "The bounty hunting days are over." He warned that citizens who shoot burglars will be subject to a possible murder charge "plus one heck of a liability suit that could come out of it."

Martin said the signs were put up as a preventive measure. He said a service station he owns nearby was the repeated target of burglars until he erected similar signs about eight years ago. He noted there have been no burglaries since.

"It's hard to argue with success," Martin added.

But Chief Boles said, "I don't think any officer is going to want to check a building if even it's something simple like a door left open. He might get shot." He added that if he were a store owner or employe, he "would be extremely leery of working late."

Ebbs Appointed To Drama Group Board

Nellie M. Sanders, President of the Bicentennial Barge Foundation, Inc., has announced the appointment of Dr. John D. Ebbs, Professor of English at East Carolina University, as a member of the Foundation's Board of Directors and Planning Committee.

This appointment has resulted from interest shown in Dr.

Ebbs' study and research in community drama as one of the investigators of the Pockets of Excellence Project, conducted by East Carolina University over the past two and one-half years.

The Bicentennial Barge Foundation, with headquarters at Plymouth has as its purpose the construction of a barge on which drama can be taken to the people of Eastern North Carolina by means of the State's various waterways. The type of drama to be presented will be largely historic, attempting to emphasize the rich historical background and heritage of Eastern North Carolina.

Others members of the Board of Directors include Rep. Walter B. Jones, State Senators Philip P. Godwin and Harold W. Hardison, Honorary members; Robert Hyatt, Dean of Students at the N.C. School of the Arts; Keith L. Lamb, Vice President of the N.C. Region of Weyerhaeuser Co.; Philip Ogilvie, N.C. State Librarian, Raleigh; Grace J. Rohrer, Secretary of the Department of Cultural Resources, Raleigh; Mary Duke Semans of the Duke Foundation; and local representatives from eight counties in Eastern North Carolina.

New Plant Shutdowns As Car Sales Plunged

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto sales plunged 38.4 per cent in the first 10 days of November to their second lowest level since 1959.

General Motors immediately responded with a new round of factory shutdowns and layoffs, while some industry spokesmen expressed fear of a possible breakdown in the nation's economy.

Sales for the period were 136,921, down from 250,178 in the same 1973 span. With eight selling days this year and nine a year ago, the daily rate was off 38.4 per cent.

Car sales a year ago were already beginning to feel the adverse effects of the energy crisis following 12 months of record performance.

Sales were at their lowest level for the period in 15 years with the exception of the 1970 span when GM was shut by a national strike.

"We're assuming this is the bottom of the trough, although it could go on like this for a couple months. But I don't know if conventional wisdom still applies to this situation," said one industry analyst.

The auto companies reported sales in October were off 27 per cent from the previous year and dropped to their lowest level in a decade.

For the calendar year to date, industry sales were down 22.1 per cent to 6,651,133, compared with 8,568,682 in the same 1973 span.

GM announced Wednesday it will shut three assembly plants starting Monday for a week each, laying off 7,200 workers. The plants — in Tarrytown, N.Y.; Van Nuys, Calif., and Willow Run, Mich. — build compact cars.

Employees on indefinite layoffs include 36,000 at GM, 8,500 at Ford and 8,800 at Chrysler, which will place another 10,100 on indefinite layoff beginning Monday.

This is the 11th day of November, 1974. James M. Roberts, Commissioner, Jr., Commissioner, Nov. 7 & 14, 1974.

Expect Greece Troops' Return

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
Associated Press Writer
ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Western diplomats here believe that Greek troops will return to the NATO fold if Premier Constantine Caramanlis wins the election next Sunday and the dispute with Turkey over Cyprus is settled satisfactorily to Greece.

Caramanlis' conservative New Democracy party is favored to win the largest number of seats in the election to restore parliamentary democracy to Greece after seven years of military dictatorship.

The 67-year-old premier withdrew Greece's troops from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization after NATO and the United States failed to prevent the invasion of Cyprus by Turkey, another NATO member.

But Greece remained a member of the North Atlantic alliance, and Caramanlis has not tampered with American military bases in Greece or the NATO missile training center on Crete. Greek military missions to other NATO countries except Turkey also have remained at their posts.

Of the 47 parties competing for the 300 seats in the one-house parliament, only the New Democracy and three others are given any chance of winning a sizable number of seats.

Caramanlis announced Wednesday night that the plebiscite to determine whether the monarchy should be restored would be held Dec. 8, three weeks after the election. Caramanlis and his party have taken no position on the issue; the other three major parties are opposed to the return of the monarchy, which dictator George Papadopoulos abolished in June 1973.

Greece's last king, 34-year-old Constantine II, fled from Greece in December 1967 after an unsuccessful attempt to organize a military counter coup against Papadopoulos. He now lives in Britain.

Approve Boost In Truck Rates

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Utilities Commission has approved an increase in truck freight rates. The increase approved Wednesday will be from 3 to 15 per cent depending on weight and volume of the load.

In a related action, the commission reduced from 6 to 4 per cent a truck freight surcharge for fuel that the truckers have been collecting since February because of gasoline price increases.

As it ordered the surcharge cut and called for its elimination next June 30, the commission said that with gasoline prices stabilized the surcharge has produced excess revenues.

Pitt County
NINA BELL SMITH, Widow et al vs.
LIZZIE MILLS, et al
The undersigned were appointed as Commissioners to sell the hereinafter described land, by Order entered by the Clerk of Superior Court of the County on the 10th day of September, 1974. The sale of said land was held on the 25th of October, 1974. A high bid of Sixty Four Thousand (64,000.00) Dollars was received. An unmet bid, pursuant to G.S. 1-339.25 was received by the Clerk of Superior Court on the 1st day of November, 1974. The said Clerk of Superior Court has by Order entered on the 1st day of November, 1974, directed that the Commissioners resell the said property pursuant to G.S. 1-339.27.

Pursuant to said Order of the said Clerk of Superior Court, the undersigned Commissioners will sell the hereinafter described land at 12:00 o'clock Noon, Tuesday, the 19th of November, 1974, at the Court House Door in Greenville, North Carolina.

The real property to be sold is described as follows:
Lying and being situate in Pitt County, North Carolina, and BEGINNING in Cow Swamp at Arden Hudson's and Jarvis Mills' cross, running with Arden Hudson's line to the late Nasby Mills' land; thence with the said Nasby Mills' land to Veima V. Cannon's line; thence with the line to Calvin Mills' line; thence with his line to Jarvis Mills' line; thence with his line to the BEGINNING and containing seventy (70) acres, more or less.

There is excepted from the above described tract of land the following three tracts of land described in that certain Will of Possie Mills of record in Will Book 71 at page 22 in the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County.

Lying and being situate in Chicod Township, Pitt County, North Carolina on the south side of Mills Road, known as the Possie and Sophie Mills home place, and BEGINNING in the center of a ditch, running thence in an easterly direction with the center line of the latter referred to a fence; running thence in a northerly direction with the fence; to the southerly line of Mills Road; running thence in a westerly direction with the southerly line of Mills Road to the BEGINNING, containing one (1) acre, more or less.

Lying and being situate in Chicod Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the northerly side of Mills Road, and BEGINNING at a common corner of the Possie Mills—Louis Henry Mills land in the northerly line of said Mills Road; and running thence in a northerly direction along a fence and along the dividing line of the Possie Mills—Louis Henry Mills land; to a ditch; running thence in a westerly direction with the center of said ditch to a garden fence; running thence in a southerly direction with said garden fence to the northerly line of Mills Road; running thence in an easterly direction with the center of said ditch to the southerly line of Mills Road; running thence in a westerly direction with the southerly line of Mills Road to the point of BEGINNING, containing one (1) acre, more or less, and being as aforesaid, the home presently occupied by Heber Mills, together with an acre of land, more or less, the same.

The opening bid is Sixty seven Thousand Two Hundred Fifty ($67,250.00) Dollars.

The sale is a deposit of ten (10) per cent by the highest bidder with the remainder of the purchase price to be paid in cash in full at the time of instrument conveying title.

This is the 1st day of November, 1974. James M. Roberts, Commissioner, Jr., Commissioner, Nov. 7 & 14, 1974

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO FILE PETITION FOR RECESSION OF VILLAGE
Pursuant to Section 160A-8 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, and as hereby given by the undersigned of intent to present a petition to the North Carolina Municipal Board of Control for incorporation of the proposed Village of Simpson, in Pitt County, N.C. with the following boundaries:

Located in Grimesland Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and particularly described as follows: BEGINNING at the intersection of the Southern line of the right of way of the Norfolk and Southern Railroad Company, in the Eastern part of State Highway Number S. R. 1755 and runs from said beginning point as follows:

Location following the Southern right of way line of the said Norfolk and Southern Railroad Company, North 75 West, 230 feet to the center line of ditch which divides the property of Winfield S. Tucker, conveyed to him by deed recorded in Book Y-34 at page 167 and property conveyed to Carr Talley Briley, deed recorded in Book X-17 at page 592; thence following the center line of said ditch which divides the said Tucker and Briley property and the property owned by Mrs. W. P. Moore, the deed of which is recorded in Book S-20 at page 477, for a distance of 2450 feet to the intersection of said ditch with the center line of said Branch, a corner with the said Briley and Moore lands; thence up said Bates Branch, passing under S. R. 1755, north to a corner with the property owned by Jimmy Edwards and Mrs. Fred Edwards, also Thomas E. Carson and Mrs. Fred Edwards, for a distance of 2 feet; thence following said Bates Branch, intersects the southern property line of Jesse Lee Andrews; thence following the center line of the Eastern part of the Edwards, part of which is the Southern boundary of the W. L. Woolton farm as shown by Map Book 2 at page 25-26 to the center line of the dividing line between Lots 10 and 11 of the said W. L. Woolton farm; thence following the dividing line between Lots 10 and 11 east to the center line of the dividing line of 7 of said Woolton's farm, crossing Jefferson Street, North 15-35 East 1359 feet to the Norfolk and Southern Railroad Company; thence following the Southern line of said Norfolk and Southern Railroad Company right of way, South 74 East, 883 feet, to a point on the Eastern line of the said Woolton's Subdivision and said Railroad right of way, and which is opposite the Southeast corner of property owned by Greenlites Spinners, Inc.; thence North 15-35 East, crossing the right of way of the said Norfolk and Southern Railroad Company, and the property line of Greenlites Spinners, Inc., which is the Western property line of the Mrs. C. G. Barron heirs, and the Eastern property line of Dennis Manning, of property conveyed to him by deed recorded in Book H-24 at page 243, 1,860 feet to a corner with the Eastern line of the Southern property line of Charles E. Porter; thence South 79 East 800 feet, crossing S. R. 1755, to its Eastern property line, and continuing with the Northern property line of Mrs. C. G. Barron heirs and the Southern property line of Elsie Mills Porter, East, 135 feet, to the Southeast corner of the Lucy Jane Hart property described in deed recorded in Book A-34 at page 675 and continuing with the Southern line of said property, South 79 East, 452 feet to the Western property line of the said Mrs. C. G. Barron heirs, South 79 East, 500 feet to a point on the property of Arden L. Tucker; thence crossing the property of the said Arden L. Tucker, North 31-30 West, parallel to S. R. 1759, 1300 feet to the Northeastern property line of William L. Tucker, as described in deed recorded in Book Q-31 at page 440; thence following the said Tucker line, South 02 East, 600 feet to the Northern property line of S. R. 1755, crossing the right of way of the said Norfolk and Southern Railroad, 250 feet to the Point of Beginning, containing 252 acres, more or less.

The foregoing boundary lines are shown by Map prepared by Rivers and Associates, Inc., date September 30, 1974, being drawing Number Z-055, and entitled "Town of Simpson, N.C., proposed town limits."

As required by law, copies of said petition, bearing signatures of at least twenty-five (25) residents of the proposed Village, who are also qualified voters in Pitt County, N. C., have been delivered to the governing bodies of the following governmental units:

Pitt County, North Carolina. All cities and towns in Pitt County, North Carolina.

All other cities and towns within a three-mile radius of the Village of Simpson, North Carolina. This, the 29th day of October, 1974. John T. McDonald, Jr., Mayor, Leonard Joe Hardie, Joseph Roy Edwards, H. Lindy Edwards, Oct. 31, Nov. 7 & 14, 1974

Career Day Is Held At School In Armed Robbery Case

Career Day was held at D. H. Conley High School Wednesday afternoon for the entire student body as part of the school's observance of National Career Guidance Week.

Representatives participating in the event included: Pitt Technical Institute, The Daily Reflector, Procter and Gamble, Employment Security Commission, Air Force, Greenville Fire Department, Army, Navy, Lenoir Community College, N. C. Forest Service, N. C. Highway Patrol, N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, Grady-White Boats, Empire Brush, Eaton Corporation, Fieldcrest Mills, Burroughs-Wellcome, Home Builders Association, Beaufort Technical Institute, Elizabeth City State University, St. Augustine College, N. C. Central University, East Carolina University, Edgcombe Technical Institute.

Various other careers that were represented included: funeral service, banking, radiologic technology, aerospace, aviation, telephone company, cosmetology, policeman, sheriff, real estate, insurance, social services, dentist, manpower development, doctor, health education, nurse, and medical technology.

Mrs. Annie Brown and Mrs. Willie Gray Mallison, guidance counselors at Conley, headed the program in conjunction with the Conley Student Council which is headed by Felton Bess, president, and O. R. McLawhorn, advisor.

The theme for the program, which was viewed by more than 1,000 Conley students, was "Plug Into Life — Experience The Future."

The event was held to make students aware of the career opportunities that are available to them and the training that is needed for the various oc-

Two Suspects Arrested

A 9:08 p.m. armed robbery Wednesday night on U.S. 264 west of Greenville was followed some ten minutes later by the arrest of two suspects by Pitt deputies.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputy David Garrison and ATF agent Tom Daughtery heard the call reporting the armed robbery at A. L. Moore's service station near Ballard's Crossroads and stopped a car at 9:18 p.m. on N.C. 11 some eight miles from the scene of the incident.

Sheriff Tyson said that the two officers charged Robert Lee Best, 29, of 1501 Andrews Street, Kinston, and William Durwood Fisher, 23, of 705 Forest Street, Kinston, with armed robbery in connection with the station incident. Bond was set at $2,000 for each man, he reported.

The sheriff noted that the officers confiscated $257.23 in cash and a .22 caliber revolver allegedly used in the robbery. He noted that a 1967 model vehicle was also confiscated.

Sheriff Tyson said that the station attendant reported that a man entered the store, stuck a pistol in the attendant's face and ordered him to hand over all of the money in the cash register. The attendant reported that the register was emptied of both bills and change.

The Pitt officers were assisted by the Winterville Police Department in the robbery investigation.

The Greenville Police Department also charged Best with the early Sunday morning armed robbery of the Stop-N-Go

Aliens Costing U.S. 'Billions'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Immigration Commissioner Leonard F. Chapman Jr. says the flood of aliens immigrating illegally into the United States costs the United States billion of dollars a year.

Chapman said Wednesday that the loss to the United States comes in jobs taken by illegal aliens and taxes which illegal aliens often fail to pay, in wages earned in this country and sent out of the country, and in the cost of welfare and other services for illegal aliens.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has challenged other federal regulatory agencies to wage war on secrecy.

The government cannot restore public confidence until it adopts a policy of openness and invites public participation, Richard O. Simpson told the Federal Bar Association.

"People today are not only skeptical of government, they have reached a point at which they often question the basic motivations of officials," he said Wednesday.

GOING HOME

LONG BEACH (AP)—Former President Richard M. Nixon was expected to leave the hospital today after 23 days of treatment for phlebitis and return to his San Clemente villa to await examination by doctors appointed by the Watergate cover-up trial judge.

Regulate Use Of Alleyways

The City Council passed an ordinance at last week's meeting regulating the use of alleyways in the proposed mall area of the Central Business District.

The ordinance, pointing out that the Redevelopment Commission and the city "are spending considerable money in repaving and landscaping the four alleyways behind stores facing Evans Street, between Third and Fifth Street," stipulates that the "two-block area of Evans Street will be closed to vehicles after the mall is constructed."

The four alleys, according to the document, "are planned and constructed primarily as pedestrian walkways for the convenience of people moving from the parking areas to the stores in the mall area."

Regulations included in the ordinance direct that signs will "be posted at each entrance informing all persons that all vehicles, except emergency and public vehicles, are prohibited."

It also directs that "traversing the alleys by a private vehicle is prohibited and any violation shall be subject to a fine of $50."

The third regulation provides, "Unloading spaces shall be provided and marked in the parking areas adjoining the alleys for the use of trucks or vehicles delivering merchandise to stores in the mall area." It adds, "Merchandise shall be moved from vehicles to the stores by hand operated conveyance and shall be delivered before 10:30 a.m. and after 3:30 p.m."

The fourth regulation says that "any damage or disfiguration of paving surfaces or planted shrubs or trees in the alleys shall be subject to a $50 fine plus the city's cost for repairs or replacement of the damaged property."

Chapter Night For WOTM

Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, will hold a chapter night program at the Moose Temple tonight at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Nancy Lancaster, chairman of the WOTM Library Committee, will be in charge of the program. Refreshments will be served.

Mrs. Peggy Jamieson, senior regent, reminds WOTM members that the November business meeting will be held Nov. 21, instead of the usual fourth Thursday night to avoid conflict with the Thanksgiving holiday.

Divorce Planned By Sue Lyons

ESTES PARK, Colo. (AP) — Actress Sue Lyon and an inmate at the Colorado State Penitentiary were married at the prison a year ago this month. Now, she has filed for divorce.

Miss Lyons' lawyer, Joseph P. Jenkins, said divorce papers were filed Tuesday, claiming the marriage to convicted murderer Cotton Adamson is "irretrievably broken."

Doctor Develops Home Treatment that RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS Help Dry Up ACNE-PIMPLES...

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE
MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT — OR YOUR MONEY BACK

A leading New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads and other foreign impurities. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter from the pores. . . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "filler" actually comes off on your wash cloth. And your skin feels clean . . . really clean . . . refreshed, smooth like velvet. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.
