Status On Fuel Told

By WILLIAM CLAYTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the fuels Americans need for the winter, with the painful exception of natural gas, are in adequate supply, industry and government sources predicted Saturday.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines said coal supplies vary greatly at different plants, but inventories are at an adequate level, barring a long strike which is now expected to last from two to four weeks.

The Federal Power Commission said electric utilities are putting out power "generally adequate to meet the expected winter peak loads."

But the FPC added that "supply deficiencies" of natural gas will be twice as severe as last winter. Generally, that means industry will suffer but few if any gas-heated homes will be hurt because they top the gas priority lists.

The American Petroleum Institute said inventories of oil products are far above a year ago and at comfortable levels, if there is no emergency from weather or import interruption. Those products include heating oils, transportation fuels, and industrial oils.

The natural gas situation appears most serious. The FPC said pipelines that cross state lines planned curtailments of supply to certain customers "107 per cent greater this coming winter than they were a year earlier."

Industries on curtailment contracts can switch to other fuel or slow down their operations. For the 12 months from late September through next August, deliveries will fall short of demand by 2.3 trillion cubic feet. Curtailments in the previous 12-month period were 1.3 trillion cubic feet.

Board Approves Four Year ECU Medical School

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

If the 1975 General Assembly appropriates the needed funds — and many members of the Legislature feel the money will be made available — the four-year medical school at East Carolina University may award medical degrees to its first class in 1979.

The UNC Board of Governors Friday authorized the development of a four-year degree granting medical school at ECU. The board also recommended that the 1975 General Assembly appropriate additional funds to provide for capital construction projects and current operation costs needed to expand the current one-year program, and authorized UNC president William Friday to implement the new medical school.

Before the board voted 21 to 5 in favor of the four-year proposal — recommended by their committees on budget and finance, and educational planning, policies and programs committees and by President Friday — board chairman William Dees of Goldsboro said in approving the proposal, "we will be doing more than recommending (to the General Assembly that a four-year school be established), we will be authorizing a program . . . saying to the General assembly, 'This is the only way to approach it.'

"Our authority is to control degree granting programs of the 16 institutions (schools under the UNC Board of Governors)," Dees emphasized.

Under the plan recommended by President Friday and the planning and finance committees — and adopted by the board — the first year medical class was increased from its 20 members this year to 30 for the 1975-76 school year, then to 40 during 1976-77, at which time the 30 freshman students would enter the second year class. In 1977-78, the entering class would increase to 45 students, and by 1978-79, there would be 50 persons beginning their four-year medical education.

Freshmen entering the school in 1975-76 would, under the plan, enter the fourth year of their studies in 1978 and receive their degrees in 1979.

Total enrollment in the East Carolina University Medical School would reach 200, the authorized level —including 50 students in each of the four years — during the 1981-82 school year.

The additional $35.2 million appropriation recommended by the board is needed to fund capital construction projects estimated to cost $50.2 million — to house the medical school.

Capital improvements, proposed under the plan, would include $550,000 for renovations of space in Ragsdale dormatory to provide a temporary home for the medical program; $1 million for interim clinical and library facilities and $1.1 million for an ambulatory care facility.

Other capital projects would include $685,000 for purchase of a site and site preparation for a basic sciences building; $26.9 million for construction of the basic science facility and $20 million for construction of a 200-bed teaching hospital.

The $35.2 million additional money recommended by the board, added to $15 million appropriated by the 1974 General Assembly, would supply the total estimated $50.2 million capital construction costs.

President Friday had estimated it would cost as much as $45 million to build facilities to operate a two-year school, and indicated that the benefits from a two year school would not be as great.

However, he and others at the board meeting indicated the cost estimates for the four-year school are conservative.

Board member Hugh Cannon of Raleigh said, "I did oppose the original idea of a medical school at East Carolina University . . . "

But he noted, "I have no hesitation now." It is "a mandate of the legislature. He who calls the tunes should pay the fiddler. I support the resolution."

Mrs. Albert H. Lathrop of Asheville, who was opposed to the four-year plan, said "I can't vote for the resolution. I don't believe there should be a second (medical) school. I cannot handle what I consider to be the unwisdom of a second medical school (state supported) in the state. I do not approve of our taking the initiative."

President Friday, following the board's action, indicated he would request the Liaison Committee on Medical Education to allow planning for the four-year medical school to be placed in the hand of ECU officials, and request separate accreditation for the ECU School of Medicine.

The UNC president said it is anticipated that the liaison committee survey team will visit "early in 1975. Definite action could then be taken by the LCME in June, in light of the survey report and on the basis of anticipated or final legislative action on the budget request . . . for implementing these recommendations."

As outlined by President Friday's recommendations, completion of the basic medical sciences building could come by the fall of 1978 (if bids are taken by late fall of 1975), while completion of the teaching hospital could come by the fall of 1979 (if plans are competed by mid-1976).

Following the Friday meeting in Chapel Hill, ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins said "I am very grateful to William Dees and President Friday for their assistance in explaining this proposal . . ." and "for the many friends throughout the state . . ." who have supported the idea of a four-year medical school at East Carolina.

News Briefs

Withdraws Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Saturday withdrew his controversial nomination of former Nixon aide Peter M. Flanigan to be U.S. ambassador to Spain.

Ford acted at the request of Flanigan, who had run into severe opposition at Senate confirmation hearings because of allegations that he was involved in offers to "sell" foreign ambassadorships in return for financial contributions to then-president Richard M. Nixon's reelection campaign.

Eva Peron's Remains Returned

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — The embalmed remains of Eva Peron, patron saint of the Peronist movement, were enroute Saturday to enshrinement in Argentina after a 19-year absence.

President Maria Estela (Isabel) Peron scheduled an "important announcement" on nationwide radio and television for Saturday night.

The 2.2-million member General Labor Confederation, the backbone of Peronism, met Saturday to consider calling all workers off the job Sunday to welcome the body, a CGT spokesman said.

Eva died in 1952 at the age of 33. The body disappeared from Buenos Aires after Peron's ouster in 1955 and was kept in half a dozen carefully guarded, secret sites. It was returned to Peron's custody in Spain in September 1971 from a Milan, Italy, cemetery.

Textbooks Inspired Arrests

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The Kanawha County School superintendent and three school board members have been arrested on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors in the ongoing schoolbook dispute here.

Supt. Kenneth Underwood said he and the others were "set up" for their arrests Friday and that the charges were instigated by anti-textbook forces. All were released on bond.

Board members Matthew Kinsolving, F. Douglas Stump and Harry Stansbury were the others charged. A warrant was issued for board member Russell Isaacs, but he was out of town. The four board members one week ago voted to return the disputed books to the classrooms.

Two Policemen Killed

LINCOLN, Ala. (AP) — An unidentified man shot two local policemen to death early Saturday after being taken into custody by the officers.

The two dead policemen were identified as Otis Sonny Robinson, 24, and Allen Harmon, 26, both of Lincoln.

Policeman James Hines, 26, was also in the car with the two slain officers, but he was not injured.

He said the man was not searched or handcuffed after being taken into the patrol car. The man was allegedly stopped for drunken driving, Hines said.

First Drugs, Then Watergate

NEW YORK (AP) — E. Howard Hunt says he, G. Gordon Liddy and Egil Krogh were involved in a clandestine drug fighting operation ordered by President Nixon before they shifted to political espionage which resulted in the Watergate break-in.

The world-ranging drug plan was originated by Liddy and approved by then-presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman and Nixon after Liddy conceived an operation called "Breaking the Connection" in the summer of 1971. Hunt said the operation was part of a secret government effort which eventually convinced Turkey to stop growing opium poppies.

Arabs-Israelis Battle In Demonstrations

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israeli troops battled young Arabs in street demonstrations Saturday on the occupied West Bank of Jordan, and one girl died of injuries, military sources said.

A military command announcement said the demonstrations took place in four cities on the West Bank.

The source said a girl "was hit on the head by a stone" in the northern town of Jenin "and died of her injuries. She was buried shortly afterward."

Arab sources in the territory said the girl was run over by a military vehicle.

It was the third day within a week of protests against Israeli military rule, following broadcast appeals by the Palestine Liberation Organization for acts of resistance.

"The public order was violated in several cities on the West Bank today," a military spokesman said.

Kids Dislike Inflation

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — About 200 Centralia third graders sat down to define something that's been a central problem for their elders lately: inflation.

With their concrete grasp of things, the youngsters came up with answers considerably more graphic than those of the experts who have been grappling with inflation.

"To me inflation means food prices going up. For one week plums cost 45 cents and the next week they were $1.65. That's ridiculous," said Tanya.

What's inflation? "When you go to the cash register with the buggy and you have to put some groceries back," Erica said.

"To me inflation means high rising prices...Boy, even bubble gum has gone from a penny to two," Johnetta declared. "We're going to have a depression yet."

Peter would sooner you didn't ask: "Inflation is very bad. You shouldn't talk about it. Somebody might get mad. Don't talk about inflation. You might start a bad conversation. You hear it on the news."

Some kids hinted at solutions:

—"I went to the store and bought a pint of milk The milk cost 11 cents and I went back there again and it cost 20 cents," Dwight. "I got so mad I could have eaten a cat and a dog."

Said Kevin in despair: "I don't like inflation. I just don't have the money."

History Awards

Dr. Hugh Talmage Lefler, retired Kenan professor of History at the University of North Carolina, received the American Association for State and Local History's Award of Merit Friday for his career of teaching, research and writing on the history of the state.

Also receiving the Award of Merit was the Smith Richardson Foundation Inc., Greensboro, for its continuing assistance to the historic preservation movement in North Carolina through a challenge grant program administered through the State Division of Archives and History.

A certification of commendation will be given to the Country Doctor Museum Foundation, Bailey, for preserving and exhibiting the tools and office of a country doctor.

James M. Clifton, was awarded the Robert D.W. Connor Award Friday for 1974, given annually for the best article published in the North Carolina Historical Review.

The winning article by Clifton, who is professor of history at Southeastern Community College in Whiteville, is entitled "Golden Grains of White: Rice Planting on the Lower Cape Fear".

The Ford Trip

By R.H. GROWALD
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford flies to the Far East today for a historic lebu in world power politics aimed at pleasing the Japanese, reassuring the South Koreans and —most delicately — getting to know and starting to work with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

His Oval Office desk thick with briefing papers, Ford met Saturday with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for a final review of the trip. Kissinger will accompany the President as guide and adviser —the role he played so often for Richard M. Nixon.

The President was scheduled to leave from Andrews Air Force Base at 9:45 a.m. EST Sunday for a seven-hour and 50-minute flight to Anchorage, Alaska. He was to deliver a speech in Anchorage before flying on to Tokyo.

The trip is historic both for the United States and for Ford.

Diplomats have stressed that leaders around the world will be watching closely Ford's performance at the Soviet summit. The outcome will, they say, in some measure determine U.S. influence elsewhere —just as have previous first meetings between U.S. and Soviet leaders.

Top Consultations

United Press International

The Soviet Union and the United States have opened urgent consultations at the highest levels to head off a new round of Middle East fighting, diplomatic sources in London said Saturday.

Israel imposed wartime-level censorship and slapped a news blackout on troop movements on the Golan Heights. But the Israeli national radio quoted foreign press reports saying a third of Israel's reserves had been mobilized,

United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim said through a spokesman Saturday he was "concerned" at the growing military activity on the Golan Heights.

He said he had talked with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger by telephone and with senior government officials of Syria, Israel and Egypt.

"I am concerned," Waldheim said through his spokesman. "The reports from the area are not very good."

Greeks Vote Today

By JOHN RIGOS

ATHENS (UPI)—Political analysts Saturday predicted the largest turnout in history when Greeks vote Sunday for the first time in 10 years.

Thousands of city dwellers registered in the provinces were streaming back to their native villages to cast their ballots in the parliamentary election. The vote was expected to top 5 million in this nation of 8.5 million people. Voting is compulsory for all Greeks aged 21 to 70.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis, 67, a veteran conservative who returned from exile four months ago after the fall of the military junta, and his New Democracy party were expected to win a clear majority of the 300 parliamentary seats. But scientific polls were lacking.

At issue are inflation, unemployment, settlement of the Cyprus crisis, continued Greek membership in the Atlantic Alliance, restoration of the monarchy, rewriting of the constitution and punishment of the leaders of the late military junta.

First Canadian Geese Report In For Winter

ANSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)— The first of the 10,000 Canadian geese have arrived at their winter resort, Gaddy's Pond.

In the 40 years they have been coming here, they have learned to escape the hunters' guns.

Instead of coming in low over adjoining farmland, they come in high until directly over the pond. Then they spiral down. Takeoffs are a tight spiral to a safe altitude. They stay until March before returning to Canada.

The pond and the geese drew 5,000 visitors last year.

Mrs. Lynn Pond and her husband, Tom, manage the pond. She is the great nephew of Mrs. Lockhart Gaddy, who with her husband started the refuge in 1934.

Mrs. Pond says the 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children charged visitors, plus the little she makes from a concession stand, doesn't pay for the pickup-truck load of corn the geese are fed every day.

Her husband makes up the difference with profits from the TV and appliance store he operates in Ansonville, 40 miles east of Charlotte.

Food Plan Defended

ROME (UPI) — The United States Saturday defended its policy of not announcing additional food aid and said there was "too much concentration" at the United Nations World Food Conference on what America is doing to solve world hunger.

"I can't tell you how much of an increase the United States will provide on food aid," Ambassador Edwin M. Martin said at a news conference. "It is not useful to announce a figure here.

"I think there has been too much concentration on what the United States is doing," Martin said.

Martin, deputy head of the U.S. delegation, said President Ford had little alternative but to turn down demands that the United States pledge an additional million tons of grain for next year in addition to the 3.3 million tons already pledged.

"The U.S. Congress does not have a wild enthusiasm" toward multilateral aid, Martin said.

The 130-country, 11-day conference was ending Saturday. It had been called at the urging of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger

Japanese Modify Demonstration

By MITSU KIMURA
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Leftist leaders opposed to President Ford's visit said today they will not risk confrontation with the army of 100,000 riot police assigned to keep order while Ford is in Tokyo.

Spokesmen for the Socialist and Communist parties instead called for a massive protest today, a day before Ford arrives. They said they expected 100,000 persons to gather for a rally at Tokyo's Yoyogi Park and then march to Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka's residence and the U.S. Embassy.

They said they will broadcast anti-American speeches over sound trucks at various places in Tokyo on Monday but would not lead marches.

Ford, the first U.S. president to visit Japan while in office, is scheduled to stay through Friday.

Public transportation workers plan to halt commuter trains, buses and subways in Tokyo and Osaka in a 12-hour general strike Tuesday morning to protest Ford's visit.

Union leaders said the shutdown is also linked to their demands for better working conditions and for the resignation of Tanaka.

The level of protest has been far below 1960 when hundreds of thousands of Japanese took to the streets and forced cancellation of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's visit.

The only violent incident occurred Thursday when leftists firebombed the U.S. and Soviet embassies to protest the Ford visit.

On Friday, Ford is to fly to Korea, where opposition leaders have promised to suspend demonstrations against President Chung Hee Park during Ford's overnight official visit.

Ford travels to Vladivostok on Saturday for a summit conference with Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev.

Says Marijuana Use Not Criminal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marijuana users should not be treated as criminals, a top White House official has declared, stating that "criminal penalties have clearly failed to prevent widespread use of marijuana."

Dr. Robert L. DuPont, head of the White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention, said persons arrested on marijuana charges have "suffered the trauma of arrest ...(and) will carry around that criminal arrest record."

Addressing the National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML), he said, "For those convicted, the stigma of criminality may close some doors of economic opportunity ...and for some of them, these laws may close the doors of a jail cell."

He said 420,000 persons were arrested for marijuana offenses last year, a third higher than in 1972 and more than double the figure of four years ago. Most of those arrested are between the ages of 18 and 25. The majority of those arrested on marijuana charges are not convicted, he said.

DuPont observed that enforcement of the laws is selective.

U.S. Atty. Earl J. Silbert has told the Washington, D.C., police department his office would not file court charges against persons arrested with five or fewer marijuana cigarettes or up to a gram of the drug in any other form. The Washington Post said well-placed sources revealed the policy shift was cleared with the Justice Department and top local police officials.

DuPont said the legal prohibition against marijuana possession should not be dropped "but the key question is whether the benefits of deterrence are available at a lower social cost than the current criminal sanction. I think that they are."

He also said recent studies "seem to indicate that there may be serious risk to marijuana users."

December Closing

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp., with a four month supply of unsold new cars, is considering closing most of its plants for the month of December, throwing at least 80,000 workers off the job before Christmas.

The auto maker is expected to close all but one of its six auto assembly plants, idling almost 30,000 assemblers. One source said plans are to shut the plants from Dec. 2 to Jan. 6.

Those shutdowns could force layoffs throughout the Chrysler system, sources said, throwing another 50,000 or more workers off the job.

Chrysler would neither confirm nor deny the reports, but a source who asked not to be identified said the firm ordered "zero" parts from suppliers for next week.

A spokesman for the nation's No. 3 automaker said mounting inventories of unsold new cars had reached a "critical level."

One of the firm's six assembly plants was closed indefinitely Friday. And an unknown number of white collar workers also were laid off indefinitely, sources said.

Chrysler's stockpile of 1975 models is estimated at 380,000 as of Oct. 31.

Coal Strike Is Expected To Drag On

By EDWARD K. DeLONG

WASHINGTON (UPI) — United Mine Workers officials declared a memorial day for a slain union leader Saturday and interrupted for four days their review of a proposed contract, virtually insuring the nationwide coal strike would drag on into early December.

The shooting death Friday of Samuel Littlefield, one of those involve in the review, was the second snag to hit the contract ratification effort. Only a few hours earlier, a key district UMW meeting was delayed because the review was going slower than expected.

A UMW spokesman stressed there was no link between the strike by 120,000 miners—which started at midnight Monday—and the shooting of Littlefield, who was killed when he surprised a robber at his Washington motel after Friday's review session.

But Littlefield's death caused the UMW Bargaining Council, which must approve the new contract before a rank-and-file ratification vote, to cance. plans to continue the contract review Saturday.

The spokesman said consideration of the 175-page contract would resume Wednesday in Washington. He said Littlefield's seat on the council probably would remain vacant for the time being.

Union sources said completion of the contract ratification probably would take "at least 10 days" after resumption of the review. Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, that would make the earliest likely end of the strike fall in the first week of December.

The coal strike already has idled thousands of industrial workers across the country and threatens to idle thousands more. The miners involved dig 70 per cent of the nation's soft coal, but there has been almost no coal production for more than a week.

$1.2 Billion Contract For Cow Manure

WOODBURY, Tenn. (AP)—A one-time Michigan dairy farmer learned the hard way that cows are noted for one product he bottled and one he didn't. He learned how to bottle both—and it's worth a $1.2 billion contract with two Arab oil sheikdoms.

Richard Briggs said he has the contract to supply $1.2 billion worth of deodorized, liquified cow manure to Bahrain and Dubai, two countries on the southeast Persian Gulf—where it will be used as fertilizer.

"I don't know where the money is coming from, whether it's oil or whatever," said Briggs. "We're not trading for oil. Our deal was made by our broker for U.S. dollars."

Briggs does know where the cow manure is coming from. It will be collected by dealers franchised by his company in 38 states.

Youth Centers Called Jails

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The director of the State Bureau of Investigation says some youth detention centers in North Carolina are nothing but jails.

Charles Dunn said the only difference is that some jails are painted green and the centers are painted blue.

He called for better detention facilities in a speech Thursday night at Queens College.

Dunn also said he favored decriminalization of victimless crimes, such as public drunkenness. "We want to help these people, not incarcerate them," he said.

Orders Inmates Released

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Frank Snepp has ordered 35 inmates released from the Mecklenburg County jail because of overcrowding.

Snepp ordered the prisoners, most of whom were in jail awaiting misdemeanor trials, released pending their trials.

The order came Friday after Snepp met with representatives of the District Attorney's staff to review the charges against many of the 350 inmates in the jail. The jail has room for 356 inmates.

To Investigate Tax Status

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Department of Revenue has begun investigating the tax and residency status of congressional aides in Washington.

It is doing this to determine if any may be liable for criminal failure to file state income tax returns.

The investigation grows out of the disclosure that state Atty. Gen.-elect Rufus Edmisten did not file North Carolina returns during the 10 years he was in Washington as an aide to Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., although he maintained legal residence in the state. Edmisten did file and pay in Virginia, where he was living at the time.

Booby Trap Shoots Burglar

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Deputy Sheriff James Sasser says a man found wounded has been charged with breaking and entering and larceny at a mobile home which had been booby-trapped against burglars.

He identified him as earl Rogers, 23, of Goldsboro, and said he had been shot in the chest Wednesday.

Sasser said the owner of the mobile home, Leslie Lancaster, reported it had been broken into twice recently, so he rigged a pistol to fire when the door of a bedroom closet was opened.

Public Discipline

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A judge says he will move the disciplining of North Carolina doctors from secrecy into the public eye.

Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey said Friday that he would order the North Carolina Board of Medical Examiners to make public any formal charges it places against a doctor.

He also said he would order that the public be allowed to attend hearings on such charges.

He made his announcement after hearing arguments in a lawsuit against the board by The Charlotte Observer.

The newspaper filed the suit last week after the board refused to give it information on charges against some doctors. The board also said a hearing could be secret if a doctor requested it.

Another Tobacco Quota Jump?

Area tobacco farmers have received the ominous news from U.S. Department of Agriculture officials that a 15-to-20 percent increase in tobacco quotas can be expected in 1975.

The increase would follow an increase of 10 percent in 1973, and again in 1974.

If the world tobacco market can absorb the increases and tobacco prices will hold up, that will be fine. The farmer, faced with rapidly increasing production costs, though, has to wonder what will happen to prices if a surplus of tobacco suddenly develops.

USDA officials, speaking to farmers here and in other meetings around the state don't see that happening. They predict that cigarette production will double by the end of the century. Not only that, they say that production of tobacco will decline in other countries as the land is shifted to production of food.

That, of course, is purely conjecture. Other tobacco growing countries of the world likely will continue to grow tobacco if they feel they can obtain a high price for the product. So we really don't know that demand for U.S. grown tobacco will be all that good during the remainder of this century.

Still, if we are going to keep the tobacco program, American growers are going to have to produce enough to keep up with demand. Since bidding was spirited in this selling season, there is an indication that supply may be running behind demand.

So the tobacco farmer is obviously going to have to be prepared to accept some increase in quotas next year. If he doesn't, the entire quota and price support system could be in jeopardy. And as Congressman Walter Jones emphasized at the Greenville meeting, "Whatever else may happen, we need to continue the program as we know it."

N.C. Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham also saw it as imperative that the tobacco program be maintained. "I am well pleased with the way things are going . . . and don't you dare change it," Graham told the USDA officials.

Not matter what criticism farm programs have come under, the tobacco program has always been successful. The crop needs to be controlled to avoid glutting the market and the program has worked well over the years.

As Secretary of Agriculture Butz works at eliminating farm programs, we are going to have to fight all the harder to keep the tobacco program. Accepting an increase in quotas may have to be part of the strategy to preserve the program, but the tobacco program should be maintained, no matter what.

"So, what t'hell . . . everyone else does . . . !"

Steam Engine Dream

By EDWARD A. FULTON

DALLAS (UPI) — Leonard Keller says he would like to put Detroit out of business, and he and a Japanese businessman have taken a first step in that direction.

Keller, scientist, inventor, businessman and president of the Keller Corp. in Dallas, invented the KROV expander, a component of a Rankine-cycle engine —in simple terms, a steam engine. And he has contracted with Sung Baik Kim of New York and Asia to put it on the world market through his manufacturing plants in Japan and Taiwan.

"We'll try to put Detroit out of business if we can," Keller said. "I feel that we are on the threshold. We offered the engine to Ford, Chrysler, General Motors, and they said they didn't want it. American Motors was the only one that was a little interested, but they haven't made a decision yet.

"The reaction from most of them was the same. They say they won't build it unless public opinion demands a steam car or unless Japanese imports begin to present economic disaster."

Keller said he sold Asian rights to the steam engine to Sung Baik Kim for $1, primarily because the Asian was willing to spend whatever was necessary to produce prototype motors for cars, generators, golf carts, vacuum pumps, compressors, lawn mowers, whatever, an expenditure of an estimated $1 million in six months. Keller said the first engine —to be a replacement item for Japanese taxi internal combustion engines —should be on the market by the first of next year.

Instead of the $1 million licensing fee Keller had imagined for his machine, his corporation will receive its money through royalties on each engine sold.

Sung Baik Kim was given the right to license any manufacturer in Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, China and Southeast Asia to build the machines, but Keller Corporation retained the right to license Toyota and Nissan companies in Tokyo.

Under the contract, a separate corporation was established between the two for

Oil Companies Gearing Up

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Major oil companies are gearing up for battle in the 1975 General Assembly as North Carolina service station dealers try to outlaw company owned and operated stations.

The Service Station Dealers Association has hired a lawyer and is urging the General Assembly to "outlaw major oil company owned and operated stations at the retail level within the boundaries of North Carolina," charging that the "powerful companies are seeking to totally control the market and thus create an unethical monopoly."

Three states have already passed such laws: Maryland and Delaware in which company operations are to be phased out totally, and Florida, where the major companies could retain ownership of only three per cent of the retail outlets. These are being tested in the courts.

Service station operators, particularly during the oil crisis last winter, charged that the majors were holding back fuel and manipulating prices to force many of them out of business.

Majors Fight

The bid for legislative action is being fought by the N. C. Petroleum Council, the lobbying and governmental arm of the American Petroleum Institute, a major oil industry group.

Motte Griffith, public relations director of the Petroleum Council, said the question boils down to governmental interference with business: "If you can make the oil companies go out of their retail operations, then why can't you legislate other franchise operations such as Hardee's or Howard Johnson's out of business."

Besides, Griffith argues, the dealers complaining of a takeover by the major firms are wrong — there has been no trend in that direction in North Carolina.

The Petroleum Council conducted a survey of operations involving Amoco, Citgo, Exxon, Gulf, Mobil, Phillips, Shell, Sun, Texaco, and Union to prove no major shifts, Griffith said.

There are approximately 19,000 filling stations in North Carolina, counting all the country stores and "cornfield self-service" operations; 11,918 of those were "branded" stations as of June 30, 1974. Branded means displaying a major sign. At the end of 1972, there were 12,856; at the end of 1973, 12,162.

The number of company-operated stations was 80 in 1972; down to 38 in 1973; back up to 40 this year.

The number of dealer-operated stations, the survey shows, has declined each year: 12,776 in 1972; 12,124 in 1973; 11,878 this year.

Other Shifts

Company stations closed and re-opened as dealer stations totaled 66 in 1972; 27 in 1973; two this year. The number of dealer stations closed and re-opened as company stations totaled five in 1972; none in 1973; and two this year.

The survey does not reflect the number of company-owned stations leased to private dealers, but stations served directly by the major oil companies rather than through independent oil jobbers or wholesalers indicates that some 1,650 are in this category.

Records Open

A little-noted provision of the 1974 Education Amendments passed by the U.S. Congress takes effect next week.

As of November 20, any parent or legal guardian must be allowed to inspect and review all materials kept in his child's cumulative record at school. The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act denies federal funds to any school district that doesn't allow this.

Further, parents can appeal to the superintendent or school board any grades or teacher comments which they think can damage the child in the future, or wrongly labels the child.

One Senator

Life will, no doubt, prove rough at times for Lenoir's Don Kincaid, long surviving Republican senator in the General Assembly next session.

Some of the jibes have started already, even before Kincaid gets back to town. A fellow walked into the State House and asked, "Where is the Senate Minority Caucus being held? I heard Kincaid's here."

"There won't be a back row anymore, just Kincaid's seat, but some are already trying to figure out a way to separate that from the rest. And some wonder if Kincaid will elect himself Minority Leader.

Makes a difference.

Gaffee On Cuba?

(Christian Science Monitor)

Latin American efforts to end diplomatic and economic sanctions against Cuba came within two votes of success at the Quito, Ecuador, meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers. Guatemala and Haiti, originally lined up with the majority wanting an end to the sanctions, decided at the last minute to abstain from voting.

There is strong hemisphere suspicion that Washington had a hand in these two vote changes. The United States denies it, but it will take more than verbal denials to convince a growingly skeptical Latin America that all was open and aboveboard at Quito.

Robert Ingersoll, head of the U.S. delegation, claimed after the vote that "we have not worked against the resolution," noting that the U.S. abstained. But many Latin Americans agree with Gonzalo Facio, the Costa Rican foreign minister who said the abstention placed Washington "squarely with the minority" on the Cuba issue.

Given the present mood in Latin America, Washington stands the risk of becoming isolated freom its hemisphere neighbors who disagree with the U.S. not only on Cuba, but also on a whole range of political and aeconomic issues.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's absence from the Quito session has come in for sharp criticism also. In explaining Dr. Kissinger's absence, Washington argued he was busy elsewhere and that anyway the Quito meeting was ill-timed and too hastily organized.

This sort of argument, however, really begs the question. Washington's closest neighbors deserve Dr. Kissinger's attention. Moreover, the Cuba issue itself has been on the hemisphere agenda for months.

The whole affair appears yet another U.S. gaffe in Latin American policy. Dr. Kissinger would be well advised to make amends by early consultations with hemisphere leaders. Delay in trying to undo the damage done at Quito will only make U.S. effots in Latin America more difficult in the future.

The INSIDE REPORT

Avoiding Lame Duck Label

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — At the low ebb of his brief presidency and facing a roomful of conservative critics, Gerald R. Ford sought to climb out of a premature political grave by flatly informing Republican Southern state chairmen Monday night that he will definitely run for President in 1976.

Although he passed this information over early evening cocktails in the privacy of the White House Map Room, President Ford did not intend it to be kept secret. He has announced his candidacy in an exclusive interview in a forthcoming edition of U.S. News and World Report.

The President's intention: to demolish the growing notion he will not run in 1976, which is giving him early lameduck status. Faced with deepening criticism from both wings of his own party in the wake of the midterm election debacle, Mr. Ford is seeking transfusion for his political anemia.

That forces this question: is this merely a presidential ploy? Is Mr. Ford announcing his candidacy to avoid being a lameduck when in truth he may not run or at least has not yet made up his mind?

"Absolutely not," replies one senior adviser. "That would be the Lairdian (a reference to Melvin Laird, longtime colleague and sometime adviser of the President) thing to do. But it's not in Jerry Ford's nature. He couldn't look you in the eye and say he was running unless he had really decided to."

Such advisers say the President is even more determined now to run than he was after succeeding Richard M. Nixon in August, when he said, "I will probably be a candidate in 1976." However, his political decline after pardoning Nixon coupled with the illness of Mrs. Ford has created a consensus in informed party circles that he probably will not run.

Gov. Ronald Reagan's closest advisers tell him the President will retire, and many conservatives privately view Mr. Ford as a transitional figure of no permanence. Agreeing, some moderate Republicans are so certain Mr. Ford will not run that they are seeking an alternative to Reagan. One prominent moderate leader in Congress, for instance, is talking up Gov. William Milliken of Michigan, just reelected against formidable odds.

Underlying such speculation is intense backstage criticism from Republicans. Moderates grumble that Mr. Ford has not picked his own program but relies on Nixon men and policies. Conservatives blame his acts as President — nominating Nelson Rockefeller for Vice President, the Vietnam amnesty, the 5 per cent surtax proposal — for contributing to the Nov. 5 holocaust. "He's in worse shape with Congress than any President since Andrew Johnson," contends one in-

KINDNESS AND KINSHIP

The word "kind" is derived from the word "kin." Kind people are "kinned" people; that is, they have a feeling of kinship for others.

Many of the kind acts which people do, however, do not proceed from a feeling of kinship but from a feeling of guilt. The dime or quarter which we might put into a beggar's cup does not represent any feeling of kinship or brotherhood which we have for the beggar but is instead the price we pay for being absolved from the guilt we would feel if we did not contribute the dime or quarter. The same is true in the case of the small checks we write for the charitable institutions who have our names on a long mailing list.

Whether any one of us makes any particular charitable contributuion is of course our own business. But if we do make one, we should make it in the right spirit or not make it at all. We should remember that we are all brothers and that our kindness is our way of recognizing our kinship.

Mexico Hikes Gasoline Price

By MATTHEW T. KENNY

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Despite the recent hurrah over huge new oil discoveries, Mexican drivers face the sudden prospect of paying much higher prices for gasoline.

The man-in-the-street reaction is to ask why, in the midst of plenty, is the price of gasoline going up?

With the proposed 30-cents per gallon tax on top grade fuel, the price of premium gasoline will increase next year to nearly $1 per gallon. Current prices are about 59 cents a gallon for premium and 41 cents for regular.

The explanation, as given to congress by Treasury Secretary Kose Lopez Portillo, has several aspects.

One is that the tax on gas, as well as a wide range of other taxes planned for 1975, will provide close to $3 billion in revenue. Of that amount, about $640 million would come from the gasoline tax.

Another is that Mexico apparently wants to slow down the consumption of its petroleum now, rather than wait to put the brakes on later. The reason for slowing down consumption presumably is twofold.

Lopez Portillo said the oil belongs to future generations as well as the present generation which he said "has no right to use it unwisely."

Although he did not specifically say so, by slowing down home consumption Mexico ought to be in a better position to export more and thus reap greater monetary income from abroad.

Authoritative but unofficial estimates place Mexico's probable trade deficit for 1974 at $2.5 billion, an increase of $1 billion over 1973.

In his explanation to congress on why President Luis Echeverria's government wants the new taxes, Lopez Portillo revealed that if Mexico had not made its new oil strike, expenditures abroad—presumably for petroleum imports—might even have caused a devaluation of the Mexican peso, which has stood at 12.50 to the dollar since 1954.

He told the Chamber of Deputies that the oil find "saved this country from the sacrifice of $800 million which would have gone abroad, thus seriously compromising the parity of the peso."

But the Treasury Secretary's explanations have not been heard with great sympathy by many Mexicans.

In a local newspaper cartoon a frightened man, representing the average Mexican, is shown tied to a railroad track as a train approaches at top speed. The train is labeled "gasoline tax." And the man, his hair standing on end, is screaming: "Will somebody save me?"

At the moment, the answer to that question seems to be, "No." Congress is expected to approve the whole package of taxes including a 50 per cent increase on high-bracket salaries and a 15 per cent restaurant tax.

Independents In The Saddle

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.,—With independents moving toward a dominant role in American politics, candidates of both major parties will be vying for their votes as the 1976 presidential race begins to take shape.

Not only is the independent vote important in close races—and in fact, has spelled the margin between victory and defeat in Republican victories in presidential elections in recent years—but independents could provide a base for a third-party effort in the coming months.

Some political observers attribute the low turnout in the recent congressional elections to disenchantment with the two major parties and the feeling that neither party offers voters a meaningful platform on important issues.

The victory of independent James Longley in the race for governor in Maine may reflect a new desire on the part of the public to look for candidates not affiliated with either major party.

Could Be Base For Third Party Report

With the independent bloc of voters now accounting for about a third of the electorate—numerically outnumbering the ranks of Republican voters—they become a potential base for a strong third party effort. For example, George Wallace, running as a third party candidate in 1968, won a large proportion (25 per cent) of independent or unaligned voters to his cause.

Another possibility is that independents could form the basis of a "centrist" party much like parties in other nations, taking a position midway between the right and left.

And development of independents as a political force must begin, though, with an effort to further develop their potential. Today, for example, independents lag behind both Republicans and Democrats in the most elementary step on the road to political efficacy: registering to vote. Be it a lack of interest in the political process or disillusionment with both major parties, the fact is independents are not registered in proportions similar to those of affiliated voters. Here's how independent registeration compares to that of Republicans and Democrats:

Voter Registration

	Yes	No	Don't Know
NATIONAL	71	27	2
Republicans	81	18	1
Democrats	73	25	2
Independents	62	37	1

Because of the importance of the independent bloc of voters—the most significant new force in politics in this century—strategists of both parties will need to know who they are and where they stand on issues.

Currently Lean Democratically

Although independents have traditionally taken a position on issues about midway between that of Democrats and Republicans, in recent months their views have corresponded more closely with those of Democrats. This is seen in a comparison of their views with those of voters of the two major parties on 14 key issues included in the Gallup Poll's Public Opinion Referendum which was conducted in the closing days of the 1974 congressional campaign.

For example, the views of Democrats and independents correspond on such issues as capital punishment, reestablishment of diplomatic relations with Cuba, unconditional amnesty for draft evaders and deserters, public financing of congressional campaigns, spending for social programs, the Equal Rights Anendment, gun registration, and the legalization of marijuana.

Key factors attracting independents to the Democratic side have been Watergate and the declining economy.

A Conservative View
In England: A Car Is Always Kept In Reserve

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

LONDON—The Royal Family proceeded in royal procession to Westminster the other day, there to open a new Parliament. It was a fine piece of pageantry, marred by a single flaw. The Times reported:

"Princess Anne and her husband, Captain Mark Phillips, were obliged to transfer to a Rolls-Royce yesterday after a mishap to their coach. One of the horses pulling the coach kicked out and caught the bar of the coach with his fetlock. A car is always kept in reserve for such contingencies."

In these uncertain times in England, that paragraph offers something to cling to. Metaphorically speaking, this sceptered isle is crowded with kicking horses and erring fetlocks. Coaches are forever breaking down — yet somehow the royal procession proceeds. "Our customary fortitude," as Lord Shinwell put it, always is kept in reserve for such contingencies.

That fortitude is desperately needed now. Labour's Harold Wilson and the Tories' Edward Heath may agree on very little, but they agree on this: England finds herself this winter in her gravest crisis since Dunkirk.

The crisis is largely but not wholly economic. During the recent campaign, Labour spokesmen placed the rate of inflation at 8.4 percent, but the statement provoked cries of incredulity. The true figure is probably double that. This winter nearly a million workers will find themselves, in the chilling British phrase, "redundant." Prices on food and fuel are soaring. Children's clothing costs more in London than in Washington or New York. In a Fleet Street restaurant, a modest lunch— meat pie, salad, and mug of beer — runs to two pounds, or $4.80.

Under something called the "social contract," the Wilson government has placed the country in thrall to the Trade Union Congress. This "contract" is an unwritten agreement by which the unions, in exchange for certain social reforms, will exercise restraint in pressing for wage increases. In less ephemeral terms, the agreement approaches extortion: The unions will get what the unions want, or the unions will bring Britain to her knees.

If Wilson's party commanded a solid majority in Parliament, perhaps it could cope more effectively with the threats, the inflation, and the unemployment. The recent election gave Labour a plurality as thin as a potato chip and almost as insubstantial. Wilson's delicate task is to pursue his Socialist goals without really catching them. Meanwhile, he has a problem with some of his own fractious ministers; their fetlocks will not stay put.

The Conservatives are still in shock at their losses. If a willing and qualified figure could be found to take Heath's place, Heath would be dumped as party leader. No such figure has appeared, so Heath hangs on. The most cohesive party is the Scotch Nationalists, demanding greater autonomy for Scotland. In Wales, they have the same idea.

No one, in any party, seems to have any workable plan for resolving the bloody situation in Ulster. Full-blown civil war is seen as a serious possibility. A settlement of the Rhodesian difficulty seems as remote as ever. The government still has South Africa to kick around, but that game has lost its zing. Terrorist acts continue. Public transport is appalling. Housing is in critically short supply. If the sugar shortage gets worse, it soon will be difficult to find a lump of sugar for one's tea.

Yet the "customary fortitude" prevails. Britain always appears to have something in reserve for contingencies, and the royal procession proceeds. Even Wilson concedes that things likely will get worse before they get perceptibly better, but England is neither dead nor dying. Like the discomfited Princess Anne, she will get where she is going— not in a waiting Rolls, to be sure, but somehow, somehow, somehow.

Economic Slippage Is At A Faster Pace Than Our Experts Predicted

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

The economy is sliding off faster and along a much broader front than forecasters anticipated.

Daily, news reports tell of new production cutbacks and layoffs. These have spread beyond the older problem areas of autos and home building. They have reached textiles, appliances and other segments of the consumer goods field.

The consumer, backbone of the spending stream which underpins the economy, seems to be tightening his purse strings. He is confronted with what appears to be no end of rising prices, plus growing concern about the future.

Prospects are that projections which foresaw a bottoming of the economy by mid-1975 and an upturn in the second half will be revised. New elements of doubt threaten to upset assumptions which figured in earlier calculations.

This probably is why the White House this week acknowledged that the "nation is moving into a recession". While the economy has been moving off its boomtime highs for most of this year, the National Bureau of Economic Research, the official voice on such things, has not pronounced it a recession. The White House, for obvious reasons, had been reluctant to go to the term.

But when statistics now in the mill are released, the trend will be unmistakeble. Industrial production is expected to be off this month. This is a measure of physical output — not inflated dollar totals, but actual units.

Also, gross national product, which measures all goods and services produced, is slipping rather sharply after weak performances going back to the first quarter. This will reflect a growing and general weakness.

But, politically, the worst statistic will reflect a softening employment picture. Unemployment, 6 percent on the last report, is expected to show a sharp rise. What's more significant, however, is the prospect the total employment will barely hold its own and may decline.

One of the fresh disappointments in the overall outlook is the prospect that capital spending by business, investment in new plant and equipment, may do no more than stay even in 1975. Latest estimates show business plans to spend some $124.8-billion next year for bricks, mortar and machinery. That's a 12 percent gain from this year in the dollar total. But when allowance is made for higher prices, the gain is wiped out.

Actually, performance in this area for 1975 may fall below this estimate. It was made before recent bad turns in the economy. Many plans may be postponed until there is less uncertainty about the future. It should be remembered that strong capital spending is essential to a strong economy.

Another factor dampening the outlook is the prospect that Washington will provide uncertain leadership. The Democrats are loud in their criticism of President Ford's economic program — claim it lacks force, is too weak. Still, there is no sign that the strengthened Democratic majorities in the House and Senate will be able to unite on any substitute.

Meanwhile, the problems brought on by the twin blight of still rising price inflation in a period of recession, may well multiply.

Much has been written and said about the liquidity of business, meaning the relation between cash coming in and obligations, such as loans, which must be serviced. The load of debt is great. This applies to individuals as well as businesses.

In the present climate, a spectacular bankruptcy, such as the Penn Central a few years back, might send out more than ripples.

marketing of the engines in the United States.

A key point in the contract, Keller said, was that Sun Baik Kim must give the Keller Corporation one of each machine developed for a separate use, and Keller can then use that prototype to sell the system in the United States.

The applications of the machine are wide, and its superiority to an internal combustion engine is clear, at least to those close to its development.

"The first engine will be a total replacement unit for the Japanese taxi industry," Keller said. "When their current engine wears out, they can replace it with this engine and cut their operating costs in half. That's why we waived all license fees: to get this machine on the world market."

Keller said a golf cart likely would be the next key development, for use in the United States as a golf cart and in Asia as a personnel carrier for industry. Compressors, vacuum pumps and generators likely would follow.

"Consider this," Keller said. "The generator would have a low, low operating cost in generating all of the power for a home, an office, apartments a shopping center and industry. It runs on kerosene, diesel, all of those fuels.

"This opens the way for development of a total energy package that can replace public utilities."

A refreshing attitude in city government.

Utilities commissioners were discussing the cost of burning Christmas lights in downtown Greenville during the holiday season.

Director Horne said his calculations showed the lights could be burned during the season for about $40 worth of current.

"You'll never make anybody believe it" Commissioner Gene Prescott said.

Horne said that out of the 35 million kilowatts delivered during the month of December, only 2,000 kilowatts would go for the Christmas lights.

"You've got to be wrong," Commissioner George Coffman laughed. "Thirty million must be for the Christmas lights.

At any rate the commission voted not to furnish power for the lights.

Life In The Middle Of An Artisitc Depression

This week I did not feel funny. Now, for the average person, not feeling funny is a state of mind that just has to be taken in stride. But for me, not feeling funny is a catastrophe. It's like James Bond trapped in a fallout shelter without a girl. It's like having the flu on Christmas day. It's like remembering on the fourth that you mother's birthday was on the third.

And my anguish over this sad state of affairs was aggravated by the fact that, as usual, I had put off writing this column until the last minute.

Of course, it's almost impossible to write a humor column without feeling funny, so I tried to MAKE myself feel funny. I did all the things that usually make me laugh. I looked in the mirror. I read the Atlanta phone book. I graded papers. I even looked at my wedding pictures. The latter did elicit a small chuckle, but their effect was short-lived.

The situation was rapidly turning into a full fledged crisis. "What am I going to do?" I wailed to my husband, who was calmly reading the newspaper, oblivious to my abject misery.

"About what?" he asked, peering over the top of the headline, U.S. URGES CONSERVING OF FERTILIZER.

"About the fact that I don't feel funny."

"How can you not feel funny when you live in THAT body all the time?" he commented.

"That was not funny!" I retorted. "This is a serious matter. I am in the middle of an Artistic Depression."

"Which is a fancy name for lazy. You told me you were having an Artistic Depression last week when you refused clean the cat prints off the toilet seat."

"You just don't understand the creative mind," I sniffed haughtily. "Beethoven, Coleridge, and Van Gogh all went through Artistic Depressions."

"So did Mickey Mouse, Moby Dick, and Bullwinkle," my husband grunted from behind the newspaper.

Obviously, he was not aware of the gravity of the situation. Yet. I took four Bufferin and two Excedrin and started throwing paper clips at the typewriter.

"If you break that typewriter, I'm going to artistically depress your head," said a grim voice from behind the newspaper.

I stopped throwing paper clips and began grinding my teeth together.

"Let me guess," said the voice. "You're practicing your imitation of a trash compactor."

I stopped grinding and started sighing.

"Please go turn down the thermostat", said the voice. "There's too much hot air circulating in this room."

"My mother told me that you wouldn't understand me," I moaned. "I thought I was getting a handsome prince, and instead I got a toad."

GAIL MICHAELS

"Look at it this way," the voice said. "You got a large addition to your frog collection."

I was tired of trying to convince him nicely that my tragic state of mind was for real. "You're an unsympathetic wretch!" I cried, tearing half the paper out of his hands."

"That did it!" he yelled. "You tore up the last frame of B.C. before I had a chance to read it, and you have put me in a rotten mood!"And I bet it didn't help your mood at all."

"Nope," I said. "I still don't feel funny. But you know the old Chinese proverb. Misery loves company."

Public Forum

To the editor:

Wednesday I went to give a pint of blood on the East Carolina University campus. As a student and a human being, I felt it my privilege and duty to do so. I am a nursing student who was up at 5:30 and worked all day at the hospital until 2:30. But I rushed back from Beaufort County Hospital, not even changing from my uniform, to meet the deadline to give. I arrived at Wright Annex at 3:35, only to find out that registration had closed. What was so disgusting was that publicity said that registration was from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. And signs at Wright verified that.

I think it is a sin and a shame that willing and eager donors such as I were turned away. It is not my fault nor any other student's that they could not get there at an earlier time, if their classes or other obligations prevented it.

I would have gone the first day, but knowing that the Bloodmobile would be here two days and Tuesday was more convenient for me I waited.

I was not the only disgusted person at Wright Annex that afternoon. Other donors as well as volunteers were appalled at the abruptness that one of the Tidewater personnel displayed about closing registration early.

It was disgusting to know that, as badly as blood is needed, people are turned away because someone may have to stay an extra hour to work. Is the point to meet the quota or to punch a time clock?

The quota was 600 pints for two days, and we sadly missed it. We had 481 to give, but 78 rejected for medical or other reasons. So we got only 403. There were around 30 or so students who came after 3:35 to find they could not give.

I sincerely hope there is never a shortage of blood in Pitt County or a dire need for blood, because, if there is, some people should think twice about the students turned away today by Bloodmobile personnel.

New Ground Rules Snag U.S. Quest For Peace In Middle East

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Suddenly, a radical change in the rules of the game has badly snagged the American quest for a magic Middle East coexistence formula and the peace effort now is a cliff-hanger drama.

Hopes for real—if agonizingly slow—progress are fading and some are wondering: Did Israel blunder and miss the boat?

The recent Rabat summit produced the classic dilemma of irresistible force and immovable body when Arab rulers anointed the Palestine Liberation Organization as the "only representative" of Palestinians. Only two weeks before, the PLO guerrillas won significant world recognition in an astonishing United Nations vote of 105 to 4 inviting them to this week's debate.

This show of muscle produced a new and discouraging dimension for Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's quest for peace. Americans had regarded King Hussein of Jordan as a moderate with whom fruitful negotiation was possible, but now he's practically out of the picture.

Perhaps, says one Israeli source, Israel missed a chance to negotiate Hussein back into a foothold in his former Palestinian territory, lost in the 1967 war. Now it's too late.

Hussein bowed out, noting "Israel was terribly slow" in that respect. Now, says the king, "a new reality exists and Jordan must adjust to it."

Hussein is retreating to what was the little Bedouin emirate of Transjordan before his grandfather, Abdullah, in the 1948-49 war sent troops across the Jordan River to annex the bulge. Abdullah adorned the combined result with the grandiloquent name of "Hashemite Kingdom of the Jordan."

Hussein hadn't a chance at Rabat. Arab rulers, fearful of their own positions, gave the PLO its way. Hussein, often marked for assassination by Palestine guerrillas, bowed to the inevitable.

Israel could have lived with Hussein at the head of a Jordan re-established in the west bank. Israel occupied the west bank in 1967. Now Israel faces the prospect of PLO domination of a state made up of the west bank on one side of her and the Gaza Strip, teeming with bitter refugees, on the other. Even short range, the PLO intends to settle for nothing less than a Palestine state on those lines.

Triumphantly ensconced as the head of an official delegation to the United Nations in New York, Yasir Arafat, the PLO chief, refuses to renounce belligerency. He talks in terms of a secular state for all Palestine, including what is now Israel. That is a minimum long-range goal. It would mean the end of a Jewish nation as such.

"It doesn't enter our minds to negotiate with a body that ... resorts to violence and terror to destroy our state," Premier Yitzhak Rabin told his parliament recently.

If Israel clings to that stand and the guerrillas to theirs, the deadlock is clear and thus the gloomy predictions of new war.

"The wounded wolves of Tel Aviv are preparing a fifth Middle East war with the support of the United States ... " said a member of the PLO executive. "The primary duty of the Arab states at this stage is to prepare themselves militarily and economically to face the new war."

The wherewithal for that is available. Arab oil money to the tune of $1.5 billion will flow to frontline Arab nations, including the PLO, and will go largely for arms.

Israel, meantime, is in bad economic trouble, the backlash of the 1973 war. She is spending $4 billion for defense this year to arm against a wealth of Arab equipment from Communist sources, and the severe strain is provoking painful dislocations.

The situation could hardly be more complex. Israel had liked to think Palestine wasn't the basic question, but rather it had been Israel's right to exist as a Jewish state. But clearly Palestine now is central to whatever happens.

It's difficult to say just who would be considered a citizen of the projected state. There are about 3.2 million Palestinians, including 475,000 in Israel proper and 650,000 in the west bank. Hussein will be de-Palestinizing his east bank Bedouin realm, now holding a million Palestinians, who will have an option of going or staying. Many likely will stay.

How many Palestinians now can be considered refugees is problematical. There are 650,000 refugees in 60-odd camps in Jordan, the Gaza Strip, the west bank, Lebanon and Syria, but many descendants of other Palestinians, now scattered all over the area, consider themselves refugees who haven't surrendered their claims to their conquered lands.

A further complication: The PLO is an umbrella organization for guerrilla groups. All told, they number about 30,000. Arafat's Al Fatah is the main group, but it has rivals, including extremist units who think Arafat insufficiently warlike. The differences, however, seem to center not so much on what should happen to Israel, but how and how quickly.

All this and more add up to a situation so complex as probably to frighten such rulers as President Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Saudi Arabia's King Faisal, caught between the heat generated by extreme emotion over Palestine and their own hopes for relative calm wherin they might seek some economic improvement.

The political wallop of the PLO was made abundantly clear at Rabat. The PLO can capture the imagination and support of Arab masses to the extent where rulers would be uncomfortable.

Iroquois Seek Intervention By President

HERKIMER, N.Y. (AP) — A district attorney has asked President Ford to intervene in a standoff between a group of Indians and state officials over two shooting incidents at an Indian encampment. The Indians had already asked for presidential intervention.

The new call came from Herkimer County Dist. Atty. Henry Blumberg, who said Friday he mailed a letter to Ford asking him to determine who has jurisdiction.

The Indians, most of them Mohawks, have said Ford should intervene and that the dispute centers on claims of jurisdiction by state authorities.

Two persons, including a 9 year-old girl, were wounded by sniper fire Oct. 28 as they rode by the encampment in automobiles. No one has been arrested in the shootings, and the Indians have refused to permit authorities to enter the campsite.

Indian spokesmen say that under terms of an 18th-century treaty between the United States and the Six Nation Iroquois Confederacy, only the President can handle such matters.

The Indians settled last May on the 613-acre site, owned by the state, for the avowed purpose of establishing their own community.

State Police have been negotiating with them in an attempt to further investigate the shootings, but the Indians' lawyers have been the only outsiders allowed onto the land.

The shooting victims are now listed in good condition at a hospital.

Most of those at the encampment are Mohawks from the St. Regis Reservation in northern New York.

The New York State government has asked federal courts to decide the question of who has title to the land, once a private girls' camp.

fluential Republican state chairman.

With this chorus of complaints in the background, Mr. Ford conferred with close advisers last week and told them he still intends to run — now more than ever. He believes the midterm election, disaster though it was, finally closes the book on the Nixon years. He feels he cannot realize his goals in two years and, like all previous Vice Presidents who have succeeded to the presidency, wants to hold the office in his own right.

As for Mrs. Ford's health, he is quoted by aides as asking rhetorically: "What am I supposed to do? Sit around wringing my hands?" If cancer should recur, they say, Mrs. Ford could have no better attention than as the President's wife.

In informing the Southern Republican state chairmen of his resolve, Mr. Ford was addressing hard-nosed conservatives, who while adamantly opposed to a rightist third-party movement today privately prefer Reagan as the 1975 party nominee over Mr. Ford. Indeed, the Southerners greeted him with expressions of concern over published reports that Mr. Ford would use conciliation and compromise with the swollen liberal Democratic majorities in Congress.

Mr. Ford's promises that he would not compromise on principle and would take a tough line against Congress did not move the Southerners. Nor did his announcement of candidacy end speculation among them about the 1976 nomination as Mr. Ford's advisers hoped it would. "We still see 1976 as wide open for any Republican — Ford, Reagan, anybody else," one chairman told us.

Having renounced third-party notions, Reagan will now start working toward the Republican nomination by preaching the conservative gospel on the banquet circuit. If Reagan shows progress, nervous moderates will seek a Milliken or some other new face. To prevent all this from making a de facto lameduck of Mr. Ford, he will need not only his early statement of candidacy but hard accomplishments to satisfy at least some critics.

... Exchange For $150 Million For Land

Indians, Eskimos Not To Block Development

MONTREAL, Que. (AP) — About 10,000 Indians and Eskimos have agreed to accept $150 million from the Quebec provincial government in return for a promise not to block development of the massive James Bay hydroelectric power plant in northern Quebec.

Premier Robert Bourassa called the compromise an "historic precedent for Canada."

The agreement in principle, signed Friday by representatives of all sides, calls for government to pay 6,000 Cree and 4,000 Eskimos $150-million tax free as compensation for lands lost to the project and disruption of their way of life.

JOFFREY BALLET TO TOUR RUSSIA

NEW YORK (AP) — The City Center Joffrey Ballet will make a four-week tour of Russia, sponsored by the State Department, opening in Leningrad Nov. 20.

There will be 49 dancers doing 15 ballets, also in Riga, Vilnius and Moscow.

The Joffrey Ballet toured the U.S.S.R. for three months in 1963 also, under State Department sponsorship.

The money is to be distributed to local Indian and Eskimo councils on a proportional basis. They will also receive a share of Quebec revenues from future hydroelectric projects.

The government will also provide the Indians and Eskimos 2,000 square miles of land for use as a reserve, and exclusive rights to hunting, fishing and trapping in a 25,000-square-mile territory.

Bourassa's government has termed the $11.9 billion James Bay project necessary to meet the province's expanding energy requirements.

Under the agreement the Crees and Inuits agree to suspend court proceedings to halt construction of the project. However, Billy Diamond, grand chief of the Cree council, said the settlement must be officially approved by Nov. 1, 1975, or court proceedings will resume.

May Announce Sugar Quota

By BERNARD BRENNER
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Ford administration may soon announce a new sugar import quota to head off an automatic 1975 boost in the already sky-high price of satisfying America's sweet tooth, a government source said Saturday.

The proposal would set up a "global quota" for U.S. sugar imports—which make up about half of the nation's sugar supply. Current import quotas, set up on a nation-by-nation basis, are to expire Dec. 31.

The move would be strictly a tool to prevent an automatic fat tariff hike on imported sugar which would be passed along to the American consumer, already hit by bad news from the nation's biggest sugar company Friday.

Amstar Corp. boosted its wholesale price of grocery sugar 7 per cent to 65.9 cents a pound, an increase which will almost certainly be passed along to consumers.

Since Jan 1, when a pound of sugar sold for 18 cents, the supermarket price has sky-rockted more than 300 per cent to 60 and 65 cents a pound.

Three Larceny Cases Reported

Three cases of larceny were reported by the Greenville Police Department Saturday.

The police investigated an alleged breaking, entering, and larceny at Ken's Furniture Store at Ninth and Dickinson Ave. at 4:24 a.m. A car containing stolen goods from the store was stored by Greenville police. No charges have been made.

T.J. Ashworth, Jr. reported an alleged breaking, entering and larceny of his garage at 1802 E. Fourth St. According to police reports optical tools were taken from Ashworth's car. No charges have been made.

Police also investigated the larceny of a car tape player valued at $134 owned by Michael Woodley at 1717 Morningside Place. No charges have been made.

Old Salem Recipient Of Award

Old Salem, the restored village of the Moravians, was awarded the annual Christopher Crittenden Memorial Award Friday. The award memorializes the life and career of the late Dr. Crittenden, who was director of the State Department of Archives and History and secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Literary Historical Association. The aware honored Old Salem for development of a program of interpretation by which the spirit and culture of that period in our state's history has been brought back to life.

Three Accidents Investigated

An estimated $1,900 property damage resulted Friday from a series of three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 3:30 p.m. mishap on U.S. 264, West of the Charles Street intersection and involved cars driven by Don Laws Melton of 1208 East Third St. and Susan Ann Pacenta of 302 Crown Point Rd.

Police, who charged Melton with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety and have no operators license, estimated damage at $600 to the Melton car and $250 to the Pacenta auto.

An estimated $800 damage resulted to a car driven by Michael Warren Alexander of 1907 Sherwood Dr. following a 9 a.m. collision at the intersection of Charles and 14th Streets.

Officers said the Alexander car was involved in a collision with a truck driven by Patsy Godley Gardner of Route 2, Greenville. No damage resulted to the Gardner truck and no charges were reported.

Cars driven by Charles Robert Hayes of 2709 East Third St. and Fred Teel of 911 Taylor St. collided about 9:30 a.m. on Third Street, west of the Washington Street intersection.

Police estimated damage at $200 to the Hayes car and $50 to the Teel vehicle.

Punishment To Fit The Crime

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — While Nancy Nowak was returning home from a party celebrating the end of a teachers' strike in suburban Fairport, a policeman stopped her for running a red light.

After learning that she was an English teacher, the officer said, "Good, I've been waiting five years for this."

He handed her a clipboard, pencil and paper and directed her to write 10 times "I will not run red lights."

She did better than that, adding the phrase "...or even yellow ones."

The officer, apparently pleased, then cut her sentence in half and required her to write the oath only five times.

Whip butter or margarine with honey and nutmeg and serve as a delightful topping for French toast.

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

Tuesday night, eight Conley seniors were priviledged to be guests at the annual Campbell College Alumni Association. Bill Byrd, Debbie Pfeiffer, Eric Moore, Wayne Holloman, Marianne Spain, Nettie Tyson, Keith Gould, and JoAnne Haislip attended the dinner meeting that was held at the Three Steers Restaurant in Greenville. This meeting included members from Pitt, Beaufort, and Greene Counties. Representing Campbell College were Dr. John Bunn, head of religion, Thomas Edwards, alumni secretary, and Todd Scarborough, director of Service Enterprises.

The Fort Eustis Honor Guard from Fort Eustis, performed Tuesday for the entire school. These men practice eight hours daily to achieve perfection. They perform at military funerals, parades, and special drill exhibitions. They also have a flag detail each morning and night. The entire team consists of 47 men, but only 17 performed at Conley.

Our relatively new music and band programs are moving along nicely. Several band students were fortunate to observe the ECU Band Day on October 26. This was a marching band competition. The participants of the competition were guests at the ECU-Dayton game. Also several band students attended the ECU Wind Ensemble on Nov. 10.

"Plug into Life—Experience the Future" was the theme for National Career Week at Conley. The week of November 10-16 was highlighted by a Career Day on Wednesday. Booths and exhibits were set up in the gym and representatives from various colleges, businesses, industries and occupations were on hand to talk with the students.

On November 14, members of the Conley Chapter of the FBLA began tramping through the surrounding communities of Greemville. With them they carry large suitcases. No, they're not running away; they're out getting orders for the Tom-Wat Show Case. This Show Case is full of great ideas for Christmas. It contains everything from booties to flashlights. Each article can be ordered separately, or if you have many presents to get, order the whole Show Case and save time. The orders will be taken from November 14-25.

The IPS Student-of-the-Week are Wayne Coward, Vanessa Barrett, Linda Hudson, Jeff Haddock and Darlene Hines. Congratulations, all of you!

On November 22, the SCA will sponsor a dance lasting from 8:00 until midnight. The featured band will be THE BAND OF OZ. The price is $2.00 a person. Try and get there. It should be a great dance!

Intervenes In Crop-Bulldozing

BLANTYRE, Malawi (AP) — President H. Kamuzu Banda has taken over a thousand acres of land from a mission south of Blantyre and handed it over to Malawians living in the area.

Banda took the step after the missionaries bulldozed maize crops planted on their land, according to a government statement.

"While there is freedom of worship in this country I will not allow any denomination to mistreat my people by bulldozing their maize," Banda said. The mission involved was not identified.

Girl Painter Takes Her Job Seriously

BRISTOL, Conn. (AP) — Girl," that's what college student Kathryn Anderson's male co-workers called her when she joined them during her vacation painting buildings for the local housing authority.

"It was difficult at first. They had to get used to me, get to know me," said 19-year-old Ms. Anderson, a title she prefers.

She said in an interview her first obstacle was convincing the men she worked with they would not have to do her work for her.

Richard Laviero, head of the housing authority's maintenance department, was among the early skeptics. He hesitated for a week before calling Ms. Anderson for an interview. He thought the work "too tough for a woman, you know, climbing ladders and lugging paint."

"But she surprised me and everyone else."

Alfred Catucci, housing authority executive director, said Ms. Anderson took her job "very seriously."

"Sometimes summer employees, because they know the job is only temporary, don't give it their best. But Kathy really takes pride in her work."

Ms. Anderson worked on a seven-member crew that paints on the average a two-story duplex each day.

Her foreman, Hank Barnum, praised her work, saying he'd "like to have five more like her."

Ms. Anderson said the heavy work was offset by "not being cooped up in an office" as she had been in previous summers.

She added that gaining acceptance from the men presented no special problem. She notes that she is one of 150 women in a sophomore class of 1,500 at Notre Dame University, where she majors in electrical engineering.

"I like to be able to pick the job I want," Ms. Anderson said.

Warns Arts Need Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The arts in America need new sources of revenue if they are to survive.

The warning was sounded at a convention here recently by RCA Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff, who is also chairman of the Business Committee for the Arts. He stressed that unless additional aid is forthcoming to the nation's performing arts and other creative activities, their $1-billion-a-year deficit may triple by 1980. He added that the increased revenues must be accompanied by a more businesslike attitude in the arts organizations since "in many cases their financial troubles are complicated by inept management."

He suggested three fresh fund-raising approaches: A system that would enable individual taxpayers to add from $5 to $50 to their income tax bill as a tax-deductible contribution to be turned over to the National Endowment for the Arts for distribution; wider adoption of the federated community fund-raising technique that has gained support for the arts in several of the nation's cities.

By Jerry Bishop

The massive double doors opening to the foyer of this Spanish home create interest when combined with the double door arrangement on the balcony and the arched veranda. The open exterior holds promise for an interior also lavish and spacious, with a living room spanning more than 27 feet.

The family room, to the left of the foyer, provides more relaxed family living and entertaining and is convenient to the kitchen, which includes eating space and built-in appliances. A storage area is provided at the rear of the kitchen and a washer and dryer are situated to the right of the kitchen, convenient also to the bath area.

The second story of this lovely home is equipped with three large bedrooms, two of which open to the balcony. A third entrance to the balcony is through the center hall. A massive closet, shower and double lavatories create pleasant convenience. The other two bedrooms share a bath, also equipped with double sinks. ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There's a great big plus when you conserve energy around the house. You save money!

Even when a suggested course of action entails an initial expenditure, the ensuing savings will offset the cost over a period of time and continue to pay dividends indefinitely.

Insulation retards the passage of heat. When the house is warm, it keeps the heat on the inside. When the house is cool, it keeps the outside heat from coming in.

Insulation, therefore, is essential to the successful operation of both your heating and air conditioning equipment. It enables the furnace and the air conditponer to work less to produce the desired results, which cuts down on the use of energy.

The mathematical formula for determining how much you save on heating and cooling costs is extremely complicated, taking into consideration the construction of the house, the efficiency of the heating and cooling equipment, the average climate in your area, the amount and kind of insulation and many other factors.

Undeniably, though, insulation is probably the most important individual element preventing the loss of heat through the walls, floors and ceilings of your house. It can range from a heat-loss prevention of 75 per cent to one of 35 per cent.

Your house is already insulated. How well it is insulated depends on the practice of the builder as well as the federal and local requirements at the time the house was built. These standards change frequently, with the tendency in recent years to require more and more insulation regardless of the type of heating, but especially where there is an electric heating system and — or an air conditioning unit.

There are four basic types of insulation: flexible, loose fill, reflective and rigid boards. The flexible comes in batts and blankets. Batts are short lengths of insulated material precut to fit between studs and rafters. Blankets are similar except that they are available in bags and bales and are poured into place. Rigid boards come in various widths and lengths. They are installed as walls or to existing walls much like wood paneling is. Reflective insulation has foil surfaces that reflect heat.

It is not easy to determine how well your house is insulated unless you had it built to order or bought it new and inquired about its construction before the purchase, the latter an unlikely possibility with most house buyers. But if you have had the house for a few years, you have probably already discovered whether it is well insulated, either through the very act of living in it or from a neighbor or someone who knows what went into it.

The older your house is, the less likely it is that it has sufficient insulation by modern standards.

(Thirty-five home handyman projects are discussed in Andy Lang's helpful handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666).

Tahitians Dig Their Brew

PAPEETE, Tahiti (AP) — Tahitians, according to officials, boast of being the biggest beer drinkers per capita on earth. Brewing is the largest business in the islands after tourism.

Two breweries operate around the clock to quench the thirsts of the Pacific island population of only 120,000. One of the two breweries makes a strong beer especially for the French military forces in the Polynesian archipelago and for export to Vietnam.

Because ingredients for the beer come from great distances it costs from 75 cents for a 12-ounce bottle in a store to $1.25 in a bar.

A group of beer wholesalers from the United States is coming to Papeete to try to find the "secret" of Tahitian brew.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We have wooden shingles on the roof of our house. I noticed the other day that one of them is cracked. It's only a slight crack and I would hate to go to the trouble of removing it and replacing it. A neighbor of mine recently had to replace a shingle, ran into all kinds of trouble and finally had to buy a shingle hook to get out the nails. Is this what I have to do or is there some other way of making a repair?

A. — If the shingle is only slightly cracked, it need not be replaced. But you'll have to get two pieces of copper long enough to fit under the entire cracked area. Insert one piece under the cracked shingle, another under the shingle directly above. There are other ways of avoiding removal of the shingle, notably the use of a crack filler, but the repair with copper is likely to be more permanent.

Q. — There is not enough water pressure in our house. None of the houses on our block has that trouble. Can you tell me what might be the cause?

A. — The first thing to do is to check the main water pipe leading into the house. Be sure the valve is fully opened; that is, turned counterclockwise as far as it will go. It is surprising how often this is the trouble. It is caused when someone makes a plumbing repair after turning off the water, then does not turn it all the way on when he is finished. Other possible causes: the pipes are too small; they are coated with rust and lime on the inside; they have too many turns and fittings; the service pipe that carries water into the house is clogged; or there simply is inadequate water pressure in your area. You can throw out the last reason, since you say that no one else in your neighborhood has similar trouble.

Q. — My concrete driveway has a large crack in it at one point. To fix it, do I simply pour a concrete mixture into it and smooth it off?

A. — Use a cold chisel and a hammer to enlarge the crack so that the bottom is a bit wider than the top. Remove all loose particles. Wet the opening thoroughly, then apply a ready-mixed concrete mixture. But if it "pours" too easily, the mixture has too much water in it. Add just enough water to make it workable, then force the mixture into the opening so that it's tightly packed. Smooth with a wooden float if the driveway has a rough surface, a metal trowel if it has a smooth surface. Wet down the patch a couple of times a day for several days. Make the repair when the temperature is not likely to fall below freezing for a day or two.

(The techniques of varnishing, lacquering, shellacking, bleaching and staining are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 30 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743.)

A MASS OF DETAILS

So it won't come as a complete surprise to you, as it does to a lot of homeowners who try to sell their own homes, here's something you should know about. Selling a home involves a mass of petty details. There's paper work to do, attorneys to be dealt with, a title search to be made, and vital arrangements to be made concerning down payment, escrow accounts and mortgage financing. Unless you're an expert on these subjects, you'll be working at a disadvantage. Erring on any one of these details could ruin your sleeping habits and your financial position.

Honestly, it pays to sell your home through a local Realtor. It's his full-time business to keep on top of these details. He's alert to every step of the transaction, knows how to make the necessary arrangements, and follow through on details. Mint Shows Photos Of China

At the Mint Museum of Art in Charlotte, an exhibition of 175 photographs, Behind The Great Wall Of China, is now on view. The subject of the exhibition is China: the land, the people, the changing ways of life. The perspective is historical, beginning with camera images of a century ago and progressing to documentary material almost as timely as today's news developments. The photographers were all Westerners—A small group of perceptive visitors to China.

The collection of work, primarily in black and white with several examples in color, was assembled by the Metropolitan Museum of Art and shown for the first time in New York in 1972. Cornell Capa, Executive Director of the International Fund for Concerned Photography, with the assistance of Weston J. Naef, Assistant Curator of the Metropolitan Museum's Department of Prints and Photographs, created the exhibition which includes works by the Scot, John Thompson, depicting China in the 1870's: photographs by Nym Wales (Helen Foster Snow) made in Red territory during the years of struggle between the Communists under Mao Tse-Tung and the Nationalists under Chiang Kai-Shek; views of the Sino-Japanese conflict made by Robert Capa in 1938; images by Henri Cartier-Bresson encompassing the final days of the Kuomintang and the emergence of the New China; and work by Marc Riboud and Rene Burri capturing the present look of the Chinese People's Republic—world power. Comments by the photographers accompany their work.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By KAY TAYLOR

Pitt County is fortunate in having so many eager, creative children. Over 400 boys and girls entered the recent writing and illustrating contest sponsored by the library. Today's Book News is a review of the two top papers.

Imagine a teenager suddenly faced with the responsibility of caring for six younger children. Fifteen year old Betsy Shaw finds herself in exactly this situation when her pioneer father takes a 250 mile trip to the closest city for supplies, and her mother is called to care for a sick neighbor. Although dubious about being left alone, Betsy graciously accepts the responsibility. Her first crisis comes when baby Cindy wanders away from the yard into a big uncut field. It is only after a frantic search that thirteen year old Tom finds the tiny girl.

Even more excitement is in store for the children the next day when an Indian Squaw with a sick baby arrives at the Shaw home. Betsy capably takes the situation in hand, making medicine for the baby and directing the other children as to how they can help.

Later the grateful Indian Squaw returns with her tribe, bearing gifts for each of the children. When the parents return, there is plenty for the children to tell them.

Hih Song Kim has done a masterful job in her story Strange Visitors in plot, character portrayal, and detail. Consider, for example, this passage typical of Hih Song's skill: "Just then Betsy noticed how concerned Robbie and Maria were for Cindy, how much Paula cared for Cindy, and how Stuart, like a man, held his grief and tried to comfort others."

Hih Song is certainly to be congratulated on her fine work.

Another excellent paper was submitted by Shawn Wallace and Jim Hamilton. Entitled The Battle Of Greenville, it is a highly imaginative account of fictitious Civil War battle for the town of Greenville. The paper is so well done that anyone unfamiliar with the history of the area would assume he was reading actual facts. The paper is very impressively illustrated with detailed drawings of soldiers and battles. It is impossible to convey the excellence of the illustrations in words. They must be seen to be appreciated.

Both The Battle Of Greenville and Strange Visitors are on display in the children's library at Sheppard Memorial library. Stop in and see what our school children in Greenville and Pitt County are doing.

Chamberlain, Holley Show Opens At Art Center Today

Two local artists one a retired faculty member of the School of Art, East Carolina University; the other still teaching at the same school, have teamed up for a joint show opening today at the Greenville Art Center.

A reception is being held at the center from 3 to 5 p.m. today. The public is invited to attend, to meet the artists and to view the exhibit.

Warren A. Chamberlain, Sr., a native of Rochester, N.Y. has lived in the Greenville area for a number of years. He was Chairman of Interior Design at the time of his retirement in 1971.

Chamberlain shows watercolors, many of them local scenes. These are realistically realized paintings of trees, houses, barns, fields and swamps in the colors of nature. He has the naturalist's love for detail and changing colors of seasons and skies.

He has had a number of one man and group shows in New York, Connecticut, and in North Carolina. Chamberlain has continued teaching in the area since his retirement, and was recently artist-in-residence for the Artrain appearance in Washington.

William Holley, professor and Chairman of Art Education at the School of Art, received his doctorate from Penn State in 1972. He has been teaching art for 15 years, ten of them at ECU.

Holley, who is both a sculptor and a painter, is represented in this joint show by watercolors and by chalk drawings. The chalk drawings are formal arrangements in deep and light blues, rusts, tans, blacks, and large areas of grays.

This group is characterized by use of symbols that seem to be interpretations of music notes and bars, or variations on playing card designs.

Holley has won numerous awards, both for sculpture and paintings. He has exhibited widely in North Carolina and in other states.

An Exhibition Of Quilts At The Museum Of History

By PEGGY HOWE

What do "Drunkard's Path" and "Whig's Defeat" have in common?

They're both names of beautiful quilts — part of the "Artistry in Quilts" exhibit which opened on Sunday, November 10 at the North Carolina Museum of History.

More than 100 quilts — some as old as the United States, and others as new as the bicentennial of the American Revolution—will be on display at the museum in Raleigh in a major exhibition.

The display of 120 quilts runs the gamut from plain as linsey-woolsey to fancy as a wedding quilt — and all in between. Emphasis is placed on those developed and made in North Carolina, John Ellington, Museum Administrator said. Local variations are highlighted, he added.

The exhibit, featuring both contemporary and traditional quilts, attempts to depict the development of quilt artistry from the utilitarian bed coverings made by early settlers to the most artistic and intricate designs, using a variety of colors and materials, produced by contemporary quilters.

The history and background of each of the guilts in the show has been researched and outlined in a catalog printed for the show. "Localisms" of an area are pinpointed in the catalog with descriptions of particular designs handed down by successive generations.

The catalog points out that each pattern may have had several names. Such names as "Grandmother's Flower Garden" and "Tulip" and "Star" are popular, but some are more unusual such as "Drunkard's Path," "Around the World," "Rocky Road to Dublin," or "Whig's Defeat."

"Drunkard's Path" and "Rocky Road to Dublin" are both names for an intricate two-color pattern. The same design is also called "Rocky Road to California," "Country Husband," or "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul." There will be three quilts bearing these names on display in the exhibit.

A few of the designs exhibited are 18th century examples of French and English origin. These, the oldest quilts, are from state historic sites and Tryon Palace.

Pirates Romp Past William And Mary

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

WILLIAMSBURG, Va.—Back in his high school days at Williamston High School, quarterback Mike Weaver was known as one of the East's most dangerous throwers.

But as a sophomore quarterback at East Carolina, his passing has been anything but spectacular—until Saturday afternoon that is.

For up at Cary Field, Weaver's pinpoint passing sparked the Pirates to a 31-10 victory over William & Mary's Indians. Weaver hit on six of ten passes for 189 yards. Going into this game, he had made good on just 12 of 56 for 199 yards.

Kenny Strayhorn picked up two of the Pirate touchdowns, scoring on runs of three and one yards. Willie Hawkins, another area player, from D. H. Conley High School, swept in on a 12-yard run on the other ground-route score. Weaver hit Theodore Ashford on a 74-yard pass in the second period for the other score.

Pirate kicker Jim Woody added four extra points and a 23-yard field goal for the 31-point total.

William & Mary's lone touchdown was a one yard plunge by John Gerdelman, while Terry Regan added the PAT and a 31-yard field goal.

Although the game started out as an offensive struggle, the Bucs completely dominated the second half, not allowing the Indians past the 50 until the fourth period when they had it out of reach.

But when the Bucs got to the dressing room, bad news awaited them. Appalachian State dropped Richmond, 14-13, and that ended any hope the Pirates had for a Southern Conference crown. If ECU should beat VMI next week, the Mountaineers will take it—if VMI wins, they are the champs.

That it was going to be a first-half offensive struggle became apparent early as both teams moved up and down the field grinding out 461 yards in total offense during the first half. East Carolin scored a field goal on its first possesion, then had to dig in to halt a similar Indian drive.

The Bucs started out at the 35, and on the first play, Weaver passed out of the I-formation, the first time the Bucs had switched out of their usual wishbone, which they used the rest of the way. Weaver then kept for 12 yards on the next play, and a holding penalty moved it to the Indian 38. Weaver hit Mike Shea for 16 yards and Strayhorn ran for 10. After two short gains and an incomplete pass, the Bucs settled for a 23-yard field goal by Woody with 12:35 left.

The Indians then raced downfield from their own 40, with the big play a 17-yard keeper by Deery to the 33. But after getting a first down on the 10, they failed to move it and a 28-yard field goal attempt by Regan failed.

The Indians got off another drive the next time they had the ball, moving from their own 17 to the Buc 42 before a penalty helped stop them.

But on the first play following the punt, Gary Oliver intercepted Weaver at the 25. A 13-yard penalty put it at the 12. Tom Smith got five yards and John Gerdelman picked up six in three carries. On the second play of the second period, he then cracked over from the one and a 7-3 lead following Regan's kick with 14:30 left.

The Bucs drove from their 43 to the Indian 21, where a fumble stopped them. Two plays later, however, Reggie Pinkney intercepted Deery at the Buc 26. From there, Weaver lofted a long pass to Theodore Ashford, who bobbled the ball, but pulled it in as the final Indian defender stumbled. Ashford's total yardage on the play went for 74 yards and the go ahead score following Woody's kick. 10-7 with 11:57 to go.

EC's Willie Hawkins scores on 12-yard run.

William & Mary came right back to tie it up, however. From the 25, they drove downfield for their lone field goal of the half. The biggest play was a 19-yard counter by Ivan Fears, from the Indian 48 to the Buc 33. But again, the Pirates dug in and forced a 31-yard field goal with 6:07 left, knotting it at 10-10.

It took East Carolina just seven plays to go back ahead. Weaver ran for six, then Strayhorn broke away for 21 to the Indian 48. The Bucs moved to the 42, from which Weaver hit Will Williamson at the six. Strayhorn hit to the three. Then went over left guard for the score with 2:45 to go. Woody's extra point made it 17-10.

The Bucs nearly got in on their first possession of the second half. They went from their own 44 to the six, missing a first down by inches on a fake field goal attempt. Weaver hit passes of 20 yards to Don Schink and 27 yards to Vic Wilfore but all it did was eat up the clock.

Another drive fell short, too. The Bucs started on their own 35, and Weaver hit Mike Shea for 16 yards to the Indian 49. He later scrambled for 14 yards to the 35, but the drive stalled there and a long 47-yard field goal attempt was short by Mike Cox.

But two plays later, Danny Kepley intercepted Deery at the 37 and returned to the one, fumbling there, but Jim Bolding recovered. Strayhorn went wide left for the score and Woody's boot made it 24-10 with 23 seconds left in the quarter.

Kepley's 36-yard return, by the way, snapped the career record for interception returns for the school with 196 yards.

What might have been another score for the Bucs was killed when Jimmy Bolding returned a punt from his own 30 to the Indian 19, but a clip at the W&M 48 pushed it back and the Bucs couldn't get going from their own 37.

The Indians finally crossed midfield midway through the final period. But a fumble turned it back to the Bucs at the Indian 40.

Tom Daub hit for 18, then added two more. Weaver kept to the 12, and from there, Hawkins scored his first collegiate touchdown, breaking a tackle inside the 10 to go the 12 yards to pay dirt. Woody again kicked for a 31-10 lead with 6:16 to go.

IThe Indians again just got over midfield, to the 46, but Ernest Madison intercepted at the 10. Another chance, against fresh defenders, saw the ball go over on downs at the Buc 33.

East Carolina used 11 different backs to run the ball, with Strayhorn leading with 58 yards. Tom Daub had 37 and Hawkins had 34, with Weaver adding 36.

Gerdelman led the Indians with 63 yards, while Fears had 59, Deery had 48 and Tom Smith had 32. Deery hit only three of 12 for 40 yards and he and second stringer Jim Kruis had three picked off.

The Pirates, now 7-3 overall and 3-2 in the Southern play the game that will decide the Southern Conference championship Saturday in Lexington, Va. against the VMI Keydets.

Citadel Blanks Furman, 24-0

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—Fullback Andrew Johnson rushed for 149 yards and scored two touchdowns to lead The Citadel to a 24-0 Southern Conference football victory over Furman Saturday night.

Johnson scored his first touchdown early in the second quarter on a 18-yard dash up the middle, giving the Bulldogs a 10-0 lead. Steve Bailey had kicked a 41-yard field goal on The Citadel's first possession, putting his team ahead 3-0.

Johnson came back in the third quarter with a 15-yard scoring run around right end to give the Cadets a 17-0 edge, capping an 82-yard drive.

The Citadel wrapped up its scoring late in the third period on a nine-yard scoring run by quarterback Gene Dotson. Dotson's run ended an 80-yard, 11-play series.

Furman never managed to mount a serious threat. The Paladins' deepest penetration was to The Citadel's 19 yard line, with just seconds left in the contest.

Johnson boosted his rushing total for the season to 1,266, just 33 yards short of the conference single season record of 1,309. The Citadel has one game left, against Davidson, next Saturday.

State Had Decided Edge

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—North Carolina State increased a 21-14 halftime lead to 35-14 at the end of the third quarter Saturday night as the Wolfpack met the Sun Devils of Arizona State.

In the third quarter, a fourth and 10 pass from Buckey to Pat Hovance saved an N.C. State drive that was capped with a five-yard touchdown pass to Roland Hooks, his second of the game.

Win Puts ASU In Tie For Lead

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Phil Coccioletti directed two time-consuming drives for touchdowns and Appalachian State stopped a Richmond two-point conversion try wth 1:47 left Saturday as the Mountaineers edged the Spiders 14-13 and gained a tie for the Southern Conference football lead.

Coccioletti scored what proved to be the winning touchdown on a five-yard run with 45 seconds left in the third period and Gary Harmon's second conversion kick turned out to be the winning margin.

Quarterback Harry Knight guided Richmond 80 yards in the last six minutes, John Palazeti scoring from five yards out. But when Knight tried to roll out for a two-point conversion, he was stopped three yards short by David Webb and Quinton McKinney.

Appalachian closed out its season with a 4-1 conference record and can win the title outright if Virginia Military, also 4-1, loses to or is tied by East Carolina next Saturday. Appalachian finished 6-5 overall. Richmond, now 5-4 over-all, is out of the conference race with a 3-2 mark and one game remaining.

Each team scored the first time it had the ball but most of the drama was packed into the final quarter with Appalachian's ground game barely offsetting the passing of Knight, who hit 15 of 30 for 184 yards and one touchdown.

Clinton Bradshaw ran 17 times for 86 yards, Calvin Simon had 56 yards on 12 carries and Coccioletti ran 15 times for 51 yards as the Mountaineers rolled up 236 yards on the ground.

Appalachian used up exactly half the first quarter with an 18-play, 71-yard drive capped by Jimmy Dobbins' one-yard run.

But Richmond came right back to tie it, going 67 yards in eight plays with Knight hitting tight end Rickey Brown for the last 23 yards.

Harmon missed a 45-yard field goal try for Appalachian and Terry Carter—who was to miss with 47 yards with six seconds left—kicked wide on a 41-yard effort. ASU using up more than six minutes late in the third period on a 15-play, 80-yard march that ended with Coccioletti's touchdown.

Richmond was stopped once from the Mountaineer's 22 when Mike Mahoney was called for offensive pass interference in the end zone, turning the ball over to Appalachian.

Richmond got the ball with 6:12 remaining and Knight, throwing on almost every play, drove the Spiders 80 yards, Palazeti scoring with 1:47 left. But Richmond tried for the two-point conversion and failed.

The Spiders recovered an onside kick at midfield and reached the Appalachian 26 with 36 seconds left, but Knight was thrown for a five-yard loss and Carter was short on the field goal try that would have won for Richmond. It was the third miss for the Richmond kicker, who was far short on a 34-yard effort midway through the third quarter.

Gamecocks Battle Past Wake Forest Deacons

COLUMBIA (AP)—Sparked by the running and passing of quarterback Jeff Grantz, South Carolina pinned a 34-21 football defeat on Wake Forest Saturday night.

The setback was the 12th consecutive for Wake Forest, owners if the nation's longest losing streak among major schools. It also was the 20th consecutive game in which the Atlantic Coast Conference team had failed to taste victory.

Grantz, recently recovered from an ankle injury, piloted the independent Gamecocks smoothly on four long touchdown drives as South Carolina took its fourth victory against six defeats.

For a time it appeared that the youthful Deacons might make a game of it. Trailing 18-0 at the half, Wake Forest struck early in the third period when South Carolina fumbled the second half kickoff at its 19. Clark Gaines took it over from the one a few plays later.

That brought South Carolina to life for marches of 74 and 71 yards to put the game out of reach. Halfback Randy Chastain bolted 32 yards for one touchdown and Grantz passed nine yards to Don Stewart for the other.

Grantz passed for three yards to Steve Blackmon for one touchdown and Jay Lynn Hodgin plunged over from a yard out for the other to cap the first half touchdown marches that Grantz engineered. Steve Young had 27 and 37 yard field goals.

The 21 points was the most scored by Wake Forest in a game this season. The previous high was 15 in an opening loss to N.C.State.

The Deacons scored twice late in the fourth quarter. Sophomore Jim Mach zipped over from the one and freshman quarterback Solomon Everett tossed a 67-yard bomb to junior Walter Sims.

Wake Forest's Gaines led all rushers with 132 yards in 30 carries. Hodgin topped the South Carolina runners, picking up 104 yards in 16 attempts.

Hodgin, the second all-time leading rusher for South Carolina with a career total of 22 with tonight's tally, is three touchdowns away from tying the record set by Steve Wadiak, 1948-51. One game remains.

Virginia Military Rolls Past Red Raiders

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — Tailbacks Kim Glidewell and Ronnie Norman combined for 287 yards as Virginia Military Institute's Keydets whipped Colgate 31-14 in an intersectional football game Saturday.

Glidewell, a sophomore from Falls Church, Va., scored three touchdowns as he piled up 114 yards.

Norman, a senior from Norfolk, Va., added his team's fourth touchdown and set a VMI single-season rushing record as he rambled for 173 yards. With one game remaining to play, he has a total of 938 yards, 146 more than the old record of 792 set by Tom Sowers in 1968.

Colgate came into the game ranked sixth in the nation in rushing with an average of just under 300 yards per game. But after driving 75 yards for a touchdown the first time they had possession, the Red Raiders wishbone attack bogged down and they finished with only 203 yards on the ground.

After both sides muffed good scoring chances at the outset of the second half, VMI began pulling away as Norman scampered 37 yards for his touchdown. Not to be outdone, Glidewell ripped 37 yards off right tackle for an early fourth quarter score.

Glidewell's other six-pointers came on runs of two yards in the first period and six in the second.

Colgate's touchdowns were registered by quarterback Bruce Basile, who ran 19 yards midway of the first quarter, and by splitend David Lake, who took an over-the-middle pass from Basile and outraced the Keydets 65 yards to the end zone.

Accounting for more than half of Colgate's yards on the ground were Basile who had 68 and halfback Pat Healey who was close behind with 65. Basile added another 109 yards through the air.

Fellers Passes Tigers To Win

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Mark Fellers threw two long touchdown passes and scored on a run Saturday to lead Clemson to a 28-9 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over Virginia.

Craig Brantley, junior end from Charlotte, N.C., gathered in throws from the senior quarterback, also from Charlotte, on scoring plays of 55 and 97 yards. The latter set a school record.

Insurance touchdowns for Clemson in the second half came on Don Testerman's one-yard burst and a 12-yard run by Fellers.

Virginia's scoring was in three field goals by Joe Jenkins, on kicks of 46, 37 and 42 yards.

Virginia blew its best scoring chance when it fumbled at Clemson's one in the second period. Virginia covered a Clemson fumble at Clemson 22 in the third stanza but had to settle for a field goal.

Clemson's longest scoring drive was only 43 yards, coming after Bill Wingo intercepted a Virginia pass. The march was capped by Testerman's touchdown.

Another Clemson interception by Dennis Smith inside Virginia's 30 set up Feller's scoring jaunt, assuring victory and putting Clemson's record at 6-4 overall and 4-2 in the conference. Virginia is 4-6 and 1-4.

Brantley stepped off 70 yards of the 97-yard scoring pass he took from Fellers. He was wide open down the sidelines when he caught the throw. On the 55-yarder, Brantley's running accounted for about 25 yards in which he evaded two tacklers.

Billy Copeland of Virginia was the game's leading rusher with 119 yards on 23 carries, as the Cavaliers rushed for 202 yards. Clemson matched this with 203 yards, with Ken Callicutt accounting for 50 in 11 carries to lead his teammates.

The big difference was 157 yards passing, most of it on the two scoring plays, to 32 yards in the air for the visitors.

Jenkins had been having a poor season on field goals in previous games, connecting on only three of 13. His kicking was perfect against Clemson.

The victory gives Coach Red Parker his first winning season in his two years at the Clemson helm. Only South Carolina, which visits Clemson Nov. 23, remains.

Kupec Bombs Army, 56-42

By REESE HART

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Quarterback Chris Kupuc passed for four touchdowns, ran for one and set up another to lead North Carolina's Tar Heels to a wild 56-42 victory over Army Saturday.

A crowd of 38,900 saw the Sun Bowl-bound Tar Heels score two touchdowns in each quarter to run their season record to 6-4 as Kupuc turned in a brilliant passing performance.

North Carolina struck quickly for a first period touchdown on a five yard pass by Kupuc to cap a 74-yard drive. Army retaliated by going 83 yards with Markus Hardy scoring on a 23-yard run.

North Carolina went ahead 14-7 on a one-yard run by Mike Voight after Kupuc hit Jimmy Jerome on a 41-yard pass. The Cadets tied it up 14-all in the second quarter on Brad Dodrill's seven-yard run. Army then went ahead 20-14 when Hardy went over from the Tar Heel three.

North Carolina scored two quick touchdowns in the second quarter on a 29-yard pass from Kupuc to Pat Norton and 32-yard pass from Kupuc to Jerome. The Tar Heels ran the margin to 42-20 in the third quarter. Voight scored from the Army six and Kupuc hit Ray Stanford on a 41-yard pass. The final Tar Heel touchdowns came in the last quarter on Voight's two-yard run and a 17-yard pass from Kupuc to Andy Chacos.

Army, now 3-7 for the season, scored three times in the last quarter, twice by Scott Gillogly on runs of four and three yards, and a 33-yard pass from Leamon Hall to John Hodges.

Kupec completed 10 of 12 passes for 214 yards to run his season total to 1,391, breaking the school record of 1,234 set in 1962 by Junior Edge.

Voight led the North Carolina ground attack with 172 yards and 28 carries. Gillogly was tops for Army with 99 yards and 17 carries.

The Tar Heels were behind 20-14 late in the second quarter when they scored two quick touchdowns to hold a 28-20 halftime lead. The first came on a 74-yard drive in six plays capped by Kupec's 29-yard pass to Norton. Shortly later, Army punted and Mel Collins returned it 38 yards to the Army 32 from where fired an aerial to Jerome for the touchdown.

Maryland Smashes Duke

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Bob Avellini completed 10 of 11 passes for 191 yards, including a touchdown aerial to tight end Walter White who scored three times in the first half, and led 13th-ranked Maryland to a 56-13 rout of Duke in the 28th annual Oyster Bowl Saturday.

The runaway victory clinched Maryland's first Atlantic Coast Conference football championship, with the Terps running up their largest score in 20 years. Maryland has won five straight in league play.

The Terps, headed for the postseason Liberty Bowl, scored on eight of their first 10 possessions after entering the game as a 14-point favorite.

White scored on a 13-yard pass from Avellini to complete a 21-0 first quarter, and then ran for touchdowns on endaround scampers of 10 and eight yards as Maryland rolled up a 35-7 halftime advantage.

John Schultz, Maryland's short-yardage specialist, scored the first two TDs for the Terps with plunges of one and four yards. The junior wingback scored his seventh touchdown on the ground on his 31st carry of the season.

Maryland, now 7-3, exploded for 21 more points in the third quarter including a 60-yard run by Rick Jennings on the second play of the second half.

Duke, with a 6-4 record, including 2-3 in the ACC, scored on the final play of the first half when split end Fordham caught a 15 yard deflected pass from Bob Corbett. The Blue Devils scored again in the fourth period on a one-yard run by Tony Benjamin.

Avellini, a senior who did not play until the fourth quarter of this year's second game, established two school records Saturday. He ran his season total to 1,551 yards passing and 1,585 yards in total offense.

He completed a 38-yard pass preceding Maryland's second touchdown and a 31-yarder to help set up the third TD for the Terps. His only incompletion was a long bomb to the Duke five late in the first quarter.

Maryland, which had beaten Duke only four times in 18 previous games, had 537 yards in total offense.

Jennings, replacing injured tailback Louis Carter, gained 105 yards on 14 carries.

Steve Mike-Mayer, who booted six extra points and ran his season scoring total to 75 points, missed field goals of 39 and 50 yards. The first failure came after a 68-yard punt return by Ken Schroy in the second period.

Corbett completed 13 of 25 passes for Duke, gaining 236 yards although he did not play until late in the second quarter. Starting quarterback Hal Spears gained 78 yards on six completions in 11 attempts.

Maryland, ranked No. 7 in the nation in scoring defense while giving up nine points a game, held Duke on four downs from the three in the final quarter. But an offside penalty gave the Blue Devils another chance and Benjamin scored.

Maryland and Duke shared the ACC title in 1953 and 1955, when both teams were undefeated in league competition but failed to play each other.

Sanford Halts Rampants In Title Bid

SANFORD—Rose High School lost the chance to put a tieing touchdown on the scoreboard late in the first half Friday night, and Sanford Central High School took advantage of it to gain a 13-9 victory over the Rampants.

The loss, in the first round of the State 4-A Playoffs, ended the season for the Rampants, while it allowed the Yellow Jackets to move into the quarterfinals against the winner of the Fayetteville Reid Ross-Jacksonville game next weekend.

Rose, trailing 7-0, drove down to the two yards line, but an illegal procedure penalty nullified a Doug Paschal touchdown. Then, two plays later, another apparent touchdown failed when a pass was dropped in the end zone. Rose had to settle for a 26-yard field goal by Jeff Hagans, but the Rampants couldn't come back from that—despite having the opportunity.

Sanford, which had scored on a one-yard plunge by Mitchell Strickland seven minutes earlier, drove downfield in the final three minutes of the half to take a 13-3 lead at halftime on a 32-yard pass from P.G. Gay to Greg Robinson.

Rose came back in the second half to score on a 14-yard run by Paschal, but they could never mount another drive to score to take the lead.

Sanford took advantage of several Rose mistakes, penalties and fumbles, but when the Yellow Jackets turned the ball over twice in the closing minutes of the game, Rose was unable to swing the momentum to themselves.

Sanford got moving on their very first possession, moving from their own 27. After a first down at the 41, Gay hit Jim Atkinson over the middle for a 51-yard gain down to the Rampant eight. But the Rose defense dug in, holding the Jackets at the five, and they took over there.

But several plays later, a fumble turned the ball back to Sanford on the Rampant 37. Three plays netted eight yards, but Strickland picked up the first down on the fourth play at the 27. He carried twice more for 13 yards, then got help from a five-yard Rose penalty to the nine.

Strickland hit to the six, and on the second play of the second quarter, Gay for a first down at the four. The first play netted nothing, but on the second Strickland bulled over right tackle to the one. He used the same hole on the next play for the score, and Robinson's kick made it 7-0 with 10:02 left.

Rose then mounted its first scoring drive. Using their three running backs all the way, the Rampants drove it downfield in 15 plays. Andrew Newton did most of the work, picking up 44 yards in just four carries. From his own 42, he broke away for 28 to the Jacket 30. Then, he added seven more on second down, and five more on fourth to the 16. The Rampants got a first down at the six after Paschal picked up nine yards. Newton hit up the middle for four to the two, and Paschal hit over from there. But Rose had a lineman moving on the play, and it killed the score, backing them up to the seven. One play lost a yard, then a pass into the end zone was dropped for another sure chance at the score. Rose then opted for the field goal, with Hagans kicking it 26 yards for a 7-3 deficit with 3:18 left.

But Sanford quickly came back. Strickland broke away for 12 to near midfield on the first play. Then, two plays later, Barry Patterson got away for 10 to the Rose 39. He added 12 more yards in two carries, but two passes then fell incomplete, one nearly picked off. A five-yard penalty for delay of game set Sanford back to the 32, but from there, Gay hit Robinson in the end zone for the score, making it 13-3 with 16 seconds left.

The Jackets then successfully recovered an on-sides kick, but the Rose defense would not give up the bomb again as time ran out.

After holding Sanford following the second half kickoff, Rose drove 70 yards to its only touchdown. On the first play, Newton spurted through the middle and was finally pulled down at the Sanford 37, after racing 33 yards. Paschal got five and Newton five more to the 28 after an initial loss of a yard. Paschal then got the first down at the 28. After another loss, Lindberg Morris got eight and Paschal hit for five more to the 14. He then shot through the middle and into the end zone to close the gap to 13-9 with 6:44 left. Rose went for two to try and close within field goal range, but Henry Trevathan's pass to Curt Creech was caught just beyond the end line.

Sanford drove down the field following the play, moving to the Rose six before a bad pitchout cost them the ball as Harry Pair recovered. They got the ball back in good field position again after forcing a Rose punt, at the Rampant 44. But again, after driving to the 10, they fumbled away their chances to put the game away.

Morris got away for 24 yards to get Rose out of the hole but Sanford stiffened and again forced the punt. Rose also held, but a 48-yard kick by Robinson put them into another hole at the four with 5:38 left in the game.

Rose bagan to move it, but couldn't eat up ground quickly enough. With 2:48 to go, they had reached only 23 yards further down field, and the Rampants decided to go to the air for quicker and longer yardage. The pass, however, was picked off by Gay at the 37, and from there, Sanford ran out the clock, clinging to their precious lead.

Rose, after appearing in the state playoffs for the second straight year, closes a 7-4 on the season.

New Citadel Coach May Have Best Guard

By WOODY PEELE

(One of a series)

CHARLESTON, S. C. — During the off-season, The Citadel Bulldogs had some key losses. They lost three starters from last year's team, and they lost their head coach, George Hill.

But all is not lost for the Cadets, who return one of the best point guards in the league. And their new coach, Les Robinson, was an assistant under Hill, keeping a certain amount of continuity.

There are a few other lettermen around, plus one other starter, and this gives Robinson hopes that The Citadel will be able to move out of the lower depths of the Southern Conference and challenge for one of the important upper division spots. These spots are even more important this year because of the new tournament format. The top four entertain the lower four at their home courts for the first round, with the four winners moving to Greenville, S. C., for the semifinals and finals.

Back to lead the way is Rodney McKeever, a hot-shot freshman last year, who was named to the All-Freshman team in the league. He was the top scorer for The Citadel all year, (15.0) and many believe he may be the best point guard in the league.

Also back is 6-8 junior center Richard Johnson, who averaged 7.1 point a game and as many rebounds.

Returning lettermen include 6-0 junior Rick Bager and 6-5½ sophomore Ricky Day, who saw a lot of action last year. "We are going to build around these four," Robinson said.

But as far as the fifth man and depth is concerned, Robinson admits that there are still a lot of question marks. "Among our newcomers are several who could help us, Jim O'Connell (6-7½); Mike Ange (6-6); John Rodgers (6-4½), and Greg Morrison 6-1)," the coach said. "We're also getting some good work out of Don Server (5-8 sophomore) who may be our backup for McKeever. Sophomore John Trimble (6-6) will probably figure in too."

The team generally is a young one. There is only one senior on the team, Jerry Collis (6-6), who still has yet to letter. "But despite being so young, I'm optimistic about this year, and the future looks bright for us," the coach said.

Robinson plans to have his Bulldogs play an aggressive full court press on defense. "We hope to be able to open up our offense too, and utilize McKeever's skills. But we are not sure about our ability to get the ball off the boards. And of course, we expect the transition (of coaches) to take a little time."

While the 'Dogs will press, they expect to drop back into a zone downcourt. "We will play some man-to-man, but we don't have a lot of quickness to play that way all the time."

Robinson looks for Johnson and Day to handle the rebounding. "We do have a height problem, and we're probably the smallest team in the league. Also McKeever is our only dependable scorer. We need to get some from the others, and again we look to Day and Johnson."

Furman, Robinson feels, is the team to beat in the league, with East Carolina and Davidson battling for second.

"We have goals that we feel are realistic," Robinson said. "We want to have a winning season, and we want to finish in the upper division. We want to win our opening tournament game. And we want to fill our field house."

The Citadel is playing only 20 games this year. "We were supposed to get into a tournament or two, but somehow or another these plans fell through. I'm not worried about any long layoffs, however. I think we have the men who can win for us against the odds."

Defiance Survives Davidson Rally

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP)—Quarterback David Harper threw three touchdown passes and his teammates withstood a furious two-touchdown comeback by Defiance as Davidson won 28-20 in nonconference football Saturday.

Harper, spearheading a Davidson attack that built up a 28-6 lead, started his scoring spurt by hitting freshman Stan Brown on a 44-yard touchdown pass.

In quick succession, he followed that with touchdown passes of three yards to senior Gary Pomeroy and 35 yards to freshman Chris Harris.

Definance, under the arm of quarterback Paul Heinbaugh, refused to quit, adding two quick touchdowns in the last three minutes.

A potential game-winning drive by Defiance was stopped with 27 seconds left in the game when Eddie Womack intercepted a Heinbaugh pass at the Davidson 21.

The Yellow Jackets made it 28-14 when Heinbaugh threw 29 yards to Jesse Jackson for a touchdown with 2:46 left. The same team connected for the conversion.

Definance tried an onside kick and recovered it at the Davidson 45. In eight plays Heinbaugh found Mike Hush on a five-yard pass and another touchdown.

Another onside kick and another Defiance recovery, this time at the Davidson 44, set up the futile drive interrupted by Womack's interception.

Fullback Steve Still added Davidson's other touchdown, on a one-yard run, as the Wildcasts pushed their season record to 2-6. The loss evened Defiance's record at 5-5.

The game produced a passing duel between Heinbaugh and Harper, with Harper coming out with the victory and an edge in the statistics.

Elon Takes Carolinas Title

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Don McLaughlin's 81-yard punt return was the biggest of Elon's four big first half scoring plays as the Christians trimmed Lenoir Rhyne 28-14 Saturday to win the Carolinas Conference football title and move into contention for an NAIA playoff berth.

Elon, 14th nationally among smaller school teams, scored twice in each of the first two periods in bringing its overall record to 9-1. The Christians are 4-0 in the conference and have won or shared the title four years in a row.

Martin Page passed 35 yards to Rod Evans and Prince Deese ran 23 yards for Elon's first period scores. After McLaughlin's long punt return in the second period, Diffy Ross stole a lateral and ran 36 yards for the final Elon tally.

Lenoir Rhyne, now 6-3-1 and 1-1 in the league, scored twice in the last period. Mike McWhirter ran 24 yards for the first Bear touchdown and Tommy Bradley passed 26 yards to Ben Sheffield for the second.

Lenoir Rhyne held a 264-114 rushing yardage edge, but was stymied by five lost fumbles.

FARMVILLE—Havelock used a 27 yard interception score and a goal line stand to squeeze out a 26-14 win over the Farmville Central Jaguars in the first round of the state 3-A playoffs, Friday night.

The Jaguars were trying to build up a 14-12 lead in third third quarter when a pass was intercepted by Havelock's Herb Quiller and returned 27 yards to put the Rams back in front, 18-14.

The score did not shake the Jaguars long and they drove right back to the Ram one where they were forced to turn over the ball. Havelock scored again in the fourth quarter to insure their win and the chance to meet Ahoskie in next week's quarterfinals.

Both teams from the Eastern Carolina Confrence fell Friday night. Farmville Central was the second place team in the ECC. Ahoskie beat the state's top ranked high school team, Southern Wayne, 32-0 in a surprise game at Ahoskie.

Jeff Wilkes scored both the Jaguar touchdowns on runs of one yard each and picked up 61 yards rushing. Jeff Frazier got two of the Ram scores on runs of 21 and 43 yards. He also ran for 133 yards.

One glaring difference in the game's statistics was in the rushing department. Havelock used its backs to pick up 285 yards and the Ram defense held the Jags to 70. The Rams were unable to complete either of the two passes they attempted but Greg Joyner completed 12 of 29 for 272 yards. Both teams collected 13 first downs.

Havelock jumped out to a 12-0 first quarter lead before the Jaguars had gotten started. Farmville Central fought back, however, on scores by Ronnie Gay and Jeff Wilkes giving them the lead at halftime.

But Havelock intercepted the pass in the backfield and returned it for a score putting them back in front. Farmville Central was coming back with a touchdown drive but could not open the Ram line at the goal line and after that, Farmville could not move the ball on the ground.

Havelock got a break that led to its first score. After forcing a punt, the Jaguars fumbled the kick giving the Rams another start at the FC 25. A short gain moved it to the 21 and from there, Frazier swept right end for the score.

Neither team put together a sustained drive until late in the quarter when Havelock used two big plays to get another score. On third down at their 22, Frazier cut outside and picked up 17 yards and a fifteen yard penalty on the Jaguars was added to it giving the Rams a first down on the Farmville Central 45. One play later Frazier slipped past the tackles and went 43 yards to give the Rams a 12-0 advantage.

Then the Jaguars seemed to get themselves together and rolled down to a TD. After a five yard pickup by Wilkes on second down at the 24, Joyner passed to Emerson Hobgood for 34 yards. Wilkes picked up nine on a pitch and Gay aadded one setting the first down on the Ram 27.

Joyner hit Jojo White for 10 more yards on a pass but FC lost five on a penalty. They got all but one yard back on a 14 yard pass to Hobgood. Wilkes carried twice to the one and went in on the next play. Joyner pitched out to Gay for the conversion.

The Jaguars stopped Havelock on its next possession but when the Jaguars got the ball, guard and defensive lineman Bynum Satterwhite was injured and could not return. This took out a big part of Farmville Central's front line moving company as well as some of their stopping power on defense.

The Jaguars used Joyner's passing to get the next score. On third and 15, Joyner caught Arthur Barnes between the seams of the Ram zone for 57 yards. A play late, Joyner was injured but Carroll Griffin stepped in and guided the Jags to the score. He passed to Gay for 21 yards to the seven, kept himself for six and handed off to Wilkes for one yard and the TD. Griffin's pass failed but the Jaguars had a 14-12 lead with one second left in the half.

Near disaster struck on the Jaguars second possession of the second half. They had recovered a blocked field goal attempt on the 11. With Wilkes and Gay doing the work, Farmville Central moved the ball to their 33. A pass dropped incomplete and Gay got one yard on second down. Joyner tried a screen to Wilkes but Quiller raced between Joyner and Wilkes picking off the ball and he went the remaining distance to score.

Farmville Central shook it off and began where they had been interupted. On second down at their 39, Hobgood took a pass for 34 yards and one play later, Joyner threw to Gay for 22. Wilkes carried twice moving the ball to the half-yard line but the Jaguars could not get it in.

That play was the turning point in the game. The Rams got the ball back again mid-way through the third period and added the clincher on a 45 yard drive as Ray Toler scooted in from the six. He also added the two-point conversion for the final 26-14 difference.

Gay caught six passes for 92 yards, Hobgood three for 82 and White two for 46.

Celtic Coach Angry Over No Call

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn cried foul because official Mark Schlafman wouldn't.

With his Celtics trailing 110-109 and six seconds showing on the clock Friday night, Heinsohn watched Boston guard Jo Jo White drive three-quarters the length of the court against Scott Wedman of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

White went up for what would be a game-winning layup, but the ball missed everything, hitting neither basket nor backboard. Heinsohn waited for a foul to be called on the play.

No call. KC-Omaha wins.

And that's when Heinsohn cried foul.

"When you drive to the hoop like that for the last shot and there's no foul, I'm a monkey's uncle," Heinsohn said, visibly angry.

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association Friday night, the Washington Bullets beat the New Orleans Jazz 104-95, the Detroit Pistons stopped the Seattle SuperSonics 117-103, the Chicago Bulls defeated the Phoenix Suns 102-95 and the Los Angeles Lakers topped the Philadelphia 76ers 105-99.

In the American Basketball Association, the Utah Stars whipped the New York Nets 109-98 and the Denver Rockets beat the Indiana Pacers 120-114.

"Wedman not only had Jo Jo on the wrist, he had him on the whole thing, the whole body. It was Schlafman's call and he didn't want to call it," Heinsohn fumed.

The Kings took an early 15-point lead in the game, then watched the Celtics come back for a 109-106 lead with 2:39 to play. But that was all Boston could manage, and it was not enough as Jimmy Walker hit a basket with 2:24 to play and Larry McNeill sank two free throws at 1:37 to put the Kings on top.

Nate Archibald scored 29 points and backcourtmate Walker hit for 23. Boston's John Havlicek led all scorers with 30.

Elvin Hayes erupted for 34 points to pace Washington past the expansion Jazz, but the big excitement there came with three minutes left in the third quarter, when New Orleans' guard Pete Maravich was ejected from the game .

Eagles Roll Past Apex In First Round

APEX—Robersonville used a balanced offensive attack coupled with a staunch defensive effort to overcome Apex 40-7 in the first round of the state 2-A playoffs, Friday night.

Apex, champion of the Mid-East conference was held to only one touchdown, the sixth allowed by Robersonville in 11 games. The Eagles scored their 40-point average on four running plays and two passes.

The Eagles garnered 561 yards in total offense, 502 of that coming on the ground. The defense held Apex to 142 yards rushing and 51 passing. Apex fumbled twice and Robersonville once.

Apex jumped out to a 7-0 first quarter lead on a five yard run by their leading rusher, Butch Canady. Tommy Maynard added the kick for Apex.

Robersonville closed to one point's difference in the second quarter when quarterback Jimmy Stalls broke loose for 85 yards. His kick failed.

In the second half, the Eagles opened the triple option and got their backs outside with Robin Fowler getting the go-ahead score on a 79 yard run. Said coach Noland Respess, "They controlled the ball in the first half and had field position. Their kicking game hurt us. We went to the triple option off our wishbone, 11 in the second half."

Ricky Spruill got 92 of his 223 yards on a third period touchdown run. Ricky Purvis made it 24-7 catching an eight yard pass from Jeff Warren on the end reverse and Stalls ran over the conversion for the extra point.

Warren was on the other end of the next touchdown pass as Stalls threw to the split end for 51 yards. Donnie Matthewson added the last Eagle score on a 43 yard sprint and Arthur Bonds took a pass from Stalls for the conversion.

Spruill rolled up 223 yards in 13 carries, over 17 yards per carry. Folwer rushed for 112 in 10 carries and Stalls added 101 in six carries. Wyatt Daniels had an interception for Robersonville and Noah Clark and Johnny Stanley recovered fumbles.

Robersonville will be back at home this Friday at they host Hallsboro in the quarter finals of the 2-A playoffs.

Foreman Overconfident

HOUSTON (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman says his camp was overconfident prior to his title fight with Muhammad Ali and during the fight "I became involved in hitting the home run instead of getting on base."

Foreman, who was knocked out in the eighth round, said he waded in when Ali retreated to the ropes early in the fight and totally exhausted himself.

"I always fight in a rage," said, Foreman, returning home Friday for the first time since he lost his title. "For $5 million I thought the people deserved a fight and I was the only one doing the fighting."

But Foreman promised there will be some changes made both in himself and in his management for future fights.

"There definitely will be some changes made in my management, but not necessarily a change in personnel," Foreman said. "I mean there'll be some changes made in the way things are done."

The former champ said he felt his trainer Dick Sadler "and all the people in our camp were grossly overconfident prior to the fight.

"We'll have to consider a lot of things," Foreman said. "These guys were paid good money."

Foreman blamed his weariness as the fight progressed on his weight, 250 pounds, prior to starting training for the fight.

Wildlife Afield: Salmon's Journey

By JIM DEAN

Webster's Dictionary says the word "indomitable" means, "not to be subdued; unconquerable; invincible."

It seems an apt word to describe the exploits of a silver salmon that once overcame incredible obstacles to return to spawn in the hatchery pond where he was reared. In fact, the salmon that accomplished this miraculous trip has been named "the indomitable salmon," and his trip has been memorialized by a large sculpture at the Prairie Creek Hatchery in California where it all began some 10 years ago.

What happened was that hatchery personnel discovered a two-year-old silver salmon swimming around in a circular pond containing yearling silver salmon. Nobody could figure out how the sea-run fish had gotten into the pond. No doubt, the thought crossed some minds that it was a practical joke; that somebody had caught the fish and put it there.

But it was no joke. An inspection of the hatchery grounds uncovered 72 other searun silver salmon under a covered flume entering the hatchery. Of the 73 salmon that reached that flume, one had managed to continue past the flume and actually return to the hatchery pond.

Here's how it was done. Leaving the Pacific Ocean, the salmon swam up rivers until they reached Redwood Creek, then entered Prairie Creek while bypassing Lost Man Creek where they had been released as tiny fingerlings. How did these salmon know to bypass the creek where they were released? No one knows.

After reaching Prairie Creek, one salmon must have entered the hatchery effluent drainage ditch. Then, he entered a wide culvert, swam up a storm sewer, jumped a one-foot gap up into another culvert and passed through a four-inch pipe where he negotiated a 90-degree turn.

At the end of the pipe, the salmon had to leap vertically up a two and a half foot stand pipe. In doing so, he apparently dislodged a wire screen covering the pipe. That final jump carried him into the circular pond where he was reared.

Hatchery operators discovered him swimming around in the pool, no doubt disgusted that he could not find a mature mate.

No one would deny that this was a remarkable odyssey, but the world of wildlife is often wondrously strange and curious. Everywhere you look, there are interesting creatures, and North Carolina has its share.

Small wonder that many people spend their lives studying things like salmon, or woodcocks, or bears, or mayflies or bog turtles. The list is endless. I recently met a man whose life's work is the study of tiny marine fungi so small that no one has actually seen one with the naked eye.

You may not find fungi fascinating, but if the story of the "indomitable" salmon's journey intrigues you, let me suggest that you take a closer look at some of the creatures who share the world with you.

You needn't look any father than your backyard. You'll be surprised what goes on out there in that weedy jungle. You don't have to be a scientist to enjoy the "study" of wildlife, and I promise that you'll never be bored even if you don't find a salmon in your bathtub.

Decoy Methods To Be Discussed

RALEIGH—Officials of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will meet with duck hunters and guides in the Currituck area to try to iron out confusion over existing Federal regulations regarding the use of live decoys and bait to attract waterfowl.

"Our enforcement of these regulations is predicated on good, hard common sense," Willie Parker told members of the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission here Tuesday in a meeting between the Federal and State agencies which was set up to discuss Federal waterfowl regulations.

Parker, who is Agent-In-Charge of U. S. Fish and Wildlife's 10th law enforcement district, said "We are not interested in pursuing violations that might be considered borderline cases, and I believe that after the season, the public will have no apprehension about our Federal enforcement."

The N. C. Wildlife Commission requested the meeting because many hunters and guides feel that the Federal regulations regarding the use of live decoys and bait to attract waterfowl are not clear.

Parker explained that the safest way to avoid possible trouble on the use of bait to attract waterfowl was simply not to use it under any circumstances.

"It's as simple as that," said Parker. "Don't use it. If we can determine that any feed or bait you put out enhances your hunting—even if it is not near a blind—we will take appropriate action."

"The same is basically true of the use of live decoys," said Parker.

"The key is whether those live birds enhance hunting. If they do, it's a violation. If not, you're safe."

"But as I said before," explained Parker, "we're looking for deliberate, destructive violators and we will know who they are. We're not interested in border-line cases."

Sunday's Games Will Have Big Effect On Pro Draft

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Who's No. 1? It could be Randy White, Maryland's outstanding defensive lineman. Or Defensive tackle Mike Fanning of Notre Dame.

Whoever it is, the Baltimore Colts have an excellent chance of getting him—unless they beat the Atlanta Falcons on Sunday.

The No. 1 is the first choice in the National Football League draft, which goes to the team with the worst record. Right now, the Colts own that, having won only one of nine games.

But right on their heels are the Falcons at 2-7, along with the New York Jets, New York Giants and San Francisco 49ers.

There are some teams—like Los Angeles, Minnesota and Oakland—looking forward to being No. 1 in their divisions this year. All three can clinch titles this weekend, the Rams on their own, the Vikings and Raiders with help.

If the Colts lose—the oddsmakers listing them as seven-point underdogs—and the Giants and 49ers pull off victories of their own, Baltimore will have a two-game "lead" over the rest of the field in the run to the top draft with four weeks to play.

Sunday's other NFL action involves the Giants at Detroit, the 49ers at Chicago, Los Angeles at New Orleans, Green Bay at Minnesota, San Diego at Oakland, Buffalo at Miami, the New York Jets at New England, Dallas at Washington, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Cleveland and Cincinnati at Houston. On Monday night, Kansas City is at Denver.

The Falcons are playing their first home game under Coach Marion Campbell, the successor to stormy Norm Van Brocklin. The Falcons have yet to score a point for him. In their first game with Campbell at the helm, they lost 21-0 to the Rams.

But Atlanta, which has lost four in a row, has never defeated Baltimore in nine regular-season games. The Colts, meanwhile, are on a three-game nosedive under Joe Thomas. Like Campbell, he took over the coaching reins during the season, replacing Howard Schnellenberger who was fired after Baltimore had lost its first three games.

Bill Munson is expected to start against the Giants. But Detroit, a seven-point favorite, may give Greg Landry more playing time. He was their No. 1 quarterback for 41 straight games before fracturing his left shoulder midway in the 1973 season.

Norm Snead, San Francisco's most recent starting quarterback, is back on the bench again with bum knees. Tom Owen, whom he replaced last Sunday—after Snead had bumped Owen out of the starting spot—leads the 49ers, rated just about even with the Bears.

A victory or tie against New Orleans will give the Rams the National Conference's West Division title. Los Angeles, with Lawrence McCutcheon on the verge of becoming the league's first 1,000-yard rusher this year, blanked the Saints 24-0 in their first game this season.

The Vikings are two steps away from winning it all in the NFC Central Division. The first step would be a victory over Green Bay—and Minnesota is a 10-point favorite. The second would be a loss by Detroit.

The Raiders, too, need some help in order to clinch the crown in the American Conference West. Oakland has to beat San Diego, then hope for a Monday night loss by Denver.

Buffalo and Miami are battling for first in the AFC East—and the Bills are bucking the odds and a couple of trends.

Robinson Wants More Involvement

By RICHARD BILOTTI
AP Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Robinson says "players, including myself, seem to be always asking for more and giving less," and baseball's first black manager thinks more involvement with the community could change that.

Robinson said Friday he would like to see the policy begin in Cleveland, where he is manager of the Indians.

"That's something we will try and do this year," Robinson told a Cleveland City Club luncheon. "It's something that has been missing in sports.

"I don't mean we will attend more banquets. I would like to see the ballplayers out in the community rubbing elbows with the young kids and getting to know the people."

Robinson flew here from Puerto Rico—where he is managing a baseball club in the Puerto Rican League—to make several appearances in Cleveland.

Robinson said he is not expecting any problems with 1972 Cy Young Award-winning pitcher Gaylord Perry or George Hendrick, the Indians' young outfielder.

Robinson had an argument with Perry over salary near the end of the season and Hendrick repeatedly gave former Indians' Manager Ken Aspromonte problems.

"Gaylord and I talked our problem out after the season and now that's all forgotten about," Robinson said.

"I will handle George by playing him. If he gives me 100 per cent, he won't have any trouble with me."

However, Robinson did say that there is not a player that is sacred to the club.

"If we see the opportunity to improve this club with trades, we'll do it," Robinson said. "But I don't intend to go and destroy the solid makeup. We have some younger ballplayers that can help this team win in the future."

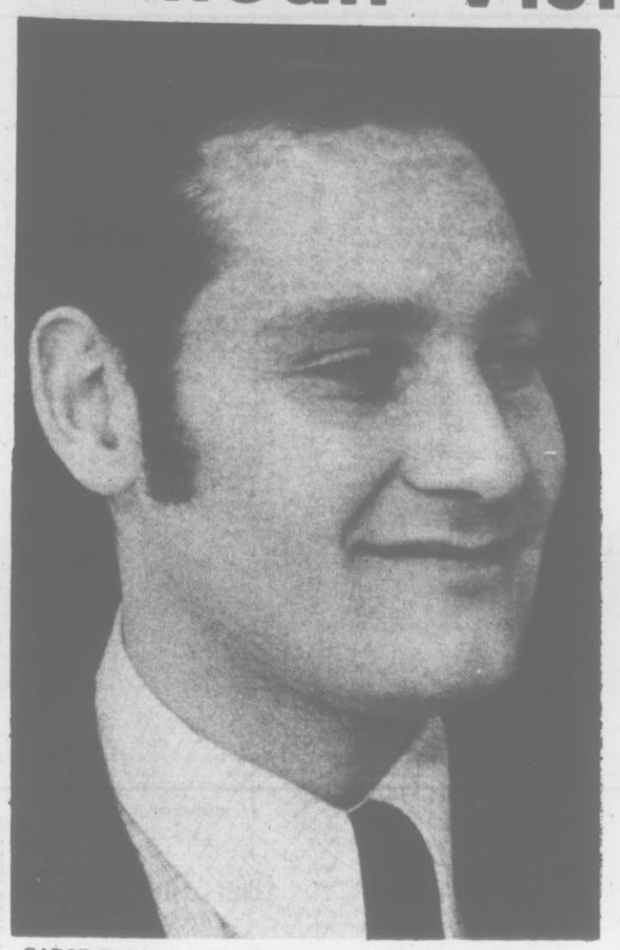
Chilean Visitors Are Impressed By Friendliness



GABOR TOREY . . . General Manager, National Radio, Chile.

"I think what has most impressed me in this visit is the spirit of the pioneer I see in your young people," Gabor Torey talked about his three week visit in the United States shortly before leaving to return to Chile late last week.

The 32-year-old Hungarian born, naturalized citizen of Chile, currently general manager of National Radio, Chile, has a good command and understanding of the English language. Nevertheless, he admitted there were times when usage of certain words by Americans perplexed him. "That is unfortunate as it makes a little difficult exact understanding," he said. "It is my wish to understand well what is being said."

Torey said it was during his visit in Greenville and the immediate area that he had "the best opportunity to speak to young people, a time to find out something about their thinking. What I discovered amazed me. It is fantastic that young people in a great country like this have this concern for others they express with such conviction. I was surprised to find it is not the material values they cherish. It is more a concern for other people, for the issues of people everywhere. This may not seem like a revelation to you, but for me it is. I see your American young as pioneers in thinking, in a way that earlier generations of American people were pioneers in building a nation."

The youthful Chilean several times expressed one particular regret. "I would have liked for more time to talk individually to people, young people and old people."

He said this was especially applicable to the three occasions he was on campus at East Carolina University. "It has not been so many years since I was a student at the University of Chile. It is my thinking we could have come to a better meeting in ideas with person-to-person talks." (Torey talked to ECU students on two occasions, the first time in a journalism class; and immediately afterwards in a general group discussion with students from several departments. On both occasions, the format followed was an informal one of question and answers).

A Peaceful Protest

Asked about the peaceful protest against his presence in Greenville, based on the fact he was considered a representative of the present Chilean military regime, Torey said. "In truth, I am not a — how do you say?— a political person. For 12 years, since my student days, my entire time has been devoted to radio. Radio is my life, and all my energies and time are given to that. Perhaps you think this is the right or the wrong attitude. That is for you to decide, but my work, not politics, is my life."

As general manager of National Radio, Chile, Torey explained he has under his charge 27 stations, scattered throughout the more than 3,000 north-to-south strip of land that constitutes the west coast South American country. "In total, there are 182 radio stations in Chile. Of this number, there are the 27 National Radio Chile stations and five university stations. All the others are privately owned stations." He added that Chile has some 60 television stations. "All project in black and white. We do not now have color."

Earlier, in an informal gathering, a young Greenville matron, overheard Torey tell a group his radio work often kept him busy 15 to 17 hours a day, 365 days a year. "What about your wife and children?" the woman asked Torey.

"My wife," Torey smiled in reply, "stays busy in the housework and playing with our children." The Toreys have four small children.

Torey emphasized he did not resent being the subject of a peaceful protest in Greenville. "It is my impression these young people are sincere in making this demonstration. I think they are searching for information in a situation they feel concern for.

"It is difficult for them to understand a situation that is so far away, with political conditions so different from what you are accustomed to."

Chilean Inflation

One factor Torey touched on, both before student groups and in private conversations, as paramount in understanding conditions in Chile was that of soaring inflation.

"In this visit, I hear much about your own economic inflation," Torey said. "In Chile during 1973 the rate of inflation had climbed by more than 1,000 per cent. You cannot imagine what happens to a nation in such a situation. People felt money was of no value. They made efforts to spend it as quickly as they received wages or salaries.

"Can you imagine not even being able to find simple things like matches and paper materials? The big tragedy of course was the shortage of food. So many people could not get enough food. There was much hunger."

While admitting that the economic condition is still not ideal, Torey said the situation now is much better. "During 1974 the rate of inflation has been curbed from over 1,000 per cent to about 250 per cent. People do not feel so insecure about the economy."

Unfortunate Experience

On the other side of the coin — that of a foreigner's reaction to the United States scene, Torey contrasted impressions he gained on his first American visit and his just concluded longer visit.

"It was in 1968 that I made my first visit to America," he said. "I received an assignment to cover the elections, and was sent to Chicago.

"That time I brought with me prejudices about the black man in America, about how terribly he was mistreated. Don't you think many people on a first visit bring prejudices? One night in the Chicago subway I received an attack from four black men, people I had done nothing to.

"My good fortune was," Torey continued, "that another man, as it turned out, a man from the country of Columbia, passed by and furnished me assistance. I think had he not come I could have died. It was a terrible thing, I had to defend my life. I broke the leg of one of the attackers. I don't like to make use of violence, but I had to do that to survive."

Torey said his reason for recalling that unpleasant experience was to show several things. "For me, it was a proof that the black man in the United States could be guilty of something wrong, that good or bad is not the domain of one race. Another thing," he smiled, "I have learned that a person cannot depend on a prejudice."

Torey continued, "I have found what I believe to be another truth. Tell me if I am wrong," he said. "But is it not true that the black and the white people have a more friendly feeling to each other in the South than in the North?"

When Torey left Santiago for the 19-day trip to the United States, he was accompanied by his wife, Maria Angelica, his assistant, Francisco Baraona, and Baraona's wife, Birgid. "Francisco had to return to Chile from Chicago," he said. "My wife and I persuaded Birgid to remain. This is the first time our wives have been to the United States."

Before Greenville

Before coming to Greenville, the four Chileans spent several days each in Washington, New York and in Chicago.

Torey said his schedule was a busy one — seeing people in the State Department, at the United Nations, and at the Voice of America office in Washington. In New York Torey visited the School of Journalism at Columbia University, and in Chicago he made appearances at the University of Chicago and at Northwestern University.

Between the 1968 election observance trip and this trip, Torey said he had three offers to visit the U.S., twice during the Allende regime and once since the military junta took over the government in September 1973.

"Each time I received an offer to make the trip," he said, I was much too busy then to find the time. This time I made the decision to take time." Torey's visit was under the auspices of the State Department's Bureau of Educational and Cultural Office's International Visit program.

"When I made an expression that I would like to see a rural area of the United States," Torey said, "it was recommended to me that I visit Greenville, North Carolina. It was explained to me Greenville was a rural region and that I could benefit in a visit to the Voice of America site.

A Beautiful Thing

"I want to tell you, and this is sincere, not — what would you say — a polite expression, the visit to Greenville has been such a beautiful thing.

"People here have been friendly, and eager to know about my country, about me, my wife and Mrs. Baraona. I am happy that people have asked about our children. We find it a pleasure, too, that because of the university your town has Spanish speaking people. I understand also you have people of many nations and cultures.

"This you expect in a big city, I think it has more meaning in Greenville because the community is a smaller place where the people can get to know each other. You have the ideal situation."

Full Itinerary

Torey remarked that he was impressed with the relaxed atmosphere he encountered in Greenville. "Much more like Chile than anywhere I have been," he said. Nonetheless, by Southern standards his itinerary was a rather full one.

On Wednesday morning he visited Voice of America sites, hosted by William Harmon, VOA manager. On Wednesday afternoon there was a tour of Greenville with an orientation by city officials on projects such as CBD. Dr. Jenkins held a reception Wednesday night. Thursday morning was given over to tours of television and radion stations; and Torey made the two appearances on campus Thursday afternoon, followed by brief visits to the Greenville Art Center and "The Daily Reflector."

"Let me say this," Torey said. "Maybe people of Greenville know, maybe they do not know. You have here one of the great men in radio technology today. Mr. William Harmon, in my opinion, is one of five or six top men in all the world in knowledge of radio. He gave me excellent advice on technical plans for the National Radio of Chile. Not alone does he have knowledge, he has much patience and is a very kind man."

Chile's Natural Beauty

Whenever the opportunity arose, Torey delighted in talking about the Chilean nation, describing the splendors of its beauty and the diversity of its people — Indian, Spanish, European.

"It is a rugged land," he said, "with high mountains, the second driest desert in the world. Because of the clear air, Chile has many observatories for studying the stars. A new observatory, larger than Mt. Palomar, is now being constructed."

He mentioned that native crafts are still vital. "Not just for tourists. People take these to market to sell to each other."

Remote Easter Island in the Pacific with its huge stone carvings and remnants of a lost civilization is a subject he is enthusiastic about. The island, thousands of miles from the Chilean coast, is a Chilean possession.

Torey described Chile's innumerable southern islands as "a wilderness of mountain islands and waterways." "Chile," he said, "is divided into three major climatic regions." The north, which is hot, the central region, which is temperate to subtropical, and the south, which becomes colder as you go to the tip of Chile at Tierra del Fuego. Chile and Argentina share possession of this large, thinly populated island at the tip of South America.

"A big number of Chile's population live in the temperate zone," he said. "Santiago and its environs contains over three million people, or more than one in four of Chile's 11 million population.

"We hope to develop tourism. It's a good source for income. There is also, more importantly, the value to be received from other people getting to know better the people of Chile." A step in this direction has been taken by a recent decision to purchase several jet air carriers, Torey explained.

"From Santiago," he said, "a person can go in one direction for under two hours and swim at a good beach on the Pacific. He can also go in the other direction for a little time and be on a ski slope."

"We Are Tourists"

Friday, the last day of the Greenville visit and the final day in the U.S. before returning to Chile, was given over to sight-seeing and traveling. Torey, Mrs. Torey and Mrs. Baraona had all expressed a keen desire for this opportunity. "Today we are tourists," they agreed as the party started out at 8 a.m. "This is a vacation day for us."

They visited Cherry Point, where they were the guests of Lt. Colonel C. J. Goode, Jr., Joint Public Affairs Officer for the base. In the few minutes available before Colonel Goode took them to watch the colorful ceremony marking the Marine's 199th birthday, he explained the role of the Marine public relations office in military-civilian relationships. Colonel Goode pointed out that the military press people published a weekly paper, Windsock, and operated a radio station.

Several Stops

Later in the day the three Chileans made a brief tour of Tryon Palace, then went on to Minnesott Beach for a few minutes of walking along the sandy shore of the Neuse River.

All three filled their pockets with shells, expressing delight in having real souvenirs from nature to take to their children.

At the cafe in Minnesott Beach, they had tea and met several local farmers, fishermen and retired people living in the beach village.

As the November afternoon darkened into night, the group traveled to Bayboro to visit the small newspaper office of Mrs. Tillie Knowles, editor of The Pamlico Times. (Mrs. Knowles accompanied the three on their day long tour).

Enroute from Bayboro to Saint Delights Community near Bridgeton to take Mrs. Knowles to her home, Torey noticed the night sky was clear of an earlier cloud cover. "It is fascinating," he remarked, "to try to read the heavens here. The stars in the Southern Hemisphere are in a different position from here. In Chile, I can always find my way by the stars, here I could not."

Just as it had been all day Friday, the final stop turned out to last considerably longer than had been planned. Mrs. Knowles took them to a country general store to meet her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Watson, Sr., owners-operators of the store.

In addition to being a general store, it is a community recreation center with pool tables and games machines. More than a dozen young people, boys and girls with modish long year, dressed in jeans, were there. Among those who met the Toreys and Mrs. Baranoa was a muscular teen-ager, Bobby Hunnings. Bobby walks with braces. He explained to the South American trio he had received a spinal injury while surfing. Doctors had said he'd never walk again. "But I knew better," he grinned. "And it won't be long before I'll get rid of these," he indicated the metal braces.

It Is Fantastic

"When I get back to Chile," Gabor Torey said, "I shall tell anyone who plans to visit America to come to North Carolina. It is not just that you have the beauty of your country. You have something more wonderful, people with beauty and friendship in their heart. We will never forget that your people in Greenville and every place we have been today in North Carolina have given us a warm friendship. It is fantastic."

A Fine Assortment Of Stories From Along The Roanoke River

Tales Along The Roanoke — Historical and Traditional Lore. By Louise R. Booker, Illustrated by Bailey Phelps, Edited by Deane R. Phelps. Plymouth, N.C. Beacon Printing. 1974. Paper, 80 pps, $3.75.

"Toward the close of the day, the boys would become 'unco happy' . . . hugging each other in the most affectionate manner . . . suddenly . . . the sound 'A fight! A fight!' would be heard . . . Then another and another would go in until the battle would wax fierce . . . When it was all over it would be found that no serious mischief had been done . . . one might find that he had . . . lost a small piece of his ear. In those days there was no meddlesome police to interfere . . . and mar the happiness of the people in their sports . . ."

This delightful description of remembered boyhood days in the Martin County town of Williamston were first published a century ago by a noted religious leader of Bear Grass, Elder Reuben Ross, in his memories of festive court days of the early 19th century.

In conjunction with the 1974 bicentennial year in Martin County, Mrs. Louise Booker has gathered 48 tales from many sources relating to life along the Roanoke River, ranging geographically from Roanoke Rapids near the Virginia border to Plymouth at the mouth of Albemarle Sound. The tales date from early days to yesterday, and cover subjects as diverse as fishing and baseball, a gift from George Washington, a favorite lover's lane, cockfights and laments in letters from Civil War boys away from home.

Some material, editor Deane Phelps points out in her brief, perceptive introduction, "is true and can be documented but other pieces are not so easily verified."

All are a pleasure to read, true or fiction, and to quote Mrs. Phelps again . . . "these pieces may well be the most revealing things about the people and atmosphere of an entire area."

Lusty, rural humor is very much in evidence. In "The Farmer Surprises His wife Anyway," a farmer throws his old smelly clothes into a creek, discovers his new clothes have floated away. "He paused to think and then his bewildered look was replaced with a smile. He climbed briskly into the buggy, touched the old horse with his whip and said 'Giddyap, Mariah. We' ll surprise her anyway.' "

Extracts from diaries, from soldier's letters and from various old articles give an insight into economic conditions, customs, the concerns and life-styles of people.

The sequence of historial events that led to Bear Grass becoming a noted producer of "moonshine" in the days of prohibition is outlined; and the prominence of Jamesville as a herring center is told in several related articles. One brief article brings back a rememberance of more than a thousand Germans and Italians interned in a Williamston prisoner of war camp during World War II. From the notes of Aunt Tillie Thrower there is a fine description of tar pits, once prevalent in the area.

A small book, but one rich in fragments of history, touches of honest humor, and lots of good information on the Roanoke River, for long a life-line of many eastern North Carolinians.

Tales Along The Roanoke is available in stores in Williamston, Robersonville and Jamesville, and in Greenville from Eckerd's in Pitt Plaza. Copies can be ordered from Mrs. Booker at $3.75 plus tax and $1.00 postage. The black and white illustrations by Bailey Phelps are well done and add to the attractiveness of the book.

New Guide To Old New Bern

Guide to Historic New Bern North Carolina. Edited by Dr. H. Braughn Taylor. New Bern. Published by New Bern - Craven County American Revolution Bicentennial Commission, 1974. 112 pps, illustrated, $5.00.

This large format, paper back guide is the finest to date on New Bern, North Carolina's jewel among its historic towns.

Despite the unfortunate instances of demolition that still takes place now and then, notably the destruction earlier this year of the architecturally fantastic four story brick Simpson-Oaksmith-Patterson House on East Front Street, New Bern still has a full share of fascinating old homes, churches and public buildings.

There's even at least one historic home, the Hendren House at 227 Change Street, available for purchase and restoration at the time of the publication of this guide.

Compiled and edited by Dr. H. Braughn Taylor, a lion's share of the guide is given over to photographs—132 in color and 152 in black and white.

Miss Gertrude Carraway has contributed a compacted history of events leading to the settlement of New Bern, in "Historical Notes on New Bern and Craven County." She also touches on early neighboring communities, and mentions many of the people who have been instrumental in the development of New Bern during its 264 year history.

A complete text and list of signatories of "The Journal of the Proceedings of the First Provincial Convention or Congress of North Carolina, held at New Bern on the twenty-fifth day of August, A.D. 1774" is included in the New Bern guide book.

Dr. Taylor's "North Carolina's First Provincial Congress in Historical Perspective" sheds valuable light on conditions in eastern North Carolina. Dissensions and undercurrents of dissatisfaction with Royal British policies that led to the calling of the congress are outlined. This assembly was called in defiance of Governor Josiah Martin's refusal to summon the legislature to select delegates to the Continental Congress.

A third article, Janet K. Seapker's resume of principal architectural styles, is particularly helpful to the uninitiated in understanding basic elements of architecture found in New Bern buildings. She shows that New Bern, though considered a colonial town, is better represented by buildings of the Federal (post-Revoluntionary) period. Principal styles are discussed in sequence, with numerous references to photographs.

Donald Ransone Taylor's artricle, "The Tryon Palace Restoration Complex," traces the dream and ultimate realization of this idea in the restoration of New Bern's showplace, Tryon Palace.

Although the photographs are rather small, two to six on each page, all—with the exception of several color photographs that have an unattractive pinkish tint—are clear in detail and well printed. In many instances, excellent information is furnished in the captions of the photographs.

The full scope of the architectural treasures of New Bern deserve a full length, extensively detailed book that would be encyclopaedic in scope (and unfortunately, perhaps prohibitive in price).

Until such a book can be compiled and published, this new Guide to Historic New Bern North Carolina is indispensable, as a guide to the tourist or as a basic research document for a student of New Bern history.

It should do much to heighten awareness of the fact that New Bern is North Carolina's most important architectural heritage

Industrial Output Reduced

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

Government statistics showing reduced industrial output and reports of a December shutdown of most of Chrysler Corp.'s car assembly plants indicate a bleak Christmas season for factory workers.

The Federal Reserve Board reported Friday that industrial production dropped last month for the fourth time in five months. The drop of six-tenths of 1 per cent was the sharpest drop since February.

Retired Senior Citizens Built Community Center

By WILLIAM C. WERTZ
Associated Press Writer

NOKOMIS, Ill. (AP) — This small central Illinois farm town couldn't afford to build a new community center until it tapped an almost forgotten resource: the skills and muscles of its senior citizens.

"You can't just retire and sit in a rocking chair until you die," says L. E. Nantkes, 78, who talked the Nokomis Park Board into putting him in charge of building the center.

Nantkes, a retired banker with building experience nearly half a century ago, found seven other retired men to help him.

The only one in the group with previous construction experience was Paul Fabulo, 67, a former bricklayer. The others were Fred Bauman, 83, who had been a farmer; Fred Johnson, 78, a mechanic; Fred Heck, 75, who had owned a grain elevator; Ed Bertolino, 67, a high school principal; John Schoon, 68, a druggist, and Joe Viola, 68, who had owned an ice cream parlor.

"The community was pretty skeptical at first," Nantkes said. "I think they thought we were just going to come out here and putter around, and the money was going to go down the drain. They've changed their minds now."

Nantkes and his elderly crew started work the Monday after Thanksgiving last year, dismantling the 81-year-old house that had served as the old community center to salvage its lumber.

Now the new center, a handsome red brick building, is nearly done. Nantkes expects it to be completed by Christmas, built for less than the $25,000 the Park Board was able to come up with.

"Without us it would have cost $75,000. That was the contractor's estimate, and the town just couldn't afford it," Nantkes said.

"Inflation was making the cost rise faster than we could save money each year," he said.

Nantkes said he doesn't understand why more communities don't utilize the skills and abilities of their senior citizens.

"Think of all that talent. It's a crime to let it go to waste. Any town could do what we did. They just need a leader to get it going," he said. "Not one of us is collecting a dime in wages, but we've had a ball out here. I feel better than I have in the last 10 years. I'm not taking pills anymore. It's just a healthier life than just sitting around."

Nantkes said some of the men's wives, including his own, "growl and gripe about us being out here all the time, but I think, really, they're proud of us."

Physicists Using Own Technique In Hunt For Chamber In Pyramid

By MICHAEL S. BARRETT

CAIRO (UPI) — Six American physicists have come to Egypt to take up where archaeologists have failed in trying to locate a suspected hidden chamber in the second of the three great Giza pyramids.

Their technique is different from any used before. They are bombarding the pyramid with invisible shortwave pulses that "see through" hard rock for hundreds of feet.

The physicists are from the Stanford Research Institute, a California-based nonprofit center for scientific studies. Working with them are physicists from Cairo's Ein Shams University faculty of science.

Dr. Lambert T. Dolphin Jr., 42, the project leader, said the group's interest in studying the second or Chephren tomb stems from earlier, fruitless experiments of Prof. Luis W. Alvarez of the University of California.

Dolphin said Alvarez has tried since 1967 to find a supposed chamber in which some believe the pharaoh's mummy, and perhaps riches, still lie untouched. Alvarez set up a detector in the known chamber, discovered by Giovanni Belzoni in the early 1800s, to pick up cosmic rays penetrating the 458-foot high structure.

Dolphin said that Alvarez' equipment has detected no evidence of any hidden chambers and Alvarez does not believe any exist.

Chephren is thought to have been the son of Cheops, whose massive pyramid stands first and tallest among the three built on the sandy plain 10 miles southwest of Cairo. Chephren lived 4,590 years ago and built the nearby Sphinx.

Belzoni was not the first to enter the second pyramid, since he recorded having seen Arabic graffiti on the walls. But the question has never been answered whether Chephren's mummy actually went into that chamber or into a yet-undiscovered room.

To find out, Dolphin's crew, funded by a grant from the National Science Foundation, brought to Giza a small portable "sounder," a wooden box about one cubic foot in size and carrying 30,000 volts.

The instrument is placed on the face of the pyramid and sends a short electromagnetic pulse of about one cycle through the rock to Belzoni's chamber, where its echo bounces back at an angle to an antenna receiver on the surface. An oscilloscope records the radio emissions and detects any changes in density, such as a hidden chamber's empty space.

"It's like finding a needle in a haystack," Dolphin said. "Radio waves can fool you. You can get reflections when there aren't any. You can fail to see something when you should see something. You've got to check it all out."

The physicists proved conclusively after the first week that the sounder worked and would permit them to see through the whole body of the pyramid with limited spurious noises.

"We're elated two ways," Dolphin said, "That the equipment has performed as expected and number two that the pyramid is favorable, will let us look into it."

They have found no hidden chamber but will continue the search for several more weeks.

"We came here hoping if at all possible to come to some conclusions about this pyramid," Dolphin said. "We wanted to prove that this technique is feasible and that it will work, in which case we can go to archaeologists and say, 'Look, we can help you.'

"We'd like to see this equipment put to many applications other than mining and geology and fields that are removed from archaeology. Nobody's ever built equipment like this before. It's the first of its kind."

Remote terrestrial sensing differs from radar and sonar in that it permits the pulses to pass through rock, sand and earth at short distances.

The physicists chose the pyramid for their experiments primarily because of Egypt's dry climate, necessary for unhindered remote sensing.

"You can't take this equipment anywhere and do wonders and miracles with it. It simply won't do it.

Guess What! Robert Howard & John House of Branch's Trading Post & Oil Company have invented a new game called "Gas Pump Bingo." Come on by and visit Robert and John from now thru Christmas and let them explain how to play Gas Pump Bingo. Why, if you are one of the lucky winners you can take home a nice turkey for the holidays. Also while you are there, ask Big Robert about the many deals he can give you on all size tires—to fit all size cars. Yes, Robert and the boys are ready to play bingo and wheel and deal. So come on by and give them a try. They are located approximately 1 mile from Greenville on Washington Hwy. 264.

BUYING A HOME IS ONE OF THE BEST INVESTMENTS YOU CAN MAKE.

NOW MORE THAN EVER.

Even today's high mortgage interest rates on housing are a bargain when viewed in the investment sense. For a family with an annual income of $12,000 to $16,000, the real estate rate on a 9.5 per cent mortgage interest charge is 6.89 per cent after tax deductions are considered. For a family with an annual income in the $50,000 range the real cost of a 9.5 per cent mortgage is only 4.28 per cent. Also, the equity built up in a home can be solid emergency fund, or a college education fund, or just a plain retirement fund.

These facts relate to the national economic climate. But they are even more true in Greenville. We have a stronger economic base, due to the unusually high percentage of blue chip companies and outstanding educational facilities located in the Greenville area. And the unemployment rate in Greenville is 1.6 per cent, while the national average is approaching 5.8 per cent. Actually, we live in an area that is not so harshly affected by the ups and downs of the national economy. It is a fact that location is the primary conisderation when considering a home as an investment. And Greenville is one of the safest home investment cities in America.

It's Ability Not Disability That Counts

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Women's Editor

"It's ability not disability that counts," says Miss Alice Keene in her job as coordinator of programs for exceptional children and adults for the Greenville Recreation Department.

"Spending my working time with exceptional persons first appealed to me during my junior year in college. After meeting some handicapped people and seeing television programs, I knew that the field would be a real challenge. Knowing that a lot of the exceptional ones have a strong sense of determination, I wanted to have a small part in enabling them to do something they had never had a chance to do before," explained Miss Keene.

"By selecting recreation, I was interested in using fun-type activities to accomplish many objectives. In some of the Recreation Department programs, the entire objective is fun. In other programs, while participants are having fun, they are developing physical, social and intellectual skills.

"My people are able to do many of the things that you and I can do. However, in some cases or in some activities we may adapt and use shorter game rules and special equipment. Special planning may be needed for them to participate in activities such as sports, arts and crafts and music," she said.

Programs for exceptional children and adults (PECA) includes activities for visually-impaired adults and activities for mentally retarded adults. A club has been formed for the orthopedically handicapped, which is co-sponsored by the Easter Seal Society.

The present PECA program stemmed from a summer day camp, Camp Sunshine, which has been held for several years. During this summer's three-week session, activities included swimming, bowling, golf, arts and crafts games, music and field trips.

A Special Olympics Day, an athletic training and competition program for exceptional individuals eight years old and older, was held April 20, sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees. The local winners participated in the State Special Olympics in Raleigh May 17-19.

This program is sponsored nationally by the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation. The special olympics included track and field events, basketball, volleyball and swimming.

"In order to have a well-rounded recreation program, our idea is to expand to include more activities for exceptional individuals. This fall, we have included several deaf children in our play school program for children four to six years old. The deaf children need to be with normal speaking children and in turn its' good for the other children to be exposed to children with special problems.

"One of the forthcoming programs that the Recreation Department is interested in bringing about is wheelchair basketball. In addition to this new program, we will be seeking to improve the quality of our existing programs and reach more people with special problems" added Miss Keene.

"Participants, parents and professionals in the community have been very enthusiastic about the programs. Volunteers from the community are needed because they can provide more individual guidance and assistance. We will offer in-service training for volunteers during the year. However, the most important qualification is to have a sincere 'love for people,'" she noted.

"Many people, because they do not know or have not worked with exceptional people, have many misconceptions. There, it is essential that we do our part to bring into true focus that it's ability not disability that counts." Miss Keene replied.

When asked if she were encouraged or discouraged with attendance and acceptance. Miss Keene said, "Personally, I feel that working in numbers is not so important as reaching the people who stay at home most of the time, who have not been able to participate in activities of any type in the past and in general not having anything to look forward to from day to day. We are striving to work in small groups with more personalized assistance. After certain skills have been learned, we can move onto larger groups."

In telling of her previous experience, Miss Keene continued, "The only down-to-earth experience I had working with exceptional children was in the city schools and volunteer work while I was still in school before my present job. I was able to gain valuable knowledge during a summer internship in Raleigh working with the Recreation Division of the Department of National and Economic Resources. I learned a lot about working with people, planning activities directed toward children and accepting responsibility while working at the local Boys Club."

A graduate of East Carolina University, Miss Keene's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Otis Keene of Four Oaks. In addition to her job, she enjoys fishing, camping, crafts, tennis and working with children.

People challenge Miss Keene from day to day, in that "everybody is different."

" Each day is different and nothing is ever the same. When someone does something new or accomplishes a new way of doing something, I get excited with them. When you, for instance, see a child singing as part of a group and then one day he wants to sing for the group alone — he struggles with the song and finishes — he said I knew I could do it and I did. Experiences like this turn me on. The look on their face, their smile, a twinkle in their eye — these are the things that keep me going," she concluded.

Call 752-1111—Get Help With Your Problems

CONFERRING. . .about a problem brought to the Information Center are Judy Thompson (left) and Janet Duffy.

By CAROL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

You used to take only your academic problems to the library. Now you can get help with your personal life as well.

The Pitt County Information Center has been set up as a very human cross reference for all the services of all the agencies, organization, and businesses in the County. By calling 752-1111, you can get suggestions on how to deal with and who can help you with practically any problem you might have.

Janet Duffy is the sympathetic voice on the other end of the line, the director of the Information Center. She is at the Center, located at Carver Library here, every weekday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. She talked enthusiastically about the new project:

"The Center was Librarian Miss Elizabeth Copeland's idea," she said. "I understand it's only the second one in the state. Wake County had the first."

Judy Thompson, who works at Sheppard Library, led other library staff members in laying the groundwork for the Center. She met last December with representatives of various agencies and organizations from throughout the county and compiled information furnished by them and others about every conceivable service in the county or available to county citizens from state and national agencies and organizations. There is an advisory Board for the Center, made up of people from throughout the community.

The project was boosted immeasurably when, in May, the State of North Carolina extended a $17,500 grant for the project. This has been used to pay Janet's salary, to buy a station wagon for the Center, and for printing and other office expenses.

Call or Visit

Although Janet does not meet in person most of the people she helps, she says anyone is invited to visit the Information Center. It was purposely located in a room not visible from the front door and the main desk of the library, so visitors would feel they have some measure of privacy in explaining their need for assistance.

Every call the Center receives is logged. If the resource to fit a particular problem is known, it is given immediately, of course. If not, Janet promises to find the proper resource and call the person back. A reasonable time after the answer has been given, she calls the person back to make sure the resource she recommended was indeed helpful.

Janet and Judy stressed that every problem brought to the Center is kept completely confidential. "We would never divulge a name or any information about any of the people we attempt to help," Judy said, adding that the service is completely free of charge."

Adding Information

"We're adding to our files of information every day," Janet said. We constantly send out questionnaires about services offered to groups we hear of for the first time, and we welcome any information that anyone volunteers. I also go through all the county newspapers and clip anything that seems helpful and follow up on any information it might suggest."

"We also keep a pamphlet file which we invite people to use here. We don't give these out, but we can tell anyone where they can get copies if they like.

"Another part of my job, I'm told is to assess what

Leftovers Are An Answer To Inflation

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Most of our iceboxes have an assortment of remnants from recent meals that we dutifully keep for a few days, then throw out or give to the neighbor's dog.

In these days of rocketing food costs, when everyone is casting about for some way to pare expenses, one good way is to try to create attractive meals from leftovers.

It doesn't take much imagination to make a hash from yesterday's roast, but did you ever think of saving that coffee that is growing cold on your breakfast table? You'd be surprised how delicious it can be as a flavor for custard or a cream pie.

Most of us toss out vegetable scraps before doing the dinner dishes, but they can be used in a salad the next day or served with a dip as an appetizer.

And how about that cup of gravy aging on the back of the shelf? Don't wait till it gets a coating of mold and has to be thrown out. Add a little tomato sauce, a couple of stalks of diced celery and a chopped onion. With a little judicious seasoning you have a fine spaghetti sauce.

I know one couple who even save scrambled eggs and add them to a thick soup, like navy bean. Gives it a real lift, they say.

Stale bread is used, of course, to stuff a bird and it will make that meat loaf go further. And don't forget those tasty bread and raisin puddings laced with custard.

Leftovers can be delicious and they can also be pretty awful. Lamb is one of my favorite meats, but I still remember those leftover roasts at a boarding school I attended. They would pop them into the oven and reheat them until the meat was strong and dry as a bone. It was so unnecessary, since lamb can be delicious in stews, meat pies and curries with plenty of gravy and seasoning.

Here is a recipe for Indian curry that I have found easy to make, economical and a treat to eat.

2 tablespoons butter
1½ pounds cooked lamb cubed
1 cup chopped onion

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I used to get locked out of the house a lot and it was sorta fun.

Kids would run in and out of the garage with ladders, dogs would climb on the roof and bark, neighbors would stop by with coffee and glass cutters ... and all things considered it was often the high spot of my week.

Then one day my husband put down his paper and said, "Did you ever hear the old joke about if you want your garbage picked up, just leave it on the back seat of your car, lock the door, and it'll be stolen in five minutes?"

"That's funny!" I roared.

"It's no longer funny," he continued. "Every hour of every day is crime time. Watch your coat! Lock your car! Know your meter reader! Why I read in the paper the other day where a man had his tires stolen while he was attending a funeral. What kind of a person would do a thing like that?"

"The same kind who would steal a woman's purse off the hook of a restroom door when she is fighting a body suit and panty hose."

"Exactly," he said. "We are getting dead bolt locks on every door in this house."

"What are dead bolt locks?"

"They make you safe conscious," he said. "To lock a door from either the inside or the outside, you must have a key. We are all going to get into the habit of locking the door when we come in and locking it when we go out."

The first morning, I counted the four clicks. Now all I had to do to leave was to find my keys and unlock the door.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IT IS LIKE TO BE LOCKED IN YOUR OWN HOUSE?

I could hear sounds from the street but could not make myself heard. The ugly yellow wallpaper closed in about me. The refrigerator seemed to hum, "Clean me. Clean me." I called my husband and told him I needed him now. By noon it would be too late. He put me on hold.

My doorbell rang and my spirits quickened. Jumping up and down and trying to look through the peephole my husband had put in at his eye level (8 inches taller than my projected growth), I saw a distorted little Girl Scout about two inches tall and screamed, "Help me. I'm a prisoner in a lemon-scented house." She didn't bother to shut the gate as she ran.

Knowing the dog's capacity for control was no longer than 3:30 p.m., I finally unscrewed a storm window and crawled out the bedroom window. Sitting on the roof breathing fresh air, a neighbor yelled, "you all right?"

It's remarks like that prompt people to get dead bolt locks.

Mrs. Downing Gives Program

Mrs. Louise Downing presented the program at the meeting of the Greenville Jay-C-Ettes held Wednesday at the Fiddler's III.

A candy sale report was given by Judy Rivenbark. Members recognized for selling over five cases were Nikki Adams, Dot Fisher, Ellen Goldfarb, Brenda Little, Linda Matthews, Sylvia Measemer, Diane Myers, Myra Pinner, Ann Reese, Joyce Steinbeck and Karen Turner. The total profit from the candy was over $2,000.

During the business session, items voted on were presidential awards, donating money for the New Directions project for a home for the care of pre-delinquent and delinquent adolescents in Greenville, Christmas parties and charities.

Judy Doners was welcomed as a new member.

For best results in roasting fatty poultry such as ducks and geese, prick the skin well with a small-tined fork so fat can drain as the bird cooks. If you add a sweetened glaze, do so during the last 15 to 20 minutes cooking time to prevent burning.

Hints

Add protein to a fruit salad by garnishing it with cheese balls rolled in ground or finely chopped nuts.

Goose is traditional for winter holidays in many parts of Europe. Thrifty cooks there save the fat that renders out and use it for cooking. It is an appetizing off-white and bland in flavor.

Beans are a good source of protein but they lack an essential nutrient — amino acids. To make up for this when you serve beans as a main course, serve nutted brown bread, too.

Betty Friedan Joins The Girls Scouts

By PATRICIA MC CORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — "I was sort of amazed when I was asked," said Betty Friedan, mother of the women's liberation movement.

What she was asked that amazed her—"Will you serve on the board of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.?"

She accepted. There is some amazement still among observers. After all, Ms. Friedan, with her women's revolution, rocked and continues to rock many boats in the establishment. And the Girl Scouts — well, that's a pretty establishment organization.

In an interview, Ms. Friedan discussed some of the reasons she said "yes" when Dr. Cecily C. Selby, national director of the Girl Scouts, invited her.

"I was amazed because it is an establishment organization, or thought of that way," Ms Friedan said.

"But the more I thought of it, the more interesting it became. The modern women's movement believes in restructuring institutions.

"So I see a lot of vitality in the Girl Scouts as an institution.

"I was a Girl Scout back in Peoria and got to just below the top rank. I liked hiking and camping badges but passed up the ones for cooking and sewing."

Ms. Friedan said she is not interested so much in radical chic as she is in the mainstream of American society.

The Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. with 2.9 million members —one out of every seven girls, 6 to 17 — is awfully mainstream, according to Ms. Friedan.

It is the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world and provides opportunities for girls to experience, to discover, to share girl-planned activities meeting their own needs and interests.

As a strictly girl-centered organization, however, isn't the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. involved in sex-role sterotyping?

There are men on the board at the national and at many local levels but the membership is strictly girls.

Even the Boy Scouts of America, once an all-male organization, now admits girls to its explorer posts.

Ms. Friedan said the question of opening up the membership to boys undoubtedly will come before the board and will be debated as it has in the past.

Should there, in fact, be a merger between the Boy Scouts of America and the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.? If the organizations are to get away from sexrole stereotyping, perhaps what is called for is a Human Scout Movement, according to Ms. Friedan.

With her book, "The Feminine Mystique," back in the 60s, Ms. Friedan got the women's movement to the launching pad. Later, she was a founder and first president of the National Organization for Women.

Her newest organization is The Economic Think Tank for Qomen. A member of that, by the way, is Dr. Shelby —the top executive at the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A.

Ms. Friedan and the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., as it changes with the times, may in fact be on tracks headed in the same direction.

"The second stage of the women's revolution," she said, "is to restructure institutions based on polarization —male only, female only."

The Girl Scouts aren't all that female. Most of the 359 councils —umbrella groups for 161,000 troops —have men on their boards. All told, 60,000 men are on Girl Scout councils and troop boards.

At the senior levels, Girl Scouts can write requirements of merit badge programs they design themselveu.

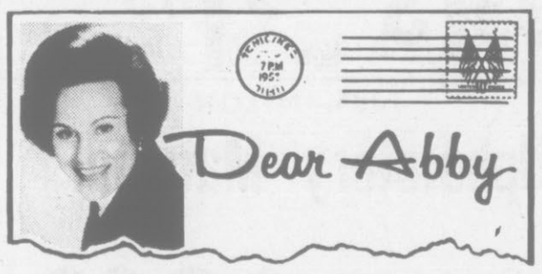
Her Mother-In-Law Never Knocks



By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by The Chicago Tribune

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law has a habit of barging into our bedroom (and even the bathroom, if it's not locked) to "talk" to Jerry. (He's my husband.)

Yesterday she barged into our bedroom while Jerry was dressing, and he didn't have a stitch on.

I said in a nice way, "Mother, you really should knock first and ask Jerry if he is presentable." Then she said, "Oh, don't be silly. I used to diaper him!"

What are your view on the subject? CHICAGO WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Same as yours. But it's up to Jerry to tell his mother to knock first. (If she breast-fed him when he was a baby, would that give him the right to barge in on HER when she's topless?)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old mother of a two-year-old daughter. My husband has been urging me to have another child since our daughter was born. He was very disappointed that she was not a male, and this hurt me. Although he loves the girl, he still feels that he is missing something by not having a son. He thinks I am selfish for not wanting another child, but here are my reasons.

1. All during my pregnancy (not only in the morning) I was in a constant state of nausea.
2. We live 400 miles away from our parents, and I have no one to help me with the chores of child rearing.
3. There is always the possibility that the second child would be another girl. My husband says he wouldn't keep trying for a boy but he'd like one more chance.
4. I want to return to work when my child is of school age, and another child would postpone it to a later date.

I am a good mother, Abby, and I'm very happy with one child. We have talked it out, and are both immovable. I know that I have the final say, but he makes me feel so guilty that at times I'm almost ready to give in, and yet I don't know if it would be the best thing for me or the child.

What is the solution, if there is one? MRS. X, JR.

DEAR MRS. X, JR.: Feeling as you do, don't "give in." If you had another child in order to accommodate your husband or to relieve your "guilt," you would resent the child for the above reasons and children sense resentment. Have you considered adopting a boy your daughter's age?

No nausea, no gambling on the sex, no time lost in returning to work. And you'd be giving a good home to a little boy who needs one.

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from a baby shower where the family dog was allowed to wander around among the guests. The dog is very friendly and quite lovable, so nearly all the guests petted him, and the dog licked their hands. This included people who was preparing and serving the food, as well as those who had their fingers in the candies, handling baby presents, etc.

I noticed that after playing with the dog nobody washed their hands before eating.

We teach children to wash their hands before they eat. Doesn't that go for dog-lovers, too? DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: It should, but for some reason most dog-lovers do not feel contaminated after playing with a dog.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Miss Brenda Gale Harris Weds Saturday Evening

Miss Brenda Gale Harris and George Harley Jackson pledged their marriage vows Saturday at six-thirty in the evening at the home of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Roscoe Harris of Rt. 1, Winterville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Virginia Bowen of Virgilina, Va., and the late Mr. John Allen Jackson.

The Rev. Jack Mayo officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Bruce Gray, pianist, and Wayne Vincent, soloist. He sang "A Time For Us" and "We've Only Just Begun". The "Wedding Prayer" was sung as the benediction.

The living room in the bride's home was centered with a basket of gladioli, mums, and pom pons. On each side of the basket was a seven branched candelabra filled with greenery and added palm trees. The piano was decorated with an arrangement of white gladioli, white carnations and blue pom pons, with candles on each side. The bridal couple knelt for the benediction on a white prie-dieu.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a formal gown of white bridal mist. The gown was fashioned with a high mini ruffled lace neckline and long, lace pearl-embellished sleeves edged in a mini ruffle. The princess line gown had a bib effect bodice of chantilly lace embellished with pearls and a mini ruffle. Lace appliques highlighted the princess line skirt. A flounced ruffle bordered the hemline and extended into a chapel length train.

MRS. GEORGE HARLEY JACKSON

Her capulet of cluny lace was attached to a three tiered veil of silk illusion. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of pom pons and carnations centered with a white orchid.

Miss Vicky Lynn Harris, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of blue polyester crepe. The bib effect bodice of ivory lace featured a high neckline with full length sleeves trimmed with matching lace. The gown was accented with a highrise waist and a long sash. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a nosegay of white carnations and blue and white pom pons.

Graydon Paul Jackson Jr. of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man.

The mother of the bride selected a formal length dress of blue polyester featuring a ruffled V-neck and full length ruffled sleeves. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of white pom pons trimmed in blue.

The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a formal length apricot dress. She complemented her ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of white pom pons.

Mrs. Gay Harris, grandmother of the bride, wore a mint green polyester street length dress. She was remembered with a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Clarence Faulkner, cousin of the bride, presided over the register. Mrs. Earlene Coghill directed the wedding.

A reception was held at the bride's home immediately following the ceremony.

After the bridal couple had cut the first slice, the four tiered cake was served by Mrs. Jack Jackson. Mrs. Jimmy Nethercutt poured punch. The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow and white snapdragons, carnations, and blue pom pons.

For a wedding trip to the mountains, the bride wore a navy and white pants ensemble with navy accessories and the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of D. H. Conley High School and attended East Carolina University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Halifax County High School. They are presently employed by E. I. Dupont, Kinston.

The couple will reside at Rt. 1, Winterville.

Rose Students singing in the choir include Mollie Allen, Kitsey Bailey, Rose Mary Stocks, Linda Blackwell, Donna Blackwell, Anne Grossnickle, Martha Wilkerson, Elizabeth Whitehurst, David Moye, Herb Oliver and Jim McLane.

A Ben Franklin Study

PORTRAY FRANKLIN—Five leading actors portray Benjamin Franklin during various momentous years in the colonial statesman's life. They are Eddie Albert (center) and, clockwise from left, Beau Bridges, Richard Widmark, Melvin Douglas and Lolyd Bridges. The mini-series of four 90-minute dramas premieres with Eddie Albert in "The Ambassador" Thursday, Nov. 21 (9:30-11 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

Benjamin Franklin as a witty, sometimes conniving political will be presented when CBS-TV airs the first of a four-part series of 90-minute 'specials' on Franklin's life Thursday evening, November 21, 9:30 to 11:00 p.m., on Channel 9-11.

Eddie Albert stars as Franklin at the age of 71 in the premiere episode which is entitled "The Ambassador."

Glenn Jordan, who directed all four of the specials, said the opening show will show Franklin "as a politician sent to France during the revolutionary war to enlist French aid for the American colonies in their struggle with Great Britain.

"Now the French considered themselves very sophisticated, and they looked at Franklin as a simple American. But in the first show we see him playing a shrewd and somewhat dangerous game in dealing with the French. We see him artfully conduct the affairs of the new nation in the sophisticated court of Louis XVI.

"The most gratifying thing about all four shows," Jordan continues, "is the detail with which we did the shows that most people probably won't even notice. The episodes are filled with period detail. I think we have recreated rather skillfully the 18th Century.

"Also, Eddie Albert brings his own special quality to the character of Franklin. Franklin was a multi-faceted character, and each actor who will portray him in each of the shows brings their own special quality with them. This is excellent because Franklin was so many things, so successful, so accomplished," he explains.

The remaining three specials will be broadcast in December, January and February.

"Beau Bridges will portray Franklin from the age of 18 to about 35 when Franklin learned the printing business, spent a year in England, then returned to America and opened his own general store.

"Lloyd Bridges, Beau's father, enacts the embryonic American hero from the time Franklin was 35 up until his 55th birthday. This is when Franklin became a scientist and eventually went into politics.

"Richard Widmark is then Franklin during the twelve years he spent in England during the third episode, called 'The King's Rebel.'"

"Melvyn Douglas portrays Franklin in 'The Statesman' which has Franklin in his 80s right up til the time he died.

"We put a great emphasis on historical facts, while at the same time we tried to make the shows entertaining," Jordan adds.

SEVENTH SON

Rod McCary, Dr. Joel Stratton on "General Hospital," is the seventh son of a family of twelve boys and two girls! Rod went to college at UCLA, got his Master's in English and drama and with those great good looks of his, went right into show-biz. And in answer to your question, girls, Rod is still single.

Lucille Ball And Art Carney Star In Show

Lucille Ball, television's acknowledged first lady of comedy, and Art Carney, currently appearing in the critically acclaimed film "Harry and Tonto," star in an hour-long comedy-drama special, "Happy Anniversary and Goodbye," to be presented Tuesday, Nov. 19, 9 to 10 p.m. on Channel 9-11.

The teleplay, written especially for Miss Ball by Arnie Rosen and Arthur Julian, is the first of two specials under Miss Ball's contract with the CBS Television Network.

Also starring in the special are Nanette Fabray and Peter Marshall. Featured in the cast are Alan Hale, Don Porter and Arnold Schwarzenegger, a former Mr. Universe.

"Happy Anniversary and Goodbye" is produced by Gary Morton and directed by Jack Donohue.

Miss Ball portrays Norma Michaels, a woman who approaches her silver wedding anniversary with a growing realization that her marriage has degenerated into a chronic disappointment.

Her husband, Malcolm Michaels (Carney), is a competently successful — and competently dull — dentist who is dimly aware that life has passed him by. Their mutual discontent comes to a head on the day of their daughter's wedding. After an acrimonious exchange of pent-up insults, Malcolm leaves the house and Norma, to find freedom "out there" in the kind of life he believes he has been missing.

Norma is encouraged in her sudden independence by her longtime best friend, Fay Lucas (Miss Fabray), a militant veteran of four marital breakups. Malcolm, too, has his champion

Charley Pride Is Profiled

A profile of Charley Pride — his music and the story of his rise from a farm boy in Mississippi to country music's first black superstar — will be presented on the ABC News series, "Americans All," Sunday, Nov. 17, on Channel 3-5-12.

The program will be broadcast immediately after "The ABC Sunday Night Movie" for that date, "High Plains Drifter." The "Americans All" documentary series highlights the contributions of ethnic minorities to American society.

ABC News cameras focus on an appearance of Charley Pride in Louisville, Ky., covering his arrival by private jet with an entourage of 20, including his band, singers and technicians, and his concert at the Louisville Convention Center. Among the hit songs he performs are: "Let Me Live," "Is Anybody Goin' to San Antone?" and "Cotton Fields."

In a conversation backstage, Pride reflects on his life.

Pride grew up listening to the stars of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry on the radio and bought his first guitar at the age of 14 with money earned from picking cotton on his family's farm in Sledge, Miss.

He recalls: "Where I lived there wasn't anybody to show me how to tune a guitar, so I picked enough cotton to make enough money to order me a Sears Roebuck Silvertone guitar."

On his career achievements he comments: "I'm sure that Jackie Robinson would have lived to be just another ball player, but he happened to be the one specifically picked for his ability and his education to break that barrier. Now I'm here in the same position, only I think, with a slight difference. I'm here by choice. I'm here not specifically to break barriers, although by being here, by the way society is set up, I am helping. I think that's fine."

SPECIAL SERIES — "Americans All," the ABC-TV News series will show Charley Pride, the first black superstar of country music, in concert at the Louisville, Kentucky, Convention Center, Sunday, November 17 on ABC-TV. The "Americans All" documentary series, which highlights the contributions of ethnic groups, will air immediately after "The ABC Sunday Night Movie"..

Playboy's Empire Examined On TV

The phenomenon of Hugh F. Hefner and his Playboy empire is being examined by NBC News' late-night TV magazine, "Weekend."

A filmed report on Hefner and his various enterprises will be colorcast on "Weekend" Saturday, November 16, 11:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m., or, in some areas on Sunday, Nov. 17, in the same time period. Lloyd Dobyns is anchorman of "Weekend" which will be seen on NBC-TV.

"Our piece will be a study of several things," Reuven Frank, the program's executive producer, said. "We will be looking at the Playboy phenomenon, Hefner's method of making Playboy magazine a success, how that method doesn't carry over into certain of his other fields of operation, and how his success has created imitations, one of which is pressing him very hard."

Besides looking at Hefner and his operations, "Weekend" will be taking notice of Bob Guccione and what he is up to. Guccione, editor and publisher of the enormously successful Penthouse and Viva magazines, is an almost identical phenomenon.

Playboy, Frank noted, is big business. It is a business with a net worth of $75 million. Playboy Enterprises Inc. has a gross income of $200 million annually.

HORSEWOMAN — Julie Sommars plays Sgt. Mildred Cross, who is scheduled to begin a stint at the mounted police training grounds although she is afraid of horses, in "The 42nd Street Cavalry" A McCloud segment of "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie" November 17 (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

A WAY WITH COLOR

Don't think that you can tell people that this color or that one is the right one to use. Mrs. America won't be regimented. The right color scheme for you is the one that means something or says something specifically to you. Does something for you: It's a highly personal matter. Some like it hot, some like it cold. There is no one definite way with color. There are many, many ways—all different, all good.

Have you been postponing the selection of new wall to wall carpeting for your home? You can have a very definite way with color and find it right here. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale."

QUESTIONS OUTLAW — David Huddleston (left), as an outlaw who must be set free if no concrete evidence can be found against him, is questioned by Ken Curtis, as Festus, in the "In Performance of Duty" episode on "Gunsmoke" Monday, November 18 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

David Groh Wouldn't Marry A Real Rhoda

David Groh has confessed . . he would never marry Rhoda Morgenstern! He REALLY prefers career women . . . off camera, of course.

David's TV marriage to Valerie Haper in the hit CBS series "Rhoda" was his first, for in his personal life he's a bachelor who freely admits that 'the state of holy wedlock' is a good three to five years away.

"People ask, 'How come you've never married?' I can give you a lot of answers; my career, the right girl's not come along, but I'm really not sure why I've never married.

"I do think my career has been a strong hold-back. I certainly wouldn't put it above caring for other people, but I can say it's been the biggest reason for still being a bachelor.

"I have a lot of friends who've married. Then, there are those who aren't ready for marriage and I'm a member of that group. I'm having a good time and enjoying life to the fullest.

"Valerie is a marvelous girl. In fact, she's incredible," David adds. "However, Rhoda's primary purpose in life has been to get a husband, to serve him, be on his side, and I think Rhoda will always live through Joe.

"But that's not for me . . . When I do marry, I hope my wife will have a life of her own . . . a career . . . and in the evening we can sit down and share these lives of ours.

"I have definite ideas about kids too," he continues. "I was brought up a certain way . . . to work hard, to try to excel in school and I've always been an achiever. I realize, however, that this isn't always a good thing. My children could well be quite different from me, and I hope I'll be able to see this and accept it.

DAVID GROH stars as Joe Gerard, Rhoda Morgenstern's new husband, in the half-hour comedy series "Rhoda", presented Mondays (9:30-10:00 p.m.) on channels 3N-9-11.

Michael Learned Has Comedic Talents, Too

Michael Learned wants to be good for a laugh.

Yes, the Emmy-winning actress from "The Waltons," who achived outstanding critical acclaim for her dramatic stage roles, is itching to do comedy. Well, she gets her itch — er, wish — with her starring role in "It Couldn't Happen to a Nicer Guy," an ABC Television Network "Tuesday Movie of the Week," airing Nov. 19, 8:30 - 10 p.m. on Channel 3-5-12.

"When I received the script from producer Arne Sultan I couldn't stop laughing," said the striking bonde actress. "The whole story is zany and so are the characters. We were on a brief hiatus from filming "The Waltons" so I said 'yes I'll do it' to Arne between chuckles.

The role Michael plays is that of a wife of a happily married man, portrayed by Paul Sorvino, who, one night on his way home from a meeting is forced at gunpoint to disrobe and make love to a beautiful girl and then is left stranded, sans clothes, on the highway.

"Needless to say, when Paul reports the incident to the police and then to me, we're somewhat dubious, especially me," said Michael. "The dialogue between Paul and myself during our various confrontations is a delight for me to do. I not only react but have some good funny lines myself."

One sequence which takes place in a courtroom where Paul faces the beautiful doll that forced her attentions on him was reminiscent of the wonderful courtroom scene in the old Cary Grant - Irene Dunne Classic, "My Favorite Wife." Michael trades comedic efforts with veteran funny man Roger Bowen, playing Paul's attorney.

"It's been a long time between comedies for me," says Michael, who began her acting career playing Shakespeare in England where she went to scool, and later in the U. S. and Canada. "My last role in comedy was as Amanda in Noel Coward's 'Private Lives' several seasons ago."

"I had a wonderful time doing it — how can you miss having a great time with a Noel Coard script? I was hoping to do another comedy when they called me to Hollywood to test for the 'The Waltons.' "

Another Role For Linda Blair

"Linda Blair has been signed to star in "Sarah T . . . Portrait of a Teen-Age Alcoholic," an "NBC World Premiere" film to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network.

Production started in early November at Universal Studios and at locations in the Los Angeles area.

It will be the second "NBC World Premiere" production this year for Miss Blair, who in September starred in the highly acclaimed "Born Innocent."

The Connecticut high school student received an Academy Award for her portrayal of a girl possessed by the devil in the film, "The Exorcist."

The tele-play of "Sarah T . . . Portrait of a Teen-Age Alcoholic" is by Esther and Richard Shapiro. Richard Conner is the director; Richard Levinson, the producer.

Mary Tries Directing

It was a typical Friday night on stage at CBS Studio Center in Hollywood.

The audience had taken its seats; the cameras were in place and ready to roll; actors were on their mark and primed. Then there was a little hesitation, and a slight restless movement was noticeable from some members of the crew. Finally, someone leaned over and reminded the new director to say, "Action!"

"Oh, right," the director said. "Action!"

The response drew a laugh. The show's director also happened to be its star, Mary Tyler Moore, and it was the only false move she made, stepping behind the cameras for the very first time.

The episode of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" directed by Miss Moore will be seen Saturday, Nov. 23, 9 to 9:30 p.m., on Channel 9-11.

Miss Moore admits that she was a little nervous about taking on the directorial job, mostly because it was something new for her. But she enthusiastically adds that she loved it and wants to do it again.

Bob Hope At Caesar's Palace

Bob Hope's second NBC Television Network special of the 1974-75 season — Wednesday, Nov. 20 10:00 to 11:00 p.m., on Channel 6-7 — will be colorcast from the Circus Maximus of Ceasar's Palace in Las Vegas where Hope presents the annual Las Vegas Entertainment Awards given by the Academy of Variety and Cabaret artists.

Ann-Margaret, Mitzi Gaynor, Alan King, Rich Little, Paul Anka, Roy Clark and Wayne Newton will be among the presenters.

Eastwood Nameless

Clint Eastwood stars as the quietly menacing stranger who defends the terrified citizens of a small town in the Old West by turning the streets into an inferno, in "High Plains Drifter," making its television premiere on the ABC Television Network's "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," Nov. 17, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 3-5-12.

Eastwood, playing the sort of nameless wanderer that has made his Westerns box-office bonanzas, also directed the film, which was written by Academy Award-winner Ernest Tidyman ("The French Connection.")

Again A Gunman

Verna Bloom and Mariana Hill are co-starred.

STRANGER—Clint Eastwood is the mysterious stranger who rides in to straighten out a twisted town in the television premiere of "High Plains Drifter" on ABC-TV's "ABC Sunday Night Movie", November 17 (9-11 p.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

Ghetto Gang Aids Research For Role

Like any other conscientious actor, Robert Walden wanted to do the best job possible in his starring role as one of a trio of young punks who hold up the passengers of a New York commuter train club car in "Panic on the 5:22," the ABC Television Network "Wednesday Movie of the Week," airing Nov. 20, 8:30 to 10:00 p.m., on Channel 3W-5-12.

So Walden, a New York now living in Hollywood, hopped a plane back to New York about three weeks before filming started on the movie which also stars Lynda Day George, Ina Balin, Laurence Luckinbill and Bernie Casey.

"The character of Eddie that I play is very familiar to me," points out Walden. "I've seen hundreds of Eddies on the streets of New York. But I've never really known an Eddie.

"Eddie is a product of a New York gang — hard, bitter, tough, nervous. What I wanted to do was to get to know some gang members, study their actions, reactions, the way they talk, move, think."

It seemed like a big order, but through some friends of friends of friends Walden was introduced to the leader of a gang in a ghetto section of the city.

"I thought the guy would resent me and tell me to drop dead when he learned what I wanted to do," continues Walden. "Just the opposite, however. He was intrigued with my being an actor and, like his counterparts, wanted to be sure he was shown off in the best light."

For two weeks Walden literally lived with the gang (One promise he made was not to reveal the name of the gang or any member's name.) He learned one important thing about portraying this sort of character.

"They talk with their bodies as much as with their mouths," he points out. "Hands, shoulders, torso and legs seem always to be in concert with their dialogue." He inserted many of these mannerisms into his portrayal of Eddie.

While with the gang, Walden accompanied them on trips ("no action, just checking the scenery") to sectors near their home base. One of the gang members had a cousin who lived in Brooklyn, Euclid Avenue to be exact, and belonged to a similar-type gang. Walden was given what he calls a "safe conduct pass" to visit them.

That the gang accepted Walden was shown the day he left to return to Hollywood.

GANGSTER'S GIRL—Dyan Cannon stars as Virginia Hill, girlfriend of gangster Bugsy Siegel, in "The Virginia Hill Story" on "NBC World Premiere Movie" to be colorcast on NBC-TV Tuesday, Nov. 19 (8:30-10 p.m.) on channels 6-7.

Lots Of Travel On 'Tomorrow'

When NBC Television Network's "Tomorrow" show premiered in October, 1973, it was promised that it would not be confined to local, regional matters even though the show originated at the NBC Studios in Burbank, California. ("Tomorrow") is seen Monday - Thursday from 1 to 2 a.m.)

One year later, "Tomorrow" and host Tom Snyder have logged over 30,000 miles while traveling to locales ranging from Saigon to Las Vegas, from Molokai to Nashville, from Hong Kong to Manhattan.

MUSICAL FAMILY — The family that plays together — the hit singing group, The Osmonds — will perform in their own one-hour musical program, "The Osmond Special," Wednesday, November 20 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 9-11. They are Marie (foreground), Merrill (banjo), Joe (bass), Alan (trumpet), Jimmy (trombone), Donny (piano) and Wayne (clarinet).

Osmonds Bring A Special

The musical dimensions of the Osmond family's talents will be on display in a special program that blends music and variety in a unique look at a modern musical legend, in "The Osmonds Special," Wednesday, November 20, 8 to 9 p.m., on Channel 9-11.

Andy Williams and Isaac Hayes will be the guests of the seven singing and dancing Osmonds — Alan, Wayne, Merrill, Jay, Donny, Marie and Jimmy.

The hour-long program will highlight musical numbers and informal conversations between young people and their guests, as well as a reprise of an Osmond concert event, using hand-held cameras to capture the aura of a "live" concert appearance.

Some of the many hit songs identified with the Osmonds will be featured on the special, including "Morning Side of the Mountain," "Love Me for a Reason," "Little Arrow," "Down By The Lazy River" and "Let Me In."

The special will chronicle the change, maturity and musical involvement of the Osmond group, from their debut as a quartet of pre-teen singers to their present success as international concert stars and gold-record artists. Their music now ranges from ballard to rock to soul to country, all of which will be represented in the broadcast.

REMEMBERING—Sen. Edward Kennedy and his mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, are among the late president's family, and friends to recall their impressions of John F. Kennedy as boy, man and leader of his country in "JFK—A Time to Remember", to be rebroadcast on ABC-TV Thursday, Nov. 21 (11:30-1a.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

A Recollection Of JFK

"JFK — A Time to Remember," an affectionate and revealing recollection of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, the boy, the man, and the President, 11 years after his tragic death, will be a special presentation of the "ABC Wide World of Entertainment," Thursday, Nov. 21 (11:30 p.m. - 1 a.m.), on the eve of the anniversary of his assassination.

Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, the last President's mother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, his brother, and Enice Kennedy Shriver, his sister, recount their personal remembrances in interviews videotaped at the family compound in Hyannis, Mass., where John Kennedy spent many summers of his life.

The inerviews are conducted by Tom Jarriel, White House Correspondent, and Bob Clark, Correspondent on Capitol Hill, who also journeyed to the temporary site of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library in Waltham, Mass., where Kennedy memorabilia is being collected and stored.

Dave Powers, who was special assistant to the President in the Kennedy Administration and who was riding in the motorcade behind Kennedy on that tragic day in Dallas, Nov. 22, 1963, and who is curator of the Memorial Library, tells of his experiences as an eyewitness to the fatal shooting.

Ken O'Donnell, President Kennedy's White House appointments secretary; Jim Bishop, author of "The Day Kennedy Was Shot"; John Kenneth Galbraith, who had known the young Kennedy at Harvard and who was later appointed by him to the post of Ambassador to India, and Dave Belin, a member of the Warren Commission, which undertook a comprehensive investigation of the Kennedy assassination, also appear in Waltham.

Big Step From 'Wyatt Earp'

On the face of it, Benjamin Franklin and Wyatt Earp have nothing in common.

It took actor Eddie Albert to make an unlikely parlay between these two diverse American personalities.

Years ago, Albert was asked what figure in history he would most like to portray. Wyatt Earp was his instant selection.

He never did play Earp, and it was a long time before he had a chance to state his choice of another famous American. It turned out to be a 71-year-old, gout-ridden Benjamin Franklin, whom Albert plays in "The Ambassador," first in a mini-series of four drama specials based on the life of the famed patriot, to be seen Thursday, Nov. 21 9:30 to 11:00 p.m., on Channel 3N-9-11.

Stellar Cast In Classic

"Great Expectations," based on the classic novel by Charles Dickens, will be the November presentation in the Bell System Family Theatre's Fifth Anniversary Season.

The gallery of Dickens' characters comes brilliantly alive in the hands of some of the world's finest actors. With an all-star cast headed by Michael York, Sarah Miles, James Mason, Robert Morley, Margaret Leighton, Anthony Quayle and Rachel Roberts, this 2-hour film — which will be released as a theatrical feature in England and Europe — will air Friday, November 22, 8 to 10 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

The Ms. Miles and Leighton are both delighted to be playing eccentric characters in the Dickens classic.

Miss Miles portrays Estella, a young girl who is brought up by an embittered old woman, Miss Havisham (Margaret Leighton) to break men's hearts. "Estella is barmy," proclaims Sarah, which means, in British slang, that she's nuts.

Statuesque and glamorous Margaret Leighton looks very 'barmy' herself as Miss Havisham. One of the great beauties of the British and American stage, she is almost unrecognizable under chalk-white make-up, a silver fright-wig and a tattered wedding gown.

Miss Havisham, as readers of the novel will remember, was jilted on her wedding day and spends the rest of her haunted life dressed in that shabby gown, living in her crumbling mansion where her wedding cake has decayed into a cobweb - covered lump.

"I love the part," the actress insists. "It's a great challenge because Miss Havisham is so crazy. I have to make her craziness understandable to the audience, so that she remains human, despite her grotesqueness. Of course, in doing that, I have some help from Dickens."

British actor Michael York plays the part of the story's central character, Pip.

ON TARGET— Sarah Miles, as Estella, tries for a bull's eye as Michael York, portraying Pip, looks on in this scene from "Great Expectations," the new "Bell System Family Theatre" drama special to be colorcast on NBC-TV, Friday, November 22 (8-10 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Johnny Cash Rides Rails

"Johnny Cash Ridin' the Rails — The Great American Train Story," an entertainment special for the whole family, which recalls the romance and nostaligia of America's great railroads, will be presented on the ABC Television Network, Friday, Nov. 22, 10 to 11 p.m., on Channel 3-5-12.

Johnny Cash, through his songs and an exciting account of railroading's fascinating legends and lore, shows us the growth and expansion of America as seen through the building of our famous railroads.

The special is a combination of songs and reenacted highlights of authentic history which blends dramatic recreations with old graphics, stills, and simulated newsreel events, to illustrate the feeling and atmosphere of times.

There will be the driving of the Golden Spike at Promontory Point, Utah, in 1869, the exciting race between a horse and the new-fangled iron horse they called the "Tom Thumb" engine and the stealing of the Civil War engine, "The General."

Good Deed Rewarded In Festival

A young boy's good deed toward an injured dog reaps a lifesaving bonus in "Lone Wolf," an award-winning Yugoslav motion picture to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, Nov. 23, 1 to 2 p.m., on Channel 9-11.

In 1972, "Lone Wolf" was honored by awards from the International Children's Film Festival in Gijon, Spain, and the Teheran, Iran, and this year it was named the Silver Arena winner at the Festival of Yugoslav Feature Films in Pula, Yugoslav.

In the film, Hund, a German shepherd military dog left behind by the Germans after World War II, has become a renegade with a bounty on his head. A nine-year-old lad, Runko (Slavko Stimac), discovers Hund wounded by a bear trap, mends his broken leg with a splint, and leaves him.

A hunting party sets out to track the dog down, while Runko seeks Hund on his own. The boy is shot accidentally and brought to town in an unconscious state. In a dramatic finale, the dog shows up at the hospital to be at his young friend's side during the crisis.

The quality has always come through.

Earlier World Is Stage

More than 70,000 years ago, every step man took out of the cave to discover and challenge the world around him was both a new experience and an adventure. "Korg: 70,000 B.C.!" is the story of that world and of Neanderthal man as he attempts to survive that hostile environment. The series is seen on Saturday mornings, 10:30 to 11:00 a.m., on Channel 3-5-12.

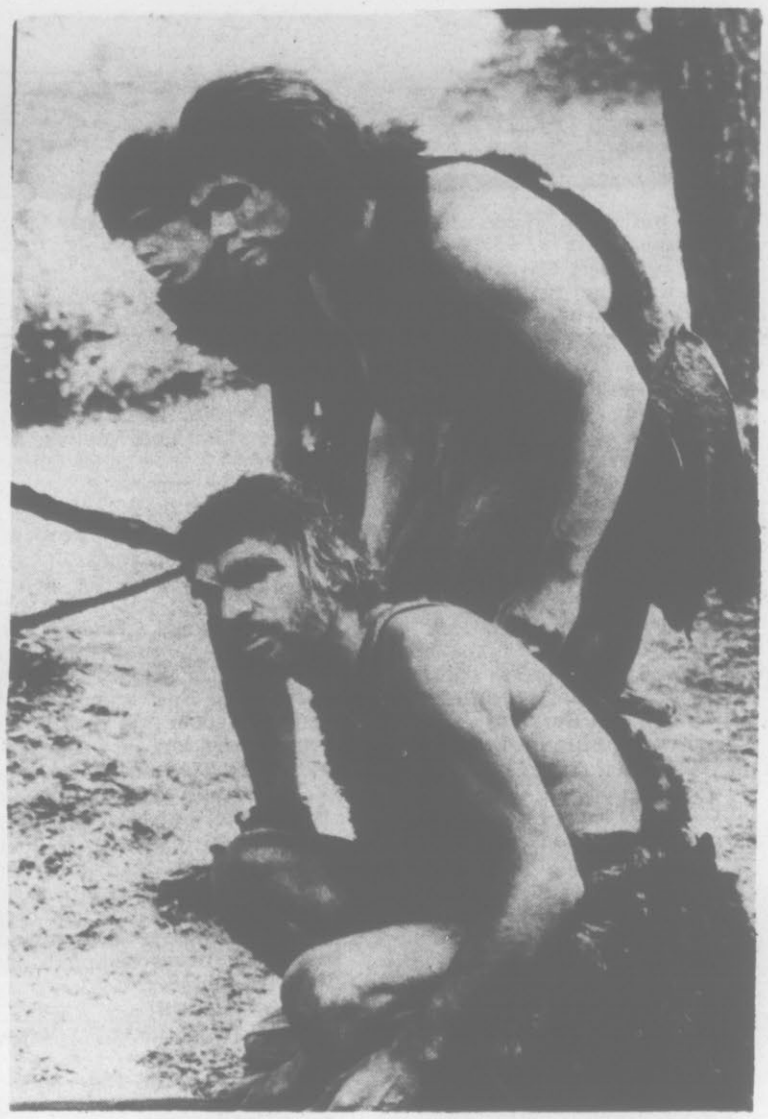
The series is a live-action production, filmed on location in remote natural areas of Southern California approximating the untouched wilderness of the world of pre-civilization. Hollywood craftsmen, under the guidance of anthropologists and archaeologists, have authentically reproduced the settings and the primitive world of early man.

The story centers around Korg, the leader of a small clan consisting of his black brother Bok, and his own immediate family, a wife and three children. Cut off from the larger clan because of an act considered offensive to the leader, Bok would have died in exile, but Korg chose to share his brother's fate and takes his family with him.

Jim Malinda stars as Korg, Bill Ewing as Bok, Naomi Pollach as Korg's wife, Mara, and Christopher Mann as Tane, his older brother. His younger son, Tor, is played by Charles Morteo and Ree by Janelle Pransky.

The series, developed as a dramatic recreation for children of the world of pre-written history, has as consultants Dr. Ian Tattersall, Assistant Curator of Anthropology for the Museum of Natural History, New York; Dr. Charles Kraft, Associate Professor of Anthropology and African Studies, Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, California, and Dr. Charles Rozaire, Curator of Archeology, Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History, Dr. Heath Taylor, a former UCLA teacher, is the technical advisor on the set.

The series is produced by Richard L. O'Connor and Fred Freiberger. Irving Moore and Chris Nyby are the directors. "Korg: 70,000 B.C.!" is a Hanna-Barbera production. Carolyn Boch is associate producer and Betty Martin is the casting consultant.



CANE PEOPLE — Korg (Jim Malinda, kneeling), Tane (Christopher Man, left) and Bok (Bill Ewing, right) learn valuable new hunting tricks in "The Ancient One," an episode of the ABC-TV's live-action children's series, "Korg: 70,000 B. C.!" on Saturday, November 23 (10:30-11 a.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

Holiday Games Set

NBC-TV's Thanksgiving Day menu this November 28 promises a liberal portion of National Football League excitement when the Detroit Lions host the Denver Brocos in an inter-conference clash beginning at 12:30 p.m. on Channel 6-7.

NBC's turkey Day schedule, which traditionally fatures Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in a line-up of holiday specials, will be further spiced this year by former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Don Meedith. He will join Curt Gowdy and Al DeRogatis in the broadcast booth for the Broncos-Lions game from Tiger Stadium, site of many Thanksgiving telecasts.

Thanksgiving Day football colorcasts on the NBC Television Network have logged peak viewing audiences for regular-season daytime NFL telecasts the last four years. In 1971, when the Lions played the Kansas City Chiefs, Nielsen Television Index reported that the contest was seen in 13,970,000 households, top mark for the period.

Last year, when the Dallas Cowboys hosted the Miami Dolphins, 13,700,000 homes — according to NTI — were tuned in. In 1970 the Oakland - Detroit encounter on NBC-TV was viewed in 13,520,000 homes, while in 1972 (Jets-Lions) the figure was 13,020,000.

'GO' Looks At Bicentennial

In anticipation of America's forthcoming Bicentennial celebration, NBC Television Network's "GO" program Saturday, November 23, 12:30 to 1 p.m., visits a family living as our colonial ancestors did.

Will Geer, host of this edition, takes viewers on a tour of Turkey Run Farm near Washington, D.C. which is run by the United States Park Service. There, the Alexander family — father, mother and four children — live and dress as our colonial forebears did.

Elvis Stars In CBS Late Show

Elvis Presley, Nancy Sinatra and Bill Bixby star in the music-and-comedy film "Speedway," to be seen in color on "The CBS Late Movie" Friday, Nov. 22, starting at 11:30 p.m., on Channel 9-11. William Schallert and Gale Gordon also appear.

Steve Grayson (Presley) is a big winner at stock-car racing, and as generous with his money as he is lucky on the track. A lot of his cash goes to help a poor motherless family of young children, run by a cheerful but scatterbrained father (Schallert).

Harris Always Shines

Against the New York Giants earlier this season, Cliff Harris:

—Picked up a New York Giants fumble and ran 20 yards with it.

—Intercepted a pass and returned it eight yards.

—Knocked the ball loose from the Giants' Bob Tucker in the end zone when New York was threatening to score in the fourth quarter of the Cowboys' 21-7 victory.

—Was named Most Valuable Player by Dallas media covering the game.

—Acquired a stiff neck from hitting so many people so hard.

Summed up, it was a fairly typical day for the fifth-year free safety from Ouachita (pronounced WASH-itaw) Baptist.

"Cliff Harris has been our best football player on defense this year," says Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "I'm talking about consistency, a guy playing good every week.

"He plays at one speed," says Landry, "and that's full speed."

Harris, a 6-0, 184-pounder, has been a starter since the first game of his rookie year in 1970. He missed the second half of that season while in the military, but moved back into his old spot the next year and began to build a reputation as one of the fiercest hitters, pound - for - pound, in the NFL.

"Many of those backs will outweigh me by 20 or 30 pounds," says Cliff. "What I try to do is find a spot, about at their numbers, and hit that spot with all the force I have.

"If I just grab somebody around the shoulder pads and throw them down they won't even know I'm around."

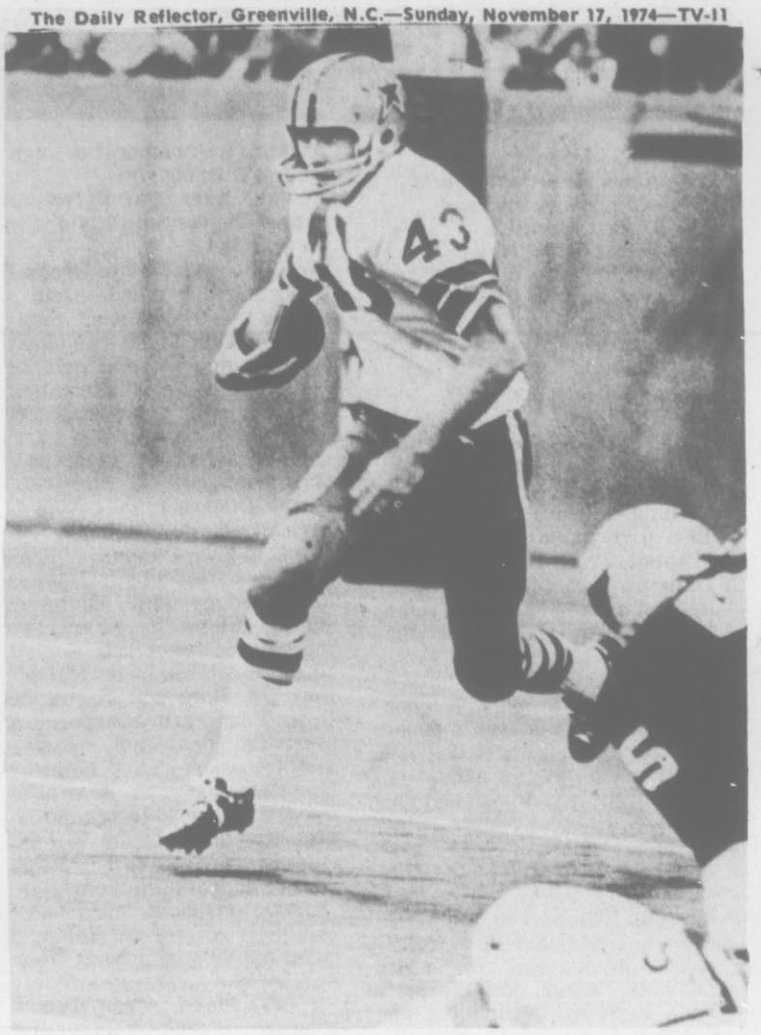
Harris' hell - for - leather style of play involves him in skirmishes with the opposition from time to time. Ballcarriers and would-be receivers don't take kindly to being smacked the way Harris smacks them.

"I'm not mean," Cliff says, "but I am aggressive. I think it's good to let a receiver know you're around. You've got to make him wish he hadn't caught the ball. Then maybe the next time he'll be looking for you and drop some passes."

"Cliff Harris is just tough," says Landry. "He's always been tough and that's what makes him as good as he is. He's a very aggressive football player."

In addition to his duties at free safety, Harris returns punts and ranks fifth on the all-time list of leading Cowboys punt returners. Here, again, his zest for contact gives an added dimension to the play.

"When you see a long return," Cliff explains, "it's usually when a guy catches a punt and tacklers are all around him. You have to take chances to make big plays. That's what I'm looking for."



READY FOR REDSKINS — It will be the Cowboys and Indians all over again when Washington meets Dallas on Sunday November 17 at 4 p.m. on CBS Channels 3-9-11. Dallas' Cliff Harris (Free Safety) is pictured above.

Floyd Little Has A Bowlegged Run

From the very first time Floyd Little stepped onto a collegian gridiron, he was a marked man. Wearing the famous number "44" that Jimmy Brown and Ernie Davis had immortalized, Little followed in their footsteps as Syracuse's left halfback, and shattered most of the records established by the two former Orange greats. He also became college football's first bona fide three-time All American since Doak Walker.

Having been drafted in the first round by the Denver Broncos of the then AFL, Little headed west with a $130,000 contract and a sincere desire to play anywhere but in Denver.

"It was the last place I wanted to play football," said Little who now enters his eighth season as an All Pro running back for the Denver Broncos. Floyd has become so attached to Denver that he now says he wouldn't of had it any other way.

All Floyd did in 1973 was to compile another 979 yards to his credit, tie his own TD club record of 13, and catch 41 passes, second high on the team. It was a typical Little season.

Although Little has been plagued by an array of ailments during his pro career, he started this season with a streak of 56 consecutive games. Being pronouncedly bowlegged is a condition which Little says has saved him from complete destruction.

"I'm the most bowlegged runner you ever saw," said Little, "maybe the weirdest shaped legs to ever play the game. Some guys come in and pop me on the side of the leg and the knee just straightens up into a normal position instead of getting banged up."

Jonelle Has The Gift

Helen Hayes was right.

"That child belongs in the theatre! Don't let her leave. She has a natural gift."

The comment was directed to the parents of Jonelle Allen, when the youngster made her theatrical debut at the age of 5 in "Wysteria Trees" at New York's City Center.

Jonelle, now an adult, was termed "luminescent" by Newsweek in a review of her performance in "Two Gentlemen of Verona," for which she received the New York Drama Critics Award as Best Actress in a Musical and a Tony Award nomination (1971-72). She co-starred with Godfrey Cambridge and Raymond St. Jacques in the film, "Come Back Charleston Blue."

Jonelle, who grew up in Harlem where she still lives, will be among the guest stars in "Cotton Club '75," a black revue set in a contemporary re-creation of the famed Cotton Club of the '20s and '30s in New York, and seen this weekend on NBC-TV.

Jonelle credits the late Ed Sullivan with her emergence into show business.

"We used to watch 'Toast of the Town'," she recalls. "Remember how the chorus line opened the show singing and dancing? Well, at three, I used to 'follow their act' in my living room. It was that 'act' of mine that convinced my mother to enroll me in dance classes."

AT THE COTTON CLUB—Jonelle Allen is one of the performers in the special, "Cotton Club '75", the black revue set in a contemporary re-creation of the famed old Cotton Club which will be colorcast on NBC-TV Saturday, Nov. 23 (11:30-1:00 a.m.). In some areas, the show will be presented Sunday, Nov. 24, at the same time.

Pike's Peeks

Vikki Lawrence of "The Carol Burnett Show" tied the marital knot with Al Schultz Nov. 9. Al is the make-up artist of the show.

Richard Webb, star of one-time TV series "U.S. Border Patrol," has penned a book for Hawthorne Books entitled, "These Came Back," stories of reincarnation.

ABC has axed "The Newlywed Game" and "The Girl In My Life" from its daytime schedule, replacing them with two game shows. "The Money Maze," hosted by Nick Clooney and "Showdown," hosted by Jim Peck.

"Password" has taken on a new look, with only celebrity guests participating in the show hosted by Allen Ludden.

Betty White, the happy homemaker on the "Mary Tyler Moore Show" and wife of Ludden, says her husband hates to participate in game shows.

NBC's "Police Woman" starring Angie Dickinson has been picked up for the rest of the current TV season.

Lorne Green stars in a 90-minute pilot film called "Nevada Smith" to air after the first of the year.

Look for another spinoff from "All In The Family" starring Mike Evans, Sherman Hemsley and Isabel Sanford, this one called "Those Jeffersons."

"Jackpot" and "The New Treasure Hunt" host Geoff Edwards is a successful and popular Los Angeles disc jockey.

McLean Stevenson, Col. Blake on "M-A-S-H" is reportedly leaving the show after this year for TV projects of his own.

There're some critics across the country who have chosen to 'bad-mouth' Michael Landon, saying he is egocentric and difficult to get along with. Not true! Not true! Not true!

Regretably, Greg Burgoff, Radar on "M-A-S-H" and his wife won't be parents in the near future. Gary's Janet suffered a miscarriage.

IN REAL LIFE

Eileen Letchworth, who appears as Margo Flax on "All My Children," is happily married in real life to actor Paul Larson. They met co-starring in a play. She has a married son, Eric, from a former marriage. The Larsons live in Gotham City.

'Zeppelin' A Spy Movie

Michael York and Elke Sommer star in "Zeppelin," an espionage drama set aginst the background of World War I in Europe, on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" November 23, 9:00 to 11:00 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

During World War I, Geoffrey Richter-Douglas (York), a young man of German-English parentage, decides to fight for Britian. Because of his knowledge of German and his familiarity with the country, he is the perfect candidate for a spy mission, acting as a double agent.

Confused and unhappy, Richter - Douglas is ordered to "defect" to Germany where he will gather information about the Zeppelin, a new airship developed by the German high command as the utlimate weapon.

Once there, he meets Dr. Altshul (Marius Goring), designer of the Zeppelin and his beautiful wife, Erika (Sommer).

REUNITED

Jonelle Allen and Clifton Davis, who starred together on Broadway in "Two Gentlemen of Verona," are reunited via guest-star performances in "Cotton Club '75," the late-night special on NBC-TV.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR BILLY DANIELS

Did you ever experience anything in Australia like the situation Frank Sinatra got into?—Mrs. R. Evans, Sacramento, Calif.

● Not exactly. I've been "Down Under" 15 times, and even though I don't think Australian reporters intend to be rude, they do have a way of asking tricky questions. The best defense is a sense of humor. I was once asked by a young lady, "Why does an old fellow like you, with plenty of money, continue to sing?" I replied: "Because I've nothing better to do. My son takes care of my business; my landlord takes care of my property. They insist I sing and stay out of their hair."

FOR JULIE ANDREWS, star of "The Tamarind Seed"

How old were you when you first noticed you had such a marvelous voice?—Tami Stukey, Great Falls, Mont.

● Thank you, but a "freak" voice would be a better way of putting it. I was 12 when my parents found out I had a mature coloratura. Mum and Dad were entertainers, and until I let out my first powerful note, it had never occurred to any of us that I should follow in their footsteps. That's when they started seriously "thinking show business" for me.

FOR DINAH SHORE, star of the new show "Dinah!"

Why do you always wear sweaters on your shows? Isn't it warm under the lights?—Mrs. William Moore, Trenton, Ohio

● You're right! It is warm under those studio lights. But because my producers always have me do something with my hands (so that they're not free to smooth down my skirt), I find that a sweater over a blouse keeps the blouse in and I stay relatively neat. Also, I like wearing sweaters and feel comfortable in them.

FOR ALEX KARRAS, sportscaster and former football star

You played football in high school, college and in the pros. During your first year in retirement, did you miss playing?—T. A., St. Bonaventure, N.Y.

● No, because I never really liked playing the game. To me, it was just something to get me closer to the things I wanted in life.

FOR SECRETARY OF STATE HENRY KISSINGER

What will become of the historic letter of resignation that former President Nixon delivered to you?—D. Newcomer, Columbia, Pa.

● Mr. Nixon's letter of resignation—dated August 9—was sent to the National Archives on August 19, where it will remain.

FOR TONY BENNETT

Is it true that you are serious about painting in your spare time?—F. Goode, Glendale, Calif.

● Yes. I took up painting the way some people take up crossword puzzles—for relaxation. But it grew on me to the point where I enjoy it almost as much as singing. It surprises me that people care. When I sold a canvas of the New York skyline to a big company, it was reported by the weekly magazines and papers. Painting to me is an investment—something to fall back on if my voice fails.

FOR MARLO THOMAS, star of Broadway's "Thieves"

Do you mind being called "Danny Thomas's daughter," and does it bother your father to be referred to as "Marlo Thomas's father"?—L. Stern, Decatur, Ill

● All right by both of us. My dad and I have our individual identities, and we both worked very hard to get where we are. If we hadn't done it alone, there'd be no self-satisfaction. I'm enormously proud of my dad, and I know he feels the same way about me. We've never let our professional lives interfere with our private ones.

FOR HAROLD ROBBINS, author of "The Pirate"

How old are you?—G. B., Spartanburg, S.C.

● I'm 58. A lot of people think I'm older. That's because my first book, "Never Love a Stranger," was written 30 years ago, and as most people have "grown up" with me, it seems as though I've always been around. I'm the "Methuselah" of the publishing world!

FOR DANNY THOMAS

How do you feel about actors or actresses who turn their acts into political forums?—J. B., Amherst, N.Y.

● I think it's wrong—at least during a paid performance. Now in a talk show—that's different. I think then I should be able to say whatever I think. I have a right. I'm a citizen too. But when people pay money to be entertained, that's what they should get—entertainment.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I've always wondered if the people who endorse products really use them in private life. What can you tell me?—J. P., Nyack, N.Y.

● Years ago, personalities just gave their names to a product. Nothing more was required. Today it's different. Lucille Ball, who's endorsing Milton Bradley's "Crossup," is in real life a games and puzzles freak. George Montgomery was interested in building furniture long before he became known for his Johnson's Wax commercials. One of the requisites of the Polident ads is that personalities must have a complete set of dentures. Guy Lombardo was rejected because he has all his own teeth! Annette Funicello, who endorses Mennen's Baby Magic, has used it on her own baby. However, there are exceptions: Groucho Marx, who endorsed a leading Scotch whiskey, was once overheard at a party given by the sponsors to say, "Scotch? Never touch it!"

The Hall-of-Fame Super-Panel's Report

1. Snead

2. Nicklaus

3. Hogan

Hagen

Jones

Player

Palmer

Sam Snead may be the best golfer who ever lived—at least according to our panelists from the World Golf Hall of Fame. Based on a weighted ratings system which credited golfers with points for superiority in different phases of play and the number of mentions they received overall, Snead emerged as leader in Family Weekly's Golf Hall of Fame interviews. Jack Nicklaus, who has dominated the PGA tour in recent years, finished second. Third was Ben Hogan, almost unanimously cited as the best driver of all time. Grouped behind them were Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Gary Player and Arnold Palmer.

By Larry Bortstein

Who are the greatest golfers of all time? All golf fans, and even other golfers, have their opinions about the best practitioners of "The Royal and Ancient Game." FAMILY WEEKLY recently had a unique opportunity to poll some of the greatest links performers who ever lived on their choices for "bests" in the various phases of the sport. The panelists taking part in the FAMILY WEEKLY poll are all charter members of the World Golf Hall of Fame, which was dedicated last September 11 at Pinehurst, North Carolina.

The great male golfers who took part in our poll were Gene Sarazen, Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus. Patty Berg, who along with the late Mildred Didrikson "Babe" Zaharias, was inducted for greatness in women's golf, chose the greatest women golfers. The other Hall of Fame inductees were Harry Vardon, Walter Hagen, Francis Ouimet and Bobby Jones, all deceased; plus Ben Hogan and Gary Player.

Also invited to share his opinions with FAMILY WEEKLY and the panel of Hall of Famers was Fred Corcoran, president of the International Golf Association, which conducts the annual World Cup tournament. This year's World Cup is being played later this week, November 21-24, in Caracas, Venezuela. During his 60 years in golf, Corcoran has known all of the greats of the game and is a former tournament director of the Professional Golfers Association and a former manager of Snead and Mrs. Zaharias.

President Gerald Ford, an avid golfer himself, was the featured speaker at the dedication ceremonies for the World Golf Hall of Fame the afternoon of September 22, and at the award dinner the same evening. The World Golf Hall of Fame is situated behind the fourth green of the famous Pinehurst Country Club course, scene of the richest event on the men's PGA tour.

The Diamondhead Corporation of Mountainside, N.J., owns the entire resort town of Pinehurst in North Carolina's Sandhills, having purchased it from its original owners, the James Tufts family of Boston, almost four years ago. Diamondhead has spent $2.5 million for the golf shrine.

Each of the inductees to the World Golf Hall of Fame received a medallion with his portrait on it. President Ford also received a set of the medallions, which are manufactured and sold by the Hamilton Mint of Arlington Heights, Illinois.

Here's How the Panelists Voted:*

BYRON NELSON, 62

Best driver	Ben Hogan
Best long irons	Sam Snead
Best mid-irons	Sam Snead
Best short irons	John Revolta, Jimmy Demaret, Lee Trevino
Best fairway woods	Paul Runyan, Lee Trevino, Johnny Miller
Best wedge	Gene Sarazen, John Revolta, Deane Beman
Best bunker player	Gary Player, Julius Boros
Best putter	Paul Runyan, Horton Smith, John Revolta, Ben Hogan, Billy Casper, George Archer

Comments: "John Revolta was one of the most underrated players of all time, a star in the 1930's who played a great short game. Ben Hogan was a sensational putter from four or five feet. George Archer is a beautiful putter. He's 6-foot-6, but he can bend down low and sink those putts, short and long. He has very little wrist action, very delicate. Of course, as far as putting is concerned, you can't forget Jack Nicklaus, who may not be in the class of some others for sheer putting skill, but who has probably made more clutch putts than anyone else."

GENE SARAZEN, 72

Best driver	Ben Hogan, Sam Snead
Best long irons	Sam Snead, Jack Nicklaus
Best mid-irons	Sam Snead
Best short irons	Jack Nicklaus
Best fairway woods	Jack Nicklaus
Best putter	Sam Snead, Walter Hagen

Comments: "Hogan was best of all from tee to green. He was a man who worked hard to become a great golfer. It took him about ten years. Walter Hagen's style of putting with a short swing was just great. I'm very proud of of the fact that I invented the Sand wedge back around 1931. It changed the whole game of golf. A good player can pick up one or two strokes a round with good use of the sand wedge."

Golf's Super-Panel

Comments: "I really admired the game of Paul Runyan, who was big in the 1930's. We called him 'Little Poison.' He really honed those cute short iron shots so fine. Arnold Palmer is a great power hitter and a go-for-broke gambler like I was in my young days. I obviously have to rate Ben Hogan as one of the greatest all-round players I ever saw, and one of the things I'm most proud of in my career is that I beat Hogan three-for-three in sudden-death playoffs. The biggest of these three victories was in the 1954 Masters."

ARNOLD PALMER, 45

Best driver	Ben Hogan
Best long irons	Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller
Best mid-irons	Jack Nicklaus
Best short irons	Julius Boros
Best fairway woods	Gary Player
Best wedge	Gary Player
Best putter	Bob Charles, Billy Casper
Best swing	Sam Snead, Gene Littler

Comments: "The younger men like Johnny Miller will have to keep from letting their nerves get to them as they get older, especially while putting. From personal experience, I know that my putting has given me more trouble as I get older than any other part of my game. Julius Boros is about the only older golfer I know who's still as sharp with his putting as he always was, and I think the fact that he's a fast putter, steps up and hits it, helps him stay a good putter. Gary Player is such a good sand iron player that it's no disadvantage to him at all to hit into sand. Bob Charles, the lefthander from New Zealand, is a great putter, and Billy Casper has made more long putts than anyone I've ever seen."

JACK NICKLAUS, 34,

Best driver	Lee Trevino
Best long irons	Tom Weiskopf
Best short irons	Johnny Miller
Best putter	George Archer, Dave Stockton

Comments: "The one area where every tour golfer is strong is putting. Otherwise they couldn't be on the tour. Twenty or 30 new pros join the tour each year, and the ones who make it are the ones who work at their game the hardest. Maybe the best overall player is a guy few people think of in that category–Lee Trevino. Even after he won the U.S. Open in 1968, coming out of total obscurity, not too many people took him seriously. But of all other golfers I could wish to be if I weren't Jack Nicklaus, I would want to be Lee Trevino."

WHO ARE THE GREATEST WOMEN GOLFERS?

Patty Berg

Here's what Patty Berg says...

Best driver	Mickey Wright, JoAnne Carner
Best long irons	Mickey Wright, Shirley Englehorn
Best mid-irons	Kathy Whitworth, Sandra Haynie, Carol Mann
Best short irons	Sue Berning, Donna Young
Best fairway woods	Judy Rankin, Sandra Haynie, Louise Suggs
Best wedge	Carol Mann
Best bunker player	Betsy Rawls, Sandra Palmer
Best putter	Carol Mann, Kathy Whitworth, Louise Suggs
Best swing	Mickey Wright Babe Zaharias
Best competitor	Kathy Whitworth, Sue Berning, Sandra Haynie

Comments: "More and more young women are entering golf as a career now. I was one of the first fulltime pros among the women when I started playing professionally in 1940. I've seen and played against every top woman player of the past 40 years. Babe Zaharias was my biggest competition during my early pro years, but the girls that have come up in the past 10 or 15 years are so outstanding, and there've been so many of them–Kathy Whitworth, Carol Mann, all the rest."

FRED CORCORAN

Best driver	Ben Hogan
Best long irons	Sam Snead, Arnold Palmer
Best mid-irons	Tom Weiskopf
Best short irons	Julius Boros
Best fairway woods	Bobby Jones
Best putter	Horton Smith, Arnold Palmer
Best stylist	Harry Vardon

Comments: "My favorite pro of all was Walter Hagen. He did more to popularize golf than any other person. He was one of the most well-liked sports personalities of his time, the 1910's and 1920's. I would have to say that Ben Hogan was the best golfer who ever played. He won his first tournament in 1940, when he was already 28 years old, but then he also won the next two straight tournaments after that. To cure a natural hook, he probably hit more practice shots than anyone who ever lived."

"A Grown-Up Version of The Spaghetti I Loved As a Kid"

"I hate large parties! You can never talk to anyone. Somebody is always pulling on your sleeve, saying, 'The ice maker broke down.' "

Globe Photos

Bob samples some of Ginny's cooking in their kitchen. Bob is star of the CBS-TV series, "The Bob Newhart Show."

Excuse us for butting in.

We needed a little extra room to make the point that a pound of Miracle spreads 36 more slices than unwhipped margarine.

Miracle Brand Margarine is whipped. Which means that a pound of Miracle goes 50% further than a regular pound. Spreads half again as many slices of bread.

And it comes to you in pretty, reusable bowls with your choice of three colors.

So you get delicious Kraft margarine flavor, whipped to spread smoother and easier, plus a handy reusable bowl.

Miracle. What else could you call it?

KRAFT Division of Kraftco Corporation

By Bob Newhart
In conversation with Helen Dorsey

I've never been a great fancier of food. When I was a kid growing up in Oak Park, a Chicago suburb, I was raised on Midwestern fare. My mother used to make spaghetti and meat loaf. I don't know why, but she was a compulsive baker of brownies! One day she said, "I don't know why I keep making all these brownies. Nobody ever eats them." We just let them stack up until they got so stale she had to throw them away!

I used to take pills to put on weight because I couldn't have cared less about food. But now I've developed a taste for it. I'll never forget the first meal my wife Ginny ever prepared for me. It was a thing called "baked steak"—the kind you put on the bottom of the broiler rack and bake instead of broil. I didn't dare tell her how awful it was!

Now, Ginny has become a very good cook. She gets recipes from her friends or cuts them out of newspapers or magazines. There are still many things I don't like. I still love meat loaf, but I'm particularly fond of Ginny's Italian dishes like spaghetti, lasagna or manicotti. We entertain informally at home. Luckily, we have a small dining room because I hate large parties! You can never talk to anyone. Somebody is always pulling on your sleeve, saying, "The ice maker broke down." What's the point of having people over unless you can talk to them?

Do I cook? Never! I'm much more interested in cooking up comedy routines. I've always found some of the best comedy comes from life. For example, I could do a whole routine just about the time I took my family on a camping trip! We took one of those mobile houses. We didn't know it at the time, but Ginny was pregnant and had morning sickness every day. We also took along our dog, who got carsick. We made about 18 miles a day. The kids always wanted peanut butter and jelly sandwiches. But just at the very mention of the words "peanut butter," Ginny got violently ill. So I had to make the sandwiches.

We had fun stopping to fix steaks along the way. But it's kind of like going in the army. If I ever go again, I'll know a whole lot more what to do. I wouldn't have traded that experience for anything. But I won't do it again. Next time I'll get a camper and drive by day, then stop off at a motel at night.

SPAGHETTI WITH MARINARA SAUCE, NEWHART

1½ lbs. lean chopped beef
2-3 hot or sweet Italian pork sausages (parboiled or broiled) skins removed, minced
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon olive oil
3 tablespoons chopped parsley

Not all of them are but history will show that the majority of them are and we've been very successful in bringing our friends the very best from a large choice available to collectors. We select only the best quality, the most desirable, the most popular and limited and those we feel have most potential. While we urge you to only buy what appeals to your taste, it's a known fact that Collector Plates have risen in price.

For Example: Only last year we sold many 1973 Haviland-Parlon Christmas Plates at $40.00 – and they now bring over $135.00. We selected the Norman Rockwell "Butter Girl" as a good buy and though we sold them at $19.50, one recently sold at auction for $110.00 (on television). Last year's Santa Clara has doubled in price to around $50.00 already, and last year's Berta Hummel Christmas is up over 300% in one year. To go back a few years the 1971 Goebel Hummel now sells for over $300.00 (our price was $25.00) and the 1969 B & G Mothers Day is approaching the $400.00 mark, and we sold them for $9.00 (and are offering our buyers a 2000% profit over initial price!

Special Bonus: As an incentive for you to try Plate Collecting, if your order exceeds $20.00 and you order within two weeks – you may buy a 1972 Santa Clara Mothers Day for only $3.95 (limit one per collector) Excellent china with 24 Kt. Gold Decoration.

Extra-Special Bonus: Absolutely Free with any order is a Year's Subscription to the renown "Joy's Newsletter" showing large pictures of the Finest Limited Editions in color and giving pertinent facts and figures to help you make your mind up.

Money Back Guarantee: If for any reason you're not completely thrilled and delighted with your purchase from Joy's, it may be returned within 20 days for a full refund. Join the "Platey Generation" and while we can't guarantee that every plate will grow in value, we'll guarantee that you'll love the Plate Collecting Hobby.

"I use this Mirro-Matic Popper to make the best popcorn in the world."

Orville Redenbacher's® Gourmet Popping Corn is the best in the world. He spent thirty-five years of trial and error making it that way. He came up with a popping corn that puffs up to 44 times its own volume and earned him the title of "Popcorn King of the World."

Naturally, a man who's devoted his life to perfecting popping corn is going to be mighty particular about the popper he chooses. That's why he uses a Mirro-Matic Pop'n'Serve.

He likes the unbreakable Lexan® cover, the automatic thermostatic control, heatproof base and non-stick, easy-cleaning Teflon II® coated aluminum popping surface.

Now Orville likes his popcorn straight — with just a touch of salt. But if you like butter on yours, the Mirro-Matic's unique Butter-Rite feature butters the popcorn after it's done.

The Mirro-Matic Pop'n'Serve comes with either a colorful red or green base and holds four full quarts. Its stylish low profile makes storage easy. Get this Mirro-Matic or any of the other three and four quart poppers at your Mirro dealer. And have some really great popcorn.

Do the "Beautiful People" Really Have More Fun?

True or False: Beauty is as difficult to cope with as extreme wealth. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Good-looking girls make the best wives.

2. A handsome man or beautiful woman can get by on looks alone.

3. Beauty is as difficult to cope with as extreme wealth.

4. The better looking a person is, the more likely he is to develop his talents and abilities.

5. If a man is on the homely side, he'll make a better impression if his wife or girl friend is good-looking.

ANSWERS

1. False—according to studies conducted by investigators from two leading universities, which show that beautiful women do not fare as well in marriage as their plainer sisters. As one authority observes in commenting on these findings: "One might speculate that beautiful women may have gained altogether too much self-love and self-regard through admiration from others to become dutiful wives."

2. False. Psychological studies show that good looks, without a correspondingly interesting personality to back them up, are like an attractive cover on a dull book. Interest wanes as the reader gets into the pages.

3. True. Dr. Martin Grotjahn, professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California Medical School, has made an exhaustive study of beautiful people—how they behave, how they relate to others, how they feel about themselves. "It has been a source of startling surprise to me," observes the psychiatrist—who is also in private practice in Beverly Hills, "to see the amount of depression, loneliness and deep unhappiness among beautiful people." His studies document how easily the blessing of being beautiful "can turn into a curse that splits an individual into two parts—one of which everyone admires and the other, hidden behind the beautiful surface, which is so often lonely, and feels unloved and occasionally engulfed in despair."

4. False. Studies show that men who are exceptionally handsome or women who are strikingly beautiful are much more likely to feel that they can get by on appearance alone and are therefore more inclined to coast through life. However, unattractive people realize that they must make the most of themselves and develop and enhance their good qualities and abilities.

5. True. In studies conducted at Virginia Commonwealth University, psychological tests show that an unattractive male is perceived in a more favorable light when he is paired with an attractive female. And an attractive female is liked more when she is associated with an unattractive male than when she is paired with an attractive male.

What Is This Ingenious Plan?

The Weider '5' Minute Body Shaper Plan is based on doing one continuous, coordinated rhythmic exercise—twice daily and cutting down about 20% of your food intake—but without giving up any of the foods you like.

This one, five-minute exercise is designed to slim and firm your flabby waistline and hipline (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look), as well as take off excess body fat FAST by speeding up your metabolism, burning off stored calories, and releasing excess water. At the same time, it helps to reshape your chest or bustline, waist or hips, firms your arms and legs—improves your total body! It's safer than strenuous gym workouts. No disrobing. Do it in the privacy of your own home—even while watching TV. The unit weighs about 16 ounces and fits any wallet-size case. You can carry it and use it wherever there is floor space—anytime. Even while watching television.

What The Experts Say:

Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Athletic Coaches ...agree it's the most successful Waistline-Weight Reducer and Shaping Up Plan they have seen yet.

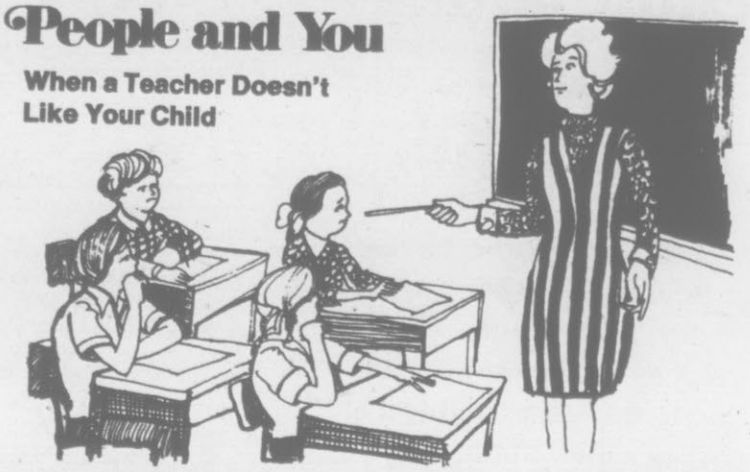
People and You

When a Teacher Doesn't Like Your Child



For years, parents have been asking questions like this: "Do you think I ought to take little Johnny out of Mrs. Jones' class? Mrs. Jones and my older son never got along, and now I'm afraid Johnny's going to have the same trouble." Science has now proved that questions like this are based on sound instincts. In a new in-depth investigation, psychologists discovered that teachers definitely expect little brothers and sisters to be like the older members of their family. The teachers don't even realize they have this attitude—apparently it's just human nature. If an older brother was a school discipline problem, the teacher is usually quick to think that the younger sister or brother will also be a troublemaker. If the older child did poorly scholastically, the younger child has a hard time convincing the teacher that he's an average student. Most important, studies have shown that children often live up to adults' expectations. If the teacher expects a child to be a problem, he may very well become one!

The Doctor Lets You In Those Hospital Review Boards: How Well Do They Really Work?

One of the results of the publicized abuses of Medicare is the growth of something called the Professional Standards Review Organization (PSRO). This is a hospital board made up of doctors, who pass judgment on the work of other doctors. Prior to Medicare, doctors worked pretty much as free agents, admitting patients, treating patients—and billing patients—according to their own judgment. Now they often have to justify their work to other doctors. In many cases, this is a good thing. It makes you, the patient and bill-payer, feel more confident that you are getting your dollar's worth of treatment. On the other hand, it has its bad side too. It means that you may have a harder time being admitted to a hospital, even though there are plenty of vacant beds (the review board may not consider your illness serious enough); and, for the doctor, it means increased paper work and the fear of being criticized and "called to account" by jealous or bureaucratic colleagues. It is a form of Big Brotherism. Nevertheless, PSRO's are here to stay. In fact, eventually the review board philosophy will probably extend to dentistry too. At present, dentists answer to no one. But as complaints about high dental fees increase, a similar surveillance group is bound to be set up.

The Diet Watch

One Doctor's Ingenious Weight-Losing Tip

How about a "doggy bag" attitude at your own dinner table? It works like a charm in cutting down the calorie intake of one diet specialist's patients. Says this doctor, "We're so trained from childhood not to waste food, that we compulsively clean our plates." More than that: "We also stubbornly don't want to give up the food on our plate. We regard it as ours." To solve this double (fattening) hang-up, the diet specialist has his patients keep squares of aluminum foil beside their dinner plates. He instructs them that during the meal they are to stop and question themselves: "Do I really want the rest of this meat loaf—or have I had enough?" "Do I really want this whole piece of cake —or am I getting stuffed?" Whenever the answer is no, the rest of the portion goes onto one of the pieces of foil and is wrapped for a later snack. "The resistance against wasting food is avoided," says the doctor, "—yet we still feel that the food is 'ours.'" Some patients freeze the little foil packages and use them for weekend snacks.

GREGORY PECK:

"I Foresee a Tremendous Upsurge"

"We are a multiracial society. Those who have been kept down are moving toward having their share; and what many don't realize is that this is going to result in an enormous energy being released for the country as a whole. Our society is made up of people who have come from all parts of the world, and that is a plus. This gives us a basic vitality, and as we come to recognize this and as new energy is released by more and more people taking full part, America is going to have a new upsurge of enthusiasm and strength. That's why, despite all of the trouble America has been going through, I'm optimistic about the future of this country. We are still the hope of the world and we are going to live up to that promise." Mr. Peck is the producer of the film "The Dove."

Jobmanship

Job Outlook for the Next Ten Years

A new government report indicates what job opportunities will be like from now until 1985. Teachers: qualified candidates will exceed jobs. Least competition for teachers of mathematics, industrial arts, special education and some vocational-technical subjects. Truck Drivers, Lawyers, Machine-Tool Operators, Carpenters, Foremen: moderate opportunities. Carpenters will find greatest demand in maintenance work rather than new construction. Best prospects for lawyers interested in a new practice will lie in suburbs or small towns. Electricians, Engineers, Mechanics, Repairmen, Cosmetologists, Dental Assistants, Typists, Architects, Accountants, Dentists, Physicians, Systems Analysts, Social Workers (graduate degrees) will all be in favorable growing job fields. Secretaries and Shorthand Reporters: excellent prospects, but dictating machines will limit office stenographer positions. Computer Operators: rapid rise for console and auxiliary-equipment operators but declining need for keypunch personnel.

STAN LEE AND "SPIDEY"
16 thousand stories

How did Stan (The Man) Lee become the father of Spiderman and hulks of other superheroes for super-successful Marvel Comics? "I think it's because I never knew what I wanted to do," says fiftyish Lee, a slim, graying, distinguished-looking six-footer with a dancing smile. "When I was young I went to work on a theater project with Orson Welles. Then I quit to write publicity releases for a hospital, then I wrote obituaries for a news service, then I wanted to be a lawyer. There were so many things I wanted to do, and they all sounded like fun. The last thing in the world I wanted to do was be a writer. I'm too gregarious, I love to meet people, and a writer has to keep his head buried in a tablet. So what happened is—I became the world's fastest writer of comic books. I learned to write a whole comic book—five or six stories—in an hour. And I did that for 30 years. Marvel fans are always writing me to tell me when my old plots turn up on TV shows, which they still do, and fairly often." Let's see: 30 years, two comic books a week, five or six stories per comic book—it adds up to at least 16,000 stories. "Amazing!" as Spiderman might say. Now Stan Lee is in "big-time" publishing – as the author of "Origins of Marvel Comics" (Simon & Schuster, $5.95).

CHRISTINE ERSKINE
A headache, and then . . .

Four years ago, Christine Erskine, 21, went totally blind after an accident. Medical authorities said she was doomed to a lifetime of darkness. A few months ago, however, Chris suffered an excruciating headache that had a miraculous aftermath: Suddenly she could see again. Nobody can explain how it happened, but this is the way Chris describes her recovery: "I closed my eyes. There was a swimming sensation, but when I opened my eyes I could see perfectly." The first thing Chris saw was a clock —which marked the time she could see again after four years in the dark.

When your child can't sit still, is it nervousness or is it Pin-Worms?

Fidgeting, distraction, fitful scratching of rectal itch—many people don't know these "nervous habits" can be caused by Pin-Worms. These almost invisible parasites are so common, medical authorities have said 1 out of 3 children examined, and many parents, may have Pin-Worms.

They can infect anyone—young or old, rich or poor. Worst of all, Pin-Worms are highly contagious, so they can spread from person to person, until the whole family is infected.

Fortunately, there is an easy-to-take medication called Jayne's® P-W® tablets that gets rid of Pin-Worms. Your pharmacist will tell you that Jayne's P-W tablets are specially formulated with an effective medical ingredient that drives Pin-Worms out of your system. Ask for Jayne's P-W tablets at your drug store.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

THERE'S A CATCH TO IT

I cannot catch a ball that's thrown.
That kind of talent I don't own.
Be it a baseball, basket, foot,
My hands don't reach where it is put.
But I can catch a cold all right,
And keep it, too, can hold it tight.
You'd think a germ so very small
Would be much harder than a ball,
But no, without a glove or mitt
I'm very good at catching it.

If there were just a game I knew
Where catching germs of cold or flu
Would be applauded--this I know:
I'd be a star, I'd be a pro.

For their anniversary, my friend bought his wife an electric typewriter. Now he's looking for a chair to match.
—John C. Scroggins

I know a family who are so poor that when you throw their dog a bone, the poor little fellow has to signal for a "fair catch."

I noticed one of the neighbor's boys, about five years old, sitting on a big motorcycle and asked him some questions about the bike—its throttle, clutch and various other things. I was surprised how much he knew. For a final question I asked him what the rearview mirror was for. In the same knowledgeable voice, he replied, "That's so you can tell when the guy behind falls off."

BUT AT HALF TIME THE SCORE IS STILL 0-0—AND EVERYONE SENSES THAT A FLUKE, OR SOME CRAZY TWIST, CAN BREAK THE GAME WIDE OPEN...

LOOK, DEAR, HERE COMES YOUR BROTHER HIRSCHEL AND HIS ENTIRE FAMILY!

THE PLAYERS DRAG THEMSELVES TO THEIR DRESSING ROOMS—BUT ON THE SCIOTO STATE SIDE THE TENSION IS HEIGHTENED BY...

WHY DON'T THEY DROP THE OTHER SHOE?

DAME OR NO DAME?

NO SIGN OF THE MAUMEE GIRL KICKER WE HEARD ABOUT! MUST HAVE BEEN A PSYCH JOB...

BUT...

I'M NOT GOING TO HAVE SOME DAME GO IN THERE AND BREAK UP THE BALL GAME...

BUT HOW'S TO STOP HER?

WE HAVE A COED WATCHING EVERY LADIES' ROOM IN THE STADIUM! THERE'S NO PLACE FOR HER TO SUIT-UP!

BUT AT THIS MOMENT AN AMBULANCE DRIVES UP TO THE STADIUM GATE—AND IS ALLOWED TO PROCEED TO THE SIDELINES

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: KING HALP ATLA PROTESTS: "MY ARMY STANDS READY FOR BATTLE, BUT WILL THE CAPTAINS ACCEPT ARN'S LEADERSHIP?" VAL GRINS: "UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF MIGHTY KARAK, HIS FIERCE TRIBE HAS BEEN INVINCIBLE. TO BE DEFEATED BY A MERE YOUTH WILL DESTROY THEIR CONFIDENCE FOREVER."

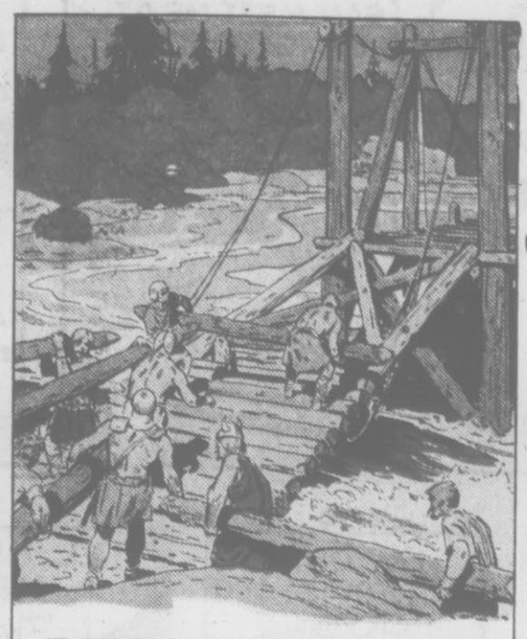
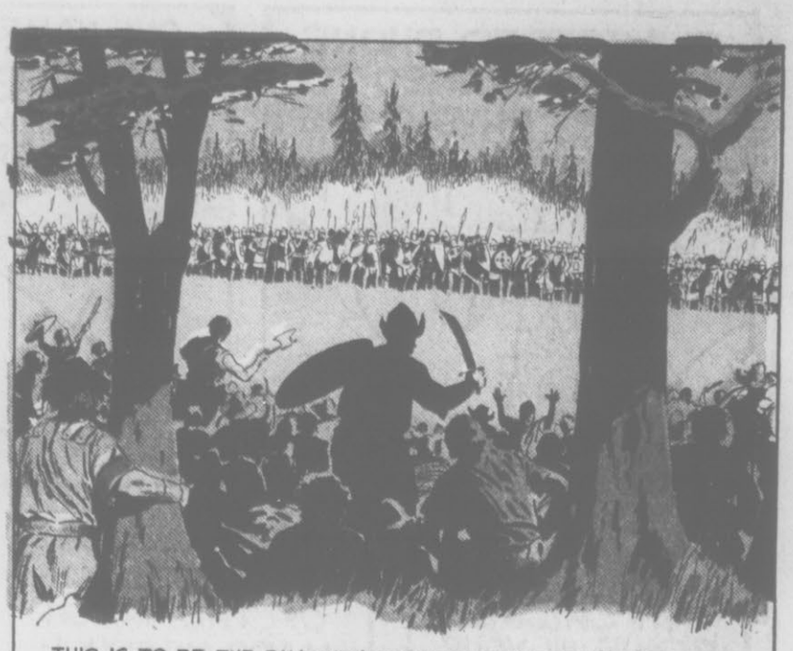
WHEN ARN ARRIVES AT THE BOUNDARY RIVER, THE STARVING SAVAGES HAVE COMPLETED THE BRIDGE THAT WILL TAKE THEM ACROSS TO THE INNER LANDS WHERE FOOD AND PLUNDER AWAIT THEM.



AT SUNSET, THEY LOWER THE FRAMEWORK OF THE DRAWBRIDGE. TOMORROW, THEY WILL PUT ON THE FLOORING. ARN KINDLY PUTS IT ON FOR THEM.



THIS IS TO BE THE DAY THEY CROSS THE BRIDGE (THAT PRINCE VALIANT HAD DESIGNED), AND AT LAST THE LONG WEEKS OF HUNGER WILL BE AT AN END. THE WAY IS OPEN TO FOOD AND PLUNDER, BUT THE RISING SUN REFLECTS FROM A MYRIAD OF HELMETS AND SPEARPOINTS, AND HOPE VANISHES.

THEY GO INTO BATTLE WITH THEIR USUAL FEROCITY, BUT STARVATION HAS TAKEN ITS TOLL. THEIR RETREAT BECOMES A ROUT, AND IN PANIC THEY SCREAM FOR A MERCY THEY HAVE NEVER SHOWN.

SOME ESCAPE INTO THE DARK FOREST, OTHERS TAKE SHELTER IN THEIR GREAT MEAD HALL. FIRE-ARROWS SOON SMOKE THEM OUT BEFORE THE WAITING ARCHERS.

THEN ARN CALLS A HALT, AND ORDERS THE SURVIVORS BROUGHT BEFORE HIM.

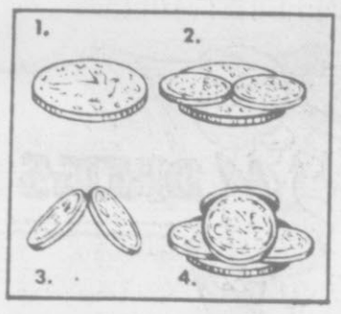
CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Differences: 1. Cap is missing. 2. Coffee pot is turned. 3. Tree is different. 4. Foot is moved. 5. Bear's leg is moved. 6. Sleeping bag is different.



PRODUCE a quarter and four pennies. Challenge bystanders to place all five coins on a flat surface with each of the coins touching all of the others—that is, each coin must be in physical contact with the other four.

Secret: Place the quarter on the table (fig. 1, above); place two of the pennies upon the quarter (fig. 2); arrange the other two coins in an inverted V (fig. 3), straddling the others (fig. 4).

A piece of cellophane tape will hold the top two coins in place, if needed.

If coins of other denominations are used, hold a test run to be sure they work.

BULLETIN BOARD

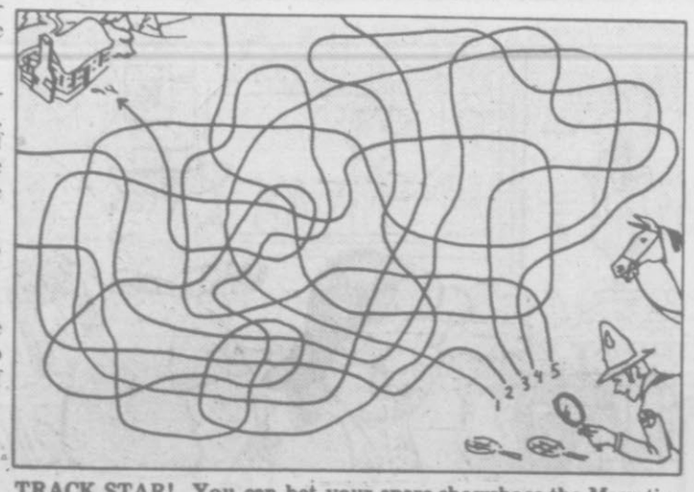
●RIDDLE-ME-THIS: Where does November follow December? In the dictionary, of course. Likewise, Wednesday follows Thursday; two follows three. Can you think of some more?

●Fast Actor? Extend your arm. Place a coin atop the back of your hand. Drop hand suddenly; try to catch coin. Next, try two coins, etc.

●It isn't a common expression, but "calling one's hogs to the hill" is surely well phrased. To what does it refer? Hint: It involves sleeping.

Snoring.

●Tongue Tanglers! Shapely Sue Shaw slowly sips strawberry shakes. Gritty Dan Dunn drives a dreamy green dune buggy. Repeat rapidly aloud.



TRACK STAR! You can bet your spare showshoes the Mountie above will get his man. Which way did he go? You decide.
