

Ford Economic Message Reveals Little Of Plans

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a deepening recession and rising unemployment, President Ford has directed his economic advisers to prepare new programs to combat the nation's economic problems.

to increase sharply at the wholesale level, but prices of industrial commodities — regarded by economists as a truer measure of inflation — rose at the slowest rate in 13 months. Industrial goods rose nine-tenths of a per cent last month.

Over-all wholesale prices have risen 23.5 per cent in the past 12 months, the biggest year-to-year increase since 1947.

Ford's speech offered few clues about his proposals to the next Congress, but it was clear he has abandoned or changed much of the economic program that he announced Oct. 8 after the economic summit.

Another change in the Ford program is the recognition that the present Congress will not approve his proposed 5 per cent income surtax proposal, a presidential spokesman said Wednesday.

Ford said in a speech Wednesday night he expects to have the programs ready for the new Congress when it convenes Jan. 14. His advisers will be working through the Christmas holidays to prepare it, he said.

Wholesale prices last month rose 1.2 per cent, less than half the October increase, the government reported. Although the November increase was high by normal standards, the Labor department said wholesale increases over the month were less widespread than in preceding months.

Trends in wholesale prices usually show up at the consumer level eventually, offering hope that the rise in retail prices may soon tail off.

Ford said he would support increased spending over what he has proposed previously to help the nation's jobless with extended unemployment benefits and public service jobs.

But the President said his administration is not going to abandon the fight against inflation, which he said is important to solving problems of recession and unemployment.

Treasury Department sources said the options the President will consider include tax cuts, mandatory fuel allocations, financial aid to troubled industries and additional help for the nation's unemployed.

Ford planned to discuss auto industry problems today with automobile executives and leaders of the United Auto Workers.

The Senate is planning to vote soon on a $4 billion emergency public service jobs bill to create about 530,000 jobs in the next year. The House is scheduled to take up an emergency unemployment compensation bill to extend benefits an additional 13 weeks for jobless workers.

Only 31 Pints

BETHEL—Wednesday's Bloodmobile visit to North Pitt High School netted only 31 pints of blood, according to Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt Chapter of the American Red Cross.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A multibillion-dollar tax bill, ending the petroleum depletion allowance and hiking oil industry taxes while cutting taxes for millions of average Americans, was killed today by the House Rules Committee.

He said anti-inflation pressure is building and predicted "inflation will move steadily down from the intolerable double-digit level."

Ford said the nation is not in an economic crisis in the sense that it "demands immediate and drastic action."

Mrs. Taylor thanked those who donated and also the school nursing class, under Mrs. Lucille Mayo, for sponsorship of the visit. She said that nursing students provided the volunteer help. In addition to the 31 donors, there were four persons rejected, according to Mrs. Taylor.

Attendance at the meeting was restricted to the 15 foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and a few aides. Kissinger's comments, which were said to have taken up most of the morning, were reported by a source who sat in.

He said French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues told Kissinger there was little difference between what was said on a summit in the final statements that followed the meetings between Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev with President Ford in Vladivostok and with Giscard d'Estaing in France.

Arab Oil Leaders Confer

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The oil-exporting countries are not expected to raise prices at their two-day meeting that opened in Vienna today. But Iran's oil minister says there will have to be an increase eventually to keep pace with inflation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today told his counterparts from NATO countries that the world economic situation seems to point to continuing inflation combined with economic stagnation.

He said French Foreign Minister Jean Sauvagnargues told Kissinger there was little difference between what was said on a summit in the final statements that followed the meetings between Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev with President Ford in Vladivostok and with Giscard d'Estaing in France.

Washington has been seeking a united front by the consuming nations, a stand to which most West European governments generally have agreed. The major dissenter has been France, whose president, Valery Giscard d'Estaing, wants a conference

He called for "an all-inclusive sunshine law in Washington" to open to public scrutiny most governmental meetings, urged full financial disclosure by all federal officials and called for "a drastic and thorough revision of the federal bureaucracy."

In an interview before his two appearances, Carter, who in his speech, Carter said "political leaders have been isolated from the people and "have made decisions from an ivory tower."

Residents at another camp, Bourj el Barajneh, said they were not hit but that guerrillas fired anti-aircraft rockets at the attacking jets.

The source said Kissinger warned that a confrontation with the oil-producing countries would have disastrous consequences for Western Europe and Japan.

He planned to announce his candidacy formally later today at a rally in Atlanta.

He urged these specific steps: —Open all meetings of regulatory agencies, executive departments and congressional committees to the public "except in a few rare cases."

—Prohibit all gifts to public officials.

The leading "price dove," Saudi Arabia's Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said "a certain reduction of prices is not excluded." But other sources doubted the meeting would vote any cuts.

Yamani said energy conservation by the oil-consuming nations to reduce their imports would not bring the price down.

Dr. Ernie Carl of the state Office of planning told the Coastal Resources Commission Wednesday that construction of the port facility off North Carolina with associated facilities ashore would require a 25-year investment of $4.014 billion.

—Disclosure of all business involvements of major government officials.

—Personnel of regulatory agencies should be barred for four years from joining the industry they regulate.

The conference was also expected to discuss Amouzegar's proposal that OPEC open discussions with the International Energy Agency of 16 oil-consuming nations, which was formed at the urging of the United States to bargain with the oil producers.

Carl said the estimates are included in a $300,000 deep-water terminal study prepared by the Coastal Plains Regional Commission. He said the study is to be released Friday at a meeting of the Coastal Plains Regional Commission in Pinehurst. He said Gov. Jim Holshouser is expected to announce at that time North Carolina's position on the study and the state's proposals for dealing with the potential development of a petroleum industry on the coast.

Allen said the report is of the type usually used to "to decide whether we should get involved."

—Tighter controls on lobbyists.

—Appearance by Cabinet members before the full House and Senate to answer questions about their departments.

Tuition Cut

CHARLOTTE (AP)—President Alfred O. Cannon told Queens College students today that tuition fees will be reduced 5 per cent for the school year beginning next August.

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—A federal official says the U.S. Justice Department is considering an investigation into alleged sexual abuse of women prisoners in eastern North Carolina jails.

Frank Allen, deputy director of the criminal section of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, said Wednesday in a telephone interview that an F.B.I. report on allegations of sexual misconduct by jailers and trustees at the Craven County Jail at New Bern has been turned over to the division.

Allen said the report is of the type usually used to "to decide whether we should get involved."

Israeli Raid PLO Camps At Beirut

By The Associated Press
Israeli jets bombed a suspected Palestinian commando training site on the southern edge of Beirut today less than 24 hours after a terrorist set off grenades in a Tel Aviv movie theater, killing himself, an Israeli woman and a British engineer and wounding 58 others.

Beirut airport was closed to all incoming and outgoing flights. Casualties in the air raids were not known, and there was no immediate comment from the Israeli command.

But an informed Israeli source in Tel Aviv said: "The target area in the Beirut raid is a PLO training installation. We have every reason to believe that it was where the planning for the cinema raid was carried out. It is a center for special operations of a very delicate and sensitive nature."

At least four Israeli jets flew over the Lebanese capital dropping bombs on several camps shortly after 3 p.m. — 9 a.m. EST. Smoke rose over the camps as air raid sirens wailed throughout Beirut.

The jets dipped low over the city as they made at least two bombing passes. Witnesses said the major camps of Sabra and Shatilla and the smaller Tal Zaatar camp near the Beirut airport took hits.

Residents at another camp, Bourj el Barajneh, said they were not hit but that guerrillas fired anti-aircraft rockets at the attacking jets.

The proguerrilla newspaper Al Moharrer quoted Yasir Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, as claiming responsibility for the Tel Aviv movie attack Wednesday night.

"This is a retaliation in kind for the Beirut operation," he was quoted as saying, referring to rocket attacks Tuesday on three PLO offices in Beirut that caused heavy damage and slightly injured five persons.

Yamani said energy conservation by the oil-consuming nations to reduce their imports would not bring the price down.

"There is no alternative to holding a meaningful dialogue with us," he declared.

The oil ministers are considering a new, simplified pricing system to replace the present involved system based on the artificial "posted" price set by the OPEC. Members of the organization claim that the foreign oil companies have used the complicated setup to make excessive profits and have shifted the blame unfairly to the oil nations.

The conference was also expected to discuss Amouzegar's proposal that OPEC open discussions with the International Energy Agency of 16 oil-consuming nations, which was formed at the urging of the United States to bargain with the oil producers.

Most state offices will be closed the week of Dec. 23-27 as an energy-saving measure.

But Gov. Jim Holshouser said Wednesday the ESC offices would stay open two days that week. He added, "We expect about 14,000 jobless workers to file claims on each of these days...If our employment offices were closed on those two days, it would only delay the payments which are so necessary during the Christmas season."

Chief of Police Glenn Cannon said you are right—that the crossing guards are paid more per hour each year they work. He said some crossings require a longer time of guarding than others, though, which perhaps accounts for the discrepancy. He said if you will visit him at his office, he will be glad to go over the pay regulations and your mother's pay records with you.

Can anything be done about the high amount of chlorine in the water on the ECU campus? The showers in my dorm smell like bleach. B. B.

Greenville Utilities Director said the water supplied to campus may be a little high in chlorine because it is on the "middle of the line." "We have to use a certain level of chlorine to control bacteria," he said, "and we must keep it so there will be a trace at the end of the water lines; therefore those on the first and middle may smell it once in a while. I get a whiff from my faucets at home sometimes. However, it should be reassuring," he said. He added that chlorine may be more readily smelled in hot water, which may be why you notice it more in the showers.

NEED HOUSE
The family of Linwood Earl Hardy needs a place to live. Their home on the Ernest Hooks farm near Winterville was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday.

Mr. Hardy works at Greenville Parts and Metals on N. Greene Street and needs to live where a friend can still pick him up for work. Anyone having a fairly modest house to rent the Hardys and their nine children should contact Frank Kidd at 752-3819.

DISCREPANCY ALLEGED
A Hotline item recently said school crossing guards are paid about $120 a month. My mother has been working as a guard for several years and she doesn't make that much. They are supposed to increase the pay according to the years of service, but there are some guards who just started working who make more than she does. Why? C. H.

Arab Confrontation Seen 'Disaster' By Kissinger

Georgia's Gov. Carter Formally Announces He Will Seek Presidency

Considering Jail Probe On Abuse Of Women

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—A federal official says the U.S. Justice Department is considering an investigation into alleged sexual abuse of women prisoners in eastern North Carolina jails.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A multibillion-dollar tax bill, ending the petroleum depletion allowance and hiking oil industry taxes while cutting taxes for millions of average Americans, was killed today by the House Rules Committee.

Kissinger's comments today also led to a conflict with the French over the possibility of a 35-nation summit meeting on world problems to include the Soviet Union, according to the source.

Frank Allen, deputy director of the criminal section of the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division, said Wednesday in a telephone interview that an F.B.I. report on allegations of sexual misconduct by jailers and trustees at the Craven County Jail at New Bern has been turned over to the division.

Allen said the report is of the type usually used to "to decide whether we should get involved."

A black New Bern attorney, Reginald Frazier, had requested the Justice Department to make a probe of alleged abuse of women inmates in eastern North Carolina jails.

Tips Offered On How Parents Can Make Toys For Babies

By ELISABETH NEWNAM
UNC-G News Bureau
GREENSBORO—A clear, plastic bottle partially filled with popping corn and oil, a plastic egg that once held pantyhose covered in bright paper rattling on a stick, strips of textured material suspended from a string—these are just a few of the toys for babies that parents can make.

The tips in toymaking were offered to parents recently at a pre-Christmas symposium sponsored by graduate students in child development and family relations at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. The toymaking workshop was one of three subject areas covered in a session entitled, "Learning to Look at Infants," which was held in the UNC-G School of Home Economics.

"Toys for infants should be simple and safe," said Mrs. Beth Kelly Monroe, a doctoral degree student who directed the workshop called "Babies Play to Learn."

"Infants' play is infants' work," she said. "Babies are getting all the information they can from their environment. I don't think parents realize how much babies learn in their cribs. Research is constantly indicating babies are much more complex and sophisticated than we thought."

Since babies have no language and only limited mobility, those things that are provided for them—within the environment of their crib—are all they observe.

"Infants have their eyes, ears, and hands," said Mrs. Monroe. "They're extremely sensitive to all the things in their environment that stimulate these senses."

Infants need simple things they can hold, look at and feel, she said. And although stimulation is extremely important, it can be overdone.

"Often toys are so stimulating infants don't know what to focus on," explained Mrs. Monroe. "And if a mobile or toy is left in view all the time, the infant quickly tires of it. The best solution is to change toys and mobiles every few days. Then when it's returned, it will be a new toy to the child."

"Babies are individuals," stressed Mrs. Monroe. Research, she said, has shown that babies exhibit preferences in sound, textures, and visual patterns at six weeks of age.

Geometric shapes on a mobile give infants the opportunity to exercise their preferences, as will various designs painted on the mobile pieces. Mobiles made of toothbrushes, cups, and other items familiar to the household are easy, inexpensive and effective, said Mrs. Monroe.

In the workshop, it was stressed that parents should be aware of age-appropriate toys. Many toy manufacturers put very broad age guidelines, such as 0-3, on their toys, giving parents little guidance, it was noted.

"Often parents try to force things on babies that they are just not ready for," said Mrs. Monroe. "To give an infant a football or a doll is ridiculous. An infant just doesn't know what to do with it."

"Although babies are learning much more than we think, from an adult standpoint that learning is so simple as to be almost unobservable," she said.

The workshop included a demonstration of toys the graduate students had made, and then was followed by a toymaking session.

Two of the more popular toy recipes at the session were the popcorn bottle and the plastic rattle. This is how they can be made:

To make the popcorn bottle take a clear plastic bottle of a size an infant can grasp and put in it one quarter of a cup salad oil and the same amount of popping corn, preferably colored. The top of the bottle should be glued on with sturdy glue.

The rattle made with a plastic egg is also simple and inexpensive. Place beans, corn, paper clips, or several of such items inside the plastic egg and secure the seam with tape. Make a hole with a heated nail at one end of the egg and glue in a short dowel or stick. The egg can be covered with brightly colored contact paper.

"Babies aren't label conscious," said Mrs. Monroe. "Homemade toys are just as good for infants as expensive store bought ones. Actually, everything is a toy to a child." Parents should be sure not to give infants homemade or store bought toys that might be dangerous, said Mrs. Monroe. "They should be sure there are no small parts that might come off and be swallowed, and that no plastic bagging is given to children."

Holiday Schedule

The Woman's Department of "The Daily Reflector" will observe the following deadline for wedding write-ups and engagements to be published in the newspaper during the Christmas holidays.

All weddings, pictures and engagements to be published through Dec. 31 should be received by the Woman's Department no later than noon Wednesday, Dec. 18.

Mrs. Kinnamon Gives Program

Mrs. Joseph Kinnamon was speaker at the meeting of the Arts Department of the Greenville Woman's Club Tuesday.

She gave a book review on "Diddakoi."

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. E. Roseveare. Mrs. George Clapp, chairman, conducted the meeting. Members voted to change the monthly meeting of the department to the second Friday of each month.

Mrs. Roseveare and Mrs. J. A. Watson were hostesses for the meeting.

Holiday Party Held On Friday By Woman's Club

The annual Christmas party of the Greenville Woman's Club was held Friday at the club building. Eli Bloom was guest speaker for the evening.

Dr. Sylvester Green gave the devotional and Mrs. Ernest Holt, president, brought greetings and presided. She gave a brief report of her term in office and cited some of the special projects: the International Affairs Department has been reactivated, sponsored a Christmas show, received an award for participation in the Cancer Drive, and established a fun day at the club. Mrs. Holt was remembered with a past president's pin from the club for her service.

Mrs. A. G. Hutton, corresponding secretary for the state federation, installed the following new officers: Mrs. J. L. Savage, president; Mrs. George Clapp, first vice president; Mrs. W. E. Roseveare, second vice president; Mrs. James H. Smith, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. E. Ricks, recording secretary; Mrs. C. M. Respass, treasurer; Mrs. Green, historian; Mrs. R. P. Rogers, reported; and Mrs. Preston Cannon, chaplain.

Mrs. H. R. Phillips was presented the Susie Ragsdale Achievement Award for outstanding club woman of the year. Mrs. Clapp, last year's recipient, made the presentation. She was cited for her dedicated service to the club for more than 20 years. She has served in several offices and on many committees. Mrs. Clapp is present chairman of the board of trustees and is an active, member of the First Christian Church and church circle. She has a daughter and two grandchildren.

A selection of Christmas songs was presented by the Woman's Chorus and the group sang carols.

Mrs. Savage invited guests, including husbands of members, to the refreshment table during the social hour.

Hostesses were Mrs. Frank Polard, Mrs. J. C. Galloway, Mrs. W. E. Avery, Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, Mrs. I. L. Alexander and Mrs. George Fleming.

She Was Wrong To Sever Relationship

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old girl away at college. I have an older brother in graduate school.

My mother, who was 52, died very suddenly and even though we didn't get along very well, I was very upset by her death.

She and my father, who is 53, didn't exactly have the ideal marriage and I'm sure they stayed together because of my brother and me.

Last night my father phoned to tell me that he was dating a 38-year-old woman who was working for him, and it could be "serious." Abby, my mother has been dead only six months! Don't you think out of respect for her memory he could have waited for at least a year before dating?

I talked to my brother about it and he didn't see anything wrong with it.

I told my father that as long as he was seeing this woman I wanted nothing more to do with him. He seemed to think I was unreasonable.

What do you think is the proper amount of time to start dating after a spouse's death? Was I wrong to sever my relationship with my father?
CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: The amount of time one waits before "dating" has nothing to do with respect. The time to show respect is while the mate is living. And yes, I think you were wrong to sever your relationship with your father.

DEAR ABBY: This is for that woman who is marrying the same man for the fourth time and says, "We can't live with each other and we can't live without each other." Listen, you kids, make up your minds that neither one of you is going to change the other. If you insist on being married again and again, it's time you realized that your love is really greater than your differences.

A sudden coronary could take your mate from you in a few seconds, and then you'd cry your eyes out wishing you had a chance to say all those sweet and lovely things you should have said when you were together.

That's what happened to me. Get wise to yourselves, and live!
UNCLE GEORGE IN SANBORN, LA.

DEAR UNCLE GEORGE: That should shake up a few young lovers. And some old ones, too. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, I glanced at my husband while he was brushing his teeth, and I noticed that he was using MY toothbrush!

I asked him where his own toothbrush was, and he said he couldn't find it.

Then I asked him to please never use my toothbrush again. That's when he got angry and said it bugged him that I should object to sharing the same toothbrush.

Well, Abby, maybe other couples don't mind sharing one toothbrush, but the very thought of it repels me. My husband says I am ridiculous to feel this way, so I am writing to ask how you feel about it.
B. IN OKINAWA

DEAR B: I'm all for sharing, but I'd draw the line when it comes to toothbrushes.

Legion Auxiliary Holds Dinner

The American Legion Auxiliary entertained Gold Star parents and members of Pitt County Post No. 39 at a Christmas dinner and program Thursday at the American Legion Building.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Willard Jackson. Miss Annie Turner and Mrs. Mae Fleming presided at the register table.

Mrs. Doris Oakley presented corsages to the Gold Star mothers, state officers and unit officers. Mrs. Sarah J. Ashton, president, welcomed guests and members and introduced the special guests including:

Miss Macie Mallard, state department president, Mrs. Gwyn Conklin, state secretary, Mrs. Lois Dail of Greenville, state chairman for the emergency fund, Post Cmdr. and Mrs. Phil Goodson, Adj. and Mrs. Ernest Avery.

David J. Whichard of Greenville, who attended the first national convention in Indiana in 1919, Gold Star mothers and father, Mrs. Roy Cox, Mrs. S. Rollins, Mrs. Paul Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. Whillhan, Mrs. Etta Gill and Mrs. Josephine Rawl.

Miss Tammy Levey and Miss Paige Levey, students of Marie's School of Dance, entertained with several dance numbers. Mrs. Faye Adams led the group in singing Christmas carols accompanied by Miss Patti Burke of ECU.

Miss Margaret Register reported that the auxiliary would aid five needy families at Christmas.

Members of the Singles Club serving were Mrs. Alma Phipps, Hank Battensby and Mrs. Rosa Wooten. Others on the committee were Mrs. Martha Forest, Mrs. Elizabeth Eagles, Mrs. Betty Lesey, Mrs. Gill, Mrs. Audrey Andrews and Mrs. Frances Strawn.

Club Luncheon Held Friday

The members of the Merry Tillers Garden Club of Welcome Wagon held their annual covered-dish Christmas luncheon Friday at the home of Mrs. David Pressel.

Mrs. William Carter Smith judged live Christmas arrangements created by members of the club. Winners were Mrs. John McConney, first, Mrs. Mel Markowski, second, and Mrs. L. G. Catlett, third.

Mrs. Tom Martin, club president, conducted the business session and next meeting was scheduled for Friday, Jan. 3.

Mrs. Snyder Speaks On Christmas

Mrs. George Snyder was speaker at the Tuesday night meeting of the Patient Circle of The Kings Daughters held at the home of Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley.

Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, president, presided and introduced the speaker. In giving a history of Christmas, Mrs. Snyder told of various legends including the Glastonbury Thorn Tree.

Plans for Christmas were discussed and in addition to remember former members of the organization who are unable to attend, the Social Services Committee will contribute to a needy family. Patients at the nursing home will also be remembered.

Following the program, the group sang Christmas carols accompanied by Mrs. Snyder. Mrs. Hadley played several selections which she had played at her church.

Mrs. Hadley, assisted by Bruce Warren and Mrs. Polly Dail, served refreshments.

Because I have a prominent space between my two front teeth, a reader sent me a page from a shopping catalog recently showing a model with a space between her teeth and said, "See, you're coming back in style."

I'll tell you the truth, I hate to get my hopes built up.

As I leafed through all the catalogs on my desk I don't think they've lowered their standards on models one small bit. The women still have hipbones that show through a fur coat and deep sunken eyes that beg, "Feed Me."

And just because one catalog had the courage to show a set of imperfect teeth doesn't mean they're all going to follow suit. Face it. The capped teeth syndrome has been with us for several years now. Few performers are walking around with even so much as a bite overlap. I remember one night watching a western on television. Cochise, the savage, sat around the campfire, his skin colored by berries and a primitive piece of leather for shorts. As he gnawed on a piece of buffalo meat he smiled and got a standing ovation from three million dentists. I have never seen such a cap job.

What was even more absurd was the appearance of a scraggly old prospector whom I never figured for the side that used fluoride. His face was burnt, his beard white and he kept spewing tobacco juice on Cochise's fire. But when he opened his mouth he looked like a sparkling grand piano.

For years, I've been trying to find myself between the pages of catalogs and now I know why I haven't found me. A fashion coordinator for one of the leading ones said, "First, I look at the body. The girl must be no shorter than 5'6"; no taller than 5'9". Dream measurements to me are 32-22 and 34-1/2 (in that order). Slim, straight legs, nice hair, flawless skin, nice teeth, shiny eyes, and a small nose.

"No drinking and no smoking because it shows. However, we encourage chewing gum as it hollows out the cheeks. We also want youth. You could be a has-been model at the age of 22."

You know something? I think the spaced-out tooth model was purely a case of tokenism just to appease Terry-Thomas, Robert Morse, Pete Rose, Ray Milland and Erma Bombeck.

Next week, it'll be fat knees, chipped tooth, a cold sore and flabby upper arms' turn.

Cooking Is Fun

Around holiday time — Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year — I'm always grateful for tart pastry that doesn't need to be rolled out and cut — a time-consuming process. You may feel the same way, so herewith:

No-roll tart pastry is of two kinds. One is unsweetened and may be used for savory or sweet fillings. The other has a little sugar in it and thus is suitable for sweet fillings.

With holiday desserts in mind, here is a recipe for No-roll Currant Tarts using a sweet dough. I chose the filling for these tarts not only because it is delicious, but because at this time of year dried currants — so good in fruit cake — may be at hand.

NO-ROLL CURRANT TARTS
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup sugar
3 eggs
2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup firmly packed light or dark brown sugar
1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 1/2 cups currants

In a medium mixing bowl cream 1/2 cup butter and the sugar; add 1 of the eggs and beat well. Add flour and stir until blended. Divide dough into thirds. Shape one portion into twelve 3/4-inch balls; press evenly over bottom and sides (up to top) of 12 ungreased muffin-pan cups (each 1 1/4 inches across top); chill about 15 minutes. Treat remaining portions of dough the same way.

In a small mixing bowl, with a wooden spoon, beat together the remaining 2 eggs, brown sugar, corn syrup, the 1 tablespoon melted butter and the cinnamon; stir in currants. Spoon about 2 teaspoons of mixture into each tart shell.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until pastry is golden-brown and filling is puffed — 20 minutes. Cool in pans on wire racks. Lift out of pans. Serve at once or store in a tightly covered container. If desired, serve with a topping of whipped cream.
Makes 36 tarts.

The sauce adds zest.

Two 1-pound cans butter beans (dry limas), drained
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon dark brown sugar

1 tablespoon cider vinegar
10 1/2-ounce can condensed tomato soup, undiluted

Drain beans; let bean liquid settle and then measure 1/4 cup of the clear liquid and reserve. In a medium skillet melt the butter; add onion and green pepper and cook until wilted. Stir in mustard, sugar and vinegar, then tomato soup and reserved 1/4 cup bean liquid; heat. Turn beans into a 1-quart casserole; pour the tomato sauce over them. Bake, uncovered, in a preheated 375-degree oven for 45 minutes. Serve in wide shallow soup bowls — there's lots of sauce. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

That Vacancy Had To Be Filled

With an overwhelming vote in the Senate, Nelson Rockefeller seems headed toward confirmation for vice president of the United States. The Senate voted 90-7 Tuesday to confirm Rockefeller's nomination.

House of Representatives action will come next week, and it is anticipated that confirmation will come there, too.

Due to the problems of Watergate, this has been an extraordinary time for our country politically. With the resignation of Agnew Gerald Ford was nominated for vice president and assumed the office upon confirmation. He became president when Nixon resigned and subsequently Ford nominated Rockefeller. After some grueling testimony before a Senate committee, mostly involving his wealth, it appears now that Rockefeller will soon be the nation's vice president.

Certainly the Senate committees were doing their job in closely questioning Rockefeller and his finances. Congress, after all, is substituting its judgment for that of the electorate of the nation, due to the unusual series of events of 1974.

At the same time the office of vice president should be filled because the Constitution calls for it when a vacancy occurs. It would have been tragic, indeed, if there had been a deadlock between Congress and the president so that Ford would have been unable to get a nominee confirmed.

There were some objections to Rockefeller's nomination, based to a large degree on the huge financial holdings which his family controls. We admit this bothers us to some degree, too, but Rockefeller came through the Senate hearings to win an overwhelming vote in the Senate. This is the greatest test the nomination could be given.

It appears that within a week the nation will have a president and a vice president neither of whom were elected by the people. Both men seem able, however, and we have no doubt that both are keenly aware of their unique place in history. Because of it they will both be carrying an extra burden to give their best efforts to the jobs. In the long run the nation may be better off for it.

Ford Popularity Stabilizes

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—President Ford's job rating has leveled off at 48 per cent, after having slipped from 55 per cent in late October to 47 per cent in a survey taken shortly after the Nov. 5 congressional elections.

In the latest survey, 48 per cent approve of the way he is handling his job as chief executive, compared to 32 per cent who disapprove and 20 per cent who do not express an opinion.

The President's meeting at Vladivostok with Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev was conducted between the two surveys. The fact there has been little change in Ford's job rating since the meeting may be due to continuing widespread concern over problems here at home, chiefly economic problems. A recent survey showed only about a third of the public expressing approval of the President's handling of the economic situation.

Although Ford's job rating continues to be lower than that of his predecessors at a comparable point in time, some survey respondents note the fact that Ford inherited a failing economy, marked by both increasing prices and growing unemployment.

Following is the question that has been asked over the last 35 years to measure presidential popularity:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way (name of incumbent) is handling his job as President?"

Ford's rating slipped from 71 per cent approval in his initial mid-August measurement to 66 per cent in early September, and then to 50 per cent in late September, reflecting the full impact of the Nixon pardon, which the public disapproved of by a 2-to-1 margin. Ford regained ground in October and his rating increased to 52 and then to 55 per cent approval in late October. Since then, however, his popularity has declined again to a 47 per cent rating in a poll taken shortly after the congressional elections and 48 per cent in the latest survey.

Here is the trend:

Date	Ford Popularity		No Opinion
	Approve	Disapprove
Nov. 13-18	48%	32%	20%
Nov. 8-11	47	33	20
Oct. 18-21	55	28	17
Oct. 11-14	52	29	19
Sept. 27-30	50	28	22
Sept. 6-9	66	13	21
Aug. 16-19	71	3	26

Strauss's Finest Hour

KANSAS CITY—Kansas City always has been famed as a great railroad town, but nothing in the annals of the Atchison, Topeka & the Santa Fe ever surpassed last week's record run by the Robert Strauss Express. The Democrats' convention vanished down the track Sunday night, but locals still are hanging around the Muehlebach, marveling at the power of the beautiful machine.

It was something to watch. The Democrats had come to Kansas City like good Democrats, which is to say, like the warring clans of Scotland. In a spirit of brotherly love, they were prepared to knock each other silly. They left town three days later without shedding a drop of blood. It was Strauss's finest hour.

The party chairman is a short sturdy fellow, with thinning grey hair that is waving toward a ducktail in the back. When he stands up to speak, as he did at the opening session, he blats and bellows like the rest of them. Oratory is not his forte. His genius is for the inscrutable compromise—for the mystic concessions by which quarreling factions may be united in perfect misunderstanding.

His most critical test involved Article Ten of the Democrats' new charter. This was the section headed "Full Participation." Its purpose is to assure that women and minorities are fully represented in party affairs. If the blacks and super-liberals were not to walk out, the final language had to authorize quotas without actually permitting them. Put another way, quotas had to be banned but not prohibited.

This was a delicate matter. Terms of lawyers and other magicians had labored for months over the linguistic shading of each semantic nuance. As the convention opened, the delegates were offered their choice of an Article Ten in five different colors. There were Alternatives A, B, C and D; there was also the "yellow sheet." Every line, every word, every comma had been honed. This was to be an open convention, openly arrived at. The delegates adopted resolutions resoundingly denouncing secrecy, closed doors, and bossism.

Word came to Strauss that, alas, none of the five options would suffice. "Willie will walk." That was the horrid

Double Bomber Buying

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer WASHINGTON (AP)

Wealthy oil-producing Arab countries have doubled the number of French Mirage fighter-bombers they are buying for Egypt's air force, U.S. intelligence sources report.

They say Kuwait and Abu Dhabi are paying for a new order of 36 Mirages for Egypt. France has started delivery on a previous Saudi Arabian purchase of 36 of the fighter-bombers for the Egyptian air force.

Analysts believe the three rich Arab countries are providing the 72 Mirages in part to encourage Egypt from turning again to Russia for arms.

Russia stopped sending new military equipment last April after the two countries quarreled over Egypt's renewed and closer relations with the United States.

But Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev is due to visit Cairo next month and some U.S. analysts suggest this could lead to improved Soviet-Egyptian relations and a fresh flow of arms to Egypt.

U.S. intelligence sources say the Egyptians have not yet made up for all the 120 planes they lost in last year's war with the Israelis.

At the same time, the Russians have built the Syrian air force to its biggest size ever, sources say. The 450 Syrian military aircraft reportedly include 45 MIG 23s, Russia's most advanced fighter.

According to recent intelligence reports, the Russians also have strengthened Syria's missile firepower with significant shipments this fall.

Meanwhile, the Pentagon declined to comment on a report that a formal offer has been made to sell Israel 48 F15s, the U.S. Air Force's newest fighter now entering service.

The United States has been maintaining a steady flow of military equipment to Israel and experts say that country now is stronger than before the 1973 war.

40 Years Ago Today

December 12, 1934

Police continued their efforts today to obtain information as to the whereabouts of a fortune teller and two members of her party who disappeared early yesterday. The trio are said to have duped local residents out of close to $25,000 in diamonds and other jewelry.

Chief of Police George Clark said he has notified police of other sections of the country to lookout for the party who are said to be traveling in an expensive automobile.

The largest haul was apparently a $4,000 diamond ring a woman left to have "prayed over" by the fortune teller Monday night. The fortune teller also left with another diamond ring, a brooch and silverware.

The fortune teller was said to be of a foreign nationality and her two companions, who claimed to be husband and wife, were Americans.

Auto-Excise Tax Cooling

By BILL NOBLITT

Raleigh—After some 16 months of on-again, off-again debate by lawmakers, the idea of a state excise tax on autos to replace the local county or city property tax appears to be dead.

Originated in a finance subcommittee chaired by State Rep. James E. Long, D-Alamance, the proposal drew fire from auto dealers and was not passed by the 1974 session.

Continuing its homework, the committee worked during the past summer to prepare a new proposal along similar lines for the upcoming 1975 session — eliminating the knotty problem of making the auto dealers collect some of the taxes during a car sale deal.

County tax collectors across the state have largely favored some such measure. The problem is simple: many auto owners (an estimated 15 per cent statewide) either do not list their cars for local property tax purposes, or they put down the wrong year, gaining a few dollars off the bill.

Big Money

Totaled up, however, it is no simple matter: best estimates range from $7 million to $10 million lost each year to local governments by the cheating tax-listers.

Of course, county tax offices have a recourse: they can buy a list of car owners from the state's Division of Motor Vehicles and cross-check each auto against the tax list.

Several counties regularly do this, but the problem compounds. The process is painstaking and slow, taking the average urban county some two to three months to check the list. Wake County recently performed the exercise and gained some $200,000 in taxes.

But, some counties don't check the lists, and the cheaters get smarter each year. It is relatively easy to just put down on the license renewal card and the name of another county, and the names goes on that list rather than the county of residence.

So looking for a way to close the various doors to cheaters, the committee first considered requiring the motorist to get a receipt for taxes paid to show to the license tag clerk before getting a new tag. That, it was fairly concluded, would require some waiting in line at the county tax office, and would create a great deal of taxpayer confusion and unrest.

Then along came the excise tax idea. Still, many legislators feel that the majority of honest taxpayers should not be penalized for the actions of the few—having to pay out at the same time as the new tag is bought a hefty sum for other taxes, with the state rebating the money back to local government.

Collection Costs

Finally, at a recent committee session, Jake Alexander, new director of the Motor Vehicles operation, presented a budget estimate on installing the excise tax system.

It would, he estimated, cost some $2.5 million each year and require a staff of about 122 people to do the job.

That, the legislators figured, was just too much. Rep. Graham Bell had an idea. Would it, he wondered, be possible for the county tax office to cross-check the list and send the names of any car owners who had not listed the car as local property to the State Division of Motor Vehicles.

Thence, the Division of Motor Vehicles would send back to the county the license plate renewal card for that car, and a letter to the owner saying, in effect, get your license plate renewal card, by going to your county tax office to get things squared away.

"Done," said Alexander, who was ready to take on any new job to avoid collecting the excise tax.

Well, one other thing. The state has been charging the counties for the registration list (a total of $28,000), and would it be possible to simply give the list to the counties rather than charging? Agreed, said Alexander.

He would, he confessed, do almost anything to get rid of the excise tax monster.

A new law will be required, but it looks like smooth sailing—and the committee agreed to make the change a local option one, to be adopted by the county if it wants.

After all, committee members concluded, collecting local property taxes is a local governmental responsibility, and if they don't want to collect it, that's their problem—not the General Assembly's.

Give blood, brothers.

It's so easy to give... yet so precious. Help someone else with the gift of life.

Quote

"Morality knows nothing of geographical boundaries or distinctions of race."—Herbert Spencer.

Strength For Today

HAZARDS OF MIDDLE AGE

The great Italian poet Dante once made the statement, "Midway upon the journey of my life, I found myself in a dark wood where the right way was lost."

It was the poet's acknowledgement that middle age is a season of moral hazard as well as youth. Many people fail to realize this. Yet as a matter of fact there comes upon most people in middle life, both men and women, new situations which create new temptations, circumstances so different from any they have encountered before that their characters are tried in a new way. The greatest tragedies are not the tragedies of youth, but the tragedies of those who having run more than half the race, fall by the wayside. It can be said of many people that midway upon the journey of their lives they find themselves in a dark wood where the right way is lost.

There is no such thing as moral security in this world until the coffin lid is closed down and fastened. Until that time the counsel of wisdom is vigilance.

Can Today's Executives Cope?

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP)

Seldom has the executive suite been subjected to such pressure as it is now enduring, and whether it can solve all its problems is debatable.

Eugene Jennings, management professor at Michigan State University, is very concerned that many of the men who head the nation's largest companies are ill-equipped to deal with the multifaceted challenges before them.

Products of the 1960s, when the focus of their efforts was mainly on profits, these men are being challenged now by capital shortages, consumerism, ecological concerns, nationalism, controls, product safety, equality, etc.

The men needed today must have imagination, vision and a broad understanding, said Jennings, who is also a confidential adviser to corporate chief executives and a recognized authority on executive mobility.

But the men who worked their way to the top during the 1960s lack lateral vision and foresight, he believes. They do not have a sense of the grand plan. Many of them are confused.

Here are some of the strains on the executive suite that Jennings believes constitute a crisis of the management system:

Manufacturing executive: He knows production hasn't kept pace with the increase in labor costs. But he can't obtain funds from the financial officer to obtain labor-saving tools and machinery.

On top of this he is faced with demands to humanize the assembly line, to enrich jobs, to make them more rewarding. He is thus faced with at least one dilemma and probably many more.

Marketing executive: His fundamental problem is that the consumer has lost his respect for the market place as an arbiter of prices. He knows the public is looking to the government rather than the market place for price constraints.

Sales executive: His problem is the profit margin. It has been declining in the past two or three years. He has to lower the cost of selling. But productivity also is falling, so he is forced to sell at a high price in a sluggish market.

Finance executive: The debt-to-equity ratio has doubled since 1957 and now is up to 44 per cent. Secondly, the cash flow to investment ratio is far too low to finance capital expenditures.

He can't get capital from the stock market, and is forced into bonds. He needs to build liquidity, but how can he do it? Especially when banks are returning to more traditional banking practices.

He is faced also with the fact that employees are getting an increasingly large share of the corporate dollar and shareholders a smaller percentage. He has to consider a bigger dividend to get shareholders back. But can he afford it?

Accounting and auditing executive: He once had a cozy relationship with his outside auditors. Now they try to keep more than arm's reach away from him. The public accounting firms are

Partially Renew Mine Walkout

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The rejection of a new contract for 4,500 mine construction workers threatened to shut down many of the nation's coal mines today, partially renewing a walkout that idled most of the industry for nearly a month.

The United Mine Workers 38-member bargaining council, after meeting in Washington Wednesday night, sent the tentative accord back for further negotiations with the Association of Bituminous Contractors.

Union negotiators said immediately after hearing of the council's action that they would seek a meeting with representatives of the contractors association as soon as possible.

The contract for the ABC employees was similar to the settlement ratified last week by the union's 120,000 miner members. The miners contract provided for a 64 per cent hike in wages and benefits over three years.

But union negotiators were unsuccessful in obtaining additional unemployment benefits and travel pay wanted by the construction workers, who are subject to more frequent layoffs and often have to move around from one mine construction site to another.

Picketing by the workers kept 24,000 miners home and prevented many mines from reopening as scheduled on Monday. However, most of the picket lines started coming down slowly after tentative agreement on the ABC pact was reached early Tuesday. "We are hopeful that there will be no picketing of the coal mines by ABC workers," a union spokesman said after hearing of the bargaining council's action Wednesday night. "It would not strengthen their negotiation position at all."

Cunniff Col.

(Continued from page 4) under pressure to report more of the corporations financial affairs, and to be extra aware of indiscretions. Personnel manager: He is faced with the problems of equality of opportunity, seniority versus equality, health and safety of personnel. "He is up to his neck in alligators."

Purchasing agent: He's under a gun he never faced before. His office has been raised in stature because it is believed he can control costs. But he is expected to buy at low cost items that are unavailable or in short supply.

Atop this mountain of problems, Jennings places a chief executive who has been trained to concentrate narrowly on profits. Too often he is unable to envision the over-all challenge to his company.

The chief executive also has his own peculiar worry. He must now deal with a board of directors that is not nearly as passive as it was in the 1960s. Directors have bigger legal responsibilities, and they demand that the president be candid and permit them to participate in decisions.

Can he handle the job? Jennings has doubts. And he has doubts too about the system's ability to produce the men of vision and foresight to bring corporations through the new complexities.

"Where do we find the new managers?" he asks. "What do they look like? How do we find and develop them? Which of them knows what the future is like?"

Forgot To Tell Wife He's Seeking Office

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—If Watergate chief prosecutor James F. Neal is planning to run for office in Tennessee, he has neglected to tell his wife.

"All Jimmy is thinking about is getting back to his law practice as soon as the trial is over," said Mrs. Julie Neal. "As far as I know, nobody has even suggested it to him—except me, and I told him he ought to run for president some day."

"But I'm prejudiced," she said. The question of Neal's political plans came up in Washington Wednesday during the Watergate coverup trial when William S. Frates, attorney for John Ehrlichman, accused the Tennessee lawyer of grandstanding.

"I say the facts are he's going back to Tennessee and running for political office," Frates said after interrupting Neal's cross examination of Ehrlichman. Neal waited until the jury left for lunch, then asked Judge John Sirica to admonish Frates.

"I resent it," he said of defense counsel's remarks. The chairmen of both major political parties in Tennessee said Neal had not discussed any political plans with them.

"I don't even know Jim Neal, so he must be a Democrat," said GOP Chairman Dortch Oldham.

James Sasser, the Democratic chairman, said Neal was both a Democrat and a personal friend, "but he has expressed no ambition to run for political office any time in the future."

Sasser suggested another course for Neal.

"He is an excellent lawyer, and I think he would be an excellent choice as attorney general of the United States," Sasser said.

Provide Trudeau With New Car

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Elliott Trudeau has a new $80,000 limousine with armor plating, bullet proof windows and two telephones.

The silver-gray Cadillac replaces a similar black automobile that now will be used as a spare and for touring dignitaries such as British royalty.

"It's not my idea, driving through life with an armored Caddy — like a tank — that I lend to the queen when she comes," Trudeau complained during a recent speech in Alberta.

The new car will get about the same mileage as the old one — eight miles per gallon — according to a Privy Council spokesman.

Kilpatrick...

Strauss summoned half a dozen apostles of an open convention to meet in a closed room. There these dedicated believers in full participation communed with the spirit of old Sam Rayburn. They deleted a phrase here and added a few words there. With a wink and a nudge and a nod, they returned to the floor. An hour later, the convention adopted an Article Ten that was nowhere available in written form.

The few dissenters were simply rolled over. Joe Waggoner of Louisiana, an old railroad buff, yelled that the train was coming and ducked beneath his seat. John Henning of the California AFL-CIO warned of labor's displeasure and was roundly booed for his pains. The Strauss Express roared down the track, billowing steam and shaking the hall. "Choo-choo-choo," cried Waggoner. "Arrrr-ooooo," howled another skeptic, making the whistle call of a stream locomotive. Then they adjourned for the night.

What does it all mean? It means either something or nothing, which is pure Strauss. This is vintage stuff. The inscrutable Article Ten does not even apply to the 1976 convention, which could clarify its provisions with further obscurities. The key that unlocked the smoke-filled room has to do with "burden of proof." At some distant point, it may again be up to the Illinois delegation, for example, to prove that it has not discriminated against women or minorities. Affirmative action efforts will be "monitored," a verb of gauzy connotation.

One might as well ask what a concerto means, or what an abstract painting means. In order to admire, it is not necessary that one first understand. This was a virtuoso performance. It will be 1976 before we see its like again.

A Review

'A Scent Of Flowers' Has A Timely Theme

Editor's Note: A Scent of Flowers is playing nightly at 8:15 p.m. in the Studio Theater on campus at ECU. The theater is located in the basement of the old Wahl-Coates School.

When a person commits suicide, it is a human inclination for those close to the victim — family, lovers, friends — to ponder what part they may have played in someone making such a terrible decision.

This is the basic situation James Saunders has used to fashion A Scent of Flowers, a powerful though diffuse stage piece. The playwright has approached this timeless theme from both the inside and outside, framing vignettes of past actions from the dual viewpoints of persons close to the dead girl and the girl's own recollections. This approach brings into play an aura of fantasy, but it's a fantasy anchored in reality, made tangible by the unifying presence of Schrivens, the funeral director.

A Scent of Flowers abounds in sub-themes—loneliness; the loneliness of people forever talking with words, the loneliness of people too much silent, all the private loneliness of the living. And there's searching, for religious belief and a way out of belief; searching for meanings in life, through avenues as different as fairy tales and Aristotle.

All three acts take place following the suicide of Zoe, a young woman. The first act is set in the family home; the second in the church; the third in the cemetery. In all, the dead girl's casket is a constant, dominant symbol of reality. In the shadow of this symbol, it is the living who take on the air of unreality, acting out dreams, heartbreaks, memories and regrets, pinpointing the futility of the living ever hoping to make amends to the dead.

Like Tennessee Williams, James Saunders in A Scent of Flowers has a special gift for the beauty and poetry of words. Unlike Williams, he does not have the discipline to simplify. The ornateness of several passages become a distraction by their very richness.

The characters in A Scent of Flowers have strong parallels to those in Williams' Glass Menagerie. Zoe, the young suicide and the crippled Laura are both innocents searching for affection. Agnes, Zoe's stepmother, leans steadfastly on her faith in "facts," the stern duty not to shirk reality, but to recognize and face them; just as Amanda Winfield found her crutch against adversities in the comforting virtues of remembered gentility.

Zoe's stepbrother Godfrey is a stage cousin to Laura's brother Tom, but here the comparison ends, for the situation is totally and tragically different. Godfrey's tie to his stepsister Zoe is one of love, the physical and emotional love of a man for a woman. And Zoe loves Godfrey. Though physically present, Zoe's father David is almost as much an absent figure as Laura's long lost father.

A Scent of Flowers brings home a central human dilemma — man's inability to give his outward manifestations of love. As past relations with the dead girl are revealed, we feel the paralysis that dooms human relations to inactivity; the failure to reach out, to give more than surface expression to loves that are rooted in the heart.

Obliquely, the central question is posed, which of the persons closest to Zoe can be held liable for turning aside, for failing to make it possible for one bruised and hurt human to find an alternative to the unalterable act of self-destruction.

The Playhouse production of A Scent of Flowers is blessed with a roster of fine performances. Martin Thompson as Scrivens the funeral director (who also doubles as the priest) again proves his ability to play a role to near perfection, drawing out every nuance imbedded in each line. Dan Nichols gives a marvelous funny-sad interpretation of a literate buffoon who both loves and hates the "role of life" circumstances have forced him into; and Suzy Mardant is frighteningly convincing as the living-dead vegetable grandmother.

Liz Gieger as Zoe, and Greg Zittel as her brother Godfrey effectively sustain the tender-angry interplay between them; and Albert Peralton and Jim Dellessandro in the roles of Fred and Sid, funeral assistants, give a fine touch of earthiness. As Agnes, Zoe's stepmother, Sara Jo Berman occasionally falters in an otherwise fine performance of the one person outwardly assured of what life is all about. Bob Gurganus, unfortunately, has a tendency to underplay the role of the reserved father David, making the character more lifeless than he should be.

Since A Scent of Flowers is on stage at ECU during the Christmas shopping days, this is a fine opportunity to treat a friend to a modest $2.00 ticket to catch one of the performances before the final one on Wednesday, December 18.

Despite being a trifle long, the play evokes in full measure a beautiful drama of life. It's about the need for love. What could be more appropriate at this season of the year.

Deceived By Nixon: Ehrlichman

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, once among the staunchest Nixon loyalists, says he now realizes Richard M. Nixon deceived him at least four times about Watergate.

No Gallows For British

LONDON (AP) — The House of Commons has rejected a proposal to restore the death penalty for terrorist killers despite public opinion polls favoring the gallows because of the bomb attacks that have killed 27 persons in England in the past two months.

The vote Wednesday night was 369-217. Party discipline was suspended, and members were allowed to vote according to their consciences.

Two hours before the vote, the terrorists struck again with a bomb through a window of the Naval and Military Club in Piccadilly, a mile and a half from the Houses of Parliament. No one was hurt, but the police said the two bombers fired shots at a taxicab that chased them as they escaped. Later a man was picked up for questioning.

The death penalty for "acts of terrorism causing death" was proposed by Jill Knight, a Conservative member of Commons, as a tool against the Irish Republican Army. The IRA is fighting to drive the British from Northern Ireland and is blamed for the bomb attacks.

Senate Confirms FEA Appointee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has confirmed Frank G. Zarb's appointment as administrator of the Federal Energy Administration.

Zarb succeeds John C. Sawhill as chief of the agency created to implement the nation's energy policy.

me by the former president were false," Ehrlichman told the Watergate cover-up trial on Wednesday.

"I think there is an ample showing in this record I was deceived."

It was the sharpest public break Ehrlichman has made with the man he served for five years in the White House.

It came late in a day of intense cross-examination by chief prosecutor James F. Neal, who repeatedly pressed the former Nixon aide to explain why he didn't tell investigators what he knew about Watergate, if, as he says, he consistently advocated full disclosure.

Ehrlichman was the last of three top-level Nixon advisers to present his defense in the cover-up case. Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-White House staff chief H.R. Haldeman also have testified.

Former Assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian was scheduled to follow Ehrlichman on the witness stand. The fifth defendant is Kenneth W. Parkinson, former lawyer for the Nixon re-election committee.

All five are charged with conspiring to obstruct the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

The cornerstone of Ehrlichman's defense was summed up in his lawyer's opening statement when he said Ehrlichman had been "misled, deceived and lied to" by Nixon.

But despite the harsh words from his lawyer early in the trial, Ehrlichman's recollection of Nixon was more sorrowful than bitter or angry.

On Tuesday, he wept as he recalled the meeting on April 29, 1973, when Nixon asked for his resignation.

But there were no tears Wednesday as Ehrlichman, in a matter-of-fact manner, ticked off the dates on which he said he was misled: June 23, 1972; March 21, 1973; Jan. 8, 1973; March 22, 1973.

No Injuries In Collision

No charges were made by police yesterday following investigation of a train-car collision at the Southern Railroad crossing on 14th Street, 300 feet South of the U.S. 264 intersection.

Officers said a car driven by Reva Greene Floyd of Route 2, Ayden collided with a Southern train, resulting in an estimated $800 damage to the train in the 6:49 a.m. mishap, police noted.

Investigators quoted Mrs. Floyd as saying she heard the train and attempted to stop for the crossing. Her vehicle stopped at the tracks, however the train caught the front of her vehicle and pulled the car some 45 feet down the railroad.

Investigators said the train did not stop.

No injuries were reported.

He said he never knew about the conversation on June 23, six days after the Watergate break-in, in which Nixon and Haldeman discussed asking top CIA officials to get the FBI to limit its investigation of the burglary.

On March 21, Ehrlichman said Nixon never told him about all the things John W. Dean III had disclosed about Watergate.

On Jan. 8, Nixon discussed clemency for the Watergate burglars with Charles W. Colson, then special White House counsel, in a taped conversation that Ehrlichman said was "exactly, diametrically opposite to what he (Nixon) told me about clemency."

And on March 22, "I thought we had agreed in principle for full disclosure when, in fact, it was the opposite."

The witness concluded: "The fact is, as I look back and add it all up, I knew pitifully little about the matter and simply was not in a position to come forward at any time with evidence."

Propose Other Revenue Than From Tax On Food

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Tax Council proposes replacing the 3 per cent state sales tax on food with other sources of revenue.

"Absolute emphasis must be placed on getting rid of the enormous inequities in the food tax," the council said in a letter mailed Wednesday to recently elected legislators. "Along with rising food costs, it is tearing apart the vital stability of North Carolina."

The council had its beginning among groups of citizens in Burke and Scotland counties. These are the only two of the state's 100 counties in which an extra 1 per cent food tax for county purposes has been defeated by referendum since 1969.

Ed Reading, state coordinator for the council, said it has a 25-member executive committee, selected from about 20 counties. He said membership ranges from Transylvania county in the west to Vance County in the east.

The council recommended six sources of state revenue to be considered in replacing the food tax. It said, giving further economies in government, it is likely that any two or three of the six options would replace the food tax revenue."

The six:

1. Tapping the $34 million which Gov. Jim Holshouser says he has eliminated from government fat.
2. Restructuring state income tax laws so that the tax is more progressive in the very high income tax groups.
3. Putting corporate taxes on a graduated basis.
4. Adding a tax to luxury items, such as alcoholic beverages, tobacco, etc.
5. Revising the low sales-tax limits on luxury vehicles, boats, airplanes, locomotives etc.
6. Other revenues proposed at the discretion of the General Assembly.

FOUND GUILTY—Bandleader-composer "Skitch" Henderson and his wife, Ruth, leave U.S. District Court in New York late Wednesday night after he was convicted on one count of filing a false federal income tax statement. The 56-year-old former leader of the "Tonight" show orchestra could get up to three years in prison and a $4,000 fine on to three years in prison and a $5,000 fine on the conviction. Arrest 3 On Drug Counts

Three persons were arrested here early today on charges of possessing marijuana after police stopped a car in which the three were riding about 1:14 a.m. on North Greene Street.

Chief Glenn Cannon identified the three as 18-year-old Sandra Ann Atkinson of Greene Dorm, Manly Jerome Lee, 28 of Route 2, Dudley and 27-year-old Barry Lynn Stickler of Route 1, Ayden.

In addition to the marijuana possession charge, Miss Atkinson was charged with driving under the influence and careless and reckless driving.

Bond for each of the three on the drug charge was set at $2,500, while bond for Miss Atkinson on the driving charges was placed at $300.

Cannon said officers found an estimated two pounds of marijuana in the car after the vehicle was stopped at the intersection of Greene and Moore Streets.

Buncombe Roads Iced Overnight

ASHEVILLE (AP)—An overnight drizzle and below-freezing temperatures iced roads in Buncombe and adjoining counties today.

The ice caused numerous minor highway wrecks, including an eight-car chain-reaction collision in eastern Haywood County.

Because of road conditions, schools opened an hour and a half later than usual in Buncombe and Yancey counties.

South Boston Schools Closed After Violence

UPRIGHT POLICE CAR—Boston Police officers upright one of their cruisers which was overturned Wednesday by South Boston residents during violence outside South Boston

BOSTON (AP) — A new outburst of violence at South Boston High School has led officials to close all schools in the area for the rest of the week in hopes a cooling off period will relieve racial tension. Eleven police officers and at least five civilians were injured and required treatment Wednesday after being struck by bricks, stones and other flying objects hurled by a crowd of nearly 1,000 whites outside the school's main building.

One white student, Michael Faith, 17, of South Boston, was reported in good condition after being stabbed at the high school in an incident which is believed to have touched off the day of violence.

A black youth, James A. White, 18, of Roxbury, was arrested in connection with the stabbing incident, and three white South Boston youths were arrested later in the day and charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon on a police officer.

Elsewhere in the city, about 600 white students walked out of classes at Roslindale High School, following a reported slapping incident between a black and a white student.

The atmosphere at Hyde Park High School, the scene of previous racial outbreaks, was reported to be tense with white student walkouts threatened. Extra police were on the scene, but there was no outbreaks of violence.

Over-all attendance was slightly below average at 75.6 per cent.

By TOM RAUM
AP Regional Service
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Electric Power Co. apparently has won its 10-year battle to build hydroelectric dams on the Virginia-North Carolina border, a project environmentalists say will devastate the world's second-oldest river.

The House Rules Committee voted 12 to 2 Wednesday to table a bill that would have blocked the project by making a 70-mile stretch of the New River eligible for federal protection as a wild and scenic river.

Without the legislation, a Federal Power Commission order licensing the project for 50 years will take effect Jan. 2.

The project, to consist of two dams, one 250 feet high and the other 300 feet high, will inundate 40,000 acres of farmland and woodlands in western Virginia and North Carolina.

Environmentalists and North Carolina congressmen had sought to preserve the river in its free-flowing, natural state. Despite its name, government geologists say the New River has been flowing for about 500 million years, survived several prehistoric glaciers and is the world's second-oldest river after the Nile.

The river begins in the Blue Ridge Mountains of western North Carolina and meanders through that state and into Virginia and West Virginia.

Environmentalists say the huge man-made lakes formed by the power project will obliterate an important segment of the New River channel, and will have adverse effects all the way downstream into West Virginia.

But opponents of the bill, including the entire Virginia congressional delegation, said the need for new supplies of energy in the area outweighed the desire to retain the river in its free-flowing state.

Virginia will benefit the most from the added power produced by the project. North Carolina gets little of its electricity from the American Electric Power Co. or its subsidiary, Appalachian Power Co.

The utility has been seeking federal approval for the 1.8 million kilowatt-per-year, $430 million project for the past decade. Its officials said the project was essential to meet peak power demands in the area.

The Federal Power Commission announced its decision to license the project — unless Congress acted otherwise — last summer, several weeks after the Senate passed the bill to block the project.

The Rules Committee action Wednesday came despite a last-minute plea from the Senate sponsor, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., to "save one of the masterpieces of allmighty God from destruction."

Although both dams would be constructed in Virginia, the inundated area would extend across the border deep into North Carolina. It would displace several hundred families in both states.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va., a prime backer of the Ervin bill, called the vote by the House panel "bitterly disappointing."

He said the decision stemmed from "tremendous lobbying on the part of the nation's electric utilities."

Tobacco Price Support Boost 'Is In Trouble'

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to raise government price supports for tobacco above current record market prices is in trouble in the Senate.

The Agriculture Department and the White House budget office strongly recommend rejection, an official told the Senate Agricultural Committee at a hearing Wednesday.

The House-passed bill would increase supports to 90 per cent of parity.

It would have no effect on this year's flue-cured crop, for which marketing has been completed. But for burley, which is only a few weeks into the 1974 season, it would boost support to $1.32 a pound, 50 cents above present support and 18 cents above current average market prices.

Trade Bill Can Boost Prices

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting under White House pressure, Senate leaders have reached an agreement that could result in passage next week of a far-reaching trade bill. But the arrangement may mean higher gasoline prices for American drivers.

Senate sources say it has been made clear to the White House that if President Ford is to get the trade legislation he is pressing for, he will have to accept another bill requiring that 30 per cent of imported oil be carried on U.S. tankers.

It is generally conceded that the tanker bill, which the Ford administration previously has opposed, would raise the price of gasoline and heating oil, especially in New England states.

Ford has called the trade legislation one of the most important bills in recent years. It would give him authority to negotiate for lower tariffs and for reduction of other barriers to free trade with the rest of the world.

The bill also would grant trade concessions to the Soviet Union as the result of an understanding between the Ford administration and Soviet leaders that would liberalize Soviet emigration restrictions.

The bill would greatly increase the congressional role in trade matters, and is designed to provide additional government assistance to workers, industries and communities threatened by imported products.

Choir Plans For Cantata

On Friday and Sunday a special presentation of John Peterson's Night of Miracles will be given by a choir composed of members of the St. Paul and Greenville First Pentecostal Holiness Churches.

The special choir under the direction of Tyrone Williams, minister of music of the St. Paul Church, will be accompanied by pianist, Wanda Williams, from the St. Paul Church and organist, Betty leRoux, from the Greenville First Church.

Featured in the performance will be an instrumental ensemble composed of trumpets, clarinets, french horn, and percussion. Soloists for the work include Erlene Stocks, Jackson Williams, Melvin Moore, Johnnie Nelson, and Melvin Leggett.

In order to allow interested persons the opportunity to attend, two performances will be given. The Friday performance will be held at 8 p.m. at the St Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church, on U.S. 264 east of Greenville. The Sunday performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Greenville First Pentecostal Holiness Church, at the corner of Brinkley Road and Plaza Drive, Greenville.

The public is invited to attend.

Martha Says Struck Daughter

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell said she struck her daughter when the 13-year-old girl refused to leave school and come home with her, according to CBS-TV reporter Trish Reilly.

Mrs. Mitchell, who has claimed her estranged husband, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell "poisoned" daughter Marty's mind against her, was accompanied by Miss Reilly to Sacred Heart Convent School in Greenwich, Conn., Wednesday.

Brewster Scholar Will Be Honored

The Department of History and the administration of East Carolina University will honor the 1974-75 Brewster Scholar in History at an awards presentation Dec. 18.

The 1974-75 Brewster Scholar is Joel Grant Hancock of Harker's Island, a 1970 graduate of East Carteret High School, Beaufort, and a graduate student in history at ECU.

A plaque signifying the $1,000 annual scholarship award will be presented to Hancock by Dr. Lawrence F. Brewster who established the award. Dr. Brewster was Professor of History and Director of Graduate Studies at ECU until his retirement in 1969. The Brewster Building, largest classroom building on the campus, was named in his honor.

Hancock, a candidate for the Master of Arts degree, will present a paper on "The Athenian Policy of Cleomenes I of Sparta."

The presentation is scheduled at 3 p.m. Dec. 18 in the Van Landingham room of the ECU School of Home Economics. All faculty and interested students and friends of Dr. Brewster and family and friends of Hancock are invited to attend.

Drugs Case Is Dismissed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Drug charges against the daughter of Mayor Thomas Bradley, Phyllis Bradley, 29, have been dismissed. But a codefendant was convicted of possessing LSD and cocaine.

David P. Liggins II, 20, was convicted Wednesday in the nonjury Superior Court trial and was scheduled for sentencing Jan. 16. A third defendant previously pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a year in jail.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today after shrugging off a round of selling at the opening.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.38 at 599.73, but losers retained a moderate edge on gainers at the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts ascribed the session's weak start to disappointment that President Ford hadn't put forward any major anti-recession measures in his address to a group of business leaders Wednesday night.

When the setback proved to be relatively mild—only a little more than four points in the Dow—it appeared some investors moved in to do some bargain-hunting.

One supporting factor cited by some market-watchers was Chrysler Corp.'s announcement that it would reopen four of the five assembly plants shut down for December after New Year's. The fifth facility was slated to resume operation in February.

Chrysler shares advanced 1/4 to 8 3/4. Among other auto issues, General Motors rose 3/4 to 31 1/2. Ford gained 1/4 to 32 1/2, and American Motors added 1/4 to 3 1/4.

Sony Corp. was the Big Board volume leader, unchanged at 4 3/4 in trading that included a 200,000-share block at that price.

Southern Co. lost 3/4 to 8 1/2 in active trading. The company said the financial condition of its Georgia Power Co. subsidiary had reached a "major crisis."

Phillips Petroleum rose 1 1/2 to 39 1/2. Norway said it had made unspecified changes in proposed tax increases on oil properties in its sector of the North Sea, where Phillips has significant interests.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index dropped .21 to 58.74 in the first hour. American-Agronomics, the Amex volume leader, was down 1/4 at 10 1/4.

Crash Alarms

WASHINGTON (AP) — All U.S. commercial jetliners will be required to install alarm systems that tell the pilots when the aircraft is on a collision course with the ground or a mountain, the Federal Aviation Administration says.

The device, which will be required equipment as of next Dec. 1, emits a recorded sound and voice: "Whoop, whoop, pull up," if the airplane descends below safe altitudes.

Reminds Public Of Meeting On City Program

City Manager Bill Carstarphen reminded local neighborhood and citizen groups of tonight's special public meeting to hear proposals and suggestions concerning the city's Community Development Program.

Carstarphen said the hearing, with the mayor and City Council on hand, is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Council chambers at city hall.

According to the city manager, the two major objectives of the meeting are to provide citizens and neighborhood groups with information on the nature and purpose of the CDP, and to give citizens an opportunity to present their suggestions to the City Council first hand.

He added that everyone interested in the new program is invited and urged to attend tonight's session.

LEE BALL

New officers for the coming year were installed Wednesday night at the annual installation banquet of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors.

Lee Ball of Blount & Ball Realty Co. took the oath of office as the Board of Realtors' new president.

Other officers installed by Henry Harding, region vice president from Washington, included Jeannette Cox of Jeannette Cox Agency, vice president; Caryn McCue of Blount and Ball, secretary-treasurer; and Collice Moore of Whelless & Moore Inc., state director.

In handling the installation activities, Harding offered brief remarks concerning the real estate business and emphasized the importance of the profession. Some 160 persons attended the dinner-dance at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, including the wives of the local members.

Membership on the Board of Realtors currently stands at approximately 75.

Firemen Offer Repair Toys

The Greenville Fire Department is now accepting toys to repair to help out Santa at Christmas.

Fireman Billy Woolfolk urged that only repairable toys be brought. "We can't do anything with plastic or with any of these fancy several-speed bicycles," he said, "because we don't have the tools or the know how. We do think we can work on standard bicycles and tricycles, though. Toys not in need of fixing should be taken to the Salvation Army Citadel, he reminded.

McKeever Paces Southern Loop In Scoring With 33.3 Average

It took some fancy shooting to rank in the top ten of the Southern Conference individual scoring race during the first week of competition.

According to the first of the weekly statistical releases by the conference, Randy McKeever of The Citadel topped the league with a 33.3 average, scoring 100 points even in the first three Bulldog outings.

Second place went to Bob McCurdy of Richmond with a 26.7 mark, while Clyde Mayes of Furman was third with a 25.0 average. Davidson's Larry Horowitz, who was the player of the week in the league, was fourth at 22.5, followed by Fessor Leonard of Furman at 21.0, John Krovic of VMI at 20.5, and Greg Dunn of Davidson at 20.0.

Jay Powell of Davidson, 18.5; Kevin Eastman of Richmond, 18.3, and Eric Gray of Richmond, 16.7, rounded out the top ten.

Richard Johnson of The Citadel leads the conference in field goal percentage, hitting 61.1 per cent of his shots. Powell is second with 60.1 per cent, while Curt Reppart of VMI is third at 58.3.

Ken Baughman of Appalachian is the free throw leader, hitting all 10 of his shots. Gregg Ashorn of East Carolina ranked second at 91.6, followed by John Lowenhaupt of William & Mary, 90.6. Tom Marsh of East Carolina was fourth at 88.8.

Mayes leads the rebounding with a 14.0 average, while Leonard is second with 12.3.

Steve Chapin of VMI and Horowitz are tied for third with 10.5 per game.

The Citadel leads the conference in team offense with a 98.3 point per game average. Davidson and VMI are tied for second with 81.0, while East Carolina is fourth at 80.0.

In team defense, William & Mary leads the list with a 60.0 average. Davidson is second at 74.5, followed by Furman at 79.5. East Carolina ranked last, 92.0.

In field goal percentage, the Wildcats of Davidson led the way, hitting 53.8 per cent of their shots. Citadel was second at 53.7, followed by Furman at 47.6. East Carolina ranked seventh, 42.3.

Citadel topped the free throw shooting with a 78.3 mark, while the Pirates were second with 68.8 per cent. Richmond ranked third at 67.2.

The Indians of William & Mary were the leading rebounders with a 56.5 percent recovery figure. Davidson was second at 52.0, followed by Furman at 51.4. East Carolina ranked fifth at 47.7.

Jamesville, Despite Rebuilding, Hopes To Grab District Berth

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville High School's Bullets were just about wiped out by graduation last year, but new coach William Johnson is hopeful that the team will still make one of the five tournament berths the league is allowed.

While Johnson is new to the varsity program, he's not new to the school. Last year, he was the junior varsity coach, so he is familiar with many of the players.

There is only one starter back from last year's team, Byron Davis, a 6-1 forward. The rest of the starting five for this season is made up of returning varsity reserves and those up from the junior varsity.

"I'd have to rate this pretty much a rebuilding year," Johnson said. "But being familiar with the junior varsity players has helped a lot."

Joining Davis in the starting lineup is Rufus Simmons at center, 6-3, and Alton Roberts, 6-1, at the other forward spot. The guards are 5-8 Eric Davis and 5-9 Jerry Ange.

"We don't have that much height," Johnson said. "So we are working to get more team effort. We haven't had that much problem without rebounding, however. We've been able to get position to get our share. Turnovers and mistakes have hurt us more than anything."

Going into Tuesday night's game with Belhaven, the Bullets had found the going rough, bowing in all four of their starts—twice to Williamston, and once each to Chocowinity and Bath. Only the Bath game was a conference affair, however.

"Our shooting has been pretty good so far," Johnson said. "We've hit between 42 and 45 per cent of our shots, and for this early, that's real good."

Johnson feels that his guards are the strength of his team, and a look at the statistics so far would tend to enforce that. Eric Davis is the leading scorer with a 12.3 average through four games, while Ange is hitting at a 10.5 clip. The two inside men, Simmons and Byron Davis are about even, both scoring just over eight points a game.

"I guess you'd say our lack of height is our biggest weakness. I don't think experience is quite as much a problem. While we don't have a lot, we do have some players with varsity experience."

Depth, too, is rated as good by the coach. He feels that there is not a great deal of dropoff between his starters and his first few reserves. He looks to Ricardo Hardison and Larry Pearce to fill in at the guard slots, while Ronald Foreman, Colen James and Duke Stone are the front court subs.

In the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference, Johnson feels that there will be a dog-fight for the title. "I look to Bath, Belhaven and possible Pantego, to be the top people right now. But I think we can be in the top five."

The conference is supposed to get five teams into the district 1-A tournament, and this is the goal of the Bullets, to make the field. "I think we have a real good shot at it," Johnson said.

First Victory For Pitt Tech

WINTERVILLE—Pitt Technical Institute celebrated its Homecoming last night with a 71-65 victory over James Sprunt. It was the first victory of the season for the Paladins.

The game was close all the way. Both teams swapped baskets for the first minutes working to a 4-4 score. But after that, both went stone cold and for a long time, neither team could do much. Sprunt finally inched out to a 7-6 lead after 11 minutes of play, but Pitt Tech regained the lead, and their touch at the same time. They continued to lead the rest of the half, building up a 34-29 lead by the horn.

In the second half, the two again began to swap baskets, with Pitt holding the lead the entire half. With 3:20 left, however, Sprunt closed to within one at 61-60. But the Paladins used their defense and the foul line to hold onto the lead during the rest of the game.

The victory raised the Pitt Tech record to 1-5 overall and 1-2 in league play.

Larry Banks led Pitt with 23 points, while A. J. Tyson added 11 and Michael Berry and Orlander Lewis each had 10. Sprunt was led by G. Maddox.

with 17, J. Cooper with 14 and R. Robertson with 10.

The game was the final outing of 1974 for the Paladins, who are off until January 9 when they travel to Kenansville to meet Sprunt again.

Games Back On Radio

The East Carolina University basketball games will be broadcast for the remainder of the season, with three exceptions.

The network had been cancelled late last week after it failed to come up with financial backing and East Carolina felt it could not underwrite the sponsorship of it.

But Tuesday morning, an agreement was worked out with the university, along with some local businessmen to put the games back on the air.

The coverage currently is planned for all of the remaining games, both home and away, except for one three-game span which covers a trip to New Jersey to meet St. Peter's, and the two-day Connecticut Classic.

The network is being carried over three stations. In addition to WNCT-AM here in Greenville, it can also be picked up on WHIT in New Bern, and throughout Eastern Carolina over WRNS-FM from Kinston.

Rampant Wrestlers In Fifth Win Of Season

Rose High School's wrestlers claimed their fifth victory of the season last night, taking a 34-19 victory over defending state champion Goldsboro.

The Rampants trailed several times along the way, however, and it wasn't until the final three weight classes that they put the match away, taking two of the three by falls.

Overall, Rose won in eight of the weight classes, winning three by pins and one by a superior decision. Goldsboro's five wins included one pin and one superior decision.

The victory brought the Rampant record to 5-1 for the season. The Rampants' next outing will be Thursday at Rocky Mount.

Conley Downs Jaguar Matmen

HOLLYWOOD—D. H. Conley's Vikings claimed their second wrestling victory in three starts last night with a 39-27 victory over Farmville Central.

The Jaguars led most of the way, with Conley taking the lead once after the 145-pound class, then regaining it again during the final two matches.

Conley won seven classes, while Farmville Central took five, and another ended in a draw. Of the Conley wins, five came by pins, including the last three that swung the victory to the Vikings. Three Jaguar victories were pins.

For Conley, Ricky Phillips (126) and Barry Purser (185) are now both 3-0 and have claimed pins in each of their victories.

Conley will host Ayden-Grifton on Friday, while Farmville Central hosts North Pitt on Wednesday.

The Vikings are now 2-1 overall and 1-1 in conference play, while Farmville Central is 1-3 overall and 1-1 in the league.

DUDLEY—Southern Wayne High School handed the North Pitt Panthers their first wrestling loss of the year last night, taking a 43-21 victory over them.

North Pitt, in its previous two matches, had come up with draws and now has an 0-1-2 record for the season.

Southern Wayne picked up victories in nine of the 13 matches, winning five of them ball falls. Three of the four Panther wins came on pins.

The Panthers are scheduled to host newcomer Southern Nash on Friday.

Lundy Named To All-Academic

Larry Lundy, an offensive tackle for the East Carolina University football team, has been named to the All-Academic Southern Conference football team.

Lundy, a junior psychology major from Havelock, currently holds a 3.2 average (based on a 4.0 scale) in his studies at East Carolina.

VMI, which won the conference championship, placed three on the team, including the top ranked student-athlete, James Lofton. A junior modern languages major, the defensive back has a 3.539 average. George Farry, the VMI quarterback, ranks second. A Civil Engineering major, he has a 3.435 mark.

The other Keydet on the team, Ronnie Norman, a tailback majoring in history, has a 3.211 average.

William & Mary placed four on the unit. John Gerdelman, a chemistry major, has a 3.3 average. He is a fullback for the Indians. Mark Duffner, a defensive tackle, has a 3.2 mark, and is studying physical education. Jeff Hosmer, a linebacker in pre-law studies, also is 3.2, along with Dave Grazier, a middle guard majoring in physical education.

The other three members of the team are all from Davidson. Jim Kleinfelder, a guard, has a 3.291 mark, as does Bill Smith, a tackle. Tom Fleisher, a defensive back, rounds out the 11 chosen, with a 3.125 mark. Majors for the Davidson players were not listed.

Avellini And Solomon Picked

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Maryland's Bob Avellini, the top-ranking passer in the Atlantic Coast Conference, and swift Fred Solomon of Tampa will handle the quarterbacking duties for the South team in the 26th annual Senior Bowl all-star game in Mobile Jan. 11.

The 31-member squad, announced Wednesday, includes six All-Americans and three Little All-Americans. Senior Bowl officials said the North squad will be named within a few days.

Avellini, who didn't become a starter until the third game of the season, finished the year as the ACC's total offense leader as well as its leading passer. He picked up all except 41 of his 1,689 yards on passes, completing 112 of 189 attempts.

Solomon, who consistently runs the 40 in 4.4 seconds, ranked ninth in the nation on rushing.

He rushed for 1,300 yards and 19 touchdowns on 193 carries, averaging 118 yards per game. The 185-pounder passed for 1,038 yards for total gains of 2,338 yards, good for fifth place nationally on total defense.

All-Americans invited to play are offensive linemen Craig Hertwig of Georgia and Ken Huff of North Carolina, and defensive linemen Doug English of Texas, Louie Kelcher of Southern Methodist, Randy white of Maryland and Ken Bernich of Auburn.

Little All-Americans chosen are running back Walter Payton and linebacker Robert Brazile of Jackson (Miss.) State and defensive lineman Fred Dean of Louisiana Tech.

Dick Nolan of the San Francisco 49ers, who played in the 1954 Senior Bowl game, will coach the South team, and Coach John Ralston of the Denver Broncos, will direct the North squad.

Members of the winning squad will receive $1,500 each and the losers $1,250 each. In

Shrine Teams Will Use Same Formations

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Coaches have agreed that the North Carolina and South Carolina teams will use the same basic offensive and defensive formations for Saturday's Shrine Bowl football game.

Each squad consists of 35 selected players.

The North Carolina squad will rotate evenly, so every man gets the same amount of playing time.

"We have the team divided up with 19 offensive players and 16 defensive players," says head coach Gerald Whisenhunt. "Nobody will be going both ways."

"All these kids were chosen because they are good, and I don't think it is fair to just go with a few players in this game. They won't even know until we get ready to start the game who will be in there first."

Coach Bill Few said South Carolina won't be quite as rigorous. Most of the men will play one way, but a couple might play both offensively and defensively. And Few says that if a player gets hot, he'll stay in. South Carolina's Bobby Veal, a fullback from Greenville, must have his sports mixed up. He chews tobacco, like some baseball players.

He bought a pouch of Red Man after lunch, and stuck a wad in his jaw. Says he's been doing it for a year and a half now.

Football isn't the only thing the Shrine Bowlers are playing. The pinball arcade at the Charlotte Mall is pretty popular, too. The players eat at the cafeteria upstairs in the mall, and usually try to get in a quick game or two of pool, table football or pinball before getting back on the bus.

The No. 1 in pinball is guard Steve Curtis of Sumter, S.C., who cracked 100,000 points on five balls in one game.

Gibson Praises Muhammad Ali

NEW YORK (AP)—World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali is "the super star of super stars," says former tennis star Althea Gibson.

"He brought not only talent but charisma. He has made the black man an admired and outstanding personality the world over," she said.

Althea was on hand Wednesday when the Black Athletes Hall of Fame elected 14 members. She was honored a year ago along with Ali, Willie Mays, Bill Russell, Hank Aaron and others.

Althea, who won broke the tennis color barrier and won Wimbledon, and has played on the ladies' professional golf tour, welcomed one of the new honorees, former Brooklyn Dodgers catcher Roy Camp-

Named To All-League

WILLIAMSTON—Three members of the Williamston High School football team have been named to the All-Northeastern Conference team as selected by the coaches of the league.

Named to the offensive unit were guards Mike Bryant and back Kenneth Speller. Dwayne Bell, a linebacker, was named to the defensive unit.

Vol Offense Causes Maryland Headaches

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Tennessee clinched a Liberty Bowl bid with the help of a new offensive formation, and now the offset Power I is a problem confronting Maryland's strong defensive unit.

The Volunteers sprung the surprise on Nov. 23 in a showdown battle with Kentucky to decide Maryland's opponent in Monday night's Liberty Bowl game in Memphis, Tenn.

The Vols won 28-7 while running behind the unbalanced line, and the alignment was appropriately called the "Liberty Formation."

Tennessee still uses basically the veer offense, but they kept the unbalanced line in the game plan in the last regular season game against Vanderbilt and played a 21-21 tie.

"We have to prepare for both formations," said Coach Jerry Claiborne of Maryland. "It means extra preparation on our part, but otherwise we might not be able to handle it."

If it would be an upset, however, if the 10th-ranked Terps are fooled very long by any formation. Claiborne is noted for his defensive prowess, and Maryland ranked sixth nationally in 1974 while giving up an average of 8.8 points a game.

The Terps posted five shutouts while posting an 8-3 record and winning the Atlantic Coast Conference championship outright for the first time.

Maryland's losses, by seven points or less, were to Alabama, Florida and Penn State—all of which are in post-season games.

In addition to this year's losses to Alabama and Florida, the Terps also dropped a 17-16 decision to Georgia in last year's Peach Bowl, so the Terps under Claiborne have yet to beat a Southeastern Conference foe.

Tennessee won the SEC title in 1967 and 1969, but the Vols were 2-3-1 in league competition this season while compiling a 6-3-2 record. They dropped a 28-6 decision to Alabama, while Maryland was topped by the Crimson Tide 21-16 in the season opener.

"When key people were hurt, Tennessee had a tough time winning," Claiborne said. "But it's a typical Tennessee team and they certainly will have the crowd on their side."

Maryland, however, has been installed as a six-point favorite to beat the Volunteers for the second time in a postseason game.

The two teams first met in the Sugar Bowl following the 1951 season. Maryland, which finished third in the national rankings, upset top ranked Tennessee 28-13.

In two regular season games since then, the Vols won 34-7 in 1956 and 16-0 the following year. The two teams will meet again in the season opener of 1975, giving them back-to-back games with a nine month interval.

Wake, Virginia Post Victories

By The Associated Press
The two Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams which played Wednesday night ran their records to 3-1 by easily defeating Southern Conference opponents.

Skip Brown scored 130 points to lead Wake Forest to a 100-69 victory over Appalachian State.

And Wally Walker's 20 points was high for Virginia, which beat William & Mary 73-51.

The fifth-ranked Maryland Terrapins are the only ACC team to play tonight, home to DePauw of Indiana. Maryland is undefeated in its four games this season.

Brown hit on 12 of 19 field goals and on all six from the free throw line for the Deacons.

It was only the second time in his three years at Wake Forest that coach Carl Tacy's team had hit 100 points or better. The first time was last year, also against Appalachian.

Ed Kane scored 28 points for Appalachian, which made a game of it through the first. Wake Forest led 49-47 at intermission. But the Deacons scored the first 16 points of the second half. Appalachian went the first seven minutes with only one field goal. It was the fourth defeat in five games for the Mountaineers.

Virginia never trailed in the defensive battle against W&M. The Cavaliers' defensive efforts were led by Dan Bonner with eight rebounds and Marc Iavaroni with seven.

Ron Satterthwaite with 17 points was high for the Indians, who now have a 3-2 record.

Chargers Get Forfeit

LITTLEFIELD—Ayden-Grifton High School took a forfeit victory over Southern Nash yesterday in a wrestling match.

Southern, fielding a team for the first time this year, has not yet begun its season, and due to the late start in working out, has forfeited several of the opening matches.

Ayden-Grifton will play host to Conley on Friday in their next match.

Indiana Whips Notre Dame

By The Associated Press
Coach Bobby Knight of college basketball's third-ranked Indiana Hoosiers had a few moments to relax as his club built an 18-point cushion en route to an 84-84 victory over No. 11 Notre Dame.

Unbeaten in four games, Indiana won its third Wednesday night against a ranked opponent in one week. The loss was the first in five games for Notre Dame, snapping a 24-game winning streak at home. "The biggest point in the whole ballgame was when we got an 18-point cushion with 6:25 to go which helped us withstand our mistakes and their press," Knight said Wednesday night. "This is a good win for us, especially with John Laskowski out injured half the game and (Steve) Green in foul trouble."

Laskowski suffered a sprained and bruised instep. Scott May hit 22 points and Kent Benson added 19 to lead the Hoosiers and offset Irish forward Adrian Dantley's game-high 32 points.

Green and Notre Dame's Billy Paterno had 17 apiece. Indiana sprinted from a 13-11 lead to 23-11 and never was threatened after that. The Hoosiers held a 47-34 halftime bulge.

In other games involving ranked teams, No. 13 South Carolina belted St. Joseph's, Pa., 89-54. No. 15 Purdue stopped West Virginia 94-83 and Southern Illinois stunned No. 16 Michigan 87-67.

Mike Dunleavy and Jack Gilloon broke St. Joseph's zone defense, and Tom Boswell scored 26 points to lead South Carolina to a lopsided victory over the Hawks.

A six-minute burst of 21 points led by high-scorer John Garrett late in the second half gave Purdue its victory over West Virginia. Purdue started strong but fell behind with 4:30 left in the first half when Earnest Hall sank two free throws to put West Virginia ahead 33-32. The Mountaineers stretched the advantage to 43-38 by intermission.

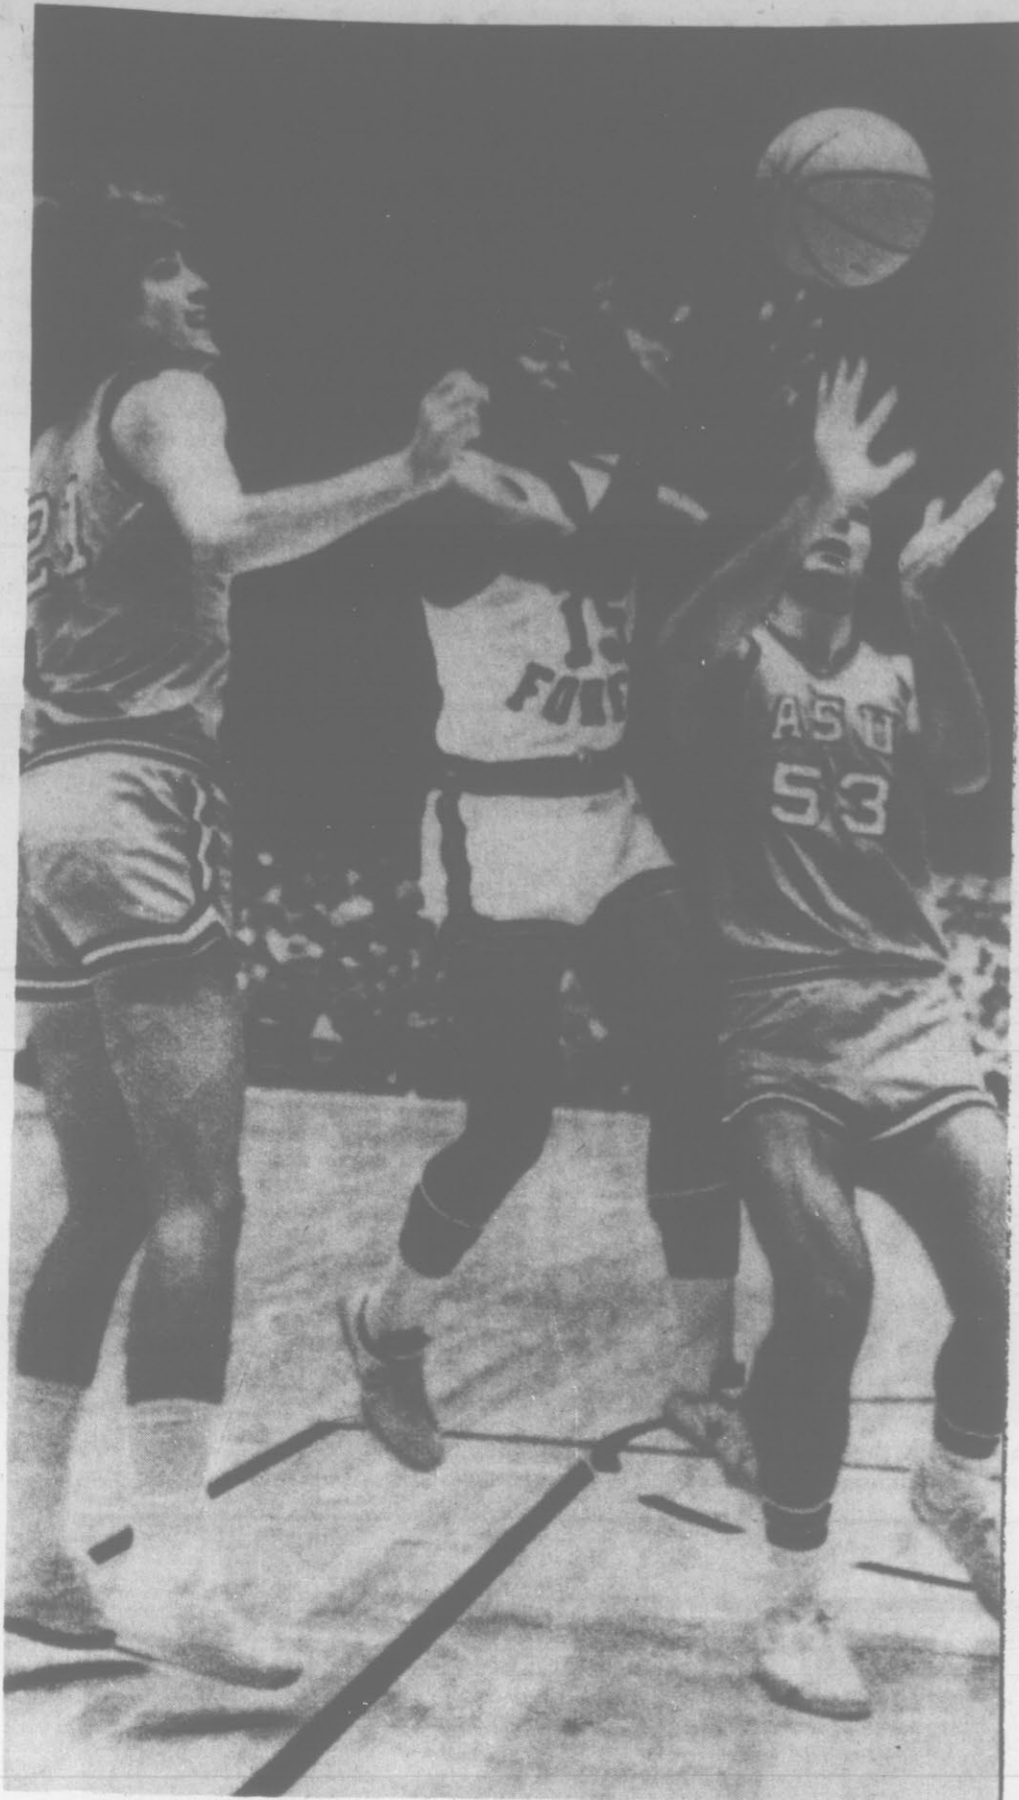

The Boilermakers started moving on two free throws by Garrett with 7:39 left in the game and went ahead to ice the victory by outscoring West Virginia 21-7 in the closing minutes of the game.

Garrett was high scorer with 27 points for Purdue, 4-1. Jerome Anderson had 21 points for the Mountaineers, 3-1.

Joe Meriweather scored 32 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to lead Southern Illinois to its stunner over Michigan. Meriweather led an aggressive Saluki team which outrebounded Michigan 48-30 and held the Wolverines without a field goal for almost eight minutes in the second half.

Elsewhere, Wayne Burris sank a 25-foot shot with one second left to lift Butler over Illinois State 79-78; Tony Parker hit a string of six points in the first half, starting Loyola of Chicago to a 101-6 victory over Nebraska Wesleyan; Ralph Ren scored 27 points as Fairfield shot a fabulous 69 per cent from the field to bomb St. Francis, N.Y. 110-87; Navy opened with a 14-1 lead and sailed past George Mason University 77-56; Wally Walker hit for 20 points to pace Virginia to a 73-51 triumph over William & Mary and Marvin Webster scored 20 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to lead Morgan State to a 70-63 decision over C. W. Post.

DEACONS STOP MOUNTAINEERS—Wake Forest's Skip Brown (15) makes a determined try at the ball while Appalachian's Ed Kane (21) and John Vukasovich (53) also fight for it. Wake took an easy 100-69 win in the game. (AP Wirephoto)

Barnes Held To Two Points By New York

By The Associated Press
Marvin Barnes didn't like the fans at the Nassau Coliseum Wednesday night, but it was the New York Nets that gave him the most trouble.

It didn't bother the St. Louis player too much that some faces in the crowd howled derisive comments, but it did bother him enormously that the Nets kept him quiet.

Barnes was held to a mere two points in the first half and that was one of the keys as the Nets rolled to a 117-96 American Basketball Association triumph.

"The Nets are the champions and it's just hard to beat them," noted the Spirits' celebrated rookie. "You get a night where Julius Erving only scores 19 points and you think you might have a chance to beat them. But they've got other guys, too. It just shows you what kind of a team they've got."

Barnes, bottled up by Billy Paultz, didn't score a field goal in the first half while the Nets bolted to a 57-35 lead. He wound up with 16 points and 16 rebounds, but many of them came after the game was decided.

In the night's other ABA games, the Memphis Sounds stopped the Kentucky Colonels 104-97; the Utah Stars beat the Virginia Squires 115-91 and the Denver Nuggets trimmed the Indiana Pacers 117-114.

While Erving scored 19 points and snared 13 rebounds, Paultz connected for 18 points for the Nets. The Nets scored the game's first basket and led all the way behind their two big men, holding a 29-16 lead at the first quarter before taking their 22-point margin at the half.

Lanier Stops T String Of Washington Bullets

By The Associated Press
How do you stop speeding Bullets? Throw Bob Lanier in front of them.

Lanier, the Detroit Pistons' superman, went flying through the air with the greatest of ease Wednesday night to help the Detroit Pistons beat the Washington Bullets 103-89.

The National Basketball Association victory, triggered by Lanier's 37 points and 20 rebounds, marked the first triumph by a Western Conference team over the hot Bullets, leaders in the Central Division.

"The Pistons played a whole of a game," said Washington Coach K.C. Jones. "When you have to play against a guy like Lanier, you just hope he has a night off. He'll get his 30 points no matter what you do."

The contest, incidentally, broke a three-game losing streak and marked the first time that Detroit had held an opponent under 100 points for the seventh straight time.

In the night's other NBA games, the Philadelphia 76ers stopped the Houston Rockets 103-96, the Phoenix Suns beat the Portland Trail Blazers 104-100, the New Orleans Jazz beat the Golden State Warriors 106-103 and the Cleveland Cavaliers topped the Seattle SuperSonics 97-95.

Lanier sparkled in his duel with Bullets' center Elvin Hayes, scoring 10 points in the third period as Detroit rolled up a 72-60 advantage.

Curtis Rowe scored 12 points in the first quarter and ended with 18 to bolster the Piston attack.

Phil Chenier was high for Washington with 18 points, while Hayes finished with 15. The loss broke a six-game Washington winning streak.

76ers 103, Rockets 96
Doug Collins scored 25 points in three periods for Philadelphia before leaving the Houston game with an eye injury.

The Rockets were down by 21 points midway through the final period, but 10 points by Ed Ratleff, who led all scorers with 28, brought Houston back within six, 98-92, with one minute remaining.

Suns 104, Blazers 100
Keith Erickson scored 26 points and hit two free throws with 17 seconds to go, leading Phoenix over Portland. Portland played without rookie center Bill Walton, who is out with a bone spur on his left ankle. He accompanied the team to Phoenix, but did not dress.

Jazz 106, Warriors 103
Former Warrior Jim Barnett and rookie Aaron James each scored 20 points, and New Orleans broke a seven-game losing streak by beating Golden State.

It was the third victory against 23 losses for the expansion Jazz, while the Pacific Division-leading Warriors fell to 17-9.

Cavaliers 97, SuperSonics
Jim Chones sank a field goal with 18 seconds left and Fred Foster added a free throw as Felix Millan hit in 14 straight National League games for the New York Mets last summer.

Cleveland pulled out its victory over Seattle.

No Decision By Gamecocks

COLUMBIA, S.C.—Trustees of the University of South Carolina interviewed Texas Tech Coach Jim Carlen and former Columbia area high school coach Mooney player Wednesday but did not decide if it would hire either as Gamecock football coach.

Board Chairman T. Eston Marchant said after the six-hour session, "The only thing I can say to you (newsmen) at this point is that we have reached no definitive conclusion."

Marchant said the members agreed to adjourn but "are on instant recall." He said no plans had been made for a future meeting and pointed out there is no deadline for a decision.

Also talking to the trustees was South Carolina basketball Coach Frank McGuire, who said he "asked to be athletic director."

When Paul Dietzel resigned as coach this fall, the university said he would remain AD at the will of the president.

Carlen has indicated he wants to be AD and coach. Player says he merely wants to coach.

Marchant did not say if the trustees would offer the jobs as a package but noted considering both "complicated the matter" and may have resulted in the lack of a decision. He noted the athletic director job "has been discussed at various stages with people all day long."

Carlen declined to make a statement as he left the meeting to return to Lubbock, Tex., where his Red Raiders are practicing for a Dec. 28 Peach Bowl date with Vanderbilt.

Player said, "I'm still optimistic." But he said, "I don't know if you can differentiate between Carlen's being hired and no decision."

Marchant indicated but did not elaborate there were major disagreements among the trustees.

Old Hollywood Stills Today An 'Art Form'

By GREGORY JENSEN
LONDON (UPI) — There on the museum walls are famous faces from Hollywood fan magazines—Clark Gable, Marlene Dietrich, Carole Lombard, Clara Bow.

In fact, the pictures which show these faces mostly appeared in fan magazines. A new exhibition at the Victoria and Albert Museum argues that movie magazine pictures were an art form all to themselves. "Hollywood Still Photography, 1927 to 1941" is exactly that. It shows 120 black-and-white portraits of movie stars, shot with infinite care by unsung photographers who developed an art form more influential than most people realize.

"These photographers had nothing to do with the making of films," a museum statement said, "but they established what we recognize as Hollywood's image."

It is the image of stars, of people who are glossily superhuman, without blemish, without a hair out of place except by design.

There is Gable lounging against a pillar, "the king." There is Greta Garbo, mysterious and beautiful, or Dorothy Lamour as a slave girl, or Jean Harlow spread sexily across a bed, or Robert Taylor in carefully censored beefcake—showing chest hair was taboo.

All the pictures, shown in blowups from the original negatives, are from the collection of John Kobal, a journalist who became a movie fanatic. He started collecting stills when Hollywood studios were simply throwing them away.

"Each studio had four or five stills photographers," Kobal said in an interview, "and their job was to photograph all the stars whenever they had a moment off. They were doing a job for a studio to sell dreams—silly men, selling dreams."

"But they did it with incredible artistry. When you see those images now, the impact is there—the wish for dreams, for escape—and they really captured it then better than at any other time."

These photographs filled fan magazines, loomed in cinema foyers, were scattered in the hundreds of thousands bearing the star's autograph or a reasonable facsimile thereof.

Bathing suit poses were out—those were for starlets, not stars. Stars did not pose in kitchens. Nudity was as taboo as a hairy chest, and the greatest sin of all was imperfection.

"We always retouched the pictures," George Hurrell, one of the greatest of stills men recalled, "because in those days there couldn't be a freckle or a blemish or anything. Even the men had their crow's feet removed."

Hurrell's comments on the stars he knew and photographed sprinkle the exhibition's catalogue. "Garbo was probably the sexiest gal among the whole bunch," he noted, "but she didn't project it for the camera."

Jean Crawford, first photographed as a befreckled girl-next-door, became Hurrell's favorite sitter.

"She believed in the star thing," he said. "She could make artificial poses seem so real, going on and on and loving it. She'd set aside a whole day, changing into maybe 20 different gowns, hairdos, makeup, everything."

Jean Harlow's deep-set eyes were hard to photograph. Claudette Colbert had such definite ideas of her looks that "every single shot was always shot from the same angle."

Such stars as Garbo, Dietrich and Crawford had a natural beauty that is timeless and unchanging. The men date more. Stills of Spencer Tracy, Fred Astaire, Ronald Coleman, even Edward G. Robinson peering at his reflection in a mirror-topped table—a favorite gimmick—all look incredibly young.

The people in these pictures are not real people, Kobal said. "They're icons. Stars had to be removed from reality, from the Depression problems, from anything that dealt with life. It was literally as if gods were stepping down from Olympus to temporarily deal with mortal problems."

Sites To Be In Inventory

The technological, industrial and engineering heritage of North Carolina is currently being explored by the division of archives and history of the Department of Cultural Resources.

Working with the National Park Service in Washington, the division is making an inventory of historic bridges, canals, waterworks, transportation facilities, power plants and industrial complexes. The inventory is being conducted under the Historic American Engineering Record (HAER) program.

The primary aim is to record existing structures rather than sites of earlier achievements. The more significant sites will

Editor's Note — Most people nowadays would rejoice if they struck oil in their backyards. But here's a place where they don't.

COMODORO RIVADAVIA, Argentina (AP) — Oil wells abound across southern Argentina, but for the sheep ranchers around here every new strike on their land is a curse.

"If I find oil, I'll hide the damned stuff," grumbled one rancher on the windy wastes of Patagonia. "The state company is so sloppy they stain our sheep, they ruin our land and we get nothing."

Worse, Argentine and foreign engineers say, if the state monopoly — YPF — were better run, Argentina could be self-sufficient in oil, saving $600 million a year at current prices.

Now YPF produces about 310,000 barrels of oil a day and receives another 112,000 pumped by international companies on contract, altogether about 85 per cent of the country's needs. It is Argentina's biggest company.

Argentine law says surface land can be private, but mineral rights belong to the state. A minimal compensation is paid for damage done, although administrative delays make that hard to collect.

"I agree we could probably be self-sufficient and we are hampered by tremendous bureaucratic problems," said a top YPF official. "But we have had five directors in 13 months. What can we do?"

He said YPF management

does all it can to protect range-land and stock, but added it is impossible to stop some workers from stealing lambs, leaving gates open and fouling water supplies.

Mechanics Are Needed

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — J. B. Creal, executive vice president of the American Automobile Association, says there is a serious need for more trained automobile mechanics.

Creal also advocated upgrading the mechanic training under sponsorship of the auto industry and federal and state agencies.

"What must be faced," Creal said, "is that the auto is far more complex today than it was a decade ago."

He said to service an entire car, a mechanic would have to be an electrician, glass cutter, welder, air-conditioning technician and radio repairman.

Creal said mechanics must be able to service thousands of different car models dating back 10 to 15 years, with about 400 variations on just the internal combustion engine.

The AAA official suggested that states set up auto repair bureaus patterned after the Bureau of Auto Repair in California.

He said the bureaus should be self-supporting and all auto repair shops should be required to register with them. Another requisite, he said, is that work should be guaranteed and redone free of charge if failure occurs within 90 days.

Most of Argentina's oil is produced in the surrounding province of Chubut, the southern neighbor province of Santa Cruz, and the territory of the bottom of South America, fields are on open rangeland where only sheep can bear the bitter winters and scarce water.

Comodoro Rivadavia was a

A major problem is that Argentines have an immense pride in YPF, considering it a symbol of economic independence.

"The oil has to come out, we are in favor of that," said Juan Tierra del Fuego.

M. Altuna, president of the Comodoro Rivadavia Ranchers' Society. "But they should use more care. It is a terrible problem."

He said estimates show that once grass here is disturbed it takes 10 years to grow back, if it ever does. He said some lambs die simply because they follow a truck, thinking it's their mother and they get lost.

Sportsman Switches From Stock To Art Market

Owning A Ten-Ton Fire Engine Appeals To Him

By TOM FENTON
Associated Press Writer
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A puzzled look crossed Frank Deuble's face when he was asked why he bought a 10-ton fire engine.

"Everybody asks that," said the 35-year-old director of admissions at the University of Albuquerque. "I bought it because it appeals aesthetically. It gives personal satisfaction.

"I've always wanted one and this one's got a bold, chrome radiator, flared fenders and gold leaf paint.

"I was taken with fire engines while growing up — the bells, the sirens, all the bright, shiny things. This truck is a collector's item."

Deuble's pride and joy is a 1953 Mack, 500-gallon-a-minute pumper, equipped with 36 feet of ladders, 1,800 feet of hose, axes "and a bell you probably couldn't buy today because the cost of bronze would make it prohibitive."

The truck was operational until this past summer with the Enterprise Volunteer Fire Co. of Hamilton Township, N.J. Deuble bought it for $3,250 after he saw it advertised in a national trade magazine.

Deuble, a Bernalillo County volunteer fireman, drove the truck from New Jersey to Albuquerque without incident this past summer, although he admits he was a bit nervous about such a long jaunt in the vehicle.

"It wasn't really made for long-distance driving," he said. "It's got an open cab and the metal flooring tends to pick up engine heat."

What do you do with a fire truck once you get it home?

"It's tough finding a place to hide it," Deuble said.

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the most collectible items on the art market is the enlarged color print of the annual federal duck hunting stamp, and the rarity of the 1975-76 print will be the decision of one man.

He is Alfred F. King III, who hunts ducks along the Eastern seaboard when he is not running Sportsman's Edge, Ltd., the only art gallery in the United States devoted solely to contemporary wildlife originals and sporting prints. King gave up a seat on the New York Stock Exchange after he opened his gallery three years ago and has no regrets.

"I kept the seat until last July just in case I wanted to go back but I didn't want to go — not the way the market is now," the youthful dealer said as he sorted prints in his East Side Manhattan showrooms. "The art market is good. My sales are up and I'm doing well."

King is the exclusive representative of artist James P. Fisher of Oxford, Pa., who won the 40th annual contest for the $5 migratory wildfowl stamp design in November. The contest is considered the superbowl of art competitions, even though it carries no monetary prize, because the champion stands to make a profit of about $100,000 from the sale of limited edition signed and numbered prints.

"We frame the prints along with an actual duck stamp and sell to collectors for about $100 each," King said. "The print of the 1971 duck stamp already is worth $1,500 on the market. It would cost about $51,000 to buy the whole series of prints issued since the government began in 1934 to bring out a different duck stamp each year. It's the only federal revenue stamp that changes annually."

King will decide just how many copies of Fisher's picture of a canvas back duck decoy with three live ducks flying in the background will be printed. There must be more than enough to satisfy all collectors of duck prints, estimated at more than 600, but not so many that the rarity of the print would be diminished. Some collectors consider any edition of more than 600 prints as not limited.

Fisher, 62, did not develop his talents as "the decoy painter" until he retired from business a few years ago. It was King who urged him to enter the stamp competition even though a picture of a decoy had never before been selected. There were 268 entries and Fisher's design was the choice of all but one of five judges. The stamp produces more than $10 million in revenue annually.

Sportsman's Edge displays a wide range of wildlife and sporting art including portrayals of African big game, race horses, deep sea fish, hunting dogs, wildfowl in habitat, sailing ships and scenes of fishing and hunting. Sculpture in bronze and wood depict wildlife and thoroughbreds. A new category is views of famous golf course by specialist Arthur Weaver.

"They're appealing to golfers and I've seen a whole wall of them in some country club clubhouses," King said. "It's not the greatest art in the world but it has its public. I may get into skiing and tennis art next."

Prints run from about $50 each unframed. Paintings range from $675 for atmospheric field and stream watercolors by Chet Reneson to $20,000 for a magnificent oil of a charging elephant by David Shepherd and $30,000 for one of Montague Dawson's masterpiece clipper ship paintings. Bronze sculptures begin at $700 and run into the thousands.

King has 800 buying customers including actor Henry Fonda, a clutch of DuPonts, Roosevelts, and Mellons, and others of an ilk who can pay $4,000 for a portrait of their favorite dog. The catalogue of Sportsman's Edge's inventory is a collector's item in itself and no giveaway. It is a lavishly illustrated book of high fidelity color reproductions that sells for $4.75.

"I believe in being first class all the way," King said. "I won't let a print go through with even the most minor imperfections. I use museum standards of framing. And I go to the best printers, American printers. European printers aren't setting the standards any more, even though their reputation lingers on."

because it "appeals aesthetically." (AP Wirephoto)

Family Could Save Water

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A typical American family can save up to 150 gallons of water a day by various measures, economists at Rockwell International Corp. say. Among them: use a dishpan for washing dishes, turn off the water tap while shaving, take a shower instead of a bath, run the washing machine only with a full load of clothes, and keep the basement water heater at an even setting.

Most Vacation Trips By Auto

NEW YORK (UPI) — A study shows that almost three of every four vacation trips lasting a week or more are made by automobile. The study by the Newspaper Advertising Bureau says the use of the car is somewhat higher in the summer than at other times of the year. Air travel is the second most popular transportation means for vacationers.

Saxbe May Get Ambassadorship

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford plans to nominate Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe as ambassador to India and is looking for a new attorney general, reliable sources say. "I'll soon be leaving," Saxbe told friends in Ohio Wednesday night. But he told reporters any announcement must come from the White House.

WILLIAM SAXBE

Administration sources and associates of Saxbe in his native Ohio said Saxbe has agreed to accept the ambassadorship.

The White House was expected to announce the choice of Saxbe to replace Daniel Patrick Moynihan as soon as the Indian government expresses approval, probably by the end of the week.

Saxbe was said to be well-acquainted with Indian officials because of several trips there since 1971.

The move would put the Justice Department in the hands of the fifth attorney general in as many years.

Ford has been under pressure from some members of Congress and other groups to rid the Cabinet of all the holdovers from the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon. No Cabinet members have left since Ford took office.

Saxbe was Nixon's fourth and last nominee for attorney general and was sworn into office last Jan. 4.

The former Ohio senator has figured prominently in weeks-long speculation about an impending Cabinet shakeup, even though he was never considered a Nixon loyalist and he maintained his independence from the White House during Nixon's final months in office.

But Saxbe was widely criticized for blunders during his first four months at the Justice Department. Always outspoken, he stirred the greatest criticism when he labeled kidnaped heiress Patricia Hearst "a common criminal" before she had been charged with a crime. Since that remark last April 17, Saxbe generally has kept his personal opinions to himself.

Announce New Plant In Bertie

LEWISTON, N.C. (AP)—Perdue Farms Inc. plans to build an $8 million poultry processing plant in Bertie County which will employ 400 persons.

The company, with headquarters in Salisbury, Md., made the announcement Wednesday at a reception held near Lewiston. Gov. Jim Holshouser, Frank Perdue, president of Perdue Farms, and Bertie officials attended.

Construction will begin immediately on a 230-acre site. The plant is expected to be completed in March 1976, and will have an annual payroll of $2.5 million.

Saxbe had announced his retirement from the Senate after one term when Nixon picked him as attorney general following the "Saturday night massacre" when Elliot L. Richardson and William D. Ruckelshaus resigned as the two top Justice Department officials.

They quit to protest Nixon's attempt to fire the special Watergate prosecutor. The Wall Street Journal reported recently that Ford is considering as Saxbe's replacement John Robson, a Chicago lawyer and friend of White House staff chief Donald Rumsfeld.

Contacted by telephone Wednesday, Robson said White House officials have not contacted him about the job. But he indicated that he would be interested in it.

PILOT TURNED WINERY OWNER—Tom Burgess, 35, who spent five years as a pilot in the Air Force and then as a corporate pilot for IBM for five more years, poses in the winery he now owns at St. Helena, Calif. Burgess says there isn't much difference between being a pilot and being the owner of successful winery. "Both are highly technically oriented, and both are extremely professionally oriented in their approach to the job," says Burgess. (AP Wirephoto)

Another Lockjaw Diet To Lose Forty Pounds

By MARLENE L. JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
WYANDOTTE, Mich. (AP) — Debi Horn wants to lose another 40 pounds. So she's had her jaws wired shut for the second time in a year.

Mrs. Horn, who became the first American to try the unique "lockjaw" diet in December 1973, says she gained back nearly five pounds since the wires were removed in July and now tips the scales at 162 pounds. She lost 73 pounds with her first diet.

"I got the wires put back on yesterday because I want to lose 40 more pounds," the 23-year-old woman said Wednesday. "It went faster with the wires on."

Mrs. Horn weighed 230 pounds when Dr. Gilbert Kleiff, a Trenton, Mich., oral surgeon, wired her mouth shut last year. "When you get over 200 pounds, that's ridiculous. My dad is over 6-feet tall and I was outweighing my dad, so I knew I had to do something," she said.

So for seven months she sipped a liquid diet through clenched teeth.

Mrs. Horn got the idea from a woman in England, Shirley Turner of Nottingham, who dropped from 247 to 146 pounds after having her jaws wired shut from November 1973 to May 22, 1974.

Kleiff said he has wired up more than 150 patients since Mrs. Horn drew national attention as the first to try the method in this country. But nobody in the dental or medical profession has done a follow-up study to see how the dieters are faring.

Kleiff said he is planning a follow-up study of his own wired patients, but the result won't be ready until next April.

Doctors say as many as 5,000 American women have had their jaws wired in a last-ditch effort to shed pounds since Mrs. Horn tried the procedure. But they say they still don't know if the diet is safe.

Mrs. Horn, who is getting a divorce from her husband — she says it has nothing to do with her diet — said her eating habits had changed following the initial diet.

"There's just me and my 3-year-old daughter. I make her eat three meals a day but I only eat one. And it's usually just soup and sandwiches at that," she said.

She says she is finding other things to do with her time besides eating now — "I do crafts and I'm learning to crochet." But she admits she still likes to cook.

Ask Aid On Newspaper

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of two newspaper organizations have urged federal assistance to increase the supply of newspaper.

Donald McVay, executive vice president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, told the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations Wednesday that Congress should approve tax incentives to make paper mill expansion financially attractive.

He also said the U.S. Customs Service should permit duty-free entry of lightweight newsprint from Canada, which currently supplies two-thirds of U.S. newsprint needs.

George A. Joplin III, treasurer of the National Newspaper Association, said newspaper manufacturers should be eligible for low-cost government-backed loans. Joplin is editor of the Somerset, Ky., Commonwealth Journal.

Joplin said that increased newsprint costs have forced some smaller publishers to put out thinner newspapers. He said some smaller newspapers are unable to sign supply contracts to assure a steady source of newsprint.

Still Seeks Vet School

GREENSBORO (AP) — Chancellor Lewis Dowdy says A&T State University has not abandoned its attempt to obtain the state's proposed school of veterinary medicine.

"Discussions about having a related facility at A&T have not supplanted our commitment to have the school located on our campus," Dowdy added in a statement Wednesday. "We have made a sincere and honest bid for the school and we feel strongly that we could sustain it. We are opposed to accepting any inferior related facility."

Giving North Carolina State University the school of veterinary medicine and A&T a related facility was advanced during last Friday's meeting of a subcommittee of the board of governors of the state university system.

"The idea of a related facility was advanced without our having any clear knowledge of what such a facility would be," said Dowdy. "So it would be impossible for me to have given our approval or acceptance of this idea. To this date we have received no details on what such a related facility would be."

Dowdy said A&T "shall look to the full board of governors for clarification and resolution of this whole issue."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DEC. 13, 1974

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's eclipse brings restless moods and makes one want to go dashing off to new scenes and new personalities. It is best you wait until evening before putting new plans into motion. Use your reasoning and motives instead of acting on impulse.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't make any radical changes on the impulse of the moment, or you could regret it later. Wind up week's business intelligently.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep busy at routines that have been left uncompleted. Don't discuss any new plans with your romantic interest. Relax tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you keep promises made to associates, you will gain their cooperation later. Avoid one who likes to criticize you. Be wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't procrastinate on work you want to do or it will be harder to handle later on. Listen to the suggestions of others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Amusements should be confined to the light and airy since the strenuous ones could lead you astray. Show true devotion to loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) if you want to improve harmony at home make sure you don't use harsh tones or criticize others. A gentle manner goes a long way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to exercise much care in motion if you wish to avoid an accident. Use reason when confronting person who has irked you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care you don't overspend at this time, or you will soon regret it. Use some latent talent and get a new lease on life.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care not to be blunt with persons who are overly sensitive, or there could be a big argument ensuing. Take it easy tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Consult your subconscious and know where you have erred and make the proper amends. A worthy person needs your help. Don't fail.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Listen to what others have to say but keep your own counsel, since your thoughts could be closer to the truth. Be poised.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't try to take advantage of the generosity of a bigwig. Handle routine duties efficiently. Show that you are a good citizen.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will do his or her best provided there is encouragement given early in life. Try to bring out the natural talents here early in life. Much devotion and intelligence here in this chart. The foreign fields are ideal for a life's career. Give ethical training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Rangoon Reported Quiet After A Day Of Fighting

By FREDERICK C. GRAY
Associated Press Writer
Rangoon was reported quiet today as troops enforced martial law, but an American embassy official said casualties in street fighting Wednesday were heavy and thousands were jailed.

Protests by students, workers and Buddhist monks in the Burmese capital erupted after the army's seizure early Wednesday of the body of former United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.

It was one of the strongest challenges to President Ne Win since he seized power in 1962. But Edward D. Franco, the information officer at the U.S. embassy, said in a telephone interview that the opposition to the government was not ideological, it was due to rising prices and widespread economic hardship.

Martial law was declared Wednesday afternoon after students and workers roamed the streets of Rangoon setting fire to police stations and other public buildings.

The government radio said one person was killed and three were injured. But Franco said this count was "way too low."

"We get reports many more were killed. Hospitals are filling up rapidly with wounded," he said.

He said there had been thousands of arrests, and "the military has been very heavy handed."

"Massive numbers of troops are in the city, surrounding all government buildings and patrolling the streets in convoys of trucks. They continue to surround the university and the new U Thant tomb by the Shwedagon Pagoda in the center of the city."

"The people have no arms." News censorship was in effect, and the government was restricting the entry of foreign newsmen to the country.

U Thant, a political foe of Ne

Win, died in New York on Nov. 25. A huge crowd of students and Buddhist monks seized his coffin from the funeral procession last Thursday, charging that the government was not paying him suitable homage, and interred it Sunday in a brick tomb on the Rangoon University campus.

Ne Win sent the army into the campus to recover the body after crowds flocked to the campus to pay homage at the tomb.

While Thant's body was hurriedly placed in a new tomb near the Shwedagon, the country's holiest shrine, "troops made repeated sweeps through the campus, arresting students who were trying to hide in the university buildings," Franco reported.

"Crowds of people started appearing, roaming the city of Rangoon, burning public buildings."

"Contrary to official reports, I saw no private looting. Public buildings, especially police stations, were the targets. There was a big fire at the government construction corporation, and small arms fire could be heard around the city."

"A special civil authority was established in Rangoon Wednesday morning, but at the request of the city government martial law was imposed at 4 p.m. and a 6 p.m.-to-6 a.m. curfew was imposed on the city."

"Last night was very quiet, and this morning is also very quiet. I saw no demonstrations, no public gatherings."

Cattle Drive To Butz' Offices

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen disgruntled over low prices for their beef are driving 50 head of cattle to Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz's doorstep.

In the last part of a "beef-in" that left Bison, S.D., late last week, the cattlemen planned to bring the cows by truck today to a makeshift pen just outside Butz's office.

Butz agreed Tuesday to meet with representatives of the South Dakota and Montana cattlemen, who are sponsoring the cattle drive, and the Consumer Federation of America.

The group plans to offer to present Butz with 10 of the cattle and have the rest slaughtered by union butchers for Christmas distribution to Washington's poor.

Whether Butz would accept the steers was unresolved, an Agriculture Department spokesman said.

The protesters scheduled a noon rally to explain the economic squeeze brought on by declining livestock prices and higher production costs.

The "beef-in" also is in protest of rapid increases in the mark-ups in retail costs due to middlemen.

About 5,000 pounds of meat are expected to be generated by the slaughter for the poor. A few animals also are to be used for a barbecue, "just to show them what good beef tastes like," one cattleman said as they left Bison.

Other cattlemen said the 10 cows being given to Butz hopefully can be used in a feeding test to demonstrate the high cost of feeding them.

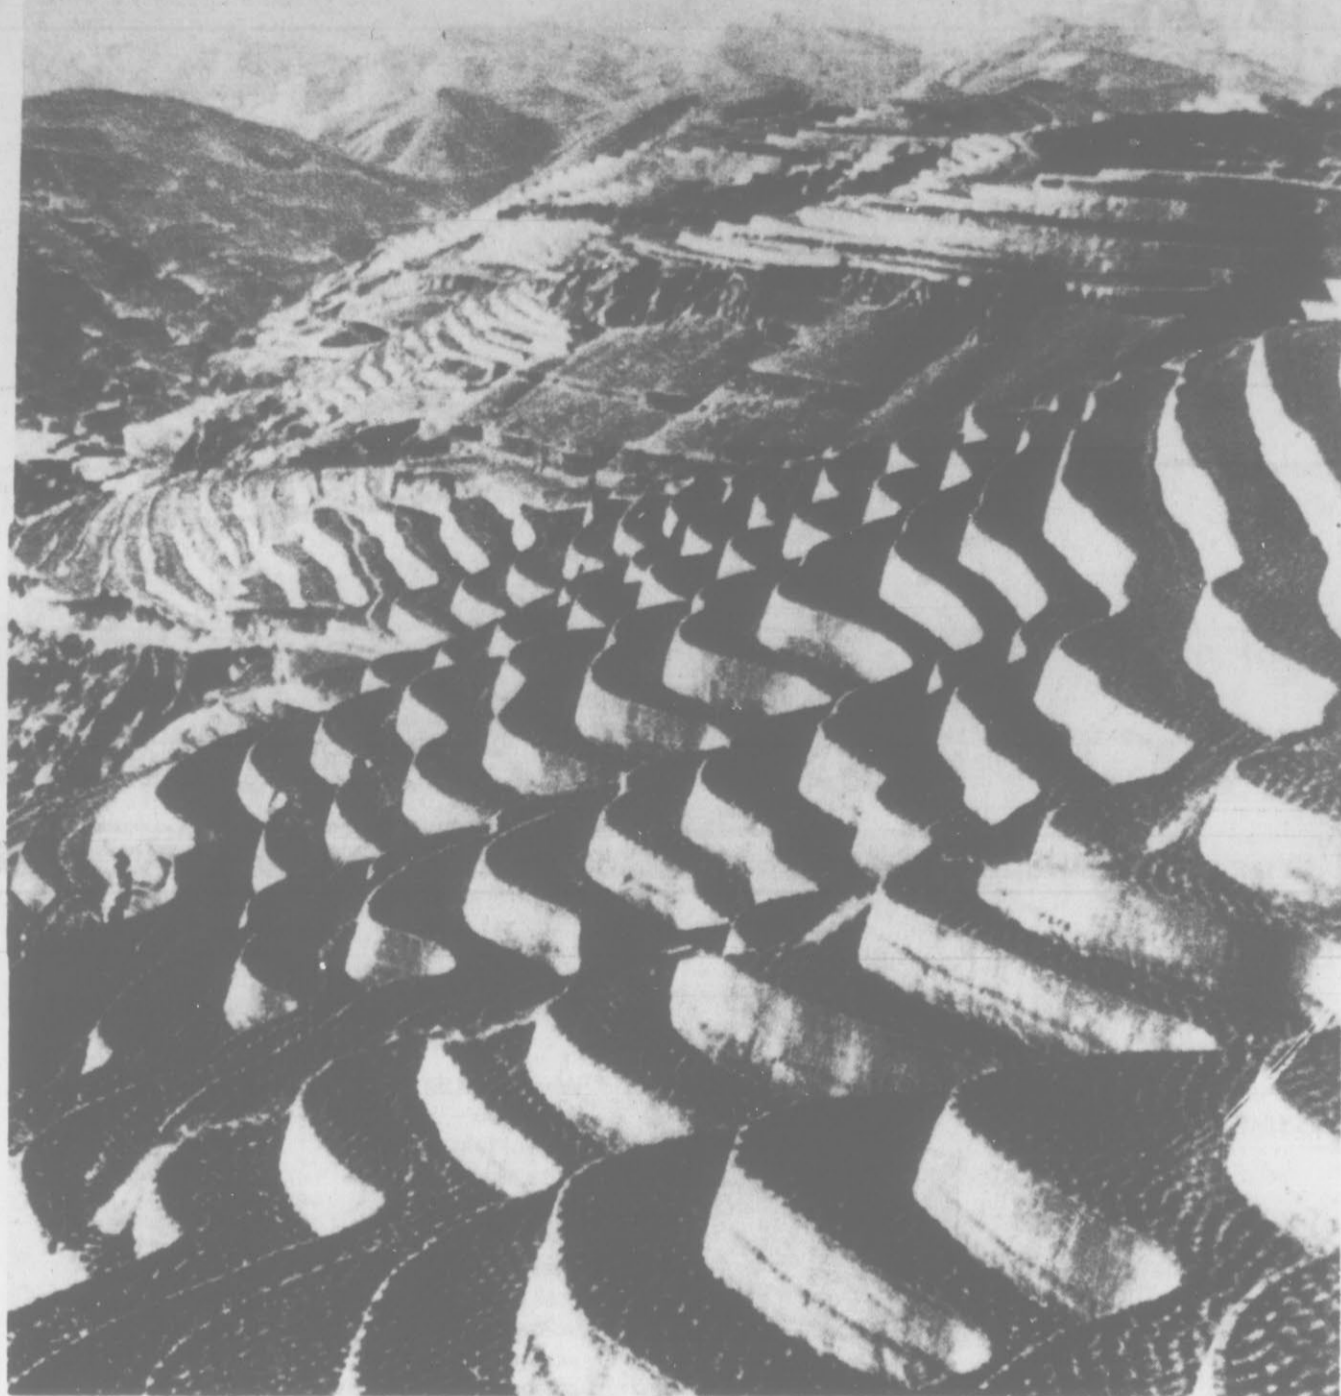

Geologists' Film On UNC-TV

"Waterbound-Our Changing Outer Banks," a film produced by two East Carolina University geologists will be shown Friday at 7:30 p.m. on the University of North Carolina Television Network.

The film by Dr. Michael O'Connor and Dr. Stanley Riggs of the ECU geology department traces the history of North Carolina's Outer Banks and examines the erosion problem that has created damage over the past several years.

It will be the feature presentation on UNC-TV's "North Carolina This Week."

Rhodesia Announces Ceasefire And Writing New Constitution

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Black and white leaders in southern Africa have taken their first major step toward detente by agreeing to a ceasefire in Rhodesia and a conference to write a new constitution for the former British territory.

Prime Minister Ian Smith, the head of Rhodesia's white-minority regime, announced Wednesday night that the war between his army and black guerrillas would halt immediately, he would release all black political prisoners and a constitutional conference with black nationalist leaders would be held soon "without preconditions."

It was the first breakthrough toward a settlement since Smith declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain in 1965 to block British plans for eventual transfer of power to the black majority.

Smith warned, however, that the "major task still lies ahead, with many complex problems." He gave no indication how far the whites were prepared to go toward satisfying the nationalists' demands for black power. But he called on Rhodesians of all races "to accept the new situation in our country, to put behind us the differences and recriminations of the past and to look to the future."

Rhodesia's 5.5 million blacks outnumber the 240,000 whites more than 20 to 1.

Smith's announcement came less than a week after the collapse of secret talks between black Rhodesian leaders and government representatives in Lusaka, Zambia. These were fostered by President Kenneth Kaunda of Zambia and Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa, and it was assumed that they had been busy ever since trying to get the two sides together again.

It is believed that the blacks have agreed to settle for the time being for something short of a government chosen by universal suffrage. That would leave the whites without any representatives, something Smith certainly would reject.

Some observers suggest the vote might be given to all adults with an eighth-grade education. This would enfranchise about 650,000 blacks, giving them a sizable majority. If that were agreed to, Smith presumably would insist on constitutional guarantees to protect the rights and property of the white minority.

A settlement would result in the lifting of political and economic sanctions which most governments imposed against Rhodesia after the declaration of independence.

Vorster, who has been fearful of large-scale guerrilla war in southern Africa since the Portuguese began transferring power to the blacks in their territories, welcomed Smith's announcement. "If the negotiations ahead are conducted by all parties in the same spirit, it is reason to expect that success will be achieved," he said.

Sweetheart Chosen By Honor Fraternity

Tau Chapter of Phi Sigma Pi national honor fraternity at East Carolina University has selected its sweetheart for 1974-75. Carol Lynn Cox from Burlington.

Miss Cox's major studies are in political science and she is minoring in psychology. Her hobbies and interests are traveling, skydiving, social or political activities and the study of government. Miss Cox is a senior at ECU. In the past she has been involved in various sorority activities and the Student Union. At present, she is on the staff of the "Rebel," ECU's literary magazine.

Phi Sigma Pi is a national honor fraternity which recognizes a tripod of scholarship, leadership, and fellowship.

Phi Sigma Pi is involved in student government activities and other organizations. The fraternity is active in the Red Cross blood drive, and provides an annual Christmas party for underprivileged children in the community.

Funds are raised for the Richard C. and Claudia Penneck Todd Scholarship Fund. This scholarship is awarded each year to a student who has exhibited the qualities of scholarship, leadership, and fellowship. Tau Chapter also recognizes outstanding male and female seniors of the year by special graduation awards.

$543,160 In New Building

Building permits totaling $543,160 were issued in Greenville during October, according to State Labor Commissioner Billy Creel.

Creel reported that Greenville totals for the first ten months of the year amounted to $6,661,916. Other area cities and their October and ten-month totals included: Elizabeth City, $52,900, $3,778,179; Goldsboro, $421,000, $8,969,080; Jacksonville, $422,739, $3,353,667; Kinston, $983,320, $8,874,314.

Creel reported that building permits valued at $49,721,438 were issued during October in 38 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population, down 21 per cent from the $63,042,246 reported for October of 1973.

The ten-month figure of $517,151,479 represented a 15.3 per cent decline from the $611,227,621 total for the comparable period in 1973.

Children Hosted By First Lady

WASHINGTON (AP) — Santa Claus, Mickey Mouse and a magician joined First Lady Betty Ford in entertaining 300 children of diplomatic corps families at the White House in the first presidential party of the holiday season.

"This is the season for happiness," Mrs. Ford proclaimed to her guests Wednesday. Many of the youngsters were in the native costumes of some of the 89 countries they represented.

"I don't think the rug will ever be the same," said a volunteer clean-up committee member afterward while surveying White House floors strewn with mashed cookies, broken balloons, paper cups and napkins.

Radio Mystery Series Is Popular

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Last January, the CBS Radio network, harkening to an era of radio many thought had died, began a seven-night-a-week thriller series with a show aptly called, "The Old Ones Are Hard to Kill."

On Jan. 6, the "CBS Radio Mystery Theater" will commence its second year on the air with "The Premature Burial" starring actor Keir Dullea in the first of seven Edgar Allen Poe stories to be dramatized that week.

"As far as I am concerned, this series is something that's going to go on and on and be bigger and better than ever," says Sam Cook Digges, president of the CBS Radio division.
It was Digges who provided the impetus for getting the 54-minute nightly series on the air last year, following a series of talks with veteran radio producer Hy Brown, who still produces the show.

Digges chuckled when asked if there was any point during the series' first few months on the air when he felt he might have made a mistake. "Nope," he said. "Once we got the thing on the air and got the kind of response we did from our stations and listeners, we knew we had a hit on our hands."

CBS Radio officials say the program currently is carried on 221 stations, 30 of which aren't CBS affiliates. They say that's approximately the same number that carried the show at the start.

Digges, who said veteran actor E. G. Marshall would continue hosting the series next year, said there wouldn't be many changes in the basic format of the show.
"We'll again do 195 new shows and 170 repeats, just as we did this year," he said. "I think you may see a few more detective stories worked in next year, but in general terms it'll go along pretty much as it has in the past."

The Worry Clinic Profanity Can Be A Symptom

Dr. John used an expletive. But only after "turning the other cheek." Note the various reasons why men resort to profanity. Repeated use of expletives by older men is often a symptom of impotence.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE C-621: Dr. John, aged about 55, is a former president of the Association of American Dentists (AAD).

While addressing that organization at its annual meeting, I enjoyed meeting him.

For he is a staunch defender of "Free Enterprise" and has considerable tact as well as platform skill.

But under the kid glove is a fist of steel!

For when he was making his address, a half drunken doctor in the rear gave him the Bronx cheer.

Dr. John waited for a moment till the disturbance subsided, then continued.

Again, the noisy protester interrupted Dr. John, who tactfully ignored him.

But when it occurred for the 3rd time, Dr. John's steel fist showed in his sudden change of tones!

"Doctor," he spoke directly to the trouble maker, "I want to give you 4 simple facts.

"First, I am a Texan.

"Second, I am also Irish.

"Third, I stand 6 feet 2 inches high.

"Fourth, if you interrupt my talk just once more, I'm coming down there and knock your teeth right down your throat!

Then Dr. John returned to his original speech.

There was no further disturbance from the floor!

For Dr. John's tone was like that of the Phantom, whose voice is said to make all creatures in the jungle tremble!

Expletives Diagnosed

"Dr. Crane," I have often been asked anent President Nixon's excessive use of expletives in casual office conversation with his employees, "what makes a man use profanity?"

Some uneducated males have been exposed to slang and cursing from earliest childhood, so they employ expletives for lack of a rich English vocabulary.

They don't even realize the poor taste and religious taboo against using God's name in vain.

Others, though of normal I.Q. and cultural background, may explode with an expletive infrequently and only under a sudden, unusual emotional situation, as when hitting one's thumb with a hammer or when intensely frustrated.

Dr. John is a cultured man who would not routinely curse in his daily conversation with his Dental Assistants or Dental Hygienists.

And he actually "turned the other cheek" by letting the drunk member of his audience interrupt him not only twice but even a third time.

Then he employed an expletive as a verbal "red flag" to signal impending danger.

But another use of expletives occurs when men are chronically afraid, as of impotence or failure to be respected by their employees or school mates or Army pals.

The same motivation occurs among slender, effeminate teenage males, who also will down liquor, smoke and drive recklessly to impress their companions.

The women in Johnny Carson's audience were recently asked if they approved of escorts who indulged in vulgarity and expletives, and they almost unanimously voted "No!"

So send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and pick quality matrimonial merchandise!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

'Peaches' Hunt Wants To Sing

By DOUG STONE
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) —

The daughter that H. L. Hunt always called "Peaches" says she doesn't believe money should rule her life. She just wants to make it as a singer.

"Peaches" is June Hunt, 29, the daughter of the Texas billionaire who died Nov. 29. She is thought to be one of America's wealthiest women because of her father's fortune.

But June says she isn't content to bask in the limelight cast by the Hunt empire. She's trying to make it in the entertainment world on her talent as a singer and guitarist.

She says that her great wealth frightens some people she meets and causes resentment in others.

"Money is necessary only to provide the necessities of life. It has nothing to do with true happiness," she says.

She will release her first record this month.

"It's kind of a novelty song. It's about a little blue man who follows this woman around," said Miss Hunt, who shuns flashy clothes and jewelry in favor of a conservative "tweed" suit and gold necklace with a Biblical fish symbol.

She crossed her hazel eyes, twisted her face into a pixie expression and said: "He keeps telling the woman: 'I lub you, I lub you.' Finally, she pushes him off the top of a tall building. When she gets down to the street, there he is again. And do you know what he says this time? 'I don't lub you anymore!'"

June Hunt says her singing began as a child when her father would pull her up next to him at the supper table of their home in Dallas and insist that she sing tunes that he liked.

Yogurt Reduces Cholesterol

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eating large quantities of yogurt can reduce your body's cholesterol level, reports the National Enquirer.

Despite the dairy product's innate high cholesterol level, tests at Vanderbilt University indicate there is a substance in yogurt which reduces the amount of cholesterol in your body.

Dr. George V. Mass of the National Heart and Lung Institute has achieved lower levels of cholesterol in 12 adults, each fed some two quarts of yogurt daily.

Headlights Are On For Safety

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company car and truck drivers are turning their headlights on for safety, according to company officials.

D.A. Collier, manager of the telephone company's operations in Greenville said operators of all company vehicles have been instructed to drive with their headlights on until January 5, "to make their presence known to other drivers and to pedestrians."

Collier noted that the move is intended to counteract distractions, such as Christmas decoration lights, that might take the attention of other drivers and pedestrians shopping or engaged in other activities during the holiday season.

"It's for safety," he emphasized.
