

Rockefeller Sworn In As Vice President

LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller began his first day as vice president by presiding over the Senate and then said he plans to be "as quiet and as helpful" as possible in working with President Ford.

Talking to reporters as he left the Capitol to return to New York with his wife, Rockefeller was asked about suggestions he might pose a problem for Ford.

"You can be assured right now," he said, "I'm not going to pose a problem for anybody. I want to be as quiet and as helpful and only do that which is appropriate and useful to the President and to the people of this country," he added.

Although aides had said earlier in the week Rockefeller would meet with Ford today to discuss his vice presidential assignments, they said today the meeting would take place Saturday afternoon at the White House.

As for the four-month delay in his confirmation, which ended Thursday night with a House vote and his swearing in, Rockefeller said "I was very pleased."

He said the 287-128 House margin was "better than any vote I got" in winning four terms as governor of New York.

Rockefeller, one of America's most experienced public servants and wealthiest men, used his inaugural address Thursday night to praise the congressional review that scrutinized his career and delayed his confirmation for four months.

Just hours before being sworn in by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger in a televised ceremony in the Senate, Rockefeller was confirmed by the House, 287-128.

President Ford, members of Congress and the Cabinet, Rockefeller's family and a host of New York officials were on hand to witness the inaugural.

Senate President Pro Tempore James D. Eastland, D-Miss., convened the ceremonies, and a committee of senators conducted first Ford and then Rockefeller into the Senate chamber. It was the first time television cameras were allowed in the Senate.

After taking the oath, Rockefeller read from his own handwritten notes scrawled on a yellow legal pad and told the nation: "There is nothing wrong with America that Americans cannot right."

The new vice president said: "I pledge myself to the fullest limit of my capacity to work with you, Mr. President, and the Congress in the great task of building the strength of America to meet the grave new problems which we confront as a nation and as people."

He later told reporters that he was delighted with the margin of his approval by the House rather than disappointed that 128 members voted against his confirmation.

"There are some Democrats who find it very hard to vote for a Republican," he said, reaching with a smile for the glass of New York state champagne handed him over the heads of the crowd by Nancy Kissinger, wife of the secretary of state.

Most of the questions raised about his fitness concerned the immense Rockefeller family fortune, later reported to be slightly more than $1 billion, and the ways Rockefeller had used it.

For weeks he answered questions about more than $2 million in gifts and loans he has made to associates, most of them employed under him as officials in the New York state government.

Rockefeller said the payments were made to help friends in personal need.

But as the hearings continued he said he had come to understand why some might be concerned about possible conflict of interest. He pledged to make no similar gifts to U.S. officials if confirmed as vice president.

Rockefeller's confirmation made him the second consecutive person to move into the nation's No. 2 office by appointment rather than direct popular election. Ford, the man who nominated him, was the only other vice president to assume office by that route.

93rd Congress Is About To Finish Its Work Today

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The 93rd Congress is ready to wind up its business with passage of a major international trade bill as its principal task. Acting Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said he was confident both House and Senate could finish their work today.

Byrd had hoped the Senate would have completed its tasks Thursday night, but it was unable to act on the trade bill and two other measures.

Both chambers stayed in session late to complete confirmation of Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president and to attend his swearing-in ceremony.

The House first and then the Senate are expected to act promptly on the compromise version of the trade measure and send it to President Ford, who has given the measure his highest priority. The bill empowers the President to negotiate tariff reductions with foreign nations.

The bill also contains provisions designed to ensure emigration of minorities from Russia and other Communist countries.

The House is scheduled to complete action on bills permitting the public media to carry news items and advertisements about state lotteries, extending antipoverty programs and revising the Hill-Burton hospital grant program. The Senate passed both measures Thursday.

In other legislative business, Congress sent to the President the session's final money bill containing $4 billion to begin funding public service jobs and assure a full 52 weeks of unemployment compensation benefits to workers covered by this program. This would be 13 more weeks than are now available.

Also sent to Ford was a continuing resolution making possible a $3.4 billion foreign aid program for the current fiscal year.

Another bill sent to the President would extend the Export-Import Bank but put sharp limits on the use of its funds for energy development projects in the Soviet Union.

Also cleared to the President was a bill designed to give consumers full information on warranties on all products costing more than $5.

Both houses also completed action on a bill meeting objections of colleges and universities to a law enacted earlier this year allowing students to inspect their school records.

The Senate sent to Ford a bill granting tax relief to military personnel who served as war prisoners in Vietnam and to members of families of servicemen missing in action in the war.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are major actions taken by Congress Thursday:

JOB: The Senate approved $4 billion to finance legislation to meet the nation's unemployment problems.

BUDGET CUTS: The Senate defeated a $5.5 billion spending cut, which would have brought the budget for this fiscal year to just over $300 billion.

SAXBE: Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe won Senate confirmation as ambassador to India.

WILDERNESS: The Senate completed congressional action on two House-passed bills to create new wilderness preserves.

WARRANTIES: The House passed the Senate-approved measure to require manufacturers to make warranties on products clearer to consumers.

RECORDS: Both houses passed a bill to ease the law permitting students to look at their school records.

TAXES: Senate-House conferees agreed on legislation to boost interest charged on back taxes.

POVERTY: The Senate passed and sent to the House a compromise version of a bill extending antipoverty programs but setting up a procedure to phase out the Office of Economic Opportunity.

EXPORT-IMPORT: The Senate sent to the White House a compromise bill to extend the Export-Import Bank and restrict use of U.S. funds for energy development in the Soviet Union.

Israel's Prime Minister Says Willing To Talk

By The Associated Press
Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin declared today he is ready to meet Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "anytime and any place" for peace talks.

In Jerusalem, a bomb exploded in a police car, wounding 13 persons and setting the car ablaze.

"It takes two sides to make peace. If you really want peace you have a partner in us," Rabin said. He spoke at a commercial and industrial luncheon club in Tel Aviv.

Rabin said Sadat had made peace gestures Wednesday in a television interview for ABC-TV and that he regretted that Sadat "speaks to American television audiences but not to Israel."

In the ABC-TV interview, Sadat repeated his acceptance of the state of Israel as a fact and proposed that the major powers guarantee Egypt's frontiers with the Jewish state. He also said he was hopeful that concentrated peace efforts in the next few months can avert a new war.

Rabin said Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy had made impossible demands for peace negotiations, such as a 50-year ban on immigration to Israel.

Combine Precincts

The Pitt County Board of Elections, meeting recently, voted to combine Greenville voting precincts Two and Eight into one precinct, designated as Precinct Eight.

In combining Precinct Two (Courthouse) and Eight (Rotary Building), the board unanimously approved a motion setting the polling site for the new precinct at the new Thomas W. Willis Building, located on the corner of First and Reade Streets.

The board action reduces the number of Greenville precincts to nine and eliminates both the Courthouse and Rotary Building sites as polling places.

Approving the motion to combine the two precincts were board chairman James C. Lanier Jr., secretary Thomas C. Herndon, and J. B. Spilman.

Development Planner For City Is Appointed

James L. Browder of Greenville has been appointed Community Development Planner for the city, according to City Manager Bill Carstarphen.

Since February of 1973, Browder has been a sales associate with the Louis Clark Agency here and prior to that time, he was associated with the Warner Lambert Pharmaceutical Corp. He has previous experience in the municipal planning field having served as planner with the Durham County Planning Commission during 1967 and 1968. Browder is a graduate of East Carolina University with a major in geology and history and minor in urban planning.

The new planner and his wife, Beverly, have two children and reside on N. Overlook Drive.

As Community Development Planner, Browder will be assigned to the city Planning Office where he will be responsible for coordinating the preparation of a comprehensive Community Development Program. In addition to working with city departments and agencies, he will be assisting neighborhood groups and citizen organizations in presenting their recommendations for Greenville's Community Development Plan.

According to Carstarphen, the city expects to receive an estimated $7.6 million during the next five years of the federal Community Development Program. Greenville plans to submit its first annual plan for federal approval in April of 1975, he noted. The first year program is expected to result in the investment of $1.9 million in public improvements.

Slight Drop In State's Unemployment Figures

RALEIGH (AP)—There was a slight drop in unemployment among North Carolina workers covered by unemployment insurance during the first week in December.

This was reported Thursday by the Employment Security Commission which said the jobless rate was 6.5 per cent for the period as compared with 6.7 per cent the previous week. But it was still double the 3.4 per cent reported for the entire month of November.

The only real bright spot in the state's employment picture was the fact that the announcing of layoffs has slowed down.

Officials said 84 companies reported 18,000 layoffs for the week. This compared with 43,000 layoffs announced by 107 firms the previous week.

The current unemployment level is the highest in a decade. The unemployment rate compares with 1.2 per cent for December of last year.

The textile industry continued as the hardest hit sector of the economy, but the rate dropped slightly from 17.3 to 16 per cent. There were 31 layoffs affecting 7,624 workers in the first week of December.

Unemployment increased in the hosiery industry, from 17.1 to 18.9 per cent. Apparel industry unemployment dropped from 17.1 per cent to 13.1 per cent. Furniture industry unemployment also declined from 12.5 to 10 per cent.

Other industries jobless rates were: construction 7.4, food products 13.3, tobacco 10.3, lumber and wood 14.1, metals 4.4 and trade 1.4 per cent.

HE'S WITHIN THE LAW

Is there a law against parking a transfer truck on the street in a residential area? It comes and goes a lot. I guess the man uses it for errands, too. D.H.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon and the Pitt County Sheriff Department said there are no city or county ordinances against a person's keeping a transfer truck at home if he wishes. Inside the City, it would have to be moved at least every 24 hours so as not to be considered an "abandoned vehicle."

VICTIM OF NO LIABILITY DRIVER

My husband was injured and his vehicle was totaled in a collision with a guy who the police said was at fault and who had let his liability insurance lapse. What should the victim do in a situation like this? Mrs. R.B.

Attorney W.W. Speight said you probably should talk to an attorney. He said, judging from the minimal information given him, that you might be able to institute a criminal charge against the man because no one is licensed to drive without liability insurance in this state. Also, he said, if you were to get a civil judgment against him, he could not get another driver's license unless the suit were satisfied.

Local insurance agent Bill Clifton pointed out the advisability of having uninsured motorist insurance. The standard rate for minimum coverage in this state is only $2 a year, because our state law requiring liability insurance makes situations like so rare. It's a good thing to have, Clifton said, though, because many drivers from out-of-state do not have liability.

Jones And Rose Voted Against

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nine of the 11 congressmen from North Carolina voted Thursday for the confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president.

Only Reps. Jones and Rose, both Democrats, voted against.

Voting with the majority which approved Rockefeller 287-128 were Democrat Reps. Andrews, Fountain, Henderson, Preyer and Taylor, and all four North Carolina Republicans, Broynhill, Martin, Mizell and Ruth.

Prosecutor Terms Action 'A Crime Of Love'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Robert C. Waters faces the possibility of 15 years in prison for what the Oakland County prosecutor calls "a crime of love."

Waters admits he helped his 65-year-old wife commit suicide. He pleaded no contest to manslaughter charges, and Circuit Court Judge William J. Beers accepted the plea as a guilty plea Thursday.

Waters, former village president of Clarkston and a former high school principal, entered his plea just after the Nov. 13 death of his wife, Kathleen. He will be sentenced Jan. 10.

In a statement to police, Waters, also 65, related how at his wife's request he started the engine of his car in the family garage, escorted her to the auto and left her inside the closed garage. She died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

"I said, 'Kathleen, are you sure this is what you want to do,' and she said, 'Yes,' and 'You leave me.' And I kissed her. She said, 'I love you, Bob,' I said, 'I love you, dear....'"

Waters said his wife of 40 years had contemplated suicide for a long time. He said she had a history of mental illness and had been treated for two slight strokes, high blood pressure, severe depression and arthritis.

He said she became despondent after being bedridden in 1973.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson said he isn't interested in having Waters punished; he said he brought the charges because the law says Waters had the responsibility to keep his wife from killing herself.

"The reason I didn't stop her was if she did not die here she was going into another medical hospital — mental hospital, psychiatric hospital — for care which she neither wanted nor would approve," Waters said.

Patterson said Waters' action "was not a crime of hate. It was a crime of love."

Amusing Ideas For Sick Kids

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Helen M. Donnelly knows some ways you can keep a sick child from being bored.

She teaches in a one-room school that's hospital white. It is at the State University Hospital, Downstate Medical Center, in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Sick and handicapped children are the norm there. In fact, only children who are inpatients can attend that school.

The illnesses of Mrs. Donnelly's pupils run the gamut from unexplained fevers to cardiac conditions requiring open heart surgery. When they are able, they come to class. She also makes bedside visits.

Mrs. Donnelly, who is licensed as a health conservation teacher, was asked what parents can do to keep children from being bored when they stay home from school because of sickness.

"The best thing to do is to play it by ear, according to the age of the child and the kind of illness."

"A mother or father can use many things available around the house — macaroni, paper plates, paper bags."

Here are some things to make:

—Paint macaroni, string together and make a necklace.

—Draw faces on plain paper plates. Stick on mustaches and "hair" made of scraps of material.

—Paper bags. Use to make masks.

A parent can also use games to stimulate learning. Examples given by Mrs. Donnelly include these:

—Have child make up stories based on a name, a character type, or a situation. If small, the child can dictate story into a tape recorder. If older, child can write the story and draw pictures to illustrate.

—Have child play games with words, birds, flowers, trees, cities, states. Give them a word an hour to learn or a bird a day to draw.

—Make greeting cards using paper and crayon or by cutting pictures out of magazines and pasting on.

—Children, well or sick, love to have stories read to them. They love television but it should be used sparingly and intelligently, especially when child is sick.

—Just drawing paper and crayons are the alltime favorite for children who must stay in bed or in the house due to illness.

—Small children in bed can make a train by cutting tops off boxes, painting or coloring them for decoration and string them together. They can fill these with cargo to pull across the bed.

—About clay. Most children like to model clay. The secret here is to take a large piece and pull the parts out — not to add pieces. When you add pieces they fall off when it dries. Once a child makes a clay thing, let it dry and then it can be painted. It takes a day for clay to dry.

Honors This Week For Jarvis Methodist Women

Three ladies of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church received honors, a Life Membership Award in United Methodist Women, during this week's Christmas program in the chapel of Jarvis Methodist Church.

Mrs. Charles E. Kavanaugh, Mrs. V. A. Lansche and Mrs. E. Hoover Taft Sr. were given the awards, a gold pin, presented by Miss Helen Perkins, treasurer of United Methodist Women, and Mrs. William H. Taft Sr.

The awards are given annually to outstanding ladies of Jarvis Church, members of United Methodist Women, based on service rendered during the years.

Three other awards were given by Miss Perkins: A baby membership was awarded Gloria Fleming Taft, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Taft by Mrs. William Taft Sr.; and special memberships to Laurie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Smith Jr., for serving as president of the Junior Methodist Youth Fellowship; and to Herb Oliver, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Oliver, for serving as president of the Senior Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Mrs. Phil Goodson Jr., president, paid tribute to the following deceased ladies of Jarvis Church:

Mrs. B. D. Johnston; Mrs. James Evans; Mrs. S.T. White; Dr. Marge Harrison; Mrs. Gladys Scoville; Mrs. W. B. Whitley; and Mrs. C. T. Mumford Jr.

A Christmas program was presented by Mrs. William Mitchum, Mrs. Dan Powers and Mrs. William E. Tripp, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Overton. They sang several Christmas carols and during the caroling, Mrs. Tripp read scripture verses.

Mrs. Ralph Tucker closed the program with a prayer.

A dessert was served by Mrs. William M. Reading Jr. and Mrs. Tucker, co-chairmen of refreshments.

Dr. Scott Is Guest Speaker

The Home Life Department of the Greenville Woman's Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. W.E. Roseveare. Dr. Alice Scott was guest speaker for the afternoon.

Her program topic was "Normal Nutrients for Adult Women." She was introduced by Miss Alya Ray Taylor, program chairman.

Mrs. Kelly Wallace, chairman, conducted the meeting and read a poem "The Joy of Giving." Mrs. Eula Mae Cannon gave the devotional.

Clothes were collected to be taken to Cherry Hospital for the patients. The group voted to purchase a Christmas gift for a patient at Cherry. Mrs. Ethel Ricks gave a report on the shut-ins.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Roseveare, Mrs. Harry Hastings, Mrs. Charles Whiteford and Mrs. Etta Bloom. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cannon.

Holiday Party Set For Saturday

Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, will hold their Christmas party Saturday night at the Moose Temple, according to Mrs. Peggy Jamieson, senior regent, who said that members whose dues are currently paid and their husbands and exerts are invited.

A social hour is planned at 7 o'clock, followed by a dinner at 7:30. Mrs. Linda Thompson heads a committee planning special entertainment.

Larry Anderson and the Country Travelers will provide music for dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., Mrs. Jamieson said.

Grandmother Should Issue Invitation

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I just had to write about the letter from "Missing My Grandchildren."

After my husband and I were divorced, I used to take my children over to my in-law's house a couple of times a month. They seem happy to see me and the kids, but sometimes I felt like I was imposing. After about six months, I decided not to drop in, but to wait for an invitation.

I'm still waiting, and it's been two years. We live in the same part of town and I have a phone. I think if they really wanted to see their grandchildren, they would call once in a while and ask about them, or ask me to bring them over, or maybe come to visit us.

I guess it's because I'm keeping the grandchildren away from them that they're not sending any birthday or Christmas cards.

Tell that granny who's missing her grandchildren if she wants to see them, she should pick up the phone and invite her former daughter-in-law and the kids over. If granny gets snubbed in the attempt, at least she can say she tried.

SAN BERNARDINO

DEAR SAN: Amen!

DEAR ABBY: My mother is in very poor health and I would appreciate it if you would advise me as to the proper attire for funeral services.

I look terrible in black, but I could buy either a dark gray or navy blue suit.

Also, what is acceptable for my son, who is 17? He has a new green plaid blazer which he could wear with a white shirt and black tie. Or do you think a solid color jacket would be more appropriate?

My two daughters are 12 and 14. Must they wear something dark, too? Also, should I carry gloves? If so, do you think white would be too conspicuous? Also, may I wear a small pin or pearls? Or is jewelry out of place at a funeral? Thank you.

NAMELESS IN N.M.

DEAR NAMELESS: You and your children should wear whatever you would normally wear to church. Don't buy anything especially for your mother's funeral. She may live.

DEAR ABBY: Your recent exchange on how to say no to sex reminds me of an old story that might bear repeating: "What's the difference between a lady and a diplomat? When a diplomat says 'yes' he means maybe. When a diplomat says 'no' he means no. When a diplomat says 'maybe' he means maybe. When a lady says 'no' she means maybe. When a lady says 'maybe' she means yes. When a lady says 'yes' she's no lady."

WALTER E. BLAKELY: BELOIT, WISC.

DEAR WALTER: Thanks for a dandy day-brightener. "Old" is right. But it's still good.

DEAR ABBY: A friend and I lunch together about once a week and we've been taking turns picking up the check. I notice that when it's my turn to treat, this friend orders three martinis and a full course meal. But when it's HER turn to treat, she orders only one martini, and then says she's not very hungry and all she wants is a sandwich, so naturally I'm not about to order a more expensive lunch than she orders.

It's beginning to irk me. She's not hurting at the bank if you know what I mean. How should I handle it? FED UP

DEAR FED: Go Dutch.

Dinner Party Held Sunday

The Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville held its annual holiday dinner party Sunday night at the home of Mrs. Joe Johnson.

Club members and their husbands were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

Dinner tables were covered with white linen cloths and centered with lighted red tapers surrounded by greenery. The invocation was given by Max Stephenson.

Hard Time For The Very Poor

This Christmas—more than any for a number of years in this country—is a time of economic uncertainty.

As a consequence there will be many families who will have little for Christmas, unless some organization can help.

Faced with soaring electric bills, higher prices for food, heavier costs for transportation, clothing and almost everything else we use, we suppose that every family feels a little poorer this year.

As a result most of us are watching everything we spend more closely, and this includes the money that we contribute to worthy causes. Thus the Salvation Army Christmas appeal program is some $5,000 behind its goal for the year.

Salvation Army Lt. John R. Jones reported that approximately $6,000 had been raised through Tuesday, but another $5,000 was needed to aid needy families at Christmas. He said 304 families have registered for aid, a considerable increase over the 250 families of last year.

Not only are the needy increasing in numbers but the Salvation Army program is beset by inflation, too. The cost of everything that the Salvation Army furnishes is up, which means that more money is needed.

The Salvation Army has distributed food baskets and toys to needy families and plans to distribute gift packets to patients at the hospital and the nursing homes.

All of us are caught in an inflation-recession squeeze this year and it is certainly a matter of concern for anyone who has to wrestle with the family budget. Most of us, though, are well off in comparison with the poor and almost everyone can, and should, spare a little for the poor at Christmas. The Salvation Army is a good place to put a gift to the poor to work for Christmas. And this year the need is more urgent than it has been for many years.

THIS AFTERNOON

Running Out Of Pay Funds

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—At a time when crime is a number-one concern for many North Carolinians, federal funds to provide a minimum salary for law officers are running out.

North Carolina is one of the few areas of the nation to provide professional, fulltime law enforcement officers to all city and county sections of the state.

Federal funds, channelled through the Law Enforcement Assistance Act, were earmarked to provide a $6,000 floor—paying the difference between what a community could pay, and that minimum, where necessary.

At the end of this fiscal year, those federal funds will expire, and State Bureau of Investigation Director Charles Dunn says about $1.8 million in state funds will be needed to keep up that support for minimum pay.

Even with a minimum salary of $6,000 it is not easy to get a competent lawman for a community, and many areas—particularly urban ones—pay much more. Salaries for beginning lawmen in some cities run $10,000 and up.

Money Is Short
But for rural, low-income communities, Dunn said, it is hard to come up with money for even the lower salaries, and while the General Assembly originally intended for local communities to pick up the tab and keep the minimum salaries going when the federal money ran out, there is resistance to that approach.

Some localities across the state are already seeking ways to avoid paying more from already meager resources. One ploy being explored is having the policeman in the town listed as a private guard rather than a lawfully constituted police official. Thus, the $6,000 minimum would not apply.

Such steps would defeat the purpose of the state's efforts at providing professional, fulltime law enforcement people, and officials believe that many present lawmen would be forced out of the field should their salaries be cut.

One proposal gaining some support among legislators knowledgeable in this field is an increase in court costs levied against people convicted of a crime.

Currently some 750,000 criminal cases are tried out annually, and a $3 increase in court fees earmarked for law enforcement pay would produce some $2.5 million.

The logic of such a move—in effect letting those convicted of crime help pay the cost of police salaries—appeals to some legislators. Faced with growing public outcry against the booming crime wave in the state, the General Assembly in 1973 will face a variety of possible steps in hopes of meeting the problem.

Some Steps

Being mentioned are such prospects as cracking down on the bail-bond system under which a number of crimes are being committed by people on the street awaiting trial on other crimes; re-classification of armed robbery to make use of a weapon in committing a crime a separate, more severe, offense; and a re-writing of criminal punishment law to provide stiffer penalties, and make them more uniformly applied instead of leaving it up to the discretion of courts.

Meanwhile, Dunn and his colleagues at the state level, are putting a lot of emphasis on professionalism and training for law enforcement officers. The minimum salary was a part of that.

Another step is the building at Salemburg Academy of a top-level training school for all lawmen in the state where advanced, professional courses will be available for SBI, Highway Patrol, sheriffs officers, and local policemen.

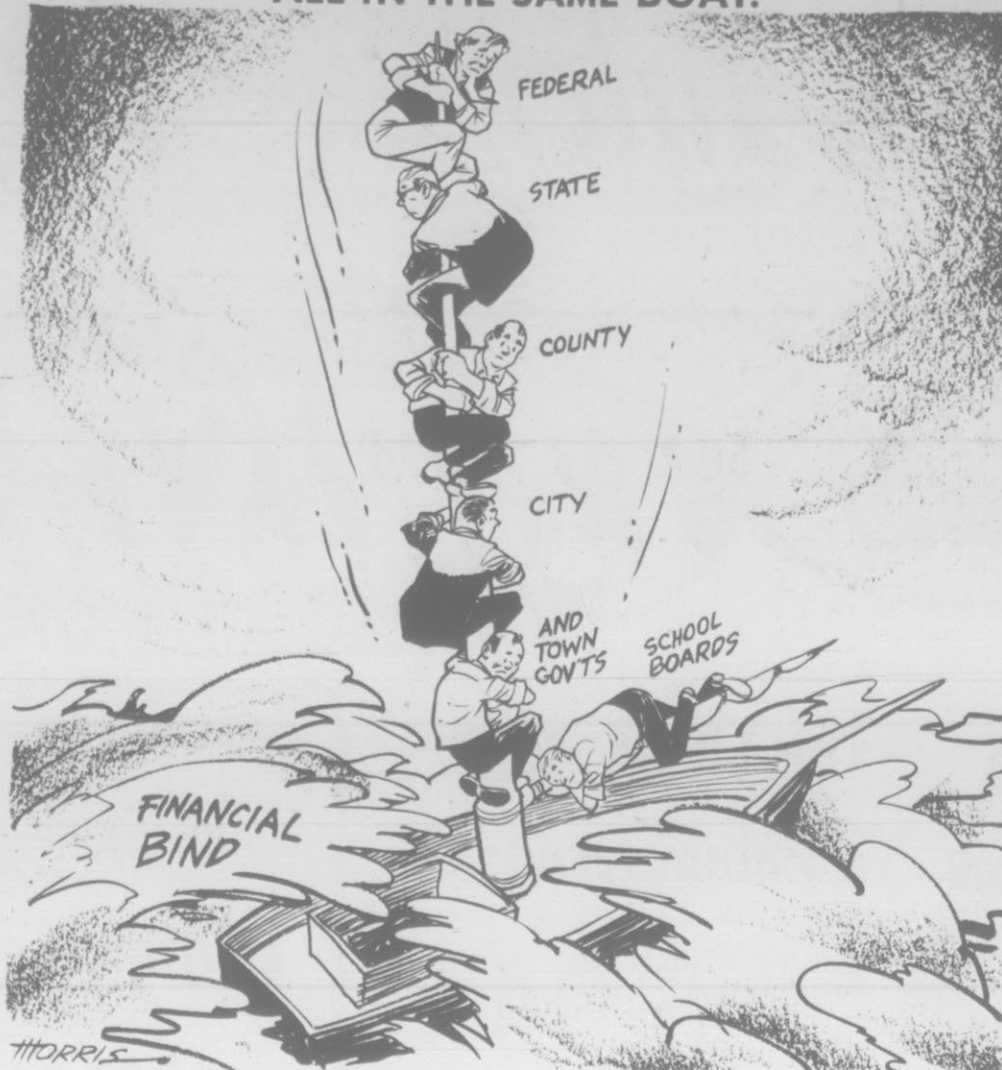

There is also discussion underway to move the state's Auto Theft Division out of the Department of Transportation, putting it under Dunn's wing.

Dunn thinks that is logical, since his people do the laboratory work and provide assistance in auto theft cases—a major crime category.

Also facing the 1975 General Assembly will be a proposed $5.5 million headquarters building in Raleigh for the State Bureau of Investigation which currently operates out of nine different locations—including some old houses on Blount Street. That means, Dunn told the legislative commission on governmental spending recently, that just to say "Good Morning" to his staff would take half a day.

The proposed new building would pull all the laboratory, identification files, ballistics, and administrative offices under one roof for the first time.

ALL IN THE SAME BOAT!

Congratulations, Rocky

Hon. Nelson Rockefeller
Executive Office Building
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Vice President:

May I offer my congratulations on finally being confirmed to the second-highest office in the land. You join a long list of famous and illustrious people in this distinguished post, including Elbridge Gerry, Daniel Tompkins, George Dallas, Hannibal Hamlin, Schuyler Colfax, Garrett Hobart, Thomas Marshall, Charles Curtis and Spiro T. Agnew.

Some Americans tend to make fun of the Vice Presidents of our country, but they're wrong. It is a job which demands tremendous knowledge, great statesmanship and extreme tenacity—all of which you need to get in to see the President.

I don't want you to get too excited by Mr. Ford's promises to make you "his strong right arm." Translated into presidential terms this means you will be sent to swearing-ins of new heads of state (which recently became a full-time job), attending funerals of departed world leaders, speaking at party fund-raising dinners and playing golf with Bob Hope.

Your desk is in the Executive Office Building, separated by an alley from the White House, and only a three-minute walk to the President's office. Unfortunately, there is a wall of presidential aides stationed in the alley, most of them former all-American linebackers, who are prepared to tackle any Vice President who tries to see the President.

For your own safety I would suggest that, if you really want to see the President, you go in the tourists' entrance and then make a dash for the Oval Office. The presidential aides will be expecting you to come across the alley and if you have luck you could make it.

Occasionally, the President holds official ceremonies in the Rose Garden and you might wangle an invitation to one of those. If you arrive early, you can get a good spot behind the rope and see the President close up.

I know one Vice President of the United States who actually got to meet the President when he pretended he was the father of the March of Dimes poster child. Another good way to see the President is at the Army-Navy football game, particularly at halftime when he crosses the field to sit on the other side.

Now I know what you're going to ask next. "What do I say if I ever get to meet the President?"

The important thing is to be yourself. President Ford is a very simple man and he will immediately put you at ease. If he asks you a question, don't hesitate to answer. Many Vice Presidents become tongue-tied in the presence of the President of the United States. But remember this: He puts on his pants every morning the same as you do (even though on some occasions his don't fit).

The President will probably ask you about your family and what you do for a living. Don't beat about the bush. Tell him you're the Vice President of the United States and, if he wants details, make them up. On no condition admit to him that you don't do anything because President Ford is always looking for ways of cutting the budget, and you certainly

Calley Begins Change

By KATHRYN JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) —

William L. Calley Jr., no longer haunted by the possibility of confinement in the My Lai murders, has begun a new, private lifestyle.

He's moving into a new apartment with no "old memories," seeking a job in which he won't be exploited and no longer dating his longtime girlfriend.

The 31-year-old former Army lieutenant, in his first real taste of freedom since he was charged in the My Lai massacre more than five years ago, is apparently sinking into the anonymity he desires.

Calley was convicted in March 1971 for the murder of 22 South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968. The conviction later was reversed and appeals are still pending.

He soon will move from his present apartment in the same complex in which he spent nearly three years in house arrest, to a new one off the Ft. Benning post.

"He wants to get away from too many old memories," said Calley's local attorney, Kenneth Henson.

"He's moving very cautiously about a job. He doesn't want to be exploited for promotional purposes," Henson said in an interview.

"He's looking into a business for himself and has been checking into construction work and also is seriously considering furthering his college education."

The stubby, rusty-haired Calley has consistently refused to grant interviews until his case, now under appeal by the Army, is over. Even then, says another of his lawyers, J. Houston Gordon, "he's a saleable commodity."

A close friend, who declined to be identified, said Calley and Anne Moore, who was at his side throughout his lengthy court-martial, no longer date.

Miss Moore, an attractive green-eyed redhead, took the

INSIDE REPORT

Sadat: Time Running Out

By ROWLAND EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's inability to show political success from his dramatic turn to the U.S. after the Arab-Israeli war last year now threatens him and his pro-American policy with direct consequences: a probable political upheaval sometime in 1975.

Such a calamity could occur even if Secretary of State Henry Kissinger does make progress in his effort to arrange a second-stage Israeli withdrawal from the Egyptian Sinai Peninsula. At the end of any second-stage negotiation there must be Israeli agreement to return either the seized Egyptian oil wells in the southern Sinai or the strategic Mitla pass, both of which Israel publicly says it will not return under present conditions.

But the harsher fact is that, despite everything Kissinger is now trying to do in secret diplomacy to arrange that second-stage negotiation, most experts here are already writing it off. The (SET) coup de grace would be delivered after Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev makes his visit to Cairo next month, a visit steeped in ominous portent.

The tightening box in which Sadat now finds himself explains the sudden upsurge of highly nationalistic rhetoric from Sadat's chief aides, most particularly Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi. In a toughly-worded statement of conditions for any long-range Arab-Israeli peace, Fahmi on Friday demanded an end to all Jewish immigration into Israel for the next 50 years.

Moreover, Fahmi's list of long-range peace conditions was specifically triggered by Israeli Prime Minister Itzhak Rabin's blunt characterization last week of Egypt as "the key Arab country" in any Arab-Israeli peace equation, while such bellicose Arab states as Syria and Iraq are being armed to the hilt by Moscow. Such invidious comparisons compound Sadat's explosive political problems.

Arab diplomats here are now saying Sadat has given up virtually all plans for making a state visit to Washington which seemed so fruitful just a few months ago. He is, instead, sitting in Cairo waiting for the arrival of Brezhnev, but his leverage to bargain with the Soviet leader is being reduced every day.

In the first place, the Brezhnev visit is a symbol of the drastic decline of Sadat's postwar hope to cement a close and permanent relationship with Washington. Almost a full year has now passed without a single visible mark of new progress by Kissinger on getting Israel off the Sinai Peninsula. Thus, Sadat's invitation to Brezhnev by itself hints at the bankruptcy of his pro-American policy.

But more important is the fact that Sadat's army commanders, deprived of Soviet weapons—particularly spare parts—during the long U.S. courtship, now desperately want a resumption of Soviet arms, even though they fear and distrust Moscow. The reason is that the Middle East into expectation of war next spring and Egypt's army has grave military shortages.

Brezhnev's bargaining power, then, is high indeed in Sadat's Cairo. The Russians did send a couple of low-tonnage transports of military gear to Cairo last August—the only shipments since Sadat began his love affair with "my friend Henry" a year ago—but they carried routine stuff like jeeps and trucks. Sadat's army, confronting an Israel in which U.S. arms are now stacked like cordwood, badly needs weapons against the possibility of a new war.

There is only one place he can get them, and that is from Brezhnev.

Accordingly, unless Israel

Other Editors Say Matching Funds

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

Matching funds seem to imply some magic formula to alderpersons, commissioners and other public officials. They seem to have the feeling that it will be tragic if their community does not get its fair share. In some instances, matching funds serve a useful purpose. In others, the federal government helps you get a program started, and then the responsibility of keeping that program going, falls squarely in your lap. There is no pot at the end of the rainbow in such a situation.

Typical of the matching funds syndrome is now happening in Birmingham, Michigan. The state of Michigan has a Department of Natural Resources (DNR) which is providing matching funds for various outdoor projects within the state. Included in the list is the construction of outdoor swimming pools. Believe it or not the town, which is about the size of Chapel Hill, wants to build an $800,000.00 public swimming pool.

According to the Birmingham newspaper, the pool application was rushed through city offices over Thanksgiving weekend in order to be in Lansing on the deadline date of Monday, December 2. City staff and consultants worked throughout the Thanksgiving holidays, and a snowstorm, which may have hampered mail delivery, caused the city planning director to make a special trip to Lansing to hand deliver the request.

The Michigan program may be a good one. The thing that disturbs us is the $800,000.00 cost for a public swimming pool. Just how much would the citizens of Birmingham invest in a public pool if no matching funds were available? A lot less than $800,000.00 we predict.

Private To Public--And Return?

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) When investment money was plentiful and the stock market active in the 1960s a lot of privately held companies decided to go public — to sell their shares to the highest bidders.

In the process, the original shareholders often became wealthy. Their holdings soared in value as the public scrambled to get in on the action, sometimes doubling the market value in just a few hours.

Some of these same companies now talk about going private. With share prices badly depressed, the dominant shareholders seek to buy back the shares held by smaller investors and return the company to limited ownership.

In the process, the dominant shareholders again stand to make a profit, since the repurchase price today quite often is below book value. That is, the company could be liquidated for more than its current share value.

The owners who sold shares to the public at premium prices in the 1960s now find themselves in a position to buy back the shares for a fraction. And nothing apparently stops them from going public again, when prices and market activity are more to their liking.

"What is happening is, in my estimation," says A. A. Sommer Jr., a Securities and Exchange Commission member, "serious, unfair, and sometimes disgraceful, a perversion of the whole process of public financing."

Sommer is one of the few public officials who has spoken out strongly against the procedure, which sometimes begins with a letter to shareholders, informing them:

"The management of the company believes that it is in the best interests of the company and its stockholders to return the company to a privately held status."

The simplest way of doing this, Sommer points out, is to offer the minority shareholders a stipulated price, usually something a bit above the market price. It appears to be a fair, take-it-or-leave-it offer. It isn't.

The minority shareholder can decide to keep his shares, hoping for a rise in market value. But in so doing he faces enormous risks. To remain a shareholder if most others decide to sell, could be foolhardy.

If the number of shareholders drops under 300, for example, he will lose much of the federal protection afforded investors. The company might lose its stock exchange listing, thus reducing the stock's liquidity. The investor might even find himself unable to sell at any price in the future.

The ultimate outrage of such actions, as Sommer sees it, is that the money for repurchase of shares almost invariably comes from the corporate till — that is, from the shareholders' assets.

These activities seemingly are permitted by the laws of the various states, or at least seem to comply with the mechanical provisions of those laws. But Sommer believes

CHURCH BELLS

At the close of World War I the Belgian government placed a large sum of money in the hands of a Cardinal Mercier to enable him to rebuild Belgian churches which had been damaged by warfare.

Surprisingly, instead of using the money to restore walls and roofs and other parts of the structures, he first reconstructed bell towers and installed bells in them. When many parishioners protested against what they felt was an impractical expenditure of money and effort, the Cardinal merely smiled and went on with his work. He said that religion would never again be restored to the hearts of the people until they could hear the church bells sounding out over the peaceful Belgian countryside.

The Cardinal had a rare wisdom. In the last analysis, which is more important, the so-called practice things of this world are intangibles like ringing bells which remind us that God is in the world, that beauty still lives, and that right is destined to triumph?

'Know' Reds Have MIA Data

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The United States says it knows "conclusively" that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have information on what happened to 87 missing Americans, although this does not mean they are alive.

The U.S. delegation to the Joint Military Team called on the two delegations today to supply information on the fate of the Americans "forthwith."

The America Embassy disclosed that it began giving personal folders about the soldiers — including articles and photos that appeared in North Vietnamese publications — to Vietnamese Communist officials in April 1973. It said the last folders were turned over two months ago.

The folders also contain photos, physical descriptions, maps and transcripts of radio transmissions from U.S. air crews in the case of downed pilots, an Embassy spokesman said.

The names of the 87 men were not made public. The spokesman said the information from North Vietnamese publications about them does not necessarily mean they are alive, but it does show that the Communists have information on their status.

The U.S. note to the Communist delegations said because of their failure to account for the 87 men, they "stand convicted in the court of world opinion of blatant and shameful disregard for the basic principles of humanity."

The Viet Cong had no immediate comment.

The U.S. memorandum accused the Communist delegations of "cynical and callous disregard" for their pledge in the Vietnam peace agreement of January 1973 to provide information on the missing and the dead.

J.A. Norris Is Named Prexy For Louisburg

LOUISBURG—Dr. J. Allen Norris, Jr. was named president of Louisburg College today.

The announcement was made at a morning press conference by E. Hoover Taft of Greenville, chairman of the Louisburg Board of Trustees.

Dr. Norris will succeed Dr. Cecil W. Robbins, who has been president of the Methodist related college for 17 years.

Dr. Norris is a native of Raleigh and is now vice provost and professor of education at Rollins College in Florida. He received his BA, MAT, and PhD at Duke University. He is 37 years old.

The choice of a new president was made by a search committee headed by Dr. Leo Jenkins of Greenville. Jenkins is a member of the Louisburg Board of Trustees, as is Mrs. W. P. Moore of Greenville.

Louisburg is the oldest junior college in the United States, having been founded in 1787. During the past five years it has doubled its land area and doubled its dormitory space. There are 15 students with Greenville home addresses enrolled this year.

"We are fortunate to have the services of such a dedicated and experienced person," Taft said of the appointment. "His youth and vitality will be an asset to the college's development."

stand last February in Calley's first civilian appeal to be freed on bail, to describe him as "a very delightful person."

Miss Moore, a recreation worker with the Red Cross at Ft. Benning, declined comment on their apparent breakup. During his years of house confinement, she held his power of attorney.

Henson declined to say where Calley gets the money to live or if he's paid his heavy attorney fees and expenses.

Calley's present modest apartment in which he moved soon after he was freed on bail, is not costly but he wears modish, well-cut suits and apparently feels no pressure to take a job.

He's had job offers, Henson says, but they appeared to be the type in which "he would have been exploited."

In seeking bail, Calley told the court he needed to work in order to pay heavy legal costs. Several veteran groups have collected funds for him.

makes a highly unlikely offer to Sadat of an extremely generous withdrawal from the Sinai, at the very least including either the Egyptian oil wells seized in the 1973 war or the strategic passes in the north of Sinai, Sadat's precarious perch will soon become politically untenable. Either he will be forced back into the Soviet embrace or his political enemies, always skeptical about his dalliance with Washington, will try to do him in.

There is one other alternative: a decision by Egypt that Moscow be given equal partnership with Washington in all future efforts to settle the Arab-Israeli struggle. But to prevent just such a "partnership" has always been one of Kissinger's fundamental policies since the day he began his courtship of Sadat.

Reports Purse Was Snatched

Donna Jones, 18, of Route 8, Greenville reported to Police yesterday that her purse was stolen as she left a drug store near the intersection of Ninth Street and Dickinson Avenue yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon quoted Miss Jones as saying a man snatched her purse from her hand as she stepped from the building at 911 Dickinson Ave. about 1:06 p.m.

Investigation of the theft is underway, the chief noted.

Club Opens To Single Women

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Charlotte City Club, an exclusive luncheon and social club for businessmen, is opening membership to women—but only if they are single or legally separated.

They will pay $125 a year dues. Men pay $320 in addition to a $500 initiation fee.

The club manager, Fairley N. Johnson said the board of directors believed "there are ladies of high standing in the business community...who would make good use" of the club.

Hue Wilbert Walston, a junior at East Carolina University majoring in Special Education, will deliver his initial sermon as a lay minister at the Philippi Church of Christ at 3 p.m. on Sunday, December 22.

HUE W. WALSTON

A native of Tarboro and the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. James Walston, Hue is a 1972 graduate of Rose High School and is a member of the ECU AFOTC. He is married to the former Barbara Jean Daniel of Greenville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roxie Kennedy.

The public is invited to attend.

'Living Nativity' On Lawn Of Church

Memorial Baptist Church will have a living nativity this year on the church lawn with students from the youth group of the church participating.

According to Rose High junior Robert Wease, who is coordinating the program for Memorial Baptist, the nativity can be viewed this Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings from 7 p.m. until 9:15 p.m. Wease, who noted that the students are from Aycock Junior High, Rose High School, and

Says Prayer Risky In S. Korea

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Prayer can be risky, says an American missionary expelled from South Korea. In fact, a prayer is what led to his ouster, he adds, and prayer meetings have spread across the land as channels of protest against government oppression.

"Those prayer meetings are the greatest thing that ever happened and they're being held all over Korea," says the Rev. George Ogle. "You've never heard such fervent, specific prayers. It's what irks the government about Christians."

In its authoritarian view, he says, "the queer thing about the Christians is that they think there is something even higher than the government," and that's what puts the dynamite in the praying.

"The prayers are that injustice be removed, that the persecution cease, that political prisoners be released, that President (Chung Hee) Park be converted and lead a revitalization of democracy in the country," says the Rev. Mr. Ogle, from Pitcairn, Pa., and a United Methodist missionary in Korea for 20 years.

In his own case, he related on arrival here this week, the pressure against him, including lengthy interrogation and finally his abrupt deportation Dec. 14, was touched off by prayers he led at a church meeting.

"I prayed that we would see Christ's suffering symbolized in those who were suffering now through persecution and imprisonment, in the seven men under the death penalty who probably had not done any crime," he said. "I prayed for their lives and for their souls."

That's what got him in trouble, he said. "That's what did it."

He said the seven men had been condemned as Commu-

Malpractice Insurance Rates Hike Permitted

RALEIGH (AP)—Saying he was "forced" to act, State Insurance Commissioner John Ingram Thursday granted a temporary 82 per cent rate increase in doctors' malpractice insurance written by St. Paul Fire and Marine Co.

Ingram's decision came after a week-long hearing on the rate request during which he was told that some doctors might quit their practice after Jan. 1 if they were unable to get malpractice insurance.

Ingram told a news conference the temporary order would be in effect until June 30. St. Paul insures more than 90 per cent of North Carolina's 4,500 doctors against malpractice suits.

In his order, Ingram made no mention of two other malpractice insurers in the state, Aetna Life and Casualty Insurance Co. and Shelby Mutual Insurance Co. He is expected to issue an order before the first year of the year dealing with these companies. They have said they will stop writing such insurance Jan. 1 if Ingram doesn't approve their requested rate of increases.

Aetna is seeking a 132 per cent increase and Shelby a 200 per cent boost.

During the hearing, Ingram was told Doctors are willing to pay more for their malpractice insurance. He was told they would refuse to see patients if they are not insured.

Ingram said the hearing "began under the cloud of a threat of nonrenewal and termination" and "ended under the same cloud."

St. Paul stood by its original position that it would not renew policies after Jan. 1 unless granted the 82 per cent hike.

Ingram said he would ask the 1975 General Assembly to abolish terminations and cancellations of essential insurance. He added, "Such legislation will prevent excessive rates."

He said that during the hearing "evidence was clear that reserves for pending claims were grossly overstated. Hard historical evidence proves that this company had actually paid out in dollars for claims and loss adjustment expense less than 20 per cent of the premium dollars collected over the past 17 years. The 82 per cent

16-Year-Old Given Life

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 16-year-old girl convicted of stabbing a North Carolina woman to death in a bus station restroom has been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Baltimore Criminal Court Judge John R. Hargrove imposed the mandatory sentence Wednesday on Mary Washington Brown of Baltimore.

Miss Brown was convicted by a jury last week of first-degree murder in the fatal stabbing last Jan. 19 of Charlotte Lessem, 68, of Fayetteville.

Miss Lessem was stabbed seven times at a bus terminal shortly after she and a companion had arrived with plans to catch a plane for a vacation trip to Bermuda.

Tina Louise Green, 16, told the court she went to the bus station with Miss Brown and saw her draw a knife on Miss Lessem in the restroom.

Miss Green, who pleaded guilty to attempting to rob the

Work Shifts In Nativity Scene

SUMTER, S.C. (AP) — Young people of Sumter's First Church of God will attempt to establish a world's record for the longest continuous live nativity scene beginning at 6 p.m. Friday. It is scheduled to end 102 hours later at midnight Christmas eve.

The scene would involve 25 people in four shifts, portraying Mary, Joseph, an angel, a wise man and a shepherd. A donkey and two cattle will also be in the life-size stable.

Adult members of the church are sponsoring the project and pledging money to participants to buy a bus.

Gave Party For Special Class

The Service Committee of the National Student Speech and Hearing Association and Girl Scout Troop 220 gave a Christmas party for the pre-school deaf class at East Carolina University, Thursday.

The Scouts played games with the children, served refreshments, and sang songs. Gifts made by each group were exchanged among the children and the Scouts.

victim, said she discarded her own knife and ran before the fatal stabbing occurred.

Miss Brown denied the stabbing during her testimony. The prosecution brought out that she was arrested when she sought hospital treatment for a cut hand.

"It tastes like real whole milk."

An independent research firm recently asked 100 women if they could taste the difference between Maola's low-fat Great Shape and two leading brands of regular whole milk. Most of the women who usually drink regular milk couldn't tell the difference. We don't think you'll be able to, either.

Give up calories without giving up taste.

It was a tiny park in a small town. But I thought the tree was the biggest Christmas tree in the whole world!

A scent of evergreen and snowflakes mingling still comes back to me, and I remember looking far to the top where a huge star sparkled against a black velvet sky. I wondered if God were looking down, admiring our star.

Yes, God was there—in the heart of old Mr. Cunningham, his banker's dignity stuffed in a red flannel suit, and in the blue fingers of Miss Lucy, coaxing carols from a wheezy organ. He was there in baskets of food brought by the Ladies Aid Society and in neatly stitched quilts made for the orphans by the Women of the Church.

Today, more than ever, people need to learn the love of God from the warmth of their fellowman. Your church teaches faith through works. Go to your church and know the joy that comes from helping others.

Retirement 'Realistic': Ervin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Admittedly sorry that he won't be around come January, Sam J. Ervin Jr. says his decision to leave the Senate after 20 years was realistic "although I can still hit on a couple of cylinders."

Ervin, who retires this month at 78, already has had most of the books and other materials in his office packed and shipped. For practical purposes, this is his last week in the Senate and the office he has held since 1954.

He inherited the office from the late Sen. Clyde R. Hoey, D-N.C., who died in midterm in 1945. Ervin was appointed to succeed Hoey.

"He died of a heart attack—sitting right here," Ervin said as he leaned back in a leather-covered chair. "This has been a North Carolina office since 1945."

Ervin, a self-style country lawyer, is completing a congressional career that brought him national attention in his final months in office, as chairman of the Senate committee that investigated Watergate and former President Richard Nixon's involvement.

In a recent interview, Ervin says he sensed early in the investigation last year that Nixon was implicated in Watergate, "but we couldn't prove it because we couldn't get the tapes."

The tapes - of conversations in the White House - remain the biggest mystery of all about Watergate, Ervin said. He said he still could not understand why Nixon made them, "but the thing that was his undoing was the fact that he didn't destroy the tapes."

Ervin said his suspicion was finally confirmed with the release last August of a tape in which Nixon and Haldeman discussed how to block the FBI investigation of Watergate several days after it occurred.

"The tapes make it manifest that, by his own words and his own tapes, recorded at his own instance, that he was in on the obstruction of justice from virtually the beginning," Ervin said.

Ervin said President Ford made a grave mistake in pardoning Nixon. "He did infinite injury to what I think is the most fundamental principal of sound government - and that is that all men stand equal before the law regardless of what position they have occupied," the senator said.

Ervin says he will return to his home in Morganton, where he plans to renew old friendships, do some fishing and write a book on "the fights in Congress I've been in to try to preserve the basic freedoms."

He also plans to appear on ABC-TV every few weeks as a guest commentator and to make occasional speaking tours.

"I've tried to stay off Watergate when I went around speaking but when I spoke on other topics, why, they'd usually have a question and answer period and that was about the only thing anybody wanted to talk about," he said.

Ervin said it was his Senate friends that he would miss most in leaving Washington.

"People have been very nice to me here, but I've always felt that whenever I've gotten outside North Carolina, I've been a displaced person," Ervin said.

Would Curtail 'Poorly Trained' Physicians

DURHAM (AP)—The head of the Duke University medical complex says physicians trained in substandard medical schools abroad are posing a serious threat to U.S. medical care.

Dr. William G. Anylan, vice president for health affairs at Duke, told reporters at a briefing there should be a sharp curtailment in the number of foreign trained physicians practicing in this country.

Anylan told the reporters there is "no comparison" between the quality of U.S. trained physicians and many of those coming from Southeast Asia, Mexico and Italy.

Physicians trained in Canada, the United Kingdom and Western Europe generally are on the same level of quality as doctors produced in this country, he said.

Anylan pointed out that foreign trained physicians now comprise 20 per cent of the American Medical Association and an estimated 5,000 of them arrive every year.

"Significant numbers of them are poorly trained," he said.

Anylan said foreign medical graduates include both Americans who go abroad for medical training and foreign nationals who come to the United States.

Many of these physicians, Anylan said, are produced by medical schools in Guadalajara, Mexico, and Bologna, Italy, and some cannot pass licensing examinations for foreign trained doctors.

Some of these physicians find their way into state institutions as "another pair of hands to help meet staff shortages," Anylan said.

He said North Carolina has few foreign trained physicians since most of them gravitate toward heavily populated states such as New Jersey.

Anylan said the number of these physicians can be cut sharply by requiring them to pass the same examination and licensing procedures required of U.S. doctors.

He added that U.S. medical schools should be expanded to produce at least 10 per cent more physicians a year, to reduce reliance on those from other countries.

Local Cadet Earns Place Among Elite

CHARLESTON, S.C.—Cadet Marion E. Mosier of Greenville is one of 56 cadets who have been named to The Citadel's elite Summerall Guards.

In winning positions on the precision drill team, these cadets have achieved the ultimate in military accomplishment. They were selected for the honor from some 400 eligible cadets after competition which lasted several weeks.

The Guards, named for the late Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former president of The Citadel, perform a drill that consists of intricate close order movements known as The Citadel Series. A widely-traveled marching unit, the Guards have participated in parades and events throughout the nation. They annually serve as honor escort for King Rex during Mardi Gras festivities in New Orleans.

Mosier, a senior, is majoring in history at The Citadel where he is enrolled in the Navy ROTC program.

He holds the rank of first lieutenant within the South Carolina Corps of Cadets and serves as provost marshal of the Fourth Battalion.

He is a member of the rod and gun club and in his junior year he was one of 14 students to gain membership in the Junior Sword Drill, a precision saber unit.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Mosier, Rt. 1, Greenville.

Yuletide Parole For 251 Inmates

RALEIGH (AP)—It's home for Christmas for 251 inmates of North Carolina's prison system.

This developed Thursday when Gov. Jim Holshouser followed an old custom and granted Christmas paroles to the 251 inmates.

The order provides that all prisoners whose terms are due to expire between today and Jan. 2 will be released today.

Recent Initiate Into Honor Soc.

ROCKY MOUNT—A Greenville student, Debra Ann Stancill, was formally initiated into Omicron Delta Kappa at N.C. Wesleyan College at a ceremony held recently.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honor society and Wesleyan was the fourth college in North Carolina to be granted ODK affiliation. The honor society stresses excellence in five fields of college activity: scholarship, student government, athletics, fine arts and publications. Wesleyan's ODK Circle was chartered in 1972.

Miss Stancill, a junior chemistry major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stancill of Rt. 4, Greenville. She is a member of Chi Beta Phi, an honorary science fraternity, and is a dean's list student at Wesleyan.

300,000 Auto Workers Idle In January

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Reduced production schedules will force layoffs for as many as 300,000 auto workers in January, a good indication that auto industry executives expect no dramatic upturn in car sales.

Heavy layoffs in 1975 were expected, but one United Auto Workers union insider expressed near-shock that they will "come so quickly and will dig so deep" at General Motors and Ford Motor Co.

"There will be real hardship, and it could be worse than our worst fears," one union official said Thursday.

The UAW's chief economist, Timothy Nulty, was quoted recently as saying, "We expect industry layoffs to hit 250,000 for any given week by February."

But cutbacks announced at GM and Ford in the past two days already push the figures higher than that for January, and more cutbacks are expected as component parts plants adjust to assembly cutbacks.

Ford said Thursday it will cut first-quarter 1975 production 28 per cent compared with the 1974 period to give dealers a chance to unload a three-month supply of unsold new cars.

The cutbacks will increase the firm's temporary January unemployment rolls by 64,000 workers, most of them at 17 of Ford's 20 assembly plants closing for one to seven weeks between Jan. 6 and the end of March.

Ford said it is adding 8,700 workers to open-ended layoff rolls, bringing the firm's total to 27,000.

Industrywide, some 289,000 auto workers will suffer layoff time sometime in January — about 40 per cent of the total blue-collar employment of 690,000 at the four U.S. makers. Indefinite layoffs will total 149,000 by the end of January.

The 1974 production year ends Saturday, and an industry trade paper said Thursday that December production will be a 23-year low, while production for the year will be the lowest since strike-plagued 1970.

The decrease from 1973, estimated at 24.5 per cent, will be the sharpest drop since the 1958 recession.

And production schedules for the first quarter of 1975 offer no hope of a quick reversal, as Ford and GM have already shown.

General Motors, which makes almost half the cars built in the United States, said Wednesday its first-quarter production will be the same as in early 1974 when production was extremely low because of slack sales caused by gasoline shortages.

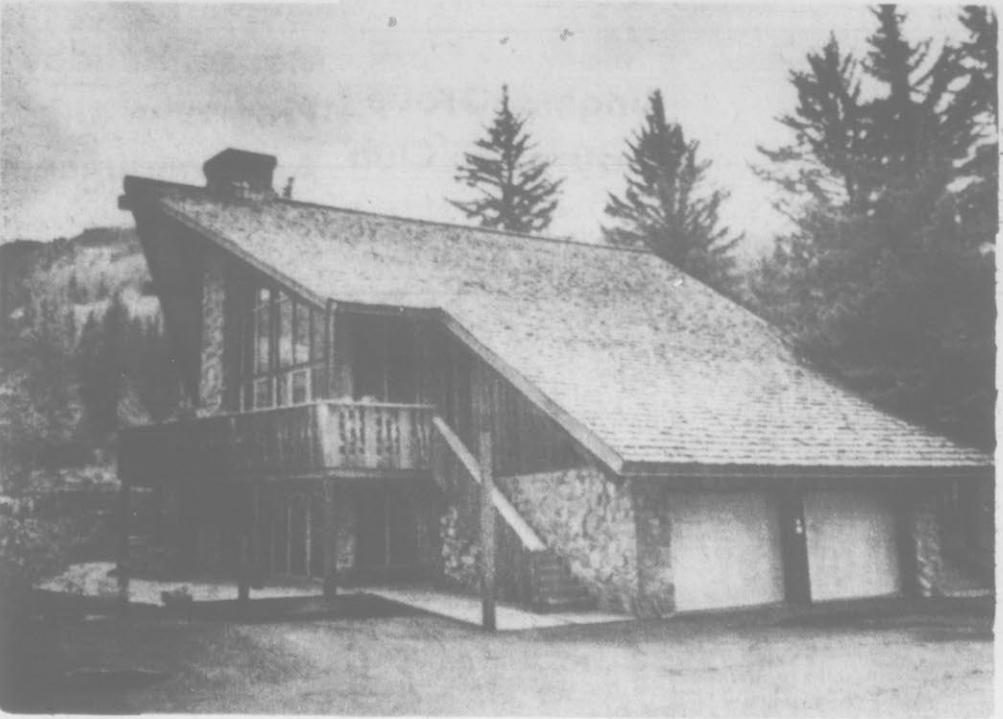

Chrysler Corp. has not yet released its production plans, but sources have reported that half the firm's six assembly plants will likely be closed throughout most of January.

The mounting layoffs, tied to the cutbacks in production already threaten special unemployment funds at GM and Chrysler Corp., and a union source says the funds could face depletion at Ford if poor sales and mounting layoffs continue.

Car sales are off about 30 per cent compared to a year ago and this week's cutbacks are considered by industry observers as solid evidence that the auto giants expect no quick turnaround.

Industry sources predicted January car production would be among the lowest in the past 20 years.

PRESIDENTIAL VACATION HOME—President Gerald Ford and family will use the home of Richard D. Bass during their skiing vacation at Vail, Colo., over the Christmas and

New Year's holidays. Environmentalists are upset because Bass holds a federal coal lease that would be directly affected by Ford's action on a pending strip mining bill. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — News of persisting two-digit inflation helped push the stock market lower in fairly active trading today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.05 at 601.38, and losers more than doubled the number of gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

At the opening, the Labor Department reported that consumer prices rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 10.8 per cent in November, equalling October's rate.

That development had to come as a disappointment to investors who had been hoping for signs that inflation was easing as the recession deepened, analysts noted.

Another government report showed that factory workers' earnings, after taking inflation into account, fell 1.7 per cent last month.

General Cable was the most active issue on the Big Board, rising 1/2 to 7 1/4. A 100,000-share block changed hands at 7.

Allied Chemical lost 1/2 to 30. The company estimated higher fourth quarter earnings but said it expected a dip in the first half of next year.

Upjohn was down 2 1/4 at 45 1/4, Burroughs lost 1 1/2 to 74 1/4 and Texas Instruments was off 1 1/4 at 65 1/4 in a general decline in the sector.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .21 at 35.41.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index ropped .31 to 60.07.

Ryan Homes, the Amex volume leader, was unchanged at 13.

Bucs Seek Fourth Win Against Mercer

Greene Central Downs Chargers

LITTLEFIELD—Greene Central slipped to a 46-39 victory over Ayden-Grifton's Chargers last night as the two teams closed out their pre-Christmas activity. The Rams also took the junior varsity game, 45-34, but Ayden-Grifton lassies salvaged their part of the evening, 37-24.

In the girls' contest, Ayden-Grifton scooted out to an 8-4 lead over the Ewes in the first period of play. They came back with a 10-4 advantage in the second quarter, pushing their lead out to 18-8 at halftime.

Both teams tossed in ten points in the third quarter, but the Chargerettes finished it up with a 9-6 margin in the final frame to wrap up their fourth win in seven starts.

Audrey McCarter led the scoring with 13 points, while Tena Smith added 12. Judith Tripp paced Greene Central with 14 points.

The Chargers also inched out into a tight 12-11 lead after one period of play in the boys' game. But the Rams came back to double the Charger output in the second quarter, 12-6. That pushed the Rams into a 23-18 lead at intermission.

Ayden-Grifton made a comeback in the third period, hitting 12 to Greene's nine, but that still left the Rams up, 32-30, going into the final frame. The Chargers were unable to close the gap, and were outhit, 14-9, falling to their fifth loss. For the Rams, it was their sixth win in eight tries.

Walter Swinson led the Rams with 15 points, while Bennie King had 10 to lead the Chargers.

Tarboro Nips Williamston

WILLIAMSTON—Williamston High School's Tigers lost a heartbreaker to Tarboro High School last night, 62-60, closing out their 1974 cage play.

The Tigers held the lead at 60-58, and had the opportunity to increase it at the foul line, but missed. Tarboro went down and scored to tie it up, and Williamston again missed in the closing seconds. Then, with the ball at the Tarboro end of the court, 6-6 Tyrone Whichard scooped up a loose ball in the lane and shot it through right at the buzzer to give the Vikings the victory.

Tarboro had pushed out into in early land, building up a 15-10 margin in the first period of play. Williamston came back with a 17-16 advantage in the second stanza, and trailed only 31-37 at the half.

In the third period, Williamston continued to chop away at the Tarboro lead, outhitting the Vikings, 19-15. That left the two teams deadlocked at 46-46 going into the final frame.

Al Forrest led Tarboro with 23 points, while Dwayne Hussey had 14 and Whichard had 13. For the Tigers, Barry Wallace hit 14, JoJo Purvis had 13 and Wayne Hodges added 12.

Tarboro also took the junior varsity game, 50-43.

Williamston's girls, idle for several weeks, will resume their play tonight in the Peace College High School Invitational in Raleigh.

Redshirts Fill Houston Voids

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Half of the University of Houston's starting football backfield expected to be redshirts this season.

But quarterback Bubba McGallion and fullback John Houseman, both sophomores, will be right in the center of the action Monday night when the Cougars meet North Carolina State in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl in the Astrodome.

Kickoff is at 8 p.m. for the nationally televised classic.

Houseman, who came on to be Houston's leading ground gainer with 988 yards, a record for UH sophomores, filled a void early in the season when former No. 1 fullback Donnie McGrew was injured.

"I just happened to be the one to go in first and I happened to get a couple of good runs right off," Houseman said. At the time, Houseman was running third team behind Clarenence Shelmon but he moved up quickly.

"I told Coach (Bill) Yeoman if he wasn't going to redshirt me, I wanted to play," Houseman said. "He assured me that I'd play."

Yeoman kept his word. By the time McGraw recovered from his injury, Houseman couldn't be caught.

Yeoman hopes the Cougars can catch the streaking Wolfpack, which was scheduled to arrive here today to begin final preparations for Monday night's game.

North Carolina State beat Cotton Bowl bound Penn State and Arizona State to close out with a 9-2 regular-season record. Houston finished 8-3 after losing to Tulsa in the season finale.

"A lot of teams lost their last game of the season and now they have to wait until next year," Houseman said. "We get a chance to make ours up."

Amazing Second Frame Sparks Conley's Win

HOLLYWOOD — Southern Nash's girls set the tone for the evening when they pumped in 70 points against the D.H. Conley lassies last night, winning handily, 70-35.

But that was nothing compared to what happened in the boys' game. Unbeaten Conley recorded its eighth victory of the year, scoring an amazing 44 points in the second period of play on the way to a 122-78 romp.

"It was one of the most amazing quarters of basketball I've ever seen," Viking coach Shelly Marsh said afterwards. "I don't know that I've ever coached a more perfect quarter."

Hornet Future

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The future of the Charlotte Hornets in the World Football League is to be decided by Jan. 15.

That was the word Thursday from WFL President Chris Hemminger.

He was in Charlotte to meet with possible investors for the financially troubled team. He said if certain conditions are not met by then, Charlotte will not be part of the reorganized WFL next year.

One requirement for continued participation will be placing a sum of money in an escrow bank account.

Conley had jumped out to a 26-14 lead after the first period of play. Their full-court pressing defense then got the best of the Firebirds, who scored 15 more points in the second frame. But the hot-shooting Vikings hit 19 field goals and added six free throws during that second period with Rick Mobley leading the way with 16 points. That ran the total by the end of the first half to 70-29.

From there, it was just an easy step to pass the century mark for the first time this season. Conley outhit Southern Nash, 25-23, in the third frame for a 92-52 lead, then finished up with a 27-26 final period.

Overall, the Vikings hit on 50 of 75 shots from the floor for a red-hot 67 per cent. They also hit 22 of 30 from the charity stripe. They dominated the backboards, pulling in 50 loose balls, with Gerry Mobley and Melvin Williams each corraling 17.

Ricck Mobley led the scoring with 28, while Gerry Mobley added 27, Clennel Streeter hit 22 and Williams canned 20. Southern Nash was led by William Bridges with 20, while Cooper Finch had 14 and Melvin Crawley added 12.

In the girls' game, Southern Nash inched ahead of Conley, 13-10, after one period. They continued to pull away in the second frame with a 15-8 advantage, making it 28-18 at the half.

Southern's domination became clear in the third period as they dumped in 18 more while holding Conley to just five. That made it 46-23. The Lady Firebirds hit 24 in the final period, while Conley made half that many for the final margin.

J. Riley led Southern with 21 points, while H. Hall had 18 and S. Hall had 11. Rosa Adams led Conley with 10 points.

Conley's next action will be in the Pitt Invitational Tournament at Rose High School, December 27-28.

East Carolina University's Pirates will close out the pre-Christmas holiday basketball schedule Saturday night as they play host to Mercer Saturday at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum. The Bucs will be out to move above the .500 mark for the first time this year.

Both teams come into the game with 3-3 records. The Pirates lost their first three, all on the road, then came home to win their last three—playing not as well in each of the three wins had they had played in the losses.

Mercer, which counts among its losses one to unbeaten Southern Mississippi, lost its third game of the season Wednesday night, bowing to South Florida. It's other loss was a road game, giving them an 0-2 mark on the road and a 3-1 home record.

"Mercer is another one of those teams that few folks around here have heard of," Coach Dave Patton said. "But they are a very fine basketball team, and we will be hard pressed to beat them. In fact, we are going to have to play at our best to do it."

Mercer's Bears like to run, according to Patton. And they can score at a rapid pace. In the first half of the South Florida game, they poured in 82 percent of their shots—a fantastic figure. "And when you see what our opponents have been shooting when they come in here, it makes me very apprehensive," Patton said.

Saturday night will be Purple & Gold night at Minges Coliseum.

All fans wearing either purple or gold will be admitted for $1 each. East Carolina University will be closing out its pre-holiday schedule with Mercer.

Tipoff is set for 8 p.m., with no junior varsity preliminary.

The Bears have averaged 85.2 points a game so far, and they've been strong on the boards, too, pulling down 52.8 rebounds a contest.

Leading the rebounders are 6-8 Andre Brown, 13.8 per game, and 6-7 Jerry Thruston, 10.4 per contest.

Oddly enough, their two guards are their leading scorers. Teko Wynder is the leading scorer. The 6-5 guard is hitting 25.8 per outing. Geary Taylor, 6-0, is hitting 14.8, while Brown is scoring at a 13.0 clip.

"They are a good defensive team, too," Patton said. "They play the zone and the man-to-man and they can press very effectively. They also play a lot of people, just like we do."

Mercer lost five of their top seven players last year, who had a 17-8 season. They also lost their coach, and the newcomer Bill Bibb went out and recruited five junior college transfers, a couple of them All-Americans to help out.

"They are easily the third best team we've played so far," Patton said. "Right behind State and Alabama. It's certainly not going to be an easy game for us because they're no pushover. They've got plenty of talent."

Patton feels that the Bucs do have an advantage, since it's on their court. "But our students will mostly be gone for the holidays, so we need a good local crowd to help keep that advantage."

"And we can't play like we did Tuesday against Georgia State," he added. In that game, the Bucs took an 88-79 win, but went nearly five minutes early in the game without scoring, and the game was marked by fouls, turnovers and poor shooting.

"I have to take credit for our playing like we did," Patton said. "I tried hard to get them ready to play that game. I wanted them to go full speed from the opening tap, and I think maybe they were overprepared. When you look back on it and try to figure it out, it just drives you nuts. The best thing to do is be glad you won and forget it."

Patton added that he is beginning to think that his team is playing to the level of its competition. "They seem to be satisfied to play just well enough to get the job done. But we can't keep doing this. We'll get killed on the road playing like that."

No junior varsity game will be played prior to the game.

Holiday Fields Start Opening

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Indiana, Southern California, South Carolina and Kentucky will be host teams as college basketball tournaments start fast-breaking around the country tonight.

The Indiana Classic features the nation's second-ranked team along with Nebraska, SMU and Creighton. The Hoosiers, who meet Creighton in the opening round, are heavily favored to win their yearly holiday feature, as are the other three ranked teams.

Southern California, ranked No. 7, meets Vanderbilt in a first-round game while Jacksonville faces New Mexico in the Trojan Classic.

Playing in the Carolina Classic along with the 14th-ranked Gamecocks will be Princeton, LSU and Duke. South Carolina meets Princeton while Duke faces LSU tonight.

Kentucky, the nation's 20th-rated team, hosts the Kentucky Invitational. That one pairs the Wildcats with Washington State and Oklahoma State against Villanova in first-round games.

Several other tournaments will be held this weekend, starting a period of wild holiday activity that will run beyond Christmas.

In the first round of the Dayton Classic, Dayton plays Texas Tech and Clemson meets LaSalle; San Francisco, host in the Cable Car Classic, plays Michigan State and Long Beach State faces Santa Clara; the Michigan Invitational features Washington against Virginia Tech and Manhattan vs. Michigan and in the Big Sun Tourney at St. Petersburg, Fla., it's Missouri vs. Duquesne and Tennessee meeting Columbia.

The format in all of these tournaments will be the same.

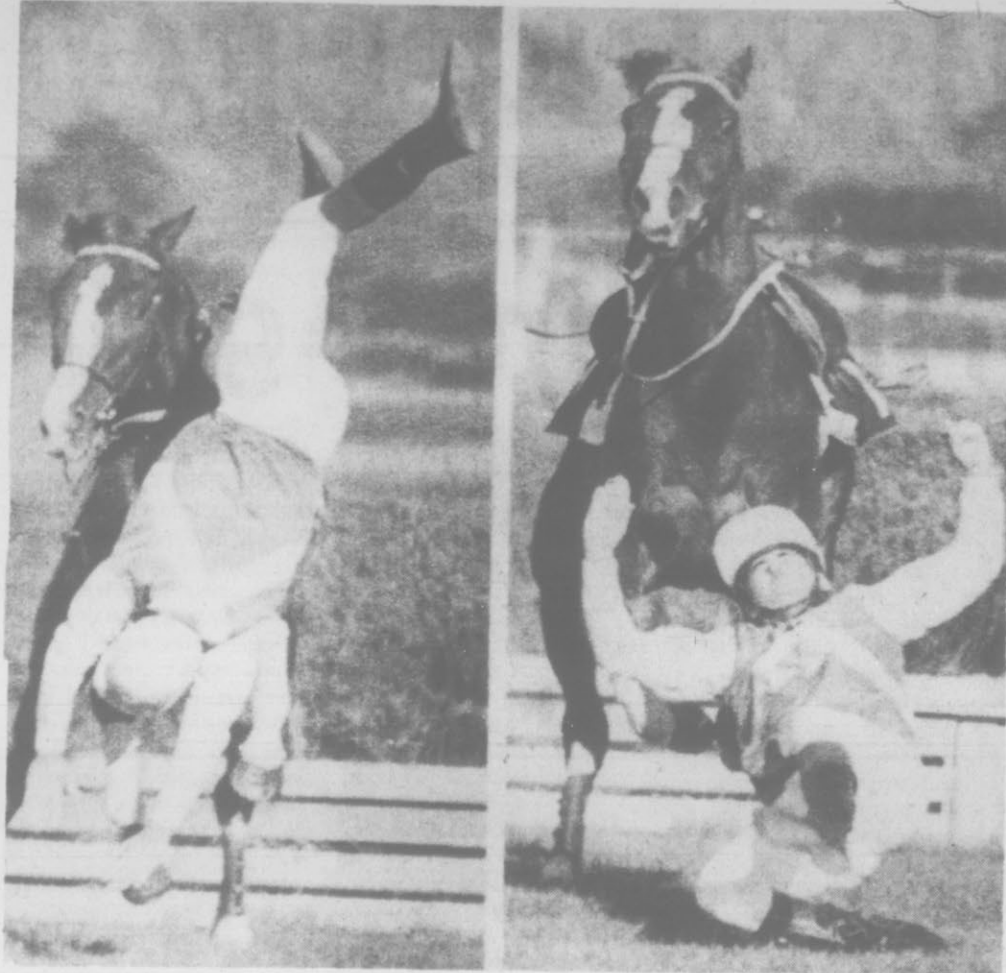

Tonight's winners advance to Saturday night's finals for the respective tournament championships.

Texas-El Paso will meet Texas A&M tonight in the finals of the Sun Bowl. Texas-El Paso beat Miami, Ohio, 72-66, and Texas A&M whipped Northwestern 67-55 Thursday night.

In other action tonight, No. 3 UCLA meets No. 11 Memphis State in a single game of national importance.

In Thursday night's action, Jim Bocinsky's 25-foot jumper with two seconds remaining in overtime gave DePaul a 75-73 victory over San Jose State for Ray Meyer's 499th career victory; a tip-in basket by Terry McKissick with two seconds left lifted Drake to a 65-64 victory over Iowa State; Tony Rufus scored 18 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead Baylor over Louisiana Tech 70-60 and Jim Busam tallied 28 points as Brown knocked Georgia from the unbeaten ranks, 79-75.

Jeff Fuhrmann scored 22 points and Gray Eubank added 18 as Old Dominion built a 13-point half-time lead and coasted over Evansville 84-72; Georgia Tech withstood a late rally by Mississippi State to post a 64-61 triumph; Tony Lawrence scored on a driving layup with four seconds left to give Colorado an 85-84 victory over San Diego State; Wilbur Holland hit a 20-foot jumper five seconds before the end of overtime, pacing New Orleans to an 88-86 victory over Wayne State and Richard Jones sparked a second-half surge in which Virginia Commonwealth's Rams outscored Northeast Louisiana's Indians 14-2 enroute to an 83-75 victory.

Teacher Wrong About Hunter's Economics

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP) —

Dutch Overton, who watched Catfish Hunter pitch for this town's American Legion team more than a decade ago, was talking about America's next millionaire.

"Jim was in the eighth grade," Overton said. "And during the school recess one day, he and some of his buddies were throwing a baseball around, just like they always did. Well, he was late getting back into class and his teacher went to the door to fetch him."

"Come on in and get some learning," she yelled. "You're never going to make any money playing baseball."

Hunter's eighth-grade school-marm might understand civics but she was dead wrong about economics. Her former pupil, Jim "Catfish" Hunter, appears on the verge of becoming the highest paid player in baseball history. And some of baseball's biggest executives are here or are on their way to this sleepy North Carolina hamlet to help him do it.

Catfish-hunting season swings into its second day with at least four teams scheduled to meet with Hunter and his lawyers, all of them itching to show Hunter why he'd look better in one of their uniforms.

Two teams met Thursday with baseball's celebrated free agent. The first cap in the ring was that of the New York Yankees, who were represented by Clyde Klutznick, their director of scouting. Hunter and Klutznick are old friends, the scout having signed the pitcher to a $75,000 bonus contract with the Kansas City A's in 1964.

"They were preliminary kind of talks, really," said Hunter, who was liberated from his contract with the Oakland A's when an arbitration panel ruled Monday that A's owner Charles O. Finley had breached the pitcher's contract by failing to make a deferred $50,000 payment in the stipulated manner. J. Carlton Cherry, one of the lawyers in the Ahoskie firm representing Hunter, agreed the first round of talks were primarily meant to feel out the other sides.

"We were just talking," said Cherry, who confirmed the lawyers also met Thursday with representative of the Boston Red Sox. "We just want to have the opportunity to see what they'll do. We're listening now. We haven't decided what we want yet."

Boston was represented by General Manager Dick

O'Connell; Haywood Sullivan, vice president for player personnel, and John L. Harrington, the club's treasurer.

Cherry said four or five more teams were set to queue up in front of the two-story brick building that houses the law office of Cherry, Cherry and Flythe. But he said he couldn't remember which clubs were scheduled to make their pitches today.

One of those teams is the San Diego Padres, who sent a contingent of Vice President-General Manager Peter Bavasi, Manager John McNamara and Bill Posedel, who holds the title of executive coach, in the hopes of reeling in the Catfish.

"We're willing to match any offer," said Bavasi. "But we don't know yet what the market is. Ray Kroc (the hamburger king who owns the Padres) said, 'Let's get in the middle of this and stay there.' And if you look at his business, you know he means business."

Miami Aiming For 3rd Title

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The National Football League's version of Russian Roulette begins this weekend with the Miami Dolphins shooting for a third straight world championship and the Oakland Raiders hoping to gun them down.

The Dolphins, champions of the American Conference's Eastern Division, will play the West-winning Raiders Saturday in one of four NFL playoff games that will eventually determine the king of pro football.

These games are for winners only.

The winner of the Miami-Oakland game will play for the AFC championship against the survivor of Sunday's match between the Buffalo Bills and Pittsburgh Steelers. The Steelers made the playoffs by winning the AFC's Central Division title while the Bills qualified as the wild-card team with a 9-5 record behind Miami's lustrous 11-3.

The champion of the National Conference and eventual Super Bowl opponent of the AFC winner will be determined from among the St. Louis Cardinals, Minnesota Vikings, Washington Redskins and Los Angeles Rams.

The Cardinals, champions of the NFC East, will play the Vikings, the Central Division title-winners on Saturday. The Rams, winners of the West, face Washington, the NFC's wild-card team, on Sunday.

Super Bowl IX will be held at Tulane Stadium in New Orleans on January 12.

The contest between Miami and Oakland is a rematch of last year's AFC championship game, won by the Dolphins enroute to their second straight Super Bowl title. The Dolphins are looking for an instant replay of Larry Csonka's game last time, when he bruised the Raiders with three touchdowns and 117 yards as Miami won 27-10.

Oakland's balanced attack features a power runner of their own in Marv Hubbard, who's compiled 865 yards on the ground this season while leading the Raiders to a 12-2 record this year, best in the NFL.

The Steelers will be making a third straight playoff appearance while the Bills are making their first since 1966, when they lost to Kansas City in the American Football League title game.

O.J. Simpson, Buffalo's rushing leader, will carry the ball most of the time and the hopes of the Bills along with it.

"It's been pretty tough at times this year, but things are starting to look up now and we like to think that we can go all the way," said Simpson, whose Bills earned a wild-card berth despite losing four of their last six games.

After training in Tulsa, Okla., for three days, the Vikings flew home Thursday with Coach Bud Grant declaring: "We are ready." The Vikings will have to be to face Cardinal quarterback Jim Ray Hart, who's having his best year.

Washington Coach George Allen hasn't decided yet on his quarterback. It could be either Billy Kilmer or Sonny Jurgensen against the Rams, considered one of the NFL's weaker teams against the pass.

Bear Grass Already Showing Improvement

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

BEAR GRASS—If nothing else, the Bear Grass Bears can look at this season with one note of relief. It won't be as bad as the last one.

Last time out, the Bears went right down the line, failing to win a single game in an 0-22 season. But this year, they've already claimed four victories, and they are hopeful of winning quite a few more before the season is finished.

One reason for the improvement this year, is that four starters from last year's team are back, giving the Bears some experienced players. They include 5-11 forward Vernell Rodgers, 6-2, center Randy Stokes, 5-10 guard Mark Gardner, and 5-11 guard Alan Crawford.

"We've been using two different players at the other forward spot," Coach Jerry Rogerson said. "At times David Prince (6-2) has started, while Danny Peaks (6-0) has also been a starter. Whichever one isn't starting is usually the first one to go in when we need to go to the bench."

The team is not a young one in many ways. It has seven seniors, three juniors and just one sophomore. "We do have good experience, and I think this has helped make a difference this year," Rogerson said.

The Bear defense is much improved over last year. "At least up until the last two games," Rogerson added. "We had looked good for our early games, holding our opponents under 50 points. But Bath and Belhaven are quite strong."

Rogerson feels that he can go to his bench when he has to. He's played a number of players. "Our reserve strength isn't outstanding," he said. "But it is adequate. Chief among the reserves are Alton Cratt, the lone sophomore; along with Richard Harrison, Moses Biggs and David Roberson."

Height, however, has been a problem. "We've probably the smallest team in the conference, even with several over six feet. We've been doing pretty well rebounding, except for Bath and Belhaven, and they just have too much height for us to contend with."

"Our shooting hasn't been real good, only about 34 per cent, but this is good enough when our defense is working well," Roberson said. "We try to look inside to Stokes, or go outside to Rodgers. They can do the job if we get the ball to them. I'm really pleased in that our scoring has been fairly balanced. We have four who are averaging nine or better a game. This is a plus for us."

Rogerson feels that the Bears can play .500 ball this year. "We'll have to struggle with some of the teams in the conference, but with some breaks, we can come out all right."

The coach doesn't see anyone in the league handling Belhaven, however. And he looks to Bath and Pantego to come in second and third. "I definitely feel that we have a chance to win one of the five playoff spots in post-season," he said. "This is what we're shooting for."

"If our rebounding will improve, I think we can play with anyone. This is the real key to our success," Rogerson said.

Atlantic Coast Teams Hit Tournament Trail

By The Associated Press

It's tournament time for Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams.

Clemson and Duke get the jump on the five other league members tonight in the first two of eight tournament awaiting ACC teams in three weeks over the holidays.

Clemson plays LaSalle in the opener of the Dayton, Ohio, tournament tonight. Host Dayton meets Texas Tech in the second game. The winners meet for the title Saturday night after the losers settle third place.

Duke, idle for 15 days, plays Louisiana State in the second game of the inaugural Carolina Classic at Columbia, S.C. The opener pairs 14th-ranked South Carolina against Princeton. The losers will meet in Saturday night's opener.

Clemson, 3-2, returned to action after a 10-day layoff and lost at Louisville Wednesday night 90-75 after leading the fourth-ranked Cardinals at the half. Clemson Coach Tate Locke benched ace freshman Skip Wise for disciplinary reasons and the Tigers missed his 22-point average.

Duke, 2-0 in its first year under Coach Bill Foster, will face an LSU team that will play without captain Mike Darnall. He has broken the index finger on each hand. He played with the injuries Wednesday night, helping the Tigers beat Tulane 84-82, but Coach Dale Bulane says he'll be out of action for six weeks.

South Carolina, 2-1, will be up against a Princeton team that whipped Davidson by 16 points last week.

and Mary and Maryland playing George Washington at Landover, Md. The Maryland Terps are 5-0 and ranked No. 5. Virginia, 3-1, is idle until it plays in the Milwaukee Classic next Friday and Saturday. The Cavaliers open Friday against Wisconsin.

Except for North Carolina's trip to Spain, ACC teams will be idle Monday through Thursday next week.

Action heats up again, with a heavy Friday-Saturday schedule.

Four other ACC teams move into action Saturday.

North Carolina, ranked No. 10 on a 3-1 record, plays an afternoon game at Yale, after which the Tar Heels leave for Madrid, Spain and a Christmas week international tournament.

North Carolina State, defending national champion and ranked No. 1 on a 5-0 record, goes after its 34th in a row against Davidson at the Charlotte Coliseum Saturday night.

Dooley Singing Georgia Blues

By G. MICHAEL HARMON
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Georgia Coach Vince Dooley is singing the blues about the Bulldogs' chances against undefeated Miami of Ohio in Saturday's Tangerine Bowl. And Redskins Coach Dick Crum says his outlook isn't exactly rosy.

Dooley's woes center on the loss of All-America tackle Craig Hertwig and two defensive starters ruled academically ineligible for the post-season clash.

Crum says he's worried because the Redskins haven't played a game since Nov. 16. "Five weeks is half a season," he noted with a frown.

Hertwig, a 6-foot-8, 260-pound hole-maker in Georgia's powerful veer offense, and defensive tackle Dan Spivey and cornerback Steve Taylor were lost when they dropped some courses, putting their class load below the minimum number of hours required by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"It was a serious blow," said Dooley. "Realistically, we would have had a hard time winning this game without the losses. This makes it even harder."

Crum countered Dooley's sad story by wringing his hands over the problems he said he had in whipping the Redskins back into form after their lay-off.

Defense Hurts Buffalo Effort

By The Associated Press

In the National Basketball Association, the Buffalo Braves lost a game on defense Wednesday night and the Atlanta Hawks roped one on offense.

In the American Basketball Association, the Kentucky Colonels had trouble because they've been playing too often and the Denver Nuggets had problems because they haven't been playing enough.

Before you get further confused, here are the basic NBA facts: Cleveland Cavaliers 106, Buffalo 104; Chicago Bulls 88, Atlanta 80; Milwaukee Bucks 112, Phoenix Suns 108; New York Knicks 117, Kansas City-Omaha Kings 113.

In the ABA, it was Kentucky 125, Denver 107; Utah Stars 105, San Antonio Spurs 100; St. Louis Spirits 105, Virginia Squires 100.

Cavaliers 106, Braves 104. Jim Brewer's three-point play with 3:20 remaining gave Cleveland a four-point lead and the Cavaliers survived a 49-point performance by Buffalo's Bob McAdoo. Brewer, Bingo Smith and Steve Patterson combined for 16 points in the final minutes to give the Cavaliers the winning edge.

Shah Warns West Could Wreck World's Economy

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Friday, December 20, 1974—13

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Special Correspondent
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The Shah of Iran is unhappy with the recent French-American gold agreement and has warned that an increase in the official price of gold will be matched by higher oil prices.

The 55-year-old ruler of the world's second largest oil exporter contended that an increase in the official price of gold would decrease the value of the dollars Iran and the other oil nations get for their oil.

"If our purchasing power is lost, everything goes," said the Shah in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

He indicated that the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would cancel the nine-month price freeze it agreed on last week after raising the price of crude oil 38 cents a barrel.

Higher oil prices will "surely follow," the monarch said. "It won't be just a question of a few per cent inflation. It could eventually be the collapse of the whole monetary system."

Financial experts in Europe were mystified by the Shah's concern. They pointed out that President Ford and French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing at their meeting in Martinique last weekend did not agree to raise the official value of national gold reserves to the market price. They agreed that nations could use the market value when pledging their national gold reserves as security for loans to pay their huge oil bills.

Common Market officials in Brussels termed this a bookkeeping operation only. They pointed out that Italy revalued part of its gold reserve in this fashion last August to secure a $2 billion loan from West Germany.

The Shah brushed off a suggestion that the 38-cent increase in oil prices might bankrupt some Western customers.

"Oh, that was nothing," he said. "The price of oil has not yet even reached what it would take to produce alternate sources of energies."

He confirmed reports that his government is conferring with Shell International "for some kind of distribution in the United States," presumably an interest in Shell's service stations. But "nothing in particular or spectacular," he said.

He also said there may be "some kind of joint cooperation between Pan American and Iran Air that would be in the interests of both airlines." But he insisted "there never has been any talk of buying into Lockheed and Grumman," despite reports to the contrary published in the United States.

The Shah scoffed at talk of an American seizure of Arab oil fields if another Arab-Israeli war brought another oil embargo against the West. But he gave the Arab nations a "friendly warning" against another oil embargo, "not because there is a fear of ... oc-

Price-Fixing Charged Refiners

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Six major sugar refiners have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to raise and fix the price of sugar for at least three years prior to 1973 in 19 Western and Midwestern states.

The Justice Department also filed two companion civil suits on Thursday seeking to prohibit the companies from exchanging price information.

The action culminates a year-long Justice Department investigation of pricing practices in the $2.5 billion U.S. sugar market.

The probe gained urgency with recent sharp increases in retail sugar prices, but Thursday's indictments and companion lawsuits do not involve the recent rise, a government spokesman said.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Thomas E. Kauper, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, said, however, that recent pricing practices in the industry are under investigation.

Three of the six companies were indicted for conspiring to fix sugar prices in California, Arizona, and in Las Vegas and Reno, Nev. Five of the six firms were charged with a separate price-fixing conspiracy in other Western and Midwestern states.

In a third civil suit, two companies — including one indicted firm and a seventh sugar company — were accused of conspiring to restrain competition in five Western states. The government said they had agreed not to market sugar under grocery chain house brands which usually are sold at cheaper prices.

The six companies named as defendants in the indictments returned in U.S. District Court here were Great Western Sugar Co., Denver; American Crystal Sugar Co., formerly of Denver; Holly Sugar Corp., Colorado Springs, Colo.; California and Hawaiian Sugar Co., San Francisco; Amalgamated Sugar Co., Ogden, Utah; and Consolidated Foods Corp. of Chicago.

American Crystal was dissolved in 1973 and was succeeded by a cooperative association based in Fargo, N.D., which goes by the same name.

J.C. Tanner, president of American Crystal, said that the cooperative and its predecessor "have conducted their affairs in full compliance with the antitrust laws." He refused further comment until officials of American Crystal studied the indictment.

Allan M. Lipman Jr., secretary and legal counsel for Amalgamated Sugar Co., said, "We don't think we have anything to hide. We don't think we've committed any antitrust violations in the market area in which we are charged."

Spokesmen for California and Hawaiian, Holly Sugar and Great Western said they would withhold comment until they have had a chance to examine the indictment.

The markets involved include Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas, Wisconsin, part of Wyoming, Idaho, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

The six companies under indictment each faces a maximum penalty, if found guilty, of a fine of $50,000.

Advance In Fuel Cells

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—Discoveries made by chemistry research teams at the University of North Carolina may help in the development of "fuel cells" with sufficient power to provide electricity to propel an automobile, the university reported Thursday.

The university said Dr. Royce Murray and Dr. Thomas J. Meyer headed the teams in making discoveries which may help scientists "soup up" fuel cells.

The discoveries deal with the use of ruthenium, a semi-precious metal, as a catalyst to speed up fuel cell reactions.

Murray said fuels cells are attractive because they can use fuels other than gasoline and use them completely, unlike the inefficient use of fuel by gasoline engines.

Murray cited methanol as a possible fuel for the cells. He pointed out it is a product of coal—the nation's most abundant energy source.

In a third civil suit, two companies — including one indicted firm and a seventh sugar company — were accused of conspiring to restrain competition in five Western states. The government said they had agreed not to market sugar under grocery chain house brands which usually are sold at cheaper prices.

Financial Cycles Said Perplexed By Warning

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — European financial circles are perplexed by the Shah of Iran's warning that plans of Western nations to revalue their gold reserves could lead to higher oil prices and the collapse of the whole monetary system.

Common Market officials in Brussels said the revaluation plan approved last weekend by Presidents Ford of the United States and Valéry Giscard d'Estaing of France was only a bookkeeping operation to improve the credit rating of countries that are hard pressed by the four-fold increase in oil prices.

The two presidents agreed that governments, in order to increase their assets to pledge against loans, should be free to revalue their gold reserves at the market price. This is currently more than four times the official rate of $42.22 an ounce, an artificial figure set by the major industrial nations.

Revaluation would make it easier for a government to borrow to pay its oil bills without risking economic collapse by cutting down on other necessary imports.

Bullion dealers said the European gold markets were unsettled Thursday afternoon by the Shah's warning in an interview with The Associated Press. But they reported trading was light and the price of gold closed almost unchanged at $185 dollars an ounce. On foreign exchanges, the U.S. dollar strengthened against major European currencies.

The Common Market sources pointed out that neither the gold nor foreign exchange markets were affected when the Italian government revalued some of its gold reserve last August to secure a $2 billion loan from West Germany.

They said although the oil-exporting nations are putting their liquid funds into dollars or gold, the effect of the Martiniague agreement on the gold market this week was only momentary, and the value of the dollar is affected only slightly by fluctuations in the price of gold.

The business editor of one British paper, John Palmer of The Guardian, reported that financiers were especially puzzled by the Shah's outburst since it was easily within his power to demand gold in payment for Iran's oil if he feared a collapse of paper currency.

Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♦.

When playing trump contracts, a simple rule of thumb applies to most situations: "If you can count enough tricks for your contract, draw trumps. If you can't, delay pulling trumps until you have planned your campaign strategy". South, declarer at a four spade contract, neglected to follow this sage advice and brought about his own downfall.

After his partner opened the bidding with one no trump, North introduced the Stayman Convention to check for a possible major suit fit. When South responded in spades, North's hand revalued to 11 points, so he was full value for his jump to game.

Declarer won the opening lead with the ace, crossed to the jack of trumps and led a heart to his king and West's ace. West found the winning defense by returning a trump, and declarer began to realize the trouble he was in. He tried to rescue something from the shambles by playing on diamonds, but East won the third diamond and cleared another round of trumps. Declarer could scramble eight tricks, for down two.

Had declarer counted his tricks before embarking on a specific line, he would have seen that he was three tricks short of his contract. The fact that he held all the high trumps should have alerted him to the possibility of using dummy's trumps for ruffing purposes. Add three ruffs to the seven tricks on top, and the total is up to the number needed to make the contract.

All declarer had to do was to use the entries to his hand to ruff clubs in dummy. After winning the ace of clubs, he ruffs a club, returns to his hand with a high diamond and ruffs another club. Then he crosses back with the remaining high diamond for a third club ruff. That guarantees ten tricks, and declarer can now afford to lead towards the king of hearts for an overtrick.

Note that declarer cannot afford to give the defenders the lead more than once before starting to ruff his losers. If he does and the defenders return a trump each time they gain the lead, declarer will not have enough trumps in dummy to ruff all three of his club losers.

Nuclear Power Plant Debated By Rhode Islanders

By WARREN TALBOT
CHARLESTOWN, R.I. (UPI)—Edward E. Mulligan says he is a "reasonable man taking a reasonable approach" to the issue of nuclear power plants.

He is president of Narragansett Electric Co., which is seeking to build a $1.5-billion twin reactor system in this rural community of 3,000.

"If I thought this thing would kill babies, then I wouldn't want to build it," he said.

There are some people in the community who doubt Mulligan's sincerity and to him they are "unreasonable."

They complain about big money, influence and corporate lobbies; about questions unanswered and the possibilities of dangers to the environment and health that such a project could bring about.

Rhode Island is the only New England state without a nuclear power plant or one under construction. But the debate on whether one should be built, and where, is a hot one, and not only in Rhode Island.

As of now there are 54 operating nuclear plants in the United States, 74 more under construction and another 109 in the planning. Nuclear plants are located primarily in the East Coast states, the Midwest, California and the Pacific Northwest, but they are spreading. The battle of Charlestown is being replayed in many other American communities.

Charlestown is one of Rhode Island's southernmost points. It is a sleepy farm community in the winter and fall, but during spring and summer its population goes up 25,000 with visitors who want to take advantage of its shady groves and the sparkling waters of the Atlantic Ocean.

It is also boasts a high proportion of intellectuals from the nearby campus of the University of Rhode Island. Many of the town's residents are ecologically minded and opposed to nuclear power plants.

"If they are so damned sure this thing won't kill babies, then why the heck do they want to put it way out here away from large populations," asks Dr. Samuel Seely, a professor of electrical engineering at URI.

Seely speaks out against nuclear power plants with the same zeal that Billy Graham condemns the devil. He is also the president of the Concerned Citizens of Rhode Island which has fought Narragansett Electric every step of the way.

"One of the most critical aspects of nuclear power is the production of toxic wastes such as strontium and cesium which are serious producers of cancer and leukemia. Of grave concern is plutonium, which is probably the most toxic material known to man," Seely said.

"If anybody asked me if a nuclear power plant emits radiation I would have to say yes, because it does," Mulligan admitted. "But it is on the scale of the amount of radiation from the phosphorus dial of my watch, or one chest x-ray every 200 years."

Mulligan believes that the arguments espoused by opponents of nuclear power raise "unfounded fears" in the minds of persons unversed in the subject.

What it all comes down to, Mulligan says, is the old story of everybody thinks nuclear power is the answer but not in their own backyards.

"We are dealing with a technology which is under tight controls. I have never heard of a single person being injured or killed in a nuclear power plant. If we are ever to get Project Independence off the ground (making the United States independent of foreign oil) then Rhode Island and New England are going to have to do their part," Mulligan said.

The utility has spent thousands of dollars for tests and studies, according to Mulligan.

"We have to go through a year and a half of studies, and while that is going on the opposition is running around and anything could happen. It is very difficult to get anybody opposed to this to come up with any 'for instances'. I say that reasonable people wait for a reasonable study," Mulligan said.

Seely and his friends agree that Charlestown is an example of all the communities which have faced up to the issue or will face it in the future.

"They softened up the town council. We were told by the utility and by some council members that anybody who is opposed is either a farm monger or an obstructionist," Jack Hearn, a Charlestown pharmacist and member of Concerned Citizens, said.

"I don't like to be characterized as something subversive. That's just not the way it is. If anything is going to be done about nuclear power and its obvious dangers it will have to be with groups like ours."

"We've had to meet in basements of our homes instead of in town hall like we were some kind of radical group getting ready to attack apple pie, motherhood and the American way."

Narragansett claims to have set out to educate the residents of Charlestown on the issue. "We have set up a reading room in town hall where studies are made available so people can draw their own conclusions," Mulligan said.

Seely and Hearn claim that town hall has not given Concerned Citizens equal opportunity with opposition literature. "We try to put up a poster and they take it down or put it behind an open door," Seely said.

The plan calls for the plant to be constructed on an abandoned 600-acre naval air base bordered by the ocean, a highway and a small body of water called Ninigret Pond. The site is studded with dilapidated buildings, broken glass and evidence that it was being used for target practice.

"How can anybody say we will be doing a disservice if we take this site over and beautify it?" asked Charles Sokolsky, Narragansett district manager. A state government official close to the Charlestown problem says the issue has not yet polarized, but when it does one of the main arguments for the plant will be the amount of revenue a $1.5 billion facility will bring to the town. "Charlestown will become a battleground," he said. "Everything we have seen so far tells us it is an excellent site. We'll be taxpayers in the town for a long time, and that's a pretty total commitment to the community," Mulligan said. Suitability of site, ecology, economics, politics and science all have something to do with the attempt to bring nuclear power to Rhode Island.

State Rep. Lucy Rawlings Tootell recently summed up the controversy. "The more you study this, the more complicated it becomes," she said.

Salt Lake City Santas 'Illegal'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Santa Claus' cap and beard may be illegal in Salt Lake City, but the city attorney promises not to arrest the jolly old elf.

A 1925 city ordinance still in force makes it illegal to appear in a disguise or mask in public. City Attorney Roger Cutler said Wednesday.

But Cutler said Santa won't be stopped by police. "Unless, of course, he uses the outfit to defraud or otherwise commit a crime."

Discussing Santa Can Get Teacher In Difficulty

By DORIS DALE PAYSOUR
Greensboro Record Writer
Written For The AP
GREENSBORO (AP) —
"Is there really a Santa Claus?"

It's a question that can make you tense when a youngster hangs on the silence waiting for you to come through with words of wisdom.

When the inevitable question surfaces in the family, it's considerably easier, because those who must answer may already be prepared. Even if they haven't given it much thought, the comments come within the framework of family tradition and circumstances.

The situation is much more complex when the youngster does his wondering in a classroom.

A second grade teacher was confronted with such a discussion while reading a fairy tale to pupils.

The word "make-believe" came up in the story and the teacher asked the pupils if they knew what that meant. In the course of comments on stories that weren't really true — as the youngsters suggested — one child asked if there were really a Santa and if reindeer flew.

"My explanation was more in the framework of the spirit of Santa," said the teacher, who discovered through a couple of telephone calls from upset parents that a few of the children had mistaken the explanation to mean there was no Santa Claus.

"I thought I was doing the right thing, but I wasn't, and I've learned something from this," said the teacher.

Dr. Aurelia Mazyck, director of the infant care project at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, said it has been her experience that second and third graders do have questions about Santa.

"They seek verification from parents and parents need to decide before the time comes what they're going to tell them," she said.

Dr. Mazyck believes that any discussion about the reality of Santa Claus should be a one-to-one thing rather than a class involvement.

"It depends so much on how the child is reacting, what parents attitudes are and how the subject has been handled since early toddlerhood," she said.

Dr. Roy Bolyard, a psychologist, said it "has to be a situational thing and you must know the child reasonably well to discuss the subject."

He is opposed to the attitude of, "You'd better be good, you better watch out because Santa Claus is coming." He's for the idea that, "regardless of you who you are, Santa loves you."

Kindergarten teacher

Faith Engle said that, "when we are asked if there's a Santa Claus, we tell a child that if he or she believes there is one, there is. Children will accept that and no one is disillusioned."

Another kindergarten teacher, Hildan Jacobs, has found that more and more youngsters are puzzling over Santa at an earlier age.

"When they ask me if I believe in Santa Claus, I say that when I was their age, I believed in him very strongly. Or, I say that I believe in him because it's so much fun. It seems to satisfy them," she said.

Bethlehem Is Making Ready

By MARCUS ELIASON
Associated Press Writer

BETHLEHEM, Occupied Jordan (AP) — Bethlehem's Christmas tree has been decorated, and carpenters are building the stage for choirs to carol the Yuletide message of joy in the town where Christ was born.

Behind the scenes, Israeli security men are preparing stringent measures to protect Bethlehem against Arab guerrillas.

Bethlehem lies in the Judean hills, in the territory Israel seized from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war. No hostilities have marred any of the seven Christmases since then. But "this year is different," said an Israeli military official, referring to the recent increase in Palestinian terrorist attacks.

Heavy army and police detachments will guard the hilltop town throughout the holiday festivities.

The Tourism Ministry asked pilgrims to bring a minimum of luggage since it may be searched for bombs.

Officials expect 15,000 pilgrims, 5,000 more than last year, when there was still heavy shelling on the Israeli-Syrian front.

Most of the pilgrims will stay in nearby Jerusalem and make brief visits by bus to Bethlehem, three miles away. The road will be decorated with colored lights, and choirs from Bethlehem, Israel, the United States and Britain will sing on Christmas Eve in Manger Square.

The square, outside the Church of the Nativity, will be cleared of the cars and trucks that park there the rest of the year. A large closed-circuit TV screen in the square will bring the midnight mass to those who can't crowd into the church, and Israeli television is offering foreign stations a film of the Mass via satellite.

Despite tough fiscal measures that have cut Israel's living standards, there will be no scrimping on Christmas expenses in Bethlehem, said Zvi Nevo, the Israeli tourist officer in the town.

"In spite of everything, we haven't cut the Christmas budget, especially since 1975 has been declared a Holy Year by the Pope," he said.

Telephone Peak For Christmas

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—On Christmas Day, telephone companies' busiest day of the year, Americans will do more than 80 years' worth of talking on long-distance calls.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. predicts that a record 13.5 million long-distance calls will be made on Christmas, up 10 per cent over last year's total.

Assuming that each call lasts about three minutes, the 13.5 million calls will amount to more than 80 years of talking.

Last-Minute Shoppers 'Make' A Year

By ROBERT HOLDEN
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Fighting for the Christmas dollar in a poor economy, retailers around the country are offering their usual post-holiday sales before Christmas Day this year.

But industry observers say the tactic, last applied during the 1970 recession, could backfire this year. They say some shoppers might stay out of the stores in hopes of even lower prices in January.

Several analysts said that it would be hazardous to assume that Christmas sales will be disappointing. They say that over the last few years holiday spending has been slow to develop but at the last minute shoppers have come through to salvage the season for retailers.

A spokesman at J.C. Penney Co., one of the leaders in nationwide price-cutting promotions along with Sears, Roebuck & Co., said that hopefully that will happen again this year.

The Penney spokesman said early sales have been disappointing. The giant retailer, No. 2 behind Sears in size, reported a relatively low 3.9 per cent sales gain in November over a year ago.

Retailers are understandably anxious about last-minute success this year because of such negative factors as a late Thanksgiving that cut the normal shopping season, and massive layoffs this month and last.

The Commerce Department said retail sales for the week ended Dec. 7 totaled a seasonally adjusted $10.14 billion, down 2.9 per cent from the previous week. This was up only 6 per cent over the same week a year ago, meaning that sales volume actually declined because inflation has pushed up consumer-goods prices about 12 per cent.

"We find there is resistance on the consumer's part to goods other than the basics," says

Jack Yost, senior vice president at Liberty House, a San Francisco department store.

"They're using more discretion with their dollars."

"They don't buy, they just look," a salesman was overheard telling a cluster of underworked colleagues at R.H. Macy headquarters store in Manhattan on a normally busy Monday night.

The economic slump has not affected all parts of the nation equally.

A survey of New Orleans merchants by the Times-Picayune newspaper found sales on the increase and optimism for a good season.

Optimism also was voiced by retailers surveyed by the Minneapolis, Minn., Tribune recently, although a note of warning was sounded by an executive with Juster's, a local men's clothing store.

"The over-all Christmas season is going to be hard to gauge until Dec. 24 because of the late Thanksgiving," said Allen Smith, the store's financial vice president. "When you lose that many days, it's hard to determine if you can make them up."

Meanwhile, shoppers in every state are being offered 10 to 20 per cent off and more on such merchandise as color television sets, stereo equipment, men's accessories, housewares, jewelry, and even artificial Christmas silverware, fine china, sofas trees.

A Cornucopia Of Statistics

By LARRY HEINZERLING
CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Statistics on everything from censorship to employment and crime pour out of the chambers of Parliament here each week.

There is perhaps no better single source of information about South Africa than the House of Assembly.

Most of the information comes in reply to questions asked of ministers by members of the political opposition.

Here are some highlights of recent weeks:

A total of 55 full-length films were banned during the first six months of 1974 by government censors.

Of the 9,077,000 persons "gainfully employed" in South Africa, 1,673,000 are white, 807,000 of mixed race, 208,000 Asian and 6,389,000 African.

The State Information Service spent about $215,000 on press advertising overseas in the year ending June 30, 1974, most of it in the United States, Britain and France.

In 1973 a total of 47,667 cases of tuberculosis were reported among Africans while there were 6,833 among people of mixed race, 1,297 among Indians and 844 among whites.

There are currently 652 escaped convicts at large in South Africa out of a total of 1,418 who escaped from prison in 1974.

A total of 107,987 fur seals — 105,513 of them pups — have been slaughtered on the South African coast over the past five years.

The cost of educating one student at the University of Cape Town in 1973 was $1,828.97.

There are 109,057 whites in the civil service, 32,832 Africans, 9,126 people of mixed race and 1,448 Indians.

A nationwide total of 95,200 applications to have telephones installed were outstanding as of September 30.

There were 344,270 foreign African workers in South African gold mines in 1973. Of these, 109,000 came from Malawi, 83,000 from Mozambique and 76,000 from Lesotho.

Minister of Statistics Jan J. Loots disclosed in the Senate there is not a single African motor mechanic in South Africa. He said there are 19,259 white mechanics, 331 of mixed race and 426 Indian.

The minister of Bantu (African) Administration and Development, Michiel Botha, told Parliament some 4.6 million acres of land have been purchased at a cost of about $164 million since 1948 to expand native reserves or African homelands.

Folksier Style Christmas Card

NEW YORK (AP) — Greeting card manufacturers this season say they have doffed the slick, mod look of previous years for a whimsical return to the Spirit of Christmas past.

The Santa Claus who on last year's cards flashed the peace sign to order two beers has been replaced by jolly St. Nick, arms laden with toys, dolls and gaily wrapped presents.

Some of the tinsel and glitter may be gone — to help cut production costs, manufacturers say — but the sentiment is a bit more intimate, a touch more folksy. The designs are traditional and old-fashioned, keeping pace with the current nostalgia trend.

And this, say Christmas cardmakers and sellers, is what Americans want during this gray period of recession and energy shortages.

"People are buying cards that reflect their feelings," said David Cohen, vice president, Fifth Avenue Card Shop, a chain of 57 stores east of the Mississippi River. "These are serious times. Nostalgia is a reflection of this seriousness."

In keeping with the nostalgia look, the Drawing Board features its "Christmas Past" collection, showing wistful little urchins in holiday scenes.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until midafternoon you are restless and unsure of how to handle whatever arises, so use much care and caution then. Later, beneficial planets favor accomplishing much of value.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get rid of those small annoyances early so you can enjoy preferred activities later in the day. Happy evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is not good for being with friends, but later you find they can be most helpful to you. Alertness gives success with aims.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle any public duties you may have in a.m., then enjoy good friends. Take care of credit matters or you get involved more deeply.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get some bigwig to help you. Don't sever connections with anyone unless you are sure of what you are doing.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Day hours favor handling matters that are most pressing right now, then look into new interests that could prove profitable.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Guard your words with an associate who is important in your life, or you could get into unnecessary trouble. Cement better relations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have many duties to take care of today, so get at them early, even if they are boring and they are soon out of the way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to have the recreation you like early, then gad about in a vibrant way. Have wardrobe in good order and keep in fine trim.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget about being so depressed at home, or you lower the spirits of kin. Be off in p.m. with good friends, relieve tensions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Handle monetary matters. Don't be reckless where driving, motion is concerned. Steer clear of depressing influences. Then this is a happy, safe day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be practical about finances for good results. Don't take unnecessary risks. Get advice from expert in p.m. Join friends for fun.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Hard work and right thinking solve problems in a.m. Avoid those who have it in their power to depress you. Evening is ideal for socials.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will require much attention and love, otherwise a martyr complex could emerge here that is best averted early. Many playmates should be around to snap your progeny out of this self-absorbed attitude. The chart can be successful if New Era methods are used and the right kind of education given at modern schools. A fine academic mind.

Tobacco Day Set Jan. 3

The 1975 Pitt County Tobacco Day will be held Friday, Jan. 3, at the American Legion Building in Greenville.

The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. Discussions on crop management, disease and insect control, mechanization, the outlook for tobacco, and certification of farmers for applying restricted-use pesticides will be held.

As a special feature, representatives from tobacco companies are expected to be present to discuss the outlook of tobacco and to answer any questions the farmers might have.

The latest equipment in tobacco mechanization will be on display before and after the meeting.

A supper of barbeque will be served to those attending.

Anyone interested in attending the meeting is asked to register by filling out a card they received in the mail or by calling Kenneth Bateman, assistant agricultural extension agent, 756-1196.

Merry
Christmas

FROM
COLA

It's Santa Claus time again. . .time for visions of sugarplums and super-special surprises. . .mysterious errands. . .whispered confidences. . .secret hiding places. . .all the wondrous anticipation that builds up in a home during the holidays.

In all the rushing and shopping don't forget to stock up on plenty of Pepsi-Cola. Be sure to stop by your favorite store today and pick up several cartons of refreshing Pepsi-Cola. It's always great to have on hand.
