

Gold Coin Minted

FIRST IN—Officials of the Franklin Mint check a gold coin after it was struck a few minutes past midnight at the plant near Media, Pa., early Tuesday morning. The coin, a 100-Balboa Panamanian piece, was the first gold coin minted in the United States in forty-one years. The minting press was electronically controlled by the clock on top of the unit to press the coin at midnight as the sale of gold became legal again in the country. (AP Wirephoto)

No Gold Rush By Tar Heels Today

By RICHARD WATERS
Associated Press Writer

There was no gold rush in North Carolina this morning after the 41-year-old ban on American ownership was lifted, although one Charlotte bank reported a flurry of orders.

Mickey Troutman, operations officer of Metrolina National Bank of Charlotte, said, "We've been so busy we haven't had time to count the orders. We've taken about 20 to 25 orders."

Troutman said the volume of orders was more than had been anticipated and they would be filed Thursday at the prevailing London gold market prices.

A spokesman for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc., of Raleigh said the brokerage firm did not have a "rush" this morning, but had taken three commercial orders and one individual order shortly after opening.

A Merrill Lynch spokesman in Charlotte confirmed that orders were being taken today, but directed inquiries to the New York office.

Spokesmen for Bache and Co., another brokerage firm, in Durham and Charlotte said they had received a large number of inquiries. The Durham spokesman said his office was to begin gold sales at 9:45 a.m. to coincide with the gold market opening.

Bob Stovall, resident manager and vice president of Bache's Charlotte office, said, "The market has been open 30 minutes and there is no great influx of orders. We have had many inquiries. We've had three orders, small orders, no sizeable ones."

Spokesmen for Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. and North-western Bank, two of the state's largest banking institutions, reiterated plans to begin selling gold on Thursday and said they were taking no advance orders.

"We are not going to be involved until Thursday when firm (gold) prices are available," said Dave Allen, Wachovia spokesman in Charlotte. Both banks will be closed New Years day.

A spokesman for The State Bank of Raleigh said, "We will have gold as a service to our customers, beginning Thursday."

In all, four North Carolina banks and two brokerage firms have announced plans to enter the volatile gold market.

Gold Trading Brisk But No Rush By Public

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer

New York (AP)—The initial public response today to the first day of legal gold trading in the United States in 41 years was rather quiet, banks and brokerage houses reported.

But at various commodities exchanges dealing in contracts for future delivery of gold, activity was unusually brisk. Trading on both the New York Mercantile Exchange and at the Commodity Exchange, Inc., also in New York, was halted only minutes after it began to allow traders to catch up with an influx of orders.

"It's a wild house here," a spokesman at the New York Mercantile Exchange said.

January 1975 contracts opened at $194 per troy ounce on the New York Mercantile, and at $189.50 at the Commodity Exchange.

On the Mercantile, contracts are for one kilogram — 32.151 ounces. On the Commodity Exchange, contracts are for 100 troy ounces. At the $194 opening price, one Mercantile contract would cost about $6,237. One Commodity Exchange contract at the $189.50 price would cost $18,950.

At Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Co. in New York, the nation's largest brokerage, a spokesman said there appeared to be "widespread interest" in futures trading, but he added that most of the early buying was being done by "professionals, including jewelers and dentists with experience in the metal."

At a Merrill Lynch office in Providence, R.I., however, commodities specialist Charlie Sedlak said, "People aren't knocking any doors down to purchase gold. It's no land rush business. The inquiries have been good, but purchases have been low."

The minimum amount being sold by Merrill Lynch is five troy ounces. The company is charging a markup of $2 an ounce over the base price, which is linked to the price on European markets, plus 5 per cent of the first $5,000 in value.

Restraint Generally Advised

Gold Is Available Here

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The 41-year-old ban on the private ownership of gold ends today, but so far, only two firms with offices in Greenville have plans to make investment in the precious metal available to their customers.

Most other financial institutions are taking a wait-and-see stance on the gold sale question.

R. W. Howard, senior vice-president of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. here said,

"We're participating in the gold market solely as a service and convenience to our customers. We realize there are individuals whose resources and personal choice of risk, enable them to make a more volatile and speculative type investment."

The Wachovia official emphasized, however, "In offering this service, we in no way intend to convey any endorsement or evaluation of gold as an investment vehicle. We would urge anyone considering gold as an investment to understand that it is a highly speculative investment and suggest an individual obtain the advice of his legal, accounting or brokerage counsel on how his personal finances might be affected by taxes and gains and timing and liquidity considerations."

Wachovia, Howard explained, will sell gold in either one of two ways.

First, he said, the bank will sell the specified amount of gold, then issue a gold certificate to the buyer "and actually keep the gold in our vaults for safe keeping."

The second method, he said, "will be to sell the specified amount of gold, and physically deliver it to the buyer at any Wachovia office. Now the buyer is responsible for any shipping and insurance costs and subsequent security."

Howard said the smallest amount of gold his bank will deal in is a "wafer", an ounce which will sell "in the neighborhood of $200."

It's important for the buyer to understand, Howard said, "if he takes delivery of the gold, then brings it back to the bank for resale, we would then require an assay, simply because we have not had control of the gold. And an assay is rather expensive."

"We'd also point out that since gold as an investment produces no yield, dividends or interest, it's a sterile type of investment. Any profit is dependent entirely on the price going up."

Howard noted, too, that if Wachovia handles a gold transaction, there will be a handling charge, and "the gold will be delivered in about seven days from the date of the order."

The purchase of gold, Howard emphasized, "is a highly speculative investment... in my personal judgment, and if our treasury (The United States Treasury) turns a portion of its present stock into the market for sale (as is expected in mid-January) it could have a strong effect in minimizing chances of price ap-

Quake Toll Again Rises

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
Associated Press Writer

PATTAN, Pakistan (AP) — Army helicopters today discovered two more villages virtually demolished by the earthquake that shook northern Pakistan last weekend, sending the estimated death toll to 5,200 and the number of injured to 16,000, officials said.

On Monday, rescue officials had estimated the casualty toll at 4,700 killed and 15,000 injured in nine villages.

Brig. Aftab Ahmad Khan, supervising the Pattan rescue operation, said 2,000 to 3,000 tents are urgently needed to provide shelter for those whose homes have been demolished, as well as medicine, blankets, food and "literally tons of plaster of Paris" to set thousands of broken limbs.

Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto helicoptered into Pattan, which is the center for relief operations, and appealed to the international community to respond to Pakistan's plight.

The major problem still facing rescue workers is the remoteness and inaccessibility of most of the earthquake region, 200 miles north of the capital of Islamabad amid the snow-capped peaks of the Karakoram Mountains.

The Karakoram Highway — the region's main artery — has been severed for 70 miles by the earthquake and is expected to take at least three weeks to clear, the army says.

Nearly all rescue work is being done by army helicopters which so far have been concentrating on supplying the two existing relief centers — here and at Bisham, 19 miles to the south.

This has left little time for complete aerial surveys of the hundreds of small villages and hamlets, many of them tucked away in remote valleys and literally on the lower mountain tops. The highest peaks soar to 15,000 feet in the area.

Reports from the growing wave of injured flocking here for medical treatment and food indicate that thousands are still in the mountains requiring urgent assistance.

Farmer Musha Koov and two brothers had just gone out into the yard to cut wood when the earthquake struck Saturday evening. It continued intermittently for the next 24 hours.

"Almost before I had time to turn around, the whole house collapsed," said Koov. "We clawed at the wreckage but we could not save our mother and three nephews. And eight cousins in another part of the village were killed."

The army says 500 of Pattan's 10,000 people were killed, 2,000 injured and about 400 houses destroyed or badly damaged.

Arrest Father, Help Babies

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—New Hanover County sheriff's deputies bought milk for the hungry twin sons of a man they arrested Sunday night on an armed robbery charge.

When Earland Blake, 20, of Wilmington, was arrested at his home, the 8-month-old boys were hungry and no food was in the house. Mrs. Blake told deputies she only $1, so they went out and bought milk for the children.

Blake and Talbert Dunn Jr. of Wilmington were charged in the armed robbery of a convenience store.

VANDALS STEAL FROM US ALL
When Highway 264 was widened, the Frog Level sign was taken down. Our community really would like another sign. H.H.

That vandalism is a serious problem for the Department of Transportation and for the taxpayers who, of course, pay the Commission's bills was pointed out when Hotline approached District Engineer C. W. Snell about your sign. He said numerous Frog Level signs have been erected and as many have come down at the hands of presumable souvenir seekers. He agreed to request one more Frog Level sign for your community, but said it would probably be the last. It would behoove us all to keep our eyes open for such vandals and report them to whatever law enforcement agency is appropriate.

License Granted

RALEIGH (AP)—A license to operate a nuclear power unit at a plant now under construction at Southport, N.C., has been granted Carolina Power and Light Co. by the Atomic Energy Commission.

CP&L officials said today that the license permits the company to proceed with initial fueling and preliminary testing of the unit. The first nuclear generating unit is scheduled to begin operation in the spring and the second unit is expected to be put into operation a year later, CP&L said in a news release.

The Brunswick plant at Southport has been under construction since 1969. When the first nuclear unit there begins operation, CP&L officials said 30 per cent of the company's electricity will be generated by nuclear fuel. When the second unit is activated, 45 per cent of the electricity will be generated by nuclear fuel.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The jury in the Watergate cover-up trial began its first full day of deliberations today amid indications it will not rush to judgment in its assigned mission "to ascertain the truth."

The jurors arrived early, a full half-hour before the defendants, who include three of the most powerful men in the administration of former President Richard M. Nixon and two employees of his 1972 re-election committee.

Dashing any expectations of a quick verdict, the jury's first major request after receiving the case Monday was for transcripts, some of them from the earliest stages of the three-month-old trial.

"We'd be trying this case all over again," said U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica as he turned down the request.

Defendants John N. Mitchell,

H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson remained in the courthouse while the jury was weighing their fate.

Providing the jury with transcripts was out of the question because the trial record contains bench conferences and testimony taken out of the jury's hearing, Sirica said.

An alternative would be to have the testimony read in open court but "if I were to grant this request, it would take approximately three weeks," the judge said.

Nine of the jurors are in their 50s and 60s and they have indicated in the past that a normal working day was enough. On Monday, the jurors sent the judge a note saying they wanted to quit for the day at 6 p.m.

By the time they were going back to their hotel Monday night the jurors had deliberated a few minutes short of four hours. They were to work on no verdict by quitting time to New Year's Day if there was day.

Watergate Cover-Up Jury In No Frantic Rush To Judgment

Severe Shortages Of Natural Gas For N.C.

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina industries are facing the most severe natural gas shortage of the winter today.

Fowler Martin, director of the state energy division, said every natural gas utility in the state has been cut back severely this week by their supplier, Transco.

Martin said the severely gas cuts appear to have hit North Carolina Natural Gas Co. of Fayetteville, which is now getting only 55 per cent of its normal supply, or seasonal entitlement.

Martin said the cutback is severe enough to force the closing of many factories which have not been affected by the gas shortage before.

These factories, he said, are "firm" natural gas customers. Under priorities established by the state, firm customers get gas before "interruptible" customers. In the past, only interruptible customers have been forced to do without gas.

The highest gas use priorities are reserved for residences and essential public buildings like hospitals. Martin said there was no danger that these categories would be cut back.

He said he was unsure why the cutbacks occurred. "Transco simply sent out a memo and notified the utilities that it had temporarily lost some of its gas supply," he said.

Martin scheduled meetings today with representatives of the gas utilities and the affected industries.

No Progress In Peanut Program Harmony Meet

FARMVILLE—Congressman Walter Jones met here yesterday with about 25 representatives of the peanut industry and U.S. Department of Agriculture officials in an effort to find agreeable solutions to the current controversy over the current peanut program.

Jones said yesterday's session was "very harmonious, but produced nothing. We haven't given up," he said, however. "We're still trying."

Jones said he and peanut industry leaders from North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Texas—including growers and manufacturers—met with Under Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yuetter, and Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service national administrator Kenneth Frick, as well as Bill Lanier, administrator of the peanut and tobacco program from ASCS, in an effort to come to some agreement on the peanut issue.

He explained that Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz has been interested in changing the present peanut legislation since the Wall Street Journal two years ago "wrote a horrendous article" about the peanut program, saying the support program was "costing the taxpayers $90 million per year."

Actually, the congressman said, "the peanut program has cost little or nothing" over the past two years. "... less than $1 million" with this amount being spent on administrative costs. "There has been no cost for payments to farmers for supports," he noted.

Jones said "the department (Department of Agriculture) insists on going to target price support, in lieu of the present parity support" program, and noted that "the growers are opposed to that approach."

The present peanut legislation—permanent legislation just as the tobacco support program—provides for 1.6 million acres production. "The secretary (Butz) wants a reduction to 1.2 million acres and target price support," according to Jones, as well as allowing anyone to plant peanuts, but not accord full support price."

As an example, Jones said growers could plant over the guaranteed allotment, but would receive only 60 per cent of the support price.

"What prompted the meeting," the congressman explained, is that "the secretary has the right to take certain steps," under the present legislation if an agreeable solution to the controversy is not reached.

Butz, the congressman noted, could suspend the leasing of peanut acreage, which is permitted now, or could hold all "Commodity Credit stocks of peanuts for resale at 115 per cent, rather than 100 per cent of its costs."

And Jones explained, "through the years, the peanut associations in various states have administered the program. He (Butz) has the right to change that and let the ASCS office administer the program."

"These are the three things he threatens to do if there is no compromise."

According to the law-maker, "the only plus factor yesterday" was the suggestion by the peanut interests, that Sec. Butz "take a second look at" a bill Jones introduced last year, but which never reached the floor of the House because "the Secretary of Agriculture withdrew his support."

The Jones bill provided for "open end production, to be supported at 60 per cent of the normal support price or world price, whichever is less," the congressman explained, "to encourage not too much over-production."

He noted too, that his bill was "a dated bill... for three years only," with a "reversion clause" that would allow the program to revert to the present legislation if the new program proved unsatisfactory.

"I don't know what the secretary is going to do," Jones said. But he noted "there will be another conference between now and January 15," in an effort to find a workable solution.

Prison Guards Rescue Hostages Of Inmates

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — Guards stormed their way into a prison hospital to rescue two women hostages who were being stabbed by convicts in one of two disturbances at the Washington state penitentiary.

The women were among 13 persons held hostages by prisoners during the disturbances which occurred at nearly the same time Monday. All of the hostages were later freed.

"Things are quiet," A. J. Murphy, prison information officer, said Monday night. "Everyone has been returned to his cell."

Murphy said charges probably will be filed against the two inmates involved in the hospital violence. Their identities were not released.

The two inmates forced their way onto the first floor of the three-story hospital and first seized two doctors. Then they released the doctors and moved to the second floor, taking six more hostages, Murphy said.

Prison Supt. B. J. Rhay and aide James Harvey negotiated with the inmates from the first floor for about one hour before 25 specially trained guards carrying riot sticks stormed the floor and freed the hostages.

As the guards entered the hospital, the inmates began stabbing two women hostages, authorities said. They said the two inmates by that time were under the influence of seized hospital drugs.

Stabbed were Wanda Goins, a registered nurse, and Annie Sporleder, a dental assistant.

Injured by broken glass were Delores Day, an office worker, and Mrs. Gene Miller, an X-ray technician. All four were reported in good condition at local hospitals.

About the same time, some inmates took control of a cell-block wing and held five guards hostage. Rhay and Harvey negotiated for their release after entering the cellblock unarmored. There were no injuries reported in that disturbance and the 200 inmates in the wing were returned to their cells while guards searched for weapons.

Officials said they did not know how many of the 200 took part in the disturbance, but they believed it was a small number.

Jobs Unfilled

RALEIGH (AP)—Because of declining gasoline tax revenue, 529 jobs vacancies in the state Department of Transportation have been left unfilled, Transportation Secretary Troy Doby said Monday.

Doby said if the jobs are left unfilled for a year, the state would save $4.3 million.

Doby noted that the department employs about 16,000 persons. He said the unfilled jobs are scattered among the department's various divisions and that service to the people will not be affected.

He said, however, if tax revenue continues to decline, the department may have to cut back on road maintenance and construction projects.

Doby said he began freezing jobs in October "because we could see that revenue was falling off." He said 440 jobs were frozen Nov. 1, but no announcement was made.

Eligible To Be Released

RALEIGH (AP)—A ruling by the North Carolina Court of Appeals may enable Joan Little to be released on bond.

Miss Little is being held in Women's Prison where she is awaiting trial in the slaying of a Beaufort County jailer.

Miss Little is in the prison under $115,000 bond—$100,000 in the slaying and $15,000 on her conviction in a breaking, entering and larceny case. However, prior to a Dec. 16 ruling by the Appeals Court she was not eligible for release on bond.

The court ruled that her conviction in the breaking, entering and larceny case, in which she was sentenced to 7 to 10 years, is still on appeal, hence her conviction is not final and she is eligible for release on bond.

Miss Little's attorneys, Jerry Paul and Karen Galloway of Durham, have been spearheading a drive to raise the $115,000 needed for Miss Little to be released under bond.

Paul said Monday that a coalition of volunteers has raised about $90,000 of the required amount and plans to intensify its efforts now that Miss Little is eligible for release.

Boy Sniper Kills 3, Wounds 6

By TIMOTHY J. MADDEN
Associated Press Writer
OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — An honor student who was one of the best marksmen on his high school rifle team faces arraignment today on three murder charges in the sniper shooting deaths of three persons at Olean High School. Six persons were injured.

Anthony Barbaro, 17, a senior, was captured Monday afternoon after police stormed a room on the school's third floor. The youth, lying on the floor and wearing an apparently defective gas mask, was not injured but was overcome by police tear gas, police said.

A National Guard tank had been sent to the school to help in the removal of injured during the bloody two-hour shooting rampage by the son of a manufacturing firm executive. Authorities said they did not know why the youth opened fire.

Classes were in recess for the holidays, but several pupils and school employees were in the building at the time.

Shot to death were Mrs. Carmen Wright, 25, who was riding by the school in a car; Neal Pilon, 58, a gas company meter reader who was gunned down on the street; and school custodian Earl Metcalf, 62, who was shot inside the school.

All of the injured were firefighters responding to a report of a fire at the school. One of them, Herbert Elmore, was reported in serious condition with a head wound. Several persons were cut by flying glass.

School Principal Louis Nicol said the youth ranked eighth in his class scholastically and had "no discipline problem whatever." Nicol described Barbaro as "quiet, more of a loner than not," and "a real good shot" on the rifle team.

Richard Krott, the school's head custodian, said the shootings began about 3 p.m. He and his 12-man crew were in the school doing routine maintenance when a school secretary told him there was a fire on the third floor.

He said he and his men rushed to the floor and found the hallway was filled with smoke. He said that shots were fired and he and his men fled. He said Metcalf, a custodian at Olean High for 27 years, failed to return with the others.

Metcalf, who had been shot in the chest, was found about 20 feet from the room where Barbaro was arrested.

A school administrator, George Pancio, said he saw two homemade firebombs on the third floor when he and other found Metcalf's body. The firebombs looked like chemistry beakers with rags stuffed in them, and the rags had been burned, Pancio said.

A force of about 50 state, local and county police had surrounded the building. State Police Maj. Arnold Bardossi said four troopers and two local policemen entered the school through a rear entrance and found the room where the sniper was barricaded. The door had been tied shut from the inside.

"The officers blew out the glass in the door with a shot gun, tossed in a tear gas canister and waited for about three minutes," Bardossi said. "When they entered the room, they found Barbaro on the floor wearing a gas mask. They recovered at least three rifles in the room. I think some other weapons the sniper had may have been thrown out the window."

Barbaro was carried from the school on a stretcher and was taken by ambulance to the city police station. He was held without bond.

Fear Is Great Enemy: Ervin

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a farewell statement before his retirement, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. says fear is America's great enemy, a corrosive and destructive force that can be overcome by truth and faith and courage.

Here, in his last newsletter to North Carolina constituents, the former chairman of the Senate Watergate committee sets forth a personal philosophy:

"The canny Scotsman, Thomas Carlyle, made a profound observation when he said, 'Man lives by believing in something: not by debating and arguing many things.'"

"Faith and courage constitute two of our most basic needs...."

"Faith, which is the evidence of things not seen, proves to men and women the reality of the positive beliefs by which we live and for which we are willing to die."

"Faith is not a storm cellar to which men and women can flee for refuge from the storms of life. It is, instead, an inner force which gives them the strength to face those storms and their consequences with serenity of spirit. In times of greatest stress, faith has the miraculous power to lift ordinary men and women to greatness."

"Faith is exhibited at its best in the lives of those men and women who trust the promises of God...."

"Fear has been the devastating enemy of mankind in all generations."

"People are probably more fearful today than they were at any time in the past. They are assailed on all sides by the old fears such as fear of economic insecurity, fear of unemployment, fear of loss of stature, fear of sickness, and fear of death. But if we are to overcome the fears which beset us, we must have courage."

"Courage often comes through the realization that the alternative to the impending danger is more dreadful than the danger itself...."

"Finally, courage results from having faith in ourselves, faith in the righteousness of our cause, and faith in the promises of God."

"If we will seek truth, keep faith, and have courage, I have no doubt that this nation can overcome all challenges from within and without."

MONDAY-SATURDAY

FARMVILLE—The First Christian Church here was the scene of the Saturday afternoon wedding of Nancy Burdette Joyner and Lt. (jg) Daniel Francis Duddy.

The double ring ceremony at 3:00 p.m. was performed by the Rev. J. Robert Parvin. A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. James M. Moore.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Augustus Joyner of Farmville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length white crepe gown by Pandora designed with a high neckline of crepe overlaid with chantilly lace and edged in ruffled val lace. The empire bodice featured a yoke of chantilly lace over crepe edged in the ruffled val lace. The long full sleeves and deep cuffs also featured the lace overlay and ruffled edging. The waistline was encircled with white satin ribbon with a bow and streamers in back. The modified A-line skirt featured a beribboned lace hemline which extended to an attached chapel length train.

She wore a tiered fingertip illusion veil attached to a Juliet cap covered in beaded chantilly lace appliques threaded with white satin ribbon. The bride carried a white orchid surrounded by white pom poms with streamers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Duddy of Groton, Mass.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and teaches in the Virginia Beach City Schools. The bridegroom attended Purdue University and is now serving in the United States Navy.

Cooking Is Fun

A first course of carrot and celery sticks, cucumber slices and cauliflowerets plus just one cooked artichoke — along with an especially good Curry Dip — has proven itself thrifty and nutritious enough to appeal to both planners of regular meals and the new vegetarians. We adapted the dip from "Forum Feasts," a collection of favorite recipes from friends of the Forum School, Waldwick, N.J. Profits from the book benefit the school. Because "Forum Feasts" has a wide range of well-documented rules chiefly from New Jersey it makes a worthwhile regional contribution to a collection of cookbooks.

CURRY DIP

1 pint real mayonnaise
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons chili sauce
1 tablespoon finely grated onion, pulp and juice
Small clove garlic, crushed
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon white pepper

Stir or whisk together all the ingredients; cover tightly and store in the refrigerator; keeps well. Makes about 2 1/2 cups. Good served with celery sticks and cucumber slices; raw or parboiled carrot sticks and cauliflowerets; cooked artichokes. Arrange vegetables on a tray with a bowl of the dip; add, if you like, small no-handle Oriental tea cups for individual portions of the dip.

Circle Holds Holiday Party

The annual Christmas party of the Maggie Little Circle of Sweet Gum Grove Church was held last week.

Mrs. Delma Brown, circle president, welcomed husbands and friends to the party, which was held in the community building.

A guest speaker from the Childrens Home gave a talk on "God's Greatest Gift—Jesus." Four girls from the home sang hymns and Christmas carols during the entertainment hour. Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served to approximately 40 people.

Major Development in Women's Haircoloring.

Get Rid Of Gray Hair Some Of It Or All Of It

Time-lapse photographs show how gradual action of Lady Grecian Formula lets you control just how much gray you slowly get rid of—some of it or all of it.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (Special)—Thousands of women all over the country are discovering a remarkable new product specially developed and tested for women's hair. It not only takes the guesswork out of hair coloring but also eliminates the gray roots problem that has for years been a thorn in the side of all women who color their hair. Lady Grecian Formula is not a dark messy dye. It is a colorless liquid as easy to use as water. There is no mess, no complicated instructions, no strand tests, no clock watching. Simply brush Lady Grecian Formula through your hair every day and you will see the gray slowly "fade away." You are in complete control. You can get rid of as much gray as you want—some of it, or all of it. When your hair reaches just the lovely natural-looking color you want, weekly use thereafter is all that's necessary to keep your hair just the way you want it with no gray roots problem ever. Lady Grecian Formula is available now at:

BIG VALUE

DISCOUNT DRUGS

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Last New Year's Eve you published nine rules for living. You suggested that they would make an excellent set of New Year's Resolutions, and that's exactly what I used them for.

I read them every morning, and can truthfully say that I am a much better person today than I was a year ago simply because I tried to live by those rules.

In my humble opinion, that was the best advice I've ever read. This is to thank you for that column, Abby, and ask you to please run it again for those who may have missed it. I hope it will do for others what it did for me.

I am not a teen-ager. I am a 33-year-old wife and mother, but we are never too old to learn, right?

STILL LEARNING

DEAR STILL: Right! But don't thank me. I didn't originate those rules. I paraphrased them.

It's the credo for Overeaters Anonymous—an organization of loving, caring, confessed compulsive overeaters who have regained their self-esteem by losing weight, feeling better, looking better and helping others to do the same.

Overeaters Anonymous is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous and Gamblers Anonymous. Both organizations have been hugely successful in rehabilitating compulsive drinkers and gamblers after all else has failed.

Their credo:

1. Just for today I will try to live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for twelve hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

2. Just for today I will try to be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

3. Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality. I will try to change those things which I can change, and accept those things I cannot change.

4. Just for today I will try to improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will exercise my soul in three ways: I will do a good deed for somebody—without letting them know it. (If they find out I did it, it won't count.) I will do at least two things that I know I should do, but have been putting off. I will not show anyone that my feelings are hurt; they may be hurt, but today I will not show it.

6. Just for today I will be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously, and speak ill of no one. Just for today I'll not try to improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

8. Just for today I will have a quiet half hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will try to get a better perspective of my life.

9. Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will give to me.

It makes sense, doesn't it? And so does their program. It's free. For information about this wonderful organization, write to Box 34854, Los Angeles, Calif. 90034.

P.S. Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

LOVE, ABBY

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I ran across an interesting statistic the other day. Due to the increase in crime, more people are getting dogs for protection and dog bites have soared 33 per cent since 1965.

Unfortunately, the dogs have been biting their owners, families, and friends. Few dogs seem to want to "get involved" where there is violence.

A couple of years ago we lived on a remote farm, and my husband bought me an Irish setter. She should have been owned by an attorney. She'd take on a moving car at 55 mph, a group of children jumping rope or a jogger having a coronary in front of the house. But when anyone suspicious came to the door, she'd run under the sofa and I'd have to drag her out, prop her up and push her lip back over her teeth all the while explaining, "Make one move toward me and she'll tear you apart."

Her name was Kate and she was as much protection as Cannon pursuing on foot. Late one afternoon, two guys appeared at my kitchen door requesting a drink of water. They said they were with the phone company, but they had no truck and no utility belt sagging down to their knees.

"Steady girl," I said propping Kate up on her feet and hanging onto her collar. The men began to snicker.

"I suppose she looks friendly to you," I said as Kate licked their fingers and the breeze from her tail nearly knocked them off the step.

"She sure seems friendly," they said.

"Actually she's been to obedience school and when I command 'K-I-L-L' she goes for the throat. If you will stand perfectly still and don't move any sudden moves, I'll get your water."

When I returned Kate was on her back, all four legs up in the air and her eyes closed drowsily as they rubbed her stomach.

"That's her crouch position and she's baring her teeth," I warned.

"Looks like she's yawning to me," said one of the men.

"I thought it would look that way to you," I smiled. "It fools a lot of people. Just look at the size of those paws."

He fingered one and when he dropped it, it fell limply back into place. "Well, we certainly thank you for the water. Bye Killer," they said while the dog nuzzled against their legs.

I pulled the dog inside and bolted the door as one of them remarked, "I'm sure glad to get away from here."

"The dog?" asked his friend.

"No, the woman. She's not playing with a full deck."

Mrs. Avery Entertains

Mrs. W. E. Avery entertained at a Christmas holiday season open house Friday afternoon.

The home was decorated throughout in a traditional Christmas motif with red poinsettias and red candles. The dining table was covered with an imported Irish linen cloth with shamrock squares and centered with a Christmas red poinsettia and red candles in silver candelabra.

The hostess, Mrs. Avery, greeted the guests at the door. Assisting in the dining room was Miss Ella Tucker Smith, Charlotte Worthington and Mrs. Ernest Holt poured Russian tea.

Mrs. Eric Whichard presided at the register, and Miss Deanie Boone Haskett said good-byes to the more than 40 guests who attended.

Luncheon Held By Group

The Sweet Gum Grove Extension Homemakers held their annual Christmas luncheon in the community building recently.

The building was decorated with pine cones, greenery, burning red tapers and a Christmas tree.

Mrs. Mayo J. Rogers welcomed the husbands and guests.

Mrs. Margaret Briley gave the devotional.

The luncheon table was covered with a holiday cloth and centered with a Christmas arrangements and lighted red tapers.

Gifts were exchanged following the luncheon.

Best Solution For Everybody

Sen. Sam Ervin has announced that he will give up his seat in the U.S. Senate two days early.

Officially Sen. Ervin's term was due to end Jan. 2. He did not seek re-election this year and Robert Morgan, who had been state attorney general, won the Senate seat through the primaries and general election this year.

It had been reported that Morgan was considering asking Sen. Ervin to step down early, with the possibility that Morgan would be appointed to fill the final days of the term and thus gain some seniority in the Senate.

To do that, of course, Sen. Ervin had to agree to the early resignation and Republican Gov. James Holshouser had to agree to appoint the Democratic senator-elect Morgan to fill the unexpired term.

Sen. Ervin said that he was resigning two days early because, under the law, he can be eligible for a 6.4 percent cost of living increase in retirement benefits by leaving office before the first of the year. The provision in the law was designed to encourage federal employees to retire at the end of a calendar year.

The appointment of Morgan to serve the two days left in Ervin's term could possibly have given some seniority over some other senator who was elected at the same time.

How helpful this would have been is becoming questionable since it seems fashionable for senators going out of office to retire early and allow their elected successors to be appointed. Sen. Fulbright announced his early retirement only last week.

Sen. Ervin's leaving office two days early cleared the way for Morgan to be appointed to the Senate position he will hold for six years beginning Jan. 3.

The whole issue became moot, however, when Morgan announced that he would not seek to have Gov. Holshouser appoint him to the Senate seat two days early. Reportedly Morgan carefully figured the odds of an early appointment on future seniority in the U.S. Senate. He found the seniority possibilities so remote that they were not worth the potential problems.

Morgan's decision is probably in the best interest of everyone. Gov. Holshouser did not have to be in the position of appointing a Democrat to the Senate—and there was no assurance that he would do so. Morgan, on the other hand, will owe no debt to the Republican governor. He will take office in a few days strictly his own man, elected by an overwhelming vote of the people to a full six-year term in the U.S. Senate. He can take his chances on the seniority question in the future.

EXPECTING A LOT OF A YOUNG FELLOW

U.S. Is Given Time

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials say the postponement of Leonid I. Brezhnev's visit to Cairo is "mildly encouraging" for the possible success of Henry A. Kissinger's step-by-step approach to a Middle East settlement.

Moreover, these officials say the postponement serves to ease Soviet pressures on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to swing away from the American strategy being pressed by Secretary of State Kissinger.

"It gives us a little more time," said one of the officials interviewed after the sudden postponement of Brezhnev's planned trip. The Soviet leader had been scheduled to visit Cairo in January. No new date was set for any future visit.

All agreed that Kissinger is working for a Middle East settlement against a deadline of next spring when the lease for U.N. buffer forces in the Sinai and the Golan Heights expires and when fighting could be resumed unless there is substantial diplomatic progress.

In the interim, Kissinger hopes to bring Israel and Egypt within negotiating range of each other. Proposals brought here earlier this month by Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon are currently the subject of an intensive diplomatic exchange. Allon's plans to return on Jan. 10 have not been changed by the Brezhnev development.

Kissinger is due back Thursday from his vacation in Puerto Rico. In his absence, the State Department is willing publicly only to reiterate confidence in a step-by-step approach. Spokesman Paul Hare was instructed to brush aside questions with "No comment."

However, top U.S. officials privately suggest Brezhnev called his visit off when he became convinced that Sadat (Continued on page 5)

Thousands, Not Just One

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Human nature is funny, that way.

Take the story of one little girl, give her a name and describe her big, wide eyes filled with tears, those little curls on her neck, and the floppy, rough gown she's wearing instead of a frilly little frock.

Then, describe how she lives every day in a room where the walls are dull brown ceramic tile instead of bright colors and happy pictures; how the floor has a drain in it so the room can be hosed down; how her bed is just a foot on either side from other beds because she is crowded into a dormitory room with twice as many kids as it was designed to hold.

Next, comes the clincher: because she is in a state institution for the mentally retarded she is becoming more like her friends and playmates every day—destined not to read and write and run and play and care for herself. Destined, just as surely as though she had a big sign around her neck, to become what she has been labeled—mentally retarded.

Wrong Label

But she isn't retarded. She started off in school, but couldn't learn. Couldn't talk properly either. Momma and daddy didn't know what to do when a teacher put the retarded label on her.

Some social workers agreed, and the little girl was bundled off to one of the state's four mental retardation centers.

But she isn't retarded; she just couldn't hear well, and as time went by she tried to cover that up by just not responding, and pretty soon, the not responding made her slower and slower.

Now she spends her days plodding through a dull, gray world. At meal times, four or five busy attendants plop trays down for a couple of hundred kids who have an hour or less to eat.

Some can't feed themselves; others get constipated and can't swallow; some throw their food, so she does too.

Human nature is funny. People would respond to the plight of that little girl and demand she be got out of there and given therapy and treated and rehabilitated and in a year or two she could be back home and going to school with her little playmates.

There is not just one such case in North Carolina. There are hundreds; possibly thousands.

"Of the kids in our mental retardation centers today, 70 per cent do not have to be there—and that's a conservative figure," says Human Resources Secretary David T. Flaherty.

There are between 5,000 and 6,000 kids in the four centers. "At Caswell Center alone, we have 400 more kids than the center was built to maintain."

No Staff

"At another center, we have over 900 kids who don't even need to be there. . . but we don't have the staff to get them out."

If Flaherty's conservative figures are correct, that means more than 4,000 Tar Heel children are behind the walls of cold institutions rather than living happy, rewarding lives.

When the staff is so busy simply trying to feed the children and keep the place clean, it's obvious that the institutions are custodial rather than rehabilitative.

Please, No Dramatics!

President Ford is getting whole carloads of advice these days on what to do about the ailing economy. If he wants my advice—and what president could not want my advice?—He will do as little as possible about the economy.

Americans are an impatient lot. We are geared to instant coffee, instant soup, and instant solutions. Among our national exhortations is the cry for instant action: "Don't just sit there, do something!" In the midst of the nail-biting and hair-tearing, it may be futile to observe that there are times when it is wiser not to do something; it may be wiser just to sit there.

My memory goes back to an evening, 35 years ago, when I shared an apartment at the University of Missouri with three adventurous fellows. Only one of us, Robert F. Hills of Philadelphia, was a qualified cook. Hills happened to be out of town. The rest of us embarked boldly upon making a beef stew, but it became evident, after a while, that the stew was not a success. It was terrible. Well, we said to one another, don't just sit there, do something. So we put in a can of pickled beets.

Look, Mr. President, I would say to our beleaguered Chief, beware the pickled-beet solution. If our people can hold on for another six months or so, giving the marketplace time to make its own adjustments, the worst may well be behind us. But if a do-something Congress plunges into dramatic tax cuts, thus provoking monstrous deficits, or if the Democrats impose their Kansas City platform with sweeping controls across the board, we will be in serious trouble for a long time to come.

The two problems, as everyone knows, are inflation and recession, and the delicate task is to alleviate the one without exacerbating the other. This is not a task for the President and the Congress alone. It is equally a task for labor and management, and for state and local governments also.

We will all be better off if we accept the unpleasant truth that there is no quick and easy solution. Every effective remedy, including the remedy of doing as little as possible, will be painful. The unemployment rate is quite likely to hit 9 percent before it begins to decline, and to be unemployed—to have no gainful work to do—is an agonizing experience. Nothing is more self-destructive to the spirit of a self-reliant human being than to find himself, in the dreadful British word, "redundant."

The cure for recession is to get people back to work, and to put dollars in their pockets. But the cure is bound to be ineffective if the dollars are inflated dollars, buying less than dollars bought before. That is what is happening now. With inflation racing along at an annual rate of more than 12 percent, the typical family is lagging behind Alice and the Red Queen. In their Looking-Glass World, they had to run as fast as they could just to stay in the same place. Wage increases today lose their meaning. For the past year, the wage earner has been running his legs off, and he is 5.6 percent behind where he was.

A moderate tax cut makes sense, especially if it is designed to relieve the (Continued on page 5)

The GALLUP POLL

Golda Again Most Admired

By GEORGE GALLUP
(Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J., — Former Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel, Mrs. Betty Ford and Mrs. Pat Nixon top this year's list as the women most admired by the American people.

Mrs. Meir, the top vote-getter, also won first place last year. She was second in 1972 and first in 1971.

Mrs. Ford, a newcomer to the list, wins the second greatest number of votes in this year's audit.

Mrs. Nixon is currently in third place and has been among the top ten most admired women for 11 years. Last year Mrs. Nixon was in second place.

Rose Kennedy, is fourth place this year (she was third last year), has figured prominently among the top ten since the late '60s.

In fifth place is Mrs. Happy Rockefeller, who with Mrs. Ford is the only newcomer to the list in 1974.

Rounding out the top ten are Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York and India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi (tied for sixth place), Coretta King (7th), Lady Bird Johnson (8th), Jacqueline Onassis (9th), and Mamie Eisenhower (10th).

In the survey, respondents were asked to give their choices without the aid of a list of names. This procedure, while opening the field to a wide range of choices, tends to favor persons who receive wide news coverage.

Many Have No Heroes
Many Americans appear to lack present-day heroes. A record 57 per cent of persons interviewed are unable to offer the name of a woman they admire most, while—as reported earlier—47 per cent of persons interviewed are unable to offer the name of a man they admire most.

This year's list of "most admired" women could be called "profiles in courage" since, with few exceptions, the women among the top ten have had to deal with a serious or tragic situation in their lives.

The following questions were asked in the survey:

"What woman that you have heard or read about, living today in any part of the world, do you admire the most?"

"Who is your second choice?"

Following are the top ten in the voting, with first and second choices combined:

Most Admired Woman—1974

1. Golda Meir
2. Betty Ford
3. Pat Nixon
4. Rose Kennedy
5. Happy Rockefeller
6. Shirley Chisholm and Indira Gandhi (tied)

7. Coretta King
 8. Lady Bird Johnson
 9. Jacqueline Onassis
 10. Mamie Eisenhower
- For comparison, here is the 1973 list:

Most Admired Woman—1973

1. Golda Meir
 2. Pat Nixon
 3. Rose Kennedy
 4. Shirley Chisholm
 5. Indira Gandhi
 6. Mamie Eisenhower
 7. Lady Bird Johnson
 8. Jacqueline Onassis
 9. Queen Elizabeth II
 10. Ethel Kennedy and Margaret Chase Smith (tied)
- Receiving honorable mention in the 1974 audit are (in alphabetical order): Rep. Bella Abzug, Shirley Temple Black, Angela Davis, Queen Elizabeth II, Princess Grace of Monaco, Ethel Kennedy, Billie Jean King, Dr. Margaret Mead, Martha Mitchell, Margaret Chase Smith, Gloria Steinem, and Barbara Walters.

In the latest survey a total of 1,517 adults, 18 and older, were interviewed in person in a nationwide survey conducted Dec. 6-9 in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation.

Strength For Today

GRATITUDE
It has sometimes been said that the Book of Psalms is sown with the seeds of thanksgiving. The Roman scholar Cicero called gratitude the mother of all virtues. The English statesman, Disraeli, somewhat cynically but perhaps aptly, called it the rarest of all virtues.

Most of us take almost every blessing of life as a matter of course. It seems to be only the rare person who is filled with a continual sense of thanksgiving for what he or she has received. Often the most grateful are not those who have received much, but those who have received little. Occasionally all of us have heard people of great affliction fervently repeat that they have much to be thankful for. Conversely, we have all heard people in easy circumstances bewail their bad luck or complain bitterly over some minor setback.

When we take all of our circumstances into consideration, it should be apparent to the great majority of us that our gratitude to God should be apparent to the great majority of us that our gratitude to God should be as habitual as the giving of his divine blessings is constant.

Gold-Buying: A Questionmark

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — All

through history man has been dazzled by gold, attributing to it properties that justified veneration and, contrarily, the most heinous of human behavior.

Another episode began today, accompanied by the same hopes, prayers, fears and greed, as Americans for the first time in 41 years are permitted to own the metal in its plain, unfabricated state.

Nobody knows what the future holds for gold, but they do know its past, that it always has been considered a repository of value, even when nothing else was, that it has always been acceptable in transaction—everywhere. The immediate question now is at what price will it be acceptable. Almost never since it was banned in the United States has faith in paper currency been so low, and for that reason people might buy hundreds of millions of dollars of the metal.

But, as nobody can fail to observe, another factor is involved in the latest gold rush, and that is the attraction of wealth. Gold is being promoted not as a conservatory of wealth but as the possible multiplication of it.

For decades the ownership of gold was considered conservative. Now it is looked upon and promoted as an opportunity for capital gains. It is true that gold has been a good investment over the past six or seven years, rising from under $50 an ounce to its present price around $200.

The intriguing question now is whether those who have held gold for the past few years will be inclined to act as insiders do in stocks, that is, sell and take their profits from the masses.

As yet, there aren't the compelling circumstances necessary for gold owners to feel secure in unloading their hoards. The world's monetary order still is shaky. Countries are near bankruptcy. Inflation rages.

But a good investor doesn't live in the present; he observes the present and tries to determine what it leads to. And, despite the gloom, there are some indications that nations might begin to set their houses in order.

Some of the other consequences are equally in-penetrable. Will people take money out of their savings accounts to buy gold? That is, will they take it out of circulation and, in effect, bury it in a can in the ground?

Money in a bank is "live" money, money in use, money doing things, such as financing housing or helping business expand. Money in bars of gold serves no similar purpose; in fact, it deprives industry of its needs.

Will it be merely a fad? Nobody knows how much gold really means to the American people, but many of the symptoms of a fad are present, including the popular fervor, the hucksters and the matching of amateur versus pro.

John Dean Cited CIA Reports On Demonstrators

Flaherty said current admissions are being reduced sharply through proper testing and screening before children enter.

But that is little solace to the children already inside—hundreds by mistake—for whom there is not enough staff to test and screen and find out what is really wrong and rescue them.

Conditions, Flaherty describes candidly, are intolerable.

Dormitories are stacked with beds a foot apart; staff simply to feed the children is not available and he fears that many children suffer malnutrition as a result; corrective programs are almost non-existent.

"Oh, I shouldn't be talking about things like this publicly. It's the sort of things parents and brothers and sisters shouldn't hear . . . it will make them worry about the care their loved ones are getting. And the tragedy is that so many shouldn't even be in an institution to start with," Flaherty said.

It's funny, the way people are. When you add a few zeroes to the number of children in trouble, it turns them off.

Flaherty is making children—he considers them the state's most important resource—his priority as secretary of Human Resources, and is taking the fight to save some kids to the public and to the General Assembly in the coming session.

White House under former President Richard M. Nixon received reports on demonstrators and radicals from the Central Intelligence Agency, according to a sworn statement by former presidential counsel John W. Dean III.

"It was approximately one month after I arrived at the White House that I was informed about the project that had been going on before I arrived to restructure the government's intelligence gathering capabilities vis-a-vis demonstrators and domestic radicals," Dean has testified under oath.

The former White House counsel, who was the first insider to accuse Nixon in the Watergate cover-up, told a congressional committee that after the new system was set up, "My office . . . received regular intelligence reports regarding demonstrators and radical groups from the FBI and on some occasions from the CIA."

Meantime, The Associated Press obtained access to a partial transcript of closed-door congressional testimony in which convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt Jr. said he was head of covert operations for a CIA unit linked in published reports to domestic spying.

And the Los Angeles Times reported today that a 50-page report from CIA Director William E. Colby to President Ford substantiates allegations that the agency engaged in some illegal spying on U.S. citizens.

Appearing before the Senate Watergate Committee on June 25, 1973, Dean said in his marathon opening statement that the drive for better domestic intelligence eventually led to the creation of an interagency Intelligence Evaluation Committee. That committee operated from late 1970 until July 1973.

maddening paradox that now results from our income tax laws. So long as present rates and brackets remain unchanged, one result is that an increase in earnings triggers an increase in taxes, which wipes out the increase in earnings.

A policy of "doing as little as possible" also would include some relief for the automobile industry and some relief for the home-building industry. These are the sick giants of our economy. Make them well—or at least make them better—and we will be on our way to recovery. But Mr. Ford is absolutely right, in my own view, in resisting the draconian surgery that some economists are urging on him. If the federal government runs up a $25 billion deficit this year, and $35 billion deficit next year, we will wind up with pickled beets in the stew. It is a prospect we ought to avoid.

The CIA was represented on the panel by counterintelligence chief James J. Angleton and his aide Richard Ober, both of whom have been identified in published reports as the managers of the CIA's domestic spying effort.

Dean denied that the intelligence committee had engaged in illegal domestic spying, but his remarks about the CIA were not followed up by the senators and were overlooked in the torrent of his sensational accusations against Nixon.

Efforts to reach the former counsel for amplification of his remarks were unsuccessful. Dean, 35, is serving a 1-to 4-year prison term after pleading guilty to a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the Watergate cover-up.

Two sources with first-hand knowledge have said that early in the Nixon administration the CIA transferred additional personnel into counterintelligence to work for Ober.

Angleton has denied he was

Repeater Sex Offender Ordered Freed Outright

RALEIGH (AP)—A repeated sex offender who has been free from prison for more than a year because of a prison clerical error, was ordered freed outright from his 60-year sentence for kidnapping Monday by the North Carolina Supreme Court.

Chief Justice William H. Bobbitt said that when James Cliff Roberts dragged 7-year-old Kathy Cates from a playground into an adjacent building in July, 1971, his conduct did not meet the definition of kidnapping the court set in an opinion last year.

To be convicted of kidnapping, a person must imprison his victim in a changed environment for an appreciable period of time, Bobbitt wrote. He noted Kathy's father rescued her within moments after she had been dragged from the playground.

"An unlawful and unexplained assault by an adult upon a 7-year-old girl must be regarded as base and contemptible," Bobbitt wrote in a

5-2 decision. "Yet since Kathy was rescued immediately unharmed, the offense under consideration cannot be considered the sort of conduct for which life imprisonment (the maximum sentence in North Carolina for kidnapping) is permissible and for which a sentence of imprisonment for 60 years was actually imposed."

Bobbitt's opinion sparked a sharp dissent from Associate Justice J. Frank Huskins who charged the ruling leaves the kidnapping law in a confused and virtually unenforceable state, which will cause the court to issue further definitions and "only dig up more snakes."

The Supreme Court ruling was the latest in a series of legal and fateful twists that have kept Roberts from serving prison terms since he was a teenager.

After conviction in the Cates incident, he was given a six-month sentence for assault and a stiff 60-year term for kidnapping after Judge James H. Pou Bailey heard extensive evidence of Roberts' past charges and convictions for attacks on little girls.

Roberts went to prison and served 13 months. But in November, 1973, a clerical error in the Department of Corrections freed him. He still had 59 years left to serve in the kidnapping case.

Roberts was living in Alexandria, Va., working in a carpet plant, when he was charged with rape under an assumed name in Baltimore in March. He was acquitted of the charge, but was arrested on the North Carolina charge and chose to fight extradition.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were generally steady Monday. Supplies were barely adequate and demand was good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs delivered to nearby outlets: grade A large whites 75.78, medium whites 73.74, small whites 63.48.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Corn and soy bean prices were weaker at North Carolina's leading grain markets Monday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn 3.25-3.30 in the East, 3.30-3.42 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans 6.51-6.60, mostly 6.55-6.56. Milo 5.00-5.60.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took a strong upward turn in busy year-end trading today amid some apparent hopes for a rally once selling for 1974 tax purposes was out of the way.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 6.89 at 610.14, and gainers more than doubled the number of losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

The NYSE ticker tape ran late for much of the morning while investors made last-minute tax maneuvers and investing institutions moved to put the final touches on their portfolios for year-end reports.

Analysts said the market's relative steadiness over the past few days in the face of tax-selling pressures had prompted some expectations of a rally in the first sessions of 1975.

They also noted an air of hope that President Ford's State of the Union message a few weeks from now would contain broad new measures to deal with the nation's economic and energy problems.

Westinghouse Electric was the most-active issue on the Big Board, gaining 1/4 to 10 1/4 on top of a 1 1/2-point rise Monday. Over the weekend the company announced plans to sell its major appliance business to White Consolidated Industries, and on Monday, it disclosed an agreement to sell two European elevator operations to a Finnish concern.

Stokely-Van Camp, which reported sharply higher earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 1, rose 1 1/4 to 13 1/4.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite common-stock index was up .42 at 35.77.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index gained .29 to 59.13.

Obituaries

Gorman
RICHMOND, Va.—Mr. Thomas M. Gorman died Sunday at his home in Richmond. Funeral services were held today at 2 p.m. at the Southern-Brown Chapel, 425 N. Boulevard, Richmond.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Evelyn B. Gorman; and one daughter.

He attended McGuire University and was a retired tobaccoconist. He was associated with his father in the operation of Gorman's Warehouse.

Stokes
Mr. Jennings B. Stokes Sr., 74, died in Duke Hospital in Durham Monday.

The funeral service will be conducted at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Linwood McKinney, his pastor. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Stokes was a lifelong resident of Pitt County and was a retired farmer. He was a member of Red Banks Primitive Baptist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mamie Rouse Stokes; six sons, George W. Stokes of Edenton, Fred Stokes of London, England, Col. Elbert R. Stokes of the U.S. Air Force, now stationed in New Hampshire, James H., J. B. Stokes, and Melvin B. Stokes, all of Greenville; six daughters, Mrs. Robert King of Tarboro, Mrs. Ray Everett of McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., Mrs. Marvin Balkie of Havelock, Mrs. Junior Tyson of Washington, Mrs. William O. Mills of Mocksville, and Mrs. John Brewer of Paoletto; 31 grandchildren; seven great grandchildren; two brothers, J. Oscar Stokes of Hamilton and Will Stokes of Charlotte; and a sister, Mrs. Dalton T. Jones of Greenville.

The family will receive friends from 7-9 p.m. tonight at the funeral home.

Moore
Mrs. Mattie Braxton Moore, 92, widow of John W. Moore, died in the Greenville Nursing Home Monday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 Wednesday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Frank Smith, pastor of the Ballard's Crossroads Missionary Baptist Church. Burial will be in Hollywood Cemetery in Farmville.

Mrs. Moore, a native of Pitt County, was reared in the Ballard's Crossroads Community and after her marriage moved to the Ormondsville Community where she made her home until 1968. Since that time she had lived with her daughter, Mrs. Lydia Butts, in Farmville. She was a member of St. Delight Free Will Baptist Church at Ormondsville. Her husband died in 1963.

Surviving are six daughters, Mrs. Lydia M. Butts, Mrs. Carrie M. Elks and Mrs. Willie Mae Cox, all of Farmville; Mrs. Rena M. Taylor of New Bern, Mrs. Aspie M. Willis of Elm City, and Mrs. R. T. Almond of Newport News, Va.; two sons, D. Belmont Moore of Washington and Melvin L. Moore of Walstonburg; 51 grandchildren; 102 great grandchildren; and 21 great great grandchildren.

The family will be at the home of Mrs. Lydia M. Butts, 201 W. Pine Street in Farmville.

Thefts And Break-Ins

There were three breakings and enterings reported in Pitt County Monday morning, Sheriff Ralph Tyson said.

Some 15 truck tires, a freight cover, a gas heater, and an adding machine were reported stolen from Oliver Murphrey Transfer on Highway 264 west of Farmville. Value was placed at $2,160.

Ten of 12 corned hams were all known to be missing from the Red and White Store in Grifton. Value was about $60.

Twelve to 15 cases of beer were reported taken from Earl Bray's Store on Rt. 8, Greenville after entrance was apparently gained through a cut screen on a rest room window.

The Sheriff said the Department is investigating the two rural incidents, and is assisting the Grifton Police Department in investigating the Red and White theft.

Nicaraguan Terrorists Said Very Professional

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—One of their captives described the Nicaraguan guerrillas who freed 13 hostages after a 2 1/2-day siege and flew to Cuba with about $500,000 and 14 comrades as "cool, calm professionals."

"They were all very young," said Laszlo Pataky, 57. "I would say most were much younger than 25 but they were not nervous. One of the girls said they would fight to the death if they didn't succeed."

Three women were among the eight members of the Sandinista Liberation Front who invaded a suburban home during a cocktail party Friday night, killed the host and two police guards and took the other 33 persons in the house captive.

The terrorists released 20 women, children, servants and musicians on Saturday and Sunday. They demanded $5 million and safe passage to Cuba for themselves and Sandinistas in jail in exchange for the 13 other hostages, who included Nicaragua's foreign minister and its ambassadors to the United States and the United Nations.

The guerrillas freed their remaining hostages Monday afternoon and were flown to Havana along with 14 other Sandinistas who were released from prison. They were accompanied by the Spanish and Mexican ambassadors to Nicaragua, the papal nuncio and Archbishop Miguel Obando y Bravo, the go-between in the negotiations between the government and the terrorists.

Instead of the $5 million they demanded, they got "less than half a million dollars," President Anastasio Somoza told newsmen as the Nicaraguan airliner returned from Havana with the two ambassadors and the two prelates. The Mexican ambassador said Cuban militiamen took the guerrillas off the plane.

"They treated us very well," reported Foreign Minister Alejandro Montiel Arguello. "The only bother is that I haven't bathed in three days; I haven't shaved in three days; I haven't changed clothes in three days, and I stink. My back hurts because I had to sleep on the floor. I just want to go to sleep in my own bed."

The Sandinista Liberation Front is named for guerrilla leader Augusto Sandino, who fought the American occupation of Nicaragua from 1927 to 1933 and was assassinated in 1934 on orders of Gen. Anastasio Somoza, the founder of the ruling dynasty and the father of the current president.

New Officers For Probation, Parole

Charles A. Hester of New Bern was today appointed Branch Supervisor for Branch F of the North Carolina Department of Correction's Division of Adult Probation and Parole.

Lawton Nisbet, of Interstate Securities, the other firm with a local office set to allow investment in the costly metal, said gold transactions by his firm will be through certificate, only. Interstate, he explained, will not be selling pure gold or gold bullion (995 fine, or 995 parts per 1,000 gold) for delivery to buyers.

Nisbet explained that investments in "Bars of Gold" can be made through Interstate Securities, "but you own a share-interest in this bullion, along with other people. It doesn't cost as much to buy this way," he said.

He said the "smallest interest" a purchaser can invest in "Bars of Gold" is $1,500.

He said the "smallest interest" a purchaser can invest in "Bars of Gold" is $1,500. "It's just like owning gold. There's no income or interest from it. If gold goes up, the value of your holding increases in value."

The most important thing, according to Nisbet... "you won't have to pay a high commission to buy it or sell it, or pay anything for storing it... having it assayed or insured."

"We won't sell gold bars or bullion itself, just interest in 'Bars of Gold'."

However, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith—a brokerage firm with offices in Wilson, will have the gold delivered to the purchaser, if that's what the buyer wants. Merrill Lynch official Fess Parker said "definitely" his firm will sell gold... any way there is a gold market, Merrill Lynch will be participating in it," including gold bullion and the gold futures market.

The smallest amount a customer can purchase from Merrill Lynch, according to Parker, is five ounces, with the smallest delivery in 1/2-ounce bars.

For smaller purchases, Parker recommended investors visit a bank "or someone else."

"We will not handle gold in our offices, but conduct the transfer similar to the way we buy and sell securities. But we will provide the packages to ship gold to our partner in this endeavor," for re-sale.

He noted that the Wilson office of Merrill Lynch will be offering "free storage for

A Quiet Day Is Anticipated On Wednesday

Greenville will probably be a quiet town on Wednesday since all city, state, county and federal offices will be closed for the New Year holiday.

According to Harold Creech, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, all banks will be closed Wednesday. Most business firms and merchants in the area will be closed for the holiday. The Greenville Chamber office will be closed for one day for the observance of the new year.

City and county schools will resume their normal schedule on Thursday following a two-week holiday for Christmas and New Years.

The town offices in Winterville, Ayden and Grifton will also be closed on Wednesday. They will reopen on Thursday and resume normal operations.

Revival Begins On Thursday

GRIMESLAND — Revival services will begin Thursday night at the Grimesland Free Will Baptist Church and will continue through Sunday.

Evangelist Bobby Jackson will be the guest speaker each evening at 7:30. There will be special singing during the services.

A nursery will be provided. The pastor, Charlie M. Dixon, invites the public to attend.

Shad Festival Contest Opens

GRIFTON—The 1975 Grifton Shad Festival fishing contest officially open Wednesday and the first hickory shad taken on hook and line and entered at the Grifton Sport Shop will win a prize.

The contest ends on April 4 at noon, the first day of the three-day Shad Festival observance.

PIG STOLEN
Someone stole a pig valued at $45 Sunday night or early Monday morning. The Sheriff's Department reported the theft occurred on the farm of Jesse Jones near Ham's Crossroads. Investigation is continuing.

Saratoga Takes Two From Eagles

SARATOGA—Saratoga Central High School romped to a trio of victories over Robersonville High School last night. The varsity took a 65-46 win, while the girls came away with a 62-30 win. The junior varsity made it a clean sweep with a 56-50 victory.

In the girls' game, neither team could find the range in the first period, with Saratoga inching to a 4-3 lead. But in the second period, Saratoga warmed up, pushing through 25 points. Robersonville got only nine and trailed, 29-12 at the half.

Saratoga continued to pull away in the third period, hitting 17, while Robersonville upped its total to 13, but still fell back, 46-25. Saratoga outshot Robersonville, 16-5, in the final period to wrap it up.

Connie Langley led Saratoga with 20 points, while Phyllis Ward had 13. Beatrice Forrest led Robersonville with 12.

In the boys' game, Saratoga edged out into an 18-12 lead in the first period. They weren't able to get away from the Eagles in the second period, however, outpointing Robersonville only 13-12. That made it 31-24 at the half.

But in the third frame, Saratoga romped away to a 20-8 margin, and that made the difference, pushing the hosts into a 51-32 lead. Both teams hit 14 points in the final period.

John Langston and James Sharpe each had 14, while Murdock Suggs had 13 and Johnny Eason had 12 for Saratoga. Willie Andrews led Robersonville with 12, while Gregory Bonds had 10.

Robersonville travels to South Edgecombe on Friday.

State Holds To First On Poll

By The Associated Press

North Carolina State rings in the New Year as the No. 1 team in the world of college basketball — but Kentucky has something to cheer about, too.

The Wildcats leaped into the Top Ten by dumping Notre Dame 113-96 Saturday night in a battle of ranked teams. Kentucky, 17th a week ago, rose to ninth place on a 7-1 record in The Associated Press voting released Monday, while the Irish, now 4-3, plummeted from 13th to a tie with Memphis State for 19th place.

Oregon, 7-0, also rocketed eight places to the No. 11 spot, after beating Villanova then reaching the final of the Far West Classic with victories over Creighton and Arizona State. Despite the loss, Arizona State moved into the rankings as the No. 16 team with a 9-1 record.

North Carolina State, 8-0, remained atop the weekly ratings, again followed by 10-0 Indiana, 8-0 UCLA and 7-0 Louisville. The Wolfpack, who conquered Pitt and Kent State last week, received 756 points and 26 of 40 first-place votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The Hoosiers, who beat Florida and Ohio State in the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, were favored on 11 ballots and wound up 40 points behind N.C. State.

UCLA received two first-place votes and 668 points after winning the Maryland Invitational by handing Maryland its first loss of the season. The loss left the Terrapins with a 7-1 record and dropped them to seventh from fifth.

Louisville captured the remaining No. 1 vote and 568 points after winning its own Holiday Classic by beating Western Kentucky and Florida State.

Southern Cal, 8-0 after routing Rutgers in the Holiday Festival in New York, and Alabama, 5-0, after beating Virginia Tech, advanced one place to sixth and seventh, respectively. Rutgers' loss dropped the Scarlet Knights to 8-2 for the season and out of the rankings.

North Carolina, 5-1, held on to eighth place after edging Utah 94-91, and Providence, 7-0, moved up two places to 10th behind Kentucky after two Holiday Festival triumphs.

Joining Oregon in the Second Ten were No. 12 Penn, Marquette, Arizona, South Carolina, Arizona State, Michigan and Purdue with Notre Dame and Memphis State, tied for 19th.

Penn was ninth a week ago, Marquette 14th, Arizona 10th, South Carolina 11th, Purdue 15th and Memphis State 16th. Michigan and Arizona State are newcomers.

Error-Prone Texans Fall To Auburn, 27-3

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

AP Sports Writer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)

— The most famous quote in Darrell Royal's quotable career goes something like this: "Three things can happen when you pass the ball, and two of them are bad."

He was referring to incompletions and interceptions.

But Royal, the foremost exponent of the famed wishbone rushing offense, learned the hard way Monday night that three things can happen when you run the football and two of them are bad: you can gain ground, lose ground or fumble.

Royal's 11th-ranked Texas Longhorns, a one-touchdown favorite, proved the rankings correct and the oddsmakers wrong by dropping an error-filled 27-3 decision to sixth-rated Auburn in the 30th Gator Bowl game.

The Longhorns lost four of five fumbles, all in the first half. They also lost the ball on three pass interceptions, botched several handoffs on their tricky kickoff return plays, had a punt blocked for a safety and were penalized at crucial stages.

Since they closed out the regular season by whipping Texas A&M more than a month ago, little has gone right for the Longhorns. A combination of final exams, Christmas Vacation and inclement weather prevented them from doing any contact work this month.

Monday night, things got worse. They had trouble with the phone lines between the field and scouts in the press box and Royal's headset picked up the ABC-TV feed at one point.

They had to play on grass for the first time in more than a year — grass made slippery by the Florida humidity. And they were penalized twice for an illegal exchange on kickoff return handoffs.

Auburn, too, made mistake after mistake, but most came in Texas territory and turned out to be harmless. The Tigers also committed seven turnovers — five fumbles and two interceptions — and were penalized 70 yards to 37 for Texas.

Two quick touchdowns midway through the first period vaulted Auburn into a 14-0 lead and proved once again that the wishbone isn't meant to be a catch-up offense.

Phil Gargis flipped a seven-yard scoring pass to Ed Butler with less than seven minutes gone in the game, and Mitzi Jackson scored from two yards out less than two minutes later. Jim McKinney blocked a Texas punt through the end zone for a safety that made it 16-3 at halftime.

Gargis, who threw for only five touchdowns during the regular season, and Butler, who caught just two passes all year, teamed up for another score late in the game, a 14-yard strike. Chris Wilson's 28-yard field goal with nine seconds left closed out the scoring.

"Because we didn't have any contact work, I said before the game that anything we did would have to be from memory, and apparently we didn't remember very well," Royal said.

While Texas came up empty in its first Gator Bowl appearance, Auburn won for the fourth time in six trips, including the last three. Shug Jordan, who has coached all six of Auburn's Gator Bowl clubs, is looking forward to No. 7.

Orange Bowl Matchup Is Finishing Touch

By HOWARD SMITH

AP Sports Writer

Powerful Alabama, big, bad, unbeaten and hoping for a national championship, faces ever-popular Notre Dame, big, bad, somewhat beaten but hoping to redeem itself Wednesday night in an emotional climax to college football's 1974 season.

The Crimson Tide, 11-0 and ranked second only to Oklahoma, will meet the ninth-ranked Fighting Irish, 9-2, before a packed house in the Orange Bowl and a national television audience. But before that, there are some preliminaries to clear up.

Nebraska of the Big Eight Conference and Florida of the Southeastern Conference will match 8-3 records tonight in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans. Penn State, 9-2, carries Eastern grid hopes into Dallas Wednesday against Baylor, 8-3, surprise winner of the Southwest Conference, in the Cotton Bowl. And Big Ten co-champion Ohio State, 10-1, visits Pacific-8 titlist Southern California, 9-1-1, in the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., also Wednesday.

Monday night, sixth-ranked Auburn dumped Texas 27-3 in an error-filled Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., that saw the teams lose the ball on turnovers seven times apiece. In between miscues, quarterback Phil Gargis threw touchdown passes of seven and 14 yards to wingback Ed Butler.

The Alabama-Notre Dame game has enough emotional factors to stir the heart of even the most jaded Hollywood B picture producer. Coach Bear Bryant of Alabama has been turning out dynamite teams that fizzle in post-season competition for years. He has one tie and six losses to show for his last seven bowl appearances. "It looks as if I will go down as the losingest bowl coach in history," moaned Bryant. "I would like to keep that from happening."

Bryant's last bowl loss came last New Year's Eve in the Sugar Bowl when Coach Ara Parseghian's Irish won the national championship with a thrilling 24-23 decision. As if revenge isn't enough, the Tide will also be going for the national title.

An impressive showing could boost them ahead of Oklahoma, 11-0, in the Associated Press poll. The Sooners are barred from post-season competition for past recruiting indiscretions.

On the Notre Dame side, the Irish will be out to win one for Ara, who has decided to give up college coaching after 11 seasons at the Irish helm.

Notre Dame will also be out to erase the sting of a humiliating 55-24 loss to Southern Cal in the regular-season finale.

While emotions build in Miami, seats are still available in New Orleans where the Nebraska-Florida clash has failed to ignite the populace.

Despite equal records, Nebraska is a solid two-touchdown favorite. Florida star wide receiver Lee McGriff has his own pre-game analysis.

"I think it's quite possible they could blow us out of the park," said McGriff. "I also think it's possible we could blow them out of the park."

In Dallas, Penn State's Joe Paterno and Baylor's Grant Teaff have been offering observers a lesson in contrasting coaching philosophies. Penn State has rented 40 cars to carry the team sightseeing around town. Baylor's Teaff has imposed a strict curfew and has been lecturing his troops on the importance of going to bed early and getting up early.

Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin of Ohio State and runnerup Anthony Davis of Southern Cal will match football in the Rose Bowl where the Trojans will be trying to avenge a 42-21 loss to the Buckeyes last season.

"We've got to stop what they do best," said USC defensive tackle Gary Jeter, referring to Griffin. "We've got to control the line of scrimmage. If we do, I feel we can win the ballgame."

Woody Hayes, volatile Buckeye coach, meanwhile, continues to defend his three-yards-and-a-cloud-of-dust offensive philosophy.

"The fancy teams finish ninth and tenth in the conference," said Hayes. "We'll let them do the bouncing around with the football. This isn't basketball you know."

Eastern Clubs Capture Tourney Titles

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Eastern college basketball in general, and New York ball in particular, got a big shot in the arm Monday night as Fordham, St. John's and LaSalle all won holiday tournaments, beating a trio of top-ten teams in the process.

Fordham, an 11-point underdog to Pacific-8 powerhouse Southern California, got 24 points from Darryl Brown and 22 from Kevin Fallon and upset the fifth-ranked Trojans 83-66 to win the ECAC Holiday Festival before a wildly partisan throng of 11,117 at Madison Square Garden in New York.

In Providence, R.I., Mel Utley poured in 25 points to lead St. John's, N.Y., to a 91-79 triumph over Providence, giving the Redmen the title in the ECAC Ocean State Holiday Festival and ending the Friars' 41-game winning streak at the Providence Civic Center.

And LaSalle's Joe Bryant snapped a 73-73 tie with a tip-in with 30 seconds to go, then added another basket at the buzzer to give the Explorers a stunning 77-73 upset over sixth-ranked Alabama in the final of the Sugar Bowl basketball tournamant at New Orleans.

In the stunning round of upsets, No. 12 Penn, No. 15 South Carolina and No. 19 Memphis State also went down to defeat.

Meanwhile, in the final of the Rainbow Classic at Honolulu, second-ranked Indiana turned back Hawaii 69-52. The victory was the undefeated Hoosiers' 11th of the season.

Big Kent Benson collected 15 of his 17 points in the first half as Indiana built a 41-30 halftime lead. Steve Green, who topped the Hoosiers with 18 points, scored 10 in the second half.

All three Eastern teams — Fordham and St. John's are in New York City, LaSalle in Philadelphia — were heavy underdogs, and none boasted rankings in the top 20.

Southern Cal Coach Bob Boyd was deeply upset by his team's loss, its first after eight wins. "They just beat us in every department. They outshot us, they outrebounded us, they out-hustled us." St. John's dealt Providence its first loss after seven triumphs, and stunned a crowd of 12,069 in the process. Glen Williams' layup snapped a 65-63 tie midway through the second half, putting the Redmen on top to stay, and seven straight points with about five minutes to go sealed the decision.

LaSalle held a 13-point lead over Alabama at the half, but the Crimson Tide finally drew even with 1:24 to play on a short jumper by Johnny Dill.

LaSalle worked deliberately for one shot. Guard Charlie Wise took a 15-foot jumper with 30 seconds to go that spun off the rim, but Bryant tipped it in to make it 75-73.

Wise stole the Alabama toss in but missed a shot, so the Crimson Tide had the ball again — only to commit an offensive foul with eight seconds left, giving the ball back to LaSalle.

Oregon, ranked 11th, won the Far West tourney, coming from behind in the second half to beat Washington State 74-65 and raise its record to 8-0.

Forward Greg Ballard scored 19 of his 23 points in the second half as Oregon erased a 32-27 halftime deficit, using a tight man-to-man defense to force 12 Washington State turnovers in the second half.

In the consolation game of the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu, 12th-ranked Penn led Tulsa 75-72 with 3:49 to play when Zack Jones of the Golden Hurricane sank a free throw, then stole the ball and went in for a tying layup. Another turnover gave the Hurricanes the ball with 2:07 to play and they held the ball for one last shot.

Ken "Grasshopper" Smith, who had scored 20 first-half points but had been held to three field goals in the second half, took it with three seconds left. He was fouled by Penn's Ron Haigler, and when Quaker Coach Chuck Daly walked onto the court to dispute the call, he was hit with a flagrant technical foul.

That gave Smith a total of four free throws, and he made them all for Tulsa's eighth victory in 10 games. Tim Carson sank two free throws in the final second for the six-point margin.

Bob Elliott scored 30 points and 14th-ranked Arizona reeled off 14 in a row in the first half en route to an 80-67 triumph over Stanford, despite 23 points and 13 rebounds by the Cardinals' 7-foot center, Rick Kelley. Larry Haralson scored 21 points to lead Drake to a 92-71 upset of 15th-ranked South Carolina in consolation play in the ECAC Ocean State tourney. Drake shot 53 per cent from the field, opened a 42-30 halftime lead and coasted home.

Arizona State, ranked 16th, raised its record to 10-1 by coming from 10 points back in the second half to beat Oregon State 80-71 for third place in the Far West Classic. Guard Lionel Hollins scored 22 points and paced the Sun Devils with his ballhandling and defense.

Calvin Bruton, playing with a leg cast to protect torn ligaments in his right foot, scored 18 points and guided Wichita State to a 95-91 upset over 19th-ranked Memphis State.

Adrian Dantley's 35 points and 11 rebounds carried Notre Dame, which is tied for 19th with Memphis State in the national rankings, to a 93-83 victory over pesky Butler.

In the finals of the Big Eight tournament, Rick Suttle's twisting jumper with 38 seconds to play lifted Kansas to a 76-75 triumph over Iowa State.

In the Virginia Commonwealth Classic, the host team was buried by a 16-2 spurt in the second half, with Sonny Parker scoring 10 of the points — and dropped an 84-70 decision to Texas A&M in the final. Parker finished with 27 points on 13 of 17 shooting from the field.

In other games, Brigham Young beat Bradley 100-87, Ohio U. defeated Loyola of Chicago 75-63, Tennessee whipped Vermont 115-66 and New Mexico State stymied Texas-El Paso 61-39.

And DePaul Coach Ray Meyer, who got the 500th victory of his career Saturday night, has started on his next half-century. Freshman Dave Corzine scored 20 points and Ron Norwood added 18 to lead DePaul to a 76-63 triumph over North-western.

Price Tag Is $3.75 Million

AHOSKIE, N.C. (AP) — Five teams will make what could be their final pitch today for Catfish Hunter. And a high baseball source says the 28-year-old righthander and his attorneys asked one team for a contract totaling $3.75 million.

Thomas Cherry, one of four attorneys working with Hunter on the contract negotiations, acknowledged Monday night that the bidding had been reduced to five teams.

The San Diego Padres, Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees, Kansas City Royals and Atlanta Braves all maintain they are still in the running and when questioned about the still-crowded field, Cherry said:

"If they say they are still in the running, you would be correct in saying so."

Cherry himself refused to specify the teams because, "I don't feel at liberty to divulge them. (But) if an individual club is willing to say it is in the running, we will confirm it. We anticipate an announcement on who he will sign with shortly."

No one here would say when a contract might be reached. Cherry said it would be from one to 10 days, Phil Seghi, general manager of the Indians, predicted Catfish would be hooked within two days and Yankee President Gabe Paul said, "It's getting down to the nitty-gritty now."

Paul made that comment after his third meeting on Monday with Hunter and his attorneys. Sandwiched between them were one session with the Indians and a telephone conference call with three Padres officials.

Ruly Carpenter, Philadelphia Phillies president, withdrew his team from the bidding Monday, saying a $2.6 million offer was too small. The Texas Rangers said their $2.5 million offer was rejected.

A major league baseball source said he had seen the proposal Hunter and his attorneys gave to one team. He said it called for $2.5 million for Hunter, $200,000 in attorneys' fees and $1.05 million in insurance policies for Hunter and his children.

The source said the proposal called for a $1 million bonus for Hunter, a five-year contract at $200,000 per year, a 10-year retirement plan at $50,000 a year, a $1 million life insurance policy for Hunter and a $25,000 policy for each of his two children. The proposal was said to ask that $50,000 of the salary be deferred each year for 10 years and that the $1 million policy be paid in 10 years.

Several major league executives confirmed the general outline of the proposal spelled out by the highly placed source, who refused use of his name.

Braves Handed Another Defeat

By The Associated Press

No one ever really stops Buffalo's Bob McAdoo but Kareem Abdul-Jabbar came relatively close Monday night, close enough for the Milwaukee Bucks to hand the slumping Braves their fifth loss in six games.

The 7-foot-2 Abdul-Jabbar scored 31 points and hauled down 28 rebounds while holding McAdoo to 29 points and only 10 rebounds as the Bucks dumped the Braves 106-91. McAdoo's 29 points were only three below his National Basketball Association season's average, but the Buffalo sharp-shooter managed to hit just 11 of 33 attempts from the field.

"I think the inspirational play of Kareem early in the game jacked everyone up," said Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello. "He knew he had a tough job to do, knowing McAdoo, and the way he went at it gave everybody a charge."

"I just tried to play a good game," said Abdul-Jabbar. "Inspiration is all right, but when you're in last place in your division like we are, every game is important."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Washington rolled over Cleveland 103-90, Detroit beat Chicago 86-81, Houston topped Los Angeles 120-107 and Golden State defeated Kansas City-Omaha 110-102.

In the American Basketball Association, New York downed Memphis 128-119, Kentucky trimmed Virginia 104-85 and Utah shaded San Antonio 105-104.

Bullets 103, Cavaliers 90

Mike Riordan scored 27 points and Wes Unseld added a season-high 28 rebounds as Washington improved its record to 26-9 — tops in the NBA. The Bullets ran up 38 points in the third quarter to put it away. Jom Clemons led Cleveland with 14 points.

Pistons 86, Bulls 81

Bob Lanier netted 26 points and Dave Bing sank a pair of clutch jump shots down the stretch for Detroit. Bob Love topped Chicago with 18 points.

Rockets 120, Lakers 107

Calvin Murphy pumped in 30 points, 16 of them in the fourth quarter, and Rudy Tomjanovich added 25 as Houston notched its seventh straight victory.

Warriors 110, Kings 102

Rick Barry had another big night for Golden State, scoring 39 points, 13 of them in the final period. Nate Archibald netted 31 points for Kansas City-Omaha which had its four-game win streak ended.

Nets 128, Sounds 119

New York beat Memphis for the sixth time in as many tries this season behind a balanced scoring attack that had six Nets in double figures.

Colonels 104, Squires 85

Kentucky, behind Artis Gilmore and Bird Averitt, broke it open late in the first quarter and early in the second with a 22-6 streak. Gilmore wound up with 26 points, 15 rebounds and five blocked shots while Averitt added 14 points.

Stars 105, Spurs 104

Ron Boone scored 31 points as Utah held off a late San Antonio rally for the victory. Rookie Moses Malone added 20 points for the Stars and George Gervin topped the Spurs with 21.

William and Mary's young, hard-charging Indians upped their season's mark to 7-2 Monday as they stormed past Ivy League foe Columbia 75-63. They were the only conference teams to see action.

Davidson's Wildcats, who got off to an early 2-0 start, but have dropped four games in a row, have the conference spotlight to themselves tonight as they visit Brigham Young.

Mayes, considered by conference observers as the premier forward in the league this season, tossed in 29 points to lead the Paladins to their victory.

The Paladins built a seven-point lead midway in the first half and maintained the margin throughout as they rallied following Sunday's 69-64 loss to LaSalle in the first round of the tournament.

Leonard, Furman's 7-foot-1 center, sat out all but six minutes of the second half due to a load of four personal fouls, but managed 14 points before he retired.

Houston went to a full court press late in the game attempting to overcome the Paladin lead, but the frantic offensive effort resulted mainly in a steady parade of Furman players to the free throw line.

A few chuckles could be heard around the circuit earlier this season when Coach George Balanis' Indians faced some not-so-noteworthy opponents.

But the Indians had the last laugh Monday night, as they have had on six other occasions this season.

Ron Satterthwaite scored 23 points as William & Mary rain up a big early lead and coasted home with an easy win over Columbia.

The Indians raced to a 23-6 lead with 10 minutes left in the first half, but the Lions narrowed the gap to 39-30 at the half.

William & Mary poured it on in the second half, however, taking a 66-46 lead with six minutes remaining. Backing Satterthwaite were Matt Courage and John Lowenhaupt with 15 points each. Gary Byrd had 10 points and 13 rebounds for the Indians.

"But we just can't put that final nail in the coffin," said Balanis, upset that his team allowed Columbia to keep the game close in the first half. "Still, in the second half, the kids just went right back up. That showed a lot of character."

Nolan Ryan of the California Angels recorded 367 American League strikeouts in 1974.

Right Turns On Red Become Illegal On Wednesday

RALEIGH (AP)—By all predictions, it will be illegal to turn right on red for just a few weeks, but motorists could be penalized for doing it after today and before the law allowing it is reinstated.

For six months, Tar Heel motorists have enjoyed the privilege of turning right at a red traffic light if the path is clear. But, a legislative goof-up automatically repealed the law effective Wednesday.

The 1974 legislature enacted the law allowing right turns on red unless a sign was posted prohibiting it. It took effect July 1 and through an oversight, it was included in a section of the law to be repealed Jan. 1.

The law gained popularity in its six-month existence. Enough popularity, for example, to make the Charlotte City Council compensate for the legislative error by enacting an ordinance allowing the right-on-red practice to continue in the Queen City.

Also, one legislator had suggested the General Assembly repent by calling a special session to correct the error.

"I feel we of the 1973-74 General Assembly who overlooked this 'mixup' in the statutes, should be willing to come back to make things right for the drivers of North Carolina," Rep. Fred Hutchins, R-Forsyth, urged Nov. 29. He said the lawmakers should have the session without drawing pay or expense compensation as "a Christmas present...to the people."

Hutchins' effort at penitence failed, but it has been generally predicted that the 1975 General Assembly will take quick action on reinstating the right-on-red law after lawmakers convene Jan. 15.

Among supporters of the right-on-red law is state Transportation Secretary Troy Doby, who promised to urge the legislature to put the law back on the books. "Most of the legislators I have talked with seem to favor continuing the right turn on red law and will try to get it passed early in next year's session," he said.

PTI To Begin Course In Art

A course in art (drawing and painting) will begin Thursday at Pitt Technical Institute in room 24. The class will meet each Thursday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Interested persons should plan to attend the first meeting. For further information, interested persons may call or visit Pitt Technical Institute.

As to arrests for drivers who continue to turn right on red, the consensus seems to be that warnings or no tickets will be given unless an accident occurs, or nearly occurs.

Col. E.W. Jones, Highway Patrol commander, said his officers would arrest motorists who make turns on red that are "flagrant violations that endanger life and property." Lesser violations will result in verbal or written warnings, Jones said.

Major E.C. Duke of the Raleigh police department said no crackdown is planned on drivers who turn right on red. But, he said, "if you have a wreck, then it's your problem."

Having an accident shouldn't be much of a problem, statistics say. Of about 50,000 accidents in the law's six-month life, only 41 involved right turns on red, according to B.J. Campbell, director of the Institute of Highway Safety in Chapel Hill.

Performers Object To Politicizing UNESCO

NEW YORK (AP) — Violinist Isaac Stern and conductor-composer Leonard Bernstein have signed a letter to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization saying they will not participate in its activities.

The letter said, "Our withdrawal will continue until UNESCO rescinds its politicizing resolutions directed against Israel."

The resolution was signed Monday by about 30 other performing arts personalities on the stage of Carnegie Hall as Bernstein presided.

The action to which the artists objected was one taken by the biennial General Assembly of UNESCO Nov. 20 when Israel was banned from European regional membership and deprived of $26,000 in cultural assistance.

The reason given was that Israeli archeologists have altered historic features of Jerusalem by excavations.

Pianist Arthur Rubinstein, who signed the letter, said: "Only a few days ago, at a weekly session of the Academy of Fine Arts in Paris, I made a motion for the Fine Arts to retire completely from UNESCO."

"They told me all five academies which make up the Institute of France, of which Fine Arts is one, have to vote. I must say I was a little bit angry. My stay in Paris was poisoned by this whole thing."

"If they do not vote it, if they show themselves coward, I will make a little campaign in the press about it in France. If they do vote it, I will be happy and I will be happy I made the resolution."

Stern explained that UNESCO activities include exchange programs between countries to aid cultural growth, a music library, and educational programs in which musicians, intellectuals and scientists are involved.

"Without writers, scientists and others that make up the body of UNESCO, UNESCO doesn't exist," Stern said. "Many scientists in Europe now are refusing to cooperate spontaneously, not because of what we're doing here today."

Bernstein said that the UNESCO decision "can be conceived only as a harbinger of worse things to come. If Israel is eliminated from the world cultural community, it is only a step to eliminating it physically. We have seen this happen all too often before. It always starts with a cultural act and winds up with a holocaust."

Find Housewife Fatally Stabbed

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A young Fayetteville housewife was found dead in her home Monday, the victim of a stabbing, police said.

Gloria Jean Looney, 29, was found nude from the waist down and she had been stabbed a number of times, police said. A kitchen knife had been driven into her throat, officers said. Police said they also found a hammer, another knife and blood-stained scissors near the body.

Police said Mrs. Looney's three young daughters reported that a man came to the door and asked to use the telephone. The girls said they went to their bedrooms and moments later heard screams and the sound of a struggle.

The girls said they fled to a neighbor's house who called authorities.

Point count bidding tends to emphasize the importance of the honor cards, and often low cards are shown in bridge diagrams simply as 'x's. However, the difference between an eight and a nine, for instance, could be all important in the play of the hand. In this hand from a recent team match, one declarer was able to utilize his spot cards to best advantage to bring home a close game contract.

After similar bidding sequences, at both tables South became declarer at a contract of three no trump, and both Wests led their fourth-best spade, won by declarer's king. Since that left only one spade stopper, both declarers realized that they would not have time to develop the diamond suit. Any tricks needed for their contract would have to come from clubs, for they could afford to relinquish the lead only once.

The first declarer led a low club to the king and returned a club to the ten. Unfortunately, West still had a club stopper after winning the jack, so declarer ended up down two.

The second declarer saw that it would make no difference how he tackled the clubs if the suit divided 3-2. After conceding a club trick,

Last Of Stolen Money Is Found

HICKORY, N. C. (AP)—Police say they have recovered the last $10,000 of about $50,000 stolen Dec. 7 from the home of retired restaurant operator Ernest N. Hallman.

Hickory Police Chief Mel Tucker and two attorneys watched Monday as prison inmate David Hefner, 41, dug a Pritchard, had saved during their years as operators of a grill in Hickory.

Police said the jar contained $10,977.50, bringing the total of money recovered to $51,315.50, or about $1,300 more than Hallman reported stolen.

Police said the theft occurred when Hallman's home was burglarized while he was at a funeral home making arrangements for his brother's burial.

Hefner was one of four persons arrested in connection with the burglary. The others were identified as James Oscar Perryman, 38, who with Hefner was an inmate of a Catawba County prison camp, and so-called "sponsors" for the prisoners, James Elmer Conner, 54, and Ronald Regan Snipes, 21.

Police said Hefner was the last to agree to show officers where he had hidden his share of the money.

Conner and Snipes were engaged in a rehabilitation program which allowed the two prisoners to visit their homes several times a week. Police said Perryman and Hefner committed the burglary while they were on leave and supposed to be with their sponsors.

Tony And Dawn Struck A Chord

ON PRIME TIME—Tony Orlando and singers Telma Hopkins (left) and Joyce Wilson have hit television's primetime. They first appeared on a summer show. (AP Wirephoto)

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — In what was once the vast Wastland of Television, it's surprising to find a prime-time musical series starring a Greek-Puerto Rican and two black women.

No one was more surprised than Tony Orlando when he started getting feelers for a CBS show to star himself and his two singers, Telma Hopkins and Joyce Vincent Wilson.

True, they had enjoyed enormous success as Tony Orlando and Dawn, especially with their "Tie a Yellow Ribbon 'round the Ole Oak Tree." But was television ready for them?

Fred Silverman thought so. He is the programming chief for CBS, and he and his wife flipped over the trio when they appeared on the Grammy awards telecast last spring.

"We were only on the show for 3 minutes and 10 seconds," Tony recalled. "But Fred saw something in us that seemed promising. He asked our agent what we had done in television, and our agent sent him three shows we had done in England for BBC. Then he came to see us perform at Westbury (N.Y.)."

The result was a CBS summer show. As with Mac Davis on NBC, the summer show provided a good break-in. Both Davis and Tony Orlando and Dawn provided midseason replacements for series that had faltered in the fall—"Sierra" and "Sons and Daughters," respectively.

Orlando has covered a lot of territory in the 30 years since he was born to a Manhattan furrier in the Hell's Kitchen area that has produced movie stars and felons. Orlando saw many of his friends sent off to prison; he himself went into the music business at 13, singing demonstration records for songwriters. One of them was an unknown named Carole King. In 1961 he recorded her "Halfway to Paradise" and it proved a hit. So did his next record "Bless You," and Orlando seemed on his way to fame.

The Beatle revolution halted his career. Musical styles changed overnight, and Orlando gave up singing to become a music publishing executive. Four years ago he went back to recording with "Candida," singing with two girls who called themselves Dawn, after the name of a record executive.

Other hits followed: "Knock Three Times" (7½ million worldwide), "Yellow Ribbon" (6 million, no. 1 record in 17 countries), "Say, Has Anyone Seen My Sweet Gypsy Rose?" "Stepping Out," "Gonna Boogie Tonight."
