

Unemployment Rate Hits 7.1 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate soared to 7.1 per cent of the work force in December as Americans without jobs totaled more than six million for the first time since the Great Depression, the government reported today.

Not since 1940, when the nation was still shaking off the effects of the Great Depression, were more than six million unemployed. Some 8.1 million were jobless then, about 14.6 per cent of that era's smaller labor force.

The grim job report comes as President Ford returned from a 12-day skiing vacation in the Rockies to prepare for a meeting Saturday of his key economic policy advisers. With the jobless rate rising and other signs that the recession is deepening, the administration reportedly is considering tax cuts to help stimulate the economy.

Two other indications of the economic sag came Thursday when the Commerce Department reported that new orders for factories declined 2 per cent in November and new construction slumped 2.7 per cent that month.

The December unemployment figures, which reflect massive layoffs in automobile-related industries as well as those resulting from the nationwide coal strike, were based on data gathered before the middle of the month. Layoffs have continued to spread since then and will push the jobless rate for January still higher.

This trend was indicated Thursday in the Labor Department's weekly report on unemployment insurance claims. The report said 677,800 persons applied for jobless benefits during the week ended Dec. 21, an increase of 40,100 over the previous week.

Administration economists predict unemployment will continue rising until it reaches about 7.5 per cent by midyear, but some private economists forecast a rate of 8 per cent by summer, a level that has not been approached in the last 25 years.

In other economic develop-

—AFL-CIO President George Meany is convening a rare meeting of the presidents of all —The nation's auto makers reported that car production in 1974 was the lowest for a non-strike year since 1962. The four major manufacturers said production in 1974 totaled 7,340,373 units, down 24 per cent from the 1973 record of 9,660,819.

—Chrysler Corp. said it is cutting back production in the Detroit and St. Louis areas beginning Monday. The company's St. Louis car assembly plant will be shut down, putting 2,000 employees out of work indefinitely. Another 3,600 St. Louis-area Chrysler workers will be laid off with the shutdown of the Missouri truck plant. Chrysler said 5,200 work-

BILLY AND GUY CUTRELL

A HOTLINE APPEAL

NEW SURGERY MAY HELP BILLY

Anyone who's visited the Greenville Nursing Center in the past five years probably has seen a strapping young man in a wheelchair.

Billy Cutrell, 36, wears dark glasses and an immobile expression and when he speaks, it's like hearing an unintelligible voice on a 45 r. p.m. record played at 33. Usually, his father, Guy Cutrell, is with him, seeing to his needs, wheeling him around, or taking him out for a ride in his car.

Billy has an extremely rare condition—the cerebellum of his brain is deteriorating. Originally from Hyde County, he was a banker and Jaycee leader in Lakeland, Fla., looking forward to the birth of his second child, when he was stricken. His wife, Jackie, and his daughters, Cheri, now 14, and Lisa, now 10, live in Raleigh now and visit him often. Jackie has never given up the fight, though she's been offered no hope for his improvement for many years.

Then during Thanksgiving week this year, she saw a "Marcus Welby, M.D." program that told of treating a patient with a rare neurological disorder, seemingly similar to Billy's, with a relatively new technique called cryogenic surgery. She immediately wrote to Dr. Irving S. Cooper of St. Barnabas Hospital in Bronx, N.Y., a pioneer in the field. He has agreed to see and evaluate Billy Feb. 7 and perform surgery a few weeks later if the evaluation indicates the symptoms may be relieved.

The contemplated operation, Billy's father says he understands, involves the destruction of selected brain cells by freezing.

"We don't know if it will help," Guy Cutrell said, "but it's the first ray of hope we've had in years now. Neither Jackie nor I can be satisfied until it's tried."

Jackie Cutrell has been supporting herself and her daughters with a secretarial job ever since her husband became ill. A former Postmaster in Fairfield, Guy Cutrell has retired and spends every day caring for his son. All Billy's Social Security and Medicaid benefits must be used to pay his nursing home bill each month. Friends of the Cutrells have set up a fund to help pay for Billy's transportation to New York and for other expenses of the trip. Hotline readers wishing to help may mail contributions to The Billy Cutrell Fund, To Hollywood Presbyterian Church, Tom H. Forbes, Treasurer, Rt. 2, Box 239-A, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

24-County Area Of Responsibility Patterson Named New AHEC Director

Dr. F. M. Simmons Patterson, a New Bern native currently Director of the Cancer Control Program of the Duke University Comprehensive Cancer Center, has been appointed executive director of the Eastern Area Health Education Center.

Dr. Patterson's appointment was announced this morning by Dr. Edwin Monroe, president of the Eastern AHEC, and Vice-chancellor for Health Affairs at East Carolina University.

"We are very fortunate and pleased to be able to obtain the services of such a highly qualified and experienced individual to spearhead the development of this AHEC. Dr.

Patterson, as a native of Eastern North Carolina, knows well the health care problems and needs of this part of the state and will be able to contribute significantly to their resolution," Dr. Monroe said.

Dr. Monroe said that one of Patterson's first tasks would be to plan for and facilitate rotations of medical students and residents from the states' medical schools into office practices and hospitals in the AHEC's twenty-four county area of responsibility.

The Eastern Area Health Education Center is the newest in a statewide network of nine centers and is responsible for the largest geographic area, 24 counties, in the state. Seventeen community hospitals including Craven County Hospital, Lenoir Memorial Hospital, Pitt County Memorial Hospital, Wayne County Memorial Hospital, Albemarle Hospital, Inc., Beaufort County Hospital, Chowan Hospital, Carteret General Hospital, Onslow Memorial Hospital, Roanoke-Chowan Hospital, Bertie County Hospital, Columbia Memorial Hospital, Duplin General Hospital, Martin General Hospital, Pungo District Hospital, Washington County Hospital, and Sea Level Hospital joined with the East Carolina University Division of Health Affairs during August, 1974 to sponsor this program.

The Eastern AHEC will provide for undergraduate, graduate and post graduate education for all categories of health manpower including physicians, dentists, nurses, pharmacists, and allied health and public health personnel. Funding for the program was provided by the General Assembly and is administered by the University of North Carolina School of Medicine through contractual arrangements.

NEW LIGHTS . . . Greenville Utilities Commission workmen install new high-pressure sodium lights on concrete poles along Charles Street, between Tenth and 14th Streets today. The new high-pressure sodium lights are being used—replacing the more-expensive-to-operate mercury vapor lights currently in use in other parts of the city—as a conservation-of-energy measure. Although their initial cost is greater, high pressure sodium lights produce 100 to 140 lumens per watt of electricity used as compared with 40 to 55 lumens per watt for mercury vapor lights. The incandescent lamp, which the mercury vapor lights replaced, produced only 20 to 23 lumens per watt. (Reflector Photo by Stuart Savage)

Transco Presents Strong Arguments

RALEIGH (AP)—Officials of Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. of Houston presented a strong case today for raising the price of natural gas if North Carolina and other states want to regain their normal supplies.

But they denied that the gas industry is creating the current shortage to pressure government into allowing price increases.

The Transco officials, led by president W. J. Bowen, appeared before the North Carolina Utilities Commission, Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr., and Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten to explain the latest curtailment.

Figures quoted by state energy officials at the meeting indicate that the latest curtailment has forced North Carolina gas distributors to operate with about half of their normal gas allotment. One company, North Carolina Natural Gas Co., said it is operating with 39 per cent.

The shortage, the distributor said, has forced it to severely curtail or cut off completely gas sales to industrial customers. State energy director Fowler Martin said his office's survey of the situation indicates that 46,000 jobs are in danger because of the shortage as factories face the prospect of shutting down for lack of gas.

Transco officials said that this winter's curtailments were due to production and maintenance problems encountered by gas well operators in the Gulf of Mexico, and "poor estimates" by Transco of its purchasing ability.

Robert Green of Transco said the producer problems were significantly higher than in past years. But he said he was satisfied that the producers were not deliberately withholding gas. "We can assume that if such was their intention, at least they were smart enough not to talk about it to you," replied Holshouser.

Bowen said that "the days of cheap energy are over." He maintained that gas supplies can be substantially increased only if the federal government allows interstate gas middlemen like Transco to pay producers substantially higher prices at the wellhead.

Bowen said Transco cannot buy much of the gas being produced at inland wells because prices for intrastate purchases, not regulated by the government, are much higher.

Need For U.S. Military Action In Middle East Not Ruled Out

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has declined to rule out the possibility that the United States would use military force against Mideast oil producers "to prevent strangulation of the industrialized world."

"I have said repeatedly that I did not think it would come to that point. I'm confident the problem will be solved without the use of force," Kissinger told reporters Thursday night.

But, he added, "I'm not saying there is no circumstance where we would not use force."

After Kissinger returned from a vacation in Puerto Rico, reporters questioned him at Andrews Air Force Base near the capital about an interview he gave Business Week magazine.

In the magazine interview, Kissinger said of the possible use of force in the Mideast, "We should have learned from Vietnam that it is easier to get into a war than to get out of it. I am not saying that there's no circumstance where we would not use force. But it is one thing to use it in the case of a dispute over price, it's another where there's some actual strangulation of the industrialized world."

At Andrews, Kissinger said, "I warned against military action. For oil prices it is too dangerous."

Previously, Kissinger had refused to discuss the possibility of U.S. military action against the oil producers.

In the Business Week interview conducted Dec. 23, Kissinger said he doesn't anticipate another Arab oil embargo unless there is another Mideast war.

"I am not even sure of an oil embargo in the event of a war," he added.

And he said the danger of another Arab-Israeli war "is talked about much too loosely."

"Both sides lost grievously in the last war. Neither side really won. I think the readiness of either side to go to war is often exaggerated," Kissinger said.

Flu Outbreak In N.C. Said Mild

RALEIGH (AP)—A state health official says outbreaks of influenza have been reported in North Carolina but the situation is not considered serious.

Dr. J. N. McCormack, head of the communicable disease branch of the state health services division, said Thursday Port Chalmers flu has been documented in North Carolina but it's "nothing like a serious outbreak."

Port Chalmers is a type A flu which started last year in other areas. The state was hit with a strain called Hong Kong flu during an epidemic the winter of 1968-69.

Border Firing

By The Associated Press
Israel said bazooka shells and small-arms fire from inside Lebanon today killed an Israeli staff sergeant and wounded four soldiers in the third straight day of border hostilities.

The Israeli command said three other Israeli soldiers were wounded when the car they were driving was blown up by a mine.

All casualties occurred in Israeli territory, the command said.

The Lebanese army command said Israeli border positions shelled three Lebanese villages and an Israeli armored car drove 150 yards into Lebanese territory. Israel denied both reports.

CIA Director Summoned By Ford For Conference

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford summoned CIA Director William Colby, Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to the White House today for separate meetings on charges that the CIA engaged in illegal domestic intelligence activities.

The meetings were disclosed by administration sources as Ford returned to his office after a 12-day Rocky Mountain skiing vacation.

The Oval Office meetings raised the possibility that Ford soon would be making a statement on a 50-page report submitted by Colby after published allegations that the CIA maintained files on 10,000 U.S. citizens.

Colby succeeded Schlesinger as CIA director. Flying back to Washington from Colorado Thursday night, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he expects Ford's statement on the CIA to come by the middle of next week.

Ford also is planning to sign the trade bill today, a measure he says is needed to help avert an international economic disaster.

The bill empowers the President to negotiate mutual trade concessions with other nations and provides special assistance to U.S. industries and communities threatened by imports. The measure also permits trade concessions to Communist countries that allow free emigration of Jews and other minorities.

The President also was meeting with Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton and Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb.

Ford has called a conference Saturday of key economic advisers and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Rockefeller was promised a major role in shaping administration policy, but he was conspicuously absent from meetings that Ford held in Vail, Colo., last weekend with top government officials.

White House officials said Rockefeller did not join the Vail conferences because he had long ago scheduled a Christmas vacation in Puerto Rico.

Nessen acknowledged that Ford returned to the capital "favoring his right leg a little bit" after skiing in Vail on all but one day of his holiday there.

The press secretary said Ford "did not injure himself out there at all," but that his right knee, injured when he played college football, had stiffened up because of the outdoor exercise. Nessen said the knee troubles Ford periodically after tennis and golf but that it requires no special treatment.

A Difference

Greenville Utilities customer service representative George Reel said that a statement in Wednesday's paper regarding reduced utility service charges to the residents of Lake Ellsworth might have been misunderstood.

City officials, in a news release concerning the official annexation of Lake Ellsworth Subdivision under the new Satellite Annexation Law, said that "As a result of annexation, utility service charges in the subdivision will be reduced by 50 per cent."

Reel pointed out that the electric rates paid by the Lake Ellsworth residents will remain the same while the water and sewer rate charges will be cut by 50 per cent.

Battle For S. Viet Province Goes On

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The battle for Phuoc

Binh, the isolated capital of Phuoc Long province, raged back and forth today with government forces claiming early successes and the North Vietnamese launching a new onslaught. Military officials said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong hit the besieged city 75 miles north of Saigon with infantry, tank and artillery assaults. The officials said a tank column led ground forces against government positions in the southern part of Phuoc Binh, and street fighting was reported Friday night.

Western diplomatic sources said the Communists had fired more than 3,000 shells into the city of 50,000 people since the attack began before dawn Thursday.

Earlier today, the South Vietnamese military command announced that its ground and air forces had driven back the North Vietnamese forces that fought their way into Phuoc Binh Thursday. The South Vietnamese claimed they knocked out another tank, the second in two days.

The communique said the South Vietnamese air force flew nearly 150 strikes, and pilots estimated they had killed more than 150 soldiers.

The Saigon command said South Vietnamese forces also repulsed Communist forces attacking Hoai Duc, a besieged district town in Binh Tuy province 75 miles northeast of Saigon.

Phuoc Binh is the last government foothold in Phuoc Long, a rural province on the Cambodian border. It is the first provincial capital threatened by the Communists in nearly three years.

The assaults on both Phuoc Binh and Hoai Duc are part of an offensive the Communists began Dec. 6 to extend their control deeper into the provinces around Saigon. The government has lost six district towns since the offensive began, including all four in Phuoc Long province and another one 10 miles from Hoai Duc.

Small attacks also were reported in the Saigon region.

The Viet Cong shelled the Bien Hoa air base 15 miles northeast of Saigon for the third successive day, blew up the second bridge in two days between Saigon and the big fuel tank farms at Nha Be, six miles to the southeast, and attacked a government office in a hamlet eight miles northwest of the city, the command said.

Eight civilians were reported killed, three were missing and six were wounded in the attack on the hamlet office.

New fighting also erupted along the central coastal plain, which has been generally quiet in recent weeks.

In Cambodia, a Khmer Rouge campaign to cut the roads around Phnom Penh was in its third day. But the government military command said its forces on the east bank of the Mekong River cleared insurgent forces from the Arey Khsat region, two miles from the river.

North of Phnom Penh, the Khmer Rouge were holding nearly five miles of Highway 7, and heavy fighting was reported around Prek Phneou, on Highway 5. Field reports from west of the city said Khmer Rouge forces were advancing toward the Phnom Penh airport and the government's radio transmission center 11 miles from the city.

Gold Bidders Will Face $70,000 Minimum Price

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to auction off some $350 million worth of gold Monday, but individual bidders will have to pay a minimum of about $70,000 to buy any of the precious metal.

A spokesman for the General Services Administration, whose office of stockpile disposal is handling the sale, said Thursday that about 30 sealed bids already have been received.

But market specialists consider it far too early to get any sound gauge of how many bids the auction will attract. The price of gold has plummeted since Tuesday when it became legal for U.S. citizens to buy and sell the precious metal. Gold futures contracts traded Thursday at prices that averaged $7.50 an ounce lower.

Most serious bidders are expected to wait until the last possible moment to get their bids in at around the prevailing market prices.

The last possible moment is 11 a.m. EST on Monday, when sealed bids on the 2 million ounces of gold will be opened publicly.

The smallest possible bid is for 400 troy ounces of gold, since the metal will be in bars that size. The bars are 99.9 per cent pure, and all bids must be for quantities in 400-ounce multiples.

At a price of $175 an ounce, about what the metal was trading at Thursday, that means bidders would have to pay $70,000 for one bar.

The entire sale would net the government $350 million at those prices, although it has reserved the option of throwing out any or all bids if it doesn't consider them high enough.

Officials have declined to say so far what bid they will consider as the lowest possible.

New Rate Structure Is Being Asked By AT&T

By BOB HOLDEN
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

sought today a new rate structure that would increase charges on about 70 per cent of interstate calls while reducing the rate for the remainder, the company said.

Over-all, AT&T said the new long-distance telephone rates would increase its revenues by 7.2 per cent.

The new rates, filed with the Federal Communications Commission to become effective March 4, would produce $717 million in additional revenues, AT&T said.

The FCC has 60 days to consider the request. If it decides public hearings are necessary, any increases would be delayed for another 90 days.

AT&T proposed that the existing three-minute period on which charges are based be reduced to one minute. Under the new rates, a New York City customer who called Los Angeles in the daytime Monday through Friday would pay 60 cents for a one-minute call and $1.46 for three minutes. He now pays $1.45 for the first three minutes or any smaller fraction.

On calls requiring an operator, the three-minute minimum would be retained and rates would be increased to offset "sharply increased labor costs," AT&T said.

"We recognize that increasing prices at this time is not the popular thing to do," Richard R. Hough, president of AT&T's Long Lines Department, said. "But without rate relief in today's economic environment, we could ultimately face the prospect of higher operating costs, and deteriorating service."

The increased rates also would include higher charges for most interstate private-line services and the interstate Wide Area Telecommunications Service — WATS — used principally by businesses.

Hough said the plan, proposed by AT&T, would offer customers more options than they have had to save money on long-distance calls. He also said it would promote more efficient use of telephone facilities and cut costs by about $192 million.

Ehrlichman Bill Tops $400,000

SEATTLE (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, convicted of conspiracy and perjury in the Watergate cover-up, says his legal bills already exceed $400,000.

"I haven't had a bill from an attorney ... yet," he told newsmen Thursday night after he arrived by air from Washington, D.C.

Ehrlichman also said he was negotiating with the Mutual Broadcasting System for a job as a political commentator, "but we haven't firmed anything up yet."

Ehrlichman established a lucrative career here as a zoning and land-use lawyer before joining the White House as chief domestic adviser to former President Richard M. Nixon.

He said he would file a motion for a new trial and, failing that, would appeal the verdict handed down New Year's Day.

Advise Slash In Oil Imports

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An

independent study said today the United States need not eliminate its oil imports but should cut them to about 20 or 25 per cent of total requirements in order to cope with any future Arab oil embargo.

The United States imported more than 35 per cent of its requirements in 1973 and almost 36 per cent in 1974, by oil industry estimates.

The proposal to cut imports to 20 or 25 per cent was made in a study called "Energy and U.S. Foreign Policy," written by Joseph A. Yager and Eleanor B. Steinberg for the Ford Foundation's Energy Policy Project.

The authors, working at the Brookings Institution here, concluded that the United States, at a reduced level of oil imports, could cope adequately with any new Arab oil embargo.

Meanwhile, the Independent Petroleum Association of America said Thursday that domestic drilling for oil and gas increased by 20.4 per cent in 1974 and the success rate also was up slightly.

C. John Miller, president of the group, also predicted that U.S. production of petroleum liquids in 1975 would be about 10.3 million barrels per day, down 200,000 from the estimated 1974 output.

The results of the increased drilling will not be felt for a few more years.

On Capitol Hill, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., charged that two major oil firms have "implicitly threatened" to cut off oil for Defense Department needs in Antarctica and Turkey unless they receive exemptions from laws that require them to justify their prices.

The companies, Mobil Oil Corp. and Gulf Oil Corp., replied that they planned to continue supplying defense needs. But they conceded unhappiness with the accounting procedures required of them and said they were seeking waivers.

No Fatalities To Dim Lights

Mrs. Ruby Fields, safety area leader for the Pilot Club of Greenville, has announced that all of the green lights remained burning through the period Dec. 19-31 on the club's annual safety tree located on the lawn at the Pitt County Court House.

This indicated there were no traffic fatalities in Pitt County during this period.

This is the sixth year the club has sponsored this project.

He said previous bills from the Carolina Power & Light Co. were about $250 a month.

Railroad In Crisis Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn Central trustees say that unless they receive substantial federal funds in February and March, the railroad will have to "undertake extensive furloughs and drastic reduction of maintenance programs."

Blaming a faltering economy, the recent coal strike and shrinking steel and auto shipments, trustees said Thursday that Penn Central will need an additional $60 million to get through the winter.

The Penn Central received $30 million last month, but trustees said that money would be spent by the end of this month.

The trustees said they expect Penn Central to lose $1 million every day during the first quarter of 1975, blaming a severe business downturn that began in October.

Penn Central's losses for the first 11 months of 1974 were reported to be $156.9 million, compared with $146.5 million for the same period in 1973.

Fashion Notes

The New York designer Kasper, for Joan Leslie, sums up his reaction as a creator to what the consumer wants — "If you react to things, your customers will," he told buyers and reporters covering the opening of his spring fashion collection.

If what goes on in New York fashion showrooms is any indication, it will be a spring marking the return of the Easter bonnet. Almost every manufacturer, previewing spring, accessorized ready-to-wear with hats. No bareheaded models, as in the past several seasons.

Those hat shapes centered on two specific types. One is the two-inch brim turned back off the face. The other is the wide, picture-hat brim, floppy in the breeze. In both cases, the plain straw is, in the trimmed look out.

Others assisting were Mrs. Annie Hassel Martin, Mrs. Fannie Slade, W. V. Ormond, N. W. Slade, Mrs. Elma Brodie and George T. Brodie. Mrs. Gloria Jones was consultant for the celebration.

Should She Tell Neighbors About Son's Party?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor couple went on a vacation and left their 19-year-old son home alone.

There was a party going on at their house every night. I could see (and hear) the cars coming and going at all hours.

One night was noisier than all the others. There was yelling and screaming in the house, loud music, and someone vomiting in the back yard. It lasted until 4 A.M. The whole neighborhood was disturbed.

The boy disposed of four large garbage cans of beer cans and bottles before the parents came home.

My question: Should the parents be told what went on while they were away?

CINCINNATI NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Yes. If the boy were YOUR son, wouldn't you want to be told?

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl who has a thing for firemen. I live just around the corner from the fire station, which makes it nice. I've got a crush on a fireman right now. He's married, but he's a real neat guy. I dream about him all the time. Is this wrong?

ALL FIRED UP

DEAR FIRED: You're not responsible for your dreams, but when you're awake, concentrate on "neat guys" your own age. And quit hanging around the fire station. That's playing with fire!

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 46-year-old married man who works in a large office. We're all pretty friendly.

Last Sunday, my wife was out of town, so I went to a neighborhood restaurant alone. A young woman who works at the office came in (alone) and sat at the bar. Since I was at the bar I offered to buy her a drink. She seemed eager to accept. She had two, then I asked her to join me for dinner. She did. We had a nice time chatting about the people at the office.

After dinner she said: "Your place or mine?" I laughed, and said it sounded like she was propositioning me. She said she was. I nearly fainted. Then I said I didn't think it would be a very good idea because I was a married man, and besides we had to work together.

The next day I heard that she told some of the girls at the office that I had spent the night with her and that I was a "lousy lover." It's pretty embarrassing, Abby. I'm wondering if maybe the best way to handle it is to quit my job and clear out.

BAD-MOUTHED

DEAR BAD: QUIT YOUR JOB? Never! Just tell a few of your men friends at the office that nothing happened. They'll believe you, and you can bet they'll circulate your side of it.

DEAR ABBY: I was in the war in Vietnam and was wounded when I stepped on a mine. I was hospitalized for a long time. I finally pulled through, but my sex life was ruined.

Recently I have met a beautiful and intelligent girl and we have been dating regularly. We are becoming more and more intimate and I am getting to the point where I feel I have to tell her about my problem, but I don't know how to do it. Can you help me?

DEEPLY TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: The only way to tell her is directly and in simple language—just as you have told me. Don't put it off. The longer you wait, the more difficult it will be.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

DEAR ABBY: About six weeks ago, I met an insurance agent who happened to call at my door. I don't usually invite strangers in, but this man seemed exceptionally nice. Also, being single, I was more interested in him than I was in insurance.

After talking to him, I learned that he is new in town, and recently divorced.

First I invited him to my home for dinner, then he invited me out, and we've been dating ever since. After six weeks of enjoying each other's company he still hasn't invited me to see where he lives. I've hinted, but he hasn't offered. He spends too much time with me to be married, so that can't be the reason. Abby, why doesn't he want me to see where he lives?

I enjoy his company, and he takes me out a lot, but should I continue to invite him to my home when he never invites me to his?

BOTHERED

DEAR BOTHERED: He could be living in a cheap rooming house or an apartment of which he isn't very proud. As a newly divorced man he may have taken a financial beating, and is trying to get on his feet again. Don't fault him. You've known him only six weeks. Give him more time.

DEAR ABBY: I've heard of golf widows, fishing widows and baseball widows, but would you believe a dog widow? I've been married eight months and every Saturday and Sunday morning, my Harold grabs the morning papers and goes right for the lost and found section looking for lost pets.

He checks off those that offer big rewards, then he jumps into his pickup truck and goes out hunting for the lost pets.

So far he has located four lost dogs and collected $300 in rewards. That's an average of $37.50 a month. We both work, and I would rather have Harold home for some good old-fashioned sleeping in on weekends than scouting for lost dogs.

Any suggestions?

DOG-GONED

DEAR D.G.: Offer Harold $35.00 a month to stay home.

Griffin-Denning Vows Spoken In Ceremony Sunday Afternoon

BENSON—Miss Patricia Ann Denning and Lindsey Ray Griffin, both of Greenville, pledged their marriage vows in a 3:00 p.m. double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon, in the Benson Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church here.

The Rev. Don Sauls, pastor, was the officiating clergy and led the couple in their vows and blessed their marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Creech. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Lindsey Griffin of Rt. 1, Greenville.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Deane Jackson of Fayetteville at the organ and the Rev. Wiley Clark, soloist, of Falcon who sang "One Hand, One Heart," and "The Wedding Prayer" while the couple knelt at the close of the ceremony.

Mr. Denning gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a wedding gown of ivory silk, peau d'ange fashioned along classical lines with a semi-empire bodice and molded waistline featuring a mandarin collar and full length sleeves enhanced with motifs of Brussels lace and seed pearls on the front and back of the bodice and collar and extending down the length of the sleeves self-covered buttons. The full skirt, which extended into a chapel train, had a border of scalloped Brussels lace.

Her mantilla of transparent ivory mist tulle was bordered with opalescent pearls. She carried a formal cascade bouquet of white orchids, butterfly roses and baby's breath.

Miss Anita Davis of Greenville attended as maid of honor. She was gowned in a floor length ciel blue sleeveless dress with royal blue velvet jacket and carried a bouquet of twilight pink and white rosebuds and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jo Carol Denning, cousin of the bride, of Benson, Mrs. Hal Knox, sister of the bridegroom, of Bethel, Miss Betty Jo Young of Benson, and Miss Vickie Gattis of Durham. Their dresses were identical to that of the honor attendant and they carried Dutch colonial nosegays of pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man. Ushers were Douglas Denning of Benson, Hal Knox of Bethel, Jerry Griffin of Bethel, and Charles Hollingsworth of Greenville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Denning chose a floor length ensemble of blue acetate nylon with threadings of silver and gold. Her corsage was of white orchids.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Griffin, was attired in a floor length dress of apricot acetate with floral bodice and jacket and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Leslie Norris, the bride's maternal grandmother, wore a blue polyester dress and jacket ensemble and corsage of white orchids.

For a wedding trip to Beech Mountain, the bride chose a nut brown dress with orange stitching. Upon their return they will live in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Watts Hospital School of Nursing in Durham and is presently on the office staff of Drs. Tucker, Fore, Ferguson, and Ramsdell, Greenville.

The bridegroom, who attended North Carolina State University, Raleigh, for three years, is associated with Maxwell Home Furnishings, Greenville.

Following the ceremony the couple, their parents, and their attendants received in the church vestibule.

Following the rehearsal a cake cutting was held for the wedding party and guests in the fellowship hall of the church.

The refreshment table, overlaid with white linen, was centered with a variety of bridal flowers flanked by silver candelabra with light blue candles.

Mrs. Joe Denning, aunt of the bride, discharged the duties of hostess. Mrs. Annie Laurie Lewis, aunt of the bride of Smithfield, served the three-tiered wedding cake. Punch was poured by Mrs. Jeannette Denning.

Mrs. Judy Jackson presided at the guest register.

The wedding breakfast on Sunday morning at the Dutch Inn, Benson was hosted by the parents of the bridegroom.

MRS. LINDSEY RAY GRIFFIN

Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Susan Elizabeth Still, bride-elect of Charles Cray French, was honored at an informal coffee Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. William H. Watson.

Joining Mrs. Watson as co-hostesses were Mrs. Joseph W. Congleton Jr., Mrs. Howard G. Dawkins, Mrs. Thomas A. Hanifer and Mrs. William H. Waugh, all of Brook Valley.

Upon her arrival, a nosegay corsage of white bridal flowers was presented to Miss Still. A Williamsburg arrangement of fresh boxwood and pink camellias complemented the dining table. In the library, lemons were arranged with boxwood in a cloisonne bowl.

Special guests included Mrs. W. N. Still Jr., mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. E. M. Boling, Miss Still's maternal grandmother, Miss Kathy Still, sister of the honoree, and Mrs. William French.

Miss Mary Catherine Hanifer, Miss Kathleen Waugh and Miss Peggy Watson assisted their mothers in the home greeting and serving.

Healthy Result Of A Recession

If recession is doing nothing else, it is at last causing state government to take a close look at its multitude of personnel positions.

Transportation Sec. Troy A. Doby announced Monday that he will not fill 529 job vacancies in his department due to the decline of gasoline tax revenues.

On an annual basis that many jobs left unfilled would save $4,317,000. Since the department employs 16,000 persons, Doby feels that the 529 jobs won't affect services.

Doby said about 400 of the jobs may be refilled through the federal emergency employment program. The jobs ranged in the $7,000 income area.

Doby emphasized that no layoffs of personnel are planned. The job reduction will come through people quitting, retirement and other vacancies.

Of course, if gas tax revenues continue to decline and still further vacancies are required, we could be in real trouble with our road maintenance and construction programs.

Certainly, though, the Department of Transportation and every state agency should be looking at each position that becomes vacant to see if the position is truly needed, or if it can be done by someone else already on the payroll.

North Carolina's payroll has grown by leaps and bounds in the past decade. There has to be some overstaffing. While the taxpayers might have tolerated this in more prosperous times, government officials should bear in mind that almost every private business and almost every taxpaying family is having to trim its own spending to make its income do the job. We should expect no less from state government. Every department head should be made to justify filling of every position which becomes vacant. Each department head should be required to examine the personnel available to him to determine if the duties of some vacant positions cannot be taken up by others.

That is the least that the hard pressed taxpayer can expect from government. We have lived with proliferating government employees for a number of years. With hard times here, now is the time to level it off.

Cities Seek A Motel Tax

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Money is high on the list of problems facing North Carolina towns and cities in 1975, and that is reflected in the Municipal Legislative Goals and Policy package for consideration by the General Assembly.

Drawn up by study committees and endorsed by the League of Municipalities at its annual meeting, the program contains several proposals which will directly affect citizens across the state; and some statements of opposition to other changes which are developing.

A major pitch is made again this year for a room tax at hotels and motels, not exceeding five per cent of the room rental. Proceeds would be earmarked for tourism promotion and convention center activities.

Generally hard-pressed for local funds, and restricted largely to property tax collections as the major source, city officials are opposed to removing the intangibles tax, to doing away with the privilege license laws (although revision is suggested) and opposed to property tax exemptions and preferential classifications unless justified on "broad public policy grounds."

Rebates Sought
There has been some sentiment in the General Assembly to provide broader property tax relief for the elderly, and the League suggests that any such revenue losses should be replaced with state funds. The same posture is taken on possible repeal of the sales tax on food.

Two major new proposals are contained in the League's package for 1975: a local campaign reform law, and local jurisdiction over beer and wine permits.

There is now a statewide campaign reporting procedure, but it applies only to state races. The League will propose law requiring candidates for election to city offices to file campaign expenditure reports following each primary and election.

The state currently supervises the investigation and licensing of all beer and wine outlets locally. The League is drawing up legislation giving municipal governing bodies the authority to delegate to an administrative official the duty of investigating applications and issuing or denying such permits.

Another step sought in the legislative package has to do with annexing new areas into city limits, especially where residents go to court to block the annexation. The League will ask for tax collections from the area to be annexed begin on the effective date set by the ordinance, rather than delayed, if the court upholds the annexation.

Land use and planning occupy a priority position in the League's program for 1975.

Land-Taking
The cities are seeking to remove what they consider cumbersome procedures in condemning and taking property for public purposes. The cities will seek to have the same streamlined procedures used by the State Department of Transportation in taking highway land implemented for municipalities.

That system, in short, bypasses court delays by allowing the government to take possession of the land and post the money to be collected by the owner. The only question then to be resolved is the amount of the money.

Repeating its position of 1974, the League agreed to support state funding of mass transit proposals across the state, but is opposed to using any portion of the Powell Bill funds for that purpose. The Powell Bill money is allocated to cities from the gasoline tax in a rebate from the state to cities.

There is sentiment at the state level to use some of that money for mass transportation rather than just city street work.

Looking ahead to further state entry into land use legislation through the Mountain Land Use Bill, and the statewide Land Use Policy due for consideration in three or four years, city officials spelled out a policy of state and federal assistance in promoting orderly growth and development and preserving natural resources, but states that "regulation of land uses should be achieved through cooperation... rather than through the preemption of traditional local powers."

"Local governments should have the opportunity to regulate land uses within their lawful jurisdictions... to preserve the environment through orderly growth and development," the program states.

Humor Shortage In '75

WASHINGTON—I had calls from the Los Angeles Times and the Boston Globe last week asking me what my prediction was for the humor business in 1975. I had to regretfully inform them that humor economists were predicting a great shortage of humor for '75 and the cost of a barrel of mirth might go as high as $14.

A year ago a barrel of crude laughs was selling as low as $4, and it was difficult to give the stuff away. But when Watergate ended, Nixon resigned, and suddenly the country found itself with a shortage of humor.

Since there is more demand for humor now than ever before, the producers and refiners say they had no choice but to raise the price of it for 1975.

At a meeting of the Humor Producers Assn. in Cleveland, Sheik Russell Baker told the press, "The world has been exploiting humor producers for centuries. There is no reason people should not pay as much for humor as they do for gas."

The Shah of Herblock warned the world that it was wasting its humor. "By raising the price of a barrel of mirth to $14, we might take people up to the fact that unless strong conservation methods are taken we could run out of humor by 1984. For too long the nations of this earth have been depending on Polish and Italian jokes as their main source of humor. Unless other jokes are discovered soon, we could find ourselves in a very grim world."

The shah's warning was reiterated by Sheik Art Hoppe, who told the press, "There is just so much humor in the ground; and while we regret that some people will have to suffer because of the new price increases, we have to think of ourselves first. Everyone has been taking humor for granted. As long as the economy was good, people used laughter as if there was no tomorrow. But no one expected 1974 to end so miserably. Now people who used to laugh at anything aren't laughing any more."

One of the reasons for the sharp increase in humor according to Sheik Oliphant was that most world leaders have become dull. "It takes twice as much effort to produce a barrel of laughs as it did a few years ago when Charles de Gaulle, Lyndon Johnson, Golda Meir, Gamal Nasser and Ho Chi Minh were in power. You have no idea what it costs to produce one cartoon on Gerry Ford. Obviously we have to pass this on to the consumer."

Hans Yoakum, a humor economist, said despite the recent CIA disclosures he saw no relief from high humor prices in sight. "The humor producers are adamant that the price of crude will remain at $14, and refined laughter could go as high as $20 a barrel."

"We're going to have to live with it," he said in a report to the President. "You can't have recession and inflation and expect cheap humor to boot."

Mr. Yoakum warned the President that if the price of crude humor remained at $14 the humor producers would soon be making $35 billion a year. Unless this money is recycled it could cause grave economic conditions

Those Decisions At Vail

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Through two arduous days of economy-energy discussions at President Ford's ski chalet in Vail, Colo., it became obvious that Secretary of the Treasury William Simon had lost his long fight for a restrictive, anti-inflationary budget in the face of recession.

Although no decision was announced by Mr. Ford, even Simon's lieutenants concede he is the loser of a year-long struggle with lame-duck budget director Roy Ash. The President will support not only income tax cuts but high federal spending to stimulate business, insuring a colossal budget deficit that could surpass $40 billion.

Both to recoup part of that loss and to conserve energy, Mr. Ford last weekend definitely approved a new excise tax on oil imports. That is part of an overall energy package, approved at Vail, to reduce consumption and increase production while abandoning the old Nixon-Ford concept of solving the energy crisis by voluntary action.

Thus dressed in ski sweaters in the luxurious winter resort, the President and his top officials on Dec. 27 and 28 buried economy-energy policies of Mr. Ford's first five months and their Nixon roots. In incongruous surroundings, Mr. Ford belatedly changed economic direction at a time when public confidence was falling quickly.

The most basic debate came Saturday morning, beginning the second day of meetings. Simon made his last pitch for budget restraint. While advocating anti-recessionary tax cuts, the Secretary of the Treasury warned that federal spending must be checked to prevent perpetual inflation. Indeed, Simon has hoped tax cuts would permit reducing both federal spending and the government itself.

But the new draft budget prepared by Ash for the next fiscal year beginning July 1, Simon declared Saturday, did not begin to cut expenditures deeply enough. That set off perhaps the last man-to-man duel between Simon and Ash, who not only disagree but intensely dislike each other.

Simon, articulate and forceful, brought up specific budget items he claimed Ash did not trim adequately. The saturnine Ash, due to leave office after this budget, displayed encyclopedic knowledge of budget details to argue there was not more blood to squeeze. The consensus: Ash was the winner.

Dr. Arthur Burns, who as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board may tighten the money supply if the budget line is not held, backed Simon to the hilt. But Alan Greenspan, the President's supposedly arch-conservative chief economic adviser, was considerably less ardent an economist than Simon. In Ash's corner were William Seidman, White House economic coordinator, and the President's political advisers.

The President himself seemed to back Ash. Even Simon's adherents concede his attempt to hold the budget deficit to $20 billion is doomed. While hoping the deficit will be forecast at $25 billion, they admit the actual deficit may hit $40 billion or higher.

Thus, messages to be sent to Congress by Mr. Ford this month are a sharp departure from the Republican "old-

Other Editors Say The Law In Boston

(Greensboro Daily News)

After a year of national discussion about compliance with the law of the land, it is interesting that a spirit of polite anarchy should prevail in Boston.

We refer, of course to the three members of the Boston School Committee, one of them its chairman, who have told Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. that they will go to jail rather than approve a desegregation plan he has ordered for the Boston schools.

It might be said in behalf of the three defiant school officials that the recent turmoil in South Boston is not an encouraging precedent for further school integration. Yet the conditions in South Boston are no worse, and may be somewhat better, than the climate of terrorism and violence that accompanied school desegregation in some of the Deep South states over the last decade and a half. And the principle of the rule of law is as much at stake in Boston today as it was in Birmingham and Oxford 10 years ago, when state officials like George Wallace and Ross Barnett were defying federal court orders in a similar way.

All that has changed, really, is that whatever glamor was to be seen in school integration from the safe distance of a thousand miles tends to vanish when the task appears on one's own front doorstep. That is when the hard work begins.

One other missing ingredient, however, is moral leadership from the White House. Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson understood that personal reservations could not stand in the way of duty. They saw that the law was upheld, sometimes at great cost. Presidents Nixon and Ford have departed from this presidential policy. Both, finding cross-busing distasteful (in which, by the way, they are not alone) seem to believe that personal distaste absolves them of a constitutional duty to see that the laws are faithfully executed.

Indeed, we have already had a hint from HEW Secretary Casper Weinberger that if resistance to court orders is sufficiently loud and rowdy in the North, it may be allowed to prevail. President Ford's own silence in the matter may or may not mean he subscribes to the Weinberger doctrine; we hope he does not. For until the law is changed or modified by Congress or the courts, it must be honored—even in Boston. And a measure of presidential leadership would help.

40 Years Ago Today

January 3, 1935

Ann Morrow Lindbergh went on the witness stand today to face Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the 36-year-old Bronx carpenter accused of kidnapping the Lindbergh baby and murdering him ten months ago.

The young mother was the second witness in the swift moving trial of Hauptmann in which New Jersey seeks to send him to the electric chair.

Attendance was increased by one hundred when the city schools resumed work yesterday morning, according to school superintendent J. H. Rose.

The increase brought the total enrollment for all schools to 3,015, the largest in the history of the system. Rose said 226 children were absent because of influenza and other illnesses. Flu was reported in epidemic proportions in the area.

Strength For Today

TELEMACHUS
Telemachus, an early Christian monk, rushed into the arena in Rome where a gladiatorial contest was being held and ordered the gladiators in the name of Christ to stop fighting. He was killed almost instantly for his daring.

But he made a great contribution to humanity. He said in a way that his generation never forgot that human life is precious and that men should not take it in order to make a Roman holiday. They killed Telemachus, but this was the last gladiatorial contest ever held. The daring of one man and his heroic death saved many hundreds of lives.

There are many people today who dislike these agitators who insist that human life is the most valuable thing in the world. All over the world today men are being killed in guerrilla wars and terrorist activities whose historical importance is no greater than gladiatorial contests. Would to God there was a Telemachus who could rush in and say, "Stop in the name of Christ!"

A Shortage In Rental Units?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The precipitous decline in new home construction has produced lamentation about the inability of most young Americans to purchase single-family homes. But there's more to the problem than that.

Relatively unpublicized is a situation that some housing authorities believe will cause considerable difficulty during 1975: the decline in availability of rental units.

Private housing starts in general are down, but the drop in multiunit projects is far sharper than for single-family homes. Builders of apartment houses have found money hard to get, costly and sometimes encumbered by conditions they choose not to accept.

Moreover, the rising price of fuel and the general increase in upkeep costs has made multiunit developments questionable as investments, at least to a sizable number of would-be landlords.

A-Bomb Terror Feared

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI is raising fresh warnings about the possibility that nuclear weapons may fall into the hands of terrorists and about the continued activities of Communists in the United States.

In an annual report released this week, the FBI also reported that bank robberies reached a record high in the 1974 fiscal year. Convictions for white collar crimes were double the number for the previous fiscal year, the report continued.

The report covers the year which ended last June 30.

Discussing the internal security situation, the FBI noted that "publicity concerning the possibility of nuclear blackmail by terrorists has made available to the public detailed information relative to nuclear energy, radioactive material and the storage and transportation of nuclear weapons."

Consequently, there has been "an increase in the number of investigations involving possible violations of the Atomic Energy Act," the report said.

"This trend is expected to continue."

Discussing Communists, the FBI report said that Soviet bloc travelers and diplomats in the United States "always have included elements of the foreign intelligence services."

By July 1974, the report added, "the official Soviet bloc presence had increased to 1,492," compared with 557 in 1960.

The People's Republic of China had 86 staff members at its United Nations mission in New York and 68 at its liaison office in Washington as of July 1, the report continued.

The staff increases and "the entry of thousands of East-West visitors and commercial representatives, required the FBI to assign additional personnel to maintain the constant vigilance necessary to detect and deal with foreign-inspired threats to the security of the United States," the report said.

The report said the Communist Party USA now has a membership of about 4,200 and is working to infiltrate trade unions. One party unit "is targeted against the American penal system in connection with the party's concentration on alleged political repression," it continued.

The report said bank robberies, burglaries and larcenies "soared to a record high of 3,485 during fiscal 1974, in contrast to declines in fiscal years 1972 and 1973."

Referring to white collar crimes, the FBI said con-time religion" embodied in Mr. Ford's Oct. 8 economic message. The Oct. 8 remedy of voluntarism to conserve energy was similarly abandoned at Vail.

By the time they arrived Friday morning following their dawn flight from Washington, the energy policymakers had agreed on almost everything. They did not even include an outright gasoline tax, rejected repeatedly by Mr. Ford, in the options. A government control plan, limiting and allocating imports, was included but not recommended. Instead, all agreed on a flat excise on oil imports to cut consumption. Mr. Ford approved; the rate, recommended between $1 and $3 a barrel, is not yet set.

Mr. Ford also endorsed the rest of the comprehensive energy package (including lowered pollution standards). One basic element remains undecided: a proposed floor under the price of oil (as high as $8 a barrel) to encourage expensive oil exploration and production.

That proposal set off the angriest debate at Vail, so intense that the President had to admonish officials not to interrupt each other. Simon argued vehemently against the price floor, denouncing it as a sop to oil companies and politically impossible. Thomas Enders, the prickly Assistant Secretary of State for economic affairs, insisted the floor is necessary to counter the international oil cartel. The President's decision could go either way.

What's important is that decisions are finally being made after the long Watergate freeze and Mr. Ford's difficulty in taking hold quickly. With the President at his lowest point politically and criticized for spending so much time away from the White House, economy-energy policymakers left Vail last weekend hopeful he had finally turned the corner.

He is originally from New Brunswick, Canada. Along with his wife and four children, he has most recently been serving as district superintendent of the Northern Natal District of Africa.

The pastor, H.A. Lewis, invites the public to attend this service. The church is located on the New Bern Highway in the Bells Fork community.

Liz Taylor Said Treated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor has been discharged from Mt. Sinai Hospital after undergoing treatment to relieve pain for a chronic back condition, a hospital spokesman said.

The spokeswoman said Miss Taylor, 42, underwent special procedures and tests, including an epidural block. The latter process is used to dull sensitivity in a nerve and reduce pain.

The actress entered the hospital New Year's Day and was reported in good spirits after discharge late Thursday.

She was reported planning to leave in a few days for her home in Gstaad, Switzerland, accompanied by Henry Wynnberg, her companion since her divorce from actor Richard Burton.

A friend said she was due to be in the Soviet Union later this month to begin work on a starring role in a movie, "The Bluebird."

N. C. Prisons Population Is Said Swelling

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's prisons will become even more seriously overcrowded unless the economy improves or more cells are built, according to Secretary of Corrections David Jones.

Testifying Thursday before a legislative committee, Jones said the prison population problem, already serious, may get critical.

Jones said unemployed people are turning to crime; work release prisoners are losing their jobs; and prisoners eligible for parole are not being released because they cannot find jobs.

The prison system now has 12,000 inmates. It is designed to hold 10,000. Jones predicted it may soon have 18,000 unless conditions change.

Police reported the Norris car collided with an auto operated by Donald Gray Boyd of Route 4, Greenville.

Damage was estimated at $775 to the Boyd car and $375 to the Norris car.

No injuries were reported.

Move To Smooth Judaism Ties

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — On a worldwide basis, the Roman Catholic Church is launching an effort to rid itself of insinuations against Jews and establish deepened, working bonds with Judaism.

Although that faith gave birth to Christianity, mutual misimpressions have marred their

him, celebrated his birthday on New Year's Day. (AP Wirephoto)

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Two-year-old Mike McFarland is rather talkative and likes to eat a lot. Not bad for a guy who weighed 2 pounds, 2 ounces when he was born and was almost given up for dead.

"He has a vocabulary of 30 words. He likes the color red best of all and he enjoys watching television. He loves to eat — anything and everything," said Roy McFarland, 42, Mike's father.

On New Year's Day two years ago, McFarland said his wife Susan, who was about 5½ months pregnant, had been uncomfortable. So they went to the University of Utah Medical Center to find out why.

Doctors determined that she was going into labor, but warned the McFarlands that the birth would be too premature and that the child would die.

Later, a doctor came out of the delivery room and told McFarland that the baby had not been able to breathe properly and had died shortly after birth.

"The doctor said the child breathed for a moment, but could not prolong it," McFarland said. "I was amazed and shocked to hear there had been a baby and to learn it had died. They told me, though, that the baby had not had time enough to develop, and its lungs had not grown enough to support it."

"I went back into the hall again and tried to call my wife's parents and my mother to tell them that the baby had died. I was standing in the hall outside the delivery room for about half an hour."

"A nurse later told me she had tried to go into the delivery room and get the baby to take it to the morgue. She said she didn't have the heart to do that with me standing right there, so she waited."

An orderly went into the delivery room to clean up, heard a noise and saw a movement under a sheet on a table.

"When the orderly saw the movement and lifted the sheet, he was amazed to find a baby there," McFarland said.

The baby was rushed to the intensive care unit and put into an incubator.

A spokeswoman for the hospital said Michael was delivered by a second-year resident who "no longer is with us."

Crisis followed crisis and several times the McFarlands were told that Mike might not make it. But, three months after he was born, Mike was sent home.

Today Mike, who is 33½ inches tall and weighs 31 pounds, gets physical therapy once a week to develop motor coordination in his left hand, which has not yet gained its full strength.

attitudes toward each other for 2,000 years, the Vatican says, adding that conditions now are open for building a "new relationship."

"The spiritual bonds and historical links binding the Church to Judaism ... render obligatory a better mutual understanding and renewed mutual esteem," the Vatican said Thursday in guidelines spelling out steps for seeking that goal.

A Jewish leader hailed the document generally, saying its implementation "would constitute nothing less than a revolution in esteem between Catholics and Jews everywhere." But he sharply deplored certain aspects of it.

Rabbi Marc H. Tannenberg, cosecretary of the International Jewish Committee for Inter-religious Consultations, said the guidelines assert a "conversatory intention" toward Jews, implying that Judaism is inadequate for them, and that God's covenant with them has ended.

This is "totally unacceptable to the Jewish conscience," he says, adding that Judaism centers "on the critical conviction that God's covenant with Israel is everlasting" and not subject to substitution.

He says the matter will be taken up with the Vatican's

While the attire here is a bit more formal, this scene could be Coney Island. Everywhere the beaches are crowded!

We don't know what brings penguins together in such number, but where people are concerned, it's the quest for recreation.

Interesting word: RE-creation . . . as if the work of God at the beginning of time has to be done over again . . . man, the creature, needing to be created again.

Physically recreation implies a restoration of energy and vitality through refreshing diversions.

But the idea has spiritual implications worth pondering: The Sunday morning a family devotes to worship is a time of recreation. It does more for the soul than the crowded beaches can do for the body and mind.

NEW YORK (AP)—News of another big jump in the unemployment rate last month blunted the stock market's New Year's rally today and left prices mixed in moderate trading.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 70 at 632.74. Losers held a slight edge over gainers, however, on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow had slipped a little more than 3 points in the early going after the government reported that the unemployment rate climbed to 7.1 per cent in December, the highest level since May of 1961.

The news hardly came as a surprise to investors, but it nevertheless had at least a temporary, chilling effect on the enthusiasm that had pushed the Dow up nearly 29 points in the two previous sessions.

Another evident drag on the market was a prime rate increase from 10 to 10 1/2 per cent posted by New York's First National City Bank.

Citibank had cut its prime to 10 per cent six weeks ago, but few other major banks followed, with most staying in the 10 1/2 to 10 3/4 per cent range.

American Natural Gas was the most-active issue on the Big Board, down 1/2 at 36 1/2. A 114-100-share block traded at 37.

The NYSE's 11 a.m. composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .18 at 36.88.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index slipped .11 to 62.09.

GRI Corp. was the Amex volume leader, down 1/4 at 10 1/4.

WASHINGTON (AP)— Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, recovering from a stroke that has impaired his ability to move, apparently will be unable to return to work when the court reconvenes Jan. 13.

Dr. Thomas Connally, the 76-year-old justice's personal physician, said Thursday that Douglas has suffered "a loss of some ability to move" on his left side.

But Connally said in an interview that doctors treating Douglas are encouraged by his progress. "Right now things look good," Connally said.

Connally said it was impossible to tell how long recovery would take or whether Douglas would be able to resume the bench during the current term ending in June. However, it was considered unlikely that Douglas would be back at work when the court's Christmas recess ends.

Douglas was admitted to Walter Reed Army Medical Center on Wednesday after suffering a stroke New Year's Eve in Nassau, the Bahamas.

Connally said the justice collapsed and experienced weakness in his left side while in his hotel room Tuesday evening shortly after arriving in Nassau from Washington.

"I think it was clear to Mrs. Douglas that he had had a stroke," he said. He said the justice did not lose consciousness.

Douglas and his wife, Cathy, were flown to Washington in an Air Force plane through arrangements made by President Ford.

A statement issued Thursday by the court's information officer, Barrett McGurn, said there was "no evidence of mental impairment" as a result of the stroke.

"Physicians are treating Justice Douglas with anticoagulants to lessen the possibility of blood clots moving from the heart," the statement said.

"Justice Douglas' condition continues to be officially categorized as serious but his vital signs are stable and he is alert."

Connally, asked about the nature of the stroke, responded: "There is a feeling that it may have been a blood clot from his heart that went to the brain. That is the presumption."

Douglas has worn an electronic pacemaker since 1968 to correct an abnormally slow heartbeat.

Patterson Named

Department of Surgery and the Department of Community Health Sciences at the Duke University Medical School and a faculty appointment with the East Carolina University School of Medicine, said he would begin his duties as the Eastern AHEC director February 1.

"My first priority," he said, "is to visit the 17 hospitals that will be participating in this Area Health Education Center... the physicians... the administrators of the hospitals... to see what their priorities are. We need to accumulate that information and go from that point on... to develop programs, Patterson explained.

He said "I think this (AHEC) compares to a partnership between the medical schools and the community hospitals in this area."

"One of the main objectives is to improve the quantity, the quality and distribution of health care personnel."

According to Patterson, "we hope to obtain our goals first, through continuing education programs for... health-care personnel, including doctors, nurses, dentists, pharmacists and other paramedical personnel.

"We will also try to help develop health manpower and improve distribution of health manpower," in the 24-county area, and "try to work closely with the medical schools... setting up clinical rotation of medical students in this area... and utilizing their residents."

Both Dr. Patterson and Dr. Monroe indicated that some medical students may start rotating in the area during the coming year.

Patterson's office will be on the East Carolina University campus, but according to the new AHEC director "we're still searching for one right now."

"I am enthusiastic about the tremendous opportunities and keen interest I have found in the hospitals in this area and at East Carolina University."

Patterson said he has asked Joel E. Vickers, presently a member of the faculty of the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions to serve as deputy director. Three other key staff members, a Director of Family Practice Residency Programs, an Associate Director for Immediately prior to assuming his present responsibilities with the Duke Cancer Center he served as Executive Director of the North Carolina Regional Medical Program.

Dr. Patterson is married to the former Ruth Adriel Read of Philadelphia. They have four children; two of whom, F. M. Simmons, Jr. and David Read, are physicians. Another son, John Stephen, is a student with the East Carolina University Graduate School. The Pattersons also have a daughter, Isabelle Simmons, who is married to James C. Burbank of Chapel Hill.

Harvey said he was conscious and talking while being transported to the hospital by the Bethel Rescue Squad and while physicians were working on him, but he died shortly after 3 p.m., about an hour and a half after the accident occurred. A fractured skull and multiple internal injuries were diagnosed, he said.

Dolan, whose mother and stepfather live in Pensacola, Fla., was employed by Brown Steel Contractors Inc. of Newman, Ga.

Conley Trips Pam Pack, 68-59

WASHINGTON—D. H. Conley's Vikings didn't let their upset loss to North Pitt last week stay with them long as they shocked Northeastern Conference favorite Washington, 68-59 last night.

The victory was the tenth in 11 games for the strong Vikings, who reign now as the premier 3-A team in the Eastern part of the state.

"We had to play North Pitt with Calvin Hawkins making his first start in place of Gerry Mobley (broken ankle) and it took a little while for him to get used to it, and for the rest of the players to get used to him in there," Coach Shelly Marsh said. "Playing the second game off the tournament helped to round us out."

So the Vikes, back in form, although still without Mobley, had little trouble.

Rick Mobley, who is the area's leading scorer, continued his hot hand in the game, dumping in 13 field goals and four free throws for 30 points.

Conley jumped into the lead in the opening quarter, building up a 19-14 lead. They continued to stay just ahead of the Pam Pack in the second frame, outshooting them, 17-16, to lead by 36-30 at intermission.

Washington managed to clip off one of those points in the third period with a 17-16 edge, but still was down 52-47 as the final period began. Conley outthit the Pack, 16-12, in that to wrap up the victory.

Besides Mobley's 30, Robert Harris added 18 for Conley. Mobley also pulled in eight rebounds for the hot-shooting Vikings, who made 27 of 46 shots.

Washington was led by Milton Simmons with 16, while Carl Williams had 11.

Washington's junior varsity took a 59-49 win in the preliminary.

Conley will play host to Southern Wayne tonight.

FREE BALL—Tim White, second from right, of Appalachian State, and Maurice Howard (24) of the University of Maryland, both stop short as the ball falls on the back of ASU's Kinney Baughman (51) in the second half of their game in Cole Field House Thursday. Told Off Team; Got Some Action

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The way Bill Musselman talked to them at halftime, Minnesota's Gophers wanted to crawl into a hole.

Bristling at their poor performance in the first half, Musselman told off his players and got some action in the second half.

The Gophers turned from lambs to tigers, and whipped Wisconsin 61-46 in Big Ten basketball Thursday night.

"I talked to them about what life was all about," Musselman said about his hot blast at intermission. "If this was a non-league game I wish Wisconsin had won. They deserved it."

"We weren't ready to play. They outscored us by four in the first half. That shouldn't be. I'm not running an intramural program."

While Minnesota was winning its Big Ten opener, Michigan, Purdue and Iowa also got off winging in the conference race. Michigan, the nation's No. 17 team, tripped Illinois 96-84 in double overtime; No. 18 Purdue stopped Michigan State 94-86 and Iowa defeated Northwestern 75-73.

In other games involving the ranked teams, No. 7 Maryland walloped Appalachian State 96-50; San Francisco smashed No. 10 Providence 96-68 and No. 19 Memphis State turned back Georgia State 102-76.

Freshman Mark Olberding scored 20 points and helped Minnesota dominate the backboards in the second half as the Gophers beat Wisconsin. The Badgers, playing without leading scorer and rebounder Dale Koehler, who has an ankle injury, stayed with the taller Gophers through the first half, which ended in a 24-24 tie.

But Minnesota, 8-1, opened a quick second-half lead and won going away. Responding to Musselman's halftime lecture, the Gophers outscored the Badgers after intermission, 27-12.

Waymon Britt's jump shot with 2:11 left in the second overtime period lifted Michigan past stubborn Illinois. Illinois had two chances to tie the score in the final two minutes, but Rick Schmidt missed with 45 seconds left in the overtime period and Nate Williams missed another shot near the buzzer.

The teams were tied at 72 at the end of regulation play as Illinois came back from a 37-35 deficit at halftime. Michigan's C. J. Kupec had to hit a basket with 51 seconds left in regulation play to push the game into overtime.

Freshmen Wayne Walls and Walter Jordan combined for 52 points and 31 rebounds to lead Purdue past Michigan State. The game was close only in the opening minutes, but the Boiler-makers' two talented freshmen ignited the team to a late surge in the first half and continued their great play in the second.

Larry Moore's two free throws in the closing seconds clinched Iowa's victory over Northwestern. The triumph broke Iowa's four-game losing streak and extended Northwestern's losing streak to five.

Maryland settled down after a ragged first half and ran away from outgunned Appalachian State in the second. Owen Brown scored 12 of his 16 points in the second half to lead the Terps to their eighth victory in nine games.

Bill Cook scored 25 points as Memphis State overcame a cold start to bomb Georgia State.

North Pitt Outlasts Jaguars For 65-61 Win

FARMVILLE—North Pitt High School outlasted Farmville Central's surprising Jaguars last night to take a 65-61 victory in the Eastern Carolina Conference. The Farmville girls nipped North Pitt, 44-42, on two late baskets.

In the girls' game, both teams matched baskets as they ended the first period with a 10-10 tie.

Farmville Central edged away in the second quarter, however, outthitting North Pitt, 13-9. That gave the Lady Jaguars a 23-19 lead at intermission.

But the Pant-HERS just reversed the situation during the third period, taking a 13-9 advantage to leave it knotted up again, 32-32 as the final period got underway. Farmville Central had to score the final two baskets of the game to outthit the Pant-HERS, 12-10, and take the win.

Julia Moye led the Farmville scoring with 25 points, while Kathi Manning paced North Pitt with 13, and Mary Brown had 10.

In the boys' game, it was a similar start with both pushing through 11 points in the first eight minutes. North Pitt then pulled away, 16-10, in the second quarter to take a 27-21 halftime lead.

The Jaguars came back with 22 points in the third period, holding North Pitt to 16, and that left the two tied at 43-43 at the horn. But in the final frame, North Pitt managed a 22-18 advantage to pull out the victory and remain hot on the heels of league leading Conley.

Donnie Perkins led North Pitt with 22 points, while Jesse Harris had 15 and Charlie Lewis added 12. Mike Corbett had 28 to pace Farmville, with Danny Nobles adding 10.

Farmville Central goes to North Lenoir, while North Pitt hosts C.B. Aycock tonight.

Industrial Opens Year

The Greenville Industrial Basketball League opened play last night with Wachovia taking a 57-52 win over North Carolina National Bank. Pitt Memorial also received a forfeit win over Eaton, while Union Carbide got a forfeit over the Post Office.

NCNB pushed out to a 34-28 halftime lead, but Wachovia came back with a 29-18 second half, and that was good enough to win it.

Bill Baggett led Wachovia with 19 points, while Lyman Cox and Billy Stokes each had 10. For NCNB, Lonny Whitehurst had 17, Chip Barbee had 15 and Randy Martin had 10.

NEARLY PERFECT
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Bill McClard, kicking specialist at Arkansas in 1970, led the NCAA in kick scoring that year with 80 points. He made 50 of 51 extra point attempts and converted 10 field goals.

Rams Lose In Wild Finish

SNOW HILL—Greene Central and North Lenoir teamed up for a slam-bang finish to their game last night, with North Lenoir's Hawks emerging with a 56-51 overtime victory.

Earlier, the North Lenoir junior varsity took a 47-31 win, while the girls also came out ahead, 36-31.

In the boys' game, the two teams combined for seven points in the final seven seconds of play in an amazing finish that left the two tied at 49-49.

North Lenoir had pushed into the lead in the first period, 13-11, and they held onto it during the second frame with a 10-8 advantage. That left the Hawks with a 23-19 halftime lead.

North Lenoir continued to hold the lead in the third period, with a 13-8 margin, running the score to 36-27 going into the final period. But the Rams then put on a rally, and finally with seven seconds left, they took a 47-46 lead.

North Lenoir raced down the court, however, and pushed through a basket with three seconds left, giving them the lead, 48-47. Time was called at that point, and some confusion resulted in who had called the time. It was finally given to Greene Central, and it was discovered that this was their sixth time out, giving the Hawks a technical foul, which they made—and possession of the ball. Trailing 49-47, the Rams stole the ball on the inbounds, as Marvin Rouse made a quick relay to Jerry Carraway, who scored at the horn for a 49-49 tie.

It was all in vain however, as the Rams were outthit, 7-2, in the overtime, with Clarence Wiggins getting four of the seven Hawk points.

Wiggins led North Lenoir with 19 points, while Anthony Suggs added 15, Carraway was high for the Rams with 12.

In the girls' game, North Lenoir raced out to a 13-6 lead in the first period and never trailed again. Both teams put in five points in the second period, making it 18-11 at the half.

North Lenoir continued to pull away in the third period with an 11-8 advantage, boosting the lead to 29-19. Greene Central came up with a 12-7 margin in the final period, but it wasn't enough.

Vicky Vail led North Lenoir with 11 points, and was the only girl in double figures.

The Rams will travel to Southern Nash tonight.

Church In First Game

The Church Basketball League opened its season last night with Black Jack taking a 64-45 victory over Trinity.

Black Jack ran out to a 20-17 lead after one period, then got hot and sped away in the second half. They outthit Trinity, 44-28, to win easily.

Bobby Edwards led Black Jack with 14 points, while Ricky Langley had 11 for Trinity.

Both Wade Henkel and Reggie Lee are hitting better than nine a game however.

Hunt is the leading rebounder with 10.7 a game, while Geter is getting 7.7. Overall, the Bucs are picking off just under 50 per cent off the missed shots.

Coach Dave Patton, who will be facing another first-year coach in Les Robinson, looks for quite a game. "It should be quite a shootout," he said.

While both teams have been away from the court for two weeks, Patton doesn't feel it will have too much affect. "It'll probably help us a little. I'm sure it's going to take us a little time to get back to the regime of playing games again, but I think we'll be a better team for the time off."

Patton is somewhat worried by some nagging-type injuries that have popped up since the Bucs returned to practice. "This is one problem the layoff did cause, but I expect everyone to be ready to play by Saturday night."

Patton is looking for some way to stop McKeever, whom he calls the "premier player of the conference."

"He runs the show for them. He brings the ball down court, then he either puts it up or makes the good pass to someone else to score. Last year, he beat us just about single handedly down there. We just have to control him—or else stop everyone else from doing anything at all."

The Pirate coach looks on this as another key game for the Pirates. "If we win it, we're 2-0 in the conference, and that's what it's all about. It's the season, and it's the reason we're playing."

The game will be the last home game until January 15, when the Bucs open up a two-game conference stand with Appalachian State and William & Mary. After that they'll be on the road again until February 8.

Nest Wednesday, they'll be in Jersey City, N.J., to meet St. Peter's, then they'll head for Storrs, Conn., where they'll meet Baylor in the first round of the Connecticut Classic. Eastern Michigan and hosting Connecticut meet in the other game on Friday, with the winners and losers meeting on Saturday.

Ayden-Griffton Downs Aycock

LITTLEFIELD—Ayden-Griffton's Chargers captured their second victory of the season last night, bombing Charles B. Aycock, 76-58. The Ayden-Griffton girls also won, 40-23, but the junior varsity fell, 62-49.

In the girls' game, Ayden-Griffton pushed out into a 10-6 lead after the first period of play. Aycock came back with an 8-6 second period advantage, cutting the gap to 16-14 at the half.

In the third period, the Falconettes again outthit Ayden-Griffton, 6-4, and tied it at 20-20. But in the final period, the Chargerettes got moving, rushing to a 20-3 advantage to lead Aycock in their wake.

Audrey McCarter led Ayden-Griffton with 16 points, while Teresa Thaxton pushed through 14.

In the boys' game, Aycock jumped out to a 16-9 lead after one period, and they matched the Chargers in the second frame, 20-20.

But Ayden-Griffton put its defense to work in the third period, limiting Aycock to just two points. At the same time, the Chargers pushed through 26 of their own to run out to a 55-38 lead. They outthit Aycock once more, 21-20, in the final period to wrap up the win.

Vern Davemport led Ayden-Griffton with 21 points, while Willie Williams had 14 and Willie Forbes had 10. Gene Summerlin led Aycock with 17, while Ed Spence added 13.

The Chargers will travel to Eastern Wayne tonight.

Wildcats Not Likely To Win

By The Associated Press
Davidson's Wildcats, rated preseason contenders for the Southern Conference basketball championship, won their first two games and since then have lost five in a row.

The Wildcats' losing streak isn't likely to end tonight, for they make the second stop of a three-game western swing at, of all places, UCLA to meet the unbeaten third-ranked Bruins.

Davidson opened the trip Tuesday night by dropping a 90-76 decision at Brigham Young and will be a decided underdog at UCLA, which posted its seventh and eighth victories last weekend in winning the Maryland Invitational Tournament.

Another conference team tried its luck against a nationally ranked team Thursday night and got whacked for its troubles. Appalachian State's Mountaineers fell to 1-7 in a 96-50 whipping at the hands of Maryland's seventh-ranked Terps.

Business picks up Saturday night when all but two of the league's eight teams, Appalachian and Richmond's Spiders, will be in action.

Headlining the schedule is a conference scrap in which East Carolina's Pirates will be at home against The Citadel's Bulldogs.

Davidson winds up its trip at California-Santa Barbara, Furman's Paladins will be at Southern California, Virginia Military's Keydets go to Middle Tennessee and William and Mary's Indians play host to Old Dominion, the nation's seventh-ranked College Division team.

After committing 14 turnovers in a ragged first half in which it ran up a 16-point lead, Maryland outscored Appalachian 22-4 during one stretch after intermission in running its record to 8-1.

John Lucas led the Terps with 27 points, while Owen Brown had 16 and Steve Sheppard 14. Appalachian was led by Ed Kane and Tim White with 14 points each.

State Gets Into Tourney Picture

By The Associated Press
Top-ranked North Carolina State, which had no tournament exposure during the Christmas-New Year's holiday period, gets in the act tonight in the opening game of the Big Four tournament in Greensboro.

The Wolfpack joins Wake Forest, North Carolina and Duke in this event, which will wind up Saturday night with losers meeting and winners battling for the tournament championship.

The Big Four battle highlights the Atlantic Coast Conference weekend activity, which has one other league contest and one nonleague game on the card.

In addition to Big Four play, Saturday night's schedule has seventh-ranked Maryland at home to 19th ranked Notre Dame, and Virginia is at Clemson in an ACC game.

In tonight's first round at Greensboro, N. C. State carries 36 straight victories, eight this season, against Wake Forest in the 7 p.m. opener. Wake Forest is 5-3, with one ACC loss.

In the 9 p.m. nightcap, eighth-ranked North Carolina goes against Duke. Both have 5-1 records.

Virginia is 0-1 in the conference and 4-2 overall going against Clemson, which is taking on its first ACC opponent. The Tigers are 5-5.

Maryland was the only ACC team to see action Thursday night, settling down after a ragged start to turn back Southern Conference Appalachian State, 96-50.

The Terps pushed their record to 8-1, their only loss having come at the hands of third-ranked UCLA. Appalachian State's top scorers were Ed Kane and Tim White, with 14 points each.

TORONTO (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins, a Chatham, Ont., native and pitcher for Texas Rangers of the American League, has been named Ontario's athlete of the year by the Ontario Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

An association member said Thursday the voting for Jenkins, a 25-game winner with the Rangers, was "heavily-weighted" in favor of the right-hander.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox announced the signing today of a pair of rookies, pitcher Jim Otten and outfielder Mike Ondina, to 1975 contracts.

Otten, 23, had a 7-2 record at Iowa of the American Association last season. Ondina was the Sox' No. 1 draft choice in the summer draft of 1972 and batted .275 at Appleton of the Midwest League last season.

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Bay Meadows is cutting its winter harness racing meeting from six to five days a week, with Sunday-Monday off, because of a shortage of "raceable horses," the track announced Thursday.

The cutdown came in spite of business being up 12 per cent from a year ago during the first five days.

"By trying to fill 54 races a week, it would be necessary to reduce the quality of our racing or necessitate some horses being overraced," said Dr. William J. Ward, president and general manager of the California Horse Racing Association.

Michigan State has 10 women's athletic teams in varsity competition.

Chargers' Woods Is NFL Rookie Of Year

By JIM McELROY
AP Sports Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — San Diego invested $100 and a little faith in Don Woods last fall and the rookie running back returned higher dividends than anyone around the National Football League believed possible.

Woods, who was picked up by San Diego after being waived by Green Bay, finished the season not only as a starter, but as one of the top running backs in the league.

He finished second to Otis Armstrong of Denver in the rushing race as he established an NFL rookie and a San Diego individual record by gobbling up 1,162 yards and scoring seven touchdowns.

For his efforts, Woods was named Thursday as The Associated Press National Football League's Offensive Rookie of the Year. He received 52 of a possible 78 votes from a national panel of sports writers, including three representing each of the NFL's 26 teams.

Running back Alvin Maxson of the New Orleans Saints was a distant second with four votes and guard John Hicks of the New York Giants was third with three nods.

Woods, a quarterback in college, was a sixth-round Green Bay draft choice who sparkled in preseason play while seeing plenty of action during the absence of veteran starters John Brockington and MacArthur Lane, who were out because of the players' strike.

But when the strike ended and the veterans returned Woods saw little action and soon was put on waivers.

"My biggest break was in having somebody, anybody, to believe in my capabilities," Woods said when informed he had been tabbed the top offensive rookie in the NFL.

San Diego — where Woods' former coach at the University of New Mexico, Rudy Feldman, was serving as an assistant — was willing to invest the $100 waiver price and put a little faith in the quarterback-turned running back.

"Don has the natural ability, speed and elusiveness," said Feldman. "He runs with good control. He saves a bit, but all the good runners I've seen hold something in reserve."

The 6-foot-1, 210 pounder played his high school ball at Fred Moore High and Denton High in Denton, Tex., before moving on to New Mexico where he starred first at New Mexico Highlands for three years before going on to New Mexico University for his senior year after Highlands dropped football.

He finished as the nation's leading rushing quarterback as a senior at New Mexico where he netted 971 yards in 220 carries and scored 11 times. He also passed for 869 yards and five TDs en route to a school record for total offense of 1,840 yards.

Jabbar Getting Back Into Groove

By The Associated Press
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Milwaukee's towering inferno, says he is beginning to feel more comfortable. At the same time, he is making opposing National Basketball Association teams feel most uncomfortable.

Abdul-Jabbar was red-hot Thursday night, firing in 52 points — the high in the NBA this season — powering the Bucks to a 106-111 victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

"I feel more comfortable now," said Abdul-Jabbar, who missed the first 16 games of the season with a broken hand and an eye injury, and recently was plagued with a strained back.

"Kareem's getting in the groove with his hook shot," Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello said after Abdul-Jabbar had tossed in 18 of 29 field goal attempts and 16 of 20 free throws. "He got hot and the guys went to him, which is good."

In other NBA games, the Detroit Pistons edged the New Orleans Jazz 99-95 and the New York Knicks outlasted the Phoenix Suns 117-113 in overtime.

In the American Basketball Association, the Spirits of St. Louis routed the Virginia Squires 112-88, the San Antonio Spurs whipped the San Diego Conquistadors 120-104, and the Memphis Sounds downed the Utah Stars 95-88.

Abdul-Jabbar's 52 points surpassed the NBA's previous high of 49 this season, by Buffalo's Bob McAdoo. But they fell three short of his career high of 55.

BEST 'YOUNG TEAM' BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — General Manager Punch Imlach of the Buffalo Sabres calls his skaters the best "young team" in the National Hockey League. With one-fourth of the season completed, Buffalo paced the Adams Division of the NHL.

It's a big team with the defense averaging 6 feet 2 and 204 pounds. Forwards average 6 feet and 183 pounds.

Tom Van Arsdale led Atlanta with 20 points.

Pistons 99, Jazz 95
Despite Detroit's victory, Coach Ray Scott was not satisfied with his team's play. "We just didn't have a good performance," he said. "We have to realize that we're now a first-place team and learn to play like it."

The Pistons, leaders of the NBA's Midwest Division, were led by Bob Lanier's 36 points. The expansionist Jazz, losers of 31 of 34 games including all 21 on the road, got 31 points from Pete Maravich.

Knicks 117, Suns 113
Walt Frazier collected eight of his game-high 32 points in overtime, including the Knicks' last four, as New York won for only the third time in 10 games. Frazier also had six assists, all six of New York's steals and seven rebounds. Earl Monroe added 27 points and a game-high eight assists for New York.

Spirits 112, Squires 88
Marvin Barnes and Freddie Lewis each scored 27 points and Barnes grabbed a game-high 18 rebounds for St. Louis, which snapped a three-game losing streak. Lloyd Batts was high for Virginia with 20 points.

Spurs 120, Q's 104
George Gervin's 26 points, Rich Jones' 23 and Donnie Freeman's 20 paced San Antonio's victory. Travis Grant scored 29 points and Bo Lamar 25 for the Q's.

Sounds 95, Stars 88
Stew Johnson's 25 points led a balanced Memphis attack against Utah, which played without standout rookie Moses Malone, sidelined with a leg injury. The Stars' Ron Boone scored 33 points, but only two in the final period.

Mixed Reactions As Players Look At Pacts

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Will Catfish Hunter's record $3.75 million pact with the New York Yankees provide the jumping off point for a new wave of salary demands from baseball's top stars?

A survey of some of the game's biggest names conducted by The Associated Press shows there is considerable difference among major leaguers as to how they will be affected by Hunter's lucrative contract.

Some felt this was just an isolated incident, with special conditions — namely, Hunter's having been declared a free agent by an arbitration panel. Others, however, said they felt maybe they could cash in, even within the constrictions of the reserve clause.

"It's kind of overwhelming," said Brooks Robinson, Baltimore's veteran third baseman, about Hunter's five-year contract. "But it won't affect any other negotiations, because this is a freak case. It probably won't push salaries up."

First baseman Steve Garvey of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the National League's Most Valuable Player last year, agreed that the key factor to be considered was that Hunter was a free agent.

"I don't think his contract will have much effect on my salary negotiations, because I don't have the opportunity to offer my services to anybody else but the Dodgers," Garvey said.

A number of other players mentioned how the publicity of the Hunter affair could have an effect beyond the actual individual case.

"This should show the courts how baseball's reserve clause is detrimental to wage earning," said Oakland third baseman and team captain Sal Bando. "In any case, salaries and conditions should improve now."

But from the executive side, President Gabe Paul of the Yankees said the Hunter case could solidify the reserve system. "I think this strengthens the understanding of the reserve clause — and what could happen without it."

Vida Blue, one of Hunter's ex-teammates on the Oakland A's and himself once a celebrated holdout against A's owner Charles O. Finley, was among those who speculated that financially, this could be a breakthrough for all players.

"Bob Gibson, Steve Carlton and Tom Seaver will set the pace in contract negotiating," Blue predicted. "Nolan Ryan, Bert Blyleven and myself are in the next class, and will be demanding a much larger slice of the pie."

Blue has nothing against Hunter for demanding so much money. "It was a case where reach in the cookie jar and get the best cookie you can get. Hunter earned those big cookies."

A number of others also predicted a salary spiral. "Hunter's salary should help everybody in baseball," said Yankee third baseman Graig Nettles. "I'm looking forward to it helping me a little bit in my negotiations."

Is Hunter getting paid too much? Virtually all players contacted praised Catfish for getting the best contract possible. "I'm glad he was able to get all he could," said A's first baseman Gene Tenace, summing up the general feeling.

Finley Going To Court Today

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP)—Charles O. Finley had a date in court today to ask that Catfish Hunter be thrown back into the Oakland A's deep pool of baseball talent.

"It is my opinion that Hunter still belongs to the A's," the owner of the world champions said after the star of the team's pitching staff signed Tuesday with the New York Yankees.

"If we win in the courts and the Yankees have played him prior to our winning, they will certainly be liable for tremendous damages," Finley added.

Neil Papiano, a Los Angeles attorney representing Finley in the case, was set to argue in today's Alameda County Superior Court hearing before Judge George W. Phillips Jr. that a baseball arbitrator exceeded his authority in declaring the American League's 1974 Cy Young Award winner a free agent.

The grounds for the unique ruling were that Finley breached Hunter's $100,000 a year contract by failing to pay $50,000 to an insurance company as Hunter requested. But in the suit seeking to overturn the arbitration ruling, Finley's lawyer contends the owner would have committed income tax fraud by meeting Hunter's demand.

The right-handed Hunter quickly took advantage of his free agent status, listening to bids from most major league teams before deciding on the Yankees' offer which reportedly totals $3.75 million in bonus money, salary, pension, insurance coverage and legal fees.

"It was a case where you reach in the cookie jar and get the best cookie you can get," Oakland pitcher Vida Blue said of Hunter's opportunity. "Hunter earned those cookies."

First baseman Gene Tenace, who lost to Finley in a salary arbitration battle last winter, said, "It couldn't happen to a better guy. I'm glad he was able to get all he could. But his loss will definitely hurt our club."

Finley won a legal battle with the Yankees following the 1973 season, preventing the club from signing former A's Manager Dick Williams.

But A's right fielder Reggie Jackson, for one, didn't give his boss much of a chance this time.

"Charlie can fight it in the courts and it won't mean a thing. Catfish Hunter will still belong to the Yankees," he predicted.

CALMS CALLERS—Anna Hillar has been fielding calls from irate TV viewers for 23 years. (AP Wirephoto)

She Listens To TV Complaints

By LINDA DEUTSCH
 Associated Press Writer
 BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—The big game was in its last minutes, the teams neck and neck. TV viewer's held their breath. Suddenly, unbelievably, the game blacked out and a small girl named Heidi came skipping across TV screens.

And Anna Hillar's switchboard went wild. That moment four years ago when a major football game was cut short by the regularly scheduled movie, "Heidi," still haunts Mrs. Hillar, who is chief telephone operator at NBC-TV studios here.

Her other remembered nightmares include the day President Ford made a speech which pre-empted the World Series game for 45 minutes.

"During those 45 minutes we took 588 calls," she declares. "And the things they said about the President!"

But Mrs. Hillar, who has been fielding calls from irate viewers for 23 years, knew how to handle the emergency. "We took their comments and told them to stay tuned, and this would be over in a few minutes."

Not all calls to a TV studio are nasty. Some viewers offer support for favorite shows. "I think they're afraid that if they don't show interest their favorite show will be canceled," says Mrs. Hillar, who heads a staff of 17 operators.

As the only network with a 24-hour switchboard, NBC answers the most viewer calls, and the secret, says Mrs. Hillar, is not answering. "We mostly don't tell them anything. We take their comment and say it will be passed on."

The phoned comments are passed on indeed. Operators—particularly those assigned to prime-time hours—take down viewer comments word for word. Once a week Mrs. Hillar compiles the comments into a report which is sent to 30 network executives "from the president on down."

More than 29 million people used Pennsylvania's 91 state parks during 1972.

The most vehement protests usually come from sports fans or animal lovers. The nicest calls are from children. And the star who draws the most irate calls is definitely Jane Fonda. "When I know Jane Fonda is going to be on one of our shows, I always think, 'Oh boy, here we go!'"

There is a bright side to the job, she notes. "I think it's very interesting. Each call is different. Many of these people have legitimate reasons to be upset." And when the calls are weird, "You look at these things and laugh."

Mister Rogers Talks To His Young Audience

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
 UPI Family Editor
 NEW YORK (UPI)—Every boy and girl big enough to turn on the television set to watch Mister Rogers' Neighborhood can remember back a year or two—and those trying times of babyhood.

Babies need big people to do practically everything for them. The big people feed the babies. They dress the babies. They keep them out of harm's way.

Mister Rogers knows how boys and girls three, four and five really hate to be treated like babies now that they are bigger.

But if they are to take good care of themselves, they need to know certain things. So Mister Rogers has made some television messages about how boys and girls can take care of themselves.

In the messages, Fred Rogers talks to kids about different things—from getting shots to being careful about cars.

The Pittsburgh-based star of Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood, the nationally acclaimed National Educational Television's children's program, is seen regularly on television in western Pennsylvania.

The television spots encouraging children to develop good health and safety habits were prepared as a public service. They were made at the request of the sponsoring organization, Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania and Blue Shield.

For children who cannot see the Mister Rogers' health messages in other parts of the country, there is a "Mister Rogers Talks to Kids" booklet. Single copies are available free from Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania in Pittsburgh, Pa.

There are storybook drawings in the booklet, but Mom or Dad or a big brother or sister will need to read the messages to the preschool boy or girl.

Here are some of the things Mister Rogers says:

—Eating Right. "Well, since you are growing, you can do a lot of things for yourself now. You can even feed yourself things that make you strong and help you keep on growing. You know, things like green beans, orange carrots, red tomatoes, meat and apples and milk."

—Care of Teeth. "... we all need to be careful not to eat too much candy because you know too many sweet things can sometimes make little holes in teeth."

—Playing Safely. "... being a good pretender or a good ball player means you don't jump from high places or run out in the street after the ball."

—Getting Shots. "Did you ever have a doctor or a nurse give you a shot?"

"Well, I guess you know it's something that helps you keep from getting sick. It usually hurts a little at first—feels like a pinch—but not for long. Sometimes it doesn't hurt at all.

"Of course, there's nothing wrong with crying if a shot does hurt, and it's really fine if you can talk about it."

"If you want to sit in someone's lap or hold someone's hand, that's not being a baby—that's helping you feel better."

"Doctors and nurses don't want to hurt you; they just want to give you what they can to keep you well."

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 4, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
 from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Try to rightly schedule your time so you can finish your practical duties, and then be off to new and interesting social outlets, persons you've recently met.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle credit affairs and then get together with partners for amusement. Don't lose your temper. Deal carefully with public.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get data that will elevate your present position in life, then do whatever will improve your appearance. Postpone trip.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle money matters before going out for entertainment. Listen to what a clever, creative businessman has to suggest.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A partner expects you to attend to important matters, so do so. Then you can have the good time you crave.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) It's all right to enjoy yourself, but first get that important work done to free your mind of worry about it. Take health treatments.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are tempted to spend too much for pleasure which you would later regret, so be happy with the inexpensive and wholesome.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show affection for those you like but do not arouse ire of close family ties. Gad about socially but watch expenditures.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although some duties seem unimportant, do them anyway before socializing. An expert's suggestions can help you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle practical affairs that are important before stepping out with good pals. You can achieve that personal aim.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some important matter is not working out very well, but if you go to a bigwig for advice you get good results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to make good changes in the business world, but you must start early and not stay home to bicker.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Anything that needs the assistance of a good friend should await a better time when it can be given more study.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she needs to be taught early to be more objective in dealing with others or there could be much confusion in this life. There is much depth in this nature. While liking others a good deal, the mind is focused on what he or she wants to accomplish. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Perhaps More Will Emerge From Life As Fugitive

EDITOR'S NOTE — The pressure has eased, now that the Vietnam war is over, and more of the nation's political fugitives might start surfacing. This report describes some of the experiences of their lives in the underground.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
Vanished.

Patricia Hearst. Her companions in revolution, William and Emily Harris.

Add to the list Bernardine Dohrn, Dwight Armstrong, Susan Saxe, Katherine Ann Power and other political radicals from the late 1960s, some of them permanent entries on the FBI's "10 Most Wanted" list.

All running from the law. All successful at it.

They seem to have mastered the art of "going underground," as the fugitive life in America has been called.

As more fugitives are apprehended or turn themselves in — two surrendered recently, Jane Alpert and Barry Stein, who jumped bail four years ago following charges of politically related crimes — more is being learned about the underground phenomena.

And the people involved are talking more freely as passions cool over the Vietnam war that spawned the radical movement and the underground life.

In addition to the "about 30" political fugitives still wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, there are thousands of other people successfully on the run in America, some sought on criminal charges, others wanted by collection agencies, husbands, and wives and parents.

And the key to their disappearance, the first step in "going underground" successfully, is becoming a completely different person.

"If I'm looking for a fugitive these days I assume he will have a false identity," said a senior FBI agent in Washington.

Fugitive Barry Stein, on the run from charges of mob action and resisting arrest following the militant Weatherman's "Day of Rage" riots in Chicago in October 1969, began his transformation by picking the name of a dead person — Daniel Wight — from the obituary columns of a newspaper. From then on, it was easy to get identity documents.

"The basic document is the birth certificate," said the FBI agent. "With it you can apply for a driver's license in that name, a library card, a passport with your own picture in it. This puts a protective shield around a person."

Some criminals, particularly check forgers, have been arrested with four or five completely different identities.

But Barry Stein needed only one. It was sound enough for him to live as Daniel Wight, respected citizen of a Vermont community, where he established the successful "Green Mountain Health Center" that helped in Planned Parenthood and other activities. He surrendered in November.

Jane Alpert, who jumped bail and disappeared following her conviction or conspiracy in a series of bombings in Manhattan in 1969, told court officials after her surrender in November that she had been living a "respectable" life and holding down a "respectable" job for most of the past four years.

Considering her notoriety, it seems unlikely she lived under her own name in that period. She hasn't described her life underground.

Becoming another person is the first step toward going underground. Staying that way is much more difficult.

Numerous fugitives have talked of the terrible fear of detection when they first flee. "I was paranoid. I was stumbling over furniture, tripping over things, always looking over my shoulder. I was so scared," said fugitive Tom Smidt in an interview with a New York radio station, WBAI. He was fearful even though at the time of the interview, he was hiding one thousand miles from his home state in a house at the end of 47-mile long dirt road.

Tom was fleeing charges raising from his participation in draft card burning on Chicago's South Side in May 1969.

But as Tom's sister Linda — also interviewed by WBAI — discovered when she traveled with her brother: "I thought going underground meant hiding in a basement forever, but I found we could ultimately travel around freely. It was more a state of mind."

But the fear and suspicion rarely disappears. "On the run you are always waiting for someone to get you," said a senior FBI agent. "You don't have a clear conscience. One guy turned himself into me because he kept seeing FBI agents in the bars where he drank, and on the streets."

It was the "psychological difficulties" with her fugitive life that convinced Jane Alpert that she should surrender, said one of her lawyers.

And these difficulties include the lesson that fugitives quickly have to learn: old friends and family have to be ditched, along with your old Social Security card number.

It is through family, friends and past associates that the FBI has tracked down numerous fugitives. Angela Davis was on the "10 Most Wanted" list for less than two months in 1970 because agents quickly tracked her to a New York City hotel by watching her old acquaintances.

Fugitive Tom Smidt said in his WBAI interview that he maintained contact with his conservative family in a small Minnesota town, just south of Minneapolis, although his father had told him over the telephone six months after he fled, "If I knew where you were, I would turn you in."

Fearful of associating with old friends and family, worried about recognition in public, where do fugitives go?

Initially, when the heat is on, to "safe houses" where sympathizers ask no questions.

"It is a trusting thing," said Rosalie Ritz, a freelance journalist who claims to know a number of political fugitives. She is currently proprietor of the Upstairs Art Association in Oakland, Calif., an organization of artists and writers who work in poor neighborhoods.

"It is like the South in the old days when blacks could go from town to town and stay in friendly homes because they were denied hotel rooms. Today in every university campus community there are people known as sympathetic, people you know are not undercover cops."

Miss Ritz said, "It is not organized, it does not mean belonging to an organization. The word gets around the country. Maybe graduate students moving from one campus to another carry the word. It is like a family thing."

She ran a poll amongst her friends recently, asking what they would do if Patty Hearst knocked on their door one night asking for refuge. "Most people said they would take her in. I would take her in," Miss Ritz said.

What about charges of aiding and abetting criminals? "You might ask what tempts the average person into becoming an accessory. It boils down to us against them, us people against the oppressive establishment."

The lack of FBI success in apprehending more than a handful of the political fugitives seems to demonstrate the effectiveness of the underground in initially shielding those running from the law.

The longer the fugitive is out of sight, the deeper the cover becomes. An FBI spokesman said virtually nothing has been heard about two women who have been on the "10 Most Wanted" list since October 1970, Katherine Ann Power and Susan Saxe. Both are charged with armed robbery of two banks, purportedly to finance underground political activities.

Authorities are wondering whether both might be dead. But even the deepest cover can be blown by a rash act.

One of the seven draft card burners who fled Chicago with Tom Smidt later was arrested during an armed robbery attempt.

Fleeing members of the Symbionese Liberation Army were located in a Los Angeles ghetto this summer after a van they used in a supermarket holdup was traced to the area where they were hiding. FBI agents tracked them down, and there was a deadly shootout.

Black Panther Rap Brown was arrested during a New York robbery.

One key to finding political fugitives is the fingerprint, and the fugitives are conscious of this. "I am always aware of possibly leaving my fingerprints around," said Tom Smidt. "They could be used to track me down."

SELLING BLOOD—Persons are shown as they sold blood Thursday in an Atlanta laboratory. The waiting rooms were full and persons were giving their blood in assembly line order. Blood donors for pay have increased considerably in recent months as the ranks of the unemployed have grown. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Railway Minister L. N. Mishra died today of wounds from a bomb that exploded while he was inaugurating a new rail line in his native Bihar state.

Mishra, 51, was the first cabinet member assassinated since India became independent 27 years ago.

Bihar has been rocked by political violence since last March. And Mishra, a close associate of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi since she came to power in 1966, has been under attack in the national Parliament for his handling of a rail strike last May and for alleged corruption.

Twenty-three others were injured in the blast Thursday night at Samastipur, in remote northern Bihar. Authorities said several of the injured, including two members of parliament from the ruling Congress party, were in serious condition.

Other casualties included Mishra's younger brother, who is irrigation minister of Bihar state; a senior Bihar police official and the general manager of the northeastern railway.

The government radio said a powerful time bomb went off as Mishra was leaving the stand after inaugurating a new 32-mile rail line.

An Indian news agency reported a second bomb exploded Thursday night at the home of a local railway official in Samastipur and injured two persons.

Police said they had picked up 20 persons for questioning. They declined to speculate who was behind the blast, but leading members of the Congress party said it was another manifestation of political violence.

Mrs. Gandhi blamed Mishra's death on "forces of disruption" which she said have "spread hatred and indirectly encouraged violence ... I trust this crime will induce rethinking in the country and redirect political life along saner lines."

She did not identify the forces.

Coble Ordered Explain 'Why'

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Revenue Secretary J. Howard Coble has been ordered to appear in court next week to show why he should not be ordered to reinstate Joseph Grissom as personnel director in his department.

Coble has been charged with illegal political coercion in the firing of Grissom immediately after the November election. Grissom claims Coble fired him because Grissom made no secret of his intention to vote a straight Democratic ticket. Coble is a Republican.

Judge Donald Smith set Wednesday as the date for a hearing in which Coble must show why he should not be ordered to reinstate Grissom.

Coble has declined comment on the matter.
