

FPC Probe Of Transco Asked

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser, saying "too many questions have been left unanswered," has asked the Federal Power Commission for a full investigation of reduced supplies of natural gas to North Carolina.

There also were these other developments Tuesday in the curtailment by the Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp. (Transco) and the companies from which it buys:

In Atlanta, the regional office of the Federal Energy Administration announced an effort to relieve the serious shortage of natural gas in North Carolina. A search is under way for supplies of propane gas which can be switched to the state. This will be used for plants which have been cut off from natural gas and cannot switch to fuel oil.

Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., announced in Greensboro that he will introduce legislation to make the Federal Energy Office (FEO) responsible for allocating natural gas. He hopes in this way to prevent another critical gas shortage.

At present the Federal Power Commission (FPC) has responsibility for regulating the natural gas industry and allocating supplies. However, Preyer said the FEO is charged by law with distributing energy supplies equitably.

Preyer said, "Under my proposed bill, the shortage of natural gas would be shared proportionately by all states, and you wouldn't have the situation where North Carolina's natural gas supplies are being curtailed by 50 per cent and the rest of the nation by 9 or 10 per cent."

Congress reconvenes on Jan. 16. At Princeton, N.J., a federal energy official challenged New Jersey to prove its claim that natural gas suppliers are purposely shutting down wells to wait for higher prices.

North Carolina joined New Jersey in the complaint that the gas shortage which threatens to cause layoffs for thousands of workers is caused in part by unnecessary well closings.

Jared G. Carter, deputy undersecretary of the U.S. Interior Department, said at the energy conference of eastern seaboard states that his department can and will confiscate any well closed without good cause. "But so far we haven't found any," he said.

Transco, the only natural gas pipeline serving North Carolina, has announced reductions that will lower North Carolina's allocation to about 50 per cent of normal. The cutbacks threaten to cripple many Tar Heel industries.

Holshouser and members of the State Utilities Commission met with Transco officials in Raleigh last Friday. Transco blamed the shortage on an unprecedented number of wells shutdown by producers in the Gulf of Mexico. The officials said most of the "temporary outages" resulted from the need for repairs to be made on the wells.

Holshouser said "it is obvious that some hard evidence should be presented in support of the producers' position before the people of North Carolina are asked to bear the burden of the curtailment."

The state has filed briefs with the FPC asking the commission to direct Transco to shift more fuel to North Carolina as an emergency measure.

Under the reductions, residential customers are given a higher priority than industries in natural gas allocations.

Navy Task Force To Indian Ocean

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A powerful Navy carrier task force sailed toward the Indian Ocean today as rumblings persist over Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's implied warning of possible U.S. military action in a grave oil emergency.

The six-ship task force, led by the 85,000-ton nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, was expected to enter the Indian Ocean within a few days after a voyage from the U.S. 7th Fleet base in Subic Bay, the Philippines.

The Pentagon acknowledged the Enterprise's sailing but declined to identify its destination. However, sources said the carrier, the nuclear-propelled guided missile cruiser Long Beach, two destroyers, a supply ship and an oiler were bound for the Indian Ocean.

Pentagon spokesman William Beecher said Tuesday the task force was on an operational mission but he denied reports it was bound for waters off South Vietnam, where government troops have been reeling under Communist attack.

The White House affirmed the Pentagon statement. At the same time, President Ford was described as watching developments in South Vietnam closely.

Congress has banned any U.S. bombing or other military action in Indochina. Any such move would require prior congressional approval, officials agreed.

In Honolulu, Adm. Noel Gayler, commander of U.S. military forces in the Pacific, said it was "difficult to imagine" any circumstances under which American troops would be sent back to Vietnam.

Speaking on the NBC-TV "Today Show" to be broadcast Thursday, Gayler said the possible fall of the Thieu regime—or any regime in South Vietnam would not be circumstances for intervention by U.S. troops.

Defense sources insisted no show of force was intended in the voyage of the Enterprise group through the South China Sea. These sources indicated the task force would come no closer than about 350 miles from the South Vietnamese coast.

Pentagon officials said the impending month-long Indian Ocean cruise of the Enterprise with its 80 warplanes had been planned for weeks. The six ships will replace another task force headed by the carrier Constellation, which left the Indian Ocean about a month ago.

Media Service Needs In Pitt Schools Talked

By BLANCHE HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer

Mrs. Janie Manning, primary supervisor, presented suggestions for improving the media program in the Pitt County Schools at the meeting of the Pitt County Board of Education Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Manning explained that representatives from the Division of Education Media of the State Department of Public Instruction visited each school in the county system during December and made suggestions for improving the services offered.

The following suggestions were made for improvement: —establishment of media advisory committees in all the schools. Some schools already have committees but their roles need to be defined.

—publication of a "Media Policies and Procedures Handbook". The handbook would help the schools and would establish a consistency in media practice countywide.

—updating reference and audiovisual materials collections; —establishment of a sequential media skills program for grades kindergarten through 12.

—Consistent policy regarding allocation and use of 624 funds. —Employment of certified media personnel for eight elementary schools; —update card catalogs and shelf lists in elementary schools; —media facilities study needed.

Mrs. Manning explained that space was a definite problem in grades kindergarten through three. Other needs for those grades included dividers for books, electrical outlets and lower shelving for that age group.

Schools which house grades kindergarten through eight needed improvement in their reference collections and a more varied collection of references were needed.

The state representatives said the media services in the four county high schools were

Farmville Citizens Air Fears

By CAROL TYER Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE—"We have failed and we want the Commissioners' help in starting again. Farmville is no cleaner, no safer from the dangers of drugs for our children than it was four years ago. Our methods of combatting these dangers are no more effective, and we are without a definite plan," Vassar Fields, a local citizen told the Commissioners and an almost filled courtroom of spectators at the Farmville Board meeting last night.

Fields stated some of the problems as he and other members of the AIDE group formed 10 months ago by parents to cope with the drug problem see them. He included the "inability to write valid warrants; no qualified experienced drug detective in town, no legal advice for law enforcement officers about how to make their charges stick, the lack of a district attorney who cares whether we win a case or not, and no positive plan to deal with the problem."

The Rev. Jack Harvey, pastor of Truth Baptist Church here, made suggestions. He said monetary rewards should be offered by the town for the arrest and conviction of drug pushers, that circulars inciting fear of drugs should be circulated, and that parents should send their children to private Christian schools and women should stay home with their children, not working outside the home.

Ms. Maggie French, an East Carolina University instructor, took issue with Harvey, saying many times children in private schools are the most easily influenced and that fear is not the answer to deterring smokers, drinkers, or other drug users. She said the two strongest reasons children try drugs is to win approval of their friends and so they won't be called chicken.

Bob Fields, also a member of AIDE, asked if Farmville has a law against loitering, a law against vagrancy, or a law against prostitution. He said Farmville citizens have been apathetic about the drug problem and too afraid someone else would think their children really were into drugs if they showed an active interest in combatting the problem. He said the police and the civic clubs here have refused to participate, also. He alleged that beer and liquor laws here are not enforced. "It's easy to get drugs on any corner here, and it's easy for minors to get beers, all of which are supposed to be illegal," he said.

Don Wrought quoted SBI Director Charles Dunn as saying the blame for children's becoming involved in drugs goes back to the home, to the church, to the schools, but above all to the community. He said there is very little a community cannot do if it works together," Wrought quoted.

"Before we get the ones who are just trying it out, we've got to get the ones who are making a profit from it," he added.

"We've also got to remember," the Rev. Bob Parvin, pastor of the Farmville Christian Church, said, "that some of the pushers are going to be our kids. Kids on drugs have to have money, and the easiest way to get it is by selling drugs. They sell, share, and give it to their friends."

"The easiest response is a negative response," Parvin reminded. Besides improving our law enforcement and our courts, we've got to find a positive way to relate to our young people. One thing we need is a place for them to go and 'loiter,' so they won't need the street corners.

Dr. Florence Williams and Dr. Dixie Colegeski offered the services of the Pitt County Mental Health, which is just opening a branch in the old Mewborn Clinic building here. Dr. Williams invited families who feel they need to relate to one another better to come in. The hours are from 9 to 4 Monday through Friday, except Thursday, when the hours are 1 to 4 p.m.

"There are a lot of actions that can be taken once we begin working together," Dr. Colegeski said, "So this meeting shouldn't be one of despair, but one of new beginnings."

Mrs. Don Wrought asked how it is that no Farmville citizen can enlist the help of the Police Department without whatever they discuss being common knowledge all over town within minutes. Town Administrator Andy Martin said the answer is all the radio scanners, probably more than 100, in homes all over town now.

25-Item Agenda Scheduled For City Council's Thursday Meeting

A 25-item agenda is scheduled for City Council action Thursday at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Items under old business include: a public hearing on a request by Dr. James M. Williamson for rezoning property at the corner of E. Tenth and Wright Road from Office and Institutional to R-9; consideration of a request by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for reaffirmation by the City Council of its intent to fulfill the requirements of a local cooperation agreement relative to the proposed Green Mill Run Flood Control consideration of recommendations by the Transit Advisory Committee; a request by L. S. Dixon for relocation of the Nichols Drive barricade; approval of a bid for purchase of surplus city-owned property on S. Wright Road; and approval of a change order increasing the plumbing contract for the municipal swimming pool in the amount of $510.

Project; Consideration of a City Sedimentation Pollution Control Ordinance and enforcement program;

New Business on the agenda includes: consideration of an invitation to sponsor a Greenville representative to Youth Involvement Day and Legislative Assembly; discussion concerning the conduct of the 1975 municipal election; consideration of a proposed Police Department Management and Operation survey by the Institute of Government; consideration of a proposal for the competitive selection of banks for city deposits; Approval of a contract providing for a grant of $4,491 under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973; a report on the Public Service Employment Program; a report and recommendations on survey of other cities' schedules and organization of Council meetings; consideration of a claim by Mrs. Mildren C. Wilson for damages to her automobile which occurred while parking in the City-Utility employees parking lot; an application by Dwain Johnson for a taxi-cab operator's permit;

A request by Mrs. Hattie Streeter for approval of the placement of an Eternal Flame Memorial at a grave site in Brown Hill Cemetery; a report by the Utilities Commission on city street light account audit for 1973-74.

Acceptance of streets to be added to the city maintained system; consideration of Traffic Commission recommendation; scheduling of a public hearing on the Medical District Development Plan; approval of a resolution urging support by the 1975 N.C. General Assembly of the League of Municipalities Legislative Goals and Policy; and consideration of bids for fire hose, surplus fire and rescue vehicles, and demolition of city-owned structures at 2405 and 2407 Memorial Drive, 313 W. Third Streets, and 305-307 S. Pitt Street.

Rate Increase
Effective Feb. 1 subscription rates to The Daily Reflector will be increased.
Single copy costs on week days will go from 10 cents to 15 cents. Sunday single copy cost will advance from 25 cents to 30 cents.
The monthly subscription rate will increase from $2.50 to $3. A part of the increase will be shared by the newspaper carrier.
The price increase is necessitated by rapidly increasing cost of news print and other rising costs of producing and delivering a daily newspaper.

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

WANTS WEEKEND ACCESS TO LIST
Is it true that there is no contact available on weekends to check rabies tag identification? What can be done with found and injured dogs at such times. Does the Sheriff Department have a listing? If not, why not? It is needed. E.B.

Willie Pate, Chief of the Division of Environmental Health of the Pitt County Health Department, said the incident you cite is fortunately a rare occurrence. Because the need is so infrequent, he feels your suggestion to duplicate the license list for the Sheriff Department would be too costly and time-consuming. There are between 12,000 and 15,000 dogs registered over a three-year period, Pate said. Each month approximately 400 dogs are vaccinated and added to the list.

If an organization or individual would like to underwrite the expense of duplicating the master list and the monthly additions and make arrangements with the Sheriff or some other person or agency to provide the weekend referral service, the Department will be happy to put the list at their disposal, Pate added.

ACCOUNT CLEARED
I have just received my second notice from Eastern Airlines requesting payment for a ticket. I had reserved a flight from Raleigh to Albany, N.Y. for Nov. 27, but never made the trip and didn't cancel the reservation because my ticket never came. I've explained all this in a letter, but I'm still getting bills. C.W.

Hotline called Eastern's toll-free customer assistance number in Raleigh. A Miss Black took the information, along with your ticket number. She called back later to report that your account is cleared. If you get any further notices you are to consider the source, a behind-times computer.

LIBRARY CAN HELP
How can I find out how pianos are rated? I'd like to buy one and I certainly want to make a wise purchase on such a big item. B.T.

Sheppard Memorial Library is where you need to go. There is an article in the 1975 Consumers' Research Buyers' Guide rating all types of pianos from grand to player. Just ask at the front desk.

Growth Program

D. A. Collier, district commercial manager for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, announced today that a $255,000 project is now underway to expand the company's central office local dial equipment here.

The program will provide facilities not only to serve new subscribers in this area, but also to permit higher grades of service for existing subscribers.

"Recently," Collier said, "the growth of Greenville has accelerated the demand for telephone service. As a result, the maximum capacity of present equipment has nearly been reached."

In the past 10 years, for example, telephones in service here have increased from 12,200 to more than 32,000.

"The expansion project here was engineered to enable the company to meet future growth requirements," Collier said.

Does A Mother Need A College Education?

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — At Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, about half the 25,000 students are female. Most of them are Mormons.

Is it a waste for these girls to get a college education? The question stems from Mormon teaching that holds, roughly, as follows:

"Our young women properly aspire to and prepare themselves for the experiences and blessings of motherhood, which is their highest calling and opportunity for service."

"The leaders of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints (Mormon Church) have consistently taught that 'mothers who have young children in the home should devote their primary energies to the companionship and training of their children and the care of their families, and should not seek employment outside the home unless there is no other way that the family's basic needs can be provided'."

There is some uneasiness and confusion on campus about where the Mormons stand on education for women, especially vocationally oriented education.

In an interview, Dr. Dallin H. Oaks, president of the university, said he detected the uneasiness among students during Women's Week at the school. What is unsettling? All that is being said in society about the role of women these days. Women's lib.

"Since some of these statements are quite contradictory to what we have been taught by the leaders of the church, some uneasiness is understandable," Dr. Oaks said.

To set the record straight, during Women's Week, Dr. Oaks issued a statement on the education of women. In it he quoted a former Brigham Young president, Harold B. Lee.

"When you teach a boy, you are just teaching another individual, but when you teach a woman or a girl, you are teaching a whole family," Lee had said.

What Dr. Oaks had to say about college-educated women who stay home to raise their children applies to all women who elect to do so —not just Mormon women.

He made these points: A young woman's primary orientation toward motherhood is not inconsistent with the diligent pursuit of an education, even efforts in courses of study that are vocationally related;

According to current life expectancies, a 20-year-old woman can look forward to more than 50 additional years of life. Not all that time will be spent in bearing children and raising families. In fact, from one-third to one-half of a young woman's remaining years of life will be spent in activities preceding marriage and the rearing of children —or following the time when children have left the home;

A young woman's education, therefore, should prepare her for more than the responsibilities of motherhood. It should prepare her entire life.

Dr. Oaks also had something to say about educating women in general, not just young Mormon women. To wit: "Many of our young women will need to earn a living for themselves because they do not marry, because they do not marry until after some years of employment, or because they have been widowed or through other circumstances have been compelled to assume the responsibilities of the family breadwinner;"

"A mother who must earn a living for the family in addition to performing the duties of motherhood probably has as great a need for education as any person in the world."

"Education," Dr. Oaks said, "is more than vocational. It should improve our minds, strengthen our bodies, heighten our cultural awareness and increase our spirituality. "It should prepare us for greater service to the human family. "Such an education will improve a woman's ability to function as an informed and effective teacher of her sons and daughters, and as a worthy and wise counselor and companion to her husband. "Some have observed that the mother's vital teaching responsibility makes it even more important to have educated mothers than to have educated fathers."

What makes a person so mean? THIN AND LOVING IT

DEAR THIN: Your co-worker is either incredibly insensitive, or she's not playing with a full deck. (Maybe she's jealous.) Tune her out.

DEAR ABBY: You were much too easy on "Proud Mother" who was proud of the fact that "God" had given her 13 children. (Why blame God alone? Surely she had a husband.)

Proud Mother resented being criticized for the size of her family, saying she didn't ask anyone else to raise or feed them. If she is so proud of 13, perhaps she would be twice as proud with 26. Even if she quit with 13, consider the possibilities (and you will need a calculator) if each of her children multiplies at the same rate. In two generations she will have been responsible for 182 people!! This number becomes significant when one considers the amount of food and gasoline they will consume in their lifetimes.

While the good lady has been busy making maximum use of God's gift of procreation, she's ignored God's additional gifts of reason based on accumulated knowledge. Overpopulation and the exhausting of unrenewable natural resources is everybody's business.

DEAR CONCERNED: You were not the only one who

DEAR ABBY: I am a 29-year-old woman who feels as though she has been reborn. It took me 13 months, but I lost 94 pounds. It has changed my life, Abby. I still consider myself ugly, but at least I'm not fat any more and I can talk to people without feeling ashamed.

Everybody tells me how great I look, except this one person at work. She keeps saying, "You look so sickly and frail. I liked you better the other way. You don't look like yourself. You are TOO thin now." Abby, I burn up like a match when she talks that way. I worked so hard to lose that weight, and for her to put me down just about kills me. I can't ignore her because we work together and I see her every day.

I can't ignore her because we work together and I see her every day.

DEAR CONCERNED: You were not the only one who expressed concern over Proud Mother's attitude. Briefly, since the world's resources are limited, we can't continue to provide for a population that daily produces 185,000 new mouths to feed. Obviously, we must either decrease our birthrate or increase our deathrate. The choice is up to us.

DEAR ABBY: My mother, who lives in Utah, came to visit my husband and me for two weeks. We live in a small apartment with only a double bed in the bedroom and a sofa in the living room. My husband is 6 ft. 5" and weighs 260, and he couldn't sleep on the sofa. My mother is 72, and has a bad back, so she couldn't sleep on the sofa either.

We didn't want to go to the expense of renting a bed, and we didn't know anyone who could lend us one, so I slept on the sofa and my husband and my mother slept in the double bed. (My mother slept in all her clothes plus my husband's raincoat.) We have had nothing by criticism from the relatives since this story got around. Do you see anything wrong with this setup?

DEAR N.Y.'er: No. What was their beef?

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is married and has two pre-school children. She is college-educated, but she's a cuckoo.

She is raising her children to "express themselves." This means they are encouraged not to hold anything back. If they feel anger, hostility or fury, they are encouraged to express it and get it out of their systems.

For example, they have a "screaming room." If one of the children starts to get ugly and have a tantrum, my daughter calmly says, "Go to the screaming room, dear."

The child goes to the screaming room, screams for a while, and when he's finished he comes back. My children were raised to know that they had to control themselves, and if something didn't please them they had to act like civilized people—they weren't sent to any "screaming room" to howl like coyotes.

Our Industrial Base Expanding

When a new industry which will be relatively free of pollution problems announces that it will locate in our area it is always good news.

When the announcement comes during the midst of a recession and it is confirmed that the industry will locate adjacent to one of Pitt County's smaller municipalities, then we can be particularly pleased that Pitt County's industrial base is expanding.

This week Sonoco products announced that it was locating a container manufacturing plant at Winterville in a 45,800 square foot plant which is under construction. The announcement said the plant will make containers for customers in this area. Sonoco currently furnishes containers for Procter and Gamble's Pringle's Potato Chips and the P&G plant is currently under construction north of Greenville.

The Sonoco plant will not be a large one by industrial standards. It is expected to employ around 50 people at full production. Yet it will be perfect for the Pitt County economy. We need a number of small and medium sized plants operated by substantial firms. Sonoco is one of the soundest with over 6,500 employees worldwide and consolidated net sales in 1973 in excess of $188,000,000. The firm has its home office in Hartsville, S.C.

The firm in making the announcement, cited a tradition of establishing plants in small towns and growing with the communities.

The town of Winterville, which is currently constructing a 500,000 gallon water storage tank and a well, will build a ten-inch water main to the plant site to serve it.

Sonoco brings to Pitt County the kind of industry that our economy needs. It is a reliable corporation with a good market for the product the local plant will manufacture. It will add further diversification to the Pitt County economy and by locating in Winterville it will help keep our industrial growth dispersed and spread the industrial jobs available throughout the county.

Reading the economic news these days is dismal, so it is nice to read something positive as it pertains to the area economy. We think the relationship between Sonoco and Winterville and Pitt County will be one that is to everyone's advantage.

WASHINGTON—Even in its final gasp, Watergate had a touch of irony. The jury's decision was announced just as 60 million people were sitting down to watch a football game which, as everyone knows, was former President Nixon's favorite spectator sport.

I was in my living room with my Uncle Ben when NBC broke into the Rose Bowl festivities with its bulletin.

Uncle Ben turned to me, "What the hell's going on?" "The jury has arrived at a verdict in the Watergate conspiracy trial."

"During the Rose Bowl?" "They didn't plan to arrive at the verdict during the Rose Bowl, Uncle Ben. It just turned out that way."

"We've waited two and a half years for something to happen," Uncle Ben pouted. "They could have waited another two hours until the game was over."

"It will only take a few minutes. Listen, Carl Stern is reading the verdicts."

Stern reported that four out of the five defendants were found guilty.

"What happened to the Big Enchilada?" Uncle Ben wanted to know.

"That's Mitchell. He's been found guilty."

"I don't mean him. I mean the real Big Enchilada, numero uno—the Commander in Chief, the former President of the people."

"I guess he's at home watching the Rose Bowl like everybody else."

"What do you think the defendants could get?"

"One to 25 depending on their probation reports."

"What could Nixon get?"

"A $60,000-a-year pension plus $200,000 for office expenses."

Venezuela and Ecuador, the two Latin American members of OPEC, say they will demonstrate their opposition to the law by boycotting the meeting Kissinger plans with Latin American foreign ministers in Buenos Aires in March to launch a "new dialogue" between the United States and the southern nations of the hemisphere.

Peru, which hopes to start exporting oil within two years, pledged its full support to Venezuela and Ecuador. Colombia, trying to form an OPEC of coffee countries, said the Latin Americans should consider a general boycott of Kissinger's meeting.

The State Department tried in vain to get Congress to exempt Venezuela and Ecuador from the OPEC provision since they did not take part in the oil boycott which grew out of the

"Because Gerry Ford pardoned him. No matter what crimes Nixon committed, they can't lay a glove on him. Surely you wouldn't want a former President of the United States tried for conspiracy and obstruction of justice?"

"Not if the jury brought in its verdict during the Rose Bowl game," Uncle Ben said.

"Uncle Ben, this is the last football game they'll ever interrupt to bring us a bulletin about Watergate. It's over and done with. It's behind us—just like Nixon wanted it to be two years ago. From now on it's going to be nothing but roses for anyone watching the Rose Bowl."

"I hope you're right," Uncle Ben said. "It isn't fair for USC and Ohio State to be mixed up with Watergate."

"I'm certain no one watching will tie in USC and Ohio State with Watergate. After all, the crimes were committed in Washington, and the teams are playing in Pasadena."

"What do you think they'll give us for a half-time show?"

"I think they'll go back to Carl Stern in front of the federal courthouse for further developments."

"Why doesn't the USC band just spell out the verdicts on the football field?"

"They can't. It would spoil Nixon's New Year."

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Bronx carpenter, accused in the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., was twice identified by witnesses in court today.

Amundus Hochmuth, a former neighbor of Col. Kindbergh, identified him as the man with a ladder in a green car near the Lindbergh home on the day of the crime.

John Perrone, a Bronx taxi driver, identified Hauptmann as the man who gave him a dollar to deliver a note to Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon in March, 1932.

THIS AFTERNOON

The Target: Closed Plants

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A team of state officials, cutting across agency lines, has launched a crash program to bring new industries into existing plants closed down due to the recession.

Already, a dozen such plants have been chosen for a spearhead selling effort by industry hunters. A specially printed brochure giving pictures, full descriptions, and best uses of each of the factories for sale is at the printers.

A package of material—including in-depth descriptions of the communities in which the plants are located, tax information, transportation data, and educational material—will be used in an effort to sell the now-vacant factories.

Albert H. Calloway, assistant director of the community assistance division of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources, said the effort is a "special program, dressing up the approach and trying to call attention to those communities where plant closing are working extreme hardships."

Help Find Jobs

The object, he said, is to help the communities get jobs for employes out of work through no fault of their own, but as victims of the economy. "It's a tragic fact that those plants closed. But on the other hand, we can try to look at this as an asset... the availability of a building and a trained labor force in which a new industry can locate."

In the past several months, the Department of Natural and Economic Resources has cataloged 66 plant closings in North Carolina. Not all of those are permanent closings, but Calloway is contacting each to determine which are temporary and which are permanent.

To date, a dozen closed permanently have been selected for the special promotion effort, including former Burlington Industries plants in Hot Springs and Wadesboro, and a knitting mill in Middlesex. Calloway said he is reluctant to name other specific plants for sale, since in some instances community leaders and employes may not have been informed yet.

Most of the plant closings to date have been in textiles, apparel, furniture, or transportation equipment (boats, trailers, truck) manufacturing.

Asked how many plants are now for sale due to the recession, Calloway said he could not come up with firm figures, but there are "a lot more now than anytime in the past 10 years."

Prospects Hunted

Contact with possible new occupants is being made in two ways: in response to inquiries addressed to local or state officials; and contacts from state officials to specific industrial prospects, judged desirable to upgrade employment opportunities in a given area. Guidelines in the recently developed Economic Development Plan are being followed to make judgments on what kinds of industries would best suit particular localities.

Calloway said there is still a lot of activity involving industrial expansion. "I've been simply amazed that there is still a great deal of interest from companies seeking plant sites in North Carolina," he said.

Calloway said the team effort involves local governmental and chamber of commerce officials, the industrial development and community assistance operations of Natural and Economic Resources, the Employment Security Commission, the community colleges which are geared up to retrain people for new jobs, and the various field offices of Natural and Economic Resources across the state.

"We are worried and concerned about people losing their jobs, and we're looking in every nook and cranny for ways to assist North Carolinians.

"This represents a direct response to see what we can do to help these particular areas hard hit by economic problems," Calloway said. "The sales pitch to industrial prospects is geared to immediate occupancy of a modern, well designed, air conditioned, sprinklered building in a community which has shown its desire to provide services, and with a labor force ready and anxious to go to work—and a community college to train them if necessary."

The INSIDE REPORT

Tragedy Looms For CIA

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The crisis of the Central Intelligence Agency that may wreck its effectiveness with tragic consequences for the nation can be traced back to a secret, politically inspired command from a troubled President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968.

Johnson's order to CIA stemmed from his political fear of anti-Vietnam dissidents, eroding his presidency and endangering his Vietnam policy. He wanted CIA to establish a link between the Soviet KGB or other Communist intelligence apparatus and violent anti-war activity in the U. S. No link was established, but the CIA's legal counter-intelligence operations fatally overlapped into the forbidden area of internal security.

Now that this overlap has been revealed, the CIA's ability to fulfill vitally necessary functions in a still dangerous world is deeply compromised.

"There never was real substance to Johnson's fear of a link to foreign agents," an American intelligence expert told us, "and the CIA bitterly resented his order." While pursuing LBJ's command diligently until the anti-war movement died out, CIA never once established "conclusive evidence" of foreign control over any American student dissidents.

But in his zealous pursuit of the elusive link, CIA's Counter-Intelligence Counter-Espionage chief, the super-conspiratorial James Angleton, went to extremes. Known American anti-war agitators, including the notorious Weathermen, were placed under surveillance during contacts with leftist student leaders in Europe and then kept under CIA surveillance when they returned to the U.S.

This surveillance, including bugging clandestine anti-war meetings, created a huge file of names which was stored routinely in secret CIA vaults in Langley, Va.

Much of this stemmed from FBI director J. Edgar Hoover's bitter feud with CIA, choking communications between the two agencies. CIA specialists say there was often "no bureaucratic way" to turn domestic surveillance over to the FBI once an anti-war activist returned to the U.S. Instead, Angleton's counter-intelligence agents continued the job started aboard.

A full briefing on the "worst case" examples of this highly illegal CIA activity was given more than a year ago to congressional watchdogs by William Colby, then newly appointed CIA director. Since these abuses had occurred years before, no public airing was demanded.

The reason: a full-fledged CIA scandal in the midst of Watergate (which itself tainted the agency) would severely damage the CIA and most particularly its counter-intelligence operations. Now, that damage to CIA's credibility and efficiency in the wake of the New York Times expose is in full bloom, ironically abetted by the ouster of Angleton and the sympathy resignations of his high command: Ray Rocca, William Hood and N. Scott Miler.

Angleton's suspicious conspiratorial nature had brought him into high-level disfavor long ago. Yet, that aspect of his personality was essential to his invaluable connections with such foreign intelligence agencies as the West German BfW, the British MI-5, the French Deuxieme Bureau—and, most intimately, the Israeli intelligence service.

Strength For Today

JOHN RUSKIN
John Ruskin is one of the most attractive figures in the history of English literature. The son of a wealthy merchant, he was brought up amid surroundings of comfort and culture and was given an excellent education. From his father he inherited a love of good literature and from his mother a devotion to religion which never deserted him.

During the early years of his life he wrote primarily on art and architecture, but during the last thirty years of his life he turned his attention to social and economic problems. He gave away most of his inherited fortune, and for some years before his death lived entirely on book royalties. When he died the British government offered a formal burial in Westminster Abbey among the greatest men of British history, but in accordance with his previously expressed wishes he was buried in his parish churchyard near his humble home.

Ruskin waged constant warfare against injustice, and did much to raise the moral tone of his age.

Conditions Near Unpredictable

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Alan Greenspan isn't likely to make the same error as his predecessor in the job of chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. He is not going to be overly optimistic.

Herbert Stein, chairman under President Richard M. Nixon, dug himself into a deeper hole each month by contrasting the terrible economic news with what he claimed was an imminent improvement. He lost credibility.

Greenspan told the Joint Economic Committee that the outlook wasn't pleasant, wasn't reassuring and wasn't certain. Unemployment might reach 8 per cent, he said, and he suggested the second-half recovery wouldn't be sudden.

What Greenspan learned in watching the Washington scene from his desk at Townsend-Greenspan, a consulting firm, was that economic conditions today are all but unpredictable.

This might seem so elemental as to be obvious, but the fact is that hundreds of economists are following up their abysmal forecasts of a year ago by again attempting to look a full year into the future.

Last year they missed on prices, interest rates, unemployment and a dozen other forecast areas. Their counterparts on Wall Street forecast a Dow Jones industrial average anywhere from 400 to 1,000.

This year the consensus seems to be for a gradual recovery by summer, interest rates falling a bit and the rate of inflation—but note, not prices—falling sharply.

Last year the economists complained that they were forced to evaluate too many factors beyond their comprehension: the impact of an oil embargo, drought and other meteorological phenomena, political maneuvers.

But this year, as Greenspan noted, there are factors involved about which economists are equally in the dark, the most important being the likelihood of substantial governmental moves against recession.

All forecasts made today are, therefore, accompanied by a substantial amount of ignorance and a considerable lack of information. And last year's results proved that either is sufficient to make a forecast almost useless.

Many economists concede that even when the facts are known, a forecast of beyond three months can plunge the forecaster into a dark void.

Trade Storm Grows

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer

The Ford Administration finds itself in a ballooning squabble with Latin America over provisions Congress put into the new trade law preventing the manufactured goods of nations in the oil cartel from entering the United States duty-free.

Two top officials are trying to calm the storm.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said he doesn't like that section of the law and will ask Congress to liberalize it in regard to Latin America. White House sources said Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller also is looking for a solution.

The disputed section gives preferential trade terms to developing countries by allowing many of their manufactured products to enter the United States without paying duty. However, over State Department objections, Congress excluded all members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC). It also authorized President Ford to suspend tariff preferences to countries that form other trade-restricting cartels or that nationalize American holdings without compensation.

Venezuela and Ecuador, the two Latin American members of OPEC, say they will demonstrate their opposition to the law by boycotting the meeting Kissinger plans with Latin American foreign ministers in Buenos Aires in March to launch a "new dialogue" between the United States and the southern nations of the hemisphere.

Peru, which hopes to start exporting oil within two years, pledged its full support to Venezuela and Ecuador. Colombia, trying to form an OPEC of coffee countries, said the Latin Americans should consider a general boycott of Kissinger's meeting.

beautiful facilities but that only one high school seemed to be utilizing the area. They found the study carrels in the libraries were not wired and therefore were not being used.

Mrs. Manning said an attempt was being made to change the school libraries from a dispenser of book to learning centers.

Mrs. Manning used a film to show what other schools had done to improve their media services.

The board said they would keep in mind the suggestions while working on their budget for the next fiscal year.

The board agreed to have soil borings made on the Fleming property, located west of the junction of Highway 903 and N.C. 11. If the borings are in order, the board will attempt to negotiate a price for purchase of the site to be used for a middle school to house grades six through eight in the Belvoir, Stokes, and Pictolus communities. Grades kindergarten through five would remain in the local communities.

The board had considered another site, owned by Mrs. Joe Taft, on the Ramborn Road between Greenville and Pictolus.

According to Ott Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, the Fleming property was recommended by local architects as the best site because of its close to sewer and water tie-in. The three advantages of the Fleming property, according to the architects, included utilities, drainage and access.

The new facility, planned to house about 500 students, would cost approximately $1.5 million. Alford said that board already has $1 million available for construction and that the additional money would be requested from the Pitt County Board of Commissioners in the spring or early summer.

Board members approved a policy concerning married and pregnant students. Married students will be expected to continue to show a good attitude, to maintain high standards and to seek to achieve in his or her school work.

The matter of the pregnant girl will be handled with care and discretion, considering both the rights of the girl and the school.

The determination of how long a student can remain in school will be left up to the discretion of the student, her family, the principal and other school officials, and her doctor. The principal will have the final decision as to when the girl will leave school and when she will return, basing that decision on information that is in the best interest of the girl and the school.

Permission was given to the elementary schools and high schools involved in self-study and curriculum planning for Southern Association accreditation, to dismiss school early for a total of five days between now and the remainder of the school year and the school year 1975-76.

Board members agreed to make the South Ayden School property available to the Town of Ayden at the appraised value of $38,500, subject to a lease agreement between the board of education and the Winslow-Atkins Company of Hampton, Va. If the town decides not to purchase the property, the property will be put up for public sale.

Board member Bill McLawhorn of Ayden said the facilities were dangerous and should be offered to Ayden at the appraised value.

The Town of Ayden has expressed a desire to purchase the property for recreational purposes.

Dave Reid, representing Michael Neal who recently purchased the Grimesland School property, appeared before the board to ask that the purchase price be reduced due to vandalism of the building.

According to Neal between $2,500 and $3,000 would be needed to restore the building back to the condition it was in when he bought it.

The facility is not covered by liability insurance because it is abandoned. Reid asked that someone from the school board evaluate the damage and make some adjustment in the price.

It was pointed out that the board accepted the bid for the property on Nov. 5 and that a letter of acceptance was sent to Neal on Nov. 8. The board denied the request to make an adjustment in the property because they felt the property no longer belonged to the school board when the damages were done.

Les Garner, district Kiwanis Governor, was given permission to present one copy of "Concise Handbook of Occupations" to each 10th grade student in the county schools and a set of Encyclopedia of Occupational Information to the guidance office of each high school. Garner explained the Kiwanis Club hopes to sell sponsorships to businesses and industries in Greenville and Pitt County and that all revenue over expenses would be used to furnish the delivery room in the new Pitt County Hospital.

The price of adult milk was increased from 12 cents to 14 cents per one-half pint due to two increases in milk since Dec. 2. Associate Superintendent Tom Craft explained the schools are now paying more than 12 cents per half pint for adult milk and there is no reimbursement on adult milk.

The board agreed to work with the Town of Farmville on the possibility of the town purchasing the athletic field of the former Farmville High School.

Board member Tom Patterson said the town had applied for a grant in the amount of $50,000 to be used toward the purchase of the property. He asked that a committee be appointed to work with the Farmville officials to negotiate a price for the property.

The site would be used for the town's recreational program. Assistant Superintendent J. L. Keeter was given permission to submit a proposal for a 1975 Summer Migrant Project. He explained permission had been received from the Chicod School Advisory Council for the project to be held on the Chicod School campus again this summer.

Keeter said $13,813.22 of Part "C" carryover funds in Title I would be used for the employment of one teacher and three aide positions to be added to Falkland, G. R. Whitfield and Pictolus Schools. He said these schools were selected because of need.

Keeter said the Title I office in Raleigh has requested the establishment of a Title I Parent Advisory Council in each school in addition to a countywide council. The board gave Keeter permission to begin establishing the councils in each community.

Mrs. Donna Ware, lunchroom supervisor, told the board that the centralized lunchroom program in the county schools seemed to be working and running fairly smooth.

She said all the schools were operating in the black at the current time and seemed to be working from a financial standpoint.

She said the plate cost at the present time is running 35 cents for food and 25 cents for labor.

Mrs. Ware said she feels the lunchroom personnel have adjusted to centralization and that monthly meetings are held to work out any problems they might have.

Permission was given for the high school activity buses to be used to transport interested 11th and 12th graders to Greenville on Jan. 20 to hear Don Newcombe speak on alcoholism as part of the Alcoholism Awareness Week activities.

It was announced the district school board meeting will be held at Plymouth High School on January 15 at 4:30 p.m.

The following teachers were approved for employment: Lou Jan Potter, Stokes-Pictolus; Oliver Tyer, Sam D. Bundy; Cathy Irene Helmer, Sam Bundy; Beverly Stokes, Falkland; Barbara Varley, Farmville Middle; and Page Adkins, G. R. Whitfield. The board also approved a substitute teacher list.

The audit report from John Proctor for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1974, was accepted by the board.

Such brilliant exploits tend to be shrugged off today as relics of another world. But intelligence experts here say dismantling the top echelons of Angleton's operations alone will prove priceless to the Soviet KGB and immensely costly to the U.S.

That, however, is but the first cost of CIA's tragic errors of the late 1960s. CIA's scandal, following a blackened eye from its Chilean operations, now threatens to close off not only foreign intelligence sources but routine information from traveling American citizens—invaluable the past 20 years.

In addition, morale at CIA today is at quicksand levels with recruitment endangered. Worst of all, CIA's credibility as a tight ship—vital to every aspect of its work—has been grievously undermined.

The first results of this will show up early in the new Congress. Efforts that have failed in the past to cut down CIA may now succeed. To a generation which never knew the cold war that will be welcome. In truth, it may cost this country dearly in the grim world of 1975.

British Seize Jet Hijacker

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP)—Police at an airport north of London overpowered the hijacker of a British airliner, freed the five members of the plane crew unharmed and recovered $230,000 in ransom.
The only casualty Tuesday night was a steward who was bitten by a police dog.
The hijacker was to appear in court today. The police did not announce his identity but said he had "Arabic" features, was about 27 and had a mustache. The pilot said the gunman was an Arab student.
It was the first hijacking of a domestic British flight.
The young man commandeered the British Airways BAC111 as it was preparing to land at London's Heathrow Airport after a flight from Manchester.
He held stewardess Barbara Brindley at gunpoint and demanded: "Tell the captain I would like to go to Paris. I have nothing to live for and we must go there."
The pilot, Capt. Harry Lea, 53, radioed the hijacker was armed with a .32 caliber revolver and a canister filled with explosives. Police said later the gun was a realistic-looking toy and the canister contained no bomb.
When the plane landed at Heathrow, the hijacker allowed the 46 passengers to get off and demanded the money and a parachute. Troops and police ringed the plane.
The hijacker held the crew for seven hours while Lea, seemingly angry, tried to talk security officials in the control tower into producing the ransom. He said the man was "obviously deranged" and was threatening to shoot the crew and blow up the plane.
Finally officials handed over a parachute and the ransom. But French authorities refused to let the plane land in France. Security chiefs decided to have Lea fly over England for more than an hour, then land at Stansted, an airport for charter craft north of London, where they would try to make the hijacker believe he was in France.

Two plane loads of troops and police were rushed to Stansted, and all signs and billboards there were covered, but the ruse did not work. Police said the hijacker realized he was not in France and demanded a car to take him to Dover, on the English Channel. When that was refused, he tried to make a break, taking steward Allan Bond, 35, as a hostage.
A police dog handler grabbed the hijacker a few yards from the plane, and in the melee the handler's dog bit Bond. His wound was minor.

Last Week's Top-Rated

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS' consistently top-rated "All in the Family" series was the nation's most-watched television show last week, followed by NBC's "Sanford and Son," according to A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings.
The ratings, made public Tuesday, showed the nation's 20 most popular evening programs for the week of Dec. 30-Jan. 5 in this order: "All in the Family" (CBS); "Sanford and Son" (NBC); "The Waltons" (CBS); the Orange Bowl Game and "Police Woman" (both NBC); "Maude" (CBS); "Chico and the Man" (NBC); "Mary Tyler Moore," "Good Times" and "Rhoda" (all CBS); "Bob Newhart" (CBS); "Rockford Files" (NBC); "M-A-S-H" (CBS); "Emergency" (NBC); "Kojak," "Carol Burnett," "Medical Center" and "Manix" (all CBS); "NBC Saturday Movie" and "The Rookies" (ABC).

Brezhnev's Problems Add To Global Uncertainty

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
A world with more than enough to worry about has new reasons to be nervous with the spate of widely varying reports on the health of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

The Soviet Communist party's general secretary may or may not be seriously ill. Soviet officials keep such things closely to themselves. But recent developments have suggested that in any case Brezhnev has been in some sort of political difficulties.

One way or the other, changes relatively soon in the hierarchy are inevitable if only because of its age. Undoubtedly the leaders recognize this, and have been preparing for a transition, so perhaps this time it might take place without violent struggle. Thus, the reports fix world attention on the workings of the Soviet power structure.

At the same time the uncertainty turns global attention to the possible impact on such areas as Soviet-American and

Plant Closing At Goldsboro

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—J.P. Stevens has announced it will close its hosiery sewing plant in Goldsboro on Jan. 17 because of the depressed economy. The plant employs 187.

Stevens said it plans to consolidate its east coast hosiery operations in Hickory. The company's synthetic weaving plant in Goldsboro will not be affected by the closing.

Soviet-Chinese relations, the Soviet role in the Middle East and Soviet domestic policy.

In some of these areas Brezhnev seemed recently to encounter trouble with his colleagues. That, coupled with an illness, could place his tenure as top man into question.

Brezhnev has been frustrated in the Middle East by a persistent Egyptian mistrust of Soviet intentions. He was set back, too, by the American trade bill that tied preferential treatment for the Soviet Union to eased restrictions on emigration. Since Brezhnev obviously had approved the "understanding" on that score, the vehement denial of it, laid now to "leading Soviet circles," suggests that Brezhnev may have been sharply criticized.

If Brezhnev goes, for whatever reason, what might succeed him? The Communist party rules the nation. The apparatus that runs the party is headed by a 16-member Politburo whose average age is about 65. Its alternate members and the party secretariat also are averaged by comparison with leading groups in the West.

A formidable government bureaucracy of hundreds of thousands, long in office, runs day to day business of the vast nation of 250 million. This Soviet Establishment is so entrenched as to give the impression that it consciously protects its ranks against younger potential invaders.

HIGHLY RATED

NEW YORK (UPI)—A survey of 70 top international managers from the United States Shows American employees rate especially high in productivity, labor stability and general performance on the job.

The government flows from nearly 90 heavily populated ministries. The cabinet of almost four score ministers and state committee chiefs is headed by a premier, one first deputy and 10 deputy premiers. The average age of all these leaders is, astonishingly, something like 63.

Last year, in a sudden burst of genial expansiveness, Brezhnev let it be known that when he wasn't in town, Mikhail M. Suslov presided at Politburo meetings. If both he and Suslov were absent, Andrei P. Kirilenko would preside.

Brezhnev has been a member of a sort of "troika" with Nikolai V. Podgorny, the "president," and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Neither of those is a likely candidate to assume the burdens of top party boss. Both are probably close to retirement. Kosygin will be 71 and Podgorny 72 next month.

Suslov, a dour ideologist and holdover from the Stalin era

Politburo, is now 73. Thus, attention turns to Kirilenko, himself at 68 the same age as Brezhnev.

If Kirilenko should succeed to the top party position, though, it seems likely it would be with far less power and authority than Brezhnev has been enjoying in his recent years.

Kirilenko might, in fact, represent a sort of caretaker, in a collective leadership arrangement to bridge the gap between older and younger generations of leadership. His background would suggest continuity of Brezhnev's policies, perhaps with even a bit more internal repression than Brezhnev meted out.

By education Kirilenko is a technocrat but his background in ideology has suggested dyed-in-the-wool, old-fashioned Stalinism. Also a member of the secretariat that runs the party, Kirilenko is intimately acquainted with its internal affairs, a plus for him.

Behind the better known figures of the Politburo are some others who are possibilities for the top party job. One is Fyodor D. Kulakov, a Politburo youngster at 57, who is also an agricultural expert, a point in his favor.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina broiler market steady. Supplies adequate. Demand good. Weights trending heavier but mostly in a desirable range.

The North Carolina F.O.B. dock weighted average price for less than truck lots of sized, plant grade broilers to be picked up at dock this week is 39.30 cents per pound. The estimated slaughter today totaled 1,038,000.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hog prices steady. NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks were mixed today, with blue chips and glamors struggling but most other issues showing strength in a continuation of the split pattern of the past several sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, reflecting the softness in the big-name issues, was off .31 at 640.88 at 11:30 a.m.

The over-all New York Stock Exchange tally, however, showed gainers leading losers by more than a 2-1 margin.

Bargain hunters in the market's rally since New Year's Eve have been concentrating on many of the issues which were most sharply depressed in the market's long slide last year—utilities, for example, and real estate investment trusts, to name another group. It has appeared that investors have tended to be leery of the front-rank issues, at the same time, because some of them still carry high price-earnings ratios.

The dominant theory among investors thus seems to be that, if any further declines are in store for the market, the big-name stocks may well be the most vulnerable.

Capital Cities Communications, the Big Board volume leader, was off 1/2 at 23. A 100,000-share block traded at that price.

Union Corp. gained 5/8 to 3 1/2. The company said the Food & Drug Administration accepted for filing its application to market a soft contact lens in the United States. The Federal Agency now has 180 days or more to act on the application, the company said.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .01 at 37.62 after the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index rose .15 to 64.21.

Goldfield Corp., the Amex's most active issue, was unchanged at 7-16.

Obituaries

Bullock

Mrs. Geneva Haddock Bullock, 93, died in the Greenville Nursing Home Tuesday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 Thursday afternoon at Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church by the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Willis. Burial will be in the Haddock Cemetery. The body will be taken from the Wilkerson Funeral Home to the church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Bullock, a native of Pitt County, spent most of her life in the Clay Root Community. At the time of her death she was the oldest living charter member of Pleasant Hill Free Will Baptist Church and was a member of Camp No. 567, Woodmen of the World, Shelmerdine. She was married to George B. Haddock and he died in 1946. In 1952 she was married to James H. Bullock and he died in 1966.

Surviving are three sons, Leslie S. Haddock and George B. Haddock Jr., both of Greenville, and Walter Lee Haddock of Ayden; two daughters, Mrs. Agnes Burroughs of near Calico Crossroads and Mrs. Susie Mayo of Washington; two step-sons, Paul Bullock of Rocky Mount and Larry Bullock of Citra, Fla.; four step-daughters, Mrs. Blanche Mazingo of Bethel, Mrs. Howard Satterthwaite of Conetoe, Mrs. R. C. Hux of Scotland Neck, and Mrs. Hazel Roberts of Plant City, Fla.; 10 grandchildren; 14 great-grandchildren; and four great great grandchildren.

The family will be at the home of Mrs. Agnes Burroughs.

Reflector Staff Writer

"Balloon Sunday" at Temple Free Will Baptist Church here recently turned out to be more far reaching than church officials had expected.

After services on Dec. 15, all children who had ridden to Sunday School on the church buses were allowed to release balloons containing a Bible passage and the message, "Please write me," in addition to the name of the child.

Little four-year-old Grace Swain was one of the children who launched a balloon that Sunday.

Only two days later, Grace's balloon was found—over 600 miles from Greenville in the eastern coastal resort area of Quonochontaug, Rhode Island. It was quite a two-day trip for a dime-store balloon.

This week, a letter addressed to Grace in care of the church arrived from Quonochontaug explaining the circumstances of the balloon finding and also describing the area.

Sue LaMay wrote, "This is to inform you that a balloon bearing your name... has been found. It was located on Tuesday, Dec. 17... at 3:30 p.m., in a briar patch on the ocean front. It was found by my next door neighbor, Diane Frost, age 12, and myself, Sue LaMay, age 23."

Mrs. LaMay explained, "Diane and I live on Bayview Road in Quonochontaug, R.I. Quonochontaug is a summer resort area located in the town of Charlestown."

She pointed out that "Quonnie" has a winter population of about 100 people and a summer population of about 500 to 600 people. Both Diane and I are year-round residents."

Mrs. LaMay further wrote, "Quonochontaug is located right on the Atlantic coastline. Diane and I live about a seven minute walk from the beach. It is a private beach reserved for Quonnie's year round residents, cottage owners, and tenants."

A short article that appeared in the area's local newspaper, The Westerly Sun, about the balloon finding, accompanied the letter along with the note, "Please write and tell us about Greenville; and also, what date you released your balloon."

Church pastor, the Rev. Richard Kennedy, said that the balloon project was the idea of the bus director Jackie Harrington. Kennedy pointed out that about 130 helium-filled balloons were released here.

The pastor, noting that the balloon effort affords the children the opportunity to get in contact with people in other sections, said that the church plans to make "Balloon Sunday" an annual event.

He said that no responses have been received from any of the other balloons but after hearing from Mrs. LaMay, the church is still hopeful that other letters may be on the way.

Kennedy noted also that a letter is being written for Grace and will be sent to Mrs. LaMay thanking her for her response and telling her something about the balloon project and Greenville.

Grace is the daughter of Mrs. Katherine Swain of River View Estates, Greenville.

Temple Free Will Baptist is only six months old, Kennedy explained, and has grown from a first Sunday membership of 53 to about 200 in the six-month period. The church is in temporary quarters until a new facility is built on a 23-acre tract owned by the church near Pace Academy, he said.

He said that the church operates three bus routes that average about 90 riders, including both adults and children, each Sunday.

Greene Central Downs Jaguars; Farmville Girls Hold Lead Share

By CHIP LAMBETH Reflector Sports Writer FARMVILLE—Greene Central, behind Albert Barron's 21 points, rode a second quarter splurge and some good luck to a 60-33 victory over the Farmville Central Jaguars, last night. The Farmville girls, however, remained in a tie for first place by winning.

The Lady Jaguars beat an amazingly cold Greene Central team, 35-11, to remain in a tie for first in the Eastern Carolina Conference with Southern Wayne which beat North Pitt last night. Both teams have 8-1 records and will meet for the sole ownership of the top spot this Friday. The Lady Jaguars were responsible for the Lady Saints only loss this year.

Greene Central also won the J.V. game beating the Baby Jags, 49-43. Farmville Central's girls shut out the Ewes for 15:59 in the first half. The only GC points of the half came in the last second of the second period as Vanessa Hooker scored. By that time, Farmville Central had rolled up a 17-0 lead. Greene Central added two more in the third quarter getting one before the second half started on a technical foul. The Ewes went on a rampage in the fourth frame getting seven.

The Lady Jaguars broke the ice after a minute of play on Skeeter Sugg's shot from the circle. Julia Moye added one from outside for the 4-0 first period total.

Suggs led the second period getting Farmville Central four more points as they built up a 17-0 advantage. Both teams had ample opportunity to score but could not get their shots to fall. Both teams had ample opportunity to score but could not get their shots to fall. Greene Central hit the one bucket out of 14 shots while Farmville Central hit seven of 42, in the first half.

At the start of the second half, four of the Farmville Central girls did not check into the game and technicals were called on each. Hooker made only one of four shots.

Hooker added another free shot and then Farmville opened it up getting three buckets from Moye, two from Charlene Tyson and four points from Suggs.

At 31-4, that about wrapped it up. The Ewes dropped some shots in the fourth stanza taking the frame, 7-4.

Suggs was the only player in double figures; she scored 10.

The boys' game was a variation on a theme on futility. Farmville made 50 percent of their shots in the first period, six of 12, but after that, an invisible lid slammed shut on the Jaguar goal and it opened very rarely. They frequently had wide open shots but the ball just would not drop through.

Greene Central, however, had little trouble keeping their basket open. Though they hit four of 12 attempts in the first frame, they shot six of 18 in the second period.

The game was close in the early going. Walter Swinson gave the Rams an early 2-0 lead but Mike Corbett tied it up for the Jags, 2-2. Greene Central got the lead back twice on buckets by Albert Barron and Tim Butts but each basket was matched by one by Corbett who tied it 6-6 with 5:25 to go in the period.

Then the Rams corked up the basket and Farmville didn't score again in the period. The Rams took the lead for good on free shots by Barron and got two more free shots and a field goal for a 12-6 lead.

In the second quarter, the Jaguars managed to get two field goals to drop through as Mark Gorham and Jeff Fields hit from the floor. Fields also added two free throws. Barron paced the Rams to a 27-12 halftime lead getting six points.

Greene Central upped the lead to 31-12 in the opening seconds of the third frame but then Farmville stated a rally but the basket soon closed again. Three buckets by Corbett and one by Frankie Shelly cut the lead to 31-20 with 5:31. The Rams began to pull away again and moved out by 19, as the third period ended.

The fourth quarter was not much of an improvement for the Jags as they added five field goals and three free throws while the Rams were coasting out to a 24-point lead, 46-22, and later 27 points, 57-30.

Besides Barron, Corbett was the only other player in double figures with 12.

Farmville will be trying to upset Southern Wayne Friday night as they visit the Saints.

Conley Gets Ninth In Row

NEW HOPE — D. H. Conley had an early scare thrown into it by Eastern Wayne last night, but they went on to record a 68-56 win and hold onto their perfect Eastern Carolina Conference record.

Eastern Wayne's girls, however, took a 43-34 win, while the junior varsity recorded a 57-50 win over the Baby Vikings. Eastern Wayne's girls moved out into a 10-6 lead in the first quarter of the game, then outhit Conley, 12-9, in the second period. That allowed them to take a 22-15 lead into intermission.

Eastern put the game on ice in the third period with a 19-7 margin in scoring, boosting their lead to 41-22. They allowed Conley to take the final frame, 12-2, but to no avail. Gwen Scott led the Eastern scoring with 15, while Alice Costen paced Conley with 10.

Eastern pushed into the lead at the close of the first quarter, holding a 14-10 lead over the Vikings. But Conley closed the gap, 20-17, but still found itself down by one at halftime, 31-30.

The Vikings struggled through another period, 18-16, and moved into the lead, 48-47, as the final period got underway. But in that, they pushed through 20, while holding the Warriors to only nine, and that boosted their record to 9-0 within the league.

Melvin Williams led the Vikings with 18 points, and 16 rebounds. Rick Mobley added 17 points, while Clennel Streeter had 12. Charles McAdoo led Eastern with 21 points, while Keith Naylor had 18.

Conley will play host to Ayden-Grifton on Friday.

North Lenoir Nips Chargers

LITTLEFIELD—Ayden-Grifton's chargers suffered a couple of close losses at the hands of the Hawks of North Lenoir last night.

North Lenoir claimed the girls' game, 33-30, and then took the boys', 61-63. They also won the junior varsity affair, 58-35.

In the boys' game, Ayden-Grifton fell behind 12-2, in the opening minutes of play, then struggled back to make a game of it. They were down 17-12 after the first period. The Chargers outhit the Hawks by one, 15-14, in the second frame, and trailed at the half, 31-27.

In the third period, Ayden-Grifton cut into that deficit, outhitting North Lenoir, 16-14. That left the Hawks with only a 45-43 advantage.

They lost that early in the final period and for the rest of the way, the game saw-sawed back and forth with each team taking the lead several times. Finally, with a 61-61 tie, North Lenoir's Clarence Wiggins made a basket with four seconds left. The Chargers got a time out to set it up, but the four seconds were not enough for them.

Wiggins led the Hawk scoring with 20 points, while Joseph Pearce led by Willie Williams with 26, while Bennie King had 12.

In the girls' game, Ayden-Grifton jumped off to a 14-8 lead but couldn't pull away. They outhit the Lady Hawks, 9-8, in the second frame for a 23-16 halftime lead.

Then, the bottom dropped out on the Chargersettes, who failed to score in the third period. At the same time, North Lenoir was getting 11, and taking a 27-23 lead. Ayden-Grifton outhit them, 7-6, in the final period, but never caught up again.

Beverly Faison led North Lenoir with 12, while Vickie Vail had 11. Tena Smith led Ayden-Grifton with nine.

East Carolina University's Pirates, after a highly successful five-game home stand, take their running show on the road tonight, meeting St. Peter's in Jersey City, N.J.

Tipoff is set for 8 p.m.

Coch Dave Patton's Bucs, who have yet to win on the road, came off their initial trip, to then top-ranked N. C. State, Big Four Tourney runner-up Duke, and to once-beaten and nationally-ranked Alabama, with an 0-3 record. But in Minges, the Bucs have run off five in a row, including two back-to-back 100-point-plus games against Mercer and The Citadel, ranking the Bucs as one of the top scoring teams in the country.

This road trip, according to Patton, is a key one. For following the three games it includes, the Bucs are home for two league games, then go on the road for nearly three weeks, facing six straight opponents, five of them in the Southern Conference.

"This trip is going to tell us how good we can expect to be on the road. And the test of a good team is to play and win on the road. We've played well in our three road games, but we haven't won there yet," Patton said.

Patton feels that St. Peter's is a better team than their 4-4 record would indicate. "They haven't played too well together, and this has been their chief problem," he said. "They do have good talent, and when things are going well for them, they can be very, very good. They do tend to collapse when things go wrong. We can only hope that they don't get happy. If they do, we're in trouble."

Top players for the Peacocks are their guards, 6-2 Ken Markowsky and 6-0 Steve Richardson.

"They don't play a lot of people," the coach said. "They stick with their top five most of the time. This could be an advantage for us, if we can play our game, since we play so many and keep fresh."

Patton too is pleased with the way things are going on his first ECU team. "Everybody is a competitor and all of them want to play. And they want to play every minute of every game. So we're getting a fantastic effort from everyone. It's really hard to put five on the court, and I don't think it really means much. In both of our last two games, the high scorer was one who came off the bench. So starting really doesn't mean much on our team. We know that everybody is going to play, so everyone is ready."

One observer noted last Saturday in East Carolina's 111-81 win over The Citadel that Patton should have called off the dogs and sent the "scrubs" in. "We don't have any scrubs," the coach said. "We have 12 players—any one who could start at any time. We don't have any dropoff right on down the line."

Patton also added that he felt that the reason the Bucs were playing so well as the fine crowd support they had received. "I want to thank those who've come out to see us," Patton said. "It's been a great help to us, and I appreciate it and so do the players."

Going into the St. Peter's game, the Bucs have only three players in double figures, with Robert Geter leading with 12.0 Gregg Ashorn and Larry Hunt are both hitting 11.8 per game, while Wade Henkel is at 9.7 and Reggie Lee at 9.9.

Hunt is the leading rebounder at 10.9, while Geter has a 7.4 mark.

Following tonight's game, the Bucs will travel on to Storrs, Connecticut, to take part in the Connecticut Classic, facing Baylor in the first round. The hosting Huskies take on Eastern Michigan in the other Friday game. Winners and losers meet on Saturday.

BIG RUN FOR LOSERS FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)

— When Arkansas beat Southern Cal 22-7 in the 1974 season opener, the Trojans' only touch-down came on a 100-yard kick-off return by Anthony Davis. It marked the first time in 71 games that Southern Cal had been unable to score.

44 NIGHT GAMES SET NEW YORK (AP)

— The New York Mets have set 44 night games for Shea Stadium during the 1975 season. Their first game under lights will be played May 2 against the Montreal Expos.

The home season for New York's National League team opens against the Philadelphia Phillies on April 8. The Mets will also meet the Phillies in the final game of the season at Shea on Sunday, Sept. 21.

North Pitt Holds Off Saints To Stay Close

DUDLEY — North Pitt's Panthers escaped from Southern Wayne with their lives last night, 63-61, to stay right on the heels of league-leading D. H. Conley.

Southern Wayne's girls remained in a share of first place with Farmville Central, 53-51.

The Southern Wayne girls eased out into an 11-9 lead over the defending champs in the first period. They extended that to 31-23 at the half with a 20-14 second quarter margin.

North Pitt put on a rally in the second half and nearly pulled off the victory. They outhit the Saints, 13-11, to cut it to 42-36. Then, in the final period, they came back to tie it at 51-51, but a Southern Wayne basket with 60 seconds left, followed by three Pant-HER turnovers killed the North Pitt chances.

Avis Hobbs led Southern with 17 points, while Cheryl Armwood had 13 and Kathy Thornton had 10. Kathi Manning led North Pitt with 18, while Mary Brown had 17.

North Pitt's boys managed a 16-14 lead after one period, but they were shocked, 19-9, in the second frame. That put the Saints out, 33-25, and left the Panthers in danger of losing their first league game since their opening contest.

But they rallied in the third period to outhit Southern, 22-10, pushing back into a 47-43 lead. Southern tried to catch up, 18-16, but couldn't quite regain the lead from the Panthers.

Donnie Perkins led the Panthers with 21 points, while Vincent Barnhill had 15 and Jesse Harris added 12. Anthony Williams had 28, and M. Oliver added 19 for the Saints.

The Panthers go to North Lenoir on Friday.

Oak City Gets By Jamesville

JAMESVILLE—Oak City High School swept a trio of games from Jamesville's Bullets last night. The Trojans won the junior varsity, 36-20, took the girls' game, 26-26, and finished up with a 71-64 win in the varsity boys.

In the girls' contest, Oak City edged ahead, 10-7, after the first period of play. Jamesville rallied, however, scoring 10 points in the second frame, while holding the Trojanettes to half that. This allowed the Lady Bullets to take a 17-15 lead into the dressing room.

But Oak City came back with an 8-6 margin in the third frame, inching back and tying it at 23-23 as the last period began. The Trojanettes outthit Jamesville, 13-3, to wrap it up.

Duggins and Thompson led Oak City's scoring with 11 points each.

The boys' contest saw a furious first period, with the Bullets slipping into a 22-20 lead after the period came to an end. Oak City stayed right with them through the third period, putting in 18, while the Bullets got 16, knocking the two at 38-38 at the half.

Jamesville and Oak City continued to battle on almost even terms through the third period, with the Bullets getting a 51-50 lead at the horn. But the Bullets ran out of ammunition in the final frame, as the Trojans burned them, 21-13, to pull out the victory.

Ronnie Duggins led Oak City with 25, while Spruill had 15. Jerry Ange had 21 for Jamesville, while Eric Davis and Rufus Simmons each had 12 and Chester Davis had 10.

Hunter Speaks At Legion Fete

Jim (Catfish) Hunter, late of the Oakland Athletics, and now a multi-millionaire with the New York Yankees, will be the guest of honor at the American Legion Baseball Benefit Banquet Thursday night at 7 p.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Hunter, who was the American League's Cy Young Award winner for the 1974 season, left the Athletics after his contract was judged to have been voided because A's owner Charles O. Finley did not meet its full terms. Following that, Hunter's services were sought by 22 of the 24 major league teams. They slowly backed out of the running as the bids got higher and higher.

The New York Yankees finally got Hunter's signature on a contract rumored to be in the neighborhood of $3.75 million in all, including salary over a five-year period, insurance policies on himself and his children, and a signing bonus.

Tickets for the dinner are available for $5 each, and all proceeds go toward the benefit of the Greenville Post 39 American Legion baseball team.

Eagles Nipped By Edgecombe

ROCKY MOUNT—Robersonville could not pass West Edgecombe in the fourth period last night and went on to lose their sixth game, a heart-breaker, 56-53. The girls, however, won their game by a slim 35-34. The Eaglets lost, 54-47.

In the girls' game, West Edgecombe had a 7-6 advantage after the opening period of play. Robersonville bounced back in the second quarter to pump in 17 to West Edgecombe's eight. At halftime the Lady Eagles led 23-15.

Robersonville lost a point off the margin in the third period and almost lost the game in the fourth but a basket by Phyllis McNeil gave the Lady Eagles a three-point lead which gave them the winning point.

Walker led both teams with 23 while Beatrice Forrest had 15 for Robersonville.

West Edgecombe's boys took a first quarter lead, also, but their's was bigger, 19-7. The gap remained at 12 at halftime as neither team could pick up on the other scoring identical 16-point totals.

Robersonville began to rally in the third quarter beating West Edgecombe, 18-10 and almost pulled it out in the fourth quarter. The Eagles, down by one with about a minute left, missed a shot which West Edgecombe rebounded and used to win the game.

Ricky Purvis led Robersonville with 14, Gregory Bonds had 12 and Jimmy Stalls, back from a bout with pneumonia, scored 10. Parker led W. Edgecombe with 15, Tyson had 12, Powell 11 and Batts 10.

Wachovia and Union Carbide posted victories in the Industrial League last night, while Eaton took a forfeit over the Post Office, now forfeited out of the league.

All future Post Office opponents have been awarded victories.

Wachovia took Pitt Memorial Hospital, 63-56, in the first game. The two battled on even terms in the first half, to a 27-27 tie. But in the second, Wachovia pushed through 36, while Pitt managed only 29.

Billy Stokes led Wachovia with 35, while Bill Baggett had 13. Charles Taft had 15 and Clarence Taft had 14 for Pitt.

In the other game, Union Carbide took a 66-63 win over NCNB. The two also played basket-for-basket in the first half, which ended 25-all. But Union Carbide edged out the second half, 41-38, to take the win.

Jimmy Sutton led the victory with 27 points, while Garland Warren had 21 and Marvin Hardee had 16. For NCNB, Randy Martin had 21, Jerry Clark had 18 and Cliff Barbee had 17.

NEW BERN — Rose High School's inability to hit the key baskets when they needed them cost them a fine comeback victory over New Bern High School's Bears last night, 76-72.

Edenton Downs Williamston

EDENTON — Edenton High School used a strong first half to take a 67-57 victory over the Williamston Tigers last night. But the Williamston girls rolled to their ninth straight victory without a defeat, ripping Edenton, 57-29.

The Williamston junior varsity also rolled, 68-46.

In the girls' game, the Tigerettes jumped off to a 15-6 lead after the first period and never trailed again. They outthit Edenton, 10-9, in the second frame and posted a 25-15 halftime lead.

They continued to ease away in the third period, hitting 15 to 10 for the Lady Aces, upping the lead to 40-25. In the final frame, Williamston polished off the game with a 17-4 margin.

Fran Hardison led Williamston with 17 points, while Nancy Williams added 16. Debra Britt led Edenton with 12.

Edenton raced away to a 20-point first period, while Williamston could push through only 13. The Aces continued their hot hands in the second quarter, hitting 24, while the Tigers repeated their first period score. That gave the Aces a 44-26 lead, one the Tigers couldn't overcome.

Williamston came back with a 16-12 margin in the third stanza, cutting the lead to 56-42. They again outscored Edenton, 15-11, but they were too far back for the rally to be effective.

The Rampants, down by as much as 15 points in the first half of play, rallied to make a game of it, but when they had the chance to really put the heat on the Bears, they were unable to get the ball to drop.

Doubtlessly, the Rampants were hurt by the loss of Macon

Moye, who didn't make the trip because of a hand injury suffered over the Christmas holidays. Moye tried to play in the Kinston game last Friday, but was hampered by the bandage and saw only momentary playing time.

"We hope that he'll be able to play by next week," Coach Wilson McDowell said prior to the start of the game. "But we're certainly going to miss him in these two this week."

Moye's height would have helped the Rampants somewhat against the high-jumping Bears, who dominated the boards most of the night. Most of the Rose backboard effort came from Mike Brewington, who played his best game of the year, dumping in 28 points, and at times he appeared to be all the offense the Rampants could muster.

Rose was plagued by cold shooting in the early part of the game, and then, when they did warm up, it was in streaks, with the key baskets near the close of the game refusing to drop.

New Bern, at the same time, bombed the nets from outside most of the night, venturing inside the Rampant defenses seldom. But their accuracy was so good that it wasn't necessary to worry either about missing or Rose getting the rebound.

Ronald Scott put the Bears into the initial lead, but Rose tied it, at 2-2, and then again at 6-6. Lindberg Morris then stole the ball, scoring with 5:07 left for an 8-6 Rampant lead. Scott tied it up for the Bears, but a free throw by Brewington put Rose back on top, 9-8. It was to be their last lead.

Starlin Beatty popped in a jumper with 4:28 left for a 10-9 lead, and Scott followed with another 30 seconds later. A few seconds later, Robert McClelland hit on a turnaround jumper for a 14-9 lead and Rose took a time out.

McClelland came back with two free throws to run it out to 16-9 before Rose could score again. The two swapped baskets the rest of the way for a 22-15 New Bern lead at the horn.

The Bears reeled off the first two baskets of the second period to up their lead to 11, as McClelland and Darryl Barnes hit for a 26-15 lead. The two again went through a swapping session, before a tap-in by Beatty gave the Bears a 36-23 lead with 4:11 left in the period.

After each team hit again, Scott's jumper with 3:18 showing gave the Bears their biggest spread, 40-25.

Rose came back with five straight points to cut it back to ten, but then fell back by 14 again. Rose again got five in a row, cutting it to nine, and it stayed at that until a three-point play by Donnie Shields with 19 seconds left cut it to 46-38, the halftime score.

Rose came out a little hotter in the second half, and outthit the Bears, 8-4 during the first three minutes cutting the lead down to 50-46. But the Bears then hit three in a row to open a 10-point lead again. After Rose scored again, New Bern got six more to open the lead to 62-48, a 14-point spread. Rose cut it back to 62-50 just at the end of the period.

The Rampants reeled off five in a row to open the final period, and again, in the first three minutes cut away at the score. With 3:48 to play, Ronnie Barrett's jumper from the baseline made it 67-63, and the Rampants were definitely within striking distance.

The Bears didn't wilt, however, and matched the Rampants point for point until with 1:11 left, two free throws by Beatty upped the lead to 74-68. William Boone hit with 21 seconds left to up it to 76-68, but some hustling by the Bucs put them back within striking distance.

Morris was fouled with 12 seconds left. He made the first free throw, but missed the second on purpose, hoping for a Rose rebound. The Rampants didn't get it, but did get a steal, just a second later, and Tyrone Taft hit a jumper with six seconds left. At the same time, Brewington was fouled underneath the basket, giving Rose a chance for another quickie catchup try.

Brewington hit the first, cutting it to 76-72, and then tried to miss the second to hope for a miracle. His shot rolled into the basket, but the Rampants were called for a lane violation, cancelling the point and giving the ball to the Bears and insuring their win.

Besides Brewington's 28 points, Taft finished with 13, Barrett had 12 and Mirris had 11.

McClelland led New Bern with 20, while Beatty had 10.

New Bern also won a close one in the junior varsity game, 55-51. After a brief Rose lead at the start, New Bern charged into a 20-14 lead by the end of the period. New Bern outthit the Cubs again, 18-10, and held a 38-24 lead at the half.

Rose outscored them, 18-8 in the third period, trimming it to 46-42, but they could never grab the lead as the two teams matched points the rest of the way.

Randy Pellisero led the Cubs with 17, while Derek Brewington had 13. Earl George had 16 and Bob Wylie had 12 for New Bern.

The Rampants travel to Goldsboro on Friday for their next outing, seeking to snap a two-game winning streak. They are now 6-4 overall.

Church Action

Black Jack became the first Church Basketball League team to take its second victory last night with a 57-34 win over Jarvis. In other games, Presbyterian downed Oakmont, 48-41, while Immanuel opened its season with a 60-35 win over Trinity.

In that game, Immanuel rushed away to a 37-14 halftime lead. They outthit Trinity again, 23-21, to wrap it up.

L. G. Catlett led Immanuel with 13, while Drew Rumbley and Dick Evans each had 12. John Banks led Trinity with 11, while Mike Whitefield had 10.

Black Jack built up a strong 24-8 lead after one half, then coasted home with a 33-26 margin in the second. Bobby Edwards led the Black Jack effort with 16 points, while Tal Adams had 13 and Randy Hudson had 10. Bill Kuykendall had 15 to pace Jarvis.

In the final game, Presbyterian and Oakmont battled to an 18-18 tie in the first half. But Presbyterian pulled away with a 30-23 second half to win it. Jack Wall led Presbyterian with 16 points, while Bobby Hall had 14 for Oakmont and Al Como added 11.

Automakers Planning To Introduce 6 New Models

By EDWARD S. LECHTZN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — The bottom of a sales slump may seem like an odd time to try something new, but automakers are planning introduction of six new models in the coming months.

A small Cadillac, American Motors' Pacer, the Mercury Bobcat, two new Volkswagen models and a five-cylinder, diesel-powered Mercedes will have early 1975 debuts. They'll join eight, all-new '75s that were introduced in October.

The sales downturn, off 35 per cent in November from 1973, hasn't provided the best atmosphere to test the new models. But most have been inching their way up on the sales charts, especially Ford's luxury compacts, the Granada and Monarch, which accounted for 2.6 per cent of all sales in November.

The new models set for showroom introductions in the first three months of 1975 were planned long before sales went into a tailspin, but industry analysts aren't unhappy.

"Now is a good time to have something new to offer because that's where the action is," one analyst said. "Now isn't the time to throw the same ball up in the air."

"If we didn't stir up some interest with fresh products, things could be a lot worse than they are."

The all new-for-'75 models introduced this fall were the Ford Granada, Mercury Monarch, Chrysler Cordoba, Dodge Charger Special Edition, Pontiac Astre, Chevrolet Monza, Buick Skyhawk and Oldsmobile Skyhawk.

Most everyone knows what the established 1975 rookies look like. What Detroit and foreign automakers hope is that the slump hasn't killed all interest in what the remainder of the '75s will be like.

Cadillac expects to find a waiting market for its new small model which will be

On Dean's List At St. Mary's

RALEIGH — Two Greenville students were named to the dean's list at St. Mary's College in Raleigh for the first semester.

The students are: Miss Peggy Sears Corbitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.S. Corbitt Jr. of Greenville; and Deborah Vee Massey, daughter of Mrs. M.B. Massey Jr. of Greenville and the late Mr. Massey.

To fulfill the requirements for this, a student must carry a minimum of 14 semester hours and must attain a quality point ratio of at least 3.25.

larger than the compacts General Motors builds, but much smaller than standard models on its 114-inch wheel-base. Cadillac officials aren't hesitant about comparing it with Mercedes, a name with a mystique Detroit is trying to copy. The new mini-Cadillac is expected to carry a price tag above $11,000.

AMC's Pacer, sized between the subcompact Gremlin and the compact Hornet, will be getting a lot of attention in the weeks before its debut in late February or the first week of March.

Roy D. Chapin Jr., chairman of the smallest of the major auto companies, says AMC still plans to build between 60,000 and 80,000 Pacers in 1975, right up there with his earlier estimate made before the current sales slump.

The Pacer has a wide glass expanse and will be powered by a 6-cylinder engine, though AMC had hoped to have a Wankel rotary engine for the start of production. That idea was scrapped when GM shelved

Church To Hold Weekly Series

A weekly Faith Celebration, non-denominational and for persons of all ages, will begin Tuesday, January 14 at the Methodist Youth Center on East Fifth Street across from the ECU campus.

The series of weekly celebrations will begin at 7:30 p.m. each Tuesday and will be led by Bob and Helen Reynolds.

Those attending are invited to bring their own musical instruments, as part of the program will be devoted to the singing and playing of music.

its Wankel program.

Ford's new offering will be a Bobcat for its Lincoln-Mercury Division. It's a dolled-up version of the subcompact Pinto, but has an "extra" in that it has been updated in the past two years while Pinto's exterior has remained virtually unchanged. It will give Lincoln-Mercury dealers a full line of cars and, for the first time, an edge on the Ford Division because of its imported Capri.

VW's two new models, the Scirocco and Rabbit, got a bit of pre-introduction publicity when the Environmental Protection Agency published the fuel economy results for 1975 models. The two cars finished No. 2 and No. 3 in the mileage derby behind the Datsun B210.

Scirocco (Italian for a strong, hot Mediterranean wind) began appearing in dealer showrooms before the new year began with a price tag of $4,450 for the four-passenger hatchback coupe. It's a replacement for the sporty Karmann-Ghia which disappeared after nearly two decades on U.S. roads.

Scirocco and the Rabbit, a smaller version and an alternative to the popular Beetle, have water-cooled, front-wheel drives with the engine mounted sideways in the front engine compartment.

Like the Scirocco, the smaller Rabbit has been on sale in Europe for almost a year. There it's known as the Golf.

Mercedes-Benz has a certain something that Detroit has been trying to copy, Ford with its Granada and now Cadillac with its new small model. They'll all have to go a way to match the Mercedes 300D, the world's first five-cylinder diesel car.

According to the EPA tests, the 300D gets 31 miles per gallon on the highway and needs no add-on devices to meet the U.S. emissions requirements. Mercedes has been building diesel-powered cars since 1936.

Price apparently is no drawback to Mercedes customers. With four-wheel disc brakes, power steering, air conditioning, AM-FM radio, power windows, central locking system, electrically defrosted rear window, fog lights, tinted glass, radial-ply tires and a quartz-crystal clock as standard equipment, the diesel-powered 300D carries a tag of $11,782.

Heads Of Military Regimes Pay Themselves Well

By SUMALEE PHITHAYAKORN
BANGKOK (UPI) — What sort of salary can the head of a military regime expect? As much as $70 million, it seems from a report by a committee formed in Thailand nearly a year ago to sort out the assets of three leaders of the military government overthrown by a student revolution Oct. 14, 1973.

former university rector Sanya Dharmasakti. One of the problems Sanya had to face was how to dispose of the fortunes of "the tyrannical trio," as they are known, accumulated during their years in office.

Sanya appointed an assets freezing committee to catalogue the trio's belongings. The head of the committee, Sawasdi Uthaisri, disclosed the extent of the abandoned riches.

Peaceful Park Set Near Prison

LARKSPUR, Calif. (AP) — The Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission has approved preliminary plans for a small park for peaceful viewing of San Francisco. It would be located near San Quentin Prison.

A bicycle path and landscaping leading to the park are planned. The city has received a grant of $48,000 for the three-acre site. Construction is not contemplated for at least a year.

Prime Minister Prapass, who is now living in Taiwan. Prapass and his wife had

False Rumor Concerns Scrap

NEW YORK (UPI) — A mysterious rumor that aluminum scrap can be exchanged directly for hospital equipment has caused many misconceived scrap collection campaigns according to the Aluminum Association. The fact is scrap aluminum can be sold to the 1,300 aluminum collection centers only for cash, the association said. It said it has not been able to run down the source of this rumor that communities could obtain bargains in hospital equipment directly in exchange for scrap aluminum.

accumulated assets totaling $16.8 million including 15 houses, 18 automobiles (among them a Rolls-Royce and Lincoln Continental), and an impressive collection of antiques, including 197 images of Buddha, one of them worth $2,500. Prapass and his wife left cash and securities in Thailand totaling $9.5 million.

The next largest fortune belonged to former Prime Minister Thanom and his wife, who now live in Boston, both accumulating belongings totaling nearly $4 million. They had 11 houses, which the committee estimates are worth $200,000, and $30,000 dollars in decorations. For transportation they relied on 19 autos, including two Bentleys, five Mercedes and two Jeeps. Cash and securities left in Thailand totaled $500,000.

Thanom's son, Narong, and his wife, left behind $2.6 million

Many Epileptics Resist Drugs

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Thirty-five per cent of the nation's epilepsy victims are "resistant" to treatment, says D. Richard Schmidt of New York who spoke recently at a Portland epilepsy seminar.

He said many epileptics cannot experience the "maximum" benefits of existing drugs.

He added that heavy research is being done to develop drugs to help those hard-to-treat patients.

The world's first suspension bridge was completed in Wheeling, W. Va. in November, 1849, and is still in use.

amounting to $1.5 million.

Sanya said the trio have the right to claim their property and they have already done so through relatives and lawyers.

Another committee will have to rule on what assets were gained through legitimate means.

The legitimate assets will be returned to the trio, the government said, but did not say when.

While they wait the value of much of the property increases.

Prapass' wife, for example, was found to have 216 ounces of gold in the bank. At today's rate, it is worth more than $360,000.

GOODBYE—Stephen Shearer says goodbye to pal Suzy before leaving Waseca (Minn.) for Van Nuys, Calif. The 12-year-old boy, one of about 120 youngsters from Northern Ireland who spent last summer in the Midwest to escape the violence in their native country, was back in Waseca for a visit during the Christmas holidays. Stephen has been temporarily adopted by a Van Nuys man and will spend the rest of the school year there. (AP Wirephoto)

Short Hair Now Sees Comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — Short hair is making a strong comeback, and that's not all. For the first time in years there's a shortage of barbers in nearly every major city and enrollees are standing in line to get into barber school.

A great many of those new enrollees are women.

That's the latest word from the BBAIA which, in this age of unisex hair parlors, stands for Barbers, Beauticians and Allied Industries Assn.

The allied industries, incidentally — sprays and rinses and all that — are having a heyday.

The straggly look is gone and the nation's athletes seem to be right out front in the new tidiness trend.

"Have you seen Dandy Don Meredith on the tube?" said Richard A. Plumb, the general president of the BBAIA. "That's the latest look — full over the ear, full in back, short on top — the kind of haircut you can get at a barber shop."

What Plumb confirms is that the biggest news about hair these days is that it is no longer news.

Gone, apparently, are the days of long hair as a symbol of defiance, of schoolmasters battling students over the length of their locks, of a judge making headlines by sentencing a long-haired miscreant to a shearing.

According to Plumb, the era of barber shop failures ended in 1972 — the year the play "Hair" folded on Broadway — and began a reverse trend.

The new barber shops which he says are opening up, however, are a far cry from the old familiar white-tiled shops with the ball game turned up loud, the razor strop dangling from the chair and the smell of witch hazel in the air.

"Three years ago a person could open a barber shop on an investment of $300 to $1,000," Plumb said. "Today, what with plush carpets and piped-in music and all, it costs $25,000 to $50,000."

"One reason for the change in the way the shops look," he said, "is that women are operating an increasing number of them. This is a reversal, too. When men started letting their hair grow they had to go to women's hairdressers to get a haircut, or rather a styling. Now women customers are coming to barber shops."

Plumb makes a distinction between a barber shop, even one with carpeting, and a fancier "styling parlor" for men.

One big difference is the price. Plumb said the average price charged by members of his organization is $6.50, which is about double what it was a couple of years ago, but less than half what customers pay at some other places.

Economic downturn or not, sales of men's hair products, especially aerosol sprays, continue to reflect a boom that began two years ago.

"When the hairstyle got longer men found out, just like women, that they had to do something to keep it neat," said Plumb. "Sales of tonics and sprays and rinses are now a large part of a barber's income — about four times what it was 10 years ago."

In the long argument over long hair, it seems, contempt has finally bred familiarity. Retail sales jumped from $90 million in 1965 to $120 million last year, with aerosol sprays leading the way. Dyes, too, have leapt — from $4 million in sales two years ago to $15 million last year.

Where a tightened economy will send the market is anybody's guess. Manufacturers have become especially tight-lipped about their marketing research.

They do feel that the big hurdle, acceptance of products once considered strictly for women, has been passed and that men no longer have misgivings about doting on their hair, especially young men.

Minicomputer To Aid Research

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University's institute for electronics in medicine has been given a minicomputer system that will increase its capability for research in the application of computers to medical problems.

Institute director Robert L. White said the computer will be used on projects ranging from the study of fetal electrocardiograms to analysis of brainwave patterns associated with schizophrenia.

The $125,000 minicomputer system was donated by Hewlett-Packard Co.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JAN. 9, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to accomplish a great deal today which is fine if you channel your activities wisely and use self-control to sidestep making any remarks that could alienate certain associates.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be astute in the handling of a difficult matter. Look to a new associate for the information you need at this time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Relax and listen to the voice of your intuition which can be most helpful to you. Discuss new plans with others intelligently.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you are more cooperative with associates, you can get better results. Don't let an uncontrolled person upset you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle that work ahead of you in an intelligent way and it is soon behind you. Don't neglect health treatments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Before you go out for recreation, make sure you assist a good friend who has a problem. Show creativity in the work you do.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make those important decisions now instead of putting them off. You can get fine results from entertaining at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) By having quiet talks and cementing better relations with associates, you make the future much brighter. Relax tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't get upset over some financial problem but find the right solution to it. A business expert can be most helpful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Discussions with allies brings to light many ideas which can be helpful in your line of endeavor. Avoid a troublemaker.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study personal matters and know just where you are headed in the future. Don't waste time with those who hold you back.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study a plan with friends and give it your approval. Much good can result from it. Enjoy yourself at the social tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can accomplish a great deal in the world of activity today, if you get an early start. Avoid a person who wastes time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those intelligent young people who can make a great career if given the opportunity to study at the right schools. Teach to control the temper and to listen to experts for best results. Give ethical training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Farmville Bd. . . .

Joe Griffin alleged there have been inconsistencies in the Police Department, that the law has been administered unfairly, that, of course, this makes adult attempts to deal with the drug problem a laughingstock, because "if there's anyone who can recognize unfairness, it's a child."

Toward the end of the meeting, Vassar Fields shared a little of his experiences during several months of sitting in on all court cases involving the Farmville drug problem and of talking with parents who love their son dearly and are worried about his involvement, only to know and not be able to tell them that the boy's in 10 times deeper than they realize. He reiterated the needs of the town, adding that the town is going to have to think about hiring a private prosecutor, because "We cannot depend on our District Attorney's office." He also called for the follow-up of each case by the news media, not just the arrest report, with never another mention to let the public know how the courts dispose of the case, or whether they were settled in secret, or postponed for a year.

He told of the availability of an Institute of Government survey of law enforcement in our area to find out where the problem is and what the needs are.

Police Chief Carl Tanner said his Department cannot function at its best unless the citizens do let him know what is going on. Several other speakers also called on all Farmville citizens to cooperate with the Police. Tanner alleged that "the drug problem here is bad, but not as bad as it was, six months ago."

It was charged that local citizens reported a pot party going on the weekend after Thanksgiving and the Police did not respond, that the call was not even recorded. Tanner said he cannot enter a home without a search warrant. Attorney Jack Lewis explained that anyone who observes or suspects wrongdoing in a building must go to the local magistrate and convince him of the probability of it. Then a search warrant can be drawn and served by the Police. Motor vehicles can be searched if they are observed being driven in an unlawful manner, he said.

Mayor Will Joyner appointed a committee composed of Vassar Field, Bob Fields, Mrs. Don Wrought, and Jack Lewis, with more members to be added later, to advise the Commissioners and the Police Department as to what needs to be done about the drug situation in Farmville. The Commissioners promised to report some ideas for a plan of action at their February meeting.

In other business, the Commissioners took the following actions: They agreed to purchase a front end loader for the Street Department from Gregory Poole Equipment Company. Two bids had been submitted, those of Gregory Poole at $45,000 and N.C. Equipment Company at $44,500. Mrs. Sarah Albritton voted against the other four Commissioners on the matter, saying she felt it fair to give the sale to the lowest bidder unless good reason were shown why the Caterpillar loader sold by Poole is superior to the International sold by N.C. Equipment.

Estimate No. 3 by Layne Atlantic Co. on the town wells was approved, in the amount of $7,123.86.

Willie Rouse Jr. of Snow Hill was granted his request to peddle soft drinks at public gatherings on weekends.

A public hearing was called on changes in the composition of the Farmville Planning Board. The hearing will be held Jan. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the courtroom. The Planning Board ordinance needs to be amended to allow for not more than 16 or fewer than eight members on the Planning Board, half coming from the town of Farmville and half from its extraterritorial one-mile radius, with all members voting on all issues. The in-town members would be appointed by the Town Commissioners; the extraterritorial ones by the County Commissioners based on recommendations of the Town Board. Fifty per cent would comprise a quorum.

Bernice Turnage was appointed by the Mayor to fill the unexpired term of H. B. Humphrey, who has resigned from the Board of Adjustments.

Czech Helps To Combat Dampness

By IVA DRAPALOVA
Associated Press Writer
PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — A Czech invention is helping to combat a common, but increasingly more destructive, enemy of man's habitations: wetness.

Although rain has been pounding on roofs and dampness creeping up through the floors since man began to build shelters, some scientists now claim buildings are getting wetter. They blame heavy trucks, polluted air and electricity for the disfiguring wet patches marring stately historical buildings as well as more recent dwellings.

"The problem is worldwide and getting worse," Jaroslav Lebeda, a Czech inventor said, indicating that methods of damp-proofing are still largely haphazard.

The 52-year-old inventor became dissatisfied with a damp-proofing method his company was using in the 1960s to restore an 18th-century house in the town of Opava. Together with a physicist and chemist, Lebeda spent several years testing and experimenting before coming up with what is known as the PU 10 Electro-physical method.

Lebeda claims PU 10, which uses painted-on or sprayed strips of electricity-conducting material placed under the plaster of buildings, is more efficient and far less expensive than most current methods.

Six firms in Czechoslovakia are using it and an agreement for its employment by a West German firm is about to be signed. Belgium and other countries have expressed interest.

In fact, eastern Europe has been branching out in the damp-proofing field and is helping to dry out the west. Romanian experts are working in Britain and Venice, the Czechs in West Germany, and East Germany and Hungary have played key roles in improving the state of the technology.

There is certainly no lack of work for those in the business. Lebeda quotes statistics showing 60 to 70 per cent of pre-World War I houses in Vienna, 31 per cent in north German industrialized towns and half the houses on the Hungarian plains have been damaged by dampness. The architectural treasures of Venice suffer from the effects of the all-surrounding water.

Man-made hazards have compounded the problem. Heavy trucks shake buildings, causing minute cracks through which water can seep from below, while corrosive, sulphur-laden air and rain bore fissures and then fill them from above.

It has also been observed that house dampness rises drastically near electrified train routes, radio and television stations. One theory says silicon, a component of mortar, acts as a rectifier, producing an unidirectional current which in turn leads to increased water absorption.

Lebeda says PU 10 does not require expensive drilling or injections into brickwork, which in some cases might cause damage to the stability of buildings. Equipment costs are also kept to a minimum, he says.

A plant in Lebeda's home town of Opava which provides PU 10 service has a customer backlog of one year, and is planning to expand its operation.

Others May Follow Chrysler Action

By OWEN ULMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry analysts believe other U.S. car makers may have to follow Chrysler Corporation's lead in granting major price rebates of up to $400 on specific models to boost sales.

But spokesmen for General Motors and Ford Motor Co. said that their firms had no immediate plans to discount their models.

Chrysler, saddled with 320,000 unsold 1975 models, is launching the auto industry's first big price discounts since domestic car sales began plummeting more than a year ago.

Chrysler will offer the rebates to buyers of new cars and light trucks beginning Monday in an unprecedented five-week campaign which it hopes will stimulate sales.

The industry has been under heavy pressure from dealers to roll back prices since record increases averaging $450 a car went into effect last September. Sales are off more than 25 percent since the increases went into effect.

One New York analyst said Tuesday that Chrysler's price discounts indicate the company's "recognition that cars were overpriced."

"It's now inevitable that others will follow the move," said Harry Laubscher of Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co. He predicted the discounts will result in increased sales.

Another New York analyst, Arvid Jouppi, added, "Obviously the campaign will boost sales. There has been considerable price resistance."

Jouppi said Ford and American Motors might adopt similar consumer incentives because they too have very high supplies of unsold cars. But he said GM probably would not because of a smaller inventory.

The Chrysler campaign, scheduled to end Feb. 16, offers rebates of $200 to $300 on a specific model each week. Another $100 will be rebated on specific trade-in models that include both Chrysler and competitors' cars.

The plan will be backed up by a media blitz that will cost an estimated $5 million.

Under the discount plan, the first of its kind in automotive history, rebates will be given to buyers directly by the company and not by the dealers.

The auto companies have offered discounts in the past, but only in the form of discounts to dealers who are free to negotiate lower-than-sticker prices without cutting into their own profits.

Wastewater Plant Course Scheduled

Pitt Technical Institute will offer a training course for Grades I and II wastewater treatment plant operators beginning on January 20, sponsored jointly by the North Carolina Division of Environmental Management, Pitt Technical Institute, and the North Carolina Pollution Control Association.

The course will consist of practical classroom and field training in the proper operation and maintenance of wastewater treatment plants. The classes will be held for thirteen consecutive weeks for three hours each Monday and Wednesday beginning at 6:00 p.m. This training course will assist the operators in qualifying for certification as now required by law. The training program will upgrade skills and knowledge of the operators so they get the greatest efficiency from wastewater treatment plants. For additional information on registration call Pitt Technical Institute at 756-3130, Extension 25 or Extension 22.

Two Pitt Men At SHP School

Two Pitt County men are attending the 60th Highway Patrol Basic School in Chapel Hill, which began Monday.

Both men, according to Patrol officials, have been employed by police departments in Pitt County: Johnny R. Letchworth, 28 of Winterville, as a Greenville policeman and Charles Stephen Raines, 20 of Ayden by the Ayden Police Department.

Letchworth, "Policeman of the Year" in Greenville in 1974, graduated from Winterville High School and has received specialized training in defensive driving, drugs, firearms and auto theft while with the Greenville department.

Raines, an Ayden High School graduate, holds a Police Science degree from Pitt Technical Institute.

No duty assignments will be made until near the completion of their Highway Patrol training.

Bellamy At Stamp Meet

Robert Bellamy, a long-time collector from Washington, will be the featured guest at the Eastern Carolina Stamp Club's monthly meeting Thursday night.

The club meets monthly at Planters Bank at 7:30 p.m.

Bellamy, a serious collector for over 40 years, has one of the outstanding collections in the area, American issues. Among them are a first issue on cover and a complete set of the Colombian issue. He also has a complete set of U.S. air posts, including all four of the Zeppelin issues.

He also has a large collection of French and German stamps. In addition to showing parts of his collection, he will have stamps on hand for trading and for sale.

All area stamp collectors are invited to attend the meeting, whether members of the club or not.

A 'Singing' Set For Thursday

A singing will be held at the United Church of God Thursday at 8 p.m.

Featured will be two special groups, the Victory Singers of Garner and the Apostolic Echoes of Wilson. The public is invited, according to the pastor, the Rev. Woodrow Tew.

Employment Opportunity

Do you really want a good income. . .Beginning now?

Are you tired of needing two jobs to support your family? Would you like to be in a position where your spouse would not have to work.

Are you interested in earning $100 to $200 a day?

If so consider these facts:

- on the job training with pay.
- classroom training expense paid.
- hospitalization
- life insurance and disability income

Experience not necessary if you are not afraid of work, able to manage money, and have a good character.
