

Congress And Pres. Ford See Eye To Eye On Tax Cut Need

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Early enactment of an antirecession tax cut appears certain because President Ford and the heavily Democratic 94th Congress agree that such a step is necessary, although they appear divided over how much of the reduction should go to lower- and middle-income taxpayers.

During a nationally broadcast speech Monday night, the President proposed an across-the-board tax rebate of up to $1,000 on 1974 tax payments.

Most key Democrats reacted to Ford's tax proposals by saying they favor a tax cut about equal to the $16 billion reduction in personal and corporate income taxes that the President urged.

But they said the details of the President's tax cut plan, combined with his proposed $30 billion in oil tax increases expected to raise gas prices up to a nickel a gallon, will fail to ease the economic burden on many Americans or to curb reliance on foreign fuel.

Republicans generally backed Ford's proposals.

The President took his $46 billion program "to put our domestic house in order" to the nation in his speech from the White House library a few hours after House Democrats outlined their economic proposals and two days before he was scheduled to address a joint session of Congress for his State of the Union speech.

The key points of the Ford program include: —Some $12 billion in immediate tax relief by giving individuals a 12 per cent cash rebate on their 1974 tax payments, up to a maximum of $1,000 per taxpayer, plus $4 billion in corporate tax relief.

—Higher taxes on foreign and domestic oil, natural gas and windfall profits of oil producers, which would bring in an added $30 billion. This sum is to be returned to the economy later, reportedly through future reductions in individual and corporate tax rates and increases in the low-income tax allowance.

—A one-year moratorium on new federal spending programs to hold down the anticipated $40 billion federal budget deficit next year, and a 5 per cent limit on increases in federal salaries and pension benefits paid by the Treasury, such as Social Security and veterans benefits.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., scheduled to become chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the tax-writing panel "will move immediately toward a major tax reduction somewhere near the magnitude of the President's (Continued on page 10)

New Shore Drive Building Planned

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Preliminary plans for the construction of a new office building in Shore Drive by the architectural firm of Dudley & Shoe and the transfer of half of the firm's interest in the development property were approved by the Redevelopment Commission.

Commission executive director Joe Laney reported Monday night that Dudley & Shoe requested that they be permitted to transfer 50 per cent of their interest in property at the southeast corner of First and Cotanche Streets to the partners of John C. Proctor & Co.

Laney said that if the Commission gave its approval, Dudley & Shoe would sell 50 per cent interest to the CPA firm at the same price rate paid to the Redevelopment Commission in 1968 when the property was purchased, plus taxes and interest. No profit would be realized in the transaction, it was explained.

Dudley & Shoe and the John C. Proctor & Co. partners would then build the new office structure jointly and share the one-story facility, according to Laney.

The plans for the development of Parcel 16-B call for an office building containing some 6,656 square feet with parking provided for 26 vehicles. The target date for construction of the new building is June 1 of this year, Dudley & Shoe reported.

The architectural firm, at the time the property was purchased, indicated plans for a two-story structure but the money market and failure of negotiations with prospective tenants were cited by the firm as delaying construction.

According to real estate officer Kirby Boyd, a severance was acquired on Greene Street from the property location of Pugh's Service Station for the widening of the street. Boyd said that one demolition in the Central Business District area, involving the Stallings home on Eighth Street, was handled since the December meeting of the commission.

In the Southside Project, Boyd noted, five parcels were acquired since the last meeting and seven structures were removed. Two of the removals were handled by the Redevelopment Commission and five were disposed of by the city through code enforcement with the structures used by the city for fire training. Dan Sullivan, CBD project manager, said that the Pitt United Fund office was relocated from the North Carolina National Bank building at Five Points to the Utilities Building at the corner of Fifth and Washington Streets.

The northeast alleyway located between Cotanche and Evans Streets and Third and Fourth Streets is now complete, it was reported by deputy director T. I. Wagner, who noted that planting is all that remains for the completion of the northwest alleyway on the west side of Evans Street between Third and Fourth.

Two homeowners and one tenant were relocated from the Southside Project area during December, according to project manager Faye Brevington.

Laney told commissioners that street work by the city in the Newtown area is all that stands in the way of closing out the new housing project. He said that the city work involves the widening of Broad Street as well as the resurfacing of Ridgeway Street and the widening and resurfacing of Short Street. The landscaper has finished his work in Newtown and the completion of street work will allow for the project to be closed out, Laney said.

Worst Crisis Since Great Depression Is Facing New Congress

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 94th Congress, with more Democrats than any in the last 10 years, convened today facing the nation's worst economic crisis since the Great Depression.

The entire House and at least 10 freshmen in the Senate took the oath of office in noontime rituals that included the reelection of House Speaker Carl Albert.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield retained the majority leadership in the Senate.

Some of the members have been here since late December when a few were sworn in privately to gain an edge in seniority.

Thrust into office in the wake of Watergate and severe inflation-recession during the Republican administrations of Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford, this Congress, the most heavily Democratic since 1964, numbers 43 more Democrats in the House and three more in the Senate than the last.

It faces a nation with 7.1 per cent of its people out of work, a total of some 6.5 million persons, and steadily increasing prices which have pushed up the cost of living for Americans more than 12 per cent in a year's time.

Proposed prescriptions for these economic ills have come from President Ford and House Democrats, who advanced proposals Monday for major tax relief this year, thus virtually assuring passage of some form of tax cut.

In addition to the economy, the early business of the new Congress included: —Senate

Rule 22, requiring a two-thirds majority to cut off a filibuster.

—Whether to seat Republican Louis C. Wyman or Democrat John A. Durkin from New Hampshire as the 11th freshman in the Senate.

—An attempt by freshman Democrats in the House to oust one or more of its powerful committee chairmen.

The fight to make it easier to end a filibuster, a hardy perennial, has been unsuccessful in other Congresses considered less liberal than the 94th.

This year, Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and others seek to lower the required majority to end debate to three-fifths.

The dispute over the New Hampshire Senate seat was left up to the entire Senate to settle when the Rules Committee split (Continued on page 10)

Fired Shells At Refugees

By MATT FRANJOLA
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Khmer Rouge gunners shelled a Mekong River convoy loaded with refugees from besieged Neak Luong, killing 26 persons and wounding 42, Cambodian navy sources reported today.

The convoy was carrying more than 250 civilians, most of them women and children. The refugees had left Neak Luong, a naval base and ferry crossing 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. The base has been under siege for two weeks.

The convoy ran through a 15-mile corridor of fire. All the casualties were in one boat which was hit by five 75mm shells.

The insurgent drive has pushed the government forces at Neak Luong into two pockets, one on each side of the Mekong. The government claimed today that its forces on the west bank made a counter-attack and killed 100 insurgents.

Field reports said more than 900 government troops have been sent to reinforce the besieged garrison. Because of Khmer Rouge shelling and the siege of Neak Luong, no supply convoys have been sent up the Mekong from Saigon to Phnom Penh for 25 days. But some diplomatic observers do not believe the insurgents have enough troops around Neak Luong to take the town.

In South Vietnam, heavy fighting continued along the Cambodian border west of Saigon and on South Vietnam's central coastal plain near Bong Son, the Saigon command reported.

The command said 151 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been killed and three armored personnel carriers destroyed by South Vietnamese infantry, air strikes and artillery since an attack before dawn Monday on a government border post 55 miles west of Saigon.

Six government troops have been killed and 35 wounded, the command said.

UTILITIES MEETING
The Utilities Commission will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Utilities Building on Fifth Street. The meeting will be held in the board room on the third floor.

PARCEL DELIVERED

I sent a sewing machine to a repair station in Adams, Mass. in early July, 1973. The company tells me it was never delivered to them. I've tried to find out something from United Parcel Service but made the mistake of giving the man in the Kinston office my receipt, so now I don't have the shipping number or even the exact date. Mrs. J. D.

Hotline used a toll-free number for UPS's tracing department provided by you. We explained the situation to a customer service representative, who looked up the Kinston shipping number and agreed to put a tracer on your shipment with only an approximate date. Only about a week later, Hotline received a photostatic copy of the delivery sheet signed by someone at the sewing machine repair station in Adams. It was dated July 10, 1973. Now, with this proof, perhaps you can prevail on the company to find or replace your sewing machine.

Woman Elected Board Chairman

NEW YORK (AP) — Margaret Bush Wilson says she assumes the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People elected her as its board chairman "because I'm competent and professional."

"My sex and race are accidents of birth," the St. Louis lawyer said in a news conference after her victory Monday. "I take them for granted."

Mrs. Wilson, a 55-year-old divorcee, defeated three men to become the first black woman to chair the civil rights organization in its 65-year history. She is the second woman to head the association. Mary White Ovington, a white woman and a founder of the organization, served as chairman and then acting chairman from 1917 to 1932.

Mrs. Wilson was practically born into the NAACP. When Mrs. Wilson was an infant, her mother, Mrs. James Bush Sr., was on the executive committee of the St. Louis branch of the organization.

Her father was a pioneer St. Louis real estate broker and a leader in the court fight there against restrictive covenants.

After graduation from Talladega College in Talladega, Ala., she earned a law degree at Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo. She followed her mother onto the executive committee of the St. Louis branch and became its first woman president two years later. In 1962 she was named state president of the Missouri NAACP. Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP for the past 25 years, said of Mrs. Wilson's election. "It was not a close vote. It finally became practically unanimous."

Mrs. Wilson said she saw no signs of dissent within the NAACP because of the contest. "It indicates exciting creative tension," she said.

Petroleum Price Manipulation Aimed To Cut Use

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford has proposed to spoil the nation's petroleum appetite with an $18.2 billion price hike, but has threatened oil import quotas if higher prices don't cut demand.

The President's plan drew support from Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, but sharp criticism from some congressional Democrats.

Ford's proposals would increase the price of gasoline and fuel oils around five cents per gallon and the price of natural gas about 37 cents per thousand cubic feet, a 32 per cent increase in the average price of residential gas.

The alternative — direct limits on oil imports — would mean self-imposed oil shortages similar to those imposed last winter by the Arab oil embargo.

Although Ford proposed to return the oil and gas price increases to the public through direct payments and tax credits, Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said the plan would "sock it to the moderate income customer." Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said it would "drive the price still higher for everything oil touches, from heating homes to manufacturing plastics."

Reuss and Church urged direct government limits on oil demand through allocation or even rationing.

Ford said he would use his oil allocation authority to smooth out distribution problems. But he said his proposals, if quickly enacted by Congress, would render unnecessary both fuel rationing and the long service station lines that accompany strict allocation.

Another Ford proposal, to postpone for five years the strict 1977 antipollution standards for automobiles in return for a 40 per cent improvement in fuel economy, drew enthusiasm from spokesmen for the auto industry, which has been urging the postponement.

Ford has already obtained industry commitments to improve average auto mileage from the present 14 miles a gallon to about 20, by 1980, a year and another one million barrels daily by the end of 1977.

There was no immediate reaction from environmental groups, but the proposal was virtually certain to anger them. Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who authored the auto standards, has opposed the five-year delay.

Administration sources said further energy proposals would be announced Wednesday in the President's State of the Union address, but the program was clearly keyed to shifting demand from oil and natural gas to other areas by manipulating prices.

Ford said his goal was to reduce oil imports by one million barrels a day by the end of this

An administration source said this did not mean an absolute reduction from the nation's present oil consumption, but rather holding future consumption one million barrels below the levels it would otherwise reach.

Ford said his proposals would seek to encourage expansion of energy utilities by special provisions for business investment tax credits.

Ford also said stronger measures would be needed to speed the development of domestic coal, geothermal power, solar energy and nuclear power, but he offered no details.

Hanoi Is Charged With Cease-Fire Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States says recent heavy fighting in South Vietnam appears "to reflect a decision by Hanoi to seek once again to impose a military solution in Vietnam."

The United States formally accused North Vietnam of grave violations of the 1973 cease-fire in a note released Monday.

"The Democratic Republic of Vietnam must accept the full consequences of its action," the note warned without elaboration.

U.S. officials, including President Ford, have expressed concern about the situation since last week's fall of the provincial capital of Phouc Binh.

The officials have indicated the administration may ask Congress for massive military and economic aid for Saigon. But they have ruled out a re-entry of American troops.

The protest note was the third since the Jan. 2, 1973 peace agreement. The North Vietnamese have similarly charged U.S. violations, most recently in carrying on reconnaissance flights over its territory.

The U.S. note was addressed to the Soviet Union, the People's Republic of China, Britain, France, Hungary, Poland, Indonesia, Iran and United Nations' Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, as guarantors of the Paris agreement under which U.S. troops were withdrawn from Southeast Asia.

It included an eight-point bill of particulars against North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, charging the agreement had been ignored in virtually all its provisions.

The note said an escalation of fighting since early December has brought "the level of casualties and destruction back up to what it was before the agreement."

Some Car Sales Result In Discount Promotion

By The Associated Press
Chrysler dealers throughout the nation report some new car sales and increasing showroom traffic on the first day of Chrysler's price discount promotion.

"Somebody had to get the ball rolling and finally they realized it all starts in the showroom," Lewis Palombi, sales manager at Fiermonti Chrysler-Plymouth in Lemoyne, Pa., said Monday.

Not all the customers were after the cars eligible for a discount under the Chrysler "Car Clearance Carnival."

"I was a little dubious until we got into it, but it looks good," a St. Louis Chrysler sales manager said Monday after selling three cars before noon.

"Our inventory is so high, we need the sales," he added.

The five-week Chrysler plan offers a rebate to customers buying selected models. This week the automaker also is offering an additional $100 to buyers who trade in a subcompact Ford Pinto or Chevrolet Vega.

The current $200 rebate is good for the purchase of a Dodge Dart Swinger or Plymouth Duster. The Duster carries a sticker price ranging from $3,243 to $3,979. Swingers list between $3,341 and $3,640.

Non-Chrysler dealers generally are watching the promotion closely.

"We haven't had any great reaction to it yet," said Bob Snyder, general sales manager at Roy O'Brien Ford in Detroit. "Of course, it's too soon to know, really."

"We've had a couple of calls on it, to see if Ford was going to do anything like Chrysler. But I can't say we've sold any cars today because of the Chrysler promotion."

Chrysler's campaign was an effort to unload an inventory of unsold new cars which would take an estimated 130 days to sell. A 60-day supply of cars is considered adequate.

Syria Gives Financial Backer King Faisal A Big Welcome

By NICK LUDINGTON
Associated Press Writer
The Syrian regime staged a tumultuous welcome at Damascus Airport today for King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, a major source of financial support for its confrontation with Israel.

Doves of peace flew through puffs of white smoke from a 21-gun salute as Faisal arrived with his brother and heir apparent, Prince Fahd, who is his interior minister. They drove into Damascus with President Hafez Assad along a 20-mile route lined with hundreds of thousands of cheering Syrians.

Faisal will spend four days in Syria, conferring with Assad and visiting military installations. Then he visits King Hussein in Jordan and President Anwar Sadat in Egypt.

Arab diplomats said the king may also meet guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat, the head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, to complete his chain of contacts with all adversaries of Israel who are scheduled to benefit from Saudi Arabia's oil billions.

Arafat in an interview published today complained that while the Arab oil states are investing heavily in the United States and Europe, his guerrillas don't have enough money to buy new boots for the winter.

The PLO chief said January was a crucial month for U.S. peacemaking efforts. "There will either be a partial settlement by the end of the month.

Otherwise new cards will be dealt," he warned.

In Cairo, U.S. Embassy officials said Ambassador Hermann Eilts has been recalled to Washington for consultations. The ambassador left Sunday, the officials said, but declined to give further details.

Eilts' stay in Washington, his first in more than a year, coincides with a visit by Israeli Foreign Minister Yigal Allon to the U.S. capital. Allon is scheduled to meet Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Israeli gunners shelled southern Lebanon for the fourth day, and angry villagers stormed the district military headquarters in Marjoun to demand better protection. The police fired in the air and used rubber truncheons to drive the mob off, and several villagers were injured.

No casualties were reported in the shelling.

Moose Prepare For Blood Bank

O.J. Smith, project chairman for the forthcoming visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in Greenville January 20-21, last night described to members of the fraternity preparatory steps being taken for that visit.

Hours for the Bloodmobile visit at the Greenville Moose Lodge next Monday will be from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and on Tuesday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Smith urged the members to enlist their families and friends to contribute to support of the blood bank program.

A speaker, J.L. Browder, for the evening was introduced by Past-Governor Garland Beddard. Browder is the Community Development Planner for Greenville.

He recalled that in addition to a variety of grants and loans made available to individual governments by the federal government, Greenville's share amounted to $1.9 million annually for three years.

Browder said a task force was compiling, through a series of public hearings, information to make possible decisions for the best community use of this federal money. He urged his listeners to "get involved", to attend the hearings and make known their thinking as to how the money should best be used.

Other business before the meeting included a reminder by Otha Joyner of a dinner-dance planned for February 8; an officers' meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m., and an Enoca Legion Ceremonial at Jacksonville this coming weekend.

Patience Circle Meets Tonight

The Patient Circle of The Kings Daughters will meet on tonight at 7:30 in the ladies parlor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell will present the program "Founder's Day."

The King's Daughters was organized in January, 1886. Hostesses are Mrs. Roy Lokken, Mrs. Milton White, Miss Mary Wells and Mrs. Cora S. Powell.

Controlling Stress Can Lead To Healthier, Happier Life

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Staff Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some families are a bundle of stress. Mom's uptight over the grocery bill. Dad's uptight over his boss, the original Dean of Grouch. And the kids?

They're uptight over grades, in general, and, in particular, trying to extract some cheer from a home full of grumps. As such, the family full of stress is on the brink of other trouble. Handled poorly, stress can contribute to mental and physical illness. Stress even can kill.

But a family knowing how to steer a clear course through the daily stress can come through stronger for the experience.

"One of the most common problems—one of the commonest conditions, if you will—that attacks all of us, at all ages, is stress," says Walter J. McNeerney, president of Blue Cross Association.

"Almost everybody thinks he or she knows what stress is. But relatively few of us really do understand it, recognize what it does within our bodies and know how to control it, live with it and make it work for us."

The association McNeerney heads went to top authorities on stress and asked them to write a report on it.

The report, "Stress," is available from your local Blue Cross Plan—of which there are 75 in the United States. Four Associate Member Plans are in Canada. There is no charge for the booklet.

"The booklet was not prepared for the physician, the psychologist or other professional in the field of stress — although many of these will find it extremely valuable," McNeerney said.

"It was prepared for the layman—the working man or woman, the housewife, the high school or college student, the retired man or woman and all other kinds of persons of all ages—who want to learn more about a subject that deeply affects the health and happiness of everyone."

McNeerney made these additional points:

WHAT IS STRESS? Stress is your body's physical, mental and chemical reactions to circumstances that frighten, excite, confuse, endanger or irritate you. The cause of stress—the stressor or stressful event—can be good or bad. It can be a car wheeling around the corner toward you; changing to a better job; the birth of a long-wanted baby; too much noise where you work or a host of other things.

STRESS REACTIONS. Some of your stress reactions are so subdued that you are not even aware of them.

Others show themselves clearly in sweaty palms, loss of appetite, heavy breathing, a racing heart. Others are totally unknown to you and not even thought of as stress—such as your body's reaction to invading disease germs.

LIFE WITHOUT STRESS: It is impossible to go through life without stress. And you wouldn't want to. Stress is what prepares you to handle things you are unfamiliar with, or things that appear to threaten you. Handled well, stress is a friend that strengthens us for the next encounter. Handled poorly, or allowed to get out of hand, stress becomes an enemy which can cause disease like high blood pressure, ulcers, rheumatoid arthritis, asthma or an overactive thyroid gland.

Unbridled stress also can contribute heavily to heart disease and the weakening of other organs in the body.

"Every age has its own special stresses—such as the total dependence and frustrations of infancy; the problems of being stranded in adolescence, between childhood and adulthood; the pressures of advancing old age," McNeerney said.

"Stress also comes from many other circumstances—the home, the job, the environment.

Excerpts from some chapters:

DR. LEE SALK, child expert at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center. "Crying is often a stress reaction in babies. Crying is no more good for the lungs than bleeding is for the veins." He disagrees with parents who feel crying is good for a baby.

DR. ROBERT M. COLES, Harvard professor. "The stresses of adolescence are today due not only to biological changes but also because of the prolonged nature of this period in this country as well as the need to make lifelong choices such as the selection of a college or a career." For parents suffering through this period he counsels: "Know how to keep one's distance...how to 'be there' without being especially insistent or inquisitive."

DR. JAMES E. BIRREN, geriatric specialist from the University of California. For the elderly with stresses of their own, Dr. Birren recommends "developing a network of friends and finding a confidant, someone to lean on in times of crises."

DR. CATHERINE S. CHILMAN, psychologist at the University of Wisconsin. For those who regard home as the center of discord, she offers — "It is natural for husbands and wives to be angry with each other some of the time or to be attracted to someone else occasionally or even to wish that their children never had been born."

To stop the onset of a vicious stress cycle, she suggests that parents dismiss from their minds "the ideal and grossly unrealistic image of the perfect family" and not ask the impossible of their youngsters or themselves.

DR. GERALD CAPLAN, Harvard psychiatrist. Signs of a nervous breakdown include the loss of ability to interpret reality, a feeling of isolation, periods of acute depression or elation, incomprehensible talk and bursts of violent activity—all conditions which, if they persist for more than a few weeks, could warrant the attention of a physician or a mental health expert.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

The meeting on Tooth Fairy Price Controls was called when Buster Ormstead, age 7, bragged he got $2.50 for a central incisor and 40 second graders started punching one another in the mouth trying to raise enough money for a field trip to Disneyland.

The riot on the playground only triggered the meeting. Parents have seen it coming for some time now... the gradual rise in money for used teeth. First, a penny, then a fat nickel, a shiny dime, a new silver dollar and finally a personal check with a note attached begging, "Do not cash until after the 15th."

About 40 of us met the other night in Ralph Ormstead's living room. "I called this meeting," he explained, "because I feel responsible for what happened today on the playground. Since noon I have tried to contact President Ford and several members of his cabinet. The only one who responded was Earl Butz who had an amusing story about a Tooth Fairy who went into a swinging singles bar and ordered a drink for a talking dog."

"You can share that with us after the formal meeting," Ralph, said a voice.

"Right. Before we talk about price control as a way of establishing a stable tooth economy, I think we should know that kind of figures we are dealing with." He passed out a mimeographed paper for us to study.

One Tooth
Toothpaste to clean one tooth for life—$200.00
Dental Floss—$175.00
Mouthwash to cleanse

mouth—$225.00
Braces and retainers to straighten tooth—$1,632.00
Sugar to coat tooth (subject to increase as we sit here)—$3,674.00
Dental maintenance—2,000.00
Tooth Fairy—2.50
TOTAL—$7,908.50

"Multiply that by 20 primary teeth that eventually fall out and you have a total of $158,170," said Ralph.

The entire room fell silent as each of us absorbed the cost of subsidizing a child's mouth. "Maybe we can market the teeth and recoup some of our losses," said Charlie.

The way things have been going lately, I wouldn't be surprised if Russia owned the gums.

Contact Credit Bureau For Aid

DEAR ABBY: How does one go about clearing up a bad credit rating?

We have been married for five years and every time we apply for credit, we are turned down because my husband made a bad credit record for himself before we were married.

When we were first married, he was making about $5,000 a year. Now, through hard work and a lot of determination, we are making about $30,000 a year. Money is no problem. We are even saving.

Is there any way we can clear up this bad credit record which keeps coming back to haunt us? REFORMED

DEAR REFORMED: First you must find a merchant who is willing to extend credit to you in spite of your past record. (Each merchant has his own credit policies, and to qualify you must meet his standards.) Once your new account has been opened, you can establish a favorable ledger which can be added to your credit file. Your local credit bureau can give you more detailed information. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I recently began an affair with my ex-husband. We've been divorced for five years and have two children, but I never stopped loving him.

We met to discuss the children a few months ago, and I had to admit that the old magic was still there because after he kissed me just once, I was helpless to resist him.

We were divorced because I caught him cheating on me several times. He admitted that he had a weakness for other women that he couldn't overcome, and being a highly moral woman, I couldn't tolerate it.

A year ago, I married a fine older man. He's wonderful to me and the children but he is impotent, and all efforts to correct it have failed.

For some strange reason I don't feel guilty about carrying on with my "ex." I almost feel that under the circumstances I am justified. What's wrong with me? I'm basically a very moral person. What should I do? FIRST LOVE

DEAR FIRST: You can't have it both ways. If sex is that important to you, perhaps you'd better divorce your husband and re-marry your "ex."

To continue this adulterous affair without guilt feelings indicates that you are not the "moral woman" you claim to be.

Infidelity is not justified under any circumstances, be it your ex-husband's weakness for other women, or your present husband's impotence.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Careerists Give BPW Club Program

Three "Young Careerists" spoke to the Greenville Business and Professional Women Thursday evening.

The three were Sarah B. Lassiter, librarian at Chicod School; Peggy Cox Sawyer, interior designer at Larry's Carpetland; and Pell Pickett Fulp, chairman of the math department at E. B. Aycock School.

Each of them told about her career before three judges who will pick a Young Careerist representative of the club, to be announced later.

BPW members will attend the 20th Annual Spotlight on Women Conference in Chapel Hill March 1.

Must Be An Acceptable Answer

Nobody really wants to see a gaping swath cut through the center of Greenville following the path of Green Mill Run; yet it is obvious that something must be done to the meandering stream if dangerous flooding in heavily populated areas of the city is to be avoided.

At this stage, though, there seems to be a stalemate among bickering council members which could result in nothing being done until disaster strikes.

The council found itself unable to take any action on a U. S. Corp of Engineers request for reaffirmation of the city's desire to go through with the project as outlined by the corps.

Members of the council objected to the Corps of Engineers plan for cutting back trees along the mill run and widening the run. We find such a radical plan objectionable, too. Still we remember some major floods along the path of the mill run during heavy rains a few years back. Commercial properties had been developed along Greenville Boulevard and development of university property south of Charles Street were contributing to the runoff.

Since then there have been still further paved parking areas developed around the Allied Health building. The five-laned Charles Boulevard has been constructed and opened (here a two lane highway with ditches has been replaced with a five lane curbed boulevard, which will mean far more runoff).

It is easy to see that a deluge such as we have experienced at times could mean a disastrous flood on Green Mill Run.

There must be an answer that will be acceptable to the city. Certainly it is desirable for the Corps of Engineers to participate in the work, rather than the city having to perhaps bear the full cost at some time in the future.

Possibly it is time for the council members to stop scrapping among themselves and get down to finding solid solutions for the problems of Green Mill Run. Perhaps the city engineers can consult with the Corps of Engineers representatives and come up with a plan that will be acceptable to all. It's going to be too late to wring our hands when a flood disaster strikes. We need to find a compromise solution and we need to do it now.

Noses Thumbed At Efforts

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The state may legislate, appropriate, even dictate.

But when local agencies thumb their noses in response, there's little a state official can do.

And there is, members of the Legislative Commission on Children With Special Needs determined, a great deal of nose thumbing going on from local schools, and from local human service agencies such as health departments, social services, and mental health units across the state.

So severe is that local refusal to implement required programs that this "may well be at the very heart of the problem in North Carolina," the commission has concluded.

The answers put forth in legislative recommendations drawn up by the commission have far-reaching implications for government in North Carolina.

Two proposals—one fully spelled out in a report to be given members of the General Assembly, the other thoroughly discussed and barely hinted at in the report—are considered by commission members as revolutionary in scope:

Fund Cutoff
1. That the state secretaries of Human Resources and of Public Education be given the power to cut off all state money to local school boards, health boards, social service departments, etc., if they fail to provide required services.

2. That conflicting and often competing local boards supervising human services be merged into one comprehensive Human Resources Board—with a corresponding reorganization of agencies involved such as health, welfare, mental health, etc.

Such sweeping change—and other recommendations included in the commission report—are not apt to come without a bitter struggle. The commission, chaired by State Senator Lamar Gudger and State Rep. B. D. Schwartz, attempted to nail down figures on just how extensive the local refusal to go along with state programs is.

In public schools, where state law requires that all children be served regardless of any special learning disability, handicap, mental or emotional problem, or exceptional brightness, the commission found 45,513 children with known special needs on waiting lists.

Currently, some 116,000 children are in special school programs—but the commission found that the teachers overwhelmingly are not certified to be teaching in those special areas: 90.6 per cent of teachers of gifted and talented not certified; 76.7 per cent of teachers working with physically handicapped not certified; 72.7 per cent of teachers in visually handicapped classes not certified.

Intolerable
"This is an intolerable condition which cannot be allowed to continue," the commission states in the report.

As to human resources program shortfalls, the report says glumly: "Attempting to answer the question . . . is virtually impossible . . . any coherent data is notable by its absence."

Running through the work of the commission over the past two years has been a central theme of local agencies competing for a mish-mash of local, state, and federal funds while children run into fragmented services while agencies fail to communicate or cooperate in providing needed services and troubled children "fall through the cracks," frustrated by eligibility rules.

A sweeping array of legislative proposals are embraced in the current report of legislative recommendations, including language making it clear that state law setting up the policy that every child is assured a full opportunity applies equally to schools and to all human services agencies; that responsible state officials be required to work together in drawing up a comprehensive plan; that a statewide census of children with special needs be an ongoing program; and that a look be taken at the hodge-podge of mental health, vocational rehab, school, and other service districts.

Over-riding all, however, is the commission condemnation of the disarray of agencies, and lack of state clout to enforce programs.

Pointing directly at members of the General Assembly, the commission report says, "heretofore there has been no legislative attempt to hold local providers accountable to a central agency, nor to hold a central agency accountable to the General Assembly (which) has been remiss in exercising its responsibility . . . to ascertain who is doing what to whom and at what cost . . ."

As it is, says staff advisor Ray Shurling, state officials can only "argue, encourage, plead, and cajole with local schools and agencies who can and do tell them to stick it in their ears."

"Come in! It's high time I gave you a good ol' shot in the arm!"

The Best And The Worst

In the current issue of Harper's, Arthur M. Louis undertakes to measure American cities by a series of statistical yardsticks. By his appraisal, Seattle is the "best" American city, closely followed by Tulsa, San Diego and San Jose. At the very bottom of the list lies Newark, which is "without serious challenge the worst of all."

Louis, an associate editor of Fortune magazine, limited his analysis to the 50 largest cities. He compared them in 24 areas, including crime rates, health levels, education, affluence, and "amenities." As he himself emphasizes, some of his figures are several years old, and even the very best statistics may tell us little about the vitality and excitement of a city.

Acknowledging these limitations, Louis nevertheless raises some provocative questions. Why is it that some cities are good in terms of murder, robbery, and rape, and some cities are bad? Is this a purely statistical phenomenon, the result of the reported figures? Or do the statistics reflect differences in race, age, or the efficiency of police?

Why are such cities as San Francisco and St. Paul good in terms of infant mortality, and such cities as Dallas and St. Louis bad? Is it civic leadership that has produced good parks in Buffalo and poor libraries in Rochester? On a per capita basis, Miami ranks among the best cities in "places of amusement and recreation." Jacksonville ranks near the bottom.

Plainly, some of the statistical ratings are a function of income levels. San Jose is the most affluent of our major cities, its crime rates are low and its housing good. Yet San Jose ranks near the bottom in terms of medical practitioners, hotel and motel rooms, and places of amusement.

Selling NATO Is Next

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is intensifying its sales pitch to four NATO nations, now that the Pentagon has decided on the 1,500-mile-an-hour YF16 as the Air Force's new lightweight plane.

A 16-man team of Pentagon and State Department officials is in Brussels prepared to deal with Belgian, Dutch, Norwegian and Danish authorities who are shopping for 350 planes to replace their aging U.S.-built F104s.

The climax in a nearly three-year competition came late Monday when the Pentagon announced that the General Dynamics Corp.'s YF16 jet had been chosen over the Northrop Corp.'s YF17 for full-scale development as the Air Force's lightweight air combat fighter.

However, Northrop signaled in a statement that it probably will continue the competition by trying to sell its plane abroad even though that runs against U.S. efforts to standardize equipment used by NATO.

Defense officials have predicted that eventual sales of the U.S. lightweight fighter around the world could total 3,000 planes worth up to $15 billion to $20 billion.

The U.S. Air Force plans to buy at least 650 of the new fighters, which are intended to complement more sophisticated and more costly warplanes like the F15.

Secretary of the Air Force John L. McLucas said the YF16 showed, in the course of six months of intensive flight testing, that it is superior to the YF17 at supersonic speeds in such key characteristics as agility, acceleration and endurance.

He also said the YF16 would be about 8 per cent cheaper than the YF17, in part because it would use an engine now in production for the F15.

Defense ministers and experts of the four NATO countries have been courted for months by both the Pentagon and the French Defense Ministry, which is pushing Mirage's

The INSIDE REPORT

Did Colby Move Too Fast?

By ROWLANE EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—The instantaneous decision of CIA director William Colby to fire counterintelligence chief James Angleton the moment Angleton came under fire from the New York Times caused consternation and worry about its impact on the Central Intelligence Agency at the highest levels of the Ford administration.

Contrary to rumors, Colby's abrupt ouster of Angleton was strictly his decision. Neither President Ford nor Secretary of State Henry Kissinger played the slightest role.

Indeed, there was shock in high government circles outside the CIA at the implications of Colby's quick decision. Even if the charges against Angleton's use of CIA's counterintelligence section for internal security purposes prove accurate, they fear Angleton's ouster could further corrode morale inside the embattled CIA. The three top Angleton aides who quit in protest to his sacking provide tangible confirmation.

President Ford's high command is worried by the potential disaster to U.S.

intelligence capability and damage to policymaking if the CIA's men believe they will be sacrificed to public demands for blood.

Whatever sin the secretive, super-suspicious Angleton may have committed, his summary dismissal even before judicious investigation of the charges against him may create just such a climate of fear inside CIA. "If those boys get scared and start jumping ship," one high administration official outside the CIA told us, "every secret in the agency may be up for grabs by the media. If they see a witch-hunt coming they may want to save their own skins by quitting and spilling the beans."

That partially explains the pronounced conservative establishment bias on the President's blue-ribbon commission to investigate the agency. It was deliberately set in a conservative mold to reassure the CIA that no witchhunt is in store.

A footnote: former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, a member of the blue-ribbon panel, was typically the very first to submit a request for full travel and expense allowances for the staff he wants to bring with him to Washington. As the favorite campaigner for conservative Republicans, Reagan's travel bills for himself and his large entourage consistently left his hosts bugged.

If Vice President Nelson Rockefeller has his way, the two top staff jobs on the President's Domestic Council will be filled by two senior Rockefeller aides during his last term as governor of New York: James Cannon, his agent and lobbyist in Washington, and Richard L. Public Forum

To the editor:

A church was in need of a pastor, and solicited applications. One of the deacons interested in knowing just what kind of a minister they desired wrote a letter, as if he had received it from an applicant, and then read it before the pulpit committee.

"Understanding that your pulpit is vacant, I should like to apply for the position. I have many qualifications I think you would appreciate. My religious and theological training was received from the best theologians. Academically I have made my mark. I preach with power and have had some success as a writer. Some say that I am a good organizer. I have been a leader in most places I have gone.

I am nearly 50 years of age. I have never preached in one place more than three years. In some places I have been driven out of town, after my work caused riots and disturbances. I have to admit that I have been in jail three or four times, but not because of any real wrong doing. The churches I have preached in have for the most part been small, though located in several large cities. I have not gotten along too well with the religious leaders in the towns where I have preached. In fact, some have threatened me and even attacked me physically. I am not too good at keeping records. I have even been known to forget whom I baptized. However, if you can use me, I shall do my best for you, even if I have to work to help with my support."

After reading the letter, the deacon asked the committee members if they were interested in the applicant. They replied emphatically that he would never do for their church. They were not interested in any contentions, trouble-making, absent-minded, ex-jailbird; in fact, they felt insulted that his application had even been presented. The committee then asked the name of the applicant—whereupon the deacon answered: "The Apostle Paul."

Why The Turnabout Of Policy?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — On the eve of a momentous change in economic policy, one of the most abrupt on record, some disquieting questions linger about the reasons why.

Just a few weeks ago there was considerable support within the administration for continuing to depress economic activity, the reasoning being that inflation was the No. 1 problem.

The Federal Reserve Board shared that outlook and responded by squeezing activity out of the money market, through the medium of high interest rates discouraging both individuals and businesses from borrowing.

It succeeded. To a very large degree the plunge taken by the economy in the fourth quarter of 1974, marked by a 7.1 jobless rate in December, was a direct result of administration and Federal Reserve policy.

The question: Why couldn't it have foreseen the results of the policy when those results were just around the corner beyond which all economic brains are constantly peering? The lesson to be learned is either of two possibilities — that it is the nature of modern economies to lurch ahead and then all but expire, or that the people who lead modern economies really can't handle them.

And that brings up the next question: What assurance do we have that a tax cut and other stimulants won't some time in the next year provide the fuel for another destructive encounter with inflation? The best assurance there is that it will not is that the impact of the previous miscalculation still has so far to go. That is, no matter what is done now, the economy will continue downward for months more.

As First National City Bank puts it in its monthly economic letter, released Monday: "Further decline is so strongly programmed into the economy . . . that it would require gargantuan policy measures to forestall it."

Only by 1976, it believes, "will the fruits of the reversal be clearly evident in the form of a declining unemployment rate, strongly rising sales and improved profits."

In the meantime, the worst recession since the great depression will continue to throw people out of work, threaten the financial stability of corporations and otherwise strangle economic activity.

And if you believe the past is a criterion, the ingredients for the next spasm of the economy, the next boom and bust, are beginning to ferment.

In a strictly mechanical sense, the cutting of taxes should provide economic stimulus. But who really knows what the people of the United States will do with that money? If only they behaved mechanically.

The assumption being made about human behavior is that given a sum of money an individual will spend it. But he might not. So alarmed is he about the future that he might just bury it in a safe-deposit box.

A certain amount of the money undoubtedly must be spent in order to survive, and that will stimulate economic activity. But human behavior has befuddled the economists before. Some people probably will salt it away.

LOOKING ONE WAY

Every person who drives an automobile is irritated and alarmed by the way in which children, intent on their play, sometimes run suddenly out into the street oblivious of the traffic. If they pay any attention to it all, they usually only look one way and fail to notice the traffic coming from the opposite direction.

This habit of looking only one way is not only characteristic of youth, but can often be seen in older people as well. How many young people have made a snap judgment to drop out of school after looking only one way at the traffic of life. How many businessmen have been equally hasty and ill-advised in starting a business without adequate preparation.

Standing on the curb and looking carefully at dangers and problems coming from all directions might take a little more time, but it is the only way to insure a safe passage across the street. There is a word for this way of meeting life's problems—maturity.

Snowstorm Victims Describe Ordeals And Their Survival

By JAMES W. KOFSKI
Associated Press Writer
BROOKINGS, S.D. (AP) — Richard Bielski says his only nourishment during the 40 hours he was trapped in his snowbound car was frost he scraped from the windshield and some candies he had in the vehicle.

"I spaced them out because I had no idea how long I'd be there," the former Minnehaha County state's attorney said Monday from his hospital bed here.

Bielski, whose legs were frozen, was trapped in his car late Friday when it slid from Interstate 29 some 35 miles north of Sioux Falls and into five feet of snow. The Sioux Falls man said he could not open the doors of his car and that when the battery of his car went dead several hours later he was unable to open the automatic windows.

"I was sitting in the car with very little oxygen," Bielski said. "I don't know how I ever made it. Only the good Lord knows...."

"I was just praying with every bit of prayer I have in my body to save my legs," he said. "They were just frozen solid. The doctors are fearful of saving my lower limbs."

Bielski said three livestock truckers rescued him Sunday afternoon when they saw him waving through a peephole he had scraped through the frost on the inside of the vehicle.

The truckers hailed a passing motorist who drove Bielski to Brookings.

The winter snowstorm that caught Bielski also brought two 19-year-olds, David Archer of Sioux Falls and Julie Williams of Round Lake, Minn., together in another episode that almost ended in death.

Archer was driving a van on Interstate 90 west of Sherburn, Minn., Friday evening when he stopped to avoid Miss Williams' storm-stalled car.

She climbed into his van, but his vehicle got stuck.

Although his vehicle was not equipped for camping, his mother, Maureen Archer, said he was carrying a sleeping bag, a wool blanket and a quilt. Both he and Miss Williams were wearing snowmobile suits.

Mrs. Archer said her son kept the van's motor running intermittently until 5 a.m. Saturday, when he ran out of gas. A thermometer in the vehicle registered zero.

The two huddled together in the sleeping bag and rubbed each other's feet to keep the circulation going. They survived the cold without frostbite. Their only food was two cans of soup, a loaf of bread and some honey.

Mrs. Archer said the two slept alternately, but both had dozed off when a highway crew found them about 6 a.m. Sunday and pried open the frozen doors.

"It is a lucky thing that those men came by when they did because I don't think they would have awakened, ever," Mrs. Archer said.

What about Newark? By Louis's indices, "it ranked among the worst five cities in no fewer than nineteen of the twenty-four categories, and it was dead last in nine of them." More precisely, Newark was the "worst" city in terms of robberies, infant mortality, home ownership, telephone installations, college graduates, high school graduates, Who's Who listings, parks, and places of amusement.

Is this dismal picture solely a function of Newark's racial characteristics? In 1970, Newark was 54.2 percent Negro. But Atlanta was 51.2 percent black and New Orleans 45 percent black. Neither of the great Southern cities appears to suffer Newark's problems.

It may be that Louis used the wrong yardsticks. According to his statistics, the nation's ten "worst" cities, in addition to Newark, are San Antonio, Norfolk, Cleveland, Jacksonville, Birmingham, Baltimore, Detroit, Chicago, and St. Louis. I have visited all of them in the past couple of years. San Antonio and Jacksonville have done great things with their waterfronts. Baltimore is in the midst of an exciting renaissance. If I have a favorite city in the country, it could well be Chicago.

Admittedly, Louis had to draw a line somewhere. He drew it at the 50 largest cities (he did not use standard metropolitan areas). The result was to exclude such charming cities as Providence, Hartford, Richmond, and on down the line, Savannah and Charleston. He had to leave out Tucson, Sacramento, Madison, Fresno, and Fort Lauderdale. One of the nicest cities in the land is Peoria, Ill., but it ranks 112th in population.

No traveler would knock Louis's top ten: Seattle, Tulsa, San Diego, San Jose, Honolulu, Portland, Denver, Minneapolis, Oklahoma City, and Omaha. These are first-rate cities. But no cities match San Francisco and New York in sheer vitality, and in my book, at least, none surpasses Washington in beauty. Then "ten best" and "ten worst" can't really be measured. Somewhere in Newark, we may be certain, a stubborn voice will be heard, loyally contending that Newark, with all its faults, remains the best of all.

J.F. Havens, company president, said that this program is less than had been planned earlier because of declining housing starts and an expected lower growth rate of telephones.

Construction expenditures will be monitored closely, Havens said, and will be increased when there is evidence of a return to more normal growth rates.

The budget represents an investment of about $234,000 for each working day of the year.

The United Telephone System, third largest in the country, of which Carolina Telephone is a member, will invest $340 million for new facilities during the year in 21 states.

The largest item in the Carolina Company's 1975 growth program will be additions to local and long distance outside plant facilities throughout the company's area, which will

Undelivered Tax Refunds Await

GREENSBORO—Undelivered income tax refund checks totalling nearly $276,000.00 await claim by 1,866 North Carolina taxpayers, Robert A. LeBaube, District Director of Internal Revenue Service for North Carolina, said.

This represents an average of almost $148.00 for each claimant, LeBaube said.

Any taxpayer who has not yet received his refund from previous years should call or visit his local IRS office for information regarding claim procedure. The check will be reissued. State taxpayers may call toll-free 1-800-822-8800.

The most common reason for an undelivered refund check, according to LeBaube, is that the taxpayer has moved and left no forwarding address with the U. S. Postal Service. Some refunds may have been delayed because of errors or omissions on tax returns.

In claiming an undelivered refund, the taxpayer should be prepared to provide the name and address as it appeared on the return, the actual name and address if different, the social security number(s) and the type of form filed.

Economist Says 'Spend The Tax Refund Money'

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)

Any tax refund as proposed by President Ford will have to be paid for with a future tax increase, but Americans should still spend the money rather than save it, says the Bank of America's top economist.

"There are no free rides," Walter E. Hoadley, executive vice president of the world's largest commercial bank, said in a speech before a civic group Monday.

"When we turn the corner, let's be prepared to pay for it with higher taxes," Hoadley told the Comstock Club. "It may take one tax cut or two to make people feel better."

Hoadley predicted a tax increase would be "roughly comparable" to the anticipated cut, but he added, "If inflation bubbles up, it might have to be twice as much."

Any tax reduction will be useless if the money isn't spent, Hoadley said — "If you need something and you can afford it, for heaven's sake buy it."

The economist also said: — The U.S. economy will hit bottom and start to rebound "this fall, unless we blow it, and it won't be far below where we are."

—The inflation rate will be about 9 per cent this year, compared with a 1974 level of about 12 per cent.

—The economy "is still exceedingly strong, compared with the past and compared with the rest of the world."

"But we're not only in a recession economically, we're in a depression as far as human psychology is concerned."

"There's a tendency to postpone, to liquidate, to write off 1975 as a disaster. We can't afford to write off any year, least of all this year."

"But we're an impatient people, looking for quick and simple answers. If it took us 30 years to build an inflationary bias in our economy, it's not going to go away overnight."

F1. McLucas told a news conference late Monday that a final proposal has not yet been made to the NATO consortium and that the European decision is expected within 90 days.

McLucas indicated the Europeans could expect to pay about the same price as the U.S. Air Force for the new air combat fighter.

The Air Force price, counting research and development costs, works out to about $6.7 million a plane, he said. If the price was based on "fly-away" cost; without research and development, it would come to about $4.6 million.

Mutilate, Slay 25 Hostages

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Moslem rebels mutilated and killed 25 hostages at a logging camp in southwestern Mindanao after negotiations for their release broke down, the Defense Department said today.

Unofficial sources said the slain hostages were Christian employees of the lumber company.

TERMITES OR ANTS?

Don't be half sure. Call a professional pest control operator for an inspection today. The potential damage to property from termites can exceed the damage from tornadoes, hurricanes and fire. This is why termite protection is as important as a homeowner's insurance policy.

Rampants Rally By Gryphons

By WOODY PEELE

 ROCKY MOUNT—Rose High School shook off a poor three quarters and used a fine finish to capture their first Division I game of the season, downing Rocky Mount, 68-61.

The game, originally scheduled for tonight in Greenville, was switched in both time and place to accommodate Rocky Mount, which begins mid-term examinations on Wednesday. The second meeting of the two, originally set for Rocky Mount, will now be held in Greenville.

The win raised the Rampant record to 8-4 overall, and gave them a 1-0 mark in Division I play.

Rose, which shot poorly throughout the first three periods, hitting only 22 of 58 shots from the floor, got hot in the final period to push ahead and hold the lead the rest of the way. Rose converted on eight of 12 shots from the floor during the period to offset the Rocky Mount effort.

"We didn't know in time to practice on Saturday," Coach Wilson McDowell said, "and not having a ball in our hands between this game and Friday night's was obvious." Rocky Mount, he noted, had been informed in time to hold a Saturday practice.

Both teams held the lead at various points in the game, Rose by as much as seven prior to moving out to a nine-point spread just before the end. Rocky Mount led several times by as much as four points.

Rose came back to slip back in front on baskets by Shields and Brewington early in the third period, 36-35. But baskets by Shields and Brewington early in the third period, 36-35. But baskets by Shields and Brewington early in the third period, 36-35.

Rose jumped out into the early lead, despite a 2-0 and 4-2 Rocky Mount margin. Rose tied it up on a jumper by Tyrone Taft with 5:42 left, and then ran off five more points before Rocky Mount could score again. A free throw by Mike Brewington and baskets by Donie Shields and Taft ran it to 9-4.

Late in the period, the Rampants pushed it to its biggest spread, 15-8, on a fast break basket by Macon Moye. Jarvis Moore hit for the Gryphons with 10 seconds left, however, to cut it to 15-10 at the horn.

After the two teams swapped shots in the opening minutes of the second period, Rocky Mount ran off six straight points to cut the lead to one. Down, 19-12, they got moving. Charlie Lewis got two at the line, and Moore hit a turnaround jumper. Kenneth Bulluck hit from underneath to clip the lead to one. Rose held it, however, throughout most of the period.

With 1:08 left, however, Doug Henley hit a baseline jumper to put Rocky Mount into a 29-28 lead. He added a free throw for a 30-28 lead, but Rose tied it up twice more before the half ended with the Gryphons holding a 34-32 lead.

Rose added baskets by Lindberg Morris (2) and Ronnie Barrett to run the lead out to 60-53. Rocky Mount cut it back to three, but Rose pulled away again, moving out to as much as a 68-59 lead before one final Gryphon basket.

Taft led the Rose scoring with 14 points, while Barrett had 12 and Brewington hit 10. Rocky Mount was led by Bulluck with 13, while Moore had 11 and Lewis hit 10.

Rocky Mount won the junior varsity game, 70-65, holding off a late Rampant charge. Rocky Mount took a 15-10 lead after one period and held to that margin at the half, 36-31, as both teams hit 21 in the second frame.

Rocky Mount outshot Rose, 16-15, in the third period, but Rose came back with a 19-18 final period to hold that same five point edge. Rose had closed to within one point in the final period, but missed on several shots that might have put them ahead.

Darryl Joydan led Rocky Mount with 15, while Leander Jones had 14, James Randall had 12, Lindon Willis had 11 and Dennis Coit had 10. Rose was led by Derek Brewington with 21, Jeff Barber with 15, Herb Oliver with 14 and Mike Adams with 10.

The Rampants will host Bertie Senior High on Friday night.

Rampants Win Another Match

ELIZABETH CITY—Rose High School's wrestling team claimed another victory last night, boosting its Division I record to 4-0. The Rampants won the final three weight classes to outdistance Northeastern, 40-21.

The match had been close to that point, but the final three came on two pins and a forfeit that gave Rose 18 points and enough to easily take the victory.

Rose won eight of the matches, taking four by pins, plus the forfeit. One decision was a major one. Of Northeastern five wins, two were by pins. That kept the match tight until the 187-pound class when Rose pulled away for good. Going into that weight, the Rampants held only a 22-21 lead.

The victory boosted the overall record to 11-1. The Rampants will play host to Rocky Mount on Thursday at 6 p.m.

Gil Joy led Oakmont with 26, while John Toler had 12 and Bob Goodel had 11. Wayne Brown led Hyman's with 26, with Linwood Hyman adding 16.

Alice Costin hit 12 points to lead Conley and was the only player in double figures.

In the boys' game, Conley ran out to an 11-4 lead in the first period, but found the going tougher after that. Greene Central outscored them, 13-11, in the second period, and cut the lead back to 21-17 at the half.

The Rams used their defense to hold the Vikings to only seven points in the third period, while they ran off 16 of their own, pushing into a 33-28 lead going into the final period. Conley fought back, and with five seconds left, Calvin Hawkins got loose for a shot, which was batted out, but goaltending was called, giving Conley the 41-39 victory.

Melvin Williams led Conley with 15, while Rick Mobley hit 10. Jerry Carraway led Greene Central with 16.

Conley Slips By Rams, 41-39

SNOW HILL—Greene Central's Rams, known as the best defensive team in the area proved it to D.H. Conley's Eastern Carolina Conference leaders last night, but the Vikings were able to escape with a 41-39 victory.

Greene Central captured the junior varsity game, 62-35, and took the girls' contest, 29-23.

In the girls' game, Greene Central moved out into a 12-4 lead in the first period. They outdid the Valkyries, 8-6, in the second frame, for a 20-10 halftime lead.

Conley came back with a 4-2 margin in the third, making it 22-14. Conley again outdid the Ewes, 9-7, but it wasn't enough.

Alice Costin hit 12 points to lead Conley and was the only player in double figures.

In the boys' game, Conley ran out to an 11-4 lead in the first period, but found the going tougher after that. Greene Central outscored them, 13-11, in the second period, and cut the lead back to 21-17 at the half.

Paladins Top Wilson Tech

WILSON—Pitt Technical Institute avenged an earlier defeat last night with a 78-74 victory over Wilson Tech.

Wilson jumped away to a 2-0 lead as Coach Charles Coburn started his second unit. But after a few minutes, he inserted his regulars, who ran off 13 straight points to take a 13-2 lead over Wilson.

Wilson edged back, however, finally tying it at 23-23. They moved into a 27-25 lead over the Paladins, but Pitt Tech came back to take a 36-33 halftime lead.

In the second half, Wilson pulled ahead at 41-40, but the two teams swapped the lead back and forth after that. With about three minutes left, Pitt Tech finally took the lead, 71-70, and held it the rest of the way.

VMJ Suddenly Back In Race

By The Associated Press
 Virginia Military's Keydets, surprise winners of the Southern Conference football championship last fall, are suddenly and surprisingly in contention in the league basketball race.

The Keydets, who until they upended Richmond's Spiders 98-95 last Saturday night had lost five in a row over-all and won just one of six starts, made it two straight Monday night with a 108-101 decision over The Citadel's Bulldogs.

That victory boosted the Keydets to 3-2 in the conference and into sole possession of fourth place behind East Carolina's Pirates and William and Mary's Indians, 2-0, and Furman's Paladins, 1-0. The defeat dropped The Citadel to sixth place at 2-3.

In Monday night's only non-conference action, Davidson's Wildcats dropped to 3-9 over-all in a 58-56 defeat by Virginia as the Cavalier's Dan Bonner hit a jump shot with one second left, just six seconds after teammate Andy Boninti had missed a jumper.

Two-time defending champion Furman romped to a 92-83 exhibition victory over Athletics in Action.

A pair of freshmen, Ron Carter and Dave Montgomery, were the leaders in the VMI victory, in which the Keydets broke a final tie with 3:51 left on a layup by George Borojevich.

Carter poured in 28 points and Montgomery scored 19 points and pulled down 22 rebounds. Junior Curt Reppart also had 19 points for the Keydets.

GOOD FOR HIS AGE
 NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Miller won three golf tournaments in his first five years on the PGA tour. But last January he won the only three events in which he played, bringing his tour career wins to six.

"I'm not a Jack Nicklaus or a Lee Trevino," said Miller, "but I guess I'm not bad for a 26-year-old." Miller turned 27 on April 29 and by year's end had won eight tournaments in 1974.

A Ladies Day Golf event was held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club this weekend.

Irene Bircher took first place in the low gross division, firing a nine-hole total of 41. Second place went to Joan Hooper with 48.

Janice Merritt took the low net prize with 36. Second place saw a tie between Putt Carter and Joan Warren, both with 38.

Time-lapse photographs show how gradual action of Grecian Formula 16 lets you control just how much gray you slowly get rid of - some of it or all of it.

White Plains, N.Y. — Hundreds of thousands of men all over the country are now using a remarkable product to control just how much gray they slowly get rid of. It is called Grecian Formula 16 and the results are simply amazing. Grecian Formula 16 is a practically clear liquid, as easy to use as hair tonic. This remarkable formula works for any color hair because it combines with the natural chemistry of the hair to recreate natural-looking color. There is no mess and no rub-off. You simply use it every day for two or three weeks until you slowly get rid of just as much gray as you want. Some of it, most of it or all of it. You can stop where you like. You are in complete control of how much gray goes or stays. Once you get rid of as much gray as you want, simply use Grecian Formula once a week or so to keep it that way. Since Grecian Formula 16 works gradually over a period of time, even close friends won't notice the change happening. The resulting color is so completely natural that the hair definitely does not have a dyed look. Grecian Formula 16 is available at

The Blue Ribbon Pairs, one of the premier events of the American Contract Bridge League's Fall Nationals, held in November in San Antonio, Texas, was won by two U.S. internationalists. Edgar Kaplan of New York and Norman Kay of Philadelphia. They came from behind with a 73% score in the final session to take the title. This hand played a major part in their victory.

Kay, West, took advantage of the vulnerability to make a weak jump overall in clubs. North's double was not for penalties—it was a Negative Double, used as a takeout for the unbid suits. When South took two bids without any further encouragement from his partner, North judged his hand worth a raise to slam.

Six hearts was a reasonable contract, which under normal circumstances would depend on little more than the diamond finesse. On the actual lie of the cards, the slam stood no chance, as Kay and Kaplan were quick to demonstrate.

Kay led the two of clubs, taken by Kaplan's king. Since this card could not have been a fourth-best lead in view of West's preempt in the suit, East read it as an usual lead, indicating that West had a strong preference for a particular suit to be returned. Therefore, Kaplan returned a diamond—the lower of the remaining side suits. Declarer played low, and Kay's ruff beat the slam.

Had the hand been distributed differently so that West had a spade void, he would have been able to convey this message to partner by his choice of opening lead. In that event, West would lead the eight, or possibly the jack, of clubs. Since the first trick would reveal that the lead could have been from the top of a sequence, it would again have a suit preference connotation, this time requesting a switch to the higher of the remaining side suits, or spades.

'Fonzie' Really A Yale Graduate

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Winkler, who plays Fonzie, the super-cool, greasy-haired, leather-jacketed high school dropout on ABC's "Happy Days" series, is a Yale man. No kidding.

He has a master's degree from the Yale School of Drama. He grew up in New York but says he wasn't a Fun City Fonzie. He attended private school and wore a tie, a blue blazer and grey slacks each day.

He saw his share of Fonzies — people here call them "punks" if they are fleet of foot — but says "I gave 'em a lot of room. I'd go upstairs on the roof of the nearest building if they were around."

The 29-year-old actor, a short, joke-cracking man whose hair contains no greasy kid stuff, is as energetic as Fonzie is lazy.

He says he's acted in some 60 plays and two movies — "The Lords of Flatbush" and "Crazy Joe" — since graduating from college in 1967.

The movies came after his graduation from the Yale drama school in 1970, and were followed by one appearance in the "Mary Tyler Moore" and "Bob Newhart" series on CBS.

Winkler, who said his "Mary Tyler Moore" shot consisted of ten speaking lines, almost blew his chance for the Fonzie role by nearly passing up his first big TV break on the Newhart series. It happened this way:

He says he auditioned to play a Puerto Rican on the Newhart show, didn't get the job, but did hear sounds of interest from the casting agent.

His parents were going to

ACQUITTED

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—Sgt. L.C. Harold Edwards, an Army recruiter, was acquitted Monday of charges of dereliction of duty and effecting unauthorized enlistments.

This led to an audition for the Fonzie role he finally landed.

Tax Cut Questions, Answers

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's new economic program would include something for just about everybody, including tax cuts covering both 1974 and 1975, if Congress approves his plans.

Here are answers to some of the questions that may arise about the program: Q. Would everybody get a tax cut, and how much? A. There would be a 12 per cent across-the-board cut in 1974 taxes, up to a maximum of $1,000 for any one taxpayer. The total rebate would amount to about $12 billion for individuals, the President said.

For example, an American with 1974 taxes of $2,000 would receive a refund of $240, or 12 percent. But a person with taxes of $9,000 would get a $1,000 refund, instead of $1,180, which would be 12 per cent.

Q. How would this be paid? Would I deduct it from my 1974 taxes when I file my return? A. Ford said the refund would be paid separately in two payments, half in May and half in September. Taxpayers should file their tax returns by April 15 in the normal way as if there were no 12 per cent rebate. Their rebate will be sent later.

Q. How high would energy prices go with the new taxes? A. The administration has not yet disclosed this, but officials said privately the increase could range from five to seven cents a gallon for both gasoline and home heating oil. Q. You said there was something for everybody. How about the low-income persons, people on welfare and Social Security, who pay no taxes? A. Ford said they will receive cash payments for 1975. Although he didn't spell this out, other sources said the payments could amount to about $80 per person.

In addition, a White House spokesman said Ford will announce a doubling of the low-income allowance from $1,300 to $2,600, which should remove many low-income persons from tax rolls entirely.

Q. What are the chances that Congress will approve Ford's tax cut proposals? Isn't it true that they can't go into effect unless Congress approves? A.

That's true, but members of Congress from both parties appear virtually unanimous in favor of tax relief for Americans. Substantial tax cuts of some kind are a virtual certainty, although they might not take the form the President wants. House Democrats, for example, announced their own program Monday calling for a $10 billion to $20 billion tax cut, for low and middle income Americans. Under Ford's plan, upper-income persons would receive the same break. So there is some disagreement on emphasis.

Rock Music Promoters Are Singing The Blues

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Music Writer

Rock promoters are singing the recession blues. Their ranks are dwindling and their audiences shrinking as inflation eats up teen-agers' spending money. "This is the first year that rock 'n' roll hasn't operated outside the real world with its real problems," says Howard Stein, whose Academy of Music more or less has succeeded the closed Fillmore East as New York's Carnegie Hall of rock. "The kids are being forced to make decisions about which shows they will see and the many they won't see, as opposed to buying all the major concerts almost automatically."

go up as concert attendance goes down. Bill Graham, who books many of the big cross-country tours, including Harrison, the Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young reunion tour and Bob Dylan in 1974, says: "I think the rock tour has reached its peak. It could go on for years, but I can't see how it could get much bigger."

Festival At Planetarium

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The Morehead Planetarium on the campus of the University of North Carolina has bitten off something it hopes North Carolinians will chew on Monday. The planetarium began a two-week program called "Once Upon a World, a Festival of Science and Man."

Basically, concert attendance is off somewhere between 25 and 40 per cent across the country. Right now, in a business that had maybe 30 well-known promoters, in my encyclopedia of promoters there are maybe 12 major ones left. And I believe there will be about six solvent ones by the end of spring. It's going to be a Darwinian era — it will be the survivors."

"You know, the superstar groups will still have no trouble selling out wherever they go — the Rolling Stones, Elton John, Jethro Tull, Led Zeppelin — but the mid-range groups and the new groups will be hit hard. It used to be you'd book one headliner and two unknown acts. Now you'll book two well-known acts with one unknown. There'll be fewer opportunities for new groups."

A.F. Jenzano, planetarium director, said the festival is an effort to arouse public interest in science and astronomy. The festival features shows, exhibits, speakers, artists and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

Ron Powell, who books concerts in 16 cities in the Midwest and the South, agrees. "There aren't many of us left," he said. "It is a luxury, let's face it. These kids can survive without rock."

Larry Weintraub, who booked Led Zeppelin, was the only promoter interviewed who said he was untroubled by the nation's economy.

Morehead Planetarium is the largest in North Carolina with its nearest equivalent in Atlanta.

Powell blamed the downturn totally on the economy. The music is still popular, he said, predicting record sales would

"I've had no problem with my artists," he said. "I do big concerts, in big places, and all my artists are big stars. We've had no problems. We've raised ticket prices, in fact. I get $15 for Sinatra, $10 for Presley and there's a top of $8.50 or $9 on the top rock acts."

Court Receives New Trial Plea

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The California Supreme Court has received a petition seeking a new trial for Sirhan B. Sirhan, now serving a life sentence for the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Godfrey Isaac, Sirhan's lawyer, said Monday the petition cites a recent review of ballistics evidence and points to the possibility that more than one gun was used to kill Kennedy when he was shot to death in June, 1968, in the kitchen of the Ambassador Hotel.

Gov. Grasso Is Burglary Victim

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Ella Grasso, inaugurated last Wednesday as governor of Connecticut, now knows how crime victims feel.

Over the weekend, while she was in Washington for a television interview, somebody burglarized her home in nearby Windsor Locks.

"I realize that now I'm a statistic and I'm as angry and outraged as any householder," the governor said Monday at a news conference. "They got some jewelry, our silverplate, my mother's ring and my engagement ring."

Gov. Grasso said she still doesn't want surveillance of the home as she isn't there. But officials said state troopers are re-evaluating the security she receives.

Extension Of Voting Rights Legislation Is Urged

By BARBARA WASHINGTON
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — State and national leaders meeting to discuss the impact of the 1965 Voting Rights Act have called on the President and Congress to support a five-year extension of the legislation.

"This act has a great symbolic meaning: it is a legal promise to the minority citizens of this country that they will always have the right to vote," said James P. Turner, deputy assistant attorney general of the U. S. Department of Civil Rights.

Turner commented Monday during the Southern Policy Conference on the Voting Rights Act at the Ebenezer Baptist Church. The conference is sponsored by the Martin Luther King Jr. Center for Social Change.

The federal official, who prosecuted the man charged in the slaying of civil rights worker Viola Liuzzo in Alabama, said preliminary indications from black leaders who had spoken to President Ford favored extension of the voting legislation.

The 1965 act provided for direct federal action to enable blacks and other minorities to register and vote. It banned literacy tests as requirements for voting and provided for the appointment of federal examiners to qualify voters in areas where tests had been used.

The measure, granted a five-year extension in 1970, expires this August.

The conference was one of the first activities in a four-day celebration of King's birthday. The former president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference would have been 46 on Wednesday.

Bayard Rustin, the executive director of the A. Phillip Randolph Institute, said irregularities would develop on local levels if the voting rights act was not extended.

"There would be hanky panky on the local level with officials rescinding many of the rights and protections provided by this act," Rustin said.

He said that King was more important in the nonviolent movement than Mahatmas Ghandi because Ghandi led a majority against a minority, while King represented a minority battling a majority.

Rustin, who helped write the first plans for the SCLC in 1956, said political power — and not the demonstration tactics of the 1960s — is the key to making major gains for blacks and other minorities.

"Black politicians have been trying to act like civil rights leaders," he said. "That won't get it. They have to use their political influence to achieve gains for blacks."

Former U. S. Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, now vice president of IBM Corp., concurred with Rustin and added that black politicians brought advantageous change to the total political system.

"The advantages of bringing blacks into the political system are not advantages to blacks, they are advantages to the whole political system," Katzenbach said. "In order to make changes in the political system it's necessary to find an exposed nerve and put pressure on it."

National Urban League Executive Director Vernon Jordan said the Voting Rights Act had spawned a "metamorphosis" of black leadership over the past four years.

"There has not only been a metamorphosis but a proliferation of black leaders," Jordan said. "Black leaders in the community are those who also make policies for major organizations and federal and private agencies."

State Sen. Julian Bond, D-Atlanta, who has said he will enter Democratic presidential primaries in 1976, called on federal officials to either create a national holiday for elections or utilize Sundays to increase minority voter participation.

The 35-year-old newly elected senator also recommended postcard voter registration and an enforceable voting rights act to be extended to minorities in all regions of the nation.

"We have become victims of voting rights on a national level," he said. "We have fallen victim to plays for power between competing political parties."

Bond called the 1972 Nixon presidential triumph "a victory for a mighty coalition of the comfortable, the callous and the smug, who closed their ranks, their minds and their hearts against the claims and calls to conscience put forward by the forgotten and unrepresented elements in American society."

"The new administrators in Washington run the programs they direct with all the solicitude of a hungry mortician at an old folks home."

Coretta Scott King, widow of the civil rights leader, said extension of the Voting Rights Act is necessary for maintenance of the nation's political system.

"The extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act is a central issue, not only for blacks and minorities," said Mrs. King, "but also for the health and very survival of the political system."

Mrs. King, who is president of the Center for Social Change, said the Voting Rights Act is not a solution, "but a tool to solve the problem," and she could not separate it from her "husband and his life struggles."

"He (King) saw political participation as the pivotal base of power," said Mrs. King. "Not all of the statuses, titles or symbolic acts Congress could pass will have any value if they cut the bill he felt was crucial to those people."

Other leaders attending the conference included Fayette, Miss., Mayor Charles Evers, brother of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers; Rosa Parks, credited with starting the bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala., 20 years ago; U. S. Sens. Charles Matthias of Maryland and Birch Bayh of Indiana; Dr. Carlton Goodlett, president of the National Newspaper Publishers Assn., and John Lewis, executive director of the Voter Education Project, Inc.

Pitt Will Share In Production Survey

A comprehensive survey to determine costs of producing wheat, corn and other feed grains, cotton, soybeans, milk and selected commodities will include information from Pitt County.

William E. Kibler, statistician in charge of the North Carolina Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said the national data collecting efforts will get underway in late January.

Pitt County producers and those in other parts of the country will be contacted in person and asked questions concerning 1974 costs of production. Questions will relate to labor, power and equipment, fertilizer and chemicals, storage, drying, and other similar outlays. All responses will be confidential and only state, regional, and national summaries will be issued.

The survey will be conducted annually to identify production practices and establish current national average costs of producing farm commodities. The information will be of major usefulness in identifying and updating budgets for crop and livestock enterprises. The survey results will also help outline production costs which have drawn considerable interest as possible determinants of target price or price support levels.

School Has Police Guard

BOSTON (AP) — Classes were scheduled to resume under police guard at Hyde Park High School today following a day of fighting between black students and white pupils that resulted in 13 arrests.

The 13 — nine blacks and four whites — were charged with disorderly conduct Monday after scattered racial fighting at the school. One also was charged with assault and battery on a police officer.

Police reported no serious injuries.

The trouble at Hyde Park marked the second time in five days that pupils there were arrested for fighting in the school. It was closed Thursday following racial scuffles. Fifteen pupils were arrested then.

Schools were calm elsewhere in the city, including the South Boston High School complex several miles from Hyde Park.

South Boston has been the prime trouble spot since the city began court-ordered desegregation plan last fall that requires the busing of some 18,000 of the city's 87,000 public school pupils.

Pitt Duty For Trooper

Coy Taylor, a Greene County native and veteran of 4½ years on the North Carolina State Highway Patrol has been assigned to duties in Pitt County according to Patrol Troop A Commander Capt. J. T. Jenkins.

Taylor, according to Capt. Jenkins, has been re-assigned from his station in Scotland Neck to Greenville.

PTL. COY TAYLOR
A graduate of Greene Central High School, in 1962, Trooper Taylor spent two years as Farmville Police Officer before joining the Highway Patrol. He was first stationed in Weldon, then in Scotland Neck, both in Halifax County.
The Patrolman, a certified Breathalyzer and VASCAR operator, is married to the former Kay Allen of Farmville, and the couple has one daughter, Kathy, 3.
Trooper Taylor is a Mason, a member of the First Baptist Church in Scotland Neck and studied Police Science at Pitt Technical Institute for one year.

Police Expanding Stop-Thief Effort

The Police Department, which began a program known as "Stop Thief" some time ago in cooperation with the Greenville Jaycees, is expanding that service effective Wednesday, Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.

According to Cannon, under the old theft-prevention program, local residents were able to check out electric pencils from the department to "engrave" identifying numbers on property—such as televisions, stereos, almost anything—to facilitate their identification and make it more difficult for thieves to dispose of the property without detection.

Beginning tomorrow, Cannon said, persons wishing to have identifying numbers placed on items may call Police headquarters and an officer will respond with an electric pencil to help mark items.

Of course, he said, individuals may still check out the electric pencils and do the work themselves.

Cannon said for local residents to take advantage of the marking program, simply call the Police Department and request the service. He said "we will send an officer by to mark items" at the convenience of the property owners, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. each week-day.

He said items will be marked with their owner's drivers license number or Social Security number.

"Having an officer go by is an added service" in the department's program of crime prevention, Cannon emphasized.

Plane Crash Killed Seven

COEBURN, Va. (AP)—Seven persons who were killed when their twin-engine private plane smashed into a mountain Sunday night have been identified as members of a suburban Detroit, Mich., family.

Michigan State Police said Monday night that the victims were Dr. Paul B. Jatkoa, a dentist from Farmington Hills, Mich., the pilot; his wife, Marie, and their children, Susan, 17, Karen, 15, Elizabeth, 9, Paul, 5, and Michael, 3.

Jatkoe's mother, Mrs. Agnes Jatkoa, said the family was returning from a vacation in the Bahamas.

The plane crashed during a heavy snowstorm near this community in Virginia's southwestern tip.

The pilot radioed to the small airport at nearby Wise, Va., about 9 p.m. Sunday asking for help in landing.

But the snow was too heavy for the plane to land and Wise airport officials said the pilot told them he would try to reach Tri-Cities Airport at Bristol about 65 miles away on the Virginia-Tennessee border.

Bristol airport authorities said the plane never appeared on their radar and the craft was reported missing.

Rescue workers began picking up a signal from the plane's electronic directional device early Monday morning, an indication that the aircraft had gone down.

Searchers following the beeper signal through still falling snow located the wreckage a few hours later and brought the bodies down.

Big Bird Is A Dead Bird

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The big bird of Charlotte is dead.

The 100-pound South American ostrich that escaped Sunday from his owner died Monday some five hours after police subdued him with tranquilizers.

"The overexertion and the tranquilizer, that was it," said owner Doris Cole. "He just never snapped out of it."

The bird, called a rhea, was found Monday morning near Cole's north Charlotte home. Police tried unsuccessfully to rope the rhea with lassos, and then shot him with a tranquilizer.

Cole had warned that the bird could break a leg with his powerful kick.

"Maybe if we'd been able to get him without upsetting him he would have made it," Cole said.

Cole said he bought the bird Saturday for his collection of unusual creatures, which includes a parrot and a wallaby.

The bird was frightened by some nearby horses and jumped the fence Sunday morning, Cole said.

Marriage Set For Jan 30.

NEW YORK (AP) — Nuptials for former Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the widow of publisher Bennett Cerf have been set for Jan. 30.

Wagner's marriage to Mrs. Phyllis F. Cerf will be his third. The ceremony is scheduled at the Roman Catholic Church of St. Thomas More in Manhattan, only a few blocks from Gracie Mansion where Wagner, a Catholic, lived while mayor.

Wagner's first wife, Susan, died in 1964. His second marriage, to the former Barbara Cavanaugh, ended in divorce in 1971 after six years. In 1973, the marriage was declared annulled by a church tribunal. This cleared the way for him to marry in a church ceremony.

Elvis To Stage Benefit Show

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Singer Elvis Presley, who was born in Tupelo, will stage a benefit for Mississippi tornado victims here next May.

Gov. Bill Waller made the announcement Monday night, saying all money from the benefit will go into a trust fund.

A tornado in the McComb, Miss., area Friday killed seven persons and injured more than 100. Damage was estimated at $17 million.

"I want to help all I can for the state that I was born in," Presley said in a telegram to Waller.

recommendations." However, Ullman called for "sizeable alterations" in Ford's specific plans, saying "any rebate on 1974 taxes would have to focus on low- and middle-income groups and should be combined with more permanent tax reductions for the low-income taxpayer."

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., a senior member of the House Banking Committee, accused Ford of "Robin-Hood-in-reverse economic policy."

"The oil price hikes sock it to the moderate income customer while the 1974 tax rebate lets the rich get richer," he said.

However, Sen. Bill Brock, R-Tenn., called the President's plan "dramatic, well-balanced and comprehensive." Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., said Ford made clear "he intends to offer a detailed and specific program to deal firmly and actively with the problems of energy and the economy."

Virtually every Democrat who commented Monday night made some reference to the need to give most of the tax cut to lower- and middle-income families, though few said specifically how they would do it.

However, as Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, had predicted after meeting with Ford Monday afternoon, the President's energy tax proposals seemed headed for the greatest controversy.

The House Democratic program unveiled by Speaker Carl Albert Monday failed to specify which means of controlling energy consumption was preferable. Most initial reaction Monday night, however, favored limitation by allocation or even rationing, rather than Ford's plan for increased taxation.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Ford's plan will "drive the price still higher for everything oil touches, from heating homes to manufacturing plastics."

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., said Ford's proposals "appear to be placing an undue part of the burden for conserving gasoline on home heating and electrical customers who have a limited opportunity to conserve."

In outlining the House Democratic program, Albert predicted the House would act within 60 days. "We mean business," the Speaker told a news conference. "We intend to act."

Besides a tax cut of between $10 billion and $20 billion, the Democratic program included:

—An expansion of public service jobs programs and acceleration of funds for already approved public works projects.

—Lowering interest rates by mandating the Federal Reserve Board to expand the supply of credit, along with an allocation program to steer the new money to sectors that need credit.

—Relief for the housing market through short-term subsidies on low- and medium-priced housing, short-term aid to homeowners having trouble with mortgage payments and incentives to increase deposits in mortgage-writing thrift institutions and to preserve older houses.

—Energy conservation through options including mandatory allocation of petroleum, higher gasoline taxes, gasoline rationing, and taxes on high horsepower autos.

—Creation of an independent agency to stabilize wages and prices with subpoena authority and power to delay price increases for 90 days.

In his speech, Ford noted that "this economic program is different in emphasis from the proposals I put forward last October," a 31-point anti-inflation package including a 5 per cent tax surcharge for many.

"The reason is that the situation has changed," he said, adding "What we need most urgently today is more spending money in your pockets rather than in the

Man Charged With Two Fires In Eastern Pines

A 21-year-old Greenville man has been arrested by the Sheriff's Department and charged with two incidents of unlawful burning of property in the Eastern Pines area.

Sheriff's Department and charged with two incidents of unlawful burning of property in the Eastern Pines area.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Edmund Christopher Cook of 2705 Tryon Street was arrested Saturday night at the residence of Leslie Little on Rt. 2, Greenville and charged with unlawful burning of a tobacco barn across the field from Little's house on the Herbert Branch farm and of a pack house on Bath Street in Cherry Oaks Subdivision.

Sheriff Tyson said that Cook was apprehended shortly after the tobacco barn fire on the Branch farm which caused an estimated $1,700 in damages to the structure. He noted that the pack house blaze occurred on Friday night and resulted in a complete loss of the structure owned by Leroy Cherry.

According to the sheriff, Cook was placed under $3,000 bond and scheduled for a District Court hearing here on Jan. 27.

Cook's arrest, it was pointed out, followed the investigation of a series of fires in the Eastern Pines-Simpson area that occurred since Nov. 9.

Pitt Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said that ten fires, including the two charged to Cook, have been under investigation.

Sheriff Tyson said that further investigation of the fires is underway.
