

Many 'Losing' Agencies To Continue Fight

$6.8 Billion N.C. Biennium Budget Aired

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—The recommended North Carolina budget for 1975-77 has been presented, but the budget battle has just begun.

spending schedule for the biennium which begins on July 1, 1975.

Spokesmen for them have indicated they intend to carry the fight to the General Assembly's Appropriations committees, where the budget will be reviewed and probably changed before it is enacted into law.

The Advisory Budget Commission, according to state budget officer Kenneth Howard, reviewed $1.8 billion in requests for new funding from the agencies.

In the end, it granted only a small fraction of them—a total of $250 million in new spending in the next two years.

Howard said the budget is predicated on pessimistic predictions about the state of the economy and its impact on state revenues.

Howard said the state is expecting the sharpest decline in real personal income since World War II, continued high inflation, and a sluggish recovery at the end of the biennium.

Based on that, Howard's staff has predicted a sharp decline in the growth rate of state revenues, although total revenue dollars will still increase.

As a result, many requests were severely trimmed, and those who were trimmed will have to convince the legislature that their requests deserve a higher priority.

State employes and teachers, for example, will not be happy with the pay raise in store for them—5 per cent in the first year and nothing in the second year. Teachers had requested a "cost of living plus 3 per cent" raise each year. That would amount to 15 per cent each year at current inflation rates.

The University of North Carolina Board of Governors may also be unhappy. Most of the university system capital improvements for the biennium are earmarked for East Carolina University, which won approval for a $54 million medical school expansion program.

The cost of financing enrollment increases—$25.9 million—was included in the system's new spending budget instead of its continuing operations budget.

That left little money for other projects sought by the board, with nothing at all available for the proposed veterinary school at N.C. State or the law school building at N.C. Central.

The ECU program would draw on $15 million already (Continued on page-8)

$56.4 Million Recommended

ECU Med School Funded

RALEIGH—Full funding for the ECU School of Medicine was recommended in the biennial budget which was presented to the 1975 Legislature last night.

The budget recommends total spending of $56,426,369, with funds to be appropriated over the next two years, to develop and operate the full four-year degree granting school.

Development of the school was authorized by the UNC Board of Governors last year and the budget recommendations followed the spending recommendations of the board.

The budget calls for operation expenditures of $2,629,986 in 1975-76 and $3,551,383 in 1976-77 for the school. Capital improvements of $31,100,000 in the first year would be authorized. Some $15,000,000 of this is already in a reserve fund, so capital improvements appropriation the first year of $16,100,000 is recommended. The second year's capital improvements appropriations would be $19,145,000.

The recommendations call for admitting the first class of 30 students in 1975; however, this has been delayed for one year. The first year's class would move through to completion of a degree and the school would eventually expand to 200 students.

The funds include $360,278 in 1975-76 and $428,337 in 1976-77 to strengthen the medical library. Some $30,245,000 is included for the first year of the biennium for construction of ambulatory care, interim clinical and library facilities, a basic sciences building and renovation of space in existing facilities. Some $855,000 is included for planning a teaching hospital. The second year of the biennium includes $19,145,000 for construction of the 200 bed hospital.

It is anticipated that the operating budget for the medical school will be $10 million when it reaches capacity, with the hospital operating cost to be $5 million annually.

The recommended budget is presented to the Legislature by Gov. James E. Holshouser, Jr., a Republican governor facing a heavily Democratic Legislature.

The recommended budget, however, is prepared by the Advisory Budget Commission, which is Democratic controlled. Two of the most powerful men in the General Assembly, Ralph H. Scott and Carl J. Stewart, Jr., are chairman and vice chairman respectively.

Funding of the ECU medical school was the major expansion item in the new budget. It was the largest single item in a $75.7 million capital improvements budget recommended for 1975-76 and an additional $73 million for 1976-77. The ECU medical complex, at $35.2 million was the largest single item among capital improvements, although $38 million was recommended for several Department of Corrections projects.

Beyond the medical school, ECU and all other state university campuses would share $7,610,500 the first year and $7,027,500 the second year of the biennium for capital improvements. These funds are appropriated in a lump sum to the Board of Governors which in turn allocates them to the various campuses.

The budget does provide $10.7 million in 1975-76 and $15.2 million the second year of the biennium for enrollment increases in the university system. An additional $2 million each year of the biennium is provided for upgrading libraries.

The budget also provides for continuing development of Area Health Education Centers and doubling aid to private colleges.

Contrary to previous reports, it includes no funds for development of a veterinary school.

The basic academic budget for East Carolina University calls for expenditure of $23,346,018 in 1975-76 and $23,607,359 in 1976-77. Less receipts the state appropriation would be $17,671,920 and $17,933,261 for the two years.

Self supporting auxiliary services have a budget of $3,934,799 and $3,966,839 for the two years, none of this coming from appropriations.

Budget officials say the revenue estimates are conservatively based due to the recession which is currently affecting the nation's economy. They say they do not expect additional revenue to materialize during the next six months, although there is around $8 million in unappropriated revenues involved in the budget.

The budget document, which weighs five and half pounds in its printed form, now goes to the proper legislative committees. There, various agencies are certain to be heard from seeking some of the funds which were requested but not recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission. The Legislature will also have to consider various calls for tax cuts and find new revenues to replace those lost if any cuts are made.

Even though the recommended budget is for the biennium, there is a possibility that the Legislature will decide on a one-year budget with plans to return next year to take a new look at revenues.

ASKS FOR REPEAL OF TAX ON FOOD—North Carolina Governor Jim Holshouser asked the legislature Monday night to repeal the three percent state sales tax on food in his address to the legislature on the state of the State. (AP Wirephoto)

Food Tax Repeal Is Holshouser Goal

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser called on the North Carolina legislature Monday night to repeal the state's 3 per cent sales tax on food effective July 1, 1976.

The governor told a joint session of the General Assembly that the tax repeal could be financed without increasing other taxes. He said revenue that reverts to the state treasury each year through unfilled state jobs and delayed programs would be adequate to cover the estimated $75 million in lost revenue.

The food tax proposal, the highlight of Holshouser's message to the legislature, met with lukewarm response from Democratic legislators. Although they interrupted his speech to applaud the proposal, lawmakers were quick to criticize it on two counts afterwards.

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt said citizens need relief immediately and repeal of the tax should not be delayed until 1976.

"I'd have admired his courage if he had asked for repeal now," Hunt said. "Instead, he's saying let me spend the food tax money for four years of my administration and then repeal it."

Other lawmakers contended that Holshouser's proposal to finance repeal of the tax through reversions was irresponsible.

Senate Finance Committee chairman Russell Kirby, D-Wilmington, flatly opposed repeal. He said reversions to the treasury had never been taken into account before in planning the budget "and in these times we shouldn't start. I don't see where we can get the money to finance repeal," Kirby said.

House Finance Committee Chairman Liston Ramsey, D-Madison, was non committal. "Eighteen months is a long time. And I don't know if we could stand to lose that much revenue."

When the governor learned of the reactions, he said, "I've worked long enough with the state budget to know what's responsible. I wouldn't have proposed it if it weren't responsible."

Holshouser said the reversions normally go into the state treasury and accumulate interest until the end of the biennium, when they become surplus funds for the next biennium. He said that his proposed budget would leave $80 million available in the state treasury that would "do nothing for the people but draw interest."

"At a time when money is so hard to come by for so many people, it is almost criminal to take money out of their pockets and hold it in the treasury," he said.

Holshouser told the lawmakers, "I know that you will be under severe pressure from almost everyone who is asking for money from the state for a variety of meritorious programs. But I say to you tonight that we have a special obligation to the largest and most important interest group of all—the more than five million people who are North Carolina."

The governor challenged legislators who campaigned on repeal of the food tax to fulfill their promises and approve his proposal.

He also told lawmakers they could help North Carolinians by repealing the state's ban on below cost milk sales. State law now prohibits retail stores from selling milk below cost as "loss leaders."

Saying the state needs to speed up delivery of unemployment benefits in the face of soaring joblessness, Holshouser said the state Employment Security Commission would have proposals for cutting red tape ready to present to the legislature within the week.

Holshouser reiterated his opposition to any increase in the state's gasoline tax. He said that because highway fund revenues are declining the state's road construction program will be curtailed.

"The people don't need new gas taxes," he said.

Holshouser also urged the legislature to support a budget recommendation to increase the staff of the State Utilities Commission to enable the commission to effectively examine the growing number of rate applications. He said he asked the commission to prepare a report for the people on why power bills are rising so sharply.

He said rate reform is part of the answer to rising power bills and that the Utilities Commission (Continued on page 5)

New Greenville School Unit Designated For 6th, 7th Grades Only

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The new school to be built in Greenville, scheduled for operation beginning for the school year 1977-78, will be for sixth and seventh grade students.

The decision was unanimously approved Monday night by members of the Greenville School Board, and was made following an announcement that final action has been taken in acquiring the site by payment of $143,180 for the land off Hooker Road and adjacent to the proposed extension of Arlington Boulevard.

School board member, Mrs. Terry Shank, who made the motion that the proposed new middle school be utilized for sixth and seventh grade students, said "this choice will reduce the cost factor, as these two grades will not need expensive sophisticated science equipment older students would require."

Mrs. Shank also pointed out other advantages — not having competition in sports and other events that would exist if the city had two identical junior high schools of seventh, eighth and ninth graders; simplicity of administration; and ease of teacher placement; and creating more space in all the elementary schools by removing the sixth grade from each of the schools.

Board member Ed Waldrop added that with this choice, the Greenville City School system would be in the enviable position of having a democratic arrangement where all sixth and seventh graders would attend one school; all eighth and ninth graders would be in one school; and all senior high students in one school.

As a result of Monday night's decision, the committee responsible for coordinating educational specifications for the proposed school will now go into action to formulate basic specifications with the assistance of the State Department of Public Instruction.

The mandate of this committee will entail matters such as space requirements for class rooms, cafeteria, multi-purpose space for arts, crafts, music, etc, athletic programs for boys and girls, similar considerations that must be furnished the architect before final plans are developed.

As a preliminary planning aid, architect George Shoe has offered two basic plans for consideration — one a cluster of pod type buildings; the other a rectangular design wrapped around three rectangular courtyards.

Shoe also explained that the board might want to consider the possibility of a shaped instead of a flat roof due to the fact that in recent years the cost of asphalt, a primary ingredient in flat roof construction is almost as expensive as the shaped roof more conventionally used in former times.

In another land site matter, school board members gave Supt. Glenn Cox the go ahead on administrative action necessary for the acquisition of lots in Block S-1, on the south side of Pennsylvania Avenue across from the rear of Sadie Sautler school. Money for this land purchase has already been (Continued on page 10)

FBI Has Files On Congressmen, Kelley

WASHINGTON (AP)—FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley acknowledged today that his agency maintains files on members of Congress that include unsubstantiated allegations volunteered by members of the public, but denied that such information is misused.

Charges that the FBI is improperly soliciting information about members of Congress or misusing information in FBI files concerning them are "erroneous and without any basis in fact," Kelley said.

"Congressmen are treated substantially the same as any other citizen concerning whom the FBI may receive information," Kelley said.

"The policy of the FBI is that information concerning members of Congress is collected when members are the subjects or victims of an investigation or a specific background check is requested concerning the suitability for nomination to a position in the executive or judicial branches," the FBI chief said in a 550-word statement issued early today.

However, he said the FBI does retain unsolicited information about members of Congress in case such information should prove useful should the congressman in question be considered for appointment to a position in the executive or judicial branches of government.

But, Kelley said, such information "is never used to influence the judgment or actions of any member of Congress."

Kelley offered to appear before the House

Judiciary Committee to "dispute the fallacious statements about the FBI's misuse of information concerning members of Congress. I will be prepared to discuss in detail FBI practices and procedures in this regard."

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of a House Judiciary subcommittee responsible for overseeing FBI operations, was preparing to announce details of subcommittee hearings on the FBI practice of keeping files on members of Congress.

Both Men And Women Now Enjoying Hobbies

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Family Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — In planes, trains and buses, you see females of all ages working on needlepoint or embroidery or knitting. It's all part of the boom in hobbies.

There are other signs. Some men who commute to work spend the time working on their hobbies—such as putting together a part for a model railroad layout.

It is even possible for a model railroad buff to take his train with him. The teeny-tiny gauge railroad, called Z, has cars no bigger than your thumbnail. And a larger scale model train—called N—is tiny, too. So much so that an interesting layout can be put in an attache case.

The neatest arrangement for a model railroad buff is a layout that can be constructed in a desk drawer.

Only the executive who owns one knows how often his little train kept him from going off his rocker or out the window.

Hobbies that use hands and mind, you see, are great calmers of emotion and relievers of mental stress.

Hobby products include the needle and stitchers things plus model aeronautics and radio control, model ships and vehicles, model railroads, cars and rockets; also wood and plastic model kits, science kits, crafts and art supplies, hobby tools, collectors' hobbies—stamps, coins and miniatures, and hobby games.

Every year for the past 10 or more sales of these materials and hobby kits have gone up. Psychologists say one reason is that as life becomes more dominated by technology—the pushbutton world—humans more and more feel the need of making something with their hands. To keep busy, to improve their mental health.

"The beauty and variety of the hobby kits and gift projects is their universal appeal, says Richard Falk, president of the Hobby Industry of America.

What's new on the hobby-front, according to Falk, is the way many hobbies, formerly the solid prerogative of males, are becoming unisex.

Credit the women's lib movement, perhaps. Whatever the reason, those "male hobbies" are being done by women. That includes such things as assembling plastic or balsa wood scale models of planes, ships, trains, cars.

With the nostalgic interest in railroads, many families are building their own railroad empires. Dad and the boys work on cars and plaster. Mom and girl paint stations, buildings and farm houses—or make their own layout.

Doctors and educators feel hobbies have therapeutic and beneficial effects on humans. Dr. William Menninger, of the Menninger Foundation, Topeka, Kan., has summed up the value of hobbies for mental health this way:

"In the hospital, having a hobby protects the patients from the ravages of boredom and depression.

"Upon returning home it takes up the slack of growing restlessness.

"But once they have left their beds and doctors, former patients who continue with their hobby, find it a legitimate source of pride, satisfaction and serenity.

Estimates of sales show to some extent which hobbies are the most popular.

—Crafts. Packaged and bulk crafts of all types, includes paint by number, special tools and finishing materials, hardware and accessories. More than $306 million.

—Plastics kits. Of all types, domestic and foreign sold in America. Category includes adhesives, paints, tools and finishing materials. More than $202 million.

—Model Railroads. All scales, kit and ready to run, includes layouts, track and accessories, power. More than $112 million.

—Model Car Racing. Home and commercial racing sets, all gauges, track and accessories, kits, buildings. More than $101 million.

This country is extremely age conscious. That is why a new group has been formed called "40 Anonymous" to help people overcome the problem. Here's how it works. Several months before reaching age 40, birthdays are invited to a group therapy program.

There is a ten-minute film where Doris Day wrinkles her nose, moistens her lips and smiles, "I'm over 40 and I still have freckles" just to get the audience in a receptive mood.

Meatless Recipes To Highlight Cooking School

A cooking school featuring meatless cookery, sponsored by the Greenville Seventh-Day Adventist Church, will be held Jan. 27-30.

The school will be held at the Brookhaven SDA School, located at 4611 E. 10th St., from 7-9 p.m. Mrs. Dorothy Rose of Vanceboro will conduct the sessions. Mrs. Rose has qualified as an instructor for classes in home nutrition and healthful food preparation through the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists.

Instructions will be given on using soy products as a substitute, on wheat germ products and natural foods.

"The basic idea of the school is to offer foods from vegetables and produce meat-like dishes without the high cost. The dishes are both tasty and economical," said Mrs. Rose.

The dishes prepared each evening will be available for tasting at 7 p.m.

The cooking school is open to the public at no charge.

A suede-look fabric from Japan has appeared in fall collections. The fabric is so new and experimental that it doesn't have a name yet. It's referred to as "V-1."

Then a testimonial is given. The one I heard was from Sylvai X.

"I'm over 40," she said in a faltering voice. (Applause) "A few months ago I was depressed and morose and thought life was not worth living. I got a chill when the furnace blower went on. I refused to eat apples even though I had my own teeth. I nipped at Geritol in the mornings after the kids went to school. I sent sympathy cards to myself and refused to start any long novels. A friend suggested I come to a '40 Anonymous' meeting. That night I heard Strom Thurmond speak. He was wonderful.

"I went home and practiced saying '40' in front of the mirror. I thought I was cured. Then one night I went to a party. Everyone there was under 30. I was terrible. No one knew the verse and chorus to the Beer Barrel Polka. They have never heard of Lyle Talbot or Maria Montez. When I said Okey Dokey, they laughed.

"I went berserk that night and drew a mustache on the Mod Squad; made an obscene phone call to Annette Funicello. A member of '40 Anonymous' found me throwing rocks at a rock festival. 'Get hold of yourself,' he said, 'Just say out loud, I am forty.'

"I am fofoooooofoooooorrrr... I can't do it," I cried.

"YOU CAN!" he challenged. "It's no use," I said. "This world is for the youth. Everyone around me is younger than I am. My doctor carries his stethoscope in a gym bag. My attorney has to shave only once a week. My son's math teacher is still in braces. I rode a plane the other day with training wheels on it. Good Lord, man, don't you understand I am older than Mickey Mouse."

Sylvia's voice broke. "Today, I am proud to say I have learned to live with my problem one day at a time." (Applause)

That night I stood in front of my mirror and said, "My name is Erma X and I' fffffffffff... I don't look it, but I'm fffff... some days I look... fffffoooo... last year I was..." It was no use. I called "40 Anonymous" to come over and have a drink.

Forget Debt, Charge It To Friendship

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, a friend of mine came to me for financial help. He had gotten a girl in trouble (he was a family man) and needed $500 for an abortion.

I gave him the cash. When he got his next paycheck he gave me $50 toward the debt. Then he had some more hard luck. One of his teen-aged kids was in a car accident and had to spend five months in a hospital. The bills were unbelievable, so he couldn't pay anything on what he owed me.

Then my friend got sick, had surgery, and he was terminal. Thank God he went fast.

I don't know why, but I told my wife this man owed me $450, but I never told her what for. Now she's after me to collect the debt from his widow, who got some good insurance benefits.

I had no note, but my word would be good with his widow. But what if she asks me what it was for?

EL CENTRO

DEAR EL: I don't know what your financial situation is, but unless you are desperate for the $450, forget it, and charge it to friendship.

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful idea, but I need your help. We should go back to God's laws, so I thought up the idea of having the Ten Commandments printed on bed sheets and pillow cases.

If all the people who are shoplifting were to see "Thou shalt not steal" printed on their bedsheets every night, they would quit stealing.

Also, people need to be reminded that it is a sin to kill, and to commit adultery, and to covet another man's wife. They forget that it's God's law to honor their mothers and fathers, and to remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy. If we had the Ten Commandments printed on bedsheets and pillow cases, it could change the world.

I wrote to two manufacturers of bed linen, and even sent them a sample sheet that I made up myself, and they both turned me down flat.

GREAT IDEA IN WASHINGTON

DEAR GREAT: Send me a sample, and I'll sleep on it.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it considered the wife's responsibility to take care of all the social obligations? SHE has to acknowledge all the gifts with thank-you notes. And if she doesn't do it, THEY don't have bad manners. SHE does.

SHE is expected to remember all the birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, graduations, etc. on both sides of the family. She also has to do all the Christmas shopping for her family and his.

The fact that the husband "works" supposedly excuses him from all other obligations—even buying a birthday card for his own mother. Today many wives are also working full-time outside the home, but this isn't an acceptable excuse for them.

A WOMAN, NATURALLY

DEAR WOMAN: I'm no genius, but I'll try: The notion that all the social obligations should be handled by the wife is a carry-over from the days when the wife stayed home and took care of the kids, the kitchen, the correspondence and the Christmas list.

Today, when so many women contribute financially to the support of the family, I think their husbands should assume their fair share of the social obligations.

One Hopeful Economic Signal

Recessions are not pleasant, particularly for those who find themselves laid off from their jobs, but this recession is helping to curb inflation.

The latest wholesale prices index, for December, shows that wholesale prices declined for the first time in 14 months. This doesn't mean much to the consumer until it is translated into the retail prices that the consumer eventually pays.

In months past when the wholesale index took big jumps it showed up in higher retail prices a few months later. Now that there has been a decrease we should be able to expect that, too, to show in retail prices in the weeks ahead.

Many observers have maintained that only a recession would break the cruel inflationary cycle which has plagued us all for so long. The thought was that with a surplus of goods on hand prices would be reduced—or at least the price increases would slow—as sharper trading was required to sell goods.

Of course, we have the problem of rapidly increasing energy costs which underlie all industrial expenses. Still the recession does seem to be slowing the rapidly increasing prices which we have seen for some time.

Inflation is as great a problem as recession and if we are finally licking inflation we all have something to be thankful for.

More Frequent Meets Should Be Beneficial

The City Council has adopted on a trial basis a plan for meeting twice monthly.

The first meeting will be on the first Thursday at 8 p.m. The second is to be on the third Thursday at 4 p.m.

We would expect that the more frequent meetings would give the council more time to handle the many matters which now come before them.

Meeting at different times will also give citizens more opportunity to attend council meetings.

Action Is Really Reaction

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—With the 1975 session of the General Assembly on its way, it is well to remember that what happens will be the end of a great deal of activity, rather than a beginning.

Contradictory as that may sound, it is indicative of the nature of legislative government: it reacts, rather than acts.

Rare is the initiative taken by a legislative body. The spotlight focuses routinely on the floor debate and vote, and to the casual observer, that is where the action is.

But in most cases, the action has taken place elsewhere, and has been pushed by other people. Generally, the outcome of the issue has been predetermined in months, even years, gone by.

There are, among others, three basic movements to legislative action: special interest groups originate a need, an idea, or a desire; widespread public support is rallied to the cause; legislative resources are cultivated and recruited to carry the banner in the General Assembly.

An Inter-Dependence

So it is rare that major legislation is created and passed from public interest alone—a pressure group usually must push and organize the activity.

Equally rare is the ability of an interest group alone, in absence of public outcry, to gain passage of legislation—although that does happen from time to time.

Even more rare is the initiation of legislation by a legislator.

Defining special interest groups is difficult because the phrase is indeed broad. It is also fraught with connotations of meaning which in some minds create an aversion to such pressure activities.

That should not be the case, and legislators recognize the importance of pressure groups to the legislative process.

Falling within the broad parameters of pressure groups are state agencies, even the governor's office; educators; bankers; utilities; town and county officials; organized groups of laymen in a variety of fields from civic clubs to those dedicated to improving the lots of the mentally retarded or physically handicapped.

Even bicyclists. This may be the year when bicycles are recognized by the General Assembly, and a look at the history is illustrative of the slow and deliberate pace of legislative government reacting.

Bicycle sales spurted in the past three years, individuals rode them (adults as opposed to kids) for fun and recreation. As people are inclined, clubs were formed, ultimately organizing statewide.

Still No Luck

Sales continued to grow, boosted by the energy shortage and high car prices and riders began to agitate for bike trails protected from traffic—with little success so far.

But public support has begun to rally behind the pressure group of cyclists as the sense of riding bikes for fun and profit grows clear.

Perhaps this session money will finally be appropriated for bike trails—probably on a pilot project or so.

The same track can be followed by the close observer of legislative procedures as the General Assembly votes on kindergarten, reading emphasis in the schools, prison reform, land use legislation, etc.

The process often takes years. Frequently, a General Assembly can be more accurately judged by things it did not do, rather than laws passed.

So the process moves from local special interest groups to statewide interest to public support; followed by legislative consideration committee, public hearings, commission study, and introduction of legislation—often the end of the process.

The people who drafted North Carolina's Constitution meant it to be this way. There are built-in safeguards against hasty action; the process is forced to be slow and deliberate—not only by political considerations, but by law requiring committee study and a maze-like track through two often-competing houses of the General Assembly.

If, by the way, a citizen wishes to influence legislative direction, it is clear that rushing to Raleigh on the final day of floor debate is futile. Best get yourself into a pressure group.

Public Isn't Impressed

SAN DIEGO—Assuming that a critical need exists for the conservation of energy, what should government do when voluntary measures fail? The answer, sad to say, is that government must apply compulsory measures instead.

John C. Sawhill, the former energy administrator, offered that melancholy observation a few days ago to the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives. His speech coincided with President Ford's State of the Union address and thus went unnoticed in the news, but this was a major statement from Sawhill and it merits sober attention.

His point was that Americans are marvelous when it comes to responding to emergencies they can see or hear. Given a Pearl Harbor, they mobilize instantly. Confronting the damage of a hurricane, tornado, or flood, they rally superbly. In Sawhill's view—and he ranks among the nation's most knowledgeable experts in the field—the energy situation demands the same sacrificial response. But few persons sense the urgency; the stimulus of late year's embargo has worn off; and appeals for voluntary conservation go widely unheeded.

"The alternative," Sawhill said, "is to willingly accept mandatory conservation as the only means of assuring equitable, effective and continued savings."

His continuing recommendation is for a whopping tax on gasoline at the pump. He is satisfied that such a tax "would zero in on our most wasteful use of oil, that it could substantially dampen gasoline consumption and result in significant savings."

President Ford's proposal for a $3 per barrel tax on foreign crude, in Sawhill's view, would prove counterproductive. Such tariffs or taxes "cut across the whole spectrum of petroleum products." Their impact, he said, is likely to work its way through the entire economy—through all forms of transportation, industry, utilities, and agriculture.

"Industrial fuels, feedstocks for the plastic industry, competitive fuels will all be affected. Estimates of the 'ripple' effect go as high as $40 billion in increased prices at the consumer level. Ultimately, with a public increasingly aware of the energy situation, such results might well prove every bit as politically distasteful as reaction to a targeted gasoline tax."

I wish it were possible to quarrel with Sawhill's observations and conclusions. The essence of American society is that ours is a voluntary society. We abhor compulsion. But the 55-mile-per-hour limit on our highways is widely disregarded. Little talk is heard of 65-degree living rooms. Industrial consumption of energy reflects little serious attention to conservation. Only four electric generating plants in the whole country have responded to the President's appeal for conversion from fuel oil to coal.

Chou's Hint To U.S.

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai has given President Ford a broad hint that the Chinese Communist regime would like to see more American troops withdrawn from Taiwan soon.

In a "state of the nation" address to the National People's Congress in Peking last week, the 76-year-old premier said there are still fundamental differences between China and the United States, but "owing to the joint efforts of both sides, the relations between the two countries have improved to some extent in the last three years, and contacts between the two peoples have developed."

Then he added: "The relations between the two countries will continue to improve so long as the principles of the Sino-American Shanghai communique are carried out in earnest."

The Shanghai communique which President Nixon and Chou signed in February, 1972, promised the withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Taiwan—some 5,000 remain—and ultimately full diplomatic relations between the two governments. Each now maintains a liaison office in the other's capital, a step short of full diplomatic relations.

Chou sees the Chinese-American rapprochement as a means of countering Soviet expansion in the Far East. He also views the Japanese-American alliance as an aid to this policy. Speaking Monday in Peking with Shigeru Hori of Japan's ruling Liberal-Democratic party, Chou reportedly said the ties between Washington and Tokyo are "of very great importance," and the Japanese people must "fully understand their significance."

Chou in his speech to the congress predicted that the ideological quarrel between the Chi-

Pitt Theater, Greenville's new playhouse, formally opened its doors to the theater-goers of the community with a good bit of entertainment and an enthusiastic crowd. Manager T. Y. Walker and representatives of North Carolina Theaters, Inc., operators of the new house, were on hand to welcome the visitors.

The new theater, which cost over $50,000, was built by C. H. Edwards and leased to the operators. The building is colonial in design and the beauty of the interior is not surpassed by any theater in this section. The building was constructed to give the best possible reproduction of sound pictures and has the very latest improved sound production equipment.

The lobby, spacious foyer and interior, together with the special lighting effects, present a pleasing appearance to the theater-goer. The building will seat 500 persons.

The INSIDE REPORT

Ford Is Holding The 'Gun'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Once President Ford finally perceived the reality of the energy crisis, he made a strategic decision that could have fateful consequences: to impose an import tax on oil without asking specific congressional authority.

"That's a gun at our head," one outraged Senate Democrat complained. The gun is the gradually rising oil import tax, which would create agonizing maladjustments throughout the economy unless other crucial aspects of Mr. Ford's program are passed by Congress. This is privately confirmed within the administration. "Sure, it's a gun at their head," one senior official told us. "How else can you get Congress to move?"

But reaction by many key Democratic Congressmen forbodes the worst: refuse to move at all but instead stare down the President, forcing him to drop the import tax. Thus, instead of forceful action vital to the national interest, the first comprehensive energy program ever to come from the White House could result in dangerous stalemate.

That Mr. Ford is playing high stakes poker with Congress shows how far he has travelled the last two months. When Mr. Ford returned from Vladivostok Nov. 24, he seemed oblivious to reality—including the untended energy crisis.

However, briefings soon educated Mr. Ford to the need for mandatory conservation. Long before he realized what was at stake, Mr. Ford had promised no new gasoline tax. Since he was philosophically opposed to rationing, only one option remained: taxing all oil to force up prices and reduce consumption.

That left Mr. Ford with this choice: should he use existing law to tax imported oil or should he ask Congress for new statutory authority as part of the energy legislative package? The decision, essentially political, was in Mr. Ford's own hands.

The President made his decision about two weeks ago, without much agonizing and without consulting Republican congressional leaders—two characteristics of his presidency. So critical is the energy problem, he told advisers, that he must act now, without waiting for a dawdling Congress.

Since then, there have been backstage rumblings among middle-level bureaucrats. While overjoyed by the rare sight of a President actually engaged in energy problems, they wondered whether their handiwork was being sent to oblivion in the heavily Democratic new Congress. Instead of confronting Congress with a fait accompli in the oil import tax, they asked, might it not be better to ask specific authority for the sake of conciliation?

But the President's major energy advisers did not join the dissent. Thus, the decision was not seriously questioned in the closing hours before Mr. Ford's televised talk Monday night. The only late revision was changing the flat $3 a barrel import levy to a gradually ascending $1 on Feb. 1, $2 on March 1 and $3 on April 1.

Actually, there are private misgivings within the administration about the entire package—of which the import tax is the first step—even if fully enacted by Congress. It would raise the retail price of gasoline by 12 cents a gallon at most, perhaps not enough to reduce consumption as much as needed. Moreover, it "would come down hard on public" (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

To the editor:

Although pretty closely confined, I get a rather wide echo of public opinion and, seemingly, a great many voters share my concern over the polarization of our Council Members. As one prominent Greenville recently said, it's doubtful that they could agree on which way is north.

Alarmingly, this difference is the result of personal ambition and desire for recognition, and precludes reasonable consideration of most questions. A glaring case in point is the Green Mill Run problem. The Council bickers about the Corps of Engineers solution and decides nothing. They ignore the obvious advantages available at East Carolina University.

From 50 years of experience, I believe that excellent body is flatly incapable of proper solution of stream flooding problems. At least on streams smaller than major rivers. An excellent example of Corps of Engineers "blunders" is the Drum Inlet fiasco.

East Carolina University has better talent than the Engineers with a great deal more competence and common sense, not to mention greater and more intimate knowledge of the local considerations.

Several years ago I looked into ECU's resources and abilities and asked Dr. Jenkins if they could and would find the solution for the City. He said yes, enthusiastically. But the Council, then, would not ask ECU for anything, and perhaps some Council members wouldn't consider it, now.

Finally, I seriously doubt that Federal and State financial assistance is limited to the Corps of Engineers.

Angry Man Over Devaluations

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Last year was another disastrous one for world currencies, says Franz Pick. They were debased in value by official devaluations and the issuance of overly large supplies.

In years past, says this monetary consultant to industry and governments, the refugees from money could find sanctuary in other investments, such as art and just about anything else that might be auctioned.

But alas, 1974 was a treacherous one at the auctions also. "The Victorian credo of investment, income and growth had become meaningless, yielding only negative returns," said Pick in his annual report on investments.

Early in the year it was okay, he observes, but "after the start of the autumn auctions in Manhattan, London, Geneva, Zurich and Paris, the monetary wreckage . . . reduced the assets of art dealers as well as collectors."

By the end of the year, even the Japanese had gone home, leaving the surging market in Far Eastern art without its base. The old masters, French impressionists and post-impressionists had to be repurchased by owners.

Pick is a very angry man, angry about devaluations, which he terms "fraudulent state bankruptcies," angry about the dilution of monetary values, he terms "monetary demolition."

Since 1946, he estimates, there have been 1,500 full or partial devaluations, which he maintains is a good deal the cause of "the tides of business recession" turning into "the waves of economic depression."

Unable to stop the weakening of currencies, Pick long ago began studying the alternatives to holding currency. And almost anything—wine, art, old ships, metals—seems to hold its value better than currency.

While it wasn't a satisfactory year for many items, especially in relation to the boom of 1973, Pick did find quite a few investments that turned out pretty well.

His leader for 1974, "quite unexpected," was antique furniture. Top auction prices for specific American pieces rose 215 per cent by his reckoning, with Chippendale in the lead.

Five American Chippendale chairs dating to 1770 were purchased for $207,500. A Chippendale car table, carved by a Philadelphia artisan, sold for $90,000. A Massachusetts-made Chippendale mahogany chest brought $65,000.

Vintage photography also worked its way into the list, rising at least 200 per cent, according to Pick's study of auction prices. Snuff boxes rose 95 per cent. Art nouveau, mainly Tiffany lamps, rose 180 per cent.

Strength For Today

LATENT SPIRITUAL POWER
People generally do not realize what spiritual power is at their disposal if they will but use it.

It is strange how men and women can be satisfied with anything less than the best God has to give them. Many are willing to limp when they might run, to lie prone on the ground in discouragement when they might rise with eagle's wings. It is astounding how, day after day, people can face a troubled conscience and not decide to rectify it by confession and restitution. We are weak when we might be strong, discouraged when we might be confident, defeated when we might be triumphant. And all this because we lack religious faith.

Those who keep their hearts open in God's direction learn a great lesson at last, and profit by it: "Beloved, now we are the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be. But we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is."

Alcoholic Describes 7-Year-Old Decision

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer
"I am an alcoholic and I am not ashamed to admit it," Don Newcombe, former professional baseball star, told guests of the Alcoholism Road Show at Wright Auditorium Monday night.

DON NEWCOMBE

"The first thing that an alcoholic has to admit, is to admit to himself that he is an alcoholic and he is diseased and he is willing to do something about it," Newcombe said. Newcombe, the featured speaker at the Road Show charged possible alcoholics to say to themselves "I am an alcoholic and I'm going to do something about it," and to repeat it again and again. "Working with the National Clearing House we try to make people aware of the problems of alcohol, but we can't make the people admit that they are alcoholics," he continued. "Seven years ago, I woke up after drinking a fifth or maybe two fifths and I saw my wife and children with their bags packed and ready to leave me," Newcombe explained. "At that time I put my hand on my seven year old son, Don, Jr., and I said 'Honey I swear I'll never have another drink as long as I live. I've made it so far.'"

Other speakers at the Road Show were as follows: Wade Williams, Ben Aiken, Deputy Secretary of the Department of Human Resources; Dr. Robert Holt, Vice-Chancellor of ECU; Bob Lucas, ECU Student Government Association President; Bill Kelly, Van Fleming, Treasurer of the Pitt County ABC Board; Don Hayes, Director of the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center; Dabney Overton, Director of Cherry Hospital; Bob Hufford, Jerry Lotterhos, Alcoholism Training Program at ECU; Chauncey Douglas, Miss Black Teenage World; Sedalia Green; and Glenda Bailey, Miss Goldsboro, 1975.

"In 1972 the N.C. Legislature passed law that called for an additional tax of five cents per bottle of alcohol sold in North Carolina to be used exclusively for alcohol education. In Pitt County alone for the last fiscal year 850,000 bottles of alcoholic beverages were sold amounting to $42,500 for educational uses," explained Bill Kelley.

The Road Show besides offering information concerning awareness of alcohol, also was a program including entertainment by the ECU Jazz Band conducted by George Bousard.

The Road Show was planned by Tom Paine and Paul Barwick as a means to make more people aware of the problems that alcohol can cause. The program, one of the first of its kind in Eastern North Carolina, was also designed to help kick-off the Alcoholics Awareness Week.

BEN AIKEN

The co-ordinators of the program are hoping that the success of the road show may inspire more similar alcoholic awareness programs throughout the United States.

Metaphorically, the people do not see limbs down, buildings destroyed, or cities flooded. They see plenty of gas. Why shouldn't Junior drive the car to school?

Sawhill pleads for understanding and awareness. Despite potential increases in domestic energy supplies in the years ahead, "the country will have to adjust to a fundamental new reality: Our energy binge has come to an abrupt end." Even with the most concerted efforts, it will take years to develop new coal mines, to build new refineries, and to get atomic energy plants on the line. The capital requirements will be "staggering." Present levels of consumption could not be maintained without risking havoc to the environment.

In brief, the immediate and continuing conservation of energy is imperative. The hurricane already is upon us. Compulsory measures must be imposed, says Sawhill, but there is no reason for panic. Other Western countries manage to sustain their economies and to live comfortably with per capita energy uses much lower than ours. The overriding needs are two—for the people to accept the presence of a crisis they cannot see, and for government to impose immediate mandatory restraints on consumption. That is Sawhill's analysis. He makes unpleasant but undeniable sense.

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose another seven-tenths of a per cent in December, giving the nation an inflation rate of 12.2 per cent in 1974, the government reported today. It was the highest inflation rate in 28 years and the worst in peacetime on record.

And, as inflation clipped more than 12 cents off the value of every dollar, the government also said the purchasing power of the average worker's paycheck fell 5.4 per cent last year.

The Labor Department said last year's 12.2 per cent increase in the cost of living was the highest since prices soared 18.2 per cent in 1946 when World War II price controls were lifted.

It was also the sharpest in-utilities and airlines, two industries on the edge of disaster.

But to do no more than the $3 a barrel levy on imported oil is totally unacceptable. Apart from causing economic dislocations, the import tax by itself would boost gasoline pump prices no more than 3 cents a gallon, a guarantee of no reduction in consumption. Accordingly, Ford strategists reason that, to make it meaningful, Congress will be forced to pass the rest of the program.

That includes not only the delightful congressional task of cutting income taxes but less pleasurable chores: a $2 a barrel excise tax on domestic oil (after which the import tax would fall to the same $2 level); deregulating "old" (relatively cheap) domestic oil; imposing a tough windfall profits tax on the oil companies.

But many Democrats view this as merely Mr. Ford's opening bid in negotiations and will not act until he offers a new proposal. Others feel Mr. Ford really expects congressional inaction so he can flay the do-nothing 94th Democratic Congress in Harry Truman style.

This raises the grim prospect of an oil import levy starting Feb. 1 with nothing else—except, of course, income tax cuts—adopted by Congress, leaving the Republican President and Democratic Congress shouting dirty politics at each other. Whoever really deserved the blame, the disastrous impact of government stalemate, continued lack of confidence and no effective energy program could then result from President Ford's having decisively imposed the import levy on his own.

crease ever recorded in peacetime since the government began measuring consumer prices in 1913. The old record for a nonwar year was in 1916 when prices rose 11.6 per cent.

However, despite last year's record rate of inflation, the latest price report offered some solace in the fact that inflation has been easing in recent months. The seven-tenths of a per cent rise in December was the smallest in five months and followed increases of nine-tenths of a per cent in both October and November.

Wholesale prices also have been declining in recent months and this trend is expected to begin showing up in retail prices early this year. However, new energy taxes proposed by President Ford would, if approved by Congress, add about two percentage points to the inflation rate this year, the administration has said.

The December increase in over-all prices pushed the government's Consumer Price Index to 155.4, meaning that it cost $155.40 to buy a variety of goods and services which cost $100 in the 1967 base period.

The government said food accounted for a fourth of the increases in consumer prices last year while price increases for energy products, including gasoline, fuel oil, coal and natural gas, were responsible for more than a tenth of the increase. Detailing its price report, the Labor Department said sugar and most other foods, house-keeping supplies, gas and electricity and public transportation accounted for most of the rise in December prices. Beef, fresh fruits and vegetables, clothing and used cars declined.

Food prices, including restaurant meals and snacks, rose seven-tenths of a per cent last month and were 12.2 per cent higher than a year ago. Grocery prices posted a similar increase rising eight-tenths of a per cent in December to a level 12.4 per cent above a year ago. Nonfood items last month rose four-tenths of a per cent, the smallest increase since September 1973.

Gasoline and motor oil prices were 20.2 per cent higher than a year ago while prices for fuel oil and coal declined slightly last month but were still 32.4 per cent higher during the 12-month period. The average U.S. price for regular gasoline was 52.8 cents per gallon in December, while premium gasoline prices averaged 56.8 cents, the government reported.

With household costs, transportation services and higher charges for medical care, the cost for services last month was up nine-tenths of a per cent, to a level 11.3 per cent higher than a year ago.

Over-all retail prices rose at an annual rate of 10.1 per cent in the fourth quarter as against increases in the first three quarters of the year of 14.2 per cent, 10.3 per cent and 14.2 per cent, respectively.

Weekly earnings averaged $159.87 in December, compared with $149.51 a year earlier, the report said.

The July increase in the Consumer Price Index was seven-tenths of a per cent, the same as December. It had gone up only five-tenths in April.

A special ritual practice is planned for tonight at seven o'clock for officers and committee chairmen of Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, according to Mrs. Peggy Jamieson, senior regent.

The ritual practice is in preparation for a visit of Miss Kay Cancie of Mooseheart, Ill., grand chancellor of WOTM, Jan. 31.

WOTM chapters from throughout eastern North Carolina have been invited to send candidates here for a special enrollment ceremony honoring Miss Cancie.

Mrs. Jamieson urged all elected and appointed officers and committee chairmen to attend tonight's practice.

Enough Skiing For This Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — As snow deepened outside the Oval Office, President Ford talked informally with advisers about skiing. He told them ski resorts like those in New England might have faced economic disaster if they hadn't had a good Christmas season this year.

But when a reporter asked Ford Monday if this year's schedule includes more skiing like he did on his recent year-end vacation in Vail, Colo., he said the season is over for him. "I've had it" for the year, Ford said with a smile.

nese and Soviet Communist parties will "go on for a long time." But he again held out the olive branch, saying the debate over Marxism should not obstruct relations between the two neighbors.

He aid negotiations on their border dispute have "yielded no results" since 1969, largely because Moscow refuses to agree to a mutual pullback of troops. He urged the Russians to "sit down and negotiate honestly, do something to solve a bit of the problem and stop playing such deceitful tricks."

Chou's over-all assessment of the international situation was Peking's familiar one that the world is in a mess, and this is good for revolution. He also made the ritual prophecy that another world war is a certainty because of the rivalry between the Soviet and American superpowers.

Grand Jury Indicts Williamston Chief

RALEIGH—A federal grand jury, meeting in Raleigh yesterday, has indicted Williamston Police Chief John Swain on 11 counts of trying to defraud the government in connection with grants the department received from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration of the U.S. Department of Justice.

The grand jury returned a true bill in one indictment against the 36-year-old Swain, charging that he conspired with nine other members of the Williamston Police Department to defraud the government by making and using false statements in connection with three grants obtained from LEAA during the period May 1, 1971 through October 31, 1974.

According to spokesmen for the U.S. Attorney's office in Raleigh this morning, the names of the nine officers named as unindicted co-conspirators were unavailable.

True bills were also returned on 10 counts charging Swain with making false statements to the government by submitting false request for reimbursement of funds for payment of overtime to officers in the Williamston Police Department under an LEAA grant, "knowing that overtime had not been performed."

Williamston town officials, asked about the matter this morning, said Police Commissioner Wilbur Edwards and other members of the town board were meeting late this morning with the town attorney to discuss the matter.

Holshouser Goals...

sion has begun to reverse the rate structure so a greater burden falls on industrial, rather than residential users.

"Other reforms may be possible, but we must avoid the danger of trying to meet the current hardship with a short-sighted response that will in turn create even greater hardships later. The temptation for demagoguery is great," he said.

Holshouser defended the budget commission's decision to delete numerous requests, including a reading improvement program for the public schools, a veterinary school at N.C. State in Raleigh and further pay raises for teachers and state employees.

He said the public schools are not ready to solve the reading problem by "throwing money at it."

State employees and teachers, he said, should be grateful that they enjoy job security other North Carolinians do not have. And, he said, the veterinary schools being built by other southeastern states will take care of North Carolina's students far more cheaply than a new school.

Owens Paces 110-78 Blitz Of Davidson

DAVIDSON — Going into last night's game with East Carolina, the Davidson Wildcats had been anything but spectacular, losing their only two Southern Conference starts, and holding only a 3-10 record.

But Monday, they were playing their first game in familiar Johnston Gym, so things should be different—right? Wrong!

By the time the Pirates had finish their rampage through that once dread place, the Wildcats had been sent reeling with a 110-78 setback, and the Bucs were even more firmly entrenched in first place in the Southern Conference standings.

Mt. Olive In Win Over Pitt

WINTERVILLE—Mt. Olive Junior College rolled to a 96-70 victory over Pitt Technical Institute. But it wasn't what it was the last time the two teams met.

In that, Mt. Olive ran off an 86-point victory margin, but they couldn't do it this time.

The two teams traded the first two baskets each for a 4-4 tie, but Pitt Tech got cold at that point, and Mt. Olive ran off a 23-6 margin during the first 10 minutes of play. That ran them out to a 27-10 lead over the Paladins. Pitt cut it back to 12 at 37-25, but fell back again and trailed, 50-31 at the half.

In the second half, Mt. Olive upped its lead to 20, 55-35, but Pitt Tech reeled off ten straight points and with 15 minutes left, trailed only 55-45. They stayed within striking distance the rest of the way, until with about three minutes left, their visitors pulled away again.

"It was our best defensive effort of the year," Coach Charles Coburn said. "Even though we lost, it still was a good game for us, all things considered."

Talmadge Brown led Mt. Olive with 19 points, while Harold Malloy and Art Pascahl each had 14. Alexander Taylor had 12, Dail Travis had 11 and Clarence Eppes had 10. For Pitt Tech, Larry Banks had 24, Michael Berry had 20 and A. J. Tyson had 12.

National Take Pro Bowl, 17-10

By SALL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
MIAMI (AP) — It was restoration of tarnished pride for the abused National Conference All-Stars, but it was a personal triumph for James Harris, the black quarterback castoff who some said would never be able to cut it.

"I wasn't trying to prove anything," the 6-foot-4, 215-pound signal-caller of the Los Angeles Rams said, reflecting on the NFC's 17-10 victory over the American Conference Monday night in the Pro Bowl football game.

"I just prayed I would play my best. I knew if I could play my best, with the best guys in the league supporting me, we were capable of doing the job."

Harris, a late replacement on the NFC squad for Minnesota's sore-armed Fran Tarkenton, was voted the most valuable player after taking over late in the second quarter for the injured Jim Hart of the St. Louis Cardinals and passing for two quick fourth-period touchdowns that won the game.

Moses Joyner led V-A with 22 points, while Charlie Jenkins and Eddie Chance each had 17 and Joe Crandall had 12. Tommy Roach led Union Carbide with 31, while Marvin Hardy hit 14, Garland Warren had 12 and Jimmy Sutton hit 10.

Union Carbide Drops 1st Loss

Vermont-American handed Union Carbide its first defeat in the Industrial Basketball League last night as the two divisions began inter-division play.

Danny Edwards led Pitt Memorial with 28, while Charles Taft had 16 and Johnny Maye had 10. Frank Brown led G-W with 28, with Ned Garris adding 13.

In the final game, Eaton nipped Proctor & Gamble, 53-52. Proctor & Gamble had pushed into a 29-18 lead at the half, but Eaton rallied for a 35-23 second half advantage, pulling out the win.

William Rouse led the winners with 16, while Tony Rouse hit 11. Ron Buie led P&G with 17, with Larry Taggart and Kick Allen adding 10 each.

Pirates Swim Past Keydets

East Carolina University's swimming Pirates romped to an easy 70-43 victory over Virginia Military Institute yesterday, remaining unbeaten in Southern Conference competition.

And that string of victories goes back to 1964, when the Pirates became members of the Southern.

The Bucs took the lead in the meet right away, winning the opening relay, and they took first place in the next two events to built up a lead.

Overall, East Carolina won seven individual events, while VMI won four, including both diving events. VMI's Northern, who took both of the diving events, was the meet's lone double winner.

Jock's Takes Division Lead

Jock's took over sole possession of first place in Division II of the City Basketball League last night with a victory over previously unbeaten Stewart's Sandwiches.

In the first game, Buccaneer took a 77-74 win over Hyman's. Buccaneer rolled up a 43-25 lead at the half, then had to hold off a Hyman's rally. Hyman's outthit them, 49-34, but it wasn't enough.

Robbie Wooten led the Buc with 25 points, while Dennis Wilkerson had 20 and Ray Edwards had 14. Hyman's was paced by Wayne Brown with 29, while Linwood Hyman had 15 and Cleveland Johnson had 14.

The Pirate defense was strong too—but clean. Davidson never got into a bonus situation, and got only two free throw chances during the night, missing both of those.

Gregg Ashorn, a senior at East Carolina University, was named Southern Conference Player of the Week today, marking the first time this year a Pirate has claimed the honor.

The 6-3 forward from Cincinnati, Ohio, helped the Pirates post two victories last week, as they upped their Southern Conference record to 4-0.

Ashorn hit 31 points in the two games, getting 14 in the 78-68 win over Appalachian and 17 in the 66-62 win over William & Mary. During the span, he hit 13 of 28 shots from the line and five of

Mobley, Moye Pacing Area Scoring Race

D. H. Conley's Rick Mobley and Farmville Central's Julia Moye head the latest standings in the Pitt-Martin-Greene scoring race. And Conley's Vikings along with Williamston's Tigerettes continue to post the best records.

Mobley heads the boys' scoring race with an 18.2 average, just a half-point ahead of Ayden-Grifton's Willie Williams, who sports a 17.7 mark. Behind them come Mike Corbett of Farmville Central, 15.4, and Melvin Williams of Conley, 15.1.

Others in the top ten include Donnie Perkins of North Pitt, 15.0; Eric Davis, 13.9 and Jerry Angus, 13.8, both of Jamesville, Paul Jones of Oak City, 13.6; and Ronnie Barrett of Rose and JoJo Purvis of Williamston, both 13.5.

Miss Moye heads the girls' scoring race with a 15.9 mark, followed by North Pitt's Kathi Manning at 14.9. Beatrice Forrest of Robersonville, who led earlier in the year, has tumbled to third at 13.5, while Williamston claims the next three places with Sissy Taylor, 12.5; Nancy Williams, 11.8 and Fran Hardison, 11.5.

For the first time, it took less than 10 points to break into the top 20 for the boys. (One boy and one girl both have averages over 10, but are not listed since they have not played in at least two-thirds of the games played by their teams.)

In the boys' offensive race, D. H. Conley holds the best average, hitting 68.9 points a game. Rose is second at 67.5, followed by North Pitt at 61.9.

Defensively, Greene Central has the best average, allowing 45.1 points a game. Conley is second at 52.9, while Bear Grass is third at 53.8.

Time-lapse photographs show how gradual action of Lady Grecian Formula lets you control just how much gray you slowly get rid of—some of it or all of it.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (Special)—Thousands of women all over the country are discovering a remarkable new product specially developed and tested for women's hair. It not only takes the guesswork out of hair coloring but also eliminates the gray roots problem that has for years been a thorn in the side of all women who color their hair. Lady Grecian Formula is not a dark messy dye. It is a colorless liquid as easy to use as water. There is no mess, no complicated instructions, no

Miss Moye heads the girls' scoring race with a 15.9 mark, followed by North Pitt's Kathi Manning at 14.9. Beatrice Forrest of Robersonville, who led earlier in the year, has tumbled to third at 13.5, while Williamston claims the next three places with Sissy Taylor, 12.5; Nancy Williams, 11.8 and Fran Hardison, 11.5.

For the first time, it took less than 10 points to break into the top 20 for the boys. (One boy and one girl both have averages over 10, but are not listed since they have not played in at least two-thirds of the games played by their teams.)

In the boys' offensive race, D. H. Conley holds the best average, hitting 68.9 points a game. Rose is second at 67.5, followed by North Pitt at 61.9.

Defensively, Greene Central has the best average, allowing 45.1 points a game. Conley is second at 52.9, while Bear Grass is third at 53.8.

Only four schools are outscoring their opponents, led by Conley at 16.0 per game. Greene

Quizzed On Slush Fund Report

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Law enforcement agents have interviewed John J. Ryan about his allegations that when he was head of North Carolina operations for Southern Bell he administered a political slush fund for the telephone company. Ryan has said that eight of his top executives kept replenishing the fund, which was used for contributions to both Republican and Democratic candidates in North Carolina although such contributions by corporations are illegal. Ryan, who made his allegations in a recent newspaper interview, claims Southern Bell fired him a year and a half ago. The company claims he was retired and received a payment of $75,000 in 1973 after signing a release which said he would make no further claims. Ryan said he does not anticipate meeting with FBI agents again since he is cooperating fully with investigators for the Federal Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). Ryan testified under federal subpoena to SEC investigators last Saturday and Sunday in Fort Worth, Tex. The investigators are looking into allegations of political slush fund activity and deceitful rate-increase practices by Southwestern Bell Telephone in its Texas operations. These allegations were made by two former executives.

Ryan said Monday that he has continued to receive harassing telephone calls from anonymous persons who expressed dislike for his allegations against Southern Bell.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and of the State Bureau of Investigation interviewed him Monday. The agents began investigating whether state and federal laws on political campaigns had been violated.

Ryan is to meet with SBI agents again Thursday. They will prepare a report for Mecklenburg County Dist. Atty. Peter Gilchrist on whether state laws against corporate political contributions have been violated.

Great Decisions Program Again Being Sponsored

"Great Decisions-1975," a program of discussions of current issues, will be sponsored by East Carolina University's Division of Continuing Education again this year. The program is offered by the Foreign Policy Association, a private, non-profit and non-partisan organization which works to develop through education an informed and articulate American public opinion on major issues in world affairs.

The basic requirement for involvement in the program is that at least five interested persons agree to meet once a week for eight weeks and discuss the topics covered in this year's "Great Decisions" booklet.

Topics include the world food problem, the Soviet Union Detente, progress in Brazil, the changing world economy, controlling nuclear weapons, the future of Japan, the oil states and the Persian Gulf, and using the oceans and the seabed.

The only cost of participation is the price of the "Great Decisions" booklet. No professional discussion leader is required, since all information needed is given in the booklet.

The UNC television network will carry weekly programs related to the series beginning the week of February 2. Groups who wish to use the television programs as an additional resource should consider scheduling their series then.

ECU is eastern North Carolina's coordinator for the program. The Foreign Policy Association has judged the area's recent programs as the most improved in the nation. The North Carolina "Great Decisions" participation in general has been cited as the most outstanding of state programs throughout the U.S.

Further information about "Great Decisions" is available from Richard Morin at the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville, or telephone 758-6143.

Opening lead: Two of ♣.

The 25th anniversary of the first Bermuda Bowl competition—the world bridge team championship—will be played in Bermuda last week of January. For the first time in world championship play, screens will be used. The screens are placed diagonally across the table during the bidding so that each player can see only one of his opponents, but not his partner. They are removed after the opening lead has been made.

Italy will again be defending the world title. However, the team will be weakened by the absence of Pietro Forquet who, in his heyday, was considered by many to be the world's best player. The only member of the original Blue Team that first won the world championship in 1957 who will be on the 1975 team is Giorgio Belladonna. His partnership with Benito Garozzo, a member of the team since 1961, is one of the strongest in the history of bridge, and they will spearhead Italy's attempt to retain world bridge supremacy.

When this hand was played in the 1974 Bermuda Bowl event, held in Venice, Belladonna and Garozzo sat East-West. After North's opening bid was passed round to him, Garozzo made a balancing double, and Belladonna converted it to penalties by passing. South sought to improve the contract, but ran into a double by West, followed by perfect defense.

Garozzo led a trump to the king, and Belladonna shifted to a low diamond. South could have saved a trick by playing the eight, but he made the natural play of an honor. West covered and dummy's ace won. The king of spades led to the ace, and another low diamond was led. Again the eight would have salvaged a trick, but declarer won the queen and shifted to hearts. West rose with the ace and returned a heart to his partner's king. On the ten of diamonds West discarded a spade, and then overruffed the fourth diamond and returned a spade. When East later got on lead with the ace of trumps, he continued a third spade, and there was no way declarer could prevent West's jack of trumps from scoring a trick. That was down three, or 800 points to Italy.

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott says he has received "indications" the Central Intelligence Agency will soon disclose the size of its total annual budget, for decades one of the government's most closely held secrets.

And Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., says the secret budget's size apparently is expanded by contributions to the spy agency by foreign nations, including Iran.

In an interview, Scott gave no details as to when the agency might release a budget total or how large that total might be.

He did say that CIA spending in the United States and overseas was high on the list of sub-

Find 13 Dead In Fire At Club

MONTREAL (AP) — Ten men and three women died early today in a night club fire that apparently was an underworld "settling of accounts," police reported.

Firemen fighting the blaze in the Gargantua club, in Montreal's east end, found the 13 bodies jammed into a locked back room, the police said.

A police spokesman said no shots had been fired and all the dead appeared to have been asphyxiated.

The police said they believed the fire was deliberately set.

jects discussed by CIA director William E. Colby and former director Richard M. Helms when they testified last week before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Cranston commented in what was described as "a blistering attack" on the CIA during a closed-door meeting of the Senate Democratic caucus. The caucus voted 45 to 7 to create a bipartisan Watergate-style panel to probe charges against the CIA and other intelligence agencies.

Cranston's handwritten speech notes were made available by his office. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he would name some younger senators among the Democrats he chooses for the committee. The resolution calls for a panel of either 7 or 11 senators with the size left to Mansfield and Scott, who would name the Republicans.

The caucus, with one senator abstaining and nine absent, gave Mansfield authority to bring to the Senate a resolution creating the committee with subpoena powers, a $750,000 budget and nine-month mandate expiring Sept. 1, 1975. The Senate is expected to agree to it.

The budgets of the CIA and other supersecret U.S. intelligence agencies are hidden in the annual appropriation for the Pentagon.

The annual total for all intelligence units has been estimated from a low of about $4 billion to a high of more than $8 billion. Two years ago, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., estimated that the CIA's portion of that was about $750 million a year. Ex-CIA official Victor Marchetti put the CIA budget at the same figure in the book "The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," published last year.

Cranston contended that there is no valid security reason for hiding intelligence spending figures from the public and members of Congress except the House and Senate Appropriations committee chairmen.

"CIA's ability to spend without control is apparently expanded by contributions to its budget by foreign nations — Iran — and by profits from the business fronts it operates like CIA's private air line: Air America," the Cranston speech notes said.

Meanwhile, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller said "the impression left so far" is that the CIA did not conduct a massive, illegal domestic spy operation. Rockefeller commented following a second day of appearances by former top U.S. intelligence officials before the blue-ribbon citizens commission on the CIA which he heads.

Gas Pipeline 'Finds' Additional Supply

At A Glance

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—A gas pipeline whose winter gas cutbacks to cities and industries threatened thousands of layoffs has unexpectedly come up with an extra two billion cubic feet of gas.

The additional natural gas eliminates the need for the Federal Power Commission to order emergency relief for three municipalities and three heavy industries seeking it, according to lawyers for Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. (Transco).

The three cities and two of the industries apparently agreed and either withdrew or postponed their requests Monday for immediate federal help.

The third industry, New Jersey Zinc Co. of Palmerton, Pa., declined to withdraw its request. However, it is embroiled in a side-dispute with its gas supplier, the Union Gas Co. New Jersey Zinc attorneys contend Union Gas has not released any of the additional gas earmarked for it by Transco.

The three cities are Danville,

Va.; Linden, Ala.; and Laurens, S.C. The two industries are the Stauffer Chemical Co. of Delaware and the Farmers Chemical Association of North Carolina.

All six petitioners for emergency gas supplies told a FPC judge last week that the curtailments this winter by Transco had either forced or threatened plant closings.

Still pending before FPC administrative law judge William Jensen are petitions from the six parties for permanent relief from the gas curtailments.

Transco officials said the extra two billion cubic feet should last at least until Feb. 15. Jensen has said he will issue an order on the requests for permanent, long-range relief on Feb. 13.

Transco attorney Thomas Ryan made the announcement of the extra gas during a Saturday hearing on the curtailments. He said it will come from a well field in the Gulf of Mexico off the Texas coast that has been out of production since September.

He said originally the wells there were not due to go back into production until mid-February. But an unexpected announcement from the gas producer will enable the gas field to go back into production this week, he said.

Ryan said the additional natural gas that will be delivered to curtailed customers between this week Feb. 15, in million cubic feet (mcf) are: Danville, 62,000; Stauffer Chemical, 90,000; Laurens, S.C., 21,000; Linden, Ala., 7,000; Farmers Chemical, 475,000; Union Gas Co. (for New Jersey Zinc Co.), 83,000.

RALEIGH (AP)—Here are highlights of spending and new programs recommended in the 1975-77 North Carolina state budget presented to the General Assembly Monday evening.

Spending—$3.38 billion in the first year of the biennium and $3.5 billion in the second year, compared to $3.2 billion in the current year.

Salaries—A 5 per cent raise for all state employees at the start of the first year, nothing in the second year, at a total cost of $153 million.

Higher Education—A $54 million medical school program for East Carolina University and $25.9 million for enrollment increases. Nothing for the proposed veterinary school at N.C. State or the law school building at N.C. Central.

Public Schools—Kindergarten classes for an additional 26,500 students at a cost of $32.3 million; 3,200 new staff jobs; $19.4 million for "exceptional" children; a $2.7 million pilot reading improvement program rather than the $22 million requested by the department.

Health Care—$26 million for additional state Medicaid costs; $1.9 million for rural clinics; $3.5 million for more staff at mental hospitals; $5.4 million to screen four-year-olds for childhood defects.

Prisons—$38 million for construction of new prisons; $9.2 million for additional guards and supervisors; and $2.5 million for additional health services to inmates.

Highways—Little increase in spending over the biennium due to declining gas tax revenues.

Taxes—No major tax revisions anticipated. End advance

$6.8 Billion N.C. Budget

set aside for it by the 1973-74 General Assembly.

The public school system will also be among those seeking redress from the legislature. The major new expansions of its budget occurred in the kindergarten and "exceptional children" programs.

The budget would add $32.3 million to the kindergarten program, providing classes for an additional 26,500 students. Three-fourths of the eligible youngsters in the state would be enrolled at the end of the biennium.

$19.4 million is set aside for helping the gifted and the retarded, to whom educators refer to as exceptional children, with special programs.

The public schools did not get the $22 million they requested for a reading improvement program. Instead, the recommendation was for a $2.7 million pilot program.

The largest single item in the public schools budget and the entire state budget was for the salary increase. Overall, it will cost the state $153 million. A total of 4,658 new employees would be added to the payroll.

In health care, the Holshouser administration won approval for $26 million for rising Medicaid costs; $1.9 million for its rural clinics; and $5.4 million for early childhood defects screening programs.

State mental hospitals would get more staff at a cost of $3.5 million and the state's share of the welfare budget would rise by $6.2 million.

The Administration's park acquisition program would slow down with only $2 million budgeted for land acquisition and $5 million for improvements at existing parks.

The prison system would get $38 million for new construction; $9.2 million for new personnel, and $2.5 million for inmate health care.

Highway spending, due to the gasoline shortage, would remain at substantially the same level.

The budget for continuing operations, Howard said, was "squeezed" through the Administration's efficiency program so that despite inflation, it rises only 3 per cent in the first year and 1.1 per cent in the second year.

As the budget period begins, the state is expected to have a surplus of $104 million. At the end of the biennium the "cushion" is set at $8.5 million in unspent available funds. However, Howard said it would be reasonable to expect $70 million per year in reversions from unspent funds.

Lengthy Agendas Facing Planning Commissions

The Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions face long agendas Wednesday night as they meet for the first time since November.

Agenda items for the joint board include: a rezoning request for Blount property on Secondary Road 1700 north of Coastal Chemical Corp. from RA-20 to CH; discussion of the Greenville Boulevard Northwest Development Plan;

Greenville Planning board business includes: a revised final plat of Red Oak Subdivision; a revised preliminary plat of Oakdale Subdivision, Section III; a revised preliminary plat and final plat of Yorktown Square Townhomes, Section I, in Oakmont Professional Plaza;

A revised final plat of Kingsbrook Subdivision east of and adjoining Easthaven Subdivision; a preliminary plat of an addition to Section I of Brook Valley Subdivision; discussion of a proposal for a citizen participation process in connection with the revision of the Comprehensive Plan;

Discussion of the Community Development Program; discussion of the proposed Transit Study; and a preliminary plat of Section I of a Professional Center in the medical complex adjacent to the new hospital.

Might Test Regulation

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The state Attorney General's office may challenge a regulation that allows North Carolina electric companies to pass on increased costs of fuel to consumers.

Atty. Gen. Rufus Edmisten said Monday his office is considering a lawsuit testing the authority of the state Utility Commission to grant fuel adjustment clauses to power companies. He said a decision would be made "very soon."

The clause allows power company to adjust their rates based on the cost of fuel used to produce electricity.

Edmisten said he did not think power companies were profiteering through the use of the clause, but he noted that they were under no legal obligation to attempt to keep costs low.

"I don't think they've managed their affairs very well," he said. "I think we have to find some way to reason together to keep fuel costs down because people simply can't pay their bills."

Homebuilders Are Hopeful

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The mood of homebuilders here for their annual convention is one of preparedness. Many say they see better days ahead.

They say the key is consumer confidence.

"I think we're on our way," Robert H. Meyers of Evansville, Ind., said Monday. "There is a need for housing. People just haven't had the confidence to buy."

"But things are going to get better and we're going to have to be ready."

The sentiment was echoed by many of the some 20,000 members of the National Association of Home Builders who are in Dallas.

Multifamily housing (apartment) starts dropped 73 per cent in the last year. Construction of single-family homes is at a near standstill in many areas.

James T. Lynn, secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, announced at the convention Monday a four-point program to aid the industry, including a lowering of the interest ceiling on mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration from 9 to 8.5 per cent.

Lynn said his agency also plans to: —Allocate $900 million to subsidize the rents of poor tenants. He said the subsidies, which will be paid directly to landlords, will aid 350,000 to 385,000 poor families.

—Loan $215 million in support of the construction of an estimated 10,000 rental units for the elderly and the handicapped over the next two years.

—Provide government-backed insurance for loans on existing apartment buildings. Lynn said the insurance would make it easier for landlords to obtain mortgages on existing buildings so they can build new structures.

Scholarship For Senior

David Keith Hodges of Rocky Mount, senior student in the East Carolina University School of Business, is the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship award from the National Association of Realtors.

The scholarship, which originates from the NAR Herbert U. Nelson Memorial fund, was formally presented to Hodges by Ed Mendenhall of the High Point firm of Mendenhall-Moore Realty at a Jan. 17 meeting of the ECU chapter of Rho Epsilon honor society.

Mendenhall is a former president of the National Association of Realtors and of the N.C. Association of Realtors, as well as a former trustee of the Nelson Fund.

Hodges is the first ECU recipient of the national award. A charter member of Rho Epsilon and a real estate major at ECU, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hodges of 1128 Western Ave., Rocky Mount.

LWV Plans Discussion

The Pros and Cons of School Reorganization will be the topic at the 8:00 p.m. League of Women Voters' meeting tonight at the First Presbyterian Church. The education committee will present a program concerning merger of existing school units.

Edith Rand will make a presentation on the three ways school reorganization can be accomplished in North Carolina. The 20 reorganized systems in North Carolina will be discussed. A State Department of Public Instruction survey, a recent Duke dissertation, a local LWV Education Committee survey, and a study compiled by the Raleigh-Wake LWV will be sources of information. Information concerning dates of merger, student population, methods used to accomplish reorganization, previous studies, and significant advantages and problems will be presented.

Terry Shank will discuss feasibility studies.

Arrest Man In Shooting Case

Dewey Wilbert, 37, of 1401 Myrtle Ave. was arrested by Greenville police Sunday afternoon following a shooting incident at R. B.'s Lounge at 1107 West Fifth St.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, Wilbert allegedly fired a pistol at Steve Ray inside the building. He was taken into custody by officers a short time later. Cannon said, and jailed on charges including discharging firearms into occupied property and carrying a concealed weapon.

Wilbert was also charged with being a fugitive from justice.

Cannon said Wilbert is wanted on several charges—including armed robbery—by New Jersey authorities.

Indict Man For Four Killings

RALEIGH (AP)—A Wake County grand jury Monday indicted Joe Lewis Harris, 40, of Raleigh in the Jan. 9 deaths of four Raleigh women.

Harris, a former postal worker, was accused of killing three sisters and Harveleigh R. White, 51, superintendent of a branch post office in Raleigh.

The sisters were Gertrude Clark Harmon, 29, Azalee Clark Jackson, 30, and Bernice Clark Harrington, 33. Mrs. Harmon was accused last fall of throwing lye in Harris' face. Mrs. White was a character witness for Mrs. Harmon at a subsequent preliminary hearing.

Not Told To Reinstate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A federal judge has refused to order the North Carolina Highway Patrol to reinstate a trooper who was dismissed for refusing to shave his mustache.

Charles Johnson, North Carolina's first black highway patrolman, had asked U.S. District Judge F.T. Dupree Jr. to reinstate him while his suit against the patrol's anti-mustache policy is pending. Dupree denied Johnson's request for a preliminary injunction last Thursday. Dupree said he is "loathe" to issue such an injunction unless a "fundamental" constitutional right has been abridged.

The judge's decision noted that Johnson shaved a mustache to abide by the regulation when he joined the patrol Aug. 16, 1967.

Last fall, Johnson requested that he be allowed to grow a mustache because mustaches are part of the "black tradition and culture" and a "sign of masculinity and attractiveness to my people," Dupree's decision said.

Johnson's request was denied by the patrol and he was suspended Nov. 20 for growing the facial hair despite the regulation. The suspension was made permanent Dec. 20 and Johnson filed suit Dec. 23, the decision said.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced unevenly in fairly active trading today with a push from indications of slowing inflation and easier money.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.13 at 650.58. The over-all New York Stock Exchange tally showed a more emphatic 3-1 ratio of gainers to losers.

After Monday's close the Federal Reserve announced a reduction in the amount of funds it requires its member commercial banks to keep in reserve against checking account deposits.

The move had the effect of injecting some $1.1 billion into the economy, analysts noted, and raised the immediate prospect of further declines in interest rates.

This morning the government reported that consumer prices rose in December at their slowest rate since last July.

Manown "Buck" Kisor at

Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis said, however, that the response to the Fed's move was not uniformly enthusiastic. "There are those observers—certainly not a majority, but a substantial minority—who took the lowering of a reserve requirements as a negative," Kisor said that view held that the central bank took the action "because of generalized bank liquidity problems."

S.S. Kresge, opening late on 501,000 shares, tumbled 3/4 to 21. The company said late Monday it expected its earnings for the quarter ending next week to fall short of year-ago levels, and estimated full year profits "will likely be near the lower end of the $1.15 to $1.25 range" per share. The figure for the previous fiscal year was $1.15.

Denny's, a restaurant operation which reporter higher quarterly earnings, picked up 1/2 to 7/8. The NYSE's composite index rose .15 to 38.02 in the first hour.

On The American Stock Exchange, the market-value index climbed .61 to 68.49.

Many Ask Extended Jobless Payments

More than 75 persons applied for extended unemployment payments at the Greenville Employment Security Commission yesterday under a law which provides extended payments to workers who have exhausted their regular entitlement. Continuing high unemployment in North Carolina has "triggered in" a provision of the Unemployment Insurance Law providing extended payments to workers who have exhausted their regular entitlement, manager Jim Hannan of the Greenville Employment Security Commission office announced Monday.

"Average unemployment among the State's insured labor force has exceeded four percent for 13 consecutive weeks," explained Jim Hannan, "a condition which triggered the extended benefits program."

The four percent rate does not necessarily apply to each county individual, but to the state in general. This is the first time the extended benefits program has been activated in North Carolina and the Greenville employment office began taking claims for extra payments Monday.

The ESC manager explained that eligible workers may qualify for one-half their regular entitlement.

"If the worker qualified for 26 payments under the regular law and has exhausted these payments, then he can claim 13 additional weeks of unemployment payments. A worker who qualified for 20 weeks of unemployment payments may qualify for 10 additional weeks under the extended benefits program. His payment amount will remain the same as the initial claim.

"We wish to remind all persons desiring to claim their extended benefits that all requirements of the law that pertain to their original claim apply to the extended benefits, also," Hannan added.

This is the second announcement in a week from the Employment Security Commission concerning special benefits to eligible jobless workers. On January 13, ESC offices began taking jobless claims from workers who are not covered by the regular UI program.

Hannan explained that only 20 persons had applied for payments in this program.

"The reason for this low figure is due to that fact that many of the workers who fall under the program had their needs met by their employer. Many of the people were tenant farmers and their employers paid for their needs, including rent and food. The actual cash that the workers received was not enough to qualify in the program," Hannan explained.

A person must have made at least $565 during the previous calendar year in order to receive $15 per week unemployment benefits.

Now, the extended benefits provision allows payments to workers who are covered by the UI law but who have exhausted their benefits. Cost of the additional payments will be borne by the State and Federal governments.

Hannan reported that he does not know how many persons in the Greenville Employment office area will file for extended benefits, but currently about 1,200 persons across the State exhaust their claim payments each month.

The Greenville Employment office is located at 1002 Evans St. Business hours are 8-5 Monday through Friday.

Arrest Suspect For Break-In

Thomas Earl Arnold, 23, of Route 1, Kinston was arrested yesterday by Greenville police in connection with a December break-in at the North Carolina State Highway Patrol A headquarters building here.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Arnold allegedly broke into the building and took a typewriter, valued at $200, as well as a portable radio.

Arnold, prior to the break-in, had been working at the Patrol facility as a trusty while serving a jail term.

His bond on the charge was set at $2,000, according to Cannon.

earmarked in the school budget. Relative to an inquiry from a Greenville church for purchase of a portion of the old Eppes School property, board members instructed Cox to write the church board, informing them that the City of Greenville has first choice on the purchase of the site in its entirety.

In preparation for America's projected conversion to the metric system used by most nations, the school board Monday night acknowledged a resolution from the State Board of Education and agreed to implement stages outlined by the state school board.

Basically, this involved a program to orient teachers on the metric system, and to increase opportunities for students to study the metric system during the school year 1975-76. The State School board resolution targets the teaching of the metric system as the primary system by the 1981-82 school year. By that time students and the public in general will expect to be dealing in measurements such as kilometers, liters, meters and kilos.

Three policy guides were approved. These are on the subject of student teachers, substitute teachers, and pupil rights and privacy. The substitute teacher policy is to be reviewed in August for the likelihood of incorporating more exact standards of individual qualifications.

Also approved was a policy statement that will prohibit the operation of vehicles and the grazing of animals on school property, including service plants. This includes the driving or riding of minibikes, trail bikes, motorcycles, go-carts and the riding or grazing of horses and all other animals. All school areas will be posted with signs to this effect and violators of this rule will be subject to being charged with trespassing.

Effective February 3, the price of extra milk—that is milk not served with and as part of a school lunch—will be upped by one penny from eight to nine cents. Cox pointed out that even with the increase that the school system will lose slightly more than one-fifth of one cent per unit of milk.

After hearing a presentation by Ice House Manager Bob Mille, relative to a request to talk to boys in all the city schools about ice hockey, School Board Chairman Henry Dunn appointed a committee to give Mille's proposal consideration and to bring recommendations to the school board at the February meeting. Committee members appointed are Ed Waldrop, chairman, Ed Stallings and Mrs. Lucille Gorham, school board members; and from the school system Coach Wilson McDowell, principal Robert Alligood and director of elementary education Charles Ross.

Endorsement was given to a proposal by the Kiwanis clubs of the area for a program that will provide a concise handbook of occupations to be given to each student entering the 10th grade. In addition to the individual handbooks for each student, the program will also result in the school receiving a 13 volume occupations set for staff and library use. The program is a three year one.

Other agenda matters considered and actions taken on are:

—Confirmation of Friday, January 24 as a teacher work-day, student holiday.

—Acceptance of the resignation of two teachers and the election of two new teachers, Mrs. Dora Adler and Mrs. Helen Parks.

—Approval for Cox to apply for impact funds—funds from the government to cover certain expenses relative to students whose parents are on active military duty, working for the Voice of America or other government agencies. This amounts annually to between $5,000 to $8,000;

—Announcement of a Health Education-Drug Education Demonstration Center to be ready for opening at the central office February 3 under the direction of Barry Humphries; and —Acknowledgement of receipt of mental health booklets provided for guidance counseling use by the Pitt County Mental Health Center.
