Fast Senate Action On Earlier Benefits

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill to eliminate the one week waiting period for unemployment benefits in North Carolina received a favorable report Tuesday from senate members of the Joint Committee on the Economy.

Senators acted quickly to approve the measure introduced last week by Sen. W. D. Mills, D-Onslow, the Senate chairman of the economy committee. An identical bill has been introduced in the House.

The approval came after North Carolina Employment Security Commission Chairman Manfred Emmrich told the economy committee that he saw no problem with eliminating the waiting period.

The committee focused its attention on delivery of unemployment benefits and food stamps.

Secretary of Human Resources David Flaherty told the committee that attitudes on the part of some county food stamp administrators held up the program in some areas. He cautioned legislators not to expect to solve the problem simply by hiring more workers in food stamp programs. He pointed to some counties that had added workers at the same time the number of persons receiving food stamps decreased.

"They can drag their feet if they want to and that's what's happening in some counties," Flaherty said. He said there was little the state could do to force county food stamp offices to go farther toward helping people. He said county commissions are responsible for how county food stamp programs are administered.

Flaherty reiterated his criticism of administrative "red tape" on the federal level for slowing down the food stamp program. He told the committee that the U.S. Department of Agriculture had turned down North Carolina's requests for simplifications in the certification process.

John Kerr, head of the state Food Stamp program, told the committee however, that a resolution from the North Carolina General Assembly might help influence the USDA.

Flaherty said about 230 new food stamp workers would be hired with emergency federal job funds. The exact figure has not been announced yet, but the Human Resources Department is expected to receive about $2.2 million of the approximately $12 million allocated to North Carolina.

Emmrich told the committee that the ESC expected to get emergency federal funds to hire 60 more persons to process unemployment claims. He said administrative procedures had been streamlined as much as possible, so claims could be processed quickly.

Dorm Fire

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)— Some 150 High Point College students were evacuated this morning when fire broke out in the McCulloch Hall dormitory.

The alarm was sounded about 4 a.m. and when firemen arrived flames were shooting from the roof.

Dean of students William Guy said the students left the building without injury after a policeman spotted the blaze and started the evacuation.

Most of the fire damage occurred in the attic and roof areas, but smoke and water damaged several rooms.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately determined, but firemen said it apparently began in a bathroom.

Many Changes To Effect Savings By State Envisioned

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of the joint Senate-House Governmental Expenditures Commission says the commission is expected to recommend many far-reaching changes in state government.

Sen. I.C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, told the Associated Press, "unbelievable waste in state government" is costing North Carolina taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

Crawford said the commission's recommendations will include elimination of the Crime Study Commission, Courts Commission, several other state commissions to be named later, all state funds for civil defense and 17 area supervisor positions created by the Department of Transportation.

He said his study commission is also expected to recommend that the Highway Safety Research Council in Chapel Hill and the Governor's Safety Council be abolished, or not be funded for the fiscal year 1975-76.

Crawford said the commission, created by the 1974 General Assembly, will issue a report within the next few weeks. He said the group had met nine or 10 times "and we've only scratched the surface."

"This commission should have been created 50 years ago," Crawford said. "It could have saved countless millions of dollars." He said he feels the commission, or one similar to it, should be set up on a permanent basis.

Crawford said the commission is expected to recommend that:

—The Department of Commerce be abolished and its agencies rearranged under other departments or be made separate agencies.

—Appropriations for printing in all state departments and agencies be reduced by one third.

—No legislative liaison positions be created or filled, and that the governor's legislative aide post be abolished.

—No new supervisory positions be created in any department or agency "except in extreme emergency."

—All state department secretaries be required to submit proof of need when they submit purchase orders. Crawford estimated that would save $15 to $20 million a year.

—Rigid controls be established to prevent excessive and unnecessary use of public behicles, including airplanes.

Crawford said, "Public officials, including legislators have developed a mania for spending money—wasteful spending in some instances. The number of state employes, the number of agencies and state programs to help people are astounding. Yet, medical care is still insufficient, the poor and poverty are still with us, and crime is rampant and on the increase."

Crawford said the commission is also expected to suggest that:

—The civilian personnel director of the state Highway Patrol be removed immediately.

—Used patrol cars be provided to other state employes.

—No additional law school be established in any state university.

—The state energy division be reduced to the director and one clerk or secretary.

—The number of rest areas on the state's interstate highways be cut from 52 to 26 and the cost of each not exceed $350,000 or $400,000.

—No funds be appropriated for the renovation or repair of buildings "except for the necessary upkeep and preservation of such buildings."

—Funds for highway beautification be kept at a minimum.

—Negotiations on architect's fees should be made in an effort to save money on new state buildings.

—Appropriations for the operation of departments and agencies not be increased "except upon compelling proof that such increase is necessary."

—The policy making and supervisory personnel of each department and agency should have regular meetings to consider ways and means of reducing state costs and expenditures.

The Buncombe County legislator emphasized that he has "no axe to grind" with the Republican administration, but that wasteful spending is going on when belt-tightening is needed. "Waste in government has been going on for years, but in the last two years several hundred supervisory positions have been added," Crawford said.

BRAIN-INJURED CHILD NEEDS CARE

Tera Flood was to have a first birthday picture taken the afternoon of Dec. 14. But a little cousin decided to share the weiner he was eating with her. Her mother, Marshia Flood, was trying to remove it from her mouth when the tiny girl began to cry and inhaled the chunk of meat into her windpipe. Those present shook her, beat her on the back, and an aunt attempted to remove the air-blocking morsel with her finger. A seizure, indicative of beginning brain damage, began. Grandmother Margie Miller, who drives for City Cab Company, happened to drive by and was flagged down. "I flew that car to the hospital," she said, "lights flashing and horn blowing." Doctors in the Emergency Room were able to resuscitate Tera.

But Tera hasn't moved to appeared to respond to her environment since. Her physician, Dr. Paul Erckman, said she apparently has had severe damage to nearly every area of her brain. Her labored breathing can be hear at times way down the Pitt Memorial Pediatric Hall.

Soon, though, the hospital will have done all they can. Dr. Erckman said Tera must continue to be fed through tubes and her throat must be suctioned regularly because she cannot swallow. A semi-professional person is needed to care for her. Tentative arrangements have been made to enter her in Holy Angel Nursery in Belmont, but Dr. Erkman said he believes it would be better to keep her where her family can visit her often yet not have the entire awesome responsibility of caring for her. Mrs. Flood is Rose High School junior who works three days a week at Pitt Memorial. Her husband works for Greenville Packing Company.

Anyone who feels capable of caring for the child or who knows of a person or institution which might should contact Dr. Erckman at 752-7141; Mrs. Margie Miller, Tera's grandmother at 752-2683 or 758-2161; or Hotline, 752-6166.

Incentive Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a proposal to tie congressional salaries to the performance of Congress in balancing the budget had been in effect since 1969, congressmen would be earning less than half their present pay.

Rep. James M. Collins, R-Texas, proposed Tuesday to give Congress an incentive to eliminate the budget deficit. He suggested that congressional pay be reduced by 10 per cent each year the federal government spends more than it takes in.

Each year that the government operates in the black, members of the House and Senate could claim a 1 per cent raise for every $2 billion surplus, he said.

The last budget surplus was in fiscal 1969, which ended on June 30, 1969. If Collins' plans had been in effect since then, the annual congressional pay would be about $20,330, instead of the present $42,500.

"If we ran a business like we run this country we'd be fired," Collins said of his fellow congressmen.

The only congressional pay cuts since 1789, when congressmen were paid $6 a day, came during the Depression of the 1930s, when the salaries were reduced in two steps from $10,000 a year to $8,500.

Profits Jumped 2,500 Per Cent

NEW YORK (AP) — Soaring sugar prices in 1974 helped push Great Western United Corp.'s second quarter net profits up nearly 2,500 per cent more than earnings in the same period last year.

Net income for the corporation, whose most profitable subsidiary is Great Western United Sugar Co., totaled $24.9 million, or $11.82 a share, in the second fiscal quarter ending Nov. 30. This compares with earnings of $1.05 million, or 50 cents a share, in the same period in 1973.

The company said Tuesday that second quarter sales totaled $182.1 million, up from $57.9 million the year before.

The company said its income for the six months ending Nov. 30 was $38.1 million, or $18.09 a share, on revenues of $305 million. During the 1973 period, the company had revenues of $128.6 million and a net income of $1.06 million, or 51 cents a share.

County Adding Jobs

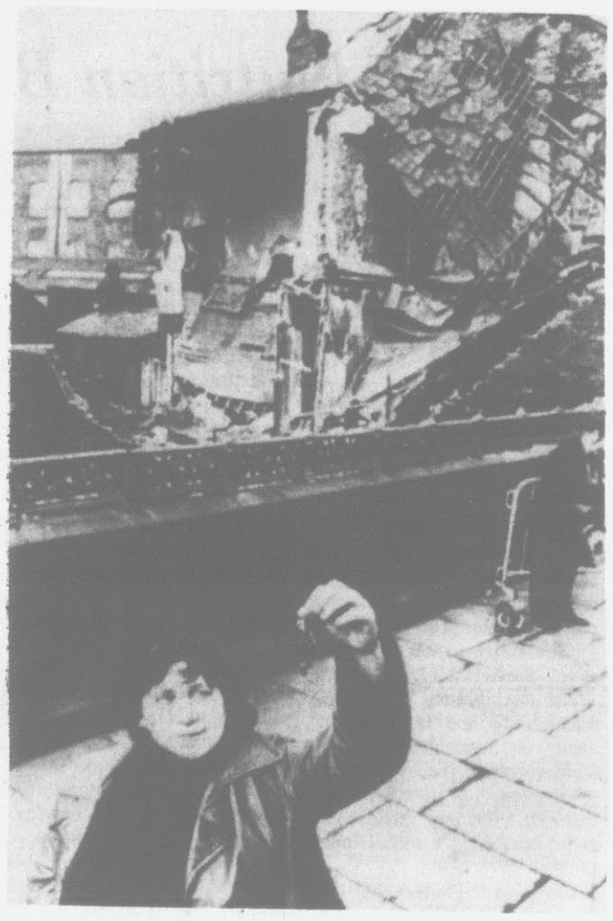

Pitt County officials have signed a contract with the North Carolina Manpower Council designating the county government as Program Agent and thus has been allocated $138,473 to create 45 jobs under the Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance act.

The jobs funded by the federal grant will be for a six-month period and allocation of the jobs were made to the various governmental agencies within the county earlier this week. The agencies and number of jobs received include: Ayden, 4; Bethel, 4; Falkland, 3; Farmville, 3; Grifton, 2; Winterville, 3; Greenville, 5; Greenville Utilities Commission, 3; Greenville City Schools, 3; Pitt County Schools, 2; Pitt County Sheriff's Department, 1; East Carolina Sheltered Workshop, 2; Pitt Technical Institute, 3; Employment Security Commission, 2; and the Pitt Department of Social Services, 5.

Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray emphasized that all applicants for the positions should first apply at the Employment Security Commission for screening and certification. The Employment Security Commission, Gray explained, will refer certified applicants to the various governmental agencies for employment.

In order to be eligible for the public service jobs, an individual must be unemployed for 30 days. Preference is given to those persons who have exhausted their unemployment

Employees Respond To Late-Hour Blood Appeal

A personal last minute appeal made to Burroughs-Wellcome employees on Tuesday afternoon substantially boosted the amount of blood collected by the American Red Cross Bloodmobile unit during its two day collection on Monday and Tuesday.

According to Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the American Red Cross, 45 volunteers from Burroughs-Wellcome responded to a late Tuesday afternoon call for blood, made as a contribution to the mother of one of the company's employees.

Mrs. Mattie Whitehurst, a patient at the Duke University Hospital, and the mother of Burroughs-Wellcome employee Jerry Whitehurst, has had a considerable number of blood units used in treating her for her illness. When word of this was announced over the company's intercom system, according to Mrs. Taylor, the response was an immediate turn-out of 45 volunteers. "We are grateful for this splendid response," Mrs. Taylor said, "It's an excellent example of the type of cooperation we get from local industries and this last minute turn-out helped us so much."

Had it not been for rejects, the two day collection of blood by the American Red Cross Bloodmobile on Monday and Tuesday would have surpassed the goal of 290 pints of blood being sought.

As it was, a total of 270 pints were collected — 130 on Monday and 140 on Tuesday, with 18 rejects Monday and 28 Tuesday.

Mrs. Taylor also expressed appreciation for assistance given by Women of the Moose regent Mrs. Peggy Jamieson and the Women of the Moose, the Moose Lodge for making its facilities available, volunteer nurses and members of the Greenville Service League for their help in the two day drive.

The next collection by the Bloodmobile will be at D. H. Conley High School on February 13, followed by a visit to the Moose Lodge on February 14.

Cash Position Of Hospital Is Said Improved

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt Memorial Hospital's cash position is somewhat improved since the December meeting, Hospital Trustees were told last night.

Some claims were hand carried to the Blue Cross office in Durham and payment was received. Collection procedures are being revamped, with a collections department being formed, bills being turned over to a collection agency after the third rather than the fifth notice, and the insurance claims department being moved to the Educational Building of the Hospital. One person will be designated to answer all calls about accounts to save working time for the others. Credit Manager E. W. Harvey at present is drawing up procedures and job descriptions for the proposed collections department.

It will be up to Patient Representative Ed Hackett to see that each patient who leaves the hospital has either given sufficient insurance information, paid his bill, or left a not verifying his intention to pay.

Also Feb. 1, Pitt Memorial will become one of two hospitals in Eastern North Carolina to enter into a program of the N.C. Peer Review Foundation. This basically will mean that it must be provided, according to specific guidelines, that a Medicaid or Medicare recipient is in need of acute care within 48 hours after he enters the hospital. If not, the government will not pay for his care.

Home Savings and Loan Ass'n Growth Reported

The 69th annual shareholders meeting of Home Savings and Loan Association was held in the offices of the association on Tuesday afternoon with president Howard L. Hodges, presiding.

In his annual address, executive vice president Herbert W. Lee reported, "Although 1974 was a rough year on the national economy, and particularly on the building trades, the savings and loan industry continued to grow at a healthy rate."

Lee pointed out, "With the credit squeeze that we experienced last year, natually we had less savings invested with us, and hence made fewer loans. Nevertheless, we had a good year at Home Savings."

Savings accounts, according to Lee, increased by $2,900,091, bringing total savings up to $25,130,849. He said that, "We placed 205 new loans on our books, increasing our loan portfolio by $2,623,418. Assets increased uring the year by $2,841,108, bringing total assets to $27,969,192. Most encouraging of all, out net earnings for 1974 were 15 per cent greater than in 1973."

The executive told the gathering that "building contractors and real estate people were the ones who really suffered last year. And I think they were as much as victim of inflation as they were of high interest rates," he added. "By the end of the year, interest rates on home loans were beginning to drop. In fact, they are now at a very reasonable level in our area," Lee asserted.

He said the question of how a young couple on a $15,000 income will be able to buy a "moderately priced" house which costs from $40,000 to $60,000 remains, even with a reasonable interest rate.

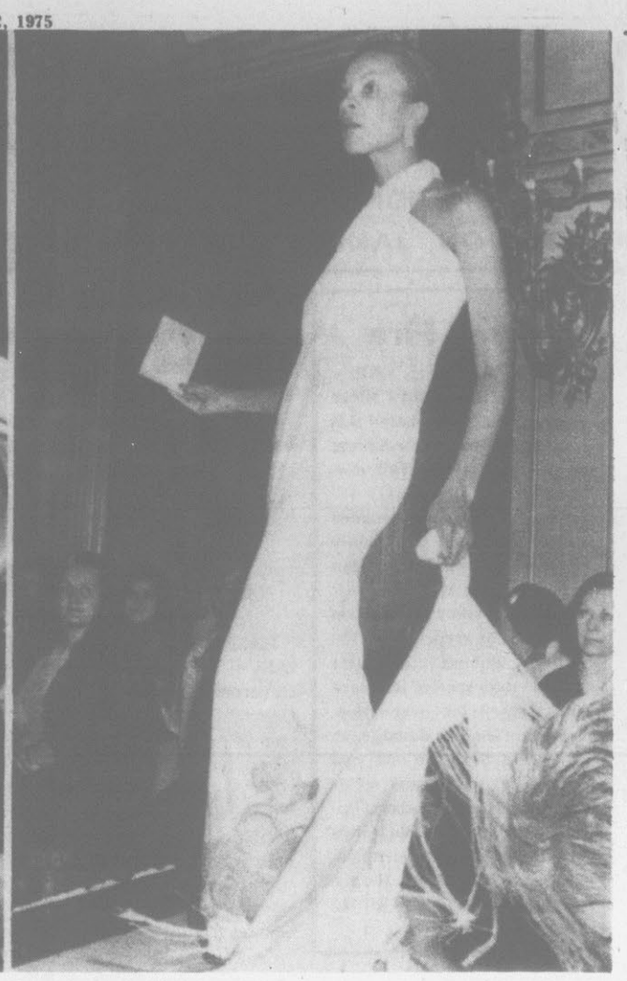

Lee said that Home Savings has experienced net savings deposits of over a million dollars since Jan. 1. He said he is optimistic about 1975 and believes that "loan investments will be found for the savings capital which is flowing in.

Immediately following Lee's address, members of the board of directors were elected for 1975. They are Carl L. Bailey, Kenneth K. Dews, David A. Evans, Clifton W. Everett, James S. Ficklen Jr., Howard L. Hodges, Billy Laughinghouse, Herbert W. Lee, W. W. Speight, W. H. Taft, Dr. Allen Taylor, N. O. VanNorwick Jr., David J. Whichard II, Julian J. White Jr., and Charles V. Designer Shuns Patterns And Prints

IN CHIFFON—This is one of the models in chiffon presented by American-born designer Frank Martieri as part of his spring-summer collection. He shunned patterns and prints for evening and favored dove grey, white, sugar pink, pleated and handkerchief-pointed in chiffon, making a long step backwards to the well-worn 1930s. A clinging white evening gown, right, was also part of Martieri's collection. (AP Wirephoto)

New Approach To Nutrition Being Used

By DON BEMAN

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Can the nation's youth be taught to eat the right kinds of food?

The Nebraska Education Department says yes.

But not by having them stand up in class and read from those old health books that spell out the "basic four" food groups and all the vitamins and minerals each group contains.

"Reading about Sally getting up and eating eggs for breakfast in a 20-year-old health book just isn't going to cut it anymore," said Ray Steinert.

Since last January, the department has been experimenting with an approach to nutrition education that has been found highly promising. It is nearing the general use phase in Nebraska.

"The entire nation is looking at it," Steinert said.

The experiment is being financed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture which, Steinert noted, has long been interested in nutrition for children. Steinert heads the Nebraska USDA's school lunch division.

Based on the notion that kids generally just don't eat right, the USDA, through the years, has tried to remedy the situation, at least in the school lunchroom.

The USDA not only establishes its "type A" lunchroom menu but also determines how much of each food is to be served each youngster, and then provides some commodities for preparing the lunches.

But Steinert said serving nutritious foods and getting youngsters to eat them were two different things. Such foods as broccoli and even apricots wound up in the garbage can.

The new approach to teaching nutrition in the classroom begins by throwing away the health books. Mrs. Glenda Uhrmacher, project director, said they really afforded little more than oral reading and memorization practice anyway.

The new idea is to make food "fun and exciting," she added.

An initial list of 30 highly nutritious foods was put together and served in lunchrooms with particular emphasis on foods discarded.

Mrs. Uhrmacher said it was found out early that many were thrown away not because youngsters had developed a real dislike for them but because the children "had a tendency to be afraid of new foods."

With the focus on variety rather than the carefully charted "basic four" groups, rejected foods were taken into first through fourth grade classrooms. There the youngsters were allowed to touch them, dissect them, eat them raw and finally cook them.

At the same time, information about various foods was presented.

"The children were learning not only about proper diet but also about social studies, mathematics, language arts and reading," said Mrs. Uhrmacher.

When the foods were served once more in the lunchroom, the result was less waste and a better diet.

Will the approach work for foods such as spinach?

Mrs. Uhrmacher said she really didn't know:

"We've done such horrible things to spinach that we've given that food a bad name."

She said there is one problem with the new approach to nutrition education: getting teachers to go along with it.

"It is still in the back of many minds that learning has to hurt a little bit."

N.C. Women's Political Group To Hold Meeting

GREENSBORO—The N.C. Women's Political Caucus will be held here Saturday beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Registration will be held in Elliott Hall, UNC-G, starting at 8:30 a.m. Rep. Barbara Jordan will be the keynote speaker.

Mrs. Nelson Crisp, Greenville attorney, is vice chairperson of the N.C. group and also serves on the nominating committee.

Greenville persons interested in attending the meeting are asked to contact Mrs. Crisp, 752-6161, to coordinate a car pool. Inez Fridley, resident counselor in Fletcher Hall, 758-6100, is coordinating student transportation.

Package Tour Ends Happily

GENEVA (WNS)—Virginia Durham, 21, decided not to sue a package-tour company for stranding her "and maybe 30 others" in Istanbul by going broke. "I was so lonely and bored when I got the news that I broke into sobs and tears," said the Boston girl. That's when Hans Struhl, 22 and also stranded, introduced himself and suggested hitching home together. "We had wonderful adventures in a dozen countries before Hans proposed and brought me here to meet his parents," said the bride-to-be. Honeymoon: package tour to Majorca.

Warm Thanks From A Cold Turkey

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I thought you might be interested in the following true story:

On November 29, I flew from Dallas, Texas to Little Rock, Arkansas. The flight was filled, and because I got on at the last minute I was given a seat in the NO SMOKING section.

I wanted a cigarette, so I took one out of the pack and put it in my mouth, but before lighting it, I turned to the very attractive lady who was my seat partner, and asked, "Do you mind if I smoke?"

She smiled a pretty smile and replied, "Why don't you do us both a favor, sir, and refrain?"

I was jolted. I put the cigarette back in the package and haven't had one since. In other words, I quit—cold turkey! After being a two-pack-a-day man, that's quite an accomplishment. Nobody can believe it.

It took a few words from a stranger to get me to do something I've been putting off for years. Why am I telling you this, Abby? Because you were that woman. How can I thank you?

COLD TURKEY IN ARKANSAS

DEAR COLD: You just did. Write to me next year at this time, and if you're still "clean," I'll send you a present!

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column that the Number One complaint of wives is, "My husband doesn't appreciate me."

Well, my husband must be an exception because he never leaves the table without saying, "Thanks for dinner, honey."

Gerald phones me from work every day just to ask how things are going with our five sons and me. He reminds me often that he loves me, and he never fails to tell me I look nice when I do.

I could fill a book with his good points, and couldn't even fill a page with his bad points.

We just celebrated our 12th wedding anniversary, and this was the best. They keep getting better every year, Abby.

I know this won't make your column because you have so many more important letters to print, but I just had to let you know that there's a wife in Monroe, N.Y. whose husband really does appreciate her. MAUREEN HARAN

DEAR MAUREEN: I think it's important to let people know that there are good marriages, too, so accept my belated anniversary congratulations. And take good care of Gerald. He sounds like a prince. And you must be a pretty special wife to deserve such royal treatment.

DEAR ABBY: So the Number One complaint of husbands is, "My wife nags me!" Well, put me down as one husband whose wife nags him—and he's glad of it. Thank God she nags me. It shows she loves me.

I kept putting off going to the doctor to get a checkup, and she finally nagged me into going. The doc said I had to lose 25 pounds, and I kept putting off going on a diet, but my wife nagged me until I went to Weight Watchers. God love her. I finally went—and I lost 32 pounds! And I'm maintaining that weight.

Now my wife is nagging me to see a lawyer and have a will made. I haven't done it yet, but I hope she doesn't quit nagging me before I get hit by a bus.

So, Abby, old girl, please tell your readers that if a wife doesn't nag her husband, she doesn't really love him. Sign me . . . NAGGED IN TUCSON

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

It's time for a change. Now that the price of sugar is so high, our advice is to cut down on serving the usual candied yams for the duration. Instead offer a new, nutritious and easily assembled Yam-Tomato Casserole. We recommend it without reservation.

YAM-TOMATO CASSEROLE

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 large onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
1½ pounds (4 medium) yams, pared and thinly sliced (5 cups)
2 large or 4 small (about 9 ounces) tomatoes, peeled and sliced
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dried basil
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, if desired

In a 10-inch skillet melt 2 tablespoons of the butter; add onion and cook gently, stirring often, until softened. Layer the yams, tomatoes, onion and the mixed salt, pepper and basil in a shallow 1½-quart baking dish, ending with the yams. Dot with remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Cover tightly with foil. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until yams are tender — about 40 to 50 minutes. If Parmesan is used, uncover about 5 minutes before baking time is over and sprinkle with the cheese. Makes 6 servings.

MEATLESS SUPPER

Vegetable Soup BreadSticks
Mushroom Fettucini
Fruit Espresso

MUSHROOM FETTUCINI

Rich enough to be satisfying as a main dish.

¾ cup butter or margarine
1 pound mushrooms, sliced
12 ounces fettucini
½ pound Parmesan cheese, grated
½ cup heavy cream
¼ teaspoon freshly grated pepper

In a 10-inch skillet melt ½ cup of the butter; add mushrooms and cook rapidly, stirring often, until wilted — about 5 minutes. Cook fettucini as package directs; drain. Stir remaining butter (cut up) into fettucini over low heat, then stir in Parmesan, cream, pepper and mushrooms; reheat. Makes 6 servings.

Furniture directly in front of a radiator or heating vent keeps warm air from circulating freely and providing maximum heating for the fuel being used.

Kitchen Stove Safety Stressed In Fact Sheet

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Early in the morning, sleepy-eyed and not very alert, you put on the water for the coffee.

You lean on the stove and don't quite keep your mind on what you are doing. A dangling sleeve on your robe brushes against the heating element or open flame.

Your robe starts to burn. You take it off and stamp out the flames. Count that as a lucky day. You didn't get hurt and a fire didn't start in your kitchen.

Most home fires start in the kitchen.

In another kitchen at another time grease in the broiler starts to burn and it gets out of control. By the time the fire department arrives the kitchen is in flames.

These are not isolated incidents. They happen over and over, many times with dreadful results.

Take the case of Maggie, 62, who tried to keep warm leaning with her back against the gas stove. One of the burners and the oven were on. Her nightgown ignited. She died from the resulting burns.

To help prevent such accidents the Consumer Product Information Center is offering a fact sheet called Kitchen Stove Safety.

In it, there is a list of dangers, plus tips on purchase, use and maintenance if one is to prevent accidents.

Tips to follow when buying a stove:

—Choose one with knobs difficult for children to turn on.

—Check for controls you can reach without having to stretch over burners.

—If you buy an electric stove, make sure it has signal lights to warn when burners are on. Make sure a gas stove has pilot lights for the burners and the oven.

Safety rules to follow when using the stove:

—Wear tight-fitting clothing. Loose sleeves are the cause of most clothing fires which start at the stove.

—Use potholders, not towels, to move pots. Towels could brush across a burner and catch fire.

—Don't hang curtains or dishtowels close to the stove.

—If your oven has no pilot light, don't turn on the gas until you have lighted a match. Otherwise gas could accummulate and cause an explosion.

—Never use flammable liquids near a gas stove. The pilot light can easily ignite the vapors causing an explosion.

—Never use a small pan on a larger burner. The exposed part of the burner could ignite your clothing and the overheated pot handle could cause a bad burn.

—Have the utility company check any suspected gas leak immediately.

—Keep pilot lights lit.

—Check controls on electric stoves to make sure they are off. A burner can still be on even though it is not red.

—With children around, don't store cookies or other foods attractive to them over the stove. Otherwise they might climb on the stove and be burned.

Orange Juice Forms

Orange juice will soon be coming to you in new and different forms—orange crystals and orange juice tablets.

Of course orange juice concentrates have been around for a long time. But the new orange crystals are a dry form of concentrated orange juice that can be reconstituted by adding water.

Similar orange crystals were used by astronaunts on the Apollo flight because the crystals did not need refrigeration and they took up very little storage space.

Another product—orange juice tablets—called O. J. Tabs, are compressed instant orange juice powder. These tablets are ideal for campers and others who want concentrated foods that don't require refrigeration.

Another fairly new product — MOD — combines two nutritious favorites—milk and orange juice and tastes like orange sherbet. What's more, MOD combines the protein and minerals of milk with the vitamins in orange juice.

Another relative newcomer—Orange-Ho—is a tangy beverage made from whole oranges. It has more nutrients than ordinary orange juice because Orange-Ho is ninety percent orange.

The result is a tangy nutritious orange juice ideal for breakfast or as an after school snack.

So keep on the look out for orange crystals, orange juice tablets, MOD and Orange-Ho. They may already be at your favorite store.

Storing Vegetables

Even the highest qsuality fresh vegetables need proper storage conditions to remain tasty. So learn and practice the art of storing fresh vegetables.

Potatoes keep best in a dark, dry place that has plenty of ventilation. It stored at forty-five to fifty degrees, they'll last several months. But if you must keep potatoes at room temperature—plan to use them within a week.

Mature onions store best in dry, slightly-cooler-than-room-temperature conditions. Keep them in loosely woven or open-mesh containers for good air circulation—and they should last for several months.

Store ripe tomatoes uncovered in the refrigerator. Unripe tomatoes need to be left out at room temperature—away from direct sunlight—until they ripen.

If you wash lettuce, celery and other leafy vegetables before storing—make sure you drain them thoroughly. Too much moisture means faster decay.

Store the washed or unwashed leafy produce in the refregerator crisper bin or in plastic bags. Plan to use lettuce within one or two days—and celery within three to five.

Cabbage, carrots and radishes also store best in the crisper or in plastic bags. But they will hold quality for one to two weeks.

Plenty of Cheese

With the more than 400 varieties of cheese on the market, there's no need to limit your family to two or three choices.

The flavor and texture of cheeses vary widely—there are mild, medium sharp flavored ones—as well as soft and firm textured cheese.

You may like some better than others—so pay your money and take your choice. If you prefer the mild cheese, select from brisk, Colby, cottage, cream, Edam, Gouda, mozzarella, muenster, neufchatel, or Swiss.

But, if you like a tangy to sharp flavor, buy blue cheese, Limburger, Parmesan or Roquefort.

If you are a cheese fan, you'll be glad to know that cheese is a concentrated source of most nutrients found in milk — including protein, calcium and riboflavion. And the protein is as high in quality as that offered in meat and eggs.

Cheese is an excellent appetizer and snack food. So try it in main dishes, salads and sauces. Or at dessert time, serve cheese with small cakes, fresh fruit or apple pie.

New Med School On Its Way

North Carolina is well on its way toward developing a second state support medical school with the state budget recommendations for funding the school.

The recommended budget for 1975-77 includes a total of $56,426,369 for the school's development at East Carolina University. This includes capital improvements of $31.1 million the first year ($15 million is already in reserve) and $19,145,000 the second year of the biennium. This would build a medical sciences building, a teaching hospital, library and provide funds for renovating of Ragsdale Hall for use as interim facillities for the school.

In fact the development of the school has already been authorized by the Board of Governors and funds have been allocated from the reserve for land purchase, planning of the medical science building, teaching hospital and renovation of Ragsdale.

So it would appear that everything is going smoothly for the medical school's development.

We must remember though that the recommended state budget is extremely tight and there are going to be strong demands upon the Legislature to provide funds for various projects which were not recommended.

There is also considerable hard core opposition to development of the ECU Medical School, much of it based on the emotion generated by the bruising fighting of the past generation. We hope that is generally behind us, but all of us will have to be constantly watchful for any efforts which might delay or stall the development of this badly needed project. It is essential that the development budget be fully funded since this will be required when the accrediting representatives discuss provisional accreditation for the school next year.

Admittedly the cost of developing a medical school is large. On the other hand much of it is a one time cost for capital improvements. They have been put off for too many years while many other projects were funded. Now the time has come for the state to properly fund the ECU medical school.

There will be much pushing and tugging at the recommended budget during the coming months of the Legislature. We are confident that the ECU medical school funds will be there when the final budget is approved, but it is a time for vigilance on the part of our legislators and the citizenry as a whole if we are to finally realize the benefits of the new school.

"I'm afraid, however, it comes with the Oval Office."

Teachers Push Pay Boost

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—In the face of the state's economy, the North Carolina Association of Educators is pushing a legislative package heavily weighted in favor of increased pay and benefits.

Total cost to the state of implementing the pay and fringe benefit package would top $570 million in the coming two fiscal years.

If all were approved, the average teacher salary would top $15,000 per year.

Top officials of the association of educators defend the effort despite the state revenue picture showing drops in income; and despite layoffs and lost jobs causing Tar Heels to tighten their belts at home.

Outlined in the current issue of the association magazine "North Carolina Education," the program is labeled an "ambitious one" but the point is made that association leaders "make no apologies for that fact."

No Excuse

John Lucas, president of the NCAE, said talk of recession or even depression "cannot be allowed to become an excuse for slackening the effort to make our public schools as good as any in the nation."

Elsewhere in the same issue of the association publication, a letter writer who was not named states that past lobbying efforts by that individual in favor of educator demands will not be carried out this year.

"I would like to see the NCAE publicly announce that there will be no additional legislative request due to the economic conditions," the writer suggests. "If we make no request now, and the public is aware of it, I feel things will be easier for us once economic conditions improve."

To which the NCAE leaders responded: "It seems to us the type of fear expressed in this letter is one good way to ensure deteriorating economic conditions," and added that increased public spending is a classic way to fight economic hard times.

The legislative package being pushed by the NCAE includes across-the-board pay raises for all teachers and administrators pegged to the actual increase in the Consumer Price Index. Last year's increase was 12.1 per cent. Teachers got a 7.5 per cent raise last year. This year's request includes an additional three per cent hike—on top of the cost-of-living hike—to make up for last year's lower pay raise.

Total pay raise costs are $6.6 million per year for each one per cent salary hike. State fiscal experts are putting the anticipated cost of living increase over the next two years at some 10 per cent per year, possibly more. Thus, the minimum pay request would total $151.8 million.

The association also seeks a similar pay hike for retired educators: cost at least $83.3 million.

Other direct benefits sought include dental insurance ($14.7 million); extension of pay increases for longevity to provide higher top salaries ($76 million); higher wages for teachers working on summertime jobs in the schools so they would be paid at certificate level ($9.2 million); increased retirement benefits ($4.8 million); increased pay for teachers—not the already outlined pay raise—by adjusting upward the salary schedule ($76 million).

If approved by the General Assembly, the combined salary schedule adjustments contained in the package would push teacher salaries above $14,000 per year on the average. The current average is $10,500 per year. Local supplements are generally designed to escalate as state pay does, so those payments—which vary widely depending on the area—would also go up.

Additionally, the educators are pushing for higher pay bonuses for holders of advanced certificates at the rate of $75 per month for less than a doctorate; $150 per month for doctorates. Total cost: $3.4 million.

Finally, in pay adjustments, the educators are seeking regular pay for annual leave and legal holidays. Currently teachers are paid on a flat 10-month basic each year—200 work days. The regular legal holidays and leave time within that framework are not "paid for" at the regular salary level.

Cost of that change would be a total of $145 million, and figured into the overall upward motion of salaries would put teachers in the $15,000 per year category.

Social Stigma Involved

WASHINGTON—"The worst part of being unemployed," said Kellerman, "outside of the fact you have no money, is the social stigma attached to it. Americans get very nervous when they talk to somebody who doesn't have a job."

"I hadn't thought about it, but I believe you're right. Why is that?"

"We're a country who likes to put everyone into a slot. The first question anyone asks you after he meets you is 'What do you do?' or 'What does your husband do?' or 'What does your father do?' People want to be sure they're talking to somebody respectable."

"Why can't you just say you're a salesman?"

"Because the second question is 'Who do you work for?' They're not just going to let you off the hook by accepting the fact that you're a salesman."

"And that's the crunch? Because then you have to admit you don't have a job?"

"Right. People tend to be sympathetic, but you start to feel bad vibrations, as if you've just told them you have a social disease. They begin looking for a chance to move away."

"That's terrible."

"We're prisoners of our own work ethic. We've been told for such a long time that the only people in this country who are unemployed are those who are lazy, shiftless and don't give a damn. In America, not having a job makes you an outcast, except for the kids, of course, who really don't care who is working and who isn't."

"They have a healthier attitude."

"It isn't just friends," Kellerman said. "It's relatives as well. They get nervous for a different reason. They're afraid that if you don't have a job it's going to cost them money. I used to see my brother-in-law two, three times a week. Since I've been out of work, he's suddenly found himself the busiest guy in Maryland. I don't want anything from him, but I guess he feels he should offer to help us out, and since he obviously doesn't want to the best thing is not to see me.

"The sad thing is now that I'm out of work I have time on my hands to see friends and do things, but no one wants to see me. The only people who are really friendly are those you meet while you're standing in the unemployment lines. It may be my imigination but they seem much nicer than people who are working."

"They probably are. But perhaps people's attitudes toward the unemployed are based on fear. Maybe they're afraid your unemployment will rub off on them," I suggested.

"You're right. Americans haven't learned how to deal with a person who isn't working. Of course it's changing. There may be more of us than there are of them soon."

"I wish you hadn't said that," I muttered, starting to move away.

"You too?" Kellerman said.

"Heck no, Kellerman. You know it doesn't matter whether you're working or not. I still look at you as I always have."

"You want to play tennis this afternoon?"

"Sure, but only on one condition. You let me pay for the balls."

"Forget it," he said sadly. "You've never paid for a can of balls in your life."

A Fairy Tale's Curse

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Amy, 15, had always gotten straight As in school, and her parents were extremely upset when she got a B on her report card.

"If I fail in what I do," Amy told her parents, "I fail in what I am."

The message was part of Amy's suicide note.

Dr. Darold Treffert, director of the Winnebago Mental Health Institute at Oshkosh, Wis., places part of the blame for a sharp increase in teen-age suicides on what he calls "The American Fairy Tale."

He says the number of teen-age suicides in the United States has tripled in the last decade, to an estimated 30 a day, and that more than half the patients in the nation's psychiatric hospitals are under age 21.

He says the "fairy tale" has five themes: that more possessions mean more happiness, that a person who does or produces more is more important, that everyone must belong and identify with some larger group, that perfect mental health means no problems and that a person is abnormal unless constantly happy.

"For some, the American Fairy Tale ends in suicide or pyschiatric hospitals, but for countless others, it never ends at all," Treffert said during an interview Tuesday.

He said millions of Americans are plagued throughout their lives by a gnawing emptiness or meaninglessness expressed not as a fear of what may happen to them, but rather as a fear that nothing will happen to them.

He said Americans must stop evaluating themselves according to what they own or what they have done and learn to accept and cope with various mental and emotional prob-

40 Years Ago Today

January 22, 1935

Local farm department head E. F. Arnold announced today that $50,000 in cotton parity checks have been paid since Christmas. The checks are paid to farmers who cooperated with the government in the crop control movement.

Arnold also said that notices are being mailed out today to 300 or more growers asking them to call at his office to receive a similar number of checks involving some $3,000 or more.

The farm director said his office is holding some 300 tobacco marketing cards for correction. Owners of the cards are urged to visit the office before the first of the month and provide information for the changes.

A basketball examination for officials to coach girls teams in the eastern part of the state will be held at East Carolina Teachers College Saturday.

The committee is composed of two members of the physical education department of Duke University and Miss Mary Langston of Goldsboro, formerly of Greenville.

Miss Sara Somerville, head of the physical education department of East Carolina Teachers College, has charge of all arrangements.

The INSIDE REPORT

Will That Tax Cut Work?

By ROWLAND EVANS and EOBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Private polling data now flowing into the White House Oval Office is raising grave questions whether President Ford's proposed massive income tax cut will actually stimulate the dangerously depressed economy—or simply be used to pay off old debts and replenish disappearing savings.

Indeed, so worried are the President's economic advisers that William Seidman, Mr. Ford's assistant for economic affairs, has made arrangements to go to Swarthmore, Pa., to listen in on telephone interviews conducted every evening around the country by the Albert Sindlinger polling organization.

A specialist on consumer spending habits, Sindlinger has been turning up alarming evidence that far more American households now plan to use the President's proposed 12 per cent income tax rebates for paying debts on past purchases—and for savings—than for buying new cars or other durables. The main reason: the record low level of consumer confidence in the future of America.

Sindlinger's findings, which are similar to pessimistic forecasts of other economists, mean that income tax cuts may not operate as a self-starter to get the economy moving. If true, that drastically undermines use of tax cuts to revive the economy with a quick fix.

Reports from Sindlinger now under study at the White House show that nearly 53 per cent of 1,415 households his telephone interviewers sampled from Jan. 9 to 13 would save, not spend, any income tax windfall. Only 33.6 per cent say they would spend it.

That chilling yardstick of consumer plans not to buy much in the worsening recession resulted from the last of a series of questions regularly asked by Sindlinger. These questions attempt to isolate what consumers plan to do—not what they think everybody else will do about buying consumer durables.

Thus, Sindlinger's first question sets the stage by asking: "Do you think people in general would spend more than save, or save more than spend?" More than two-thirds responded that "people" would spend more.

But on the key question whether they themselves would spend or save, the findings were reversed.

That imperils White House hopes for major stimulation of the economy: a flood of new buyers for automobiles and other heavy durables, such as refrigerators. Instead, most consumers, reacting from fear of the future and lack of confidence in the President's recovery program, may stick their tax cuts in a sock.

House Politics

The stunning refusal of the House Democratic Caucus last Thursday to oust tough, irascible Rep. Wayne Hays of Ohio as chairman of the House Administration Committee reaffirmed the new preeminence of Rep. Philip Burton of California.

Although a doctrinaire liberal and reformer, Burton—the new chairman of the Democratic Caucus—is a strong ally of anti-reformer Hays in Byzantine internal House politics. The unexpected vote Wednesday by the Democratic Steering Committee to depose Hays in

Public Forum

To the editor:

I am pleased that ECU will have an opportunity to serve the state and the nation by providing a new source of medical doctors.

With this in mind, I am shocked that the University of North Carolina administration attempted to undermine the validity of the proposed medical school by trying to cut its budget. However, the N.C. Advisory Budget Commission voted to allocate the entire $35 million requested to establish the medical school, according to an article in the Greenville Daily Reflector on Dec. 17, 1974.

As an ECU student, I am aware that my opinion on the issue bears some prejudice. Yet another factor has stronger influence—the numerous experiences of waiting in an over-crowded office to see an over-worked physician.

The news media have stressed the growing shortage of medical professionals as the population increases. Therefore, the only logical solution is to train more doctors; the answer is either to increase the number of students graduated from each medical school or to increase the number of schools.

It is obvious that another medical school will benefit many. I only hope there will be no further obstacles to the establishment of this very valuable institution.

Strength For Today

THE CAUSE OF FAILURE

Some time ago a study was made of some 4,000 people who had been dismissed or demoted in seventy-six industries. It was found that nearly 90 per cent of these people had failed not because they were unskilled or stupid, but because they were lacking in certain moral characteristics which are necessary for success.

A person must of course be skilled to hold a responsible position, but skill without diligence is useless. The person must be energetic, but energy without honesty is a menace. Likewise he must be weell-informed, but a well-informed person who quarrels with everybody around him will not last long in any position.

If your own success has not been what you think it ought to be, it might be well for you to ask whether your lack of success has been due to a lack of ability or a lack of some of those qualities which have to do with personality and moral reliability.

A Good Year For Savings Bonds

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks, corporate bonds, mutual funds and even savings institutions had a hard time attracting savers and investors in 1974, but not the U.S. Savings Bonds program. It had one of its best years.

More than twice as much money now is invested in Savings Bonds than at the end of World War II, when the program began. The total at the beginning of 1975 was $63.8 billion, $3 billion more than a year earlier.

Treasury officials aren't certain why the bonds have retained their appeal while the public lost confidence in many other investments. Some people credit the 6 per cent interest rate, some the effectiveness of payroll deducation plans.

The troubled economic situation also is cited, and so is the power of the U.S. government. Many people appear to feel that government obligations, such as bonds are the most secure investment of all, more so even than gold.

At the very time gold was about to go on sale for the first time in 41 years, sales of bonds spurted. In the fourth quarter alone some $6.86 billion were sold, the greatest for any fourth quarter since 1945.

The bond program hasn't always fared so well. In the late 1960s, redemptions exceeded sales month after month until federal officials got unstuck and realized the 4.5 per cent rate had to be raised.

Both Series E bonds, which are sold at a discount and redeemed at face value, and Series H, which are sold at full face value and pay interest every six months, now offer a 6 per cent rate.

Even at that, bondholders literally lose money so long as the inflation rate remains higher. But the security, and the fact that on the more popular Series E bonds the tax on interest can be deferred, seems to offset the disadvantage.

The deferment is frequently used by individuals who buy bonds for retirement. Instead of paying income taxes on the interest earned each year, they defer payment until the bonds are redeemed. If all goes well, they won't cash-in their holdings until retirement, when they're in a lower tax category.

'Career Day' Is Day Of Variety

Tuesday was a big day for 40 ninth graders at Aycock Junior High. The 40, students of Mrs. Paula Sherlock's "Intoduction to Vocational Courses" class, culminated their vocational studies in a "Career Day" that took them all over town to various jobs for the day.

"The cooperation from the community was simply wonderful," Mrs. Sherlock commented. "Not a single person called turned us down. For the most of them, it meant rearranging their times and schedules to accomodate taking the students in. We're certainly grateful for this interest and help."

"Career Day," Mrs. Sherlock explained, has a number of objectives. Chief among these is, she said, "to get the kids out into the community, to let them learn how to meet and deal with people. This helps them see that work is life, that any job they'll get in the future will have lots to do with meeting and working with people."

The variety of one day on-the-job situations for the 40 is about as varied as the diversity of professions and businesses in Greenville.

Examples furnished of placement of students show—three girls working at Wachovia Bank; one student observing at architect William Friend's office; four boys working with Police Chief Glenn Cannon; two girls observing dental hygiene procedures at the offices of Dr. Jay Collie and Dr. Jasper Lewis; two boys each at the Greenville airport and working alongside Kay Dunn, the county game warden.

Other students on "Career Day" included a boy working as a mechanic at College Exxon; one at Hahn Construction, two girls working at Nichols Department Store, one girl with veterinarian Dr. J.F. Barwick, and a boy at John's Bicycle shop.

In addition to students spending the day among professional and business people, several chose a day of work as teacher aides and tutors at Elmhurst, South Greenville, and Sadie-Saulter.

In the spring, "Career Day" will be held for another group of students who will be completing vocational introductory courses at that time.

favor of Rep. Frank Thompson of New Jersey was a personal blow to Burton.

Accordingly, when Hays hit the telephone seeking to reverse the Steering Committee in Thursday's caucus, Burton was at his side. Newly elected liberals were amazed to hear Hays tell them: Phil wants to say a word to you. Some felt the presence of 1976 campaign funds. Hays is chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee and Burton campaign chairman for the liberal Democratic Study Group (DSG).

Thursday's 176 to 109 caucus rejection of Thompson was interpreted in the House not only as a mandate for Hays and a victory for Burton but a defeat for majority leader Thomas P. O'Neill of Massachusetts. Though hotly denied by O'Neill, senior Democratic Congressmen—including Wayne Hays—felt O'Neill was behind the Hays purge.

Less equivocally, the caucus vote displayed abysmal lack of influence by Common Cause and John Gardner, long the target of Hays's uninhibited vituperation. Common Cause had Hays's ouster on top of its 1975 priorities.

A footnote: Ralph Nader took back his endorsement of Common Cause's purge list, circulated to House Democrats, after Gardner refused to exempt Rep. Wayne Patman of Texas, 81-year-old populist chairman of the Banking Committee. Instead, Nader wrote Congressmen Tuesday urging Patman's retention. House insiders consider Nader a major factor behind caucus rejection, 146 to 141, of the Steering Committee recommendation of Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin to replace Patman.

Reports Theft Of Pocket Book

Greenville police are continuing an investigation into the theft of a pocket book from a car parked on Ward Street here last night.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Mrs. Nina Elizabeth Pollard of 203 Harmony St. was seated in her car when a man opened the door to the vehicle and took her purse, containing an estimated $100 in cash, from the seat of the auto, and ran.

The theft, which occurred about 8:45 p.m. was reported at 9 o'clock.

"A whole generation has come to feel that it is un-American to experience any of these emotions," he said.

He says parents should avoid trying to make their children live up to the standards of the "fairy tale," and treat them as individuals, as people rather than possessions.

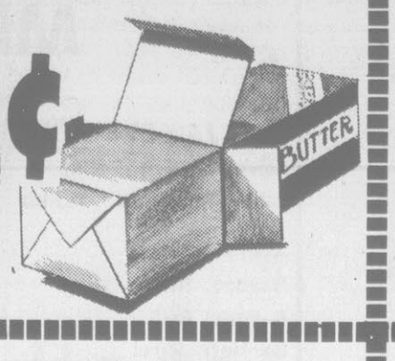

Treffert, who says he has been involved in suicide cases with children as young as 11, said parents should not try to push their children into doing certain accepted things.

Raise School Merger Talk

The subject of a possible future merger of the Greenville City and Pitt County Schools is receiving attention by board members of the Greenville City Schools.

At the December school board meeting and again at the January school board meeting on Monday night, a Board Study Committee report on preliminary considerations relating to the unification of the school systems was discussed.

The Board Study Committee is made up of Dr. Badger Clark, chairman, Dr. James Bearden, Ed Carter, and Mrs. Barry Shank.

At this point, the findings of the committee do not in any sense seek to determine whether or not a merger should take place, and in no way implies rejection or acceptance of a merger.

The primary objectives of the committee's study is: (1) To determine legal aspects of a merger; (2) to determine critical areas in merger considerations; and (3) to determine guidelines for a thorough and orderly study of a unified school system.

In connection with the first objective, a memorandum report for the school board was prepared by firm of Speight, Watson and Brewer.

In essence, this report shows three basic steps involved in merger procedures. These are: (1) Mutual agreement on a merger plan by the two Boards of Education (Greenville and Pitt County); (2) Approval of the written plan by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners; and (3) Approval of the plan by the State Board of Education (or by a public referendum).

Relative to public action on a merger, the legislative statute, North Carolina G.S. 115-74.1, does not require that a merger plan be submitted to the voters. However, there is a provision that the merger plan may be submitted to the voters in a referendum or election called for such purpose.

Thus, if a merger of the two local units in the future should become an active issue, the final approval decision could go one of two ways; by submission to the State Board of Education for its decision, or by the voters through a publicly advertised referendum.

In preliminary studies carried out to date by the Board Study Committee, some of the factors in operational areas that committee members feel would be of concern to parents of students are: Curriculum, grade organization, facilities, finance, personnel staffing, administration, racial patterns, transportation, and extra curricula activities.

The committee will remain in readiness to pursue further studies of merger considerations as needed, with emphasis on establishing facts without indications at this stage of approval or disapproval of the concept of a merged system.

Series Of 3 Auto Mishaps Yesterday

More than $2,200 property damage resulted from a series of three traffic collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 3:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Third and Cadillac Streets, involving cars driven by William Anthony Hopkins of 134 West Gum Rd. and Linwood Earl White of 1204A Colonial Ave.

Officers, who charged White with failing to yield the right of way, estimated damage at $400 to the Hopkins car and $500 to the White vehicle.

Brita Laux Bishop of 1208 North Overlook Dr. was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign following investigation of a 4:09 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Ninth and Washington Streets.

Police said the Bishop car collided with an auto operated by Cecil O. Bilbro of 300 Library St., causing an estimated $550 damage to the Bilbro car and $275 damage to the Bishop vehicle.

No charges were made following investigation of a 6:55 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Elm Streets.

Investigators reported a car driven by William Howard Gradis of 2003 Forrest Hill overturned at the intersection resulting in an estimated $500 damage to the car.

Church Deacons Plan Celebrate

The board of deacons of Philippi Christian Church will celebrate 68 years of service to their church Sunday at 3 p.m.

The Rev. A. L. Miller, pastor of Warren Chapel Church, will be the guest speaker.

Dinner will be served in the McLaurin Memorial Dining Hall at 2 p.m.

L. B. Blount, chairman of the deacon board, extends an invitation to all friends to attend the special service.

Dividend Slash By Burlington

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Burlington Industries, largest textile chain in the United States, has reduced its dividend after reporting sharply lower earnings.

Directors declared a quarterly dividend Tuesday of 30 cents a share, a cut of 10 cents. It is payable March 1 to stockholders of record Jan. 31.

Earnings for the first quarter of the current fiscal year were $9,198,000 or 33 cents a share. That compared with the $24,088,000 or 88 cents a share in the corresponding period of last year.

Sales for the quarter, which ended Dec. 28, also were lower, declining to $502,270,000 from $542,450,000.

Farm Bureau's Board Meets

The Pitt County Farm Bureau board of directors held their regular monthly meeting last night with President David H. Smith presiding.

Johnny Radford, chairman of the Young Farmers and Ranchers Committee, said a meeting of the North Carolina Farm Bureau Young Farmers and Ranchers Committee will be held in February.

J. C. Galloway discussed resolutions passed at the State Convention in Durham and the national meeting in New Orleans, La.

Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, a member of the N.C. Farm Bureau Women's Committee, gave a special report on that group's meeting in Durham, Jan. 20.

J. C. Galloway, Wilbur Worthington, Ruel Dilda and John Radford were named to serve on the legislative committee.

Mrs. Ruel Dilda, Mrs. John Radford, and Mrs. Frankie Singleton were named members of the Pitt County Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

Special guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Garris of Grifton, Bill Yeargin of WNCT, and Charles Hathaway.

W. A. Allen of Farmville reported that the tobacco marketing committee is making plans to improve on the marketing of flue-cured tobacco. The tentative designation period will be from March 4 until April 4.

Wives of the board members were also special guests at last night's meeting.

Robbery Is Being Probed

Pitt County deputies are investigating the Monday night robbery of the owner of a grain business located west of Bethel on Highway 64.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that L.N. James of L.N. James Grain Service told deputies that two men grabbed him as he was closing his business Monday evening and took him behind the grain building where they robbed him of $300 in cash.

James reported that the two men tied his hands in front of him, gagged him with a cloth, and led him down the railroad track behind his business about 100 yards and left him, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Tyson said that James indicated he then walked back to his place of business, got into his car and drove home with his hands still tied in front of him. James said his wife cut his hands free and the Sheriff's Department was notified of the incident at 6:30 p.m.

Bloodhounds were sent to the scene of the robbery, the sheriff noted, and they tracked a path leading to a set of car tracks near a cemetery. Officers found a pair of glasses and a hat, belonging to James, as well as some change, behind the Grain Service.

Investigation of the incident is continuing, Sheriff Tyson reported.

Arrest Man On Morals Count

A Rt. 4, Greenville man was arrested Tuesday by Pitt County deputies and charged with having carnal knowledge of a 13-year-old girl.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, investigation of the incident resulted in the arrest of Jerry Phillips, 18, of Rt. 4, Box 235, Greenville, on one count of having carnal knowledge of the young girl.

Sheriff Tyson said that the incident, which allegedly occurred around 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, was reported to the Sheriff's Department at 5:49 p.m. yesterday afternoon.

Bond for Phillips was set at $5,000, according to the sheriff, with a hearing in District Court here scheduled for Jan. 27.

ERA Measure Is Killed Again

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The proposed Equal Rights Amendment has been killed by the Oklahoma House of Representatives for the third time in the last four years.

The action came Tuesday on a 51-45 vote and means the proposed federal constitutional amendment cannot be considered again by the legislature until 1977.

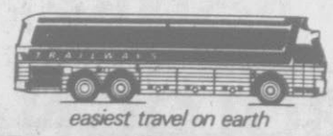

Save America's Energy

Inter-city bus travel is the most fuel saving. Up to 85 passenger miles per gallon. That's twice as efficient as most automobiles. Four times as efficient as jet travel.*

We can't solve the energy crisis, but we make it a lot easier to live with by moving people at enormous savings in fuel. Whether you're going across the state or across the nation, traveling on a Trailways bus just makes sense. When you help save America's energy you're doing something for everyone, including yourself. And our year-'round climate controlled, rest room equipped coaches with a modern new color concept, convenient schedules, and economical fares make wise travel a pleasure.

Italy's Reds Near Goal

By ERNEST SAKLER

ROME (UPI) — When Italians elect their next parliament, the Communists will move a step nearer to becoming the dominant political party, according to all Italian public opinion polls.

One poll even predicts the Communists will dislodge the Christian Democrats after 30 years as Italy's largest party.

A Communist plurality would not necessarily mean an overnight takeover of this strategic Atlantic Pact nation in the heart of the Mediterranean. But it could set things in motion —either in that direction or toward a violent rightwing backlash.

The next parliamentary elections are due in 1977 but might be moved up if there are more political crises such as the one that left Italy without a government for 51 days in October and November.

A poll by Milan's Pragma institute —played down by most Italian news media —predicted the Communists would come out in top in the next elections. It was published days before the Christian Democrats' third electoral setback of the year, a 4.5 per cent loss Nov. 17-18 in scattered municipal elections involving 1.4 million voters in mostly conservative areas.

The vote followed similar setbacks in a referendum on divorce May 12 and in Sardinian regional elections in June. It led Giovanni Marcora, a leader of the Christian Democratic left wing, to remark about party Secretary Amintore Fanfani:

"That man never does a thing right. If he was a hatter, people would be born headless."

The Pragma poll, made in late September in 10 electoral districts comprising 50 per cent of the Italian electorate, was based on the question: "How would you vote if general elections were held now?"

Pragma said the answers indicated the Christian Democratic vote in those districts would drop from 36.7 per cent in the 1972 elections to 25.9 per cent. The Communist vote would go up from 28.1 to 31.8 per cent and the Socialists — allied with the Christian Democrats but friendly to the Communists —would rise from 9.3 to 12.8 per cent.

"This is no surprise result for us," Pragma poll director Carlo Martinelli said. "Our bimonthly soundings have shown since March that the Communist party holds first place in the preferences of public opinion."

Martinelli said a breakdown of the poll showed strong Communist gains among the young and the middle classes.

A Communist vote of more than 30 per cent would mark the end of three decades in which the Christian Democrats have been Italy's leading force and have run the country alone or, more often, as the dominant group in a coalition.

Other pollsters have predicted Communist gains on a smaller scale and Christian Democratic losses. The leftwing magazine l'Espresso said a secret poll commissioned by the ruling party itself predicted it would lose from 4 to 18 of its present 266 seats in the 630-member chamber of deputies if elections were held now.

A poll held by the Demoskopea organization for Milan's Corriere della Sera forecast the Christian Democrats would drop to 34.3 per cent of the vote and the Communists go up to 31 per cent.

The Christian Democrats' first big electoral setback in three decades came last May when they called a national referendum in an effort to outlaw divorce.

Italians voted in favor of divorce by 59.1 to 40.9 per cent.

Conservative commentators at the time said the vote on such a narrow issue meant little on a political level.

But one month later Sardinians elected a new regional assembly and the Christian Democratic vote dropped to 38.3 per cent from 44.5 per cent five years before. The Communists went up from 19.7 to 26.8 per cent.

The next and bigger test comes in regional elections due next spring in 15 of Italy's 20 regions. New Premier Aldo Moro has promised the Socialists, who give outside support to his government, that these elections will be held on schedule. The Socialists and Communists have said they are looking forward to further gains.

Some Unique Ideas Mark Bicentennial

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

From the surface of Mars to the shores of Tahiti, the United States is celebrating its 200th anniversary with what promises to be the biggest, not to say most unusual, birthday party ever.

An American Revolution Bicentennial Administration catalogue lists nearly 3,000 observances, productions and projects that have ARBA sanction and the organization promises more.

Among them is event 001975, the soft landing of an unmanned Viking space craft on Mars on July 4, 1976. Event 000354 is a more modest but still ambitious journey: a crew of 24 expects to complete a two-month paddle from Hawaii to Tahiti in a wooden Polyenesian canoe the same day Viking touches down.

To be sure, there is a surplus of more conventional activity. Restorations for example. It seems that nearly anything that stands still, and several that don't, are preservation candidates.

Among the things Americans are reclaiming: railway depots, trains, log cabins, taverns, inns, villages, forts, covered bridges, cemeteries, missions, mansions, adobes, jails, churches, barns, meeting houses, townhouses, opera houses, school houses, milk houses, round houses, stagecoach houses, fire houses, an Indian winter pit house and George Washington's summer house.

Also: a company store, a water wheel, a mint, a market, a canal, a hardware store, a blacksmith shop, Washington's grist mill, a pipe organ, paintings, a corn crib, sailing ships and an island.

Hundreds of books and pamphlets will be published, mounds of film shot, miles of markers erected, scores of symposia symposed, forests planted 1,776 trees in Brea, Calif. alone; dramas written, recollections recorded, exhibits exhibited, and battles restaged.

And, by a rough count, there are enough fife and drum corps being outfitted to fill Carnegie Hall.

It being a patriotic occasion there is heavy emphasis on flags. A South Dakota group wants to assist each farm family in the state to fly the flag every day. In frozen Alaska, a Seward group is erecting a "free standing concrete monument" of the state's ensign. On display in Flint, Mich., will be 200 examples of Native American art, each bearing a flag or patriotic motif.

Perhaps the most encompassing flag project is in New York City. It's described as: "The Flag as art. Open competition, exhibit in any medium, earthworks, planting a flag of flowers, wrapping public buildings in bunting."

Art Student Shows Work

Barry S. Bailey, native of Burlington and a senior in the East Carolina University School of Art, is showing examples of his work in sculpture and crafts in the gallery of Mendenhall Student Center this week.

The show, entitled "Sculptural Numina," includes sculpture in wood (Mahogany and walnut), mental (aluminum, bronze and iron), sandstone, cast-concerte and fiberglass and polyester resin. Also shown are handcrafted jewelry items made from silver, bronze and papier mache, and several wooden lamps.

Bailey is a candidate for the B. S. degree in art and is currently an intern teacher at Aycock Junior High School, Greenville, and at Farmville High School.

He plans to enter graduate school at ECU in the spring to pursue the Master of Fine Arts degree.

Prince Begins Official Tour

THE HAGUE (AP) — Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands has begun a tour that will include official visits to Venezuela and Colombia, followed by short private visits to Panama, Costa Rica and Mexico. On Feb. 8, he is scheduled to arrive in the United States on a visit said to be devoted principally to the business of the World Wildlife Fund, of which the prince is chairman.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market settled back today amid what brokers described as continuing doubts and uncertainty over the ultimate shape of government economic and energy strategies.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.60 at 638.30. Losers outpaced gainers by a 2-1 margin in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

"If there's one thing that's bad for the market, it's uncertainty," observed John J. Smith at Fahnestock & Co. "And the uncertainty now is President Ford versus Congress on the economy and energy situation."

Certain-teed Products, among the most active issues on the Big Board, slipped ½ to 8⅜ in a 100,000-share block trade.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer jumped 3⅝ to 22⅝. On Tuesday the company declared a $2.50 per share dividend after reporting earnings up 29 per cent in the quarter ended Nov. 30.

Aetna Life & Casualty dropped 1¼ to 21. The company said it expected to show a $25 million adjusted underwriting loss, after taxes, for the fourth quarter in its casualty-property business.

Holly Sugar fell 4½ to 28⅛ despite sharply higher earnings for the nine months ended Dec. 31. Analysts said traders evidently chose to sell on the news in the expectation that recent softening in sugar prices would bring sugar companies' profits back down again in the months ahead.

The NYSE's composite index declined .24 to 37.47 in the first hour.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index eased .025 to 68.22.

Champion Home Builders, the Amex volume leader, was unchanged at 2½.

The body will be at Joyner Mortuary Thursday after 6 p.m. Family visitation will be held Thursday from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

New Try On Fuel Clause

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's Attorney General's Office is making a second effort to get the courts to declare power companies' fuel adjustment clauses illegal.

Despite the fact that the state Court of Appeals and the state Supreme Court dismissed their suit last year, the Attorney General's Office filed a new suit with the Appeals Court.

"We came back just like we said we would," said Deputy Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake Jr. after the latest suit was filed.

The fuel clauses allow power companies to adjust their rates monthly to reflect changes in the price of coal and oil used in generating electricity. The clauses have been the cause of much of the increase in power rates in the past year.

In dismissing the cases attacking the fuel adjustment clauses last year, the courts pointed out they were only temporary. Now the utilities commission has made them permanent.

Airlines Study Possible Merger

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways and American Airlines say they are studying the possibility of a merger.

Pan Am lost $60 million during the first 11 months of 1974 and a spokesman says the firm is anticipating a total $76 million loss for the entire year.

For the first 11 months of 1974, American recorded a net profit of $20.14 million, despite an $8.9 million loss in November.

According to the same guidelines, certain numbers of days in the hospital are deemed necessary for certain disease classifications. If at the end of the allotted time, the doctor feels the patient needs to stay longer, he must prove it. The program will be handled by the physicians and the patient representative in the hope that government "inspectors" will not enter in later on.

Hospital Construction Engineer Ralph Hall reported that progress on the new hospital has been slowed by rainy weather. Concrete floor is being poured in some areas he said, and a small portion of the outside wall has been done. The Medical Care Commission inspectors will be here next Tuesday to see the building, since about 25 per cent of it has been completed.

Medical Staff appointments for 1975 were approved. Dr. E.L. Fearrington is the new Chief of Staff. Some other officers are Dr. R. W. McConnell, vice chief of staff, Dr. A. H. Woodworth, secretary-treasurer.

Consideration was made of a change in the Trustees' charter, which would have members serve three year terms and not more than two terms. Now a person can be on the Board up to 12 years. Also there would be attendance regulations including those of not missing more than three consecutive meetings and not more than half of all the meetings.

Vatican Plans Cut In Expenses

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican's 1975 budget is in the red, and Pope Paul VI has set up a commission of experts to cut expenses, a circular letter from the papal secretary of state revealed today.

The letter from Jean Cardinal Villot gave no figures. But it said the Pope and the top-ranking members of the Vatican Curia refused at a meeting a week ago to approve the proposed budget for 1975.

Even without details, any financial disclosure by the central administration of the Roman Catholic Church is most unusual.

The Vatican like every other government in the world has been affected by inflation and increased energy costs. And the Church is reported to have lost heavily in the collapse of Italian financier Michele Sindona's international banking empire.

Will Abandon Rule On Swine Inspection

The requirement for on-the-farm inspection of North Carolina feeder and breeding swine within 90 days of sale will be dropped effective Feb. 1.

According to T.F. Zweigart, state veterinarian, all other intrastate and interstate regulations will remain in effect.

"Your attention is directed especially to the requirement that swine taken to a livestock market to be sold from other than immediate slaughter must have been in possession of the owner at least 30 days prior to sale, and to the requirement that a permit from the state veterinarian of North Carolina accompany all swine brought into the state within the following exceptions: swine entering the state for the purpose of immediate slaughter; feeder pigs moving directly from a farm where they have been located for at least 30 days prior to movement; and breeding swine moving directly from a farm where they have been located for at least 30 days or from a breed sponsored sale," Zweigart said.

An official interstate health certificate must accompany all swine entering the state, except for immediate slaughter, whether or not a permit is required.

Man Shot In Bank Holdup

ELLENBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Union Trust Bank in Ellenboro was robbed this morning by a masked man who shot a customer before leaving.

The Rutherford County Sheriff's Department reported a man had been captured in Burke County a short time later and was being returned to the county jail.

The wounded man was identified as W. C. Morris, 68. He was taken to a hospital. The nature of his wound was not immediately determined.

The robber, brandishing a handgun, took an undetermined amount of money from a teller.

The FBI said it was not clear why Morris was shot.

The bank was robbed at closing time Dec. 20 and three men were arrested a short time later.

Third-Highest Arrest Year

RALEIGH (AP)—Col. E.W. Jones, state highway patrol commander, says his men arrested 37,942 motorists on drunken driving charges last year. It was the third highest total in state history and represented an increase of 1,586 over 1973.

The patrol commander said 84 per cent of those arrested were administered a breath test to determine the amount of alcohol in their blood. He said 11.6 per cent refused to take the test.

Jones said 63.6 per cent of those charged were found guilty. This compared with 63.8 per cent the previous year.

Jones predicted that a new law which makes it unlawful to drive with a blood-alcohol content of 0.10 per cent or more will cause a substantial increase in the number convicted of drunken driving this year.

Shoplifter Is First Witness

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Convicted shoplifter Linda Jones was the first witness called today in the trial of Marguerite Lightner, wife of Raleigh's first black mayor.

Miss Jones testified that she sold to Mrs. Lightner clothing and meat she had stolen in the summer and fall of 1974. She described four instances of selling expensive clothing to Mrs. Lightner and one instance of selling about a dozen roasts.

Each piece of clothing was valued at more than $100, according to the price tags. Miss Jones said she sold them to Mrs. Lightner at about half the store price.

Mrs. Lightner and three other Raleigh residents were indicted last month on charges of conspiring to receive and dispose of stolen goods. The others haven't been tried.

Miss Jones told the court that she stole the clothing from stores in Maryland, Angier, N.C. and two other North Carolina cities, Benson and Wilson.

At one point, she said she knew Mrs. Lightner's dress size "because I sold enough to her to know."

Miss Jones also said that she had on occasion attempted to cheat Mrs. Lightner by taking tags from cheaper clothes and passing them of as more expensive items. Miss Jones, a New York City native, admitted to being a heroin addict. She has been convicted of shoplifting, larceny, breaking and entering and possession of a needle and syringe.

She said that she sold only women's or children's clothing or meat to Mrs. Lightner.

A notebook Miss Jones held when arrested last November contained the names of several Raleigh residents, including the Lightners.

Andrea del Sarto was known as the faultless painter.

Pirates Take League Lead To Richmond

East Carolina University's Pirates, coming off one of the biggest wins in the history of the school, travels to Richmond tonight seeking their sixth straight Southern Conference victory.

The Pirates, now 10-4, and 5-0 in the league, are off to their best start in the Southern and as a major college school. And the Bucs will be putting a three-game streak on the line as well as their first place standing in the conference.

One Pirate definitely won't be making the trip and another is questionable. Reggie Lee twisted his ankle Monday night against Davidson and will not be ready to play. "The doctors will take another look at it Friday," Coach Dave Patton said. "We'll know then if he'll be able to play against VMI on Saturday."

Kenny Edmonds, who missed the Davidson game with the flu is expected to return to action against Richmond, but probably won't see a lot of play. "He's going to be pretty weak," Patton said.

This will cause the Pirates to have to make some adjustments. "When Reggie got hurt, this left us with only two guards," Patton said. "We did okay, but we've got to be ready to shift some people around if it becomes necessary."

The 110-78 win over Davidson set a number of career and teams highs for the Bucs. It was the most points ever scored against Davidson on the Wildcats' home court, and only the second time that an opponent has passed the 100-point mark. It's only Davidson's third loss at home since 1962.

Patton attributed the big win to what he's talked about all year. "We've got tremendous character on this team. These guys do what they have to win. They have a lot of pride in themselves, both as individuals and as a team. This game was just the result of a good team putting everything together."

Patton said he wanted to say one thing about the game as compared to the Pirates Home play. "I think one reason we haven't played as well at home is that we're trying too hard to please our fans. When we go on the road, we don't have to impress anyone, so we just play our game. Of course, we appreciate the support we've been getting at home, and we hope that it continues, and will improve. We also hope that when we do come home again, we'll play better there."

For the Richmond game, the Pirates must forget about the Davidson game. Dwelling on it too long could be fatal for them. "It's over; we have another one to play. And we have to play it on the road," Patton said.

The Spiders are being led by senior Bob McCurcy, a most improved player this year, who is averaging about 30 points a game. Twice this year he's broken the school record for points in a single game, hitting 42 in one contest and 43 in another. "He's really an outstanding player," Patton said, "but he's not the only one we have to worry about. Kevin Eastman, a sophomore guard, is playing well, and a couple of their freshmen have been outstanding too."

Richmond earlier lost Eric Grey, their second leading scorer, to grades. "But I think this will make them a better team—they play more like a team," Patton said.

While Richmond likes to run, Patton feels they are more of a pattern team than the Bucs, and that they will try to slow it somewhat against the Pirates. "I'd venture a guess that they won't try to run with us," he said. "I look for them to play quite a bit of zone defense, go with a slower tempo with the offense, and probably zone press us too."

Patton said the Pirates weren't getting away from their number one goal at the start of the season. "We want to get every player playing to his capabilities. If we do this, winning and losing will take care of itself. I can't tell what might happen from here on in. We might win them all—or we might lose them all. But regardless, I will be very proud of these guys. They've been fine representatives of this university."

Gregg Ashorn continues to lead the Pirate scoring with a 12.8 average. Larry Hunt is second at 11.9, while Robert Geter, at 11.8, is the only other Pirate in double figures.

Rampants Trim Northern Nash To Claim Third Conference Victory

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

RED OAK — Rose High School swept to its third straight Division I victory last night, taking a 79-71 victory over Northern Nash's Knights.

The win boosted the overall Rampant record to 10-4 for the season, while the Knights fell off to 6-9 and 0-3.

The Rampants, using great balance in the scoring, struck at the foul line to dispose of the pesky Knights, as both teams pushed through 29 field goals. The Rampants placed six men in double figures in the game, ranking from a high of 16 down.

Rose hit on 21 of 35 attempts at the foul line, while Northern Nash could make good on only 13 of 21. Twenty fouls were charged against the Rampants, with only one member of the team, Ronnie Barrett, fouling out. Northern, meanwhile, had three players forced to the sidelines, as a total of 24 personals were called, along with one technical.

Both teams shot well from the floor. Rose hit on 53.7 per cent of its shots, while Northern made good on 46 per cent of its.

For a while, it began to look as if the Rampants were going to have little trouble with the Knights, as they breezed out to a 16-point lead in the first half. But Northern put its game together, and came on to pull back within four at one point in the second half.

Rose got the first two baskets of the game, both coming off short shots by Mike Brewington. The two teams exchanged a couple of baskets after that, until Lindberg Morris' free throw upped it to 9-4. Northern came back with a free throw and a basket to cut it to 9-7, but baskets by Macon Moye and Barrett ran the Rampant lead out to 13-7. With 13 seconds left, Barrett hit again, giving Rose an eight-point spread, but a shot by Donald Bunn with four seconds left cut the lead to 15-9 at the end of the period.

The two teams seemed content to open the second period with an exchange of baskets that continued until Rose held a 21-13 lead. But with 6:31 left, Morris hit a jumper, and 30 seconds later, Barrett added another bucket for a 25-13 lead. After a Northern basket, Rose made two free throws, plus another Barrett field goal to run it out to 29-15 with 5:20 remaining.

Trailing 33-19, Northern put a small rally together, running off three straight baskets, one by Jim Glover, and two by Bunn. But Rose came roaring back with two by Donnie Shields, a free throw by Tyrone Taft, and another tap-in by Shields for a 40-25 margin with 1:39 left.

Northern got a free throw, but Taft matched that and added another for the largest Rose lead of the night, 42-26. Northern again got the final basket of the quarter, and trailed, 42-28, at intermission.

Northern also came up with the first two baskets of the second half, cutting the lead down to 10 before Rose hit again and moved back out by as much as 13, 47-34. At that point, Rose had the chance to run their lead out to 18 points with a potential five-point play. Shields was fouled attempting to shoot, but he missed both of his charity shots. A technical was also called on the play, and Barrett bounced that one off the front of the rim. Rose then failed to score on the inbounds, and Northern escaped without further damage.

Trailing by 49-36, Northern put on a rally to come within six. Swinson Wiggins got a three-point play and Craig Smith added two from the stripe. Greg Bowens put back a missed shot, and the Rose lead was down to 49-43. The Rampants held them off, however, until the final minute of the period, when two free throws by Smith, a baseline jumper by Bunn and a steal by Wiggins cut the lead to 59-55 as the quarter came to an end.

Rose pushed back out to seven points on a shot by Brewington and a free throw by Barrett in the opening minute of the final period. Rose then maintained a five to nine point advantage the rest of the way. Northern cut the lead to five on three occasions, but each time, the Rampants pulled back away, leading by 10 with 1:35 left on Barrett's final two points of the game, 77-67.

Moye finished with 16 points, while Taft had 15, Barrett had 13, Brewington had 11 and Shields and Morris each had 10.

Northern was led by Bunn with 18, Wiggins with 13, Bowens with 12 and Donald Davis with 11.

In the junior varsity game, Northern took a 55-48 win in a highly protested game. After Rose took an 8-0 lead at the end of the first period, Northern came back with a 22-12 advantage in the second frame for a 22-20 lead at the half.

Both teams pushed in 16 points in the third period, but Northern outhit Rose, 17-12, in the final. With just over a minute left and the score very close, the officials called a three-second violation on Northern, but at Rose's end of the court following a rebound. Without realizing his mistake the official put the ball in play and Rose scored a basket off the inbounds. At the same time, the Northern Nash coach rushed to the scorers' table, and with time in, demanded that the horn be blown. It was, just as Rose scored. The coach then charged the officials and informed them of their mistake.

The officials then wiped out the Rose basket and awarded the ball to Northern. Rose Coach Tom Twitty argued that after time has been declared in, a mistake cannot be corrected, but the officials upheld their revised ruling and slapped Twitty with two technicals for arguing with them.

Randy Pellisero led the Rose effort with 15 points, while Mike Adams had 13. Gene Worthington had 13, Bernard Parker had 11 and Richard Richardson had 10 for Northern.

Rose travels to Wilson on Friday night.

Buc Matmen Hosting USC

The East Carolina wrestling team will go after its fourth consecutive dual match victory of the season tomorrow night when the Pirates face the University of South Carolina in a non-conference skirmish.

The Pirate grapplers, who ranked 13th in the nation in this month's Amateur Wrestling News poll, are coming off an impressive 43-4 victory over Appalachian State last Friday night. The win pushed East Carolina's overall record to 3-0 overall and 1-0 in the Southern Conference.

Head coach John Welborn indicated that he will have plenty of new faces in the lineup against the Gamecocks. "I'm just going to do a little experimenting against South Carolina," said Welborn. "Our team has tremendous depth and I don't feel like we're losing anything in the lineup with some new people. I just want to give these younger players a chance to wrestle."

The Pirates lineup for tomorrow night will have Brad Middleton in the 118 pound class, Paul Ketcham at 126, Paul Johnson at 134, Clay Scott at 142, Sean McLaurin at 150, Tim McAteer at 158, Dave Smith at 167, Ron Jerome at 177, Jud Larrimore at 190, and Rick Yeager in the heavyweight division.

Welborn was quite pleased with the team's performance against Appalachian although he still feels will show more improvement as the season progresses. "I was satisfied with our overall performance and I thought we wrestled very aggressively," evaluated Wilborn. "We made a lot of mental mistakes although none of them cost us any matches. We were in good physical condition which really wore Appalachian State down. I think we're making headway and I like to believe we're going to be in top shape by the time the conference tournament rolls around."

The Game cocks of South Carolina have a young team and head coach Jerry Perdue is in the process of rebuilding the wrestling program.

"I really don't know what to expect from them," said Welborn, "They're a young team but they have a lot of potential."

The match is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

North Pitt Pins Rams With Free Shots

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL—North Pitt's Panthers hit 21 of 29 free throws including 13 straight in the third quarter enabling them to take a 61-60 victory over Eastern Carolina Conference rival, Greene Central, last night.

The Panthers made it a sweep of the Rams as they won both the J.V. game, 42-39, and the girls' contest, 48-38.

In both girls' and boys' games, the play was close the whole way. In the boys' game, the Rams made more shots from the floor than did the Panthers, 24-20, but North Pitt made up for it at the line. Greene Central took 46 shots making a good 52 percent. North Pitt, while hitting less, came away with a 38 percent average. On the free throw stripe, North Pitt sank 72 percent while the Rams canned 12 of 18 for 67 percent.

In the girls' game, North Pitt shot 35 percent from the floor while the Ewes hit 30 percent.

The first period of the game between the girls saw the lead change hands twice before North Pitt got it for good. Ellen Dixon sank the first Pant-HER field goal but a three-point play by Vickie Shingleton put the Ewes in front, 3-2.

Mable James got the lead back for the Big Orange on a field goal. It was tied up, however, on a free throw by Delilah Pridgen. Mary Brown and Kathi Manning countered with buckets for the Pant-HERS putting them in the lead to stay, 8-4. The teams added a basket each as the first period ended.

North Pitt's first basket of the second half gave them six-point lead but the Ewes battled back to pull within one, 14-13, with 3:07 left in the half. The Pant-HERS outscored the Ewes in the remaining time, 8-3, to take a 22-16, lead at halftime.

Greene Central managed to hang right on North Pitt's back through most of the third quarter but when Manning hit two quick shots the tide turned to the Big Orange. Lynette Ginn got a bucket for Greene Central but it was the last of the quarter and the Pant-HERS poured in six to run the score up to 37-26.

Greene Central outscored North Pitt by a point, 12-11, in the last frame.

Shingleton and Teresa Whitley both scored ten for the Ewes. Manning had 14 and Brown had 10 to lead the Pant-HERS.

The first quarter of the boys' game was all North Pitt. Then in the second period, things started getting hairy.

Donnie Perkins put the Panthers on the boards with a tap-in and Vincent Barnhill added a free throw. The Rams cut it to 3-2 with their first basket, by Walter Swinson. Barnhill hit twice more for North Pitt as the lead jumped to 7-2 and the two teams traded points for the rest of the period, increasing the totals to 15-9.

Then in the second quarter, Greene Central caught up. Pete Moore canned pair of lay-ups to start the period for the Rams and after James Carr put the lead back at four, 17-13 for North Pitt, Jerry Carraway and Albert Barron scored to tie the game, 17-17.

The Panthers blew two chances to regain the lead as they missed two free throws. Barron put the Rams on top for the first time as he took advantage of a trip to the line and Moore made it 21-17 with a lay-up.

Barron added another free shot but then the Rams went cold. They did not score again, North Pitt did. The Panthers, like a minature hurricane, blew through seven straight points to tie it at 22-22 and then with 55 second to go, regained the lead on Jesse Harris' Alley-Oop lay-up. Perkins made it a four-point lead sinking two free shots.

The Rams continued to breath heavily on the Panthers heels through the third period cutting the lead to as little as one only to see the Panthers pull away again to as much as six, 36-30, mid-qay through the quarter. Although they knocked a point off the margin, the Rams trailed, 42-37, going into the final period.

Eleven of the 19 Panther points in the fourth period came at the free throw line. Abram Hardy sank six in a row before missing and that accuracy kept the Panthers up by four or five most of the way. Thomas Jones hit a field goal with just under two minutes to go narrowing the margin to 55-52 and after North Pitt scored on a jumper by Hardy, Barron hit cutting it back to three, 57-54.

North Pitt took the next minute, 3-2 but with :42 left, Marvin Rouse scored cutting the lead to three, 61-58. North Pitt missed a free throw and Greene Central took the rebound and scored under ten second mark but could not get the ball back for another shot.

Despite losing, the Rams had four players in double figures. Barron led the team with 15, Jones had 12, Rouse had 11 and Moore scored 10. Hardy led the Panthers with 21, Perkins had 15 and Barnhill scored 11.

North Pitt's biggest lead in the final period came on two free throws by Perkins. He had been awarded the shots after being flattened by Tim Butts as both tried to go for a loose ball in the Panther corner.

Friday, Greene Central will be at home against Ayden-Grifton while North Lenoir will be visiting North Pitt.

Conley Downs Aycock For 13th League Win

HOLLYWOOD—D. H. Conley kept rolling along in the Eastern Carolina Conference last night, rolling to a 95-66 victory over Charles B. Aycock.

The Valkyries, however, fell, 33-24, while the Baby Vikings took a 44-38 victory.

In the girls' game, Conley outhit Aycock, 4-1, in the first period, but Aycock came back with nine in the second frame, while the Valkyries got only a repeat of the first frame scoring. That made it 10-8 for the Falconettes at halftime.

Aycock outhit Conley, 11-6, in the third period, boosting the lead to 21-14. They outhit Conley once more, 12-10, in the last period to wrap it up.

Alice Costen led the Conley scoring with 10 points.

Conley's varsity ran out a 10-point spread in the first half to let Aycock know what was coming. But the end of the period, the Vikes held an 18-8 lead. They upped that to 40-25 at the end of the half with a 22-17 scoring margin in the second period.

The Vikings poured in on in the third period, pushing through 32 points to 21 for the Falcons. That boosted the lead to 72-46. Conley finished it off with a 23-20 margin in the last quarter.

Rick Mobley led Conley with 27 points, while Clennel Streeter added 20, Melvin Williams had 15 and Charlie Keyes had 11. Demont Kornegan and Leonard Smith each had 12 for Aycock, while Terry Coley picked up 10.

Conley travels to Southern Nash on Thursday.

Rose Matmen Avenge Loss

It took a victory by a pin in the final match of the night, but Rose High School's Rampants avenged their only loss of the year last night by handing 10th ranked New Bern a 30-28 defeat.

Jeff Hagans picked up the victory by a fall in the final match to erase a four-point Bear lead and give the Rampants their 13th victory in 14 starts.

Rose won seven of the weight classes, taking one by forfeit and two by pins. New Bern also had two pins among its six wins, along with one major decision, and a forfeit.

Hagans' win, along with one by Mike Alexander, boosted their individual match to 14-0 for the season.

Rose travels to Northern Nash on Thursday to resume conference action:

Last Basket Defeats Trojans

OAK CITY—It took a 70-foot jump shot to beat the Oak City Trojans last night as Pantego pulled out a heart-arresting, 53-52 win.

Pantego's Bryant shot from ten feet on the up-court side of the center line with two seconds left and his shot glanced off the glass and into the bucket as the horn sounded. Oak City, however, had its chances to win it.

Pantego lost the first game of the night as their J.V.'s fell to the Baby Trojans, 66-40. Pantego came back to win the girls' game, 33-22.

Pantego inched out to a 3-2 lead in the opening frame of the girls' game and the one point difference remained on the boards at halftime as both teams put up ten points each.

Oak City froze in the third quarter and let Pantego outscore them, 13-3. Oak City matched points with Pantego in the final period, 7-7 but fell by 11.

Daniels led Pantego with 10 and Carolyn Duggins had 10 for Oak City.

The boys' game was tight all the way. The two teams battled to a 13-13 tie in the first quarter. Pantego opened up a four-point lead in the second to go on top by 29-25.

Pantego added a point to the margin, 16-15, in the third quarter but Oak City rallied and battled to take a three-point lead with 1:40 left. Pantego scored cutting the lead to one after Oak City missed a free shot. The Trojans missed another free shot giving Pantego the ball.

Pantego could not hit as time was running out. Then with under ten seconds left, the Trojans lost in a scramble for the ball giving it to Pantego with :02 left. Bryant shot from 70 feet and made it giving Pantego the win.

Oak City was led by Paul Jones with 16 and David Bellamy with 10. Bryant had 26 for Pantego while Whitley added 14.

Oak City travels to Chocowinity Friday and to Bath on Saturday night.

Belhaven Tops Jamesville Five

BELHAVEN—Belhaven took a pair of games from Jamesville in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference last night. They won the girls' game, 40-37, and then took the boys by 85-74.

In the girls' game, Jamesville jumped out into an 11-8 lead in the first period of play. Both teams tossed in 14 points in the second period, allowing Jamesville to take a 25-22 lead at halftime.

But Belhaven came back with a 10-6 margin in the third period, pulling ahead, 32-31. They held off Jamesville, 8-6, to take the win.

Debbie Leggett led Jamesville with 15, while Donna Williams had 10. The second leading scorer for the Lady Bullets, Edith James, missed the game. Bonita Whitfield led Belhaven with 19, while Ruby Borden had 10.

Belhaven zoomed out to a 26-19 lead in the first period of the boys' game. They outhit the Bullets, 22-12, in the second frame, posting a comfortable 48-31 lead at the half.

Jamesville outhit them, 21-19, in the third period, but was still down 67-52. The Bullets again held the scoring margin, 22-18, in the final period, but couldn't rally enough.

Borden led Belhaven with 17 points, while Winfrey had 14, Ward had 11 and Ebron had 10. For Jamesville, Jerry Ange and Eric Davis both hit 19, while Rufus Simmons and Alton Roberts both added 12.

Jamesville travels to Aurora on Saturday nights.

Chocowinity Downs Bears

CHOCOWINITY — Chocowinity High School took a trio of Beaufort-Hyde-Martin basketball games from Bear Grass last night. The boys won by 37-33, while the girls' took a 55-30 decision. The Chocowinity junior varsity made it a clean sweep with a 52-41 win.

Chocowinity shot away to a 15-1 lead in the first period of the girls' game and after that, it was just a question of margin. They outhit the Bears, 18-10 in the second period and built their lead to 33-11 at the half.

Chocowinity again outpointed the Lady Bears, 14-12, in the third period, running the score to 47-23. They finished it up with an 8-7 margin in the final period.

Rosie Thompson led Chocowinity with 20 points.

In the varsity boys' game, Bear Grass slipped out into a 12-8 lead in the first period of play. They continued to inch away in the second period, pushing through seven, while holding Chocowinity to just four. That gave the Bears a 19-12 halftime lead.

But Chocowinity began a comeback in the third period, outhitting Bear Grass, 9-6. That cut the lead to 25-21. They finished up the game with a 16-8 final period advantage, enough to overcome the Bears and take the victory.

Willie McCullen led Chocowinity with 17 points, while Mark Gardner had 12 for the Bears. Bear Grass will play host to Belhaven on Friday.

Robersonville Nips Saratoga

ROBERSONVILLE—Robersonville nipped Saratoga Central, 70-68, last night in an Eastern Plains contest. The Robersonville junior varsity took a 49-43 win in its game, but the night was spoiled when Saratoga took a 60-40 girls' victory.

Saratoga inched out into a 9-8 lead over the Eaglettes in the girls' contest. They padded that with a 13-10 margin in the second quarter, leading 22-18 at halftime.

In the third period, Saratoga continued to pull away, boosting its lead to 40-30. They outhit Robersonville, 20-10, in the final period.

Connie Langley led Saratoga with 18 points, while Phyllis Ward added 17. Beatrice Forrest had 18 and Phyllis McNeal had 10 for Robersonville.

Saratoga slipped to a 14-12 lead after the first period of the boys' game, but Robersonville charged into the lead in the second frame. They outhit their guests, 21-16, and held a 33-30 halftime lead.

Saratoga stuck close with a 17-16 margin in the third period, as the Eagles held on with a 49-47 lead. Both teams pushed through 21 points in the final period. Ricky Purvis hit what proved to be the winning basket with just over a minute left, and Saratoga failed to score again.

Purvis led the Eagle scoring with 19 points, while Carl Whitley had 18, Jimmy Stalls had 16 and Gregory Bonds had 10. Saratoga was led by John Livingston with 19, while Murdock Suggs had 17 and Johnny Eason had 16.

Elm City will visit Robersonville on Friday.

A&P WEO

WHERE ECONOMY ORIGINATES

OPERATION AWARE, 1975:

1. PRICE CUTS ON STAPLES.

A&P starts the New Year by cutting the price on A&P Brands of staples such as Dry Milk, Beans, Peanut Butter, Mayonnaise, Luncheon Meat, Fish Sticks, Spaghetti, Macaroni, Spaghetti Sauce, Cheese Slices, Frozen Shoestring Potatoes and other items that are important to a family's diet. So now you can get meaningful savings on many frequently purchased items.

2. WEEKLY SPECIALS TOO... IN ALL DEPARTMENTS.

Outstanding weekly specials to include meat, fresh fruits and vegetables and grocery items. And when A&P saves you money on meat, that really means something. Because at A&P, you know you're always getting fully matured meat that's cut, trimmed and priced for value. Take our beef, for instance. We sell only one quality of beef at A&P. And it's backed by our unconditional money-back guarantee and our Butcher's Pledge. That's the A&P Butcher's promise to always pack the better side of every cut down. So if you like what you see in the store, you'll love what you see at home.

3. AWARE LIST CONTINUES.

We're continuing our Early Warning System against price increases: The Aware List. Every week we will voluntarily post a list of price increases, such as those received from manufacturers, a full seven days before we actually change our price. That gives you one week to purchase at the old price, subject, of course, to product availability. You'll also find "Be Aware" shelf tags on many frequently purchased items with the day of the price increase right on the tag. Of course, the Aware List won't include perishables like meat, eggs or fresh fruit and vegetables, where markets fluctuate daily, items controlled by law; or advertised specials.

4. CONSUMER PROTECTION POLICY.

We're of course continuing our committment to making you an Aware Shopper by reminding youof what every A&P store owes you and by informing you of ways to get the most for your money. Williamston In 15th In A Row

PLYMOUTH—Williamston's girls pushed their record to 15-0 with a 53-34 romp past Plymouth last night.

The Tigerettes, runner-up for the State Girls' Basketball title last year, had little trouble in gaining the victory.

By the end of the first period, Williamston had built up a 13-4 lead. They outhit Plymouth, 16-12, in the second period, for a 29-16 halftime lead.

The Tigerettes outpumped Plymouth, 18-8, in the third quarter, raising their margin to 47-24. Plymouth enjoyed a 10-6 advantage in the final period.

Sissy Taylor and Nancy Williams each pushed through 13 points for Williamston, while Fran Hardison added 12. Marian Davis had 20 to pace Plymouth.

Williamston will meet Robersonville on Saturday.

Williamston—F.Hardison 12, Taylor 13, Brandon 4, Williams 13, Sharpe 3, Bennett 5, A.Hardison 2, Cullipher 1, Roberts, Spruill, Roberson.

Plymouth—Hyman 2, Brown 4, Davis 4, M.Davis 20, L.Davis 4, Fields, Marsh, Fuller, Shyman.

MAY HAD 2.29 ERA

NEW YORK (AP) — It's easy to see why Yankee Manager Bill Virdon is counting on southpaw Rudy May to be one of his starting pitchers in 1975. After May was obtained last June from the California Angels he turned in an earned run average of 2.29 with eight wins in 12 decisions. He finished eight of 15 starts.

Jim (Catfish) Hunter of the Oakland A's paced the league in earned runs with 2.49. May wasn't eligible for the ERA title because he had a slow start with the Angels, giving him a combined 3.19 ERA.

New Leaders In Church Loop

St. James and Immanuel moved into the Church Basketball League lead last night, knocking Presbyterian from sole possession of first.

In the opening game, Oakmont took a 71-58 victory over Black Jack. Oakmont held a 33-26 lead at the half. They outhit Black Jack, 38-32, in the final half for the win.

Bob Lamb led Oakmont with 20, while Mike Vinson and Don Hall each had 14 and Bobby Hall added 13. Phil Page led Black Jack with 16, while Tal Adams added 14.

Immanuel boosted its record to 4-1, while Presbyterian fell to 4-2, as the Baptists won their clash, 65-56. Immanuel held only a 29-28 lead at the half, but outhit Presbyterian, 35-28, in the second half. L.G. Catlett led Immanuel with 20 points, while David Hahn had 18, Cliff McNeil had 14 and Drew Rumbley had 11. Jack Wall and Mike Aldridge each had 16, while Larry Graham had 13 for Presbyterian.

St. James also gained a 4-1 record with a 55-34 win over Trinity. St. James led at the half, 22-15, and outscored Trinity, 33-19, in the second half.

Guy Howell led St. James with 15, with Mike Board adding 14 and Bubby Leggett, 10. Trinity was led by Ricky Langley with 10.

AVELLINI PACES ACC

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Quarterback Bob Avellini of New Hyde Park, N.Y., was the top total offense performer in the Atlantic Coast Conference football game with 1,689 yards, all but 41 of them by passing.

Tigers Slip Past Pam Pack

WILLIAMSTON—Williamston High School's wrestling team took advantage of vacant weight classes to pile up forfeit points and take a 39-24 victory over Washington's Pam Pack last night.

Williamston won four matches by forfeits, including the final three weights, and that was the difference in the meet. Prior to those three weight classes, the Pack had built up a 24-21 lead, and that included the earlier forfeit.

Overall, Williamston took eight victories, with one of them coming on a pin. Of the five Washington wins, three came on pins.

Williamston, now 5-2, travels to Edenton on Thursday.

John Unitas of the Baltimore Colts threw touchdown passes in 47 consecutive games.

Summary:

100: Denston (Wa) decisioned Rufus Brown, 4-3.

107: L. Benston (Wa) pinned Larry Gray, 0:54.

114: Reginald Speller (Wi) pinned P. Czuhai, 3:08.

121: D. Pope (Wa) decisioned William Slade, 15-13.

128: Williams (Wa) pinned Roosevelt Mackey, 5:07.

134: Greg Peele (Wi) won by forfeit.

140: Kevin Horton (Wi) decisioned Stalls, 18-13.

147: Willie Gray (Wi) decisioned J. Grice, 6-3.

157: Sam Short (Wi) decisioned Evans, 17-8.

169: Bailey (Wa) pinned Randy Bowen, 1:24.

187: Charlie Whitley (Wi) won by forfeit.

197: Herbie Rogers (Wi) won by forfeit.

Heavyweight: Durwood Leggett (Wi) won by forfeit.

Aycock Claims Close Victory

Aycock Junior High School held off a Nash Central rally to win the ninth grade game, 63-61 yesterday. The eigth grade team lost, however, 74-36.

In the ninth grade game, Nash Central took a first quarter lead, 11-8, but the Phantoms came back to take a slim one point margin into the locker room, 24-23. In the second half, Aycock took the lead to hold it until the final seconds when Nash Central took a one point lead, but could not hold it. Aycock's game winning points came from the hands of Lorenzo Owens, who made a basket with 10 second left. He was fouled on the shot and added the free throw insuring the victory.

The high scorers for Aycock were Owens and Greg Guthrie with 12 each, while Doug Perry had 34 for Nash Central.

Aycock's eighth grade team was led in scoring by Curits Little with 18, while Harold Pittman had 19 for Nash Central.

Aycock travels to Windsor Friday on take on Bertie Junior High.

TERMITES OR ANTS?

Don't be half sure. Call a professional pest control operator for an inspection today.
The potential damage to property from termites can exceed the damage from tornadoes, hurricanes and fire. This is why termite protection is as important as a homeowner's insurance policy.

Homesick Emigrants Return To Their Birthplaces

By BARRY WATERS

BELGRADE (UPI) — A vision of a better life across the Atlantic prompted millions of East Europeans in an earlier time to seek their fortunes in the United States.

But inflation and rapidly rising prices in the United States have persuaded a lot of homesick older people to come back to their birthplace.

Over the past decade thousands of retired U.S. citizens have resettled in Eastern Europe out of nostalgia for their homeland and because a U.S. Social Security check goes a lot further in the Communist world.

Many Eastern European governments encourage the influx as a way of showing the benefits of life under communism, and because the returnees are a valuable source of foreign exchange.

Radmilar Savic, 68, who came back two years ago and lives in an apartment complex for retired people in Belgrade, said: "I think people come back for two main reasons: because they are lonely and nostalgic and because of financial considerations.

"In my own case both motives played a part. I love the United States as an adopted country but I migrated late in life and when time came to retire I realized I had many more friends here. Also I am materially much better off here than I could be in the United States on my Social Security payments."

A U.S. consular official said: "I would estimate that most of the returnees average about $150 in their Social Security check which is mailed to them. Not too many have a separate pension check from their company. This means that the lower cost of living here can make quite a difference. There is also a pattern of single people, widows or widowers, coming back—often to live with relatives. In fact in some cases a returning pensioner represents a valuable source of income for a local family."

The U.S. embassy in Belgrade issues about 5,500 pension checks in Yugoslavia, although not all go to returnees. Some are for dependents or relatives of deceased U.S. citizens.

A greater number have returned to Poland where the government has an active program to encourage the flow. So far more than 6,000 Polish Americans have moved back and the number is growing.

"We get an avalanche of letters asking for information," said an official of the Polonia society which aids resettlement.

The government allows the returnees to change their dollars at a favorable rate, so that a $150 Social Security check provides a monthly income of 9,000 zloties—equivalent to the salary of a good doctor or engineer.

Among the reasons people give for returning to Poland are cheap food and medical treatment, cheap rents, no fear of crime, and a standard of living they could only dream about in the United States.

"I am not afraid of being mugged here in the street since there is a zero crime rate in comparison with the United States," said George Goracki, 68, from Chicago.

Bessie Mlecz, 72, of New York, said: "Everything I need I can buy cheap here."

Before returning, the emigres are required by the Polish government to buy a house or apartment costing $4,000 to $10,000. After that, prices are low. Monthly maintenance charges rarely exceed $10 and electricity and phone come to perhaps $4 dollars monthly. To eat well costs $30 to $35 a month.

Most returnees have enough left for excursions (sometimes back to the States), eating out at top restaurants and visits to the opera or theater. An opera ticket costs about $1, a theater ticket 80 cents.

Adam Whazlo, who underwent leg surgery, said: "The bill I received made me laugh because it amounted to 80 zloties ($1.33).

There are snags. The formalities of buying a home and obtaining permission to return can take up to two years. Although a privileged group, the returnees suffer the same problems of ercatic quality of goods and occasional shortages, particularly of quality meat, suffered by all Eastern Europeans.

While most returnees keep a low profile politically and don't invite trouble by criticizing Communist rule, privately many acknowledge that they have little sympathy with Eastern Europe's postwar regimes.

Some come simply in order to die near their birthplace. Ill health prevented Peter Krivanich and Albert Gabor from making this final journey but both were cremated and the urns containing their ashes returned to Hungary. Forty-seven such urns arrived in Budapest recently.

The number of returnees to Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia is much lower than to Poland, Yugoslavia and Romania.

Many come for an extended holiday of several months before committing themselves. Often they express surprise at how life in Eastern Europe has improved since the postwar years under Josef Stalin.

Although the migrants are obliged to take out citizenship in the old country, they also retain their U.S. passports. Few of them make much use of the local American embassy except for major problems. There are, for instance, occasional arrests and trials for alleged hostile political activities committed while in the United States.

A U.S. consular official in Bucharest said: "There are thousands who have resettled here, particularly in Transylvania, but for the most part they don't try to involve us with their problems, except perhaps when someone is having difficulty with a contract, getting a house built or perhaps needs help with transportation.

"They come in the same spirit as they left, determined to make a go of it."

AMBASSADOR — Bernadette Olowo of Uganda says Pope Paul's acceptance of her as ambassador to the Vatican opens the door for other women. Miss Olowo, who begins as Vatican ambassador this week will also continue as envoy to West Germany. (AP Wirephoto)

Will Report On Their Research

Three members of the East Carolina University mathematics faculty will report on their research at the 81st annual meeting of the American Mathematical Society in Washington, D.C. next week.

They are Dr. Lokenath Debnath, Dr. Joong Ho Kim and Dr. Gary D. Richardson. Dr. Debnath will also chair the meeting's session on applied mathematics.

The three faculty members are active researchers and regularly publish in various scientific journals. Dr. Debnath serves as overseas editor of the Journal of the Calcutta Mathematical Society.

Four other ECU faculty mathematicians will attend the meeting. They are Drs. John W. Daniels, Kenneth J. Davis and Robert J. Hursey, and Prof. Frank W. Sanders.

ON DEAN'S LIST

RALEIGH—Miss Debbie Walston Webb has been placed on the dean's list for the first semester at St. Mary's College in Raleigh.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Webb of Greenville.

Dallas Clark, Greenville native, has joined the law firm of James, Hite, Cavendish and Blount as an associate. Clark comes to the firm from Greensboro, where he served as a public defender since 1971.

The son of the late Dallas Clark, Sr. and Mrs. Clark of Greenville, he is a 1961 graduate of Rose High School. Clark received his B.A. degree from Wake Forest University, and the J. D. degree from the Wake Forest Law School in 1965.

DALLAS CLARK

In 1968, he joined the Marine Corps and was commissioned a second lieutenant. During his three year period of military service, Clark was assigned for duty with the 3d Marine Division at Quang Tri, South Vietnam and later served in Okinawa. He completed his Marine service at Cherry Point Air Station. At the time of his discharge, Clark held the rank of captain.

As assistant public defender in Guilford County, Clark worked in one of two such programs in the state in a new concept that was used first in Greensboro and Fayetteville.

Clark is married to the former Robbin Causey of Greensboro. They have one daughter, Katie, now 14 months old.

The Clarks are Episcopalians.

Medical Profs To Speak At Meeting

Three faculty members of the East Carolina University School of Medicine will be among the speakers and discussion leaders at a series of Alcohol Awareness Week symposia in Raleigh Jan. 22-24.

They are Dr. Sam N. Pennington, acting chairman of biochemistry at ECU, and Drs. John M. Gambill and Philip G. Nelson, clinical professors at ECU.

Dr. Gambill, who is also Director of Medical Services at the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, will speak on "Detoxifying and Managing the Acute Alcoholic". Drs. Pennington and Nelson will chair discussion programs for participating physicians and other health personnel.

Dr. Nelson is current vice chairman of the N.C. Alcoholism Research Authority, one of several sponsors for the symposia. Other sponsoring organizations include:

The UNC-Chapel Hill Center for Alcohol Studies, the N.C. Department of Human Resources, the N.C. Jaycees, the N.C. Medical Society and the N.C. Neuropsychiatric Association.

All events will be held at the Sheraton Crabtree Motor Inn, except a public address by Marty Mann, founder of the National Council on Alcoholism, on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Mann will speak at Christ Episcopal Church at 7:30 p.m.

Pitt Sales And Use Taxes Up

Net sales and use tax collections in Pitt County for December totaled $168,666, according to a Department of Revenue report issued by J. Howard Coble, secretary.

The December figure represented an increase of $11,615 over net sales and use tax collections reported for November, according to Coble.

Net collections in Martin County were $44,459 during December, while Greene County's total was $15,963, Beaufort collected $66,629, and Lenoir recorded $135,232 in net figures.

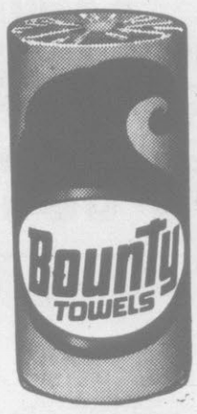

Coble reported a total of $9,826,616 in collections for the 95 participating counties.

Craig Stevens Counts On Return Of Elegance

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Will the recession bring a return to elegance in films and television? Actor Craig Stevens thinks so, and so he is casting his lot with "The Thin Man."

Stevens will be starring next month in a 90-minute mystery based on the classic Nick Charles character created by Dashiell Hammett.

The show will appear on ABC's late-night Wide World of Entertainment. The network has an option for three more 90-minute "Thin Man" shows or for a prime time series.

"Either way would be okay with me," says the suave Stevens, who spent four years solving crimes as TV detective Peter Gunn.

"I've had a lot of offers for series, and most of them are pretty dull. It's rare that you come across a character as appealing as Nick Charles.

"He is a delight to play. When Seymour Berns, who is producing and directing the show for MGM, sent me the script, I told him 'I know these things are supposed to be done through agents, but I'll tell you right now I'd love to do it.'"

The 56-year-old actor believes the time is ripe for a return to the kind of sophistication displayed by William Powell and Myrna Loy in the "Thin Man' series.

"The first one came out in 1934, when I was in high school in Kansas City (Mo.)," said Stevens. "I remember it very well. It had a smartness and class that so many of the movies had during the depression.

"My family wasn't poor, but everybody felt the pinch in those days. I delivered the Kansas City Star to make my own spending money, and a dime to see a movie was a lot of money. But it was worth it.

"A friend of mine has pointed out to me that in times of economic stress people like to see elegance in their entertainment.

"I don't know why. Maybe it's a way for them to escape their own problems."

Demand More

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Association of Educators has protested as too low the five per cent pay raise for teachers proposed in the state budget.

The association said in a statement Tuesday it believed the Advisory Budget Commission expected the General Assembly to come back next year for a supplemental budget session when it recommended that the raise be held at only five per cent.

The statement said the NCAE cannot accept a budget which does not even provide pay increases to meet the increased cost of living for teachers and state employes. It called on the General Assembly to either increase the five per cent figure recommended this year or provide for another increase for the second year of the biennium.

Cagney Loses In Court Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor James Cagney has lost a court fight to prevent publication of an unauthorized biography.

Manhattan State Supreme Court Justice Sidney A. Fine, denied on Tuesday Cagney's request for an injunction against Stein and Day, publishers of a biography by British Broadcasting Corp. reporter Michael Freedland. Fine held that Cagney is "a public figure" and cannot argue successfully that there was "an invasion of his privacy, the basis for the injunction."

The retired actor said Freedland had obtained an interview "through deception" and then used the material in writing the biography.

How House Members Voted In Opening Days

By ROLL CALL REPORT

WASHINGTON — Here's how area House Members were recorded on roll call votes through Jan. 15. There were no Senate votes in the opening days of the 94th Congress.

House

HOUSE RULES Moved, 247 for and 172 against, to stop debate and thus force a vote on a resolution setting certain House rules for the 94th Congress. As a result of this vote, the rules package was considered on an all-or-nothing basis without separate votes on controversial provisions. The full package was subsequently adopted.

The resolution (H Res 5) institutes many of the committee-reform proposals approved by the House late in the 93rd Congress. Its most controversial provision, however, was one that the House rejected last year, the abolition of the Internal Security Committee (HISC), formerly named the Committee on Un-American Activities (HUAC).

Since the rules package was drafted by the Democratic Caucus, support and opposition generally reflected party lines.

Most supporters favored the elimination of HISC, saying its 37-year-old mission of collecting data on and spotlighting the activities of allegedly "subversive" citizens represented an unconstitutional violation of civil rights.

Opponents said Democrats had excluded input from Republicans in drafting the resolution and objected to the capriciousness of "king caucus." Rep. John M. Ashbrook (R-Ohio), ranking Republican on HISC, said "a secret majority somewhere has ordained that we will abolish the Internal Security Committee but without a direct vote."

Reps. Stephan Neal (D-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and Charles Rose (D-7) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), W. G. Hefner (D-8), James Martin (R-9, James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

ELECTION OF SPEAKER—Voted, 287 for and 143 against, to elect Rep. Carl Albert (D-Okla.) as Speaker of the House during the 94th Congress. His opponent was Rep. John Rhodes (R-Ariz.), the House GOP leader. The vote, the first of the new Congress, was routine in that all of Albert's supporters were Democrats and all of Rhodes' backers were Republicans.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner and Taylor voted "yea."

Martin and Broyhill voted "nay."

4 ♦	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	6 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠.

It's as important for the defenders to count the hand as it is for declarer. Had East stopped to work out South's distribution, he might have come up with the winning defense to beat a slam.

North-South bid well to reach six hearts. After South jumped in hearts over his no trump opening, North cue-bid spades to show a maximum no trump with good heart support. Both players followed with cue-bids, and when North made a further move by cue-bidding spades again, South elected to leap to six hearts.

A club lead would have given declarer no chance, but West not unnaturally led from the top of his sequence. Declarer won dummy's king of spades, drew trumps in two rounds, then cashed ace of spades and ruffed a spade. Next came the ace and king of diamonds, and a low club off the table. East followed low, as did declarer, and West was in with the jack of clubs. With only spades and diamonds left in his hand, he was forced to concede a ruff-and-sluff. Declarer ruffed in dummy, discarding a club from his hand, and took the club finesse to make his slam.

Declarer's line of play made his hand an open book. Since he could have ruffed a diamond in dummy if he held a third diamond, South was marked with an original distribution of five hearts and four clubs.

If declarer's clubs were headed by A-Q-J, there was no way the slam could be defeated—declarer would simply take two club finesses and concede a club. Therefore, East should have based his defense on his partner's holding a singleton jack or queen of clubs and so taken the necessary precautions to prevent his partner from being endplayed. When declarer led a club from dummy, East should have gone up with the king, "swallowing" his partner's jack—a play called the Crocodile Coup. No matter what declarer did thereafter, East would have to come to two club tricks for a one-trick set.

Election Bd. Secretary At Meeting

Miss Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt Board of Elections, attended a statewide meeting of the North Carolina Association of County Election Board Executive Secretaries on Friday in Charlotte.

During the general meeting, the executive secretaries were told that they and their precinct officials have earned $3,000 to help with the education of several North Carolina students.

Mrs. Louise Rehder of New Hanover County, association president, announced that she has received notice of six scholarships, each in the amount of $500, from News Election Service, the organization established by the five major news-gathering organizations to collect and tabulate returns for president, U.S. Senate, Governor and U.S. Representative in all states.

The NES puts $2 for each precinct that reports election returns into a scholarship fund. According to Miss Register, all 27 precincts in Pitt reported returns in the recent general election.

She said that an executive committee, named by the association, will decide on the designation of scholarships. Mrs. Louise L. Lawson of the Nash County Board of Elections, represents Region IV, which includes Pitt County, on the committee.

The voluntary reporting system, employed by NES in 11 states in the recent elections, was utilized in 74 North Carolina counties.

In addition to Miss Register, other executive secretaries from this area who attended the meeting and workshop included Carolyn Taylor of Beaufort County and Essie Stalls of Martin County.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JAN. 23, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is no time to take any chances, but as the day passes good planetary influences replace the difficult ones. Then you become able to express your talents in a remarkable way.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Early in the day is not the time to make loans or to borrow, but fine results are possible in the afternoon. Forget any worries.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle business matters and put aside a personal wish for now. Follow suggestions of influential persons. Don't renege on bills.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A higher-up my be unreasonable now so contact others who can be helpful to you. An outsider can also help at this time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are desirous of making a radical change, but this could prove detrimental, so improve present conditions instead.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have problems that are too difficult to handle now so drop them for now. Come back later and they will be simple to solve.

VIGOR (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Engage in civic affairs and don't follow the ideas of an associate who is temporarily out of focus. Study new methods.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Complete routines as quickly as possible and engage in new and more lucrative pursuits with others. Show affection to mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure your business affairs are handled well at this time. Strive to have increased harmony at home. Think constructively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Talk over with associates what should be done in the future to add to present security. Show that you are cooperative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Engage in creative work that will impress others. Don't permit a letter you receive to annoy you. Strive for happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Listen to what a right-thinking person has to suggest, and then you can put your financial affairs in better order. Be wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to what a family tie has to say about improving your surroundings. Don't take any risks in the afternoon. Keep calm.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she should be exposed to individuals who live sane and sensible lives so that the extravagant tastes in this nature can be toned down. Give as fine an education as you can afford and permit to work part way through college. Sports are a must here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Pringle's Newfangled Potato Chips are made by a new, very technical, automated process. Highly competent employees desiring to learn and grow with this exciting new product are needed. All jobs include involvement with operation and maintenance of sophisticated equipment, monitoring and controlling product quality and fulfilling the high sanitation and appearance requirements of a food manufacturing plant. Product demand requires that the plant will operate 24 hours-day, 7 days per week. All jobs will be rotating shifts.
