Oil Tankers Collide; Set Off Explosions, Blaze

MARCUS HOOK, Pa. (AP) — Two oil tankers collided near a British Petroleum refinery on the Delaware River early today, setting off a series of explosions and a spectacular fire. One person was killed and 17 to 20 seamen were missing, police said.

Authorities said some of the men listed as missing may have been on leave.

Twenty other persons were reported injured in the blast which shook buildings for 10 blocks around. Flames could be seen as far as 30 miles away.

Residents of a six-block area in the industrial town of 3,500 near Philadelphia were evacuated.

Anthony Gallow, police chief of Marcus Hook, said a series of three explosions started about 12:30 a.m. when the American tanker Edgar M. Queeny collided with the Greek ship Corinthos, which was docked and unloading 100,000 barrels of oil.

Gallow, in estimating the number of seamen unaccounted for, said each ship had a crew of about 40.

Patrolman George McClure, one of the first officers on the scene, said the Corinthos was engulfed by a ball of flame and "whoever was left on that ship was done for, you could see that."

"It was the inside of hell," said Patrolman George Hansell. "I saw an arm and other guys said they saw parts of bodies" floating in the water.

McClure said the Corinthos was turned on its side but the fire was brought under control about 3 a.m. The Queeny was towed out into the river and continued to burn in the front section.

Lloyd's Registry of Ships describes the Corinthos as a 754-foot tanker of Liberian registry, owned by the Villaneuva Navigation Co.

The Edgar M. Queeny was described as a 660-foot tanker owned by the Keystone Shipping Co. of New York.

A BP official said he did not know how much oil was on the Corinthos at the time of the collision. Some oil spilled, but it was not known how much.

Spokesman at three nearby hospitals said at least 20 men were treated. Most suffered burns, exposure and shock.

A Chester-Crozer Medical Center spokesman said one man was dead on arrival and another was admitted in serious condition. Neither was identified.

Marcus Hook police said windows in buildings 10 blocks from the scene were shattered by the blasts which began shortly after midnight.

"There were three rapid explosions in a row," said George Warner, who lives a block from the site. "There are no more windows left. My side door blew clean off the hinges. The light fixtures blew out of the ceiling."

BP operates a tank farm about 100 yards from the refinery. There were no reports of residents being injured.

White House Tapes, Papers Not Nixon's

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal judge ruled today that millions of documents and the White House tapes accumulated during the presidency of Richard M. Nixon belong to the government.

The decision nullifies a Sept. 7, 1974, agreement under which Nixon was to have partial access and control of his papers.

"There is no precedent which compels the finding that the 'presidential materials and tapes' are the personal property of former President Nixon," U.S. District Judge Charles R.

Richey said in a detailed opinion.

At issue are an estimated 42 million documents and 2½ years of tape recordings generated by the Nixon White House.

The judge did, however, set out an elaborate procedure for Nixon to attempt to recover items or tapes which he might claim to be private or personal.

Richey's decision, while keeping the Nixon documents in the possession of the government, also declared them out of bounds for unlimited public access.

Richey said that, while materials and tape recordings generated by most federal departments are subject to the Freedom of Information Act, the Nixon papers and tapes are not.

The Freedom of Information Act establishes specific means for members of the public to obtain government records.

The original agreement for disposition of the records of the Nixon era called for them to be stored in a facility near the former president's estate in San Clemente, Calif.

Two keys — one kept by the General Services Administration, the government's landlord, and one by Nixon — were to be required for access.

After Nixon resigned Aug. 9, 1974, then-Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski objected to the agreement between Nixon and the Ford administration.

Jaworski said he feared there would be insufficient access to Nixon's papers, needed for various prosecutions which continue today.

White House Counsel Philip Buchen subsequently agreed to give the special prosecutor's office temporary veto power over movement of any papers or tapes to San Clemente.

Preliminary Development Program Plans Outlined

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A preliminary draft to the city's Community Development Program was presented to the City Council last night during a special public session attended by a large gathering of local citizens.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen explained that the federally-funded CDP process began last August and since the citizen participation program was adopted, the city has received both general and specific recommendations from a number of community groups.

Information from those groups, plus that derived from the various city agencies, has been put into a preliminary plan for consideration, he added.

"What we are presenting is a beginning," Carstarphen contended. He said it represents a "preliminary effort...to identify a group of projects we think are worthy to be a part of the program." The draft is just that, he said, and not a final plan as approval of the overall plan is not anticipated before March.

According to City Planner John Schofield, under the Community Development Act of 1974 which was signed by President Ford in August, the mayor and council, rather than a federal agency, will make decisions about how to meet local needs by directing the various programs.

Schofield said that through a block grant by the federal government, in which the applicant makes an application for a number of separate projects within a broad area, Greenville can accomplish what the City Council and citizens feel are of importance in meeting local program needs.

The CPD, he said, represents the first step in "what we hope will be a fruitful partnership" between the city and the people of Greenville.

Activities permitted under the program include: property acquisition which is blighted or rehabilitable, needed for conservation or preservation, and needed for public works; construction or installation of a number of public works, including utilities, streets, parks, flood and drainage facilities, parking lots and fire stations; Minimum housing and building code enforcement; rehabilitation or removal of buildings including a loan or grant program to finance improvements; removal of architectural barriers to the elderly and handicapped;

Payments to owners for rental losses of units used for relocation purposes; the disposition of property acquired with community development funds; providing public services to improve economic opportunity, health care, education, recreation, as well as coordinating public and private development projects;

Payment of the local share for other federal programs; payment of the cost of completing an on-going urban renewal project; relocation payment for those displaced by activities using community development money; improved planning and management activities; and payment of administrative costs.

Schofield said that the Community Development Act stipulates that the main thrust of the program should be in low and moderate income areas and places emphasis on local government developing a spending program. The law, he said, also requires that efforts be made to involve local citizens.

Under the broad program, Greenville will receive $1,909,000 for each of the next three years, Schofield reported, and a task force was formulated to prepare an initial list of objectives for the city's program. Serving on the task force with Schofield were Charles Holliday, City Engineer; Charles Horne, director of Greenville Utilities; Alton Warren, chief inspector; Jesse Harris of the Human Relations Council; and Joe Laney, executive director of the Housing Authority and Redevelopment Commission.

This preliminary CDP contains the objectives felt by the task force to be the most important, he said. The objectives are in the areas of housing, West Meadowbrook, citizen information and participation, transportation, recreation-leisure time, human services policy, and environmental planning.

Under housing, according to Schofield, it would be the policy of the city to develop a strong conservation and rehabilitation program to improve housing conditions, with emphasis on preserving as many houses as possible. He noted that assistance will also be provided for the construction of new low and moderate income houses, with emphasis on provisions for the elderly.

In West Meadowbrook, although some of the problems of the area have been solved by residents and through city cooperation, many more remain, the city planner noted. Not only are the living conditions substandard to those of the rest of the community, but almost the entire area is located within the Tar River flood plain which will hinder future development, the draft points out. It notes that many of the residents are elderly and economically depressed, but they have a strong commitment to improve their living environment. The policy of helping these residents help themselves will be continued and expanded under the CDP.

A closer working relationship between the citizens and their elected officials is one of the goals of the program and the CDP will work towards developing a stronger two-way communication between government and the people it serves, according to the preliminary plan.

Improved transportation is a critical area of concern under the CDP and pedestrian and non-vehicular transit is also becoming more important. The development of more sidewalks and bikeways, a comprehensive public transportation system, and a coordinated thoroughfare system are key items of the program.

Under recreation and leisure time objectives, existing facilities should be improved and expanded with emphasis on increased facilities for the young, the elderly, the handicapped and the pre-delinquent, the plan points out. More passive leisure-time programs and facilities should be developed to encourage a new dimension in recreation, it states.

"This can be developed through the active preservation of open spaces and the development and implementation of a community policy supporting the arts," the proposal contends.

Development and implementation of an overall human services policy is becoming increasingly necessary in view of concern over human conditions and decreasing state and federal support, it was explained.

Planning, according to the proposal, should be undertaken for the short and long-range needs of the city, with emphasis aimed at the living environment of the city and including neighborhood preservation and improvement, economic development, natural and ecological concerns and an overall goal-oriented planning process.

Skip Browder, the city's new community development planner, said that the proposed program for 1975, broken down into funding for six areas and based on the first-year grant of $1,909,000 includes: recreation and open space, $272,000; public facilities, $180,800; $80,400 for water and $100,400 for sewer

READY WHEN?

When will the Greenville Town Common Park be completed? Will citizens of surrounding areas be able to use it? J. D. Jr.

Landscaping of the park should be completed by April, Greenville City Manager Bill Carstarphen said. About the only things left to be done are installing a magnolia tree to be used as a community Christmas tree and planting a grass cover. "We hope many people will enjoy it this spring, as indeed some are now," he said.

Future plans call for a bandstand and a small amphitheater and for a small parking lot at the far east end of the common area, yet to be landscaped. None of this will be done before next fall, however, Carstarphen said.

He said there is no restriction on who uses the park. Everyone is welcome.

Rate Increase

Effective Feb. 1 subscription rates to The Daily Reflector will be increased.

Single copy costs on week days will go from 10 cents to 15 cents. Sunday single copy cost will advance from 25 cents to 30 cents.

The monthly subscription rate will increase from $2.50 to $3. A part of the increase will be shared by the newspaper carrier. The price increase is necessitated by rapidly increasing cost of news print and other rising costs of producing and delivering a daily newspaper.

Jenkins Predicts ECU Growth; Five-Year Plan

CHAPEL HILL—Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins predicts that East Carolina University "will continue to grow" as it serves as a fiscal point for a developing region.

Jenkins told the committee on Educational Planning, Policies and Programs of the University Board of Governors today that ECU "can be expected to grow rapidly as a supplier of persons with graduate degrees" but that its "most dramatic change" will be in increased service to the state as a supplier of medical and health related personnel.

Jenkins went before the Board of Governors' Planning, Policies and Programs committee to discuss the Five Year Plan for ECU.

This plan proposes several new programs, including several graduate programs.

"High priority is given the adult education program and some emphasis in special education, such as in the areas of gifted children and emotionally disturbed children," he said.

"We have proposed several six-year degree programs. Some of these are for advanced certification of public school teachers, and others offer additional education for non-teachers or Community College and Technical School teachers already holding a master's degree. These six-year degree programs offer an especially attractive way to serve.

"I hope we can move forward on a broad front with offerings that bring additional opportunity to people, both teachers and others, through a one-year program of study beyond the master's."

Particular interest was invited to ECU's request to establish two new master's degree programs in the Division of Health Affairs. The first of these Master of Science in Nursing, is planned to include two major concentration areas—community mental health and family health. The second is the Master of Science in Environmental Health.

"In the two and one-half months that have ensued since the Board authorized East Carolina University to proceed with the development of a degree-granting medical school, intensive planning has been undertaken to implement this

Carolina T&T Reviews A Year Of Achievement

TARBORO—The year 1974 was one of continuing achievement for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, headquartered here, according to J. F. Havens, president.

Among the company's accomplishments in 1974 were:

- A $64,600,000 construction program. Total investment now stands at more than $497,100,000.
- Completed the most long distance calls—54,900,000 plus.
- Gained more telephones—41,155—to bring the total in service at year end to 627,124.
- Spent more for salaries and wages—$41,200,000—to the largest work force in the company's history—4,600.

Investment per average telephone rose from $723 at the end of 1973 to $771 at the end of 1974.

During the year, installation of equipment for a vast, computerized $15,000,000 long distance switching center at Rocky Mount was completed.

The new switching center was placed in service in April, 1974. A similar facility has been operated by the company at Fayetteville since 1972.

economic growth, Havens said that Carolina Telephone has budgeted $61,000,000 for expansion in 1975.

Across the state, the independent (non-Bell) telephone operating companies invested $129,000,000 in construction and expansion during 1974 and is now a $1,115,000,000 industry.

These 25 companies now serve more than 1,434,680 telephones.

Independent telephone companies serve 78 percent of the geographical area of the state, 45 percent of the population, and 45 percent of its 3,178,300 total telephones.

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission has come to the assistance of distressed public utility customers.

The commission issued an order Thursday requiring public utilities to wait two months before disconnecting customers for non-payment of bills.

In another order, the commission questioned the accuracy of Southern Bell Telephone Co. records as it took action which will delay for several months hearing on a $62.4 million dollar rate hike requested by the company.

The commission delayed consideration of the Southern Bell rate hike pending completion of a "complete and thorough independent audit" of the company's books.

The decision resulted from a statement by Southern Bell president L.E. Rast which said the company had discovered about $40,000 worth of "bogus vouchers." It said the proceeds of these vouchers may have been used to make illegal payments to political candidates.

The commission action to delay utility disconnections for non-payment of bills came while the commission was hearing complaints about skyrocketing electric bills across the state.

Under previous policy, utility firms could begin to disconnect customers for nonpayment of bills after 15 days.

"The increasing cost of energy, particularly electricity, coupled with the present climate of economic stress is making it difficult for many utility customers to pay their bills," the commission said in its order.

"In this climate, the short period of time presently allowed for payment of a gas or electric bill increases the possibility of service interruption with resultant potential harm to health and personal well-being," the commission added.

The commission made the order effective immediately and said it would be reviewed by the commission in late July to see how it works out.

In the Southern Bell case, the commission said recent public statements of Bell officials had raised "serious and substantial questions" regarding the "accuracy and correctness" of the company's records on which the rate application was based.

The audit could delay for several months consideration of the application which was set for hearing on Feb. 18.

Rast said in his statement that the proceeds of $40,000 worth of "bogus vouchers" may "have been diverted to political contributions." Rast said these alleged contributions did not have the approval of top company officials. Under state law, it is illegal for corporations to contribute directly or indirectly to a political campaign.

Pan-Am To Keep Alive With Funding By Iran

NEW YORK (AP) — Pan American World Airways is on the verge of reaching an agreement with the Iranian government, airline and banking interests on a plan designed to keep the financially troubled U.S. airline from collapsing, the Wall Street Journal said today.

If the arrangement is completed, it would make Iran one of the biggest transportation powers in the world, the newspaper said.

In recent months, Pan Am has undertaken a series of actions in an effort to improve its financial picture. On Thursday, Pan Am and Trans World Airlines, the United States' other major international carrier, received permission from the U.S. government to eliminate some duplicating routes and swap others in an effort to cut costs.

The Iran deal would allow Pan Am to survive as a separate entity under its own management, the Journal said.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying that Pan Am had kept the U.S. government advised of the negotiations with Iran and that the government's reaction was receptive.

DEAR ABBY: Recently, my son and his wife, Vicki, moved to Bakersfield, Cal. Being in a new area, Vicki looked in the Yellow Pages of her phone book to find an obstetrician to confirm her suspicions of pregnancy. She and my son wanted a baby very much. (Vicki is only 19.) What should have been a happy experience for her turned into a nightmare because of an idiot of a doctor.

He asked her if she was financially prepared to take care of a retarded or deformed baby. Naturally, she asked him if he had reason to believe anything was wrong. He said no, but she was so young and immature he thought he'd ask.

Vicki told the doctor that she wanted her husband with her during the delivery so they could share that beautiful experience together. He said, disgustedly: "There is nothing beautiful about it! It's a lot of grunting." (Have you ever heard of such talk from a doctor?) He also said he delivered a headless baby to a woman whose husband was in the room, and the husband nearly died.

Abby, this doctor instilled such fears and doubts in Vicki, I could wring his neck. I don't want this to happen to another expectant mother. Is there someone I can report him to?

READY TO EXPLODE IN VICTORVILLE

DEAR REDDY: Yes. Contact his County Medical Society and report him to the grievance committee. He shouldn't be allowed to practice. He sounds like a very sick man.

DEAR ABBY: Is nothing sacred? Here I am sitting with my boyfriend watching television, when all of a sudden we see a commercial come on for a product that makes me want to crawl under the rug. Good grief! I felt my face getting hot as a poker.

Then, a while later, another commercial came on for a medicine to treat a very embarrassing ailment which is not mentioned in polite company.

Where can I write to complain?

RED-FACED

DEAR RED: Regarding offensive TV commercials, write to the Federal Communications Commission Office, 1919 M Street, Washington, D.C. 20554.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for printing that letter from the woman signed "Restless." She confessed that she had the urge to run away from her family, and wanted to know if other wives experienced that feeling.

I have. Many times I've wanted to run away from my husband, and yes, my children, too, and start life all over again where no one would know me.

I've been married for 28 years, and my children are gone now. I've had a fairly good marriage. By that I mean I've had more good days than bad. No marriage is perfect. My mother always told me: "You can't run away from your troubles, and you can't leave them behind. If you run away, you take your problems with you." She was right.

Tell "Restless" if she stayed with her marriage for 25 years, her good days have probably outnumbered her bad days, and that's not a bad average. Tell her not to lose heart. She has lots of company. "B" IN LONG ISLAND

DEAR "B": You belong to a large sorority. You wouldn't believe the number of married women who wrote to confide that at one time they also had the urge to run away. One man courageously wrote: "Women don't have an exclusive on the urge to run away. I've had it, too, but thank God my sanity returned and good sense prevailed."

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Un-sponsored Visits Allowed

MCAS, CHERRY POINT—The Marine Corps Air Station Cherry Point has recently changed its policy concerning unsponsored visitors aboard the station. The new security regulations now permit unsponsored daily sightseeing from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The old Security Standing Operating Procedures required all visitors aboard the Air Station to have a sponsor.

Visitors driving aboard the Air Station will still be required to register with the Provost Marshal's Office. A sightseeing visitors pass will be issued, noting restricted areas aboard the Air Station.

Youth Services Are Scheduled

A trio of boys from Holmes Theological Seminary, Greenville, S.C., will be at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church Saturday and Sunday.

Extra Time To Seek Amnesty

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The thousands of military deserters and draft evaders from the Vietnam war era have until March 1 to sign up for President Ford's clemency program.

Ford extended the clemency program, which had been scheduled to expire at midnight tonight, because "many of those who could benefit from it are only now learning of its application to their cases."

Ford also noted Thursday that applications for the program have increased recently.

The extension drew criticism from various groups for different reasons.

James M. Wagoner, the national commander of the American Legion, said the legion was "disappointed and dismayed" by the decision. He said the program, which began last September, had lasted long enough and that the government should help find jobs for unemployed veterans with honorable discharges.

The National Council of Churches, the American Civil Liberties Union and the Central Committee for Conscientious Objection criticized the extension of the clemency program in its facilities); transportation, $262,875 ($214,600 for streets and $48,275 for sidewalks); planning and management, $132,000; housing and renewal, $775,000; and unprogrammed funds, $286,325.

Each of the areas are further broken down into a series of proposals for funding of specific aspects of the program areas. For example, $85,000 of the recreation and open space total is proposed for the purchase of the West Greenville Recreation Center (old Eppes High School property) for a neighborhood recreation and community center. Renovation of the South Greenville Recreation Center on Howell Street is also proposed with $35,000 of the total suggested for implementation.

Schofield and Browder emphasized that the projects identified in the preliminary CDP are only some of the needs as seen by the city and other program areas will hopefully be brought to the city's attention at public hearings on Feb. 6 and Feb. 20.

They said that the proposed budget was presented in order to give citizens an idea of where funding might be applied and reaction to the budget is welcomed and expected from citizens.

Some reaction and suggestions for new project areas were expressed following the presentation.

Larry Graham, representing the Sheppard Memorial Library Board, said that the possibility of expanding library facilities into neighborhoods should be looked into, with an eye towards the Meadowbrook and Pitt Plaza areas to give the city a broader scope of library influence. Library usage in the three branches here has greatly increased, he said.

Ida Mae Smith asked that consideration be given to the development of a Day Care Center in the Kearney Park area and Jim Hicks of the Brentwood Subdivision suggested that planning be included in the proposed bikeway programs for more Class One routes to serve both transportation and recreational purposes.

Edward Knight, representing the Moyewood community, asked that consideration be given to the expansion and development of the mini-library in the Moyewood Center, development of the city-owned land between the Tar River and W. Conley Street as a part of the city park system, and development of a "tot lot" with playground equipment to meet the needs of pre-school age children.

Representing the West Meadowbrook area, Mathew Lewis asked that the city consider the citizens of the area when making decisions concerning housing in the flood plain section.

Dr. Bill Holley, a member of the board of directors of the Greenville Art Center, contended that improvements are needed at the art facility and land should be purchased adjoining the facility for future needs before it is no longer available.

He said that the Art Center operates now on a budget of $8,800 with half of that figure coming from donations. Air conditioning of the structure is needed and expansion of the program beyond the present June closing date should be considered, Holley noted.

The Art Center will have to draw on community resources for program areas, he said, but the help of the city is needed in order to upgrade and expand the facility.

Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller reminded the gathering, which filled the council chambers at city hall, that some of the things not included in the first year project will probably be included at other times during the three-year program.

The Council also considered two other items during the special call meeting. An application by Dr. G. Howard Satterfield for a mobile home permit in order to place a structure on Memorial Drive adjacent to E. F. Craven Co. for use as a medical office was approved. An earlier request by Satterfield for a permit to place the structure at the southwest corner of Sixth Street and Memorial Drive, his first choice of locations, was denied. The Sixth and Memorial Drive site is presently zoned for Shopping Center usage and a hearing on proposed rezoning of the area is pending.

In approving the second choice of locations for Satterfield, who said that his lease on office space in the Physician's Quadrangle is up and the use of a mobile or modular unit is his only course of action in order to continue his practice here, the Council declared the situation an emergency and approved the matter without a public hearing. The permit is for one year and renewal is necessary after a one-year period.

Approval was also given for a contract in the amount of $17,868 with the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources, Division of Law and Order, for the establishment of a Crime Prevention Program at the Police Department.

Dickens-King Vows Said In Saturday Ceremony

Miss Annie Doris King of Winterville became the bride of PFC Gary Dickens of Fort Bragg Saturday afternoon in a semi-military double ring marriage ceremony at the Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church with Bishop W. L. Jones and the Rev. S. E. Selby officiating.

Wedding music was rendered by the Rev. John Taylor and soloist was Mrs. Ella Tyson Harris. She sang "Because", "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was decorated with twenty tiered candelabra with bouquets of white gladioli, seven branched and a fifteen semi-circle candelabra and tall standards of emerald greenery. The church was centered with a brass bridal arch entwined with greenery and apple green and pink satin bows. Pews were marked with green and pink bows with long streamers.

The bride wore a formal length white gown of mirra-mist designed with a high neckline encircled with Raschel lace and edged in ruffled organza. The empire bodice featured rows of Raschel lace alternating with Venise lace flowers. The long shepherdess sleeves featured similar rows of lace and cuffs of Raschel lace edged in Venise lace flowers. The modified A-line skirt featured a flounce of mirra-mist trimmed in panels of Raschel lace and edged in the Venise lace flowers and extended around the chapel length train.

She wore a chapel length mantilla edged in Raschel lace attached to a Camelot cap covered in matching lace. She carried a formal cascade of miniature white carnations, white orchids, amidst white baby's breath with accents of bridal pink carnations, cushion mums tied with apple green and hot pink bows.

The bridesmaids wore sleeveless A-line chapel length gowns of hot pink with Raschel high neckline encircled with lace and edged in ruffled organza of double knit polyester. They carried shades of pinks and American beauty miniature carnations, cushion mums and baby's breath tied with apple green and hot pink bows.

The matron of honor and junior maid wore gowns similar to the bride in mint green double-knit polyester and carried flowers the same as the bridesmaids. They wore bow headpieces that matched their gowns. The attendants were matron of honor, sister of the bride, Mrs. Pernell King Marable of Winterville, junior maid, Miss Wanda Williams of Greenville. Bridesmaids were Miss Brenda Swendell and Miss Annie Louise Clark, both of Winterville, Miss Lenda Reid and Miss Mary Tyson, both of Greenville.

The best man was Alton Swindell Hansley, brother of the bridegroom, of Fayetteville. Head usher was brother of the bride, Leon King, of Winterville. Ushers were Sgt. Norman Marable of Fort Bragg, Montro Streeter, James Harris and Calvin Dickens all of Greenville.

The flower girl, Miss Nola Yvonne Dixon of Greenville, wore a hot pink gown similar to the bridesmaids. She carried a basket filled with pink petals.

The ring bearer, Donnell Strong of Winterville, carried a white satin pillow bearing the rings.

The train bear, Miss Tarsha Williams of Greenville, wore a dress matching that of the bride of white satin and organza trimmed chapel length.

Given in marriage by her brother, Clinton Earl King of Greenville, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George King of Rt. 1, Winterville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hansley of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of cherry pink knit designed with a round collar of pink Venise lace. The mother of the bridegroom wore a chapel length gown of aquamarine green knit with matching accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

Directing the wedding was Ms. Esther Porteau.

The grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Estella Weeks of Baltimore, Md., wore a short knit suit of mixed pinks and a white miniature carnation corsage. The aunt of the groom, Mrs. Bettie Mitchell, wore a long chapel length gown of pink and a white miniature carnation corsage.

John Bizzell was in charge of the reception arrangements. He was assisted by Mrs. Alley McLawhorn, Mrs. Fannie Barnes, Mrs. Ida Smith, Mrs. Rachel Williams, Mrs. Hattie Staton, Mrs. Virginia Ebron, Mrs. Neila Laughinghouse and Mrs. Cherry Maye.

At the register was Mrs. Reba Wilkes and the receiving line hostess was Mrs. Deloris Barnhill.

The refreshment and brides table were covered with white satin cloths with lace trim centered with arrangements of pink and white snapdragons and carnations designed in a silver candelabra.

An afternoon luncheon was given for the bride, bridesmaids and directress by Mr. and Mrs. James Staton Saturday at their home.

Miss Sencindiver Is Bride

WELLESLEY, Mass. — Miss Margaret Kathryn Sencindiver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Sencindiver Jr. of Greenville, N.C., became the bride of John Nye Faville Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Nye Faville of San Francisco, Calif., Saturday, Jan. 18.

Father James Flynn, C.S.S., performed the double ring ceremony at 10 a.m. in Saint Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Wellesley, Mass.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza, designed with an open neckline accentuated with appliques of Venise lace. The natural waistline was enhanced with an inset band of organza centered with medallions of Venise lace. Matching lace capped the long sleeves and edged the trumpet cuffs, extended to the hemline, with covered button closures on the fitted under sleeves. The full skirt extended into a chapel train, edged in lace.

Her full length veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap of lace, organza and pearls. The bride wore her mother's pearl earrings and carried a handkerchief which had belonged to her maternal grandmother. Her bouquet was an old-fashioned nosegay of white with touches of pink.

Mrs. Mary Sencindiver Warr of Atlanta, Ga., sister of the bride, was her only attendant.

Andrew Colb of New York City was the best man. David H. Sencindiver III of Washington, D. C., brother of the bride, and James Beaton of Boston were ushers.

After the ceremony, a champagne breakfast was given by the parents of the bride in the Wellesley College Club.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School, Greenville, N.C. She attended Wellesley College, completed part of her studies as a senior at the University of London in Great Britain, and graduated with honors from Wellesley.

The bridegroom received his doctorate from the University of California at Berkeley and is a professor of English at Wellesley College.

Ignoring Economic Bad News

The stock market has enjoyed an exceptional boom in the past few days, but in doing so it had to ignore still more bad economic news.

Even as the stock averages zoomed upward the government was reporting that economic indicators were sliding downward at a record pace.

The indicators, which forecast future economic trends dropped 2.4 percent in December. For November the drop was 3.5 percent. The index has dropped 11 percent in five straight months. If the index is accurate it could predict deepening recession and throw in question the expectations of an economic revival later this year.

For stock traders, the downward trend of economic indicators is something that has been around for awhile. The traders are looking forward at least six months and buying stocks based on their expectations of what business will do. Since much of what goes into making the stock market rise or fall is based on guesswork and sheer mass psychology, those who are bidding the market up could be wrong.

On the other hand predicting the economy is still an inexact science. The latest figure the indicators are dealing with is December. Since that time auto makers have begun their rebate program and auto sales have increased. We can also expect that many of the layoffs of last year have begun to bring inventories in various industries back in line. Somewhere along the way some production will have to resume with a corresponding call back of laid off workers.

Certainly the government economists have far more information to deal with than the average citizen in the street, and so, too, do the traders on Wall Street. Most experts don't expect our economy to fall completely apart, however. If it doesn't it is logical to assume that this recession, like previous ones, will run its course and somewhere in the not-too-distant future things will turn upward again.

Programs May Feel Knife

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A first step away from simply rubber-stamping the state's spiraling budget has been taken by the House of Representatives in this year's session of the General Assembly.

Legislators will probe the so-called base budget, which contains all existing programs. Previous scrutiny has gone to the "expansion budget" almost singly, on the theory that the base budget contained things previously approved by the General Assembly, and there fore all right and not warranting review.

House Speaker Jimmy Green set up the Base Budget Committee with veteran legislator Billy Watkins of Granville in charge with the observation that, "The time has come... when we cannot afford the luxury of obsolete programs and excessive spending," instructing the committee to probe the budget line by line, from the bottom up.

In doing this, the legislators are flying in the face of numerous traditions:

New Directions —They are recognizing that the Advisory Budget Commission which helps the governor put the budget together, even though some legislators are on that commission, has not really probed spending.

—They are coming close to returning the budget to its true Constitutional stature as the governor's budget and removing the reverence and awe which surrounds it because the front page lists a lot of other people as authors, including the Advisory Budget Commission.

—They are dismantling the historic appropriations procedure in the General Assembly whereby a joint House-Senate committee made up of half the members of each body reviewed the budget and sent a money bill to the floor which had built-in support, and was seldom challenged.

—They are challenging the power of whoever may be chairmen of the Appropriations Committee (last year it was Rep. Carl Stewart on the House side, and continues this year to be State Sen. Ralph Scott on the Senate side), and reversing the trend of recent years for those chairmen to resort to a smaller sub-committee—and eventually themselves—to make the basic budget decisions.

—They are serving notice to state agencies that the simple fact that a program once gained approval and funding doesn't mean it will go on and on, a once-accepted premise.

Some Politics

There are two important political considerations behind the new budget approach: (1) a Republican administration is requesting the money from a Democratic assembly; and (2) a special governmental spending commission chaired by State Sen. I.C. Crawford in recent months has uncovered case after case of routine, daily spending abuses in state agencies, documenting inefficiency, waste, and lack of proper controls. Watkins served as a member of that watchdog commission.

The work of the Base Budget Committee will be extremely difficult and hazardous. For one thing, the knife will be aimed at "warm bodies" in existing state programs, rather than at hypothetical bodies in proposed expanded or new programs.

For another, the budget document itself has become increasingly inscrutable. Even members of the Advisory Budget Commission plead ignorance of the contents, blaming pressures of time, the staggering size of the budget, and the control of the preparation process by the governor and his economic wizards and department heads.

Compounding the awesome problem is the budget format this year. The budget used to come in three pieces: the base budget of existing programs, dollars, and the numbers of people; the expansion budget detailing new dollars, people, and programs; and the capital building budget spelling out the costs and locations and new buildings.

This year, there is one book of over 1,400 pages weighing nearly six pounds presented in what is called a "program" format. It is replete with programs, sub-programs, elements, sub-elements and building projects without clear lines drawn between existing and expanded activities.

The INSIDE REPORT

A Lethargy In California

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK SACRAMENTO, Calif.—

The vagueness and lethargy among California Democrats in contemplating the party's presidential nomination 18 months hence was pointed up at the state Democratic convention here last weekend by these political oddities:

Oddity No. 1—The only visiting presidential hopeful who generated enthusiasm or even briefly held the attention of delegates was former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, self-described "guerrilla-style candidate for President." But while cheering Harris's high-decibel polemics, the Democrats did not take him seriously. "We all hear Fred is running just to beef up his lecture fees," one national committeeman told us.

Oddity No. 2—The possible candidate most frequently mentioned by delegates as California's favorite was not here and is not even running so far: Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana. Although Bayh has been out of national politics since he aborted his presidential campaign in 1971, California Democrats who rejected him last time volunteer interest this time.

Oddity No. 3—The only Democrat with the financing, organization and national recognition in hand for a full-fledged campaign, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, was the only candidate passionately opposed here (though, like Bayh, he was absent). When one party activist informed fellow delegates she was attending Jackson's fundraiser in Los Angeles last Sunday night, she was reviled as "a sell-out artist."

The oddities can be explained. California Democrats, while liking no particular candidate, are always susceptible to anti-business diatribes delivered by so loud a voice as Fred Harris's. Massively unimpressed by active candidates, they scan the horizon for some acceptable liberal and find non-candidate Bayh. Meanwhile, ideological rigidity turns them against Jackson, his past advocacy of national defense obliterating all other questions.

Thus, there is no significant support for anybody in the nation's most populous state—a vacuum repeated throughout the country. State leaders here do not even attempt to guide followers. Nor can it be claimed that January 1975 is too early; at the state convention four years ago, supporters were lining up for Edmund Muskie and George McGovern.

Inattention to presidential politics reflects overall weariness. After years of internal bloodletting, delegates here seemed reluctant to get passionate about anything. What little energy they expended was devoted to contests for insignificant party offices (which predictably were won by the most liberal candidates).

No energy was left for the visiting presidential hopefuls. One prominent San Francisco Democrat told us he was interested in Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona ("because he's the most liberal") and was eager to hear his speech the next day. After that speech, we asked this leader his impression of Udall. "Dunno," he replied. "Never got there to hear it."

Those who did get to the convention floor spent more time gossiping than listening. Lackluster denunciations of President Ford's economic program by Udall, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Gov. Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania were nearly drowned out by chattering delegates. Harris made himself heard by speaking only six minutes and shouting neo-populist slogans into the microphone ("Most people in America think that the issue is privilege").

Udall was perhaps the biggest loser here. Wholly acceptable ideologically, Udall has a good chance to fill the vacuum on the left. Anxious to impress solemn California liberals, Udall repressed his famed sense of humor. The result was blandness without effectiveness. He made no converts.

First Man To Tap One

WASHINGTON — A great deal has been written about the man who invented the telephone, but very little has been said about the first man to tap one. As everyone in law enforcement knows, the telephone is absolutely worthless unless you can find out what the people on each end of the line are saying. The man who gets full credit for having tapped the first telephone line anywhere in the world is J. Edgar Soosa, a young agent in the Justice Department during President Ulysses S. Grant's Administration.

Soosa was not only a dedicated law enforcement officer but a whiz at electronics. He believed that when fighting crime, domestic and foreign, you had to use every weapon at your disposal. It was thanks to Soosa's determination and skill that anyone can now tap a telephone in this country without fear of detection or retribution.

This is what happened: In 1875 Ulysses S. Grant was finishing out his term of office. Grant was hoping to run again in 1876 but he was worried about his political enemies whom he believed were everywhere. One in particular was an Alexander Graham Bell, a Scotsman who worked in Boston. Someone at the White House had told President Grant that Bell was working for the election of Rutherford B. Hayes. (The aide actually had confused Alexander Graham Bell with a Boston politician named Arnold Choate Bell, who was a big Hayes supporter.)

President Grant called in J. Edgar Soosa and told him, "This is very confidential but I want you to go to Boston and find out what Alexander Graham Bell is up to."

"When you get the information, I want you to report directly to me. Use any method you have to as long as you get results. If you get caught I'll see that you get an executive pardon."

Soosa, who was used to following orders, immediately proceeded to Boston. He discovered that Alexander Graham Bell was working with deaf children which obviously was a cover for his real job, which was to get Rutherford Hayes elected President.

Bell lived in a boarding house with an assistant named Thomas A. Watson. Soosa rented a room in the same house under the name of Zimbalist.

When both Bell and Watson went out one day, Soosa broke into their rooms. He discovered a series of wires going from one room to another. They were connected with strange-looking speakers. His curiosity was aroused. Why were Bell and Watson communicating by these wires when their rooms were only 100 feet apart? It was obvious that they were

Public Forum

To the editor:

Volunteers—working through rescue squads and ambulance services—provide 41 per cent of the state's ambulance service, and account for 57 per cent of the number of ambulance attendants trained during the past year as Emergency Medical Technicians in this state.

The EMT training and certification program, as well as the licensing of ambulances meeting minimum state requirements is handled by the Office of Emergency Medical Services (OEMS). The chief of OEMS, James O. Page, was fired Tuesday by I.O. Wilkerson, director of the Division of Facility Services of the Department of Human Resources, who said Page "was not as effective in our judgment as he should have been."

However, Page said "I was told," that the firing was due, "to problems in my relationship with Secretary (of Human Resources) Davis Flaherty, with the chairman of the State (EMS) Advisory Council, and with several legislators."

In reality, Page has attempted to buck the bureaucracy in Raleigh in an effort to get things accomplished... seeking only the best emergency medical care for victims of accidents or life-threatening medical emergencies.

Volunteer rescue squad workers in Pitt County feel Page is highly qualified for the job and think very highly of him.

Before coming to North Carolina 13 months ago, Page was a Los Angeles battalion fire chief in charge of the para-medical program there; a consultant on EMS matters for the California legislature; and advisor for the television series "Emergency."

Most squad members feel his firing is an attempt by, and the result of efforts of a few individuals* to degrade and water down the EMT program which, in effect, insures high quality care for victims of emergency situations all across North Carolina.

Members of the Pitt County Association of Rescue Squads would like to see Page reinstated.

Saigon Funds Argued

By JIM ADAMS

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Ford administration officials have warned Congress that the rejection of an extra $300 million in aid to South Vietnam could tempt Hanoi "to launch an all-out offensive."

The officials said the North Vietnamese soon will step up military pressure but are not expected to launch an all-out offensive in the next six months unless tempted by Saigon's anticipated shortages.

Pentagon officials and a State Department official gave that assessment to the House Appropriations Committee on Thursday in support of President Ford's request for an additional $522 million for Vietnam and Cambodia.

But committee members, including Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., asked, "Is there any end to it? The people are getting sick and tired of it."

Assistant Secretary of State Philip C. Habib replied that he was unable to answer that question.

"That will depend on the activities of the other fellow," Habib said. "And I can't predict that."

Habib said the United States has a moral obligation to give South Vietnam the arms it needs to force Hanoi to carry out the 1973 Paris peace accords.

The moral obligation comes from statements by former President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger when the peace agreement was signed that the United States would continue aid to South Vietnam to carry out the pact, Habib said.

The assertion that Hanoi could be tempted to launch an all-out, offensive if Congress does not approve the additional $300 million Vietnam aid request was made by Lt. Gen. Daniel Graham, director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, and Erich F. Von Marbod, the Pentagon comptroller.

Von Marbod said South Vietnamese forces are using up ammunition, medical supplies and petroleum.

Under increased military pressure, their ability and willingness to defend themselves against North Vietnamese assaults will erode, he said.

40 Years Ago Today

January 31, 1935

A Trenton laborer, Lou Harding, said today during testimony that two men with a ladder in their car asked him for directions to the Lindbergh estate on the day of the murder and kidnapping. But Harding said neither man was Hauptmann.

Two other witnesses for the defense said today that they had seen Hauptmann at a bakery in the Bronx on the night of the kidnapping.

Debate on the state-wide drivers license bill will open Monday night in the senate in the first night session since the opening of the general assembly. This is the first state-wide bill of major importance to be reported out of committee and placed on the calendar in either house.

The drivers license bill was placed on the senate calendar Wednesday with a unanimous favorable report by the joint roads committee.

EARTHQUAKES

The great San Francisco earthquake of the nineteenth century exposed to a shocking degree the inefficiency of those branches of the city government which had participated in the building of schools. Although structures of all kinds suffered severely because of the quake, the schools were almost entirely destroyed because of their shoddy construction. An investigation revealed that there had been a great deal of corruption in the letting of contracts for the building of schools.

The people of San Francisco might never have known about this situation had it not been for the earthquake. And just as a cataclysm of this kind revealed political corruption, similar basic shakeups in human affairs reveal unsuspected areas of weakness in our lives and in our personalities. God sees to it that at some time a great earthquake or a little one comes to shake the heart of every person. The result will tell us much that we have refused to recognize about ourselves.

Americans Export Horsemeat

By CARL HARTMAN

Associated Press Writer BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Americans would rather bet on a horse than eat one, but some of them are not averse to supplying horsemeat to Europeans with a taste for cheval entrecote or filet Americain.

Last year the United States became the major exporter of chilled and frozen horsemeat to Belgium and France, the biggest markets in Europe. Consumption is going up in Italy and Holland, and West Germany buys some, too.

Only a small quantity was shipped from the United States in 1971, but exports have risen rapidly since then. In the first nine months of 1974, France imported 28,070 tons, 10,250 from America. Belgium, with a fifth the population of France, took 27,770 tons in the first 10 months of the year, and 8,591 tons came from the United States.

Poland, Yugoslavia, Argentina and Ireland — the traditional suppliers — are all lagging behind the United States. Canadian shipments have also been increasing, and some traders think much of the meat the Canadians ship originates south of the border.

Belgian traders say there are slaughterhouses in Houston, Fort Worth, Seattle and some East Coast cities specializing in horses.

For some, poulain — colt — is a special delicacy. But Joseph Gulickx, a horse butcher in the Brussels suburb of Vilvoorde, is wary of it; the Americans do not export any, and there is not much local production.

"Don't trust a butcher who offers you poulain," he advised. "Most likely it's just veal. Ask to see the piece of meat. Anybody can tell a colt's long legs from a calf's."

Poulain is as expensive as veal in Brussels — up to $4 a pound or more. Horse steak, which used to be a poor man's dish, is now as much of a luxury as beef.

Gulickx charges $2.98 a pound for his best horse entrecote. Beef entrecote is selling around the corner at a few cents less. Wholesale beef prices are much higher than horse, but middlemen and retailers take up the difference.

Gulickx is enthusiastic about American horsemeat: it's grain-fed and has yellowish fat and a good fresh flavor.

"The Poles feed their horses on potatoes," he said. "It's not nearly so good."

Cubs Held Space Derby

Cub Scouts of Pack 200 participated in a Space Derby Race at their Tuesday night meeting at the Moose home.
 Cub Master Ed Stallings presented Bobcat awards to Darrell Cool, Scott Garris and David Clanton; and the Wolf Pack award went to Timmy Ellis and Tim Little. Two Gold Arrow points went to Ken Davis.
 There were 22 entries in the Space Derby Race. Carl White placed first in Den 1, followed by Troy Fleming and Chris Baggett; Darrel Cook won in Den 2, followed by Scott Garris and David Clanton.
 Duncan Shaw won the Den 3 event, followed by Lee Stocks and Todd Whichard. Among the Webelos, Amos Harris was the winner, followed by Todd Lovett and Bill Coffman.
 The Derby winner was Amos Harris, followed by Lee Stocks and Bill Coffman.
 The Pack is sponsored by the Greenville Moose Lodge.

National Service Life Insurance and $9 for those with the Korean War-era Veterans Special Life Insurance.

Nessen also announced that President Ford asked Congress Thursday to eliminate or delay spending of $2.6 billion under the current federal budget.

Among the proposed cuts or delays were $156.2 million for farm soil and water conservation projects, $152.5 million for aircraft procurement, $123 million for National Cancer Institute research grants and fellowships and $102.5 million for education of the handicapped.

Dividend Checks To Be Mailed Earlier

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 2.5 million holders of Veterans Administration life insurance policies will get their 1975 dividend checks within 45 days in a government effort to pump cash quickly into the recession-plagued economy.
 Announcing this Thursday, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said participants in the three affected insurance plans customarily have received their dividends on the anniversary dates of their policies.
 But he said of the early payments, "The President feels that this action will distribute a substantial amount of cash at a time when it is needed to give a boost to consumer spending."
 Nessen said the dividends total $335.6 million, but that only $177.8 million will actually be distributed in checks. The rest probably will be allocated as credit toward future premiums or to buy additional insurance, an option which is open to the veterans, he said.
 He said the average dividend would be $168 for holders of World War I U.S. Government Life Insurance, $69 for those covered by the World War II afraid that if they were in the same room together they might be overheard.

 Soosa reported his findings back to President Grant who became terribly perturbed. "We have to know what they're saying to each other," he said.
 Soosa agreed. "I've been thinking about it. If I could attach a wire to their wire and have a speaker in my room, I could record everything they say."
 "Then do it," Grant thundered.
 "There's only one problem," Soosa said. "It may be illegal. I'm not sure you can attach a wire to somebody else's wire and listen in."
 "Dammit," said the irritated President. "The national security of the United States is at stake. I want to know what they're plotting."
 Soosa went back to Boston and attached a wire to Bell and Watson's. All during winter he sat with earphones on his head, but the line was dead. Then finally on the morning of March 10, 1976, Soosa's patience was rewarded. Over the line he heard Bell shout, "Mr. Watson, come here I want you."
 Soosa immediately took the tape to Washington, D. C., and while Grant sat drinking a whisky, the agent played back the immortal words.
 Grant smiled. "Just as I suspected. They were out to get me. Mr. Soosa, you have made a great contribution to your country. In years to come every President will owe you a debt of gratitude and say, 'Thank God for Soosa, who made the first wiretap possible.' Without you, sir, the telephone wouldn't be worth a damn."

 Bentsen, starting a second year of national barnstorming with little to show for it, seemed tired by the same old questions and the same old answers. Carter was viewed as a curiosity—Southern liberal oozing with syrup-accented charm. Shapp's interminable economic attack on President Ford was a disastrous national debut. Jackson's coup was his staff's finding conflicting engagements that kept him from coming here.

The lethargy at Sacramento was broken only by Saturday's luncheon appearance of newly inaugurated Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. Having disavowed interest in Democratic party affairs, Brown was less involved in his party's convention than any governor this century. But his appearance at that luncheon provided the weekend's only excitement. Brown's tough, knowledgeable and essentially nonideological theme that the taxpayers must get more out of their tax dollar contrasted with ho-hum liberal cliches by the presidential candidates.

Just beginning major public service, Jerry Brown at 36 scarcely seems a credible candidate for President. But it may take a fresh face with fresh formulations to break battle-weary boredom and force Democratic activists to focus seriously on 1976. The faces here, both of candidates and delegates, were anything but fresh and therefore were good reasons for Democratic concern.

BAROMETER OF LIFE

Would it really help to have an instrument to predict the storms of life? When the barometer falls it's too late to build a sea wall or to dig a cyclone cellar. Wise men prepare when the wind is calm. A leaking roof must be mended while the sun shines. The Church does not claim to provide a barometer of life. But it preaches every Sunday the spiritual readiness which climaxed Christ's Sermon on the Mount:
 "Whoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man which built his house upon a rock:
 "And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat upon that house. . . .
 "And it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock."

Rampants End With Victory

Rose High School's wrestling team closed out the 1974-75 regular season last night with their 16th win of the year. The Rampants downed Northeastern High School, 41-23.

Northeastern took an early lead, and held it until the final three matches, all won by the Rampants. Overall, Rose won seven weight classes, while Northeastern took five. One ended in a draw.

Of the Rose wins, two came on forfeits, while four were by pins. Northeastern took two by falls.

The victory ran the Rampant record to 16-1 for the season, and 8-0 against Division I competition. Jeff Hagans, who got a forfeit at heavyweight, completed the regular season unbeaten, with a 17-0 record.

The Rampants go into the Division I meet Saturday, Feb. 8, at Northern Nash.

Williamston Girls In Win

ELIZABETH CITY — Williamston High School's girls' basketball team romped to its 18th straight victory of the year last night, rolling over Northeastern, 51-17.

The state runner-up has not lost this year as it goes out to pick up the championship this season.

Williamston leaped out to an 18-3 lead in the first period of the game. They added nine points to their lead with a 13-4 advantage in the second period, holding a 31-7 halftime lead.

The Tigerettes continued to roll along in the third frame, holding a 14-4 advantage, as their lead climbed to 45-11. Both teams pushed through six points in the final period.

Fran Hardison led the Williamston scoring with 13 points, while Nancy Williams pushed through 12.

Williamston will play host to Endenton on Tuesday night.

Williamston—E. Harrison 13, Taylor 8, Brandon 6, Williams 12, Sharpe 2, Bennett 2, Roberts 1, Robertson 1, A. Hardison, Cullipher, Spruill.
 Northeastern—S. Bowe 2, E. Bowe 2, Moore 9, McMurray 4, Harris, Wood, Williams.
 Williamston 18 13 14 6—51
 Northeastern 3 4 4 6—17

Union Carbide Wins Its Ninth

Division II leader Union Carbide eased to its ninth victory last night in the Industrial Basketball League.

Union Carbide downed State Highway, 62-60, in the opening game of the evening. They built up a 31-20 lead in the first half, but they had to hold off a State Highway rally. The Highwaymen outthit Union Carbide, 40-31, but it wasn't quite enough.

Garland Warren led Union Carbide with 20 points, while Jimmy Sutton had 14, Tommy Roach had 12 and Marvin Hardy had 11. Fred Mills led State Highway with 20, while Smith Worthington and Clyde Elks each had 12.

The second game saw North Carolina National Bank down Daniel, 51-45. NCNB built up a 40-21 lead in the first half, then coasted in allowing Daniel a 24-11 margin in the second half.

Randy Martin led NCNB with 21 points, while Jerry Clark and Tony Whitehurst each had 11. Daniel was led by Les Wells with 19, while Larry Bolander had 10.

In the final game, Eaton gained a 65-62 win over Grady-White. The Boatmen pushed into a 25-23 lead at the half, but Eaton came back with a 42-37 margin in the second to gain the win.

William Rouse led Eaton with 25, while Julius Wright hit 18 and Herb Wright had 12. Phil Brown had 23, N. Norris had 12 and Chuck Ball had 11 for Grady-White.

Beltone Wins 3rd

Beltone continued to roll along in the Women's Basketball League last night, claiming its fourth victory in as many starts.

Beltone crushed Daniel Construction, 85-8, in the opening game of the evening. By the end of the first period, Beltone held a 40-6 lead, and they outthit Daniel, 45-2, in the second half.

P.J. Taylor led Beltone with 29, while Lyn Kearney had 22, Vangie Jones had 18 and Debbie Pollard had 13.

The other game saw Buccaneer take a 30-29 decision over The Little Mint. Little Mint held the halftime lead, 12-11, but Buccaneer came back with a 19-17 advantage in the second half to win it.

Patricia Hamilton led the Buc with 11 points, while Faye Everett had 10. Nan Cheek had seven to spark Little Mint.

Saturday marks the start of the final four weeks of the Southern Conference basketball race—and what better way to start it off than by pitting the two leaders of the league together.

So Saturday night at 8 p.m. in Greenville, South Carolina, the first of two fateful meetings between East Carolina (7-0) and Furman (6-0) will be held. The two meet in Greenville, North Carolina, just ten days later.

East Carolina Coach Dave Patton feels that the second meeting may be the more important of the two, however, although he admits that this game could have a profound effect on the eventual outcome.

"But the pressure right now is all on them. They are the defending champions; they were the preseason favorites; and they have the game on their home court; so they're supposed to win according to all the experts. Because of this, I think we can go into the game quite loose. They have to prove that they are the best. We're just going to throw it up and run up and down the court and see what happens. We know that we have a chance—and we know that they have to come back and play on our floor."

After rolling up over 100 points in each of their first two road games in the current six-game swing, the next two opponents Bucs—who still won, but in heart-stopping two-point finishes. But Patton isn't looking for the Paladins to slow it down.

"We made some statements last week, and they've (Furman) taken it as a challenge. We said they'd have to run with us, and I've been told that they want to prove that they can. Well, that's okay, too," the coach added.

Patton figures that the game may be decided in the battle for the backboards. "They have the size (7-1 Fessor Leonard) and the muscle (6-10 Clyde Mayes), and that will give us problems. But if we can stick with them, it'll make it a different story. If they beat us badly off the boards, it may be a long night, however."

The coach acknowledged that the Pirates will "have to play at their best to win."

"But it's not that important, either," he added. "We still have six more games to play after that in the conference. They have to come to our place too. If we were to win Saturday, then they would really have the pressure on them—they'd have to win up here. And they still have to go to two places where we've already played and won—VMI and Davidson."

Should the two teams remain unbeaten in the league the rest of the way—and split when they meet—East Carolina would automatically gain the upper seeding, since it plays more games. The Bucs play 14 times in the league, while Furman has only 12 games.

Gregg Ashorn continues to lead the Pirate scoring with a 14.2 average. Robert Geter is next with a 12.1 mark, followed by Larry Hunt at 11.7. Hunt is the leading rebounder at 10.5. According to the latest Southern Conference statistics, through last Saturday, The Pirates lead the league in scoring, 87.4 point a game, while Furman is fifth at 79.4. But Furman is second in defense, allowing 78.9 per game, and the Bucs are third at 78.9.

Furman leads the league in field goal percentage, hitting 42.9 per cent, while the second place Bucs are making 48.8. At the line, the Pirates are second, 71.0 while Furman is sixth at 68.6.

The Bucs are second in rebounding, capturing 51.4 per cent of the loose balls, while Furman is fourth at 49.4.

Mayes, the leading scorer for the Paladins, is third in the league with a 22.2 average, while Leonard, ranked seventh, is hitting 15.4.

Mayes also is hitting 13.3 rebounds per game, while Leonard has gotten 10.5. Hunt, at 10.6, joins the two as the top three in the league. Geter ranks sixth with 8.0 per game.

Furman leads the series between the two teams, winning 10 of the 15 meetings. East Carolina has won only two games in the Paladins court, one in the Southern Conference tournament. The Paladins captured both meetings last year, winning 89-80 in Minges, and 72-70 on their own court. The last ECU victory was in 1972-73, when the Bucs took a 61-57 win on their own floor.

East Carolina's last win in South Carolina was in 1971-72, when the Bucs took a 77-75 overtime win to capture the Southern Conference tournament championship.

Jamesville Tops Bears

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville High School took a pair of games from visiting Bear Grass last night in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference.

Jamesville won the girls' game, 40-26, and took the boys' by 61-47. Bear Grass got only the junior varsity game, 41-26.

In the girls' game, Jamesville jumped out to a 9-2 lead. They built that to 19-10 at the half.

Both teams pushed through eight points in the third period, as the Lady Bullets held to their nine-point lead, 27-18. Jamesville outthit the Bears, 13-8, in the final period.

Edith James led Jamesville with 12, while Janet Holiday had a similar number for Bear Grass.

Bear Grass inched out to an 8-7 lead in the first period of the boys' game, but couldn't hold it. Jamesville came back with an 18-5 margin in the second quarter to take a 25-13 lead into intermission.

The Bears rallied, 17-12, in the third frame, cutting the lead to 37-30. But Jamesville ran away with the final quarter, 24-17, to take the win.

Jerry Ange led Jamesville with 20 points, while Bryan Davis and Eric Davis each had 11. Randy Stokes led Bear Grass with 15. Jamesville plays Aurora tonight, while the Bears meet Pantego next Friday.

Aycock Is Cage Victor

GOLDSBORO—E. B. Aycock Junior High School captured its sixth victory of the year yesterday, downing Goldsboro Junior High School, 43-34.

Aycock had little trouble with the victory, leaping away to a 12-2 lead in the first period. They continued to hold sway the rest of the half, going into intermission with a 19-10 lead.

In the third period, Aycock added to its lead, outthitting Goldsboro, 10-6. That gave them a 29-16 lead. They coasted home, allowing Goldsboro a 19-14 edge in scoring in the final period.

Larry Speight led the Aycock scoring with 23 points. Larry Johnson had 10 for Goldsboro.

Aycock is now 6-3 for the year. E. B. Aycock 12 7 10 14—43

More Heroin Intercepted

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Another package of heroin has been intercepted in a continuing surveillance being maintained by postal officials on mail arriving in Goldsboro from the Far East.

Authorities said the package seized Thursday contained two pounds of heroin which was estimated to have a street value of $1.6 million.

In all, six pounds of heroin have been seized since Jan. 23, with a street value estimated at $4.9 million.

Police said no arrests were made Thursday, but two arrests were made last week.

Jessie Thomas Horton, 42, and Delores Burney, 38, both of Goldsboro, were jailed under $100,000 bond each on a charge of possessing heroin with intent to distribute.

Officials declined to give details on how the package was intercepted Thursday, and they did not disclose the origin.

Navy To Reduce Carrier Force

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy reportedly will cut back its aircraft carrier force next year to its smallest size since World War II.

The new Defense budget, which will go to Congress next week, is said to reflect a reduction of two carriers. Likely to go are the 31-year-old Hancock and the nearly 30-year-old Oriskany.

This would leave the Navy with 13 carriers, including one used for training.

Adm. James L. Holloway III, chief of naval operations, signaled this development Thursday when he told a San Diego audience that surface warships will carry a larger share of the sea-control mission "with the reduction of carrier force levels."

Holloway did not elaborate and the Navy refused to comment. Other Pentagon sources provided some details.

These sources said the carrier cutback and some other fleet reductions in prospect result largely from inflationary pressures on military spending.

The Navy already has scaled down ship steaming time and flying hours, mostly in training. It also has delayed some ship and aircraft overhaul.

Holloway said the fleet will dip below 500 ships next year, roughly half what it was about seven years ago.

In general, the Navy has retired or scrapped older ships and applied these funds to building new ships and modernizing others. The net effect will be a smaller but more up-to-date fleet, planners believe.

The carrier force reduction, even with two big new nuclear-powered ships due to be commissioned within the next couple of years, raises questions as to whether the Navy can continue to keep as many carriers as it now has on station abroad.

It strengthens the possibility that the Navy may decide to maintain only one carrier, instead of the present two, in the Mediterranean.

Prospects for a change in the three-carrier deployment in the Far East are uncertain.

fact, four hearts was reached at both tables, and the Swedish declarer went down one, losing two aces and two trump tricks.

Against the Israeli auction, shown above, West led a low diamond to East's ace. East cashed the ace of spades and then reverted to the jack of diamonds, won by declarer's king. When a trump to the ace fetched the ten from West, declarer suspected that West might have a singleton trump. He had a slight clue to guide him: East's hurry to cash the ace of spades suggested that he thought he was looking at enough trump tricks to defeat the contract.

Therefore, declarer decided to base his play on the odds-against chance that trumps were going to break 4-1. He saw that, given a certain lie of the cards, he could nullify East's trump holding. Lev continued by cashing the queen of diamonds and three high clubs. Next, he cashed the king of spades and ruffed a spade in dummy. Now, dummy's last club was led.

A surprised East found that he could make only one trump trick. He was down to nothing but the Q-J-5 of trumps. If he ruffed low, declarer would overruff and cash the king of hearts. But ruffing high was equally unavailing. He was left with the queen-five of trumps, and had to lead into dummy's king-nine tenace, again limiting him to one trump contract as the cards lie. In

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market shrugged off some early profit taking and began gaining again today with a lift from the continuing downward trend in the bank prime lending rate.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.28 at 699.70. Gainers held a 6-5 edge on losers in fairly active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

A short while before the opening, New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust, fifth largest bank in the nation, cut its prime rate from 9 1/2 to 9 percent. That matched a reduction in the key rate on corporate loans posted Thursday by Chase Manhattan of New York, third in size in the industry.

Westinghouse Electric was the most active issue on the NYSE, rebounding 1/4 to 11 1/2 after a loss of 1 Thursday.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was up 13 at 73.55.

International Minerals & Chemicals lost 2 to 31 1/2; Beker Industries lost 1 1/2 to 15 1/4, and Terra Chemicals International slipped 1/2 to 11 1/2 at the top of the American Stock Exchange's most-active list.

The NYSE's composite index rose .17 to 40.69.

Overhang On Bldg. Falls

More than 190 feet of plaster soffit or overhang at the East Carolina Reginal Development Institute building at the intersection of First and Reade Streets fell during the night.

Officials said the plaster-on-metal lath overhang gave way along the 190-foot long South side of the building and for about 20 feet along the East end before dawn. No other damage was reported.

Officials said no estimate of the damage was immediately available and said cause of the mishap is under investigation. The RDI building was completed in October 1974.

The plaster soffit was installed by F. W. Dellinger Plaster Contractors of Durham.

Court Finds For Seniority

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Companies will be allowed to continue the practice of "last hired, first fired" in laying off employees, a federal appeals court has ruled.

The 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals said Thursday laying off workers in reverse seniority does not violate the rights of minority groups and women.

The unanimous decision by the three-judge panel involved the Jersey Central Power & Light Co., which wanted to cut its 3,850 workers by about 10 percent.

Last July, the utility filed suit in federal court in Newark, asking for guidance. It was bound by a union agreement that seniority be used as a yardstick in layoffs and a pact with the federal government to hire more minority persons.

The agreements were with the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

No Charges Made In Car Collision

No charges were reported following investigation of a 5:04 p.m. collision at the intersection of fifth and Reade Streets here yesterday.

Jenkins Predicts...

authorization. Search committees are actively recruiting the Dean, major departmental chairmen and the senior faculty required to achieve accreditation for the School. Present faculty, working with the previously selected architectural firm and appropriate consultants, have initiated preliminary discussions concerning the new medical sciences building and suitable teaching hospital facilities. Planning for interim facilities, needed until the new ones are ready for occupancy, is virtually complete.

"It is anticipated that the School will receive provisional accreditation to permit the enrollment of its first class of North Carolina medical students in 1976; therefore, in 1980 the first M.D. degrees will be awarded," Jenkins said.

He said the need for strong basic science graduate programs is inherent in the academic support required in the development of a sound degree-granting medical school. These programs support and enhance the teaching and research activities of the faculty. They are needed even in a medical school whose basic mission is to educate and to train students to enter primary care medical practice.

"Now that East Carolina University is authorized to develop the degree-granting medical school, we will need to amend our Five Year Plan shortly to include the new programs associated with Health and Medicine. A specific request to this effect will be submitted to you as soon as the plans for the further development of the medical school are more defined by a new dean and the medical faculty."

Green appointed Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments which will handle legislation to ratify the Equal Rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Other committee chairmen included: Rep. Thomas B. Sawyer, D-Guilford, Highway Safety; Rep. Larry Eagles, D-Edgecombe, Alcoholic Beverage Control; Rep. J. M. Gardner, D-Johnston, corporations; and Rep. Joe L. Bright, Commercial Fisheries and Oyster Industry.

Meanwhile, representatives of 11 consumer groups called on the General Assembly to take action to lower electric power bills in North Carolina.

A public hearing held by the Senate Committee on Public Utilities and Energy, speakers called for elimination of the fuel adjustment clause, repeal of the forward test period for rate making and public election of Utilities Commission members.

Other speakers called for the attorney General to investigate both the power companies and the Utilities Commission.

New legislation included a bill by Sen. Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell, to expand the North Carolina Reinsurance Facility to include collision insurance. The reinsurance facility is a pool of insurance companies which reinsures drivers who are bad risks. It handles only liability insurance. Kincaid said his proposal for the reinsurance facility to handle collision insurance would save some motorists from $100 to $500.

Rep. B. D. Schwartz, D-New Hanover, and Rep. S. Thomas Thodes, R-New Hanover, sponsored a bill to make the state Ports Authority an independent agency.

Rep. Wade Smith, D-Wake, would urge Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to simplify procedures for obtaining food stamps. It said food stamp applicants are "being delayed by unnecessarily complicated forms and procedures."

Rep. Clyde Auman, D-Moore, offered a bill calling for the creation of regional education training centers for children with special needs. The bill would appropriate $350,000 for operation of the centers and $50,000 for administrative costs.

Sen. I. C. Crawford of Buncombe offered a bill that would increase court costs in district courts from $16 to $20 with the additional money going to the state to help pay court expenses.

Another Crawford bill would prohibit civilians from holding supervisory positions in the Highway Patrol.

The two Crawford measures resulted from the work of Crawford's study commission on elimination of waste in state government. Crawford said the two measures would save thousands of dollars yearly.

Food Stamp Price Freeze Slated For Early House Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of a measure to freeze food stamp prices for the rest of this year hope to put it to a House vote next week.

The Ford administration plans a substantial increase in the prices on March 1, and state officials have said they have to begin the administrative work within two weeks to implement the new prices.

The House Agriculture Committee on Thursday, five days ahead of its original schedule, approved the measure 33-2.

Although the two votes against it came from Republicans, the final language of the bill — borrowed from one Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., introduced in the Senate — came from the senior GOP member, Rep. William C. Wampler of Virginia.

The House is scheduled to begin a 10-day recess next Thursday, but Agriculture Chairman Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., said he intended to see floor action on the measure before that. Foley also predicted Congress would override any presidential veto of the bill.

The Senate could complete congressional action on the bill while the House is in recess.

As one of several food stamp bills introduced by more than 100 lawmakers since the Agriculture Department announced its intentions Dec. 4, the measure would maintain the prices at their Jan. 1 level.

General Motors has been granted another delay in paying a $10 million installment for the exclusive North American rights to build the controversial Wankel rotary engine.

The postponement was the latest indication that the auto maker has scrapped plans for producing the engine and now is seeking to cancel its commitment to pay $
