

Planning Grant For Airport Approved

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

A Federal Aviation Administration has approved a $24,306 planning grant for the Pitt-Greenville Airport Authority, Congressman Walter B. Jones announced today.

The funds will be used to prepare an airport master plan for development of the Pitt-Greenville airport.

According to J. T. Little Jr., chairman of the airport authority, the Federal funds represents a 66-per-cent grant, with half the remaining 33 per cent cost being funded by the State and half shared by the Greenville city and Pitt county governments.

The grant will fund a "long range study — with five, ten, 20-year projections — to determine what needs to be done in the way of improvements, and the projections for expansion, in order to properly and orderly make the improvements needed for future use of the airport."

Little indicated the study would also project "what level this airport will become... what utilization will be made of it... and by what aircraft. It will look ahead and deal with airport layout, required facilities... what use it will grow to."

The study should "save a lot of funds... keep us from doing something wrong that might have to be changed later because proper planning wasn't done," Little emphasized. "It should provide for proper growth and planning."

The long range plan will be done by Sverup and Parcel Associates of St. Louis, Mo., out of their Washington, D.C. office, and will take about five months, Little explained. He said work should get under way on the plan in March.

"We are anxious to implement some needed improvements — additional instrumentation and paving — as soon as the study is completed," according to Little. "We need to pave the runways and taxi ways to preserve and strengthen them. Nothing has been done to them since World War II," he said. "But, we don't want to do it until we have the study completed and know exactly what we should do."

The authority chairman noted, too, that the study should provide "justification for FAA participation in projects later." He said the FAA will not fund projects "without justification" and indicated that by having a master plan, justification of projects would be easier.

Pitt Tech Trustees Vote Community College Role

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt Technical Institute Board of Trustees Monday unanimously supported a motion by A. B. Whitley Jr. to add the college transfer program to the existing technical and vocational curricula of the institution which would make PTI a comprehensive community college.

The name of the institution, would be changed to Pitt

Community College, it was learned.

The motion passed by the board included a clause that would require a similar resolution of support from the Pitt County Board of Commissioners before the proposed change could go to the General Assembly for final sanction.

"It was the consensus of the trustees that, even though such an effort was turned down in 1970 in a referendum, many developments since then have made community college status for PTI a favorable move," said Senator Vernon White, chairman of the PTI board of Trustees.

A. B. WHITLEY, JR.

"Research has demonstrated that technical institutes which added the college transfer program three or four years ago have all seen increases in both quality and quantity in their technical and vocational programs," Sen. White explained.

Sen. White said it was pointed out that the current economic conditions made the availability of the first two years of college at a very low tuition a crucial issue in the educational plans of numerous young people and their parents.

Whitley said he felt the PTI board should go on record in favor of changing the name of Pitt Technical Institute to Pitt Community College and that the board ask the Pitt County Commissioners to join them in the endorsement.

Whitley said he opposed the conversion of PTI to a community college status in 1970 and that he is concerned that the community college status will jeopardize what he still considers the most important role of PTI—vocational and technical education.

"Although the people voted to keep our institution a vocational and technical school, our utmost efforts have not been placed on vocational courses, any more than technical courses, and I further believe we have more applications for technical courses than vocational courses.

"Therefore, the name PTI is not reflecting our course of actions of image of what we are really teaching," Whitley said. "I understand that now approximately 80 percent of the technical course taught at PTI will transfer to virtually any four year college or university of North Carolina."

"So, in fact, PTI is, for all practical purposes, performing many of the functions of a community college without having the name, the prestige, and the additional funds that community college status would afford it," Whitley emphasized.

Whitley said PTI was in the process of having an institutional sign erected on the front campus of the school and that the change in the institutional name should be done before the sign is erected.

Pitt County voters rejected Pitt Tech's bid to become a community college in a referendum held May 3, 1970. A total of 4,562 votes were cast against the issue while 3,700 votes were cast in favor of community college status.

Growth Report

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Boy Scouts have increased in number by five per cent in 1974, representatives of the Scout councils reported to Gov. Jim Holshouser Monday.

Twelve Scouts, representing the 95,000 boys active in scouting, presented reports to Holshouser from each of the councils in the state.

Holshouser told them that as a boy in Boone his own Scout troop had folded. "I never figured out whether it was because of me or not," he said.

Reveals Kissinger 'Very Hopeful' On Rabin Talks

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is "very hopeful" for chances of progress, his spokesman reported today as the American peace negotiator held his second meeting in less than 12 hours with Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin.

Rabin's press aide said hard bargaining would not begin until after Kissinger visits Cairo on Wednesday.

The secretary of state and the premier met for breakfast at Rabin's residence and then were to go into a full working session with their advisers.

Kissinger arrived Monday to begin his latest Middle East peace shuttle and met for almost two hours Monday night with Rabin and an Israeli negotiating team. Spokesmen for both sides said there was a "general review" of positions. An Israeli spokesman said the purpose of the meeting was to agree on an agenda for future negotiations, and "no specifics were discussed."

Kissinger's task is to find out how much additional Egyptian territory in the Sinai Desert the Israelis are willing to give up in a second disengagement agreement and what political concessions they demand in exchange.

He told newsmen with him on the flight from Washington to Jerusalem that he had no "formal proposal" from either side but did have "ideas from Egypt and ideas from Israel."

"I'm here to discuss such ideas," he said.

Egypt wants Israel to give up the Mitla and Gidi passes through which ground forces must pass to reach the central Sinai and the Suez Canal as well as the Abu Rudeis oilfields in the southern Sinai.

U.S. officials have said Kissinger recognizes that Israel in exchange must get concrete concessions toward an end to political, diplomatic and economic belligerency.

Kissinger goes to Cairo on Wednesday to find out the Egyptian demands and what they are willing to concede, then flies back to Israel Thursday via Syria to see if he can bring the opposing positions close enough together to make further shuttle negotiations worthwhile.

He also will visit Jordan and Saudi Arabia and will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in Geneva next week. He plans to return to the Middle East about March 10 unless he concludes that there is no possibility for an Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

Natural Gas Shipments To N.C. Industry Have Begun To Move Again

RALEIGH (AP)—Industrial customers of North Carolina Natural Gas Co. which have firm contracts are now being supplied with gas, company president Frank Barragon Jr. said Monday.

He said increased gas supplies announced last week by North Carolina's sole gas supplier, Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp., made it possible for gas to be resumed to many eastern North Carolina industrial plants.

Most of the N.C. Natural Gas Co.'s industrial customers, including the large Farmers Chemical Association nitrogen fertilizer plant near Tunis, were cut off in December when Transco sharply curtailed natural gas supplies to North Carolina.

N.C. Natural Gas Co. took a large share of the curtailment, because a large portion of its customers are industrial and residential users take priority for supplies.

Figures show the company's curtailment now totals 45.5 per cent. Piedmont Natural Gas Co., which serves Charlotte, Greensboro, Winston Salem and most of central North Carolina, has had supplies cut 40.5 per cent. Public Service Co. of N.C., which serves the Raleigh-Durham area and Gastonia, is being curtailed 35.7 per cent.

Barragon said even with last week's increased supplies, customers with interruptible service, who pay a lower rate, are not getting natural gas.

Transco officials said Monday that since December half of the gas curtailed to North Carolina has been restored. The State Utilities Commission released figures showing that the state's overall average cutback has fallen to 40.7 per cent of the state's contracted need. At its high point in December the curtailment had reached 45.4 per cent.

North Carolina's gas cutbacks still total four times the national average of 10 per cent. Transco officials say the company has experienced more severe shortages than other pipeline companies.

Ford Releasing Highway Funds

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will announce today that he will free $2 billion in impounded highway funds — a move that will create an estimated 140,000 to 300,000 new jobs, sources said.

The sources said the President would make the announcement part of his address to the Kansas Legislature during his visit to the Midwest.

The President has been under pressure both from state officials and congressional leaders to free $4.3 billion in highway funds for fiscal year 1975, which have been impounded by the Office of Management and Budget.

A resolution currently is pending in the Senate which would overrule the President's deferral of the federal aid highway funds.

Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-

W.Va., author of the resolution, said last week he had received information indicating that more than $2 billion in highway work could be placed under contract by the end of June in addition to the $2.3 billion already programmed for that period.

"This could create well over 300,000 jobs — or even more if the money is concentrated in projects that have a higher labor usage than the average," he said.

Randolph said he based his estimate of the number of jobs on a study by the Federal Highway Administration showing that 151,040 jobs are created for each $1 billion spent in highway construction.

Other sources said, however, that the estimate was high and said about 70,000 jobs are created for each $1 billion spent.

'Productive Year' For Redevelopment Work

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The annual report of the Redevelopment Commission, adopted Monday night for presentation to the mayor and council, indicates a "very productive year" in 1974 for the commission.

The report, which will be submitted in a letter from commission chairman Billy Laughinghouse, points out that the Shore Drive effort was virtually complete at the end of the year and that the deed to the Town Common was presented to the city in March.

Approximately $4 million in private and public new construction was initiated during the year and the estimated annual return on taxes in Shore Drive was $30,000 compared to some $3,000 annual tax income prior to the start of the urban renewal project.

Some $420,000 in credits were secured for the East Carolina University expansion program during the year, the letter reports, and the city will be able to use the credit in other urban renewal areas.

The Newtown project is complete with the exception of a few street improvements, according to the annual report, and 78 units of housing in the project area are fully occupied.

In the Central Business District project, approximately 75 per cent of all acquisition was completed at the end of 1974 and Reade Circle was completed to Dickinson Avenue. All rights-of-way were acquired along Greene Street for proposed widening.

The alleyway program was initiated during the year as an improvement and beautification project and the Evans Street Mall plans are being developed by the architect. Bid and contract documents on the mall are being prepared and should go out in March.

Find Mussels In Canal Work

FRESH WATER MUSSELS . . . J. D. Briley of Rt. 5, Greenville, and Elmer Bland, SCS technician, show the fresh water mussels they found in a canal in Pitt County drainage district no. 8, near Pactolus. (SCS Photo By Roy Beck)

Two species of fresh water mussels were found in a canal in Pitt County Drainage District No. 8, near Pactolus, by a local farmer.

J. D. Briley of near Pactolus first noticed the mussels while assisting Soil Conservation Service Technician Elmer Bland make ditch-bottom readings behind a dragline of a private contractor hired to clean out the canal.

Briley and Bland threw some of the mussels back into the canal and collected a few for identification.

Bland was surprised that the most numerous kind found differed from ones previously found in other canals in Pitt County.

According to Bland, the original canals were hand dug and were probably constructed by slaves before the Civil War. In 1948 a complete network of improved channels were constructed by dragline when Pitt County Drainage District No. 8 was created.

"The section of canal where the fresh water mussels were found passes through sandy soil so the canal bottom has been dipped out three times since 1948," Bland said.

Mother Will Be Waiting

WALLED LAKE, Mich. (AP) — James Sebring will arrive in Norfolk, Va., Thursday along with other sailors aboard the USS Forrestal. Sebring doesn't know it yet, but waiting for him will be a woman he hasn't seen in 32 years — his mother.

Alberta Sebring of Cortland, N.Y., says her son left her Syracuse, N.Y. home with her ex-husband in 1942 when the boy was a year old.

She said she hasn't seen her son since then, although she attempted unsuccessfully to find him.

Thursday is also Sebring's wedding anniversary. His wife, Terry, says she wanted to give her husband, a petty officer, the best present possible and began trying to find his mother.

A series of phone calls finally traced Mrs. Sebring, 63, to Cortland.

When her mother-in-law came to the phone at a Cortland hotel, "She began to cry," Terry said. "She said she had been praying for this (reunion) before she died."

"I asked her if she'd come back with us if we came to get her," Terry said. "We left 10 minutes after we hung up."

Terry and Sebring's mother, who discovered she has six grandchildren and three more from Terry's previous marriage — left Wall Lake where Sebring lives on Monday en route to Norfolk.

'Rift' Reports Said Contrived

Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins has charged that reports of conflict between Pitt Memorial Hospital and the East Carolina University medical school have been "contrived to create confusion."

Jenkins blamed "a few newspapers" who oppose a new medical school at ECU for contriving such reports and said they are false. He stressed that there is "absolutely no misunderstanding or disagreement" between the local hospital, the local medical community and ECU's medical school planners.

Members of the Pitt County medical profession were before the audience for Jenkins' speech to a local Rotary Club occasion Monday night.

Much of Jenkins' address was devoted to outlining and backgrounding the concerted planning effort by ECU to establish a degree-granting, four year school of medicine at ECU. He placed emphasis upon the high degree of cooperation from the local community, the Eastern North Carolina region and support being given from all parts of North Carolina.

In the immediate future, he said, are plans to establish residency programs in family practice with emphasis on primary care medicine. He also said residencies will be established in medicine, pediatrics, gynecology and obstetrics in cooperation with the local medical community and the Area Health Education Center. (AHEC).

The ECU chancellor predicted

"wide open" primaries by both Democrats and Republicans in next year's state gubernatorial campaign. He said he foresees "many, many candidates."

"That is good," Jenkins said. "It is what democracy is all about." He said he feels the abundance of potential candidates is "encouraging."

"Then when the smoke settles after election day, we may be able to have a good focus on what type of leadership and leadership qualities our people want."

"And then we must rally around the winners."

Eritreans Try Seize Airport

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopian troops beat back a determined attempt by Eritrean insurgents to seize Asmara's airport and cut the besieged northern provincial capital's only remaining supply route, diplomatic sources reported.

The sources said the Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF) attacked the airport Monday night after government planes bombed rebel positions north of Asmara. Hard fighting was reported, with bazookas, rockets and machine guns being used.

Reliable reports said the guerrillas earlier Monday sent word to the army that it could repair a damaged generator outside the city, then ambushed the repair team and its escort and killed most of them.

No casualty figures were available from the latest fighting. Diplomatic sources estimate a total of 4,000 persons dead, wounded or missing since the 13-year guerrilla campaign for Eritrean independence expanded into full-scale war 11 days ago.

The military regime has vowed it will never agree to the secession of Eritrea, a former Italian colony annexed 13 years ago.

President Jaafar el Numairi of neighboring Sudan said in a televised speech he had sent Foreign Minister Gamal Mohammed Ahmed to Ethiopia with proposals to both sides for an immediate cease-fire, a general amnesty for the rebels and a peace conference without conditions.

Numairi said he had received no response from the Ethiopian government, but he said some ELF leaders had arrived in Khartoum, the Sudanese capital, and others were on their way.

Will Do Best To Provoke A War

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Marxist Palestinian leader George Habash says his splinter guerrilla group will do everything it can to provoke a new Middle East war, according to a Beirut newspaper report published today.

"We want and look forward anxiously to a new war," the head of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine said in an interview with the L'Orient-Le Jour newspaper.

"Israel may win a quick war, but the result of a long war will definitely be in our favor," Habash said. "A new war is no danger to the Palestinian people. They can't suffer any worse than they have since the 1948 creation of Israel on their homeland. But it will be a grave threat to Israel's existence and U.S. imperialist interests."

Habash and the Popular Front broke last summer with Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization, which is recognized by all the Arab governments as the representative of the Palestinian people.

The PLO military chief, Zuhair Mohsen, charged today that the sole purpose of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's new tour of the Middle East was "to gain time for Israel and the United States." He said he did not expect "anything of substance" to result.

The pro-guerrilla newspaper Al Liwa reported Moscow has renewed pressure on the Palestinian guerrillas to form a government-in-exile to claim a seat when Arab-Israeli negotiations move to Geneva. It said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko urged this in a letter to Arafat after their recent meeting in Damascus. Guerrilla spokesmen would not comment on the report.

Pope Calls For Sharing

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI called on all Christians today to observe Lent by sharing their substance rather than their surplus with the poor and the hungry.

"None of His followers can ignore the fact that Jesus identified himself with the poor," said the Pope's 400-word Lenten message.

"Until the end of time the poor are 'with' Jesus. They are His partners, His companions, His brothers and His sisters. The Christian precisely because he is a Christian must take his place beside the destitute."

The pontiff warned Christians against "the satisfaction of a comfortable existence and against the temptations of living in abundance."

He said the Roman Catholic Church's 1975 Holy Year, "which is dedicated to reconciliation, challenges each individual by what reconciliation implies: giving and sharing within the human family."

The Pope has announced he will observe Ash Wednesday, the start of Lent, by walking in a penitential procession and celebrating mass in St. Peter's Basilica.

Colson To Testify On Domestic CIA Spying

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson will answer questions from the Rockefeller commission staff following his recent charges that the CIA was involved in domestic espionage, his lawyer says.

"We'll be over there answering whatever questions they have to throw at him," Colson's attorney Kenneth L. Adams said in confirming the interview scheduled for today.

Colson, who was released from prison less than two weeks ago after serving seven months of a one-to-three year term for obstruction of justice, has claimed the CIA had prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary and the break-in into the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

The full commission held its fifth weekly meeting Monday and heard from former counterintelligence chief James J. Angleton.

According to a well-placed source, Angleton testified under oath that he had been kept in the dark about the workings of a secret unit within his counterintelligence division which kept files on 10,000 American citizens. The unit was headed by Richard Ober, who reported directly to then-CIA Director Richard M. Helms, Angleton testified.

When the unit was disbanded in March 1974, Ober was transferred to the National Security Council staff without Angleton's knowledge, Angleton reportedly testified. However, the source said Angleton also told the commission headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller that he was not disturbed by anything he has since learned about the activities of the Ober unit, including the infiltration of agents into American dissident groups.

Angleton was forced to resign from the agency in December after 31 years of intelligence work following published allegations of domestic CIA spying.

The commission also took testimony from former CIA Director William F. Raborn Jr., who headed the agency for 14 months in 1965 and 1966. The commission now has heard from all five living former intelligence chiefs, stretching back to John A. McCone, who took over in 1962.

Asked by reporters if any illegal operations occurred during his tenure at the CIA, Raborn replied, "not to my knowledge."

GFWC Official Plates To Be Displayed By Freedoms Foundation

VALLEY FORGE, Pa.—Mrs. Carroll E. Miller, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has announced that a collection of the GFWC Official United States of American Bicentennial Plates has been accepted for permanent display at the Freedoms Foundation here.

The presentation took place recently at Valley Forge. Mrs. Miller presented Reed Harris, president of Freedoms Foundation, the collection of hand-made glass plates designed to commemorate the nation's 200th birthday. Three plates were accepted for permanent display and the fourth and final plate will be presented in 1976.

A feature of the presentation was the fact that the 1975 Bicentennial Commemorative Plate depicts Washington praying at Valley Forge. The third place was officially issued Jan. 1, of this year.

Three years ago, in an effort to celebrate the nation's bicentennial and to rekindle the "Spirit of '76", the GFWC commissioned an American artist to sculpture in glass a series four collector's plates which will in their entirety depict a complete "Portrait of Liberty."

Each plate in the four-part series feature a scene depicting one of the four major movements of the American Revolution and one is released each year on Jan. 1, for the four consecutive years preceding the actual Bicentennial Celebration:

ceremony will take place at Independence Hall at which time all the moulds for the plates will be publicly destroyed. "The 1975 Plate is now available through local Women's Club throughout the United States. Local Women's Clubs affiliated the are GFWC are the "exclusive agents" to sell the plates.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Elvis Presley has just endeared himself to me by disappearing on his 40th birthday and refusing to come out until he gets it all together.

I was in seclusion for a year and a half before I felt I could adjust to the condition.

No one, unless they've been there, can appreciate the physical and emotional traumas of reaching 40. Your body reacts like a steam iron on the last day of warranty. It dies on you.

As the second hand swept around on that grim day in February, signifying my birth, my eyes went. I couldn't read the sale tags on dresses or menus unless they fell on the floor. And one day I cooked an 11 pound turkey for six hours when I should have cooked a six dollar turkey for 11 hours.

Two hours later the teeth went. Fillings that had served me for years fell out while I was eating pudding. I became a "standing" at the dentist.

The body? I could have sued it for non-support and won. Muscles that had been with me for life either fell or shifted.

I became a lumpy bundle of defensiveness. One afternoon, I was under the dryer in the beauty shop leafing through one of those magazines where the models look at you like they've just taken a harsh laxative, when I saw a headline, "DON'TS FOR AFTER 40." It said, "Don't wear pink eyeshadow. Don't wear red lipstick or nail polish. Don't wear bright, diagonal patterns. Don't wear open-toed shoes." The list must have been a page long.

Out loud I snarled, "Do you mind if I chew gum?"

Then I remembered I had just been to the dentist and couldn't chew on that side.

A woman sitting next to me, looked over at the article and smiled, "Remember, dear, you are only as old as you feel."

I almost smacked her across the mouth with my Medicare application.

Everyone comes to grips with age 40 in his or her own private way. Some people develop a holding pattern at age 37 until they handle it. Some are resentful and make obscene phone calls to the Osmond Brothers. Others accept it for what it is, a punishment from God for not tithing to the church.

I rather like the Elvis Presley approach to 40. Just go to your room, refuse to answer the door, wallow in self-pity, and pray for a miracle drug to cure it.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

When a friend of ours passed along this recipe for a good winter vegetable soup, she told me she had served it to a small neighbor of hers — a 6-year-old boy. After he had downed a bowlful, he looked at her and said, "Can my Mommy buy soup like this?"

No, Mommy can't buy soup just like this one at the supermarket, but they can make it easily and economically at home. The chicken bouillon cubes for the broth in which the vegetables are cooked cost only about eight cents. But you can, of course, make your own clear fat-free broth from wing tips and giblets, saved from chickens and stored in the freezer, and use it instead of the cubes.

When we made the soup in our test kitchen, we tried out a new counter-top sink board for chopping the vegetables. Our board has a 13 by 12 inch cutting surface, but there's also a smaller one (11 by 8½ inches) that would be useful in the kitchen area of a camper or the galley of a boat. Both sizes of boards are one-inch thick and are made of laminated hard rock maple; the handles pull out to fit any sink up to 20 inches.

The board is particularly practical if you have two sinks, but it may also be used to advantage with just one. Our recipe-tester likes it because she can put a strainer in the sink, behind the board, and shove peels into it. Here in New York City, we use the sink strainer because disposal units are not allowed; but if you live in an area where disposal units are permitted, the trimmings can of course go directly into your unit.

WINTER SOUP
6 cups water
6 chicken bouillon cubes or 2 tablespoons instant

powdered chicken bouillon
2 medium carrots, pared and diced (1 cup)
Large potato, pared and diced (1 cup)
1 cup shredded cabbage
2 medium ribs celery, chopped (1 cup)
Medium onion, chopped (½ cup)
Small white turnip, chopped (½ cup)
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon pepper

Into a 3-quart saucepot turn the water and bouillon cubes; bring to a boil. Add carrot, potato, cabbage, celery, onion, turnip, nutmeg and pepper. Bring to boiling again; boil gently until vegetables are very tender — about 25 minutes.

Place a food mill over a large saucepan or mixing bowl; pour in vegetables and liquid; puree vegetables. There should be 1½ to 2 quarts. Reheat and serve at once, or refrigerate, covered, and heat just before serving, stirring well from bottom as you ladle soup into bowls. If soup is thinner than you like, boil gently before serving until it is the consistency you want.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Tactfully Tell In-Laws To Notify You

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I need your advice on a problem. My in-laws have a habit of coming to visit us without giving us any advance notice. They live seven hours from us by car and come for as long as three to five days.

Last week, they surprised us with a five-day visit. I was in the middle of a garage sale, and had been up every night that week with a sick child. I was exhausted even before they came.

Abby, I love company, but I would like a little notice so I will have a clean house and meals planned in advance. As it was, I had to rush to the grocery store and make do. I was unprepared and terribly embarrassed.

My husband says his folks aren't "company," and I shouldn't feel that I have to put on airs for who, but I still think I should be given a little notice. Who is right?

HATES SURPRISES

DEAR HATES: You are. Write to your in-laws and tell them how much you enjoyed their visit. Then tactfully tell them that next time they decide to come, to please let you know because you want everything to be at its best. Yourself included.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married (in name only) for five years. I was a lonely divorcee (age 47) and John was a well-to-do widower (60) when we were married.

The first night we were married I found out that he had no desire for sex whatsoever. He was impotent. I know it's not his fault, but he should have told me. (He later said he was afraid he'd lose me.)

We had everything a happily married couple could want. A lovely home, friends, trips, and I can't say I wasn't living a good life, although I missed the physical side of marriage some.

Now I have met a wonderful man. He is my age (52) and it was skyrockets and Roman candles the first time we were alone together. We're in love and want to get married, but I hate to hurt John.

Would it be wrong to leave John and grab what little happiness is left in life?

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: If you want to justify leaving your husband, the fact that he didn't tell you about his impotence is sufficient. (That's probably grounds for an annulment.) Trying to keep your love a secret will be like trying to smuggle down past a rooster. You'd better tell your husband before he tells you.

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I can help settle the controversy, "do fish feel pain?" They certainly do!

Sincerely,
LOUIS C. FISH, LAKEWOOD, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 18 years to a fellow who, for the most part, is a marvelous husband, father, lover and provider. His job keeps him away from home quite a bit, so when he's in town, I enjoy having the house nice for him, cooking the meals he likes, and keeping myself up. The kids and I look forward to his coming home in the evening. Now, the problem: If something comes up, like meeting with the boys after work, or something related to his work, he doesn't think it's necessary to call and let me know he'll not be home for dinner. He feels that phoning makes him less of a "man." Needless to say, when he doesn't phone, I become angry. When I ask him why he couldn't at least have phoned to let me know, he says he doesn't want to be henpecked.

This is getting to me, Abby. Am I asking too much? Any suggestions as to how I can handle this? TRYING HARD

DEAR TRYING: If your husband thinks a call to say he will not be home for dinner qualifies him for the henpecked flock, he's got his birds mixed up. He's a silly goose.

Woman Shuns Liberation

BORDEAUX, France WNS—Solange Guitry, 37, has left her husband because he wants her to become a liberated woman. "Robert came back from a business trip to America with crazy ideas about equality of the sexes," she reported. "There could be nothing more boring nor degrading than to drop to the equal of a mere man." Will Mme. Guitry seek a divorce? "Not at all," she said. "No man can possibly take care of himself. As soon as Robert comes to his senses, I'll go back to him."

There's plenty of the boudoir look in late day and evening clothes in the new American collections. It shows in nude chiffons with black lace borders, handrolled hems, pale floral patterns on soft crepe de chine and voile, lace insertions, faggotting and quilted embroidery.

Best Weapon Is: Use Less Oil

The price of oil is still the big underlying factor in world inflation.

While no one can really plan on the price ever coming down again, we might be pleasantly surprised if consuming nations can continue to hold down their needs.

There is much to indicate that the world is swimming in oil over the short term and a situation like this usually leads to lower prices.

It has been reported that several major oil producing nations are cutting production, with Iran's production for January reported to be down more than 10 percent under the 1974 average.

Similar drops were reported in other Middle East nations and in Venezuela.

Saudi Arabia is reportedly still producing oil at 1974 levels and that nation is said to be against any further price increases.

The oil exporting countries have been conciliatory recently with offers to freeze oil prices this year and to guarantee a steady supply of oil to the world, along with other concessions.

Of course if the oil countries continue to cooperate they can reduce oil production to bring supply in line with demand. After all, the oil will still be underground for the future.

Still it is difficult for such diverse nations to continue to fully cooperate with one another over the long haul and if a difference of opinion does develop it is easy to see an eventual break in oil prices which, after all, are set at an artificially high level.

Our best weapon against oil price fixing is to use less oil. If we conserve oil it creates a world surplus and that is always the best way to bring down the cost of any commodity.

Beyond that we must continue our search for other sources of energy so that we won't ever again be at the mercy of nations which sell oil to us.

THIS AFTERNOON

Steps For The Courtroom

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A thorough reshuffling of the criminal justice system in North Carolina is needed to fight alarming increases in crime which is turning the state into an armed camp, State Rep. Carl Stewart Jr., D-Gaston County, believes.

The Gastonia lawyer has outlined a series of steps which he proposes as a beginning in the fight against crime—including merit selection of judges, use of smaller juries and eliminating the requirement for a unanimous verdict, a ban on plea bargaining, deadlines to guarantee a speedy trial, and stripping the governor of the power to grant a stay of execution to a person convicted of a capital crime and sentenced to death.

Stewart said his proposals do not represent positive, final answers: "I made no claim to holding all of the answers... but there has to be a beginning; we can at least place these concerns before the General Assembly for intelligent debate."

Both Stewart and his Gastonia colleague, Rep. Graham Bell, have been working closely with the Concerned Citizens for Justice organization in Gaston County.

New Legislation

Legislation is planned during this session which, if passed, would accomplish many of the steps mentioned by Stewart, and would additionally provide:

The convicted persons must pay the victim—as part of the sentence—for property losses, and cost of medical or hospital expenses, to be paid from wages earned in prison;

A commission to revise sentences, including a requirement that a second offense felony must be given a more severe sentence than the first; and a prohibition against a suspended sentence in a second offense felony.

Stewart, in a speech to the Gaston Ministerial Association recently, elaborated on his position; zeroing in on the courts as "lax, unjust, and inefficient (sharing) the blame for increasing crime," even though many attorneys "continue to defend the system blindly."

Crime threatens to put in jeopardy the foundations of our society—life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness—and, "The time has come for us to respond... to place our first priority on the safety and happiness of our people rather than the preservation of a system of justice which can no longer be said to be the best that man has ever devised," Stewart said.

Several Steps

Here is a summary of Stewart's major proposals:

—A two-thirds vote of a jury should be sufficient to convict in a criminal case, and juries for offenses less than life imprisonment should be smaller than 12 persons, but at least six;

—The State Constitution should be amended to strip the governor of power to stay execution of a convicted rapist or first-degree murderer;

—Court costs should be hiked (from $16 to $30) and all the money used to support the courts rather than going to the schools.

—The period from arrest to trial should never exceed 60 days in a felony; 30 days in a misdemeanor. Continuances should not be granted except on written motion in open court. He said getting cases continued "is the most popular and the most abused method of delay available to the defendant's attorney."

—Concessions in return for a guilty plea should be prohibited, and a guilty plea should not be considered by the court in determining sentence.

—Judges should be appointed on merit, not elected, since "Judges who are responsible to the very criminal in which they sit in judgment can never truly be independent," and the present system works largely on appointments by the governor to vacancies. "The concept of a democratically chosen judiciary in North Carolina is a myth," Stewart said.

Stewart said he also considers the corrections system a "sorry state," and opposed new multi-million dollar dormitories "with all the comforts of a university... A felon who leaves a North Carolina prison should never want to go back—not because he has been subjected to brutality which I abhor—but because his tenure should be accompanied by the sternest discipline, the hardest work, and the finest rehabilitation program that our resources can provide."

Success In Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La.—Had enough of doom and gloom? Had your fill of heavy stuff? Then consider, if you will, the life and times of Ernest Palmisano. The story has a moral to it.

The gentleman is the sole proprietor of Ernest's Supper Club, Inc., located at 516

Commerce Street in downtown Shreveport. Until a few years ago, the waterfront neighborhood was little more than a slum. Its old warehouses offered shelter for rats and bums. No one came to Commerce Street by night.

But a few persons had imagination. Perhaps they knew what San Antonio and Denver and Atlanta had done with comparable neighborhoods. They saw a chance at "atmosphere." Most of the old waterfront buildings were structurally sound; they could be brought back to profitable life.

Shreveport went to work, and while much remains to be done, an amazing start has been achieved. A new convention center will add fresh impetus to the area's development. Even on a dark and rainy night last week, Shreve Square was humming with the convivial sounds of good jazz and good times. And squarely in the middle of this modern renaissance one could find the local institution known as "Mr. Ernest."

At 64, he has the trim figure of a tackling dummy and, except when he smiles, the sad face of a St. Bernard. How did he get so big? "Tasting." Most of his working day is spent in his spotless kitchens, eternally tasting... the sauces that sustain his reputation.

He started earning that reputation as a boy of 11 in his native New Orleans. There his father ran an establishment in the finest tradition of free enterprise: a root beer parlor in front, a speakeasy in back. Young Ernest began at the "dish trough." After a while he graduated to busboy, then to waiter, then to bartender, then to assistant cook.

Today he operates a restaurant that draws customers from hundreds of miles away. It is a standing regional joke that Ernest's in Shreveport is the best restaurant in Dallas. Every weekend brings plane-loads of hungry fans from New Orleans, Memphis and Jackson. The restaurant seats 200; it can serve 500 a

The INSIDE REPORT

Rockefeller vs. Gromyko

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BAGHDAD—The astonishing failure of Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko to stop here on his suddenly scheduled swing through the Middle East this week marks a new low point in Iraq's unfulfilled dreams for the Moscow connection.

Vice President Saddam Hussein, now more entrenched than ever as the unchallenged strongman of this oil-rich state, gave us the short answer when we asked in an exclusive interview why Gromyko was not going to stop off here after showing the Soviet flag in Damascus and Cairo.

"Iraq has not invited Mr. Gromyko to visit Baghdad," the 37-year-old leader replied. "It is not an old Iraqi tradition to ask everybody to come and visit."

Yet, by a coincidence of timing stupefying in its contrast to Gromyko's non-invitation, Saddam Hussein rolled out the red carpet only a few days earlier to none other than David Rockefeller, brother of the American Vice President and chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank. Indeed the leader of Iraq's mystically-based and non-Communist Ba'ath Socialist regime spent no less than two hours and 15 minutes with the symbolic if not actual leader of American capitalism (despite official propaganda here that describes the U.S. as "a land where the world's most voracious and most savage capitalist insitutions rule").

In our interview, the handsome and toughly elegant Saddam Hussein made no effort to downplay difficulties other Arab states have had in guiding their relations with Moscow down the right path. It was "self-evident," he said, that such Arab states as Egypt have had grave problems with the Soviet Union. Nevertheless, despite his own abrupt move into the third world and his bid to hold the 1980 world non-aligned conference here in Baghdad, he told us his relations with Moscow are being maintained in a "true" form. Further, he said, there is "no conflict" in Moscow over Iraq's espousal of the "doctrine of non-alignment."

Perhaps, but diplomatic experts here have large doubts.

Baghdad-Moscow problems started when the Soviets bought a large tonnage of Iraqi oil and then sold it at a handsome profit to third countries, including West Germany. Iraq was further aroused when the Russians turned the other way as Iran, Iraq's No. 1 enemy, occupied two strategic islets in the Persian Gulf, the vital outlet for most Middle East oil. But those two events have been dwarfed in comparison to the third Iraqi grievance: repeated failures of Moscow to supply the types and varieties of small weapons, including ammunition, needed in Iraq's tough little war with the Kurdish minority in northeast Iraq along the Iranian border.

The nasty problem of Kurdish separatism has now come close to traumatizing Iraqi foreign policy. It dominates everything else. Moscow has long eyed the Kurdish minority in northern Iraq as a potential base for building a Moscow-run Communist apparatus to be used eventually as a way to encourage similar separatist tendencies in Iran's own, far larger Kurdish minority, just across the border from Iraqi Kurdistan.

But when the Iraqi Kurds rejected a plan for semi-autonomy offered by Baghdad last year, and the fighting started, the first targets of the Iraqi army were local Kurdish leaders with Communist connections.

Saddam Hussein told us that the U. S. was responsible for providing arms to the Shah of Iran which are then turned against the Iraqis along the border area to help the Iraqi Kurds. It is unthinkable, he said, that the Shah would employ his U.S.-provided arms against the Iraqis without Washington's consent. Such non-militant Arab states as Egypt, (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Holdup Epidemic

(Greensboro Daily News)

On the same day that North Carolina experienced record-breaking high temperatures for January 31, a bandit armed with a gun held up a branch bank in Durham and set another record. His raid on the bank, which ended with his arrest, was the 18th bank robbery for January, 1975. That was the highest number ever recorded in the state in any month.

News accounts of the Durham holdup said Jim Whittington, supervisor of the FBI bank robbery investigators in North Carolina, is convinced that the increase in bank robberies is directly related to the slumping economy. He said a new type of bank robber has appeared on the scene—the middle class amateur who has no previous criminal record, but then resorts to bank robbery because he's broke.

"There is no question that the economic situation is a contributing factor," Mr. Whittington was quoted as saying. No doubt that's part of it. Unemployment in North Carolina is higher than it has been in years.

Another contributing cause is the proliferation in recent years of the suburban branch bank. It is easier to rob a bank on the outskirts of a city, or in a shopping center, than to do the same in the heart of a downtown business section. There are fewer policemen around and less traffic to hinder the getaway.

Finally there is the ease with which a would-be robber can get a gun in North Carolina, or in most other states. There are tens of millions of guns in private hands in the United States. Gun control laws in this country, where they exist, are generally weak.

They are weak because the American gun lobby is strong. It has money. And it is ready to go to considerable trouble to try to defeat legislators who support stricter gun control laws.

Gun enthusiasts interpret the U.S. Constitution as granting the people an unbridled right to own firearms. They like to quote this sentence from the Bill of Rights: "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

That is what the Constitution says, all right. But perhaps it should be interpreted in the light of changing times. This is no longer a small defenseless nation or a frontier society. The spectacle of Americans armed to the teeth going around sticking up banks is not our idea of a well-regulated militia in action.

Cutting Gasoline Consumption

By BOB COOPER

Associated Press Writer LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A 10 per cent cutback in the amount of driving by American motorists could save half of the one million barrels of oil per day President Ford wants to stop importing, statistics show. A 20 per cent cutback could save it all.

A 10 per cent cutback would mean driving 18.3 miles less a week to save about 1.4 gallons of gasoline; a 20 per cent cutback means 36.6 miles less to save 2.8 gallons.

The figures come from interviews with officials at Ashland Oil Inc. and the American Automobile Club. You'll have to follow the statistics closely, remembering that gasoline consumption varies widely from person to person and these are all averages.

Here's how it works: —A barrel of oil contains 42 gallons and, on the average, produces 21 gallons of gasoline. It can produce up to 29.4 gallons, but only by sacrificing the yield of other products such as heating and industrial oils.

—There are more than 100 million passenger cars registered in the United States, averaging 13.1 miles to the gallon in the most recent statistics available.

—Each car covers 9,500 to 10,000 miles a year and, last year, American automobiles, including taxicabs, and motorcycles burned 74.7 billion gallons of gasoline. Now, 9,500 miles a year works out to about 183 miles a week. Ten per cent of 183 is 18.3 and if you divide that number of miles by the average mileage per gallon you get 1.4.

—If each of the 100 million cars saved 1.4 gallons of gas each week, the saving would be 140 million gallons of gasoline a week — or a little less than the equivalent of half a million barrels of oil a day.

—If each car saved 2.8 gallons, the saving would be 280 million a week or just about the equivalent of one million barrels of oil a day. One million barrels, aside from being Ford's cutback goal, is just about the amount this country imports from all

Arab oil producing countries, the ones who gave us last winter's oil embargo.

How would you go about cutting back?

First, each individual would need to determine the mileage his car gets. To do this, fill the tank, drive around for an hour or so and fill the tank again.

Then divide the number of gallons it takes on the second filling into the number of miles you've driven. That gives you how many miles to the gallon your car gets.

Keep a record of your normal driving trips. Then, devise a way to subtract from your normal weekly total the number of miles that will lessen your gasoline consumption by 1.4 gallons.

Truck Sales Slump

By OWEN ULLMANN

Associated Press Writer DETROIT (AP) — Truck sales, long considered a strong indicator of the nation's economic health, have plunged into what industry analysts fear may be a prolonged slump.

The truck market remained strong throughout most of 1974, while car sales plummeted. Now trucks are into their own slump and industry analysts say the market will worsen by spring.

Truck sales last month were off 19 per cent from January 1974 and trailed the record pace set in January 1973 by 35 per cent. Sales in February and March are expected to decline further.

"It's like a double whammy," said one company spokesman. "First car sales fall, and now trucks."

"Retail business is off so stores aren't carrying the inventories they used to," said a spokesman at General Motors Truck and Coach Division. "That means tonnage is down and trucks are hauling less. As a result the big fleets aren't ordering."

Truck sales last year were 2.7 million, a 14.5 per cent decline from the record 3.16 million sold in 1973 but still the second best year for trucks in industry history.

Optimistic forecasts put truck sales this year at 2.5 million.

During the first nine months of 1974, truck deliveries were running at a near-record pace — establishing new sales marks in June and August. But in the fourth quarter sales fell 30 per cent below year-earlier levels. Some truck plants were closed.

Industry analysts say truck sales traditionally have held up longer than car sales when the nation's economy falters because trucks aren't a discretionary purchase like autos.

"Truck buyers are businessmen. Their buying habits are more consistent because they may budget for them a year in advance," said one analyst.

But industry spokesmen also concede those rules don't apply as much as they used to. In recent years there has been a boom in light truck sales, which now account for 85 per cent of the total market.

While medium and heavy duty trucks are bought for commercial purposes, many small trucks now are purchased for personal use.

Changes In Involuntary Commitment Law Studied

Disagree Over Milk Controls

RALEIGH (AP)—The chairman of the State Milk Commission and the chairman of a legislative study group disagree over the effect of proposed regulation of minimum and maximum retail milk prices.

State Milk Commission Chairman Hamilton Horton said Monday any attempt to further regulate the state's milk industry might increase retail milk prices. The state now sets only the price paid to farmers for their milk.

Sen. Bob Barker, D-Wake, the chairman of the legislature's Dairy Industry Study Commission, said that the new regulations recommended by his study group might reduce prices. Barker said the group's proposal for maximum and minimum retail price setting could reduce prices by 10 per cent in some areas.

Barker conceded, however, that there might be a "slight increase" of milk prices in the Piedmont.

Horton blames the North Carolina law prohibiting below cost milk sales for high retail milk prices in the state. Barker agrees that the prohibition of loss-leader sales should be repealed, but he wants to replace it with minimum and maximum retail prices to protect against price wars.

Barker blamed high prices on volume rebates that dairy processors are forced to pay to large retail stores. He said those rebates amount to up to 25 per cent of the purchase price of the milk. Barker's study commission would limit volume rebates to 5 per cent.

Horton said, however, that he is not sure that limiting rebates will make any real difference.

Barker suggested that the minimum retail price of milk should be around $1.45 per gallon and the maximum $1.65 per gallon. That is approximately the range of prices that already exists.

Russian Cosmonauts Training In Houston

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — After touring U.S. space facilities in Florida and sightseeing at Disney World, Russian cosmonauts begin a two-week training period today at the Johnson Space Center.

Before leaving Cape Canaveral, Fla., the cosmonauts joined with American astronauts in saying they are ready for July's joint space mission. The Russians also said they see no safety hazards despite earlier problems with the Soviet Soyuz craft.

Their schedule today calls for classroom orientation on experiments to be performed in the joint mission and a briefing on contingencies for the mission.

"All the problems of Soyuz 11 have easily been taken care of. The success of six flights since then, including Soyuz 17 which landed yesterday, answers the questions you have asked," cosmonaut Valery Kubasov told a news conference in Florida on Monday.

American astronauts escorted the cosmonauts on a tour of the Kennedy Space Center which ended a three-day visit to Cape Canaveral. The cosmonauts got their first look at the Apollo spacecraft which will be boosted into orbit to chase down the Soyuz.

The Russians said they were impressed with the launch facilities but declined to compare them with facilities at the Soviet launching base at Baikonur.

RALEIGH (AP) — The senator whose committee reworked North Carolina's involuntary commitment law in 1973 says there will be bills introduced in the 1975 session to make some changes in the law.

Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, said it was too early to predict the extent of the changes that would be sought in the status governing commitment of mental patients against their will. There has been some sentiment among legislators to toughen the commitment to make it more difficult for persons to be released.

Legislation passed on the final day of the 1972 session established a procedure of judicial review under which patients committed involuntarily were entitled to periodic hearings before a district court judge. The bill, sponsored by former Wake County Rep. Howard Twigg, was passed just before the state Court of Appeals ruled North Carolina's existing commitment law unconstitutional.

The old law allowed a magistrate to order a person committed without benefit of a hearing or any medical testimony in the case.

The new commitment statute set out a standard for involuntary commitments that requires that a person be found "imminently dangerous to himself or others" in order to be committed.

The state court decision followed rulings in federal courts in several states that a mental patient could not be committed against his will without a hearing.

more convenient."

The former legislator conceded that under the policy some persons are released from hospitals who should not be, but he said the rights of all patients cannot be denied because of such instances.

Flaherty said there will always be persons released from hospitals who should not be. "But you can't lock up innocent people," he said.

Mental Health Commissioner Mike Zarzar said he hopes the legislature will refrain from changing the commitment law during the current session. "We feel that with laws of this nature, it is better not to change them every year," he said. Zarzar said a year or two from now, after the law had been more thoroughly tested, he might be prepared to propose some changes.

Twigg said initial opposition to the judicial hearing process came from judges and lawyers who were uncomfortable with cases involving mental health. "But I think they have accepted it now as the right thing to have done," he said.

Lawyers are appointed by the court to defend patients in commitment hearings and some serve on a rotating basis. The state also has a permanent counsel assigned to each of the four mental hospitals to represent patients at the hearings.

Migrant Education Workshop Feb. 19

Educators will be learning more about teaching mathematics to migrant children in N.C. schools at one of two workshops being sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction's Migrant Education Section. The workshops will be held in Goldsboro on Feb. 18, at the Quality Inn Motel and in Williamston on Feb. 19, at the Town and Country Restaurant. Migrant educators are currently teaching and tutoring over 4000 children of migratory agricultural workers in 28 N.C. school units. At the workshops, they will brush up on teaching techniques especially effective in teaching migrant children who have trouble keeping up with their studies. Cleo Meek and John Ogle from the Division of Mathematics will be conducting the sessions.

Iran Is Buying Six Destroyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The oil-rich Shah of Iran, the biggest buyer of U.S. arms, will get six new American destroyers with more modern anti-aircraft equipment than similar vessels supplied to the U.S. Navy, according to Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis.

Aspin said the Navy, in its quarterly report to Congress, deleted the number of ships but confirmed that the Iranian vessels will have "additional anti-aircraft warfare capability" above that of the U.S. vessels.

The agreement to sell Iran six of the ships was concluded last Aug. 27. Iran also has ordered 80 of the U.S. Navy's new F14 fighter planes and reportedly is interested in buying some supersized C5 military transport planes.

Migrant education projects are currently being conducted in Goldsboro, Maxton, Red Springs, St. Pauls, and Elizabeth City-Pasquotank Schools.

County school systems conducting projects for migrant children are Bertie, Bladen, Camden, Columbus, Edgecombe, Greene, Halifax, Harnett, Haywood, Henderson, Hertford, Johnston, Lenoir, Nash, Northampton, Martin, Pitt, Robeson, Sampson, Scotland, Tyrell, Washington, and Wilson.

According to Robert Youngblood, director of the state's migrant education program, these workshops are part of the total effort to offer a continuous education to migrant children who have fallen behind in their studies largely because of their mobility and poverty.

night, most Saturdays he turns away twice that number.

Three ingredients have produced this success. These are work, hard work, and even harder work. About 10 o'clock every night, an insulated truck starts a six-hour run down to New Orleans. There Ernest's agent haggles over every fresh fish; he will buy nothing that has ever been frozen. He buys fresh crabs and shrimp, fresh vegetables, specially baked bread. By early afternoon, the truck is back on Commerce Street. In white apron and billowing chef's cap, Ernest descends upon the kitchen like a great cumulus cloud. His aim is perfection.

He comes remarkably close to achieving it. A typical dinner begins with a platter of crab claws swimming in an oil and vinegar sauce. If guests fail to sop up the leftover sauce with hot bread, Ernest instructs them in the art. This is followed by a shrimp cocktail with a special tartar sauce of its own. Then a flaming crab soup, rich and spicy. Then a salad of Louisville lettuce (flown in twice a week). Finally an entree of red fish topped by lump crab. A white wine. Irish coffee. Dessert for those not yet stupefied. In 30 years as a roving reporter, I have never hit anything better.

Is our country raising a fresh generation of Ernests? One wonders. If a restaurateur these days attempted to employ an 11-year-old at the dish trough, the feds would land all over him like a mushroom sauce. The demand for volume is so great that quality widely gets second place. A nation in a hurry will settle for the quick thaw and the fast grill. If you want the moral, this is it: Quality pays. And if you want to see for yourself, go to Ernest's in Shreveport—but call two weeks in advance.

Lebanon and Saudi Arabia are also quietly trying to help Iraq in its diplomacy to cool down the Shah, which is surprising diplomatic help for the most hard-line Arab state in the entire Middle East.

But with the super powers it is to the U.S., not Moscow, that Baghdad now looks for real help in ending the costly and politically dangerous war against the Kurds. Perhaps that explains Saddam Hussein's non-invitation to Gromyko and the red carpet for that "voracious and savage" capitalist David Rockefeller.

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking and some uneasiness over interest rate prospects pushed the stock market unevenly lower in quiet trading today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.82 at 705.57. Losers held a more emphatic 3-1 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Streeters were keeping a close eye on the short term money markets, where rates turned upward Monday after Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said the downturn of recent months in interest rates might not last in the face of heavy borrowing demand by the government and others.

Some money rates showed further upward tendencies early today, while others were mixed.

Designation Dates For Tobacco Sale Approved Monday

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—March 3 through April 4 has been set as the period for flue-cured tobacco growers to make the initial designation of warehouses at which they plan to sell their 1975 leaf.

The dates were approved Monday by the 33-member Flue-Cured Tobacco Advisory Committee.

The committee recommended that growers be permitted to redesignate warehouse choices the fourth Friday and the day preceding that in each month after markets open in any area.

The committee approved the use of one card this season for warehouse designation and the grower's poundage and quota. The warehouse code will appear on the card. Last year two cards were used, one for poundage and quota and the other for warehouse designation.

In other action, the committee approved 12 sets of buyers for the Georgia-Florida marketing area and 54 sets for markets in the Carolinas and Virginia.

The group also approved maximum producer sales of 21,250,000 pounds per day with an increase from 420,000 to 450,000 pounds per day in the maximum amount to be handled by any one sale. The limitation will be 2,500 sheets of tobacco.

The opening dates for markets will be set later in the year.

The committee plans to meet again in Raleigh March 4.

The 1975 tobacco crop will carry a support price of 93.3 cents per pound.

Growers sold some 1.241 billion pounds of tobacco in the five-state flue-cured producing area last year at an average price of $105.40 per hundred pounds.

were acquired in 1974 and 57 families were relocated, 20 of whom are now new homeowners.

CBD relocations involved 25 families and ten businesses and 23 structures were demolished.

Major objectives for 1975 were identified in the report as: closing out of Shore Drive and Newtown projects; completion of alleyway program; commencement of construction on the Evans Street Mall; completion of Reade Circle and improvements on Greene Street; and obtaining of approval from the Department of Housing and Urban Development for an amendment to the Central Business District project to include the Pitt-Greene connector.

Real estate officer Kirby Boyd reported that severances of four parcels were acquired in CBD during January. Two of the severances were taken from property at the corner of Third and Greene Streets while two others are located on Evans Street just south of Belk Tyler's parking lot.

Boyd said that no demolition work occurred in the CBD area during the month.

In Southside, according to Boyd, one parcel containing 11 structures was acquired on McClellan Street since the last meeting and two structures, situated on separate parcels, were demolished in the project area.

According to Faye Brewington, project manager of Southside, one tenant was relocated from the R-134 project area since the January meeting.

Deputy director T. I. Wagner said that one relocation was handled in CBD during January as the Pitt County United Fund moved out of the North Carolina National Bank building at Five Points. The United Fund, it was noted, is now located in the Utilities Building at the corner of Fifth and Washington Streets.

Wagner told commissioners that the northwest alleyway, located between Third and Fourth Streets on East Carolina University students—in a referendum last week—voted against increasing student fees at the school next year to fund installation of new lights at Ficklen Stadium and provide for an expanded intramural athletic program.

Bob Lucas, president of the Student Government Association reported this morning that 6,400 students voted—66 per cent of the full-time student body—in the non-binding poll. He noted that 84.1 per cent voted against the $2 per quarter increase in fees for the $475,000 lighting project, while 71.5 per cent voted against the proposed $3 per quarter increase in fees for intramurals.

"Because of legal commitments, and because construction on the lights has already started," Lucas said, "we must go along with paying the $2 per quarter for the lights. It has to be done. But he outlined steps he intends to take, in light of the student vote.

"We are going to write a letter to Dr. Jenkins—a resolution—asking that from now on that students should be notified prior to any fee increase. We are not saying all increases should be ruled by the students, but student input should carry reasonable weight... a student referendum or a vote by the Student Legislature."

Lucas noted that there is another way to finance construction of the new lights. "I checked with Pres. Friday's (UNC President William Friday) staff in Chapel Hill," he explained, saying the "existing fees are negotiable. They can be

CP&L Reduces 1975 Estimates

RALEIGH (AP)—Officials of Carolina Power & Light Co. say they have reduced their estimate of the increase in electric power sales in 1975 by more than one third.

They now expect to sell only about 7 per cent more than in 1974. The company had been predicting a sales increase of 11 per cent in 1975.

However, Edward G. Lilly, CP&L's vice president for finance, acknowledged in an interview the figure was no longer realistic because of the recession.

The west side of Evans, is nearly finished with the exception of planting. Half of the first concrete course has been laid in the southwest alleyway on the west side of Evans between Fourth and Fifth and the second course should be finished in the next several days, he reported.

The Utilities Commission has designated a site to relocate an overhead transformer in the block on the east side of Evans between Fourth and Fifth and alleyway work on that section should begin there soon.

Wagner noted that the southeast section should be completed by the end of February.

One Of Chicago Quints Is Dead

CHICAGO (AP) — Ryan Theodore, one of the Shaf quintuplets born Sunday, has died of a lung condition.

The child, the third of five babies born to Cheryl and Vance Shaf of suburban Morton Grove, suffered from a lung condition known as hyaline membrane disease and had difficulty breathing, a spokesman at Resurrection Hospital said Monday night in announcing the death.

The other babies, Derek, Adam, Vanessa and Tiffany, were reported in good condition.

lowered. "We now pay $9 per quarter to the athletic department for sports. We'll be asking Dr. Jenkins to reduce the athletic fee by $2 per quarter—the new budget for athletics comes up in April... to offset the $2 increase for the new lights.

"In a real sense, this action," Lucas said, "will be up to the Chancellor. He has the authority to make the decision... not the Board of Trustees."

As for the intermural question, Lucas said the increase in fees for that is also "an administration decision... up to Dr. Jenkins. He can consult the Board of Trustees, but the avenue of action is for Dr. Jenkins to recommend to Pres. Friday and for Pres. Friday to recommend to the Board of Governors.

"What we're going to be doing," Lucas said, in light of the outcome of the referendum, "is asking Dr. Jenkins to lower his request to Pres. Friday from $3 to $1 per quarter... $3 total per year rather than $9... for intramurals."

"We are currently paying $2 per quarter for intramurals. We feel this will maintain a good intramural program and cover the essentials, and we feel this is all that needs to be covered in a time of inflation and recession."

Lucas said "horseback riding, sailing, water skiing are not needed," indicating that part of the proposed increase would be used to fund such sports.

Lucas said of the SGA proposals, "This plan calls for fair action and I hope we get fair consideration. This is not radical action, but responsible action."

The SGA head noted, too, that another question on the referendum ballot asked ECU students which they preferred—a quarter system or semester schedule.

According to Lucas, 44 per cent indicated they would prefer the semester, system while 56 per cent indicated a preference for the quarter system.

ECU and Western Carolina University are the only two schools in the 16-campus UNC system that are on the quarter system. The others use the semester system.

Furman Nips Bucs; Fouls Kill Hopes

Farmville Girls Gain Semifinals

SPRING HOPE—Farmville Central's regular season champions moved into the semifinals of the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament last night with a 35-24 victory over Charles B. Aycock.

In the junior varsity tournament, running with the girls' event, North Lenoir downed Farmville, 54-51, while Southern Nash beat Aycock, 50-37.

In tonight's games, North Lenoir will meet North Pitt in a 5:30 p.m. girls' game, while Southern Wayne takes on Southern Nash at 8:30 p.m. In junior varsity action, Southern Wayne will meet Conley at 7 p.m.

Farmville Central eased out into a 5-4 lead in the opening period of the game, then blitzed Aycock, 16-3 in the second quarter. That ran the Lady Jaguar lead out to 21-7 at half-time.

After that, Farmville coasted in, using its reserves most of the time. They outthrew Aycock, 6-5, in the third period, running the score to 27-12. Aycock outthrew them, 12-8, in the final period.

Julia Moye led the Farmville scoring with 14 points.

"We played a pretty good game," Coach Hilda Worthington said afterwards. "Skeeter (Kathy Suggs) was determined and hustled and called a real good game for us (at the point). We missed a lot of shots, and we should have had twice as many."

Farmville will meet the winner of the North Lenoir-North Pitt game on Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

Lady Bears Are Ousted

WASHINGTON—Aurora's second-seeded girls eliminated the Bear Grass girls from the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Tournament last night, 45-31.

The loss ended the season for the Lady Bears, who closed with a 6-17 mark.

In the other games last night, Belhaven's boys downed Matamoras, 77-58, while the Chocowinity girls took a 39-24 win over the Lady Lakers.

Tonight's games send Bath against Pantego in the opening game, while Belhaven's girls meet Jamesville in the second. Chocowinity's boys meet Bear Grass in the final game.

Aurora eased out into 10-5 lead in the first period of the game last night. Bear Grass put on a rally, 11-6, in the second quarter, however, knotting it at 16-16 at the half.

But Aurora poured in 20 points in the third quarter, while holding the Bears to only five, and that proved the difference. It gave Aurora a 36-21 lead going into the final period. Bear Grass outthrew them, 10-9 in the last stanza.

Penny Bonner led Aurora with 18 points, while Johnnie Smith had 11 and Patricia Williams had 10. Janet Holliday led Bear Grass with 17 points.

Baby Pirates Romp Past Coastal Carolina

East Carolina University's junior varsity got back on the winning track last night, with a 104-66 victory over Coastal Carolina Community College of Jacksonville.

The Baby Bucs never were in danger in the game as they completely dominated play. They shot 46.9 per cent in the game, hitting 46 of 98 shots. But it was at the other end where they were more effective.

Penny Bonner led Aurora with 18 points, while Johnnie Smith had 11 and Patricia Williams had 10. Janet Holliday led Bear Grass with 17 points.

Stokes Girls Win

WINTERVILLE—Stokes-Pactolus Junior High School split a pair of games with A. G. Cox yesterday.

Stokes captured the girls' game, 44-16. Cynthia Barnes and Hattie Hardy led Stokes with 15 points each. Stokes is now 9-0, while Cox is 3-7.

In the boys' game, Cox came away with a 46-44 victory. Kenny Phillips led Cox with 19 points, while Terry Knight had 16 for Stokes, with Jimmy Coward adding 14 and Cedric Roberson hitting 10.

Stokes is 4-5 and Cox is 7-3.

Coastal hit only 25 of 84 shots, a miserable 29.8 per cent because of the sticky Buc defense.

The Pirates outrebounded the Cougars, 70-53, with Wade Henkel pulling down 17, Clay Windley, 13, and Dean Hartley, 12.

East Carolina scored the first three baskets of the game, but Coastal came back with the next three to cut the lead to 6-4. East Carolina pulled back away, moving out to a 14-4 lead before the Cougars could hit again. Coastal fought back, however, cutting the lead to six 27-21.

But there, the Bucs hit another hot streak, and ran their lead out to as much as 17 points, 46-29. Coastal hit the final three points of the half, however, to cut it to 46-32.

Early in the second half, the Bucs ran their lead out to 20, at 56-36, on Windley's bucket. From there out, they slowly built it up, passing 30 at 93-62 as Billy Furey hit. Erwin Durden put the Bucs into the century mark, and Windley's final basket gave the Bucs a 40-point edge just before one final basket by Coastal.

Henkel led the Pirate scoring with 26 points, while Durden had 22, Furey and Windley each had 18 and Ken Kellstrom had 10. Manley Midgett led Coastal with 17, while Fred Wilson added 13.

Ronnie Smith's two free throws with two seconds left in the game gave Furman a three-point edge, and enabled them to offset a desperation basket at the horn for a 71-70 victory over the East Carolina University Pirates last night.

And if the foul line brought on the end for the Pirates, their own foul shooting put the gun to their heads. The Bucs failed on eight attempts at the line—missing every chance, and that was the difference. Furman, who hit on two less field goals, pushed through five of nine, and it was enough for the victory.

The zip night at the line marked the first time the Bucs have even gone scoreless there. Merely a .500 percentage would have won the game for time.

The win just about sewed up the Southern Conference regular season title for the Paladins, now 8-0 in league play. They have just four games left and everyone else in the league has lost at least three games now. The Bucs, in losing, dropped to 8-3 in the loop. They have three conference games left, and will need to win at least two of them to clinch second place—assuming VMI, which must meet Furman, loses to them. VMI has only three league losses.

Both teams played good defense, and the Bucs held leading Paladin Clyde Mayes to only 10 points. Fessor Leonard, their 7-1 center, used his five-inch height advantage to lead their scoring with 20 points, while Ronnie Smith pumped in 16, 14 of them on long jumpers. Craig Lynch, who was poison for the Bucs in their earlier meeting, had 14.

Furman hit 47.1 per cent, as compared to 52.2 percent for the Bucs. Furman got off three more shots, as they dominated the boards, 44-34. Mayes led the backboard attack with 14, while Leonard pulled in 12.

Furman had their hands full with the Bucs, trailing throughout the first half. They gained as much as a six-point lead early in the second half, but the Bucs came back and had as much as a five-point lead with 2:54 left in the game, 66-61. But then, their shots refused to drop—or they were fouled and missed at the line.

In that critical time, Furman cut the lead to three on Lynch's jumper with 2:42 left, then Leonard tapped in a basket with 2:15 to go, making it 66-65 for the Bucs.

Baron Hill hit a jumper from the lane with 1:35 to go, giving Furman the lead for good, 67-66. After getting the ball back after a missed free throw, Furman spread it out, and got Mayes isolated for an easy layup and a three-point edge.

Ashorn scored with four seconds left to cut the lead to one, but the Bucs were forced to foul, and Smith tossed in both with two seconds showing. Reggie Lee then hit a 45-foot desperation shot at the horn to cut the final margin to one.

The loss was a disappointing one to the 6,241 fans gathered—the second largest crowd in Minges history.

"We didn't have real good shot selection late in the game," Coach Dave Patton said disappointedly. "We had the chance, but we just couldn't get it to drop when we needed it to."

East Carolina grabbed the opening basket in the game, and Furman exchanged shots with them until Buzzy Braman hit with 13:56, left for a 12-10 lead. Donnie Owens followed with a jumper and Ashorn's shot with 15:50 ran the Bucs out to a six-point edge. Later, Owens hit again to up the lead to eight, 22-14, the biggest margin of the half.

Furman fought back, however, coming back with eight straight points in the closing minutes of the half to tie it at 32-32. Down, 32-24, they got baskets from Leonard, Steve Greene, Lynch and Mayes to knot it. Tom Marsh hit however in the final minute to allow the Bucs a two-point spread at halftime, 34-32.

Furman tied it three more times early in the second half, then took the lead at 40-38 on Michael Hall's quickie off a long pass from Mayes. After an exchange of baskets, Furman got buckets from Mayes and Smith to pushed out to six, 46-40.

But the Bucs fought back and regained the lead on Lee's baseline jumper with 12:22 left, 50-49. Larry Hunt followed with another basket up to the lead to three, and after an exchange, Owens hit off a fast break to make it 56-51. With 6:02 left, Ashorn stole the ball and gave the Bucs a 60-53 lead. Furman cut the margin back to three, however, and it stayed there until their final push in the last two minutes.

Ashorn led the Bucs with 20 points, while Owens had 16 and Robert Geter had 10.

East Carolina, now 14-7, takes to the road Saturday night against tough William & Mary. They return home next Wednesday, hosting Richmond. They have two more dates left, with The Citadel in Charleston, S.C. on Saturday, Feb. 22, and close out at home on Monday, Feb. 24, against Western Carolina.

The Bucs must win one of their remaining league games to clinch a home berth for the opening round of the Southern Conference tournament on Saturday, March 1.

Alabama, Kentucky In Southeast Loop Wins

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

"We just put a bunch of kids against a bunch of men. That's all there was to it," said Auburn Coach Bob Davis after absorbing a 119-76 thumping at the hands of Kentucky.

"I said it before the game and I still say it. Alabama is the best basketball team I've seen," said Mississippi State Coach Kermit Davis after dropping an 83-68 decision to the Crimson Tide.

Monday's night's victories left the fourth-ranked Wildcats and the seventh-rated Tide, gaining momentum for a Feb. 22 showdown in Tuscaloosa, tied at 11-1 in the Southeastern Conference basketball race. Kentucky's one-sided rout also left Auburn's Davis with a bitter taste in his mouth.

VMI Meeting Davidson Five

By The Associated Press
The last time Virginia Military beat Davidson's Wildcats in basketball was in the semi-final game of the 1964 Southern Conference tournament, which the Keydets went on to win.

VMI's final shot in that game was taken with seven seconds left by Bill Blair, now the Keydets' coach. He missed—but Charlie Schmauss, now Blair's assistant, tipped it in for an 82-81 VMI victory.

That 1963-64 season was the last in which the Keydets won 12 games—the most any Keydet basketball team ever has won.

Tonight, the Keydets play host to Davidson in a game that's crucial to the hopes of both of earning a home-court spot for the March 1 opening round of the championship tourney. The four top-seeded teams will be at home for the first four games.

VMI takes a 6-3 conference record, third best in the conference, into the game, and the Keydets—winners of nine of their last 11 starts—are 11-8 over-all, within one victory of matching their all-time best for one campaign.

The Wildcats, picked to be a championship contender, stand 2-5 in the conference and just 5-15 over-all. Another defeat would erase their chances of playing a first round tourney game at home.

It's the only game scheduled tonight for conference teams, but Furman's two-time defending champion Paladins—who will be hosts for the tournament semifinals and finals March 5-6—all but locked up the No. 1 seed Monday night with a 71-70 victory over East Carolina.

That boosted the Paladins to 8-0 in the conference with four league games remaining. East Carolina, which only 10 days ago was unbeaten in seven league starts, fell to 8-3 with three games left.

Two of three conference teams beat outside opposition. William and Mary's Indians, 128 over-all, trounced Baltimore U. 67-52 and Richmond's Spiders, 7-12, edged Tulane 80-79. But Appalachian State's Mountaineers fell to 2-21 in an 85-79 loss at Western Carolina.

Furman's biggest lead over East Carolina was 46-40 with 14:12 left, but the Pirates moved in front 60-53 with 6:02 remaining before the Paladins finally took the lead for good at 67-66 with 1:35 left.

Fessor Leonard scored 20 points and grabbed 12 rebounds, Ronnie Smith had 16 points and Michael Hall 14 for the Paladins, 14-6 over-all. Clyde Mayes was held to 10 points but grabbed 14 rebounds.

The Pirates, who fell to 14-7 over-all, were led by Gregg Ashorn with 20 points and Donnie Owens with 16.

Kevin Eastman's 20-foot jumper with 10 seconds left and Bob McCurdy's block of a Tulane shot at the buzzer gave Richmond its victory that snapped a three-game Green Wave winning streak.

McCurdy, the nation's No. 4 major college scorer, poured in 41 points and grabbed 14 rebounds and Eastman had 16 points for the Spiders. Hicks led Tulane with 26 points.

Ronnie Satterthwaite had 21 points, Matt Courage 12 and Dennis Vail 10 for William and Mary, which put its game out of reach with a 12-0 run late in the first half. The Indians shot 52.2 per cent from the floor for the game.

Western Carolina, led by Mike Meadows with 25 points, ran its winning streak to five by beating Appalachian, which led most of the first 14 minutes and part of the second half. Ed Kane had 21 points and Donnie Stringfellow 18 for the Mountaineers.

Indiana leads the Big Ten by four games over runners-up Minnesota and Purdue.

Thompson Player Of Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
David Thompson of North Carolina State, the major college basketball scoring leader with an average of 31.9, has been chosen as the Atlantic Coast Conference player of the week.

He made 105 points in leading the Wolfpack to three victories last week. He had 26 rebounds, nine assists, eight steals and blocked six shots in the triumphs over Clemson, Georgia Tech and Furman.

Thompson was tremendous in the 92-89 victory over Clemson on Wednesday night. He had 23 first-half points as the Wolfpack built a 54-36 halftime margin, but his biggest basket came with 59 seconds left in the game when he put State ahead 90-85.

He followed with 31 points in a 101-66 victory over Georgia Tech at Charlotte Friday night, and added 35 in a 102-87 decision over Furman on Saturday.

"David was absolutely fantastic," Wolfpack coach Norman Sloan said after the Clemson contest. "If it hadn't been for him, I don't know what we would have done."

Thompson has now moved to fourth place on the all-time ACC scoring list with 2,046 points. He now needs 188 points to overtake the all-time leader, Buzzy Wilkinson of Virginia.

The selection was made by a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. It is the second time this season and the ninth time in three seasons that Thompson has won the award.

Maryland freshman Brad Davis, who is becoming one of the standouts in the conference, is the league's rookie of the week for the third time this season.

He sparked the league-leading Terps to three triumphs last week, two against conference foes, with his playmaking and scoring.

He began the week with 24-point performance in an 86-79 victory over Virginia on Wednesday, and closed out with 18 points in a 104-80 triumph over Duke Saturday. In between, he contributed 31 points in a 65-46 victory over Fordham on Thursday night.

Davis' value was demonstrated in a 16-possession Maryland span in the first half against Duke. Maryland scored 27 points to overcome a three-point deficit and move into a 41-27 lead.

With Davis directing the attack, Maryland players got either good shots or were fouled in almost every possession. Davis passes made most of the baskets possible.

"It's a lot easier," said Davis about his ability to take control of a game now. I'm getting a lot more confidence.

Duke beat Duquesne 80-73 at home Monday in the only game played by an ACC team Monday night. Bob Fleischer had 21 points and 18 rebounds to lead the Blue Devils to their 12th victory against 8 defeats. Duquesne is 11-7.

ACC teams are idle tonight.

Indiana, UCLA Top Weekly AP Cage Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Indiana and UCLA continue to run one-two in the Associated Press weekly college basketball poll, but there's a new No. 3.

Maryland, 17-3, moved up one spot into the third position in this week's voting by a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. The Terrapins picked up 651 points after coasting to easy victories over Virginia, Fordham and Duke.

Louisville, third a week ago, plummeted to sixth after losing to Tulsa.

No. 1 Indiana, 22-0 through Sunday, earned all 43 first-place ballots and 860 points. The Hoosiers whipped Big Ten rivals Michigan and Iowa last week.

No. 2 UCLA, 17-2 after topping Oregon and Oregon State, got 758 points.

Kentucky, 17-2, was up one to fourth on the strength of triumphs over LSU and Georgia. The Wildcats earned 538 points. North Carolina State, 16-3 with 492 points, was also up a notch to fifth after beating Clemson, Georgia Tech and Furman.

Louisville, 16-2, was sixth, followed by Alabama, 17-2, which stayed seventh and Arizona State, 17-2, up to eighth from 10th. Marquette, 15-3, was up two places to ninth and Southern California, 14-4, down two spots to 10th.

North Carolina, 14-5, heads up the second ten, followed by La Salle, 18-3; Oregon, 15-4; Penn, 16-4; Pan American, 19-1; Notre Dame, 12-7; Oregon

Milwaukee Rips Detroit, 130-109

By The Associated Press

From a Milwaukee vintage point, Detroit's lineup looks better without big Bob Lanier. And from Milwaukee captain Bob Dandridge's vantage point, the Bucks' line-up looks much better when it's not lining up.

While Detroit's big cat was away, the Milwaukee mice did play, taking advantage of Lanier's early foul trouble to run past the Pistons 130-109 in the National Basketball Association Monday night.

"I don't see why we shouldn't continue to run like we did tonight if Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar) goes to the boards," said Dandridge, who sank 10 of 13 shots and scored 23 points.

"We've got the tallest center in basketball," Dandridge said. "Cornell Warner is a good rebounder and I'm good for a few every night. If we rebound we should be able to run. I hope this game shows everyone on the team we're just more effective when we run."

Elsewhere in the NBA, the New Orleans Jazz shocked the Atlanta Hawks 96-89; and in the only American Basketball Association action, the Utah Stars beat the Virginia Squires 97-90.

Lanier took his bulky 6-foot-11 frame to the bench four minutes into the first period because of foul trouble and a bad knee. Jabbar roughed up Lanier's replacements, Jim Davis and George Trapp, and contributed 39 points, 11 rebounds, seven assists and three blocked shots.

The victory pulled the Bucks to within 1½ games of third-place Kansas City-Omaha and five games of first-place Chicago in the Midwest Division. The Pistons fell 1½ games behind Chicago with their fifth defeat in six games.

Jazz 96, Hawks 89
It appears that New Orleans has Atlanta all figured out.

After losing to the Hawks by margins of 26 and 32 points earlier in the season, New Orleans beat Atlanta for the second straight time.

This time guard Louis Nelson, taking over the offensive controls after Pete Maravich fouled out, scored 29 points to pace the victory.

Maravich had 17 points and eight assists before fouling out with 7:36 left in the game. John Brown led Atlanta with 19 points.

Stars 97, Squires 90

Utah, up by three points with 1:38 left to play, got some breathing room on Ron Boone's basket and John Roche's two free throws and sent the Squires down to their fourth straight defeat.

Roche led all scorers with 25 points while rookie Moses Malone chipped in with 23 points and 22 rebounds.

Farmville, Chicod Split

CHICOD—Chicod and Farmville split a pair of junior high school games yesterday.

Chicod took the girls' game, 26-25. Melissa Bailey led Chicod with 10, while Diane Gordon had 12 for Farmville.

In the boys' game, Farmville took a 35-32 victory. J. Tyson and C. Horne led Farmville with eight each. Joey Weathering led Chicod with 12.

Chicod's girls are 2-5 in the league and 4-5 overall. The boys are 4-3 and 4-5.

Mail Order Cigarette Dealers Handed Fines

RALEIGH (AP)—Two mail order cigarette dealers in eastern North Carolina have been fined after pleading guilty to federal charges in connection with use of the mails to ship cigarettes out of state, U.S. Atty. Thomas McNamara said Monday.

Mail order dealers sell low taxed North Carolina cigarettes to customers in states with high cigarette taxes. Their customers are supposed to pay the extra taxes in the other state and should be so informed by the North Carolina dealer.

McNamara said Bobby Burnette of Wilson pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring to commit mail fraud. U.S. District Judge John Larkins sentenced him to a five year suspended prison term, five years probation and a $10,000 fine.

Burnette was doing business as Coastal Shipping Co., Wilson Wholesale Co. and Wilson Wholesale Distributors.

Postal Inspector Ed Shively testified that Burnette earned a gross income of $326,182 between Dec. 1, 1972 and July 30, 1973. He said that in one month Burnette mailed about one thousand parcels containing cigarettes each day.

various states was $10,000 per month.

McNamara said Clarence Ray Prescott of Farmville pleaded guilty to 15 counts of mail fraud. He was sentenced to five years probation and a $15,000 fine. His probation includes a special condition that he may not engage in the cigarette business.

The estimated tax loss to rette mail order business or use the mails for this purpose during the period of the probation.

Doing business as Dixie Specialty Co., Prescott operated 13 mail order cigarette firms in Farmville, Snow Hill and Walstonburg. Shively testified that Prescott earned over $75,000 between March 19 and May 30, 1974.

Donate $900 To Workshop

Burroughs Wellcome Company has presented a check in the amount of $900 to the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center, Inc., to be used to purchase a 30 foot trailer and tractor.

The check was presented to Howard Dawkins, director of the Workshop by G. Henry Leslie, plant manager and William R. Brannan, materials handling division department head, at Burroughs Wellcome.

According to Dawkins, both organizations have experienced a pleasant and cooperative working relationship and as a part of this, the Workshop currently picks up waste paper and scrap corrugated materials generated by Burroughs Wellcome Co. and Cooper U.S.A. to use in recycling.

The Workshop is a nonprofit corporation which provides nearby educational opportunities for young people and adults, 16 years of age and older, who are mentally or physically handicapped. They provide training services and vocational programs that will prepare individuals for employment, institute research studies to perfect new training methods, offer intensive counseling, and finally job placement along with a follow-up program.

Burroughs Wellcome, one of the nation's leading manufacturers of pharmaceutical products, has its corporate headquarters and research laboratories in Research Triangle Park and its complete production facilities in Greenville.

Dawkins expressed gratitude to Burroughs Wellcome for making the Workshop's task easier and more meaningful.

"Through the use of this vehicle, at least two persons in our program will benefit by an experience in training," Dawkins said.

Reading Program

Discussion Set

Mrs. Sue Branch, Right-to-Read director for the Pitt County Schools, will join other directors from 29 school units in the State Feb. 18 to discuss the elements of a balanced reading program. Sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction's Division of Reading, the workshop will be held on the campus of Duke University.

The institute has two purposes, according to Mary Purnell, director of the Division of Reading, "First, we want participants to be aware of successful practices being used through North Carolina. And we also hope to create an atmosphere in which participants can explore ways of working together to provide more effective reading instruction."

France earned the right to represent Europe in the 1975 World Team Championship by capturing the 1974 European Championship held in Herzliya, Israel, in November. This hand is from the France-Austria match, and was declared by the rising young French star, Christian Mari.

Since he had a five-card major, Mari elected to open one heart rather than one no trump. Thus, he was faced with a considerable problem at his second turn—a rebid of one no trump would considerably understate his values, while a rebid of two hearts had the added disadvantage of suggesting a six-card suit. Therefore, he manufactured a rebid in a three-card suit, then showed his strength by jumping to the no trump game when his partner bid the fourth suit.

West led the king of clubs, then shifted to the queen of spades. Declarer could count only seven top tricks unless diamonds broke 3-3. Whatever additional tricks he needed would obviously have to come from the spade suit.

There was one other problem—East could not be allowed to gain the lead. If East ever got in, he would play a club through the queen, permitting West to run the suit and defeat the hand. The natural line seemed to be to win the queen of spades and hope for either a 3-2 spade break or a 3-3 diamond division. But this risked the contract if spades split 4-1. Mari found a neat method of catering to all distributions.

He allowed West to win the queen of spades! Now the defenders were powerless. Whatever West did next, declarer would win the trick and run dummy's spade suit. In all, declarer emerged with ten tricks—five spades, three diamonds and two hearts.

The astute reader will note that Mari could have made the contract even if he wins the queen of spades, but his line was a sure thing.

Caviar Cutback On Washington Social Scene

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, too, they sacrifice.
The White House has dropped its fish course. The Iranian Embassy has cut back on caviar. And the State Department has given up some chauffeured cars.
There must be a recession. When he visited the President, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson had to settle for turtle soup and sherry. Pakistani Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto was served consommé and brandy.
The savings? "It's hard to calculate," says Sheila Rabb Weidenfeld, the First Lady's press secretary. "The chef has figured that soup is less expensive than fish. But it depends on the kind ...
"Certainly you don't use your best brandy ..."

"We're trying to be terribly chic and still economize," says Nancy Lammerding, White House social secretary. "We're not even using French champagne."
Or fresh flowers. For centerpieces, the White House has substituted borrowed antique duck decoys.
First Lady Betty Ford goes over the menus.
"She has instructed the waiters not to waste meat by serving large portions," Mrs. Weidenfeld says. "At state dinners, people are asked to serve themselves so they don't have to take things they don't want or like."
The Fords? They pay for their own meals, Mrs. Weidenfeld says. "I heard Mrs. Ford telling (White House chef Henry Haller) that the family likes pot roast. And she has given him instructions to serve the Fords just what he would serve his own family.

"She goes through the roof when expensive things are served."
Word about the caviar cutback comes from the ambassador's secretary at the Iranian Embassy. Iran is noted for its caviar. But the embassy is limiting the amount it serves at its parties, the secretary says.
Spoonfuls are reserved for "small" parties only, the secretary says. And that, by the embassy's count, means 20 guests or fewer.

Middle-level employees at the State Department have been asked to take taxis instead of chauffeured cars — which still beats walking.
"It costs only 70 cents to take a taxi from the State Department to Blair House, and it costs more than that to take a car out," says Lucy Winchester, an assistant chief of protocol. Blair House is guest quarters for visiting dignitaries.

Chief of Protocol Henry E. Catto says there have been other State Department economies: guest lists are being examined more critically, staffers aren't taking as many out-of-town trips and heads of state are being urged to exchange autographed photos instead of expensive gifts.

Student Poll Data Aired

A student opinion poll was conducted recently at East Carolina University by the North Carolina Student Legislature. Some of the issues and the results include:
—Equal Rights Amendment, 75 percent, yes; 24 percent, no; and one percent, no opinion;
—Legalizing prostitution, 75 percent, yes; 21 percent, no; and no opinion, four percent;
—Continuing sales tax on food, 49 percent, yes; 47 percent, no; and three percent, no opinion;
—State giving aid to private schools of higher education, 53 percent, yes; 47 percent, no; and zero percent, no opinion;
—Death penalty, 71 percent, yes; 24 percent, no; and five percent, no opinion;
According to Debra Dixon of the ECU delegation of the NCSL, a one percent sampling was taken of all students enrolled at ECU.

Layoffs Slated At Tool Plants

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Nearly 1,500 workers at Black & Decker tool plants in Fayetteville and Tarboro will be laid off during the two week period beginning Feb. 24.
The company notified the workers Monday that it is laying off a total of 5,000 production workers at five power tool plants in the United States. Other plants affected are in Maryland and Ohio.
The approximately 900 workers at Fayetteville and 580 at Tarboro were idle without pay during the week of Jan. 13. The company said its inventories are still too large, so more production cutbacks are needed.

Colberts sent the baby picture and a letter saying they have named their new born after them. The Colberts say they get results 99 percent of the time. Their plan backfired as they tried their gimmick on Yasser Arafat, Palestinian guerrilla chief, and were caught by American newspapers. (AP Wirephoto)

No Stereotype Drunks On Road, Says Officer

By BROWNIE WILSON
The Grim Reaper still has his watchful eye cast upon North Carolina highways. Even with lower speed limits and a new drunk driving law on the books, death is a factor on Tarheel roads.
According to the U.S. Department of Transportation about 25 Americans die on the nation's highways daily because someone was drinking and driving.

"There are no stereotype drunks on the road," said Sgt. Glenn L. Swanson of the N.C. Highway Patrol. "We stop old and young, anyone drinking can kill himself or someone else if he drives under the influence."
Swanson is part of the Highway Patrol's attack on the drinking driver. Along with seven other officers, Swanson is a member of the Traffic Safety Information Section of the Patrol. This new group travels to civic clubs, schools, churches, any group that is interested in safer highways in North Carolina.

"We don't always speak about alcohol and driving, but that is what the people want to hear about most of the time," said Swanson.
Alcohol and driving form a lethal mixture far too often in North Carolina. Since 1968 over 50 percent of the N.C. highway deaths have been alcohol related. But the Highway Patrol has two new weapons to fight the battle against death on the road.
On January 1, 1975 a new standard took effect to determine if a person is under the influence of alcohol. If a person is caught driving with .10 of one percent of alcohol in the blood, he is illegally driving under the influence.

This amount is measured on the Breathalyzer. In recent months the N.C. Legislature has placed confidence in the Breathalyzer's value.
"One thing the public should know about the Breathalyzer is that it must be operated by a person licensed by the Department of Health," said Swanson. "The arresting officer does not administer the test."
"We hope with the Breathalyzer and the .10 law we will be able to get more guilty pleas. The courts will still have to convict though if we are to get the most out of this system."

Swanson said the most common time for the drunk driver to be on the road is Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. But, any time there is alcohol there is the possibility of an accident.
"The rural areas are the most dangerous, but as here in Pitt County, they are usually affected by the bars in town," said Swanson.

In only 70 years, more Americans have died on the highway than have been killed in all of the wars the U.S. has been involved in combined. An effective Highway Patrol is only part of the solution to the problem of drunk drivers, the public must give a helping hand.
"Everyone must help us," said Swanson, "stop your friend from driving after he has been drinking, take the keys away by force if you have to. If he does drive call the local law enforcement agency to stop him from injuring himself or others."
"We need the public to work with us before the tragedy of the drunk driver touches their life."

Arthur Smith Accepts Copyright Settlement

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Arthur Smith, a 52-year-old country music entertainer who has been engaged in a copyright duel with Warner Bros., has won an out-of-court settlement over "Duelin' Banjos," a hit song from the movie, "Deliverance."

Smith's attorney, Joseph J. Santora of New York, said it "may be one of the biggest copyright settlements in a long time."

Santora, contacted by telephone, declined to confirm a reported $200,000 settlement, but he said that Smith had refused $150,000.

Smith said he wrote the tune, which has sold more than two million records under the name of "Duelin' Banjos," in 1952 and called it "Feudin' Banjos." The song used in the movie was credited to Eric Weisberg who played the banjo in the film. Broadcast Music Inc., a music copywriting organization, named "Duelin' Banjos" the 1973 country music song of the year, but the award was held up until the real composer could be determined.

Smith, who will now get 100 per cent credit as the author, and his publisher, Combine Music Corp., agreed to take 50 per cent of the profits Warner Bros. has made on the song. Smith will also get all the author's fees from future sales of sheet music and records.

The dispute was settled last Thursday on the fourth day of a trial before U.S. District Judge William C. Conner of New York City's Southern District.

Santora said Weisberg took the stand during the hearing and "acknowledged that 'Duelin' Banjos' and 'Feudin' Banjos' were the same tune. And from that point on there was no case."

Smith, whose name will appear on future sheet music and records, said Monday he was not sure he wanted screen credits. "I think it's a wonderful movie as far as photography and adventure is concerned, but the language and some of the scenes offended me."

Smith, who hosts a nationally syndicated television program bearing his name, said he had been fighting the case for two years "not for the money, but for the little guys that get ripped off by the biggies."

"They thought that because I was from North Carolina I would run out of money and time."

The agreement is subject to Judge Conner's final approval, Santora said.

No Layoff Clause Ends Longshoremen's Threat

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Pacific Coast dock agreement including a no-layoff clause assures "peace on the waterfront" for 2½ years, bargaining chiefs say.

Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, said a key provision prohibits layoffs for any of the 12,000 stevedores and ship clerks covered by the contract for economic, technological or other reasons.

The pact announced Monday also guarantees more than 11,000 employees 36 hours of work a week, or pay of $234 a week starting March 1. The guaranteed weekly pay increases to $250 on July 1 of this year and to $270 on July 1, 1976.

Another 600-800 workers are guaranteed from 18 to 24 hours of work or pay a week, Bridges said.

Bridges and Ed J. Flynn, president of the Pacific Maritime Association, predicted overwhelming ratification of the agreement.

The pact was nailed down four months in advance of expiration of the current contract on June 30, 1975.

It is the second negotiated far in advance of contract termination since a costly strike in 1971 that closed Pacific Coast ports for 142 days, the longest dock walkout in mainland history.

"The agreement reached removes any possible interruption of work on July 1 and assures continuous peace on the waterfront," Bridges and Flynn said in a joint news conference statement.

Flynn estimated the cost of wage increases, welfare and pension benefits and the no-layoff and pay guarantees would amount to $1.30 an hour in the first year and slightly less in the second year.

He said he could not estimate the agreement's over-all cost or what impact it may have on cargo freight rates.

Bridges and Flynn said they would not disclose precise terms before ratification votes by ILWU locals and PMA members.

Bridges said the ILWU would attempt to achieve ratification by port locals before March 1. Flynn said employers would meet for their ratification vote immediately after the union ballot was known.

Set Meeting On Peanuts

A peanut production meeting will be held Wednesday, Feb. 19, at 2 p.m. at Pitt Technical Institute.

According to Henry C. Riddick, associate agricultural extension agent, the meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Humber Building, PTI.

Astor Perry, extension agronomy specialist at N.C. State University, will lead the discussion.

"On the average, production of peanuts in Pitt County has been a non-profitable enterprise during the past several years," Riddick explained. "Since 1972, the county has averaged around 1900 pounds per acre, which is a break-even to losing proposition."

Riddick added, "For this year, we are suggesting that growers who are not averaging at least 2,200 pounds of peanuts per acre look for an alternate use for the land and allotment."

The Pitt County Humane Society has received a winners' list in the recent Pet Photo Contest sponsored by the Humane Society of the United States.

Twelve states were represented, with Raymond James of Raleigh receiving a third place in the Pets and People category. Last year Greenville placed with Joan Hemby's being a winner in the Domestic Animals group.

Will Create 'Iran Sky Cavalry'

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Recently retired U.S. Army aviators working for a private American company run by their former commanding officer are providing the Shah of Iran's emerging army with the latest tactical training in combat helicopter assault warfare.

Veterans of the 10-year attempt to perfect air mobile warfare in Vietnam, these officers are part of a 1,500-man American civilian force assembled in Iran in the past 18 months by retired U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Delk M. Oden, formerly the commanding general of the U.S. Army Aviation Center at Ft. Rucker, Ala.

As president of Bell Helicopter International, the retired major general is directing his men to help create the Iran Sky Cavalry brigade, a strike force using helicopter gunships and assault helicopters modeled after the U.S. 1st Cavalry Division that fought in Vietnam's highlands.

A spokesman for the Bell Helicopter Co., a sister company, said Monday that the five-year contract held by Bell International provided for tactical training of Iranian pilots, in addition to maintenance and other skills.

A similar contract held by the Vinnell Corp. of Los Angeles to train Saudi Arabian national guard troops to protect oil fields has come under congressional fire.

Chairman John C. Stennis of the Senate Armed Services Committee began an inquiry Monday into the $77 million Defense Department contract with Vinnell disclosed by The Associated Press on Sunday.

The Mississippi Democrat told reporters he had asked Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger for an explanation of Vinnell's recruiting of former U.S. special forces soldiers and other war veterans for a 1,000-man force to send to Saudi Arabia.

The Pentagon confirmed the contract.

The Iran helicopter contract differed with Vinnell's in that it was made directly between the Iran Government and Bell Helicopter International, formed by the Textron Corp. of Providence, R.I., specifically for the training mission. Textron also owns Bell Helicopter Co.

The U.S. Defense Department did administer the sale by the Bell Helicopter Co. of 489 helicopters to Iran in 1973, but the aviator task force did not come under U.S. government control because no weapons were involved and the deal was made directly with the Iranian government, a Bell spokesman said.

The spokesman declined to give the value of the training contract, but it provides for the establishment of a helicopter maintenance school at Tehran and a flight training school at Isfahan where "training similar to that in U.S. army aviation schools" is given.

U.S. army officers familiar with American training techniques told the AP that it includes combat assaults in coordination with ground troops similar to those perfected in Vietnam, acclimatizing troops to air movement, formation flying and special training for gunships including assault fire and attacking guarded objectives.

The Iran government has a recurring shooting war on its eastern frontier with Iraq and reportedly supplies and encourages the Kurdish rebels in Iraq. Iran has a brigade of helicopter-borne paratroopers in Oman and is helping the Sultan of Oman fight Maoist revolutionaries supported by South Yemen.

Preyer Papers Given To ECU

The East Carolina Manuscript Collection at East Carolina University has received more than 26 cubic feet of legislative files from U.S. Rep. Richardson Preyer of Greensboro.

Preyer, a former U.S. District Judge and 1964 gubernatorial candidate, was first elected to Congress in 1968.

The files received for permanent preservation at East Carolina are concerned primarily with the 91st Congress (1969-1970) and include correspondence and legislation files on Appropriations, Armed Services, Civil Rights, Foreign Affairs, Veterans' Affairs, Crime Legislation, Ways & Means, Education and Agriculture.

The Preyer papers will be housed with other collections in the East Carolina Manuscript Collection in the J. Y. Joyner Library on the East Carolina campus. After proper arranging and description has been completed, they will be available to students and historians for research purposes.

The manuscript collection at East Carolina University is now in its tenth year of operation as a repository for the permanent preservation of historical documents. At the present time more than 300 individual collections are housed here, including the papers of congressmen, governors, authors, government officials, cultural leaders, military leaders, missionaries, and the papers of many North Carolina families.

Ervin Endorses Sirica Release Of Defendants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Retired Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., former chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, says U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica's decision to grant early prison release to several men convicted in the Watergate scandal was correct.

"The ones who were released cooperated with the investigation," said the 78-year-old North Carolina Democrat. "I think the courts have been fairly lenient."

Ervin, here for a University of San Francisco appearance, said of lecture tours by Watergate figures such as former White House counsel John W. Dean III and former presidential press secretary Ron Ziegler:

"I wouldn't pay 15 cents to see Ron Ziegler, but if people want to spend money to hear what they say, it's all right by me."

Returns After Study In France

Charles Wendell Tyson has returned home from six months study at the University of Dijon in France.

A student at Wake Forest University, Tyson studied French and French culture during his stay in France. He will now continue his studies in mathematics and French at Wake Forest. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tyson of 307 Roundtree Drive, Greenville.

Projects Are Viewed

Emit Kimbrough, area supervisor of the State Title I Office made an on-site visit to the Pitt County Title I Projects recently. He visited the Reading Lab, Tutorial Lab, Media Center and the Medical-Social Counselors' office at the A. G. Cox School in Winterville. Kimbrough also met with Johnnie Little, chairman of the Pitt County Title I Parent Advisory Council.

Kimbrough, along with Thomas A. Mitchell, area supervisor for the western part of the state, were guests at the second Title I Parent Advisory Council meeting Thursday. Mitchell, who is directly concerned with the organization of Local Parent Advisory Councils gave a presentation on that subject. Also featured on the program was a review of Title I test data and program evaluation. The data showed that for every month a child is in a Title I Program, on an average his grade level increased proportionately on standardized tests.

The next Title I Parent Advisory Council meeting is scheduled for April 3.

TERMITES OR ANTS?

Don't be half sure. Call a professional pest control operator for an inspection today.

The potential damage to property from termites can exceed the damage from tornadoes, hurricanes and fire. This is why termite protection is as important as a homeowner's insurance policy.
