Seven Cars Plunged As Bridge Collapsed

SILOAM, N. C. (AP)—A single-span, hump-backed bridge collapsed into the Yadkin River Sunday night. Police and rescue workers said seven cars plunged into the chasm during a late-night fog, killing three persons. Authorities said a 3-year-old girl was missing and 15 others were injured. None of the injuries was believed serious.

Search teams resumed their work shortly after dawn today, combing the eight-foot-deep river about 30 miles northwest of Winston-Salem. The bridge was on the Yadkin-Surry County line. Early reports indicated at least one car was on the bridge when it collapsed, but police said later they were unable to substantiate that report.

The cause of the collapse was not known immediately. Rain had fallen in the area during the day Sunday but there was no report of damage to the bridge, which had a steel structure and a wooden floor.

The rural road that crosses the bridge is a major commuting route for persons living in Surry County and working in Winston-Salem.

The Highway Patrol identified the dead as Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Atkinson, who lived on a farm near the bridge, and Judy Brown Needham, 28, of Pinnacle.

Ed Atkinson, son of the victims' by the same name, was in a car with his wife and two daughters behind his parents' when their vehicle went into the open span. Atkinson said his parents had heard cries for help and had gone to investigate after calling him.

The younger Atkinson and his family survived, although they also plunged into the open hole.

The water ranged from a distance of 30 feet to about 60 feet below the bottom of the bridge.

Mrs. Needham's 3-year-old daughter was reported missing. Her husband, Thomas, and another daughter were rescued.

Eugene Livengood was among the first rescue units to arrive at the bridge.

"When we got here it was so foggy there was nothing we could do but wait for the (other) rescue units. I felt like jumping in, but it would have been useless. We all could have drowned," Livengood said.

The swiftly flowing water covered some of the cars, but two of the survivors—Mary Jo Bullington and Debra Collins, both of Pilot Mountain—managed to reach the top of their vehicle and held on until they were picked up.

Others injured during the night included James T. Venable of Winston-Salem and several persons from the Siloam area—Michal Matthews, 19; Lori Jill Matthews, 13; Bobby Matthews, 42; Grace Scott, about 60; John Scott, about 60; and Joyce Feezor, 46.

Energy Plan Substitutes Shaping Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—While attention is focused on President Ford's battle with Congress over oil tariffs, two Senate committees are nearing approval of their own substitutes for the President's energy program.

As Congress awaits Ford's promised veto of a bill suspending the President's $3-a-barrel oil tariff, the Senate Interior Committee plans to approve early this week a gasoline rationing bill. The measure would give the President standby authority, with congressional consent, to impose gasoline rationing or take other emergency conservation measures during any future fuel shortage.

Meanwhile, the Senate Commerce Committee is considering two other bills that are expected to be a part of the energy program being drawn up by a Senate-House Democratic task force.

One bill would require that automobiles and household appliances bear labels describing in simple terms their energy efficiency. This would give the consumer help in making energy-efficient purchases.

The second bill being considered by the Commerce Committee would set ceiling prices on "new" natural gas but allow the price to be increased periodically in response to inflation. The Ford administration is urging an end to all price controls on natural gas.

The Senate-House panel working on the Democratic energy program is headed by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., and Rep. James C. Wright, D-Tex.

The joint panel plans to meet again Tuesday to coordinate the House and Senate efforts.

The final Democratic energy plan is expected to reject Ford's contention that consumption of imported oil should be cut two million barrels a day, or 28 per cent, by the end of 1977.

Ford proposes to reach the goal by raising the price of fuel. The administration's program envisions boosting gasoline prices by 15 cents a gallon and Ford's tariff is the first step toward making energy more expensive.

But Democrats, who contend this would worsen inflation and recession, are putting far more emphasis on battling unemployment than on reducing U.S. reliance on foreign oil.

In the House, energy bills have not moved past the hearing stage, mainly because the House Ways and Means Committee has been preoccupied with an emergency anti-recession tax cut.

Advance Sum To Railroad

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Penn Central Railroad, its bank account empty, received an emergency $15.3 million from the federal government today to pay its employees this week and keep vital freight service rolling.

America's biggest railroad, operating in 14 Eastern and Midwestern states, the District of Columbia and two Canadian provinces, faced a possible shutdown because it did not have cash to meet $16.4 million in bills due Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The bills include some payroll checks.

The railroad's three court-appointed trustees disclosed that the U.S. Department of Transportation had agreed to advance the necessary funds pending congressional approval for more than $100 million the Penn Central said it needs to keep running for another year.

A Penn Central spokesman said the transportation department approved the emergency arrangements under the Regional Rail Reorganization Act. "This will enable the railroad to meet its payroll," the trustees said.

Penn Central went into federal bankruptcy court in mid-1970 when the two-year merger of the two biggest railroads in the East—the Pennsylvania and New York Central—went sour. Since then it has been losing money at the rate of more than $500,000 daily.

Tighten Ring On Phnom Penh; Enclaves Attacked

By CARL D. ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Khmer Rouge forces tightened their siege of the Cambodian capital with attacks on government positions along the blockaded Mekong River and more rocket attacks on Phnom Penh's airfield, military sources said.

The sources said the insurgents attacked a string of government enclaves along the Mekong 25 to 35 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The government force at Peam Raing Lieu, 35 miles southeast of Phnom Penh, was reported under heavy attack and was in "critical" position, the sources reported.

They said two government companies abandoned the island of Koh Chang Raun, opposite the Neak Luong naval base, and "very likely" suffered heavy casualties.

Neak Luong's situation also was termed serious, with supplies able to reach the forces there by airdrop.

The Khmer Rouge gunners fired 10 rockets on Sunday into the Phnom Penh airport, the city's only supply channel from the outside world, and early today 18 more rockets hit the field and a nearby market area. Two persons were killed and 12 were wounded in the attacks.

The U.S. airlift of supplies from Thailand continued. Diplomatic sources said nearly 900 tons of ammunition, a record amount, was hauled into Pochentong in 24 hours. They said the airlift may soon be expanded to include rice and gasoline. Officials estimated earlier that the city had a 50-day rice supply and gasoline for three months.

Military sources also reported that Muong Russel, a rice depot town in northwest Cambodia, was lost again to the Khmer Rouge. It was overrun a week ago and recaptured by government forces later last week.

The South Vietnamese government claimed that its forces caught a force of North Vietnamese troops trying to cross the Cambodian border in the Mekong Delta on Sunday and killed 140 of them in two battles 25 miles apart. A communique said South Vietnamese casualties were 11 wounded, and many of the North Vietnamese dead were killed by air and artillery strikes.

Sen. Deway F. Bartlett, R-Okla., and Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., arrived in Saigon today to assess the need for the $300 million in additional military aid President Ford is seeking for South Vietnam and the $222 million he is asking for Cambodia. Some 20 senators and congressmen had been scheduled to make the trip over the weekend, but a number of them backed out.

Bartlett and McCloskey said they hoped to meet with the Viet Cong delegation and also to explore the matter of Americans still missing in Vietnam.

Accounting System Of City, Utilities Being Consolidated

The City Council, meeting Thursday night, took action that will result in the consolidation of the accounting systems of the city and Greenville Utilities Commission.

Approving unanimously a motion offered by Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller, the Council instructed the city manager to prepare a resolution which would change the present operation of Greenville Utilities, fiscal portion, so that the city's operation and GUCO's fiscal operation would be the same and under the same jurisdiction as under the Fiscal Control Act of 1973. Mrs. Mildred McGrath seconded the motion.

Under the Fiscal Control Act, the city is required to be fiscally responsible for the activities of the Utilities Commission.

Fuller explained that under the statute, it is important that the city take over and bring the accounting system of both the city and GUCO under the same format.

The city, for the first time, approved the GUCO budget last year under the jurisdiction of the Fiscal Control Act.

The resolution authorized by the Council's action will be prepared and brought back before the board for approval at the regular March 6 meeting.

Local attorney Nelson Blount Crisp provided the information you seek:

"Section 1: Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex.

Section 3. This amendment shall take effect two years after the day of ratification."

FIRED WITHOUT VACATION

Can a company fire you just in time to avoid paying you for an earned vacation? F.W.

According to Russell Poe of the N.C. Department of Labor, there is now law which requires an employer to give any vacation, paid or unpaid. The law says that an employer can terminate an employee at any time, giving the employee a reason, and that an employee can quit at any time without giving a reason.

Four Spelunkers Survive 27-Hour Ordeal In Cave

By CHRIS J. HARPER
Associated Press Writer
Four Illinois men survived a 27-hour ordeal in a flooded Indiana cave by eating candy bars, chewing gum and telling some dirty jokes.

But three other persons died in another cavern after heavy rains caused streams to overflow, flooding several caves this weekend near Bloomington, Ind., officials said Sunday.

The young spelunkers, or cave explorers, drowned Saturday, officials said. The victims were identified as Terry Yokem, 19; Kim Aldridge, 19, and Marsha Bott, 18, all of Indianapolis.

Rescuers discovered their bodies and the four stranded explorers Sunday afternoon after an extensive search.

The caves are seven miles south of Bloomington, about 60 miles south of Indianapolis.

"We were awfully scared, but we never lost sight of the fact we were eventually going to get out there. The worst was the cold water and the darkness," Robert Bondurant, 32, of rural Robinson said in a telephone interview.

A novice cave explorer, Randall Masterson, 25, of Newton said the men talked about their survival, their families and "told dirty jokes to occupy time."

Bondurant and another experienced spelunker, Paul Homan, 37, of Robinson had persuaded Masterson and Gene Strain, 40, to join a four-hour exploration of the cave. Bondurant is a high school biology teacher and the three other men work for a special education project.

"This is my first and my last time!" exclaimed Strain, who said the men heard rushing water after they reached the midway point of the four-mile cave.

"We thought we better get out of here quickly," Strain recalled in a telephone interview. "But by the time we got back the water was chest deep."

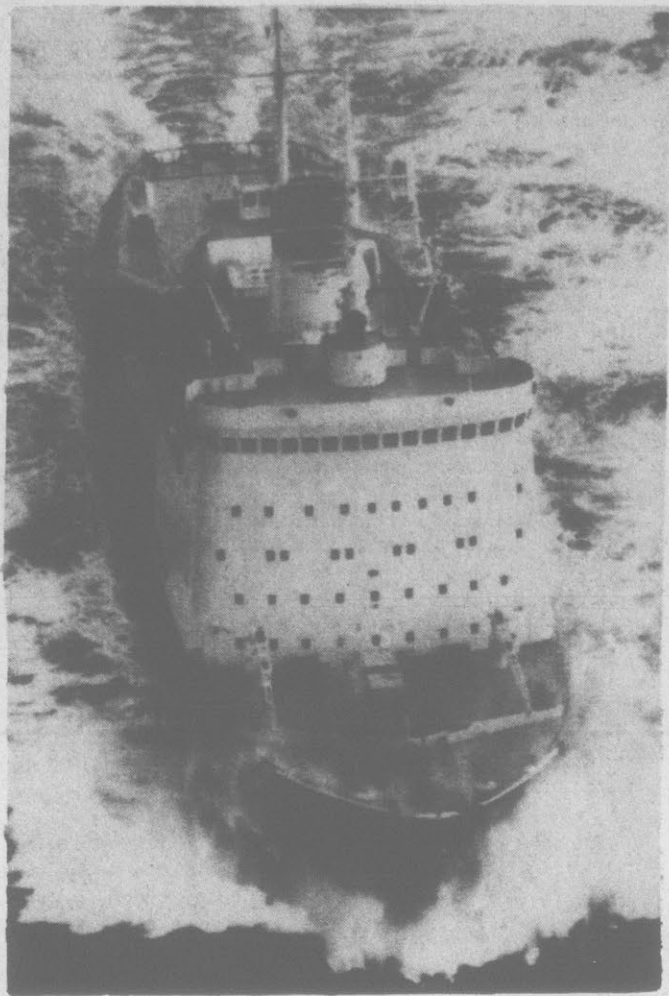

Strain said two men attempted to wade through the water but were repelled. The group found a high ridge and huddled next to each other to keep warm with only three candy bars and a pack of chewing gum to eat during the ordeal, Strain said.

"I was lucky to get out of this one," Homan said in a telephone interview. "I'm just happy to make it."

Officials said the men were treated for exposure at a local hospital.

Opening Up Of Off-Shore Oil Before High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration's plans to open the Atlantic to oil exploration are at stake before the Supreme Court on a suit to affirm federal ownership of off-shore areas.

Arguments were scheduled to be heard today by the court. The Ford administration has appealed for a quick ruling because the suit is blocking plans to lease 3.5 million acres of the Middle Atlantic to oil companies.

The Interior Department has agreed to delay its leasing program until the suit is settled. The agreement already has forced the department to withdraw one invitation for oil companies to recommend areas for leasing, a preliminary step in the program.

The Justice Department filed the suit in 1969 after Maine announced plans to lease 3.3 million acres of Atlantic mineral rights more than three miles offshore. The suit named all of the Atlantic Coast states as defendants, but Florida was severed because its case involves complicated boundary questions.

Maine's plans conflicted with the 1953 Submerged Lands Act, which gives the states title only to the first three miles of adjoining seabed. The Atlantic Coast states claim dominion over 100 miles because of pre-Revolutionary grants from the English and Dutch.

The federal law empowers the Interior Department to lease mineral rights beyond the three-mile limit. Since 1954 the department has leased about 11 million acres, mostly in the Gulf of Mexico.

The court affirm federal ownership of the seabed beyond the three-mile limit.

In past rulings, the court has not been sympathetic to the states. The Supreme Court ruled in 1947 and again in 1950 that the states had no claim to seabed mineral rights, not even within the three-mile limit historically recognized as state property.

Congress restored the three-mile limit with the Submerged Lands Act.

New Ambassador Says He Opposed Arms Sale

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — William B. Saxbe, the United States' new ambassador to India, says he opposed the renewal of American arms sales to Pakistan "but I wasn't persuasive."

"I made my views clear to the secretary of state and everybody else concerned," Saxbe said in an interview today.

"I told them I didn't think it was wise to get so heavily into the arms business just because they (the Pakistanis) are going to buy them some place."

But now that the decision to lift the embargo has been made, "I'll support it," Saxbe continued. "It's the President's decision to go ahead, and it's an ambassador's job to support his position.

"We like India. It's unfortunate we're going to have this kind of start, but we'll do what we can."

Heavy Snow In Midwest

By The Associated Press
Heavy snows struck parts of the Midwest today and combined with howling winds to close scores of schools, roads and some businesses and knock out power in some areas.

Hardest hit was the Quad Cities area of eastern Iowa and western Illinois. Quad Cities Airport reported nearly 10 inches by dawn with a forecast of four more. Virtually all schools in the area were closed and drifting shut some state highways.

Power blackouts also occurred in the area which consists of Davenport, Iowa; and Rock Island, Moline and East Moline, Ill.

The heavy snowstorm also hit parts of southeastern Minnesota and southwestern Wisconsin during the night. Winds up to 40 miles per hour whipped snow up to 10 inches deep into drifts two to four feet in southwestern Wisconsin and visibility was reported near zero and state clearing crews failed to keep up with the continuing storm.

Up to seven inches of snow was reported in Minnesota's Winona County where several schools were closed.

The late winter storm struck the Midwest after a series of weekend tornadoes swept through the South and Oklahoma, killing six persons and destroying thousands of homes.

Bob Hope Reveals Nixon Had Friends 'In Tears'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — "I'm telling you, he had people in tears," entertainer Bob Hope said after former President Richard M. Nixon talked at a weekend party about how important his friends are to him now.

The gathering, at the estate of Walter H. Annenberg, former U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, was Nixon's first social appearance away from his seaside villa at San Clemente since undergoing phlebitis surgery last October.

Knocked To Ground, Robbed

A warrant, charging Ronnie Calhoun of Greenville with assault and robbery has been issued, Chief Glenn Cannon said, in connection with an incident here Saturday night.

According to the police official, Calhoun allegedly struck Mrs. Viola Smiley—knocking her to the ground—and took her purse, containing $1.80 and a .22 caliber pistol as Mrs. Smiley left Viola's Shop-In at the intersection of Third and Tyson Streets, about 9:55 p.m.

Cannon said the incident occurred in the store parking lot, and said Calhoun allegedly left the scene on foot.

Ehrlichman To Assist Indians

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman, President Nixon's former domestic affairs adviser who was convicted in the Watergate cover-up, will soon go to Espanola, N.M., to work for American Indian rights, says Ehrlichman's lawyer, Ira M. Lowe.

Ehrlichman has been sentenced to 2½ to 8 years in prison and, like three others sentenced in the case, plans to appeal. Before sentence was passed Friday, Lowe said Ehrlichman wanted to work for the Indians instead of going to jail.

On Sunday, Lowe said Ehrlichman is preparing to go to New Mexico within a few days and called the action "an example so that judges will see that there is an alternative to incarceration." Lowe said Ehrlichman will get subsistence from the Indians but no fee.

"He didn't talk about the past but said how important friends were to him," Hope related Sunday.

"He said friends are very important when you're at the top but even more so at a time like this."

"I'm telling you, he had people in tears," Hope and Nixon are longtime friends. Others at the Saturday night dinner included Frank Sinatra, former Gov. and Mrs. Ronald Reagan and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Firestone.

Hope said it was the first time he had met with Nixon since a meeting nearly two years ago at Camp David. "Although I talked to him three times on the phone: one time he called me after I had sent him my book 'The Last Christmas Show.'"

"I asked him to play golf with me and he said he would be ready in a couple of months."

Hope said that after a dinner that included caviar, chat-aubriand and Dom Perignon

Heavy Snow In Midwest

The lifting of the embargo is expected to be announced this week. Indian Foreign Minister Y. B. Chavan said last week that it would have "serious repercussions on the peace and stability of the Indian subcontinent."

Saxbe and his wife were to arrive in New Delhi last Saturday, but the State Department ordered him to delay. Apparently the department hoped that if a few days intervened between its announcement and his arrival, he might not be a target for hostile demonstrations.

Saxbe said he might go to India next Monday, but a definite date has not been set.

Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco said he did not believe that elimination of the arms embargo would damage the United States' relations with India. "I think we have explained this quite thoroughly, we are not trying to balance one side against the other in this situation," Sisco said on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press."

"We have felt a rather a rather anomalous situation has existed in the area where one side (India) has been getting arms from the Soviets and has its own production capacity, whereas the other side, an ally I might add, with whom we have a formal relationship, has been denied this insofar as the United States is concerned," he said.

Sisco did not say when the embargo would be lifted, but said, "I expect an announcement on this very soon ..."

Controversy Caused By Latest Recording Not Upsetting To Loretta

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Womens Editor

Controversy being caused by a song titled "The Pill" is not upsetting to country music star Loretta Lynn.

"The song was recorded over four years ago and has been released for three weeks. It's being played by underground, pop and country music stations. During the first week in Memphis, it sold over 56,000 copies. This record is going in all directions," said Miss Lynn.

Miss Lynn, Conway Twitty and Cal Smith appeared in a program Friday night at the Ayden-Griffin High School, sponsored by the Kinston Police Department and the Greenville Rescue Squad.

Continuing her comments on her latest hit, Miss Lynn stated, "If the pill had been on the market when I had four children at the age of 18, I would have taken it and would have planned my family."

While on stage Miss Lynn received numerous requests to sing "The Pill." In answering, she told the audience, "I have recorded a tune that has caused some controversy and everytime someone discussed it, it sells another 100,000."

During an interview following the first show, Miss Lynn gave her opinion on her performance. "I had to cut my show short, but I did the best I could. I usually do shows by myself of about two hours. When we are on a package show, we usually do shorter ones."

Miss Lynn, her husband, Mooney, and children live about 70 miles west of Nashville in "a little town which I own, Hurricane Mills, Tenn., in a colonial house we are restoring."

"My husband started me in show business in 1961 and he accompanies me on most of my trips," she added.

Mooney Lynn said that he had worked as a logger, worked at a saw mill, a rancher and a farmer, but being in show business was the hardest business he had ever seen.

The Lynns have six children including twin daughters, Peggy named for Miss Lynn's sister, and Patsy, named for Patsy Cline.

"Patsy Cline was the closest friend I had. I still feel her presence whenever I go on stage—it's like she's telling me, 'Get on with it girl.' I think of her almost everytime I go on stage. She taught me a lot—how to leave and enter on stage and how to dress."

"When she was No. 1, she told me that next year I would be No. 1 and I was, because she was gone."

"How old I am is the question I am most often asked. I reply by saying are you selling insurance? Since I was married so young, at 14, people think I am older than I am," she concluded.

Miss Lynn has just finished working with CBS Television in filming "Traveling On The Road With Loretta," which will be broadcast on the news in late March. She will appear on the Country Music Awards Show on March 5 and on the Merv Griffin Show March 6.

The personal interview with Miss Lynn was arranged through the efforts of Mrs. Paula Wells of Greenville, who works with PLS Productions.

Miss Lynn and her band, the Coal Miners, travel in a specially designed bus. The interior of the bus has a curtained section for the driver, with the next area built with a bench type seat and two individual seats on one side and four similar type seats on the other side separated by a table. This front section has a television built into the wall and a button panel controls heating, air conditioning, stereo and an inter-com system.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who was a pallbearer at his first wife's funeral on his second wife's 14th wedding anniversary?

That's what my husband did. He had only two children by his first wife, and seven by me.

I was plenty ticked off about this. Don't you think he could have shown his respect by just sending flowers? I'd like your opinion.

ANNIVERSARY RUINED
DEAR RUINED: It was unfortunate that your wedding anniversary and your husband's first wife's funeral fell on the same day, but I think it's to your husband credit that he was asked to be a pallbearer, and that he accepted.

You'll have other anniversaries, hopefully, but his first wife can be buried only once.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote asking whether one should wear panties UNDER pantyhose or OVER them, and you replied that pantyhose served as both panties and hosiery, so with nightly laundering panties were not necessary at all.

Abby, please rush this into print: A few years ago, my elderly mother was introduced to pantyhose, and she loved them. Within a few months, she developed a dreadful vaginal infection which spread into her bladder, and she was hospitalized in agony.

There seemed to be no medication that could combat the particular bacillus that invaded her system. The several doctors who attended her (and did eventually cure her) all told me that they'd been seeing much too much of similar infections, although mostly among younger women.

They concluded that there must be something in the dye of the pantyhose that caused the infection, so they now urge women to wear panties under their pantyhose. Please, won't you please help to spread the word? I realize that not all women react the same way, but if this prevents only a few from experiencing the kind of nightmare my mother endured, it will be worth a place in your widely read column.

WISCONSINITE

DEAR WIS: I consulted several topnotch gynecologists and dermatologists, and they all agreed with you! So the word from here is—play it safe, girls, and wear white cotton panties under your pantyhose, unless your pantyhose have cotton crotches.

DEAR ABBY: I smoke because I enjoy it. And I resent the way people are now trying to make smokers feel like second class citizens. I see "NO SMOKING" signs in places where they never were before. (In doctors' waiting rooms for instance. Smoking calms my nerves, so isn't it natural to want a cigarette in a doctor's office? Also in elevators, and in some stores?)

Smoking is a nervous habit, right? Well, I put up with the nervous habits of others. Some people crack their knuckles, some clear their throats, some have nervous coughs, or they snif. People with nervous ties also make me nervous, but I don't mention it.

So, since smoking is also a nervous habit, why can't people be as tolerant of MY nervous habit as I am of THEIRS?

PIPE SMOKER
DEAR SMOKER: Because YOUR nervous habit pollutes THEIR air, that's why. Put that in your pipe and smoke it!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

COUNTRY MUSIC STAR . . . Loretta Lynn is pictured inside her private bus Friday night between shows.

Country Music Shows Appeal

The house lights were dimmed, the spotlights hit the stage and the popular Coal Miners Band opened the country music show by playing several numbers.

The first singer on stage was Ken Star, who has been traveling with Loretta Lynn and her group for three years. Known for his recordings of "Country Bumpkin" and "It's Time To Play The Fiddler," Cal Smith was the next star in the spotlight.

With her waist length dark brown hair flowing loosely around her shoulders, Miss Lynn began her portion of the show by singing "Coal Miner's Daughter." She was dressed in a floor length gown of soft floral material in green and rose.

While on stage, Miss Lynn told the receptive audience, "It's not fair for us to be under these hot lights—turn them off and turn on the house lights and then everybody can be hot."

The next appearance was made by The Twitty Birds and Conway Twitty, singing to over 2,000 people, who showed their support for the entire group by cherring, clapping, whistling and through general comments.

After singing some of most popular songs, "Linda On My Mind," "It's Only Make Believe," "Hello Darling," a duet was sung by Miss Lynn and Twitty, "Mississippi Woman, Louisiana Man."

Most of the comments overheard concerning the show and performing artists were favorable. However, due to the fact that the number of seats were oversold, a staff member of PLS Productions termed the first show as "mass confusion."

"This is my first country music show. I paid $6 for a ticket and then had to sit on the stairs. I was very disappointed—I even had to talk my husband into coming. Arriving around 8 p.m., we had to park over a mile down the road. If we have a ticket when we get back to the car, I will be even more upset," said Mrs. Carolyn Mabley of Rt. 4, Williamston.

One gentleman added, "It looks like that they would learn after a while to turn the music tone down so that you could hear the singers."

Twitty, who was strolling in the school hallway between shows, was asked to pose for several pictures of mothers with their children in addition to signing autographs. Members of both the Coal Miners Band and the Twitty Birds were asked to also sign autographs.

Miss Lynn and Twitty were well received as both shows were complete sellouts.

During their time on stage, Miss Lynn kissed Twitty on the cheek and remarked, "Eat your heart out girls."

NEW YORK (UPI) — A do-good movement started when Carol Vittert of St. Louis read about a Chicago juvenile court program that utilized neighborhood volunteers.

"I thought it was an idea that would work in St. Louis...helping the elderly, the poor and the handicapped... those most hurt by crime," Ms. Vittert said.

So she founded an organization called "Aid to Victims of Crime."

The nonprofit corporation provides services to victims and their families. The help ranges from grocery shopping to filling out insurance claims.

Ms. Vittert's program of aid enlisted the police, hospitals and community figures to serve on the board and donate office space and supplies. Volunteers were recruited from neighborhood associations.

Last March Aid to Victims of Crime was funded by the Lilly Endowment as a pilot project for possible duplication in other cities.

Singer Judy Collins and filmmaker Jill Godmilow, both New Yorkers, were saluted for directing and producing Antonia, a well-received documentary about the life of Antonia Brico, an orchestra conductor.

Ms. Vittert was cited recently by Mademoiselle magazine as one of 11 it named as exceptional young women.

Other winners and their achievements include:

THE LAMMERS, cofounder of Cell Block Theatre, a rehabilitation program for prison inmates. It started when Ms. Lammers, trained as an actress, taught an acting workshop in a prison. Since its inception, Cell Block Theatre, a Manhattan-based project, has won commendations for its weekly acting and writing projects in several prisons, its dramatic productions with inmate casts (permitted to tour with the plays), and its more than 30 poetry shows written and performed by inmates.

In 1974 Ms. Lammers received funding to develop an unusual post-release program called The Crucial Bridge-Gap Therapy project. It is designed to help inmates in the 20 weeks after release.

DONNA KARAN was trained by designer Anne Klein to succeed her as chief designer for Anne Klein & Co. Ms. Klein died suddenly last March and the burden of designing a fall collection for the multimillion dollar New York sportswear firm fell to Ms. Karan. Her designs brought cheers from buyers, fashion reporters and customers.

COLEEN MYERS, a divinity student at Union Theological Seminary in New York, is cofounder of Horizons, an educational task force that organizes seminars, conferences and workshops dealing with human life-cycle crises. As a student chaplain at New York's Bellevue Hospital, Ms. Myers met nurses and other health professionals in need of an outlet for their feelings concerning illness and death. In response, she started a seminar. "My role is to raise some basically religious questions," she said.

FRANCINE PROSE's fables have been compared to Chaucer's. "The Glorious Ones," published in 1974, confirmed her promise as a true storyteller. A Radcliffe graduate and resident of Pittsfield, Mass., Ms. Prose says she discovered her style during a year's stay in India.

RACHEL SCOTT, author of "Muscle and Blood," spent nearly four years investigating safety and health conditions in mines, factories, mills and on farms. Her findings show that thousands die or are disabled by occupational diseases and job-related accidents often resulting from poor safety standards. In 1974, Ms. Scott became the first director of health and safety for the Illinois Industrial Commission.

LESLIE CROCKER SNYDER, a Manhattan assistant district attorney, is one of the first women to handle heavy felonies in a homicide bureau. Throughout her seven years as a public defender, Ms. Snyder's primary concern has been the prosecution of sex crimes. In the fall, she became head of a new section that deals exclusively with these crimes.

PROFESSOR J.J. WILSON and KAREN PETERSEN. Ms. Wilson, of Penngrove, Calif., and Ms. Petersen, a graduate student and resident of Cotati, Calif., were saluted for a slide library on great women artists, past and present. It started as a research project for a course on women's literature at California State College at Sonoma.

Mrs. Zincone Gives Program

Mrs. Louis Zincone presented the program Wednesday morning to the Grass Roots Garden Club, showing slides taken during the Greenville Bicentennial last October.

The slides represented a record of the Greenville Bicentennial as photographed by the Greenville Camera Club. Dr. Louis Zincone is a member of the club.

Mrs. Robert Merritt and Mrs. David O'Neil were co-hostesses for the meeting. Invited guests included Mrs. A.E. Brown Sr., Mrs. John A. Moore, and Mrs. Barbara Johnson.

Mrs. Thurston Wynne Jr. presided over the business meeting.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Hecker with Mrs. Leon Williamson as co-hostess.

Bridge Winners Announced

Mrs. David Stevens and Mrs. William McConnell were first place winners in the Wednesday morning duplicate bridge game at Planters Bank.

Others who placed were: Mrs. John Richards and Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, second; Mrs. Warren McAdams and Mrs. Charles Rucker, third.

Wednesday afternoon winners included: Mrs. S.M. Woolfolk and Mrs. Cora Powell, first; Mrs. Effie Williams and Mrs. George Martin, second; Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts and Mrs. Lacy Harrell, third; Mrs. M.H. Bynum and Mrs. Frank Moseley, fourth.

Saturday afternoon winners at first Federal Savings and Loan were:

North-South: Rose Cox and Kitty Meares, first; Frances Walker and Johnny Rawlings, second; Al Dewey and James Boone, third; Dorothy Ritchy and Mildred Harker, fourth; Lee Rucker and Trish Friestadt, fifth.

East-West: David Proctor and Steve Callihan, first; Joe Hatch and Satoru Tanabe, second; Joyce Lamm and Dorothy Barnhill, third; Myrt Johnson and Graham Lane, fourth; Mrs. George Martin and Dr. Charles Duffy, fifth.

An Opportunity To Sound-Off

If hearings on electric rates accomplish nothing else, they give citizens an opportunity to express their dissatisfaction with rapidly increasing monthly utilities bills.

State Attorney General Rufus Edmisten held a hearing here last week, one of a series around the state, to hear complaints from area citizens.

One local housewife told the attorney general, that instead of asking about the children, the ladies ask about the electric bill when they get together.

Another lady indicated that her monthly bill was good for a "mild heart attack."

A man said he had purchased an electric generator which he would run for a month to see if it brought the electric bill down.

Almost everyone complained about the fuel charge, which is listed separately on Greenville Utilities bills each month and is becoming an ever increasing part of the total bill every month.

The attorney general offered some hope for relief. He said he was not out to "get" the utilities. But, "we must redo the entire utilities law in this state . . . from the beginning. The manner in which we make rates helps no one."

"With cooperation between my office, the power companies and the General Assembly . . . I hope we can make sense out of this mess."

Well, we all recognize that electricity is not likely to ever be as economical again as it was a few years back—not unless some new energy source is found.

Still it is clear that the present method of setting rates by the regulatory agencies is not effective in this time of rapidly rising energy costs. The companies should never have been given the right to merely pass on increased fuel costs to the customers. Any increase in rates, or whatever the electric customer pays, should be specifically approved by the State Utilities Commission or the Federal Power Commission.

The state can't do anything about the FPC, but it can revise our laws so that fuel charges and everything else charged by the companies is reviewed by the State Utilities Commission.

Ethics Always Raised

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — One of the biennial highlights of the North Carolina legislative session is the debate over ethics.

Someone, quite frequently a Republican or a freshman who campaigned on a pledge to clean up Raleigh, introduces an ethics bill. He finds, to his initial delight, that everyone in the Senate and House is a strong supporter of ethics. It ranks right up there with motherhood and the Bible.

Then the shooting starts, usually in committee. A little something is taken out here, a little something there. Lawyers assert their right to secret relationships with their clients.

Pretty soon, the ethics bill holds water about as well as the Titanic, and it is mercifully dispatched to a committee which gives it solemn funeral rites.

Part of the problem with ethics legislation is that it's the type of thing legislators think should apply to everyone else. But by its very nature, the North Carolina legislature is rife with potential conflicts of interest for every reader.

It is a "citizen legislature."

THIS AFTERNOON Events Push N.C. Action

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A California court decision, candidacy for the office of chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court by a non-lawyer, and a growing list of non-lawyer district court judges all combine to lend impetus to a revival in the General Assembly of a new system for selection of judges.

Judges are currently elected; ranging from local district elections for district court judges to statewide election of superior court, appeals court, and supreme court judges.

The change, requiring an amendment to the State Constitution, would set up a nominating commission to present a slate of potential judges to the governor who would pick the people to sit on the bench.

If approved by the General Assembly, the measure would be subject to voter approval in the November general election next year.

Lawyer Domination?

Beaten down in previous sessions of the assembly, critics argued that the merit selection system would take selection of judges away from the people, and put it in the hands of a select few on the nominating commission—dominated by lawyers.

State Rep. Herbert L. Hyde of Asheville, principal sponsor of the merit selection proposal in the House of Representatives, says the new proposal for a "broadly-based nominating commission speaks to that criticism."

The commission would be composed of a member of the Supreme Court, elected by colleagues; four licensed lawyers, each living in a different judicial district, elected by the State Bar Council; four citizens who could not be licensed lawyers, appointed by the governor; and two citizens who must not be lawyers, appointed respectively by the president pro-tempore of the Senate and the speaker of the house.

To further spread participation across the state, no two members of the commission could come from the same judicial district.

Even though public election of judges is currently the method used in North Carolina, the effect of long terms has been that some 80 per cent of the judges now working were first installed by appointment through the governor—in the absence of a formal nominating commission.

Public election would still be a feature of the merit selection system, but in a reverse exercise: Voters would choose at the end of a judge's term in office whether or not he should be kept on the job. If more than 40 per cent of the voters said No, a vacancy would be created and the nominating process used to fill the post.

Rejection System

Statewide retention or rejection votes would be taken on appeals court or supreme court posts; district votes on superior and district court jobs. Another effect of this would be to remove from statewide ballots the obscure names of superior court candidates in far-removed districts. Election would take place at the end of eight-year terms in statewide posts; six-year terms in district posts.

State Senator Willis P. Whichard of Durham, who opposed merit selection of judges last year when a member of the House of Representatives, joins Hyde in pushing the measure this year.

Both sponsors say that approval is an "uphill fight" keyed to whether or not there is organized opposition. If the measure is defeated, the pair say, then legislation would be pushed which would at least require that all judges have legal training; also a step which would call for amending the State Constitution.

Whichard and Hyde both feel the pressure for a merit selection process is keen enough to dictate the major battle which looms.

The Supreme Court of California recently ruled that allowing non-lawyer judges to preside over trials of criminal offense which could lead to jail sentences violates the right to due process for defendants. If applied to North Carolina, major disruption of the courts would result.

Whichard thinks there is a trend toward lay judges in North Carolina which he finds disturbing. There are, he said, currently 10 district court judges who are not lawyers, and in the Eighth District (Goldsboro) three of the four district court judges are laymen.

Also troubling legislators is the recent candidacy of a non-lawyer for the post of chief justice of the Supreme Court, in which the Republican candidate polled 250,000 votes, despite lack of endorsement from Republican Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr.

"The qualified candidate won overwhelmingly," Whichard recalls, "but in a year with a different political atmosphere the result could have been very different."

By ART BUCHWALD How To Grab Attention

WASHINGTON—It's very hard at a party to get any attention. Nothing shocks people any more and you really have to be on your toes to get somebody to listen to you.

ART BUCHWALD

I realized this the other night when I was at dinner and someone turned to Don Cook and said, "Where are you going after you leave Washington?"

"Los Angeles," he replied. This landed like a dull thud until he added, "by train."

Public Forum

To the editor:

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 states as its primary objective "the development of viable urban communities by providing decent housing and a suitable living environment and expanding economic opportunities, principally for persons of low and moderate income". Taking a close look at the City of Greenville's preliminary proposal for Community Development funds suggests that perhaps this legislative focus has been misrepresented. This is not to say that low and moderate income areas have not been paid significant attention in this preliminary draft; however, I see $95,000 in proposed expenditures for recreation, $132,475 for streets and sidewalks, and $65,000 for planning and management, all of which do not seem directly related to persons of low and moderate incomes. This represents a total of $292,475 of Community Development funds that might better be allocated to meet Greenville's pressing needs. Many of the proposed expenditures among this $292,475 do represent valid needs of the City but must be considered in light of the legislation and should logically be approached via other City funds. An example of proposed expenditures that could be expanded is the $100,000 item for a housing rehabilitation grant program; seemingly many more dollars could be spent to upgrade deteriorated housing. In closing, my purpose is to challenge an open discussion regarding Community Development needs as the City Council comes close to voting on a final plan.

To the editor:

Now is the time for all individuals who believe that American society must offer equal protection under the law to both men and women to stand up and be counted. How? — by communicating with our elected representatives in the North Carolina General Assembly (Rep. Sam Bundy, Rep. Horton Rountree, Sen. Vernon White, Sen. Julian Allsbrook, North Carolina Legislative Building, Raleigh, N.C., 27611) and urging ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the United States Constitution.

The 19th Amendment to the Constitution, which granted suffrage to women, became law of the land in 1920. North Carolina did not ratify it until 1971, more than 50 years later. What is most important is that the dire results presaged by opponents of the 19th Amendment are the same specious arguments used by anti-ERAs today. The past 50 years have proved that these arguments were totally unfounded — the family has remained intact and millions of women continue to elect to be homemakers. This time, let us do our utmost to assure that North Carolina is part of the mainstream of contemporary American thought and practices.

If every individual in our state and country is to be afforded the opportunity to develop to his or her fullest potential, then ratification of this amendment is essential.

The INSIDE REPORT Rhetoric Facing Reality

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CAIRO—The real and pervasive fear of a new war against Israel dominates every aspect of political discussion in Cairo, a fact that makes Israel's use of the key Sinai passes as her most important bargaining chip seem slightly ludicrous.

If the Mitla and Gidda passes did return to Egyptian control, it is true that any future Israeli thrust back to the Suez Canal would be far more costly. But that is not part of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's formula. He wants Israel to withdraw behind the passes, but definitely not to be replaced by the Egyptian army.

Yet, even if the Egyptians did gain military control of the passes, both Egyptians and other military sources here agree there is no conceivable way that control of the passes would expose Israel proper to any threat from Egypt.

As an offensive force, we were told, the Egyptian army is not capable today of waging war.

Indeed, there is full appreciation of that incontrovertible fact in Israel despite the bloody surprise of the October 1973 war when the Egyptians momentarily ended the long era of Israeli invulnerability by crossing the canal and destroying the Bar-Lev line. So confident is Israel on that score that some officials here believe that if Kissinger fails and Israel and Syria get embroiled in new fighting on the Golan heights, Israel might unilaterally pull its Sinai army back to the passes without the slightest military risk.

The reason: to signal Cairo it neither wants nor fears a second front in the Sinai.

That would be the height of cynicism, a Western diplomat told us. But it would reflect a military fact of life. It would also pose a horrible dilemma for President Anwar Sadat: court Arab world fury by staying out, or watch his army be destroyed by getting in.

Sadat has been engaged for months in signaling both Israel and his Arab brothers loudly and clearly that he must not and cannot become engaged in a new war with Israel. That implicit renunciation has antagonized some younger and middle-level army officers, who recall the glorious days of the first stage of the October war—before Israel received huge American replacements and rolled across the canal at Suez City to see the road to Cairo open.

But Sadat's senior commanders and his war minister, Abdel Ghani el-Gamassi, fully agree with Sadat that without Soviet replacements for the arms lost in 1973 the Egyptian army is simply incapable of offensive action. For them, discretion is by far the better part of valor.

The more important proof of Sadat's no-war policy is the vast investment he is now making to rebuild his canal cities. Each dollar Sadat spends—in Port Taufik, reduced to rubble by Israel, in Suez City, partially destroyed in the 1973 war, in Ismailia, in Kantara West and in the wreckage of other canal towns—is a visible and costly hostage to Israel.

Beyond that, this largest, most important Arab state, lacking its neighbors oil wealth, is desperately impoverished, short of such basic commodities as sugar, tea, wheat and soap and forced to pay extravagantly for vital fertilizer (up $175 a

Strength For Today

SUZANNA WESLEY
Suzanna Wesley, the mother of John Wesley, was an outstanding Christian and was perhaps the most important formative influence upon her son, John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist Church. She took very seriously the command to bring up her children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. In an age like ours in which we hear so much about the inability of parents to direct their children toward happy and constructive lives, she is a splendid example of the complete fulfillment of the parental role.

Her definition of sin gives us an insight into her spiritual nature. "Whatever weakens your reason," she said, "impairs the tenderness of your conscience, obscures your sense of God, takes away your relish for spiritual things; whatever increases the authority of your body over your mind—that is sin."

Suzanna Wesley would have scoffed at the idea that she was a theologian, but her definition of sin is surprisingly accurate. She knew little of philosophy, but she knew much of life.

Raising The 'Ante' On Tax Cut

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — An MIT economist who was among the first to call for a $20 billion tax cut now has raised his estimate to a "conservative" $30 billion to $40 billion "in order to avert disaster."

His suggestion came in a harsh criticism of the Ford administration program which he said would raise prices, increase unemployment, reduce output, raise the budget deficit and favor public over free enterprise growth.

Francis Modigliani, a professor of international finance and economics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology who made the statement, also is president-elect of the prestigious American Economic Association.

In an interview, Modigliani said he wished to express "my astonishment and great disillusionment" with the Ford program, which he said is widely held by economists to be inconsistent and even contradictory in goals and approach.

His tax-cut recommendation is predicated on the assumption that the administration's proposal for $30 billion in higher fuel taxes will not take effect.

One-half the reduction would come in a permanent cut in income taxes, Modigliani said, and the other half as a reduction in employe and employer contributions to Social Security.

"What is needed now is a strong fiscal stimulus," he said. The Social Security tax reduction "would put more spending money immediately in the hands of workers, reduce employer costs of doing business and tend to reduce prices."

He said Congress should take over the stabilization program from the administration, whose program is ill-conceived and poorly structured.

If you ask a competent economist for a plan that would worsen the nation's economic ills, Modigliani said, he would say:

"Put a heavy tax on some major commodity, such as oil. Make sure that the dollars collected by this tax are not returned to the people. Get people out of work in the private sector and rehire them in the public sector. Institute a tight monetary policy and then subsidize investments. Increase the cost of food stamps and don't let Social Security payments increase with prices."

That, he said, is the Ford program.

Modigliani said the administration's most sought-after target is higher unemployment "because they think that's the only way to fight inflation. That is unacceptable, both in the short run and the long run."

"There is little evidence that increasing unemployment to 9 per cent from 6 per cent gives anything in the way of reducing inflation," he said. He suggested an interim goal of under 6 per cent unemployment.

The administration is making the error of trying to wipe out inflation too quickly, he said. "Let's aim at reasonable unemployment and inflation will gradually go. We shouldn't try to make it disappear overnight."

That means the members don't get paid enough for being legislators to support themselves. They've got to have another occupation. Most everyone wants it that way.

But the fact that everyone — with a few exceptions such as housewives and retirees — gets his bread elsewhere raises many interesting conflicts.

Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, was a staunch opponent in 1973 of legislation that would have given environmentalists the right to sue the state and make it enforce anti-pollution laws. Messer is employed by a paper company whose factory sits on the banks of a river.

Sen. William Mauney, D-Cleveland, has been a voracious foe of a proposal that would end the tax-free status of dividends paid by North Carolina corporations. He said it was an affront to widows who put their live savings into Tar Heel stock. He did not feel it politic to mention that the proposal, if enacted, would also take money out of the pocket of the majority stockholder in Mauney Hosiery Mills, Inc.

And what about the lawyers who vote against no-fault auto insurance? The teachers who vote on raises for teachers? The female legislators who vote on the Equal Rights Amendment? The male legislators who vote on the Equal Rights Amendment?

Clearly, it would be impossible to eliminate conflicts of interests unless legislators themselves were eliminated and the laws drafted by a panel of computers.

It is equally impossible to write a law that discriminates between the everyday conflicts, such as women and the ERA, and some of the more blatant examples of legislators feathering their own nest at the expense of the public.

With that in mind, many realistic legislators are beginning to think that the best thing to do is to bring the conflicts out in the open.

Legislation has been introduced that would require all legislators to simply list their financial and business interests for the public record. That done, they would be free to do as they pleased, and the voters could judge their actions.

Some are still hoping that a "Committee on Ethics" can be established to police the legislature. But given the history of past ethics bills, a full disclosure law is probably the strongest act that will emerge from this General Assembly.

ton or four fold higher than a year ago).

Supplies for rebuilding the canal cities never arrive on time, and transport is critically short to get them to the canal, which won't open for business at least until summer, even if Kissinger's diplomacy succeeds. In Suez City, for example, Sadat had planned construction of 14,000 new housing units by January (financed by King Faisal of Saudi Arabia). The completion date has now slipped to next July.

Everywhere one looks here there is evidence of economic decay and stagnation resulting from years of heavy military spending against Israel. Lack of capital investment money is endemic (hotel rooms could be tripled and there would still be shortages). Day after day, the population rises ominously, doubling the mouths to feed and jobs to find every 25 years.

Yet, even though Sadat is trying hard, the Arab-Israeli struggle is still frozen in the outmoded dialogue of war and confrontation. It is constricted by Pan-Arab politics here and by domestic politics in Israel from turning to the new page opened by Kissinger. The surface debate boils around the Mita and Gidda passes, which are symbols of a departed era, and ignores except by indirection the hopeful prospect that could lie ahead.

Asserts Navy '2nd To None'

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., says he can assure Americans "that any report that our Navy is not a first-rate power is untrue and a play on words."

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, speaking Saturday at ceremonies marking the start of construction of the frigate Mississippi, said U. S. naval forces still are "more than a match for any aggressor."

And, he added, "We shall remain the best, and we owe to any adversary who might challenge that concept." In fact, Stennis said he could not see any danger at this time the U. S. military will lose its superiority over any other nation in the world.

The keel of the frigate was authenticated by Stennis' wife, Coy, who welded her initials into the keel assembly at the Newport News Shipbuilding &

Dry Dock Co., where the Virginia-class vessel will be constructed.

The $250 million Mississippi, whose primary purpose will be to provide antisubmarine and anti-aircraft protection for aircraft carrier task forces, is the third of five vessels of its class planned by the Navy.

The Virginia-class frigates, which also may be used for independent operations, are designed to operate 10 years without refueling. The third ship named Mississippi, a battleship launched here in 1917, won eight battle stars in World War II and helped move the Navy into the age of guided missile warfare by successfully test-firing the Terrier missile off Cape Cod in 1953.

Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf and Adm. H.G. Rickover, regarded as the father of the nuclear Navy, were among others present at the keel-laying ceremonies.

New Ruler Of Nepal Crowned

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) —

Seated cross-legged on his dynastic throne under a canopy of nine golden cobras, Nepal's young absolute monarch received the plumed crown of his Himalayan kingdom in a Hindu ritual.

"For the welfare of the people, I am about to crown you," the High Priest of the realm chanted today as the sun dissipated a mountain mist over a tiny inner courtyard of the carved-wood royal palace.

"For the welfare of the people, I am ready to be the king," 29-year-old Birendra Bir Bikram Shah Deva responded. "I will be popular like the raindrop. I will be friendly like the sun."

As a royal astrologer with a big pocket watch signaled the propitious moment of 8:37 a.m., the priest placed the jeweled crown on the head of the 10th ruler in the 200-year-old Shah dynasty.

Birendra, who has been running the country since the death of his father, King Mahendra, in January 1972, assumed the title "Incarnation of Vishnu, King of Kings, the Five Times Godly, Valorous Warrior and Divine Emperor."

Wearing a diamond-studded crown, 25-year-old Queen Aishwarya Rajya Laxmi Devi Shah sat beside her Harvard-educated husband on the throne draped with skins of a bull, a wildcat, a leopard, a lion and a tiger.

More than 100 foreign representatives, including Prince Charles of Britain and Crown Prince Akihito of Japan, looked on as Birendra sat with regal calm and the palace band played a cacophonous Hindu hymn.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, the Illinois Republican and former camera manufacturer, moved about the courtyard in his morning suit taking movies of the ceremony.

A bevy of white-clad priests with yellow satin caps shuffled about the king, sprinkling him with holy water, purified butter, milk and curd as a priest read an 80-verse section of the Vedic scriptures on which the coronation is based.

"You are the womb of the rule," he chanted. "You are the vagina of the rule. You are the umbilical cord of the rule."

Members of the royal family and the government filed before the king and queen to pay obeisance and drop coins of tribute at their feet. First in line was 3-year-old Crown Prince Deependra Bir Bikram

Shah Dev, who saluted his father and staggered under the weight of his military uniform and royal robes.

Farmville Policeman's Effort Wins Award

AT AWARDS PRESENTATION . . . Farmville town administrator W. A. Martin, Peace officer of the Month Cpl. John W. Ellis, Mid-East Criminal Justice

Policy Committee chairman Chief Glenn Cannon of Greenville, and Farmville Police Chief Carl Tanner.

FARMVILLE—The quick-thinking action of Farmville Police Cpl. John Wayne Ellis possibly saved the life of a tanker truck driver, prevented the loss of thousands of dollars in property damages and also earned Ellis the "Peace Officer of the Month" award.

then cut off the tanker pump and alerted the fire department. The prompt action taken by Ellis possibly prevented a loss of life and property damage stemming from the incident. The Mid-East Criminal Justice Division presented the award monthly to officers, like Ellis, who display professionalism in law enforcement within Region Q, which encompasses Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin and Pitt Counties.

The award, presented last week at the Mid-East Criminal Justice Policy Committee's monthly meeting, commended Ellis for outstanding service to the citizens of Farmville and the criminal justice system. He was selected from a number of nominees from various law enforcement agencies within the five-county Mid-East region.

During a routine patrol on December 18, Ellis' attention was drawn to a tanker surrounded by a growing gasoline spill at a Farmville car wash establishment. The officer conducted a closer investigation and discovered the driver of the truck asleep behind the wheel. Several hundred gallons of gasoline had overflowed the tanks at the car wash, spilling into the lot and street.

Burger Flays Congress For 'Speedy Trial Act'

By CHRIS J. HARPER
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has assailed Congress for approving legislation that calls for speedier federal trials without providing enough money to meet the new law's requirements. "If we are not given the tools to meet the demands of the Speedy Trial Act . . . we may well be confronted with a crisis, particularly in the larger districts," Burger said Sunday in his fifth State of the Judiciary message at the mid-year convention of the American Bar Association.

Burger estimated that $10 million, or twice the amount of the U.S. Supreme Court's annual budget, may be needed for additional equipment and personnel to meet the requirements of the act.

The law, which was approved in December and takes effect in July, provides that trials of all federal criminal defendants must begin within 100 days of the indictment. Under the current law, criminal cases must be disposed within 180 days after the indictment.

The act stipulates that the transition will be made in stages over the next four years.

Although Burger said he agreed with the law's intentions, he charged that Congress failed to adequately investigate the proposal's impact on the federal judicial system. The chief justice said that the act only posed another burden on the federal court system, already strapped with an increased workload because of a rising crime rate and lack of personnel.

During the past decade, federal, civil and criminal cases have increased 45 per cent in the courts, he said. Federal appeals also have risen substantially — from one-third of all persons convicted in 1964 to three-fourths in 1974.

Two Wrecks Here Sunday

More than $1,000 damage resulted from two collisions investigated here yesterday by Greenville Police.

Heaviest damage, according to investigators, occurred when a car driven by Phillip Wayne Jackson of 1412 East 14th St. collided with a parked car owned by Wanda Whitehurst Nunn of Riverview Estates about 2:22 p.m. on Cedar Lane, 45 feet South of the Rose Street intersection.

Investigators, who charged Jackson with operating left of center, reported two passenger in the Jackson car received minor injuries in the collision. Damage was estimated at $100 to the Jackson car and $500 to the Nunn vehicle.

James Worsley Jr. of 1309 Colonial Ave. was charged with operating left of center following investigation of a 7:30 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive, 75 feet North of the Holbert St. intersection.

Officers reported the Worsley car collided with a vehicle driven by Joe Cullen Daniels of 203 Woodside Dr. resulting in an estimated $400 damage to the Daniels vehicle and $85 to the Worsley car.

Larceny Charge Warrant Issued

A warrant has been issued, charging Freeman Stinson of 110 West 16th St. with larceny after breaking and entering in connection with the theft of an estimated $500 worth of merchandise from a house at 124 West 16th St.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said the theft was reported February 19.

He noted that a sofa, two chairs, two end tables, a coffee table, two bags of coal, an iron stove, a kitchen table, one deacon's bench, a television and curtains and curtain rods were reported taken from the dwelling.

Cannon noted that an estimated $75 worth of goods reported taken from the home have been recovered.

Cleaning Up Derailment

OLD FORT, N.C. (AP) — Traffic on Southern Railway's main line between Asheville and Salisbury was expected to return to normal today following a train derailment early Sunday.

Four engines and 12 cars of a freight train jumped the tracks one mile west of Old Fort, injuring some of the crewmembers, while the train was descending a steep mountain grade.

Railroad cleanup crews hoped to have the tracks cleared by late Sunday night.

A Southern Railway spokesman said the cause of the accident was still under investigation.

The injured crewmen were treated for cuts and abrasions, but were not hospitalized.

A roundtrip Asheville-Salisbury passenger train was canceled and two freight trains were diverted through Spartanburg, S.C.

The train appeared to be traveling at a normal rate of speed at the time of the derailment, authorities said.

Power Lobbyists Beginning To Be Heard

By CATHY STEELE ROCHE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Power company lobbyists have been running a tough race against consumer outrage in the 1975 General Assembly, but Duke Power Co. vice president John Hicks thinks the utilities may be catching up.

Hicks, who is a registered lobbyist for Duke, said in a recent interview that legislators are beginning to be more receptive to information being supplied by the power companies. "In the last two weeks I've seen a marked change. They are beginning to get concerned about the power situation in the state," Hicks said. He said legislators are coming to realize that "It is bad to pay high prices, but far worse to be without electric power."

Hicks is one of at least half a dozen power company lobbyists registered with the Secretary of State. Carolina Power and Light Co. and Virginia Electric and Power Co. also have representatives who rove the halls of the legislative building, offering information to lawmakers.

Hicks and Vepco's Charles Guthridge both emphasize that their role is that of educator. They say they don't try to arm twist, but make information available to legislators to guide in consideration of utilities issues.

Guthridge, a young man with wire rim glasses and modishly long hair, said he would not presume to tell a legislator how to vote. He said that in addition to lawmakers he talks to staff assistants to the House and Senate Utilities Committees who he said are making an effort to inform themselves thoroughly on the issues.

"The two committees are making a conscious effort to educate themselves and that is very refreshing to see," Guthridge said.

Both Hicks and Guthridge play down entertainment of legislators.

"I have not bought a dinner for a legislator yet," Hicks said of the current session. He added, "I have had legislators buy me as many meals as I have bought them in the last 15 years."

Nevertheless, Duke's lobbyist in 1973 and 1974 L. L. Ray, reported spending $1,387.22 on "meals and refreshments at various places with members of the General Assembly" during the 1973 session. Documents filed with the Secretary of State indicate Ray spent $716.69 on entertainment of legislators in the 1974 session. His total expenses, including personal living expenses in Raleigh, totaled $5,483.63 for the two sessions.

Hicks, although active in Raleigh during the last session, was not registered as a lobbyist, so his expenses went unreported.

CP&L lobbyist A. A. Zollicoff fer Jr. reported spending $1,536 on "meals, refreshments and entertainment with members of the General Assembly" in 1973 and 1974.

Most lawmakers are quick to say they have never been entertained by power company lobbyists, though they are willing to say they have seen other legislators dining with utility representatives. There is a feeling among legislators that the lobbyists concentrate their efforts on persons they feel may be favorable to them and don't approach hard-core opponents.

One representative who did not want to be quoted said lobbyists often sought out the House leadership to discuss particular issues and depended on the leaders to influence their colleagues.

Hicks said, "If I know somebody is purely and thoroughly anti-public utility, I don't bother with them. But if I just stuck to people that agreed with my position, I might not talk to too many."

Legislators said lobbyists for the power companies were busy on the House side last week before the vote on Rep. Herbert Hyde's bill to repeal the forward test year, although Hicks commented after the favorable vote, "There wasn't any way in the world to stop it."

Power representatives lobbied successfully for an amendment to the bill that allows utilities to continue to update figures through the period that a rate increase is being considered by the Utilities Commission.

Appearances before the Utilities Committees by the power company presidents have highlighted the telling of the utility story during the session.

CP&L president Shearon Harris arrives at the legislature flanked by chart-carrying assistants. When it's time to take the floor, the charts unfold in a brightly colored array, showing more facts and figures than anyone could hope to hear.

Harris himself has registered as a lobbyist along with Zollicoff, CP&L vice president Sherwood Smith, William Graham Jr. and Les Branson.

Hicks and Guthridge report no hostility on the part of legislators toward them, although they admit they are working in a difficult climate.

Rep. Marilyn Bissell, R-Mecklenburg, suggested that entertaining on the part of utility lobbyists may have declined as the result of a recent probe of an alleged political slush fund maintained by Southern Bell. "I think the fallout from Southern Bell and their problems has hit CP&L and Duke," she said.

Mrs. Bissell and other lawmakers agreed that they do not need to be shielded from the efforts of lobbyists to influence them. Rep. Wade Smith, D-Wake, the sponsor of a bill to toughen the state's lobbying law said the bill was designed to let the public know who was being paid to influence legislation.

"The legislators don't need it," Smith said.

OUR 1975 LOAN POLICY. WHAT WE'RE DOING AS OPPOSED TO WHAT YOU'RE THINKING.

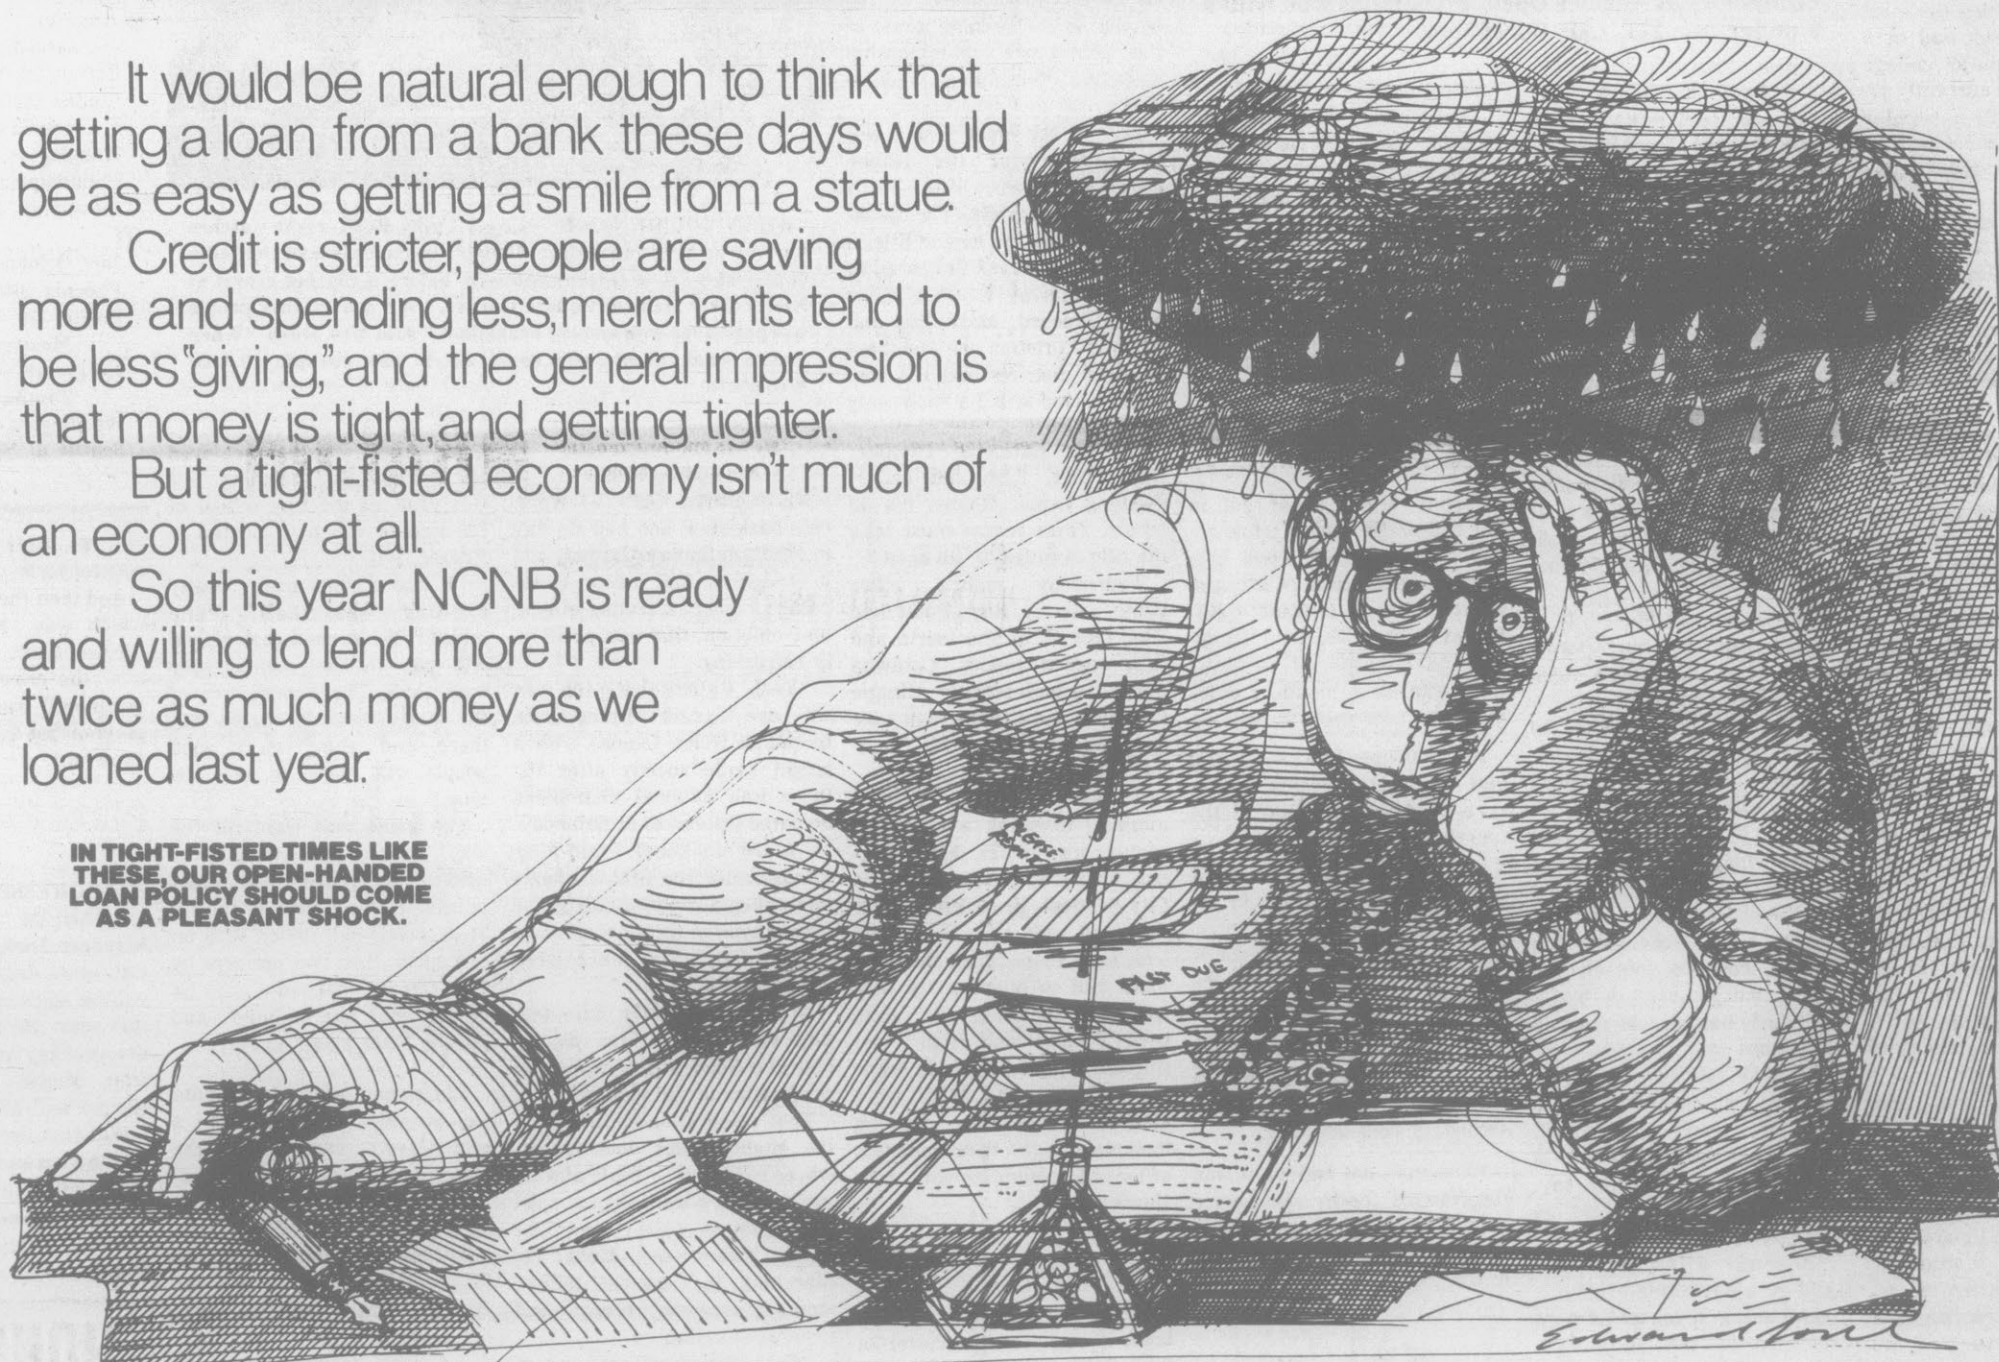

It would be natural enough to think that getting a loan from a bank these days would be as easy as getting a smile from a statue.

Credit is stricter, people are saving more and spending less, merchants tend to be less "giving," and the general impression is that money is tight, and getting tighter.

But a tight-fisted economy isn't much of an economy at all.

So this year NCNB is ready and willing to lend more than twice as much money as we loaned last year.

IN TIGHT-FISTED TIMES LIKE THESE, OUR OPEN-HANDED LOAN POLICY SHOULD COME AS A PLEASANT SHOCK.

Each month during 1975 NCNB will have more than $21 million for people who need it. Family people and single people both. And we'll be as open-handed as possible.

Money for automobiles, major appliances, home improvements, medical and dental expenses, college tuitions, vacations: everything.

So if you've been worrying about where you can go these days for the money to put a car in your garage or to put a garage around your car, well now you can stop worrying.

And if you've been wondering how to bring your daughter to the altar or take your whole family to Acapulco, well now you can relax.

Maybe we're not doing what the other banks are doing. But we think it's what we ought to be doing.

MONEY ISN'T TIGHT AT NCNB.

Fish Seiner Of Fiberglass

SEATTLE (AP) — What is believed to be the largest fish seiner built from fiberglass has been launched by Delta Marine Industries Ltd.

Even stringers and stiffeners, cabin sabin sole and bulkheads are glass. Christened the MS Ingrid, the vessel has a 19½-foot beam, 10½ molded depth, carries 6,200 gallons of diesel fuel, is completely insulated and sleeps nine in deck-level accommodations.

Additionally, the Ingrid packs 54 net tons or 113 gross tons, has two fish holds, one of 1,750 cubic feet and the other of 475 cubic feet. The decks and superstructure are of cored laminate.

The only wood on the vessel is that of the cabinets with guards of iron-bark which are obviously wooden chafing gear.

Rare Tribute To Non-Presidents

Bucs Close Out Regular Cage Season With WCU

East Carolina University closes out the 1974-75 regular season tonight as the Bucs play host to Western Carolina, a long-time rival.

It will be the first time in some time that the two former Carolinas Conference teams have met on the basketball court, and the Bucs hold a slight edge in the series.

Tipoff is set for 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum, with a junior varsity preliminary contest at 5:45 p.m. as the Baby Bucs meet Laurinburg.

While it is the last regular season game for the Pirates, it is not their last home contest. Under the Southern Conference's plan for its annual tournament this year, the top four teams in the regular season will host a lower-bracketed team in the first round on their home floors. The winners move on to the Greenville Auditorium in Greenville, S.C., for the semifinals and finals next week.

The Bucs, finishing second in the league with an 11-3 record, will probably play host to their last victim, The Citadel's Bulldogs, in that first round game. All but two of the league teams have completed conference action—Richmond hosts Appalachian on Wednesday, and an upset win by ASU could move them into seventh, instead of The Citadel.

Saturday night, in Charleston, the Bucs snapped a five-year jinx and finally beat The Citadel on its home court, 87-84, in a game that really wasn't that close. With one minute to go, the Bucs held a 10-point lead, and casted home, playing "a little sloppy" the rest of the way, according to Coach Dave Patton.

Patton, nearing the end of his first year at the Pirate helm, has already led the Bucs to their best year in the Southern Conference, and a victory over Western would give the Pirates the most wins they have ever had in a year since joining major college ranks, 18. They are currently 17-7, the best mark in a regular season since one team went 23-1 back in the NAIA days under Howard Porter.

And the Pirates still have a shot at a 20-game winner, including the tournament.

"We had to play a super game and keep our composure to beat The Citadel," Patton said. "They shot 59.7 per cent and played out of sight, so you can see that they had a great effort. So we had to have an even better one to win." The Bucs did just that, hitting over 60 per cent, including a 67 per cent performance in the second half.

"We didn't really play good defense in the first half," Patton said. "The players had a tendency to try and double up against (Rodney) McKeever (the league's second leading scorer), and he's such a good passer that he spotted the open man and got the ball to him. We got away from that in the second half and played more one-on-one situations."

Senior guard Donnie Owens had a second straight fine night in the game, pumping in 22 points, most of them from the outside. Gregg Ashorn also had a fine night with 24 points, and Coach Patton felt Earl Garner's play, coming off the bench, was outstanding.

As to play The Citadel again, Patton isn't uptight about it. "We have to play someone, and unless it was Furman or Appalachian, it would be someone we've beaten twice. But our kids should realize from the game that they're no pushover."

FLAMINGO ON MARCH 1
HIALEAH, Fla.—(AP) — If Jacinto Vasquez gets a mount in the Flamingo, to be run at Hialeah on March 1, the Panama jockey will be seeking his third victory in the last five runnings. He won the race with Our Native in 1973 and with Excutioner in 1971.

The Flamingo is one of the stakes races which afford a line on Kentucky Derby horses. In 1961, Carry Back won the $100,000 stakes and went on to take the Derby at Louisville.

Turning to tonight's game, Patton noted that Western Carolina's record of 14-10 is deceiving. "They lost by only ten points to Marquette, one of the

Big Early Lead Spelled A Win By Fitzsimons

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I thought if I shot 65 I would win," said Jack Nicklaus. "I didn't know how this young boy would react."

Nicklaus shot his 65, but he didn't win. That's because the reaction of the young boy, Pat Fitzsimons, was a clinching string of 14 consecutive pars — a hard-won string put together in the face of growing pressure — that secured his first professional triumph in Sunday's final round of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

FitzSimons was staked to a six-shot lead by his course-record 64 in Saturday's third round and clinched it with a gritty, steady, one-under-par 70 over the last 18 holes of the demanding, 7,028-yard Riviera Country Club course.

He won by a comfortable four strokes with a 275 total. The big lead starting the final round was the difference.

"With a six-stroke lead, you want to concede yourself the victory, but you can't do that," the curly-haired, 24-year-old FitzSimons said.

"It's like looking at a three-foot putt for six hours. If you make it, people say, 'Well, that's what he's supposed to do.' If you miss it, they say, 'How in the world could he blow something like that?'"

"Blowing a six-shot lead could be a devastating thing." His closing string of 14 pars precluded that possibility. FitzSimons, who'd never even come close to winning before, left the strongest field of the year strung out well behind him. No one ever got closer than four strokes.

That was Tom Kite, who birdied three of four holes on the back nine for a 68 and finished second at 279. Nicklaus, who started play 10 strokes back in the mild, sunny weather of the final round, made up the lost ground but best teams in the country. They beat Appalachian at Boone, something we couldn't do."

Kirby Thurston leads the Catamounts with a 23.3 average.

The 6-9 center is described by Patton as one of the best big men in the state.

"They're still hoping to get a Division II tournament bid, and a win over us would certainly help their chances," Patton said. "They'll be fired up to beat us." Besides Thurston, Western has two others in double figures, Mike Meadows at 13.5 and Lee Gibbs at 12.3. Four others have scored in double figures during the year, Albert Toomer, Bubba Wilson, John Howard and James Lassiter.

"We're going to approach it like any other game," Patton said. "We know what we have to do, and we'll try to do it." He would like to have a victory to propel the Pirates into the Southern Conference tournament.

First Meet Lenoir Rhyne

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The Guilford Quakers, who have won all their 14 games in the Carolinas Conference, take on Lenoir Rhyne, 3-11 in the league, in the opening game of the conference championship basketball tournament Wednesday.

Five of the eight teams will be battling for the league crown and a berth in the NAIA District 26 playoffs. The Quakers have only the league title in mind. They landed first seed in the playoffs by virtue of their overall record. Mars Hill and Atlantic Christian are members of other districts and the conference title will be their only reward also.

But for Catawba, Pfeiffer, High Point, Elon and cellar-dwelling Lenoir Rhyne, it's do or die. These teams must take the title in order to advance.

Wednesday night's other game will see High Point and Elon face off as the fourth and fifth seeded teams. Catawba meets seventh-seeded Atlantic Christian and Pfeiffer will take on number six Mars Hill Thursday night.

It took a drawing Sunday morning to break a couple of regular-season ties. Mary Garber, sports writer for the Twin City Sentinel, drew Pfeiffer for the third seed to untie a knot with High Point. Then she drew Mars Hill to break a tie with Atlantic Christian for sixth seed. Pfeiffer and High Point finished with 7-7 records while Mars Hill and ACC were knotted at 4-9. The drawing took place in the Winston-Salem office of commissioner Joby Hawn.

Veteran relief pitcher Orlando Pena is on the roster of the California Angels. He's been with seven other major league teams in his career. He has a 56-75 record.

He collected $30,000 from the total purse of $150,000 in this tournament, but said it was a secondary consideration.

"You may not believe it, but the money really is secondary," he said. "I just wanted to do well, to look good in front of that big gallery."

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Wilt Chamberlain, who holds almost every significant offensive mark in the National Basketball Association record book, also holds the record for most free throws missed in a season (578), a regular season game (22) and a playoff game (17).

Suggs And Klas Take Firsts

NEWARK, Del.—Carter Suggs and Jerry Klas captured first in the Delaware Invitational Indoor Track Meet yesterday for East Carolina University.

Suggs and teammate Larry Austin crossed the finish line of the 60-yard dash in the identical time of 6.1 seconds. Two judges picked Suggs as the winner, while one chose Austin. Austin was awarded second place. Maurice Huntley added a third finisher in the race, taking fourth in 6.3 seconds.

Klas' victory came in the 1,000-yard run, as he won in 2:11.8, setting a new school record.

Mel Duckenfield took sixth place in the 600-yard run, just two-tenths of a second off the school standard. Charles Avery was fifth in the 880 in 1:56.4. Sammy Phillips took a third in the 50-yard high hurdles in 7.4 seconds, while Al McCrimmon took fourth in the high jump in 6-6, and Tom Watson was second in the shot put in 51-8 1/2.

The mile relay team took sixth in 3:21.8, another school record. Members of the team and their split times were Ben Duckenfield (49.4) Huntley :49.9; Jim Green :52.4; and Suggs :50.4.

"We did well considering the competition," Coach Bill Carson said. "It was a good warmup for us for the Southern Conference meet." That event is scheduled in Lexington, Va., Friday and Saturday.

'Mighty Macs' Bring Emotion

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's basketball has had its day in Madison Square Garden, and it brought to that indoor sports palace a spirit, a feeling of genuine emotion, that was positively refreshing.

"Yeah, I guess that's the way we are," said Immaculata freshman Helen Canuso with a bright smile shortly after the three-time national champions defeated Queens 65-61 Saturday.

"We're emotional," said Miss Canuso after the first women's intercollegiate basketball game ever played in the Garden. "We all felt really great, and I guess we showed it."

At the final buzzer, Immaculata players and fans poured onto the Garden floor in a wild celebration of the victory.

That celebration continued in the Mighty Macs' lockerroom, where reporters — male and female — were treated to a spirited rendition of the school fight song, "When the Macs Go Marching In," amidst jumps, stomps, screams, cheers and general carrying on.

"That second half was one of the best halves anyone who likes basketball could hope to see," said Immaculata Coach

Maryland 'Lucky' They'll Meet Clemson At Home

By The Associated Press
Maryland is lucky that it will be playing Clemson at home in their critical Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game Wednesday.

The Clemson Tigers showed how tough they are in their own lair by whipping North Carolina State 92-70 Saturday.
Clemson scored 14 straight points in a stretch of two and one-half minutes of the first half to take an 18-6 lead and command of the game.

David Thompson, N.C. State All-American, fouled out with 15:56 left after playing just 15 minutes and 59 seconds and making only 15 points, about half his average.

Maryland will win the ACC regular-season championship and the first round-by in the championship tournament that goes with it if it beats Clemson.

But if Clemson wins, a three-way tie could develop for the lead. This would come about if North Carolina State wins at North Carolina in their 9 p.m. televised game Tuesday night. Then the three teams would have 9-3 records in the league.

At present, Maryland is 9-2 and is 20-3 in all games. N.C. State is 8-3 and 19-4. Clemson also is 8-3 and is 15-8 in all games.

Duke won 107-86 at home over Georgia Tech, led by Pete Kramer with 22 points.
Wake Forest also won at home, but had to stave off a closing rally by Long Island to beat the Blackbirds 83-82. Skip Brown had 29 points for the Deacons.

This is the final week of the regular season in the ACC.
The teams are idle tonight. On Tuesday North Carolina State is at North Carolina and Princeton at Virginia.

Petty Wins Despite 'Errors'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Richard Petty says "I made a couple of mistakes out there and I really could've got myself pretty messed up, but the car was perfect and that made up for those pilot errors."

The Randleman, N. C., Dodge driver was referring to his six-lap victory in Sunday's National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's Richmond 500 Grand National, an event that rapidly is becoming a "Richard Petty Invitational."

in Friday's qualifying, and he held the lead until the 154th lap, when Daytona 500 winner Benny Parsons of Ellerbe, N. C., took advantage of the second of Petty's mistakes.
His first had been a near miss with Dick Brooks in which Brooks spun but Petty didn't. The second, said Petty, "wasn't nobody's fault but mine."

He held it until the 213th lap, when Petty finally ran him down and headed for what proved to be an easy victory. He was a lap ahead of the field by the 302nd lap and went to a four-lap lead when Parsons was forced into the pits with ignition problems.
Except for the 60 laps Parsons was in front, it was Petty all the way for the top money of $6,265. His speed in a race delayed 90 minutes by rain and erated fully), you just plum go sideways."

Petty did, and the field jammed up behind him. Petty came out with a cut left rear tire that forced a pit stop and allowed Parsons to take the lead.

Chevrolet driver Lennie Pond of Petersburg, Va., finished second, followed by Parsons in a Chevrolet and Ford drivers Brooks of Spartanburg, S. C., and Elmo Langley of Charlotte, N. C.
Before he made his two mistakes, Petty had shown the rest of the field who was boss—just as he said he intended:
"Those cats were looking at only one cat to beat, and I knew that, so I got out of there pretty quick. I really didn't want to race against anybody until things settled down, so I went pretty hard from the start and the car did the rest."

North Carolina lost all chance for the regular-season lead by losing 65-62 at Virginia Saturday night. Cool freshman hit three of four foul shots in the final 15 seconds to preserve the victory for the Cavaliers.
North Carolina is fourth in the seven-team league at 6-4 and 16-7. Virginia is next at 4-8 and 11-11.
Then come Duke, 2-9 and 13-11, and Wake Forest, 2-10 and 12-12.

WINSTON-SALEM — D. H. Conley High School placed three wrestlers in the State High School Tournament, and wound up in fourth place in the standings.
Conley concluded the match with 24½ points, good enough for fourth place in the standings. A report carried in Sunday's paper that the Vikings had finished fifth had been based on an incomplete score reported close to press time.
Ricky Phillips took third place for the Vikings, at 121-pounds, while Barry Purser was third at 187. Donnie Cox finished in fourth place at 140.
Six other area wrestlers competed in the tournament, but failed to place. They included Matthew Ward and Jeff Hagans of Rose, Burley Gardner and Earl Harris of Ayden-Grifton, and Gary Locust and Horace Williams of Farmville Central. Each of those schools earned two points each.

Bill Walton Is Out Again

By KEN DONEY
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "There are people who play contact sports who have to face the risk of injury," Bill Walton said softly. "I gambled on that risk and lost this time."

For Walton, the Portland Trail Blazers' controversial rookie, the season appears to be over. He'll have a walking cast for at least the next three weeks and has been ordered to take a complete rest.
It has been a frustrating season for the 6-foot-11 former UCLA All-American, who was the No. 1 choice in last year's National Basketball Association collegiate draft. A bone spur, or whatever is causing the pain in his ankle, has forced him to miss 24 games so far this season.
A dislocated finger sidelined him for two games and he recently had a bout with laryngitis.
Walton was with the Blazers on a four-game road trip when it was decided he should return to Portland to see the team physician, Dr. Frank Smith. He arrived late Friday afternoon. The next day the doctor prescribed rest and the cast.
Walton, now at home in his new $100,000 A-frame along the Willamette River in the Portland suburbs, talked about his frustrating rookie season in a telephone interview Sunday.
"No athlete likes to be forced out of competition," he said. "It just happened ... to me this year, but there are other years."

"We had on new tires and they were cold, and when you do that and get into a little dirt and then you stand on it (accelerate fully), you just plum go sideways."

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — A conflict in races will cause two prominent drivers to miss Sunday's $107,525 Carolina 500 Grand National stock car race at the North Carolina Motor Speedway.
A.J. Foyt and Bobby Allison will be unable to make the 500-mile event because it falls on the same weekend as qualifying for a 500-mile race for Indy-type cars on Ontario, Calif.
Veteran driver Bobby Isaac of Catawba was named Sunday to drive Foyt's Chevrolet, prepared by Hoss Ellington of Wilmington.
However, the Carolina 500 entry list includes every other major Grand National contender.
Isaac, 40, has won more than $500,000 in prize money on the NASCAR Winston Cup circuit during a career that started almost 20 years ago. He has been in semi-retirement for the past few years.
Isaac's entry brings the field to more than 45 drivers. Qualifying begins Friday to select 36 starters.
Early favorites include Richard Petty, Donnie Allison, Cale Yarborough, David Pearson, Buddy Baker and Benny Parsons, upset winner of the Daytona 500.

'Globetrotters' At Coliseum Tuesday

The world famous Harlem Globetrotters, starring Meadowlark Lemon, will be at Minges Coliseum on Tuesday night for a 7:30 p.m. performance.
The Globetrotters, who have been entertaining audiences for some 48 years, will bring an all-star variety show to the East Carolina University campus.
The entertainment schedule, while featuring the Trotters, also include world champion frisbee players, a world champion table tennis exhibition, and other unusual variety attractions.
The Globetrotters, who maintain a search for new talent, continually scout colleges and universities all across the nation. While the Globetrotter scouting corps watches thousands of basketball players in college competition, only 30 or so are invited to try out at a regular training camp held before the team begins its winter tour.
A series of cuts prior to the beginning of the season trims the list of rookies down to a select few and rookies who make the squad join veterans in preparing for the season. In all, only 20 ball players are placed under contract and team are assigned to each of the Globetrotters touring units.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQ3 ♥A8762 ♦Q107 ♣J
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—Two hearts. The hand is a trifle too strong for a jump raise of three spades, so we temporize with two hearts, intending to offer a vigorous raise at our next opportunity. If we jump raise, we won't know what to do when partner next bids four spades.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ732 ♥74 ♦K84 ♠A95
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—Two clubs. Not an easy hand to bid. It is a whit too weak for a jump raise, but far too strong for a simple raise or a jump to four spades. The solution is a temporary bid, to be followed by a spade raise on the next round.

Q.3—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKJ87542 ♥A ♦QJ98
Partner opens the bidding with one club. What do you respond?

A.—Two spades. Support for partner's suit is not a prerequisite for a jump shift. Here, your spade suit is self-sustaining, and you can play in spades even if partner is void in the suit. The important thing is to advise partner immediately that you are interested in slam—if you don't, you might never be able to catch up.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K105 ♥83 ♦1072 ♠Q10952

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Dble. Pass 2 ♠
Pass 3 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Three no trump. Partner must have a pretty good hand to raise you to the three-level when you have not yet promised him a thing. You have a fairly good five-card suit and a solid stopper in the enemy suit. If partner's raise is based on distribution rather than high cards, he is free to return to four clubs.

Q.5—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK10 ♥KJ76 ♦K6 ♠9763
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Six no trump. A simple matter of addition. Partner's jump rebid in no trump shows 19-20 points and you have 14. Thus, you have enough for a small slam and what better place to play the hand than in no trump? Any other bid is simply dallying.

Q.6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J7 ♥AQ106 ♦A98 ♠AJ109
Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—Two clubs. You have the wrong shape for a jump to three no trump, which shows specifically a flat 4-3-3-3 pattern. Here, you could have a slam in either of your suits. You choose two clubs rather than two hearts as your first response because a bid of two hearts almost always shows at least five cards in the suit.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q10962 ♥K873 ♦853 ♠4
Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?

A.—Two spades. Your hand is not strong enough to employ the Stayman Convention to check on major suits. A bid of two clubs in an attempt to probe for a major fit requires a hand of 7-8 points at least.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQJ ♥J7 ♦AK105 ♠KQ76
Partner opens the bidding with four hearts. What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You must be off two aces or an ace and a trump trick. If partner had something like seven hearts headed by the ace-king-queen and an outside ace, he would have opened the bidding with one heart rather than with a preempt.

Tight Job Market Is A Recruiter's Bonanza

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The unemployment office isn't the only place with long lines these days. They're lining up at the Army recruiting offices, too.

Delighted recruiters, who fought unsuccessfully just a year ago to fill quotas, are now jammed with applicants with better qualifications.

"The nice thing about it is the quality," says Sgt. Joe Bocchino, who works here in a city surrounded by suburbs and farms, a relatively affluent area where more than two out of three high school graduates go on to college.

"At one time I used to ask 'Are you a high school graduate?' Now it's almost automatic that I ask, 'How many years of college do you have?'" he says.

Economic conditions are making the Army an ever more attractive lure to youngsters unable to find jobs they had hoped for, reports the officer in charge of the Philadelphia District Recruiting Command.

"People are seeking us out instead of the recruiter going to them," he says. And he adds that instead of trying to butt their heads against the tough job market, many are deciding "to ride it out in the service" for several years.

When the economy started its swan dive late last summer, enlistments began a corresponding surge.

It wasn't until August that the Army started to meet its quota regularly. In November, the Navy steamed past its recruiting goal for the first time since May. The Marine Corps, which had been doing poorest of all services, has been hitting 95 to 100 per cent of its recruiting goals since June, and the Air Force has flown by the 100 per cent notch every month but one for the past year.

"I'm finally getting my message across," says a smiling Sgt. Bocchino. That message has been getting across so well that the Army had to add another man to his recruiting office.

"I wasn't getting any sleep," the sergeant says with a laugh but adds, "I feel tremendous, what more can I say?"

About the only thing left to say is that he could recruit more soldiers — lots more — if the Army could take them.

"They're holding me back. I could put more in if they'd let me."

The changes which have recruits literally knocking down doors to get in have come from within the Army as well as from the stumbling economy.

There is far less "petty harassment," the Army prides itself on being more concerned with the privacy of its soldiers.

Flexibility Aids Ordering New Car

DETROIT (AP) — A little flexibility is the key to getting a new car within hours of walking into the showroom. But if the buyer wants one of those hard-to-find machines, it could be two months before he gets the keys. The average is about three to six weeks.

That's the range found in a spot check of Detroit auto dealers and Big Three automakers. Automakers are willing to ship cars hundreds of miles from one dealer to another to get a car out of stock to a buyer, rather than build one especially for him.

"Today, as compared with six to eight months ago, or even more so compared with 18 months ago, generally we can come up with your car considerably faster," said Jim Conlin, director of the sales section for General Motors. "We've got a considerable inventory, the shelf is full."

But even with a half-million Chevrolets in stock, it's very possible the exact car the buyer wants does not exist. Chevy, for example, can produce up to 350,000 of a single model without making an identical pair, because of the scores of options and colors available.

Ford and Chrysler have nearly similar numbers.

The industry has about 1.6 million cars built and ready to sell.

When the buyer orders his car "the dealer will do his best to sell him a car out of stock, and that means give him a better deal," a Chrysler spokesman said.

Certain cars, such as a full-size car with very little or no optional equipment, are hard to find. "Very few people order them," the Chrysler spokesman said.

The dealer will check his zone and neighboring zones to see if such a car is available. General Motors has 48 U.S. sales zones, Ford 34 and Chrysler, 22.

"We'll dealer trade across sales zones if necessary, from Chicago to St. Louis for example," a Chrysler spokesman said.

If the car isn't there, the order is sent to build it. GM's timetable is typical.

The order is mailed to the central office, where it is double-checked and put into the firm's computer system. That takes 10 to 30 days depending on the mail and whether the original order is correct.

It takes another 10 days to get the combination of the order and parts from 13,000 suppliers to the assembly line and the car built. Another 10 to 20 days elapses while the car is shipped by rail and truck to the dealer who gives it a once over and hands the new owner his keys.

"Remember, if one part is missing, you can't build that guy's car," Conlin said.

Delays can come if the plant that build's the buyer's choice is closed. The length of delay can vary widely depending on the firm.

American Motors has only two North American car assembly plants, Chrysler, seven; Ford, 17, and GM, 25.

Houseboat Has Garden On Raft

SEATTLE (AP) — It all started when a decrepit raft banged against the Stephen Dunphy Houseboat on Lake Union.

Dunphy eyed it and decided to renovate the raft into a garden. Repairs cost $35 for 2 by 8 planks, boxes for vegetables, $35. A couple of old washtubs from a salvage bureau cost almost nothing.

Ten 35-pound bags of dirt, aided and abetted by six 40 pound bags of manure plus one bag of peat moss — cost — $35.

Once the garden was completed and seeds planted Dunphy grew carrots, lettuce, spinach, cucumbers, pole string beans. All were a success except the cucumbers which didn't come up to expectations.

Varmint-Callers Are Organized

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP) — In this southeastern New Mexico community, they have a varmint calling championship.

The Artesia Varmint Callers' and Gun Club Assn.'s rules permit special hunting arrangements for coyotes, bobcats and foxes.

In 1974, Keith Riley and his partner, Phil Stell, both of Carlsbad, collected 11 coyotes and a fox.

Good Time To Buy That Home

By DOROTHEA BROOKS
United Press International
If you are in the market for a house, and can afford one, now is a good time to buy, the experts advise.

That's all well and good—if you can get a mortgage. This was the big problem in 1974 for prospective buyers and it made it tough, too, for those who had to sell their homes.

There are signs it's getting easier, but even if the usual channels prove difficult there are ways.

For example, RELO-Inter-City Relocation Service, a real estate referral service of brokers in all parts of the country, reports its members were able to help 16 per cent more families become homeowners in 1974 than in the previous peak year of 1973, when traditional types of financing were widely available.

In a special survey for UPI, members described the techniques they used. One or a combination of these methods might make a homeowner of you—or help you sell the home you have.

Before you give up on conventional mortgages, RELO members advise, check savings institutions where you have an account, or have borrowed in the past. Either fact may persuade one of them to give you a loan. If you're transferring to another city, ask your employer whether your firm has accounts with an institution that might help you. When these traditional wells are dry, keep checking with the local real estate broker for new sources of mortgage money opening up.

"Doctors, dentists and other professional associations have made mortgage funds available here in the Boston area," says Townsend & Hallett, Framingham, Mass. "Lawyers and local trusts are good mortgage sources for our Greenwich, Conn., homes," Preferred Properties advised.

In Louisville, Ky., new home owners assume commitments held by builders there, the Paul Semonin Co. reported.

RELO brokers in many areas reported home sellers themselves were increasingly cooperative in making many sales possible. They take back first or second mortgages; let home buyers assume their existing mortgages; enter into articles of agreement or contracts, and make wraparound mortgages in which the original owner retains title for a period. In Phoenix, Ariz., Ed Post Realty added a twist: "We've even carried back a part of the broker's commission, making it payable as the mortgage payments are received."

The Los Angeles based F. M. Tarbell Co., operating in California, Oregon, Arizona, and Hawaii, reported "Use of lease options or agreements of sale, which basically defer a change of title until interest rates are more attractive, is very popular here. The buyer usually puts down significant option money with such an agreement."

Along Boston's north shore, R. W. Carlson Associates reported would-be homeowners are using a variety of leases. These include lease with option to purchase, lease with right of first refusal, and lease with deferred purchase and sales agreement. Like the swing loan, in which the owner takes an equity advance on his former home, such short term financing occurred increasingly late in 1974. "The equity advance should be used principally by fairly sophisticated purchasers, however," in the opinion of Marx & Bensdorf, Memphis, Tenn. "There is no guarantee of available financing when the short-term notes mature," they cautioned.

Another novel way to finance a home is the practice of obtaining first mortgages by depositing compensatory balances with a lending institution. Thorsen Realtors, Oakbrook, Ill., explained: "If you don't want to put all your cash against a down payment, see if the mortgage bank or savings and loan will accept your pledge to leave a certain amount on deposit with them for an agreed period. You will get the benefit of interest paid at the going rate while the pledge is in effect. Professional people who maintain business accounts with an adequate daily balance may find they can use such accounts as pledges."

Changing attitudes towards government guaranteed FHA or VA loans also may be of help. "Such sales are no longer just for moderate income people," according to Shannon & Luchs, reporting for Washington, D.C. suburbs in Virginia and Maryland. Federally insured loans have helped to finance homes as high as $60,000 on Philadelphia's main line.

Soybean Oil For Tractors

DES MOINES (AP) — The nation's farmers may someday soon be running their tractors on soybean oil.

That's the word from "Wallaces Farmer," a rural publication. It says a bushel of soybeans contains about one-and-one-half gallons of soybean oil that could be used for fuel. At current prices, soybean oil would be expensive, but if fuel prices increase enough, soybean oil may become a reasonable source for fuel.

The price of diesel fuel would have to be about $4 per gallon before it would be economical to convert to soybean oil-fueled engines. But the future may soon bring a blend of petroleum oil and plant oil as fuels.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's long-awaited sell-off finally arrived today, driving prices broadly lower in brisk trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 9.63 at 740.14. Losers led gainers by 712-to-343, among 1,452 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Since hitting its low on Dec. 6, the Dow index has risen more than 170 points, or around 33 per cent. Brokers said the market was overdue for a correction.

"The news indicates that the recession has not yet hit bottom," said Reynolds Securities' Robert Stovall. "And no one really knows when it will."

"The business news has not developed as fast as the market."

Though profit taking caused most of the decline, brokers said selling also was sparked by government reports which showed a 2.8 per cent drop in new orders for durable goods in January. It was the fifth straight monthly decline.

On the Big Board S.S. Kresge rose 1/4 to 23 as the most-active issue, followed by Sony Corp., ahead 3/4 to 8 1/2 and Fleetwood Enterprises, down 3/4 to 9 1/2.

Chrysler, which last week announced it was omitting its first quarter dividend, picked up 1/4 to 9 1/2.

Copper stocks were down, with prices and production in the industry continuing to deteriorate from recession slow-downs. Phelps Dodge was off 1 at 33 1/2, Anaconda lost 3/4 to 15 1/2 and Kennecott dipped 1/4 to 33 1/2.

Also down were oil service stocks, with Halliburton to 1 1/2 at 137. McDermott lost 1/2 to 71 1/2 and Schlumberger down

Wyeth Painting Is Given N.C.

RALEIGH (AP)—RJR Industries today presented North Carolina with its second painting by the American master, Andrew Wyeth.

The painting was accepted by Gov. James E. Holshouser for use by the State Art Museum. Entitled "Sea Dog," it is a portrait of Walter Anderson, a ship's captain who lives near Wyeth in Maine. It is dated 1971.

The museum already has one Wyeth work, "Winter, 1946," which it acquired in 1972.

Nationalizing Oil Industry Proposed

Contract Talks Likely To Affect Mail Rates

By JEFFREY MILLS Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's new postmaster general says he will go ahead with a controversial delivery system if it makes service more efficient, despite a strike threat by letter carriers.

"If it would result in the elimination of a number of jobs but maintain good postal service for the American public, then I think we'd have an obligation to implement it," Benjamin F. Bailar said in an interview.

The controversy concerns the Letter Carrier Route Evaluation System, developed to measure individual carriers' performance so that more efficient routes can be established.

The basis of the system is a computerized study of every carrier's route to measure the number of letters delivered, miles walked and other logis-

Flu-Related Deaths Drop

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The number of deaths related to influenza and pneumonia declined sharply across the United States during the week ending Feb. 15, the national Center for Disease Control reports.

However, the rate of flu-related deaths remained above the epidemic threshold, which the CDC calculates from statistics of previous, non-epidemic years.

The latest CDC statistics today showed a total of 690 flu-related deaths in 121 major U.S. cities checked weekly by the CDC's flu surveillance program.

That is 123 above the "expected number" established by the CDC's evaluation of flu activity in previous years.

CDC officials consider the epidemic threshold to be reached when the statistics exceed the expected number by 50 or more.

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN AP Labor Writer MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Blaming the energy crisis on efforts by the giant oil companies to "fatten the profits," the AFL-CIO says Congress should take steps toward nationalizing the industry.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council, which ends its winter meeting here today, called for legislation that would transfer into government hands the authority for importing oil. The proposal would require the oil companies to sell their marketing operations and holdings in other energy sources, such as coal and natural gas.

Although the council stopped short of advocating outright nationalization, AFL-CIO President George Meany said, "so be it," when asked if his organization's proposals amounted to that.

"I don't think this is the worst thing that could happen," Meany said. "If the oil companies keep behaving the way they are — conducting their business in complete disregard of the interest of the American people — I think nationalization is inevitable some day." Union leaders said they believed that the energy crisis was "a result of policy decisions made by the oil companies to squeeze the consumers, force them to pay higher prices and fatten the profits of the oil companies."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Ford, the President's 17-year-old daughter, has been studying photography and is applying for work as a summer intern photographer at the Washington Post, a White House spokeswoman says.

Sheila Weidenfeld, Mrs. Ford's press secretary, said Sunday that Susan has yet to hear from the Post. She said Susan's lessons are under the guidance of White House photographer David Kennerly.

Statistics for the New England region remained just below the epidemic level, while the slight increase kept the Mountain region figures slightly above it.
