Cambodian President Lon Nol Willing To Step Down

By ALAN DAWSON

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian President Lon Nol told six visiting U.S. Congressional fact-finders Saturday he is willing to step down in order to help bring peace to his nation. He pleaded for more U.S. aid and asked the Americans "not to abandon us."

The six members of Congress flew to Phnom Penh from Saigon Saturday, braving rebel rockets that have been hitting the capital's airport and the city itself daily.

Rebel forces slammed 20 rockets into Pochentong airport and a nearby village before and after the Congressional group's arrival, and another pair of rockets hit Phnom Penh itself, about half a mile from where the lawmakers were having lunch with senior government officials.

"I would do whatever is possible and necessary so that peace and the welfare of my people can be achieved," Lon Nol told the six legislators.

Lon Nol appealed for another $222 million in military aid for Cambodia. "I would like to urge you not to abandon us," he said.

During their flying eight-hour visit to Phnom Penh, the Congress members were told by U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean they must vote on the aid bill within two weeks or Cambodia will run out of ammunition.

It marked the first time any senior U.S. official had put a time limit on Congressional action.

"We were told by the ambassador that if we do not vote more aid within two weeks, Phnom Penh will run out of ammunition and fall," said Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., after a private meeting with Dean.

Lon Nol's offer to step down in the interests of bringing peace came as a surprise to most of the six legislators, all of whom said they were impressed by the passionate appeal for more aid by the Cambodian president.

The six-star general, however, did not outline the circumstances under which he would quit his position as the head of the Cambodian government, which he has held for nearly five years.

One member of the Congressional group, Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., told newsmen she might change her mind and vote for continuing military aid to Cambodia.

But Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., although moved by the "depth of the misery" of the refugees and soldiers she visited, said she intended to vote against more aid to Phnom Penh.

The six congressmen and women attended a dinner reception at the Saigon palace of President Nguyen Van Thieu Saturday evening.

Mrs. Abzug refused to speak to Thieu or his aides, and turned away when the president offered her a drink.

News Briefs

March 31 Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 123,000 remaining Vietnam-era deserters and draft evaders have until March 31 to sign up for clemency under what President Ford called the final extension of the program.

Ford granted the second onemonth extension Friday.

Chairman Charles E. Goodell of the Clemency Board said that for "anybody who applies after midnight March 31 it will be a sad April Fool's Day."

Farm Prices Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers saw prices for the things they produce plummet 4 per cent between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15, the sharpest of four consecutive monthly declines that began last fall.

Last month the price index for commodities at the farm was 17 per cent below Feb. 15, 1974, the Agriculture Department said Friday. Prices farmers pay to meet expenses, meanwhile, held steady during the month but still were 12 per cent over a year earlier.

Chinese Welcomed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-person delegation of textile officials from the People's Republic of China "has received a warm welcome from a number of companies in the New York area" during a trade mission expected to last several weeks, the National Council for United States-China trade says.

Celebration Underway

WASHINGTON (AP)—Saturday marked the start of an official 22-month celebration of the 200th birthday of the American republic.

Congress chose the date arbitrarily; no major historic event occurred on March 1, 1775. April 19 is the 200th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord—generally regarded as the start of the American Revolution.

Ford To Be Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, contradicting an aide's statement that his wife's health would weigh heavily on his decision, says unequivocally that he will be a presidential candidate in 1976.

Oil Price Agreement

PARIS (AP) — Abu Dhabi and Western oil companies have reached an arrangement to lower prices and increase production in the Persian Gulf emirate, the country's oil minister, Manna Saeed Al Otaiba, said today.

The price reduction is about 55 cents a barrel on Abu Dhabi's best crude oil, which previously sold for $11.20 a barrel, Al Otaiba said. It was not immediately known to what extent the reduction would be reflected in decreased retail prices in the West.

Train Death Toll Rises

LONDON (UPI) — Rescue workers using hydraulic equipment and acetylene torches Saturday cut through the twisted wreckage of London's worst subway crash in an agonizingly slow operation to extract more trapped bodies.

"We have taken 24 bodies from the train and there are at least 10 more bodies to be salvaged," a police spokesman said. The worst previous crash on the subway system in London took 12 lives in 1953.

Stamps Received Improperly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost one quarter of the working poor who received food stamps last year may have obtained them improperly, the Agriculture Department indicated Saturday.

A department spokesman said the finding was made in a sample study, and the results could not be used to estimate the total number of stamps that were obtained in violation of federal regulations in the $4 billion program. He said, "We can't vouch for the total statistical validity" of the sample.

Networks To Continue

CAIRO (UPI) — The Arab Organization for the Boycott of Israel agreed Saturday to allow two American networks, the National Broadcasting Co. and Columbia Broadcasting System, to continue news activities "under supervision" in the Arab world.

Also excluded from the controversial blacklist of foreign firms dealing with Israel were Royal Dutch Airlines— KLM—the First National Bank of Chicago and Comma Oil and Chemicals Ltd. of Britain.

West Berlin Candidate For Mayor Kidnapped

BY PHILIP J. TILL

BERLIN (UPI) — West Berlin police Saturday fulfilled the first demand of urban guerrillas holding the Christian Democratic candidate for mayor. Government officials began talks with Western allies about supplying the kidnapers with a getaway plane.

Police released two young leftists jailed in November for illegal demonstrations as the first condition for the release of 52-year-old Peter Lorenz.

The kidnapers had also demanded the release of six jailed members of the Baader-Meinhof band, a cash payment of over $8,000 to each and a long-range plane to fly them out of the country. One of the six has said he is not sure he wants to be released.

Late Saturday the government announced it had approached the allies about the "extremely complicated" technical problems involved in supplying the aircraft. Only U.S., British or French aircraft are allowed to overfly East Germany to and from West Berlin, which means one of those countries would have to provide the plane. The Russians, who control the air space over East Germany, also must agree to the flight.

However, a government spokesman cautioned that this "does not mean that a decision of principle has been taken" to give the kidnapers safe passage. He said the government wants proof Lorenz is still alive before any final decision is taken.

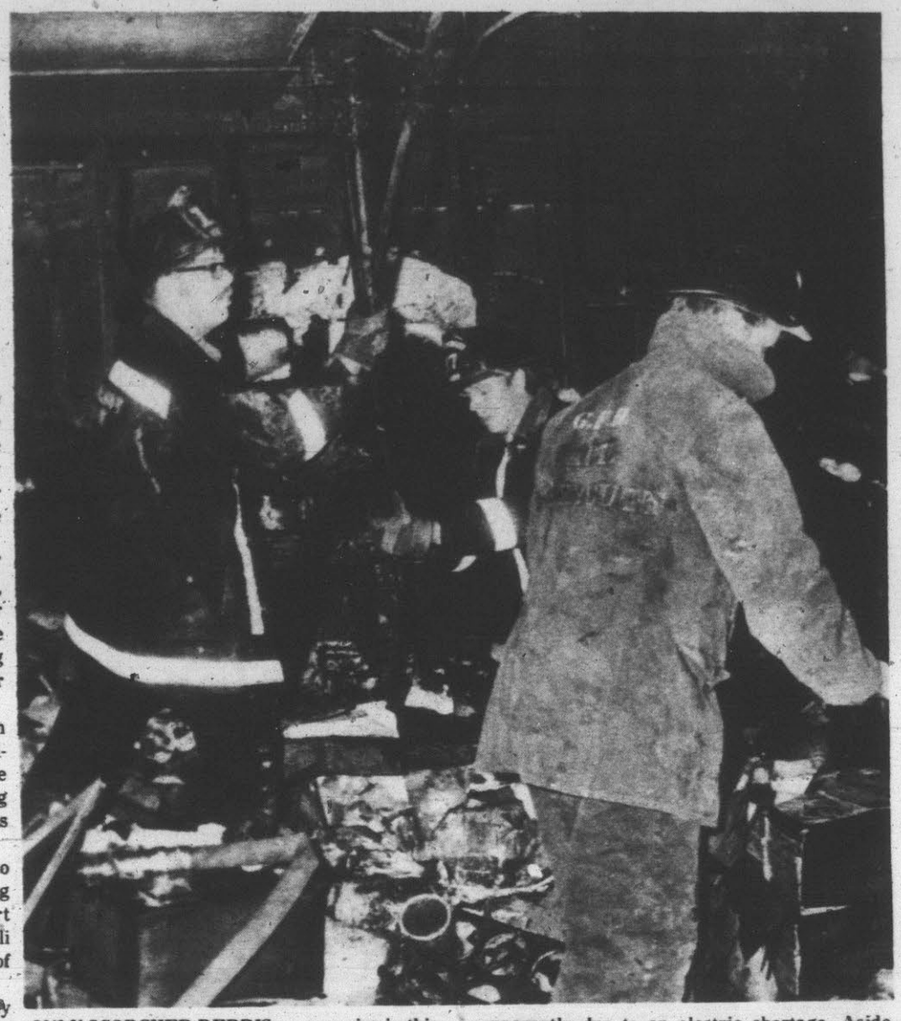

Soon after that statement, the West Berlin crisis committee formed to deal with the kidnaping went into emergency session at city hall to consider a new communique from the kidnapers.

In the letter sent to Lorenz' Christian Democratic Party, the guerrillas warned their hostage would be killed if police attempted to storm their hiding place or interfere with their departure from the country.

"We have not forgotten Fuerstenfeldbrueck and Ramlmayer," the guerrillas' note said. "If the police are planning anything similar, it means certain death for Lorenz."

German police attempted to prevent Arab guerrillas leaving Fuerstenfeldbrueck airport near Munich with Israeli Olympic athletes in 1972. All of the Israeli hostages died.

City officials said they believed the letter to be authentic since it contained the number on Lorenz' identity card.

Three Die In Hijack Of Iraqi Boeing 737

By JOSEPH MAZANDI

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — A hijacker and two passengers were shot to death Saturday in a gun battle between three men who commandeered an Iraqi Airlines Boeing 737 and Iraqi security officers aboard the plane.

The two hijackers surrendered to Iranian authorities after their partner and the two passengers were killed during the shootout aboard the plane on a runway of Tehran's Mehrabad airport, where the air pirates had forced the craft to land after seizing it on a domestic flight.

Iranian authorities said seven of the more than 90 persons aboard the plane were injured.

The hijackers had demanded $5 million and the release of anti-Iraqi government Kurdish political leaders imprisoned in Iraq or they would blow up the plane and all aboard, airport officials said.

Iranian Information Minister Gholamreza Kianpor told UPI the shootout started "when armed Iraqi security officers in the plane whipped out their pistols."

He said the two surviving hijackers managed to rush out of the plane and surrendered at the terminal itself.

"They are with Iranian security officials now," he said.

He said the injured passengers had been taken to a hospital and the rest were safe and in the airport transit lounge waiting return to Iraq.

Hushang Arbabi, head of Iran's Civil Aviation Authority, said the plane carrying 85 passengers and seven crew members was on a domestic flight when the hijackers diverted it to Tehran.

He said the pilot overshot the runway when the hijackers forced him to set the plane down "in a very dangerous landing attempt" after his request for landing permission was refused.

Prohibits Political Activities

SEOUL (UPI) — The South Korean government Saturday imposed a tight measure prohibiting political activities of government critics, including a former president, in anticipation of an anti-government campaign.

Police surrounded the houses of opposition leaders and former President Posun Yun was barred from issuing a statement critical of the government of President Park Chung-hee.

Kim Dae-jung, an unsuccessful presidential candidate who was taken back here after he was abducted at a Tokyo hotel, and at least five other opposition leaders were ordered to stay at home where plainclothes policemen surrounded their houses. They were to attend an anti-Park meeting, their aides said.

Byrd Asks Separation Of Oil Depletion And Tax Cut

RALEIGH (UPI) — U.S. Senate majority whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., Saturday said a controversial provision to repeal the oil depletion allowance should be seperated from a $21 billion House-passed tax cut measure to insure that taxpayers receive their rebates as quickly as possible.

Byrd made his remarks in a press conference here prior to addressing North Carolina Democrats at their annual Jefferson-Jackson fund-raising dinner.

Byrd said he is "fearful" the provision tacked onto the tax cut bill calling for repeal of the 22 per cent oil depletion allowance which would be worth $2.5 billion a year in taxes "would engender considerable debate and delay the tax cut."

"There will be a tax reform bill later in the session and the Congress will examine the oil depletion allowance," Byrd said.

The Democratic House bill calls for a $21 billion anti-recession tax cut, including $16 billion for individual taxpayers and $5 billion for business. Byrd indicated, however, that "it could be more when it comes out of the Senate."

The fund-raising event was the first time Tar Heel Democrats had gathered since their sweeping victories at the polls in the November elections. About 1,000 persons attended the $50 per plate dinner keynoted by Byrd who admitted to newsmen he was "not uninterested" in seeking the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

In his remarks prepared for the dinner, Byrd criticized Republican President Gerald Ford's economic and energy program, saying it "accepts the policy of sustained recession" with high unemployment.

He said the Democrats will seek to "redesign" Ford's tax cut proposal to benefit the middle and low income taxpayers more, and at the same time expand his proposed tax credit and work for an interest rate subsidy to stimulate the sagging housing market.

However, at the news conference Byrd said he was "encouraged" with Ford's statement Friday that he might compromise with the Democrats on the energy proposals.

Railroad Bills Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has signed two multi-million-dollar bills designed to keep the giant Penn Central and other bankrupt Northeast railroads from going out of business, the White House announced Saturday.

One provides an immediate $125 million to the Department of Transportation for emergency assistance to the Penn Central, the nation's largest railroad.

The other amends the Railway Reorganization Act and increases by $347 million the authorization for government grants and loan guarantees to the Penn Central, Erie Lackawanna and other rail lines.

U.S. Consul John Egan Slain By Terrorists

By OSCAR J. SERRAT
Associated Press Writer

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP)— American officials received a letter apparently written by U.S. Honorary Consul John Patrick Egan urging Ambassador Robert C. Hill to save his life, but the letter arrived after Egan was slain by leftist terrorists, the embassy said today.

Referring to guerilla demands concerning four missing colleagues, the letter said, "Please use your influence to have them released. If the request is not completed within time, I will suffer."

Police, acting on a telephoned tip found the letter Friday night only after they discovered the blood-spattered body of Egan, informed sources said. The text was relayed to Buenos Aires and read to Hill.

An embassy spokesman confirmed that Hill saw the letter too late but had no comment on what might have been the embassy's course in any case. However, the embassy would not say if the letter was thought to be genuine or not.

The Cordoba newspaper Los Principios printed what it said was the letter Egan wrote. It was handwritten in capital letters, apparently very hastily.

In addition to asking Hill to use his influence, the letter said, "At this time, my life is in your hands and the hands of the friendly government of Isabel Martinez and the friendly army. Thank you."

The terrorists said they killed Egan because he represented "Yankee interests." In a communique, the Montenero kidnapers said they wanted to strike a blow against the government which they said was handing Argentina over to the Americans. During the 51 hours Egan was held, Argentine officials made no response to guerrilla demands but mounted the biggest dragnet in the country's history.

Four Students Die In Charity Event

By MICHAEL GOLDMAN

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — For a University of Florida fraternity, an excursion which began as a gesture of charity ended in a night of terror and death.

Bill Sipala, Cliff Thout and other members of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity saw two of their brothers dead and two others dying, lying at the side of an isolated North Florida highway after their open, flatbed truck was struck from behind. Sipala said a mattress saved him from being crushed to death.

The fraternity members were on their third leg of a "Run-a-thon" to raise money for the Gainesville heart fund when their flat bed was hit shortly after 4:00 a.m. Saturday by a semi-truck. Two of the dead were jogging behind the fraternity's truck when the accident occurred on the foggy four-lane highway.

Police identified the four dead as Jerry Engram, 18, of Clarksburg, Md.; Larry Burlew, 20, of Homestead, Fla.; Mark Simmons, 20, of Alexandria, Va., and Mark Stafford, 19, of Delray Beach, Fla.

Major Reform Tax Package Introduced In Legislature

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—A major tax reform package was introduced in the North Carolina legislature on Friday as an appropriations committee moved ahead on utilities matters and the Senate enacted a bill requiring the teaching of free enterprise in the public schools.

Sen. William Smith, D-Hanover, introduced the tax reform bill, which would repeal the state sales tax on food and replace it with higher cigarette taxes, higher taxes on automobiles, and increased taxes on high incomes.

Smith said he thinks the chances of his legislation being approved range "from bad to worse," largely because of the increased cigarette tax.

The repeal of the sales tax on food would mean an estimated revenue loss of $71 million the first year and $84 million the second year.

Smith proposes to replace $2 million of that by lifting the $120 sales tax ceiling on the purchase of luxury vehicles. His proposal would replace another $7.5 million by doing away with the income tax exemption for dividends paid on stocks in North Carolina corporations.

Smith's bill would raise individual income taxes by increasing the tax rate from 7 to 8 per cent for taxable income from $20,000 to $30,000; to 9 per cent for $30,000 to $40,000 and to 10 per cent for income in excess of $40,000. This would bring in an additional $34 million a year.

The cigarette tax would be raised from two cents per pack to six cents on July 1 and be raised again July 1, 1976 to nine cents per pack. This would bring in an additional $15.3 million the first year and then $34.3 a year afterwards.

Smith argued that increasing the cigarette tax would not upset the economy or have any bearing on the amount of tobacco sold or consumed.

The cigarette tax was not the only unpopular stand taken Friday by the New Hanover County freshman. Smith was among a handful of opponents as the Senate gave final approval to a bill requiring North Carolina high schools to teach a course on the free enterprise system.

The measure, introduced by Sen. W.K. Mauney, D-Cleveland, was enacted on a 36-5 vote. It had the endorsement of Gov. Jim Holshouser, a Republican.

Utilities legislation drew the attention of the Senate Appropriations Committee Friday as the committee tentatively agreed to appropriate an additional $1.15 million to expand the State Utilities Commission.

The money would fund four new commissioners and additional support staff in the event that the legislature enacts a bill before it to expand the commission to nine members.

A bill was prefiled in the House Friday to continue the prohibition of a ceiling on first mortgate home loan interest rates. The ceiling was removed by the 1973 General Assembly. Prior to the ban on ceilings, state law limited interest to 8 per cent on home loans under $50,000.

The measure to continue the ban on interest ceilings was introduced by Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir.

Rep. Wade Smith, D-Wake, prefiled a bill that would impose tough new disclosure requirements on lobbyists. The bill would require lobbyists to file written reports with the secretary of state detailing their expenses, the names of legislators entertained or contacted and any money spent on them.

Medical Area Zoning Plan Adopted By City

Student Aid Discussed

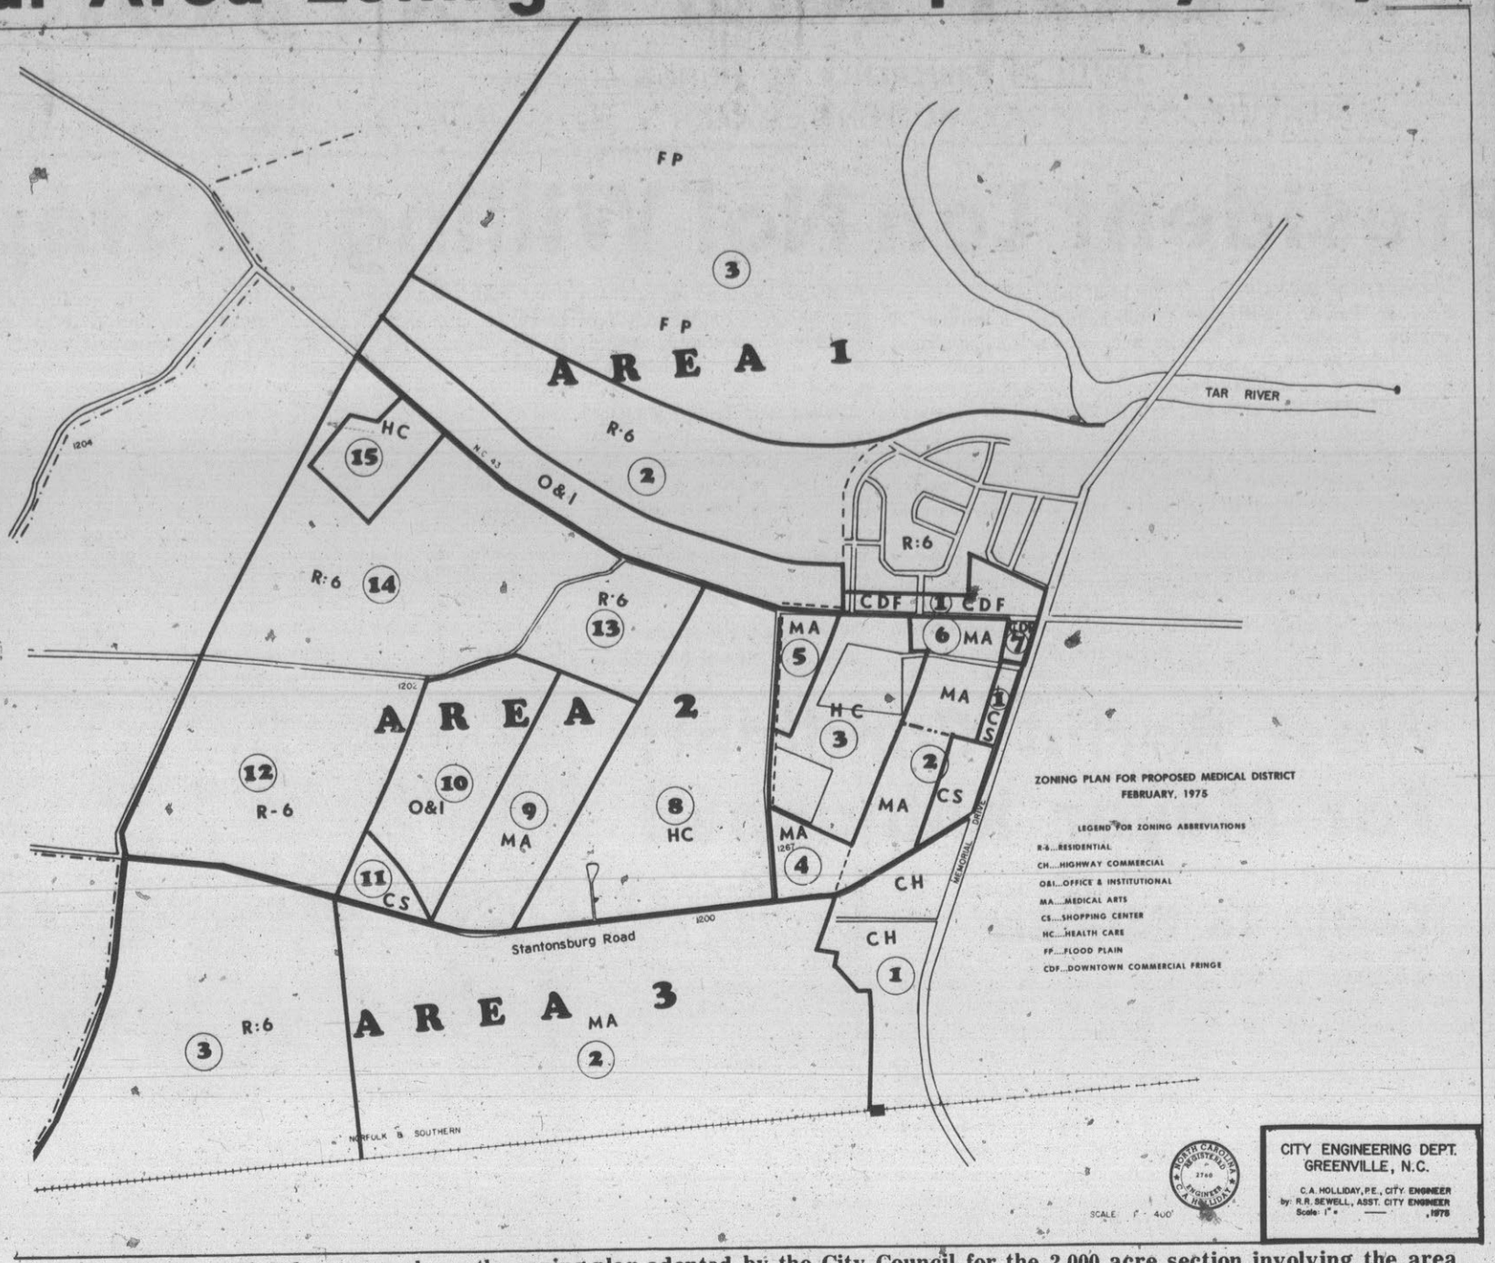

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The planning committee of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors considered a plan Friday designed to give proportionately more state aid to students at small private colleges.

The draft plan calls for a centrally administered program of state aid to private colleges through direct grants to needy students. It is based on findings that small schools have a higher percentage of needy students than larger ones and therefore are in greater need of state help.

Under the present program, the state pays private schools $200 for each North Carolina student enrolled, a system that gives more funds to the larger schools. The schools distribute the funds as student aid on the basis of need.

Davidson College President Samuel Spencer, chairman of the board of the N.C. Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, called for continuation of the current program, but at twice the financial level for next year. He called for future enactment of the principle of direct tuition grants to private college students, but without regard to need.

The planning committee is scheduled to vote on the draft plan at its next meeting on March 13. The full Board of Governors is expected to vote on the issue March 14.

Pitt Shriners Helping Five Year Old Maria Proctor

The Pitt County Shrine Club has undertaken an effort aimed at providing finances to help a young burn victim receive much needed treatment.

Stuart Buchanan, secretary of the Pitt organization, said that the Shrine Club has adopted a project involving the burn case of Maria Proctor, five and a half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Proctor.

Buchanan explained that Maria received burns involving over 50 per cent of her body in an accident that occurred while the Proctors were living in Alexandria, Virginia. The family moved to Greenville last year.

The accident, it was explained, occurred when the child picked up a book of matches, struck a match and her nightgown became engulfed in flames. Maria was burned in 1972.

For some three months following the accident, Maria received hospital treatment in Alexandria, at the Proctor's expense. Then, with the aid of Shriners in Virginia, she was able to receive two and a half months treatment at the Boston, Mass. unit of the Shrine Burns Center and underwent four operations there.

Although Maria has already been hospitalized for over five and a half months since the accident, at least 13 more operations involving skin grafts and other burn treatments are necessary.

In assuming financial responsibility for Maria's treatment, the Pitt County Shrine Club, through proceeds from its annual fish fry, will arrange for Maria to be readmitted to the Boston unit for continuation of her treatment.

According to Buchanan, all expenses involving the medical treatment, as well as transportation to and from Boston, will be paid for through the local Shrine Club. In addition, the organization will also pay for Mrs. Proctor's expenses to allow her to be with her daughter during the hospital stay. In short, it was noted, the entire bill will be paid through the Shrine Club.

The Boston center requires authorization from a local physician in order for Maria to be admitted, Buchanan said, and Dr. Ben Shappley offered to perform the physical examination. A date will be set for Maria to undergo treatment in Boston and she will likely be admitted in May.

Buchanan pointed out that the annual Shrine fish fry provides funds to undertake worthy projects, such as the case involving Maria.

Last year's fish fry in Greenville, he continued, made in excess of $17,000 with the Pitt chapter netting over $11,000 to turn over to the Sudan Temple in New Bern for project work.

"It's through the fantastic support the people of this area have given our fish fry projects each year that we are able to undertake projects such as this," he asserted.

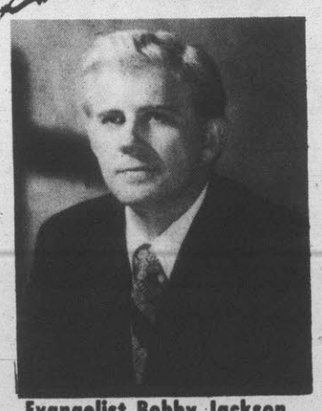

Burn Centers funded by the Shrine of North America and the Sudan Temple are located in Boston, Dallas, Tex., and Cincinnati, Ohio. The organization also funds 19 hospitals for crippled children.

All local funds are turned over to the Sudan Temple in New Bern as headquarters for the local organization and funding is, in turn, provided for Crippled Children's Hospitals and Burns Institutes of North America.

Observations From Editorial Columns

State Grand Jury

A statewide Grand Jury holds some interesting possibilities. Particularly, where state investigations are in progress and where grand jury action should be required, the availability of such a state Grand Jury could facilitate matters considerably.

Such a proposal has been made, and it should not be passed of lightly. We understand that Attorney General Rufus Edmisten is interested in such a move, and it surely would give his office a measure of efficiency now almost impossible to have.

We do not know how widespread statewide investigations are today, but a State Grand Jury might be able to look into a lot of state matters and come up with some quick answers for the courts to pursue.

Such a State Grand Jury, we would expect, would be under the jurisdiction of the N.C. Supreme Court or under jurisdiction of some justice or judge named by the Supreme Court.

The proposal is worth looking into. And we would hope that people of North Carolina, particularly those in positions of headership, will give the proposal some very serious thought.

In Vino Veritas

In wine is truth, the ancients said, but the. . .complete truth may not always be found in wines.

To go back a bit, the French government charged Lionel Cruse, head of the 155-year-old firm, his cousin Yvan, wine broker Pierre Bert and 15 others with doctoring wines, falsifying labels and tampering with official documents.

Wine-proud France carefully regulates the industry, and the Bordeaux scandal surfaced last year when government tax inspectors, first refused admittance to the internationally regarded House of Cruse cellars, finally got in and found certain authenticating documents altered or even missing. . .

During the trial, defendant Bert confessed to doctoring inferior wines to improve their taste. . . .

The defense produced witnesses. . .who testified that even an experienced wine taster cannot always tell where a wine comes from. . .

At least there appears to be no record that some elegant lip somewhere curled in rebellion over a glass, its owner snarling, "This isn't a quality Bordeaux! This is fake wine that's been doctored! Call the police.!".

Orderly Sessions Needed

House Speaker Jimmy Greene says there is no doubt now that another term of the legislature will be held next year. Up until opening of the 1975 session hopes were expressed among many people that legislators would be able to get on with their work and meet all biennial obligations which need to be met this year.

Rep. Greene himself has been accused of slowing down the process. He has been unusually slow in naming members to committees and in selecting committee chairmen. A result is that senators and representatives have already lost about a month's time. They have been in Raleigh wasting time and money because of this lack of organization and failure on the part of Mr. Greene and others to initiate a reasonable start.

Maybe the time has come anyhow, because of speeded up conditions and added complexities in government, to go to permanent annual sessions. But they should be arrived at in an orderly fashion. And whenever they are firmly decided on, the General Assembly should act to establish firm limits, such as 90-day or 120-day terms, in which to get the state's business transacted.

—The Laurinburg Exchange

New State Office Building

A new state office building in Raleigh is planned to enable each legislator to have an office suite with an anteroom for a secretary. The legislative building has offices pruposely made small so there would be no room for a secretary for each legislator, but since it was built the secretaries have been added without the space. Besides under-estimation of expansion in legislative activity, this might be said to show that the more help legislators have, the more often the legislature has to meet. With less assistance, the General Assembly used to get by with sessions every other year.

In 1775, colonists in Providence, R.I., publicly burned 300 pounds of British documents and tea.

From the Cambodian point of view, his ouster might cause a debilitating scramble for power. From the American point of view, Lon Nol seems to be a throwaway card for negotiations with the insurgents.

"He's not a liability," said a diplomatic source familiar with American policy. "If there were someone else who would fill that position with distinction and draw the people into a great upsurge, yes. If it would do any good, why not? On Abolishing February And Greeting March

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va.—Back in 1946, as a young reporter covering the Virginia General Assembly, I tried to work up a constructive venture with a pixie legislator by the name of Lake Triplett. My thought was to have him sponsor a bill to abolish February.

The project never got off the ground. Triplett thought the idea altogether splendid, but he was then involved with his famous no-work bill. This was a bill to make it a felony in Virginia for any person to engage in a useful occupation. The bill was forably reported by the Committee on Retrenchment and Economy, but then was re-referred to Judiciary where, alas, it died. Two years later he introduced a bill to regulate the depth of snow. I digress.

Plowing through some old papers the other day, I came across a draft of the bill to abolish February. I am minded to offer it to Senator Scoop Jackson, who seems to have run out of projects lately. The bill would add 14 days to April, six days to May, five to October, and the other three or four by direction of the Speaker of the House. Who could oppose so humane a measure?

Does February have a redeeming feature? The question answers itself. Here in the frostbitten Blue Ridge Mountains, the memory of man does not encompass a February bleaker than the one now happily concluded. From Monday through Friday the skies merely sulked; on Saturdays and Sundays they wept. It snowed, it rained, it sleeted, it drizzle-drazzled. The house smelled of wet collies. The firewood wouldn't catch.

Washington was as miserable. The House of Representatives, demonstrating rare good sense, took one look at February and left town. The President fled to Atlanta, thence to Houston. The snow turned to dirty slush. Some idiot decreed daylight saving time, and suddenly it was dark again at 7 o'clock in the morning.

But now! Now! With March at hand, the thermometer last week yawned and stretched and reached up to 70. The fields that yesterday were the color of old oatmeal are today awash with green. The first crocus popped up on Tuesday, as purple and orange as college colors. In the rock garden, snowdrops are hanging like street lamps in a caterpillar town. The first iris have appeared. The heather is showing new growth.

In January, as every gardener knows, hope is sustained by the seed catalogs. One spends hours filling out orders. Now the packets of seed have arrived, bright with promise of melons amber and cucumbers jade. It will be another eight weeks, at least, before these can go in the ground, but with February torn off the calendar, eight weeks can be endured.

Last month only the birds were moving. They fluttered into the feeders for breakfast — cardinals, juncos, titmice, chickadees, a ragtag bunch of schoolboy sparrows. These are the regular winter lodgers at the local hotel. Now the resort crowd is streaming in. We have finches in Hawaiian shirts, grosbeads in black and gold blazers, a mockingbird strutting on a fence rail. Yesterday a bluebird arrived; he spent a busy hour inspecting the several apartments for rent, and then signed a lease.

The animals emerge. The other night six rabbits met in the vegetable garden, planning their spring attack. We have seen three groundhogs and a possum. By dawn the air is delicately scented with the unmistakable eau de skunk. Twice we have watched a big red fox strolling through the high meadow, twirling his cane and smoking a fat cigar.

If there is one flaw to be found in the prospects of perfection, it comes with the blustering wind. The pines and hemlocks, lined up like troops, in green fatigues, are doing calisthenics. The flags strain and snap on their leashes. We struggle down to the mailbox and get blown back up the hill. But let it blow! Who cares?

This is March! Hurray for March! Given a better calendar, stripped of the February blahs, we might have had all this a month ago.

Increasing Emphasis On Basic Skills, Teaching In America's Schools

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

After a decade of experiment and innovation, American schools are shifting gear. From first grade to senior high, there are signs of an increasing emphasis on basic skills and traditional ways of teaching them.

Open classrooms and the new math have lost some of their appeal. Federal grants have switched from arts programs to reading. In some communities, parents are demanding — and getting — alternative schools that stress educational basics: report cards and discipline.

"We took for granted that the results were going to be there if we changed," said Robert Wheeler, head of the Bureau of School Systems in the federal Office of Education. "It turns out that some of the innovations were not productive."

Some were productive. The one most frequently cited now by educators is the idea of providing a variety of educational alternatives for pupils and their parents.

Interviews with dozens of educators — teachers, administrators, association officers and state and federal officials — also indicated no widespread retreat from the goal of better meeting the individual learning needs of children. It was the aim of much of the recent innovation.

But the signs of adjustment are many:

— Partitions were put up last year in the Forest Edge Elementary School in Reston, Va., an "open space" school built in 1971. The same thing was done in New Ipswich, N.H., and team teaching was dropped as well.

Enthusiasm has waned for the open classroom and its accent on allowing children to follow their learning instincts with little interference from teachers and curriculum goals.

— There is a renewed stress on computational arithmetic — the old math — in elementary schools across the country. The new math and its emphasis on theory are being left to junior and senior high schools in many communities.

There is also an increasing emphasis on composition, grammar and spelling in many schools, a change that reflects, in part, the vocal complaints of college professors and admissions officers that many students cannot write English.

— Two fundamental schools were opened last fall in the suburbs west of Denver by the Jefferson County Public Schools system. They stress "mastery of basic skills": reading, arithmetic, English, grammar, literature, spelling and penmanship. There are regular tests in all subjects and report cards with letter grades.

Similar schools are open or planned in California, Maryland and North Carolina. If nothing else, said many educators, they indicate a renewed awareness of achievement as a measure of educational progress.

It was the launching of Sputnik that triggered a re-examination of American education in 1957. Widespread changes came in the next decade when the money of the Great Society started flowing. Federal expenditures for public schools increased from $500 million in 1956 to $2.1 billion in 1966 and an estimated $5.9 billion this year.

In 1965, President Johnson signed the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Title III of the act established federal funding for innovative and exemplary projects. It was a springboard for change. About $1.4 billion has been spent under the Title III program.

The projects funded under Title III have changed over the years, said Lee Wickline, director of Title III in the Office of Education.

"We have more programs now, for example, that are coming to grips with reading problems," he said. "In 1965, we had a lot that were dealing with the arts and things like that."

Title III money was used to fund experiments in computer-assisted instruction. There are few around now. "Basically, it costs too much," said Wickline. "The cost of education has just gone up so much that it is a major factor in causing school districts not to look toward introducing new programs and ideas."

On June 30, Title III will be consolidated out of existence. It has been combined with nutrition and drop out prevention programs in an extension of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act signed last year by President Ford. During months of congressional debate, attention had focused on provisions in the legislation dealing with school busing.

The shift away from the innovative philosophy of recent years reflects larger changes in society, many educators said.

There are some schools, of course, that do not have far to go in going back to basics.

School administrators from dozens of states have visited the John Marshall Fundamental School, a back-to-basics public school in Pasadena, Calif. However, officials there said there have been few visitors from the Plains States and they could remember no inquiries from Montana.

Some inner-city schools have been emphasizing basic educational skills for several years. Blacks and other minority parents traditionally have stressed their importance, researchers say. Beginning in the late 1960s, community control of schools led to intensive reading and arithmetic programs at some schools in New York, Philadelphia and other cities.

The renewed interest in traditional approaches shows up even in education's latest innovation. Sometimes called education by choice, it involves offering pupils and their parents a variety of options within a single school.

The education-by-choice schools invariably have at least one liberal, open classroom program. What is new is that some of them also offer an alternative program that is more structured and more disciplined than what most students were getting before.

In Quincy, Ill., students can choose from several "schools" within a new high school complex. There are two very open schools where students call teachers by first names and work out their own study projects and schedules. There is also a traditional school.

Long.

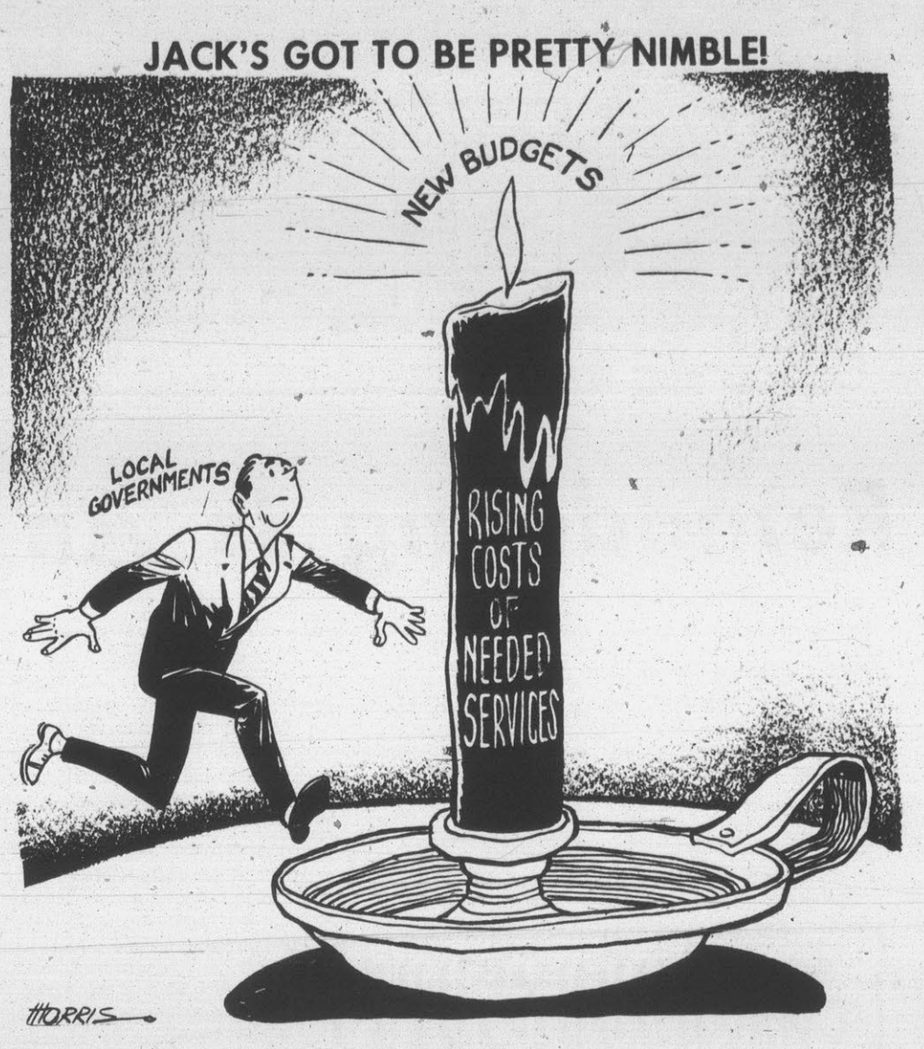

Simultaneously, Mr. Ford was deciding the fate of Kieran O'Doherty, a skilled veteran of right-wing politics. He helped found and is still backstage leader of the New York Conservative party, which has sought since 1962 to retire Sen. Javits to private life. After Sen. James Buckley was elected from New York as a Conservative, he immediately began seeking a federal post for O'Doherty.

O'Doherty for one and a half years filled an unexpired term on the Foreign Claims Commission, but Javits blocked Senate confirmation of his nomination by President Nixon to a full term. Honoring Nixon's commitments, President Ford reappointed O'Doherty. Javits blocked him again last fall. The White House then indicated to Buckley that O'Doherty would be named to the Postal Rate Commission, which does not require Senate confirmation.

Javits's office was informed a month ago, and a furious Javits delivered this lecture for presidential counselor Jack Marsh: better decide who your friends are and stick with them. Javits meant he supports Mr. Ford for President in 1976 while Buckley and his New York Conservative party are in the forefront of Ford-must-go talk.

True enough. But Buckley supports the Ford oil veto and Javits opposes it. Javits supports the President but not his program; Buckley supports his program but not the President. The O'Doherty decision could alienate either of the two proud men. Mainly to honor his commitment, the President appointed O'Doherty Feb. 20 without informing Javits.

Mr. Ford's political margins are just too narrow. Most Presidents could offend Long, Javits and Buckley in one day with impunity. For Jerry Ford to have even one of them on the warpath is so dangerous that his freedom of action is narrowly restricted, a condition insensibly weakening the powers of the presidency.

No Bedroom Suite, But Reclining Seats Await

I read in the newspaper the other day about a teenager who ran away from home because her parents wouldn't buy her a stereo. Sadly enough, that's typical. We're all too dependent on machines. For example, when my neighbor decided to save energy by giving up her electric can-opener, her daughter announced in front of her home-ec class that she couldn't do her homework assignment because of her primitive kitchen facilities. I'm not immune either — when we moved from an apartment with a dishwasher to a house without one, my hands spent two weeks in culture shock.

But the machine we're most dependent on is the car. The other week when our car stopped wheezing and started coughing and choking, we took it to the body doctor. It was obvious that the car had a severe respiratory ailment; I thought it might even be emphysema, considering all the smoking it had been doing lately. But I was totally unprepared for the final diagnosis.

"Honey," Phillip said, a tear trickling down his cheek, "We're going to have to trade."

I stood there speechless, a rare occurrence at our house.

Phillip continued, "The mechanic said that the only thing he could do was to give it a few squirts of oil to ease the pain of its demise."

GAIL MICHAELS

"We can't trade," I gasped. "Where will we get the money?"

"From the savings account, of course."

"Oh, no we won't. I didn't risk stunting my growth by sitting up until two o'clock grading papers every Sunday night so that I could put my money into a piece of aluminum siding on wheels. That money's for a new bedroom suite."

"And just how do you expect to get to school?" Phillip asked. "You might ride a broom, but you certainly can't ride a bed."

"I'll walk," I answered.

"You walk?" he asked incredulously. "You expect me to believe that you're going to exercise those flabby muscles six miles each day? Why, you even hitch a ride to the mailbox every morning."

"But if we buy a car, we can't afford a bedroom suite," I sobbed. "And I'm tired of nailing that bed we have back together every time the cat jumps on it. It's so old, George Washington probably slept there.

"I doubt that they were making Danish modern back then," he grinned.

I could see that there was no use arguing any more. Phillip already had that gleam of new metal in his eyes. "Okay," I sighed. "We'll trade."

"Great!" he shouted, gleefully slapping me on the back until I was wheezing like the car. "You won't regret this, either, because I'm going to make sure any car we buy has reclining seats."

"Why won't I regret it?" I choked. "I never asked for reclining seats."

"Well, look at it this way," he answered. "If the bed does fall apart, at least we'll have some place to sleep."

One In Seven In U.S. Work Force Is Fearful Of Losing Job

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—One person in every seven in the U.S. work force is fearful of losing his or her job during the next 12 months.

The Gallup Poll's current Job Security Index shows 5 per cent of employed persons saying it is "very likely" and 10 per cent "fairly likely" that they will lose their jobs, a total of 15 per cent who are insecure regarding their current employment status.

Job insecurity is somewhat greater among part-time workers (24 per cent say it is "very" or "fairly likely" that they will be laid off) than among full-time workers (14 per cent are fearful of losing their jobs).

Job Security Index Adds New Dimension

The Job Security Index was developed by the Gallup Poll to provide additional insight into the employment situation in America today. The findings should be looked at in conjunction with estimates of the unemployment rate as reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The January unemployment rate, as reported by the Bureau, was 8.2 per cent.

While the results reported today show considerable job insecurity, the positive side of the employment picture should not be overlooked. In fact, more than eight persons in 10 in the current survey indicate a relatively high degree of job security, with 27 per cent saying it is "not too likely" and 54 per cent saying it is "not at all likely" they will lose their jobs or be laid off during the next 12 months.

Following is the question asked to determine degree of job security:

"Thinking about the next 12 months, how likely do you think it is that you will lose your job or be laid off — very likely, fairly likely, not too likely, or not at all likely?"

Here are the national results, based upon views of persons who are employed (approximately half the sample):

HOW LIKELY TO LOSE JOB?
(Views of employed persons, nationwide)

Very likely	5%
Fairly likely	10
Not too likely	27
Not at all likely	54
No opinion	4

The findings reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,541 adults, 18 and older, in more than 350 sampling locations across the nation during the period Jan. 31-Feb. 3.

Job Insecurity Greater Among Non-Whites

Analysis of the survey findings reveals patterns similar to those found in relation to unemployment data as compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

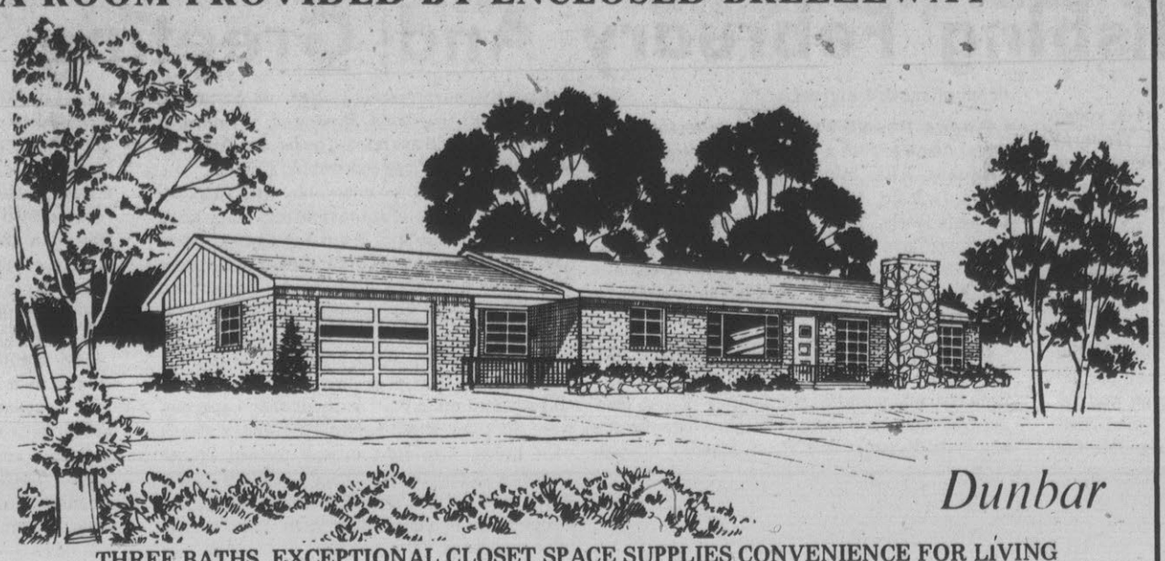

Non-whites and persons at the lower end of the economic scale, for example, are considerably more insecure regarding their current employment status than are whites and persons in higher income groups. Proportionately, twice as many non-whites as whites say it is "very likely" they will lose their jobs or be laid off during the next 12 months.

Most likely to be fearful of losing their jobs are persons employed in blue-collar jobs, with the findings showing little difference in outlook between skilled and unskilled workers.

PLAN YOUR HOME

EXTRA ROOM PROVIDED BY ENCLOSED BREEZEWAY

By Jerry Bishop

THREE BATHS, EXCEPTIONAL CLOSET SPACE SUPPLIES CONVENIENCE FOR LIVING

Storage is complete on a single level in the plan for the remarkably convenient "Dunbar." The step-saving features of the one-level home are combined with luxury items to create a masterful brick home, which fits well into any landscaped lot.

Completely enclosed and comfortably heated, the long breezeway in this brick-encased ranch style opens to kitchen and provides an ideal play area or family room. The breezeway is reached also from an outside porch or a back stoop and has an entrance into the garage.

The front entrance is more at the center of the "Dunbar," and flows into a hallway which directs traffic to three areas of the home. The living room is designed so no cross traffic is necessary, and its 23 foot span is highlighted by a stone fireplace.

The master bedroom lies to the rear of the living room and has its own private bath and special linen closet. Four other closets are provided in the hall immediately adjacent to the bedroom and in the bedroom itself. A fifth closet serves as a coat closet.

Just off the entry hallway to the rear of the home is the second complete bath. Two bedrooms also lie to the rear of the "Dunbar," each with massive closet.

A formal dining room lies to the left of the entry hall, with entry either from that hall or the long hall directing traffic to the kitchen and bedroom areas. A third entry is provided through the kitchen.

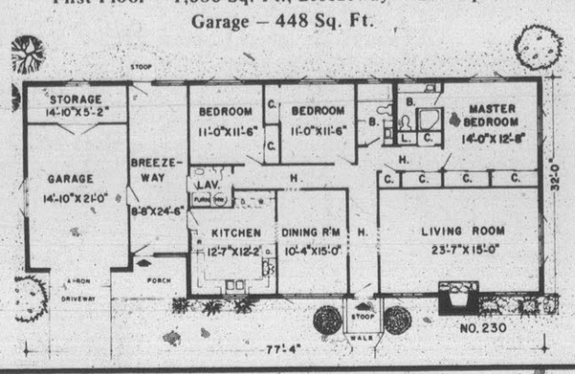

The kitchen, designed in a U-shape, creates an efficient work area and has extra space built in for the washer and dryer. The location of the kitchen is perhaps its greatest asset, with the enclosed breezeway to one side and the dining room to the other. Also, directly to the rear of the kitchen is a half bath and storage space housing the hot water heater and furnace.

Additional storage space is provided at the rear of the garage.

The assets of this home are not entirely within it, but on the exterior as well. The brick-encased ranch home is easy to maintain, of course never needing painting. The stone chimney adds a touch of distinction and vertical siding under the eaves can be painted any color as an accent.

Thus, the free-flowing design of the one-floor ranch home, the "Dunbar," creates convenience with beauty, efficiency with luxury, and excellent living space at a reasonable cost.

First Floor — 1,686 Sq. Ft., Breezeway — 229 Sq. Ft.
Garage — 448 Sq. Ft.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — The wood on the house we bought has no finish of any kind. I got a little cheaper price by agreeing to paint it myself. I'd like to use latex paint. Will one coat be sufficient to cover?

A. — Possibly. But my recommendation has always been to use two coats of exterior latex paint on a wood surface which has never been painted.

Q. — In fitting a door to an opening, how much space should be left at the bottom?

A. — One-eighth of an inch is about right under ordinary circumstances, which would include a threshold under the bottom of the door. Should there be a rug in the room over which the door will move, then the opening should be just enough to clear the rug. If the door slides across the rug rather than slightly over it, there soon will be a worn area there.

Q. — I intend to make a driveway from our newly constructed garage to the street, which is about 80 feet away. Can I use asphalt blacktop?

A. — All building codes that I know of permit the use of blacktop asphalt. However, you should check your local code in any case, since there may be specifications regarding thickness, drainage, etc. Just out of curiosity, weren't all these things checked when the garage was built?

Q. — Would plywood paneling attached to the present gypsum board walls help to make a room soundproof?

A. — Yes, especially if you attach the paneling to the present walls with an adhesive. Be especially careful about following the directions on the adhesive container.

Q. — I am building a utility room off our kitchen to house our washer, dryer, food freezer, etc. Can I use vinyl asbestos tile on the floor?

A. — Yes. It wears well and cleans easily.

Q. — Every time I try to make picture frames from pieces of moulding, I have a difficult time trying to get the corners to match. What is the trick to doing this?

A. — There is no trick. You probably are trying to cut the corners free-handed. It can't be done consistently. Get a miter box and a back saw. The miter box will enable you to get the correct angles; the back saw will make smooth cuts.

Q. — There is a fruit stain on our marble coffee table. It won't come out with water no matter how hard I rub. I'm afraid to try a chemical on it. Is there something that will take out the stain?

A. — Clean well with water, then soak a white paper napkin in a 25 per cent hydrogen peroxide solution and place it on the stain. Let it stay there a couple of days; covering it with a piece of glass to keep it in place. The treatment may have to be repeated two or three times.

Q. — The wood paneling in our family room is covered with varnish. Can I paint right over it?

A. — Yes, but the gloss must be removed first. This can be done with sandpaper or one of the liquid preparations made specifically for this purpose.

Remodeling Is An Alternative

By DOROTHEA BROOKS
United Press Interntional

Prices for new homes are high, and climbing. It still is difficult, and expensive, to obtain a mortgage. For the family that already has a home, but wants something bigger or better, it can makes more sense to improve rather than move.

Remodeling kitchen and baths, adding needed rooms, may meet a family's living requirements as well, or even better, than a move to a new place.

Any house has drawbacks; you know the shortcomings of the one you live in and what it would take to upgrade it. Moving means leaving behind whatever you've put into a house in the way of decorating, improvements, landscaping. It may mean, too, leaving a neighborhood you like, good friends, pleasant associations.

If this is the case, if you like the neighborhood, if the house is basically sound, just too small or a bit outdated, remodeling may be the answer.

But —and it's a big but —you should consider very carefully if the remodeling you plan does make sense in your particular circumstances. Are you likely to be transferred or can you expect to live in the house long enough to make it worthwhile? Major changes are not inexpensive, and they do disrupt living for a while. Will any planned change meet zoning requirements?

Often, remodeling can cost more than it would cost to buy another home with the wanted features. The remodeling may be worth it to your family for reasons other than cost, but you should be fully aware.

A checklist of situations where home improvement generally won't pay off except in personal comfort or convenience is offered by Robert G. Walters, vice president of the residential division of Baird & Warner, Inc., Chicago area real estate company:

..When the improvement makes your house worth substantially more than neighboring homes. Adding bedrooms and bath, for instance, that give you a $60,000 home in a neighborhood of $40,000 homes. This will make it too expensive for the neighborhood and the investment will be difficult if not impossible to recover.

However, Walters notes, this works in reverse if your neighbor decides to remodel because your home then may increase in value. The point is, buyers tend to establish an average price for all neighboring homes. If your home is above the average, it will drop in value; if below, its value will increase.

..When the neighborhood itself is on the downgrade. If the neighborhood is slipping and you decide to remodel, your home will continue to decrease in value despite the added investment.

BUYING A LOT

Buying land involves risks. Contrary to popular belief, land is not a fail-safe investment. The Florida land boom of the mid-20's was not the only time people lost money speculating in land. It happens every day. Here are some guidelines which may help in reducing the risk factor.

Generally speaking, the more you pay for a lot, the surer you are of getting your money's worth. If you pay $3,000 for a developed lot with utility lines already in, you may be better off than buying the same lot for $1,000 before the roads and utilities are built out to it. Development costs vary, but almost anywhere they are rising every year.

If you are not a land expert, the most preferred method of buying a lot is to have a Realtor do your negotiating. His most valuable asset is his knowledge of property values. You are far better off with him on your side.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at LOUIS CLARK AGENCY, IBM Bldg., 100 Reade St., Greenville. Phone: 752-4173. We're here to help!

Plans Being Set For 1975 "Sunday In The Park" Series

PLANNING FOR THE NEW STAGE. . .Stuart Aronson (left) and Boyd Lee study the stage site of "Sunday In The Park" to decide where to place the new stage which has been given by the city, along with a new sound system.

Last year's popular outdoor entertainment program, "Sunday In The Park," is being planned for a revival and expansion in the summer of 1975, according to Stuart Aronson, director of the original program held this past summer.

Plans are once more to have "Sunday In The Park" under the auspices of the Greenville Recreation Department, with the sloped area east of Reede Street between East Third and Fourth Streets as the site of performances.

Aronson revelaed that the City of Greenville is assisting this year by providing "a new sound system, a really fine one and a new larger stage, which we sorely need."

"Right now, at this early stage," Aronson said, "we're seeking broad public support to back the program this summer. Already one of the bigger local manufacturers has given a generous contrution and we hope to get others interested. I personaly feel this is one of the most enjoyable public events anywhere around, something that people of all ages can respond to."

Aronson said that for the summer of 1975 there will hopefully be a total of eight Sunday afternoon performances—all scheduled for late afternoon at approximately twilight time. "Some of the ideas we would like to see materialize include at least one musical comedy in concert form, using the ECU Summer Theater Orchestra, a big band program in a nostalgia night with music of the late 30s and early 40s, and a folk-music program.

One other aspect of "Sunday In The Park" that Aronson said he and Recreation Director Boyd Lee wanted to retain is that of informality. "We feel that part of the popularity of last summer's program had much to do with the relaxed atmosphere. Especially in the hot summer weather, people enjoy the idea of being entertained while they relax."

Film Makers Welcomed To N.C. Festival

The first North Carolina Film Festival, an opportunity for the state's filmmakers to show their work, compete for prize money and exchange ideas, will be held in Chapel Hill April 18-20.

Bryan Elsom and Chris Potter, organizers of the festival, said independent filmmakers typically are not able to show each other their work. The festival will offer them a chance to find a wide audience.

"Everyone we've met and heard from so far has had a million ideas and projects to suggest," Elsom said, "and we need all the help we can get."

Prizes will include cash and a film grant, he said.

The competition will be divided into two categories—films from high school and younger artists in super 8mm, and films from people beyond high school age in super 8mm and 16mm. Classifications within the categories will be dramatic, documentary, animation and experimental. Elsom said the filmmakers will classify their own work.

Films must be entered by March 25 and a $5 entrance fee, which will go toward the prizes, is required. Persons interested in entering should write North Carolina Film Festival, P.O. Box 903, Chapel Hill, N.C., 27514, or call 919-929-4353.

Included in the festival will be workshops and discussions led by a consultant from the N.C. Council of the Arts, and an awards brunch April 20. The UNC Student Union and the student film organization will present simultaneous activities on the UNC campus.

Duke University's Freewater Film Society and Media Center also will participate.

Potter, a UNC graduate student in educational media, said everyone attending the festival will get a source booklet of names, addresses and statewide film resources. A newsletter to keep people in contact also is in the works, he said.

"We know that alternative cinema and film distribution companies will be here, so people who aren't making films commercially will have a chance to find a wide audience," Potter said.

Billy Taylor Nominated For ASCAP Director

Greenville native Billy Taylor has been nominated for the position of one of 12 members for the Board of Directors for the American Society of Composers, Autnors and Publishers (ASCAP), according to Walter Wager, ASCAP's Director of Public Relations.

The ASCAP is a 60 year old organization made up of writers and publishers of musical works, founded to protect the performance rights of lyricists and composers. Currently, ASCAP membership is comprised of some 16,300 composers and lyricists and 6,000 publishers. Membership includes composers of music in all categories —popular as well as classical.

Taylor, who is a composer, author and conductor, has also performed widely, both in the U.S. and in Europe—onstage, in concert and on radio and television. Currently, he is on the Mayor's Cultural Council of New York City.

Within the past couple of years, Billy Taylor has returned home a couple of times to take part in special musical events at East Carolina University.

In his letter notifying that Taylor has been nominated for the Board of ASCAP Directors, Wager notes "It is not possible to predict which candidate will be elected until the tally on March 24th."

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By WILLIE MAE GIBBS

Widow, Lynn Caine's candid and moving account of her personal crisis as one of the more than 10 million widows in America, has been highly acclaimed for the message that it carries for others. To the increasing number of women who are facing widowhood at younger and younger ages, Widow offers sound advice for surviving one of the most painful times any of us can ever anticipate. Important to all women is its warning to those who draw their identities from their husbands, only to lose it completely when their husbands die. Exploring the consequences of suppressing emotion, facing grief totally unprepared, ignorant of the dynamics of the reaction to loss, of dealing with the role of a single woman, a single parent and a single provider in a coupled world, Lynn Caine enlightens not only widows, but others as well. This important book should not be read by women only, for it has a message for husbands also. "It may well turn out to be the textbook on how to cope with loneliness of every sort, to find personhood.

In A New Joy Colleen Townsend Evans relates how a need to become a more deeply committed Christian led her to a study of Scriptures, and then to a deeper, more rewarding study of the Beautitudes. She chose the Beautitudes because she felt they were addressed to believers like her, and had in them the help she needed to live the life to which God had called her. She indicates that as she studied, the Scriptures became very real to her and she began to see that the Bible could be applied to life today. A New Joy is a paraphrase of what she thought Jesus might have said to her had she been alone with Him that day.

The Art Of Winning In Tennis

Mastering The Art Of Winning Tennis—The Psychology Behind Successful Strategy. Compiled, and with an introduction by Claude Albee Frazier, M.D. Toronto, Canada, Pagurian Press Limited, 151 pps, illustrated, paperback, (Handled by Arco Publishing Co., Inc, New York).

An avid tennis player, North Carolina's Dr. Frazier is a two-time winner of Western North Carolina's open doubles—in 1972 and 1973. He was also runner-up in the American Medical Tennis Association tournament in 1973.

The compiler of Mastering The Art Of Winning Tennis is also a tennis man with a flair for writing. He has authored numerous articles and books on medical and non-medical subjects.

This is no ordinary how better to play tennis book, or one designed for the tennis player with a casual win or lose attitude.

In his brief introduction, Dr. Frazier makes his premise crystal clear—that of winning, period. He notes: "The big question is, 'How can we affect those with whom we play tennis so that we can 'beat them?' How can I prepare myself psychologically to win and stay psyched up to psyche out my opponent?"

Sticking to this viewpoint, Dr. Frazier has gathered a dozen contributions from persons whose viewpoints parallel the success in winning motive—psychology professors, psychotherapists, etc. to make a convincing presentation on the idea of tennis psychology.

Readers and tennis players attracted by a similar overwhelming desire to win should find this book invaluable. Tennis players who simply play for exercise, fun and companionship on the court will be disconcerted by the big drag attached to a win or die attitude, perhaps even a little frightened by this concept of programming the human mind to a cold, calculating machine geared only to win.

Claims Jews Boycott Bank Loans To Arabs

By The Associated Press

A prominant Lebanese investment banker today charged that Western banks and financial institutions controlled by Jews regularly boycott loans to Arabs.

But Lucien Dahdah, chairman of the Intra Investment Co., said the refusal of Jewish-controlled banks to take part in loans to Arab institutions was fair.

"We never considered this discrimination and never made an issue of it because we believe anyone is free to use his money wherever he can," he said.

Daddah's firm has joined with Kuwaiti investment banks in barring Western banks that they feel are pro-Zionist from participating in loans managed by their institutions.

President Ford threatened to take "appropriate action" against the Arab blacklist of firms hostile to the Arab cause.

Representatives of the 17 Arab nations that belong to the Arab Boycott of Israel met last Monday in Cairo to update the 23-year-old blacklist.

Referring to Ford's remark, Dahdah said the Arabs were free to decide not to participate in certain deals, adding: "I cannot really see what intervention a government could make to prevent this from happening."

In Washington, a diplomatic source said Friday that Israel told the United States that its arms sales to Arab countries threaten the military balance in the Middle East. The source said the U.S. portion of the $10 billion in military aid given the Arabs since the October 1973 war was alarming.

The source complained in particular about the $700 million in American military aid earmarked for Saudi Arabia. The source spoke under ground rules prohibiting use of his name, his country or direct quotes.

U.S. Embassy sources in Damascus said the United States has signed a $25 million long-term loan and grant agreement with Syria.

Blind Vietnam Veteran Inspires Fellow Workers

PORTLAND, Ore. — "He's made us all get out of our ruts and see another side of life," says Mike Johnson's foreman.

Johnson was blinded and lost his right hand in Vietnam. But despite his handicaps, Johnson operates a drill press at a tool company.

"When I'm feeling blah and I see this guy come into the lunch room whistling and singing and cracking jokes, well, I figure I've got a lot of appreciating to do," said foreman Bill Lewallen.

In Vietnam, Johnson said, he "picked up a live grenade, that's all. One of the guys ahead of me had a hand grenade in his belt and it fell off. I picked it up — involuntary reaction, I guess.

"I was going to throw it off into the surrounding rice paddies, but I didn't quite make it....

"That's the breaks, you know. You could get yourself blinded or have your arm taken off in an industrial accident or a car accident or anywhere else. It just happened that for me it was Vietnam and there was a war."

After Vietnam, the 26-year-old veteran completed two years of machinist training at a local community college. The Portland Center for the Blind, a division of the Oregon Blind Commission, recommended him to Proto Tool Co., the Portland area firm that hired him.

"He's the first blind person we've hired — and he's the most excellent person we've hired," Lewallen said. "The fifth day after he came here he was performing his job at 95 per cent of the standard working rate. The 'average' person should be able to achieve 100 per cent.

"Do you want to know what Mike's performance is now? It's 104 to 107 per cent. He's inspired everybody in this place to increase his own efficiency, too."

Mike is modest. He says the exuberance he shows at work "isn't that much — but it is nice to hear the compliments. It's just as easy to smile as it is to be grouchy."

PHEASANTS DON'T DIG THE DIFFERENT

SANDS POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Although a rarity, the albino pheasant that hangs around the estate of Dr. Theodore Klumpp has very little status among her sister hens. She is allowed at the bird feeder only after the others have eaten their fill, as befits a low girl in the pecking order.

Pirates Hold Off Citadel For 78-66 Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

In what must have been the oddest second half played this year, East Carolina held off a hard charge by The Citadel to take a 78-66 victory last night in the first round of the Southern Conference tournament.

The victory moved East Carolina into the semi-finals of the tournament, where they will meet William & Mary, a 78-64 winner over Davidson last night. That game will be played at 9 p.m. Wednesday night in Greenville, S.C.

After pushing out to as much as a 16-point lead late in the first half, the Pirates had to struggle to avoid a complete loss of composure as The Citadel ripped off eight straight points, but finally trailed by 12 at halftime.

Then, in the second half, with The Citadel putting on a furious press, the Bucs made a number of mistakes that saw their lead slip and slip, until it fell to as little as one point, 54-53.

But using the foul line, and spreading it out to force the Bulldogs out of their zone defense, the Bucs inched back out. They went to the line for their last 10 points to run the lead back out to 12 again.

Oddly enough, the Pirates hit on half of their shots in the second half, nine of 18. The Citadel got off more shots, but after a 60-percentage with five minutes left, fell off to only 45.7 per cent as they missed most of their final shots going to the wire.

"We just got careless with the ball," Coach Dave Patton said afterwards. "We've been awfully down mentally due to the pressure of exams this week.

But we did just like we've always done and played well enough to win it."

The victory was the 19th in 26 starts for the Pirates moving their new single season (major college) record out another notch.

The secret to the Buc success in the second half was their foul shooting. Although there were some misses at key times, there were also some timely shots made, as the Bucs hit 20 of 28 during the half.

The game was a very physical one, with a total of 50 fouls called, 31 of them against The Citadel. The Bulldogs also got after the Pirates on the boards, erasing a big first half margin although the Bucs still held a 43-35 margin overall.

The Citadel took the early lead in the game, hitting the first basket as Greg Morrison connected after one minute. East Carolina tied it up on a jumper by Donnie Owens, then took the lead on a free throw by Robert Geter. Geter added his first basket just seconds later for a 5-2 Pirate lead.

But The Citadel came back with two straight by All-Conference Rodney McKeever to regain the lead at 6-5. It was their last lead.

Buzzy Braman put the Pirates back into the lead, and Larry Hunt and Gregg Ashorn both hit to extend the lead to five, 11-6. The Citadel got a basket, but East Carolina came back on two by Ashorn to up the lead to 15-8.

The Citadel cut it back to three points at 17-14 on a shot by Mike Ange, but again, the Bucs pulled away. From a 21-15 lead, the Bucs tossed in six straight points to go out by 12. Geter got it going with a free throw and Reggie Lee scored off a missed shot. Geter got two more charity shots, and then hit from underneath. Ken Edmonds finished off the string with a jumper with 6:34 left for a 30-16 edge.

Three minutes later, the Bucs upped it to 34-18, their biggest lead of the game.

But instead of folding, the Bulldogs only came back stronger. Ricky Day hit and McKeever added a bucket. John Trimble and McKeever both hit and that cut the lead back to eight. East Carolina pulled back out on baskets by Ashorn to hold a 40-28 lead at halftime, however.

Morrison hit the opening basket of the second half, then Richard Johnson scored to cut the lead to 40-32. East Carolina went back out by 12, but a basket by Rick Barger and a three-pointer by Day cut the lead to seven.

It hung there with the two swapping points until McKeever scored to cut the lead to 50-45 with 12:31 left. After a Pirate free throw, Ange hit and that cut the lead to four.

The Bucs got another free throw after an exchange, but a basket by McKeever trimmed it to three, 54-51. McKeever hit once more and that cut the margin to just a point, 54-53.

Tom Marsh came up with a three-point play to give the Bucs some breathing room, and Braman added two buckets for make it five again.

For another spell, the two swapped buckets, until Marsh hit to run it to 69-66 with 3:08 left. But the string ran out on them there, and they failed to score again.

East Carolina meanwhile tossed in seven straight free throws, slamming the door.

Ashorn led the Pirates with 19 points, while Geter had 18, Larry Hunt had 13 (and 10 rebounds), and Marsh had 11.

For The Citadel, McKeever had 27, and Morrison and Day each had 11.

The Bucs, and Indians join Furman and VMI in the semifinals of the tournament on Wednesday. The finals will be Thursday night.

VMI Surprises Richmond Five

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia Military's Keydets built up an 11-point second half lead and survived a three-minute drought in which they didn't score Saturday night and defeated Richmond 85-81 in the quarter-finals of the Southern Conference basketball tournament.

It was the first victory in the conference tournament for the Keydets since 1964, when they took the championship with Coach Bill Blair one of the players.

The victory lifted VMI's overall record to 13-12—the first time the Keydets ever have won that many basketball games in a season—and moved them into next Wednesday night's tournament semifinals at Greenville, S. C.

Bob McCurdy, the nation's leading major college scorer, tallied 34 points to lead Richmond, which twice in the last three minutes narrowed its deficit to a single point but never could get the basket to put the Spiders in front.

With VMI ahead 78-77, a basket by Dave Montgomery and two foul shots by John Krovic gave the Keydets a five-point lead with 1:27 to go, and after that Krovic nailed it down with three free throws.

Will Bynum led the Keydets with 20 points, Krovic wound up with 18 and Carter with 17, but VMI almost frittered the game away with loose ball handling under Richmond's ball-hawking defense in the last five minutes.

Kevin Eastman had 18 points for Richmond, which finished the season with a 10-16 record, but fouled out with 3:07 to play in the rough contest before a crowd of about 4,000 at Robins Center.

It was tied at 47-47 at halftime, but for the first 9½ minutes after intermission Richmond went stone cold from the floor and scored only 10 points, nine of those by McCurdy.

During that span, with Carter and Montgomery leading the charge, VMI moved in front 65-59 and the Spiders never caught up.

Bucs Take Wrestling For 4th Straight Year

RICHMOND, Va.(AP)—East Carolina's Pirates won six individual championships and their fourth consecutive Southern Conference wrestling title Saturday by 26 points over William and Mary's Indians.

The Pirates finished with 159½ points to 143½ for William and Mary, which had three individual winners, including the tournament's most valuable wrestler, Mark Belknap.

Dale Midkiff of Appalachian State, which finished third with 84½ points, won the only title not taken by the Pirates or Indians. He pinned William and Mary's Malcolm Hunter at 158 pounds.

Belknap was one of five defending champions who won. He pinned Dennis France of Appalachian in 5:27 for his third straight pin in the 134-pound class. Belknap now has a 41-0 record and is ranked No. 1 in the country in his division.

Repeat winners for East Carolina were Jimmy Blair at 118, Tom Marriott at 142, heavyweight Willie Bryant and Mike Radford, last year's 190-pound winner who wrestled this time at 177.

But East Carolina's Danny Monroe, who had won three straight titles at 126 before he was sidelined all of last season with an injury, was defeated in the finals by Jim Hicks of William and Mary.

John Welborn of East Carolina was voted coach of the year.

Trailing the three team leaders were Richmond with 53 points, the Citadel with 46, Virginia Military with 37 and Davidson with 11.

Carolina Rally Topples Duke

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Phil Ford and Walter Davis scored 22 points each and North Carolina had to come from behind in the second half for a 74-70 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over Duke Saturday, winding up the regular season for both clubs.

The 14th ranked Tar Heels, trailing 39-36 at halftime, pulled ahead of Duke's Blue Devils early in the second period at 42-40, but the score was tied nine times before North Carolina pulled ahead for good.

The victory put North Carolina into a three-way tie with North Carolina State and Clemson for second place in the conference race.

Pairings in next week's tournament will be settled in drawings Sunday.

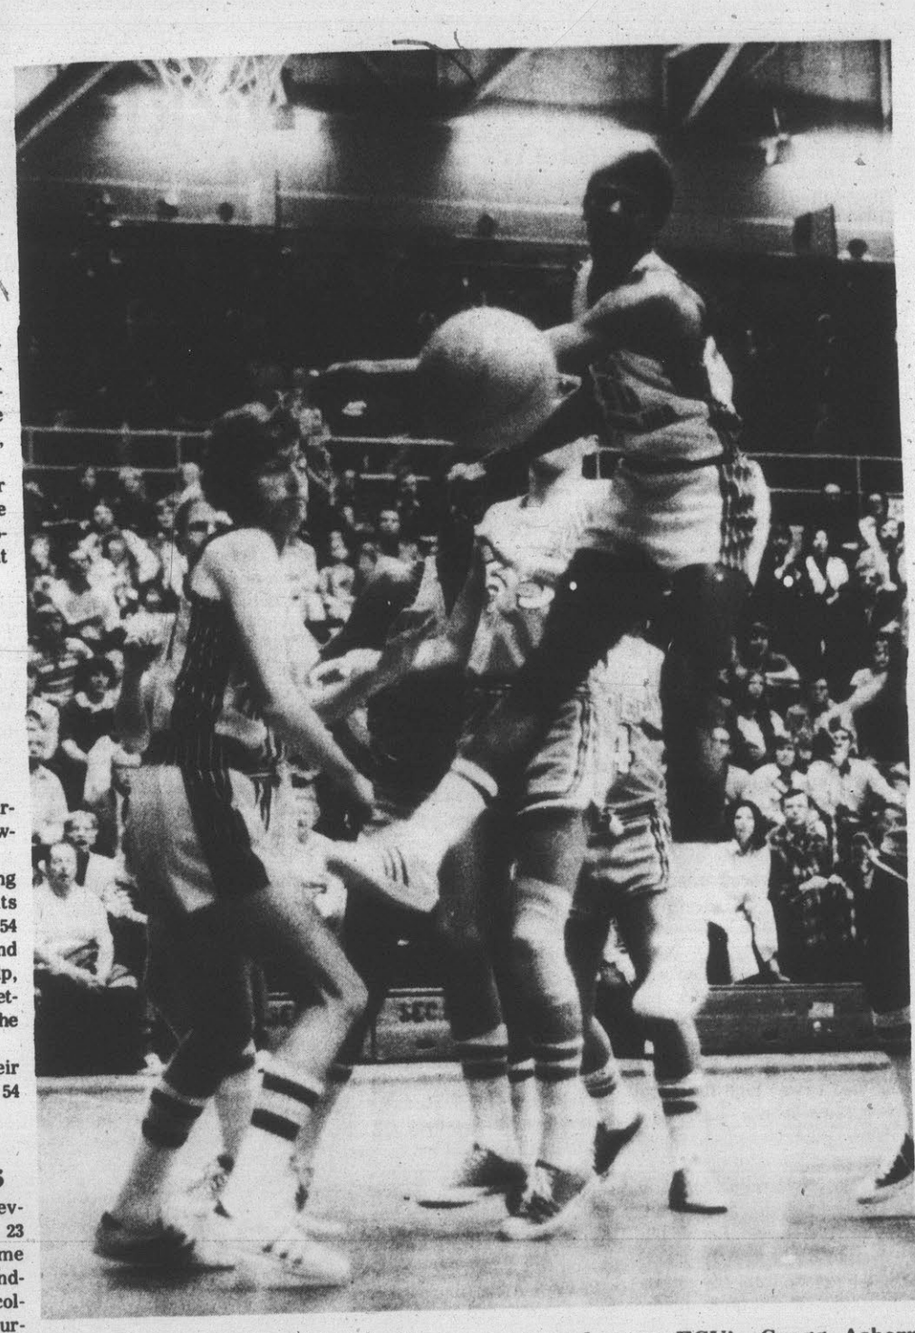

North Carolina, after pulling into a 60-60 tie, went into its four-corner offense with 7:54 remaining in the game and Ford, with John Kuester's help, pecked away at the nets, getting nine of his 22 points in the closing minutes.

The Tar Heels managed their biggest lead, 71-62, with 1:54 left.

Clemson Wins

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Eleventh-ranked Clemson used 23 points by freshman Stan Rome and an overwhelming rebounding game to coast to a 93-59 college basketball victory Saturday night over Biscayne.

The Tigers won their 16th game against nine defeats. It was their last regular-season contest before the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament.

Pirates Open Baseball Season On Tuesday, Hosting Campbell

East Carolina University's defending Southern Conference championship baseball team will be hoping to snap one streak and answer some questions here March 4 when it takes on Campbell College. Starting time is 3 p.m.

The Pirates rolled up a 17-13 overall and 12-2 conference mark in 1974 en route to the NCAA District III playoffs. But included in the 13 losses is a five-game losing streak that ended the Pirate season. Head baseball coach George Williams said he wanted to break that streak, but in an equally important mood, answer some questions about the 1975 team.

"We lost all but three starters from 1974's team," said Williams. "But we are not rebuilding this year. We have some top quality young men who want to win, and we will get a lot of opportunities to do so."

Ron Staggs heads the list of returning starters. The lefthanded hitting first-baseman led the Pirates last season with a .326 average and seven home runs. During the summer, he destroyed Shenandoah Valley League pitching (.417, 10 home runs, unanimous MVP vote) and will be counted on to lead the Pirates this season.

Wayne Bland, another senior, is a righthanded pitcher who was the third cog in the Pirates' "Big Three' pitching staff that finished third nationally with a 1.83 era. And Beaston, a two-year starter with two more years to go, will again anchor the infield. But he will be doing so from third base this season, and not second as last year.

Williams had a very good recruiting year last year, though the final poll on that aspect won't be tallied until the end of the 1975 season. He picked up four freshman prospects and eight proven players from the junior college ranks, including five from Louisburg College's champion 1974 summer baseball league team.

The Pirates will be playing a 35-game regular-season schedule this year, including 10 doubleheaders. Of the 35 games, 21 are slated for March alone. This schedule will give Coach Williams and assistant Monte Little ample opporutnity to evaluate the talent gathered. Most important, Williams wants to evaluate the pitching staff which, if not properly developed this season, will be the Pirates' Achilles heel.

"We have one experienced pitcher in Bland," said Williams. "We also have some talented individuals with a lot of potential who could help us.

"Steve Herring could decide a lot of games for us. Joe Heavner pitched well last year but didn't get some crucial breaks. Bob Feeney, Terry Durham, Dean Reavis, Alex Saraglow and Mike Weaver can all help us. At least with all those March games, they will get a chance."

Following the Campbell contest, the Pirates travel to Duke for a doubleheader March 6 and entertain N.C. State for a pair March 8. The Pirates go to State for a return twin bill March 12.

WGNL To Air Some Contests

WGNL Radio, 1550-AM, will broadcast a selected schedule of 16 Pirate baseball games during the 1975 season.

Bill Allen, vice-president in charge of operations and news-sports director for WGNL, will handle the play-by-play commentary and another familiar Greenville radio personality, Johnny West, will provide color analysis.

The schedule is broken into 12 home and 4 away games. Included are key games as the Pirates face Maryland, Duke, N.C. State and UNC-Chapel Hill from the Atlantic Coast Conference and the always tough seven Southern Conference opponents.

"The baseball program at East Carolina has been great over the years and deserves to be brought to the public," Allen commented. "The broadcasts are intended as a public service and we would like to thank the University and the East Carolina Athletic Council for permitting us to do these games."

Allen also stated that any station wishing to pick up all or specific broadcasts are asked to contact WGNL or the East Carolina University Sports Information Office.

Suggs Wins Two Events As Bucs Second To Indians In SC Track

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP)—William and Mary's Indians, scoring heavily in the distances as expected, rolled to their 10th consecutive Southern Conference indoor track championship Saturday in a meet that saw six records broken and an automatic mark in a new event.

The Indians, placing four runners in the top five in both the mile and three-mile, ran up 110 points to 70 for East Carolina's Pirates, who dominated the shorter running events.

Two records were set Saturday by William and Mary—by John Schilling with a leap of 6-10 in the high jump that was matched by teammate and defending champion Al Irving, who finished second, and by Ron Martin with a time of 8:49.8 in the two-mile.

Martin was coming back from running on two winning relay teams Friday night, one of which—the distance medley relay quartet—set a mark of 10:13.6.

Carter Suggs of East Carolina, one of the meet's two double winners, set a record of 6.1 seconds in the 60-yard dash and the Pirates' Jerry Klas set a mark of 2:10.8 in the 880, an event usually dominated by the Indians, who this time went for longer events.

Suggs, who also won the 440 in a nonrecord 50.2, was named the meet's outstanding performer, and William and Mary's John Randolph was named conference coach of the year.

The other double winner was William and Mary's Reggie Clark, who took the 880 and mile, neither in record time. It was Clark's record of last year that Klas broke in the 1,000.

Charles Dobson of William and Mary had set the other record with a 7-second clocking in qualifying for the 60-yard high hurdles. He won the event in a nonrecord 7.2.

The automatic mark went to Chris Tulou of William and Mary with a time of 14:11.4 in the three-mile, a new event this year.

Richmond To Withdraw From Southern

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The University of Richmond has decided to leave the Southern Conference ranks by mid-1976 after playing in the league for nearly 30 years and seek out through its independent status other teams capable of producing more revenue.

The UR Board of Trustees was unanimous Saturday in its vote to drop out of the conference. A June 1976 deadline was set.

The school will immediately begin searching for possible affiliation with another conference, with the Atlantic Coast Conference being the most desired.

In the meantime, the University of Richmond will consider "a loose affiliation with the Eastern College Athletic Conference for purposes of basketball and track scheduling," the board said.

"The action taken by the board is in keeping with the university's commitment to excellence in every aspect of university life," a spokesman said.

Clyde Biggers, director of athletics, said there probably would be no immediate efforts to enter the ACC, a step which some observers say would take years to achieve.

"Right now our plans are to develop our program and bring us along to reach the goals we've set," Biggers said. "I couldn't hazard a guess on when we'd try for the ACC."

Biggers said he fully supported the decision.

"We're interested in making certain we have the greatest possible income from our major sports programs," he added.

Richmond entered the Southern Conference in 1936 and became one of its strongest members after Virginia Tech withdrew in 1965 and West Virginia in 1968.

Biggers linked the decision to changes in the conference and expected changes which would include schools now holding college division status.

Some Southern Conference teams are not drawing cards in Richmond, and "we aren't drawing cards at their place, either," he said.

Appalachian State was admitted to the league three years ago. Western Carolina currently is under consideration, and Madison and Old Dominion have been mentioned.

In recent years, Richmond has been one of the top football powers in the conference.

Biggers said the university has a mandate to make improvements over-all.

As for future schedules, Biggers said the school expected no major changes through the 1980s, retaining some of the long-standing rivals.

Other major schools will be played in the future.

"In football in 1977, we have Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia and, of course, Virginia Tech," Biggers said. "These are five top institutions in football."

Basically, the decision to become independent boiled down to the school's need for additional revenue produced by athletics.

"With the advent of limitations on grants, the look at funding for non-revenue sports, and with the coming picture of women's sports, all schools are going to have to take a long, hard look at their situations," Biggers said.

State Honors David Thompson

RALEIGH, N.C.(AP)—David Thompson, playing the final home game of his marvelous career, scored 36 points Saturday night to lead seventh ranked N.C. State to a 103-80 victory over North Carolina-Charlotte.

The Wolfpack retired Thompson's jersey number, 44, before the game started. By the time he fouled with 2:50 left, the 6-4 senior from Shelby, N.C., had given the home fans a performance to remember.

Thompson personally secured the game late in the first half after the 49ers had moved to within seven points of State. With four free throws, a pair of steals, and two scoring layups, he gave State a lead that could not be challenged.

In the second half, he added a couple of "ally-oop" layups, the patented offensive move in which he soars high over the basket, takes a pass and drops it through the hoop.

Finally, Thompson atoned for several years of frustration when he took a lead pass and flamboyantly dunked it through the basket. The points didn't count, however, since the dunk is illegal.

Thompson's heroics overshadowed the game itself in which State improved its record 20-5 and snapped a two-game losing streak.

UNC-Charlotte, a relatively new institution looking for recognition as a major power, dropped to 20-3 with its loss and may have also dropped out of contention for an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament.

Paladins Slip Past Appalachian

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Craig Lynch broke two ties within the last 3½ minutes and scored nine of Furman's last 13 points Saturday night, bringing the Paladins from behind to defeat Appalachian State 75-69 in the first round of the Southern Conference Tournament.

Appalachian State, which finished last in the conference, played like one of the league's best as they trailed by only six at the Paladins' widest bulge and led by as much as seven, five minutes into the second half 55-48.

The game, which was tied nine times in all, was deadlocked 63-63 before Lynch put Furman ahead with 3:28 remaining. Appalachian State tied the game at 65-all but Lynch again put the Paladins in front with 2:57 to play, this time for good.

Lynch added two more field goals and one free throw in the last minute as the Southern Conference regular season champs pushed their lead to eight, 75-67, with only 26 seconds left to play.

Lynch, who led all Furman scorers with 20 points, was followed by Clyde Mayes with 18 points and 13 rebounds. Appalachian State's Ed Kane won game-high honors with 25 points.

With the win, Furman, 20-6, recorded its third-straight 20-win season, their 17th straight home win and 23rd consecutive conference victory.

Appalachian State ends the season with a 3-23 mark.

Indians Down Davidson Club

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Reserve John Kratzer sent William and Mary ahead for good with eight minutes left Saturday night and the Indians hit 18 consecutive free throws in the last 6:45 for a 78-64 Southern Confernce basketball tournament victory over Davidson's Wildcats.

The triumph moved the third-seeded Indians, who finished 7-6 in the conference and now are 15-11 over-all, into next Wednesday night's semifinals at Greenville, S. C.

The score was tied 50-50 when Kratzer broke the final deadlock. Dennis Vail scored for the Indians and John Lowenhaupt then hit two jumpers in succession as the Indians completed an eight-point run in a 2:40 period.

At that stage, the Indians went to their four-corner offense and demolished Davidson at the foul line, hitting 18 shots in a row.

For the game, the Indians hit 24 of 29 at the free throw line to just six of 13 for the Wildcats, who bowed out with a 4-6 league record and a 7-19 overall mark.

Matt Courage led the Indians with 19 points and also grabbed 13 rebounds as the Indians enjoyed a 52-32 rebound advantage. Lowenhaupt and Vail had 16 points each for the Indians.

The Wildcats, who had been picked as a conference contender before the season started, were led by Greg Dunn with 17 points, Larry Horowitz with 16 and Kevin Doherty with 10.

Nicklaus Grabs Gleason Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, exhibiting the authority that has made him the game's premier performer, came from five strokes off the pace Saturday with a solid 66 and took the third-round lead in the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Golf Classic.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin had a 72 for 207. PGA king Lee Trevino was nine shots back at 211 after a 71. Miller, a three-time winner this season, is not competing.

Nicklaus has long contended that "the third round is the round that you set yourself up to win the golf tournament."

And he used that favorite formula to perfection, playing with the controlled power and intense concentration that has gained him a record 14 major championships.

Starting five strokes behind, he birdied the first hole from 20 feet. He holed a 12-foot putt for birdie on the fifth and made his big rush coming home.

Nicklaus scored a deuce from 18 feet on the 12th and wedged to three feet on the next hole.

That put him one shot back.

He lipped out a 12-foot birdie putt on the 16th hole, gained a share of the lead with a 15-footer on the next and took full control on the final hole, stroking a wedge only five feet from the cup.

Pearce, playing in the same group with Palmer, matched two birdies with as many bogeys and lost his lead when he failed to convert potential birdie putts on the last two holes.

Palmer's round was a horror story.

"Don't make me tell you about it," he pleaded. "I don't even want to think about it."

He bogeyed two par-fives, He once three-putted from six feet. He was in the trees. He was in traps. He was in almost constant trouble.

He once hit from a green-side bunker across the green into another bunker. He once putted off the green—then holed it coming back.

And he was shaking his head when it was over.

"It was an unbelievable round," he said, and then, in response to a question, replied staight-faced as could be: "Of course, I just did it for the gallery. It must have been very exciting for them."

Ford Has New Sports Rulings

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has in its possession today the controversial federal rules to outlaw sex discrimination in universities and colleges, including intercollegiate athletics.

Caspar W. Weinberger, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, approved the regulations Friday and sent them to President Ford for his signature.

Under an unusual provision in the 1972 law barring unequal treatment of the sexes, the complex regulations must be submitted to a 45-day congressional review after the President signs them.

Without any major legislative changes by Congress, HEW sources said, the rules should be in place in time to be enforced when schools reopen in the fall.

The final regulations have not been made public yet and a copy of them could not be obtained immediately. However, government sources said they basically are unchanged from the version proposed last June, except for a few new exemptions ordered by Congress.

At that time, Weinberger told a news conference that the proposed regulations "would neither exempt nor disrupt intercollegiate athletics as some have feared; rather the regulation moves in the direction of insuring better opportunities for women in athletic programs."

The regulations, implementing Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, would permit universities to have separate teams for males and females or a single team open to both sexes.

However, if separate teams are offered, the school may not discriminate on the basis of sex in providing the equipment and supplies, "or in any other way, but equal aggregate expenditures are not required."

The goal of the regulation on competitive athletics, according to HEW, is to secure equal opportunity for males and females while allowing schools and colleges flexibility in determining how best to provide such opportunities.

Opponents of the regulations as they pertain to sports argue that the universities and colleges must spend equal money, which they claim they don't have, in order to provide equal opportunity for women.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association has attempted, so far unsuccessfully, to obtain a congressional waiver for big money sports such as football and basketball.

New Breed To Challenge Old

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — A new generation of drivers apparently has arrived to challenge the long-time domination of the Richard Pettys, David Pearsons and Cale Yarbroughs of stock car racing.

Benny Parsons, who had won only twice on the South's big ovals in seven years of trying, upset the big money-makers in the recent Daytona 500. And most said it was high time.

Now, two weeks later, the Winston Cup Grand National entourage is working up to Sunday's $107,000 Carolina 500. And the young muscle is at it again.

Buddy Baker and Petty, big winners over the last 15 years, nailed the two front-row starting berths in Friday's qualifying trials just about as expected.

But Parsons and two nonwinners grabbed three of the first six positions in what will become a 36-car line-up and the experts are saying another upset may be in the making.

Baker's speed in a Ford was 137.611 miles an hour, the fastest lap recorded at the one-mile North Carolina Motor Speedway since Bobby Allison set the track record of 139.048 in 1970.

Petty, going for an unprecedented sixth Grand National title and coming off a 1974 season that netted him $330,000 in prize and bonus money, was clocked at 137.394 mph in a Dodge.

But Darrell Waltrip, a 26-year-old comparative newcomer from Franklin, Tenn., and 1974 Rookie of the Year Lennie Pond surprised the other "establishment" drivers by nailing the two second-row spots in Chevrolets—with speeds that will make them extremely competitive once the 36 starters roll off the line at noon Sunday.

Parson, in the same Chevrolet with which he bagged the $41,600 first-place check at Daytona, joined another nonwinner, Dave Murcis in a Dodge, in the third row.

And behind the first six, in the fourth row, will be such notables as $1 million career winner David Pearson and Cale Yarborough, who could reach that financial level with a good season this year.

Petty is a six-time winner at Rockingham and Pearson has won three of the last four races at the track.

Either very well could do it again Sunday, but Waltrip and Parsons, in particular, say they'll have to be shown.

"We haven't exactly been lost in the shuffle the last two years," said Waltrip, a tall, likeable driver who got his training on the short tracks around Nashville, Tenn.

"But I think this younger bunch of drivers has arrived, and with each race we're going to be stronger," he added.

Parsons proved it could be done when he won Daytona after chasing Pearson at speeds over 180 mph. Waltrip, Parsons, Pond and Marcis won't be running that fast at Rockingham, but all else is qual. Waltrip says so.

Conley Third In State 3-A

DURHAM—Melvin Williams came off a bad experience Friday night to score 16 points to lead D.H. Conley to a 66-55 victory over Graham to finish third in the state 3-A playoffs last night.

Williams, who only had four points in the Vikings' semi-final game sat out most of that affair foul-ridden. He was followed by Gerry Mobley's 14 points, Clennel Streeter's 13 and Rick Mobley's 12.

Graham took the lead in the first quarter taking a seven-point lead, 19-12. The Vikings sliced three off the lead by halftime taking the third second quarter, 18-15 to trail 34-30.

In the third period, the Vikings went on a scoring binge hitting 25 points as Graham froze up scoring only nine. That pushed the Vikings into the lead 55-43. Graham took the final period by a point, 12-11, but could not close the gap.

Wester led Graham with 13 and Pennix had 10.

Conley—R. Mobley 12, G. Mobley 14, Williams 16, C. Streeter 13, Hawkins, Harris 4, Baggett 4, J. Streeter 3, Keyes, Gould, Bailey, Nobles.

West Brunswick Nips Conley, 64-63

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

DURHAM—Wayman Marlowe hit two free throws with 12 seconds left to give West Brunswick a 64-61 lead, and the eventual winning points as the Trojans took a 64-63 win over D.H. Conley in the State 3-A basketball Tournament semi-finals Friday night.

The game was fantastically fierce. Neither team could gain more than a six-point lead which West Brunswick held in the third quarter, 56-50. Conley fought back on four baskets at the start of the fourth quarter to take the lead, 58-56, as West Brunswick hit a mental lapse.

West Brunswick added two free throws with 37 seconds left by Lee Vance Frink to regain the lead, and Marlowe's shots clinched it.

Both teams had phenominal nights from the floor. Conley hit exactly 50 per cent, 26 of 52, and West Brunswick hit 27 of 56.

In the first half, the Vikings hit a blazing 72.7 per cent while West Brunswick hit 65 per cent. Conley made one more free throw than the Trojans, but the Trojans made one more field goal.

The score was tied three times in the first two minutes of play. Both Rick Mobley and West Brunswick's Chasey Brown hit their first two shots as both teams put in four points. Gerry Mobley gave Conley the lead, 6-4, tapping in a rebound, but Trojan Jimmy Bromell bombed two from the corner as the Trojans went on top, 8-6.

Neither team could gain an advantage until Clennel Streeter hit for the Vikings from outside for a 16-12 lead with 2:59 left in the quarter. After two Trojan free throws, Rick Mobley and Robert Harris both scored, giving Conley a 20-14 lead.

Conley went cold for a minute and a half, letting the Trojans tie the score. Two baskets by Woodrow Stevenson and a shot from the lane by Bromell, knotted it 20-20 but Gerry Mobley got the lead back for the Vikings on two free throws as the quarter ended.

The pace refused to slacken in the second quarter. The Trojans popped in two of their first three shots to take a 24-22 lead, and Brown added one from the corner as West Brunswick went out by four, 26-22.

Conley, which had been in a 1-2-2 defense, changed to a 3-2, because, Coach Shelly Marsh said, "Marlowe wasn't hurting us that much with his outside shooting."

A three-point play by Rick Mobley cut the lead to two, and two more baskets tied it twice, 28-28, and 30-30. A free shot by Bromell regained the lead for the Trojans, and they held it through the rest of the half. The trojans added 10 as did the Vikings for a Trojan lead of 42-40 at halftime.

Harris sank Conley's second shot of the third quarter to tie the game 42-42, but Marlowe sank a 30-foot jumper giving the advantage right back to the Trojans. The score was tied one more time, but another basket by Marlowe and one by Frink, along with a free throw, made it 49-44.

Conley fought back once again to tie the score on a basket by Gerry Mobley and a three-point play by brother Rick. Frink had two rebounds as West Brunswick went back up by two and Bromell added five points as the quarter closed to give West Brunswick a 56-50 lead.

At the beginning of the fourth quarter, West Brunswick fell apart mentally. They didn't score until 1:48 was left in the game, but in the meantime Conley had moved out to a 60-56 lead.

In the first five minutes, Conley scored two buckets by Rick Mobley, one by Harris, and one by Melvin Williams, who scored on the sixth attempt at the basket during one rebounding session.

Stevenson finally broke the ice for the Trojans to cut the lead to two, only to see Gerry Mobley make a free throw, giving the Vikings a three-point lead with 1:33 to play.

Bromell narrowed the gap to one, and Frink drew a costly foul on Gerry Mobley with 37 seconds to go. He made both ends of the one-and-one to give the Trojans the lead, 62-61.

Twenty-five seconds later, Marlowe added his pair. Conley worked the ball in to Williams, who tapped in a shot to cut the lead to one with four seconds left, and the Vikings immediately called time out.

On the inbounds play, Rick Mobley fouled Brown, but he missed the free throw. Conley again called time out with one second left on the clock. Mobley took a long inbounds pass, turned and shot from 50 feet, but it was just inches off the mark, giving West Brunswick the win.

Bromell led the Trojan scoring with 25 points, while Brown had 13 and Frink added 12. Mobley, who hit his first nine shots, finished with 28 points to lead the Vikings. Gerry Mobley had 13 and Harris, 10.

West Brunswick moved into the finals against Washington, while Conley took on Sanford in the consolation game Saturday night.

Takes Anger Out By Winning Mile

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — American distance queen Francie Larrieu, angered over an Amateur Athletic Union ruling that barred her from the two-mile run, coasted to victory in the mile with a self-imposed handicap at the AAU indoor championships.

"It was just sort of an experiment," said Miss Larrieu after she won the race Friday night despite running almost exclusively in the second lane.

"I was angry because I wasn't allowed to run the two-mile. I was playing a game with myself. It just sort of happened. It was easier on the turns and when I found myself in the second lane I figured I'd stay there until I was pressed. But I was never pressed."

Miss Larrieu had planned to run both races so she could enter both Monday night in Richmond, Va., in the U.S.-Russia duel meet. The top two American finishers in each event Friday night qualified for the Richmond meet.

But AAU officials ruled her out of the two-mile, despite the fact that she holds the American record at that distance, because she didn't have a qualifying time during the required period of Dec. 1, 1974-Feb. 22, 1975.

"I can understand their position," said Miss Larrieu, "however, if they want the best team to go against the Russians they could have bent the rules a little bit."

The 22-year-old UCLA student won the mile in an unimpressive 4:42.8, beating Julie Brown, also of UCLA, by one second.

Dwight Stones, who set a world record in the high jump last week at 7-feet, 5¾ inches, won his specialty at 7-3, then missed three times at 7-4½.

"I just didn't have any motivation. I had a weird feeling about this meet," said Stones, who represents the Pacific Coast Club. "I just couldn't get any practice jumps. My friendly competitors kept getting in the way. Officials were walking across my approach. It was irritating.

Rick Wohlhuter, running for the Chicago Track Club, captured the 1,000 yard run in 2:06.4, while Filbert Bayi, the 21-year-old Tanzanian star, completed an undefeated five-race United States tour by pulling away from Brigham Young's Paul Cummings to take the mile in 4:02.1.

Miruts Yifter of Ethiopia was named the meet's outstanding performer. Yifter, bronze medalist at the 1972 Olympics, turned in a brilliant closing kick to win the three-mile run in 13:07.6, only four-tenths of a second off the U.S. indoor record.

Al Feuerbach, another Pacific Coast Clubber heading for Richmond, won the shot put with a heave of 67 feet, 10 inches.

With Francie sidelined, Brenda Webb captured the women's two-mile in 10:22. Miss Webb, a slim sophomore at Wayne State, had a mixed opinion about Miss Larrieu's absence.

"In a way I wish she had run because we would have a stronger team against the Russians," she said, "but she has to follow the rules. How can you have an organization if no one follows rules?"

The pole vault turned into a 4½-hour marathon with a record nine vaulters clearing 17 feet before Roland Carter of the Gulf Coast Track Club finally won it at 17-6.

MAREK LED BIG 10

CHICAGO (AP) — Junior tailback Bill Marek of Wisconsin is sixth in the all-time Big Ten scoring list and has another football season. Last year he scored 90 points on 15 touchdowns to run his two-year total to 198 points. His final three games were incredible. In them he scored 13 touchdowns and rushed for 206, 230 and 304 yards, respectively.

Marek missed Wisconsin's first two games of the season with injuries. In the six games he played he covered 966 yards on 155 carries for a 161-yards-per-game average.

Church Action

Presbyterian and Jarvis claimed victories in the Church Basketball League Friday night. The results helped Immanuel to reduce the number of teams that can catch them to only two, eliminating Black Jack.

In the first game, Jarvis took a 47-28 victory over Trinity. Trinity eased out into a 14-11 lead over Jarvis by halftime. But in the second half, Jarvis came back with a 36-14 margin, more than enough to take the win.

Buddy Turnage led Jarvis with 24 points, while Donnie Bowman had 22 for Trinity.

In the second game Presbyterian took a 68-56 win over Black Jack. Presbyterian eased to a 32-31 lead in the first half, then outhit Black Jack, 36-25, to gain the win.

Larry Graham led Presbyterian with 18 points, while Richard Holloman and Joe Jenkins each had 14. Bobby Edwards led Black Jack with 18, while Phil Page had 14, Tal Adams had 12 and Danny Edwards had 10.

ECU Women In Loss To Western

BOONE—Poor shooting brought an end to the hopes of the East Carolina University women's basketball team for a state championship Friday night. Western Carolina came from behind to take a 71-62 victory and move into Saturday's finals against defending champion Elon.

The Bucettes played good defense in the game, but their offensive performance and their board work meant the difference.

In the first half, East Carolina shot only 30 percent, and things went downhill from there. By the end of the game, they finished with only 28 per cent shooting from the floor.

Coupled with that was a 57-42 margin in rebounding by Western Carolina that allowed East Carolina few chances to get second shots when they did miss. Susan Manning led the Buc rebounding efforts with 12, while Debbie Freeman and Lu Ann Swaim each had 11.

The game was close throughout the first half of play, with East Carolina managing a 28-26 lead after one period of play.

But in the second half, the poor shooting and rebounding began to take their toll, and Western pulled into the lead and slowly edged away. By the end of the half, they had outhit the Bucettes, 45-34, and taken the victory.

East Carolina's scoring was led by Sheila Cotton with 21 while Miss Swaim had 15 and Miss Freeman added 11. Sharon Jones led Western Carolina with 25 points, while Judy Stroud and Brenda Johnson each had 11 and Linda McDowell had 10.

East Carolina was to meet Wake Forest for the consolation title Saturday afternoon. The Bucettes will join the Deaconesses and Elon and Western in the regional tournament next week at Elon College.

Western Carolina—Jones 25, McDowell 10, Halford 8, Stroud 11, Mincey 4, Johnson 11, White 2.

UCLA Nips California, Heads Toward 9th Straight Pac-8 Title

By DAN BERGER
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A much-maligned guard made the key play as UCLA squeaked past stubborn, stalling California and headed for a ninth successive Pacific-8 Conference basketball title.

Pete Trgovich, who had been shooting just 39 per cent from the floor a month ago, stole the ball from California guard Ricky Hawthorne with 18 seconds to play Friday night, drove down and scored unmolested as the Bruins, rated No. 5, edged the Golden Bears 51-47.

"On the play before the steal, I didn't know whether the coaches wanted me to play back or gamble," said the 6-foot-5 guard from Indiana. "So I played back and double-teamed Hawthorne. When the return pass came, I just happened to be there and that was it."

Trgovich was fouled on the layin, made the free throw and then added two more free throws with seven seconds left.

The Bruin theme song might have been "Night and Day" for the way they played—so poorly in the first half and so well in the second.

Cal led 27-20 at intermission but Dave Meyers led UCLA back.

"Our first half was the most miserable first half played by a UCLA team in Pauley Pavilion," said Coach John Wooden. "I thought we played an exceptional game in the second half...The difference in the second half was not that Cal played poorly, but that we played so much better."

Meyers hit seven of eight from field for 16 points and in the second half the Bruins hit 13 for 16 from the field. That's 81.3 per cent.

It was UCLA's 80th consecutive victory at home and gave the Bruins a 21-3 season record, 10-2 in the Pac-8.

Across town, Southern California got 16 points each from senior Gus Williams and freshman Earl Evans as the Trojans pounded past Stanford 85-77. John Lambert's key baskets midway through the second half triggered an 8-0 spurt and gave the Trojans the lead for good.

A late basket by Lonnie Shelton helped Oregon State stay on UCLA's heels with a 44-41 triumph over stalling Washington State. The Beavers are 9-3 in the conference.

Rounding out the Pac-8, Greg Ballard gave Oregon a hard-fought 97-96 victory over Washington with two free throws in the final 10 seconds.

Elsewhere in college basketball, 10th-ranked Penn buried Yale 98-73 and clinched a tie for its sixth straight Ivy League title; No. 15 Texas-El Paso beat Utah 71-65; No. 18 Pan American beat Mexico City University 102-91 in an exhibition game, and No.19 Arizona defeated Colorado State 107-97.

Also, New Mexico defeated Brigham Young 77-72 in overtime; Princeton trimmed Brown 61-57; Harvard routed Columbia 111-72; Dartmouth coasted past Cornell 95-73; Air Force downed California-Irvine 70-58; Arizona State routed Wyoming 94-76; Idaho turned back Idaho State 70-66 and Seattle stopped St. Mary's 72-65.

Kingman Moves To New York

By The Associated Press

The New York Mets need home run punch and the San Francisco Giants need money.

Both teams got what they needed Friday when the Mets purchased slugger Dave Kingman from the Giants for an estimated $100,000.

The Giants, who once demanded a Met pitcher for their inconsistent slugger, settled for cash this time because of their problems at the gate. The Giants have been one of the poorest drawing teams in baseball of late.

"If he makes contact, he can scare you," said New York Manager Yogi Berra of his newest player. "He strengthens our bench and gives us insurance in the outfield."

Kingman had publicly asked to be traded, since he wasn't playing regularly with the Giants. The rangy infielder-outfielder hit .223 in 121 games last season, but connected for 18 home runs and had 55 RBIs.

His best seasons came in 1972 and 1973, when he hit 29 and 24 home runs, respectively, while playing part-time. Those years included some tape-measure shots indicative of his ferocious power. But he also struck out a lot, indicative of his inconsistency.

It was at this time that the Giants requested southpaw Jon Matlack from the Mets in return for Kingman's services. The Mets offered them pitcher Jerry Koosman, but the Giants turned down the proposed deal.

"If Kingman plays everyday," said New York outfielder Cleon Jones, "he can probably hit 30 homers."

Teammate Joe Torre concurred: "We finally got the right-handed power hitter we're looking for."

But Berra may have a problem finding a place for Kingman, who plays first, third and the outfield with the same inconsistency he shows at the plate. Kingman realizes he faces a competitive challenge with his new team.

"That's okay," he says. "I'm aware of the competition. That's the way it should be."

The Cleveland Indians and Chicago Cubs also were involved in a deal Friday. The Indians traded right-handed relief pitcher Milt Wilcox to the Cubs for left-handed reliever Dave LaRoche and minor league outfielder Brock Davis.

The Indians also lost a player. Pitcher Steve Arlin told the team that he is retiring to devote his full time to dentistry in Columbus, Ohio.

Elsewhere, the Baltimore Orioles signed pitchers Ross Grimsley, Wayne Garland and Doyle Alexander and infielders Doug DeCinces and Taylor Duncan.

The California Angels announced that they have reached agreement with outfielder Frankie George and second baseman Dennis Doyle and now have all 38 players in the fold.

Azalea, Hyman Win

Azalea Mobile Homes and Jock's moved into the finals of their respective divisions in the City Basketball League tournament Friday night.

Azalea took a 99-67 win over Book Exchange in the opening game. By halftime, Azalea had opened up a 53-33 lead. They outhit the Exchange, 46-34, in the second half to win going away.

Lenny Blackley led Azalea with 27 points, while Robert Carraway had 20 and Tommy Williams had 17. Allan Jackson had 16, while Linwood Moore and Phil Duffy each had 14 for Book Exchange.

In the other game, Hyman's took a 76-64 win over Stewart's Sandwiches. Hyman's held a 32-26 lead by halftime, and outhit Stewart's, 44-38, in the final half.

Linwood Hyman led his team with 22 points, while Donnell Speight added 14 and Ricky Davis had 11. For Stewart's, Bobby Parker had 21 and Vaughn Bozman had 12.

Monday night, Happy Store takes on Azalea for the Division I title, while Jock's and Hyman's collide for the Division II crown. The two winnners will meet Wednesday night for the overall league title.

"Environmental Health," A Popular Program

COLLECTING SAMPLES . . . from an air pollution monitoring station are Mike Alexander (left) and Willie Burgess. Burgess is from Washington, N.C.

"Environmental Health" at East Carolina University is one of the youngest, most popular and most respected degree programs on campus.

While most of the country wrung its hands worrying about clean air, clean water and other environmental ills, E.C.U. was doing something! That something was the planning and development of one of the very few baccalaureate degree programs of its kind in the country, designed to educate professional workers to help monitor and help change the bothersome environmental concerns of communities and industries.

Early in 1971, Dr. Edwin (Ed) Monroe, then Dean of E.C.U.'s fledgling School of Allied Health and Social Professions, directed his staff to vigorously pursue the possibility of developing an Environmental Health Program. In a matter of less than four months funding was secured from the federal government to plan and implement a curriculum to prepare practitioners who would fit into the many open positions in public health, industry and federal government relating to environmental health.

In the spring and summer of 1974, the Department of Environmental Health graduated 16 students, the product of its first enrollment of majors in 1972.

Seventh In U.S.

East Carolina University has shown that the development of needed, quality programs does not take a great many years when there is administrative and financial support. On June 28, 1974, E.C.U.'s Environmental Health program became the seventh such program in the United States to receive full accreditation by the National Environmental Health Association. All four of the Department's faculty hold doctorates from outstanding universities and all have distinguished themselves in their fields.

Youthful Enthusiasm

The Department's faculty is characterized by a youthful enthusiasm and optimism which seems contagious to students and colleagues alike. Dr. Trenton Davis, Chairman, is only 32 and participated in the early planning for the environmental curriculum while he was still working toward his doctorate at Oklahoma University. Dr. Davis joined the program as chairman in May, 1972.

Dr. Y.J. Lao was a senior engineer with Mansanto Company in Decatur, Alabama prior to joining E.C.U. in March, 1973. His experiences with Mansanto and DuPont in chemical engineering were readily translated into the classroom and laboratory at E.C.U. Dr. Lao is 39, a native of Nanking, China, and holds degrees from Taiwan University and the University of Michigan.

In order to give thorough attention to the diverse aspects of the environmental field, the department recruited Dr. Oris Blackwell and R. Bernard Kane in 1974.

Dr. Blackwell brings a rich background in bacteriology and environmental health administration. He holds degrees from Washington State University, the University of Massachusetts and the University of California at Berkley. Dr. Blackwell's experience in environmental health and related areas covers some 25 years and several foreign countries.

Dr. Kane, the most recent addition to the Department's teaching staff contributes knowledge and experience from the areas of science education and microbiology. Dr. Kane's higher education was received at the University of Florida and much of his work experience has been in that state in such activities as marine biology, laboratory work in water and sewage treatment, and teaching and research.

Good Jobs

Do the graduates of E.C.U.'s Environmental Health curriculum find jobs? Indeed, they do! First of all, environmental majors must be good students. Good students make good graduates and good graduates make excellent employers.

One student was awarded a National Environmental Health Association Scholarship in 1973; two other students with B plus averages have been nominated for this award this year.

Many of the first year's graduates (1974) accepted jobs as Environmental Sanitarians in North Carolina and Florida. One was employed by the Research Triangle Institute in North Carolina; one was employed by the U.S. Public Health Service; another received a direct commission as an officer in the U.S. Navy's Industrial Hygiene Program. Students do not have a problem finding an appropriate job; rather, the usual problem is that of deciding which offer to accept.

Fascinating Studies

Students in Environmental Health find themselves working in a combination of field trips, laboratory work and special projects. The curriculum is intended to bring the student into immediate contact with the realities of environmental hazards in the community. In their special projects the students have a chance to try their own hands at solving a real-life problem or documenting a poorly understood hazard.

Pete Hibbard, of Edenton, for example, converted his automobile from gasoline to clean-burning propane by using spare parts and a $33.00 conversion kit. Steve Porter of Greenville is determinig the levels of harmful metals, such as mercury and lead, in the Tar River.

Steve's study requires the use of a very expensive piece of equipment rarely found even in public health agency laboratories. The "atomic absorption spectrophotometer," essential to Steve's study of trace metals, was recently acquired through grant funds from the U.S. Public Health Service.

Helps Citizens

The faculty and students of the Department of Environmental Health are oriented to helping the citizens of the state while they learn and practice the essential skills of laboratory examination of specimens and samples.

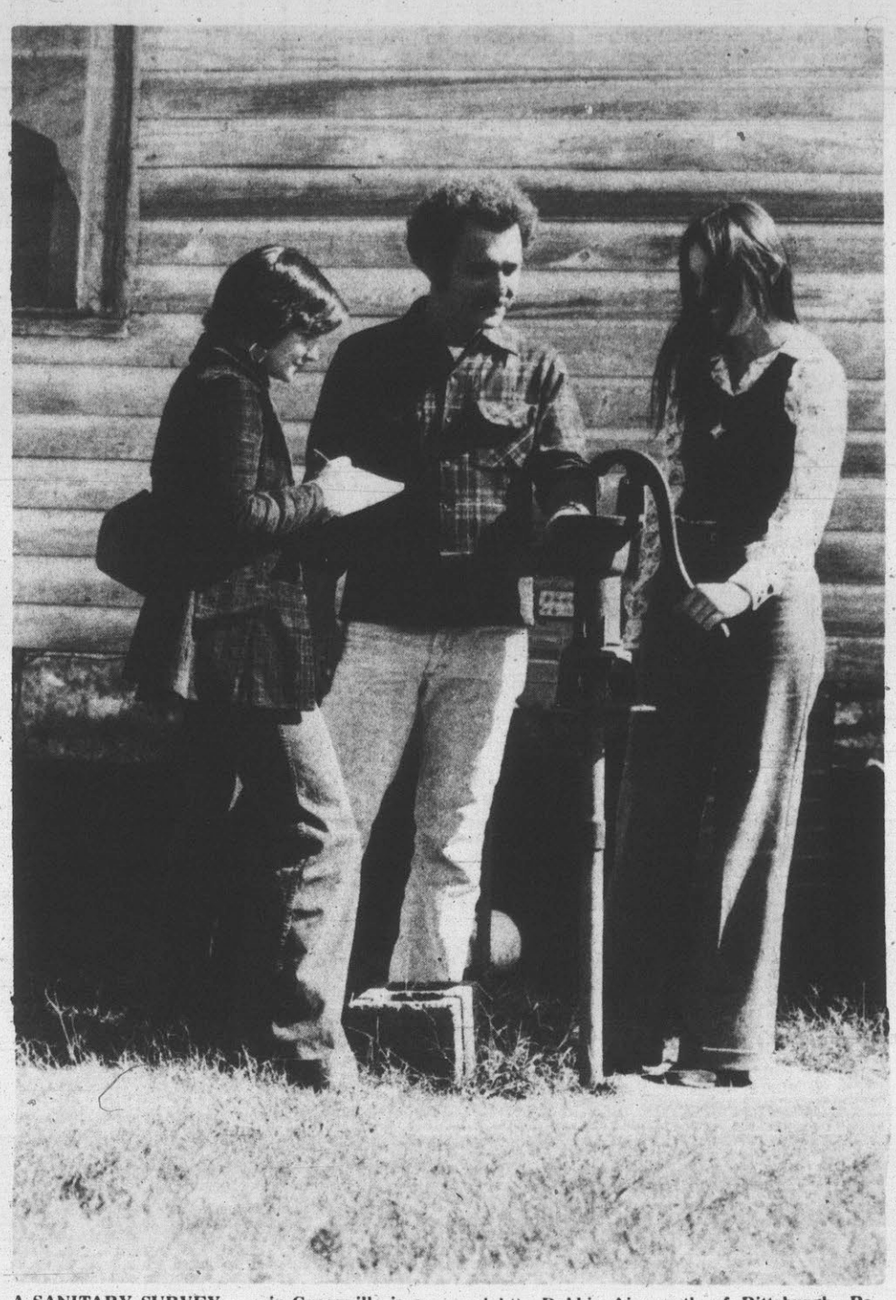

In 1973 the Department's laboratory was certified by the Health Services Division of the North Carolina Department of Human Resources. Thereby, the laboratory is officially recognized and is able to conduct analyses of milk and water samples for local health departments and other agencies. Over 500 such analyses were performed in 1974 for agencies and private citizens.

One Of Nine

The Department of Environmental Health is one of nine professional programs withint the School of Allied Health and Social Professions. Further, the School is one of three schools within the Division of Health Affairs at East Carolina University.

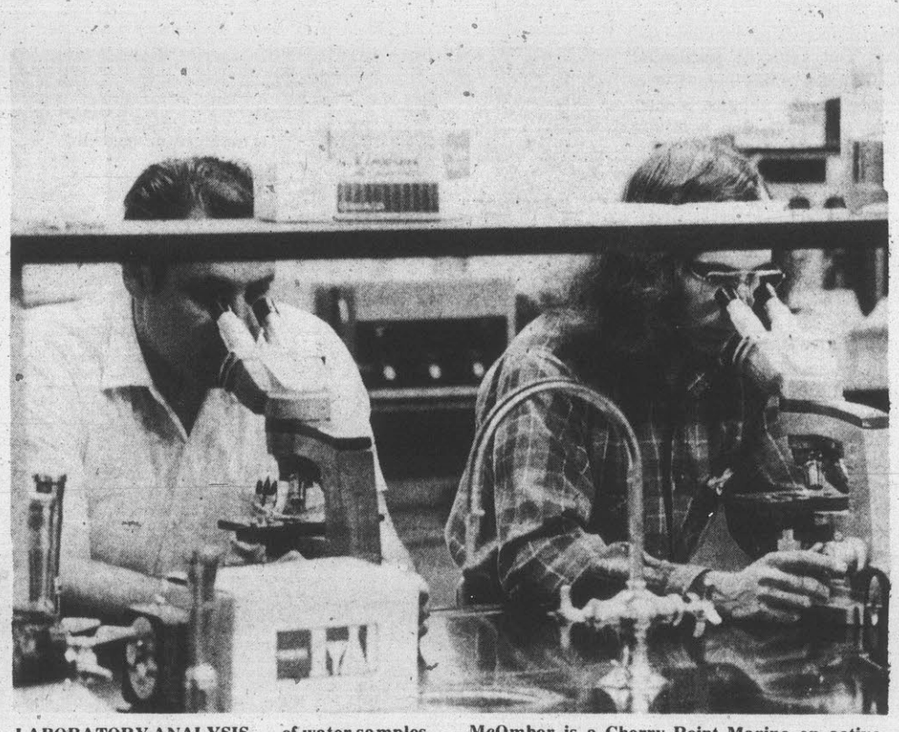

Dr. Monroe, one of the many early proponents of Environmental Health at East Carolina University, now serves as Vice Chancellor for the Division of Health Affairs, which includes the School of Nursing, the School of Medicine and the School of Allied Health and Social Professions, the latter being no longer a fledgling but a school of over seven hundred students in the health care and social professions.

Persons interested in additional information about health careers at E.C.U. can write to the Division of Health Affairs, Box 2772, E.C.U., Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Hammock Making Proves To Be A Profitable Business Venture

REPLACE WASTES—These single and double wooden planters have been developed to replace the wasted rope and wood of the hammocks. (Photo by Susan Quinn)

A PLACE TO RELAX—Jennie Baird reclines in a hammock suspended on a Tri Beam under a summer shade tree. (Photo courtesy Hatteras Hammock Co.)

As the days grow warmer and the green leaves bud and grow on the shade trees of the South, people will come out of their warm winter shelters to their lush green spring backyards. During these leisure hours many of them will settle back into a hammock under their favorite shade tree.

By this time the Hatteras hammock business will be working full force in completing late spring and summer orders of the handmade woven hammocks, according to Walter Perkins, part owner, along with Greenville Tobacco Co., and operator of the Hatteras Hammock Inc.

"Hatteras Hammock Inc., located in the old boiler room of the Carolina Tobacco Co. in Greenville, was started three years ago when I was looking for a hammock for my parents when I was down in Florida," Perkins explained. "They were so hard to find that when I finally did find one, I took a good look at it, took it apart and decided that since my hobby is woodcraft I could easily make the hammocks. From that time I figured out the cost and decided to try it. Working part of the year as a buyer for Carolian Tobacco Co., I spent the rest of the year developing and manufacturing hammocks."

Perkins calls himself "a man of many hats" in the Hammock business. "I'm the advertising man, sales man, purchasing agent, and manager," he explained.

Perkins has a woman foreman, Christian Kevill, who supervises the construction of the hammocks when Perkins is away. Ms. Kevill works full time as the ring knot braider.

"I hired 12 or 15 students at East Carolina University to weave the hammocks and help construct the hammocks and it has worked out to be a good business, "Perkins said. "The students work at their own speeds and work around their class hours. We all work together in an easy atmosphere. When the hammock business began to expand we also hired students to model in our brochure."

Construction

"We buy the rope by the pound. From a 30 pound roll of rope we can make three hammocks," Perkins explained. "An average hammock is made with 545 feet of rope," he continued.

"We buy all of the materials for making the hammocks in North Carolina including the rope, wood, and varnish everything except the metal rings and chains,, he explained.

The hammocks include four parts, the braid, body, ring knot, and wood," Perkins said. The five different styles according to the sizes of the hammocks vary from 10 feet to 14½ feet.

Fine twill cordage is woven and looped to form the bed of the hammock. Ropes dangle over a thick guage steel ring connected to a macramed clew. The spreaders are bent and shaped from sturdy aged oak staves and finished. All the parts are assembled with a non-slip bowline know. Each hammock is tested and inspected to insure relaxing enjoyment. A hammock can be completely constructed in about 40 minutes.

Casual Furniture

The hammocks may be used as various different types of casual furniture and meet many different leisure activities. The hammocks may be suspended from tree, between masts, or can be attached to a frame. Hatteras Hammocks Inc. has recently developed the TriBeam frame to allow easy handling and a much higher degree of stability. This beam has no bars under-foot to hamper movement or reassembling.

The hammock is also versatile in its sales," said Perkins. "We have found that we can sell them in hardware, variety stores, garden centers, gift shops, and by mail order," he continued.

"We sold between seven and ten thousand hammocks last year," Perkins said. "We are now selling the hammocks all around the United States."

Resourceful Wastes

In making the hammocks, the wastes of the rope and the wood scraps are piecemeal. Being resourceful, the Hammock company decided to use the wasted wood and rope to make hanging planters.

"This was turning a waste product into a saleable product," Perkins explained.

The planters are made of stained strips of wood arranged around a large can. Ropes extend from the tops of the planter to allow easy hanging. Each planter is hand made and tested at the Hammock company.

When the winter winds and rains finally fade away many Americans will be swinging in the shade during their leisure hours in a handmade Hatteras hammock.

Native Tongue A Mixture Of Many Dialects

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao (UPI) — Papiamento, the rapid-fire linqua franca of this Dutch island in the Caribbean, is taught at the University of Amsterdam in the Netherlands. The native language is a mixture of Dutch, English, Spanish, Portuguese, Indian and African dialects. Appropriately enough, papiamento is derived from a Portuguese word meaning to "jabber."

Conley School Notes

As another week rolls by, students at Conley are aware of that special weekend known as Junior-Senior Weekend.

Since it has been decided that we will not have a Junior-Senior prom at Conley, the seniors have decided on a "beach weekend". The date has been set for the weekend of April 25. Students planning to go for this weekend at the beach should begin to make plans for somewhere to stay now.

Many congratulations go to Thomas Rhodes who placed second at the District Skills Competition in the carpentry division held last week. He will compete once more on April 4 in Winston-Salem. Good luck, Thomas.

A Health Career Day was held in Kinston at the National Guard Armory on February 27. All interested seniors were invited to attend.

IPS Students-of-the-Week are: second period, Kay Dixon; third period, Walter Clark; fourth period, Wayne Coward; and fifth period, Louie Dixon. The overall student-of-the-week is Wayne Coward.

The art classes are moving along. Now classes are beginning macrame, burlap weaving, figure drawing and some classes are getting into the design of album jackets. Now on display in the Media Center are wall hangings of block printed material and op art. Stop and take a peek at them.

In last week's HIGHLIGHTS it was mentioned that Conley was sending three wrestlers to the state competition. They returned with a fourth place overall team standing in the state. Ricky Phillips, at 119 came in third. Donnie Cox, who wrestles at 138, finished in fourth place, while Barry Purser at 185, took third place. Congratulations go to the entire team.

The SCA sponsored a barbecue dinner February 25. It was quite a success. Students got good barbecue for lunch rather than the ho hum lunches that school cafeterias are "famous" for. The public also showed good response. The high point of the whole affair was walking into the cafeteria to receive a plate and seeing J.R. Carraway, our principal, diligently preparing plates of barbecue. Quite a change from regular duties, huh, Mr. Carraway?

Conley's mighty Vikes have finally made it to the state basketball tournament after two consecutive years of near hits. The Vikings traveled to Durham Thursday night to take on Henderson High School and won the game 67-60.

$751,150 In Building

Building permits totaling $751,150 were issued in Greenville during January, according to a report issued by State Labor Commissioner Billy Creel.

Elizabeth City led cities in the east with $2,110,960 in January permits while Rocky Mount had $802,114 in building starts.

Other eastern cities and their January totals included: Wilson, $758,659; Kinston, $303,950; Goldsboro, $252,000; Jacksonville, $194,175; Roanoke Rapids, $68,515; and New Bern, $43,200.

Creel reported that permits totaling $44,500,618 were issued in January by 38 North Carolina cities of more than 10,000 population. He said that the building total was only 1.6 per cent below the $45.2 million reported for January of 1974.

The commissioner noted that the number of residential buildings authorized was down sharply from a year ago.

Never Push In Yoga, Mrs. Courter Says

JOAN COURTER . . . talks of the pleasures and benefits of yoga.

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Anyone who has ever collapsed in fatigue from performing calesthentics or been pained by sore muscles the morning after a strenuous workout can appreciate the way yoga is done.

"The postures are not easy; on the contrary, some are quite difficult to attain, but you never, never push your body," yoga instructor, Mrs. Joan Courter, said. "When the student goes into a posture as far as he is able, it does him as much good as my completion or near completion of the same pose does me. And any time you have sore muscles, you have not listened to your body's telling you to stop."

Mrs. Courter, who is from New Bern, teaches several classes of yoga at the Elm Street Recreation Center here.

Her form appears perfect. She can hold a headstand indefinitely and can perform the plough, the bird, and other seemingly difficult poses with ease. She says she is still working on the scorpion, a pose in which one lifts himself out of a headstand, raising the head off the floor and balancing on the arms. She also has difficulty with thelotus, in which one crosses his legs in front of him, placing each foot on top of the opposite thigh. This, she believes, is because of her shortened left leg. The femur (upper leg) bone is extremely short, a birth defect, which has never slowed her in the least and about which she is not at all self-conscious. Asked if she wished for the "handicap" to be mentioned in this article, she said, "It doesn't really matter. I forget about it myself, but I guess perhaps it would be worthwhile as a reminder that the only limits one can have are the limits of the mind and spirit. I dance, swim, take part in little theater, have delivered three children, and do anything I wish and always have. Yoga is body control. I discipline my body through it, and if I have to adapt a little, that's all right, too. One of my teachers has a fused spine, yet she does her poses with such grace that you never notice her adaptations."

"Special Student"

Mrs. Courter took up yoga about four years ago, but it was "from a book." She benefited, she said, following the written directions on her own, but longed for a "yogi" to guide her. Her sister, Charlene, who lives in Winston Salem, told her of the Hatha Yoga Center there, run by Herta Park. She enrolled as a "special student" last February, going up and staying a week at a time and attending every class offered, three each day and one two nights a week. In between, she practiced for hours at home.

"The last of April Herta told me I was ready to teach," she said. "I argued at first, but she insisted, saying I had much to offer potential students and would always continue to learn in yoga.

"That's one of its beauties," she said. "There's no pinnacle of success. You get better as long as you continue to practice. And it's something you can take with you into old age. Herta is in her fifties and Lela, a Canadian lady under whom I've studied at the Ashram (yoga teaching studio center) in Virginia Beach is, also, though neither looks her age.

"I've had a few doctors to prescribe yoga for their patients in recent months," she said. "If there is any doubt about whether it is advisable that a person do certain poses, I talk it over with the doctor. For instance, anyone with high blood pressure probably should not do the inverted positions, though I've had students whose health became so much better through yoga that they were able to do them later on. Probably the most frequent health improvement are firmed-up figures and physiques, with or without accompanying weight loss, and fewer colds and respiratory ailments, probably because of better general health and the deep breathing involved in yoga. It's of great benefit in relieving fatigue and for relaxation for those who suffer from tension and insomnia, too," Mrs. Courter said.

Self-Discipline

Mrs. Courter gives a list of "yoga don'ts" to each of her students. Included are soft drinks, smoking, alcoholic beverages, food containing white flour and refined sugar, and others. "I give out the list, but then I don't talk about it unless a student asks," she said. "Yoga is something from which one benefits according to the degree to which he embraces it. But it can never be of another's doing. It's self-discipline and through this comes self-realization."

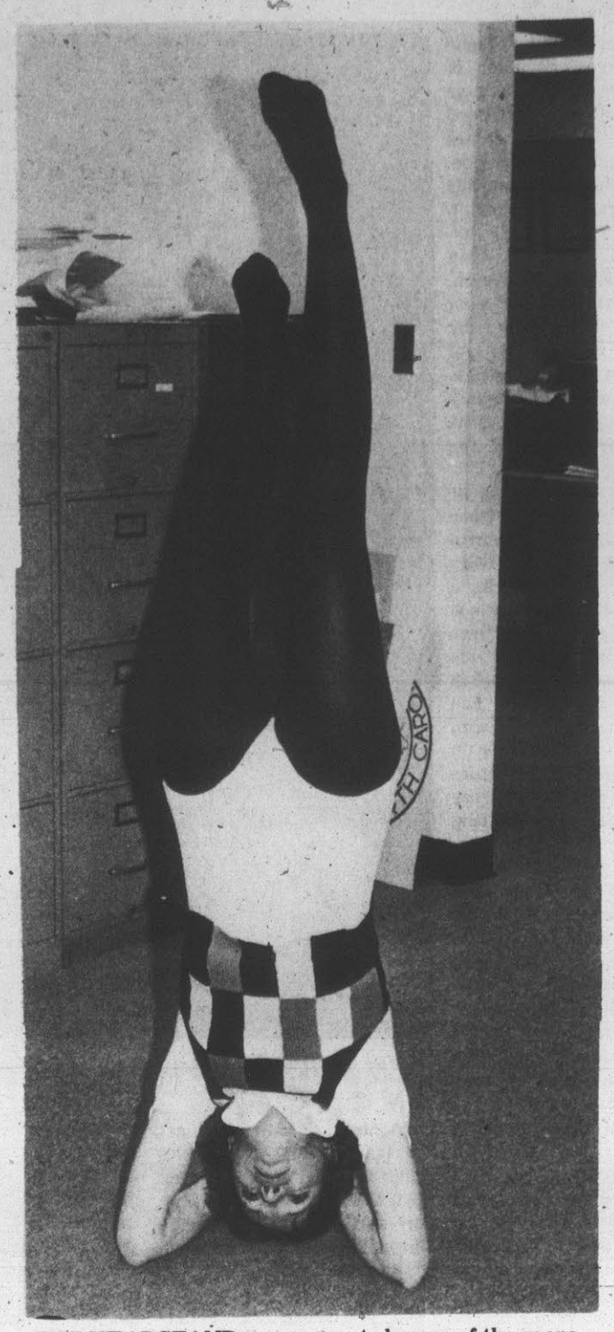

"It's a subtle thing, but as one learns to control his body, he realizes he is better controlling his mind and thereby his spirit and his actions. There's a calmness and a loveliness of spirit that pervades a whole room when Herta, is there," she said of her teacher. Mrs. Courter gives those in her presence the same feeling, though she seems not to be aware of the quality in herself.

Asked about the meditation aspect of yoga, Mrs. Courter said she teaches only Hatha (physical) yoga at present. One of her students in New Bern teaches a small meditation class. Paul allows only those well-versed in Hatha to enroll," she said. "He says one cannot hope to control his mind if he cannot first discipline his body. I agree with him.

"Often someone who questions me about yoga implies he is afraid yoga may be a pagan thing," she said. "This misconception is because of its Eastern origin, I'm sure. It is said to have been written about in India, 2,000 years before Christ and to have been handed down even before this. I always say, though, that no matter what your beliefs, yoga will only make you stronger in their practice."

Mrs. Courter is a member of Centenary United Methodist Church in New Bern. She subscribes to the ideas of the Unity School of Christianity and enjoys attending the Unity Church of Tidewater when she can travel to Norfolk.

She also is active in the New Bern Civic Theater, where she has performed with her sons and daughter, Kim, 22; Jimmy, 17; and Lisa, 19.

THE HEADSTAND . . appears to be one of the more difficult yoga postures. Mrs. Courter can hold the posture as long as she wishes and can come out of it in as controlled a manner as she goes up.

THE PLOUGH . . is attained after one has mastered the half shoulder stand. Many yoga postures can be carried further into more difficult ones as the body becomes more and more flexible and disciplined through practice.

Still Practicing Dentistry At Age 95

By MARY GRACE MEGGINSON

SYLVA—To have reached the golden age of 95 . . .

To be in excellent health . . .

To be actively pursuing a profession one loves . . .

To be a woman . . . is to be Dr. Daisy Zachary McGuire, oldest practicing dentist in North Carolina and matriarch of a family that knows no parallel in the annals of the North Carolina Dental Society, perhaps none in the country.

Dr. Daisy, as she is known in this small mountain town where she has practiced dentistry since 1908, is the wife of the second oldest practicing dentist in North Carolina, Dr. Wayne Patrick McGuire.

Dr. Daisy will be 95 Feb. 24, and Dr. Wayne was 92 on Feb. 22, and both work every morning in the office they have shared for 63 years. Dr. Daisy was the first woman graduate of Southern Dental College in Atlanta, Ga., in 1908. Her husband entered Southern in 1909 and graduated in 1912, when he joined her in this picturesque town nestled in the mountains of Nantahala National Forest, an hour's drive west of Asheville and only a few miles off the Blue Ridge Parkway.

Dr. Charles Horton, of High Point, president of the North Carolina Dental Society, in a special birthday salute, stated, "The North Carolina Dental Society recognizes Dr. Daisy Zachary McGuire as the oldest practicing dentist in the state. She and her husband comprise the oldest practicing dental couple in North Carolina and possibly in the United States. The members of the North Carolina Dental Society are proud of the service that the McGuires have given to the state."

Dentistry is a way of life for this couple and their family. Their three daughters are dentists, two of them married dentists, the other is married to a dental laboratory technician, and a grandson will graduate in dentistry from the University of North Carolina in May. One of Dr. Daisy's sisters, Dr. Jessie Zachary Hedden, also became a dentist and she is still practicing in Highlands at the age of 78.

The McGuire story really began in the mid-nineteenth century with Dr. Daisy's father, Dr. James M. Zachary, of Cashiers, who became a "tooth doctor" in 1865 after serving four years as a captain in the army of the Confederacy during the War Between the States. He took his dental training under a Charleston, S. C., dentist.

Like the circuit-rider preacher of his day, Dr. Zachary traveled by horseback, carrying his dental equipment with him, working in North and South Carolina and Georgia. Daisy, who was born in 1880, was the second of eight daughters, six of whom are still living. Showing an early interest in her father's profession, she took out her first tooth at the age of six . . . for a six-year-old playmate!

Before her father died in 1898, Daisy had learned a lot about dentistry and had decided it was what she wanted to do. She went to Anderson, S. C., in 1899, and worked with Dr. A. C. Strickland, a dentist, for a year.

She came back home and started practicing in the manner of her father, traveling by horseback or horse and buggy, carrying her equipment and instruments with her. She would stay in private homes for a week or so and neighbors came to get her to do their dental work. She had a dental engine which was operated with a foot pedal and a portable head rest. Frequently she worked outside in the sunlight since that was the best source of light.

Dr. Daisy married a Cashiers neighbor, Wayne McGuire, a master cabinetmaker and carpenter, in 1902. They moved to Asheville and Dr. Daisy worked with Dr. Wexler Smathers for a time and her husband did carpentry work.

After the McGuires left Asheville, they went to Norton and Dr. Daisy continued her work. One day a telegram arrived from the North Carolina Dental Society notifying her that if she wanted to continue practicing dentistry she would have to get a diploma! She had thought a lot about going to dental school, but had hesitated because she knew she'd be the only girl there. She loved her work and was already good at it. Determined to continue it, she enrolled in Southern Dental College (now a part of Emory University) in Atlanta, in 1905. Three years later she was its first woman graduate.

In a day when women's lib was unheard of, Daisy Zachary McGuire was a determined, self-sufficient woman, entirely her own person, knowing what she wanted to do, and doing it.

She was following other women pioneers in her profession who had the courage to persist until they were accepted in what had been a male-dominated field. The first woman in the world to receive a dental degree was an American, Dr. Lucy B. Hobbs, who received her degree in 1866 from the Ohio College of Dental Surgery, according to the Association of American Women Dentists.

While dentistry as a profession is becoming more attractive to women, the American Dental Association reports only 1,500 women members, or less than one percent of the practicing dentists in the country. These figures make the McGuire story even more remarkable.

When Dr. Daisy opened her office here in 1908, she found a vast amount of dental work to be done and she began encouraging her husband to go to dental school and practice with her. He had assisted her some when she was traveling around working in the mountains, and showed great skill with his hands. He entered Southern Dental College in 1909, a year after she graduated.

The McGuires have witnessed great changes in the practice of dentistry . . . changes in materials, equipment, and techniques.

They remember vulcanizing dentures on a stove or fireplace, any place they could get enough heat. They extracted a lot of teeth and made a lot of dentures, since most people then did not see a dentist until it was too late to save their teeth, they explained. They also did a lot of gold crowns and gold foil fillings. "A lot of people wanted gold crowns on their front teeth," Dr. Wayne noted.

The two operatories where Dr. Daisy and Dr. Wayne still work side by side look like a dental museum. They have the original dental chairs that they bought in 1908 and they have used them continuously.

The McGuires' office is adjacent to their home, which made it possible for them to be close to the children as they came along. Dr. Daisy never took off more than two weeks when a baby arrived. They were all born at home. She always had help in caring for the children, but she took time off to do many things for them, including nursing them.

The three daughters grew up in the shadow of their parents' office, so it seemed natural for them to choose dentistry as a profession. Noracella, the oldest, and Patsy went to Maryville College in Tennessee before enrolling in the Atlanta-Southern Dental College, which later became a part of Emory University. Dr. Noracella is married to Tom C. Wilson, who became a dental laboratory technician. The Wilsons' son, Thomas Wayne Wilson, will graduate in dentistry from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, this spring. While in dental school, Patsy met and married Harold S. McGuire, a classmate (not a relative). Kitty Dean, the youngest daughter, attended Mars Hill College before going to Atlanta-Southern, and she and her husband, Dr. Robert L. Gamewell, also an Atlanta-Southern alumnus, practice in Murfreesboro, Tenn. Dr. Noracella, Dr. Patsy and Dr. Harold practice with their parents here.

Dr. Daisy and Dr. Wayne told Noracella they would retire when she finished dental school in 1938. They said the same thing when Patsy finished in 1939. Now they are saying it again to their grandson . . . but nobody believes them!

Dr. Noracella paid a high compliment to her mother's superior craftsmanship when she remarked that she really hates to have to remove fillings that Dr. Daisy put in. "She really meant for them to stay!" she exclaimed.

Dr. Daisy firmly believes that working all her life has contributed to her long, healthy life. She has seldom been sick, but has had some broken bones. When she broke her hip some years ago, she was back at work before she was off her crutches.

Both Dr. Daisy and Dr. Wayne have outside interests that they have pursued all their lives. Dr. Daisy loves flowers and grows them profusely. The windows in her office and home are full of green plants and blooming plants and they overflow into the basement and hothouse. She gets up every morning at 5 o'clock and immediately after breakfast waters her plants. A very feminine person, she is never without her pearl necklace and pearl earrings. Her hair is attractively styled and her lipstick is on. As long as they were in fashion, she always wore "showy" hats.

Dr. Wayne was a great bear hunter for 30 years, during which time he helped kill about 200 bears. He still goes rabbit hunting twice a week, driving his Scout and taking his beagles. He has no trouble getting younger hunters to join him on these jaunts. He gave up bear hunting about five years ago.

On Court Hill here in Sylva, the Jackson County court house occupies a site 100 steps above Main Street, overlooking a town of 1564 people. The encircling mountains reach skyward, while at their base the energetic waters of Scotts' Creek rush vigorously through the valley.

From the commanding vantage point of Court Hill, the striking analogy emerges: Dr. Daisy Zachary McGuire is a woman with the strength of the mountains in which she was born and bred and the endless energy of a mountain stream hurrying to keep its date with destiny.

Abby Column Printed Again On Request

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.,

DEAR ABBY: My younger sister passed away last month and I found a yellowed clipping of your column in her Bible. Here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: Will you please remind your readers to look after their parents who are too old to look after themselves? Old parents need all their children. It's not always easy to cope with aging parents, but we weren't easy to cope with when they were raising US either. We OWE it to them. I just wish someone had reminded ME of these things when Mama was still alive. It's too late now, and I haven't had a decent night's sleep since she died three months ago.

I knew she had a good home with my sister, so that was that. Why didn't I take her for a few weeks, or even for Sunday dinner, or for a little drive? I never had time for her, yet I had time for others, and anything else I wanted to do. A change of scenery or even a meal at my home would have meant so much to her, but I was too busy. Oh, I had plenty of excuses.

I suppose the only one in our large family who is sleeping is my sister who took Mama to live with her. I've tried to ease my conscience by telling myself that I wasn't really ashamed of Mama like my brothers were. Or that I wasn't cheap, like another sister. I DID buy her things (which she never really needed or enjoyed much.) But it's too late now. I hope Mama forgives me. CAN'T SLEEP

Abby, "Can't Sleep" was my sister. I'm the one Mama went to live with.

It's too late for me to tell my sister that Mama did forgive her. Mothers always do. But I hope you will print this again for those for whom it's not yet too late. THE OLDEST

DEAR OLDEST: Consider it done. It's always later than we think.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm some kind of nut, but I can't find the answer in any book and don't want to show my ignorance by asking someone I know. I'm a grown woman and probably should know the answer, but here goes:

Is it true that horses sleep standing up? Someone said they did, but I didn't know whether he was serious or not. STUPID QUESTION

DEAR QUESTION: First, no question is stupid if it's sincere. Second, all horses are able to "lock" their legs with very little muscle strain, which enables them to sleep standing up if they so desire. However not all horses sleep this way. Some prefer to lie down. (It's about fifty-fifty.) At least my animal expert has so informed me, and he got it straight from the horse's mouth.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister and her husband have done something to grievously hurt me.

They live a great distance from us, and I used to write to them faithfully every week. Now I have stopped writing because of what has happened, but my husband has now started to write to them regularly.

I think this is wrong of him. Don't you think that out of loyalty to me, my husband should take my part and be on my side? HURT IN IOWA

DEAR HURT: Loyalty need not necessarily include taking on the enemies of one's spouse. You don't say what these people did to hurt you, but apparently your husband wasn't as grievously hurt by it as you were.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

SIMONE BECK'S CHOCOLATE CAKE

From "Simca's Cuisine" by Simone "Simca" Beck (Knopf) and fabulously good.

¼ cup raisins
¼ cup Scotch whiskey
7 ounces sweet cooking chocolate, broken into small pieces
½ cup butter, cut in small pieces
3 eggs, separated
2-3rds cup sugar
4½ tablespoons cake flour mixed with 2-3rds cup almonds that have been blanched, dried and pulverized in an electric blender
Pinch of salt

Line the bottom of a round 8½ by 2 inch cake pan with wax paper; butter sides of pan and paper. Steep raisins in whiskey. In the top of a double boiler over hot water melt chocolate with 3 tablespoons water, stirring until smooth. Off heat stir in the butter, thoroughly incorporating each piece before adding the next. Beat egg yolks with the sugar until a pale creamy yellow; stir in chocolate and flour-almond mixture, then raisins and whiskey. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff; stir a third of them into chocolate mixture, then fold all back into remaining egg whites. Turn into prepared pan.

Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until outside is firm but center moist — 20 minutes. Let stand for 10 minutes, then turn out on a wire rack and cool a few hours or overnight. Remove wax paper just before icing. Best made a day before serving. Cover with this icing: In the top of a double boiler over hot water melt 3 ounces sweet cooking chocolate (broken into small pieces); off heat stir in 3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar and then 3 tablespoons butter a little at a time; blend well; spread at once on cake. Allow icing to set about ½ hour before serving cake.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

About the only comfort I can see in getting sick is that you immediately become the focus of attention and concern.

I have friends who, when they become ill, receive 40 pounds of Indian jewelry from their husbands, a pot of mums from the gang in the office and casseroles and baked goods from well-meaning neighbors.

No matter what disease decks me, there is always "a lot of it going around."

It could be suffering from a dinosaur bite and my doctor would say, "Everyone in town's got it. Just go to bed, take a lot of liquids, and call me if the leg falls off."

On a scale of ten these days, sympathy for the common cold is running about a two; compassion for flu, a two and a half; and concern for pneumonia, a declining four.

I expect any day to have a phone number for Dial-A-Cure where all the people with aching bodies, raging fevers and nausea dial for assistance, or when possible go to a group meeting at the lodge hall where they will distribute mimographed cure sheets.

At a party the other night, just before I fainted, I confided to a friend, "I've got this ringing in my ears, a rash ring around my stomach, shortness of breath and my hair is falling out."

"I'm just getting over it," she yawned.

"I had it last year," said the woman next to her.

"Oh, that," said another guest. "I got a touch of it when my 16-year-old was learning how to drive."

"Did you get a fever of 105?" asked the first woman.

"Well, no . . ."

She winced, "Too bad. It goes with the disease. And I don't suppose you had to summon a priest?"

"No, but I watched Danny Thomas on the Mike Douglas Show."

Actually, what you're dealing with is your ordinary, common, garden variety breakdown," sighed another bored listener. "It's been done to death this year. It was only a one-parter on Marcus Welby and Reader's Digest gave it a paragraph in the Amusing Anecdote section."

Somehow I have the feeling if I were Marie Antoinette and confided to my best friend, "I think I'm going to be beheaded," she would probably admonish, "So, you should have gotten shots when you had the chance."

A 14-ounce bottle of catchup yields about 1¾ cups.

Couple Weds In Ceremony On Saturday

Miss Kathleen Stanley Hollingsworth and Craig Pierce Norfolk were united in marriage Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hollingsworth. The Rev. Joseph Arps was the officiating minister for the private ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Pearl Lucas Hollingsworth of Greenville and the late Mr. Roger A. Hollingsworth Sr. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ira Pierce Norfolk of Greenville.

Given in marriage by her brother, Roger A. Hollingsworth Jr., the bride wore a gown of white tulle designed with an embroidered bodice, Peter Pan collar and long sleeves with buttoned cuffs.

She wore a white garden hat trimmed in white tulle and carried a bouquet of pink miniature carnations, sweetheart roses and white baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Harold Reed Blake Jr. of Greenville. She wore a floor length polyester gown featuring an A-line skirt and rolled collar printed in blue and pink. She carried a multicolored nosegay of mixed flowers with pink streamers.

The bridegroom's father was best man.

The mother of the bride wore a pale green polyester dress and coat ensemble with a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a gray and pale pink butte knit dress and coat with a pink carnation corsage.

After a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Bundy and Mrs. Rodgene H. Blake.

The bride's table was covered with a linen cloth and centered with a miniature bride. Mrs. Blake poured punch and Mrs. Bundy served the wedding cake.

TAKES ALL ROLES — Carol Burnett portrays four characters — a mother and her three grown daughters — when she stars in "Twings," 90-minute television adaptation by George Furth of his award-winning Broadway comedy hit, to be presented Thursday, March 6 (9-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

Carol Stars In Four Roles

"Twigs," the one-woman, seven-man Broadway comedy hit to be presented thursday, March 6, 9 to 10:30 p.m., on CBS and Ch. 9-11, will star Carol Burnett in the only special that she will do this year.

Miss Burnett, now in her eighth season on the Network as the star of the Emmy-Award-winning "The Carol Burnett Show," will be joined by (in order of their appearance) Alex Rocco, Edward Asner, Conrad Bain, Pat Hingle, Jack Gilford, Liam Dunn and Gary Gurghoff in this 90-minute adaptation by author George Furth of his award-winning play.

"Twigs," hailed following its Broadway opening as "hilariously funny," a "smart and clever . . . bright and sharp . . . slice of life," "Appealing as well as funny" and filled with a "quiet, easygoing humor," is a series of four playlets woven together by a family thread.

The first three acts focus respectively on three sisters; the fourth on their mother. Miss Burnett portrays all four female characters in the special, the first one she has done since last year's critically accalimed "6 Rms Rv Vu."

Joe Hamilton is producing "Twigs" and Alan Arkin and Clark Jones codirect the production which was taped at CBS Television City in Hollywood.

Alex Rocco appears as Frank, the divorced head of a moving firm, in the opening act of "Twigs," which is devoted to sister number one, a widow, who has just moved into a new apartment.

In the second act, Edward Asner plays Phil, a retired master sergeant with a former would-be starlet wife who had a long-agao film career which ended o the cutting room floor.

Conrad Bain repeats his Broadway role as Swede, the night-watchman pal of Asner's retired sergeant Phil. Bain, who is seen as Dr. Arthur Harmon in "Maude," has appeared in numerous Broadway plays.

The third act of "Twigs" revolves around a couple celebrating their silver wedding anniversary with a deaf, elderly neighbor. Pat Hingle plays Lou, the husband, and Jack Gilford portrays Ned, a widower neighbor.

In the fourth act of "Twigs," Ma sends for a clergyman to marry her and Pa, played by Liam Dunn. Gary Burghoff, who plays the clergyman, is known to television viewers as Radar, the ESP-gifted corporal in "M-A-S-H."

REUNION — Katharine Hepburn and Laurence Olivier play long-separated lovers in their first co-starring movie, "Love Among the Ruins," a romantic comedy making its world permiere on ABC-TV's "ABC Theatre" Thursday, March 6 (9-11 pp.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

Old Friends United In Original Film Comedy

It was big news: After some 40 years of separate but equal successes, the parallel lines were to meet — Katharine Hepburn and Laurence Olivier were to make a film together for the first time, starring in "Love Among the Ruins," an original romantic comedy by James Costigan, under the direction of George Cukor. The theatrically historic production, filmed for the abc Television Network's "ABC Theatre," is airing Thursday, March 6, 9 to 11 p.m., on Ch. 3-5-12.

"Love Among the Ruins" returns Miss Hepburn to ABC-TV (she starred in "The Glass Menagerie"), reunites her with her original mentor in Hollywood (Cukor), and puts her before the cameras with one of her oldest friends.

"I feel as though I've known Larry for so long that there's nothing odd about working with him, Miss Hepburn noted, "but you do learn a lot about people this way . . "

One of the things she seemed to be 'learning' — or at least crystalizing — was an international difference in reactions to 'sentiment.'

"I think Americans are more sentimental than the British, and that goes for factors, too — I think I'm more sentimental than Larry. 'Sentimentality' is a quality some people don't like very much, but I would say that a person with great sentiment is a person of feeling — the word shouldn't have negative conotations."

Acknowledging that, in a creative situation, Olivier would be more likely to evaluate a play or a character with his intellect while she was relying on feelings, she also recalled that " 'Little Women' was a sentimental piece, but it's based on the fundamental sentiments that hold the world together. I think this has become a dangerous world partially because sentiment is always considered in a derogatory sense."

After a moment of contemplation, the gentle Jo of "Little Women" and arrogant queen in "Lion in Winter" added. "Of course, one meaning of the word refers to people who totally 'practice' sentimentality, and that is definitely too much." This might be what Louis B. Mayer meant when he said of the much young Hepburn: "Some people cry with their voice, some with their nose, some with their throat, some with their eyes. But she cries with everything! And this is excessive!"

NOT RENEWED

Much to the consternation of Dick Cavett's fans, ABC has decided not to renew his contract for 1975. He's not too sad, tho. He's out promoting his new autobiography, "Cavett." He's been successful, too . . . . it's on the Best Seller lists.

Alan Shepard To 'Cover' Mission

Rear Adm. Alan B. Shepard Jr. (retired), America's first man to fly in space and the fifth human being to walk on the moon, will join co-anchorman John Chancellor and Jim Hartz during NBC News' special live coverage on the NBC Television Network of the nine-day joint Apollo-Soyuz space mission scheduled for July 15-24.

Announcement of the former Apollo 14 astronaut's exclusive participation was made recently by James Kitchell, General Manager, News Services, who will be the executive producer for all NBC News television coverage of the historic event.

Shepard will act as special consultant during NBC-TV's coverage of key phases of the mission, and also will conduct — in advance of the flight — special interviews with both the American and Russian astronauts.

The first flight activity will begin with the launch of the Soyuz spacecraft from Russia Tuesday morning, July 15, to be followed by the launch of the Apollo command ship from Cape Kennedy that afternoon.

On July 17, live color pictures of the transportation and docking of the American and Russian spacecrafts as they join together above the earth are scheduled to be transmitted back to earth and colorcast on the NBC Television Network. TV viewers will see the two crews exchange during this maneuver.

During Thursday and Friday, July 17 and 18, four transfers are scheduled to take place between the two crews. On Saturday, the 19th, the two ships will undock, dock and uncouple for a final separation, before flying different flight plans back to earth. The Russians are scheduled to land in the Soviet Union Monday, July 21; the Apollo space ship returning to earth Thursday, July 24, with a splashdown that afternoon in the Pacific Ocean.

On May 5, 1961, the then Naval Commander Shepard became America's first astronaut in space when he piloted the "Freedom 7" Mercury capsule in a sub-orbital flight which reached a height of 116.5 miles. The mission lasted 15 minutes, 22 seconds.

Decorating Magic

Decorating ideas can please the eye as well as create lovely and liveable rooms. Like every other trade, there are magical tricks even when you know how they are worked. Some have to do with lighting; some, with window, wall, or floor treatment; others, with furniture placement, color-scheming, space saving, accessorizing, room division. It's very important to have a total-room, goal in mind and stick to it. Don't get carried away with an idea that just won't work for you.

Decorating magic is closer than you think. Stop in for a selection of beautiful wall to wall carpeting. Expert installation is assured. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale."

Handgun Possession Examined On Special

THE LATEST IN BULLETPROOF WEARING APPAREAL—NBC News Correspondent Carl Stern, on-camera reporter for "A Shooting Gallery Called America," the NBC News special which examines the grave effects of the sharp increase in the personal possession of handguns in this country, models a sports coat in the new "spring line" of soft bulletproof clothing called Kevalar, a miracle fiber five times stronger than steel, that can stop bullets from almost any handgun including the .375 magnum. The program will colorcast Sunday, March 2 (10-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

The grave effects of the sharp increase in the leagl and the illegal possession of handguns in this country will be examined in the NBC News special, "A Shooting Gallery Called America," to be colorcast Sunday, March 2, on the NBC Television Network.

The documentary is being produced for NBC News by Peabody and Emmy Awards winner Lucy Jarvis. NBC News correspondent Carl Stern will be the on-camera reporter of the program, which will include special investigative reporting by Ira Silverman.

The special reports that there are now at least 40 million handguns in the possession of the American public.

"Guns have always been a part of American history," Jarvis says, "but today people are buying handguns who never owned a handgun before. They're stocking up because they're scared. A wave of paranoia is sweeping the country. People feel the police and the government aren't protecting them, so they must protect themselves. They are buying handguns for their protection but, in fact, what they are buying is grief."

The special reveals how the paranoia is escalating the scale and use of hand guns by civilians, criminals and the police. One of the problems, the program points out, is that handguns are easy to get. They can be purchased legally everywhere in the country. They can be purchased illegally at the will of the buyer with sufficient cash, and they are being stolen in massive numbers.

Producer Jarvis and her film crew headed by director Tom Priestly, explored the situation by filming in several parts of the country. The film will show licensed sales to people ill-equipped to own a handgun. It will also illustrate the illegal transactions in the transfer of handguns and the extensive sale of them on the street in those areas where there are no controls at all.

Earlier Time For World Of Disney

"The Wonderful World of Disney," winner of every major award for children's programs and a hit series on NBC-TV for 14 years, will be presented in an earlier Sunday evening time period, 7-8 p.m., during the 1975-76 season, it was announced recently by Robert T. Howard, President, NBC Television Network. The series has been colorcast in the 7:30 - 8:30 p.m. Sunday time period since its premiere in 1961.

"This adjustment in our Sunday schedule," Howard said, "will preserve the values of 'The Wonderful World of Disney' as the most popular children's series in the history of television.

"We plan to follow this hit series with a high-appeal hour of all-family programming in the 8-9 p.m. time period. We believe this will improve our ability to offer the finest audience service on an important viewing evening and to strengthen our schedule for NBC leadership."

The rest of NBC-TV's 7-11 p.m. Sunday schedule for 1975-76 will be announced later, he said.

S.W.A.T. Stars Have Athletics In Common

Question: What do Steve Forrest, Robert Urich, Rod Perry, Mark Shera and James Coleman have in common, besides being the stars of "S.W.A.T," telecast Mondays on ABC-TV?

Answer: They're all athletes.

Steve Forrest, who is in his forties, stands 6'3", weighs 200 pounds and starts each day — rain or shine — with a three-mile run. On weekends, he plays golf, walking the turf instead of riding a cart.

Robert Urich was captain of his high school football team in Toronto, Ohio, where he also lettered in track and basketball. He attended Florida State University on a football scholarship, playing center. He works out daily on a West Hollywood playground and maintains a high protein diet. Bob is 6'2" tall and weighs 178 pounds.

Rod Perry was a high school track star in Coatesville, Pa., and majored in physical education and science at Penn State University where he graduated with a B. S. degree. A daily jogger, Rod is 6'2" tall and weighs 190 pounds.

Although Mark Shera did not compete in sports as a student at Bayonne (N.J.) High School or Boston University, he is a natural all-around athlete. He starred for 2½ years in "Godspell" on the stage, in a role requiring tremendous physical stamina. Since moving to California, he has become an avid tennis player. Young and wiry, Mark stands 5'9½" and weighs 155 pounds.

James Coleman, son of baseball player Jim Baxes of the old Brooklyn Dodgers, was active in sports at Long Beach State College (Calif.) before entering the U.S. Air Force Academy which he attended for two years. Jim's daily physical fitness routine begins with 15 minutes of push-ups, sit-ups and breathing exercises. He spends his weekends skiing or hang-gliding. He is 5'11" tall and weights 165 pounds.

Jane Wyman Plays Menaced Teacher

Jane Wyman stars as a spinster school teacher marked for death by a former pupil in "The Failing of Raymond" on the CBS Late Movie airing Monday, March 3, at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 9-11.

Miss Wyman appears as Mary Bloomquist, a dedicated high school teacher who faces the greatest teaching challenge of her life. Dean Stockwell co-stars as Raymond. Also starring are Dana Andrews, Paul Henreid, Murray Hamilton and Tim O'Connor.

The film opens as Mary, on the eve of her retirement after almost 30 years as a teacher, is packing her belongings in her classroom. Mary is actually several years away from retirement age, but she feels she has nothing more to give as a teacher. Morevoer, an unhappy love affair with Allan McDonald (Dana Andrews) has affected her teaching ability.

Into the room comes Raymond, a young man Mary thinks has arrived to help her pack. At first, there is no hint that Raymond is mentally disturbed. And when Mary leaves to attend her retirement banquet, telling Raymond she will see him the following day, she is unaware he is a former pupil whom she failed in a test 10 years earlier.

The next day, Raymond reveals who he is, telling Mary that his failure in the exam resulted in his flunking out of school. Now Raymond wants to take that test again. Only this time, if he doesn't pass, Mary will pay dearly for it.

COMPULSIVE — Shirley Jones stars as a tormented woman who cannot fight her compulsion to gamble, in "Winner Takes All" a made-for-television drama to be colorcast on NBC-TV's "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" March 3 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Sole Original Cast Member

James Pritchett, who plays Dr. Matt Powers on "The Doctors," is the sole original cast member. He was born in Lenoir, N.C. After receiving his law degree, he practiced in Lenoir for two years and then returned to the University of North Carolina where he earned a Master's degree in Dramatic Arts.

Jim traveled to New York shortly after obtaining his masters and promptly signed up for unemployment. That state of affairs didn't last long and Jim soon found himself doing his first TV assignment on "The Toast of the Town," later to be called "The Ed Sullivan Show." His role was that of a nightclub patron, providing background for a Pearl Bailey musical number.

He soon graduated to leading roles on live dramatic shows — "Omnibus," "Studio One," "Robert Montgomery Presents," "Goodyear Playhouse" and "Kraft Theater."

PILOT STARS— Craig Stevens and Jo Ann Pflug star in "Nick and Nora" Tuesday, March 4 on the "Wide World Mystery" on ABC-TV at 11:30 p.m.

Movie Based On Actual Incident

In 1841 an American ship, the William Brown, struck an iceberg and sank off the coast of Newfoundland.

Forty-one passengers and crewmen were jammed together in a lifeboat as the sea grew heavier and waves threatened to swamp the craft.

Acting on the first mate's orders, seaman Alexander Holmes assisted other crewmen in throwing a number of the passengers overboard to make the boat seaworthy.

Eventually, those on the boat were rescued and Holmes was tried and convicted of manslaughter in a classic case that even today is being studied in law school.

The incident, modernized and somewhat changed, is dramatized in "The Last Survivors," an NBC World Premiere Movie to be colorcast Tuesday, March 4, 8:30 to 10:00 p.m., on Channel 6-7.

Martin Sheen stars as Holmes, upgraded in the film version to a second purser, who as the senior officer on the lifeboat must make the life-or-death decision as to which passengers will be thrown overboard.

The William Brown had been enroute from Liverpool to Philadelphia with a heavy cargo, a crew of 17 and 65 passengers—Scottish and Irish emigrants.

The 24 hours after the ship sank was a horror for the survivors. They were lashed by freezing rain and were forced to bail constantly to keep the leaky boat afloat.

Through it all Holmes was described by survivors as a "model of decision and strength." He had been the last crewman to leave the sinking ship and made "conspicuous" efforts to save passengers when the ship was struck.

During the height of the crisis in the lifeboat, Holmes, according to one witness, "finally became the only one whose energies and hopes did not sink into prostration."

Holmes's trial aroused widespread interest throughout the country. The courtroom was crowded with spectators.

The prosecutor contended that the crew did not have the right to make themselves the sole arbiters of life and death without consulting their victims and without drawing lots.

The defense lawyer argued that Holmes was following the first mate's orders and was acting under conditions of extreme emergency and danger.

The jury deliberated for 16 hours and had difficulty reaching a verdict before finding Holmes guilty.

Holmes spent 15 months in prison and was fined $20. The fine later was rescinded.

Actor Expects A 'Hit'

By CHARLES PIKE
PFA Staff Writer
Los Angeles, Calif.

Craig Stevens is optimistic that he'll be back on television fulltime, saying of the pilot film, "Nick and Nora," "I think it's one of the best scripts I've read in the last ten years." ("Nick and Nora" will be telecast as a 'Wide World Mystery' Tuesday, March 4, at 11:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.)

That's an impressive comment from an actor who gained international fame starring in the series, "Peter Gunn," but he means it, adding, "That is quite a statement, and on top of that, to come across a sophisticated comedy is something you just don't find anymore."

The potential series is based on the characters originated many years ago by William Powell and Myrna Loy and recreated in the early 1950s for TV by Peter Lawford.

"You can't really say this has been updated," Stevens explains. "The stories are modern and the people are today, and yet they have not lost that thing they had originally, that chemistry between those two people. The way it's written keeps that quality there. That's timeless.

"Nick and Nora Charles are timeless personalities, and I think one of the interesting things is that Nick is constantly telling Nora that he is an ex-private detective, he's retired, he's not involved in crime, and he doesn't want to get involved.

"But she's curious, and she gets him involved. A friend of mine said, 'You know, you're actually a retired detective yourself.' So I'm very hopeful that this show will become a series, because the characters are very good and I think it's probably the best thing I've done since 'Gunn.'"

MASTERMINDED

Don Meredith, NBC sportscaster and actor who will star in his fifth "Police Story" drama on NBC-TV March 11, has taken up painting. "Art is very special to me," Don says. "It has opened my eyes to the great artists. I love to go to museums and study the masters now."

KAREN BLACK, who was nominated for an Academy Award for her work in "Five Easy Pieces", pieces together four very difficult roles in "Trilogy in Terror" a collection of tales of horror and the supernatural on ABC-TV's "Tuesday Movie of the Week", March 4 (8:30-10 p.m.) on channnels 3W-5-12. Miss Black plays all the women in three Richard Matheson stories.

Karen Black Has 4 Separate Roles

It all adds up to a talented actress with a successful affinity for numbers. Karen Black, who won an Academy Award nomination for her performance in "Five Easy Pieces," will star in four separate roles in "Trilogy of Terror," an ABC Television Network "Tuesday Movie of the Week," airing March 4, 8:30 to 10:00 p.m., on Channel 3-5-12. In the movie's three bizarre stories, Karen plays a teacher being blackmailed by one of her students; two sisters, one of whom believes the other is going to kill her, and a young woman terrorized by a fetish doll come to life.

It was team effort that prepared Karen for each role — a team of three individuals: hairdresser Kathy Blondell, costumer Barbara Siebert and makeup man Mike Westmore.

"Before the film started, we all met, discussed each character, how I would play it, how director Dan Curtis saw it, and how each woman would look," said Karen.

Each character is completely different from any of the others.

"The teacher, Julie, is a frumpy, plain-looking woman," pointed out Karen. "Kathy put a long fall on my hair, wound it around and pinned it on top of my head in a French roll. Barbara and I picked out conservative, tailored clothes such as blouses with A-line skirts and Oxford shoes. Mike added a minimum of makeup and, voila! — Julie."

The two sisters provided a challenge to Karen and the others. Millicent is a stark, pale young woman, looking several years older than she is. She's almost a recluse. Her sister, Therese, is just the opposite. A sexy-looking, amoral girl.

"We had a ball with both girls," continued Karen. "Kathy gave me a very severe hairdo with a 'bun' for Millicent. Mike's genius came up with a no-make-up look and we added glasses. The clothes we found in second hand stores, bulky, graceless. Therese, on the other hand, sports figure - hugging dresses, mini-skirts, long blonde hair (a wig), eye shadow and lipstick."

The final character of the quartet is Amelia, an attractive yet vulnerable woman who has been dominated by her mother.

Geo. C. Scott In Sunday Film

George C. Scott stars in "The Hospital," a black comedy of the realities of life (and many peculiar deaths) in a big city medical center, which will be the ABC Television Network's "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," March 2, 8:30 to 10:30 p.m., on Channel 3-5-12.

Diana Rigg is co-starred in the film, which was directed by Arthur Hiller.

George C. Scott plays Dr. Bock, the disillusioned and self-disgusted Chief of Medicine in a giant metropolitan hospital complex. In this story, his day begins with the discovery that an intern (whose incorrect diagnosis let a patient die) is dead himself of an accidental overdose of glucose, administered while the intern was sneaking a nap in a patient's bed.

Courage Kept Veteran Rolling Along Highway

WON'T QUIT — A radio with headphones and a determination that won't quit, accompany a Vietnam amputee on a grueling 130-mile trip down the coast of California when Tony Musante stars in "The Desperate Miles", a true story airing on ABC-TV's "Wednesday Movie of the Week" March 5 (8:30-10:00 p.m.) on channels 3W-5-12.

The rain was coming down in torrents. Like millions of soldiers in many wars before this one, Jim Mayo was on night patrol. He had been in Vietnam for two months. Suddenly, an explosion split the air. Jim looked down in shock. A land mine had severed his right leg below the knee, taken two toes off his left foot and sent shrapnel into his right wrist.

That was 1967. In August, 1974, Jim Mayo set out on a 130-mile trip from Long Beach to San Diego in his wheelchair to prove something.

"I guess what I wanted to prove was that the loss of a limb does not make a man a hopeless cripple, or dependent on someone else," said the 26-year-old veteran.

Jim's gallant odyssey is the basis for a motion picture for television, "The Desperate Miles," an ABC Television Network "Wednesday Movie of the Week," airing March 5, 8:30 to 10 p.m., on Channel 3-5-12. Tony Musante portrays the courageous young man. Mayo served as technical advisor on the film.

During the making of the movie, Musante got to know Mayo quite well and came away impressed with the honest dedication of the man.

"A lot of people thought it was some kooky publicity stunt when Jim first made his trip," said Tony, "but it was far from it. Once you talk to him you realize how dedicated he is to proving not only his independence but that of other amputees around the country."

Because of what doctors call "phantom pains," Jim is unable to wear an artificial leg, thereby necessitating his wheelchair. But he drives a car, surfs, goes skiing, has jogged and even played football.

"Jim told me that he was determined not to be a crybaby when he was in the hospital," continued Tony. "When his closest friend, also an amputee, committed suicide, Jim decided to make his trip."

At this point, Mayo interjected: "I just wanted to show folks that a disabled person can do anything he puts his mind to."

And Jim means it. Just look what's on the agenda next:

"The June I plan on starting a trip around the United States on my motorcycle," he revealed. "It may take six months or I may stay three years.

Future Stars Singled Out

"The Hollywood Stars of Tomorrow," in which 10 young actresses are singled out by motion picture and television make-up artists and hair stylists, will be colorcast on "The Bob Hope Special" Wednesday, March 5 (9-10 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

SERIES PREMIERE — Cliff DeYoung and Elizabeth Cheshire (right) are the regular stars of NBC-TV's news comedy series "Sunshine", which will have its premiere colorcast Thursday, March 6 (8-8:30 p.m.). Meg Foster (center) will be a recurring guest. DeYoung portrays a pop musician who is caring for a 7-year-old girl (Cheshire).

Biggest Challenge To Carol Burnett

"Any time a performer sticks his neck out by trying something different, whether he gets his head chopped off or is praised for a job well done, it's a giant step forward, because he's learned something. It may be a little frightening, but it's important to meet some of the challenges you're afraid of."

The words are Carol Burnett's, and the subject is George Furth's television version of his hit Broadway comedy "Twigs," to be presented as a 90-minute special starring Miss Burnett Thursday, March 6, 9:00 to 10:30 p.m. on CBS and seen on Ch. 3N-9-11.

Miss Burnett says she wanted to do the play since the time she first read it.

"One of the first things about the play that appealed to me," she says, "was that George Furth had written it. I've been a fan of his ever since I saw the Broadway Musical 'Company,' which he also wrote. George is an actor himself and knows how to write for actors. I think he's one of our very finest playwrights, and I like the idea that he writes only when he feels like it and only about what he's really interested in. I think he's sensational."

In "Twigs," Miss Burnett's biggest challenge is that she plays four different characters—three middle-aged women and their mother—ranging in age from 35 to 75.

As she explains it, "Another challenge was making myself and—hopefully—the audience forget that it's Carol Burnett up there. I didn't want it to look like I was just doing a series of sketches every week. We didn't want this production to look anything like 'The Carol Burnett Show.'

"I don't think anything I've ever done before prepared me for 'Twigs.' The characters I do on my regular show are 'sketch people'—they're surface except for here and there when we do have a chance to really dig into a character. I wanted to make the four ladies in 'Twigs' real."

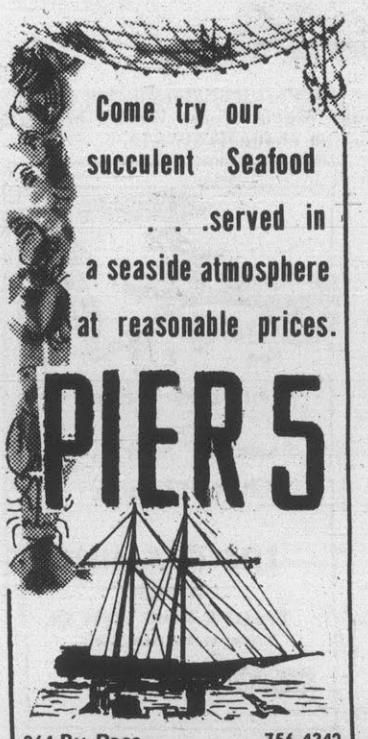

"I couldn't have done it without Alan Arkin," Miss Burnett admits. "That's where we were really in luck—getting Alan to co-direct the show with Clark Jones. Alan, as everybody knows, is quite an actor himself. In fact, he's incredible. From the first time he and I read the play—weeks before we started rehearsals—I was just listening to him, and I remember thinking, 'He should be playing all the parts—including mine!' "

MOTHER

Audra Lindley, who plays a mother in the "Bell System Family Theatre" special, "The Canterville Ghost," on NBC-TV March 10, also will guest-star as Bob Crane's mother in NBC-TV's March 13 colorcast of "The Bob Crane Show" episode, "Not With My Mother, You Don't."

Acting Career Was 'Natural'

Noah Beery was born in New York while his famous father, Noah, Sr., was in a stage play. His stay in the city was brief and the family returned to California, where he was raised.

Strictly an outdoor man, Beery (he dropped the 'junior' several years ago) lives on a ranch some 100 miles from Hollywood when not performing in movies or television shows.

An acting career was a natural vocation for Noah, whose early life was surrounded by people in show business, including his uncle, Wallace Beery.

Noah Beery, seen each Friday evening in "The Rockford Files" on NBC, made his stage debut shortly after graduating from North Hollywood Hig, and that led to parts in a movie serial. From that plateau, young Beery soon was appearing in feature roles in such motion pictures as "Sergeant York" and "Of Mice and Men." He also appeared in a movie, "The Mark of Zorro," as a child.

CONTENDERS — ACC SUPERSTARS are looking forward to the ACC Tournament which gets underway Friday, March 7 at 7 p.m.

ACC Tourney Time Due

The time has come for the annual Atlantic Coast Conference shoot-out. An event that matches some of the nations best basketball teams against each other in a mad struggle for a trip to the NCAA tournament and a shot at the national title.

Although the ACC has produced only two national champions in 18 years from 1957 when Frank McGuire's University of North Carolina Tar Heels went all the way until last season and the sensational North Carolina State Wolfpack team, the conference has had teams in the NCAA final round-of-four on 10 occasions. The Pacific 8 has posted more final round play with 13, but UCLA and the John Wooden dynasty can account for 11 of them. The Big Ten has nine apperances to their credit and are sure to get a tenth this season with Indiana.

from the ACC were North Carolina teams. Although Maryland went to regionals twice in 1958 and again in 1973 and South Carolina went once in 1971, neither school was able to win the regional tournament and advance to the final rounds.

The ACC has long been renown for its exciting play, and the tournament has always provided a fitting climax to their spectacular brand of basketball. Last season's championship game was no exception and many fans consider it the most thrilling contest ever played in college basketball. During the 45 minute action packed duel between N. C. State and Maryland not one three-second call nor a single traveling violation was inflicted. Despite Maryland's blazing 61 percent shooting, State won it in overtime 103 to 100. This game can probably be credited with starting the nation's biggest interstate feud since the Hatfields and the McCoys.

This season's tournament shapes up with N. C. State and Maryland as the front-runners with North Carolina and Clemson certainly not seeing things that way. Since this is the ACC, the letters usually mean Atlantic Coast Conference but in actuality imply a deeper meaning to the teams involved — Anybody Can Conquer.

Will 'Examine' Demo Positions

NBC News will examine the Democratic Party's position on the major issues of today in the 16th edition of "The Loyal Opposition" Saturday, March 8, 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., on the NBC Television Network.

Democratic Party spokesman and NBC News correspondents will discuss the recent activities of the party — leadership changes, future plans and attitudes toward Administration policy. The names of those appearing on the program will be announced.

The program will originate in Washington, D.C., and will be produced by Frank Jordan, Director, News, Washington.

AN HOUR LATER

"The Mac Davis Show," currently colorcast on NBC-TV from 8 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays, will be presented one hour later — 9 to 10 — on Thursdays starting March 20.

The quality has always come through.

FESTIVAL FILM — A fanciful treatment of a simple event in the lives of three schoolchildren, including a girl named Bori, portrayed by Erika Maratecs, is depicted in "The Orange Watering Cart," a film from Hungary which will have its American television premiere on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, March 8 (1-2 p.m.).

'Positive' Over Children's Shows

Squire D. Rushnell, Vice President, Children's Programs, ABC Entertainment, said recently that the results of a mail survey of last year's ABC-sponsored "Open House Week for Children's Television," revealed that parents are enthusiastically positive about television programs for children.

Mr. Rushnell, who spoke as a part of a panel on children's television at the annual conference of the National Association of Television Program Executives, said that 72 percent of parents who filled out and returned "report cards" on children's programming, and 59 percent who wrote letters, reflected "positive" responses to children's television.

These "ballots" followed viewing by parents of children's shows during the week of October 19-26, 1974. Parents were encouraged by ABC, the National Education Association and other groups to sit down during that week and watch weekend, late afternoon, early evening and prime time television programs that their children watch.

The "report cards," which listed shows presented by all three networks, asked parents to rate them as poor to excellent. These responses, as well as unsolicited letters, were tabulated by the Bank Street College of Education. Rushnell stressed that the survey is "by no means a scientific research study governed by appropriate control factors," but, he said, it does give some insight into how parents rate today's programming for children as compared to years past.

Rushnell noted also that 36 percent of letter-writing parents registered concern about programs that their children watch in time periods other than those specifically designed for youngsters.

"Many parents voiced a deep concern with what they felt was increased prime time frankness, particularly in theatrical films which began during the early evening . . . . and which they felt gave them little warning. Of course, since then, all three networks and the National Association of Broadcasters have forged a policy to reserve the 8 to 9 p.m. hour for programs suitable for all-family viewing, or to otherwise give more extensive and explicit warnings to parents ahead of time," he said.

Mr. Rushnell said he hoped "Open House Week" would become an annual fixture on the television scene with the support of all three networks, local stations, Public Broadcasting Service, advertisers and Action for Children's Television.

"I think we should look at 'Open House Week' as but one child-sized step forward," he said. "A step toward shared responsibility between broadcaster and parent. We as broadcasters have a very significant responsibility, but we ought not become the surrogate parents of American children.

Simple Event Makes Story

"The Orange Watering Cart," a film from Hungary which fancifully treats a simple event in the lives of three children suffering the pangs of growing up, will be rebroadcast on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, March 8, in color on the CBS Television Network.

The story revolves around three schoolchildren — Oma, a tall, moody, intelligent boy with natural inclinations toward leadership; Bori, a pretty girl on whom he has a crush but who does not return his romantic feelings, and their mutual friend Totyi — and an orange watering cart, a popular vehicle used in Hungary to water down the streets.

"The Orange Watering Cart," a 1973 production of the MAFILM Filmstudio and the Hungarian Filmlaboratories, was directed by Zsolt Kezdi Kovacs.

Athletics Again Meeting Dodgers

The World Series Champion Oakland Atheletics and the National League pennant-winning Los Angeles Dodgers will clash again, Sunday, March 2, when ten representatives of each squad meet in the "Superteams" first preliminary round of the ABC Television Network.

"Superteams" is a new event this year in ABC Sports' popular "The Superstars" series. First, the past year's World Series teams square off; then, the past season's Super Bowl teams go at each other. The winners from the baseball and the Football eliminations then meet for big money prizes and the "Superteam" of the year title.

The following are the ten-man "Superteams" rosters representing the Oakland A's and the Los Angeles Dodgers all stars:

Oakland: Sal Bando, Vida Blue, Burt Campaneris, Rollie Fingers, Ray Fosse, Dick Green, Reggie Jackson, Bill North, Joe Rudi, Gene Tenace.

Los Angeles: Bill Buckner, Ron Cey, Joe Ferguson, Steve Garvey, Davey Lopes, Andy Messersmith, Bill Russell, Don Sutton, Jim Wynn, Steve Yeager.

The "Superteams" will compete for shares of a $331,500 purse — $204,000 in the preliminaries and $127,500 in the final.

All of the events in "Superteams" are team events, and competition will be seen in the following sports: Volleyball, Running Relay, Swimming Relay, Tandem Bicycle Relay, War Canoé Relay, Obstacle Course Relay and Tug-of-War.

REAL VETS IN FILM

In the hospital scenes of "The Desperate Miles," the ABC Television Network's "Wednesday Movie of the Week," airing March 5, several of the patients are actual Vietnam war amputees who share their ward with Tony Musante, who plays a vet who lost his leg.

Title Bout Coming Via Satellite

"CBS Sports Spectacular" will broadcast the world lightweight championship fight between reigning champion Roberto Duran and challenger Ray Lampkin, scheduled for 15 rounds, live via satellite from Panama City, Panama, Sunday, March 2.

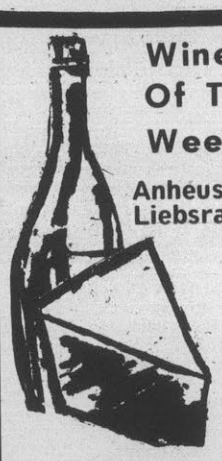

Following this championship fight will be a bout between former heavyweight champions Joe Frazier and Jimmy Ellis, a former sparring partner of Muhammad Ali. This bout will be broadcast via satellite from Melbourne, Australia.

Roberto Duran, a native of Chorrillo, Panama, is a 24-year-old who, until he became a professional fighter, was the best street fighter in his home town, if not all of Panama.

Holder of the lightweight title since he knocked out Ken Buchanan in 1972, Duran knocked out Esteban De Jesus in 11 rounds last March 16, successfully defending his title and avenging the only blemish in an impressive career.

Ray Lampkin, from Portland, Ore., is the finest lightweight prospect to come out of the Northwest in many a year, with an impressive record of 28 wins (12 by KO's), three defeats and one draw. Ray's hit - and - run attack wrested the American lightweight title from Nick Alfaro last Oct. 18 by a knockout in the seventh round.

Frazier, currently ranked the No. 2 contender behind champion Muhammad Ali for the heavyweight title, has had 31 bouts in his career, winning 25 by knockouts.

Six Probing Tales Will Begin Mar. 2

"Vienna 1900 — Games with Love and Death," adaptations of five of Arthur Schnitzler's probling psychological stories will be presented in a six-part series on Masterpiece Theatre starting Sunday, March 2, at 8:30 p.m. on UNC-TV

The series will star such notable actors and actresses as Robert Stephens ("The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie"), Dorothy Tutin (Ann Boleyn in "The Six Wives of Henry VIII"), and Lynn Redgrave ("Georgie Girl").

Robert Stephens plays Doctor Graesler, the trained observer who attempts to witness the Viennese life around him without participating in it. Graesler exemplifies Schnitzler's theory that life is a great stage with human beings selecting their roles and then being compelled to play these roles to the death. Graesler, himself, is finally irressistibly drawn into the drama.

The programs consist of "Mother and Son," the story of a woman who struggles to save her son from an older woman while carrying on an affair with the son's best friend; "Man of Honor," the story of a guilt-ridden duel; a two-part story, "A Confirmed Bachelor," about Graesler's struggles with love and death; "The Gift of Life," a tale of love that deteriorates under the threat of death; and "The Spring Sonata," starring Lynn Redgrave as a widow looking for a second love.

Arthus Schnitzler, born in Austria in 1862, was a man of letters who drew his inspiration from his own life. A Viennese, a physician and a psychologist, his work observed the intrigues and betrayals of turn-of-the-century Vienna cafe society with an urbane, compassionate eye. His training as a physician nurtured an interest in the bodily appetites, in love, and in death. His Viennese background accounted for his gaiety; his Jewish upbringing for his melancholy and intensity. And Schnitzler's work as a psychologist fostered an interest in sex and havoc it played in the lives of the wealth cultured people of his time.

An acquaintance of Freud, Schnitzler believed that the first aim of every human being was the pursuit of individual happiness. His sole concern was the individual. Thus, hatred of all forms of injustice, prejudice and sycophancy — together with scepticism, love, death and old age — are themes which constantly recur throughout his work.

ROBERT STEPHENS is Dr. Graesler, urbane observer of the games of amorous treachery played by members of cafe society in "Vienna 1900": Games with Love and Death", a series of dramas to be telecast March 2 through April 6 on Masterpiece Theater on PBS, Sunday, 8:30-9:30 p.m. Others appearing in the plays include Dorothy Tutin, Lynn Redgrave and Christopher Gable.

Pike's Peeks

By CHARLES PIKE
PFA Staff writer
Los Angeles

Richard Thomas' marriage to former New York social worker Alma Gonzales caught so many people off guard that it'll be weeks before the newlyweds receive their wedding gifts. None of "The Walton's" family were notified ahead of time.

CBS says "Tony Orlando and Dawn" and "The Jefferson's" are good prospects to be back next Fall, but not so for "Kahn."

NBC's abrupt cancellation of "Archer" after only two episodes will result in 'Mac Davis' show being on the air for an additional four weeks.

James Coleman, one of the co-stars of ABC's new show, "S.W.A.T." is the brother of Kathy Hawn Martin, Dean's wife.

ABC's Movie of the Week, "The Family Nobody Wanted," has been endorsed by the National Education Association, the first special TV movie to be so honored.

Though the networks say it'll be May before they may any announcements about their Fall schedule, look for Cloris Leachman of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" to star in her own half-hour comedy show.

For those curious as to how Cher Bono retains her attractive figure, before she was a successful singer she was an instructor in a health spa, and she practices what she used to preach each morning in the privacy of her home.

Joins Cast Of Daytime Drama

Thom Berenger has joined the cast of the ABC Television Network's daytime drama, "One Life to Live" in the role of Tim Siegel. His first appearance on the series took place on Wednesday, Feb. 19. ("One Life to Live" is seen each weekday on ABC-TV.)

Tim Siegel returns to Llanview and his family — he is the son of Eileen Siegel (Alice Hirson) and brother of Julie Toland (Leonie Norton) — after dropping out of law school as a result of his disenchantment with the current political and social climate. While trying to sort out his future career plans, Tim is destined to find himself confronted with some very complex emotional problems.

Susan Clark Plays 'Babe'

Susan Clark, star of the current high-flyer "Airport '75," has been signed to star in the title role in MGM-TV's "Babe" (the story of Babe Didrickson Zaharias), a two-hour CBS special scripted by Emmy-winner Joanna Lee.

The original mid-February start date was pushed back to mid-spring to give the actress enough time for private coaching in golf, javelin throwing, the 80 meter hurdle and the high jump.

"Although sports obviously was a dominant part of Babe's life, Joanna's script is basically a love story," related Ms. Clark "Babe loved to win, but she loved George Zaharias even more."

Dubbed the "world's greatest woman athlete," at 18 Babe was a two-time gold medal winner of the U.S. track team at the 1932 Olympics in Los Angeles. Despite a torn cartilage in her right shoulder, Miss Didrikson set a world's record by throwing the javelin 143'4" and running the 80 meter hurdles in 11.7 seconds. She was also an all-round star at tennis, swimming, diving, shotputting, lacrosse, fencing, polo, billards and basketball. For 21 years she was the world's top woman golfer, winning a total of 56 tournaments in the United States and Europe.

In Segment Of Medical Center

Ken Berry, Sheree North and Cesary Danova have been signed by executive producers Frank Glicksman and Al. C. Ward to guest-star in the "Half a Life" segment of CBS-TV's "Medical Center" starring Chad Everett and James Daly, and seen Monday evenings.

Directed by Ward from Barbara Avedonand Barbara Corday's script, the episode deals with a woman (Sheree North) who must choose between giving her blood to her ailing brother (Ken Berry) or going off to Greece to live with the man she loves (Cesary Danova).
