Congressmen Urge Viet Peace Push By Kissinger

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett says Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger should try to persuade the Soviet Union and China to join the United States in a reduction of military aid to both sides in the Vietnam war to reduce the level of fighting.

Bartlett, an Oklahoma Republican, and seven other members of Congress headed home today after a visit to South Vietnam and Phnom Penh which President Ford hoped would increase support for his request for $522 million in supplemental military aid for the South Vietnamese and Cambodian governments.

Asked if Congress might recommend that Kissinger return to Vietnam or try to reopen some sort of negotiations, Bartlett replied:

"Yes, I would say that each one of us — and I certainly am not speaking for anybody but myself — but it would be my guess that we would want Secretary of State Kissinger to play a very big role, to play it right away, with Russia and China in an effort to encourage them to use their influence on the North Vietnamese to reduce the level of war and to reduce the military support to the North Vietnamese as we would reduce it to South Vietnam."

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., agreed that Kissinger had to become involved in efforts to bring peace to Vietnam and Cambodia.

McCloskey also said that future aid to the Saigon government would depend on what it did about the thousands of political prisoners who have not been brought to trial.

The delegation met Sunday with a North Vietnamese representative to discuss the Communists' refusal to cooperate in the search for remains of Americans missing in action in Vietnam. The North Vietnamese representative, Lt. Col. Nguyen Duc Bao, responded with charges of U.S. violations of the cease-fire agreement, provoking heated comments from several of the Americans.

Rep. Bill Chappell Jr., D-Fla., charged the North Vietnamese with murderous attacks on Americans searching for the graves of the missing men. Bartlett said Bao's statement was "hogwash." Rep. John J. Flynt Jr., D-Fla., said it contained "many fabrications."

McCloskey warned that if North Vietnam "does not permit U.S. inspection teams or joint inspection teams to look for the sites of Americans shot down, many members of Congress may vote for the aid rather than against it."

Meanwhile, American and Asian diplomats in Phnom Penh said there was "nothing new" in President Lon Nol's statement to the delegation on Saturday implying that he would resign if that would bring peace to Cambodia.

The sources said Lon Nol has been saying that for six months and would agree to resign only if the Communists made him sufficient concessions.

Compromise On Oil Tariffs Anticipated

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford conferred with Republican congressional leaders today, and one GOP spokesman said afterward, "It is certainly possible" that Ford will defer the second and third dollars of his oil import tariff.

Ford scheduled a 4 p.m. EDT announcement on his response to a Democratic proposal that he defer the higher tariffs while compromise talks are under way to shape an energy program.

White House spokesmen insisted after the Republican leadership meeting that Ford had not reached a decision. But Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott said concerning the tariff proposal: "It is certainly possible, given a spirit of compromise, that something may happen there."

Scott said that Ford didn't divulge any decision.

Scott and House Republican Leader John Rhodes of Arizona emerged from the meeting with criticism of an energy plan prepared last week by Congress' Democratic leadership, but with praise for a separate plan presented by Chairman Al Ullman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Scott charged that the Democratic leadership wants to "save energy on the cheap, and it can't be done that way."

"They aren't biting a bullet—they're biting a marshmallow," Scott added.

The Ullman plan, in contrast, is "much better considered ... much better prepared," said Rhodes.

Scott agreed, calling the plan put forth by the Ways and Means Committee chairman "a respectable and expert approach to the problem ... it certainly bites more than a marshmallow."

The Ullman plan calls for gradual increases in the gasoline tax to as much as 40 cents a gallon.

The first $1-a-barrel increase in Ford's plan to raise oil import tariffs has already gone into effect. The second $1-a-barrel hike was scheduled to go into effect this month.

Congress passed a bill last month suspending the President's authority to impose the tariffs, and Ford has said he will veto it.

Sixty-four per cent of the persons contacted in an NBC poll believe Congress should override the planned veto. Twenty-nine per cent thought Congress should not override the veto, and 7 per cent were unsure.

Commissioners Okay Purchase Of Additional Fire Siren Monitors

By STUART SAVAGE

Pitt County Commissioners this morning approved the purchase of two radio monitors to actuate additional fire sirens for Staton-House and Eastern Pines fire departments, and okayed the renting of a copy machine for use by the Fire Marshal, Development Commission, Electrical Inspector and the Board of Elections.

Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner told commissioners—who have aided county volunteer fire departments with the installation of additional monitors to actuate a second siren—that both Staton-House and Eastern Pines have plans to install a third siren. He noted that both departments have born the entire cost of installing second sirens, so commissioners approved the $850 expenditure for both departments' third installation.

Joyner also told commissioners that he and members of the Inspection Department of the City of Greenville — including building and fire inspectors — have toured the county's Social Services building on Johnson Street. He said "we've done what they said (the city inspectors) needed to be done," and indicated that the building is now "all okay" as far as its safe condition is concerned.

Commissioners approved an expenditure of $60 per month rental for a copy machine for the elections, fire, electrical and voting agencies. County Manager Reginald Gray indicated that the copy machine for the four agencies located in a separate office facility at the intersection of Second and Cotanche Streets would provide more efficient services to employees there who in the past have had to come to the county offices in the Court House to have copies made.

Four members of the Pitt Memorial Hospital board of trustees were appointed by Commissioners for a three-year term this morning. They included S. M. Edwards Jr. from Ayden Township; H. Glenn Hardee from Grimesland Township; J. Howard Moyer from Greenville Township and Kenneth K. Dews from Winterville Township.

Reese Hart, director of the Pitt County Development Commission met with the board briefly.

Hart, who became director of the development body a month ago told the Board that Pitt "has done its planning well," and indicated that the county "is easy to show" to industrial prospects.

Super Summit Looms

BUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Agreement to hold the 35-nation supersummit meeting that the Soviet Union wants to conclude the conference on European security and cooperation has been "pretty well settled," the Irish chairman of the European Economic Community's council of ministers said today.

Foreign Minister Garret Fitzgerald said the Russians won the consent of the major Western powers to the summit meeting by offering individual concessions to each one separately.

"The Western countries only gave something nominal in return, just a few days presence by their heads of governments," he said.

He added that he didn't think this was the best way of doing things, but Ireland's opinion had not been asked.

The United States for a long time withheld its consent to the summit in the hope that the Russians would agree to freer movement of peoples and ideas between the West and the Soviet bloc. The Soviet government has been pursuing a big summit meeting for years to secure recognition of the hegemony they established over Eastern Europe after World War II.

Last week it was reported that the Soviet bloc had agreed on a text promising more favorable consideration to letting reporters travel in and out of Eastern Europe without applying for a separate visa for each trip.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

BASKETS RECEIVED

I ordered two hanging baskets from Greenland Studio about two months ago. I have my canceled check, but no baskets. L. G.

Hotline wrote on your behalf and you report you received the merchandise less than two weeks after you called us. The item had been back ordered, the company indicated.

Hotline finds this mail order house usually comes through, but is slow at times. If the item was ordered through The Daily Reflector's Sunday supplement, Family Weekly, we use the always dependable services of Lynn Headley, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. If not, we write directly to the company, Box 392, Opa Locka, Fla. 33054.

GOT CASH VALUE

I sent several books of King Korn Stamps to the company, insured, in October. They had told me they would give me the cash value or merchandise, whichever I wanted. I told them I'd take either sheets and pillowcases or the money. I've received neither, though I've written them three times since. Mrs. J. Y.

After waiting a reasonable time after your third letter to see if you'd get a reply, Hotline wrote on your behalf Feb. 14. You received a check for $8 Feb. 25.

LINE LOST

I ordered two fishing flylines from Herter's Inc. in Mitchel, N.D., a company I've done business with for years. The package arrived broken open with one line missing. I wrote and told them, since I had paid for guaranteed delivery, but have heard nothing. T. M.

The company sent you a letter of apology, you report, along with a refund for the cost of the missing line.

Charles White Funeral Tuesday

Mr. Charles A. White, 75, president of White's Stores, died Sunday at noon at his home, 425 W. Longmeadow Rd. Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday at 11 a.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church by the Rev. L.P. Houston, rector, assisted by the Rev. William J. Hadden Jr. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The body will be taken from the home to the church at the funeral hour.

Mr. White was a lifelong resident of Greenville. He attended the Greenville City Schools, Mars Hill College, Randolph-Macon Academy, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

He was associated with Thomas A. Edison, Inc., in East Orange, N.J., in 1924 and later with the Hassell-Dupree Realty Co., Miami, Fla. In 1930 he returned to Greenville and was associated with White's Stores, Inc. as partner, manager and buyer and was elected president in 1966. He was also vice-president of Carolina Mills Fabrics, Inc.

Mr. White was secretary of the Board of Advisors of the Redevelopment Commission for the Central Business District of Greenville, past commander of Civil Defense (1942-1955) and past chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society (1947-1950). He was a former vice-president.

Little To Show For Millions Given To 'Soul City'

DONATED... A sign made by Jeannie Warner (left), her husband, John, and a friend, David Harrison, has been donated to the City of Greenville. With Mrs. Warner is Pitt County Humane Society President Liz Whalen. The sign, RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—After five years and more than $5 million in government funds, the developers of "Soul City" have little to show but promises and a collection of mobile homes, a Raleigh newspaper has reported.

The News and Observer, in reports Sunday and today, said that political influence apparently helped former civil rights leader Floyd McKissick secure federal grants, contracts and loan guarantees of more than $19 million.

McKissick, former chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, has said Soul City would become a new, self-supporting community of 50,000 people in impoverished Warren County, near the Virginia border on Interstate 85.

The newspaper reported today that McKissick began to get massive federal assistance for his project after he switched parties and helped the Committee to Re-elect the President in 1972.

Quoting from the Senate Watergate Committee's transcripts, the newspaper reported that early in 1972, blacks working for the White House took part in an effort to make the federal bureaucracy more responsive to supporters of President Nixon.

Some of them were in contact with McKissick. Shortly after he switched parties and endorsed Nixon, the Department of Housing and Urban Development offered $14 million in federal loan guarantees for the Soul City project.

Of the 23 separate federal grants for Soul City, all but three were awarded after McKissick's switch.

McKissick said he didn't think there was any relation between his politics and federal support for Soul City. He said he had been advocating the two-party system for more than a decade.

As an example of the expenditures made at Soul City, the newspaper cited its health agency, called Healthco. Since 1972, it reported, Healthco has cost the federal government $646,000, much of it for salaries.

Healthco finally opened its first clinic in August, 1974, 11 months behind schedule. It operates in two mobile homes rented from a McKissick company.

McKissick Enterprises, in which McKissick is the majority stockholder, apparently has already made a handsome profit from the project.

The newspaper reported that it purchased the major Soul City tract in 1969 for $390,000. It sold it to the Soul City Co. in 1974 for $650,000.

McKissick, who has acknowledged that he intends to make a profit from the venture, declined to say in an interview how much salary he draws from the various Soul City companies in which he has an interest.

Manpower Committee Guidelines Are Retained

The Mid-East executive committee, meeting in Greenville last week heard Dr. E.M. Hunt report that new guidelines for the Manpower Committee program would retain the same basic format as last year's program with slight alterations.

Alan Alexander of the Mid-East Commission staff is working with a newly appointed Regional Manpower Advisory Committee to develop an area Manpower Plan for 1976.

Upon Dr. Hunt's recommendation, the committee approved the first draft of the Manpower program.

Mid-East Commission Assistant Director Bruce Beasley, presented the Comprehensive Health Planning resolution, which gave first choice status to the designation of Region Q as a health service area.

Beasley briefly explained that the region does not meet the population requirement of 500,000 to achieve designation as a health services area. He offered a suggestion concerning the designation of Regions L, Q, and R as health services areas, with appropriate sub-divisions.

Stuart Savage presented Emergency Medical Services requests, asking the committee members to approve $1,000 to help purchase a rescue vehicle for Oak City.

Of the $12,500 funded by the State for EMS within Region Q, Savage reported that $7,500 was earmarked for direct aid to local rescue squads and other emergency medical service providers.

Emergency Medical Services requests were approved by the committee, subject to proper accounting and policy procedure by the Comprehensive Health Planning staff.

Presenting the Family

Planning Budget for 1975-76, program administrator Bee Wisienski explained the budget increase in terms of an increase in patients seen during the past six months.

Ross Persinger offered twelve clearinghouse fund applications, requesting the committee's approval with the exception of a request for $50,000 by the Coastal Plains Regional Commission for Junk Car and Other Durable Wastes.

Chairman Bob Spivey presided at the evening meeting.

School Survey

The Greenville City Schools are now making a survey to determine the number of children who will be enrolling in kindergarten and first grade for the coming school year.

Pre-school census sheets are being sent home by children who are now enrolled in the schools. Parents who have pre-school children who will be starting to school next year should contact the elementary school nearest their home if they have not received a pre-school census form.

Pitt NAACP Seeks Members

The Pitt County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is conducting a membership drive during the month of March, with its goal to enroll 400 new and renewal members.

Membership committee chairman Mrs. Fannie L. Jenkins said each NAACP member is asked to bring two or more new members during the month.

The next Pitt NAACP meeting, Mrs. Jenkins said, will be at Tabernacle Baptist Church at Calico on March 9 at 7:45 p.m.

City Finance Another Freeze Dept. Sees 2 Promotions Is Due Tonight

The city announced two promotions affecting employees in the Finance Department.

City Manager designee Harry Hagerty joined City Manager Bill Carstarphen in announcing the promotions of Phillip A. Averette from tax collector to assistant finance officer and Floyd E. Little from assistant tax collector to tax collector.

Averette, who is moving into a newly created position, joined the city staff in April of 1972 and since that time has served in various capacities within the tax division of the department. He is a graduate of East Carolina University.

Responsibilities of the assistant finance officer include planning and directing Finance Department operations, assisting in maintenance of the general accounting system, coordination of purchasing, implementation of data processing operations, and assisting in the city's cash investment program.

Little, who will assume the responsibilities formerly held by Averette, joined the city staff in May of 1970, prior to which he was associated with the DuPont Co. and Fieldcrest Mills. A native of Bath, Little attended ECU and Pitt Technical Institute.

As tax collector, Little will assume primary responsibility for the city's overall tax and revenue collection operation.

The Finance Department, consisting of the tax and accounting divisions, is currently involved in the installation of improved accounting systems including electronic accounting equipment. The department is headed by Patrick Ross, finance officer.

By The Associated Press

North Carolina had a hard freeze Sunday night and another is indicated tonight. Peach growers are worried.

The wind was a factor in causing the night to be cold. A moderate breeze continued well into the night at many places. Winds will not be as strong today and tonight, and it will be practically calm by Tuesday.

Old Technique In Needlework Being Revived

A revived technique of needlework in quilt making is coming to the Greenville Recreation Department. The pattern "Cathedral Window," the look of stained glass in needlecraft, class will start March 11th.

This quilt pattern gives a padded look without the need for batting or quilting. It is a craft which can be done in the lap and can be transported easily. It can also be used for items other than quilts.

The following materials are needed: one yard of unbleached muslin, small cotton remnants (plain color or print), thread (50 or 60 mercerized, sharp quilting type needle, pins, scissors, and tape measure or ruler.

Classes are held Tuesday from 9:00 a.m. to Noon, from 2 to 5 p.m., and from 7:30 to 10 p.m. on Wednesday classes are from 1 to 5 p.m.

There is no charge for classes. For further information, contact Lucille Sumrell at 752-4137, ext. 251.

and tonight, and it will be practically calm by Tuesday morning.

Highs today and Tuesday will range from the low and mid 30s in the mountains to the mid 40s in the southeast.

The rain that spread over the state late Saturday night was generally light...less than a tenth of an inch. But a few places had between a quarter and a half inch. The rain was followed by some snow flurries over the mountains and across the northern portion of the state. Practically all the snow evaporated before it got to the ground except in the mountains, where the ground was whitened.

Temperatures showed little rise Sunday. Afternoon highs ranged from near 30 in the mountains to the mid 40s along the southeast.

The wind was fairly strong over the coastal waters, especially offshore. It subsided a little during the day.

Miss Sally Scheipers Weds Sunday Afternoon

Miss Sally Scheipers and William Emerson Suther were united in marriage Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard R. Gammon.

A program of wedding music was presented by Ken Woodard, organist, and Stuart Aronson, vocalist, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer", while the couple knelt for the benediction on a white prie-dieu.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Louis E. Scheipers of Greenville and the late Mr. Scheipers. Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Suther Jr. of Mooresville are parents of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Joseph M. Scheipers, wore a formal length white sata peau gown designed with a high neckline encircled with white cluny lace in a scroll pattern. The sheer linear bodice featured panels of lace edged in ruffled cluny lace and centered with covered buttons from the neckline to the waist. The full bishop sleeves featured panels of lace with cuffs edged in ruffled matching lace. The gathered skirt was enhanced at the waistline with scrolled cluny lace.

Her chapel length mantilla, edged in lace to match her gown, was attached to a satin bandeau edged in Venise lace. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, pom pons and ivy.

The matron of honor was Betsy Smith of Charlotte, sister of the bride. She was dressed in a dusty blue polyester interlock knit gown with a scoop neck trimmed in white cluny lace and Venise edged collar. The high rise midriff bodice featured a tie back and the long sleeves and lace edged ruffled cuffs. She carried a basket of spring flowers.

Bridesmaids were Jackie

MRS. WILLIAM EMERSON SUTHER

Bloxam, Sheila Abraham and Cheryl Hurley, all of Charlotte. They were dressed like the honor attendant.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Eugene M. Suther of Commerce, Ga., and Lee S. Suther of Charlotte, brothers of the bridegroom. John C. Scheipers of Greenville, brother of the bride, Phillip B. Humphries of Taylors, S. C., and Wellyn T. Humphries of Stanley.

The mother of the bride wore a formal blue silk gown with long sleeves and enhanced with a cummerbund type belt. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal length green crepe gown with full length bloused sleeves. Both wore matching carnation corsages.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Tom Broadrick.

The chancel of the church was centered with a basket of white gladioli, mums and pom pons with seven branch candelabra filled with greenery and palm trees.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina and is employed as a teacher in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School System. The bridegroom is a graduate of Georgia Military Academy, Milledgeville, Ga., and Gardner-Webb College, Boiling Springs. He is an accountant with Mid-Continent Telephone Co.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church.

The reception table was covered with a white organdy cloth and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers flanked by yellow candles. Mrs. David Miller poured punch and Mrs. Joseph Pridgen and Mrs. David Lewis served cake.

Mrs. Michael Aldridge presided at the bride's book. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Gaylor.

An after-rehearsal party was held Saturday night in the Red Room of the Moose Lodge given by the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leith, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Lee, Mrs. Joseph Pridgen, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt Narron, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Stoneham, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holland, and Mrs. Ikey Arnold.

Honesty Has No Substitute

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old woman who has been going with a wonderful 69-year-old gentleman. He says he loves me, needs me, and wants to marry me.

I care for him so much, but here is my problem. When we first met, I told him I had been widowed once and divorced once, as I had no intentions of getting involved with him, but here is the story of my life.

When I was 17, I had a baby boy out of wedlock whom my mother kept until I married the following year. I had another child with this husband, and was divorced four years later.

I married a second time and was divorced eight years later. No children. I married a third time and had two sons. That marriage lasted 22 years. My husband deserted me. After that I couldn't go out with another man until I met the one I'm going with now.

He is pressing me for an answer, and I don't know how much of my past I should tell him.

Although I was married and divorced three times I was never untrue to any of my husbands. This man says he hates a liar, so I'm afraid I'll lose him if he finds me to be one. Help me.

D. IN PHILADELPHIA

DEAR D.: There is no substitute for honesty. Tell him of your past marriages and divorces, but don't go into the details. Explain that had you known that your relationship would develop into a serious one, you'd have been more factual, but you were reluctant to tell a comparative stranger that you were a three-time loser. He'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: You could perform an even greater service than you do with your advice column if you were to set up a "Dear Abby Swap Shop."

The Dear Abby Swap Shop, which could be called "DASS," could arrange swaps between mates. For example, the wife of Gutless in New York, who complained because she was still a virgin after a year of marriage, could swap mates with one of those gals who is always complaining because her husband won't leave her alone long enough to get her housework done.

And that poor 44-year-old wife who is dead tired from working a 10-hour shift in a laundry could swap her Louie, who acts like he's still a teen-ager, for a man like "Enough is Enough," who's all burned out at the age of 50.

There are lots of couples who need to swap mates, and you and DASS could do it, Abby. What do you say?

ORIGINATOR OF DASS

DEAR ORIGINATOR: Thanks a lot, but there's enough swapping going on without my starting a swap shop. In other words, "DASS" ist nicht fur mich.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18, and the youngest of all the women in our family. I am also the only unmarried woman in the family and I intend to stay that way. Do you want to know why?

Because all my sisters' husbands do is insult them. I never heard one of those husbands compliment his wife on anything. Just insults is all I hear. So what I want to know is, why are men always insulting their wives?

STAYING SINGLE

DEAR STAYING: Don't judge all men by your sisters' husbands. Either they're all losers, or your sisters don't deserve any compliments. Familiarity doesn't always breed contempt.

Engagement Announced

MISS DEBORAH JEAN MANNING . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jarvis Manning of Rt. 2, Greenville, who announce her engagement to Jesse Harold Peaden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse J. Peaden of Rt. 6, Greenville. The wedding will take place March 28.

Women's Caucus Meeting Set

The Greenville-Pitt County Women's Political Caucus will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Pitt County District Courtroom.

First District Chairperson Mildred McGrath said all members and interested persons who are not members are invited to attend.

The Women's Political Caucus is organized on the national, state and local levels on a non-partisan basis.

Its chief objective is to promote greater participation by women in political processes and in government, by encouraging qualified women to run for elective office, by raising women's issues in political campaigns, by pressing for more appointments of women to policy-making positions and by working for legislation to end discrimination against women.

At present, the North Carolina Women's Political Caucus and all district and local chapters are involved in the campaign for ratification of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment.

Fashion Show Is Scheduled

Ms. Penny Smith of the College Shop, will present a fashion show at the Welcome Wagon luncheon meeting March 12.

No Debate On The Other Side

A lot of tears are being shed in Congress these days about the tragedy of the war in Southeast Asia.

A tragedy it is, but the solution that some members of Congress proposes would be to allow the patient to die.

There are those who feel that if the United States denies aid to Cambodia, the government will soon collapse and the communist will take over, to the relief of everybody.

Unfortunately no such reverse debate is going on in the Soviet Union and China. The Cambodian rebels are still being well supplied. So if we deny aid to Cambodia we will simply be condoning the takeover of another country by brute force. To us, the situation would be similar to saying that we should take the locks off our doors, dismiss the police and capitulate to the robbers.

We would never propose that United States forces be committed to Southeast Asia again. We have tried that and it was too divisive and too agonizing for our nation. Still we should give the Cambodians, and Vietnam, too, a fighting chance. They deserve to be treated as well as the rebels communists' supporters are treating them. In short, it is Cambodian blood that is being shed and it is up to those people to decide when the horror of war is less desirable than capitulation to armed might.

Like so many people in our nation we would like to forget Southeast Asia, but our involvement over so many years demands some commitment still, if we are to maintain our world prestige.

Maybe sending more arms and food to Cambodia won't save the country, but at least we will have done all we could.

Older Bridges Appear In Need Of A Check-Up

It seems likely that North Carolina is going to have to carefully study all of its older bridges for safety.

A bridge collapsed over the Yadkin River recently with the loss of four lives.

Bridges are inspected on a regular basis, but still there are bridges where cars striking key supports can bring them down.

There could be no better time to develop a bridge replacement program than during this time of recession. The work would furnish jobs and, at the same time, provide for safer highway travel.

Don't Jump, Bluespan!

WASHINGTON—I was walking by the building in Washington that houses the President's Council of Economic Advisers when I glanced up and saw a man on the ledge of the roof with his coat off. He looked as if he was going to jump down 14 stories to the sidewalk. I recognized the chap as my good friend, Ziegfried Bluespan, one of the country's leading economists.

I dashed in, took the elevator to the roof and screamed.

"DON'T JUMP, BLUESPAN!"

"Stay away from me," he warned.

"Why do you want to kill yourself?" I asked him.

"Because I was wrong in my predictions for the first quarter of 1975."

"But that's no reason to do away with yourself."

"That's easy for you to say," he replied, tears running down his cheeks, "because you're not an economist. We took a vow when we came out of school that we would always be right. I'm a disgrace to the profession."

Other Editors Say Users Penalized

(Henderson Dispatch)

In operation of the postal services, Americans are being penalized for the lack of efficiency. Now, they are softening users of the mails for another dig in taxes to support inability. What has been happening in the past several years actually is a levy upon the people.

The country is being told that at some time later this year first class postage rates will rise to twelve cents, possibly even thirteen cents, from the present ten, as the toll for mailing a letter.

They have a word for it, the familiar cliché of inflation, higher pay, and the like. Patrons are being taxed twice for support of the postal service; first in higher rates and then in taxes generally for support of the government. It's the only activity of government that is required to pay its way, and that at the expense of service that leaves much to be desired.

This practice of imposing a two cents increase on first class mail every year tells its own story. The rate today is double what it was a few short years ago.

The postal service is, of course, a massive enterprise. To manage and direct it requires the best of knowhow. This is not to say those now in charge are not seasoned business people. We presume they are. But somewhere in the vast labyrinth there is a lag.

If the department must have more money, it should come from the general fund, the same as support for all other Federal agencies. If honorables on Capitol Hill would flex their muscles, they could put a stop to this annual increase in charges. Of course, it is of no direct concern to themselves, since their mail goes free. But they have constituents back home who must pay the freight, don't they? That ought to be of interest to them.

Problems See Mass Confusion

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An outstanding characteristic of the economic mess in which the country finds itself is confusion, both as to what the problems really are and how to shed them.

Nothing illustrates this better than the debate over whether inflation or recession is the number one problem. Even economists have taken sides on the issue, despite knowing better — they are part of the very same problem.

In the stock market you'll find wide disagreement about whether the recent rally is the beginning of a bull market or a bullish surge in a bear market.

People always have relied on hindsight to affix the proper labels to economic events. To some economists, for example, a recession is a recession only after the statistics are gathered and analyzed.

Nevertheless, decisions have to be made, and they are coming slowly — a tax rebate program and an energy policy especially. But it isn't only government that seems unable to respond quickly.

The automotive people seem unable to accept the fact that consumers just aren't in the mood to flock to car dealers. They didn't believe demand was falling, so the automotive people overproduced. They still don't believe.

The rebate program is little more than an attempt to dodge the inevitable lowering of prices. It is a begrudging tip of the hat to a hostile market and not a long-term proposal of friendship. Only price cuts would do that.

Results of the rebate program could add up to failure. The temporarily lowered prices helped cut inventories but perhaps at the expense of future car sales.

Among those economists noted for their popular analyses of the economy, the confusion is glaring. It isn't at all unusual to find them still arguing over whether this is a recession or a depression, as if the jobless cared.

And the confidence of the public is undermined and further confusion sown by evidence of inexplicable state-ments at the very highest levels.

How, you are entitled to ask, can the administration say unemployment will peak at 8.5 per cent when most likely it is past that figure already?

How can the Federal Reserve say it has a proper policy for feeding enough

More Than A Gavel

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — There is much more than a gavel at stake in the race for Speaker of the North Carolina House in 1977.

The two candidates for the post are Rep. Carl Stewart of Gastonia and Rep. William T. Watkins of Oxford. Both men are lawyers, Democrats, and veteran legislators. But there the similarity just about ends, which is what makes their contest interesting.

It may seem odd to people accustomed to watching the legislature procrastinate whenever possible, but the two candidates have been campaigning for the job for almost two years.

The House picks its speaker in much the same way a college fraternity elects a president. A senior member decides he wants the job at some time in the future. He begins rounding up commitments. The issue is often settled long before the voting starts.

Political philosophy often plays a small role. House members generally consider a man's region, intelligence, integrity, and amiability before they consider his views on issues. So it's hard to make political generalizations about the coalitions behind Watkins and Stewart.

But, for many years, the dominant coalition in the House has contained conservative Democrats from what political scientist V. O. Key described as North Carolina's "Black Belt." These are the eastern counties with large black populations which consistently elect conservative whites to office.

They have long been aligned with partisan mountain legislators from counties where Democrats have to fight Republicans the hardest. The coalition is oriented toward rural, conservative interests.

Its candidate in the 1977 race is Watkins. But it appears now that Watkins is not going to win.

Stewart has his base of support in the urban, more liberal Piedmont area. To that, he has added a substantial number of easterners who agreed to support him when Stewart conceded the 1975 speaker's chair to Rep. James C. Green, of Bladen County.

He is now in a commanding position. Watkins' only hope is to capture nearly all of the votes of the new Democrats who arrive in 1977 and to see Republicans recapture some of the seats now held by Stewart supporters.

Stewart's emergency may signal the demise, or at least the decline, of the old coalition. Many observers foresaw this in the 1960s when legislative reapportionment for the first time gave the Piedmont legislative seats commensurate with its population.

But until now, the old guard has hung on through a combination of seniority, craftiness and superior political unity.

If Stewart is running the House in 1977, there may be a marked change in the direction of North Carolina government. For there will also be a new governor, and he may be a Democrat with progressive ideas.

Nothing in sight now pre-sages an abrupt change to a liberal, innovative state govern-ment.

How To Get Out Of Town?

By BILL NOBLITT

BUTNER—North Carolina has a town it would like to be rid of.

Studies are now underway in the General Assembly, in the Department of Administration, and in the Department of Human Resources with an eye to what to do about this small town in Granville County which the State of North Carolina largely owns, and totally operates.

State Rep. Art Thomas, D-Concord, is chairman of the House Committee on State Property and will lead his colleagues on an inspection tour shortly to "take a look and see what the state needs to do . . . how this situation developed, and how best to straighten it out."

Thomas is concerned that "over the years there has grown up there a small town operated by the State of North Carolina . . . There's no other situation where the state runs a town."

A New Town

Butner residents will see a lot of state activity, in addition to that legislative committee tour. A team of surveyors from the Department of Human Resources is knocking on doors to ask residents what they would prefer to do. Things appear moving in the direction of incorporation for Butner—giving the town a mayor and town board for the first time in history.

Unlike other towns in North Carolina, the state takes care of the water and sewer system, provides electricity, runs an 18-man security force for fire and police protection (staff is hired as private security guards for the complex of state institutions in Butner), and until last year operated a garbage disposal service which is now handled by private contract.

Butner children go to Granville County schools—the town of 2,400 is near Interstate-85 about 15 miles north of Durham—but county officials figure they are getting short-changed since many Butner residents (about 40 per cent of them) rent their homes from the state, and pay no real estate taxes. The state pays no taxes, either, on the extensive property holdings and the six major institutions located in Butner.

Ben W. Aiken, now an assistant secretary at Human Resources, was for 20 years business manager at Umstead Hospital, a job which made him also mayor and town manager of Butner.

When the state bought the surplus federal property where up to 50,000 troops were quartered during World War II, "there was not a residence for our employees to live in. We had to provide homes," so the state went into the hold-building business, Aiken recalls.

Almost all the houses were state owned, but in more recent years employees have been sold lots and encouraged to build their own.

Private Business

Land has also been sold to private businesses, and today the town boasts shops and stores and a movie, in addition to several textile plants, a steel fabricating shop, a Thomas and Howard wholesale distribution center, and a plastic pipe manufacturing firm.

Until state reorganization last year the state Mental Health Board served as the town council; now, Human Resources Secretary David T. Flaherty is charged with being mayor and town manager, while a municipal advisory committee appointed by him runs things.

Butner problems will soon be compounded by the addition of a new institution: an $18 million federal prison to conduct research on behavior modification. A host of new people will moving into town requiring municipal services and schools.

About 40 per cent of the homes in Butner are still owned by the state, with occupants paying rental (which a recent survey suggested is about 20 per cent lower than the going rate for similar property).

The two key questions facing state officials in pondering how to get out of operating Butner are determining if the tax base is large enough to support a regular town government, and figuring out how to get the state out of the landlord business.

In addition to Umstead Psychiatric Hospital, the state operates the Murdoch Center for Mentally Retarded, the Umstead Youth Center, a rehab center for the blind, an alcoholic rehab center, and the C.A. Dillon Training School for juveniles all in Butner.

The INSIDE REPORT

Collision-Course Looming

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

JERUSALEM—Israel and the U.S. may be veering toward collision, a potential tragedy which would have dangerous repercussions on the Arab-Israeli struggle and might plunge this shining, emblematic nation into a crisis of politics and self-doubt.

Storm signals are flying, with Israeli politicians conceding deep uncertainty how to manage the policy divisions between Jerusalem and Washington over a second-stage withdrawal from the Egyptian Sinai.

The widening gap between Israel's view of American obligations and a more skeptical view of Israeli policy by U.S. politicians was dramatized when Ambassador Kenneth Keating received a private briefing on the new Israeli budget. After explaining their request for $2.590 billion in new U.S. aid, finance minister Yousha Rabinowitz was stunned that Keating, according to one official present, declined to give the request automatic approval. Rabinowitz, grappling with a grave economic crisis, could not believe what he heard. Twisting his tie in unfeigned anxiety, he pleaded with Keating to tell Washington he fully supported the request. But Keating promised only that he would tell President Ford the request deserved serious consideration.

What is disturbing about the incident is not the size of the request but Rabinowitz's misreading of politics in an America mired in recession and vast deficit spending. It depicts the gap between hopeful mythology about the U.S. and U.S. realities.

When Democratic Sen. Daniel Inouye of Hawaii was here a few days later, he warned Rabinowitz privately that as a key member of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on foreign aid he could not support such a drain of U.S. taxpayers. Within hours, he received an urgent invitation to Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's inner sanctum, where the full force of Rabin's considerable charm was turned on. Inouye was full of praise for Israel, but he did not budge.

This tunnel vision is not unique to Israel's economic planners. Defense Minister Shimon Peres, a perceptive politician with unusually wide horizons, told us that if Congress slashes Israel's aid request deeply the result would be "a complete Russian victory," a view not shared in Washington. He also said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has three purposes of roughly equal priority: either settlement with Israel or isolation of Israel from the U.S. or another war.

Such a reading of Sadat may conceivably be correct.

THE PRICE OF EXPERIENCE

The English man of letters, Jonathan Swift, once remarked that no preacher is ever listened to but Time, and Benjamin Franklin declared that Dame Experience runs an expensive school, but fools will have no other.

In the Garden of Eden God asked our common parents whether they would learn by counsel or experience. And Adam and Eve set the fashion for the race when they replied that they would learn by experience. Unfortunately, human nature has been behaving in the same pattern to this very time.

To be sure, humanity has learned something from the experience of the past—civilization would be impossible if this were not so—but it has learned relatively little about the really important things. We have learned much in the way of technique, chiefly in improving the physical quality of our lives. But we have learned little or nothing about how to get along with each other. And we still have far to go in putting into effect what we already know about what our relations with God should be.

digit? It's better for them if I'm not around."

"What about the President, Bluespan? He needs you. You're his economic right arm. How can he get his antirecession programs through Congress if you remove yourself from the scene?"

"Don't try to softsoap me," Bluespan said. "I'm doing what any honorable economist would do when he has been proven wrong. I cannot live with a lie."

"But maybe you aren't wrong. Maybe everybody else is. Perhaps all the statistics now coming out do not give the true picture of the state of the economy. In a few months things may change. Then you would be right, but you wouldn't be around to accept the country's undying gratitude."

"That isn't the way we economists are built. The one reason people believe in us is because we never err. If I don't take this way out, the science of economic forecasting could be damaged forever."

The crowd in the street was getting noisier and noisier. Ten thousand people were all yelling "JUMP" at the same time.

I started to perspire. "Look, Bluespan. You're not the only on the President's Council of Economic Advisers. Why aren't they jumping off the building with you?"

Bluespan looked shocked. "I never thought of that. It's true, they should be on the roof here with me. This was to have been a mass suicide."

"They're probably downstairs right now electing a new chairman."

"Over my dead body," said Bluespan, climbing off the ledge. "I'm going down there and give them my latest optimistic projections for the Wholesale Price Index."

"Good boy," I said, breathing a sigh of relief.

Bluespan put on his coat and went downstairs.

I took the elevator to the lobby and walked out in the street. "Forget it, folks," I told the people. He decided not to jump.

You never saw a more disappointed crowd in your life.

Evans-Novak...

but it bears no resemblance to the U.S. government's. It ignores the American feeling, widely shared by visiting U.S. politicians, that Sadat not only desperately wants a settlement—but desperately needs it for political reasons.

In different vein, we found that despite Israel's dependence on Washington, U.S. policy looking toward an eventual Israeli pullback on the Syrian Golan Heights and the Palestinian West Bank is being made systematically more difficult by official Israeli policy.

Thus, new four-family apartments are being built at top speed near the city of Kuneitra, captured by Israel in 1967 and returned to Syria at U.S. insistence last spring. Similar settler housing is being built at Argaman, a small settlement overlooking the Jordan River on the West Bank. What will happen if Israel is finally compelled to yield the West Bank and more of Golan back to the Arabs? "I hope not to think about it," a pretty 22-year-old Argaman housewife told us. "The government promised we could stay and they are spending much money to help us."

To most Israelis, taking the U.S. for granted while creating conditions to make it demonstrably harder for U.S. policy to succeed is not at all contradictory. An army major told us: "We are the ones living in constant danger, not you. All we ask from you are tools to do the job."

The shrewd, articulate Menachem Begin, leader of the hawkish opposition party Likud, put it more dramatically: "Where is the nation that would commit such a folly as taking risks for peace?" With convictions like that widespread, a collision with the one true friend Israel has left is ominously possible.

District Oratorical Winner Is Named

Albert Walston, a senior of Farmville Central High School, was declared winner in the District III Oratorical Contest held Thursday night at the American Legion Building in Greenville. Walston was sponsored by American Legion Post No. 151 of Farmville.

ALBERT WALSTON

Runner-up in the annual Legion sponsored contest was Gregory K. McKall of Washington High School. McKall's sponsor was Legion Post No. 15 of Washington.

As District III winner, Walston will advance to the Division I Oratorical Contest to be held at East Carolina University on Thursday, March 6.

Walston won in the preliminary Pitt County rounds held February 20 at the American Legion home. Felton Bess of D.H. Conley was Pitt County's runner-up.

The topic of Walston's talk was "The Supreme Court And Our Constitutional Guarantees."

Judges for the series of oratorical contests include Lawrence E. Hough and Dr. Oral Parks, both Political Science Dept., ECU; Dr. Charles L. Price, History Dept., ECU; Dr. Meredith Posey, a retired English professor, ECU; Steve Finnian, Drama Department, ECU; and Dr. Warren Bezanson, English Dept., ECU.

Coordinators are Owen J. Kingsbury, Oratorical County Chairman, Pitt County American Legion Post 39; Ernest Avery, District III Oratorical Chairman; and Ed Karnowski, Division I Oratorical Chairman.

The contest is sponsored nationally each year and is open to young men and women in high schools. Each state winner receives a $500 scholarship; and the national winner receives an $8,000 scholarship.

The Division winner on March 6 will receive a $50 U.S. Savings Bond and a gold medal.

Arrest Duo For Break-In Try

Two East Carolina University students were arrested by Greenville Police on charges of attempted breaking and entering following investigation of an incident at the Hip Pocket at 201 East Fifth St. about 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers found Robert Gary Averitte, 20 and Wayne Robinson Bland, 23, both of 207H Eastbrook Apts. at the door of the Hip Pocket, early Sunday. A window above the door had been broken, he noted.

Damage to the window was estimated at $20.

In addition to being charged with attempted breaking and entering, both Averitte and Bland were charged with public drunkenness.

No Charges In Sunday Wreck

No charges were reported following investigation of a 1:32 p.m. collision Sunday on First Street, 66 feet West of the Evans Street intersection.

Investigators identified drivers of the vehicles involved as Bonny Hough Moore of Ayden and Steven Charles Fuchs of Stokes.

Damage was estimated at $75 to the Moore car and $135 to the Fuchs vehicle.

Accept Application Of School-Starters

Applications for kindergarten and first grade are currently being accepted in the Pitt County Schools for the 1975-76 school year.

Parents or guardians with children who will be five years old on or before Oct. 16, 1975, should register their child with the primary school in their attendance area. Children who are six years old on or before Oct. 16, 1975, should be registered for first grade if they are not currently enrolled in kindergarten in the county schools.

Applications for registration may be obtained from the county primary and elementary schools.

Earlier releases showed that Oct. 15, 1975, was the cutoff date for kindergarten and first grade enrollment and this is correct by literal interpretation of the law.

"However, a court case several years ago has led to a case law decision which permits those children born on Oct. 16, to be enrolled also. Pitt County Board of Education policy has been interpreted to read that Oct. 16 be the cutoff date for students rather than Oct. 15," stated Ott Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today with a continued push from falling interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.85 at 743.90. Gainers outdistanced losers by close to a 3-1 margin in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said investors evidently had the market's rebound in the latter part of last week after a sharp setback in profit taking Monday and Tuesday as a bullish sign.

They also noted that falling interest rates seemed to be exerting a continued pull on investment funds away from interest-bearing instruments and into stocks.

This morning a cut in the prime lending rate begun by a few big banks Friday from 8 1/2 to 8 3/4 per cent was matched by others such as New York's Chase Manhattan and Pittsburgh's Mellon National Bank.

Airline stocks gained in active trading for the second straight session, responding to talk of a possible developing break in world oil prices.

Pan American, the most active issue on the Big Board, rose 1/8 to 5; UAL was up 3/4 at 21 1/4; Northwest Airlines gained 1 to 18 1/4, and TWA was up 3/4 at 11 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks picked up .27 to 43.34 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index also rose .27, to 77.54.

Soliton, the Amex volume leader, climbed 3/8 to 2 1/2.

He said that steel workers will move to the rehabilitation center portion of the project as soon as foundation work can be completed.

Snow Flurries Turn Nine Die In Memories To 1927 N.C. Traffic

Snow flurries yesterday morning might have brought back memories of March 2, 1927, for those old enough to recall.

On that momentous day, the state was deluged with snow and here in Greenville, it measured 16 inches once the snowfall ended.

It was 48 years later yesterday and there was a round of snow flurries Sunday morning, but it was nothing like the snow of 1927. In fact the falling flakes yesterday never covered the ground, although they did cause some excitement for those who love snow.

Greenville Utilities weather observers said the high temperature yesterday was 46 degrees with a low of 29. This morning at 8 p.m. it was 28 degrees and the river level stood at 6.4 feet.

Snow flurries continued through much of Sunday morning, but a forecast of clearing and colder was fulfilled last night.

Headlines on March 2, 1927 read, "Heaviest Snow in Quarter Century. Traffic movement was almost impossible and automobiles stuck deep in the snow were abandoned by the drivers," The Daily Reflector reported.

The anniversary of the big snow was marked well by snow flurries yesterday, but there was to be no repeat of March 2, 1927.

Sponsor Course On Older Adult

Pitt Technical Institute will sponsor a 33-hour course on "The Older Adult and the Community" beginning Thursday. The class is designed to increase the awareness of professionals and other persons involved in community services with the process of aging and the nature and circumstances of older persons in society.

Course content will include the biological aspects of aging, psycho-social aspects of aging, community development, and community resources.

The first meeting will be held Thursday at 1 p.m. at the Methodist Student Center, corner of Fifth and Holly Streets. The remaining meetings will be held each Thursday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and tuition is $2.

Murphy Hangs On To Win Classic

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Writer
LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — Bob Murphy has a pixie grin—perhaps, Irish as he is, it should be called a leprechaun's smile—spread across his round, red face.

"I just thought that since Johnny Miller wasn't here, I'd better take advantage of it," he said.

He did. The green-clad Murphy turned back suddenly-stricken Jack Nicklaus and eager Eddie Pearce with two dramatic shots in the stretch run and won the $52,000 first prize Sunday in the Jackie Gleason Golf Classic.

"It's been a long, long time, boys," the broadly-beaming Murphy said after his closing four-under-par 68 had brought him from three strokes off the pace.

"I last won in 1970. Since then I've been second 15 times and lost in playoffs seven times. (Both figures are exaggerations). I was beginning to wonder what was wrong. Why couldn't I play just one shot better?"

"I just had the feeling today that if the wind would blow, maybe I'd get lucky."

And that's exactly what happened. The wind blew. It blew Jack Nicklaus' shot out of bounds and opened the gate for Murphy. And Murphy got lucky. He hit an eight iron shot that hit to the right of the pin on the 17th green and hopped dead at the flagstick as if drawn by a magnet.

The chunky Murphy, one of the most popular players with his fellow tourists, finished with a 273 total, 15 under par on the wind-swept 7,128-yard Inverrary County Club course.

The 22-year-old Pearce was one stroke back with a 71 and 274. Nicklaus, admittedly a dejected man, shot an erratic 73 and had a 275 total.

LAMPKIN DOWNED—Ray Lamplin of Portland, Oregon, lies flat on the canvas after being knocked out in the 14th round of the World Lightweight boxing title fight in Panama City by Panama's Roberto Duran, in the background. Lamplin was taken from the ring unconscious and was hospitalized. A spokesman said the boxer was out of "imminent danger" but was unconscious for several hours. (AP Wirephoto)

Lampkin Knocked Out As Duran Keeps Title

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — "If I hadn't been in such bad condition, Lampkin would be in the morgue not just the hospital," World Boxing Association lightweight champion Roberto Duran said Sunday night after retaining his title against challenger Ray Lamplin.

The 23-year-old Panamanian was celebrating Sunday's 14th-round knockout victory at home with his wife and friends while his opponent was in a hospital in delicate condition.

"I'm not worried," Duran continued. "It could be me in that hospital," he shouted over the loud tropical music that filled his living room.

Meanwhile, the 27-year-old Lamplin, as he regained consciousness, told The Associated Press from his bed in the intensive care unit that he didn't remember much after the fight.

The battered and bruised Lampkin, of Portland, Ore., said jokingly, "I don't know which hurts the most—my face or my arms."

He'd been given numerous injections in his left arm and was hooked up to an intravenous feeding device with his right arm. "But I'm really okay," he added, a painful smile breaking over his cut and swollen face.

Seattle Stops Boston, 104-97

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
K.C. Jones knows what to look for in a little man—a playmaker, a quarterback who can set the tempo of a team's offense, a hustler who can harass an opponent into mistakes on defense.

Jones was that type of player with the Boston Celtics, and as coach of the Washington Bullets he's got a sparkplug who also fits that description—the unheralded Kevin Porter.

Porter, the Bullets' "other" guard who labors in the shadow of high scorer Phil Chenier, handed out a club-record 21 assists Sunday to lead Washington to its 21st consecutive home-court victory, a 117-104 triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The 21 assists were the most by any player in a National Basketball Association game this season. Porter scored just four points, but teammates Chenier had 27, Mike Riordan 24 and Nick Weatherspoon 22. "Our offense was moving real well today," said Porter, who like his coach is just six feet tall but makes up for any lack of height with speed, ball-handling, defense and just plain hustle.

The victory raised Washington's record to 48-17, best in the NBA.

In other games, the Seattle SuperSonics tripped the Boston Celtics 104-97, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the New York Knicks 91-87, the Kansas City-Omaha Kings defeated the Detroit Pistons 122-112, the Houston Rockets topped the Phoenix Suns 110-104 and the Portland Trail Blazers trounced the Golden State Warriors 122-86.

Sonics 104, Celtics 97
Seattle stars Spencer Haywood and Fred Brown combined for 59 points, including 11 in the final 2½ minutes to stop the Celtics in the nationally televised game.

Haywood, who had 30 points, put Seattle ahead 96-95 with a three-point play. Brown followed with a twisting layup, a long jumper and an off-balance baseline jumper, then Haywood clinched the victory with a dunk. Haywood had 14 of his points in the fourth period.

76ers 91, Knicks 87
Philadelphia completed a weekend sweep of the Knicks by erasing a 10-point deficit behind Fred Carter's 24 points, including two baskets in the late going.

The 76ers now trail the third-place Knicks by just 1½ games in the Atlantic Division and are still very much in the running for the Eastern Conference wild card playoff berth.

Kings 122, Pistons 112
Nate Archibald scored 32 points, Sam Lacey added 22 and Scott Wedman had 21 for the Kings, who won their seventh straight home game before a crowd of 14,843 at Kansas City.

Rockets 110, Suns 104
Ed Ratleff tossed in a career-high 31 points for the Rockets, who also got 25 from Mike Newlin and 20 from Rudy Tomjanovich.

Won Battle But Losing War

By The Associated Press
The Kentucky Colonels won their battle against the New York Nets over the weekend, but still lost ground in the war. Kentucky came up with a superb effort to beat the Nets 95-84 in their head-to-head confrontation Saturday night, then saw that effort negated Sunday night when they lost to the San Antonio Spurs 103-98.

The Nets' 117-100 victory over St. Louis Friday night and 111-87 rout of Memphis Sunday more than offset the loss at Kentucky. They came out of the weekend with a net gain of one-half game on the Colonels in their torrid race for first place in the Eastern Division of the American Basketball Association.

New York, with a 46-19 record, now hold a lead of one full game over the second-place Colonels.

Elsewhere in the ABA Sunday, the Utah Stars defeated the Virginia Squires 93-83, the Indiana Pacers edged the Spirits of St. Louis 104-99 and the Denver Nuggets beat the San Diego Conquistadors 133-117.

Nets 111, Sounds 87
Julius Erving and John Williamson tallied 20 points apiece for the Nets, who broke the game open with a 13-2 burst in the third period. New York also got a lift from its bench, with Bill Melchionni scoring 10 points and adding eight assists, Willie Sojourner nine points and five rebounds and Ed Manning eight point and eight rebounds. Stars 93, Squires 83

Ron Boone netted 13 of his 23 points in the final period to lead Utah to victory. Virginia led by as much as 13 points in the early going, but Randy Denton and John Roche combined for 10 points in the third period to give Utah the lead.

Pacers 104, Spirits 99
Rookie center Len Elmore scored a career-high 18 points, grabbed 10 rebounds, made nine steals and blocked six shots for Indiana, which notched its eighth victory in the last 10 starts. ABA scoring leader George McGinnis netted 23 points for Indiana while rookie Marvin Barnes topped the Spirits with 30.

Nuggets 133, Q's 117
Denver got 22 points from Mike Green, 19 from Ralph Simpson and 18 each from Bobby Jones, Mack Calvin and Dave Robisch in ending its two-game losing streak and raising its record to 50-17 best in the ABA.

A crowd estimated at 6,500 turned out for the game, largest of the year for the Q's. But many were apparently attracted by a rock concert which was held immediately after the game.

Yarborough Hoping For Grand National Title

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — "There's only one thing else in life that I want badly, and that's a Grand National stock car racing championship."

Cale Yarborough, a stocky blond land owner, politician and race car driver, was talking Sunday after winning the ninth annual Carolina 500 stock car spectacular over an equally wealthy David Pearson. The margin of victory was 13.5 seconds.

Yarborough, who will be 36 March 27, finished second to all-time great Richard Petty in last year's chase for the NASCAR Grand National championship.

He was all set to make a run for season honors this year, but a brewery that was backing the Junior Johnson-Yarborough Chevrolet suddenly pulled out of racing, leaving the team in a financial hole.

"Without the sort of backing we need," Yarborough said, "there's no way we can afford a full season of racing. And unless you make all 30 events on the schedule, there's no way you can win the championship."

Yarborough, not including something like $50,000 in winnings already this year, has sent the better part of $881,510 back to his little bank in Timmonsville, S.C., during a career that started in 1957 while he was playing fullback on his high school team.

During the interim, he has accumulated 1,300 acres of South Carolina's finest farm land, highlighted by a two-story, ante bellum mansion. He also has invested wisely in other property.

"It isn't the money," he said. "It's just that I'd like to win a championship before I go back to riding a farm tractor."

Even his victory Sunday won't help him toward the NASCAR title. Because of the financial situation, his team filed a post-entry for the race—meaning that because of the late filing, he gets no championship points.

Even so his first triumph of the season was a thing of beauty. He never was worse than his seventh place start, and as other contenders ran into problems, he appeared to get stronger as the 492 laps around the one mile North Carolina Motor Speedway dropped one by one.

He was in front five times for 261 laps and, in the end, only Pearson was in the same lap. Richard Petty finished third, a horrendous eight miles back, victim of the same overheating problems that cut him down two weeks ago at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Fourth and fifth places went to Dick Brooks in a Ford and Richard Childress in a Chevrolet.

Four of the top contenders—Darrell Waltrip, Lennie Pond, Dave Marcie and Daytona 500 winner Benny Parsons—were eliminated in a hair-raising multi-car accident two-thirds of the way.

Only Parsons was hurt. He was being treated at a Pinehurst hospital for a possible concussion.

The race drew 31,000 spectators. They had it both good and bad: A bright sun but with 38-degree temperatures.

Woody's Ramblin's

BY WOODY PEELE

Saturday, the University of Richmond announced that it was going to withdraw from the Southern Conference no later than the end of June, 1976.

What does this mean for Richmond? Our opinion is that it will not help the Virginia school, at least not any time soon. They list their reasons for withdrawing as the fall of Davidson's football program coupled with its continued conference membership, the admission of Appalachian State and the apparent coming admission of Western Carolina. To Richmond, this has been a lessening of conference prestige.

So Richmond will go the independent route, seeking to build its program up to Atlantic Coast Standards, with the possible hope of eventually joining that league. But that is going to take a lot more money than Richmond has previously been putting into its program. Of course, the university does have its own sugar daddy, the Robbins family, and that might help them succeed.

But going from the Southern to independent status isn't an easy job. Three others have tried it recently, Virginia Tech, West Virginia and George Washington. Their success has been limited, and all are perhaps better financed than Richmond.

We believe that recruiting may be a problem for Richmond in the near future. They cannot guarantee the blue chip athlete that they have even a good chance at NCAA tournament and bowl competition due to their independent status. And when Richmond's successes in the conference are added in, their hopes would be even thinner. Since 1953, Richmond had won only four titles, two in football and two in baseball in all league competition.

What does it mean to the conference?

Certainly the loss of Richmond is a blow to the league. Richmond is located in the league's largest metropolitan area. Thus, the conference will lose a great deal of its following, not to mention its press.

And if there were any questions about Western Carolina's membership those would seem to be wiped out. That school will almost certainly be admitted now, as a replacement, even if a somewhat less prestigious one.

True, they may prove to be a stronger member than Richmond in the long run, but how many people are going to buy a ticket to see Western Carolina play instead of Richmond?

The Southern must do a hard selling job in an area where the ACC gets all the publicity if it is to survive as a major conference. The league would appear to be headed more toward North Carolina orientation, but that's where the strength of the ACC lies.

The conference also needs to take a hard look at its policies—such as allowing a team to play within the league but out of Division I status in football (Davidson), and refusing to institute a round robin in football and a double round robin in basketball, things which make a conference a true conference.

And what about East Carolina, what of its future?

We do not advocate East Carolina's sudden withdrawal from the Southern. Right now, the Pirates are in an excellent position to dominate the league. Later this month, we will send seven wrestlers to the national finals. This could not be done without conference membership. We have the chance this week to win a berth either in the NCAA or the Commissioners' Tournament, something we probably could not now accomplish as an independent. The automatic berth for South Conference winners is much too valuable to give up.

The Pirates are in a position where with just a little more increase in their financial support total domination of the conference is possible.

There would be only two reasons to withdraw from the Southern. One would be to move immediately to another conference, either to the ACC or a newly-founded one which would be of a higher caliber. (And we also feel that East Carolina would be a better member right now than would Richmond in the ACC.) Whether there is enough desire for a new league is questionable. We feel that the ACC is not going to bring anyone in anytime soon.

The second reason to withdraw would be if the Southern lost its automatic status within the NCAA. There would be no further reason to continue in a conference that has fallen from grace. This, however, does not appear to be likely.

In summary, we feel the conference will not be helped by Richmond's loss. But at the same time, we do not feel that Richmond is going to be helped that much either, unless the Robbins are planning to put a great deal, and we emphasize "great", into the program.

The Virginia school will continue to play East Carolina in some sports, but we feel that a lot of the rivalry will go out of the game. And unless Richmond does make strides, one day we may find people urging that the school be dropped from the Pirates schedules. And only two years ago, they attracted the largest crowd in Ficklen Stadium history.

Mitch Kupchak; Maryland forward John Lucas; Wake Forest guard Skip Brown, and Clemson guard Skip Wise.

Thompson, the leading scorer in the conference this year with slightly more than 30 points per game, is the first player ever to be named unanimously to the all-star team three straight times. He has moved to within eight points of the ACC's career scoring record, held by Virginia's Buzz Wilkinson.

Kupchak, a burly, 6-9 junior, averaged 19 points per game and was UNC's leading rebounder.

Lucas, a 6-4 junior, was a starter at guard on last year's All-ACC team. This year he played a swing position in Maryland's three-guard offense.

Brown, a sophomore and Wise, a freshman, complete the team. Both were high-scoring guards. Wise is the first freshman ever selected for a first-team berth. Freshmen have played varsity ball in the ACC for the past three seasons.

Maryland dominated the second team with three players—guards Brad Davis and Mc Howard and forward Owen Brown. Clemson's Wayne "Tree" Rollins and Duke's Bob Fleischer round out the frontcourt.

Rampants Tie Jordan

Rose High School's swimming team closed out its dual meet season Saturday with a 38-38 tie with Jordan High School of Durham.

The meet was decided in the last race, the free style relay. Jordan took a third to tie the Rampants who won the event. "It was a close meet and some of the races were decided on judges decisions," said Coach Kevin O'Shea.

Art Klose was the only double winner for Rose taking both the 50 and 100 free style races. He also anchored the winning free style relay team.

The Rampants close the dual meet season with a 4-0-1 record. They have eight swimmers eligible for the state meet, five boys and three girls.

Captains elected last week are Klose and Mike Wooles.

Pirates Have Fine Day At Indoor Championships

East Carolina's indoor track team gave a strong showing in the short events but lost to William & Mary in the long events as the Indians won their 10th indoor track title Saturday. But along the way, the Pirates set some new marks and had one of the meet's two double winners.

Ken Moore won the 35-lb weight throw with a heave of 47 feet, one inch. It was not only good enough to win the event but the throw set a school record and it was Moore's first try. "It was a very fine performance considering it was his first try ever," said ECU coach Bill Carson.

Carter Suggs, in his first year of running, took two events winning the 60-yard dash in 6.1 seconds, the fastest time ever turned in at the Virginia Military Institute field house and Suggs led the finishers in the 440 which included at first five ECU runners. Finishing second was Palmer Lisane, third Maurice Huntley, fourth Ariah Johnson and fifth was Robert Franklin. Johnson was later disqualified for running out of his lane and Franklin was ousted for bumping a Furman runner. It was the first time in the meet's history that ECU had originally taken all five places in the event. Jerry Klas accomplished three things winning the 1000 yard run. He set a school and conference record winning in the time of 2:10.8 and qualified for the NCAA finals.

Brothers Ben and Mel Duckenfield took first and second respectively in the 600 setting a new school record of 1:12.5. Both are freshmen.

East Carolina's 70 point total was the highest by any ECU team so far.

Smokin' Joe Pounds Listless Jimmy Ellis

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer
MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — "I've whupped Jimmy. Now it's Ali's turn. I don't care where I fight him. I just want to see him on the other side of the ring."

Smokin' Joe Frazier was speaking Sunday in his dressing room, wrapped in a bright yellow towel. He'd easily dispatched a tired and defenseless Jimmy Ellis in nine rounds, and nothing seemed to matter now but a fight with Ali.

"I feel great," he whooped suddenly. "I feel like I could take Muhammad right now."

Frazier beat Ali in 1971 but lost to him in January 1974. But he hardly has a return date with the champion in the bag. All Ali has said is that he'd "talk about" facing the winner of the Melbourne fight. And in the meantime, the champion has a fight March 24 with Chuck Wepner, and says he wants to give George Foreman a rematch.

Then there is the ever-present possibility that Ali might call a halt to his boxing career entirely.

The $325,000 Frazier-Ellis bout at the St. Kilda Junction oval was billed as the "Show-down at St. Kilda." But afterwards, many fans were calling it the "St. Kilda Letdown." Ellis held his own for the first three rounds, winning them on points. But Frazier was probably just feeling out his opponent, and from the third round on Frazier was clearly in control.

Frazier struck out with the expected left hooks, but threw in right hooks and jabs that surprised his opponent. Frazier bobbed and weaved constantly, making himself a tough target to hit.

In the seventh round, a Frazier hook opened a cut over Ellis' right eye. Ellis manager, Angelo Dundee, took a look and sent Ellis back in, but by the ninth round he knew Jimmy had had enough.

He shouted, "Bob, Bob, end it" to referee Bob Foster, the retired world light heavyweight champion, and the fight ended at 59½ seconds of the round. The judges' point ratings gave Frazier the fight by 112-106. Frazier's record is now 32-0 with 27 knockouts, against 39-12-1 with 23 kayos for Ellis.

The promoters of the fight recorded a paid attendance of 15,000, far short of the 52,000 capacity. They estimated a gate of $327,000 from tickets which were scaled from $10 to $65.

Frazier got $250,000 for his efforts, Ellis $75,000.

Greenville In First Win

Ravenscroft Swim Club of Raleigh became the first victim of the Greenville Swim Club Saturday as the Greenville team took a 325-239 victory in its first dual meet of the year.

The Greenville Club had five triple winners and four double winners. Winning three events, were Mary Kelly in the eight and under girls division, taking the 25 yard breaststroke, the butterfly and the 100 IM; Jane Collie in the 9-10 girls winning the breaststroke, the butterfly and the 200 IM; Kevin Richards in the 11-12 boys won the Butterfly, 200 IM and 100 back; Lance Timmons, 13-14, won the 100 back, 100 breast, and the 200 IM; and Susan Tucker won the 200 IM, 100 butterfly and the 100 back in the 13-14 girls bracket.

Winning two events each were Kevin O'Neal, Ken Berry, Ron Huber and Ann Lawler.

Rose Takes Chess Match

In its first match of the year Friday night, the Rose High Chess Team got off on the right foot by defeating Goldsboro at home, 4-1.

Rose jumped off to an early lead as Mike Jeffreys and Melvin Johnson rolled over their opponents in just over an hour. Tim Caspar, capitalizing on Kent Thompson's end game mistakes, clinched the match by winning the third game.

After playing to an extremely even middle game position, Jan Ludwinski forced Clad Weldon to make a number of mistakes and took the fourth game.

Goldsboro's lone victory was earned by Byron Horton, who fought back from a pawn disadvantage and forced David Ostrow to resign after a five-hour marathon.

Rose will host Hoggard High of Wilmington in an afternoon match next Saturday.

Picnic Is Over

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The nagging kinks. They show up the first week of spring training when arms and legs and backs are forced to forget the leisurely days of winter and think about throwing and hitting baseballs.

The kinks were sunning themselves in placed like Winter Haven, Fla. and Fort Lauderdale. Yet some two thousand miles away, in Tucson, Ariz., Cleveland Indians Manager Frank Robinson promised the fun had just begun for the pulls and pains his players would do anything but enjoy.

"The picnic is over. We go to work Monday," said the rookie manager-designated hitter. "We'll start earning our meal money."

The battery men who toiled the first four days of Robinson's first camp, may already be earning their keep. Pitcher Fritz Peterson admitted he couldn't remember the last time he'd worked as hard as in the camp's opening day last week and Robinson couldn't remember it, either.

The emphasis will be on speed and base stealing when the Tribe opens full-squad workouts officially.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAR. 4, 1975

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Confusion is rampant early in the day and whatever decisions are made could work out to your disadvantage. Make sure you study every aspect of a new program you have before putting it in motion.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Attend to regular duties instead of going off on some activity that seems lucrative but isn't. Apply clever economy measures.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle monetary and property matters early in the day. Listen to mate more carefully and don't run away from your obligations.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have to handle those association matters cleverly now or there could be trouble. Give family more of your time tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have many duties to finish and should not delay any longer in doing so. Take no chances with your reputation now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't worry over some pleasure that is no longer in your life and concentrate on new ones that are better. Strive for happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look into the reason why you may feel you are not being treated fairly by kin. Use that ability you have to solve problems. Be calm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you are cautious in motion today. A prominent person can give you the advice you need. Be precise in your dealings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Look about for new interests so that you can add to your income in case a source of revenue is suddenly cut off. Think logically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on the ways to attain your personal goals. Your devotion for mate needs bolstering. Sidestep a troublemaker.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get rid of the obsolete and engage in a more modern way of operating, and become more affluent. Consult a business expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go along with what an expert has to suggest now. Don't bother a good friend who is busy at this time. Make long-range plans.

View Students As Consumers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The student as a consumer in the emerging educational buyer's market was a leading topic at the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges in Washington.

While some students are suing colleges, other "consumers" along the academic trail are asking for more specific, immediate returns on their tuition investment.

Student demand for employability at graduation has brought some major adjustments to the liberal arts college curricula.

These changes, it was reported, enable such institutions to provide both career preparation and a solid liberal education.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take no risks where your career or credit is concerned and protect your reputation. Perform your duties in an efficient way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will possess much wisdom but must not be permitted to express advanced ideas until they are approved by higher-ups. Give as fine an education as possible. There could be fame in this chart. Ethical training is a must.

How Major Legislation Stands Now

RALEIGH (AP) — Here is the status of important measures before the North Carolina General Assembly.

Equal Rights — The House Constitutional Amendments Committee began its consideration of the issue last week. Chairman Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, announced that the committee would hold two public hearings on the issue, hearing from the proponents March 4 and the opponents March 11.

Utilities — House and Senate Public Utility Committees are considering bills that would ban fuel clauses in utility rates, would forbid utilities from putting rate increases into effect until after Utilities Commission approval and would change the size of the Utilities Commission and the method of naming commissioners.

Auto Insurance — Senate and House Insurance committees are considering bills that would eliminate age as a factor in setting auto insurance rates.

Death Penalty — The Senate Judiciary 1 Committee is considering a bill that would substitute life imprisonment for the death penalty.

Appropriations — Bills to make appropriations for operation of state agencies for the next two years and for capital improvements are being considered by House and Senate appropriations committees and the House Base Budget Committee.

Sales Tax — Bills to repeal the sales tax on food and increase the income tax on higher brackets are before the House and Senate finance committees.

Minimum Wage — A bill that would increase the North Carolina minimum wage from $1.80 to $2 an hour is before the House Rules Committee.

Government — A bill that would allow the governor and lieutenant governor to serve two consecutive terms is before the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

Selection of Judges — Bills to amend the state constitution to provide for merit selection of judges are still before legislative committees.

Major bills introduced last week included:

Presidential Primary — Rep. George Breece, D-Cumberland introduced a bill to abolish the presidential preference primary in North Carolina. It was referred to the House Election Laws Committee.

Legislative Ethics — Rep. Thomas Gilmore, D-Guilford introduced a bill requiring legislators to file annual reports with secretary of state and with clerk of court in home county on business interests. Bill would also make it illegal for a legislator to introduce legislation which would increase value of a members interest in and business association. Gilmore introduced a similar measure affecting county commissioners. Both bills were referred to the Rules Committee.

Air Search In Carolinas Ends

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — The search for a twin-engine private airplane missing since Wednesday on a flight from Greensboro to Freeport, Bahamas was called off in the Carolinas late Sunday.

The plane, piloted by William Walton of Winston-Salem, left the Greensboro Municipal Airport on Wednesday night. No other persons were believed aboard.

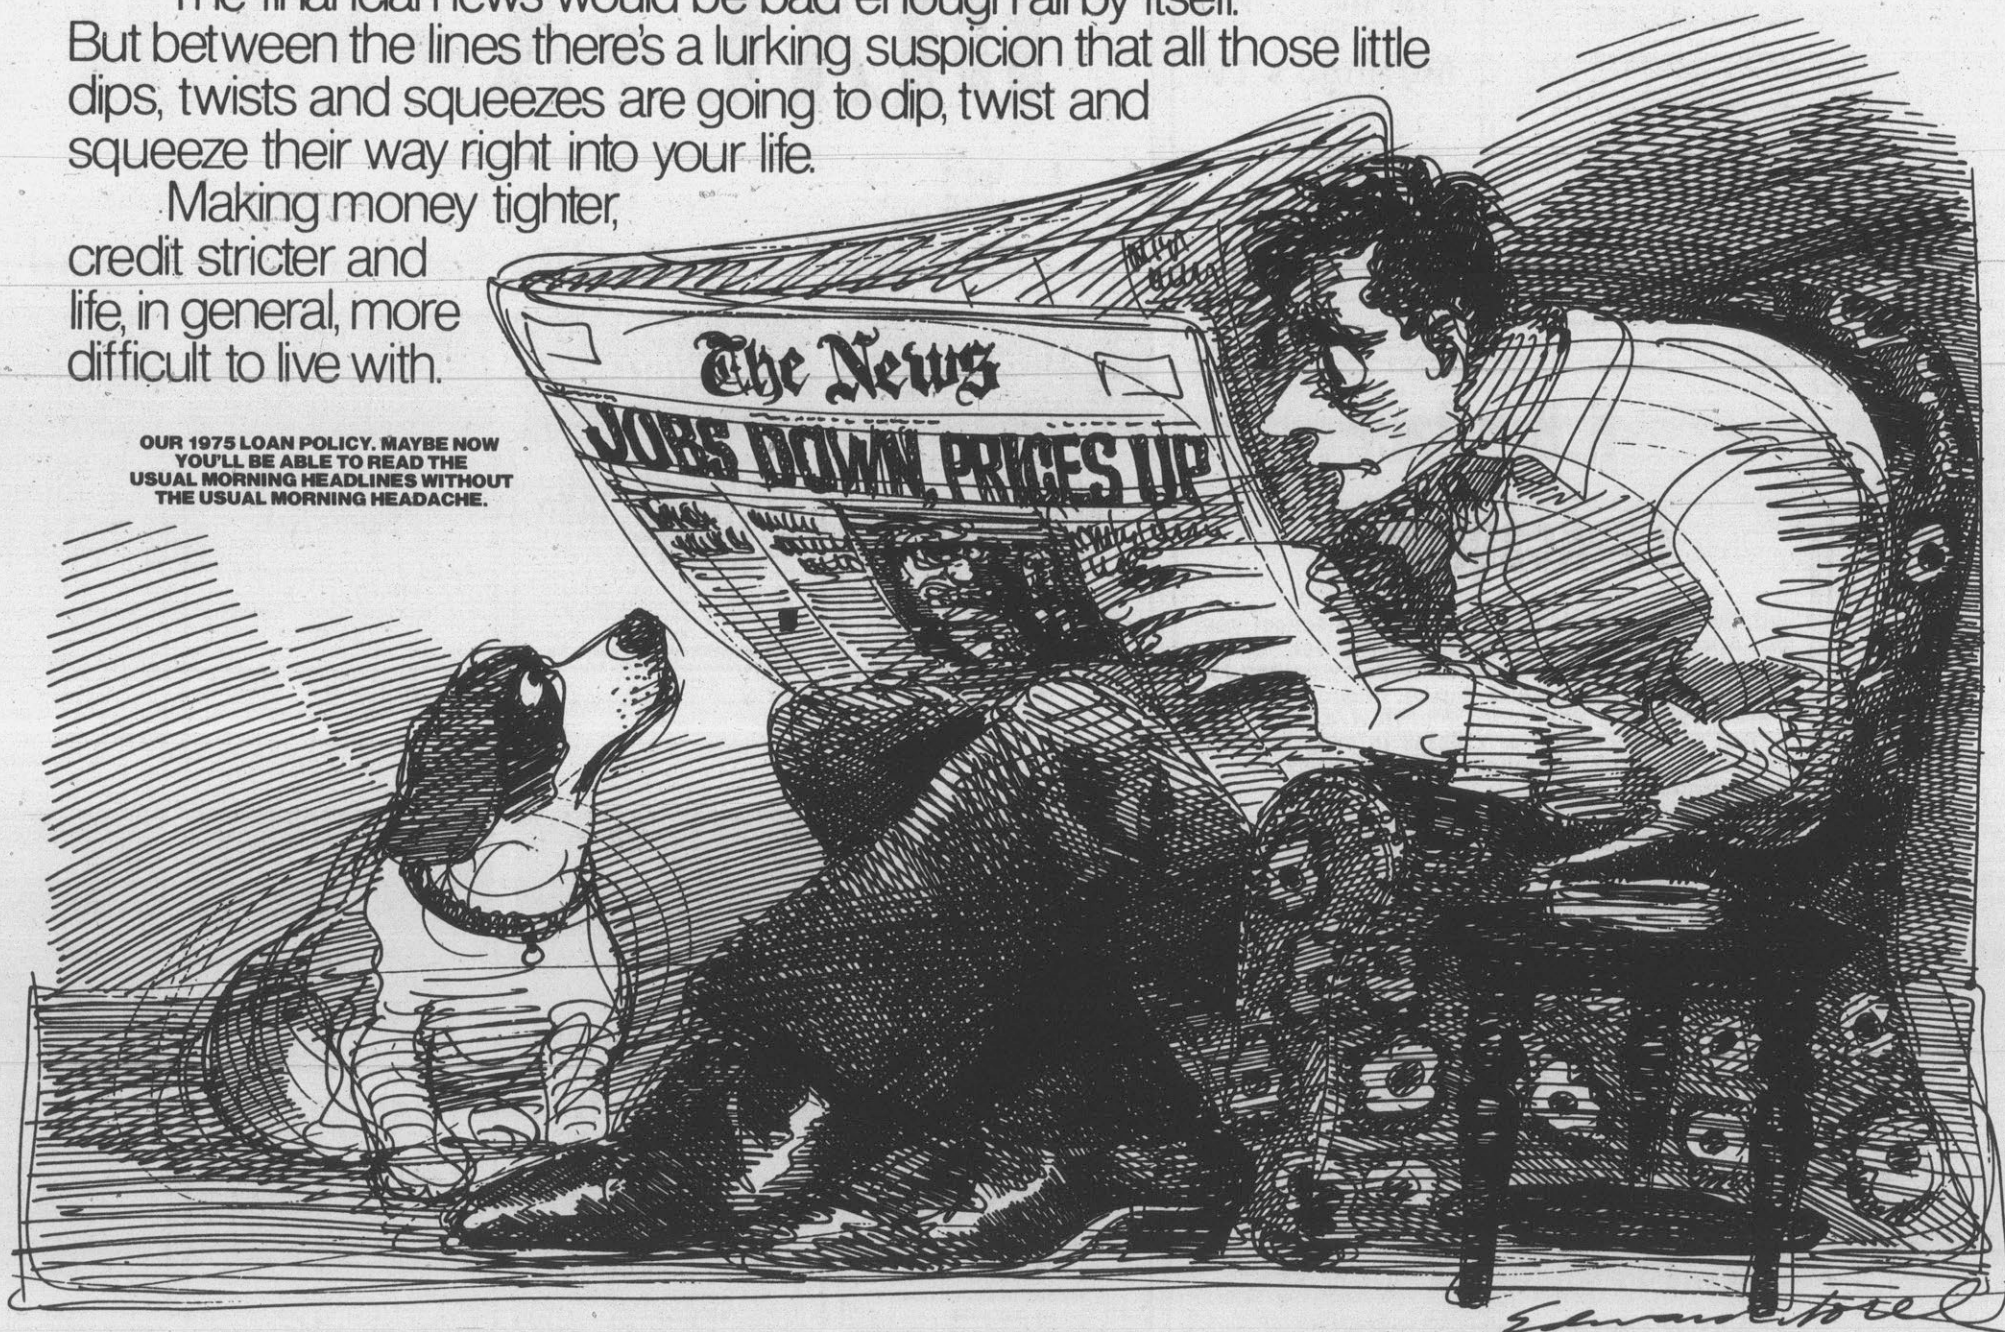

Capt. Wayne Underwood, CAP mission coordinator, said a four-day search had been conducted in the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida for the aircraft.

NCNB PRESENTS A LITTLE RELIEF FROM THE DEPRESSING HEADLINES: OUR 1975 LOAN POLICY.

The financial news would be bad enough all by itself. But between the lines there's a lurking suspicion that all those little dips, twists and squeezes are going to dip, twist and squeeze their way right into your life.

Making money tighter, credit stricter and life, in general, more difficult to live with.

OUR 1975 LOAN POLICY. MAYBE NOW YOU'LL BE ABLE TO READ THE USUAL MORNING HEADLINES WITHOUT THE USUAL MORNING HEADACHE.

Well, maybe we can help you face reality with a lighter heart. Each month of 1975, NCNB will have more than $21 million available for people who need it. Money for automobiles, home improvements, medical and dental expenses, college tuitions, vacations: everything.

And we'll be as open-handed as possible.

Which means that auto problems in Detroit won't prevent you from solving the automotive problems you may have here in North Carolina.

And you won't need a special go-ahead from the Oval Office to redecorate your dining room.

The NCNB 1975 Loan Policy.

We know it's not exactly the kind of news you're accustomed to reading or hearing.

But it could be exactly the news that you need.

MONEY ISN'T TIGHT AT NCNB.
